Township board opposes license for group home

By KEVIN WILSON

Faced with a vociferous crowd of residents who contended the region was too dangerous for location of a group home, the township board of trustees June 14 voted to oppose the proposed licensing of an adult foster care home on west Seven Mile.

The board resolution opposing the licensing exceeded the state department of social services request that the township ascertain whether or not the proposed site was within 1,500 feet of a similar facility but was accompanied by the confirmation that no other group homes are within that distance.

The home, which may receive its state license despite the local opposition, would be operated by Our Lady of Providence Center to meet state standards for the care of developmentally disabled persons over age 18.

Detroit judge to decide on EDC dispute

Township Supervisor John MacDonald will remain aboard the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation at least until Thursday of next week.

That's when Detroit Circuit Court Judge Marianne Battani said she would decide whether to deny or render permanent a temporary restraining order preventing Wayne County Executive William Lucas' firing of MacDonald and three other EDC directors who are seeking the restraining order.

Lucas had "fired" MacDonald and three other directors on the EDC for excusing what Lucas called FitzPatrick's "mismanagement" by voting to reinstate FitzPatrick on the EDC. But EDC directors are claiming EDC appointments are made by the legislative body, not county administration, and therefore may not be terminated by the county executive.

FitzPatrick has filed a $10 million lawsuit against Lucas alleging defamation of character and interference with FitzPatrick's personal services contract. The temporary restraining order is tied to that suit.

Four years remain in MacDonald's six-year term on the EDC. MacDonald sought the non-paying post to exert some control over development of the Wayne County Child Development Center.

FitzPatrick, Lucas' opponent in the 1982 general election race for county executive, has been the subject of an executive-ordered audit by Plante and Moran. MacDonald has characterized Lucas' actions against his former opponent as a "power struggle, pure and simple."

MacDonald said he thought Judge Battani would see the dispute his way. "She doesn't agree with Lucas, that's for sure," he declared.

Six young women from OLP's Beck Road facility would be placed in the home, said the school's Sister Theresa. The residents of the school for mentally impaired girls are not emotionally disturbed, she stressed, and would be under constant supervision by persons with college degrees.

But the township's group home committee recommended against licensing, citing concerns with safety resulting from Seven Mile Road traffic, the lack of sidewalks, distance from the police and fire departments, and several ponds and empty buildings in the area. The committee also cited the "historical practice" of group home operations and "general opposition" to the location of group homes in Northville Township on ground that the community is already saturated with untaxed state facilities.

Several residents of the area spoke out against the licensing, arguing that sight distances on Seven Mile are unsafe and that youngsters playing in the area would be in danger.

In response, Sister Theresa noted that the residents would be aged 19-26 and absent from the facility daily until 4 p.m. She eventually asked "if this area is so dangerous, why do you live there? The problems and difficulties that would face us are the same as any that face any other family."

She noted that the school has been asked by the state to send its older residents out into the community because it has more residents of age 19 and up than its present facilities are licensed to accommodate.

She added that the school has only 100 students, and that those selected for placement would be the ones "most ready to return to a normal environment." No placements would be made from other facilities. The school wishes to establish its own foster care home for the girls because it has found present homes in which they could be placed inadequate, Sister Theresa said.

After DSS licensing representative Katria Heslip, in response to questioning, said she did not think the safety concerns raised would be sufficient to forbid licensing, those objecting stressed the "saturation" argument and strongly argued that the board should adopt a resolution opposing the license in addition to responding to the DSS request.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen made the motion to oppose the licensing, citing the three reasons named by the committee. The board voted unanimously to adopt that posture.

Fairfax Court repairs approved by council

Residents of Fairfax Court will get a brand new street to replace the road's existing fractured concrete, city council decided Monday.

The decision was based on an investigation by city engineer Edward J. McNeely comparing costs between repairs and complete reconstruction of the street, where the substructure has been eroded by storm water runoff.

Although removal and replacement of the pavement is slightly more costly than filling in and leveling the existing pavement with asphalt, McNeely believes the effects will be more permanent.

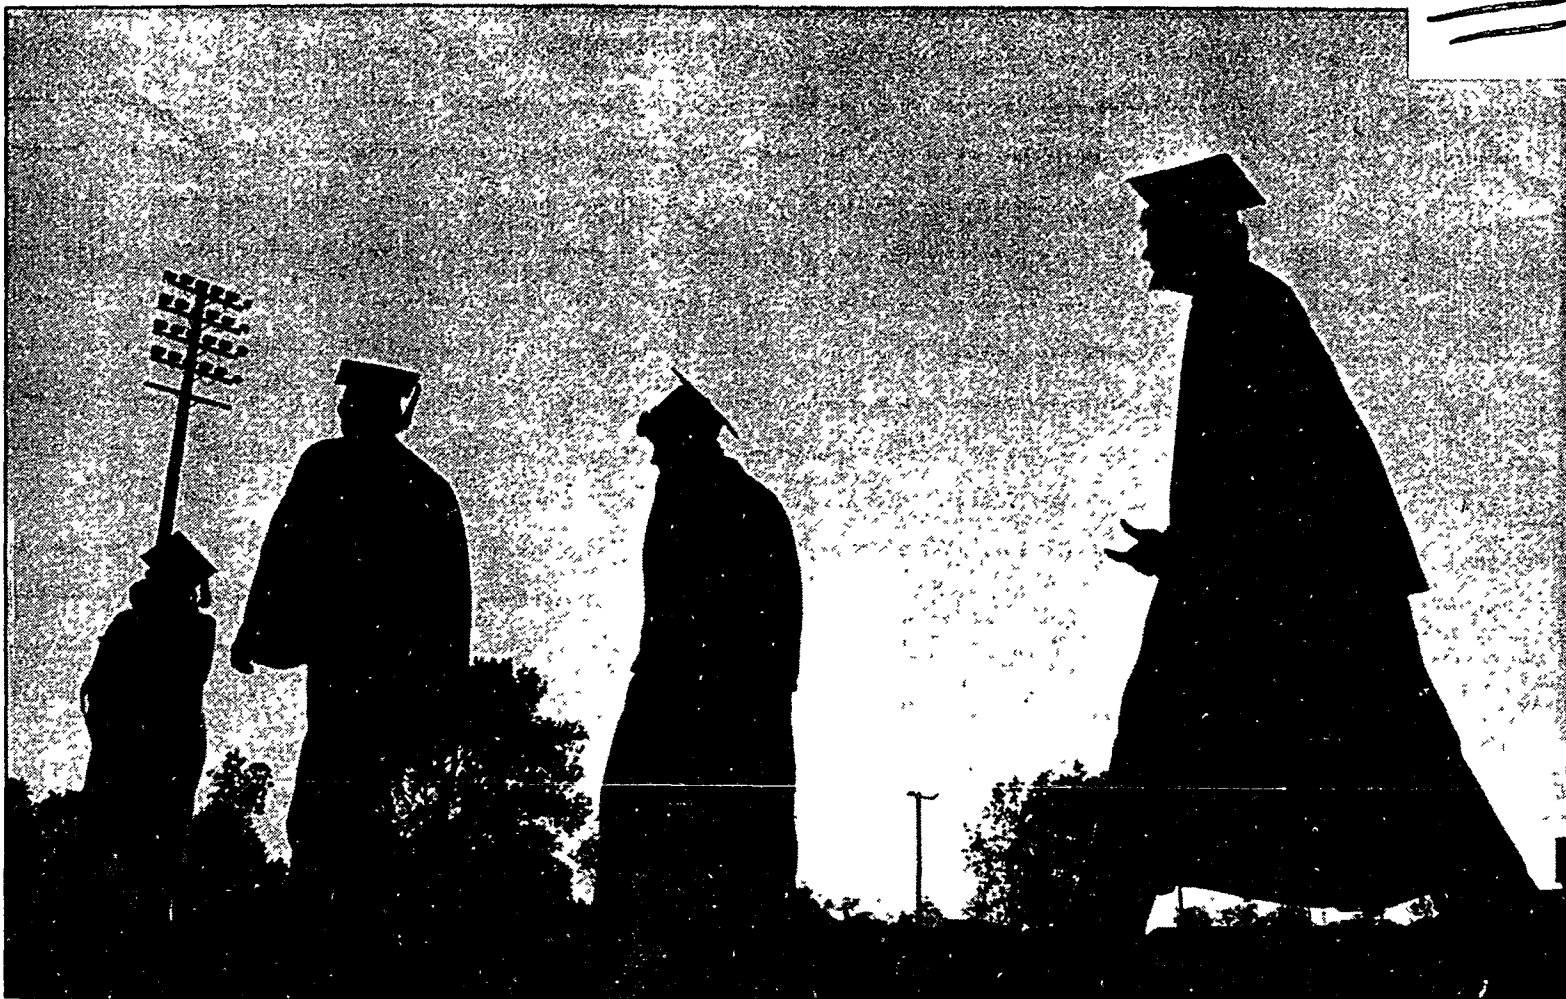

City manager Steve Walters agreed, saying that the new construction — estimated to cost $35,765 — would require less future maintenance than "patching up an old street."

The proposed construction will result in entirely new pavement extending from the north side of the turnaround up to (and including) the north curb of Springfield.

Included in the cost will be the creation of a berm and swale on the commons, said McNeely, who has also been investigating the causes of drainage problems in the area. (He pointed out that a berm and swale did exist at one time behind lots on the easternmost side of the court, but has since been modified. No original drawings can be found indicating whether or not it was intended.)

He hopes that the development will alleviate much of the trouble, as it will direct surface drainage to an existing catch basin located at the northeast corner of Fairfax.

To accommodate excessive accumulation of water, two new catch basins, as well as storm sewer, could be included.

NHS graduating seniors take a final walk around field

NHS Class of '84 takes final bow

"You have made me very proud of you this year, and you always will be special to me," Northville High School Principal David C. Bollitho told the 323 members of the 1984 graduating class last Friday evening as they received their diplomas in impressive commencement exercises on the athletic field.

"Your class," he said, "will be remembered for its cohesiveness, its sense of humor and its scholastic achievement."

"You have had a very cooperative attitude and a very competitive spirit that will be a model for classes to follow," Bollitho said, noting that the class "always will be special as my first graduating class."

Bollitho, who became NHS principal almost a year ago in July, 1983, in his farewell remarks to the class told the graduates, "Always remember where you came from and the individuals who helped you."

"Congratulations — you will be missed."

Superintendent George R. Bell also lauded the class, saying, "You are part of a great tradition of excellence, some of you are part of a fourth generation ...

you have helped make the school on the hill a center of pride for the community."

He urged the graduates to "do what you're good at" as he noted that 90 percent of all knowledge has been accumulated in the last 30 years. He added that statistics show the graduates will change careers three times in a lifetime.

He advised the graduates to master the basic tools and said, "the day you stop learning is the day you start being part of the problem."

The 115th NHS commencement exercises opened with an invocation by Blakely Anderson, a member of the graduating class, which was followed by a welcome to those attending by Douglas Doyle, co-president of the class.

He recalled that the Class of '84 had entered high school three years ago with a wave of expectation that it could be one of the best classes at the high school. He said that the graduates now were beginning a new "and possibly frightening era" but that "the interaction with teachers and families will help us deal with it."

Class co-president John Letarte introduced class officers, the two valedictorians and two salutatorians.

Valedictorian Diana Schneider told her classmates, "We're not the bewildered sophomores we once were," recalling new high school experiences and then the pressures and decisions during the junior year.

Valedictorian Scott Yaeke, citing a child who hides from problems in the dark simply because he doesn't know if he can solve them, told his fellow graduates, "It's better to light candles than stay in the dark — encourage others to light candles."

The two salutatorians, who missed being valedictorians by one grade of B each, also spoke briefly.

Jennifer Merrifield said the graduates who had come through "13 years of winter" were soon to blossom and had many to thank. She listed "moms and dads and teachers who truly prepared us to be our best selves — we have been given the right nutrients to grow. Class of '84, let's go for it!"

Salutatorian Daniel Perpich said the Class of '84 has served as a checkpoint for years preceding and following it.

Sewer estimate request approved

By KEVIN WILSON

It looks as if Meadowbrook Estates homeowners are going to get some of the information they requested before being placed in a Haggerty Road sewer special assessment district.

The township board of trustees June 14 took the unusual step of asking the township engineer to prepare a rough cost estimate of the charge to individual homeowners in that subdivision and along Pierson and Smock roads north of Seven Mile.

Leonard Field, of the subdivision's homeowners' association, told the board that a survey of the residents showed strong opposition to being included in the district unless an individual cost estimated "within 20 percent" was offered.

Noting that there are no guarantees, since assessments are contingent on the number of parcels in the final district, the final design, the actual bid cost of construction and several other variables, the board instructed engineer Edward J. McNeely to prepare a rough estimate for consideration by the homeowners.

