Cooke, Moraine to close in '85

By MICHELE M. FECHT

After a week of deliberation, the Northville Board of Education Monday night unanimously approved the recommendation of an independent consultant to close Moraine Elementary and Cooke Junior High at the end of the current school year.

The board's decision to shut down the school facilities sometime after the close of the 1984-85 school year will leave the district with nearly a year to plan its consolidation of the two junior highs into one middle school and the redistricting of students into the three remaining elementaries.

Monday night's action also coincides with the implementation of the middle school grade structure expected to go on-line at the start of the 1985-86 school year and the completion of the high school renovation anticipated next September.

Prior to the board's decision, school board president Jean Hansen told the audience of nearly 150 that the board's pending action was based on careful study and consideration.

"One question I have heard loud and clear from people in the community is: 'Will the board automatically accept the recommendation of the consultant,'" Hansen said, in reference to the recommendation by consultant Keith Goldhammer to close Cooke and Moraine.

"I cannot emphasize enough that we did not hire a consultant to make the decision for us," she added. "We thought objective analysis from an outsider would be beneficial."

Monday's nearly three-hour school board meeting focused almost entirely on the school closing issue.

The board approved the closings in a series of three motions: one to close a junior high and elementary school, the other to close Moraine and the last to shut down Cooke.

The board discussed each motion separately with the administration and consultants Goldhammer and Harry Howard. Members of the audience were

Council debates action on school closing issue

By KEVIN WILSON

While the school board was meeting Monday night to consider school closings, Northville City Council debated a suggestion by Mayor Paul Vernon that it send a representative to the session to convey council's opinion of what decision should be made.

After discussing the suggestion for more than one-half hour, council opted not to take any action until Tuesday, when it would offer the school district assistance in making use of any vacated schools within the city limits.

Citing the matter of school closings as one of three issues during his tenure that had the potential for "dividing the community" (the others were annexation and downtown renovation), Vernon said he thought "there may be some of our constituents who might think city council should give them some direction. There may be some in the community who would look to us for guidance."

"We still have time," he said shortly after 8 p.m., "to send one of our members to the school board meeting to represent the city council's position." He cautioned that he was not recommending any particular council position on the matter, though he said he thought the Moraine school closing "practically a foregone conclusion"

and the closing of Cooke "likely."

Council members Dewey Gardner and Carolann Ayers were first to question the suggestion. Gardner asked if any council member had heard comments from any constituent requesting that council take a position on the matter—none had.

"As I understand it, it is up to the school board to make the decision," Gardner said. "I guess I'd feel a little strange taking a position on that."

Ayers said she did not think she could speak to the recommendation to close two schools — "the only areas I feel would be in council's purview would be the public safety aspect — whether there would be traffic changes or increased vandalism at vacant buildings — and any potential effect on property values."

"We don't have any information before us that speaks to those matters," she continued. "I would prefer to allow the school board to make their own decisions."

Council member Paul Folino said he had told people who asked his personal opinion that he did not feel qualified to suggest the proper course for the school board to take. "I've told them the school board certainly had better knowledge of it than I would," he said.

No surprises: Northville strong for GOP

By KEVIN WILSON

To no one's surprise, Northville voters favored Republicans in the November 6 general election, with only one Democratic candidate in a contested race winning favor here.

The Democrat was Charles Youngblood, Wayne County drain commissioner, whose only opposition was Libertarian Scott Scarborough.

There were 6,550 votes cast in the township and 2,986 in the city, for turnouts of 72 and 74 percent respectively.

Township clerk Susan Heintz said the traditional "drop off" of the number of votes cast between the top and bottom of the ballot operated in an odd fashion this year.

The number of voters making a choice did fall off slowly down to the township races. After that, the number voting in each race fell steadily. But the total votes cast rebounded strongly in the district court race featuring township supervisor John MacDonald and on the three state proposals. Nearly as many votes were cast on Proposal C, the last item on the ballot, as were tallied in the presidential race.

Northville was solidly in the Reagan-Bush camp in the presidential election, township voters casting 5,001 votes for the incumbents and only 1,421 for the Mondale-Ferraro Democratic ticket. City voters opted for Reagan by 2,172 votes to Mondale's 768.

Those looking for a "coat tail effect" from either presidential ticket would find some strange results — several candidates lower on the ballot got more support than did those at the top.

In the township, the top vote-getter of all candidates was Susan Heintz, whose unopposed bid for supervisor was supported by 5,129 voters. She even outpolled longtime ballot favorite Carl Pursell, who got "only" 5,067 votes to Democrat Mike McCauley's 1,053.

Pursell got another 979 votes in the Wayne portion of the city to McCauley's 281 as the 2nd District Congressman swept to a 2-1 district-wide re-election.

City voters favored GOP U.S. Senate candidate Jack Loumsa by 1,774 to 1,123 count over incumbent Democratic statewide victor Carl Levin. In the township, Loumsa got 3,991 votes to Levin's 2,336.

In the Michigan Supreme Court race, Northville voters backed all the victors — Dorothy Comstock Riley, Patricia Boyle and James Brickley. Township voters favored Riley over incumbent chief justice Thomas G. Kavanagh 3,734 to 1,638. City voters gave Riley 1,485 votes to 727 for Kavanagh.

That Boyle was appointed by a Democrat didn't dissuade the GOP voters here from favoring her on the officially non-partisan ballot, though her margins were smaller than were those given the other two candidates. Township voters gave Boyle 2,883 votes to 2,499 for former U.S. Senator Robert Griffin while city voters favored Boyle 1,139 to 1,083.

Former lieutenant governor James Brickley was the clear favorite in both Northvilles, getting 3,897 votes in the township and 1,699 in the city. His opponent, James Hathaway, got 1,266 and 449 votes, respectively.

Like their counterparts across the state, Northville voters opposed Proposal A and favored Proposal B. On "A" the count was 3,378 No to 2,332 Yes in the township and 935 Yes and 1,522 No in the city. On "B" the township cast 3,915 Yes votes and 2,030 No, the city 1,713 Yes to 826 No.

Apartment plans rejected

By B.J. MARTIN

Lakes of Northville subdivision homeowners are glad township officials have rejected plans for a nearby apartment complex, but not about the reasons for the rejection. And they may not be glad at all the next time developers try to move in a multi-family housing project.

The township planning commission on October 30 gave a unanimous thumbs-down to a proposal for a multiple-family housing development to be located north of Six Mile and immediately west of Bradner.

But in rejecting the project, commissioners were responding less to neighboring residents' complaints than to preliminary site plan shortcomings identified by the township's planning and engineering consultants.

Several Lakes of Northville homeowners objected in 1981 when township planners okayed preliminary site plans for a condominium project at the same site. Although the price tag for the proposed condos was far from cheap (about $150,000 each), the homeowners again were irritated last year when the commission extended its site plan approval for another year.

But last month, instead of pricey condominiums, Amurcon Corporation of Southfield submitted plans for a 182-unit apartment complex on the 49-acre site.

Although representatives of Amurcon estimated the apartments would be rented for between $400-$700 per month, some subdivision residents — whose homes range upwards of $200,000 in market value — felt such a project would be a disaster for their property values.

While the planning commission turn-

MacDonald wins big

It wasn't even close.

When all the returns were in, Northville Township Supervisor stood a clear 6,546 votes ahead of former Canton supervisor and police chief Robert Greenstein in last week's election. MacDonald had 17,726 votes to Greenstein's 11,180.

MacDonald thus replaces Judge Dunbar Davis at the 35th District Court when Davis retires at the end of the year. Davis is eligible to continue as a senior judge at the court and will do so.

MacDonald's victory came with huge margins in Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth and Plymouth Township. Greenstein narrowly outpolled MacDonald in Canton Township, tallying 6,048 votes to 5,401 in the largest of the five communities in the court district.

It was one of the hardest-fought judicial campaigns in the state and Greenstein was expected to do better in his hometown of Canton to make it a closer contest overall. MacDonald said he spent more than twice what he had anticipated, much of it on newspaper advertising.

"I was particularly gratified to receive such strong support in all five communities in the district," MacDonald said of the result.

As was expected, MacDonald racked up his largest margins here in Northville, where township voters favored his candidacy 3,662 to 1,005. City voters gave MacDonald 1,436 votes to Greenstein's 503. MacDonald swept every Northville precinct by wide margins on his way to victory.

NEWS BRIEFS

AN ANTIQUES and crafts market will be held in Northville Plaza Mall this Saturday during mall hours under sponsorship of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. The antiques/crafts markets on the third Saturday of each month replace the former flea markets, which will be held on the first Saturdays of the month in the mall.

TOWNSHIP BOARD of Trustees meets Thursday night at 8 p.m. in township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road. This is the last meeting of the current board led by supervisor John MacDonald, who was elected 35th District Court judge last week.

INSTALLATION ceremonies for the newly-elected township board will be at 7 p.m. November 20 at township hall. New supervisor Susan Heintz and clerk Georgina Goss will be sworn into office by Judge James Garber along with the re-elected incumbents — treasurer Richard Henningsen and the four trustees. The township beautification commission is hosting the event and the public is invited.

Christmas Walk rings in holiday season

Northville's annual Christmas Walk through the decorated downtown streets and shops now is in its third decade — and promises to be the biggest ever next Sunday with virtually all downtown merchants participating.

It also is expected to draw the largest crowd in history, weather cooperating, as street decorations are turned on at noon to begin the holiday season officially. The walk hours are noon to 5 p.m., according to G. Dewey Gardner, a member of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, which sponsors the walk.

He adds that the event has drawn visitors from as far as Amherstburg, Ontario. He relates that Diane Bisio, a Downriver resident, was in his shop, IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts, last year and told him that she hosts a brunch and then brings her guests to Northville for the walk.

"We work all year for the Christmas season," Gardner says, noting that this year's theme at IV Seasons combines angels and sheep which have historical significance in relation to the season. Little People's Shoppe is to display a gingerbread replica of Downtown Northville.

City workers are scheduled to decorate light posts with swags of greens and tiny crystal lights in time for the walk. Gardner says trees in city parks also will be decorated.

The chamber will continue to award prizes for the decorated windows in different business categories, based on originality and appropriateness. This year's judges are Sherry Spaman, chamber president, Susan Heintz, newly elected Northville Township supervisor, and Steve Walters, Northville city manager.

Simon play opens in Novi

Stage I Productions will raise the curtain on its production of the Neil Simon comedy "Barefoot in the Park" this Friday and Saturday at the Novi Community Building.

Performances are scheduled Friday and Saturday (November 16-17) at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. There will be two additional performances next Friday and Saturday, November 23-24, both at 8 p.m.

All seats are priced at $4 and tickets may be purchased at the door or ordered in advance by calling 349-7673 or 477-5732. The Novi Community Building is located on the east side of Novi Road between Grand River and I-96.

"Barefoot in the Park" is one of Simon's earliest and best-known comedies. It deals with the problems encountered by a pair of newlyweds trying to make their way in New York City.

The cast includes Jay Stock of Northville.

School board approves Cooke, Moraine closings

given the opportunity to address each motion after board discussion.

In recommending the closing of both an elementary and junior high school, Superintendent George Bell told board members that the issue being addressed was whether the district could afford to keep seven school buildings open when it easily could be housed in five.

"There are some realities that we have to deal with everyday," Bell explained, in reference to the precarious state of the district's finances.

He noted that by the end of the current school year the district will be faced with a $473,000 deficit — in spite of the 7-mill renewal and 2.5 mill increase approved by voters last April.

He pointed out that the projected deficit is based on a one and-a-half percent increase in State Equalized Valuation.

He noted that during the 1981-82 school year, a mill generated $315,000 whereas today a mill generates $306,000.

"It takes $6 million in building value to raise the SEV by one percent," Bell noted. "That means we need $9 million of on-the-street construction (to alleviate the deficit)."

"One million dollars in construction results in $17,700 in revenue to the school district," the superintendent further explained. "That will educate 4.9 children."

