HANGING TOGETHER — Junius Godboldo, Robert Diggins, Deborah Dell'Orco and Malcomb Jones were among the picketers at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital last week. Godboldo, Diggins and Jones, all resident care aides, were fired after investigators determined they were negligent when a patient was killed May 26. Dell'Orco, a social worker, received a one-day suspension. A nurse and a doctor were also fired, and another nurse and a fourth RCA suspended after the investigation. All are protesting the disciplinary actions.

Firing, suspension at NRPH contested by hospital workers

By KEVIN WILSON

Charging that eight employees fired or suspended in the wake of a killing at the hospital are "scapegoats" for an underfunded and poorly-administered mental health system, workers at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital staged a picket line June 7 to protest the disciplinary measures.

Approximately 50-60 workers spent their one-half hour noon lunch break marching in front of the main entrance to the hospital's 'A' building carrying signs critical of the administrators of the hospital and the state department of mental health. A smaller number of picketers, approximately 40, kept the line going through the following one-half hour lunch break.

Malcomb Jones, one of three Residential Care Aides (RCA) fired last week after an internal investigation determined that he left the ward improperly on May 26 when three patients assaulted and suffocated Gregg Helzerman, 20, of Van Buren Township, said he does not believe the killing could have been prevented.

"Maybe if the patients gave us some kind of warning or something, acted strange maybe," Jones said. "Maybe if they gave us three or four more staff, we might have prevented it. The thing is, this could have happened on any ward. They've got wards out here with three staff and 50 patients."

The investigation showed there were 19 patients in the Young Adult Unit where Helzerman was killed, and four RCAs assigned to the ward. Jones said the determination that he was off the ward and therefore guilty of neglecting his duties "is due to an erroneous investigation — they say I was off the ward. I thought I was on the ward."

The other two RCAs fired were Junius Godboldo and Robert Diggins. Also fired were registered nurse Donna Callaway and Dr. Sevil Akman, a psychiatrist. Receiving one-day suspensions without pay and official reprimands were social worker Deborah Dell'Orco, RCA James Holden and registered nurse Ronald Stafford.

Carrying a sign that said "M Building was Northville's Best," social worker Dell'Orco asserted that the disciplined employees had received frequent citations for the quality of care provided in the Young Adult Unit.

"The entire staff, from the attendants right up to the doctor were cited many times for being among the best at the hospital," she said. "We're the Indians. When you're an Indian and not a chief, you take the fall."

"How can they blame us?" Dell'Orco asked, citing a recent federal Department of Justice report citing overpopulation and understaffing at NRPH. "They don't provide the money, they don't provide the staff, but when something goes wrong we have to take the blame."

Bell earns top marks on board's review

By MICHELE M. FECHT

It looks as though School Superintendent George Bell could join the valedictorians at Friday's commencement following his evaluation by the board of education.

It was a repeat performance for the chief executive who received "straight A's" for the second time in only his third evaluation June 3.

The school board annually evaluates the superintendent's performance prior to negotiating the administrator's contract for the coming year.

The board evaluates the superintendent on his performance as chief executive of the board, performance as superintendent of schools and his achievement of goals.

In the first part of the evaluation of his performance as chief executive of the board of education, board members were asked to rate "yes" or "no" in seven separate categories.

Bell received a "yes" rating in all categories which included adherence to policies of the board, recommends needed policies to the board, keeps the board informed of his activities and decisions, keeps the board properly informed on district activities and important problems, provides enough data and information to explain administrative recommendations and to facilitate the board's decision making process, supports board of education policy and action to the public and staff and goes directly to the board when he feels an honest, objective difference of opinion exists between the superintendent and any or all members of the board, in an effort to resolve those differences.

In the remaining two sections of the evaluation — performance as superintendent of schools and achievement of goals — the board was asked to rate the chief executive on a scale of one to five, with one representing "unsatisfactory" and five representing "outstanding."

Bell received an overall rating of "five" in each category, though trustees' marks were not necessarily unanimous in each category.

Bell also provided each board member with a copy of a self performance evaluation for the period July 1, 1984, to May 15, 1985. (See related story).

In discussion of Bell's performance as chief executive of the board of education, trustees concurred two of Bell's strongest areas were in keeping the board informed of his activities and decisions and informing the board about district activities and important problems.

Chris Johnson noted the superintendent was especially good at "bouncing thoughts off of people" and coming to the board table having done his homework.

"I feel there's a lot of thought behind everything... you don't shoot from the hip."

Glenna Davis echoed Johnson's remarks and said she was pleased Bell has been so upfront with the board this past year in light of the rumors circulating within the community.

Board members also credited Bell with keeping them informed of district activities and problems.

Two examples highlighted by board members were the asbestos situation and the boundary revision.

Board president Jean Hansen told Bell she appreciates "updates on the renovation" at the high school as well as energy conservation projects.

"We haven't had any surprises at board meetings — which I appreciated immensely," Hansen noted.

Trustees also agreed that Bell has maintained a solid working relationship with board members by addressing differences with the entire board or specific trustees.

"If you felt there were concerns among particular board members, you went to that person to address the issue," Davis pointed out.

Karen Wilkinson also said she found Bell was "very skilled at finding a middle ground."

In his performance as superintendent of schools, Bell was given high marks in all areas which included improvement of instructional program; student safety, health and well being; facility management and planning; management and organization of the district, financial responsibility; performance evaluations of the district's employees and community relations.

Board members concurred that improvement of the instructional program is an area that has not received a lot of attention this year in light of the grade realignment, school closings, the high school renovation, boundary revisions and the like.

However, while board members noted it was not a primary consideration, some pointed out specific improvements made during the past school year.

"I think there's a whole lot going on in this area," Hansen noted. "I think we've done a great deal of teacher in-service."

Incumbents win re-election bids

Northville Board of Education incumbent Jean Hansen won re-election to her second four-year term Monday by capturing 220 votes.

Unofficial tallies indicate that approximately 232 — less than two percent — of the district's 12,717 voters cast ballots in Monday's election.

Official results will be available tomorrow following the Board of Canvassers meeting.

Though unopposed in her bid for re-election, Hansen was not the only vote-getter in Northville. Write-in ballots were cast for five area residents.

J.L. Dunkerly received three write-in votes with L. Curtis, M. Conquist and L. VanderMolen taking one vote each. Patrick Coyne also received two votes.

Northville voters also helped return Schoolcraft College Board of Trustee incumbents Michael Burley and Sharon Sarris to six-year terms.

Burley, a Northville teacher, received 181 votes with Sarris taking 172. Challenger Hussein S. Karzun received 42 votes and three write-in ballots also were cast.

Officials at Schoolcraft College noted Tuesday that Sarris was the top vote-getter in that race with 5,107 votes. Burley received 4,883 votes with challenger Karun taking 1,434. In addition to Northville, the Schoolcraft College district includes a portion of Novi, Clarencville, Garden City, Livonia and Plymouth-Canton.

In the local race, heaviest turnout in the district's six precincts was in Precinct 4 (Amerman area) where 58 voters cast ballots. Precincts 3 (Winchester area) and 6 (Moralne area) cast 45 and 43 votes respectively.

In Precinct 1 (downtown city area) 40 ballots were cast with 29 votes counted in Precinct 2 (Silver Springs and Highland Lakes).

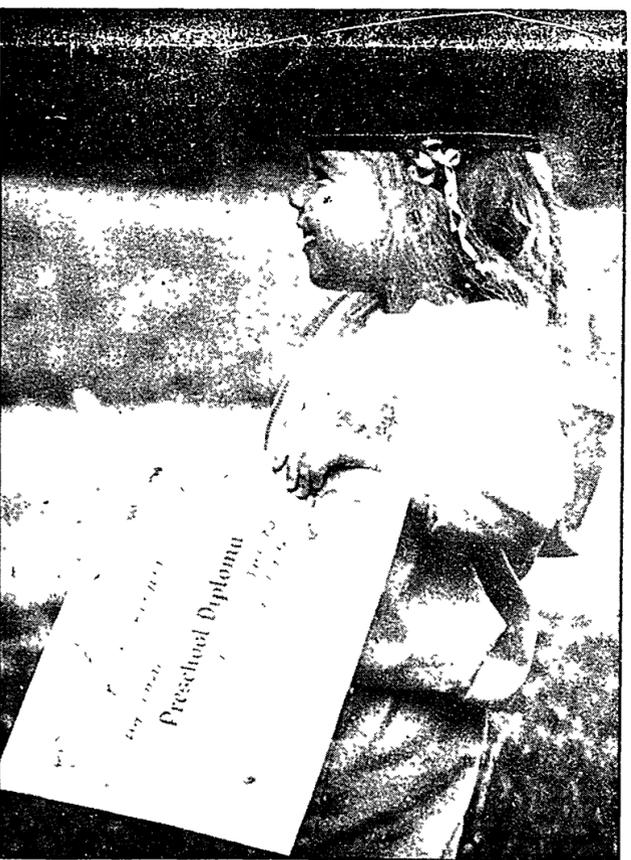

The lightest turnout was in Precinct 5 (Edenderry and Shadbrook) where only 17 voters cast ballots.

School officials indicated that Monday's election marked one of the lightest voter turnouts in at least a decade.

Hansen, a former teacher, currently is completing the final year of her first term. She is presently serving as president of the board following terms as vice president and treasurer.

Active in the PTA, she also is a member of the American Association of University Women. This year she received the "Agent of Change" award from the state AAUW for her work in education.

She has two children: Jennifer, a ninth grader, and John, who is in seventh grade. Both attend Cooke.

Preschool graduate

Little Kristi Kremer couldn't help but show off the diploma she received last Wednesday from Amerman's preschool program. The little tyke, along with her fellow graduates and proud moms, celebrated the milestone with a picnic at Maybury State Park. Caps were provided to all graduates; the ribbon was Kristi's idea. Jill Horn at home with feline friends

Collection's the cat's meow

She was reading one of Phil Jerome's "After The Fact" columns — one about his cats — in The Northville Record when Jill Horn decided to take stock of how many cats and kittens she actually had in her Highland Lakes subdivision home.

"I counted all of them up and I had 84," Horn announces proudly. Before her neighbors on Dartmouth Place panic, let's make it clear — only three of them are real enough to hate meeses to pieces: Tiffany, 14, Kitten, 12, and Tiger, 10.

The rest are either porcelain or pewter, carved and painted, stuffed or woven, appliqued, stuck on cups, hanging from wind chimes... You get the idea.

"I have lots of friends who feed my habit," Horn chuckles. "I've been doing this for a long time, ever since I got my first cat 20 years ago. I really love to collect them, but I'm running out of room. I'm getting to be a little more discerning."

She picks up her inanimate felines on trips or at arts and crafts fairs. "The Tivoli Fair is a real big one for me," she explains. Particularly prized is a porcelain one from Spain and an engraved necklace from the Smithsonian Museum.

She's married to Bill Horn, a Ford engineer, who after years overcame his allergy to — you guessed it — cats. He's not alone.

"Most of my family is allergic to cats and I have a lot of friends who are allergic," says Jill. "We tend to visit them a lot."

35th reunion set

Members of the Northville High School Class of 1950 will be getting together for a 35th year reunion at 7 p.m. Saturday in the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

Donna Thomas reports that the reunion committee has received reservations for 60, including class members and spouses.

The class had 68 members, four of whom have died.

Because classes were smaller in the 1950s, she says, "classmates knew each other and reunions have been "so much fun."

Anyone wishing to make reservations, may call her at 474-1328.

EPA targets schools for asbestos containment program

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Six years ago, when the Environmental Protection Agency unveiled research linking asbestos exposure to cancer, school districts across the nation became the first targets of an identification and containment program.

The EPA's discovery, coupled with its mandate that the nation's school districts begin identifying asbestos areas in their facilities, predictably caused concern in the public domain and brought new woes to educators.

According to Bud Kunz, president of BEMS Engineering, the public alarm over the asbestos controversy is due in part to a lack of understanding.

"The real danger comes about due to a lack of understanding of where it is," Kunz notes. "As long as you don't disturb it, it is perfectly harmless."

Kunz, whose Center Street engineering firm began asbestos testing and removal around the time the EPA initiated its school identification program, notes that the material "is used in this country in just about every building you could possibly see — churches, schools, theaters, hospitals, etc."

Kunz points out that the EPA singled out schools for its asbestos containment program based upon the agency's theory that young children throughout the nation must attend school — and therefore could be harmed by exposure to the material.

As one of the few area companies conducting asbestos tests and writing specifications for removal procedures, Kunz notes that BEMS has "surveyed hundreds of buildings in more than 30 districts" throughout the state. The company also has conducted surveys

BEMS Engineering president

Center, Cady rezoned

Rezoning of 10 parcels of property on South Center and Cady Streets from RTRU (race track and related uses) to CBD (central business district) was approved by city council June 3 with little discussion and no objection from area landowners.

The rezoning was recommended by the city planning commission, which expanded a single lot owner's rezoning request to encompass all 10 parcels.

Council member Paul Folino questioned the rezoning of one parcel — lot 164 — which he said is owned by the racetrack which leases apartment space in the house.

Councilmember Burton DeRusha noted that the Downs and Driving Club opposed the entire rezoning recommendation but did not specifically object to the rezoning of the individual parcel when the issue was considered by the planning commission. Neither the Downs nor the Driving Club was represented at council's Monday meeting.

"In the absence of any specific objections, I am reluctant to go against the recommendation of the planning commission," said councilmember Carolann Ayers.

Council voted unanimously to approve the rezoning as recommended, including the parcel owned by the Downs.

The CBD zoning will allow the same uses RTRU zoning did (primarily parking) but expands the possible uses property owners may make of their land beyond those allowed in RTRU.

for private industry. "We've really grown up with the asbestos program," Kunz points out noting that the company now is divided into two divisions — mechanical engineering and asbestos.

Kunz notes that while the asbestos issue has gained attention since the cancer link discovery in 1979, the United States has been using the material since 1935.

"People with cancer had a high exposure to asbestos," Kunz notes, adding that the link between the disease and the material was discovered in asbestos miners and those who worked in ship yards during World War II. He adds that the cancer was not detected until 25-30 years after exposure to the material.

Kunz explains that the EPA's program for identifying areas of school buildings which have asbestos began in 1979-80 with a testing procedure known as x-ray defraction.

"Practically all schools complied with the test," Kunz points out, noting that most schools found no asbestos according to the testing.

Shortly after districts presented affidavits certifying there was no friable asbestos present in their buildings, the EPA discovered that x-ray defraction was ineffective.

"PLM testing came along and schools had to resample," Kunz notes, adding that "most found materials tested before contained asbestos."

Such was the case in Northville. In 1982, the district, in accordance with EPA regulations, conducted x-ray defraction tests and found no friable asbestos in their facilities. However, when mechanical contractors working on the piping in the tunnels at Northville High School discovered asbestos encapsulated by pipe covering, a new test study was undertaken.

