By MICHELE FECHT

Discovery of a Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital walkaway in the garage of a Maxwell residence last week has promoted township officials to turn their threats into action.

"We are extremely upset about this," Township Supervisor Susan Heintz said yesterday. "Obviously words don't work so the local elected officials have decided to take the methy into their decided to take the matter into their own hands."

Heintz said officials "are in the midst of doing something very concrete right now.'

Though she did not indicate the type of action to be taken against the hospital, the supervisor noted "we will have something definite next week.

"We have to protect the citizens as well as the patients," Heintz said, noting that despite promises of better security on the hospital grounds, there has been little decrease in the number of patients leaving the premises.

At approximately 10:30 a.m. January 29, a patient being transferred from the main building to the new recreation facility, left the grounds on foot and headed down Marilyn, knocking on neighbors' doors.

Ann Hartson, a Marilyn resident whose home was broken into October 22 by a female patient from the hospital, was among the first to see the 30-yearold walkaway in the neighborhood. She noted that as she was about to call police, two staff cars from the hospital pulled into the area.

According to township police, the patient headed down Apollo to the Maxwell residence of Mary Buckmaster where he hid in a 1976 Ford parked in the garage. Betsy Buckmaster, owner of the car, said she arrived home from work only about an hour before the incident.

Flu outbreak takes its toll

A local health official is cautioning that the rash of influenza in the Nor-thville area — particularly the illness leading to excessive school absences is far more serious than the average flu bug. "The thing that concerns me is that this is a virulent virus going around," said Dr. John Romanik, a Northville resident and head of the pediatrics department at Providence Hospital in Novi. "Obviously this is a new viral strain to which a large segment of the population is vulnerable.

"People may be thinking it's a 24-hour illness, but it's more like a 96-hour illness, maybe '148-hour. Characteristically, I see kids losing five days of school because of it."

While Romanik said he stops short of terming the viral illness outbreak an "epidemic," he said he was certain cases of pneumonia or meningitis will go undetected if parents do not check with a doctor.

"It always worries me," Romanik said. "There are always a few times during a flu outbreak when children get meningitis and it isn't detected soon enough . . . That's within this communi-ty alone."

Romanik warned that parents whose children come down with the flu virus in succession often will get the first child or two examined, but if a third or fourth appears to contract the same symptoms, they will assume the same illness is in effect and won't contact a doctor. "This happens in a great number of cases," Romanik said.

"All of southern Michigan is seeing this," he added. "Its spread has been amazingly rapid. Things had been quiet around the hospital this winter, but in the last 9-10 days we've seen a significant increase in patients. It's been havoc these last three days," he said

Birmingham firm purchases 100 Center site By JEAN DAY

If all goes as planned, construction could begin on a revised 100 Center project at the southwest corner of Main and Center sometime this summer.

Six weeks after the property went back on the market and Paul N. Hoffmann's dream for the center of town ended when he was unable to se

"A big reason Equity Advance took a large interest in the property was that we were looking at the Northville area."

- Equity Advance spokesperson

Residential use, the spokesperson said, is what Equity Advance had in mind for the property "along with some retail and some office. "A big reason Equity Advance took a large interest in the property was that we were looking at the Northville area." He mentioned that the downtown "Frankly, we would have netted more selling it in separate pieces," he commented

Equity Advance's spokesperson said its interest lies in "upscale rental units - we tend to cater to very stable, upper range clientele."

There has been discussion of designing the units so that they could be converted to private, condo ownership, he financing by his option deadline, the owners - the Ten Grand Club - have a new buyer.

Philip Ogilvie, a Ten Grand member, announced last week that the nine members of the Ten Grand have accepted the offer of Equity Advance in Birmingham to purchase the property. He said a "substantial," nonrefundable deposit had been accepted and is being held by Sweitzer Real Estate Inc. in Plymouth with purchase to be completed in 60 days. Dave Owens from that office and Stan Tornga of Stanley Realty and Management Inc. in Plymouth handled the sale.

A spokesperson (who did not want to be identified) for the new investor, said Equity Advance was talking with Northville architect Walter Caponen who had drawn up the plans for the original six-story complex of shops, offices, restaurant and residental apartments.

"He's done a lot of background work and most likely we will use his services. The outside will be virtually the same, but new studies will be done on the inside," he said.

Equity Advance, a firm incorporated in 1983, it was explained, has a background in residential units, mostly upscale, and "has been doing projects for six years."

renovation "makes us comfortable knowing the town is involved."

Equity Advance was described as a small company that gets involved with joint venture capital and with limited partnership syndications. The spokesperson added that Equity Advance owns several residential units in Birmingham and is looking at expanding in other northern suburbs and Northville.

He said Equity Advance will be talking with builders, including R.E. Dailey, and taking bids but really doesn't have a construction timetable at this time. Dailey, a general contractor, Ten Grand said they understood, had been doing preliminary soil borings for Hoffmann.

Equity Advance also indicated that local interest has been shown in participating financially with the firm.

Ogilvie stated the Ten Grand group had agreed to sell to Equity Advance because it "liked the concept of what was being planned for the site.'

Ogilvie said the plans would likely have to go back for minor revisions but he didn't expect the new owners would have any problem.

It was emphasized that Hoffmann is not part of the new group.

Ogilvie added that Ten Grand had opportunities to sell parts of the property separately but held out for one owner in the interest of developing the property in the most desirable way for the city.

Equity Advance, he said, is aware of the liquor license that goes with the bowling alley cocktail lounge and there has been discussion regarding a restaurant but nothing has been committed, leaving several options open.

Questioned about whether Equity Advance would be interested in the Winner's Circle building, he said there was no interest at this point as it was felt Equity Advance "can accomplish our purpose without the acquisition."

The previous plans for the 100 Center Street complex had received all the necessary municipal approvals.