He told the audience that while certain factors — such as lower interest rates and new construction sites such as Meijer Thrifty Acres — may be beneficial to the district in the future, additional revenue is not immediately forthcoming.

He noted for instance that the $148,000 in revenue that the Meijer project is expected to generate for the district will not be anticipated for at least another year.

Coupled with the next year's deficit is the projected decline in enrollment for the school district.

Board members questioned

Goldhammer's projections for future district enrollment growth and voiced concern about the possibility of reopening a school five or 10 years down the road.

Goldhammer told board members that to reach the point of saturation in the three elementary schools and middle school by 1994, the district would have to experience an average growth of 4.47 percent annually at the elementary level and 5.03 percent at the junior high level.

Since the district's peak enrollment nearly a decade ago, the student population has steadily declined. Up until the last two years the decline in enrollment has been about four or five percent each year with the greatest drop at the elementary level.

The decline in student population at the elementary level has left present building capacity in the four elementary facilities at an average of 61 percent.

"We were advised by the Blue Ribbon Citizens' Committee last April to find ways to cut," Bell explained, noting that the committee directed the board to alleviate the district's deficit by cutting any fat out of its budget without cutting the program.

President Jean Hansen told the audience that the "board has made the easy cuts," noting the district recently went to self-insurance to save on its employees' health costs and sought funding through Public Act 431 to implement $1.5 million in energy conservation measures in the district's school buildings.

"There are no easy cuts that are left," she said. "I am not willing to cut quality. To me there's nothing more important than the education of our kids."

It was noted that the school district has spent $1.4 million — all of its fund equity — over the past four years to retain its present level of programming.

"Nothing will be left by June," Bell noted, adding that not only will the district have wiped out its fund equity but will be faced with an almost half million dollar deficit.

Based on the consultant's projections, the financial savings for the district to close two of its facilities was estimated at $412,000, excluding additional transportation costs which were estimated at approximately $87,000 for busing additional students from Cooke and Moraine.

The consultants also pointed out that the savings could be greater should the board decide to lease its two vacant buildings.

Board members assured residents that the buildings will be maintained after being vacated.

Goldhammer, Dean Emeritus of the Michigan State University College of Education and a consultant for school districts throughout the state, said he has "seen a great deal of utilization of closed schools in the last few years."

He said many closed school buildings in other districts have been leased or rented as churches, synagogues, continuing education centers for community colleges and the like.

"The potential is almost unlimited," he said. "I would suspect Northville would follow a similar pattern."

While the district's financial picture certainly was a key consideration in the board's decision to close schools, board members emphasized during the course of Monday's meeting that retaining — and improving — quality education was the primary objective in closing what were considered the two most deficient structures.

Board members emphasized that while the decision to close an elementary and junior high was imminent, selecting schools for closure was a much more difficult decision.

It was pointed out that while quality programming has been retained at both Cooke and Moraine, the buildings are the most inadequate of the district's facilities in terms of classroom size, building capacity and space available for instructional activities.

The superintendent told the board his recommendation to close Moraine was "based upon the education potential of buildings involved."

Moraine, built in 1967 with a capacity for 521 students, constitutes the most severe problems for the maintenance of its instructional program due to its large number of sub-standard classrooms.

Goldhammer pointed out in his report to the board last Monday that 11 of Moraine's classrooms have only 550 square feet, which permits an enrollment of only 18 pupils — considerably less than the 28-pupil average maintained by the board of education for grades 1-6.

Despite the space restrictions, Moraine's sub-standard classrooms are housing full enrollments in accordance with the district's policy, creating an overcrowded classroom situation.

Board vice president Glenna Davis reiterated that while the decision to close Moraine was based on many factors, "one which has not been a factor is quality of programming at Moraine."

However, she pointed out that while a

Council debates action on school closing issue

Council member J. Burton DeRusha said, "my feeling would be to advise the school board that we support their decision based on the recommendation of its consultant. If the school district says there would be an advantage to the children in consolidating the classes, and they have the information, then what is best for the children is really for the betterment of the community as a whole."

Gardner said he opposed "council taking a position without a reason for it, without hearing from people who want us to and without considering all the information. I don't know that it's city council's business to do so."

Vernon responded that "certainly it is city council's business to respond to anything that affects the lifestyle of people in the city. If we found evidence that closings would erode the tax base, we would certainly act. There may be those afterwards who would ask: 'Why didn't you do something about it?'"

"I would respond that I don't think it's city council's responsibility to advises the school board on its actions," Ayers said. "I think it would be presumptuous of us to do so. We don't want them going to decide, though we may have a good idea, we're not positive. If we were to support a certain action, that would be presumptuous."

Referring to the mayor's earlier suggestion that the school closing issue is a potentially divisive factor in the community, Ayers said she thought "it might be more divisive for groups — considering ourselves as only one of five communities affected by the school district — to take a position. What I decided to take a different position and the township another? I think that would be more divisive."

"I don't know why we're even considering this," Gardner said.

"Because it affects our city," Vernon responded. "We think they are going to follow the consultant's recommendation and close Cooke and Moraine. What if they decided to do that, and to close Amerman, too? Would you agree with that? I wouldn't, and I'd feel bad that I hadn't said anything before it happened."

Vernon said he had examined a copy of the consultant's report to the school board, "I didn't attend the public hearings because I didn't feel that was appropriate, but I've studied it in great detail."

"Again, I'm not suggesting that we take a position or not take a position, but I wanted to discuss it with council because there may be some who come to us after the fact and ask why we didn't act."

"Keep in mind that the two schools considered for closing most directly affect the city of Northville out of all the governmental groups in the school district," he added in response to Gardner, who had asked if any other government had taken a stand on the matter.

Ayers made a motion that council "take no action tonight" but advise the school board that the city would be willing to work together to help utilize any vacant buildings in the city.

DeRusha said he would rather state that council "agrees with the study conclusions" recommending closing of Moraine and Cooke. Ayers responded that, "I don't know if I agree with the study conclusions or don't agree with the study — educationally speaking. I don't have all the background or all the facts."

Ayers' motion was voted on in the form she had offered. Only DeRusha opposed it.

"I can tell the council now that a commercial consultant has already been brought in (by the school district) to examine potential uses for the vacated buildings," Vernon said after the vote. "I think the intention is to wait for that consultant's report, then to close down the Main Street building and move the administration offices into Cooke."

Registrations up, percentage turnout down from '80

By KEVIN WILSON

Nearly three-quarters of the registered voters in Northville went to the polls for last week's presidential election, easily 10 percent over the state average and nearly 20 percent over the national rate.

But before being too impressed by the 72 percent township and 74 percent city turnouts, consider this:

In 1976 when the choice was between Gerald Ford and Jimmy Carter, the township posted an 83 percent turnout, though the city got only 69 percent that year. And in 1980 when Ronald Reagan swept Carter out of office, the percentages were both higher than this year, with 74 percent in the township and 77 percent in the city.

Why the fall off? Two possible reasons suggest themselves immediately: the polls showed Reagan with an incredible lead going into election day, perhaps dissuading some voters; and turnout projections ran to the high side, suggesting long lines at the polls.

As it turned out, both the city and township reported that the polls were busiest election morning when lines of voters created waits of up to an hour. Voting was steady but not rushed through the rest of the day and few lines were reported at the 8 p.m. closing time.

A third, less obvious, hypothesis likely had something to do with the lowered percentages and suggests there really has been no significant decline in voter participation. Both township clerk Susan Heintz and city clerk Joan McAllister noted that it is likely voter registration lists contain a higher percentage of eligible citizens than they might have in the past.

Being a registered voter is far easier today than it was in 1976, thanks to registration at the secretary of state's office (instituted in 1978) and a law that maintains names on the active voter list for four full years.

Thus the ranks of registered voters has swelled and the 6,550 township and 2,986 city voters who actually cast ballots represent a smaller proportion of the total than they might otherwise.

This means the number of people registered to vote has grown faster than has the number going to the polls. There were 6,138 registered township voters in 1976 compared to 8,233 in 1980 and 9,102 today. The 5,133 who voted in '76 and 5,370 in 1980 compares to 6,550 last week. While nearly 3,000 more people are registered today, the number voting increased by less than half that amount. Raw voter totals in the township are up 27 percent since 1976, but registration is up 48 percent.

It is impossible to say how many of those on the registration rolls either don't belong there or rarely vote but are registered "just in case" they decide to do so. The ease of registering when renewing one's drivers' license or license plates has likely added a significant number of those in the latter category, McAllister suggested.

There are likely few names on the active voter registration lists of people who have moved away or dropped from eligibility. Both clerks have made progress in cleansing the lists of such persons, but a handful may remain.

This hypothesis gains strength when considering that absentee voting has risen greatly — both city and township reported large numbers of local residents who were either away at college or in military service sending in absentee ballots.

Other voters are making more frequent use of the opportunity to vote absentee as well. For example, there were 839 absentee ballots cast in the township in 1976, and 1,512 in 1984. As percentage of total votes cast, that's 23 percent this year compared to only 16.3 percent in '76. There were 509 absentee ballots in the city this year — about 17 percent of the total.

If those who are out of town are voting more frequently, yet the percentage of the total electorate voting is falling, it is likely that the registration changes are having an effect.

Voter registration drives this year also swelled the ranks of those eligible to vote. Between the August primary and the November general elections, the township added 651 voters to the rolls. That's nearly 10 percent of the number of ballots actually cast and represents nearly 8 percent growth in the rolls over four months.

McAllister said the city added more than 500 voters to the rolls between the July deadline for primary election registration and the October 9 date for the general election. As a percentage of the total city electorate, that exceeds 16 percent.

"In my years here I've never seen anything like the number of people coming into the clerk's office here to register," McAllister said. "We got a lot of them through the secretary of state's office too, but it was very unusual to see the numbers we had coming into city hall."

"We saw registration drives going on at Schoolcraft College and at the high school," Heintz noted. "The number using the secretary of state was pretty high too. We had a large number come in the mail the last few days before the election. They registered with the secretary of state's office before the October 9 deadline but we were getting the additions just before the election."

Heintz noted "incredible" numbers of young, often first-time voters coming into township hall this year to register.

With the provisions for maintaining active voter lists for four years after the last activity, the large number of new registrations will likely carry into the next presidential election year (assuming the new registrants voted last week).

School board closes Cooke, Moraine

dation to close Cooke Junior High, the potential for building a strong middle school in the district appeared to alleviate some of the board's reservations.

In his recommendation to close the 18-year-old junior high facility, Bell noted that Meads Mill was by far the better facility in terms of size (it is twice the size of Cooke), design of the physical plant and its potential use as a middle school facility.

It was noted that Meads Mill was designed as a middle school rather than a junior high.

Bell further noted that by combining the two junior high staffs, the district will alleviate its "traveling teacher" problem and be able to offer more class sections and more curriculum offerings to middle school students.

More importantly, he stated, "by combining the two school buildings we have the potential of having the best middle school program in the state."

Board members seemed equally as enthusiastic about the development of the middle school.

Trustee Whitaker noted that "even though this decision will impact on my family, I can go into this with a clear state of mind."

"I believe that the middle school will provide better educational opportunities than the junior highs," he said. "I support it very strongly."

President Hansen echoed Whitaker's remarks and noted that "this is difficult for me as a parent."

"I have a son attending seventh grade at Cooke, and I'm going to have to go home and tell him I've closed his school."

However, she noted that as a former junior high teacher, she believes the middle school is "far superior."

The school board told the audience that it will be reorganizing bus routes and working with staff.

