Last fling

The wet, heavy snow that arrived Monday found residents like Marc and Cathy Crotteau "digging out" again as they attempted to get their stuck car off Clement onto Main. The full force of eight DPW workers with all snow removal equipment was on the streets by 4 a.m. Monday. Some worked overtime into the evening. They reported it was hard to keep up with the wet snow that was difficult to push, as residents who said they were "shocked" at the March onslaught also found. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Residents protest sewer assessment

Objections of Northville Estates' residents to a proposed assessment for sanitary sewers to serve properties on the north side of Eight Mile west of Lexington Commons subdivision caused city council Monday night to ask city engineer Edward McNeely and city manager Steve Walters for alternate proposals.

McNeely said it would be possible to devise an alternate plan to serve only those lots in the subdivision that are undeveloped. Walters was to review the financing with both reports to be presented to council at its next meeting at 8 p.m. March 18.

Action on the proposal was tabled following the public hearing until council could review the alternates requested.

Many of the more than 40 residents attending the hearing were not in the assessment district but expressed concern that in the future they would be faced with a proposal for unwanted sewers.

John Hardin of 47271 Battleford, president of the Northville Estates Civic Association, expressed the majority sentiment, stating, "We do not feel it is fair and equitable to improve the lots by placing the burden on property owners who have invested in septic systems and have no need for sewers."

— John Hardin,
Northville Estates association president

Hardin proposed that any cost to property owners with operative septic systems be deferred until they "deem it necessary to connect to the sewer. Then they would be getting benefit and, I would think, be willing to pay."

Paul Dawson of 21219 Chigwidden noted that he owned a lot adjacent to his home but did not buy it to build upon and did not want the sewer for it.

"If you have visited back there (the north portion of the subdivision), you know it's a wetland," he told council. "The lateral sewers are to the advantage of entrepreneurs who would build on those lots. I see no reason why we who spent a lot of money (for septic systems) should be assessed."

Residents said that most of the vacant lots had not passed perk tests. Mayor Paul Vernon asked if there was objection to providing service to the proposed two adjacent subdivisions between Lexington Commons and Northville Estates. There was none expressed.

Denis Roux, owner of 20 of the vacant lots, told those attending, "I'm the fellow who is going to make the 'pockets of money' but I've been paying taxes on the lots for 20 years. While I'm no longer a resident of Northville Estates I still live in the city. Yes, I'm going to make a buck, but if you wait until the (septic) system fails, it might take another 20 years to get sewers."

In response to questions on the feasibility of building on the wetlands, Roux, who is a residential builder, mentioned that he did not buy some swamplands that now are Wabek, an exclusive northern subdivision in the Bloomfield area.

Robert Borthwick of 21041 Stanstead asked the council, "What are your plans with regard to water?"

City manager Walters replied that developers of the adjacent properties would have both water and sewer but there had been no request for water in the petition for sewers in Northville Estates. He said it would be possible to bring it in with the sewer installation.

Many of the residents reported they had lived in the subdivision for 18 to 20 years and had had no problem with their septic systems.

In addition to the proposed assessments for the 49 lots in the roll (lots 1-19, 87-92, 117-120 and 135-154), there would be an individual hook-up charge of $15 a foot, McNeely said.

With the recommended 100 percent of the project assessed to the properties in the proposed assessment district, the end cost could range from $5,200 up to $7,000, M. Anusbigian of 47100 Grasmere estimated.

Walters report to council on the proposed assessment district estimated the trunk line cost at $194,069 with an assessment of $1,452 per acre. The Northville Estates lateral system is

Sale of state land tied to measure funding DeHoCo

By KEVIN WILSON

Legislative approval of the sale of Plymouth Center for Human Development property has been tied to an appropriations bill allowing the state to house prisoners at the Detroit House of Correction, angering local officials.

"They should be separate issues," said state representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township). "One is a matter of disposing of excess property, but it's been tie-barred to a provision allowing them to put prisoners in our area."

"The problem is that Detroit and the state management and budget people know we want that land sold, so they thought they'd be cute and tie it to DeHoCo," he continued. "Basically, Detroit and the state want to dump something out there and the heck with what the local people want."

Northville Township Supervisor Susan Heintz said she "was afraid they'd do it earlier. But I'm still really angry about it."

Law had introduced a separate bill authorizing the sale of the Plymouth Center property, declared surplus by the state and appraised at $4.3 million. Heintz has been pressing since her election last November to have that land sold to private developers, in part to ensure that it is never considered as a prison site.

The sale provisions, however, have been tied to another clause authorizing the expenditure of $6 million for tem-

Boards of review start hearings of tax appeals

Property owners wishing to appeal their assessments before the boards of review can do so this week and next in the township, and on March 12 or 26 in the city.

Notices were mailed recently to the owners of all properties where the assessed valuation has increased. Valuations should reflect 50 percent of the true cash value of the property as of December 31, 1984.

Those wishing to appeal their assessments must make an appointment to appear before the board of review. In the township, the board began sessions Tuesday and continues from 2 to 8 p.m. today, 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. March 11 and 2 p.m. to 8 p.m. March 12. Additional dates and times can be added if there is demand.

City board of review meets March 12 from 1 to 5 p.m. and from 6 to 9 p.m. and again March 26 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

They go home in April

By KEVIN WILSON

As they have every March, Northville Township board members will see a lot of each other this month.

That's because March Madness at township hall has nothing to do with high school basketball. It means budget time. The fiscal year runs April 1 to March 31, so 1984-85 is expiring and 1985-86 fast approaches. Atop three scheduled budget review sessions (all open to the public), the board has one special public hearing night and what promises to be a fairly lengthy regular monthly meeting on the calendar.

While scrambling to put the books in order to close out the current year, township manager David Lelko and the rest of the administrative staff have been crashing numbers for the new budget to be presented to board members at 9 a.m. this Saturday.

After reviewing the budget until noon Saturday, board members will conduct a public hearing March 12 on a proposed water assessment district in Grandview Acres, then reconvene at 7:30 p.m. March 14. First up is a public hearing on proposed EDC financing for a new structure in "Doheny Industrial Park" followed by the regular board meeting.

Department heads are certain to be requesting approvals for various expenditures prior to the end of the fiscal year.

Then it's back to township hall March 15 from 7 to 9 p.m. for another budget review session. This sitting was originally scheduled for the next day — Saturday, March 16 but there was evidently some dissatisfaction with the idea of giving up all the weekends.

With final instructions from the board, Lelko and the staff have until March 28 to come up with a final version of the budget. The nearly two-week lapse also gives board members time to slate another special meeting, if needed. A public hearing on federal revenue sharing uses (customarily applied to employee fringe benefits in recent years) is slated at 7 p.m. that night, with final budget approval to follow.

If any crises arise, the board would still have a couple of days left in the month to solve them.

This year may be the last edition of this annual rite of spring. If the board adopts the charter township form of government (which it probably will in April or May) it begins operating under a new fiscal year — January 1 to December 31. Then all those meetings can be scheduled in... December?

School district mourns administrator's death

The Northville school district mourned the loss of one of its most dedicated educators last week with the death of Nancy Soper, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Mrs. Soper died Wednesday evening at University Hospital in Ann Arbor after a long battle with cancer. She was 45.

NANCY SOPER

Superintendent George Bell said the longtime educator, who has been with the district since 1976, "will be sorely missed."

"She ran the curriculum department with an iron hand," Bell noted, "and always with a vision of improving things."

"Most of the projects we have now — the long range plan, the middle school move, all the curriculum projects — I feel were a major product of Nancy's leadership," he said.

Bell further noted that in addition to providing the district with "great leadership, she also taught everybody a lesson in courage."

Mrs. Soper began her education career in the Parma Western Schools in 1961 as a sixth grade teacher. She served as an elementary principal in Parma for three years before taking the same post in the Wayne-Westland school district in 1968.

In 1971, she became coordinator for Individually Guided Education/Social Studies in Wayne-Westland and served in that position until coming to Northville in July, 1976.

Mrs. Soper held a bachelor's degree from Morehead State University and a master's from Michigan State University.

She was a member of many professional and community organizations during her tenure in the education field.

She was an educational consultant for school districts throughout the nation as well as several colleges including University of Michigan, Miami University and Boston State College.

During her nine-year tenure in Northville, Mrs. Soper is credited with building the district's curriculum department. Under her leadership, the district adopted a textbook calendar for the replacement of textbooks and embarked on plans for its middle school program.

"She probably is one of the people I most admired," said school board president Jean Hansen. "She's the kind of person you could never replace."

In highlighting Mrs. Soper's contributions to the district, Hansen said her final project — the middle school plan — most likely was one of her greatest accomplishments.

"The whole middle school concept was her idea," Hansen noted. "She knew every facet of it."

The board of education gave its final stamp of approval to the middle school plan at its meeting last Monday night. The middle school program will be implemented at the start of the 1985-86 school year.

Born in Buckingham, Kentucky, May 26, 1939, to Willard and Delilah (Wadell) Osborne, Mrs. Soper, who previously was widowed, married John M. Hoben, superintendent of Plymouth schools, on December 19, 1980.

Mrs. Soper is survived by her husband and two step-children Michelle and John Hoben.

Other survivors include her three brothers Willard of Plymouth, Ohio, Robert of Martin, Kentucky, and Cecil of Birmingham, Alabama. Two sisters, Lou Nyman of Dearborn and Mrs. Robert (Ruby) Hartwick of Fort Gaye, West Virginia, also survive.

Funeral service was held March 2 at Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth. The Reverend Father Kenneth MacKinnon, pastor of Our Lady of Good Counsel, officiated. Burial was in Lit-chfield, Michigan.

The family requests memorial contributions be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

'Celebration of the Arts' slated March 16 at NHS

Residents will hear an original song written for Northville and see "The Popcorn Man," a 1984 film shot entirely in the community, in a multi-star evening March 16.

"Celebration of the Arts II" is being planned by the Northville Arts Commission to raise funds to support its work and to solicit community interest, members Cheryl Gazlay and Phelps Hines reported to city council Monday night.

The Celebration is being held at Northville High School and begins with a reception at 7:30 p.m.

Michiga Opera Theater will present "Northville Flavor," an original musical revue which includes a song written for Northville, at 8 p.m.

At 9:15 p.m. following intermission and the arts commission 1985 program announcement, "The Popcorn Man" will be shown. It will be introduced by its producer/director David Zarembo. Gazlay reported it already has won the Golden Halo award and is up for an Academy Award for short subjects.

Tickets for the evening are $7.50 and are available from Hines and Gazlay.

Gazlay said this is the first local showing of the movie which utilized the community for its setting.

Council members who had seen a preview reported it was "very professional" and said they found it fun to recognize local landmarks.

"We'll have our own song now," Gazlay told the council, "just like San Francisco and Chicago."

Urging council to support the evening, Gazlay and Hines noted that the $1,200 cost to bring the Michigan Opera Theater here would be recouped in the ticket price. They are hoping for a capacity audience of 450 in the high school auditorium.

Leaky roof damages businesses at Seven Mile mall

Janis Stevenson inspects damaged books

The weather was almost as bad inside Northville Plaza Mall Monday as it was outside.

Roof leaks near the west entrance of the Seven Mile mall brought down buckets of water throughout the day causing a handful of merchants to virtually close up shop.

Trash bins were scattered throughout the mall to catch water running from the roof and seeping through walls.

The roof problem seemed to be isolated in the central corridor between Perry Drugs and One Hour Martinizing at the lower end of the mall.

Worst hit was the Bookstop owned by Janis Stevenson. Water poured through the roof in the back of the shop as well as the entrance, soaking the carpet and leaving puddles of water across the hall floor.

"It's coming down like it's raining in here," said mall association president Dennis Nostrant, owner of All Seasons Flowers and Gifts.

Nostrant as well as other merchants

'I've had leaks where I've needed buckets ... but I've never had one third of the store unusable.'

— Janis Stevenson,
Bookstop owner

were on hand Monday night to help shop owners cover merchandise and mop out water.

Plastic sheets protected shelves of books in the front of the Bookstop. However, Stevenson said there was some damage in the back room where paperbacks are stored.

"There was minimal new book damage," Stevenson said. "We were lucky."

However, "it does nothing for your image," she noted, adding that customers bypassed the store throughout the day.

Stevenson said Monday's leak was the worst she has had since relocating her shop to the center of the mall.

"I've had leaks where I've needed buckets," she said. "But I've never had one third of the store unusable."

She said it most likely will take her the better part of the week to assess the damage and clean up the mess in her shop.

Bob Labadie, owner of One Hour Martinizing, said workers were able to reclaim items in his shop before water began pouring through the back roof. He added that makeshift canopies were erected to catch water leaking from the roof.

Nostrant noted that water began leaking around noon Monday and continued throughout the night. Maintenance workers were on hand to empty buckets of water throughout the evening. By Tuesday morning, merchants were mopping up the mess.

Nostrant said merchants were frustrated because they were unable to reach the mall management about the situation.

He said merchants have complained about past leaks but have had no response from landlord Chris Redding of Franklin Properties in Pontiac.

Redding could not be reached for comment Tuesday morning.

"My problem has been continuing for at least five years," said Hair Affair owner Joe Coshatt. "It's total neglect—the roof needs to be redone."

Labadie agreed with Coshatt noting that management has "done some patching, but the problem is so widespread it needs to be reroofed."

Nostrant said extensive water on the mall floor due to the leaks poses a health hazard for potential customers

Hoffman resigns Sliger/Livingston post

Jack W. Hoffman, vice president and general manager of Sliger/Livingston Publications, who was editor of The Northville Record before assuming his present position, is resigning to become owner of a small Northern Michigan newspaper.

