Gabe and Tony Sievert practice breakdancing techniques

'Breaking's' latest craze

By JEAN MacINTOSH

During the next few weeks area gym teachers will notice a definite lack of interest in dodgeball, and parents will see their kitchen floors transformed into practice areas for kids spinning on their backs, arms and heads.

Why? Because — step back, everybody — breakdancing, the nation's latest dance craze, has hit Northville.

And, due to the popularity of the activity, Northville Community Recreation has decided to offer classes to those interested in learning how to breakdance.

According to Jim Hix, who will teach the classes, breakdancing — commonly described as a cross between dancing and acrobatics performed to music with a distinct soul beat — isn't really a "new" idea, but rather a popular revival of an old African dance.

"Breaking really started back in the late 1800s as a form of African dancing," explained Hix. "Instead of fighting, tribes would 'break' against each other."

The idea spread through generations and was introduced in the Bronx in the 1900s, said Hix. Instead of organizing gang fights, people would "break" to show superiority. "So breaking has been around for awhile, it's just become more popular recently as an entertainment thing," he said.

The revived interest in soul music, as well as the influence of Michael Jackson-type dancing are among the reasons Hix gives for the new popularity of breakdancing.

"What most people think of as breakdancing is really a combination of two things," he explained. "There are the moves that are done on the ground, such as spins and flips, to the beat of music, which is considered "breaking"; and the moves that are done standing up, like the moonwalk or the wave, which is known as "street dancing," said Hix.

Hix's own interest in the dance developed from his interest in soul music. He also started seeing it a lot in teen nightclubs, as well as on television videos, and eventually he and a partner started taping the videos to learn the moves.

"I learned almost everything from studying the tapes," said Hix, "but I got books on breakdancing to learn the more difficult and technical moves."

After he had developed his breakdancing abilities, Hix interviewed with a local dance company and started giving lessons.

Fairfax Court repaving project approved

By JEAN DAY

Although several of the 10 homeowners on Fairfax Court and Springfield Drive voiced unhappiness at Monday night's council meeting with the way the assessment roll is being spread among them, they asked the council to approve the project in order to have the court rebuilt this fall.

Following a public hearing with discussion of an alternate spread and some confusion on the hearing process, the council did so unanimously (as required with four members present) with Mayor Pro Tem Dewey Gardner, and council members Carolann Ayers, Burton DeRusha and Paul Follno approving the project on a second vote.

City manager Steven Walters indicated he would contact the low bidder of six who submitted bids for the repaving of the street eroded by stormwater immediately. The low bid of McCarthy Contracting of Milford at $41,958.14 (alternate A including the cul de sac) was approved by council unanimously.

It was anticipated that work will start immediately.

The public hearing on the roll spread the residents' portion of the cost in a complicated formula. The property owners together are responsible for 42.86 percent of the total cost with the city paying 57.14 percent.

The city is paying a larger than usual share in recognition of the fact that major undermining problems resulted from drainage from adjacent Lexington Commons.

In the approved formula each of the property owners on the court will pay 13.71 percent of the assessment while owners of two corner lots will pay 6.87 percent and owners of two properties on the north side of Springfield will pay a total of 4 percent together.

Political, legal issues may alter race dates

By B.J. MARTIN

Northville Downs operators got a long look last Thursday at what they're up against in pursuit of an expanded docket of racing dates for next year.

At the Michigan Racing Commission's hearings on harness and thoroughbred racing date allotments, political infighting and legal disputes began in the morning and continued well on toward dusk.

Since the commission can allow only a limited number of racing dates in the metropolitan Detroit area, Northville Downs' request for a 365-date schedule conflicts directly with requests by operators of the Detroit area's two major racetracks, Detroit Race Course in Livonia, and Hazel Park Raceway in Hazel Park.

Although commissioners must make their decision on thoroughbred dates by October 1 and harness dates by October 15, there was no clear-cut consensus favorite for the limited number of race dates the commission will authorize.

Requesting an expanded race date schedule is nothing new to Northville Downs track operators — each year they file such a request before the commission, and each year the commission saddles them with a winter meet lasting less than three months. But a number of unresolved issues illuminated at the hearing posed a chance for that to change for next year's meets.

To summarize the four principal issues of Thursday's hearing:

- First and foremost were arguments assailing the conduct of Herbert Tyner and Bernard Hartman, who own both DRC and Hazel Park raceways, for what some considered efforts to circumvent a 1980 state law requiring them to sell one of those tracks to an independent entity.

Speaking on behalf of Northville Downs management, attorney Edward Draugelis claimed Tyner and Hartman violated the spirit of the divestiture law by continuing to control DRC through a lease agreement with DRC operations manager David Karoub.

"Here are people who, in order to avoid divestiture will create a sham divestiture agreement to get racing dates they would otherwise not be entitled to," Draugelis told commissioners.

"Is this lease a truly independent agreement," he asked after reciting a

"We are supportive of additional summer racing dates for Northville Downs..."

— Steve Walters, City Manager

list of lease provisions he claimed returned a share of DRC operations control and profits to Tyner and Hartman. "The elements of control are paramount and severe," he concluded.

Draugelis and others urged the commission to force the hand of Karoub, Tyner and Hartman by reducing the number of race dates awarded to each track.

When questioned by commissioners, Karoub himself maintained his control and operations at DRC were "completely independent" of Tyner and Hartman.

- Second, a dispute centered on upkeep of the DRC track, where security and maintenance concerns prompted criticism from horsemen union representatives.

Philip B. Maxwell, speaking for the Michigan Horseman's Alliance, said he was particularly "appalled and disgusted" at the way the DRC backstretch was maintained. "It makes me sick to see fine animals associated with an environment of that sort," he said. "DRC is a disaster."

Streets closed two days for Autumnfest '84

Autumnfest '84 — the second annual fall festival being sponsored by the Northville Merchants' Association — promises to be a major downtown event the end of this month with two days of special activities planned.

At the request of John Bueter, association president, city council Monday night agreed to close downtown streets for two days from about 3 p.m. on September 28 through 10 p.m. September 29. This is the first time Main and Center streets have been closed downtown for two days for an event in recent history.

Bueter said he was requesting the closing for safety reasons as many activities are scheduled for children. Leading off will be a balloon launch at 4 p.m. Friday, September 28, with fourth graders participating in town square park by the clock.

Hot air balloon rides will be available from 4-8 p.m. that day from Ford Field.

Other special first-day events described by Bueter include a fashion-show luncheon at First Presbyterian Church co-sponsored by Our Lady of Victory for those attending the festival and the Tivoli Fair sponsored by the Northville Historical Society being held concurrently at Northville Downs.

He said there will be a continuous "hayride taxi service" from the downs to Main Street. Such a service from the craft fair to the festival, he said, was extremely popular last year.

Oakland County's bandshell will be in place in the town square park, he continued, where continuous entertainment will be offered.

Pony rides will be offered youngsters both days. Bueter said it is planned to hold them at the north end of Center, which he asked to have closed to Dunlap. In approving the closings, council stipulated they must be approved by the DPW and police departments. Instead of having Main closed at the west end to Phil's gas station, as is usual at the city garage sale and sidewalk sale, council asked that Main be closed only to the entrance to the municipal parking lot.

Other events listed for council by Bueter include apple dunking on the street in front of Northville Camera, a Jaycee dunk tank at the corner of Main

Township fire hall plans delayed

Recent legislation regarding tax increase proposals has put an end to township fire chief Robert Toms' hopes to start constructing a new fire hall on the west side of the township next building season.

Township voters approved purchasing property on Seven Mile west of Beck for the township's second station during the August primary election, and it looked as if all that had to be done was to pass a small millage to finance construction to get the project under way.

Toms submitted a proposal to the township board September 13 requesting that a 0.5 mill tax to be levied over the next five years be placed on the November ballot for voter approval.

Unfortunately for his cause, a 1982 law requires more notice than that. According to township attorney Nels Carlson, the state legislature amended statutes concerning taxation (Public Act 5 of 1982) and added a requirement for a public hearing if taxes are to be raised.

Most local governments are familiar with the requirement as it regards their own determinations to raise taxes but, clerk Susan Heintz explained, the township didn't anticipate the hearing requirement would apply to a tax hike subject to a public vote.

"It seems to me that a vote is the ultimate public hearing," Heintz said. "But the attorney general's office says nope, you have to have a hearing."

Ordinarily, that wouldn't have been a problem. But the requirements for this hearing and the time schedule for preparing the ballot for the upcoming election do not coincide.

Had the board opted to set a public hearing on the matter, it would have been required to publish the date and time at least six days prior to the hearing. The final date for submittal of ballot language for the November election was this Tuesday, September 18. Simple addition shows that the hearing could not be conducted prior to the deadline.

Toms said last week that he was "disappointed" but that the matter could wait until the next vote in the township, likely to be sometime next year. Part of the millage supporting the township police department expires and the board anticipates requesting a renewal next year.

Boiler fire evacuates school

Smoke from a boiler room fire caused Northville High School to be evacuated briefly Tuesday afternoon as workers and city firefighters quickly teamed up to extinguish the fire.

According to High School Principal David Bolltho, the fire began at about 1:30 p.m. when the cutting torch of a worker on the high school renovation project ignited some oil that had leaked on the boiler room floor. Flames spread slowly to the boiler, emitting a black cloud of smoke.

Bolltho said the fire had a positive aspect, noting the school's evacuation plan "worked out beautifully."

"I'm really pleased at the way the students handled it," he said.

"Sometimes there's a tendency to think, 'Oh, it's just a drill.' But we had the kids well away from the action quickly."

No injuries were caused by the fire, and damages were minimal, since the school's boiler had been scheduled for replacement by mid-October as an early part of the renovation project.

School superintendent George Bell echoed Bolltho's comments, saying, "It shows a lot for the kids" who exited well and for the staff also, which showed great concern for the students.

He said the alarm system had functioned properly and that the city fire department had responded swiftly.

'Citizen of the Year' sought

The search for Northville's Citizen of the Year is nearing the deadline with the approach of the annual dinner meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce next month. The award will be presented at the October 20 meeting at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Current recipient of the honor, G. Dewey Gardner, is chairman of this year's award committee. He asks that nominations be made by October 6 to himself or to the other members of the committee, chamber president Sherry Spaman and Midge Haynie.

Gardner, who is a city council member and mayor pro tem, a chamber member and local businessman, received the award at last year's program.

Nomination forms are available from committee members and at the chamber office.

The person nominated must be a resident of either the city or township and have made positive contributions to the community.

The form asks the offices — civic, professional and church — held by the nominee and the person's participation in city or township organizations as well as information on his or her education, family, hobbies and interests.

The sponsor is asked to state attributes of the candidate and why in the sponsor's opinion that person would be worthy of the Citizen of the Year Award.

The information may be mailed to the chamber at P.O. Box 5246, Northville, 48167.

Tickets also will be available at the chamber office for the annual dinner at $20 a person. The dinner for all members of the chamber and their guests also is open to the community. Reservation deadline is October 16.

Breaking's new craze

While Hix's class is designed for anyone from age six to adult, most of his students are between nine and 11 years old, and most are male.

"Once in awhile I get girls, but they don't seem to be as interested as the guys," he said.

In order to be a good breakdancer, said Hix, a student has to have strength, coordination and balance.

"A lot of the younger kids aren't quite as strong, but they still have determination, and they practice harder than most of the older kids," Hix noted.

The most difficult part for the majority of his students is learning to put the dance elements together with the beat of the music.

"Listening for a musical beat is a hard thing to teach," said Hix. "Some kids just can't hear it, they can't figure it out."

Hix stresses safety in all of his classes, and begins each one with a 15 minute warmup consisting of stretches and exercises.

"Warming up is really important, because we do some pretty strenuous moves and you can get hurt if you aren't warmed up," he explained.

Since most of his students are beginners, Hix also requires them to wear knee pads, tennis shoes with good support and long pants or sweatpants. He won't let his students practice their moves without someone watching them.

Hix usually has students of varying degrees of ability in his classes, and to accommodate them he divides them into beginner, intermediate and advanced groups, working with each group separately.

"That way, everybody learns something," he explained.

Although Hix thinks the breakdancing craze, like most fads, eventually will die down, he believes it is a good way to get exercise and a fun activity for kids to learn.

"My class is the first exposure a lot of these kids will get to actually learning the moves involved in breakdancing," said Hix.

"A lot have been interested but haven't had a place to start. Now they have an opportunity."

Hix will teach two classes every Monday evening beginning September 24, and the first class will be videotaped for cable television. The recreation department reported Monday that both the 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. classes were filled with 16 participating in each.

Square dancing sessions offered

There still are openings for adult couples in a square dance class for beginners that will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesdays, starting next week, in the community center at 303 West Main. Ray Wiles is the caller. He may be called at 981-0087 before 5 p.m. for registration and information.

The sessions are for new dancers, and the first lesson is offered free. Sessions last from 8 to 10:30 p.m.

and Hutton and a merchant treasure hunt downtown.

In addition, Bueter said, owners of 50 antique cars had agreed to park them downtown.

Northville city and township fire departments will hold a fire truck volleyball tourney at 2 p.m. Saturday, September 29, at Ford Field. There will be a men's volleyball tourney sponsored by the merchants at the recreation center at noon Saturday.

On Saturday, a donut eating contest for everyone from three years old through adult will be held at 1 p.m. in front of Holloway's Old Fashion

Bakery. A couples' no taps bowling tournament will be held at Northville Lanes from 3-6 p.m. Saturday.

Children's events include a show by Ming the Magician in the band shell at noon Saturday, a repeat of the popular clown face painting sponsored by Main Street Barbers on Main at noon, and pumpkin decorating under auspices of the Northville Kiwanis Club at 1 p.m. on Center Street. The Northville Jaycee Women will sponsor a hot wheel grand prix for children 3-6 years old at 1 p.m. September 29 at Main and Center.

From 1-4 p.m. September 29 there will be a roller skate on Center.

Only when Bueter mentioned a sidewalk chalk art contest for youngsters 4-10 years old under sponsorship of the Northville Arts Commission did council members voice concerns. They asked Bueter to have a "test" done to make sure the results would be washed away by rain.

They also were assured by Bueter that certificates of insurance would be filed with the city to cover the event.

Bueter told the council that there would be a barbecue tent at Main and Hutton run by Northville Charley's in lieu of the traditional Jaycees' tent where beer had been served in the past. He said that was not being sought this year because of recent objections. (Northville Community Chamber of Commerce had been refused permission to extend a Getzie's pub party into the adjacent park and Northville Charley's galloping gourmet run had been refused permission to use Main Street because of problems with drinking on the street last year.)

Others with plans for outdoor cafes include Crawford's, Genitti's, Getzie's, Parmenter's cider mill, Northville Cloverdale and Forman Orchards.

The festival will conclude with a Strutters Ball street dance lasting from 8-10 p.m.

Bueter reported to council that the expanded festival was "masterminded" by association member Kris Broderick.

