Retirement village dedicated to Cavanagh

By KEVIN WILSON

If half the people who showed up for the October 19 groundbreaking ceremonies at the Jerome P. Cavanagh Retirement Village were to take up residence when it is completed sometime in 1989, Northville Township would suddenly find it had its first Democratic voting precinct.

The former (1962-1970) Detroit mayor's name drew so many Irish-surnamed officials to the ceremony in the old fire hall on the grounds of the Wayne County Child Development Center that Northville's own GOP leaders took to the back of the room.

From the time Father Malcolm Carron, S.J., gave the invocation to the time, almost an hour later, that a half dozen shovels finally turned earth and master of ceremonies Vincent J. Brennan turned the crowd loose on the spread laid out by Larry Sheehan, there was a distinctly Irish overtone to the whole affair. A large portrait of Cavanagh stood beside the rostrum alongside architect's sketches of the proposed development.

And Robert FitzPatrick, director of the county Economic Development Center, had to know he'd done the right thing in proposing that Cavanagh's name be attached to the project known in its early stages as the Northville Elderly Village.

Why Cavanagh? Why name a large housing development in the Republican, far northwestern corner of suburban Wayne County after a Democratic mayor from the city of Detroit? FitzPatrick had the answer.

For one thing, Cavanagh was a leading advocate of adequate housing for the elderly and played a role in the eventual creation of federal programs to assist in the development of that housing. But that wasn't enough for the crowd of metropolitan area powerhouses who were influenced, to one degree or another, by the charismatic mayor.

"Those who knew him will never forget him," FitzPatrick said. "He made life exciting for us because he was himself exciting — young, handsome, intelligent, and something the Irish seem to have a reputation for, he was a fighter. I know you are here because your lives have been touched by his."

Some a little more than others, of course. The Cavanagh clan itself was present in full force, though the only one stepping behind the microphone was the late mayor's brother, Michigan Supreme Court Justice Michael Cavanagh.

Among the luminaries enduring the gusts of biting October wind alternating with the continuous blast of portable heaters were Circuit Court Judge Joseph B. Sullivan, Cavanagh's former campaign manager, and Detroit city councilman Jack Kelly.

Remembrances of Cavanagh followed one upon another, one speaker recalling associations with the Kennedy, the next spilling forth some long-stored humorous story.

The aim itself was not entirely forgotten in the mists of Cavanagh recollections, however. Among the honored guests, for instance, was Marcella

Parents, teachers plead to retain their schools

The effects on their children of the possible closing of two Northville public schools by September, 1985, were uppermost among the concerns voiced by parents at the second and third hearings held by the school board and administration last Wednesday and Thursday.

Questioning at both Wednesday's hearing with about 50 in attendance at Silver Springs Elementary and Thursday's at Meads Mill Junior High, attended by about 75, was similar to that at the first hearing October 15 at Cooke Junior High.

At all three sessions questions were raised about the amount of savings that would be realized by the closings, probably of one of the district's four elementary and one of the two junior highs. At each location arguments were given by parents and teachers for not closing schools in that immediate vicinity.

The concerns of the residents centered on the recent citizens' committee recommendation the Northville school board close one or two public schools by September, 1985.

Declining enrollments district-wide are the main reason given by the administration for considering the closings. With fewer students, nearly half the classrooms of some school buildings are now unused and that problem will get worse, according to statistics presented by the administration.

In the view of school administrators and of the citizens' committee appointed by the board, keeping the buildings open would be a needless financial burden to the deficit-ridden school district. (Recent figures factoring in an expected decline in state equalized valuations have determined the school district's deficit could be as much as $473,000 next year.)

Independent consultant Dr. Keith Goldhammer, hired by the school board to analyze the situation, said the closings were not considered only for the purpose of retiring the deficit. "The question is whether it's possible to maintain an effective program with the enrollment becoming smaller," Goldhammer said last Wednesday.

"This measure," he explained, "is one of matching the resources of the district to the needs of its students, and to do so with regard to financial factors."

In particular, Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell pointed out, the enrollment decline has already curtailed flexibility in scheduling certain courses.

Goldhammer has been contracted by the school board to present on Monday, November 5, his recommendation of which school(s) should be closed. The Northville Board of Education will announce its decision one week later.

Most of the factors to be considered in the comparative evaluation of the schools are objective: size, condition of grounds and facilities. But Goldhammer and the school board also are soliciting public opinion for consideration, and, therefore, scheduled three separate public hearings last week to allow school district residents to make their feelings known.

The first of the three hearings was reported in last week's edition of The Record.

Following explanatory opening remarks at the second hearing at Silver Springs by Goldhammer, Board President Jean Hansen and Superintendent of Schools George Bell, about 20 visitors took turns addressing the board.

Norma Vernon's first woman to be Citizen of Year

Norma Vernon last Saturday evening became the first woman to receive the Citizen of the Year Award of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce at the annual banquet at Meadowbrook Country Club.

"She's the 'flower lady,'" said G.

Dewey Gardner, 1983 recipient of the honor and, as such, traditionally, this year's chairman of the selection committee.

He told the audience that in addition to spending uncounted hours planting flowers and bulbs in Northville's beautification program "Norma Vernon is one of the foremost P.R. persons for Northville."

"She's a familiar sight to me working in our flower beds in her green pants," said Gardner, noting that one of her most recent projects was getting final approvals through Wayne County of the landscaping and flagpole plans for the boulevard on South Main. He cited her initial work in beautification with the late Bea Carlson which began shortly after she and her husband, Paul Vernon, mayor of the city, moved to Northville.

She has continued to serve on beautification commissions at the city, township and state levels.

She also received tributes from Mary Dumas and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and from Congressman Carl Pursell.

In accepting the award, Mrs. Vernon responded that "none of this would be possible without the hands of many, many hardworking people."

It was the ninth award presented by the chamber to a distinguished citizen. Traditionally, the presentation is a surprise. Serving on the committee with Gardner were Charlotte Spaman, chamber president, and Midge Haynie, chamber secretary.

In the audience were previous recipients Mike Allen and Jack Hoffman.

Northville superintendent of schools George Bell was the evening's master of ceremonies. Speaker of the evening was Dr. Richard W. McDowell, president of Schoolcraft College.

He cited the large number of Northville students who attend the community college, saying that 16 to 20 percent of the high school graduating class comes to Schoolcraft.

"But the following year nearly half of the class, 43-44 percent, will be enrolled," he said, adding that in addition, "a ton of (Northville) adults take one or more classes."

Noting that "people may have six to eight jobs in their lifetime," he said it is becoming more necessary to upgrade skills. Also, today, he continued, there are more options available. He listed marriage and whether to have children as examples and said about half the women today are working outside the home.

"Another change is that our population is getting older — by the 1990s," he estimated, "over half the population will be over 50 and need different services as part of aging."

Noting that the college has been involved in helping people who have been laid off, Dr. McDowell said the college

Ballot confusion a numbers game

Confusion among some residents filling out absentee ballots has prompted the township clerk's office to issue a reminder that voters must carefully determine the number assigned to the chosen candidate before punching the ballot.

Deputy clerk Georgina Goss noted that at least one voter spoiled a section of his ballot because he was confused by the numbering system. Others have questioned it, so she offered an explanation.

In partisan contests, the ballot lists Democrats first, then Republicans and then candidates of other parties. Each candidate is assigned a three-digit numeral that corresponds to a hole to be punched on the ballot.

The digits are in numerical order in all partisan races, which dominate the ballot. Near the end of the ballot, however, voters encounter the non-partisan races for judgeships.

The order of the names of non-partisan candidates are rotated — that is, the names are listed in different orders on separate ballots. This prevents perceived advantages to one candidate being named first on every ballot.

Each candidate for a non-partisan office is also assigned a three-digit number. That number stays with the candidate, regardless of where the name appears on the ballot. Which means the numbers are no longer in sequence.

"If you don't really, really watch the numbers, you're going to be in trouble when you punch the card," Goss said. "Don't assume anything — read the numbers."

It was an assumption that led to the single case causing concern. There are 10 candidates for the 10 incumbent judgeships in the Third Judicial Circuit Court. On the first rotation, candidate 157 moves to the end of the list, immediately following candidate 166. The voter in question, assuming that the numbers should be in order as they were throughout the ballot, assumed the 157 must be a typographical error, and punched 167.

Adding to the confusion is that there are also four candidates for two non-incumbent positions in the same court. These candidates are assigned numbers 167-170. Normally, Goss noted, there is a gap of several numbers between the candidates for different races. The sequence carries over between the incumbent and non-incumbent races because those elected are to serve in the same court.

Goss said making a mistake in this portion of the ballot likely does not have serious consequences — a vote cast improperly in the incumbent judge's race is eliminated, but the rest of the ballot is still counted.

NHS band sells cheese

Members of the Northville High School marching band and choir will be taking orders for Century Pride Wisconsin cheese and sausage through Thursday, November 1. Band members are raising money for a projected road trip in the spring.

The high school choir, which has expanded under Director Mary Kay Price, is seeking to have new performance outfits more in keeping with its updated repertoire.

Band and choir members are being backed in their efforts by the Music Boosters. The group will be taking orders for four cheese flavors: sharp cheddar, tangy cheddar-bleu, smoky bacon, and swiss and ham. All are packed in re-usable stoneware crocks. There are two party cheese logs available and smoked summer sausage to complement the cheese. The cheese and sausage will be delivered to purchasers in time for holiday entertaining and gift-giving.

For information on how to order these packages, contact Sandy McRae, head of the Band Boosters, at 348-2419.

Band parents are also getting ready for the annual pumpkin bread sale during the Christmas Walk in downtown Northville.

Challenger presses Pursell in 2nd Congressional race

By KEVIN WILSON

Mike McCauley is pulling no punches. As a first-time candidate for public office faced with the formidable task of trying to unseat 2nd District U.S. Representative Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth), McCauley is attacking in interviews and at the Livonia League of Women Voters Night the seven-year incumbent's record on everything from attendance to St. Lawrence Seaway Day.

McCauley, a teacher in the Plymouth-Canton district, focuses on education issues and echoes his Democratic Party's national platform in almost every particular.

Pursell, long among the most popular politicians in the Plymouth-Northville area, says he is not worried by the young Democrat's intensive campaign but acknowledges that McCauley is a tougher opponent than was George Sallade, who served as something of a sacrificial lamb for the Democrats two years ago.

McCauley has received support from many labor organizations, something few Democrats in this district have gathered in recent years, but Pursell walked off with the big prize — the NEA endorsement McCauley sought as a teacher.

While McCauley is running his first campaign for election, he says if he's defeated: "I'll be back."

Pursell is well-established. He is a member of the House Appropriations Committee, is executive director of the Northeast/Midwest Coalition, and was most recently tapped to serve as a regional Congressional minority whip.

Prior to serving in Washington, Pursell was a state senator and, before that, a Wayne County commissioner. Both men boast experience in small business.

So, excepting the ideological relief offered by Libertarian James Hudler, the 2nd District Congressional race has boiled down to a series of charges hurled by the challenger and explained away by the incumbent.

McCauley says Pursell has "an attendance record twice as bad as the average legislator" and that he voted against $18 billion in federal aid to education in the past year alone.

Pursell responds that he spends much time in his home district, and is one of the few representatives who does not live in Washington. With McCauley having pounded at the incumbent's attendance at Congressional votes for months, Pursell launched a counter-attack at a candidate's night in Livonia last week — he hauled out McCauley's own record in local school millage elections.

"On education, we basically support local control," Pursell said. "Mr. McCauley registered to vote in the Plymouth-Canton district — the district where he teaches — on April 12, 1979. There have been 10 elections through 1984. He voted in seven — three he missed. The biggest one (he missed) was on a 10.36 renewal millage."

Each mill represents about $1 million to the district, Pursell said. "I have 90 percent local voting record in that period," he continued. "That's where the big dollars ought to be spent, because if you spend it locally you keep local control."

McCauley also hits consistently at Pursell's votes favoring a verifiable, bilateral nuclear freeze and his most recent vote in favor of building the MX missile.

"These two positions are contradictory," McCauley charges. "It's impossible to vote for both at once. The MX missile is a ridiculous thing to vote for."

But Pursell says there is no contradiction at all. He notes that the Carter administration asked for 200 MX missiles and that the Reagan administration initially sought 100 of them. In both cases, Pursell voted against the MX. But the vote to which McCauley refers, Pursell says, was on the construction of 15 missiles.

"This is a well thought-out position," the Republican says. "It is included in the Scowcroft Commission report. I oppose the MX as a missile — what I voted for was a negotiating position."

"You don't walk into the negotiating table, sit down with the Soviet Union and not have any weapons in your pocket," Pursell says.

McCauley says a tax increase will be needed to deal with the federal deficit, and says the tax system must be made "fairer" and force "the wealthy people to pay at the same rate most middle class people do." He opposes a balanced budget amendment.

Pursell favors a balanced budget amendment and stops just short of swearing not to raise taxes. "Raising taxes is a last resort. I'm happy to see Mr. McCauley favors higher taxes. No matter what he says about how they'll be raised, remember that the middle class always pays. It's just naive to think you can balance the budget by taxing the two percent of Americans who earn more than $100,000 a year," Pursell says. "We have more we can do before we raise taxes in terms of reducing government spending and waste. One-third of Americans today gets some form of federal subsidy — we have to wean ourselves from reliance on the federal government."

On the balanced budget measure, Pursell cautioned that he does not favor a constitutional convention to accomplish it, nor does he think it would solve all the problems.

"I favor it as a tool, not a panacea," Pursell says. "I think it should be accomplished through the legislative process." He adds that a strong Republican showing this November could put the balanced budget amendment through in the next session of Congress.

McCauley also recommends large cuts in defense spending, and says he would "put butter before guns — Carl Pursell is clearly in favor of more guns."

Pursell says he "exercises independent judgement" on military and defense spending, not blindly following either the Reagan administration or its opponents on these issues. He points to his consistent votes against anti-satellite systems and the B-1 bomber as examples. He cites a recent chart published by a daily newspaper that showed how Congressmen from Michigan voted on budget-cutting measures.

"Carl Pursell ranks number one on cutting the budget, both on defense and overall," he says.

Another consistent McCauley charge is that Pursell has "done nothing for the 2nd District" by way of bringing jobs or money back from Washington and has sponsored no significant legislation in the past two years. He cites two specific actions — one a vote against an appropriations bill amendment that McCauley says would have brought $12 million more to Michigan in 1983.

Pursell was the only Michigan Congressman to oppose the amendment. "He voted with the Sunbelt on that," McCauley says. "He voted with the people from Phoenix — what is this?"

McCauley also claims Pursell's "ineffectiveness" is partially responsible for Michigan's poor balance of payments with the federal government — less than 70 cents of every tax dollar sent from the state is returned in the form of federal spending here.

"I would fight for jobs for Michigan and for the 2nd District," McCauley says.

Pursell counters that the appropriations measure on federal revenue sharing may have been good for Michigan but it "was introduced by Sander Levin at the last minute — you just can't vote on an amendment like that. We had no time to study it. It wouldn't have made it through anyway."

Pursell does not dispute that he has introduced only a handful of bills lately, but notes that performing as a Congressman includes co-sponsoring bills authored by others and votes on the issues before the House, not just writing legislation. He has acted as co-sponsor on many bills.

As for the balance of payments between Washington and Michigan, Pursell says the state "does remarkably well in all categories except defense — and McCauley says he wants to cut defense. He can't have it both ways — he can't cut the defense budget and then spend more defense money here."

Pursell points to his efforts to teach companies in the district how to obtain federal procurement contracts as a better method of solving the problem than would be simple "pork-barrel" projects.

He also notes his efforts to expand the St. Lawrence Seaway to allow larger ships to pass through to Michigan, thereby improving the economics of exporting goods from the state, as a major, long-range goal to aid in economic expansion.

On domestic content legislation, which McCauley favors, Pursell has a split record — he voted for one measure that failed in 1981 and against a later version in 1983.

"The two were quite different," he says. "The one in 1981 was a general measure while the one in 1983 ordained a 75 percent content rule. I'm basically a free trader. I believe in competition. I supported domestic content when we had an industry in trouble."

McCauley says his support for domestic content extends only for a couple of years. "We could export virtually every American job to Korea if we don't do something," he says. "I'd support domestic content for two years, maybe three, while our industry learns to be competitive again."

OLV plans craft event this week

Our Lady of Victory's annual fall arts and crafts show and bake sale will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday in the social hall of the church, 770 Thayer. Admission is free to the show and sale.

Hudler has no use for either

James Hudler, Libertarian, was caught in the crossfire between Carl Pursell, Republican, and Mike McCauley, Democrat at a candidates' night last week.

While the candidates on either side of him hurled verbal barbs at each other, Hudler came out relatively unscathed. He actually gave more than he got, in terms of criticism.

Hudler, also a candidate for the U.S. House seat from the 2nd District currently occupied by Pursell, was seated between the major party candidates and took advantage of his position to level near-equal criticism of both.

Like all Libertarians, Hudler favors the widest-possible interpretation of freedom and, with it, the idea that people should be responsible for themselves. Virtually any government function outside of policing the streets and defending the borders is interpreted as either a violation of personal freedom or a waste of time and money.

Some of Hudler's positions, as he put them at the candidate's night:

Defense Spending — "Cut all defense spending by one-half. Withdraw all American troops from foreign soil — let Germany, Norway, Japan and all the rest defend themselves. I favor making the United States a giant Switzerland — neutral and free of foreign entanglements."

Balancing the budget — "Decrease taxes and decrease spending. Abolish foreign aid, both military and economic, it hasn't done much good anyway. Too many people receive subsidies and government pays for them by taking money away from everyone else."

Nuclear Freeze — He supports it as a means of withdrawing from America's position as a military power.

Taxes — "I shake in my boots when I hear Mr. McCauley say 'fair taxes.' There are no fair taxes. Taxes are legalized theft — it's the government holding a gun to your head and taking away the money you earned." He suggested a national lottery as a means of paying for the minimal government favored by Libertarians. "Lotteries are okay, that's the citizen voluntarily putting up his own money with hopes of some return."

Financial aid to education — "All we hear from Mr. Pursell and Mr. Mc-Cauley is spend, spend, spend. Education should be a private affair. The proper separation between church and state should also exist between the state and education. When government pays for education, it leads to propagandizing in the classroom. If government pays, you get education as government sees fit. If parents pay, you get education as parents see fit."

Domestic content laws — "I'm a free trader — total free trade. Let competition rule — we shouldn't have government subsidies to industry, either."

