Work order to fence state hospital okayed

By KEVIN WILSON

"It's looking good." That's the extent of Susan Heintz's enthusiasm about news that a work order has been issued for the construction of a three-sided chain link fence at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

One gets the impression the township supervisor will finally believe the long-ought battle is over only when she can see and touch the fence on the east, west and south borders of the hospital's vast acreage on Seven Mile Road.

Word that the work order has been issued for the $180,000 project came last week through state senator R. Robert Geake, who forwarded a memo from state department of mental health director C. Patrick Babcock.

Babcock's department previously opposed fencing the hospital grounds, contending that the sight of a fence would be "anti-therapeutic." Local officials have consistently pressed for a fence of some type in an attempt to reduce the number of patients who "walk away" from the institution. In recent years, walkaways from the hospital have averaged more than one per day, peaking at a three-per-day average.

DMH public information director Tom DeLoach said the last fence issue dealt with by the department was in 1960, when it last tore down a fence around an institution. He said he believes the department has been accepting bids on the construction of 7,500 feet of six-foot chain link fence. He was unable to confirm prior to The Record press time whether a contract had been awarded or when construction might begin.

State senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville Township) was cautiously optimistic. "I feel we are making progress with this 12-year campaign to get the fence," said the senator, who saw one of his earlier efforts come to naught when the legislature appropriated money for a fence in the mid-1970s but DMH refused to spend it.

State representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth Township) was also reluctant to heap praise on the news of progress.

"I'll believe it when I see it; we can all go out there and have a party to dedicate the thing," he said. "I don't know if it will actually do what it is supposed to do, but it's the principle of the thing. Here they have a major state institution that causes a large problem for the surrounding community, and the department hasn't been willing to respond to that.

"Now, simply because the federal government came in and kicked their butt, they're going ahead with it," Law said, referring to a recently issued report by the U.S. Department of Justice pointing out severe deficiencies in hospital operations (see related story).

Limits on DeHoCo use pass in senate

By KEVIN WILSON

Northville and Plymouth townships claimed victory in Lansing last week in the first round of an on-going political power struggle centered on plans to purchase the Detroit House of Corrections for use as a state prison.

The state department of management and budget and the City of Detroit last week revealed terms of an agreement that would have the state purchase 123 acres of DeHoCo property in Plymouth Township for $6.7 million. The agreement also includes a provision that the state will hire all the Detroit employees currently working at DeHoCo who wish to stay there.

However, the sale is subject to legislative approval. The acquisition goes before the legislature's Joint Capital Outlay Committee this week, and operating funds are included in a supplemental appropriations bill coming up for a senate vote. The signals from the state senate last week indicate management and budget may not get everything it wants from the DeHoCo purchase.

Language in the senate version of a supplemental appropriations bill that includes funding to operate DeHoCo for six months (more than $5 million) limits population at the new state facility to 500 inmates. Another amendment calls for a moratorium on the siting of any other state or county institutions in either of the two townships.

Approved on a 2-1 vote in the corrections subcommittee to the senate appropriations committee, the legislation was subsequently passed on a 9-2 vote

Chopper ride no treat

A helicopter transported South Lyon's Jimmy Carroll Warren, 40, from the custody of Northville City Police to the Detroit Police Department. Warren was stopped by local patrol officers near Eight Mile and Randolph at 12:26 p.m. Monday for failure to yield. When officers ran a routine computer check on Warren, however, it was found Detroit Police held a warrant for his arrest on shoplifting charges. Warren was taken to Northville City Police Headquarters, and Detroit Police arranged for the helicopter pickup at Northville Downs about an hour later. Record photos by Steve Fecht.

Hansen announces bid for second board term

Having helped lay the groundwork for some of the greatest changes in the Northville Public School District in recent history, school board president Jean Hansen said Monday she will seek reelection in June to "see the board's plans implemented."

Hansen is the only trustee currently up for reelection this year.

Noting that she had given her candidacy a "great deal of thought and completely realize the time commitment" required to serve on the board, Hansen said "to quit now would be to stop in the middle of things."

Elected in June, 1981, Hansen is serving her first term as president of the board. She also has held the offices of vice president and treasurer during her four-year tenure.

Nominating petitions for residents interested in seeking election to the board currently are available in the Northville Public Schools business office. Filing deadline for all petitions is 4 p.m. April 8.

Prospective candidates must be 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of Michigan for 30 days and a resident of the school district on or before the 30th day prior to the annual election.

Candidates also need a minimum of 20 valid signatures of registered school voters. It is suggested five additional signatures be obtained in case some of the signatures do not meet registration requirements.

Petitions may be circulated in more than one township or city, but candidates wishing to petition in the City of Northville and Township of Northville must file two separate petitions.

For further information, contact John Street, director of business and finance, at 349-3400.

The last day for persons to register to vote in the June 10 election is May 13. Persons registering with the appropriate city or township clerks after 5 p.m. May 13 are not eligible to vote in the annual school election.

Absentee ballots will be available May 21.

Downtown developers purchase Main Street property

By JEAN DAY

Acceptance of its offer to purchase property on the southwest corner of Main and Center street was announced Monday by The 108 Group, a new real estate development organization with headquarters at 108 Center.

The offer was accepted by the Ten Grand Club which bought the property in January, 1981. Neither party would disclose the proposed purchase price. The 40,000-square-foot area includes the parking lot at Main and Center and the bowling alley and beauty shop buildings adjacent, plus an area behind the Winner's Circle Building.

The offer was accepted with a contingency clause that the purchaser's feasibility study is positive. It is to be completed in 90 days or the good faith deposit will be forfeited. The purchase agreement also makes the purchaser subject to continuing operation of the bowling alley through commitments it has made for the upcoming season and the beauty shop through its lease.

Paul N. Hoffmann, a Birmingham resident who has been in business in the area for six years, and John R. Standish, a community resident for two years, have formed The 108 Group and report they have retained the services of Walter Fredrich Coponen, Northville architect, to make a preliminary design for the property which will include retail, office and residentially designed space.

Attorney Philip Ogilvie, spokesman for the Ten Grand Club, reported that the group is retaining ownership of the property it owns across Center street from the bowling alley on the northeast corner at Cady.

"We didn't buy the property to run a bowling alley but to develop it," Ogilvie pointed out Monday, noting that the alley had been run to help pay taxes and other costs while exploring development of the property.

The nine members of the Ten Grand Club are A.M. Allen, Donald DiComo, Irv Kamp, L.W. Snow, Stanley

Johnston, John Miller, William Fenkell, Robert Hodson and Ogilvie. Hodson purchased the interest of Lee Holland, of the original group.

Allen, who has been a principal negotiator with the 108 group, stressed Monday that the Ten Grand's main concern was good development of the property. He added that it also would honor commitments made to current operations.

"We're working as fast as possible on the preliminary design," Hoffmann told The Record Monday, adding that he hoped it might be possible to bring plans to both the Northville Historic District Commission and the city planning commission in the very near future. "This is a fantastic community and a premier location for upscale building," Hoffmann said, emphasizing that the developers "want something unique."

"The building will incorporate the major design elements of the downtown area, enhancing the environment with upscale, premier-quality retail, office and residential designed space," the purchaser's announcement stated.

Hoffmann added that he feels it is "an incredible opportunity" and almost unheard of to find prime property in the center of a community. He said the purchase includes the liquor license held by Northville Lanes bowling alley. However, he said, that purchase has not been approved by the Michigan Liquor Commission yet.

Offices of The 108 Group are located over Orin Jewelers at 108 Center.

"We've been waiting a long time for something like this," city manager Steven Walters observed Monday.

He noted that the approval of the Northville Historic District Commission will be one of the most important factors "because it will be such an imposing building."

This approval, he explained, could be more critical than that of the planning commission because the building is expected to cover most of the area involved.

He added that the city may have to get involved in the parking arrangements as a considerable number would be required. Forty spaces currently exist for the bowling alley, he noted, saying that is really the lot where the proposed building would stand. He suggested the possibility of a deck over the parking lot behind the M.A.G.S. building.

He said the transfer of the liquor license likely would be routine as is usually the case unless the applicant had a felony record. "Quite likely the owners will want to pass it on to a restaurant tenant," he added, noting that the tenant subsequently would have to apply for it.

Surveyors for the prospective purchasers were on the site Monday. Hoffmann said some "critical information" still needed to be obtained.

Asked if the group had considered incorporating the Winner's Circle hotel property into its plans, Hoffmann said the group would like to but found the purchase price out of range.

That property has been for sale or lease since the first floor was vacated when James Rea moved his liquor license and bar and opened the Starting Gate Lounge on Center last year.

Katz started his career as a teenager playing in night clubs. He has played with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra on many occasions and has played for many wedding receptions and other social engagements. He is a sought-after accompanist and soloist. Katz also plays the harpsichord. His credits include composing and arranging as well as teaching. He recently staged "Eight Pianos Are Better Than One" at Orchestra Hall. Final program of the current season will be the appearance of Bess Abel April 18. The former executive assistant to Joan Mondale also was secretary to Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson.

The parade is to begin at 10 a.m. and will make stops at the Cady Street Cemetery before going into Rural Hill for ceremonies. Sandra L. Myers, post secretary, stated in the post's letter of application.

Budget projections show revenue drop

Conservative projections suggesting a reduction in Northville Township revenues for the 1985-86 fiscal year were reviewed in the first of three scheduled budget hearings by the board of trustees March 9.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen and township manager David Leiko project revenues of $1.624 million for the year beginning April 1, an increase of nearly $135,000 over last year's budget figure but roughly $40,000 below the actual figures estimated for the current year.

The projection continues the township treasurer's practice of making conservative estimates on revenue. Last year's budget figure of $1.46 million will likely prove out to be nearly $200,000 short of actual income at township hall, with year-end estimates bumped up to $1.66 million. The 1984-85 budget represented a reduction from the prior year actual income of $1.52 million.

Trustees did not question the projections which, compared with estimates for the 1984-85 year-end, show reductions in revenue from property taxes and building permit fees.

Also reviewed in the Saturday budget hearing were expenditure projections for the police and recreation departments and for senior citizen services.

Police operations are projected to cost nearly $80,000 more than the estimated figures for the year ending March 31. The figure includes hiring an additional officer July 1, salary increases under the union contracts and purchase of a word processing system for the department.

Total cost of operating the police department next year is projected at nearly $705,000. Income from the 2.2 mills dedicated to police operations is projected at $388,000. The difference is made up from other revenue sources.

Major attention was focused on the senior citizen services budget, which totals $28,070 — an increase of nearly $8,000 over last year.

Trustees questioned the necessity of making the senior citizen coordinator position a full-time job. It has been limited to 26 hours per week, 50 weeks a year. The budget approved by the senior citizen council calls for the position to be a full time, 40 hour, 52 week job at a salary of $11,960.

Senior citizen services are funded by both city and township under a formula which also applies to library and recreation operations. Based in part on property values in the two communities, the formula for the upcoming township budget year calls for a 59.62 percent contribution by the township and 40.38 percent funding from the city. Its projected budget calls for $15,752 from the township and $10,668 from the city, plus $1,650 in fees and other income.

Senior citizen coordinator Marlene Kunz appeared at the meeting, noting that she had resigned the position in January largely because she was working 35 hours per week or more and only getting paid for 26 hours. She, Marie Knapp of the senior citizens' council and Fran Yoakam, city housing director (in charge of the Allen Terrace senior citizen apartments) said the demand for senior citizen services requires a full-time coordinator.

They documented the services provided, including information referral, operation of an activity center, weekly shopping journeys for those senior citizens who lack transportation, coordination of other services that provide health check-ups and tax information and interaction with other agencies serving the elderly.

But treasurer Richard Henningsen questioned the balance between the number of residents served by the program in the city and township. He asked for specific figures on how many people using senior citizen services are from the city and how many from the township.

"Why do we need that (full-time position)?" Henningsen asked. "I guess I just don't see the justification for it in terms of the services to our people."

Kunz said the number of persons participating in weekly shopping trips is virtually equal between city and township. Asked for figures on other activities, she supplied a breakdown of visitors to the senior citizen activity center downtown.

Henningsen said after the meeting that he was not satisfied that township residents were using the service in sufficient numbers for him to justify having the township pay the majority of the cost associated with the program.

The township board requested a revised budget for the program to reflect changes when a new bus for the program, purchased by the township with federal grant monies, is added in the near future. Transportation has been provided through rental of school buses — the new small bus is expected to reduce some costs while adding others. The budget presented last week did not anticipate the addition of the vehicle.

The new budget is to be presented to the board when it again conducts a budget hearing beginning at 7 p.m. Friday. The senior citizens' council also meets that evening.

Rhea Wilcox recalls early years at library

Little girls used to come in and play with their dolls and paper dolls on the rug in front of the fireplace... it really was a very different library.

As she prepared to move from her apartment at 250 First Street last weekend, Rhea Wilcox recalled what the old Northville Public Library was like during the almost-23 years she served as librarian in the building which has since been moved to Mill Race Historical Village.

Noting that she will be 83 years old in June, Mrs. Wilcox explains that she feels the time has come for someone else to care for her as she has cared for others. She is moving to Plymouth Towne Apartments on Haggerty near Plymouth Road where two meals a day and many other services are provided.

The move comes almost 49 years after she came to Northville with her parents, Walter and Isabella Lyon, in 1936. The family home was located on the southeast corner of Cady and Wing streets. The site now is part of a municipal parking lot.

Mrs. Wilcox recalls that she was working for Dr. Richard Kerr, a dentist, in Northville, when she was called about a library aide opening.

"Dr. Kerr thought I should take it," she remembers, "and he had his brother drive me to Detroit for the interview at the Detroit Public Library."

Mentioning that she had no library training, she was told, "If you're here, you'll learn." Mrs. Wilcox had attended Detroit Teachers' College for almost two years, not quite finishing because of illness.

She worked under Louise Bryan, then librarian, until she left four years later. Mrs. Wilcox then assumed the post, staying until she retired in 1962.