Recruiting runners

State Police Lieutenant Bill Tomczyk and Dick Milder showcase booty from past runnings of the annual "Discover Northville Run" as they gear up for this year's race Saturday, October 6. Tomczyk will be race director for the fifth straight year, Milder is this year's assistant race director. This year, long-sleeved t-shirts bearing the race logo will be distributed to all pre-registered entries and to race-day entries. Sponsored each year by the Northville Rotary Club and numerous local merchants, entries are up more than 50 percent over last year. The 5-K and 10-K races will take off at 10 a.m., with trophies and medals for winning age group entries, male and female. Ribbons will be awarded to all participants in the kids' one-mile "Fun Run" preceding the main event. Proceeds from the race benefit community projects administered by the Rotary Club. For more information on the run, call 348-1509 or 420-2777. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Board approves tax bill fee

When the tax bills come in the mail this December, township property owners can expect to see the one percent administration fee listed once again.

If that sounds like a familiar story, it is, and becoming more so. The township board of trustees votes on the matter prior to the printing of each season's tax bills, and with school taxes being collected in the summer now, that means twice each year.

Deputy treasurer Syd Harral put forward the arguments in favor of the fee last week, treasurer Richard Henningsen being out of the country on business.

"It will cost the township $96,000 to bill and maintain the tax rolls this season; that's not including the summer collection," Harral noted. "We realize about $84,000 from the one percent fee, so it doesn't even cover our actual administrative expense."

The township acts as the tax collecting agency for all area taxing authorities — schools, county, community colleges and parks. A very large percentage of the money collected simply passes through the township's bank accounts en route to the authorities who actually levy the taxes.

None of these other taxing authorities pays the township for this service, thus the one percent fee to cover the cost. The amount collected is equivalent to a 0.7 (seven-tenths) mill tax levy, Harral said.

The amount is a significant portion of the township's administrative budget — just as collecting the taxes is a large part of the work done by the treasurer's department. In a letter to the board, Henningsen recommended the fee but added that he would "also be in favor of any alternative proposal you might recommend as long as administration expenses are covered."

Most township board members agreed with the philosophy behind the fee, excepting trustee Thomas Cook, who has long opposed it, he says, "on principle."

Cook argued that the township should not be charging its own residents for the costs of collection but rather should be charging the other taxing authorities.

"We could have played some harder ball with the schools," Cook said. "What the schools offered to pay would not cover our costs, I understand that. We should have said, 'Fine, then we won't collect the taxes.'"

"You know Wayne County isn't going to do it for them — there's not enough money in it for them," he continued. "And no one else is going to do it. They'd have to go to a bank, and when they saw what the bank would charge them, they'd have come back to us with a little better offer."

In a previous discussion of the issue, Cook said it has always bothered him that taxpayers are charged for "the privilege of taking their money."

When it came time to vote, the board favored the fee 4-1 with only Cook in opposition. Henningsen and clerk Susan Heintz were absent.

Projections released

Enrollment decline leveling off

Though it's slightly more than a week premature, early enrollment figures for Northville Public Schools K-12 program reveal that this year may be the beginning of an enrollment plateau for the school district.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told the board of education at its meeting last Monday that enrollment for the 1984-85 school year is higher than anticipated last spring.

He noted that enrollment as of last Monday was 3,333 students — a decline of only 27 students over last year.

Knighton said the district was anticipating a decline of some 75 students this fall and projected its enrollment to be about 3,285 students.

"We may be starting to plateau," Knighton pointed out. The district's enrollment has declined steadily over the last decade by an average of four to five percent each year.

Last year, however, the district lost only 59 students due to an influx of housing along Eight Mile and Taft roads.

Knighton noted that the largest increase in student enrollment appears to be at the elementary level.

However, personnel director Debra Wangrud noted that despite higher enrollment in grades K-6, "no school has an enrollment which would qualify them for additional staffing."

The district currently has 61 full time teachers at the elementary level and 80.8 at the secondary level.

Support staff, which includes teacher consultants, librarians, counselors, etc. — is made up of approximately 31 staff members.

Knighton told the board that the official enrollment projection for the current school year will be tallied after the Fourth Friday. Those projections most likely will be presented to the board at its next meeting October 1.

He also noted that the administration "will give an update on class sizes" after the Fourth Friday count.

Funds obtained for bikeway extension

With the decision of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to approve a two mile extension of the bikeway in Hines Park only about three miles will need to be funded to make the bikeway system through the park complete.

R. Eric Reickel, newly appointed Superintendent of Parks and Recreation for Wayne County, credited State Representative Dick Young of Dearborn Heights for procurement of funds from the state urban development grants program.

Groundbreaking is to take place immediately on the month-long project, Reickel said last Wednesday.

Wayne County Executive William Lucas expressed his satisfaction over the decision, as he announced, "A contract for $211,700 has been awarded to a Wayne County firm, Dettore & Associates of Livonia, to construct approximately two miles of bikeway along Hines Drive through Dearborn Heights from Telegraph to east of Inkster Road."

Reickel explained that "this phase will leave us with about three miles that will need to be funded to make the bikeway system through Hines Park complete. The completion of this system offers great recreational opportunity for the people in Wayne County."

Woman arrested in jewel theft incident

A 21-year-old Livonia woman has been charged with receiving and concealing stolen property following the sale of a 1.3 carat stolen diamond to Michel's Jewelry of Northville, township police report.

Lori Ann Carron was arrested by Northville Township Police September 4 and was arraigned by Judge James Garber at 35th District Court. Bond was set at $5,000.

Police investigation revealed that, on July 26, Carron sold a 1.3 carat diamond ring to Michael Ansara of Michel's Jewelry on West Seven Mile and received $1,751 for the diamond.

According to police, the diamond ring allegedly was stolen from her employer, a Southfield attorney.

The complainant told police the defendant worked as a secretary in his law office and as a part time babysitter at his Lathrup Village residence during the time the incident occurred.

He further stated that on July 30, the defendant was babysitting at his residence and that upon leaving the house, his wife checked the contents of her bedroom jewelry box and found a yellow gold diamond ring missing.

The complainant told police that, on August 1, he received a telephone call from an unidentified male who stated he was a friend of a friend of the defendant and knew the defendant sold the ring to Michel's Jewelry.

On August 2, Carron terminated her employment with the law firm.

Ansara, owner of the Seven Mile jewelry store, told township police that he bought the diamond from Carron on July 26. He said the defendant told him she found the ring in a K-Mart parking lot.

He further stated that when purchasing the diamond, he had the defendant fill out a precious gem transaction form and placed her thumbprints on the form and paid her by check.

He told police that later that day he became suspicious of the transaction and placed a stop payment on the check. He noted he has not heard from the suspect since.

The diamond was placed in the store safe until it was released August 6 to Township Police Captain Phillip Presnell.

Two witnesses told police that Carron brought the diamond to a party in Detroit and asked one of the witnesses about its value.

A certified gemologist and diamondologist examined the recovered diamond on August 7 and told police that he believed it was the stone stolen by the defendant. He compared his report with an appraisal done on the ring in January, 1980. Carron's attorney waived the September 13 preliminary examination, and the defendant was bound over to circuit court.

Arraignment is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. October 11 at the circuit court annex.

Police Blotters

Township police report two automobile thefts

In the City ...

City police are investigating the recent theft of a $600 ring, $200 in currency and a .22 caliber revolver from a home on East Street.

According to a police report, the items were stolen from the home between August 24 and Friday, September 7. During that period, several sub-contractors were working in and around the home and the possibility of involvement by one or more is being investigated.

Police arrested two minors and two 18-year-olds on Northville High School grounds during last Friday's football game. The adults and one 16-year-old were charged with possession of alcohol, and one 14-year-old was charged with possession of a small amount of marijuana.

At 10 p.m. Saturday, police cited a 16-year old for drinking in his car while parked on Baseline Road by the High School.

...In the Township

A 1979 Mercury Cougar valued at $3,600 was stolen from a Silver Springs parking lot sometime after 8:30 p.m. September 11, township police report.

The two-door, dark blue vehicle was locked at the time the incident occurred, police noted in their report.

The complainant told police she has the keys for the stolen auto and the vehicle was paid off.

Though the complainant's apartment is close to where the vehicle was parked, she told police she heard no suspicious noises at the time the incident occurred.

A 1977 Oldsmobile Ninety-Eight was stolen from the northside parking lot of the Innsbrook Apartments sometime between 6 p.m. September 8 and 3 p.m. September 10, according to police.

The complainant told police he had both sets of keys to the auto and that the car was paid off and locked at the time the incident occurred.

He further stated that a set of golf clubs valued at $300 were in the trunk of the vehicle.

The car value was estimated at $3,000.

Police are investigating an estimated $2,000 damage to the sign at Cap-N-Cork party store on West Five Mile.

The complainant told police the incident occurred sometime between 8 p.m. September 13 and 7:30 a.m. September 14. He noted unknown suspects threw rocks into the sign causing extensive damage.

The complainant further stated that there are no witnesses. However, he told police a white male subject attempted to purchase liquor from the complainant at about 8 p.m. September 13 and could not produce proper identification.

When the sale was denied by the complainant, he said the subject became verbally abusive and was physically escorted out of the store.

A set of golf clubs and a "fuzz buster" were stolen from a 1984 Corvette parked at Meadowbrook Country Club sometime 1 and 4 p.m. September 12, police report.

Entry into the vehicle was gained by smashing the passenger side window, police said. Though the vehicle alarm was activated, no one saw the perpetrators.

Police noted in their report that the fuzz buster was removed from the dash and the golf clubs were taken from behind the seat.

Damage to the vehicle was listed at $150. Items stolen were valued at $695.

Though no physical evidence was found on the vehicle, police noted that another vehicle in the lot next to the Corvette also was broken into in the same manner. The owner of the other vehicle was contacted by management about the break-in. However, the owner said he did not wish to talk to police about the damage.

Charge filed in fatal crash at Eight Mile and Beck

Edward C. Kemp of South Lyon has been charged with negligent homicide in the July 13 death of Northville resident Michael Westfall, according to township police.

A preliminary examination on the charge is scheduled September 24.

Kemp, 28, was driving a truck along Beck Road shortly before 11 p.m. July 13 and failed to stop at a STOP sign at the intersection of Beck and Eight Mile roads, police charge.

In running the sign, Kemp struck a vehicle being driven by Carol Young, 36, of Brighton.

Westfall, 29, of Church Street, was pronounced dead on arrival at Botsford Hospital following the incident. The cause of death was listed as numerous wounds and lacerations to the head and scalp.

Young, whose vehicle was struck by Kemp's truck at the intersection, suffered multiple injuries and was in critical condition at St. Mary Hospital following the incident. At last report, police said, she was recovering from her injuries.

Kemp, who suffered head and chest injuries, was released from St. Mary shortly after the accident.

A warrant on the negligent homicide charge was obtained September 10 and arraignment on the charge was September 13 at the 35th District Court.

Bond was set at $5,000.

Obituaries

DAISY O. HAYNES

Former Northville resident Daisy O. Haynes died September 13 in Gaylord. Mrs. Haynes, who was 85, had moved from Northville to Gaylord in 1981. She had been a Northville resident since 1953 when she moved to the community from Highland Park. She was a member of the Gaylord Evangelical Free Church. In Northville she had been a member of the First Baptist Church.

A homemaker, she was born July 20, 1899, in Kentucky to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chambers. Her husband Herbert preceded her in death in 1962. Also preceding her in death were two brothers and four sisters.

She leaves a son Charles of Gaylord, three grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Funeral service was held at 10 a.m. Monday at Casterline Funeral Home with the Reverend Charles Warren of Gaylord Evangelical Free Church officiating. Burial was in Oakview Cemetery in Royal Oak.

The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to WPHN Christian Radio Station, Gaylord, 49735.

RAY S. HARMON

Funeral service for Ray S. Harmon, 93, will be held at 11 a.m. today at Casterline Funeral Home. The Reverend Eric Hammar of First United Methodist Church will officiate. Burial will be at Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit.

Mr. Harmon died September 16 in Sebring, Florida, following a lengthy illness.

Born July 10, 1891, in Gaines to Bloomfield and Emily (Simmon) Harmon, he was a retired insurance salesman and a member of the Zion Lodge, Number One, F & A.M. in Detroit.

He was preceded in death by his wife Emma in 1971.

Mr. Harmon is survived by his nephew Charles Skene of Northville.

Classes of '44 and '64 host upcoming reunions

Detroit Western High School's Class of 1944 will hold its 40th reunion November 3 at Warren Valley Country Club.

Tickets are available by calling Kathleen Prott Farmer at 425-7179 before September 25.

Our Lady of Mercy High School's Class of 1964 will hold its 20-year reunion from 1-4 p.m. Sunday, October 14, at Plum Hollow Golf Club in Southfield.

For further information, call Elaine Prentke Shady at 581-3109 or Sandy Platek Davis at 477-2304.

David and Sigred Luther featured in Sunday concert at First Baptist

DAVID AND SIGRED LUTHER

A concert of sacred music will be presented at First Baptist Church of Northville at 11 a.m. this Sunday by David and Sigred Luther, husband and wife team from Dayton, Tennessee.

Both musicians hold the rank of associate professor of music at Bryan College. Both are candidates for the Doctor of Musical Arts degree at Louisiana State University.

David Luther, a baritone, has appeared in numerous operas and concerts in the southeast. Last year he was featured vocalist in Mendelssohn's "Elijah," presented in Lansing.

Sigred Luther is a concert pianist who recently appeared with the New Orleans Symphony Orchestra.

The Luthers will be presenting a selection of both classical and contemporary sacred numbers. The public is welcome. The church is located at 217 North Wing.

Elden Biery memorial set

A memorial service for former Northville resident Elden B. Biery will be held at 11 a.m. this Saturday at First Presbyterian Church of Northville, not last Saturday as reported in The Record last week. The Record regrets the error.

Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain, senior pastor, and the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, pastor emeritus, will officiate.

Mr. Biery died August 28 in Cocoa Beach, Florida, where he had been making his home for the past year since moving from Northville. Services were held there earlier.

Mr. Biery, a former supervisor at Burroughs, was 70.

He leaves his wife Arline, sons Dick and Don, all of Cocoa Beach, son David of Staunton, Virginia, sisters Kathryn Lee of Detroit, Ruth Black of Northville and California, Grace Willis of Columbus, Ohio, six grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to First Presbyterian Church.

Fair gamers

Northville residents were both judges and competitors at the State Fair

BELOW: A new contest at the Michigan State Fair his year provided youths with the opportunity to judge beef, swine and sheep in a contest either as county teams of at least three or as individuals. Northville's Joel Visnyak (left) was on the Oakland County team coached by Mrs. Ted Jacobs with her daughters Phoebe and Molly, all from Romeo. The Jacobses and Joel are shown here on the fairgrounds.

RIGHT: Northville's Kristi Trexler brought her pet, "Sir Lickalot," to compete among the 150 entries in the recent Dog Show at the 1984 Michigan State Fair. Sir Lickalot took top honors in Open Obedience competition. As for Trexler, she's a member of the Four Season 4-H Club of Northville.

12 youngsters in Northville are fair winners

Twelve Northville young persons were winners at the 1984 Oakland County 4-H Fair held July 30-August 4 in Davisburg. There also were three winners from Walled Lake and one from South Lyon.

Northville Downs' track and facilities are among factors to be considered in race date allotments

City supports longer race season—but will commission?

Maxwell said his organization was seeking to acquire the track for somewhat less than its current appraisal of about $14 million and institute a multi-million dollar reconstruction program.

Tyner called Maxwell's criticism "irresponsible" and the terms of the purchase offer Maxwell discussed "absurd."

