Plan review for Haggerty set July 30

Proposed amendments to the township master plan and zoning ordinance will be discussed and may be voted upon by the township planning commission next week.

Revisions proposed as a result of a study of the Haggerty Road corridor and presented in a public hearing July 9 are among the agenda items for the commission's July 30 meeting.

Zoning ordinance amendments would require subsequent approval from the township board of trustees.

Also due for planning commission consideration is the township's own request for rezoning of all remaining Detroit House of Correction property in the township. This includes review of an impact assessment prepared by the planning consultant detailing potential results of rezoning the land.

Under terms of the "moratorium bill" approved in conjunction with the state acquisition of a portion of DeHoCo within Plymouth Township, the City of Detroit must adhere to local zoning restrictions in development of its remaining property in the two townships.

There are more than 700 acres of DeHoCo land in Northville Township, all of it between Beck and Napier, Five and Six Mile roads. The property adjoins county and state lands already involved in a pending zoning change to accommodate light industrial, office, commercial and multiple family housing development. The township board has established an unwritten policy of seeking to have unused publicly owned land converted to private uses.

Also on the agenda is a proposed rezoning north of Seven Mile between Scenic Harbor Drive and Marilyn from single-family to multiple-family housing to allow the extension of the Northridge Apartment complex to the north and west.

Approximately 50-60 persons attended a July 16 public hearing on the proposed rezoning requested by the Dalby Corporation, all stating opposition to the petitioner's request.

Planners rejected a nearby rezoning to multiple in May. The township board of trustees will consider the planning commission recommendation against rezoning a portion of property owned by Graham Construction Company (the Wilkiemyer property) at its August meeting.

Opposition to further multiple family zoning along Seven Mile comes primarily from owners of single family homes in the area and is based both on complaints of high traffic volumes and the homeowners' desires not to have apartment buildings immediately adjacent to their own properties.

Planning commissioners will also review four site plans for proposed construction projects in the township.

First state inmates expected to occupy DeHoCo in August

By KEVIN WILSON

Housing of inmates at the Western Wayne County Correctional Facility (formerly the Detroit House of Correction) should begin with the transfer of some prisoners from other state facilities in the first week of August, corrections officials said this week.

The state needs the 500 beds at the Plymouth Township facility on Five Mile road to relieve crowding in the corrections system. The population of the system is more than 1,000 inmates over capacity and the state is engaged in a crash prison expansion program.

Gail Light, a state corrections department spokesperson, said current plans are to begin occupation of the new local facility between August 1 and 5, quite near the initial target date of July 30.

"The perimeter fence is nearly completed," Light said. "There are a few internal renovations we have to complete before we can move people in, but we're pretty sure it will be between August 1 and 5."

The state purchased the facility from the City of Detroit in June. Preparation for fence installation had already begun when the long legislative wrangle over the acquisition (which began last October) was completed.

Emmett Baylor, director of the facility, said he is hopeful that the construction progress will be sufficiently advanced to meet the early August target cited in Lansing. "It'll be a rush job, but I think we'll be ready," Baylor said.

He confirmed that the double perimeter fence is nearing completion. The fence, similar to the one at Phoenix Correctional Facility (the former women's division of DeHoCo north of Five Mile), is protected by an electronic monitoring system and surrounded by a road to be patrolled by armed guards.

Other work under way includes renovation of a barracks into living quarters for the first group of inmates to be housed at Western Wayne. Baylor said he expects roughly 200 to be moved into the facility during the first month at a rate of 40-50 a week.

"After we get them into the barracks, there's another group of barracks we'll tear down to make room for a new bow-tie type construction," Baylor said. "Once that's done, we'll move the inmates into the bow-tie, tear down the other set of barracks and start building there. It's about a three-year project."

Baylor was the director of the facility when it was under Detroit ownership and was hired by the state to run it in its new form. He and other Detroit employees hired under terms of the purchase agreement have undergone a training program to acclimate them to state corrections department policies and procedures.

That group of employees will be suffi-

Industrial tax abatements not to be 'automatic'

By KEVIN WILSON

Eight months ago Northville Township had never approved a tax abatement to encourage industrial development. Now it has two on the books and expects more requests.

This despite the election last November of four township trustees who all said they are generally opposed to granting tax abatements.

Both abatements granted so far have been for the maximum permissible by law — 50 percent for 12 years. Both are in the same district — the Doheny Industrial Park. And both involve well-established community business leaders — Jack Doheny Supplies and Belanger, Inc.

The latter factor is one township supervisor Susan J. Heintz said is a key to understanding what on the surface appears to be a change in philosophy regarding how far the township will go to encourage development.

"I don't think there's been any change in philosophy," Heintz said.

"There's just more activity because of the upswing in the economy."

As to why the township recently granted tax abatements for the first time in its history, Heintz said the explanation is simple.

"Nobody ever asked for one before,

Progress continues on high school renovation project

Having withstood two labor strikes and the unwelcome onslaught of thundershowers, the Northville High School renovation project is back on track.

Approximately 70 workers representing a host of different trades currently are on the site readying most of the facility for the opening of school September 3.

School Superintendent George Bell noted the project finally has passed the point where more demolition than construction was taking place.

He noted the recent settlement of both the bricklayers and cement workers' strikes has put the project back into full swing.

Bell said the district is hoping to have 47 classrooms open by September with the spillover temporarily housed at the former Cooke Junior High facility.

He noted that it is likely the district will open some 20 classrooms at Cooke to be utilized until renovation has been completed. Squelching rumors that ninth graders will be housed at Cooke, Bell stated it is likely the former junior high will be used for science classes or another specific curriculum.

Bell also said there is no truth to the rumor that the district is considering renting Livonia's Bentley High School, which closed its doors at the end of the 1984-85 school year. The superintendent called such a move a "transportation disaster" and noted that should the district need more space to house high school students in the fall, it would look at other facilities within Northville.

Among areas to be completed by the start of the new school year will be the new activities center addition and the auditorium. However, Bell said placement of the gym floor may be delayed should the district decide to use the new gym as a temporary cafeteria.

The two-level cafeteria as well as the new science wing — both overlooking Center Street — are not expected to be completed by the opening of school, Bell noted.

The new high school administration offices also will not be ready, he said, adding that a temporary mobile unit will be erected for administrators prior to the new school year.

The superintendent said he anticipates basic completion of the facility should be sometime around the first of October with finishing work done by Thanksgiving.

Parts of the building — particularly inside classrooms — are nearly complete with most awaiting just paint and carpeting.

With much of the demolition and dismantling work completed, the district also has been looking for ways to recycle some of its old equipment.

For instance, the wood bleachers in the gym will be used in other areas of the district or possibly sold to another school district. Unsalvageable parts will be used in the woodshop classes.

Northville High School is taking on a new look/7A

Scacchetti settles into new township post

By KEVIN WILSON

Bruno Scacchetti, the second Northville township manager in history, is a man of few words.

Settling his bulky frame behind the desk in a cramped corner office bereft of any personal touches, the 23-year-old Pennsylvanian explained that he'd spent a rather busy five weeks since his appointment to the job and hasn't had a chance to see to such mundane items as hanging a photo or diploma on the blank walls.

Speaking in short, declarative sentences above the sound of a floor fan ("I don't have any drapes in here, and air conditioning bothers me"), he made clear his hopes of maintaining a relatively low profile in his job as the top appointed administrative officer of the township.

Chosen to replace former manager David Lelko on June 13, Scacchetti jumped right in, helping to formulate the revised budget required by incorporation as a charter township. It was due at the end of the month.

"That's what I wanted when I came here," he said in response to inquiries of what he thought of the immediate work load.

Like his predecessor, the University of Pittsburgh graduate (he earned a master's degree in public administration), said he finds the Northville Township position an ideal one for a recent graduate.

"If I was to choose a first 'regular job' for someone in my field, I couldn't have done better than this," Scacchetti said in a virtual echo of Lelko's comments of five years ago.

"I'm a person of a wide variety of interests and abilities," he said. "Township government is the level where you get to do some of everything. At the upper levels, you begin working in the institutional process, where everything is specialized."

Although he is special young to be making such comparisons, Scacchetti has a solid base to work from — as an undergraduate, he worked in Erie County, Pennsylvania, government. He did a graduate internship with "a community in Pennsylvania very similar to (Northville Township) in population, income level, community feeling."

Last autumn he was working on-staff for a Pittsburgh city councilman, as an assistant for financial oversight. The councilman was deeply involved in the city's financial oversight programs.

"The government got some bad press about some financial matters," Scacchetti said, explaining the city council meetings in Pittsburgh are televised locally. "With his role as a financial overseer, the councilman took a fall."

With that history to look back on, Scacchetti seems particularly relieved when explaining that his job in Northville Township is relatively remote from politics.

"You don't spend all your time trying to break the game," he said. "Here, what impressed me most has been the easiness of getting along with people. They listen, they want your ideas, they want your drive."

In his five weeks, he has identified a few items requiring attention in the short term and gotten a feel for the long-range direction of the township.

"Northville Township is expanding, it needs some professional direction to assist in smoothing that growth along," he said.

Scacchetti said he sees his priorities as improving personnel systems and internal systems in general, including budgeting and financial matters.

After attending one township board meeting, he also said he thinks "the staff should be able to provide the trustees with more in-depth and precise information than they get right now. I don't like to see the board members haggle back-and-forth over something that's not a major issue."

Beyond that broad outline of his past and anticipated future, Scacchetti volunteers little information aside from the tidbit that despite his St. Mary's, Pennsylvania, upbringing (where he played high school football: "Where do you think I got this neck?"), he is neither a fan of the Pittsburgh Steelers nor the Philadelphia Eagles, favoring instead the Los Angeles Raiders.

Least the down-and-nasty image of that team and his forbidding size scare people off, Scacchetti also makes a point of letting people know he's ready to hear their ideas about township government.

"I've just been telling people, 'The door's open, c'mon in, pull up a chair and talk. I'm not going to run away from a problem — I'm going to tackle it the best I can,' he concluded. "I don't like to talk about myself much. I let my actions do the talking."

Duck Festival canceled

Northville Community Chamber of Commerce board voted last Thursday not to hold its second annual Northville Duck Festival as planned on September 21.

Instead, the board agreed to lend its support to the North American Carving Championship show scheduled for September 20-21 at the Livonia Holiday Inn at the I-275 and Six Mile.

This show, it was reported by John Elliott, one of the participants in Northville's 1984 show, is extremely large and draws carvers and decoy collectors from a wide area.

Earlier the chamber board had voted to hold a second festival on a small scale, preferably at the Mill Race Village, but found the date already had been taken.

Faced with holding most of the show indoors and with strong competition, the board approved the recommendation to offer assistance to the established show at the Holiday Inn.

Rotary names "I've winners"

Five of the seven winners in the third week drawing of the Northville Rotary Club's calendar lottery are Northville residents.

They are Sandra McRae, Denis Roux, Mark Buoniconito, Carol Gensley and Stephen Penn.

Jack's Meat Market in Novi and John Puluzzi of Detroit are the other winners.

First drawing in the benefit lottery was held July 4 in Mill Race Historical Village. Numbers are on the Historic Northville Calendar being sold by the club and other non-profit organizations who receive a percentage of the $25 cost.

The calendar is from July 1, 1985, through June 30, 1986, and contains views of historic homes in the community.

The club is holding drawings weekly at its club meeting at noon Tuesday at First Presbyterian Church. Seven daily winners are drawn who win $25 each. A monthly winner and an annual winner also will be selected.

Club president Wes Henrikson points out that numbers can win more than once as they are returned to the hopper after being drawn. Calendars still are available from Rotary members, or Henrikson may be called.

DO YOU NEED TO LOSE 100 LBS.?

—WEIGHT REDUCTION—

Why Do Most Programs Fail?

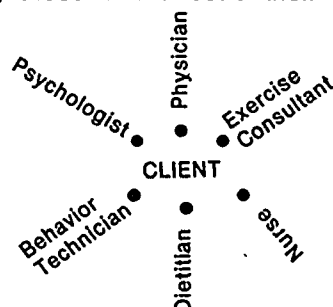

Because the major focus is on initial weight loss, the scale becomes the focal point. Little concern is given to specific individual needs necessary for the long term maintenance of weight loss and a healthy life style.

The Sensible Approach

The institute's weight control and obesity/risk factor management programs emphasize the individuality and complexity of each case. We stress that participants are required to exert a serious effort to change their life styles. Along with medical supervision by a licensed physician each participant will receive behavioral training, nutritional counseling and individualized exercise planning. The ultimate goal is to provide each participant with the resources to maintain their weight loss for the rest of their lives.

Multidisciplinary Weight Reduction Programs:

- Average weight loss over 72 lbs.
- The range: 10 to 450 lbs.
- Follow up data show that 60% maintain their weight during 1 year period.

What's more important current scientific literature and patient data show significant beneficial changes in blood pressure, blood sugar, cholesterol and other serious risk factors.

The institute's weight control and obesity/risk factor management programs can best be characterized as carefully monitored, multidisciplinary programs employing contemporary scientific sound methods to help each individual identify and achieve his or her health goals.

Senior village lease agreement under county review

By KEVIN WILSON

Plans to construct "market rate" apartments as part of what was initially projected as an elderly housing complex will be reviewed by the Wayne County Board of Commissioners for the first time Thursday.

The Cavanagh Retirement Village plan proposed by Northville Elderly Development Company is up for county commission review because the lease on the county-owned 101 acre site allows only elderly persons to be housed in the development.

The latest plan calls for a substantial portion of the former Wayne County Child Development Center property east of Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads to be open to all age groups at market rate rentals.

That conflicts with the lease the county granted to the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (WCEDC), which subsequently assigned the 99-year ground lease to the development partnership. The terms of the sublease also required elderly-only housing, as do the township zoning restrictions on the property.

"We told (the developer) there would be no zoning change until they got squared away with the county," said Northville Township supervisor Susan J. Heintz. "Rezoning for this one developer before they got the county okay seemed like putting the cart before the horse."

The proposed rezoning, actually an amendment to the language of the zoning ordinance as it applies to the RME (multiple family - elderly) classification created specifically for the project, has been tabled before the township planning commission for more than six months.

Heintz said the WCEDC has already revised its contract with Northville Elderly Development to allow 67 percent of the units to be designated elderly housing and 33 percent of the units in the complex to be market-rate apartments. That is an adjustment from the company's initial request to split the elderly and market rate housing on a roughly 50-50 basis.

Total housing in the project has been estimated as high as 1,300 units - counting beds in a nursing home and in congregate care facilities as individual units.

The county board must approve any changes in the terms of the lease. The issue is likely to be assigned to committee at Thursday's meeting and determined at a later meeting of the full county board.

Heintz said that, in the process, the township will be looking for several assurances before conceding to the market rate housing plan.

"Locally, we want to require that the market rate units go in hand-in-hand with the elderly project so they can't just build the market rate stuff and walk away," Heintz explained. "We are also looking at a clause to insure the total taxability of the property."

Township planners had been reluctant to allow the market rate housing within the RME zoning out of fear that only that portion, perceived as more easily built and with higher profit margins, would be constructed.

In the planning stages nearly a decade now, the project was initiated by the township's own EDC, which has never signed complete oversight of the project over to the county EDC. Since the township EDC still has control over the potential low-interest bonding for financing the project, the local interest carries more weight than it might if the deal were strictly between the county and developer.

Heintz has opposed the developer's suggestion that one or two high-rise buildings in the complex might be developed under federal funding methods that require non-profit operations that would not be taxable. A major goal of the project from its inception has been to return the untaxable county land to the tax rolls in order to bolster school, county, township and community college revenues.

Corn's at market

Shoppers at Northville's farmer's market in its new location in the city parking lot at Hutton and Dunlap are finding that Michigan grown corn has arrived in quantity. Tomatoes, zucchini, beans and cauliflower are offered along with honey, eggs and plants at the market sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. every Thursday. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

City charter revision likely for 1986

Amendments to update the Northville City Charter likely will not be prepared for this November's election, according to city manager Steven Walters.

Walters said discussion of the issue at the July 1 city council meeting did not result in a referral to the city attorney (as reported by The Record) but only in city council members beginning a search for potential members for a charter review committee.

"I think they'll be looking for people not currently involved in council or the appointive boards," Walters said. "You would probably have the mayor and myself, probably a council member and the attorney at least sitting in on the meetings. But the idea is to get people outside the government to examine the charter."

Walters said he does not expect the charter review committee to be appointed before September. The deadline for placing questions on the November ballot is in late September, so the committee would have to act unusually quickly if its recommendations were to appear on a ballot before 1986.

Walters prepared a report detailing portions he discovered were out-of-date when Mayor Paul Vernon asked him to review the document. These included references to the defunct county board of supervisors and operations of a municipal court (no longer allowed under state law).

The charter, first drafted in 1955 and amended in 1964 and in 1971, also includes provisions related to April city council elections. State law has moved such elections to November, so charter provisions that require nominating petitions to be submitted between February 1 and March 1 are out-of-phase with state requirements that put the nominating period between September 1 and October 1.

An oversight in last week's feature article on canoe trips and rental agencies in southeast Michigan caused us to omit the listing of a brand-new canoe rental business in Milford, Rebel's Canoe Landing, located at 1216 Garden Road in Milford Village.

Rebel's rents canoes for $8 per day per canoe, with a $3 pickup charge at various points at Kensington

Local students, French visitors share transglobal friendships

While Americans may be heading to Europe in droves this summer to take advantage of bargain fares and exchange rates favorable to the dollar, 22 French high school students are exchanging more than francs and dollars during a month-long visit to the metropolitan Detroit area.

The 22 students — three of whom are staying with host families in Northville — arrived July 4 as part of an exchange program with Catholic Central High School.

Among Northville's newest visitors are Sophie Carpentier, 18, who is visiting with Eric Donkers; Brigitte Chenevier, 16, who is staying with Tom Orlowski's family and David Fraisse, 16, who is the house guest of Jeff Bartlett.

The three French visitors all are students at Intercollegiate Saint-Denis in Annanay, a community of about 20,000 nestled in the foothills of the Sevenne Mountain range in southern France.

Father Frank Wheeler, who teaches French and some religion courses at Catholic Central, initiated the program in 1979 after teaching and studying in Annanay.

He recalled that during his four-year teaching stint at Intercollegiate Saint-Denis, he realized the potential for a cultural exchange program with American students.

Describing Intercollegiate Saint-Denis as a "private Catholic prep school," Wheeler said the French and American students seem to share an equal enthusiasm for the program. Since its beginnings six years ago, about 130 students from the two schools have participated in the exchange.

Wheeler pointed out that the first year of the program, American students were visiting with French host families while their French counterparts were staying in the homes of Catholic Central students. Relating that the dual exchange was "too hectic," Wheeler said the two schools decided to rotate the exchange with French students visiting Catholic Central families during odd-numbered years and Americans heading to southern France in even-numbered years.

Wheeler added that American students participating in the program must be better-than-average (A or B-plus) French students.

"The motivator is that they have to have French," Wheeler said, adding that language is not necessarily the criteria for French students.

Noting that most French students begin learning a second or third language by the time they reach the fourth or fifth grade, Wheeler said French students are less likely to have problems communicating with host families.

However, he pointed out that despite their language competency, many French students are timid about using their English skills upon arriving in the United States.

"When they first come over, their host parents think they are mutes," he noted. "After a month they are chatterboxes."

As hosts to the French contingent, Eric Donkers, Tom Orlowski and Jeff Bartlett have toured such landmarks as Cedar Point, Greentown, Boblo and Mackinac Island. They've also treated their French guests to Tiger games, golf outings and picnics.

Donkers, who will be a senior at Catholic Central in the fall, is the only one of the three local students to have visited France.

Noting that he "loves to travel," Donkers said the host family he stayed with last summer had an apartment in the south of France and a chalet in the mountains — which provided considerable travel for the 17-year-old student.

Donkers said he found the "idea of experiencing their lifestyle" fascinating — although it took some adjusting.