Last Thursday, Northville librarian Melanie Robinson recognized eight Winchester Elementary students as the winning contestants in the school's bookmark design contest. Students presented with awards were (first row from left) Jennifer Dowdell, first grade; Nate Goebel, kindergarten; Abby Haxton, kindergarten; and Lauren Nadeau, third grade. Back row winners were Beth Morelli, fifth grade; Leslie DeKoker, sixth grade; John Holland, fourth grade and Jason Maciver, second grade. The eight winners were among the 250 Winchester students competing in the contest as part of the school's "Reading for Enjoyment" celebration. The eight winning bookmarks are on display at Winchester along with bookmarks made by 62 finalists. All students who participated in the contest received a certificate. The students plan to use their bookmarks in books purchased at the Annual Book Fair held November 5-9. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Chamber board re-elects Spaman

During last Thursday's board meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Sherry Spaman was re-elected president and Midge Haynie, secretary. Former treasurer Jan Stevenson was elected vice president, and former vice president Terry Fraser was named treasurer.

A Northville Night at the Races is being sponsored by the chamber at 6:30 p.m. January 22.

"We hope everyone — business people, merchants and residents — will come out to make it really a night for Northville people," explained Betty Allen, chairperson of the arrangements. Tickets are $15 a person, and include admission and a buffet dinner in the clubhouse.

The chamber may be called at 349-7640 for reservations.

This Sunday the chamber is sponsoring the annual Christmas Walk through downtown and will present awards to merchants for the best decorated windows. Board member G. Dewey Gardner is in charge of judges, who make their decisions based on specific guidelines of appropriateness, originality, etc.

The chamber board, noting congestion that has occurred on the sidewalks in recent years, voted to prohibit street booths of organizations effective in 1985. However, organizations that have had benefit sales in conjunction with the walk may continue to do so if they have use of store facilities of a non-participating merchant.

Chamber-sponsored indoor flea markets at Northville Plaza Mall resumed last Saturday. In the future it is planned that the first Saturday of each month will be a flea market, and the third a collectibles, antiques and crafts market. Space reservations may be made with the chamber office.

Final Farmer's Market of the season was held last Saturday at Main and Hutton.

Boys State recap

Oakland County voters 'stay the course'

Oakland County Northville voters apparently are satisfied with their elected representatives — they helped return all of them to office by significant margins in the November 6 election.

Congressman William Broomfield (18th District), State Representative Willis Bullard Jr. (60th District) and Oakland County Commissioner John Calandro (24th District) were all easy victors in last Tuesday's election and will continue to be the city's representatives for at least two more years.

Broomfield's victory over Democrat Vivian Smargon in the race for the 18th District Congressional seat was no surprise. Broomfield, a Republican from Birmingham, has been re-elected to Congress in every election for the past 28 years and is the ranking Republican member on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Throughout the 18th District, Broomfield outpolled Smargon by a margin of 183,592 to 45,771. In Northville, he outpolled the Democrat by a margin of 1,180 to 245.

Although lacking Broomfield's longevity, Bullard easily defeated Glenn Betts of Novi in the race for the 60th District seat in the State House of Representatives. Throughout the district, Bullard defeated Betts by a margin of 23,443 to 7,341 and locally he outpolled the Democratic challenger by a margin of 1,143 to 242.

Bullard said "it's gratifying to know that people support you and have ratified what you've been doing for the past two years."

The Republican from Highland Township said he does not expect much action in Lansing until newly-elected representatives take their seats in January.

"I think the concerns of the people in Novi are pretty much identical to the concerns of people throughout the 60th district and southeastern Michigan," he told the Novi News. "After the new legislature takes over in January, I anticipate an agenda that will include a lot of economic development and jobs-type of legislation."

Bullard added that he believed the new legislature will repeal the Blanchard tax increase as one of its first actions.

Calandro, Novi's representative on the Oakland County Board of Commissioners, also was an easy victor in his bid for re-election to the 24th district seat. Calandro outpolled Democratic challenger William Brinker by a margin of 11,006 to 3,870 throughout the 24th district. In Northville, his margin was 1,086 to 268.

Calandro said he has been pleased to represent the people of the 24th district and was appreciative of their confidence.

The biggest issue facing the county, he said, is the problem of jail overcrowding. "Some decisions will have to be made to expand programs or construct an addition to the jail."

"If we decide to enlarge the jail, it will have an impact on all 24th district residents because construction costs have been estimated somewhere between $5-9 million."

Calandro added that mass transit and economic development are two other areas that will be addressed. He noted that Oakland County has been selected to conduct a nationwide pilot program to determine if public transportation in outlying areas can be handled by the private sector.

Additional attention also will be directed toward economic development, particularly in Novi which has been identified by county officials as having high potential for additional development.

Local vote on Proposal C close

Northville voters showed their anti-tax leanings last week, giving state Proposal C more support than it had statewide.

The so-called "Voter's Choice" amendment would have rolled back all taxes to their December 31, 1981, levels and required voter approval of all future tax increases. It was defeated 2-1 statewide.

Northville Township voters were among those supporting the measure, though narrowly and not in all precincts. City voters opposed it, but again by a much narrower margin than did Michigan voters in general.

The final tally showed the township casting 3,142 Yes votes on C, only 51 votes more than the 3,091 No. City tallies were 1,467 No to 1,192 Yes.

Voters appeared to favor the measure most in those precincts where property values, and thus tax levies, are highest. Township precincts 2 (Highland Lakes), 4 (near Hines Drive and the child development center property), 5 (Kings Mill) and 9 (also Highland Lakes) opposed the measure.

Other precincts where large, single-family homes dominate went heavily for Proposal C. Presumably, the tax rollback provision appealed to those paying higher property taxes. It is likely as well that residents of the higher-valued properties also have higher income levels and pay more in state income taxes. Last year's 38 percent hike in the state income tax rate is widely regarded as a prime impetus behind the proposal.

In the city, the same trend was visible but not as strongly. Both the Wayne and Oakland precincts opposed Proposal C, but it was a tighter contest in Oakland. Oakland absentee voters favored it narrowly while the Wayne absentee count was much closer than the result among those voting in the booths. Individual residential property values north of Baseline tend to be somewhat higher than in Wayne County.

Overall, Wayne voters opposed Proposal C by 710 to 544 while the Oakland precinct cast 757 No votes to 648 Yes. Absentee Oakland voters favored the measure, 115 to 104. Wayne absentee voters opposed it 144 to 128.

Dumas sweeps her district in county commission race

Republicans in the northwest corner of Wayne County evidently weren't interested in being represented by a Democrat on the county board — incumbent Mary Dumas, the only Republican county commissioner, won last week's election in a cakewalk.

Dumas won her seventh term on the county board by beating opponent Laura Toy, a Schoolcraft College trustee, by a nearly 2-1 margin. Her edge was even larger than that in Northville and Plymouth, and nearly as strong in Livonia, where both women reside.

The Wayne County portion of the city of Northville favored Dumas 883 to 341 and the township handed her a 4,445 to 1,477 edge. The incumbent took 7,378 votes to Toy's 2,580 in Plymouth Township and 2,683 to Toy's 1,410 in the city of Plymouth.

Toy was expected to be strong in Livonia, but managed only 16,986 votes to 27,635 for Dumas. After that, the rest was just icing on Dumas' cake, for Toy had a total of only 22,974 votes to Dumas' 43,026.

Dumas said during the campaign that she expects the county commission will in the coming term complete the work of reforming Wayne County government. She said she foresees a lessening of tension between the commissioners and county executive William Lucas as the lines of authority under the county charter are clarified.

District governor speaks to Rotary "Discover a New World of Service" was the theme of the address to Northville Rotary Club given by R. Neal Ballheim, governor of this Rotary District, Tuesday at First Presbyterian Church.

District Governor Ballheim told the Rotarians of Rotary International President Carlos Canseco's goal of membership development and commitment to the Rotary motto, "Service Above Self."

During his visit Ballheim conferred with Richard Probst, Northville Rotary president, and other club officers on the group's service activities this year.

He was given details about the success of the club's "Discover Northville Rotary Run" in October and about the planned scholarship program for Northville High School students.

A member of the Rotary Club of Ecorse, Ballheim operates a funeral home there. He was elected to office at the Rotary International convention in Birmingham, England, in June, 1984, and will serve until June 30, 1985.

Police Blotters

City police stick cemetery vandal with damages bill

In the City...

Police apprehended a 14-year-old Northville boy shortly after he damaged a Cady Street Cemetery headstone dating back to 1923.

The boy and three girls were spotted by a city DPW employee "running around" in the cemetery shortly after noon Tuesday, November 6. When police arrived at the scene at 12:20 p.m., the four were gathered around the damaged headstone.

Police and cemetery owners intend to hold the young man responsible for damages, established last week at $155 to repair the white granite headstone and $465 to replace it completely.

A 17-year-old Northville High School student will be held responsible for an estimated $500 worth of damage she admitted causing to the women's restroom at the Starting Gate tavern, 135 North Center, at 10:20 p.m. last Wednesday. According to a police report, the girl left the bar with a friend, also under age, after they were "carded" by a waitress. On her way out, the girl stopped in the restroom of the saloon and scribbled "obscene" messages on the walls and door in indelible ink. They were later contacted by police on recognition by a Starting Gate employee.

Police arrested 32-year-old Gary Joseph Forro of Northville on charges of indecent exposure and resisting arrest. Responding to a complaint by a 16-year-old witness Saturday, officers discovered Forro sitting naked in the front seat of his automobile in the parking lot of Northville Park Apartments. Asked by a city police officer what he was doing, Forro responded, "None of your business." When informed he was to be arrested, Forro offered the officer to retrieve a pair of pants from his apartment. Upon the officer's return, Forro had locked his car doors.

Police used force to gain entry to the car and to take Forro to police headquarters. He is now awaiting Dec. 10 arraignment in 35th District Court on the two misdemeanor counts.

A tote ticket valued at $194 was stolen from the pocket of a visitor to Northville Downs at 10:25 p.m. Friday. According to reports, a slim 6'3" black male with a mustache grabbed the ticket from the victim's left shirt pocket as the man stood up to cheer from his upper grandstand seat. The thief fled downstairs into the lower grandstand.

A southwest-bound car driven by 22-year-old Gary Glenn Bishop of Madison Heights skidded off rain-slick Griswold Street near Butler, and smashed into the front steps of a home at 315 Griswold at 10:36 p.m. Friday. Bishop was unhurt, but was arrested by city police for operating his vehicle under the influence of liquor. No damage estimate to the steps and to the lawn had been filed with city police as of yesterday morning.

Livonia police have apprehended a 30-year-old Allen Park man in possession of a snow blower stolen from a home on Horton Street last Wednesday. The snow blower, valued at $350, was stolen from the garage of the house between 2 and 9 a.m. The Livonia P.D. Detective Bureau notified city police and in turn the owner of the snowblower was notified Thursday morning.

...In the Township

Tools valued at nearly $1,500 were stolen from the garage of Marilyn residence sometime between midnight November 2 and midnight November 5, according to township police.

The complainant told police the articles were stolen from the garage, which is separate from the house.

The complainant further stated the side service door, located on the north wall of the garage, was left unlocked.

The tools were contained in three tool boxes of various sizes. Police found no signs of forced entry.

Items valued at $650 were stolen from the garage of a White Haven Drive residence sometime between 8:15 and 9:15 a.m. November 10, police report.

The complainant told police he was home during the time the incident occurred and did not hear or see anything unusual.

He further noted that the garage door was left open.

Items stolen were an S-200 Toro snowblower valued at $300 and a Schwinn 10-speed Le Tour bicycle valued at $350.

In separate incidents, two radar detectors were stolen from automobiles parked at Meadowbrook Country Club sometime between 5:30 p.m. November 8 and 1:45 a.m. November 9.

In both cases, the front passenger side window was smashed out of the vehicle to gain entry. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at $150 each. The radar detectors are valued at approximately $250-265.

Both complainants told police they heard a car squeal out of the Meadowbrook parking lot around midnight. There are no suspects at this time.

A radar detector valued at $265 was stolen from a 1985 Pontiac parked on Hayes Court sometime between 11:15 p.m. November 8 and 9:30 a.m. November 9.

The officer investigating the incident found no physical evidence at the scene. Further investigation revealed that the suspect(s) used some type of tool to unlock the front passenger door. The suspect(s) then removed the radar detector and relocked the door but failed to close it completely.

