Amerman named Citizen of the Year

By JEAN DAY

Russell H. Amerman was named Northville's Citizen of the Year at the annual dinner meeting of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Saturday evening at Meadowbrook Country Club.

As Norma Vernon, last year's recipient of the honor, announced the selection of the retired, longtime superintendent of schools, she commented that the 1985 Citizen of the Year is "a mild mannered man who gets things done effectively" and who "has shaped the lives of countless children.

She noted that he has served the community in many ways since coming to Northville in 1927, citing especially his service "without compensation of any kind" as chairman of the city building authority, which oversaw the building of Allen Ter-

A past president and member for more than 50 years of the Northville Rotary Club, Russell Amerman is the only member in the club's 60year history to have the distinction of serving as Rotary District Governor (1967-68). He also served on the committee planning the new Methodist Church on Eight Mile.

The 86 year old educator was born a twin and raised on his grandparents' farm - now the site of the Rawsonville Ford Plant. He attended a one-room school and was

Vernon wins fifth ter

Mayor Paul Vernon won re-election to his fifth two-year term in Tuesday's outpolling challenger Eugene (Bud) Kunz by 103 votes. Vernon received 601 votes to Kunz' 498 in a rematch of 1983's contest. 🔒 🧓

Winning four-year council seats were incumbent G. Dewey Gardner (already an announced candidate for mayor in 1987) and John Buckland, chairman of the Northville Community Recreation Commission. Running third in the race for the two council openings was Luigi Folino followed by Maclyn Burns and Gardner was the biggest vote getter, running up the highest vote total of 614.

"Naturally I am pleased," Vernon said, "but I can't lose sight of the fact that there were almost 500 people who voted for the other candidate "

He acknowledged that a portion of the vote for Kunz was probably those voting against Vernon. He said he sees the need to "resolve differences" with that segment of the population.

Kunz said, "I appreciate the people who did vote for me — that's the way it goes, majority rules."

The vote exceeded the 1983 figure of 22 percent, as 1,206 of the city's 4,198 registered electors made the trip to the polls for a 27.5 percent turnout.

That 1983 election featured the first round of the Vernon-Kunz contest, and while Kunz won among absentee voters and improved on his showing two years ago by winning among Wayne County voters. Vernon carried the day by maintaining his status as the heavy favorite in Oakland County (precinct votes to Kunz's 173. In Wayne County voting at city hall, the challenger posted 236 to Vernon's 199. Absentee tallies favored Kunz by 89 to 76.

City council elections were more interesting than in the recent past, as the decision by incumbent J. Burton DeRusha not to seek re-election left an 'open" seat sure to be occupied by a newcomer to city politics.

Buckland was the heavy favorite for the opening going into the race, boasting experience on the recreation and beautification commissions, plus prior activity with the Jaycees that let him boast of 17 years' civic involvement — the same timespan claimed by

With Gardner running away from the rest of the field, the race boiled down to a four-way contest among Buckland, Burns, Folino and Bodnar as each vied for the rare open seat.

Vote totals broke down like this: Wayne County (Precinct 1): Gardner — 232; Folino — 170; Buckland 159; Burns — 144; Bodnar — 107.

• Oakland County (Precinct 2): Buckland — 302; Gardner — 285; Folino — 155; Burns — 121; Bodnar — 91.

 Absentee voters: Gardner — 97; Buckland — 74; Folino — 53; Burns -41; Bodnar — 35. That gave Gardner his re-election to third four-year term, and final vote totals of 535 for Buckland, 378 for Folino, 306 for Burns and 233 for Bod-

"I am very happy," said Buckland, "particularly with Oakland County." He commented that he had done a lot of door to door campaigning in precinct 2. Gardner said he was disappointed with the turnout, particularly considering the number of candidates in the

"I am real pleased with my own vote, naturally," Gardner said.

"It's encouraging my plans (to run for mayor in 1987)," Gardner said of his high vote total. "Especially when I've told people in advance that that's what I plan to do.''

Kunz said the relatively low turnout may have hurt him, especially in Oakland County.

"You get his people who get out and vote," he said, "That area has always been his strength."

Cathy Konrad, relatively recently appointed city clerk running her first election; said, "It was a breeze." Shortly after final vote totals were announced at about 9:45 p.m.

Precinct totals were available at 9 p.m., with only the absentee tally delay-

Plan calls for 733 apartments

By KEVIN WILSON

Site plans for a 733-unit apartment development to be built on 100 acres near Eight Mile and Griswold will be reviewed at a special meeting of the Northville Township Planning Commission November 12.

Jacobsen & Associates for the Northville Place development raised concerns about traffic patterns and parking layout, leading the commission to table consideration at its October 29 meeting. The developer has since paid the township fee for calling a special meeting to review an amended plan, rather than waiting until , the next regular session November 26.

As submitted last week, the plans call for 367 one-bedroom apartments and 366 two-bedroom units in a sprawling complex that stretches from Eight Mile south to the intersection of Wallis (Doheny Drive) and Silver Springs. Excepting four small parcels zoned for single-family homes that will be engulfed by the complex, Northville Place will extend from just west of the KinderCare nursery school to Griswold, bordering Lake Success on its east and

The site, formerly a gravel mining area, was once planned as a condominium and townhouse development linked to the Highland Lakes complex. Pulte Homes received site plan approval for more than 340 units on 65 acres in what the firm called "Highland Pointe's back in March, 1981, but never launched the project. Interest in the property, owned by 437 Land Company, eventually was transferred to Mark Jacobsen & Associates.

At 733 units. Northville Place rivals Highland Lakes for size, though the limitation to one and two bedroom rental units is expected to draw fewer families with children, keeping population density below that of Northville's largest multiple-family housing com-

Buildings at Northville Place will be the township-maximum 180-feet long, the firm having been denied an appeal requesting a variance to build structures more than 200 feet in length. Height is limited under township ordinance to 25 feet, and plans show buildings 22 to 24 feet high.

Representatives of the developer a last week's planning meeting said rents would probably start at $550 per month and range up to nearly $800 per month.

Traffic patterns and access points to the development were major planning commission concerns. There are three entries planned - one on Eight Mile roughly midway between Griswold and Silver Springs, one on Griswold, and a third near the southern boundary of the property onto Silver Springs.

Rejected was planning consultant Claude Coates' suggestion that the Nor-

Residents threaten suit over Haggerty zoning

By KEVIN WILSON

Amendments to the township master plan as it governs development along the Haggerty Road corridor will likely be determined by the planning commission in November, which will then launch into work on new zoning classifications to implement the plan.

Planners examined the latest, and nearly final, map of proposed land uses for the Haggerty frontage at an October 29 meeting marked by vehement opposition to the plan from residents of the Meadowbrook Estates subdivision.

Representatives of the Meadowbrook Estates Association made open threats of legal action against any planning commission action that would allow more intensive development of the Haggerty frontage, arguing that the proposed office and commercial uses would erode property values in their subdivision north of Seven Mile and roughly 1,000 feet west of Haggerty.

Except for detail changes near the Six Mile intersection that reduced the area devoted to "freeway service" commercial uses, and alterations to the boundaries of two-story office and multiple-family housing areas on the east side of Haggerty north of Five Mile, the proposed plan presented last week differed little from the version

Developer for Village seeks township action

By KEVIN WILSON

Still seeking relief from zoning restrictions it contends are a threat to the economic viability of the Cavanagh Elderly Village project, the Northville Elderly Development Company last week presented its most-detailed presentation to date before the township planning commission. Progress on the planned 1,260-unit retirement complex has been on hold while the developer and township haggle over local zoning requirements that are out-of-step with the lease agreement established between the company and Wayne County. The county holds title to the 101-acre parcel that was formerly the Wayne County Child Development Center east of Sheldon Road between Five and Six Mile Roads.

Terms of a lease agreement between the county, its economic development corporation and the developer were settled earlier this year, establishing a development plan that is not permitted under the township zoning ordinance.

The company announced last week however, that it is prepared to proceed on financing plans for the first stage of the project while negotiations continue on its proposal to allow 35 percent of the units to be rented on an open market unrestricted by age of the tenant.

Also proposed is a change in the definition of elderly for the remaining two-thirds of the project so that tenants age 55 would be considered "elderly" for purposes of calculating compliance. The present limit is age 62.

At the center of the issue is the developer's contention that, in the absence of significant government assistance programs canceled in the past five years, a complex restricted to elderly residents age 62 or above cannot be supported in the current market.

The market originally contemplated for this project is now virtually nonclaimed Mark Kahm, who represented the firm at the planning commission's October 26 meeting.

Without the government subsidies, The library will continue to accept the firm argues, rents will have to be too high for many of the retirees a 1978

'If you open it up to those aged 55 to 62, my guess is that you'd expand the market by at least 60 percent, based on population by age group.'

- Claude Coates Planning consultant

market survey said would fill the complex. The company's own surveys show that little more than half the complex could be rented to persons who both meet the age requirement and can afford the required rental fees.

The units planned for the complex would rent in the low $500 to low $600 ranges, Kahm said, while the open market units would rent for about $800 when opened.

Kahm said the company is not firmly committed to a zoning change as the route to achieving its goals.

'We understand that our request can pose certain problems for the township," Kahm said. "We are willing to cooperate with you to alleviate those problems in whatever way possible.'

He suggested that the commission consider allowing market-rate apartments available to all age groups as a conditional use under the ordinance so that the commission would have authority to accept or reject such uses on a case-by-case basis. The proposal addresses concern that the ordinance might be amended to meet one company's needs, then abused by a subsequent developer.

Kahm also said the firm would accept creation of a second zoning classification designed to meet its needs while retaining the original township RME classification for use should a similar project be proposed elsewhere in the community

Last week's presentation included, for the first time, details of the developer's plans for development of the project in phases, with the first to be completed in 1987 and the last in 1995.

Kahm pointed out that the first two steps are in accordance with the current zoning provisions. They call for 120 units of independent elderly apartments to be occupied by residents age 62 or older and a congregate care facility of 150 units for the same age group. The apartments would be finished in 1987, the congregate care facility in Conventional apartments (open to all age groups) would follow, with 145 units planned for 1989. The first phase occupying rehabilitated structures presently on-site is planned for 1990, with 150 independent elderly apartment units and restoration of the former school building to provide services to the

Another 160 such apartments are slated for 1991, to be followed by more conventional apartments (165 units) in

A nursing home, long an element of the proposed development, is in the long-range plan for 1993. The 240-bed facility would be followed by the last 130 units of conventional rentals in 1994. The last step would be development of a two acre convenience shopping center, which Kahm argued needs some frontage on Sheldon Road to make it economically viable.

Planning consultant Claude Coates told the commission it would be "unwise" to make some of the proposed changes in the absence of protective covenants requiring the developer to provide certain amenities to make the complex a true retirement community rather than simply another apartment development.

He also questioned the developer's need for both a reduction in the age limit and 35-percent market rate hous-

Our earlier market survey (performed in 1978) showed that without subsidies, you could market about 600 units," Coates advised. "If you open it up to those aged 55 to 62, my guess is that you'd expand the market by at least 60 percent, based on population by age group.' Coates' estimated figures would predict a market for 960 units of unsubsidized housing for persons age 55 or older. With the 240-bed nursing home. that totals 1,200 units. Coates suggested another market survey may be required before the township can analyze the developer's requests. He also cautioned that the density requirements of the elderly housing zoning classification are less restrictive than those for what he called "family housing."

"You could be allowing family housing at a density much higher than is otherwise available in your ordinance," Coates said. He also recommended that a complex allowing persons age-55 would require more parking spaces than were contemplated in the or-

Commissioners asked that Coates review the impact of the developer's proposals and report at the November

Police eye WWCF security moves

Area law enforcement officials toured the Western Wayne Correctional Facility (WWCF) last week and reported they were generally pleased with the security improvements made in the past month.

