GOP trustee candidates explain positions

By KEVIN WILSON

When township voters troop to the polls for the primary election August 7, the only contested local race is for the township board of trustees.

Executive officers for the coming four-year term are all but established Susan Heintz for supervisor, Georgina Goss for clerk and Richard Henningsen for treasurer are all running unopposed in the Republican primary and there are no Democrats declared for these positions.

Also set are the constables, James Schrot and Joseph Lukomski, who are also unopposed.

The primary has traditionally been the deciding election in the township, which leans heavily to Republicans. Few declared Democrats even bother to enter the race. This year there are seven Republicans and one Democrat up for election to the four trustee seats.

That means one of the four GOP members selected in the primary could be beaten in November — a rare prospect. The lone Democrat in the field is Michele Demers of Dundalk Court, a mechanical engineer and consultant to Ford Motor Company.

On the Republican side are three returnees from the 1980 election, one later appointee and three newcomers. Incumbents seeking another term are James Nowka of Bradner Road who is in sales and service in lubricants, Richard Allen of Stratford Court and Thomas L.P. Cook of Steepleview. The latter two are Ford engineers.

Recent appointee Donald B. Williams of Sunnydale, an electrical contractor, is seeking election in his own right. The remaining candidates, with Demers, applied for the position the board voted Williams into. Gregory Dawson of Beck Road, an insurance salesman and former Jaycee president, and Myron Kasey of Jamestown Circle, a consulting engineer, were both dropped from the list of applicants for the board vacancy - Dawson because he was out of town and applied after the deadline, terviewed. Republican candidates were interviewed by The Record staff last week and the following is a summation of their answers to a standard list of questions. Marilyn Little, of Steepleview, failed to respond to a request for an appointment prior to this week's press deadline. Demers will be interviewed prior to the November election, since she is unopposed in her primary. Short biographies of the candidates and 200word position statements will be published in a special section inside next week's Record.

Why are you running for trustee?

Incumbents Nowka, Allen and Cook all said they believe the current township board is among the best available and that they wish to continue in the current vein. Each expressed a degree of personal satisfaction with the progress of the township over the past four years. Allen said that "it was a zoo before - things were unpleasant around township hall. We've worked too hard to see it go down the drain."

Williams said he has been interested 'all my life in people and helping people." He described a new-found fascination for politics and suggested higher ambitions. "I would like to be secretary of state," he said.

Dawson said he believed he had something to offer the board that it does not now have — the perspective of a resident in his mid-30s. "I think I could put back a little feedback about how people my age view the township," he said.

Kasey, like Williams, cited a long interest in helping people and noted his

on renovation at high school

Though groundbreaking for new construction at the high school has been delayed until the state fire marshal gives his approval, Northville residents can rest assured that renovation of the 25-year-old facility is well under way.

Although buildozers and cranes have not yet arrived on "the hill," renovation of the pool area and boiler room has been in full swing since the board of education approved contracts for the work in June.

Crews working on the site "have all but gutted the pool," School Superintendent George Bell said Thursday. Key parts of renovation in that area include the replacement of the deteriorated layin ceiling with a new ceramic-coated high humidity type ceiling and the cleaning of all piping as well as replacement of main valves.

Work crews already have begun pulling off the old ceiling and work is under way on cleaning all salvageable piping.

on replacement of the school boilers.

"The rest of the plan is ready to go," the superintendent noted. "We're just waiting for the fire marshal's ap-

Bell explained that state cutbacks have left the fire marshal's staff shorthanded, therefore, leaving the district on hold until final approval of the proposed plans can be made.

Bell said the administraton and ar-chitects still are looking at a September, 1985, completion date despite the present delays.
"We know that kids and bulldozers will be together in the fall," Bell said in reference to anticipated work on new construction areas. However, he added that a job plan has been devised to allow as little disruption to the academic program as possible.

Decline in park upkeep blamed in recent crimes

Public concern has increased recently over the security and appearance of Hines Park, the county-administered park extending from Northville and Northville Township through Plymouth and Plymouth Township, Livonia and communities further southeast.

Two recent abduction crimes involving an assault in Northville Township, the other the discovery of a murdered youth's body in Westland have spurred criticism that the deterioration of park grounds is at least partly to blame.

'These last two years have seen the worst-ever condition of the park," said County Commissioner Mary Dumas (who represents Northville and Northville Township) at a news conference

Monday. Commissioners Joseph Jurkiewicz and Kay Beard also were at the conference, and both declared their belief that park maintenance has not been given a high enough priority by the state agencies overseeing the deployment of young workers hired under the summer job program.

While the commissioners agreed patrols of the park are reasonably vigilant, they stressed that the poor upkeep of the park keeps citizens from using it and thereby being a deterrent

The Road Commission is charged with maintaining upkeep of the park. But the three county commissioners said the park's condition continues to be poor despite an increase in funding for park maintenance and security in the 1983-84 county budget over the previous

"There is money in the park fund to maintain the park," Jurkiewicz said. 'Had the park been maintained properly, hopefully we would have discovered

Busy downtown activity schedule this weekend Folk festival is Sunday Sidewalk sale expands

By KEVIN WILSON

Regular visitors to Tom Rice's Folk and Bluegrass Festival to benefit Huntington's Disease research will notice some changes in the eighth annual event this Sunday, while those who have stayed away in the past may want to take a look this year.

The event has been shortened to one day, July 29, while more activity is planned at the Ford Field venue than in any previous festival. The shorter schedule makes for a stronger line-up of performers, Rice says, leaving no dull spots in the eighthour program of music. And if a particular stage attraction is not of interest, there are plenty of other things going on to keep visitors busy.

Most of the new activity is aimed at getting spectators actively involved — demonstrations of clogging, dulcimer construction and playing, and guitar construction and playing. There will also be plenty of food and beverages for sale, with all proceeds going toward the event's contribution to Huntington's.'As always, visitors are invited to bring blankets, lawn chairs, coolers and virtually anything else necessary to enjoy a musically-enhanced family picnic in

A drawing with $1 tickets available at the park or from Rice's Gitfiddler music shop gives visitors an opportunity to win a $750 handmade Taylor guitar with $120 case donated by both Taylor and The Gitfiddler. Many other prizes have been donated by Northville merchants, and Rice is still seeking taxdeductible contributions to the prize

But the main event is music, and the music has not taken a backseat to the surrounding attractions, Rice says. And he thinks some who would enjoy the event are staying away out of misunderstanding.

"Some people think of bluegrass as country, and it's not," he says.
"Bluegrass and string bands have all-acoustic instruments — we don't use electric guitars or those heavy drums you hear in country music."

As for the difference between a string band and a bluegrass band, Rice says it's mostly a matter of the energy level. 'String music is the old mountain music, it's an American adaptation of European folk music," he says. "It uses fiddle, an open-back banjo and hammer dulcimers. It's softer than bluegrass, which is not as old, more American and features a harder-driving resonator banjo and Appalachian dulcimers.'

The annual clearaway sidewalk sale of the Northville Merchants' Association is being expanded to a two-day event this weekend with merchants putting out sale tables beginning at 9 a.m.

Friday. The downtown streets will be closed Saturday as organizations and individuals join the merchants' sale, taking booth spaces to sell crafts, food and antiques from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

This year approval has been given by the city to extend the booth spaces on Main east past Church street toward Griswold, adding 45 spaces to make it the largest arts, crafts and antiques sale ever held here. Scott Lapham, who had taken space reservations, reported

Monday 230 spaces had been sold.

John Bueter of the merchants' association appeared before city council July 16 to gain approval to use the added area on East Main with the street to be closed to Hutton.

The council agreed as discussion reassured that traffic would still be able to flow from that part of Main toward Seven Mile. The added space would be available in front of First Presbyterian Church in the parking Bueter reported that Wes Henrikson was offering the parking lot behind his office for parking and that the Wooden Shovel Antiques shop would be closed Saturday.

Bueter and his brother-in-law Lapham, who have been handling the booth space reservations, explained that the request was made to expand the sale area in response to demand for booths and to include more East Main merchants in the annual event.

Council suggested that it might be possible for shoppers to utilize the Ford Motor Company lot for parking and walk west to the sale.

Traffic will be barred from Phil's gas station on West Main east to Hutton and from Mary Alexander Court on Center to Dunlap.

Mayor Paul Vernon expressed the feeling of council members as he said he was pleased to have the sale expanded eastward "encouraging continuity" with East Main businesses.

Bueter told the council that the merchants had sought the extra sale day to "give local residents a first crack" at the summer sale merchandise.

Many local organizations have taken spaces to raise funds for projects, Lapham said, listing the Jaycee Women, Northville Arts Commission, Lioness Club, King's Daughters, Friends of the Library, Northville Pom Pon Girls and the Open Door Church, which will be giving away balloons.

Meijer store opening expected to take place by August, 1985

By B.J. MARTIN

As work progresses on the planned Meijer store at the southwest corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty roads in Northville Township, details of the retail chain outlet's operations are beginning to crystallize.

MacDonald, a western Wayne County attorney and candidate for 35th District Court judge, had some sharp words regarding county executive William Lucas' recent efforts to have him dismissed from the board.

'I hope, now that the court has made its opinion very clear, we can stop this ridiculous political tug-of-war and let this fine staff, including the executive director (Robert FitzPatrick) get on with the business of helping business in Wayne County.'

A court ruling determined that Lucas .. has no appointive authority over the EDC board. He had attempted to dismiss four board members who had voted to reinstate FitzPatrick after an investigation turned up no evidence of the improper spending with which he was charged. MacDonald was a leader in the drive to keep FitzPatrick, Lucas' 1982 election opponent, as EDC direc-

The township supervisor said he is 'more than happy to serve as chairman of an organization that is thought of as the best of its kind in the state of Michigan."

MacDonald first became involved with the EDC when it became the leading proponent of a senior citizen development at the vacated child development center property on Sheldon Road. The $80 million, 1,200unit complex is due to be dedicated in September. The Wayne and Northville EDCs together have reached an agreement with a developer for the parcel after several years of trying.

Because the Northville store will be somewhat smaller (at 185,000 square feet) than the chain's biggest outlets (some as large as 270,000 square feet), there will be few of the accessory shops frequently associated with Meijer. The total picture will be more in line with a clean, crisp look," Lukens explained. Asked if that is an approach specifically tailored to the relatively affluent consumers likely to constitute much of the store's clientele, Lukens said the idea is part of a chain-wide streamlining and redesigning effort.

'We needed a whole new approach that will appeal to a wide spectrum of customers," he said. "We felt we needed to present a more contemporary image to be a good retailer in the '80's. We're upgrading the product line with more brand-name merchandise and offering a couple of new features in the grocery department."

Those features will include meat and cheese cuts made-to-order from the butchery and cheese departments, plus a delicatessen.

Although there are no plans in place specific to the Northville community, Lukens said, "We're open to suggestions. We want to stay involved in every community (where Meijer operates a store) as well as we can do. There are limits to what we can do, but the point is, we're willing to listen.'

Lukens said representatives of the company will likely take part in Chamber of Commerce activities.

Democrats contest 2nd Congressional district primary

By KEVIN WILSON

Among the livelier contests this primary election season is one few Northville voters are likely to note: two Democrats are actively pursuing their party's nomination for the Second Congressional District seat currently occupied by Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth).

Given Northville's GOP-leanings and contests for the Republican nomination in both Wayne County's 10th county commission district and for the township board of trustees, neither Mike McCauley nor Don Grimes is likely to gather many votes here in August. The victor will likely have a difficult time earning any area recognition come November, too. Pursell has con-sistently been the top vote-getter in the

But that likelihood isn't discouraging either Democrat, both of whom say the time is ripe for their party to take over the Second District seat. The district includes Democratic strongholds in Ann Arbor and in Jackson plus a portion of Livonia. Together, those areas have sufficient population, the Democrats say, to offset the GOP advantage in Plymouth and Northville and the many rural townships in several counties that make up the rest of the district.

The two candidates recently discussed their campaigns in an interview with The Record staff.

