Silver and gold

Northville's Jerod Swallow brought home a gold medal and a silver medal from the U.S. Junior National Skating Championships, held last week. Swallow teamed with Livonia's

Planners begin land use study along Haggerty

Studying land uses along Haggerty Road is a "must," township planners agreed last week.

But they disagreed with planning consultant Claude Coates of Villican-Leman & Associates that it would take $9,500 to $9,800 to conduct such a study.

Coates presented the figure to the township planning commission January 29 in response to the commission's earlier request for a cost estimate.

Decisions regarding two rezoning requests dealing with land fronting on Haggerty have been tabled awaiting the outcome of the study, which planners determined was necessary due to increasing developmental pressure.

Haggerty Road is one of the hottest corridors for development in the area, largely due to the nearby interchanges with I-275. The detailed study Coates proposed would re-evaluate the township's master plan of land use, which designates much of the Northville Township frontage on Haggerty for residential development.

Coates told planners the meat of the proposal is an in-depth study of competing development patterns in the area, with particular attention to commercial, office and freeway service (i.e. hotels and motels) uses in adjoining communities.

Villican-Leman, Coates said, would inventory the land uses along I-275 from Plymouth to Farmington Hills and advise the commission of the alternatives that might be considered for Northville Township's section of the corridor.

Board examines cuts

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Following last week's rejection of seven general contracting bids for completion of the Northville High School renovation project, board of education members met in a study session Monday to discuss ways of paring nearly $2 million in costs.

General contracting bids originally received on the project far exceeded the district's remaining bond issue monies for completion of the project.

Board of education members met with administrators and architects John Argenta, renovation project director, and James Coquillard, senior member of Coquillard, Dundon, Peterson and Argenta, the architectural firm working on the renovation.

Board members voiced concern at their regular meeting last week about the cuts proposed by Argenta and the administration to pare costs and scheduled a study session to examine the proposal.

Argenta told board members that specifications on the project were made 10 months ago and prices quoted at that time were far less in many areas than bid prices recently received from the general contractors.

Both Argenta and Coquillard emphasized to the board that it is not unusual today to find bids exceeding original costs targeted for construction projects.

"We're talking about a very complex project," Argenta noted. "There are a lot of unknowns."

Argenta spent nearly three hours outlining the architectural, mechanical and electrical revisions to the original building specifications.

He noted that one of the largest cost savings will be the deletion of a central air conditioning system for new additions and air conditioning in new classrooms and portions of the existing building.

"When the project first started and we got into the working drawings, the market at that time would allow the entire building to be air conditioned," Argenta said.

"We thought it all could be placed in a central system."

However, Argenta noted that the "market in Michigan really changed in early summer ... and has determined that that kind of air conditioning is just not in the picture for this school."

By eliminating the central air conditioning system, Argenta told board members that more than $1 million could be pared from the project's cost.

He further noted that mechanical contractors looking at the plans said the

Lender trying to make good

Empire of America will try to mollify some 1,000 Northville and Novi customers whose winter property tax bills weren't paid out of escrow by December 31 — and therefore cannot be deducted for 1984 income tax purposes — by offering interest-free loans.

"So no customers will be inconvenienced ... we will make an interest-free loan up to 50 percent of what they would have been able to deduct," said Robert Johnson, an executive vice president for banking services for Empire of America.

The life of the loans, as yet to be determined, will probably be one year, he said.

Notification of application procedures will be made as soon as they have been established — most likely in the next few days, Johnson said.

Empire, headquartered in Buffalo, New York, has until February 14 to pay the property taxes without incurring a penalty. While it is customary for mortgage lenders to make the payments prior to December 31 in order to meet the IRS deadline for deductions, there is no legal obligation to do so.

Winter property taxes paid this year can be added to 1985's summer and winter tax payments and deducted

Plymouth Center rezoning advised

By KEVIN WILSON

Plymouth Center for Human Development property should be rezoned to allow a mix of industrial, office and multiple family residential uses, the township planning commission decided January 29.

Planners recommended the rezoning to the township board of trustees after reviewing an impact assessment of such zonings. The township board initiated the action, indicating likely approval of the rezoning when it goes before the board February 14.

More than 200 acres of the property may be sold by the state of Michigan, which owns the land. A small portion of the Wayne County Child Development Center, just north of the Plymouth State Home site west of Sheldon, also was included in the recommended rezoning.

Supervisor Susan Heintz has urged the rezoning as a means of attracting developers to the site as soon as possible if the state puts the property on the market. She proposed rezoning as a means of preventing additional institutional uses in the area.

"We want this property back on the tax rolls," Heintz explained earlier last month. "The zoning on the property should reflect what we think would be appropriate developments if it is sold."

Presently classified for single family residential uses, the property west of Sheldon could be developed as an industrial park with adjacent office structures fronting Sheldon, planning consultant Claude Coates suggested. He also recommended multiple-family zoning on two parcels straddling Five Mile Road east of Sheldon. The planning commission adopted his recommendations.

The impact assessment, prepared by Coates, showed that such development would ultimately require widening Five Mile west of Sheldon in order to handle the anticipated traffic flow.

"Traffic in the area, once it's fully developed, will run above 10,000 vehicle trips per day," Coates said. "A two-lane road can handle a maximum of 10,000 a day — so that area would eventually have to be four-lane."

The impact assessment also determined that the terrain in each area is appropriate for the proposed land uses, that no rare or endangered vegetation is growing in the area, that soil conditions are sufficient for building the kinds of structures proposed and that sewer and water services are sufficient to handle the development.

The utilities study, conducted by township consulting engineers McNeely & Lincoln Associates, showed that the sewer system is of sufficient size to carry flows from Sheldon to the east, but that developing the area west of Sheldon would require the builder to add a parallel sewer to serve the property.

Coates emphasized that the division between office and industrial uses west of Sheldon could be changed by the ultimate purchaser, but that the zoning would indicate the township's desire not to have industrial uses facing Sheldon.

There would be 147 acres of industrial property fronting on Five Mile, 31 acres of office zoning fronting Sheldon and 60 acres of multiple family housing east of Sheldon. The land is rugged in the latter area, which straddles Five Mile where it curves to the north, east of the large main building at Plymouth Center.

Local interurban railway rides into the history books

By JEAN M. DAY

The year was 1900. The village of Northville gave the Detroit and Northwestern Railway a franchise into the village providing interurban transportation into Detroit for 35 cents.

In 1898 the township of Northville had given a 30-year franchise to the Grand River Electric Railway Company, but the line did not get built immediately. The franchise was amended January 8, 1900, allowing track to be built along Eight Mile on property acquired from private owners.

The franchise required six runs a day and a 30-cent fare with transfer privileges to Detroit city lines.

Such electric trolley lines connected Northville, Farmington and other communities throughout southeastern Michigan in the early days of the new century.

The story of these lines and what happened to the fast, frequent transportation the interurbans provided is told in a new book out this year. Titled "When Eastern Michigan Rode the Rails," the book is the result of 12 years of extensive research and compilation by rail historians William Henning, Jack Schramm and Richard Andrews.

This group of public transportation researchers and writers previously published books on Detroit city trolleys from 1863 to 1922, Volume I, and from 1922 to 1956, Volume II, as well as smaller books covering rail routes out of Detroit to surrounding communities, such as Port Huron, Jackson, Toledo, Pontiac and Flint.

Schramm is retired from the payroll department of Detroit's Department of Transportation (former DSR). Henning is an instructor of communications at Macomb Community College. Both are founders of the Michigan Transit Museum located in Mt. Clemens. They are the researchers and writers.

Andrews is a retired Michigan Auto Club travel and map department staff member. He contributed the maps and research that went into them.

Raymond Radway of Livonia also contributed to the interurban research. Their new book published last month by Interurban Press of Glendale, California, covers interurbans that sped along the Detroit, Pontiac, Flint, Bay City corridor with information and photos about places along the way, including Royal Oak, Birmingham, Orchard Lake, Northville, Rochester, Romeo, Imlay City, Lake Orion, Oxford, Orionville and Saginaw.

Ordowski named dean

Lawrence E. Ordowski has been appointed to the newly created position of Associate Dean for Liberal Arts at Schoolcraft College.

As instructional administrator at the college since 1970, Dean Ordowski's new title reflects a promotion from his being the assistant dean for Liberal Arts, which covers liberal and fine arts, child care development and learning assistance programs, the college announces.

As the college's only associate dean, he will assume responsibility for all staff development activities for Schoolcraft's 160 full-time faculty.

According to Dr. Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction, "Dean Ordowski's efforts will ensure the best possible match between the professional interests of faculty members and the college's present and future instructional needs."

Dean Ordowski joined Schoolcraft as an English instructor in 1965. Before that, he taught English at Plymouth High School for six years. He holds an associate's degree from St. Clair Community College, and bachelor's and master's degrees from Eastern Michigan University.

The Ordowski family lives in Northville Township at 16748 Dundalk Court.

Robins 'wintering' here

If you've seen a robin recently, you aren't alone. Aware Northville residents have been sighting robins in their trees and bushes, and two have called The Record to ask if they might be the first arrivals and harbingers of spring.

Meadowbrook Road resident Patricia Korody reported seeing a robin near her home in the area of Seven Mile and Haggerty. A parent of an Amerman Elementary student also called to say a robin was spotted at the school.

"A lot of robins stayed around this year," agrees Pat Carlson, supervising naturalist at Kensington Metropark Nature Center near Milford. She explains that it is not unusual for robins to remain through the winter but says most people don't notice them except in a severe winter when they alight in mountain ash and other trees and bushes that have edible fruit.

"They're moving from home to home — like a progressive dinner — eating the fruit," she says.

The naturalist adds, "People often think animals are in trouble long before they are." The robins, she explains, will be all right as long as the fruits hold out.

Kensington Metropark is offering free programs on wildlife.

"Wild Birds — How They Survive" will focus on the many birds wintering in the area. It will be presented at the nature center at 10 a.m. February 17. Participants will bring binoculars and prepare for a walk along Kensington's paths.

"Wild Foods of Winter Wildlife" will be presented at 2 p.m. this Sunday. Participants will take a walk to learn how wildlife finds food in winter. It will begin at the park nature center. "Winter Wildlife," a combination evening-slide program and walk, will be held at the nature center at 7 p.m. next Tuesday.

All programs are without charge but require advance registration, which may be done by calling the center at 1-800-552-6772.

Registration under way at NHS

Registration for driver education will begin February 11 at Northville High School. Applications may be picked up in the high school main office and should be returned no later than February 22. Classes are scheduled to begin March 4.

Conspiracy alleged in division of Super Sewer plan

An alleged conspiracy is at the heart of the third and final amendment to Plymouth and Canton townships' lawsuit over the demise of Super Sewer.

Through the deposition process, the townships uncovered evidence which they believe points to a conspiracy between state, county and Detroit officials to deny them access to Super Sewer.

Officials cited in the suit include Governor James Blanchard, Wayne County Executive William Lucas and Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

The amendment, filed February 1 in Wayne County Circuit Court, lists 12 occasions between May 1983 and November 1983 when one or more of the individuals participated in communication aimed at excluding both townships from Super Sewer.

Both townships claim they were forced to help pay for Super Sewer's design and then were prohibited from taking part in the project. Among the items they are seeking are reimbursement of some $625,000 pumped into Super Sewer planning, plus interest; legal fees, compensatory damages of more than $10,000 and other punitive damages against the defendants.

The list of defendants includes the state, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Wayne County, Wayne County Department of Public Works, Detroit, Detroit Water and Sewer Department, Flat Rock, Gibraltar, Romulus, Woodhaven, Brownstown Township, Huron Township, Van Buren Township, Novi and Wixom.

While Blanchard, Lucas and Young are not named as defendants, they are named as individuals involved in the alleged conspiracy to defraud the townships.

Other individuals who allegedly participated in the conspiracy are Fred Tumminia, Detroit's long-range planner; James Akhtar, an assistant Wayne County executive; and Greg Morris, an executive assistant to Blanchard.

The lawsuit does not spell out the content of the various communications which led to the alleged conspiracy, but does list the dates and places they occurred.

Specified are phone conversations between Young and Blanchard and between Blanchard and the Detroit Water and Sewer Department.

Personal meetings cited include Lucas and Blanchard at Mackinac Island during the 1983 Memorial Day weekend, Lucas and Young during the 1983 Grand Prix Party in Detroit, Akhtar and Tumminia at the Detroit Water and Sewer Department on June 5, 1983, and Morris and Lucas on June 16, 1983.

The lawsuit states "that all of the acts of the defendants, State of Michigan, Michigan DNR and James Blanchard, were done for the benefit of the defendants, City of Detroit, Detroit Water and Sewer Department, and others including Coleman Young, and their own political advantages."

The lawsuit charges that the actions "are a part of a pattern of conduct consisting of injurious falsehoods, threats, harassments, and false statements by which said defendants, acting under color of law, have denied to the plaintiffs the rights, privileges and immunities guaranteed to them by the Constitution and the laws of the United States."

"This pattern of conduct, while carried out under the color of law, has no justification or excuse in law, but instead is improper and illegal and it is unrelated to any activity by which any of the defendants may properly and legally engage in the course of their duties."

Although the lawsuit was filed

February 1, Plymouth Township Attorney Brian James said a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling on governmental immunity will have to be "closely examined" to determine whether it applies to this case.

The decision of Ross versus Consumers Powers, a culmination of eight other cases, said judges, legislators and chief executives are immune from personal liability as long as they are acting in the capacity of their delegated role.

"We'll have to find out whether or not the Supreme Court ruled governmental officials can lie, cheat and steal because they are immune by the court," said Township Supervisor James Poole.

The original lawsuit was filed last year, following the 1983 decision to split Super Sewer into north and south projects.

Then more than 15 years in the making, Super Sewer was supposed to increase sewer capacity for many western Wayne County and downriver communities.

The massive project was designed to include sewer lines and a treatment plant to be funded through 75 percent Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grants and 25 percent local money.

In 1983, the state, under the new Blanchard administration, announced plans to split the project. Besides the alleged conspiracy, the lawsuit addresses other reasons and factors leading to that decision.

Since the split, the southern project, encompassing the downriver communities, has received approval for 75 percent EPA funding. The northern project, encompassing the western Wayne County communities, has been denied funding.

Rouge Valley Wastewater communities (between western Wayne County and Detroit) have been added to the northern project for the correction of pollution problems with the existing sewer lines.

James said downriver communities named as defendants will be dropped from the lawsuit provided they pay back the $625,000 in Super Sewer planning money by April 1.

Although those communities earlier agreed to refund the money, James said the prospect of receiving it has diminished as two of the communities refused to sign final agreements for the southern project.

Church parking asked

The clock has been ticking for 16 years, and the alarm finally sounded.

Northville's First Presbyterian Church will be asked to make good on its 1968 pledge to provide or pay for 22 parking spaces in the downtown area, city council decided Monday night.

The church was granted an exemption from the requirement to pay for parking spaces when adding the new sanctuary in 1968. At that time, an A&P grocery store had agreed to allow the church to use its spaces on Sunday, when the store was not open.

The city zoning board of appeals waived the parking requirement on December 4, 1968, providing that "in the event that parking facilities become unavailable, the 22 parking spaces proposed, would then be developed by the church."

Today the A&P is gone, the city owns the land and the parking is not available.

The church had proposed to council an arrangement by which the church would purchase a nearby house, have it demolished and turn the land over to the city for parking, thereby fulfilling the obligation to supply parking spaces.

But the congregation twice rejected the purchase arrangement, city manager Steven Walters told council

Monday night.

The Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which is beginning the process of planning the second phase of downtown improvement, advised council that the church should be asked to fulfill its obligation to supply parking spaces.

Added parking in the downtown area is a major goal of the second phase DDA project, including diagonal parking on Cady and on Church streets.

Walters told council that he did not believe the church would pursue the parking issue unless asked to do so by the city. "The proposal for them to buy a lot to meet their responsibility has been dropped," he said. "The obligation is still there."

He recommended that the church be advised it could pay parking assessments for the 22 lots at a cost of roughly $35,000, thereby relieving itself of the obligation.

"The assessments at current rates are not as much as the cost of the lot they were going to buy," Walters said. "But, they have no ownership interest in the city lots if they pay assessments — they would just have the spaces in the pool (of downtown parking facilities). No spaces could be exclusively for church use that way."

Mall antique show rescheduled

Frigid weather the weekend of January 19 canceled only temporarily the antique show and sale scheduled at Northville Plaza Mall.

Dennis Nostrant, president of the Northville Plaza Mall Merchants' Association, announces that the event has been rescheduled for Saturday, February 9, inside the mall.

During the show, live entertainment will be provided by the Betty Angel Trio, as previously planned, he reports. He and his partner, Scott Yonker, are taking space reservations for the show at All Seasons Flowers, 348-6240.

Kindergarten greetings

Moraine Elementary School Principal "Dutch" Van Ingen was the center of attention at Monday's birthday celebration given in his honor by the afternoon kindergartners. A birthday card, in the form of a banner, was signed by all students and staff.

