Mountain climbing

Though last week's snow lasted only a day, these Northville students on winter break wasted no time in building a fortress before the warm weather onslaught. Roger Sanford, 11, at left.

Debbie Sanford, 6, Kathy Sanford, 10 and Chris DiAngelo found Amerman hill provided just enough of the white stuff to build a winter castle. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Japan program leads to visit with Paula Blanchard

For Northville resident Sarah Conlon, it took a trip to Japan to meet Michigan's First Lady Paula Blanchard.

For the Michigan State University junior, a bus ride to Lansing obviously would have been a shorter route to meet the governor's wife.

However, for Conlon and other college students studying in Japan, the chance meeting was a classic case of being in the right place at the right time.

Conlon, who spent most of last year on a work-study program in Otsu, Japan, said she was one of four students selected to work as a volunteer during Governor and Mrs. Blanchard's goodwill mission to Japan last autumn.

Conlon explains that the Michigan delegation's visit was to "show the Japanese that Michigan makes more than cars."

She notes that she met the governor's wife during her volunteer stint as a sales clerk in a Tokyo department store. Students working as volunteers passed out samples of Michigan products to Japanese customers.

Conlon says she also met with Blanchard when she visited Otsu to ride the "Michigan," a replica of a Mississippi paddle wheel which travels around Lake Biwa, the largest fresh water lake in Japan.

Conlon, a 1982 Northville High School graduate, worked on the "Michigan" during her nine-month visit in Japan. She explains that her waitressing job on the paddle wheel boat (which boasted three restaurants) was part of the cultural exchange program sponsored by Biwako Kiesen, the Japanese firm which hosted the group of Michigan college students.

Conlon says she first heard of the work-study program while attending Alma College. However, she points out that a stipulation of the program was that participants must attend Lansing Community College.

"Eight of us (from Alma) took classes in Lansing for two months (prior to leaving for Japan)," Conlon explains.

"I couldn't have done it without the program," she says, noting that students were provided with transportation, an apartment and living expenses during their stay. The only student costs were tuition for classes which included such subjects as business management, Japanese geology, religion, etc.

She notes that her stay in Otsu, a small country town about 25 minutes from Kyoto by streetcar, was one of the highlights of her visit.

Despite the fact that Conlon and her fellow college students were the only foreigners in Otsu, she notes they "were very well received."

"The people were very friendly," she says. "I hope someday I can pay back one-tenth of the kindness they showed me."

Conlon explains that while she studied both French and Spanish at Alma, she only had a two-month introduction to Japanese before her leave.

Although she has transferred to Michigan State this term to study Japanese (Alma does not offer Japanese in its language program), Conlon says she picked up quite a bit of the language during her stay.

She refers to her ninth-month visit as a "living language laboratory" which provided her with a more than ample introduction to conversational Japanese.

She further explains that not only did she learn quite a bit of the language but "acquired a country dialect" while living in Otsu.

Conlon notes that a typical day entailed working four one and a half hour cruises on the "Michigan" with a 20 minute break between each. Classes were taught by Lansing Community College faculty at the Biwako Kiesen Hotel in Otsu and students were given two days off every other week.

She notes that the "Michigan" was a popular Japanese tourist stop and attracted visitors from throughout the country.

"We posed for a lot of pictures and signed a lot of autographs," Conlon says, noting that the boat's American help netted as much interest as the cruise.

During her work-study breaks, Conlon says she traveled to areas such as Tokyo, Hiroshima and the Japanese Alps.

She explains there is "a lot of American influence in Japan," most notably in the city where American films, dress, music and food are prevalent.

Rezoning to be debated

Township planners will consider possible rezonings on property owned by the state of Michigan and Wayne County in public hearing at 7 p.m. January 8 in Northville Township Hall.

All the property — currently vacant but formerly portions of the Plymouth Center for Human Development and the Wayne County Child Development Center — is zoned for single family, residential uses.

Proposals to be discussed at the hearing would change zoning classes on various portions of the properties to allow industrial, office and multiple family development.

The state department of mental health, which holds title to the Plymouth Center property, has declared more than 200 acres of it surplus and suggested it be sold. The legislature failed to approve the sale before the end of its session last year, but will likely take up the matter early this year.

Supervisor Susan Heintz led the township-generated rezoning proposal, suggesting that different zoning could aid in efforts to ensure the land is returned to the tax rolls and not used for institutional or other non-taxable development.

After the hearing, township planners may opt to recommend a course of action to the township board of trustees. If the planning commission does forward a recommendation, the board (which has final authority over zoning classifications) could act as early as January 10, when it meets for its first regular session of the year.

If the commission does not make a recommendation immediately, it could either call a special meeting or await its regular monthly session January 29.

Local merchants report increase holiday business

An informal post-Christmas survey of local merchants indicates that, for most, the 1984 holiday season was definitely better than that of 1983 with sales up 30 to 40 percent at some stores.

Merchants also report that the December 26 sales were much better than the previous year's day after Christmas ones, by as much as 50 percent.

Sandie Thorsen of Sandie's Hallmark Shoppe at 124 East Main said, "People were at the door at 8:15 a.m. wondering if I was going to open early."

"I opened at 9 a.m. and by noon we were wiped out (of Christmas merchandise)."

Scott Lapham at Lapham's Clothing at 120 East Main noted there were a lot of size exchanges the day after Christmas and said it would take a week for the store to know exactly how the holiday business summed up.

Diana Black, a member and a past president of the Northville Retail Merchants' Association, said sales at Del's Department Store at 141 East Main "definitely were up for the whole season."

She added that she felt the economy "shows signs that retailing will be good in 1985."

Haggerty sewer district assessment hearing set

Another step toward construction of a major interceptor sewer along the Haggerty Road corridor through Northville Township is scheduled to take place in the next two weeks.

The township board of trustees will conduct a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Thursday on the proposed assessments against property owners in the district. The assessments will produce nearly $1.4 million of the estimated $3.13 million cost of the project.

Formal board action adopting the assessment roll likely will not take place until the regular monthly meeting of the board January 10.

Other funding for the sewer would come from the city of Novi ($350,000), Northville Township ($450,000) and a "unit factor access charge" of $932 for each single family unit or equivalent tied into the system. These access charges would generate more than $300,000 to offset construction costs.

Assessments are divided among the 84 properties within the district by a combination of methods. Part would be charged according to the front footage each property has facing the sewer lines; the remainder according to the number of single family homes (or structures placing similar demand on sewers) that could be constructed on the property under present zoning laws.

The sewer would serve properties on Eight Mile, Haggerty, Six Mile and Five Mile roads. In the early planning stages, township officials had proposed it also serve the Meadowbrook Estates subdivision and homes on Pierson and Smock streets — all north of Seven Mile near Haggerty. But residents of that area told the board they did not wish to participate in the special assessment.

Mixup results in soaked toys

Thanks to a communications snafu, many of the toys earmarked for distribution to needy children under the Toys for Tots program locally were damaged by the rainy weather and cold temperatures over the last week.

According to Bob Cummings, president of the Northville Jaycees, response to the organization's Toys for Tots program was so overwhelming that the large collection box downtown had to be emptied twice prior to Christmas.