McNeely provided figures last week that appeared to show that the cost could exceed $8,000 per buildable lot if the subdivision were to install sewers by itself. By joining the Haggerty Road project, he suggested, residents would see a substantial savings due to spreading fixed costs among more parcels and anticipated contributions from the township and the city of Novi.

Meanwhile, Pierson Road resident Patrick Coyne said he and several neighbors (he counted five) "don't really want a sewer. I'm very confused. Who really wants it besides the township?"

He was told by supervisor John MacDonald and clerk Susan Heintz that the plan for the sewer has existed for nearly 40 years as a part of the so-called Super Sewer plan. It was included as an integral portion of the township's own sewer plan. When it was dropped from the federally-funded project, the township decided to pursue it on its own because the Haggerty sewer offers considerable benefits to the operation of the township system.

Coyne acknowledged that history, but argued that the residents of his area are not in favor of having sewers installed at this time.

Residents of other areas in the district were told their costs could actually decrease if homeowners in the area between Smock and Haggerty north of Seven Mile were deleted from the project.

The board adjourned the public hearing on the issue until its next regular meeting July 12. It tabled consideration of a resolution that, once passed, would establish the properties to be included in the district.

added to the north end of the turnaround at extra costs.

In order to work on the commons area, permission must be obtained from the homeowners' association, McNeely said. He added that residents should encounter "no problem" with lawn maintenance after the berm is constructed, as it will not drastically change the contour of their yards.

While the council has agreed to expedite the bidding and construction process, there is much concern over the safety of the existing road. Councilman J. Burton DeRusha has suggested posting warning or restricting signs to large vehicles. The residents then expressed concerns about garbage pickups and possible need for ambulance service.

It has not yet been determined how the cost of construction will be assessed.

Northville says goodbye to two longtime teachers

Teacher, principal, coach — Fred Holdsworth has worn many hats in his career

Holdsworth finishes 35-year career

By B.J. MARTIN

This fall, for the first time in nearly 20 years, Fred Holdsworth won't be a part of Northville High School.

Holdsworth is retiring after 35 years in education as an administrator, teacher and coach — his last 18 at Northville. He and his wife Peggy plan to move to Florida this year.

"Hopefully before winter comes," Holdsworth said Friday, his last day at NHS.

Recent students are most familiar with Holdsworth as a history teacher and coach. But a closer look at his background reveals there's quite a bit more in his career.

He took the post of Northville High School principal in 1966, after spending 17 years in the Berkley School District. He had been a teacher at Berkley since 1949, when he was graduated from Wayne State University with a B.S. in Social Studies.

At Wayne State, Holdsworth was an outstanding baseball player, earning all-state honors as a pitcher/outfielder.

He was assistant principal at Berkley for his last nine years there. But he had achieved more notoriety earlier for his baseball and basketball coaching skills.

He guided Berkley's varsity baseball team to four league championships and in 1955 was honored as Oakland County Basketball Coach of the Year.

Besides his son, Fred Jr., a Northville High School valedictorian and a pro baseball player for years, Holdsworth coached Dick Radatz, former Detroit Tiger, at Berkley.

He continued to broaden his background in history as a graduate student at Michigan State University and the University of Michigan.

Outside his teaching and coaching duties, Holdsworth was Recreation Director of Berkley for eight years and was Athletic Supervisor of the Highland Park Boys' Club.

Holdsworth was principal of Northville High School until 1974, and since then has taught American History.

And coached, of course. This year was one of his most memorable, and that's saying quite a bit. He guided Northville's girls' junior varsity basketball team to a winning season last fall, and this year piloted the varsity baseball team to a co-championship of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division.

The Mustangs made it to the Class A District final before they were defeated by eventual state champion Walled Lake Western. Along the way, they accumulated an outstanding 17-4 record.

"This year especially was most satisfying," Holdsworth said. "I had a good bunch of guys to work with this spring, and it was a pleasure working with them."

Holdsworth was among the honorees May 22 at a Quality of Work Life Committee of the Northville Public Schools retirement/recognition party, where he was presented a golf outfit and equipment.

Does he play golf? "I'd better now," he chuckled.

That honor was one of many recent testimonials to Holdsworth this year that left him a little overwhelmed. "Everybody's been saying so many nice things about me, I'm ready to change my mind and stay," he added.

That's not likely. In Florida, he'll be closer to daughters Diane and Hillary, both working in Texas. Besides Fred Jr. and his two daughters, Holdsworth has a son, John, now working with AT&T.

"I've enjoyed working with kids as a teacher and coach," Holdsworth summed up. "I've met a bunch of nice ones over the years."

For Talmadge, departure offers new teaching environments

By JEAN MacINTOSH

"Creativity," says Shirley Talmadge, "is everyone's birthright — most people just need someone to help them direct it."

For 14 years the soft-spoken artist has been doing just that — 1984 marks the end of her teaching career in the Northville Public Schools.

Talmadge received her Master's degree from Wayne State University in 1969 and began teaching art at the Main Street School a year later. In 1976 she moved to Cooke and Meads Mill schools. For the past seven years she has been at Winchester Elementary; she has also been teaching at Silver Springs for three years.

Although she enjoys working with children, Talmadge says she is looking forward to her retirement. "I have so many avenues open to me right now," explains Talmadge, whose first priority is to travel.

The first stop on her agenda is a workshop in Rockport, Maine, taught by Ray Loos. "I am going there to paint the ocean," says the artist, whose favorite subject is water.

Talmadge describes herself as a 'location painter'. "I usually paint on the spot if it's possible," she explains. "If not, I'll make sketches and write in the colors and go paint it right away."

The best thing about painting, says the artist, is that it allows her to express her emotions. She especially en-

"That creative spark is always there. I believe my best picture is yet to be made."

— Shirley Talmadge

joys watercolor, explaining that it is the "most exciting medium."

"I'm not an abstract painter — I'm more realistic," says Talmadge, adding, "I paint my impression of or feeling for a subject."

She adds that she does not consider the monetary value of her paintings when she is working on them. "I don't think about selling my paintings. When I see something I like I've just gotta paint it," she explains enthusiastically.

"That kind of inspiration that hits you, it's a special thing," says Talmadge, who never paints the same thing twice.

Although financial gain is not her top priority, the artist does have art shows in her home. She also has paintings in the Detroit Institute of Arts rental gallery and works on commission with Ray's Interiors in Farmington.

Talmadge uses the money she earns from her art to finance 'working vacations' all over the world. "I set an amount for myself and when I reach that goal I go on a trip," she says.

So far she has visited Italy, Portugal, Hawaii, North Carolina and Sault Ste. Marie, studying under artists such as Tom Hill, Gerald Brommer, Charles Reed, and Szabo Zolten. Her next European stop, she hopes, will be Greece. A trip to Florida is also in the planning stages.

Although she is retiring from formal teaching, Talmadge still plans to teach private lessons on a part-time basis. Right now she will concentrate on teaching adults.

"I like the little kids," she explains, "but now I think I'd enjoy teaching adults."

Talmadge especially enjoys working with beginners. "I prefer my students to know nothing — they don't have any bad habits, which makes it easier."

"I love to watch them grow, learn what the paint can do. It's a wonderful medium."

Regardless of where she is, Talmadge will continue to paint — hopefully every day. Right now she is working on paintings for both Silver Springs and Winchester schools — she plans to present the gifts in the fall.

"That creative spark is always there," says the artist. "I believe my best picture is yet to be made."

Talmadge looks to her future with the enthusiasm of a child on an extended summer vacation. "I couldn't be happier — it's all out there. I can hardly wait."

with classes to come to "forge what we completed."

Dr. Barbara J. Campbell, assistant principal, introduced Christopher Johnson, president of the board of education, Jean M. Hansen, vice-president, Glenna C. Davis, treasurer, and James Petrie, trustee.

Darlene Piskor, class secretary, introduced Bolitho, Campbell and Ralph W. Redmond, assistant principal, and thanked the faculty "for everything."

Class sponsor Nancy Arnold and class counselor Jack Wickens also were applauded.

Jeffrey Darrow, class treasurer, presented Perplch, Student Congress president, and the three exchange students in the class from Finland, Mexico and Yugoslavia.

Principal Bolitho then made the presentation of a new honor, the Distinguished Alumni Award, to Major and Mrs. James Jiggins. Both Major Jiggins and his wife Barbara Forsyth Jiggins are graduates of Northville High School and were nominated jointly for the award by Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Todd "because of the many sacrifices that the family has made in achieving such a high degree of success in pursuing a military career."

Mrs. Jiggins' mother accepted the award as the couple is in England where he is stationed with his unit as one of 10 USAF SR71 pilots. It was pointed out that the SR71 is "one of the most sophisticated, fastest and highest flying aircraft in the world."

Assistant Principal Redmond then presented the class to Board of Education President Johnson to receive diplomas.

"Individually and as a group you are one of the finest classes Northville has ever had," Johnson told the graduates. Assisted by the other board members, he presented diplomas to the graduates who were congratulated individually by Bolitho.

The Northville High band under the direction of Michael Rumbell, which had played for the processional, then played for the recessional as Bolitho asked "representatives of the new senior high class to escort the alumni from the stadium."

As the graduates circled the field, co-president Doyle asked for a salute to parents — and the commencement concluded as the graduates simultaneously tossed their caps into the air.

Baccalaureate service held

Though commencement may be the highlight of graduation festivities for Northville High School seniors, the 1984 baccalaureate service has proved a memorable tribute to local graduates.

This year's June 10 service, held in the high school auditorium, was marked with the words and music of graduating seniors.

Senior John Klokenga opened the service with the prayer of invocation with principal David Bolitho delivering the welcoming address.

Cathy Sawyer read her poem, "I Have Found a Friend in You," to her classmates while soloist Vince Ventura sang "Colors of My Life" with accompaniment by Laraine Sellas.

"Colors of My Life" was written by senior Michael Stewart.

The scripture was read by Blakely Anderson, and the sermon was delivered by Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain, senior pastor of First Presbyterian Church.

The sermon was followed by a piano solo by Laraine Sellas who played Beethoven's "Sonata Pathetique."

The closing prayer was given by Jeff Knurek and soloist Paula Folino sang the "Lord's Prayer" accompanied by Kevin Murray.

The class processional and recessional were played by junior Dave Dore.

Northville debuts Sunday in 'Popcorn Man' movie

By KEVIN WILSON

Take a bow, Northville. As the setting for the movie "Popcorn Man" you did a fine job in the role of an outwardly attractive small town. Sure it was typecasting, but you'll probably like the way you look on the big screen.

The 30-minute film shot in Northville last summer by David Zaremba, now 19, premieres at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 24, at the Redford Theater, 17360 Lahser Road, Detroit. Admission is free; donations will be accepted.

The showing of the Dearborn Heights film student's 15th movie will be accompanied by a slide show/lecture on the production, an organ recital and featured speakers. Among the latter are Mayor Paul Vernon, feature film editor Grace Garland and film historian James Limbacher.

"Popcorn Man" is Zaremba's 15th film (he started at age 11) and the first to avoid graphic violence, the Wayne State University student said last week after a preview showing for the press.

"I learned a lot making this film ... I found out I don't need gory special effects to make a film work."

— David Zaremba

"I learned a lot making this film," Zaremba said. "I found out I don't need gory special effects to make a film work. I can rely on the actors to do their jobs. Now, I have to let my work speak for itself."

The plot of "Popcorn Man" is a far cry from Zaremba's first 16 mm film venture — the story of a hatchet murderer named "Sarah" that won him first prize at the Michigan Student Film Festival in 1983.

This time, he and his mother Patricia Zaremba penned an instructive and heartening tale about two outcasts who become friends. One is Walter, a slightly retarded youngster roughly Zaremba's own age who works at a popcorn stand and thus earns the nickname Popcorn. The other is Jason, Mayor Milford's alcoholic son who returns to town after five years' absence.

Thrown together in unlikely fashion, they manage to establish a strong friendship. In only 30 minutes of film, the story seems somewhat compressed, with Jason's conversion particularly stretching our suspension of disbelief. But "Popcorn Man" is clearly a cut above what most would expect of a 19-year-old, and ranks with some fully professional film shorts used the same way Zaremba hopes his new movie may be used — on cable television and as an instructional film.

His mother said the two main characters were invented with the idea of showing that, although such persons are often rejected by society, "they are human beings who have their own dignity."

The story aside, Northville viewers will soon get to share an experience with residents of New York, San Francisco and other common movie settings — realizing that what you see on film could never happen just that way in reality.

In an amusing driving scene, for instance, you'll have to let go of your ideas about which streets run in which direction. The sequence is believable to those who don't know the street layout around town, but offers some strange jumps to those expecting views to occur in some sequence related to the routes through town.

A montage sequence of Walter and Jason doing things together around town presents Northville in an attractive light. The two feed the ducks at the Ford plant, walk the nearby dam and fish in the river. A canoeing scene under the Mill Race bridge cuts away just a second too late to avoid having Northville residents notice that the two are about to run out of pond and into concrete.