In his closing remarks, Hudler summed up the Libertarian philosophy, charging that both Democrats and Republicans favor a form of government that "treats people as the property of the state" and calling for a return to the principles on which the nation was founded. He got his largest round of applause for this statement. The applause was led by Pursell.

Afterward, McCauley confided that he was bewildered by Hudler's positions. "He doesn't want to tax anyone," McCauley said, his tone revealing the underlying astonishment.

Douglas. She was the principal at the child development center when it was closed more than a decade ago.

What she thought of the condition of the old place went unrecorded, but there is no arguing that the contract between the new developer and the county has come barely in time to make renovation of some buildings still worthwhile.

Township supervisor John E. MacDonald took the time to spell out the meaning of this project for the township itself and left no doubt about the major goal.

"What this means to Northville Township is that 101 acres of what was non-taxable land is being added to the tax rolls," MacDonald said. "We hope it is the beginning of a trend away from non-taxable and toward taxable developments in this community."

"One-third of the property in this township is municipally-owned — that is, owned by the city of Detroit, Wayne County or the state," he said. "This is an excellent use and we hope it will start a policy of turning this around. I think this is Northville Township's finest hour."

FitzPatrick noted that, although the project has undergone many variations since his group heard the first proposal from the township EDC five years ago

(it had been in the discussion stages for five years before that), it still contains the most important of the original elements — housing and care facilities for older persons and renovation of what many consider historically-valuable buildings.

In size alone, FitzPatrick noted, the Cavanagh Retirement Village promises to be one of the largest such developments in the nation and the largest in the Midwest. Construction is expected to generate 1,000 jobs and projections are that 600 persons will be employed permanently at the site when completed. A minimum tax benefit to the school district, township, county and state was placed at $1 million a year.

The latest alteration, to allow "market rate" apartments open to all age groups, will require a zoning change away from the RME (multiple-family residential, elderly) specifically designed for the project. The RME zoning will remain on a large portion of the property.

The development plan calls for 1,260 living units. Construction is to begin next year on a 120-bed nursing home and a 120 bed intermediate care development. Both are to be low-rise buildings newly constructed.

The following year, the developers propose construction of 150 apartment units for elderly persons and 200 units in market-rate housing. In 1987, a congregate care facility of 120 beds will be added and the remainder of the site developed through 1989.

The developer is a partnership calling itself The Northville Elderly Development Company. Members of the partnership are Singh Associates, a Novi real estate developer with a 46-year history that includes major apartment complexes; the Robert S. Binder Building Company, developer and current owner and manager of several apartment complexes; the Griswold Holding Company, which owns and manages the downtown Detroit Buhl Building and is owned by a national developer with an arm that manages apartments, shopping centers and office buildings; and Treval Corporation, a large general contractor involved in apartment construction and government public works projects.

The partnership has sufficient assets to complete the project on its own, with the Midland Mortgage Investment Company having already having expressed an interest in financing the venture. Government's role in the development includes expected support from the Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) and a likely approach, through a non-profit sponsor, for HUD funding for one stage of the development — subsidized apartments for senior citizens.

State government pay on agenda

Want to have a say in the salary of Michigan's governor, lieutenant governor, supreme court justices and legislators? Your chance is fast approaching.

The State Officers Compensation Commission is conducting a public hearing beginning at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Veterans Memorial, Detroit. According to committee chair Jean McKee, the commission is "very anxious to accommodate all citizens who want to be heard" on the pay levels.

The commission is established by the constitution and legislation to determine the salary of the above-listed officers. It is not allowed to adjust fringe benefits for the officers, and meets only every two years.

McKee is a Grand Rapids attorney. Other members of the commission are vice chair, Leo Farhat, a Lansing attorney; and members Russell Hellman, former legislator from Dollar Bay; The Reverend Lyman Parks of Grand Rapids; and three businessmen — Martin (Hoot) McInerney of Bloomfield Hills, James W.F. Brooks of Holland and Joseph O'Connor of Birmingham.

County commission race prompts heated exchanges

Although candidates for the county board of commissioners seemed to agree on most major issues during a debate last week, mention of campaign contributions and union endorsements sparked a heated exchange between the contenders for the 10th district seat.

Temper flared when incumbent Republican Mary Dumas was asked about campaign contributions at a candidates' night jointly sponsored by the Livonia and Plymouth-Canton-Northville-Novi branches of the League of Women Voters. The 10th District includes Northville, Plymouth and Livonia.

"I received $100 from each of the Teamster's locals, and received $250 from the UAW from my party back in March," said 11-year commissioner Dumas.

Her opponent, Laura Toy of Livonia, a Democrat and Schoolcraft College board secretary, countered: "I have received no money from any labor organizations up to date, and don't expect to. I would like to be the county commissioner who goes in without any ties to union, labor organizations or large special interest groups that carry along a large sum of money."

Dumas had answered the question first and, under League rules, was not entitled to rebuttal. She attempted a response despite the moderator's reminder that she was out of order. Her remarks were inaudible, shouted down by a Toy supporter in the audience who repeatedly said "You're out of order."

Dumas said after the debate that Toy had sought endorsements from the same labor groups Dumas had and that her pronouncement on having no links to unions seemed like sour grapes.

Aside from that exchange, the candidates didn't demonstrate significant differences in their approaches to county government. Dumas focused on her experience and her role in county reform; Toy played on the fact that Dumas was a member of the board before county reform and implied that her opponent is now obstructing further changes. Dumas' suggestions for balancing the county budget: a $10 million cut in the county pension system and control of health care plans. Continued com-puterization of county bookkeeping will assist in speeding up processing and reducing the deficit, she said.

Also, Dumas said, she would offer high-seniority workers early retirement and hire new workers at lower rates. A strong supporter of the county's hospital, which she portrays as a mandated service, Dumas said some non-mandated services may have to be cut. "That will be too bad, because they have been cut almost to the bone."

An across the board percentage cut in every department was another Dumas suggestion. Departments that need more support, she said, are in security and maintenance of the park system.

Taking a longer-range view, she said the county has to encourage business expansion and economic development, both to bolster the tax base and provide employment.

Toy's suggestions for balancing the budget: lowering county salaries, including those of the commissioners and more cooperation with county executive William Lucas. "Before, we had 29 commissioners who voted for every deficit budget, but now we have a new county executive who could put somewhat of a halt to the deficit spending," she said.

Under the charter form of government instituted two years ago, Dumas is the only Republican on a 15-member board of commissioners. The county government is led by Democrat Lucas, the first executive Wayne County has ever had.

Wayne solid waste plan leaps legal hurdles, to DNR

Wayne County's Solid Waste Management Plan survived two law suits and a public hearing within its last 10 days and has been forwarded to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for review and final approval.

Although a two-thirds majority of the county's 43 communities had already approved the plan (a DNR requirement), it was sidetracked when Browning-Ferris Industries, a landfill development company, obtained a court ordering requiring the public hearing.

The plan, required under state law and prepared over the past three years, did not include BFI's proposed Lyon landfill project near Metro Airport in Van Buren Township. The firm hoped the hearing, where new evidence was presented, would persuade the county Solid Waste Management Committee to change its mind and include the Lyon site.

But downriver communities had applied heavy pressure to keep the BFI site out of the plan — they had threatened to withhold their approval of the plan if the Van Buren Township location was included in it. There are sufficient communities in a downriver conference to prevent the county from obtaining the required two-thirds majority.

Eighteen witnesses testified at the court-ordered hearing, including pilots, airport managers and city officials. Those on BFI's side argued that the landfill and the seagulls it would likely attract would not be a hindrance to air traffic, as had been worried.

But the committee voted 11-1 to keep the Lyon landfill site out of the plan. Charging that "the fix was in" BFI attorney James Collier got a second restraining order within hours after the hearing. Circuit Court Judge James P. Hathaway heard the case two days later and lifted his order that afternoon, ordering that the plan be sent on to the DNR.

The DNR has six months in which to respond to the plan. County and City of Detroit officials are urging swifter action. After December 1, Detroit will lose funding for a large resource recovery plant (incinerator) to be built on the east side of the city near Detroit Edison. That plant is a major component of the county long-range waste disposal plan.

After DNR approves the plan, it is returned to the county for implementation. It does not address disposal of hazardous or toxic waste materials, which are covered under other laws.

School board hears plans for 'middle school' approach

As the Northville Public School District moves toward implementing in September, 1985 the "middle school" concept for grades 6-8, with ninth grade moving to the high school, curriculum planners are viewing a "transitional year program" for sixth graders.

Guidelines detailing philosophy, basic program and staff components for implementation of the middle school concept in the district were approved unanimously by the board of education Monday night.

"We're looking tonight for support for the guidelines so we can finalize our recommendations and come back with requirements," Assistant Superintendent Nancy Soper told the board and audience at the meeting at Northville High School.

"We're looking at the sixth grade as the transitional year," she explained, "with a planned program of required classes and exploratory enrichment courses."

Recommendation included flexibility of scheduling, which, it was explained, would make it possible to offer 10-week exploratory courses to sixth graders in music, language and other areas.

Grades 7 and 8 would have increasing numbers of elective classes.

The recommendation provided that the instructional day would not be less than the present schedule, that academic instructional time will be based on amount of time per week, not per day, in a subject.

'We're looking at the sixth grade as the transitional year.'

— Nancy Soper,
Assistant Superintendent

The guidelines also call for implementation of an intramural program, which, it was explained, could be a lunchtime offering once or twice a week on a voluntary participation basis.

Strongly emphasized as "crucial" to the program was a concept of cooperative planning on a regular basis by the teaching staff. At each of the three grade levels there would be planning by teams of staff members.

A 10-point outline of the cooperative planning program detailed:

- That building administrators participate in team planning meetings and meet with planning leaders on a regular basis;

- That planning teams meet with support staff — social workers, reading consultants, etc. — on a regular basis;

- That a first priority of the cooperative planning organization be the staffing quality to maintain the instructional program with cooperative planning teams coordinating the total instructional program of the group of students with whom they work.

As part of the middle school philosophy, the overall purpose was defined for the board as one to "provide a supportive and flexible environment so young people will have opportunities not only to develop basic skills, but to explore a variety of learning experiences."

The presentation Monday night was the result of work by parents, teachers and administration, Soper said. It is supported by the Middle School Advisory Council, Curriculum Organization Committee and the K-12 Curriculum Council. Parents and teachers in the audience who have been participating were introduced.

The meeting was held at the high school as part of the board's rotation to schools in the district once a month.

Principal David Bolitho welcomed the board and audience gave an update on the renovation progress before introducing department heads who presented progress overviews.

Phase one of the high school pool has been completed, Bolitho said, and the pool now is in use.

Footings have been poured at the west end of the building and are being done for the physical education center and locker room renovation. The gym sound system also has been completed. "Disruption has been minimal," Bolitho commented.

He told the board that the homecoming activities had been well attended and that the pep club had been responsible for planning them. More than 320 attended the homecoming dance, he mentioned.

Bolitho then introduced department heads who related their department's strengths and weaknesses as reported in the North Central evaluation and told what improvements were planned. Most stated that the renovation and improved facilities would correct weaknesses cited in the evaluation.

Scholastic standouts

These ten Northville High School students were honored recently by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation for their performance on the National Merit battery of tests. In the front row are "commended" students Bob Guldberg, Alan Griffith and Jeff Peters, and "semi-finalist" students Ron

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

ENERGY TAX CREDITS

You may have taken steps to make your home more energy efficient and be planning other projects that will help lower your fuel bill. Whatever you do, be sure to keep financial records so you can claim credits allowed under the new tax law. Keep in mind that tax credits can be even more beneficial than deductions because they reduce the actual amount of tax liability.

What can you claim for energy tax credits? The cost of the following items are currently allowed by the Internal Revenue Service: insulation; storm or thermal windows or doors; caulking or weatherstripping; a furnace replacement burner that reduces the amount of fuel used; a device for modifying flue openings to make a heating system more efficient; an electrical or mechanical furnace ignition system that replaces a gas pilot light; a thermostat with an automatic setback; and a meter that shows the cost of energy used.

For a review of all the energy tax credits you're entitled to as well as other tax savings opportunities, why not call us for an appointment?

Smargon takes on uphill fight to unseat Broomfield

Vivian Smargon is emphatic: "I am not the Democratic Party's sacrificial lamb. This race represents the realization of a lifelong dream; it's something I wanted to do."

Smargon faces the unenviable task of challenging incumbent Republican William Broomfield in the race for U.S. Congress from the sprawling 18th District, which ranges from Lapeer County on the north through Birmingham, Oakland County portion of the City of Northville, Novi, Walled Lake, Commerce, Wixom, Milford, South Lyon and Lyon Township to Brighton.

Broomfield, 62, has proven himself a venerable opponent. After six years (1948-54) in the Michigan House of Representatives and two years in the State Senate (1954-56), he was elected to the U.S. Congress in 1956 and has continued to be re-elected ever since.

His 28 years in Congress have made him the ranking Republican on the House Foreign Affairs Committee, a position which he says gives him direct access to President Ronald Reagan on matters of foreign policy, and a senior Republican on the House Small Business Committee.

If Smargon, 42, is intimidated by the task of running against Broomfield, she doesn't show it. She maintains that Broomfield not only "can be defeated, but should be defeated."

"His voting record," she says, "makes me angry."

Smargon believes she has the credentials to defeat Broomfield. She has a BA in Political Science, an MA in Survey Research and a Juris Doctor from Wayne State University. A self-employed attorney in Southfield, she also is owner/operator of a small business (Smargon Optical) in Detroit and a college professor.

"I'm a Democrat, but on economic issues I sound more like a Republican," she says.

Smargon maintains that Broomfield's voting record on economic issues "doesn't add up. He voted for increased spending on defense, then voted to reduce revenues and supported a constitutional amendment to balance the budget," she notes.

"As a former doctorate of business student, I know his votes don't add up. If he really wanted to balance the budget, he could have done it."

Broomfield, on the other hand, defends his position on economic issues and blames "free-spending Democrats" for growing budget deficits.

"I'm concerned about the deficits, but am opposed to (Democratic Presidential candidate Walter) Mondale's tax. There's still a lot more reforms we can do to tighten up agencies, including defense," he says.

"It's interesting that we have inflation down to a point where nobody even talks about it. If we had a Congress that would show some concern about reducing spending, you'd see the financial community reduce interest rates and that would prompt additional economic growth."

"I support the Reagan position in opposition to any new taxes. I want to see more growth and am opposed to anything that would slow the economic recovery. We can reduce the deficit by promoting economic growth. Raising taxes is the worst thing we could do as a means of reducing the deficit."

Smargon and Broomfield agree that taxes should not be raised, but disagree on the proposed Balanced Budget Amendment.

To reduce the deficit, Smargon calls for total reform of the taxing system. A "flat-rate tax system," she says, will bring in more revenues. Additionally, she supports abolishing corporate taxes because they are filled with too many loop holes and replacing them with a "point-of-purchase" or "consumption" tax.

Broomfield maintains the deficit will be reduced by "staying on our current economic course. The most important thing we can do to reduce the deficit is to show a downturn in federal spending," he says. "It would do no good to raise taxes; we need to reduce government."

Smargon opposes the Balanced Budget Amendment, stating that Congress needs discretionary spending power. "If congress wants to balance the budget, it can do so," she says. "People must be vigilant to make sure their representatives do so."

Broomfield supports the Amendment because "I don't trust the Democrats to hold down spending."

The two candidates also hold similar views on other issues.

On the subject of import quotas, both express basic philosophic opposition.

"American industry does need some protection for a given period of time, but basically I believe in free trade," says Smargon. "American industry can compete with anyone if given a chance, but it must be given a chance."

Broomfield expresses similar sentiments. "I supported (import quotas) on Japan but really believe in a free trade policy," he said. "However, if countries place trade restrictions on our products, we should have the same restrictions on them. I favor restrictions only as a last resort; only when other countries are 'dumping' their products in the United States."

Smargon and Broomfield also express support for a strong defense. Smargon says a strong defense is "terribly important to America, but equally important is defense-waste. There are areas that can be cut."

Says Broomfield: "I don't apologize for not balancing the budget at the sake of national security. One of the most important things we've done in the past four years is increase our military strength. You haven't seen the Soviets take over any new countries during the past four years. At the same time, there is waste in the military that must be cut. Defense must be examined by the same oversight authority as all other government agencies."

On the issue of peace-time conscription, Smargon said she "would prefer not to see it, but the country must be able to defend itself." Broomfield maintains that the volunteer army has proven adequate. "We have been able to generate sufficient manpower with the volunteer army," he said. "I'm opposed to it (conscription) because there's no need for it."

Smargon maintains that Broomfield has not served Michigan well. "He's a very nice man, but he hasn't brought anything back to Michigan," she says. "He hasn't used his seniority to benefit Michigan, and I find that appalling."

Broomfield counters that his record speaks for itself. "I've served in Congress 28 years and in the last election received the largest majority (75 percent and 100,000 votes) in my life. I'm proud of the leadership role I play. It takes time and experience, but I play that role on the national level and still meet the needs and requests of my home district."

Crash kills student

CHERYL ANN HAMMER

Former Northville resident Cheryl Ann Hammer, 24, of Grand Ledge died in an automobile accident October 18. She was a student at Lansing Community College in Lansing.

Funeral service was at 1 p.m. Saturday at Casterline Funeral Home with Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain of First Presbyterian Church of Northville officiating.

Miss Hammer, who lived most of her life in Northville, was born May 19, 1960, in Wisconsin to Clifford J. and Elaine M. (Bostwick) Hammer.

Survivors are her mother Elaine Westerfield of Northville, stepfather Hank Gardner, and sister Mrs. Phillip (Margaret) Gardner. She was engaged to Donald Rooker of Lansing.

PHILLIP J. HAZLETT

Memorial service for Phillip Jerome (Jerry) Hazlett of Plymouth was held at 7 p.m. October 19 at First United Methodist Church of Plymouth with the Reverend John Grenfell officiating.

Mr. Hazlett died October 15 after an illness of four years.

A lifelong resident of the area, Mr. Hazlett was born in Detroit March 15, 1935, to Percy and Beatrice (Rickert) Hazlett.

The family moved to Northville Township in 1936, and he attended the Waterford one-room school located south of Six Mile and east of Northville Road. He was graduated from Northville High School in 1953.

A retired insurance agent, Mr. Hazlett was a member of the Plymouth Masonic Lodge, Rotary Club and Jaycees of Plymouth.

