Campaign gathers steam at LWV forum

By KEVIN WILSON

No one would ever mistake it for the Lincoln-Douglas debates, but the seven candidates for Northville City Council each presented their qualifications for public office at last week's League of Women Voters-sponsored forum.

Both candidates for the two-year term as mayor and all five candidates for the two, four-year terms on council appeared at the forum in city hall October 24. Between their opening and closing statements, they fielded questions from an audience composed primarily of friends and family of the candidates.

The forum has been telecast twice on Omnicom Cablevision Channel 8, and will be shown twice more before elec-

Suit against state prison

Northville Township is considering joining Plymouth Township in a lawsuit against the state Department of Corrections seeking quicker action to improve security at Western Wayne Correc-tional Facility (WWCF), formerly the tion day November 5. The next showing is Thursday at 6:30 p.m. and the final opportunity to view the proceedings will be November 2 (Saturday) at 5 p.m.

Playing the starring roles were Mayor Paul Vernon and second-time challenger Eugene (Bud) Kunz, whose verbal sparring highlighted what was otherwise often a deadly dull presentation of similar viewpoints.

Vernon drew the opportunity to make his opening comments first, and capitalized on it by not only citing his own eight-year record as mayor and the improvements made in the city during that time, but also by calling Kunz to task for waivering on his decision as to whether he wanted a second, five-year term with the Housing Commission, for attending few city council meetings and for saying he had been influenced by others both to run for mayor and to continue his term on the housing commission

Citing a statement to The Record when Kunz announced his candidacy in August, Vernon said his challenger had been drafted by "special interest groups," a phrase that was to occur repeatedly throughout the night, though none of the candidates ever defined it.

The criticism may have struck home, as Kunz leapt to his feet to deliver his opening comments, pacing in front of the council table and making broad gestures as he defended his decision to run for mayor.

Kunz never did defend against the "special interest group" quotation, although he hasn't used the phrase to describe his supporters since that one statement in August. What he did do was repeat his assertion that he did not wish to criticize Vernon, then proceed to do precisely that. Claiming he had seen Vernon "falling asleep" at the council table, Kunz urged voters to "get someone in here who has the enthusiasm this man had eight years ago."

By comparison, the five-way council race looked like a sleeper as the candidates concentrated on presenting their own viewpoints and generally treating each other politely.

One zinger question was dispensed with early in the evening, as Maclyn Burns fielded a query about a lawsuit he filed against the city.

"I sued the city three years ago relative to a job loss," the former DPW

Millage request to hire police likely in township

By KEVIN WILSON

The early warning signal sounded Monday night - township voters may be asked to approved increased property taxes for expansion of the police department next year. The first public indication that the board may request increased millage when the police department levy comes up for renewal in August came Monday night during review of the 1986 budget. "I've asked for half a man (a full-time person beginning July 1) in this budget," said police chief Kenneth Hardesty. "That's the bare minimum we need, and I formed the request after looking at the general fund closely. If the money was there, I'd probably be asking for four or five men. I want to plant the idea tonight that we may have to go to voters."

Noting that current police millage generates $409,000 in revenue while the department spends $730,000, Hardesty... said he did not wish to put a strain on other departments by requesting more general fund revenues for department expansion

Township manager Bruno Scacchitti noted that the department also generates roughly $100,000 in income from grants and penal fines, leaving a funding "gap" of $221,000 in the 1986 budget.

Hardesty cited rapid growth and the increased popularity of Northville as a destination for visitors in his arguments that the department must expand. there has been a dramatic increase in the department's caseload and, more recently, a lengthening of response time to citizen calls for police assistance due to a growing workload.

Response time in the past two years, Hardesty estimated, has lengthened by two to three minutes on average and resulted in several complaints from citizens who had to wait for a response to their calls.

-Drunk driver arrests have risen from xpand. 37 in 1983 to a projected 150 this year, he In the past four to five years, he said, - said. Similarly, larcenies from cars totaled 55 in 1984, with 115 projected by December of this year. Stolen car parts totaled 18 cases in 1984, but will be up to 61 at the current pace this year.

Walkaway break-in prompts legal action

By MICHELE M. FECHT

A Northville Township resident said he plans to take legal action against the State of Michigan following last week's break-in at his Marilyn residence by a walkaway from Northville Regional police entered the home and found the patient lying alongside a bed in one of the bedrooms. Larente said the woman was wearing a hospital identification bracelet. According to police, the woman apparently was missing from the hospital since about 9 a.m. the mor-

Detroit House of Correction.

Supervisor Susan Heintz advised the township board Monday night that she has asked the township attorney to discuss the suit with Plymouth Township's attorney.

"Basically, they are taking the position that the state is mandated by law to protect the health, safety and welfare of its residents and to provide secure in-stitutions," Heintz said. "If they are successful, we may be interested in joining them."

In related activity, she said, the cor-rections department advised last week that it has violated the legislative act signed into law last June capping inmate population at Phoenix Correctional Facility in Northville Township, across the street from WWCF.

With the population at WWCF capped at 350 until security improvements are made, the corrections system already beyond capacity and planning on putting as many as 650 at WWCF, some of the "overflow" was routed to Phoenix. Heintz said.

State representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth Township), who wrote the legislation, said that the department, told him last week that the population at Phoenix is roughly 30 inmates above he statutory maximum of 311.

"To their credit, they recognized that they were in violation," he said. "I told them to contact the local townships and advise them of the situation and to try and get the extra people out of there in a couple of weeks."

Heintz spoke with Phoenix superintendent Lloyd May, who said the department expects the facility to meet the legal requiremet in another week or two.

"Ironically," Law said, "I tried to live the department of corrections the flexibility to do something like this when I wrote the bill. It originally allowed them to put extra people in there if they worked it out in advance with the local governments. But the management and budget people crossed it out - they said they couldn't be put in a position of seeking local approval to operate their facilities. "Now, the corrections people come

Robert Hartson of 19733 Marilyn said he plans to file suit sometime this week in connection with the October 22 breakin by a 53-year-old female patient from the state-operated facility.

"I blame the state and the hospital for this," Hartson said. "I'm going to take this as far as I can."

The break-in was discovered at about 1:15 p.m. when Hartson's wife Ann returned home with their three-yearold daughter Angela.

"I could see in the living room window," she said, noting that she observed the woman who was wearing a pink checkered shirt.

"At first I thought it was someone Bob had brought home," she said. "However, when I came up to the door I noticed the broken glass and then just ran across the street." Hartson called police from a neighbor's home.

According to township police, who were dispatched to the scene on a report of a breaking and entering in progress, the subject gained access to the residence by smashing a picture window with a clay flower pot. Police said they believe she entered the home through the hole in the window as the complainant noted the front door to the home was locked at the time the incident occurred.

Police noted that aside from the picture window, no other damage was reported to the home. However, the subject apparently helped herself to leftovers found in the Hartsons' refrigerator. A half bottle of whiskey

After arresting the subject, police transported her to the township police department for processing. The subject was lodged at the station pending a review of a warrant request by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office.

Larente said he contacted a hospital ward supervisor who confirmed that the subject was a patient at the facility. The supervisor further noted that the subject suffered from chronic mental illness but was not homicidal or suicidal.

On October 23, Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Robert Sage and Chief Assistant Prosecutor Richard Padzieski reviewed the case and instructed Officer Larente to contact the state hospital to obtain an opinion from the subject's doctor as to the patient's ability to form criminal intent.

Larente said he called Dr. Janaki Manian, a staff psychiatrist treating the subject, and was advised that his patient was "psychotic" and could not show criminal intent or be mentally Neil Geoghegan, a June, 1985, graduate of Michigan State University, began covering Northville and Novi sports a week ago Monday. He had been working since June on a part-time basis at the Oakland Press, covering a wide variety of events.

He replaces Bruce Martin on the sports beat as Martin shifts to covering the news beat of The Novi News, a beat formerly handled by Patricia Bowling. She has accepted a position with the daily paper in Wheaton, Illinois. Neil says he is doing exactly what he wanted to do for a career as he worked toward his bachelor of arts in communication degree.

He adds that he likes most kinds of sports and prefers high school and college competition to professional. When pressed, he admits he "really likes fall basketball."

Geoghegan (say it Ga-hagen) plays tennis and golf, and notes that knee surgery has prevented participation in more strenuous sports.

As a sports writer on the MSU campus, he covered more than a dozen intercollegiate sports, ranging from golf to football for The State News, the country's largest student daily newspaper.

As sports editor of The Highland Voice, Oakland Community College, Highland Lakes campus, Union Lake, he supervised a sports staff of three writers and wrote a weekly column and covered the Detroit Pistons and Red Wings.

Five candidates in running for two city council seats

By KEVIN WILSON

Northville voters will elect a mayor and two council members November 5. Polls open at 7 a.m. and stay open to 8 p.m. Precinct 1, Wayne County, will vote at city hall, 215 West Main, while Precinct 2, Oakland County ballots will be cast at Amerman Elementary School, 847 North Center.

Absentee ballots are available from the city clerk until 2 p.m. Saturday and only on an emergency basis after that time.

Incumbent mayor Paul Vernon is being challenged by Eugene (Bud) Kunz, Vernon is seeking his fifth consecutive two-year term. Vernon and Kunz were interviewed by The Record staff and stories detailing their views were published last week.

Similar interviews were conducted with the five candidates for the two four-year terms on city council. Each candidate's responses to a list of standard questions, with variations as the need arose, is reported below.

CRonald F. Bodnar

Ronald F. Bodnar, 40, owner of Copy Boy Printing at 342 East Main, is seeking elective office in Northville for the first time. He was an elected precinct delegate in Salem Township in 1968.

Holder of an associate degree in Jour-nalism and English history from Washtenaw Community College, Bodnar has also studied at Eastern Michigan University. He lives at 119 Walnut

Bodnar said he also has an interest in

"figuring out a way to get more people at their meetings" so council would have more citizen input.

"I'd also try to keep the budget down, I really think it's going to blow up," Bodnar said. He noted recent raises granted city employees and asked "where's the money going to come from?" He said the city is almost fully development and that the development developed, and that the development which might occur is not likely to be sufficient to cover rising costs in future years

Bodnar agreed with mayoral candidate Kunz that too many contracts are awarded when only a single bidder is found.

JOHN BUCKLAND

"I think it's highly inappropriate for a council member to appear on another board or commission except, perhaps, as a liaison," he said. "As a person to observe and communicate back to council, yes, maybe to comment during a board meeting but only when asked, but definitely not as a voting member." He said residents and business owners too often face the same people at several different reviews of the same project. If the original review is poor, and the same members sit on another body, he said, "What's the point?"

Bodnar said the common citizen is left out of city government. "It's like a clique, what happened to the represen-tational vote?"

elective office for the first time.

MACLYN BURNS

Buckland said he became involved in Northville when he moved here in 1968 and joined the Jaycees. In 1977 he was appointed to the beautification commission and joined the recreation commission in 1978.

"I'd like to continue to be involved and I think the city council is the next logical challenge," Buckland said of his decision to run. "I think they're doing a fine job the way it is, and would like to continue in that vein."

His priorities include completion of the downtown development plan, including "a solution to what I envision as somewhat of a parking dilemma - I have no specific solutions in mind."

LUIGI (LOU) FOLINO

Buckland said he also likes Northville's "small-town atmosphere" and would work to see that it continues.

His particular perspective on council would be as "fresh blood, we've had the same faces for some time." Asked to elaborate, Buckland said his experience in civic involvement, his ability to work around his business commitments and the fact that he has "no ties to any special interest group and would like to represent all the citizens" differentiate him from the field.

'I've known all the council people for a long time, we get along well," he noted.

Buckland declined comment on

whether the city charter needs amend-ments, saying he hasn't had time to study the charter.

He also said he "needs more information" before commenting on how to pay for road repairs, noting that the council itself seems undecided.

Buckland said he feels Northville, citizens get good value for their tax, dollars and "services are excellent, from snow removal to cleaning the streets." He would emphasize main-. taining or improving services if elected, he said.

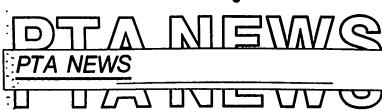

He particularly noted his experience

*words which best describe Homecoming Week. If the rousing school spirit displayed during activities' night and Friday's game are any example of things to come then Northville High School has some very good years ahead. Congratulations to the student body for making it a week all can remember with pride.

Five choir members have been chosen to represent our school in the prestigious Regional Honors Choir. They are: seniors — Jennifer Cox and Leigh Method, junior — Karla Pearson, and sophomores — Jason Merecki and Carrie Bickner. Congratulations to all of them.

- Concerts and banquets fill November's calendar. November 2, the high school bands will participate in a Bandorama at 8 p.m. in Ann Arbor's Hill Auditorium. November 6th, our choirs will hold a concert for the community at 7:30 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church on Eight Mile and Taft. The high school bands will also perform for the community November 21 in the high school auditorium. There will be a golf banquet November 5 at 7 p.m. in Bryant school and a football banquet November 6 at 6:30 p.m. in Schoolcraft College's Waterman Center.

An in-school suspension program has been implemented at the high school. It is hoped this new program will reduce the number of out of school suspensions, provide a structured environment for those students who have been removed from a class due to behavioral or attendance problems, and also provide a supervised environment for those students who are in need of a study period during the academic day. Students may be assigned to the "special assignment room" by the administration for an hour a day, or for the duration of the entire suspension period. Students who have been involved in major offenses (drugs, alcohol, fighting, theft, etc.) will be subject to the out of school suspension policy.