The cake was a special treat. The absence of candles, save for the one in the center in the shape of a question mark, most likely warranted a gold star for each student from their principal. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Price hikes prompt council to change insurance

Faced with insurance premium increases ranging from 30 to more than 40 percent, city council decided Monday night to solicit bids for insurance coverage from two municipal pools rather than continue with private insurers.

City clerk Joan McAllister told council she had received an explanation of the massive rate increases from one insurance agent who said "the insurance companies want to get out of insuring municipalities."

Councilmember J. Burton DeRusha said he sees a pattern in rate increases for municipal insurance plans.

"Every six or seven years, they jump way up," he said. "When the economy is good, they want to get out of insuring us. When it's bad, they want our business. They are in the process of doing what the Arabs did with oil — forcing people to conserve on their insurance costs by going to self-insurance, or pools. It's a very short-sighted position in my view."

Council rescheduled its regular

February 18 session to February 25 in order to devote full attention to the insurance issue on February 18. Representatives of the two pool insurance programs will present proposals to council February 18. Council may choose one of the programs on that date or delay its decision one week and still enroll in a program before the current policies expire March 1.

Lori Jacobs to give farewell concert this weekend

Swan song for Lori Jacobs at the Raven

By B.J. MARTIN

To get to Lori Jacobs' fourth-floor office in downtown Birmingham, one must ride an elevator to the accompaniment of some dreadfully colorless piped-in Muzak.

It must be a hard way for the legal clerk to start her morning. For years, Jacobs has been a professional singer/songwriter who prided herself on her ability to make people listen to her voice, her guitar and her piano.

This weekend, Jacobs says goodbye to all that with what she describes as her "final, farewell, so long, good-bye, swan song" concert performance, at the New Raven in the Northville Community Center.

Asked when her first concert performance was, Jacobs laughs and says evasively, "Ahh, I was in my twenties. Let's just say it was in the sixties, when folk music was still a pretty big force."

In the years to follow, and especially in the next decade, Jacobs emerged a well-traveled musical artist who flirted with the bottom edge of the national music charts and became a favorite on various liberal-format radio stations across the country.

But now, with her daytime clerical job and night classes at the Detroit College of Law, Jacobs will withdraw from the stage to pursue a career as a lawyer.

"It feels like the right time," she says simply. "For one thing, music isn't a career that lasts forever. I have sides to me besides music — after all, I used to be an art teacher — I just want to

'I have sides to me besides music — after all, I used to be an art teacher — I just want to stretch my brain a little more.'

— Lori Jacobs

stretch my brain a little more.

"Before, music was something in me that just had to be done. But one of my goals was to make a more normal life for myself. All my life I felt like I didn't fit."

The misfit began playing piano by ear when she was "around five or six years old" and dreaming of a career as an actress. A shy type, she taught herself accordion ("Now probably rotting somewhere in my basement"), then ukelele and guitar.

"That's how I used to make friends," Jacobs explains. "I was pretty shy, and I'd take the guitar or the bass uke out to the beach or a party."

Building confidence, she began appearing at coffeehouses and began singing professionally weekends at the Back Seat Saloon in Keego Harbor while teaching art at Jackson Elementary School in Ferndale.

It soon became apparent Jacobs had the talent to make a go at music full-time. She grew increasingly proficient on guitar, developing a style not unlike Jim Croce, and on piano, developing a style not unlike Carole King. And her husky alto voice was being compared to "everybody from Anne Murray to Janis Joplin."

Jacobs showcased those talents with a blend of covers and original material that ranged from simple humorous country-inflected ditties to harmonically complex introspective songs.

In the early seventies, Jacobs took a leave of absence from teaching to pursue a professional career in music. She never went back.

"I was signed to do an album for Capitol, and they booked me for tours on the college circuit and with national booking agencies," she says.

In 1972, she recorded the album Free with the Muscle Shoals (Alabama) rhythm section — one of the most consistently popular studio bands in popular music, with production credits ranging from Paul Simon to Bob Seger and Aretha Franklin.

A pair of singles generated some airplay: Constant Disappointment and I've Never Been a Fool Like This Before.

Touring solo (literally — she drove from concert to concert in her "big old Chevrolet Caprice"), Jacobs appeared at legendary folk haunts like The Bitter End in New York and the Ice House in Los Angeles. She opened shows for Harry Chapin, Dave Loggins, the Righteous Brothers and lived to tell the tale of opening a Detroit double bill featuring rowdy rock and roll acts J. Gells and Robin Trower.

"Thousands of people," she recalls. "Definitely the most people I've ever appeared before at one time."

Jacobs recorded a second album, Everything's Jake, in Detroit and Nashville. A single, Tugboat Annie skirted the national charts for three weeks, and the album featured a grab-bag of styles ranging from the romantic All I Want to sharply humorous tunes like Shopping Bag Lady. "Everything's Jake" was a bit more mature. It showed some growth," Jacobs says of her second effort. "Free was like a total catharsis, all this pain and suffering."

At her farewell shows this weekend, Jacobs plans to showcase a wide range of her original repertoire on both piano and guitar. She also plans to perform a few songs made famous by songwriters from the thirties and forties up through to her contemporaries.

"If there's one thing I hope I can bring across at the show," she says, "it's to try to get people to look at me and realize they can do what they want — not that there isn't a price to pay, but if you're willing to do it, you can."

Lori Jacobs will appear at 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the New Raven, Northville Community Center, 303 West Main, Northville. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. Tickets may be reserved by calling the Giftfiddler Music Store, 302 East Main (349-9420).

Obituaries

Accident claims life of James F. Peters

Funeral service for Northville resident James Frederick Peters, 52, was held January 28 at the Harry J. Will Funeral Home in Livonia. He was founder and owner of J.F. Peters Associates of Northville, a consulting engineering firm for underground construction.

Mr. Peters died at Westland Medical Center following a freak automobile accident January 24 as he was returning home after picking up his car at Metropolitan airport. He had just flown back from Rochester, New York. The accident occurred in Romulus as another car slammed into a stop sign, sending it flying into the windshield of Mr. Peter's car. The sign pierced the windshield and killed the driver.

Mr. Peters was born in Toronto March 29, 1932, to James and Margaret (McLeod) Peters and came to the United States as a young boy. He was graduated from University of Detroit in 1955. He founded J. F. Peters Associates 11 years ago.

The Peters family moved to the Lexington Condos from Livonia a little more than two years ago.

Survivors are his wife Marilyn M. (Scott), daughters Carol Mattison of Livonia and Deborah Peters of California, son Ron Peters of Northville and two grandchildren.

Officiating at the funeral service was the Reverend David Good of Rosedale Gardens Presbyterian Church. Burial was in Glen Eden Memorial Cemetery.

STEPHEN D. KNAPP

Service for former Northville resident Stephen D. Knapp, 32, of Lansing, will be held at 10 a.m. Thursday at Holy Cross Catholic Church in Lansing. The Reverend Father Dunston Bryan will be the celebrant at the Mass of the Christian Burial.

Mr. Knapp, a regional bank manager and assistant vice president of Michigan National Bank, died in Lansing February 3. He had been a resident of Lansing for seven years, moving to that city from Northville.

He was a graduate of Northville High School and Ferris State College. He was a member of the Lansing Jaycees and of Holy Cross Catholic Church.

Born December 19, 1952, in Detroit, he was the son of C. Douglas and Grace Y. Knapp.

In addition to his parents, who live in Brighton, he leaves his wife Kathleen (Mickey) of Lansing and two sons Stephen D. II and Andrew J. at home. He also leaves a brother Scott W. of Brighton and a sister Donna Ritter of South Rockwood, as well as in-laws Robert L. and Vivian Blake of Williamston, Michigan.

A prayer service will be held at 7:30 p.m. today at the Leadley Estes Greater Lansing Chapel. The family will receive friends from 2-4 p.m. and from 7-9 p.m. today at the funeral home. Burial will be at St. John's Catholic Cemetery in Hartland.

Memorial tributes may be made to the Crippled Children's Services in care of Paul Cavanagh, P.O. Box 30035, Lansing, 48909.

LLOYD J. CRAWFORD

Funeral service for Lloyd J. Crawford, 60, was held at 1 p.m. January 12 at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home.

Mr. Crawford, a Livonia resident, was a heating/mechanical estimator.

Hospital walkaways— more than 40 percent of local MSP activity

The vast majority of complaints originating in Northville and filed with Michigan State Police during 1984 dealt with escapees from the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and other state institutions.

Figures released by the Northville Post last week show that 477 such complaints were filed last year — most dealing with "walkaways" from the state mental health facility and many reporting more than one escapee, according to community service officer Robert Garcia.

Generally, the walkaway reports are filed directly with state police by the hospital itself. Most patients who leave the grounds are not considered dangerous by mental health authorities.

All told, state police handled 1,103 complaints in Northville during 1984, so the 477 dealing with walkaways is better than 40 percent of the activity generated here.

Second to the UL (unauthorized leave) reports were 310 miscellaneous complaints, including many that are reflective of internal state police post activities and not actual reports of crimes, Garcia noted.

State police handled 52 accidents, 57 drunk driving arrests of all types, and 56 warrant arrests in Northville during calendar 1984, the figures reveal. There were 45 assault complaints, many also generated from the state hospital, where patient-on-patient, patient-on-staff and staff-on-patient assault reports are more common than in the surrounding community.

There were also 33 larcenies reported to state police, 18 breaking and entering complaints and 15 reports of stolen cars in 1984. Six drivers were arrested for driving while their licenses were suspended.

Eleven reports of malicious destruction of property were filed with state police, while seven drug complaints and four weapons violations were investigated.

Records show Northville post troopers responded to 10 alarms locally in 1984, and conducted two tours of the post for local groups.

Police Blotters

Electrical short may have caused vehicle fire

...In the City

A short in the electrical system is considered to be the cause of a vehicle fire at 2:31 p.m. Wednesday, January 30, at 331 North Center that destroyed a Blazer owned by a Milford resident.

City firefighters reported that the driver had stopped the vehicle only a few moments earlier and indicated the short probably ignited the fuel tank.

City police Chief Rodney Cannon, who happened to be in the area at the time, said that police attempted to assist, but that the vehicle was enveloped in flames as soon as the windshield gave way.

Police were called to the Northville Downs parking lot January 30 when a parking attendant reported being threatened when he asked a track patron who was parking out of order to move his vehicle. The attendant said the driver took a swing at him and, using profanity, said no one was going to tell him where to park. He further stated he had a gun. The conversation was confirmed by another attendant.

When the driver was located, however, he told a different story that also was confirmed by a passenger. Both sides decided not to press charges.

Police were called to the lower clubhouse of the Downs February 2 on complaint of a Romulus resident that he had been struck by another track patron from Pontiac who was declared to be a troublemaker.

After a LIEN check showed an outstanding warrant on other charges against the suspect, he was lodged in police headquarters. The victim decided not to pursue his complaint.

An officer dispatched to the Preferred Parking Lot at Northville Downs upon report of suspected intoxication found the suspect seated in his vehicle at the rear of the parking lot with an open car of beer. His speech was reported slurred and he appeared intoxicated, according to the report. He was advised not to drive.

When he left the lot shortly afterward, he was stopped. When tested, he was found to have an alcohol content of 0.19 percent and was charged with operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol.

...In the Township

An estimated $10,000 in stock certificates was stolen from a Cadillac Fleetwood parked at a West Seven Mile restaurant sometime between 6:30 and 9:30 p.m. January 28, township police report.

The complainant told police unknown subject(s) smashed out the passenger side window of the vehicle and stole a brown briefcase containing the stock certificates from the front seat.

In addition to the stock certificates, the briefcase also contained documents from a brokerage firm, two VISA cards, two Mastercharge cards, an American Express Gold Card, a check book and a 35mm Minolta camera.

A radar detector, valued at $79, also was stolen.

Unknown subject(s) caused an estimated $550 damage to five vehicles parked along Silver Spring Drive sometime between 10:30 p.m. January 31 and 2:30 a.m. February 1, police report.

According to the police report, an officer on routine patrol observed the damaged vehicles.

The officer noted in the report that suspect(s) apparently drove and/or walked along randomly smashing the windows of the parked vehicles. None of the vehicles appeared to have been entered, according to the report.

The officer left a note on each of the vehicles in regard to the incident. Damage to each vehicle was estimated at $100-$150.

A set of golf clubs valued at approximately $600 was stolen from a vehicle parked at Oasis Golf Center sometime between 7:30 and 8 p.m. January 24, police report.

The complainant came to the police station to report that unknown person(s) stole the clubs and golf bag while he was inside the golf center.

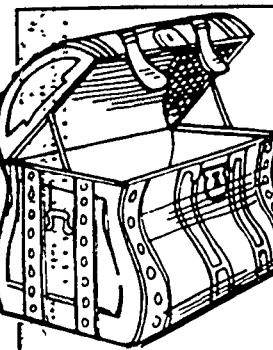

Unknown subject(s) broke the windshield and side view mirror of a Pontiac Grand Prix parked on Hines Drive sometime between 8:30 and 10 p.m. January 25, police report.

The complainant said the vehicle was parked on the west side of Hines Drive between Six and Seven Mile at the time the incident occurred.

Damage was estimated at $350.

CHARRED — Firefighters extinguish vehicle fire on Center last Wednesday as Milford owner Ronald Hinkle watches. Only charred remains are left inside. Record photos by Steve Fecht.

City planners begin detailed review of zoning laws

By B.J. MARTIN

City planners this week are expected to begin a thorough, critical scrutiny of the city zoning ordinance, and possibly recommend changes following their review.

The Northville Planning Commission in January agreed to follow through on City Council's request that commissioners conduct an in-depth review of the 10-year-old ordinance with an eye toward updating its applicability to recent zoning trends and issues.

The task could take as long as six months, said Planning Commission Chair Jerry Mittman at the commission's meeting January 8. "We don't want to do a rush job," he added.

At the meeting, Mittman recommended a step-by-step review process. Under his plan, the commission would schedule a review of one section of the ordinance at each of the planning commission's upcoming meetings for the next several months.

Planners agreed they preferred to study the ordinance as a full commission, instead of simply referring it to an ad hoc committee.

Since their second January meeting was canceled, planners were expected to begin their review at their meeting last night (February 5).

Changes in zoning law and the city's planning philosophy, as well as developmental pressures, led to the council's request, formally approved at its December 17 meeting.

"Ten years is a good length of time to think about re-writing an ordinance."

At that meeting, Mayor Paul Vernon and City Manager Steven Walters pointed out some of what they viewed as shortcomings of the existing ordinance in addressing the concerns of downtown merchants.

Vernon said the Domino's Pizza outlet on Mary Alexander Court was a use that should not have been located in the center of the downtown business district.

Walters added such use "doesn't lend itself much to comparison shopping."

Planners at the January meeting were uncertain about how extensively the ordinance would need to be altered, although Commissioner Jay Wendt said, "there are definitely things that should be changed."

Planning Consultant Ron Nino added, "Ten years is a good length of time to think about re-writing an ordinance."

"I've found that if you're going to make a lot of changes, you should go with a whole new ordinance, and stick with it for a few years," he added.

Nino suggested the commission may want to consider a different method of zoning residential areas. Instead of having separate zoning classifications for different residential density levels, Nino said, some communities opt to make just one overall residential classification and simply write out criteria that must be met for certain types of use.

"Instead of having R-3, R-4, R-5, whatever, you have just one zone — R, say — and just require developers to meet certain criteria if they want to move in a multiple or a business."

While at least some commissioners appeared skeptical of the idea, Nino said the method had worked quite well in other communities by simplifying zoning laws.

Sewer extension planned north of Eight Mile Road

A proposal to extend sewer service to a large area in the northwest corner of the city will be considered in public hearing March 4, council determined Monday night.

The proposed sewer special assessment district would include all property north of Eight Mile, west of Lexington Commons and east of Northville Estates, plus 49 mostly unimproved lots in Northville Estates.

Under the proposal, a trunk line sewer would extend west from a line connecting Washington Court and Fairfax Court, following the Randolph Drain to a point at the eastern end of Elmsmere Drive at Chigwidden. Within Northville Estates, lateral lines would extend along Elmsmere and south on Chigwidden, including Summerside Lane, Stanstead Road, Holmbury and Silchester.

As it is proposed, city manager Steven Walters told council, the sewer system would serve all vacant lots in Northville Estates and, of necessity, 10 or 11 properties where there are houses. "Basically, the unimproved lots are unimproved because they can't pass a perk test," Walters said. The purpose of the sewer district is to encourage development of property that presently cannot be developed due to the lack of adequate means to dispose of wastewater.

The estimated $452,000 cost of the system would be paid for by special assessments against the properties served, Walters recommended. The portion within Northville Estates is estimated to cost $258,500 and benefit 49 lots, each of which would be assessed $5,276.

The large unimproved parcels east of Northville Estates would be assessed a total of $194,000 at a per acre cost of $1,452.62. There are 133.6 acres of land in this portion, some of which have been platted for a subdivision. Developers of the properties would be responsible for installing their own lateral lines along subdivision streets — the assessment covers only the main trunk line paralleling the drain.

Council discussed various options presented by the plan, including extension of service to all of Northville Estates. Councilmember J. Burton DeRusha, a resident of the subdivision, said he sees advantages in installing sewers throughout the subdivision, but that most of his neighbors likely would not support such a plan.