"They (the toys) must have been deposited last week," Cummings said Monday. "We distributed the toys a couple of times. We took them to a church, and the church people said it's just too much. We were having a tough time finding somebody to take it."

As late as Monday, the box literally was overflowing with toys. Some not protected by plastic bags were damaged by rain, snow and frost since the holiday.

Cummings, unaware of the overflow when contacted, said he had expected volunteers to have emptied the box. "We'll probably get rid of the stuff today (Monday)," he said. "We'll have to find a truck to haul it off."

Tweety and Stevie

With New Year's Day comes Northville's First Baby Contest, and here's 1984 winner Stephen Alexander Selinsky to help plug the 29th annual competition. In addition to the title of First Baby of 1985, this year's winner will receive prizes from many participating merchants, as did Stephen, born at 4:20 a.m. January 2, 1984. This year, a special wrinkle will be provided by Stephen's dad, William Selinsky, who will give an hour of free legal time to the parents of the 1985 winner. Friends or relatives may report the first baby born in 1985 to parents with a Northville mailing address by calling 349-1700. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Wixie's home!

Wixie, a small black cat with gold eyes, returned home about 11:20 p.m. December 22 in time to "make Christmas" for Yulonne Nichols, pictured with her granddaughter Bonnie Rachel Plueddemann, 2½, and the wandering feline. A stray adopted by Steven Nichols and his family last June when he was a small ball of fur with a dislocated hip. Wixie arrived about the same time as the black panther sightings in Wixom, hence his name. He had been missing for almost three weeks when a neighbor, Therese Mason, called to say she thought he was in the yard. "It was the wonderful feeling," reported Mrs. Nichols, saying Wixie was hungry but not starving. No one knows whether Wixie just decided to return for Christmas, or whether someone may have taken him in and then read Mrs. Nichols' appeal in the December 19 Record for his return. Any way, it made a happy Christmas for his owners. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Bill Kelley was presenter

In last week's Northville Record a picture was shown of longtime Winchester Elementary custodian Ed Cummings being surprised with a special testimonial day.

Before school recessed for the Christmas holiday, the popular school district employee was given a tool box and framed photos and a poem was written in his honor.

The presentation was made before some 500 students at a school program by Bill Kelley, president of the Winchester Student Council, who had organized the testimonial day. While he was shown at the right in the photograph, identification was lacking. Since school already was closed for the holidays, Record staffers regret that they were not able to discover his identity by press time.

Correction

Two clarifications need to be made regarding last week's article about WXYZ-TV "Good Afternoon Detroit" production assistant Laurie Leinonen. Leinonen does not produce Sylvia Glover's shopping features. She assists Glover, who has chief production responsibility for her own features. Also, Leinonen does not hope to produce a feature a week for the program. "Once every two weeks would be more like it," she said last Friday.

Hartners gather for reunion

"Home for the Holidays" meant a reunion of five generations at the Herman "Bud" Hartner home on Randolph Christmas Eve.

Newest member of the family, baby Aaron David Hartner, who was three months old on Christmas Day, became the fifth generation member in a longtime Northville family.

The baby's father, Tim Hartner, was born in Northville. With his wife Julie (the former Julie MacGregor of Livonia) and their baby son, Tim came from Lawry Air Force Base in Denver.

Tim is one of six children of David Hartner, a Northville native now living in Lansing.

David is the son of the Herman Hartners. Bud Hartner, a former city fire chief and D.P.W. superintendent, retired several years ago after 32 years' service with the City of Northville.

He is a life resident of Northville. His parents, the senior Herman Hartners, were 60-year residents of Northville and were the last residents of the home on East Main that now is known as the Hunter House in Mill Race Historical Village. An unusual double-wing Greek revival style, the house was moved to the Mill Race when Griswold was cut through to Seven Mile.

The senior Herman Hartner died two years ago. His wife Ethel now lives with Bud Hartner's sister and brother-in-law, Ethel and Irvin Ware, on Horton.

Ethel Hartner is the great great grandmother of Aaron.

Bud Hartner's wife Marguerite also grew up in Northville. Her family, the John Nortons, lived on South Main. Mrs. Hartner's mother, Martha Toll Norton, also was a native of the community.

Getting the five generations together for dinner and gift-giving made Christmas a "most joyous occasion," Marguerite Hartner sums up.

Extended school year plan dropped

A plan to add 10 days to the school year has been dropped from recommendations of the Governor's Educational Summit Task Force.

In addition to dropping the plan for an extended school year, the task force did not recommend two other controversial proposals — early childhood schooling for all Michigan four-year-olds and new teacher certification, with educators allowed to teach only in their major and minor areas.

Instead, the group recommended creation of a commission on early childhood education to create a preschool program. It asked that teachers "have adequate academic preparation relating to the particular level of their assignment."

The 15 proposals recommended by the task force included $500 college scholarships for high school graduates with top grades, more student testing at higher levels and a major study to determine how technology can serve students.

"There are not a lot of real tough, original ideas in here — just things that can be implemented next year," said Task Force Chairman Donald Bemis, superintendent of the Utica Community Schools and a trustee of Oakland University.

"We have some tough problems in Michigan education, and I think we've got to be about them," he added. "This is not the definitive long-range plan — just a series of things to make our schools better and more responsible."

Established by Governor James Blanchard to design a short-term legislative plan for education, the six-member task force based its final report on comments from 3,100 Michigan residents who attended five regional summits in November. Those attending reacted to proposals drawn up by the volunteers.

The proposals were to meet three criteria: 1) They must be set up at little or no cost, 2) they must be used in schools in the near future and 3) they can be applied statewide.

The public reacted most strongly against the extended school year proposal which would have added 10 days of class time for students. School districts currently must offer classes to students for 180 days each year to be eligible for state aid.

Rather than requiring 190 days each year, the task force suggested setting up 10 state-financed pilot projects that would add 10 days for teachers. The extra time would be spent in training which now takes them out of the classroom.

"It came through loud and clear that the extended school year was the lowest priority item," commented Bemis. "There was greater emphasis on utilizing time in the classroom."

Top priorities were professional development, ways to improve schools, early childhood education and discipline.

It was not reaction to controversial issues such as early childhood education and teacher certification changes that caused the task force to not recommend the proposals, Bemis said.

"It was because of the specific problems pointed out by people around the state," he noted.

A proposal to change teacher certification originally called for certificates to be issued for 1) kindergarten through fourth grade, 2) grades 5-8 and 3) grades 9-12. Educators would have been allowed to teach only in their major and minor fields of college study.

The plan would have harmed self-contained classrooms, parochial schools and small districts as well the teaching of electives, Bemis said.

"That's practically impossible throughout the State of Michigan," he noted.

The task force suggested that top graduates of every Michigan high school be guaranteed a $500 annual scholarship for higher education. The proposal would help less well-off families, the committee insisted, "which are encountering difficulty in meeting college expenses, even though the students may have achieved an outstanding academic record."

The program will cost $10 million a year once it is fully operational in four years.

While the task force's 12-page report did not recommend state requirements for early childhood education, it did urge incentives to encourage an early childhood education program for four-year-olds.