Northville Township police chief Kenneth Hardesty said the tour the morning of November 1 confirmed that the state department of corrections has made virtually all the physical improvements promised after two prison breaks raised local concern

Before approving use of the facility's 650-inmate capacity, Hardesty said, it was agreed to establish the community relations programs also promised by the department. After the breakouts, corrections director Robert Brown capped the WWCF population at 350 and said it would not exceed that number under local officials approved.

'They completed all portions of what had been mentioned (as security problems)," Hardesty said. "There is concertina wire on top of the buildings where needed, they've secured windows, shored-up the fence where they had some erosion, bricked in the underground tunnels. First they welded the manholes down, and now most, if not all, of them have been tapped and bolted down so they can get access to do maintenance.

Hardesty noted that prison officials have also established a routine liaison meeting with area police departments, which will occur on a monthly or everyother-month basis. Over the long-term,

Opening

NOVI (1/2 mile S. of 12-OAKS)

he said, the meeting will be a joint one between police and officials of all three prisons planned at Five Mile and Beck.

"Before (WWCF) goes into full operation," he said, "we agreed that we have to establish the means for notifying residents of an escape and to form a routine for communicating with residents.'

The first meeting of the WWCF Community Liaison Committee is to_take place at the prison on Wednesday, November 13, at 6:30 p.m. Agenda items include discussion of the escapes and subsequent security measures, means of notifying police of escapes, and discussion of a warning system to alert nearby residents in the event of

He was the chamber's 10th Citizen of the Year.

"This year's recipient has made my life richer," Norma Vernon commented as she made the presentation. As last year's honoree for her work in beautification, she served on the selection committee with chamber president Charlotte Spaman and past president Scott Lapham.

She told the approximately 100 persons attending the chamber dinner that beautification workers are "still planting" with about 7,000 tulip bulbs being planted on South Main. Half of the cost, she added, was paid by donations.

News media topic of Fogel's chamber address

"It's a lot easier to deliver a newscast than to deliver a speech before an audience," Gene Fogel, whose voice is familiar to WJR radio listeners, admitted to members and guests of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce at the annual dinner meeting Saturday at Meadowbrook Country

The guest speaker was introducted by chamber president Charlotte Spaman who said she first knew him, not an an announcer, but as a coach of her daughter's. Fogel has coached in the recreation soccer program and has been named Catholic League Coach of the Year.

Fogel, who presently is assignment editor at WJR, speaking on the image of the press, told his audience that "too many reporters bring out the worst they're not as good as could be, as they

'what hard work could do." As a result, he said, reporters were looked upon as heroes and their image was at an all time high, but since that time it's been all downhill.

The reader or listener, he said, should take note of the reporter, the paper, should "flip the dial" and listen to other channels and note which reporters "are demanding of themselves" - and, hopefully, upgrade journalism.

Fogel said there is a glut of people who want to be reporters - journalism schools are packed with would-be reporters in it for the glamour.

The job is interesting, he told his audience, but for the most part it is not glamorous. "Many times it is downright dull when you spend days going through court records - and the story might not get on the air at all.

"Many got into the news media for the wrong reasons," Fogel said, citing instances of irresponsible news reporting on television.

"If it ain't right, it ain't news," he summed up.

Fogel won the George Peabody Award as a member of the WJR team investigating the U.S. District Court in Detroit.

John D. MacDonald, 35th District Court Judge, served as master of ceremonies for the evening.

At the annual meeting, Spaman and; Charles Ely Jr. were re-elected to three. year terms on the board of directors while G. Dewey Gardner was re-elected to a two year term.

Richard Lyon was elected to a three year term and James Davis to a oneyear unexpired term caused by the resignation of board member and secretary Midge Hayne. She is retiringand expects to move from the community. Spaman thanked Kay Keegan for her more than five years of service as executive director of the chamber and;

Helen Giesler for her contributions as interim director.

Jennifer Hilbish stars as Laurey and Gary T. Jones as Curly in the production of Oklahoma!

Arts lecture series turns focus to India

"Monuments of India" is the title of the November 14 Second Thursday Lecture Series presented by the Northville Arts Commission.

Northville resident Dr. Verinder Chaudhery, born and raised in India and knowledgeable of the country's artistic history, will be the guest speaker.

Chaudhery, himself a painter and photographer whose works have been exhibited all over the world, will focus on Indian architecture and related arts in his lecture.

"He's a tremendously interesting person," says Henry Caroselli, who chairs the Arts Commission's lecture series. "He's rather new in town, but it's surprising more people aren't aware of him. We're very excited about his talk next week."

Chaudhery's lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. at Northville City Hall. A $2 donation is requested; refreshments will be

Marquis draws large numbers with a nostalgic 'Oklahoma!'

By JEAN DAY

Take the same reasons that Oklahoma! became an instant hit on Broadway when it opened in 1943 — one of the most delightful scores in musical theater history, clever, humorous lyrics with a definite connection to the plot and the ballet that was an integral part of the production — and add nostalgia.

That's enough to explain why the Marquis Theatre in Northville has had almost capacity audiences for the first six performances of its production of Oklahoma! the last two weekends.

The young cast directed by Arthur P. Rizzo gives the audience its money's worth singing Hammerstein's now-familiar lyrics and entertaining with lively dance routines for which Kathi Bush was the choreographer, assisted by Lisa Walkowicz by Lisa Walkowicz.

After Will Parker (played by Kirk Krekeler) tells the other cowhands about the amazing things he has seen in Kansas City, including the burlesque house, he performs the first dance routine in the show, Kansas City, which was warmly applauded by last Sunday afternoon's audience.

The curtain rises on the opening scene in front of Laurey's house in Indian territory that later became the state of Oklahoma. It's about 1907, the year Oklahoma became a state. Aunt Eller (played by Joyce Uzelac, a member of the Michigan Lyric Opera) is churning butter.

Set designer William Moore and set artist Barbara Malone have kept the sets simple to avoid congestion on the small stage and leave room for the ballet routines.

Cowboy Curly (played by Gary T. Jones who has performed and directed in many professional companies) comes looking for Laurey (played by Jennifer Hilbish who has a master's degree in vocal performance), singing Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'. Many in the audience who welcomed a new kind of musical during World War II obviously were enjoying the songs for which they knew every word last weekend.

· When Curly asks Laurey to go to the box social with him and sings *The Sur*rey with the Fringe on Top, he almost breaks down Laurey's resistance.

After Will Parker accuses Ado Annie (played by Robin L. Urban who is majoring in theater at Wayne State University) of being unfaithful while he was away in Kansas City, Urban delivers well the witty lines in I Cain't Say No. The second act duet by Ado Annie and Will Parker, All Er Nothing, is in the same earthy, clever vein.

Ali Hakim, the Persian peddler with whom Ado Annie has flirted, is played by Dave Durham who is effective in the role wearing a loud checked suit.

Costumers Kathleen Switalski, Shawnee Spedden and Inge Zayti, who also is producer of the musical, have provided the entire cast with colorful costumes appropriate to this story of the early cowboys and farmer-settlers.

Among the chorus girls is Gertie Cummings, a girl with a loud, irritating laugh. She is played effectively by Theresa Kromis, who also managed the props for the production.

When Gertie flirts with Curly, Laurey, not happy, agrees to go to the box social with hired man Jud Fry, played by Mark Byars.

Byars, who has performed in many productions, has the stongest voice in the cast, one that projects compellingly in his scenes.

When Curly visits him in the smokehouse where he lives to tell him to stay away from Laurey, the two sing one of the most stirring songs in the production, Pore Jud Is Daid.

The ballet dream sequence that follows dramatizes well the struggle between Curly and Jud.

The second act opens with The Farmer and the Cowman sung and danced spiritedly by the whole ensemble. The bidding for Laurey's box lunch at the social turns into a contest between Jud and Curly with Curly selling everything he owns to buy the lunch.

Laurey, frightened by Jud's menacing gestures, fires him, and Curly arrives to send him away. Laurey and Curly then reprise the duet of the first act, People Will Say We're in Love.

The final scene, three weeks later, when Laurey and Curly have just been married, takes place in front of Laurey's house. After Aunt Eller says Oklahoma, which has just become a state, should be a fine place in which to live, the ensemble breaks into a lively Oklahoma.

As the men begin a shivaree for Curly, Jud suddenly turns up; he is drunk and rushes for Curly with a long knife. In the skirmish, he falls on his own knife and is killed. Because Oklahoma! contained this scene of a man killed on stage, critics, when it opened, were impressed with it as a serious musical.

Because it is Curly's wedding night the trial is held on the spot at Aunt Eller's insistence and he is acquitted.

The musical ends with a rousing

Conductor Douglas Morrison conducts the musicians who received appreciative applause as the second act opened last Sunday. Assistant conductor and accompanist is Timothy Cheek

Others contributing to the production are Ron Deihl, technical director, Larry Sawaski, sound and lighting, Dave Durham, stage manager, crew—James E. Cape, Ron Knight and Pat Sarna.

The musical continues this weekend and next, November 8-10 and November 15-17, starting at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Tickets for evening performances are $9; for matinees, $6. They are available in advance by telephone, 349-8110 or 349-0868, or from the Marquis stores at the theatre, 133 East Main.

High-rise hotel proposal gets first Livonia approval

By KEVIN WILSON

, Rezoning to allow a multiple-use complex of a high-rise hotel, offices and restaurants was approved by the Livonia planning commission last week for approximately 42 acres of land south of Eight Mile Road between I-275 and old Haggerty Road.

The rezoning, still subject to Livonia City Council approval, would allow development of a hotel up to 12 stories tall, potentially dwarfing the nearby 6-story Novi Hilton.

The hotel in Livonia would be the third near the I-275 exit at Eight Mile. In addition to the Novi Hilton northwest of the Eight Mile-Haggerty intersec-tion, building permits have already been issued for a Skylight Inn on the northeast side of Haggerty in Farmington Hills, according to Farmington Hills city planner Ed Gardiner.

Height limits in Farmington Hills' expressway service district are 30-feet. The chain motel planned in that city includes neither convention nor banquet

H.G. Shane, assistant Livonia planning director, said the owners have not yet presented detailed plans, but that their presentation October 29 included discussion of a structure as high as 10 stories that, due to grading of the land, might be classified as an 8- or 9-story

Also proposed for the site is a complex of professional and general offices (low-rise) and a commercial district that would include five restaurants, Shane said.

James Jonna, a principal partner named in the rezoning petition and pro-prietor of Jonna Construction Company and Jonna Realty Ventures, confirmed Tuesday that present plans call for a 10story high-rise hotel surrounded by office and restaurant development, but cautioned that it is still early in the planning stages and subject to change. Jonna said the land under its previous zoning may have allowed eight-story structures. He also said he and partners Michael George and Timothy Busch have not yet established which hotel chain, if any, would locate on the site. Neither have potential restaurants for the site been confirmed, he said.

Jonna and George both have offices in a building at 30777 Northwestern Highway in Farmington Hills. Busch has offices at 30600 Northwestern. Jon-na Construction Company also lists an address at Haggerty and Hillstech presented at the September meeting.

Planners ordered no significant changes for review at the November meeting, leaving intact the most controversial proposal, that for mid-rise (four-story) offices along the west side of Haggerty between Six and Eight Mile Roads. As sketched on the proposed master plan map, the area devoted to these offices would extend approximately 1,000 feet west of the Haggerty right-of-way line.

Planning consultant Claude Coates cautioned that dividing lines between proposed land uses on a master plan map are not drawn with any great precision and are subject to alteration if and when zoning is changed in accordance with the map.

Bob Johnson, president of the Meadowbrook Estates Association, said residents of the exclusive subdivision north of Seven Mile and immediately west of the proposed midrise office area, are "categorically opposed to any change in zoning, what-

Johnson argued that the present, twostory office zoning along Haggerty (which extends an estimated 600 feet west of the road) provides sufficient transition from the larger buildings on the Livonia side of the boundary road.

He and others contended that midrise office structures immediately adjacent to the subdivision would erode homeowner's property values, and threatened to file a legal suit against the township based on that argument if the planning commission proceeds with the Haggerty master plan alterations.