Hoffman, who suffered a heart attack in August, 1984, said he is making the change for health reasons as a "complete change in lifestyle is necessary to minimize the chance of a recurrence of that illness."

Noting that he and his wife Joan have been area residents for 26 years and very involved in the community, Hoffman said "it is no easy matter to say goodbye ... on the one hand I am genuinely saddened by it all; on the other, my family and I are excited and anxious to experience this new chapter in journalism in a totally different environment."

His resignation becomes effective April 12.

For his many civic contributions Jack Hoffman was named Citizen of the Year for 1981 by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. He was cited for his dedication to Kiwanis and his active support of its work with retarded children and for his historical involvements in Northville.

Northville's acknowledged historian, Hoffman is the author of "Northville—the First 100 Years," a history of the community from 1827 to 1927. In a project begun by local Quakers in 1971 with the goal of producing the history for the Bicentennial in 1976, Hoffman wrote the book, donating all proceeds to the Northville Historical Society for its work in Mill Race Historical Village.

His wife Joan assisted in the project. They also have been co-editors of the Mill Race Quarterly. He is a past president of the Northville Historical Society; she presently is a member of the board of directors and its secretary.

Hoffman is donating his entire collection of Northville memorabilia to the historical society.

Joan Hoffman also is resigning her position effective April 5 as executive secretary of the R.A. DeMattia Company.

Hoffman has been a member of South Lyon and Northville Kiwanis clubs.

A native of Flint, Hoffman is a journalism graduate of the University of Michigan. He joined The Record editorial staff in 1959 after two years as police reporter of the Saginaw News. Except for a two-year stint in 1964-66 on the General Motors public relations staff, he has been associated with this newspaper organization ever since.

As he was recognized as Citizen of the Year, he also received resolutions of appreciation from the State Legislature and from the Wayne County Commission for his community service.

In 1978 he was named National Suburban Journalist of the Year, receiving the award in Phoenix.

He and his wife Joan are parents of six children. Becky, 16, the youngest, will be accompanying them on their move north. They have sold their home on Langfield Drive.

Chris Maloney's project was a clean-up of the Rouge River

Eagle Scouts improve community

By B.J. MARTIN

People who don't know much about scouting may yawn when they read about another young man promoted to Eagle Scout. That's nice, they think. But it doesn't affect me.

Not so.

Wherever there's an Eagle Scout, there's a community service project. It's a requirement for the award, and it must be deemed substantial enough to merit the strict demands of the Gemini (Detroit Area) District Council.

The two most recent projects in the Northville community have been the work of newly-inducted Eagle Scouts Chris Maloney and Ken Jacobsen.

Each of the Scouts was required to direct a volunteer service project which directly benefited their community.

Maloney, a senior at Southfield Christian, oversaw a project to clean up the Rouge River last summer.

Working with city officials and with property owner Frank Kocian, Maloney analyzed the job to figure out the best application of manpower.

When it was completed, the project had involved 36 scouts, 10 summer weekends between June and August last year, and 224 total man-hours of volunteer cleanup work at various points along the river from north of Eight Mile Road and as far south as the Mill Pond.

The differences in the Rouge were largely cosmetic — it's going to take more than one summer to fix up the Rouge — but the exhaustive photographic documentation Maloney compiled for his report demonstrated visible results.

Graffiti on the train bridge was camouflaged. Blocks of concrete bridge posts were hoisted from the bottom of the river by a pulley rig. Heavy oil drums bogged down with silt were hauled out of the river. Dead trees were cleared away from the river's path and returned to areas that would permit natural decomposition.

Kocian joined in the project, planting some eroding patches of soil with vegetation and providing equipment for the cleanup.

"When we finished," Maloney said, "The water was cleaner, there were no logjams. It looked more presentable, closer to its natural state. It was a marked improvement."

Ken Jacobsen's project was overseeing the installation last fall of playground equipment bought by the Moraine Elementary Parent Teachers Association. Jacobsen, a former Moraine student, now attends Northville High School.

The playground equipment included a Log Roll, a Roller Coaster and a Trojan Horse.

In arranging his task, Jacobsen found himself in some heavy-duty maneuvering. He arranged for a cement truck to mix 1,200 pounds of concrete needed to anchor the equipment, a back-hoe to dig post holes, and a five-person work force to do the labor.

Basic or premium, Omnicom rates will rise April 1

By KEVIN WILSON

One way or another, Omnicom cable television subscribers in Northville and Northville Township are going to see a price increase April 1, said general manager Rick Collman in a presentation before city council February 25.

Whether it will be $1.60 added to the basic service rate or more than $3 tacked onto each premium service (primarily movie channels and PASS) depends on the action of local government, he said.

The city council subsequently approved the $1.60 rate increase for basic service on a 4-1 vote, mayor Paul Vernon the sole dissenter. Northville Township will determine how its subscribers will be affected March 14.

Under the franchise agreement between Omnicom and local governments, the governments are given approval authority over increases in basic rates, while premium services are unregulated. New federal law effective December 31 of last year, however, removes all rate regulation as of January 1, 1987, and allows five percent basic rate increases in both 1985 and 1986 regardless of local government approval.

Omnicom first requested a rate increase of $2 per month on basic service last summer. It would have lifted the $7.95 service charge to $9.95. With the new law, Omnicom raised rates 40 cents on January 1, basic service rising to $8.35. Collman said the firm needs the remaining $1.60.

To get it, he said, Omnicom must either receive approval of the basic rate increase or gain the same amount by raising premium service costs by $3.25 or more. He explained that roughly 50 percent of premium service rate is forwarded to the movie networks such as HBO and Showtime who supply the programming.

"What we hope to do is keep the increase low for everyone," Collman said. "Less than 9 percent of our subscribers have basic service only. That means 91 percent have at least one premium service, 75 percent have HBO. Our average customer pays us between $25 and $26 a month. We would rather see that rise to $27 or $28 than have it move up toward $30 or more."

He said the firm is "very concerned" that the premium service increase would result in exceptional "churn" as customers who take two premium services canceled one or chose cheaper services instead. The churn, he said, would likely result in most customers taking one premium service rather than two, making the $3.25 hike necessary to generate $1.60 for Omnicom.

Vernon said, "It kind of troubles me to hear most of the subscribers get HBO and Cinemax. I am familiar with the quality of programming on those, and I'm distressed to hear that most subscribers are taking them."

"Let's assume council did approve the $1.60. Apparently you've calculated

'Our average customer pays us between $25 and $26 a month. We would rather see that rise to $27 or $28 than have it move up toward $30 or more.'

— Rick Collman,
Omnicom general manager

that if you increase rates, you probably won't lose customers," he asked.

Collman said the $1.60 basic rate hike took effect in Hamtramck January 1. Noting that the demographics of the community are different, Collman said, "We haven't had one letter, haven't had one angry phone call and the fall off has been nil. We are worried about fall off with premium channels."

Vernon suggested that most of those who subscribe only to the basic service "probably do so out of financial restraints—that's all they can afford."

He suggested that the rate increase be split between basic and premium service—80 cents on basic and $1.60 on pay channels.

"One of the things I don't like about increasing rates on the pays is that we can't predict the churn," Collman responded. "My gut feeling is if we're going to increase on pays, I'd just as soon do it on all the pays (in all the communities), rather than have three rate structures. We're willing to have two rate structures in western Wayne, but having one that applied to Plymouth and Plymouth Township, another that applied to less than 1,000 subscribers in your city and a third in Northville or Canton townships, I don't want to get into that."

Although the Northville Township board of trustees has yet to hear Collman's presentation, members have been following the debate in other communities. Statements made at the last board meeting indicate a willingness to allow the company to set prices as it deems necessary.

The five western Wayne County communities served by the cable franchise—both Northvilles, both Plymouths and Canton Township—asked last summer for documentation showing the basic rate hike (then at $2) was needed.

A review of the company's books by auditors Plante & Moran was commissioned by Plymouth Township and completed December 3. It essentially said that Omnicom, a subsidiary of Capital Cities Communications, has been posting operating losses since its inception. Projected losses for 1985 at the former $7.95 basic rate were estimated at $4.09 million, the smallest so far. The report also said Omnicom of Michigan is generating a negative return on investment, and would likely continue to do so for the next 15 years without a rate increase, according to Collman.

Noting the 1987 deregulation of the cable television industry, however, Plante & Moran also suggested the communities might want to review unfulfilled contractual obligations of the franchise agreement before granting rate increases.

Plymouth and Plymouth Township both rejected the $1.60 hike, citing failure to comply with the contract provisions requiring installation of an institutional and special services network, and systems for home security, fire alarm, medical and emergency alert systems. The number of channels being provided for basic service, the Plante & Moran report noted, is also less than was promised. Premium service rates in Plymouth rise by $3.25 this month, Collman said.

Questioned on the failure to provide alarm services, Collman told Northville City Council the company had made a sincere effort to supply the service.

"That system was to use the reverse capabilities we installed—the hardware is there, we made the investment, and it's operating fine," he said. "We've been talking to security companies, and, frankly, nobody's interested. There is nothing we can provide them that they can't do already through the phone leads. We made a substantial investment in putting in the reverse lines and we'd like to see them used, but we simply can not find anyone to use them."

Collman said a separate report to council on this issue will be forthcoming.

But Vernon pointed to the failure to provide security systems and said "Maybe that's an example of glaring inefficiency. It seems inconceivable to me that your management would promise it without making sure it could fulfill the promise."

Collman said that when the franchise was granted in the late 1970s "security systems were a hot topic—it showed a lot of potential. There were things that were very promising that didn't fly."

In contrast to critical remarks about the firm's failures to live up to the franchise agreement, township treasurer Richard Henningsen said during a February board meeting, "I guess I just don't get what Plymouth's kick is—nobody really watches those institutional, those local channels anyway, do they?"

Our Opinions

White hats? Yes Whitewash? No

We offered "white hats" to city and township leaders if they could amicably settle their disagreement about annexation of Baseline Road properties. Consider it done — the city mayor and township supervisor are hereby deemed owners of white hats. They earned them by seeing past the narrow interests of the two governments and serving the larger community.

The offer of white hats was part of an editorial suggesting there were no clear right or wrong sides to the issue — that everyone was wearing gray hats. We noted failures on both sides that might be resolved through communication. City mayor Paul Vernon and township supervisor Susan Heintz have since discussed the issue and both abandoned previously obstinate positions that stood in the way of resolving it.

Vernon and his city council had refused to extend water service to a property in the township, risking the loss of an industrial asset — Normac, Incorporated. Heintz had stated a concrete position against annexations of any sort. Both changed their stands. Vernon advised council to reverse its vote and offer water to Normac. And Heintz concedes the sense of allowing Parmenter's Cider Mill to be annexed to the city without opposition.

This is the sort of common sense approach we advocated. You wouldn't know that from the mayor's comments during last week's city council meeting, however. Although he did not mention any names or organizations, it was perfectly clear that his comments about "those who seek out any hint of controversy" were directed toward this newspaper's coverage of the annexation issues.

To ignore or downplay the issue, as Mayor Paul Vernon evidently thinks we should have, would be to renege on our duty to keep the public informed. One of the more important developments of the past five years is the improved relations between city and township. Whenever our reporters and editors see that threatened, we will treat it as important news.

Unfortunately, we must depart from our praise of the mayor to say this: his hyper-sensitivity to criticism is getting tiresome. Our motivations in covering this issue were no less sincere than the mayor's in his actions. The stories and editorial accurately related what all the parties said and did. Had it not, Vernon might have been justified in his remarks. As it is, his unwarranted comments say more about an inclination to blame the messenger than they say about the message. He should know that earning a genuine white hat is much better than splashing a gray one with whitewash.

C.A. will be missed

At a time of life when most senior citizens are letting others assist them, Charles A. Smith was spending his retirement years helping those less fortunate. His death February 22 just six days shy of his 92nd birthday is a loss to the entire community.

An active Rotarian, "C.A." as most knew him, recruited workers for Easter Seal and Goodfellow annual canister collections from among his fellow club members and from area police departments. In 1983, when Goodfellows continued to receive requests for help after Christmas, he founded Civic Concern, a local emergency help organization.

Others said "there is no real need here," but C.A. knew better. When a storage area for supplies could not be found, he donated his garage space. Ann Roy, who served on the Civic Concern board with Mr. Smith, said it well: "He lived a very simple life, but he had a heart bigger than he was."

It was appropriate that the flag in front of city hall was flown at half-mast a week ago Tuesday as his friend and fellow worker in Civic Concern, the Reverend Austin Denney of Meadowbrook Christian Church, officiated at the funeral. Mr. Smith would have liked that.

Charges unfounded

Of all the arguments against the township's Haggerty sewer project, one stands out as absurd. That is the assertion, often made at the last public hearing, that the township board's motivation in constructing the sewer is so that it can have more money to spend.

True, the new sewer will allow development of the Haggerty corridor. True, also, that development equates to a larger tax base, increasing the township's revenues. And, unfortunately for those who own property in the area, the availability of a sewer will likely lead to increased property values and higher tax bills.

Those given to a belief in conspiracies and simplistic answers see in those facts evidence of a government interested only in lining its own pockets. We are not so naive as to claim that governments never act that way, but do not see any reason to believe it is the case in Northville Township.

There are a dozen reasons to build the Haggerty sewer, tax base expansion among them. A larger tax base lessens the pressure to increase the millage rate, doing a service for all the citizens. Development also means increased economic activity, meaning jobs for individuals and income for local businesses. Another reason is that property owners are being deprived of the use of their land in several areas where septic systems won't work. Another is that, as the population expands, septic systems become a less and less effective means of wastewater disposal. Another is that the interceptor would improve efficiency of the water and sewer department.