Retesting done by Clayton Environmental with an in-depth study conducted by BEMS revealed friable asbestos in six of the district's nine facilities.

Kunz emphasizes that Northville Public Schools are in compliance with EPA guidelines and that none of the asbestos is harmful to staff or students. However, because of the high school construction project and the discovery of asbestos in some ceiling tiles in the facility, removal is mandated.

Kunz notes that it is "very unusual" to find asbestos in ceiling tiles and notes that chief engineer Paul Milhizer had two separate labs test the tiles for asbestos. The ceiling tiles containing asbestos were installed in the early 1970s during an expansion of the high school facility.

Kunz says that while "removal is not always the best method," he notes that it is mandatory at the high school due to the construction project as asbestos can be harmful when the material is disturbed.

Milhizer, who heads the firm's asbestos department, conducts the studies identifying areas containing asbestos and then sets up procedures for encapsulation or writes specifications for removal.

"We write the specifications for removal, check the qualifications of the contractor and make sure it is done in accordance with the EPA," Kunz notes.

"It is almost like handling a time bomb," he says. "You have to be very careful."

Kunz credits the district with being up front about the problem.

"I have to compliment the Northville administrators for taking the initiative to pursue this," he says, noting that "Northville's problems are not as bad as other schools we've done."

He points out the firm currently is working on a $400,000 project for another school district. (Northville's project is expected to run about $20,000 for removal.)

Kunz adds that the "EPA has set up pretty heavy fines for districts that don't comply" and notes that Ferndale recently was hit with a $46,000 fine for not adhering to inspection.

"All school districts should have had the inspection," Kunz notes, adding that the EPA is continuing to enforce compliance by "spot checking" districts throughout the state.

Kunz also credits the EPA with educating the public about asbestos.

"The EPA has probably done one of the best jobs in terms of asbestos containment programs," Kunz points out. However, he notes that despite the agency's best efforts, the United States continues to use asbestos at a fast and furious pace.

Kunz notes that 214,000 tons of asbestos were used in building materials in the United States in the last year alone.

He also points out that "there are a lot of areas worse than schools."

Noting that 90 percent of floor tiles installed in homes and buildings in the last 10-15 years contain asbestos, Kunz says "homeowners are just as subject to abuse of asbestos as schools."

Board awards contract for asbestos removal

Northville Board of Education awarded a $19,657 contract to Michigan Mechanical Insulation Monday to remove ceiling tiles containing friable asbestos from classrooms at the high school.

The asbestos contained tiles in 12 classrooms at the high school will be removed after students and staff have vacated the building for the summer.

Michigan Mechanical Insulation, a Farmington Hills-based firm, was the lowest bidder of five firms vying for the contract. BEMS Engineering, a local firm hired by the district last fall to conduct a study of the district's buildings for asbestos, reviewed the five bids submitted on the removal project to ensure they met EPA guidelines.

BEMS was retained by the district once asbestos was discovered in six of the district's nine buildings. While the material does not presently pose a health hazard for students and staff in the district, EPA guidelines specify that if the asbestos is to be disturbed, the material must be removed. In light of the construction project under way at the high school, the district will need to remove tiles as part of the renovation.

Bud Kunz, president of BEMS Engineering, told board members Monday that chief engineer Paul Milhizer will be on the site when removal takes place to ensure that all EPA regulations are followed.

BEMS wrote the specifications for removal of the ceiling tiles and has met with the contractor to discuss the details of the project.

"BEMS will guide the contractors through the project," Kunz said, noting that they will ensure all EPA guidelines are followed.

While five other buildings contain asbestos, most of the material is contained in pipe joints and does not pose a health hazard unless disturbed.

The district has followed EPA guidelines by posting warning signs in the affected areas.

GLAUCOMA FACTS

Glaucoma is an eye disease that usually occurs due to unknown causes. If not treated, glaucoma can lead to loss of vision and even blindness. A variety of prescription medicines are available to reduce high pressures within the eyes.

The major problem with glaucoma is not its effective treatment. Rather, glaucoma tends to be a symptomless disease. Eye damage and some loss of vision often occur before one goes to a physician for a vision-related problem. Such lost vision can seldom be restored.

Diagnosis is made with instruments in the offices of eye doctors, many physicians, and in some health departments. Glaucoma is more common in individuals over age 40. Surveys indicate that 3 out of 100 persons over age 65 develop glaucoma. It is imperative that older adults have eye exams to rule out glaucoma.

If glaucoma is diagnosed, the physician often prescribes eye drops which are used one or more times daily. Oral medicines are used less often. Glaucoma medicines either decrease production or increase the outflow of internal eye fluids. Pressure falls — hopefully to a normal level. Glaucoma-related vision loss is avoided.

Salem Township buys a parking lot for $1

Salem Township appeared to be on a good financial roll June 4 when they accepted a lower-than-expected bid for the township's new fire department tanker and approved Holloway Construction Company's offer to "complete all work" on the township's parking lot at a cost of $1 to the township.

Even the fact that the township's insurance coverage for the 1985-86 year is costing approximately $3,000 more than budgeted had its silver lining. Township Clerk Nancy Geiger said the township was fortunate to get liability insurance at all since many townships are receiving flat-out cancellation notices because of a general upsurge in claims against local governments.

The Burnham and Flowers Insurance Agency, which has a three-year contract with the township, has been providing coverage without a retainer since April, according to Salem Supervisor Richard Sackett. The township has been looking into other insurance options during that time.

The township's total insurance cost for this fiscal year now stands at $10,221, with an additional $1,534 tacked on for workman's compensation coverage. Geiger said last year's liability insurance cost $4,951 and that the 1985-86 budget had estimated the liability coverage at $7,000.

Sackett said the Michigan Townships Association is considering its own shared-risk insurance plan for local governments, but the plan may not be available until 1986 if at all.

Holloway's offer to refurbish the township's parking lot includes grading for better drainage and providing and compacting some 120 tons of limestone. Holloway will also provide eight concrete bumpers along the south side of the township hall as specified by local officials.

Hospital honors volunteers

Local residents have been contributing their time to Providence Hospital, both with hours of volunteer service and as officers of Our Lady of Providence League of the Southfield Hospital.

The league is the hospital's principal support in volunteer services from the community. It is marking its 20th anniversary with a million total hours of dedicated service and a million dollars in financial support over the two decades.

As Dorothea Peters of Bloomfield Hills recently was installed as league president, Audrey Hinchey of Northville and Ann Albright of South Lyon were installed as treasurer and Secretary respectively. June Peters of

The board had requested an alternate bid for pouring sidewalk along the hall's south side instead of the bumpers, but Holloway's bid did not cover that work.

The only other bid the township received on the parking lot came from Standard Contracting of South Lyon. Cost for the lot work and bumpers from Standard was bid at $2,682 with the sidewalk alternate bringing the total to $3,172.

Board members expressed surprise at the Holloway offer to do the lot for only $1 and some members of the audience asked what was expected in return. Sackett said there are "no strings attached" to the bid.

The board also voted unanimously to accept the bid of $77,000 from Races of Novi for its new fire truck chassis, complete with 2,800-gallon tank and apparatus. The board had estimated that the tanker might cost $90,000 to $100,000.

Salem Trustee William Taft, who sits on the township's fire committee, recommended accepting Races bid after the committee's review of all bids received.

Motor City Ford was the only company bidding on the chassis alone at $42,925. Almont Tank bid on the complete unit at $80,130 and Four Guys of Pennsylvania bid on the apparatus only at $46,445.

Taft said purchasing both the chassis and apparatus from one supplier would save time and transportation costs.

Taft noted that Lyon and Hamburg townships and the City of Farmington Hills have all purchased their equipment from Races and appear well satisfied.

Delivery of the unit is pegged at approximately 300 days after the order is placed.

Novi is a member of the board of directors.

Among the more than 150 league members honored for their volunteer service were the following Northville residents: Nancy Garner, Audrey Hinchey and Dee Janick with 1,000 volunteer hours each, Doris Witt, 500 hours and Dita Covey, Carolyn McMann and Lou Wolf, with 100 hours each.

Novi volunteers honored were Patricia Byberg, Gerri Flowers and Gerda Sternhagen, 1,000 hours each, Carolyn Boetsch and Kathleen Lamb, 100 hours.

Eleanor Malachie of Walled Lake and Eleanor Surmann of Wixom also contributed 100 hours each.

Superintendent's review details district achievements

Prior to the board of education's June 3 evaluation of Superintendent George Bell, the chief executive submitted a self-performance review to each board member assessing the district's progress during the past school year.

Bell's evaluation highlighted not only his performance as superintendent but also the district's accomplishments.

Bell prefaced his evaluation by noting the complexity of the past year's events and the change in the central office administration following the death of Nancy Soper. He specifically noted the challenges placed upon new hire Dolly McMaster and the equally difficult absence of Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton, who underwent surgery shortly after Nancy Soper's death.

"One of my most serious shortcomings as an administrator has always been an inability to effectively delegate responsibility to others," Bell stated.

"I suffer from the 'manager as hero' syndrome which has always caused me to want to have a finger on every last detail being accomplished in the district."

Noting that he "made a real effort to delegate responsibilities to my capable colleagues in the cabinet and building administration," Bell said he felt for the first time in his career he "effectively managed the district through delegation of authority and trust in the capability of my people."

"We could never have done the things we have accomplished this year if I had tried to play the Lone Ranger."

Bell followed the structure of the board's evaluation form in assessing his performance as chief executive of the board and superintendent of schools as well as his achievement of the year's goals.

In his performance as chief executive of the board, Bell noted several needed policy changes which have been recommended to the board this past year.

He told board members many of the policies ultimately will serve as vehicles for future savings. Among those is the Energy Conservation Bonding under Public Act 431, which already is paying dividends for the district, and the adoption of an energy policy last January which provides the district with guidelines for energy conservation.

He also pointed out the administrative services contract approved this year allowed the district to save nearly $80,000 in Blue Cross-Blue Shield expenses.

The three-year agreement with the Northville Education Association and other district bargaining units tying future salary adjustments to fluctuations in the State Equalized Valuation also is expected to provide future fiscal stability.

In the area of instructional improvement, Bell noted that district students "continue to score well above state and national levels on standardized tests such as MEAP, SAT and ACT" as well as competitive activities such as the Midwest Talent Search, Michigan Math Competition and other elective competitions.

"I sincerely believe that the move from the two junior high schools to a single 6-8 middle school will result in an even higher level of achievement."

In the area of student safety, Bell said one of the district's major concerns is transporting kindergarten children at times when older students are not going to and from schools.

"At the present time, safety problems of the transportation program represent a major concern which I hope will be brought to resolution this summer."

"I suffer from the 'manager as hero' syndrome which has always caused me to want to have a finger on every last detail being accomplished in the district."

mer." In terms of management and organization of the district, Bell noted the reduced central office staff (from seven to five in the past year) has "resulted in a smaller but more effective cabinet."

However, he noted, "there is little

Bell makes the grade on board's review

"As superintendent, you've provided an environment for continued improvement."

Wilkinson pointed out that in light of other ongoing projects and the loss of Nancy Soper and Debra Wangrud, "it's amazing we've gotten everything done."

Johnson said he "thought there was a real strength in the overall program with grade restructuring."

"I also think finally getting the deficit under control will ultimately improve the program," he noted.

Board concerns about the instructional program mostly focused on the middle school program.

One board member noted that the district's direction on extra-curricular activities at the middle school is not clear cut.

Bell responded by noting the direction is toward an intermediate program with the district hoping to be admitted into the LIV/OAK League next year. He also said the administration is fine tuning some of the middle school programs and will be coming back to the board with its proposals.

In the area of facility management and planning, some board members voiced frustration over delays in the high school renovation project. However, they conceded that many of those problems were "out of the superintendent's hands."

Bell was given high marks for hiring the consulting firm of Austin, Goldammer and Howard prior to the district's decision to close schools and also for helping the district secure monies through Public Act 431 for energy conservation projects.

Glenna Davis said she felt facility management was one of the superintendent's strongest evaluation areas.

"The concerns we had in this area three years ago have been completely erased," she noted. "The overall maintenance of facilities is much improved."

"I also don't think it's awful that the high school won't be completed in September," she added.

Doug Whitaker echoed her remarks and noted that "this has been an extremely complex year — control and doubt that we are understaffed for the intense action that has occurred over the past year."

Bell pointed out the many strides made by the district in terms of financial responsibility as a result of summer taxes, energy conservation measures, cost saving task force, self-insurance, reduction of administrative staff, building closings and a general tightening throughout the district.

"We continue our work toward managing the district budget instead of allowing it to manage us," Bell pointed out.

In the area of community relations, the superintendent noted the his "quest to be highly visible to the community has been less effective this year than in the past due to the volume of crises we faced."

However, he noted that "although there are scars from the school closings which will still be there next year, people I have talked to seem to feel that, although they don't agree with a specific action in closing their school, they do understand the need for such action."

In his assessment of his goals during the past year, Bell noted that "as a consumer based agency, it's easy to run a school district if you don't ever have to do anything that makes people mad."

"However, this is not one of those years. Generally, I think the response of the community towards the year's work has been positive."

"The proof of the pudding comes next."

coordination have been maintained.

"I don't feel delays (in the high school project) are a slip-up," he said.

"I'm not so concerned with it being done in September as I am with it being the best construction job possible."

In the area of management and organization, board members noted that despite "unforeseen personnel changes," a sense of staff unity has prevailed in the district.

Davis also noted that Bell is delegating more responsibility.

Though he listed delegating responsibility as one of his shortcomings, Bell said he has made a greater effort this year to put his staff in charge.

"I'm surrounded by people committed to the district and each other," he said. "This feeling is more evident than ever before."

In the area of financial responsibility, most board members praised the SEV salary schedule concept.

"It's a concept whose time has come," Johnson pointed out. It really gives the district the ability to plan as we grow."

Bell told the board he thought "for the first time this year we're managing the budget."

"For the first three years I was being managed by the budget," he said. "I didn't always have the feeling I was fully in control — I feel more in control this year."

Community relations was without a doubt the greatest area of strength for the superintendent with board members giving him a unanimous outstanding ranking.

Doug Whitaker seemed to convey the entire board's feelings when he said that Bell "could write the book on community relations."

Bell also earned kudos in his achievement of goals with board members praising his long range planning as well as the amount of work accomplished in the past year. The board also noted the district has retained its quality in spite of some adversarial situations.

Glenna Davis noted that "it's hard to remain positive when school closings take place."

"Any district in our position would be demoralized. Even though we're getting smaller — we're getting better."

Workers claim 'scapegoating'

Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) and the Michigan State Employees Association (MSEA). An MSEA member who asked for anonymity said it was the first time the two unions had worked in concert. Last week's picket line was organized by MSEA and supported by AFSCME. Picketing planned for June 13 will be AFSCME-sponsored and likely supported by MSEA.

