I love you, Mom

Although Karl Stockhausen won't be four years old until April, he already knows a lot about Valentine's Day, which is upcoming Thursday. He's relaying his message to his mom, Carole Jean Stockhausen, with a heart-shaped helium balloon. Over the years Valentine tea parties have been a tradition for his sisters. Last Saturday the front door of the family's home on Dunlap was adorned with Valentines as Rachel hosted her third annual tea, following in the footsteps of big sister Juliet. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Prison opponents attempt to control DeHoCo funds

By KEVIN WILSON

Local legislators hope to grab the purse strings this week in an attempt to prevent or control the housing of state inmates at the Detroit House of Correction in Plymouth Township.

State senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) has been named acting chairman of the corrections department subcommittee of the Senate appropriations committee. Geake, vice chairman of appropriations, gained the acting chairmanship due to the illness of senator Robert Welborn (R-Kalamazoo).

In the eyes of those fighting state use of DeHoCo, Geake's new influence could not have arrived at a more fortuitous time.

"The first thing to come before my committee will be the department of corrections' request for supplementary funding for the current fiscal year," Geake said. "We have an opportunity either not to appropriate money for DeHoCo or to attach conditions to such funding."

The supplementary appropriations bill being put together in Lansing will likely include more than $100 million, both state and federal, for operations in various state departments. The department of corrections is seeking $11.8 million for prisoner housing.

Geake said the department wants the money in a lump sum, allowing it discretion to spend the money as it deems necessary. But the senator will move to appropriate the money in line item form, designating precisely how and where the appropriation is to be spent.

A primary goal, according to Geake and Northville Township Supervisor Susan J. Heintz, will be to prevent the department from arranging to lease DeHoCo from the city of Detroit.

"We don't want a lease operation," said Heintz. "We're arguing that if the state is going to use DeHoCo, it should arrange to purchase it first. We want nothing to do with the City of Detroit running that facility."

Plan for Moraine approved

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Speculation about usage for Moraine Elementary School came to a close Monday night with the board of education's unanimous approval to implement a Child Care Center in the facility for the 1985-86 school year.

The school board voted last November to close both the Moraine and Cooke facilities at the end of the current school year and directed the administration to find alternate uses for the vacated buildings.

In making his recommendation to the board, Superintendent George Bell said, "There's no doubt there is a great need for child care programs in this area." He pointed specifically to the district's successful preschool program at Amerman and its highly touted latch key program at Silver Springs.

The proposed Child Care Center, which would be operated through the auspices of the Northville Public Schools, may include programs such as latch key, beginning garden and other programs directed toward the preschool age level.

Bell noted the demand for child care has increased in recent years due to the growing number of single-parent households and two-career families.

He mentioned specifically an article in "Education U.S.A." (January, 1985) which noted that "nationwide, a majority of children (54 percent) have working mothers, 70 percent of whom are employed full time. Two of five of the three to five year olds have working mothers, but only one of five is enrolled in a full-day program."

In planning for the district's child care facility, Dolly McMaster, administrative assistant for curriculum, visited several school districts which have utilized closed schools as preschool centers.

McMaster noted she specifically looked at programs in Utica, West Bloomfield and Flint-Kearsley.

"Many of the closed elementary schools had 200 students being bused to other schools," she observed. "They had at least that many when they reopened their doors for child care."

McMaster further noted that "all the districts at least doubled their enrollment and revenues in the second year (of the child care program)."

In addition to visits to other districts which have implemented child care programs, McMaster also toured the Moraine facility with Ann Weinstein of the Department of Social Services and

No ambulance contract two years after change

By KEVIN WILSON

Nearly two years after Northville and Northville Township agreed to change ambulance companies, neither has signed a contract with the new provider.

It was May 11, 1983, when the city council agreed to join a four-community consortium to have regional ambulance service provided by Community EMS. The action meant dropping a long-standing arrangement with Novi Ambulance Company, whose owner John Early has persistently threatened legal action charging restraint of trade.

Council was the last of the parties to agree to the service change whereby Community EMS would be the first ambulance company called by Novi, Farmington, Northville and Northville Township. The firm, based at Beaumont Hospital, also has separate agreements with Farmington Hills and Plymouth Township.

The Northville Township board of trustees voted to join the group service area in March, 1983, contingent on the city also joining and the formal drafting of a contract.

It took more than 18 months for formal contract language to be drafted and accepted by Novi City Council December 11, 1984. But Northville Township supervisor Susan Heintz said last week that she does not intend to sign the contract, although the community has been receiving CEMS service since May, 1983.

"They're providing the service now," Heintz said. "There does not seem to be any need for a contract."

Heintz's perception aside, administrators from both the city and township expect to present a final contract for review by the legislative bodies in the next month or two.

Township manager David Lelko said he has been waiting for the city of Northville to act so that appropriate language changes may be made before

Man severely burned in fire at downtown apartment

By B.J. MARTIN and JEAN DAY

A Northville man is reported in "critical" condition following burns he sustained from a fire in his downtown apartment Monday night.

City firefighters were dispatched shortly after 9:30 p.m. and brought the fire, at 140 North Center (above West End Company and Painter's Place) under control in about 15 minutes.

City police received a call at 9:31 p.m. from Gayle Lynn Jozwiak, occupant of an apartment at the rear of the building. She said she had gone up the rear stairway and, discovering smoke, pounded on the door of the adjacent apartment.

Jozwiak told police the tenant, Ronald Edward Farrell, yelled to her,

"I'm on fire, don't come in."

Police Sergeant Donald Lancaster, responding to the call, attempted to enter the apartment but was unable to do so because of smoke and flames. The fire department arrived on the scene at that time.

The first firefighters to enter the apartment discovered the severely burned unconscious body of the 57-year-old Farrell.

He was rushed by a CEMS ambulance to the University of Michigan-Ann Arbor Burn Unit with burns covering at least half of his body.

The fire is believed to have started on a couch in the living room, caused by a lit cigarette. According to Fire Chief James Allen, Farrell was an habitual smoker.

The structure of the 125-year-old building was intact following the blaze, according to the fire department. But the inside of the apartment Farrell rented was gutted by fire, smoke and by firefighters.

"The couch and chair in the living room were both burnt pretty bad," said volunteer firefighter Charlie Nichols. "There were flames when we opened the door, but it was smoke that did most of the damage."

Nichols said firefighters had to tear down a wall and part of a ceiling to subdue the blaze. Also, he said, it was necessary to punch a hole in the floor to allow water to flow down into the businesses downstairs.

None of the 20-odd firefighters who responded to the call was injured.

"The guys did a real good job," Chief Allen said. "Our main concern was getting Farrell out of there," he explained. The Chief added it was the most severe blaze his department had handled in about a year.

Farrell had experienced a recent tragedy prior to Monday's fire. His wife of 21 years, Dorothy, had died December 4 at the age of 62.

Chief Allen said Farrell has been a Northville resident "as far back as I can remember. He was raised on First Street; he goes way, way back. I remember him when I was growing up here."

While structural damage wasn't extensive, water damage to the businesses downstairs was severe. Carol Forrer, one of the operators of West End Company, said Tuesday that they had "a lot of wet lamps — and our antiques are really getting antiqued." She and partner Pat Wright estimated that they would probably be closed for the rest of the week.

Northville artist Caroline Dunphy, whose studio is in the building, had high praise yesterday for the firefighters who helped her carry paintings to a dry area and cover them. She said things "look better in the light of day" as most damage was caused by water and that mats and carpeting were going to have to dry out.

She anticipated her studio-shop probably would be closed for a few days as a new ceiling and one new wall would have to be installed.

Building co-owner Greg Presley of

Ann Arbor was on the scene Tuesday morning to assess the damage and try to get the heat back on.

A tiny shop south of Painter's Place featuring china painting was "evacuated" by students taking a class from Vi Burchem. They carried the china next door to Cloverdale's.

As its 25th annual live children's production, the Plymouth Branch of the American Association of University Women will be presenting six performances of "Peter Pan" at the Plymouth-Salem High School auditorium in March.

Other performances will be Thursday and Friday, March 7 and 8, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, March 9, at 10 a.m., 1 and 3 p.m.

Northville members have taken roles in the annual children's presentations in past years. The Northville Branch does not present a children's play but supports the sale of tickets to the popular Plymouth productions in preschools and at elementary level.

Church seminar planned

Senior high school students in grades 10 through 12 are invited to attend a series of seminars at First Presbyterian Church beginning this Sunday at 11 a.m.

Mary Louise Cutler and David Hursey, seminar leaders, will guide a group of teens in surveys and discussions designed to enhance self-understanding and understanding of others.

"Have you ever wondered why you're the way you are, or why your parents are the way they are?" they ask, saying the seminar is designed to gain helpful insights into changing trends and values and a better understanding of self and others.

The seminar also will include discussion on "Why do you act a certain way in school and the opposite way at home?"

Sponsors say the seminars are designed for personal growth with participants asked to share no more than what is comfortable. Leaders will respect the fact that each is "unique and special."

Board awards general contract bid to Elgin Builders

After paring nearly $2 million worth of items from the high school renovation project, the board of education Monday night awarded a $6,075,000 general contract bid to Elgin Builders, Inc.

Elgin Builders was the lowest of five bidders on the project. Bids ranged from $6,075,000 to $8,228,862.

Original general contracting bids for the high school renovation were received at the end of last month and far exceeded the district's remaining bond issue monies for the project.

The rebid figures received by the district last week reflected the pared costs recommended by the administration and by architect John Argenta, director of the high school project.

Board trustee Karen Wilkinson noted that the five bids received last Thursday came in with a "variance of only about two percent."

Original bids received from seven general contractors, prior to the cut-backs, ranged from $8 to $8.9 million.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told school board members that the architects have worked with Elgin Builders on other construction projects and recommended the firm for the high school renovation.

Knighton further noted the administration had contacted other school districts who have worked with Elgin Builders, such as Wayne-Westland, Oxford and Mt. Clemens, and supported the architect's recommendation based upon input received from those districts.

Though the delay in rebidding the project was minimal, Knighton said the administration and architects will be meeting this week with the principals of the firm to discuss timelines in order to begin work as soon as possible.

In addition to the acceptance of Elgin Builders $6,075,000 general contract bid, the board also approved the firm's alternate proposal of $53,000 for a high velocity dust collection system.