The purchase price sought by the Ten Grand group was indicated as being "in excess of $500,000.

In addition to Ogilvie, members of Ten Grand are A.M. Allen, Stan Johnston, Donald DiComo, Ervin Kamp, William Fenkeli, John M. Miller, Linwood Snow Jr. and Robert Hodson.

In announcing Hoffmann's failure to complete the purchase arrangement in December, Olgilvie noted that during the previous 10 months Hoffman had spent a great deal of money as he had a complete architectural plan for the property which had been approved by the Downtown Development Authority.

Hoffmann made no statement then on advice of his attorney.

Romanik said he could not set exact guidelines of what symptoms would merit a call to the doctor, although he stressed the very latest a doctor should be contacted is after the second day of high temperatures.

The most serious outbreak of viral illness has taken place at Meads Mill Middle School where approximately 90-95 students missed classes last Wednesday through Friday, according to principal Dave Longridge. "We're probably about 40-50 kids over normal," Longridge said of the high absentee rate.

The elementary schools appear to be faring better than the middle school. Ken Pawlowski, principal of Silver Springs, said his school has not experienced the high absenteeism prevalent at Meads Mill. Ron Horwath, principal at Winchester, noted that his school also has been spared.

"It seems like we had more flu three weeks ago than right now," said Milt Jacobi, principal at Amerman. "It's really tapering off.

At the high school, principal Dave Bolitho said he has not noticed too many cases of flu.

"It hasn't really hit us yet," he ex-' plained. "Some students and staff have had the symptoms but it seems to hit them hard and fast. We haven't experienced the absenteeism that the middle school has.'

Current Issues addressed

Senior citizens visit council

Nine members of the Current Issues class at Allen Terrace showed they had done their homework regarding membership on city boards, commissions and committees when they attended the city council meeting Monday night.

They also received responses to their concerns regarding duplication of membership on the various groups from Mayor Pro Tem Dewey Gardner, city manager Steve Walters and council members.

Jan Wilhelm, spokesperson for the senior citizens and former teacher of the class, presented to council the list of persons serving on two or more committees, boards or commissions and spouses who do.

The issue of the same persons serving on more than one city group had come up during a candidates' meeting at Allen Terrace before last fall's election. Students in the class then researched the composition of city groups and presented their list Monday night.

They noted that both Mayor Paul Vernon and Mayor Pro Tem Gardner serve on the city beautification commission, Downtown Development Authority (Vernon as chair), Economic Development Corporation and Historic District Commission (as chair and vice chair, respectively).

City manager Walters presented a table of membership requirements for city boards or commissions which first noted that every member serving must have been a city resident for at least two years and be a registered voter. By city charter or ordinance, it was pointed out, the mayor is required to be chairperson of the Downtown Development Authority and the majority of its members must have property interest in the district.

Gardner told the seniors that he served because he qualified as both a city resident and downtown property owner and not many business persons did.

The Economic Development Corporation requirements, Walters said, state that up to three members may be council members or city employees. He pointed out that both the EDC and DDA are responsible for issuing public bonds for which council is responsible. Therefore, he said, it "makes sense" that council members serve on them. In addition to Vernon and Gardner, council member Carolann Ayers serves on the EDC.

Likewise, the Historic District Commission rules require that the seven members include the mayor and one council member as well as a planning commission member, three historical society members and one architect, if available. Council member John Buckland, who was elected to his first term on council last fall, reported that he has resigned from his seat on the recreation commission.

Recreation commission requirements are that one member from city council serve on the commission. Ayers is the present member so doing; she is the commission secretary. It also requires that a township board member, school board member serve along with three city and three township appointees.

In response to the notation of spouses of council members serving, Ayers told the seniors, "Both my husband and John's (Buckland) wife Lesa held their posts before we were elected.

Lesa Buckland serves on the planning commission and Charles Ayers is vice chair of the board of zoning appeals and also serves on the housing appeals board.

Walters also mentioned that some boards and commissions are restrictive, not permitting city council members to serve on them. He cited the board of review which hears tax appeals. It requires that members be property owners but are not on any other

Cleared walkways assist mail carriers

Northville Postmaster Wallace Cates is asking for residents' cooperation in clearing, salting and sanding stairs and paths to mail boxes so that letter carriers can continue to deliver mail.

Cates said that rural carriers will not leave their vehicles to provide service on foot when approaches to rural mail boxes are blocked by snow.

"Our carriers will make every effort to deliver the mail, but if the approach to a letter box is obstructed, delivery may not be possible," Cates said. He added that an attempt will be made to deliver the mail the next delivery day, and on subsequent delivery days, until the carrier has access to the mail box.

Last winter more than 50 letter carriers in the 13-state Central Region were unable to work - with some incapacitated for an extended period as a result of injuries from fall on snow and ice.

Therefore, the postal service announced, this winter carriers will not risk injury to deliver mail.

Cates called on businesses and residents to help reduce the high incidence of slips, trips and falls caused by snow and ice by clearing and salting routes to their mail boxes.

Planners approve preliminary plan for luxury condos

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

In its January 28 meeting, the Nor-thville Township Planning Commission approved preliminary site plans for a luxury six unit multiple-family condominium complex to be built on the north shore of Lake Succes

The project is called "Northville Shores Condominium" and will consists of three large buildings, each contain-ing two units on the south side of Griswold Street at a 5.37 acre site that borders the City of Northville 4 the borders the City of Northville to the west. The units will range in size from 1,840 to 2,700 square feet and will be perched on a bluff almost 30 feet above the lake. Access to the units is by way of a driveway through the industrial property in Northville.

All six units have been sold and, ac-cording to Jack Doheny, one of the managing partners, construction will get under way pending final site plan approval from the planning commission, with a late-summer completion date expected.