Third, management of all the tracks are facing a long-term overall decline in Michigan's horse racing industry, although there has a modest increase in receipts at all tracks this year over last.

By contrast, Northville Downs has been relatively immune to the downturn. Track director Louis Carlo presented statistics demonstrating the Downs' pattern of increasing mutual receipts, compared to declines or modest increases at other tracks since the mid-70s; and Finally, representatives of the AFL-CIO favor granting the two larger tracks as many dates as possible because they directly and indirectly employ more workers than does Northville Downs.

Speaking for the labor group, Stewart Appleby pointed out that Northville Downs employs roughly 250 workers per day, compared to nearly 500 at either Hazel Park or DRC. "Any dates taken from either of the major tracks and awarded to Northville Downs would be unconscionable," he told commissioners. "We urge you to resist shifting dates to Northville."

Asked about those payroll figures this week, Northville Downs Recording Secretary Margaret Zayti said she thought that 2-1 ratio might have been true in financially healthier times, but that Hazel Park and DRC now each employ perhaps 20 percent more than the Downs.

Citing the "excellent relationship" between the city and Northville Downs, City Manager Steven Walters put the city on record as conditionally supporting the expanded race schedule in a letter to Racing Commissioner William S. Ballenger.

"We are supportive of additional summer racing dates for Northville Downs because we believe our combined record of performance justifies additional dates," Walters reported.

"We are hopeful the additional costs to the City will be carefully considered and appropriate adjustments in the allocation of (parimutuel) revenues be taken to offset that added expense," he added.

Parishioner joins aid effort

Northville resident Jeff King was among more than 300 Catholic volunteers participating in a summer program to "lend a helping hand" to people of Lewis County, Kentucky.

The annual summer program is sponsored by the Glenmary Home Missioners of Cincinnati and is designed as an opportunity for young men from all over the nation to aid "people in their human and spiritual needs and, at the same time, learn more about the Glenmary apostolate and its ministry in Appalachia and the rural south."

The Catholic volunteers came from 31 states and Puerto Rico and represented 77 dioceses and 122 colleges, universities and high schools.

King, a senior at University of Detroit Jesuit High School, is a member of Holy Family Parish in Novi. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John King of Northville.

He was among 11 Michigan participants, most of whom are U of D students.

Among the students' projects were the construction of a new home for a grandmother in Lewis County and assisting with the sick and elderly on a daily basis at the Vanceburg Health Care Center.

Board approves increase in substitute teacher pay

In an effort to bring substitute teacher pay rates up to par with neighboring school districts, the Northville Board of Education last Monday unanimously approved a $3 per diem increase for the current school year.

In addition to the per day increase, the board also approved a decrease in the number of days a teacher may substitute for the district before moving to a higher rate of pay.

Currently substitutes must teach in the district 20 days before receiving the higher pay rate. Under the new pay scale, teachers only will have to work in the district 10 days to receive the full daily substitute rate of $41 per day.

Personnel Director Debra Wangrud told the board that Northville and Garden City have the lowest substitute pay rate of the 17 school districts with which Northville compares itself.

The new increase will bring the daily rate up from $35 to $38 and the adjustment rate from $38 after 20 days to $41 after 10. Substitutes in the same assignment for 10 days or more will receive $45 per day.

The average daily pay rate for substitutes in surrounding districts is $41 per day. Districts with the highest substitute salaries include Farmington at $49 per day with an adjustment rate of $66 after the tenth day and Southfield with a daily rate of $47.50 per day with a $55.50 daily rate after the tenth day.

Many substitutes "have notified us that they will place their names with districts paying more than Northville."

— Debra Wangrud,
Personnel Director

Wangrud pointed out to the board that many substitutes retained by the district "have notified us that they will place their names with districts paying more than Northville."

She said approval of the new rate hopefully will help the district retain its substitutes.

Noting that the current pay rate was established for the 1982-83 school year, Wangrud pointed out that the board's approval of the proposal amounts to an

- overall eight percent increase for a four percent average over the last two years.
- The increase in cost based on last year's usage would be an addition of approximately $5,200 to the K-12 program and $1,600 to special education.
- In other action last Monday, the school board:
- Awarded a contract to Long Plumbing Company of Northville for the receiving, unloading and installation of boilers at the high school in an amount not to exceed $138,800;
 - Awarded a contract to Roberts Electric Company for the completion of Amerman, Cooke, Meads Mill and Moraine Energy Conservation Measures in an amount not to exceed $12,490;
 - Awarded a contract to Mid-Western Sanitation, Inc. for district-wide trash removal for the 1984-85 school year in an amount not to exceed $5,985 and the 1985-86 school year in an amount not to exceed $6,164.55;
 - Awarded a contract to McDonald Ford to supply two Ford Ranger vehicles in amounts not to exceed $9,254 and $8,735.

Salem to begin receiving royalties from landfill operation

Salem Township coffers will soon begin receiving royalties from the production and sale of methane gas extracted from the huge Holloway Company landfill operation at Six Mile and Napier roads.

John Birkinbine Jr., regional marketing manager for Getty Synthetic Fuels of California, said the company expected to begin providing gas to Holloway's asphalt plant, just west of the landfill, as early as last Thursday.

"We'll be paying royalties on that (methane fuel) while we're in the process of building the high quality gas production needed for such customers as Consumers (Power) and MichCon," the marketing manager added.

When the township first entered into a three-way agreement on methane production with Getty and Holloway in January 1981, it was estimated that production could run as high as 1 1/2 million cubic feet a day. Last week, Birkinbine upped that figure to a guesstimated three billion cubic feet daily.

Under the production agreement, the township and Holloway will split 50-50 the standard one-eighth (12.4 percent) royalties from the methane, which is a by-product of the decomposing waste in the fill. The township currently owns 77 acres of landfill, while Holloway owns another 88 acres. A ski slope of trash and earth is being constructed on the 77-acre parcel with a completion date of 1988. The other 88 acres will be turned over to the township when the ski slope is completed under an earlier agreement with Holloway.

In addition, Holloway recently received the right to expand the landfill to a 168-acre site adjacent to the current landfill. Birkinbine said his company is currently discussing a methane production contract with Holloway on that property as well.

As extracted from the landfill, the gas is approximately 60 percent methane and 40 percent carbon dioxide, Birkinbine explained. While this mix is adequate for industrial uses, the carbon dioxide, moisture and trace elements must be extracted before the methane is pure enough to be fed into a utility company's pipeline, Birkinbine explained.

Contract talks for methane sales are currently in progress with both Consumers and MichCon, Birkinbine reported. In the meantime, he said Getty is pleased to be providing fuel for the asphalt plant, which would traditionally need its highest quantities of gas in the summer when utility usage is lower.

No estimate of how much revenue the methane project will bring into the township is available at this time, Birkinbine said. Salem Supervisor Richard Sackett has said in the past that some "big bucks" are headed Salem's way under the methane agreement.

The Getty representative added that once contracts are signed with one or both of the utilities, the company will determine the size of the plant to be erected on the Salem site. "As soon as permitting (from the township) is taken care of, we will bring the plant in," he explained, adding that the plant is built in part on skids ready to move in.

Birkinbine estimated that production of methane at the Salem landfill would probably last 17-23 years or as long as the landfill has enough quality gas to make extraction feasible. "Under the lease agreement we will remove the plant and restore the site to its original condition or we can leave the wells in place so that the owner can extract gas if that is desired," the Getty marketing manager said.

"The methane extraction will not interfere with the operation of the landfill or the building of the ski slope," Birkinbine added. "What we do (in extracting methane) would enhance the area rather than detract from it because we keep down the gases that might otherwise be emitted."

"Methane and carbon dioxide have no odor but there are other gases produced by the decay in the landfill. The methane, if not extracted, can push this (other gas) to the surface. In addition, methane crowds out oxygen so that the roots of grass and trees cannot get the supply they need to grow."

"We just don't think there is any 'down side' to our methane extraction operation"

Lower millage rate approved

Salem Township residents will be paying slightly less operating millage for township government next year due to action taken by the township board at its August 8 meeting.

The board set the operating millage levy for the coming year at 1.11 mills as opposed to the 1.16 currently being levied for this purpose. The reduced rate is due, the board said, to requirements of the Headlee Tax Amendment. Salem Treasurer Harvey Barkley confirmed that due to this residents will see a slight reduction in their tax bills unless their property evaluation has increased during the past year.

Township Clerk Nancy Geiger said the board is allowed to set the operating millage without a vote of the people as long as the levy is not raised.

TAX TIPS
LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

TAX ADVICE FOR MOONLIGHTERS

If you have an income producing hobby or a part-time business to supplement your regular income, you can defer taxes on the extra money you earn by putting it into a special account for your retirement years. You can do this even though you may have a pension plan where you work or are investing the limit of $2,000 in an Individual Retirement Account. The attractive supplement is known as the Keogh Plan. Under the Keogh Plan, the Internal Revenue Service allows you to invest up to 15 percent or $15,000, whichever is less, of your income from self-employment tax-free. You can continue to add funds to your Keogh Plan up to the age of fifty-nine and a half without paying tax. But if you use any of those funds before then, you're liable to a penalty tax of 10 percent.

With inflation and cost of living increases expected to continue, the more money you have for your retirement years the better. Why not make an appointment with us to discuss the tax savings opportunities available to you under the new tax law?

Cuts in federal funds threaten regional sewage route

Novi City Council decided Monday to pursue an injunction to prevent the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) from releasing to other projects funds that local officials believe should be earmarked for a regional sewer system.

The council's action was precipitated by the EPA's refusal Friday to certify a grant application for the Huron Rouge Wastewater Treatment system. The denial means the loss of an anticipated 75 percent federal funding for the regional sewer system, formerly known as Super Sewer.

As a result, the best the city now can hope for is that the federal government will provide 55 percent of the project cost. However, city officials worst fear is that the reduced funding will kill the regional sewer project altogether.

City of Novi Attorney David Fried was authorized to investigate the city's legal position and advise the council as to whether the city should take on the EPA. Fried will present his findings to the council before proceeding with legal action.

A lawsuit that will serve as a "stranglehold" to keep the EPA from diverting funds to other projects was strongly recommended by Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall.

"We feel our ox was gored the worst and recommend that we pursue this matter in the courts," Kriewall said.

Kriewall explained he believes his city's right to plan and develop have been violated by the arbitrary action of the EPA. Novi applied for a treatment plant permit in 1973 and was told at that time that it must participate in the regional planning process, Kriewall said. Novi and 17 other communities, including Northville, worked for 10 years to come up with a regional sewer plan.

"We exercised patience and cooperation in the regional planning process. We should have to put up with no more of this," Kriewall said.

Kriewall suggested that other communities participating in the sewer project may join the battle if Novi files suit to block the EPA from releasing funds to other projects.

"We think the other communities will follow our lead," Kriewall said. "Our issue is more serious. We want to cooperate with other communities, but we want to move to initiate legal action to funding for this project set aside."

Council Member Arlen Schroeder said he had heard the EPA's decision was "fairly clear cut" — the environmental impact statement for the project was inadequate. Schroeder questioned if it was worth the city's while to expend the legal fees if the studies were in fact inadequate.

Kriewall responded that documentation of the project's environmental impact had been accepted by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (MDNR).

"The EPA delegated everything to the DNR except the issuance of a 'finding of no significant impact,'" he said. "The DNR has found the project is environmentally sound. Originally, Ann Arbor was in this project and the EPA let Ann Arbor proceed with its own treatment plant with less environmental impact information than was provided on this project. The part of the system that has undergone a more thorough analysis has been blocked. We think the EPA is being arbitrary."

If the city cannot block the issuance of federal funds, it must at least seek release from the regional planning process, Kriewall said. "We've been forced into a regional planning process that doesn't work. Environmentally, we think regional planning was the proper thing to do. Now we're not so sure."

Oakland County officials concurred that the project's environmental affects had been fully documented.

"Remarkably, the EPA said there was a lack of data showing the need for the system," commented Frank

Naglich of the Oakland County Sewer and Water Division. "They said there was no time to deal with unanswered questions or review additional data."

The EPA raised objections to the split sewer system similar to those claimed by Plymouth and Canton townships in a lawsuit filed against the DNR. Their opposition to the split system included questions about the ability of the Detroit system to provide sufficient capacity to handle the northern communities. While Plymouth and Canton opposed the new system in court, communities such as Commerce and Wixom agreed to join the Detroit-bound sewer plan only when offered no alternative.

To qualify for 75 percent federal funding the project had to be certified as grant eligible by the EPA before October 1, when the federal fiscal year begins. Projects approved after October 1 could qualify for federal funding reduced to 55 percent.

"I think the EPA was concerned with the 75 percent funding. I think they are more comfortable at the 55 percent level. They are very open about that now," Naglich commented. "But going from a 25 percent local share to a 45 percent local share will make continuing this project difficult for a number of communities."

Local officials are not hopeful about continuing the project with a 55 percent federal contribution. The northern tier of the system included three Oakland County communities — Commerce Township, Wixom and Novi.

First Presbyterian Church hosts drug, alcohol seminar

Seminars on alcohol and substance abuse currently are being conducted at 11 a.m. Sunday mornings at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

For the next two Sundays the topic of the talks being given in the office of the minister of Christian education will be alcohol awareness and the effect of alcohol on the body.

Dr. Frank Hollingsworth, director of Phoenix Alcohol Therapy Sessions, Inc., of Garden City, is the speaker for the two sessions.

Beginning October 7 and continuing four successive Sundays at 11 a.m. the topic will be substance abuse in adults.

These sessions will deal with prescription drugs, marijuana and cocaine and effects on the body.

Speaker for the first week will be Dr. Marcia Anderson. She is a nationally known authority on substance abuse and a member of Personalized Care, P.C., a substance abuse counseling group located in Detroit.

Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain, church pastor, notes that "Dr. Anderson has surprising and disturbing information and is an engaging speaker."

Fee for all the classes is $15. The public is welcome.

St. Mary offers health talks

St. Mary Hospital of Livonia is announcing the establishment of a speakers' bureau that includes a roster of programs related to health and family living for presentation to groups in the communities served by the hospital.

The bureau is staffed by health care professionals who can be scheduled to speak to community, school and church organizations.

The hospital announces that programs can be arranged on the following topics:

Nutrition and Diet Tips; Restoring Health through Physical Therapy Exercises; Rehabilitating Stroke, Cardiac and Arthritis Patients; Adaptive Devices for Stroke, Cardiac and Arthritis Patients; Containing Hospital Costs; Spotlight on the Volunteer's Role; Medications — Their Use and Abuse; What Happens After I'm Discharged from the Hospital? and Help for the Homebound — a Voice-to-Voice Communication System.

The speakers' bureau is a community service of the hospital. Programs are offered without cost, but donations will be accepted to the hospital education fund.

People interested in scheduling a speaker for groups of 15 or more persons should contact the public relations department at 464-4800, extension 2596, at least two weeks before the event.

School Notebook

BRIGID McNEELY of 20191 Whipple Drive, a 1984 Our Lady of Mercy High School graduate, has been named an Insignis Scholar by the University of Detroit.

The University has named 30 recent high school graduates for the honor, which includes a four-year half-tuition and full-room scholarship for undergraduate study at the university.