"Most of the people whose septic systems are working would say they have no need of a sewer right now," he said. "Those who are having problems with their septic fields would like the idea, but there probably isn't more than a handful."

Ideally, DeRusha suggested, the sewers would be installed and homeowners would not be charged until they had need of the sewer and connected to it.

Walters explained that such financing is legally possible, but that the city water department does not have access to sufficient funds to undertake such an extensive project.

Owners of property in Northville

Estates who are not included in the sewer district will receive notification of the public hearing so that any who might want to be included can make those desires known, council determined.

"You won't get the whole subdivision," Walters said. "But maybe you will get a clump of lots here or there where it would be feasible to expand the district to include them."

Council members were also concerned about the owners of the 10 or 11 properties that are included in the district but presumably have working septic fields. Walters explained that the improved lots are included because the sewer must pass them in order to reach unimproved lots.

He suggested that a payback arrangement by which owners of unimproved lots pay the costs for owners of improved lots and are repaid when the improved lot finally connects to the sewer, may be a possible solution to the problem.

That type of arrangement and others that the city could finance will be discussed as planning for the sewer continues, he said.

School board studies proposed cutbacks major cost of the project was with the central air conditioning unit.

Argenta said that in place of the central system, roof-top heating, ventilating and air conditioning units would be added for the cafeteria, media center, forum, administration area and auditorium.

Currently, only counseling and administrative offices have window air conditioners.

In addition to the deletion of the central air conditioning system, another significant cost savings will result in expanding specifications to allow for sprayed urethane roofing systems on existing roofs and approved PVC and EPCM roofing systems on new and existing roofs.

Argenta noted that bids on the original specs called for a bondable-type coal tar pitch aggregate surface. He noted that the $700,000-$900,000 bids on the roofing alone far exceeded his anticipated $250,000 cost.

He told board members that by opening up roofing specifications he felt they were getting "an equal — if not superior — system."

He noted that Novi Community Schools has used the sprayed urethane system on several of its buildings and were very pleased with the results.

He further noted that the alternate roofing method can be done for less cost and comes with a 10-year guarantee for water tightness (both labor and materials).

Argenta said the general contracting bids to be received this week will reflect the changes outlined by the architects.

He said he expects most of the original contractors will be rebidding on the project.

Superintendent George Bell said he wanted to dispel a rumor circulating in the community that ninth graders will be placed in Cooke should the project not be completed by the time school starts.

Kay Kepner, a member of the citizens advisory committee for the high school renovation feasibility study, urged the board to squelch the rumor before the district loses "more students to private schools."

While there has never been a mention of ninth graders being moved into Cooke, the board has indicated that part of the junior high building may be utilized should construction extend past the start of the 1985-86 school year.

Bell said Monday night that if Cooke is utilized, students would be placed by department, not grade. For instance, 11th grade music students might use the Cooke music room while the high school band room is being carpeted — should that be the case.

The superintendent reiterated that any mobility to Cooke would "be by teaching stations if it needs to be done."

Empire to make amends with interest-free loans

when reporting 1985 income tax returns.

The interest-free loans, which must be repaid, should more than make up for lesser refunds or greater payments due as a result of the deduction loss this year, Johnson said.

The loss of a $1,000 deduction would affect persons filing joint returns in the following manner:

- Taxable income of $21,000 rather than $20,000 — a boost in tax due of $180.
- Taxable income of $31,000 rather than $30,000 — a tax increase of $280.
- Taxable income of $41,000 rather than $40,000 — a tax hike of $330.

According to Empire's proposal, persons losing a $1,000 deduction this year would be eligible for a $500 interest-free loan. A taxpayer would have to be in the 50 percent tax bracket for the loss of a $1,000 deduction to be worth $500.

Johnson estimated that one-half to two-thirds of the company's 30,000 mortgage customers in Michigan will be eligible for the loan program. He declined to speculate on how many would apply.

Johnson pegged the average deduction loss in Michigan as a result of the company's post-December 31 payment at $320.

Glitches relating to the installation of a new computer system most likely delayed the payment of winter property taxes until after the end of the year, Johnson explained.

"We had every intention of following the Michigan tradition," he said. "It looks like something was done illegally or deliberately to hurt our customers. Lord, that's the last thing we wanted to happen."

Several Michigan congressmen reportedly are attempting to persuade the IRS to allow Empire customers to deduct the property tax payments from 1984 returns. A 1978 IRS ruling states otherwise, however, said Walter Dunnigan, a spokesman for the agency.

Dunnigan added, though, that he believes Empire's offer of interest-free loans won't have additional tax consequences for customers who accept.

There is a ravine through that portion of the multiple family zoning north of Five Mile, which Coates said would complicate development but provide very attractive views for upscale housing development. Low-density, high-priced condominiums or deluxe apartments are the most likely kinds of development for the property, he indicated. The property is bound by Five Mile on the southeast, the Cavanagh Retirement Village site to the north, the Plymouth Center building (which the state plans to retain) on the west and Hines Park to the east.

The remainder of the multiple-family segment, southeast of Five Mile, is on a plateau and the land drops away on all sides, Coates explained. The property has Five Mile on the northwest, Hines Park across Five Mile to the north, the C&O railroad to the east, and St. John's Seminary to the south.

"If we go with this kind of zoning," asked commissioner Jerry Chisnell, "is there a market?"

Coates said the only indication of the market for property in that area is what's being done in Plymouth Township. There is commercial at the corner of Sheldon and Five Mile and an industrial park going in further west.

"You're near the freeway (M-14) and the interchange (with I-275)," Coates said. "Industrial is developing there because of the freeway affect. And Farmington Hills has an industrial park that has been developing for, I think, almost 30 years. It is nearly full; so it would seem logical that there would be some market for industrial uses in this area."

Commissioner Richard Allen said there have been inquiries from developers interested in the Plymouth Center property. "There has been interest expressed — how serious they are, only time will tell," he said.

Albion College senior SHELLY THACKER is a finalist in the playwriting contest of the American Theatre Festival.

Thacker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thacker of 42207 Sunnysdale, will take a rehearsed reading of her play "Diane" to the Region III-East festival January 2-6 in Kalamazoo.

Reading the one-act play will be members of the Albion College Players. Thacker is the first Albion college student to have a play in the regional finals.

Thacker's play, a dramatization of actual historical events, is set in Renaissance France. The story follows the conflict between Diane de Poitiers, mistress of the late King Henri II, and Catherine de Medici, wife of the late King.

The Albion playwright said she became interested in the story of the two women while spending last spring semester in France studying in Grenoble. While a student in France, she traveled extensively and said "one of my favorite places was the Loire Valley," where, she said, "I got a real sense of history and how powerful these women must have been."

In the competition, Thacker said, 50 plays written by undergraduate and graduate students from Michigan, Ohio and Indiana were entered. The winner of the regional competition, will have a chance to enter the national competition in Washington, D.C., next spring.

Thacker, a senior majoring in English and French, is editor of the "Albion Review" and a former assistant managing editor of the "Fleider" student newspaper. She is a student writer for the college office of communications and a member of Phi Beta Phi sorority.

She also is an Albion Fellow, a member of Sigma Tau Delta English honorary, the Albion College players and Alpha Lambda Delta women's honorary.

Audit shows steady gains against deficit

By KEVIN WILSON

The annual audit of city accounts for 1983-84 showed a healthy improvement, even though the general fund deficit remained at nearly $300,000 at year-end, auditor Ken Kunkel of Plante & Moran told city council January 21.

Kunkel noted that the city deficit began in 1982 when it was $483,000. "In the past year, you've reduced that by $101,000 and at year end it stood at $299,000 — within $30,000 of what (city manager) Steve (Walters) was projecting last April," he said.

He noted that the city added one mill of property tax in the current year to help eliminate the deficit. "We've got to commend you on how you've handled this difficult situation," Kunkel said.

"It's really tough to come back like that and you've done an extraordinary job."

Another major concern involving city finances deals with the Downtown Development Authority (DDA), which was designed to repay the costs of downtown improvements through tax revenue increases. Kunkel reported that in the past year, the DDA revenue from captured taxes rose sufficiently that it seems certain to succeed.

"You've just reached the point now where the revenue from captured taxes equals the debt" due annually on the bonds sold to fund the improvements. "As development continues downtown and the revenue increases, the DDA can start paying back the public improvement fund" which floated seed money for the project.

Kunkel said the auditors had to make one criticism of city accounting practices, but that he expected it to be one-time only problem.

"During the changeover to computer accounting, the bank reconciliations got behind" and were not reconciled with the general ledger on a timely basis, the audit report states.

An analysis of city finances comparing the 1983-84 budget year with the previous year showed that property tax revenues declined, primarily due to reduced property valuations in the Oakland County portion of the city, the auditors reported.

Revenue from this source was $1.295 million in 1983 but only $1.268 million in 1984, a reduction from 55 percent to only 52 percent of the general fund revenues. Federal and state shared revenues also declined, but an improvement in the amount of parimutuel tax returned to the city more than made up the lost income from other sources.

Total city revenue for 1984 was $2.439 million, compared with $2.374 million the previous year.

On the cost side of the ledger, increases were registered in the police department, public works and joint services with the township. The fire department cost also rose, but Kunkel said there were accounting changes that caused the apparent increase and operating costs of the department did not change significantly.

Costs declined in many other parts of the budget — general government dropped from $350,000 in 1983 to $330,000 in 1984, fringe benefits declined by $11,000, and another $10,000 was saved under "other expenditures."

Overall, spending rose from $2.292 million in 1983 to $2.338 million in 1984. Despite the increase in spending, they were outpaced by revenues by $101,000, all of which went toward reduction of the deficit.

Kunkel noted that new people assigned to the city by Plante & Moran find more work than they anticipated.

"Our auditors are constantly amazed at the complexity of your operation for the size of the population," he said. "You have as complex a fund structure as you'd find in a city of 100,000. Yet, just about everything is required by law or a logical outcome of the things you are pursuing."

Kunkel and council praised the work of city manager Steve Walters and finance department director Betty Lennox in managing city funds.

Lennox praised Plante & Moran, which council reappointed as auditors for the coming year. Cost of the audit was projected to increase five percent ($650) for inflation and another $650 for a newly-required annual audit of federal revenue sharing accounts. The latter was previously required only every third year.

Interurbans chronicled

demise of the system is contained in the announcement of the reduction of service from Farmington to Northville on November 27, 1925, to two local runs a day.

Bus service was being operated from Northville to Detroit by Detroit Motor-bus Company via Seven Mile. People's Motor Coach Company had started two round trips a day from Farmington to Northville, via Eight Mile, to fill the void in local rail service.

This happened, the authors point out, because the State of Michigan was encouraging the spread of competing bus lines without regard to the existence of established transport.

"And, in any event," they note, "Henry Ford and his contemporaries were hard at work sealing the fate of the electric interurban."

A trolley appears in the left of a photograph of Main and Center streets on Page 78, that shows the bandstand there built by 1905. The picture taken in 1919 is of a presentation of rings to veterans of World War I at the bandstand.

"It's a part of history that nobody's studied but us," the researchers say, adding, "We had great fun even though it was hard work with much frustration locating former interurban employees and recording their memories."

The researchers, who plan future books on eastern southern and western interurban routes, observe that they always are seeking information and pictures about the electric trolleys. Schramm says he would appreciate hearing from local residents with material on the interurban in Wayne and Plymouth. He may be contacted at 19129 Cheshire, Detroit, 48236.

The book points out that the interurbans resembled the city trolley in many ways, but were bigger and carried as many as 60 passengers as they traveled from city to city. They were heavier, higher vehicles and could travel as fast as 60 mph across the countryside.

The book also contains the story of the railroad tunnel constructed between Detroit and Windsor across the Detroit River. Begun in 1906, it was completed in 1910 with 2,668 feet of the total of 8,376 feet under water.

A bright yellow interurban train is featured on the cover of the book, which the authors say they had hoped to have delivered from the publisher in time to be a special Christmas gift for history buffs. It's here in time to be a Valentine, however. It is priced at $29.95 and is available at both Bookstall on the Main, 116 East Main, and at the Book Stop in Northville Plaza Mall.

It also is featured at the Detroit Historical Museum.

Friends of Northville Library announce that the book is the group's newest donation to the shelf of the Northville Public Library.

Library to host book sale

Any residents who missed the Northville Friends of the Library used book sale a few months ago will have another chance to pick up book bargains.

"People looking for the unusual book might browse at this sale," says Geraldine Mills, chairperson. She adds that there will be a selection of old books, textbooks and children's books at the February 13 sale. It will be held in the library from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Proceeds from the quarterly sales, she explains, are being used to buy items the library needs. Recent acquisition is a history of area railroad, called When Eastern Michigan Rode the Rails by Jack E. Schramm, William H. Henning and Richard R. Andrews.

Civic booster C.A. Smith ill

C.A. Smith, longtime resident who has headed the annual Northville Goodfellows' Christmas campaign for many years and who founded and heads Civic Concern local emergency help organization, is hospitalized in Botsford Hospital.

Smith, who will be 93 years old this month, was admitted to the hospital last Thursday with fluid in his lungs. Pending the results of tests, he possibly will return home later this week, friends reported Monday.

He is in room 254 and may receive calls and visitors.

Smith also is an active member of the Northville Rotary Club.

Our Opinions

No white hats in Normac issue

"Everyone's wearing a gray hat on this one." So said a member of our editorial board in regard to the city's refusal to extend water service to Normac, Incorporated, unless the township industry seeks annexation to the city.

Here we have that still too-rare event — a business in southeast Michigan seeking to expand and stay here rather than move somewhere else. But, thanks to an accident of geography and an errant pen some 50 years ago, the business finds itself torn between two governments. The township wants it to stay, but can't offer water service. The city would be delighted to offer water service, but only if it gets to collect the taxes, too.

An objective observer would likely wonder why the township-city boundary was not drawn along Griswold Road to begin with — the terrain of the area and the road layout seem strong arguments for including the Normac property, and that to the east and west, in the city. But that begs the question of what is the right course of action now.

Though the business may be criticized for hoping to gain the advantage of city water while paying the township's lower property taxes, we believe the important thing is to retain jobs and business in the community, regardless of whether it is in the township, city or even Novi. The majority of tax revenue accrues to the school district anyway, regardless of where one draws the boundary lines. Business retention should take a higher priority than does the issue of who gets to collect a few thousand dollars in taxes.

We would have preferred to see the city extend water service, at a cost above that charged customers within the city limits, and only then pursue the annexation issue. Annexation holds benefits for Normac — first-response from city police and fire departments would likely be faster than the township can offer, trash collection would be done by the city, water rates could be lower, and tax abatements have been mentioned. But luring the firm into the city is one thing, holding a gun to its head by withholding water crosses the line to where city officials are no longer entitled to call their action "non-aggressive."

From the above, readers may get the idea we think the township wears the only white hat. Not so. The township would stand in the way of the Normac annexation, regardless of logic. There is the impact of that few thousand dollars of tax revenue again. A blanket anti-annexation policy may play well with a portion of the electorate, but, if the township government cannot offer the services to justify its tax collections, it has no business asserting a "right" to those collections.

If the city and township were not each so involved in trying to protect their own fiefdoms, it would likely be profitable for the two of them to sit down with the owners of property in the involved area and hammer out an agreement that would serve all their interests. If that happens, we'll hand out three white hats.

Haggerty study is an imperative

Traffic volumes generated by the freeway, the impending construction of a sewer and other market factors have combined to change the prospects for development along Haggerty Road in ways that could not be imagined as little as five years ago.

It is clear then, that the township master plan calling for most of the Haggerty Road frontage to be developed for single family residential uses is in need of review. The busy thoroughfare that Haggerty is becoming does not make it an attractive location for housing, yet the nearby homeowners deserve to see the area developed in an attractive manner that does not detract from the adjoining residential area.

Therefore, an immediate study of land uses along Haggerty is imperative. The planning commission, we believe, is on track in seeking such a study. It is also correct in trying to assure that it is done in a cost-effective manner. Some elements of the study proposed by consultants Villican-Leman & Associates seem to us unnecessary and deserve to be questioned.

In many ways, the fate of the land facing Haggerty north of Six Mile road is sealed. Meijer is under construction, the land south of there is set up for offices, and the state hospital and Ward Presbyterian own large parcels. Changing the township master plan can affect what happens between Six and Eight Mile, but the changes will not be as drastic as they could be between Five and Six Mile.

It also does not take a lot of time to tick off a list of major developments along Haggerty in other communities — the Hilton and fast food restaurants at Eight Mile in Novi, office and residential near I-275 in Livonia, the Holiday Inn, etc. Nor to take note that two golf courses, a church and a Montessori school front on Haggerty between Five and Six Mile. We believe planning commissioners have a fairly good idea of what is going on around them. What they need is guidance on the possible alternatives left for development of Northville Township's segment of the Haggerty/I-275 corridor.

That's what the Haggerty Road study must supply — and soon. It is already a little late in the game. Haggerty Road is developing faster than anyone expected it to, and planners are going to have to hurry if they expect to stay ahead of developers. That's why the study must go forward while cost remains unsettled.