More than one-third of the state's districts already offer such programs.

College approves LIT pact

Schoolcraft College students will be able to transfer into several programs at Lawrence Institute of Technology in Southfield without loss of credit under a so-called "articulation" agreement.

"It should make our transfer students have an easier time," Schoolcraft College President Richard McDowell told the board of trustees at its December meeting.

In an articulation pact, College A gears its Math 101 course to lead logically into College B's Math 102 — no repetitions of course material, no gaps.

The agreement allows those who earn an associate degree from Schoolcraft to enroll at LIT without loss of credit in three basic areas:

- Bachelor of science with a major in business administration.
- Bachelor of science with majors in pre-engineering.
- Bachelor of science with majors in humanities, mathematics and computer science.

McDowell said a student who does not deviate from the program can attend Schoolcraft for two years, transfer to LIT and complete the degree in the same time as a student beginning at LIT.

Merchants report holiday retail sales up from last year

Inge Zayti, owner of the Marquis Boutique and Import Stores at 133 East Main, said, "We are up."

"It was slow in October, but the open house (Christmas Walk the Sunday before Thanksgiving) was terrific."

She added that she had stocked heavily on the German toy nutcrackers which were very popular. "If you've sold 100 that's good — and we sold 102."

G. Dewey Gardner of IV Seasons Flowers at 149 East Main estimated his holiday business at the store (whose front recently was remodeled into a Victorian facade) was up 30 to 40 percent. He added that many customers said they liked coming to Northville's Main Street to shop better than going to the big shopping malls.

His day after Christmas business, he said, was double last year's.

A spokesperson at Northville Gallery of Flowers at 355 East Main confirmed that holiday sales had been "real good."

At the Northville Plaza Mall on Seven Mile in the township merchants said they felt business was up on days when special promotions, such as antique and craft shows, were held.

Dennis Nostrant of All Seasons Flowers and Gifts in the Northville

Plaza Mall who is president of the mall merchants' association said most mall merchants felt they had an upgraded season.

"I know we doubled our business from last year although we're still on the ladder climbing up."

He said that special mall events, such as the flea market this coming Saturday and crafts and antiques shows, especially, had brought people into the mall "who didn't know we were here."

Later in January, he reported, the mall association plans to have another antique show of qualified dealers.

Nostrant mentioned that Village Bible and Book Store in the mall reported it had an especially good season.

Township Police Blotter

Detroit man arested, charged in automobile theft

A 23-year-old Detroit man was arrested by police December 24 in connection with the theft of a 1984 Oldsmobile belonging to a Silver Springs resident. The complainant reported the car missing to Northville Township Police December 21.

She told police unknown person(s) stole the vehicle parked in the apartment complex lot sometime between 10:30 p.m. December 20 and 4:30 p.m. December 21.

She noted the vehicle was located the time the incident occurred and stated that she has the only car keys. The complainant also told police works for a pharmaceutical firm the trunk of the vehicle was filled with numerous drugs at the time of theft.

Officers at the scene found a quantity of prescription drugs in the trunk of the vehicle. It was noted in the police report that the suspect will not be charged with possession of drugs. The suspect is being held at the 14th Precinct on a larceny of auto charge and two outstanding warrants. The vehicle, which was completely stripped by the time police arrived, was turned over to Northville Township Police. Estimated recovery of the $15,000 vehicle was $3,000 with another $2,000 in damages reported.

Items valued at approximately $2,460 were reported stolen from a Northridge Drive apartment sometime between 9:50 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. December 17, police report.

The complainant told police she returned to her apartment to find the front door closed, but not locked. She noted that she locked the door when she left the residence. Police investigating the scene found no pry marks on the door and noted all windows were secure. Items stolen included two color televisions, a silver plated service set for 12 people, a light brown mink stole, an electric typewriter and a woman's leather coat. Unknown subject(s) stole wheels, tires and a gas cap from a 1983 Renault parked in an Innsbrook parking lot sometime between 8 p.m. December 20 and 8 a.m. December 21, police report. Items were valued at $265.

Gas pump fire tests self-serve law

A potentially-disastrous accidental fire at the self service Gas-N-Go gasoline station at Seven Mile and Northville roads proved the value of the township's ordinance governing such stations last week, fire chief Robert Toms said.

The fire started, Toms said, while a man was filling his car with gas the evening of December 26. "A spark or a cigarette or something lit it off," Toms said. The township ordinance governing self serve stations requires installation of a fire extinguishing system above the pumps, to be triggered by a push button in the booth. Those staffing the booth must have an unobstructed view of the pumps, Toms said. "That's exactly the way it happened — the fire started, the person saw it and hit the button, and it worked," Toms said. Firefighters had to wash down the spilled fuel and the report. Another bright note was that of December 28, township firefighters had not encountered a single Christmas fire this holiday season, Toms said. Those who remembered the 1981 Christmas fire at the Swan Harbor apartment complex got a mini-award when called to one of those involved apartments (since rebuilt), Toms said.

He said an electric kitchen range had not been plugged in properly — approximately one-quarter of the plug was not inserted in the socket. When an aluminum pie tin fell off the top of the range and landed against the two exposed prongs of the plug, it "filled the place with smoke" and prompted the fire run, he explained. Overall, Toms said, fire department activity for 1984 has increased over last year by nearly one-third. In 1983, township firefighters responded to 155 calls, he said. Through December 28, the 1984 count was approximately 195, he said.

In Uniform

Marine Pfc. Roger D. Holcomb, son of Clyde and Mary Holcomb of 42675 West Seven Mile, Northville, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot in San Diego, the U.S. Navy reported in December. During the 11-week training cycle, Holcomb was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines. He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle. A 1984 graduate of Northville High School, he enlisted in the Marines in November, 1983.

Township orders truck to 'attack' grass fires

Anyone casually scanning the agenda for the December meeting of the Northville Township board of trustees could be forgiven for wondering when the township had started procuring military equipment.

Right there in black and white it called for purchase of an "attack pumper." No need for alarm, however. The $44,882 vehicle has a friendlier name: grass rig. What it is, see, is a diesel-powered, four-wheel-drive truck equipped for extinguishing grass fires.

The grass rig is the latest acquisition of the township fire department, or will be when it is delivered roughly five months hence. The board approved ordering the pumper truck through Hilt Fire Fighting Equipment of Northville Road.

Hilt is the area factory representative for Pierce, a firm which manufactures fire fighting equipment, and the low bidder among six from which bids were sought. Only Almont Fire Apparatus of Almont, Michigan, made a competing bid; $49,476.

Four other Michigan firms were invited to bid on the purchase, but did not submit because they were either too busy or for other reasons could not prepare a bid in time.

Funding for township acquisition of the grass rig is 70 percent federal and 30 percent local. The federal money is a portion of the township's federal block grant for the year. Use of block grant funding for fire equipment is frequently disallowed, but the township argued successfully that the grass rig is necessary to combat frequent grass fires on non-taxable government-owned lands. These include Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, Plymouth Center, the child development center, Phoenix Correctional facility and other government-held properties.