McCauley, a Plymouth-Canton high school teacher and coach, painting contractor and former Northville resident now living on Curtis Road, and Ann Arborite Grimes, listed as a research economist at University of Michigan, are pushing the federal deficit issue as the key to this election. McCauley is also campaigning hard on behalf of educational spending at the federal McCauley, who boasts no previous political experience, is nonetheless putting up a forceful effort and gathering labor union endorsements left and right. Last week he garnered an endorsement from the Michigan AFL-CIO to add to the UAW, the Steelworkers, Ironworkers, Detroit Area Building and Construction Trade unions and the Southeastern Michigan Building Trades Council.

'That's the first time since the days of Ed Pierce that Sam Fishman and the AFL have endorsed in this district,' boasted McCauley. "Its been a long time since any Democrat in the Second district got any union support."

Grimes, despite having worked in campaigns on behalf of other Ann Arbor area Democrats, is getting less of that kind of traditional party support. The only organization to endorse him so far is the Ann Arbor-based Social Democrats, which determined, Grimes claims, that his economic program was more likely to produce results than would McCauley's more traditionally Democratic approach.

While McCauley stumps virtually every portion of the district, spending a large part of last week going door-todoor in Plymouth Township for instance, Grimes is targeting his effort toward the heavily Democratic areas of the district, all but conceding the small vote in his party's primary in the GOPdominated regions.

If one had to paint a portrait of the two Democrats' positions on the issues, McCauley would come out looking much like presidential nominee Walter Mondale while Grimes looks to be more like a Gary Hart Democrat. Not surprisingly, Grimes was a member of Hart's Ann Arbor-based Michigan primary campaign staff.

While McCauley bemoans the federal deficit and attacks Pursell for voting against education spending, Grimes voting for a freeze, then for the MX), predicts economic disaster if the deficit and have similar liberal positions on is not reduced rapidly and suggests that "all the social programs, all the constituent groups will have to sacrifice" to solve the problem.

Grimes claims the only area of the federal budget needing expansion is in education spending. McCauley, playing up his Michigan Education Association membership, tries to claim that field as his own and also proposes sinking more money into jobs programs.

Both point to military spending as a target for spending reductions, Mc-Cauley particularly stressing wasteful purchasing practices at the Pentagon.

Both are supporters of a bilateral nuclear freeze; both oppose the MX missile plan (and attack Pursell for abortion and ERA supporters).

Differences are most visible on economic issues, where Grimes claims his background as an economist gives him an edge. McCauley proposes a domestic content law for domestic manufacturers while Grimes scoffs at domestic content as a bad trade policy and suggests that applying such a law only to domestic manufacturers is an even worse idea than erecting trade barriers to importers.

Both Democrats back the idea of a government-labor-management council similar to that proposed by Hart and Chrysler chairman Lee Iacocca, among others.

Both hit again and again at Pursell. McCauley claims Pursell's attendance record in Congress is poor and that he has failed to propose significant legislation in his latest term of office. Grimes targets Pursell's votes on economic issues, saying he has sided with sunbelt states against Michigan's interests, has opposed all efforts to reduce the deficit and is generally a supporter of administration economic policy Grimes blames for impending doom.

"Between high interest rates and the deficit, we're looking at economic disaster, literally. On the scale of the '30s," Grimes charges. "We are so overextended that when a crisis hits, and a crisis always comes along, we're not going to be able to cope with it. We Grimes proposes extensive re-writing of the federal tax structure, blaming the current structure for discouraging saving and investment. He favors a fairly recent cash-flow based tax, but acknowledges "it would take several years to implement, if at all." In the meantime, he would suggest alterations that encourage savings.

Both candidates, political neophytes though they may be, say they act out of powerful urges to protect future generations. They say, in very similar words, that they chose to run because they see for the first time in history a future in which the next generation has a lower standard of living than the one preceding it. Each used the following phrase, word-for-word: "The doors to opportunity are being closed."

As to Michigan's problems, both lay the blame in part at Pursell's doorstep for not bringing sufficient federal spending back to the state. Both point out that the state receives less than 70 cents in-federal money for each dollar sent to Washington while wealthier sunbelt states collect more than $1.20 on each dollar of federal tax.

This may be a primary election with only one Democrat to survive, but the two candidates are foregoing much sniping at each other, instead trying to make Pursell and who is most qualified to defeat him, the issue. Whichever one succeeds, the GOP representative is likely to face stronger opposition than

Stolen car 'torched' in Hines Park field

In the City . . .

City Police and Fire departments brought under control a car fire caused by arson at dusk Monday in Hines Park. Reported stolen from the Westland Mall parking lot the night before, the car was discovered on a dirt road adjoining the northernmost entrance of the park on Hines Park Drive just south of Seven Mile Road, near Baseball Field Number One.

The car had been "torched" shortly before 8:07 p.m., when City Police patrol officers first discovered the fire and tried to put it out with portable fire extinguishers.

·At that time the car was in flames and billowing large clouds of black smoke that were visible from a mile away. The City Fire Department was called and finally put the blaze out as a group of parkgoers who had been nearby watched.

The murder victim Jurkiewicz referred to was 14-year-old Kenneth Myers of Ferndale, who was last seen prior to his death Monday evening, July 16, riding his bike to look for a summer job. According to an autopsy report, Myers died of strangulation between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. Monday, July 16.

His body was not discovered until the following Wednesday. Two boys who were going to the Rouge River found his body shortly before noon near a park drive close to Ann Arbor Trail and Hines Park Drive in Westland.

A week earlier, a 30-year-old Livonia woman was assaulted in the township part of the park by a man armed with a switchblade. According to a police account, the assailant approached her from behind at a Farmer Jack supermarket at Plymouth and Inkster roads.

The assailant took her keys and purse and ordered her into the trunk of her car. He drove her to the Northville Athletic Field in the township, and assaulted her there at knifepoint before fleeing on foot when a truck, believed to be a maintenance truck, passed near-

Redford Police and the Wayne County Sheriff's Department are continuing to investigate that crime, and the sheriff's department also is still working on the murder case.

siderable cooperation from the police departments of local communities, as well as from civic patrol groups.

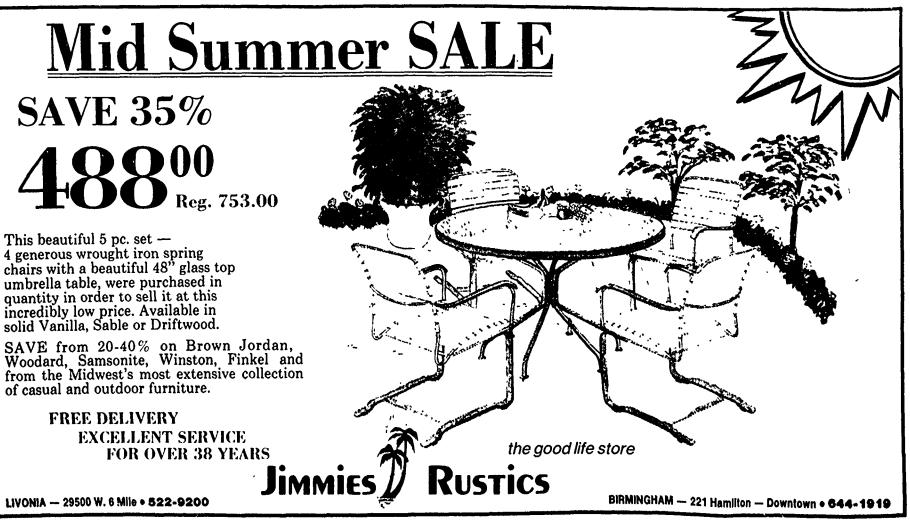

"We've been oriented toward getting the park back to a place where families can go," Ficano noted. Still, he urges caution to parkgoers.

"I'd urge anyone going to the park at night, especially youngsters, to travel in pairs," Ficano said. "You should use common sense. If I were a parent, I'd caution youngsters about the problems that have occurred in the park."

Hamily Ties: Facing death together

A kiss in return for a hug from granddaughter, Stephanie

Joanne and Bill share a quiet moment

Watching over Bill during his last days were son Paul and daughter Nancy (center) with hospice primary Shirley Beason

You know, he never once said, 'Why me?'

Joanne gives Bill his morning shave hortly after midnight on July 8, Bill 📜 Gearns died at home. Surrounded by family and friends, the 52-year-old former maintenance worker and volunteer fireman ended his almost year-long battle with cancer. In contrast to the stark hospital room where

Bill had spent several months in grueling chemotheraphy, his death in his Butler Street home seemed a more fitting end for a man who reveled in his role as husband and father.

For his wife Joanne and five children — Dianne LaPrise, Nancy Cash, Cindy, Bill and Paul — Bill's death ended a close family togetherness.

Though Bill Gearns' struggle with cancer was not unlike those of other victims, his family's decision to bring him home despite the debilitating illness was indicative of their determination to let him live the remainder of his life with pride and .

"The doctors had given up on him," Joanne ex-plains of Bill's hospital treatment once doctors had, determined his prognosis was terminal. "I was fighting them tooth and nail down there just to keep him alive." On May 12, in an act of desperation, the Gearn-ses admitted Bill to Hospice of Southeastern "The week before Bill went there (hospice), the doctors at the hospital were only giving him hours,"

"The attitude at hospice was completely dif-ferent," she notes. "Everybody cares because everybody's in the same boat."

After a 12-day stay at the hospice facility in Southfield, Bill was brought home.

His bed — placed in a downstairs room off the front entrance — became a focal point for family activities and frequently was surrounded by family, friends and his dog, Duke. Among Bill's most frequent visitors was his hospice primary (volunteer support) Shirley Beason, a Northville resident who lost her husband to cancer last year. Shirley, who knew Joanne prior to Bill's illness, says she asked to serve as Bill's primary and was a constant source of emotional support for the family. Joanne notes that while hospice only masked Bill's symptoms, he was in virtually no pain during the last few months of his life.

"Hospice really gave us a reprieve," Joanne explains, noting that despite Bill's immobility, the family took him - bed and all - almost everywhere they went. "We took him to the Memorial Day parade, the carnival, to the Waterwheel for pie and coffee, just about everywhere," she notes.

In the week before his death the family took a trip to Canada for the Freedom Festival.

While the family credits hospice with giving Bill the ability to live — and die — with dignity, their efforts during his last months provided the spirit which kept Bill going. Joanne kept a nearly 24-hour vigil beside her husband during his last months — catering to his needs both day and night until his death.

"You know, he never once said 'Why me?," his wife reflects. "He fought until everybody said 'It's okay, you can go now."

For a man of simple means and few materialpossessions — save for a collection of music boxes, his first silver dollar and an old cow bell brought by his family from Ireland — Bill Gearns seems to have left an indelible mark on those left behind.

In March, friends of the Gearns organized a $5 per person "appreciation dinner" for the family and raised more than $2,000 to help pay off debts incurred during Bill's illness.

'We had not received a check from January." through April," Joanne explains, noting the family was in pretty dire straits after Bill took a medical retirement after 16 years as a maintenance worker with Northville Public Schools.

Memorial Tuesday for Elizabeth Etz

Elizabeth Etz, a Universalist minister and retired teacher from the Wayne County Training School, died Monday at Hendry Convalescent Home in Plymouth after an illness of several months. She had just celebrated her 84th birthday June 22.

She had been an active resident of the Northville community from 1938 until she moved to the Plymouth Towne Apartments in the fall of 1981.

A memorial service will be held at 7 .m. Tuesday, July 31, at Casterline Funeral Home with the Reverend Joan Kahn Schnieder of Farmington Hills Universalist Unitarian Church officiating.

Miss Etz was known for her outstanding collection of Hummel prints, at one time the world's largest, and other Hummel pieces. She lectured on Sister Berta Hummel and had visited her home in Germany. She also was an accomplished china painter.

She was born June 22, 1900, in Ohio to George E. and Frances A. (Rogers) Etz. She received her BA and MA degrees from Tufts and Boston University, majoring in religious education. After teaching nursery school in Concord. New Hampshire, she came to Detroit in 1929 to teach in a private school run by Marcella Douglas.

This began a lifetime friendship as the two women then taught in private school in Grosse Pointe for 10 years.

After Mrs. Douglas became principal at Wayne County Training School, Miss Etz joined the staff and later was appointed also as protestant chaplain there, serving in that capacity for 10

During that time she studied for her ordination and officially was ordained a Universalist minister. She frequently performed weddings, christenings and

In the early 1960s both Miss Etz and Mrs. Douglas retired and purchased a house on Rogers where they lived together until they moved to Plymouth for health reasons.