"We used the fireplace all the time in the winter," Rhea Wilcox relates. There were comfy overstuffed chairs near it where readers could curl up with a book and children could play.

The library, which was then located on the east side of the street at 107 South Wing, also was the meeting place for Northville Woman's Club and Northville Camera Club, recalls Mrs. Wilcox.

"I remember once that a man came into the library who told me, 'Do you know, wherever I go I visit the library. The minute I put my foot on the porch, I knew this was going to be different from any I'd ever seen,'" the former librarian relates.

After the building was moved to the Mill Race Historical Village to preserve it when the Northville Square was being constructed on the site, it was given its original name. It now is known as the New School Church. The structure was built as a church but for most of its life was used as the library. The fireplace, an early addition, was removed as the building was returned to its original design.

"In bad weather I could just slide to work," Rhea Wilcox laughs, noting how close she lived.

In 1939 Rhea Wilcox married her across-the-street neighbor Charles Wilcox, whose home sat on the present site of the post office.

"We had both been taking care of our mothers and had not married," she explains. They were married 15 months when he died.

As she packed her books last week, Rhea Wilcox mentioned that she had many doll and hobby books as well as children's books, including autographed books of Tasha Tudor.

"I was particularly interested in dolls," she says, noting that it resulted in her having an original doll house constructed by a William Burger of Mt. Clemens.

"I started collecting for it before I left the library," she says as she reveals that it is being given to the Northville Historical Society now.

"I'd say it's old fashioned as it has no bath and no electric lights."

It is unusual as the colonial style dollhouse with cedar shake roof of handmade shingles is on a rotating base, giving access to rooms at the front and back.

Among the miniature furnishings collected by its owner are two needlepoint rugs worked by the late Ruth Starkweather of Northville.

Some of the furnishing came from Sweden, its owner says, pointing out details such as the dining room wainscoting and the especially made panel doors with tiny brass knobs.

While she has given some family antiques to her nephew, Richard Lyon, and his wife Martha, as well as to other relatives, Rhea Wilcox will be taking other Victorian tables and chests with her to her new home.

The decision to make the move, she says, was done quickly and by herself. "Dick was pleased, though," she mentions, "because he worried if he did not get an answer when he called — this way there is a 24-hour call service."

"Now, I'm really looking forward to getting settled," this octogenarian reports as she begins a new phase of her life.

McMaster promoted to assistant for curriculum

By MICHELE FECHT

After only six months in the Northville Public Schools central office, Dolly McMaster will take the helm of the curriculum and instruction department following the death of assistant superintendent Nancy Soper February 27.

The board of education Monday unanimously approved Superintendent George Bell's recommendation to change McMaster's title of administrative assistant for curriculum to director of curriculum and instruction.

Salary for the directorship also will be adjusted upward from $40,000 to $41,592. The increase will be made retroactive and prorated to McMaster's date of hire, September 12.

Bell explained to the board that since her appointment at the start of the current school year, McMaster immediately took on the responsibilities of the entire curriculum department in light of Soper's failing health.

He noted that McMaster, a former Brighton middle school assistant principal, "has demonstrated a sound knowledge of curriculum and the leadership skills to effectively manage the program."

He stated that due to the "consolidation of building populations and the closing of schools for the 1985-86 school year, I cannot recommend additional staffing to supervise the instructional program."

Bell said that by making McMaster a director rather than filling the assistant superintendent post held by Soper, it "will be necessary to redistribute jobs in the central office."

The superintendent said he met with building principals last Friday to discuss parceling out responsibilities.

He noted that it will be necessary for building principals "to take on stronger leadership roles district-wide."

In addition to the reorganization in the curriculum department, the school board also unanimously approved the appointment of Thomas Cey as middle school assistant principal effective July 1, 1985.

Cey has been assistant principal at both Meads Mills and Cooke junior highs for the past two years.

Superintendent Bell said that David Longridge, principal of the middle school, recommended Cey's appointment in light of his involvement in the planning and implementation of the middle school program for next year.

Cey currently is completing work on his doctorate at Wayne State University in the field of educational technology.

We have all your IRA answers.

"... Retirement's only 10 years away—it's too late to start an IRA... right?"

Wrong.

Putting $2,000 each year into a Down River Federal Savings Individual Retirement Account for 10 years could give you an extra nest egg of $35,833.*

After all, why settle for just getting by when you can start now and build a bigger and more secure future. At $2,000 a year, you'll have a tidy sum in ten years. An extra $250 deduction is allowed for a non wage earning spouse for a total deduction of $2,250. And married couples who are both employed may contribute up to $4,000 a year to an IRA—so you'll have twice as much in your nest egg.

And, let us tell you about how your

Seven Cooke Junior High students recently took honors in the 1984-85 Detroit Free Press Writing Awards Contest. The contest, sponsored by Wayne State University, the Charles Mott Foundation and The Detroit Free Press, was open to private and public school students in nine southeastern Michigan counties. More than 4,000 entries were judged for three possible levels of awards. The highest honor — the Award of Excellence for which students receive a certificate and dictionary — went to Shannon Couzens, ninth grade, for her short story, "The Problem," and John Snage, seventh grade, for his sketch, "I Was Born." Taking honorable mentions for short stories were Ruth Chesney, Chris Lazzara, Nancy Merrifield and Marilyn Michelitch. A certificate of commendation went to Todd Berlinski for his short story. Local resident chairs stallion show

By B.J. MARTIN

When the Michigan Horse Council's Stallion Exhibition and Trade Show opens in Lansing this weekend, possibly nobody will be more excited than Beverly Grunheid.

The longtime Northville resident is co-chairing the annual event she helped found and organize last year. Last year's show attracted national notoriety for its tremendous success — nearly 20,000 visitors attended the two-day program.

This year, Grunheid expects even higher attendance for the two-day docket of horse exhibits, seminars and related activities. "People have been telling me at national conferences they heard about the function," she says.

"It was the result of the Governor's Conference on the Michigan Horse Industry (in June, 1982)," Grunheid says of the exhibition and show. "It was one of the directives of the conference to find a location for an exposition of this magnitude."

"When we started it, it was basically an expansion of a smaller-scale horse exhibition the Michigan Horse Council would host at the Michigan State Livestock Pavilion every January," she explains.

"But we thought the show wasn't meeting the demands of the size of the industry, so we expanded it somewhat and held it at the Lansing Civic Center in March."

Representatives of nearly 60 groups related to the horse industry, from the Michigan Department of Agriculture, to horsemen's associations, constitute the Michigan Horse Council, which sponsors the exhibition and trade show.

Here is the schedule of activities for this weekend's Stallion Exhibition and Trade Show:

SATURDAY, MARCH 16: Exhibits Open 9 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. "Las Vegas Night" 7:30-11 p.m.

Seminars:

- "Nutrition Problems in the Performance Horse," 10 a.m.

- "Those Gentle Giants: Draft Horses," Michigan Draft Horse Breeders Association, 10 a.m.

- "Equine Photography," George Smallsreed, U.S. Trotting Association, 11 a.m. (also 2 p.m. Sunday).

- "Buckskin: What Is The Dun Factor?" J. Midgley, president Buckskin Horse Association of Michigan, 11 a.m.

- "Building Your Career," College of Agriculture and Natural Resources, Michigan State University, 2 p.m.

- "Update on Colic Problems in the Horse," 2 p.m.

- "Horses and the Law, Leonard Kitchen, attorney, 2 p.m. (also Sunday at 2 p.m.)"

- "Hunters and Jumpers: Where To Show Your Horse," 3 p.m.

An Extra Special Sale On All Our Special Extras

Save up to 60% at Newton's 11-Hour Only Employee Take-Over Sale.

Saturday, March 16, 1985

Only Newton Furniture gives you a sale with these great savings. It seems like we let things pile up a bit too much here and there, and eventually, we had a whole separate stock of extra special items, ready to go.

Then our employees decided to get into the sale business, by making a certain point with me last week. "David," they all said in unison, "you advertise our best pieces at super savings ... yet we have hundreds of beautiful extra items just sitting around. Let's do something about it."

"Fine," I replied, "what do you suggest?"

"Just let us take care of everything," they said.

Well, I let them. And I'll tell you, they really can throw a sale. Here's what they've done:

Flora Fiscelli started it off. A real sweetie, Flora has a brilliant flair for interior decor, and got the idea that a wonderful sofa should go out at 60% savings. I admit it: I almost cried when she Marked Down a Beautiful Traditional Sofa in Long-Wearing Herculan Cover — originally crafted to sell for over $1,000 for Only $392. "That's a savings of over $600," I said nervously. Well, Flora just smiled, and put that sale tag where everyone can see it. What could I say? — except that if you're after this elegant sofa at these kinds of savings, get in early.

Steve Fisher is a long-time Newton employee, and is one of our top people. Steve's taken a shine to a superb Sleep Sofa in a Stylish Earth-Tone English-Tweed, With a Super Comfortable Mattress. Steve's always joking that he'd like to take a little nap, just to try it out. "Steve," I said seriously, "sell that sleep sofa." So Steve smiled (you'll find that our people smile often) and crossed off our regular price of $798. He wants to sell it for $398. "Isn't $400 off a bit generous?" I cried. "You told me to sell it," said Steve. And at more than half off, I'm sure he will.

Mary Ellen Robertson is another Newton devotee. A real swinger, she'll get out on a disco floor and swivel those hips enough to freeze a man's eyeballs in their sockets. "Mary Ellen," I said, with my eyes tightly shut, "sell those extra swivel rockers." Well, Mary Ellen swiveled her way over to our sale tags, and Marked Down Our Swivel Rockers in Beautiful Rich Velvets from $309 Down to Only $169. Maybe some are even less than that, I don't know. I'm afraid to look.

All our tables went to Craig Madven. Craig is a no-nonsense guy who wants to get a job done, and done right. He marched over to our huge selection — including End Tables, Cocktail Tables, Coffee Tables, Tea Tables (all in luxurious natural woods, like oak and fruitwoods) and went to work. Instead of $299, They Now Start at Only $99. By this time I was too tired to argue. Get in early. At $99, they won't last long.

At this point, Sally Morche — one of our best interior designers — asked about reducing a Highly Sophisticated Fruitwood Bedroom Set. "Well Sally," I said, "just do your thing." Sure enough, Sally flashed her brighter-than-usual smile, and Marked It Down from $1,569 to Only $747. A savings of $822, Sally? I asked, (redundantly — I knew that Sally already knew about the savings). Well, Sally's look told me that this was a sale to really let you Save.

Then Mary Witherspoon said she'd like to take care of our extra contemporary sofas. "Can I mark them down?" she asked, ever so nicely. I went to look at one in particular with her — A Beautiful Modern Style With a Contemporary Textured Fabric of Herculan Tweed. Mary wanted to take An Original Price Around $895 and Mark It Down to Only $458. I thought savings of $437 a bit generous, so we flipped a coin. I lost. And you win. Ask to see this contemporary gem, now at spectacular savings.

Next came Sharon Ison, who loves to entertain. So naturally, we discussed dining rooms. "Just let me put that pecan dining set on sale, David," she said, "and it'll disappear like my famous pecan pie." Well, I love pecan pie, but Marking Down a Lovely Pecan Dining Set from $2,498 to Only $1,149 could give me indigestion if I think about it too long. Instead, I think about pecan pie — and you should think about saving $1,348 on this truly elegant dining set.

Tom Sparks took care of all of our extra Lamps. Ranging in price up to several hundred dollars, Tom said, "I've got it. Price them as low as $49." "Tom," I said, most patiently, "These are Designer Ceramic Lamps. Some of Them are of glazed bone. $49??" No matter, Tom wants to see them go. Starting at only $49, I'm sure he'll get his way.

Sharon Kleinow was eager to see Our Extra Mattress Sets Get the Same Savings. I looked them all over — top quality manufacturers like Serta and Simmons. Sharon believes in simplicity. So she simply Marked Them All Down 40-50% Off the Regular Price. These aren't the kind of savings you want to sleep on — they're savings that'll make you sleep a lot easier. Get in early Saturday for the best selection.

By this time, it was obvious that Saving Big Bucks Was the Key to This One-Time Special Sale. So I took a stance. All the general odds n' ends, all the various pieces of bric-a-brac, all sorts of items to suit all styles of decor Are Marked Down At Least 50%, And Many Are Reduced 60%. I mean, why fight a successful trend?

To finish things off, I took a look at a Splendid Sectional in Contemporary Styling, With an Indescribably Pretty Abstract Cover. Come in and see for yourself, because it's more than stunning — It's Marked Down From A Regular Price Of $1,398 to Only $799. One of you reading this right now is going to pick up a real value.

So, you get the picture, right? (Incidentally, A Generous Selection of Our Pictures and Accessories Are Now 1/2 Off). There's something for everyone here. Hundreds of One-of-a-Kind Pieces That Could Be Just Perfect For Your Home, And It's All On Sale, With Savings Up to 60%. Plus the regular savings you get everyday at Newton. So get in early Saturday, and take advantage of these great savings. You'll meet all of our smiling faces who helped make it happen, and best of all, you'll satisfy yourself with that perfect piece — now at the perfect price. One Day Only. Saturday, at all Newton Stores.

EMERGENCY CARE CENTER

Cuts, fractures, sprains, fevers and other minor emergencies happen when you least expect them. And when they do, you need quick, professional attention.

That's the reason Providence Hospital opened the Novi Emergency Care Center (NECC). It's conveniently close to everyone in the Novi, West Bloomfield, Northville and Farmington area. Even better, its team of medical professionals—including members of the Providence Hospital medical and nursing staff—is ready to assist you and your family 24 hours a day, every day of the year.

The NECC handles major emergencies, too. Its Emergency Department is every bit as complete as the one at Providence Hospital. Advanced life-support equipment like the new EKG heart monitor enable us to treat and stabilize patients with even catastrophic injuries and life-threatening illnesses.

Whenever you or a member of your family face a medical emergency—from a minor cut to a more serious situation—remember the staff, the facilities, the convenience, the 24-hour availability...and the experience of Providence.