Township fire chief Robert Toms explained that the board had appropriated $14,000 in the current fiscal year to pay the township share of the cost. Given the bid price, the township share is $13,465.60.

Toms said the truck stores 250 gallons of water and "will go just about anywhere." He said the township's current equipment frequently has difficulty reaching grass fires in remote areas of vacant land.

Asked by trustee Richard Allen why the department had chosen diesel power, Toms noted that the department has several other diesel trucks and stores fuel for them. He also said the engine in question is designed for truck use and "the U.S. Army just ordered 50,000 of them."

Maybe there's more to this "attack pumper" business than meets the eye.

Frank Williams with cabinet he designed to record his Masonic activities

Frank Williams named Mason of the Year

When Frank C. Williams reminded fellow members of his Northville Blue Lodge Masonic chapter that one of the tenets of Masonry is charity, he had no idea that the project he spearheaded would lead to his being named the chapter's Mason of the Year.

But on November 26 in ceremonies at the Masonic Temple he received the honor "in recognition of distinguished service and personal contribution" from Northville Chapter 186.

Williams had enlisted the help of his fellow Masons to provide holiday baskets and presents to shut-in residents in the community.

As a volunteer in delivering meals to local homebound seniors over 60 years old who live alone through the meals program of the Out-Wayne County Human Services senior nutrition program, Williams had become aware of some special needs.

He is one of the regulars who pick up the meals at Allen Terrace at noon Monday through Friday to deliver. Marilyn Igel, manager of the Allen Terrace program which provides full, balanced meals to homebound and to those who come to the senior citizen complex, lauds Williams as one of the "most faithful."

Allen Terrace is one of 45 sites in the Out-Wayne County program providing the meals. Igel notes that there is provision to pay volunteers mileage money, but says that Williams and all the other local volunteers never have accepted it.

"There are people who can't get out," is Williams of those to whom he delivers. His route includes residents of the Winner's Circle Hotel in town. Learning that there was a family with children living there, Williams arranged for presents for the children. The seven women residents received knitted "footies."

The Mason of the Year program was born three years ago as the idea of a Grand Master of Masons of the State of Michigan. First local recipient of the honor was Bud Miller, son of Harold Penn.

Williams has been a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason since 1963.

He is Past Master of Tuebor Lodge, 578, F & AM, serving as Worshipful Master in 1978. Since 1982 he has been an honorary member of that lodge. He joined the Northville Lodge in 1981.

He joined the Moslem Temple Shrine in 1963.

Williams will have no difficulty remembering his steps in the Masonic order as he is in process of constructing a unique piece of furniture.

Patterned after an antique pie safe, the cabinet in the family room of the Williams' home on Debra will have special pierced tin insets that record his Masonic history as well as the emblems of Masonry. Williams says the Mason of the Year Award already has been entered on the pattern — and is the impetus to finish the special project.

Buildings demolished downtown

Three buildings came tumbling down in downtown Northville last week, in part because those who wanted them demolished got a better deal by hiring the same contractor for all three jobs.

It started at Northville Downs, where a single house remained on a portion of what used to be Church Street but is now a portion of the race track parking lot. Manager Margaret Zayti said the Downs had been renting the house, and when the tenants left at the end of November, it was decided to eliminate the structure to allow expanded parking.

Zayti sought demolition permits from the city and utility companies in early December. City officials, learning of the proposed demolition work, solicited bids to have a house at Main and Griswold taken down at the same time.

City manager Steven Walters told council December 3 that it seemed worthwhile to seek bids at that time because it was possible the Downs' contractor — J.J. Zayti Trucking — could offer a better price because it was already doing work in town. That turned out to be the case, and J.J. Zayti was the low bidder by far.

Another demolition took place on South Center opposite the Northville Lanes bowling facility. The bowling lanes owners (the 10 Grand Club) wanted to get rid of the cinder block building on South Main between Mary Alexander Court and Cady Street.

Walters said the demolition was not in itself evidence of future development at that site, which is adjacent to the city parking deck. "There has been preliminary design work done on a three-story building for that location," Walters said. "It has been before the historic district commission, but the demolition is not indicative of any imminent development there."

He said the three demolitions took place simultaneously because the owners of the three properties (the Downs, the city and the 10 Grand Club) all saw an opportunity to reduce their costs by hiring the same contractor for the jobs. "The price was just too good to pass up," he concluded.

Huntoons seek renter for old bar

Vernon and Doris Huntoon, owners of the hotel at 111 and 113 West Main that formerly housed the Winner's Circle Bar at street level, are seeking a tenant for their building and intend to renovate it in accordance with the tenant's needs, Doris Huntoon said last week.

Passers-by may notice an artist's rendering of how the hotel might look after renovation mounted in the former bar window. Huntoon said that while the drawing is indicative of the intentions for the building, "there's nothing definite."

"We definitely want to make improvements to both the exterior and the interior of the building," she said. "But it pretty much depends on who rents it. If it's a grocery store, say, they might want to keep the big window. But if it was used for offices, they probably wouldn't want the window. It didn't seem to make sense to do anything until we knew what was going in there."

Huntoon said the sketch has been shown to the city's Historic District

Commission. City manager Steven Walters said the rendering had been rejected by the commission. Several months ago, the commission viewed the drawing but took exception to its depiction of balconies and awnings along the side. Huntoon said no formal approvals have yet been sought for the proposal.

She said there have been several parties interested in renting the space, "but they only wanted to rent half of it, and we'd rather rent it as a single business."

LWV sets January 10 meeting date

The future of the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi will be the discussion topic at a special January general meeting of the league to be held at 7 p.m. next Thursday, January 10, at the home of Nancy White, 12756 Haverhill in Plymouth.

President Billie Whiteley reports this will be a dinner meeting with the league's board and nominating committee serving pizza.

She notes that the board is finding fewer members who are willing or able to give time to the local league. Too much of the responsibility of the operation of the local league has fallen upon the president and some other board members, she says, noting that the board has been questioning and coming up with suggestions to be presented at the special general membership meeting January 10.

The board, she states, has several structural changes to propose. It also wants to have members' input.

As an example of the committee staffing problems, President Whiteley cites the fact the local league did not have a voter service chair so that the responsibility of candidates' forums and voter guides fell on the board.

In the league's newsletter for January she especially thanked Cindy Fanslow, Nancy White, Bev McAninch, Jane Stacy, Shirley Kinsler and Michelle Howard for their assistance at the forums.

A board meeting has been called for January 16 at the home of President Whiteley.

Water district formed

Water service may be extended to properties along Maxwell, Fry and Seven Mile roads in the Grandview Acres subdivision under a special assessment district reviewed by the township board of trustees December 13.

The district was formed by property owners in the area. Township engineers McNeely & Lincoln Associates confirmed that owners of 52.15 percent of the affected properties had signed a petition seeking establishment of the district.

Formation of a special assessment district requires signatures from owners of 51 percent of the property area.

When presented with the petition, township officials sought to have property owners on Marilyn, Pierson and Smock streets also join the district. None of the property owners on those streets expressed an interest, supervisor Susan Heintz said; so the district has not been expanded.