We believe all those reasons, and others, are motivating the township board to build the sewer. The members of that board were elected to serve the township and, we believe, are acting in what they think is the best interest of the citizens. It is fair to question the assumptions that go into making their decision. It is fair to question the way assessments were divided among property owners, and fair to express one's disagreement with the board's actions. What is unfair is to attribute motivations to others without evidence, or to claim they are puppets of someone else.

A new chapter for Jack

By Jean Day

Elsewhere in this issue of The Record there is a story about the resignation of Jack W. Hoffman as vice president and general manager of Sliger/Livingston Publications. His decision to leave the organization is based on health reasons after suffering a heart attack last summer.

Prior to his present position, Jack was editor of The Record. He joined the editorial staff in 1959 — and for 26 years has been an active member of the community, giving generously of his time to historical projects and Kiwanis programs. As a part-time staffer initially and then, since 1973, as a full-time writer, I am one of those who fully realizes how much his quarter of a century in the community has meant. Jack not only has given of his time and talent but, above all, he has done so enthusiastically.

On the January Saturday in 1982 when he was named Citizen of the Year, he had spent the morning picking up children for the bowling program Kiwanis runs for the retarded. Whenever workers were needed to man Kiwanis booths at civic events, Jack regularly was a volunteer.

Jack's enthusiasm extended to whatever he was doing — from writing a series like Going Like 60 (on active senior citizens) to researching early editors of The Record. I well remember when Sally Burke, a former staff member, and I mentioned that old tombstones in local cemeteries would make an interesting feature. Since this was a midwinter inspiration, we added it would be a great spring feature. Jack enthusiastically agreed but saw no reason to wait for better weather. Sally and I shortly afterward found ourselves brushing snow off markers.

While Jack has not been a "hands on" journalist in his present position in the Howell headquarters of the corporation, he continued to live in Northville and serve on the historic district commission. He is leaving behind a lasting contribution to the community's history in "Northville — the First 100 Years."

Such involvement makes leaving more difficult, he admits, but the opportunity to do what he does so well — write — engenders very apparent enthusiasm. I am happy for him and appreciative of the years of working for him. With his encouragement at all times, I have learned much about newspapering and also about our town.

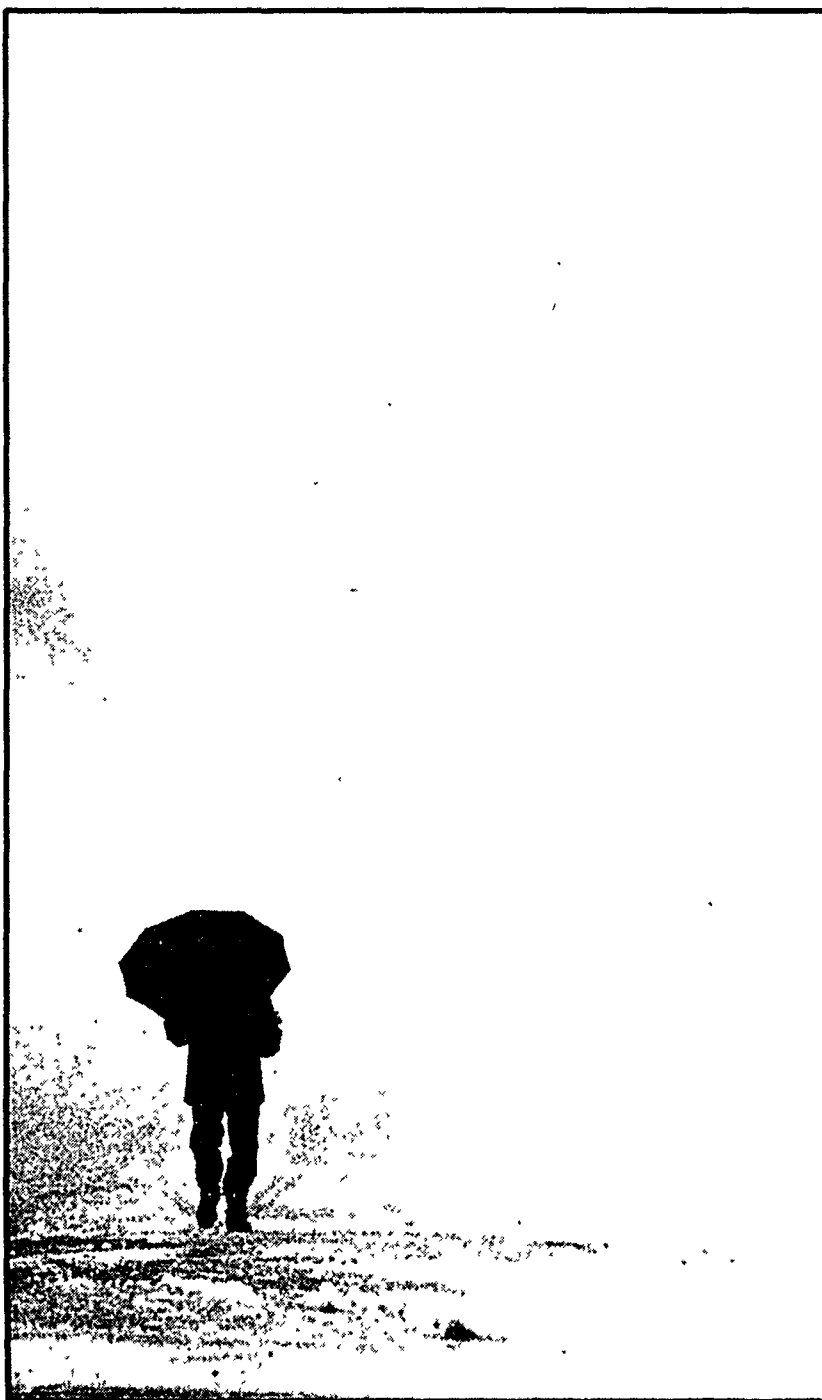

Coincidentally, today's mail brought the kind of information Jack loved to receive. A letter from former resident Ron Rose, now of Sun City Center, Florida, included an 1862 clipping about Frank S. Neal, then editor of The Record. Rose notes that he is well acquainted with Northville as he was "assistant manager for the Geo. Clark Hardware Co. on Center Street during the late '40s." Rose wrote that the clipping was found "among some of my wife's grandfather's things he had collected while being a railroad man."

The clipping is headed "The Railroad Man who Engineers the Northville Record." It relates that Neal was 16 when he "commenced the study of railroad business and telegraphy with H. Seward Miller, now chief train dispatcher on one of the Lehigh Valley systems ... in 1879 he started for Michigan with $14.65 in his pocket." After nearly nine years of railroading in Michigan, the article continues, he "engaged in the merchantile business." In May of 1891 it says he purchased the Northville Record. "By hard work (Neal) has succeeded in putting it on a paying basis. Neal did not know a printing press from a corn sheller, or one face of type from another, but the enlargement of his paper from a patent inside folio to a six column quarto, and its otherwise improved appearance, denote that he is a rapid learner and today he puts up a paper comparing favorably with any of the size in the state." At that time the Record was nearing its 24th birthday.

In 1969 Jack Hoffman was editor of the centennial edition of The Record, writing about our businesses, people and industries. Until his promotion to Howell, he wrote a weekly column focusing on family, friends and the community. It's good to know his byline will appear again "up north."

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I did an article in last week's paper which was entitled "Heroes" and ran on the front of the Our Town Section.

The truth of the matter is that it didn't really take a lot of work. Arlen Schroeder, a Novi City Council member, sent me an essay about heroes that he wrote several years ago, and that comprised the lead story on the page. All I did was call several people around town to ask who their heroes were.

Frankly, I was a little disappointed. Only one of the people I called (Del Black) said I was his hero. And then he sort of laughed about it ... as if it had been some kind of joke.

But it was a fun piece to do. I solicited the help of the staff by asking them to name people I should call. I only called about half of them before reaching 24 inches — the cutoff point for the length of the article. I never got around to calling some of the people we thought would give us good answers.

We also had a lot of fun trying to guess which people would name which heroes.

And some of the answers we received were humorous. One iron-gloved local administrator jokingly said his hero was Benito Mussolini because "he made the trains run on time."

Presidents were popular: Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and George Washington were named along with Dwight Eisenhower, although Ike didn't make it into print. I was surprised nobody said John F. Kennedy.

We also played at naming our own heroes. Kevin Wilson cited a former automotive writer for the Detroit News. My wife said her hero was Edith Wilson because she unofficially ran the U.S. government when her husband, President Woodrow Wilson, was paralyzed with a stroke. Due to her efforts, the League of Nations was formed.

My own hero? I have several, really. I like Winston Churchill a lot because he was a tough, hard-nosed leader during a major crisis and also because he was such an eloquent orator. I've always admired people who have a way with words.

I finally settled on Mark Twain. He was a journalist, a writer and a humorist, and he had a great deal of content beneath the humorous exterior. Yep, I definitely enjoyed doing the "heroes" story. Maybe we'll try it again some time.

How can schools justify Moraine day care plans?

To the Editor:
As a concerned resident, I feel many questions were raised by the article, "Plans for Moraine approved" highlighted in the February 13 issue of The Record.

It was my understanding that Moraine school was closed to save the taxpayers undue energy and utility costs. We are now informed it will be reopened as a child care facility to meet the so-called "demand" for day care and preschool programs. It is all very well to state there is a need, but how can a survey based on the whole of the United States be applied to Northville? We have numerous day care and preschool facilities within one mile radius of Moraine School, none of which are full at this time.

I would ask Dr. Bell if any of the existing day care and preschool centers were asked to contribute information and/or statistics to help the board of education in arriving at its decision to provide more day care.

Having contacted the following day care and preschools in the Northville area, I know this decision came as a surprise to them and that they were not asked for any information relating to a survey, and all have confirmed that they do have vacancies:

Little Hornbook — Andrea Lenzi;
Willowbrook Farm Nursery & Day Care School — Lane Norton;
Northville/Novi Montessori — Geetna Rao;
William Allan Academy — Val Hambleton;
Northville Co-op Preschool — Sue Shepard.

Also, they informed me a noted decline in enrollment has occurred over the past two years.

My questions relating to the operation and subsequent finding of this venture are many. I want to know:

1. Why Moraine was not sold, as we were led to believe it would be? Is it being "saved" for future use "down the road"?

2. Where is the money that will be raised from tuition going?

3. Why was taxpayers' money used to print, duplicate and mail questionnaire/survey to every household in the Northville area?

4. How can Dr. Bell hope to set up a full program (as indicated in the article) without any capital investment? Are we to believe that an operation of this scale can be organized and set up without using some of our taxpayers' education today? The costs involved in setting up a center include: a) licensing, b) health inspection, c) fire inspection, d) making modifications outlined by both health & fire inspectors, e) materials, f) and teachers' fees, to name a few. These expenses need to be covered ahead of opening the doors, before the tuition comes in. Is the Northville Board of Education "hoodwinking" the community again?

5. How can the facility have been approved by the state inspector without a program being projected, or any tour of the inside and outside equipment being made?

6. Is our K through 12 grade program so excellent in Northville that it wouldn't benefit from an injection of funds that would enact the programs? I would like to remind readers that it is not mandatory in this state to send children to school until they reach six years of age.

7. Does the taxpaying Northville resident know that funding for special education has been almost halved?

8. Has anyone taken a serious look at the state of disrepair our school buses are in?

9. Should it not be a choice made by parents as to whether they send their children to preschool?

In conclusion I feel that the taxpaying residents of Northville haven't been anywhere near fully informed by the board of education as to how their education dollars are being spent. Decisions have been made and approved without the same publicity being preffered as was given to the afore mentioned article. Please let us all be aware of what Dr. Bell is planning to do — going into business, setting it up with our money, charging us for the service, obviously planning to make a profit, and then what? Institutionalize our children at 2½ years of age? Will we see any of that profit circulated back into our schools — I wonder.

Yours sincerely,
Concerned Taxpayer

Who wants the sewer?

To the Editor:

Who or what is behind the drive for the Haggerty Road Sewer?

On at least six separate occasions the Northville Township supervisor has been asked this question with no reply — except to say that it has always been in the master plan.

But who wants the sewer?

The Township Board?

The real estate speculators who influence the board?

According to the board of trustees last night (February 21), Novi doesn't want it. Meijer Thrifty Acres doesn't want it. Plymouth Township doesn't want it. And the citizens of Northville Township do not want it.

Why then does Mrs. Heintz and the board of trustees keep pressing for the sewer?

The only reason given at last night's board meeting was that it would increase the tax base or that Northville

Township might lose out on commercial development without the sewer.

If increasing the tax base is the only reason, then the whole board and Mrs. Heintz should be recalled. They are obviously simply looking for increased taxes to spend — not for the individual citizens and homeowners of Northville Township.

Can you get an answer to this simple question? We have tried on at least half a dozen times with no success.

Patrick A. Coyne

Keep the letters coming

by Kevin Wilson

This page is yours.

In newspaper-talk, this is "op-ed." That's a shorthand way of saying it is the page opposite Editorials, next to the newspaper's own opinion page. It is customarily reserved for opinions other than the paper's own. Big daily newspapers run their syndicated columnists over here. The Record long has put letters from readers on this page.

That's what I mean when I say the page is yours. Ideally, the op-ed page is an open forum for opinions of all kinds. Good newspapers offer this space to encourage open debate of community issues. It also serves to counteract any tendency for the newspaper's opinions to dominate. "Freedom of the press," some wise fellow, whose name escapes me, once said, "belongs to the man who owns one." Op-ed pages are a way for modern newspapers to try to balance that tendency by affording space, our most precious commodity, to other points of view.