Unknown subjects threw a large rock through the bay window of the Brooklane Golf Course pro shop causing an estimated $250 damage, police report.

The incident occurred sometime between 5 p.m. November 9 and 7:30 a.m. November 10.

The complainant told police that the suspects did not gain entry into the pro shop and nothing was stolen.

Drivers along Sheldon Road should be wary of deer possibly crossing the roadway.

A driver heading north bound on Sheldon between Five and Six Mile at about 10 a.m. November 5 hit a large male deer which had run in front of the car. The deer was killed on impact.

Police are asking drivers to be cautious along roadways.

Fraser's among those not tickled with returns

While some waited more than half an hour to vote at Northville City Hall election day morning last week, by early evening the turnout had slowed to a trickle.

One city resident reported he had tried to vote at Precinct 1 in city hall at 8:30 a.m. and again at 11:30 a.m. when he found the lines "even longer"; he finally returned to cast his vote with little wait at 3:30 p.m.

Former United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser, registered to vote in the Northville City precinct in Oakland County where he now lives, said he voted absentee. "I was supposed to be campaigning in Chicago on election day. But as it turned out, I wound up at home."

About his impression of the mood of the American electorate in the campaign's final days, Fraser said, "I think Walter Mondale closed the gap quite a bit. His crowds were certainly enthusiastic, but I think Mondale and all his staff who felt so strongly about the campaign faced the reality of it."

Asked if he would be celebrating or drowning his sorrows election night, the enthusiastic Mondale supporter laughed, "Drowning my sorrows, I'm afraid."

"I think Senator (Carl) Levin and many of the congressmen we (in labor) supported are going to do all right," Fraser added. "The election's not going to be a disaster. I think the President will know he's president of all the people after it's all over."

Voting in Precincts 2, 8 and 9 at Silver Springs Elementary in Northville Township was fairly steady throughout the day, according to election official Nancy Terwin.

She said she'd received word that more than 50 percent of Northville Township voters had cast ballots by 4 p.m. Terwin, an election official in Precinct 9 noted that 367 votes had been cast in her precinct by 4:15 p.m.

"It was really busy this morning," she noted, adding that voting has been fairly steady throughout the day.

"We usually get a good turnout in Northville for a national election," she said.

Republicans score big wins in Oakland County races

November 6 was a great day for Oakland County Republicans. The Oakland County GOP won a string of 2:1 victories for countywide offices, added the sheriff's position to its list and gained two seats on the county board of commissioners.

All county offices are now held by Republicans, and the GOP's majority on the board of commissioners has grown to 19-7.

And while the Republicans had expected to do well in the 1984 election, the victory that made them happiest was John Nichols' triumph over Sheriff's Lieutenant Henry Hansen to replace Johannes Spreen as county sheriff.

Gleeful sheriff's deputies couldn't wait until Spreen leaves county government on December 31. Late on election night, they hung a banner over the Oakland County jail door that contained a photo of Nichols and proclaimed, "Under New Management."

City of Northville Oakland County voters favored Nichols 1,162 to 237.

Incumbent County Executive Daniel T. Murphy, who has been at odds with Democrat Spreen for the past decade on budget and jurisdictional matters, won his biggest victory to date with a 67 percent majority. He did even better in Northville, with 1,092 votes to Spreen's 318.

After three terms as sheriff, the increasingly controversial Spreen vacated the office to tackle Murphy and perhaps try to prevent the Oakland executive from becoming a 1986 contender for governor.

"This is going to be one of the easiest times I've ever had because I'm not going to have that big donkey across the street giving me trouble," Murphy told a cheering party in the Pike Street Company restaurant in Pontiac.

Murphy saw his victory margin rise from 56 percent in 1980 to 67 percent this year. Nothing he has the largest constituency of any Republican in Michigan. Murphy promised to "have something to say" about the 1986 GOP gubernatorial candidate — and perhaps be that candidate.

A moderate, Murphy is known to be less than happy with some of the conservative GOP hopefuls.

Murphy, 61, had run scared because an early poll showed him with 10-15 percent less name recognition than Spreen, a one-time Detroit police commissioner, metropolitan newspaper columnist and three-term sheriff. And it was widely known that Governor James Blanchard, a first-term Democrat, had encouraged Spreen's candidacy to dampen Murphy's potential opposition.

But Patrick Nowak, Murphy's deputy and chief political operative, said the poll also showed voters favored "a candidate who could balance the budget, lower taxes and bring economic development." Those became Murphy's successful campaign themes.

Said Nowak: "The governor and Sam Fishman (AFL-CIO president) could turn out major contributors, but apparently it became obvious it would not overcome the public's positive feelings toward Murphy."

L. Brooks Patterson, tears of anger in his face, won a fourth term as prosecutor despite television news reports that he may have been influenced to drop electricity theft charges against auto dealers who contributed to his campaigns.

"This was a public repudiation of all that crap," said Patterson of WXYZ-TV's recent reports and his opponent's request for a grand jury investigation. "If you sense a lack of euphoria, it's because of the meat grinder I've been through."

Patterson, a candidate for higher office on three occasions, is interested in running for governor in 1986. He had hoped to top his 1980 showing of 68 percent of the vote and lead the ticket again — and he did. Patterson defeated attorney Robert Gagnuk of Troy with 69.2 percent of the vote.

The controversy didn't sway Northville's vote of 1,179 over Gagnuk's 280. Patterson got more votes in the Oakland portion of Northville than did any other candidate in a county race.

"I didn't give one speech for Brooks Patterson," said the 45-year-old prosecutor, who spent all his time on Ronald Reagan's presidential campaign and the unsuccessful Proposal C.

Nichols' big race was the three-way Republican primary on August 6, according to his campaign co-manager, Adrienne Rosenberg.

"After that, some of the volunteers and I just winged it," said Jean Nichols, the candidate's wife. Nichols, 64, used fewer volunteers, spent less money and worked less in defeating Hansen, the Democratic nominee, on November 6.

It was Nichols' second big campaign. He was Detroit police commissioner in 1973 when he was defeated for mayor of Detroit by then-State Senator Coleman Young. That campaign had "more professional campaign managers," said Mrs. Nichols.

An estimated 75 percent of the 400 persons in the sheriff's department supported Nichols, many of them actively, Rosenberg said. Two unions in the department endorsed Murphy for executive and said Spreen shouldn't hold any public office.

Nichols, once Spreen's undersheriff and now Farmington Hills police chief, had expected to run against Spreen. "John said all the fun went out of it when John Spreen decided to run against Murphy," said Mrs. Nichols.

Loser Hansen, less than two years away from retirement, admitted that he had been the underdog. He called Nichols "top of the line" and added that "I would never have any problem working with him."

The Republicans also gained two seats on the board of commissioners. Richard G. Skarritt of Milford defeated incumbent William J. Foley in the 2nd District (which includes Wixom) and Dorothy Webb of Ferndale won easily to replace a retiring Democrat in the 18th District.

Here are the countywide results in Oakland County. With the exception of Nichols, all the winners were incumbents.

Executive: Murphy (R) 280,121 (67.3 percent), Spreen (D) 135,988.

Prosecutor: Patterson (R) 292,688 (69.2 percent), Gagnuk (D) 130,211.

Sheriff: Nichols (R) 280,812 (69.2 percent), Hansen (D) 124,676.

Clerk/Register: Lynn Allen (R) 266,431 (68.2 percent), Linda Lash (D) 123,683.

Treasurer: C. Hugh Dohany (R) 260,326 (68.3 percent), Louis Miller (D) 127,752.

Drain Commissioner: George Kuhn (R) 264,285 (67.5 percent), Darlene Berent (D) 127,081.

Commissioners veto apartment complex plans

ed down Amurcon's proposal, it's anticipated developers may seek to erect a similar project eliminating the non-compliant aspects of the rejected plan. It's not likely those modifications will placate neighboring residents.

"We've put a ton of money (in our homes) in that area," said Frank Gallucci, owner of the subdivision home closest to the project. "What I need to know is what kind of people we're going to allow in here. If we're going to allow low-income people in this area, we're going to lose quite a bit."

Claude Coates, planning consultant for the township, disagreed with that claim, however. "We've found in study after study that a multiple-family use located next to single family has no effect on property values," Coates said.

Commissioners pointed out that the longstanding RM-1 zoning classification of the construction site clearly permits rental units. They further pointed out they had no right to refuse a project that meets or exceeds the requirements of the zoning ordinance.

"What are you asking us to do?" commissioner Bernard Baldwin asked the homeowners. It was suggested a minimum size restriction be imposed on the apartment units.

But commissioner M.K. Rhoades said such an action would be "discriminatory and illegal."

"We can't change a zoning (restriction) because we don't like what it (a project) looks like," Rhoades explained.

ed. "All we can do is to try to make the project the best we can given the zoning restrictions."

As it turned out, Amurcon's preliminary site plans were so far from complying with zoning restrictions the commission would not grant even conditional approval at last month's meeting.

The two major areas of non-compliance involved:

• First, how far the RM-1 zoning line extended into Waterford Pond, which lies immediately north of the property. The amount of lake acreage is computed into the permitted residential density of the project. The property line drawn by Amurcon, commissioners agreed, extended too far into water area not adjacent to land within the RM-1-zoned area. Thus, it was determined, developers would have to reduce the number of units they proposed to build.

• Second, the proximity of the buildings. According to zoning restrictions, residential buildings must be located at least 35 feet apart. By using a wall to join buildings that would otherwise be completely separate, developers proposed locating the buildings as close as 10 feet to each other. Commissioners, however, did not think the shared wall was enough reason to waive the 35-foot restriction.

Amurcon chairman Bart Berman was out of town early this week, and unavailable for comment on whether the corporation would continue efforts to develop the property.

TAX TIPS
LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

DEDUCTIONS IN SELLING A HOME

You may not think of your home as a "castle" now, but if you plan to sell it, pride of ownership as well as prevailing prices in the real estate market may change your mind. The value of private homes has increased at a faster rate than many other investments in recent years. When you sell your home at a profit, you'll want to take all of the allowable deductions on your income tax to make the sale as profitable as possible.

If you sell your home and purchase another, you will only have to pay tax if the adjusted sales price of your former home exceeds the cost of the new one. To keep the capital gains tax to a minimum, however, you must buy or start building a new home within 24 months. The tax can also be reduced in other ways. For example, you are allowed to deduct "fixing-up" expenses to make your old home more saleable, such as painting, landscaping and repairs. Among other allowable deductions are the selling expenses, such as real estate commissions and legal services.

For a review of all the deductions you are entitled to and other tax-savings opportunities, why not call us for an appointment?

The First Presbyterian Church of Northville presents

Boar's Head Dinner

Friday, Nov. 30, 7:30 p.m.
Sat., Dec. 1, 8:00 p.m.
Sun., Dec. 2, 7:30 p.m.

Be prepared for an unusual evening of entertainment and merriment, dating back five centuries in origin, accompanied by a full course dinner of soup, drumsticks, wild rice, roast beef, vegetable, figgy pudding and the traditional "Wassail" prepared in the 16th Century tradition. Oh! Don't forget the Boar's Head!

The Royal Feast, hosted by King Burr De Ville and Queen Karin von Bauernbergen, also features the forty-plus members of the Madrigal and Troubadour Choirs, Harpsichord, Court Jester, a string quartet and brass ensemble, all performing in candle-lit Fellowship Hall, itself decorated in English Medieval fashion.

Gourmet Gatherings, graduates of the Culinary Arts Dept. of Schoolcraft College, will be preparing the meal. After dessert, the Choirs will give a special Concert.

Tickets are $20.00 per person and should be ordered as soon as possible. They may be ordered by sending check, money order or Visa/Mastercard information made payable to First Presbyterian Church Boar's Head Dinner, 200 E. Main St., Northville, MI, 48167. All non-member orders must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Our Opinions

To each his own

City council properly resisted Mayor Paul Vernon's suggestion Monday night that it take some kind of stand on the school closing issue. Although he repeatedly claimed not to be recommending action, the mayor clearly favored council passing a resolution of some kind that could be rushed to the school board as it met to make its decision on the closings. Why else would he depart from the agenda at the beginning of the meeting, describing the issue as one of "extreme importance" for council deliberation?