All units have been sold and Doheny reports he "could have sold six more." The six purchasers include Doheny, the owner of Jack Doheny Supplies in Northville; the builder and managing partner Robert Hall; Dave Rice; former Northville resident Gene Karrer; Larry Sheehan and Orel L. Hershiser.

Vilican-Leman and Associates, consultants for the project, reported to the commission at the January 22 meeting that the placement of the building and road access is reasonable from a land use planning standpoint and that, since only six units will be built, subsequent traffic volume should be low.

They also reported that the minimum applicable requirements of the zoning ordinance have been met with one possible exception. The zoning ordinace

"We were very optimistic about the plan, except for a few minor things that have to worked out," Wright said. "These are luxury condos, and everybody was very enthusiastic because they are very attractive."

It is expected that Doheny and Hall will submit the final site plan at the next commission meeting scheduled for February 25.

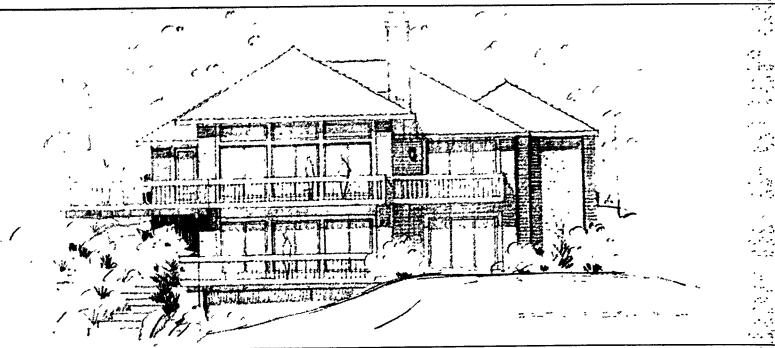

The commission also reviewed a site plan for an earth-fill project for approximately 64 acres of land located on the east side of Beck Road south of Seven Mile Road.

The proposal is to fill an area that was previously mined for gravel many years ago and convert it to a residental subdivision. Vilican-Leman expressed many concerns and reservations about the plan and the commission requested further information and revisions from the developers.

A public hearing was also held regar-ding the request by BP Oil Inc. to rezone a parcel of land adjacent to a service station they own. The proposal would rezone a one family residential he south side of Six Mile Road near Schoolcraft class helps teenagers seek potential

By ANN CHOWDHURY

A new class, Me and My Potential, is being offered at Schoolcraft College for 2 to 14-year-old boys and girls.

Robert Burnside, who will teach the class, recognizes the middle school years as "a time of growth and change, and also a time when many children do not reach their potential inside or outside the classroom.'

In the new class he plans to help students examine their own attitudes and values, leading toward a more positive self image and the ability to set and work toward their own goals.

He explained, "Even those who do have a pretty good image of themselves are definitely going to improve and are not working up to their potential and there is not much time in school to find out why."

Teachers, students mourn loss of Challenger crew

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Like other educators throughout the country, Northville Public Schools teachers and staff last week closed their lesson books to reflect on the loss of fellow schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe and the six other crew members of the space shuttle Challenger.

Ö

Many of the district's schools flew flags at half-staff throughout the past week in memory of the seven crew members who lost their lives in the nation's worst space tragedy.

Though the nation grieved over the loss of all seven of the Challenger's crew, McAuliffe's death seemed particularly poignant to fellow members of the teaching profession.

The Concord, N.H., schoolteacher was chosen last July from among more than 11,400 applicants to be the first teacher in space.

Her mission aboard the Challenger was to re-energize public interest in the space program by "connecting with the average student in the classroom." Tens of thousands of schoolchildren throughout the country were readying for their first space lession to be broadcast via satellite.

"I went home and cried a little and I know a lot of others who did, too."

 Bob Stover, Meads Mill media specialist

Among those awaiting their first space-to-earth assignment were tudents at Meads Mill Middle School.

Media specialist Bob Stover, who received copies of McAuliffe's lesson plans from the Wayne County Intermediate School District, said he was ready to begin videotaping the historic project when he received news of the disaster.

"At first I couldn't believe it happened," Stover reflected. "It was during the lunch hour and we had about 30 kids in the library watching television.

"We have a little black and white TV in here and the kids were all gathered around the set. It really reminded me of the day Kennedy was assassinated."

Reaction at the elementary level was the same as news of the tragedy began to unfold.____

Noting that most schools were on lunch break at the time the incident occurred, Amerman principal Milt Jacobi said he immediately got word out to staff members via the public address system.' "I really felt teachers needed to have the facts," Jacobi said, adding that many staff members spent the afternoon answering students' questions and highlighting the importance of the space program.

Noting that the high school was on a half-day schedule both Monday and Tuesday of last week, John Edwards, science department chairperson, said most staff members and students heard news of the tragedy after leaving the building.

"There was a group of teachers at lunch at Guernsey's - probably 15 teachers or so - and someone came in and said the Challenger exploded," he Stover reiterated. "I really had planned said.

Edwards noted everyone at the table expressed the same disbelief and shock which seemed to have gripped others across the nation. Though Edwards said he was not aware of anyone in his department coordinating science units with the Challenger's mission, he said there was considerable discussion about the project.

Edwards, who did not apply for the Teacher in Space Program which put McAuliffe in the limelight, said he would consider applying in the future despite the January 28 tragedy. "However, I think I might have more misgivings now," he admitted. Though it appears no Northville teachers were among the more than 11,000 educators applying to the teacher-in-space program, the historic mission piqued the interest of many local educators.

Stover said all science teachers at Meads Mill requested a copy of McAuliffe's lesson plans to use at their leisure. He planned to videotape her lessons via satellite on cable. "It was really shocking to me," said of educators planning to videotape McAuliffe's two lessons from space.

Stover said teachers and students grew more somber as news filtered into the school the afternoon of the Challenger tragedy.

He noted he had several meetings

'I went home and cried a little and I know of a lot of others did, too," Stover noted.