He leaves three daughters Kathy, Rhonda and Andrea and one grandson Randy in Plymouth; sisters Vivian Dingeldein of California, Ruth Marioni and Norma Hazlett in Northville; brothers Robert Hazlett of West Virginia, Lynn and David of Florida; and numerous nieces and nephews in this area.

Memorial tributes may be sent to the Michigan Heart Fund.

JOHN J. BLAIR

John J. Blair, a mechanic and former operator of the service station at Rogers and Fairbrook, died October 17 in Siloam Springs, Arkansas, at the age of 75.

Mr. Blair was born November 16, 1908, in Bay City. He moved to Northville in the early 1930s and lived here until he retired in 1974 and moved to Siloam Springs.

He is survived by his wife Gladys, son Donald E. and three grandchildren, all of Siloam Springs.

Mr. Blair was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church in Siloam Springs. Funeral services were October 19 at Wasson Funeral Home in Arkansas with burial also in Arkansas.

Hearings generate debate on need for school closings

Most parents and teachers appeared in order to persuade officials that Silver Springs Elementary should be one of the schools to remain open. But some disputed whether any closings were necessary.

District resident Robert Darrow said he thought the cost of keeping the extra schools open was minimal in the face of the overall school budget, and would be supported by a millage approval.

"If you took a survey about schools anywhere, if there's one thing you'd find out, it's that the neighborhood school concept is sacrosanct," Darrow said. "For that reason I find it incomprehensible that the board is ready to take this (the closings) on for $50,000, or about four tenths of one percent of the school budget."

Darrow also noted less than one extra mill would easily generate the extra costs of keeping the schools open. "That comes out to around $20 or $30 a house," he said. "Why not put it on a ballot, or if you're worried about an overall millage, put it on the side. Let the people decide. If they vote it down, then go ahead and close."

Dr. Bell responded the figures Darrow and the citizens committee used greatly underestimated the actual savings the district would realize. In particular, it was noted, the $50,000-$75,000 estimates given by the citizens' committee were on a per-year basis at present energy and labor costs.

Phil Phillips, another resident, followed Darrow's line, asking, "If the deficit can be resolved by an additional mill, and if the average valuation doesn't go down as expected, would there be any consideration to defer the decision to close?"

Bell responded, "I would not recommend it. The pattern of declining enrollments is going to continue and will become the number of staff. I would be irresponsible if I were to recommend to the board we not close."

Also questioning the move was former school board candidate Pat Coyne, who used the open hearing forum to criticize teacher and administration pay raises.

Several Silver Springs Elementary teachers joined parents in urging their school be one of those to stay open.

Jane Patterson, who has taught at Silver Springs six years, noted the school's successful "Kids Club" after-school program, which offers supervision to "latchkey" students until 6 p.m.

The nine-year-old building, she noted, has large, carpeted classrooms, air conditioning, a large media center, a special room for computer study and a bright cheerful appearance. "It's a warm, inviting and happy place to learn," she concluded.

Other instructors, including Teachers Union President Barbara LeBoeuf, urged the board not to allow emotional public opinion to stand in the way of an efficient decision in order to minimize conflict and retain the best interests of the students.

At the final hearing at Meads Mill, it was emphasized that the exact amount of possible savings through closings won't be able to be pinpointed until specific schools are targeted for closing. Parents were told that as much as $200,000 could be realized.

In response to a question about how many empty classrooms now are in the district's schools, it was noted that the district is operating at 55 percent of capacity.

Asked whether Cooke Junior High or Meads Mill would be considered more salable, or more usable for office or industry use, the consultant said his firm would give pros and cons on each of the district's buildings.

"I promise the buildings (closed) will not become a blight," reiterated Bell.

The recommendation of the citizens' committee that two schools not be closed on the same side of town in order not to affect the same families twice was questioned at Meads Mill, as it had been at Cooke.

Goldhammer said the recommendation was not the "most critical" consideration but certainly would be one of the factors considered.

Residents such as Ann Guldberg noted that Meads Mill was built under the middle school concept with pods around an art area, media center and theater. She said she had confidence that the decision "will be the best one for the kids."

As earlier, at Meads Mill the board was told that parents wanted the opportunity to respond when the recommendations are made "before they're finalized."

The November 5 meeting of the board, scheduled as a study session, will be open at the conclusion for audience comment, it was promised.

In response to a question regarding what happens to the money if the schools are sold, the administrators emphasized that, by law, such funds must go to pay off the district's bonded indebtedness.

As parents spoke of increased area building activity, Bell said he had talked to township consultant Claude Coates and that no new developments are in the offing even though there is activity in subdivisions not completed.

In response to a question about undeveloped property the district owns on Six Mile, Bell said he was sure if the board had an offer, it would be interested. He pointed out, however, that any money realized would have to be used to pay off the bonded indebtedness.

Board member Chris Johnson noted that bond issue monies are totally separate from general funds and that money from any sale would have to be used to pay off the oldest bond issues.

Goldhammer warned that education "is going to become extremely expensive in the next few years because of declining enrollments — you're going to have to combine to save tax dollars."

Closings would alleviate many of the split-grade classrooms, he said.

In both administration and parents' comments, it was acknowledged that closing schools is one of the "toughest" and "most sensitive" issues to face a district.

Both the November 5 board study session and the November 12 board meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, Bell announced.

State accepts amended statement

By KEVIN WILSON

State campaign financing officials have accepted an amended report of the financial status of his campaign for 35th District Court judge from township supervisor John E. MacDonald in response to a complaint filed by a Canton Township man.

The amendment filed by MacDonald's campaign committee shows cash and in-kind contributions and loans from MacDonald himself, $5,578.95 for the period from July 23 to August 27. Other than those made by the candidate himself, the contributions totaled only $150.

Those contributions and loans were not included on the original statement filed September 6, prompting an official complaint by Canton resident Dale Smith.

Most of the unreported contributions were in-kind — that is, MacDonald paid for a service which was performed for the campaign committee. Typical items included $997 for bulk mail postage July 30 and $565 for advertising the same day.

Each in-kind service was reported as a loan from MacDonald, so that if money remains in the campaign committee account when it is dissolved some time after the election, he can retrieve the money he spent on the campaign.

Also reported in the amendment, and not in the September 6 statement, were expenditures of $1,618.58. These included postage, active voter lists, mailing labels, rubber stamps, bulk mail postage, payment to a photographer for pictures, printing for fliers and advertising.

MacDonald filed the amended statement October 9. He received a letter dated October 15 from Ann Corgan of the department of state's compliance and rules division noting acceptance of the statement.

Noting the contributions and loans, Corgan's letter further states that "You have also furnished evidence indicating that certain campaign statements which stated 'Paid for by Larry West' were in fact paid for by your committee. According to the evidence, Mr. West is your committee treasurer and his name appeared on the signs as a result of a printer's error."

"As a result of the information provided, this office will take no further action in regard to this matter."

A copy of the letter was sent to Smith.

One stolen car found on fire, another under water

In the Township...

For the third time since July 23, a stolen automobile was destroyed by arson in Northville.

The most recent "torching" was discovered at Reservoir Drive just west of Northville Road at 1:43 a.m. Tuesday, October 9. When township police arrived at the scene — patrolled by a squad car only 17 minutes earlier — they discovered a yellow two-door Pontiac T-1000 completely engulfed in flames.

Township firefighters extinguished the flames of the car, which belonged to a 38-year-old Dearborn Heights woman.

The car had last been seen in the woman's driveway at 9 p.m. the night before. The value of the car was estimated at $6,300.

Similar car arson incidents took place July 23 and September 3, both handled by city police and fire officials.

Two Woodhill homeowners returned to their home at 3 p.m. Friday, October 12, to discover a break-in in process. When the couple's car pulled into their own driveway, they found a blue Chevrolet Malibu parked there with a white male driver at the wheel. Another white male described as being in his early 20s was seen running from the south side of the residence. The man jumped into the car's passenger seat and both drove across the home's lawn, ending south on Woodhill.

The culprits had apparently caused $400 damage to the house's kitchen window. Damage to the lawn was reported at $700. Nothing was reported stolen, although a displaced jewelry box seemed to indicate theft had been intended. Township police are continuing to investigate the incident.

A red Pontiac Fiero parked before an Eddington Place residence was stolen Friday, October 12, then discovered stripped on a Detroit residential street the following day.

The theft took place between 3:10 and 8 a.m., when township police were alerted. The car reportedly had been locked.

The next morning, a Detroit man reported the stripped car had been left before his Stakelin Street home. The car was towed back to Northville, and damage to the ignition, electric bucket seats, tires and rims, stereo and engine covers was recorded and estimated cumulatively at $1,750. The car itself was valued at $14,000.

A car reported stolen eight years ago from a Garden City resident was hauled from the bottom of Lake Success Thursday, October 11.

The car, a yellow 1976 Mazda, had been discovered 40 feet off the lake's north shore and 30 feet underwater. Using flotation equipment, it was removed at 2:45 p.m. The keys were in the ignition.

A resident of Innsbrook Apartments discovered the steering column of his automobile had been damaged by unknown person(s) attempting to steal it between 8:15 p.m. October 10, and 7:30 a.m. the following day, when the damage was discovered by the owner. According to the township report, the owner of the black 1984 two-door Trans Am had locked his car and the car was locked when he returned to it. Damage was estimated at $400.

An unknown person used a b.b. gun to shoot out the front picture window of a home on Elk Street between 11 p.m. Monday, October 8 and 8:50 a.m. the following day, when the damage was discovered by the homeowners.

Damage to the 6'x7½' window was estimated at $250.

A boy's 20" bike was stolen from the front bicycle rack at Winchester Elementary School between 8:45 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, October 10. The bicycle, a black Mongoose brand, had been locked, but both the lock and chain were left at the scene by the thief. Value of the bike was estimated at $250.

A break-in at Kinder-Care nursery, 20675 Silver Springs Drive, netted the thief (thieves) exactly six $1 bills, stolen from a desk drawer from an office inside. The break-in, which took place between 6:10 p.m. Monday, October 8 and 7 a.m. the following day, caused $100 damage to a window of the nursery, where access to the building was gained.

A moped valued at $350, was stolen between noon Friday, October 12 and 6 p.m. the following day from where it was parked, locked and stored near the Northville Forest apartment building where its owner lived. While the front wheel of the vehicle was locked, it was not secured to the ground.

...in the City...

Two cameras were stolen from the garage of a home on Debra Street between 10 and 11 a.m. Monday, October 15, city police reported. The cameras were a Polaroid Land Camera valued at $80 and a Pentax 35mm with black case and flash attachment, together valued at $330. No suspects were reported by the victim.

...from State Police

Items valued at approximately $760 were reported stolen from a Whitehaven residence sometime between 6 p.m. October 13 and 3:30 a.m. the following day, according to a state police report.

An owner of the house told police the burglary happened while the residents were out that weekend evening. The culprit(s) apparently first attempted to gain entry through a rear door wall. The latch had been defeated by lifting the door over it, but a bar in the track prevented entry. Entry was eventually gained by climbing through a small, unlocked, sash-type window into a bathroom at the front of the house, the police report states.

Once inside, the intruder(s) lifted on small, very portable items. Among the items stolen were a $180 Escort radar detector, two fifths of whiskey, a gold necklace and cross valued at $100, a $100 mini-cassette tape player with radio, a jar containing an estimated $50 in change and one dollar bills, and 44 record albums together valued at $220.

Also stolen were blank cassette tapes, a tape head de-magnetizer, a hunting knife, a racquetball racquet, balls, shoes and duffelbag.

Police were unable to make an immediate inspection of the burglarized home, but offered to do so later that evening. The resident who reported the burglary told police a detailed investigation would not be necessary, asking only that a report of the incident be placed on file.

In Uniform

Army Pfc. Michael C. Dimitroff, son of Suzanne Dimitroff, 311 North Ely Drive, has arrived for duty in Frankfurt, West Germany.

Michael Dimitroff, a vehicle driver, was previously assigned at Fort Stewart, Georgia. He is a 1982 graduate of Northville High School.

Army Pfc. Dana M. Kitchen, daughter of Gloria J. Loudy, 19813 Crystal Lake Drive, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

During her training, Dana Kitchen received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid and Army history and tradition. She received an associate degree from Alpena Community College earlier this year.

Navy Petty Officer Third Class

Robert H. Wolfgram, son of Robert and Janice Wolfgram, 753 Grace St., Northville, recently completed the Strategic Weapons System Electronics Course at the Naval Guided Missiles School, Dam Neck, Virginia Beach, Va.

During the 20-week course, the officer studied direct and alternating current theory, fundamentals of solid state devices, inertial guidance, and the operation, programming and troubleshooting of digital computers. He is a 1983 graduate of Northville High School.

Navy Airman Recruit Hugh D. Hading, son of Rev. and Mrs. Leslie Harding of 241 Lynwood Drive, has reported for duty aboard the aircraft carrier USS Dwight D. Eisenhower, homeported in Norfolk, Va. He is a 1982 graduate of Novi High School.

MSP trooper an Olympian

Northville post Michigan State Police Trooper Dennis Betts was one of a five-member swim team recently honored for their participation in the 14th International Police Olympics in Phoenix.

The team won 13 gold medals, two silver and one bronze in the various meets. Other members of the team were Joe Van Oosterhout of the Traffic Services Division, Troopers Robert Carr and John Matchulat of the Lansing post and Trooper Ron Nightingale of the Jackson post. Nightingale won five gold medals.

Four other troopers, all from the Detroit post, also participated in other Olympic events. They were Gary Nix in cycling and Larry Bohnsack, Brent Purucker and Roque Ybarra, all in track and field.

Officers paid their own way to the games, which attracted more than 3,000 officers from 40 states and five countries. Recognition of the Michigan troopers was given at a recent ceremony headed by MSP director Colonel Gerald L. Hough.

Our Opinion

Pursell's record merits extension

Sometimes Americans are too swift to merely return an incumbent elected official for another term of office without really examining the person's performance. The situation is so commonplace, in fact, that the opposing party often all but concedes the election. The names opposite an incumbent's on the ballot frequently do little more than fill space.

Therefore we were happy to see Mike McCauley running a genuine, full-effort campaign against 2nd District Congressman Carl Pursell. Even the best officials can use an occasional reminder that the voters are watching and do have alternatives.

Spirited and challenging as his campaign has been, however, McCauley has shown us no reason to replace CARL PURSELL, whom we endorse for re-election. The Plymouth Republican has demonstrated an independent bent that is refreshing in these days of candidates whose devotion to ideology often exceeds their ability to apply common sense to the issues.

We particularly like Pursell's fiscal conservatism aligned with moderate to liberal positions on issues regarding minority rights (including those of women) and military and foreign affairs. He has proven that one need not be a Bible-thumping member of the far right to be a responsible public servant concerned with the level of government spending. Unlike many of his Republican colleagues, Pursell is not inclined to slash every portion of the budget but roll over and play dead for the Pentagon. Nor is he like his liberal opponent, who would cut anything with the scent of defense about it and still need to raise taxes to finance social programs.

McCauley has been particularly fond of claiming Pursell is "ineffective" in representing his district's interests. We tend to interpret that as meaning the interests Pursell is effectively representing are not those McCauley would represent. The interests of the district are likely closer to the ones Pursell has pursued — long-term, solidly-grounded economic development and a fiscally sound government — than are the ones McCauley would pursue — increased federal spending on a gamut of liberal programs accompanied by large tax increases to finance it all. McCauley doesn't use the words, but he seems to want the 2nd District representative to do more "pork-barreling" and be less concerned about where the money is going to come from to pay for such federal largess. It's a very narrow interpretation of effective leadership.

While we're speaking of effectiveness, it is worthwhile to note that Pursell is now approaching sufficient seniority in the U.S. House that he is gaining more powerful committee assignments.

The respect of his colleagues is reflected in his appointment as regional minority whip and his depth of understanding of the internal workings of government is reaching a point where he can get more done. That Pursell has chosen to pursue long-range goals rather than to make laws for the sake of making laws is indicative of a responsible representative whose vision extends beyond the next election.

Of course, by following his own conscience Pursell is open to attacks from both the left and right. Strong supporters of the President's policies will likely feel Pursell isn't going along with the program as they would like. Liberals will find his willingness to break with their camp on his most recent MX vote, for instance, distressing. Single-issue voters of every stripe will find something in Pursell's voting record to offend them.

That speaks to us of something too often lacking in public officials — the courage to stick to one's convictions, regardless of the consequences of alienating one voting bloc or another. That is a far more admirable thing than is any single vote on any single issue, regardless of how important one might feel the issue is. So long as Pursell continues in this vein, he will receive our support and good wishes. A genuine leader is a rare thing in Congress and not something to be carelessly discarded in pursuit of one more vote on a single issue.

I'm covering Michele's beat

For our many readers who have asked about the wedding of Record reporter Michele McElmurry and Sliger/Livingston photographer Steve Fecht on October 12, it was a most happy occasion. Michele looked very lovely and very tiny as she walked down the long aisle to the altar of First Presbyterian Church of Birmingham where Steve waited, smiling.

She and Steve are due back from their wedding trip to France the end of this week. In the meantime, I have been getting re-acquainted with the school beat, which Michele has covered for the past four years.

As I attended two of the three school closing hearings last week, it became apparent that this is, as it always has been, a community of caring, concerned parents. Both fathers and mothers were in attendance, seeking information. The figures quoted by Superintendent George Bell and the district's consultant, Dr. Keith Goldhammer, show the extent of the downward trend that would not have seemed possible 10 years ago.

I was most impressed with the attitude and comments of the audience. Parents' satisfaction with their neighborhood schools was apparent. It is understandable that no one wants his (her) child's school closed. However, I felt it indicative of the caliber of the community when one mother, explaining she has had children in the school system for many years, spoke to this during the discussion at Cooke Junior High.

She said that about 10 years ago, the growth experienced in the district caused the same types of problems as school administrators moved children into different schools to use all space available. "In three years," she recalled, "my child was in three different schools. Your attitude is what is important — don't let it affect you and it won't affect him." Her statement brought applause from the audience.

She is right. Her comment brought back memories for me of the district's great growth period more than a decade ago. As Shadbrook and Edenderry subdivisions, and then Northville Commons and Highland Lakes developed, bond issues were supported for Moraine, Silver Springs and Winchester elementaries and for Meads Mill (which opened as a middle school.)

Daughter Laurie began school at Amerman, was switched the next year to Main Street — and then to Moraine when it opened. Looking back, we parents really didn't give full credit to the adaptability of our youngsters. I admittedly was concerned, but I need not have been. It was all part of the adventure of education for Laurie — and, in retrospect, an added benefit. As educators juggled students in grades to try to find classroom space for all, area boundaries were changed, as they will have to be now.

