Trustees back seat belt law with 6-1 vote

By KEVIN WILSON

Prompted by a fatal auto accident on Six Mile Road in September, the township board of trustees last week went on record in favor of state legislation requiring the use of seatbelts.

The board of trustees voted 6-1 in favor of a resolution urging drivers to use seatbelts. The resolution, which does not specifically address the current legislation being considered in Lansing, was to be mailed to State Representative Gerald Law, Senator Robert Geake and all neighboring communities.

Township clerk Susan Heintz described the resolution as one supporting mandatory seatbelt laws and said it did not include specific reference to the state proposal only because it was drafted before any specifics were available. Heintz was sworn in as the new township supervisor Tuesday night.

She said she had also consulted the township attorney about drafting a local ordinance requiring use of seatbelts, but that she and the attorney made a joint decision not to pursue a local law because state action appears imminent.

The state house insurance committee recently approved a mandatory seatbelt law to be considered by the full house of representatives prior to the Christmas break. The state senate earlier passed such a law.

State representative Law, a member of the insurance committee, said the house version deletes a senate clause requiring a referendum vote and makes other amendments bringing the law into compliance with federal requirements.

The federal department of transportation wants states with two-thirds of the U.S. population to pass mandatory seatbelt use laws. If sufficient states do not pass such laws, airbags and other passive restraints would be required in automobiles.

The township resolution, proposed by trustee James Nowka in October, states that "the township board of trustees believes that the most efficient means of preventing deaths and injuries of... drivers and passengers of motor vehicles is the utilization of seatbelts or other passive restraint systems."

It further urges all drivers and passengers of vehicles operated on the streets of the township to wear properly functioning seat belts.

Nowka said he requested the resolution after reading of the September 29 death of 14-year-old Jennifer Jakobic.

State seeks study of DeHoCo issue

By KEVIN WILSON

Rumors that Detroit and the state corrections department were contemplating a deal to sell the city's Detroit House of Corrections facility for use as a state prison finally saw the light of day last week in Lansing, and two Northville-area legislators promptly pulled the curtains.

"Finally, the City of Detroit got around to writing a letter to the corrections people suggesting that the state buy DeHoCo," said 36th District representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth). DeHoCo is south of Five Mile between Ridge and Napier roads in Plymouth Township. Law's district includes both Plymouth and Northville.

The Detroit letter prompted the corrections department to go to the legislature's joint capital outlay committee, seeking $25,000 to evaluate the potential of turning DeHoCo into a state prison.

But both Law and 6th District state senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) sit on that committee. And they weren't buying any studies — not yet anyway.

"Essentially, they can't do anything without the joint capital outlay committee," Geake said. "We told them we weren't funding anything about DeHoCo until we started getting some cooperation from Detroit."

DeHoCo is slated to close soon, when Wayne County moves its prisoners into a new downtown jail. According to the state corrections department's long-term siting plan, at least two and possibly three regional prisons of the sort being constructed at Five Mile and Beck roads are supposed to be located

Lotto sales boom seen

By JEAN DAY

Last Saturday it seemed that almost everybody had a dream — and hoped to make it come true with a winning Lotto ticket for $10 million.

As elsewhere around the state, business at the two city outlets selling Lotto tickets was booming, especially during the last half hour before the Michigan State Lottery closed about 7 p.m. before the $10 million drawing.

Jim Roth, owner of Good Time Party Store at 567 Seven Mile, reported that customers were waiting to play their combinations of six numbers when he opened Saturday morning.

The success of the new state lottery game isn't a surprise to him — "Almost everyone has had an Irish sweepstakes ticket, and this is the same idea."

Roth noted that, while Lotto sales had been brisk all week, there was no question about it, Saturday was a record day.

Carol Hanson, owner of Northville Party Shoppe at 680 West Eight Mile with her sister Chris, related that the last half hour before the game shut down Saturday was hectic at their store with congestion both in the store and in their parking lot.

Retirement ahead for Bill Craft

By MICHELE M. FECHT

After nearly 17 years as principal of Northville's oldest elementary school, Bill Craft will leave his corner office at Center and Eight Mile sometime in January to pursue other interests.

His pending retirement as head of Amerman Elementary comes during a time of considerable flux for the Northville school district.

However, the longtime educator contends his retirement has less to do with changes in the district than with his own desire to move on.

At 65, Craft says he has "miles to go before I sleep," to quote poet Robert Frost.

"I still have a lot of energy and I've got good health," he notes. "I've thought about retiring for a long time."

Craft says that while he doesn't "have anything tied down" in terms of job prospects, he's hoping to "find something people oriented."

"I'm sure I'll be hanging around college campuses," he says. "I just like that atmosphere."

"In fact, I'm old enough to take classes for free."

However, he notes that "what I'd really like to be is a principal of an American school in Europe."

"They have them in all the large cities all over the world, although I'd like Western Europe."

Craft, who took his first trip to Europe two summers ago with his wife Lois, says he is anxious to return — if not as an educator, at least as a traveler.

"I'm sure we'll do some traveling," he says. "Lois and I both really love that."

His 17-year tenure with Northville Public Schools began in June 1968 when he was hired by then-Superintendent Ray Spear to take over the helm at Amerman.

Formerly assistant principal at Vetal Elementary School in Detroit, Craft was with the Detroit Public Schools for 18 years as both a teacher and administrator before coming to Northville.

He notes that in his 35 years as an educator he has always directed students at the elementary level.

"The thing I'll really miss is the kids," he says in regard to his leaving the district. "Particularly the little ones."

"It's the youngest ones that really give you the strokes," he says with a smile. "Their feelings are right out there."

"What I would really like is to have a kindergarten through third grade school."

In his 17 years with the Northville school district, Craft has worked with three different superintendents and administrators.

He notes that he has been fortunate to work with many talented people during his tenure. In addition to Ray Spear, who hired the longtime principal, Craft points out that he has "great respect for four women" who influenced his career.

City targets dead automobiles

By KEVIN WILSON

Some people probably regard them as collectors' items. Others surely think of them as assets waiting to be turned into cash. A few may even have sentimental attachments to them.

But neighbors call them junk cars and eyesores. They're called "inoperable vehicles" in legal parlance, and city council recently revised an ordinance to insure that they either become operable or vanish within 90 days after the owner is notified.

The revised law closes a loophole in the former city ordinance, in effect since 1970, that hampered enforcement, city manager Steven Walters said.

"Our old ordinance called them 'inoperable and unlicensed vehicles,'" he explained. "We were running into cases where a car was inoperable, but licensed. Or it was unlicensed, but operable. If people weren't responsive when we requested that they be removed, it was difficult to prosecute."

No more. The new revisions call for owners of vehicles that are either inoperable or unlicensed to apply for a permit at a cost of $5. The permit application requires vehicle identification, the address at which the vehicle is to be stored, and an estimated length of time it will be stored inoperable — up to a maximum of 60 days.

The revisions are aimed at private owners of vehicles — the law specifically exempts commercial facilities engaged in repair and maintenance of automobiles.

The law requires that such privately-stored vehicles be parked only in the rear yard or in an enclosed garage, that they create no nuisance or hazard, that trunks or storage compartments be kept locked to prevent children becoming trapped inside, and several other items regarding care and maintenance of the vehicle.

The city police chief can revoke a permit if he spots a violation of the legal provisions, and the vehicle must be removed within 10 days of such notice. Violation of the storage provisions, or failure to obtain a permit after the vehicle has been out of commission 96 hours, can result in the city confiscating the vehicle on 30 days' notice. Together with the 60-day maximum

'It essentially forces them to face up to whether they're going to repair it or not.'

— Steve Walters

permit length, this provision puts a theoretical limit of 90 days that an inoperable vehicle can stay on private property.

If the vehicle is confiscated, the owner is responsible for costs of removing the vehicle and storing it. If the owner fails to pay the cost or recover the vehicle, the city can sell it to recover costs.

To add a few more teeth, the law also calls conviction of a violation of the ordinance a misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail, a fine of up to $500 or both.

Walters noted that the legal terminology of the ordinance defines "operable" in such a way that it refers to state requirements for vehicles that can be legally driven on the public roadways. In theory, that means as little as a broken taillight can render a vehicle "inoperable." In practice, it gives police leeway in enforcing the ordinance should someone attempt to bypass its provisions by proving that a vehicle can move under its own power and having it licensed.

Walters said the legal provision of a 60-day maximum permit length will give owners of inoperable cars and trucks time to make repairs or obtain licenses. "It essentially forces them to face up to whether they're going to repair it or not," Walters said. "People tend to keep these things, intending to get them moving again someday but never quite getting around to it."

Enforcement of the law, he suggested, would result when such vehicles were obvious to police or city officials or a complaint was made. The owner of a car or truck meeting the definition of "inoperable" or "partially dismantled" who kept the vehicle hidden in a clean garage might never be called to the attention of authorities.

Bill Craft announces retirement

Craft relates that when he began his career in education his original intent was to become a coach.

"I was a pretty fair athlete," he says. "I liked the sound of Coach Craft."

However, he notes that his first teaching assignment was homeroom, physical education and first grade literature.

He says he found his niche at the elementary level "once I had the experience of working with little kids.

"I've never had a desire to go to a secondary school," he adds.

Craft lists Northville's ESY program as among the highlights of his long career. The Extended School Year program began at Amerman Elementary in the early 1970s and eventually spread to all seven Northville school buildings.

In 1977, the board of education — faced with the inefficiencies of running two school calendars and a declining ESY enrollment — voted to place all students back on a Traditional School Year (TSY) calendar.

Craft notes that while the program was shortlived, "we had it long enough to prove its value."

He also says he's proud of two traditions at the elementary school — Russell Amerman Day and the annual ice cream social.

With his career in education here coming to a close, Craft says he leaves with no regrets — only fond memories.

"I like to think maybe I made a contribution," he reflects.

in an accident on Six Mile west of Hagerty, less than one-half mile from township hall.

Police said Jakobcic was not wearing any type of restraint when the accident occurred.

"I just think it's time we went on record in support of something like this," Nowka said. "You can't guarantee that any individual would have survived a crash had he or she been wearing belts, but the statistics show the chances (of survival) are a lot better with belts."

He said after the meeting that he would have welcomed a local ordinance "only because it would heighten awareness and at least township people would be more likely to use belts. If the state's going to take action, though, it would be pretty much meaningless for us to do something."

Trustee Richard Allen supported Nowka's motion and added a request that the board's opinion on the issue be forwarded to all township employees.

The vote on the motion was 6-1, with only trustee Donald Williams in opposition. Williams said after the meeting that he thought a mandatory seatbelt law would be an unwarranted intrusion on individual rights. "I don't mind the seatbelt itself, it's the (shoulder) harness I can't stand," he said. "I'm in favor of the airbag, actually."

Holiday decor draws visitors downtown

The annual Christmas Walk through downtown last Sunday afternoon drew crowds and also rang up record sales, according to pleased local merchants.

Almost all downtown shops were open, decorated for the holidays and filled with Christmas merchandise. Windows, too, were decorated and judged in the window decorating contest sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce which also sponsors the walk.

"It was a super day — we were extremely pleased. I thought it was a record for crowds and certainly sales," summed up G. Dewey Gardner who headed arrangements for the chamber.

Genitti's Hole in the Wall restaurant received the top award, the Chamber President's Trophy, for its window decorating. Under an old fashioned, decorated tree in one corner is an assortment of dolls, teddy bears and other toys.

visor Susan Heintz, city manager Steve Walters and chamber president Sherry Spaman.

Winner of the top award is retired from competition for the three following years. Last year IV Seasons won the trophy; therefore, the window for Christmas 1984 filled with black-face sheep and other toys was not eligible for judging.

Judging is in various categories and is based on such criteria as appropriateness to merchandise of the business.

Winners in individual categories Sunday were:

- Clothing and shoes, First, Marquis; Second, Lapham's.
- Gifts, flowers and antiques, First, Sandie's Hallmark; Second, Wooden Shovel Antiques; honorable mention, Williamsburg Inspirations.
- Services, First, Judy's Country Curtains; Second, Crawford's.
- Professional, First, Carl Johnson Real Estate; Second, Bowden Insurance.
- General, First, Anne's Fabrics; Second, Bookstall on the Main; honorable mention, Little People's Shoppe, Long's Fancy Bath Boutique and Orin Jewelers.

The gingerbread town in the Little People's window is a re-creation of Northville's Main Street, complete with the Presbyterian Church, stores and the town clock. It is the work of Janice Lee Stone.

An attraction that drew crowds throughout the afternoon was wood-burning artist Tim Flanagan in the window of Sweets 'N' Treats on Center.

"We were packed — it was incredible," reported manager Lisa Howe, relating that Flanagan had been seen by many as he did his woodburning on the program, "That's Incredible!"

He has since moved from Phoenix to this area, Howe said, and is working on commissions. Sunday afternoon he sketched and created a woodburning picture of his parents.

Township transition smooth

By KEVIN WILSON

This is about what is known in political circles as a "friendly transition."

As of yesterday, when he handed the reins to Susan Heintz, John E. MacDonald was no longer supervisor of Northville Township. Heintz was the candidate MacDonald hoped would succeed him when he decided to run for 35th District Court judge rather than seek a second term as supervisor.

She ran unopposed in both the primary and general elections. MacDonald has had nothing but fine things to say about her.

So it should surprise no one that when MacDonald had one last shot to exert his influence over the township, he passed it by. As a "lame duck" supervisor last week, MacDonald could have made a total of 12 appointments to township boards and commissions, insuring that his favorites would be in positions of authority for anywhere from two to six years.

Such last-minute maneuvers are commonplace when elected officials are replaced by their opponents, and even occur frequently when a lame duck politician has a few favors to repay after winning election to a higher office.

But MacDonald left it to Heintz to make most of those appointments. He recommended only that the trustees appoint Leon Price to the Senior Citizen Advisory Council.

Library Friends hold used book sale next Wednesday

Maybe not current bestsellers, but bargains and collectable or rare editions will go on sale at the Northville Public Library next Wednesday.

Both paperbacks and hard cover books will be in the used book sale sponsored by the Friends of the Northville Library from 10 a.m. until the library closes at 9 p.m.

Friends' president Sue Fostey reports that volunteers from the

Around the World" by Frances and Harriet Clark. Published in 1894, the book contains appealing pen and ink drawings.

Fostey adds that browsers also will discover books in the Hardy Boy series as well as the "Rosary Murders" by William Kienzle.

The sale, she suggests, is a good place to pick up a bargain dictionary. It also includes children's and adult records and tapes. Among the tapes is "Barbie Goes to the City."

The used book sale under the chairmanship of Claudene Kinnaird is one of three planned inside the library during the coming months. It supplements the summer sale the Friends hold during the annual sidewalk sale downtown.

The books in the sales are donated by residents and sorted by the Friends in the room where they are stored behind the police department in the city hall building.

As next week's sale is announced, Fostey reports that the task of sorting donations has been made easier by the installation of shelves in the room. Her husband Jim and Richard Allen installed them, Fostey explains, and volunteers in the Friends have taken the books out of cartons on the floor and sorted them by category on the shelves.

"You wouldn't recognize the room now," Fostey says, explaining that previously only three or four persons were able to move around the crowded quarters.

She mentions that two volunteers are needed to sort the books on a monthly basis.

The Friends' membership has been growing, Fostey adds, and now is the largest since its inception with 60 member families. New members are welcome, she says. The cost is $5 for either an individual or a family membership. She may be contacted about the Friends at 348-7982.

While the sidewalk used book sale is the most profitable, Fostey and the Friends hope to increase sales at the in-library ones. Last summer's sidewalk sale yielded $623.75.

An ongoing sale in the library is a used paperback corner where Friends sells paperbacks donated by the community for 25 cents. Friends report a profit of $926.82 from August 1983 to September 1984 — for an average income of approximately $71 a month.

Fostey says that Friends' secretary Edie Dunbar will present proposed bylaws for the Friends to be discussed at the quarterly meeting at 1 p.m. December 12 in city council chambers. The meeting will include a holiday cookie exchange.

Other fundraising projects of the Friends have been a successful dinner at Genitti's — both John and Toni are Friends — which raised $972 and a fashion show, "A Day in the Life of a Victorian Lady," at the Marquis. Val Cook is planning a similar event next April to be called "Heroes and Heroines in Literature."

What do the Friends do with the funds raised?

"The money goes to whatever the librarians think necessary," responds Sue Fostey, noting that children's projects have been funded as well as a videocassette collection purchased. For the future, she says, "a computer for patrons would be a valuable addition."