Why all this explanation from Journalism 101? In part because I'm happy we have a couple of letters of substance in this week's edition of The Record. That pleases me because back in December, when we underwent a corporate reorganization, one of my new duties became directing the editorial and op-ed pages for The Record and the Novi News. Someone threw the title "editorial page director" at me, but it never showed up on the masthead (or in my paycheck) so I guess it's just another job atop my regular duties. I take the responsibility seriously, though, and hope we can do some new and interesting things to serve our readers.

Don't get the idea that everything you read on the editorial page is my doing. A large part of my job is just seeing that there is "something" over there by watching for news items we might want to express an opinion about and suggesting ideas during a weekly meeting of our entire staff. Consensus opinion defines the next week's editorial topics and positions, and the final say belongs to the editors. The editorials are written by individual staff members, but the content is a group effort. So if Krazy Kevin loses his marbles one week, there is a system to insure we don't come out in favor of a communist takeover or propose the designation of a red-light district on Main Street.

This is a small paper serving a fairly small area. Unlike the big-city dailies, we can print every letter we receive.

Local resident injured

A 45-year-old Northville man is reported in "stable" condition following a head-on collision on Eight Mile Road early Sunday morning.

Anthony Michael Ventura, 45, presently in the Acute Care Unit of Botsford General Hospital, was injured when his westbound car was struck head-on near Griswold by a car driven by 20-year-old Robert Dale Hollandsworth of Wayne.

Novi City Police reported learning of the accident at 12:54 a.m. Sunday. Upon their arrival at the scene, both Ventura and Hollandsworth were visibly injured.

City Blotter

Cash box stolen at library

City police are investigating the theft of a cashbox containing approximately $800 from the Northville Public Library between Wednesday night and Friday morning last week. "A few" suspects have been questioned in connection with the theft, but no charges made as of yesterday morning.

Police responded to an attempted suicide by a Dearborn Heights woman at Northville Downs Friday. According to reports, at 7:15 p.m. Friday, the woman was in the River Street barns area of the track grounds when she used a razor blade to cut both of her wrists, neither deeply enough to affect the main arteries. She was transported to St. Mary Hospital, then treated and taken to Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Two 18-year-old Northville High School students were found to be in possession of what appeared to be marijuana on school grounds at 7:10 a.m. Friday. Police are investigating the contents of two confiscated bags of the substance. Each of the students had one bag in a coat pocket.

Firefighters battle blaze

For the second time in less than a week, township firefighters battled a blaze at the abandoned Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road.

Fire chief Robert Toms said firefighters responded to the scene at approximately 7 p.m. Sunday after township police patrolling the area noticed the blaze.

Toms said the fire, which burned about one third of the roof on the former laundry building, was contained within two and half hours. Arson is suspected, he noted.

"It was blazing merrily by the time we got there," Toms said, noting that the fire had been burning five to six hours before firefighters were called to the scene.

He said damage was contained to the tile roof and part of the ceiling and noted that he was uncertain what caused the blaze.

A week ago Monday, firefighters battled a blaze that gutted a portion of the main school building on the property.

Toms said fires on the former Wayne County Child Development Center property have been an ongoing problem for police and fire officials.

He said the property is too large for the departments to patrol and noted that owners of the abandoned county property may be meeting with township officials to discuss the security problem.

Land sale tied to DeHoCo prison funds

porary prisoner housing at DeHoCo.

Law and senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville Township) are working on having other amendments made to the supplemental appropriations bill expected to clear the Senate this week, hoping to control state use of DeHoCo.

The bill will be sent to the House and may be altered there, meaning Law will have to protect any gains made in the Senate bill that come under attack. The legislators are hoping bi-partisan support for the actions will lead to working majorities in their favor, having allied themselves with Democratic legislators whose districts are also targeted for prisons.

The amendments, based in part on a joint resolution of Northville and Plymouth townships, would put a cap on the number of prisoners to be housed in the two communities and instate a moratorium on new institutional uses here.

The cap would limit the number of prisoners at the present Phoenix Correctional Facility to 311, at the under-construction Scott Regional prison to 550 and at a renovated DeHoCo to 500. The administration's latest plan for DeHoCo calls for 750 inmates to be housed there.

Another amendment, to be introduced in the Joint Capital Outlay Committee (JCOC), would prevent the state from constructing new perimeter fencing at DeHoCo unless it buys the site from Detroit.

JCOC must approve capital improvement purchases. The fencing proposed for DeHoCo would cost some $2 million. "By tying the fence to a purchase, we may be able to stop them from leasing the facility from Detroit," Law said. "They'd have to buy it if they wanted to use it."

But how much the state would pay Detroit for the DeHoCo property is an open question. "They had an appraisal done and they're negotiating a price," Law said. "We had a meeting with the management and budget people yesterday, and they wouldn't tell us what the appraisal showed. You can't get any numbers out of these people."

The second-term legislator suggested getting hard figures on the state corrections department plans may be impossible until the legislature approves a budget for next year. Governor James Blanchard's "zero growth" budget, he said, does not show the entire spending plan.

"What they want to do is pass a zero budget and then come back to us three or four months later with a $100 million supplemental bill," Law claimed. "That doesn't show up in the budget and they won't come up with the figures."

He said the current budget proposal includes prison construction money, but none to operate the prisons once they are built. "Our budgets today don't reflect the cost of operating the Scott Regional Facility," Law said. The new prison at Beck and Five Mile was due to open next January, but prison expansion plans call for accelerated construction and completion by this September. The budget being prepared would govern 1985-86 fiscal year spending, beginning in October.

"Somewhere, they've got to come up with where they're going to get the money to run these prisons," Law said. "To give you an idea, they've got $6 million in this supplemental to operate DeHoCo for six months. Now, that's without a single capital improvement — just operating costs for 750 beds. We're supposed to be dealing with a budget, and it says we're going to build prisons, but it doesn't have one dime in it to operate them once they're built."

Tax protests are heard

• Lakes of Northville — A five percent increase on houses, 15 percent on land;

• Park Gardens — All houses up five percent;

• North Beacon Woods — Land values up 10 percent, houses up five percent;

• Northville Colony III — Land values up 10 to 15 percent, houses up five percent;

• Docksey Subdivision — Land values up 15 percent;

• Whipple Estates and Taft Colony — 10 percent increases on land only;

• Hillcrest Manor — Land values increased by up to 20 percent;

• Quail Ridge — Land values up 10 percent;

• Grandview Acres — Most land values increased 15 percent.

Heintz noted that a previous reassessment, evaluating sales during the recent recession, had resulted in property values being downgraded in Quail Ridge, North Beacon Woods and the Lakes of Northville. With renewed growth in those relatively new subdivisions over the past year, sales prices have increased and the land values recovered.

Both Oakland and Wayne County portions of the city saw property valuations either remain steady or decrease.

Sewer plan protested

estimated to cost $258,504 with an estimated cost per lot of $5,276.

Walters told the council that the assessment district was based on the petition of Roux for a sewer to serve the vacant lots and that 11 lots with homes already built were affected.

"The residents have made it clear what they would like us to do is reduce the roll," council member G. Dewey Gardner observed as the hearing closed.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha, a Northville Estates resident, said that he and the other residents are "gambling that what we have is going to last and we hope our stay won't outlive our septic systems."

"I see no opposition to the sewer being run as long as people are not made to pay for it at this time."

Council member Paul Folino questioned whether owners of the adjacent properties planned as two subdivisions were ready to develop. Vernon said no, reporting that one piece of property still is in probate.

The Northville Record

Only Western's Barrie Muzbeck kept Mandy Walts (above) from being the top conference gymnast

Mandy's just dandy, top division gymnast

Take away Barrie Muzbeck, Walled Lake Western's candidate for the '88 U.S. Olympic Team, and Northville's Mandy Walts and Diane Hale would be the talk of last Saturday's Western Lakes conference gymnastics meet.

But Muzbeck swept first place in every event, and her class-by-itself performance probably hurt the two Northville seniors more than anyone else who competed.

Put simply, were it not for Muzbeck, Walts would be all-around gymnastics champion of the Western Lakes Activities Association. Were it not for Muzbeck, Walts would have conference championship medals in balance beam and vault, and Hale would have a conference championship in uneven parallel bars. Were it not for Muzbeck, Northville might have come close to posting a divisional championship.

That's one way to look at it. Another way is to point out that Walts and Hale, along with their teammates, performed superbly at the meet.

"The kids did great," said Northville Coach Michelle Charniga. "All our total all-around scores helped. Everyone had to be in it for us to do as well as we did."

Walts earned division championships in all-around competition, vault and beam, while Hale won a division championship in uneven parallel bars.

The Mustangs scored 122.15 points at Saturday's meet to take fifth in the conference, third in the Western Division. North Farmington claimed first place with 132.0 points, followed by Farmington Harrison and Western, who tied for second with 128.1 points each, Plymouth Salem (125.30), Northville, Plymouth Canton, Livonia Churchill, Farmington and Walled Lake Central.

Walts scored 8.6 in vault, followed by teammates Hale (8.2, eighth overall), Tonia Hickman (7.5), Kim Wobermin and Cheryl Lane (7.0 each).

In parallel bars, Hale scored 8.55, followed by Walts (8.15, 11th overall), Hickman (7.45), Wobermin (6.15) and Donna Dunnabeck (4.6).

In balance beam, Walts scored an 8.5, followed by Hale (7.8), Hickman (7.3), Wobermin (6.7) and Lane (5.85). In a very competitive floor exercise battle, Walts took sixth overall with a score of 8.3, followed by Hale (8.05), Hickman (a career high 7.9) and Lane (6.0).

Walts' four performances totaled 33.55, second overall to Muzbeck. Hale placed ninth in overall scoring with a total of 32.60.

The previous Tuesday, Harrison nipped Northville 124.75-122.75, outpointing the Mustangs in floor exercise for the meet. Hale took firsts in vault (8.25) and uneven bars (8.45), while Walts took firsts in beam (8.4) and floor exercise (8.7).

Hickman registered a personal-best score of 7.8 in balance beam at the meet.

On Thursday, Northville edged surprisingly strong Clarenceville 118.25. Clarenceville's slippery uneven bars caused Northville some problems in the event. "The top bar was like ice," Charniga said. Indeed, the highest score Northville could manage was Walts' 7.75.

Walts and Hale again dominated the meet, but fine showings were also turned in by Wobermin in beam (7.9, a personal best) and Hickman in vault (7.7, which took third place).

Spikers break Churchill jinx

Walled Lake Central brought a quick end to Northville's hopes of a district volleyball title last week, dealing the Mustangs a 9-15, 15-5, 3-15 defeat Tuesday.

Northville needed to beat Central to advance to the Class A District Tournament at Lakeland last weekend. While the Vikings didn't overwhelm Northville in the match, Mustang Coach Steve McDonald acknowledged his team "didn't have a lot of continuity."

"I was pleased with how we played in the first two games," he explained. "But after that we just couldn't get our serve receptions down. We weren't moving very well, and they just started putting it down our throat."

McDonald said he was encouraged by the consistent serves of Nicki LaRoque (10 serves, none bad), Bev Henderson (eight serves, one bad) and Lynn Frellick (six serves, one bad).

Erin Ryan turned in a solid performance on the front line, slamming 12 good hits, just two bad, one dink, three blocked shots. Henderson and Frellick made good efforts as well, combining for 11 good hits, three bad, with Henderson adding two "kills" off of dinks.

Northville's next game, a well-played 15-7, 10-15, 15-10 win over Livonia Churchill, turned out to set much better with McDonald.

"The girls played very well, very consistent volleyball from start to finish," he said. "That's only the second time we've beaten Churchill. The first time was the first year I came here."

Frellick had the best game of her career in the opening game, ripping off eight straight point-winning serves to take Northville from a 7-7 tie straight through to a 15-7 win.

"They just couldn't stop her," McDonald said.

Frellick finished the night with 18 good serves, including four aces, with three bad. Close behind were Henderson (12 good serves, two bad) and LaRoque (12 good serves, three bad).

It was Senior Night, and seniors Henderson and Ryan responded with some outstanding front line play. Ryan pummeled 15 good hits, just two bad, made two kills and five blocks. Henderson made 10 good hits, four for kills and blocked five.

Northville volleyball partisans got a look at the wave of the future as well. Frellick and sophomores Strunk and Tricia Ducker, all of whom will return next year, turned in strong games up front, combining for 15 good hits, three bad and four kills.

Junior back-row players LaRoque and Chris McGowan, McDonald noted, "didn't have a bad set all night and were passing much better." Also playing well was Mandy Olgren, who contributed 10 good passes, three bad.

The week's activity left Northville with an 8-13 record, 5-8 in the WLAA and 4-4 in the Western Division, including a forfeit by Plymouth Canton.

Mustang tankers fourth at conference meet

By B.J. MARTIN

Lakes Division teams nabbed the first three spots at the Western Lakes Activities Association Swim Meet Saturday, but Northville led all Western Division contenders with a fourth-place overall finish.

"All but a couple of our guys swam their best times ever," said Northville Coach Derek Gans, "so I'm pretty pleased with how it went."

Livonia Stevenson in first place and Plymouth Salem in second far outstripped the rest of the field. Farmington took third, followed by Northville, Livonia Churchill, Plymouth Canton, Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Western, Farmington Harrison and Livonia Bentley.

Northville's best finisher was diver Jeff Pawloski, who ran up an 11-day total of 376.8 for second place. Pawloski was at his best in the meet, but he was overshadowed somewhat by Canton's sensational Andy Flower. Flower was first by a margin of nearly 30 points.

Other Northville medalists at the meet were:

- Darius Mikalonis, fourth in the 200 individual medley (2:10.50);
- Jeff Bainbridge, third in the 100 backstroke (58.05), fifth in the 100 butterfly (55.07);
- Doug Buell, sixth in the 100 butterfly (57.02).