It includes three properties fronting Seven Mile, all the rest fronting Maxwell and Fry streets. The district extends from Seven Mile north to Phillips.

Our Opinions

Setting priorities for the coming year

Five for '85. That's our label for five issues we believe our locally-elected representatives to Washington and Lansing should address in the coming year. Some will take longer than a year to resolve; others may seem only remotely related to this area. We believe each is a pressing issue that demands some response in the next 12 months and expect the state legislature and Congress to address them. If the representatives of this area ignore any one of these, they are missing the boat.

- Michigan's business climate could stand additional improvements and protections. Fine-tuning is needed on the workers' compensation package for starters, where some firmer definition of what constitutes "work related" injury or illness is necessary.

Simple "stress" cannot be allowed to stand as sufficient evidence that a job led to a worker's illness or death, for instance. Stress-related illness depends too much on factors beyond an employer's control — how the employee reacts to pressure, his diet and exercise, his work habits and private life are all contributing factors. Under present Michigan law, employers have been held responsible for such illnesses, or injuries resulting from them.

Health care costs in general must be reduced. The preferred provider package is one means of addressing the problem, but cannot be our only response.

Our federal representatives should ensure that federal actions do not worsen our business climate. Pollution standards aimed at the control of acid rain, for instance, should take into account that Michigan's environmental standards already exceed those of surrounding states. One proposal that would cut each state standard for emissions from burning coal in half would do Michigan great harm. Our Congressmen should be fighting it.

- If it can be done without inviting diversion, the federal government should ensure protection of the Great Lakes. Regional governments have attempted to band together to protect this vital resource, but have not been entirely successful in reaching a consensus. These efforts should continue, and Michigan Governor James Blanchard should be a leading advocate for Great Lakes protection.

Federal agreement that the lakes belong to the neighboring states and provinces would go a long way toward easing the minds of those who fear a Sunbelt "raid" on the largest fresh water supply in the world. The lakes may be the key to economic survival in this area of the country. They must be protected before overt action against them is taken.

- The State Board of Education made a big splash in early 1984 by proposing a $500 million improvement plan for Michigan schools. The report, "Better Education for Michigan Citizens: A Blueprint for Action" has good intentions but, in light of the cost, does not seem feasible.

The recommendations have not yet become mandates, though some local educators fear this may be the case down the road. Given the expanded revenues to state school aid generated by the lottery, and particularly by the Lotto game, some may believe we are ready to require some of the costlier items contained in the report.

Unfortunately, those lottery funds are not going to out-of-formula districts such as Northville and Novi, though the added cost of education improvements certainly apply here. In 1985, we'd like to see local legislators address the question of state aid for out-of-formula districts. Changing the formula by which the state distributes education funding would be an awesome task. A revision in categorical funding (for transportation, special education and other uses) should be feasible, however.

- Expanded sewer capacity in western Wayne and Oakland counties should be a top priority. Boring though the topic may be, it is one vital to continued economic growth in this region.

Since this area is one of the hot spots for such growth in Michigan, it would be short-sighted indeed if our federal and state leaders were to allow it to come to a screeching halt simply for the lack of sewer capacity. We hope the current initiative to revive the former Son of Supersewer project in some form bears fruit. If it does not, however, alternatives must be explored.

- Some equitable means of selecting sites for state prisons, and for funding construction of them, must be found.

We must all share the burden of having these facilities in our communities. That means no individual community should be loaded down with them, and no community should be immune from having facilities located within its boundaries. Such a policy won't resolve the problem of the NIMBY (Not In My BackYard) syndrome, but it would at least be perceived as fair.

Funding prison construction is a more difficult task. Voters rejected a funding proposal several years ago out of fear of increased taxes. The climate for tax increases is, if anything, worse than it was then. But Wayne County Executive William Lucas argues that crime itself imposes a tax on society. Rather than continue paying the "crime tax" we should pay for sufficient prison space that the threat of imprisonment again acts as a disincentive to violation of the law.

It takes a heap o' livin'...

It was 20 years ago this month that my parents moved their young brood to the new house on the hill.

Though I only was six at the time, I vividly remember that night when family members and friends gathered at our new residence to help set up furniture and unpack boxes. It was a time of considerable change in our family. In addition to our move, my brother and I had a three-week-old baby sister to bring into our sibling rank.

Though I had been apprehensive about leaving my best friend Susan, the new house offered so much promise to our young family that excitement overcame sadness as we said goodbye to old neighbors. Perhaps the memory of that early excitement and the ensuing years is what makes it so difficult to close the door on the place we've called home for two decades.

Weeding through closets and cupboards in preparation for my mother's move to a smaller house, it's been nearly impossible to cast aside the memories which take hold at the discovery of a favorite childhood book or an old cheerleading uniform.

Since my own move out of the house in October, I've gradually unloaded the mass accumulation from my corner bedroom. It doesn't seem possible that the only remains are my old doll collection, the books which won't fit in a one-bedroom apartment, my antique brass bed (my first major purchase after college) and my wedding gown which still hangs in the closet.

The cozy room with the blue and green flowered wallpaper (which my mother and I accidentally put on upside down) was always my special domain. It was a refuge after a hard day at school and the one place I could go to be alone or to share secrets with my girl friends.

The wallpaper — now a little faded and torn — has been the only constant in this room. During my occupancy, its decor changed with the many stages of my life. The stuffed animals and Laura Ingalls Wilder stories were replaced by perfume bottles and high school yearbooks — and eventually a typewriter and faded stacks of newspapers.

I advanced from "The Sound of Music" soundtrack to The Monkees and eventually to Fleetwood Mac while growing up in this room. Through the years I went from fishnet stockings and patent leather go-go boots to bell bottoms and platform shoes (much to my mother's chagrin).

Though my bedroom now is void of such childhood paraphernalia, the memories are permanently embedded within those four walls.

The young couple who purchased our house on Christmas day no doubt will fill it with as many memories. Their three small children most likely will decorate their rooms with Michael Jackson posters, stuffed animals and a host of childhood treasures — they may even replace the wallpaper.

As we're about to close the door on our house on the hill for the last time, I can't help but think how perceptive Edgar Guest was when he wrote that "it takes a heap of livin' to make a house a home."

Seasonal greeting

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I didn't realize the Cherry Bowl was Michigan State's first appearance in a bowl game since they lost to UCLA 14-12 in the 1966 Rose Bowl.

I didn't go to the Cherry Bowl, but I did attend the '66 Rose Bowl. So the inaugural Cherry Bowl brought back some nice memories. I was a youngster back then, one year out of college. And thanks to former Northville High School Athletic Director Al Jones, I saw most of the Spartans' games that year.

MSU wasn't expected to do much in '65. Grid prognosticators apparently didn't know how much talent Duffy Daugherty had stockpiled. There was Bubba Smith at defensive end, the 300-pound Harold Lucas at nose guard and George Webster at linebacker. Offensively, the Spartans had Clint Jones and Bob Apisa in the backfield and Gene Washington at wide receiver.