While it is easy to fault the consultant firm for proposing more work for itself than may be needed, the planning commission, too, is at fault. In the absence of specific instructions about what the commission needs, it is easy to add items that might be needed. Soliciting for bids on such studies could alleviate that problem by forcing the commission to prepare bid specifications. It might also, however, result in a study less attuned to the community's desires and less familiar with how the present master plan came to be.

Given the situation, planners took the rational step and committed themselves to the study while opening negotiations to reduce costs. In the future, it might be appropriate to supply consultants with a tighter description of what the commission needs, or does not need, before asking for a cost estimate.

On the trail of two cities

By B.J. Martin

One of the trickiest things about writing for both The Northville Record and The Novi News is how I have to shift gears for the very different readership of each paper.

Come on, I can hear you scoff. Novi and Northville are like two kernels in an ear, twin cities of the northwest suburbs.

Wrong, wrong, wrong. The only thing Novi and Northville have in common is Eight Mile Road. Here are just a few things I have to keep track of as I shuffle between the two:

Northville has a big township and a little city. Novi has a little township and a big city. Novi wants to be thought of as a City Of The Future. Northville wants to be thought of as an Old-Fashioned Town.

Northville has a Downtown. People shop there when the weather's nice. Novi has a Mall. People shop there when it isn't.

When someone's mentioned in The Novi News, he tells his friends. When someone's mentioned in The Northville Record, they already know.

See what I mean? There's more. Lots more.

Northville has Old Money. Novi has nouveau riche. Say "Dale" to a Northville resident and he thinks of Dale Evans. Say "Dale" to a Novi resident and he thinks of Dale Carnegie.

Northville is a community built with hardware. Novi is a community built with software. Northville has Schrader's Home Furnishings. Novi has Ollie Fretter Appliance.

Northville homeowners dream of putting a barbeque out back. Novi homeowners dream of putting in a hot tub. Northville residents save copies of Saturday Evening Post. Novi residents save copies of Cosmopolitan.

When police show up at a Novi party, it usually means trouble. When police show up at a Northville party, it usually means they're off duty.

Northville men drink light beer because it tastes great. They smoke and their wives hate it. Novi men drink light beer because it has one-third fewer calories than their regular beer. They don't smoke, but their wives do.

Northville women golf. Novi women aerobicize. Novi men do their share of the dishes. Northville men buy their wives dishwashers. This makes it difficult for women to choose whether they prefer Northville men or Novi men.

Northville people like to buy big American cars. They listen to WJR on their way to work. Novi people like to buy little foreign cars and listen to WNIC.

In winter, Northville people go snowmobiling. Novi people go cross-country skiing. Novi people buy snowblowers. Northville people pay the kid next door to shovel their drive.

A Northville outdoorsy weekend is driving up to the cottage for some hunting and fishing. A Novi outdoorsy weekend is sun-tanning on the patio while watching the Tigers on the portable black-and-white.

Northville High School has a relatively large football team and a relatively small marching band. Novi High School has a relatively large marching band and a relatively small football team. Northville parents go to their kids' games and yell. Novi parents are too busy taping the games on their VCR's.

Those are just a few of the distinctions I must deal with on a daily basis. So remember, if you see me looking a little lost from time to time, just whisper: "Northville, B.J." or "Novi, B.J." If it still doesn't appear to sink in, try: "Earth, B.J., Earth." That should do it.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

We have something better than television at our house.

Nope, not a VCR. What I'm talking about is bird feeders.

We got our first bird feeder as a Christmas present several years ago and promptly hung it on a tree outside the picture window in our dining room. This year, we decided to expand our dining facilities and purchased another bird feeder, which we stuck in the ground on a pole outside the same window.

We now have more birds than you can imagine, swooping in all day long to gobble up the bird seed which my wife doles out in generous portions.

We've got loads of wrens and chickadees, which are fun to watch. But we've also got three cardinals — two males and a female, two doves and a couple of bluejays.

The birds make great viewing, particularly in the morning when we sit down at the table and watch them come in for breakfast. Bonnie, Clyde and Bowser — our three cats — also like the show. When we get up in the morning, they're all sitting on the dining room table, making funny little noises as the birds fly in to fatten up.

Unfortunately, I'm just beginning to realize some of the problems associated with being dining room manager for several hundred birds.

My brother-in-law told me Sunday that I can't go on winter vacations anymore. "Once those birds get used to coming here, they won't be able to fend for themselves if you stop putting out food every day," he warned. "From now on, you'll only be able to take summer vacations."

The other problem has to do with the cost of bird seed. You have to remember that a healthy percentage of my income already goes into providing gourmet dining for three cats.

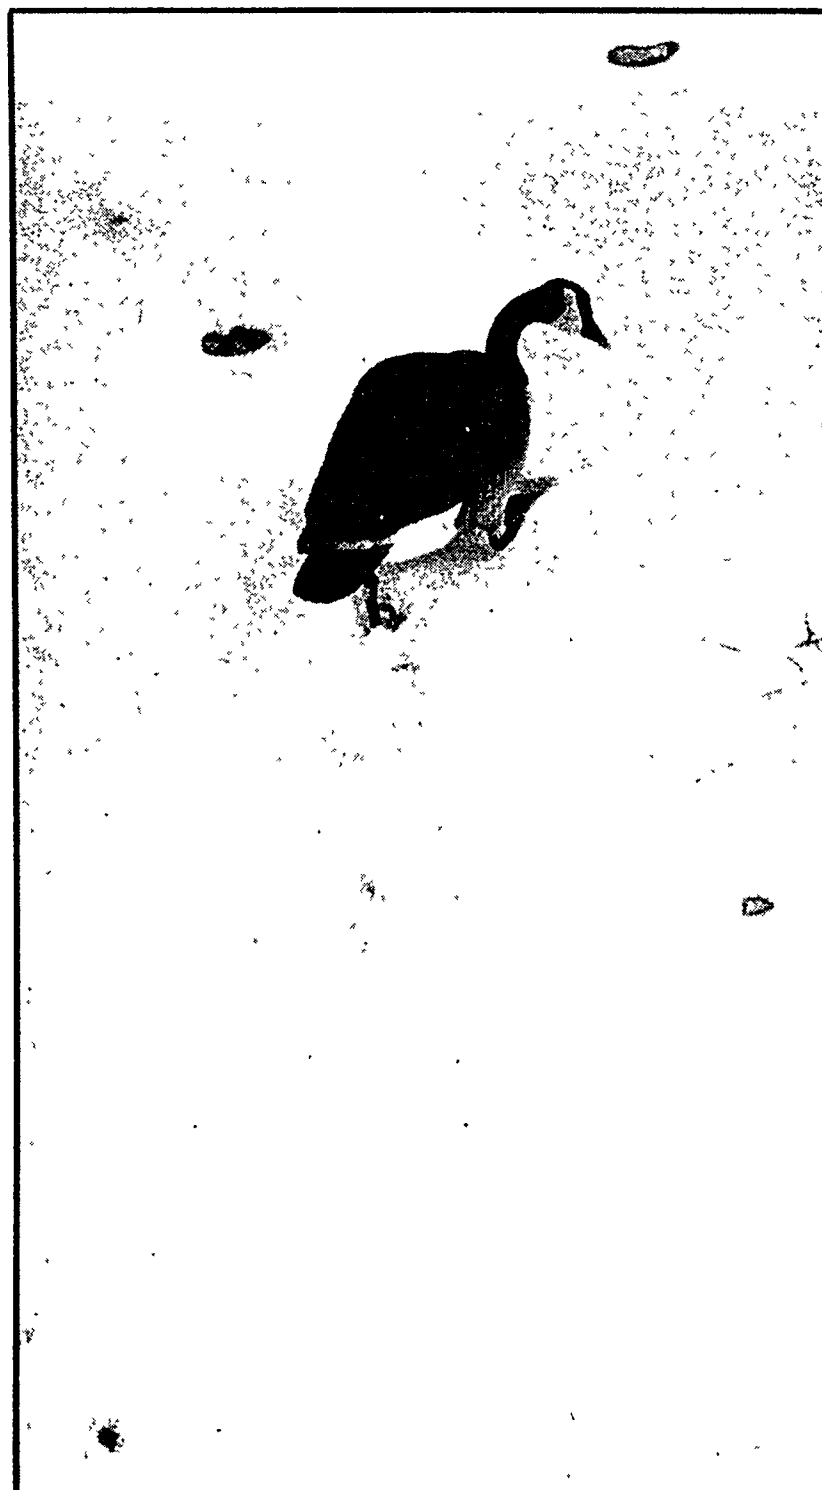

And lately I've noticed that those little feathered creatures also have healthy appetites.

I bought 100 pounds of bird seed Saturday only to be informed by my wife that it will last about a month. "Birds eat 72 times their body weight in food every day," she said.

"That's almost as much as you put away."

TV claims another victim

By Kathy Jennings

I have this growing feeling that I am cut off from Middle America. I am developing an increasing sense of isolation.

The feelings started three weeks ago when the borrowed television sitting in my living room was repossessed by its rightful owner.

Once I was one of those people who scorned the great American pastime — prime time T.V. Arrogant souls who watch no television litter their conversations with cute remarks about the vast video wasteland and the mind-numbing qualities of network television. They have more important things to do — read Plato, write poetry, draw on the right side of their brains. Yes, I, too, was one of those smug people who when the conversation turned to the latest mini-series would say with pride: "I don't own a television." (When this pronouncement is made in the correct tone of voice it inevitably draws looks of amazement and envy from those who feel guilty about succumbing to the lure of a mindless entertainment that enters their living rooms each night.)

My smugness evaporated when a neighbor took pity on my condition and loaned me a tiny, black and white, portable Sony. For weeks it sat neglected on a wooden folding chair directly opposite the couch.

Then I started turning it on to view the "educational" programming: Jacques Cousteau, Nova, McNeil and Lehrer. Watching television could be justified if I was learning something. Soon there were football and baseball games to be watched.

I'm not sure when the switch to prime time network viewing began — it was a gradual, degenerative process.

Things got completely out of control when I went to visit my sister in California last spring. I watched television every night for 14 days running. I watched the entire "V" series from the birth of the half-lizard/half-human child to the catapulting of the villainous Diana off the planet. I watched Dynasty, Dallas and Falconcrest. I stayed up to watch Johnny Carson, followed by David Letterman.

I later determined this excess television-watching was an escape from the realities of a daytime spent with noisy two-year olds. But the damage was done. When I got home, I returned to my previous viewing habits only through restraint.

Eventually, the strain became too great. It got to the point where I would turn on the T.V. as I walked in the door. There were nights, when attracted by a particular noise coming from the set, I sat down and watched. Then I was watching the entire evening lineup — from Entertainment Tonight and P.M. Magazine through the 11 O'Clock news.

I became a true video vegetable, showing all the classic symptoms. You might recognize them. A video vegetable does not react to inane commercials. He knows he's been watching too much T.V. when he is no longer offended by the stewardess who catches her airline captain by switching to the toothpaste that makes her teeth glow in the dark. But this inability to react to offensive commercials does not worry the vegetable. Video vegetables don't need to consult the television guide. They know the tunes and words to most commercials. And video vegetables are not selective viewers. They do not turn off the T.V. even when there is nothing on. If their choice is between three shows, none of which they want to watch, they will simply choose the lesser of three evils. I sank to those levels.

Now in moments of reverie I find myself contemplating the fates of my favorite characters. Is Lucy Bates getting along with the little boy she adopted? Did Joyce Davenport decide to give up public defending for prosecution so she could be on her husband's side for once? I worry about Bobby Ewing — is he really going to marry that insipid Jenna? Will Donna Reed ever figure out how to play Miss Ellie the right way?

I find myself looking longingly at the wooden chair that served as a television stand. I wistfully look through appliance store ads, trying to calculate when I might be able to afford a television, any television. In the meantime, excuse me while I hum the theme songs to the shows I am missing.

Bullard collects award for serving townships

LANSING — State Representative Willis Bullard Jr. has received the Michigan Township Association's (MTA) first Legislator of the Year Award.

Bullard is state representative from the 60th District, which includes Novi, South Lyon and Milford. The award cites Bullard for "the many fine contributions made on behalf of township government in the State of Michigan."

Bullard said he was pleased to have earned the award during his freshman term in the State House. "I am very honored to be the first recipient of this award," said the former Highland Township supervisor. "I believe local governments play a significant role and am pleased that my efforts have made those governments more efficient and cost-effective."

The award was presented during the MTA's annual banquet at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. Some 2,000 township officials from across the state were in attendance.

MTA members cited Bullard for sponsoring seven bills which were signed into law during his first two years in office. The majority of the new laws are designed to streamline township and local government. Bullard was one of only two Republicans in the House to write as many as seven new laws.

One of Bullard's new laws permits local government employees to issue tickets requiring a court appearance by citizens who have violated community ordinances. These tickets previously were issued through district courts at the request of local government employees. That practice recently was ruled illegal by the state attorney general.

"The new procedure saves time and money for local communities, while maintaining their ability to enforce their ordinances," said Bullard.

Bullard served on the Highland Township Board from 1978 to 1980 and then served as township supervisor for two years prior to being elected to the state house in 1982. He also served on the Highland Township Zoning Board of Appeals.

An attorney, Bullard was re-elected to another two year term in Lansing in the November 1984 general election. He said he hopes to have an equally successful term ahead of him. "I'm trying to re-introduce bills which didn't get a hearing or an opportunity to be passed last session," he said.

Academy nominees chosen

Congressman William S. Broomfield (R-18th District) has announced that Joel A. Vogt, a senior at Northville High School, is among his nominees who will compete for 1985 nominations to the United States Air Force, Military and Naval academies.

Vogt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Richardson of 45120 Galway; he is competing for an appointment to the Military Academy.

All nominees are selected on a competitive basis as a result of SAT/ACT scores, scholastic record, extra curricular activities, leadership potential and the recommendation of high school counselors.

Under the competitive appointment system used by Congressman Broomfield, final appointments to the academies will be made by selection boards at each academy. All appointments will be announced before May 1.

For 1985, 20 nominees will compete for two vacancies allotted to the 18th Congressional District at the Air Force Academy, 10 nominees will compete for one vacancy at the Military Academy, and 20 nominees will compete for two vacancies at the Naval Academy.

Congressman Broomfield urges youths interested in attending one of the service academies next year to contact him before November, 1985, at 2306 Rayburn House Office Building, Washington, D.C., 20515.

Program showed welfare dependency

Project Self-Reliance helped many welfare recipients find private sector jobs, but changes in the welfare system and the private sector will be needed if long-term welfare dependence is to be reduced, said program director Doug Ross.

Ross, newly-appointed head of the state commerce department and a former state senator, said at a news conference he would be forwarding recommendations to the governor and legislature for a follow-up to the project.

"Our initial experiment clearly showed that when private sector jobs are available, many welfare recipients are willing and able to take those jobs and become economically self-sufficient," Ross said.

"Though final figures will not be available for several weeks, we estimate that more than 30 percent of all Self-Reliance participants have left welfare for permanent full-time jobs in the private sector," he said.

Ross said another one-third of the 7,000 participants demonstrated strong motivation to work but lacked marketable skills. These persons have been enrolled in job training programs designed to produce placements in the next six months, he said.

"We learned a number of important facts about the welfare system and the plight of those on welfare that will be of use in the development of a long-term strategy to reduce welfare dependence in Michigan," Ross said.

Findings of the program, he said, include:

- Large numbers of those on welfare prefer work to a welfare check. Nearly 20,000 people volunteered to trade their checks for 7,000 temporary, minimum-wage jobs in the community with hopes of finding a permanent private sector job.

- According to those who employed the former welfare recipients, "real" constructive work was accomplished — not "make work" as many had feared. "The program not only put welfare recipients to work, the taxpayers also got their money's worth," according to Ross.

- A state program that focuses all its resources on helping welfare recipients find private sector jobs is effective for many, though some recipients require additional job training to secure private employment.

Ross stated that his recommendations for a second phase of the project will be based on these findings and will seek to develop an approach that prevents welfare dependence for those seeking public assistance.

In service

Brian J. Groves, son of Mary Groves of 21640 Kilrush, has entered the United States Air Force's delayed enlistment program (DEP).

According to Staff Sergeant William B. Eddy, Air Force recruiter in Livonia, Groves' entry into the DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area.

Groves will be a 1985 graduate of Northville High School and will enter the Regular Air Force July 24. Following graduation from a six-week training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training in the general aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

The Northville Record

Swallow flies off with two medals

By B.J. MARTIN

It went according to plan. At the U.S. Junior National skating competition last week, Northville's Jerod Swallow and Livonia's Jodie Balogh struck gold, claiming a first place in ice dance figure skating competition.

Good again Swallow also competed in ice pairs with Rochester's Shelley Propson, but the duo was just edged out for the gold medal by the team of Detroit Skating Club member Devany Deck and Luke Houhman of Buffalo, New York.

Last week's competition will be the last at the Junior level for Swallow, Propson and Balogh. With the medal-winning performances, the three will now enter Senior level competition — the level from which skaters for the U.S. Olympic Team are chosen.

"Now we have to start all over again," Swallow laughed following his return home this weekend. "We're pleased with how it went. We wanted to place high in the competition so we could make the jump to Seniors."