Scoring points for Northville with finishes in the top 12 were:

- Dave Wayne, fourth in the 200 freestyle (1:54.71), 11th in the 100 butterfly;
- Buell, seventh in the 200 I.M. (2:11.3);
- Ron Johnston, seventh in the 50 free (23.38);
- Mikalonis, 10th in the 500 free (5:11.15);
- Paul Stoecklin, 12th in the 100 backstroke (1:04.12).

Because of WLA Swim Meet rules, some of Northville's swimmers placed lower than their times would permit. Two six-team heat entries are established in qualification rounds — with all fast-heat swimmers guaranteed of at least sixth place.

The problem is, that even if a slow heat swimmer has the best time of all competitors, he still can place no higher than seventh.

For example, Northville's 4x50 medley relay team (Buell, Eric Leindecker, Joel Grasley, Bainbridge) easily won the slow heat in and was awarded seventh place. But the quartet's time, 1:48.57, was actually faster than the slowest team in the fast heat, Walled Lake Central's 1:48.97.

The same thing happened to Wayne in the 200 free. His time of 1:54.71 placed ninth, but was faster than the sixth place time of 1:54.8 recorded by Salem's John Cain. Buell lost at least one place in 200 I.M., when his time of 2:11.3 turned out to be faster than Churchill's Eric Baird's sixth place 2:10.41.

"That hurt us," Gans agreed. "You have to do excellent in prelims, because once you're in the fast heat, you're guaranteed a place no matter what."

One of Northville's best races all day was the third-place finish in the 4x100 freestyle relay. The squad trimmed nearly a second from its qualifying time, swimming a personal-best 3:28.4 in the final.

Johnston, Wayne, John Gass and Mikalonis all swam strong splits with Mikalonis recording a blistering anchor time of 50.7.

This week, Northville divers Pawloski and Grasley are competing at the diving regionals in Brighton. Bainbridge in butterfly, Mikalonis in 100 free and Johnston in 50 free each have recorded consideration (standby) times for the state swim meet.

Northville will enter districts with a two-game win streak

Omar Harrison's not much of a believer in momentum. But if he were, he'd have to concede his squad's on a roll going into tonight's Class A District semifinal cage battle with Westland John Glenn.

"I think we're capable of beating them," the coach said after his Mustangs notched two conference tourney victories last week. "They're not really big, so I think we've got a good chance."

'(Westland John Glenn) isn't really big, so I think we've got a good chance.'

— Omar Harrison
Northville cage coach

Northville finished the game 18 of 28 from the line, compared with Bentley's eight of 17. "Boy, that's just the complete opposite of how things were at the beginning of the season," Harrison said. "I was glad to see us come through at the line that way."

Also turning in strong games were Norton (nine points) and backup forward Paul Newitt.

On Thursday, the Mustangs got 17 points from Storm and 13 apiece from Norton and Wendel to paste Farmington 55-48 in both teams' regular season finale.

Once again free throws provided a big part of the winning margin. Northville converted 11 of 18, Farmington six of seven.

The Mustangs led by 10 after three quarters, but Farmington chopped the lead to two late in the game. Doug May hit four of four free throws to keep the Falcons at bay down the stretch. But in the last minute of the game, it was all Norton's show.

With a two-point lead, Norton went to the line for a one-and-one. He converted his first shot, and his second caromed off the rim right back into his hands. He popped in a short jumper to give Northville a five-point lead.

On Northville's next possession, Morrison was fouled. Morrison missed his first free throw, but once again Norton snagged the rebound and sank a short-range jumper.

The seven-point margin stuck, giving Northville the win.

Wendel led Northville in rebounding with 12 and assists with five, while Storm added 10 rebounds.

Northville (9-11) will take on the 11-9 John Glenn Rockets at 6:30 p.m. tonight at Plymouth Salem High School. The winner advances to the district final to play either Salem (12-8), Plymouth Canton (8-12), or title favorite Wayne Memorial (19-1).

To get that far, Northville will need the inside-outside scoring punch of Wendel (11.7 points per game, 12.3 rebounds) and Norton (11.9 points per game) at its peak, plus a continuation of the Mustangs' season-long rebound advantage (35 per game to opponents' 27).

The Plymouth Salem district champion will advance to the Class A Regionals at Eastern Michigan University to play the winner of the Lincoln Park district.

Video tape stores expanding to meet growth of VCR sales

By PHILIP JEROME

After wandering through the store approximately 15 minutes, the woman walked up to the clerk and reeled off a list of six numbers.

The clerk pulled the tapes from the shelf behind him and, after collecting $18, sent the woman on her way.

"No, it's not at all unusual for someone to take out six tapes overnight," said the clerk. "A couple of a cartoons for the younger children to watch during the day; a kung-fu movie and a Prince tape for the teenagers; and a full-run movie and maybe even an X-rated tape for mother and father after the kids are in bed."

"We've had people take out as many as 12 tapes overnight."

The videocassette boom is on.

Its most visible manifestation — the appearance of video tape stores in downtown districts and convenience shopping centers throughout the suburbs.

"The business is still new, but video stores are popping up all over the place," says Keith Kashat, one of three brothers who form the Kreca Corporation, which owns Novi Video in the A&P shopping center at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road in Novi.

"Business is definitely booming," agrees Dennis B. (he won't reveal his last name), president of Movieland Corporation, which has more than 32 outlets, including stores in South Lyon, Highland, Brighton, Hartland, Novi and Walled Lake as well as Florida, Maryland and Delaware.

The proliferation of video stores is a direct result of the advent of the videocassette recorder (VCR) which Time Magazine in its December 24, 1984, cover story said has had the most profound impact on the way Americans spend their leisure-time hours since the television set.

A record 4.1 million VCRs were sold in the United States in 1983, while 1984 sales topped the seven million mark. Time estimates the VCR population in the U.S. at nearly 17 million, one for every five homes with a television set.

According to Time, some industry analysts predict that 40 to 45 percent of U.S. homes will have at least one VCR by 1990.

Although VCRs have a myriad of uses, one of the most popular is using it to watch videocassettes of movies... all types of movies from Hollywood classics featuring Humphrey Bogart to more recent releases such as "Star Wars" and "The Lady in Red."

The VCR and the interest in watching movies uninterrupted by commercials in the comfort of one's own home have given rise to the video store — commercial outlets where tapes can be purchased or rented overnight at prices ranging from $1 to $6. An estimated 12,000 video stores are now situated throughout the country, and more are opening every day.

Novi Video was opened approximately three years ago by Raymond Kashat. "We were advised against opening a store in Novi — they said there weren't enough homes," noted Keith Kashat, who eventually entered the business along with his brother Ed to form the Kreca Corporation. "But they were wrong; it's worked out well."

Well enough, in fact, that the three brothers also opened a store on Seven Mile in Northville and two stores in Livonia, one on Middlebelt and another on Schoolcraft. They've since sold two of their stores and are planning to open another in Walled Lake.

Although admitting that the number of video stores is increasing, Keith Kashat believes the growth of stores will decrease as a result of competition.

"We have some 2,000 titles (tapes) in the Novi store, and it will be tougher and tougher for new stores to open up," he said. "New stores must have at least 500 titles to compete, and 500 titles will cost you $30,000. You can figure on an initial investment of $120,000 just in tapes to offer customers as many tapes as we have right now."

Dennis B. got into the video store business as a result of purchasing a VCR for his home. "I had to drive approximately 35 miles to pick up a film," he said. "If I was driving 35 miles to get a film, I wondered how many others were doing the same thing. I figured there had to be a market for conveniently located video stores."

He hired on as an employee of a video store owned by Bill Wilson in 1980 and purchased the corporation recently. "We started out with 50 titles in a 10-by-12 room," he said. "Now we have more than 32 Movieland stores, which average about 2,000 to 2,500 titles apiece."

Most video stores offer memberships to their customers. A one-year membership at Novi Video, for example, costs $25 and entitles the member to two free film rentals plus an overnight charge of $3 on each film after that. Overnight rental fees are higher for non-members.

Dennis B. said Movieland does not offer memberships. "I joined a club with a lifetime membership several years ago, and the store went bankrupt," he said. "I had a lifetime membership, but it didn't do me any good because the store went out of business."

As a result, overnight rentals at Movieland Stores are somewhat higher, but Dennis B. maintains he's unconcerned about competitors who undersell him. "I don't want to discuss price-pointing," he said. "We make up for higher rental fees by not offering memberships and by providing good service. Nobody offers the service I do."

What types of tapes are available at local video stores? Just about anything you can think of. In addition to all types

Business Briefs

ELTON BLACK & SON Funeral Home in Union Lake has been accepted for membership in the International Order of the Golden Rule. The Order is comprised of funeral directors from all over the world who are dedicated to keeping in touch with the attitudes of the public. This is accomplished through regularly scheduled seminars and educational meetings at which attendance is required by all members.

Only one funeral home in a community is selected for membership. For this reason, the Order carefully screens all prospects. The decision is based on recommendations made by families the firm has served and by other professionals in the area.

Dale L. Rollings, executive director of the association, said all prospects must provide their community with quality funeral service and merchandise at reasonable prices to gain membership. "As a result of the positive response we've received from the Union Lake area, Elton Black & Son Funeral Home has proven its worthiness to be counted among our members," he said.

Businessmen get help in collecting bad debts

Small business owners, who traditionally have had a difficult time collecting bad debts and bad checks, should find efforts to get the money they are owed more successful as the result of reforms passed by the Michigan legislature late in 1984.

"Because of the expense involved and time required in our court system, small business owners often have been discouraged in their attempts to go after bad check writers and others who owe them money," said John Galles, executive director of the Small Business Association of Michigan (SBAM).

"Four new laws provide the business owner or individual with the opportunity to be compensated for their efforts."

Public Act 276, which took immediate effect January 1, 1985, establishes a procedure for persons attempting to collect on bad checks.

The business owner or individual who receives a bad check must first send a certified letter informing the check writer that he or she has 30 days to pay the face value of the check. If payment is not received within 30 days, the merchant or individual can file a civil suit.

After 30 days, the person who wrote the check may decide to settle out of court and pay the complainant the face value of the check plus costs up to $50. If the case goes to trial, the complainant may receive up to twice the amount of the check.

In cases involving checks written for more than $500, the complainant will receive face value plus up to $50 for court costs.

"This gives a bad check writer a reasonable length of time to make the bad check good and speeds the process for the small business trying to meet its payroll and expenses," Galles said.

Another piece of the reform package increases the limits allowed in cases brought to small claims court from $600 to $1,000. The ceiling is scheduled to be raised further to $1,500 in January 1987. With the enactment of Public Act 278, small business owners and other individuals will have greater access to the court's quick and less expensive remedies, according to Galles.

"A large number of business persons were finding it wasn't cost-effective to collect bad debts which exceeded $600 because legal fees were often more expensive than the amount they were trying to recover," he explained. "By raising the limit to a more realistic level, the state is making it tougher for persons who don't pay their bills."

To deter further the writing of bad checks, Public Act 275, scheduled to take effect July 1, 1985, requires that all new checking accounts begin with the number 100.

"Many businesses, retailers in particular, have found that the largest number of bad checks they receive are written on newly-opened accounts," Galles said.

"By changing the penalty for bad check writers from a criminal charge to a misdemeanor, Public Act 277 should streamline the prosecution process, according to Galles. He pointed out that judges have been reluctant in the past to assess criminal penalties to persons who have written bad checks for relatively small amounts.

Galles added that those persons who wish to seek prosecution of bad check writers in criminal court will still have that avenue open to them.

The primary advocate for small business in Michigan, the SBAM was substantially responsible for bringing about the passage of the bad check reforms and the increased limit in small claims court.

A private, non-profit organization, the SBAM represents more than 2,500 small firms throughout the state. The association places a major emphasis on working for innovative legislation to allow small businesses to develop, survive and grow.

To obtain copies of Public Acts 275, 276, 277 and 278 write the Small Business Association of Michigan at Post Office Box 1105; 490 West South Street; Kalamazoo, Michigan 49007 or call (616) 342-2400.

Video stores booming

of movies, videotape offerings include exercise programs (Jane Fonda's Workout has sold 750,000 copies at $59.95 apiece) and how-to manuals on everything from Chinese cooking to "Everything You Wanted to Know about Divorce (But Couldn't Afford to Ask)" by famed palimony attorney Marvin Mitchelson.

A hefty share of the business is in hard-core pornography tapes such as "Debbie Does Dallas." Pornography tapes were among the first to be made available for home video and once accounted for approximately 50 percent of all sales and rentals.

That percentage has dropped to approximately 15 percent, according to current estimates. Kashat estimates that 20 percent of the business at Novi Video comes from x-rated tapes, while Dennis B. says the percentage is lower in Movieland stores.

"The horror movies go continuously," said Dennis B. "And we do a tremendous business in religious films like 'Jesus of Nazareth' at our South Lyon store."

Both Kashat and Dennis B. see bigger things ahead for the video store business.

"I don't think it's a trend that will die out," said Kashat. "How can it get weaker when the industry is getting bigger? Everyone under the sun is buying a VCR."

Dennis B. believes the business will double or triple over the next few years. "The big thing is that VCRs are getting cheaper and more people can afford them," he said. "That's why video stores seem to be popping up on every street corner."

COFFEE

The bean tasted 'round the world

Text by B.J. Martin/Art by Tammie Graves

Some people say love makes the world go around. Some people say it's money. Nay, nay. C'est le cafe.

Think about it. If you're like one-third of the population of the world, the picked, dried, ground, brewed fruit of the plant genus Coffea is a part of your life. The only beverage that comes close in popularity is water. Milk, soda, juices, any kind of alcoholic drink — all lag far behind.