"I used to get up at 11 a.m. every day," he noted, adding that his sleeping habits quickly changed after his host family voiced disapproval over such late wake-up calls.

However, he pointed out that one of the biggest adjustments he made in France was changing his eating habits.

Noting that Americans are chronic snackers often eating on the run, Donkers said the French eat four or five-course meals three times a day — sans snacks.

Sophie Carpentier echoed Donkers' remarks, noting that "here we eat all the time, in France we have meals."

Tom Orlowski, whose two older brothers participated in the program, will be heading to France next summer along with Jeff Bartlett.

Hosting the exchange in mid-summer provides students with a chance to experience varied cultural activities outside of the classroom.

Wheeler reported that for most students, the program is a motivator. — "They learn an awful lot," Wheeler said. "They come back and they are highly motivated."

He explained that many students in the program make return visits.

As sponsor, Wheeler also makes the trip every other year. Father Henri Hassan accompanies French students on their visit.

"It's really like a reunion for me," Wheeler noted.

C.A. Smith estate sale planned

Items from the Nine Mile Road home of C.A. Smith will be sold in an estate sale at Meadowbrook Christian Church, on Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile roads, at 11 a.m. Saturday, August 3.

By terms of his will, proceeds from the sale will be used for projects of Civic Concern, the area help organization founded by Mr. Smith in 1983 and which now, in his memory, officially is the C.A. Smith Civic Concern.

The sale will consist mostly of household items.

Northville realtor Ann Roy, who helped found the organization and who serves on its committee, reports that Civic Concern also is taking other donations for the sale with such gifts to be tax deductible. She adds that Civic Concern is in need of funds at this time.

She may be called at 349-8700 to make arrangements, or donations may be taken to the church.

Mr. Smith, who died February 22 of this year, six days before his 92 birthday, founded Civic Concern early in 1983 when Goodfellows continued to receive calls for aid after Christmas.

He served as head of the organization until his death. The Reverend Austin Denney, pastor of Meadowbrook Christian Church, and his wife Nancy also have been active members of the Civic Concern and continue to serve on the committee.

Sidewalk sale scheduled

Annual sidewalk sale days, sponsored by the Northville Merchants' Association, will be held August 2-3 downtown.

Chairman Del Black reports he expects to have "lots of arts and crafts as well as antiques" dealers for the street sale to be held from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, August 3.

Merchants, he adds, are gearing up for their sidewalk sale to be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday.

Obituaries

Two former residents die in Florida

SUSAN NAGY ZAYTI

Susan Nagy Zayti, an area resident for most of her life before moving to Florida in 1952, died at Boynton Beach, Florida, July 16 at the age of 87. She was the mother of Benny and Jay Zayti of Northville.

Mrs. Zayti, a homemaker, was born August 15, 1897, in Hungary. She married William Zayti who died in 1952. She also was preceded in death by a granddaughter Janice Zayti in 1978. Mrs. Zayti was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Dr. Nile Harper, associate pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Northville, officiated at the service at 2 p.m. Friday at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. Mrs. Zayti's grandsons served as pallbearers.

Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery. She leaves sons and daughters-in-law Benny and Marion Zayti, Jay and Inge Zayti, all of Northville, Michael and Olga Zayti of Mt. Clemens, daughters Mrs. John (Margaret) Hartig and Mrs. Herbert (Helen) Willard, both of Boynton Beach, 10 grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to Hospice.

KIM (HUNTER) KAYLOR

Former Northville resident Kim L. (Hunter) Kaylor died unexpectedly July 18 of cardiac arrest at Community Hospital in New Port Richey, Florida. She was 32.

A member Northville High School Class of 1971, she was born in Northville October 23, 1952, and had been living in New Port Richey.

Funeral service was held at 1 p.m. Monday at Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville with the Reverend Victor F. Halboth of Grace Lutheran Church in Redford officiating.

Burial was in Glen Eden Cemetery. She was the daughter of Dolores and Wallace Licorish and the sister of the Reverend Dr. Kent R. Hunter of Corunna, Indiana.

The family suggests that memorial tributes may be sent to the Church Growth Center in Corunna, Indiana, 46730.

CHARLES H. WIDMAIER

Charles H. Widmaier of Northville, a life resident of the area, died July 16 at St. Mary Hospital at the age of 94.

Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. Friday at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. with Pastor Leonard J. Koeninger of St. Peters Lutheran Church in Plymouth officiating.

Burial was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mr. Widmaier, who retired from the Wayne County Training School in 1951, was born June 26, 1891, in Plymouth to Fred and Mathilda (Gephardt) Widmaier.

He married Annetta Wells who survives. He also leaves sons William and Thomas of Northville, Ernest of Grand Rapids, Richard of Livonia, daughters Mrs. Loretta Sloan of Mt. Pleasant and Mrs. Doris Bonner of Northville, a sister Mrs. Gertrude Durling in Indiana, 15 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

DAVID J. CATTON

David J. Catton, 65, died July 14 at his Northville home. A resident of the community since the 1930s, he was a member of Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4012.

Mr. Catton, who was retired, was born June 20, 1920, in Canada to Alfred and Thessa (Adkin) Catton.

He leaves a son David J. Catton Jr. in California, a daughter Beth Overly in Montana and a sister Mrs. Dorothy Merritt in North Carolina.

Funeral services were private. Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home Inc.

ROBERT L. PERRY

Robert L. Perry, 54, of Wixom, a foreman and die setter for Advance Stamping, died July 21 at Mt. Carmel Hospital in Detroit after an illness of several years.

Funeral service is being held at 11 a.m. today (Wednesday) at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. in Northville with Dr. Wendell L. Baglow of First Baptist Church of Walled Lake officiating.

Burial is to be in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

Mr. Perry was born September 6, 1930, in Royal Oak to Fred and Mary (Daniel) Perry.

He had been an area resident for 33 years.

He leaves his wife Wilma Jean (Cotter), sons Mark, Jeff and Fred, daughter Karen, sisters Mrs. Ruby Simeck, Opal Simeck, Analene Herley, Lavern Stephen and Patricia Cotter, and two grandchildren.

Three hospice care courses to be offered at Madonna

Three courses in hospice care will be offered at Madonna College in Livonia beginning in September.

"Fundamental Concepts in Hospice Care" will meet from 7-10 p.m. Mondays. This course emphasizes the physical, emotional and spiritual support for terminally ill persons and their loved ones, covers the history of the hospice movement and reveals recent studies done in the hospice field.

A second course, "Psychosocial Aspects of Hospice Care," will be held from 4-7 p.m. Mondays. It will be taught by Sister Cecilia Eagen, R.N., director of the hospice education program.

Counseling techniques will be taught and consideration will be given to bereavement, especially the bereaving child and adolescent. Mental health aspects such as patient anxiety and employee stress will be treated.

On Thursdays, "Spiritual & Ethical Consideration in Hospice Care" will meet from 4-7 p.m. In this course, ethical principles involved in problem-solving of moral issues for clients, families and/or givers will be presented. Exercises dealing with death and dying issues and an overview of major world religious practices related to spiritual needs of the sick will be provided.

Information about enrollment in the program may be obtained by calling the Admissions Office at 591-5052.

Madonna College has initiated what is believed to be the first college curriculum in Hospice Care. This program continues a long tradition of academic programs in the "helping" professions and integrates learning from three Madonna departments — nursing, gerontology and social work — into a new area of study.

Professionals and volunteers interested in the Madonna hospice care program can earn a Certificate of Achievement for 30 semester hours of course work. Students majoring in other human service areas may earn an academic minor in hospice care with 20 semester hours. Merit scholarships are awarded to outstanding incoming students for the hospice care program through the Admissions Office.

Schoolcraft registration set

Registration will get under way August 12 for the fall semester at Schoolcraft College.

Registrations are being accepted from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. August 12-15, 21 and 26 at the Registration Center on the main campus at 18600 Haggerty.

The fall semester begins August 29.

For further information or a free copy of the fall schedule, stop by the Admissions Office on campus or call 591-6400, extension 340.

Eighteen Northville residents were among the 301 full time Schoolcraft College students named to the dean's list for the winter semester.

To be named to the dean's list, a student must carry at least 12 hours during the semester and earn a 3.5 grade point average or better.

Students named to the dean's list were AHMAD ALMAWLAWI, KIM A. AUSTIN, CHRISTOPHER BAETZ, THOMAS BAYERL, JAMES CAIRNS, RNADON CHISNELL, EVELYN DAVIS, SHELLEY L. FASING, JESSE GRIMM, JOHN HIBBELN, ANDREW ORLANDO, JAMES PHILLIPS, RICHARD RENAUD, PAUL ROBERTS, ELIZABETH ROSENTHAL, TRACY STEVENS, STEVEN STUART and MARY TRAUSCH.

In addition, 23 Northville residents were among the 374 part time Schoolcraft students named to the dean's list for the winter semester.

To earn a place on the dean's list, part time students must complete 12, 24, 36, 48 and 60 credits with a 3.5 cumulative grade point average.

Local part time students named to the dean's list were DENISE C. BECKLEY, JANET BICKNER, SANDRA BOOTH, SHARON CAMPBELL, MARY CULIK, ELIZABETH DELANO, MAUREEN FOERG, DORIS HALL, JEAN HANSEN, SHELA HOOVER, CHERYL HUIZING, MARTHA JAKUBIK, BRIAN LAMONTAGNE, ROSS MCCARTHY, FAYE MCINTIRE, CAROL MEGDAN, KATHLEEN REAVY, MARC ROPE, DEEDRE SHERB, CAROL TOWNSEND, VALERIE TROSCHINETZ, MAUREEN TURNER and MARIA E. WILLIAMS.

Three Northville residents were among the Wayne State University students named to the liberal arts dean's list for the winter semester.

Students named to the dean's list were GREGORY LEWIS of Jamestown, KIM PETIT of Meadowbrook and LISA WOODEN of Rayburn.

In order to make the dean's list, students must carry a minimum of six credit hours. Those students carrying between six and 11 credits, must have a 4.0 honor point average.

Students registered for full-time programs of 12 credits or more, must have an honor point average of 3.6.

Northville resident CINDY MARTIN received the $500 Geraldene Felton Award from Oakland University's Alumni Association.

The OU Alumni Association chose six students to receive academic merit awards ranging from $500 to $1,000 for the 1985-86 academic year.

Two Northville residents were among the 1,524 Western Michigan University students receiving degrees at the end of the winter semester.

Field, who majored in economics, was graduated Magna Cum Laude.

Northville resident NORMAN EUGENE FANKELL was among the more than 2,800 University of Iowa students receiving degrees at commencement ceremonies May 18. He received a BA in Communication and Theatre Arts.

Police Blotters

Car stolen in March recovered last week

In the City...

Metal posts and cable which had been installed a week ago around a private parking lot on Center south of Mary Alexander Court had been removed by the next day, it was reported to city police.

The police report made at 9:15 a.m. July 18 noted that the strand of cable possibly had been cut at the ends and a Jeep-type vehicle used to pull the six metal posts out.

Damage estimate totaled $280. The lot owners had told the city that they are not covered by insurance for cars parked on the lot without authorization.

Larceny from an automobile was reported by a Lexington Commons resident at 2:35 p.m. Sunday. The complainant reported leaving a billfold over the sun visor when the car was parked in front of the garage at 11:30 a.m. When the complainant returned, the driver's door was ajar and the billfold gone.

A Northville Township resident reported to police that the rear window of a 1984 Mercury Cougar had been shot, while parked in town during the time the complainant had dinner at MacKinnon's.

The complainant returned to the automobile at 10:13 p.m. to find the window shattered. Damage was estimated at $150.

A Northville Estates resident reported damage to a mailbox to police July 18. The report stated that it appeared to have been damaged by a firecracker placed in the box.

... In the Township

A 1973 Ford Courier stolen out of Westland March 29 was recovered by Northville township police Friday afternoon in the parking lot at the Innbrook apartment complex.

The complainant told police the vehicle was parked in a resident only parking space and was ticketed June 28.

Police noted the vehicle was locked and had no visible damage. A LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) check revealed the vehicle was stolen out of Westland in March.

Fifteen glass plates were broken out of lanterns in front of an apartment complex on Northville Forrest Drive sometime between 11 p.m. July 18 and 10 a.m. July 19, township police report.

The complainant told police that unknown person(s) shot out the glass plates with an estimated value of $350.

Police noted a BB gun apparently was used in the incident.

Wire wheel covers estimated worth $200 were stolen from the driver's side of a 1985 Oldsmobile Cutlass parked in a Silver Springs parking lot sometime between 6 p.m. July 16 and 2:30 p.m. July 17, township police report.

Spaulding golf clubs estimated to be worth $400 were stolen from a golf cart at a Six Mile golf course sometime between 3:30 and 4:15 p.m. July 19, according to township police.

The complainant told police he left the clubs in the cart outside the clubhouse for approximately 45 minutes.

Police noted a suspicious white male in his late 20s was seen near the area of the theft. He was wearing red shorts, a white shirt and was driving an orange Ford vehicle.

A wallet containing $340 was stolen from the glove box of 1984 Pontiac parked at a Hickory Ridge residence sometime between 10:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. July 20, police report.

The complainant told police the vehicle was parked in the driveway and was unlocked at the time the incident occurred.

Unknown subject(s) driving an unidentified vehicle caused an estimated $300 damage to a fieldstone pillar at a Sutters Lane residence sometime around 5 a.m. July 21.

The complainant told police he was awakened by a loud noise around 5 a.m. He said he witnessed a vehicle drive off Sutters Lane and strike the pillar before leaving the scene.

A police investigation revealed that the vehicle in question should have damage to the left front fender and driver's door. A wheel cover also may be missing as one was found at the scene.

An estimated $500 damage to the hull of paddle boat docked at Silver Springs Lake was reported to township police July 15.

The complainant told police that unknown persons were heard swimming in the lake about 3:30 a.m. July 14.

City hires police officer off Farmington Hills force

Newest patrolman on the city police department staff is William Edgar, who was hired July 15 and has 12 years' experience with the Farmington Hills Police Department.

Edgar was hired as replacement for William Harrison who has joined the township police force.

Chief Rodney Cannon, in announcing the hiring of Edgar, noted that the new patrolman has almost as much experience as Harrison, who had 14 years with the force.

He said Harrison's replacement was selected from the city's certified part-time officers and that he placed first in both the written and oral examinations.

A member of the Farmington Hills department from 1972 to 1984, Edgar who has been living in Livonia holds a BA degree from Wayne State University.

AAA honors Northville's pedestrian safety efforts

Northville has been honored with a Pedestrian Safety Achievement Award from the American Automobile Association for its outstanding pedestrian protection program, AAA Michigan has announced.

The City of Northville competed nationwide with participating cities in the under 10,000 population group and won the award by going 12 years without a pedestrian fatality.

Police Chief Rodney Cannon said Monday he was "very pleased" that the city has been cited and understands it will be awarded a plaque.

Cannon, who serves on the Michigan Association of Police Chiefs' Traffic Safety Committee, said he is especially proud of the city's record as there are so many areas with pedestrian accidents that the committee has made pedestrian injuries its top level priority.

Highest honors for the year in Michigan went to Livonia and Wyoming, with both cities earning a first-place Award for Excellence for top performances in pedestrian safety program activities and pedestrian death and injury records.

Only 28 of these awards were given to cities around the country.

In all 49 Michigan communities were honored by AAA for last year's pedestrian safety achievements. Nationwide, 312 top awards were given in the 46th annual Pedestrian Protection Program.

More than 2,590 cities and 30 states participated in the AAA survey.

Decision on new director expected soon

A new recreation director for Northville is expected to be named by the end of this week. Selection is to be from among three finalists interviewed at length by the Northville Community Recreation Commission last week.

"We should have a decision probably Thursday," said Commission Chair John Buckland. Asked whether the commission was leaning toward any one candidate, and simply needed to negotiate terms of a prospective contract, Buckland answered, "I really can't say any more."

After the announcement of Jeff Farland's resignation to join the Southfield Recreation Department, notice of the opening was published by the commission, which jointly serves the city and township.

The commission's search committee pared a list of 39 applicants for the post down to eight. After interviews with those eight, the choices were again narrowed, this time to three individuals. The three attended a re-interview session before the commission last week.

Those individuals are Traci Johnson, acting department director since Farland's departure; David Justus of the Farmington Hills Parks and Recreation Department; and John Anderson of the Troy Parks and Recreation Department.

"Those are three very top-notch candidates," Buckland observed. "Our main concern is that we have someone who's strong in budgeting, administration and someone who can expand our program."

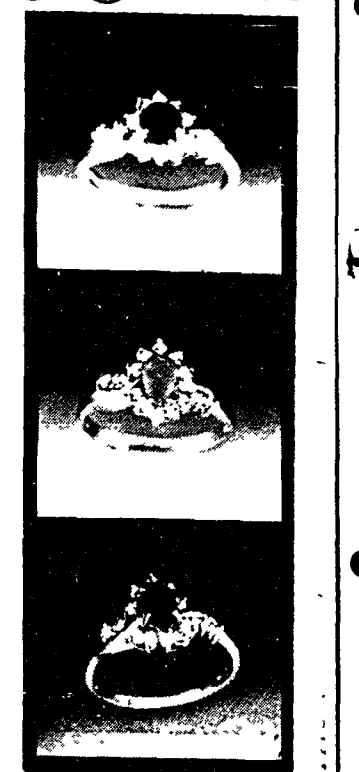

"All three have experience in those areas," he added. "It's just a matter of finalizing which we'll choose."

Lucas loses appeal of decision on MacDonald firing

By KEVIN WILSON

The point is moot now, but the Michigan Court of Appeals recently ruled that Wayne County Executive William Lucas lacked the authority to fire 35th District Court Judge John MacDonald from the board of directors of the Wayne County Economic Development Corporation (WCEDC) last year.

Lucas attempted to dismiss MacDonald and three other unpaid board members in June, 1984. At the time, MacDonald was Northville Township supervisor and approaching a primary election in the race for the judgeship he now holds. He resigned from the WCEDC board when he took the bench.

"I resigned — that's what I fully intended all along" when entering the judge's race, MacDonald said. "It's still nice to be right."

The directors Lucas dismissed all favored the continued employment of Robert FitzPatrick as executive director of the WCEDC. FitzPatrick was Lucas' opponent in the 1982 general election and the executive hoped to replace him as the administrative head of the quasi-governmental agency. When the attempts to dismiss FitzPatrick failed, he was put on paid leave and relieved of all responsibilities. His contract will expire later this year.

But MacDonald's court case dates back to last May when the board voted by a narrow margin to continue to employ FitzPatrick after an investigation of his expense account. Lucas sent letters to four of them citing their votes on the issue as the reason he was removing them from office.

"I feel it was just an over-reaching of his authority," MacDonald said Monday. He said last year that the findings of the investigation "proved 'Fitz' did nothing wrong" and that the entire issue arose only because "Lucas wants his own man in there."

MacDonald, FitzPatrick and the WCEDC filed suit against Lucas, contending that state law allows only the county board of commissioners to hire and fire WCEDC board members. Injunctions prevented Lucas' new appointees from taking office while the case went to court. On July 16, 1984, Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Marianne Battani issued an order declaring the dismissals "null and void," finding that Lucas lacked authority to fire the directors.

Lucas appealed the determination. On July 8 of this year, the Michigan Court of Appeals upheld Battani's ruling, in effect siding with MacDonald.

The appeals court found, as Battani had, that the county charter gives appointive and dismissal powers to the executive except where otherwise provided by law. The court accepted MacDonald's argument that WCEDC appointments are "otherwise provided for" in the state legislation creating authority for formation of EDCs.

In doing so, it dismissed Lucas' attempt to draw a direct parallel between the WCEDC case and the appellate court's earlier decision that the executive did have authority to dismiss members of the county road commission.

'It's nice to be right.'

— Judge John MacDonald

In the road commission case, Appellate Judges S. Jerome Bronson, Michael J. Kelly and Stanley J. Latrelle noted in the July 8 decision, the appointive powers granted Lucas by the charter were supported by separate legislation regarding counties of more than 1.5 million population. The latter statute also provides for road commission appointment by the county executive. (County voters subsequently amended the charter to abolish the commission).