Jaycees outline plans for Easter, July Fourth activity

Holidays — both Easter and the Fourth of July — were on the minds of Northville Jaycee representatives who attended the city council meeting March 4.

Jaycee Bill Kelly is heading arrangements for the annual Jaycee Easter Egg Hunt held the Saturday before Easter. It will be in Cass Benton Park again this year.

Scott Leikett will be chairman of the Fourth of July parade.

In a letter to the city, Kevin Hartshorne, chapter vice president and chairman of the Fourth of July committee, outlined plans for the celebration. He, chapter president Bob Cummings and Kelly attended the council meeting.

The council authorized a contribution up to $1,500 to assist with costs, subject to a matching contribution being made by the township.

The budget for the parade and fireworks this year will exceed $5,000, council members were told. The Jaycees added that this is a break-even budget. Hartshorne noted that he had received confirmation from three bands to march in the parade, but said the cost to do so was $1,200. He explained that bands were among the most popular, but also the most expensive items.

The Jaycees said that added income is being obtained by being able to charge a $1 fee for parking at the high school with $500 being raised this way last year.

Approved unanimously was the proposed parade route, the official request (for insurance reasons) that the Jaycees put on the parade and fireworks and the use of city signs to promote the celebration.

The fireworks plans were approved subject to the Jaycees getting required permits.

The Jaycees said efforts are being made to make this year's celebration outstanding "as we march into this, our 25th year of service to our community."

The Jaycees related to council that they are hoping to locate former presidents of the chapter to have them ride in a float in the parade.

Activities, according to the proposed schedule, will begin with the parade at 10 a.m. It will assemble at the western end of the Downs parking lot and commence north on Griswold to Main and west to Rogers, south to Cady and east to Wing, south to Fairbrook and back to the Downs.

The chicken barbecue will be served from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. in Mill Race

Historical Village. The fireworks display will be at dusk at the high school hill.

Manpower is at a premium, the Jaycees related, noting that some members work on all three of the day's events, starting at 6 a.m. with the parade and ending with the fireworks.

The council noted that city expenses include assistance of police, fire and DPW departments during all events.

Mayor Paul Vernon suggested that a meeting be held with the Jaycees, city township and state police post officials to determine the amount of police and fire help needed and see if the manpower costs could be shared.

Speaker on drug abuse scheduled

Daniel P. DeFer, a certified physician's assistant at Brighton Hospital, will discuss "How to Spot a Drug or Alcohol Problem in Your Child" at 7:30 p.m. March 21 in the Northville High School Cafeteria.

The lecture is the first of three programs being offered this semester by the Northville Action Council (NAC), a task force comprised of parents, students and staff working together to increase the community's awareness of the ramifications of substance abuse on youth in the community.

William Hamilton, assistant principal at Northville High School, said parents of elementary and junior high students as well as high school students are encouraged to attend the free lecture.

DeFer, a former Green Beret and graduate of Dartmouth, has worked on the medical staff of Brighton Hospital — which specializes in treatment of chemically dependent persons — since 1983.

He formerly was on the staff of Samaritan Health Center in Detroit working in the alcohol and drug detoxification and rehabilitation unit.

He also is a resource person for the Washtenaw City Red Cross and has taught several courses on substance abuse.

Hamilton said the Northville Action Council is hoping to increase the community's awareness of the problems of substance abuse through guest speakers and programs.

He noted that the NAC, formed last year by a group of concerned residents, already is planning programs within the schools, such as student peer groups and empathy training.

He said one of the focal points of the March 21 program will be to determine whether parents are interested in meeting in small groups with other parents in their homes to discuss problems their families may be having with substance abuse.

Flyers promoting the presentation suggest the audience will "come face to face with the reality of eternity" and suggest visitors "Use this as a tool to bring many of your friends to Christ."

Admission is free, tickets are available in the church office. For more information, call 348-9030.

Membership growth wins award

When Northville's Jaycees hold their "Membership Information Night" for interested local residents at O'Sheehan's Friday, they'll be on the winning side.

The Northville chapter of the Michigan Jaycees was awarded the organization's "honorary mention" for second place in membership growth for the third quarter of the year.

Doug Boor, state district director of Region 16-D, received a Presidential Award of excellence for outstanding membership growth in his region.

Bob Cummings, Teresa Folino and Kevin Hartshorne were awarded the Eagle of Pride award for their outstanding contributions and activities in the Northville chapter.

Ken Smith received the Big Buck recruiting award, given to the member whose recruits together possess the highest total weight.

The awards were given at the Michigan Jaycees' Winter Board Meeting February 15-16 in Jackson. In attendance for the Northville Jaycees were Chapter President Bob Cummings, Executive Vice-President Debbie Belkowski, Secretary Teresa Folino, State District Director Doug Boor and Local Member Dan Bonner.

The membership meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at O'Sheehan's, Seven Mile at Northville Road. "Anybody who's interested in the Jaycees is invited to attend," advises Cummings.

Church will host drama

"Heaven's Gates and Hell's Flames," billed as a "dramatized real life presentation," will be performed by Reality Outreach Ministries at Christian Community Church, 41355 Six Mile, at 6 p.m. March 17 and 7 p.m. March 18.

The drama includes a cast of 50 and features sound and lighting effects.

Admission is free, tickets are available in the church office. For more information, call 348-9030.

We have all your IRA answers.

"I'm going to retire in 20 years-no sense starting an IRA now... right?"

Wrong.

Start now with an annual $2,000 contribution to a Down River Federal Savings Individual Retirement Account and, at the end of 20 years, you'll have an extra $132,049* to play with!

$132,049 isn't bad when you stop to think that it means less than $3.39 a week to make a $2,000 a year contribution into your IRA. That's a lot less than many people spend on entertainment!

And, you'll be creating a solid, secure addition to your future. Here's a pleasant bonus: That $2,000 a year is deducted from your income — and the taxes you'd normally pay on it and the interest earned are deferred.

Here's your first step: Visit or call any of our 24 neighborhood offices. In the Downriver area call 285-1010, Northwest area 477-9340 and in the Monroe area 243-6600.

Need a loan to finance your IRA? Borrow from us now and pay us back monthly. And remember, the interest on this loan like your IRA is another tax deduction.

IRS regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal prior to age 59½ on IRA accounts. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts.

We make it a little easier for you.

*Based on a conservative 10% annual growth and a total 20 year contribution of $40,000.

U.S. investigation reveals problems at state hospital

By KEVIN WILSON

Overcrowding and understaffing at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital have created "severe deficiencies" that threaten the civil rights of patients at the Seven Mile Road institution, the U.S. Department of Justice determined recently.

In an investigation prompted by complaints filed under the federal Civil Rights of Institutionalized Persons Act (CRIPA), the justice department found that the care being provided by "the present nursing staff to the 1,100 patients at NRPH is clearly inadequate and jeopardizes patient safety."

The report, signed by U.S. Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, pointed to deficiencies in hospital operations regarding record-keeping, the use of drugs, use of seclusion and restraint and "the hospital's ability to provide treatment programs to those patients for whom such programs are necessary to ensure their protection from harm and freedom from unreasonable bodily restraint."

Similar findings regarding operations at Ypsilanti Regional Psychiatric Hospital were issued in a simultaneous report on another CRIPA investigation. Another investigation is just beginning at the department of mental health's (DMH) Kalamazoo hospital.

DMH director C. Patrick Babcock said many of the findings in the NRPH report have been addressed in the past two fiscal years and more will be done under a $14 million population reduction project. That project, detailed by this newspaper in December and announced by DMH in February, aims to cut patient census to 650 over several years. It is part of a longer-term plan with an ultimate goal of housing only 500 patients at NRPH.

In a letter to state legislators, Babcock stated that, "While we are not in agreement with many of the aspects of the Justice Department's reports, several of the findings have been well known to the state and well discussed in the past."

In a press statement, Babcock said that "At the heart of the complaints which have been lodged against these facilities is the issue of staffing."

Staffing levels suffered in the early 1980s as DMH suffered $145 million in budget cuts, slashing 5,000 employees from the department's payroll.

Bottom was reached in 1982, when direct care staffing was at the 77 percent level, Babcock said, adding that staffing has been expanded since then to nearly 93 percent of the state's standard. There were 783 direct care workers in 1982, and 920 currently, he said.

Understaffing, the Justice Department report states, leads to "unqualified and inappropriately trained personnel carrying out important medical procedures" resulting in "unreasonable risks of harm" to patients.

Staffing levels are in proportion to the number of patients. NRPH had a design capacity of 650 beds, altered to allow more than 900, but the patient census has been hovering between 1,000 and 1,100 for several years.

DMH's population reduction plan at NRPH would transfer many patients to other facilities, including an estimated 80 hearing-impaired mentally ill who would be housed at the main building of the former Plymouth Center for Human Development on Sheldon north of Five Mile. Other transfers would be to hospitals contracting with DMH to provide treatment beds, to other community mental health facilities and some community placement efforts.

The plan is being implemented, DMH public information director Tom DeLoach said, under an agreement between the governor and the chairmen of the house and senate appropriations committees. Official funding of some $8 million for the first year of the project is included in a supplemental appropriations bill currently working its way through the legislature.

Babcock said another response to the problems cited in the report arrived with new medication practices recently instituted at NRPH. The Justice Department report states that there was insufficient documentation regarding the decision to administer drugs to patients, and that unqualified personnel were administering drugs under limited or no supervision.

Babcock said the new procedures more closely monitor the drugs given to patients and have reduced "medication errors" and the number of patients receiving more than one drug.

Restraint and seclusion, the Justice Department report states, "are used more for punishment or for the convenience of staff" than they are as treatment. The most frequent reason for confining or restraining a patient, the department found, was in response to "patient on patient abuse."

Investigators blamed this overuse of seclusion and restraint on understaffing, noting that NRPH's own professional staff would have preferred to afford treatment rather than restrain patients.

The Justice Department investigators confirmed a charge often leveled by outside critics of the hospital. Many patients housed at NRPH pose a danger to themselves and others, in part due to lack of supervision, the Justice Department report found. Northville Township's persistent demand that the hospital be fenced has often been met with DMH claims that walkaways from the institution are not dangerous.

"Patients who suffer from severe and sometimes violent psychiatric disorders, who are inadequately or inappropriately treated or supervised, pose a significant danger to themselves and others," the Justice Department report states.

Investigators reviewed incident reports dated between July, 1983 and May, 1984 and determined that the other hospital deficiencies result in "unreasonable safety risks" to both the dangerous patients and those institutionalized with them.

"These include attacks by patients on other patients or staff, self abuse, destruction of property, neglect of patients who are supposed to be under one-on-one observation, inappropriate medical treatment and unreasonable use of seclusion and restraint," the report states.

Among the staffing deficiencies noted is a lack of qualified psychiatrists.

by the entire appropriations committee. It will go to a floor vote in the senate this week, and is expected to pass.

State senator R. Robert Geake is acting chairman of the corrections subcommittee and a vice chair of the appropriations committee. He introduced the amendments capping the DeHoCo population and calling for a moratorium.

"That's the first step," explained Northville Township supervisor Susan Heintz, who went to Lansing with Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen March 6 to sit in on the committee meetings. "The management and budget people were really shocked — they didn't think we could do it."

"We expect the real fight will come in the house," she said, noting that Democratic governor James Blanchard's administration is opposed to both measures and is likely to pressure the Democratic majority in the house to delete them from the final appropriations bill.

"The department of management and budget people want 750 prisoners at DeHoCo," Heintz said. "We found out while we were in Lansing that the corrections department has wanted only 500, but it's management and budget that wants 750."

She said the evident reason for the 750-bed demand from management and budget is to justify the hiring of all the DeHoCo employees. The Detroit employees are paid more than are those doing similar jobs for the state department of corrections, which may prove a sticking point when the deal goes to the legislature.

Documents from the department of management and budget indicate a target date of April 2 to transfer ownership from Detroit to the state, with operations to begin by June. The operations funding approved in committee last week calls for 160 full-time employees to be added, but salary money is capped at a $46 per capita per day level — the average for state correctional institutions. It doesn't allow for higher-than-average wages and the appropriation is line-itemed, preventing the corrections department from using other funds to expand wages without legislative approval.

Geake said that, due to the difference in wage rates proposed for DeHoCo employees and state corrections workers at the Phoenix and Scott facilities directly across the road, "I expect there will be substantial opposition from the legislature to taking on those employees at their current wage rates."

The proposal to hire DeHoCo workers has been explained informally to Geake, he said, and would freeze the wages of DeHoCo employees until "civil service pay rates catch up to what they're making now."

State representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth Township), who will be the front man in efforts to see the population cap and moratorium enacted in the house of representatives, said he believes he can muster bipartisan support for the concept by working with Democrats who represent other communities targeted for prison siting, including Westland.

Law is introducing legislation calling for a statewide ban on siting a second prison in areas where one already exists unless there is approval from the local governing body. Early drafts apply only to townships, he said, and call for board of trustee approval. But the bill is being revised to include cities in hopes of gathering Democratic support from Westland and, perhaps, Pontiac.

Law said he would try to "tie bar" the bill to the one authorizing the DeHoCo purchase. He, too, was critical of the agreement to hire Detroit employees at their current wages.

"The corrections department has done a lot of touting the economic advantages of having a prison in your community. They're going to have to answer to that," he said. "I asked them during the hearings last week how many jobs would be available to people from our area if they buy DeHoCo. They said 'maybe 20.' That's out of 200. So I asked how our people would apply, and they said 'Get on the civil service list.'"

"In other words, there is no preference for people from the local community," he continued. "This prison is going to do nothing for us. That civil service list is already lined up, there's no way a new applicant is going to be hired."

Law said there is little hope of completely defeating the DeHoCo purchase, but reason to expect that the local demands for controlled use of the site can be enforced through the legislature.

"The department of management and budget took a beating in the Senate appropriations hearings," Law said. "There were only two senators against the amendments, both from Detroit. Obviously, there was some Democratic support." The committee is made up of six Republicans and five Democrats.

of trustees of the fence action prior to its budget hearing Saturday morning. She and the board had been planning a "legislative day" in Lansing to lobby for installation of a fence.