Insignis, the Latin word for "outstanding," depicts the rigorous criteria candidates must meet to be considered for the Insignis Scholarship program. To compete for the half-tuition and full-room scholarship, students must score within the top five percent nationally on the college board examinations and graduate in the top 10 percent of their high school class.

GREGORY ALAN CHRZANOWSKI, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.P. Chrzanowski of 41131 Croydon Court, was among the students named to the dean's list in the School of Engineering and Applied Science at Washington University in St. Louis for the spring semester.

He is a Catholic Central High School graduate.

DIANA SCHNEIDER of 21997 Ironside has been awarded a Lawrence Institute of Technology Scholarship for the 1984-85 academic year. The full-tuition scholarship is renewable each year.

Schneider, a 1984 Northville High School graduate, is an incoming student in LIT's physics program.

SARAH CONLON, a 1982 Northville High School graduate and daughter of Judith Conlon of 42130 Farragut and W.A. Conlon of 35484 Heritage, is among the Alma College students whose scholarships have been renewed for the 1984-85 academic year.

Sarah is a junior at Alma.

Three Northville residents are among the 1,100 students named to the Liberal Arts Dean's List for outstanding achievement at Wayne State University.

Students named to the dean's list include LINDA GRANDSTAFF, 1051 Allen Drive; GREGORY LEWIS, 18244 Jamestown Circle, and LISA

WOODEN, 41725 Rayburn.

To be named to the dean's list, a student must maintain a grade point average of 3.6 or higher as a full time student.

Two Northville residents were among the Kalamazoo College students named to the dean's list for the past quarter.

JANE S. FIELD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Field of 43556 Six Mile, and TINA RAE STOECKLIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Stoecklin of 21856 North Center, were named to the dean's list with grade point averages of 3.5 or better.

Northville resident JAMES KINVILLE was among the Grand Valley State College students receiving degrees.

Kinvill earned a bachelor of science degree from GVS.

MARK DOZIER, son of Tillman and Margaret Dozier of Northville, was awarded an Intermediate Boys Honor Camper award during closing ceremonies at the National Music Camp at Interlochen August 19.

A 14-year-old pianist, Mark enjoys tennis, science and forensics and is looking toward a career in medicine.

He attended the University of Michigan's All-State Program at Interlochen last summer.

Northville resident GARY BEASON, a senior in mechanical engineering at Michigan Technological University, was among 82 students named to the dean's list for the summer quarter.

To be named to the dean's list, a student must earn at least a 3.5 grade point average.

DAVID SNYDER of 47500 Six Mile Road, was among the 490 students receiving bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University at the end of the spring session of the 1983-84 school year.

JAMES P. LYONS, son of Michael and Vernice Lyons of 19851 Smock, is serving as stage manager for the Northern Michigan University production of "The Fantasticks."

The production begins today on the NMU campus.

Lyons is a freshman majoring in theatre.

Community education classes under way

Leisure classes offered through Northville Public Schools' Community Education Program got under way last week with a host of offerings.

Fall classes and workshops for both children and adults include arts and crafts, cooking, finance, new skills, women in business, computers, physical fitness and much more.

Classes beginning September 24 are Computer, Color Analysis, Bridge, English Smocking, Women in Business and children's classes.

Arts and crafts classes offered this fall include Christmas Country Painting (a two-week course teaching step-by-step techniques for painting wooden Christmas ornaments), Crochet, Drawing, English Smocking and English Smocking Sampler, Japanese Bunka Embroidery, Picture Framing, Pine Cone Wreath, Porcelain Doll, Quilting, Stained Glass Stenciling and Bridge.

Among the new crafts offerings is Marketing Arts and Crafts which will be offered for two weeks beginning September 27.

A Chinese Cooking class, which will be offered for six weeks at Northville High School, will teach participants the use of the wok and food preparation techniques.

Lamaze classes, under the direction of Nancy VanDerworp, will get under way Wednesday evenings beginning October 10 for five weeks.

Finance offerings include Begin Your Own Business, Estate Planning, Financial Planning, Pre-Retirement Seminar, Retirement Financing, Tax Shelter Techniques and Women & Money.

New Skills classes include Automotive Repair, Dog Obedience, Intermediate Dog Obedience, Furniture Refinishing and Shoestrapping Decorating. Special Interest classes include Photography, Single Is Fun, CPR and Color Analysis.

A series of Women in Business mini-workshops are being offered in daytime and evening sessions beginning September 25.

Workshops will focus on Do You Really Want to Go Into Business? So You Really Do Want to Go Into Business! and Keeping Track of Your New Business.

Two hypnosis clinics — Stop Smoking and Weight Loss — will be offered September 26.

After School classes for kids include Basics of Acting, Drawing, Fundamentals of Drama, Fun with French, German I and Spanish I.

A new offering, Encyclopedia Brown's Super Sleuths, invites kids to test "sleuthing" abilities by exploring fingerprinting, secret codes, invisible ink writing and more.

Schoolcraft counselor receives certification

Schoolcraft College counselor Bill Heise is among the first group of career counselors in the country to receive certification by the National Vocational Guidance Association.

Heise, a Schoolcraft counselor since 1969 and currently serving in its career planning and placement center, recently received notice that he has qualified for certification and listing in the National Registry for Career Counselors.

He is one of three counselors in the state who met qualifications of educational achievement, professional experience and passing a national examination to receive the newly-established award. There are 200 members nationally in this select group.

National certification by a professional counseling organization recognizes that career counseling is a specialized field, requiring expertise and experience. To maintain the certification, a career counselor must complete 100 hours of advanced training every five years.

Barbara A. Gell, vice president for student services, said, "The career counseling credential will offer another dimension of credibility to the service the college offers the community."

She added that it also signifies a quality of professionalism expected by the Schoolcraft community.

"The demand for career counseling has increased over the last several years," according to Heise. "Services are now being extended beyond the college walls into the community to service groups, businesses and industry."

In addition to counseling activities, Heise has co-chaired Schoolcraft's recent "futures" exposition which focused on future careers and job options, conducted workshops for area business, and has spoken extensively on career development and employment to community groups.

Heise holds both master's and specialist's degrees in guidance and counseling from the University of Michigan.

Puranen finishes military course

Second Lieutenant Pamela J. Puranen, daughter of Wilfred and Evelyn J. Puranen of 19863 Silver Springs Drive, has completed the U.S. Air Force military indoctrination for medical service officers at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

The course acquaints newly commissioned medical personnel with professional and administrative responsibilities as Air Force officers.

A 1979 graduate of Northville High School, Second Lieutenant Puranen received her Bachelor of Science degree in nursing from Northern Michigan University where she was an honor graduate with a 3.3 grade point average. She presently is stationed at Ellsworth Air Force Base in Rapid City, South Dakota.

Metropark races

The deadline for early registration for The Kensington Challenge races at Kensington Metropark is quickly approaching.

September 22 is the deadline to register for either the 5 kilometer or 15 kilometer races scheduled for Saturday, September 29. The entry fee is $8 including a mesh singlet, or $5 without the shirt. After September 22, the entry fee will be $6 with no singlet.

The fun run begins at 8:30 a.m., followed by the 15 kilometer run at 9 a.m. and the 5 kilometer race at 9:10 a.m. All races begin and end at Martindale Beach in the Metropark.

Northville... A Great Community to Live In!

People working together for the good of the community. That is what Northville is known for.

Ever since you elected me as your representative on the Schoolcraft College Board of Trustees, I have worked hard to provide Northville residents with a great community college... just as you work hard to keep Northville a great place to live and work.

I am now asking your help one more time.

I want to take this spirit of cooperation and hard work and put it into practice on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

You showed your faith in me once by electing me to the Schoolcraft Board — I would like you to join with me one more time and let's work to make Wayne County a great place to live.

Our Opinions

Let's rethink fee

Sometimes it seems that sense makes its way only slowly into our brains. For a long time now we have generally conceded to the township its right to append a one percent administrative fee to property tax bills, but in thinking it through once again last week we have to consider that it may not be the ideal way to handle the costs of collecting taxes for other agencies.

We don't question that the money derived from the fee is necessary to maintain the quality treasurer's department the township has operated in recent years, only that it should be found somewhere else. When it has been argued in the past that the township should charge not the taxpayers, but the school districts, community colleges and other authorities who have their taxes collected here, we've joined in the chorus that it "makes no difference." After all, we argued, if you charge the school district for collections, the school district will only turn around and raise their tax levy to cover the cost. The same people get hit for the same cost, and likely a bit more for paperwork, it seems.

But look at it a little more closely and that argument is not entirely true. If Northville Township charges the one percent fee, it charges every township property owner, but only township property owners. If the charges are made to the school district, and taxes go up to cover them, the cost is paid by the entire district, which includes the city, part of Salem Township and part of the city of Novi. What is rightfully a school district cost is then paid by the district — those who use a service pay for it.

This situation is clouded somewhat if all the collecting agencies charge the fee — then each community's residents might be said to paying their own fair share of the cost. But the fee is not universal; so property owners in areas that charge the fee pay their own share while others in other communities may not (it's not entirely clear — perhaps the area not charging a fee has raised its own tax instead).

The point is not whether or not certain residents of a school district or park service area are being treated inequitably — that, we have seen, is difficult to determine. The problem is that the only way to be certain everyone is charged an equitable amount is to have the cost of collecting taxes taken out of the budget for which the taxes are collected, not the budget of the agency that merely passes the money along. All uncertainty then fades away, or nearly so.

For we have one other consideration. If the cost of collecting for other government agencies is so burdensome, and the result $12,000 of red ink (as was implied in the deputy treasurer's assessment of the situation last week), why wouldn't the township simply let the school district go out and collect the taxes on its own? The answer is evident — because tax collections would still have to be made for the township itself and whatever other agencies managed to require it under state law, but if the school district were taken out of the bill, the one percent fee becomes almost meaningless in the amount of revenue produced to offset what is essentially a fixed cost (preparing a tax roll, printing bills, mailing them and processing the returns costs pretty nearly the same amount whether you collect $1 or $1,000).

What's difficult to determine is how much of the cost belongs to the township itself for its piddling share of the amount collected. If it came out to $12,000, everything would be very tidy indeed, but that seems a pretty large share of the estimated $96,000 cost. On the other hand, it's offset by interest earnings for the township between the time the taxpayers ante up and the time the money is handed over to the proper authority.

In the end, it looks as though the township itself just about breaks even on this deal. Which is as it should be. Unfortunately, so long as the collections are paid for by the present method, taxpayers will always suspect that the township is making money hand-over-fist at their expense while the agencies that actually reap the benefits show no costs at all. And that, to make a long story short, is why we're beginning to change our minds.

ed equally between its sponsor and community organizations. A consistent beneficiary has been King's Daughters in Northville, for example.

Charities to receive proceeds are selected by a Board of Awards representing communities that support town hall with their attendance. Recipients are chosen from requests they submit. In order to continue its awards, town hall twice in the past has dipped into retaining funds to be able to keep its community commitment. It's not too late to subscribe to hear Diller, TV's Mort Crim, pianist Bernie Katz and Bess Abel. The lecture series is $25. Luncheons are $10.20 each including tax and gratuity. Checks go to Northville Town Hall, P.O. Box 93.

Town Hall: asset

The appearance of Phyllis Diller on October 11 at Northville Town Hall will mark the beginning of that organization's 24th year. As the lecture series moves to a new location in the Novi Sheraton Oaks for both the program and luncheon, it seems a good time to acknowledge town hall's continuing contributions to the communities that support it — as well as the efforts of its volunteers.

Newcomers to Northville often are surprised to find that a top-notch celebrity series exists and that it is completely non-profit run by volunteers under sponsorship of Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church. Further, the proceeds from every season following the first in 1961-62 have been divid-

Cruise control put to the test

The Michigan Secretary of State says I'm a safe driver to put on the road. Not as safe as some others, mind you, even though I've never been in an accident. But some can renew their drivers' licenses by mail, and I can't. Why not? A few speeding tickets in the past four years — the latest for a big, bad 5 mph over the limit. So, thanks to radar speed traps, I had to go into the secretary of state's office and take a test. Not a driving test, mind you, but the standard 15 question multiple choice quiz a chimpanzee could do in the dark.

"Got 'em all," said the friendly clerk as she handed me the coveted "license." Now, my dictionary says a license is "official permission to do or own a specified thing." It also offers a second definition: "unusual freedom justified by extenuating circumstance." Knowing what I do about cars and driving, I wish the driver's license were something more like the latter definition. I wish the test had been tougher, not only for me but for everyone. I know a lot of bozos who could sweep through that test. And you'll get a license if you get some of those questions wrong. If you miss more than two, please put a red flag on your antenna so I can keep a safe distance away.

For instance, you are asked how closely you can safely follow a car in front of you: 1/2 second behind, one second behind or two seconds behind. Anyone who has ever taken a multiple choice test and understands how they work can take a wild guess at 2 seconds. Few drivers follow that far behind, but we all know how to tell the teacher what he/she wants to hear.

But try doing more — try thinking about it. Remember how you were taught to follow one car-length behind for each 10 mph of speed? They changed it because cars got shorter and because the distance allowed was actually too short to start. If that car ahead hits something and stops dead, you'd better be able to stop before you hit it. Sixty miles per hour (which makes the calculations easy because it's one mile per minute) is 88 feet per second (trust me). So two seconds is 176 feet at 60 mph. The old "car length" standard dates from a time when a standard car ran 17- or 18-feet long (by contrast, a common economy hatchback is maybe 13 feet today, complete with 5 mph bumpers). Say 18 feet, times six (one for each 10 mph) and you get 108 feet. Now for the esoteric bit — the trained drivers who do road tests for the car magazines will bring a good-braking car to a stop from 60 mph in 145-150 feet. Some cars can stop shorter, most run longer. If, instead of modulating the brakes the way the pros do it, you lock the wheels up, you can go 150 feet without stopping even at 30 mph on dry cement.

Give yourself a split second to recognize the danger ahead and move your foot from accelerator to brake (remember, in one-half second you've gone 44 feet) and the two-second distance of 176 feet starts looking mighty short. Go back to the car-length standard and 108 feet looks very marginal even if the car ahead only slows suddenly. And the one-second distance of 88 feet seems like daredevil stuff, though many of us do it day-in and day-out. If you guessed one-half second for a following distance you're tailgating, despite what looks like maybe three car lengths between you and the car ahead.

Of course, no one goes through all this rigamarole at Richard Austin's little outposts. They just checkmark the longest distance and move on to guess that 75 percent of highway fatalities involve drinking drivers (the highest choice among three). I'd wager that even fewer people think about that one.

Regardless of the dictionary definition, most of us understand a "license" as being something that grants you a privilege because you've proven yourself responsible enough to handle it. Unfortunately, we have created a situation where driving is considered a right rather than a privilege, and the licensing officials don't dare test stringently enough to deny anyone of minimal competence that little card. Maybe we ought to start calling them licenses to kill.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

It was one of those moments when you wish you could crawl into a hole and the world would go away for several hours.

Don't get me wrong — my wife is a wonderful person and all that. It's just that she has this superiority complex as far as her spouse is concerned.

She likes to think she's always right. And even when she's wrong, she won't admit it.

It happened again Sunday. I was attempting to be a dutiful husband and stay on her good side by folding my socks after they came out of the dryer. The only problem was that when I got done, I was left with one black sock and one dark blue sock — a non-pair.

When I pointed out the problem, she asked if I had attempted to find the missing mates.