But the big attraction for Northville people was the quarterback — Steve Juday, the local boy who made good. Steve and I were the same age and lived about three blocks apart on Lake and Horton streets respectively, so we spent a lot of time together as youngsters, playing ball with Tommy Long, Jimmy Anderson, "Duke" Meyers and the rest on the field next to Mr. Long's house at Horton and Baseline.

When the Spartans went undefeated and won the national championship, half of Northville went to Pasadena to smell the roses. No matter where you went, you ran into Northville people. I saw people on the streets of L.A. I hadn't seen for years at home.

You got the feeling that Northville had taken over the town. It was glorious. The reality of the situation didn't sink in until I was in the stadium. State ran on the field and there was a deafening roar from the MSU fans. Then UCLA ran on the field and we were totally drowned out by the roar from the Bruin bunch.

Early on in the game, I yelled some words of encouragement to Juday, using the phrase "Stevie, boy." Fifty thousand Bruin supporters seated directly in front of me turned around and glowered.

As the game wore on and UCLA shut down everything the Spartans tried to do, the Bruin fans kept turning around to make snide comments about "Stevie, boy's" inability to muster an attack.

Geez, it was a long afternoon. But in retrospect it was a heckuva trip, a heckuva experience.

Too many resolutions cause 'fever'

Kathy Jennings

Brain fever and New Year's Resolutions.

After awhile it all blurs together this brain fever and New Year's resolutions. In a fevered brain the resolutions skip and dance and whirl; mostly they whirl. And the more resolutions, the more they whirl.

It starts with a resolution to do something that will change the world. Like making music. Changing the world through music. Writing songs with lyrics that will inspire peace on earth, social conscience, good will toward men. Realizing you are totally unequipped to write lyrics of any sort, particularly inspirational ones.

Brain fever... knowing the desire to change the world is an idealistic dream for the very young. Yet unwilling to succumb to the cynicism and despair of an age that says nothing changes, nothing ever will. Believing to say it cannot be done, is to assure it never will be. That we make our own reality simply by imagining we can. Watching the years go by, lost in imagining, not doing enough, until in the end nothing is done. A wide, sweeping circle in the mind.

Brain fever... There is no reason to be defensive about dragons. As one of my favorite fantasists said: "Fantasy isn't factual, but it is true. It is truth that challenges, even threatens, all that is false, all that is phony, unnecessary and trivial in the lives that adults have let themselves be forced into living. Adults are afraid of dragons because they are afraid of freedom." But even she is defensive. Adults are not necessarily afraid of dragons — they simply believe they are silly. They think they do not need dragons. Maybe they don't; some of us do.

I don't know why some people must believe in stars, spacemen, dragons and robots. Perhaps we have a greater sense of wonder, a larger sense of awe, a reverence for that which we do not understand. Resolving not to be defensive about dragons and to be more tolerant of those who do not believe in them.

Brain fever... There are those who justify reading only if it is "educational" or "self-improving." If it does not fit in those categories then our Puritanical value system dictates such reading can only be self-indulgence or escapism. "Pleasure is not a value to the Puritans — on the contrary it is a sin," the fantasist says.

Brain fever... What are these science fiction writers saying about the way we view ourselves as a species? The most recent offerings give us a schizophrenic view: earthlings as compassionate barbarians who, paradoxically, have a zest for life that the more evolved, civilized alien races have lost. This schizophrenia might have something to do with our inexplicable fear of utopia. A fear that says when we achieve perfection we are dead. When humankind learns to live peacefully, when it lives without destroying the planet, when it grows up, then it will begin to stagnate, to decline, to die.

Why can't there be a day when people live to work, rather than work to live? A place where people do the jobs they want. Where the menial work is done by machines or robots. How could working at something you enjoy lead to stagnation and decline? And yet the thought is an absurdity in a world where people don't have jobs. A long, continuous circle.

Brain fever... And then again maybe it is simply escaping from a world too thoughtless, too selfish. Around and around and around. I resolve to dream less and do more. But you get up in the morning and then another day goes by... brain fever and another New Year.

Community brought Christmas to hospital

To the Editor:

Thank you. Thank you. Thank you.

Once again, thanks to the loyal support of the members of the Northville Presbyterian Church, Rotary Club and Kiwanis, the employees of The Northville Record and concerned and caring citizens of the community who heard and heeded my plea for help, we — together with other groups — were able to ensure that all of the patients at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Center on Seven Mile Road got a gift at Christmas.

While the need was great, you responded to the challenge and what you did embodied the real spirit of Christmas. I am very happy to be a member of such a caring community.

With sincere appreciation,
Phil Ogilvie

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

IRA DEPOSITS

One of the sources of your individual Retirement Account (IRA) deposits may be an annual income tax refund. Under current IRS rules, however, you must make all of your deposits for the preceding year by the April 15 income tax filing deadline. Getting an extension for filing your return will no longer count as far as the IRS is concerned.

It may help to file your income tax as early as possible, either in January or February, but there's no guarantee your refund would arrive in time. There may be other strategies you can use, however, to make more funds available for deposit in your IRA account up to the maximum allowed each year.

One of the best strategies is to have your income and expenses reviewed by a professional to make sure you are taking all the credits and deductions allowed. This will help keep your income tax to a minimum, providing more funds for your IRA account and other investments. Call us for an appointment.

The Northville Record

1984:

Hats off to the folks who gave us a smile

By B.J. MARTIN

It wasn't all zoning issues and school closings in our local news this year. Some of 1984's most memorable events sometimes slipped past the headlines, and the (ahem) cultural contributions of certain individuals crept by under-recognized for their true value.

In the interest of correcting such oversights, and as an inspiration to the newsmakers of 1985, we offer our Northville Record Awards of 1984. We'd call them the First Annual Northville Record Awards, but first we'd like to find out if they're going to generate sentiment for an annual Northville Record Tar And Feathering.

And so, without further ado, our congratulations to the following recipients. We thank them for brightening our days in the newsroom:

NORTHVILLE P.D. "BRONZE WASTEBASKET" TROPHIES: To the many Northvillians who filed police reports of stolen "Fuzzbuster" type in-car radar detectors.

THE "MAGNIFICENT OBSESSION" CRIME OF PASSION AWARD: To the alcohol-juiced gentleman arrested for breaking into Judy's Country Curtains, a downtown shop, last April. Police did not have to look far for the suspect. He was discovered fast asleep on the floor of the store the morning after the break-in.

Runner-Up Cup: To the thief of five fantail goldfish from a pond in the back yard of a Northville residence.

Second Runner-Up Cup: To the thief who stole a student's plastic dental retainer from a classroom at Meads Mill Middle School.

STATISTIC OF THE YEAR: Number of 1984 letters to the Northville Record concerning school closings: two. About the November 6 election: three. About ducks being injured at the Ford Plant: five.

Runner Up: Number of Record photographs (not counting political ads) published in 1984 of Judge (formerly Township Supervisor) John MacDonald: 14. Number in which MacDonald is a participant in a ceremony: 11.

NORTHVILLE NAME OF THE YEAR: Organizer of the first annual Northville Duck Festival: Dr. Leonard Wades.

THE "MAYOR MCCHEESED-OFF" GOLDEN GOBLET: To Novi Mayor Robert Schmid, who battled in vain against the location of a McDonald's restaurant at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road. It's now in business.