Vernon prefaced his suggestion with a speech on the terrible effects a divisive issue can have on a community and said the school closing decision appeared to present a threat similar to that of the annexation and downtown renovation issues of the past — both of which were defused before the controversies destroyed the community. We must agree on the potentially divisive effects, but point out a distinction the mayor failed to make.

In the cases of annexation and renovation, the city council was directly involved and interested in the outcome. The results held implications for every city resident, not just those residing in a particular area or with children in a particular school. There is but the most tenuous of connections between the school closings and the operation of city government or the interests of city residents at large. The mayor's statement that city council was elected to represent people is correct, but fails to note that the council is elected to look after the city while the school board members are elected to run the school district.

Council members properly stated their reluctance to take a stand on a controversial issue to be decided by the school board. If this issue develops as a divisive one, an official stand by council would of necessity be a matter of "choosing sides" and only heighten the sense of discord. Differing areas of the city are served by different schools — council could not responsibly represent those differing interests while making any kind of useful recommendation without alienating someone. Council is neither qualified nor asked to make school district decisions and such an action would have been out of place.

This is not to say that individual members of council are to be prohibited from having opinions of their own. The mayor's evident interest in this particular topic (he examined the consultant's report at length) would better have been expressed as an individual and not brought to the council table. He said he did not attend the public hearings on the issue out of some sense that it would be inappropriate. We are puzzled at how it could be so. Surely the mayor can offer his own opinion independent of council, and even independent of his position as mayor, if he so chooses.

We are also puzzled by his decision to withhold from council, until after it had voted, the information that he has already advised the school superintendent that council would assist in finding a way to utilize vacated buildings. In essence, this information makes council's approval of such assistance an empty gesture — the mayor has already committed the city to such a course.

Council is to be commended for resisting the temptation to meddle in matters where its opinion is not necessary or wanted. We understand the mayor's concern that there is a potentially divisive issue in a community for which he obviously cares a great deal, but we are confident the school board is handling it in the best manner possible. Interest in the topic would be better expressed in efforts to calm any disruption arising from the board's action than in ill-advised attempts to influence that decision.

town can testify, however, that it is more than an advertising promotion. Some merchants have planned all year for their beautifully decorated windows. Viewing them is a treat — and, chances are, friends and neighbors also will be there to share the holiday excitement.

Sponsor of the walk, the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, presents awards to the windows judged best in their categories. Shoppers can decide for themselves if they concur with the judges — chamber president Sherry Spaman, city manager Steve Walters and newly elected township supervisor Susan Heintz. Results will be announced in next week's Record.

Take the Walk

If last weekend's snowfall didn't already alert us to the fact that it's less than six weeks until Christmas, this Sunday's Christmas Walk downtown to view windows and stores decorated for the holidays should.

Now in its third decade, the Christmas Walk from noon to 5 p.m. on the Sunday before Thanksgiving has become a local tradition. To a newcomer, the open house invitation of downtown merchants to drop by to see what's new for holiday giving in the decorated shops might sound purely commercial.

Off the record

By Kevin Wilson

Two times one equals four

Second kids are always getting overlooked. All you have to do is examine anyone's family photo album for verification. Here's urchin number one at two minutes old, here's another at four minutes, and here, look, by the time the kid's an hour old you can already tell who he looks like (usually an old abused softball with peach fuzz glued to it.)

After wading through pages and pages of firstborn's first nursing, first visit with grandma and first spit-up on dad's shoulder, you'll finally come to baby number two. This is an entire life told in a form of visual haiku on a single page — one photo at birth, then another where he's partially hidden behind number one at Christmas, followed by his first day at kindergarten and his high school graduation picture.

No wonder my younger brother sometimes thought the folks liked me best. The next great drive for equal rights may come from people who had the bad luck to be born later than first. And again I'll be left out in the cold, trying to be gracious about having the good fortune to be not only white, male and American, but a firstborn to boot. We once did an informal survey around the office and found out nearly everyone was the oldest child in the family — surely something in the experience makes us the kind egotistical attention-seekers who would hunt out jobs at weekly newspapers. The sole exception when last I checked was a photographer, and they're so different from normal people it doesn't count.

All of which skirts around the fact that we've recently added the second son to my own family. Greg brings me a reminder of that time (can it really be a full 27 months ago?) when Sean came home. And yes, I've already fallen behind in the number of photos taken of the younger child. Of course, there's this toddler running about, demanding his fair share of attention and severely cutting into the "let's stare at the baby and laugh" time.

Friends and relations warned us that two kids adds up to four times the work of one, but I didn't really believe them until now. The surprise is not in the amount of attention the baby requires — we expected that, and thanks to the experience of already having had one we've avoided some of the pitfalls. What I, at least, hadn't realized was how much time we'd been devoting to Sean. It was divided between us, so each parent got a break every so often. No more. Most of the time we've each got a lapful of wailing diaper-clad boy, the difference being whether you quiet him with a lullaby or the four-millionth reading of 'The Cat in the Hat.' Thankfully they nap at the same time, which is likely all that's saving Toni's sanity when I'm away.

Once things calm down a little (I've been told I need wait only 30 years or so) it seems likely the rewards of being father to two will be worth the punishment. Already there's clear evidence that Sean and Greg have very different personalities. Nothing anyone but their parents would recognize with the baby not yet three weeks old, but certainly enough to remind me I'll need to balance my efforts to be equitable with a clear understanding that I'm dealing with two different individuals.

It is human nature, when faced with two of anything, to compare and contrast them. To notice that at birth Greg looked more like his father and Sean more like his mother. To mark that Sean's hands were near exact duplicates of my own while Greg's are different but similar. To hold their newborn photos side by side and see a remarkable similarity around the mouth and jawline. To reflect that Greg is thus far less demanding than Sean was in his first month at home, or that Sean had a stronger neck and shoulders.

Thus the parental challenge — how to raise two (or more) children without seeming to play favorites among them. Or, just as bad, how to avoid that obsession with equal treatment that blinds you to each child's unique needs. With any luck, loving them equally while responding to them individually will work. I wrote a column in this space about Sean when he was a newborn, with the hope that someday he will read it and perhaps begin to understand what his arrival meant in my life. This one's for Greg and the message the same: I count myself inestimably richer for your presence. Welcome home.

After the fact

By PHIL JEROME

The voice on the other end of the line refused to take my word for it.

"Listen, buddy. I don't know who you are, but you're not Phil Jerome. I know Phil Jerome and he doesn't sound anything like you."

"It's me. It's me," I implored. "You just don't recognize my voice because I've got that cold that's going round. Had it for a week-and-a-half now and can't seem to shake it."

Because the person I was calling is a fellow employee of this company, I was able to convince him that I was who I said I was by reeling off a little VDT language that only an employee of this company would understand.

But that doesn't help the fact that I've got this cold and can't seem to get rid of it.

What really hurts is that I'm not getting a whole lot of sympathy from my co-workers.

"You weren't taking your Vitamin C, were you?" said the Milford Times editor when I tried to coordinate some election information last week. "You've got to take Vitamin C every day, particularly during the winter."

My staff was no more sympathetic. "It's your diet," said one, making it sound like an accusation. "Man cannot live on Pepsi and Twinkies. When was the last time you tried some vegetables?"

My wife, who makes sure that I get vegetables every day and stocks the refrigerators with fruit and orange juice, thinks it's all a matter of not getting enough exercise.

She's starting a new aerobics class right after Thanksgiving and thinks I should join her. Short of that, she's trying to get me to take a brisk walk every morning.

The problem is that none of those suggestions sounds like much fun. Okay, I can start taking Vitamin C every morning. And I'll wash it down with a glass of water instead of a nice, cold Pepsi. But my tolerance for vegetables is low. And my tolerance for exercise is even lower.

Besides, this cold does have one advantage. I sound a lot like Broderick Crawford. "10-4, over and out."

Where was the other fourth of voters?

To the Editor:
Election reflections:
As usual, most good citizens of Northville, realizing their civic duty, voted in last Tuesday's election. Out of 4044 registered voters in the city, 2986 or 74 percent voted. In the Oakland County portion, 1612 or 77 percent of 2085 registered voters cast their ballot beating the Wayne County portion where 1374 or 70 percent of 1959 registered voters exercised their franchise.

Now, don't get me wrong ... these are percentages to be proud of when compared with the County, State and Nation as a whole.

But Northville isn't the average little town ... it's unique and very civic minded.

Just note what has happened downtown with the direction and stimulus of the Downtown Development Authority and the cooperation and help — both financially and physically — of the merchants, beautification commission, Chamber of Commerce and just plain citizens.

All of which leads me to the big question. What happened to the 26 percent who didn't vote?

Surely they could not all have suddenly been taken ill or called out of town. And if they thought their vote didn't count, they are wrong, dead wrong.

Only a few more votes per precinct across the state could have changed the outcome of the senatorial race. Let's resolve now to try harder next time. Voting is also a civic duty as well as a hard won privilege.

Thoughtfully,
Robert F. Brueck
Precinct Delegate

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was sent to Record reporter B.J. Martin with a copy to the editor.

Dear Bruce,
First please forgive me for being delinquent in writing this letter to you.

As past president of the Northville Junior Baseball Board of Directors, I take this opportunity to thank you for the hard work, and effort you extended to our baseball program this past summer.

Your dedication in writing the articles on a regular basis lent itself very well to the quality of the program. I'm sure the kids, the parents and the entire community all benefited through your efforts.

Once again, many thanks, we look forward to working with you again next year and wish you continued success.

Sincerely,

Rotary sponsors exchange

The Northville Rotary Club is accepting applications from young men to participate in an exchange program to Austria in spring, 1986.

A team of five business and professional men, between the ages of 25 and 35, will be selected for a group study exchange to be conducted a year and a half from now. They will be representing Rotary District 640, which includes the Northville club, and will spend six weeks in Rotary District 191 in Austria.

The Austrian district is sending a team to this area in April.

Those selected will have an opportunity for person-to-person promotion of better understanding and friendly relations among the people of the world. They visit government and legal institutions and schools, and study places of historical, cultural and scenic interest.

Exchange team members also meet people in the country they visit, gaining valuable personal knowledge and making friends as their meals and lodging are provided by local Rotarians in the host district.

All general expenses of those participating in the program are borne by Rotary.

Men interested must be non-Rotarians and will need to apply by tomorrow. For application materials, contact Northville Rotary President Richard Probst at 455-1000.

School options discussed

The board of education's recent decision to close Moraine and Cooke schools has led to considerable speculation about usage for the vacated facilities.

Mayor Paul Vernon told city council Monday night that he understood the school board intends to move its administrative offices from Main Street School to Cooke Junior High, therefore making the downtown facility available for private office space.

School Superintendent George Bell said Tuesday morning that while the idea of moving the administration of fices to Cooke had been discussed with the mayor, it was by no means definite.

"That is just one consideration we're looking at," the superintendent explained. "We're a long way from that stage."

He said the board and administration will be looking at all options for its vacated facilities once the two schools are closed.

He also noted the board has made a commitment to keeping the schools well maintained during any interim period.

Obituaries

Developer sees minimal risk in 'mini-mall'

By ALICE DAVIES

Dave Borlace is not a gambling man. His investment in two Victorian-era buildings in the center of Milford Village is based on solid conviction. His Village Center Mall — 14,000 square feet of retail space in 13 shops, all under one roof — is the largest project of its kind undertaken by a local investor in many years.

Village Center ties together two buildings and several additions to create one unified brick structure. The idea, says the owner, was not historic restoration.

"We wanted the feeling of the old village, but a lot of the exterior detail was deteriorated or missing," Borlace said. "I was committed to doing the project so that it would be an asset to Main Street development."

"This is good for me in the long run, but it's also good for the community," he says with quiet confidence.