Other scenes include Walter working at Sweets-N-Treats on North Center, complete with a walk-on by Jim Cowie as the boss. You'll recognize the well, the post office and the mayor's residence as a large Lakes of Northville home. With virtually all scenes being filmed here, the views of recognizable Northville sites are virtually non-stop.

The two leading actors are Wayne State drama students while Mayor Milford (a cartoonish vision of a self-important small town mayor) is played by the director of the arts department at William Ford Vocational Technical Center, where Zaremba attended one year.

Besides Cowie, local people appearing in the film are pretty much like the buildings — they're there because they were in the background on weekends last July, August and early September when Zaremba shot the film.

Since then, he has received assistance from Grace Garland, who led him through the editing process as the young producer/director/cameraman/film editor pared 8,000 feet of film down to the 1,200 feet in the final version.

Zaremba once hoped to premiere the film in town at the Marquis Theatre, but found that venue too small for the number of people interested in attending — cast, crew, family and friends "all wanted to bring other people — we needed more room."

A Northville showing is still possible, Zaremba said, if details can be worked out. But if you want to be among the first to see "Popcorn Man" it'll have to be the Redford Theater, similar to the Marquis in that it is an older movie house being restored to its former glory.

And what now for the young filmmaker who once said he wanted to attend film school in California and would use "Popcorn Man" to help gain admission?

"Most film classes teach you the technical things that I already have a lot of experience with," he said. "I'll probably move into English, writing, I want to get more into the creative side. What I want to do, I think, is write and direct."

For now, the Detroit area will be a good place to work on his own films, Zaremba said. "We've really got everything you need right here in this area," he said. "Right now, after this premiere is all over with, I want to go out in the woods somewhere, look up at the stars and think about what I could do for another film."

Party planners

Coupled with one of Northville High School's most dignified commencement ceremonies in recent history, this year's all-night senior class party proved to be a smashing success. An estimated 304 of the 323 graduating seniors attended the parent-planned party. This year's party theme was "The Big Apple" and

Time to register floats for parade

Northville Jaycee Fourth of July parade planners are asking any organizations or individuals planning to enter a float in the parade to notify the Jaycees this week if they have not done so already.

Floats may be registered with parade chairman Jeff Campbell, 349-0779, or with Bob Cummings, 349-4528. There is no charge to enter.

The Jaycees hope to establish the parade line-up this week and have plans to intersperse floats, dignitaries and other features throughout the parade, which is expected to begin at 10 a.m. and take more than an hour to pass the reviewing stand at city hall.

"We prefer not to have anyone just show up that day with a float," Thomas R. Hoetger explained, "because unregistered floats will not be listed with the judges and won't be in the competition."

He said the judges will be reviewing floats, bands, antique cars and other entries.

He emphasized that no political floats or signs will be permitted in the parade. "A candidate may participate as an individual and display his name only if he wishes exposure," Hoetger said.

The Jaycees also expect to have a baby elephant in this year's parade if they find a sponsor.

They emphasize that they welcome floats from organizations, such as preschools and clubs, who have participated in the past but also would like to have new entries.

Jaycees honor their community supporters

The Northville Jaycees last week hosted a special testimonial breakfast to give awards to several individuals and organizations who have aided the group's projects.

Individual honorees were downtown businessman John Genitti, former Northville A&P Manager George Saupp and Guernsey Dairy Farms' John McGuire — all of whom made donations of goods, funds or equipment for Jaycee functions.

Also honored were Township Clerk

Susan Heintz, Northville Record Editor Jean Day, the Northville Township Board of Trustees and Northville City Council — all of whom assisted in authorizing or publicizing Jaycee activities.

Honored as a group were the police and fire departments of both the city and township, who provided volunteers and public safety services for Jaycee projects such as July 4 activities.

The individuals and groups each received an individually engraved bronze and wood plaque.

"It's our way of saying thanks for the support of those people who have gone out of their way to help us," said former Jaycee President Greg Dawson, who gave out the awards Tuesday, June 12. "We couldn't have accomplished many of our goals without them."

The awards, Jaycee members said, would be given out from time to time when the organization finds appropriate groups of worthy recipients.

Madonna to dedicate library, addition

Dedication ceremonies for the new library and classroom addition at Madonna College in Livonia will be held Monday, June 25.

Detroit's Archbishop Edmund C. Szoka will bless the structure in a brief ceremony beginning at 4 p.m. Four hundred major donors and friends of Madonna College have been invited to attend.

Sister Mary Francilene, CSSF, college president, and Andre R. Brodhun, chairman of the board of trustees, will recognize the major benefactors as well as salute the volunteers who did the major fundraising.

E. Daniel Grady, vice president of Michigan Bell, was chairman of the 12-member committee which solicited both local and national companies and foundations.

Funding for the building was completed in December 1983 with a final closing gift of $250,000 from the Kresge Foundation in Troy.

Other major donors listed on plaques in the building include the Felician Sisters of Livonia, founders of the college, the Conrad N. Hilton Foundation of Los Angeles, the Skillman Foundation of Detroit and major corporations such as Ford, General Motors, Bendix and Michigan Bell. Twenty-one Catholic parishes in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio and hundreds of alumni and friends of the college also made gifts to the building campaign.

The two-story building addition provides Madonna's 3,700 member student body with a new library of 32,000 square feet, a performance/lecture hall, a center for personalized instruction, five classrooms and seven faculty offices.

The second floor reading room of the library contains nine specific areas designated "ethnic heritage alcoves" which have been furnished by members of the local community with appropriate artifacts and memorabilia.

The building was designed by the Livonia architectural firm of Kamp-DiComo. The building will be open for public viewing from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, June 24.

City OKs DPW agreement

The city council ratified a three-year contract settlement with DPW employees Monday night after a brief closed session for discussion of the contract.

Following two negotiation sessions with DPW representatives, the City Bargaining Committee recommended to city council the following contract terms ratified by DPW workers on June 7:

• A reduction of two vacation days from the present schedule for existing employees.

• A new, substantially reduced vacation schedule for employees hired on or after July 1, 1984.

In addition to the ratification, the council thanked DPW workers for their continuous support.

Township Blotter

Business burglarized

More than $3,700 in gardening equipment and tools were stolen from a Seven Mile landscape firm sometime between 10:30 p.m. June 16 and 3:15 p.m. June 17, township police report.

The equipment was taken from a storage shed located to the east of the office building.

Police noted in their report that the hamp which secures the door to the shed appeared to have been pried from the door.

Police further noted that, although the area of the landscape yard is fenced, gaps and a hole in the fence make it accessible to perpetrators.

The complainant told police all items stolen were paid for in full and those with a serial number were entered into LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) by the township dispatcher.

Items stolen included two knapsack blowers estimated at $660, a Sensation lawnmower valued at $300, a $50 metric socket set, two 3/4-inch drive socket sets valued at $150, a 1/2-inch drive socket set estimated at $66, a $125 Black and Decker drill motor, miscellaneous wrenches and screwdrivers estimated worth $150 and a wheelbarrow valued at $75.

Other missing items included two digital lawn timers valued at $190, a case of lawn sprayer estimated at $100, a $200 eight horsepower blower, a $400 dethatcher, a $170 John Deere gas powered weed whip, a $300 weed whip, a $250 blower, a one gallon herbicide container valued a $95, a five gallon herbicide container valued at $100, a $40 Sears battery charger and two weed whips valued at $310.

Golf equipment valued at more than $600 was stolen from a vehicle parked at a Haggerty Road golf course sometime between 7:30 and 8:15 p.m. June 15, township police report.

The complainant told police that he placed his golf equipment in his car at about 7:30 p.m. and went into the clubhouse for a short while.

Upon returning at about 8:15 p.m., he discovered the property missing.

Police noted in their investigation that some type of tool was used to unlock the driver's door as there was a three-inch area scraped clean of paint along the door jamb.

A gas leak caused an estimated $300 damage to a 1975 Ford Pinto parked in the driveway of a West Main residence June 15, township police report.

Both township police and fire department were called to the scene at around 8:45 p.m. The fire was extinguished by fire fighters and Township Fire Chief Robert Toms determined the cause of fire was a gas leak.

Township police and fire officials are investigating a possible arson at the Wayne County Child Development Center property on Sheldon.

Police and firefighters were called to the scene around noon June 11 when an old Chevrolet truck was found burning in the maintenance building.

Northville man arraigned for theft

Margaret A. Threet, of New Hudson, and Paul C. McIntire, of Northville, were arraigned June 12 in connection with the robbery of $300 from a 63-year-old Novi man.

The two were charged with unarmed robbery in their arraignment before Judge Harold Bulgarelli. They stood mute and a "not guilty" plea was entered on their behalf.

Personal recognition bond was set at $5,000 for both. Their examination was set for June 25.

Threet and McIntire, both 22-year-olds, were arrested after they turned themselves in to police.

The two are suspects in the theft of cash from an elderly man. The man, living in the 4000 block of Nine Mile, told police two young people entered his home and took the money from him.

Reportedly, the victim is acquainted with McIntire and allowed the young man to stay in his home on several occasions.

Two days before the robbery the young man visited the victim and asked to borrow money, according to police reports. The elderly man allegedly lent McIntire $40.

When McIntire returned two days later, the victim said he believed the young man was returning the money. He allowed the young man and a female companion into the house, according to police.

McIntire allegedly asked if the victim had money to lend them. When the elderly man responded he did not have any money the suspect is alleged to have pushed him to the floor and held him there. Meanwhile, his female companion reportedly took a wallet from the man's pants and stole $300.

The two young people also removed a leg brace from the victim before fleeing the scene, according to police reports.

Our Opinion

Congratulations to a special class

Last Friday evening Northville High School's 323-member senior class was graduated in commencement exercises that were the most impressive in recent years. Superintendent George R. Bell, Principal David C. Bolitho, the board of education, faculty, parents and the entire community could take pride.

From the moment the graduates took their places on the field promptly at 7 p.m. there was no doubt that this was to be a meaningful event. The invocation by Blakely Anderson, a member of the Class of 1984, opened the program fittingly. The brief remarks by valedictorians Diana Schneider and Scott Yaekle and by salutatorians Jennifer Merrifield and Daniel Perpich reflected thought and expressed different viewpoints.

Valedictorian Schneider took her classmates back to their first days as sophomores at Northville High, tracing their feelings from bewilderment with such new experiences as Spirit Week to driver's education. She pointed out that as juniors the class has the pressures of decisions, such as, "Did we want to go to college?"

Valedictorian Yaekle demonstrated that this class is aware of society's problems as he warned not to "hide from problems," such as child abuse. He urged his classmates, instead, to "light candles."

Adding to the impressiveness of the evening was the fact that it was the students themselves who presented much of the program. Class Co-president Douglas Doyle extended the welcome to parents, grandparents and friends of the graduates who filled the stands. Co-president John Letarte introduced class officers who then assisted Assistant Principal Barbara Campbell in introductions.

Board of Education President Christopher Johnson noted what others who had worked closely with the class have reported when he said, "Individually and as a group, you are one of the finest classes Northville has ever had." Jack Wickens, senior class counselor, has made the statement frequently.

Sitting in rows in their blue and white caps and robes the class demonstrated a maturity not always seen in the past. When a problem in the loud speaker system caused a momentary delay in announcing the graduates, they waited quietly.

The introduction of a Distinguished Alumni Award is intended to begin a new graduation tradition which will call attention to the accomplishments of Northville High School graduates of the past. The choice of Major and Mrs. James Jiggins was an excellent beginning. They are 1963 and 1964 NHS graduates, respectively. We hope the community will continue to nominate outstanding graduates.

As he told the graduates that the class will be remembered for its cohesiveness, its sense of humor and its scholastic achievement, there was no doubt that the graduation was as important an event to Principal Bolitho as to many parents. "My first graduating class always will be special — you have made me very proud of you this year," he said before shaking hands with each graduate crossing the stage to receive his or her diploma.

It was the conclusion of the ceremonies, however, that capped an evening for parents and graduates to remember. Led by representatives of the next senior class, graduates circled the field from both sides of the platform as Northville High School band under the direction of Michael Rumbell played the recessional. Then co-president Doyle called for a salute to those who made it all possible — parents. On cue, the graduates' caps rose with a cheer.

We too congratulate you, Class of 1984!

June jottings from my notebook

My compliments to the enthusiastic NHS cheerleaders who washed my car at their Free Car Wash last week. Well, most of my car. They'd have scrubbed the paint off its rusty hood if I hadn't called them off. I declined an offer to have the interior hosed out.

Speaking of cars, reporters in our chain think we might be better off replacing our medical/dental coverage package with a full-time car mechanic. This would save even our unhealthiest reporters a lot of money, but my guess is management won't go for it. The added cost might put us out of business.

I was in pretty select company as a voter in last week's school board election. Only six percent of us registered voters in the Northville School District bothered to make the trip to the polls. Still, compared to our neighbors, that turnout's a mandate. Only two percent of Novi School District voters showed up for its election, and in the Walled Lake School District, a whopping 4.5 percent.