"Right after we contacted our legislators to set up our trip, Babcock sent a memo to the senator that they had issued a work order for the fence," Heintz told trustees.

The work order was dated February 5. Babcock's memo to Geake was dated February 23. Heintz received it while in Lansing March 6.

Dogs bid for coveted 'Toto' role

For nine area pooches, Saturday's tryouts for the role of Toto in Northville High School's upcoming production of "The Wizard of Oz" were a little frenzied. They not only were required to answer to a foreign name by a new owner (Dorothy played by Melanie Bennett), but were asked to sit patiently in a basket. For some, the demands of the part were just too great. For instance, little "Champ" Manners, at left, demanded a treat before being coaxed down the Yellow Brick Road. Unfortunately, bribery lost him the part. Champ could have used a few pointers from "Teddy" Trexler, below left, who showed grace and style when called by fellow co-star Melanie Bennett. Teddy's tryout proved successful. Along with "Happy" Wesley, shown at right, he will share top billing as Toto in the upcoming production. Director Kurt Kinde is becoming quite a master in the "animal as actor" department. Last year, he directed "Sandy" in the high school production of "Annie." Fortunately for the high school custodial staff, no accidents were reported at Saturday's tryouts.

School district expands bus fleet

By MICHELE M. FECHT

As part of the school district's plan to replace its aging bus fleet, the board of education has approved an administrative recommendation to purchase three new regular buses through a lease agreement with Varsity Ford of Ann Arbor.

Two 66-passenger buses were purchased last October through a similar agreement with Jack Demmer Ford. Prior to last October's lease agreement, the district had not purchased a new full size bus since 1979.

The board's action February 25 is part of the district's long range plan for replacing and upgrading buses. The plan calls for the district to purchase two to three new buses per year on an ongoing basis. Objective of the plan is to have buses in regular use for no more than four to five years.

Currently, the average age of the buses in the K-12 fleet is six years. The average for ISEP buses is eight years. Average mileage for K-12 buses is 75,732 miles. Normal expectant usable life of a K-12 bus is five to seven years. All but one of the buses in the K-12 fleet are five years old or older.

Varsity Ford was the lowest of three bidders on the bus purchase quoting $32,857 per bus. Total cost for the three buses will be $98,571. The district paid $32,730 for buses purchased from Demmer Ford last October. Demmer also bid on the new bus request but asked $33,676 per bus making it the highest of the three bids.

Funds for the bus purchases will come out of the district's 1985-86 general fund budget. Buses are expected to be delivered prior to the start of school in September.

Superintendent George Bell told the board the district has avoided purchasing new buses by utilizing its surplus ISE bus fleet.

Currently, the district's bus fleet is made up of 10 regular K-12 buses, four K-12 special education buses and one ISE bus.

In the late 1970s, the district increased the size of its bus fleet to accommodate a significant ISEP student population. However, over the past few years, student enrollment in ISE has decreased considerably to the point where only one bus is in full service for that program.

For the past several years, obsolete K-12 buses have been replaced by surplus ISEP vehicles.

In a memorandum to the board of education last October, assistant superintendent Burton Knighton noted that the district has received almost full utilization out of the ISEP surplus buses.

The newest bus currently utilized by the district is a 36-passenger special education vehicle purchased in 1981. The oldest buses in operation are four 1976 vehicles formerly in the ISEP fleet. The remaining buses are comprised of one 1977, four 1978 and four 1979 buses.

Current condition of the buses is either fair or good with mileage ranging from 55,624 to 124,933.

The district also has a spare bus fleet made up of four 1975 buses, formerly of the ISEP fleet. The buses are used when the regular buses are in for repairs and for field trips.

The district also has 11 deadlined buses in the transportation yard which have not been certified road ready. Of the 11 deadlined buses, five are in ir-repairable condition and only are kept in the yard for usable parts. Two orthopedic buses are in poor condition and could be traded or sold.

New floors currently are being built on two remaining 1976 and two 1978 buses stored in the transportation yard.

Knighton noted in his recommendation to the board that the administration anticipates at least three additional buses will be needed in the fall to transport students who formerly walked in the Moraine and Cooke areas.

Knighton said the administration is refurbishing the floors in three of the former ISEP buses to meet the additional fleet need.

Guide aids tax appeal

Michigan Consumers Council reminds Michigan property owners that they can protest their property tax assessments.

To assist consumers, the council is offering a brochure that outlines how to review property tax assessments, what to look for in determining the accuracy of the assessments, and how to proceed through an appeal process. Copies of the brochure are available at Northville Township hall, 41600 Six Mile, or through the council.

The pamphlet is one of the most popular informational items published by the council this time of year as property owners receive their tax assessment notices. While many consumers feel their tax assessments are unfairly high, many are reluctant to "fight city hall" because they feel it's hopeless.

Consumers Council Director Kent S. Wilcox noted that many assessment changes simply reflect inflation in the housing market. "However, errors are frequently made," he said. "These can range from incorrectly computing the tax to an actual error in judging the property's value."

"The first thing consumers need to do is check the appraisal records in the assessor's office for accuracy," he continued. "It's possible that the appraisal may have been based on assumptions that are simply incorrect, such as stating the house has a finished basement or fireplace when it doesn't. The appraisal also may have missed defects that might tend to reduce the house's value such as settling or shifting on the foundation."

The council advises discussing any errors with the assessor first. Some assessors may be willing to adjust the appraisal, saving the consumer and themselves the nuisance of a formal protest. If the consumer finds it necessary to proceed with a protest, the brochure outlines information that may be useful in documenting a case before a local Board of Review.

The importance of deadlines also is stressed as each township and city has a functioning Board of Review that meets sometime between the first week in March and the first week in April.

Free copies of "How to Review and Appeal Your Property Tax Assessment" are available by writing or calling the Michigan Consumers Council at 414 Hollister Building, 106 West Allegan Street, Lansing, Michigan 48933. The telephone number is 517-373-0947.

Locally, property owners can protest their assessments by making appointments to appear before the city or township boards of review.

The city board meets March 26 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1-5 p.m.

Township board met in final session Tuesday, but additional dates and times can be scheduled if there is demand.

In the Township...

A 1984 Chevrolet Corvette, stolen from the parking lot in front of a Norwood Court residence last week, was recovered by Detroit police March 4.

According to township police, the vehicle was stolen sometime between 11:30 p.m. March 3 and 1:40 a.m. March 4. The complainant was visiting the Norwood Court residence at the time the incident occurred.

The vehicle, valued at more than $23,000, was recovered by police in Detroit's 12th Precinct at approximately 8:30 p.m. March 4. The vehicle was found on Monica in Detroit.

Detroit police noted the ignition had been punched out, the driver's side window smashed and the radio missing. The vehicle was towed to the Northville Township Police Station for processing. First Northville showing of movie, song debut featured in celebration

The focus will be on Northville as the Northville Arts Commission holds its second annual Celebration of the Arts beginning at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday in the Northville High School auditorium.

After a brief reception, the Michigan Opera Theater will perform an original show, depicting the "Flavor of Northville" and including an original song, "The Northville Flavor," composed by Karen DiChiera, M.O.T. founder, with melody by Joan Labuta, also a M.O.T. member.

The story line follows a "romance blooms in Northville" theme and begins on a trolley in downtown Detroit around the turn of the century. A young couple falls in love while taking the trolley to the end of the line in Northville. A wedding follows in the Presbyterian church and the couple explores the Northville opera house, the Ford plant and Stinson aircraft factory as they see what life was like in early Northville.

Background for the story line was taken from "Northville — The First 100 Years" by Jack Hoffman.

Hoffman is one of the featured characters in the production and is seen at the beginning at his desk writing his history of Northville. His wife also is portrayed in the story. Both have been invited to be honor guests at the celebration.

Following the performance, producer-director David Zarembo will introduce his film, "The Popcorn Man." It won the 1984 Golden Halo Award.

Northville was used as the backdrop for the touching story about a mentally handicapped man's relationships with others in the town in which he lives. Zarembo is a 20-year-old junior at Wayne State University and has produced a number of award-winning films in his short career, the sponsoring arts commission reports.

All proceeds from the event will be used to support the arts within the Northville community.

Everyone in the community is invited to attend and support the aims of the commission. Tickets are available at Bookstall on the Main, IV Seasons Flowers and by telephoning 349-0205. They are $7.50 a person.

We have all your IRA answers.

"Every dollar we put into our IRA is tax deductible... right?"

Right!

Your Down River Federal Savings IRA contribution for the year is taken off your annual income... plus the interest your IRA earns is also deferred!

For example, a married couple with a $2,000 contribution to an IRA can save taxes as this chart shows:

TAXABLE INCOME	TAX SAVINGS
$16,000 to $20,200	$80
$20,200 to $21,600	$160
$21,600 to $29,900	$520
$29,900 to $31,200	$600
$31,200 to $41,500	$700

If both members are employed, there can be a $1,000 early contribution, so the tax savings can be even greater. To find out more, call or visit any of our 21 neighborhood offices. In the Downriver area, call 285-1010. Northwest area, call 285-1010. In the Detroit area, call 243-6000.

Need a loan to finance your IRA?

Borrow from us now and pay us back monthly. And remember, the interest on this loan like your IRA is another tax deduction. IRA regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal prior to age 59 1/2. IRA accounts. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal from certificate accounts.

We make it a little easier for you.

Our Opinions

Fence news good, if we can believe

Can this be victory?

Word that the Department of Mental Health actually is working toward construction of a fence at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital is good news indeed. Now, if only we could bring ourselves to believe it.

Like most everyone else who has engaged in the 12-year battle to have the hospital fenced and suffered through several disappointments along the way, we're reluctant to let ourselves get too excited just yet. When we can walk out and grab the fence with our own hands, we'll believe it has finally happened. There doesn't seem to be much that could stop the fence now, but bitter experience tells us not to raise hopes too high.

The temptation is to proclaim DMH's final concession on this point a case of the state bureaucracy finally yielding to public pressure. But the more skeptical among us find it easier to believe local concerns are still a low priority in Lansing and that the final impetus to having the fence constructed was the U.S. Department of Justice investigation at the hospital.

The Justice Department report gives authority to what people in Northville have argued in battles in DMH: patients housed at NRPH are sometimes violent and pose a danger to others. The Justice Department's concern was for the patients whose violent tendencies are not treated at the understaffed, overcrowded institution and for the civil rights of other patients who are therefore subject to increased risks of assault.

But it is clear that a patient who poses a risk to other patients is also dangerous to hospital staff or, given the frequency of walkaway incidents, to those living in the surrounding area. Since DMH commits so-called forensics patients (those a psychiatric evaluation shows are disposed to violence) to its Ypsilanti facility, it has contended that Northville patients are not dangerous and that the public anxiety about walkaways was based on ignorant attitudes toward the mentally ill.

Now Uncle Sam comes along and suggests that, thanks to understaffing and overpopulation, patients who might otherwise be getting well are instead getting worse — and posing a danger to others. And suddenly, DMH, which has had the money in its budget to build a fence several times, finally takes action toward doing it. Given the history of the fence debate, we think the community could be forgiven for seeing a link between these events.

That aside, however, we see reason for hope. The fence is not the only new initiative at the hospital — there is a coordinated plan to reduce population and increase security at NRPH, the DMH must respond to the Justice Department and establish a meaningful program of care for the patients at the hospital, and there is a new hospital director who — simply by not standing in the way of a fence — reveals an openness to the community's concerns.

In the battle for a fence, there have been harsh words spoken and intolerant attitudes revealed regarding the hospital's purpose, the sincerity of its staff and the serious needs of its patients. Once the community can see that fence standing and read the monthly reports of hospital walkaways showing smaller and smaller numbers, it may be possible for both sides to work toward a friendlier relationship.

For the foreseeable future, Northville Psychiatric Hospital will be a major institution here. It would do both the hospital and the community a lot of good if we could get along with one another. The fence should not serve to heighten the alienation between hospital and community, but rather as a means of settling the biggest difference between them so that shared interests can be realized.

Loss will be felt

The tragic death February 27 of Nancy Soper, assistant superintendent for instruction, has left a void in this school district which will be difficult to fill in the ensuing months.

Since taking the helm of the district's curriculum department nearly a decade ago, Mrs. Soper proved a dedicated and devoted leader.

School Superintendent George Bell noted that Mrs. Soper "ran the curriculum department with an iron hand." Indeed, she was considered the bulwark behind projects such as the district's textbook calendar and inservicing staff for computer instruction.

While her contributions to the district were numerous, her last project — the middle school development — likely will be among the most remembered. Her efforts will come to fruition next September when Northville opens the doors to its new middle school.

A lifelong educator, Mrs. Soper shared her talents both in Northville and throughout the state. She was a consultant for many school districts and colleges and was highly regarded for her expertise in the curriculum area.

However, as Superintendent Bell noted last week, Mrs. Soper's legacy extended far beyond her role in the education field. Her undaunted spirit in facing the cancer that claimed her life proved a lesson in courage.

While her presence will be sorely missed in this district — she long will be remembered.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

My wife was impressed.

We were eating dinner at our favorite Mexican restaurant last Saturday when one of the waitresses came over and said, "You're Phil Jerome, aren't you? I read your column every week. It's really funny."

I acknowledged my identity, thanked her profusely and made a mental note to leave a generous tip the next time the young lady waits on table.

Please excuse whatever egotism may be involved in reporting the incident. I sort of relish those rare occurrences because I'm usually subjected to something quite different.

Like the story "Big Jack" told me.

"Big Jack" is big enough to make "Big Bad John" quake in his boots. He's a foreman at the Wixom Ford Plant and a semi-regular at The Starting Gate, formerly known as The Winner's Circle before moving to new environs. "Big Jack" is a good guy to have among your friends.

At any rate, "Big Jack" told me that Mary Margaret, who is co-owner of The Gate along with her husband, had registered great concern about the number of quarters I spend every week on the Ms. Pac-Man machine.

"She knows you work at The Paper," said Jack, "but she thinks all you do over there is write your column."