THE "SUZY HOMEMAKER SILVER SPATULA": To Phyllis Diller, Northville Town Hall guest lecturer, who told her audience: "I have a ring around my bathtub you can set a drink on."

THE "I HAVE RESERVATIONS ABOUT MY RESERVATIONS" AWARD: Seventh-floor rooms of the Novi Hilton are rumored to be specially designed to permit television viewing from both the bathtub and the commode.

THE "MANDATE? WHAT MANDATE?" PRIZE: To Northville resident and former UAW boss Douglas Fraser, for his assessment of the state of the union: "The country's in pretty good shape, provided Reagan doesn't screw it up."

THE "OH, THAT MANDATE"

CLOCKWISE FROM BELOW: "Jaws" was as in demand as the movie had been. Phyllis Diller, looking amazingly squeaky-clean. John MacDonald (left), doing what he did so well and so often. Eight would-be Sandys, every one of them well-behaved.

PRIZE: To Walter Mondale, the Presidential choice of less than 24 percent of Northville voters last November.

THE "RIFFRAFF ROUNDUP RIBBON": To Northville Township homeowner Frank Gallucci, who complained that dwellers of a proposed apartment complex, where units will rent for upwards of $400 per month might introduce "low-income people" to the area.

THE 1984 "MR. TIMING" AWARD: To Larry VanderMolen, for writing in last February to chastise the Northville Record for "pandering to the fuzzy television ethic and computer instant gratification appetite of the American public" instead of "providing (more) in-depth analysis of county township, city and state issues." Larry came into Record offices two months later to be interviewed as a school board candidate. We endorsed him.

SQUABBLE OF THE YEAR: Between neighbors and owners (and friends of owners) of Miller's Bump Shop, who exchanged personal insults for four weeks on the letters page of the Northville Record last August-September.

Runner-Up: Between city and township fire departments, which each insisted on having its own "Jaws-of-Life" device instead of sharing one of the rarely-used crushed car openers.

THE 1984 "MR. NITPICKER" PRIZE: To Northville High School theater director Kurt Kinde, who announced any dogs auditioning for the role of Sandy in the production of "Annie" must be house broken.

THE "BLUE PLATE SPECIAL" HOSPITALITY AWARD: To Northville resident Richard Davis, who calmly offered breakfast to a car-less fleeing car thief who entered his home unannounced last summer. Urging Lansing's Melvin Benson to have a seat, Davis left the room and came back not with a Western omelet, but with a Colt six-shooter. Davis took to his heels while Benson unloaded four shots into the dirt behind them. But a massive manhunt of state and local police soon ran down Davis after hearing the shots.

Woman's Club program welcomes new members

By JEAN DAY

As David Heinzman, minister of music at First Presbyterian Church, and Alice Chamberlain, assistant director of music, combined their talents to present a program of Christmas carol duets arranged for two pianos for Northville Woman's Club December 21, the annual Christmas tea program held special meaning for the Heinzman family.

David's mother Kathryn (Kitty) Heinzman was one of the 17 new members who had joined the club during the past year who were being honored.

Seated with Mrs. Heinzman and her sponsor, Betty Allen, was her mother, Elizabeth Matthews, from Bunnlevel, North Carolina.

David Heinzman holds both bachelor and master degrees from University of Michigan in organ performance. Mrs. Chamberlain, who is the wife of the senior pastor at the church, is a graduate of Westminster College at Princeton. She majored in voice and has her master's degree in conducting.

Among the more than 100 attending the program in First Presbyterian Church fellowship hall was former club member Val Kastner. She and her husband Frank were in town from Clearwater, Florida, where they retired this fall. They stayed with son Kurt in Novi before going on to visit family in Grand Rapids, reports Northville Woman's Club president Lois Winters. She and her husband John had visited the Kastners at their Florida condo over Thanksgiving.

As membership chairman Joan Hursey introduced the new members, they were welcomed by Mrs. Winters and vice president Pat Eden. Mrs. Winters announced that active members now number 174.

New members welcomed were Ruth Beagan, Harriet Welland, Berenice Ellis, Cynthia LaChance, Virginia Bakewell, Ann Cook, Helen McKee, Kathy Constantia, Mrs. Heinzman, Mince Campbell, Glenda Buist, Mary Ann Cardno, Margaret Kinneel, Barbara Slight, Ann Thompson, Lillian Cady and Margaret O'Neil.

First program of the new year, at 1:30 p.m. this Friday at First Presbyterian Church, will be presented by Patrick Foley, a member of the Wayne County Crime Task Force. Chairman Lois Pantier announces that it is a guest day.

Charitable projects do well this holiday season

Organizations that gear their fund-raising projects to the holiday season certainly seem to have winners this year.

Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association reported the "best Greens Mart ever" following its sale of wreaths during the annual Christmas Walk the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

Northville-Novi Colts called days before Christmas to announce that more than 800 Christmas trees had been sold from the lot by Arbor Drugs. Since the money is earmarked for sports equipment, Bill Todd said, the sale of more trees than in any previous year, was especially welcome.

Before Christmas Eve, Northville Rotary also related that the club's sale of luminaries was a complete success.

THREE GENERATIONS — David Heinzman with his grandmother, left, Elizabeth Matthews of Bunnlevel, North Carolina, and mother, Kitty Heinzman, who was a new club member being honored at the Christmas program featuring her son and Alice Chamberlain.

Church women plan service

The United Methodist Women of First United Methodist Church in Northville will hold their annual Call to Prayer and Self-Denial Observance at noon next Tuesday, January 8, in the church fellowship hall on Eight Mile at Taft.

It will include a Quiet Day Service. A special offering will be taken for "Women and Work," Margaret Coponen, secretary of the United Methodist Women here, reports.

The service, entitled "Shalom Women," was written by Marilyn Whaley Winters. It draws upon Biblical and current sources that tell of the diversity and conditions of women's work and their liberating or binding consequences.

One well-known Bible story is from Proverbs 31:13-27.

The Women's Program Division of the General Board of Global Ministries sponsors the Call to Prayer and Self-Denial. About 1.4 million women in more than 25,000 local units will participate in the observance between January and March of 1985. Last year, the Methodist Women report, the Call to Prayer offering was $954,562.

Covenant Service set Sunday at First United Methodist Church

A Covenant Service and Holy Communion will be held at both the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services this Sunday at First United Methodist Church of Northville.

The Reverend Eric Hammar announces that John Wesley's traditional service of covenant renewal with God for the new year will form the basis of the services.

A potluck and all-church conference with the Reverend Jack Giguere at 12:15 p.m. will follow the second service. All members are invited to meet the new superintendent.

The church reports it is collecting for the Saganing Indian Mission again this year. Monies collected will be used for food baskets.

New gymnastics coach has a good squad to work with

By B.J. MARTIN

So you're one of the millions transfixed by Mary Lou Retton's gold-medal heroics for the U.S. Gymnastics Team last summer.

So you can't wait four years to watch another nail-biting balance beam routine, an acrobatic floor exercise, a twisting somersault vault or a dazzling uneven parallel bar flip.