In other cities, people get mugged and valuables are stolen. Cruel, but logical. In recent Northville city police reports, someone steals a dental retainer, knocks over mailboxes, chops down fir trees or falls asleep during a break-in. I don't mean stuff like this is trivial, just weird. Gremlins could never terrorize Northville. We'd be used to it.

Maybe that's why I think Northville could pull off a Duck Festival, as is planned. I get the feeling ducks could be to Northville what fudge is to Mackinac. What tulips are to Holland. What melons are to Howell. For some reason it seems right.

All the taverns in the town, and not one with a decent live band appearing regularly. I think that makes it clear communities should be more careful awarding liquor licenses.

So former UAW chief Douglas Fraser has settled in Republican stronghold Northville. Isn't that sort of like Lech Walesa settling in Moscow?

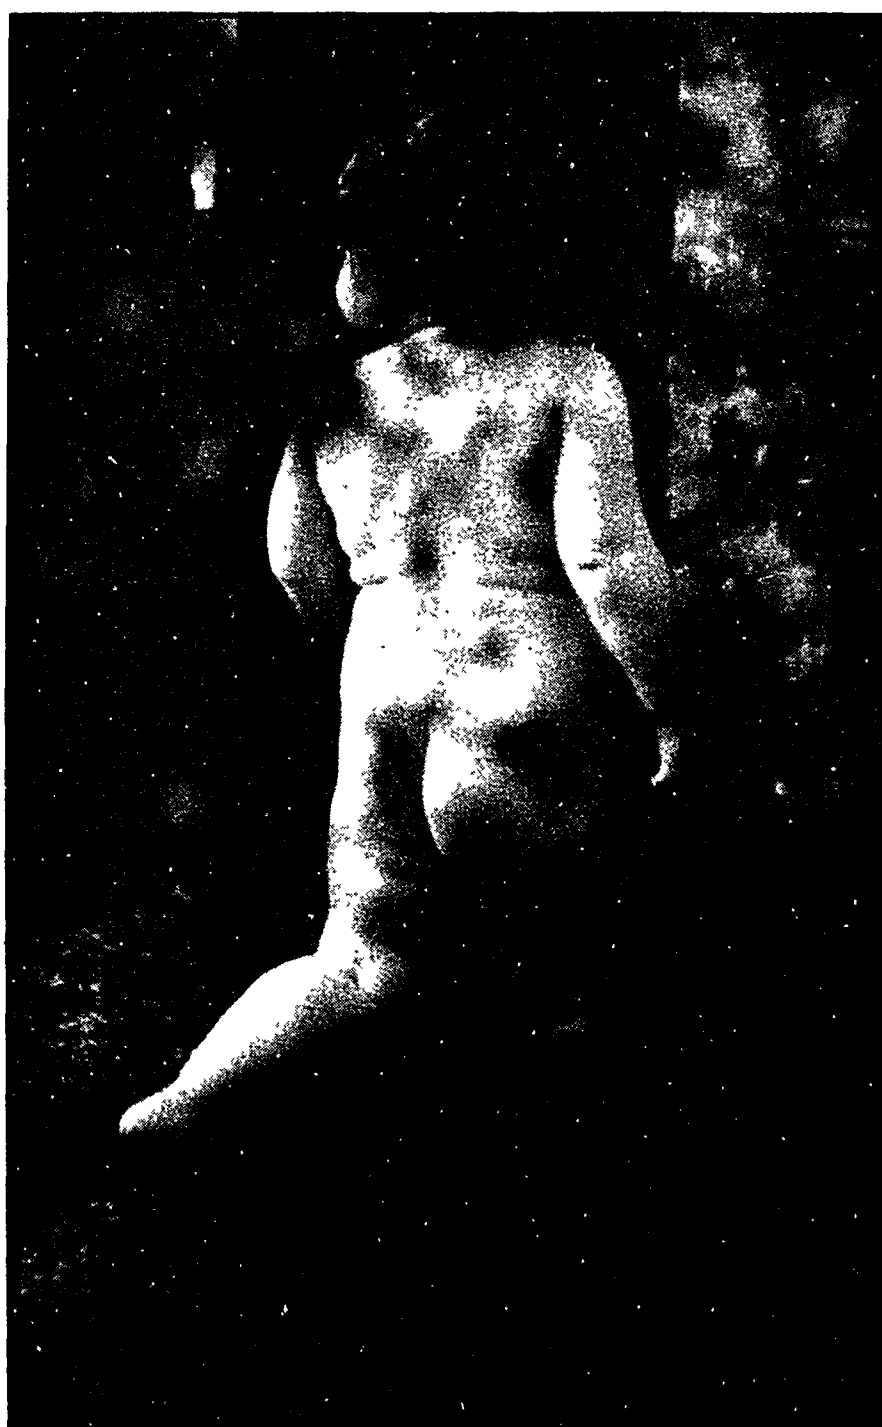

Sure, you can talk about the property damage incurred by storms (like last year's tornado). But there's psychological damage, too. It seems that windstorms cause our office word processor to zap our yet-unprinted news stories into the Twilight Zone, never to be seen again. You can imagine what this does to us reporters when we watch a 30-inch story disintegrate before our eyes.

Got an interesting piece of mail the other day. Unsolicited, a women's swimsuit manufacturer offered to pay me to tell them which women's swimsuit modeled in the enclosed color portfolio I liked best. Better still, the one that got the best response from occupants like me would be used in a TV commercial I can tune in on my very own TV set. Like they say in Night Shift, "Is this a great country, or what?"

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I'm glad it didn't happen to me. Actually, I'm surprised it didn't happen to me.

I was enjoying some casual conversation with my neighbors, Bob and Carol, Sunday when they told me about their trips to the antique auction at Schmidt's in Ypsilanti.

Bob was saying he's a sucker for old milking stools. And Carol was giving him the business.

"Whenever the auctioneer sees Bob in the audience, he sends out to the barn for more milking stools," she said.

Carol, who has her own interior decorating company, explained that her own tastes are much more refined.

"I was interested in this Chinese bowl," she said, "so when the bidding started I jumped right in.

"The bids passed $100, then topped the $200 mark, but I stuck with it and finally got the bowl for $275.

"Bob was going crazy," she continued. "What kind of bowl is worth $275?" he asked. He was getting really upset with me, but I was determined to have that bowl.

"All he could say when I finally got it was 'It had better hold a lot of ice cream.' Bob thinks everything has to be practical. If it doesn't have a practical use, he doesn't think we need it."

I admitted that I had to take Bob's side of the argument. I'm sure it had been an attractive bowl — who am I to argue with an interior decorator? — but 275 bucks is a lot of cash.

That's when Carol tossed in the clincher.

"When we got home, I looked it up in my antique book and, sure enough, I had been right all along," she reported. "There was my beautiful Chinese bowl — listed for $1,200."

"I had just spent $275 to purchase a bowl worth $1,200."

When I asked to see the $1,200 bowl, Carol explained that she had sold it to one of her clients, but she did offer to let me see some of Bob's milking stools.

"They won't hold ice cream," she said. "But they make wonderful plant stands."

Resident opposes workfare bill

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a copy to The Record of a letter to State Senator R. Robert Geake.

Dear Bob:

I phoned your home this morning regarding HB 5434 requiring mothers of children six months of age or older to report for workfare. As the working mother of a two and a half year old, I must object.

As a reader of Bruno Bettelheim's "Children of the Dream" which discussed the isolation and alienation and inability of the children in Israel's kibbutzim to form intimate friendships, I must object. As a former worker in Ann Arbor's red light district, I must object to your cutting off the soma of the street people for six months of the year.

If this bill is signed and put into effect, 1967 will be modified in the history books as the summer prelude to 1984.

Regards,
Claudia S. Day

Girls soccer fans appreciate coverage

To the Editor:

As a mom of one of the NHS Soccer Team girls, I want to thank you and The Record for giving each girl a copy of that terrific team picture. I'm sure they and their families are as grateful as we are.

Thanks, too, for all the coverage of this and past teams. My son was on the NHS boys' team the past two years, and he has a scrapbook filled with your articles and pictures.

While I am expressing my personal gratitude, I would also like you to know that our Rec. Soccer Assoc. also appreciates your efforts on reporting the weekly game results for the younger kids. I'm sure it must add to your work load, as well as being more than a little boring and frustrating! I promise to get my scores and names to you as early on Sundays as possible.

Betty Dragon

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above letter was addressed to Bruce Martin, Record Sports Editor. However, The Record did not give the copies of the team picture. They were purchased by the school at a reduced rate.

Land resolution placed on ballot

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

It's official — Michigan voters will have the opportunity to approve a resolution guaranteeing the autonomy of the Recreational Land Trust Fund.

House joint resolution "M" has cleared the Legislature and will be placed on November's general election ballot. The fund will be used to purchase and develop recreational land and facilities, and protect scenic areas throughout the state.

Begin in 1976, the Kammer Recreational Land Trust Fund (named for then-senator and sponsor Kerry Kammer) has been raided by the Legislature when our state government was short on cash. When it was originally conceived and passed, a cap of $150 million was placed on the fund, which it would have reached earlier this year if it had not been raided. Instead, this spring saw a paltry $14 million in the fund, which was nearly diverted to pay for part of the Michigan Youth Corps program.

This misuse of funds specifically earmarked for development and acquisition of public recreational lands prompted two state legislators to introduce a joint House-Senate resolution prohibiting government raids on the fund. The resolution, which was approved by two-thirds of the members of the House and Senate, creates the Michigan Natural Resources Fund.

Modeled after the Kammer Trust Fund, the new fund will be generated by oil, natural gas and mineral royalties from state-owned resources. The cap will increase to $200 million, and no money may be transferred for any purpose other than that specified in the resolution.

The Michigan Legislature is committed to preserving and upgrading our state natural resources, as evidenced by the overwhelming support this resolution received in both House and Senate. Now it is up to the voters to finish what we have started to ensure our children will have abundance wildlife to enjoy for many years to come.

Lansing Report

Law supports state payment measure

By GERALD LAW
State Representative

Legislation that would force state government to pay its bills on time won unanimous approval by the House State Affairs Committee last week.

The prompt payment measure (H.B. 4134), which I co-sponsored, requires the state to pay bills for goods and services within 45 days or a penalty fee of nine percent a year will be added to the unpaid, past due balance.

The state doesn't pay any interest on late bills right now and so really has no incentive to pay on time. As a result, many small businesses which operate under tight cash flow restrictions are reluctant to deal with the state for fear they won't be paid promptly.

Twenty-seven states have passed similar legislation, with interest rates ranging from one-quarter of one percent a day to 15.5 percent a year.

The Congress approved this kind of legislation in 1982. Before that, the federal government paid 66 percent of its bills on time; since then it has paid 99 percent on time. Obviously the legislation is quite an incentive.

Although Michigan's payment record is better than the federal government's, concern over late payments has been one reason that many small businesses are reluctant to enter state contracts.

Because the state should be contracting with the people who can best provide the services and goods the state needs, this is a very important bill. Legislation just signed into law will take government out of competition with private business, and I believe this bill is the next logical step in assuring that our private employers receive fair treatment.

This measure was one of the top 10 priorities to come out of the 1982 Small Business Conference sponsored by Governor Milliken and is also a part of Governor Blanchard's small business agenda.

Wayne County Commission approves county jail staffing

Wayne County Commissioners Thursday approved staffing of the new $60 million county jail, thus paving the way for the facility's partial opening by the July 7 target date.

While approval of some $348,000 for additional bunks and furniture was withheld by commissioners until a source of funding could be determined, Sheriff Robert Ficano assured the legislative group that it would not interfere with the opening of two-and-a-half floors of the 13-story Andrew C. Baird Detention Center located in downtown Detroit.

The Public Safety and Judiciary Committee, chaired by Commissioner Mary E. Dumas, recommended the $348,281 appropriation plus $12,190 for managerial fees, to buy bunks for 384 cells in anticipation of Governor James Blanchard's signing into law double-bunking for county jails.

Commissioner Dumas said she will request a resume of staffing costs and a source of funding because there is not enough money in the jail account to cover all the expenses.

Sheriff Ficano said it was rare that detention facilities were ever opened all at once.

The staffing pattern has already been approved by the sheriff and the County Executive.

There still is a question of whether cell doors will have to be altered to

Archivist Shirely Connors examines Schoolcraft memorabilia

Schoolcraft archives established

More than 20 years after opening its doors, Schoolcraft College has begun an archival program to identify and preserve its official records and publications which have historic value.

The college announced that the monumental task is being undertaken by Shirley Connors, formerly an archivist at the Plymouth Historical Museum.

"This job would be easier if all the records were stored in one spot," Connors said. "However, they are scattered in offices in each department, and often not recognized as having historical value."

The archives will eventually include more than official records. There are plans for a photograph collection and an oral history program. Personal papers, letters, diaries, scrapbooks and photographs which contain information on the formation of the college are needed.