In memory of fellow teacher Christa McAuliffe, Meads Mill staff members have been wearing buttons bearing her photograph throughout the past week.

Stover said he hopes the disaster does not bring a halt to the nation's space program or the possibility for putting another civilian in space - most notably another teacher.

"I think it is wonderful to bring the space program home to kids," he remarked. "It's one thing to have an astronaut tell you about the space program, but it's another to hear it from a teacher."

Walkaway incident angers local officials

Noting that she was having trouble with her locks freezing, she said she left the passenger door open. Though hospital safety officers were able to track the patient's footprints into the garage, they were unable to locate the subject.

Buckmaster noted the walkaway was wearing a blue shirt which blended in with the interior of her car — making it difficult to distinguish between the two. Noticing footprints leading into the garage but finding none leading out, city board or commission, city council or a city employee.

Likewise, the planning commission requirements state that members cannot hold any other city office, except one also may be on the board of zoning appeals.

Council member Paul Folino told the visitors that he serves as liaison member from council to the planning commission, saying, "but I'm just a member of the audience and have no vote."

The list compiled by the members of the Current Issues class also showed that Anne Brueck and her husband Robert serve on one and three groups respectively. Others listed who serve on more than one board or commission include Dr. William Demray, Donald DiComo, Luke C. Durst, Elroy Ellison, William Sliger, John Swallow and Lois Winters.

"There seems to be a concern that people are being turned away (from serving). I have served since November on the council committee that screens applicants," Ayers told the class members, saying there are few applications on hand at the moment. 'I urge you to fill out an application," she said.

Council members said applications currently are needed as vacancies exist on the Historic District Commission, the Zoning Appeals Board, the Downtown Development Authority and the recreation commission.

Turnbull appointed

Northville City Council Monday night unanimously approved the Northville Community Recreation's request to appoint Bruce Turnbull to serve the remainder of the term of Marie Knapp as representative of the city on the Senior Citizen Advisory Council.

At a special session January 27 Jerry Mittman was reappointed unanimously to a three-year term expiring January 1, 1989, on the Northville Recreation Commission.

township police officers at the scene concluded the patient still remained in the garage and discovered the subject inside the car.

The Buckmasters, who have lived at their Maxwell residence for 24 years, said this is not their first encounter with a patient from the state hospital. 'I'm not fearful," Mary Buckmaster noted. "However, I do believe in being cautious." She said last week's incident coupled with the October break-in on Marilyn has given her some cause for concern. While she said she believes most of the patients are not violent, Buckmaster said she would not want to test her theory.

"My opinion is that their behavior is erratic," she said. "If a patient gets scared they could hurt you — they could hurt themselves

"Nobody around here is too happy about this," she added, noting that many of her neighbors are becoming extremely cautious.

Among those growing increasingly more concerned about the walkaway situation at the hospital is Ann Hartson.

"I'm paranoid," she admitted, noting that while she and her husband Robert have considered selling their home, they are awaiting the arrival of their second child.

Ann, who discovered the break-in at her residence last October upon return: ing home with her three-year-old daughter Angela, said she is fearful for the children in the neighborhood. "I'm sure come spring the situation will get much worse," she noted.

A lawsuit filed by the Hartsons last October against the state still is pending.

Controversial Novi Town Center rules inacted

Following months of review and occasional outbursts of controversy, a Town Center Ordinance for Novi has gone into effect following a 5-2 vote of the Novi City Council January 27.

Plans for nearly 415,000 square feet of commercial space already are in for the Town Center at the Novi Road-Grand River intersection.

Council Members Arlen Schroeder and Nancy Covert opposed implementation of the ordinance, albeit for different reasons.

Schroeder repeated his opposition was based on what he called "that infamous escape clause," referring to a provision guaranteeing the right of existing nonconforming businesses in the Town Center to expand operations. Covert, meanwhile, thought the Town Center plans simply contained too many large stores. "I thought our original concept was for small shops serving local needs. I just see this as an extension of the regional shopping center.'

One other key figure is not content with the ordinance: the Trammell Crow

Company, The multi-billion-dollar real estate development firm is planning to develop 51 acres of Town Center property for commercial use. But in a January 24 letter to City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers and Planner James Wahl, Trammell Crow's Craig Manske identified several areas of the ordinance which posed problems for the firm's Town Center project.

"If there are any rough edges causing Trammell Crow some hardship, I'm sure they can pursue some relief from the Zoning Board of Appeals," Rogers told council members Monday. He added future adjustments might be made to the ordinance as seen fit following review by developers

Manske's letter to Rogers and Wahl listed the following sections of the ordinance as objectionable:

□ The prohibition of flat roof design unless a gable or mansard (sloping) roof design is used on the majority of the roof. "Mansard or gable roof design may not be economically feasible for a three-story office building," Manske with other stringent architectural requirements. □ The restriction stating office developments must comprise at least 50 percent of the floor space of all commercial buildings over 7,500 square feet, and the provision that housing accommodations must total at least 300 units.

Manske's response was that all those restrictions should be dropped. "We are not a residential developer," he explained, "and we do not feel the highest and best use of adjacent (to the Town Center) land to be residentially oriented."

□ A requirement of parking decks to accommodate visitors and workers in tall buildings within the Town Center. "It has been our experience," Manske asserted, "that parking decks for hotels have not been well received by travelers. Concerns for safety as well as ease of entry and exit from the parking lot are two major factors.

□ A proposal providing for inclusion of multi-story atriums within a building. Manske responded: "Atriums to an office building . . . each building (should) be reviewed on its own merit.'

□ A provision for a landscape architect licensed in the State of Michigan. Manske said the provision would create "an administrative nightmare" for developer and city officials Prohibition of front yard parking in I-1 industrial districts. "Effective use of landscaped areas can make for an outstanding apearance as well as keeping the building functional for the tenant requirements.