At last week's three-part competition, Swallow and Balogh were in second following first-round dance compulsories. They pulled up to first following original set pattern and their first in free dance clinched the gold medal.

In pairs, Propson and Swallow also took second in compulsories. In original set pattern they placed second, but still had a good chance at a gold going into the free pairs competition.

"We really wanted to win overall," Swallow said. "The judges told us if we wanted to win, we needed to skate a clean program and we could probably get by if we took out our throw (in which Swallow literally tosses Propson in the air)."

"So Wednesday night, our coach had us take it out."

But two things went wrong in the free skating finale.

First, Swallow "popped" (that's

'We're pleased with how it went ... We wanted to place high so we could make the jump to Senior competition.'

— Jerod Swallow

"messed up" in skating parlance) a double jump in the free program, making a single jump instead.

"I just slipped up with everything going on," Swallow said. "I felt really bad about it for Shelly."

The second thing that went wrong was that the leaders after the first two rounds, Deck and Houhman, turned in an excellent performance.

"They skated fantastic," Swallow admitted. "They've only been together six months, but they did real well."

Swallow's triumphs at the Junior World Competition and in the Banská Bystrica Competition in Europe last December have earned the local resident considerable notoriety.

He's recently been accompanied from place to place by a camera crew from Channel 7's Good Afternoon Detroit. The crew is filming him for a feature scheduled to air on the program Tuesday, February 26.

Incidentally, Northville resident Laurie Leinonen will produce the feature on Swallow.

This Sunday, CBS has scheduled last December's Junior World Competition for a taped telecast. At the prestigious international competition, held in Colorado Springs, Colorado, Swallow turned in the U.S.' best performances, teaming with Balogh for a fourth in dance and with Propson for a fourth in pairs.

Jeff Bainbridge's 1:01.53 in backstroke was one of the top Mustang performances on Tuesday

Zero point three three seconds.

Northville came that close to keeping alive its three-meet win streak in a 45-38 loss to Inkster Cherry Hill Tuesday of last week.

Going into the final event of the meet, the 4x100 freestyle relay, Cherry Hill clung to a 39-34 lead. A Mustang first would give the meet to Northville.

Cherry Hill swam a 3:30.85. Northville's Ron Johnston, Doug Buell, Jeff Wayne and Darius Mikalonis checked in with a 3:31.18.

Ouch. Mustang Coach Derek Gans wasn't disappointed, however. "We had a lot of excellent swimmers," he said. "It was really close all the way through."

Recording first-place times were Johnston in the 50 freestyle (23.31), Buell in 100 butterfly (57.71), and Mikalonis in 100 backstroke (1:00.1). Joel Grasley won diving with 221.55 points.

Northville had a lot of seconds: Mikalonis in the 200 freestyle (2:10.54), Johnston in 100 freestyle (53.21), Tom Valade in 500 freestyle (5:35.71), Bainbridge in 100 backstroke (a surprisingly strong 1:01.53) and Jeff Pawloski in diving (203.65 points).

Taking thirds were Dave Wayne in 100 free (58.5).

Valade in the 200 free (2:09.91), Bainbridge in the 100 butterfly (58.5) and Eric Leindecker in 100 breast stroke (1:14.24). At Leindecker's heels was Chris Sellen in 1:14.66 for a fourth.

Northville's 4x50 medley relay team (Bainbridge, Sellen, Buell and Grasley) took a second in 1:53.21. The Mustangs continued to swim well against Walled Lake Central on Thursday — even though it probably wasn't necessary.

Northville swamped the overmatched Vikings 56-24 with a shook-up lineup card, still grabbing firsts in all but one event.

Taking individual firsts were: Craig Smith in 200 free (2:02.3), Wayne in 200 individual medley (2:20.1), Johnston in 50 free (23.7), Buell in butterfly (58.8) and breast (1:12.2), Valade in 500 free (5:36.6), Bainbridge in backstroke (1:01.2), and Pawloski in diving (227 points).

Taking seconds were: Valade in 200 free (2:02.9), Randy Holloway in 200 I.M. (2:32.4), Smith in 100 free (52.9), Leindecker in breast (1:13.52), and Grasley in diving (219.9 points).

Placing third were: Holloway in butterfly (1:07.11), Jason Hill in 500 free (5:58.3, his first sub-six-minute time), and Paul Stoecklin in 100 back (1:07.64, a personal best).

Holloway, Leindecker, Bainbridge and Mikalonis combined to take the medley relay in 1:51.6. Johnston, Smith, Bainbridge and Mikalonis took the freestyle relay in 3:35.2.

Swimming exhibition in the meet, Jim Thompson turned in a solid I.M. and a strong butterfly. "We may use him in the fly in the future," said Coach Gans.

The victory gave Northville a 5-0 conference mark going into the toughest two weeks of the Mustangs' schedule.

Tomorrow, Northville hosts Lakes Division powerhouse Livonia Stevenson. Oddly, Northville's small pool could be a disadvantage because of Stevenson's front-line strength. "I wish we were swimming it in their pool," Gans declared. "Some of the times are really close."

Next Tuesday, the Mustangs travel to Plymouth Salem and on Thursday, February 14, they return for their final home meet, against Plymouth Canton.

Mustangs sweep past Hawks

Doug May contributed seven points to Tuesday's win

A Northville High School rebounding record got smashed last week. But it was another record the Mustangs were more interested in — their season record.

"We really wanted to be at .500 after last week," said Northville Coach Omar Harrison. As it turned out, the Mustangs' heartbreaking 44-43 loss to Livonia Bentley on Friday messed up that plan.

But more on that later — the big news came three nights earlier. According to the statmen, Mustang power forward Greg Wendel ripped down 28 rebounds in Northville's 45-39 victory over Western Division-leading Farmington Harrison Tuesday night. That's two big nights on the boards for most forwards.

Eighteen of the 6'3" senior's rebounds came on defense. That made sense — the Hawks shot 29 percent from the floor. There were plenty of rebounds to be had.

"He gets a lot of rebounds you sometimes don't notice," said Mustang Coach Omar Harrison. "He did an outstanding job. It was a major victory for all of us."

The Mustangs shot out of the gates fast, pulling ahead 10-4 after one quarter, and never trailed the rest of the way.

"I don't know if it was our defense or if they just weren't hitting," said Coach Harrison. "But things kept snowballing. I think they (the Hawks) came over a little unprepared."

Although the Hawks scored two more field goals than Northville, they sent the Mustangs to the free throw line 26 times. Northville's not the greatest free-throw shooting team around, but the Mustangs canned 15 of their charity-stripe tosses to cruise past the Hawks.

Don Norton led Northville with 11 points. Kirk Morrison added nine, Wendel and Mike Hilfinger eight apiece and Doug May seven — including two big free throws that choked off a late Hawk rally.

Coach Harrison was as disappointed with Friday's loss to Bentley as he was pleased with Tuesday's win. "I was pretty disappointed," he said. "We played pretty well, and it was the ideal time to reach our .500 goal."

Bulldog junior Derek Neher scored Bentley's final basket with 40 seconds to play. Northville put together a flurry toward the end but came just short of catching Bentley at the buzzer.

Wendel scored a game-high 17 points, and this time let the Mustangs' 6'6" center John Storm help him on the boards. Storm scored 13 points and matched Wendel's total of 12 rebounds.

Morrison contributed seven steals and Norton had five assists.

The loss dropped Northville's season record to 5-7 (3-6 WLAA). Northville's next game is Friday, at home.

Gymnasts fall, so do the scores

By B.J. MARTIN

"It was the pits," grumbled Northville gymnastics coach Michelle Charniga.

She was grumbling about her team's 119.15-107.45 loss to Plymouth Salem Monday of last week.

It was a general-purpose grumble Charniga applied both to her squad's performance — down more than eight points from the previous week — and to the meet judges.

"Right after the vault scores came in, I thought, 'Oh boy.' Every single one of our scores was low. And the judges really came down on us in uneven bars."

Indeed, Northville senior Diane Hale thought she did her usual mid-to-high sevens bar routine. She received a fourth-place 6.85. "She did an excellent routine," Charniga said. "I'm passing the word on her behalf — her routine really wasn't that bad."

Charniga couldn't say that about her team's balance beam routines. They really were that bad. For every nifty trick the Mustangs executed, there seemed to be a not-so-nifty fall.

"Everybody fell at least once," Charniga said. "It was a disaster."

Even Mandy Walts, who placed second in every event, had a fall. Her 7.65 was Northville's only plus-seven score in beam, as Hale took a 6.8, Kim Wobermin a 5.25 and Cheryl Lane a 4.35.

Walts nailed her vault, though, posting a score of 8.0. Hale was fifth with a 7.4, followed by Tonia Hickman (6.75), Wobermin (6.1), Lane (6.0) and Julie Cass (4.65). Walts scored 7.6 in uneven bars, followed by teammates Hickman (5.95) and Wobermin (4.95).

In floor exercise, Walts scored an impressive 8.2 for second. Hale's routine appeared to be nearly as strong, but she only received a fourth-place score of 7.55. Hickman received a 7.1, Lane a 5.5 and Missy Smith a 4.65.

Northville travels to John Glenn for a 7 p.m. meet Friday. On Tuesday, the Mustangs will travel to WLA rival Walled Lake Central. Northville's next dual meet, against Farmington Harrison on Thursday, February 28, will be the Mustangs' final home meet of the season.

CHOOSING A TAX PREPARER

by Charles H. Williams, C.P.A.

Who'll prepare your tax return this year? It's time to start choosing a professional, and to undertake the planning that may help you shelter some of your income from taxes.

If your income is fairly straightforward and deductible expenses minimal, you might satisfactorily use a short-form return and do it yourself or with the help of a tax preparer. But with more income, and more deductions, as the return becomes more complicated, you're going to want a tax professional.

Why? Because it's worth the difference to put your tax return in the hands of someone with the knowledge to find every likely loophole, and the experience to know which are acceptable. And as you reach the higher brackets, you'll get the advice you need on sheltering some income from taxes.

Some free help is available from the IRS. Revenue employees will answer your questions (but the tax court has challenged some of their answers) and prepare the simplest returns. There are also independent and chain tax preparers who pop up at tax season. Their workers may not be experienced enough to catch all legal deductions.

A certified public accountant can handle most complex returns and are familiar with shelters and investing. His or her tax know-how can save you more than the fee.

How do you choose a professional? Recommendations from satisfied clientele are one way, as are referrals from lawyers. Once a relationship is entered, the client will find his accountant helpful in making financial decisions all year round.

We're a local organization. Even though we served more than 3,300 clients last year we haven't forgotten, that every client is an individual and that each individual deserves the best service we can provide.

When we sign a tax return that we've prepared, we're proud of having done the best possible job for you. When you see our signature on your tax return you can be sure that:

1. The counselor who prepared your return was competent and thoroughly experienced in tax matters.
2. You have received the maximum legal deductions and the minimum legal tax.
3. Your tax return has received all the time and attention that was necessary to do a proper job.
4. Your tax return has been double-checked for both accuracy and tax saving possibilities.
5. Your return has been handled in a confidential manner.

We have three levels of service and fees... Econotax, Computax and Executax. We want to be your Accountant!

Despite a broken nose, John Lazar saw his way to a pin against Novi

Novi, Salem too much for Mustangs — this year

Things plummeted from bad to worse for the Northville wrestling team last week. Just as the Mustangs' schedule kicked into its toughest stretch, the squad's best wrestler pulled up lame.

That's nothing new to Joel Vogt, whose ankle has been turned more times than a Volkswagen. It happened in practice last week, just in time to thwart a much-hoped for matchup against Novi's Ed Marech on Tuesday.

Novi turned back the Mustangs 53-13, with only 167-pounder Dino Candela, 119-pounder Paul Maliszewski, and 126-pounder John Lazar recording victories against the tough Wildcats.

Candela ground out a 5-3 decision over one of Novi's best wrestlers, Dave Weber, for three points. John Lazar pinned Dave Sinkbiel in 2:54, and Maliszewski took a 10-0 major decision over Luchito Mejia.

Dennis Nadeau turned in a strong match, but Novi's Charlie Brown pinned him one second before the conclusion of the second period. Ed Marech, Novi's 31-4 185-pounder, wrestled at 198 pounds against Northville's Tim Millen. Northville was forced to forfeit at 185 pounds and at heavyweight.

The non-conference loss didn't damage Northville's league standings. But two nights later, Plymouth Salem did.

Against the Lakes Division-leading Salem, the Mustangs could manage only one match victory — junior 138-pounder Ken Kehoe's pin of Bill Meriman at 2:50.

The final score was 66-6. "They have a strong program," Northville Coach Jack Townsley pointed out. "We're beginning to wrestle better, though. It's just that these guys we're facing are more mature physically. We're still a couple years away."

Although freshman John Frisbie lost his match at 126 pounds on a 12-0 decision, Townsley reported the first-year wrestler has a bright future.

"He did a good job of staying off his back," Townsley noted. "He's one of a few freshmen and sophomores we have who are maybe a couple years away from being really fine wrestlers."

Among that group, Townsley says, are Mike Harrel, Keith Graham and a new freshman on the team, Dave Gudmunsen.

"The experience they gain this year will be helpful," he noted. "Even though we'll be losing some key people I think we'll be stronger overall."

Northville (3-10 overall, 2-6 WLAA) must now gear up for tonight's 6:30 p.m. match at Plymouth Canton, and for the Western Lakes Activities Association meet Saturday at Plymouth Salem.

Candela and Lazar are Northville's best shots at a high-placed finish at Saturday's tourney. Vogt could even be considered a favorite at 185 pounds — if his ankle recovers in time.

"We're supposed to get word on it by the middle of the week," Townsley said.

The following Saturday, Northville will compete at the Class A District meet at Walled Lake Western.

Spikers lose a pair of three-game heartbreakers

Steve McDonald chalked it up to "the mid-season blahs."

The Northville volleyball coach was summing up two frustrating three-game losses last week — both against teams the Mustangs could have beaten.

"We didn't play really well," said McDonald. "I think the girls wish we could have played 'em again."

Northville bolted ahead South Lyon on Monday with a 15-6 victory in the first game, then just as quickly fizzled, falling 15-6 and 15-8 in the next two.

"We didn't pass the ball too well, especially on serve reception," McDonald said. "We played well enough to win, I thought. But South Lyon's a very opportunistic team. They did what they needed to do."

"I think every team gets the mid-season blahs. I partly blame myself. We just needed some changes, and I thought we were still strong enough to beat them. The girls were out of position a little bit."

Two of the changes McDonald tried in the nonconference match worked out well. Robin Strunk played much of the game in the back row and did a good job. Eight of the sophomore setter's serves were good. An experiment moving Nicki LaRoque from hitter to setter also worked well at times, noted McDonald.

Cheryl Spaman was among the most consistent players against the Lions. Spaman served nine times, with six good.

Northville took on Plymouth Salem Wednesday night and lost what McDonald called "a tough one."

This time Salem got the jump on Northville, winning the first game 15-10 and breezing to a 13-4 lead in the second game.

But then Northville mounted a stirring rally. "We kept picking away at them, we got a few big aces, and as soon as we got our confidence going we really came at them," McDonald said. "By the time it was through, Northville had scored 11 unanswered points to win the game."

Sparkling the rally were a trio of former subs who earned starting jobs in the second game: setter Melanie Urbahn and hitters Mandy Olgren and

Our Lady cagers win three straight

Doug Cody and John Pump combined for 18 points to lead Our Lady of Victory's "White" 7-8 Grade Boys to their third straight win, a 39-23 defeat of St. Michael's of Southfield last Friday.

Cody stole six passes and Pump pulled down 10 rebounds in the game, while Tom Koons turned in a fine defensive effort for the 7-1 Cougars.

The Grade 5-6 Boys upped their season mark to 5-3 by tripping St. Mary's of Redford 29-24. OLV was led by Jon Barbara's offense and Paul Butz's defense.

The 7-8 "Blue" team fell 73-37 to St. Mary's despite good performances by Brian DeAlexandris and Craig Dalziel. St. Mary's defeated the Cougars 40-12 in the Grade 7-8 Girls' game, although Liz DeMattia and Janet Sclacter played well for OLV.

The Grade 5-6 Girls lost 25-12 to St. Mary's. Allyson Kennedy led the Cougars with five points and six rebounds. Teammate Andrea Crichton turned in a "live game."

Lynn Frellick. Olgren served 16 times — including the last four of the game — with only one off the mark. She added five blocks and six hits (four good). "I was really encouraged by the way Mandy played," said McDonald. "She really picked up the group."

Frellick also turned in some good net play, making seven hits (five good) and two blocks.

Chris McGowan had an impressive night serving, making 22 serves with only three awry, and playing well in the back row.

But Salem leapt ahead 13-7 in the third game, and this time Northville couldn't come back.

"It was too much to ask for one more like that," McDonald said. "I'm not real pleased, but I'm not real discouraged. It was an exciting game for spectators, I thought."

"As a team we've been hitting as well or better than anyone else, but they're not always for winners. We're going to have to start varying our attack."