But the EDC legislation assigns appointive powers specifically to the legislative branch, the court found, which in Wayne County is the board of commissioners.

In the process, the appeals court did not consider three side issues: Battani ruled early in the suit that FitzPatrick lacked standing to bring a suit on the WCEDC's behalf against Lucas regarding WCEDC appointments. That portion of her decision was not at issue in the appellate case.

The court also sidestepped Lucas' argument that the WCEDC should be stricken from the list of plaintiffs to the action, leaving MacDonald the sole opponent of the executive's actions. Lucas argued that the WCEDC was never a proper party to the suit, since the four members he attempted to dismiss were among those who supported FitzPatrick's decision to file suit. As the make-up of the EDC changed, its support for the suit came into question.

"We recognize that the unique factual posture of this case has created a cloud over the authority of the directors to act on behalf of the EDC," the court stated. "We would, therefore, not adjudicate this important question in the absence of a clearly defined position by the EDC."

Finally, the court bypassed the question of whether the WCEDC is a government agency — the issue was raised by MacDonald's side and relates to the general status of EDCs statewide. While governments create and appoint EDCs as a mechanism for issuance of low-interest municipal bonds to induce private development, the relationship between the government and EDC is deliberately kept at arms length.

"Our holding in this case obviates the need to address this argument," the appeals court decision stated.

Township tax abatement not automatic

at least for as long as I've been here," she said. Heintz added that as vacant land, the Doheny property generated $400 in taxes for the township. Even at half-off, the tax bill after development will be many times that amount.

Thus far, abatements have been used as a tool for business retention rather than as a lure to new investors, she noted.

"In the previous four years, we saw two companies move out of the township," Heintz said. "In one of those, Nate Whiteside moved his check-printing business to a (tax abatement) district in Plymouth Township."

"Now there was a case where having a district available might have kept a business in the community," she said, adding that the industrial park Whiteside chose for relocation is one developed by Robert DeMattia, another well-established name in the Northville area. Since his Plymouth Township developments are directly across Five Mile from the Plymouth Center property, DeMattia's name has often been mentioned as one of several investors said to be interested in the property if it is ever sold.

When the township established the industrial development district that allowed the Doheny and Belanger tax abatements, Heintz said she hoped to "send a message" to other developers that the township is willing to consider abatements as a lure to investors.

But when asked if she was interested in pursuing investors from outside the community, Heintz was less enthusiastic about the abatement procedure.

"We're going to be picky," she said. "It's not going to be automatic — not everyone who asks for abatements is going to get one."

Heintz said she was pleased, however, to see the township's Economic Development Corporation (EDC) back in action. The EDC is a quasi-governmental body that assists development financing by issuing tax-exempt municipal bonds that are repaid by the private investor.

EDC financing has been an element in the Doheny Industrial Park development and is being sought by several other developers.

With potential rezonings of property on Haggerty and along Five Mile to allow office, industrial and commercial development, Heintz lamented the recent defeat of legislation that would have allowed townships to establish Tax Increment Financing Authorities (TIFAs).

A TIFA operates exactly like the City of Northville's Downtown Development Authority, using the increased tax revenues generated from rising property values to finance public improvements. For townships, TIFA money likely would have been used for road improvements, sewer and water service extensions and the like.

But a presumed error in the writing of the enabling legislation left townships out.

"The legislation addresses townships — we're included in the definition of municipality and municipalities are allowed to form TIFAs," Heintz explained. "But a later section refers to supervision of a TIFA by the mayor. It says nothing about supervisors. And the attorney general ruled that since townships don't have mayors, they can't have TIFAs."

Legislation to add supervisors to the law allowing the formation of TIFAs was defeated recently, Heintz said, when it faced strong opposition from school organizations.

The operation of a TIFA precludes a school district from collecting the full value of increased property taxes resulting from development of vacant land or expansion on previously developed parcels. Instead, all the money that would have gone to the school district goes toward paying off the debt on the public improvements.

School districts generally collect the largest share of the property taxes and opposed township TIFAs because development in townships would probably concentrate on making vacant land usable, possibly for housing — creating the potential for adding students to a district without increasing property tax revenues to the schools.

Computer seminar offered

A two day hands-on seminar to assist participants in making an informal decision about the cost effectiveness of using a personal computer in securities investing will be held this Friday and Saturday, July 26 and 27, at Schoolcraft College.

Fee for the seminar is $145 per person, and $245 when two persons register together. The cost includes several hours of hands-on use of an IBM Personal Computer, use of Dow Jones programs, a course syllabus and simple directions for using the programs, supplementary materials and discounts on Dow Jones software.

cient to operate the facility in the start-up phase, Baylor said, with new personnel hired through the state civil service system expected to report for training "in a few weeks."

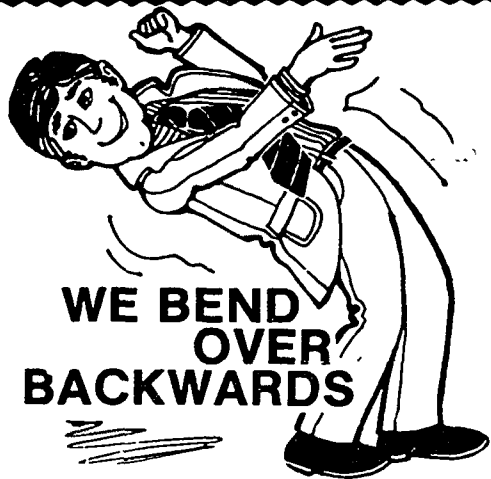

Baylor said his understanding is that the hiring process is still under way.

Light said there is as yet no firm target date for completion of the nearby Scott Regional Correctional Facility at Five Mile and Beck Roads. Construction is progressing on the 550-bed facility, which is the prototype of a multi-security level prison design that is a cornerstone of the department's long-range expansion program.

"We're sort of crossing our fingers and hoping for August of 1986," Light said, speaking of when the Scott facility might be ready for occupation.

Summer's peak season for break-ins

By MARILYN MORRISON

Summer is the peak time of year for burglars, so before you dust off your fishing pole and head out on vacation, every precaution to secure your home should be taken.

Since vacations and summer are synonymous with burglars and break-ins, Northville, Northville Township and the Novi Police Department all have crime prevention units available to assist area residents.

The crime prevention units survey homes and businesses for security flaws and make suggestions on how they can best be corrected. The home and business survey is free and takes approximately 45 minutes to complete.

The biggest law police find when surveying a home or business is inefficient window and door security.

"Some of the locks people have on $100,000 homes are credit card locks — a burglar could get into their home quicker using a credit card than they could using their own key," said officer Bill Charles of the Novi Police Department.

The cost to fix these security flaws at your home or business is minimal. Sergeant Allen Cox of the Northville Police Department said all you need are some nuts, bolts and screws. "It's dirt cheap," he said.

Although the crime prevention service has been available in both cities and the township for years, resident response has been very low.

Cox said not as many residents as he would like utilize the service. Township police Captain Phil Presnell agreed.

Northville and Novi are not high crime cities, but residents should not ignore the possibility of their home being broken into — both areas are part of metropolitan Detroit and not immune to crime.

"The suburbs are where it's at. There is some very lucrative property out here," Cox said.

Presnell said the attitude that "It can't happen to me" is very misleading. Since both areas are located by freeways, "we are vulnerable," he said.

In Novi there have been 104 reported burglaries so far this year. In 1984, a total of 310 burglaries were reported.

Police report nine out of 10 times burglars get into a home or business through a window. To secure a window without spending a lot of money all you need is a metal pin.

There are many kinds of windows manufactured; however, the most common type window used is the double hung window. They can be secured by drilling a hole through the top of the inside window and into the bottom of the outside window and inserting a metal pin. This pin may be removed easily whenever you want, but, when in place, prevents the bottom window from being slid up from the outside.

For a sliding door wall, cut a piece of wood the proper length and lay in the track to prevent the door from being opened. A heavy woodscrew can also be inserted in the top of the door track in the closed area to prevent the door from being raised and pushed in.

"If a person wants in your home bad enough, they'll get in," Cox said. "You should use as many obstacles as possible to deter them."

Calling the police department when you leave town for an extended period of time and giving them the time and date you will be leaving and returning, how you can be reached in an emergency, and who locally will have a key also serves as an excellent deterrent to burglars.

"Many burglars will not chance breaking into your home if they know police are watching it," Cox said.

Electric engraving tools to mark valuable items such as television sets and stereos may be borrowed free from area police departments. The items should be marked with your driver's license number. By using your license number, police anywhere in the U.S. can trace stolen items.

Due to privacy acts, using your social security number is not recommended and is of no value to police when trying to trace stolen items.

Operation Identification stickers also are available to notify burglars that items in the house are marked.

Allowing mail and newspapers to pile up is dead give away your not home. Both Novi and Northville post offices will hold mail up to one month.

Leaving the garage door open is free advertising, and often what you have in your garage is an indication of what's in your home. "Never leave the garage door open," Cox stressed.

Citizen cooperation also is important.

"The police department alone can not solve crime. If citizens are not concerned about crime, the only thing police can do is take a crime report," Charles said.

Presnell said some people have told him they feel silly calling the police but he stressed: "Having citizen cooperation is important — if they see anything suspicious, they should call the police," he said.

Leaving the house with a lived-in appearance is probably the best way to prevent a possible break-in. Charles suggests using a minimum of four timers — three for lights and one to play a radio for a few hours at night.

However, all three officers stated that a police department is only as effective as the community makes it.

Gamble Rogers featured at The Raven

"We had two motion picture theatres in Nacoochee Valley. The Colony Theatre at the south end of the street where they showed those heavy psychedelic flicks like 'Fantasia' and at the other end of the street the Baby Grande Theatre — a dank, cavernous maw of a place decorated in Renaissance Redneck — smelled like a Byzantine piss-oir. We'd sit there every Saturday matinee and scarf up on those Ju-JuBees, Junior Mints, Milk Duds, Necco Wafers, Jordan Almonds, Sugar Babies — Remember those Sugar Babies? Damned sticky things! Play a trick on your best buddy — Bogart your Sugar Baby and stick it in his ear!"

Gamble Rogers

It's not surprising Gamble Rogers' most successful album is Gamble Rogers Live, which intersperses his dextrous guitar picking, sly original songs and warm singing voice with manic monologues and tales from his well-traveled past.

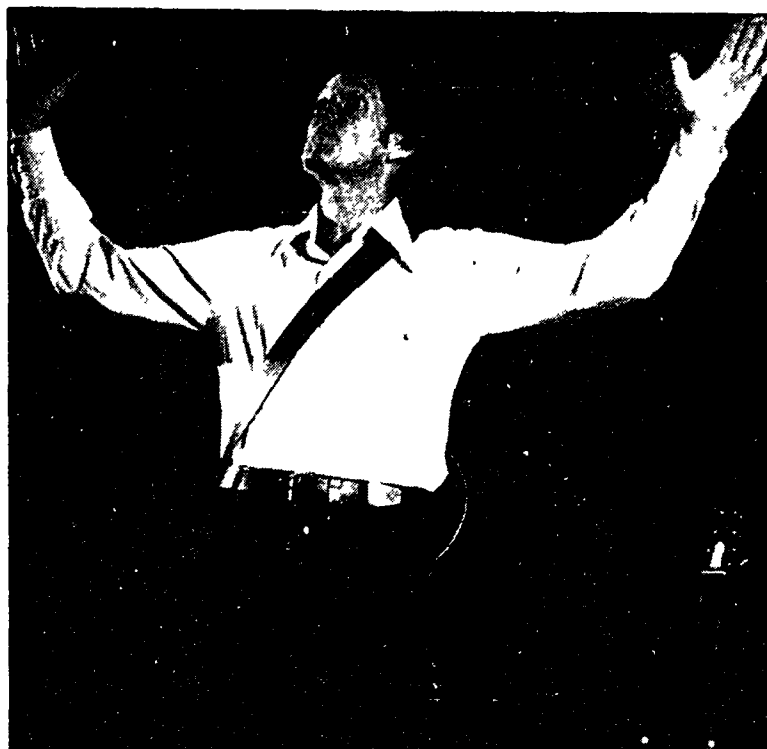

The man simply knows how to spin a yarn. Take it from The New York Times: "Gamble Rogers... belongs to a down-home storytelling tradition that embraces Mark Twain and Will Rogers... his language is of such quality and humor that a listener can sometimes get carried away by the sound of it..."

Rogers' singular narrative and musical style has also earned praise from Playboy, Rolling Stone and the Chicago Daily News, among other publications. And local music fans will get an in-person chance to see it in action this weekend.

Rogers will perform two shows on both Friday and Saturday at The Raven coffeehouse in the community building in downtown Northville, then perform Sunday afternoon at the Northville Folk & Bluegrass Festival this Sunday.

"I'm just real excited about his coming," said The Raven's owner-operator and festival director Tom Rice. "He's a great musician, and he's a great entertainer."

Before he became a frequent and welcome guest on national radio and television programs, Rogers, 48, honed his narrative technique in noisy watering holes and clubs across the country.

"The clubs and bars willing to pay me were not places of quiet," he once explained. "I had to fight to get attention for my Southern Gothic Art and miniature epics set to music. So, in a natural way, I began to extend my introductions between songs... employing the telling of stories as a way to control the oftentimes raffish crowds in these saloons and juke joints."

Along the way, he developed some aphorisms destined to stick in the American consciousness:

- "In do or don't questions of conscience, do. It's always easier to get forgiveness afterward than permission beforehand."
- "An expert is just an ordinary man away from home."

- "A rich redneck is someone with a busted Lear jet set up on concrete blocks in his backyard."

Rogers should have no trouble commanding the attention of The Raven's patrons this weekend. But then, it's hard not to listen to songs with titles like The Great Matland Turkey Farm Massacre of Nineteen and Fifty-Three or The DeKalb County Deputy Sheriff.

Our Opinion

Haggerty planning: Change is needed, but consider effects

Anyone with an eye on development in neighboring communities can easily see dramatic changes are needed in Northville Township's Haggerty Road corridor. Those concerned about how the township develops should keep an eye on how those changes are handled by the planning commission (possibly as soon as July 30) and by the township board.

With the majority of township land along Haggerty presently zoned and planned for single family housing development, we are clearly out of step with our neighbors who are making use of the impact of the nearby highway. We believe township residents have clearly expressed a preference for low density, single family housing development as the township's major thrust. That planners know this is reflected in the drastic changes being proposed — single family housing would remain the dominant land use despite changes on the major roads. But even the most vehement foe of township development must admit at this juncture that the Haggerty Road frontage is completely unsuited to the type of housing built elsewhere in the township.

The alternatives are multi-family housing, office and commercial. Proposed for amendments to the township's long-range master plan and the zoning ordinance are variations on these themes — "liberalized" (larger) cluster housing projects, high rise office (really only high-rise in Northville terms since the maximum would be about five stories) and "freeway service." While we can follow the reasoning behind these recommendations, we suggest that the planning commission and the community at-large should review them closely before proceeding. While we may create new zoning classes with Haggerty Road in mind, they immediately become available to developers elsewhere in the township.

Allowing the high rise offices would make Northville Township more competitive with other west Wayne and Oakland office hot spots. We think that's good for Haggerty Road, but is it good for Five Mile? Can we be assured it won't be used at Six Mile and Sheldon?

Similarly, while cluster housing appears as a neat means of making the transition from office to nearby single family areas, its use would be fairly limited on Haggerty. Allowing sideyard relationships to single family makes sense, but does lifting the 10-acre restriction on such developments? Where else might such solutions be worthwhile? Identical reasoning suggests that a "freeway service" zone might crop up on Five Mile. That could be a good idea if the hoped-for conversion of public lands comes about, but only if we anticipate it now and put it in the master plan with the rest of the amendments.

Might it not be more appropriate to the township's needs to amend the zoning ordinance to allow high rise offices, expanded cluster housing or freeway service developments within the current zoning classes but only under special conditions and after review by the planning commission and township board? If not, then let's be absolutely certain that everyone understands the township's long-range plans for the new districts, not only on Haggerty but throughout the 17 square miles of the township.

Several other issues come into play now, with the planning commission prepared to review and possibly act on these recommendations next Tuesday. Firstly, we note that the proposed revisions to the master plan "proposed land use map" continue to show a category for "institutional and governmental" lands. Recent experience with the child development center, Plymouth Center and Detroit House of Correction properties suggests that such a designation is out-of-step with the township's stated goals of having those lands converted to private ownership.

With the possible exceptions of township lands, Middle Rouge Parkway and Maybury Park, we'd prefer to see all such designations dropped off the land use map and replaced with a suggestion for the type of development considered appropriate if and when the property is abandoned for its present uses. The master plan for long range development of the township should reflect the township's goals on this issue.

Secondly, to the maximum extent possible, we believe zoning map changes along Haggerty should take effect at the same time as the master plan and zoning text amendments. Because zoning ties into land values (and therefore tax rates), this becomes a complex matter. But if the new plan says "freeway service" and the current zoning ordinance simply says "commercial," it should be possible to make the two coincide by changing the commercial zoning. Similarly, where office zoning is now established, high-rise office might be instituted.

In the more complex cases (where single family would shift to multiple, office or commercial, for instance), property owners should be notified and encouraged to pursue the planned zoning — those who plan to sell or develop in the near future might appreciate being included in a large-scale review of Haggerty zoning.

Dramatic differences between the present zoning and the master plan serve only to confuse everyone as to the real intent for any area. Such a case arose recently on Haggerty near Five Mile where land once zoned commercial reverted to single family while the master plan reflected commercial (without specifying intensity). So far as is possible, the master plan and zoning map should be made to act in concert, and particularly so when a wide disparity might be created by amendments to one or the other.

The planning commission is on the right track in working to adjust to the market forces at work along Haggerty — now let's see how well it can make that goal mesh with its aims for the rest of the township.

Playing with ethics

by Kevin Wilson

Are you ready for the next version of the Trivial Pursuit craze? Having noticed that no Yuppie worth his or her blue blazer has taken Trivial Pursuit out of its box in over a year, the games-makers are about to spring a new, decidedly non-trivial pastime on us all.

It's called A Question of Scruples and consists of a bunch of cards bearing brief summaries of moral dilemmas which the player is supposed to solve. Well, actually, you're not supposed to solve them, you're supposed to decide what the other players would do if faced with the problem. How totally modern — don't think for yourself, morality is defined by your peers. The "winner" is the one who can dispose of all his problems by predicting the others' responses most accurately.

An example cited in the newspaper article I read suggested that, while involved in a long-distance romance, you had decided to start a "romantic friendship locally to relieve loneliness." The dilemma: do you tell your local love interest about the far-away one?

Notice that the wizard behind all this didn't ask if it was ethical to have a local love interest while purporting to carry on a long-distance romance. Loyalty, monogamy and trust are already sacrificed — just decide if you'd toss honesty into the moral vacuum. We also aren't asked if we'd tell the long-distance partner about the local one — of course we wouldn't. So you've already dumped honesty, the only question is one of degree.

I'm not at all surprised, but mildly ashamed, that this stuff is aimed directly at my generation. As teens and college students, we had all the answers to morality, thank you, and didn't need governments, churches or our elders to tell us anything about it. Dow Chemical still looms as the prime example of our finger-pointing ways. I still sneer at the mention of Dow, though I use its products on a regular basis. But it was a war contractor, and we-who-knew-it-all knew that anyone who worked for, owned stock in or bought anything made by Dow Chemical was a murderer of innocent Southeast Asian babies.

We've grown up enough to realize ethics and morality isn't quite that simple, but we haven't abandoned our obsession with hair-splitting. By purest coincidence, I caught "The Big Chill" for about the 20th time on cable TV the same night I read about Scruples. There they were, the 60s kids, all grown up and still worrying about whether they were good people because they found themselves making money or contributing to endeavors (such as People magazine) they couldn't really respect. Wondering if their lives were worth living if all they could show for their work was a hit TV series or a rising chart on the wall of a brokerage. Sitting around engaged in deep conversations full of flip remarks about their jobs and the people they encountered.