Knighton noted that several items were taken out of the general contract and incorporated under ancillary contracts to effect cost savings. Items included under ancillary contracts are carpet, gym floors, stage floor, hall terrace floor, sound equipment and the gym window-wall.

Knighton said the district will fund work on the gym windows, which entails blocking up the existing gym windows, through Public Act 431 monies because it is an energy conservation measure.

Knighton also noted the district will divert some additional P.A. 431 funds to partially pay for the installation of boilers at the high school.

The assistant superintendent told the board the administration does not believe the overall energy conservation program will suffer in any way from the fund transfer amounting to $111,000.

Knighton presented the board with a financial data sheet outlining costs for the projects and available monies.

In addition to the $7.75 million bond issue, interest through December 31, 1984 totals $838,700 with another $387,600 projected by the end of this year. Energy Conservation Funding monies come to $387,620, bringing the total available monies to $9,363,920.

Committee to study parking

First step toward tackling an ongoing problem of employees and owners of downtown businesses and stores parking on the street or in front spaces of municipal parking lots in the downtown area has been taken with the creation of a parking committee to study the problem.

After its recent reactivation, the Downtown Development Authority requested that a parking committee of representatives of businesses be formed.

Mayor Paul Vernon named William C. Sliger chair person.

The committee held its first meeting January 24.

The chamber was contacted for assistance and suggestions on how to curb the practice of employees and owners parking in prime spaces designed for shoppers.

Chamber executive director Kay Keegan reported to the chamber board at its January 24 meeting that the city and the Downtown Development Association were concerned about how to keep the spaces for shoppers. Such spaces in the Downtown Development were intended for use by customers and shoppers when the decision was made during the Mainstreet '78 project to eliminate parking meters and time limitations.

The problem is conceded to have existed almost since the completion of Mainstreet '78. The city has asked for cooperation of store and business owners previously.

The newly formed committee has been directed to look into methods of enforcement, possibly by issuing employees of the downtown area stickers for parking in specific areas that will be so designated, and limiting parking time in others.

Chairman Sliger said he has been holding meetings with other members of the committee, Ed Jamieson, Charles Freydl and Del Black.

The committee, he said, hopes to have a recommendation to present to the DDA within the next three to four weeks.

Empire files payment of winter property tax

Mortgage-lender Empire of America this week paid winter property tax bills out of its customers' escrow accounts, calming any fears that a late payment penalty may be assessed.

Northville Township deputy treasurer Syd Harral and Novi assistant treasurer Evelyn I. Natzel reported that the company paid the tax bills Monday morning. The city of Northville treasurer's office earlier reported the bills had been paid January 8. The official due date for winter tax bills is February 14, though Northville Township recently granted an extension to February 28. City tax payment deadline is February 28 (except for senior citizens, who have until March 31).

"(Empire of America) hand-delivered the check just 15 minutes ago," said Harral Monday. She said she had called the company last week and was told they thought they had mailed all of them the Friday before.

Although the due dates are not until February, it is customary for lenders to make the payments from escrow accounts by December 31 so that homeowners can claim the property taxes as a deduction on federal income tax returns.

The Buffalo-based mortgage company failed to make the payments on time due to complications arising from a new computer installation, Empire of America officials stated.

Last week the company announced it would offer interest-free loans to those customers who lost the deduction for this year. The payments made this week will be deductible on next year's federal income tax returns. Payments can still be claimed on the Michigan property tax exemption, since the December 31 payment deadline does not apply to state income tax returns.

Libraries supply wealth of income tax information

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Taxpayers, fear not. If you're befuddled about where to find an income tax form for deducting your bad debts or a list of items the IRS considers non-deductible, the best place to begin your search is at the local library.

For the past several years, both Novi and Northville libraries have been offering scads of tax information to local residents.

Northville librarian Anne Mannisto said Northville Public Library has been offering reproducible forms to residents for the past three to four years.

She said the library staff pre-orders large supplies of the most popular forms based upon patron requests.

The Northville Public Library carries a four-volume set on "Tax Information Publications" containing information on the most frequently requested IRS forms.

She noted the publication provides examples of how to fill out numerous forms as well as detailed information on various subjects.

Northville library also has a set of instructional cassettes for filling out forms 1040-EZ, 1040A and form 1040-schedules A, B and W.

According to librarian Brenda Burrell, Novi Public Library has three kinds of basic materials available including tax forms, government publications and resource materials and trade books.

'We can't interpret the law, but we can find you a form.'

— Brenda Burrell,
Novi librarian

Tax forms, once only available through the Internal Revenue Service or the post office, abound at both libraries.

Burrell noted that Novi has three key sources for its forms including an IRS publication which contains the most popular forms in a looseleaf binder, "Federal Tax Forms" published by Commerce Clearing House, and the library's own collection of forms.

Burrell said one of the best sources for income tax forms is the two-volume looseleaf set published by Commerce Clearing House.

She noted Commerce Clearing House guarantees it will have every form produced by the IRS and sends its subscribers updated forms throughout the year.

Burrell said the two-volume set, purchased by the Friends of the Library, contains more than 400 tax forms and is published in a looseleaf for photocopying.

Forms also are listed by subject in a topical index at the front of each volume.

In addition to forms provided by the IRS and other publications, Burrell said the library has its own ordering system.

She noted the library orders forms in the spring for the next tax season and usually starts getting requests for forms around the Christmas holiday.

She further noted that all forms are on good quality paper making them easy to duplicate. The IRS accepts photocopied forms.

Burrell noted the state sends libraries basic tax instructions and forms but does not have a service which provides information on all available state tax forms. Less popular state forms may be requested through the state treasurer's office.

City of Detroit resident and non-resident forms also are guaranteed through the library system and should be available within the next few weeks, Burrell said.

Among the government publications available are "Tax Guide for Small Business," "Farmer's Tax Guide," "Employer's Tax Guide" and "Travel, Entertainment and Gift Expenses."

Both libraries carry tax information books; however, Burrell pointed out that books often become dated due to the constant changes in tax laws.

For basic tax information, Burrell noted that Commerce Clearing House publishes a tax guide containing such information as a check list of non-deductible items.

Both Commerce Clearing House and Prentice Hall also publish state tax handbooks.

Northville library has tax booklets and pamphlets in both its circulating and reference collection, including "J.K. Lasser's Your Income Tax."

In addition to the materials available, tax clinics for senior citizens also are being offered through the American Association of Retired Persons at both libraries.

A tax clinic is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today and February 20 at Northville Public Library for persons 60 years of age or older. The AARP will sponsor a tax clinic at Novi Library from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 15 and 22. Registration will be accepted after March 1 by calling the library at 349-0720.

Burrell said libraries are encouraged by the IRS to offer tax information and noted the service has not been duplicated in the few years since its inception.

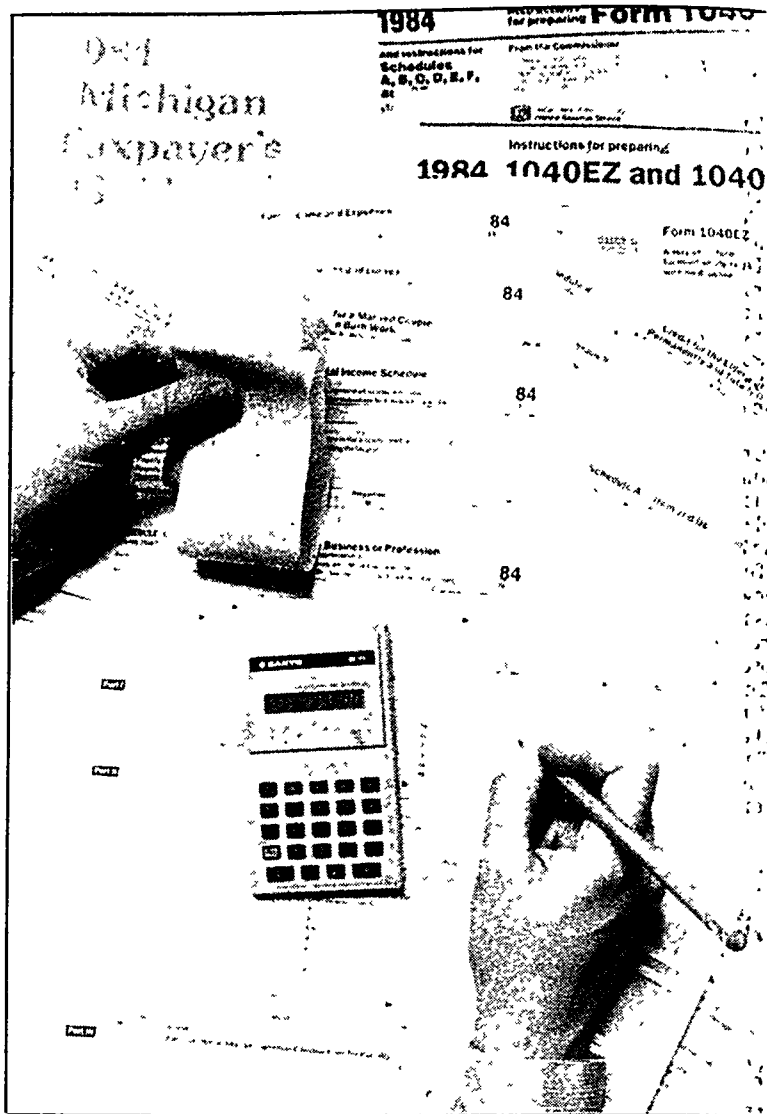

Both Burrell and Mannisto emphasized that, while librarians can help patrons locate forms, they are not qualified to offer tax advice.

"Librarians are not tax accountants or attorneys," Burrell said. "We can't interpret the law, but we can find you a form."

Both agreed that residents uncertain about forms to use when filing income tax contact the Internal Revenue Service.

"We have a lot of phone numbers," Burrell said, noting that persons uncertain about whom to call should consult a librarian.

Burrell said that while requests for tax information have been forthcoming since the holidays, March warrants the greatest demand.

Woman injured in Hines accident; cars vandalized

In the Township...

Unknown suspect(s) caused an estimated $400 damage to a 1974 Mercury Capri parked at a Seven Mile business sometime between 6:30 and 10:30 p.m. February 8, township police report.

The complainant told police unknown person(s) smashed the front and rear windshield of the vehicle, which was parked behind the business.

Police at the scene observed pieces of a broken Mountain Dew bottle on the windshield.