Well, you don't need to wait. Beginning next week, Northville's gymnastics team opens its 1985 season, offering plenty of what you've been missing.

Gone is former head coach Debbie Heck. Gone too is all-around star Cathy Heitert, now a key member of Northern Michigan's gymnastics squad. But the group returning should again assert itself as one of the area's very best.

"I've met with some of the other coaches in our league, but I'm not really sure how strong our league will be," says first-year coach Michelle Charniga. "By late in the season we should have a good idea of how we'll finish. I'm not familiar with this league quite yet."

"I do know we have a strong team," she adds. "We've got five really good girls, and at least four very strong people in each event."

Charniga's squad contains a balance of experienced veterans and promising young tumblers.

A pair of seniors should receive most of the "oohs" and "ahs" — Diane Hale, a regional qualifier who placed tenth in the conference in all-around competition last season, and Mandy Waits, an experienced club gymnast who will join the Mustang varsity this year.

"They're two of the all-arounds we'll have," says Charniga. "Diane's really strong on bars and beam. Mandy's really good on the floor — she has very good tumbling skills."

Returning from last year's team is junior Kim Wobermin, who competed all-around last season, but this time will specialize in her three strongest events — bars, beam and vault. Also returning from last year's unit are Wobermin's classmates Julie Cass, Dena Shackelford and Sandy Sundberg. Cass excels in vault, but may see work in balance beam and bars. Shackelford specializes in uneven parallel bars and Sundberg will offer the team some depth in bars and floor exercise.

New junior recruits include beam specialist Stacy Lauer, plus Patti Dunnabeck and Sheila Thompson. All are hard-working, but still a little green — they probably will help the team most later in the year.

Tonia Hickman was a very promising freshman last year, and should be among the top three or four athletes on this year's unit — particularly after having added a solid vault routine to her repertoire late last season.

Cheryl Lane, a veteran of the Farmington Gymnastics Club, will also be among the team all-around leaders. Other sophs include LeeAnn Oginski, a vaulter who should improve with increased strength; Heather Bogelta in vault and bars, Donna Dunnabeck, a potentially fine all-arounder; and Kathy Alfinito, whose status is uncertain following an early-season knee injury.

Charniga will keep two freshmen on the squad — Shelly Steinhebel, a good all-around talent, and Lisa Irwin, who will help the team in floor exercise and vault.

Assisting Charniga will be team manager Debi De Francesco, a sophomore.

Among the changes this season is a rule requiring two back-to-back "superiors" (technically difficult "tricks") in each routine except vault. Also, the team will be sporting new uniforms, expected to arrive by the first home meet.

Area builder says passive solar heat is wave of future for home heating

By JEAN SPENNER

At first look, Dave McGrath's middle-priced passive solar home is less than attractive.

Architect-builder McGrath calls it "stark."

But it's only the north side of the home that can be described with that adjective. The south side of the building — the side facing the sun, is very open in its appearance with its tall panes of glass. It is this glass side of the house — with its windows facing as much as possible directly to the south — that makes it an energy-efficient passive solar building.

McGrath, a graduate of the Lawrence Institute of Technology, is building the passive solar houses for middle- to lower-income families. These houses are going up in the Roediger subdivision off Martindale Road, south of Pontiac Trail in Lyon Township.

At $60-$70,000 for a 1,628-square foot house, McGrath said his house is cost-competitive with conventionally heated houses of similar size and make-up in the same subdivision.

"The real story here isn't that we're building passive solar homes," McGrath said. "But that we're building passive solar homes for costs competitive with the costs of houses in the subdivision."

Exactly what is passive solar heating? There are two types of solar heating — active and passive. Active solar heating is a form of collecting solar energy in a device outside the home (such as solar panels) and then providing a way to move it into the house.

"Active solar is energy-efficient, but Michigan weather makes (using) it difficult," McGrath said.

Passive solar houses make use of the

Dave McGrath's 'passive' solar heating system relies on window placement sun by having the majority of the windows in the house face south.

"We maximize windows on the south side while minimizing them on the north side," McGrath said. That is part of the reason the north side of the home is stark looking. "People are used to seeing windows. The only windows we have are to keep the house to (fire) code."

The heat is collected in the home by placing materials such as quarry tile, concrete and darkly colored walls around the area to collect and hold the heat. Passive solar heating can provide an estimated 25 to 35 percent yearly energy cost savings.

"Passive solar is a method of designing the house," McGrath said. "There are mathematical relationships to the length of the window, the overhang (which will help cut out the sun's rays in summer) and the direction of the sun's rays."

While the price of a passive solar house and conventionally heated house can be competitive, passive solar heating offers some things a conventionally heated home can't. The biggest advantage to buying a passive solar house is the tax credit which can be claimed on it. According to McGrath, owners of passive solar homes can claim up to $5,000 in federal and state energy tax credits.

Another big advantage is "this house is going to heat itself everytime we have a sunny day," McGrath said. (There is a back-up heating system should the sun refuse to shine for several days.)

A passive solar home is usually better insulated than a conventionally heated home. Because of the number of windows facing the south side, the house is well-lighted and bright. "Even on dark days, this house is brighter than the normal house," McGrath said.

He also maintained his passive solar house makes better use of available space.

The houses going up in Lyon Township have two-bedrooms with an optional third bedroom or study. The bedrooms, kitchen and dining area are on the first floor of the split-level home. The living room and optional third bedroom (which also can be left as basement storage space) is on the lower level of the house.

"Normally, people driving by think it is a small house," McGrath said. "But what they see from the front is only half."

As the architect, McGrath said he took special care in designing the bedrooms around the width and length of a queen size bed. The larger bedrooms and such extras as the wet bar in the dining area are other advantages to the house, said McGrath. One of his biggest concerns in designing the house was "eliminating the choppy and small unuseable rooms which are common in smaller-sized builders' homes."

The most intriguing space in the house is the area meant to catch and collect the solar energy located directly next to the south-side windows. This area stretches from the ceiling of the first level to the quarry-tile floor of the second level. It looks like the perfect place for hanging plants. And, said McGrath, a solarium is exactly what it should be.

McGrath, who designed his own passive solar home on Crooked Lake, said a number of people have shown interest in his newest design.

"A lot of young people like the contemporary design," he said.

Davidson reports bid to Guardian board

'Guardian Industries (NYSE) of Novi has announced that President and Chief Executive Officer William Davidson has provided the company's board of directors with the definitive structure and terms of his previously announced proposal to acquire all the company's common stock not owned by him.

Davidson currently is a 42.7 percent stockholder. Pursuant to his proposal, the public stockholders would receive $24 per share in cash, except a group of 13 stockholders owning approximately 4.5 million shares (or approximately 20.5 percent of the outstanding shares), who would receive a combination of cash and debt securities aggregating $24 per share.

An independent committee of outside directors with the assistance of its financial and legal advisors will consider Davidson's proposal and make a recommendation to the company's board.

Davidson indicated that subject to approval by the board, agreement of the 13 stockholders and satisfaction of certain other conditions, he anticipates completing the necessary financing arrangements and consummating the acquisition in the first quarter of 1985.