But, chances are good you might not recognize coffee in its raw form. It grows on tree-sized shrubs which can grow 26-33 feet tall untended, and which are dotted with small, white flowers that possess a jasmine-like fragrance.

Cultivators of the plants tend to keep them trimmed short enough for easy harvesting of the small red (1/4-3/4" diameter) fruit, called "cherries." After gathering, the cherries are spread out to dry, most often by the sun. The seeds — the coffee beans — are removed from the pulp encasing, and later carefully roasted to produce the oils which give the drink its distinctive flavor.

One coffee plant typically yields two pounds of coffee per harvest, and harvest can be as often as three times per year. The plant blooms seven or eight months a year, and can lead a productive life for 40 years.

In fact, almost all the coffee consumed in the Americas descends from one Coffea Arabica bush. "One?" You ask. "One single bush?"

That's right. It almost didn't make it.

The story possesses just enough improbability for a romance novel. It seems a French naval officer, Gabriel Mathieu de Clieu, was responsible for transporting to the New World one lone specimen of Coffea Arabica — a single plant fated to spawn all the varieties of coffee now popularly used in the New World.

This hardy little bush was the offspring of a plant given to King Louis XIV by the Burgemeister of Amsterdam. Under the tending of Louis' royal botanist, Antoine de Jussieu, the Burgemeister's present gave continuous stimulating delight to the Sun King, who decreed that one plant be taken to the Americas in a glass box for cultivation.

The plant survived an attack by a one of de Clieu's passengers. In trying to destroy it, the passenger managed to tear off some leaves.

But the fated plant survived. It was re-planted in the West Indies and tended by an armed guard against any other attempts to thwart its reproduction.

The rest, as they say, is history. Successive generations of this prolific plant eventually spread throughout South and Central America where they found ideal growth conditions: high lands and high temperatures.

Demand for coffee grew, thanks to its effects on the taste buds and the central nervous system, and thanks also to the slave labor market, which improved coffee's marketability by keeping labor costs down. (As one local coffee connoisseur, Bloomfield caterer Ken Fink, observes: "The most repressive regimes always grow the best coffee.")

Coffee — the drink — was developed in Arabia. An ancient Arabic legend gives credit for its discovery to a young Abyssinian goatherd named Kaldi.

According to the tale, Kaldi noticed that his sleepy goats, shortly after gnawing on certain coffee cherries, began frolicking and jumping around. Kaldi decided to sample the cherries himself. It wasn't long after he made them a habit, Kaldi gained a reputation for being the happiest man in Arabia.

Whether or not that's an apocryphal tale, it's true that by the late Middle Ages, Sufi mystic circles and Moslem monks were chewing the cherries in order to pray without tiring.

The word "coffee" hasn't changed much since the days of Kaldi. Where it was first cultivated, southwest Ethiopia, the plant and its fruit were called kaffa, and later, in Arabic, qahwah. Long before there was Kahlua, the Arabs were using the coffee pulp either fresh for drinks, or fermented for wine.

Roasting of the beans began in the 13th Century, and word of the wonder-drink quickly spread throughout the Islamic world to the point where — by 1600 — it became Arabia's most profitable export.

Coffee not without its critics

By CINDY HOOGASIAN

Some people just can't seem to start their day without a fresh-brewed, steaming cup of coffee. Others, however, keep a safe distance from the brew, claiming caffeine has too many unwanted side effects.

The controversy has led many consumers to change to decaffeinated coffee in an attempt to avoid the insomnia and edginess which for some are synonymous with the word coffee.

But, the decaffeination process itself has recently come under fire. Some have questioned whether chemically-processed decaffeinated coffee is safe to drink.

According to Food and Drug Administration (FDA) Consumer Affairs Officer Evelyn DeNike, fears about the chemical decaffeination process are unfounded.

"Formaldehyde is used in processing decaffeinating coffee," DeNike said, "and is washed out. The amount, if any is left, is a trace element. It is less than would occur naturally in some foods."

DeNike said another chemical, methylene chloride, is commonly used in the decaffeination process. According to the FDA, water is used to draw the caffeine from coffee beans, and then methylene chloride is added to separate the caffeine from the solution. The coffee beans are then passed through a steam bath, which removes the solvent.

Chemical processing takes 12-18 hours and removes about 97 percent of the caffeine, according to DeNike. Federal regulations state that the residue of methylene chloride on coffee beans may not exceed 10 parts per million, which DeNike said is a "teeny amount."

According to DeNike, almost all the solvent is reclaimed and the segregated caffeine is sold to soft drink manufacturers and producers of over-the-counter pharmaceuticals.

People who are leary of chemically-processed decaffeinated coffee should look for imported Swiss water processed decaffeinated beans.

Pure water is heated and poured over the beans to extract the caffeine, DeNike said. This Swiss method employs no chemical solvents and thus eliminates fears of chemical side effects.

People who like the taste of coffee, but don't like the caffeine buzz, should have no fears of drinking decaffeinated brews, DeNike indicated. Both the chemical and water processing methods of decaffeination are safe, she asserted.

Caffeine's effects on the body should be of concern to pregnant women, according to the FDA. "Pregnant women should avoid caffeine containing foods and drugs if possible, or consume them sparingly," DeNike urged.

Tests performed on pregnant rats showed that caffeine causes birth defects and delayed skeletal development in the offspring, according to a 1980 statement by Food and Drug Commissioner Jere E. Goyan.

"The study's implications for people are not known," Goyan said in that statement. "I want to make clear that we have no conclusive evidence at this time that caffeine has ever caused a birth defect in a human being."

"In fact, a recent valuation by government scientists of all available human studies concluded that present evidence does not establish an association between caffeine and birth defects in people," he noted.

DeNike said pregnant women who are concerned about possible caffeine-related complications should avoid consuming colas, cocoa, tea, chocolate and many over-the-counter drugs. She said 12 ounces of Mountain Dew contains 54 milligrams of caffeine, nearly as much as a cup of coffee. Many cold remedies and pain relievers contain caffeine, she said.

"Caffeine is known to cross through the placenta," DeNike said. "It has also been detected in the milk of breast-feeding mothers. So, a nursing mother should be careful of caffeine consumption, especially if the child doesn't sleep a lot or is nervous."

One reason people enjoy their morning coffee so much is that caffeine acts as a stimulant to the central nervous system. While for some, caffeine gives a welcome lift and aids in the morning routine, others find it increases their heart rate and heart rhythm.

Caffeine does not cause high blood pressure, according to the Oakland County Health Division. It can cause a slight narrowing in the arteries and veins, however.

The fresher the bean, the better the brew

O.K. You're ready for a little adventure with your daily dose of coffee. If your shopping habits are restricted to the big-chain supermarkets, though, you'll have to be prepared to go a little out of the way for the real exotica.

It's generally agreed that when it comes to coffee, the first rule is the fresher, the better. The ideal way to make coffee is to roast the fresh beans yourself. While it's possible to do so in the oven or in a frying pan, it's not only difficult but in the latter case, messy.

The next best thing is to buy the roasted beans, store them in your freezer, and grind the amount needed for each brew. Don't have a home coffee grinder? The next to the next best thing is to have the coffee ground in the store where it's bought. It's still a good idea to keep even ground coffee in the freezer, and always in an airtight container.

Once you start buying coffee beans or freshly-ground coffee instead of coffee in a can, you may never want to go back. While no popular canned brand of coffee is truly bad, the palate-tantalizing varieties of coffee beans sold in discriminating stores offer such diverse flavors they're often habit-forming.

Based on mass-consumption habits, Americans tend to prefer medium-strength coffee, compared to our European counterparts. Mainland Europeans favor bitter, dark, strong roasts such as found in capuccino — in Italy, some go as far as to char the beans. In Britain, however, coffee is preferred on the weak side.

Local merchants report their most popular blends and varieties are French and Italian roasts (ideal for espresso), and amaretto and Irish cream-flavored blends. Mexican blends come recommended by the author.

In the northwest suburban area, and western cities located near I-96, the place offering the widest choice of blends is The Coffee Beanery in Twelve Oaks Mall, Novi.

The Beanery offers the following unflavored varieties of beans: Beanery Blend

(the house blend, one of the most popular sellers), Breakfast Blend, Brazilian Santos, Espresso, French Roast, Jamaican Mountain Choice, Jamaican Blue Mountain (at $26 per pound, the most expensive variety, esteemed for its mellowness and rarity), Kenya, Kona (Hawaiian), Mocha Java, Columbian Supremo, Turkish and Vienna Roast.

Decaffeinated varieties (all prepared through a pure-water process which avoids chemical contact with the beans and results in a flavor superior to mass-produced decaffeinated blends) include: Columbian Decaf-

Library Friends stage reading of play

By JEAN DAY

The 1985 annual meeting of the Friends of Northville Library promises to be much more than a recap of the year's activities. The group will combine business with play when it meets at 7:30 p.m. March 13 in the city council chambers. After electing officers and voting on new bylaws, members will hear a staged reading of a one-act play, "Nellie's Powies," by Edith Dunbar, secretary of the Friends, at 8:30 p.m.

The cast under the direction of Susan Fostey, president of the Friends, will utilize the dais where council is seated. "It's real fun," she promises, explaining, "When Edie said she was going to invite some friends over to take part in her play so that she could hear how it sounds, I said, 'why not put it on for the Friends with a capital F?'"

"She said okay, and now we're looking forward to the reading," the Friends' president explains, noting that the actors will be familiar with the play, but for this reading they will not necessarily have their parts memorized. Guests are invited to the reading.

The four roles are being taken by Dorothy Marr, board member of the Friends, Janis Stevenson, owner of the Bookstop and a new member of the Friends, Michael Oden, a Highland Lakes resident in the graduate program at University of Michigan, and Philip Jerome, managing editor of The Northville Record and The Novi News.

Playwright Dunbar, a member of the Dramatists Guild and Detroit Women Writers, describes "Nellie's Powies" as a story about a spunky elderly woman who is given the opportunity to break away from familiar people and activities and takes the risk.

The playwright relates that the main character, Nellie, says to her son and sister, "I've had my beginning, my middle and much of my ending. Finally, I feel as well as know that I have far fewer years ahead than behind. Takes too long to realize that ... I'm damn scared that you men of the world are going to blow up the planet before I'm 80. You're acting as if you have no children, no grandchildren."

Dunbar at one time was editor of the employee newsletter of the Detroit-Macomb Hospitals Association and women's editor of The Mellus Newspapers in the Downriver area. Last August she was scriptwriter for the Detroit segments of the Jerry Lewis Telethon for Channel 2. Her two-act play, "The Granddaughter," last year received a staged reading at Performance Network in Ann Arbor.

"Right now," she says, "I have no full-time job. I'm like Nellie. I finally understand that I have far fewer years ahead than behind; so I'm writing what I want to write."

Registration still under way for Mill Race craft offerings

Registrations still are being accepted for Spring 1985 Craft Classes at Mill Race Historical Village.

Teaching this season's classes are a diversified group of experienced and talented instructors.

Debbie Ayers of Novi will teach a class in Crewel Embroidery. She has been teaching stitchery classes for more than 10 years. A consultant for Creative Expressions, a stitchery company, Ayers was presented with the 1983 People's Choice Award for Crewel Embroidery by Creative Expressions. She currently teaches stitchery classes for the Walled Lake PTO at Decker Elementary School in Walled Lake.

Linda Den Hann of Dearborn is teaching classes in Cross-Stitch Easter Egg, Victorian Heart Pillow, Stenciling and Candlewicking and Tin Punch. An experienced arts and crafts instructor, Den Hann has taught adult education in Dearborn for several years and currently is an instructor at the Farmington Hills Community Center. She is a member of the Dearborn Fairlane Chapter of Embroiderer's Guild of America, General Henry Dearborn Quilting Society and the Detroit Metro Quilting Guild.

Ming Louie, also known as professional magician "Ming the Magnificent," will present two classes in magic: a two-week class for children ages 10 and older and a four-week class for adults.

He has been performing magic since he was 12. Learning his first sleight-of-hand from his grandfather who was a professional magician in China, Louie went on to develop his own original style of magic, leaning heavily on his Oriental background as the theme for many of his illusions. He also has studied with the great close-up magicians Slydini and Frank Garcia of New York. Louie has performed his magic throughout the Hawaiian Islands, from the West Coast to New England and Canada. He has been seen frequently on local television, including Channel 7's "Kelly and Company."

Helen Maki of Northville teaches classes in Ukrainian Egg painting, Planter Basket and Heart Basket-making. A former art teacher with the Detroit Public School system, Maki has been making baskets on a regular basis since her retirement 10 years ago. She teaches the craft full-time from her home, as well as through workshops such as those at Mill Race Village. As a painter, she became interested in the intricate art of Ukrainian Eggs several years ago through a workshop she attended.

Melanie Robinson of Northville will present a class in Chair Caning. Learning her skill through an adult education class in Plymouth several years ago, Robinson has caned more than 150 chairs during her 13 years of experience. Besides her full-time job as Children's Librarian at the Northville Public Library, Robinson does all the caning for the Furniture Rejuvenation Shop in Plymouth. She will teach the traditional seven-step method of caning a chair.

For more information on any of the instructors or classes at Mill Race Village, call Craft Program Directors Sally Henrikson, 349-4607; Linda Clark, 349-6945 or Barbara Louie, 348-7244.

Prized quilt

Izma Chmiel and Barbara Ross, will be one of the door prizes presented at the show to be held in the church fellowship hall. The 1 p.m. show will feature fashions by New Gal in Town; hairstyles and makeup by Great Shape Salon and Spa and Mayflower Salon of Plymouth. Tickets are $4 with all proceeds going to missions. # Local AAUW hosts 'Fireside Chats'

Members of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women will have an opportunity to choose between two different lectures at the annual "Fireside Chats" being held concurrently at 7:30 p.m. March 12.