That's us. Flip remarks, snap judgments, overloaded with sincerity and concern about the state of the world. And peering into our own heads all the time as if the answers were hidden there. I see all this, and yet I'm not immune. My favorite bit of monthly reading is the Ethics column in Esquire. My boss and co-workers will tell you about how quick I was to tell them about what was wrong with this paper and how slow I was to recognize what was right a few years ago. Seeing through its faults, I still watch "The Big Chill" over and over and put myself in the characters' places.

At 15, I called my mother a hypocrite for supporting the Vietnam war effort while praying it would all be over before I was of age to go. A year later, I threatened to report my father for turning down a job offer while collecting unemployment. That was serious stuff. We all laugh about it now. I suspect the same judgmental strain is part of why I chose the work I do — and a good part of why journalists don't get much respect from the rest of the world.

I also suspect that what Scruples is really about is conversation. We have a whole bunch of people running around who love serious conversation but have difficulty starting one. They'll find it thrilling to have someone else prescribe a safe topic that has overtones of depth. It also plays to our sophomore desire to judge everything and everyone. Just like I've done here in this column. Maybe I'm still too caught up in it, but somehow I'm not ready to treat ethics as a game.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I have a deal with Calvin, the mechanic. He fixes my car; I write his newspaper. The point is that I have no expertise whatsoever in mechanical matters, but like to think I know a bit about newspapers.

I truly wish, however, that I was more mechanical than I am. I ruined a riding lawnmower a few years ago by running it without oil. Mark, the lawnmower man, said I "seized" the engine.

So ever since I purchased a new riding mower, I've been watching the oil scrupulously. At least I thought I was watching it scrupulously.

Saturday I decided it was time to change the oil and proceeded to do so. After draining the oil, I checked the dipstick only to discover the machine was still filled with oil.

"Mark," I said with panic in my voice after reaching him on the phone, "I just drained all the oil out of my lawnmower, but the dipstick says it's still full. If I didn't drain the oil, what did I drain?"

Mark said he had no idea and promised to stop by on his way home from work. I showed him what I had done and he said I had done it properly and couldn't figure out why the dipstick showed the machine was still filled with oil.

"Let's take a look," he said, reaching for a dipstick that I never knew existed.

"What's that," I asked.

"It's the dipstick for the oil," he responded.

"Then what's that other dipstick?"

"That's the transmission fluid," he said.

"Ohmigod," I groaned. "That's where I've been putting the oil. I've never put oil in the oil thing. I've been putting it in the transmission fluid."

Mark smiled gently and checked the dipstick for the transmission fluid. "Yup," he said. "It does look a little oily down there."

"It's probably my fault," he added, demonstrating the patience bred of dealing with other mechanical illiterates. "I should have told you not to put the oil in the transmission fluid."

Patient care at state hospital is called 'inadequate'

To the Editor:
I am writing you concerning the Michigan Mental Health System and in particular the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and the lack of care shown to the patients in this state's mental health system.

My sister has been under the care of the Northville State Hospital for the past eight months. During this time I have observed many instances of inadequate care.

The first sign that adequate care was not being given to my sister was in the deterioration of her personal hygiene and appearance. I later discovered that the patients were permitted to shower twice a week, and then only if adequate staff was on duty. More times than not this proved not to be the case.

The hospital itself is in a state of extreme neglect. The sanitary conditions of this facility could easily be compared to that of the mental hospitals in the early 20th century. Bedding, clothing, floors and walls have remained shockingly filthy since my sister was first admitted to this state run facility. Toilet paper and personal hygiene items are either not available or not given to the patients.

Furthermore, weaker patients are subject to physical abuse by the more dominant patients placed on the same ward. Theft of personal belongings is an everyday occurrence. The staff seems to look the other way.

Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital is supposed to be just that, a hospital, but the state of affairs in this facility more closely resemble those found in the state prison system.

Through talking to the families and past and present employees of the state facility, I have learned that therapists visit the patients on an average of only one time per week. The same is true of the medical staff. In my opinion this does not constitute adequate psychological care for these people with serious mental illnesses.

Medication is prescribed more for the benefit of the staff than for the benefit of the patients. Dangerous drugs such as Thorazine are routinely administered to the patients as a means of quieting them. If a patient does not respond exactly as the ward staff—who are in most cases not health care professionals—feel they should respond, reports are written to indicate the patient is abusive and unresponsive to treatment and that more medication may be needed. These drugs were not developed as a way of making the staff work easier, but as a therapeutic aid to be used by a doctor in conjunction with counseling with the foremost goal being the restoration of the patients' mental health.

The main goal of a hospital and of its doctors is to restore the patients' health. This proves to be the case in most hospitals. But Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital could not even pass the minimum requirements to be accredited as a hospital by the state which runs it. This fact proves the blatant disregard that the state has shown toward the mentally ill. How can this state operate a facility that they say does not even meet the minimum requirements for accreditation?

I firmly believe that it is time for the state legislature to investigate the problems in this and other state-run facilities. This state's law makers have a responsibility to the patients of this state. If our state government can not find it in their hearts to give the same protection to these people—that are given to any other citizen in this state, then maybe we should think about not sending them back to Lansing when they are next up for re-election. Most of these people are not in these state hospitals by their own choosing; so we must take every precaution to make sure that their human and civil rights are protected.

Family gave assistance at scene of hit-and-run

To the Editor:
It was my family who aided the lady (Ruby Roudabush) when she was in the hit and run accident on June 13, at Eight Mile and Taft.

We were very glad to help and pleased to hear she was not seriously hurt. My sons tried to catch the offender but were unsuccessful.

My husband was a victim of a similar accident 12 years ago on Eight Mile and the Northland Overpass. We were never able to thank the two black men who came to his aid; so in a way we're repaying a kindness. Also, thanks to the men in the Eight-Taft Auto Service for letting me use their phone.

Woman who lost cane hopes for its return

To the Editor:
Fourth of July was not completely a cause for celebration for an elderly, handicapped lady in our community.

It was a hot afternoon, so on her way to her pharmacy for medication she stopped briefly at the well on North Main Street for some cool water for her toy poodle who came along for the ride.

Only upon reaching town did she realize she had left her chrome four-footed walking cane standing beside the well. She immediately drove back to retrieve it, only to find it gone.

She had begun to realize no one would have known where to return it and is now appealing to the finder to take it to the Chamber of Commerce on South Main or the Northville Police Department who will see that she gets it back.

Since she needs the cane badly, she would be most grateful.

Niemi s thank donors

To the Editor:
The family of Robert W. Niemi wishes to thank the Class of 1959 for its generous contribution to the R.W.N. Scholarship Fund. We trust the $500 annual, on-going Fund will be a means of helping worthy N.H.S. students to further their education.

Although the Fund was established in Bob's memory, please feel its continuity is a tribute to the 1959 Class spirit that always prevailed through the 13 years he attended Northville Schools.

LWV urges campaign for civil rights bill

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters urges your readers to contact their Representatives and Senators now and tell them to vote for the Civil Rights Restoration Act without substantive or weakening amendments. Soon they will vote on a very vital piece of legislation—the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1985 (H.R. 700 in the House and S. 431 in the Senate). The League of Women Voters views the passage of this bill as a top legislative priority.

Civil rights laws are based on the premise that no federal funds should be used to support discrimination. This is only simple justice and it began with the Civil Rights Act of 1964. Simple justice was again the issue when Title IX of the Education Amendments was passed by Congress in 1972 prohibiting discrimination in education based on sex. This was followed in 1973 by the Rehabilitation Act prohibiting discrimination based on disability and then the Age Discrimination Act of 1975.

The Supreme Court's 1984 Grove City College v. Bell decision significantly weakened these several key civil rights statutes. In Grove City, the Supreme Court ruled that the scope of Title IX is much narrower—that it covers only those programs or activities specifically earmarked to receive federal funds. The Supreme Court applied Grove City reasoning in a Sec. 504 case (Rehabilitation Act), and the Reagan Administration has announced its position that the narrow decision applies to Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Age Discrimination Act.

The Civil Rights Restoration Act would counter the Grove City decision by making it clear that the intent of Congress is to prohibit any form of federally subsidized discrimination. The Civil Rights Restoration Act would not expand any of these laws but as its title says would restore them to their original aim and purpose to assure that no taxpayer's money is used to fund discriminatory activities.

Discrimination financed by taxpayers must be stopped in this country. It is crucial that all Congressional members be notified of your support of the Civil Rights Restoration Act of 1985 without substantive amendments. The League of Women Voters encourages citizens to act now.

Sincerely,
Cynthia Fanslow, President
League of Women Voters

Dog poisoning alleged

To the Editor:

Edenderry and all other Northville people who are living nearby should be aware that an Edenderry resident has put out peanut butter flavored poison to kill chipmunks. This man has no fence and the poison has been carried from his property by sick animals.

The poison is also killing dogs, which may suggest something about the real intended target of the poison.

The poison is said to be effective on creatures up to 30 pounds, which would be an unusually large chipmunk—almost dog-sized (or possibly the size of a small child). Which further suggests a lack of sound judgment.

Fortunately, no children are known to have been injured.
E.G. O'Brien

EDITOR'S NOTE: Northville Township police are investigating the alleged poisoning incident related in the above letter. According to the police report, the poison has been removed from the yard. The investigation is based on reports from the O'Brien family—who police asked that the owners of any other dogs believed to have been harmed by the poison contact township police at 349-9400. Record reporters are gathering information for a more detailed account of the incident for next week's editions.

Detroit Federal plans tabled until August 6

City planners have put on hold preliminary plans for two new buildings off North Center Street downtown just north of Dunlap.

The plans were submitted by developers representing Detroit Federal Savings. The savings and loan association is seeking to build a drive-through branch similar in use, though somewhat different in appearance, to the Manufacturer's Bank branch at Dunlap and Hutton at the east end of the block.

Ron Nino, city planning consultant, said the project will "complement the downtown area significantly."

Architects for the proposed project added they "hope to blend the building to the historical flavor of Northville."

The site plan is a two-part proposal providing for installation of a remote teller adjacent to the building and construction of a retail building for small stores, also adjacent to the savings and loan.

The preliminary site plan was delayed due to specific concerns about traffic flow through the area, and a misunderstanding on the part of developers on setback requirements under the city zoning ordinance. The setbacks, it was noted, should accommodate Center Street's eventual widening by eight to 10 feet.

Planning Commissioner Jim Cutler said he was extremely concerned about the traffic flow. According to Cutler, vehicles coming to the building from Randolph would "speed" into the proposed parking lot and create a traffic hazard.

Board members recommended the site plans be sent to City Manager Steven Walters and Police Chief Rodney Cannon for their opinions.

With Arbor Drugs selling most of its parking lot for the proposed project, planning board members also recommended that the city manager review the parking situation to make sure Arbor Drugs can still meet its parking requirement according to the city ordinance.

At the next board meeting, August 6, commissioners expect to review amended preliminary and final site plans for the proposed development.

In other business at last week's meeting, commissioners approved site plans for the renovation of Our Lady of Victory Church, 770 Thayer.

The plans include improving parking arrangements by creating more spaces and establishing a valet-type parking service. Under the renovation project, the church also will be expanded to increase church capacity.

According to the architect, the renovation will "make the building more appealing in conjunction with the neighborhood."

The renovation also will beautify the church property as trees and gardening islands are added around the property.

Victims rights legislation backed by county officials

The laws of Michigan soon will award new rights to a growing number of people who are victims of crime.

In a series of bills signed by Governor James Blanchard called the Crime Victims Rights Act, victims were assured that the criminal justice system no longer would exclude the innocent while attempting to punish the guilty.

State Representative William Van Regenmorter (R-Jenison), one of the bills' three sponsors, said the system has made victims feel "ignored," or worse, "in the way." It will be corrected to make victims partners along with prosecutors, police and judges, he said.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson called the law "a welcomed addition."

He added, however, that much of what the law requires has been ongoing in the Oakland courts. "We've been working daily with the witnesses and victims subpoenaed for trial," said Patterson. "We answer their questions."

Over all, he said the law allows for "treating victims with renewed respect for the first time in years."

Oakland County Sheriff John Nichols called the legislation "a step in the right direction."

The legislation includes protections which will assure that victims of felonies and high misdemeanors will be kept informed of the prosecution of offenders, given certain protections against harassment and assured a greater chance of restitution for their losses.

The package takes effect in 90 days. Some highlights of the package:

- Authorities will be required to serve timely notices to crime victims at several stages of the arrest and conviction of those who injured them.

- Notices will be made within 24 hours of the suspect's arrest; victims will be apprised of all court hearings and plea-bargaining arrangements; and they will be alerted when the convicted person is released from jail. The prosecutor "must sit down and discuss with the victim" the disposition of the case, such as when it plans to plea bargain, before it happens, Van Regenmorter said.

- The victim also must be notified of changes in the convicted person's security or confinement, such as an escape or community placement.

- Victims will be allowed to address pre-sentencing investigation, either in person or by writing, to present their side of the story and the crime's effect on their lives. The purpose is to avoid victims' feeling "left out" of the last step in the prosecution of their assailants.

- For the protection of victims, the court will be required to house victims and the accused in separate waiting rooms before the start of the hearings. And if the victim suffers harassment by the accused, prosecutors can petition for bond revocations to keep the accused in jail while awaiting court hearings.

- The victim also has a right to remain in the courtroom throughout the course of the trial and court hearings. A victim who also is scheduled to testify may be barred from the courtroom only before testifying.

- An extensive portion of the package addresses restitution of damages and losses to the victim, placing much of the responsibility on the judges to see that the victim is "made whole."

Judges have been restricted so far in requiring restitution, said Van Regenmorter. "Our estimates are that in 15-40 percent of the cases meaningful restitution will be made," he said.

Services in place of a money exchange may be required, according to one provision. Restitution can be made part of the conditions of parole.

- There's even a so-called "Son of Sam" provision to prevent accused criminals from profiting from their misdeeds, said Van Regenmorter. If a convicted criminal sold his story to the media, for example, any resulting earnings would be turned over to the victim as restitution and to the state for payment on his "room and board" during incarceration. Half of any remaining would be directed to the Michigan Crime Victims Compensation Fund.

"So, the defendant would get very little if anything," the lawmaker said.

It was because of the upcoming legislation that Patterson said his staff organized a victims' assistance program one month ago. The program relies heavily on a 22-member volunteer staff to help victims through sometimes complex court proceedings.

So far, a program director has not been hired. Only two other paid staff members are proposed. They would be classified as paralegal assistants, Patterson said. In addition to hiring the staff, he said he is working with the county executive's office at this time to find office space.

In Wayne County, one public official said the new legislation needed to go further in support of victims, however.

Wayne County Sheriff Robert Ficano said he supports legislation that would allow videotaped testimony of sensitive victims, such as children in sexual abuse cases.

Classic wheels make a pit stop on Main Street

By B.J. MARTIN

Was that really a white 1960 Thunderbird convertible with a sea-green interior?

Could that have been a '57 Chrysler Imperial rag-top? A chrome-encased '39 Cadillac with a sunroof? All parked last Thursday in downtown Northville, one after the other like a Louvre on wheels?

These cars didn't have designers; they had architects. And they had admiring pedestrians wondering, "What were they doing here on Main Street?"

"This is the fourth year of the Chrome Glidden Tour," explained Belleville's Don Bluhm, who is directing the classic car owners' club 1985 tour. "Last year we toured Colorado, the year before that, South Dakota, and before that, Ohio. This year we decided to Say Yes to Michigan."

The Chrome Glidden Tour is the descendant of the original Glidden Tours, which date back to 1906. The original, sponsored by one Charles Glidden, was conceived as a chance to prove the durability of the automobile. Until 1912, he sponsored an annual cross-country race to promote the new-fangled transportation.

The Antique Automobile Club of America revived the Glidden Tour in 1946, while retaining the year and model cars that made the original tours. Soon afterwards, the group alternated sponsorship of the event with the Veterans Motor Car Collectors Association (VCMCC) every other year. Eventually the VCMCC took over all the tours.