When Borlace found no help from village or county economic development agencies was available, he went ahead with his own financing. "This project fell between the cracks," he explains. "Too big for the village and too small for the county."

Built in the post Civil War boom of the 1870s, the two-story brick shops were typical of that period; ornamental window caps and cornice trim, basement windows opening onto front sidewalks, wooden floors and paneled, 11-foot ceilings.

Upper floors were used for living quarters, offices, studios and storage over the years. Basements were warehouse and work areas.

Borlace, who owns other Main Street property in Milford, saw potential in the buildings.

He hired architect John Allen of Farmington to work out the design problems. Paul Fremling of F & S Construction, based in Union Lake, supervised the eight-month job.

The design core is a 1,000-square-foot atrium stairwell, open 34 feet from the stone-walled cellar to the second-floor skylight. Ceramic tile on hall and atrium floors, custom wood treatments and trim mark this effort as more than a simple renovation.

"I love this," Fremling says. Unlike some builders who prefer new construction, he enjoyed the work of putting 20th century standards and convenience into a 19th century structure.

On a tour of the project, Fremling points out oak floor joists, milled at 2.5 inches, set on 12-inch centers that span 26 feet. "No one builds like that anymore," he says, obviously impressed. "The building was very sound, but it had problems like eight steep stairways, all about three feet wide."

Insulation and triple glazed windows were installed for energy conservation. Steel beams now undergird floors, interior brick and stone have been cleaned. Borlace won permission to eliminate a costly elevator from the Michigan Barrier Free Design Board, but all other features meet barrier-free standards, including ground floor public restrooms near the atrium.

Restrooms were not required, but Borlace wanted shoppers to have that convenience. Extra space surrounding the atrium was planned as a display and performance area.

Borlace is not saying how much he spent on all of this.

Why did he do it? What makes him think this quiet village of 5,000 residents can support his project?

Borlace gives several reasons.

"The location is good, and this is a good community. It's still spacious and it's a good place to grow up — a good place for families," Borlace says.

The Village Center Mall sits in the middle of the old business district, at the corner of Center and Main streets.

"This mall is designed for small businesses and that's what this town is built on. People who shop here come because of the specialty shops and the personalized service," he continued.

"These stores can compete with the large malls and area markets. With an average of 700 square feet, rent starts at $675 a month. I pay for utilities and total maintenance," he related.

Tenants are responsible for telephones, decor and upkeep in their own shop. Borlace acknowledges the arrangement is different from most mall concepts, but believes there is a need for this kind of market.

"I'm not worried about filling every space right away. The areas are small and affordable. I'm taking my time to be selective, choosing tenants carefully to suit this space and this town."

Borlace says he turned down bids for a game arcade, and is still hoping to find a cheese and wine merchant for the rustic basement area. "The brick and stone walls would be perfect for that kind of operation," he adds.

The first tenants should be open by Thanksgiving weekend, Borlace predicted.

"We have an electronics outfit and a custom jewelry shop. It's a little too early to say a lot about the others," he added.

Tri-Moto Sale!

PRICES WILL NEVER BE LOWER ON HARD-WORKING, HARD PLAYING YAMAHA TRI-MOTOS

Starting now, we'll be taking something off these three-wheelers to make them go faster. Something off the price tag, that is.

It's all part of the Yamaha Three For-All Sale and it means you'll be able to take home a Tri-Moto 175 or a Yamahauler for less than ever.

The Yamahauler is our hardest working three-wheeler and comes equipped with a shaft drive, electric start, front suspension, CDI, trailer hitch and racks.

If you're looking for something more playful though, there's the Tri-Moto 175, a high-performance three-wheeler with a 171cc two-stroke engine, front suspension, CDI and an almost endless supply of fun.

Of course, deals like this can't last forever. So hurry on down and get in on a Three-For-All.

Already located in the project are a "wool merchant" and a barbershop, established businesses which were incorporated into the mall project.

Borlace is an independent businessman, president of a family-owned auto parts company called B & B

Universal Distributor, Incorporated of Detroit. Borlace, his wife Karen, son Scott, 10, and daughter Chrissie, 8, moved to Milford 11 years ago and expect to stay.

"I'm willing to put money in this town. I know it will succeed," he concluded.

Dave Borlace is not a gambling man.

The Passing Wind

Silent whispers of leaves and wind,
Mem'ries swept by, on a breeze ever gone.
The rolling green forests, atop the hills,
A setting too peaceful, even for deer.

The creatures lay still, hearing once more,
The ceaseless grey wind, speaking to them.
Warm is the sun, settling from above,
Better the smells, of hickory and field.

The rabbit and deer, all still and open,
Standing, resting in deep, deep silence.
So exposed they are, so clear, so clear.
The wind then cautions, of hunters and men.

Scattered are the woods, of every dear beast
Running in fear, from here to there.
The winds are whips, wrapping 'round trees—
With chill it bites, like spears of death.

The shot is then done, the destined one slain,
Lying on turf, breathing no more.
The creatures lie still, waiting again, for
Their one friend, the passing grey wind.

Don't Give Up

When you wish upon a star
Your dreams are never far
Like a falling leaf
They are just within your reach
If you try hard enough
You'll always achieve your goal
If you give up along the way
Your hard work will never pay
If you don't give up
And you always try
Your hopes and dreams
Will never die

—Barbara O'Neal

In The Distance

In the distance here he comes
The quiet sound of a bumble bee's hum
The sound gets louder
As he gets near
Then the sound is distinctly clear
A motorcyclist and his bike as one
Out in the distance
Having fun

—Barbara O'Neal

Sweet Smell

A campfire's
Sweet smell;
Stars
Suddenly numerous;
Campers
Huddled to fires,
Hot dogs and marshmallows;
Voices
Rising and falling;
Dousing the fire
Finally ... Silent,
People file off
To sleeping bags.

Uniquely Rare

I love you very truly,
I hope my dear you see,
With you along my side,
Just means the world to me.

To care and love for you,
I'll do so easily,
With you there
My life's so rare
I'm happy as can be.

I'm looking for the day,
When from two we can come as one,
To live our lives together,
As shining as the sun.

With you in my life,
It makes days worthwhile,
When I think of you,
It always makes me smile.

Everything I have,
With you I'd like to share,
Because I find the love we have
Is so uniquely rare.

Mort Crim shares 'news' with Town Hall audience

By MICHELE M. FECHT

On the heels of Tuesday's election, WDIV-TV anchor Mort Crim shared his observations about the news business at Northville Town Hall's second celebrity lecture of the 1984-85 season.

A veteran television and radio journalist, as well as an Emmy Award-winning newscaster, Crim gave his audience an insider's perspective on the media's coverage of Tuesday's events as well as other major stories.

"There is a serious concern that has grown out of our election coverage," Crim told the capacity audience at Sheraton Oaks in Novi.

"The concern is calling the race before it's over," he said, in reference to the polling done by major news networks and organizations prior to poll closings.

"I don't remember an election in all my years covering elections that has been more dull because of its predictability," he said.

Crim noted that Channel 4 "called the election almost on the money" in its own poll conducted with the Detroit Free Press. Other news organizations such as NBC, Newsweek and USA Today called the election within three to five points, he added.

"There is a serious concern that has grown out of our election coverage ... the concern is calling the race before it's over."

Crim attributed the accuracy of such projections to today's sophisticated polling process.

"The process is so sophisticated it's moved from an art to a science," he noted.

However, Crim pointed out that among the drawbacks with polling is that "there is no suspense."

"It's frequently disappointing and there's often a feeling of anti-climax," Crim told his audience.

He further noted that early poll projections often cause a dilemma for television networks and stations.

"We're told to present the latest, best and most accurate information we have," he said. "We are not supposed to withhold what we know."

Crim told his audience that "by 2 p.m. we knew Reagan won, Levin won and Proposal C had been defeated."

However, he noted that in order not to discourage voters from going to the polls the station did not release any information until 8 p.m.

Crim said he was told 10 seconds before the polls closed to get ready to announce the results exactly on the 8 p.m. mark.

"There also was a competitive factor involved," he said, adding that WDIV was the first of the local networks to announce election results.

While polling may provide networks with accurate returns at election time, Crim noted that television news is not as fortunate when it comes to other major news stories.

"The biggest accuracy problem that we face is not one of conspiracy or competency," Crim noted. "Our primary concern is time."

"Often times we can't tell our viewers the whole story in the time allotted," he added.

Crim pointed out that in a 30-minute television newscast, "on a good night we will be fortunate to have 12 minutes of news." He further pointed out that those 12 minutes are devoted to all "hard" news including international, national, state and local stories. The remainder of the newscast includes entertainment, feature, sports and weather coverage.

"Clearly we have a problem of prioritizing the news," Crim pointed out.

"Everyone brings a viewpoint and a perspective to the news," he said. "We

Omnicom telethon culminates food drive

Northville businesses and residents are participating in an area special food drive called "Baskets Filled with Love" that will culminate in a day-long telethon on Omnicom's Channel 8 on December 8. The project is co-sponsored by the Plymouth Salvation Army and Omnicom.

The drive was kicked off November 8 as more than 1,100 employees of Burrough's Corporation on Plymouth Road donated about 2,000 cans of food to mark the official start of the drive to feed the hungry and needy in Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Belleville.

Participating area businesses include Del's Department Store, Ford Motor Company, Chatham's, Hamlet Food Mart and K-Mart Corporation.

Telethon organizers say they plan to have area schools, plus Girl Scouts, Brownies and Boy Scouts as well as area service organizations participate during the actual telethon.

The telethon which will start at noon will last "for however long we have folks coming in to donate their cans of food or calling on phones to pledge their money for purchasing food," reports Omnicom executive producer Maria Holmes.

Representing the Salvation Army is Lieutenant Larry Manzella. He may be reached at 453-5464 or Holmes may be contacted at 459-7335 by organizations wishing to participate.

Omnicom emphasizes that "all food collected along with money donated to purchase food will be used right here in our own communities."

Election party introduces neighbors

By JEAN DAY

Television sets were on at the David Longridge house last week when the Longridges and the Bernard Bachs decided to give a welcoming dessert coffee for their new neighbors on election night.

Neighbors on Woodhill and Fonner Court West met Jim and Sandy Plagen who have bought the home on Woodhill between Longridges and Bachs. They purchased the cape cod-style home from Pat and Dee Montagano, who had built it about 1962. He is the owner of a prothesis business which he moved from Plymouth to the former Sawmill furniture building on East Main.

Recent months have seen what seems to be a larger than usual turnover in homes by longtime residents. George and Jan Murany, who moved into their home on Grassmere in Northville Estates in 1958, have sold it this fall and currently are living in an apartment in Howell.

Other Northville Estates residents since the late 1950s who have sold their home on Summerside are Bob and Anita Hallam. They plan to divide their time between an apartment near Twelve Oaks in Novi and San Diego.

Longtime Northville resident and former school board member Eugene Cook and his wife Fay have moved from a condominium in Lexington Commons. After an early fall trip to England they were planning to spend time at their cottage near Jackson before retiring to the Seattle area.

Another former longtime Northville resident, Herman Reinhackel, was in town briefly recently en route from his home in Medford, Oregon, to the East. He had lived in one of the community's oldest houses, a white frame dwelling thought to have been a stagecoach stop, on Cad Street.

He retired from Maybury Sanatorium with 30 years' service.

From Doylestown, Pennsylvania, comes news of the latest move of the Mead Ercoli family. They originally moved from Sunbury in Meadowbrook Estates to Maine.

Marge, who was a receptionist at The Record, writes that they now are living in a new home they had built about 30 miles outside Philadelphia. Noting that they loved the seafood on the coast, Marge adds they have found a good seafood market as well as an Italian market near their home.

Women's club to learn how to preserve the past

Duane Zemper of Zemper Studios in Howell will tell members of Northville Woman's Club how to restore old photographs and how to "keep for posterity" photographs being taken now at the meeting at 1:30 p.m. Friday in First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall. Zemper, who has operated the studio for 35 years and been in the business 40, reports that the Howell studio is the oldest one in continual operation in the United States, having been established in 1858.