Local resident Glad Evans will lecture on color analysis and demonstrate how color enhances various hair colors and skin tones at the home of Harriet Sawyer, 41418 Rayburn Drive.

Evans is a graduate of the School of Fine and Applied Arts at the University of Illinois. She has passed the Farnsworth Munsell Color Tests and has been trained by Line and Design. Evans has been doing color analyses for about two years.

Craft Shop in Salem, will be speaking in the home of Marianne Didyk, 46855 Timberlane. Born and raised in the Netherlands, she is a graduate of the University of Amsterdam. She has been a resident of Salem for almost 30 years.

Reddering will have various articles to demonstrate her subject matter. She will give an interesting overview of tiles through the years, and will lecture on delft and pewter ware.

Refreshments will be served at both homes prior to the programs which are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m.

Prospective members who would like to attend either session are invited to call Jay Ward at 349-3456 or Joyce Liddle at 348-2416 to make a guest reservation. All women who are graduates of accredited colleges and universities are eligible to join AAUW.

Caffeine awareness is on the rise

Jean Eagen, public health nutritionist, said that hypertension and caffeine are not directly related in current scientific knowledge. But, some people are caffeine-sensitive and experience heart palpitations after drinking caffeine-containing beverages, she said.

That constriction of the blood vessels makes some people have headaches if they miss their daily caffeine jolt, according to "Natural Healing," by Mark Bricklin.

He theorizes that without the timely consumption of caffeine, one's blood vessels in the head may dilate, producing a caffeine withdrawal. The symptom is easily masked by having more of the substance on which you are dependent — coffee.

Recent theories have attempted to link fibrocystic breast disease, or lumpy breasts, to caffeine. However, a 1983

American Medical Association Council of Scientific Affairs study shows no relationship between caffeine and fibrocystic breast disease, the FDA said.

Despite the FDA's assertions that coffee is a safe substance, debate about the issue will continue.

"Americans are drinking more and more decaffeinated coffee as a result of their concerns about caffeine," DeNike said. "As a people, we are becoming more aware of the fact that our health is our responsibility. Good health doesn't just happen. We have to become more educated as consumers."

"Some people can drink all the coffee they want and it doesn't bother them. If caffeine seems to bother you, our advice to you is to restrict some of the caffeine you use."

As a final point, the Oakland County Health Division notes that how coffee is brewed has some effect on the amount of caffeine each 5 1/2-ounce cup contains.

According to the health division, instant coffee contains between 61 and 70 milligrams of caffeine per cup. Automatic percolated contains between 93-120 milligrams a cup; non-automatic percolated coffee has from 97-112 milligrams a cup; coffee percolated in a non-automatic pot for 10 minutes has been 105-125 milligrams in each cup.

Coffee brewed through the automatic drip method has a caffeine content ranging between 150-153 milligrams a cup; non-automatic drip has from 137-146 milligrams a cup.

Decaffeinated coffee has just three milligrams a cup.

Members sought for Camp Fire program

Camp Fire, formerly called Camp Fire Girls, currently is recruiting Northville boys and girls for its program.

A co-ed kindergarten group will be forming March 11. Information is available by calling Michelle Demers at 349-0388 evenings or 337-3532 days.

A third grade group meeting on March 13 has a few vacancies. Those interested in starting groups in the Northville area should call 1-833-2670.

Camp Fire boys and girls will commemorate their organization's 75th anniversary with community service projects and celebrations based on the theme "Celebrate Friendship, Celebrate Camp Fire." Camp Fire's Founder's Day is March 17 and Birthday Week is observed from March 17-23.

Highlighting the celebration will be a Friendship Day March 23 at Livonia Mall. The public is invited to join members of the Detroit Area Camp Fire Council as they join hands in a giant friendship circle and release helium-filled balloons. Several other activities and projects have been scheduled throughout the week, and the entire year in observance of the anniversary.

The national organization was founded in 1910 by Charlotte and Luther Halsey Gulick. Today boys and girls in more than 35,000 communities across the United States are Camp Fire members.

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95 — 60 day supply. Order immediately by sending a check or money order to DYNALABS, 270 No. Canon Dr., Ste. 1255 (Dept. U-21) Beverly Hills, CA, 90210. Winchester Elementary School sixth graders recently watched their stories come to life with the help of illustrator Linda Walther Snively. The Royal Oak artist, who has illustrated several children's books including "Mountain King," "Murphy, The Christmas

Brewing a good cup of coffee takes a little bit of know-how

By GEORGE KOVANIS

Time was when even cowboys out on the range could enjoy an eye-openin' cup of coffee with little fuss. All they had to do was stoke the fire and brew some up in a tin pan.

Today, it's not quite so simple. Coffee making has entered the world of high tech. And department store salesclerks say most people prefer to spend their paychecks on coffee makers that fit under kitchen cupboards and come complete with automatic digital timers than the old percolator types found in grandma's kitchen.

It might even be time for Joe DiMaggio's Mr. Coffee to move over and make room for fancy German imports.

Jacobson's in Ann Arbor doesn't carry Mr. Coffee brand coffee makers anymore. "(We) don't carry that one at all," said Jan Davis, a store salesclerk. "It just doesn't do the same job (as the newer brands) at all."

Instead, the store carries a Toshiba coffee maker that grinds the coffee in addition to brewing it. It sells for $148, according to Davis. It can be programmed to start brewing automatically.

Her store also carries Krups brand coffeemakers which can also be programmed to automatically brew coffee. This model has two burners so it can make two pots of coffee at a time. It sells for about $120, Davis said.

Hudson's in Twelve Oaks, Novi, also carries the Krups brand. And according to a store clerk there, Krups coffee makers are a good investment. They range in price from $75 to $139.99.

"If you're a real coffee drinker the Krups coffee maker is the one most people would prefer," said Barbara Bergum, a Hudson's salesclerk.

The more expensive models last longer than the less expensive brands, she said, adding, "That's why we've gone to the better makes."

And the Krups coffee maker is generally ranked as one of the top coffee makers, said Davis of Jacobson's.

"There are very few people who come back to us and say, 'that pot's not worth it,'" Bergum said.

In addition to lasting longer, salesclerks say that more expensive coffee makers such as the Krups brand and the Bosch coffee maker, both German-made, brew better coffee.

"It has something to do with the temperature at which water is heated. It keeps the coffee hotter," Bergum said. And hotter coffee makes for better coffee.

The Bosch and Krups coffeemakers brew the coffee hot enough so that the flavor of coffee is its best.

Salesclerks say that Mr. Coffee brand coffee makers don't always keep the coffee hot.

People have said they "end up with lukewarm coffee" compliments of Mr. Coffee brand coffee makers, Bergum said.

"We do hear that once in awhile—I think probably the most on Mr. Coffee," said Jacobson's Davis.

Bergum said that some of the newest coffee makers use V-shaped filters instead of basket-shaped filters where the coffee is spread out along the side of the filters. In the V-shaped filters, all the coffee is concentrated in a point. Because it is not spread around the sides of the filter, water is able to travel in a steady stream through all of the coffee.

The Bosch brand coffee maker does not have an automatic brewing clock. However, the model Hudson's carries makes both coffee and espresso. It sells for $200.

Other customers, according to Bergum, are opting for models which hang under cupboards.

General Electric was first on the market with its Spacemaker coffee maker, Bergum said, adding that the most important feature of this model is that it frees counter space.

"It's out of the way and you have more room on the counter," Bergum said.

"The new under-the-counter ones seem to be going very well, especially the GE one," said Carole Davis, a salesclerk at Meijer Thrifty Acres in Brighton. "They were very popular at Christmas time, we could not keep those in stock." They cost about $53.97.

The Norelco coffee makers with clocks seem to sell well too, Davis said.

"Actually, they all sell well," she said.

But at Sutton's Pro Hardware in Howell, in addition to the under-the-counter models and automatic brew models, old fashioned percolators are picking up some points in the popularity polls.

"We're finding that people are going back to your regular percolators," said Chris Spalding, a Sutton's salesclerk.

Spalding says she doesn't drink coffee but has heard from store customers that percolators make better coffee than some of automatic drip coffee makers.

"A lot of people claim that (percolator) coffee is hotter," said Linda Scott, a salesclerk at J.C. Penney in Briarwood, Ann Arbor. "I can't really taste the difference but some people can."

A nine-cup percolator at Penney's sells for $19.99, Scott said.

And even a percolator is big step forward from coffee making cowboy style.

Historically, coffee's a strange brew

It's a tradition that's been maintained in the Arab world. In some Arab nations, it's considered an outrage not to offer coffee to a guest and an equal outrage to refuse.

In Europe, coffee's increased popularity accompanied increased controversy. Speaking in favor of the beverage, one English newspaper extolled the drink in 1657 for its "many excellent virtues . . . (It) fortifies the heart within, helpeth digestion, quickeneth the spirits, maketh the heart lightsome and is good against eyesoresh, coughs or colds, rhumes, consumption, headache, dropsie, gout, scurvy, King's Evil, and many others."

Only 17 years later, a Women's Petition in London was circulated complaining that men were never home in times of domestic crises, were always loitering in coffeehouses and that the drink had rendered them impotent. An alarmed King Charles II outlawed coffee-houses the following year — an order that proved less effective than Prohibition.

Championing the pro-coffee forces in later years were Johann Sebastian

Bach, whose Coffee Cantata lampooned a father's fears about his daughter's habit, and Voltaire, who said of coffee's health hazard: "I have been poisoning myself for more than 80 years and I am not yet dead." Neither, we might add, is the poison.

Artist Henry Caroselli in his studio

Caroselli proposes Northville for local artists' cooperative

By B.J. MARTIN

Maybe it was the summer he studied at Italy's Academia Di Belle Arti that inspired Henry Caroselli's latest project.

"It was the birthplace of the Renaissance," the new Northville resident says of the school founded nearly five centuries ago by the Italian master Raphael. What Caroselli wants to do is midwife another renaissance — on a slightly smaller scale — in the Northville area.

Not that that kind of grandiose description is Caroselli's style: "What we want," he says, "is a place where a bunch of artists can go and make a big mess."

There is a nicer-sounding tag for his modest proposal: an "artists' cooperative," a place where master artists can have the room they need to work on projects, discuss ideas and inspire each other.

The City of Southfield did something similar not long ago, with satisfactory results. Caroselli, in fact, served as vice-president of the Southfield Artists Cooperative.

"What the city did was turn over to a group of artists an old building that we converted for use as studios. . . . If someone could come up with the building, I'd like to start all over again in Northville," he explains.

"We're looking for a place for artists who do strictly professional-quality work. Ideally, we'd like to have one painter, one ceramist, one sculptor, one

'What we want is a place where a bunch of artists can go and make a big mess.'

— Henry Caroselli,

weaver, one printmaker — so that we can use each other's ideas as inspiration."

It may be asking a great deal for a community as small as Northville to find some way to pick up the tab for the building space and maintenance, Caroselli concedes. But it wouldn't be an entirely selfless donation.

"In return for the space, our group could have its own annual art show and invite the community. We can provide free lectures on the crafts we specialize in, and some of our artists may contribute pieces of work to adorn our public buildings in lieu of rent, maybe."

Caroselli compares such a manifestation of support for art to support for other outlets deemed part of a healthy lifestyle. "The community now provides baseball diamonds and fields for recreation," he explains. "I think it adds to the prestige of a community to show a physical recognition of the role art plays in the lives of its residents."

Caroselli thinks Northville may have a surprisingly strong will to support the venture. "I think one of the main thrusts of Northville is its respect for antiquity," he says. "They preserve the Mill Race Historical Village. They have an appreciation for craft," he explains.

Caroselli honed his craft as a student at Wayne State University's school of art, now retitled the Detroit Center for Creative Studies.

He earned a master of fine arts from University of New Mexico, and subsequently studied at the Academia Di Belle Arti. Interspersed with his studies, Caroselli taught commercial and graphic art in Detroit public schools for 25 years. He has since retired, but he is still an occasional lecturer and is more or less constantly involved in an artistic project.

He most frequently works in watercolors, but also paints in oil and occasionally does small sculptures.

Caroselli's works can be seen at the display gallery of the Detroit Institute of Arts, and the collector's corner at the Toledo Museum of Art.

He has exhibited his work in shows at the Michigan Artists Show, the Scarab Club Show, the Wayne State Art Teachers Show, at the Southfield Civic Center, Providence Hospital, Traverse City, and Charlevoix. He has patrons in England, Malta, Switzerland, Los Angeles and New York.

Dinner theatre production opens this weekend at Schoolcraft College

The Schoolcraft College Players will present two comedies March 8, 9, 15 and 16.

Peter Shaffer's "Black Comedy" and Edward Albee's "The Sandbox" will be presented as dinner theatre on March 8 and 9 and without dinner March 15 and 16. Reserved seats for all performances are available through the College Bookstore at $12.50 each with dinner and $5 each without dinner.

The new format devised for the Fall term productions will be used again. Patrons will be seated in the Waterman Center's dining room and served a gourmet dinner. The production will be staged in the Liberal Arts Theater, which lends a better theatrical atmosphere and allows for professional staging.

"The Sandbox" is a brief one-act play with a bizarre plot about an 84-year-old grandmother who gets thrown into a sandbox by her children. She then covers herself with sand, preparing to die. She begins to relate her own history between the cool indifferent patter of people standing nearby. The story ends on a sentimental but surprising twist. "Black Comedy" could be called

"dark" comedy, since the title simply implies that the actors are supposedly carrying out the ingenious farce in the dark, as a result of a power outage. Not only have the lights gone out, but everything else turns cock-eyed, leaving the audience laughing uproariously.