Such items are being requested from the people who shared in the events that shaped the progress of the college, from present and former employees and faculty members, as well as from any residents of the college district.

Anyone with documents or materials which might be used in the college archives is asked to contact Shirley Connors at 591-6400, extension 234.

cafeteria areas, hallways and elevators.

The facility is divided into sandwiches of two floors each, both identical except that one contains a cafeteria and the other a basketball court and lounge areas.

The 13th floor, divided by elevators, has two open areas covered by skylights that rise 50 feet above the floor and can be used for exercise areas.

Barber's bric-a-brac

Back when a shave and haircut were still two bits (circa 1930), Tony Sorrentino's Plainview Barber Shop in Detroit featured this antique barber pole. Now, more than 50 years later, it's back in operation at Northville Barbers and Hairstyling, 545 W. Seven Mile. In the photo is Tony's son, Tom Sorrentino, who owns the barbershop (now a business with four barbers) and restored the pole last winter as a conversation piece. "I think it's nice to keep this kind of tradition," he says. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Major Jiggins accepts honor

Though Northville High School's first Distinguished Alumni James and Barbara Jiggins were unable to attend last Friday's commencement, their remarks to the Class of '84 were forwarded to high school principal David Bollito.

Barbara Jiggins' mother accepted the award at Friday's ceremony as the couple is in England where Major Jiggins is stationed with his unit as one of 10 USAF SR71 pilots.

The following is Major James Jiggins' address to this year's graduating seniors:

To the graduates of 1984, their families, friends, and the faculty of Northville High School, I send my sincere congratulations on graduation night. High school graduation is truly a major stepping stone in your life. One for which you can all be proud.

I regret that my schedule requires me to be in England tonight, as I had hoped to be able to be there. I wish I could express my surprise, astonishment, and true feelings of personal satisfaction at being selected to receive the Distinguished Alumni Award. I'm sure any of my former teachers were amazed at all that I have accomplished after having me as a student 20 years earlier.

Whatever goals you have for your future, they are attainable. They may require many hours of work, some require forethought, but all are possible if you put your talents, your skills and most of all your desires to work. A positive attitude is the key to success.

My goals were always to fly — whether it be commercially or for the military. I chose to gain my flying experience in the military and I have never regretted it. My career first began in the Army flying helicopters.

From there, I was lucky enough to fly fighter jets in the Air Force. Following that I was fortunate enough to be selected for the United States Air Demonstration Squadron, the Thunderbirds. My tour with the Thunderbirds was very rewarding, both from the excellent flying opportunities it provided and from my contacts with Americans both young and old all across the United States.

This allowed me a positive insight into the whole nation that I will never forget. Starting in the lowest and slowest aircraft, flying Army helicopters, I never dreamed that I'd now be flying the highest and fastest aircraft in the world, the SR-71. I did believe in myself and my flying abilities, and continually strived to succeed at whatever goal I had. If you have determination enough, you can succeed.

Barbe and I both graduated from Northville High School. Our academics and experiences of life growing up in Northville have proven very beneficial throughout both our endeavors. Our memories of home and Northville are fond ones. It is these fond memories that make this honor so special to receive.

In closing, I wish the graduates of 1984 good health, good fortune, and success in whatever careers you choose. Good luck and best wishes to all of you. Your future is a bright one, and in America, it is only limited by your imagination.

James Jiggins
Class of 1963

Money greases the wheels in racing

By KEVIN WILSON

There's an old saw in motor racing circles that runs: "Speed costs money; how fast do you want to go?"

There is plenty of speed around, as any witness to last month's Indianapolis 500, last week's stock car races at Michigan International Speedway or this weekend's Detroit Grand Prix III can attest.

And it's impossible not to notice who's putting up the money. Their names are everywhere — on the cars, lining the guardrails, on banners, on the sides of the footbridges that carry spectators over the track surface, even on the T-shirts, hats and handbags of those spectators.

They are the names of companies both large and small that have found some worthwhile payoff from participation in motorsport — after all, Goodyear, Budweiser and Marlboro, to name but three, didn't get to be industrial giants by throwing money away.

What do they get out of the millions invested in one of the world's most expensive sports?

Simply one of the best advertising and promotional venues going, according to Henry Starr, president of Starr Advertising in Northville.

"If a budget will stand participation in motorsports, we'll almost always advise our clients to get involved," Starr explained. "It's not cheap, though it doesn't have to be as expensive as most people think. But it is the most cost-effective way to reach that audience — which is huge."

On a dollar-per-exposure basis, motorsport promotions prove out as one of the cheapest ways to get a business message out. It's the size of that audience — some 150 million spectators in the U.S. alone attend or watch televised motor racing annually — that makes the total cost of involvement look large.

The enthusiast market is not only large, it has the characteristics most sought by advertisers, said Cliff Carroll of the Starr public relations staff.

"These people have high disposable income and an incredibly high degree of product loyalty," Carroll said. A

White paint on Buick-Sybert Pontiac awaits potential sponsor logos for Detroit Trans Am

There's room for the small-spender

While the big names in motor sport sponsorship invest millions annually to have their product names associated with major events like Indy and Grand Prix racing, there is opportunity aplenty for even the small business to promote itself in this way.

"If you're a small retailer," advised Henry Starr, president of Starr Advertising agency in Northville, "there are opportunities right in your local community."

One such immediate opportunity is the Buick-Sybert Racing Team Pontiac Firebird driven by area resident Tim Evans that will compete at this weekend's Trans Am race in Detroit. The team is seeking sponsors for the race.

Despite long involvement in the sport, the team is not well known except among insiders, which illustrates a point about the total motorsport audience that explains Starr's assertion that you don't need to be drowning in spare cash to benefit from racing activity.

Of the 150 million people who watch auto racing in person or on television in this country annually, only 10 million are in actual attendance at the big-league events such as the Detroit Grand Prix or the various NASCAR and CART races at Michigan International Speedway. Add in major network broadcasts and the number rises only to about one-third the total. A large portion of the rest are spectators at smaller venues, some of which are considered very significant among enthusiasts.

Meanwhile, there are even smaller, local races where the action is even much cheaper than what Evans is involved in — Waterford Hills Road Racing, Flat Rock Speedway and Mt. Clemens Raceway are regional tracks where a few dollars lavished on the right team can give a lot of practical exposure.

Many more watch on television and the advent of cable has enlarged the scope of what type of racing makes it to the home screen. Until recently, only the biggest races could be seen on television. But ESPN, WTBS and the Nashville Network have changed that. All transmit coverage of lesser events (ESPN often covers the supporting races such as the Trans Am and Super Vee events while their cameras are on site for the main event, for example). As a real bonus for sponsors, cable networks often schedule several showings of the same race.

Add dozens of enthusiast publications, some targeted to very specific types of racing, (a quick scan of one magazine rack turned up Circle Track, Stock Car Racing, Open Wheel, On Track, Autoweek, Amateur Auto Racing News, National Speedsport News, plus a handful of periodicals devoted to off-road racing, motorcycle and motorboat racing), and you begin to see how much is available.

So how does the little guy get a piece of the action? Tim Evans is happy to explain that running one Trans Am race costs around $10,000. Any sponsor willing to put up at least that much could cover the car with its logo for one race. Which is cheap in comparison to the low-buck programs Starr has put together for major clients in the $25,000 to $50,000 range.

Even small budgets can go to the races

But involvement with Buist-Syfert could take even less than $10,000 — at this point, only one-fourth the cost is covered by a sponsor.

"We don't much care if we have one $10,000 sponsor or 1,000 $10 sponsors," Evans said. "We can work out most anything."

What's more, the Buist-Syfert team posts good results for its relatively low cost. If results were measured in speed per dollar spent, in fact, the team would rank high on anyone's list.

"We have a little figure we like to work out," said team co-owner Chris Syfert of Birmingham. "We divide our lap times by the amount of sponsorship we have — we almost always win when compared to the other teams. No one goes as fast as we do with so little sponsorship."

Interested? Chris and her husband Greg Syfert (crew chief), car co-owner Pete Klain of Birmingham, team manager Dave Buist of Southfield, or Evans (who lives on Chedworth in Novi Township, with a Northville mailing address) would all be glad to hear it. They have four races scheduled this year, with two more tentative on how long their own money holds out.

Evans thinks he has a good shot at a qualifying spot in the top five in Detroit, thanks to his knowledge of the track as pace car driver for the Formula One race the past two years. If he makes it, there is likely to be a lot of regional media coverage of the team.

Motorsport audience attracts advertisers

survey by Autoweek, the Crain Publications enthusiast newspaper, showed that the auto racing audience is about 77 percent male, earns a median income of $34,750 and an average income of $38,020 annually.

"The demographics skew like a lot of enthusiast markets — a fairly young, upscale group with a high degree of product identification and loyalty," Carroll added, noting that the figures are very similar for photography buffs and stereo enthusiasts. But there are far more racing enthusiasts.

The results of a nationwide study recently released by the J. Walter Thompson Performance Group, headquartered in the agency's Detroit office, showed a majority of American males expressing an interest in auto racing. Some 56 percent expressed such an interest, with one-third of those over age 18 describing their interest as "high."

Of the females among the 8,000 randomly-selected consumers surveyed, 28 percent said they were interested in motor racing. Other studies have ranked motorsport third in the nation in attendance, behind only baseball and horse racing, neither of which provides the advertising potential of motor sport.

Those people are the target for all those dollars poured in auto racing. So what kind of message does the money buy?

"The obvious answer is that the race car is dynamic — there it is suffering the stress of racing and surviving, performing well," explained Starr. "I think it proves the (auto-related) product, be it tires, motor oil, headlights, the engine, whatever."

A proliferation of types of racing has widened the opportunity for this kind of promotion-by-demonstration. High performance rallying, where competitors speed over unimproved roads through forests, Carroll noted, is growing as a venue for advertising road tires, lighting equipment and suspension parts, for instance.

"People see those cars doing that and they feel better about having that product on their own cars," Starr explained. "The consumer puts Goodyears on his family car and there's a warmth for the product, a feeling of security that they were made by the same people who make the tires that survive all those races."

Another benefit is credibility. "You better believe those drivers know who's paying the bills," Starr said. "They're professionals — they know that they may be on the track Friday, Saturday and Sunday but they're on the road doing promotions Monday to Thursday."

"And having a race driver on a commercial saying he uses your product is a lot more credible than some actor saying the same thing. People know that guy's putting his butt on the line and isn't going to use a lousy product just for the money."

But those putting money into racing aren't confined to automotive product manufacturers anymore. Beginning with the tobacco companies, who found racing promotions one route to television exposure after cigarette commercials were banned, many other advertisers have come to see the value of racing involvement.

Starr cites as a quick example the Kroger grocery chain's decision to sponsor one of last year's Grand Prix supporting races. Kroger put up the prize money and had its name attached to the race.

"What they did was smart and what we advise all our clients to do — don't leave your racing promotion in a vacuum, capitalize on it," Starr said. "Kroger gave away a car, a new Thunderbird, and took the car around to the various stores and showed it in their print advertising."

The Kroger case is also an example of the many types of promotion that can be undertaken — sponsoring a racing car, often one of the most expensive investments around, is far from the only way into the sport.

"For example, at the Grand Prix, you can sponsor the Formula One car garage and post your signs on the walls and such," Carroll said. "Every time a newspaper or television camera takes a picture in there, you've got more exposure, over and above the people attending the actual event."

Signage appears virtually everywhere at a major race event — the sides of the safety barriers at Detroit, for instance. Tying enthusiast markets together was also effective last year for photo film companies — both Kodak and Agfa offered consumers special areas from which to

Snow

It starts to snow,
you walk outside.
A big, fluffy flake,
catches on your wrist,
like a tingling happy,
surprise.
Then another flake,
catches on your hair,
by your face.
It melts, and little,
tiny rivets hang,
so delicately,
teasing your eye.

The Brave Knight

Galloping down a country mile,
Giving every one a smile
being brave was his game
And for his horse it was the same.

They had set off on a trek
To find the dragon and cut his neck.
It was not a happy job
But they would do it without a sob.

After they had trotted there
He tested his sword on a hair,
Then he walked to the cave
Then right in (he sure is brave)

Finding the Dragon fast asleep.
He drew his sword but began to weep
He could not kill a dragon asleep
so he woke him with his sheeth

So do they fight until this day
Battling Battling through the day
So to this I kindly say
Don't wake a Dragon that kill you may.

Kirk Windisch

Cheating

Slipping silently the seven of hearts,
where no one can see it,
sly are you,

Taking ten-thousand tricking your teammate,
when no one is looking at the bank,
sly you are,

Turning the dice too two twos
when your opponent is counting his money,
sly you are,

Getting caught,
Tricking teammates
Turning twos
Slipping sevens...
Then ... finding yourself friendless,
Sly you are??????????