"And she's seriously worried about your financial situation. She doesn't think you can afford to spend as much money as you do playing the video machines."

"She asked me about it last week," he added. "She came up to me and said, 'They can't be paying him very much for writing that column.'"

Now, Mary Margaret is a truly wonderful lady, and I didn't want her to spend too much time worrying about my financial condition. So I asked "Big Jack" to allay her fears.

"Just tell her I also do various odds-and-ends at The Paper," I said. "Make the coffee in the morning, keep the humidifier filled with water, deliver a few papers now and then. I've even been known to shovel a little snow on occasion. It all adds up to a living wage."

Bell explains rationale behind preschool decision

To the Editor:

In response to the letter printed in the Wednesday, March 6, issue of The Northville Record from "concerned taxpayer," this reply is an effort to provide answers to some of the questions which were raised.

In the public hearings preceding the closing of Moraine School, citizen reaction very clearly advised the board that the residents of the Moraine area had no desire to have Moraine School sold. There was a concern that potential population growth might someday result in a need for the use of that facility. Further, a preference was stated that the board determine a use for the building which could mothball it for the future, yet prevent boarding it up causing a blight on the neighborhood. Certainly there is a possibility of leasing sections of the building for activities appropriate to a residential neighborhood, but we have had no contact from anyone interested in purchasing the building.

The preschool/latch key proposal really doesn't present anything new to the Northville Community. We are currently operating a variety of preschool programs in the school district, as well as a latch key for before and after school care of school age children at Silver Springs. These programs are funded through the tuition charged to the parent, thereby offering a service to the community without expense to the taxpayers. With the additional enrollment at Amerman School after Moraine's closing, it will be necessary for us to move the Amerman preschool program elsewhere. The fact that Moraine will be available for such a program makes it a logical site for the move.

Although the results from the community survey are still coming in and are being evaluated, I have read comments written on over a thousand of them. It is clear from those comments that there are people in our community who feel that a preschool program operating in a closed building is a prudent use for Moraine School. It is also clear, and I agree, that such a program should be paid for by the people who use it.

Concerned taxpayer, I appreciate your input into the decisions which must be made as we develop our course for the future. The voice of the community is loud and clear that such a program should not add to the burden of the taxpayer. I think it is equally clear that effective use of a closed building which can help defray the costs of mothballing it is in the best interests of taxpayers in particular and the Northville community in general.

Sincerely,
George R. Bell

C.A. Smith's daughter says goodbye, thanks

To the Editor:

I know that Dad, C.A. Smith, would want me to say goodbye to his many friends in Northville. The years in your community were good years which he enjoyed very much because you always gave such generous and enthusiastic support to the projects to which he committed himself.

Some of his ideas may never have come to fruition had you not said, "Go for it, Charlie," then told him you would help — and you did. He knew that and was grateful to you.

My personal file at home is bulging with clippings from The Northville Record, measured by feet rather than inches. He always sent a copy to me, often the whole paper to enable me to continue to be knowledgeable about his beloved community.

Dad's love for this area began in the 1920s. A trip to Northville on our regular Sunday afternoon drive from our northwest Detroit home became a weekly family event always ending with, "Someday we're going to live there." And so he did.

The love, respect and ready support you have all given him through his productive years in Northville are most certainly positive evidence that he selected the site of his final home wisely.

Thank you all, and goodbye for him from his daughter.

Doheny gets abatement, approvals for new industrial space

By KEVIN WILSON

Property taxes will be reduced 50 percent for 12 years on a new building to be constructed by Jack Doheny Supplies, Inc., on the shore of Lake Success, the township board of trustees determined February 14.

The board granted the tax abatement, the maximum reduction allowable under state law and the first in Northville Township, on a 6-1 vote at its regular monthly meeting.

Only trustee James Nowka voted against the abatement, stating that he believed it should be granted, but for a shorter period of time.

The board had voted unanimously in January to form an Industrial Development District (IDD) on land owned by Jack Doheny. The property, recently named Doheny Industrial Park, is on the north side of Doheny Drive (formerly Wallis). The new building is to be constructed to the north of the present home of Jack Doheny Supplies, Inc. There is room for one or two other such buildings on the parcel.

Site plans for the project received preliminary approval from the township planning commission February 26. Financing may be through tax-free municipal bonds issued through the township EDC, which approved the project area February 19. The board of trustees must approve the EDC financing after a public hearing tomorrow, March 14.

Architecture and construction are to be done by R.A. DeMattia Company, developers of two office structures Doheny owns on the opposite (northeast) shore of Lake Success, on Griswold in the city. Doheny said the new buildings will be designed to complement the office structures.

The project will cost an estimated $842,000 and includes a 30,000 square foot building (27,000 square feet of shop, assembly area and warehouse, 3,000 square feet of office space). Building cost was placed at $700,000, land improvements at $26,000, new machinery and equipment costs at $111,000 and furniture and fixtures at $5,000.

It is to retain Doheny Supplies' present eight employees and add five new jobs.

The only question raised by township board members when asked to approve the tax abatement was Nowka's concern about granting the full 12 year term allowed by law.

"This is our first one of these," Nowka said. "I don't know how to go about determining what is appropriate."

Questioned later by treasurer Richard Henningsen about his concerns, Nowka said he thought "probably three-fourths of that — eight years — would be sufficient."

Henningsen said he had "no problem" with granting Doheny a 12 year abatement, noting that "the man has been a long-time resident, his company has been an asset to the community. I think in his case, this gentleman and his company have been viable members of the community for some time."

Supervisor Susan Heintz said she had "done some investigating and other communities in this area are offering the 12 years to get developers in. I'd like this to send a message out there that Northville Township is willing to consider these measures."

Trustee Richard Allen said during an earlier discussion of the issue that he is generally opposed to granting abatements but that he found Doheny's company one worth extra measures to retain in the township.

Kiwanis captures awards

The Kiwanis Club of Northville was among 16 community service groups who received the Michigan Recreation and Park Association Community Service Award.

The Kiwanis Club was honored for its sponsorship of a weekly bowling league for mild to moderately handicapped teens and adults at Novi Bowl and for co-hosting a Home and Home Bowling Tournament with the Holt, Michigan, chapter. The Kiwanis also has assisted the Northville community with various community service-based functions during the Christmas holidays.

Community Recreation Director Jef Farland nominated the group for the award.

Attending the Recreation and Park Association Awards Luncheon were: Farland, Kiwanians L.T. Sylvestre and John Genitti, and John Buckland, chair of the Northville Community Recreation Commission.

Local bars ready for Saint Patrick's Day bashes

NOVI/NORTHVILLE — For fun and revelry, local bar owners claim Saint Patrick's Day is second only to New Year's Eve — and even then it's a close call.

"We go crazy!" admits Tom Sheehan, who with his father and older brother Tim, owns the three O'Sheehan's taverns, located in Farmington Hills, Plymouth and on Seven Mile in Northville.

"We do it up real good," says Billy O'Shea, owner of the pub that bears his name on Grand River in Novi.

At the Novi Inn, also on Grand River in Novi, a sign in the window this week reads, "Irish Spoken Here." "We've started the celebration already," said cook Dorothy Mortenson early in the week. "We're just a speakin' as Irish as we can!"

At several local bars, a Friday through Sunday bash is planned, with special menus, Irish sing-alongs, house leprechauns, and an abundance of green beer.

At O'Sheehan's, green beer, corned beef and cabbage, and Irish potato skins will be served throughout the weekend.

"We pass out kazoos and Irish song books," notes Sheehan. "The place will be jam-packed. It's a wild time."

Special Sunday hours at O'Sheehan's will be from noon to 2 a.m. "Sunday is when it will get real crazy. It will be more like a house party, with all local people," Sheehan added.

If you're not singing "Old Danny Boy," or "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" at O'Sheehan's, you can catch some of your favorite Irish tunes at O'Shea's or Northville Charley's, both of which also plan Irish sing-alongs.

O'Shea says he'll have a D.J. playing a combination of Irish and popular music on Sunday. "We were a little leary about (the holiday) falling on a O'Shea: 'We were a little leary about (the holiday) falling on a Sunday. But it looks like we're going to get a good response.'

Sunday," he notes. "But it looks like we're going to get a good response."

The fare accompanying the green beer at Novi Inn this weekend includes Irish stew and the traditional corned beef and cabbage. "I'm peeling a million potatoes," notes Mortenson.

The Novi Inn has no special Saint Patrick's entertainment planned, "other than the customers," according to Mortenson. "This is the place to be!"

If you know what symbol is on the Irish Coat of Arms and what the longest river in Ireland is, you might want to drop by Northville Charley's on Seven Mile in Northville Township. For patrons answering all 20 Irish trivia questions correctly there are free meal coupons, according to general manager Mike Collins.

Entertainment each night at Northville Charley's will be provided by Dearborn resident and Irish singer Dan David. David also will be leading a sing-along of Irish tunes.

The menu at Charley's will feature corned beef and cabbage, along with scalloped Finnan Haddie, Irish lamb stew and broiled lamb chops, Collins notes. To add a touch of the Irish to your dessert, they're featuring grasshopper pie and a Bailey's Irish Cream mousse cake.

Paul Baker, owner of the Goat Farm on Novi Road in Novi, says they rounded up "the littlest guy in Novi" to serve as leprechaun at the Goat Farm on Sunday. "He's the shortest guy I could find," Baker notes.

Special noon to 2 a.m. hours are planned on Sunday at the Goat Farm to accommodate the weekend-long Saint Patrick's Day celebration. Baker will have a few Irish selections on the menu Sunday and notes that each patron will receive a green and white helium balloon upon entering the Farm.

Entertainment is planned as usual at the Goat Farm, but Baker notes it will be 50s and 60s tunes. "Irish music all starts to sound the same after awhile," he claims.

"This is actually one of the biggest days here," Baker says. Despite falling on a Sunday, the celebration will be "just as big as last year," he anticipates.

Other locations serving up green beer include the Pit Stop on Grand River in Novi and the Starting Gate on Center Street in downtown Northville.

President Bob Olari, Programmer Paul Downing and Chairman George Rogers develop a computer program

Milford firm specializes in software

By SUE LOWE

A bit of this and a bit of that often makes the soup pot tastier. A wee bit o' the blarney is a touch of the Irish. But, BITS Computer Systems is none of the above. A bit of magic maybe, but the results are definitely giant sized.

Business Integrated Technical Systems, BITS for short, is a bright new business located in south Milford Village specializing in computer software and related services.

It is composed of three sections: computer systems, computer services and computer accounting services. Three programmers, a systems analyst, a Certified Public Accountant and several support people work with partners George Rogers and Bob Olari to develop programs which will revolutionize the task of doing business.

According to Olari, BITS currently has targeted a vertical market of businesses involved in wholesale-retail supply. Programs have been specifically designed for plumbing and heating, roofing and siding, and electrical supply houses which have a sales mix of wholesale and retail.

"When a business buys our service," explained Olari, "we go in and develop software to fit the particular needs of that business. Then, we find hardware which is compatible to the software." In laymen's language, the software developed by BITS would tell the customer's computer how to handle various business operations. For instance, invoices are often accompanied by errors in arithmetic and pricing, to say nothing of illegibility.

A BITS system would help a clerk initiate an invoice which would identify the buyer, his credit rating, etc., figure the cost and tax accurately, prepare bills of lading, deduct credit for cash and subtract all items purchased from the inventory — all in eight seconds.

The advantages of up-to-the-minute inventory management are that it allows business owners to prepare for peaks and valleys in demand for their products, and establish an adequate cash flow accordingly.

BITS is also prepared to teach the customer and his employees how to operate the computer. The company remains as a kind of guardian angel to oversee changes and re-training for one year without cost to the customer. BITS' philosophy is to design a system which will do the job today and two years into the future.

The BITS servicing department is the authorized Commodore Computers Quality Service Center for southeast Michigan. The service department has established five depots where Commodore customers can bring their computers for repairs. These depots are Jackson, Lansing, Ypsilanti, Sterling Heights and Pontiac.

BITS offers free pick up and delivery from these depots, and Commodore pays BITS to make repairs free of charge to Commodore computers which are still under warranty. BITS also repairs Apples and Ataris and their peripherals plus all computers compatible to the above.

Two on-staff accountants, one a CPA, allow BITS' accounting department to offer accounting services to area businesses and income tax services, both personal and corporate.

Besides BITS computer services, Rogers and Olari direct several other companies from their location at 218 South Main Street in Milford. Rogers has owned D&S Leasing for the last four years. The leasing company supplies employees to trucking companies such as drivers, dock workers and dispatchers.

Rogers once owned his own tractor and was director of drivers' personnel and training at a large trucking company. Olari formerly was employed in the sales and engineering of material and handling equipment. He worked at Comm Data before starting the BITS partnership with Rogers.

Other staff members include Dallas Bauer, system analyst; Paul Spoor, service manager; and Lee Yarnell, CPA and accounting manager.

Continuing the analogy of "a bit of this and a bit of that," Larry Rueff, attorney, has just moved his offices in with Rogers and Olari. The partners remarked that now the soup pot contains all the ingredients to aid the business owner: an accountant, a system analyst and an attorney. It has become sort of an one-stop-shopping place for those engaged in commerce.

Rogers said he is happy to be the owner of the historic, 18th century Italianate-style building which houses the companies. He says he has ideas to further restore the facade by replacing the present upstairs windows with the original style. "I want to preserve the integrity of the building while at the same time, remodel it for adaptive use," Rogers commented.

State's housing costs remain much lower than national levels

Residents of the metropolitan Detroit area thinking of a move to another section of the country may want to look twice at housing prices before making a final decision.

Based on median sale prices of existing single family homes, costs in the Midwest are continuing to follow a pattern that historically places them among the lowest in the nation.

The December median in the Midwest at $55,900 was about 30 percent lower than the national figure of $72,800. A move to Southern states will find Midwesterners paying about 29 percent more, while heading into Northeastern states will bring a 48 percent jump.

The real shock may come in going to Western states where the median price is nearly 70 percent more.