Miss Etz was a member of Northville Woman's Club, Sarah Ann Cochrane Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club. She served as chaplain for 15 years in the DAR chapter and also was active in all the organizations, serving in elective and appointive of-

It is suggested that memorial tributes may be made to Ferry Beach Park Association, 5 Morris Avenue, Saco, Maine, 04072, in care of Mrs. Lutta A.

JACQUELYN RIDDELL

Jacquelyn E. Riddell, a Northville resident since 1972, died July 18 at her home after an illness of several years.

She and her husband Raymond had been active members of the Northville Historical Society. He had served as its president, and they had opened their home for the Northville Home Tour when they lived on Dunlap.

Mrs. Riddell also was a member of Northville Newcomers and Questers. She was born May 31, 1933, in Rochester, New York, to John B. and Jena (Potter) Eagle. In addition to her husband she leaves sons Reid M. and Jason of Northville and Royd of Arabia and her father, John Eagle in Rochester.

Funeral arrangements were made by Casterline Funeral Home and were private. The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

HERMAN J. KRAUTER

Northville resident Herman Jacob Krauter, 68, died unexpectedly July 17 at Botsford General Hospital. Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. Thursday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church where he was a member.

Pastor Charles Boerger officiated at the service. Interment followed at Oakland Hill Memorial Gardens in

Mr. Krauter, who was born February 12, 1916, on a farm in Garden City, came to the community in 1942. He had lived in Canton Center and attended school in Plymouth. He was the son of Christian and Bertha (Albrecht) Krauter.

Mr. Krauter was a retiree from Standard Tube Company in Detroit.

He was married to the former Katherine E. Green who survives. He also leaves sons Chris A. of South Lyon and Ronald Birtles of North Carolina; three sisters Mrs. Elsie Reddeman and Mrs. Irene Rowland, both of Plymouth, and Mrs. Leona Travis of Cadillac; two brothers Arthur of Redford and Wilbur of Northville: and four grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one son,

While workers are in the process of renovating the key areas of the pool, other work to be completed includes lighting replacement, removal of framing at ing caulking in walls and resealing with silicone, refinishing bleachers, grouting the entire tile shell of the pool and patching broken tile in the pool deck and locker rooms, replacing toilet partitions in toilet rooms and providing concrete locker benches in the locker senior citizens village on Sheldon, expansion of the police and fire departments. How they stood on these issues differed, however.

Township candidates describe positions

Since these three topics are covered in more depth under succeeding questions, the answers described here are only those that went beyond these Nowka said he is very impressed with the gains made in "continued good rela-tionships with the whole Northville community." He recalled the days of a perceived adversarial role between township and city that he said is gone and suggested one goal for the coming term is to maintain friendly relations.

Allen noted two improvements that he wishes to see maintained. "We did a good job on the business end of cleaning up the township, we had that deficit when we came in. And we've insisted that people (working at township hall) respond to people. Even if we can't always tell them what they want to hear, all citizens deserve a response from their government when they have a request or complaint."

Cook, Kasey and Williams all put some stress on seeing the Haggerty Road sewer project through to completion. Other candidates accepted it as a given fact.

Dawson hit on two perennial township concerns - getting some of the state and county-owned non-taxable land onto the tax rolls as private development and maintaining the "residential character of the township. Northville is a small community — people moved here as a residential area. I know Northville is going to have to grow, but I'd like to see business development controlled and retain residential on about 90 percent of the property.'

Development: Some feel Northville Township should pursue business and industrial development to broaden the tax base while others wish to prevent such development. Would you support the idea of offering tax abatements to attract commercial and industrial

This question produced perhaps the widest range of responses, from Dawson's near-total opposition to such development to Kasey's nearly unquestioning belief that pursuing industry is what he'd like the township board to do.

Kasey advocates pursuing industry and creation of an smokeless research center that takes advantage of the township's easy freeway access and central location between Detroit, Lansing and Ann Arbor. "It should blend right in with the community," he said. 'What we would do is entice them, offer them a tax break for a certain period of time to build here and broaden our total tax base.

"Take the cost of the police department — now the community is going to grow one way or another and you're going to need more police officers. How much of that cost can the homeowner bear? Some light industrial and commercial development could take care of Dawson, on the other hand, completely rules out tax abatements and other incentives, while saying that some industrial and commercial development is needed "because we need something to sort of build the town around. We have people in the township who need jobs and if it's performed properly, I think there are areas in the township where it's appropriate.

"If we control it like we did Meijer's I think that's going to be an attractive building — it should fit in. If they are just going to put up a cinderblock building, then I'd oppose it," Dawson said. "I don't think tax abatement to attract people is any kind of priority."

Nowka said he would not pursue industry with enticements. "It's going to have to come to us," he said. "It's com-ing all around us in Novi, in Plymouth. We've had a beginning with Meijer's. The zoning more or less controls its expansion. Our biggest pressure for commercial is going to come in the Six Mile and Haggerty area, where our master plan shows commercial.

"Industrial development is sort of hit or miss. The largest thing to benefit us will likely be some spillover from the industrial developments on the south side of Five Mile in Plymouth Township," Nowka continued. "What we'd want in our southwest corner (Five and Napier, zoned industrial) is small, clean, smokeless industry. That area is going to begin to develop at Five and Sheldon (in Plymouth) where they're building that complex."

Allen questioned the value of luring commercial developers to town. "I think it may bring in tax base, but it also increases your costs for police and fire. With the Meijer development I think it will be pretty much a wash - 1 think you'll see most of the tax generated there put right back into your police department.

"So to abate taxes, what have you really accomplished?" Allen foresees, but laments, fairly rapid development of the east side of the township with completion of the Haggerty sewer. "I frankly enjoy that rural atmosphere. I like the idea that when you cross the line into Northville Township it opens up like that. But you've got to understand it's eventually going to be developed — people own that land and have a right to develop just as others have developed here.

"The long-range planning priorities are for a bedroom community, and we expect to keep it that way."

Cook left the door open for some tax reduction to encourage development of areas already zoned commercial or industrial, on the condition "that so-meone came to us, maybe, in that area already zoned industrial with a special project. I'd consider it."

Williams said tax abatement "should be done to encourage development of the areas already designated for commercial and industrial development and broaden our tax base." As for where such development should occur, Williams said he "would go along with what is established now — if it's somewhat isolated in the corners of the township, which is where I think it is. I'd rather see (the township) staying primarily residential.'

Police and fire expansion: Do you support the proposal for a fire station on the west side of the township? Do you think operating that station will require more full-time firefighters and do you foresee expansion of the police department in the next four years?"

All candidates support the August ballot propositions for fire millage and acquisition of property for a fire sta-

Kasey put forward a proposal for fairly rapid expansion of the police department over the next four years, calling for a doubling in staffing during that period. The ratio of police officers to population is too low right now, he asserted. Financing of the expansion is "something the trustees are going to have to work out."

Williams said he wants to "keep the police and fire departments adequate. I favor the reserve system in the police department and our volunteer fire department. I intend to become a certified firefighter myself." He does foresee police expansion to respond to township growth, saying money for additional officers will have to come from further development of the township together with earmarked police

Allen said he hopes a new firehall does not require more fulltime employees in that department. He praised the volunteer operation for efficiency and, like most of the candidates. cited chief Robert Toms' efficiency in acquiring equipment at low cost.

'Part of the overall benefit of the new station will be faster response to fire runs on the west side and the possibility of better insurance rates for the entire township," Allen said. The police department will "have to grow" in response to township growth, but that should be done only as tax revenues expand with development, Allen sug-

Nowka said he thinks one of the township government's strengths has been "appropriate growth of our departments and services. We haven't anticipated growth and wasted money that way, but we've grown at the right times when it was needed."

An additional fulltime firefighter is a real possibility" with opening of a new station, Nowka said, noting that he's long been a supporter of the volunteer force but that "with two stations, they'll have to work out a way to staff it." As for police expansion, Nowka said he'd "like to hold that down as much as we can - that's the most expensive department that we have in the township. We'll add what we need."

Cook said he anticipates "at least one more fulltime person to staff the new station" but that he hasn't examined the issue in depth and "would like to hear what Bob Toms has to say about that — maybe they can do it with shifts of the volunteers."

Police expansion, in Cook's view, depends on our population growth. The police are doing an adequate job now. If we add people to the community, it will probably have to grow. It depends on how much we can afford."

The latest proposal for the senior citizen development on Sheldon would require rezoning to allow some housing open to tenants other than seniors and there is also a request for tax abatement on part of the property. How do you feel about those two items?

Dawson was alone in opposing both the rezoning and abatement. "The people proposing this seem to be using the senior citizen thing as a stepping stone to build something that will bring them more money," Dawson said. "I would like to see the whole thing as senior citizens. That's a very nice complex over there and I'd like to see it awarded to someone who would build what it was

"As for tax abatement, the way they proposed it, I'd say 'no,"" Dawson continued. "If they made it 100 percent senior citizens, then I'd say 'yes.""

Kasey said he would definitely abate taxes on a portion of the property in order to get the rest on the tax rolls. He also supported the mixed-age population proposal. Williams also supported both the abatement and rezoning in order to get the untaxed property developed.

Nowka, Allen and Cook all had similar positions on this question, indicating a willingness to rezone to accommodate the new plan and a more reluctant response to the abatement

Nowka stressed the importance of the township overseeing the development at each step to insure it is an attractive site, since it occupies a central position in the community.

Allen said rezoning "has to be for the benefit of the development and not solely for the benefit of the developer." On the abatement question, he said, "I don't like it, but I think it's something we may have to live with. If it gets down to a question of abating taxes or abandoning the project, it's something we're going to have to do."

Cook said he thinks tax abatement silly. The whole point of this thing is to put that land back on the tax rolls. If we abate the whole thing, we've not accomplished anything." Abatement on a minimal area, he suggested, might be needed but there has to be an overall

As to rezoning, Cook said he is willing "because I guess the developer needs the money to make it work. What I'd really like to see would be someone take that plan the Lawrence (Institute of Technology) kids did and use that. That was the best plan we've seen yet. I want to see it go back more toward the senior citizen emphasis."

Our final question is a long-standing one in the township — do you support the idea of a fence around Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital?"

Kasey was alone here in questioning the need for a fence, saying "anyone who wants to get out will get out, fence or no fence. Maybe some more policing within themselves could solve the problem.

Dawson approached the question similarly but came up with a different conclusion. Noting he worked summers at NRPH while in school, he said the major problem is understaffing and the inability of the hospital to supervise patients continuously.
"A majority of the problem, I think, is people who are disoriented and don't know where they are. A fence would stop them wandering around our neighborhoods and causing problems for our police," Dawson said. "Ideally, the state would increase staffing, but they're not going to do that, so it looks like we need a fence. The fellow who wants to get away will still get away, I don't care if it's a 20-foot fence with barbed wire at the top, but most of them leave town pretty quickly.'

Williams said a fence is needed all the way around the hospital grounds and not just on three sides as in the latest proposal. "Those bushes," he said. "are a joke. Walkaways are running up to 50 a month, returns are at about 23 a month. There has to be something done.'

Nowka said the township's only alternative is to keep pushing the state for a

City turns past due tickets over to agency

Looking at a considerable number of delinquent parking violation tickets considered uncollectible by the city, council members at their July 16 session expressed approval of a proposal by City Manager Steve Walters to turn them over to a collection agency.

Walters explained that the city had been "trying a two-notice approach but that the second notice received a 'nil' response, especially from transients." He estimated the city usually has about 20 to 25 percent of its tickets outstanding. 'It's 'found money' that we wouldn't get otherwise," said council member Paul Folino.

Walters explained that the agency takes 40 percent of the amount collected and that an ordinance amendment would be necessary to turn the violations over to an agency and increase the fine schedule for overdue tickets.

An opinion from the city attorney obtained for council stated that "the court has held in clear and unmistakable language tha the munipality has an implied power to provide for enforcement of its ordinances by reasonable and proper fine."

Walters' recommendation also included the suggestion that, when six or more delinquent tickets accumulate for one person, they are to be sent to court to hold against license renewal. Relating that at present a second notice has been ineffective, Walters stated, "local residents pay their tickets on time or in response to the first notice, and the city can follow up

"In contrast, the transient violator can successfully ignore the city notice because he cannot be contacted directly by the city, and because he is not likely accumulate six tickets with the city.