Manske overall concluded the Town Center Ordinance is "a very comprehensive and detailed ordinance that gives the city strong control over what happens within the district, which I think is important to the City of Novi.

"However, some of the individual phrases and paragraphs create severe hardships on the developer and I would like to think that these particular paragraphs can be amended to allow for the flexibility that a changing real

Motor sports museum wheels into motion in Novi

By KEVIN WILSON

Months of idling talk about a Novi lotorsports Museum and Hall of Fame vas fired into action last week with designation of a board of directors and the launch of a fund-raising drive to put together the anticipated $2.5 million cost of constructing the museum on a five-acre site in the Town Center district.

The museum proposal outlined at a January 21 press conference/reception calls for 50,000 square feet of display space in a modern facility designed ith capacity for expansion. It would ouse 40 to 50 vehicles or other exhibits, with 15 of them on rotating stands. Construction is targetted to begin in the spring of 1987 on a site tentatively designated on Novi Road just south of Grand River.

Dropping the green flag for the pro-ject was racing driver Bobby Unser, the most-famous and accomplished of several drivers who wheeled the famed Novi Special racers at the Indianapolis 00 in the 1950s and '60s.

The city has been using a 1965 Novi racer as a promotional device since 1983, when a city-wide movement spearheaded by City Manager Edward Kriewall brought the car back to its birthplace. It has since been restored and become the centerpiece of the museum proposal. Lew Welch built the 900horsepower V-8 engines near the proposed museum site and named them after the city, making the Novi name more familiar to race fans than it is to nany people living in the area.

Kriewall noted that the race car project has been accomplished with private sector funding and that the museum will similarly be built with donations from fans, industry, citizens, grants, fund raisers and memberships. While the restored Novi race car drew a lot of attention, Unser was the main attraction at the press conference/reception at the Novi Nilton. The three-time Indy 500 winner made a strong pitch for the logic of locating a national motorsports museum and hall of fame right in the center of Novi -- a place he suggested might otherwise be considered a relatively obscure town northwest of Detroit.

"I wasn't sure for most of my life that Novi, Michigan, was a real place," Unser said during a brief commentary on the museum plans. "I just can't believe somebody didn't think of this a long time ago.

"A lot of race fans know about the race car," he continued. "We're in the right place for this kind of thing -Detroit is the center of the auto industry and race fans associate the name Novi with racing. I think you'll bring people in (to Novi). If it's a national museum, you'll have people come in beyond your beliefs."

Unser's is also the most-widely known name on the board of directors, though racing fans may also recognize:

 John Frasco of Bloomfield Hills (chairman of CART, the sanctioning body that backs most Indy-car races today);

• Jim Gilmore of Kalamazoo (president of Gilmore Enterprises and longtime sponsor of A.J. Foyt's racing efforts):

• Michael Kranefuss of Allen Park (director of Special Vehicle Operations, Ford Motor Company);

• Richard Maxwell of Warren (manager of Chrysler Corporation Motorsport Operations) and; • James Bernardin of Warren (President of CECO Motorsports, Inc., a division of the Campbell-Ewald advertising agency).

Unser was the only board member to attend the reception last week, though most committee members were present as well as a wide range of local elected and appointed officials. Also attending was Cars and Concepts owner Dick Chrysler, who pledged his support to the musuem project.

Chrysler said he became involved because of a long-standing interest in cars and motorsport, but also acknowledged that his involvement in the museum drive may also pay dividends in helping publicize his expected candidacy for governor.

Unser said he was present "because I really want to be here. It's the most logical place I could think of to put an automobile racing museum, and I think we need something like this.

He also described a particular affection for the race car, although he never won a race while driving the notoriously unreliable Novi.

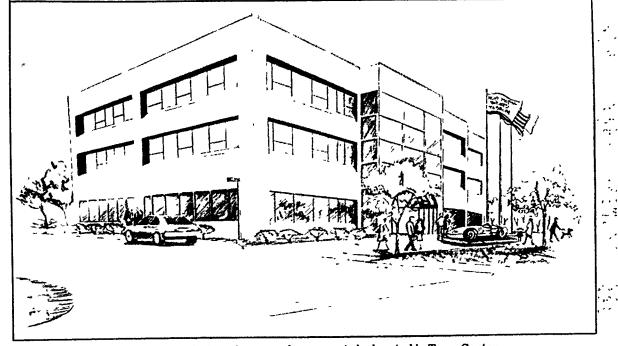

"For some reason, the Novi fit me and my driving style," Unser said. "It was always a crowd favorite, probably because of the sound of the engine. Driving the Novi probably had more to do with my career than anything else .. It made my name more recognizable and that helped paved the way for my brother Al."

Initial discussion of the museum proposal last year was based on the idea of a Michigan-only racing hall of fame. But supporters have since broadened their proposal to encompass all forms of motorsport and a national hall of fame.

Museum committee chairman Larry Ciancio noted that while football and baseball have well-known halls of fame, 'the world's largest spectator sport doesn't have a hall of fame."

He said the Novi museum and hall of fame will be devoted to all motorsports. unlike other racing museums that concentrate on a single type of racing such

Architect's rendering of proposed museum to be located in Town Center as Indianapolis racers or Grand National stock cars. Ciancio noted that southeastern

Michigan is host to all forms of racing, noting particularly that Indy cars and stock cars race at Michigan International Speedway, sports cars at several venues including downtown Detroit and that Detroit is host to both the only United States Grand Prix and the "thunderboat" unlimited hydroplanes on the river.

Committee Member Raymond Byers, a school board trustee and Ford Motor Company employee, noted that "American racing has its roots here with Henry Ford and Barney Oldfield racing on the ice of Lake St. Clair in the 999 early in the century." City Councilman Edward Leininger said the goal of the committee is to create an "educational museum" that would recognize a significant element of the city's history.'