Robert F. Craver, president of the Metro Multiple Listing Service, noted that homes in Michigan and surrounding states have always been bargain-priced in comparison with other areas.

"Even in 1978 when sales across the country reached record levels, prices here were 13 percent lower than the national figure," said Craver.

"In the intervening period, Midwest home costs have increased less than a third, while they have gone up 50 percent on a national basis," Craver continued. "The biggest climb is in the Northeast where prices are now 73 percent higher than in 1978 followed by the South with nearly a 60 percent jump. Even in the West, where strong migration brought rapid price rises in the early '70s, costs have escalated another 42 percent since 1978."

Craver said statistics show average are several thousand dollars above the median in the 1,600 square mile area covered by the multiple listing service.

The average price of the 18,480 homes sold by the organization's members in 1978 was $44,338. Last year, the average price of the 14,000 houses sold by members was $58,081, an increase of approximately 30 percent.

"Since 1980, our average prices have gone up about 2.3 percent," said Craver. "This compares with a 17 percent increase across the country."

"As the market continues to improve and the housing stock begins to decline, we think prices here may begin showing substantial gains," he concluded.

IRS reports procedures for extending payments

Form 1040 or 1040A filers can request an automatic four-month extension of time to file their tax returns, according to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

Taxpayers filing Form 1040EZ or those requesting the IRS to compute their tax are not eligible for an automatic extension.

To obtain the four-month extension beyond April 15, 1985, a taxpayer must complete Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return," and forward it to the service center processing tax returns for his or her state. Form 4868 must be filed on or before April 15, 1985.

The extension to file the tax return is not an extension of time to pay any tax due, the IRS stressed. It also no longer extends the deadline for IRA contributions, which must be deposited by April 15, 1985, to be applied to the 1984 tax year.

On Form 4868, one must make a tentative estimate of the year's taxes and submit any balance due with the form. If the unpaid tax is more than 10 percent, there is a penalty for late payment unless the taxpayer can show reasonable cause for not paying the tax when due.

The penalty is one-half of one percent per month on the unpaid balance, up to a maximum of 25 percent. Interest also is assessed on any unpaid balance, the IRS stated.

Business Briefs

RANDY'S HAIREM BEAUTY SHOP is celebrating its 15th year in business this April. The shop is owned and operated by Randy O'Connor of South Lyon. Last year, O'Connor added Wilma Faust to the staff following and expansion and remodeling of the still-cozy salon.

The salon caters mostly to women middle-aged and older, but has a long and growing list of young clients who have found stylists who are prepared to give them the cuts and styles they seek.

Randy's Hairem Beauty Shop was originally owned by Harriette O'Connor, Randy's mother-in-law, for nine years. Then, the business operated under the name "Harriette-Ann's Beauty Shop. "We've kept it in the family for 24 years," Randy said.

"I run an unadvertised permanent special for my regular customers every year just before Easter," Randy said. "They don't let me forget it. It's kind of an anniversary special and my way of thanking them for their patronage."

Randy prides her salon on the personalized, individual care given clients. "Many say in other salons, they feel like they're on an assembly line," the owner remarked. "Not so here. They get very personalized attention. We listen to what the customer wants; we don't just give them what we think they should have."

Randy's Hairem Beauty Shop is located at 56830 Grand River in New Hudson. O'Connor said the easiest way to find the salon is to remember "we're just two doors down from the New Hudson Inn."

SBAM schedules date for legislative meeting

Small business owners and operators from throughout Michigan are invited to participate in the Small Business Association of Michigan's (SBAM) annual Small Business Legislative Day at the Lansing Civic Center on Tuesday, March 26, from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Those who attend will have an opportunity to discuss issues and concerns with their elected representatives in Lansing. In addition, a variety of speakers will provide insight to the current and future economic outlook for the state.

Governor James J. Blanchard will deliver the keynote address, presenting the administration's plans to promote small business development in the next two years. Republican initiatives for small business will be explained by Senate Majority Floor Leader Phil Arthurs (R-Whitehall).

Doug Ross, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce, will explain the findings of "The Path to Prosperity" and its message to small business. State Treasurer Robert Bowman will discuss the impact of state taxes on small business in Michigan.

Michigan's competitive economic position will be discussed by Dr. Allan Hunt, manager of research, and Timothy Hunt, senior research economist, of the W.E. Upjohn Institute for Employment Research.

A panel discussion on how to make Michigan more competitive will include Senator Alan Cropsey, Senator James DeSana, Representative Vincent "Joe" Porreca and Representative William Van Regenmorter.

A major focus of the event will be to develop a statewide agenda for small business in Michigan. Having successfully achieved many legislative and administrative reforms during the past two years, the SBAM is preparing to work for additional measures which will improve the economic climate for small firms throughout the state.

SBAM Executive Director John Galles said the program will help small business people understand the issues which need to be addressed. Those who attend will be provided with materials and strategies to effectively lobby their state representatives and senators, Galles said. "Their efforts will demonstrate the concern of small business people across the state."

SBAM is a statewide, non-profit organization which represents more than 2,500 member firms throughout Michigan. The association places a major emphasis on working for innovative legislation in order to obtain fairer treatment of small business.

Registration fee for the Small Business Legislative Day, which includes all conference materials, lunch and tickets to a special reception for state legislators, is $25 for SBAM members and $30 for non-members. Registration at the door will be $35. For more information call Carole Ashley at 616-342-2400.

Good records necessary for business deductions

Knowing the proper reporting and record-keeping requirements is essential for taxpayers who claim business-related travel, transportation, entertainment and gift expenses, according to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS).

The primary proof for these business expenses starts with keeping timely entries of what was spent in a log, diary, journal, appointment book or similar record.

These entries also must include the date and location of the business travel or entertainment, along with who was seen and the business purpose for incurring the expense. A receipt or similar supporting evidence is required for all expenses of $25 or more.

According to IRS guidelines, all business expenses must be ordinary and necessary in the taxpayer's line of work to be deductible. Reasonable local transportation expenses such as the cost of driving and maintaining an automobile while on business, excluding any commuting or personal mileage, can be deducted.

For a business-related trip outside the area of his or her main place of business, a taxpayer may deduct expenses such as food and lodging, the IRS said. Allowable entertainment deductions must either be directly related to or associated with the active pursuit of the taxpayer's business.

Business gifts that the taxpayer may deduct are generally limited to $25 for any one individual for the year. The burden of proof for all business expenses lies with the taxpayer, who must show that a bonafide business purpose exists.

Complete information on deducting business expenses can be found in the free IRS Publication 463, "Travel, Entertainment, and Gift Expenses." It is available by writing or calling the IRS, or by using the order form found in the tax package.

Another Way

You can't see me but I'm growing.
You can't see me but I know you.
You can't see me but I love you.
I'm safe in my mother's womb.
Safe in my mother's womb.

Mom, can you feel me, don't you love me?
Mom, can you feel me, don't you want me?
Mom, can you feel me, I am like you.
Don't you know I'm a gift from God.
And I'll always be part of you.

What are they doing Mom, help me!
Help me, Mom, what are they doing?
It's hurting, Mom, I'm dying ...
I only wanted to live.
Wasn't there another way?

I couldn't see you, but I felt you.
I didn't want you, didn't plan you.
I had nothing I could give you.
I only wanted to live.
Thank you God that you forgive.

The Only Girl

I found the only girl.
She was from a different world.
We were so alike
Yet so far.
Lonely was my heart inside,
Then she came
Then nothing was the same.
She was the only girl.
The only girl in my dreams.
The only girl it seems
I ever loved.
Our first time was sweet,
But on our second meet
It wasn't the same.
I was hoping it would remain.
Pushing so hard caused hurt,
I'm so sorry my dear,
I caused the pain,
I wish it could remain.
She was the only girl
The only girl in my dreams.
The only girl it seems
I ever loved.

R.T. Woodstock

You

You mean so very much to me,
You are my one desire.
You, and only you, dear
Can set my heart afire.

I love you, and I need you.
More than words can say.
And I know my love for you,
Will never fade away.

I want you to know, how much I care,
And why I love you so.
But, the words don't sound quite right,
So, I guess you'll never know.

Maybe if I try real hard,
To show you how I feel,
Then you'll know, at last, my dear,
That my love is real.

Culinary Blues

Let's go out to eat tonight,
I'm not in the mood to cook,
Get the yellow pages and let's have a look.

Somewhere warm and cozy
Dimly lit, good food,
Where you don't have to wait too long
And the staff is never rude.

How about here?
No—too expensive;
And the food's always smothered in sauce.
This one? Taped rock music, very loud—
This? Not this time of night, too big a crowd.
Here? No, they can't cook fish
And the chairs are hard—
Oh, how I wish ...

This one? Too far away—
I know, let's stay,
Light a fire,
Settle down,
And we'll send for a pizza from town.

What's that?
We're out of your delivery zone?
OK, that settles it,
It's spaghetti a la home!

Kit Henderson

the fairy godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns. But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of our newspaper! It's like magic the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way the fairy godmother makes all her magic, too!

Best Tattoo: Tarrow by Johnson

By B.J. MARTIN

Blow ye winter winds, and crack your cheeks. Your blustery days are numbered.

Yea, Spring even now doth quickly approach, bringing her rudderless energy, bringing her irresistible optimism, bringing her intoxicating atmospheric concoctions of breeze, moisture and fragrance.

Spring. A time when even we cynical, ink-stained wretches who bring you your newspaper have to admit life floats like a butterfly, stings like a bee and K.O.'s its alternative in the first round. Look you elsewhere for tidings of gloom. For 'tis in the rapture of sweet Spring our staff has gathered to bring you an alphabetic bouquet of blue-ribbon reasons to love and live in the community we have the pleasure of serving and knowing. From A to Z.

Aroma. Take your Chanel No. 5. Take your Grey Flannel. We'll take the scent of Village Sweets 'n' Treats any day. Even the workers at the Center Street goodies' dealer have permanent smiles, no doubt from an occasional whiff at the coffee barrels or the baked goodies.

Bachelor. Northville's best catch is probably Dr. William Demray. He's got money (he runs a successful dentistry practice), flair (he flies his own plane for fun), and looks (so say our consultants, anyway).

Best Knuckleball: Ed Kritch

Car. Our auto aficionado Kevin Wilson singles out John Conder's cherry-red 1954 Corvette for its Promethean design, its neither overstated nor understated elegance, and the sheer loving perfection of its engineering craft. Also because it can accelerate very fast.

Best Car: Conder's Corvette

Dessert. Anyone trying to drop some pounds in time for summer should go straight to the letter E. Just thinking about the Chocolate Chocolate Creation at MacKinnon's Restaurant can undo your diet in nothing flat. The Chocolate Chocolate Creation consists of a cylinder of swiss chocolate with a chocolate roof filled with homemade chocolate mousse containing Grand Marnier and Swiss chocolate with fresh strawberries. And oh yes — the whole shebang is surrounded by Frangelico en Glace.

Echo. Northville could top its Duck Festival with a doo-wop convention in the lower-level parking lot on Cady Street east of Center. When the cars clear out after the Downs close and there's no one there but the pigeons, you can hone your yodel to perfection. Until the police come after you.

Festival. After careful consideration of Autumnfest, Summer-song, Christmas Walk, the Duck Festival, the Downtown Garage Sale and others, we pronounce the Annual Folk Festival the best of the lot. It's as eagerly anticipated by fine musicians as by listeners and we expect it to be even more so in the future.

Greens. You have to get up pretty early to one-up the crew-cut greens at Meadowbrook Country Club. They'd make Gerald Ford's golf game look good.

Howitz. We thought long and hard about this one, and settled on the American Legion cannon at Center and Dunlap. O.K., maybe it hasn't been used in a few decades. We'll put it up against yours.

Italian food. For a lot of west suburbanites, Genitti's doesn't even have a close second. Where else do the hosts tell you what to eat and drink whether you like it or not, and you always like it? Where else can you hear a player piano, for that matter?

Jelly doughnut. The bane of the dieting downtowners is the bevy of frosted, glazed, fresh-baked creations of Rich Holloway at Holloway's Bakery. They'll fill your belly while your dentist fills your teeth. But you won't regret it.

Knuckleball. Local softball fanatics say Ed Kritch's sky-high saller can make a strong man weak. "He's the best around here," agrees Northville Recreation Director Jef Farland. "I pitch too, and I thought I had good stuff. But Ed's lots better."

Liquor. The place to get it is the Liquor Shoppe on Main Street. Proprietors Jim and Joe Spagnuolo seem to know something about every spirit they sell. Try finding someone like that at a Seven-Eleven.

Malted milkshake. Surprisingly strong competition from Big Boy — after all, a restaurant chain outlet hardly needs to make an art out of a malt — but we give the honor to the stand-your-straw-up blend at Cloverdale's, served with the very large metal mixing tumbler.

Newspaper. You're reading it.

Official. Since first joining the Northville Board of Education in 1976, Chris Johnson has combined independence with team play, dedication with perspective. Still under 30, Johnson's going to be one to watch, wait and see.

Poet. Kathy Ripley Leo, author of Inner Timings and Waiting For the Apples, Leo's work has been called "a concert of emotions." More than 100 of her works, in both English and Spanish, have been published.

Quiche. You say Real Men don't eat quiche? Real Men must never have tried Crawford's scrumptious cheddar cheese-smothered quiche Lorraine.

Racer. When it comes to pushing the pedal to the medal, Tim Evans takes our checkered flag with ease. SCCA Rookie of the Year in 1979, winner of the Can Am championship in Under-2-Liter Class, a veteran of four Trans Am circuit seasons, Evans finished upwards of 85 percent of the races he's started.

Singer. He's got a robust tenor/baritone that comes from somewhere between Neil Diamond and Richie Havens. He sings like Arnold Schwarzenegger looks. He's Larry Santos, the voice that drives commercial jingles from coast to coast.

Tattoo. Some of the best work performed in Northville by expert tattooist Charlie Fred Johnson (who has since moved) adorns the chest and arms of Ed Tarrow.