Walters recommended that the city contract with Financial Collection Agencies (FCA) in Southfield to collect the delinquent parking tickets when there is no response to the city's late notice.

Walters said use of a collection agency probably would improve response to the first notice and would be fairer because non-local violators would be less able to ignore the ticket.

'Omnicom of Michigan must reverse this trend of losses and begin to generate profits if it is to remain an economically viable entertainment alternative to the communities it serves," Trenary concluded.

Walters and the city council also received a letter from Omnicom general manager Frederick G. Collman with Trenary's letter and financial statements. They included the December 31, 1983, balance sheet and statement of income and accumulated deficit to that date as well as projection through the end of this year.

Collman wrote that "Omnicom is a fine cable system. Our local origination department is second to none in the region for the variety of programs we produce and in the commitment to make local cable television programs a viable service to our subscribers and communities.'

He noted that Omnicom and the City of Northville were chosen as the test for reading municipal gas and water meters and said Omnicom was "at the forefront of the industry in attempting to work out an arrangement with existing security companies to utilize our system for residential security."

"Our goal is to provide the best in customer service. To that end all departments are constantly being trained in their fields. Sales representatives, customer service representatives, technicians, all receive ongoing formal and informal training."

The Starting Gate Lounge, now getting the finishing touches put on its 135 North Center location, should be open around the middle of August, owner James Rea said Monday.

Two area residents are richer this month because of the Michigan lottery. Among four Wayne County residents winning $5,000 in the instant lottery game, "Yes M!ch!gan," is Robert A. Mersman of Northville.

"Yes M!ch!gan" is designed to help promote travel in the state and its unusual prize structure should have strong appeal, said Lottery Commissioner Michael J. Carr in announcing the winners this month.

Tickets feature six rub-off spaces

Matching any three wins that prize. Cash award amounts are $5,000, $50, $5 and $2. Top prize is a $500,000 dream that includes a dream home, winter sports package, boat and car.

In a "Joker Plus" Instant Game Grand Drawing in Alpena July 19, Kay B. Caputo of Novi won $5,000. The draw ing also made Stanley J. Karol, 70, of Detroit the 61st millionaire created by the Michigan Lottery.

fence. "I don't know what we have to do to get the fence. It's really been a thorn in our side. The living fence, the hedge idea, is really the joke of the century. I think we have to be a little more dramatic in our appeals. Dealing with the state has been a problem as long as I've been there (10 years).''

Allen's immediate response to this question was, "Too bad they didn't water their bushes - that had potential. It just wasn't implemented right. Yes, I'm a fence supporter. Maybe we want to leave the iront open and let them try the hedge along there." Giving up on this issue is not in the cards for Allen. "We've got (Lansing lob-

Cook, noting that the hospital director has told the township many walkaways are simply confused, said the state "ought to at least let them know where the property ends. Even if its only a sixfoot fence, it would tell them where they are, and are not, allowed to go on a grounds pass.

"I still like the idea of a living fence," Cook continued. "It was the best compromise we had available and it obviously didn't work. Done properly, I think, it would stop the people from walking away and make the township people happy.

With that in mind, take a look at the line-up for Sunday's festival (all performers donate their time).

Opening the show at 1 p.m. will be All American Bluegrass, a new band featuring Northville resident Dave Kier, whom Rice gives credit for assisting with organization of the festival. "They're a lot of fun. They played in the back of my pick-up at the Fourth of July parade and also at the Mill Race on the Fourth."

Next up at 1:45 p.m. is folk musician Dean Rutledge, a regular on the Detroit area folk music circuit and at the festival. Rutledge is followed at 2:30 p.m. by Joe Vermilion, a former stalwart of the WDET "Whiskey Before Breakfast" show and a traditional folk artist. Vermilion plays mandolin, violin, and the dobro (a sort of steel guitar) and performs a lot of traditional Irish folk tunes.

While on the subject of public radio station WDET (102 FM), Rice advises folk and bluegrass fans to listen to Great Lakes Almanac at noon Saturday and the Arkansas Traveller at 3 p.m. to hear the kind of music to be featured Sunday. Both are to feature a lot of Woody Guthrie music this weekend, in honor of Huntington's victim whose memory the festival serves

At 3:15 p.m. Sunday, festival-goers will be treated to the music of Calico, which brings back the bluegrass band side of the event. At 4 p.m. the schedule calls for the Reel Happy String Band the band with the name Rice says is a perfect description of its music: real happy.

Mustard's Retreat, a folk duo out of Redford, takes the stage at 4:45 p.m. "They just finished recording their fourth album," Rice says. "They're right on the edge of breaking big nationally." The band features Vince Sadowski, who is three-time con-secutive Canadian national banjo champion picker.

Next up is the ever-popular festival attraction — Phoenix, putting out the band's repertoire of contemporary folk music starting at 5:30 p.m. Band member Matt Watroba split organizing responsibilities 50-50 with Rice this year, making possible the return of the festival when the music shop owner thought he would not have enough time this year.

Phoenix has been a star attraction for several years at the festival and never fails to interest the crowd. They'll be followed by Lee King and New Grass, a bluegrass band that had one of its earliest performances at last year's festival. King is also an area resident.

Northville folk guitarist Neil Woodward plays at 7 p.m. in the last scheduled 45-minute set. The festival is slated to continue to 9 p.m. and traditionally has continued beyond the established ending time with musicians and fans enjoying several encore performances.

Available on the field will be the soundtrack album from the PBS special about Woody Guthrie's life story, with all sale proceeds going toward Huntington's research. Also, for the first time, many of the performers will be selling albums on the field. While the benefit receives a share of all record sales this Sunday, Rice says he hopes those attending track down the albums of performers they particularly like.

"These people are donating their time and many would get $75 per musician for the 45-minute set I ask from them," he says. "I'd appreciate it if people would show their support for these folks by taking an album or two

That's likely a small price to pay atop the $5 minimum donation requested of adults, $2 for senior citizens and $1 for children under 12. Infants in arms are

Research discovery aided by benefit

The eighth rendition of the Folk and Bluegrass Festival to benefit Hun-tington's Disease research has going for it one thing its predecessors never could claim - knowledge that the money raised is producing results.

This year we have got some really ing news about what our work has done," Gitfiddler owner and festival sponsor Tom Rice explains. "In the first seven years of this event we've raised $18,000 toward Huntington's research and for that I thank everyone from the bottom of my heart. With that money, there's been a major breakthrough on Huntington's and any genetic neurological disease.

"The breakthrough was discovered in the field of genetics in Venezuela," Rice continues. "The research doctors took blood tests from large families with a history of Huntington's - one from Venezuala and one from Iowa. In each, either the mother or father had Huntington's and there were at least five children in the family at risk of contracting the disease.'

Those with a diseased parent have a 50-50 chance of contracting the disease, which deteriorates the nervous system.

"What they've found is a consistent peculiarity on chromosome number 4. This peculiarity, through many, many tests, has shown up whenever tested for in large families of at least two genera-Rice reports.

The implications of the discovery are broad. Within the next year, Rice says, researchers expect to find a second force in acquiring money for reasearch marker and within five to 10 years to pinpoint the exact gene that causes Huntington's.

'When they find that gene, they'll be able to tell any individual at risk through a simple blood-test whether or not they are going to have Huntington's Disease," Rice, whose step-sister was a victim, explains. He has two nieces at

"Right now, the best they can do is, if the parent is alive and there are at least four children at risk, they can test and make an accurate prediction," Rice says. "Even that is a big step forward."

Once identified, Huntington's victims would have the necessary information to decide whether or not to have children — since the disease strikes later in life, usually after the victim is 30 years of age or older, those at risk often must make the decision about having a family without knowing if they will place their children at risk.

"Beyond that, research could eventually lead to a cure," Rice says. "By identifying the gene in time, by the grace of God, it may be possible to prevent it. Even now, we may soon be able to alter it or postpone it maybe by starting treatment early. All this just happened in the last six months.'

Timing of the discovery is a little unfortunate, in that Marjorie Guthrie, widow of famed folk musician Woody Guthrie, died only a year or so prior to the discovery. Marjorie was a driving into Huntington's and other debilitating nerve disorders. She often appeared before Congress demanding money for

There is a happier side to this part of the story, however.

"When Marjorie was alive," Rice explains, "each year at festival time I'd pick her up at the airport and we'd go to the Plymouth Hilton, where they always donated the best room for her.

"We'd have lunch and she'd give me the rundown on everything that was going on with Huntington's research," Rice says. "The last year she came (1982), several months before she died, she knew they were coming close to a major breakthrough. She told me they were only a year away. Unfortunately, she never lived to see it. But it happened just as she predicted. She knew it was coming when she died."

In her honor, and for Woody's memory, Rice asks all festival-goers to join in a sing rlong of Guthrie's "This Land is Your Land" at each festival. And with lowered costs and more activity this year, Rice says he hopes to raise another $10,000 for research to speed up the process of gaining more information about the disease.

sought proposals on a regional ambulance system and received bids from Novi Ambulance, CEMS and Fleet Ambulance. Fleet subsequently took itself out of the running.

Quinn has asked that the committee meet again to review service provided by CEMS. Problems with CEMS must be resolved, Quinn charged. "We're asking the council to take another look, perhaps a look by the ad hoc committee is needed.'

Response time is the biggest problem with CEMS, Quinn charged. She noted excessive response times ranging from 12 to 30 minutes. "Residents are upset about response times. You're contract provision that CEMS keep an ambulance in the community has not been kept," Quinn said.

Quinp specifically pointed to an emergency on Clark Street to which Community EMS responded in 11 minutes. "Clark Street is not even one mile from our office. Our life unit just sat and watched as it all took place. It's ridiculous," she said.

Quinn went on to say Novi Ambulance has exerted a lot of effort to promote itself and is being called privately by many residents instead of going through the police department. When they receive private calls, Novi Ambulance informs police that they are enroute to the scene of an emergency. The police dispatchers in turn dispatch CEMS. As a result two ambulances and two sets of paramedics are at the scene, creating a potentially volatile situation,

"We don't want this to get to the point where we're flipping our first aid cards to see who has the most training to find out who should take control of the scene, while the patient lies there and dies," she said.

Quinn noted Novi Ambulance is not requesting that the city reverse itself, but rather that Novi Ambulance be used "when CEMS can't respond or when their ambulance is not in the city where it belongs."

"It's not fair for residents to suffer because an ambulance is not located where it's supposed to be," Quinn said. 'They're suffering now due to a political game ... Something like this must be handled. I want the city council to get this under control."

She said residents also are disturbed to learn they are paying more for ambulance service when they call the police instead of calling Novi Ambulance directly. She alleged that CEMS' higher rates make it more expensive for customers to use police dispatch service.

Collector 'fine' idea

The hearing set by city council for its next meeting on August 6 to make the necessary ordinance changes to place overdue parking tickets in the hands of a collection agency is a good move. City Manager Steven Walters pointed out to council, as he made the recommendation to hire a collection service, that most residents do pay their fines.

He reported that it is transients who do not pay and do not respond to the city's notices. With the Mainstreet '78 renovation, the city eliminated parking meters on its streets, giving shoppers unlimited street parking time on most downtown streets and ample free parking in municipal lots. The violation tickets, therefore, in large measure are for improper parking.

Chief Rodney Cannon says

dinance from 2:30 to 7 a.m. He states he would welcome having an agency collect the unpaid violations and notes that, while not a major one, it is another source of revenue.

Residents who have visitors or some emergency situation requiring overnight parking, Cannon adds, need only call the police department to get permission. The police chief explains that the department keeps a log of such requests and tries to limit such parking to three nights, depending on the situation. The warning on the city notice that such violations would be turned over to a collection agency should be a deterrent to repeat violators.

As the ordinance is amended to provide for the agency collection, the council also will be revising the many are for parking in areas fine schedule. Those who pay proposted as "no parking" during race mptly still will be paying track season or for overnight street reasonable fees — the others will parking, prohibited by city or be adding to the city's revenues.

Folk Festival a plus

Festival has always been a good time for a good cause. This weekend's eighth rendition of the festival organized by music shop good news to spread.