The director, James Hartman of Farmington Hills, promises to send the audience home "with sides aching from laughter." He directed "Night Watch" at Schoolcraft two years ago to SRO audiences. He now is a member of the college's part-time faculty and directed the fall production of "The Haunting of Hill House."

Hartman brings valuable professionalism to the theatre department. He has directed more than 50 stage productions and has acted in many prestigious companies, two CBS TV movies, and numerous commercials. He holds a B.S. and M.A. in theatre from the University of Cincinnati and an A.B.D. and a Ph.D. from Indiana University, where he also trained actors.

For more information, call the College Bookstore at 591-6400, extension 265.

Some payments not made in cash are not taxable. These would include fringe benefits provided for you under a qualified plan. This is a plan that does not discriminate in favor of officers, shareholders, or other highly paid employees. The plan could include group health care, disability and life insurance, child care plans, education and other benefits.

Entertainment

The Northville Record

A wry smile crosses the face of Tom Rice.

"Coffee houses?" he says, repeating the question he's just been asked.

"You're asking about something out of the Beatnik Era. Something that was big in Greenwich Village and San Francisco. The Hungry 1's, Peter, Paul and Mary. The Kingston Trio... bootleggers."

"Coffee houses were someplace people could go to drink coffee, smoke and listen to folk music. They were really big in Detroit, too. There was The Raven, the Checkmate. A lot of them were down in the Wayne State area."

"But you don't find too many coffee houses any more," he adds. "Coffee houses have pretty much faded from the scene."

The reason for the wry smile on Tom Rice's face when he talks about coffee houses is that they're not totally extinct. Rice, himself, runs one in Northville.

Two other examples also exist. The Ark in Ann Arbor features coffee-house folk music, and the iBrowse Book Store on Northwestern Highway in West Bloomfield offers poetry readings.

But the true spirit of the "coffee house" is best preserved at Rice's entertainment emporium in Northville—The Raven.

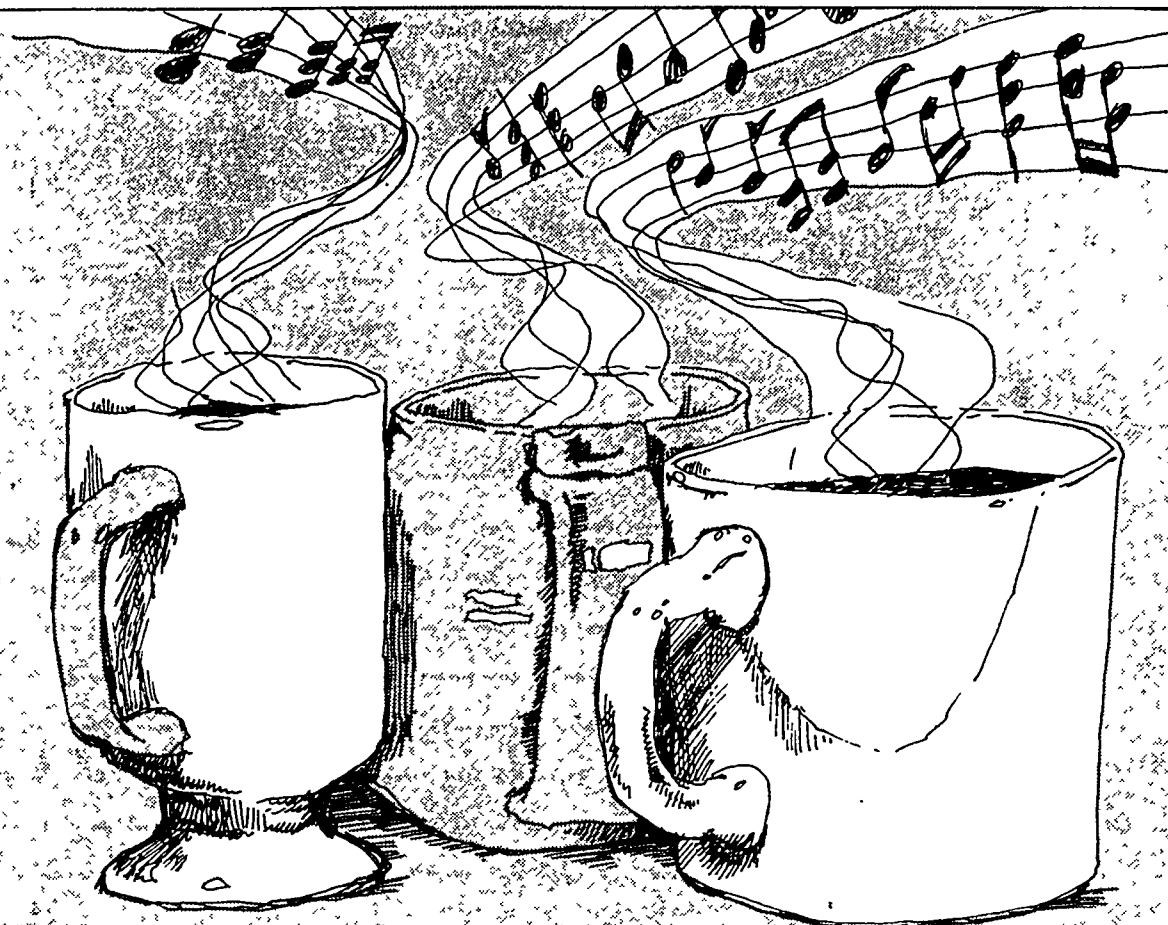

In case you're wondering if the name of Rice's coffee house isn't perilously close to that of the old Raven Gallery on Greenfield Road in Southfield—the place to go for folk music in the Detroit area for many years, you're right. But there's a good reason for it.

The original Raven was run by Herb Cohen, who passed away almost 10 years ago. His widow was unable to make a go of it, and The Raven ultimately shut down.

In the meantime, Rice, owner of The Giltfiddler music shop in Northville, began to sponsor a summer folk festival. Seven years ago, the festival attracted Dottie Cohen, widow of Herb Cohen, who was so impressed that she introduced herself to Rice and congratulated him on his efforts.

Rice told her how much he had loved The Raven and dreamed of operating a similar place. Dottie Cohen promised her help and offered him the use the name of the original Raven.

Thus, The Raven was reincarnated in Northville. It opened

Coffee Houses Hot drinks and good music

last November with well-traveled guitarist/songwriter Walkin' Jim Stolz as the featured entertainer.

In addition to the music, the new Raven has several things going for it. There's coffee, of course. Four of five exotic blends. Rice plans to purchase espresso and cappuccino machines in the near future. And there's food. The Raven features a menu of soups and sandwiches, ice cream, plus the famous "pizza bagel," once featured at the original Raven.

"We're not a restaurant," says Rice, "but we do have good food. Tom MacKinnon, the highly-respected chef at MacKinnon's in Northville, has been tutoring me."

But the big thing is the music. "Footloose," one of Michigan's most popular string bands, performed last weekend. And Chuck Mitchell, one of the regulars from the original Raven, will be featured on Friday and Saturday, March 22-23.

Coming soon are Josh White Jr. (April 26-27) and Claudia Schmidt (May 11).

So how is the new Raven doing? "So far it's been great," says Rice. "When the old Raven closed, it apparently left a void in people's lives. People seem to like to have a place where they can go to listen to good folk music without having to consume alcohol."

Doors open at 6:30 p.m. for a light dinner; the show starts at 7:30 p.m. and runs to 11 p.m. Tickets are priced at $5 per person. Alcohol and smoking is prohibited, and reservations (349-9420) are a virtual necessity as seating is limited to 200 and most shows have been sold out.

"Coffee houses are great," says Rice. "When the performer comes on, there are no distractions—no alcohol, no smoke. Just the audience and the music. When you have an atmosphere like that, the audience gets into the entertainer and the entertainer is raised by the audience. You play smoother than you've ever played in your life; you hit chords you've never hit before. It's a beautiful experience."

Mayflower: Worthwhile excursion

out
KOVACS

It is entirely appropriate, of course, that a city named Plymouth should be the home of the Mayflower Hotel.

Plymouth is a city steeped in heritage, and the Mayflower Hotel has played no small roll in helping preserve that heritage.

Owned and operated by the Lorenz family since 1939, the Mayflower is a large, brick building which occupies a corner on Main Street, providing a Gibraltar-like foundation to the bustling community.

In truth, the Mayflower is the cornerstone of Plymouth, not only through its presence but also through its active participation in and sponsorship of community events.

The hotel aptly serves the purpose of being a constant reminder of the rich heritage inherent in the names Plymouth and Mayflower.

Although the hotel contains several restaurants, the mainstay is The Mayflower Room. Scott Lorenz recently has invested $60,000 in remodeling the restaurant, and the changes are gratifying.

Always comfortable, the room has been opened up, given a new feeling of spaciousness, by removing heavy wooden beams that once loomed close overhead. Divans along the wall are interspersed at regular intervals with small end tables, creating one of the most comfortable restaurants I have visited in a long time.

A large replica of the boat which carried the Pilgrims to the New World is displayed prominently in the center of the room, and murals of Pilgrim scenes are painted on the walls.

The decor of the Mayflower Room is not the only thing that's new at this restaurant. In conjunction with the physical renovations, Lorenz has adopted a new menu with considerably more choices for diners.

The expanded menu, quite frankly, is a welcome addition. There was a time when choices at the Mayflower Room were quite restricted—the house salad (no choice of dressing); sod (steak), scrod and/or any combination thereof; no dessert. It was great for the overhead, I assume, but left the diner with few choices.

The Mayflower Room is steeped in American tradition

All that's changed now, or at least most of it has changed—the Mayflower's house salad remains the sole holdout to freedom of choice. But it's really no problem; and the only complaint here with the huge soup bowls of salad served with the meals is that they're almost too large.

Salads are served with a basket containing two types of breads—homemade sourdough bread and date nut bread—both made on the premises in the Mayflower's bakery. The light and flaky date nut bread is a particular treat.

Although choice of entrees has been broadened considerably, the mainstays remain steak and seafood. And, yes, you can still order sod, scrod or any combination thereof, either for old time's sake or, more likely, because they're good.

Particularly noteworthy are the seafood additions—sauteed bay scallops ($8.95), baked halibut ($11.75), jumbo fried shrimp ($12.60) and steamed lobster tail ($13.95). Catfish is available at $8.85. Featured is baked orange roughy with mandarin orange sauce at $10.50.

A personal favorite is the oven-baked rainbow trout stuffed with crabmeat ($10.50). But the main attraction, as far as I'm concerned, is Maryland crab cakes—a dish found all too rarely in Michigan restaurants.

Entrees are accompanied by the salad, bread and choice of potato. Side orders of a vegetable are available a la carte.

The Mayflower also deserves kudos for its desserts, particularly the homemade ride pudding and the homemade bread pudding served under a lemon sauce. Both are excellent.

A trip to Plymouth for dinner in the Mayflower Room is a worthwhile excursion. And here's an added tip—go early enough to give yourself a chance to walk around town and enjoy the pleasant downtown malls and unique shops.

The Mayflower Room, Mayflower Hotel, 827 West Ann Arbor Trail, Plymouth. Open Monday through Saturday for lunch from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. and for dinner from 5-9 p.m. Open for Sunday dinners from 1-7 p.m. Liquor license. All major credit cards accepted. 453-1620.

Since 1915, Goodyear tires have been #1 on America's boulevards, highways and country roads.

Goodyear tires—
#1 in performance,
#1 in quality,
#1 in value...

Our newest All-Season Radial with the criss-cross tread design that produces superior year-round traction. Excellent long term wear.

Our Arriva All-Season Radial, designed with an advanced interlock tread that grips the road in all types of weather and helps save fuel with its easy rolling tread rubber compound and steel cord radial construction. The Arriva is versatile, too—it hugs the corners as well as the highways for driving that's almost effortless.

Designed for great handling and long wear, even at consistently high speeds, our Eagle High Performance Radials deliver the positive traction and dependable response you demand from a high performance tire. And with smart, raised letters, you'll ride in comfort and style on Goodyear Eagles.

Goodyear's Custom Polysteel Radial lets you drive with confidence, come rain or shine. Our Custom Polysteel's specially designed tread grooves disperse water from between the tire and road for traction on wet surfaces.

For light trucks and recreational vehicles, our Wrangler All-Season Radials combine all-terrain, all-weather performance with the brute strength of steel cord belts and gas-saving economy only radial construction can provide. And Wrangler's self-cleaning tread design resists plugging up in mud or snow.

No guesswork. Experienced technicians inspect your vehicle carefully and thoroughly to provide an accurate estimate of the work needed. We promise to do only the work you authorize—professionally. If we find an unexpected problem, we'll call you with our recommendation and revised estimate, and we won't start without your OK.

WE WON'T WASTE YOUR TIME AND WE WON'T WASTE YOUR MONEY

Because we want Goodyear to be your auto service center for good!

Did you know...

■ Changing your engine oil regularly is your best insurance against mechanical failure, and increases your mileage and the life of your engine.

■ Properly aligned wheels will help prevent uneven and excessive tire wear as well as improve the handling, ride and mileage of your car or truck.

■ An engine that's not in tune wastes fuel and money, and can damage other engine parts such as spark plugs, valves and filters. Filters in need of replacement can run operating costs up or prevent your car from running at all.

■ Cooling systems are the second major cause of breakdowns, next to running out of gas. Old antifreeze will eventually corrode your radiator, causing it to leak. Hoses should be checked regularly and replaced when necessary to prevent an unexpected breakdown.

■ A transmission that functions improperly could make your car hazardous to drive and may easily become an expensive repair.