But commission vice-chair Pat Wright, leading the meeting in the absence of chairman Richard Duwel, noted that the plan revisions are designed, in part, to retain township control over the zoning rather than having it decided by courts when interested developers file suit.

She and commissioner Kitty Rhoades noted that the township lost several similar lawsuits when it attempted to stand firm in support of single-family residential zoning on Seven Mile east of Northville Road. Rhoades noted that two shopping centers and the extensive multiple-family development in that area were in contradiction to the township master plan, but were allowed after court decisions ruling in favor of developers who protested the zoning.

"We have to be able to justify our zoning in relation to surrounding development," Wright told the audience, noting tht previous efforts to maintain residential zoning exclusively were overruled

"We have to do the best we can for the township," she said. "It is better to plan these things in advance rather than to have them forced on us."

A major argument presented in favor of changing the township plan for Haggerty Road development has been to provide a transitional use between the high-rise, intensive development taking place on the Livonia side of the road.

In proposing a zoning class for larger office structures, planners have discussed setbacks from residential property of at least 100 feet.

They have also argued that larger structures attract tenants that are more economically stable than those that customarily occupy the smaller two-story units presently allowed in the township, and cited the danger of creating an "office slum" during an economic downturn if township land is restricted to office uses secondary to those in adjoining Livonia and Novi.

Meadowbrook Estate residents were not receptive to the arguments, contending that they purchased their homes expecting the adjoining residential zoning was firm. Newcomers who buy homes in that residential zone (a strip about 400 feet wide between Meadowbrook Estates and the present two-story office district) "would know about the offices before they bought;" a resident said.

It was commissioner Charles DeLand, himself a resident of Meadowbrook Estates, who made the motion to table the issue "and bring it to a head next month" for a vote. Noting that public comment has been freely accepted during months, of discussion on the issue, DeLand included in his motion a provision limiting audience comment on the matter to 30minutes at the November meeting; It was passed unanimously.

thville Place road system should join Silver Springs near Eight Mile. A steep hill at that point was judged to create unsafe conditions for an intersection.

The commission and developer were more receptive to Coates' recommendation that an emergency access connection should be installed between Lake Success Drive (a private street within Highland Lakes) and the Northville Place development. The connection would be just west of Silver Springs Elementary School. The road would be blocked for normal use but paying would be available should emergency crews require it. The location would also provide a footpath for any children from Northville Place who would attend the school.

Changes expected in the plan before it is submitted for approval next week include alterations in the parking layout, to the berms and walls separating the development from the adjoining single family homes, and in traffic circulation patterns.

Students get lessons in thinking skills as part of schools' altered curriculum

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Chidren in Northville's elementary schools are probably bringing home less "stuff" in the form of dittos and paper work this year, but that doesn't mean they are not learning.

What it does mean, according to Dr. Dolly McMaster, director of curriculum and instruction, is that they are doing more activity related projects in school which involve higher level thinking skills than required by the traditional ditto and rote memory exercises.

In workshops for parents, held in each of the district's elementary schools in October, McMasters and Gayle Fountain, gifted facilitator, described the effort the schools are making to upgrade children's thinking

The effort is a response to recent reports, such as Excellence in Education and The Nation at Risk, which led to a blue ribbon panel's recommendation that skills such as problem solving stratégies, critical thinking and communication skills be given higher priority in the classroom.

Northville responded, parents were told, by inservicing all the elementary teaching staff in methods of teaching high-order thinking. The program, funded by a state grant, began last October and immediately was incorporated into the curriculum. The specific model followed in the Northville schools is known as Bloom's Taxonomy, Parents were given a crash course in the method in order for them to understand the newly acquired terminology of their youngsters and be better equipped to discuss their school

'Benjamin Bloom was an educator who organized the way human beings debate on a relevant issue in the home think into categories," McMaster exunder the evaluation category.

plained. His classification 'system became known as Bloom's taxonomy."

Fountain told parents that not only are the children being taught according to the taxonomy, they are learning about the taxonomy itself, so they can consciously use it and apply it to new

''The ultimate goal,'' she said, ''is for the students to become directors of their own learning, self motivated and self directed, and they have to have the skills and tools to do this."

As a result of learning the taxonomy, children will recognize in which of the six levels of thinking they are functioning, during any given activity, and be able to strive for higher levels.

Knowledge is the first level and means, "I know". It involves such activities as matching, asking, listening and defining.

The second level is comprehension, meaning, "I understand" with activities like explaining, preparing or summarizing.

Third is application, "I can use," involving separating, classifying or con-Fifth is synthesis, "I can take apart and put together again," involving inventing, imagining or composing. Sixth is evalution, "I judge," involving deciding, debating or choosing. Teachers are striving to teach the students how to learn and how to think rather than what to learn and what to Parents attending the workshops were given an activity guide with suggestions for working wih their children in the home. It recommended numerous activities, from listing famous TV stars under the knowledge category to planning a household

David Hullman, Jennie Pupou, David Craig, T.J. Wolsos and Ann Marie Bondy are learning higher level thinking skills

While praising Oakland County officials for developing a "far-sighted" plan for disposal of solid waste (trash), Northville City Council Monday chose to join the less-comprehensive but lessexpensive Wayne County plan

Under 1978 Michigan law, all counties are required to develop a 20-year plan for solid waste management. Northville's rare situation as a community straddling a county boundary resulted in an option to join either one.

After receiving a report from city attorney James Kohl, and hearing a strong sales pitch from Oakland County officials, the council chose participa tion in the Wayne County plan as the cheaper alternative, noting that the costs for joining Oakland's system are open-ended and unpredictable at this

As presented by Kohl, the major dif ference between the plans is that Oakland County's calls for immediate action to reduce dependence on landfills through a county-coordinated system of incineration plants that would extract energy from trash while Wayne County's states that present needs are being met by landfills and only vaguely encourages a move toward more incineration

Kohl's comparison, he noted, was an admittedly simplified version of both plans Oakland County's still relies on landfills for at least 50 percent of solid waste disposal needs for the 20 year study period, while Wayne's relies on several specified incinerator plants as key elements in meeting the need for disposal but the simplification is an accurate measure of the role county government sees for itself in managing

The Oakland plan, presented by George Schutte of the county DPW. calls for a system of incinerators receiving waste generated county wide, with a major plant planned to serve the county's own energy needs for its complex of government buildings in Pontiac A second plant is planned for

Wixom

Wayne County's plan includes no direct county action to develop in cinerators, but does rely on some in cinerators operated under intergovern mental agreements among local units. proposed City of Detroit/Detroit Edison incinerator to generate steam energy to serve downtown buildings, and a pair of small scale private sector incinerators planned by industry

By guaranteeing, through contracts with local units, a minimum flow of solid waste into the Oakland County plants, it is hoped operation of the government-sponsored facilities can be made attractive to the private sector. Oakland County Commissioner John P Calandro explained

"Private contractors who've looked at (incineration) have backed away because you can't guarantee a suffi cient flow to make it worthwhile,' Calandro said With landfill disposal costs averaging $10 per ton and incinerators ranging from $30 to $40 per ton, economics mitigate against attracting sufficient customers to generate a profit from operating an incinerator

But, Calandro said, the Oakland County plan would commit local governments to routing their solid waste to the incinerators, guaranteeing a sufficient flow of material to cover

But it was those additional costs, plus anticipated added expenses for transporting trash a farther distance than is now the case, that caused city council to back away from the Oakland

City manager Steven Walters pointed out that Northville presently enjoys lower-than-average solid waste disposal costs, in part because the contractor handling the work also is employed by the City of Plymouth and transports to a nearby landfill. The combination of guaranteed volume, short haul transport and cheap disposal is very advantageous to the city and could only be retained in the long term, even with a different contractor, by staying with the Wayne County plan, he

Walters further argued that the private sector would respond by

I think (Oakland County) should be commended for trying to do something, but I don't think we can afford to help them.'

> — J. Burton DeRusha 🛴 City councilmember building incinerators when the economics of landfills become prohibitive as available land for burying wastes becomes more costly

"Isn't it really the case, in a theoretical sense, that the private sector got into landfills even though it didn't have a guaranteed stream?"
Walters asked. "The simple economics of the market suggested that there would be enough solid waste for disposal at landfill prices It seems to me the real reason the private sector isn't building incinerators is because landfills are cheaper "

The city manager also said that, although joining Oakland's system would require an upfront committment of less than $1,900 there is little legitimate opportunity to back out if the system eventually designed is too expensive There would be an opportunity to join Oakland's system if landfill costs become exhorbitant at a later date. though the cost would likely be higher for late-joining communities

Calandro, acknowledging the likely higher expense of the Oakland system initially, forecast an eventual solid waste disposal crisis that he said calls for preventive measures to be taken immediately by encouraging incineration.

"As representatives of the people, in addition to costs, we also have to consider what are our long-term obligations to our community," Calandro Schutte, too, tried to direct discussion to the long-term implications of continuing to use valued land for waste disposal.

The question you have to ask is whether you are really interested in reducing our dependence on landfills,'

Council member J Burton DeRusha expressed sympathy with the aim: butsaid it was too costly and too uncertain at this early stage He said that "government is often criticized for not acting until it reaches a crisis stage And now, here (Oakland County is) try ing to do something that's far-sighted and we can't afford it. 'I think they should be commended? for trying to do something, but 1 200 C think we can afford to help them. The concluded

Mayor Paul Vernon echoed DeRusha's analysis, noting that the small size of Northville is unlikely to serious hamper or help the Oakland County effort

"There are too many uncertainties about costs," the mayor said. The questing that someone on council makes a motion directing the city attorney to draft a resolution committing the city to the Wayne County plan. "Oaktant County is to be commended for far-sighted plan. My personal feeling is that we can't afford to take the risk a

Walters and Schutte explained that under terms of the state act requiring. the solid waste plans, communities which straddle a border line and choose to join only one plan must receive ap proval from both county boards of com missioners

That is why, Walters said, the official council resolution joining Wayne County's plan should be drafted by the city attorney after due analysis of the legal ramifications. Kohl was directed to prepare such a resolution. Calandro said he would initiate action with the Oakland County board to approve Northville's choice of the Wayne County

Our Opinions

Re-examine market for elderly housing

Our concern regarding proposed changes to the zoning ordinance for the Cavanagh Elderly Village project continues to rise. While Northville Elderly Development Company, the firm chosen to develop the former Wayne County Child Development Company, is willing to work with the township to accomplish mutual goals, it has not yet provided evidence that its intentions for the project really jibe with the township's.

We cannot accept, on faith, the developer's own studies that are purported to show that a 1,200 unit elderly village cannot be profitably developed unless a substantial portion of the units are built with government subsidies. Subsidies lower rents and expand the potential number of senior citizens who could afford to live in the complex. Since the subsidy programs are virtually unavailable, the firm argues, development of the site will require that up to 35 percent of the units be open to younger renters.
Furthermore, the developer seeks :a reduction in the definition of "elderly" to age 55, in a bid to expand the potential market.

Unfortunately, the township's own market study for the project was done in 1978 and is sadly outdated. It was done at a time when government subsidies were readily available and was based on an assumption that elderly was defined as age 62 or older (the youngest age at which the Social Security program allows retirement benefits). Still, that eight-year-old study showed a market for more than 600 units of elderly housing rented at the going rate. In other words, more than half the project could be rented to those age 62 or over who could pay substantial rents without subsidy.

Our gut feeling is that a similar market study today, with the age limit dropped to 55, may show sufficient numbers to fill the proposed complex, without resort to opening the project to younger tenants. Or, alternatively, that a full 65 percent of the complex could be rented to those over age 62 if the remainder is opened to all comers. In short, one or the other of the developer's requests may be justifiable, but granting both on such tenuous grounds may be unnecessary.

Admittedly, gut feelings are insufficient to warrant an investment of the magnitude contemplated for this project. But we think township policy correctly stresses that the elderly village should be precisely that — a retirement community, complete with amenities tailored to its clientele. When the developer asks that the policy be altered, there is an obligation to justify the change.