As a result, Laurie's circle of friends widened beyond her immediate neighborhood. I remember how thrilled she was when one youngster invited the class to visit his father's farm where they viewed modern milking procedures — and enjoyed cookies baked by the young host's grandmother. She had never had an opportunity to visit a working farm. Northville was then, and still is, a relatively small school district. I consider that a plus, and parents who can transmit to their children "district pride" will be well served.

When I covered Monday night's school board meeting, however, I felt the district has "come a long way" from what it was 20, or 10, years ago. There is no shortage of good teachers, and a stable district has been able to focus on programs. As Michele returns, the development of the middle school curriculum and philosophy will provide material for stories in the months to come. I already have a package of ideas for future features. Welcome back, Michele.

About Town

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

It was bound to happen sooner or later... somebody was bound to bring up the fact that My President is a septuagenarian and question his ability to steer the Ship of State on a straight and narrow course.

It finally happened during the League of Women Voters' debate Sunday night.

But My President was equal to the challenge. In fact, it seemed like he had been hoping someone would ask the question.

"I am not going to make age an issue of this campaign," he said. "I am not going to exploit for political purposes my opponent's youth and inexperience."

It was a pretty good answer. The audience laughed, the guy who asked the question laughed, Vice President Mondale laughed and I may have chuckled a bit myself.

The only person who didn't laugh was the lady with whom I was watching the debate. "I suppose you think that's funny," she said.

"Even a liberal like you has to admit it was semi-humorous," I replied. "My President may have stumbled over his figures a bit in the first debate, but he's coming back strong this time around. He let ol' Mondale have it that time."

"That's the trouble with you conservatives," she shot back. "You're not smart enough to see the real issues; you get hung up on all the superficial stuff — like old jokes by an old actor."

"I didn't hear you laughing when Mondale was making important statements about the CIA manual on political assassination and blackmail in Nicaragua. You weren't sitting there with a stupid grin on your face when Mondale pointed out that Your President apparently doesn't know what's going on in his own agencies."

"No, you didn't hear any of those substantive issues. The only thing you heard was that old joke. You Republicans are all alike. You get so hung up on the superficial, irrelevant things that you can't even hear the important things that are being said."

She paused long enough for me to get a few words in. And I gave serious consideration to making some comment about the fact that Mondale looked like he had bags under his eyes. But I didn't. It would only have set her off again.

Proposal C likened to taking away the credit cards

To the Editor:

We have just completed a review of the newsprint telling how bad Voter's Choice Proposal C is. We don't think that the words of any bureaucrat or other tax consumer have been left out. The only thing missing as usual is the view of the taxpayer, so let's take a look at what Proposal C is really all about.

Past years have seen enormous growth in the size and cost of federal, state and local governments, all at the expense of the taxpayers.

When it comes to taxation, regulation and spending, representative government has developed a serious weakness — the representatives listen to the wants of all of the special interests and bureaucrats, but the objections of the citizens are ignored. Seldom is the private citizen taxpayer able to testify in legislative hearings, and when the individual is able to speak, he is considered a minority griper — after all, government knows best what is good for the taxpayers.

Now the voter has found a way to control government and other taxing units — the ballot box. When you want the family to stop spending, you take away the credit cards. When the elected representatives continue to fill everyone's pork barrel at your expense, you cut off the pork supply.

Voter's Choice Proposal C is that last resort method to control the use of tax money and make government more representative and responsive to the citizen majority.

That is why we are voting a resounding YES on Voter's Choice Proposal C to put taxation back under the control of the voters and to force our representative government to represent the taxpayer as well as all of the bureaucrats and special interests that live out of the taxpayers' pockets.

Contrary to published propaganda, tax supported organizations will not be devastated. If none of the taxes affected by Voter's Choice are restored by a vote of the people, the State of Michigan will still have 764 million dollars more to spend than was spent in 1983.

A YES vote on Voter's Choice Proposal C will stop the growth of government and force taxing units to live within their budgets just like we taxpayers must do.

Donald C. Young Jr.

School closing hearing short on information

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is a copy sent to The Record of a letter addressed to Superintendent of Schools George Bell.

Dear Dr. Bell:

I attended the hearing the other evening at Silver Springs School regarding the proposed closing of one or two of the schools in the system next year. I guess I must say that I am disappointed with what I heard.

First, let me say that I have only one more son in the school system, and he will be a senior at the high school next year. Therefore, the proposed changes are not personally to me as deep as with those who have a number of younger children in the system.

The hearing the other evening did not adequately supply anyone present with information pertaining to the benefits of closing the schools. There may be benefits, but they certainly were not presented at the meeting.

A rough and dirty number of $50,000 savings, maybe $100,000, per year was thrown out, not guaranteed, and this amounts only to a fraction of a percent of the total school budget. It was mentioned that there would be educational benefits, but these were not detailed either.

From the flavor of the meeting, I know that the decision has already been made to close schools. What a shame to make a decision like that, and not even know how much money it will save or what benefits in the quality of education will result.

I hope you know what the improvements and savings are — because you certainly have not presented them to the public. Thus far, all of the changes and improvements which you have made to our school system during your tenure have been excellent and correct. I hope this one is also.

Very truly yours,
E. Thomas Lee

Just over 30 years ago, people marveled at that new-fangled invention called the television. Few people realized that it took more than 100 years to develop.

Today, the "high-tech" field is growing at a much faster rate than when the television was created. And where is Michigan in the race? Far back in the pack, but moving up.

According to the president of the Michigan Technology Council, Michigan is lagging behind other states in bringing about technological growth. However, a movement matching university expertise with industry needs is helping to create an atmosphere ripe for technological innovations.

One promising project on the horizon

Baseball federation thanks local support

To the Editor:

This past summer Northville hosted for the second consecutive year the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior World Series and a regional tournament for the Continental Amateur Baseball Federation.

Both tournaments were co-sponsored by the Northville Junior Baseball League and Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation. They were outstanding tournaments in which the quality of play could not have been better.

Northville Junior Baseball wants to thank the community of Northville; Northville Community Recreation; the business establishments in the community of Northville; Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation; supporters of the tournament; parents, coaches and players of both Northville Mickey Mantle teams; Northville Public Schools and the tournament committee for their outstanding work in making this tournament as successful as it was. We all can be very proud of the way in which the 1984 Junior World Series was conducted.

The Tournament Committee members were: Jim O'Neill, Ken

Dominique, Fred Schmidt, John Newitt, Bob Kehoe, Jeff Farland, Alma Stephens, Fred Cahill, John Swierkowski, Ed Harp, Bob Willer, Marilyn Harp, Bob Peterson, Judy Walsh, Jim Newman, Bob Cannon, George Justus and myself.

Thanks also to the First Vice-President of the NABF, Ivor F. James of Plymouth, to Jerry Pitcher, director of the Mickey Mantle division, Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation, and to Fred Feaver of Westerville, Ohio, chairman of the NABF Rules Committee.

Congratulations and Thank You,
Bob Frellick

A stitch in time means profit

By SHARON ROSE

There's no business like sew business, according to a growing number of Michigan men and women. If your mending basket is overflowing, be advised that there's someone out there who'd be happy to help you empty it — and fill your bankbook at the same time.

The ARM (Alterations, Repairs and Mending) business is thriving and quite lucrative, according to Isabel Jones, Clothing and Textile Specialist for the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

Women in particular find sewing, whether it be in alterations or crafts, an attractive method of supplementing the family income.

Speaking at a recent "Sew for Profit" seminar at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi, Jones said a major advantage to operating a small ARM business is the minimal financial investment required.

"I know women who have started their businesses with the bare necessities — a sewing machine, an ironing board, the help of family and friends, and no more capital than a credit card," she explained.

However, to be successful one must be able to sew well and quickly.

"Practice and experiment," cautioned Ruth Olander, president of the Sew/Fit Company. "Plan to alter your first jacket for the Salvation Army."

The profit factor is what turns an interesting talent or craft into a rewarding business, and Jones advises would-be entrepreneurs to analyze their goals carefully before hanging out a shingle. Determine how much time you can afford to spend working and the amount of money you wish to make.

In case you need some incentive, Jones stressed that "it is not unusual at all" for a homemaker to gross an annual income in excess of $30,000.

Jane Sweitzer and Debbie Allen, district managers for Creative Expressions, a company which markets craft kits and accessories through the use of home parties and training sessions, cited some advantages of a home-based business:

1) Independence. Not having to punch someone else's time clock;

2) Comfort and familiarity. Being able to work in your own environment, and;

3) Pay scale. You determine your own pay and you can make as much or as little as you care to, depending upon the effort and time you invest in your projects.

On the flip side are some disadvantages:

1) Procrastination. It's easy to goof off when you're the boss and no one's watching;

2) Loneliness. This is a solo operation and you must be self-motivated, and;

3) Lack of legal and marketing skills. The small businessman or woman may need to seek outside help in these areas.

In spite of these pitfalls, there are plenty of success stories to inspire the faint-hearted. Debbie Allen was forced to take some fast action to support her family when illness kept her husband out of work for a time.

"I did some soul-searching and decided what I liked and did best was sewing," she said. She located a small storefront near her home, invested in some advertising and took advantage of timely sidewalk sales to attract walk-in customers. Within one month she had met her overhead and made a small profit; at the end of six months, she'd banked $4,000 in profits.

Several years ago Jane Sweitzer was working as a registered nurse in the newborn intensive care unit of a hospital. She was juggling the job with the one at home as a wife and mother to five children.

"It was a high-stress situation," she said, "but I wanted to contribute to the household income."

She became involved with Creative Expressions and found she enjoyed working with crafts as well as training others to do so.

"The business just mushroomed for me," she said. "There was no initial investment or overhead. I started working at it part-time, 10 to 12 hours a week. At the end of three years, I'd given up nursing and was doing the craft thing fulltime."

FRED FEHLAUER

WILLIAM E. RAKOZY

FRED FEHLAUER of Northville has been named senior vice president of the commercial products division of CBS/Fox Video. The announcement was made by Lawrence B. Hilford, president and chief executive officer.

Fehlauer is responsible for directing manufacturing operations, including purchasing, duplication, engineering and physical distribution. His responsibilities also include production and distribution of management training programs, as well as duplication sales.

Hilford said the promotion of Fehlauer underscores the division's vital contributions to the company's growth. Fehlauer formerly was vice president and general manager, Farmington Hills operations.

He joined the company in 1982. Previously he was with Fundimensions, a division of General Mills, where he was in charge of three major plants.

CBS/Fox Video is a major worldwide producer and marketer of pre-recorded videocassettes.

WILLIAM E. RAKOZY, a native of Milford, has been named fraternal coordinator in northern Nebraska and western Iowa for Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL).

Rakozy, who now resides in Norfolk, Nebraska, will be responsible for coordinating the leadership network AAL has developed to guide AAL's 48,000 area members in their volunteerism.

Before joining the AAL staff, Rakozy was planned giving consultant in California for Young Life Ministries. He also worked as manager of partnership development for the Mission Aviation Fellowship in California, and as an AAL district representative in Washington.

Rakozy earned his bachelors degree and masters degree from Michigan State University. He lived in Milford for 25 years and graduated from Milford High.

DOCTOR RONALD SANDA, specializing in general internal medicine, has assumed the practice of retired physician Doctor W. E. Dolfin of Ann Arbor.

Sanda has trained at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor. His medical school training was at the University of Illinois.

Dolfin retired his practice earlier this month. Sanda said he welcomes all of Dr. Dolfin's former patients from South Lyon and the surrounding areas.

Sanda's office is located at 708 West Huron in Ann Arbor. The telephone number is 663-3500.

PAUL FOLINO, State Farm Insurance agent in Northville, has been designated a member of one of the company's most prestigious agent groups, the Legion of Honor. Folino has been a State Farm agent for 22 years.

To qualify for the Legion of Honor, an agent must demonstrate the ability and knowledge to write and maintain a quality business. Agents earning Legion of Honor membership also must have provided superior service to their clients by meeting their total insurance needs.

Folino also qualified for State Farm Life's elite Millionaire Club and earned a trip to Hawaii by placing in excess of $1.4 million of life insurance in 1983.

State Farm provides insurance protection exclusively through agents, who sell and service auto, life, fire and health coverages.

Business Briefs

DAVID WASS has been named Assistant Center Manager at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Wass will be responsible for assisting Center Manager William Clogg in the direction and administration of management activity and daily center operations. Prior to joining Twelve Oaks, Wass spent nine years with Redwood & Ross, a quality men's and women's retailer. Most recently, he was operations supervisor for Redwood & Ross' two locations in Ann Arbor.

A 1975 graduate of Western Michigan University, Wass holds a Bachelor of Business Administration in Marketing. He currently resides in Ann Arbor with his wife and two children.

RHONA AHMAD, M.D., of Wolverine Lake has been appointed medical director for outpatient services, department of psychiatry, at Providence Hospital in Southfield.

Dr. Ahmad is a graduate of Vanderbilt University (Tennessee) and Far Eastern University (Manilla). Her internship and residency in psychiatry were at Detroit Psychiatric Institute.

In addition to her position at Providence, Dr. Ahmad serves as consultant to the staff of the Louise Program which guides teenage mothers at St. Vincent and Sarah Fisher Center in Farmington Hills. She also serves as a psychiatric consultant for adult foster care homes in Oakland and Macomb counties.

BARBARA KIWITZ of Northville is on the faculty for the November 9-11 CPA "Early Bird" weekend, a program for CPA relicensure cosponsored by the Division of Continuing Education and the School of Economics and Management at Oakland University, Rochester.

Kiwitz, instructor of management at Oakland University, will instruct the class, Tax Reform of 1984 — Corporate Highlights, on November 9. The November "Early Bird" weekend offers an opportunity for CPAs to get an early start on earning 40 continuing professional education hours before July 1, required for the 1984-85 reporting year.

THE MILFORD SHOE REPAIR has opened a branch service in South Lyon in the annex at the South Lyon Pharmacy, 101 S. Lafayette. John DaSilva, owner of the shoe repair, said he will have an assistant doing minor repairs in the South Lyon shop, but the majority of the work will be done in Milford. He added that he will be aiming at returning repaired shoes the next day after they are dropped off.

Orthopedic build-ups, purse and horse tack repair will be done in addition to shoes, according to DaSilva. Hours in South Lyon will be 10:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday.

NORTHERN WINDOW DISTRIBUTORS is a new business serving the Huron Valley. Owned by Earl J. Burl, the business deals with wood interior storm windows and custom replacement wood windows and doorwalls.

Manager Luanne Robak runs the business, which wants you to replace old windows to fit your opening at production prices. Northern Window Distributors features Glasswood Cozy inside storm windows that can fit any opening for windows.

PLYMOUTH VETERINARY HOSPITAL will host an open house Sunday, October 28, from 1-4 p.m. to mark its recent relocation from Harvey Street to 725 Wing Street in Plymouth. The new location is one block east of Main Street in downtown Plymouth.

Drs. Steven and Mary Beth Leininger invite all pet owners to visit the new veterinary office and inspect the latest in companion animal care. The Leiningers and Judy Ramsey, licensed veterinary technician, will provide tours of the facility, offer refreshments and pass out complimentary pet care kits for dog and cat owners.

Steven Leininger, a diplomate of the American Board of Veterinary Practitioners, is chairman for continuing education for the Southeastern Michigan Veterinary Medical Association (SEMVA) and the Michigan Veterinary Medical Association (MVMA). Mary Beth Leininger is past president of the SEMVA and first vice president of the MVMA.

Housing sales decline in September, still above '83

Existing home sales slacked off in September, some 27 percent below the August level but still substantially better than in 1983, according to the monthly statistical report issued by Metro MLS, the multi-listing service of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Officials of the service said that a summer-end decline is not unusual, with this year's dip echoing a similar 19 percent drop a year ago. Total sales in the first three quarters of the year remain 13.2 percent above the 1983 pace.

"With prices staying close to those of last year, we thought the September drop might not be this sharp," said David N. Jensen, Metro MLS president. Members of the listing service said

1,017 units in September, up from 983 a year ago but down from the 1,396 tallied in August. Sales during September were the best since 1980.

Jensen noted that the area covered by the service has registered sales gains for a longer period of time than most. The nation as a whole, he said, began reporting a leveling-off of growth in home sales as early as May.

"New listings also showed a sharp decline in September," he said, "and it is encouraging to see that our sales ratio is running close to the one-third level compared to just over one-quarter a year ago."

Jensen said the decline both nationally and in southeastern Michigan is due to high interest rates. Large sales gains were posted early in the year during a period of lower interest rates, but as rates climbed, sales decreased.

"In the early days of the recovery cycle," he said, "I think we reached a majority of potential buyers who had weathered the recessionary period and could consider a move."

"While need and demand still remains high, many other would-be buyers are regrouping their finances. Despite very attractive housing prices, the high interest rates are keeping required monthly payment levels out of the affordable reach."

The September average price recorded by Metro MLS was $56,866, just $267 above a year ago and $215 below this August's figure. The average price through the first nine months of last year was $58,015 compared to $57,793 in 1984.

"If interest rates do ease off significantly in the future, prices will undoubtedly start moving up to offset at least part of the benefit," Jensen predicted. "At the same time, higher prices will increase the amount needed as a down payment as well as the required loan."

A review of Metro MLS residential sales by price range in September shows half being purchased at less than $50,000. Included were 18.7 percent below $30,000, and another 17.3 percent selling between $30,000 and $39,999.

The lowest price range also showed the greatest use of FHA and VA insured financing. Conventional mortgages found the heaviest use in the $80,000 to $89,999 range while sharing popularity with land contracts for homes priced $10,000 higher.

Use of land contracts was up from August and just below this year's July peak of 24 percent. Mortgage assumptions declined in September, accounting for less than 15 percent of the financing arrangements.

Home sewing can be profitable venture

Furthermore, "I had reached the top of the pay scale as an RN without going back to school. Within three years I've tripled my annual income as a nurse and feel that I've unlimited opportunities."

One has only to wade through the crowds at local craft fairs and bazaars to realize the interest in and desire for hand-made items.

"Creative Expressions estimates that 85 percent of the population has some interest in learning a sewing craft," Sweitzer said. "Largely because of the high-tech revolution, people want to go back to something they can feel and do for themselves."

Sweitzer suggested this accounts for the popularity of the country-look in decorating. "People want something to do with the conception and realization of a project."