BUSINESS USE OF HOME COMPUTER

If you've bought a home computer recently or are thinking of buying one, you may be eligible for a tax advantage under current IRS rules. However you must use it more than half the time for business purposes, either for your own benefit or your employer's. If it's your own business, it can be either a part-time or fulltime operation. You would also qualify if your employer requires you to have a home computer in order to keep your job.

There are many other office-in-home expenses which can help lower your income tax liability. For instance, a portion of your living expenses that relate directly to your office-in-home can be deducted. This would be based on the amount of space actually used for business purposes. If it's one room out of seven of approximately the same size, the percentage would be 14.3 percent. Or the percentage can be based on a comparison of square footage.

For more information about using home computers for business purposes and other tax advantages for which you may qualify, why not call us for an appointment.

Kris Broderick readies a Valentine's Day arrangement

Florists set for Valentine's Day

As area florists gear up for Valentine's Day on February 14, Kris Broderick of Northville Gallery of Flowers reports on a new trend — men as well as women like to receive Valentine flowers.

"There's even been a book published, titled 'Real Women Send Flowers,'" she says.

Actually, she adds, everyone seems to like to receive the romantic gift of flowers. The good news is that this year roses, one of the most popular flowers for Valentine's Day, are in plentiful supply with "prices somewhat less than last year," she says, noting, "they're always a big concern, but the whole flower supply looks real good this year."

However, the FTD association to which Broderick belongs points out, that Valentine flowers don't have to be roses — nor do they have to be sent by the dozen. A bouquet, a few flowers, or even a single bloom can bring the message of caring. There are flowers to suit everyone's budget — it's the thought that counts, the FTD adds.

Roses traditionally are expensive, the florist association explains, because they are hard to grow, taking up to 57 days and requiring special care and handling.

Broderick says her shop and all those belonging to the FTD are featuring a special Romance Collection for Valentine's Week.

An FTD Flower Basket Bouquet features a reusable ceramic basket decorated with a pink heart design. Inside are pink carnations and pink miniature carnations, white daisies, white button pompon chrysanthemums and pittosporum and leatherleaf foliage.

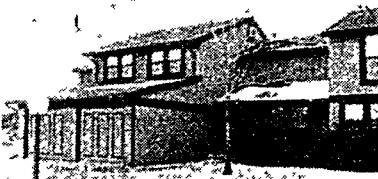

Another 1985 FTD arrangement uses the same pink heart motif on the ceramic cylinder of the Sweet Hearts Bouquet. The flowers are pink carnations, Elegance miniature carnations, white daisy pompons, purple daisy pompons, pink tulips, purple statice, baby's breath and leather leaf foliage. Tucked among the flowers are two embroidered white hearts on picks. They are decorated in pink with the word,

The good news this year is that roses, one of the most popular flowers for Valentine's Day, are in plentiful supply with 'prices somewhat less than last year.... They're always a big concern, but the whole flower supply looks real good this year.'

Realtors report sales figures

The greatest number of sales for existing homes still occur in the under $30,000 price range, according to examination of 1984 statistics from Metro MLS, the metro area's largest multiple listing service for existing homes.

Of the 13,967 homes sold by Metro MLS members last year, those at the lowest end of the price scale accounted for 2,318 or 16.6 percent. The second best seller was in the $40,000 to $50,000 range where 2,313 sales were closer to the year's average price of $58,081.

With 502 more sales in this price range, it showed the greatest gain over 1983 and accounted for more than 31 percent of the 1,600 sales total improvement. The 27.7 percent climb, however, was followed by homes priced at $120,000 and up, where 135 added sales last year provided a 21 percent increase.

The spring quarter provided the strongest activity, accounting for 4,081 sales with the summer quarter following with 3,716.

Despite some easing of interest rates in the last year, more sales (3,377) took place in the first quarter than the last (2,793).

The best sales month was May with 1,492. May also was the highest sales month in all price ranges above $80,000 as well as those priced under $30,000.

There were 2,218 sales in the under-$30,000 price range (16.6 percent), 2,202 sales in the $30,000 to $39,999 price range (15.8 percent), 2,313 sales in the $40,000 to $49,999 price range (16.6 percent) and 1,978 sales in the $50,000 to $59,999 price range (14 percent).

In the $60,000 to $69,999 price range there were 1,503 sales (11 percent). There were 1,046 sales in the $70,000 to $79,999 price range (7 percent), 721 sales in the $80,000 to $89,999 price range (5 percent), 482 sales in the $90,000 to $99,999 price range (3 percent) and 628 sales in the $100,000 to $119,999 price range (4 percent).

In the over $120,000 price range, there were 776 sales (5.6 percent).

Novi Hilton's manager says work's on schedule

Systems are now in place at the construction site of the new Novi Hilton that, when fully operational, will allow you to ride an elevator to one of seven floors of guest rooms, enter the room, set the temperature to your liking and relax in the bathtub while making a call to your office.

The Novi Hilton is scheduled to open in June.

Gary Seibert, general manager of the 240-room facility under construction on Haggerty Road at Eight Mile in Novi, reported that work on the hotel is right on schedule.

Eighty to 100 workers are on-site daily and have completed installation of electrical systems, a state-of-the-art Rolm telephone system, heating and cooling units in all guest rooms, and all plumbing, including an elaborate fire and life safety system that calls for three sprinkler heads per guest room, among other features.

Seibert said the hotel was "closed in" in time for the first snowfall. "Thermal-insulated windows were used throughout the building, to keep it warm," he said. The windows will provide excellent sound and heat control after the hotel opens, he added.

Heat currently is supplied by six huge gas heaters located throughout the structure.

Located in the Orchard Hill Place development at the corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty Road, the Novi Hilton will feature elegant and ultra-modern styling in both design and furnishings, according to Seibert. Each of the 240 guest rooms and suites will be equipped to service the needs of the business traveler with over-sized desks, alarm clocks, comfortable chairs, complimentary newspapers and electronic door locks.

Leisure travelers will appreciate the hotel's king-sized or double beds, luxurious appointments and well-equipped health club.

Two restaurants will offer diners a choice of cuisine, and guests will be able to dance in a unique two-tiered cocktail lounge.

Additionally, the hotel's function space, located on two levels, is designed to accommodate even the most sophisticated business or social function. A 9,000-square-foot grand ballroom on the ground floor divides into four sections and is adjacent to a practical, 100-seat amphitheater.

One level higher, the hotel's conference center includes nine spacious meeting rooms, each equipped with a wet bar to facilitate banquet functions.

The hotel is part of the Orchard Hill Place office park, which already includes such office tenants as Norris Industries, Digital Equipment Corporation and Hewlett Packard Company.

MAGIC PAN RESTAURANTS have received the America Dairy Association of Michigan's Adam Award. The award was created to honor restaurants and other dining places serving real dairy products, including milk, butter, cheese, cream, sour cream, half-and-half and yogurt. Magic Pan restaurants are located throughout the Detroit and Ann Arbor areas with one located in Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi. They have been serving area residents since they opened in the late 1970s.

The Adam Award plaque cites the Magic Pan's use of real dairy products and displays American Dairy Association's "REAL" seal, a symbol denoting genuine dairy foods as opposed to imitation dairy products. The association said it "commends the restaurant's consistently high standards in food preparation and service."

Florists prepared for Valentine's Day

"Love." Bakman Florist and Florals by Steven in South Lyon are FTD florists and will have the special arrangement. Mary Schraffenberger of Florals by Steven agrees that lovers buying flowers this season have a good selection with imports arriving from as far away as Holland, California and Israel. She adds that Teleflora also has a Valentine special of a Victorian replica hart dish decorated with a delicate motif of red roses and ribbon. It comes filled with flowers and later can be a permanent Valentine trinket box.

Area independent florists also are planning their own specials for Valentine's Day. All Seasons in Northville Plaza Mall in Northville Township is offering "flower pot" specials ranging from arrangements of carnations in the traditional pottery containers to miniature pots containing three silk roses, or other blooms. The miniatures will be a Valentine special, according to Scott Yonker, for $3.25.

Florist associations are suggesting that it shouldn't be Valentine's Day, but Valentine's Week, with bouquets being sent early so the recipient can enjoy the holiday gift longer.

Today all florists are used to express romantic feelings, but there was a time when certain blooms had specific meanings, the FTD relates. In the Victorian era, a number of authors wrote little books titled, Language of Flowers, so that lovers could exchange hidden messages with the floral gifts.

One said that white roses with yellow tulips meant, "I am worthy of you and hopelessly in love."

Bachelors who wanted to stay that way sent bachelor's buttons, but those interested in marriage could include ivy in their bouquets. A swain in difficulty with his beloved could send daisies and chrysanthemums to say, "I am innocent and telling the truth." Fern meant you were fascinated; a yellow rose meant the sender was jealous.

And, back to sending flowers to men, a striped carnation in Victorian days denoted refusal and a yellow carnation, disdain.

Hey sister, can you spare the time?

Getting through thirteen can be pretty tricky. The ups and downs. The discovery of boys. The emotional and physical changes of a child on her way to womanhood. The last thing she needs is a broken bike. A good mechanic would help. A good friend — even better. One woman, one girl, a few hours a week might just change the child's life. How about it, sister? Can you spare a little time?

The Morning

*How I love the morning
The best part of the day
When the sun has just arisen
With a light to show your way.*

*A promise of beginnings
Renewed hope for everyone
Leaving starlight and moon dust
To face the light of sun.*

*Have you ever watched the daybreak
Arrive while you're awake?
With a shine and misty glow
Across a peaceful lake?*

*I like the hustle and bustle
Of a breakfast type cafe
To see familiar faces
Before we each go our way.*

*A picnic on a warm spring day
Is a treasure the stars above
When you sit on blades of green
In the morning at a park.*

*I remember last night's fire
And I treasure the stars above
The moonlight makes me happy
But it's the morning that I love.*

Joanna Dorf

Driving Out The Storm

*The plastic covered
Hay piles, ghost-coated
Near abandoned cars
Next to the vast swatch
Of knitted fields.
Cars passing, spume
Clinging clouds of snow mist
Obscuring everything,
To mixed fear and beauty—
Towed cars; some left at the side.
The wild, white expanse
Daring drivers, the only intruders
On I-94 Highway, forced
To eye the undulant curves
And firs, or branched tree arms
Near a Yen-Ching red-yellow billboard;
Welcome green and white area signs,
A not-occasional house
Or gas and rest station.
MacDonalds matches Yen-Ching
Coloring our hopes for refuge;
Every sign a diversive eye-opener,
and emergency arrows a welcome sight.*
F.A. Hasenau

Thoughts on Love

*Love must be shared and exchanged
It cannot stand alone
Words cannot be left unanswered
When they have been spoken.*

*For like the flowers need the sun
And the birds must have their wings
Love cannot grow and prosper

*The moon would stop its radiant shine
If the stars were not close at hand
Their vibrations form a circle
In the comfort of one another.*

*The heart will keep a vigilant search
When love is missing or shallow
Beams of light in a darkened sky
So choose wisely when you choose.*

*Each heart has a special key
The soul its own combination
A special person that can unlock
All the love within.*

*Don't scatter your affections
In meaningless pursuits
Feel love to the depth of your being Stand firm, for love is strong.*

*Love is never cold, distant, or silent
It calls back and answers softly
Only then can mind, body, and spirit
Feel the joy of harmony.*