A breakthrough in Huntington's Disease research is heartening news indeed for all those who've participated in the annual fundraiser, whether as per-formers, organizers or simply as spectators. The festival, always dedicated to the memory of folk music hero and Huntington's victim Woody Guthrie, has cause for a real celebration this year. Rice and the regular festival performers should be congratulated for their dedication to this cause and their continued interest in seeing research furthered in search of a often-overlooked gem in Northville's landscape of events. At- preying on innocent victims.

The Gitfiddler's annual Folk tendance figures in the past several years have been good, but not spectacular. It's hard to understand why, since the festival offers one of the best entertainment bargains owner Tom Rice also has some going. Perhaps those who dislike country music do not understand that the festival offerings differ significantly from the commerical Nashville sound that is so prevalent.

The festival makes for a good, inexpensive family outing on a Sunday afternoon or early evening and gives visitors a taste of genuine American music that has a history all its own. For that reason, we're happy to see Rice adding a group of educational activities to the festival scene. We hope everyone who can spare an hour or two will take in part of this year's festival and make the effort to understand it. It can't hurt, and would only help We've long felt the festival is further the effort to eradicate one of the more vicious diseases still

Sale a success story

This weekend the annual crowds along Main and Center clearaway sale of Northville's mer-streets. The Laphams should take chants expands to become a twoday event with merchants setting out tables of summer sale merchandise from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday. Saturday the sale continues from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. with downtown streets closed to traffic and filled with booths of arts and crafts and antiques.

A record number of spaces — about 230 — have been reserved by organizations and individuals with items to sell. For at least a dozen years Chuck Lapham and his son Scott, and now son-in-law John Bueter, have arrived on the scene about 6 a.m. to chalk booth spaces on the streets.

At a meeting earlier this month of the Northville Merchants' Association, which sponsors the event, the Laphams announced that this would be the last year they would head the annual sale of street booths. "We feel it is time for us to let someone else take over," reported Scott Lapham.

This year's record demand for spaces attests to the popularity of the event which draws day-long pride in having established one of the downtown's top attractions. While serving as a sale vehicle for store owners, it also is a summer diversion for residents and visitors.

For some local organizations who take booths, the sale is a major fund-raiser. Mizpah Circle of King's Daughters holds summer baking workshops to stock its booth of homemade pies and other goodies and reports it is its big money-maker to fund local welfare and King's Daughter projects. Similarly, other organizations raise money during the Saturday

The Laphams are to be congratulated for planning the annual sale and for its achieving the reputation the arts and crafts and antique booths have enjoyed. Del Black, who has volunteered to take over the scheduling and sale of spaces next year, has a successful record to follow. We're sure he will continue the tradition of success.

All that's needed now are sunny days through this weekend.

Lunch provides food for thought

One of my favorite things about working where I do is lunch. There's a circle of maybe half a dozen places in Northville and Novi where we Media Bigshots go when we're not brownbagging or seriously dieting.

I usually go to lunch with members of the Novi-Walled Lake News staff (of which I am a part-time member). Sometimes one or two of us won't be able to make it because of some trivial reason like an interview with a political candidate or a fouralarm fire at city hall.

Our cravings, appetites and budgets are remarkably in sync. One day, KJ might want a Mexican dish, another day I might insist we go some place with a reasonably-priced menu and maybe on payday PB might suggest our favorite Chinese

Perhaps the food is the main attraction, but I like to think we have a pretty good combination of conversationalists as well. Mostly the talk revolves around work, but we try to avoid this. Just the other day, LR chastised us for spending the better part of our lunch hour talking about local sewer projects, and we were all duly penitent.

When we don't talk about work, we sometimes talk about those funny areas where men and women see things a little differently. You see, all the Novi-Walled Lake News news reporters/editors are women.

I'm not saying what I learn about the opposite sex from these lunchtime excursions has been revelatory. It's not like my attitude toward women has undergone some John Wayne-to-Alan Alda born-again conversion. What does happen is that I've been able to see the principles of feminism in practice instead of Veteran newspaper readers will recall that back in the Stone Age women writers were directed toward news of the quilting club, weddings and engagements, and as far away from government and business as possible. But my lunch companions are much more comfortable writing up a gritty police report or a zoning issue than a fluffy feature.

Still — maybe because of their encounters with some of the plentiful jerks among the male of my species - my female coworkers had come to doubt whether men take women as seriously as women deserve. Speaking as a card-carrying Typical Male, I told them I thought that by and large, we men do take women seriously and they shouldn't brood about men who

I think my generation has come to view women's place in any profession without raised eyebrows. You say there's a woman police officer on the force? A woman news editor at the Novi-Walled Lake News? A generation before, feminist-sympathisers might have shouted, "Good show!" or "Hooray!" But today, even political middle-of-the-roaders would say, "Big, fat hairy deal."

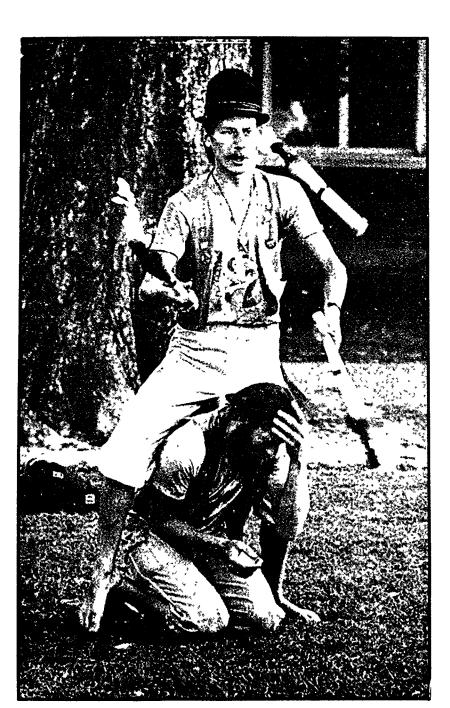

This was on my mind a couple months ago when I told my lunch companions I thought Walter Mondale would pick a woman running mate this year. Cynicism was fashionable (I'm not sure if it still is) and so were my co-workers. Not likely, they said. The country's not ready to accept a woman vice-presidential candidate yet, they agreed. When I told them I thought there was a bonanza of women voters the Democrats could pick up with this simple gesture, they countered that women are frequently their own worst enemies when it comes to fighting for their rights.

I'm not setting up an "I told you so" here. After listening to their arguments, I decided I agreed with them. I reasoned, Who'd know better than they whether women had made sufficient inroads to be taken seriously from New York City to Cow's Lick, Alabama?'

As it turns out, I suspect my male angle actually had been an advantage all along. Geraldine Ferraro is a symbol that a lot of men do respect women. But I also suspect that without talking to my co-workers over a taco salad here or a ham andcheese on rye there, I might not have made that original predic-

EDITOR'S NOTE: Phil Jerome is taking a vacation from column-writing. In its place are excerpts from an exciting new novel. "Duke of the City" by Jerome Phillips. This: is the third of three installments.

Clayton Thornton hadn't been looking for trouble. He'd just gone out for a drink. He hadn't asked the blond to talk to him. Hadn't. forced her to go for a ride. Hadn't meant her to see the .747 magnum. Definitely hadn't wanted her to ask all those questions.

But most of all he hadn't asked the clown in the yellow Mustang to smash his Corvette. I'm going to lose this Bozo, thought Thornton. The blond's acting edgy and now some reject from Ringling Brothers wants to play bumper tag on Eight Mile.

Duke Bullet saw the Vette lurch forward. Sixty. Seventy. Eighty. He eased the Mustang into third and followed easily behind.

Thornton peered into the rearview mirror, saw the Mustang closing fast. "Rats," he said "But if this jerk wants to play rough...."

He told the blonde, "Fasten your

The two cars screamed down Eight Mile. The white Vette and the yellow Mustang on its tail. Thornton veered right onto Woodward with the Mustang right behind.

Bullet shifted into fourth, accelerated and gave the Vette another shot.

"Okay, buddy boy," said Thornton, "If that's the way you want it...."

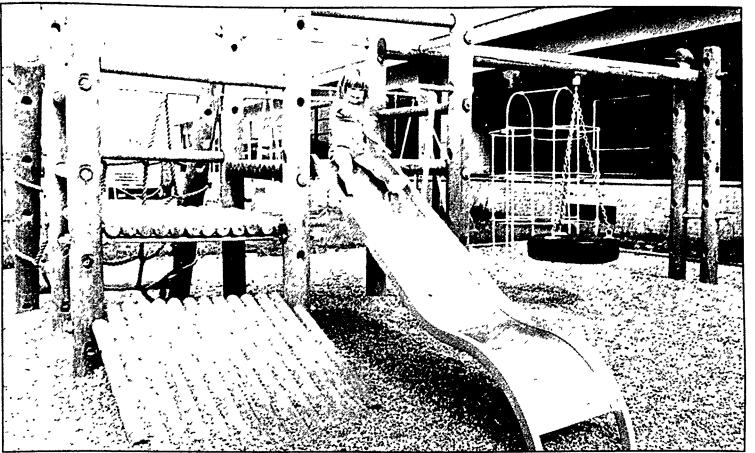

'He turned right on Manchester, careened into an alley, traveled 100 yards or so and screeched to a halt. He reached for the .747.

Bullet didn't like the looks of the alley. No more than he liked the looks of the sleazeball with the blonde. He saw the Vette's brake lights, but had no way of knowing about Clayton Thornton. Or his .747.

He's expecting me to stop, grinned Bullet. He stepped on the gas; the Mustang shot forward.

The move caught Thornton by surprise. Glancing in the mirror, he saw the Mustang accelerate. "Good grief," he said. "What's he doing now?"

Constituents respond to budget survey

If you had control over Michigan's $5.383 billion General Fund-General Purpose Budget, how would you allocate those tax monies?

That question, containing specific areas of the budget, was posed by Senator Robert Geake (R-Northville) in a questionnaire which was mailed district-wide to his constituents.

According to the results, more money would be placed in law enforcement (65.9 percent); environmental cleanup (43.9 percent); and construction and maintenance of highways (42.9 percent). Receiving less money would be mass transit (55.8 percent); low cost housing (50.2 percent); and social services (47.5 percent).

Following is the complete breakdown by percentages of how citizens in Senator Geake's district would allocate state tax monies MORE LESS SAME

Homeowner opposes sewer improvements

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a copy of my letter to the Board of Trustees, Northville Township, regarding the tentative sanitary sewer improvement.

There will be a great number of peo-ple who will be hurt from such a way of assessing. Many property owners just don't fully understand the large expense involved, and then many will not write in like I have. The property owners should be allowed to vote on this issue, not just force it through.

Northville Township Board of Trustees

Dear Board Members:

At the Thursday, July 12, public hearing, I appeared before you and voiced my opposition and objections to the tentative sanitary sewer improvement to service my property at 20300 Spring Lane of Springbrook Hills ... my property borders the second fairway of Meadowbrook Country Club, which would be a very difficult area to connect sewers.

The board heard my statement and Supervisor John E. MacDonald asked the clerk to make a notation in the minutes that I be excluded from the sanitary sewer improvement to service my property. I am writing to confirm record as being against you asking us to fund an improvement for what it appears to be companies as Meijer Thrifty Acres, the Novi Hilton Hotel and the other commercial Interest along Hag-gerty Road, and those to come. These beneficiaries should pay the cost of such improvements.

At this public hearing, I did not ex-

I, like others, request that you table your proposal until you receive approval by the property owners or until you agree to fund the expansion through water and sewer funds similar to the Hines Park Sewer extension.

My taxes have been going up every year since I purchased the property in July of 1972. If I am to be assessed, it will be a real expensive burden to me; Certainly this will then raise my taxes even more. If I have to hire a private contractor for me to hook up, this would be a horrible expense since my home is far from the lot lines. Further, I am sure you will be having a monthly sewer tax from then on.

I just feel this entire project is unfair to assess property owners like myself. The fairest alternative would be to assess all township users of the sewer facilities to fund the Haggerty extension or to find other ways to fund, as Livonia did theirs.

Sincerely, Dr. Albert G. Kalin

A different kind of Schoolcraft College student will require costlier capital equipment while training for the hightechnology jobs of the future.

Ironically, that student will be more likely than his parents to have to change careers before retirement. So he may have to retrain in mid-life.

And Schoolcraft's difficulty is that it must purchase the high-tech equipment at a time when fixed costs such as insurance and utilities eat up a bigger and bigger share of its taxpayer-limited

"People think of us as a two-year college. We're not," said trustee Harry Greenleaf as the board conducted a special meeting on long-range planning. "We're a six-month college, a oneyear college, a life-long college."