Doing so on the basis of a developer's own studies would be irresponsible. The township should update its own market survey, or start from scratch, before yielding on the requested zoning amendments. The time entailed in such a study is well worthwhile — after waiting more than eight years for this project, a matter of months should be considered inconsequential.

In any case, no decision regarding the developer's requests should be made until verifiable market figures are available to the township. The township should move forward immediately to obtain the necessary information.

Prison taking steps to be good neighbor

State corrections officials should be commended for the recent efforts made to improve relations with the communities surrounding the concentration of facilities on Five Mile Road. It took time, and more than a little shouting, but the most recent steps demonstrate that the state can communicate with the governments housing its facilities if it chooses to do so.

We are not prepared to say relations between the corrections system and the community are nearing the ideal — there is still a long way to go before residents who feet their trust was violated by the rash of escapes from the Western Wayne Correctional Facility (WWCF) will believe the prison system can be a good neighbor.

learn how swiftly corrections officials contacted local legislators and governments when the prison population at Phoenix Correctional Facility in Northville Township exceeded the firm cap established last June. Our initial reaction was one of outrage that the department would dare violate a legislative act when the ink was barely dry on the document. But then we were reminded that the original draft of that bill had allowed for such situations on a temporary basis with local government approval, in recognition of the current overcrowding of prisons statewide.
Those provisions were deleted by some of the more obstinate, statecentered Lansing bureaucrats who see cooperation with local government as some kind of diminution of their authority.

Those who blocked the community-approval provisions for exceeding the cap represented the state department of management and budget, not the corrections department. We have since seen that corrections director Robert Brown is perfectly willing to allow local communities to review the work being done at WWCF. And we have evidence of longer standing in relation to Phoenix Correctional Facility, which has been generally unobtrusive (though its immediate neighbors would argue that the outdoor public address system is a nuisance). The department's willingness to work with both the local governments and police departments deserves recognition.

We are still not fully satisfied with the violation of the prisoner cap at Phoenix — we would prefer that the department would announce a firm date (rather than the vague estimate of "two weeks" that has been offered for two weeks in a row) by which the inmate population will be reduced to the mandated 311 maximum. But we believe the groundwork has been laid for a cooperative relationship between the state corrections department and the community. In an area accustomed to the bunker mentality of the department of mental health, we are thankful for small favors from another arm of

Voter interest was low

By Jean Day

If the turnout for the Northville Candidates' Night a week ago Thursday at city hall to hear the five candidates running for two city council seats and the two candidates for mayor of the city is any indication, there were few votes cast in Tuesday's election.

The meeting sponsored by the Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi League of Women Voters was heard by about 30 persons. That doesn't sound like an abysmal turnout until one considers that seven were members of the press — two reporters and a photographer from The Record and four Omnicom staff members who were taping the program. Then subtract a daughter, a father, spouses and friends of the candidates as well as one candidate's campaign manager and the five League members.

We seriously doubt that more than five or six persons were on hand just to become better informed voters. That's five or six from a total of about 4,037 active registered voters in the city. That's .0009 percent. To their credit, all the candidates for council and the mayorship were present and prepared with statements.

It must have been discouraging for them as well as for League members sponsoring the candidates' night. Cindy Fanslow, League president, who did an excellent job moderating the program, admitted she would have liked a bigger audience but said lack of one will not deter the League from holding future candidates' nights.

However, she noted that other communities' candidates' nights — such as one held in Novi — did draw an audience. Like others, she wondered why Northville's did not. It's a good question. Hopefully, some of the absentee voters decided to watch the proceedings on cable television even though they would not be able to ask questions of the candidates personally, as the League makes provision for at its programs.

A second opportunity for community members to meet the candidates was provided October 29 at the Current Issues Class for Northville senior citizens held at Allen Terrace. This meeting was open to all interested residents. It garnered a somewhat better audience. Thirty five seniors, mostly Allen Terrace residents, were on hand.

The small attendance figures are not a surprise to those who have observed past elections. Historically, League meetings have been poorly attended. In the recent past, the League abandoned holding Northville meetings. We appreciate the fact that it resumed the candidates' night for the present election. Even though the turnout was poor, the candidates made statements on their position and responded to audience questions — and gave The Record an opportunity to report their answers for our readers.

While all candidates have responded to requests for biographical information and been interviewed by The Record staff, the League provided another opportunity for them to share their views and reasons for running. In a small community there are too few such chances. Some candidates have said they were going door-to-door to meet voters and hear their concerns; however, the voters only heard those who knocked on their doors.

The League candidates' night offers a balanced view of all those running for office. We don't like to think that voters are willing to read The Record account of the program instead of coming out to gain informed, first-person opinions. Those citizens who have attended city council meetings (usually because they had a request to make or because a pending action affected them or their property) have some impressions of the incumbents — but what of newcomers to politics like Luigi Folino or Maclyn Burns or Ron Bodnar?

Perhaps, as more than one candidate commented, there is a feeling that city council, boards and commissions are closed affairs with the same persons tapped to serve on several. There is a response to that — it's in the voting booth. But, given the lack of attendance at the LWV Candidates' Night, the paucity of campaign signs in the community and Tuesday's rain, the response may be weak.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

"Did you see Diana Ross is getting married?" she asked over dinner one night.

"Guess I missed that one," I responded. "I'll bet the News and Free Press ran it Page One. Somewhere between the U.S./-Soviet summit and the racial strife in South Africa."

"As a matter of fact, it was just a little blurb on the back page," she said. "Diana Ross is getting married to some millionaire shipping magnate from Sweden or Denmark or someplace over there. He's an older man, too. Considerably older than Diana Ross."

"That lady has come a long way from the projects of Detroit."

"That's what upsets me about women," I said, mildly ir-

"You women talk about how we men evaluate women in terms of their external appearances, but did you ever turn around and look at yourselves?

"You know what the number one trait is in a man, as far as women are concerned? It's money. If a man is rich, he'll have women draped all over him. And not your average-looking women, either. I'm talking about genuine, bonafide beauties. Gorgeous women, willing to do just about anything to get him to slip a diamond ring on their finger.

"It doesn't make a bit of difference what he looks like, either. He could be ugly as blazes and it wouldn't make any difference. As long as he's got money. That's all you women are interested in.

"One of the sororities in my college elected a girl who had just gotten engaged to a doctor as 'the most likely to succeed.' They didn't vote for the smart girls. Or the girls who were going to graduate school. They voted for the girl who got engaged to a man who was going to be rich."

She sat quietly as I was delivering my diatribe, a slight smile on her face.

"You're basically right," she said finally, waiting until she was sure I had finished.

"But you forgot one thing," she added. "Old. Very old."

"Old and rich. Young and rich doesn't cut it. Old and rich is where it's really at."

New high-rise threat

By B.J. Martin

Lately there has been an influx of stackable desktop files in our newsroom. Maybe you know the kind. They're usually made of black plastic, probably designed and manufactured by some Japanese office supp-

And now they're the stuff of which nightmares are made. I'm sure you'll agree as I relate to you my sad tale about the dire consequences of Uncontrolled Development In The Newsroom.

When I first moved to the newsroom, all my neighbors had little in-baskets. One on each desk, tops. We're talking low-density. We're talking acreage. When you flipped on the overhead fluorescent lights, you could look across the newsroom and see the reflection off Michele Fecht's bronze National Press Association award. Sometimes you could even see clear out to the pencil sharpener fastened to the wall over by the

All of us in the newsroom had a little desk blotter we'd tend on our nice desk tops. There was always plenty of room for pencils and paper clips to roll around. Everybody was Then - without so much as a notice of a public hearing — Kevin Wilson brought in a five-tier monstrosity that directly abutted my desk. Before I had time to say, "Hold on a second, neighbor," right next to it he erected a metal four-deck.

You think the five-story is bad, you should see the four-story. I firmly believe it is made of substandard construction materials, as it now lists to the side whenever the top level gets too crowded with auto company press kits and Hansen's Natural Soda cans.

Worse than that, it has begun to attract UNDESIRABLE TENANTS. Press releases from the Wisconsin Society for Oleomargarine Standards. Zoning Board of Appeals minutes. I think you catch my drift.

I guess what really galls me is that I had no idea Wilson's desk was zoned for high-rise use. I appealed to the newsroom council that Wilson's files were ruining the low-profile character of the newsroom and obstructing my view of the 1983 Michigan Sewage Authority calendar.

I thought they'd listen, but Wilson claimed I wasn't making a good-faith effort to maintain the upkeep on my desk. I had to sit there and listen to him malign my housekeeping abilities in front of all the others in the newsroom. I mean, so what if a couple of my Coke bottles fall over and drip on the edge of his desk once in a while? So what if my reporter notebooks sometimes creep over onto his blotter?

Alas, my complaints fell on deaf ears, and one by one the newsroom occupants begain to knuckle under. Michele Fecht put up a three-deck on her desktop and now there's even been talk the old LeAnne Rogers desk, now unoccupied, might be moved out to make room for a metal file cabinet.

It's been a sad, sad thing. It wasn't long before economics forced me to follow suit. I just recently constructed a five-story and a three-story designed by the same bunch who did Michele's file.

Oh it's so efficient, they tell me. You don't have to store your papers in your desk drawers. You don't have to go all the way over to the bookshelf to get a dictionary. There's more and more information moving in every day, and it has to stay someplace.

Well, nuts. I suppose I should have seen it coming when they moved out all those beautiful old typewriters and moved in those video word-processing terminals. I mean, you don't see the kind of respect for craftsmanship and design that went into those old Remingtons and that beautiful old restored

Ah well. It's a good thing I can go home and get away from all that.

Third effort launched on voter registrations

Secretary of State Richard Austin likes State Senator Robert Geake's Christmas tree, but complains it doesn't have enough ornaments.

Austin, as election chief of Michigan, agrees in principle with Geake's bill to cut "deadwood" from the voter registration rolls after five years instead of 10.

"It doesn't go far enough," according to his spokesman, State Elections Director Chris Thomas. Austin wants any changes in state laws to grant county clerks power to appoint registrars to sign up voters, too.

Currently, only local city and township clerks and the Secretary of State's office may register people to

Nevertheless, the Senate Local Government Committee recently gave 3-0 approval to Geake's bill to both purge voter lists of inactive registrants and make registration drives more Supporting the measure were Chairman Harmon Cropsey (R-Decatur), Norman Shinkle (R-Lambertville) and Patrick McCollough (D-Dearborn). Two other members were absent.

Using an idea from the Plymouth Township clerk, Geake (R-Northville) is making his third try at a registration reform bill.

Governor James J. Blanchard has vetoed the earlier versions. But Geake - whose district includes Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Livonia and Redford - says he has addressed the Democratic governor's complaints in his third version, Senate Bill 403.

Geake has support of GOP leader

John Engler of Mount Pleasant and Democratic leader Art Miller of Warren, along with endorsement from the Michigan Townships Association, the Michigan Municipal Clerks Association, the Michigan Municipal League and the state chamber of commerce. .. Key provisions in the bill that goes now to the Senate floor:

Clerks may cancel the registration of voters who have been inactive for five years (instead of the current 10) provided they send a written notice and allow 30 days for the person to reapply.

· It sets training standards for deputy registrars appointed by local clerks. Groups such as the League of Women Voters have complained that some clerks refuse to deputize them for registration drives at shopping malls, the clerks saying they fear for the integrity of the process.

Clerks could not reject an applicant for deputy registrar solely because of political affiliation or residency. Clerks would have to keep records on the persons they deputize.

· Deputy registrars would be prohibited from campaigning or wearing buttons while conducting registration drives. At the insistence of McCollough, the bill was toughened to make viola-tion of this section a $500 misdemeanor.

• Local cierks could máke agreements with the other clerks to cross-register residents. For example, the clerk of Communityville could, appoint a deputy registrar to work at the Communityville Mall and register voters from Hometown if the clerk of Hometown is agreeable.

Wayne County won't post danger signs along Rouge

The Wayne County Health Department has decided against posting signs along the Rouge River warning against possible health hazards.