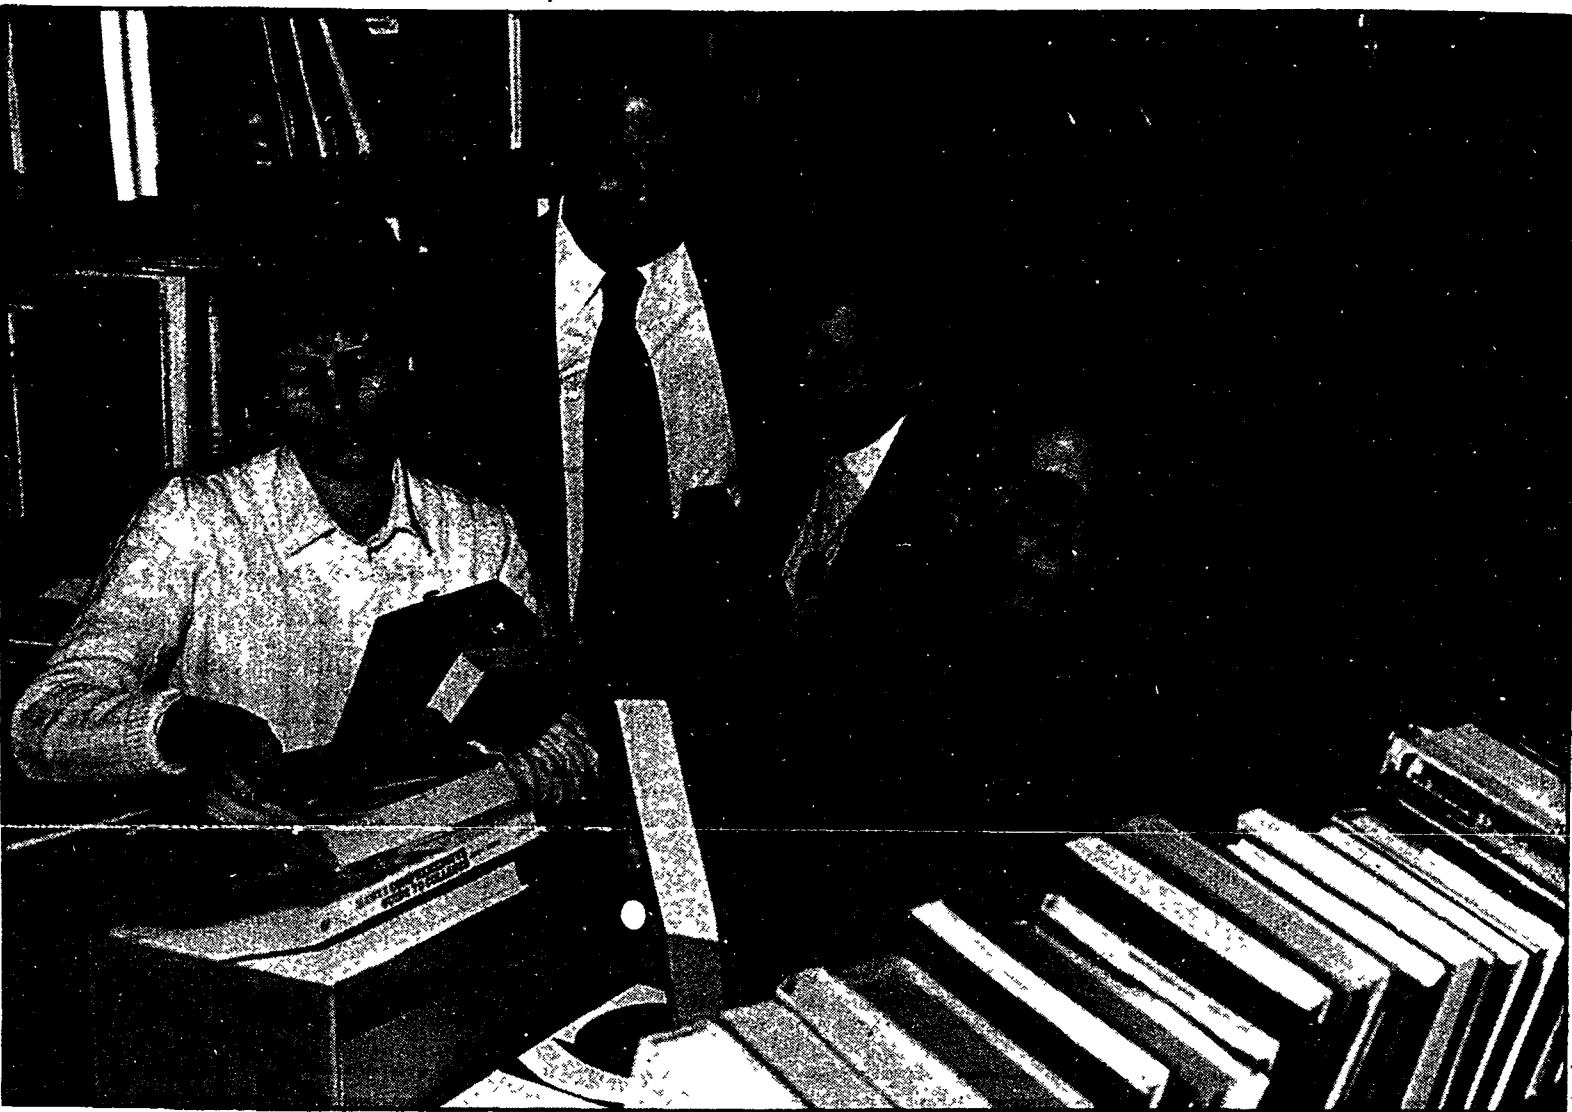

Fiction abounds at sale

Friends will be assisting with the sale of hard cover books at 50 cents each, paperbacks at 25 cents and children's books at 5, 10 and 25 cents.

The Friends also have received some donations of older books dating from 1872. Books of the 1872-1932 vintage will be on display with would-be buyers invited to "make an offer."

Included in this collection, Fostey cites as an example, is "Our Journey

Costly gem: Beck Road park priced at $1.68 million

By KEVIN WILSON

It is said there is nothing more expensive than a free dog. Northville Township may have found the exception that proves the rule — almost free land can be far more expensive than any free dog.

When township voters okayed the expenditure of $1 to acquire land near the new prison under construction on Beck Road, few likely expected a proposal for a $1.68 million park.

"We wanted a first-class park, and I think that's what we're looking at," said newly-elected township supervisor Susan Heintz last week, gasping at the bottom line with the rest of the township board as it reviewed the proposed plan. The proposal was prepared under a federal grant by John Grissim and Associates, landscape architects and site planners based in Farmington Hills.

It's a beauty all right. It includes a community building 75 feet square, a concession building with restrooms, picnic shelter, tot lot, a one-mile exercise course with 15 stations, two tennis courts with a practice wall, platform tennis facilities, lighted adult softball, junior baseball and soccer fields, paved and lighted parking for 204 cars, an outdoor ice skating area, a children's sledding hill.

Add drinking fountains, paved roadways, attractive plantings, fencing and all the ancillaries and the proposal represents 38 acres of what would be the best-developed recreational area in Northville.

Part of the cost is in fencing and planting to provide visual distance between the park and the adjacent Phoenix Correctional Facility. Grissim said he found the site of the prison "imposing, particularly when viewed from one area designated for the park's first soccer field."

"You can really feel uncomfortable down in that area," Grissim said, explaining the estimated $50,000 worth of planting to be done along the boundary between park and prison.

Trustees noted, however, that one concern of prison officials when making the land available to the township was that no heavy planting be done near the 16-foot Phoenix perimeter fence. State corrections officials said at the time that plantings that could conceal prisoners escaping from the facility would not be acceptable.

John MacDonald, in his last meeting as supervisor, said he thought some compromise might be reached with corrections officials that would allow sufficient plantings to screen the view without compromising the security of the prison.

"It may be imposing the first few times we used it," MacDonald added, "but after a while I think people would just get used to it being there."

Planned in conjunction with the joint community recreation commission and director, the park proposal was expected to run into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. But the $1.68 million estimate obviously left most township officials a bit taken aback.

"It's obvious we're not going to be able to pay for this out of the township general fund," said township manager David Lelko. "That's just about our entire budget for a full year."

Recreation commissioner Jef Farland is examining possible state or federal grants for the development of recreation areas. Heintz and Lelko are also studying the possibility of using the township's block grant funds to assist development, though Heintz noted that such funds are becoming scarcer.

Heintz said it likely the park development would be undertaken in phases over a period of years. Some elements, such as the sorely-needed playing fields, according to Grissim's estimates, could likely be built for about $400,000. Delaying construction of the community building alone would cut $337,000 from the estimate.

Over the longer term, phased development would likely increase total costs for the park. If sufficient grant funding to accomplish the development as one mass project were available, the township and joint city-township recreation department would likely take that option.

DeHoCo site study killed in outlay committee within Detroit city limits.

"We're having trouble with Detroit, they don't want to identify any prison sites in their city," Law said. "We told them, basically, that until Detroit starts putting up sites, we're not interested in what they do with DeHoCo."

Law suggested that there are other communities outstate that have expressed interest in having prisons situated there. "They want the jobs and the economic development that goes with them," Law said. "If Detroit doesn't want them, fine. If people from the city of Detroit have to travel hundreds of miles to visit or go to prison, that's not our problem. "Western Wayne County has done its share," he continued. "We don't want anymore prisons. We don't need the jobs, they're not the kind of jobs people living in our area are even going to apply for and they're not going to bring in any population for us."

He noted that the former women's division of DeHoCo has already been converted into the state's Phoenix Correctional facility and the new regional prison is under construction next to it. Both are key elements of the state's prison housing plan for the foreseeable future.

The joint capital outlay committee voted to forestall any decision on studies of DeHoCo, requesting a study "of the entire prison sitting issue" before proceeding, Law said.

Geake said he understands the Detroit area representatives may seek another meeting of the committee prior to Christmas, but in his opinion such a meeting won't take place.

"The committee was pretty unanimous in wanting to see some action out of Detroit before we do anything else," Geake said. "Normally, the committee wouldn't meet again until next year, and I expect that will be the case."

Law said he was astonished at the arguments corrections officials put forward on behalf of the DeHoCo proposal, which reportedly could add 500 beds to the state system much more rapidly than would construction of a new prison.

"They're always bringing up the early-release thing, about how criminals are getting out early with the overcrowding," Law said. "I pointed out to them that if they hadn't stopped the construction at Beck and Five Mile to propose that Plymouth Center thing last year, we'd have 500 beds there coming on line in just a few months."

Completion of the new prison was delayed by as much as a year while the corrections department first studied, then proposed, conversion of the vacated Plymouth Center for Human Development property, Law said.

Law said when he brought up the topic of prison concentration in this area, "They told me this wasn't in Northville. I said, 'Give me a break, it's right across the street. What do you think, you cross the road and you're in a foreign country?'"

Lotto sales mean big business for local store owners

Jim Roth displays lottery terminal, other games

Was it worth it? "Oh, yes," Hanson confirmed. The Michigan State Lottery pays store owners handling the tickets a straight six percent commission. The Michigan setup, Roth noted, is not like that in Illinois where the store owner also gets a percentage if he sells a winning ticket.

Just as purchasers of the lottery tickets stood in line to fund their dreams at $1 a ticket, Roth admitted he and his wife Joan had their own plans — if they won.

"First we'd charter the Concorde, gather up our friends and fly to Paris for a night on the town," he quipped.

Many of Roth's lottery customers Saturday were not local residents. Apparently word had gotten out that the lines here were not so long as in other places. Roth said he understood that at a Meijer's Thrifty Acres the store had to install corals to keep purchasers in lines.

"No one waited more than five minutes here — we had on the average about two customers every minute and a half," Roth said, lauding the capabilities of the state lottery computer made by Syntech International.

Saturday Roth had two employees working at the lottery sales counter. Customers marked the Lotto slips available inside the door. Then one employee pushed the slip through the terminal while the second collected money and gave out the receipt that officially printed the selection — and at the same time transmitted the numbers to the computer in Lansing.

"It's the best of any of them," Roth said.

The equipment also is programmed to allow purchasers to play the card games ("Poker players like this," Roth noted) and the three and four digit games.

Roth said his customers have been winners in the various other state lottery games.

He recalled a man who works in the area coming in a few weeks ago and scratching off an instant winner ticket — "It was worth ten grand."

A week ago Thursday a local resident who walks to the store daily to place his bet won $30,000 with four digits. "The winning numbers were 8031," Roth recalled.

He agreed there is no real formula for selecting the numbers.

"A little girl stood by her mother and picked five of six," he remembered in another instance.

There are books available to assist those who don't trust their own "luck." Roth sells "Baba" and "Hot Numbers" at $1 each and expects to have "Three Wise Men" and "Red Devil."

"People dream of numbers and read the books to interpret the dreams," he explained, noting he had heard of candles and incense that burn to reveal numbers.

The Bureau of State Lottery last week announced another Northville winner — Donald A. Duchesneau. The 25 year old resident reported he was a regular Lottery game player for six years but was "surprised" when he discovered his $10,000 win in the instant game, "3 for the Money."

While some tickets for that game still are available, the state lottery bureau began selling the newest instant game, Holiday Bonus, November 13. It features a $1 million top award and will give numerous bonus winners an annual prize of $10,000 for the next 10 years, according to the lottery bureau.

Each ticket contains six rub-off spots. Players who uncover three matching dollar figures win that amount. Players who match three "bonus" signs get the 10-year annual prize.

"We expect many players will use tickets for this game as holiday gifts, since winners can pay off for years to come," announced Michigan Lottery Commissioner Michael J. Carr as the new game made its debut.

Roth agreed that sales will continue high through the holidays on all the lotteries.

Saying that interest alone on the big Lotto game will pay off the winner, Roth pointed out the real winner has to be the State School Aid Fund. Last year the fund, which supports K-12 education in Michigan, received $221 million from the lottery, Carr said.

Road opening expected this week

Northville Road is expected to re-open this week following work delays due to rainy weather last week.

"All the asphalt pavement should be swept and it's scheduled to be painted today or tomorrow," Wayne County engineer Joe Leonard said yesterday. "As soon as the road's painted it'll be ready to go."

The north-south road has been closed between Six and Seven Mile since September to allow construction of the North Arm Relief sewage interceptor. This Friday was the target date for re-opening the road, but officials had expected completion of the project as early as the first week of November.

"We could have opened it last week if it weren't for the rain," Leonard explained. "We couldn't get the asphalt laid because we had a wet sub-base."

Police Blotters

Cocaine possession charged; youths arrested at mall

From state police...

An 18-year-old Northville man was arrested by state police November 1 on a cocaine possession charge. Police currently are seeking a warrant to prosecute the Eight Mile resident.

According to the police account of the incident, troopers were driving on Seven Mile behind a white Chevy van late November 1 when they noticed the 1984 license plate had an October expiration sticker. Checking state vehicle registration records, police found the license had not been renewed.

Police turned on the rooftop lamps of the patrol car while following the van north on Silver Springs. The vehicle failed to stop until after making a left onto Success Drive and then into a parking spot at Savoy Court.

Upon approaching the driver, police found he was driving on a restricted operator's permit that allowed only one other passenger in the vehicle. There were two passengers in the van.

The investigating officer spotted a roach clip hanging from the rear view mirror and, after seeing what he believed to be marijuana residue on the clip, asked the driver to step out of the car and be searched. The search turned up a box-type Marlboro cigarette package containing two envelopes of a white powder.

The powder responded positively to field tests for cocaine. It was turned over to the state police crime lab for further analysis.

Two teenage boys have been charged with three counts of breaking-and-entering at Northridge Apartments and the Northville Plaza Mall, state police said Monday. Petitions against the area youths, ages 13 and 16, were filed in Wayne County juvenile court last week.

According to the police report, the two were arrested November 2 in response to a complaint by a Northville Plaza store owner. The complainant told police he heard voices coming from the other side of a wall in his store. The wall abuts a maintenance room at the mall. Shortly after hearing the voices, the store owner said, he saw a ceiling tile move and someone looking into his store from above the ceiling.

Police found two back entrances to the maintenance room were unlocked, one of them having paper stuffed into the strike plate to prevent the door from latching when closed. Hoping to find witnesses who may have seen someone entering the maintenance area, police approached the teens in the mall. The boys ran when they saw police approaching.

Under questioning, the two boys admitted being in the maintenance room. The 16-year-old claimed it was his first time there and that he only entered to smoke a cigarette.

The 13-year-old later told police that the two had visited the mall a week earlier. At that time, he told police, they borrowed a key to the rest rooms, where they found a partial wall they could climb over into the maintenance area. The younger boy said the older one had stuffed the paper into the strike plate at that time. He said they had no intention of stealing anything.

The mall's maintenance supervisor said he could not determine if anything was missing from the maintenance room, but noted that the radio in the room had been "acting funny recently." He said the radio seemed to tune to a rock-and-roll station in his absence.

The younger of the two juveniles told police of two earlier break-ins at the apartment complex. Using a pen knife, he said, the boys gained entry to locked storage bins provided to apartment residents. The younger stole several articles of clothing, an empty wallet and a beverage cooler in these incidents. He said the older boy did not take anything, but defecated on an article of military clothing which was left in the bin.

The stolen articles were turned over to police. The two youths were released to their parents and face a court date in the near future.

The complainant told police unknown subjects scratched grooves in the windshield of the vehicle and scraped paint along the left rear quarter panel.

The complainant stated the vehicle was parked in her driveway at the time the incident occurred.

A radar detector valued at $245 was stolen from a 1984 Lincoln parked at a Seven Mile restaurant sometime between 7:30 and 8:30 p.m. November 13, police report.

The complainant told police unknown persons gained entry to the vehicle by breaking out the left driver's window with a blunt object. The subjects then stole the radar detector which was mounted on the left front ceiling area of the auto.

Damage to the vehicle was listed at $200.

Unknown subjects stole a radar detector valued at $250 from a vehicle parked in the driveway of a Waterfall residence sometime between 8:50 and 9:10 p.m. November 15, according to police.

The complainant told police he found the driver's door unlocked following the incident and noted that the car doors were locked prior to the break-in. There was no damage to the vehicle.

Knives together valued at $244 were stolen from a locker at Northville High School between 11:10 a.m. and 2:05 p.m. last Wednesday. Taken were a handbag, a necklace, a gold charm and currency.

Unknown person(s) smashed in the passenger window of a station wagon parked on Lexington Boulevard early Saturday morning and stole a radar detector valued at just over $200 from the top of the dashboard. The theft took place between 12:30 and 8:55 a.m., according to a city police report. The car

Knife assault at hospital alleged

Michigan State Police are seeking a warrant for the arrest of a Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital employee on a felonious assault charge in connection with a November 3 altercation between the employee and a patient.

The hospital is also conducting its own investigation of the incident and has suspended the employee until the results are known. A patients' rights advocate has been consulted in the case.

According to the police account of the incident on file at the Northville post, the 48-year-old female suspect, who was D-1 ward supervisor, pulled a 4-inch knife from her sock and threatened to kill the patient that morning. She later physically assaulted the 32-year-old male patient, attempting to strangle him.

Both alleged assaults occurred when the suspect and the patient were alone, but police have gathered witnesses whose accounts of the incidents that morning may corroborate the patient's report.

The hospital employee and the patient reportedly began arguing the previous day, when the patient requested his radio and permission was denied.

Police were told that the patient was verbally abusive to the employee throughout November 2. The following morning, the employee allegedly asked the patient to come into the nursing office. The patient told police the employee said she intended to kill him, then put her foot up on the desk and removed a sheathed knife from her sock. She allegedly pulled the knife, described as having a pointed blade about four inches long, from its sheath and brought it down toward the patient in an overhead motion as if to stab him.

The patient told police he caught his assailant by the wrist and removed the knife from her hand. He left the office and gave the knife to an aide on the floor, who put it in a drawer.

The employee allegedly followed the patient from the room and asked him into a nearby kitchen, where patients normally are not allowed, the police report states. Asking two aides to leave the kitchen, she reportedly grasped the victim's throat and repeated the threat to kill him. The patient reported grabbing the woman in a "bear hug" in self defense. Two aides who entered in response to loud screaming by both parties in the kitchen reported seeing the employee holding the patient by the collar and bending him backward over the sink while the patient tried to fend off the attack by holding her by the elbows.

The two were separated by the male aides, one of whom took the employee home at her request. The suspect first removed the knife from the drawer where it had been placed, according to this aide's report to police. The presence of the knife on the floor had not yet been reported, the aide said, because hospital policy gives priority to assisting patients over filing paperwork.

Two witnesses to the events that morning reported that the employee smelled of alcohol and a third said the suspect was dressed oddly and appeared to be drunk. Excepting the patient, all witnesses are day shift employees of the hospital. The patient's doctor told police it is not likely that the patient was hallucinating or fantasizing in the report. The victim was in the hospital on a 60-day court order which was soon to expire, according to the police report.

The incident reportedly occurred between 7:15 and 8:15 a.m. November 3. It was not reported to the hospital safety department until after noon the following day. The safety department relayed the report to state police almost immediately upon learning of the incident.

The police investigation is still under way. State police noted that, although there have been frequent reports of assaults within the hospital walls, the county prosecutor rarely issues a warrant in connection with such incidents due to the unreliability of witnesses who are being treated for mental illness.