If any of this inspires you, Isabel Jones would like to help. She has written a booklet available through Michigan State University entitled "Starting Your own ARM Business." The booklet outlines the skills and equipment necessary to the serious seamstress or tailor.

She also itemizes information on licensing, taxes, insurance and pricing, and offers practical tips for operating, organizing and managing your business and time. Contacts and references for more information also are included.

In addition, Jones has started a talent bank for the home sewer not interested in taking on all aspects of the business world. She is attempting to match the individual with skills to the entrepreneur whose business has outgrown his or her home.

"An owner of a small maternity-wear business in Ann Arbor needs more sewers. A woman who makes purses needs some help. We'll try to find skilled workers for them and others who register with us," promised Jones.

So if you enjoy keeping your mending basket empty, and you're looking for a job, think seriously about mending for money.

Seminar teaches business start-up

Are you thinking of starting a small business but do not know how or where to begin? A one-day conference, "The Veteran and Small Business: Starting Your Own" will be conducted November 3 at the Oakland County Commissioners Auditorium.

The program is designed for those retiring from work or the military service or those tired of working for someone else who seek self-employment opportunities.

The conference will provide information on financing, business planning, legal aspects, insurance, and the record-keeping required for starting up a business. One-to-one business counseling will also be available.

"Veterans and Small Business" is co-sponsored by the MSU Cooperative Extension Service of Oakland County, Veteran's Service of Oakland County, Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program, Michigan Small Business Development Center and the U.S. Small Business Administration.

Guardian reports results

Guardian Industries Corporation (NYSE) of Novi has announced record results for the three months ending September 10, 1984. It was the 37th consecutive quarter in which higher revenue and net income were achieved by the company over the comparable year-earlier period.

Revenue in the third quarter amounted to $145 million, 16 percent higher than the third quarter of 1983. For the first nine months of 1984, revenue totaled $410 million, an increase of 18 percent over last year.

Net income totaled $12.2 million in the third quarter and $31.5 million in the first nine months of the year, compared with $12 million and $29.9 million for the comparable periods last year.

Net income per share was 55 cents in the latest three-month period versus 53 cents a year earlier. For the first nine months, net income per share totaled $1.41 compared with $1.32 last year. Per share results in 1984 benefitted from fewer shares outstanding versus 1983.

Revenue and operating income of Guardian's combined glass operations advanced during the third quarter compared to the year-earlier period. The Glass Manufacturing Division recorded a moderate increase in revenue. However, operating income was substantially greater, primarily due to higher operating margins at Guardian's Luxembourg and Floreffe facilities.

Revenue of the Architectural Glass Division advanced strongly while operating income advanced at a lower rate because of continuing price competition and costs associated with the new coating operations at Luxguard.

The Automotive Glass Division posted higher revenue, but experienced lower operating income as a result of a shift toward lower margin OEM business and increased competition in replacement markets.

*Why women want to wear a hat
Is something far beyond you;
It tilts off at the gentlest breeze
And bounces on without you.*

To keep the darn thing on?
Why not Grandma's hatpin to handle it
For each hat that they don?*

The ticking of seconds;
The essence of time.*

Violins On Ice

*Telephone wires orchestrate
From the bowed-tip of a nearby tree;
Thundrous and wailing the windy sound
As if calling to be set free —
Unseen the hand that touches it
In untiring, full-day playing
And even night won't silence
It's bow sweep; ever swaying.*

Swangin'

*He showed me how to hold the club
And how to address the ball
("Dear Ball") I thought nervously,
Remembering a comic from old music hall.*

*He showed me how to swing my club
And how to swivel my hips
("Just like the twist") I thought again,
Trying to adjust my grip.*

*If I aim to the right
Where a bird house sits,
The ball in flight
Will go straight —
But in how many hits?*

*Keep your head down all the time,
Let the club do the work,
Don't try to hit the cover off,
Hit it smoothly, don't jerk.*

*Well, now, I'm doing fine,
The pro's about to leave,
He helped a lot,
With each shot,
And I've got lipstick on my sleeve!*

BPW President Marlene Danol, right, inspects pin of Woman of the Year Harriet Welland

BPW taps Harriet Welland

She's 'Woman of the Year'

By JEAN DAY

Shortly after moving to Northville in August, 1978, Harriet Welland — then acting director of Henry Ford Community College's allied health division — rekindled a friendship of a quarter of a century earlier when she entered the Bookstall on the Main.

"Berenice and I were on the Detroit Council of PTAs together 25 years ago," Harriet Welland recalls, referring to book store owner Berenice Ellis. A past president of the Northville Business and Professional Women, Ellis immediately encouraged newcomer Welland to join the Northville club.

This month, just about six years and many local involvements later, Harriet Welland became the Northville club's Woman of the Year.

In 1979 she had been appointed director of the college's allied health division, making her the only woman administrator at the division level in the college — and a role model for many students, 90 percent of them women. She served in that capacity until her retirement in 1982.

She was introduced as the Northville honoree at the District Nine meeting of the Michigan Federation of Business and Professional Women October 10 at LeRights restaurant in Westland.

"Our reason for choosing Harriet Welland is that she has excelled in all areas of her life — personal and professional," stated Northville BPW president Marlene Danol.

"As a student she excelled, earning both bachelor and master's degrees; as a wife and mother, she was a role model to her children as well as to a thousand students — all that is important to us," summed up president Danol.

Presentation of the Woman of the Year awards is made in October to coincide with National Business Women's Week, October 21-27. Each year, the BPW so recognizes business and professional women who have distinguished themselves in their career and communities.

The award is far from the first honor paid Mrs. Welland. In 1982 she received special tributes from the Michigan Senate and Michigan House of Representatives for her role in education in Michigan.

A loan fund for allied health students at Henry Ford Community College was established in her honor in 1982. That year she also received a special tribute from the Dearborn City Council for her role in administration and education at Henry Ford Community College.

This year she received the Citation Award for her efforts on behalf of the Michigan League for Nursing, especially involvement in M-CANE (Michigan Coalition for Articulation of Nursing Education), MEANS (Michigan Educators and Administrators of Nursing Service) and monitoring of the State Health Plan for Michigan.

Since she and her husband Bob moved to the home on Ely Drive they chose for retirement, Harriet Welland has become known locally for a different involvement.

With her husband and Doug and Kay Otton, all members of Northville Historical Society, she became curator for the Wash Oak Schoolhouse in Mill Race Historical Village and responsible for furnishing it according to the 1873 period.

Noting that she was born on her family's farm five miles from Troy, Missouri, and attended a one-room school, Mrs. Welland says she has a special affinity for the one-room schoolhouse. In large measure through her efforts, it now is ready to serve as a tool for teachers in area school districts.

After receiving her diploma in nursing from Washington University in St. Louis, Missouri, Mrs. Welland went on to complete requirements for a bachelor's of science degree in nursing at Western Reserve University (now Case Western Reserve).

She received her master's of science in nursing at Wayne State University.

As head nurse in a male surgical ward in St. Louis, she began a career that included being an instructor in medical nursing and pharmacology at Cornell, New York, Hospital School of Nursing and as guest lecturer in pharmacology at Columbia.

She became an instructor at Wayne State University and at Harper Hospital before becoming acting executive secretary of the Detroit Council on Community Nursing (now Michigan League for Nursing.)

At that point, Harriet Welland relates, she "professionally retired" for 10 years to be with three preschool children.

When she resumed her career, it was at Henry Ford Community College as supervisor of the manpower development training act's practical nursing program.

All three of the Welland children now are educated and in careers as CPAs. Pamela Welland, a resident of King's

In Our Town

Parties mark Father Hadad's return to active service

By JEAN DAY

Residents on the west side of our community may have thought the cannon blasts they heard a week ago Sunday were in honor of the championship Tigers. Not so. They were a salute to Father Gerard Hadad, former priest at Our Lady of Victory, who has been a reserve chaplain in the U.S. Army, and is returning to active, full-time duty.

Jim and Dorothy Sullivan entertained for him October 14 at their Beck Road home, giving Father Hadad a "military review and salute." In addition to some of his fellow diocesan priests, guests included Dr. and Mrs. John Romanik and the Douglas Behrends.

Jim Sullivan and Father Hadad had been classmates at Sacred Heart and at St. John's Seminary. Father Hadad was ordained in 1970 and became priest at Our Lady of Victory Church, later assuming the assignment he has just completed of parish priest at St. Conrad in Melvindale.

Before his seminary studies, Father Hadad served for 13 years in the Army as a captain. He remained in the reserves for 14 years and will be returning November 1 as a lieutenant colonel when he reports in Alabama. Sullivan relates he understands Father Hadad will hold the highest rank of any Catholic chaplain in the Army. Others feting the popular priest include the Northville Alhambra with a party at Genitti's Hole in the Wall and the Sisters of St. Francis.

Kathy, Justin visit McDermotts

When Kathleen Graffis McDermott, a bond broker with Clayton Brown, was sent to Chicago for a training session, she brought along son Justin who stayed with her parents, the William McDermotts of Pickford Court. Kathy, her husband Keith and Justin live in Sarasota, Florida. It was Kathy's first visit home in 4½ years. During the visit Justin celebrated his second birthday on October 3.

Friends of Flo McDermott entertained for her daughter during the visit, including Ruth Klein who hosted a champagne coffee. Kathy also visited her former high school classmate, Sally Sliger Martin, in Chicago.

BPW taps Harriet Welland

Mill, also is a member of the Northville BPW, serving as its treasurer.

Beth and her husband Skip Autry, also a CPA, are township residents on Fonner Court East. Son Tom lives in Farmington.

In addition to joining the historical society and becoming active members, the Wellands became members of the First United Methodist Church of Plymouth after moving here.

Harriet Welland, a member of Old Post Road Quarters in Detroit, also became an associate member of the Bell Foundry chapter of the antiques study group here.

After joining the BPW, she became a member of the program committee and now is chairman of foundations and scholarship. Last spring she became a member of Northville Woman's Club.

In addition Harriet Welland still is serving her profession as a member of the Michigan League for Nursing board of directors.

Far from being "retired" in the accepted sense of taking life easy, Harriet Welland now is watching closely progress of the State Health Care Plan for Michigan which is ready to be submitted to the state legislature. She monitored hearings on the plan.

Woman's Club plans theater evening

Northville Woman's Club has moved up its traditional Men's Night program for the 1984-85 year, and members are inviting their guests to attend the Plymouth Theater Guild's performance of "Bus Stop" November 2 at the Central Middle School in Plymouth.

The evening will include hors d'oeuvres. Olga James is in charge of tickets, which are $4 a person. She may be contacted at 349-2512 for reservations, which are limited.

Newcomers are off to the races, art institute

Highlighting the November calendar for Northville Newcomer couples is the popular "Nite at the Races" at Northville Downs beginning at 6 p.m. November 16. Admission fee, program and buffet dinner are included in the $25 a couple cost. Reservations, limited to 35 couples, may be made with Kay Evans, 349-2362, through November 2. Both Newcomer couples and alumni are invited. President Judy Amatangelo adds that persons interested in joining Newcomers are welcome to attend "a trial evening" to get acquainted.

A tour of the Detroit Institute of Arts with lunch following at Lelli's restaurant on November 1 is the Ladies Day event for November. Cost is determined by the choice of luncheon. Reservations are being taken until October 28 by Ginny Engelland, 349-3552. Car pools will be formed at the China Fair. Seven Mile parking area at 11 a.m. A 3 p.m. return is scheduled.

Mrs. Amatangelo adds that, while the official membership drive has ended, any resident of Northville for five years or less always is welcome to join Newcomers. Membership chairman is Marlene Bentham, 348-6318. President Amatangelo, 348-3746, also may be called.

Circle November 3, November 9

Leading off the list of annual fall benefit happenings is the Northville Mothers' Club Ski and Skate Sale to be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. November 3 at Cooke Junior High. Merchandise may be brought to Cooke between 4-7 p.m. November 2 and between 8-9 a.m. November 3. The club explains there is no charge for bringing items to sell. If the item sells, the club deducts the 15 percent commission charge from the selling price. All proceeds are used for work with the public schools. The club announces it will accept other items than ski and skate equipment if they fit in the general sale theme. Margie Sievert, 349-8058, and Lill Nelson, 348-1142, are in charge of arrangements.

Second annual wine tasting party for Northville Historical Society members and prospective new members will be held at 8 p.m. November 9 in the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village.

Limited to 100, reservations at $7.50 a person are being taken by chairpersons Dennis and Cheryl Cassady, 349-7249.

Couples announce wedding dates

Brenda Milligan, Craig Wiley

Announcement of the engagement and wedding plans of Brenda Ann Milligan and Craig B. Wiley is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom E. Milligan of Farmington Hills.

He is the son of William B. Wiley of Stockbridge, Michigan, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Wiley of Northville.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Dundee High School in Carpentersville, Illinois, and of Pontiac Business Institute. She is bookkeeper at the Red Timbers Restaurant in Novi.

Her fiancé is a 1977 graduate of Northville High School. He enlisted in the U.S. Navy in 1982 and is a fire control technician stationed in Jacksonville, Florida.

He is on his way home after serving for six months in the Mediterranean Sea.

A November wedding at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville is planned.

Diane Kofta, Clifford Griggs

Announcement of the engagement of Diane Kathleen Kofta and Clifford Alan Griggs is being made by her parents, Joseph and Harriet Kofta of 725 Spring Drive.

He is the son of Bruce and Katherine Griggs of 538 Langfield.

Both are 1979 graduates of Northville High School.

The bride-elect, a 1984 graduate of Michigan State University with a BA degree in urban studies, is employed with Kelly Services, Inc., interviewing in Federal offices in Chicago.

BRENDA MILLIGAN, CRAIG WILEY

Her fiancé, who is employed with M.R.L. engineering in Northville, plans to return to school for his BS degree in engineering during the next academic year.

A December 28 wedding this year is planned with a reception to follow at Botsford Inn in Farmington Hills.

The Northville Record

First-half fireworks power Mustang win

By B.J. MARTIN

Was this same Plymouth Salem that beat Northville 24-0 last year?

Well, no. Same school, maybe.

This year, at 7:30 p.m. last Friday to be exact, the Mustangs began boring through the once-solid Rocks like an instant mine company. By 8:30, Salem was as good as gone. Northville whipped up a 40-0 halftime lead and eased up toward the end for a 52-14 final score.

Before the halftime gun, Mustang fans were treated to the most devastating offensive assault ever mustered by a Northville team in two quarters of football. Six times Northville had the ball and six times the Mustangs scored.

Before the half, Northville had gained 394 yards. Nothing fancy. The Mustangs' front five of Greg Wendell, Chris Shuff, Dino Candella, John Storm and Mark Deal simply controlled the line of scrimmage, providing running backs Rick Van Buren and Doug Hartman with wide open spaces on almost every carry.

"I can't say enough about our offensive line," Colligan said afterwards. "They were opening up holes that were unreal. Once we found we could dominate them up front we just came straight at them. It was the greatest offensive show I've ever seen us execute."

By the time the starters were pulled after three quarters, Van Buren had rushed for a school record 227 yards and scored three touchdowns. Hartman had rushed for another 174 and scored two touchdowns.

"That was one of the greatest efforts you'll ever see by two running backs," Colligan declared. "Geez, a couple of Van Buren's runs were called back on penalties!"

Quarterback Dave Denhof completed only two passes in the game, but no complaints — he only attempted five and both completions went for touchdowns. First he connected with Don Norton right on the Salem goal line for a 10-yard TD pass.

On his next pass, a Salem player got a hand on the ball, but tipped it straight to intended receiver Brett Belliston for the first catch and first touchdown of his career.

It was the way things went for the Rocks all night. Salem pulled off two apparent touchdowns in the early going — one on a trick kick return and one on a 70-yard scoring pass — only to have both called back on penalties.

By the end of the game, Northville had 513 yards total offense, while the defense coughed up only 209 — most of it after-the-fact.

Tim Millen had another tremendous game at linebacker, leading the team with 12 first hits. The junior was also impressive at fullback, scoring one of Northville's two second-half touchdowns. Hartman and Batshon played strong defensive games, each recovering one fumble.

Norton had a couple of near-catches on offense and defense before he snagged Salem quarterback Steve Sodditch's second-quarter bomb attempt. It was the safety's sixth interception of the season.

With only a loss to top-ranked Farmington Harrison blotting their record, the Mustangs (6-1) still have a crack at qualifying for the post-season state football playoffs.

Their most immediate obstacles are 5-2 Livonia Stevenson this Friday (at home) and 1-6 Novi on November 2. But the Mustangs also need a little luck. Ann Arbor Pioneer, Dearborn Edsel Ford and Portage Central are also angling for a state playoff bid and two of those teams will have to lose for Northville to be considered.

Netters end fine season

The deeper you go, the higher you get.

That's true of Northville's varsity tennis team, anyway. The Mustangs had their strongest showings at the Friday, October 12 Class A Regional from their second and third flight doubles teams and from their fourth flight singles player.

Forced to handle some of the best players in Michigan, the Mustangs' top-flight tournament entries at times played extremely well, but found the competition in Ann Arbor very tough.

Ann Arbor Huron and Pioneer again dominated the regional they have co-hosted for years, but Northville had many strong and at times superior efforts.

In third-flight doubles, the team of Diane Lindquist and Lauren Oliver (12-1 over the regular season) made it all the way to the regional finals before falling at last 1-6, 4-6 to Huron's Cindy Tsay and Miriam Epstein. On their way, the Northville pair defeated teams from Jackson and from Howell.

In second doubles, Leslie Oliver and Shari Faydenko (13-0) advanced to the semifinals before they were defeated by Pioneer's Helene Andersson and Alexis Brody 1-6, 7-6, 0-6. Several disputed calls unnerved the Northville duo, who had battled back to win the second set after trailing 1-5.

Jennifer Trausch and Lori Housman (9-4) fell to Temperance Bedford 3-6, 3-6 in first flight doubles first-round play.

Also losing her first round match was Vicki Robins (6-7) at first singles, who played well but was mismatched against Pioneer's JoAnne Rogers and fell in straight sets.

Denise Colovas (10-3) battled a familiar foe — Plymouth Canton's Nancy Reinhardt — in the first round of second-flight singles, finally falling 6-3, 3-6, 3-6 in what Mustang Coach Uta Filkin called a "very nicely played match."

At third-flight singles, Lynn Frellick (8-5) had a very tough draw, Plymouth Salem's Barb Hanosh. Frellick started very strong, winning the first set easily 6-0. But Hanosh battled back to hand Frellick a frustrating 5-7 defeat in the second set. Several close calls obviously shifted the momentum, and Hanosh took the third set 6-3.