Our Opinions

Close the gaps

Northville State Regional Psychiatric Hospital on Seven Mile has gaps in the three-sided fencing finally installed last autumn gaps that still permit walkaways to w a n d e r i n t o t o w n s h i p neighborhoods and the city.

In spite of security guards and a surveillance camera which Department of Mental Health Director Patrick Babcock said in a meeting here in November would help curb the walkaway problem, the number of walkaway reports has declined very little, as Township Supervisor Susan Heintz pointed out yesterday.

We're afraid the gaps are even bigger than a matter of fencing. The real one is in lack of staffing both at the custodial care level and in physicians to treat patients. Without adequate staffing, the hospital is no more than a "holding institution."

Both the lack of staff to treat patients and lack of containment are ongoing problems that township officials and state representatives have appealed to the state to correct for — literally — years. Appeals to former Governor William Milliken fell on deaf ears as he listened to the mental health people who have felt fencing was "detrimental" to patients' morale.

Initially, officials and representatives hoped that Governor Blanchard would decide to permit the fence for the protection of citizens. And a fence has been constructed. However, as James Nowka, longest serving member of the township board of trustees, pointed out in December, the gaps in the three-sided fence are not protected by gates or guards and mental health officials "do not want to talk about it. They completely ignore it — they're just giving us a solid wall."

That the township board now intends to take some type of action — we presume legal — against the state, as Heintz stated yesterday, is no surprise. The community is at the point where something must be done to protect both residents and patients. We're stringing along

By Jean Day .

Stringers today are becoming to newspapers what substitutes are to a school system. A stringer, or free-lance writer, usually writes from home covering an assignment given him or her by a newspaper. The stringer is paid by the piece and often is identified after a by-line as "special writer."

Because newspaper staffs are depleted by illness and vacation schedules, the stringer becomes increasingly important to help cover local stories. As you've noticed, newspapers do not leave news columns blank — even if editors and reporters work far into the night and come to work when their colds sound as if they should be in bed taking aspirin.

Sometimes, however, the illness is so critical that there is a vacancy calling for special stringer effort. Right now the Northville Record and Novi News are short staffed as Kevin Wilson, who regularly covers city council and Northville Township news, is in the hospital for major surgery. As we expect there will be a considerable recuperation period after the surgery (scheduled for last Monday), we're looking for more stringers.

Who are stringers? They often have been women who left full-time employment to raise a family and want to keep writing. That's how this writer continued working initially after first daughter Robin was born.

Stringers usually are extremely well qualified. As an example, I'd like to tell you about our most frequently used stringer — a very special one. She's Ann Chowdhury who began to write for our newspapers last year. An Englishwoman, Ann is fun to have pop into our office as she's always willing to accept our assignments. She also accepts them positively, indicating in her right British accent that she would enjoy doing them.

Like most free-lance writers. Ann is well educated. She received her bachelor's degree from Ilkley, a women's college in Yorkshire affiliated with Leeds University. She grew up in Yorkshire where her parents and brother still farm. Last Valentine's she told us the romantic story of how she met her husband, Dipak, an engineer with Ford Motor Company, at Ilkley.

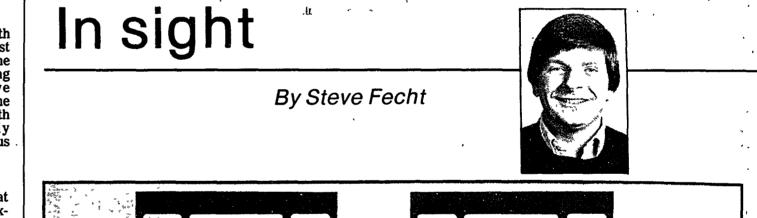

She was at a dance talking with her East Indian roommate, she recalled, when "the most handsome man I had ever seen approached us. I was thinking, 'my roommate has all the luck'. because he, too, was Indian when he asked me to dance." Ann explained that he later told her he gathered courage to do so because he felt, if she had an East Indian roommate, she wasn't prejudiced (as many in Britain are about East Indians) and would probably dance with him.

The dance led to marriage and two sons, Neil, now a freshman at Lansing Community College majoring in photography, and Ian, a senior at Northville High School. While Ann's bachelor's degree was in home economics and teaching, her master's from Eastern Michigan University was in child development and family life. She's also gotten an associate degree in mechanics, drafting and design, beginning her study at Schoolcraft and completing work in Alpena when the family moved there. They moved back to Northville in 1984, but while they were in Alpena, Ann served as that area's correspondent for The Detroit News.

How did she happen to begin stringing when her background was in other areas? She recalled that she submitted a story to the Liverpool paper about her boys' cooking class.³ That was 24 years ago, and she's been free lancing ever since.³ Last spring she chose to undergo to undergo a brand new-type of kidney stone operation (shock waves shatter the stones as the patient lies in a "cradle" of water) with local anesthesia so that " she could write about it afterward.

The Northville Record and Novi News used her story last August 21. She has rewritten it and it has been used since by newspapers all over the country whose hospitals are getting the new machine. It has appeared in such papers as The Washington Post (which usually does not use free lance material), The Cleveland Plain Dealer and the San Francisco Chronicle. You'll be seeing more of Ann's stories shortly watch for her by-line. We hope to add some others, too. If you are a writer who would like to "string," do drop us a note.

Policy's right fare

While the opening of Northville High School proper January 27 brought cheers from students and staff, there's no doubt spirits were somewhat dampened by the board of education's recent decision to implement a closed lunch policy.

The school board's decision to reverse its 1971 policy which allowed students to leave the high school premises during the lunch period finally closes the lid on the open campus issue. The board's recent action culminates more than three years of gradual restrictions to the so-called open campus.