It's Your Birthday, Little Darling

It's your Birthday, Little Darling,
And I want to say,
You mean so very much to us.
In such a special way.
You've had your cake, with candles,
You wished, and then you blew,
I know that any wish you made,
Surely will come true.
And now that you have made your wish,
I'd like to make one too,
"I wish," my little Darling,
"That you'll grow up, and stay,
Just as sweet and happy,
As you are, To-Day!"

Mind's Mood

Do you, like I,
Enjoy moments
Of silence?
Soothing,
Restful ones?
Reflective ones?
It calms
The nerves,
Repairs the soul.
Do you, like I,
Enjoy moments
Of silence?

While She is at Rest

Trees are budding! The lilac cascades,
The tulips are out in their radiant shades;
The grass is alive in its bright, green hue
While shrubs are beginning to blossom anew.

The buds are reviving, their long, leafy plants
Near coral bell clusters and grape hyacinths.
In no time at all the iris will stand
In proud, stately beauty and elegance grand!

Petunias and "Susans" want Charlotte's attention
As well as the others, if I could but mention
Like berries and fruit trees awaiting her blessing
As she always did, with tender caressing.

The gold coronation nearly hides from view
The exquisite lilies that always look new.
The "Glories of Morning" climbing up a tall weed
To bloom until fall and then go to seed.

All these and more will faithfully bloom
In memory of Charlotte, as though she were home.
We who remain will be doing our best
To tend to them all, while she is at rest.

That we realize our lack of it;
In finding it
We then must learn the knack of it.

The Quest

Across the land the Men shall walk,
Heeding nothing save a most hideous talk;
And lo! the Sea was there so soon,
And rumours of terrible things came true.

The Sea is tricky and full of lies,
And ghastly creatures will be sure to rise;
Ay! From the terrible ocean below!
Will they survive? One can never know.

This Land so dreaded and worse expected,
Was nothing that one had dreamed or suspected;
Aid and help would greatly be needed,
For the Wisps of Death must then be heeded.

Nothing shall change the warriors' fate,
Or the quest in the Land they so much hate;
These Men shall live with pain and foe,
Alas! there's one more quest to go!

Are they to survive? Not even I can know.

Mystical Stars (A True Experience)

The mystical stars are ever nearby,
In blossoms of earth or infinite sky;
No matter where you happen to be,
There are stars for you and all to see.

By carefully looking at flowers or weeds,
You will find in their hearts or hiding in reeds
A five-pointed star, and sometimes more
In the basic design of petals or core.

In silent radiance, they seem to express
A living reflection of heaven's caress.
The star is a symbol, since life began
In wondrous assurance, God's promise to man.

A Prayer For Purity

Purify our hearts, oh God.
Purify our souls.
Help us in these dark and troubled days to know which way to go.
And guide us gently through the years, till at last we reach our celestial home.

the fairy godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns. But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of our newspaper! It's like magic the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way the fairy godmother makes all her magic, too!

Couple creates backyard wildlife habitat

By JEANIE MacINTOSH

Less than a mile from the expressway, surrounded by new apartment complexes and the hustle-bustle of Seven Mile Road, there is a certified natural wildlife habitat. It's in Jerry and Zo Chisnell's backyard.

Their acre of land, in a residential neighborhood along Maxwell Street in Northville Township, has been registered by the National Wildlife Federation as a Backyard Wildlife Habitat. The certification is part of a nationwide network of mini-refuges for wildlife.

The Chisnells have lived in their home for 22 years. "When we moved in it was just a house in the woods with no plumbing," explains Mrs. Chisnell. "Since we had all this property, I bought a book, (Gardening with Wildlife, by the National Wildlife Federation) and started following it."

That book sparked Mrs. Chisnell's interest in maintaining the natural state of their yard. She learned of the backyard program through Natural Wildlife Magazine.

The National Wildlife Federation began the residential area preservation program in 1974. "We'd already been doing that all along, so I thought it was a nice idea," Mrs. Chisnell says, adding that she finally applied to the program last year.

In order to be registered by the Federation, applicants must illustrate the efforts taken to attract bird and animal life to their yards. "We try to maintain and restore what was here in order to keep the animals and birds coming back," says Mrs. Chisnell.

She estimates that the number of different types of birds in their yard now numbers almost 90, not all of them native to this area.

"When we moved in, I assumed we'd have robins and sparrows — I was surprised to discover there were so many different kinds of birds," notes Mrs. Chisnell. She says that hummingbirds and thrush are among those in the yard, and adds that the "wrens are in the process of moving in."

"I like to put out different types of food to see what kinds of migrating birds pass through the area," says Mrs. Chisnell.

'Since we had all this property, I bought a book (Gardening with Wildlife, by the National Wildlife Federation) and started following it.'

Zo Chisnell
Maxwell resident

Birds are not the only ones that take advantage of the Chisnell habitat. "A long time ago we used to have deer and quail — once we even had a bobcat. Now we still have an occasional fox, but most of the animals are possum, squirrel, woodchucks and raccoon."

As the area becomes more commercialized the animals leave, she says, despite efforts by nearby apartment complexes to maintain a 'natural' setting.

In order to help the small animals that do appear in the yard, the Chisnells keep a goldfish pond, which birds, frogs and toads also take advantage of. Although the pond serves its purpose well, the Chisnells are planning to build a larger pool for the animals.

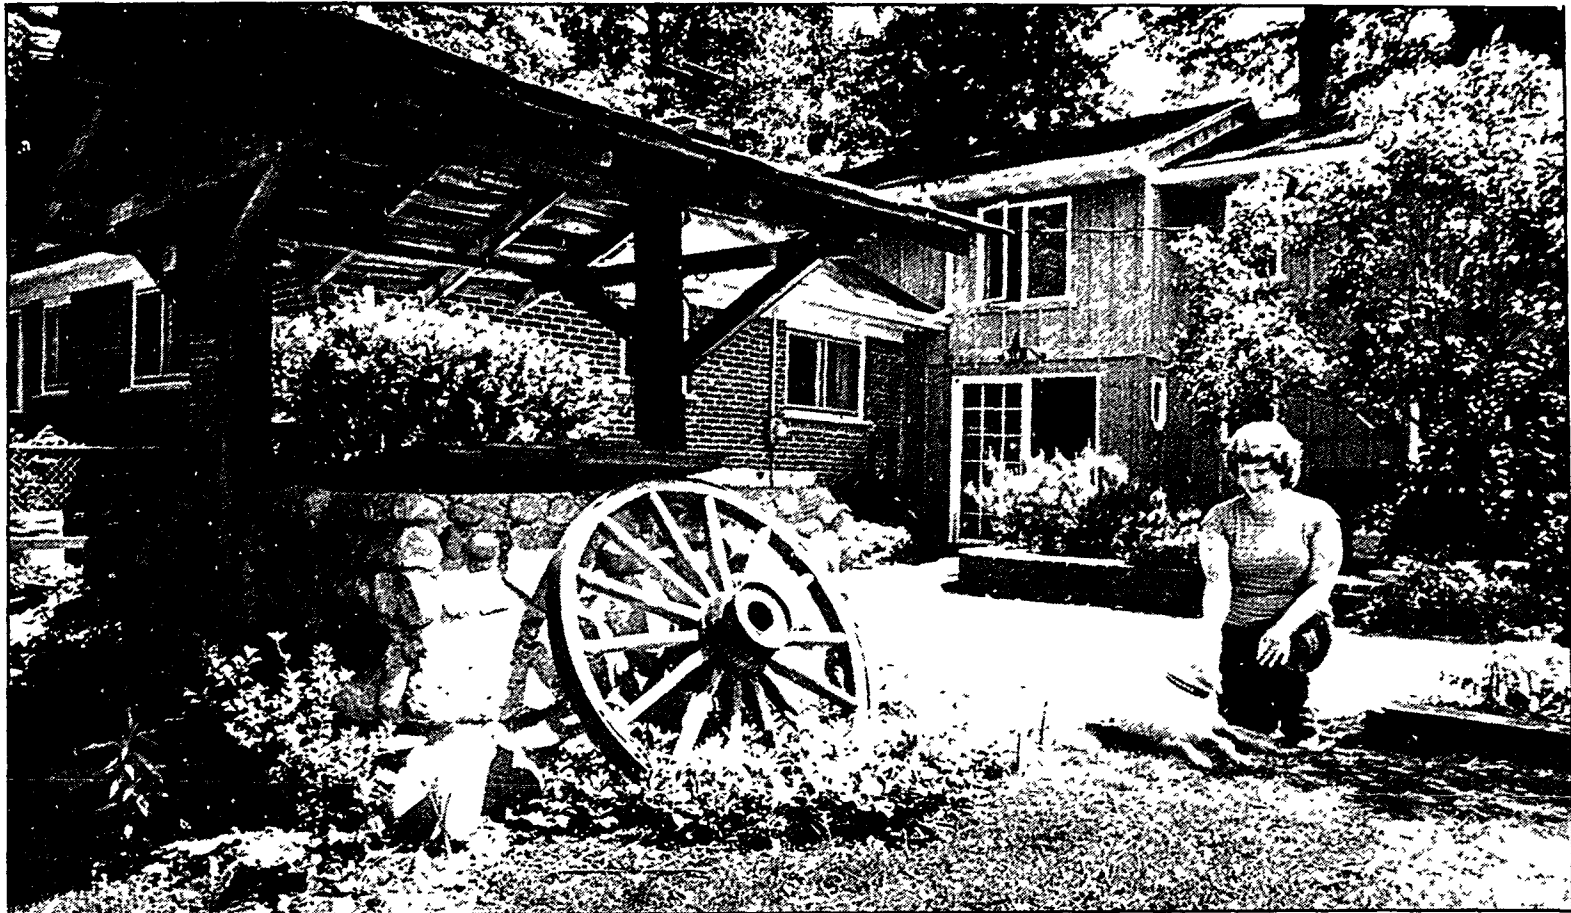

Mrs. Chisnell says that she doesn't need to do a lot in the way of feeding her backyard guests. She does put out corn, thistle, sunflower seeds and peanut hearts, but notes that the animals are fairly self-sufficient.

"A lot of those feed packets that you buy at the store are a waste — and they make weeds grow," she maintains.

In addition to the animal life in the Chisnell backyard, there is also a large variety of wildflower growth. There are so many, in fact, that Mrs. Chisnell has to identify them with plastic markers.

"When we first moved in I learned the names of all the wildflowers we had, but every year we get new ones and I have to re-learn them," she laughs.

When transplanting or buying new plants, Mrs. Chisnell tries to choose a variety that birds like. "They can be pretty and still serve a purpose," she explains.

Zo Chisnell and "Golly" relax in backyard wildlife sanctuary

Trees can also be found in abundance in the yard. Among them are cherry trees; birch, which were transplanted from northern Michigan; and maple, which the Chisnells tap in the winter.

Unfortunately, when the area's sewer system was put in, the Chisnells lost 12 of their largest trees. "It was a big disappointment," says Mrs. Chisnell. "because the conservation department believed those trees to be the largest of their kinds in the southeastern Michigan area."

The Chisnells do replace and add new trees; their most recent addition was evergreen trees. "It's great air conditioning," laughs Mrs. Chisnell. "the temperature is 10 degrees cooler here than up the block."

The backyard habitat does have its problems. Mrs. Chisnell fights "an endless battle" with weeds. She mulches maple leaves and uses those to help combat the problem. "If I get a really stubborn one that I can't get rid of, I just declare it a wildflower," she jokes.

Maintaining the yard is relatively expensive, according to Mrs. Chisnell, who spends only about $50 a year for new plants. Their only large expense is hiring someone to clean out their maple trees.

"But I do have a wish list about two pages long," adds Mrs. Chisnell, laughing.

The "Tree Freak", as her three children call her, spends about three or four hours a week in the yard. "I also spend a lot of time at the window with my binoculars," says the self-taught bird watcher.

Although the habitat is mainly her project, her husband is in charge of the vegetable garden. And, adds Mrs. Chisnell, "He cuts the lawn and tries not to mow anything down."

Mrs. Chisnell is glad to help anyone who would like to get involved in the program. "I don't think many people are aware of it," she says.

There are only three other Northville residents who have had their yards registered as backyard habitats. They are the David Sharpes on Beauford Lane; Sandra and Lowell Cook on Tralee Trail; and Andrew Weinrach, who lives on Eight Mile Road.

"I think it's great," comments Mrs. Chisnell, "too many of us end up with subdivision yards. It's nice to counteract all the new cement with something like this."

Ceremony in California

Jana Lehen, Blaine Mugleston wed in garden

Jana Lynn Lehen became the bride of Blaine Derrick Mugleston in a garden wedding June 2 in Whittier, California. She is the daughter of Paul and DeAnna Lehen of 42048 Crestview Circle in Northville.

The bridegroom is the son of Robert and Jessie Mugleston of Whittier. The 1 p.m. ceremony was held at their home. The couple exchanged vows and rings on a bridge over the swimming pool in a setting of fountains and lilies floating in the pool. Bishop Dunn of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints officiated.