Unknown suspect(s) caused an estimated $250 damage to a 1978 Oldsmobile parked in the lot of a Seven Mile business sometime between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. February 6.

The complainant told police unknown persons broke off his radio antenna, pushed in his front passenger side door, tore the vinyl on the arm rest and loosened the driver's sideview mirror.

The complainant further stated he did not remember if the vehicle was locked.

The officer observed a small dent in the front passenger side door but noted in the police report that the dent was covered with a film of dirt and the damage did not appear fresh.

The officer further observed that the sideview mirror on the driver's side was loose and contained rust around the rim. The vinyl on the arm rest also appeared to be cracked and was curled up at the end. The officer noted the damage did not appear to be fresh.

A Toro snowblower valued at $400 was stolen from the garage of a Winchester Drive residence sometime between 5:30 p.m. January 27 and 5:30 p.m. February 5, police report.

The complainant told police she was unable to lock her garage for an unknown period of time because of weather conditions.

No signs of forced entry were noticed.

...In the City...

Northville city police are hoping to find the owner of a sewing machine housed in a wooden cabinet discovered on the northwest corner of Wing and Cady streets February 8. They theorize the machine may have fallen from a moving van. It is being held as found property.

Larceny of a Mustang letter jacket from a locker at Northville High School was reported to police February 8.

Splintering of a north window at McDonald Ford was reported to police February 11. The police report stated it appeared to be the result of being hit with a pellet or sling shot. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

A Redford resident was charged with disorderly conduct after being arrested in the upper grandstands of the Downs February 2. He was reported using profane language in front of women and other track patrons. He is to appear in 35th District Court.

Larceny of auto parts was reported by a Livonia resident who parked his Datsun in the lower deck of the municipal parking structure February 2. When he returned from the Downs about 11:35 p.m. he found the left rear wheel and tire removed. Loss was estimated at $150.

While 29 calls, some due to slippery weather, were made to city police Monday, only one accident reported in the last few days resulted in injury.

Failure to yield on entering the intersection of Main at Rogers at 6:13 p.m. Friday resulted in a vehicle traveling on Main being struck by the driver of a vehicle traveling north on Rogers. The driver of the vehicle on Main refused treatment for a cut on his right hand.

...From State Police

A Plymouth woman suffered severe injuries February 6 when she drove her car into a stack of concrete sewer pipes alongside Hines Drive in Northville Township, state police reported.

Florence J. Giarfat of Plymouth was driving south on Hines Drive shortly after 10 p.m. when she failed to negotiate the curve 50 feet west of the Northville Road intersection, the police report states.

Giarfat told police she had been bowling at Northville Lanes and had consumed two or three drinks. Police said she did not appear to be intoxicated but may have fallen asleep at the wheel. Giarfat told officers at the scene that she "wasn't paying attention" and did not notice that the road curved.

A witness told police that Giarfat's car was traveling at roughly 40 miles per hour when it left the roadway. The witness said there was no attempt made to turn or slow down before the collision with the sewer pipes.

Community EMS transported Giarfat to St. Mary Hospital, Livonia, for treatment. Police issued no citations.

Regulation changes sought

A public hearing on proposed amendments to Regulation No. 813, stimulants and depressants affecting harness and light horse races and pulling contests, has been scheduled for this Thursday by the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

According to Paul E. Kindinger, MDA director, the hearing will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the department's fourth floor hearing room, North Ottawa Street building, 611 West Ottawa, in Lansing.

Proposed amendments to the regulation would define such terms as, director, Act 327, drug and other terms used in the act; would permit collection of appropriate blood and urine samples from any horse entered in a harness or light horse race or any animal entered in a pulling contest; would authorize breathalyzer tests of any driver, jockey or starting gate operator; and would allow for finding of violation should persons be found to have more than 0.05 percent of alcohol in their blood. Other proposed amendments would prevent any person from having in his or her possession an electrical, mechanical or other device capable of stimulating or depressing any animal; and would provide for notification of violation findings and require a hearing on such violations.

Louis E. Carlo, assistant executive manager of Northville Downs, said he anticipated area horsemen would attend and be there on both sides of the issue.

He said he felt the amendment was an attempt to clarify the regulation on use of Lasix, a diuretic, and Bute, a "power aspirin." He said there is a difference of opinion on whether the latter should be permitted with some states allowing its use and others not. New York does not while Kentucky does, he illustrated.

"The guys who really understand and are interested are veterinarians," said Carlo.

Wrong.

Bill to okay sale of Plymouth Center introduced by Law

By KEVIN WILSON

Sale of more than 200 acres of state-owned property at the Plymouth Center for Human Development will again be submitted for approval of the state legislature this week.

State representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township) said he introduced legislation authorizing the sale in the house state affairs committee last week. He expected his bill to be reported out of committee this week and approved by the full house in short order.

State senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) got the sale authorization into an appropriations bill late in 1984. But most elements of that bill were never approved and the sale authorization was dropped.

The state department of mental health has declared all the Plymouth Center land excepting the main building on the east side of Sheldon surplus property. The department of management and budget has recommended that it be sold, since no other state department has a use for it. The acreage has been appraised at $4.3 million.

Law said he submitted a separate bill authorizing the sale in hopes that it would receive approval faster than it would if included in a supplementary appropriations bill also being drafted.

"I introduced a separate bill so that (the sale) doesn't get tied in with the bill trying to fund the entire capital operations," Law said. "This sale is not controversial — we've heard from no one who really opposes it. I don't see any problem with having it approved and sent to the Senate by next week."

Law said that, if the appropriations bill proceeds more quickly than he expects, the language authorizing sale of the Plymouth Center site could easily be added to that bill.

"I don't see any problem with having it approved and sent to the Senate by next week."

— Gerald Law,
State Representative

The Northville Township planning commission recently recommended that the property be rezoned to allow multiple family housing on that portion east of Sheldon and office and industrial uses west of Sheldon.

That recommendation is still under review by the Wayne County planning department and will likely not receive final approval from the township board of trustees until March.

Township supervisor Susan Heintz said Monday she has no doubts that the property will be sold if the legislature authorizes placing it on the market.

"I've got so many people lined up waiting to buy that land, it's amazing," Heintz said.

Detroit Mayor Coleman Young repeated Monday, during his state of the city address, his suggestion that Plymouth Center be used by the state department of corrections as a prison. Young said it could be renovated within 90 days to provide room for 1,100 prisoners.

The department of corrections has studied such a renovation and rejected the idea in favor of proceeding with construction of the Scott Regional Correctional Facility at Five Mile and Sheldon Road.

Law and Geake both have said there is little or no support for Young's position on Plymouth Center in Lansing and that the Detroit mayor's statement is not indicative of a shift that would stop the sale of the property.

Duck population's a year-round attraction — and festival inspiration

Chamber makes assignments for Duck Festival

Committees for the second annual Northville Duck Festival are being formed by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce in anticipation of greatly expanding the event this year.

President Sherry Spaman reported to the chamber board at its January 24 meeting that a date in September was being sought. She said she was hoping to have many additional features as part of the festival this year and reported suggestions include a street dance, ox roast and music as well as decoy and art exhibits and sales.

Other dates announced for the year include the City Garage Sale sponsored by the chamber, May 18; chamber golf outing June 8; Northville Merchants' Association sidewalk sale, July 27; Tivoli Fair (tentative) September 27; annual chamber dinner, November 2; and Christmas Walk, November 24.

Berenice Ellis, Helen Geisler and Bruce Turnbull have accepted appointments to the chamber public relations committee, Spaman announced.

Keegan also reported that the new Northville Area Directory published under the auspices of the chamber is out with copies distributed last week to local businesses and stores. They also are available at the chamber office between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. week days.

Ambulance contract still not signed two years later submitting the contract for township board action. That would mean submitting to the township board of trustees would be at its March meeting at the earliest.

"My understanding is that the city has referred this to its attorney," Leiko said. "After that is done, I expect to submit final language to Suzie (Heintz) and she can do with it what she feels is right. It may be her opinion that we shouldn't sign, but I still intend to proceed and submit it to our board."

Recommendations for changes in the contract language were submitted to city council February 4. City manager Steven Walters said formal action on the contract will be on council's agenda February 25.

"I didn't feel the councilmembers had sufficient time to review the attorney's letter prior to their meeting of the 4th," Walters said. "It will be up for discussion on the 25th."

Asked by councilmember Paul Folino if he cared to comment on the attorney's letter at the last council meeting, Walters said he did not think it would be appropriate. "I think we'd all be better off not commenting on such items," Walters said. "Not considering the legal posture of Novi Ambulance, no, I would not care to comment."

Walters said last week that he did not mean the contract should not be discussed by council. "Folino asked me to make comment on the attorney's letter — I thought he was asking for an opinion about it," Walters said. "I didn't think was wise. Certainly council will have to discuss it. The city attorney's letter advised some alterations in the language. I guess we'll have to consider whether we're going to ask for those changes and approve it, not ask for the changes, or not sign the contract."

Greg Beauchemin of Community EMS said that if either Northville or Northville Township fails to sign the contract, it would have no impact on the company's service to the area.

"It's something of a surprise to us, they haven't told us directly that they don't intend to sign," Beauchemin said. "I don't think they're contemplating not signing because they're considering another ambulance company. We provide service in numerous cities where we don't have a written contract. We'd continue to provide service in Northville and Northville Township whether they sign or not."

Beauchemin said the delay in formalizing the agreement is largely the result of trying to get four governments to agree to identical language. Leiko said he, Walters, Novi assistant city manager Craig Klaver and Farmington city manager Robert Deadman met to agree on contract provisions. Novi's attorneys drafted the language recently approved in that city.

Beauchemin noted that provisions of the five-year contract limiting rate increases in the first two years will expire in July, since the contract is retroactive to July, 1983. "I don't foresee any large jump in rates come July — maybe a cost of living increase," he said.

Rotary planning calendar

Northville Rotary Club is inviting all area organizations to participate in a community calendar project.

The club is assembling dates and times of meetings and events held by Northville area organizations taking place between July 1, 1985, and June 30, 1986.

The theme of the calendar, club president Rich Probst explained, will be Northville's history and heritage. It will contain sketches of area landmarks by local artists.

Local organizations that would like to participate in the project are invited to contact Probst at 455-1000 or 348-4107. He said that the calendar will have three features: community listings, historic information and a drawing.