"Yes, my pet. I checked the dryer to no avail. And I can't find any unmatched socks in the sock drawer either. I know it's hard to believe, but I suspect you dropped them somewhere along the route from the hamper to the washing machine."

I knew she'd deny it. She's generally unreceptive to the suggestion she may have done something wrong. And I was right. She wasn't about to believe she had been responsible in any way for the missing socks.

"There is another possibility, you know?" she added simply. "There's one place I'll bet you forgot to check."

She'd done it again. Placed me on the defensive in our never-ending battle between the sexes. I had already checked the sock drawer, the dryer, the hamper and the route from the hamper to the washing machine without success. And I couldn't think of anywhere else to look, so I broke down and asked her to identify the mysterious place she figured I had forgotten to check.

"When's the last time you checked your feet?" she asked.

I waited till she left the room before I pulled up my pant legs and discovered the location of the missing socks.

After dinner she again asked if I had found the missing socks.

"Yes, light of my life," I told her. "Somewhere they got stuck behind the clothes hamper."

Neighbor supports Miller family

Program to help curb illiteracy

EDITOR'S NOTE: This letter to the editor was sent as an open letter to Mrs. Delany in reference to Miller's Bump Shop and its landscaping.

"Just where do you get off trying to tell people how to run their business by dictating its outside appearance?"

I really resent it when relative newcomers to a community try to tell us old timers how to run our town. George Miller, his dad and his grandfather have lived in Northville all their lives and have contributed to its growth and well being.

Carole Miller has lived here all of her 41 (sorry, Carole) years and has been active in the town, the school and the church. Everyone knows and loves Carole's mom, Violet Tabor. She does the kind of things for her church, friends and family that you never read about (not to mention Northville's stray animals.) Most old timers will remember Violet's parents, the Alex Johnsons, who also worked so hard to help make Northville what it is.

What has this to do with the bump shop?

Not much, except the real people of Northville who know George and Carole and their ancestors are willing to give them the time they need to work on their shop's appearance. The real people of Northville are tolerant, patient, understanding and, most of all, caring.

They know Carole and George are doing their best. These real people, like the Millers, were in Northville long before you and will be her long after you, Mrs. Delany.

Go get 'em, George and Carole!

Donations sought for needy residents

To the Editor:

Civic Concern Committee is in serious need of clothes, size 46 or 48, for a gentleman whose house burned leaving him (only) what he was wearing at the time of the fire.

We greatly appreciate the kindness and generosity of the wonderful folks of Northville, and we urge you to respond in this instance.

Clothes may be taken to Ann Roy at 150 North Center or to 43643 Nine Mile. Or call 349-0854. We thank you.

Sincerely,
Civic Concern Committee

By R. ROBERT GEAKE
State Senator

If you can read this, you are better off than some of your fellow Michiganiens.

About 15 percent, or 800,000, of the adults in this state are functionally illiterate — most can read and write slightly, but not enough to fill out a job application, apply for a driver's license, or perform many other basic functions.

As part of a national literacy effort announced by President Reagan in 1983, Michigan will become one of the first states to take action by adopting a five-year program aimed at cutting the illiteracy rate in half.

The state Department of Education recently outlined the Michigan Adult Literacy Initiative. The program will rely heavily on a corps of 3,000 volunteers who will work closely and individually with the adults participating.

Also planned are a statewide advertising campaign to encourage those with poor reading and math skills to come forward and receive assistance, as well as classes conducted in factories, public school classrooms, community centers and churches.

The classes will be free to state residents of any age without a high school diploma, and to those under age 20 with or without a high school diploma. There is also a conscious effort in the works to promote partnerships involving public and private agencies to further adult literacy.

The basic structure of the program will center around adult education programs already in place. Last year alone, about 60,000 adults took part in Adult Basic Education in Michigan.

The additional reading and math classes are set to begin in conjunction with a national literacy push planned for November.

The hardest part of the plan is to reach those who need help, and go beyond their feelings of inadequacy and embarrassment. Today's high-tech job market requires a literate work force. With increased education and assistance, not only can those unable to compete become more literate, but also more employable. It is a program certainly worth the best effort of everyone involved.

I hate to say we told them so, but we told them so.

Months ago, when legislators were deep in the debate of tax increases and subsequent tax rollback proposals, one of the most hotly contested areas of disagreement was over budget surplus predictions.

Senate Republicans, going on statistics provided by the non-partisan Senate Fiscal Agency, argued that the surplus would be around $200 million. The latest figures, reflecting a growing Michigan economy, are near $350 million.

The Executive Office and the Department of Management and Budget initially projected no more than a $25 million surplus. By April, they had raised that projection to $235 million, and have recently released figures that show a general fund surplus of $271.7 million at the end of the 1983-84 fiscal year, which ends on September 30.

This wouldn't normally be a cause for comment. There is no reason to object to a carryover of funds from one year to the next. In this instance, however, opponents of an accelerated tax rollback plan claimed there was just not enough money to cover any additional expenses like an early tax rollback.

An agreement was finally reached that reduced the income tax from 6.1 percent to 5.35 percent a mere three months before it would have occurred anyway. Even after the rollback plan was put in place, their projections show nearly $300 million in surplus.

Although the governor and other Democrats claim there is not enough money to increase the tax rollback any further, Senate Republicans are continuing to explore the possibility.

Solid waste management plan approved

A solid waster management plan for Wayne County was approved August 23 by county commissioners and will be forwarded to 43 local communities for consideration, according to Commissioner Mary F. Dumas.

Although the original plan included the Browning-Ferris Industries' (BFI) subsidiary, Lyon Development, the commission, led by Commissioner Milton Mack, objected to the inclusion of the landfill and returned the plan to the Solid Waste Management Committee for its consideration.

The committee concurred, and the commissioners supported the plan at the board's full session August 23 with Commissioner Stanley Rozycki casting the only dissenting vote, said Dumas.

The management plan, three years in the developing, operated under Act 641 and is concerned only with type I (rub-bish produced by residents) and type II (inert material such as concrete chunks, etc.) waste.

The plan includes the City Sand Company with a landfill in Sumpter Township, Waste Management Company with a landfill in Canton Township (Woodland Meadows) and Wayne Disposal near the Willowrun Airport. BFI, although having its Lyon Landfill rejected, is included as a hauler for several individual communities and operates a transfer station near Redford.

County solid waste material accumulates at a rate that would fill Tiger Stadium every two weeks. Estimates indicate the county has less than eight years of landfill capacity remaining. Macomb County, whose solid waste management plan included management, but not capacity, has less than six months of storage left and is searching for landfill sites outside its boundaries.

Oakland County's plan currently is in court, where county commissioners are challenging the right of its solid waste management committee to override a decision to enlarge one of its landfills from 20 to 200 acres.

Wayne County Commissioners are urging local communities to give prompt consideration to the plan, the Commissioner said. Once 29 of the county's 43 cities and townships approve the plan, the proposal will be sent to Michigan Department of Natural Resources Director Dr. Ronald Skoogs, who has six months to either approve or deny it.

Once approved, the plan will dictate management of the county's waste and disposal for the next 20 years. Landfill development companies not included will be denied operating permits although construction permits might have been issued earlier by MDNR, according to a spokesman for the county's planning commission, one of two agencies designated by the county commission to prepare the solid waste management plan. The county health department is the second agency involved.

James Collier, attorney for BFI, has threatened to file suit in circuit court in an effort to force the plan to include its Lyon site, a site that has been the center of controversy among downriver residents represented by Commissioner Mack. Mack asserted, in a previous meeting, that unless the site was removed from the proposed plan, at least 15 communities would reject the plan.

Any such rejection would mean its takeover by the MDNR, an action that would virtually eliminate any input by local units of government, the commission was told.

State Chamber gives Geake perfect evaluation rating

The Michigan State Chamber of Commerce has given Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) a perfect rating of 100 percent in its annual evaluation of state senators and representatives on business issues.

The Job Provider's Index, prepared each legislative session by the chamber, assesses the voting records of state legislators on proposals of interest to Michigan's employers.

The issues this session included reform in Michigan's unemployment compensation and worker's compensation guidelines, a federal balanced budget amendment, re-establishment of the "waiting week," gubernatorial appointments, and the controversial reapportionment plan.

"I am extremely pleased about my rating," said Senator Geake, "but even more pleased that it reflects a more business oriented, equitable situation in Michigan's overall economic picture."

Less than one quarter of the 38 senate members received as high a rating as Senator Geake. His cumulative rating for the past four years is 98 percent in support of legislation favoring Michigan's job providers.

"For too long, our businesses have borne the brunt of a pro-labor government. It is about time we started providing some relief to those who provide jobs," said Geake.

Audubon Society sale under way

Area residents will be able to order wild bird food products from the Detroit Audubon Society during its seventh annual sale that began this week and continues through September 25.

Orders can be picked up October 21 in Livonia in the north end parking lot of the Ford Motor Company, 29500 Plymouth at Middlebelt. Varieties available to order include sunflower seed, mixed seed, sunflower hearts, peanut pieces, thistle and suet cakes.

Orders may be placed at the society's office in Royal Oak, telephone 545-2929, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. The sale helps to support the Audubon Society's nature sanctuary program.

BBB an aid to business, too

By DIC DOUMANIAN

When consumers have a complaint about a business, or want to check to see if a certain business is legitimate, they call the Better Business Bureau.

But the bureau is not just for consumer protection. It also helps businesses.

This independent, non-profit organization is funded by fees by business members. According to Ann Slawnik, a spokesperson for the bureau, it attempts to combat consumer fraud and promote self-regulation.

The BBB has a hotline members can call to request information, file complaints or give information. The bureau also produces a number of publications and pamphlets for its members and consumers, and occasionally holds seminars.

The bureau, according to Slawnik, does not provide legal advice or credit information. It also will not give recommendations or endorsements of businesses.

Approximately 3,000 businesses belong to Detroit and Eastern Michigan Better Business Bureau. The bureau keeps a file on all members and also a large number of non-members. If a consumer were to inquire about a business, the bureau would give the caller a rating — from satisfactory to non-satisfactory — based on the business's past record in dealing with complaints.

"When we issue a report," said Slawnik, "whether the company is member or not, the report will tell about its complaint response."

To be a member of the Better Business Bureau, a business must be in operation for at least six months and not have a pattern of complaints against it. The bureau is run by a board of directors, elected by members, which appoints a president.

"We ask them to respond to any complaints, that's the big one," said Slawnik of bureau's suggestions for being a member in good standing. "We want them to display the (member's) plaque. It promotes good will and shows people it is a business with integrity and ethics."

The Better Business Bureau wants to protect the buying power of the consumer, encourage honest business and inform the public on how to do business so the consumer can buy intelligently and gain maximum satisfaction from purchases.

The bureau receives millions of complaints and inquiries each year. Its services are free to consumers.

The Better Business Bureau keeps files on many individual business firms and organizations and can provide people with information on them. The file contains information on how long the firm has been in business, whether or not customers have had problems, what the problems were and how the company handled the situation.

The bureau also relies on business people checking on each other. A number of reports are received each year from one business person complaining about another business.

When it comes to advertising and selling, the Better Business Bureau has developed certain standards for businesses to follow. Guidelines exist for businesses on the creation of their advertising and the sales promotion of their products and services.

Some information and data for this article was taken from the Better Business Bureau's book, Guide to Wise Buying.

Gitfiddler stays put

Ordinarily it wouldn't be news that Tom Rice does not plan to close his Gitfiddler Music Shop in Northville. But due to an unfortunate error, some people have gotten the impression Rice is getting ready to sell out.

Recent real estate listing books published by Metro MLS contain a photograph of The Gitfiddler building and those shopping the lists naturally assume something's afoot.

Annie Nichols of Nichols Realty explains: "It's a real problem for Realtors in the Northville area that outsiders don't understand we have East Main, West Main and South Main streets. I had a property at 312 South Main for sale and the photographer for the multilist got it wrong — he shot The Gitfiddler. The address there is 302 East Main."

By the time the error was discovered and arrangements could be made to correct it, eight weeks elapsed, Nichols said. "Tom (Rice) was really nice about it, but he says that since it ran for so long, he's getting people who are reluctant to buy from him because they think he's about to leave," Nichols added. "They should know he's staying."

V. GREG GIGLIO

JOAN LaMARRA

DEARBORN TURNING SYSTEMS of Dearborn, a division of Newcor Machine Tool Group, recently hired V. Greg Giglio to manage sales for the company's full line of turning machines.

Giglio, a resident of Milford, previously worked as general sales manager at Apex Corporation. As the new sales manager at Dearborn, Giglio is now responsible for all sales, proposals and service for standard CNC horizontal, slant-back and vertical lathes, as well as special bar feed lathes and complete flexible manufacturing systems.

JOAN LaMARRA of the Hair Carousel in Walled Lake recently completed training to make her one of an international network of fitness consultants affiliated with the new "Fitness for All Seasons" program introduced by "Beauty for All Seasons."

To become a consultant, a person must be trained by health care professionals in the individual computerized fitness program. Norma Virgin, president of Beauty for All Seasons, said the program is designed to help men and women look, feel and perform successfully.

The training program involved approximately 45 hours of classroom instruction and practical application in general nutrition, behavior modification, aerobic exercise, computer application and business situation analysis.

JANE ENGELBRECHT

JANE E. ENGELBRECHT has joined the staff of Detroit Edison's Oakland Division as an economic development consultant, according to Robert H. Kelley, assistant vice president and division manager.

The 29-year-old Engelbrecht will work with the economic development organizations in the division's 58 communities, as well as with its commercial and industrial customers in an effort to retain and expand existing businesses and attract new employers.

A resident of Berkley, Engelbrecht holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Central Michigan University and a master's degree in the same field from the University of Detroit. She has worked for Detroit Edison since 1977.

BURT GAVITT has been promoted to director of field operations for TAB Products Company of Palo Alto, California.

In his new position, Gavitt will be responsible for integrating the offices and sales representatives of the Electronic Office Product Division with the Office Filing Systems Division. This will include offices in 29 states, including Alaska and Hawaii.

Gavitt, a Milford resident, is a graduate of Michigan State University with a bachelor of arts degree in communication arts.

JAMES MCCREADY of Novi has been named a Fellow of the Society of Actuaries (FSA).

Actuaries are trained mathematicians who study and evaluate risks and determine the costs of benefit programs such as pension plans or life insurance policies. They also are frequently expert in the design of such programs in computer systems, finance, marketing and management.

To be named a Fellow, McCready successfully completed a lengthy course of study and examination on the financial analysis of risk and its application to life and health insurance, pensions and other security programs. Achieving Fellowship is comparable to receiving a Ph.D. in mathematics or business.

McCready received a bachelor's degree in actuarial science from the University of Texas in 1972. He is vice president, group actuarial and administration with Michigan Life Insurance Company in Southfield.

W. THOMAS MUNSELL, P.E. has expanded his structural engineering firm, giving it a new name and telephone number in the process. Munsell Associates, Consulting Engineers at 41550 Rayburn in Northville can now be reached at 420-2530.

With staff and facility additions, Munsell now provides a broader range of engineering expertise. Recently added to the firm is Tom Zawacki, a suma cum laude engineering graduate of the Lawrence Institute of Technology.