Also protesting the disciplinary actions on Stafford's behalf is the Michigan Association of Governmental Employees (MAGE) which represents managers, supervisors and other state employees excluded from collective bargaining.

Tom Mutchler, chief steward for the MSEA local that serves both the hospital and adjacent Hawthorn Center and represents Dell'Orco and Dr. Akman, said the hospital policies the employees are alleged to have violated are impossible to adhere to under the conditions at NRPH.

"The employees here are just being scapegoated," said Mutchler. "What was going on that day is no different from what goes on every day. There is not adequate enough resources to provide the level of care we're supposed to provide. Patients are just being warehoused here.

"The department is just taking it out on the workers again to make it look like they're doing something," he continued. "This (disciplinary action) is not going to change anything — not going to make the situation any better."

The MSEA worker who preferred to remain anonymous noted that some of the employees were disciplined for failing to separate John Foley, Helzerman's alleged killer, from other patients.

"They don't have any policy on mixing violent and non-violent patients," she charged. "How can you violate a policy that doesn't exist? We get people in here who are arrested for attempted murder, rape, assault, just about anything you can name. There's no policy about mixing them with other patients."

John DeTizio, MAGE labor relations representative, has filed a grievance on Stafford's behalf charging he was suspended without just cause. Stafford was suspended for failure to follow established nursing procedures in not reviewing the work schedule to insure that a supervisor was assigned to the ward.

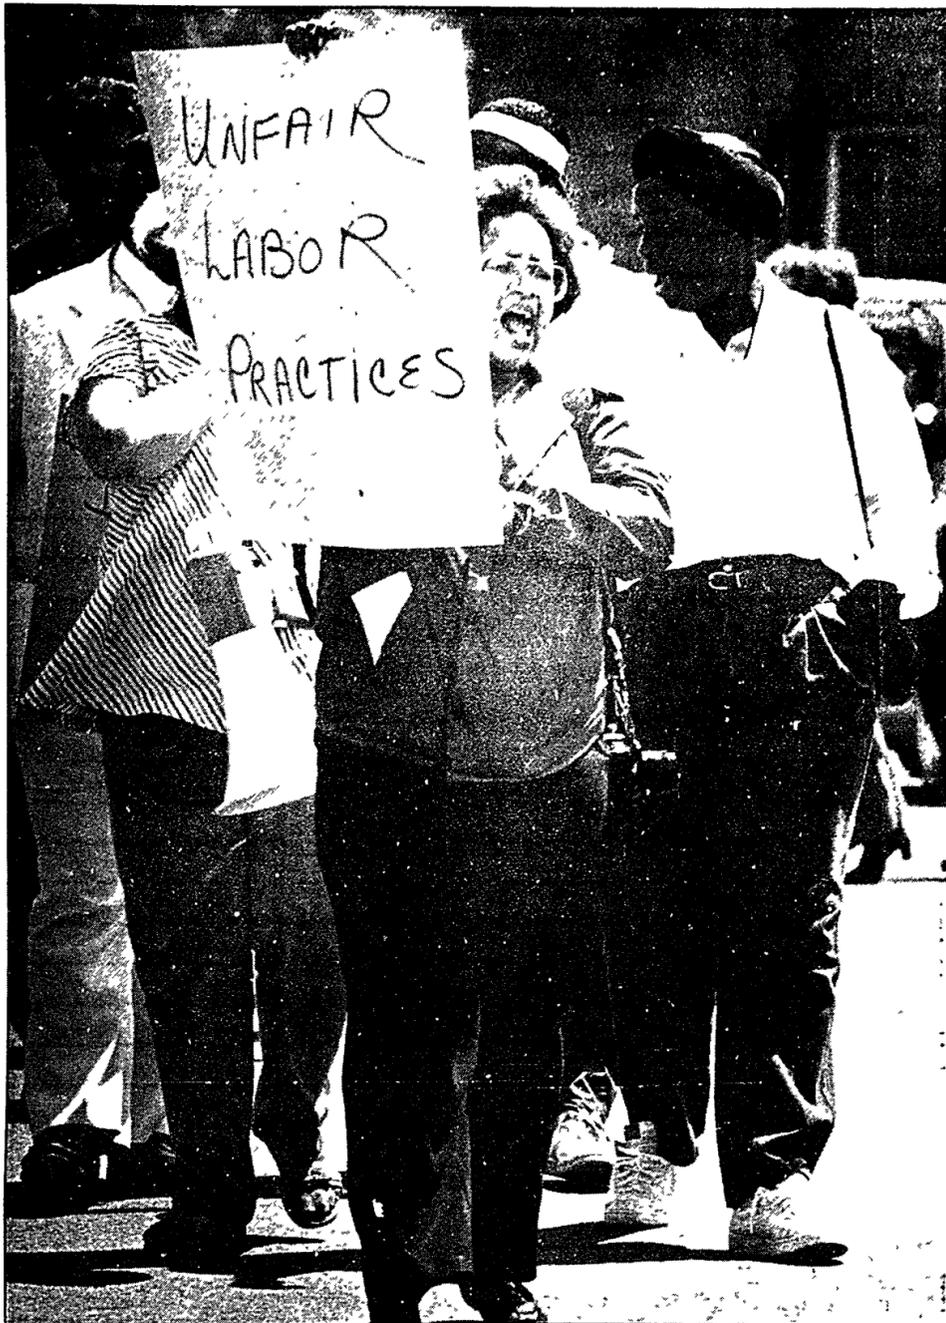

"The argument I will use in representing him is that these procedures were very rarely carried out because the employees always had more pressing concerns and responsibilities to deal with," DeTizio said.

"These people are under tremendous pressure — if they make a single mistake, the results can be devastating. If they foul up a medication order, they can kill someone, just as an example," he continued. "Because of the short staff, they have to pick and choose among what they can do and what they can't do. We're going to contend the normal process was for (Stafford) not to review the schedule."

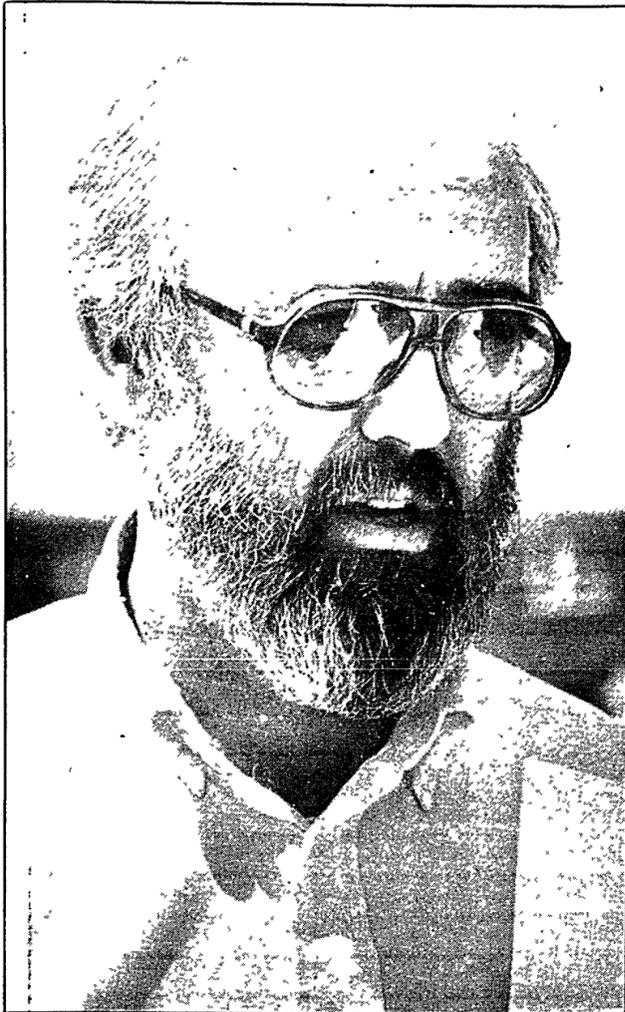

DeTizio asserted that his experience with MAGE is that "in every single case, DMH blames the employees. I don't know if they're covering their behinds or what, but the department has established a practice of placing all the blame on the employees."

AFSCME, MSEA and MAGE spokespersons all said they intend to file formal protests against the disciplinary actions in hopes of having them overturned.

Neither NRPH director Dr. Walter Brown nor DMH director C. Patrick Babcock was available to comment in response to the union protests prior to The Record's press deadline.

NRPH employees staged a picket outside hospital entrance to protest firings and suspensions

Library programs offered

Activities for children and teens of all ages are planned this summer at Northville Public Library.

"Buccaneers and Books," the Summer Reading Club, which is open to children who are able to read on their own, begins tomorrow, June 13, and runs through July.

Everyone who reads 10 or more books at his or her reading level receives a certificate on the last day, July 25.

In addition to reading, weekly activities including a program teaching new non-competitive games, puzzles and brain teasers, films, a pet show and a scavenger hunt are planned.

Registration for the program will continue through June 28.

Two new programs also are beginning this summer for preschoolers and teens.

Preschoolers and non-readers also can receive a certificate for enjoying stories and books read to them by an adult in the "Read-to-Me" program. Each child will have his own reading record to keep track of the stories heard. Certificates will be awarded at the end of the "Read-to-Me" program, Friday, July 26.

The computer will help teen readers find just the right book — whether their interests are romance, sports or the supernatural. "Computer Pix" is open to all readers 12 years and older.

Readers fill out personalized interest sheets to indicate the type of theme, characters, time and setting of a story. The computer then selects five titles that match the readers' special interests.

Registration for "Computer Pix" begins tomorrow, June 13. The program runs through the end of August.

For more information about the summer programs, call 349-3020 or stop by the Northville Public Library at 215 West Main.

Quality.

It's as important in diamonds as in anything else you own.

And quality shows - in a fine diamond, a home, or an automobile. Quality in diamonds is determined by the 4C's: Cut, Color, Clarity and Carat-weight. Cut is the precise formula for cutting a diamond to allow the maximum amount of light in. Color refers to the different gradations from exceptional white to yellowish. Quality is also determined by Clarity, the degree to which a diamond is free of interior and exterior inclusions. Finally, there is Carat-weight, the size of the diamond.

Orin Jewelers is the expert where quality diamonds are concerned. Orin's can answer your questions on quality and can show you quality diamonds in all price ranges. Orin Jewelers understands how important quality is to you in anything you own.

Novi plans Gala Days

Gala Days '85 begins today in Novi. But don't expect to find the popular summer festival sponsored by the Novi Jaycees at its customary site at the Schol/Municipal Complex on Ten Mile at Taft Road.

Gala Days '85 will be held behind the Old Novi Elementary School on Novi Road, just south of the I-96 expressway. The site was changed this year to gain freeway exposure and attract larger crowds, explained Don Goodwin, chairman of the annual event.

Gala Days will be open Wednesday and Thursday from 5-11 p.m., Friday from 5 p.m. to 2 a.m., Saturday from noon to 2 a.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m.

The primary attraction at Gala Days, of course, will be the midway. Also featured will be a fireworks display tonight (Wednesday) at dusk and nightly entertainment in the Jaycees' "Beer Tent."

Again this year, the Jaycees have retained Pugh Shows to provide the rides on the midway. "As far as we're concerned, Pugh Shows is the best in the business," commented Goodwin.

For those who attend Gala Days to take advantage of the ferris wheels and other rides, the Jaycees are offering a special all-day price of $7. Anyone purchasing a $7 pass is permitted to ride as many times as he or she desires for the rest of the day.

In addition to the "super rides" for teens and adults, Pugh Shows also offers numerous attractions for children, including a merry-go-round and kiddie land.

There also will be games of chance and skill along the midway. An arcade tent also is available.

Another feature will be the popular Beer Tent with live entertainment nightly. Ron Parker and a group called "Sitting In" will perform in the Beer Tent on Wednesday and Thursday from 7-11 p.m. Joining Parker on Friday and Saturday from 7 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. will be Tracey Lynn & The Mountain Express.

The Jaycees have cut back on the number of special events during Gala Days, but another feature will be the popular "Almost Anything Goes" competition sponsored by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department on Saturday at 1 p.m. Teams of three men and three women will compete in a series of wacky events during the competition, which last year was won by a team of municipal employees led by City Manager Edward Kriewall. Various service clubs and subdivision associations also enter teams in "Almost Anything Goes."

Goodwin said Gala Days '85 also will include a community tent with exhibits from the Novi Police and Fire Departments, Novi Ambulance, the Novi Land Conservancy and the Novi Jaycees. A special feature of the community tent will be the Novi Special, the famed Indianapolis 500 race car which has become the city's symbol.

Park offer

"Nature's Evening Symphony," a 1 1/2 hour nature walk concerning evening sounds, will be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford at 7:30 p.m. today.

"Of Pollywogs and Darning Needles," a one-hour pond program, will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, June 15, at the park.

To celebrate Father's Day, the park has scheduled a special walk, "Dads from Z to Z," to be held at 2 p.m. Sunday, June 16.

All programs are free, but advance registration is required. To register or for additional information call toll free 1-800-552-6772. A vehicle entry permit is required.

Fire damages home

Township fire officials have determined a broken hydraulic or oil line was the cause of a truck engine fire at Thomson Sand and Gravel June 6.

According to the police report, officers called to the scene found the engine compartment of the vehicle on fire. The vehicle belonged to Klemmer Trucking Company of Livonia.

Officers at the scene were unsuccessful in their attempt to extinguish the fire with an extinguisher from the patrol car.

Northville Township Fire Department arrived on the scene and extinguished the blaze.

An officer spoke with the truck driver who stated he noticed smoke coming from the truck and then saw flames under the cab and engine compartment.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,500.

Township firefighters were called to a Bradner residence at 4:40 p.m. June 7 to extinguish a blaze on the second floor of the home.

The complainant told police at the scene that the fire started in a second floor closet.

According to the police report, the fire caused extensive damage to the second floor.

Township Fire Chief Robert Toms noted the fire was caused by an electrical short. Police did not know the estimated cost of the damage.

A 20-year-old Galway resident suffered minor injuries June 8 when he lost control of his bicycle and hit a parked vehicle in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center parking lot.

Officers called to the scene observed the subject on his back in the parking lot near Michigan National Bank. Police learned the subject was riding his bike east on Seven Mile Road when he turned into the parking lot and struck an asphalt curb.

The impact caused the subject to lose control of his bike and ride directly into a parked car.

Care of the victim was turned over to CEMS who treated and transported the subject to Botsford Hospital.

Damage to the rear of the vehicle was estimated at $150. Police estimated $100 damage to the front wheel and fork of the victim's bike.

Firefighters honored in Saturday ceremony

Not only public school students are participating in graduation exercises this month.