The calendar, he said, will cost $25 to purchase. There will be daily drawings of purchasers' numbers for $25 awards, monthly ones for $300 and an annual drawing for $3,000. Probst added that he expects 3,000 calendars will be printed and that Rotary hopes to involve non-profit groups in selling the calendars to benefit their projects.

county fire inspector Ron Abraham.

McMaster told the board that Weinstein thought Moraine "was one of the finest facilities for child care turnover she had seen."

Bell further noted that "some problems we identified as not ideal for an elementary school are ideal for preschool."

In order to begin planning for the child care center, the administration will be mailing a survey to the base population covered by the distribution of the Northville School News to determine the community's need for child care.

The administration also will begin its search for a program coordinator who would analyze the survey, identify equipment requirements, prepare printed materials and begin advertising the program for next year.

The person selected to coordinate the program will be an hourly rated employee and would not receive fringe benefits.

Both Bell and McMaster emphasized that the district will need to find someone for the job who is enthusiastic about the child care program and has good administrative skills.

"In closing Moraine, we were concerned about energy and utility costs," Bell said. He noted that heat in the facility can be zoned off in areas not in use.

Bell further noted that by utilizing the school, the district is preventing further deterioration of the facility.

"We would have to continue heating and lighting Moraine anyway to maintain it," Bell said, "unless we were to sell it."

Though costs for operating such a program have not yet been determined, Bell said they would be offset by fees charged for the service.

"We shouldn't have to buy a lot of materials," the superintendent noted. "I think within the district we can find all the materials we'll need."

Board trustees serving on the board of education subcommittee for curriculum discussed the child care program at their February 6 meeting.

Board members serving on that subcommittee voiced support of the proposal and noted that a child care program operated by the school district has several advantages.

One of the few concerns voiced by board members was whether there is a demand for more preschool programs in Northville which already is saturated with a host of other offerings.

Administrators said they felt confident that the demand was great enough to warrant the program without hampering enrollments in other schools.

Wrong.

Start now with $2,000 each year in your Down River Federal Savings Individual Retirement Account, you'll have $1,084,067 set aside in 40 years!

That's only about $167 a month — you probably spend that much on your car payment. But you don't have to start that high — we can set up an IRA for you for as little as $50 and you can contribute as much as you like at any time.

Plus your contributions are deducted off the top of your income, so the income taxes you'd normally have paid on that amount including the interest earned are deferred.

We make it a little easier for you.

Pedro and scout friends

When Seven Mile road resident Betty Broderick agreed to "adopt" a burro, it was the animal's second adoption. He wasn't working out well with his first family in Livonia, she relates, saying, "talk about a stubborn mule." But Jack now has been rechristened Pedro in honor of the Boy Scout burro and hasn't misbehaved since, his owner says. He's also been welcomed by Troop 755 headed by Jim Lapham. The adoption came about because so many of the animals in the Southwest are malnourished. Since the Brodericks got Pedro, however, he has fattened up and become "a doll." The Boy Scouts' visit to Pedro came during the anniversary week of the founding of the Boy Scout movement in 1910. The 75th anniversary celebration stresses new directions in scouting. Prison foes try to control DeHoCo funding bill repeated during his state-of-the-city address Monday that he wants the state to lease DeHoCo and house 1,100 prisoners there. Under a lease agreement, Detroit would continue to operate DeHoCo but the state would pay the city to house inmates there. A similar lease arrangement between the city and Wayne County is being closed out as county prisoners are moved into the new downtown jail.

Heintz and Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen have argued that escapes from DeHoCo under the current operation have been excessive. The 35th District Court has reported prosecution of an average 150 DeHoCo escapees per year. Breen and Heintz met with officials of the state departments of corrections and management and budget Monday to present their arguments against the lease arrangement.

"They were talking about a $2 million appropriation to build a fence at DeHoCo," Heintz said. "We stressed to them that we don't even want to talk about fences before there is a state purchase."

Geake poses another argument against having the state lease space at DeHoCo while the City of Detroit continues to operate the facility: cost.

"It would be subsidizing the City of Detroit (to lease DeHoCo)," Geake said. "My understanding is that Detroit pays more (to DeHoCo employees) than the state does for corrections employees."

Geake and state representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township) both said they would be striving to include language in the overall supplemental appropriations bill that would reflect the concerns expressed by the two townships in a recent joint resolution.

That resolution called for capping the number of state inmates housed at DeHoCo at 500, additional security measures, local preference in hiring and procurement and a moratorium on additional institutional uses in the area.

Law noted that the state has yet to present legislators with an appraisal of the DeHoCo property, a necessary step in arranging a purchase agreement.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

AVERAGING YOUR INCOME

Averaging your income is still a big advantage under current tax laws, but there are tighter restrictions than formerly. For instance, you can average your income if you earn $3,000 more than 140 percent of your average income for the past three years. This tax advantage is particularly attractive if your income jumps in a given tax year or if your income has been rising rapidly.

To use the income average advantage you must have provided at least half of your own support during the base period years. Also, you cannot include as income premature distributions from an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) or Keogh self-employment retirement plan. Amounts from these sources would be subtracted from taxable income.

If your income is rising, however, there may be several other tax advantages for which you would qualify. For information about these and other ways to minimize your income tax liabilities, call us for an appointment.

We have all your IRA answers.

"Every dollar we put into our IRA is tax deductible... right?"

Right!

Your Down River Federal Savings IRA contribution for the year is taken off your annual income - plus the interest your IRA earns is also deferred!

For example, a married couple with a $2,000 contribution to a IRA can save taxes as this chart shows:

TAXABLE INCOME	TAX SAVINGS
$10,000 to $20,000	$200
$20,000 to $30,000	$300
$30,000 to $40,000	$400
$40,000 to $50,000	$500
$50,000 to $60,000	$600
$60,000 to $70,000	$700

If both members are employed, each can make a $1,000 contribution, so the tax savings can be even greater. In fact, you can also deduct contributions from 1984 IRA contributions. In the Downriver area, call 285-1010. Northwest area, 1-214-9410 and in the Midwest, 1-214-6600. Need a loan to finance your IRA? Borrow from us now, and pay us back monthly. And remember, the interest on this loan like your IRA is another tax deduction. IRS regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal prior to age 59 1/2, on IRA accounts. Our Opinions

Release property

There are signs of progress in the township's longstanding fight to have the amount of government-owned land here reduced. With more than one-third of the township's 17 square miles held by various outside entities, this problem is one of concern to us all.

None of that land is taxable, nor can it be developed to provide jobs or generate income for area businesses. As a result, the entire Northville community carries an added burden, particularly in regard to school and community college property taxes. All taxpayers are bearing the costs of providing police, fire and other services to this unproductive property. Furthermore, for as long as that land sits idle, there will be politicians who see it as an easy place to use for institutions.

The first step in rectifying this problem was taken over the past several years when the retirement village project was put together. Upon completion, it will take 101 acres of unused county property and return it to productive uses. Some remaining efforts are needed to see this project through to completion, but it is virtually assured of happening.

Now attention turns to other such properties. It appears we are on the verge of having the Plymouth Center for Human Development site sold to private parties. Our legislators in Lansing are to be commended for their attention to this matter. The township is right to rezone the property as an indication to investors of the community's hopes to see it develop. If there is any doubt that the amount of state-owned property here has stifled local investment, this sale should put it to rest. Township supervisor Susan Heintz reports that there "are people lined up waiting to buy that property."

The amount of interest being expressed before the land has even been placed on the market tells us that there is demand for much more than the 200-plus acres at stake. And, if only the township can get some cooperation from the state and county, there is much more available.

Right across Sheldon from the retirement village site there remains an even larger parcel owned by Wayne County. Repeated inquiries from the township regarding the county's intentions for that parcel have been met with vague responses that "discussions are being held" with potential developers. If that is anything more than a smokescreen to cover a lack of activity, the county should bring the township into the discussions now. Such a large chunk of land right in the heart of the township should not be subject to haphazard proposals for development without local input.

Similarly, the City of Detroit still holds a large segment of property in the southwest corner of the township. If the state proceeds to purchase the Detroit House of Correction land, the new prison site would be on the south side of Five Mile Road. The remaining DeHoCo property should be released for non-institutional uses. Five Mile is shaping up as one of the hottest industrial corridors in southeast Michigan. Detroit's attitude about industrial development in the suburbs may prevent the release of this land for that purpose, but every effort should be made to make sure that whatever use is found, it does not stifle the adjoining growth.

Some state and county lands in the township should remain in public hands. Maybury State Park and the Rouge Parkway provide vital recreational opportunities and ensure that, regardless of how much development occurs, there will remain parts of Northville that are protected from bulldozers and pavement. The state hospital is likely to remain as a central element in the department of mental health's operations, and if we ever get a solution to the walkaway problem, it could turn out to be a good neighbor. Without impinging too closely on the hospital itself, however, we believe there are portions of that property that could be put to better use.

That the new township administration has made resolution of this problem a top priority seems to us a logical and long-overdue approach. We hope the new executive receives support from the entire community. We all have a stake in seeing that the community is released from the burden of unproductive and unused property.

Act on parking

Creation of a parking committee to study ways to ensure that downtown parking space is used as intended when it was developed in the Mainstreet '78 project is a step in the right direction.

Parking by business and store owners and employees in choice spaces on the street and in municipal parking lots has been an ongoing problem, city officials concede. When the Downtown Development Authority decided to eliminate parking meters on the streets in the renovation plan, it was with the intention that shoppers would be able to drop off cleaning, do their banking or make a purchase easily.

City officials and most merchants and business people themselves want this kind of stop-and-go shopping. It is defeated when an employee parks in front of a business or in choice lot spaces for the entire day. The original reason for Mainstreet '78 coming into being was to provide attractive, easy shopping that could compete with shopping malls. Basically, the concept has worked — attractive stores and promotions have brought customers into town.

We are pleased to see that the DDA and the city will be getting recommendations of the parking committee headed by William C. Sliger and hope they will provide an enforceable solution to the problem that will be put into effect.

Cash never argued

By Jean Day

It's getting close to a decade ago that I was mugged and robbed of my purse at an area shopping center. It was about the same time that my then-82 year old Aunt Alice had her purse grabbed while she was riding a bus. Later, Northville Township resident Olga James talked about her great feeling of being "violated" when her home was broken into and robbed. I thought her choice of word was absolutely on target.