The bride wore a long white gown of taffeta and lace fashioned with a high neckline of net with lace applique embroidered with seed pearls and crystal beads and puff sleeves. The ruffleedged lace train formed a bustle after the ceremony. A matching applique headpiece held the bride's scalloped veil.

She carried a bouquet of white and peach roses with baby's-breath.

Denise Mugleston, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. She wore a burgundy silk dress and carried a nosegay of peach and wine roses with baby's-breath.

Troy Mugleston was best man for his brother.

Tennille Mugleston, 8, a niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a burgundy dress styled like her mother's and carried a matching nosegay. Robert Mugleston III, 10, was ring bearer, carrying a peach satin pillow with antique lace ruffles and peach bows.

The bridegroom's brother and sister, Troy Mugleston and Desiree Jaramillo, sang "Just You and I" at the service.

A reception followed in the garden for 250 guests.

After a wedding trip to a cabin in Big Bear Mountain, the newlyweds are living in Whittier.

The bride is a graduate of Ladywood

High School and Central Michigan University.

The bridegroom is a member of a professional entertainment family, "The Muglestons." He plays the drums, sax and trumpet and sings and dances. He presently is cutting a new album.

The Northville Record

These guys deliver

They deliver great baseball, that is. They're the Sliger Livingston Newspapers East All-Area Team, selected by sports editors from the varsity teams of eight high schools in our circulation area. In the front is South Lyon shortstop Doug Cottongim. Behind him from left to right are outfielders Steve Frellick of Northville and Shawn Kind of Lakeland; second baseman Darryle Noren, third baseman Tab Brown and catcher Mark Chambers, all from Lakeland; Northville pitcher Dan Nielsen, Milford outfielder Bob Clement; Walled Lake Western pitcher Dan Gabriele and Northville first baseman Steve Schrader. Special thanks to Domino's Pizza, Novi. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

All-Area 'ingredients' include six Mustangs

Hey, Tom Monaghan. You looking for guys who can deliver? We've got 'em.

The Detroit Tiger owner/pizza chain honcho could cull 20 of Michigan's top prospects from the diamondmen who constitute this year's Sliger-Livingston Newspapers East All-Area Baseball Team.

Ingredients? We're talking ERA's lower than the charge for an extra topping. We're talking bats hotter than an extra-green-peppers-and-jalapenos special right out of the oven. We're talking about winners who left opponents falling like, well, like dominoes.

Prove it, you ask?

All right, fill this order: find two better high school pitchers than All-Stater DAN GABRIELE, ace hurler for Class A State Champion Walled Lake Western, and Northville's senior slinger DAN NIELSEN.

When sports editors from the Milford Times, South Lyon Herald, Novi-Walled Lake News and The Northville Record convened a couple weeks ago to pick the All-Area team, they wrote down Gabriele's name automatically — just as Western Lakes Activities Association coaches unanimously picked him for the all-league team.

The Warrior right-hander ended the year with a 11-2 won-loss record, a 1.31 ERA and 160 strikeouts. He won both the district semifinal and final games on the same day for Western, and added victories in the regional semifinal and state semifinal and final.

Over the season, Gabriele had three shutouts, one no-hitter, plus two saves.

As if that weren't enough, Gabriele was cleanup hitter for the Warriors, ending the year with a .329 average, 27

RBI. He also flashed a good glove during stints at first base.

What Gabriele was to the Warriors, All-Western Division hurler Nielsen was to the 17-4 Mustangs. The hard-throwing Mustang righthander finished the season 7-3, striking out 55 and walking 21 with an ERA of 1.69.

Hampered by a sore back, Nielsen pitched gutsy complete games at midseason to keep the Mustangs on track for a co-Western Division championship. He also was an All-Area Defensive End in football last fall, and a valuable forward for the Mustang basketball team.

So much for pitching. Let's talk offense.

Nielsen's Northville teammate STEVE SCHRADER supplied plenty. The All-WLAA first baseman led the Mustangs in batting average (.475), RBI (23), and he socked three home runs. The 6-6 senior was named Northville High School's outstanding male athlete at the school's Awards Banquet this year.

The youngest player on the first team was one of the most potent standouts on the Lakeland Eagles' power-laden lineup — four of whom are first-team selections.

Sophomore second baseman DARRYLE NOREN packed a .396 batting average, scored 19 runs and drove in 14 for the 15-6 Eagles. Noren was a .942 fielder at the keystone slot as well. "Darryle hit real well and played a good second base for us," noted somewhat understated Eagle Coach Jerry Ganzel.

Our leading candidate at shortstop from an exceptionally talented field is South Lyon senior DOUG COTTONGIM. The Lion captain led his team with a .397 batting average, scored 28 runs and drove in 18 more. Called by Coach Ron Shanks "a leader by example," Cottongim was a unanimous first-team All-KVC infield selection.

At third base, Lakeland again had the top man for the job — senior tri-captain TAB BROWN. His .468 batting average led the Eagles, and his 32 regular-season RBIs led Oakland County. Brown socked three home runs, four triples and scored 23 runs.

"I can't say enough about Tab," said Coach Ganzel. "We could always rely on him getting the run in. Overall, he is one of the best number-four hitters I've ever had."

Lakeland has a history of great catchers — last year, Jim St. John was tops in the area. This time around it's junior MARK CHAMBERS. Chambers finished the '84 season with a .444 batting average, three home runs, 19 runs and 22 RBI. Behind the plate, he was a .917 fielder, and gunned down 13 baserunners. He was named second-team All-WLAA catcher.

In the outfield is Northville's senior and leadoff hitter, STEVE FRELLICK. An All-WLAA Western Division outfielder, "Frelis" hit .344 this season, reaching base safely in all but two games for the Mustangs.466 and 10 stolen bases.

But what earned the senior extra admiration was his defense. "I always felt confident on a fly to center," noted Mustang Coach Fred Holdsworth. Frellick made one error all season, and was an effective rally-killer with his range and arm as well.

BUSINESS ENTERTAINING AT HOME

If you're like most business men, you probably do some business entertaining at home occasionally. Whenever you do, your expenses are just as deductible as they would be if you entertained business associates at a restaurant, ball park, or theater. When you entertain at home for business reasons, however, you have to be prepared to convince the Internal Revenue Service that the expenses are legitimate deductions.

You should keep careful records listing all of your expenses and the people you entertained. All of your business entertainment expenses must relate directly to your business. Any item costing more than $25 must be documented. Don't rely on estimates because the IRS may not accept them. Keep all of the receipts and cancelled checks for business entertainment at home with your other business records.

For a review of how these and other business expenses are affected by the latest tax law, as well as the many tax-saving opportunities, why not call us for an appointment?

Mantle Blue turns red-hot, wins first six

Northville's Mickey Mantle Blue team streaked to its sixth win in six games with a 7-3 victory over Union Lake/Walled Lake Sunday. Blue blew by three opponents earlier in the week — Westland, Redford and Southfield.

While Blue pitcher George Daraban went all the way in his first Mantle start, Northville got some clutch hitting to pull off the win. The team rallied for six runs in the first, five scoring with two out.

Fred Cahill, Rob Cannon, Mark Deal and Scott Peterson delivered RBI singles, and Daraban clubbed a two-run homer to cap the rally. Blue added one more later in the game when Mark Deal scored on Chris Dominique's single.

Against Westland Tuesday, Chris Willer scattered six hits and struck out 10 to whip Westland 6-2. Peterson, Cahill and Mark Olsen each had one RBI.

Dominique won a pitcher's duel Thursday as Northville defeated Redford 3-2. Blue overcame a 2-0 deficit in the second on RBI singles by Peterson and Dominique, tying the score.

In the fourth, Paul Newitt socked a long double, moved to third on a wild pitch, then sprinted home on a deep sacrifice fly by Scott Swienckowski.

Redford threatened in the bottom of the seventh, putting two men on. But Dominique picked off the lead runner and retired the final two hitters for the complete-game victory.

Saturday was Keith Dutkiewicz's day. He allowed one run in four innings of mound duty and smacked a solo home run which proved to be the game-winner. Brett Loomis picked up the save with three innings of work.

Newitt led the offensive charge, going 2-for-2 with three RBI. Daraban and Rob Cannon also delivered two hits.

After six games, Peterson leads Blue hitters with a .555 batting average and six RBI. Cannon has scored six runs and stolen 10 bases while hitting .471. Also hitting over .400 are Chris Dominique and Paul Newitt.

The Mantle Blue team has road games against West Seven, Southgate and Dearborn Heights this week. On Tuesday, the squad returns home for a 6:30 p.m. game against the Detroit Eagles.

Blue teammates Mark Olsen and Mark Deal collide on a bunt

Tanderys, Gold club Eagles

Northville Gold took two king-size losses against strong teams from Waterford and Crestwood last week. But when the team bounced back, it was with a vengeance.

Last Thursday, Gold clubbed the Detroit Eagles 9-3 behind the hot bat of Jeff Tanderys and the pitching of Eric Gala.

Tanderys socked two home runs, a three-run blast in the first inning and a solo shot in the fourth. John Lobbia slapped out a double and a single and also had four RBI for the day.

Northville picked up nine hits for the day, with Jeff Harp collecting two as well as Tanderys and Lobbia.

Rapidly developing righthander Gala held the Eagles to two hits in seven innings of work, striking out four and walking just three.

Saturday, Crestwood I topped Gold 16-0, getting a tremendous team pitching effort.

The previous Saturday, Waterford topped the Gold team 11-0. Northville threatened to crack the shutout several times, but left eight runners on base — three in the third inning with just one out.

Gold, now 1-3 for the year, returns to action at Crestwood II tomorrow, then will play WFB/American Catering on Saturday. The team will return home Thursday, June 28, to play WFB/Westland at Northville High School at 6:30 p.m.

Six Mustangs picked for All-Area

Joining Frellick in the outfield is Milford mainstay BOB CLEMENT. Named second-team All-KVC, Clement led the Redskins in RBI (20) and extra-base hits. He had two home runs and robbed 14 bases. He hit .307, but walked 20 times, as pitchers were reluctant to give the powerful senior anything to hit.

As a pitcher, he was 3-5 (3.83 ERA) for the struggling Redskins, prompting Coach Cole Rowekamp to say "Bob throws real hard and hits real hard."

Rounding out the first team is Lakeland outfielder SHAWN KIND. A first-team All-KVC selection, Kind "caught everything" in the outfield, according to Coach Ganzel. Kind also hit everything, packing a .372 batting average, including one home run, 14 runs and 12 RBI.

Our second-line pitchers are DAVE FORD of South Lyon and DOUG DOYLE of Northville. Ford accrued a 5-2 record and a 1.80 ERA and fanned 72 batters in 58½ innings. An All-KVC pick, the Lion ace also hit .369, scored 18 runs and had 16 RBI.

Doyle went 4-1 this season for the Mustangs despite a slow recovery from mononucleosis, packing a slim ERA of 1.88. The lefthander was a second-team All-Area selection last year.

At first is South Lyon senior PAUL GABBARD, who packed a .988 fielding average to balance his .317 batting average. He was an honorable mention All-KVC pick.

Northville's All-WLAA infielder MICKEY NEWMAN gets our nod at second. A .333 hitter with a reliable glove, Newman blossomed late, hitting three homers in his last six games (including one that broke up a Gabriele shutout). He was a first-team All-WLAA selection.

Second-team shortstop is Walled Lake Central's MARK MAMAYAK, the Ozzie Smith of the WLAA Lakes Division. "Nobody's better in the field," noted Coach Ken Butler. An All-Division selection, Mamayak had 16 RBI and 15 runs for the 10-10 Vikings. Beside Mamayak is Central third baseman DAVE LOBERT. The senior led his team with a .338 batting average and 18 runs, and was a 4-2 pitcher.

Second-team catcher is KENDALL STEVENS of South Lyon. The power-hitting Lion backstop had 21 RBI and three home runs.

Second-team outfield picks include Novi's second-team All-KVC selection, junior BOB HUOTARI, a .347 hitter who ended the season with three home runs, 15 RBI and eight stolen bases. Northville's DOUG HARTMAN had similar stats — .377 batting average, one home run, 13 RBI and seven stolen bases.

South Lyon's JERRY BOMAY rounds out the second-team outfield. Playing completely errorless center field, Bomay was an honorable mention All-KVC pick. He had 18 RBI and 23 runs, three homers, three triples and five doubles.

Connie Mack squad drops its first two

Northville's Connie Mack squad, only recently formed, is still waiting for its hitting to come around.

West Bloomfield-North Farmington II blanked the Northville squad 4-0 and 2-0 in the team's first two games Saturday — each shutout containing only one Northville hit.

Mark Chambers broke up the no-hitter in the first game and Steve Frellick in the second.

"Offensively we should get better," said Mack Coach Bob Frellick, who assisted Fred Holdsworth with the Northville High School varsity this spring. "We made a couple errors in the first game. We executed well. We just weren't hitting."