Twenty-eight firefighters from area fire departments have been graduated in the first Fire Fighter No. 1 class to be held in the area.

The ceremonies were held Saturday at the Northville Eagles Aerie No. 2504, F.O.E., hall which was donated by the Eagles. The class was sponsored by the Northville Township Fire Department.

Guest speakers at the graduation were Chief Joseph Benyo, president of the Michigan Fire Education Resource Network (MICHFERN) and a member of the Westland Fire Department, and Tom Campbell, state coordinator for fire education, Fire Marshal Division of the Michigan State Police.

Area fire departments that participated in the program and had students graduating in the class were, in addition to Northville Township, the departments of the cities of Northville, Plymouth, Livonia and townships of Green Oak, Plymouth and VanBuren.

State certified instructors for the class were sergeant Dennis Ireland and assistant chief Burt Sass, both of the Northville Township Fire Department, and lieutenant Jim Cowden and firefighter instructor Ted Merciez, both of the Livonia Fire Department. Sergeant Ronald Lane of the Northville Township Fire Department served as a helper in the program.

Preschool story hour set

Northville Public Library now is taking registrations for the summer preschool story hour open to children 3½ to 5 years old who have not yet started kindergarten.

Story times will be held in the library at 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. Tuesdays from July 2-23.

Registrations is necessary since enrollment is limited. Stop by the library or call 349-3020 to register your child.

To the rescue

Seventeen Northville City firefighters doused a smoky garage fire at 616 Fairbrook just before noon Friday. According to Fire Department Lieutenant Dan Anderson, it took about five minutes to extinguish the blaze, believed to be caused by a soldering iron left on inside. No structural damage was reported to the two-car garage, which is not attached to the house at the address. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Four Northville residents are among the 135 Kalamazoo College students named to the dean's list the past quarter.

Students named to the dean's list must achieve a 3.5 grade point average or better on a 4.0 scale.

Local students named to the dean's list include LISA A. EHLERT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald E. Ehlert of 42062 Banbury; JANE S. FIELD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David B. Field of 43558 Six Mile; KEVIN M. O'CONNELL, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Connell of 24047 Heartwood and TINA R. STOECKLIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Stoecklin of 21856 North Center.

Northville resident CATHERINE KENNEDY has been promoted to the position of business and distribution manager of Marketline Magazine.

Marketline Magazine, "The Magazine for Future Executives," is associated with the Michigan State University Marketing Association. Kennedy, who previously worked on the research and business staffs, is a sophomore studying finance.

BARBARA ERDODY of 18830 Jamestown Circle was among the 210 Alma College students named to the dean's list for outstanding academic performance during the 1985 Winter Term ending April 19.

Students who achieve a 3.5 or better grade point average during a term, while carrying a minimum of 13 credits are named to the dean's list.

CAROL and LYNN WALLACE of Northville both earned M.A. degrees in Social Work at the Wayne State University spring commencement ceremonies. Lynn Wallace, a 1977 graduate of Northville High School, had received her B.A. degree in criminal justice previously from Michigan State University. Carol Wallace, a 1979 graduate of Northville High School, received her B.A. from Western Michigan University in psychology. Both now live in Highland Lakes; they are daughters of Ed and Geri Talbot of Springfield Drive.

Northville resident DONNA BLANEY was among the students receiving degrees in the Bronson Methodist Hospital School of Nursing commencement ceremonies April 27.

Ceremonies were held at First United Methodist Church in Kalamazoo.

SCOTT CHESLEY, son of Patricia Sutherland of 20824 West Glenhaven, was among the 197 Adrian College students honored at commencement ceremonies April 28.

Chesley received a B.A. in speech-broadcasting.

JENNIFER E. BUSS, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Wilkins of 44823 North Hills Drive, has been commended by Roy V. Wood, dean of Northwestern University's School of Speech, for distinguished academic achievement during the winter quarter.

The dean's commendation is awarded to students who achieve a grade point average of 3.67 or higher.

Jennifer is past president of her residential college and now serves as president of the Residential College Board of Northwestern. She also sings in the University Chorus.

Schoolcraft College student THOMAS R. BAYERL of Northville has been named a University of Michigan Community College Scholar.

The selection is based on a superior academic record and course selection at Schoolcraft College. In addition to its academic distinction, the award provides a $500 scholarship for the first year of study at the University of Michigan.

KRISTINE BARNES, daughter of Mrs. Theresa Allen of 44560 Country Lane, received a bachelor of arts degree in English at Hope College during commencement exercises May 5.

LISA A. JAKEE of Northville is among the 1985 recipients of the Student Achievement Awards presented annually to outstanding students by Northern Michigan University's Board of Control.

Jakee is expected to graduate in December with a bachelor's degree in social work. She has been president of her residence hall council and has been active on the Muscular Dystrophy Dance Marathon Committee and the Upper Campus Program Board.

A volunteer counselor at Planned Parenthood of Marquette, she also visits clients of the Marquette Senior Handicapper Center.

Northville resident KATHRYN LUCHS of 7420 Six Mile is among 30 University of Michigan students awarded scholarships by the U-M Center for Continuing Education for Women (CEW).

The awards, ranging from $500 to $2,000, recognize the scholarship and achievement of women who have resumed their education after an interruption of at least two years.

Lucas is expected to receive a B.F.A. in design and a B.A. in film video.

Northville residents PATRICIA RAHILLY and VICTORIA S. JAMES are among the University of Detroit students named to the dean's list.

In order to be named to the dean's list, students must achieve a 3.0 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

Merchants seek signs to guide shoppers

Signs directing shoppers off Main Street to businesses on North Center and Mary Alexander Court and to other shops on Main east of Hutton may soon become new features of the downtown landscape.

John Bueter, representing the Downtown Merchants Association, got a generally receptive response when presenting the idea to city council June 3, particularly when he said the association would be willing to underwrite part or all of the cost of the signs.

Presenting councilmembers with a rendering of the proposed signs, which adhere to the Victorian-style theme of the downtown area, Bueter said they are necessary to "let shoppers know there are merchants in town other than those on Main Street between Hutton and Center."

The signs would either be hung from a stanchion similar to that used for the Farmer's Market sign at Hutton near Dunlap or attached to a building, overhanging the sidewalk. The one installation most likely to be of the latter type is at Main and Center, where a sign could be attached on the wall at Orin Jewelers directing shoppers to stores on North Center, Bueter said.

He also showed a second rendering of a free-standing kiosk that could be located at three, or four locations to familiarize shoppers with the downtown shopping district. Bueter estimated the cost of the kiosks at $4,000 to $5,000 each — a pricetag he said was too hefty for the merchants association to tackle on its own.

Mayor Paul Vernon and city manager Steven Walters noted that the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) plans for downtown improvements have included kiosks "from the beginning."

Walters said the kiosks, which the DDA has no specific design for, were initially included in the Mainstreet 78 plan and were only dropped as a cost-saving measure.

"They're definitely still in the plan," Vernon said. "The DDA expects kiosks to be part of the second phase project downtown."

He suggested that both the sign and kiosk proposals be presented to the DDA for its consideration, noting that the Historic District Commission may also have to approve.

Bueter said the merchants are anxious to have the signs installed "as soon as possible." He mentioned the increased number of people expected downtown for the association's Summersong festival June 21-22 and for the Sidewalk Sale later in the summer.

Vernon said it is probably "unrealistic" to expect to have the signs up for Summersong. Bueter acknowledged that, but said he hoped "to see it happening" in time for the Sidewalk Sale and Autumnfest, the association's annual fall promotion.

City sells four parking spaces for Center plan

Following fast on the heels of a change of zoning on South Center from track related use to central business district, city council received and approved a request from J. F. Perkins to purchase four parking space credits from the city.

Perkins plans to move his Wooden Shovel antique shop to 209 South Center. He already had been before the planning commission meeting June 4 for site plan approval, which was granted conditionally subject to his entering into an agreement with the city for four spaces and returning to the commission with a landscape plan for the backyard.

Prior to the motion there had been discussion regarding whether the applicant would provide his own on-site parking or would purchase it from the city.

Perkins told council Monday that he had investigated the cost of asphalt and required drainage and that it was "getting very expensive."

Therefore, he said he was requesting permission to purchase the spaces. He noted that the drainage could be a problem with present capacity in question.

City Manager Steven Walters agreed that drainage of storm water is a problem on Cady with manhole covers currently having to be welded on to prevent their popping in storms. He reported to council that he was sure parking would be provided in the area in the city's next expansion. He said the widening of Cady Street is "not more than a year down the road."

Perkins said, "we're a daytime operation" and said he felt parking in the south end of the present lot behind M.A.G.S. would not be a problem except on show days of that firm.

Asked by council member Paul Folino about on-site parking, Perkins said there is a two-car garage on the rear of the lot and that there would be space for some cars, but that was not being considered part of the requirement inasmuch as it would have to have asphalt — and that would tie in the drain capacity problem.

He said he planned to have offices on the second floor and commercial and storage area downstairs.

Cost of a space currently is $1,800. In an agreement with the city the purchaser is buying spaces "at large" in the city with the city using funds gained from the sale to improve and increase parking in lots and on the streets.

Walters explained the city policy that, if cost of parking spaces is adjusted downward in the next 24 months, costs paid by the purchaser also will be adjusted. Payment may be in cash or over 10 years at six percent interest with one-tenth to be due, he suggested, in July, 1986, as the new tax year is almost here.

Council member J. Burton DeRusha moved to sell Perkins the four spaces with first payment to be July, 1986. G. Dewey Gardner supported the motion, and it passed unanimously.

City grants McAllister accumulated days pay

The request of city clerk Joan McAllister for partial compensation for accumulated sick days during her almost 10 years' employment with the city was approved at a special meeting of city council Monday. She is resigning her post effective June 14 to become clerk of the City of Oak Park.

In a memo to council she noted that, since starting work March 1, 1976, she had accumulated 97.40 sick days out of a possible 111 and requested that the council consider reimbursing her for 25 percent of the time. She noted that the clerical contract stated 25 percent will be paid after 10 years of continuous service and that she is 8½ months short of the 10 years.

She also expressed the hope that the council would "view my request kindly in light of the number of hours I have worked without reimbursement."

Council member Paul Folino, recalling that in the past the council has determined payment on an individual basis, cited allowance for early retirement for Charles Nichols and Marge Gross, both city employees. He said he was in favor of granting McAllister's request and noted that the city "could have lost 97 days of work."

"I would rather have an employee on the job any time," he said.

Mayor Paul Vernon pointed out that Nichols had a hearing problem that made his early retirement necessary and said "it was to the city's advantage" to have Gross retire.

"This was voluntary and does put a different light on the request," he stated, adding that he would like to know "if there had been any abuse of the personal day privileges and days off."

He mentioned McAllister's position as current president of the Michigan Municipal Clerks' Association and said he felt it could have taken time away from her work.

She responded, "I don't think I ever abused the city in any manner, shape or form" and noted that she had taken the position with the approval of the city manager and council.

Council member Carolann Ayers commented, "I feel the 8½ months (short of the 10 years) doesn't bother me. Like Paul, I would rather have the person on the job. Therefore, I move we grant the request."

The motion was seconded by Folino and passed unanimously.

Betty House holds the door for Winchester principal Milton Jacobi as he is taken to lunch

Heintz's SEMTA position confirmed by commission

Township supervisor Susan J. Heintz is now a member of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) board, a governing body whose long-term existence is in serious doubt.

Heintz's appointment to the beleaguered board was confirmed unanimously by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners June 6. The 15-member SEMTA board is comprised of appointees from the area it serves — Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Washtenaw counties, and the City of Detroit.

The township supervisor is one of four Wayne County members and was appointed by county executive William Lucas to fill a vacancy created by the resignation of Robert Paciocco. She will complete his term, which ends December 31, 1987, assuming that SEMTA continues in existence that long.

Two separate proposals, one by state senator Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield) and another by the "Big Four" (the Wayne and Oakland County Executives, the mayor of Detroit and the head of the Macomb County Board of Commissioners), would reorganize transportation services in the region.

Fessler's plan, which has already been introduced in Lansing, would abolish SEMTA in favor of a Metropolitan Transportation Authority (MTA). The MTA would include the Big Four plus the director of the Michigan Department of Transportation. Fessler contends the 15-member SEMTA board is too unwieldy and lacks sufficient authority to speak for the areas served.

The Big Four have not provided a detailed plan, but have proposed a reorganization that would place a metropolitan authority over SEMTA and the Detroit Department of Transportation (D-DOT). The new authority would be the planning and policy arm while SEMTA and D-DOT would be confined to operations.

Both plans are purported to contain opportunities to privatize transportation operations with the governmental bodies contracting with private operators.

Winchester PTA bids stylish farewell to Jacobi

Winchester Elementary principal Milton Jacobi became "King for a Day" in a surprise program last Thursday in the school's multi-purpose room.

It followed his being taken to lunch by PTA officers, who planned that the principal would "go in style" in a limousine. It was driven by Betty House. Debbie Gesdorf, Winchester PTA president for 1984-85, and Nancy Trabin escorted him. Other PTA members arranging the afternoon surprise were Ann Frankel, Linda Wesley, Meg Lyczak, Joann Brummett, Lynn Ader, Pat Howe, Debbie Gesdorf and Barbara Weix.

A reception, sponsored by the Winchester PTA, followed the afternoon program. Jacobi, who has been Winchester principal for 10 years, will begin his duties as principal at Amerman Elementary in September.

He came to Northville from his position as a principal in Highland Park School District. He was hired in January, 1966, to oversee the opening of Moraine Elementary. After eight years as Moraine principal, he moved to Winchester in March, 1975, for that school's opening.

Jacobi and his wife Karen live in Dearborn. They enjoy skiing in northern Michigan and vacationing in Clearwater, Florida. They have two grown daughters, Barbara and Janice.

"We will miss Mr. Jacobi at Winchester, but our best wishes go with him as he begins his tenure as principal at Amerman," stated Barbara Weix for the Winchester PTA.

ARE YOU GIVING YOUR MONEY AWAY?

If you don't have an interest-earning checking account, like the kind you'll find at First Federal of Michigan, you're probably giving money away. Just handing it over to your bank—in the form of lost interest and monthly service charges.

A First Federal of Michigan interest-earning checking account actually pays you interest on the money in your account right up until the day the check you write comes back to First Federal. And every day until it does, you get 5% percent annual interest on your money compounded and paid monthly. To our average customer last year, that amounted to almost $70.

And if you maintain a minimum balance of only $300, you can do away with monthly service charges on your account. (If your present checking account doesn't have this no-charge feature, you know how much those monthly fees can add up to.)

Why, we even start you off with the first 30 checks imprinted with your name and address absolutely free.