Teaching the realities of Applied Economics is no easy task, so Mike Burley has enlisted the aid of three consultants from the Junior Achievement Program. They are Bruce Swancutt of Ford Motor Company and Connie Riley and Linda Burk of Michigan Bell. With their help the students have formed a company and have sold stock at $2 a share to friends and family. With this capital the students were able to purchase their product. One class is selling mugs for $3.50 and another is selling Mustang bumper stickers for $1. As their product begins to sell — and hopefully make a profit — the stockholders will receive dividends on their investment. A hands-on project like this, combined with the textbook exercises, can do much to enhance a student's understanding of the subject matter. We wish the students success in their business venture College visitations for November are as follows: November 4, Northern Michigan, 10 a.m.; Lawrence Tech, 10:30 a.m.; November 6, Central College of Iowa, 11:30 a.m.; November 7, Wayne State, 11:15 a.m.; November 12, Grand Valley, 9 a.m.; November 12, Kendall School of Design, 9 a.m.; November 14, Detroit College, 9 a.m.; November 18, Illinois Wesleyan University, 9 a.m.

A dance will be sponsored by the freshmen and sophomores November 22 at the high school annex at 8:30 p.m. The yearbook staff, under the direction of Carol Rahimi, will be meeting every Thursday evening from now through November or longer. National Honor Society members will be selling their Entertainment Book now through November 16. It costs $8.

WILLIAM ALLAN

Children at the William Allan Academy are enjoying the pleasures of the autumn season. Nature walks, studying seeds and plants in science and a trip to the cider mill were favorite activities for kindergartners.

The first/second graders at the academy loved doing "Monster stories" complete with a mask depicting their creations. They also compiled leaf books and constructed science projects.

The third/fourth graders have been equally busy and enjoying their study of "Living Things." They visited the Science Museum in Ann Arbor and headed to the library for research on a special report.

The fifth/sixth graders still are talking about their week-long study at Cranbrook.

With Halloween upon us, all the students will be participating in a hayride and pumpkin picking at a local farm.

Amerman Students are to be commended for their superb salesmanship in selling the candy and nut canisters. The anticipated goal was doubled, and the school extends a special thanks to the community for their support with this fund raiser.

The traditional Halloween parade will take place on Halloween as lower elementary students exhibit their creative costumes. Homeroom mothers have planned classroom parties to culminate the day. Our best wishes are extended to

Our best wishes are extended to James Honey with his new position as a principal in another district. He was honored at a dinner for his 17 years of service in the Northville schools. He was presented with a principal desk plaque from Amerman P.T.A. and an attache case from the Amerman staff. Amerman welcomes Cheryl Holmberg who has taken his fifth grade class.

Congratulations to the followng Student Council Officers: President Nicki Chaudoin, Vice-President Amy Stringer and Secretary Anthony Wen. A representative from each classroom in Grades 2-5 will serve on the Council, which will plan special activities to keep the Amerman spirit alive.

The Holiday Shoppe will be held the week of December 9. We are in need of homemade items for the Shoppe. Anyone wishing to donate can contact Julie Betzler (348-3584), Kay Raby (349-6247) or Margaret Surdu (349-76650).

Parent-Teacher conferences will be held the week of November 4. Children will be'dismissed at noon Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of that week. Conference times will be scheduled for each student by the teachers.

The next PTA meeting is Tuesday, November 5, at 9:30 a.m. in the multipurpose room. Everyone is welcome to attend.

This year the Book Fair will be held during National Children's Book Week. Children will preview the books n November 13, and books can be puchased during school hours on November 14, 15 and 18 with additional hours on Thursday from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m. The Book Fair will close at noon on Monday, November 18. Books for children of all ages will be provided by School Book Inc.

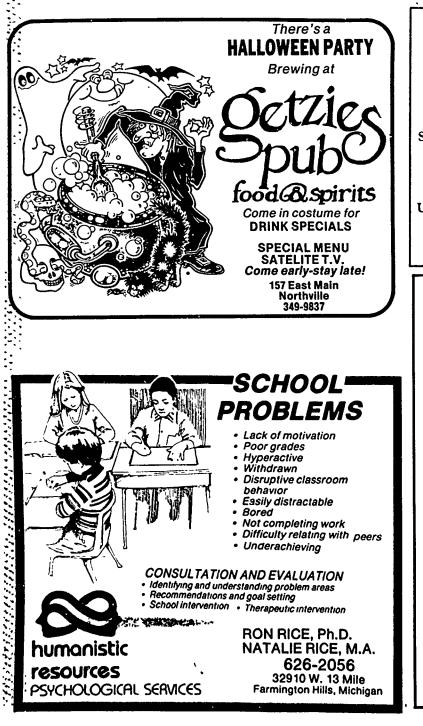

Students are well into the swing of school with classrooms busy with activities. Mrs. Najarian's and Mrs. Akin's classes have been busy planting bulbs so that Amerman will be adorned with beautiful spring flowers. Mrs. Wuestnick's 4th graders attended the Gem Show at the Armory in conjunction with their study of rocks and minerals. Fifth Graders in the Gifted and Talented Program spent four days at Cranbrook this month. Mrs. Krictz's kindergarten classes took their annual Autumn Walk to the Northville Farmer's Market. They were accompanied by a 5th Grade "buddy" from Jeff Lightfoot's class who helped them purchase items at the market and then helped them write experience stories after their return.

with the recreation commission, where the budget recently passed the $300,000 mark as an asset for a newcomer to city council who must deal with the city budget.

Maclyn Burns

Maclyn Burns, 48, is seeking his first elective city office in this election. Superintendent of maintenance for Our Lady of Victory Church and owner of Lee Janitorial, Burns is a former city DPW worker laid off in budget cutbacks.

A Northville native and 1957 graduate of Northville High School, Burns is a member of Kiwanis, Eagles Auxiliary, Moose Lodge 195 and the Mt. Pleasant Elks. He lives at 502 Gardner.

-Although he has sued the city over the loss of his DPW job, Burns said his candidacy has nothing to do with retribution for his dispute with city hall and the suit is over.

"There's no animosity," he said. "The idea that I'd want to go up there and try to get back at certain individuals is asinine."

Burns said he still believes the DPW is not large enough and that it could handle much of the work being contracted to private enterprise, but said that is not among his priorities for the city should he be elected.

Among his goals, Burns said, is seeing that second phase of the downtown improvement project gets under way. He said part of the city's growth should include residential development downtown.

"I'd like to see more people living in the downtown area," he said, "maybe the (100 North Center project proposed by the 108 Group) will do that. I hope it's not priced out of reach of the average guy.'

A second priority, he said, is street repair. "Everything a block away from Main is a mess," Burns said. "It may take a bond issue, but it's got to be done. It's getting worse — cold patch is not doing the job.

Burns said he dislikes city taxes. "Everybody does, but the taxes never go away," he said. "That's what's good about a bond issue for streets - it eventually goes away while millage just stays there."

One asset of his candidacy, Burns said, is that he works in town and is available to both the government and the residents on a routine basis.

He said his perspective as a native of the city might give him a different view of issues from some of the other candidates.

Burns said his desire is to serve "all the people. Whatever the issue is, it has to benefit all the citizens of Northville, not just the merchants, or just one group.' He would expect to "sit back for six months" at the beginning of his term to study city operations before being able to make valuable contributions, Burns said. Carolann Ayers, he said, "really brought up a good point when she brought up bringing the League of Women Voters in to look at some of the issues that have taken place." Burns said he is not aware of enough detail about the city charter to say whether it should be amended or not, but that he thinks it deserves study.

Luigi Folino

Luigi (Lou) Folino, 24, is making his first run for public office, having only recently returned to town from college. The nephew of present council member Paul Folino, he lives in his father Steve's home at 726 West Main.

A carrier account specialist with Lexitel Corporation, a communications company with offices in Birmingham, Folino has a bachelor of arts degree from James Madison College, Michigan State University. He is studying for a master of science degree in administra-tion at the Central Michigan University Trov campus.

Folino cites a one year Washington, D.C., internship among his credentials for office, along with his status as a native of Northville and graduate of the high school.

He said he decided to run "because I think the town needs a broader voice and I saw this as an opportunity to get involved with the community, now that I've returned from college and plan to make my life here."

Folino said he hopes his youth "won't hurt me" at the polls and that he knows "change is going to come hard in this community.

His top priority, Folino said, will be "making sure all of Northville has a voice on council" and that decisions made at the council table "are things that benefit all the residents."

Another theme of his campaign is a call for cost-benefit analysis of many city operations. "Let's make sure what we spend is correct to make the revenue we have work the best for everyone," he said.

Folino said he thinks he could get along well with present council members, but stressed that he would work to preserve his "independence. I think I would provide a good balance. Right now we have a certain group competing against a second group - I'd try to cut through that."

He said street repair costs should be allocated by a means that pays for work done on main thoroughfares from the general fund while costs for repair to side streets "might have to be assessed against the residents of the street, or at least a small portion."

On the general topic of street repair and city operations, Folino said "we have decent services, though they could be better. We almost have to sell new roads — there's going to be a lot of resistance to paying for it."

Folino said discussion of city charter deficiencies "has raised enough questions that the topic at least has to be studied. We have to update it for modern times, you have to sit down and review it carefully. I think we should find some concerned citizens, people who don't sit on any boards or commissions right now, and have them review

Downtown improvements should pro-ceed, Folino said, "but let's make every dollar count. And let's make it a community project - get everyone involved. If you step on toes, you create problems."

Folino said he is stressing in his campaign his education and training in 'budget program analysis. It takes a tremendous amount of learning - city government is always changing, and you have to keep up with the latest information."

He also depicted a vision of a changing Northville, one that is beginning to attract a new influx of younger residents who deserve representation in government.

"People my age and a little older are moving in and buying homes here," he said. "If we are going to be paying the high taxes, we ought to have a say in

The only incumbent in the field is G. Dewey Gardner, who is seeking his third, four-year term while stating he will resign after two years to run for mayor.

Gardner has been mayor pro tem for the past six years. His civic involve-ment includes membership on the historic district commission, downtown development authority, retail merchants' association and chamber of commerce, among others. Owner of IV Seasons Flowers & Gifts at 149 East Main, Gardner lives at 850 North Center.

In deciding to seek re-election, Gardner said he went back to the original reason he ran eight years ago - to work to improve the downtown, which he says benefits all residents.

"I think that if the downtown is strong, and you have good schools, you've got a good community," Gard-ner said. "Eight years ago, I ran to see what could be done about improving the downtown, and four years ago was a continuation of that. Now that we've got it started, I wanted to continue to be a part of it."

Gardner said he was also encouraged to run because "I think the people want me there," noting that far more people asked to sign his nominating petition

"After my cataract surgery, not only could I see...I could see my doctor really cared for me."

When my doctor at Livonia Cataract Center told us that there was an excellent chance that cataract surgery could help restore my vision, my wife and I were grateful but still a little scared. After all, we really didn't know what to expect.

In his gentle and reassuring way, my doctor told us that with today's advanced procedures, my operation would take only a very short time and I'd be home the same day. There would be little or no discomfort before or after surgery and, if necessary, Livonia Cataract Center would be happy to provide us with free transportation to and from the operation.

When the surgery was over, I was very grateful for my doctor's skill and for his kindness. Do you know he called me after surgery to see how I was doing? He even sent us a plant. And my insurance covered the entire fee so I had no out of pocket cost.

Call Livonia Cataract Center at 522-0805 to see for yourself why our patients say "there is no better cataract care anywhere."

competent to stand trial.

Based on Manian's opinion, the prosecutor denied issuing a warrant against the subject.

The prosecutor's action in the case has sparked angry criticism from Township Police Chief Ken Hardesty. "I've been here 15 years and that's not the way we've ever handled it," Hardesty said of the prosector's refusal to issue a warrant on the basis of an opinion from the woman's doctor. "I can accept a refusal from foren-

"I can accept a refusal from forensics," Hardesty said. "Not from the hospital." Padzieski defended his actions noting that he based his decision on the grounds that the woman broke a window and confiscated leftovers.

"Every crime has to have a criminal intent," he said, adding that in this case he did not believe the patient showed criminal intent. He further stated that he refused to issue a warrant on the basis that "the doctor at the hospital said she was not fit to stand trial."

Last week's incident once again has raised concern over security at the state hospital.

"With the staff over there they should be able to control it," Hardesty said. "I've got 10 officers out on the road and we've got enough to do let alone take care of something the state's supposed to be doing."

Hardesty referred to the hospital's recently completed three-sided chainlink fence as "a joke."

The six-foot fence running along three sides (south, east and west) of the hospital has large gaps near the powerhouse and where internal roads pass through. Though the front of the facility has not been fenced, security officers are supposed to be manning the entrance from a guard house.

Noting that he was "very upset" over last week's episode, State Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) said he believes the hospital will have to beef up security.

"For years the hospital authorities have told us that we could put up a fence along three sides and that they would take care of security in the front."

Also expressing concern was representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth Township), who said he was exasperated by the dual security problems with the hospital and state prisons within his district.

"It's the same thing over and over," he said. "They promise something and they don't deliver. That fence (at the hospital) is not what it was supposed to be. If they can't carry through on a simple three-sided fence and improved security, we ought to just go for a foursided, 10-foot fence around the whole thing with just one entrance at the front where a guard is posted."