Trustees and administrators spent a full evening wrestling with the community college's growth and needs for more space even as census data showed the number of "traditional" 18-20-yearolds will plummet 25 percent between 1980 and 1990.

If that's so, asked trustee Mary Breen of Plymouth, why is the administration talking about 100,000 square feet of additional class and lab space?

Answered Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction: "First, there will be more non-traditional students, more people with four-year degrees, coming to Schoolcraft College.

"Second, we have not properly accommodated all our instructional elements . . . space is at a premium.

Greenleaf agreed. "A person near and dear to me told of studying music here — and having to practice in the women's restroom," said the Ford manager from Livonia.

W. Kenneth Lindner, vice president for business, called Schoolcraft's accommodations for fine arts - art. music, speech and drama "makeshift at best."

. Jeffress' most pressing space pro-blem is finding 100,000 square feet of space for a computer laboratory. And his planning report observed, "Virtually all of the college's laboratory equipment purchased on or before 1975 will require replacement as a result of obsolescence or disrepair by 1985.

. Community colleges saw their greatest growth in the 1960s, when they were a popular way for weak high school graduates to uplift their academic skills for college, and, frank-ly, havens for men avoiding the military draft.

In the 1970s, they increased their vocational-technical offerings.

In the 1980s and '90s, however, they will have to do both. At one point the master plan says:

"Most data shows an increased need for 'technicians' or, more precisely, for two-year community college graduates especially in the following areas: Lasers and optics; holographics; biotechnology; geriatric social workers; battery (fuel cell) technicians; robot technicians; computer programmers; computer repair; bionic technicians . . . But at another point it adds:

"Educational action to prepare for work and active life should aim less at training people to practice a given trade or profession than at equipping them to adapt themselves to a variety of jobs and developing their capacities continuously, in order to keep pace with developing production methods and working conditions."

Here are some of the college administration's "planning assump-

 Labor market — Fewer traditional four-year graduates will be needed. More technically trained people with less than four years of college will be in demand. But because of sophisticated technology, operators will have to know more about the "how" and "why" of their equipment.

• State aid — The state is expected to be unable to "properly finance" its colleges "in the forseeable future." The federal government will help little. But politics will keep the state from reducing its number of colleges.

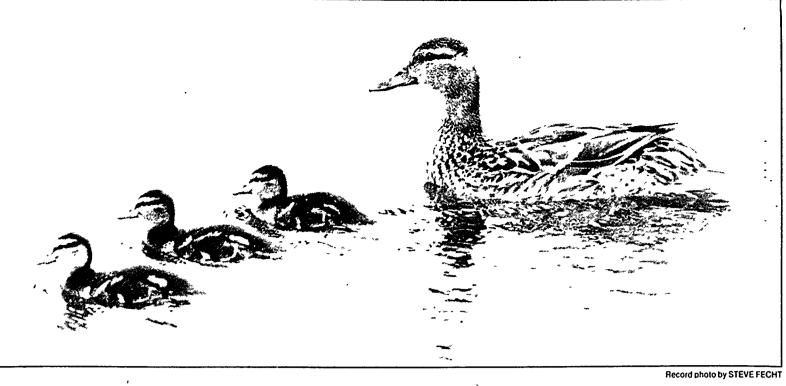

Local finances - A property tax increase "is required within the next three years if the college is to maintain its quality, comprehensiveness and physical ambiance." Trustees shied away from discussing that paragraph, having lost four money proposals on the ballot during the 1970s.

 Quality of students — "Basic skills in math and reading are expected to continue to decline on the average."
Oddly, they may be poor in English skills but strong in computer skills. Up to 40 percent may already hold a bachelor's or master's degree from another college, The community college will become "increasingly less homogeneous."

 Internal budgeting — Each year a larger share of the college's budget will go for such "fixed costs" such as utilities, liability insurance health insurance, postage, retirement costs and rents. Within four years, the college will have no ability to add services or programs without cuts in other areas.
• Faculty — "Significant resources" will be needed to train and retrain the Population — Average ages will rise. The post-World War II baby boom generation will have fewer children than their parents and are competing with their parents for scarce jobs.

Northville's ducks are serving as inspiration for new festival

Date set for first annual Duck Festival

The date is definite — Northville's first Duck Festival will be held Saturday, August 25, with events planned from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

"It's a natural in a community where ducks have gained so much attention, Dr.Leonard Wade, one of the owners of MacKinnon's Restaurant, told Sherry Spaman, president of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which has agreed to sponsor the newest

Dr. Wade and Tom MacKinnon had talked to chamber member Scott Lapham earlier this summer about the idea, and Lapham had brought the suggestion to the chamber. Wade explained that duck festivals have become a popular event in many communities, and MacKinnon had attended a chamber meeting to explain how such festivals were run.

Spaman last week was making arrangements with the Northville Recreation Department to hold an art show of wildlife paintings in the community building. Lapham earlier had approached the city council informally about closing the streets to have booths outside where carvers would carve, compete and sell, but the council had felt booths could be located outdoors on sidewalks and grassy areas around the recreation building.

Spaman said there would be a decoy competition with prizes for the carvers. "Anybody who carves will be welcome to enter," she said, adding that she hoped local decoy carvers would participate. Honorary chairman of the festival will be Larry Haden, well-known wildlife artist, who lives in the area.

For the 1984 first half, we are still rugning nearly 12 percent ahead of last year," said David Jensen, Metro MLS president. "This has slipped from the year-to-year increase of 26.9 percent reported in March.

'At this time last year, when record interest rates had declined to more favorable levels, we were able to report a 64 percent increase from 1982," he continued. "Now the opposite is true. Interest rates are edging back up, freezing more potential buyers out of the market. The sales pace will likely continue to slow unless the interest rate trend can be reveresed.

At $58,248, the average sale price in our territory is up only $605, or one percent from last year. In many of our most active markets, average prices show a sharp drop. For persons ready to make the move, today's prices should still be attractive despite the increased rates."

Metro MLS figures for the first half show sales in northwest Detroit at 1,133, down 8.5 percent from 1983. Sales were up, in many other markets in the portions of Wayne and Oakland Counties covered by the multiple listing service.

End of the line at Kroger

By DIC DOUMANIAN

Most of us will never have to decide between taking a cutback in pay and benefits, or losing our job altogether.

But that is exactly the decision nearly 4,500 Detroit-area Kroger employees recently had to make. The Kroger employees, members of United Foods and Commericial Workers Local 876, voted overwhelmingly not to take the pay and benefit concessions that Kroger Company management had of-

"It's definitely better," said Rick Beck of losing his job as opposed to accepting the cuts. Beck, a full-time clerk, has been with Kroger for six years. He is the union steward for the Kroger store in Milford Township. "It's been very, very hard working for Kroger the last three years with the pressures of the job and the rumors about the future, most of which Kroger started." According to Beck, the vote was five to one against accepting Kroger's proposal.

Before the July 17 vote, Kim Virga, a cashier at Kroger for six years, said she would vote against the proposed settlement. "Kroger is very unreasonanble," stated Virga, a Highland Township resident whose husband also worked for Kroger. "The money they want us to cut back to, you can't even make a house payment with."

Guardian president offers $24 per share

president and chief executive officer William Davidson, a 42.3 percent stockholder in the company, has proposed a buy-out plan that would give him full ownership of the glass firm.

According to the proposal, set forth in a letter the company revealed July 19, each public stockholder would receive $24 per share in cash, excepting one group of individuals in the corporation holding approximately 4.5 million with whom Davidson has already conducted preliminary discus-

This group, which owns slightly more

Guardian Industries Corporation shares, would receive a combination of cash and debt securities with a combined value of roughly $24 per share. The stock closed on the NYSE July 19 at 20 7/8, down from the day before. David-son's letter suggests the acquisition may be undertaken through one or more transactions, with possibilities including a merger, tender offer, negotiated purchase or some combination of these.

Several conditions are placed on Davidson's offer, including completion of a business and legal analysis regar-.ding the acquisition structure and comthan 20 percent of the outstanding pletion of an agreement for repayment or restructuring the company's outstanding debt and for the purchase of outstanding shares owned by the

The Guardian board will consider the proposal at its next regularly scheduled meeting August 15, according to Oscar Feldman, secretary and counsel to Guardian. Feldman said there are no other purchase offers outstanding.

Davidson's letter states that further details regarding the structure of the acquisition should be made available to the board in early fall. He anticipates completion of the transaction by late this year or early 1985.

Feldman said the company will likely appoint an independent committee of outside directors to consider the proposal and make a recommendation to the board after details are made available.

Guardian, headquartered at 43043 West Nine Mile Road (in Novi, with a Northville mailing address) is a multinational manufacturer and fabricator of flat glass products for the construction and transportation in-dustries. Other arms of the firm process film for the amateur photography market and sell insulation materials. Guardian reported net income of $38.1 million last year on revenue of $469.6

Workers refuse Kroger concessions, store closed

Kroger had asked that hourly pay rates be cut from $10.37 to $8.50. The company also demanded the union accepted approximately 40 concessions, including no seniority, a cutback in paid sick and personal days, and pension plan cuts, according to Beck.

Basically, a lot of our rights as employees that we've had in the past would be taken away," said Beck. "We lost a lot more than just wages."

Kroger decided to close 70 of its southeast Michigan stores, including the one in Milford. Nearly 5,000 employees now find themselves without jobs.
"I'm afraid it may have been a union-busting contract," said Larry Whitney said of the Kroger proposal. Whitney, a produce manager, has been with Kroger for 30 years, working in the Milford store since 1961. "They wanted to close these stores up.

Beck agrees. "Kroger was holding all the cards. They weren't listening (to negotiations). They didn't want to bargain. They would have nothing to do with the union's proposal."

While the former employees look for new jobs, the company will be trying to sell its stores.

"They'll get sold right away," predicted Jerry Breen, owner of Breen's IGA stores in Milford and Union Lake. "I bet they'll be open in 30

"We're going to be busy until they reopen. Then people will go back to that store (when it opens)," stated Breen. 'I'd just as soon see them not close. I'm sorry to see it happen. There are a lot of people with a lot of time in at Kroger that are going to lose all that."

Kroger Company has already launched into the food wholesaling business, with Weterau Incorported of Saint Louis. The new venture will be called Foodland Distributors.

Meanwhile, Beck and his co-workers voted themselves out of a job. "For right now I'm not quite sure," Beck said of his plans for the future. "I'm going to look around, collect unemploy-ment for a while. A lot of us are young enough so that we can look for other jobs."

"I wish I knew," responded Larry Whitney when asked about his future. "I've lived in a nice little bubble for 30 years. Kroger treated me well. Now I'm gone.'

Aluminum radiator cores enter preheat chamber of vacuum brazing furnace at Ford's Sheldon plant

Computers play big role in facility

. Computers play a large role in the new vacuum-brazing facility at Ford Motor Company's Sheldon Road facility in Plymouth Township.

The furnaces that do the actual brazing are computer-controlled for optimum operation — automatic operations are necessary since no worker could withstand the near-total vacuum and 1,100 degrees F. temperatures inside the furnace, nor could only one or two people monitor all the variables in-

Quality control is also computerized. The system was developed for statistical process control (SPC), which requires real-time (instantaneous)

For example, a camera inspection system checks header ferrule sizes for 39 different truck radiators or 29 passenger-car radiators in less than a

Another example is a louver checker that verifies the angle of cooling fins in less than two minutes - this is a twoday operation manually, Ford sources reported.

Date collection is aided by computerized information systems throughout the facility. Computer visiion-gauging centers are located in the press, tube, fin and final assembly areas. Critical dimensions are measured and the statistical results fed back to the operator. The information quanitifies the quality of work being done and tells the operator if any adjustments are required.

One gee-whiz feature is a computerbased camera system that reads and records the serial number stamped on top of each radiator. A larger host commeasurements and serial numbers, giving the company a quality history for each and every radiator that comes off the line.

Ford shows vacuum-brazing plant

Ford Motor Company's Climate Control Division displayed a new $38 million facility for vacuum brazing aluminum radiators at its Sheldon Road facility in Plymouth Township July 19. It is expected to generate an additional 200 jobs at the plant, bringing the total hourly labor force there to 1,100.