Dorothy Ziegler (7-6) beat first-round opponent Denise Kuehel 6-3, 7-6, but fell to Jennifer Croll. Ironically, only the day before the two had battled it out for the Western Division fourth singles title. Croll, from Canton, defeated Ziegler in straight sets.

The 8-1 WLAAs champions, said Coach Filkin, were "a fine team in an individual sport. Sometimes it's very tricky to think as a team, but they really pulled together this year."

FOOTBALL CONTEST

Enter Today! You May Be A Winner!

HERE ARE THE RULES

Take a plain piece of paper and number down the left hand side from 1 to 10. You will notice that each square below is also numbered from 1 to 10 and each contains a football game to be staged this coming weekend. To complete your entry you must do the following:

(1) After each number on your paper write the name of the sponsor of the corresponding square.

(2) Following the sponsor's name write the name of the winning team.

(3) In addition you must pick the total points scored on the outcome of the game in square 11. This will be used in the case of a tie and then the contestant whose score is closest to the actual score will be declared the winner.

Be sure to write your name, address and phone number plainly on your piece of paper (your entry). In case of a tie, prize money will be split.

NOTE: Only ONE entry per household family per week. Prize money paid only to name on entry. PLEASE do not enter several times using friends names. Such entries will be disqualified if discovered.

Copies of the contest will be posted at the Northville Record office at 104 W. Main, each week.

Entries should be addressed "Football Contest" Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville and must be postmarked or brought to our office no later than 5 p.m. each Friday.

Irven Meadows has emerged as a valuable varsity harrier

Harriers zip past Salem

With a winning or losing season on the line, Northville's men's cross-country team came through with its "best meet of the season" to topple Plymouth Salem Thursday.

In the 25-30 victory, nine of Northville's top 11 runners clocked personal-best times at the Cass Benton course.

"I expected a close meet, but they surprised me," said Northville Coach Ed Gabrys. "That was our best meet of the season, all-around."

The win gave Northville a 5-4 record going into this week's season-ending league and regional meets.

Against the Rocks, this year's Mustang squad lived up to Gabrys' description as "the best packing team I've ever coached."

Behind Leader Of The Pack Rich Naszradi, the Mustangs first six runners finished within 20 seconds.

Naszradi ran second overall, recording a 17:47 over the 5-kilometer course. Third and fourth place went to John Huston in 17:51 and Kevin Haas in 17:52, Huston trimming eight seconds off his previous lowest time and Haas four seconds.

Alan Griffith ran an 18:03 for seventh place. Irven Meadows was ninth in 18:05, a personal best, and Brett Netke ran 11th in 18:07, a full 11 seconds under his previous best time.

BASEBALL: Six Blue all-Stars named

Six players from Northville Blue, host team of the 1984 National Amateur Baseball Federation World Series last August, were named to the Junior World Series All-Star Team.

The 24 All-Stars were announced in the October issue of the NABF Tournament News, which also included favorable comments on how the tournament was conducted.

Northville Blue players named to the All-Star team were catcher Chris Hauser, first baseman Scott Swienkowski, left fielder Keith Dutkiewicz, center fielder Rob Cannon, designated hitter Mark Olsen and pitcher Dave Komorous, a transfer player.

Only tournament champion Baltimore Harbor Federal had more players named to the tourney than Northville Blue. Nine Harbor Federal players were named to the team.

The NABF News had this to say regarding the 1984 NABF Junior World Series in Northville:

"It was an outstanding tournament in which the quality of play could not have been better. Northville Junior Baseball and the community of Northville, Michigan can be very proud of the way in which the 1984 Junior World Series was conducted."

COLTS:

Frosh, JV win

Despite Saturday night's downpour, the varsity Northville-Colts' spirits weren't dampened as they defeated the Belleville Cougars 13-0.

Led by Jeff Wesley, Mike Lobbia, Darin Johnson and Reggie Meers in the first half, the Colts defense held Belleville scoreless while Scott Wladichkin scored for a 7-0 Colts lead.

Jeff Johnson, Kris Parker, Bob Forte and Jeff Johns kept up the outstanding defensive effort in the second half for the victory.

The Colts' junior varsity squad defeated the Cougars 18-0. Doug Cody scored on touchdown runs of 51 and 23 yards, and Steve Bastian scored the final TD on a one-yard plunge.

All three Northville-Colts' scores came in the first quarter. And while Belleville's defense toughened up, so did the Colts' defense, led by Bob Nichols, Bobby Holloway, Chuck Taylor and Mark Hillinger. Paul Butz had a personal-best game with nine tackles.

Bill Kelley, Jeff Todd and Kevin Delaney together racked up 152 yards rushing to lead the Colts offense.

SOCCER: Northville Cup games highlight week's activity

UNDER 14 GIRLS: In Northville Cup action, the Warriors edged the Foxes 2-1 on goals by Jenny Dragon and Mo Morrisey, then fell 5-1 to the Wildcats. Erin Holmberg scored the Warriors' goal, while the Wildcats were led by Karen Baird on offense and April Rice on defense.

Sunday, the Wildcats clawed the Plymouth Blasters 5-1, spurred by outstanding games from forward Ari Levinson and defender Jodi Smales. Jenny Dragon's goal gave the Warriors a 1-0 victory over Farmington Sting. Goalie Rooster Bowes picked up the shutout for the Warriors, also boosted by defensive standouts Julie Milligan and Loo Nieuwkoop. A "great team effort" lifted the Foxes to an 8-1 victory over Novi.

UNDER 12 BOYS: Larry Osiecki scored the lone goal in the Strikers' 1-0 Northville Cup victory over Arsenal. Both squads credited "great team efforts" in the showdown, giving special credit to Striker goalies Randy Stinson, Larry Osiecki and Brendan Haldane, and Arsenal goalie Chris Lemon.

Farmington Five defeated the Hot Spurs 3-0, the Northville team getting a superior offensive game from Mike Murphy and a superior defensive effort from John Helz. Plymouth Seven blanked the Strikers 4-0 despite good play by striker Nick Till and defender Chuck Hugener. United outscored Arsenal 3-1, getting two goals from Andy Martin and one from Jason Hulising. Carl Brown scored Arsenal's goal. Ron Savageau on defense was named United's outstanding player, while a "total team effort" boosted Arsenal.

UNDER 12 GIRLS: In the Northville Cup Final, Pam Yezback, Jennifer Howland and Amy Goode each scored once to give the Desperados the Under 12 Championship with a 3-2 victory over the Pandas. A "complete team effort" boosted the victors, while Donna Wilhelm on defense and Liz DeMatia on offense were standouts for the Pandas. Andrea Barber and Anna Marchessotti scored for the Pandas.

Catherine Donkers' goal wasn't enough for the Demons to turn back Farmington One in a 2-1 loss. Cindi Tolsted's offensive play and Theresa Pacheco's defensive play were outstanding for the Demons. The Desperados and Plymouth Five battled to a 2-2 tie, with Ashley McLean and Becky Piner each scoring once. Sonia Gill was named the team's offensive MVP. Anna Marchessotti scored once to give the Pandas a 1-0 win over Plymouth Four. Boosting the Pandas were outstanding games by defender Mandy Livermore and offensive player Colleen Regan. Goalie Rachel Davis earned credit for the shutout. Plymouth Three defeated the Panthers 5-2 despite the Panthers' Teresa McConnell's fine offensive game and Julie Howard's defensive work. Kirsten Jensen and Kirsten Halverson scored the Panthers' goals.

UNDER 10 BOYS: Despite a good "total team effort" by the Raiders, the Plymouth Blue Demons defeated the Northville team 1-0

The Express outscored the Plymouth Wild Hawks 4-2 on goals by Darren Rice and Roddy Kotylo. Matt Sica was named the Express' most valuable offensive player and Kevin O'Neill most valuable defensive player. The Rowdies whipped Plymouth Orange Crush 3-1, with Brian Nawrocki, Jeff Berkaw and David Morelli each tallying solo goals. Craig Willey and Carsten Kuljurgis each scored twice and Matt Golden once in the Hot Spurs' 5-1 win over Farmington Flame. Mike Hamilton was the team's offensive standout and Marc Golden was defensive MVP. The Eagles blanked Farmington Sting 3-0, getting a pair of goals from Robbie Kukalins and one by Ian Switawski. Kevin Vaughn played an outstanding defensive game. Bob Thomas and Jeremy Lawrence played fine games in United's 2-1 win over Farmington United. The Plymouth Lasers managed a 6-0 win over the Celtics despite good games by defender Gabe Silver and striker Rob Subotich. Adam Davis scored the only goal in the Panthers' 1-0 win over the Farmington Aztecs. Matt Litzelman played outstanding offensive soccer and Jeremy Shattuck was the Panthers' defensive standout.

UNDER 10 GIRLS: The Stompers shut out the Rowdies 6-0 in a well-played Under 10 Championship Cup game. The Stompers reached the finals by defeating the Pandas 4-0, while the Rowdies got past the Stray Cats 2-1.

In regular action, the Pandas defeated

Plymouth Five on goals by the Neff sisters, Stephanie and Shannon. Jackie Matthews was named the Pandas' outstanding defensive player and Katie McClean outstanding offensive player. The Rowdies fell to Farmington One 4-0 despite a "good team effort."

UNDER 14 BOYS: In the Northville Cup Final, Mark Burdworth scored twice and Scott Howard and Dave McKee once each to lead Arsenal to a 4-1 victory over United. A "great total team effort in both offensive and defensive play" made the difference, coaches reported.

Brad Maleszewski scored four goals in the Raiders' 10-0 chopping of Livonia No. 43. Ross Kern scored a pair of goals and John Kissinger, Dave Buckland, John Frederick and Craig Smith one apiece. Jim Thompson was Northville's offensive MVP and Keith Graham was defensive MVP. United defeated the Plymouth Tornados 4-1, getting a pair of goals from Jim Burkowski and solo tallies from Mike Lewis and Bob Dudley. Scott Sinkwits was named outstanding defensive player and R.C. Heaton earned top offensive honors. Arsenal clobbered Livonia No. 42 by a 10-1 count, led by Pat Balai's hat trick and one goal each from McKee, Mike Harmon, Howard, John Harris, Andy Francoeur, Steve Yezback and Todd VanderMolen. A week later, Arsenal tripped the Farmington Rowdies 3-2 on goals by Howard, McKee and Yezback, plus fine offensive play by John Harris and Harmon's good defense.

Second-half goal by Magdich gives Mustangs 1-0 win

By B.J. MARTIN

Northville came one step closer to a regional soccer title Friday by edging Brighton 1-0 in a rugged game on a rugged field.

"It always seems whenever we've played Brighton it's been a rough-and-tumble game," said Northville Coach Dan Swayne. "Usually whoever wins the game winds up losing the next because they've taken such a beating."

The victory landed the Mustangs in today's 7 p.m. Class A Regional Semifinal against Bloomfield Hills Lahser, 2-0 winners over Bloomfield Hills Andover last Friday.

It took until 10 minutes into the second half for Northville to get the game's lone goal. Dan Magdich slammed

'In every way, it was a team victory. That's the way it's been all season long.'

Dan Swayne
Northville Soccer Coach

ed in a rebound of a Doug May shot for what proved to be the game-winner.

Magdich usually plays right back on defense, but as Brighton pulled its players in tight for a corner kick, it permitted the strong sophomore to range far upfield.

Northville's corner kick was set up by some great hustle by striker B.R. Bohan. Bohan dug after a Bulldog defender in the corner and forced him to play the ball over the end line.

A loose ball ensued from the cross and May slammed a hard shot that bounced off the Brighton goalkeeper back out to Magdich. With the goalie pulled out of position, Magdich struck a face-high rising shot inside the right post.

It was appropriate enough that Magdich scored the goal. He and center back Bob Guldberg played excellent defense throughout the game, turning away several Brighton chances with strong clearing kicks.

That was no easy task on the lunar landscape Brighton offered for a playing field. Any player winding up to kick a rolling ball on the chunky terrain stood a good chance of watching the ball skip right past.

Brighton had two good chances to score later in the game. But Mustang goalie Kurt Settino came up with two fine stops to preserve the shutout — one save came on a collision on a breakaway and another was a long, hard shot he punched out of the crease.

"Our defense came through and did a good job of containing Mike Murphy, their main scoring threat," Swayne observed.

"In every way, it was a team victory," he added. "That's the way it's been all season long. One of our strong points."

Not that Northville didn't get several fine individual efforts. Midfielder/striker Doug May bore the brunt of the Bulldogs' physical defense, and by so doing opened up the side lanes for strikers Jerry O'Brien, Joe Mackle and Bohan. Several times May took hard body checks from behind, resulting in two yellow cards issued to Brighton defenders.

Also playing well were midfielder Matt Peltz, forward Jerry O'Brien and a number of role players rotated in and out of the game.

Tonight's regional semifinal will be held at Northville High School, the winner advancing to Saturday's final, also at NHS.

Northville runners earn share of title

Ranks thinned by injury, Northville's women's cross-country team fell to Plymouth Salem last week. But there's good news — the team learned it has earned a share of the Western Lakes Activities Association's Western Division title.

With a final season record of 5-4 following Thursday's 33-22 loss to the Rocks, Northville is 3-1 in the Western Lakes' Western Division, as are Walled Lake Western and Livonia Churchill.

Conference officials couldn't very well go by head-to-head records to award a solo crown.

"We've lost to Western, Western's lost to Churchill and we've beaten Churchill," noted Northville Coach Ed Gabrys. "So as far as head-to-head competition goes, we're dead even."

With that in mind, WLAA officials decided to grant each school a one-third share of the championship.

Against Salem last week, only Cindy Panowicz came close to a peak performance, clocking a 20:54 for second place, 18 seconds behind lead Rock runner Denis Durrer. Northville's next finisher was Jennifer Goshorn, sixth in 22:17. Pam Cavanaugh was seventh in 22:30, Sue Blanchard eighth in 23:04 and Dawn Schweim tenth in 23:48.

"We'll have to bounce back from that one," said Coach Ed Gabrys. And unless Wendy Nuechterlein can return to the lineup in time for Saturday's Class A Regional at Royal Oak Kimball, the Mustangs will have a long way to bounce.

"Wendy's been keeping up with her pool exercises, and she's planning to run a little bit this week. If she can do well, and if the other girls run their best ever, we've got a shot at qualifying for state at the regional," Gabrys pointed out.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting - Eat All You Want Pill Does All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special)—An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work" According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Has ALL Daily Vitamins The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Citrus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. # Mustang cagers knock off Chiefs in OT, now in 2nd

Sophomore guard Roxanne Serkalan gunned in all three of Northville's overtime points to give the Mustangs a nerve-wracking 29-27 upset victory at Plymouth Canton Thursday.

The heroics by "Rocky" were just the latest in the Mustang cagers' stunning turnaround this season. After winning only three games in their previous two seasons, the Mustangs are now tied for second place in the WLLA's Western Division, and have a good shot at ending the season over 500.

The 4-6 Mustangs have won four of their last six games and three of their last four — all against league opponents.

It was a great win," Coach Ed Kritch said of the showdown at Canton. "We were playing without either of our centers — Susie Schrader was out with a broken finger and Erin Ryan had the flu. Our kids showed tremendous character in playing over their absence."

With 20 seconds to play in the fourth quarter, Sue Terwin canned a spectacular basket to send the game into overtime. One minute before, Northville center/forward Tricia Ducker had sunk a six-foot jumper to bring the Mustangs within two.

The Chiefs stalled a minute off the clock, shot from outside and missed. Terwin grabbed the rebound, drove the length of the floor, cut along the Chief baseline, turned and fired up a 14-footer that touched nothing but net to tie the score 26-26.

In the final 20 seconds, Canton threw up another desperation perimeter shot way off the mark. After a rebound by Mustang forward Michelle Siemasz, Korowin barely missed a 10-footer with two seconds left that would have won the game.

Korowin didn't miss much else Thursday. Playing what Kritch called "the finest game of her career," the senior point guard scored a personal-high 13 points and went 6-for-9 from the floor. She also made two steals and turned the ball over only once in the entire game.

Serkalan hit a 14-footer to send Northville up by two with 1:30 left in overtime, and also hit the first end of a one-and-one with four seconds left. Canton couldn't get off another shot afterwards.

The Mustangs got a big lift from Julie Anger, who came off the bench late in the game, hit a key shot, made three rebounds and three steals. "She really picked us up with her hustle and defense," Kritch said.

Ducker finished the game with five points and led Northville with nine rebounds. Siemasz had six rebounds and Terwin five.

Two nights earlier, both Canton and Northville gave Lakes Division powerhouses a jolt before each fell short of a win. While Canton was taking Plymouth Salem into overtime, Northville flew to a 22-12 second-quarter lead over Livonia Bentley.

Bentley eventually recovered for a 59-40 win. But not before the Mustangs, led this time by Terwin, had turned in 12 minutes of amazing basketball against one of the conference's strongest teams. "We were beating them at their own run-and-gun, pressing game," Kritch noted.

Terwin canned eight points in a 14-4 Mustang flurry early in the second quarter. The Rocks bounced back to pull within two at the half, and then the bottom fell out.

Siemasz, doing her best to make up for the absence of Ryan and Schrader inside, fouled out of the game early in the third quarter. Now short three of their best rebounders and inside defenders, the Mustangs quickly fell from two points down to a 15 point down going into the final eight minutes.

"I had to make a decision when Michelle picked up her fourth foul," Kritch said. "I thought that without her in the game, we'd be in trouble, so I was just hoping we could get as much time out of her as we could."

While Ann Griffith played well coming off the bench, grabbing three rebounds and scoring four points, the Mustangs were simply outgunned the rest of the way.

Despite being called to the bench early in the fourth quarter as Salem's lead became insurmountable, Terwin led the Mustangs in scoring with 14 points, rebounds with 11 and steals with three.

"She probably played as fine a game as anyone from Northville's played in a long time," Kritch said. Ducker scored eight points and eight rebounds, and Serkalan added six points.

The next step in Northville's drive for a winning season is tomorrow's road game against Ortonville Brandon. Tuesday the team returns home to take on Walled Lake Central at 7:30 p.m.

Jeff Stuart wins contest this week

Jeff Stuart of Northville had a near-perfect entry to claim top honors in last week's Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News football contest.

Stuart failed only to predict West Virginia's upset of Boston College as he won the top prize of $10.