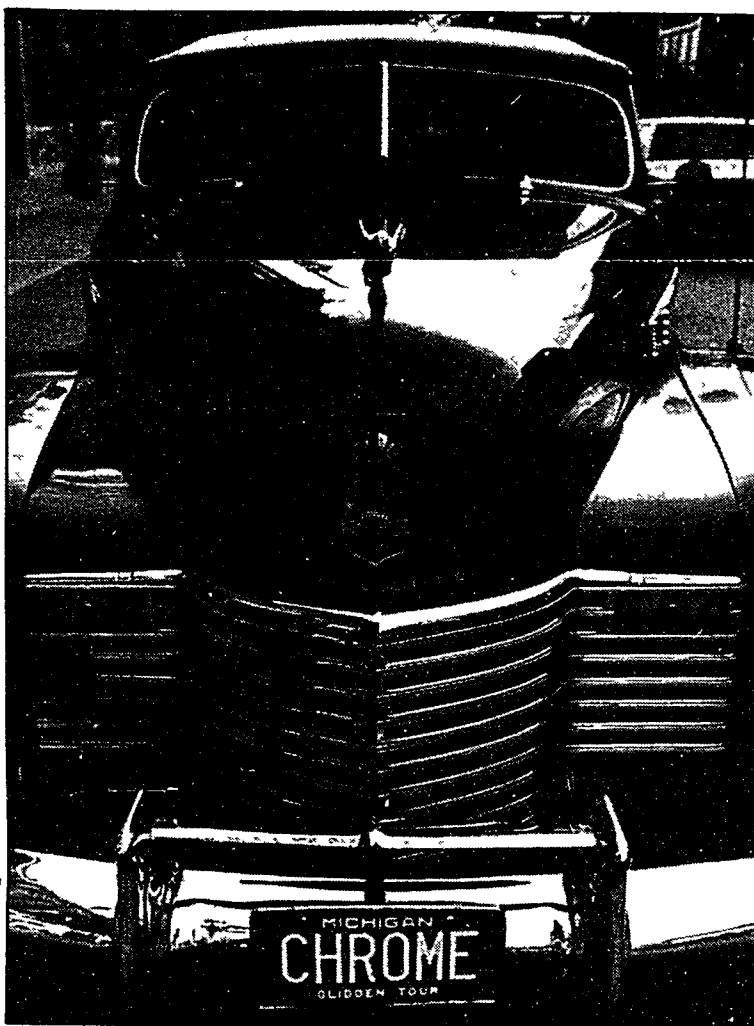

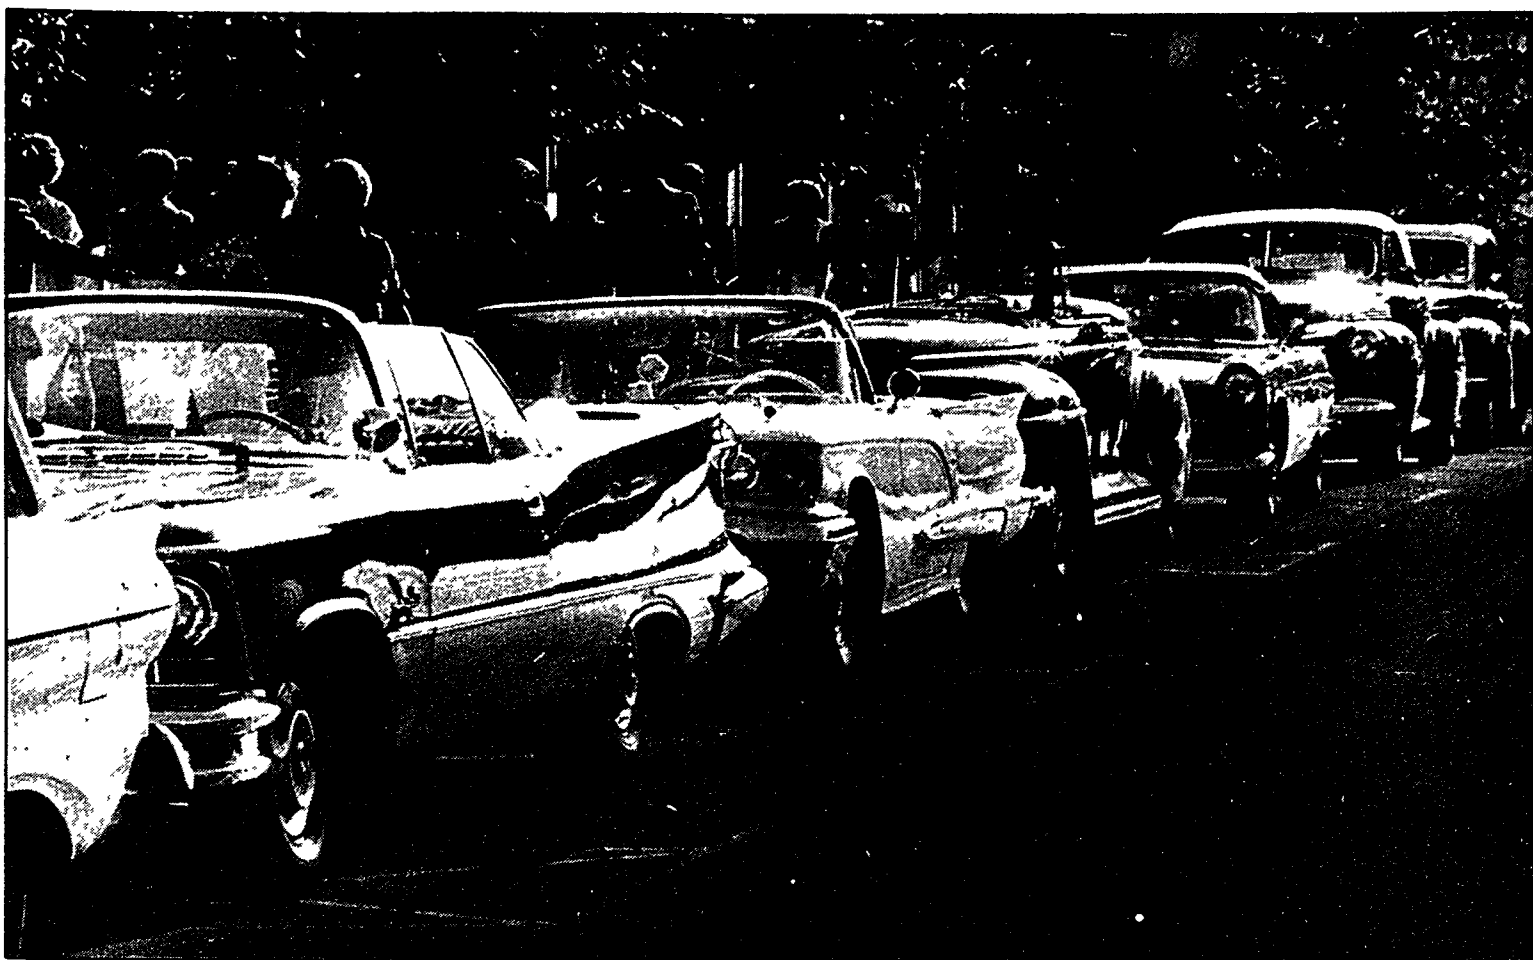

"There was a need to update the event somewhat," said Bluhm, director of computer services for Detroit Edison. "Usually the line we draw is cars at least 25 years old to date, and this year they ran as far back as 1935."

Among the 47 car owners participating on this year's tour are individuals from Utah, West Virginia, South Dakota, Indiana, Ohio, Iowa and Colorado. Last week they visited southeast Michigan locations like Frankenmuth, Cranbrook in Bloomfield Hills and the GM plant in Lake Orion. And last Thursday, at Bluhm's suggestion, a contingent gathered to dine at a favorite restaurant of Bluhm's, Genitti's.

"I thought they'd like to be treated to something like that," added Bluhm, who brought his black '39 Cadillac. "It was bought on a $78 option in 1939," he chuckled. "They only made 224 of them."

The national VMCCA, in addition to arranging the annual tour, also produces a regular publication for club owners. But most of the organization's activities take place through local chapters. Besides the Dearborn-based Great Lakes chapter which sponsored this year's tour, there are VMCCA in Brighton and Detroit, each of which sponsors its own monthly meetings, tours, mystery trips and social events.

For additional information about the Veterans Motor Car Collectors Association, write to VMCCA Secretary Dr. William Donze, 1884 Pearl Road, Strongsville, OH 44136.

GLADDENED BY GLIDDEN — Northville pedestrians were treated to a small-scale auto show Thursday evening as cars from the 1985 Chrome Glidden Tour settled on Main Street as owners dined downtown. Participants came from across the United States for this year's tour through southeastern Michigan, sponsored by the Dearborn chapter of the Veterans Motor Car Collectors Association. And what motor cars — at left, a 1939 Cadillac with a sun roof (of course), immediately above, a 1960 Ford Thunderbird convertible. Record photos by B.J. Martin.

Growing carpet company expands into New Hudson

By THERESE PETERSMARK

As one drives through New Hudson via Milford Road these days, it has become very difficult to avoid staring at the building which sits on over 10 acres of land near Interstate 96.

That monstrous new facility, located at 31250 Milford Road just off I-96, belongs to D.E. McNabb Carpet, a national company whose size is not misleading.

According to Douglas McNabb, president of D.E. McNabb Carpet, the business specializes in providing carpet for trade shows both nationally and internationally and then turns around and sells the used carpet to customers who want more affordable prices.

They also sell new carpet to buyers at what McNabb describes as very reasonable prices and have a total of over 5,000 rolls in stock.

McNabb said the size of the new building helped him decide to move the business out of its previous Southfield location.

"This building is twice as large," McNabb said. "We needed a larger building and a place for more parking."

McNabb added that since the company opened a few weeks ago, business has been increasing.

According to Kelly Beguhn, office manager at D.E. McNabb Carpet, the business is expanding and they thought there was a market out in the Milford area because of its location right off the expressway.

Even though D.E. McNabb's Carpet may be new to the area, it certainly isn't new to the business world. D.E. McNabb Carpet has been providing a place for people to walk on for over 30

"We're one of the few suppliers in the world for trade shows and auto show carpeting. After we install it, we maintain the carpeting and vacuum it throughout the show. We take care of everything."

— Douglas McNabb, president

The business got started when Douglas McNabb's father, Donald McNabb, also owner and chairman of the company, decided that providing carpet for trade shows in particular would be a profitable thing to do. And he couldn't have been more right.

Not only did McNabb open a store that focuses its business on trade shows, but he opened a store that is the only one of its type in the country.

"We're one of the few suppliers in the world for trade shows and auto show carpeting," McNabb said.

Last week D.E. McNabb Carpet did a show on Milford's General Motor Proving Grounds.

Some of the other events the company has recently provided carpeting for include the 1985 Detroit Auto Show as well as the auto shows in Chicago, New York and Los Angeles.

The company also has provided carpeting for General Motors' display at the Epcot Center at Walt Disney World in Florida.

McNabb also said that some of the overseas countries the business has worked on are as far away as Germany, Brussels and Japan.

D.E. McNabb Carpet doesn't just drop off a roll of carpeting at trade shows and leave. They provide a type of full service to its customers.

"After we install it, we maintain the carpeting and vacuum it throughout the show," McNabb said. "We take care of everything."

McNabb added that the carpeting, both in auto shows and in retail sales, is made to the customer's specifications. The main office in New Hudson will then tell the makers exactly how the buyer wants it. He said that they die colors to suit the taste of the customer.

According to McNabb, what the company sells isn't just the tangible roll of carpeting.

"We sell a service mainly. It's a very unique business," McNabb said.

Aside from the size of its building, when referring to the business the word "big" is one that may enter one's mind.

President Douglas McNabb and Office Manager Kelly Beguhn wade through some inventory

McNabb said that the company employs about 200 people at its current location and deals in "hundreds of thousands of yards of carpeting each year."

As far as the future is concerned, McNabb would like to see even more carpeting being put to use. The company hopes to have more carpeting shipped overseas, open more office locations in the United States and also move the business to the eastern part of the country.

But on a local level, McNabb said the retail business is still an important part of the company.

"Retail business is very important. A lot of our business is gained from repeat customers or by word of mouth," McNabb said.

McNabb also said the "word-of-mouth" part of the business is the reason he doesn't do much advertising. D.E. McNabb Carpet has received some publicity through advertising which they started last week.

"We like to see people spend what they can afford and get good quality," McNabb said. "We encourage people to come in and browse."

Buyers or browsers can find the company opened for business daily. Store hours are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. The exceptions are on Thursdays when the hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Intelligent mortgage planning can save thousands of dollars

Paying off a mortgage quickly is becoming more popular among home owners and home buyers. An estimated 10 to 20 percent of home buyers are choosing 15-year mortgages, and some lenders are beginning to offer biweekly mortgages.

In addition, some home owners are "paying ahead" on conventional mortgages.

Shortened terms on a mortgage can save you tens of thousands of dollars in interest, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs. Shorter-term financing is important to home buyers who must choose among the hundreds of mortgages available, and it may also bring savings to those paying off a mortgage.

How it works: Shorter-term financing makes it less expensive to pay off your mortgage because it chips away quicker at your principal and fights interest from accumulating.

"The mathematics of shorter-term financing are basic, but astonishing," says Robert F. Richter, chairman of the American Institute of CPAs' (AICPA) Real Estate Committee. The typical 15-year $100,000 mortgage currently "available" saves a home buyer $154,000 over a 30-year conventional mortgage.

Why it works: Because it takes years of mortgage payments to make a dent in the amount you owe, shorter-term financing saves you money. Take a look at the amounts in principal and interest you pay over the life of a mortgage. With a 30-year $100,000 mortgage, assuming a 12 percent interest rate, your monthly payment is $1,029, but $1,000 of your first payment goes for interest on your loan. Only $29 of that first payment nibbles at the $100,000 principal.

Ten years hence — after 120 payments — $935 of your monthly payment is for interest and $94 goes for the principal. Finally, in the 25th year of this 30-year mortgage, after 292 payments, the majority of your monthly payment, $518, will go toward principal, while $511 will pay interest charges.

Shorter-term financing, say the CPAs, cancels the worst effects that interest accumulation has on mortgages. A survey of your options can save you money.

Paying ahead: If you are paying a mortgage, ask your lender if there is a penalty for prepaying your mortgage. If not, compare the pay-ahead option with the range of investment options open to you.

"Paying ahead on a 10 percent mortgage amounts roughly to investing in something with a 10 percent return," said Richter. If you have a 10 percent mortgage, you should opt for paying ahead only if you cannot get better than a 10 percent return elsewhere.

When comparing your mortgage with an array of investment options, keep its poor liquidity in mind. Once you pay ahead on your mortgage, it's expensive to get the cash back should you need it. Tapping equity you've built up in a home can often incur a blizzard of refinancing costs.

Biweekly mortgages: An import from Canada, biweekly mortgages are beginning to show up at some neighborhood mortgage lenders. Biweekly mortgage payments are new and somewhat different. Michael Wilson, who tracks mortgage trends for the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, says he doesn't yet know how many lenders are offering this method of paying a mortgage.

Payments on a biweekly mortgage are usually made electronically. Commonly, a borrower's paycheck is directly deposited in a checking account every two weeks and the account is automatically debited for the mortgage payment.

According to Richter, the borrower saves by making 26 payments a year, one every two weeks. This is quite a bit different from making two payments a month, which would result in only 24 annual payments. By making payments biweekly and making the extra two annual payments, principal accumulates at a faster rate and interest accumulates at a slower rate. It results in substantial savings.

The cost of a 30-year conventional $100,000 mortgage, assuming the prevailing 13 percent interest rate, is $1,106 per month. With a biweekly mortgage, assuming the same terms, your payment would be $553 every two weeks. You save $138,284 over the life of the mortgage, and the mortgage is paid off in about 18 years instead of the full 30-year term.

Fifteen-year mortgages: This is emerging as a popular financing method. "With a 15-year mortgage, a home buyer saves on the interest because of the shorter term," said Richter. "But you also should be able to find a lower financing rate." You may be able to get a discount of one-half percent below the prevailing 13 percent rate for a fixed-rate mortgage.

To qualify for a biweekly or a 15-year mortgage, your monthly housing costs generally may not exceed 28 percent of your gross income and your total long-term debt may not account for more than 33 percent of your gross income. This may require some strict budgeting, but the savings can make it worthwhile. If you need help deciding whether this is the right option for you, contact your local CPA.

CELESTE MILLER

JOHN BOCK

CELESTE MILLER of Novi has been elected Vice president of Finance and Marketing by the Michigan Society of Instructional Technology, a chapter of the National Society for Performance and Instruction.

Miller is a previous recipient of the Distinguished Woman of the Year Award by the Novi Business and Professional Women's Club. She currently serves as first vice president of the America Society for Training and Development.

Locally, Miller was a candidate for the Oakland County Commission (24th District). She was voter service chairperson of the League of Women Voters and served on the Novi Parks and Recreation Citizen Advisory Committee for Bike Trails and Park Land Acquisition.

She is employed as a training supervisor at Electronic Data Systems of Bloomfield Hills, where she supervises the design of training material for state-of-the-art systems. Miller recently administered a project which produced documentation for computer systems used in the automation of GM Truck and Bus plants producing the new GMT-400 pickup truck.

JOHN BOCK, president of Bock & Associates, has been elected president of the Detroit chapter of the Public Relations Society of America for 1985-86.

A Northville resident, Bock was formerly vice president of public affairs for American Natural Resources.

PRSA Detroit is one of the largest in the national organization which includes 12,000 members in more than 90 chapters.

The Detroit Chapter is dedicated to advancing the stature of the public relations practitioner and the interests of the profession.

JOHN GROSS, sports reporter for WXYZ-TV, has been elected vice president of the Professional Speakers Association of Michigan. Gross lives with his wife and two children in Novi.

In addition to his sports beat, Gross appears on the station's "Good Afternoon Detroit" twice a week with Marilyn Turner and John Kelly. He won a Detroit Emmy Award for his series, "Where the Action Is." He also has won several United Press International awards for his sports coverage.

A native of Waterloo, Iowa, Gross received his BS degree from Wartburg College in Waverly, Iowa. Prior to joining WXYZ-TV, he was with KXAS-TV in Dallas-Fort Worth.

CADILLAC ASPHALT Paving Company of Novi was the low bidder on a major project of the Michigan Department of Transportation — the reconstruction of 3.5 miles of US-24 (Telegraph Road) in Dearborn and Dearborn Heights.

Cadillac's low bid of $4,048,130 announced June 24 must be approved by the State Administrative Board.

CPAs offer tips for investment planning

Money Management

Investing has become trickier in the 1980s, and a comprehensive approach has developed that deals effectively with the new financial environment, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Over the past few years, the pace of financial change has been furious, complicating financial decisions for the average investor. Bank deregulation has unleashed a plethora of new financial products from which to choose. Interest rates lack the long-term stability they once had and new laws continue to flow out of Washington.

What's an investor to do? According to CPAs, you find some answers by designing an investment plan and incorporating it into an overall financial strategy.

Following are some ideas on how to lay the groundwork for your investment plan.

• Set your goals. "A lot of people invest blindly," says Suzanne McGrath, a CPA and investment advisor. "They don't invest with an eye toward their personal goals or plan their investments to fit in with their tax bracket and overall financial picture."

Will your investment income go toward paying your rent or mortgage? Are some of your investments purely speculative? Or are you investing in your child's education?

In each case, your investment should be tied to your reason for investing. Married couples should discuss shared financial goals. To help narrow your investment choices, list your goals in order of importance.

• Match goals with investments. You'll want to match the maturity, risk, yield and tax implication of an investment against your goals. Consider the case of a married couple who want to fund their seven-year-old's college education. The couple know they have a 10-year time-frame in which to achieve their goal. They agree that their goal precludes high-risk investing. Once this kind of preliminary evaluation is completed, you can narrow down your investment options still further.

• Evaluate your investment options. "Every investment has specific benefits and drawbacks," says Howard Safer of the American Institute of CPAs' Personal Financial Planning Committee. "That means people should chart the pluses and minuses of each investment option."

Safer suggests evaluating investments and goals based upon four criteria — safety of principal, cash flow, appreciation and tax implications. "Each of the criteria should be weighed on a scale from one to five, with the total not exceeding 10," says Safer. "Then compare how you rate each investment and how the criteria match the ratings of your goals."

Here's how this evaluation grid would work in the case of the young couple who want to fund their child's education. In one column they'd rate their goals for safety of principal, cash flow, appreciation and tax benefits. Across the top of the grid, they would rate two investments between which they are trying to decide. Let's suppose they are trying to choose between a zero coupon bond that would be purchased in their child's name and a dividend-paying mutual fund that is income-oriented.

In this case, the evaluation grid might help the couple decide that the zero coupon bond is a better investment for meeting their goal of financing their child's education. Safety of principal and appreciation, their most important goals, are both satisfied by the relatively secure bond investment. The evaluation grid allows them to see this clearly.

Drawing up a system for evaluation investment options is just one of the factors in investment planning.

Your investments should be re-evaluated annually, at the very least, to determine if you are on the right track. You may want to contact a CPA for help.

Marriott launches expansion in Metro Detroit

Construction of three Courtyard by Marriott hotels is underway in the metropolitan Detroit area. And more are expected over the next two to three years.

By early 1986, Courtyard by Marriott hotels are expected to be opened in Troy, Southfield and Warren. Each hotel will employ about 50 people.

Bradford Bryan, vice president and general manager of Courtyard by Marriott, said Troy, Southfield and Warren are all growing, thriving communities "and Courtyard is excited to become a part of them."

Marriott plans to open five to seven additional Courtyard hotels in the greater Detroit area over the next two to three years, company officials said.

Each hotel is located on about 4.5 acres and will have 148 rooms. Designed to resemble modern country inns, the hotels will feature terraced grounds and a central courtyard with swimming pool and social areas.

Guest rooms — the majority with king-sized beds — feature large work desks, in-room coffee service and remote control cable television. A 98-seat restaurant and lounge will be located in the lobby of each hotel.

Rates will average between $40 and $60 per night. The Courtyard by Marriott concept was first tested in Georgia in 1983-84. Marriott Corporation announced plans in mid-1984 to develop a chain of Courtyard by Marriott hotels.

By the mid-1990s, Marriott plans to have more than 300 Courtyard properties with more than 30,000 rooms nationwide. The company plans initially to develop and operate all Courtyard hotels internally.

Based in Washington D.C., Marriott Corporation is a $4-billion company in diversified lodging and food service businesses. In addition to Courtyard, the company operates 143 Marriott hotels and resorts in the United States, Central America, the Caribbean, Europe and the Middle East.

Local woman publishes psychiatric nursing text

A Northville woman is co-author of a "one-stop" reference book for psychiatric nursing administrators.

Christina L.S. Evans of Northville co-authored the book with Sharon K. Lewis. Both are administrators at Kingswood Hospital. Evans is assistant director of nursing, while Lewis is administrative assistant for professional services.

"Nursing Administration of Psychiatric-Mental Health Care" (Apen Systems) is the first reference written specifically for nurse administrators in psychiatric settings, said Lewis. "For every standard nursing administration function, like budget planning, staff motivation and education, psychiatric nursing presents complications requiring special solutions."

In the book, the authors, both certified nurse administrators, have tried to eliminate the need for juggling several manuals by writing a comprehensive nursing administration text that focuses on psychiatric nursing.

"We know what it's like to have to sort through generalized manuals and then compare them to specific psychiatric handbooks to develop policies and procedures for various psychiatric nursing situations," explained Evans.

The authors have tried to save psychiatric nursing administrators time not only by directing a book to their specific needs, but also by providing charts, questionnaires and forms that already have been shown to be useful.