(R- He further suggested the fence should be "wired" like corrections department fences, which sound an alarm when ate touched or moved.

The Hartsons, who purchased their Marilyn home only a year ago, said last week's incident has caused considerable alarm among their neighbors.

"No matter how well you lock your doors and windows it is not a deterrent," Robert Hartson noted. "When we bought this house, we knew the hospital was there," he explained. "However, we also knew the state police post was just down the street. "It bothers me as to why she picked our house," Hartson said, adding that no one heard the woman smash the window as the houses on their street are set so far apart.

He said neighbors plan to petition the township board of trustees November 14 to push for more security at the state hospital.

"Realistically they should do more than they're doing," he noted. "Fence it in four ways and put a security guard in the booth.

"I can't believe this is going be just 'Oh well, another incident.'

"I don't think we should wait until somebody gets hurt."

Babcock to attend meet

By KEVIN WILSON

Michigan Department of Mental Health director C. Patrick Babcock is scheduled to appear at the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting November 14 to discuss local concern regarding Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital (NRPH) security.

Babcock may be walking into a hurricane, as dissatisfaction with the construction of a security fence at NRPH and the subsequent escape of a patient who broke into a nearby residence (see related story) is certain to draw a crowd of angry residents, while the township hoard itself is contemplating a lawsuit against the department.

a lawsuit against the department. Babcock had been tentatively scheduled to attend the board's October meeting, but later confirmed the November date. Both the fence and walkaway issues have become more heated in the intervening period.

Township trustees Monday night asked that Babcock be advised by registered mail of their concerns prior to the meeting.

to the meeting. "He should be prepared to answer some of our questions," said treasurer Richard Henningsen. "Give the man some advance notice so he's not sitting out there saying, 'Oh, you have a problem? We'll look into it.' Give it to him upfront so he has 10 days, or five days or three days or whatever, to know what we want to discuss."

Township supervisor Susan Heintz said she was particularly concerned that the patient who broke into a house last week "escaped from a secure area — she wasn't one of those who had a grounds pass and wandered away, she went out through an unsecured kitchen door." Hointz colled the resultion that what

Heintz called the revelation that what township officials thought would be a continuous three-sided fence in actuality has large gaps in it, "ridiculous."

She further cited the weekend arrest of a walkaway patient who had escape earlier and attempted to steal a bicycle. "We just got a warrant on this man because of his earlier escape, and here he is wandering loose in the community again," she said. "Here they have a patient with an outstanding warrant against him, and they can't keep him in the hospital."

Trustee Thomas Cook said that report worried him.

"Half the people that are in there (as patients) are smarter than the guys that are watching them," he said. Heintz said she wants to press Babcock for improved security along the Seven Mile Rcad frontage, which is entirely unfenced. Continued walkaways, she said, may justify a lawsuit.

she said, may justify a lawsuit. "It would be based on a breach of duty to safeguard the health, safety and welfare and a legal requirement to provide secure institutions," Heintz said, noting that Plymouth Township is pursuing a similar argument in regard to a state prison.

"The problem for an individual (suing the state) may be that they run into governmental immunity, while we may be able to get around that," she added.

than are allowed to do so.

He said his enthusiasm for the job is no less than it was eight years ago, but that it has matured. "Some of the mundane parts of a council member's job are routine after eight years, so you are able to concentrate on the larger issues.

Priorities for the coming term, Gardner said, include a review of the city charter to update it, and a review and revision of the master plan of land use.

The master plan revision is the first necessary step toward a second phase downtown improvement project, Gardner said, and was recently requested by the DDA.

"The master plan, and the charter, need to change with the times," Gard-ner said. "I'm not absolutely in agreement with some of the arguments presented regarding candidacies and the like, but the charter does need updating.

He said council should play a role in the review, but that a committee of citizens not involved in government at present is a preferred method. He noted that, despite publicity that the city is seeking members for a charter review committee, not one applicant has requested an appointment.

"The budget is always a priority," he continued. "I think we've done some things that prove we're conscientious about it. We kept our promise to reduce the millage, kept their taxes down. I'm a taxpayer, too, I don't like the millage to get too high.

'But I hink we've given the residents excellent tax value," he added

Street repair, Gardner said, has been 'one of my big projects - I started talking about it three years ago. I do not know how we're going to finance it. Once the study is done, I'm sure we'll come up with a method that is fair and equitable for everyone.

Downtown parking is a "wonderful problem," Gardner said, noting that eight years ago the problem was that we had no one to fill the spaces - you could shoot a cannon down Main Street Continued on 11 security improvements to the local police chiefs and township govern-ments. "Basically, if the townships and their police chiefs are happy with the security arrangements, I'm happy," he said.

The progress is evidently too slow for Plymouth Township's board, however, as it approved the filing of a lawsuit at its meeting October 22.

Plymouth Township supervisor Maurice Breen told the trustees he still has doubts about security at WWCF following two break-outs and subsequent meetings with prison administrators.

"Although ... they have gone forward and started doing some things they said they'd do, the fact of the matter is that it's a slow process and nothing has been done of substance to ensure the safety of the community," Breen said. The township's suit seeks an injunction prohibiting the housing of inmates convicted of felonies until construction is finished making WWCF comply with state standards for a medium-security institution.

Emmet Baylor, superintendent of WWCF, said he was stunned by Breen's allegations and the lawsuit.

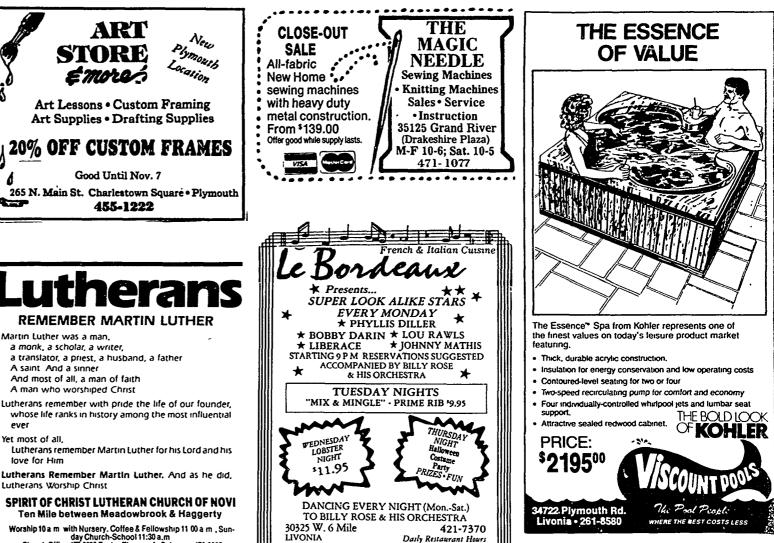

He said the contemplated work to secure the facility would be finished this week. Baylor said he has acted in good faith and "would hate to have someone" file suit against the institution when it is working to respond to the issues.

Heintz said Monday night, however, that she believes a lawsuit may be the only means of ensuring state compliance with its own guidelines. "When they can't even comply with a legislative act that's less than six months old, how are you going to deal with them?" she asked.

Noting that many of the same issues raised in Plymouth Township's suit may apply to Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, Heintz said she is even more interested in pursuing the possibilities of suing the department of mental health for injunctive relief against the walkaway problem.

"If the court's buy Plymouth Township's approach on the safety and welfare angle, it may be that we should be considering a suit against both the department of corrections and the department of mental health." she said.

Budget meets deadline

By KEVIN WILSON

Northville Township approved a $1.9 million operating budget for fiscal 1986 during a special meeting Monday night, but the figures are far from firm.

Protesting the charter township restrictions that require adoption of a budget for the next fiscal year by November 1, treasurer Richard Henningsen told board members they would probably start seeing amendments to the budget before the beginning of the year January 1.

As it stands, the budget includes no specific salary figures for 12 key employees, including all the department heads. Instead, there is a lump sum of $376,285 to be distributed among the 12 employees after performance evaluations and wage scales are established.

The absence of specific salary figures, plus the decision to hire two new employees on a contractual basis. also means no specific fringe benefit costs are appropriated to the various departments, township manager Bruno Scacchitti said.

As adopted, the new budget is in immediate need of amendments as it regards the contribution to senior citizen programming, planning commission activities and the board of review.

It includes two new positions in the general administration office and the elimination of another, for a net gain of one full-time staffer at the department head level. Also included is the midyear addition of an 11th police officer.

On the revenue side, budget projections show an increase of $18,000 in property tax revenue despite a incremental rollback of millage rates. Overall, revenues are projected to increase by more than $207,000, including nearly $140,000 carried over from the current year - nearly $100,000 more than the prior year figure. The change from general law to charter township status and from an April-March fiscal year to a calendar year period resulted in an interim budget for nine months.

The large fund reserve is a result of the short year, Scacchitti said, and should be lower in future years. He suggested $100,000 would be an adequate figure to carry forward from year-toear as a reserve for emergencies.

Henningsen stressed that the figures are still not pinned down.

"November 1 is too early (a legal deadline)," he told supervisor Susan Heintz. "It should be December 15 (for final adoption of the budget)."

Heintz noted that the requirement "puts it before the election in those years, so you have the incumbent board setting the budget for the first year efore any new people come on.'

"Yeah," said Henningsen. "That's wrong.'

Charter township financial requirements are written into state law. Heintz suggested an examination of the possibilities for charter amendments in townships.

Later, Henningsen moved approval of the budget, even though he was dissatisfied with its condition.

"You have asked for it to be adopted, but you don't like it," asked a bemused Heintz

"That's correct," the treasurer responded. "My understanding is that you're allowed to amend a budget in this state just about any time you want. so I guess that's what we'll have to do. You'll probably see this again next month and the month after that."

Scacchitti noted that the budget is a planning document, not a hard-and-fast spending plan, and is normally subject to change.

Gardner noted that his assets as a councilmember include availability in wn all day. "I'm here in town, people cars, the total cost of adding one officer is roughly $50,000. Henningsen has long argued that the police and fire departments should be funded by their earmarked millage and not rely too heavily on the township general fund for supplemental Scacchitti noted that the difference between the earmarked millage income and the actual spending levels for police and fire protection has generally been covered by income sources outside the township's control.

"The increases we've had in state revenues, that's what has funded the police and fire department, essentially, for the spending over and above their millages," he said.

The solution today, he said, would be concentrated in the Cady Street area. "If it's going to be a deck, I want it to be a deck that people come from all over "I won't settle for a big, gray, concrete thing. If it's a deck, it has to be landscaped, skylighted so it is well-lit all day and attractive, maybe bricked."

we're doing on council." Gardner said he feels comfortable asking the people to elect him to a fouryear term when he intends to fulfill only half of it "because I'm telling them ahead of time - if they don't like it, they don't have to vote for me. Basically, my decision was not to run when Paul (Vernon) ran. I think he's a good - I don't think he's irmayor replacable, and I'm going to run in two years.'

The situation will not, he said, create tension on council in the next two years. "I think we've all gotten along better, now that these things are out in the open, then we did before. I don't think can and do walk up to me at any time bickering and nit-picking are in this

Valuables stolen in jewelry store heist

In the township ...

Police Blotters

Thousands of dollars worth of jewelry was stolen from Michel's Fine Jewelry on West Seven Mile at about 2:45 a.m.

October 23, township police report. Officers dispatched to the scene noted the front door of the store apparently had been smashed with a cinder block found on the floor inside the business.

The glass on four showcases also was broken and police noted that numerous watches and earrings appeared to be missing.

A ceramic flower piece apparently was used to break the showcase glass. Police noted that one of the subject(s) appeared to have cut himself as blood was observed on a piece of broken glass and on top of one showcase.

The township dispatcher was in-structed to broadcast the incident to area departments and Michigan State Police tracking dogs were requested.

A tracking dog followed a track to the side of Auto-Wize in the Highland Lakes Shopping Center where police believe the subject(s) fled the scene by car.

The incident remains under in-vestigation. Police have not determined the value of the stolen items.

An electrical fire caused an estimated $2,000 damage to a 1978 Chevy parked in the driveway of a Scenic Harbour residence at about 9:30 a.m. October 27, township police report.

The complainant told police that when he attempted to start his vehicle, he heard a loud noise and observed smoke coming from his dashboard.

He further stated he went back into his house to call police and when he returned found the vehicle completely engulfed in flames.

The complainant said the vehicle contained lamps, toys and gifts valued at about $2.000.

The officer at the scene spoke with township fire officials who stated the cause of the fire was electrical and that it started on the driver's side of the vehicle.

Douglas W. Campbell, owner of Elizabeth's Restaurant at 227 Hutton, has been arrested on a Liquor Control Commission violation.

Acting on information that Elizabeth's was allowing patrons to bring alcoholic beverages into the restaurant and consume them on the premises, a city officer visited the restaurant at 8:08 p.m. October 17 by the front door. He reported observing from the narrow hallway that a bottle was chilling inside an ice chest and that there were glasses on the table. He was approached by Christopher Campbell, son of the owner. He asked to see a menu and questioned what kind of wine was served

He was told the restaurant does not serve alcoholic beverages but that diners can bring either wine or champagne.

The officer left and summoned a patrol unit. He and the two patrol officers then entered the restaurant through the kitchen and advised that the wine and glasses of four diners would be confiscated and submitted to the prosecution for enforcement of the LCC violation.