No complaints about the pitching though — in the second game, Doug Doyle threw a three-hitter marred only by a two-run rally in the sixth. Doyle struck out 10 hitters.

Kelly Bell was almost as effective in the first game. He allowed just one earned run on four hits, and struck out four.

Northville Mack will host Waterford tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. and will play two games on Saturday against North Farmington-West Bloomfield I, times to be announced.

Steve Schrader, Cathy Heitert are Athletes of the Year

Steve Schrader receives male Athlete of the Year Award . . .

By B.J. MARTIN

Seniors Cathy Heitert and Steve Schrader were honored at Northville High School's June 6 Honors Night as the school's 1983-84 "Athletes of the Year."

Heitert, Northville's best gymnast ever, capped an outstanding high school gymnastics career last March with a tenth-overall place at the MHSAA Class A State Gymnastics Meet.

Her score of 8.75 in balance beam was second in the state, well above the third and fourth-place finishers in the event. At the Western Lakes Activities Association Conference meet, also in March, Heitert finished second overall to Plymouth Canton's Linda Beale.

Heitert, however, did take top league honors in uneven parallel bars, posting a sensational score of 9.1.

Competing with the Northville Swim Team as a junior, Heitert also posted the WLA Western Division's top diving score as a junior in 1982.

Northville Gymnastics Coach Debbie Heck credited Heitert with exceptional leadership qualities and said her help with younger competitors on the team was a valuable asset.

Her gymnastics skills earned Heitert a full athletic scholarship to Northern Michigan University.

Steve Schrader's athletic skill also earned a full-ride scholarship, in his case to University of Miami-Ohio.

Schrader will play football for the Redskins, but his skills in basketball and baseball were no less extraordinary.

This spring, WLA coaches named Schrader to the All-Conference baseball team as a first baseman. He led the Mustangs in hitting (.475), RBI (23) and home runs (3), and was also named to the Sliger Livingston Newspapers East First All-Area Team.

As center for the Mustang basketball team, he led Northville in scoring (10.3 points per game) and rebounding (7.5 per game). Despite a knee injury that hampered his mobility, he turned in several excellent basketball games to advance Northville to the Class A District Final.

A two-way player for the Mustang football team last fall, Schrader led the Mustang varsity football team in tackles and was an outstanding interior lineman on offense.

. . . and Cathy Heitert receives the female award from Athletic Director Ralph Redmond

League rival tops in state

Northville's varsity baseball players needn't hang their heads over their loss to Walled Lake Western in the Class A District Final last month. It turned out the Mustangs lost to the Class A state champions.

Western clinched the MHSAA Class A title Saturday with a 9-8 victory over Harper Woods Bishop Gallagher, riding the arm of star pitcher Dan Gabriele all the way.

It was Gabriele who finished Northville's outstanding baseball season May 15 when he held the Mustangs to one run in Western's 5-1 victory.

Earlier in the season, Northville swept a double header against Western, the Mustangs' WLA Western Division rivals.

After winning against Northville, Gabriele won the regional semifinal and both the state semifinal and final, thanks to his careful use by Western Coach Chuck Apap.

Northville Coach Fred Holdsworth called Gabriele the outstanding pitcher in the area. A vote of Michigan coaches confirmed that by naming Gabriele to the All-State team.

Holdsworth, like other coaches whose teams the Warriors defeated, didn't consider Western a better overall team than Northville — but conceded it was all but unbeatable with Gabriele pitching.

Mike Gabriele, Dan's younger brother, delivered the game-winning hit Saturday, a single in the top of the seventh with two runners aboard.

It's expected Northville players will see more of both Gabriele's this summer, with Mike playing on a Union Lake's Mickey Mantle team and Dan on West Bloomfield-North Farmington's Connie Mack team.

BASEBALL:

Bastian, Mets still unbeaten in G League

F LEAGUE: Matt McDonnell hurled a two-hitter and socked a home run to lead the Braves to a 14-4 victory over the Astros Friday. The Braves picked up two RBI and a home run from Roger Craig and Mike Reinsma drove in four runs. Heaton went 2-for-3 with three RBI for the Astros.

G LEAGUE: After three innings, it looked like the Mets might snap the 9-game win streak of the league-leading Rangers last Friday. But the Rangers added five runs in the fourth, one in the fifth and four in the sixth for a 10-2 win. Steve Bastian (W, 7-0) and Heath Myers scattered six hits, while Bastian, John Okasinski and Charlie Damavert led the offense with one home run apiece. Paul McCreadie and Okasinski each had three RBI.

Two days earlier, the Rangers topped the Yankees 14-3, rapping out 18 hits. Bastian and Myers each drove in three runs, while leadoff hitter Larry Osecki went 3-for-3, scoring three. Scott Burns drove in two runs for the Yankees. Earlier in the week, the Cardinals rallied for four sixth-inning runs, but it wasn't enough, as the Cubs pitcher Dave Huff (W, 2-1) doubled in the winning run in the bottom of the sixth. Matt Smith hit his fourth homer of the season with a two-run blast in the fifth inning.

Mike Janor was 2-for-2 with two RBI for the winners, while John Mach, Scott Byam, Jason Flading and Noel Korowin each drove in a run for the Cards. Donny Lewis had his best game ever Thursday, in the 4-5 Angels' 9-2 win over the Cardinals. Lewis socked two home runs and had six RBI. His Angels teammates Chuck Taylor, Brandon Hayes and Kevin McCullough turned in fine defensive games to preserve the win for Joe Kaley. June 11, the Angels topped the Braves 9-6, with Eric Fogel, Kaley, Todd Bono and Lewis each rapping out two hits. Kaley again took the win. Weiger singled and doubled, driving in two runs for the Braves.

PEE WEE REESE: Bill Kelley socked a two-out single to score the tying and winning runs for Northville (4-5) in an 8-7 win over previously undefeated Garden City Saturday. Ken Hendrian went 4-for-4 and Heath Meyers pitched seven complete innings for the victory.

H LEAGUE: The Expos used only four hits to defeat the Reds 11-6 on Friday. The Reds' Steve Weiger unloaded a homer and triple, but the Expos got defense when they needed it — Chris Cook made five unassisted putouts at second base. Mike McCormick led the Expos' offense with two hits and three RBI.

SOFTBALL:

Late-inning rallies lead Travelers' upset

INTERMEDIATE: A three-run rally in the sixth gave the Gems a 5-3 victory over the Phillies June 12. Leading the way for the 9-2 Gems were Krista Kordt who had two doubles, Kathleen and Rita Kucharski, who each had two hits, and Beth Brugeman, who had two RBI.

PRIMARY: The 6-2 Travelers scored three runs in the fourth and three in the fifth to hold off the previously unbeaten Sunbirds in a 10-7 win last Wednesday. Kelly Casterline went 3-for-4 with two doubles for the winners, while teammates Dawn Merritt and Catherine Donkers were 4-for-4 and Kara Kelly 3-for-3. Michelle McNally had three hits for the Sunbirds. Mari Kinsinger and Karen Pump two each. Winning pitcher Karen Traploone threw three scoreless innings to end the game. The Gems, led by Barb Woodruff, rapped out 20 hits to top the Falcons 10-5 Wednesday. Woodruff had two home runs, a double and a single in four trips, knocking in five runs. Winning pitcher Teri Juhasz and Carrie Quint had three hits for the Gems. Kara McNeil and Rozann Stalke were each 3-for-3 for the Falcons. Two days before, the Gems tripped the Phillies 11-10, as the Phils' two-run rally in the sixth fell short by a run. Lisa Bellman had three hits for the winners, while Kristin Meehan was 3-for-3 with three RBI for the Gems and Quint drove in four runs. Diane Robinson led the Phils' charge, going 3-for-3 with three RBI.

Omnicom Cablevision will broadcast last week's Astecs-Phillies Intermediate Softball game at the following times this week: Thursday at 4:30 p.m. on Channel 15, and Saturday at noon on Channel 8.

SOCCER:

Striker 'Sarge' Schuermann and goalie Dana Roslinski save ties for their Under 14 teams

UNDER 10 BOYS: Chris Barbara scored three times and Jamie Heitert once to give the Panthers a 4-0 win over the Celtics in June 10 action. Striker Dan McQuaid and defender John Conney were strong contributors to the win. Also notching a hat trick that day was Kurt Skrade of the Rowdies, who defeated the Farmington Astros 5-2. Mike Mittman and Jeff Berkus also scored, while defenseman Mark McGivlin turned in a fine game as well. The Plymouth Wild Hawks defeated the Hot Spurs 6-1, despite fine games from three Matthews — striker Matt Roesing, defender Matt Mills and goal scorer Matt Golden. Northville United tied Farmington United 2-2 on goals by Steve Weiger. Defenders Brandon Daidel and Mike Husak also turned in good performances.

UNDER 10 GIRLS: The Pandas topped Plymouth Three 1-0 June 10 on a goal by Laura Apigian. Defender Amanda Ebel and forward Courtney Gazley both played excellent games. The Stomperes stomped the Plymouth Bombers 2-0 on goals by Beth MacLean and Valerie Schuermann. Karen Sadak and goalies Jessica Coleman and Jane Luterek led the defense in the shutout. Regan Wisely, Michelle Balbo and Kathy Kozler were the heroes of a 1-0 Rowdies win over Farmington Two. Regan scored the game's only goal, while goalie Kathy and defender Michelle played well on defense. Regan and Laurie Smith scored to give the Rowdies a 2-0 win over the Stray Cats last week. Goalies Alicia Gustaf and Mary Anne Duncan, plus defender Leanne Michaels helped in the win. Farmington One beat the Pandas 1-3 despite good play by Kristina Green and Jackie Matthews. Plymouth One defeated the Northville Rowdies 1-0 on a "great team effort."

UNDER 12 BOYS: Mark Hufinger's goal and a "total team effort" saved the Hot Spurs in a 1-1 tie with Plymouth Ten in action June 10. Peter Beyeradorf scored once, but it wasn't enough, as Farmington One downed the Strikers 4-1. Jason Skolberg and Randy Stinson played well for the Northville squad.

A pair of goals by Mike Padden gave Arsenal a 2-1 victory over Farmington Six. Chris Lemmon's defensive work and striker Mike Komejan also played well. Farmington Five handed the Celtics a 7-0 defeat, although the Celtics got a good "whole team" effort against the strong Farmington squad. United tripped Plymouth Nine 3-0 on goals by Matt Smith, Andy Martin and Aaron Frankel. Steve Coon's defensive handwork helped preserve the shutout.

UNDER 12 GIRLS: In cross-town action last weekend, the Demons tied the Desperados 2-2, with Beth Unsel and Michelle McQuaid tallying for the Demons and Sue Marshall and Paula Schuermann scoring for the Desperados. Demons Allyson Kennedy and Meantle Apigian played outstanding games, as well as Pam Spigarelli and Jenny Howland for the Desperados. Nicole Cross and Anna Marchesotti each scored two goals to lead the Pandas to a 4-1 victory over Plymouth Four. Striker Liz DeMatia and defender Colleen Regan were superb in the win. The Rowdies topped Farmington One 3-0, getting a shutout from goalie Tara Rivera and goals from Karen Cavanaugh, Catherine Donkers and Cindy Tolstedt. Kristen Gazley and Andrea Barber turned in good games for the winners.

UNDER 14 GIRLS: Despite Denise Akrohn's goal, Plymouth Four defeated the Demons 2-1. Shari Bogetta and Erin Martin played well for the Northville team. The Wildcats had to settle for a 0-0 tie with Plymouth Five, with goalie Dana Roslinski and defender Colleen Pawlak turning in outstanding games. Jacquie Trausch played well on the line. "Sarge" Schuermann continued her unstoppable scoring with all four Warriors goals in a 4-4 tie with Farmington One. "Lou" Niewkoop and Jenny Dragon turned in fine games for the Warriors. Plymouth One topped the Spicers 3-0, although Anne Coseo and Kristen Abitz played outstanding games for the Northville team.

UNDER 17 GIRLS: In a cross-town battle, the Wildcats defeated the Angels 5-1 in action June 9. The Foxes were victorious, handing Plymouth One a 3-1 defeat.

UNDER 17 BOYS: Getting a "great team effort," United picked up a tie against the Plymouth Chicos June 3. Also that day, B.R. Bohan scored in a 2-1 Arsenal loss to the Plymouth Braves — despite a "whole team effort" from Arsenal. The Raiders burned Livonia 57 on goals by S. Kibit and R. Gird and the defensive play of goalie G. Stocker and back G. Berlin. M. DeMatia also played well in the win. On June 10, a short-handed Tornadoes squad fell to the Farmington Raiders 10-0. S. VanderHolen and the Goode brothers played strong games for the Northville team. United prevailed over Livonia 55-4 on three goals by M. Yeto and one by L. Carter. A. Trosen's defense contributed to the shutout. The Plymouth Chicos topped Arsenal 2-0. The offensive MVP was P. Stocklin.