We all were reacting to experiences that ordinary people in the past did not expect to encounter firsthand. I was fortunate that my head wound healed without problems. The loss of my two weeks' grocery money the day after payday as well as the $50 cash "cushion" I used to carry for emergencies was irritating, as was replacement of driver's license, bank book and other identification. My trembling aunt, who was going downtown to make her monthly deposits in two banks, was visibly shaken as she went from one to the other.

The experience changed her way of doing business. She then banked by mail — foregoing the "outing" she enjoyed. I changed my practices, too, carrying little cash and a traveler's check for emergency money. At that time a major credit card came into my life. It was accepted wherever I traveled and was a great convenience.

This brings me to the point — credit cards are computerized and bring a new set of problems. I had no trouble month after month after month with the valued credit card because it was a recurring cycle of buying, paying for and buying more. Until an error occurred, I had no need to correspond with the bank which issued the credit card.

However, last fall I canceled a planned trip — and discovered that I was corresponding with a computer that wasn't listening. First, I explained in a letter. The charge but not the cancellation appeared on my statement that month and the next and the next. Part of the problem was that the credit card sponsor changed from one bank to another. My initial correspondence, apparently, did not. As I watched the interest mount and my travel agent worked to gain the refund, I wrote the new banking institution. I spoke to one voice who assured me all was noted on the computer.

Then I received a letter saying my credit was in serious jeopardy as I had not responded and was unable to be reached. Inasmuch as my job makes me completely available by telephone and I had noted this in all correspondence, this was sheer frustration. The next "error" happened when the travel company agreed the refund was in the computer but had not been sent because, for some reason, it lacked an address. The company then sent the refund directly to the travel agent — and I sent it to the credit card company with the agent's complete explanation.

The woman who assured me she would "get back in a day" hadn't done so in a month. Neither has my January letter regarding the interest been answered. I am still trying to find someone who knows how to get a computer to answer. I'm not getting much sympathy from the office receptionist, either. She related that she went to rent a car in Florida — and was refused because the same credit card computer said she had not paid her previous billing. On return she sent a copy of the canceled check, but it took a couple of months to adjust the billing — and the credit card computer wasn't a bit remorseful. It's dangerous to carry cash, upsetting to have an unusable credit card and absolutely frustrating to by-pass all those end-of-winter bargains.

After the fact

Guess who's made a new exercise video? Oh heck, let's make it easy. Guess who hasn't made a new exercise video?

I guess this is American obsession with physical fitness is a good thing, but I can't help thinking that almost everyone is trying to cash in on this business about lookin' good, lookin' trim, etc.

I turned on the television last week to see Bruce Jenner and his new wife hawking their latest exercise video. Later that same day, I was browsing through a book store and saw "lookin' good" books by Victoria Principal, Raquel Welch, Jane Fonda, Britt Ekland, Linda Evans and just about every other actress-type who doesn't have anything better to do than exercise five or six hours per day.

There was even a book about how to have an attractive buttocks.

You can't blame them, I guess. The capitalistic system being what it is, you've got to be a little opportunistic in this day and age.

The problem is that heretofore I have sat back and complained about the opportunism of others, while they make their exercise tapes and hire trucks to tote their millions to the bank.

Well, no more. Nope, I've decided to take matters into my own hands and become as opportunistic as all the others by — are you ready for this? — making my own exercise video.

Actually, I can't see myself doing exercises. It's been at least 10 years since I've done any exercise except for playing Ms. Pac Man and I doubt that an exercise tape of a man wheezing would find much of a market.

But my little wife is an exercise fanatic. And I figured she could do the exercises while I sat down in a director's chair and did the counting.

"Kick, two, three, four. Spin, two, three, four. Kick, two, three, four" or whatever you say when you're counting off exercises on videotapes.

First, I've got to convince her that it's a good idea. Second, I call CBS/Fox Video to arrange for the taping session. Then I just sit back and watch the money roll in. "Deposit, two, three, four."

Another party heard from

By Kevin Wilson

"I always said back in '82 that if you voted for the Democrat you'd get the Republican and if you voted for the Republican you'd get the Democrat."

Those are the words of Robert FitzPatrick, until recently the executive director of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (WCEDC) and, more to the point, the 1982 opponent of Wayne County executive William Lucas.

FitzPatrick, a lifelong Democrat, started calling himself a Republican back in '82 to make sure somebody ran against then-sheriff Lucas. I tracked him down this week just to see what he had to say about his former opponent's heavily-publicized courtship with the GOP. FitzPatrick had plenty to say, understandably. Lucas wasn't in office long before he set out to put the ziggy to Fitz — there were court battles, and some continue, but in brief, the county exec made use of his position to alter the balance on the EDC board and put FitzPatrick out of work, even before his contract expires this September.

Obviously, FitzPatrick and Lucas are not the best of friends. Which is why I looked him up. If you seek to know a politician, his enemies are often more instructive than his friends. FitzPatrick trotted out the expected criticisms, calling Lucas' record on fiscal integrity into question, pointing out his steamroller tactics in gathering power onto himself, noting his efforts to use tax dollars to pay for legal fees not authorized by the county board, his failure to appoint a deputy executive despite the charter provisions.

But FitzPatrick also shows he knows Lucas for what he is — a public relations master. "He's not humble. He's never been shy about letting people know what a great guy he is," FitzPatrick told me, confirming my own impressions. Since Lucas' election, the entire county administration has been turned into a public relations arm for the exec. Every communication from the county is on a letterhead bearing Lucas' name and logo. Every press release gives credit to Lucas, as if he were personally running every department. No department head ever announces a new action — it's always "William Lucas announces..." No photo opportunity involving anything remotely related to Wayne County can fail to include Lucas.

FitzPatrick goes so far as to claim that the exec has spent "$300,000 of taxpayers' money on self-promotion" since his election. Any reporter who has dealt with the exec's press relations office has to suspect the figure is conservative. I once spoke to six separate employees of that office in a single morning — largely because they wanted copies of a photo we ran that included Lucas.

Lucas probably won't listen, but FitzPatrick also had some words of wisdom for anyone contemplating a switch in party affiliations. Before relating what happened to him, FitzPatrick reminded me of his 1982 contention that "most of the issues involving county government are non-partisan" and that he supported efforts to remove party affiliation from the county executive election. Then he told a cautionary tale.

"I've always been a Democrat. I was never really a Republican," he said. But by switching his party label to run against Lucas, who wasn't even a popular figure in the party, he got in hot water with the Dems and never was welcomed by the GOP. "I'm persona non grata with the (Democratic) party now," he said. "I received absolutely no support from the Republicans. The top party people totally ignored me — there were some grass roots people who gave me some support, but really the party never opened its arms. I've considered myself an independent — I guess you could say I'm more independent than ever now," he concluded.

Of Lucas' chances as a newfound Republican, FitzPatrick was skeptical. "I would hope he would come out of the closet and run for governor. I think if he ran for governor you'd finally see some reporters scrutinizing him the way he really should have been scrutinized all along."

"Frankly, I think it's a little ridiculous. First, they're assuming that if he became a Republican and ran for governor, that no one else would run in the primary," he continued. "That seems a little far-fetched. I think there would be others in the primary, and once the attention focused on him as a candidate for governor, he'd lose it right there."

FitzPatrick was accused of being an opportunist back in '82, and he's still paying for that perception. What he did then is precisely what Lucas now contemplates. If only the county exec could see past his own ego, he might take a lesson from that.

Cort is Salem's Fire Fighter of the Year

Richard Cort of Six Mile, a member of the Salem Volunteer Fire Department and a lifetime resident of Salem Township, has been named "Fire Fighter of the Year" by the Washtenaw County Mutual Aid Association.

The award is in recognition of the 32-year-old Cort's rescue efforts in the October deaths of two Salem Township farmers who were overcome by poisonous nitrogen gas in the silo at their farm on Five Mile Road.

Cort climbed to the top of the 75-foot silo and administered cardiopulmonary resuscitation to Paul Geiger (Cort's brother-in-law) and to Lauren Geiger, while waiting for the rescue crew to arrive. Cort himself was nearly overcome by the gas while attempting the rescue and was taken to the hospital for a brief time after the ambulances arrived.

The Fire Fighter of the Year award was presented by Salem Fire Chief William Hirth during the January 8 meeting of the Salem Township board. Township residents attending the meeting applauded Cort following the presentation.

"The award makes me feel quite humble," Cort told The Herald. "When I think about all the people in the county who fight fires and rescue people, I feel very humble."

Cort, who described himself as "just one of the Indians" on the Salem volunteer department, said he had been a member of the fire fighting force since 1975-76.

Send video Valentines to your loved ones tomorrow

By CINDY HOOGLASIAN

With Valentine's Day just around the corner, lovers everywhere are struggling to find new and creative ways to say "I love you" to their sweethearts.

Floral associations urge the love-struck to say it with flowers, while the greeting card companies offer a variety of verse to communicate those sentiments. But one Southfield firm believes its time to bring love into step with modern technology and offers Valentine greetings on videotape.

Video valentines are just part of Vidtec's Video Gram offerings, according to company president Phil Holsinger Jr. However, Holsinger chose Valentine's Day as the premier holiday for Video Grams.

"Valentine's Day is one of those holidays when people do strange little things," Holsinger said. "And the $29.95 price tag makes it an affordable gift."

As Holsinger points out, most greeting cards are put on a shelf for a few days and eventually get tossed into the trash. But a video cassette recording of your lover uttering sweet nothings is likely to be cherished for a long time. With proper care and handling, video cassette recordings can last for three generations. That's a heck of a long time to remember how deeply in love you were back in 1985.

"According to one report, 17 percent of the households in the U.S. have their own video play-back equipment, whether its for video discs or VCRs."

Holsinger said, "I would be willing to guess that in Oakland County, that percentage is a lot higher. And there is plenty of rental equipment available. Most people who don't have the equipment themselves know someone who does, and if they receive a tape, you can be sure they'll make arrangements to view it."

Since Vidtec began taking bookings for video Valentines on February 1, about 20 people have made arrangements for their personal videotape debuts. This week, Holsinger expects a big push on the video greetings. Nonetheless, he said anyone wishing a last-minute date in front of a video tape camera can contact Vidtec at 356-4510 to schedule a filming appointment at their studio on Franklin Road.