A patron, with his companion, both from Southfield, said he had brought the asti spumante but that the glasses were supplied by the restaurant. Another couple, from Royal Oak and Huntington Woods respectively, had a half-full bottle of 1984 white zinfandel. Campbell requested to see a copy of the law and was given a copy of liquor act 436.26 C. A check with the liquor commission confirmed that there was no record of Campbell having a permit. A misdemeanor warrant was issued. and the plaintiff appeared before 35th District Judge James Garber and was arrested. He posted a $500 personal bond. Police Chief Rodney Cannon said the inspection of the premises was part of a routine check of local establishments. He added that Campbell had been warned previously that permitting diners to bring in liquor was not allowed.

He said his department had received complaints about the practice and that the LCC had sent a letter to his department about 10 months ago stating it understood the police department was overlooking the practice of diners br-inging in wine and advising it was against the law.

Cannon said the letter was taken before city council at the time.

A Dearborn resident reported to police at 10:18 p.m. October 25 that his pocket had been picked of $680 at Northville Downs.

The complainant stated he had the money (five $100 bills and 14 $20 bills) in a front pant pocket when he had bet on the seventh race and went out by the fence at the finish line to watch the race.

It wasn't until he reached into his pocket to place a bet on the eighth race that he discovered the money had been stolen. He told police he had no idea who could have taken it.

Larceny from barn M at Northville Downs of two set of horse harnesses and other items valued at a total of $2,502 was reported to police. The complainant said the equipment was taken between 4 p.m. October 22 and 8 a.m. October 23 and noted that the barn doors are left open. No one was seen in the area except employees.

Eight minutes after Novi police entered the theft of a 1985 Chrysler stationwagon valued at $11,000 into the LEIN network Northville City Police recovered the vehicle from the Ford Field driveway on the north side of the field. The vehicle was found in park gear resting against a tree with the front wheels slightly off the ground, the report stated.

It was recovered by the owner.

Larceny of auto parts of a 1985 Lincoln Continental parked in a driveway on Lexington was reported to police October 23. Damage to the antenna and punctures of both tires on the passenger side were noted and estimated at $300.

A malicious destruction of property was reported to police at 8:03 a.m. Oc-tober 21 by an Allen Drive owner of a 1955 Mercedes Benz. The owner reported that wires and hoses under the hood had been cut with damage estimated at $227. The complainant said there had been no problems with any neighbors and had no idea who was responsible.

Larceny from a 1985 Chevrolet van parked on Jeffrey was reported to police at 4:30 p.m. October 21. An estimated total of $1,054 was reported stolen, including a rador detector. speed drill, cassette and sun glasses.

Larceny from a 1978 Chevrolet van parked in city lot No. 4 (behind Big Boy restaurant) was reported to police by a Zeeland, Michigan, resident October 22. Entry was obtained through the right sliding door. An estimated value of $1,127 was placed on items missing, including a digital watch, suitcases, leather jacket and other items of clothing.

employee said. "I felt at that time that the position shouldn't be eliminated, and I still feel today that the position shouldn't have been eliminated.

Burns said the suit has been dropped and the dispute was not his motive for running for the council. He noted one of his four children is presently a city employee.

Mayoral candidate Kunz said he was not "privy to" to the city budget when asked what detailed changes he might make. "It's obvious I have not been in-formed of what the current budget is," he said, but went on to charge there was too much waste, citing the awarding of contracts when only one bid was receiv-

A later question dealing with special interests claimed such people had been served for many years and asked candidates what they'd do about it.

Both incumbents -- Vernon and coun cil member Dewey Gardner - said they were unaware of any groups that receive special treatment. Council candidate John Buckland said he was unaware of a problem, but that he intends to serve a "large cross-section" of the community.

Burns noted that he has lived in Northville all his life and "I've heard about special interest groups . . . I think any group that comes before council and gets what it wants is called a special interest group. I don't think it's an issue.' In contrast, Kunz and council candidate Ron Bodnar claimed there is partiality in city government.

"It's not special interests so much as partiality," Kunz said. "When you do something one week for someone, then you don't for someone else the next week, it's obvious there are people who get special favors."

Council hopeful Ron Bodnar, casting a glance at his fellow candidates, said, of anyone with experience in town, "if they don't think there's special interest groups, they don't know what's going on." He urged an end to the practice of having one person sitting on several boards or commissions, with particular reference to city council members who serve on other boards. "I would really like to see more strangers on boards and commissions."

All said the time has passed for annexation with the township. Bodnar projected "problems down the road" as the township continues to grow and becomes the larger and more wealthy community. He said that necessitates city action preparing for a day when the downtown may be threatened economically.

Vernon said he was "proud of the relationship we have with the township today," citing the hard work necessary to heal the rift that developed a decade ago and stating that "annexation does not even cross my mind anymore." The incumbent mayor went further, to cite a recent conversation with township supervisor Susan Heintz in which he suggested exploring the idea of a joint master plan for land use that would protect the downtown.

Kunz said the city and township should consider "sharing more things, police and fire, maybe, someday in the future" but agreed that annexation was a "dead issue."

Another question suggested that city council has consistently supported Nor-thville Downs in its quest for additional racing dates. Council candidate Luigi Folino said that, while the track is an asset, "I don't think it should be a yearround burden."

Both Vernon and Gardner said they believed a slightly longer season would benefit the city by increasing revenues from parimutuel taxes. Vernon noted that a shift in the season, substituting some summer dates for some winter dates, would result in lowered snow removal costs for the city.

A more complex question also related to the Downs, as candidates tried to imagine how the city would deal with it should the racetrack ever close down. The question resulted in some light-hearted commentary, with Burns suggesting "we might all have to move to Call for

PERM

Plymouth" and Bodnar saying he would want "the concession to sell refreshments to all the people lining up" to buy the property. Burns suggested that light industrial use might be appropriate, while Bodnar suggested the residential or business development would be more appropriate so close to the heart of downtown. "Everybody wants to come here so bad, I don't think it would be a problem," Bodnar said.

Buckland said the city would "cross that bridge when we come to it," while Folino noted it would take "quick, ef-fective land management" to make proper use of the vast area, suggesting that tax abatements might lure developers to the site. He further suggested that city services might have to be cut.

Gardner cited a council request for a planning commission study of that issue. The study has not yet been com-pleted, but Gardner said he thought the city would be prepared for the Downs closing if it ever happens.

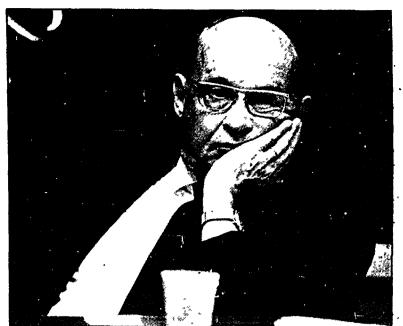

Vernon and Kunz did not differentiate themselves strongly. Vernon noted the city would realize a savings from reduced police costs, being able to reduce the size of the department, but that the loss of revenue could approach $900,000 a year. He opposed industrial use, but said the track's location would make it an attractive site for development.

Kunz said a shopping center might be appropriate, noting that "there are smaller towns than Northville that don't have race tracks that are wealthy.'

In their closing comments, both Kunz and Vernon lamented the lack of voter interest in city politics, noting that the turnout two years ago was below 30 percent. Kunz urged a strong turnout, saying that a high number of voters would give him more leverage when dealing with state and county governments. "We're small, but we're mighty," he said loudly.

Vernon said he, too, hopes for a strong voter turnout, lamenting the "complacency" of voters who assume things will turn out okay and citing a danger in "a certain amount of dissenters, who vote against whoever is in office.'

Gardner took exception to a comment

Folino stressed his youth and education, asking voters to elect him for 'young, fresh ideas" in city government.

14-A---THE NORTHVILLE RECORD--Wednesday, October 30, 1985

GENERAL EXCELLENCE

The Northville Record

Listening to your opponent in a mayoral election can prompt one to seek divine mercy, as both incumbent mayor Paul Vernon and challenger Eugene (Bud) Kunz demonstrated at LWV candidate forum

Our Opinions

Toss-up: Mayoral race poses tough choice

Next Tuesday, Northville city voters will choose their mayor for the next two years. It is an important choice, one we urge voters to consider very closely and one we hope spurs a greaterthan-usual turnout at the polls.

It is customary for The Record to provide readers with some guidance in this decision in the form of an endorsement supporting one candidate and explaining the reasons why. These endorsements are not meant to dictate the final selection, but to serve as a guide to an informed electorate. We are careful to supply our reasons, so that readers may choose to accept or reject our opinions depending on their own views.

Regretfully, we are not offering an endorsement for mayor in this election. Neither candidate, in the collective opinion of our editorial staff, has our full support. While we have no candidate to endorse, we can explain the rationale behind our decision in hopes voters may still find our thinking on this issue of value in making their own choices.

Our dilemma is nothing new. Voters say, with disturbing regularity, that they often are faced with voting for candidates who do not reflect their goals. Our evaluation of the strengths and weaknesses of both Paul Vernon and Eugene (Bud) Kunz does not permit such a simplistic decision. Let us make clear at the outset that we don't believe this is a crisis — Northville is unlikely to be seriously affected under either man's leadership.

In the absence of any burning issues that divide the candidates, what really separates them is experience and a more intangible style or philosophy of leadership. If experience and past record are your primary criteria, Paul Vernon's eight years as "mayor combined with his record of accomplishments makes the choice very easy — no candidate, regardless of background, can responsibly challenge the notion that Northville has made great strides under his leadership. One aspect of that leadership was beating down the opposition to such evident triumphs as the Mainstreet 78 project. Unfortunately, Vernon doesn't restrict his use of steamroller tactics against opponents to those issues that require it. He is, generally speaking, intolerant of those with views that differ from his own, and impatient with those who would question city government's priorities. Vernon is fond of saying that "honest people, equally informed, seldom disagree." Whatever truth there is in that statement is often lost in Vernon's use of it to imply that anyone who disagrees with him must be either dishonest or ignorant.

In his past term we have seen him verbally berate anyone he perceives as a "dissenter," being openly rude to fellow council members or, worse, citizens appearing before the council. In one instance, he implied that guests of a chamber of commerce cocktail party downtown would be engaged in some form of unseemly revel and might damage city property, as if they were common vandals. His vote against allowing such a party in a city park may have been justified; his remarks were not.

Similar ill-considered remarks were aired during discussion of storage facilities at the Ford plant, and frequently the mayor speaks disparagingly of various downtown merchants who have disagreed with his views. So-called dissenters who seek to participate in city government are rejected rather than brought into the fold. The list could go on, but our point is made. Those who speak of "special interest groups" use a misnomer in criticizing Vernon. The problem is not that he treats some people too well, it's that he carries grudges against others for long periods and uses his position to exact his revenge. After eight years as mayor, we believe Vernon has accumulated such a long list of people whose views he disregards that he is incapable of serving effectively as mayor of all of Northville. posing the incumbent. It is a sad state of affairs that Vernon's proud record of accomplishments could not have ended in a graceful withdrawal from his position and a handing of the reins to one of these well-prepared successors. We can only hope that, if he is re-elected, a tough challenge will inform Vernon of the need to bring all the people of Northville into his inner circle.

Which brings us to Bud Kunz, whom Vernon probably correctly depicts as the candidate of the dissenters. Were we, as the mayor puts it, really "seeking change merely for the sake of change," we would endorse Kunz. But we are not seeking change for its own sake, and for all his improvements since his previous candidacy, Kunz does not reach the heights of quality we seek in a new mayor. His assets are an evident displeasure with the way city affairs have come to be dominated by a group of insiders and a commitment to changing that. We believe he really could bring new enthusiasm to city government.

There's more to leading a city than enthusiasm, though. Kunz really hasn't done enough background work to justify making him mayor. More informed than he was two years ago, the challenger is still capable of claiming he is "not privy" to the city's present budget when, in fact, the budget is a public document every bit as accessible as Paul Vernon's attendance record, which Kunz seemed to have no trouble becoming "privy to" when he needed an issue.

If we could have Vernon's knowledge and connections with Kunz's more open-minded philosophy regarding how a democratic government should be run, we'd endorse such a candidate without qualm. We cannot, however, in good conscience endorse a fifth term for Paul Vernon. Nor can we responsibly urge upon the voters a change in leadership just for the sake of change. Citizens will have to choose for themselves which is preferable: a continuation of Vernon's increasingly divisive style of leadership, or the risks of putting the inexperienced Kunz at the council's head.

That is why we had hoped another council member, someone with a depth of experience that could at least approach the mayor's, would post a challenge this year. Unfortunately, neither Dewey Gardner nor Carolann Ayers felt comfortable op-

Gardner, Buckland are at top of strong council field

We are impressed with the field of five candidates vying for the two city council seats in next Tuesday's election. Each has studied city operations and made a valuable contribution to the discussions revolving around this campaign.

Three of the five stand out as deserving special recognition, making it doubly disappointing that only two seats are available. The sole incumbent and current mayor pro tem, G. DEWEY GARDNER deserves re-election on the basis of his eight-year record of substantial contributions. Gardner has been a valuable member of council and deserves his status as the favorite. That he has announced he will resign his council seat to pursue election as mayor in two years bothers us not at all — we'd have preferred to see him run for mayor this year. But, since he's chosen to wait, we are glad to see him honestly telling voters what his intentions are so that they know what they're getting from the start.