City has waste disposal choice: Wayne or Oakland?

By KEVIN WILSON

Okay, Northville. Where do you want to send your garbage?

That's the question officials from the state, Oakland and Wayne counties are asking of city council as time slowly passes toward the day when such a decision will have to be made.

The city is both blessed and cursed by having part of its area in Wayne and another part in Oakland county. Blessed with a choice few other communities in the state will have; cursed with having to analyze and choose between two vastly different plans whose long-term ramifications are virtually impossible to predict.

Under state law, both Oakland and, recently, Wayne counties have obtained DNR approval of new Solid Waste Management Plans. That's governmentese for, "What are we gonna do with all this trash?" Oakland and Wayne counties have different answers, and Northville will have to choose between the two systems in the near future.

Oakland County commissioner John P. Calandro and George Schutte, director of the county DPW's division of sewer, water and solid waste appeared before the council November 12 with their ideas.

Oakland County decided a couple of years back that communities within its borders would be able to contribute their refuse to a series of incinerators that will be used to produce energy. One will be in Pontiac and the resulting heat from the incineration will go a long way toward meeting the energy needs of the county government buildings there.

Smaller "resource recovery units" would be built for use by private industry — one at least in Wixom where Ford Motor Company hopes municipal waste products will help meet energy needs at its manufacturing facility there.

Schutte said the skeleton plan calls for about one-half the solid waste generated in Oakland County to be incinerated — that level would be reached about five years after the plan is implemented.

There were hopes that would happen this year. Schutte's department drafted contracts for the individual communities to sign committing themselves to the project, but the communities rejected those contracts, which are now being revised.

"Essentially, the communities wanted to be almost completely control of the plant," Schutte explained. "But since the county would own it, only the county commission can be responsible for the budget and its operation."

Some compromises have been made, he said, in the interest of keeping as many communities as possible in the system. The county, he noted, can't go ahead with the construction without assurances that the communities are going to ship waste there to be incinerated. A shortfall of waste intake would be disastrous, he explained, as the plant's efficiency would be badly undermined.

As it is, he acknowledged in response to council questions, recovering energy from incineration is more expensive today than is simply dumping the waste in a landfill. The amount of energy derived from incineration does not sufficiently offset the cost.

"You ought to be looking to the long-term, however," he said. "Over time, as energy costs rise and the landfills start filling up and become more expensive, we expect to pass a point where resource recovery is economically favorable."

'Your upfront costs are going to be greater (in Oakland County), but the long-term considerations, we think, will be in your favor.'

— John Calandro
Oakland Commissioner

Calandro noted that "your upfront costs are going to be greater (in Oakland County), but the long-term considerations, we think, will be in our favor."

According to Schutte, "very preliminary" estimates show the cost of disposing waste in the Oakland system is likely to be between $30 and $40 per ton. Landfilling, as the city would be doing with Wayne County, typically runs between $5 and $8 per ton today.

"It looks like a big difference," Schutte said. "But consider that you generate only one and one-half tons per family per year. The difference to a family is maybe $33 a year, 60 cents a week — the price of a can of pop from a vending machine."

Earlier in the year the council heard from Wayne County, where the solid waste management plan calls for incineration but includes not county-owned facilities. The largest resource recovery unit in Wayne County's plan would be owned by the City of Detroit and utilize that city's refuse to generate power for the steam heating system in the downtown New Center area. That system is owned by Detroit Edison, which would purchase power from Detroit's plant.

Other resource recovery would be done at one General Motors facility, and any other private developers who sought such plants. The problem with entrusting all such development to the private sector, Schutte and Calandro said, is that it will likely not take place until resource recovery is more economical than landfilling.

"We don't want to wait for the crisis, when all the close landfills are exhausted and you have to start going farther and farther out, where people are resisting landfills more and more," Schutte explained. "We want to have some kind of resource recovery system in place before that happens."

He noted that Macomb County is in a jam, because its plan relies on a landfill that has only months of capacity left. Macomb is currently seeking alternatives and having difficulty finding one, Schutte said.

In response to a council question, Schutte said Northville could opt to join the Oakland County system at a later date but that provisions in the contract favor those who join at the beginning.

If the addition of the late-joining community increases the system's overall costs, the newcomer would be required to pay not only the same share as the others, but to pick up the added cost as well. If addition of a newcomer decreases the system's overall cost (through improved efficiency with higher volumes), all member communities would share in the savings, he explained.

Whether a local community's trash was being routed to one of the incinerators or to a landfill would not affect its cost for participation — all disposal costs would be averaged and each community charged the same per-ton rate, Schutte said.

Thus, Northville might route its trash to the Wixom incinerator or to a nearby landfill but pay the same fee either way. Differences would be in the cost of contracting with a collection company — carting the truckloads of garbage to a disposal site farther away would likely cost more.

The city currently contracts with a firm that also owns a landfill included in the Wayne County plan. Distances for travel to Salem Township are low, city manager Steven Walters noted.

Township ballot counter produces rapid results

If there were any remaining doubts about the wisdom of spending more than $9,000 on a new computer to tabulate election results in Northville Township, they should be dispelled after the events of November 6.

Unofficial cumulative totals of all township votes were known at 11 p.m. election day — only three hours after the polls closed and far earlier than would have been possible under the old system. All election work was done by midnight. Over time, that kind of rapid tallying of the township's punchcards is likely to save money by reducing the labor costs associated with conducting elections.

Township deputy clerk Georgina Goss, who now becomes clerk, noted that in 1980, the last presidential election year, it was 4 a.m. before vote tabulation was completed. In 1976, The Record reported, precinct tallies were done by midnight, but it was 3 a.m. before absentee ballots were all counted and added into the total.

There were nearly twice as many absentee ballots cast this year compared with 1976, but they were all counted by 9 p.m.

"I was really pleased," said former clerk Susan Heintz, who now is Supervisor Heintz since the election. "We counted more ballots in less time." The computer was first used in the primary election back in August and election officials became familiar with its use then.

The rapid computer tally reversed the usual situation locally. In the city, where votes are cast by machine rather than punchcard, results have almost always been available well before township totals. This year, city clerk Joan McAllister reported, all totals were not added together until nearly midnight.

The large computer vote-counter manufactured by Computer Election Services (CES) was purchased earlier this year at Heintz's suggestion. The township previously used smaller individual tabulators and experienced frequent breakdowns due to overheating in large elections. Heintz was particularly frustrated by this problem during the 1982 gubernatorial election, when final results were held up into the early morning hours due to machine failures.

Support imperative

The Northville Board of Education's decision last week to close two of the district's school buildings was—as expected—met with mixed emotions. Closing neighborhood schools—particularly in a tightknit district such as Northville—is bound to create a stir in the public arena.

We anticipated the emotional appeals from the parents of students affected by the board's decision. If comments from the audience attending last week's meeting are any indication, it is obvious that the major concern of parents in this district is the education and safety of their children.

That is why we hope there will be a concerted effort among the public to come to grips with the pending closings. We believe the board's decision was inevitable in light of the district's declining enrollment and increasing costs. The district is not in a position to keep half-empty school buildings open at the taxpayers' expense.

There is plenty of evidence to conclude that school closings can be among the most divisive factors in any community. One only needs to look at the current situation in Grosse Pointe to realize just how nasty the situation can become when public animosity toward its school board overshadows the issue.

We believe this will not be the situation in Northville. We were pleased to see that most parents addressing the school board last Monday were primarily concerned with the impact the closings will have on their children—not in thrashing out at the administration and board for deciding to shut down neighborhood schools. We also must credit board members for their thorough study and discussion of nearly all facets of the issue. It was obvious that board members had done their homework before reaching a decision.

We are confident that next September's transition will benefit—not hinder—the educational opportunities offered students in this district. We hope, for the sake of the students who will make that transition, that their anticipation is not thwarted by misdirected fear or anger.

Belt law needed

Unpopular as it may be in some quarters, it is time Michigan passed a law requiring the use of automobile safety belts. We were heartened last week to find that the township board of trustees agrees. We can be glad, too, of the role state representative Gerald Law played in the House insurance committee that recently approved a bill soon to be considered on the floor of that chamber. The amended version of a state senate bill passed earlier this year would go a long way toward meeting federal requirements of such a law.

For those not paying attention to this issue critical to our state, let us recap. The federal department of transportation, responding to a court decision mandating that it consider requiring the installation of airbags in all cars sold in the U.S., left the choice up to the states. Either states representing 2/3 of the U.S. population pass mandatory safety belt legislation before September of next year, or "passive restraints" will be required installations in automobiles.

For passive restraint read airbag or automatic safety belts. Both are costly answers to a problem for which we already have the solution. The choice, then, is no longer between a perceived civil right to leave one's belts unfastened and a governmental intrusion that requires the wearing of belts. It is now between a law mandating use of available, inexpensive current safety belts as opposed to the costly installation of airbags or automatic belts. These devices would add to the cost of manufacturing cars and likely reduce sales due to higher consumer prices. With Michigan's vital auto industry already struggling to combat a disadvantage on labor costs, the U.S. government is prepared to require the additional labor of installing these devices.

Beyond that economic self-interest, there is the undeniable fact that safety belts save lives. In fact, a mandatory safety belt law would likely save more lives in its first year than the overpraised 55 mile per hour speed limit does. The testimony of traffic police everywhere is overpowering—it is a rare, rare instance when an officer has to unbuckle a dead person. The costs to society of having people killed or maimed on its highways overrides all considerations of individual rights. And old saw says your right to swing your arm ends at my nose. To paraphrase, your right to die in a collision ends at my insurance premium, my social security costs and my tax dollar. This is likely Michigan's best chance at passing mandatory safety belt legislation—we suggest it is high time.

Time for thanks

For many of our readers tomorrow is a holiday with turkey and all the trimmings shared with family and friends. For most of us it also is truly a time of Thanksgiving.

In our community the shops are filled with Christmas merchandise, and store owners already are reporting the best early sales in recent years. New businesses, such as Onyx Furs and Crawfords' restaurant, have opened recently. The Downtown Development Authority is planning to begin work on Phase II expansion of the downtown renovation. In all, the economic picture is brightening locally.

Still, at this season, we are aware through such organizations as Civic Concern, King's Daughters, Goodfellows and church groups that there still are those in need in our area. That these organizations exist and care also is indicative of the kind of community in which we live. Our churches, too, have been responding to the desperate need for help to feed those thousands starving in Africa. It is a belated response on the part of us all to a condition too long ignored.

We are pleased that the Thanksgiving Eve ecumenical service is continuing. It is appropriate that the offering asked is canned goods or money with which to buy food. The doors of First United Methodist Church at Eight Mile and Taft are open to all at 7:30 p.m. tonight who wish to join in giving Thanks.

Off the record

By B. J. Martin

Muscles will just have to wait

If everything I say doesn't sound quite right, forgive me. It's just that I have this bug that's been spreading like the Bubonic Plague Part II, and I feel as if someone stuck the nozzle of a bicycle pump in my ear and started inflating my cranium.

I don't get sick very often. In fact, I tend to brag about how healthy I am to people who sniff their way through winter through a perpetually red nose. Wear your scarf, I tell them. Take your vitamins and you can be as healthy as I. These people have not been appropriately sympathetic during my time of distress.

Maybe it's because I'm not used to being sick, but when I do get hit with something, it feels nasty. My throat feels as though it's been ravaged with a paint scraper, my nose feels as though someone has sewn my nostrils shut, and I feel like sleeping for about a week.

Besides not being able to gloat, what makes me mad about being sick is that my first column in two months was going to be about how great I feel since joining a nearby health club. I won't reveal the name of the place (at least not until they bribe me), but it's the same health club Cher and Victoria Principal go to. I haven't seen them there yet. Maybe they work out in the morning.

I've only been there a few weeks, so I'm not as prepared as those two veterans to be a spokesperson. But so far it's worked out really well. I'm in one of those lines of work that exercise only one's fingertips and had I not found some outlet for physical activity, they'd probably be making up B.J. Martin fat jokes by next summer. ("Did you see B.J. at the masquerade party last week? He's the one who put a sheet over his head and went as Alaska.")

Besides an indoor track, pool, weight rooms and the usual boring stuff, the club has two things there that are completely new to me—namely, a whirlpool and a sauna. It's difficult to describe what my first experience with either of these things is like.

The whirlpool, also known as the jacuzzi (love the sound of that word), is probably the most important invention of Western Civilization since the Thunderbird. I'm sure everybody hears a lot about stress, stress, stress. Well, five minutes in a whirlpool and stress is a memory. I used to scoff at one of my trendy friends for his claim he would buy a hot tub as soon as he could find a way to deduct it as a medical expense. I don't scoff any more.

I tried the sauna tentatively, after receiving rave reviews about what it would do for me. And of course, what it does is make you sweat a lot. I figure this is good because I know when I sweat I'm getting exercise, and reading a newspaper in a sauna isn't as hard as running around a track. Once I get the hang of staying in the sauna for more than 10 seconds I figure I'll never have to run laps again.

One thing I haven't gotten as excited about is the aerobics workout classes. There are a few brave males in 'em these days, but call me repressed—usually it takes more in my blood system than adrenalin to make me want to jump around in time to music. As fun as the workouts are to watch, I feel more comfortable wearing out my sneakers on the indoor track than playing musical contortions.

I've missed all this stuff during the last week. But I'm starting to rebound, and soon I'll be back providing hours of amusement to my fellow iron pumpers. Just wait till summer, though. I'll be kicking sand in all of their faces.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

We had reservations at 7:30 and I was rushing because I was running a little late when it happened. Cut myself while shaving. Little nick on my cheek, an inch or so beneath my eye.

The only problem was it wouldn't stop bleeding. At the risk of offending anyone who blanches at the thought of blood, there was a steady stream of it flowing down my cheek.

I finished my shower and it was still bleeding. I put a little piece of toilet paper on the cut. But it kept right on bleeding. Right through the paper.

That's when my wife arrived on the scene. As soon as she figured out what had happened, she went to the kitchen, wrapped an ice cube in an old washcloth and told me to apply it to the cut.

Ten minutes later it was still bleeding. And we were running short on time. So we resorted to a bandage, one of those little round ones designed specifically for shaving cuts.

Didn't do a bit of good. Went right through the bandage and continued bleeding.

That's when I decided enough was enough and got one of those big bandages—the kind designed for real cuts, and placed it over the nick.

"You can't wear that into the restaurant," she said. "It's too big. They'll know immediately that you're uncoordinated and cut yourself shaving. I can't deal with the embarrassment."

I tried to assure that nobody would suspect the huge bandage across the right side of my face was the result of a shaving cut. "Don't worry," I said. "I'll just say I was dueling with my good friend Laszlo, the Hungarian, down at the gymnasium and got nicked by a saber."

"We'll turn my shaving cut into something heroic. Probably get better service and everything."

The plan worked great until the waiter finally summoned up the courage to ask why I had the huge bandage across my face. I was just about to explain about the sabers to save her any embarrassment when she blurted out the truth.

"Old Zorro over there," she told the waiter in a voice loud enough for everyone to hear, "cut himself shaving."

Readers Speak

How about a sign for our state champs?

To the Editor:

A significant number of people in Northville are asking the following question: "Where's the sign?" Or as it should read, "Signs." Signs that were to be visible as people entered our community indicating that Northville was the home of the 1984 High School State Champion Girls Soccer Team.

It is not often when a community has the opportunity to boast of or recognize a state champion. We in Northville have been afforded this opportunity. Keep in mind that these girls, under the direction of Coach Stan Smalec, worked hard and long to accomplish this feat. Soccer is our fastest growing sport as the number of participants increases, so does the level of competition. The girls overcame all obstacles in achieving this highest plateau of competitiveness and should be rewarded for their accomplishments.

This is not meant to take anything away from the excellent boys' team or other sports available in the community. The point is that we in Northville have some great "kids" competing in all sports and their accomplishments are something to be proud of.

The signs would be a small token but at least an acknowledgement of something well done; something these kids will treasure a long time — "state champions."

C. Richard Millgard,
Northville resident

Schools' quality is key, not their quantity

To the Editor:

The closing of a community's schools is a perplexing decision, but not a difficult one. When it is so clearly evident, as I believe the situation is in Northville, that a district can use its physical assets more efficiently and effectively, then it is incumbent upon the governing body to do so. Thus, the decision is simple.

It is no one's fault that the district has extra space. The district did not overbuild. Projections in the late sixties and early seventies indicated a continual rise in the student population. And the Northville Board of Education rightfully and in good faith, as we the public would expect them to do, analyzed and anticipated those projections.

But in the last five years we have also learned, especially the automotive companies, that projections are oftentimes incorrect. Therefore, new projections, new analysis, new "five year plans" are created. The school district has done just that, and the results indicate less students. So it is obvious that the district needs less space; therefore better utilization of the space they have.

All too often school districts are accused of not "operating like a business." This is purely a business decision. It is ironic that people in the audience who so blatantly beleaguered the school board for its decision will be the same people who will belittle the board for "wasting money" if the board ever seeks a millage increase. In fact, many of the people in the audience if they were to suggest a savings plan of this magnitude in their own place of business, would probably receive a bonus for doing so.

I attended one of the public meetings, and, unfortunately, what became clear to me was the public's overemphasis on building and building location rather than on teaching children.

In the heat of emotional debate, one teaching staff member (and I regretfully cannot remember his name) stated so eloquently the one true real issue: "Give me four walls regardless of location, the materials to teach, and I am committed to teach your children." If this comment is indicative of the quality of Northville's teaching staff, then we the public need not worry: our children will be taught and will be taught well regardless of location.

Sincerely,
James M. Koster

Social security policy needs some explaining

To the Editor:

I have direct mail deposit of my Social Security check made to my bank. On Friday, November 2, I went to my branch of the Michigan National Bank to cash a check drawn against my Social Security deposit.

I was advised by the teller that my account had not been posted for the amount I receive monthly from Social Security. I was further advised that effective November 1, 1984, the policy of the bank was that direct mail Social Security deposits would not be posted until the 3rd of the month. I later called the bank to verify that this policy was indeed in effect and was advised that it was.

In other words, had my check been mailed to me, I would have received it on the 2nd (as my husband did) and would have had immediate access to those funds. However, having direct mail deposit, Michigan National Bank had access to those funds, but I did not and would not until posting on the 3rd. Further, if posting was not completed until after banking hours on the 3rd, I would not have access to those funds until Monday the 5th, or at the earliest on Sunday the 4th by use of the automatic teller machine.

I further checked with several other banks and posed the question: Is posting of direct mail Social Security checks done on the 3rd or on the day the recipients would normally receive the check by mail. In other words, I further asked, if the 3rd fall on a Saturday, and the check is received on a Friday, posting would be done on a Friday. The answer: yes.

I was not notified beforehand by the Michigan National Bank of change of policy nor was I advised at the time I made request for direct mail deposit that a change of policy in posting of direct mail deposits was going to take place.