Long a thorn in the side of the district, the open campus policy came under its sharpest attack in June, 1982, when a high school student was beaten in an NHS hallway by four youths from outside the district. The following September, the school board implemented the first modifications to the open policy in more than a decade. closing the lunch period years ago, the new cafeteria offers more than ample space for the high school's population.

While we sympathize with students who feel the newest restriction is unfair in light of the adversity they have faced during this school year, excessive absenses and tardiness in the period following lunch coupled with littering and a potentially dangerous traffic situation gives us cause for concern.

Students have pointed out that the policy is not the cause of the excessive absences and tardiness cited by the administration. The

Among the most vocal critics of the open campus were parents of high school students. As school officials began to tighten the clamp on the open campus issue, many in the community assumed restrictions also had been placed on the lunch policy. While space restrictions prohibited the district from reason for such abuses, they contend, rests with irresponsible students. While we agree that not all students abuse the policy, there appears no logical way to separate the two.

Education is the business of Northville Public Schools. A policy which allows students to miss that opportunity cannot be considered sound. We disagree with students who claim that a run to Hardee's is their individual right. It is a privilege which unfortunately has been abused by too many for too long.

Deserving tribute

'That 220 people bought tickets to a retirement dinner last Saturday night in the high school cafeteria is a tribute to the warmth and wit of Marian Zayti, who has served in various school secretary capacities for 34 years.

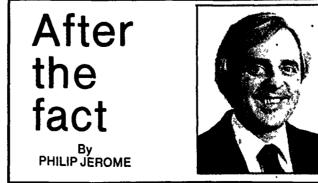

It was easy to see why so many friends in the community joined school personnel to honor her. When the high school barber shop quartet saluted Marian and asked her to join them as they sang "Baby Face," she jumped up immediately — and the resulting quintet "wowed" the crowd.

From Superintendent George Bell to spokespersons for all school departments, the comments were the same: Marian Zayti is the person who "knows everything" about the workings of the school system. Dutch Van Ingen who was in charge of arrangements and served as master of ceremonies said it perfectly, "She's a grand person and we'll all miss her."

May you and Ben have a wonderful retirement, Marian.

Does anyone remember a game called "Post Office?"

If memory serves me correctly, it's some kind of kissing game played by adolescents. I don't think I ever played "Post Office," so I don't remember the details. And nobody around the office will own up to ever having played it either.

But there was a different kind of "Post Office" game that my brother and I used to play on long, hot summer days on those rare occasions when we tired of playing baseball.

What we used to do was head down to the post office in our little farming community town and read all the "Wanted" posters. Scurrilous individuals wanted by the FBI for a variety of heinous crimes.

Tiny dancers

We paid particular attention to the criminals for whose arrest there were large rewards. We memorized the details on the posters and then went walking around town, hoping to crack a few cases for J. Edgar Hoover by spotting some of the desperados and turning them in for the reward money.

We were pretty good at it, too. My recollection is that we managed to spot all kinds of people who looked just like the people on the posters in the post office. We never turned any of them in, of course. Just spotting them and knowing that dangerous criminals were walking around our town was reward enough for two young boys.

We saw several criminals at the Frog Leg Inn, the town's rather notorious (we thought) bar where there always seemed to be a fight going on Saturday nights.

One of the criminals even talked to us once. We were hanging around the front door of the Frog Leg on sort of a stake-out for the FBI when one of them walked by and told us we shouldn't be hanging around places like that. Actually, what he said was something like, "Get outta, here."

We had to stop playing the game when we told my father that \P one of t' > elders in our church was a dangerous criminal, wanted for bank robbery and murder in Chicago.

Former NHS student criticizes closed lunch policy

To the Editor:

The community of Northville should be proud of our new high school. It was a long time coming, and the students and staff members should be commended for their patience while endur-ing this painful construction process.

This new school should be a rallying point for the students to show a higher level of pride, responsibility and school spirit, but how can we ask this of the students if the school board is con-tinually adding restrictions to their everyday school life? (Closed lunch.)

The students have already proved their maturity this year with the way they handled the situation at Cooke Junior High. High school students should be treated as young adults rather than kids, and there is a difference between the two.

Young adults know what responsibili-ty is and are afraid to face it when they find out what it is. In the past few years there have been many changes concer-ning the "open campus policy" by the school board.

The high school has become a "closed campus" and a larger version of a junior high. I agree with Tim Munsell when he said, "I don't think it's the open lunch policy which got kids drop-ped from class ... I think it's the kid." He's right, too.

There's a problem in all school systems. Some students just don't want to learn or want to be there and are usually the ones who abuse privileges, but the board of education is fooling themselves if they believe that forcing some students to be in school is going to make them learn.

No program is going to have a 100 percent success rate with students. Why penalize the majority of students who honor privileges for the actions of the few who abuse their rights?

One of the objectives of high school is to get the "young adult" ready to go out and function in the world. The school system should try and teach more than algebra and chemistry, they should try and teach what responsibility is and how to honor and respect it, isn't that what life is full of — responsibility? I urge the students to keep up their fight for what they believe in and work with the school board to solve this problem. The students and administration of Northville have a great opportunity to show the rest of Michigan that young people can be treated as adults and react positively to it. Let's not waste the chance!

Township officers praised

To the Editor:

I would like to commend Sgt. (Clyde) Anderson and Officer (Fred) Yankee of the Northville Township Police Department for their professionalism and good conduct outside my home on Maxwell Street Wednesday morning, January 29.

A patient had walked away from Northville State Hospital without a coat.

They traced his footprints to my house. I thought my daughter's car was locked as usual. I had looked in her windows and told the officers he wasn't in there. Being a very thin man with no jacket and wearing blue clothes blended with the interior of her car. But they found him laying on the floor in the back seat. We are very grateful for their thoroughness and persistence.

•Safety belt law gains favor

Even more Michigan residents favor the state's six-month-old safety belt use law now than did so before the law went into effect, according to a public opi-nion survey conducted in December.