County Medical Director Donald Lawrenchuck had earlier offered the signs as a response to the death of a Novi man, who swallowed some polluted river water when he fell in last summer. The man later died of a rare, infectious disease known to be communicated through contaminated

However, based on inconclusive environmental tests linking the river to the disease, leptospirosis, and a recommendation from the county's corporate counsel, a decision was made last week against the signage, Lawrenchuck said.

Glenn Brown, director of the department's environmental health division, deferred comment other than to confirm, "that's the latest word." He said a joint decision was prepared after a recommendation from staffs of the health department, the executive office and legal counsel.

Vernice Davis-Anthony, head of the county Human Services Department, sent a letter announcing the decisions to the mayor of Melvindale, whose city council passed a resolution requesting the county post warnings near a city boat dock where pollution is particularly heavy. Melvindale is located near the mouth of the Rouge River.

'I'm really irritated about this," said Melvindale Mayor Thomas Coogan. 'They posted Belleville Lake (last summer) when there was a little coliform (human waste) in it, but they won't post where there's a toxic, health problem.

warning signs for Melvindale.

sibility for the waterway lies with the state Department of Natural Resources although much of the 125-mile waterway runs through county property.

"We're not opposed to posting," Lawrenchuck said, "but since DNR is the party responsible for the overall water quality, if a local community requests it, we'll tell them to consult with the Michigan DNR.'

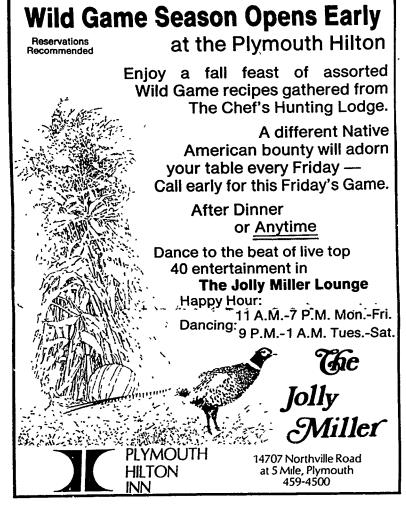

Lawrenchuck added that the corporate counsel office - county attorney for civil matters — had advised that postings would be difficult to maintain and locate. "When you're talking about a river that size, there are a number of locations," he said.

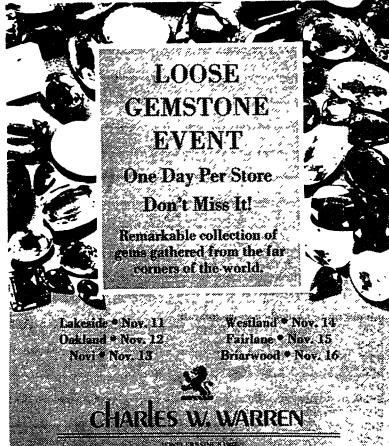

The medical director said that even though water tests conducted last month showed a "low level" of pollution and couldn't link a connection to the disease that killed the Novi man, he is still advising residents against "any contact with the river."

But in Redford Township, County Commissioner Richard Manning said he could understand the difficulties of attempting to post signs along a river of

"It's not a critical health problem because of the rarity of the disease. And the level of pollution from sewers upstream is relatively low," he said. "It's not drinkable or swimmable, but apparently they feel the primary responsibility rests with the DNR."

Leptospiroris, the disease that killed the Novi man, is believed to be carried by as much as 15 percent of the rat population, Lawrenchuck said, and rats are one known carrier. He added that Brown's staff had done a "thorough" rodent survey of the Lola Valley Park "low level of activity.

Water contamination concern arises

By KEVIN WILSON

Township officials are working with Wayne and Washtenaw County health authorities to establish what dangers, if any, are presented by a plan to excavate 10 acres of land on the east side of Napier Road opposite Holloway Landfill to remove chemicals con-taminating groundwater in the area.

The excavation, called for under an October 1 consent agreement between Holloway Landfill, Inc. (owners not only of the Salem Township landfill, but also of the 10 acres in Northville Township) and the state DNR calls for removal of benzene (a petroleum derivative) and trichloroethene (a cleaning solvent known to be car-cinogenic in large quantities).

Although the agreement was reached October I and negotiations between the DNR and Holloway likely took place for many months beforehand, township supervisor Susan Heintz said Monday that no notification had been provided Northville Township until midafternoon November 1, when a Washtenaw County health department official called to ask if township permits would be required to perform the excavation.

Heintz said she had not, as of Tuesday morning, been provided with detailed information regarding the levels of chemicals found in groundwater on the east side of Napier.

"I don't want to cause a panic, but we are concerned," she said. "One thing that worries us is that this site is very near the Johnson Drain, which runs all the way across this community and into the Rouge."

While Heintz said Washtenaw County officials characterized the situation as "no big deal" and suggested she was "blowing this out of proportion" by requesting detailed groundwater analysis, she said she has ordered an investigation by the township engineer.

Ultimately, she said, well water tests of some type will likely be performed. The Holloway-DNR consent agreement cites the discovery contaminated groundwater in monitoring wells (constructed specifically for such testing) on the landfill property and on the east side of Napier. Contaminants include benzene, dichloroethene, trichloroethere, toulene, methylene chrloide, "and some general inorganic groundwater parameters."

No contimination levels are cited in the agreement, leaving township officials guessing as to the severity of the problem.

Heintz said her inquiries to the Wayne County Health Department revealed that no notification had been provided that agency from Washtenaw County. The matter is being handled by the DNR's Jackson office, she noted, because the landfill is in Washtenaw County, even though DNR offices in Northville Township are closer to the Heintz said she was told the contaminants being excavated from the Holloway property would be monitored throughout the project. If contaminants are at a low level, they will be transported across Napier and buried in the landfill. If the level of con-taminants is high, Heintz said she was told, they will be transported to a landfill designed for burial of toxic wastes.

Attempts early this week to contact the DNR, Washtenaw County and Wayne County health departments produced no response prior to The Record press deadline.

Mustang defense shuts down Novi

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Novi and Northville high schools are less than two miles apart. And on the gridiron, the two schools are even Novi's normally potent offense fell victim to a swarming and opportunistic Northville defense, and a single Mustang touchdown was enough to pull out a 7-2 football victory Friday.

It was a physical contest beween two very evenly matched squads. The only difference was that Northville managed to avoid turning the ball over on a fourth quarter game-winning drive.

"I certainly expected that we could score, but they have a solid defense," Wildcat coach John Osborne said. "I anticipated a close game, but Northville has been building a lot of momentum lately and we've had our roblems toward the end of the season.

"If I thought before the game that we would hold them to just seven points, I would have certainly thought that we would have won.''

With just less than 10 minutes remaining in the game and the score deadlocked at 0-0, the Mustangs marched 80 yards in 10 plays to score the touchdown. The drive followed an unsuccessful 35-yard field goal attempt by Novi's Darrin Mack.

A big 50-yard run by Northville running back Phil Pendleton was called ack by a clipping infraction, but it didn't stop the Mustang drive. On a key third-and-nine situation at the Novi 41, Pendleton broke a tackle, got to the outside and dashed 14 yards to the 27 for a first down.

On the next play, with the Wildcat defense reeling, quarterback Paul Newitt spotted wide receiver Don Noron all alone at the goal line and hit him or the game's only touchdown. Jack Sylvestre's extra point made it 7-0 with just six minutes left. 'We didn't do a good job of containment on that drive, and we let them get to the outside," explained Osborne. "That's where they got the good yar-

Novi's usually effective offense got the ball one more time. The drive started at the Wildcat 20 and two big ourth down conversions helped keep it

Brett Gillick carried it up the middle for a first down on a fourth-and-two situation at the 39, and an incredible fake punt by the Wildcats also kept Novi's hopes alive and put a scare into Northville coach Dennis Colligan.

Following a sack by the Mustangs' Tim Millen, Novi faced a fourth and 17. From a punt formation, Tom Markus grabbed the ball from between a teamnate's legs, waited a second for the ushers to go by him, and set off something to smile about...

towards the sidelines and into the clear. He needed 17; he got 18.

"It was a great play on their part," Colligan admitted. "Only one guy on our team saw what was going on and he missed the tackle."

An interference call against Northville and a pass over the middle from quarterback Jeff Tanderys to split end Steve Shankel moved the Wildcats inside the Mustang 20. But on the next play, an errant pitch was recovered by Northville's Mike Hilfinger to preserve the Mustang victory.

On fourth-and-long with less than a minute left, Colligan elected to take a safety rather than risk a punt.

We played well enough to get the shutout but we didn't want to risk the punt because there is always the possibilty of a block or a big return," Colligan said.

Both teams treatened to score several times during the first half, but every time turnovers ended the threats. On the Wildcat's first possession, a 38-yard run by Gillick moved the ball inside the Northville 35. But on the next play, Millen recovered a Novi fumble.

The Mustangs then returned the favor after driving inside the Novi 10 as Brad Abbott picked off a Paul Newitt pass at the eight. After a short Novi punt, Northville moved to the 23 but a second interception, this time by Larry McKillop, stalled the drive. The first quarter ended with no score.

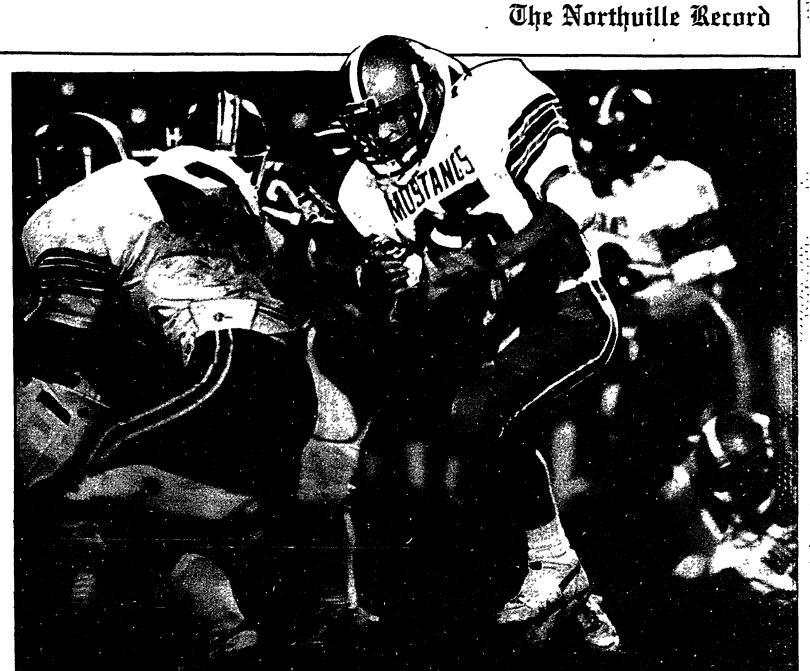

Each team drove deep into its opponent's end in the second quarter, only to come away empty-handed because of turnovers. Millen recovered a fumble to stop a Novi drive, and Rob Wilson picked up a Northville loose ball to end their threat as well.

Novi's Matt Kamish recovered another Mustang fumble in the third quarter, and behind the passing of Tanderys, Novi moved down to the Mustang 23 before the Northville defense tightened up. Mack's field goal attempt was just wide to the left though, which set up the Mustangs game winning drive.

Linebacker Brett Gillick had the most productive defensive outing in Wildcat football history. His 17 solo stops and six assists are schools records. He played the game with a broken finger.

Novi ended the season with three straight defeats but still managed a 5-4 overall mark. For Osborne, it has been a very bittersweet campaign.

"We aren't satisfied with a 5-4 record but then again, we're definitely pleased that we picked up a lot of ground over the year before," Osborne said. "Our players had a tough job of trying to bounce back after a one-win season and you have to give them credit for that."

According to a survey of pharmacists and a 1984 report from the United States Commerce Department, generic drug use is increasing. Generic drugs, those sold without brand name. made up only 15% of shipments of prescription drugs in 1981. Two years later generic drug use had escalated to 20%

In a 1982 survey, pharmacists selected a generic manufacturer as top choice in only one of 45 different drug categories. A 1983 survey of 1,200 pharmacists showed generic manufacturers the top choice for nine of the 45 categories.