Had I not gone to the bank to draw against my Social Security funds, I would not have found out about their new policy. I can understand a bank holding personal checks or checks drawn against other banks to make sure those checks clear.

I see absolutely no reason for a bank to hold direct mail Social Security deposits. I would advise all persons planning to have direct mail deposit of their Social Security checks to make certain their bank's policy allows them to have as immediate access to those funds as has the bank.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Josephine Bango

EDITOR'S NOTE: A representative of Michigan National Bank confirmed that posting is done on the third of the month. Social Security supervisor Ford Howard stated, however, that funds are transmitted electronically and should be available to recipients the same day checks are dated.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following Thanksgiving proclamation was sent us by Northville resident Theresa Torok with the suggestion that we might wish to publish it at Thanksgiving. She says she has treasured it since finding it in 1975 and notes that she has been an admirer of the Civil War president all her life and has visited his birthplace. "We really had someone who cared about people," she says.

The year that is drawing toward its close has been filled with blessings of fruitful fields and healthful skies ... It has seemed to me fit and proper that they should be solemnly, reverently, and gratefully acknowledged ... by the whole American people.

Clerical pact settled

City clerical workers just got a new three-year contract calling for wage increases of 4.4 percent each year thanks, in part, to the defeat of state ballot Proposal C.

City council voted November 12 to ratify the agreement, which had been reached earlier. Mayor Paul Vernon said the basic terms of the agreement had been settled a month before but that council had balked at a three-year term with the threat of Proposal C so near.

"We would have offered a one-year contract if Proposal C had passed," Vernon said.

The clerical pact is in line with those given other city bargaining units, city manager Steven Walters said, noting that the wage increases make up for recent pay freezes while the city battled a deficit.

DPW and police unions negotiated five percent wage increases, Walters said, but gave up two vacation days. Clerical workers opted to take a lower pay increase and keep the two days, which were added last year to offset the lack of wage increases.

Other new provisions in the clerical contract are a $50 annual clothing allowance, and $10,000 term life insurance.

Council also voted to "buy back" from eligible city employees up to two days off. The days were granted as compensatory time in 1981 when the city was unable to make its Cost of Living Allowance (COLA) payment.

Vernon said council opted to offer to buy back two days from eligible employees — if employees have already used the time granted as "compensatory," they can return two vacation or two sick days for pay equivalent to that two days were worth in 1981.

Vernon and Walters both called the offer one made to demonstrate "good faith" with city employees. Walters also noted that, under the city formula, COLA is not cumulative but applies only to the cost of living increase each individual year.

Under the formula, he said, the cost of living increase figure for the current year is negative — meaning no payment. There was allowance for a COLA payment in the city budget, however, and that money will be used to "buy back" the compensatory days from 1981.

Turn lane for Center sought

City officials are examining the possibility of adding a lane to Center Street at Eight Mile in conjunction with a widening of Eight Mile to take place next construction season.

An earlier effort to have Center widened between Dunlap and Eight Mile in connection with the project was dropped when it became evident that federal funding would not be available and the city would not have sufficient funds to undertake the project on its own.

But with city finances looking up and the Eight Mile project being pushed back to 1985 instead of the 1984 season anticipated earlier, city council recently asked manager Steven Walters to look into the possibility of adding at least a turning lane to Center to relieve traffic congestion at the intersection.

Walters said a lot of the preliminary engineering work was probably completed in connection with the earlier plan and that a proposal including a turning lane could likely be produced.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

LONG AND SHORT CAPITAL GAINS

If you expect to sell any of your assets in the near future, you should be aware of the tax restrictions that govern long and short term capital gains. You are liable for a capital gains tax whenever you make a profit on something you own, whether property, stocks or other investments, over and above the basic cost.

According to the Internal Revenue Service, you have made a short-term capital gain when you make a profit on an asset held for less than one year. This happens, for example, when you buy stock and sell it at a profit before the end of the 12 month period. If you hold an asset for more than a year before making a profit, you have earned a long-term capital gain. You'll still have to pay a tax, whether it's a short-term or long-term gain, but long-term capital gains have a distinct advantage, taxwise. Any short term gain will be taxed at the same rate as ordinary income. But the rate of long-term capital gains is only 40 percent of ordinary income.

For a review of these and other tax advantages under the new tax law, why not call us for an appointment?

City DDA to meet Monday

Downtown merchants anxiously awaiting the city's first move toward a second phase downtown renovation project can relax and mark November 26 on their calendars.

That's the date set for the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) to resume regular meetings, city manager Steven Walters said Monday night.

"They'll meet to get organized and make preparations to begin planning the second phase of the downtown project," Walters told council.

The city's fiscal woes forestalled any effort to proceed with the development of the downtown district. The district within the DDA's purview includes portions of Mary Alexander Court, Cady, Wing, Dunlap and Center streets not included in the original Mainstreet '78 project dedicated in 1981.

Best estimates to date show elimination of the city's budget deficit this year or next, clearing the way for financing of a second phase project. Walters said earlier this year such a project would likely include traffic pattern and parking improvements to a greater extent than did the first phase.

She died November 10 at Humana Hospital, Hoffman Estates, Illinois, after a long illness.

She had retired in 1954 as Sears business office manager with 25 years' service. She was born February 14, 1903, in Toronto to Sidney and Mary (O'Brien) Menary. She was preceded in death by her husband Frank A. Grisdel and by a daughter Marilyn Fowler.

She leaves daughters, Sister Bernadette Marie Dwyer O.P. of Bartlett and Mrs. John (Beatrice) Scallie of Westland, sister Mrs. Sydney Hamilton, brother James Menary in Ontario, eight grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Burial was in Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield. Rosary was said November 13 at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

EUGENE MELBOURNE

Eugene Melbourne, a former Northville resident of Cady Street, died November 14 in Ann Arbor. He was 41.

The grandson of Josephine Spagnuolo of Northville, he also is survived by his wife and four children.

A memorial service was to be held in Ann Arbor November 15.

Trustees send rezoning back to planners

Evidently dissatisfied with the township planning commission's recommendation that it reject a rezoning request for property on the east side of Haggerty near Five Mile, the township board of trustees last week voted 4-3 to refer the matter back to planners for reconsideration.

Township supervisor John MacDonald, in one of his last official acts, told the board he had met recently with planning commission chairman Richard Duwel and principal owners of Wil-O-Mac, owners of the property in question.

MacDonald said it was his impression from that meeting that the planning commission might make a different decision if asked to reconsider the zoning.

But the commission's decision appeared fairly solid when made recently. Citing the master plan of land use for the township, the commission recommended denial of the request October 30.

Had the rezoning been approved, owners of Wil-O-Mac, Inc. of Plymouth would have proposed building one-story colonial-styled office buildings about 10,000-12,000 square feet in size.

Developers claimed the property, on which two houses are now situated, was appropriate for office use because of its proximity to I-275 and because the proposed Haggerty Road sewage route construction would create a strong impetus for business development in the area.

They further claimed offices would provide employment opportunities, services and tax revenues.

But in rejecting the request, commissioners made it clear they would adhere to the residential use outlined in the township master plan for the area. Barring parcels east of Haggerty are zoned for residential use.

Planning consultant Claude Coates pointed out the net result of permitting the rezoning could be a "strip commercial development."

In his report to the commission, Coates stated: "We do not believe consideration of a change in the master plan is warranted, especially until it is evident that the market warrants additional office land. Presently the plan sets forth an adequate amount of office land as evidenced by the vacant areas already zoned on Haggerty Road."

Trustee Richard Allen, board liaison to the planning commission, outlined the issue at last week's township board meeting. He said the commission appeared firm in its desire to maintain the residential zoning.

The board vote of 4-3 included MacDonald, treasurer Richard Henningsen, clerk Susan Heintz and trustee Thomas Cook in favor of sending the matter back for reconsideration. Allen and trustees James Nowka and Donald Williams opposed the motion.

Money Management

Year-end moves cut taxes

Millions of Americans pay more taxes than they should because they fail to take year-end tax planning steps. By making some strategic decisions before January 1, an average family might save about $200.

Timing your income and tax deductible expenses to get the most advantageous tax consequences is not difficult, says the Michigan Association of CPAs.

A basic year-end tax strategy involves juggling income and deductions. Because tax rates are expected to remain about the same in 1984 and 1985, CPAs recommend accelerating deductions where possible and deferring income until next year.

As an example, take someone in the 33 percent tax bracket who discovers $1,000 in deductions can be shifted from 1985 into 1984. That shift can cut $333 from the 1984 tax bill. If invested, that savings could accrue interest for a full year in 1985. That way, accelerating deductions adds to your earnings.

Although accelerating deductions into 1984 generally works best, those whose income jumps in 1985 may find it advantageous to reverse the pattern; for them, delaying deductions until their income rises saves tax dollars.

By making estimates of income and deductions for 1984 and 1985, you can determine which strategy works for you.

Think of ways to make the most of this juggling strategy. Alimony is one payment that can sometimes be accelerated. Perhaps you can also prepay estimated state income taxes due in the first quarter of 1985. You may also be able to prepay your property taxes or a mortgage payment due the first of the year, or make an early payment of dues for professional organization or subscriptions for essential professional periodicals. Maybe a charitable contribution you were planning for 1985 can be accelerated. If your medical bills and expenses for prescription drugs exceed five percent of your income, you can itemize these as well. If you fall short of the five percent threshold, think of ways to reach that level with such expenditures as a long-postponed physical exam or new glasses.

Controlling the timing of your income is more difficult than shifting deductions, but if you own a business, you might delay billings until after the year ends.

Sales representatives might delay commissions until after January 1. Similarly, it might be advantageous to hold onto an investment until after the new year, so any capital gain will become part of your 1985 income.

A potential benefit of juggling deductions is that it may push you over the line so you qualify to itemize. If you plan deductions to permit itemizing every two years, the tax savings can be significant. Here's why: The standard deduction (zero bracket amount) is $3,400 for individuals. By shifting deductions so you exceed that amount in 1984, you may be able to itemize and save on your tax bill.

Consider this: A married couple who file jointly has $3,200 in itemized deductions for each 1984 and 1985 and $1,000 of those deductions could be taken in either year. If they accelerate their deductions into 1984, they will have a total of $4,200 in itemized deductions ($3,200 plus $1,000). Then, in 1985, they can take the standard deduction of $3,400, although they have only $2,200 left in itemized deductions.

Accelerating the deductions nets them an extra $800 in deductions ($3,400 plus $4,200 rather than taking the standard $3,400 in both years). If they're in the 25 percent bracket, the tax savings is $200—more if the couple is in a higher percentage bracket.

U-M economist optimistic about '85

Faster economic growth, improved new car sales and increased home construction is in the offing for 1985, according to University of Michigan economist Saul H. Hymans.

The catch? Hymans' "hidden assumption" of higher federal taxes as a precondition to all his economic good news.

If taxes rise, then the economist considered the best forecaster in the nation projects faster growth in early 1985, accelerating even more late in the year. He also predicts lower interest rates and a related strengthening of American exports and a slowing of imports.

Hymans pegs the rate of growth in the gross national product (GNP) at 2.5 percent in the last half of 1984, 3.75 percent in the first half of 1985 and at about 5 percent in late 1985.

Hymans last week was named winner of the fourth annual Silbert Economic Forecasting Award for accuracy, timeliness and professionalism. He was selected from a group of 40 nationally prominent economists.

The award, worth $5,000, was sponsored by the Sterling National Bank and Trust Company of New York. It recognized Hymans' work on the U-M Research Seminar in Quantitative Economics, presented at U-M last week. Last year's Michigan Model, as it is called, accurately predicted the growth in the GNP, the strength of the consumer sector and the solid growth in capital spending.

In accepting the award, Hymans gave a preview of the 1985 forecast.

"The economy slowed to a jog in the third quarter of this year," he said. "Interest rates have turned down since late summer, for two reasons:

'My forecast is that the 2.5 to 3 percent growth rates of the last half of this year will be followed by a growth-rate average of 3.75 percent in the first half of 1985.'

Saul H. Hymans

"First, the slower pace of economic advance means less upward pressure on interest rates. Second, the Fed (Federal Reserve Board) reads the numbers at least as well as the rest of us, and now appears to be feeling the need to support a continuation of economic growth—indeed to nudge it up a bit, no longer to cut it back."

On that assumption, he suggested that the growth rate will firm up in early 1985.

"My forecast is that the 2.5 to 3 percent growth rates of the second half of this year will be followed by a growth-rate average of 3.75 percent in the first half of 1985."

A few specifics of interest:

• "New cars, selling recently at a 10.3 million unit pace, should be up to a 10.5 million unit pace in the first half of next year."

• "Homebuilding, which has recently backed off to an average rate of 1.67 million units per year, should be up to a 1.75 million unit pace in the first half of 1985."

Hymans predicted a weaker dollar in international trade—a good thing.

"The combination of our interest rates now coming down and our trade deficits having shot up can be expected to weaken the dollar, which will strengthen our exports and slow down our imports."

That, he said, is "another source of stimulus for domestic production and employment. All told, I believe we are likely to experience even more rapid growth in the second half of next year than in the first half."

"I would peg the second-half growth rate for next year at just about 5 percent."

He said he anticipates "major fiscal legislation which should yield gradually higher revenues" for the federal government. These higher taxes are the hidden assumption, he said, in his optimistic forecast. Without the revenue gains the long-term outlook on the federal deficit, he implied, would keep interest rates up and stifle the economic growth projected in his 1985 forecast.

Hymans is a graduate of Harvard University and the University of California at Berkeley. He has been with U-M's forecasting unit for 15 years, first as co-director with Harold T. Shapiro, now U-M president. Hymans has been director since 1981.

Oil costs to stay down

OPEC is paying the price for its greedy policies of the past decade and U.S. consumers can look forward to continued declines in oil prices as a result, according to a Michigan State University economist.

Mordechai Krenin, professor of economics at MSU, said the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has lost its grip on the world oil market "due, in large measure, to their own overly greedy behavior in forming policies during the 1973-80 years."

Krenin said OPEC overshot the mark on oil price increases, leading to:

- Conservation by oil consuming nations;
- Development and use of substitutes for oil, such as coal, as energy sources;
- An increase of about 25 percent in production of oil by non-OPEC nations;
- Development of new technologies for exploration and production.

These developments have produced an oil glut, depressing the global price of oil to well below the $29 per barrel OPEC price, he said.

As a result of lower output and reduced prices, OPEC oil revenues have declined by 50 percent from their peak years, Krenin said.

The MSU economist adds that, given the global glut of oil, the downward pressure on oil prices is likely to continue. Much of that pressure, he said, is coming from the output of non-OPEC members.

To maintain the price, OPEC agreed to reduce output by 1.5 million barrels per day and to allocate the cut among the members.

However, several OPEC members, including Nigeria, Indonesia and Venezuela, have large populations and need the oil revenues. As a result, they are likely to depress prices to keep up prices, Krenin said.

He said the decline that has already occurred represents a reverse oil shock that was instrumental in spurring the non-inflationary recovery in this country.

Michigan firms show products in Tokyo

Vodka from Novi's Mohawk Liqueur facility is one of more than 220 Michigan products from 27 companies holding the spotlight for the U.S. in a special promotion at one of Japan's largest department stores this week.

The Michigan Products Fair November 16-21 at Tokyo's Tokyū department store is the first one-stop consumer products promotion ever conducted in the Japanese capital, according to Paula Blanchard, state commerce department special advisor.

Blanchard, Michigan's first lady, is leading state participation in the fair. Duck doorstops, cycle gear, pasta and beer from southeast Michigan companies are among the specialty goods being offered to Japanese holiday season shoppers. Outstate products include Mackinac Island fudge, the products of six state wineries, maple cutting boards from two companies, Win Schuler's bar chips, and many miscellaneous gift items.

"The Oshogatsu (New Year) holiday is the peak shopping season in Japan," Blanchard said. "This is an excellent opportunity for some uniquely Michigan products to gain exposure in the massive Tokyo market."

The products fair is an outgrowth of a display organized by Blanchard during the governor's trade mission to Japan and China in June.

Buyers from the Tokyū store toured many of the companies represented in the fair last summer.

"They were looking for high quality products that have the best sales potential in Tokyo," she said. "Foreign-made products are especially attractive to Japanese buyers. We were told that if the Michigan Products Fair is successful, there could well be a permanent made-in-Michigan display at the Tokyū store."

Blanchard has other activities slated during her visit to Japan. She will host a special salute to the Detroit Tigers at the Foreign Correspondents Club of Japan and make a courtesy visit to Shiga, Michigan's sister state in Japan.

Consumers Power consolidates service divisions

Consumer's Power Company last week announced that it is merging its two suburban Detroit area operating regions.

The former Metro and Southeastern regions, serving some 600,000 natural gas customers primarily in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties and about 13,000 electric customers in the city of Pontiac, will be consolidated into a single operations area. It will be called the Metro region.

Lowell L. Shepard, senior vice president for energy distribution, said the consolidation will result in operating efficiencies that will provide for continued or improved service to customers in the area.

General manager of the new region is James R. MacIntosh, general manager of the former Metro region. Eugene Waggener, general manager of the former Southeastern region, announced earlier that he would retire at the end of the year.

MacIntosh said the region headquarters will be in Royal Oak, headquarters of his former region. The Pontiac office that served as the former Southeastern region headquarters will become headquarters for the newlydesignated Pontiac district. District headquarters operations in service centers in Macomb and Livonia will continue.

The Southeastern and Metro regions were established in July, 1976 as part of a company-wide reorganization that consolidated the firm's 15 operating divisions into eight regions across the state. The Metro region served 300,000 gas customers in northwestern Wayne and southern Oakland counties and a small portion of Washtenaw County. The Southeastern region served the remaining 300,000 gas customers in northern Oakland and southern Macomb counties and the Pontiac electric customers.

Inacomp workshops to aid parents in computer market

Inacomp Computer Centers will conduct a workshop for parents contemplating purchase of a computer for Christmas this year. Entitled "Computers for Christmas" the course is designed to help parents make a wise choice when selecting a family computer.

According to experts in the field, more money will be spent on computer hardware and software this Yuletide season than ever before. The Novi Inacomp center is among those trying to help potential customers make informed decisions.

"The purchase of a home computer and appropriate software can be a real problem for parents," said Kenn Schury, an area computer consultant. "There are so many home systems available at various price levels that the choice can be overwhelming. Parents need specific guidelines when they go out to look for a personal computer."

The "Computers for Christmas" class will be conducted November 29 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Dearborn Inacomp outlet. Cost is $20. For further information, contact Ron Terry at 274-0090.

The course will include advice about how to select quality software, plus demonstrations and materials to take home for each parent.

"There are at least four factors parents should consider before buying computer hardware, and nine when selecting software," said Schury. "Purchasing the wrong computer can mean wasted time, energy, money, and extreme frustration. You really have to know something about computers before buying any hardware or software."