Uniform. Several Northville High School varsity teams are sporting new togs this year (some might say, it's about time), but the flashiest adorn the varsity gymnastics team.

View. On a clear day, take a walk up to the top of High Street, right behind the high school, and cast your eyes to the southeast. Then try to stop.

Waddle. The ducks so great they named a festival after them. Mosey on down to the Ford Plant and take your pick.

X-ray. Providence Hospital in Novi will even X-ray your kids' Halloween candy.

Yesteryear. A trek through the Mill Race Historical Village is the perfect cure for high-technophobia. If Northville had nothing else to offer, the Mill Race would be plenty.

Zithers. The Gittfiddler music shop has 'em, along with dulcimers, mandolins, autoharps, ukeleles and other instruments with funny names.

Contributing staffers: Kevin Wilson, Philip Jerome, Steve and Michele M. Ficht, and Jean Day.

Antiques to be used for ball decorations

By JEAN DAY

Antiques that are in the Northville Historical Society's collection in Mill Race Historical Village will be a subject of conversation at the Northville Historical Society Candlelight Ball March 23. They are to be used as the table decorations for the ball being held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth, reports chairperson Nancy Bohn.

She adds that she still has a few tickets available for the event because the meeting house has offered to add more seating. She may be contacted at 348-5096. Tickets for the event to benefit the Mill Race Village are $18 a person. The Hytymes will be playing for dancing.

New rules for New School Church

At its January board meeting the Northville Historical Society, which oversees all activity in the Mill Race Historical Village, adopted a motion not to permit receptions in the New School Church. The church building and gazebo have been the location of many weddings with brides crossing the arched bridge of the picturesque restoration village.

The board voted to continue renting the building for weddings, but not receptions. It acted on the recommendation of Mary Bandyke who is in charge of scheduling events and rentals in the village. Rental price for the New School Church was increased to $125 for two hours.

In addition to completion of the blacksmith shop under construction in the village, upcoming projects of the historical society include signs for the village and painting of the Hunter House. Membership chair Doug Otton reports there are 393 paid members currently in the society.

They're horticultural therapists

Olga James, Northville Branch president, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, reports that the horticultural therapy committee of the branch has been reactivated under the leadership of Marge Jennings. Members have been visiting Wishing Well Manor and Beverly Manor convalescent homes where they have supervised such projects as making Easter baskets.

"We really want to encourage this work," she adds, "as it's so needed." She says patients really welcome the visitors.

Marjorie Dabney is co-chairing the committee. Other members are Verna Wall, Kay Schmidt and Virginia Bosat.

Woman's Club to end its 92nd year Friday

Music will be in the air Friday as Northville Woman's Club completes its 92nd year with a salad luncheon at 12:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church.

Program chair Ann Guldberg announces that the musical program will be presented by the 16-member male chorus at Northville High School.

DAR essayists

Winners in the Daughters of the American Revolution essay contest at Cooke Junior High are, from left, Jarett Beer, Jennifer Beyersdorf and Jennifer Urbahns. They recently were announced by Mrs. H. G. Scott, Sarah Ann Cochrane chapter DAR chairman of the essay project. They received certificates and monetary awards for their written essays on their interpretation of "What the Statute of Liberty Means to Americans." Cristen Gazlay and Allison Downs received certificates. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

ANDRA KAY DURST

June wedding is planned

Announcement of the engagement of Andra Kay Durst to Norman Paul Preo of Elk Grove, Illinois, is made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luke C. Durst of 1200 Hillridge.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Preo of Elk Grove.

The bride-elect is a 1978 graduate of Northville High School. She attended Grand Rapids Baptist College for two years, majoring in music, and currently is employed at Hudson's in Twelve Oaks Mall, Novi.

Her fiancé is a 1978 graduate of Elk Grove High School and a 1983 graduate of Northern Illinois University with a B.S. degree in art education. He is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa. He presently is a substitute teacher in Illinois High School districts 214 and 211.

A June ceremony this year is being planned.

Organ concert by Dewey Gardner slated

Most Northville residents know G. Dewey Gardner as a city council member and mayor pro tem. But Gardner also is a recognized organist and will be featured artist in a concert at 7:30 p.m. this Saturday at Calvary Baptist Church, 43065 Joy, Canton.

His wife Susan and Donna Shinn, guest pianists, also are on the program with Cindy Carmer, vocalist.

Designed as "a pleasant evening with the masters — Bach, Mendelssohn, Handel and Wagner," the concert will include sacred favorites. It is open to the public without charge.

Gardner will be playing on the Rodgers Pipe Organ at the church.

Gardner, owner of Four Seasons Flowers, 149 East Main, began his study of organ at the age of 12, studying with an instructor from the Detroit Institute of Fine Arts. He previously had studied piano for six years.

His career as a church organist then began at First Baptist Church in Northville. During his high school years he often was guest organist at other area churches and on musical programs.

Following graduation from high school he began studying pipe organ performance at Eastern Michigan University.

He went into service with the Special Forces Division of the United States Armed Services as a director of chapel choirs and organists in the State of Alaska.

He stayed in Alaska and continued to study and teach organ at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks and joined the American Guild Organists' Concert Tour for one year, specializing in church organ dedication.

On his return to Michigan in 1964 he became organist and minister of music at First Baptist Church of Northville, serving in that capacity until 1970.

He has served as organist at First Baptist Church of Farmington and at Alpha Baptist Church in Livonia. In 1972 he became staff organist at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton.

His local involvement also includes serving as a board member of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce and as a member of the Northville Merchants' Association. He was one of a group of florists selected from all over the world last year to attend a special seminar in Holland.

He was named Northville's Citizen of the Year at the annual dinner meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce in October, 1983, at Meadowbrook Country Club. He is a past president of Northville Rotary Club and a member of the Northville Beautification Commission as well as the historic district commission and the Downtown Development Authority.

He married his wife Susan in 1967. They have three children — Todd, Amy and Adrienne.

The concert will be the first major one on the Rodgers pipe organ which was installed in 1980.

It was designed especially for the Calvary Baptist Church in 1977 in Hillsboro, Oregon. It is considered unique in that it is a combination of the Rodgers electronic and the Ruggatti pipe organ of Padua, Italy. Each can play separately, independent of each other, or together as a combination of electronic and pipes.

Tom Hovermale, minister of music at the church, announces that all combinations are being incorporated into the concert.

The keyboards, three in total, are overhanging English wood-core with 61 note compass. The pedalboard is concave, radiating pedal clavier, with 32 note compass.

The organ's computer memory core capture system is fast, reliable, compact and has no moving parts, Gardner reports. It also operates as a hold and set system with the swell and choir antiphonal speakers located in the balcony of the auditorium.

The Trumpet De Fete eight foot speaker also is located in the balcony of the auditorium. The organ is equipped with a 25 note set, trinity model, Deagan tubular chimes. Other facts about the organ: it includes 879 pipes, 67 speaking stops, 15 ranks of pipes and 50 electronic voice ranks.

Saturday's program opens with selected piano music by Susan Gardner.

Dewey Gardner then will play "Fugue and Voluntary," an 18th century English work by W. M. Selby; "Prelude and Fugue in D Minor" of the first Master period 1704 by J.S. Bach; three pieces by Felix Mendelssohn: "Lift Thine Eyes" from Elijah, "O Rest in the Lord" from Elijah with soprano soloist Cindy Carmer and "War March of the Priests."

"Adagio," an American contemporary flute solo by R. Nyquist, follows. The Gardners will combine talents in a duet, "Andante Cantabile" by Tschakowsky.

"Voluntary in D Major" by J. Stanley and "The Little Fugue in G Minor" follow.

After intermission Mrs. Gardner will present selected piano pieces.

Dewey Gardner will play Sortie on "National Hymn," "I Walked Where Jesus Walked" and "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken."

"Pilgrims' Chorus" will be performed as a trio by Gardner and pianists Donna Shinn and Susan Gardner.

Concluding selections are "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God" by M. Luther, "Parus Angelicus" by Cesar Franck and "A Sacred March" by Webb Sullivan.

Bach birthday party's set in Novi by Bushnell church

The Bushnell Performing Arts Series will hold a birthday party for Johann Sebastian Bach at the Bushnell Congregational Church in Novi at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

The church is located at 21355 Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

In addition to birthday cake and party favors, the celebration will include some of Bach's finest music performed by the Detroit Chamber Works. The group includes James Waring and Malvern Kaufman, violins; David Ireland, viola; Mario Di Fiore, cello; Linton Bodwin, bass; and Ray Ferguson, harpsichord. All are members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO).

They will join Donald Baker, oboist with the DSO, to play Bach's Concerto for Oboe and Orchestra. Earnestine Nimmons, acclaimed soprano, will perform Bach's 199 for Soprano and Orchestra. "My Heart Is Overwhelmed," and Rosemary Murch, mezzo soprano, will offer her interpretation of Bach's Cantata 35 "Soul and Spirit Are Bewildered."

The Northville Record

Zebra gallop by Mustangs for district title

By B.J. MARTIN

The Zebras' season-long stampede claimed its 21st victim in 22 tries last Friday, as Wayne Memorial knocked off Northville 63-40 in the Class A district championship game at Plymouth Salem.

The Mustangs went down kicking, chopping Wayne's nine-point halftime lead to six after a big three-point play by 6'6" center John Storm early in the third quarter.

But in this horse race, the Zebras took control down the stretch — especially Wayne's counterpart to Storm at center, 6'6" Pollis Robertson.

Robertson ended the game with 16 points, blocked four shots, altered close to double that number, and made the play that sealed Northville's fate.

With just under six minutes to play Robertson stole the ball at midcourt and sailed down the lane for a slam dunk to gave the Zebras a 21-point cushion.

The huge lead forced Northville to play run-and-gun style, an area of the game in which the Mustangs were clearly overmatched.

"Things started to get out of control in the fourth quarter," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison agreed. "They got us out of our game plan."

"We didn't play quite as well as we were capable of, but we did a good job of not being intimidated by them," Harrison added. "But they were able to work the ball inside on us and when we pressured inside, they kicked it out to (Howard) Flowers on the outside. They had a threat both ways."

Flowers finished the game with 14 points, as did Storm for Northville. Greg Wendel and Don Norton each added nine points for the Mustangs.

With Wendel snatching 13 rebounds and Storm 11, Northville held its own rebounding — in fact, the Mustangs had 10 more offensive rebounds than Wayne.

But the Mustangs' cold shooting wiped out any advantage on the boards. They connected on just 15 of 53 from the floor for 28.3 percent.

Northville had reached the finals by defeating Westland John Glenn 72-65 on Wednesday. The Rockets burst ahead after one quarter 19-12, and threatened to blow the Mustangs out of the game quickly.

"The kids were just a little bit nervous, it being a district game," Harrison said. "By the second quarter, they started to settle down."

The Mustangs kept chipping away at the Rockets' lead and finally broke through in the last seconds of the third quarter.

Storm connected on a pair of free throws to give the Mustangs a 49-48 lead going into the final quarter. Northville never trailed thereafter, outscoring John Glenn 23-17 in the final period.

Norton led the Mustangs with 18 points, followed by Storm with 16, Wendel with 15, Mike Hilfinger with 14 and May with nine. Those five Mustangs played the entire game.

Storm led Northville in rebounding with 13, while Wendel added 11. May led the team in assists with seven, while Hilfinger and Wendel each had five.

The win and the loss left Northville's record at 10-12 (5-8 WLAA). The team finished in a tie with Plymouth Canton for third in the Western Lakes Activities Association Western Division.

Northville's Don Norton All-Division

Don Norton, a 6'2" junior forward on Northville's varsity basketball squad, has been named by Western Lakes Activities Association coaches to the All-Western Division basketball team for 1984-85.

Norton averaged 11.8 points per ballgame over Northville's 10-12 season, and nearly five points better than that in the last few weeks.

Also honored was Northville's Greg Wendel, selected honorable mention All-Division at forward. Wendel also averaged 11.8 points per game and also was Northville's leading rebounder with a 12.2 per game average.

Here are the coaches' All-Conference and All-Division selections:

- 1984-85 ALL-WLAA CONFERENCE TEAM
- Ken George, John Miller, Farmington Harrison; Bob Sluka, Livonia Stevenson; Tom Cummings, Walled Lake Central; Mike White, Plymouth Salem.
- ALL-WESTERN DIVISION
- Vince Enright, Mike Dempsey, Harrison; Joel Mies, Plymouth Canton; Mike Hermanson, Livonia Churchill; DON NORTON, NORTHVILLE.
- ALL-LAKES DIVISION
- Bruce Kratt, Farmington; Chris Owens, Central; Matt Burdiss, Vic Nettie, Stevenson; Sean Hagood, Salem.

Mixup hurts Pawloski's chances for state finals

Northville divers Jeff Pawloski and Joel Grasley placed 16th and 29th respectively at the Class A regional diving meet at Brighton Wednesday of last week.

Pawloski finished with 325.0 points on 11 dives at the meet. His 16th place left him four places out of a state qualification — the top 12 divers go to this weekend's state meet.

Pawloski should have made the cut, according to Northville Swim Coach Derek Gans.

"There was a mixup, and Joel's dive wasn't the one the judges were expecting," Gans explained later. "The judges could only give him two points, even though he did the dive perfectly."

Pawloski came up some 30 points short of the 12th place finisher. "It's too bad, really," Gans added. "Jeff dove really well at the meet."

The score was definitely within

Pawloski's reach — at the Western Lakes conference swim meet the week before, Pawloski finished second with 400 points even, a point total which would easily have made the top 12 at Brighton.

In fact, at the conference meet, the only diver to beat Pawloski, Plymouth Canton's Andy Flower, set a meet record of 439.5 points.

Grasley had concentration problems in the early rounds of the regional, Gans said. He advanced to the second series of dives, but not to the third.

"Joel had the same problem at the league meet," Gans said, noting that although Grasley had occasionally scored higher than Pawloski during the year, he missed the cut for the finals of the Western Lakes Conference swim meet the week before. "He just needed to concentrate more," Gans added.