"Most people are really intimidated by a camera," Holsinger said, "especially if it's a video or movie camera. But here, we make it 20 minutes or a half hour of just having fun. We don't want it to be intimidating. The studio area is easily isolated and we work with a two-person crew."

Director Renee Maturin handles the production of a video Valentines starting with the telephone call scheduling an appointment, right up to the last camera angle. She consults with clients about proper make-up for the camera, props, scripting and camera cues.

A camera man or woman takes care of the taping, Holsinger said, which may help some reticent clients overcome inhibitions about revealing their message to a stranger of the opposite sex.

If the love-struck client doesn't know exactly what he or she wants to say, Vidtec has a small library of poetry and readings which can be drawn upon. Holsinger notes that it's best to have a little speech prepared for taping, since it's kind of tough to ad lib for up to 10 minutes and have the message be meaningful.

"The client spends no more than a half hour here," Holsinger said. "There's five to 10 minutes of preparation, about 10 minutes in front of the camera and 10 minutes to put everything together." Video greetings can be gift wrapped and sent anywhere in the country either by parcel post or Federal Express, Holsinger said.

A video Valentine is a three-part message, with a standard opening and closing including credits set to music. Vidtec inserts appropriate background music to accompany the greeting created by the client. The company keeps no copies of the Video Gram, Holsinger said, ensuring complete privacy for the client and the recipient.

"You're doing a five- to 10-minute TV show to be seen only by those who you want to see it," Holsinger said. "Who knows what all of this will lead to. It's been pretty PG so far. If someone wants to get a little risqué, that's fine. But we're not in the business of pornography."

The Valentine's Day set is covered in balloons, with an eye-catching red and silver striped backdrop in front of which is suspended a red satin heart. There's plenty of room in the studio to accommodate action, or a stationary pose can be selected.

Holsinger said one client sent a sentimental Valentine greeting to her husband, in which she perched on a stool, sipping a glass of champagne and recounting how she felt when she had first met her love. He added that the woman seemed to be very much at ease in front of the cameras, probably because she had downed the top half of that bottle of champagne before hitting the set.

If the video Valentine market fulfills Holsinger's expectations—and it seems well on its way to doing that—he is looking forward to introducing a full line of video greetings. Vidtec is already advertising Video Grams for birthdays, anniversaries, Christmas, weddings, Mother's Day, Father's Day and even a "Let Me Explain" greeting to help patch up hurt feelings.

In the future, Holsinger said clients will be able to select from a variety of exotic backgrounds over which the greeting will be superimposed. The process, called chromakeying, is commonly used in television studios for news and weather programs.

Vidtec's primary business is servicing commercial and industrial accounts, Holsinger said, and the decision to branch out into at-home entertainment was made to serve a burgeoning new market.

BILL FISCHBEIN

GREGORY DOBSON

THE NOVI HILTON has announced the appointment of Bill Fischbein to the position of sales manager.

A native of Minneapolis, Fischbein joined Hilton in 1984 as a Hilton Personnel Development Program sales trainee in Chicago. He is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin in Madison where he received his bachelor's degree in chemistry and sociology with emphasis in business and management theory. He currently resides in West Bloomfield.

The Novi Hilton is scheduled to open in June 1985 and will feature 237 guestrooms and suites, a fine dining restaurant, coffee shop, entertainment lounge and lobby bar, as well as indoor pool with sundeck, whirlpool, sauna and exercise room.

Conference facilities include a 9,000 square foot ballroom, 100-seat amphitheater and nine smaller conference rooms.

GREGORY DOBSON, an Associate of Albert Kahn Associates (AKA), Architects and Engineers, has been named manager of field services, succeeding Alfred A. Agli who retired in December. The announcement was made by AKA President Daniel Shahan.

Dobson resides with his wife Gwen and their three children on Christina Lane in Novi.

A registered architect, Dobson studied architecture at Lawrence Institute of Technology and the University of Cincinnati. He joined AKA's Field Services Department in 1973 and has been assigned to many of the firm's largest projects in recent years. Those projects include a transaxle plant for the Ford Motor Company in Batavia, Ohio; a production and distribution facility for Max Factor & Company in Oxford, North Carolina; and corporate offices for Avon Products, Inc., in Rye, New York.

Bogus franchise deals fleece public

Promoters of bogus business opportunities and franchise deals fleece the investing public of more than $500 million per year, according to the latest edition of Investor Alert, a quarterly publication of the North American Securities Administrators Association (NASAA) and the Council of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB).

Says The Alert: "These scams run from a few hundred dollars for an overpriced, 'start-up' inventory of industrial-strength cleanser to a $12,000 'equity investment' in a money-losing car wash chain."

The Alert highlights classic business opportunity and franchise frauds, and also provides the warning signs to watch for in considering any such investment.

HIGH-PRESSURE sales tactics. Shady promoters will demand a quick decision, not allowing an investor to investigate profit claims or consult with a lawyer or accountant. Don't be impressed by ads in national or local publications; they often don't carefully screen the ads they run.

PROMISES OF sky-high profits. No honest promoter can guarantee a client a return on his investment, much less astronomical profits of 100 percent or more. A legitimate operator will

"Too often, investors in these deals forget the cardinal rules — ask questions and get everything in writing. There is good money to be made in legitimate business opportunities and franchises, but there are also a lot of wolves amongst the sheep."

— Thomas Ashcraft,
Detroit BBB President

quality his success stories, providing percentage of participants who have earned the big money. Just 11 percent of direct salesmen made over $100 a week in 1983, according to a recent Harris Poll.

CLAIMS OF minimal risk. There is no such thing as a completely safe franchise or business opportunity deal, no matter how good the product or service involved. Assurances that "you can't go wrong" should be considered a near-certain indicator that an investor is being conned. Statistics show that the toughest years for a direct salesman or franchise holder are the first two.

UNJUSTIFIED START-UP fees. Examine the value of the inventory, training courses and sales kits that a promoter is insisting that your purchase. Is he asking for more than the fair market value of these start-up items? If you are looking at a sales job, why should there be a high, initial entry fee?

EVASIVE ANSWERS, failure to disclose. If the promoter is not directly responding to your questions or refuses to provide details, don't go any further. Remember that your chance to succeed would depend on the parent company's full cooperation and assistance. What does the promoter have to hide?

The NASAA/CBBB publication also includes a detailed check list which investors should consult before putting their money down on any business opportunity or franchise offer.

"Too often, investors in these deals forget the cardinal rules — ask questions and get everything in writing," said Thomas Ashcraft, Detroit BBB president. "There is good money to be made in legitimate business opportunities and franchises, but there are also a lot of wolves amongst the sheep."

A NASAA/CBBB survey conducted for Investor Alert uncovered recent business opportunity and franchise fraud problems in 24 states.

The Investor Alert is a quarterly program jointly sponsored by NASAA and the CBBB to expose investment frauds to the public and provide useful information on how to avoid the often sophisticated and unlawful schemes that prey on investors.

Copies of The Alert are available from your local Better Business Bureau by sending 25 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan, Attention: Investor Alert; 150 Michigan Avenue; Detroit, Michigan 48226.

AAA convention center aids travelers at Cobo

To aid the increasing number of business and organizations that choose the metropolitan Detroit area as a convention site, the Automobile Club of Michigan has opened a Convention Services Center in Cobo Hall.

"We have an excellent location on the main floor of Cobo Hall and the facility is ideally suited to handle convention needs," stated Chuck Lentz, the Auto Club's travel, sales and promotion manager.

"We can assist out-of-town visitors in making hotel, airline and car rental reservations, as well as help area businesses set up meetings or conventions in other cities," he said.

The center is fully automated and uses the United Airlines Apollo Computer System which enables the facility to offer complete domestic and international flight schedules and space availability information.

In addition, persons who purchase tickets through the center or any other Auto Club facility will be covered with $100,000 trip/travel protection insurance at no cost. The center is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Auto Club is the state's largest travel agency.

(Happy New Year, Chinese Style)

Text by Jean Day/Photos by Steve Fecht/Art by Jeffrey Lapinski

1985: Year of the Ox

If you were born in 1901, 1913, 1925, 1937, 1949, 1961, 1973 or 1985, according to the Chinese "astrological zoo," the Year of the Ox is your year.

It begins February 20 on the Chinese New Year.

Further, it is important to know at what time you were born. Zodiac lore says that a night birth means much hard work; a day birth means good fortune. Those born in the Year of the Ox are calm, quiet and extremely trustworthy — but sometimes stubborn. They are skillful with their hands and eloquent when the occasion demands. They are independent and dispassionate.

The first phase of life is happy; the second, unsettled; and the third, peaceful.

Those born in the Year of the Ox are born leaders but must guard against being chauvinistic "and always demanding your own way."

Other Chinese zodiac years:

The Tiger, 1902, 1914, 1926, 1938, 1950, 1962, 1974, 1986.

The Rabbit, 1903, 1915, 1927, 1939, 1951, 1963, 1975, 1987.

The Dragon, 1904, 1916, 1928, 1940, 1952, 1964, 1976, 1988.

The Serpent, 1905, 1917, 1929, 1941, 1953, 1965, 1977, 1989.

The Horse, 1906, 1918, 1930, 1942, 1954, 1966, 1978.

The Ram, 1907, 1919, 1931, 1943, 1955, 1967, 1979, 1991.

The Monkey, 1908, 1920, 1932, 1944, 1956, 1968, 1980, 1992.

The Rooster, 1909, 1921, 1933, 1945, 1957, 1969, 1981, 1993.

The Dog, 1910, 1922, 1934, 1946, 1958, 1970, 1982, 1994.

The Pig, 1911, 1923, 1935, 1947, 1959, 1971, 1983, 1995.

The Rat, 1900, 1912, 1924, 1936, 1948, 1960, 1972, 1984.

The Year of the Ox is approaching. The Lunar New Year, China's most colorful and important festival, will arrive on February 20 and bring a week of feasting both in China and here.

The Chinese New Year is celebrated in traditional homes in China and the United States. According to legend, families honor the Kitchen God by preparing a rich feast.

Mancy and Raymond Choi, a young Novi couple, are continuing the tradition brought to this country by their families who came from mainland China. For the upcoming festival, they will be preparing traditional seafood, chicken and beef dishes for both their friends and patrons of the China Fair restaurant in Northville Township.

Raymond Choi is part owner and chef of the family-owned restaurant in Northville Plaza Mall, 42313 West Seven Mile, where Mancy Choi is manager.