Companies that manufacture, package, and label generic drugs must comply with the same standards required of producers of branded drug products. There is still debate, however, as to the value of generic versus branded drug products. Some insurance plans and state Medicaid programs have mandated use of generics as a method to reduce costs. Increasing consumer awareness of the availability of generics has no doubt contributed to their increased popularity. C S & S 1985

Defensive gems spark Northville cage squad

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville girls' basketball mentor Ed Kritch is a firm believer in the old adage that a good offense wins games but a good defense wins championships.

It's not hard to tell that Kritch has been successfully relaying the message to the Mustangs, and they have responded accordingly. The end result is two more wins and two more defensive gems by Northville in cage action last week.

Walled Lake Western was on the short end of a 41-20 rout on Tuesday, and then the Mustangs turned around and blasted Livonia Franklin 48-36 on Thursday. The two wins raise Northville's mark to 9-7, 7-7 in the Western

But just as important is the fact that the victories avenge losses to the same two teams earlier in the season.

'It was a big week for us because it definitely shows that we're imporoving," Kritch pointed out. "These two teams beat us the first time around but the second time around, they were easy wins for us."

Mustangs shut out an opponent in a quarter. On Tuesday, Walled Lake failed to score in the first quarter and Northville raced to a 10-0 lead.

"It's getting to be a psychological thing with the kids," Kritch explained. "The longer it takes for the other team to score, the more determined they

33-14 after three quarters, it was all

Tricia Ducker had another outstanding all-around game for the Mustangs. The junior forward poured in 15 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and 10 steals. Guard Julie Anger had her most productive scoring outing of the season by chipping in with 10 points and five

The Northville front line controlled the boards all game with 30 rebounds between Ducker, forward Michele Siemasz and center Susie Schrader.

The Mustang zone press also helped in the early going against Franklin on Thursday. Ducker and Schrader combined to score 14 of Northville's 16 first quarter points to open a 12-point advantage where it stayed at intermis-

Franklin made a run early in the se-cond and closed the gap to 27-17, but the Mustangs promptly reeled off 10 straight points to put the Patriots away. Ducker ended up with 12 points, Schrader nine and Anger eight.

Kritch used a different defensive stategy against Franklin and superguard Traci Lectka, and it worked perfectly.

"We let Lectka get anything she wanted and concentrated on holding the rest," Kritch said. "After three quarters she had 15 of their 19 points, so it worked well."

The Mustangs host state ranked Plymouth Canton tomorrow (Thursday) in the inaugural contest in the new Northville High School gymnasium.

Mustang tankers split

Despite splitting two meets last week, Northville swim coach Bill Dicks rethe only other first place finish. mains pleased with the improvement of his young team. The Mustangs dropped a close 93-78 decision to Brighton October 29 but bounced back to trounce Walled Lake Western 122-48 two days

"(Brighton) beat us by 25 points which is a lot closer than it's been in the last few years," Dicks admitted. "I think they all swam well, we had some good time drops.

Northville won five of 11 events, but the Bulldogs used a little more depth to edge the Mustangs.

-Freshman Sue Settles continues to lead the way with firsts in the 200-yard freestyle, the 100 butterfly and as a member of the 200 medley relay team along with Pam Wesley, Erika Nelson and Shari Thompson.

The only event that Northville finshed 1-2 against Brighton was in the 500 freestyle, with Thompson grabbing a first and Julie Hilfinger right behind Wesley (100 backstroke), Thompson (200 IM) and Nelson (100 freestyle) all notched seconds.

It was a totally different story on Thursday as the Mustangs thoroughly dominated the Warriors. In six of the 11 events, Northville finished 1-2 and 1-2-3 in three of those.

Western quickly found itself behind 12-2 after the first event. Thompson, Hilfinger, Kristi Fortenberry and Becky Frayne teamed up for first place in the 200 medley relay while teammates Dee Lachance, Nelson, Jennifer Yuhasz and Laural Wilkinson came in Settles won the 200 freestyle with Laura Williams and Diane Ford right behind in second and third place respectively. Hilfinger, Fortenberry and Lachance came in 1-2-3 in the 100 butterfly as did Settles, Nelson and Kym Valade in the 100 backstroke.

Cahill, Magdich, Peltz named

Likewise, individual performances also improved, and three Mustang players were recognized for their efforts by being named to the All-Western Lakes Athletic Association, Western Division team and three others were chosen to the Honorable Mention team.

A panel of the Western Lakes soccer coaches selected senior midfielder Matt Peltz, senior forward Fred Cahill and junior fullback Dan Magdich as All-Division while Honorable Mention honors went to junior forward Nick Morris, junior fullback Ken Kossak and junior goaltender Todd Stowell.

Peltz was one of the co-captains and the team's best playmaker. This fouryear letterman scored one goal and added nine assists during the season. According to Yezback, Peltz' flip throw-in added a new dimension to the Northville offense and directly resulted in

Cahill missed four early season games because of a broken foot but he finished the year with a flurry. His totals include five goals (three in one game) and three assists. Yezback attributes the Mustangs' strong finish to the emergence of players like Cahill.

Only a junior, Magdich directed the Northville defense that allowed an average of less than two goals a game. Morris was the team's leading scorer

Sieving combo are all wet

Allison and Jeff Sieving made the Macomb Aquadic Club's Mini C swim meet look like a family reunion. The brother and sister combo from Northville competed in the November 2-3 event at Roseville's Brablec High School along with the rest of the Clarenceville Swim Club.

Allison placed first in the 50-yard freestyle, the 100 freestyle and 200 freestyle events in the girls' 11-12 catagory. She also came in second in the 100 backstroke and third in the 50 backstroke.

Her brother Jeff grabbed firsts in the 25 breaststroke, the 25 backstroke and the 25 freestyle events of the boys' under seven catagory. He also competed in the eight and under age group and logged a pair of six place finishes in the 25 butterfly and the 100 freestyle.

with 12 goals and seven assists, while Kossak teamed with Magdich to form a very formidable 1-2 punch defensively for the Mustangs. Stowell completed the picture as one of the league's best goalies. Stowell only allowed an average of 1.82 goals per game and recorded three shutouts during the

Mustangs tie Chargers 2-2

Only 53 seconds separated the Mustang soccer squad from a big upset. Unfortunately, just a second later, Livonia Churchill scored a goal that ultimately salvaged a 2-2 tie against' Northville in high school soccer action:

Schmidt wins grid quiz

With Michigan and Illinois playing to a 3-3 deadlock, ties were abundant in last week's Northville Record/Novi News football contest as five people submitted entries with just three mistakes.

So, once again, the old tiebreaker had to be invoked to sort out the winners.

And, after all was said and done, Fred Schmidt of Livonia had claimed the top prize of $15. Schmidt missed three games and predicted that Ohio State and Illinois would run up a combined total of 31 points in their weekend battle — just four points off the actual total of 35 in the Buckeyes' 22-13 upset of the top-ranked Hawkeyes.

Second prize of $10 goes to Finn O'Leary of Northville who also missed three games and was five points away game, while the $5 third prize goes to Robert F. Smith of Northville, who was eight points away from the actual total; in the tiebreaker.

Jill Bartling of Northville and Bob. Pode of Ann Arbor also had three misses, but their estimates of the totalnumber of points in the tiebreaker were; farther off the mark than the three win-

Just two weeks remain in the 1985 edition of the football contest, so if you' haven't won yet there's not much time left to sharpen your pencils and get to work. Frequently missed games last week included the tie between Michigan and Illinois. Ohio State's upset of Iowa and Florida's win over Auburn.

Smithsonian picks ornaments of local businessperson

Terrie Brown's Country Palette shop at 107 East Main in Northville is filled with decorative Christmas items

By ANN CHOWDHURY

When the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C., dresses up for Christmas, its finery will include two Christmas tree ornaments painted by Novi's Terrie Brown.

Brown, who opened The Country Palette at 107 Main Street in Northville recently, is a certified member of the National Society of Tole and Decorative

In 1983 the Smithsonian invited society members to submit Christmas or-naments they had painted.

Brown's ornament was a porcelain ball, on which she painted baby Jesus wrapped in a blanket and placed on straw against a blue background.

This year Brown has contributed a wooden, heart-shaped ornament with a painting of a lion and a lamb.

When Brown started taking tole painting lessons eight years ago, she said she became "hooked but good." Between classes she bought all kinds of items to paint, including all her Christmas gifts.

Frequent moves because of her husband Rich's seven-year stint in the Air Force helped rather than hindered her painting. "I've taken classes with teachers across the country and picked up different things from them all," she explained.

Her early classes were at New York State University and more followed in California and Texas.

Brown was soon selling her work. "No home had room for the amount I was doing," she joked, "and I had to make money to support my habit."

Within a few years she was teaching, not only in stores in Texas where she was living at the time, but to classes of gifted children and the annual conventions of the National Society of Tole and Decorative Painters.

Her classes are now available at the Country Palette.

Decorative painting, she explained, has changed a great deal over the last 10 years and is becoming closer to fine art. "It has advanced way beyond the cute mushrooms, daisies and strawberry motifs with which it was once associated."

Tole, strictly interpreted, means stroke work on tin. It is, according to Brown, "a method of painting with a step-by-step procedure."

Decorative painting uses the same techniques but is used to decorate all kinds of household objects and a multitude of surfaces with great attention paid to color combinations, light. sources, highlighting and shading. "Anybody can learn to do it because there is a set method," Brown promises. "Even though I can teach the same techniques to everyone, students all develop their own styles because there are delicate painters and bold painters."

But it does take patience, persistence and lots of practice, Brown warned, not only in the painting but in preparing the surface of the object before painting can even begin.

Wood has to be sanded and sealed, something with which her husband and two sons, Chris, 13, and Andy, 9, help. 'Rich even makes some of the wooden items I paint," she added.

A glance around The Country Palette reveals the versatility and beauty of decorative painting in the hands of an Hours at Country Palette, located upstairs at 107 Main Street in Northville, are Tuesday through Saturday noon to 4 p.m.

Entrepreneurs relate secrets for success

James Karchon, a Southfield businessman, took an engineering firm he admits was "going down the river" and within three months procurred $20 million in sales, projecting a $1 million profit for the year.

A native Detroiter, Karchon lived on the East Coast for awhile, But when it came time to starting a business venture, he came home to Michigan where he felt comfortable.

Despite the dour economic climate Michigan, like the rest of the Midwest, had one important thing going for it - a strong work ethic, Karchon told a gathering of business people at the Southfield Hilton recently.

"My personal opinion is this is the best place to start a company," he said. "We don't get up to smell the salt air and look to see if the surf's up. We go to

And that's what 150 business people and aspiring entrepreneurs had in mind at the Greater Detroit/Southeast Michigan Entrepreneurship Forum, a workshop promoted to "share secrets" about business successes, from dig-in, hard work stories to just plain luckedout accounts.

Sponsored by the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce and a lengthy list of government agencies and Michigan corporations, it is one of the few entrepreneur forums with state funding, collecting $25,000 for the twoday seminar.

In all, 55 business persons, nominated by a forum steering committee, took part as speakers and workshop leaders. Planning encompassed nine months under the coordination of a non-profit organization called the Entrepreneurship Institute in Columbus, Ohio.

Topics ranged from the "Experiences of Successful Entrepreneurs" to developing workable business plans, finding and keeping good employees, financing new business start-ups, marketing and business promotions, and more.

'There's nothing worse than not taking advantage of an opportunity. You need confidence in your abilities, but don't take unnecessary risks. Research very carefully.

Karchon, president of Engineering Services, Inc., was one of the so-called business successes who shared his secrets for success. Today, his company has offices in Dearborn, alamazoo, Florida and England.