Shapero honored

Ray Shapero of Northville (left), chairman of the board and CEO of the Quael Corporation and Dr. Martin Barr, dean of the Wayne State University College of Pharmacy and Allied Health Professions with portrait of newly-named Shapero Hall in November 2 dedication ceremonies. Formerly the Health Sciences Building since 1974, the building was renamed in recognition of contributions made by Shapero's father, the late Nate Shapero, who was founder of Cunningham Drug Stores. He died in 1980 at age 87.

Existing home sales continue up, prices down

Passing the 12,000 unit sales level at the earliest time since 1979, the Metro MLS reported 1,179 residential sales in October to maintain a pace 14 percent above a year ago.

The monthly total showed a 15.9 percent jump over the 938 units sold by members of the multiple listing service in September and 25.6 percent gain over October, 1983. The 3,430 existing home listings during the month brought the annual total within 162 of the number a year ago.

Average prices continue to edge off slightly with October showing a $354 drop from September to the end of the month at $56,512, a decline of $1,106 from a year ago. The year-long average of $57,834 is $147 below that of 1983.

Members of the multiple listing service have sold 1,406 homes in northwest Detroit this year, with average prices ranging from $18,387 in the area east of Livernois to $37,106 in the area between Six and Eight Mile bounded by Greenfield and the city limits.

The most active suburban sales areas in 1984 and their year-to-date average price are: Livonia, 1,233 units, $61,327; Farmington/Farmington Hills, 844 units, $83,352; Dearborn, 799 units, $53,035; Westland, 686 units, $40,120; Southfield, 685 units, $69,518; Redford Township, 645 units, $41,209; West Bloomfield Township/Orchard Lake, 595 units, $105,185; Canton Township, 555 units, $63,949 and Plymouth/Plymouth Township, 519 units, $77,347.

With an easing of mortgage rates near month's end, financing with conventional mortgages reached 52 percent in October from 46 percent in September. Use of land contracts dropped to 24.2 percent from 28.3; FHA/VA mortgages combined at the 5.2 percent September level and use of assumed mortgages dipped to 12.6 percent from 14.9.

CONRAD JAKUBOWSKI, president of Rymal Symes Realty in Novi, was elected a director of the National Association of Realtors at the group's 77th annual convention in Honolulu.

As a director, Jakubowski will approve the policies of the national association and help determine the direction of future Realtor programs, including continuing efforts to reduce the federal deficit, housing affordability, Realtor education and secondary mortgage market legislation.

The National Association of Realtors represents over 640,000 individual members in 50 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam and the Virgin Islands.

GARY KRUPA of Walled Lake has received an award for individual performance in selling Dodge vehicles. Krupa, a new vehicle salesman for Van Dyke Dodge in Warren, received the Silver level of recognition in Dodge's Sales Professionals Club.

Specially-designed incentives and awards are provided for outstanding product knowledge and sales achievement at three performance levels — bronze, silver and gold. Membership in each level is determined by points earned for sales of new cars and trucks.

HARRY CIKANEK of Northville, a Ford Motor Company engineer, was a recipient of the 1983 Arch T. Colwell Merit Award during the 1984 SAE International Off-Highway and Powerplant Congress September 10-13 at MECCA, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Cikanek was recognized as co-author of SAE Paper 830083 — Thermal and Catalytic Regeneration of Diesel Particulate Traps. The paper was presented at the 1983 SAE International Congress and Exposition February 28 to March 4 in Detroit.

The award is presented annually to the author or authors of papers of outstanding technical or professional merit presented at a meeting of SAE or any of its sections during the calendar year.

Papers are judged primarily on their value as new contributions to existing knowledge of automotive engineering. Judgement is based on the value of the paper itself as an original contribution, rather than upon the value of some development or invention already known which the paper may describe.

The award is named in honor of Arch T. Colwell, a past-president of SAE who was recognized as an outstanding engineering industry executive.

Cikanek earned a BSME degree with honors from North Carolina State University and his MSME from the University of Southern California in 1966. He joined Ford Motor Company in 1972 and has participated in research and development of gas turbines and internal combustion engines.

Mothers' Club plans holiday benefit

By JEAN DAY

Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays these days are merging into a continuous festive celebration.

Invitations already are in the mail for the annual Northville Mothers' Club cocktail parties. Ten homes, including one by Life Members, will be open December 1 throughout the community to welcome several hundred club supporters. The benefit event is one of the club's fundraisers for projects in the Northville Public Schools.

While all are being held early on the first Saturday evening in December, the exact hours have not been set by the hostesses.

Chairperson Judy Bartling, who is being assisted by Joy Holloway, adds that husbands also are helping.

Hostesses who are opening their homes and their co-hostesses are: Diane Larsen with Kathi Jerome, Barbara Willoughby and Pat Stringer; Margie Sievert with Sue Todd, Lil Nelson and Nancy May; Mary Whiteside with Judy Somershoe, Angie Baetz and Mary Pohlod; JoAnn Kissel with Sharon Lineman, Joy Holloway and Joan Roth.

Also, Phyllis Kennedy with Carol Townsend and Nancy Rosselot; Sandy McRae with Glenda Buist, Karen Hill and Carol Lower; Linda Handyside with Barb Sixt, Roxanne Casterline and Carolyn Nieuwkoop; Edie Pegrum with Sue Anger, Nancy Perpich and Judy Bartling; and Carole Richardson with Joan Sellen, Carol VanSoest and Lynda Heaton.

Concurrently with the Mothers' Club parties the Life Member Group (those who have taken life memberships in the club after serving at least 10 active years) will be hosting a party at the West Main Street home of Margie Davis. Co-hostesses are Dorothea Bach, Betty Allen and Phia Johnson. Proceeds from this event are used to provide scholarships for graduating Northville High School seniors.

Historical Village. Participants will have their choice of making a Christmas wreath or a basket woven with Christmas ribbons.

The evening is limited to 35 with a cost of $8 a person. Cake and coffee will be served during the workshop. Reservations are being taken by Trish Kremer, 348-8309, and Rachel Ziegler, 348-8148, until November 28. The workshop is open to any resident of Northville for five years or less with Newcomer Alumnae welcome, as always, according to president Judi Amatangelo.

Local residents' activities make news

Susannah Holstein attended the National Hospice Organization's annual meeting and symposium November 10-14 in Hartford, Connecticut. Activities included pre-conference sessions on such subjects as pain and symptom control, management dilemmas of the rural hospice and stress management in hospice programs.

The Northville volunteer participated in the celebration honoring the 10th anniversary of hospice in this country as one of more than 1,000 hospice caregivers from around the country. Among the speakers was John Elkins, author of "Megatrends." November has been designated by Congress and the President as National Hospice Month focusing on the hospice care concept for the terminally ill.

Kathie Landrum was among the delegates representing the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at the 43rd National Council Session/Convention of the Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. at Cobo Hall recently. More than 5,000 from all parts of the nation attended, representing the interests of nearly three million girl and adult members of GSUSA.

Chancel Choir members with David Heinzman (front) don period costumes for boar's head dinner

Presbyterian church plans holiday feast

An unusual evening of entertainment and merriment known as the "Boar's Head Festival Dinner" has been planned by the Music Department of First Presbyterian Church of Northville for November 30 and will be repeated through December 2.

A full course dinner of soup, drumsticks, wild rice, roast beef, vegetables, figgy pudding and the traditional Wassail will be accompanied by the 40-plus Chancel Choir in period costumes.

Gourmet Gatherings, graduates of the Culinary Arts Department of Schoolcraft College, will be preparing the holiday meal.

The Royal Feast, hosted by King Burr De Ville and Queen Karin von Bauernbergen, also will feature a string quartet, harpsichord and brass ensemble, troubadours and Court Jester. Festivities will be held in the candlelit Fellowship Hall, decorated as an English medieval castle.

According to David Heinzman, director of music at First Presbyterian Church, each course of the feast is presented to the court with trumpet fanfare and ceremony, including the presentation of a boar's head. After dessert, the choir will present a concert.

Dinner hours are 7:30 p.m. November 30 and December 2 and 8 p.m. December 1.

Tickets are $20 per person. They may be ordered by sending check, money order or Visa/Mastercard information made payable to First Presbyterian Boar's Head Festival and mailed to the church at 200 East Main, Northville. All orders must include a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For further information, contact the church at 349-0911.

Christian Science special service announced

A special hour-long Thanksgiving service is planned for 10:30 a.m. Thursday by the area Christian Science congregation at First Church of Christ, Scientist, 1100 West Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

"A passage from Psalms provides the keynote for tomorrow's service: 'Praise ye the Lord: for it is good to sing praises unto our God... He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.'"

The service will be conducted by the First Reader, Frank Riley of Belleville, and by the Second Reader, Mrs. Dawn Evans of Livonia.

The sermon, "Thanksgiving," will explore the importance of gratitude in daily life and will include passages from the Scriptures and accompanying selections from Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy, the founder of Christian Science.

Planners of the service state that the lesson readings emphasize that Thanksgiving is far more than a passive postlude to blessings.

"As a passage from Science and Health asks," they relate, "are we really grateful for the good already received? Then we shall avail ourselves of the blessings we have, and thus be fitted to receive more. Gratitude is much more than a verbal expression of thanks. Action expresses more gratitude than speech."

The service will include hymns of praise, brief silent prayer and the Lord's Prayer. The latter portion of the meeting is being set aside for spontaneous testimonies of gratitude to God.

All Christian Science services are open to the community with families and neighbors especially invited to attend this annual gathering at the church which has served the Plymouth-Northville area for more than 80 years.

Methodist children aid UNICEF

Sunday school children at First United Methodist Church collected a total of $97.73 for UNICEF at Halloween. Melinda Smith with $9.67 received the highest amount. The UNICEF collection is made for the United Nations in many areas to help fight hunger and disease for children around the world.

A Thanksgiving season coffee hour will be given at the church for all post-graduate high school students in the fellowship hall after the 11 a.m. worship service November 25.

The Northville Record

'84 All-Area offense paved the way in KVC, WLAA

We looked for the folks who steamrolled their opponents all season long, and we found 'em.

Sports writers from the Milford Times, the South Lyon Herald, the Novi-Walled Lake News and The Northville Record met recently to pick the cream of the crop from the football teams of eight schools in their circulation area: Milford, Walled Lake Central, South Lyon, Northville, Whitmore Lake, Lakeland, Novi and Walled Lake Western.

After haggling for hours about the relative abilities of their nominees, they came up the group they think represents the area's very best football talent — and here they are, beginning with the All-Area First-Team Offense:

MIKE HARPER gets the nod at quarterback for First-Team honors. The Lakeland signal-caller completed 71 of 173 passes for 942 yards — a new school record. An All-KVC honorable mention selection, the 5'11" 145-pound senior fired nine touchdowns strikes.

"Mike really did a good job back there," observed Coach Kent Griffiths. "He's one of the hardest-working players we had." Even arch-rival Milford Coach Jim Scraeder had to admit, "Mike's an excellent quarterback. He reads defenses and throws the ball as well as anybody."

South Lyon Coach John Switchenko reserves his superlatives for the Lions' star running back, DAVID IAFOLLA. "I think, by far, he's the best football player in our league," Switchenko boasted. Indeed, the quick, powerful 6-0 205-pound junior rushed for 1,039 yards and eight touchdowns in just 155 carries and was named first-team All-KVC at both running back and linebacker. "He provided leadership for us," Switchenko added of the Lion tri-captain. "He's one of the most outstanding football players I've ever coached."

RICK VANBUREN of Northville wasn't even a starter for the potent Mustangs of 1983. But this season the 6'1" 170-pound senior blazed out of nowhere with 4.7 speed, deadly open-field moves and a determination to improve his running skills with each game.

"After a few games, he really started to hit his stride," said Mustang Coach Dennis Colligan. "He had a great season." And how — VanBuren racked up 1,126 yards, a school record that included a game-record 233 yards against Plymouth Salem. He scored nine TD's and was named to the All-Western Lakes Activities Association team.

1984 was not one of Walled Lake Western's best years. But that wasn't because of All-Western Division fullback MIKE CRAIG. Craig rushed for 620 yards and caught 14 passes for 154 yards.

"Mike's a tough guy up the middle," Warrior Coach Chuck Apap said of the 6-0 170-pound senior co-captain. "He has good agility and the ability to break it open. He's not flashy, just strong. He was also a fine blocker."

The Walled Lake Central Vikings' senior receiver JEFF HENRY rewrote Central's record book with his 30 receptions this year, gaining 530 yards and scoring four touchdowns. The 6'0" 170-pound senior, an All-Lakes Division selection, doubled at safety on defense and had six interceptions. "He has the speed and is able to find the opening," said Viking Coach John VanSicklen.

Holding down the other receiver slot is 5'7" 145-pound senior JIM SINCLAIR of Novi. The split end grabbed 31 passes for 747 yards and seven touchdowns this year, providing fireworks and leadership for the rebuilding Wildcats. He was a first-team All-Kensington Valley Conference selection.

All-Area center GREG WENDEL was the heart of the 7-2 Northville Mustangs. The 6'4" 215-pound senior co-captain called all the offensive blocking schemes, was a quick, powerful blocker and executed every punt and kick for Northville without one bad snap.

As a strong side defensive end, Wendel made 37 first hits and had three fumble recoveries. A vocal, fierce competitor, Wendel was the All-Western Division pick at center.

At 6-4, 215 pounds, KENDALL STEVENS was literally the biggest factor in the success of South Lyon's consistent passing and running attacks this season. But the All-KVC offensive lineman has more to offer than size.

"He's very aggressive, very quick for his size," Lion Coach Switchenko said of his senior tackle. "He could cover a lot of ground. He'd keep driving his man out of the hole, and created a lot of opportunities for David (Iafolla) and our other running backs."

Northville's JOHN STORM is more a force of nature than an offensive tackle. The big Mustang senior was an All-WLAA offensive lineman. Always a good short-yardage power blocker, he greatly improved his speed and agility this season, becoming valuable in Northville's outside and inside running attack.

Execution was vital in South Lyon's blocking schemes, and senior guard KEITH COLLINS is an executioner supreme. The 5'9" 190-pound guard was an honorable mention All-KVC pick tagged by Coach Switchenko as a "good, intelligent athlete who makes very few mistakes. We do a lot of traps and our guards have to do a lot of downfield blocking," Switchenko added.

With Storm and Wendel, Northville guard CHRIS SHUFF was an honored guest among the offensive linemen VanBuren took to dinner after they paved the way to the tailback's rushing record. A quick, hard-hitting 6'0" 180-pound senior, Shuff was an All-Western Division selection at guard. He also was an outstanding contributor at linebacker, possessing speed and power.

Central kicker JIM ZIOLA has been the All-Lakes Division kicker two years running, and is the only player to return to the first-team All-Area squad. The 5'11" 160-pound senior connected on all three of his field goal attempts this year, including one three-pointer from 44 yards out. He converted 12 of 15 extra-point tries.

Defense a real wrecking crew

What a wrecking crew — when members of the 1984 Silger/Livingston All-Area East football team defense were in a collision, they did major-league damage.

The sports editors from The Milford Times, The Northville Record, The South Lyon Herald and The Walled Lake-Novl News selected this team of 12 athletes from Lakeland, Milford, Northville, Novi, South Lyon, Walled Lake Central and Western, and Whitmore Lake high schools.

As any coach knows, a defense is only as strong as its linebacking corps, and any coach would love to have had a duo such as the two players on the All-Area team.

Spearheading the team is senior DOUG HARTMAN of Northville. The 6'1" 198-pound linebacker was a co-captain for the Mustangs and earned first-team All-Western Lakes Activities Association honors for 1984.

"He's a terrific player on both sides of the ball," said Northville coach Dennis Colligan said the Mustangs' team MVP. "He made his presence known." Hartman finished the season with 66 first hits, 46 assists, had four tackles that caused fumbles, plus he recovered two fumbles. When he wasn't stopping the other team, Hartman rushed for 701 yards in eight games as Northville's fullback.

The All-Area team's other linebacker also caused plenty of trouble for opponents this fall. Senior MIKE VAN SICKLEN of Walled Lake Central had 85 tackles this fall in eight ball games. The Viking co-captain was named All-Division linebacker the past two seasons by WLAA coaches.

"Mike really ran our defense," stated Central coach John Van Sicklen, Mike's father. "He was our mainstay in there."

Helping the linebackers crunch down on offenses in the middle were three outstanding defensive linemen. This trio is big and strong, good for making a solid impact.

Anchoring the defensive line in 1984 is MARK DEAL, a junior at Northville. Deal dealt with opposing teams in a very halting manner. The 6'2" 212-pounder finished up with 41 first hits, 30 assists, six quarterback sacks, recovered two fumbles and even intercepted a pass.

According to Coach Colligan at Northville, Deal is extremely quick and the team's strongest player. Deal also earned All-WLAA honors this fall.

SCOTT BOOTH of Lakeland was a versatile player on defense who could line up at either linebacker or on the front line. At 5'10", 205 pounds, the senior earned All-Area honors with 50 first hits, 45 assists, a pair of sacks on the quarterback and one fumble recovery.

"He's quick — has real good feet for a big kid," explained Lakeland coach Kent Griffiths. "He was also one of our strongest kids." Booth was named by the coaches of the Kensington Valley Conference to their second-team defense.

The All-Area first team's other interior lineman was also a second-team All-KVC choice in 1984, as well as in 1983. ED MARESH, a 6'1" 205 pound senior was "our defensive standout," according to Coach John Osborne of Novi. "Ed was the leader of our defense in the line. He always made a defensive statement."

Osborne had another defensive standout this fall in KJELL JOHNSON. The senior defensive end earned All-Area honors for 1984 with 21 first hits and excellent speed the kept teams from running outside on Novi. The two-way player was picked as an offensive lineman for the All-KVC second team.

"He's a real good athlete and plays the field well," Osborne said. The coach added the 6'1" 180-pound Johnson had excellent penetration and was an intelligent player.

Playing the other side of the All-Area defensive line is end DINO CANDELLA of Northville. The 6'1" 195-pound senior earned All-Division honors with 19 first hits and 21 assists.

"Wrestling experience made him extremely strong," stated Mustang coach Colligan. "He was a great inside and outside asset to us."

With defensive people like that up front, it's no wonder why area teams tried to throw the ball this fall. That turned out to be not such a good idea.

Only three things can happen when you throw the ball, and two of those are bad — incompletions and interceptions. From the look of things, not many balls hit the turf this past season.

Junior MIKE NIELSEN intercepted seven passes for Milford this season, returning one all the way for a touchdown. He also had 21 first hits playing safety for the Redskins.

Though a bit on the small side (5'8" 160), NIELSEN made up for it with quickness, jumping ability and timing. "No doubt Mike was our leader in the secondary," stated Milford coach Jim Schroder. "He didn't take a backseat to anybody."

South Lyon contributed a pair of defensive backs to help shore up the secondary on the All-Area team.