Program chairperson of the day Lee Baumann reports that Zemper will illustrate his talk with a slide presentation prepared for the club that will include early scenes of Lake Orion, Boblo and Cedar Point.

understand in the news business that we're a pluralistic society

"We in the news media find ourselves with the impossible task of meeting all these needs."

In reference to criticisms that the news media has overstepped its "watchdog" role by slanting news stories or "only highlighting bad news," Crim said he "could not justify not reporting" crime, tragedies or other "such news stories."

"We're caught in a double bind," he explained. "On the one hand we have a responsibility to warn the public."

However, "when we report those kinds of things we may be inspiring nuts out there.

"It's a very fine line," he said. "Maybe there are times when we are excessive in our zeal to get out the facts."

Crim also told his audience that objectivity — considered the cornerstone of journalistic integrity — is not always possible.

"I don't think anyone can be 100 percent objective all the time," he said. "But you can be fair."

In reference to questions regarding technological advancements in television broadcasting, Crim noted that "cable is providing a tremendous competition for commercial, over-the-air broadcasting."

"Cable is providing more options and opportunities," he said. "It's giving viewers a choice."

To give his audience an idea of how far television technology has come during the last few decades, Crim noted that "in the 1950s, a TV antenna was a form of status."

"Now it means you probably can't afford cable."

During the luncheon following Thursday's lecture, Crim spoke to his audience on a more personal note.

Asked about his good friend and former co-anchor Jessica Savitch, Crim said her death last year was "a tragic loss for journalism."

Crim, who delivered the eulogy at the funeral of the former NBC anchorwoman, said they had remained close for the one who has the money and is now obstructing justice.

THE COMMISAR'S REPORT by Martyn Burke. Stationed in the USA, a country he secretly adores, a Soviet diplomat-spy must concoct brilliant schemes to justify his stay.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL HAVALA

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD STEWART

Couple united in September rites

Tonette Tracy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Tracy of Saginaw, became the bride of Michael Havala, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milan Havala of Northville, in a double ring ceremony September 15 at Second Presbyterian Church of Saginaw.

Maid of honor for the bride was Lisa Pernick of Livonia. Bridesmaids were Ann Schwartz, Ann McCurdy, Cathy Corona, Cathy Cording and the bridegroom's sister-in-law Suzanne Havala.

Stephen Havala of South Carolina served as his brother's best man. Ushers included the bridegroom's brother Paul Havala, the bride's brothers Robert and Thomas Tracy and Rex Roe and Michael McGuire.

A reception for 175 guests was held at the Germania Country Club in Saginaw following the ceremony. Special guests attending included those from Ohio, New Jersey, South Carolina, North Carolina, Minnesota, Florida, Massachusetts and Czechoslovakia.

The couple honeymooned in Hawaii.

The bride is a 1984 Michigan State University graduate and holds a

OLV hosts annual open house

Our Lady of Victory School will conduct its annual open house from 1-2:45 p.m. tomorrow.

The theme of this school year is "Sharing Visions—Teaching Values."

The public is invited to school visitation from 1-2 p.m. and a presentation/social from 2-2:45 p.m. in the social bachelor of science degree.

The bridegroom is a 1978 Northville High School graduate and received his MBA from Michigan State University this year. He currently is employed at Arthur Andersen accounting firm in Minneapolis, Minnesota.

They have made their home in Plymouth, Minnesota.

Our Lady of Victory School is located at 133 Orchard Drive.

Those with questions about the open house or school can call the school office at 349-3610 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Bride wears mother's gown

Stewart-Freel vows exchanged

Christine Freel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Freel of Northville, and Richard Stewart Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stewart of Northville, exchanged marriage vows August 17 at Ward Presbyterian Church of Livonia.

The double ring ceremony was officiated by the Reverend W. Wallace Hostetter. A Scottish bagpiper piped the couple down the aisle at the conclusion of the afternoon ceremony.

The bride wore her mother's satin gown with Chantilly lace overlay and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, gardenias and freesia.

The bride's sister Michele Freel served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids included Carrie Crowe of Brighton and Julie Hubbard of Wixom.

The bride's attendants wore orchid taffeta gowns and carried bouquets of white roses, stephanotis, baby's-breath and freesia.

Flower girl Courtney Dodds of Detroit wore a dress of white handkerchief linen tied at the bodice with an orchid ribbon.

She carried a basket of freesia, baby's-breath and stephanotis.

The bridegroom's brother Mark Stewart of Grand Rapids served as best man. Ushers were the bridegroom's brother Larry Stewart of Northville and Michael Behrens of Northville. Ring bearer was Michael Farrell of Marquette.

A reception for 180 guests was held at the Holiday Inn in Livonia following the ceremony. A wedding trip to Ocracoke, North Carolina, followed.

The couple is residing in Richmond, Virginia, where the bridegroom is employed.

Neil Simon comedy continues at OCC

Neil Simon's comedy, "I Ought To Be in Pictures," is providing an unusual dinner entertainment package at the Wallace F. Smith Performing Arts Theatre on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College.

The play opened Thursday and continues this Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening at 8 p.m.

By offering a dinner option in conjunction with the comedy, the Smith Theatre announces it is "adding a unique quality to its productions."

The college culinary arts department, winner of awards for its program, is preparing the pre-show meal. Due to food ordering requirements, paid reservations must be made with the box office. Dinner will commence at 6:30 p.m. The theatre announced that favorable response has prompted the theatre to repeat the option for all dance, theatre and music events this season. The theatre is located on the campus at I-696 and Orchard Lake Road. The boxoffice number is 471-7700.

Simon's play deals with once successful Hollywood scriptwriter Herb Tucker's confrontation with his distant and almost forgotten past in the person of his teenage daughter Libby.

She has trekked to Hollywood from Brooklyn where Herb had simply up and left his wife, daughter and son 16 years earlier. Now they pick up the pieces of a father-daughter relationship that is a poignant, tender and funny story.

The production is directed by guest director Jeffrey M. Nahan of the Actors Alliance Theatre Company of Southfield. He currently is the Alliance artistic director, and has served in producing or performing capacities for such organizations as the Attic Theatre of Detroit, Detroit Council of the Arts, The Ethnic Arts Center of New York City and the Detroit Repertory Theatre. He is a graduate of Wayne State University.

Bill Sinischo of Pleasant Ridge is in the role of Herb Tucker; Lillian Rosender of West Bloomfield is playing Steffy Bondell; and Arpi Korkkian of Farmington Hills is Libby Tucker.

The Northville Record

Spartans cool off Northville cagers

What Mustang basketball coach Ed Kritch expected to be a close game and possibly a victory turned out to be Northville's most lopsided loss of the season. Dominating from start to finish, Livonia Stevenson walloped the Mustang cagers 45-21 Thursday.

The defeat dropped Northville a game below .500 and eliminated the Mustangs from the race for a Western Lakes conference playoff title.

Kritch called the loss "extremely disappointing."

"It's quite obvious we weren't ready to play," he said. "I have to take a lot of the blame for that. It's my job to make sure we're ready to play, and we just didn't seem to have that competitive edge. We were a little too lackadaisical. We seemed to be one step behind all night."

Stevenson established itself right from the tipoff. On the Spartans' first trip downcourt, they had four offensive rebounds before scoring. After charging to a 13-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, Stevenson never allowed Northville to get closer.

Northville's poor shooting didn't help — the Mustangs hit only two of 26 shots in the first half, and only two Northville players — guards Roxanne Serkaian and Kathy Korowin — scored four points in the contest.

"We shot ourselves right out of the game," Kritch said. "They sagged in close and let us shoot from outside and we hit nothing. We sank only one shot outside 10 feet the whole game."

"It happens that one or two players have an off night, but it's rare that all seven of your best players have a bad night," Kritch said.

"I can't take anything away from Stevenson, though," he added. "Their press was very effective and when we're not hitting it just makes things worse."

Northville's second unit provided the game's only bright spot. Julie Anger, Chris McGowan, Mary Howley, Julie

'We seemed to be one step behind all night.'

— Ed Kritch

Hinds and Anne Griffith all came off the bench and did "a nice job," according to Kritch.

The Spartans' forward line did most of the scoring damage. Senior forward Lisa Bokovoy led Stevenson with 19 points and center Joan Fryinger added 14.

Two obstacles to a .500 season record remain for the 7-8 Mustangs. The first should present few problems. At 7:30 p.m. Friday, Northville will host division rival Farmington Harrison in a WLA playoff consolation game.

The Mustangs have already thrashed the winless Hawks twice this season. But they will have to shift gears for Tuesday's season finale Tuesday against 14-3 Novi, one of the strongest Kensington Valley Conference teams.

The Wildcats will bring a solid one-two punch to the Mustang court in forward Sue Rasinske, averaging 25 points per game, and Sherry Lawton. How they match up against Northville's more evenly-balanced squad will be the key to the game.

Northville will begin play the following week in the Class A district playoffs at Westland John Glenn. Joining Northville and John Glenn in the district field are Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem and Livonia Churchill. Pairings for the tourney will be announced this week.

Novi, Canton trip tank team

It may have been Senior Night last Thursday, but it was also Plymouth Canton's night. The Chief tankers soaked Northville 52-31 in the Mustangs' final home meet of the season.

Except for one swimmer, the Mustangs will wrap up their season this week with the Western Lakes Activities Association Conference meet at Plymouth Salem. Preliminaries will be held today, with finals beginning at 7 p.m. Friday.

Only Shari Thompson; Kim Brining and Erika Nelson managed to crack Canton's string of firsts Thursday. Thompson fired off a 2:03.42 to take the 200 freestyle. Brining captured first in the 500 free in 6:32.57, and Nelson won the breast stroke in 1:18.12.

Both of Northville's relay teams took seconds. In the 200 medley relay, Jill Roth, Nelson, Brining and Dawn Biondi teamed up to finish in 2:13.84. Thompson, Karen Petersen, Dee LaChance and Sue VanderBok turned in a 4:15.48 in the 400 freestyle relay. Thompson added a second in the 100 butterfly, and Nelson picked up a second in individual medley, with a time of 2:35.87.

Jerod Swallow skates through Iron Curtain

By B.J. MARTIN

When Jerod Swallow laces up his skates next week, he'll be preparing to glide on the thin ice of the Cold War.

Years of painstaking practice and a tremendous performance at the U.S. Figure Skating Association Junior Nationals last February have earned the 18-year-old Northville skating sensation a round trip to Czechoslovakia for the prestigious Grand Prize "NU" (Slovak National Uprising) Junior International Skating Championships.

Swallow and Livonia's Jodie Balogh, 15, will represent the United States in Junior Dance at the three-day competition, which begins Thursday, November 22 in the town of Banska Bystrica in east Czechoslovakia.

Balogh and Swallow caught the eyes of the United States Figure Skating Association selection committee when they placed fifth at the U.S. National Juniors competition in February. It was at that competition Swallow raised eyebrows by becoming the first skater to place in both ice pairs and ice dance with a different partner in each event.

"I think the pairs steps have helped my dance abilities and vice-versa," he explains.

In June the committee formally invited Swallow and Balogh to join skaters and coaches from New Jersey, California and Colorado on the six-member U.S. Junior team.

"I've been waiting for this a long time," says Swallow, a senior at Northville High School. "I've been kind of anticipating what it's going to be like going to a Communist bloc country. I hear the people there treat visitors warmly."

Swallow is expecting the iron curtain won't bar some friendly bartering of cultural mementos during his visit. "We're allowed to swap things," he says. "I'd like to get a hold of some Russian stuff, like warmups, or trade flags and t-shirts."

Accompanying Swallow and teammates will be Jerod's parents, John and Gay Anne Swallow, who bought each other the trip overseas for their recent 25th wedding anniversary.

The entourage will depart from the U.S. on Sunday and land in Copenhagen. From there, they will fly to Vienna for a day of sightseeing. Then the U.S. team will travel by bus northeast to Czechoslovakia with the Italian team.