But there was a time of uncertainty, he said, when he and three partners first proposed taking over a failing

Choosing not to seek venture capital because of the "shackles" of "rules and regulations," they sought out bank officers to sell them on the business plan. And therein lay his advice to the au-

"Don't sell pizzazz, sell conservatism," he said. "He (the loan officer) must know you and believe in your team. That's how we succeeded without venture capital. "You must develop a long-term banking relationship and pursue senior banking officers," he continued, adding that junior bank-loan officers may lack authority and experience for some business deals Beyond that, the work ethic and imagination are vital ingredients to success, he said. Another member of the three-person panel of business successes was John Barfield, an Ypsilanti business owner who told of his own personal "rags to riches" experience.

With a tenth grade education and a philosophy that one works hard for what he gets, Barfield sold cleaning products and then worked as a janitor before launching his business career. It started in 1954 when he and his wife started what he called "a little janitorial service."

Opportunities abounded as he cashed in on a ready market. The home construction market was booming, and his company fit right in, cleaning dusty new subdivision homes to prepare them for ready occupancy.

"I got three months leave from my janitor's job (to start the new business) and I have not worked for anyone else since," he said.

Barfield wrote a book called the "Barfield Method of Building Maintenance," still used by the industry, and opened a janitorial school.

He had national and international companies interested in buying him out. In 1969 he sold his company to worldwide conglommerate ITT. The sale made him a millionaire, and at 39

He realized within a short time that he wasn't ready to retire, and so he reentered the business world. Today, he owns two firms. Bartech, a drafting firm with 500 designers located in Tory and Ann Arbor, as well as outstate in California, Florida and Philadelphia, is considered one of the most successful minority firms in the country. Barfield Manufacturing Company, which produces screws for General Motors vehicles, has $17 million in sales this year. The manufacturing firm was started after General Motors, impressed with Barfield's previous successes, approached him about starting a new ven-

He was challenged, launching the company with six employees, a $100,000 loan and three "old machines." Today there are 100 employees. Since starting the business, Barfield has sold 49 percent of it to General Motors, a move, he said, that leaves him with controlling interest using GM's status and contacts to grow.

"It's a true relationship; not a front," he said.

And his advice to the audience? "There's nothing worse than not taking advantage of an opportunity. You need confidence in your abilities, but don't take unnecessary risks. Research very carefully."

Keith Crain, president and publisher of Crain Communications, Inc., called entrepreneurship a "state of mind. I don't think once you get it, you lose it. But you have to share that excitement with everyone around you."

Above all, he said, business people shouldn't be wrapped up in becoming an entrepreneur ... "becoming empowered," but rather in "building a better mousetrap" and working to produce the best product possible.

Then he quoted a favorite line : poken by actor James Garner in the motion picture, "The Wheeler Dealer."

"You've got to remember that you've got to do it because you love it, and the profit is just a way to keep score.'

Seminar on retirement offers tips on planning

Although most people will spend a quarter of their lives in retirement, very few will be prepared for these

Helping people prepare for retirement is the focus of a three-week seminar entitled "Practicing for Retirement," which will be offered at the Farmington Community Center in Farmington Hills. The center is located at 24705 Farmington Road, and the seminar will be held on Wednesdays, November 6, 13 and 20, from 7:30 to 9

The seminar is designed to help people make intelligent, unpressured decisions about their futures.

"The decline in our energy and physical abilities doesn't have to keep us from what we enjoy," said Ruthan Brodsky, who will lead the seminar. Brodsky, a consultant and workshop leader for business, government and educational institutions, stresses that it's up to the individual to enjoy the new opportunities that are available in later

"That means accepting the aging process and planning for retirement,"

Topics include "Planning for Leisure Time, "Legal and Financial Planning,"
"Dealing with Changing Family Roles," "Housing Arrangements,"
"Health Maintenance" and "Second Careers.

The cost for all three sessions is $20 per person. Registration information is available by calling the Farmington Community House at 477-8404.

Small firms must learn to use tax laws

One of the keys to running a successful small business is making tax laws work for you.

The greatest tax planning in the world can't help someone who wants to sell ice to Eskimos, but a small business owner who plans an effective tax strategy is likely to have a stronger

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, one of the fundamental tax questions facing the owner of a small business is what form the business should take. What are the drawbacks to running a sole proprietorship? Is a partnership the answer? Perhaps you should consider incorporating your business? Or maybe a different type of corporation - the "S" Corporation — is what's right for your small business.

Here is a summary of the basic characteristics of small business formations and some ideas on how they

The simplest business form is a sole proprietorship. The minute you open your doors and sell something, you've got a sole proprietorship. All you have to do is comply with any state or local licensing laws, but no other organizational fees need to be paid.

When filing a personal income tax return, any income or losses from the business are reported by the owner. In the case of someone with a new business in which a big loss may be anticipated, the sole proprietorship allows you to utilize the loss directly on your personal income tax return to offset other income.

Sole proprietorships have one serious disadvantage, however. They make the owner's personal wealth fully liable for business debts and claims.

Partnerships are similar to sole proprietorships except there's more than one owner. Income and losses from a partnership are passed through the business to the owners. Basically, there are two kinds of partnerships. In a "general partnership," each partner is responsible for the acts of the other partners. In a "limited partnership," only certain partners - the general partners - manage the business and accept liability for the company's operations. Another level of partners the limited partners - are not personally liable for the business and may not participate in managing it. Limited partners, however, receive a share of the income or losses generated by the business. They are liable for business losses only to the extent of their investment.

Corporations are the most expensive business form to establish and maintain, and they're also the most complicated. The owners of a corporation, who are called stockholders, generally are liable only for the money invested in the business. When securing a loan, however, many lenders will insist that the owner of a corporation pledge some personal collateral or take personal liability.

For tax planning, the corporation may be a big plus. The major tax benefit derived from incorporation is the federal income tax rates that currently apply to corporations. Currently, corporate income up to $25,000 is taxed at the 15 percent rate; income between $25,000 and $50,000 is taxed at the 18 percent rate; income between $50,000 and $75,000 is taxed at the 30 percent rate; and income between $75,000 and $100,000 is taxed at the 40 percent rate.

When these rates are lower than the personal income tax rates paid by partners and sole proprietors, it make sense to incorporate and have the corporation retain the income in excess of your salary. In addition to the favorable tax rates, the corporation offers other tax benefits derived when it pays for life insurance coverage, retirement plans, health insurance coverage and corporate savings plans.

The main disadvantage of a corporation is that earnings are sometimes taxed twice. The business's profits are taxed at the corporate rate and then again on a personal income tax return when distributed as dividends. This is what has led to the popularity of the S cor-

The S corporation, which gets its name from a section of the Internal Revenue Code, gives a business owner all the liability protection of a conventional corporation, but income and losses from the business directly pass through to the shareholders.

Someone who owns a small business and wants to fund his children's college educaton may find an S corporation financially prudent for tax reasons. The owner can make his children shareholders in the corporation. The children will have their share of the profits transferred to them. The transfer of income may bring a handsome tax savings, since children are usually in a lower tax bracket than their parents.

In choosing between the different forms of business, these tax planning opportunities can be critical to an entrepreneur. You may want to ask a CPA about the tax advantage inherent in

Retail business shows continued improvement

Retail business in Michigan is picking up — but not every business is sharing the wealth, according to the findings of a new survey.

On the average, retail sales in August were 7.13 percent higher than in August of last year, according to the survey sponsored by the Michigan Retailers Association (MRA).

Some lines of trade rose even higher, while one tire dealers and retreaders - found sales actually fell more than 16 percent.

MRA began making its retail sales surveys after the state Treasury Department stopped reporting periodic sales tax revenues. "There has been a void that needed to be filled," said Francis J. Roost, a CPA who oversees the statistical side of the project.

The August figures were based on a survey of 225 Michigan retailers. For that reason, the statistical base is admittedly small and results can be skewed by the opening of a new store, a merger or consolidation.

In time, MRA will break down its figures by region and county. Individual stores' reports are kept confidential by the Lansing firm of Danielson, Schultz & Company, which compiles the numbers.

here is no better way to weather this year's winter season than with the latest look in coats and cover-ups.

From classic Herringbone reefers to oversized steamers in an array of bold colors, this season's wraps are offering a versatility bound to appeal to even the most discerning buyer.

Color and texture seem to be making the boldest lashion statement in coate this winter. Tweeds and plaids, pale pastels and bright strokes of red, cobalt, fuchsia and yellow have pushed aside the traditional grays, camels and navy blues. In addition to color, features such as patch pockets, shoulder epaulettes, velvet collars and cuffs and funneled necklines have updated the traditional classics.

Teamed with accessories such as felt herets, boots and leather gloves in bold tones, the winter wrap may not only be the most essential article in your wardrobe, but the most

"Very tailored" is the way Gantos Manager Carol Kalser describes the double-breasted, reefer-style woo! coat currently the most popular seller at her Twelve Oaks store.

She notes that the classic reefer styled with square shoulders and a straight-failing silhouette is "really slimming.'

She also notes that the threequarter length is "very versatile" for women tooking for a style that will hold its own with either stacks or skirts. - Kalser points out that cobalt blue. fuchaia and bright yellow are drawing the most attention.

"Overall, brights are what's popular thoughout our entire store," she says.

However, Kaiser is quick to point out that pastels and prints have replaced the plain colors and quilted, look in down coats this year.

For accessorizing the three-quarter length coat, Kaiser suggests a bold, bright beret with a plaid or solld scarf in contrasting colors.

"Another thing that's really popular is the leather accents on coats," she says, adding that a leather collar or cult can update a basic jacket style.

Other accessories which are popular this year cover the gamut from tur ear mults to classic Fedoras.

There also are leather gloves in a host of new, bright colors to coordinate with coats. Prices range from $18 to $50

"Leather gloves are taking on a lot more exciting look," Kalser says of the new bright shades. "Color is the most distintive element this winter."

For the total look, Gantos also carries boots in a variety of vibrant shades. A pair of cobalt blue boots with a bright red bird on the side ($90) is bound to be a show stopper.

Collen Thurston of Alvin's says she finds pastels and tweeds to be the strong sellers in this year's coat fashions.

She says the most popular look in winter wraps is the double-breasted cost with big, full-rounded shoulders and a convertible collar which can be worn turned down or buttoned up high around the neck.

Thurston concurs that the classic double-breasted reefer-style coat is one of the biggest sellers this year. She adds that the "Jewel tones" such as bright red, royal blue and purple are among the most popular shades at her Twelve Oaks store.

All look great coupled with bright lambswool berets and leather gloves in a hust of bright shades.

inge Zayti of Northville's Marquis Boutique says that while "oversized coats" are very popular this year, "they are not for everybody."

Her alternative to the flowing menswear wrap is the quilted coat in both the three-quarter and full-length styles.

"I've found some that don't make you look like a German tank," says" the boutique owner, noting that her new line is "very slenderizing."

In addition to the quilted coats Zayti says she elso is carrying jacketlength oversized coats and capes. Capes, which sell for less than $50, are perfect for both casualwear or as an evening wrap for more formal at-Zayti notes that among the biggest colors this year are mustard, black, royal blue and red. Winter white also is popular.

She suggests berets with matching stick pins as a finishing touch.

Dorothy Dresselhouse of Freydi's notes that "pant coats are really going strong this year."

She says the high-collared, straight-falling styles in bold solids of ruby, rayal blue and teal are among the biggest sellers at the Northville store.

Though the coats are shorter, Dresselhouse says the classic tailoring gives them a "dressy look" to be. worn with either skirts or slacks.

Bereis in a host of solid colors teained with scarves in prints and plaids complete the look.

AAUW auction slated

By JEAN DAY

Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women reports it has enlisted the help of a couple of "very persuasive" auctioneers — Norm Fankell and Chris Johnson — for its annual Craft and Bake Auction to be held at 7 p.m. next Tuesday in the library of Amerman School located at Eight Mile and Center streets

They will be auctioning the creative products and talents of branch members.

Money raised at the auction will go toward scholarships for two Northville High School seniors. The public is especially welcome to participate. No reservations are needed.