Senior SCOTT WARFORD finished the season with four interceptions for South Lyon. "He did a good job for us covering the pass and stopping the run. He's very much a team player," said Warford's coach, John Switchenko.

The 5'8" 160-pound Warford used his speed (4.6 in the 40) to earn All-KVC second-team honors in the secondary.

South Lyon junior BRENT HEPPNER was his team's top interceptor with six.

"He's a natural athlete," stated Switchenko. "It's nice to have him coming back next year." Heppner's good hands also served him well on offense where he was the Lions' leading receiver.

DON NORTON covered his territory just fine, according to his coach at Northville. "Don has a great sense of the field from free safety," said Coach Colligan. "He has the knack of being right on the ball and reading plays."

A 6'1" 155-pound junior, Norton finished the "8"4 campaign with six pickoffs and earned All-Division honors as a defensive back. Northville's kick and punt returner, Norton never fumbled a chance until the last game of the season.

One of the best players around at putting the opposition in bad field position was Milford punter TIM REEVES. The senior punted the football 51 times for a 36.5 yard average. Reeves (6'3" 165 pounds) boomed one ball this fall 65 yards and did not have any attempts blocked. Because of the excellent hang time of his kicks, opponents returned very few punts against Milford, according to Redskin coach Schroder.

"He's as good a punter as I have seen in a long time," added Schroder. Reeves also hurt teams with his pass-catching abilities, leading Milford with 22 receptions for 375 yards and four touchdowns.

Mustangs get short end in rematch with Canton

It was deja vu blast week, all right. It just didn't last long enough.

The rivals were the same as they were a month before: Northville and Plymouth Canton. The location was the same: Canton's gym. The score at the end of regulation time was the same 26-26.

But the overtime result of Tuesday's WLAAC consolation battle was different. This time Canton won, 31-26.

"I don't know where you'll find two more evenly matched teams," sighed Northville Coach Ed Kritich. "They match up with us almost exactly — one real good inside player, one good quick shooting guard, one quick point guard ... If you changed the uniforms, probably nobody would have noticed."

The two teams will clash for the last time next Wednesday in the Class A district tournament at Westland John Glenn, with the winner advancing to the district final to play either Salem, John Glenn or Livonia Churchill.

"I think we have a good shot at beating Canton on a neutral court," Kritich said. "We'll have Roxanne Serkalian back, and that'll make a big difference."

Serkalian, recuperating from surgery, was unavailable last week, and there's little doubt the sophomore guard's outside shooting might have loosened up Canton's tight zone defense. As it was, the low-scoring defensive battle was as deliberate as suspenseful.

After trailing 16-7 early in the third quarter, Northville came alive with an 18-4 run to make the score 25-20 with four minutes to play.

The Chiefs rallied again with three unanswered buckets. With 30 seconds left, Sue Terwin drew a foul and hit the front end of a one-and-one to tie the score. Neither team could manage a basket in the remaining time.

But the Mustangs went 0-for-5 from the floor in OT while the Chiefs canned five free throws. "They dared us to shoot from outside on them, and we just couldn't hit 'em," said Kritich.

Tricia Ducker led Northville scorers with eight points. Terwin added seven and Kathy Korowin four. Also pitching in with four important points off the bench was sophomore forward Anne Griffith. "She did a real nice job," Kritich said. "Usually I bring in Roxanne in that situation, but Anne had played well in practice this week. She really came through."

Friday, the Mustangs vented their frustrations on hapless Harrison with a 54-27 win — the first time Northville has scored in the 50's in years. Ducker hit all nine of her shots from the floor to score 20 points, a career high.

Terwin added 12 points, seven rebounds and three steals in a strong performance. Center Erin Ryan hauled in seven rebounds, and Mary Howley, a quick defensive specialist, showed some good offensive moves with six points off the bench.

Tankers eighth at conference meet

As expected, Livonia Stevenson easily outdistanced the field at the Western Lakes Activities Association swim meet last Friday. But Northville's eighth-place finish featured plenty of bright spots.

The Spartans grabbed nearly a third of the available points at the meet, amassing 345 total points. Plymouth Salem was a distant second with 218, Canton third with 166, followed by Farmington Harrison (108), Livonia Bentley (80), Livonia Churchill (75), Farmington (69), Northville (64), Walled Lake Central (60) and Walled Lake Western (12).

Swayne's top rookie

Northville's Kevin Swayne, a junior at Central Michigan University, was named "Rookie of the Year" for the 1984 Chippewa varsity soccer team at the team's annual awards banquet.

Swayne was tied for the team lead in goals, scoring eight while splitting time between striker and midfielder. He also contributed two assists.

"Kevin has good ball control and is aggressive in taking shots," said CMU Coach Jim Hornak. "He has a strong shot from the halfback (midfielder) spot and that helped the team a great deal."

Swayne qualified for the Rookie of the Year award in his junior season after transferring to the Chippewas from Alma College, where he also played soccer.

Swayne tied the CMU record for most goals in a game this year, scoring four in a 10-1 win over Northwood Institute.

Odom wins last grid contest

The 1984 edition of The Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News football contest is over ... with some interesting results — nobody turned in a perfect entry all season long and there was a different winner every week.

The best anyone could do last week was miss three games, and there were four entries with three mistakes so the old tiebreaker was again invoked to determine the winners.

The winner was Chris Odom of Northville whose prediction that Ohio State and Michigan would run up a total of 32 points was five off the actual total in the Buckeyes' 21-6 victory. Odom receives $10 for leading the field.

The second place prize of $5 goes to Mickey O'Leary of Westland who predicted that a total of 35 points would be scored in the tiebreaker (eight off the actual total). And third place money of $3 goes to Kim Brining of Northville whose prediction of 38 points in the tiebreaker was 11 away from the actual total.

Kym Astyn of Pontiac also missed three games, but was 14 points off the actual total in the tiebreaker.

Well, that does it for another season. But stay tuned for next year when the games can't get any tougher than they were during the '84 campaign.

Stroller takes his lump

By W.W. Edgar
staff writer

Each year as the Christmas season rolls around The Stroller can't help taking a trip down memory lane to the Christmas of his life that he cried most of the day.

It came about in the most unusual manner.

You see, our little town was adjacent to the Pennsylvania coal regions and the chunks of anthracite were used in many fashions. The most unusual use came at yuletide when we youngsters were warned that if we didn't behave Santa Claus may place some coal in your stocking.

For some years The Stroller had listened to this warning — but he never heard any of his playmates tell of getting a chunk of coal from Santa Claus.

THEN CAME the one Christmas he never will forget. He had been invited to deliver a speech in the little white church on the hill and nothing pleased him better.

For several weeks he had studied his speech, knowing that his Mother would be among the listeners and he wanted to please her.

As the hour approached the snow started to fall and Mother decided that no snow could stop us. So off we went and when the time came we walked up the aisle and The Stroller was taken up to the platform in front of the pulpit.

Fortunately the speech was delivered without a hitch and when we got home with the box of candy and the big orange that the church gave all Sunday School students, Mother said: "Son, you did real good tonight, and I am sure Santa Claus won't forget you."

the stroller
W.W.
Edgar

Then she watched us hang up our stockings. We didn't have a fireplace, so we hung them on the wall just inside the front door. They were placed carefully, and we even asked Mother to keep the door open so Santa could get in easily.

The Christmas spirit had gripped all of us, and we were off to bed with the thought that Christmas Day was going to be great with the gifts from Santa.

As we came down the stairs the girls started laughing as they raced for their stockings and saw the orange and the box of candy at the bottom.

When the young Stroller looked for his stocking, it was still hanging there — but he couldn't see the orange or the box of candy.

Up close, he saw that it was a clunk of coal at the bottom — no orange or candy, just the dirty black coal. He burst into tears. It was the sign that Santa thought he had been a bad boy. And now he must suffer. And what suffering it was. He just couldn't believe that he had been bad during the year.

SINCE THAT morning of long ago The Stroller has enjoyed many fine Christmas Days — the family dinners, the exchange of gifts and the taking of gifts to the poorer kids in our little town.

TV feeds the greed of young consumers

Every year, as surely as the snow comes in December, my kids are assailed by a dazzling array of timely commercials which transform them into greedy little monsters whose every sentence begin with "I want a . . ."

It's taken me years to explain to them that the lively background music and the gleeful children that they hear and see on the television screen do not come with the toy being advertised. Take away the cute little tune and the captivating camera angles that accompany it, and that plastic bowling ball with feet wouldn't be quite as delightful and amusing as it appears to be.

It's a complicated concept, I confess, but after years of drilling it into them (and thousands of dollars spent), I think my kids have come to the realization that there are no sound effects or background music in real life. The toys are never quite as exciting on our kitchen floor as they are on T.V.

It takes more than a spirited little tune to turn their young heads these days, but they still know quality when they see it, and when they see it, they want it!

Jim, my 8-year-old, went into great detail the other day describing to me a toy that he wanted for Christmas. I'd never heard of this particular toy and Jim's description was rather long and complicated. This, of course, was not surprising to me because anything that Jim attempts to describe comes out rather long and complicated. But he's a good kid and I decided if he wanted it that badly, I'd be sure and get it for him.

When I found the item in my trusty catalog, it was listed for $69.99. Can you believe it! Anything that costs $69.99 should be banned from being advertised on daytime television. Only the rich can afford to spend that kind of money on one toy, and they're not watching television during the day. The kids are in boarding school and the parents are probably touring France.

It would be a great deal of help to us all if those brightly colored and entertaining commercials would take a moment or two to, at least, give us a hint at the price of the item. They don't have to be real specific. They could say something like "Sells for under $10," or "This one's between $10 and $20."

Choking a common hazard during the holiday period

Holidays are a time for family gatherings, parties and celebrations.

All too often, though, these joyous occasions are marred by tragic accidents, such as choking.

Choking is the leading cause of accidental death in the home among children younger than 6.

Occurring most often between the Halloween and Christmas holidays, choking claims the lives of almost 2,000 children each year. It has been estimated 87 percent of these cases are a result of carelessness.

To help prevent these heartbreaking and needless accidents, the American Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan is offering its annual Aspiration Program to area nursery, preschool and day-care teachers. Individual brochures and worksheets are available to parents for home use.

Specially designed kits, consisting of posters, worksheets, cutouts and a teaching guide, will be sent to teachers to help them educate children on the importance of proper eating habits and safe play.

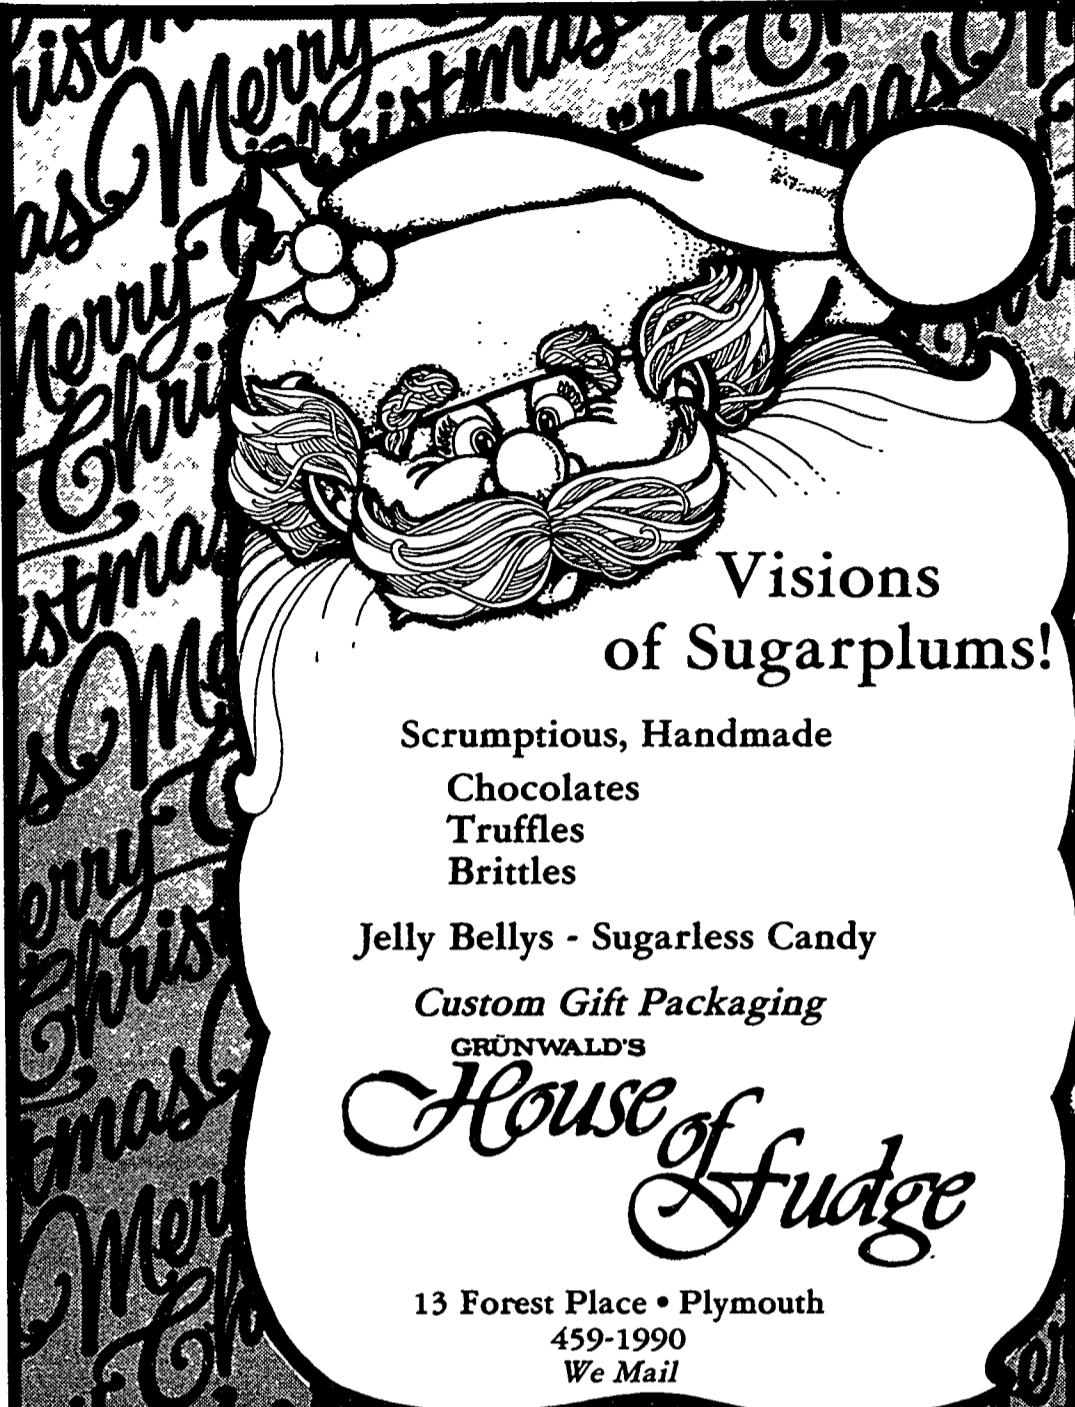

A brochure with guidelines for parents will be included in the kit to reinforce the lesson and offer tips on how to guard against choking at home.

"The concept behind the program," says Carol Cohen, program coordinator of Child Lung Health at the Lung Association, "is for the preschool child to receive the information from someone he/she has an established rapport with, in hopes that the lesson will have a more lasting impact."

Anyone wanting more information on the Aspiration Program and its "Keep Our Children From Choking" teaching kit, or any one of the Lung Association's more than 40 free community services, call 961-1697.

Food drive's goal: baskets full of love

A special food drive is being conducted by the Salvation Army in cooperation with Omnicom Cable.

The food drive was launched on Nov. 8 at Burroughs Corp. on Plymouth Road. More than 1,100 employees donated about 2,000 cans of food to mark the official start of a program called "Baskets Filled With Love."

The drive will culminate in a daylong telethon on Omnicom's Channel 8 in early December. The drive is being spearheaded by Omnicom executive producer Maria Holmes, associate producer Kathleen Mueller and Salvation Army Lt. Larry Manzella.

Burroughs is just one of many area businesses participating to help feed hungry and needy persons in Canton, Plymouth, Northville and Belleville.

Other businesses already signed up to donate canned goods include Ford Motor Co., Spartan Foods, K mart Corp., Del's Department Store, Chatham's, Hamlet Food Mart, Great Scott, Krogers, Miesel-Sysco Food Service, PYA Monarch Food Service and many more.

The telethon organizers also plan to have area schools plus Girl Scouts and Brownies and Boy Scouts, plus service organizations, participate the day of the telethon.

The actual telethon will start at noon on Saturday, Dec. 8, and will last "for however long we have folks coming in to donate their cans of food or calling on phones to pledge money for purchasing food," said Holmes. "The telethon promises lots of fun and entertainment with visits from celebrities including Santa and David Lewis of the Detroit Lions."

Holmes said residents can start donating canned goods right away by dropping off cans at Omnicom's office at 8465 Ronda Drive.

"We hope that those businesses who have not yet signed up will call and join in this special drive. All food collected along with money donated to purchase food will be used right here in our own communities," said Holmes. Holmes and Mueller can be reached at 459-7335 or 459-7331. Manzella may be reached at the Salvation Army at 453-5464.

Books on local history make nice holiday gifts

When buying books for Christmas presents, consider some of the works on local history which are available at moderate prices.

Both Sam Hudson and Helen Gilbert write historical columns for the Observer Newspapers, and both have published books of their writings.

Hudson, author of Past & Present in the Observer for many years, first published "Plymouth Past & Present, A Pictorial History of Plymouth." That publication, which has undergone a second revised printing, is available for purchase at the Plymouth Historical Museum gift shop.

Gilbert, author of Tonquish Tales in the Observer, has published a book under the same title which tells the story of the Tonquish and other Indians in this area. That book is on sale at Plymouth Book World on Forest Avenue, at Little Professor on the Park on South Main in downtown Plymouth, and at the museum gift shop.

Last year Hudson published a history of Schoolcraft College which details the roles many prominent Plymouth residents have played in founding the college and supporting it through the years. That book is available at the Plymouth Historical Museum and at the Schoolcraft College bookstore.

A little boy's last Christmas Eve

By Max Gray
special writer

"While shepherds watched their flocks by night."

Familiar words heard so often during the holiday season. Words that turn our attention back almost 2,000 years to that crisp starlit night in Bethlehem. Words of a time gone by.

As those shepherds sat on the hillside, keeping their night vigil, little did they know what was to take place. Little did they expect to become part of a story passed on through the ages.

History remembers those shepherds as the first to celebrate Jesus' manger birth. Songs and plays to this date still recount those joyous words spoken to them by the angels.

"BEHOLD, I bring glad tidings of great joy."

For me those shepherds and their account of that blessed night brings to mind Butch and his family.

Butch was one of eight children living with their mother downriver. Butch's father worked for years at the local steel mill, earning a meager wage. Yet the tiny income was enough to keep the family happy — though it meant sometimes going to bed hungry and not having the best of clothes.