The new facility complements a similar one in operation since 1983 at a Ford subsidiary plant in Connersville, Indiana. Together, they are the latest step in a conversion by Ford to aluminum radiators.

Edward E. Hagenlocker, division manager, said the aluminum radiators are lighter, more efficient and more reliable than conventional soldered copper/brass units. Weight savings range from 20 to 40 percent, depending on size and application.

With the advantages come some maufacturing problems, however, which are solved by the computerized facility. In the vacuum-brazing process, aluminum radiator components are fused together in electrically-heated furnaces at a temperature of 1,100 degrees Farenheit in a near-total vacuum roughly equivalent to that reached 100 miles in space. Hagenlocker said the two facilities make Ford one of the world's leading manufacturers of aluminum heat exchangers. He said the vacuum-brazing process is one Ford pioneered and has used since the early 1970s to produce aluminum air conditioner evaporators at the Con-nersville plant. The radiators have an aluminum core consisting of stamped headers and side supports, welded tubes and corrugated fins. End tanks and draincock are plastic (glass-

Aluminum radiators are currently used in Escort Lynx, Tempo and Topaz car lines and in Lincoln Mark VII and Continental turbo diesel models. The radiators will be extended to F-series light trucks, Rånger compact pickups and Aerostar vans next year and to other car lines

Plant manager Gerald J. Kania said the new 140,000 square foot vacuum-brazing facility has state-of-the-art equipment with a high degree of automation. Computers are used to control both the process and quality.

Key to the process is making core components from coiled aluminum flat stock clad with a brazing alloy. The high temperature of the furnace causes the alloy to flow on the core surface, creating a bond wherever parts make

The vacuum eliminates the problem of oxidization in normal aluminum brazing operations - in the presence of air, aluminum oxidizes easily and will not braze properly without the use of a corrosive flux, commonly molten salt.

The non-vacuum process requires extensive washing to remove the salt and prevent continued corrosion of the aluminum. This washing process in turn requires further wastewater treatment, Kania said. "With vacuum brazing, the alloy on the aluminum surface acts as the flux and we have no waste products."

The core components are produced separately and assembled by semi-automatic equipment before being conveyed to the furnace area. There are at present two furnaces at Sheldon Road, with a third planned for installation later this year.

At the furnace, the cores are loaded onto racks, which are the brazing fixtures, each carrying 49 cores. The cores are locked in place and the rack conveyed to a bridge crane for loading into the furnace. Each furnace has three chambers: preheat, braze and exit. Desired vacuum levels for each stage are controlled by three diffusion pumps and a series of mechanical

The preheat stage is conducted in a partial vacuum where the temperature is raised to 600 degrees F. Cores then move to the middle chamber where there is neartotal vacuum at 1,100 degrees F. The mechanical pumps evacuate the chamber initially with the diffusion pumps completing the deep vacuum.

After brazing, the cores move into the exit area where partial cooling takes place in a partial vacuum. At the end of the cycle, the rack goes into a cooling chamber where ambient air flows through the cores to complete cooling.

The facility cranks out one rack of radiators every 13.5 minutes - more than 200 cores per hour. Each receives a corrosion-resistant chromate coating and is dried in an oven to eliminate residual moisture. Epoxy is applied to each header surface for additional strength.

Workers position inlet tanks and gaskets on the cores as they move on a conveyor to a crimp station, which automatically bends header tabs over the tank shoulders.

The cores are rotated 180 degrees automatically for a repetition of the process for the outlet tanks. At the stage, transmission-oil coolers are added for automatic transmission applications. The outlet tanks, oil coolers, fitting and draincocks were pre-assembled in a separate operation before the crimping stage.

King's Daughters selling fruit pies at sidewalk sale

During past weeks, members of Miz-pah Circle, King's Daughters, have been paring apples, dicing rhubarb and pitting cherries to make 80 large pies and more than 100 small ones to sell at this Saturday's Northville Merchants' Association annual sidewalk sale.

"We made and froze them when the fruits were in season," relates Marge Bolton, president of the Northville circle which will be celebrating its 90th year this fall.

Pies and other baked goods will be on sale at the circle's booth in its traditional place in the town square park across from the clock on Main Street.

The booth is one of hundreds that will line Main and Center streets this Saturday as organizations and craftspersons sell their wares at the annual event for which the downtown streets are closed. Merchants also hold their summer sale in and in front of their shops.

"This is our one big money-making oject," explains President Bolton, noting that the bake sale funds the circle's assistance to local welfare work mainly through Civic Concern, its aid to Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor and to such King's Daughters projects as the home for the aged in Redford and the camp for boys and girls near Lake

The circle has about 25 active members in a total of 42, all of whom support the work of King's Daughters.

What is most remarkable about the fast-selling goodies have a median age between 65 and 70 years old.

Marie Nutter, who was among the cherry pitters at the circle's cherry pie work bee early this month, will be 90 years old next February.

Mrs. Bolton relates that "the cherries were picked, pitted and made into pies that day.'

Now frozen are rhubarb, apple, blueberry and cherry pies which will be baked this Friday to go on sale at 9 a.m. Saturday. The large pies are $3.50 and the small ones $1. There also will be an assortment of homemade breads white, whole wheat, oatmeal and raisin as well as fruit breads, cookies, cupcakes and muffins.

While President Bolton gives credit to the community for supporting the circle's booth of baked wares, the success of the project is attributed by pur-chasers to the "good eating" of the home baked goods

She says she is thankful for the support which last year brought in almost $900. The circle is hoping it will duplicate that amount this year.

Marge Bolton reports that local welfare work through Civic Concern has been a focus of the circle which also supplies Thanksgiving and Christmas food gifts locally.

King's Daughters is non-denominal, she adds, with Mizpah Circle having 'every church in town represented" in

Fifty attend surprise for Steve Gossard

By JEAN DAY

Given the fact that, when he turned 30, his wife Pat gave him a "wake," Steve Gossard shouldn't have been too surprised to be the honor guest at a "first annual 39 and holding Jack Benny Memorial" birthday party earlier this month.

It was a surprise, however, and an early celebration of Gossard's birthday which actually falls on August 8. Invitations had gone out asking friends and relatives to the celebration which began at 10 a.m. a week ago Saturday when Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen arrived at the Gossard home on Galway in his 1935 vintage fire truck to transport Gossard and guests to a golf tourney at Dun Rovin.

During that time, women guests were invited to spend the morning at the pool at the Plymouth Hilton Inn. After a cocktail party in the suite Pat reserved there, the guests had dinner at the hotel. The fire engine transportation was courtesy of Allen and was the idea of Wes Henrikson, who attended the party with his wife Sally, Pat Gossard explains. Assisting with the arrangements and helping put together a life story of "The Legendary Goose' was the Gossards' daughter Stacey, 14. (Gossard's nickname is "Goose.")

Leonard Esmonde of Lima, Ohio. Gossard is a board member of M.A.G.S. and, when president, was active in bringing the business to Northville. The family has lived here since 1976.

Carl and Pearl Stephens celebrated at Crawfords'

Long-time residents Carl and Pearl Stephens decided to celebrate their 37th wedding anniversary last Thursday by dining at Northville's newest eatery, Crawfords', located in the building at 160 East Main formerly occupied by the Northville Insurance Exchange. Crawfords' had been open just a week and is very much a family enterprise with Nine Mile Road residents Dick and Ruth Crawford running it with daughters Sue Crawford Poster and Amy and son Jeff.

Pearl and Carl Stephens are hoping to celebrate more later this year with a trip to England.

Beth Denning's interning at Monsanto Chemical

Since she finished classes at University of Michigan in May, Beth Denning has been serving a paid summer internship at Monsanto Chemical Company in its government affairs department in St. Louis, Missouri. A political science major, she will be starting her senior year at U-M this fall.

Her mother, Sarah Denning, reports that she plans to continue into law school after graduation.

Mrs. Denning adds that both her son and daughter are spending the summer in Missouri. John Denning, who enlisted in the Army Reserve, began his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood. He and Paul Curtis, who will be seniors at Northville High School this fall, both enlisted in the reserves, but Paul was assigned to basic training at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Parenting classes offered

The need for parents to communicate with their young will be addressed in a public course, "Parenting and Child Management," to be offered at Madonna College this fall from 7-10 p.m. Thursdays.

The course will examine specific child and adult behaviors. Proven techniques of how to talk and listen from child-adult and adult-adult relationships via the language of acceptance will be explored at length. Sugar's secret of cherry pie

MIZPAH CIRCLE CHERRY PIE

3 cups pitted sour cherries

14 to 14 cups sugar ¼ teaspoon salt

2 Tablespoons cornstarch

1 Tablespoon flour

Mix above ingredients together. Put into pastry-lined pie pan. Dot with oleo and top with pastry crust.

Basic Pastry Crust

6 cups flour 2 cups shortening

1 Tablespoon salt 1 Tablespoon sugar

Blend all and chill. Pastry will keep indefinitely in refrigerator. When ready to use, take out 2 cups of the mix for a one-crust pie and. mix in with fork 3 tablespoons of ice water. For a two-crust pie, use 2 23 cups of mix with a scant half cup of ice water.

Marge Bolton reports that "the beauty" of the pastry recipe is that it: keeps. The key ingredient, she says, is the sugar which produces a nicely browned crust.

Bake pies at 400 degrees for 15 minutes and then at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes.

Exchange students seek host families

Viktor, a European student, is eagerly awaiting news from a family in the Ann Arbor area. He and 29 other European teenagers are hoping to spend the 1984-85 school year with families in this area through a sponsorship from the Educational Foundation for Foreign

The foundation is a non-profit high school exchange program. Local area representatives for the foundation, Vivian and Shereen Das, are now interviewing and selecting families to host students who will arrive in August. Host families come from all walks of life, different faiths and a wide range of interests and experiences. Many have travelled themselves and all are interested in learning about another culture while sharing what is best about America with a young person from abroad.

Foundation students come from Europe and Mexico and have been carefully screened. They all speak English, have their own spending money and are covered by insurance. They share a dream of spending a year living and learning in America. During their stay, they come to understand what it really means to be an American, while their host families, schools and communities learn about life in another country.

Any family interested in hosting Viktor or one of the other students coming to this area should contact the Educational Foundation office at (800) 243-5400, toll-free. Ask for Vivian or

The Survivors edged Mic-Mac 14-12 in the first game of a Tuesday doubleheader — the second game was tied at 15-15 before called on account of darkness.

The Survivors sprinted ahead 13-1 after five innings, and choked off a nine-run Mic-Mac rally in the sixth for the victory in the opener. Pat Wazny and Lynn Dudley homered to lead the offensive charge, Jenny Callahan had three hits and three runs, and Jenny Maise drove in

The offensive fireworks made for long innings in the twinbill, and umpires called the second game a tie after six innings.

"I don't know if we'll finish that game," said Survivors Coach Dave Settles, noting that teams have the option of resuming tie games at a different time if both coaches are willing and able to schedule the

In the second game, every one of the 12 Survivors came away with at least one RBI. Maise and Wazny each had a two. Maise's were harder earned. In a fourth-inning collision with the Mic-Mac catcher, Maise hurt her shin and had to hobble around the bases.

In fact, her injury wound up costing a victory. With the bases loaded and one out in the sixth,

Grand Rapids nips Blue, takes title

Grand Rapids carted home firstplace honors at the Continental Amateur Baseball Regional Tournament hosted by Northville this

The outstaters disposed of runner-up Windsor grandly and rapidly in the tourney final Monday by a score of 10-2. Catcher Todd Richards slammed three home runs in three consecutive at-bats to send Windsor packing. Jim Goerner also homered for the champs.

Northville's teams went 1-4 for the tourney, as only Northville Blue managed a tournament win. That came in a 2-0 victory over Durand on Saturday, a contest marred by spots of ungentlemanly conduct, but redeemed by Blue pitcher Chris Willerer.

Willerer was simply outstanding. Craftly mixing his fastball and curve, he fanned four and walked just two for the complete-game three-hit shutout. Blue scored one run in the fourth on Mark Deal's RBI single and one in the fifth on an RBI single by Scott Swien-

Allen Park eliminated Blue in the next round 8-7. Trailing by three runs going into the seventh, Northville closed the gap to one on a leadoff homer by Scott Peterson and an RBI single by Jeff Bainbridge. But Bainbridge was left stranded — the second time in the tourney Northville had the tying run on base in the final inning and lost.