"We prepare special dishes and send New Year cards like you send Christmas cards — ours all say something lucky," says Mancy Choi, explaining that the recipients are wished good health and good fortune in the New Year. For all unmarried children in a family, she adds, there are special New Year envelopes with a money gift tucked inside.

Date of the observance, she says, depends on the farmers' almanac. In a tradition handed down from early ancestors the Chinese zodiac is based on a 12-year cycle, each year being represented by an animal.

The Chinese New Year can be as early as January 21 and as late as February 21.

In China, on the 16th day of the 12th month businessmen close their accounts and thank the gods for a prosperous year. Customers pay their debts in order to start the new year with a clean slate.

On the 24th day of the 12th month, traditional households honor the Kitchen God. Legend says he returns to heaven at the end of each year to report on the family — so a rich feast is prepared in order that he will give a good report.

Under the Communist government, the Chinese New Year was rechristened the Spring Festival as part of a new set of secular activities. Food, however, plays an important part in all Chinese festivals.

Last week Raymond Choi and the China Fair staff prepared a half dozen special dishes in advance of the New Year for photographer Steve Fecht to photograph and for staff members who volunteered to sample.

The Oriental New Year treat, according to Mancy Choi, should begin with a seafood soup. Chef Choi's combined scallops, shrimp, lobster and mushrooms with watercress.

Pot-Sticker with hot sauce, an appetizer, followed. These are tasty dumplings stuffed with pork.

Each main dish would be sufficient for a meal:

- Crispy chicken, whole, is marinated overnight and then roasted in a stand-up oven. As is the traditional custom, the chicken head is left on until the dish is served.
- Shredded beef tenderloin is combined with stir fry vegetables and pineapple and placed in a pineapple scooped out to become the serving dish.

- Sweet and sour fish, whole, is a yellow pickeral, deep fried with a light batter with sweet and sour sauce and placed on a bed of shredded vegetables. Marachino cherries are used for eyes. The head and tail then are removed as the fish is served with rice.
- Jumbo shrimp with broccoli is served on a bed of rice. The shrimp is marinated and stir fried with Chinese broccoli, carrots, mushrooms, onions pea pods, pineapple, green peppers and baby corn.

Each dish prepared by Chef Choi was a visual as well as a culinary treat. A white Spanish onion was cut into a flower form with petals tipped in red dye to festoon the appetizer plate. Scallions, too, were carved into flowers with red tips.

Platters were garnished with paper-thin half slices of cucumber or oranges and cherries.

A tomato was cut into goldfish shapes for the soup. Carrots were cut into tiny butterflies for garnish. Mancy Choi explains that there are special cutters to create these touches.

Traditionally, tea is served with the meal, finished off by almond cookies made fresh at the restaurant.

Mancy, who was born in mainland China, left with her mother and sisters when she was eight years old, going first to Hong Kong. The family came to Detroit in 1974.

Mancy met her husband here. He had come from mainland China with his family in 1971, settling first in Seattle.

"We met in Detroit through family and friends," explains Mancy.

It is Raymond Choi's family that is in the restaurant business, operating China Fair restaurants in Traverse City and Port Charlotte, Florida, and another, called Ten Yen, on Wayne Road in Livonia. San Choi, who originally opened the China Fair in Northville in 1978, now operates the Florida restaurant.

"We give each other help when we need it," says Mancy of the family operation.

During the Chinese New Year celebration — from February 20 through the 24th — the Chois will be offering special dishes daily. Other area Oriental restaurants also will have similar feasts.

Appreciators of Chinese food will depart with their fortunes told in crisp cookies.

China Feasts

Chef Raymond Choi of China Fair Restaurant shares with readers his recipe for marinated beef tenderloin which he serves as a festive main dish in a carved out pineapple with foliage intact.

These Valentines are stitched with love

By JEAN DAY

"We didn't want just to send cards," says Pat Burns, president of the residents' council at Allen Terrace, as she explains how a very special Valentine project came about at the senior citizen center.

Several of the residents got together to make a dozen red pillow hearts that will be presented to former residents now in nursing homes this Thursday. The pillows were cut of a red, tiny heart print material, stitched, stuffed and edged with lace.

Council members plan to deliver them on Valentine's Day to their former neighbors so that they will know they're still getting "a lot of love." Recipients will be D. C. Alexander, Edna Jurzek, Helen Lamp and Marie Eickmeyer, all currently at Whitehall Convalescent Home; Bernice Stein at Hendry Center in Plymouth; Mary Pisansky and Grace Sharpe at Beverly Manor; and Ella Leibetru at Wishing Well Manor.

Extras were stitched in case there are neighbors in the hospital.

Carolann Ayers volunteers for league assignment

"Ask a busy person and you'll get it done." That traditional advice must have been taken by the League of Women Voters of Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Novi. At the general meeting in January a sign-up sheet was passed for members to volunteer from their areas to update the league publication, They Represent You.

Northville's volunteer was Northville City Council member Carolann Ayers. Helen Seward will represent Novi on the project and Deanna Huff, Plymouth, and Jackie Westbay, Canton.

President Billie Whitely reports that the board, which has had problems finding volunteers for such league projects as candidates' forums, is recommending more of the responsibilities fall on local areas. It is hoped that four members from each of the four areas comprising the local league will be local chairs. President Whitely notes that she was pleased to have 25 members of the league's 87 attend the January session.

This Thursday at 7 p.m. the general meeting at West Middle School in Plymouth will focus on "Health Care in the 80s." Such topics as cost containment and new rules on Medicare and Medicaid will be covered.

The Northville Record

Mustangs trip Western again

Omar Harrison did more experimenting than Mr. Wizard last Friday. And he had just about the same success rate.

Against division rival Walled Lake Western, the first-year Northville basketball coach alternated two five-man lineups — one built for inside power and stability, the other for speed and defense. The result: a 60-41 victory, one of the Mustangs' most impressive wins of the season.

"I was pretty happy with the way it worked out," Harrison said afterward. "We might try that again."

"We knew their guards were probably the weakest part of their game, so we figured we'd pressure them, a bit with our smaller guys — and our guys did a real good job."

"Now a lot of people look at Western's record (1-12 WLAA) and figure they can't be too tough a team. But I'll tell you, they've played some very good teams real tough. We knew that if we didn't come right after them, we could get ourselves in trouble. And we didn't want that to happen against them."

The outcome was far from ever being in doubt. Northville outscored the Warriors 19-10 in the first period, and continued to outpoint Western in each of the following quarters.

Harrison tried his five-man switcheroo for the first time late in the first quarter. At the five-minute mark, all five Mustang starters — John Storm, Greg Wendel, Don Norton, Kirk Morrison and Doug May — came off the court.

In their place went new team member Tom Ross, Mike Hilfinger, Paul Newitt, Gary Harper and Matt Hinds.

Throwing the game pace into high gear, the "B" unit mercilessly hawked Western's inexperienced backcourt and increased Northville's lead to 30-18 at the half.

By the end of the game, the Mustangs had forced 26 Western turnovers, all but one Mustang player had logged court time, and Northville had collected notable contributions from unusual sources: assists (five) from big man Storm, and outside scoring (eight points) from habitually gun-shy point guard May.

The 19-point victory margin was a season high, as were the 60 points scored by Northville.

Storm and Wendel led Northville with 11 points apiece. Close behind were Norton, May and Morrison with eight each. Wendel led all rebounders with 11.

Maybe the strategy wouldn't have worked as well against Canton the previous Tuesday. Regardless, the Mustangs wouldn't mind having the game over again.

After the teams battled to a 22-22 deadlock at the half, the Chiefs took a five-point lead after three quarters.

It was at just about that point Northville got a crusher. Wendel was whistled for his fifth foul.

"I'd changed my strategy from an earlier game this year," Harrison said. "When Greg picked up three fouls before, I'd bench him for a while until I really needed him."

"This time I decided to just let him play, and it didn't work."

Without Wendel to help Storm contain the Chiefs' inside game, Canton forward Kevin Hawkins took charge. Hawkins scored 18 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, game-high in both categories.

Norton led Northville with 15 points. Mike Hilfinger scored 10 and May eight. Storm and Wendel each had nine rebounds.

The week's split left Northville with a 6-8 overall record (4-7 WLAA).

Friday, the Mustangs host tough conference rival Walled Lake Central for the first time this season. "They've got two or three good ballplayers, and they've beaten some good ballclubs," Harrison said. "We're going to need a good game to get past them."

The Mustangs host Livonia Churchill next Tuesday, then enter the WLAA Playoffs, with dates, times and locations to be announced after the Churchill game.

Swimmers' win streak ends at six

That noise was Northville's swim team crash landing.

The Mustangs were cruising high aboard a season-long conference win streak up until they hosted the Spartans of Livonia Stevenson last Thursday.

Stevenson thumped Northville 56-24. And even though colds and other ailments handcuffed the Mustang tankers, it was clear Stevenson had the better team.

"I was hoping we'd do a little better," said Northville Coach Derek Gans. "A few of our guys didn't swim up to par, and I think they sort of psyched out me of our guys."

Northville's only first place was in diving, but it was a dandy. Jeff Pawloski turned in his best dives of the season to score 234.1 points. Joel Grasley took second with 215.8.

Taking seconds for Northville were Darius Mikalonis in 200 individual medley (2:12.7), Doug Buell in butterfly (58.1), Ron Johnston in a close 100 freestyle (52.7), Paul Stoecklin in a close 100 backstroke (1:07.3), and Johnston, Dave Wayne, Mikalonis and Buell in the 4x100 free relay.

Taking thirds were Johnston in the 50 free (23.5), Wayne in 100 butterfly (1:00.8) and 200 free (1:56.1), Mikalonis in 500 free (5:13.5), Eric Leindecker in 100 breast stroke (1:12.5), and Buell in 200 I.M. (2:14.2).

Northville's second freestyle relay team of Jeff Bainbridge, Tom Valade, Craig Smith and John Gass, took third in 3:43.5.

Northville (now 3-0 in the Western Division, 5-1 in the WLAA) will travel to Plymouth Salem for a conference meet at 7 p.m. tomorrow, then wrap up the dual-meet season at home February 21 against division rival Plymouth Canton — a meet which will determine the WLAA Western Division regular-season champions.

Gymnasts better, but Barrie is best

Northville's gymnastics team put together its highest team score of the season last week. But it didn't even come close to topping Walled Lake Western, led by junior phenomenon Barrie Muzbeck.