As fate would have it, one day Butch's father died at the mill. The supervisor told Butch's family it was a heart attack and that he went fast. Despite the great loss, the family went on.

Butch's older brothers pitched in to help the family make ends meet, though none ever complained about their lot in life. But what impressed me the most was the Christmas Butch was chosen to be a shepherd in the church's Christmas play.

WHILE OTHERS begged to be Mary or Joseph, Butch quietly whispered he wanted to be a shepherd.

He didn't plead to be the star; he just wanted to be in the play. While the others bid for the lead roles, Butch anxiously waited for his Sunday School teacher to ask who wanted to be a shepherd.

When she finally asked, Butch's hand shot up like a rocket. His hand was accompanied with "ooo's" and "ahhh's," as he wiggled to get his hand higher than anybody else.

The Sunday School teacher smiled and nodded. "OK Butch, you'll be a shepherd."

YOU WOULD have thought she gave him a pot of gold.

Butch was so excited he couldn't wait to get home and tell mom. He always wanted to be in the Christmas play.

At the time, nobody knew how important it was for Butch to be in the Christmas play. Butch was very ill, and I still believe somehow, somehow, he thought that might be his last Christmas.

Butch faithfully attended the rehearsals, while his mother and sisters worked on his shepherd's costume.

At last the big day came — Christmas Eve. Butch would be the shepherd that night, but something happened that morning.

AS THE family gathered around the table for breakfast, someone noticed Butch was missing.

"Where's Butch?" his mother asked the boys.

The reply came back that he was still in bed. Quickly his mother ran into the bedroom. There was Butch, his body shaking with a fever, his teeth chattering.

It was quiet in the house that day as the doctor came. Butch's mother went in with the doctor while the family and a handful of friends sat around the fireplace.

No one spoke.

Everyone's eyes focused on the flames in the fireplace. Around the room were the Christmas preparations, humble but full of love.

AFTER A short spell, Butch's mother came out. She announced that Butch was gone — he had passed away.

There wasn't a dry eye in the house when she looked back up and spoke again.

"We all know how much Butch wanted to be a shepherd tonight," she said. "But he's gone now to be part of a much greater flock with the true shepherd. Let's not cry out of sadness but joy."

At first I didn't understand her words. But now, several years later, I know what she meant. Butch was much better off.

In fact, his mother easily could have said:

"Behold, I bring glad tidings of great joy."

Seminar on how to buy computer holiday gifts

This year right alongside the dancing visions of sugar plums, Cabbage Patch dolls and other holiday treats will be home computers and software programs.

"The purchase of a home computer and appropriate software can be a real problem for parents," said Kenn Schury, a computer consultant in the area.

A workshop for parents, entitled "Computers for Christmas," is designed to help parents make a wise choice when selecting a family computer.

The course also will help parents learn how to buy quality software. In addition, there will be demonstrations and materials to take home for each parent.

The workshop will be 7-9 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 29, at Dearborn Inacomp. The course costs $20. For further information or to register, call Ron Terry at 274-0090 between the hours of 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"There are at least four factors parents should consider before buying computer hardware and nine when selecting software," said Schury. "Purchasing the wrong computer can mean wasted time, energy, money and extreme frustration."

Holiday hotline

'Tis the season to be jolly, but not everyone is.

In fact, holiday depression affects many people.

Even those of us who readily cope with day-to-day frustrations and upsets may have trouble dealing with the chance of spending a holiday alone, with not having enough money for all the gifts on the shopping list, with going to party after party and not succumbing to alcohol.

To help people avoid the holiday blues, or to shake it if you're already feeling "down," Henry Ford Hospital's Health Care Hotline for November and December offers five simple but effective suggestions. The Hotline, a recorded message, can be heard 24 hours a day beginning Nov. 1, by calling 876-7100.

The Hotline message was compiled from information provided by the hospital's department of psychiatry and chemical dependency.

As the Hotline explains, alcohol (to which many holiday party-goers turn to lift their spirits) is really a depressant. The Hotline offers a suggestion: Try a "people's high," a boost just from spending time with good friends and sharing the excitement of the season.

The Health Care Hotline is a public service of Henry Ford Hospital, including its medical clinic on South Main Street in Plymouth.

How to send holiday cheer to the military

The First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth again is a collection point for Christmas mail to our military men and women — postage free.

Christmas cards and letters may be deposited in the church's office lobby drop-box. The mail deadline is Friday.

Local church and school children are being asked to contribute to the community's cards.

Last year's collection of more than 600 cards went to Marines in Beirut. This year's will be sent to ships in the Gulf of Oman off the coast of Iran.

Envelopes should be addressed "To a Sailor" and sign your name. If you wish, include your mailing address so that you may receive return correspondence.

Petty Officer 1st Class Conrad Thorpe of the Plymouth Naval Recruiting Station has compiled a mailing list of a few ships under sail in several areas of the world. The list is posted in the lobby of the First Presbyterian Church on Church Street just west of Main Street.

If you would like to send your cards to a specific ship, check the list and address your envelope accordingly. Thorpe also has a drop-box at the recruiting station on Penniman Avenue west of Main.

Lighting the tree

Canton's Christmas season officially gets under way at 7 p.m., Monday, Dec. 3, with the lighting of township's tannenbaum at the Administration Building, 1150 S. Canton Center Road. Outside, Canton seniors' Kitchen Band will lead holiday revelers singing and playing Christmas carols. About that time,

Mr. S. Claus of the North Pole is expected to pull up in his sleigh, supplied with "goody packets" for good girls and boys. Inside, folks will warm up with hot chocolate and other refreshments, and trim a second tree with ornaments they've made or donated.

Learning the ropes

By Gary M. Cates
staff writer

Each Christmas you learn something — whether it's something you'd like to do for future Christmases or something you'd just as soon never experience again in your life.

Last year I learned I'd never like to experience that spray-on snow stuff again. It wasn't bad going on the windows, but it was a bear to scrape off.

Anyway, I'm bracing myself until I find out what lesson is in store this Christmas. For myself and wife Debbie this will be the first holiday season in our own home.

I'm bracing because I expect the experience to be fairly enjoyable, much like I expected that spray-on snow stuff to be enjoyable last year.

Our home already has been one very big learning experience.

I've learned about plumbing, painting, wiring and wall repair, while Debbie has learned about Liquid Drano, washing paint brushes, buying fuses and living with plaster cracks.

Shortly after we got married I expounded on my ideas about Christmas at a family get-together. No elaborate decorations, no trees, and especially, no frilly do-dads, I said.

The older, more experienced male relatives assured me, "You'll learn."

NEEDLESS TO say, that first Christmas in our apartment was a learning experience. Debbie is quite a teacher.

I learned there is no limit to the amount of decorations one can own. I learned Christmas trees really aren't that bad. And I learned that, well, everybody has frilly do-dads.

How did this new outlook on Christmas come about? Debbie, in her infinite wisdom, knew how to handle me.

The decorations were there before I could say anything. Seems she ordered them quite awhile back. Same goes for the frilly do-dads — already bought or donated by a relative.

The tree is a different story. She waited for a slight snow fall and trotted me off to the store.

"Oh, look at the trees," she said.

We agreed to a compromise. She got a moderate-sized tree and I got that spray-on snow stuff and a set of stencils. You already know who got the better part of that deal.

Now we have the house. More places for decorations, room for a larger tree, and worst of all, more nooks and crannies for those frilly do-dads.

ACTUALLY, I think Christmas can be rather nice in our house, although I wouldn't admit it to Debbie — you have to keep your bargaining chips.

I'm toying with the idea of lights on the outside, a wreath on the door, and best of all, stockings hung by the fireplace. The apartment didn't have a fireplace, and a wreath would have been tacky looking on the door.

I know Debbie has a few ideas of her own. I'm hoping a couple of them are lights on the outside and a wreath on the door — that way, it's her idea instead of mine when we seek a compromise.

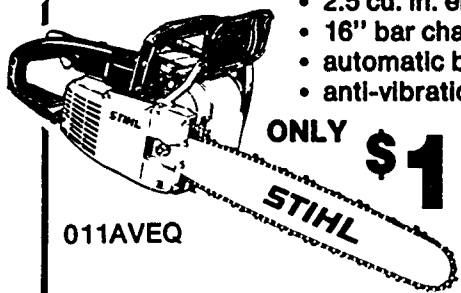

What scares me, though, are the stockings by the fireplace. Debbie's not big on socks, let alone hanging them up.

Teddy bears for tots

Christmas came early for about 30 handicapped youngsters recently when they were presented with "Radar" Teddy Bears at the Masonic Temple in Plymouth by members of the Michigan Chapter of the Paralyzed Veterans of America (PVA).

Also participating in the party were clowns and other members of the Shriners of Southeastern Michigan.

The "Radar" Teddy Bear presentation was part of National PVA "Bear Hug" Day observed last month by PVA chapters across the country. The Radar Bear has become the unofficial PVA mascot and is being promoted with the help of "MASH" actor Gary "Radar" Burghoff.

One of Burghoff's cousins is a veteran confined to a wheelchair because of spinal cord injury. "His personal courage and hope for a cure has helped carry him — and other veterans — through," said Burghoff. "So I decided to make a donation of hope, for every 'Radar' Teddy Bear sold in 1984, to the Paralyzed Veterans of America — an organization that has worked for 38 years to give its thousands of members a real sense of self-worth."

In addition to the Burghoff donation, 20th Century Fox and the manufacturer of the Teddy bear (Allando of California) also will donate a portion of their profits to the veterans' organization.

"Our goal is to bring smiles to the faces of special children from coast-to-coast," said R. Jack Powell, executive director of the PVA. "Many PVA chapters across the nation will join in donating 'Radar' Teddy Bears to their local children's hospitals and organizations."

"Bear Hug Day in October was an opportunity for us to brighten the day for these deserving youngsters, and also is a chance for us to call attention to the various children's hospitals across the country for the fine medical care and rehabilitation services they provide to children."

In Plymouth the PAV passed out Radar bears to handicapped children in conjunction with a special Mini-Clinic conducted to screen for eligibility for admission of crippled or burned children to Shriners Hospitals. The clinic was conducted by Plymouth Rock No. 47, William Perrett 524, Tyrian No. 500 (all Masonic lodges), and Livonia Shrine Club.

The PAV members handed out Radar bears to some of the children who came to the Masonic Temple on Penniman Avenue for the mini-clinic.

Salvation Army will ring for the needy

The bells will soon be ringing at major intersections throughout the Plymouth-Canton community.

The "Bell Ringers" will be at major business locations with the traditional red buckets to raise money for the Salvation Army.

In Plymouth the volunteers to ring bells are members of local service clubs, each of which is assigned a weekend to collect funds for the corps.

This Saturday, for instance, the Plymouth-Canton Civitans and the Junior Civitans will be ringing the bells and manning the buckets for the Salvation Army.

On the weekend of Nov. 30 to Dec. 1, members of the Rotary Club of Plymouth will be seen throughout the Plymouth community while the Canton Kiwanis and Plymouth Kiwanis clubs will be out in full force Dec. 7-8. Canton Rotary will provide the volunteers for the weekend of Dec. 21-22.

All money donated to Bell Ringers goes directly to the Salvation Army and is used to meet the needs of families and individuals in Canton, Plymouth, and Northville.

THE SALVATION Army, located on Main Street just south of Ann Arbor Road, has come to be associated with assistance to needy families, the homeless, the alcoholic, and to others in despair at Christmas time.

The Salvation Army is a religious and charitable organization founded by William Booth, a Methodist minister, in 1865.

The familiar blue uniforms identified with the Salvation Army are symbolic of its quasi-military pattern.

Followers of the Salvationist faith are soldiers and the ordained ministers who devote their lives to the organization's humanitarian pursuits hold officers' rank.

Salvationists believe that they can best serve God by providing practical assistance to the needy. Among the many programs that have grown out of that belief are shelters for the homeless, adult rehabilitation centers, day care centers, hospitals, housing for the elderly, feeding programs, emergency disaster services, and summer camps.

Despite these on-going services, Christmas remains the most demanding time of year for the Salvation Army. Last year more than four million people received seasonal assistance from the Army nationwide.

Familiar red kettles placed on street corners and in shopping centers, canned food and toy drives help to support the Army's holiday ministry.

Lt. Col. Harold E. Shoults, divisional commanding officer for the Salvation Army of the eastern half of Michigan, comments: "There still is a great need in our communities. We hope to provide food and baskets and vouchers to thousands of families, toys for children and hundreds of visitations to shut-ins and hospital patients through out League of Mercy volunteers. That will be quite a challenging assignment but, with the Lord's blessing, we hope to reach all who need our help."

Chris Lore, named to the McDonald's All-American Band, polishes up his trombone to pack away to travel to New York City to appear in the nationally televised Macy's Thanksgiving Parade.

Resident to appear on TV Thanksgiving

A Plymouth teen-ager will be appearing on national television Thursday in the annual Thanksgiving Day Parade in New York.

Christopher J. Lore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Lore of Plymouth, is one of 105 musicians selected to march in the 1984 McDonald's All American Band.

A student of Plymouth Salem High School, Chris was nominated for the band by James R. Griffith, director of the Centennial Educational Park (CEP) Marching Band. He was one of nearly 5,000 high school seniors considered for the band.

The 105-member band, consisting of two high school musicians from each state and the District of Columbia, plus one each from Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam, is a compilation of the best musical talent in the country.

Each member was selected on the basis of his musical achievements, a taped audition, and the band's instrumentation and state representation requirement.

"We will have 105 of the best high school musicians in the country meet for the first time in New York City in November," said Dr. William Foster, director of the All-American Band and director of bands at Florida A&M University. "With less than six days of rehearsal, they will prepare for a debut on national television.

That's quite a tribute to the talent of students like Christopher Lore."

As a band member, Lore will have the opportunity to audition for scholarships awarded by the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Mass., the Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music in Winchester, Va., and the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

In addition, a $500 scholarship in the name of jazz trumpet great Maynard Ferguson will be awarded an exceptional trumpet player in the band. And an endowment scholarship of $1,000 will be awarded to the band member who most exemplifies the spirit and talent of the All-American Band.

A new, professional-model instrument provided by Yamaha Musical Products also will be awarded to a selected All-American Band member. Yamaha is the official band instrument of the McDonald's All-American High School Band.

The All-American Band program was organized in 1967 by McDonald's Corp. to recognize outstanding young musicians. In the band's 18 years, more than 52,000 young musicians have been nominated to the group and the Band has almost 2,000 alumni.

In just 34 days the bows will be untied and wrappings will come off the wondrous gifts for Christmas 1984 — and spectacular they can be.

For Sliger/Livingston Publications readers, reporters have searched out the unusual, the one-of-a-kind, the absolutely ultimate gifts available in the area. They're the kinds of presents that wish books are made of — not for everyone, but fun to consider during the giving season.

Reporters on The Northville Record, Livingston County Press, South Lyon Herald, Novi News, Milford Times, Brighton Argus and Walled Lake News found that area shops are filled with gifts that are new and imaginative for gifted giving at Christmas 1984. Discovering what is new, special and extremely affordable for recipients on Christmas lists has been a fun holiday task.

Woolly lambs and black-face sheep peer out of IV Seasons window in Northville — they range in price from $3-$75.

John Galloway

Move Over Teddy Your Sheep Just Came In

Last year Teddy Bear was everybody's Christmas favorite. Huggable teddy bears are still around, but they're usually wearing a new outfit — tartan vests are especially popular. Paddington bear, almost shoved off the toy department shelves last year by the teddies, also has returned in his familiar yellow coat.

But the new arrival for Christmas 1984 is the woolly sheep — yes, the sheep. Black face versions are as abundant as baby lambs.

They come in miniature sizes to use as tree ornaments and grow to almost life-size.

G. Dewey Gardner, owner of IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts at 149 East Main in Northville, especially likes the sheep that abound in his shop. He has combined them with angels in his displays, pointing out they have an historic significance for Christmas.

The lambs are featured in the store's window decorated for the holidays.

Asked how merchants become aware of, first, the teddy bear trend, and now the fervor for sheep, Gardner explained: "It is the textile manufacturers that start the trends" with the pattern makers following through.

"That also is why," he added, "you will see certain colors predominate during a season."

This year, he advised, watch for "blues combined with mauve pinks in everything."

His sheep wear Waverly plaids, but, he said, "you won't see them duplicated in this area."

Gardner explained that the sheep in his shop are handcrafted and that he obtained an exclusive purchase in this area.

He noted the high quality of the sheep that range in price up to $75.

The exception to the handcrafted ones, he pointed out, however, are the machine-made miniatures made to decorate a tree; they are priced at $3.

For father, a trip to the Popping Gourmet at 139 East Walled Lake Drive (Walled Lake) is bound to result in one of his favorite gifts this year. Owner Ginger Scobie says Butter Rum consistently is the best-seller among men visiting the Popping Gourmet. Scobie pops the corn, prepares the mixes for all flavors and dips the popcorn in her Walled Lake store. She recommends a four-gallon tin of Butter Rum for dad. For other friends and relatives on your shopping list, she offers gift baskets with six to 12 different flavors selling for $15.95 to $24.95.

Byer's Country Store at 213 Commerce Road in Commerce also offers some unique gift-giving ideas. An over-21 brother might enjoy Byer's pewter beer mug selling for $18.

A unique gift for the boss this year might be a German nutcracker from Byers. The nutcrackers come in 15 different styles, ranging from $15 to $75.

Lectra Mitts and Lectra Sox. Battery-heated gloves and battery-heated socks for anyone who spends time in the out-of-doors during the winter. Good for skiers, skaters and snowmobilers as well as for keeping warm at football games. The gloves cost $19.98 and the socks cost $12.98. At Gell's Sporting Goods at the West Oaks shopping center in Novi.

"Frontier," by popular western author Louis L'Amour and photographer David Muench, is a beautifully illustrated hardcover volume sure to please dad. It's $29.95 at Lyon's Book Den, 116 East Lake, South Lyon.

We recommend a stop at Run 'N' Stuff, 22341 Pontiac Trail, South Lyon, when shopping for brother or boyfriend. No matter what age or size he is, there is such a variety of sweat suits that you are sure to find exactly the right one in your price range.

The old art of scrimshaw, always popular out East, is making its way West. The etchings in ivory go well on tie-tacks, belt buckles and knife handles for men. Women can find pendants and earrings with the art. At Cooper's Jewelry in Brighton, customized pieces can be made to order.

Inga Zayti, owner of the Marquis Boutique in Northville, reports she has received her largest shipment ever of the carved figures from Steinbach in West Germany. For a man she suggests the "smokers" who puff away realistically, for $39. For the first time the nutcracker collection contains a replica of Uncle Sam.

Binoculars. You don't have to be an outdoorsman to find good use for a pair of binoculars. They're nice for hiking, sightseeing and a multitude of other uses. Gell's Sporting Goods at the West Oaks shopping center in Novi has a pair of Bushnell Sportview binoculars with instant focus on sale for $65.98.