Bainbridge finished the game with two hits and two RBI. Chris Hauser contributed two hits and one RBI, and Keith Dutkiewicz and Mark Olsen each drove in one run with a single apiece.

Northville's first tourney loss had come against Grand Rapids on Friday. The eventual tourney champion knocked off Blue 13-11 despite a six-run Blue rally in the seventh. Bainbridge socked a grand slam home run during that rally, his second hit of the day. Rob Cannon picked up three RBI and Swien-

Thursday, Blue took Waterford into extra innings, but Waterford prevailed 8-5. Wasted in the loss were Mark Deal's 4-for-4 hitting and another Bainbridge beauty - a two-out, full-count, three-run homer in the sixth that gave Northville a short-lived 5-3 lead.

Paul Newitt and Swienckowski each had solo RBI in the loss, taken by Dutkiewicz in relief of Brett Loomis. Loomis scattered four hits over the first five innings, but Waterford's hits were timely, and some shaky defense hurt Blue's cause.

That capped the regular season for who will host the Northville Blue, who will host the Mickey Mantle World Series next month. Blue ended up 16-8 for the season and in fifth place in the 28-team Little Caesar's Mickey Mantle League.

Loss puts end to Gold rush

Northville II was eliminated in its first two CABA Tournament games this weekend, despite some solid hitting in both losses.

Allen Park edged Gold 6-5 in the tourney's opening round on Friday, and Durand sent Gold packing 9-5 in the second round Saturday.

The losses snapped Gold's threegame winning streak going into the tournament and left the Northville team at 8-8 for the season.

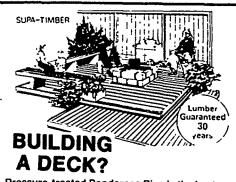

In Friday's loss to Allen Park, Gold mined Park pitching for four runs in the third on three singles (John Lobbia and Terlecki each driving in one run with theirs), an error and an RBI double by Jeff Tanderys. That gave the Northville team a 4-3 lead that proved to be short-

Evans paces Dallas race

By KEVIN WILSON

Tim Evans, the local racing driver who was sixth in the Detroit Trans Am race, finished ninth in his second event of the season at Brainerd, Minnesota, Sunday. He also drove the chase car for the Dallas Grand Prix July 8.

"it could have been better — it was one of those weekends," the Brookland Farms resident said of the Trans Am race. The Minnesota track boasts a mile-long 'straightaway where the Buist/Syfert Racing Pontiac Trans Am was underpowered last year.

It looked better this year, until just before race time. "We were doing okay on straightaway speed until just before the race," Evans said. "We adjusted our carburetor jetting, the weather changed at the last minute and that meant our adjustment was in the wrong direction."

Evans said he and David Hobbs got stuck at the start behind the slower car of Rob McFarlin. "Hobbs got by, but I didn't until (McFarlin) broke down.'

An off-course excursion by McFarlin put some rocks into Evans' windshield, cracking it. "Every time I went down the straight, it cracked a little more until finally about three laps from the end, about a foot of it at the right end broke in." Evans said by that time he was easing off, since he could catch no one ahead of him and no one behind was threatening. "We wanted to make sure we finished."

The race was won by Willy T. Ribbs in a Capri, followed by the Pontiac of Detroit pole-winner Bob Lobenberg, and the Capris of Tom Gloy and Greg Pickett. Hobbs in his Corvette was eighth, one position ahead of Evans the reverse relationship from their Detroit finishes.

TIM EVANS

Driving the chase car in Dallas was a last-minute deal, Evans explained. "They called me on the Tuesday and said they might need me, confirmed it on Wednesday afternoon, I hopped a plane Thursday morning and arrived during the first Formula One practice."

Mounted this time in a Porsche 935 "We approved of the car," Evans said, laughing), he did more than a lap and one-half before leaving the course ahead of the Formula One cars. He and Grand Prix doctor Sidney Watkins watched the race from a tight bend where several cars hit the wall glancing blows and broke wheels or suspensions. Anyone who watched the televised broadcast would recognize the "parking lot" corner where several cars retired near race-end.

Tabaczinski collected a pair of singles, and Bob Justus got on base three times on a hit, an error and a walk, and he scored two runs.

Tanderys took the loss, working six innings effectively. He allowed just four hits, but was hurt by seven Gold errors and shaken up temporarily by Allen Park's Greg D'Alexander's secondinning home run blast.

Tanderys walked four hitters that inning, but only one more for the remainder of the game. He ended the game with six strikeouts.

In the second-round game, Durand went ahead 8-1 at one point. Gold battled back, but fell short, with Doug Martin taking the loss.

In a league playoff Sunday to determine a Little Caesar's Tournament berth, Wayne-Ford Westland defeated Gold 4-3. "Eric Gala pitched a strong game for us," said Coach Ed Harp. "but we didn't get the hitting when we

Sunbirds win softball title

Runners up in Intermediate League in regular-season play, the Sunbirds regained some pride by taking first place in the First Annual Softball Tournament July 10-13 at Meads Mill Junior High School.

The Sunbirds claimed the tourney title on Friday the 13th by defeating the Gems 13-8 in the final game. Kristi Kunka and Nanci Dutkiewicz sparked the victory with home runs and Margaret Murphy racked up a triple in the victory.

The Sunbirds had an uphill flight to the final after losing 7-5 to the Gems in the first round. Dutkiewicz hit the first of her five tourney homers in that game. Later that day, the Sunbirds tripped the Phillies 21-13. Dutkiewicz homered twice in that game, and Murphy had two triples.

Thursday, the Sunbirds could do no wrong in a 24-1 win over the Falcons. Julie Brady homered twice, and Dutkiewicz, Murphy and Jenny Clark once each in the win. Kunka tripled twice.

On June 10, the Sunbirds bumped the Travelers 8-1. Murphy homered and tripled and Brady hit a home run in the victory.

The Sunbirds had two obstacles to getting to the final: the Liberties and the Gems. The Sunbirds flew past the Liberties 10-4, then ground out a 10-7 win over the Gems that forced a tie-breaker game. The team's momentum carried over to the final game and the victory.

Also on the Sunbird roster are Kris Abitz, Kris and Laura Fortenberry, Kim Wilds, Kathy Towalski, Maureen McKelvey, Karen Mc Culloch, Shannon Loper and Megan Abraham. The Sunbird Coaches are Julie and Amy

Northridge 10, Sterling Oil 9: Outlielder Matt Rybinski's home run in the bottom of the seventh led Northridge to a stunner over league-leading Sterling Oil — the Oilers' first loss. The game-ending blast was Rybinski's third hit and third run of the game. Chuck Chrzan and Rick Parks each singled three times for the winners.

Malarkey's 14, Belanger's 0: A 10-run first in-ning and the two-hit pitching of Dave Kozar propelled Malarkey's to a 'our-inning shutout win. Outfielder Brian Lee singled, doubled and tripled for the victors, while Dave Welse, Mark Vivyan and Stevo Matchatta had two hits each Novi Bowi 11, Ed's Sports 8: Every player for Ed's hit safely, but a four-run sixth-inning rally put Novi Bowi ahead to stay. Novi Bowi's win-ning pitcher John Collins doubled in the se-cond and delivered a three-run homer in the very next inning. Teammates Norm Kubitsky and John Sherman each had three singles, while Jeff Moon singled and tripled, scoring twice. Alex Phillips, Eric Vermeesch, Bob Gawroski, Dan Sullivan and John Moore each had two hits for Ed's.

Northridge 19, St. Paul's 11: Five hits and four St. Paul's errors allowed Northridge to mount a nine-run fourth inning rally that prov-

Leading the charge were leadoff hitter Tim Parks with four singles and third baseman Matt Rybinski with a two-run homer and a pair of singles. Lester Ochrem had three hits, and Tim Markstrom, Chuck Chrzan, Ed Bedmond and Rick Parks two each. Ron Vince homered and Ed Sanders went3-for-3 for St. Paul's.

Masters 6, Communication Service 3: Down one run with two out in the top of the seventh, one run with two out in the top of the seventh, Masters railied for four runs on three singles and two errors to pull out the victory. Meanwhile, Masters hurter Chuck Hedger was masterful, pulling the plug on Communication with shutout pitching in every inning but the second. That's when two singles and a three-run homer by catcher Mike Heary gave Communication an early lead. Heary's battery mate Tom McCracken also pitched well, allowing just seven hits until the final frame — none for extra bases.

Wagon Wheel 12, Long Mechanical 6: The Wheelers rolled up five runs in the fourth to turn a close ballgame into a walkaway. While they added two more runs in the sixth, pitche Greg Pochmara retired in order eleven of the last 12 Long hitters he faced. Jim Long cracked two doubles and a single for the losing squad, while teammates Ron Jones, John Sinclair and Rick Bingley each contributed a pair of singles. Pochmara tripled and singled, scoring twice for the winners. Teammate Jim Behen ripped two triples and a single, Mike Kantor singled three times, and the Travers brothers — Scott and Kevin — each had a pair

Jaycees 7, Winner's Circle 0: Spurred by Mark Rhodes' 4-for-4 hitting and three runs, the Jaycees railled for four in the first inning and picked up solo runs in the last three inn-ings for the victory. Jim Hepler had three hits for the winners, James Moore and Allen Kahler two each for the Winners.

Thermal Sash 11, O'Sheehan's 9: In the upset of the week, Thermal Sash slashed O'Sheehan's with a four-run rally in the bottom of the seventh, capped by Mike Rogers' home run. Mack splits 2, defeats Howell

Mack League action last week, leaving the squad uncertain as to its post-season playoff status. "We had the fifth-best record in the league (7-7)," said Coach Bob Frellick. "If they decide to stick to a four-team tournament we won't make it, but if they open it up to five teams, we will."

In Tuesday's 11-1 loss to red-hot Waterford, Northville stayed close until the fourth inning. Then Waterford roughed up starter Doug Doyle with a six-run rally on a homer, a double, four walks and

"Doug was pitching on three days' rest," Bob Frellick noted. "He probably needs more than that. He was a little tight.

Northville's lone run came in the first when Steve Frellick singled, stole second and came home on Tab Brown's RBI single.

After that, Northville bats fell pretty silent, collecting only four hits throughout the contest.

Things went much more smoothly in Northville's 14-9 five-inning wir over Howell Thursday. Bob Wisinski picked up the win, but some nifty relief work by Dan Nielsen saved it. Nielsen entered the game in the fifth with the bases loaded and nobody out and proceeded to strike out two and get the last hitter on a fly. He allowed one run to score on a

Brent Conn socked a three-run homer and Doyle a solo blast in the contest. Also lugging hot bats were Frellick with two doubles, a single and an RBI, and Dirk Nowka, who doubled in a pair of runs during a Maise hit a grounder that would have scored the winning run. Normally a quick runner, Maise's injury slowed her sprint to first and Mic-Mac turned a double play to end the game.

Isabell had three hits in the second game. Tracy and Heather Martin scored two runs each, and Bev Henderson turned in a strong defensive game at shortstop and in left field.

Thursday, Garden City zapped the Survivors in both ends of a doubleheader. GC took the first game 15-8 and the second game 20-0.

Lori Archibald contributed three hits, two runs and an RBI in the opener. Dudley had two hits and four RBI and Tracy Martin drove in a pair. Tracy McComb, called up from Junior League, flashed a good glove at a variety of positions, especially outfield rover and second base.

The Survivors managed six hits in the nightcap not bad for five innings, when umpires called off the attack - but could not score.

Saturday, the team competed in the Michigan State World Quality Tournament in Garden City last weekend, but was eliminated in the two-game knockout tourney by its first and second round op-

Friday, the Dukes of Garden City defeated the Survivors 16-3. In her first start, Julie Brady pitched well despite the score. Lisa Archibald drove in two of the Survivor runs.

Saturday, Quality Cabinets finished off the Suvivors 15-4 by scoring nine runs in the last three

Lynn Frellick paced Northvile with three hits and two runs. Lori Archibald drove in two runs and Lisa Archibald one. Bev Henderson had one hit, one RBI and one run, and continued to contribute strong

The Survivors (7-10) have one regular-season game remaining on the schedule — against Carriage Car Company of Redford — but a date for the game has not yet been determined.