Choosing a second council member to fill the seat being vacated by J. Burton DeRusha is a more difficult task. Our nod goes to JOHN BUCKLAND on the basis of his 17 years of civic involvement with the Jaycees, beautification commission and recreation commission. That kind of background cannot be dismissed lightly — action speaks louder than words when candidates claim an interest in the community. That Buckland's experience is on a board that administers a program run jointly with the township is, we think, an asset. We get the feeling that most of the city council favor Buckland as DeRusha's successor, which suggests he is not the candidate for those who seek more change than the simple introduction of a new face would produce. We are confident that Buckland would have his own perspective to offer after a suitable learning period.

We were also impressed with MACLYN BURNS both during our interview and at the League of Women Voters' candidates' forum. Burns, we believe, is the third best candidate in the field. He is opposed by some current council members, who remember that Burns filed suit against the city when his job with the DPW was eliminated, but we don't believe he is running for that reason. True, he knows more about the DPW than any other aspect of city government, but he has educated himself on other issues as well as any newcomer can be expected to have done. Burns strikes us as a genuinely interested citizen seeking a role in the city. Unfortunately, the attitudes at city hall probably mean his best opportunity is to be elected by the people rather than brought into the fold by city leaders.

That we've chosen these three as the top five should not discourage either Ron Bodnar or Luigi Folino. Both have raised valuable viewpoints during this campaign — the city benefits from wide-ranging discussion in a contested election, even if the voters eventually choose to make no changes. We were particularly interested in Bodnar's suggestions that the same people are serving on too many city boards and commissions and that a charter review should consider expanding council to seven members. His perspective as a business owner in town is also valuable, particularly as it regards procedural redtape at city hall. Rather than having the city dismiss Bodnar's views as those of a dissident, we would like to see him appointed to a board or commission where he could effectively and articulately represent some of those who feel left out of city affairs.

A fellow on the school board by the name of Chris Johnson has shown us all the fallacy in dismissing candidates on the basis of youth. Luigi Folino is only 24, but as fully deserving of attention as the others in this field. As befits a recent college graduate, his perspectives on government are a bit bookish and too theoretical, but his interest in cost-effective government deserves consideration. So, too, does his notion that the younger people moving into the city deserve a voice in government. We'd prefer that they start by showing up at meetings and applying for positions on boards and commissions, but Folino is correct is stating that Northville's history of citizen apathy regarding government is due for a change.

Which brings us to a final comment: we hope the range of viewpoints expressed by these five candidates will be heard in city hall. We believe this field proves what we said three months ago — there are qualified people all over Northville who should be and can be involved in government. For too long, the notion that a small group of insiders controls things in the town has discouraged people. Instead of running around bemoaning the lack of interest in city government, the present council should be encouraging the newcomers to get involved and stay involved. Such people would be easier to retain as contributing members of the community if those in positions of leadership would do a better job inviting them in rather than closing the door in their faces.

Be careful with lights for Halloween activity

Halloween's almost here and that means Northville's residential areas will be crawling with little ghosts and It's also a good idea for youngsters to wear light-colored costumes or reflective tape on their clothing. Flashlights are a good idea, too. Not only do the children like playing with a flashlight, but carrying one makes them more visible to drivers.

Another good idea is to tell your trickor-treaters not to eat any of the goodies they've collected until they get home and mom and dad have had a chance to look them over. Many communities offer to check the contents of the children's bag by x-rays or other means. Check with your local police department or public safety department for more information.

I couldn't believe my ears.

"You spent how much for wallpaper?" I asked, after she gave me the latest financial report on the cost of the addition to our humble abode.

And then she said it again. The same outrageous figure I thought sne had said in the first place.

"You really did? You really managed to find wallpaper that was that expensive?'

"It wasn't easy," she responded. "But I found it in one of Carol's books. It was perfect. Just exactly what I had been looking for.

"It was shipped direct from New York," she continued as I tried to figure out if there are any other banks which will loan me money so I can pay for her extravagance. "Came right from the designer's studio.

"Well, it didn't all come from the designer's studio," she admitted. "See those roles that go in the living room? They're silk-screened grasscloth made in Korea."

The financial report was all my aging heart could bear. When we embarked on this project of building an addition to our home, I thought we had a pretty good idea of what the costs would be. A good chunk of money, but manageable, I thought.

But that was before she and her buddy Carol, the interior decorator, started going through those books. I even agreed with a couple of her selections. For example, I went along with the handmade mantel for the fireplace. And I helped her pick out the cabinetry for the bathroom

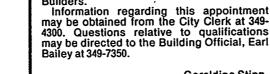

I was also quick enough to set my foot down as she was about to special order a handmade quilt from the Amish people in Iowa.

All that happened, of course, before she told me about the wallpaper.

"I had hoped you wouldn't be so upset about the cost of the wallpaper," she said as I was still reeling from the impact of her pronoucement. "Because if that's got you worried, wait till you hear about the carpeting."

16-A-THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-Wednesday, October 30, 1985

The Northville Record

Mustangs nipped in final quarter

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If you arrived late to the Northville-North Farmington football clash on Saturday, chances are you missed all the Mustang highlights.

After pulling out to an early 14-0 lead, Northville failed to generate any more points against the tough Raider defense, and host North Farmington recorded a come-from-behind 16-14 Western Lakes playoff win. Each team scored two touchdowns, but the dif-ference turned out to be a wind-aided 51-yard field goal by North's Chad Henry in the third quarter.

"It was a big defensive game," Nor-thville coach Dennis Colligan said. "The actual difference was that they kicked a 51-yarder and we missed a 55yarder.'

Two early turnovers by the Raiders gave the Mustangs great field position, and they were more than happy to take both in for touchdowns.

Northville's Brett Belliston pounced on a fumble at the North Farmington 45 on the first possession of the day. Nine plays later, fullback Phil Pendleton carried it in from the three and Jack Sylvester's kick made it 7-0.

Linebacker Tony Briningstool picked off a pass the next time North Farmington got the ball and returned it 20 yards to the Raiders' 10. Tim Millen capped Northville's second possession with a one-yard score and suddenly it was 14-0

Unfortunatley, it was all the offense the Mustangs could muster until late in the game and it gave North time to recover

A Northville mistake just before the half helped the Raiders get back into the game. A fumbled punt was recovered by North Farmington's Chris Christman at the seven, and fullback Steve Goss bulled it in from the one on fourth down to make it 14-7 at the half. The only scoring in the third quarter

'The difference was they kicked a 51yarder and we missed 55-yarder.²

was Henry's field goal with the wind at his back, a North Farmington school record. But the Mustangs still had a 14-10 lead going into the final quarter.

The Raiders did something that nobody has been able to do to against Northville defense this season - they put together a 15-play, 86-yard drive to score the go-ahead touchdown. But North Farmington was stopped on a two point conversion attempt, and it was 16-14.

"It was a dead-even game statistical-ly," Colligan said, "but their long drive in the fouth quarter is what won it for them. That's the only time all year long that we've given up a long drive like hat."

With just over two minutes remaining, Northville started a final drive at its own 36 and moved down inside the Raiders' 30. But a costly nine-yard sack on a third and three situation didn't help Sylvester's game winning 55-yard field goal attempt, and it fell several vards short.

(Sylvester) has 50-yard range and I think he would have had a great shot at it if it wasn't for the sack," Colligan admitted. "That sack was a big one.

Briningstool added nine solo tackles and four assists to go with the interception to lead the Mustang's defensively. Pendleton gained 60 yards on 23 carries to pace the offense.

The loss evens Northville's record at 4-4, 3-3 in the Western Lakes. With Novi on tap for the season finale Friday, the

Tim Millen evades a Raider tackle

"It's a big game for us because we're back a long way and it's a pride thing. trying to get over the .500 mark," Col-ligan said. "It's a big rivalry that dates sure they would love to beat us."

Hot Cahill paces three [¢] kick wins

It was a very busy week for the Northville soccer squad but very rewarding as well. The Mustangs played three times in three days and came away with three wins.

Northville shut out Plymouth Salem 2-0 on Tuesday, handled North Farmington 4-2 on Wednesday and edged Walled Lake Central 3-2 on Thursday. The wins assure a winning season for first-year coach Dave Yezback and his team.

"Three games in a row like that is tough for any team and you've got to give credit to our kids for playing hard in all the games," Yezback said.

Junior Nick Morris scored both Northville goals against Salem, and goalkeeper Todd Stowell recorded his third shut out of the season.

Morris' first tally came on an indirect kick in the opening minutes of the con-test on an assist from Matt Peltz. Morris then scored the game's only other goal midway through the first quarter n a break away.

The tough Mustang defense allowed the Rocks just seven shots on goal.

It was the Fred Cahill show on Wednesday as the senior accounted for three of Northville's four goals in the win over the Raiders.

Cahill scored his second goal just after halftime, breaking a 1-1 tie, to put Northville up for good. Morris chipped in the fourth Mustang goal.

With freshman Roger Kimary in goal, the kickers came from behind to slip past the Vikings on Thursday. Cahill, Dan Magdich and Morris scored three straight times in the second half to pull out Northville's third in a row all three close games.

Cagers use defense to trounce Hawks, 46-20

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Defense is the name of the game for the Northville girls' basketball team, and area opponents are quickly finding out that the Mustangs have one of the stingiest around.

Northville held its two opponents last week to just 54 points combined but only managed to win one. The Mustangs trounced Farmington Harrison 46-20 on Thursday and fell 34-24 to Plymouth Salem Tuesday -- but not before giving the state's sixth ranked team all it girl's basketball program," Kritch pointed out. "Our players knew that we could give them a hard-fought game. and that's what we did.'

The Mustangs held the mighty Rocks scoreless in the first quarter but only could only manage four points themselves. Salem started to put it together in the second and held a slim 14-11 lead at intermission.

With center Suzy Schrader and guard Julie Anger in foul trouble, the Rocks reeled off the first eight points in the third and went on to open up a 25-13 adavantage heading into the final stanza Forward Tricia Ducker had an outstanding game for the Mustangs. The three-year starter poured in 17 of Northville's 24 points and added 11 rebounds.

"I thought it was her best effort of the season," Kritch said. "She was very active both offensively and defensively."

Despite the loss, the Mustangs bounced back on Thursday to topple the undermanned Hawks. Ducker again led the way with 17 points and six rebounds in just 15 minutes of playing time, while Robin Strunk added six points, six steals and 14 rebounds.

After a slow start. Northville turned on the afterburners and raced to a 19-2 halftime lead. Harrison one basket came with just 30 seconds remaining in the first half. The Mustangs continued the assult in the third by outscoring the Hawks 12-4 to make it 31-6. But the verdict had long been decided, and Northville coasted to the win.

Both games were defensive masterpieces and the director was Kritch. "The nice thing about it is that it's a total team effort," he said. "Everybody the .500 mark," Kritch admitted.

"The games we've been winning this season have been close games or come-from-behind wins," Yezbach said. 'We've had to work hard to keep in all our games, we haven't blown anybody away.'

The Mustangs' record improves to 10-7-2, 7-6-2 in the Western Lakes. The final match of the season was scheduled for "Our goal is to end the season above "Our goal is to end the season above for any light of the season above the season above hosted Churchill in a make-up game.

That's because Haas placed 12th overall in the Regional at Royal Oak Saturday with a season best mark of 17:12 and automatically qualifies for the state meet as an individual. As a team, the Mustangs placed seventh out of 18 teams, but only the top three qualify as a team.

Scott Wiley placed second among Northville runners and 24th overall with a (18:09) in 40th, Munsell (18:12) in 42nd 17:17. He was followed by John Kiss- and Legel (19:03) in 68th.

Tim Munsell (19:26) in 97th.

In the Western Lakes' league meet on Tuesday, Haas again paced the Mustangs with a time of 11:12 good enough for 11th place overall.

Booth was the next Northville runner across the line in 20th place (17:28), and Kissinger's 17:38 was good enough for 24th place.

The rest of the Mustang runners include Wiley (17:56) in 32rd place, House

Nuechterlein qualifies

The Northville girls' cross country squad wrapped up the 1985 season with fourth-place finish in the Western Lakes meet on Tuesday and an eighth splace finish in regional action Saturday. The season is over for all the runners except Wendy Nuechterlein.

The senior clocked in at 21:19 at the Class A Regional at Royal Oak to finish in 17th place overall - out of over 100 runners - and qualified for the state championships as an individual. It was her best time of the season, and she will be going to the state tournament for the fourth straight year.

The Mustangs came in eighth in the 16-team regional but only the top three qualify as a team.

Jennifer Gushorn came in second for Northville and 23rd overall with a time of 21:38. She was followed by Sue Blanchard (21:42) in 25th place, Pam Cavanaugh (23:12) in 60th, Nancy Belding (25:10) in 86th, Lynn Bills (25:17) and Carol Olsen (25:38) in 90th. Northville hosted the Western Lakes league meet and the top four Mustangs came across the finish line in a row. Goshorn came in 20th overall (21:47), followed by Blanchard (21:54), Nuechterlein (22:02) and Cavanaugh (22:02) in 21st, 22nd and 23rd respectively.

Belding placed 42nd overall (23:02), Bills 72nd (25:39) and Olson 73rd (25:47), to round out the Mustang run-

"Everyone ran their best times of the year at the league meet except for Wen-dy (Nuechlerlein)," Northville coach Ann Turnbull said. "We didn't do as well as I had hoped in the regionals, but I'm happy for Wendy that she qualified for state. She's gone every year since she was a freshman and she really wanted it."