The firm provides service in structural system design, structural steel design, structural masonry design, energy conservation retrofit, forensic engineering, structural system repair, structural concrete design, roofing planning and repair and energy audits.

Clients include Clarenceville, Dexter, Rochester and Macomb Intermediate school districts, Detroit Catholic Schools, Cars & Concepts in Brighton, Franks Nursery and the Kingsley Inn.

TRUDY McMARTIN JOHNSON of McMartin's Jewelry on Main Street in Milford is pictured here with the Crown Jewels of Scotland.

Johnson attended the International Fall Seminar/Buying Show of Independent Jewelers Organization in Toronto, Canada.

The Crown is made of Scottish gold and is decorated with 94 pearls, 10 diamonds and over 30 other stones. It was last used for the coronation of Charles II at Scone in 1651, nine years before his restoration to the English throne.

Johnson is a member of the Independent Jewelers Organization, the largest buying group in the world whose combined sales volume exceeds $400 million annually.

THORNTON'S MINI STORAGE is celebrating its grand opening at 1570 Alloy Parkway in Highland.

Tax revisions affect us all

In an effort to reduce the federal deficit, close up some tax loopholes and make the rules more equitable, the U.S. Congress enacted the most complex and cumbersome tax act in history.

The 1984 Deficit Reduction Act (or Tax Reform Act) is the third major tax act in five years and probably not the last one. Its 1,450 pages add tremendous complexity to an already complex system and affects everyone in some way.

Here are just a few of the changes that may affect you, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs.

If you are an investor, you only have to hold an investment for six months and one day to qualify for long-term capital gains tax treatment. Only 40 percent of a long-term capital gain is added to your income. For investors in the 50 percent tax bracket, the maximum tax paid is 20 percent of the gain. These new capital gains rules apply to all assets acquired after June 22, 1984.

If you purchased a luxury car for business use after June 18 of this year, you can no longer write-off its full cost using a three-year depreciation formula. Now, depreciation of all cars is limited to a $4,000 deduction the first year the car is in service and a $6,000 deduction in all subsequent years.

Divorced people will find that the law tightens a patchwork of rules on property settlements and alimony payments. The new language also dispels some confusion surrounding employee fringe benefits.

Real estate investors must now depreciate property over 18 years instead of 15, which allows smaller deductions over longer periods.

The tax on a gallon of diesel fuel went from nine to 15 cents per gallon as of August 1. The tax on distilled spirits goes up $2, to $12.50 a gallon, on October 1. And the Act puts a bite on sport fishermen who must pay a 10 percent excise tax on an expanded list of fishing gear beginning October 1.

Computer buyers must also contend with changes in amounts they may deduct for business use of their computers. For computers placed in service after June 18, to qualify for an investment tax credit more than half its use must be for business.

Additionally, to write-off up to $5,000 for a computer in a single year or to depreciate it over five years, more than half its use must be for business and not personal reasons. A computer used 50 percent of the time or less for business must be written-off under a 12-year depreciation formula and will not qualify for an investment tax credit.

Not all the changes in the tax law hurt; some breaks are offered. For instance, if you drive a car for charitable reasons, such as picking up clothes for a local charity, you can deduct 12 cents a mile beginning in 1985 instead of nine cents per mile. So, if you drive 5,000 miles for your local charity, you will be eligible for an additional $150 deduction.

Another change in the tax law, brought about by changing patterns in the way Americans seek medical treatment, affects medical deductions. Specifically, the new law allows you to travel to an outpatient clinic, such as the Mayo Clinic, and deduct as much as $50 per night for lodging at a hotel for the duration of the treatment.

If a friend or relative accompanies you, another $50 deduction is allowable. You risk losing this deduction if a significant amount of recreation or vacation is connected with the medical trip. The medical expenses qualify for deduction only if — together with your other qualifying medical expenses — they exceed five percent of your adjusted gross income. This higher floor for medical expense deductions was part of the last tax law.

Interest rates take dip, home sales go up

Defying a national downward trend, sales of existing homes in the Detroit metropolitan area continued to show surprising strength in August with a 7.1 percent increase over July and a 14.6 percent increase over a year ago, according to the monthly report of Metro MLS.

Members of the multiple listing service covering Northwest Detroit and major areas of Wayne and Oakland counties sold 1,396 homes last month compared to 1,303 in July and 1,218 in August 1983.

David N. Jensen, Metro MLS president, said an unexpected dip in mortgage interest rates and the number of homes priced to sell are serving to encourage strong buyer interest in the market.

"The average price of homes sold by our members last month was $57,081, nearly $3,500 or 5.7 percent below the $60,578 average a year ago," noted Jensen. "The average also dipped $1,642 or 2.7 percent from the July figure."

"With a plentiful supply of mortgage funds available, we are pleased to see financial institutions easing interest rates," he continued. "Today's buyers are extremely sensitive to fluctuations in these rates and are reacting to the decline. The national economic picture does not appear to indicate that this decline will continue, however; chances are that it will reverse itself in the near future."

Jensen said the jump in interest rates early in the year had cut into expected sales levels and caused many prospective buyers to defer moves into first homes or upscale housing. Metro MLS reports a 14.3 percent gain in 1984 home sales over last year.

"We are encouraged to hear talk being revived in Washington to effect a tax-free saving program for home purchase that would operate similar to the Individual Retirement Account program," he said.

"Enactment of such a measure would certainly give housing a much-needed boost and enable many young people now frozen out of the market to make their initial home investment."

Jensen noted that a trend away from use of conventional mortgages for financing a home purchase seen in recent months had reversed itself in reaction to the lower interest rates. In August, conventional mortgages were used in 46.4 percent of home buys through Metro MLS members. This compared to 44.5 percent a month earlier. Use of land contracts, which had begun to grow again in popularity, showed a corresponding dip from 29.5 to 27.1 percent.

013 Card of Thanks
PRAYER TO THE HOLY SPIRIT
You who make me see everything and who showed me the way to reach my ideal. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, I, in thanksgiving, want to thank you for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great that material may be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank you for your love towards me and my loved ones. Person must say this prayer 3 consecutive days without asking your favor. After 3 days your favor will be granted, no matter how difficult it may be. Then promise to publish this dialogue as soon as your favor granted. K.M.

The Wind And I

The wind was breezing by one day
 And whispered in my ear
 "Come and fly a kite with me
 Come fly a kite, my dear!"

"Who me?" I asked with some surprise
 "Why I am much too old,
 I haven't flown a kite in years,
 I couldn't be that bold."

"Come now," roared the wind with glee,
 "I'll put you to the test,
 Just get a kite and hold on tight
 And I will do the rest."

Well, I became a kid again;
 I bought a kite and then
 We ventured out into a field
 Just me and my new friend.

I ran ahead, he flew behind
 And lifted up my kite
 He sent it soaring through the sky,
 Oh what a pretty sight!

The wind just had a gay old time:
 He chased that kite about,
 He sailed it high and whipped it low,
 He nearly wore me out!

At last he seemed to tire
 And I could breathe again,
 He carried back my kite to me —
 Said "Thanka a lot, my friend."

I am so glad that frisky wind
 Did pick me out to play,
 I haven't felt that young in years
 I had a lovely day!

Monnie Hamilton

Time To Spare

I've been laid off for three months now,
 The office just closed down,
 A chance to do all those odd jobs, I thought,
 A chance to get myself brown.

I've planted, weeded, watered, hoed,
 Sunbathed, written letters and read,
 Had a family vacation,
 Jogged every morning,
 Resisting the temptation
 To stay late in bed.

I've practiced my chip shots,
 Played my piano,
 I'm busy every day —
 But only heaven knows
 How I hope
 I'm working again
 Before it snows!

Kit Henderson

Imagine

Wouldn't that be something
 If the Garden of Eden was still with us — if all this around us was an illusion,
 A figment of our imaginations,
 What sometimes seems to be reality —
 Isn't reality at all.

Buddy Dennis

By Step

The first step is important
 In anything you do;
 The others that come after
 Will help to see you through.

The way is sometimes rocky;
 You may even stub your toe
 But a lofty goal is worth it
 Once you know the way to go.

The road you may be taking
 May lead you far afield,
 Or you may stay right where you are
 To realize your yield.

It's not the distance or the climb
 That matters in your quest —
 It's the getting there that counts the most
 When you know you've done your best.

Charles E. Hutton

The Flag

There once was a war with many men.
 There once was a war and men fought for us.
 There once was a flag that rose up the pole.
 There once was freedom for all and forever.

There once were men who fought and died for our land.
 There once was a flag and still is, called red, white and blue.
 There once was a time when a flag rose with white stars and red and white stripes.
 There once was freedom for all and forever.

The Goblins or (Halloween)

It's that time of the year
 When the goblins are near,
 And the Old Witch rides the broom.
 She rides so high, she hits the sky,
 Then bounces right into the moon.

The black cats prowl,
 And the little dogs growl
 At those funny looking kids on the street.
 They wander about, each group has their beat.
 Then the first thing you know,
 It's a trick or a treat.

A door opens up and a head peeks out.
 You hear a holler, then the kids all shout,
 Trick or a treat; we'll soap your windows,
 Or ric-rac your walls.
 You quiver and shake, tho' you know it's a fake,
 Then hurry to the kitchen for candy and cake.

The hoot of an owl erases all doubt, then you
 Hurry to the door and look about.
 The urchins had vanished without their loot,
 when the Wise Old Owl, gave out with hoot.
 Just then a shadow passes over the moon,
 And you say with a sigh,
 It's the witch on her broom.

"They"

Seems like my smiles don't stay too long,
 Guess maybe I've done something wrong.
 'Cause you always get what you deserve
 They'll hold it for you in reserve
 'Til what you've done has been forgot.
 Then you get hit with all they've got.
 And it don't matter how you try
 'Cause they're not lettin' things slide by
 'Till you're so down you can't see light.
 They'll leave you in the dark of night
 To pick up pieces and start out new.
 And when you think you've made it through—
 They start collecting interest due.

The Moon

Mornings are dark and dreary.
 The blackened clouds rage in the sky.
 The grass is soaking with rain,
 Like a sponge full of water.
 The trees move with wind
 In a synchronized motion.

As morning runs out,
 The afternoon creeps slowly in,
 As if it were a passing cloud
 Drifting by, city to city.

Like a new sprout is to soil,
 The sun is to the clouds.
 It peeks out to greet you
 With a warm cheery color
 To brighten our dismal day.

Patti Potter

The Little Things

All through life, there are many things
 We are always going to do;
 The friendly calls, the kindly deeds,
 To mention just a few.

The "little things" that meant we cared
 About "the folks next door."
 To run an errand, lend a hand
 To do a simple chore.

The days slip by, the months, the years
 And acts yet unfulfilled ...
 We can only feel an emptiness
 Where needs have now been stilled.

Charles E. Hutton

Shangri-La

Ah, for the blossoms of spring!
 Away with the brutal past,
 Too long 'til the prism of summer —
 Too short, that its facet will last.

Ah, for the springtime of youth!
 Away with the shackles of age!
 Too brief, the time of our lives —
 Too soon, the end of the page.

Ah, youth — its vigor and prime,
 And its visions of life ahead.
 Let's blend spring and summer with fall
 And forever leave winter's dread!

Charles E. Hutton

Too Little

Steeple Bells

Too little rung;
 Choirs joyous songs
 Too little sung;
 Events, warmed on us
 Too little seen;
 A child's main complaint
 "Just one more Jelly Bean?"
 A Bunnies thought
 Too little done;
 Easter flowers fear
 Too little sun.

Given too much
 Would it be enjoyed?
 Or would all be gluttoned
 And people annoyed?

The Gender GAP

Long disregarded at the polls, women are discovering
'it's a man's world unless women vote'

By MICHELE McELMURRY

Though it's been more than 60 years since the passage of the 19th Amendment, the voting patterns of American women only now are beginning to get notice.

Long disregarded as an insignificant variable by political pollsters, the women's vote is becoming as much a key differential in voting behaviors today as education level and economic status have been in the past.

"Gender gap," the buzz word coined after the 1980 election, is becoming a force to be reckoned with, according to Detroit City Councilwoman Mary Ann Mahaffey, who last Wednesday addressed the opening meeting of the Northwest Wayne County National Organization for Women (of which Northville is part).

Mahaffey, who currently is serving her third term on Detroit City Council and was elected NOW's Feminist of the Year in 1974, recognized that there are "some who say it (gender gap) doesn't mean anything."

However, she pointed to Michigan's 1982 gubernatorial race as an example of what the women's vote can mean at election time.

"We saw the defeat of a candidate who opposed the Equal Rights Amendment and who said people should pull themselves up by their bootstraps — regardless of the fact that they might not have bootstraps," she said.

"The man elected was one who chose a woman as a running mate," she added.

"That ticket won because of the gender gap. Women turned out because they said the time has come."

Beverly McAninch, state president of the League of Women Voters and a Plymouth resident, said the gender gap long has been a voting variable but wasn't recognized until exit polling began in the 1980 election.

While she pointed out that the accuracy of exit polling has been disputed, McAninch noted the results clearly have shown a voting variable between men and women.

Citing the work of Marjorie Lansing, a political science professor at Eastern Michigan University and co-author of "Women in Politics: The Invisible Majority," McAninch pointed out that women's voting patterns differentiate considerably from their male counterparts.

For example, McAninch noted that women tend to be more protective of the environment, more likely to support those less fortunate and are more pacifistic.

"I think that's always been true," she said. "We just haven't discovered it until the last several years."

McAninch also noted that the differential between men's and women's voting patterns has been "growing steadily since women started to outnumber men."

With women now comprising 53 percent of the population, McAninch said that variable is beginning to get noticed.

Councilwoman Mahaffey also pointed out that the growing number of female voters has given women more political clout at the polls.

She noted that in the 1980 presidential election, six million more women than men cast votes.

"If seven percent more women had voted," she said, "all results would have been completely different."

Mahaffey noted the best way for women to take advantage of the gender gap variable is to "realize that there still are a lot of women out there who aren't registered to vote."

McAninch echoed Mahaffey's remarks and added that one of the League of Women Voter's many goals is to get women and young adults to register. She explained that though Michigan's present registration system has made it "harder to register than to vote," state residents now can apply for voter registration at any local Secretary of State office.

Noting that 80 to 84 percent of people registered to vote cast ballots at the polls at election time, McAninch said registering more women could make a difference in an election turnout.

She pointed out that women between the ages of 40 and 60 already comprise the largest voting group in the country. She attributed the voting record of older women to the fact that women have a longer life span than men by about five to 10 years.

"We're tougher, we live longer," she explained. "There are many more widows between the ages of 50 and 70 than there are widowers."

Church women host Autumnfest lunch

By JEAN DAY

Autumnfest '84 being sponsored by the Northville Downtown Merchants' Association September 27-29 promises to be a community-wide, multi-event. In addition to downtown attractions being arranged by the merchants, there will be the Tivoli Fair sponsored by the Northville Historical Society at Northville Downs September 28-29 with crafts exhibitors coming from a wide area.

A new attraction this year is an Autumnfest '84 luncheon and fashion presentation being given by Our Lady's League of Our Lady of Victory Church and the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church from 11 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Friday, September 28, at First Presbyterian Church.