Our Opinions

Child care options enhanced by schools

Among the more encouraging findings of our recent three-part series on child care (Who's Minding Your Children? May 22-June 5) is the many alternatives available. From the family-like setting of the day-care home to the more structured educational environment of some preschool programs, parents can pick the situation that best suits the needs of their families.

Depending on work schedules, financial resources, the children's age and stage of development, and the particular child-rearing philosophies of the parents, the demands for child care services vary widely. No one system can hope to meet everyone's needs, so it is good to see so many different offerings available.

In that context, we are pleased to see the local school districts taking an interest in child care. Northville Public Schools will convert Moraine Elementary School to a child care center offering a variety of services next year, while the Novi district is investigating an all-day kindergarten to help address the problems working parents face in having a young child moved from one location to another in the middle of the working day. These two districts are not alone — more than 100 of the nearly 600 districts in Michigan already provide some form of preschool service and more are considering it.

Programs offered through the public schools offer parents yet another means of solving the modern problem of how to raise children when parents cannot be available full-time. The first steps in this direction were taken to care for "latchkey" children — those whose parents are not yet home when the school day ends. The latest proposals extend the concept to other age groups and other parents.

We initially shared the concern raised by some private child care center and preschool operators that the public schools would be competing with private businesses, presumably with a competitive advantage because of access to public facilities and because the service need not show a profit. After examining the child care issue in depth, however, we find little cause for concern.

It appears that the need for child care, particularly day care for infants and toddlers, is immense and likely to grow not only with the number of children, but also due to the increasing number of two-earner or single-parent households. In such an expanding market, any harm a public school program might do to private enterprise will likely be confined to the marginal operations that don't meet parents' needs. Moreover, a great many child care services now available are non-profit operations or rent space in school or church buildings (which don't pay property taxes and therefore charge what some might construe as unfairly subsidized low rents), yet the often more costly money-making alternatives continue to thrive.

Virtually all of the child care providers contacted for our series said that their unique offerings would draw children to their programs, even if the school districts entered the market. The ill effects they predicted from public school competition, we were told time and again, would be confined to the other providers in the market. It is hard to put much credence in a complaint few admit would harm them directly.

What we hear the private sector providers telling us is that each program serves the needs of a different group of parents, who are not inclined to base their choice on cost or convenience alone. Some parents will likely find attractive features in a school district operation. Without casting aspersions on any of the other providers in the area, we think some parents may feel the school program is somehow "safer," in that it is overseen by an administrative structure already known to them. Others may see advantages in a preschool program operated in concert with the same system their children will enter a year or two later. If the school district can offer that group of parents what it seeks, it should do so.

School districts generally try to serve larger community, not just the school-aged children. They offer community education and recreational opportunities (which might be depicted as competition for private instruction or health clubs, if one was so inclined), and often open their facilities to community organizations or individuals. The idea is that the schools should serve the entire tax-paying community.

Which brings us to a final reason to support school-operated child care — as a productive use of idle building space, serving the taxpayer's interest in cost-effective operation. In this area, at least, the enrollment decline that followed the end of schooling for the baby-boomers is likely to be offset by continued growth in population as Northville and Novi develop. It would be foolish, then, to sell off buildings that might be needed five to 10 years down the pike. Far better that we provide a self-supporting use for these idle spaces to help offset the maintenance costs. Especially if we can provide an evidently-needed service to parents.

A rare dedication

As Dr. Russell McRae Atchison steps to the podium at Northville High School graduation ceremonies at 7 p.m. Friday, it will be to receive his second award from the school — the Distinguished Alumnus Award — for his service to the community as a family physician and as a citizen.

The annual award was instituted last year by Principal David C. Bolitho to honor outstanding alumni. Nominations are made by the community with the recipient chosen by a selection committee of school and community representatives. We concur with the committee, which made him its unanimous choice, that the honor is deserved.

The Northville family physician who has cared for area patients for almost 50 years received his diploma from Northville High School in 1928, his B.A. degree from University of Michigan in 1931 and his doctor of medicine in 1935.

Since that time, he has served Northville citizens both as a physician and as a resident. He was a member of the board of education for 12 years, Northville Health Officer for a decade, Civil Defense Medical Director during World War II and high school team physician for many years. But it has been his caring for their well-being that brings greatest response from his countless patients. It prompted Fred and Laura Hicks to write as they nominated him for the award, "He has spent all his life, working night and day, serving the people of Northville and surrounding communities."

Northville High School is honoring a rare dedication.

Midnight is madness

By Michele Fecht

Following a school board meeting last week, one of the trustees asked me on the way out the door if I was finding my "beat" a little tedious after some five years of school district budgets, board elections, curriculum planning and graduation ceremonies.

Like any reporter who regularly covers a planning commission, city council, township board and the like, there are occasions when monotony and tedium run at a premium. In fact, the challenge for reporters who cover the same subject day in and day out is to find different angles or new aspects to the same old story.

Admittedly, board meetings of any type can on occasion be a cure for insomnia. However, while those two or three meetings per month may seem routine, it's unlikely a reporter will forego a meeting simply because the agenda contains few items of earth-shattering importance.

I've learned that agendas can be deceiving. When it appears as though you might make it home to see an entire episode of "Hill Street Blues," three additional items will be placed on the agenda, angry residents will show up to protest bus routes and the board's most long-winded member will step on the soapbox. If that's the case, you'll be lucky to catch "Nightline."

I have a real gripe about long meetings. It's one thing if the agenda warrants a four or five hour session. It's another if the board, council or commission wastes precious time arguing over philosophical differences and semantics. I believe such discussion should take place in subcommittee meetings — not at regularly scheduled public sessions.

I also question the effectiveness of board members when the wee hours of the morning roll around. When the clock strikes midnight, public officials, the press and what little public remains in the board room all look the worse for wear. Concentration levels also seem to be at an all-time low. It's hard to focus attention on the issue at hand when you're worried about that 7 a.m. breakfast meeting which is fast approaching or the proposal you have to prepare for the next morning.

The needless — and oftentimes endless — discussion which takes place at board meetings usually is initiated by the board member who has not done his or her homework. With agendas prepared days in advance of scheduled meetings, there is little excuse for the public official who opens his or her packet upon arrival at the board table. Too often, the answers to concerns aired by unprepared board members can be found in the folder in front of them.

For journalists who regularly attend public meetings, agendas and subsequent background materials are a saving grace. It is impossible to write about specific proposals or a budget recommendation without having the facts and figures before you. While most boards and commissions recognize that supplying the press with needed information is in their best interests, some still leave reporters scrounging.

The most obvious example of such oversight is when last-minute information is distributed at the board table. While copies are passed among all the key players, nine times out of ten they bypass the press. Since journalists are expected to be seen and not heard, it's impossible to interrupt a meeting in order to request a copy of the information. Short of standing on a chair and waving my arms to attract attention, my only hope is that extra copies will be distributed to the audience.

I think most journalists would agree that one of the most challenging aspects of being a beat reporter — or any reporter for that matter — is maintaining a presence as a silent observer. Too often, reporters hear officials say they "are uncomfortable" having the press in attendance or go off on a tirade and then state that the entire half-hour dissertation was "not for publication."

While most public officials have a clear understanding that anything discussed in a public session is "on the record," there still are those who will call the editor the morning the paper hits the street to complain about being "misquoted."

Being misquoted and saying something you did not want printed in the newspaper are two entirely different things. Hindsight may tell you the less said the better. However, it will not stop the presses.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I had it coming. We were getting ready to go antique hunting last Saturday when I noticed she was wearing a white cotton blouse and a pair of short yellow shorts.

"You're not going out dressed like that," I said with just a slight hint of impropriety in my voice. My little comment had the desired effect.

She ran back into the bathroom and looked at herself in the mirror. "What's wrong?" she said finally. "Don't I look alright? You think I should wear something different?"

"It's up to you, I guess," I responded nonchalantly. "If you're comfortable, it's okay with me. It's just that . . . well, we are going out in public."

She looked at me suspiciously . . . not certain if I were serious or merely putting her on. I had her where I wanted her, so I dropped the subject and didn't say another word until we were walking out the door.

"Oh, I see you decided not to change," I said. Nothing else. Nice and simple. Just a non-judgmental observation. I figured it was driving her crazy.

One of the things I like about her is that she's pretty sharp. Doesn't let me get away with too much. In fact, I was pleased that my comments about her yellow shorts had created as much concern as they had.

It wasn't until we were leaving the antique place that she took her revenge.

"The guys in the backroom liked my yellow shorts," she said out of the clear blue. "Didn't you hear them back there? Didn't you hear the big handsome one with all the muscles tell his buddies to check out the lady in the yellow shorts? Didn't you notice all the guys coming out of the backroom, pretending they were working in the area where I was looking at those antique doors?"

I was speechless; totally unprepared to deal with her counter attack. But I had to smile. Out of admiration, I guess. I had zapped her earlier in the day, so she had zapped me later on.

The moral of all this is that you'd better be able to take it if you decide to dish it out in the first place.

A mess, by any name

By Kevin Wilson

Much wailing and gnashing of teeth around these parts in the past few weeks in response to the amount of news coverage drawn by events at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital. The news stories generally use "Northville" as shorthand for the hospital, offending residents who find the usage in such an unfavorable context a slur on their fair community.

At least one person was moved to write a letter to the mayor, township supervisor and the Wayne County commissioner seeking to have the hospital's name changed, forwarding a copy to The Northville Record. County commissioner Mary Dumas promptly got the issue placed on the agenda for consideration this week. That is but a beginning to the answer — the hospital is a state institution and the best the county could do is request that the state consider a name change. Better to address letters to your state senator, representative and, most of all, the department of mental health and the governor's office.

Which is not to say I find this a terribly productive idea. What residents are really objecting to is not the name of the hospital, but the way the big daily newspapers use it. You've got to admit, Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital is a mighty hefty handle. News space being at a premium, reporters naturally shorten it to Northville. When we need a shorthand reference for our papers, we use NRPH, which has the added advantage of being a little bit shorter for headline writing purposes.

Realistically, though, we can only do that because our readers are familiar with it. Put NRPH on the front of one of the Detroit papers, send it out to Grand Rapids and readers wouldn't know what the story was about. Even familiarity can't solve everything, though. Not too many years ago, the official name was Northville State Hospital. NSH is too easily confused with NHS (Northville High School), so that didn't work too well, and Northville State sounds like a college.

An intensive letter-writing campaign can generate some limited results, though, particularly if you make sure you include the newspaper editors and TV news directors. Remember Jackson Prison? The citizens of Jackson got tired of seeing their town's name splashed around in 72-point type announcing riots and started making noise about it. They got the name changed to Southern Michigan State Prison at Jackson. News reporters generally use the full name on first reference and often use SMSP in the rest of the story. But look at recent headlines and you'll see it didn't solve that problem — copy editors still have to write headlines that convey a lot of information in a small space and the more familiar name does that.

Before you shortchange your local officials, keep in mind that they already prevented the state from naming any of its three local prisons after Northville or Plymouth. We have the Phoenix, Scott and Western Wayne correctional facilities. The latter is the new title for the Detroit House of Correction, which obviously was a long way from Detroit.

Since the prisons are new state institutions, the reporters and headline writers presumably will use those names. The Jackson example shows, however, that long usage is not easily changed. I still see frequent references to Northville State Hospital, all the words capitalized as if that were still its official name. The hospital has been here more than 25 years — changing the official name might not change much.

Which brings up my own, probably unpopular, opinion. It was before my time, but it seems unlikely that anyone objected to the hospital's name when it was built. At the time, it was state of the art — one of the best in the nation, I've heard tell. That may say as much about our changed expectations over the years as it does about the recent deterioration at the hospital, but the fact is the state was mighty happy to lay claim to the facility. Northville may well have been proud to have its name attached to it. Now that it's fallen on hard times, some folks want to disown it.

It strikes me as somewhat selfish, even if well-intended. If we're going to hold state officials' feet to the fire, I'd much rather be urging improvements in the mental health system than quibbling over one word in the hospital's name.

Driver Dolores Boyd helps Michael off the bus at home

Bus drivers earn this parent's respect

To the Editor:

My heartfelt thanks I wish to extend to the transportation department of Northville Public Schools.

I am the mother of a little boy enrolled in the special education program at Old Village School. In the years that my son has been transported back and forth from home to school I have had the privilege of getting to know his bus drivers personally.

The bus drivers have been the most loving and caring of people to my son. Mrs. Boyd is the current driver for my son, and the personal involvement she has shown has been unmatched.

How many bus drivers would tell you just what your child had to eat at school today, and, maybe I should put long pants on him because it's a little "nippy?"

Mrs. Boyd along with her aide Martha are just as excited as we are about the little things that my son does that are extremely hard for him to accomplish.

Just to have bus drivers that are just as concerned about the well being of our children as we parents are is truly a great feeling for the parents of Northville. Thank You!

Let's change state hospital name

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter is a copy of one sent to Northville Township with copies also to the City of Northville and the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

Having been a Northville and Northville Township resident for the past 17 years, I would like to urge a movement to remove the word "Northville" from the Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Unfortunately, any public or press mention of the facility usually is negative and reflects adversely on a beautiful and gentle community. In my view there is no need for Northville's name to be attached to this facility.

I have the utmost compassion for the patients and sympathy for the employees of the hospital, but their connection with Northville is almost nonexistent. Most are not Northville residents and contribute nothing to the community. However, whenever a scandal or unfortunate incident happens at the hospital, the headlines scream "Northville" this or that. Why not simply call the hospital the Regional Psychiatric Facility?

Over the years Northville and Plymouth have become a dumping ground for criminals (DeHoCo, etc.) and other unfortunates. I realize facilities for these people are needed, but why go out of our way to attach a specific community name to these places? Community identification is not necessary or desirable. Your help in changing this situation is appreciated.

Northville was proud of Dr. Mary Lapham

To the Editor: This is a very late reply to the last question (regarding the New School Church, the former Northville Public Library) asked in The Northville Record (Olde Northville quiz) of March 27, but I have been busy with other matters.

I do not know whether Dr. Mary Elizabeth Lapham was related to the owners of the handsome Lapham's Men's Store on the south side of Main Street — perhaps all people with the same name are related — but I am concerned only with question 50 because this has to do with my family, and I am the only person who could answer it.

Mary Elizabeth Lapham, who was involved in many projects here before she went to Germany to study their methods for treating tuberculosis, first maintained the handsome private bank on the north side of Main Street. It was a beautiful little building with Oriental rugs on all the floors. And after banking hours, she and Dr. Burgess did dissecting to study anatomy!

She went on to Germany to learn more — six or seven trips — and while there decided she ought to bring back to Northville someone who could teach German here. It was a fortunate step. Most of the young people living here joined the classes and learned to speak German after a fashion.

For some reason there was a great German migration to Northville at that time, and these people were delighted to have my father, head of the bank on the corner of Main and Center streets, able to speak to them in their own language. They would kiss his hand, and appreciated his help in finding homes here.