Muzbeck, a candidate for a slot on the 1988 U.S. Olympic Gymnastics Team, scored three firsts with plus-9.00 scores, as the Warriors tripped Northville 127.6-117.0 in a WLA Western Division encounter February 4.

"We did great," said Northville Coach Michelle Charniga. "After we had such low scores against Salem, I was glad to see them come up so much."

Mustang senior Diane Hale had the distinction of handing Muzbeck a rare defeat in vault. Hale placed first with a score of 8.5, just ahead of Muzbeck's 8.45.

Hale took second in uneven bars while teammate Mandy Walts was runner-up to the Warrior sensation in floor exercise and balance beam.

Walts scored 8.0 in vault, followed by Tonia Hickman (7.1), Kim Wobermin (6.5) and Cheryl Lane (4.9).

In uneven bars, Hale's score of 8.15 trailed Muzbeck's 9.25. Walts took third with a 7.9, and Hickman registered her first state qualifying score with a 7.35. The Mustang soph needs three more scores above 7.3 to qualify for regional uneven bars competition.

Rounding out uneven bars scores were Wobermin's 5.7 and Dena Shackleford's 4.15.

In balance beam, Walts turned in an 8.35 score, with Hale chipping in a 7.65 for fourth. Hickman scored 6.8, Wobermin 5.65, Shackleford a 4.5 and Lane a 4.5.

In floor exercise, Walts scored 8.7, followed by Hale's fourth-place 8.25. Hickman scored 6.75 and Lane 6.65.

Had the Mustangs come up with another team score of 117, they would have nipped Westland John Glenn on Friday. Instead, the Rockets touched down just ahead 116.55-115.65 in a non-conference meet.

Going into the final event of the meet, the Mustangs held a slim 87.15-85.60 lead. But the Rockets' slight depth advantage in floor exercise showed, as they outpointed Northville 30.95-28.50 to win the event and the meet.

Walts' 8.05 took first in floor exercise, and Hale's 7.85 tied for second. Rounding out floor-ex scores for the Mustangs were Hickman (7.45) and Lane (5.15).

Hale vaulted first in uneven bars (7.7), vault (8.15) and balance beam (8.35).

In vault, the Mustangs picked up points from Walts' third-place 8.05, Wobermin's 6.8, Lane's 6.7 and Hickman's 6.4. First-year soph Lee Anne Oginski posted a 5.1.

In uneven bars, Walts scored 7.2, Hickman 6.9 and Wobermin 5.7. In beam, Walts scored 7.65, with Wobermin close behind with a personal-best 7.5 to tie for third. Wobermin's score was her first regional qualifying score. She needs three more plus-7.3 scores to qualify.

Hickman scored a 6.45, Lane 5.65 and Shackleford 5.55.

After last week's activity, Walts and Hale appear to be shoo-ins to qualify for regionals. Walts needs one more uneven bars score of at least 7.3, and Hale needs one more beam score of at least 7.3 and one more floor exercise score of at least 7.8.

"They'll get them," Charniga said confidently.

But the 2-4 Mustangs won't get too many more chances to post more qualifying scores. Their next meet isn't until Tuesday, February 26, when Northville hosts Farmington Harrison. On February 28, the Mustangs close their dual-meet season at Clarenceville.

Diane Hale needs one more floor exercise score of at least 7.8 to advance to the regionals

Candela's fifth Mustangs' top tourney showing

A fifth-place finish by 167-pound Dino Candela and sixth-place finishes from John McRae, Paul Maliszewski and Keith Graham weren't enough to buoy Northville team out of tenth place at the Western Lakes Activities Association wrestling meet last week.

Northville accumulated 35.5 points at the meet, well back of the winning total of 188.5 posted by meet host Plymouth Salem.

Plymouth Canton took second with 159.5 points.

followed by Walled Lake Central (159), Farmington (148), Walled Lake Western (126.5), Livonia Bentley (118), Livonia Stevenson (71), Livonia Churchill (66), and Farmington Harrison (57).

In his final match, Candela defeated Salem's Greg Woodhuck 3-1 for fifth place at the meet. Northville's best individual performance.

Graham, Maliszewski and McRae, all first-year varsity grapplers, did respectably well with sixth-place finishes.

Graham was nosed out for fifth place at 98 pounds by Farmington's T.J. Armstrong on a pin at 52 seconds.

At 119 pounds, Maliszewski wrestled well in early rounds, but was pinned by Walled Lake Western's Rob Crawford, also in 52 seconds, in his final match.

Churchill's Brian Clemens caught McRae on his back with just two seconds remaining in the second period to nose out McRae for fifth.

Spikers give Spartans a scare—can't finish them off

Tricia Ducker and Robin Strunk team up for a block against Harrison

Three losses last week extended the Northville volleyball squad's midseason slump to six straight losses — but some heads-up play against state-ranked Livonia Stevenson last Thursday showed signs the worst is probably over.

The Mustangs shocked the Spartans, rated as high as fourth in the state by some polls, by winning the first game convincingly, 15-5. Stevenson recovered quickly, tripping Northville 15-4 and 15-3 in the next two.

"We moved the ball well and moved well on defense in the first game," said Northville Coach Steve McDonald. "We didn't play badly in the next two games, but we had some problems with Stevenson's front line. They really took charge at that point."

McDonald, who lately has been fine-tuning Northville's starting lineup, saw a few positive results of his experiments against Stevenson. "Tricia Ducker did a good job of hitting and blocking for us," he noted. "And I think I'm going to stick with Nicki LaRoque setting the ball."

LaRoque and Melanie Urbahn were the two most successful servers for Northville, combining for 23 serves and just five bad.

Earlier in the week, Northville lost division games to Livonia Churchill and to Farmington Harrison.

Churchill defeated Northville 15-4, 15-12. "We always have problems adjusting to their gym," McDonald said. "We had a lot of problems in the first game, but came back with a little better showing in the next one. We had some more consistent serving and also passed better."

Wednesday's 15-10, 15-6 loss to Harrison was even more deflating, since the Mustangs had defeated the Hawks earlier this year. "They had two girls who just ran off a string serves on us," McDonald pointed out. "Our defense wasn't playing badly, but we weren't moving the ball quite as well on offense."

"We forget to do that sometimes -- we're a team that has to use a little finesse to be successful."

Bev Henderson's serve was on the mark in Wednesday's loss. Henderson served 13 times, only once badly.

Northville will travel to Plymouth Canton for a match at 7 p.m. tonight, then compete at the 20-team Schoolcraft Invitational on Saturday. Monday, the Mustangs travel to Walled Lake Western, and finally return home to play Brighton in a non-conference game next Wednesday.

HUMAN INSULIN

Insulin from animal sources (cattle and swine) has been available since the 1920's for use in the treatment of diabetes. Purified forms of pork insulin have been marketed in the past few years in response to the need for insulins that produce fewer allergic reactions. Human insulin has been introduced during the past few years for general use among diabetics.

Human insulin may be obtained from human cadaver pancreas, made synthetically in the laboratory, produced from pork insulin through the use of enzymes, or produced through the use of genetically-altered bacteria which make the insulin. The last two approaches are the most economically feasible at the present.

Beef-pork mixture insulins are less costly than the newer human insulins or the purified pork insulins. It is predicted, however, that human insulin - which costs about the same as the purified pork type - will eventually replace the beef-pork mixtures as the standard commercial preparation. At the present, both enzyme-produced and genetically altered bacteria-produced human insulins are available in the United States for diabetics needing rapid-acting, intermediate-acting, and long-acting insulin products.

CHOOSING A TAX PREPARER

by Charles H. Williams, C.P.A.

Who'll prepare your tax return this year? It's time to start choosing a professional, and to undertake the planning that may help you shelter some of your income from taxes. If your income is fairly straightforward and deductible expenses minimal, you might satisfactorily use a short-form return and do it yourself or with the help of a tax preparer. But with more income, and more deductions, as the return becomes more complicated, you're going to want a tax professional. Why? Because it's worth the difference to put your tax return in the hands of someone with the knowledge to find every likely loophole, and the experience to know which are acceptable. And as you reach the higher brackets, you'll get the advice you need on sheltering some income from taxes. Some free help is available from the IRS. Revenue employees will answer your questions (but the tax court has challenged some of their answers) and prepare the simplest returns. There are also independent and chain tax preparers who pop up at tax season. Their workers may not be experienced enough to catch all legal deductions. A certified public accountant can handle most complex returns and are familiar with shelters and investing. His or her tax know-how can save you more than the fee. How do you choose a professional? Recommendations from satisfied clientele are one way, as are referrals from lawyers. Once a relationship is entered, the client will find his accountant helpful in making financial decisions all year round.

INCOME TAX

We're a local organization. Even though we served more than 3,300 clients last year we haven't forgotten that every client is an individual and that each individual deserves the best service we can provide.

When we sign a tax return that we've prepared, we're proud of having done the best possible job for you. When you see our signature on your tax return you can be sure that:

1. The counselor who prepared your return was competent and thoroughly experienced in tax matters.
2. You have received the maximum legal deductions and the minimum legal tax.
3. Your tax return has received all the time and attention that was necessary to do a proper job.
4. Your tax return has been double-checked for both accuracy and tax saving possibilities.
5. Your return has been handled in a confidential manner.

We have three levels of services and fees...Econotax, Computax and Executax. We want to be your Accountant!

Call us. We understand small businesses, personal and corporate tax returns. Computerized bookkeeping and payroll, tax planning systems.

HARDEN

Fine furniture from generation to generation

For 120 years now, the Harden philosophy has been "to make each piece of furniture the best way we know how."

In adhering to this belief, Harden has found that it still takes the hands of the skilled craftsman to produce furniture of lasting beauty and value.

Modern manufacturing techniques are used in some operations, but only when they result in a product that is superior to, or has the same substance and quality found in totally hand-made custom furniture.

Intricate carvings are hand-finished to give them a crispness of detail. Finishing operations are largely done by hand to assure that exposed wood surfaces are satin smooth to the touch and resistant to water, heat and alcohol.

The basic construction of each piece is solid and lasting. Cherrywood boards, cut in Harden's own sawmill, are wider and thicker than the average used in furniture making.

No detail is too small to escape the critical eye of the Harden craftsman, assuring furniture of uncompromising character and quality.