The church women under the chairmanship of Dorothy Martin and Lil Lester of OLV and Glad Evans and Barbara Ross of First Presbyterian will be serving luncheon including dessert and beverage for $4 during that time. Fashions for men, women and children from downtown shops will be shown informally by local models during the luncheon. The sponsors are inviting those attending or participating in the fair to "drop by for lunch."

He's piloting People's Express to Detroit

No one was more excited than Bernice and John Peterson of Northville when People's Express began flights from Newark to Detroit this month. Their son, Captain John Peterson Jr., flew one of the first-day flights with another pilot who also was from Detroit. On the weekend he flew in for a visit with his parents bringing his wife Lynn and daughters Christine, Karen and Kathy.

The Petersons, who operate Peterson Real Estate at 335 North Center and are residents of Lexington Commons condos, report that initial indications are that the flights are "doing fine." As parents of the pilot, they add, they will be able to fly on flights that are not full and plan to visit their son and his family in New Jersey.

Their son went to school in Farmington and then Michigan State University on an Air Force scholarship. He joined People's Express after completing Air Force service. In addition to flying into Detroit, which he expects to do four times a month, he was among the first to fly into Chicago and to Los Angeles from Newark.

Center's dedicated for Bev McAllister's brother

The trip Beverly and Bruce McAllister made to Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant the weekend of September 14-15 was for a very special purpose. They had been invited to attend the dedication of the Norvall C. Bovee Center on campus. The student activities center was named for the late Mr. Bovee, who was Mrs. McAllister's brother, in recognition of his work with President Charles Anspach to have the former college become Central Michigan University.

A graduate of Eastern Michigan University, he received his doctorate from Michigan State University and served as vice president of finance at CMU. He died of a heart attack at age 53, the McAllisters relate. They are in Plymouth for the summer but will be returning to their home in Stuart, Florida. Since moving from Northville to Stuart 11 years ago, they observe, they have been joined in Stuart by many area residents. "Everybody's coming," says Bruce McAllister as he lauds the Florida east coast city.

Diana Koenig heads WSU historic district tour

Diana Koenig of Northville is in charge of a major special event for Wayne State University alums. A member of the alumni association board of directors, she is on the special events committee. The current "special" is a tour of historic houses in the area around the university to be given from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. this Saturday.

There is a pick up for area alums at Tel-Twelve shopping center, she explains, relating that provision has been made for a bus group of 40 to see historic areas, including the Canfield Street renovation. The entire street located between Second and Third is being restored, she says. Any residents interested in joining the group are invited to call her at 349-3088.

Capotes move to Illinois — with dog, cats, sailboat

"It's tugging at our heartstrings to leave," Marie-Louise Capote admitted last week after movers spent two days packing their possessions for a transfer to the Chicago area. Her husband Baltasar has been promoted to Continental Assurance headquarters in downtown Chicago and will be teaching seminars throughout the country.

She and her husband, who have been active in local theater groups, entertained at a farewell for their friends in the theater a week ago Saturday. Mrs. Capote says it was especially difficult to leave the 100-year-old home on Fairbrook they have lived in and renovated for eight years. Before that, they were township residents for four years. Their home has been sold to a young couple.

In Glen Ellyn, the Capotes with daughter Heather, 16, and son Greg, 21, will be occupying a home about 50 years old. Greg expects to transfer from Schoolcraft to DuPage College to receive an associate degree in science next June. The family left last Friday — taking three cats, a Labrador and trailing a sailboat.

HERS assists displaced homemakers

Project HERS (Homemaker's Employment Re-Entry System), a special program of the Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College for displaced homemakers, offers career planning and assertiveness training.

The overall goal of the program is to make entry or re-entry into the work force not only possible but less traumatic for mature women.

Center directors explain that displaced homemakers are people who have worked in the home most of their lives for their families without pay and who have lost their source of income due to death, disability, desertion, divorce or separation from the person on whom they have been dependent.

Financial aid is available to cover course costs for those who are displaced homemakers, part-time homemaker/wage earners or single heads of a household who lack adequate job skills as well as recent, skilled, full-time work experience.

Project HERS meets from 1-3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays.

For information on registration and financial assistance, call 591-6400, extension 432.

Rummage sale slated at church

'Women and Credit' is WRC program topic

Delanie C. Goodwin, personal banking officer of Comerica, will discuss "Women and Credit" for the Women's Divorce Support Group at 8 p.m. Tuesday, September 25, in room F130 of the Forum Building on the Schoolcraft College campus.

The program is sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Women's Resource Center and is designed for women who are separated, divorced, in the process of or contemplating divorce.

The group provides a forum to identify problems and needs and share feelings and information. The Women's Divorce Support Group meets the second and fourth Tuesday of each month.

Attendance is free and no registration is required. For further information, call the Women's Resource Center at 591-6400, extension 430.

Gender gap differential shows women voters' clout

Noting that "women are the overwhelming majority of senior citizens" in the country, Mahaffey concurred that their voting record is better "because women have a great stake in what happens in the future."

She noted that the gender gap variable has emerged as women "become aware that we've been discriminated against."

"We want to change that," she said.

"It's a question of our concern for peace, education, social security; our concern that quality of life improve for people."

"I think that's why there is a gender gap in regards to the way the economy is being handled," Mahaffey pointed out.

She noted that among women voters, 61 percent disapprove of the way the economy is being handled in comparison to 51 percent of the male voters who disapprove.

She attributed this in part to what she called a "feminization of poverty."

"Women are more critical of this administration's Social Security policy than men because after all, who lives the longest?"

McAninch also noted that "women are the biggest poverty group in the country — particularly in the older women category."

With a woman vice presidential candidate running on a major party ticket for the first time in the nation's history, many are speculating that the gender gap variable may be more evident in November than in past elections.

Mahaffey noted that many women identify more with Geraldine Ferraro as a "working mother, a woman who worked hard for her education, raised her own children and a woman who said her responsibility is to 'move beyond herself.'"

"Geraldine Ferraro isn't just any woman," she noted. "She's a woman like us."

The Northville Record

Women harriers win SC Invitational

Led by Cindy Panowicz's first-place time of 20:33 and a tight pack that left the Mustangs one place to spare, the Northville women's cross-country team ran home with top honors from Saturday's Schoolcraft Invitational.

"We're all real excited — we'd been pointing to this one a long time," said jubilant harrier Coach Ed Gabrys. "Now we've got to re-set ourselves and prepare ourselves for the second part of our season."

The Mustangs racked up 105 points at the 17-team meet, well ahead of second-place Redford Union. Western Lakes Activities Association rivals Livonia Stevenson took third with 134 points and Plymouth Salem fourth with 137.

Panowicz's run at first under Saturday's drizzly skies was a battle all the way. She trailed one runner at the one-mile mark and another runner at the two-mile mark. Beginning a kick with a half-mile to go, Panowicz took a seven-second lead with a quarter-mile remaining and held on to that margin the rest of the way.

Resurgent Wendy Nuechterlein began to flash her familiar speed, taking 18th in 21:51. "Wendy's a cold-weather runner, and when the temperature got into the forties Saturday, I knew she'd have a good meet," Gabrys said.

Mustang freshman Jennifer Goshorn clocked an outstanding time of 22:02 to take 20th and teammate Pam Cavanaugh was at her heels, 21st, in 21:04. Sue Blanchard was Northville's fifth finisher.

Midway through the race, Blanchard had been running in the middle of a crowd at 55th. But she surged ahead to become the leader of the pack and rounded out Northville's scorers in 45th, clocking a 23:01.

It was an outstanding effort, but Dawn Schweim's finish of 65th in 24:07 would have given Northville first place anyway.

It was the second invitational meet in two weeks at which Northville took home a trophy. The Mustangs had run third at West Bloomfield's Marshbanks Invitational the previous Saturday.

Northville will run at Walled Lake Western tomorrow at 4 p.m., then at North Farmington Tuesday, also at 4 p.m. The team returns to Cass Benton September 27 to run against division rival Plymouth Canton.

Northville's varsity swimmers can thank their lucky stars they belong to the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division — Lakes Division powerhouses Livonia Stevenson and Plymouth Salem dominated the field at the WLAA Relays Saturday.

The Mustangs swam to a fifth place finish of 38 points, trailing Stevenson (105 points), Salem (87) and Western Division rivals Plymouth Canton (50) and Farmington Harrison (41). Rounding out the field were Livonia Churchill (35), Livonia Bentley (24), Farmington (20) and Walled Lake Central (14).

"We're coming along pretty well," Northville Swim Coach Bill Dicks remarked. "I'm fairly satisfied, but I think we have some work to do with our technique."

Most league coaches use the meet as a chance to scout their conference rivals and size up their relative strengths and weaknesses. Dicks was no exception.

"I think all our dual meets with the exception of Livonia Stevenson are going to be close," he said. "A lot is going to depend on whose pool we're in and who's sick or healthy for any given meet."

Doug Hartman picks up yardage the hard way

Mustang gridders tame Lions, 30-20

By B.J. MARTIN

So much for the Kensington Valley Conference.

Rolling up three touchdowns and nearly 250 rushing yards between fullback Doug Hartman and halfback Rick Van Buren, the Northville Mustangs chewed up South Lyon 30-20 last Friday in their home opener.

Coupled with a win over Brighton the week before, the 2-0 Mustangs would be in first place in the KVC if that were their league. But now the Northville gridders must gear up for six straight Western Lakes Activities matchups, beginning with Western Division rival Walled Lake Western this Friday.

It took a long time for Northville to shake off the pesky Lions, who took an early lead on a 30-yard TD pass and an 84-yard gallop by running back Dave Iafolla. After that, though, the Northville defense shut the door while the offense busted down South Lyon's.

By the end of the game, Northville had rolled up 316 yards total offense to South Lyon's 195. Other telling statistical differences were Northville's 14 first downs to eight by the Lions and the Lions' 30 passing yards.

Northville quarterback Dave Denhoff turned in his second straight solid game, completing five of 10 passes for 74 yards — and several of his passes slipped through the wet hands of his receivers.

Northville's first TD came on an 18-yard carry by Hartman that capped a five-play, 57-yard march. Hartman picked up six more points with a 10-yard run set up by Mark Deal's second-quarter fumble recovery at the Lion 16.

Had it not been for three first-half fumbles deep in South Lyon territory, Northville's 14-12 halftime lead could have been much bigger. Fumbles under Friday's drizzling rain killed Northville drives to the 14, the 30 and the 16.

A Denhoff-to-John Briningstool pass was they key play in Northville's time-consuming third-quarter scoring drive. The Mustangs ground out 66 yards on 11 plays, climaxing the march with Denhoff's play-action eight-yard TD strike to wide-open tight end Gary Strunk.

Jack Sylvestre booted a 32-yard field goal that barely cleared the crossbar to give Northville three insurance points. The sophomore kicker also converted three of four PAT's for the night.

South Lyon cut the lead to 27-20 with another aerial TD and two-point conversion pass, and threatened to tie the score when the Lions recovered a textbook-perfect onside kick at the Northville 45.

But the Lions' possession stalled short of a first down and Van Buren made Northville's last possession sting with a 54-yard TD romp for Northville's final score.

Colligan once again credited Northville's linemen with tearing open holes for Van Buren (128 yards rushing) and Hartman (120 yards). He also had praise for defensive linemen Ron Batson and Mark Deal who spent much of Friday night in South Lyon's backfield.

Altogether, the Mustangs sacked Lion quarterback Joe Rockel five times for losses of 35 yards.

Hartman led Northville tacklers from his linebacker slot with seven first hits and five assists. Cornerback Phil Pendleton contributed some solid tackling, accruing five first hits.

Colligan also commended his "good hands" people — defensive back Don Norton, who picked off his second interception of the season and handled five punt returns without error, and Strunk, who caught two passes in heavy Lion traffic.

Strunk once again did a fine job of consistent punting, hitting three for a 35.3 average.

The game was marred by plenty of yellow flags — while Northville was assessed 35 yards in penalties, the Lions lost a whopping 101 on 10 penalties.

Northville's next opponent, Walled Lake Western, has an 0-2 record and lost big to Northville last year. But Colligan thinks this season's encounter will be different.

"They've got a good quarterback in John Doria and a good running back in Mike Craig," Colligan pointed out. "They have a reputation for being a hard-hitting bunch of kids ... I'm looking for a close, low-scoring game."

Golf squad wins one, loses one in league play

Led by sharpshooting seniors Bob Justus and Eric Morfe, the Northville golf team put together three fine showings last week, but pulled out just two wins with them.

Monday the Mustangs breezed past league rival Farmington Harrison 211-227, with Morfe carding a slick one-over-par 37 at San Marino Golf Course to lead the field. Justus was four strokes back at 41, Greg Abraham and Mike Oglesby each stroked 44s and Bob Baird shot a 45.

"Eric played like he'd been doing in pre-season," said Coach Joe Blake. "He's starting to play the way he's capable of doing."

Northville improved seven strokes at home course Salem Hills two days later, but the Livonia Churchill Chargers totaled a remarkable 199 team score to the Mustangs' 204.

"They shot very well considering they were playing on an unfamiliar course," Blake noted. "They're a very well-balanced team."

Morfe again led Northville with a one-over score, tying with two Chargers at 37. Justus and Ron Demeter each shot 39s, Oglesby carded a 44 and Baird, hampered by a shoulder injury, fired a 45. "We need to trim everybody down to the low 40s if we're going to continue to be successful," Blake pointed out.

Justus saved his best for last, becoming the first Mustang to card a below-par round at Salem Hills in regular-season play this year. Justus birdied the fourth and ninth par-five holes for a 34 to lead Northville over South Lyon in a 205-219 non-conference win Friday.

Justus shot all nine holes without carding a five to finish one under and lead the nearest finisher, Morfe, who shot a 40. Baird, Demeter and Don Tassic each shot 43s to round out Northville's scoring. The JV team, led by rounds of 44 from Tom Veselak, Rick McCulloch and Kirk Windisch bettered the Lions 222-258.

Bartling wins this week's first prize

The Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News football contest is only two weeks old, but area prognosticators already are in mid-season form.

Two entrants missed just one game this week and three more had only two incorrect predictions to make it necessary to invoke the old tie-breaker to determine this week's winners.

After all the calculations were completed, Todd Bartling of Northville had won first prize and Mike Olgren, also of Northville, was second. Bartling and Olgren each missed just one game — Washington's 20-11 conquest of Michigan, but Bartling's guess that a total of 37 points would be scored in the Notre Dame/Michigan State game was seven points off the actual total, while Olgren's guess of 31 points was 13 off the mark.

Third place also had to be determined via the tie-breaker as Finn O'Leary, Doug Martin and Judy Montgomery all missed just two games. Winner of third place, however, was O'Leary who missed the tie-breaker total by just one point. Martin was three points away and Montgomery was 17 points off the actual number of points scored in Notre Dame's 24-20 victory.

Bartling wins $10 for coming in first, Olgren receives $5 for second prize and O'Leary takes home the $3 third prize.

Remember to pick the winner of the tie-breaker game. In addition to guessing the total number of points scored, entrants also must indicate a winner.

Mustang cagers blitz Harrison for first win of season

Northville made its league basketball debut a doozy last Thursday by plucking the Harrison Hawks in their own nest, 42-21.

At the half, Northville led 26-4, and all four of the Hawks' points had come on free throws. That's right — Harrison did not sink one basket during the entire first half.