After Dr. Mary returned to Northville, she established the Mary E. Lapham Library, donating the first collection of books, serving as first president of the organization, and encouraging citizens with money to spare to make very generous gifts.

Mrs. W.G. Lapham persuaded her friends to add to the collection of especially fine books on the balcony. Everyone in Northville helped in some way.

As result of her research in Germany,

Dr. Mary E. Lapham established a sanatorium at Highlands, North Carolina, the highest elevation in the East. I have only one picture of her at that time. She brought the bookkeeper from the Northville bank and had an official hostess, Mrs. Dougal. But Dr. Mary was absolutely without fear, and would go to any place in the surrounding valleys at night if called.

My husband and I, going through that area on one of our trips east, went to Dr. Mary's former home and found it as I remembered it. It now belonged to Mrs. Dougal's niece, Valerie, who came every summer to spend some time where the weather was cool.

Not long after those days the sanatorium burned — a total loss because it was insured in German companies. Dr. Mary moved to Florida and was there until the time of her death. She was buried on Mrs. Dougal's private lot in a cemetery north of Detroit.

Dr. Mary, a very great lady who did much for many people!

DeHoCo action nears

Governor James Blanchard will likely sign legislation completing the state purchase of the Detroit House of Correction late this week or early next week, local legislators reported.

Blanchard already has on his desk 18 of the 19 bills required to complete the deal — the only one missing is the moratorium bill written by state representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township) that caps the number of prisoners allowed at the three state correctional facilities on Five Mile Road and prohibits additional prisons here.

Law's bill requires house concurrence with a senate amendment made by state senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville Township). But the senate recalled the bill after approving it to deal with technicalities. It is expected to clear the senate for the final time this week.

As soon as that happens, Law said he expects house concurrence will be easily attained, speculating that a few representatives from the City of Detroit may vote against the bill but that it will pass easily.

Blanchard is expected to sign the entire package into law as soon as the moratorium bill lands on his desk. The state department of corrections is anxious to convert DeHoCo (which is being renamed the Western Wayne County Correctional Facility) to address the problem of crowding in the state prison system.

The legislature has already appropriated more than $22 million for the purchase and conversion of DeHoCo, including $2 million for a new perimeter fence similar to the one at the Phoenix Correctional Facility on the north side of Five Mile and $6.7 million to purchase 123 acres of the 1,100-acre Detroit-owned facility.

The state will buy the portion that contains most of the DeHoCo buildings. Prisoners were housed at DeHoCo in open wards — most of the money designated for renovation will be used to convert the wards into single cells.

No prisoners may be housed at DeHoCo until the fence is completed. Until the conversion to single cells is completed, the department of corrections will not be able to utilize the full 650-inmate capacity allowed under Law's bill.

Lamps, ships at museum

Fairy lamps, sailing ships, perfume bottles and still banks are on exhibit at the Plymouth Historical Museum through September 8.

Candle burning fairy lamps were made from the 1840s to the 1860s and used as night lights, the museum explains, noting that they were made of many kinds of glass and came in many colors.

Some of the many on display are pink mother of pearl, blue coralline, Burmese, pink and blue ribbon glass, puffy pairpoint, naisea and butterscotch. An unusual three-sided lamp with figures of a cat, dog and owl is included in the rare collection.

The sailing ship collection includes such models as the Robert E. Lee, the Mayflower and the Titanic.

The Plymouth Historical Museum at 155 South Main in Plymouth is open to the public Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for youth (11-17) and 25 cents for children (5-10).

Salem sewer plan done, public hearing set for July

An updated sewer facility plan is now available for Salem Township residents to review at the township offices, according to a report by Township Clerk Nancy Geiger at the June 4 regular meeting of the township board.

Geiger said the plan has been drawn up by the township's engineering firm McNamee, Porter and Seeley. The proposal will be explained to the general public at a July 23 public hearing beginning at 8 p.m. at the township hall.

Supervisor Richard Sackett said he several other township officials met recently with project engineer Raymond Smit to gain a "better understanding" of what is involved in the new proposal.

The township hall for a museum and meeting place.

The question had been tabled at the May meeting for further study, but the board refused to remove it from the table at the June meeting.

Sackett said township resident Henry Dolan had brought the board extensive information on how the historical commission in South Lyon is set up and that is under study. He said the board would also review a solution to the issue that has been suggested by Witthoff.

Dolan accused the board of using a "stalling action."

TREASURER SUZANNE WITTHOFF PRESENTED a brief update on Washtenaw County's solid waste management plan. She reported that Jack Durbin of the county's health department said a task force is studying recycling as a management tool and that four proposals are being reviewed. One of the proposals would allocate money for a "Clean Michigan Fund." She added that Michigan is "leading the way" in recycling studies.

TESTING AT ONE MONITORING WELL near the Holloway Landfill at Napier and Six Mile has continued to determine why contamination readings in that area have risen, Sackett reported.

MEMBERS OF THE SALEM HISTORICAL SOCIETY and a senior citizens group unsuccessfully requested further township board discussion on their request to use the house next to

A LICENSE APPLICATION for the "Salem Point Adult Care Home" has been submitted to the Michigan Department of Social Services by North-Con Corporation, according to Geiger. A ranch-style home at 7545 Tower Road between Five and Six Mile is the proposed location.

State law permits an adult foster care facility for up to six persons in agricultural/residential zoning where the house is located.

THE BOARD FOLLOWED RECOMMENDATIONS from the township and county planning commissions to unanimously reject a zoning change for Farmer Brothers on a 48-acre parcel on Salem Road from recreation/conservation to general industrial.

THE SHAPE OF A SKI SLOPE being constructed at the Holloway Landfill is under study and experts will be brought in to assure that it will be correctly sloped for ski use when the landfill is completed, Sackett reported.

public hearing at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, June 19, to unveil the district's new transportation routes. The hearing will be held in the board conference room at Old Village School.

RECREATION commissioners will begin discussing a replacement for departing Northville Community Recreation Director Jef Farland at their meeting at 8 p.m. tonight at Northville City Hall. The public is, as always, invited to attend.

Manager hiring Thursday

Hiring of a township manager is among the top items on a crowded agenda for Thursday's regular monthly meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees.

The top-ranked candidate among three finalists has been invited to attend to meet the trustees, who will subsequently vote on the recommendation of the manager search committee.

The preliminary agenda (still subject to revision) also includes discussion of planning for a second fire station to serve the western portion of the township, a presentation by county sewer planner Richard Hinshon regarding the latest "super sewer" proposal, an update regarding the Cavanagh Elderly Village plan, and preliminary determination of how the Headlee Amendment will apply to 1985 property taxes.

Also on the agenda are a proposed ordinance to regulate large parties in residential areas (particularly if admission fees are charged), an appeal of the supervisor's denial of a lot split request, discussion of problems in the Park Gardens subdivision, and summer tax collections.

The board meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at Northville Township hall, 41600 Six Mile Road.

A subsequent special meeting will likely be required later in the month to meet requirements that a new budget be adopted reflecting the switch to a charter township form of government. The township's fiscal year changed from April 1-March 31 to a calendar year basis when it incorporated as a charter township in late April. It is required to adopt a revised budget to reflect the change within 60 days of incorporation.

Business is up for Ron Colasanti since adding five new greenhouses to his Highland operation

Business is growing as Colasanti adds 5 new greenhouses

By MATT SEIDL

On the side of a hill directly in front of the Colasanti's Produce and Plants operation in Milford, there is a message written in flowers. On top it says "HIGHLAND," while underneath it reads "1835-1985."

To the right of the Sesquicentennial message is an American flag, also done in flowers.

"It's my way of showing some community spirit," said store owner Ron Colasanti, while sitting on a picnic table behind his building. "I've only lived here five of the 150 years, but the people here have been very supportive. It's my way of giving something back."

Colasanti's five years in Highland Township have been sort of a struggle, especially when it comes to his business. After moving to Michigan in 1979 from Ruthven, Ontario, the 50-year-old Detroit native discovered some difficulties with the transition.

"Business was very bad our first few years," he said. "We were very close to closing down in March of 1984. It was kind of a day-by-day thing. We kept telling ourselves one more week, though, just hoping that things would get better."

Things eventually improved, however, during the middle of last summer. Slowly but surely, the good word began to spread throughout the Milford area.

"All of sudden things just got better," said Colasanti, a well-built man who stands approximately 5'9" in height. "People began to come out. It was what we had hoped for, and finally it happened."

The big turnaround occurred just recently when Colasanti added five new greenhouses to his establishment, which previously dealt only in produce.

Since that time, business has doubled, and the response of community has been extremely positive.

"The people we thank the most are the foundation people," he said. "They're the ones who kept coming and coming no matter how slow things got. They stuck with us all the way."

"The plants have helped us a lot, but that's not the only reason they're coming here. Plants helped the most by attracting people to our place, and once the people get here, they go for a little of everything."

The new greenhouses are good sized, 18 feet wide and 60 feet long, and currently they are nearing capacity in stock. The most obvious feature, however, is the overall enthusiasm of the entire organization, which has 29 employees.

"I've noticed a change in everyone's attitude," Colasanti said. "My workers come before everything, so it's important to me that they're okay."

Of the 29 workers, 23 are high school students from both Highland Township and the downtown Milford area.

"All my life I've been training kids," Colasanti said. "We do everything so they have a chance to learn some skills. It feels good when they come back and thank me for teaching them."

Business Briefs

JUDY K. BROWN

CAROLYNN BEYER

JUDY K. BROWN of Novi has been promoted to the position of vice president of Great Lakes Pension Administrators, Inc.

A 1977 graduate of Novi High School, she graduated from Eastern Michigan University and joined Great Lakes Pension Administrators as a benefits administrator in October of 1983.

A 15-year Novi resident, she continues to reside in Novi with her husband, Edward.

CAROLYNN BEYER, assistant manager of the Northville/Novi office of Real Estate One Inc., has exceeded $1 million in sales volume for 1985. Sharon Serra, office manager, said that Beyer is well on her way toward setting a new high volume record in 1985. In 1984 she exceeded $2 million in sales and achieved "The President's Council of Excellence." She and her husband Kenneth enjoyed an all-expense paid trip to Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, in March as a result of this achievement.

Real Estate One Inc. is Michigan's largest real estate company with 30 corporate-owned offices in the Detroit area. The Northville/Novi office is located at 1045 Novi Road. Real Estate One set a new all time high sales record in April with volume in excess of $53 million.

THOMAS COLIP of Northville has been honored by Lightolier Inc. for achieving Bronze Medalist status in a nationwide competition of sales professionals.

The annual contest cites outstanding performers in sales and customer service from nearly 160 Lightolier representatives throughout the country. Lightolier designs and manufactures quality illumination systems and stylish lighting fixtures for both commercial and residential markets.

DR. ALLEN TUCHKLAPER of the Novi Family Dental Center has introduced a unique new method of applying a micro-dot identification disc to the inside of a child's tooth. The device enables authorities to identify a missing child.

"We are able to install this tiny dot painlessly in about five minutes at a cost of $25," said Tuchklaper. "The dot is bonded to the back of the tooth and is not visible to the average person."

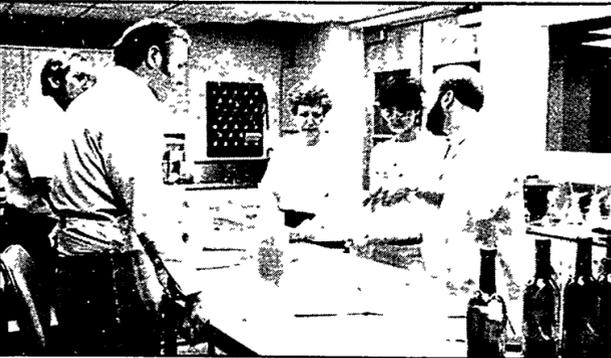

Tuchklaper noted that children seldom carry identification. Insertion of the micro-dot, he said, will enable authorities to identify someone quickly in case of an emergency or if a child is unable to identify him or herself during a medical crisis.

Information contained on the disc includes name, address, telephone number, date of birth, medical alert, allergies and "in case of emergency please notify..." More information about the product is available by calling Dr. Tuchklaper at the Novi Family Dental Center, 348-3100.

MICHAEL HUSAK of Northville, new vehicle salesperson for Crestwood Dodge Inc. in Garden City, received an award for individual performance in selling Dodge vehicles.

Husak has reached the Silver level of recognition in Dodge's unique Sales Professionals Club. Specially-designed incentives and awards are provided for outstanding product knowledge and sales achievement at three performance levels — Bronze, Silver and Gold.

Membership in each level is determined by points earned for sales of new cars and trucks in the program which continues throughout the 1985 model sales year. The top 50 Dodge retail sales personnel will win a trip to a three-day national sales conference.

VERN BODKER of Northville Winery (above, left) was among participants in a two-day Ohio Analysis Wine Workshop recently at the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

The workshop attracted winemakers from five states to learn and practice basic chemical tests, used to determine or enhance wine quality. Here Karl Wilker (right), graduate research associate in horticulture, briefs some of the participants for later hands-on practice with wine evaluation techniques and equipment.

ALBERT O. HORNER of Northville, president of Credit Counseling Centers Inc., has been elected to the Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan (BCBSM) corporate membership where he will represent consumers at large.

Colasanti exploring new ventures in Highland

Colasanti puts in long days as he rises at 7 a.m. and doesn't leave the store until 10:30 p.m. They used to be longer, though, when he went to the market at 3 a.m. and still didn't quit until after 10 p.m.

"I let my son Jay do the early stuff now," Colasanti laughed. "It's hard for us old folks to put in those 20-hour days."

Jay Colasanti, 25, is just one of Ron's four children. Others include Richard, 28, who runs the farm back in Ruthven; Tracie, 27; and Kelly, the baby of the family at 23.

Ron's father, Alex, was born in Italy in 1903 and came to the United States in 1924. The family moved to Ruthven in 1941. "I didn't like farming when I was young," Colasanti said. "Chasing girls was more my thing then. But I learned a lot from my father."

That knowledge has been passed down to Colasanti's three sons, who all are part-owners of the business.

So why did the Colasanti's move to Highland Township?

"We had done a lot of business in Michigan even when we were in Canada, and Jay was convinced that a fruit market would be good," Colasanti said. "We tried down river, up river, east Detroit, west Detroit, everywhere. We just couldn't find a good spot. It's kind of an unwritten law that you don't start up a market right next to another market."

"A friend told us one day, though, that he knew of some property out here, so we bought it," he continued. "Basically, Michigan is home for us anyway."

The Colasanti's still make the 75-mile trip back to Ruthven once or twice a week to see Richard, who lives alone in the 18-room farm house.

Colasanti seems to be a well-liked person, evident by the number of people who stop and talk to him at the store. One older lady briefly commented, "Hi there, it's good to see you. I'm going up to Canada to see your farm in a few weeks. Yeah, we're all real excited about it."