Local swimmers excell at Livonia's Swimfest

An impressive number of Northville youths who are members of the Clarenceville Swim Club performed well at the 1985 Livonia Spartan Swimfest.

Over 600 swimmers from 29 teams participated in the Swimfest that was held at Livonia Churchill High School October 25-27.

Northville's Eric Newton placed in six events in the boys' 11-12 year old category. Newton placed third in the 500-yard freestyle, fourth in both the 200 freestyle and 100 butterfly, sixth in the 100 freestyle, third as a member of the 200 freesytle relay and sixth as a member of the 200 medley relay.

Eric's sister Brenda placed sixth in the girls' 10 and under 200 freestyle, fourth as a member of the 200 freestyle relay and third as a member of the 200 medley relay.

Megan Holmberg, also from Nor thville, grabbed a second in the 200 IM, fourth in the 50 freestyle, fifth in the 500 freestyle and sixth on the 200 medley relay team in the girls' 11-12 catagory.

Pam Holdridge was very busy as she placed in all 10 events she entered in the girls' 11-12 group. Her top finishes were a first as a member of the 200 medley relay, two seconds in the 100 butterfly and the 200 freestyle relay and thirds in the 500 freestyle, the 200 freestyle, the 100 IM, the 100 freestyle, the 100 IM and the 50 backstroke.

Pam's brother Bob placed in seven events in the boys' 11-12 catagory. Bob grabbed a first in the 500 freestyle, and two seconds in the 50 freestyle and the 50 backstroke.

Jeff Bainbridge placed third as a member of the 200 medley relay team in the boys' open division.

Kell wins run for Reyes

Nearly 70 runners in 14 catagories participated in the Novi Parks and Recreation's "Run for Reyes" eight kilometer event last Saturday.

The overall winner was Charlie Kell of Madison Heights who also placed first in the men's 19-24 year-old catagory. Kell covered the course in 27:06.

Novi's Lee Mamola was the only local runner to grab a first. Mamola took first place in the 30-34 catagory. Other men's finishers include Scott Baker (12-under), David Bufkirk (13-18), Jerry Meredith (25-29), Bill Jones (35-39), Bob Drapal (40-49) and Harrison Hensley (50-over).

Susan Hachigan of Canton Township placed first among the women runners with a time of 34:20. Susan Sitts of Novi won the 35-39 catagory, while Northville's Midge Drew won in the 40-49 group.

All proceeds from the race will go to the Reyes Syndrome Foundation.

Somers wins football quiz

She wasn't perfect. But Peggy Somers of Plymouth missed just one game in addition to the Tennessee/-Georgia Tech tie to win the $15 first prize in The Northville Record/Novi News football contest last week.

Somers' two misses left her all alone in first place, but two other entrants were close behind with just three misses. Once the tiebreaker game had been called into effect, Daren Johnson of Novi had won the $10 second prize, while Linda Gromacki, also of Novi, had won the $5 third prize. Johnson guessed that a total of 37 points would be scored in Notre Dame's

Young tankers use depth in turning back Harrison

Freshmen and sophomores dominate the Northville girls' swimming roster, but it doesn't necessarily mean that 1985 is a rebuilding year.

Farmington Harrison found out Thursday that even though the Mustangs are very young, they are also talented. Northville used its superior depth to dispose of the Hawks 91-77, thus raising the season dual meet mark to 5-2.

Freshmen Pam Wesley and Sue Settles helped get Northville off to a good start in the first three events.

In the 500-yard medley relay, Wesley and Settles teamed with Erika Nelson and Shari Thompson to grab first place. Settles then notched firsts in the next two events - the 200 freestyle and the 100 butterfly.

Nelson placed right behind Settles in the 200 freestyle and Kristi Fortenberry did the same in the 100 butterfly for a pair of 1-2 finishes and an early advantage.

Wesley came back with a first in the 100 backstroke and Nelson won the 100 breaststroke to round out the Mustangs' first place finishes.

In addition to the medley relay race, Thompson grabbed two seconds in the 200 IM and the 500 freestyle while diver Michele Beacham also placed second in the one-meter.

To help secure the win, Northville's 400 freestyle relay team of Jennifer Juhasz, Karen Peterson, Laurel Wilkinson and Laura Williams came in second in the meet's final event.

Another freshman, Julie Hilfinger had an impressive outing by taking third place in both the 500 freestyle and the 200 IM.

Harrison had six firsts to the Mustangs' five but the big difference was depth and the steady performances of the underclass swimmers. And Northville coach Bill Dicks sees nothing but bright horizons.

"Our freshmen coming in next year will probably be even stronger that the group this year, so the outlook is great for the future," he predicted, but added, "not that we're bad now, but it's just that we keep getting better."

With Walled Lake Western and Livonia Franklin on tap next, the tankers have little time to rest on past laurels.

"We're a little tired as a team because we're practicing two and a half hours a day," Dicks said. 'But the girls understand that we're building up for the conference meet at the end of the season to do our best times.'

COLTS: Varsity, Freshmen top Chargers

VARSITY: A better ball control offense, solid VARSITY: A better ball control offense, solid defense and fewer penalties helped the Colts get back on the winning track with a 14-6 triumph over the Garden City Chargers on Oc-tober 27. Doug Cody had an All-American type outing for the Colts as he accounted for 270 yards in total offense. Cody rushed for 172 in 13 carries, and both touchdowns. The first came on a 45-yard run with the second being an 80-yard kickoff return. Lineman Jim Loftus and Dave Morante get credit for onening some and Dave Morante get credit for opening some gapping holes for Cody to run through. Andy Wayne and Mike Jambor lead the Colts' defense with six tackles apiece. The Colts' record now improves to 4-3.

FRESHMEN: A Chris Barbara 51-yard touchdown run on the first play from scrimage set the tone for a 20-12 win over the Garden Ci-ty Chargers. Danny Walsh picked off a Charger pass and galloped 54-yards for the se-cond score and Eric Starkwather's 49-yard run down the sidelines in the fourth rounded out the Colt scoring. Walsh's two intercep-tions paced the defense and Barbara ended up with 121 yards rushing. up with 121 yards rushing.

Peaker Services of Green Oak Township refurbishes and repairs railroad locomotives

Peaker finds right track to success

Not long after it began repairing railroad locomotives 14 years ago, Peaker Services, Inc., found itself on the track to success.

Section

Since its humble beginnings in a two-car garage in Belleville, Peaker Ser-vices has moved to Green Oak Township and expanded its operation enormously. The most recent of those expansions is nearing completion and will double the firm's current facilities. The new additions to the company's quarters will more than double the floor area of the plant and triple the amount of office and employee space.

Peaker's newly-expanded quarters feature a doubling of the "high-bay" area of the plant and the addition of a fully-enclosed, specially-ventilated sandblasting room.

"Our on-site locomotive and large diesel engine remanufacturing point that more enclosed space is necessary to reduce delivery time, increase employee comfort and efficiency, and just maintain our high quality standards," says Richard Steele, president of the company. The expansion will also include construction of a separate 8,000 square foot storage building for the engine blocks, generators and other large components the company handles.

Steele is obviously proud of his employees, and Peaker Services provides its workers with more than just a place to work. The recent expansion includes a new employee lunch room with a skylight, locker rooms and a racquetball court located right in the plant. Steele says the reason for the facilities is employee care. "Employee health is getting to be a big topic, and ternational reputation for its work. 'We're specialized, but within that community we've got a real good reputation," Steele admits.

"You can't do the kind of work that we do and have a big turnover (of employees)," Steele says. The positions take too much training for that to work, he said.

Peaker Services has sent employees to such locations as Africa, Samoa and England to work on locomotives. And its services abroad range from consulting to running the operations there.

In addition to its work for the railroad industry, the company services diesel engines for marine vessels and the petroleum-drilling industry.

G.M. president says companies need aid

General Motors President F. James McDonald, noting that two-thirds of all American products now compete against foreign goods, advised communities seeking new industry to concentrate on lowering business costs and improving local education.

Calling the dramatic rise of import competition "the largest single challenge of (U.S. industry's) resources and resourcefulness" in history, the Michigan executive said "any community that can help business deal with that challenge is going to draw new business and enlarge existing ones.

"In little more than a decade, American industry has been thrust into a world market. Imports and exports today are twice as large a portion of our gross national product as they were two decades ago.'

Citing the experience of GM, McDonald said, "recent advances in computer technology, in electronics, in automated manufacturing, in robotics and machine intelligence, offer us a way — the surest way — for America to maintain its high standard of living and successfully compete on a global scale."

ever, he said. Unlike some industrial development considerations which are out of local control, communities can. assure high-quality public education is available locally, he added.

"For us in business, this is a pocket-book issue," McDonald said. "We pay three times for poor education: once in tax dollars, a second time in lost productivity and creativity on the job, and a third time when we have to fill the educational gap ourselves with in-house education and training programs.'

Citing Saturn's recent selection of : Tennessee for its manufacturing and assembly complex location, he added that the state's efforts to upgrade its public education system was an important consideration.

Listing "state taxes, labor rates," health-care costs, local property taxes, site preparation costs (and) logistics," he said the communities which show the most flexibility in reducing business cost will be the most attractive.

He added that he didn't understand criticism directed at communities which offer incentives to attract industrial development. "In my mind, they are simply investing in their futures, the same way that a company-The move to advanced technology is forgoes short-term profit in favor of making education more important than long-term profitability," he said.

The company also has gained an in-

GORDON PARKER, Caterer Operations Administrator for Ford Motor Company, has been elected vice president of the Society for Foodservice Management for 1985-86. A Novi resident, Parker is an active member and has served on the board since the society's inception in 1979. He also has served as treasurer and secretary.

Parker is company liaison for 105 cafeterias, 53 executive dining rooms and all vending activities in Ford's 133 caterer-operated foodservice facilities in the United States. He also acts as a consultant for Ford in international operations.

Parker is an active member of the Michigan State University Hotel Restaurant and Institutional Management Alumni Association and is a frequent lecturer at the school.

Headquartered in Louisville, Kentucky, the Society for Foodservice Management is the national association exclusively serving the needs and interests of business and industry non-commercial foodservice professionals.

HELEN DRYSDALE of the Northville/Novi Real Estate One office has exceeded the $1 million mark in sales volume for 1985.

An area resident for 12 years, Drysdale came to Real Estate One after 33 years experience in the banking business and has been a $1 , million producer for the past 11 years. Drysdale is the RELO Rep in the Northville/Novi office. RELO is a nationwide relocation network service for people moving into or out of the area, according to Carolynn Beyer, manager of the Northville/-Novi Real Estate One office.

NORMA HAZLETT of Schweitzer Real Estate/Better Homes and Gardens of Northville had the highest sales volume for the month of September among the nearly 450 sales associates in the company's 18 metropolitan offices.

It was the second consecutive month in which Hazlett received special recognition for sales achievements. In August she was awarded a Chrysler New Yorker automobile in an intra-office competition.

COLLEEN M. REEVES of Wixom has been named an account executive at Bunnell & Company.

Reeves, who joined the agency in May of 1985 as an assistant account executive, is a graduate of Central Michigan University with a journalism degree. While at Central, she served as East Central District Director to the Public Relations Student Society of America (PRSSA). She currently serves as program director for the PRSSA National Convention, which will be held in Detroit on November 10-13.

Reeves is a member of the Public Relations Society of America, Women in Communications and Mackinac Associates.

Located in Farmington Hills, Bunnell & Company is a full service counseling firm offering communications and marketing support services.

REID LIGHTING of Novi recently presented a brass-trim bevel glass chandelier to Mary Farley in conjunction with their grand opening sale. Farley, a Novi resident, and Paul Bauman, manager of the store, are shown above displaying the lamp, a $315 value. Located at 43443 Grand River Avenue, just west of Novi Road, Reid Lighting has been opened a little more than a month and offers a wide selection of both residential and commercial lighting.

Reid Lighting is affiliated with Reid Manufacturing and Reid Glass and Plastics of Southfield.

The new showroom in Novi features a wide array of lighting types and styles, including track and recessed lighting, interior and exterior lighting, and decorator crystal chandliers. Professional decorators are invited to visit the showroom.

In addition to lighting fixtures, Reid Lighting also offers a large line of ceiling fans.

THE RISING RING

The Trick: The magician asks to borrow a finger ring from someone in the audience. After receiving the ring, the magician pulls a pencil out of his coat pocket. The magician holds the pencil straight up and puts the ring on it. He then waves his hand over the pencil and the ring mysteriously rises to the top of the pencil.

The Secret: The trick is in the pencil, not the ring. Before performing the trick, you rig up the pencil with a piece of thin thread or fishing line. Using a small piece of tape, faster the thread to the eraser end of the pencil. (If you use thread, be sure to use some that is the same color as your jacket.) After taping the thread to the pencil, fasten the other end of the thread to one of the buttons on your jacket. Put the pencil in your breast pocket, and you're ready to begin. Hold the pencil with the eraser end up, and put the ring over both the pencil and thread. As you wave your hand over the pencil, move the pencil toward the audience. The thread will make the ring rise.

THE IMPOSSIBLE FOLD

The Trick: The magician bets a member of the audience that he or she can't take an ordinary sheet of paper and fold it in half-and make it stay folded-eight times. The spec tator tries, but can't do it. The magician then takes. a full sheet of newspaper and makes the same bet The spectator, thinking it will be easier with a bigger sheet of paper, tries again. Surprisingly, it can'i be done again. The Secret: There really is no.

ecret to this trick. It's simply a fact that any pièce of paper, no matter how big it might be, can't be folded in half eight times. When you get to the eighth fold, you're dealing with a piece of paper that is 128 sheets thick. You just can't fold something that thick. When you're done reading this newspaper, give it a try.