Determining the second and third place winners was a different story, however, as nine entrants missed just two games. After the tiebreaker was invoked, Mike Schronce of Northville emerged as the winner of second prize ($5) and Linda Gromacki of Novi was awarded third prize ($3).

Schronce guessed Michigan and Iowa would score a total of 35 points, nine away from the actual total in the Hawkeyes' 26-0 victory, while Gromacki's prediction of 37 points was 11 away from the actual total.

Other entrants with two mistakes were Art Thompson, Hub Copp, Dave Viers, Ron Pode, Robert F. Smith and Bobby Holloway.

A few entrants still are not picking a winner in the tiebreaker. In addition to predicting the total number of points scored by both teams in the tiebreaker, entrants must predict which team will win the game. Failing to predict a winner is counted as a wrong answer.

RECREATION BRIEFS

OPEN SWIM

Open Swim will be held at the Northville High School pool Saturdays from noon to 2 p.m. and from 4 to 6 p.m. at a cost of $1 per session. Adults-only sessions are offered from 3 to 4 p.m. Saturdays and from 8 to 9 p.m. Wednesdays. One-hour sessions are 50 cents each.

YOUTH BASKETBALL

Boys and girls in grades 3-9 who are planning to participate in the Recreation Department's Youth Basketball program must attend both the November 3 and November 9 clinics and player ratings at the Community Center at the following times: Grades 3-4, 8 a.m.; Grades 5-6, 9 a.m.; Grades 7-9, 10 a.m. Coaches are needed. Please contact Northville Community Recreation (349-0203) if interested.

COMMUNITY CENTER RENTAL

The Northville Community Center is available for rent on an hourly or daily basis for such functions as meetings, parties, baby showers or wedding receptions. Call Community Recreation for further details.

Men's cross-country team gets ready for Kimball regional

Rounding out the Mustang harriers were: Matt Winquist, 13th in 18:20; Scott Wiley, 14th in 18:22 (personal best and the winning reserves time); Kevin Legel, 19th in 19:01 (personal best); Kirk Kabel, 21st in 19:19; and Stewart Kissinger, 23rd in 19:26 (personal best).

David Balok and Jason Hill both cracked

20 minutes and were followed by Matt McDonough, Mike Nuechterlein and Matt Hinds.

Two days earlier, Northville had its best-ever finish at Westland John Glenn's Freshman-Sophomore Invitational Meet. The Mustangs were sixth of eight teams competing, with only one league rival — meet champ Farmington Harrison — finishing stronger.

Haas was Northville's best finisher, run-ing 11th in a field with upwards of 60 participants, and clocking an 18:42. Wiley was 17th overall in 18:51, Kabel 32nd in 19:47, Hill 36th in 20:04, Hoose 37th in 20:09, and Nuechterlein 55th in 21:48.

Harrison won the meet with 52 points. Dearborn was second with 77, Edsel Ford third with 86, Dearborn Fordson fourth with 96, Catholic Central fifth with 98 and Northville sixth with 133. Redford Union placed seventh with 138 and WLLA-rival-to-be Livonia Franklin was eighth with 189.

Gabrys says his varsity squad looks looking relatively healthy going into this week's meets — for a team with several injury problems early in the season, that's quite an accomplishment.

Northville will join a 16-team field at the Class A Regional at Royal Oak Kimball Saturday, with the top three teams earning the right to compete at the state meet the following week.

Thermostats ease fuel bills

Using just a screwdriver, a home handyman can quickly replace an old thermostat with a new automatic programmable thermostat that cuts heating and cooling costs for year-round savings.

Reducing fuel and power bills results from automatically lowering a raising home temperatures once or twice daily on a programmed schedule set by the homeowner.

These energy-saving programs can be quickly set on the clock dial of most models. New schedules can be easily dialed whenever desired.

Timing of the temperature changes can be customized to fit the family lifestyle. That means you no longer have to remember to turn the thermostat down before retiring at night, to awake to a cold house the next morning. The programmable thermostat can be set to bring the home up to daytime levels just before the first person arises each morning. Similarly, the thermostat can be programmed to lower the house's temperature while family members are away at work or school.

All the user does is to dial in the times and the amount of change in home temperatures. Automatic thermostats pay for themselves in energy savings in about a year's time, according to the manufacturer of one model, the Econotrol quartz thermostat. Additionally, some automatic thermostats qualify for federal Energy Tax Credit deductions.

Farmers Home Administration. Specifically, they may be eligible for a one percent interest loan or grant. Grants are made only to low income homeowners, 62-years-old or older, who are unable to repay the loan at the one percent interest rate.

Funds can be used for removing health hazards by repairing roofs, providing sanitary water and waste disposal systems that meet local health department requirements. Funds also can be used for installing screens, windows or insulation; or solving furnace, electrical and plumbing problems.

Homeowners can obtain up to a maximum of $7,500 from the program, while elderly applicants can obtain a maximum of $5,000 in the form of a grant if they are unable to repay all or part of their requested funds. Loans must be paid back in 10, 15 or 20 year notes depending on the size of the loan and the homeowner's ability to pay.

Several other programs are available to help low income people weatherize their home and reduce fuel bills:

- Your local Area Agency on Aging helps elderly people by providing home repairs to improve the condition of the home, extend its life or correct health and safety hazards. Repair services include installing insulation, repairing and painting siding, caulking, weatherstripping and repairing or replacing heating systems.

Anyone over 60 years old may apply to their local area Agency on Aging to determine eligibility.

- Consumers Power Company's "Insulation Outreach Program" provides free ceiling insulation to qualifying low-income Consumers Power customers.

To be eligible you must heat your residence with natural gas from Consumers Power or be an electric customer of Consumers Power who heats with a fuel other than natural gas. You also must meet low-income guidelines and live in a residence that needs ceiling insulation.

- An "Energy Conservation Financing Plan" also is offered by Consumers Power Company. The program provides interest-free ceiling insulation loans of up to $1,000 to qualifying customers.

To be eligible, you must heat your home with natural gas from Consumers Power and live in a residence that needs ceiling insulation as determined by a free attic inspection.

Stem hot water use with flow control device

Energy bills can be kept down by paying attention to one of the heaviest users of gas or electricity — the hot water heater.

About 40 percent the water used in every five-minute shower is hot. According to the Edison Electric Institute, there are five low- or no-cost remedies available to help householders curb the outgoing tide of hot water consumption.

- Install a flow controller in the shower head. This simple device, which costs less than $1, reduces the flow of water from about six gallons a minute to three gallons a minute. Installation is simple. Just remove the shower head, push in the flow controller as far as it will go and replace the shower head. A few minutes work can result in savings of about $40 per year, the institute said.

- Set the temperature of the water heater at 140 degrees or lower. This temperature is adequate for most household needs, even when using an automatic dishwasher. Without a dishwasher, a setting of 120 degrees is sufficient.

Remember, the higher the setting, the more energy the hot water heater uses. Experiment to find the lowest temperature that meets your household's needs. It pays off in money and energy savings.

- Add an insulating jacket to the water heater. An extra layer of insulation will keep the heat from being lost through the walls of the tank, saving an estimated $20 a year for electric water heaters and $10 for gas. Insulation kits and materials are available at hardware stores. Just be sure to follow instructions carefully, since it is important that doors, vents and heat valves remain uncovered.

- Repair leaky faucets promptly. One drop a second works out to 200 gallons of hot water wasted in a month.

- In homes with washing machines, another easy way to cut back on consumption of costly hot water is by washing clothes in warm water and rinsing them in cold.

Clipping coupons for fun and profit

Shopping with coupons has gone beyond saving a few cents. Rising supermarket prices have made it a necessity, but have you ever wondered how profitable it can be?

For many people refunding has become a profitable business which they can run from the kitchen table. Believe it or not, top refunders get back most of their grocery money each month. If their grocery bill is $500 and they receive $450 in coupons, that money is clear.

To reach that level, super-shoppers do more than just clip coupons. They know how to get coupons mailed to their door. They also know how to get information on loads of manufacturers' refunds few people seem to know about.

Manufacturers issue coupons in the hope of establishing regular customers for their products and would like to see them used.

An astonishing fact is that, though 83 billion coupons and refunds are issued each year, only five percent of them are ever used.

A consumer service group has obtained a special report that gives the inside tips on how to get more manufacturer coupons and refunds each week.

The report also tells shoppers to set themselves up to receive manufacturers' refund checks in the mail on a regular basis, which is one of the keys to saving up to 90 percent of their grocery bill.

Besides saving money, this service also shows some shoppers how to actually earn money depositing special supermarket coupons.

Shoppers interested in receiving this report or more information about making money with these sample coupons should send a self-addressed stamped (long) envelope to Consumer Services, P.O. Box 1264, Central Avenue, Scarsdale, New York 10583-9264.

A sound roof is home's biggest protection

It can start with a small ceiling drip, peeling wallpaper or discolored drywall, and it can represent the largest single expenditure a homeowner will make next to the price of the home itself — the roof.

With so much at stake, the National Roofing Contractor's Association (NRCA) offered the following advice on residential roof care:

- Most roof work should not be do-it-yourself. Professional roofing contractors are trained to safely and efficiently repair and replace a roof. Novices can harm a roof with improper roofing techniques and severely injure themselves by falling off or even through a roof in need of repair or replacement.

Homeowner maintenance should be confined to roof inspections in the fall and spring to check for cracked or curling shingles and to cleaning rain gutters filled with dead leaves and other debris. A clogged drain can cause water to back up under shingles.

- Ask the roofing contractor to provide a detailed written summary of the condition of the roof. A roof more than 15 years old is usually a candidate for replacement, while a roof less than 10 years old can often be repaired. The roofing contractor should be able to justify his decision.

- If an older home is involved, it may have several roofs piled on top of another. Local building codes dictate the maximum number of layers allowed, but you should know that multiple roofs can put stress on the roof supports, lead to uneven water drainage or cause shingles to warp or curl.

- Make sure the home is properly insulated. A new roof on an improperly insulated home will not make much difference in home heating or air conditioning bills. Attic insulation or insulation blown under the roof should provide an R-value of 19. (Insulation effectiveness is rated by resistance or "R" value.) Most roofing contractors will be able to tell if a home is properly insulated.

- Typically, you will receive two guarantees — one from the roofing contractor to cover labor and another from the manufacturer to cover materials. Ask the contractor about this. Warranty periods vary, but many contractors guarantee labor for two to five years, depending on climate, materials and the amount of abuse the roof will receive. Many manufacturers guarantee materials for 10 to 20 years. Keep in mind that a manufacturer's guarantee alone will not protect you if the system fails because of poor workmanship.

- Check to see if liability insurance is covered in the contract or proposal. If not, the homeowner is liable for any injuries incurred by workmen or for any damage to the home during construction.

- Verify that the roofing contractor has a permanent place of business, a telephone number, a tax identification number and, where appropriate, a business license. Request references, specifically from people who have had roofing work performed that is similar to yours.

- To find a professional roofing contractor, contact local contractor associations, ask for recommendations from business associates and neighbors or call the NRCA at 1-800-USA-ROOF.

Saving energy saves money.

1 Install storm windows and doors to help seal out cold winter air.

When you put up a storm window it forms an air pocket that insulates the inner surface of your window from winter's chill. And that keeps the air inside your home warmer. There is a wide variety of storm windows available. Older types are usually single pane, but now double and triple panes are available. The more panes of glass the better the insulation. A good substitute is heavy clear plastic.

2 Caulk around windows and doors to seal tiny cracks that let outside air in.

Caulking finishes the job your storm windows and doors start. All you need is a caulking gun and tubes of caulking... it's easy! Just go around window and door frames, the caulking will seal any tiny cracks or holes which allow your expensive heated air to escape. Just imagine the draft created when you leave a door or window open a crack and you'll see why caulking is so important. Make sure you finish the job you start. Caulk around all windows and doors before winter's chill sets in.

3 Insulation is your best energy dollar stretcher. Insulate now for warmth and savings all winter.

Insulation comes in all shapes, grades, and prices. You can have it blown in, laid out, poured or stapled up. Every home should have at least six inches in the attic to keep warm air from rising through the roof right along with your energy costs. Insulating walls and under floors will also help.

You can call an insulation specialist and have him advise you on the best type of insulation for your home and he will do the work. Or contact any lumber dealer, home-improvement center or other reliable insulation dealer for information on how and what type of insulation to install.

4 Keep your furnace in top shape for your best energy-wise performance.

Have your furnace cleaned and checked before the heating season begins. Have the pilot light or ignition system checked to make sure they're in proper working order. Check the thermostat to be sure it's reading correctly. Change the filter often so your furnace can work efficiently without the added burden of a clogged or dirty filter. You may also want to be sure your water heater is in proper working condition and well-insulated. Insulate hot water pipes, too!

Winterizing can be done inexpensively

Everyone knows proper insulation can have a dramatic effect on lowering home heating bills. In fact, Consumers Power Company estimates that heating bills can be lowered as much as 40-50 percent with installation of insulation.

But for many people — senior citizens or individuals on public assistance or fixed incomes, for example — the cost of having insulation installed is prohibitive.

The result, of course, is that individuals who could most benefit from lower heating bills are unable to afford the insulation that would achieve the savings.

There is help for these individuals, however. Assistance for people on low or fixed incomes was provided with passage of the Economic Opportunity Act during the War on Poverty in the 1960s.

Additional emphasis was placed on saving energy during the oil embargo and energy crisis of the 1970s. Consequently, there are several places people can look for financial assistance with reducing their fuel bills and conserving energy.

One program available regardless of income level is the Home Energy Analysis offered through Consumers Power Company's Residential Conservation Services Program.

The Home Energy Analysis is the central focus of the company's efforts to assist customers in making sound energy conservation decisions for their homes. Consumers Power Company customers can arrange for a "Residential Energy Consultant" to visit their homes and evaluate its important energy conservation characteristics.

The consultant uses the customer's telephone to relay the characteristics to a computer, which evaluates the home and returns specific information over the phone about different energy conservation measures, costs and anticipated energy savings.

The information along with a packet of energy conservation devices and tips is provided to the customer to help improve the energy efficiency of the home. Fee for the Home Energy Analysis is $10. The analysis is free to qualifying low income customers.

Free home insulation/weatherization assistance is available to low income individuals through Project Warmth, a division of the Oakland Livingston Human Services Agency (OLHSA).

Free home insulation/weatherization assistance is available to low-income individuals through Project Warmth, a division of the Oakland-Livingston Human Services Agency.

Jerry Sedick, project manager for Project Warmth in Oakland County, reported that the program is absolutely free for families who qualify under the guidelines. Sedick said program rules prohibit the release of specific income guidelines, but added that qualification is based on 125 percent of federal poverty guidelines.

To obtain Project Warmth funding, it is necessary only to fill out an application form at one of OLHSA's community offices. After program officials determine eligibility, the application is turned over to one of four Project Warmth inspectors who make an appointment to visit the client's residence and determine what work needs to be done. A work order is then dispatched to Project Warmth work crews who complete the work.

In addition to attic insulation, Project Warmth may provide storm windows, weatherstripping, caulking and, on occasion, replacement of doors.

Sedick said Project Warmth weatherized some 900 homes in Oakland and Livingston counties last year.

Furnace care keeps 'heart of home' well

By SUE LOWE

"The furnace is the heart of the house," says Bill Pousho, owner of Pousho Plumbing and Heating of Highland. "If the furnace stops working in the middle of the winter, the activity in the house shuts down."

Many people agree with Pousho, but neglect the very chores which prevent problems from occurring in their heating system.

Preventive maintenance is the best way to keep the furnace running smoothly and problem-free say the experts in the field of furnace repair. This means giving the furnace a regular checkup.

Tom Keitz of Keitz Appliance Service in Highland insists that an oil furnace should be cleaned and inspected every three years.

"The cleaner you keep your furnace, the more efficient it will work for you," insists Bruno Podlinsek, owner of Duquet and Sons Company, Incorporated Heating of Highland.

"Aside from efficiency," says Podlinsek, "cleaning your furnace may also save your life. If your system has a cracked heat exchanger, it can be releasing carbon monoxide gas into the home. A skilled serviceman on a regularly-scheduled visit would spot this problem before it became a danger to your family."

Pousho also mentioned the danger of a cracked heat exchanger. He said that he encountered the problem more often in the lakes areas where people were converting summer cottages into year-round homes.

"Preventive maintenance is more efficient, safer and a lot less expensive," explained Pousho who cited midnight emergency calls as the most costly type of furnace repair bill.

Keitz also said that after-hours calls were more expensive than those made during the business day. "I charge time-and-a-half for calls after 5 p.m. and most people say they can wait until the next business day. Unfortunately, by that time, the pipes or the boiler could be frozen and the homeowner is in for a big repair bill."

Keitz told the story of one of his customers whose furnace pilot light went out while he was on vacation. By the time the homeowner returned, the boiler had frozen and cracked and the pipes all over the house were cracked and leaking.

"Water damage repairs as well as furnace repairs could all have been saved by one service call for cleaning," Keitz explained. "The pilot light went out because it was dirty."

Larry Fournier of Fournier Heating and Cooling in Highland described some of the tasks performed by a serviceman on a routine cleaning and inspection call.

"The job would include cleaning the burners and adjusting the flame, checking the blower and safety controls, changing air and oil filters and oiling the motor if it was the type that needed lubrication," Fournier said. "It is also important to clean the flue and smoke pipe, replace the fuses, and change the nozzle on an oil furnace."

Some people like to tackle the job of cleaning and inspecting their own furnace and for these do-it-yourselfers Ned Watson of Watson Builders Supplies in Milford sells the necessary equipment.

Watson says there are many things an amateur can do such as change filters, fuses or fan belts and brush out chimneys. There are also jobs which require a service call and should not be tackled by an amateur.

Watson advises the homeowner to use his sense of smell. "If you smell oil, check for an oil leak; if you smell smoke, check for a bird's nest in the chimney; if you smell gas, call the gas company — immediately," he urged.

Keitz also advises the homeowner to use his sense of smell to detect problems in the heating system. "A dirty furnace smells and soot can be blown all over the house," Keitz noted.

"If you wake up with a headache every morning, call a repairman," cautioned Podlinsek. "Carbon monoxide could be escaping into the house and slowly poisoning the entire family."

The energy crisis of the recent past increased the popularity of wood as an alternative fuel to gas, oil and electricity. The wood stove is not sophisticated enough to need a yearly inspection, but the flue of a stove or a fireplace needs an annual checkup.

George Mann, of the Red Barrel Chimney Sweep of Milford, says it's a good rule to clean a chimney every year although some may need it oftener and some no more than once in three years.