The lady was referring to a chartered bus trip to Ruthven that Colasanti has put together for over 40 senior citizens in the Duck Lake area. Colasanti is providing nearly all the funds for the one-day venture.

"It's just a day for them to travel a little bit and see the solid background of the farm," Colasanti said. "Nobody takes care of the seniors, and if anyone deserves it, they do. It's just my way of saying thanks."

As for future plans, Colasanti has just purchased a huge bakery oven. There are a few electrical adjustments to make, but it won't be long before baked goods start appearing at Colasanti's.

"I'm really not sure what our next steps are going to be," he said. "But as we always say, whatever stands still is dead."

Look for a lot of motion from Colasanti's in the near future.

The corporate membership is the pool from which BSBSM board members are elected. American Heart Association of Michigan

Mall Manager William Clogg, Assistant Security Director Tom Meyers and Novi Chief Lee BeGole check security

Twelve Oaks working to strengthen security

"Shopping centers today are one of America's safest places to be."

That's the assertion of Commander James Humphrey of the Detroit Police Department, one of the nation's most recognized authorities on community and business security programs.

And Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi has taken innovative action to make it even safer.

Tom Myers, assistant director of security at Twelve Oaks, was one of a select group of 14 from across the country to attend an extensive national training program for shopping center security professionals.

The training program, the first in the nation for shopping center security practitioners, was a modified version of the comprehensive training regularly given to police officers. Upon completion of the rigorous 45-hour training course, Myers received certification as an accredited Security Awareness Officer.

Myers now begins his new full-time assignment at Twelve Oaks. As a Security Awareness Officer, he will be responsible for the following items:

- Training mall personnel in the concept of security awareness, primarily the members of the Twelve Oaks security staff.

- Establishing a Business Watch program to train Twelve Oaks merchants in maintaining a Security Awareness system.

- Creating an Executive Security Council comprised of store managers appointed by William Clogg, manager of Twelve Oaks Mall.

- Establishing a professional security group consisting of the Twelve Oaks security director, major department store security directors and the Novi Police Department.

- Disseminating Security Awareness programs throughout the community with special focus on senior citizen groups, schools and business and professional groups.

- Establishing and maintaining a close liaison with Novi Police Department's crime prevention unit to work in tandem to insure that Twelve Oaks remains a safe and clean environment for the community.

The Security Awareness Program was developed by Commander Humphrey and tailored to meet the needs of shopping centers. The training course was held at the Detroit Police Academy. Humphrey is the originator of the Neighborhood Watch programs used by many communities across the nation.

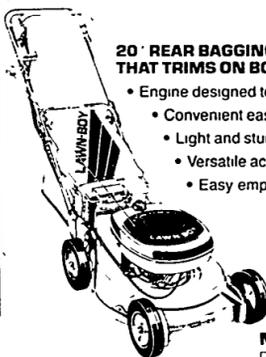

Myers, a 25-year veteran of the Detroit Police Department, has a BA in Criminal Justice from the University of Detroit. He has worked for Twelve Oaks Mall since 1978 and currently is assistant director of security.

014 In Memoriam
MARIE BURGETT GOODALL I AM NOT THERE

Do not stand at my grave and weep; I am a thousand winds that blow, I am the diamond glints on snow, I am the sunlight on ripened grain, I am the gentle autumn rain.

When you awakened in the mornings hush, I am the swift uplifting rush, O quiet birds in circled flight, I am the soft stars that shine at night. Do not stand at my grave and cry, I am not there. I did not die.

The Golfer

Because of its prestige, this royal sport originated in Scotland long ago, First played illegally for high stakes Its challenge spread down to ranks below.

Forbidden because it interfered with archery, An important method of self defense, The enjoyment was so overwhelming That it became legal through circumstance.

Now passed down to present day, Come along with me and share The lusty meadows rolling, Breathe in the clean fresh air.

We planned this day a week ago Do you remember what we said? We'd golf and laugh and talk Across the green, we would be led.

I'll tee off, follow me, Let me show you how it's done. Chin to shoulder, eye on ball And swing up, back to the sun.

Don't tell me that you're tired, We're only halfway there Take a breath, enjoy yourself, There's nothing to compare.

No other sport is quite the same, Step up to the par and see Don't take it serious, it's fun! but it still perplexes me.

Here we are at the eighteenth hole I've been beat again by skill and wit. You think you'll always be much better, But you really shouldn't count on it!

I'll practice when you're not aware And I'll visualize my winning score. My putt will drop in every hole And you'll be the winner no more!

Joanna Dorf

Back to NATURE but Close to Home

Throughout the summer, the majority of residents visiting area parks will spend their time picnicking under shade trees and frolicking on the carefully-groomed lawns.

Unwittingly they will miss the opportunity to explore the natural fields and forests that also are part of several public parks in the Northville- Novi area.

Talking a companion, your children or yourself into participating in a nature walk through the less-disturbed acres of area parks may take some effort. The venture requires a slight departure from the activities typical of these first weeks of summer.

The bathing suit or tennis shorts must be exchanged for long pants and sleeves. Suntan oil should be left at home in favor of bug spray, and walking shoes are preferable to sandals.

With promise of viewing some of the first summer wildflowers, Susan Nayh led a handful of Novi residents on such a venture recently. Nayh, also a Novi resident, guided the group through field and forest "communities" within the 600 acres of wooded land behind Novi's Lakeshore Park.

Gathering an armful of field guides for wildflowers, trees and birds into a backpack, Nayh explained why she is familiar with the fields and woods behind the park: in 1982 she completed an inventory of plants and birds on the property as part of a senior internship project.

"I walked the property 2-3 times a week, carrying a field notebook. I wrote down everything I saw," she recalled. Altogether she found 255 plant species and 82 bird species living in and around the property, which includes an 181-acre tree farm located at 12 1/2 Mile and Dixon Road.

The tree farm, owned by Paul Thompson, is a natural habitat for many species of flora and fauna indigenous to Michigan. The land is the home of the red-tailed hawk, great horned owl and pheasant. While none of these were seen on Nayh's nature walk this month, the group did have the good fortune to witness a visit from a blue heron.

Beech and sugar maple trees form the canopy of the forest surrounding the tree farm. Basswood, butternuts and poplars also grow naturally in the area. Tulip poplars, trees which were all but eliminated when settlers used them for window frames and doors in their homes, still can be found on the farm.

But attracting the most attention on Nayh's nature walk were the early summer wildflowers.

"This looks like something from my front yard," said one walker upon observing a pale yellow flower in the grass. "Weeds' are just wildflowers that show up where man doesn't want them... in the lawn," Nayh noted.

For conveniently identifying wildflowers along the way, Nayh toted a Field Guide to Wildflowers. The guide is arranged by color and form for easy use by laymen. It helped the group identify a dainty patch of Nightshade growing along one field pathway. After first turning to the section of blue to violet wildflowers, they looked for other vine-like forms. Soon they matched the pictured Nightshade with the flowers along the pathway.

In the woods, Nayh pointed out some Herb-Robert, a delicate pink wildflower in the Geranium family. Dame's Rocket, a garden escape which resembles phlox, and Devil's Paint-NIGHTSHADE: (Right) Tomato family. Weak, vine-like. Five swept-back violet (sometimes white) petals with protruding yellow beak formed by the anthers. Leaves have two small lobes at the base. Fruit droops in clusters of egg-shaped berries; green turning to ruby-red. Found in moist thickets. Blooms from May-September.

HERB-ROBERT: (Below) Geranium family. Hairy, strong-scented; stems often reddish. Leaves fernlike. Flowers 1/2-inch, pink, usually paired. Found in rocky woods and along shores. Blooms from May-October.

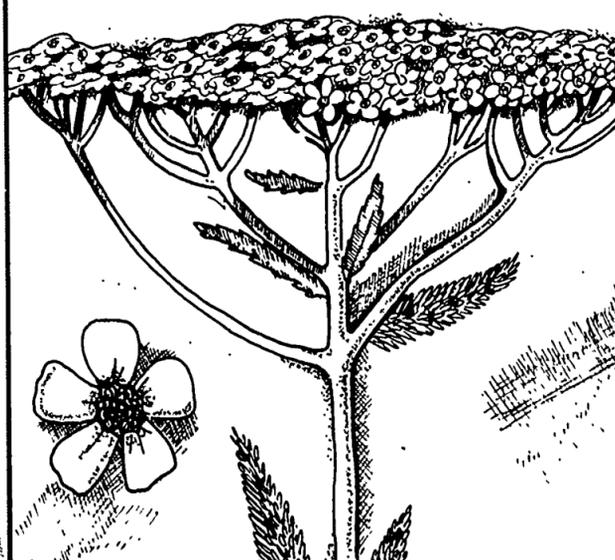

DAME'S ROCKET: (Above) Mustard family. Pink, purple or white. Resembles phlox, but with four petals (not five) and long seedpods of a mustard. Leaves are large, toothed, and alternate along the stem (rather than growing directly opposite on the stem). Grows along roadsides and wood edges. Blooms from May-July.

YARROW: (Below) Daisy family. Soft, aromatic, fernlike leaves and flat, tight, flower clusters. White, or sometimes pink. Found along roadsides and in fields. Blooms June-August.

ORANGE HAWKWEED: (Left) Daisy family. Also called "Devil's Paintbrush." Deep orange. Plant is very hairy; leaves form a basal rosette. Found along roadsides and in fields. Blooms from June-September.

YELLOW GOAT'S-BEARD: (Below) Daisy family. Grasslike leaves embrace a smooth stem. Juice of the stem is milky. The pale yellow flowers close at midday. Grows in waste places and along roadsides. Blooms from June-October.

Civilians plan salute for Louis Hopping

By JEAN DAY

When King's Mill resident Louis Hopping became 85 years old on May 31, it didn't slow him down a bit. He still fills in as a magistrate in 35th District Court in Plymouth when needed, and his wife Helen reports that he has four June weddings upcoming. She adds that he enjoys officiating at weddings, some at their home and many in the Mill Race Historical Village. "He does it nicely — it's meaningful," she adds.

On June 2 the Hopping family held a gathering in the Irish Hills to mark the birthday.

On June 20 the Plymouth Civilians are holding a "Salute to Louie" at the Elks Club to mark the milestone with friends and family invited. He is a past international president of Civilians.

The Hoppings moved to Northville almost 19 years ago from Detroit, where, Mrs. Hopping remembers, they "lived on one street for 40 years." Both have become active Northville residents. He currently is serving on the library board. She is a member of Northville Woman's Club and has written a cookbook since retiring to the community. She also does catering "to keep busy."

Carla Schwarze receives divinity doctorate

Last Saturday former Northville resident Carla Schwarze received her doctorate degree in divinity from the University of Chicago Theological Seminary. It marked the end of many years of study with special effort for the former Carla Johnson who attended the University of Michigan and received her bachelor's degree from Spring Arbor College before going on to the University of Chicago.

After graduating from Northville High School and marrying Fred Schwarze, also of Northville, she first became the mother of four — Elizabeth (now teaching in Arizona), Sara, Amanda and Carl. They all have their degrees now, too.

One of her first acts as a minister will be to marry her son Carl and Priscilla Drew of Chelsea on July 14. Both are graduating from the University of Michigan and going on to University of Detroit Law School. Carl will be following in the footsteps of his father, who heads his Detroit law firm.

Carl is named for his maternal grandfather, realtor Carl Johnson of Northville. He attended his daughter's ordination in Chicago last weekend. She and her husband now live in Ann Arbor; she will be affiliating with the United Church of Christ, probably in Chelsea where the family lived after moving from Northville Estates and where she did her student preaching. Her son and his fiance will be married there.

Gloria Foust given singing doll

Fellow teachers and friends of Gloria Foust found the perfect present for the Plymouth-Canton teacher who is retiring at the end of the term: a doll dressed as an old fashioned school girl that sings "School Days."

Mrs. Foust invited about 40 fellow workers and friends to her home on Meadowbrook for a get-together the end of May — only to find that, like so many Northville residents, she was without electrical power until shortly before the guests were due to arrive. Among the guests was daughter Cathy who flew in from Washington, D.C., where she has taken a new job with Pace, a design firm. By a quirk of fate, the daughter of Gloria Foust's boss, Plymouth Schools' superintendent Michael Hoben, who is with Pace, hired Cathy.

Devastating dieting

The Center for Eating Disorders (CED), a non-profit counseling and referral organization, was founded in the fall of 1983 to meet the needs of the growing number of individuals suffering from eating disorders such as anorexia nervosa (self-starvation), bulimia (binge-purge syndrome) and compulsive overeating. CED is located in Suite 13 at 2002 Hogback Road, Ann Arbor.

According to Judith Banker, director of CED, the center is experiencing success in treating many of its clients. Banker said bulimia, in which the person eats large amounts of food and then throws up, uses laxatives or other means to get rid of it, is far more common than anorexia.

"Studies show that 15-30 percent of women ages 18-21 are bulimiac," Banker explained, adding that usually this is easier to treat than anorexia.

CED has a hotline operated seven days a week from 6-11 p.m., a support group, and peer counseling services to endeavor to aid anyone with eating disorders. The hotline, 971-0606, is staffed by trained volunteers who offer supportive and crisis counseling and referral and educational information, compulsive overeaters meets from 7:30-9 p.m. every Tuesday at the CED address. Individual peer counseling is also provided at the Center by appointment only. More information can be obtained by calling the hotline evenings.

Banker, who has worked with eating-disorder clients for eight years, said there is a multi-level treatment for anorexia patients. "Starvation effects the functioning of the brain and we need first to help the clients refeed themselves. We have to help them improve their physical well-being first and then work on the psychological aspect.

Banker said she attempts to work a lot on what led into the anorexia behavior in the first place. "Most clients are very withdrawn, they have quit their job, dropped out of school or withdrawn completely from relationships. We try to help rebuild those relationships. Full recovery is possible but it takes time."

Scientists list spiritual aims

Michigan residents were among the several thousand Christian Scientists gathering June 3 in Boston for their church's annual meeting, reports Bunny Maurer of the Plymouth Christian Scientist Church.

The meeting of the denomination founded 106 years ago had an international tone. The new president of the church is Robert Mitchell of Edinburgh, Scotland. New church activities were announced in Washington and in Kinshasa, Zaire.

Announcement was made that the Christian Science Monitor has broadcasting activities in New England and Europe — along with plans for Africa, Latin America and Asia.

Circulation and advertising for the publication, it was reported, have risen over the past year. Monitoradio, a one-hour weekend program broadcast in cooperation with American Public Radio, now airs on 160 stations including WDET-FM in Detroit on Saturday mornings at 8 a.m.

The focus was essentially on the "global mission" of the church with individual spiritual growth stressed.