It's time to order Christmas greens

The Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association now is taking orders in its annual Christmas wreath sale. Wreaths will be available at the annual Christmas Walk downtown the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

However, while they are sold during the walk, wreaths sell out very quickly, making it a good idea to reserve in advance. Advance orders may be placed with any branch member or by picking up an order blank in the Northville Public Library or at Northville Township Hall. All advance orders for wreaths and roping must be received by November 15.

Proceeds are used for branch projects which include scholarships and beautification.

Quester's ornament decorates Meadow Brook Hall

When members of Bell Foundry Questers, Chapter 1006, take a Christmas tour through Meadow Brook Hall at 7:30 p.m. December 11, they will be looking for a hand quilted ornament made by past chapter president Kathleen Endress that is among the hall's decorations.

Members are to make reservations for the tour with Rita Bates by November 13.

Gourmet Club dinner features American cuisine

Schoolcraft College's Gourmet Club will host the second of four dinner dances of the 1985-86 season November 15. Featuring American cuisine from New England to California and from southern Cajun to western, the dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Waterman Campus Center on the college campus, 18600

Dancing and entertainment are scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. Music by Starlight will be featured. A cash bar will offer American beers and wines selected to complement the dinner and will be available to persons over 21 years old.

All proceeds from the popular event go to the Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts scholarship fund. Tickets are $20 a person and may be reserved by calling 591-6400, extension 595.

BPW honors Puppy Love's owner

BPW President Elizabeth LaMoreaux watches as club's Woman of the Year Barbara Funke trims Bentley (Olejnik)

Barbara Ann Funke, owner of Puppy Love Pet Salon at 157 East Main in downtown Northville, has been chosen Woman of the Year by the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club. The Novi resident, with her father attending as a guest, was honored at the club's dinner meeting at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, October 28.

Because she yearned for her own business and has always loved animals, Puppy Love pet grooming salon came into being in September, 1982.

Puppy Love is a very busy pet salon with a normal week being 70 hours long. As many as 40 dogs a week are handled, it was noted in the award.

Owner Funke, who was a 1977 graduate of Michigan State University with a major in human environment and design and a minor in business administration, attended the Masters' School of Dog Grooming in Redford before going into business.

After her graduation from MSU, she joined the ranks at J.L. Hudson where she managed the children's division at Twelve Oaks for 12 months. She later became an associate buyer for the downtown Hudson store and, following that, went on to become divisional sales manager at J.L. Hudson's in Flint.

The BPW, in citing Funke, mentions that in addition to operating Puppy Love for long hours the honoree found time to plan and arrange two pet shows for Autumnfest, held in downtown Northville in September.

She spent most of her growing-up years in Europe, as the daughter of a career Air Force man. She had the opporunity of attending a variety of different schools, she recalls, relating that it enabled her to become fluent in three languages — French, German and Dutch. The club notes in her citation that she also "overcame a variety of medical problems" and now is happily

Since the pet salon owner was on her first vacation in three years at the time of the District 9 meeting of the BPW, held in Plymouth October 22, her mother, Mrs. Kathryn Erickson, accepted the award given at that time.

Eight residents of Northville are performing with the Livonia Youth Symphony Orchestra, now in its 27th year of activity.

They are Spring Francoeur, Amy Cristoff, Crew Fisher, Lissa Arpi, Joy Luther, Arwin Levinson, Lydia Bastian and Amy Gardner.

More than 20 communities are presented in the symphony society.

Special theme for this Saturday's rehearsal at 9 a.m. to noon in Churchill High School is "Bring a Friend." Each member of the three orchestra levels is invited to bring a musician friend.

Parents of young musicians ranging in grade level from fifth through high school also are invited to bring their children (and their instruments) for a morning of performing the classics.

The society is composed of three proficiency levels: the string orchestra from fifth through ninth grades; the concert orchestra which overlaps from junior high through 12th grade and the symphony orchestra, the most proficient of the organization.

String, woodwind and brass instrumentalists are invited. Free donuts and beverages will be provided. Musi-cians or parents may call 455-1487 for more information.

The 1985-86 season was opened last Saturday with a concert at Churchill High, located on Newburgh Road just north of Jov.

Highlighting this year's agenda will be appearances at Peese Auditorium in Ann Arbor and at the famed Orchestra Hall in Detroit.

Show planners

10 danger signals you should watch for

If you have any of the above symptoms, it could mean you are heading for a critical health problem. Taking care of minor health problems now can prevent serious illness later. To guard your own wellbeing, call for an immediate check-up.

If you have any of these symptoms, Chiropractic can help you!

Are drugs and surgery the only answer? No!

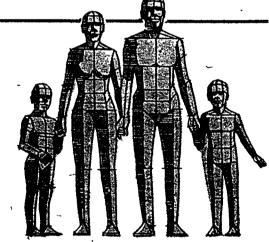

Aren't you tired of going from doctor to doctor looking for relief, trying to find someone or something to ease your pain and suffering? Have you been told your pain is just in your head and caused by your nerves (but you know it's real). Why not try chiropractic care.

Chiropractic is the natural health science. It is the health science that does not use drugs or surgery. Chiropractors realize that when your body suffers from aches, pains and discomforts these symptoms are actually warning signals of your declining health and should be attended to immediately. Chiriopractors are "cause doctors" and seek to locate and correct the cause of your health problems and thereby give you relief from painful symptoms.

We offer you the unique opportunity to find out if your health problem is due to nervous system interference.

Why be sick when you can be well.

CHIROPRACTIC QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

- 1) How much education do chiropractors have?
- A. Chiropractors go through as much scholastic training as MD's do. Many of the teaching text books are the same. If Chiropractic had not been proven to work, the majority of insurance companies would not cover chiropractic services like they do presently.
- 2) Chiropractors say they can cure anything & everything! Is that true?
- A. Chiropractors DO NOT say that! No health care profession has all the answers. But many health problems that you would normally think could be associated with the spine, do respond very well to chiropractic care.
- 3) Would it hurt to have a chiropractor work on your back?

  A. No. The correction of misaligned bones (vertebrae) in the spine by a chiropractor is NOT painful and actually is pleasant ("it feels good") to most people.
- 4) Once you go to a chiropractor do you have to keep going?
  A) No! Once the cause of the problem is corrected there is no longer any need for frequent spinal adjustments. Most people, however, choose to go occassionally afterwards just to give their spine a check-up and keep everything in good shape. Other people then mistakenly think that their friends/family had to keep on going, when in fact they simply wanted to, but didn't absolutely have to, except to maintain their improved health.

- 5) Do you always have to have X-rays first?
- A) No! Not all cases require X-rays. Some cases do require X-rays be taken so as to "see" the problem area, but certainly not all cases.
- 6) How long does it take before you feel any better?
- A) Most people begin to feel improvement within just days (sometimes just hours) after beginning treatment. The length of time required depends on the type of problem and how long it has been present.
- 7) If I leave it alone will it go away by itself?
- A) Aches and/or pain is a warning sign by your body that something is wrong. Any pain that comes and goes or lasts for more than a day or two should be checked-out, before something more serious possibly results.
- 8) It's easier to take a pill; then I don't feel the problem so much.
- A) Swallowing a pill is exactly what the drug companies want you to do. But pills never correct the cause of the problem. They only cover the pain/problem up for a while.
- 9) Is chiropractic care expensive?
- A) Compared to routine medical care, chiropractic care is quite inexpensive. Most insurance companies cover chiropractic care, and for people with no health insurance coverarage—out office has inexpensive family plans or individual rates. Nearly everyone can afford good chiropractic care.

Sometimes the pain was so bad I had to miss work

When asked what I thought my health problems were, I told Dr. Miller about my headaches. Yet I wasn't sure what caused them. All I knew was the fact that these problems interfered with my daily routine. Sometimes the pain was so bad I had to miss work.

When I went to see Dr. Miller it was just one week before I noticed improvement. I also noticed other changes in my health. I found I felt generally better and had more energy even though I thought I was fine.

I found out about chiropractic through a friend of mine who was also a patient at the Miller Chiropractic Center. He urged me to try chiropractic care after months of unsuccessful medical care. I would recommend people go to the Miller Chiropractic Center. I'd be the first to

'I'd be the first to admit that I thought chiropractic wasn't go ing to work like I'd read about, but I must admit I was really wrong!"

admit that I thought chiropractic wasn't going to work like I'd read about, but I must admit I was wrong! Now that it's worked so well for me when the pills I was taking didn't I can honestly recommend it to anyone reading my testimonial.

- James Alson

It was difficult to sleep at times

My health problems were caused by my job in construction and also by an automobile accident I was in. It caused me to have shoulder pain or bursitis, also I started getting headaches and general back pain.

These kinds of problems interfered with my daily routine. Sometimes the pain was so bad I could not do my job. Then I'd come home and could not sleep half the time.

'After attending the Miller Chiropiacite Clime Lacticed improvement immediately.'

After attending the Miller Chiropractic Clinic I noticed improvement immediately. I even noticed other changes in my health. I found out about chiropractic when my wife received excellent results with Dr. Miller after she was relieved of her back pain which began with our second child. This is when she insisted I go.

Tom Borrich

I started feeling better in about 3 days!

My health problems were caused because of scoliosis along with severe back pain and also neck pain. Although these problems didn't seem to interfere with my daily routine the back and neck pain were there.

I was surprised that I started feeling better in just about 3 days. With the back pain and neck pain I seemed to notice improvement.

To my surprise I noticed other changes in my health. Even my sinus problems have become much less severe. And because of Dr. Miller's Chiropractic Center I feel I no longer need my medication.

"To my surpuse even my sinus problems became much less

My family doctor suggested I go to the Miller Chiropractic Center for my back pain. That's how I found out what chiropractic could do for me.

If anyone wanted to know my opinion of chiropractic care I would definitely recommend Dr. Miller. It sure did help me!

HEADACHES

TAKE MANY FORMS

It is surprising for most people to learn that there are so many different forms of headache. Just about any kind of head pain will be called a headache and most people will experience more than one type, at different times. Some are quite mild, while others are violent and throbbing. It may build up slowly, or occur with lightning like speed. At least one type is always preceded by a warning sign. Some are triggered by changes in temperature, by allergies, tobacco, alcoholic drinks, fatigue, emotions, and similar factors.

The headache pain may cover the entire head, only the back, the forehead, one side, or just a small area. The pain may be a hot or burning sensation, splitting, boring, sharp, stabbing or bursting, vise-like, like a circular band, or like a heavy weight pressing down on the head.

Some headaches last only a few minutes, but return again and again, 20 or more times a day. Others will last for hours, days, week or even months, without any change or any sign of relief.

Major nerves of the head and scalp

A Cause of Headaches

The most common cause of headache, is nerve irritation in the neck. A neck has seven complex bones called vertebrae. They support the head and form a protective canal for the spinal cord.

There are 48 joints in the neck, makcord must pass between the joints and their supporting muscles and ligaments. The branches separate into millions of individual fibers, forming a sensorying it the most flexible, most vulnerable part of the spine. Nerves from the spinal control web in the neck, head, shoulders, arms and hands.

Motor nerves from the brain carry signals that control the functions of the body. Each sensory nerve sends signals of sensation and pain, to the brain, from one small area. Irritation of a nerve anywhere along its length, can cause a pain to be referred to the pass of origin. All the nerve in the body either pass through, or are intimately involved with structures in the neck. Therfore, irritation of nerves, caused by a structural disorder of the cervical spine or neck, can cause a pain in any part of the body, or the head.

Choice of Treatment

Headache is a symptom and the persistent recurrence of any symptom, is a definite cause for concern. A sensible person would not continue to treat a persistent toothache, with pain-killing drugs, when modern dentistry is availble. Why make this mistake with any headache? Why fool around with potentially dangerous drugs when an effective and realistic solution is available?

Chiropractic is a healing profession that deals with the structural causes of disease. It has an effective solution for most headache problems.

During our five years in Northville our clinic has helped thousands of people just like you get rid of their various types of pain and health problems.

We can help you!