Gymnast Walts to compete at state

By B.J. MARTIN

And then there was one. Diane Hale's prep gymnastics career ended last Saturday, while teammate Mandy Walts qualified in three events for this weekend's Michigan Class A State meet.

The pair of Northville High School seniors each competed at the Class A Regionals at Jackson County Western High School. While Walts turned in one of her best performances ever, Hale's day ended painfully.

On her last vault of the meet — and her last event of the day — Hale injured her knee on the landing. In obvious pain, she was carried off the meet floor by her father.

The next vaulter was Walts, who had ample excuse to fall apart. Instead, Walts nailed her best vault ever, scoring a 9.0 with a half-twist-on, half-twist-off. Her third-place score was only 0.05

If it weren't for her (injury-related) fall, I think Mandy could have been fourth overall.

— Michelle Charniga
Northville Gymnastics Coach

points out of second.

It was one of three high points for Walts at the meet. She scored 8.95 in balance beam — also a personal best score — to take third. She also placed eighth in floor exercise with a score of 8.5.

A fall on uneven parallel bars probably cost Walts a chance to compete all-around at the state meet. She scored a 7.55, which placed 24th.

"She'd hurt her hand the day before the meet. That had to contribute to her fall, I'm sure," Northville Coach Michelle Charniga pointed out. "If it weren't for that one fall, I think she could have been fourth overall."

Both Hale and Walts, Charniga felt, were hurt by the sequence of competitors in the uneven bars. "We were the second school to compete, and I think the scores were lower as a consequence," she said.

As it was, Walts placed eighth overall with a score of 34.0. She needed to place in the top six to compete at the state in all-around. The sixth-place score at the meet was 34.35.

Hale placed 18th all-around, taking 21st place in floor exercise (8.0), 21st in uneven bars (7.65), and, despite her injury, 18th in vault. She ran into trouble on balance beam, however, scoring 7.55 — a score she has bettered on several occasions this season.

Hale later was diagnosed as having strained ligaments, which would have sidelined her for the state meet had she qualified. It was her second trip to regionals.

The opening rounds of the state meet begin at 6 p.m. Friday at Troy High School, 3179 Livernois, with finals at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Marathoner sees the world on foot

By B.J. MARTIN

You don't have to have a lot of money to lead a glamorous globe-trotting life.

That's right. You can be a modest computer operator and travel to festivals all over the U.S. plus Sweden, Japan, Australia, Germany, Brazil, Korea, the Philippines . . .

Oh, there's just one catch. You have to be able to run 26 miles in about 2½ hours. A little less time if you're a male. A little more time if you're a female.

A 33-year-old local family man named Doug Kurtis, a database programmer for Ford Motor Company, can meet this modest requirement. In the last seven years, Kurtis has competed in marathons (26.2-mile races) from Munich to Manila, from Chicago to Sydney.

"What happens is, I'll run at an international marathon and meet other race directors who will invite me to their marathons at their expense," he explains. "Once you get a good reputation, you get a lot of offers."

"Just last month I got a call from Stockholm asking me to go to a marathon there. But I'm planning to go to Rio the next week, so I'm going to have to turn it down."

It takes a while for the envy of Kurtis' lifestyle to wear off. But once one considers the training regimen he endures, it's apparent his dues are paid.

"I tend to run 70 or 80 miles the week before and the week after a marathon," Kurtis says. "During my peak periods, I get up to 140-150 miles a week. I'm lucky if I can keep that up for four weeks, though. It's tough — there's no time to do anything else."

Kurtis himself got into running marathons in 1978. "I'd run a couple of them before, sort of sporadically," he says. "But since '78 I've trained exclusively for marathons."

Kurtis is a double rarity in the sport — he is both a frequent competitor, and he is remarkably consistent. Of the 51 marathons he has completed, he has finished 22 in less than two hours and 20 minutes.

"There are very few people in the world who run in as many marathons as I do," he says. "I only know of about four or five. That's just the way I prefer to do it. Most try to do just one or two a year and train specifically for them."

"It's funny, but I've never had a serious injury doing it that way. I guess physically, I must just be made right to run."

While he's among the best marathoners in the U.S., Kurtis says he has no plans to push for a 1988 Olympic Team slot.

"I tried in 1980, but I didn't have enough experience then," he says, although he did qualify for the Olympic trials with a time of 2:14:15. "I hadn't had the training the top people had," he notes.

"In 1984, I felt that the top 10 in the country were just much better prepared than I was. They spent all their time training . . . Having a day job makes a difference. Once, I took a three-month leave of absence from my job and I could definitely tell the difference."

Actually, Kurtis' job has accommodated his training as well as almost any daytime office job could. While most of us are wolfing down our lunch, Kurtis gets in a quick workout.

The IRA Flexible-Term Certificate

11.00%

Annual Percentage Rate

11.57%

Effective Annual Yield

You don't need a lot of money to get the tax-deferred, tax-deductible benefits of an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at Michigan National.

All you need is $500 for the IRA Flexible-Term Certificate . . . an IRA investment that earns a fixed rate of interest for the term of the certificate, and lets you choose a maturity of 2 months to 10 years (or any number of months in between). And because your interest will compound monthly, you'll earn an effective annual yield that's higher than almost any other IRA at any other financial institution.

Call or visit the Michigan National office nearest you today for more information on IRAs and the IRA Flexible-Term Certificate.

Michigan National Bank-West Metro
Members FDIC

Rate paid is determined by the term specified for 2 months to 10 years, or any number of months in between. The rate is fixed for the maturity of the certificate and is set by the Bank, subject to change periodically. Federal Reserve regulations require a substantial penalty for withdrawal or transfer prior to maturity unless age 59½ years or older, or permanently disabled or deceased.

Second St. Pat run on tap Saturday

More than 150 runners are expected to take their marks at this Saturday's O'Sheehan's St. Patrick's Day Fun Run (race route at right), the second annual running of the event.

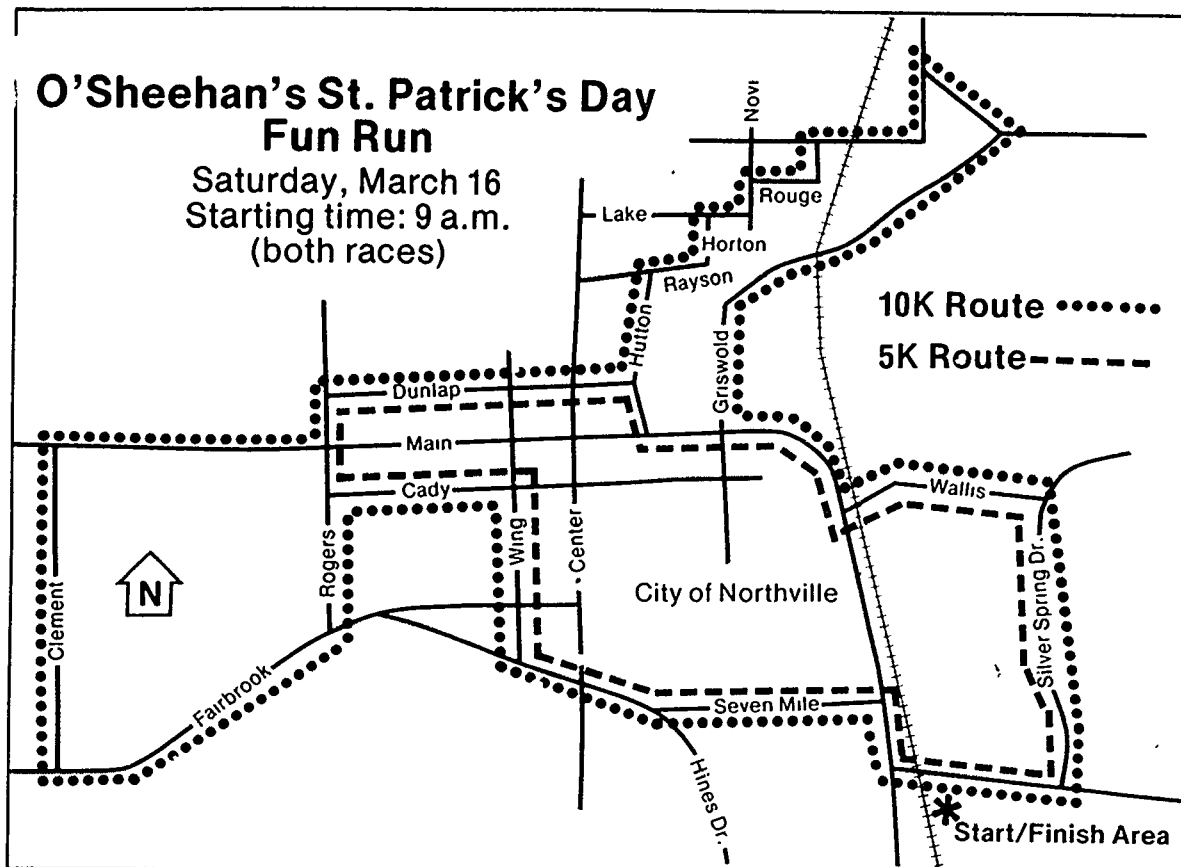

"We have about 100 people signed up for the race; that's a little up from last year," said Jeff Farland, Northville Community Recreation Director. "So we're looking for maybe 150-175 by race day."

There will be a five-kilometer and a 10-kilometer race. Both start at O'Sheehan's Tavern, Seven Mile at Northville Road at 9 a.m. Registration ($9) will be accepted up till 8:30 a.m. the day of the race.

There will be first and second-place plaques awarded for each age group, male and female, and the winner will also receive a gift certificate for dinner at O'Sheehan's. Door prizes are also planned.

Motorists intending to drive along any of the routes affected by the race should be aware they may be stopped by city police to allow the runners to pass. Caution is urged. Traffic will return completely to normal by 10:30 a.m.

All participants will receive a t-shirt, and there will be refreshments after the race. For additional information, phone the Northville Community Recreation offices at 349-0203.

For Kurtis, fleet feet are ticket to the world

"We've got lockers and showers in our buildings, so during lunch break I can log some miles. I'd say I average seven miles on a lunch break," he says.

After work and dinner, Kurtis takes to the road again, sometimes running at local high school tracks, around local neighborhoods, and often at Cass Benton Park where Northville and Novi's cross-country teams compete.

"I've been running at Cass Benton since I was 16," he says. Indeed, in high school, Kurtis ran for Livonia Bentley's cross-country team.

From there, he went to Michigan State University, where he was a member of MSU's Big Ten champion cross-country teams in 1970 and 1971. Since graduating with a degree in marketing, he was a frequent but irregular racer until 1978, when he settled on specializing in marathon training.

Although Kurtis' training regimen is geared exclusively for marathons, he runs a heavy schedule of shorter races. He plans to compete in the upcoming O'Sheehan's St. Patrick's Day Run in Northville March 16, an annual race he won last year.

Among Kurtis' other racing accomplishments are:

- Three victories in the Mardi Gras marathon in New Orleans (1981, 1982 and 1985).
- Being the top Michigan finisher in the Los Angeles, Boston, New York and Honolulu marathons in 1981.
- A rank of 15th among U.S. marathoners in 1982.
- Victories in the National Corporate Cup 10 Kilometer Run (1982), the Manila (Philippines) Marathon (1984).
- Victory in the Jacksonville Marathon this year (a course record 2:16:58).
- Being the top American finisher at the Tokyo Marathon and the Stockholm Marathon.
- Placing second at Emily's Marathon in Detroit and third at the Honolulu and Munich marathons, all last year.
- Victories last year in the following Michigan races: Old Kent River Bank, Frankenmuth, Allen Park, Duck-A-Thon, Bobby Krim (Flint), Turkey Trot (Detroit), Tunnel Park (Holland), New Year's Eve (Detroit).

Kurtis keeps busy other ways. He has been one of the top fund-raisers for Michigan Special Olympics for several years. He's active in the Redford and Ford running clubs, and in 1983 he organized popular Sunday Winter Training Runs based at the Northville Community Center.

"It's just a bunch of people who want company, because it's often hard to get motivated to go running in winter. Some go five miles, some go 20... I did 18 miles last week."

Kurtis also finds time to contribute articles to Michigan Runner magazine.

How long can he keep up this pace? "I really don't know!" Kurtis laughs. "One of my prime competitors and one of the best friends I've made from running is Kjell Erik Stall from Sweden. He's 39 years old, and last year he ran nine marathons and won five!"

Kurtis thinks marathon competition has much to offer the dedicated athlete — especially women: "Race directors and promoters are always trying to find more women to compete. I think there are more opportunities for women to compete right now."

Asked if the inspirational performance of American marathoner Joan Benoit is likely to change that, Kurtis says. "Yeah, I think you're going to see a lot more women getting into it."

But not Kurtis' wife, Marilyn. "She's not into it very much, although she and my whole family have been especially supportive of my racing," he says.

Kurtis sometimes gets dragged out by his five-year-old son, Austin, for a jog around the block of his Novi home. "I'm afraid the neighbors are going to watch and think I'm pushing him too hard," he laughs. Doug and Marilyn Kurtis have one more son, Ross.

At age one, Ross is still safe for a while.

VITAL VISION
The ability to see is one of our most vital needs. Each year during the first week in March the American Optometric Association sponsors "Save Your Vision Week." Particular emphasis is given to prevention of blindness that occurs with glaucoma, an eye disease that has probably caused more than 50,000 cases of blindness.
About 200,000 new cases of glaucoma are diagnosed each year. Most individuals are over age 40. Usually, there are no symptoms until the disease has already caused considerable damage. Due to fluid buildup within the eye, the delicate nerves that carry vision are damaged. Treatment is aimed at reducing excess pressure. If not adequately treated, glaucoma can lead to complete or partial loss of vision.
Most persons with glaucoma respond well to medicines that are taken by mouth and/or placed directly in the eye via drops. Glaucoma medicines either reduce the formation of fluids within the eye or enhance fluid outflow. In either instance, there is less fluid and pressure becomes more normal. Continuing nerve damage is avoided and so is progressive loss of sight.