Creosote is a product of burning wood. It builds up on the inside of the flue, and, according to Mann, can become extremely dangerous if it reaches a depth of 1½-inches on the flue walls.

Mann sweeps chimneys with brushes shaped to fit each flue. He says it takes from one hour to 1½-hours to clean and vacuum a chimney. Between sweeps, Mann advises the homeowner to use a chemical flue cleaner such as ABC or Safety Flue.

Windows:

Double-pane windows such as this can cut fuel bills

'But generally the windows can pay for themselves in five to 10 years...'

Fran Dougher

Insulate panes to save, warm

By B.J. MARTIN

For many of us Michigan dwellers, about one-eighth inch of glass stands between our state's occasional subzero temperatures and our snug living rooms.

While our windows may give us a nice view of the blizzard outdoors, it's an expensive view. Nearly 20 percent of a home's heat escapes through crevices in the edges of windows and doors or right through the windowpanes. On a windy day or night, that figure can reach up to 50 percent.

Most homeowners have read about housing materials' resistance factor, known as its R-value. The higher the R-value, the better insulator a given building material is. A fully insulated wall is R-11. A single glaze glass window — with one window pane one-eighth or three-sixteenths of an inch thick — is R-1.

Almost any homeowner's budget can finance ways to improve the R-value of a home's windows. All of them will repay short-term investment with long-term energy savings.

The best of these ways is, naturally, the most expensive: completely replacing the windows. Chances are they are made of aluminum or steel — inexpensive building materials, but in most cases far less effective insulators than wood or vinyl.

"The first place builders cut costs in building a house is in the windows," says Fran Dougher, branch manager and consultant for Chirri and Sons, an insulation contracting firm. "Most of the windows we replace, we replace a steel or aluminum window with wood or vinyl."

Most replacement windows sold nowadays are double glazed, that is, they have a 5/8-13/16 inch hermetically sealed air chamber between two panes of glass. The air chamber between the panes acts as an additional insulator. Storm windows work on the same principle, but do not have an airtight seal.

Yes, there is such a thing as triple glaz-

It's new Andersen High-Performance Insulating Glass. It has a special transparent coating that keeps radiant heat in during the winter, out during the summer. Andersen windows with High-Performance Insulating Glass greatly reduce radiant-heat flow and increase energy efficiency. They're up to 14% more energy-efficient than Andersen windows with triple-pane, 42% more energy-efficient than Andersen windows with uncoated double-pane. For more energy savings—on heating and cooling! And there's nothing to install, operate or clean. The transparent coating is permanently bonded to the glass-between the panes.

Windows allow big heat losses

ing, in which there are three panes of glass. It's better. But best of all — the Cadillac of windows — is a new type in which a narrow-slat venetian blind is situated between the panes of glass. When a special gold-toned exterior finish is applied to the blind slats, this style window can cut window heat loss by upwards of 75 percent. One such window is the Pella Type E Slimshade.

Asked how much in dollars and cents a utility payer would save by going from aluminum windows to double glazed vinyl or wood-type windows, Dougher whipped out her calculator and punched in figures reflecting the current price of fuel and the Michigan climate. "Based on a home with about 10 average-size windows, the annual savings would be something like $265," she said.

"A lot depends on the rate of fuel consumption in a house and other factors," she added. "But generally the (vinyl or wood) windows can pay for themselves in five to ten years. It's not as expensive as a lot of people think it is."

Also note — a 15 percent tax deduction is often available for such energy-saving home improvements.

Storm windows and storm doors help, of course. Interior-installed storms are more effective than their exterior counterparts, and are now very easy to install with screws and a vinyl seal.

On a still lower budget? At the very least, make sure exterior windows are properly caulked and/or weatherstripped. At $3 a tube or so, caulking the exterior perimeter of all windows is a modest, but wise investment, providing aluminum or steel windows airtight properties they otherwise would not have.

If you do intend to do some caulking, do it soon. As the temperature approaches freezing, the material hardens and becomes difficult to apply.

From a financial standpoint, if not an aesthetic one, tacking up sheets of plastic outside the windows is definitely smart. Duct tape is a good sealant for the plastic, although it may take its toll on any painted surfaces it sticks to.

Nails or brads are effective and need not be driven deeply into whatever surface the plastic is held against to hold it securely. If possible, use both duct tape and tacks — the more airtight the plastic sheet, the more effective its resistance to cold.

Although they are attractive, quilted window shades are only slightly more effective in actuality than they are psychologically, Dougher explained. They are also very expensive.

Believe it or not, those cute little fabric snakes or a couple of old towels stuffed around the edges of a little-used door really do make a difference, especially on windy days. If you keep a mat or rug near a door, it's also a good idea to push it up against the bottom crack. And it's a cheap way to save a few dollars.

Tax credits given for winterizing

Homeowners and renters interested in upgrading insulation in their homes may be eligible to receive insulation tax credits.

The credit applies to fiber glass bats and blankets, as well as other types of attic or sidewall insulation. Tax credits can also be declared for caulking, weather stripping, storm windows and doors, thermal windows and doors, modified flue openings, automatic furnace ignition systems, clock thermostats and similar conservation products.

To qualify, products must have been purchased and installed between April 20, 1977 and December 31, 1985.

The energy conservation products must have been placed in a principal place or residence, whether that is a single family home, condominium or co-operative. Renters are eligible for the tax credit, as long as they pay for the insulation themselves. Vacation homes are excluded from the weatherizing tax credit.

The credit equals 15 percent of the first $2,000 invested, up to a maximum of $300. The investment refers only to materials costs. The credit is subtracted from the final amount of one's Federal tax liability. It is not a deduction, but a credit off the bottom line.

The dwelling in which the products are installed must have been built prior to April 20, 1977.

For further information, consult a local Internal Revenue Service office, or write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, 19482, for a free brochure explaining the tax credit in detail.

Take a look at good lighting

Consider the average all-American family: They're wonderful people — friendly, helpful and polite. They could be your next-door neighbors. And like most people, reading is an important part of their lives. In fact, they spend a good part of their days with a book or paper in hand.

But there's a dark side to their lives. By day, they are all well-read. But when they come home at night, they have difficulty in reading.

Oh, they try. They really do. They squint. They strain. They hold the book or newspaper this way, then that. They sit up straight. They scrunch down. But nothing works. Quite simply, they need help. And they can get it in the form of a good reading lamp.

While this tale of at-home illiteracy may be somewhat exaggerated, the value of a good reading lamp is not. The right lamp can literally shed new light on any subject.

"The sensors in the eyes that allow us to read are activated by color contrasts, like those created by dark type on a white page," said John Bartley, a consumer affairs manager for a hardware firm. "But under poor lighting conditions, those sensors become less sensitive and we have to work harder to see. The result can be eye strain and, many times, severe headaches."

No one has ever gone blind from reading in too-dim light. But millions of American families are subjecting their eyes to unnecessary wear and tear with inappropriate reading and study lights.

How can you determine the right kind of light? Bartley offered the following hints:

- Whether you choose a table or floor-style lamp for reading, the height of the lamp (including table height) should always be 40 to 49 inches from the floor, with the bottom of the shade just at or below eye level, to prevent reflected glare.

- Proper light distribution is essential. A good study shade should be at least 14 inches in diameter at the bottom and eight inches at the top. Shades should be light in color and dense enough to prevent spot glare from the bulb.

- Placement is the key. The best position for a lamp is to the left or right of reading material — 15 inches from the work center for a desk top lamp.

- Bulbs make a difference. For the best reading light, choose soft-white bulbs (they're easier on the eyes) that are 150 to 200 watts.

Fuel-efficient appliances mean savings

By BOB SMITH

During the past 10 years, great strides have been taken toward energy efficiency awareness. Like the automobile industry, the home appliance business has not been left untouched by this trend.

Several changes in household appliances such as washers, refrigerators, freezers, stoves and dishwashers have resulted in more energy-efficient performances.

These changes include insulation alterations, more efficient compressors in refrigerators and the elimination of pilot lights in stoves.

In dryers, the drum-size has increased, Whitaker said. "The more space you have around clothes while they're drying, the faster they'll dry," he commented.

Despite this improvement in dryers, that appliance, along with the microwave-oven, is not subject to the federal regulations, Whitaker said.

"There's no real energy efficiency gain in dryers," Whitaker observed. He added that microwaves, which cook by wave friction and not heat, are energy efficient by nature.

Stoves are also not affected by the federal law, Whitaker noted. He said that pilot lights, which burn all the time, have been eliminated in many stoves.

Consumers still have a choice between gas and electric stoves, Whitaker said.

In Michigan, gas is much cheaper than electricity, Whitaker noted. Gas stoves are more expensive than electric stoves, he added. Whitaker also said that utilities have estimated it takes three to four months for a gas stove to pay for its extra cost though lower energy bills.

The federal law, the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA) of 1975, requires a bright yellow energy label to be attached to all applicable appliances in a store.

"The primary purpose of the Federal Trade Commission's energy labeling rule is to encourage consumers to comparison shop for energy efficient household appliances," according to a Sears document on the federal law.

The energy label, which has the same appearance in all appliance stores, includes such things as national average cost rate of fuel that the appliance uses, the estimated yearly energy cost of the appliance, the range of yearly energy costs for that type of appliance, the size of the appliances used in industry comparisons and the estimated yearly energy cost for different energy rates.

The label also includes comments about energy rates varying in different areas and with different uses, the availability of local energy rates from the salesperson, and the illegality of removing the energy label before the product is purchased.

According to the Sears information on the federal law, each manufacturer is responsible for the cost of testing and labeling their products. The testing standards were developed by the Department of Energy.

'The primary purpose of the FTC energy labeling rule is to encourage consumers to comparison shop for energy efficient household appliances.'

The federal government has had a hand in these changes. A 1975 law mandated that such appliances as washers, refrigerators, freezers and dishwashers on display in appliance stores include a label describing the energy cost of the appliance, according to Bob Whitaker, appliance manager at Sears in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall.

Refrigerator and freezer technology has particularly benefitted from this law. Whitaker noted that foam is now used to insulate these appliances, rather than fiber glass which could settle and fail to properly fill the space it was placed in.

"That (foam) gives you a much higher R-(insulating) factor," Whitaker commented.

Some refrigerators and freezers also have switch-actuated heat tape around the inner edge which "eliminates moisture condensation and runoff," Whitaker said.

More efficient compressors have been placed in freezers and refrigerators, Whitaker noted.

'Fall is a more consistent growing season. Cooler temperatures, higher humidity and better soil moisture provide the perfect conditions for growth.'

Loren Blum

Hugh Foreman rakes leaves to protect his lawn

JOHN GALLOWAY

Fall yard work yields better spring blooms

Now that fall has arrived, many homeowners are tempted to hang up their hedge clippers and put the lawnmower into storage for the winter.

According to those in-the-know at Frank's Nursery and Crafts, Inc., however, there's no better time than the fall season to get your lawn into shape.

Showcase lawns and spring flowering bulb displays are the result of fall planning, said spokesman Loren Blum, and October is the perfect time to winter-protect your lawn and get it ready for spring.

"Fall is a more consistent growing season," Blum explained. "Cooler temperatures, higher humidity and better soil moisture provide the perfect conditions for growth."

Root growth is especially active in the fall, he said, and plants and turf can get a better start in the spring if they're taken care of now.

For instance, fall is the only time to plant spring-blooming bulbs, Blum said. Tulips, daffodils, crocuses, hyacinths and lilies can all be planted now, and with adequate moisture, should have vigorous root systems by winter.

He recommended mixing bone meal in the root system before setting the bulbs in the soil in order to assure a more sturdy spring growth.

To build up a thicker and stronger lawn, Blum suggested reseeding bare spots and applying fertilizer late in the season.

Fertilization helps thicken and strengthen the turf, and enables it to withstand the harsh winter months. It also makes the grass more disease-resistant.

"Fall is the best time to kill dandelions, a biennial," said Blum. "Broadleaf weed killers applied to these actively growing weeds now will prevent their blooms from producing seeds next year."

"Once the weeds die, turf fills the bare spots created and makes it difficult for weeds to regain a foothold in the spring."

Homeowners should also avoid the temptation to sit back and let the leaves fall where they may, waiting for a snowfall to cover them up.

Leaves can mat on the lawn and smother the grass if they aren't raked regularly, said Blum. He suggested raking them once a week and adding the leaves, dead stems and foilage to a compost pile for next year's garden.

Another step recommended by Blum is continued watering and mowing of the lawn throughout the fall season.

Lawns should be mowed as long as they keep growing, with the final cut set at 1½ inches, as long grass invites fungus. Lawns require one inch of water and should be watered until the ground freezes, he said.

Trees also should not be ignored at this time of year, warned Blum. This is a good time to cord-bind upright evergreens to protect branches from being pulled out of shape by snow and ice.

Canvas or burlap screens supported by stakes will shield evergreens against drying sun and wind, and windblown salt spray.

It's also a good idea to wrap newly planted or thin-barked tree trunks with tree wrap, said Blum. This prevents intense sun rays from warming and activating cells under the bark, which rupture at night when the temperature drops.

When wrapping the trunk, start about two inches below the soil and continue to the first limb.

Fall is also the time to give some attention to indoor plants that have been kept outside all summer.

Bringing plants back inside should be done in stages if possible, said Blum, adding that all plants should be indoors before frost.

Plants should first be moved to the porch, then inspected for insects. Blum advised treating or discarding those with pest problems.

Gradually reaccustom plants to lower light and the home's dry conditions by increasing the time they sit indoors. Once the plants are brought in permanently, they should be given adequate lighting, water and humidity, said Blum.

By following these steps and keeping the summer lawn care momentum going a bit longer, homeowners can eliminate many of the frustrating problems they might face in the spring, Blum explained.

Once your lawn is winterized and you're finally ready to put those clippers back in the garage, you might want to heed just a few more words of wisdom from Frank's — they advise garden tools be scrubbed, sharpened and oiled before they're stored for the season.

Burn kerosene, wood instead of your money

By BUDDY MOOREHOUSE

Is the high cost of heating your home getting you down? Are you sick and tired of keeping the utility companies fat and happy every winter?

Well, it needn't be that way. If you're tired of having your home heated by conventional methods of gas, oil or electricity, there are other places to turn.

You could, for instance, install a wood-burning stove in your abode. That's becoming a very popular method of alternative heating, according to Dave Billings of Pietila Brothers in Howell, a business which deals in wood-burning stoves.

"About five years ago, wood stoves were selling hot and heavy," Billings said. "Then it tapered off for a couple years. Now, though, it's starting to really pick up again."

Pietila Bros. only sells one brand of stoves — the Buck Stove. "That's the Cadillac of wood-burning stoves," Billings said. Prices start at $899 for a stove that can either be free-standing or put in the fireplace. It also burns coal.

What makes the Buck Stove more efficient at heating your home, Billings said, is that it takes in the cool air in the home, circulates it through the stove, then blows the heated air back out.

The blower-enhanced air flow makes it possible for the stove to heat the entire house, not just one room.

The reasons for getting a wood-burning stove are many, Billings said.

"The most obvious reason is that it will save you a lot of money," Billings said. "That's the reason most people are buying one."

How much money will it save you? Well, according to Billings, the average home would take seven to 10 face cords of wood per winter. If you pitched in with several other families who had stoves and bought an entire truckload of wood, the cost would be about $30 per face cord.

So if it took, for example, eight face cords of wood to heat your home this winter, it would cost about $240. That's probably what it would cost to heat your home for one month with conventional methods.

"And that's if you have to buy the wood," Billings said. "The cheapest way, of course, is just to harvest your own wood. Then it would cost you next to nothing."

As for what kind of wood is best to burn in the stove, Billings recommends red oak. "That's my favorite," he said. "Any kind of seasoned hardwood is good. It's best to use wood that's been seasoned for a year or two."

Billings also pointed out that saving money isn't the only benefit that owning a wood-burning stove will bring.

"It also gives you a pleasant atmosphere in the house," he said. "It's nice to have that nice wood-burning aroma. And it's a good conversation piece."

If you do decide to get a wood-burner, there are several safety tips to keep in mind. The most important is to make sure you keep it clean and well-maintained. A build-up of creosote in the chimney could cause a fire, Billings said.

It's also important to remember that the top of the stove is very, very hot. Keep body parts and flammable materials away.

If you don't want to give up your furnace altogether, and you're just looking

Stove alert issued

A warning has been issued by the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) concerning possible carbon monoxide hazards with certain oil/wood combination furnaces.

The units involved were manufactured by Itasca Manufacturing Incorporated of Menasha, Minnesota. They were sold under the names Itasco Duo Model W0330 and Home Duo Model W0320. CPSC believes the units have demonstrated a pattern of weld failure that could allow carbon monoxide to escape and be drawn into the home. Carbon Monoxide can cause headaches, nausea and lead to death.

Over 100 complaints associated with cracks in the weld of the furnace were reported to the firm. At least one complaint involved various levels of carbon monoxide being emitted into the home.

Approximately 12,000 units have been produced and sold since 1972. The model number W0330 or W0320 can be found on a metal plate attached to the unit.

The CPSC urges owners of these furnaces to contact a qualified professional heating equipment installer and arrange for the furnace to be inspected for cracks, particularly at the top of the heat exchanger between the creosote collectors and around the firebox doors.

If cracks are found, consumers should have a certified welder repair them.

for a cheap way to supplement your heating, you might want to consider a kerosene heater.

"Most of the time, the people who come in to buy a kerosene heater are looking for a way to turn the thermostat down," said Lisa Foote of Foote Gravelly Tractor, Inc., in Novi.

"What they do is keep the thermostat at a constant temperature of 60-65 degrees, sometimes even lower, and then use the kerosene heater to heat whatever room they're in. That way, the furnace won't turn off and on 25 times a day."

At Foote's establishment, kerosene heaters range in price from $69.95 to $119.95. The going rate for kerosene fuel is about $1.50 a gallon.

"It can really be a money-saver for a lot of people," Foote said. "We get a lot of people who live in small houses or mobile homes who buy a kerosene heater. They can put it in the family room at night, then turn it on in the kitchen in the morning."

It's also important to keep in mind some safety pointers when using a kerosene heater. The most important, Foote said, is to make sure the room being heated is well-ventilated. "You shouldn't use it in a small, enclosed room with no ventilation," she said.

It's also important to use the heater only for its intended use — heating a room.

"We've heard of some people who have used it for other things, like drying mittens," Foote said. "That's a real fire hazard."