Among the subjects covered, with special attention given to th psychiatric-mental health setting, are the role and function of power, licensing and accreditation, legal issues, departmental planning, labor relations, budgetary planning, staff qualifications and staffing needs, burnout, quality assurance, documentation systems and research.

Before being named Kingswood's administrative assistant for professional services, Lewis had been the hospital's director of nursing.

She serves on the board of directors for the Detroit Area Association of Nurse Administrators as chairperson of its Program and Education Committee and is first vice-chairperson of the Michigan Nurses Association Division on Psychiatric-Mental Health Nursing Practice.

In addition to serving as Kingswood's assistant director of nursing, Evans develops conferences, the hospital's Nursing Department presents for the southeastern Michigan nursing community. She also has been an instructor on the faculty of the Wayne State University College of Nursing.

She currently chairs the Michigan Nurses Association Division on Psychiatric-Mental Health Nursing Practice, serves on the American Nurses Association Council on Nursing Administration, and the Program and Education Committee of the Greater Detroit Area Association of Nurse Administrators.

Kingswood is a 100-bed psychiatric hospital offering short-term acute care for adults and adolescents. It is located on Eight Mile in Ferndale.

Realtors report increase in home resales

Predictions by Metro MLS late last year that 1985 would see a 20 percent gain in home resales appear to be coming true as the multiple listing organization posted first half results.

At the end of June, sales by Metro MLS members had reached 8,900, a 19.3 percent gain from a year earlier. While down nearly 11 percent from a strong May, June sales showed a 34 percent jump from 1984.

"If mortgage interest rates continue near present levels, we should end the year with at least 17,000 sales," said Metro MLS President, Robert F. Craver. "Largely dependent on federal fiscal policy, a number of factors could intervene, but we are standing by our prediction."

Craver noted that higher sales were being accomplished in the face of a rising price trend that has pushed the 1985 average in the area covered by its members to $61,532. This is up 5.6 percent from the $58,248 last year.

"Compared to other sections of the country, even our June average of $62,612 represents bargain housing," he stated. "This should be a decided plus in helping attract new businesses to the state."

Tempering the increased sales picture presented by Metro MLS is a 16 percent drop in listings during the first half of the year. In addition to higher sales, Craver credited improved employment for lower listings.

"Sellers who remain in the market are finding much faster movement this year," he said. "In June, our sales to listing ratio was above 48 percent compared to about 30 a year ago. After reaching a low of less than 14 percent in 1982, this shows how far this market has come."

The Metro MLS statistics showed 1985 sales improvement over a broad area and through a wide range of prices. Communities showing the highest sales, the increase from a year ago and average price in June, respectively, included Livonia, 946, 210, $64,281; Farmington/Farmington Hills, 615, 106, $87,835; Dearborn, 562, 77, $54,009; Redford Township, 509, 131, $42,378; Southfield, 502, 96, $71,162; Westland, 482, 48, $42,018; Canton Township, 466, 120, $66,785; and West Bloomfield Township/Orchard Lake, 415, 52, $112,120.

State obstetricians cite high liability premiums

Michigan women soon may not find an obstetrician to deliver their babies, the Michigan State Medical Society reports.

More than half the state's certified obstetricians report they are ending their delivery of babies due to skyrocketing professional liability lawsuits, settlements and insurance premiums.

Fifty-two percent of the 560 members of the Michigan Section, American College of Obstetrics and Gynecology (ACOG), responded to a recent survey that they have stopped delivering babies or plan to do so soon. Detroit physicians appear to be leading the trend.

The survey measured the magnitude and potential impact of the professional liability insurance problem among members of the Michigan Section. It was conducted by Michigan State University professor Martin Block, Ph.D., for the Michigan State Medical Society (MSMS) and the Michigan Section, ACOG.

Two-thirds of the physicians responding to the survey rated professional liability as the most severe of their medical practice problems. A similar percentage of the doctors had been sued in the past five years.

Richard J. McMurray, MD, Flint, MSMS president and an obstetrician/gynecologist, and Lloyd A. Kammeraad, MD, Grand Rapids, president, Michigan section, ACOG, expressed concern.

"Events in obstetrical care are on a collision course to catastrophe," said Dr. Kammeraad. "Physicians can't absorb any more professional liability costs. They are being forced to give up obstetrics."

"The affordability issue has changed to an accessibility issue," said Dr. McMurray.

"The people who lose are going to be the people of Michigan," he continued. "Doctors are not going to be able to provide care because they don't have insurance, or because they feel they can't take the risk."

Physicians responding to the survey ranked the lack of a limit on potential liability awards as the worst of their liability-related problems. This was followed by professional liability insurance premiums and the threat of a lawsuit.

The average professional liability premium for obstetricians this year is over $26,000, which is 22 percent of their practice expenses.

The average obstetrician's 1985 premium is nearly double last year's, when insurance premiums were 15 percent of the physicians' costs.

Michigan obstetricians had experienced a 30 percent increase in their 1984 premiums.

If premiums continue to climb at great rates, nearly all Michigan obstetricians say they will stop delivering babies, and devote their practices to other aspects of medical care.

Most plan to pass their costs on to the patient. And many report they have ordered more tests as a result of the current medical-legal environment. About half of those reporting say they now avoid "high risk" patients, or those who might have difficult deliveries.

NBD offering workshops for 'do-it-yourselfers'

Years ago a homeowner might turn to his bank to help finance home repairs. Today homeowners also can find do-it-yourself workshops through their bank — if their bank is National Bank of Detroit.

"Performing simple home repairs can be frustrating and time-consuming for those who lack the skills, while having the repairs done professionally can be expensive," NBD officials explain.

That is why NBD has introduced the NBD Do-It-Yourself Workshops, offering free home fix-up and safety instruction to residents, block clubs and church groups, as well as homeowner and other community associations.

Any individual or organization that can gather a group of 15 or more people can set up a workshop or series of workshops. The two-hour sessions are conducted by Steve Leggat, a qualified home improvement instructor, at the site and time of the host group's choosing between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m., weekdays and also on some weekends. Topics covered in the sessions include plumbing, home security, weatherization, electrical repair and other relevant subjects requested.

NBD has a brochure and additional information which is available by calling Val Brown of NBD at 225-1598 during regular office hours.

With 8.8% financing, your monthly payments can be as low as $151.67 (over 60 months, with $2000 down, based on sticker price, excluding tax). Ask your dealer for his price and terms.

Leasing Facts

Monthly lease payment: $ 136.58
48 monthly payments (total): 6,555.84
Cash down payment (or trade equity): $50.00
Refundable security deposit: 150.00

No option to buy unless price is agreed upon at lease expiration. You pay for excess wear & tear and 8¢ per mile over 10,000 miles. First month's payment down, pre-paid security deposit, tax, license & title fees due in advance. Lease subject to credit approval & insurability. These are typical payment terms based on sticker price. Ask dealer for his vehicle selection and terms.

A Note Just for You

This is about my family
One of the people is my dad
He is nice
My mom is very nice to us
My brother is three
He is nice sometimes
And me
I think I'm nice, too.

The Seasons

Love... the anticipation of all seasons to come... its power rises away from weather-beaten ghosts of the past.
Forgotten flowers of loneliness sprout from desolate ground... love nurtures them tenderly within spring's gentle season... and they will cry no more.

Love is warmed by summer's passionate breath, embracing those who reach out into the night... comforting them.

Change will continue as summer passes slowly into fall, the vibrant splendor of colors giving joy to all who behold them, as nature renews the spirit and gives life to the senses.

Love finds winter sitting quietly before the crackling fireside, watching the snowflakes through the windows of the soul... a time to pause near another year's closing... to give thanks for all the seasons and moments

Word Prints

The words we speak or sing or write
Will last beyond our time
For those to hear or those to read
In song or note or rhyme.

Our scrap-books jammed with this and that
Or records we have filled.
Will gather dust upon the shelves
Where they may long be stilled.

No matter when or how or where
They once again may speak.
Let's make them worth the keeping
By those who then may seek.

Ides of Fall

The chilling wind of summer's end
Bids our gentle days adieu,
To bring instead an autumn trend
That leads us into winter's snow.

It seems as though our summertime
Has been at most, a week or two,
And just when it is in its prime
A "northerner" comes sailing through!

It all adds up to battening down:
The screens come out, the storms go in,
There are leaves to rake and beds to mulch,
Winter's comin', we can't win!

Ocean

You are calm on some of those lonely nights...
keeping stars for silent company, as they play their twinkling games with the season's half moon.

You rage at times in early dawn...
storm filled emotions cascade bolts of lightening over your turning waves leaving no room for the calm.

Yet there are gentler times... when you toss swimmers over their private surfs... playful and mischievous in all innocence and childlike beauty.

You are eternal as the wind...
all knowing in dark secrets and deep mystery.
Your beauty is forever.

The Rich Old Woman

She wanders the streets in her rags
overtop riches.

Her eyes repeat tales
she has learned in her youthful past.

Wrinkles etch her face—time gone by—happy times once hers.

Her eyes full of hidden sadness, she vainly searches for answers amid trash
lining street corners.

Stumbling slowly, her breath comes in anguished fits and starts.

No one stops to help.
Why, a rich
woman needs no help.
Endlessly her search must go on someday—maybe she will find an answer among the empty cans and dirt, but for now
she must rest—peace on a park bench.

Life... the everlasting time span from dawn's sun-lightened sky unto the gentle blue-hazed horizon.
Time within each day is meant for love, the most important gift...
to be shared.
To awaken quickly laughing and thankful for a new morning...
running lightly through the meadows of spirit, seizing the moments, leaping for pure joy—to do this and know the beauty in the joy of loving.

My Poems

My Poems are a way of letting go
I write whatever I feel,
They flow from my mind to words, and then,
Everything seems real.

I can express so much without a care,
for they are a part of me,
And if someone doesn't understand them, then it wasn't meant to be.

Sara Johnston

I love you, Stupid!

I love you, stupid! Don't you know?
Can't you see it? Doesn't it show?

It should stand out a mile wide,
'Cause when you smile, I melt inside!

When you look at me, and wink and grin,
I feel foolish and bashful, and, my head spins.

And when you talk, I get such chills,
Just looking at you is a big thrill.

When I'm with you, I think I glow,
I love you, Stupid, Don't you know?

Sara Johnston

A Dream of Hawaii

It seems too long since I've been there
And yet it's just a dream away
A smattering of Islands Mid-Pacific Distant Paradises on any day.

Movie-set scenery of tangled jungles
Mist shrouded peaks and wild flowers
Volcanoes arching close to heaven that cast a silhouette of towers.

Luxurious resort living for those who wish or the "little grass shack" seems more to be The true Hawaii that I seek
A hide away that calls to me.

The palm trees sway in profusion along with the music that catches your heart
The warm greeting of "Aloha"
And dancing with a message to impart.

Tropical sun tempered by tradewinds
Incomparable surf invading the sand...
The romantic spirit cast over the people
As lovers stroll hand and hand.

For a thousand years until Captain Cook
Islanders were undisturbed by the world
Until visited by whalers and traders
And the beauty of the island became unfurled.

From the top of the mountain, Mauna Kea
The entire Hawaiian Islands can be viewed
And your soul seems closer to heaven
While the spirit is somehow renewed.

In Kona, the fishing is unsurpassed
With marlin, tuna, and dolphins too
The excitement makes your pulse beat fast
As your reel is bending against the blue.

My thoughts are wandering there
I envision the warm sun's glow
It hardly seems a dream away
When I look out at cold and snow.

The Moon

Night, the moon wakes, opening his eyes he glares
at his green-blue planet—earth, his day begins.

The lazy old man, able to see all, watches over everybody.
Sleepwalkers, bums who know him well, hookers
being bought, thieves robbing people of houses and cars, and the kidnappers stalk out future victims.
Sleepless people popping tranquilizers throughout the night, gangs who destroy city streets, drunks stumbling to a place they call home, and the rich praying like beggars
for more of what they already have too much of.

And he laughs for he is wise and has it all.

He observes with a quiet, creepy smile dodging aircrafts and listening to uproaring volcanoes, thunder and the murmur of sleeping talkers.

You're loved and praised by Romantics, Floating so beautifully in the sky like a pure god,
a conversation piece for poet.

You're laughing,
—Pam Fisher

Breakfast Choice

It is there so boisterously clear yet our searching eye fails to hear the raging, rolling, rampaging realities that are the everyday threat we can't help but fear.

As night expires a new day is born and we ponder over the choice of which color socks should be worn embracing our coffee and meaningless distractions
as the issues of substance we casually scorn.

Down the dead-end alley of our daily retreat we wander, we saunter, we shuffle our collective feet not really sure what it is we are after yet unconsciously afraid of what we might meet.

The haunts of these perils will surely persist, of their own accord they will neither cease nor desist, nothing will change until we awake and realize it is time to actively resist.

mind's eye whether to live a life of love until in peace we may die
or let some perversely patriotic politician decide we should try.

—Dominic Savio

Player

The pianist tunes his keys for the crowd.
Hushed, they listen... intent on his moves.
As his fingers work the harmonies, he dreams of today's release...
for his soul is bared—his heart shared and the warmth of emotion cascades through his gentle body bringing again his tears of joy.

Destined To Be

When I went to this party
I met this gorgeous guy
He winked at me across the room and I nearly flew to the sky.

The music was too loud to hear what anybody said so I walked over to this girl and asked what time she had.

And when I turned myself around
I banged right into him
I didn't even hear what he had to say only that his name was Jim.

I walked across to get a drink and was talking to a friend when he came across the room following me again.

He asked me if I'd like to dance
But I just told him no and walked across to where I sat and held my head down low.

I slowly sipped upon my drink which kept me preoccupied and then I ran into the room in which ladies run to hide.

When I came out from that room,
I saw him standing there hands held in his pockets with a mysteriousness to his stare.

He followed me till I sat down and he sat across from me
He said hello and I said no and he asked what was the matter with me.

I didn't have much to say but blushed till I turned red at all his jokes that made me laugh and all the nice things he said.

Now we live in just one house and together we are one and any day now we'll have another and hopefully it'll be a son.

Crowded Solitude

Rolling, strolling blowing, flowing
So light so bright so white.

Crunchy, crisp, cold rustic, antiquated, old.
Genuine, imitated simulation
Feastive, mournful celebration

Screaming silently through the boisterous hush
Heavy steps gently squishing the sentient slush.

Shadowed by the shrinking immensity of the covering towers Shuddering at the uselessness of the awesomely impotent powers.

At last, kicking the stone that knows only too well how to be alone
Finally allowing to run free that previously imprisoned entity known as me.

—Dominic Savio

I've Got A Reason

I'm gonna be coming home now, very soon so watch me come by the light of the moon.

I'm gonna be laughing cause I'm full 'a fire.
I'm coming home dressed in fancy white attire.

I'm gonna be skipping and hopping along cause no one can stop me from being so strong.

I'm gonna come shouting and singing his praise cause Jesus is Lord and his name I shall raise.

I'm gonna be singing and dancing along cause I've got a reason to be singing this song—cause he's gotten rid of my problems and nothings going wrong.

This time I've had enough of life's pleasures and pains where many of my problems outnumber my gains.

I've cried enough tears to flood the world over so all of my problems to the Lord
I hurled, and then took cover.

He took them away and finally I've got inner peace cause now my life's ironed out without a single crease.

Stalking The Perfect Babysitter

By SHARON ROSE

Babies are a blessing — every new parent will agree. But once the fascination with little darling's every burp, babble and bottle begins to wear thin, moms and dads discover a need for some escape time.

Then comes the challenge — a search for the perfect babysitter.

It helps if you can turn over your tot to a favorite doting relative, but a regular dependency on grandparents, aunts and uncles can strain family harmony to the breaking point.

Parents may be reluctant to leave their kids with "strangers," but psychologists agree that some separation is healthy for both parties. An overdose of unrelieved child care has been known to drive even the most devoted parent around the proverbial bend.

Some churches, subdivisions and schools publish lists of kids who are interested in babysitting jobs, and this can be a good starting point. But if you're worried that a Cyndi Lauper look-alike will show up on your doorstep humming "Girls Just Want to Have Fun," the best bet is to use the referral system.

Consult neighbors and friends for recommendations, and always interview a prospective sitter before hiring one. According to Novi resident Ann Borg, R.N., who teaches the "Babysitting Clinic" for the Novi Community Education Department, this may be the most important piece of advice.

"Have your prospective sitter visit your home and meet your children ahead of time, so that they're familiar with everything," says Borg. "They should understand your household rules, and know your children's routines and habits."

Borg, herself a parent, is a former nursing instructor whose favorite areas were pediatrics and obstetrics. In her class for young babysitters, she stresses two main issues: safety and keeping the children happy.

A toddler's sense of logic is not finely developed. One never knows when they'll decide to stuff carrots in their ear or crumple 150 tissues then toss them into the toilet. In these cases and a host of others too upsetting to describe, a parent hopes the sitter has a good amount of common sense and a low panic threshold.

Still, some emergency information is in order. Phone numbers for local police and fire departments and a poison control center should be prominently displayed near your telephone. In addition, the numbers of a neighbor or relative who can help in case of emergency, and those of a pediatrician or family doctor should be available.

A sitter should know where the parents will be, how to reach them and when to expect their return. Your own address should also be written down in case a babysitter needs to direct emergency vehicles to your home.

Ideally, your sitter will keep your kids too busy to create a lot of confusion. Borg covers growth and development in her babysitting clinic, and shares ideas for age-appropriate games, stories and activities.

"Babysitting is a business. But if a babysitter doesn't like kids, they're in the wrong business."

— Ann Borg, R.N.
Babysitting Instructor

"Babysitting is a business," Borg emphasizes, "but if a babysitter doesn't like kids, they're in the wrong business."

Borg advises parents to talk with their children about time spent with their sitter. Something along the lines of, "Dad and I had a good time when we went out last night. What did you do?" Pay attention to their comments and try to be fair. Keep in mind that the child who regularly insists that a lion lives in her closet might also have an overly imaginative rendering of an evening's activities with the sitter.

Borg says a problem common to many babysitters is how to discuss a child's misbehavior with his/her parents. The honest parent will admit the halos over their little angels' curly heads sometimes slip, and provide a sitter with flexible guidelines for discipline.

Preventive "medicine" is recommended. If bedtime is a hassle for parents, it's likely to be the same for the sitter. Offer suggestions that will ease the situation. Some low-key activities as the zero-hour approaches will be more conducive to slumber than a rousing game of tag.

Local pre-teen and teenage sitters collect approximately $1 to $2 per hour for keeping kids safe and smiling. Wages vary according to the number of children, time of day or night, and duties performed. Keeping an eye on a sleeping tot is a lot less stressful than fixing a meal, giving baths and keeping company with three or four demanding children of various ages.

The babysitter who can pull it off with ease and grace is a treasure. Unfortunately, she or he will also be in demand. Many parents would part with prized possessions before they'd divulge a favorite sitter's identity, and more than a few have been threatened over the "theft" of a sitter's prime time services.

Worried? Your sitter might be nervous, too

Parents leaving their children with a new babysitter may not be the only ones with some degree of apprehension over the arrangement.

The parents of the babysitter, who is often only 12-16 years old herself (or himself), also may have cause for concern, particularly if the young person is going to a home outside their immediate neighborhood.

Ideally, babysitting arrangements are made through relatives, friends and neighbors. But an enterprising teenager who has gained a reputation as a responsible sitter may find his or her name being passed outside family circles.

On occasions when babysitters must travel more than several blocks from home, local police officials advise them to find out exactly where they're going.

If parents haven't provided them, most sitters know to ask for emergency phone numbers, such as police, fire and doctor. But a former Novi police dispatcher notes that the most common problem when babysitters have to use these emergency numbers is that the sitters don't know where they are staying.

Leaving emergency phone numbers and making sure the sitter knows how to use them are sensible precautions. But probably the best safety measure parents can take is to simply know the person who's minding their children.

"That's the most prevalent problem. Some don't even know what street they're on," she said.