After the competition, which will keep them in Czechoslovakia through November 26, the group will stop again in Copenhagen and arrive home November 27.

"It's going to be a handled a lot like the Olympics are," Swallow says. "We're going to be traveling in matching uniforms, blazers with USA patches, and that ... It's all paid for by the U.S. Figure Skating Association."

If it all sounds like a dream come true, consider that Swallow and Balogh have paid their dues for that dream as ice dance partners for more than three years.

"This year, we've practiced two, three hours a day seven days a week. Before that, we practiced six days a week."

Following his return home, Swallow, Balogh and Swallow's ice pairs partner, Shelley Propson of Rochester, will compete next month at the Junior World Championships in Boulder, Colorado.

It will be the first time the competition has ever been held in the U.S., and it will be the first time a skater has teamed with different partners for pairs and dance competition in junior international competition.

Jodie Balogh and Jerod Swallow — the dues pay off

Cosmos unbeaten

The Cosmos, Northville's entry in the Bonanza Premier Soccer League's Under-13 division, ended their perfect season with a 3-0 victory over the Canton Streakers.

Averaging nearly six goals and allowing only one goal per match, the Cosmos defeated teams from Midland, Troy, Plymouth, Farmington, the Lakes area and Orion-Oxford.

Mackle, May and Guldberg named to All-League team

Six Northville varsity soccer players were honored by Western Lakes Soccer League coaches last week by being selected to All-Conference, All-Western Division and Honorable Mention teams.

Northville had three first-team All-Conference selections: forward Joe Mackle, midfielder Doug May and defender Bob Guldberg. All three are seniors and were tri-captains of the 1984 Mustang squad.

Mackle led Northville in scoring with 15 of the team's 49 goals. "Joe helped make it happen for us even when he wasn't directly involved in the play," Northville Coach Marvin Gans pointed out. "He's a really hard-working, hustling kind of player. He always put out 100 percent."

May scored seven goals and played a critical role in giving Northville smooth transitions between defense and offense. "He gave us a lot of leadership. We were fairly inexperienced at mid-field this season, and Doug gave us a lot of stability out there," said Gans.

Guldberg also played a stabilizing role on the Northville team, Gans noted. "He anchored our defensive line. Bob has a very good head for the ball. He's very quick in reacting to any situation. He's got an ideal temperament for the game — he plays hard, but he's always under control."

Only league champion Livonia Stevenson, undefeated throughout the regular season, had as many players named to the All-Conference team as Northville.

Named to the All-Western Division team was junior midfielder Matt Peltz. Northville's somersault throw-in specialist. "His throw-ins gave us a scoring threat every time we were within 30 yards of the goal," said Gans. Peltz was a scoring threat with his head and feet, too, scoring seven goals for the Mustangs this season.

Sophomore Dan Magdich and senior Scott Greiner, both defenders, were awarded Honorable Mention status. "Competition for defensive honors was really strong," Gans pointed out. "It seems like every team had one or two really outstanding defensive players."

Also named to the All-Conference soccer team were:

Goalkeeper — Sam Matovski, Livonia Churchill
Fullbacks — Steve Karlis, Livonia Stevenson, Rob O'Patry, Canton, Mike Nardelli, Churchill, BOB GULDBERG, NORTHVILLE. Halfbacks — Dennis Patchelt, Livonia Bentley, Chris Gembis, Stevenson; DOUG MAY, NORTHVILLE. Forwards — John Gelmer, Stevenson, Steve Morell, Plymouth Canton; JOE MACKLE, NORTHVILLE.

— Bill Carroll, Livonia Franklin, Dave Gluth, Churchill, Pat McGow, Canton. Halfbacks — Brett Murphy, Churchill, Brad Neville, Canton. MATT PELTZ, NORTHVILLE. Forwards — Bryan Whiteley, Tim Mueller, Canton, Scott Zarembski, Churchill; Gerry McWilliams, Franklin

Honorable Mention selections were:

DAN MAGDICH, SCOTT GREINER, NORTHVILLE; Steve Michaelan, Ray Galasso, Churchill; Bob Nueman, Randy Lotero, Franklin, John Sorek, L. T. Quarles, Farmington Harrison

Swimmers lose to Wildcats, Chiefs

Third place times were Renee Wisely's 2:37.10 in the 200 free; Brining's 2:45.55 in individual medley; Petersen's 29.38 in the 50 free and her 1:05.21 in the 100 free; Kris Valade's 6:53.66 in the 500 free; Kim Valade's 1:22.81 in backstroke and Biondi's 1:20.88 in breast stroke.

Northville's second 400 relay team took third place with Tracy Eschbach, Joelle Stevens, Kim Brining and Wisely clocking a 4:47.7.

Northville senior Co-captain Sue VanderBok and classmates Dawn Biondi and Karen Brining were presented flowers at Thursday's meet, their last at Northville. "They all contributed a great deal to our team," said Mustang swim coach Bill Dicks.

On the previous Tuesday, much-improved Novi handed the Mustangs a surprisingly easy 48-35 loss — the first time the Wildcats have ever beaten the Mustang tankers.

Thompson and Nelson picked up the only individual firsts against Novi. Thompson won the 100 free in 57.38 and the 200 free in 2:05.59. Nelson took first in the 500 free, swimming a 6:09.10.

Northville's medley relay team (Stephanie Warren, Nelson, Thompson, Biondi) staked the Mustangs to a short-lived lead with a first-place time of 2:09.87.

Taking seconds against the Wildcats were Nelson in 200 I.M. (2:33.93); Peterson in 50 free (29.58); Warren in backstroke (1:14.44); Biondi in breast stroke (1:20.20) and the 400 free relay (Peterson, VanderBok, Kris Valade, LaChance, 4:26.27).

Registering thirds were Warren in I.M. (2:41.59); Karen Brining in diving (130.95); Kim Wilds in butterfly (1:14.35); VanderBok in 100 free (1:05.14); Renee Wisely in breast stroke (1:29.77); and the 400 freestyle relay team (Jill Roth, Eschbach, Wilds, Brining, 4:42.41).

Harriers honor Panowicz, Naszradi

Seniors Cindy Panowicz and Rich Naszradi, co-captains of Northville's women's and men's cross-country teams, were named most valuable athletes for their respective squads at the cross-country banquet last week.

Panowicz, an all-state medalist in 1983, capped an outstanding cross-country career this season with an individual championship at the Schoolcraft Invitational and selection to the All-Western Lakes cross-country team. She has also been an all-state medalist, and a medalist two years running at the West Bloomfield Invitational and the Walled Lake Western Invitational. Panowicz was also named team MVP as a junior.

Naszradi twice was a medalist at the Walled Lake Western Invitational. A three-year varsity runner, Naszradi was also selected the men's team's "outstanding senior."

Junior Pam Cavanaugh was selected the women's team's "Most Improved Athlete," becoming an All-Region medalist in her first year of varsity competition. Classmate Wendy Nuechterlein, 1984 co-captain, was given the team's GUTS award for her struggle to overcome a knee injury.

Nuechterlein and Sue Blanchard, also a junior, will co-captain the 1985 women's team.

John Kissinger, a freshman, earned the men's team's "Most Improved Athlete" award, setting a school freshman course record at Cass Benton. Junior Matt Winquist, who earned the most improved honor in 1983, will co-captain the 1985 men's team with Kevin Legel.

It was a great week for upsets. And a bad week for entrants in the Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News football contest.

Despite the rash of upsets, three entrants missed just two games, and the tiebreaker again had to be invoked to determine the prize winners.

The tiebreaker was insufficient to break up a tie for first place between Jill Bartling of Northville and Carmon White of Westland, who will split first and second place money of $10 and $5, or, $7.50 apiece.

Bartling and White both guessed that Washington and Southern Cal would run up a total of 38 points, 15 off the actual total of 23 in the Trojans' 16-7 triumph.

Third prize of $3 goes to Robert F. Smith of Northville, who also missed just two games but whose guess of 46 points in the tiebreaker was 23 off the actual total.

Even at attention, the Mustang cheerleaders got the judges atention Saturday . . .

Cheerleaders best in league — again!

By B.J. MARTIN

The noise in the Plymouth Salem gym Saturday could have drowned out an indoor demolition derby.

But when all the yells, hand clapping and foot stomping finally quieted down, Northville's cheerleading teams were on their way home with their fourth straight Western Lakes Activities Association championship.

Salem played host to cheerleading and pom-pom squads from the WLAA

Saturday, and Northville took home first in varsity cheerleading and first in JV cheerleading for the overall crown. The Northville pom-pom squad took third overall, boosted by a second-place showing in "Prop Routine."

The varsity took first place ribbons in "skill" and "floor" cheers and second in "hello" cheer. The JV placed first in "hello" and "floor" cheer and second in "skill" cheer.

That combination gave Northville the prestigious overall champion trophy for the fourth straight year.

The champion varsity cheerleaders are: Kim McCrae, Michele Craig, Sandi Stephens, Lisa Dye, Lisa Lutz, Lynn Bills, Sally Klenk, Lori Osborne, Robin Strunk, Susie Rahimi, Mina Rahimi and Kristin VanderBok.

The JV cheerleaders are: Annemarie Sadowski, Amy Spaman, Stephanie Pappas, Karen Stinson, Terri Forte, Denise Akroush, Heather Cross, Beth Parkinson, Kathy Kennedy and Robin Wisely.

The varsity pom-pom squad, which performed a twin mask synchronized dance to rock band Foreigner's "Double Vision," for its "prop" routine, includes: Tracy Kohl, Patty Bargert, Cindi DeHoff, Claire Langran, Lori Miller, Sanra Horstkotte, Alicia Hickman, Maren Rosmorduc, Sandee Schaal, Chris Stassinis, Jill Taschner and Kathy Whelan.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Grapefruit 'Super Pill' Gives Fast Weight Loss

No Dieting - Eat All You Want Pill Does All the Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA. (Special)—An amazing new "super" grapefruit pill has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose at least 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

This "super" grapefruit pill is a dramatically improved version of the world famous grapefruit diet. It is far more effective than the original and eliminates "the mess, fuss, and high cost of eating half a fresh grapefruit at every meal."

"Pill Does All the Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise, and NO hunger pangs." It is 100% safe. You simply take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients are so effective they take over and you start losing weight immediately.

Pill Has ALL Daily Vitamins

The powerful and unique combination of ingredients are what make this a "super-pill". It contains highly potent grapefruit concentrate and a diuretic to help eliminate bloat and puffiness. No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy. The pill is fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government daily vitamin requirements.

Contains Japanese 'Glucomannan'

Each pill also contains an amazingly effective amount of "glucomannan", the remarkable natural dietary fiber discovery from Japan (used successfully for over 1500 years) that expands in your stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long.

The super-pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Now Available to Public

You can order your supply of these highly successful "super" grapefruit pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail order only) by sending $12 for a 14-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check, or money order to: Citrus Industries, 9903 Santa Monica Bl., Dept. W24, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard, and Amer. Express OK. (Send card number, expiration date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call toll free 1-(800)-862-6262, ext. W24.

The only car telephone backed by the company with real telephone company experience.

Now just $49.99 a month.

Dozens of Detroit companies can put a cellular phone in your car.

But only one of them provides the know-how that actually makes the service work.

Ameritech Mobile Communications.

So when other companies tell you how they provide a complete package from start to finish, ask them to be a bit more specific.

Ask them if every car telephone they offer carries the Bell symbol of quality.

Ask them if their installation and service people are trained to meet the standards set by Ameritech, the company that actually built the system—and if not, who trained them.

Ask if they've made arrangements with other cellular telephone companies in other cities, so that you can use your new car phone in other places besides Detroit.

Then ask them if they can even match Ameritech's low lease price of just $49.99 a month.*

Once you know all the answers, we predict you'll have just one more question: How do I get in touch with an Ameritech Authorized Agent?

And that's exactly why we've included this coupon.