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before. "Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe, it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

Canadian trip follows Vargo-Buttery wedding

A romance that began when both were in the Northville High School production of "Dracula" in 1975 culminated in the marriage of Amy Lois Vargo and Robert Eugene Buttery May 24.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. William J. Vargo of 118 Linden. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buttery of 43573 Galway.

They exchanged vows and rings in an ecumenical service at 6:30 p.m. at Church of the Holy Family in Novi. Father Kevin O'Brien of Holy Family and Dr. William Ritter of Nardin Park United Methodist Church officiated.

The bride's gown of ivory satin was made by her friend Phyllis Thomas Spangle. It was fashioned with lace bodice and sleeves and was styled with a sweetheart neckline and basque waist. The skirt extended into a chapel train.

She carried an arrangement of blue irises, white sweetheart roses, white and yellow freesia.

Elaine Vargo was honor maid for her sister. Bridesmaids were Barbara Buttery, the bridegroom's sister, Rosalyn Carson-DeWitt of Detroit and Janet Withers of Atlanta, Georgia. They wore tea-length, periwinkle moire taffeta gowns in off-shoulder design. The honor maid carried blue irises, purple and yellow freesia while the bridesmaids' bouquets were of purple and yellow freesia and white and yellow daisies.

Thomas Smith of Southfield was best man. Ushers were A. Kenneth Buttery, Richard Buttery, brothers of the bridegroom, and James Schroeder of Kalamazoo.

A reception followed at the church for 100 guests. Special guests included the bride's grandmother, Jessie R. Richter from Pennsylvania.

The couple's wedding trip to Canada included stops at Niagara Falls and Toronto.

The bride is a 1978 graduate of Northville High School and a 1982 graduate of Kalamazoo College. She presently is working on her Ph.D. in English at Emory University in Atlanta.

The bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Northville High School, a 1982 graduate of Western Michigan University and a 1983 graduate of Specs Hward School of Broadcast Arts. He presently is employed at WJYA-AM/FM in Atlanta.

Girls State preview

Peggy Sitarski Barlow, second from right, a Northville High Girls State delegate in 1976, not only assisted this year's delegates at the punch bowl at a get-together before they leave but briefed them on what to expect when they attend the program June 8-16 at Central Michigan University. Delegates from left are Stacey Fogle, Mellanee Urbahns, Karen Legner and Diane Dragon. Others, not pictured, are Mary McDonald, Jill Kilner, Leigh Method and Kim Valade. The girls, all juniors chosen by high school counselors and staff members, will participate in the mock government program administered by the American Legion Auxiliary and sponsored by local businesses and organizations. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

brush, a common bright orange field flower, were among the other wildflowers enjoyed on the early June walk.

While the tree farm property behind Lakeshore Park is not open to the public, other nearby parks, including Maybury State Park and Kensington Metropark have regularly scheduled nature tours.

Pat Carlson, a Kensington naturalist, noted that Hawkweeds, Goat's Beard and Sow Thistles are among the early summer wildflowers visible at Kensington this month. Pink Lady's-Slipper, one of the more rare wildflowers existing at Kensington, already has bloomed and gone, she noted.

A full schedule of nature walks is available by calling area parks. Interested residents also can get on the mailing list for a Metroparks newsletter, which lists nature walk dates and times, by writing 3050 Penobscot Boulevard, Detroit, 48226.

The votes are in for our 1985 All-Area baseball team

The votes are in, and even though it was sometimes difficult to detect those infamous ballot-box stuffers, the sports staffs at The Milford Times, The South Lyon Herald, The Northville Record and The Novi News have come up with yet another All-Sliger/Livingston East baseball squad.

The 1985 version features a little of everything. It has experience and youth, long-ball hitters and contact hitters, speedy runners, defensive aces, clever pitchers, lefties, righties, and most of all, winners.

So, without further adieu, here they are:

FIRST TEAM

BILL COTTONGIM, South Lyon, P: Cottongim continued the strong pitching tradition at South Lyon, following in the footsteps of Jim Hines, Rob Bennett and Dave Ford. The senior southpaw was 7-2 with a 1.55 ERA. He also had 86 strikeouts and gave up 51 hits in 63 innings, while recording seven complete games and two shutouts. Offensively, Cottongim hit .278 with a team-high 32 walks. "His stats are better than any pitcher I've had in my six years," Coach Ron Shanks said. "He was very instrumental in our league championship."

MARK CHAMBERS, Lakeland, C: "He ranks right up there with the best catchers we've had here at Lakeland," Eagle coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He's has the potential to go a long ways in baseball." Chambers, a senior, had 47 hits in 92 at-bats for a blistering .511 average. He also recorded eight home runs, nine doubles, one triple, 34 RBIs and 31 runs while fielding at a .963 percentage.

BILL RITCHIE, Novi, 1B: This senior co-captain went out in style with a .383 batting average and an eye-opening .565 on-base percentage, both Wildcat team-highs. Ritchie also had 13 RBIs and 25 walks, while striking out just six times in 27 games.

DARRYL NOREN, Lakeland, 2B: This junior had eight homers, nine doubles, four triples and 27 singles in 100 at-bats for a .480 average. "He was great," Coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He's an exceptional athlete that performs every phase of the game very well." Noren, a standout hockey player as well, scored 39 runs and had a team-high 39 RBIs while fielding at .964. His pitching record was 3-1.

KURT HERBSTREIT, South Lyon, 3B: "He played outfield the last two years, but it really strengthened our infield when he moved to third," Coach Ron Shanks said of his senior co-captain. Herbstreit hit .325 with 24 RBIs, 18 runs, six doubles, two triples and one home run. "He showed a lot of leadership during the season and that's something we needed with all of our young players."

KEVIN ALEXANDER, Lakeland, SS: "Kevin's the type of kid who makes coaching an easy job," Coach Jerry Ganzel said. "He's a good leader and simply can do it all." Alexander, only a junior, hit .456 with eight homers, nine doubles, five triples, 29 RBIs and 48 runs. His fielding percentage was .870.

DOUG HARTMAN, Northville, OF: After a successful football campaign last fall which resulted in a scholarship to Hillsdale College, Hartman showed his versatility by hitting .370 with an on-base percentage of .594. An WLAA all-division second-teamer, Hartman also had two home runs, eight doubles and 20 RBIs while not committing an error on defense.

MARK ELIE, South Lyon, OF: Elie, a senior, led the Lions in hitting with a .390 mark, while compiling eight doubles, one home run and 18 runs. "He batted clean-up most of the year for us," Coach Ron Shanks said. "He's a solid player. He had a lot of big hits for us down the stretch."

BOB HUOTARI, Novi, OF: Huotari was a mixture of good offense and defense, obvious by his .380 batting average and 1.000 fielding percentage. The Wildcat senior co-captain, also had 17 RBIs, 30 runs, 12 doubles, three triples, 10 stolen bases and a .495 on-base average. Huotari played quarterback and fullback on the Wildcat football team.

SECOND TEAM

RON CHIDESTER, Lakeland, P: This senior set a school record with nine wins and solidified a very questionable aspect of Lakeland's 1985 attack. "He had a great year," Coach Jerry Ganzel said. "I really didn't expect much out of him pitching-wise this year." Chidester was 9-3 with a 2.57 ERA. He pitched 60 innings, giving up 28 walks while fanning 35. Offensively, he hit .323.

DAVE ROBINSON, Milford, C: This junior was a shining star both offensively and defensively during the Redskins' 4-14 campaign. Robinson hit .333 with two homers, three doubles and eight RBIs. He also had a .989 fielding percentage.

DARRYL BARR, Milford, 1B: This senior played in just 10 of Milford's 18 games after breaking a special knee brace, but his presence was felt after hitting .400 and posting a .997 fielding percentage.

CHRIS HAUSER, Northville, 2B:

Hauser hit .417 and had an incredible .609 on-base percentage in 19 games. The senior also recorded 15 RBIs, 12 walks, six doubles, 18 runs and a .940 fielding mark.

MARK FRANCIS, Lakeland, 3B: Only a junior, Francis had the luxury of batting behind three near-.500 sluggers. "He had a lot of pressure on him to deliver and he handled it very well," Coach Jerry Ganzel said. Francis hit .348 with two homers, eight doubles, 24 RBIs and 17 runs. He also had a 2-2 pitching record and a .912 fielding percentage.

STEVE CODY, Novi, SS: A star on the Wildcat basketball team as well, this senior batted .377 and reached base at a .505 clip. Other key stats for the all-KVC second-teamer include two home runs, two doubles, 12 RBIs and 19 runs.

MARK HODGES, South Lyon, OF: This 135-pound senior batted a crisp .360 with 20 RBIs, 10 doubles, 12 stolen bases and 22 runs. "He should be one of the premier players in the KVC next year," Coach Ron Shanks said.

KEN KEHOE, Northville, OF: This senior was a major spark in the Mustang attack this season, posting a .420 batting average and a .589 on-base mark. Kehoe also had a team-high 21 hits, five doubles, 11 RBIs and did not commit an error on defense.

KEITH MOTYKA, Novi, OF: After a slow start in his senior season, Motyka caught fire to hit .302 with four homers and 14 RBIs.

Mantle Blue team goes 3-0 in first week

Make that Brett Loooooomis. The Northville Blue pitcher had 0's to spare in Blue's 7-0 no-hitter over Bloomfield Hills Tuesday of last week, the Northville's American Baseball Federation season opener.

Loomis walked just three batters while striking out 14. He even was perfect at the plate, going 3-for-3 and driving in four runs.

Blue struck with three runs in the second inning on a one-out single by Doug Martin, Doug Ayers' RBI double, and RBI singles by Jeff Harp and Loomis.

Ken Kehoe ripped a solo homer in the third inning, and Ayers, Harp and Loomis combined for another pair of runs in the fourth on Ayers' single, Harp's base on balls, Mike Tabaczynski's sacrifice fly and Loomis' RBI single. Loomis drove in the game's final run in the sixth with his third single.

Friday, Northville Blue blasted South Farmington 12-1, and once again the pitching staff was as productive at the plate as it was on the mound. Starter Eric Gala and reliever Jeff Tanderys' together allowed just one hit (on the first pitch of the game) and combined for six hits and five RBI on offense.

Jeff Harp was 3-for-3 for the winners, Brett Belliston doubled, singled and drove in four runs, Ayers contributed two singles and two runs, and Tabaczynski scored three times on a single and three walks.

Saturday, Blue pummeled Taylor 11-2, with Martin picking up a complete-game victory, striking out nine, walking four and allowing five hits.

Northville collected only eight hits in the game, but made the most out of each — along with the seven bases on balls and two hit batsmen.

Catcher Kevin Crampton finished the day with three RBI on a bases-loaded walk and a two-run single. Ayers' singled and drove in two runs while Eric Kapelanski and John Lobbia each had two hits and one RBI.

Now 3-0, Northville Blue will host Plymouth-Canton at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow.

'85 Athletes

Northville High School seniors Cindy Panowicz and Greg Wendel were honored last week as Northville High School's Athletes of the Year for 1984-85. Panowicz, a track and cross-country team captain and standout, established school records in every event she has competed in for Northville. Wendel, All-Area center for Northville's varsity football team and the leading rebounder for the Mustang varsity basketball team, co-captained both those squads.

Three Mustangs on All-Division softball squad

Northville varsity softball players Chris McGowan, Jackie Matteucci and Lori Housman all landed spots on the 1985 All-Western Division WAAA team by a vote of conference coaches.

McGowan, a sophomore, was selected All-Division catcher, while seniors Matteucci and Housman were picked at infield and outfield, respectively. Julie Kaestner, Kim Richcreek and Michele Siemasz earned honorable mentions.

All-Conference selections were: Pitcher — Lisa Bokovoy, Livonia Stevenson. Catcher — Denise Tackett, Plymouth Salem. First Base — Val Hall, Walled Lake Western. Infield — Laura Darby, Plymouth Canton; Alison Lundquist, Walled Lake Central; Connie Allen, Livonia Bentley. Outfield — Lonnie Payne, Bentley; Leslie Plichta, Salem; Nancy Bell, Stevenson. New Northville Collegiate wins home debut 9-2

Northville Collegiate, the community's first-ever Adray League baseball team, went 3-3 in its first two weeks of play. The team boasts eight players from Northville, with the rest coming from as far away as Troy and Milford.

Northville High School infielders Chris Hauser and Scott Peterson, outfielder Jeff Bainbridge, pitcher Chris Willerer and DH Craig Kozler, plus Greg Ryba of Redford Catholic Central, Detroit Country Day's Scott Swienckowski and Plymouth Christian's Rob Cannon round out the hometown contingent.

Northville beat the Livonia Angels 9-2 last Friday in Northville's first home game. Dave Kimball struck out nine and walked five to pick up an impressive complete-game win. Eric Engel led the offensive charge with a homer and two RBI.

A week before, Northville K.O.'d Westland Federation 12-5. Mark Pearsall struck out 12 in seven innings while Ryba clouted a pair of home runs in the runaway victory.

After losing the May 29 season opener 5-3 to Livonia Adray, beating Westland, Northville split a Sunday, June 2, doubleheader with Garden City. Northville lost the opener 6-1, but won the second game 3-2 on Dan Zang's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the seventh. Northville lost to Livonia Walters Appliance 5-0 last Wednesday, with Walters' Tim Feaser scattering five Northville hits, two by catcher George Clark, for a shutout.

Sunday, Northville fell to talented Redford Little Caesar's 4-2. Scott Swienckowski had two doubles, scored once and drove in a run. Poor baserunning hurt — three Northville runners were picked off in the game.

Northville will host Westland Federation at 6 p.m. tonight, then will travel to Livonia's Ford Field for a game against Redford Little Caesar's.

"The Strength of a Nation Lies in the Homes of Its People."

— Abraham Lincoln

You know what an important investment home ownership can be. You know that when enough new homes are built, badly needed jobs for many of our unemployed are provided. Those are just two ways homes contribute to the strength of our nation.

Just as important, we feel, is the sense of pride and involvement that comes with owning a home. As homeowners, people establish roots. A sense of stability and a stake in the future lead to greater care for one's community. Owning a home carries with it this special sense of belonging.

A broker who is a REALTOR® is a concerned citizen of the community. This concern goes beyond knowing home values and the housing market. It includes the business of people.

Here's how REALTORS® often express their concerns:

- By welcoming a new family to town and helping them feel at home as well as find a home – or helping someone who wants to start a business find the best location in terms of purpose, place and price.
- By working with other citizens in the community to improve the quality of life—helping prevent vandallism, revitalizing a rundown neighborhood, or doing whatever must be done.
- By helping protect the rights of homeowners through involvement in the issues that affect them, and advising lawmakers of mutual concerns and opinions.

We're part of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF REALTORS® – an organization of some 600,000 members nationwide. Look for the sign of the REALTOR® "R". It's your sign of real estate professionals whose real business is people.