Good gifts for men are brass and wood figures. Made in the United States, Dressau Brass figurines, unique banks and book ends, make distinctive gifts. Available at Mary Lou's of Milford for $6 to $200.

Wood carvings are also a welcome present, with the best sellers being bird and duck replicas.

At Brighton's Jarvis Men's Store, flannel night shirts are selling well. The red and white striped shirt-tail flannels, a la Scrooge in Dickens' A Christmas Carol, are said to be popular for all age groups.

To fit anyone's taste, buy a magazine, wrap it up with a note that a year's subscription to it has been paid for in your name.

For the candy lovers in the bunch, La Chocolaterie in the Emporium in Brighton carries chunk chocolate by the pound. What better gift than a slab of white, ivory, milk or dark chocolate (or some of all four) for the sweet tooth?

Automatic card shuffler. That's right, you don't have to shuffle your own cards if you own one of these automatic cordless electric card shufflers. It's made for all standard card sizes and will shuffle two full-sized decks automatically. We found one on sale for $10.99 at Tuerkes at the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. Batteries not included.

For the girls or women on your Christmas list, especially a girlfriend or sister, Maggio's Stained Glass at 209 East Walled Lake Drive in Walled Lake offers a colorful assortment of stained glass jewelry boxes. The handmade boxes range from $18 to $65 depending on the size and intricacy of the workmanship.

For almost any woman in your life, a welcome gift for Christmas is a jewelry box. Mary Lou's Priceless Treasures, 314 North Main Street, Milford, features frosted glass boxes framed in silver, with mirrored bottom and a floral design on a clear glass top. Prices are $16.99 for the small box to $19.99 for the large box.

For someone looking to spend a little bit more, cultured pearls are a traditional gift for women. A 16-inch string of individually tied and knotted pearls sells for $250 at The Gold Depot of Milford. Long strings are available.

Jewelry always is popular at this time of year, and one of the best selling items at The Gold Depot, 347 North Main Street, Milford, is Add-A-Bead necklace. Begin with just one or two beads, and add on when convenient. Beads range in price from $1 to $120.

Silky teddies and slinky nightwear always are featured at Christmastime, but flannel also is a big seller this time of year. Flannel pajamas are "the going thing" for women's night time fashion. At the Chest 'N Drawers in the Brighton Emporium they can run from $20-40.

△ Consumers Center Discount Department Store in Howell offers watches for any age and small appliances for Mom, such as a toaster, frying pan, iron and coffee maker.

If you're looking for an investment, as well as a gift, colored gem stones are a good choice. Loose stones bought and then fitted into a chosen setting are something which can go up in value as the years pass. These stones are available at most fine jewelers. At Cooper's in Brighton they also can be set into a custom design.

Keepsake gifts, such as dinnerware sets, can be added to each year and take the worry out of what to get that special person each Christmas. The Village Peddler of Milford has a number of such items, including a handsome Christmas dinnerware collection, with plates, servers, mugs and accessories.

An antique replica roll top desk may be the perfect choice for the studious woman. One such desk, available at Ore Creek Antiques in Brighton, recently was on sale for $650.

If you know a youngster with an out-of-the-ordinary name, and he or she has difficulty finding something personalized, the Next Generation in Brighton is the place to go.

The Next Generation, which now has brand-name clothing from newborns' to grade schoolers' (and is currently in the process of adding a junior shop) will personalize almost anything. Frilly ruffled panties for toddlers, towels, barrettes, ribbons, shirts, catch-all boxes.

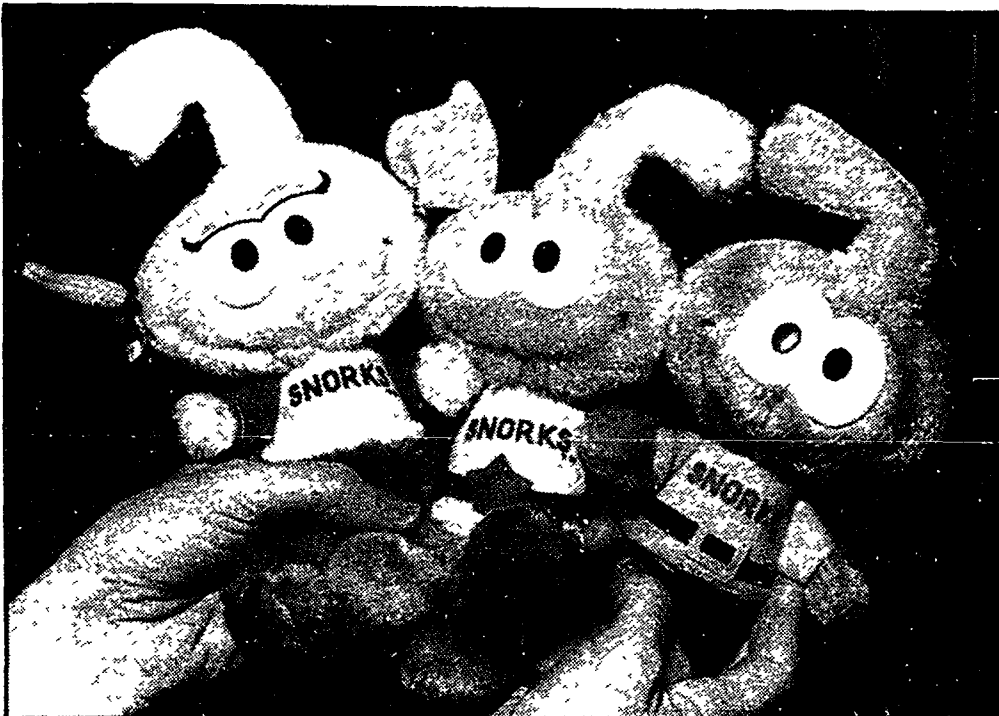

"Alumni" parents may want to start their youngsters out in the tradition of the Maize and Blue or the Spartan Green.

For Dad, brother or boyfriend, Big Wheel of Howell can offer car seat covers, stereos, radios, pictures for the den, exercise equipment, sporting equipment, sleeping bags and clothing.

This year sister is bound to ooh and aah, or a least giggle, when she opens a package of slippers shaped like bears' feet. The "furry" slippers come complete with cloth claws and drawn-on footpads adorning the bottom. The "Bearfoot" made by Neatfeet sells for $22 and can be found on Hudson's upper level, at the top of the escalator at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Christmas Shopping Guide

△ This year, Smurfs are out and Snorks are in. The Village Peddler, 367 North Main Street, Milford, has a complete line of Snork dolls ($15) and accessories, including erasers and stickers.

Another gift idea available at The Village Peddler in Milford for the hard-to-shop-for child is Lucite boxes filled with various items. The boxes come in a number of sizes (.50 to $4) and colors, can be personalized and filled with almost anything.

Cabbage Patch Kids books are big sellers for youngsters at Poor Richards Book Shoppe. The Brighton book store also has plenty of classic children's reading as well as Little House on the Prairie Books, Nancy Drew and more.

Know a tennis nut, a softball fanatic or a studious lawyer? The Art Fair in Brighton sells "People Pots", pottery statues of about 18-inches in height which characterize a number of professions. The People Pots defy description and really have to be seen to be appreciated.

The People Pots, made by Ann Arbor pottist Bob Black, can also be customized. Bring in a snap shot of a favorite person to be molded into a People Pot.

Just 5 min. from I-96

For the sister who is a teenage collector, any member of the authentic porcelain Cabbage Patch family at Barker's Gifts, 117 South Lafayette, South Lyon, is a natural. They sell for $200 and are signed and numbered by the original founder of the popular dolls.

For the little girl (of any age) in your life who has absolutely everything, Little Jim's Incredible Toy Shop on Main Street in Brighton has just the right present.

A doll buggy for her baby doll. This isn't just any doll buggy. This is a handmade wicker perambulator from Germany. Cost? $200. And if she needs a new baby doll to put in this fashionable buggy, Little Jim's has the answer for that too. A porcelain baby doll to fit nicely in the carriage is $117.

Mink goes with anything, anywhere. And when white mink is combined with fitch in an intricate construction, the result is a one-of-a-kind work of art to draw admiring looks wheresoever it goes.

The fitch is worked into a feathered pattern so finely detailed it might have been cut from fabric. The full length, wrap coat is featured in the collection of Onyx Furs at 133 East Main in downtown Northville and is priced at $6,195.

Larry Christoff, owner of the new shop, has stocked a variety of dressy and casual coats and jackets in the shop above the Marquis Theatre in time for Christmas giving.

Gray and white mink furs are worked into a check design for more casual wearing (for $2,995).

Because he buys directly from manufacturers in Montreal, Canada, and Frankfurt, Germany, ordering his own designs, Christoff says he is able to offer "more than competitive" prices on quality furs.

For "a touch of mink" Onyx Furs has mink mittens for $110.

For the woman who likes to feel pampered, but can't find the time to keep her fingernails looking as nice as she would like, what else but a handful — make that two handfuls — of solid gold fingernails.

The 14-karat gold nails, available from California Nails in the Emporium in downtown Brighton, come in a variety of lengths. They are available in pink, yellow or white gold. One nail costs just under $30. Ten fingers of 14-karat gold is about $300.

They make lovely evening wear.

△ Mink is extravagant: there's no question about it. Add it to a one-of-a-kind handwoven cape, and it becomes a most individual Christmas gift.

Wolverine Lake Village resident Julie Stowe hand-dyes and weaves the materials for her garments at her home, although the merchandise is sold from her shop at 210 South Woodward in Birmingham. The $1,000 mink-tail cape is the most extravagant item in her shop this season, she says. The cape has a self-tie scarf with mink accenting the ends of the ties. Mink tails border the yoke of cape, which is woven in teal with accents of black and tan.

Christmas Shopping Guide

Toys — stuffed or oversized, cuddly and warm — are presents for everyone. Most memorable are the unusual ones. Northville shops have some that are prizes.

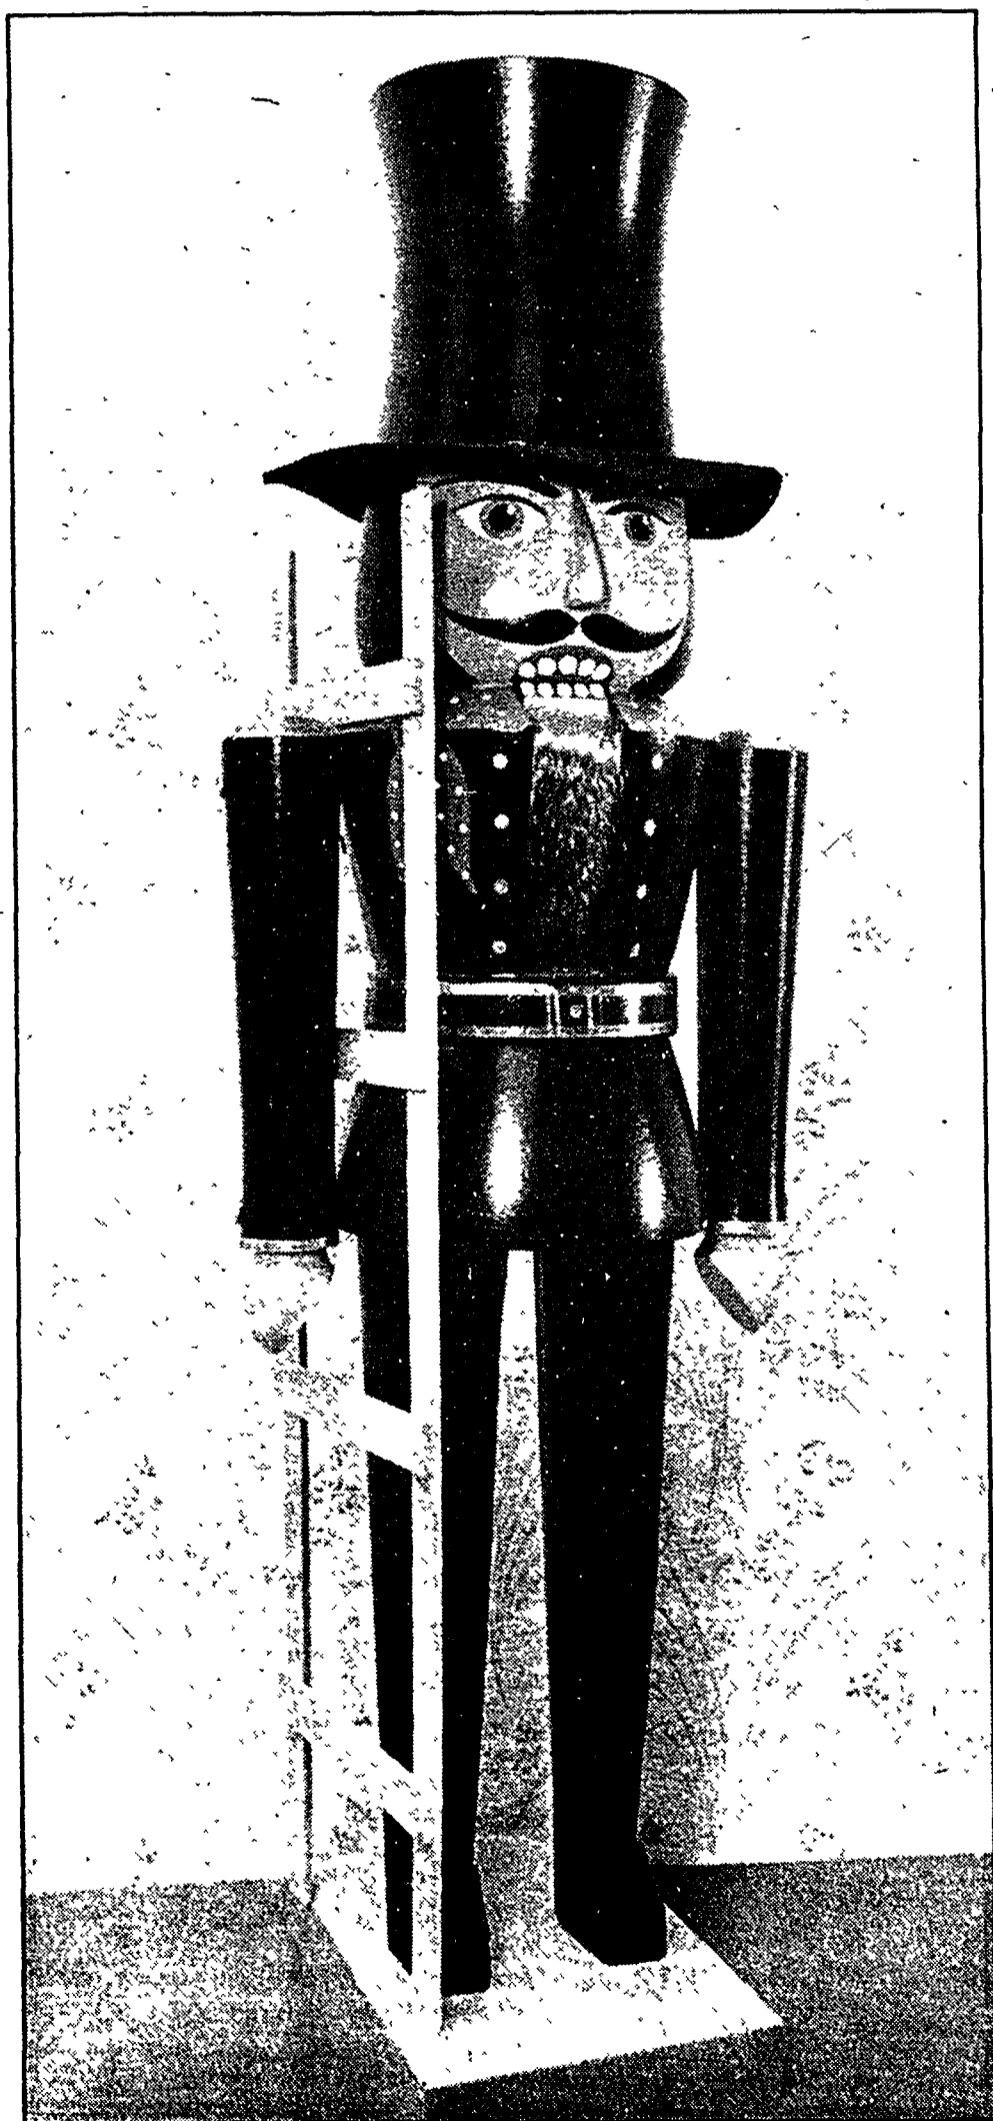

Consider nutcrackers — those brightly colored wooden figures that are a European tradition — as unusual Christmas gifts for young to old. They are equally eye-catching on a decorated mantel, under the tree or in baby's room.

A new addition this year to the collection stocked annually in the Marquis Boutique at 133 East Main in Northville is the chimney sweep. The top-hatted man with his symbolic ladder will be a decorative conversation piece in the largest size priced at $360 for an "all-out" gift.

A small-scale version is $19.50.

Another large scale nutcracker is Pinocchio, priced at $99. The brightly colored storybook character would be a focal point in a nursery or playroom.

With a little imagination and some unlimited funds, it's possible to give a very special gift appropriate to this area where horse farms still exist.

Horses are popular in Livingston County, in particular harness horses. Jack Wiley, a harness horse owner from Howell, said a top-of-the-line standardbred could cost around $300,000. But an average price for a harness race horse is $15,000.

But should that be a little steep, one can be purchased for as little as $3,000-$5,000.

For the man who has everything, if you can't afford the horse, how about buying him a saddle. A fully hand-made, hand-tooled Price-McLauchlin western reining saddle is $1,200 at E. R.'s Saddlery, 117 North Lafayette, South Lyon. The butterscotch-hued live oak leather is top quality and features expert workmanship.

Dad just can't seem to get things organized? Why not invest in a roll-top oak desk with dozens of cubby holes just right for sticking things in. There are 14 tiny drawers and 16 larger drawers. The desk was designed to be sold for $3,575, but has been specially priced. It is found on Hudson's upper level, in the furniture department.

For someone who never seems to know the time or a gift for the home, a Howard Miller grandfather clock is the perfect solution. These classic clocks are available at Mary Lou's in Milford and range in price from $800 to $1,800.

In addition to gaining fame for its Italian food, Genitti's on Northville's Main Street is becoming known for its toys and collectables. In stock now are giant pandas — the biggest priced at $229. For $99 there is Polar Bear to take home.

Should your tastes run to something sentimental, why not have an oil portrait done of someone you love? Howell artist Curtis Watkins said an oil painting (18 by 24 inches) averages about $1,500. Add another $50 or so for mounting and framing.

Royal Doulton makes a complete line of Toby Mugs which are available in two sizes at Mary Lou's of Milford, while others can be ordered. Medium size mugs go for approximately $40, while the larger ones sell for $75.