IT'S MAGIC BY BUDDY MOOREHOUSE

It was October of 1926, and Harry Houdini was giving a lect-ire to students at McGill University in Montreal. In his lecture, Houdini claimed that his stomach muscles were so well-developed he could withstand any blow to his midsection. Houdini said that these strong stomach muscles helped him to perform his many daring escapes.

Not long after the show, three of the students who listened to the lecture visited Houdini in his dressing room at the Princess Theater. One of the students, an amateur boxer, decided to challenge Houdini's claim that he could withstand any blow to his stomach.

Without warning, the student wound up and slugged Houdini in the belly his lecture, Houdini neglected to say that he could withstand any blow to his stomach, but only if he braced himself first. He hadn't braced himself for this

Two days later, after doing a show in Detroit, Houdini died because of inter-nal injuries caused by that punch to the stomach. It was Halloween day, 1926.

In a macabre sort of way, it is perhaps fitting that the world's greatest magician met his demise on Halloween. After all, Halloween is a time of witches and warlocks, of ghosts and ghouls, and the art of magic seems to fit right in.

This Thursday is the 59th anniversary of Houdini's death, and it's interesting to note how far the art of magic has come in all that time.

In Houdini's era, magicians liked to surround themselves with mystery and intrigue. They wanted audiences to think that they had connections with spirits and ghosts, and that these otherworldly creatures helped them perform their miracles: When Houdini was performing, magicians put more emphasis on baffling an audience than entertaining it.

Magic today is a whole different ball of wax. The average magician today isn't someone who wears all black and looks like Simon Bar Sinister. Today's garden-variety conjurer is the guy who shows up at your kid's birthday party wearing a clown suit and doing tricks with balloons.

Magicians today still like to amaze their audiences, but they'd rather entertain them. Today, the emphasis in magic is on fun.

There are about 10,000 practicing magicians in the United States. The vast majority of these magicians don't make a living at it-they just do an ocChristmas. Everybody, it seems, likes to have a magician perform at their Halloween or Christmas party.

Losey is one of several magicians keeping us amazed locally. The Livingston County Magic Club (which meets once a month in Howell or Ann Arbor)" has about 10 active members now, and they often do shows in the area.

It also might surprise you to know that some of society's rich and famous are heavily into magic.

Cary Grant has long been an amateur magician. He's a member of the Magic Castle, a private magic club in Hollywood. Long before he became a late-night TV fixture, Johnny Carson was an avid magician. He still does a card trick or two on occasion. Harry Anderson (star of TV's "Night Court") got his start in show business as a magician. You might have seen him as a semi-regular doing tricks on 'Saturday Night Live.''

Talk-show host Dick Cavett is a pracicing magician, as is Lou Holtz, the football coach at the University of Minnesota.

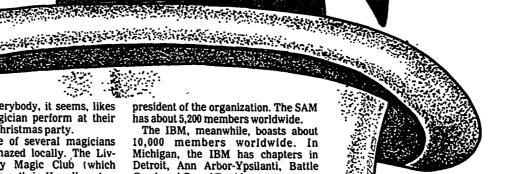

president of the organization. The SAM has about 5,200 members worldwide. The IBM, meanwhile, boasts about 10,000 members worldwide. In Michigan, the IBM has chapters in Detroit, Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti, Battle Creek and Grand Rapids.

Michigan Is also home to the mecca of magic-a little town called Colon. Located just south of Kalamazoo, Colon (population 1,200) houses the Abbott's Magic Manufacturing Company, the world's largest magic-trick company.

Every August, Abbott's hosts a convention (they call it a "Get-Together") of magicians from around the world. lose to 1,000 conjurers from all over the globe travel to this sleepy little town to watch and talk about magic. Magicians from Japan to Jersey City know about Colon, Michigan.

If there is a "world's greatest inagician" alive today, it is probably David Copperfield. An energetic young American, Copperfield is a brilliant entertainer with a flare for the magnificasional dirthday party or service club show

Still, magic has become more than just a hobby for many of these weekend rabbit-vanishers. Most amateur magicians will tell you they never go hurting for places to perform. Everybody loves a good magic show, so magicians are always in demand.

Gary Losey, a magician from Howell, estimates that he does 100 shows a year, the busiest times being Halloween and

* 1 + 67.7 × 14.2 × * 2019 AM & 47.9 PM = 25

Most of the country's amateur magicians belong to one of two organizations-the Society of American Magicians (SAM) and the International Brotherhood of Magicians (IBM).

These clubs have several chapters in Michigan. The SAM has one club in Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti and another in Kalamazoo. SAM members proudly point out that Houdini was the first Whether it's David Copperfield making the Statue of Liberty disappear or the guy down the street showing you a card trick, magic has the ability to make everyone a kid again. It allows us to escape reality, if only for a while. We know that a silver ball can't float on its own, but a magician has the power to make it happen.

It's fun. It's entertaining. It's baffling. It's magic.

THE CHOSEN CARD

The Trick: The magician looks through a regular deck of playing cards and selects one card, setting it aside in full view of the audience. He then asks a member of the audience o name any number up to 51 (the imber of cards remaining in the leck). The magician then counts out that many cards and hands those cards to the spectator. The spectator is asked to count out those cards alternately into two piles. Once this is done, the magician asks the spec-tator to turn over the top card on tator to turn over the top card on each pile. (For example, the King of Hearts and Ace of Spades are the two cards turned over.) "We have a King and we have a Spade." the magician aays. "What are the odds that the card I selected ahead of time is the King of Spades?" The spectator furns over the pre-selected card. and this indeed the King of Spades t is indeed the King of Spades. HOCUS POCUSING AROUND HERE

By MICHELE M. FECHT

It's magic, the kind of wonder that is reflected in the faces of small children as the coin disappears — and then reappears right out of their ear!

For Ming the Magnificent of Northville Halloween week is one of the peak times in the year - and he loves it.

Ming the Magnificent (whose name when he goes to his office as an attorney is Ming Louie) has been performing for years in shopping centers, on cruise ships and at conventions.

"Magic," he avers, "is what I do for a living law is only for fun.

It sounds just possible, as Ming estimates he does 100 shows a year. Last Saturday was a three performance-day as Ming, assisted by his wife Barbara, was scheduled to entertain at Novi library, in Birmingham and at the Knights of Columbus in Walled Lake.

Barbara juggles the performances with her job as a librarian in the Novi Public Library.

The couple met when she was in journalism school at Wayne State University and he was studying sociology. She transferred into library science and he into law school.

More recent classes four years ago led to the addition of dancers in their act. Barbara Louie began taken dance lessons at Pizza Dance Studio on Seven Mile. He had taken ballet lessons for a year in Hawaii as well as acting classes. Then, he mentions, he 'started thinking jazz dance'' and enrolled at the studio.

There they met Harwyn Lin and his daughter Krystan, 13, of Westland and Michelle Esper, 18, of Farmington Hills whose mother is an owner of the studio.

The five now entertain with dancing and magic interwoven in the act. They have a date for a big show upcoming at the main branch of the Detroit Public Library. But the real specialty is magic. Ming recalls that he has been performing magic tricks since he was 12 years old in his native China.

"I first learned (magic tricks) from my grandfather who was a real magician in China. He taught me my first trick when I was 12 — the 'tourniget,' which is really a 'pass.

"It only fools small children, and dogs; it isn't much, but it fooled me. I then checked out every book in the library on magic, but I returned them.

Ming adds that he has seen pictures of his grandfather in his magician's costume, which was much more elaborate than his own flowing robe made by Barbara. Ming demonstrates that first trick, borrowing a coin: he places a quarter in his palm and moves one hand over the other. He then opens the palm but the money has disappeared - only to be found in the subject's ear (with the other hand.)

Ming was born in Sunwui, China, and came to Stockton, California, in the early 1050s.

While he was stationed in Hawali with the Navy for four years, he says he performed for any who would watch. He also met magicians who showed him tricks of professionals.

This past summer Ming notes he has shared his magic with several hundred children who watched the act in 60 to 70 libraries in the tricounty area. Ming also mentions that he is president of Clown Alley and is combining clowning and magic in some programs.

For the past three years he has been associated with the law firm of Collins, Einhorn and Farrell in the Prudential Town Center in Southfield. It's all defense, he explains, representing a lot of manufacturers. attorneys and dentists.

Ming the Magnificent makes the magical transition from law to entertainment sound easy — as a magician should.

St. Paul's Country Bazaar first of many on schedule

November ushers in the bazaar season with booths brimming with handcrafted items for the holiday season.

Always a popular attraction, the bazaar at St. Paul's Lutheran Church given by the Women's Guild is upcoming Saturday. Called "Four Seasons Country Bazaar," it will be held from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A special feature of the bazaar will be a wreath workshop at which par-ticipants will be able to select materials and create a wreath. Custom wreaths also will be made to order "while you wait.

Bazaar booths will include a Stitch Shoppe, Bountiful Bakery, Pantry Parade, Toyland, Atencil Store, Basket Boutique, Calico Corner, Tree Trimmers, Bear Boom, Country Crafts, Flower Fantasy and Popular Potpourri.

Free babysitting will be available, and lunch will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. for $3.50. Homemade soup will be $1, a salad bar, $2, and assorted desserts, $1. There will be free coffee and fresh fried donuts at two for 25 cents from 10 a.m. to noon.

Also on sale at the bazaar will be "Town Classics," a new cookbook assembled by the Women's Guild of St. Paul's. The cover is a whimsical drawing of the community by Prudy Vannier, who has been holding workshops to teach bazaar workers stenciling techniques to make country painted items for the bazaar. She is co-chair with Gretchen Hasse. The cookbook, Women's Guild president Ettie Ann Hirth reports, contains 316 pages "of excellent recipes." It also is on sale at Genitti's, Andy's Meat Hut in Novi and in the church office at 201 Elm.

METHODIST MINI BAZAAR

The United Methodist Women's Group of Northville First United Methodist Chuch has scheduled a mini bazaar in conjunction with its biennial harvest dinner on election day, November 5, in the church fellowship hall.

Dinners have been scheduled at 5, 6 and 7 p.m. Ticketholders may choose the seating best suited to their schedules. Since seating is limited at each time, it is suggested that tickets be purchased as soon as possible. Tickets will be available after church services Sunday and in the church office during morning hours. Adult tickets are $5, children 12 and younger are $2.50, ticket chairperson Pam Lloyd announces.

Menu will be ham, oven brown potatoes, vegetable, salad, rolls, beverage and a choice of homemade pie. For more information, the church office may be contacted at 349-1144. Diners will be able to do some pre-holiday shopping at the mini bazaar. The United Methodist Women have contributed a variety of stuffed animals, craft items, Christmas decorations and ornaments, needlework and children's novelties.

Proceeds will go toward purchase of a computer-word processor for the church office.

BUSHNELL 'TIS THE SEASON The Women's Service Group of Bushnell-Meadowbrook Congregational Church located at 21355 Meadowbrook Road, between Eight and Nine Mile roads in Novi, will hold a 'Tis the Season bazaar from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. this Saturday at the church.

Booths will offer Christmas decorations and ornaments, knitted and needlework items and craft projects, edibles of jam, jellies and baked goods, and forgotten treasures.

A Kids' Korner will give an op-portunity for children to shop for gifts priced under $1.

CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY FAIR Christian Community School of Northville will host its art and craft fair from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. November 9.

More than 50 local area art and craft exhibitors will be on hand to present juried items. In addition to arts and crafts, a luncheon and bake sale also will be available.

The school is located in the Christian Community Church, 41355 West Six Mile Road.

ECUMENICAL BOUTIQUE

The First Presbyterian Church of Farmington will hold its SERRV Boutique October 31 through November 2 at the church located on Farmington and Eleven Mile roads.

SERRV (Sales Exchange for Refugee Rehabilitation Vocations) is an ecumenical church-related marketing program created to serve overseas persons who produce high quality, salable handicrafts and need to sell them as a means of livlihood. The boutique provides a sales outlet for their products. Handcrafted items from more than 60 countries will be represented including wood carvings, jewelry, scarves, wall hangings, Christmas ornaments, dolls, toys, brass and pewter candlesticks. Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Thursday and Friday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday.

The Frost Middle School PTSA will sponsor its Ninth Annual Frost Holiday Arts and Craft Show November 2. More than 130 artists will be featuring everything from leather and tinsmithing to fabric and leaded glass. The show will be held from 10 a.m. to p.m. at the school located at 14041 Stark road, just west of Farmington Road and north of I-96 service drive. WAYNE FAIR

The First Congregational Church of Wayne (corner of Michigan and Wayne) presents its 39th annual church fair - "Merry Christmas to-All" -November 8 and 9. Fair hours are 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday. Coffee shop opens at 9 a.m.

Newlyweds visit Hawaii, Australia

Following their October 5 marriage in Martha-Mary Chapel in Greenfield Village, Catherine Ann Husen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Husen of 20949 Westfarm, and Gerald Michael Roussel left on a month-long wedding trip to Hawaii, Australia and New Zealand.