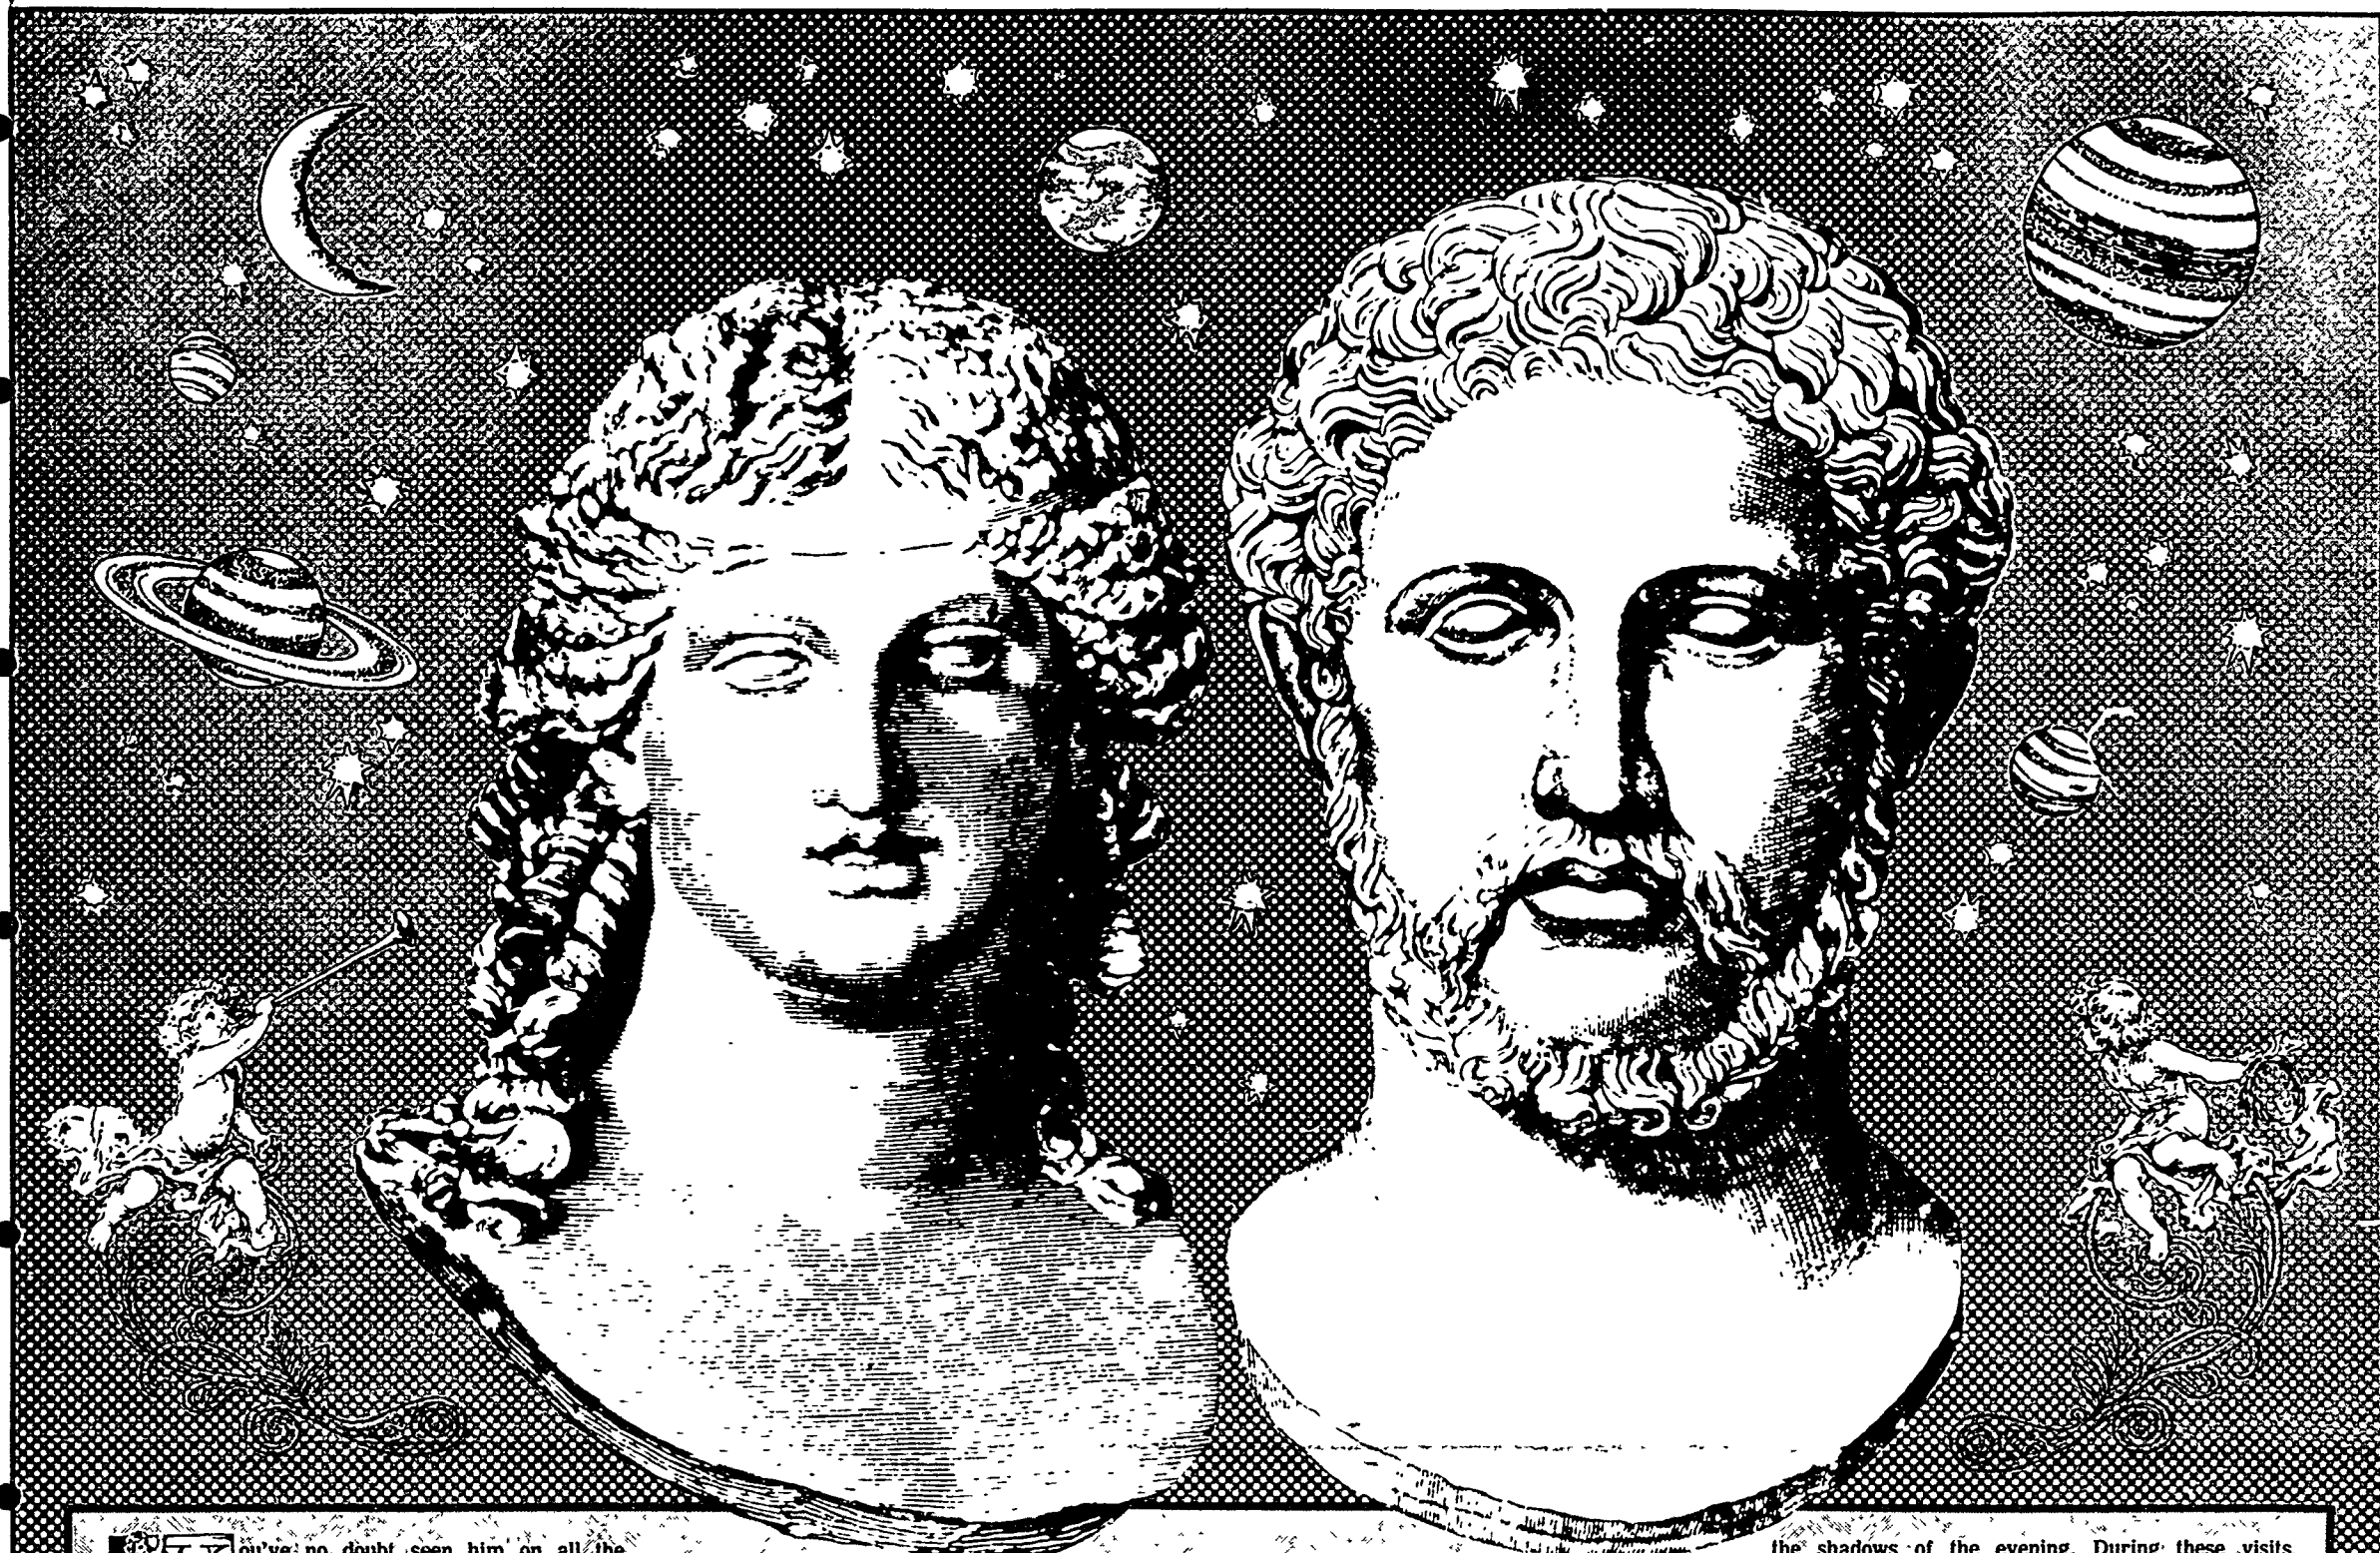

Joanna Dorf

Two, To

*It takes two
To have a marriage;
It takes two
To have a divorce;
It takes two
To spar in a ring
It takes two
To play a game;
It takes two
To converse;
It takes two
For better enjoyment
It's nothing new
It takes two, to do.*

You've no doubt seen him on all the greeting cards. He's the chubby little fellow who flies around in little more than a diaper, getting people into all kinds of mischief by shooting tiny little arrows into their hearts.

Some imaginative folks during the Renaissance actually thought their eyes were the target of these missiles whenever a particular member of the opposite sex stirred passion in their hearts.

Some people live to be shot by his small darts. Others can be totally incapacitated by the weapons of this expert archer. Still others think he's just a pest.

Cupid. Eros. Amor. This prankish fellow has gone by a variety of names over the years. And there are some very good reasons that he has been a universal symbol of Love for centuries before the Hallmark people put those big dimples in his cheeks.

The ancient Greeks loved Eros, who was the favorite son of Aphrodite, the goddess of beauty. According to many ancient legends, Eros was fathered by the equally unpredictable god Hermes, whose practical jokes were the talk of gods and mortals alike back in the olden days.

(One thing you should know about the Greeks. The myths they sent down to us were to them as real as real could be, even though they were never meant to represent historical truth. The powerful stories and images from these times were, however, believed to depict great psychological and emotional truths, many of which are still pertinent today.)

For the early Greeks, the god of love was nothing like the puckish boy you see around Valentine's Day. Eros not only shot arrows at innocent bystanders, some ancient statuary shows him using whips and even axes to inspire consuming passion in mortals.

Perhaps the most enduring myth of Eros details his tempestuous affair with Psyche (who represents the soul), one of three beautiful daughters of a mortal king. Psyche was so astonishingly pretty, according to legend, that people actually started to worship her as a more youthful version of the goddess Aphrodite.

Well, Aphrodite didn't appreciate that, as you can imagine. Her jealousy got a little out of hand, and she immediately set out to plan her revenge. Let's just say Aphrodite was sort of the ancient Greek's answer to Joan Collins' character on Dynasty.

Romantic symbol rooted with Greeks

Aphrodite's son Eros was dispatched on a mission in which he was to cast a spell on the lovely Psyche, causing her to fall in love with the ugliest creature in all of the Mediterranean. But once Eros beheld the great beauty of the mortal princess, he immediately fell in love with her and ignored his mother's commands.

Eros, who was never seen by Psyche, transported his beloved to a quiet and hidden valley where she was doted on by servants and awaited her new husband's return in the shadows of the evening. During these visits, Psyche's unknown lover seemed nothing like the grotesque being that was rumored to become her new mate. Though she enjoyed her luxurious new lifestyle, she started to miss the family from which she had been spirited away.

But her husband Eros warned of the pain and suffering that her nostalgia for her family might provoke. He finally relented, though, as lovers are known to do, and Psyche was allowed to visit with her sisters just one more time.

Once the sisters saw Psyche's new surroundings, they were gripped with a tremendous jealousy. They tried to convince her to violate another one of Eros' exhortations, that she should never try to look at her husband during their nightly interludes. Finally, the sisters convinced Psyche that her spouse was none other than a frightening dragon, and they urged her to conceal a lamp and dagger in her bedroom that night so she could kill the monster before it gobbled her up.

Well, you can imagine Psyche's surprise when she lit her lamp and found the handsome young god lying next to her, like Lance Parrish with wings. Recognizing Eros, a tremor ran through her body and she spilled a drop of hot oil on the unsuspecting husband.

Eros awoke in a rage. He literally flew out of the bedroom, shouting to Psyche that she would never see him again. The mortal beauty wept, then fainted with grief.

But that isn't the end of the myth of Psyche and Eros. Smarting from her foolish mistakes, the mortal princess begins a tenacious search for her lost love. She seeks the aid of a few of the gods, but finds none of them willing to cross the beautiful and headstrong Aphrodite.

Psyche finally had to surrender to the goddess, who tortured the princess and assigned to her many arduous tasks. Her last labor took her to the dark halls of the underworld, where she was to find and retrieve a vial of magic ointment to make Aphrodite more beautiful. Psyche was warned explicitly not to tamper with the container.

Red rose says 'I love you'

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Romance has returned, we hear, with billows of lace and amorous notions.

A pre-Valentine's Day survey locally reveals ways in which residents are expressing their more tender sentiments. Poetry and cards always are good — but the language of flowers and gifts of sweets are, too.

Florists agree with Mary Schaffnerberger at Florals by Steven in South Lyon that a single red rose is still the most popular way to say, "I love you."

It is deliciously extravagant to say, "I love you" with a dozen red roses. Gretchen Moore at Four Seasons in Northville remembers that she was touched by one such customer last Valentine's Day. "He was 94 years old, and he picked out each rose himself. They were for his wife."

Which flowers do florists choose for the most special day of their life? Carol Kolongowski, manager of LaFleur Florist in Novi, was

True Romance

Romance for new 35th District Judge John MacDonald and his wife Anne began the moment they met on Mackinac Island as students. He was working for the Grand Hotel and had just called his father in Detroit to say it was "dullsville" when Anne (Woodruff of Owosso) stepped off the boat to begin a summer job at the Carriage Lantern. He placed a second call to Detroit, saying he was staying on the island after all as "things are looking up."

For Oakland County Commissioner John Calandro and his wife Peggy (the former Margaret Jean McGinn) it was love at second sight. As students at Michigan State University, they had met at a party and dated for 2½ years and then stopped seeing each other for six months. "When I saw her again," says John, "I knew I was going to marry her." They'll celebrate their 17th wedding anniversary this August.

That Northville V.F.W. Post 4011 Commander Carl Baker and his wife Cathy became a couple was "a natural." The veteran of the Vietnam war was born in Northville, as was his wife, the former Cathy Myers. Her father, the late Bob Myers, was a longtime, active member of the post, as are many uncles. It was her dad who introduced them.

Susan Fostey's launching campaign to protect wildlife

By JEAN DAY

When Susan Fostey read in the January, 1985, issue of Gardens for All that DDT is back, she went into action. She began by alerting her fellow members of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. They asked her to inform local hardware stores that the disastrous pesticide in now traveling in disguise.

According to Mrs. Fostey, the article, really a summary of a longer article in the November issue of Audubon, stressed that "the culprit is the pesticide dicofol, widely sold under the trade name Kelthane. Dicofol is produced by adding an oxygen atom to the DDT molecule, but in the process a certain amount of DDT necessarily remains unconverted."

Because it is an unintentional byproduct, says Mrs. Fostey, manufacturers do not have to mention DDT on the packaging. She reports that both Robert Black of Black's Hardware and Jeff Van Buren of Sno Pro Hardware appreciated being informed about dicofol as both stores carry products that include this pesticide. She emphasized that it is extremely difficult for store owners to be knowledgeable when manufacturers are not required to list such unintentional byproducts, even when they are known to be extremely dangerous to animals and humankind.

The concerned Northville resident also has written to Senator Carl Levin, saying, "These laws need basic and deep changes to protect us from poisoning ourselves and our earth."

The Audubon article traces the history of the original ban on DDT that 25 years ago was discovered to be causing recurrent deaths of robins on the Michigan State University campus in East Lansing. It relates the fight ornithologist George F. Wallace and his graduate students began to convince authorities that the spraying for Dutch elm disease caused the deaths of the robins, seen fluttering in convulsions and then dying on campus. Earthworms were the toxic agents, but it almost cost the educator his job to convince the state's agricultural bureaucracy of it.

Wallace's story gave Rachel Carson one of the most vivid images for her book, Silent Spring, and in part provided the title, according to Audubon, as it states that DDT is again building up in wildlife tissues.

Good work, Sue Fostey.

Northville grad has rare meeting with Jacksons

Northville High School graduates are going on to exciting careers and professional experiences. For one, Laurie Smigielski, a rare meeting with the Jacksons came about in the course of her job.

The 1977 graduate of Northville High School and 1981 graduate of University of Michigan (B.A. in English) has been in New Orleans since last May. She is director of public relations for the New Orleans Hyatt Regency. Because the Jacksons' security director was a former Hyatt employee, the hotel's public relations department was able to meet the Jacksons, who were in New Orleans recently to kick off a new crime prevention program. Called, "Victory Against Crime," it is designed to help crime victims by providing counseling and transportation services.

Laurie met with Tito, Jermaine and Randy Jackson to offer information on New Orleans and the Hyatt. "It was really a thrill to meet them, and, surprisingly enough, they are down to earth. They do not seem to be suffering from the common celebrity ailment of inflated egos," she comments.

Laurie's mother lives on Richards Court in Highland Lakes. Laurie adds that she intends to pursue her MBA degree at Loyola University.

Local chefs donate talents to benefit

Area resident Richard Benson of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts department is one of 20 chefs from the metropolitan area invited to participate in the "Cuisine Extraordinaire" benefit for Children's Hospital of Michigan being held from 5-8 p.m. Sunday at the Roostertail in Detroit.

John Vanderwoude of Northville, chef at Cuisine Moderne, also is donating his time and talent for the event. Proceeds from the $50 a person sampling of these culinary specialties will be used toward research in transplantation rejection at Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Meaghan Chandler arrives

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Chandler of 19356 Northridge announce the birth of their daughter Meaghan Elizabeth January 24 at Sinai Hospital in Detroit. The baby, their first, weighed seven pounds, nine ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Riegner of Northville.

Paternal grandparents are Mrs. Marvin Chandler of Yale, Michigan, and the late Marvin Chandler. John Antishin of Dearborn is the great grandfather.

Meaghan's uncle and aunt, the Bryan Riegners of Novi, became parents of their first child, a son named Richard Theodore, January 17.

AAUW will meet Tuesday

Oakland County Probate Court administrator Barbara A. Consilio will be guest speaker at the February meeting of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Amerman Elementary School library. She will discuss the probate court as it relates to this year's theme of the Northville A.A.U.W. Branch, "Changing Family Focus."

The Northville Branch is composed of women in the Northville and Novi communities. The February 12 talk is open to everyone interested.

BEDTIME LEG CRAMPS

Muscle cramps in the legs at bedtime is a common problem many people experience. Typically, such cramps occur after a full day or a few hours of strenuous activity. The thigh or calf muscles tighten or contract followed by a period of random restlessness with movement of the legs.

Those who have studied bedtime leg cramps believe the problem is due primarily to an imbalance of electrolytes in the body. Sodium, calcium, potassium, and magnesium are believed to be the electrolytes involved the majority of the time. Nerve impulses which rely on the presence of these electrolytes may be altered, leading to contracted muscles. For some reason, the muscles in the legs are the most affected.

Leg cramps may respond to muscle massaging and stretching, which may reduce tension and pain. Hot baths are reported by some individuals to be helpful. Nutritional supplements and other nonprescription medicines have provided relief of leg cramps for a number of persons. Quinine sulfate (a 200 to 300mg dose at bedtime) has been used for years in this condition. This nonprescription medicine acts directly on the muscle fibers.

Historical society ball planners Judith Sechler, Nancy Bohn, Sonja Lane pose in front of blacksmith shop in Mill Race

Candlelight Ball tickets go on sale

Judging by early response to the announcement that Northville Historical Society is resuming the dinner dance benefits of past years with a Candlelight Ball March 23 at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth, it appears tickets will go fast.

Tickets were distributed to area ticket sellers at a coffee last Wednesday hosted by Judith Sechler at her home in Edenderry.

Nancy Bohn, who is chairing the ball, reports that there are ticket sellers in most areas of the community. Tickets are $18 a person, or $38 a couple with proceeds to go to the historical society for work in Mill Race Historical Village. Newest project in the village is the completion of the blacksmith shop.