Still, Northville Coach Ed Kritch

thought the Mustangs' biggest improvement was on offense. In the first half, Northville went 13 for 27 and shot a respectable 37 percent for the game — better than double what the Mustangs had shot against Pinckney in their first game.

"I was very happy with the way we got our points. We got them on execution against their tight zone. We were taking a lot of the same shots we did against Pinckney. But this time they were falling."

Playing little more than three quarters, guards Sue Terwin and Kathy Korowin scored 10 and eight points, respectively. Each went four-for-seven in the first half.

Forward Tricia Ducker also scored eight points and turned in her second straight outstanding defensive game. She and forward Michelle Siemasz, combined to pull down 15 rebounds.

Sophomore center Sue Schrader gave an impressive performance, coming off the bench to score six points and pull down six rebounds.

"We really cleaned up on the boards," Kritch beamed. "Between Susie's six rebounds and Erin (Ryan)'s five, we got 11 rebounds from our center position. I'm really happy with that."

All Northville's players turned in at least five minutes of play, prompting Kritch to say, "We had a really good team effort. Everyone played extremely well."

Northville's junior varsity won 37-14, led by Jill Gallagher's nine points.

The Mustangs, now 1-1, (1-0 in the WLA) may need a similar or even better effort to defeat Plymouth Canton tomorrow, even on Northville's home court. The Chiefs were impressive in a loss to tough Walled Lake Western last week.

On Tuesday, Northville will travel to Livonia Stevenson to take on the state-ranked Spartans. The key to that game may be Northville's ability to stop Mary Kay Hersey, one of the area's best forwards.

Tennis team beats league rivals Salem, Western

Farmington Our Lady of Mercy stopped the Northville varsity tennis team's season-long win streak last Friday by handing the Mustangs a 5-3 non-league eight-match loss.

Up till Friday, Northville had steamrolled five straight opponents, last week posting victories over league rivals Walled Lake Western and Plymouth Salem.

In Monday's match with Western, Northville prevailed 6-1, losing only the first doubles match. In a hard-fought, long game, Lori Housman and Jennifer Trausch fell to Linda Roselle and Kristie Clifford 6-3, 6-7, 3-6.

Northville's second doubles team of Leslie Oliver and Sherry Feydenko and third doubles team of Diane Lindquist and Kathleen Kotarski were easy straights, Lindquist-Kotarski by scores of 6-0, 6-0.

Vicki Robins rebounded from a 4-6 first-set setback to defeat Jennifer Sorrentino 6-0, 6-3 at first singles. Denise Colovas and Dorothy Ziegler were two-set winners at second and fourth singles, respectively, and Lynn Frellick turned back Kim Roselle 4-6, 6-2, 6-3 at third singles.

The Mustangs edged Salem 4-3 on the Northville courts on Wednesday, only the second time the Mustangs have ever beaten the Rocks (last year was the first). Robins lost her match to state-ranked Anita Toth 0-6, 0-6, although she played extremely well, with several games going to deuce.

Colovas picked up what proved to be the winning match by taking Lisa Belski 6-2, 4-6, 6-3. Frellick won in straight sets over Barb Hanoush and Ziegler was turned back 2-6, 7-5, 3-6 by Michele Spencer. Ziegler took a nasty spill in the second set that hurt her ankle and knee, and drew praise from her coach, Uta Filkin, for sticking it out.

Housman-Trausch lost their first doubles match 5-7, 3-6, but Oliver-Feydenko and Diane Lindquist and Lauren Oliver won straight-set victories at second and third doubles to give Northville the victory.

Mery's outstanding singles players whipped all four of Northville's singles players in straight sets. But the turning point of the match came in Housman-Trausch's 5-7, 1-6 loss at first doubles, as the Mustangs won at second, third and fourth doubles matches.

Leslie Oliver and Feydenko defeated the Marlins' Nancy Enright and Kathy Kennedy 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 at second doubles. Lindquist and Lauren Oliver took Susie Hrosch and Klity Fini 6-0, 6-4, and Kotarski-Millgard won eight sets to five in a time-shortened fourth doubles match.

The Mustangs ended last week by participating in the Ann Arbor Invitational Saturday. Northville ended up seventh of the seven teams participating — but it was a tough field: Ann Arbor Huron, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Bloomfield Hills Andover, Bloomfield Hills Lahser, Birmingham Seaholm, Grosse Pointe North and defending state champion Okemos — in other words, the cream of the crop in state public schools.

"We're not quite there yet," Filkin said. "But it's always good to get tough competition."

Only Northville's third doubles team of Lindquist-Oliver and fourth doubles team of Kotarski-Millgard survived the first round. Lindquist-Oliver defeated Andover 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, but fell to Lahser's state-ranked third doubles team in straight sets in the second round.

Kotarski-Millgard had a similar fate, defeating Pioneer in straight sets, then losing to Lahser in the next round.

Northville (5-1, 3-0 in WLA) will play at Livonia Bentley today, at Ypsilanti on Friday, and at Plymouth Canton Monday.

Also contributing to the win were defender Ben Blossom, Drew Fisher and goalies Robby Marchesotti, Jason Petrie and Jon Cooney. The Plymouth Strikers defeated the Express 5-1, with only Mark Schwagie's goal staying off a shutout. Justin Ord and Pat Kennedy played well for the Northville team. The Hot Spurs fell to the Farmington Rangers 3-1, despite good games from striker Matt Golden and defender Jimmy Helntz, plus a goal from Mike Hamilton. Cam Sirt and Mike Barnett scored to give the Eagles a 2-1 win over the Panthers. Goalie Robert Kukulin was named outstanding defensive player for the winners. United outscored the Farmington Cosmos 5-2, getting an outstanding game by Duane Herman and Matt Osiecki. The Farmington Cosmos turned back the Celtics 12-0 despite fine games by Mark Bonadeo and Brian Jackson.

UNDER 10 GIRLS: Karen Saydak scored three goals to lead the Stompers to a 5-0 win over the Rowdies. Beth MacLean and Megan Holmberg also scored for the winners, boosted by a "great team effort." 5-0 was also the score of the Pandas' victory over the Stray Cats. Jackie Matthews scored twice, Stephanie and Shannon Neff once, and Laura Whitely once. Jenny Sinkwitz was named outstanding defensive player and Leslie Allen outstanding offensive player. Goalie Karen Schwartz got the shutout.

UNDER 12 BOYS: The Hot Spurs defeated Farmington Seven 4-0 on goals by Matt Murphy (2), David Smith and Mike Ferguson. Paul McCreadie was named defensive MVP and Andy Haas offensive MVP. Goalies Kyle Legal and Dennis Grey teamed up for the shutout. Plymouth Seven defeated the Strikers 4-1 despite Peter Beyeradorf's goal and solid games by Chris Wiedenbach and Kevin Rosinski. Arsenal tied Farmington Five 2-2 on goals by Paul Hodgins and Kyle Lakin. Chris Lemmon led the offensive charge and Britt Davis led the defense.

UNDER 12 GIRLS: Kristin Raby scored two goals and Catherine Donkers and Julie Stoeckel one apiece to boost the Demons to a 4-1 win over Plymouth Three. Defender Karen Kort and striker Cindy Tolsted were named outstanding Demon players. Andrea Barber scored the only goal in the Pandas' 1-0 victory over the Desperados. Donna Wilhelm, Nicole Cross and goalie Jenny Weaver were standouts for the Pandas. Paula Schuerman and Tracey Jambor for the Desperados. Farmington One defeated the Panthers 5-0 despite good games turned in by Panther defender Kristen Gazlay and Tricia Lukomski on offense.

UNDER 14 GIRLS: The Foxes tripped up Novi 7-1 with an "outstanding team effort." The Warriors fell to the Wildcats 6-2 despite the fine play of Beth Swayne and Jenny Beller and goals by Mo Morrissey and Jenny Beller. A "team effort" paced the Wildcats.

UNDER 14 BOYS: The Raiders defeated the Novi Wildcats 12-1 on a "total team effort." The Fury had a much tougher time with Livonia 4-1, winning 2-1 on goals by Pat Moylan and Andy Frey. A "great job by the whole team" boosted the winners. United outpointed Arsenal 8-2 on a hat trick by Todd Daniels.

Harriers 4th at Schoolcraft tilt

While their efforts were overshadowed a bit by the women's team's first place, Northville's men's varsity harriers turned in a strong fourth-place showing at Saturday's Schoolcraft Invitational.

"They finished really strong," said a pleased Mustang coach, Ed Gabrys. "I hope I can get them to peak four or five more times this season just like this."

The Mustangs accumulated 141 points, finishing well back of Farmington's 36. The Falcons' score was the third-lowest in the meet's 13-year history, and Farmington is beginning to look untouchable in its quest for a league title.

Westland John Glenn took second with 76 points and Redford Union third with 130. The Mustangs finished just ahead of Western Lakes rivals Plymouth Salem and Livonia Bentley, who each had 171 points.

Northville's five scorers finished within 24 seconds of each other — a remarkably tight pack.

"We've got seven guys running within one minute," Gabrys pointed out. "I'd like to get 11 or 12 there if we can."

Rich Naszradi was Northville's top finisher, taking 21st overall in 17:46. Alan Griffith was 25th in 17:57, Matt Winkust 27th in 17:59, Brett Netke 33rd in 18:08 and Kevin Haas 35th in 18:10. The Mustangs had two other strong finishes in Irvan Meadows, 55th in 18:28, and Kirk Kable, 58th in 18:31.

"We'd been pointing for this meet — it gives us a good scouting report on other teams in the league," Gabrys said. "And our depth looks like it'll help, because we're getting into flu season. We've had a lot of sniffles lately."

Northville's best finish at the meet was a third place in the 200 butterfly relay. Kim Wilds, Dee LaChance, Jill Roth and Shari Thompson teamed up for a 2:11.5, about 11 seconds off the winning time.

Stephanie Warren, Dawn Biondi, Roth and Sue VanderBok swam to a fourth-place time of 5:02.2 in the 400 medley relay. The Mustangs also took fourth in the 200 breast stroke relay (Biondi, VanderBok, Karen Brining and Erika Nelson) in 2:35.5, and the 400 medley relay (Thompson, Wilds, Brining and Kris Valade) in 4:53.7.

Northville took fifths in the 400 freestyle relay (Karen Peterson, LaChance, Kim Brining and Warren) in 4:34.4, and the 200 backstroke relay (Valade, Nicole Stemplian, Kristy Pyden and Kim Valade) in 2:38.2.

The previous Tuesday, Northville dunked Ypsilanti 53-30, taking firsts in seven of the 11 events, and finishing 1-2 in four. Times were ahead of last year's team, but Dicks said he expected a little better.

The Mustangs took the medley relay easily with Warren, Roth, Nelson and Biondi clocking a 2:15.0. Nelson and Thompson were Northville's only double winners. Nelson took the 100 breast stroke and the 200 freestyle. Thompson and Wilds swam 1-2 in the individual medley and Thompson added another first in the 500 free. Roth and Wilds swam 1-2 in the 100 butterfly.

Warren and Roth were first and second in the 100 backstroke, Nelson and Karen Brining first and second in the breast stroke.

Picking up seconds were Biondi in the 100 free, LaChance in the 50 free and Julie Stock in diving. Adding thirds were LaChance in the 200 free, Kristin VanderBok in the 100 free and Karen Peterson in the 500 free. Northville's freestyle relay team of VanderBok, Thompson, Karen Brining and Biondi swam to a second-place finish. Kim Brining, Amy Shimp, LaChance and Robin Wisely ended up third.

The Mustangs will host Bentley at 7 p.m. tomorrow.

Colts beat Comets

Scott Wladischkin ran for an amazing 220 yards and three touchdowns to lead the Northville-Colts varsity team to a 25-13 victory over the Westland Comets in little league football action Sunday.

Wladischkin's longest TD run was a 48-yarder in the third quarter. Dave Pierle scored the final Colt TD on a pitch and pass play after two long runs by Wladischkin.

Turning in outstanding games for the Colt defense were defensive back Mark Bertagnoli, defensive lineman Bobby Forte, plus Mears, Parker, Johnson and Swamba.

In the junior varsity game, Doug Cody took the opening kickoff for a 70-yard touchdown return and the Colts never let up, defeating the Westland Comets 25-0. Other Colt TD's included Jon Barbara's 25-yard interception return, Andy Wayne's 31-yard run from scrimmage and a quarterback sneak by Jeff Hartman.

Outstanding defensive performances were turned in by Jay Wardwell, Ryan Kilner and Bob Nichols.

RECOGNITION NIGHT

The Northville Junior Baseball Board of Directors will sponsor a special "Recognition Night" this Saturday at the Community Recreation Center, to which all community residents are invited. Tickets to the special event to honor coaches, assistants and other special guests are $2 at the door. Snacks, refreshments and beer will be served and a disc jockey will provide music for dancing. For more information, contact the Community Recreation Department at 349-0203.

ADULT SPORTS LEAGUES

Adults interested in joining a co-ed volleyball league must sign up for the limited spaces by Friday. Men interested in playing in a basketball league should make plans to attend an informational meeting Thursday, September 27 at 8 p.m. at the Community Center.

RECREATION TRIPS

For information on Fall Color Canoe Trips and on the department's round-trip travel package to the Michigan State-Ohio State football game this fall, call 349-0203 as soon as possible.

Chiefs on warpath, top Mustang soccer squad

Revenge-hungry Plymouth Canton scored two unanswered second-half goals to hand Northville its first league loss last Thursday 4-2.

The Chiefs took advantage of a red card that Northville Coach Marv Gans considered "unwarranted" and that left Northville one player short for much of the second half. But Gans didn't hang the blame for the loss on the referees.

"They outplayed us," Gans said of the Chiefs, who twice lost to the Mustangs in 1983. "They just seemed to want the game a little more than we did."

Joe Mackle set up winger B.R. Bohan for Northville's first goal several minutes into the game. But Canton quickly posted an equalizer. Matt Lotarski headed in a throw-in by Matt Peltz for the game's third goal, but the Chiefs again came back, scoring shortly before the end of the first half.

Canton took advantage of a mix-up in front of Northville's goal to pick up the go-ahead score eight minutes into the second half. The Chiefs continued to press the Mustangs and scored their insurance goal with 10 minutes to play.

Two days earlier, Peltz's throw-ins again were an effective scoring tool in the Mustangs' 4-1 victory over Farmington.

Twenty minutes into the contest, Peltz flung the ball between the arms of the Falcon goalkeeper and right into the goal.

Farmington picked up a tying goal, but Northville maintained domination of the game and went ahead five minutes later to lead 2-1 at halftime on a Lotarski goal set up by another Peltz throw-in.

Could be opposing teams are so busy watching Peltz's unorthodox throw-in style that they forget to play the ball — Peltz gets a running start about five yards from the sideline and somersaults forward, using his forward momentum to put extra zing on the ball.

In the second half, Mackle scored on a screened scramble on an assist from Scott VanderMolen, and midfielder Nick Morris snatched a loose ball and fired in an unassisted goal to round out Northville's scoring.

"We went to the ball pretty well," Gans said later. "We got 30 guys into the game. We had a lot of shots, but we weren't capitalizing as well as we need to. The score could have been a lot higher."

The Mustangs (4-2 overall, 2-1 in the WLAA) travel to Livonia Franklin tomorrow at 7 p.m., then are idle for a week before hosting Plymouth Salem Thursday, September 27.