The trip was the culmination of the bride's long desire to see kangaroos. They stayed at Kona Village in Hawaii, continued on to Australia where they attended the opera in Sydney and then visited such attractions as Kangaroo Island and Ayres Rock. Their trip included a flight over the New Zealand glaciers

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roussel of Livonia. Father Robert McGraw, cousin of the bridegroom from New Brunswick, Canada, officiated at the double-ring service. The bride's cousin, Tom Husen, read the Scriptures. For the 5 p.m. ceremony the bride wore a Victorian-style satin gown with Alencon lace accenting the illusion yoke and long sleeves. She carried a cascade arrangement of white cymbidium orchids, white roses and stephanotis with Nancy Husen was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Laura Haddow, cousin of the bride, Lisa McMurray and Kari Gutmann. They wore slim-skirted, ruby-hued gowns with cap sleeves and a ruffle at the waistline. They wore flowers in their hair and carried cascade arrangements of rubrum lilies, pink sweetheart roses, miniature carnations and ivy tied with ruby ribbons.

Paul Roussel was best man for his brother. Ushers were Russell Wyborski, Brian Koss and William Gutmann.

A reception for 165 guests followed at Lovett Hall in Greenfield Village. The wedding cake was topped with the orna-ment that had been on the bride's parents' cake at their wedding.

Special guests attending included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy, grandparents from New Brunswick, Canada, Otto Husen, the bride's grandfather from Detroit, and others from Quebec, New Brunswick and Windsor.

The newlyweds will make their home in Rockford, Illinois, where both are employed with Sundstrand.

The bride is a graduate of Farmington High School and University of Michigan Dearborn. She is a member of the Society of Women Engineers.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Bishop Borgess High School and U-M Dearborn. He is a member of Tau Beta Bright and brief as a roman candle.

Architecture crusader Farrell lectures on Art Nouveau

By B.J. MARTIN

"You have a beautiful town here," Michael Farrell told nearly 100 Northville Woman's Club members and guests settling in for his lecture at First Presbyterian Church October 18.

Then the intense, handsome speaker added: "Don't let them do to Northville what they've done to downtown Detroit.'

From most people, that comment would sound flippant, chauvinistic. From Farrell, on hand to present a lecture on the turn-of-the-century international Art Nouveau movement, it sounded like a sad sigh.

It's not hard to understand why. Besides being an associate professor of art history at the University of Windsor, besides being adjunct curator of education at the Detroit Institute of Arts and the Staten Island Museum, Farrell is a man who knows and loves architecture. And in the City of Detroit, many noble, historic buildings - particularly private residences - are at war with carelessness, decrepitude and the pressures of modern economics.

Farrell is at work, refurbishing a grand but time-worn 115-year-old Gothic Revival home not far from the downtown Detroit area favored by outof-town visitors.

He has said he might never complete the task. But there is no denying Farrell's belief in its importance. Farrell sees his refurbishing project as the first step in saving a neighborhood's pride and if that neighborhood's pride can be restored, perhaps more Detroit neighborhoods can follow. By the same optimistic, maybe quixotic reasoning. perhaps more of the city's death-bound grand buildings — and the city's pride — can likewise be saved.

It was possible to perceive Farrell's intensity in his lecture about Art Nouveau, a repeat of the second of three lectures he recently presented at Detroit's State Theatre.

"The Art Nouveau international movement was as bright and as brief as a roman candle," he told his audience as the lights were dimmed for his slide presentation.

Using visual examples to illustrate late-19th-century movements in social consciousness, the workplace, the church, commerce, philosophy and literature, Farrell described Art Nouveau as the artistic expression of an era of social upheaval, a reaction against restrictive art forms which he said "borrowed from the past in order to legitimize the present.

"The young artists of the time sought a sensual form, but it was more than decadence the artists were interested in," Farrell explained. "They took a delight in the new, the bizarre.

Farrell evoked just how bizarre the movement could become by showing several works of Aubrey Beardsley (1872-1898), an English artist influenced by Oscar Wilde and clearly psychopathological - an art concurrent with the dawn of the science of pyschology.

Beardsley's graceful linear style is well known and instantly recognizable even to those who are little familiar with 19th-century illustrations. But even people acquainted with Beardsley's better-known works might be surprised by some of the bizarre illustrations he came up with for Wilde's Lysistrata. Among his illustraions are are pictures of Greek men with absurdly inflated phalluses after weeks of their wives' sex embargo in protest of their state of war.

"As shocking and as freakish as Beardsley was, this was the future," Farrell said.

Among the influences on the graceful, curving linearity of Art Nouveau architecture, graphic art, ceramics, ewelry and sculpture, Farrell identified English proto-art (the Arts and Crafts movement in particular), Japanese art, Celtic art and forms drawn from nature.

Of the latter, Farrell quoted John Ruskin, perhaps the leading art critic of the time: "Nature is the source of inspiration and should be studied in detail." Indeed, many of art nouveau's most delicate examples - the curving lines of cast-iron railing, of Tiffany glassware, even of the hallucinogenic, undulating lines of buildings designed by Spanish architect Antonio Gaudi — found inspiration in plant stems and seashells.

Farrell also identified the opening of trade with Japan in the late 19th century as an important development. Noting an exhibit of Japanese art at one particularly giant continental exposition in 1864, he said, "Six after we opened the doors to the East, Japan was flooding the European market with Japanese goods. It was Japanomania."

Farrell let the audience mentally complete his point — it was an eerie foreshadowing of Japan's late-20th century economic clout.

Celtic manuscript illustration surfaced as an influence for British artists seeking a natural style, and was manifested in linear - still-modern looking - design and ironwork, notably by architect Charles Rennie Mackintosh.

Less rigidly angular curving ironwork inspired by plant forms was being created in Belgium by architect Victor Horta among others, and in France by architect Hector Guimard's futuristic designs for metro subway stations.

While less rooted in the past than in England, Scotland and France, the Austrian branch of the Art Nouveau movement took form in asymmetrical iron-trimmed architecture by Josef Hoffmann and Gustav Klimt.

Not only were forms of nature inspiration for artists, but the female form as well - notably in the lamps and vases of American Louis Comfort Tiffany, in Henri de Toulouse-Lautrec's paintings, in Beardsley's graphic works and in poster artists influenced in turn by Beardsley and Toulouse-Lautrec.

Farrell concluded his program with a quick slide tour through some of Detroit's buildings from the period. While the Art Nouveau movement was a minimal influence here (it was and is much more visible in Chicago, particularly in buildings designed by architect Louis Sullivan), Farrell pointed out Detroit buildings with decorative elements indirectly related to turn-ofthe-century art movements.

Among examples he cited were Albert Kahn's stunningly creative Na-

Doctor Study Proves

New Hi-Tech 'Super Pills' Give Faster Weight Loss 📍

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S. No Dieting—Eat Normally

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)--Good news for overweight people! If you want to lose weight fast, you no longer have to guess which diet product to use. A recent clinical weight loss study was conducted by a panel of medical doctors in California on groups of overweight people to determine which of the five most popular weight loss products was the most effective. One product, the amazing new "hi-tech super pills" proved to be vastly superior to all the others tested in the study and even gave almost "3 times faster" weight loss than the famous grapefnuit diet pills. All Lost up to 1 lb. Per Day

Best of all, the pills allow you to "continue to eat all of your favorite foods without changing your normal eating or exercising habits and still lose weight easier and faster than ever before, starling immediately." The manufacturer "guarantees" it. Remarkably, ALL people in the new 'hi-tech' super pills clinical test group lost weight (an average of 1/2 lb. per day up to 1 lb. per day or the equivalent of 15 to 30 lbs. per month.) It also helps eliminate bloat and puffiness. "Pills Do All the Work" According to the clinical study, "the pills alone do all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO special exercise, and NO hunger pangs." You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals. Powerful Appetite Suppressants The new pills contain a powerful clinically proven appetite suppressant that an advisory panel of doctors have determined to be "safe and effective for weight loss." In addition, the pills also contain a remarkable calorie-free dietary fiber that expands in your stomach and tends to give you a partially satisfied feeling before you eat. Thus, the new combination of ingredients in the pills act 2 ways to aid in curbing your appetite, causing you to eat less, take in less calories, and lose weight without feeling deprived or hungry. Pills Contain ALL Daily Vitamins No need to take any vitamins to maintain your good health and energy because the pills are fortified with ALL (100%) of the U.S. Government USRDA recommended daily vitamin requirements. The amazing 'hi-tech' super pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again. Now Available to Public You can order your supply of these new highly successful 'hi-tech' super pills (now available directly from the manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $14 for a 15-day supply (or $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for a 60-day supply) cash, check or money order to: Hi-Tech Products, 717 Central Ave., Dept. The Tiny Town of Franklin Village

By Michele M. Fecht

* Nestled among the well-heeled suburban areas of Birmingham and West Bloomfield, the liny town of Franklin Village might easily be overlooked by those who fail to saunter down Franklin Road.

Flanked on all sides by contemporary highrises and subdivision developments, the village has remained a quaint oasis steeped in history.

With its small shops and historic homes dating back to the early 19th century, it's evident why the village has long been called "The Town that Time Eorgot." Founded in 1824 by settler Dillucena Stoughton, Franklin Village has to its credit the distinction of being the first historic district in Michigan to be recognized by the National Register of Historic places. Villagers have long prided themselves in preserving th local history of the area and the truits of their efforts are evident in the unchanged appearance of this tiny village. On a crisp automn weekend, a trip to Franklin Village looks and feels like the New England countryside While a drive through the village may offer passersby picturesque landscapes, visitors should take advantage of the opportunity to stop and see the sights.

Aside from real estate offices, the library and other civic or professional buildings, the center of town boasts a number of speciality and antique shops, a grocery and a tiny tea house.

Visitors strolling through the village's downtown will find fine jewelry at Miner's Den and Bess Orman's (for antique jewelry), gifts at the Curiosity Shoppe, Westminster Gallery and The Village Barn and needlework at The Stitching Post.

The Village Barn, offering a host of gift and craft items, also houses The Christmas Attic upstairs. Filled with holiday wrappings, ornaments and decorations, the Attic offers Christmas year-round and should be a definite stop for shoppers

The Market Basket, the town's grocery, can supply visitors with the Every, the cider mill has become a needed accouterments for a picnic on the grass. Those looking for light lunches, dessert or a cup of tea may want fering ample supplies of apples, cider to stop at Mrs. Lovill's Tea Cozy (see related story). A trip to the village would be incomplete without visiting the Franklin Cider Mill. Erected on the Franklin River in 1837 by Colonel Peter Van weekend mecca for visitors from throughout southeast Michigan. Of-and fresh doughnuts, the mill also carries james, jellies, fudge, candy apples and Hickory Farms beef stick and mustard. Those planning a visit to the mill should remember that weekends are the busiest and parking can be a problem. Hours for the cider mill are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Sunday through December 1.

Aside from Poor Richard's Antique Fair held each October at the Franklin Community Church, another event which should be included among the highlights of the village's season is its Candlight Thursday Nights. Beginning November 29 and concluding December 19, village shops will open their doors to host visitors with music, Santa and refreshments.

Tea Cozy: Charming, quaint

dining out DIANE KOVACS

"Charming" and "quaint" are the two words used most frequently to describe historic Franklin Village, and few places are any more representative of Franklin than Mrs. Lovill's Tea Cozy the village's lovely little restaurant.

Situated on Franklin Road, right next door to the Village Barn, Mrs. Lovill's Tea Cozy is located in a small, two-story house that dates back 153 years. And if you needed to ask, yes, the house is surrounded by a white picket fence.

There's even a real Mrs. Lovill – Doris Lovill, to be precise – who does all the baking for the restaurant.

The house, she explains, was constructed as the home for the man who used to run a buggy shop in the large barn next door. Legend has it that the house used to be a stop along the Underground Railroad during the Civil War.

The Tea Cozy itself is six years old, celebrating its anniversary just last Sunday. After working as a waitress at a variety of restaurants around the Metro Detroit area, Mrs. Lovill was encouraged by friends some seven years ago to see if she could sell her homemade cheesecakes to the restaurant at the Michigan Inn.

She baked up a couple of cheesecakes for them to sample, they decided the cheesecakes would be an asset to the restaurant and began placing their orders. The Lovills bought the house in Franklin Village to operate a cheesecake shop and the restaurant "just sort of developed from there."

The Tea Cozy is open Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dinners are served only from December 1 through December 21 when Mrs. Lovill offers a special Christmas dinner seven nights a week. Forget about attending one of the dinners this year. Reservations have been gone since mid-October.

.As you might expect, the decor in the little restaurant (it seats 32 in two small dining rooms) is totally appropriate for the historic village. Antiques abound and there is, of couse, a lovely display of tea pots, most of them covered with handmade tea cozies.

The tables are covered with red-and-white checked cloths, and the waitresses are clad in ankle-length checkered dresses and little white lace aprons.

Your lunch will start with - what else - a pot of tea. Eighteen different types of flavored teas are offered, ranging from creme de menthe and cherry to spiced apple, peach, rum and wild mint. First-timers should probably order a pot of Mrs. Lovill's "Special Friendship Tea," a pleasing libation made of spices and fresh orange juice.

The menu is simple and traditional, offering a selection of salads and sandwiches along with several entrees.

The baked chicken pie (breast of chicken in a light pastry shell at $6.50) and quiche alpine (a quiche made with chopped spinach, mushrooms and a blend of three cheeses at $6.75) are staples. And Mrs. Lovill also offers different selections on a daily basis. The specials during a recent visit were a broccoli-and-cheese souffle at $6.50 and a tuna croissant at $6.25.