For that reason, the Novi Police Department has available message pads babysitters can take with them to fill out at the home. In addition to the street address, the notes include a space for listing the subdivision and nearest cross street. This information is extremely helpful since, in the case of an emergency, it is up to the babysitter to direct police or firefighters to the home.

Since many people buy their telephones from the local department store, the telephone number of the home is not always listed right on the apparatus anymore, police note. Therefore the notepads issued by the police department also include a space for listing the home telephone number.

Because both parents and babysitters feel more comfortable if they know one another, there are few places where parents can find a listing of babysitters. Judy Beyersdorf, who teaches Northville's community education babysitting clinic, said she advises her students to fill out notecards to pass around the neighborhood. But she discourages them from posting them just anywhere.

"I'd be very uncomfortable with girls posting them indiscriminately," she said.

People occasionally call the community education department seeking suggestions for babysitters, according to personnel from both Novi and Northville community education offices.

"We have no system for keeping the names on file," Nadeen Fritz from Novi's community education office noted. However, she suggested it might be a good idea.

Subdivision and condominium associations with newsletters also provide a good way for finding babysitters (or finding babysitting clients) within the immediate area. In Novi, both Country Place and Lakewood Parkhomes have newsletters that will carry notices from people advertising babysitting services.

But Beyersdorf notes that the safest and most popular way to find a babysitter is still word of mouth.

Tips for safe sitting

* As in any business arrangement, both parties have expectations and responsibilities. The following are some tips for babysitters hoping to keep their calendars crowded with jobs:

- ☐ Never leave children unattended, even for a minute.
- ☐ Keep all doors locked and do not open them to strangers.
- ☐ Learn a few first aid basics.
- ☐ In case of fire — smoke, get the children out of the house immediately. Go to the nearest neighbor; call the fire department first, then the parents.

- ☐ If you must use the phone, keep your conversations brief.
- ☐ Resist refrigerator raids.
- ☐ Leave the house as orderly as you found it.
- ☐ Be punctual and reliable.
- ☐ Be sure the parents give you full instructions, including the street address, subdivision and nearest cross street to their home so you are able to direct emergency personnel if needed.
- ☐ Dress appropriately. A Madonna look-alike outfit complete with "Boy Toy" belt buckle may impress your peers, but is likely to alarm prospective employers.

MSU grad awaits Honduras assignment

By MARILYN MORRISON

Dreams hardly ever become reality and if they do, you feel like the luckiest person in the world.

Julie Henrich has dreamed of going to the Third World ever since she was in seventh grade. And her dream is on the brink of coming true.

On September 29, the Novi resident will leave for Honduras with the U.S. Peace Corps where she will live for two years.

Henrich graduated from Michigan State University this past spring with a dual major in elementary education and special education.

In Honduras, Henrich will be utilizing both degrees in a teacher training development program.

Henrich will be stationed in Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras for three months. She will live with a Honduran family. After the three months are up, she will be assigned to a site in need of education.

Henrich has spent the past four years researching the Peace Corps along with other missionary programs. Over Christmas vacation she mailed 35 to 40 letters to different missionary programs throughout the world. In April, she found out she had been accepted to work for the Peace Corps. "Ever since then it has been one big high," she said.

While attending Novi High School, Henrich said she really didn't know what she wanted to do. All her friends were going into business and other related fields and knew what they wanted to do. "All I knew was that I wanted to work with people and I wanted to go to the Third World," she said.

When applying to work for the Peace Corps, Henrich said her only request was that she be sent to a Spanish-speaking country.

Henrich had four years of Spanish in high school. Asked if she thought she may have a hard time picking up the language, she responded that it would be a challenge.

"I'll pick it up (Spanish) out of necessity," said Henrich. "Anything you do involves a risk. If you believe in what you are doing, it is easy to accept the challenge and the risk."

Henrich said she chose to work for the Peace Corps because she was offered a position where she could utilize both her degrees. Also, the Peace Corps gave her a job description, but told her she could fill it any way she saw fit. The flexibility of the program was important to her. "It leaves room for me to grow," she said.

Besides adjusting to the language and cultural differences, Henrich said one of the biggest adjustments will be getting used to a much more flexible time schedule. Americans are very time-oriented whereas time means nothing in Latin America. "If I scheduled a meeting and showed up an hour late, I'd probably be the only one there," she said.

Many of Henrich's friends questioned why she would want to go to Central America where there is poverty and constant turmoil. Henrich's answer was simple and sincere.

"I have a close family, good friends and life has been pretty easy, but in Central America the kids are so impoverished there," Henrich said. She also reasoned that right now was the best time to go. "I'm young, I don't have any commitments, and I can always help the kids here when I get back," she said.

Henrich said one of the most difficult things will be saying goodbye to family and friends, but knowing she has their support will help.

"I have the greatest parents in the world and I could not have gotten where I am today without them. I firmly believe what I can do for the world stems from what my parents have done for me," Henrich said.

At MSU, Henrich served as a resident assistant for two years. She was a member of the senior class council; Kappa Delta Pi, an educational honor society; and the Council for Exceptional Children. Henrich also received the Kappa Delta Pi scholarship two years in a row. Her overall grade point at MSU was 3.63.

Henrich stressed that she is not going to Honduras to attempt to "Americanize" the people. "I'm not going to work for them, I'm going to work with them," she said.

For Henrich, her dream has come true, but she admits that it will not all be fun and games.

"I know there will be times when I'm going to wonder why I did this, but I will make the best of the situation," Henrich said.

Before Henrich decided to go to Honduras, she had three job offers which made her decision to go a little tougher. She wondered if going away for two years would detract or enhance her ability to get a job when she finishes her work with the Peace Corps. She decided that it would definitely enhance it.

When she returns to the United States, Henrich said she would like to teach in the inner city.

As a personal benefit to her two-year stay in Honduras, Henrich said, "I will be a minority. We hear so much about minorities in America, but I have no idea what it is like and we all need to walk in someone else's shoes."

Dreams do come true and for Henrich all it took was enough self-confidence to really believe in herself.

Julie Henrich is ready for Peace Corps adventure

Docents to tour home

By JEAN DAY

Two events are upcoming for the Mill Race Docents, a group of volunteers who guide visitors through the buildings in Mill Race Historical Village. They serve from 1-4 p.m. every Sunday afternoon during the months the village is open and for special visits of groups by reservation. They also traditionally have been hostesses every year on the Fourth of July when all buildings are open.

The Docents have been invited for a personal tour of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Coir at 317 Dunlap at 1 p.m. this Saturday. The yellow brick, Victorian house is on the National Registry of Historic Houses.

Although the Coirs have sold their home and are moving soon, they graciously have agreed to share with the docents information about their furnishings and facts about the building and its architecture. Enid Manheimer, Mill Race Docents co-chair, reports, "Certainly this is an opportunity to add to our knowledge of historic Northville . . . and to have the Coirs' personal experiences living with so much history," she says. She asks docents planning to take the tour to call her today at 348-7375.

An old fashioned "box lunch exchange" for the docent group is scheduled for 1 p.m. Saturday, August 10, in the New School Church in the village. The fun part of this yesteryear-type event is that those attending pack their lunches in baskets, decorative tins or gift boxes or trays. Beverages will be furnished. Reservations should be made with Enid Manheimer by August 5.

She adds that the docent group is accepting new members at the present time. Anyone interested in local history and this unusual volunteering should call her.

Alaska's getting a Northville contingent

Not only are Northville residents planning trips to Alaska, they're also moving to our largest state. After visiting former Northville residents Jan and Bill Christensen in Anchorage in June, Patty Hoffman made the decision to move to Anchorage and will be leaving the first part of August.

The Christensens are teachers in Alaska, and Patty, a Kings Mill resident who has been a speech therapist at Cottage Hospital in Grosse Pointe, has been interviewed by the Anchorage school system. She expects to work either full time or as a substitute in the fall.

Her mother, Betty Allen, says she and husband Mike are "definitely thinking" of a trip to Alaska later this year.

CAFFEINE UPDATE

Caffeine continues to be one of the most commonly consumed substances in the American diet. Each year we take in 15 million pounds of caffeine in the form of coffee, tea, soft drinks, and chocolate. It is understandable that many researchers and health writers have questioned the role that caffeine plays in total health.

Much of what we have heard about caffeine is negative. The Food and Drug Administration, for example, advises that pregnant women avoid or limit caffeine intake. And we are all aware of "caffeineism" — the mild physical dependency that may occur primarily in heavy coffee, tea, or soft drink users.

Less is said about the positive aspects of caffeine. Many individuals are surprised to discover that many prescription and nonprescription products contain caffeine as an active ingredient. Caffeine is found in various pain relievers, cough medicines, appetite suppressants, and cold/allergy formulas. According to a recent article in Clinical Pharmacology, caffeine increases and quickens the pain relieving effects of acetaminophen, a popular pain reliever.

Sheri Bongiovanni married in June

Sheri Ann Bongiovanni became the bride of Timothy A. Frader in a double ring service June 22 at St. John Lutheran Church in Farmington.

The couple had met during their school days. Both are 1981 graduates of Northville High School.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Bongiovanni of 232 South Center. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin R. Frader of 929 Jeffrey.

During the 6 p.m. ceremony both mothers participated in the symbolic lighting of a unity candle.

Pastor Charles Fox was the officiant for the wedding.

The bride's gown was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves of Chantilly lace. A matching lace ruffle edged the hemline and extended into a chapel train. The bodice was decorated with seed pearl detailing. A matching traditional headpiece of Chantilly lace and seed pearls held the bride's fingertip veil of illusion.

The bridal bouquet contained white silk roses, lily of the valley, mini carnations and stephanotis. Attached to the bouquet was a white hand-crocheted handkerchief made by the bride's grandmother, Mary Bongiovanni.

Tammy Craig was maid of honor in a floor-length lavender voile gown in off-shoulder style. She carried a white Chantilly lace fan decorated with lavender roses and mini carnations with stephanotis.

Bridesmaids were Pamela Selfridge, sister of the bride, Barbara Holzworth, sister of the bridegroom, and Jodi Bongiovanni, niece of the bride. They wore gowns matching the maid of honor's and carried nosegays of lavender roses and mini carnations with stephanotis.

The bridegroom's niece Kelley Frader was flower girl. James Herren III, nephew of the bride, and Steven Odren, nephew of the bridegroom, were ring bearers.

Ushers were Joseph Bongiovanni, brother of the bride, Michael Holzworth, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Jeffrey Odren, nephew of the bridegroom.

A reception for 200 guests followed at Roma's of Livonia. Special guests included Edna Newton, the bride's grandmother, Eleanor Sylvester, the bridegroom's grandmother, and relatives from Maine, New Hampshire and Northern Michigan.

After graduation from Northville High School, the bride attended Lawrence Institute of Technology and Oakland Community College. The bridegroom attended Eastern Michigan University, Schoolcraft College and Oakland Community College.

She currently is employed with American Community Mutual Insurance Company while he is employed with Guardian Photo.

They are making their home in Northville following a wedding trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania.

Jamie Hanna-David Vincent

Mrs. W. David Hanna of Muscongus Sound, Maine, announces the engagement of her daughter, Jamie Lee Hanna, to Todd Ashley Vincent, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. David Vincent Jr. of Northville.

The bride-elect is the daughter of the late W. David Hanna, who was a prominent Maine artist. She attended Syracuse University in Syracuse, New York. Her fiancé is a June graduate of Allegheny College in Pennsylvania and a 1980 graduate of Northville High School.

The romance that culminated in the engagement is the result of a mutual attraction of both the Hanna and Vincent families to the rocky coast of Maine. Todd has spent 17 summers at the family's summer house.

The bride-to-be came to live with her family in the former home of the lighthouse keeper when she was five years old. It was at Pemaquid Point that Mr. Hanna began his painting career and the family awaited construction of their own oceanfront home.

Dan Whitaker will be traveling from Virginia to be a groomsman while other Northville friends are making reservations for the Down East wedding weekend.

Lisa Moran-David Antonelli

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Moran of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Lisa Marie, of King of Prussia, Pennsylvania, to David A. Antonelli, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Antonelli of Blue Bell, Pennsylvania.

The bride-elect received a B.S. and a master of education degree from Penn State University. She is employed by Burroughs Corporation in King of Prussia.

Her fiancé received a B.S. degree from Penn State University. He is a Certified Public Accountant currently employed by General Electric.

A September 28 wedding in Pennsylvania is planned.

Ariel Adamson, Kendall Michaluk arrive

Ariel Lesli Adamson, new daughter of Andy and Lesli (Weston) Adamson of Ann Arbor, arrived on July 16, the birthday of her maternal grandfather, Dr. Herbert Weston of Northville.

She weighed seven pounds, 15 ounces on birth at University of Michigan

Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Ariel joins a brother, Andy, almost 4, at home.

Grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Weston and Dr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Adamson of Ann Arbor.

Great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs.

Thomas C. Adamson in Illinois, Colonel Harry A. Huncilman in Indiana and Mrs. Florence Lay of Livonia.

Announcement of the birth of their second son Kendall Carl Michaluk is made by William and Lacy Michaluk of 536 Rouge.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Michaluk of Dearborn. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Davenport of Valley Forge, Pennsylvania.

Kendall also has two great grandparents, Mrs. Mary Malar and Nicholas Michaluk, both of Windsor, Ontario.

Lamaze childbirth classes offered

The Lamaze Childbirth Education Association of Livonia recommends that mothers-to-be whose babies are expected in the fall sign up now for summer classes, which should be started two to three months before the baby's due date.

Classes give information about pregnancy, labor and delivery, a childbirth film, breathing techniques, relaxation exercises, and comfort measures. To register call 592-8618.

Weekday classes are held from 7-9:30 p.m.; Saturday classes are 9-11:30 a.m. Classes open are:

St. Alexander's Catholic Church, Farmington Hills, Tuesdays, July 30-September 3.

Holy Cross Lutheran, Livonia, Thursdays, July 25-August 29.

Faith Lutheran Church, 30000 Five Mile, Livonia, Thursdays, August 7-September 11.

Blues take Mickey Mantle Division crown

By B.J. MARTIN

Mike Tabaczynski wrapped his first baseman's mitt around a throw from Brett Loomis Saturday, and Northville Blue locked up a championship in the Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation Mickey Mantle Division.

Loomis, who pitched a no-hitter earlier this season, was possibly even sharper in Saturday's must-win regular season finale. When he fielded a grounder and flipped to Tabaczynski for the final out of a 4-1 win over Crestwood 1, Loomis had struck out 13 (more than half) of the batters he faced, allowed no baserunners until the fourth inning, picked off two, and permitted just two hits, both in the sixth.

The victory gave Northville Blue a final regular-season record of 17-3 — identical to that of Westland Federation I. But the Blues' 2-0 win over Westland July 2 provided the head-to-head tiebreaker that gave the Northville team the official first-place finish.

In Saturday's game, Northville eked out a run in the first inning on Ken Kehoe's bases-loaded single, and a run in the second on John Lobb's RBI double, scoring Loomis. The Blues added a pair of insurance runs in the sixth on singles by Loomis and Lobb and shortstop Jeff Tanderys' two-run double.

The only Crestwood run came on a one-out walk and back-to-back singles in the sixth. But Loomis and Tanderys combined for a pickoff at second base and Loomis fanned Crestwood's cleanup hitter to end the threat.

On Thursday, Northville Blue squared off with Northville Gold for the first time this year. Blue won the crosstown battle 4-1 — but not before Gold threatened to tarnish the Blues' record.

Trailing 2-0 in the third, Gold's Adam Behen singled and Derek Osborne drove him in with a double to cut the lead to 2-1. Down 4-1 in the seventh,

Gold threatened again, bringing the tying run to the plate with nobody out. But Blue starter Eric Gala retired the side with an infield fly and two strikeouts to hang on for the win.

In Thursday's game, the Blues scored twice in the third on an error and RBI singles by Tanderys and Kehoe, then added two more runs in the fifth on a double by Lobb and a booming home run by Tanderys.

Gala allowed just three hits and three walks, and struck out six for a complete-game victory. Taking the loss despite a well-pitched game (seven strikeouts, four hits) was Scott Stephens.

"We have a lot of respect for those guys," remarked Blues Coach Ed Harp. "They played us pretty tough Thursday."

On Tuesday, July 16, the Blues outbanged Highland 10-6. Loomis went five innings for the win, then departed to rest his arm for Saturday's game. Reliever Kehoe was in a jam in each of the last two frames, but each time he struck out the last hitter to end the threats.

Meanwhile, the Blues ripped nine hits. Jeff Harp was 2-for-4 with three RBI and two runs, while Lobb and Kehoe each had two hits and two RBI. Winner Loomis had a pair of singles and scored two runs to help his own cause.

It's hard to picture how the three wins and the championship could have made Coach Harp happier. "Our guys seemed to be so in control of things," he said after the championship-sealing victory. "We won the games we had to win. We knew what we had to do, and we did it."

The LCABF Mickey Mantle Division top 10 teams were: 1. Northville (17-3), 2. Westland Federation (17-3), 3. Plymouth Salem (16-4), 4. Riverview (10-3), 5. Southgate, Waterford (9-4), 7. Redford (8-4-1), 8. Garden City, Melvindale (8-5), and 10. Crestwood (12-8). Northville II (Gold) was 3-10.

Barefootin' David Bock skis to fame

By MARILYN MORRISON

You'd think balance, strength, concentration and the will to live dangerously are the hallmarks of an expert barefoot water-skier. But Northville resident David Bock makes barefooting look as easy as getting out of bed.

What makes Bock a great water-skier is that he can ski on two skis, slalom, barefoot, barefoot backwards, barefoot with one foot holding the tow rope, and more combinations than you probably could imagine.

A six-year member of the Whitmore Lake Ski Team, Bock has been water-skiing for eight years. He practices two to three hours every day depending on weather and water conditions.

Bock attributes his interest in water-skiing to his parents. That's not surprising. His parents met when water-skiing. He adds that they have been very supportive of his interest in the sport — his mother Donna even takes him skiing every morning.

When Bock practices, he skis behind a Nautique competition boat, the standard boat used in all barefoot competitions.

Two years ago he taught himself how to barefoot and it has been his claim to fame ever since.

His newest trick is getting out of the water backward — barefoot of course.