Playing for the ball will be the Hytymes. The evening will begin at 7 p.m. with cocktails and a cash bar. Dinner will follow at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Bohn and her committee of Mrs. Sechler, Cheryl Cassidy and Sonja Lane say they are hoping that the ball can be a "real community event" and urge anyone interested to call their area ticket seller for tickets as soon as possible. Tables will be reserved for eight or 10 persons; however the committee emphasizes that it is not necessary to reserve by table and promises that everyone purchasing a ticket will have reserved seating.

Ticket sellers for area subdivisions are:

Northville Commons — Virginia Koppitch, 349-7291; Lynda Heaton, 420-2455
Lexington Commons North — Cindy LaChance, 348-9077
Lexington Commons South — Pat Stringer, 349-3272; Glad Evans, 349-0474

Lexington Commons West — Cheryl Cassidy, 349-7249.

Lexington Condos — Virginia Hayward, 349-0408.

Connemara — Carol Koster, 349-9225.
Sonja Lane, 348-0628.

Highland Lakes — Val Cook, 349-2158.

King's Mill — Helen Hopping, 349-2086; Evangeline Harris, 349-6599.

North Hills — JoAnn Dalziel, 349-5166; Liz Joslin, 349-8533.

Edenderry — Martha Nield, 349-1079; Ruth Klein, 349-4333; Mrs. Sechler, 349-5137.

City — Mrs. Bohn, 348-5096; Cheryl Gazlay, 349-5748; Lucia Danes, 349-6784; Barbara Glover, 348-3128.

Brookland Farms — Rose Beaudoin, 349-4348.

Tickets also will be available at Bookstall on the Main in town. Seating is limited to 300.

Flowers still are popular language of love married recently in Northville's Mill Race Historic Village. She used a romantic lace bow to tie her arm bouquet of pink roses, Peruvian lilies and pink asters. For Valentine's Day, though, she is hoping her new husband will give her jewelry "something it lasts."

The most romantic order she ever received in the store was to send an engagement ring, tied to a bouquet of boxed roses.

Carol Jackson, owner of Flowers by Jackson in Novi, recalls a Northville man sending his girl flowers at work every day. "He was spending about $100 a week, but they are married now, so she only gets them every few months," Jackson says, adding, "When you are single the price doesn't matter, but when you are married, it does."

According to this florist, it usually is married men who buy the "Friday special," a dozen roses for $12.99. Their wives are not complaining, though.

From time to time Jackson receives a request to send a motel key in a box of flowers with a "where and when" note attached.

Jackson says she would love a red rose from her husband on Valentine's Day. "I've had a flower shop for 10 years and not received a single flower in all that time," she says. "He thinks that with seeing them so much I wouldn't want one, but I do."

Candies also are a popular, romantic treat. "It's a day when diets don't matter," says Lisa Howe at Sweets 'N' Treats in Northville. "People buy their loved ones chocolate, Belgian chocolate and truffles are in big demand, as is anything in heart shaped boxes."

When it comes to jewelry, Richard Hook of Hook's Jewelry in Novi says any type of heart-shaped piece, especially earrings and pendants, are Valentine's Day naturals. He finds his customers here less romantic than those in Detroit where his business was located for more than 30 years.

He explains that years ago a man would come in to buy an engagement ring for his sweetheart, and she would always be happy with his choice. "Now, she comes in, too, and the price he had in mind goes out the window," says Hook. "Of course, he won't say 'no' when she picks out something more expensive."

Author Ann Chowdhury, a Northville resident and free lance writer, has a romantic tale herself of meeting her husband in her native England. She and her East Indian roommate were attending a dance at Ikley, a woman's college in Yorkshire affiliated with Leeds University, when "the most handsome man I had ever seen approached. Because he, too, was Indian, I thought, 'my roommate has all the luck' but then he asked me to dance."

This Salem resident's a young 100 years old

By MARILYN HERALD

If you want to spend an entertaining afternoon, the place to go is to the farm home of Otha Cole in Salem Township. Mrs. Cole, who celebrated her 100th birthday January 26 is as interesting to visit today as she has been all her life.

The petite lady, who was born in a log cabin in Defiance, Ohio, January 26, 1885, is alert and doesn't believe that reaching the century mark is unusual enough to merit newspaper coverage. In fact, she objected when she discovered that her daughter Marjorie Campbell had informed The Record of this historical milestone.

OTHA COLE

An avid reader, Mrs. Cole keeps up on local, national and international affairs and enjoys good historical novels so much that she admits she hesitates to start one because, "I won't do anything else until I finish it."

This centenarian still lives in the house she came to in 1910 as the bride of William Cole. He died in 1958. The centennial homestead has been in the Cole family since 1856.

Marjorie and her husband Del Campbell, who have made their home with her for more than 10 years, said that "Mother" was a pretty experienced carpenter in her day. "I built the cupboards we had in the kitchen before they remodeled," Mrs. Cole recalled.

"My father was a carpenter, and I have always liked to use a hammer. It was fun. My kids all wanted different kinds of cereal, and I never had enough cupboard space. I could have done a much better job if I had had the decent materials and tools they have now days."

Still adept in the cooking department, Mrs. Cole bakes brown and white bread every week and must have made "a silo full of cookies. There isn't anything I can get my grandkids, but they like my cookies so I bake for them."

The Coles, five generations of them, gathered for dinner at the Cole home to help Grandma celebrate. In addition to the Campbells, the family includes another daughter and her husband, Doris and Bruce Avis, and a son and his wife, Charles and JoAnn Cole, as well as seven grandchildren, 11 great grandchildren and three great, great grandchildren. Mrs. Cole also has a 103-year-old sister who lives in Indian River.

The Campbells invited a "card shower" from friends of this fascinating lady who said time has never hung heavy on her hands. "I suppose the next 100 years will be longer," she quipped with the dry humor she uses so glibly.

To what does she attribute her long life? "Well, my mother lived past 90 and my grandmother was 89. That might have something to do with it. The last 35 years would have been pleasanter if I hadn't broken my hip in 1950."

These days, Mrs. Cole uses a walker, which she finds a nuisance. "I didn't need it until about a month ago. I've used a cane for years, but I've been more lame ever since I visited in Indian River a few weeks ago. I think I caught cold in my hip."

The hip was broken in an accident when Mrs. Cole worked at the old Ford Phoenix plant near Plymouth (later moved to Ypsilanti) during World War II. She was able to return to work after it healed and continued working until "they kicked me out at 68."

Mrs. Cole has never just sat and watched the world go by although she now enjoys observing the birds feeding in front of her big bay window. "I guess I helped with everything on the farm except one thing. I didn't drive the manure spreader, but I did drive the three-horse binder and milked the cows and took care of the garden."

These days, you are apt to find Mrs. Cole running up an apron on her sewing machine. "I just got my treadle machine fixed so I could use it. The electric ones are too fast for me now."

Although she used to play the piano, the birthday lady has recently given that up. "I played by ear and now that I have to use a hearing aid, it doesn't sound good."

Mrs. Cole didn't care much for the "good old days," but she remembered, "We used to have to carry water into the house. We'd bring it in and get it dirty so we could carry it out again. I was glad when we got a different well with a gasoline engine. We never had a windmill."

The sparkle is still in the centenarian's eye and the sense of humor hasn't dulled with the years as Mrs. Cole looks forward to the next decade.

Tulips 'n fashions

Members of Country Girls Branch of the Northville Farm and Garden Association are ignoring winter and creating bright flower decorations for their sixth annual salad luncheon and fashion show to be given March 23 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Tulip painters, from left, are Connie Bergstrom, Elizabeth Joslin, Barb Williamson, Camille Bloomberg, Bette Moran and Tina Delaney. Tickets, which again are $6, are available beginning this week from Sheila Norgren and Jeanette Griggs. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

But Psyche erred again, as mortals do. Her curiosity forced her to open the jar of ointment, which emitted a vapor that lulled her into a long sleep.

But Eros all this time was still hopelessly in love with Psyche, and he couldn't bear to see her languishing forever in this condition. He finally received permission from Zeus to wed the mortal princess, who in good time even learned to get along with her mother-in-law Aphrodite.

In later works of art, Psyche is pictured with her own set of wings, as one who has ascended to a higher form of love than that embodied by the sensual and jealous goddess Aphrodite.

She is often pictured along with her beloved Eros, flying away on the wings of Love.

The Northville Record

Parker Brothers lists Monopoly champions for each state, for the United States and the world. The Guinness Book of World Records lists the longest Monopoly game played in a moving elevator (16 days), in a bathtub (99 hours) and the longest anti-gravitational game (played on a ceiling for 36 hours).

The current world's record for longest Monopoly game ever is owned by the McCluer North Games Club in Florissant, Missouri, which was played for 1,416 hours, or 59 days straight.

And speaking of "trivial pursuits," here's a Monopoly question. What is the rent on Boardwalk with no houses? You won't find the answer here. You'll have to haul out your old Monopoly game to get it. And maybe, just maybe, you'll dust it off and become, if only for a few hours, the biggest real estate tycoon in town.

over a century, calls Monopoly "the king of board games."

Since 1935, when Parker Brothers acquired the rights to the game that was created by one Charles B. Darrow of Germantown, Pennsylvania, more than 90 million Monopoly sets have been sold worldwide.

The game has been played by an estimated 250 million people, and Parker Brothers calls itself the world's largest "housing developer" with more than 2.880 billion little green houses "constructed" in the past half century.

There's still a large body of Monopoly fanatics out there.

"Board games in general enjoyed a resurgence because of the popularity of Trivial Pursuit," the spokesperson said. "For awhile, they weren't as popular as they once were because of the computer age—people using computers and people playing video games."

One advantage of board games vs. computer games, the spokesperson said, is that board games involve people interacting with people, while the computer games often pit man against machine.

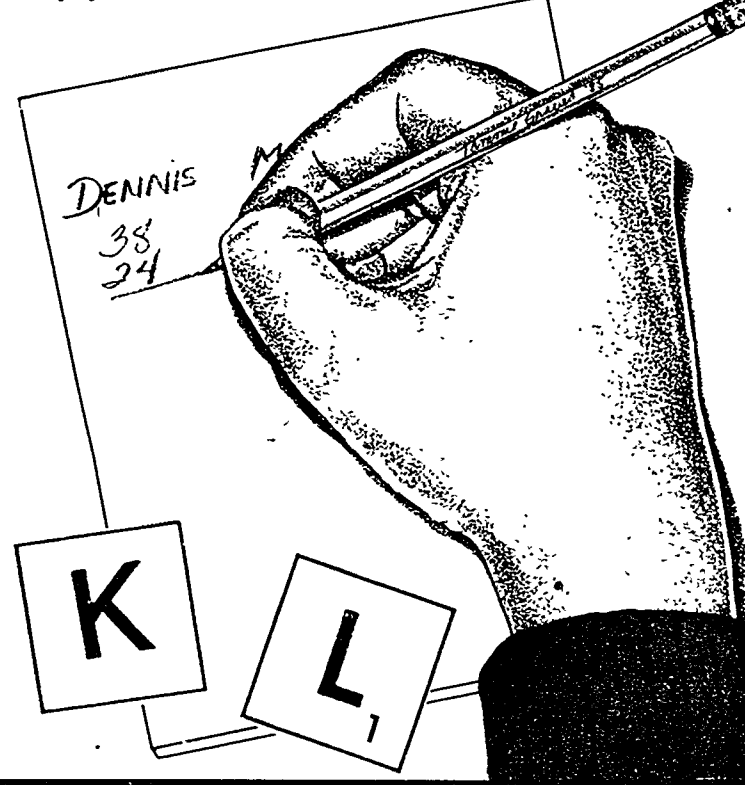

"The Trivial Pursuit craze seems to have worn off," he said, "but the old standbys like Monopoly and Scrabble still sell."

Games like Scrabble will always sell well, he said, because they involve the whole family and they're educational. And it's fun, too. One area Scrabble devotee says she loves the game because "I like the challenge of taking seven scrambled letters and creating a word, and I love to make those 20 and 30-point word scores."

Remember the board game of Clue. It gave you a chance to be a junior Sherlock Holmes as you went from room to room, trying to deduct "who done it" and with what weapon. (5-1 odds it was Colonel Mustard in the kitchen with a knife).

But the granddaddy of all board games may very well be Monopoly, the real estate trading game, which celebrates its golden anniversary this year. In fact, according to a Parker Brothers spokesperson, a commemorative edition of Monopoly, with the first board changes in 50 years, is scheduled to begin production in Boston today.

Parker Brothers, which has been in the games-making business for

BY DENNIS KEENON

Tired of trifling with trivia? Has too much Trivial Pursuit, seemingly the most popular pastime since fondue cooking, given your brain a massive migraine?

Is the old noggin turning to mush from answering questions like:

What country owns the island of Corfu? The answer: Greece, of course.

Or, what was the name of the dog in RCA Victor's trademark? Spot, you say. Wrong. Try Nipper, poodlenoodles.

And, What river flows past the Temple of Karnak? It's not the Shiwasssee, gang. The Nile is the correct response.

If your mind is a little trivia weary, there are other game board pursuits available to you. In fact, many find old standbys such as Monopoly, Clue, Scrabble, Sorry, et al, as much fun as ever.

These games that many played as kids are still popular. In fact, part of their popularity today can be attributed to the overwhelming success of Trivial Pursuit, says a Toys R Us spokesperson in Lansing.

Periwinkle's: Something special dining out

DIANE KOVACS

It didn't take long to figure out that dining at Periwinkle's, the new restaurant on Main Street in downtown Brighton, was going to be an enjoyable experience.

You get the first hint that something special is being attempted when you walk through the door and find that the maitre d' is Paul Terzano.

An instructor in the culinary arts program at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center in Walled Lake, Terzano has a penchant for showing up at exciting new dining places. He was, for example, at the opening of Raphael's, the superb restaurant at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi, and seems to have staked out some sort of claim to being an individual, who is hired by ambitious owners to train the serving staff and generally make sure that service is of high quality.

The clue provided by Terzano's presence turned out to be totally accurate. Periwinkle's is indeed a welcomed addition to the suburban dining scene.

The fact that a restaurant such as Periwinkle's has opened in downtown Brighton is either a compliment to suburban diners or a commentary on lifestyles in the '80s.

Whereas fine restaurants once were confined pretty much to urban areas, there appears to be a growing trend toward establishing restaurants in suburban downtowns. Periwinkle's stands in the same class as MacKinnon's in Northville and the AppleTeaser in Milford — main street restaurants with talented young chefs who are serious practitioners of the culinary arts.

The compliment is that these young chefs believe suburban diners will support fine dining experiences. And if the success of MacKinnon's and the AppleTeaser is any indication, the commentary on the times is that they are correct.

Periwinkle's furthers this tribute to the growing sophistication of the suburban diner.

Shortly after you're seated at a linen-covered table with artistically-folded pink napkins resting on the plates, the waitperson arrives with a complimentary bowl of chicken liver pate.

Diners enjoy ambiance at Periwinkle's in Brighton

Next to arrive is an interesting selection of breads, rolls and croissants — all baked in Periwinkle's kitchen and individually served from a wicker basket.

The individual responsible for the food is Chef de Cuisine Gary Pearce, assisted by Co-chef Thomas Fairman and Pastry Chef Chris Galli.

Pearce, it turns out, formerly worked at Restaurant Duglass in Southfield and is a close friend of Keith Famie, the talented chef at Raphael's who recently returned from a tour of the great restaurants of Europe. Their common appreciation of the culinary arts is apparent.

Don't be surprised to have Pearce stop by your table during the meal to ask how you're enjoying your dinner. A nice touch.

Appetizers range from a selection of assorted cheeses ($3.95) to escargot ($5.95) and cognac shrimp ($6.95).

The attention to detail is continued through the salads, which are beautifully served. The house salad (salad maison at $2.75) featured white radishes, peeled tomatoes and gorgonzola cheese under a vinaigrette dressing.

Fourteen entrees are listed on the menu, and additional selections are offered nightly. My companion selected liver ($14.95) and declared it the best she has eaten. On the chef's recommendation, I had the rack of lamb roasted over hickory ($15.95) and found it equally outstanding.

Both dishes were served with an abundance of interesting and unusual vegetables which added a distinctive flavor.

The dining experience is concluded nicely with a dessert menu that includes fresh berries covered with cream, choice of assorted ice creams and ices, or a selection of one of Galli's special pastries. All are served simply but elegantly, and the raspberry cheese Bavarian was particularly light and tasty.

Periwinkle's also features a more-than-adequate wine list with selections ranging in price from $9 to $140.

Don't expect to walk away from a dinner-for-two at Periwinkle's for $20. Our dinner-for-two ran approximately $60, including one of the less-expensive bottles of wine. Still, the dining experience and quality of the food are well worth the price. And suburbanites are demonstrating in steadily increasing numbers that they are willing to support truly good restaurants in their communities.

Periwinkle's, 400 West Main Street, Brighton. Reservations recommended at 229-4115. Lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday; dinner from 5-10 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 5-11 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Liquor license. American Express, MasterCard and Visa.