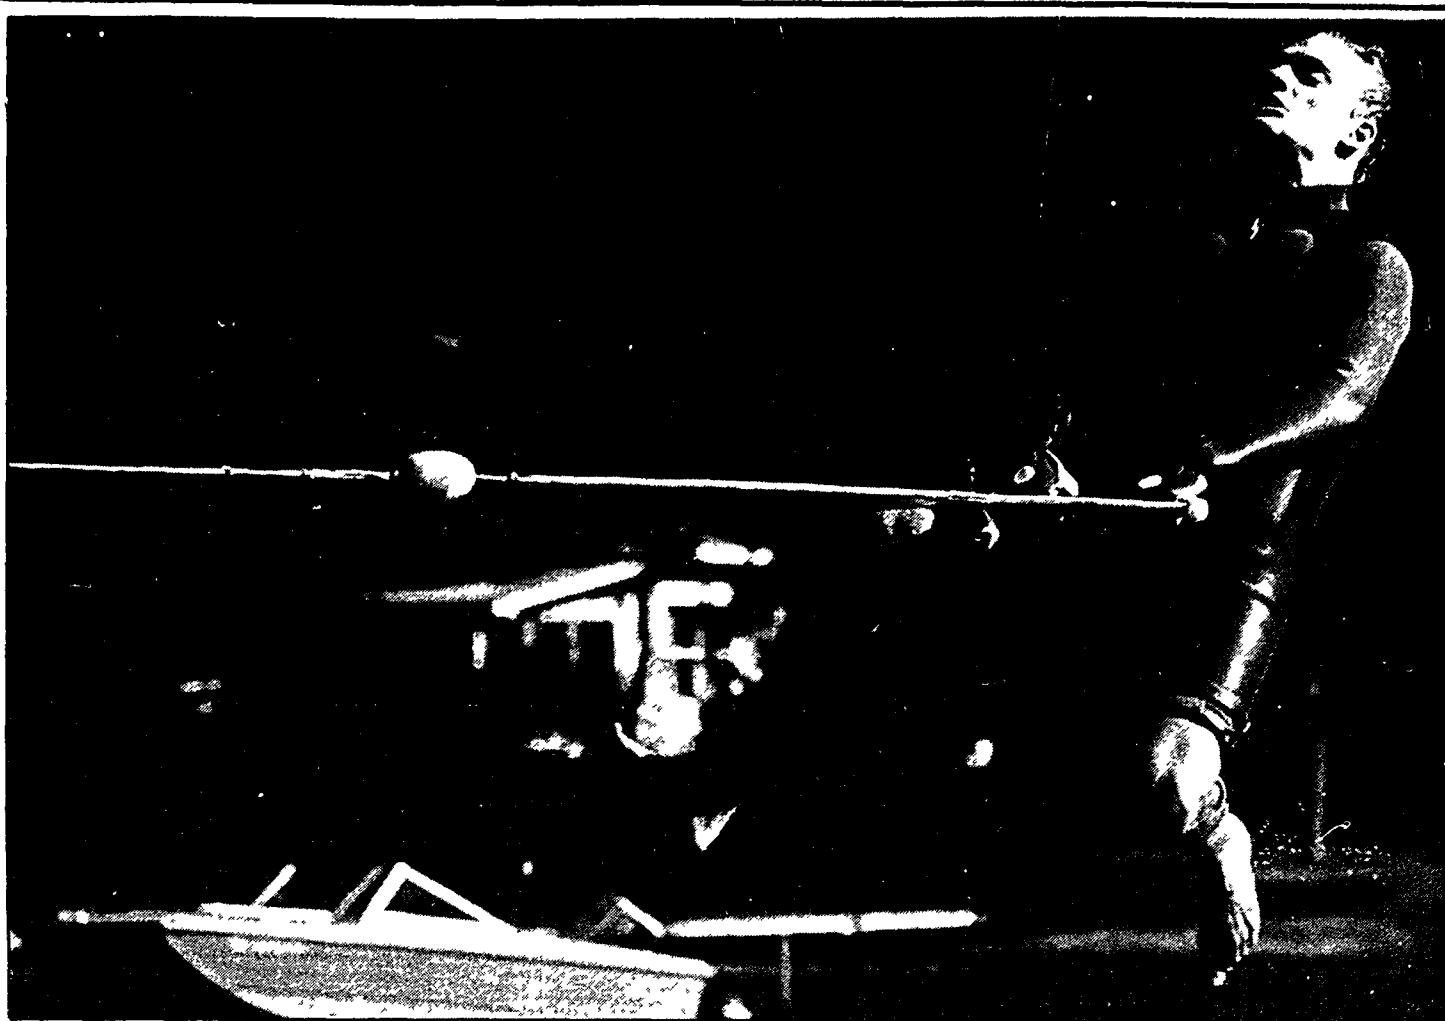

To perform this trick, Bock lies in the water on his stomach with his arms behind hanging onto the tow rope. As he yells "Hit it," an incredible amount of water spray covers so much of him you think he's drowning. But within seconds he is up and skiing barefoot.

To add a little more excitement to this trick, Bock turns forward so he's facing the boat, lays down with his back flat to the water and completes a 180 degree turn and then stands up and continues to ski.

Dock starts, starting on a dock instead of in the water, is a trick Bock has down to a science.

As soon as the rope tightens Bock yells "Hit it," jumps off the dock with his back and legs parallel to the water and begins to barefoot as soon as the boat reaches an appropriate speed. At Bock's first barefoot competition, he received a lot of points performing this particular start.

For some people, using two skis is a challenge,

For Bock, an accomplished slalom skier, barefooting was naturally the next step.

June 13, Bock competed in his first barefoot competition at Ford Lake near Ypsilanti. The competition is broken down into three categories: start, wake crossings and tricks. In each category, the skier has 15 seconds to prove his/her abilities. Bock received a fourth in starts and tricks and 10th in wake crossings.

Bock competed in the State finals in Charlotte near Lansing last Sunday. He placed fifth in wake crossings and seventh in starts and tricks to earn a ranking of seventh in the state.

Skiers participating in barefoot competitions are expected to ski under any water conditions. The only time a competition is called off is when there is lightning.

To perform most barefoot tricks, Bock skis at approximately 34 mph. For one-foot tricks, he skis at 40 mph. Since barefooting is somewhat abusive to the body, Bock always wears a wetsuit for protection.

Prior to his interest in barefoot, Bock competed in a slalom event and placed second in his age group.

In a slalom race the boat runs down the center of the course and the skier has to round six buoys. If the skier falls, he loses, if not, the boat speed increases by two every time the course is successfully completed.

The starting speed of the boat is 30 mph.

And, just like any sport, water-skiing isn't free from injury. Bock says he occasionally suffers from pulled muscles, headaches and rope burns.

Bock starts to ski as soon as the weather is warm enough and quits when he has to go back to school. He attends Central Michigan University, where he is studying Interpersonal Communications with a minor in business. Eventually Bock would like to "go national." However, school work will come first, he says.

During the winter Bock stays in shape by lifting weights and practicing tricks on dry land.

"I get some pretty strange looks when I start doing tricks with a rope in my hands," says Bock.

Bock is a member of the American Water Ski Association, The American Barefoot Club and the Michigan Water-skiing Association. He also teaches private lessons at Whitmore Lake for beginners and advanced skiers interested in learning how to barefoot or perform tricks.

Golf tourney helps Tartars

Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville will host the Fourth Annual Wayne State University Tartar Football Benefit Golf Outing Tuesday, September 10. Sponsored by the Wayne State Football Program, proceeds from the event will be used to support the Tartar gridiron program.

The day will consist of registration, buffet lunch, open bar, a 1 p.m. Texas Scramble shotgun start, cocktail hour and a dinner program commencing at 7 p.m., featuring WDIV-TV4 sportscaster and Tigers '85 host Eli Zaret as master of ceremonies. Tickets for the golf outing and dinner are $175 per person. Guests for dinner only are $100 per person.

Serving as honorary chairman for the 1985 golf outing is Gil "Wild Hoss" Mains, who was a member of the world champion Detroit Lions in the 1950s.

As in past outings, local celebrities will be in attendance. Playing in previous outings have been Greg Stefan, Reggie McKenzie, Norm Cash, Bill Laimbeer, Earl Wilson, Lem Barney, Tom Tracey, Kirk Gibson and Jack Morris, to name only a few.

Hole sponsorships also are available at the 1985 WSU Football Golf Outing. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets or hole sponsorships, or needing further information about the 1985 golf outing, should contact the WSU Football Office at 577-4288 or the WSU Athletic Department at 577-4280.

Grid practice gets into gear

Conditioning practices for all players interested in playing varsity, junior varsity and freshman football for Northville High School this fall will begin Monday, July 29, head coach Dennis Colligan announced this week.

The workouts will take place at 4 p.m. weekdays through August 2, then from August 5-9, they will take place at 9 a.m. before switching back to the afternoon shift again.

The stopper. Every kitchen sink needs one. So does every baseball team trying to get somewhere.

And in righthander Chris Willerer, Northville Collegiate has one. Willerer chalked up his fourth win without a loss on Adray action this summer in Northville's 5-4 win over the Livonia Angels.

Aside from a shaky second, in which the Angels scored all four of their runs, Willerer was tough. He fanned six and gave up seven hits for a complete-game victory.

Northville trailed 4-2 in the bottom of the fourth when the Great Scotts struck. Scott Peterson socked a two-out RBI single, moved to second on a walk to Rob Cannon, then scored on a single by Scott Draper. Cannon shot home with the winning run behind Peterson on a wild catcher-to-third throw.

Until then, Northville's only scoring had come in the second when an error, a sacrifice and a walk set up a two-run single by Cannon.

The victory partly salvaged an otherwise lackluster week. Garden City and Northville were tied at 6-6 after seven innings Wednesday when umpires called the game. Dan Zang allowed just two runs until the sixth, when Garden City pulled within a run. Reliever Mark Pearsall came in, but Garden City rallied for the tie-maker in the seventh to stay one half-game back of Northville for the fourth and final playoff spot.

George Clark and Eric Engel each had two hits in the game. Cannon singled and scored on a fielder's choice in the first inning. Draper drove in two runs and Clark one in the third inning with singles. Tom Cotter walked and scored in the fourth on an error and a single by Engel.

In a second Wednesday game, Livonia Adray pummeled Northville 10-1 behind pitching ace Mark Wilkens. Northville's only run came on Engel's double and Cannon's single in the third, which cut the lead to 2-1. But in the bottom half of the frame, Adray punched out five more runs for a commanding 8-1 lead. Zach Childress and Engel each were 2-for-3.

Sunday, Northville lost to Livonia Adray 8-0 on an awesome pitching effort by Adray ace Todd Krumm, entering his sophomore year at Michigan State this fall. Krumm allowed just four hits, but struck out 14 Northville batters for a complete-game win.

Northville sunk to 12-16-1 going into this week, the last of the regular season. Tonight, Northville faces Redford Little Caesar's at 8:30 p.m. Livonia Ford Field. With a win, Northville would go on to compete in post-season tournament action beginning at 3 p.m. Sunday. A loss would force a one-game faceoff against Garden City for the final playoff berth.

Five of the Clarenceville Swim Club's 17 members come from Northville, and five played an important part in their team's fine sixth-place finish at the McDonald's Midland Junior Olympics Swim Festival last weekend.

Forty-two teams from across the state made the trip to Midland. Despite those odds, each of the Northville swimmers placed in at least three events.

In the 11-12 Boys category, Eric Newton took third in 400 meter freestyle (5:05.27), fourth in 200 free (2:26.28), fourth in 100 butterfly (1:16.79), fourth in 100 backstroke (1:18.34), fourth in 50 backstroke (1:18.34), fourth in 100 free (1:07.11) fifth in 200 individual medley (2:50.04), and fifth in the 50 butterfly (34.30).

In 10 & Under Girls "B" competition, Eric's sister Brenda Newton clocked a 37.69 for fifth place in the 50 meter freestyle. Brenda also swam on Clarenceville's second-place 10 & Under Girls' 200 medley relay team and 400 free relay team.

Another Northville brother-sister tandem, the Holdridges, also did well for Clarenceville. In Age 11-12 Boys' competition, Bob Holdridge placed first in the 50 meter "B" backstroke with a time of 39.94. Bob also placed second in 100 "B" backstroke (1:27.95), third in 50

"B" free (33.08) and eighth in 400 free (5:27.35).

Bob's sister Pam Holdridge placed second in 11-12 Girls' "A" 50 butterfly (32.72), fourth in 100 "A" freestyle (1:09.97), seventh in 50 backstroke (36.85), sixth in 100 back (1:22.21), second in 100 butterfly (1:16.1); fourth in 200 free (2:31.23), fourth in 200 individual medley (2:50.23) and seventh in 400 free (2:50.23).

Northville's Megan Holmberg, also competing in 11-12 Girls' events, took seventh in the 50 "B" freestyle (34.71) and seventh in 100 "B" freestyle.

Pam and Megan also swam on Clarenceville's 11-12 Girls' 200 medley relay, which took third, and 200 free relay, which placed second.

Clarenceville Swim Club offers a year-round competitive swim program for swimmers age four through high school. Swimmers are coached in the four competitive strokes and racing starts and turns. They also learn to work toward goals, develop self-discipline and confidence, and gain a feeling for what competition is all about.

New Japanese 'Super Pill' Insures Rapid Weight-Loss

No Dieting — Eat All You Want, Pill Does All The Work

BEVERLY HILLS, CA — An exciting new "all natural" weight-loss "Super" Pill developed by the JMA (Japanese Medical Association) has just been approved for distribution in the United States. Reportedly, it can guarantee that you will lose more than a pound a day without dieting, from the very first day until you reach your ideal weight and figure. News of this "Super Pill" is literally sweeping the country. It's called Amitol and there has never been anything quite like it before.

"Flushes Calories Right Out Of Your Body"

What makes Amitol so thrilling and unique is its reported ability to flush calories right out of your body. Amitol is completely safe — it contains no drugs whatsoever. Its ingredients are derived solely from the Konjac root which grows primarily in Northern Japan.

Why the Konjac root? It has been used in Japan for over 1600 years to produce rapid and natural weight-loss!

Japanese studies verify that Konjac root actually prevents fat producing calories from being absorbed into your system. They say it does this by surrounding much of the fats, proteins and carbohydrates you have eaten with a protective viscous coating which is then gently flushed out of your system. And according to Japanese research this produces absolutely amazing results.

And who can disagree! Amitol (although brand new to this country) is already being called by many people, "the most exciting weight-loss breakthrough of the century." In fact, everywhere there are reports of easy and fast weight-loss from formerly overweight people (in all walks of life) who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

You now can purchase Amitol direct from the North American distributor, and it comes with an extraordinary guarantee.

If you place your order now and then follow the simple instructions for a period of 30 days, you must be completely satisfied with the dramatic visible results or just return the empty container and Dyna Labs will immediately send back your entire purchase price. This guarantee applies regardless of your age or current weight level. What could be better than that! It's just that simple. If you've tried to lose weight before and failed you no longer have an excuse. Amitol is available, it's easy and it works without dieting!

Best of all, ordering Amitol is simple, fast, and reliable! Simply call Dyna Labs Toll Free: (1-800-441-5454) Ext. 911, and order with your credit card. If you don't have a credit card Dyna Labs will also accept C.O.D. orders right over the phone! All orders are shipped immediately by UPS, which means no delay and no orders lost in the mail!

$19.95—30 day supply, or $35.95—60 day supply. Operators are standing by and will be glad to take your order. You can order 24 hrs. a day, 7 days a week! Please don't wait to call. You really do deserve to be thin!

Ninth Annual Folk & Bluegrass FESTIVAL Sunday, July 28

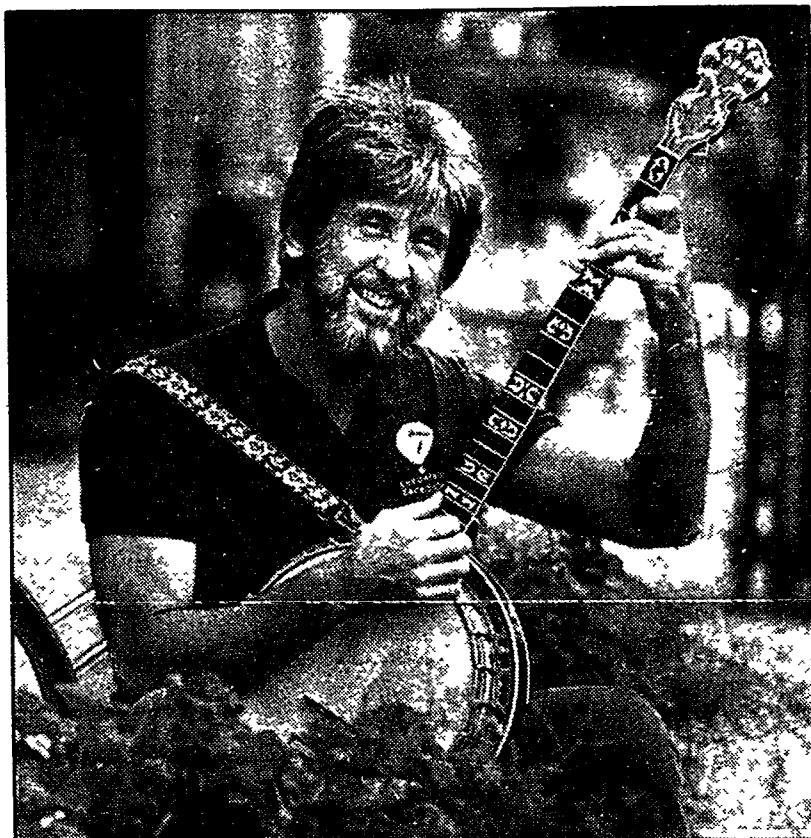

Bobby Lewis with Mike Irish

Balduck Mountain Ramblers

Yes, this west Detroit-based quintet is really named for a landfill. While the band's roots are in bluegrass, its repertoire extends to old-time music, folk, sea chanties, gospel and cowboy tunes.

The Sunnysiders

While their roots are in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, for 20 years leader Roy McGinnis, fiddler V.E. Edney, guitarist Richard MacIntosh, banjoist Paul Boyd and string bassist Bo Kazy have made a Michigan home for their well-known brand of pure — and sunny — bluegrass.

Neil Woodward

Recently featured at, among numerous southeast Michigan locales, The Raven coffeehouse in Northville, Neil Woodward is best described as a master of stringed instruments. A songwriter and vocalist as well as an able musician on guitar, mandolin, fiddle, banjo, dulcimer and, yes, balalaika, Woodward will perform a wide range of original and traditional acoustic music with especially deep roots in blues.

Footloose

Closing this year's festival will be this extremely talented and versatile Ann Arbor group. Blending solo to five-part vocals with a wide selection of acoustic instruments, June Austin, Gary Reynolds, Dave Crandall, Bill Barton and Myron Grant are at home performing bluegrass, old-timey, folk, blues, jazz and everything in between.

Phoenix

For seven years, Northville's annual folk festival has served as a yearly reunion for guitarists Matt Watroba and Chris Davio and vocalist Ann Anthony — and each time they've appeared, the Plymouth trio's trademark sparkling vocal harmony has made them a festival favorite.

Mustard's Retreat

Ann Arbor-based David Tamulevich and Michael Hough, together known as Mustard's Retreat, are one of Michigan's most popular acoustic music duos. Featuring material as spare as a capella harmony to virtuosic duets on guitar, harmonica, bass, penny whistle, dulcimer, concertina and autoharp, their music touches more bases than Kirk Gibson.

Gamble Rogers

Headlining this year's festival for the first time will be nationally-acclaimed singer-songwriter-storyteller-musician-playwright Gamble Rogers. Rogers' superb guitar finger-picking, his moving voice and his narrative humor straight from the Mark Twain-Will Rogers lineage have drawn praise from reviewers from Rolling Stone, Playboy and The New York Times as well as from festival producer Tom Rice. Rice says, "It's really a thrill and an honor to get Gamble Rogers here."

Welcome

"I would like to share with you my personal feelings about our annual festival. It's been almost 10 years since I lost my sister Donna to Huntington's Disease. About a week before she died, I had a conversation with her in which I promised her I would do anything I could for her children. After her death, I found myself in deep thought on how I could fulfill my promise. You see, HD is hereditary. It has a 50-50 chance of afflicting the victim's children. I wanted to raise money for HD research, and being in the music business, the festival was a natural.

"The festival was born on a very cold October afternoon behind my old Gitfiddler store. It rained and snowed all day, but it inspired me enormously to see some 300 people brave the elements because of their love for folk and bluegrass.

"It's grown and grown through the years, and proudly I can report over $20,000 has been raised. The most fulfilling part of this is that there have been some major breakthroughs in HD research. Woody Guthrie's wife Marjorie, founder of the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease, would have found great joy in knowing this. At one of our festivals, she told me it doesn't really matter how much money is raised — the main effect we need is to bring HD into the light and give its victims the hope of living normal, healthy lives.

"I sincerely thank you from the bottom of my heart for your past support and with great anticipation invite you and your family to join us at the Ninth Annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival for Huntington's Disease."

and family

HUNTINGTON'S DISEASE affects as many as 10 of every 100,000 persons, but the lack of reliable figures may mask an even greater incidence than is now known. Every son or daughter of a parent with HD has a 50 percent chance of inheriting it. Most cases occur between ages 35 and 45, but one in ten cases affects someone under 20. Children as young as two and as old as 80 have been known to develop this chronic, progressive and terminal disease. To find out more about HD, and how you can help in the fight against it, write to: Huntington's Disease Foundation of America, Michigan Chapter, c/o Jerry Wieske, 107 Mark Drive, Mt. Clemens, MI. 48043, phone (313) 463-1189.