The survey, conducted by Nordhaus Research Inc., of Southfield, reports that 82 percent of Michigan residents favor the safety belt use law compared to 67 percent who favored the law in a Nordhaus survey in May, 1985.

The public opinion poll of 600 random-ly selected Michigan residents also demonstrates that more people believe that safety belt use saves lives. In May, 79 percent of the respondents indicated they believed safety belts would save a significant number of lives if their use was widespread. That percentage increased to 88 percent in the December

"The increased support for the safety belt use law and the increased will-ingness on the part of Michigan residents to believe it is an effective law demonstrates that the popularity of highway safety remains an important issue to Michigan residents," said David Duguid, senior project director for Nordhaus Research, Inc.

"And we're talking about a very wellinformed public when it comes to the safety belt use law," said Duguid. "Our survey shows that '99.7 percent of Michigan residents are aware of Michigan's law - an extremely high percentage."

In acknowledging the high awareness level in regard to the safety belt use law, Thomas O. Reel, executive secretary of the Michigan Coalition for Safety Belt Use said: "This survey shows that people believe in the law and in safety belts. We would like to see usage levels proportionate to the support that Michigan residents are demonstrating for the law. Our task now is to work on developing the safety belt use habit among an even greater number of Michigan residents."

Michigan Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, who is responsible for the public education program to make residents aware of the safety belt use law, noted that the high level of awareness was the result of coopera-tion among the media and a number of state agencies.

"The public service directors throughout the state have been particularly helpful in frequently scheduling our public service an-nouncements," said Austin. "But all the media have recognized the im-portance of this issue and have promoted it vigorously."

The survey also indicates increased support for strict enforcement of the safety belt use law, with 82 percent of the respondents stating that they would like to see the law either somewhat or very strictly enforced. That represents an increase from May when 71 percent of those polled favored strict enforcement.

Duguid pointed out that related questions demonstrate that law enforcement representatives are influential in promoting support for the safety belt use law even beyond their duties in regard to the enforcement of traffic laws. "The Michigan State Police received the highest rating among the respondents who were asked to gauge influence," said Duguid. "Law enforcement officers in general were ranked a close second."

"We are pleased to know that the public is behind our efforts to save lives and prevent serious injuries on our highways," said Lieutenant Colonol William D. Hassinger, chief deputy director of the Michigan Department of State Police. "We intend to continue with a vigorous enforcement effort of a popular law. In addition, we feel that the increased fine for violation of the safety belt use law will further induce motorists who already support the law to buckle up on a more regular basis."

The fine for violating Michigan's safety belt use law was raised from $10 to $25 on January 1, 1986.

The Michigan Coaltion for Safety Belt Use, a non-profit organization for Safety Beit Lansing, is an alliance of health and medical associations, safety and in-surance groups, law enforcement organizations, state agencies and private organizations dedicated to promoting the use of safety belts as a means of saving lives on Michigan highways.

Take the bite out of cold weather

Michigan has always been referred to as a "Water Wonderland." With the arrival of winter, the water turns to ice and snow, making our state a haven for winter sports enthusiasts.

Cross-country and downhill skiing, ice skating, toboganning and snowmobiling are but a few of the winter activities to be enjoyed.

But for the unconditioned, such vigorous exercise can be dangerous, according to Rose Snyder, athletic trainer at Henry Ford Hospital's Center for Athletic Medicine.

Before you head outdoors for a winter activity — whether it be your favorite sport or just to shovel the snow - plan to stay within any physical limitations directed by your doctor and do some limbering up eventions limbering up exercises to prevent possi-ble injury. "You should stretch out before and after to loosen the muscles," Snyder said.

A good start is three to five minutes of jumping jacks or running in place. Next, you need to thoroughly stretch your back thigh muscle, or hamstring, and your back muscles. Sit on the floor with your legs stretched out in front of you; bend forward at your waist and touch your toes. Hold each stretch for 30 seconds, repeating the exercise at least three times. Do not bounce, just stretch. The unbearable cold winter weather can tax the body, and there's nothing worse than ruining the fun by dressing improperly for your planned event. If you're going to do vigorous exercise outdoors, it is best to dress in layers of clothing. The layers can be removed as your body warms up. Layers also pro-vide more warmth since they trap pockets of air. "You should wear something that is absorbent such as cotton that allows the skin to breath," Snyder said. "On windy days, a windbreaking layer helps."

Snyder also suggests wearing a hat or other head covering. On bitterly cold days, breathe through a scarf or mask to warm and moisten the air before it enters your lungs. "Make yourself aware of the conditions you'll be facing," she said. "The most important thing is to protect exposed areas from frostbite."

During this time of especially cold weather, Henry Ford Hospital's Department of Emergency Medicine offers these suggestions for frostbite prevention.

□ Wear multiple layers of clothing

If a burning sensation or numbness occurs on any part of the body, warm that part with another part of the body. For example, warm your feet or ears with your hands. If a part of your body does freeze, warm it as soon as possible and be very careful not to let it refreeze. Symptoms of frostbite include a painful, cold sensation; burning, tingling or numbness; and redness of skin, followed by a white or blanched look.

frostbite should include getting out of the cold; re-warming the affected areas of the body; covering the exposed areas with warm clothing and a warm part of the body and immersing the affected area in warm water for 15-20 minutes.

It is very important that you re-warm a frozen area completely and rapidly only once. You must not allow a rewarmed area to get cold again or refreeze. If this is likely to happen before you arrive at your destination or at a doctor's office or hospital, initial re-warming should be withheld. Henry Ford Hospital offers a 24-hour

[°]Sh-h-h-h Places everyone, this is a dress rehearsal

No sooner had set and props for "Same Time, Next Year" been struck than the cast and crew of "The Mikado" flooded into the hallways, dressing rooms, stage and pit of the Marquis Theater.

Monday evening was a sitzprobe (sit-down rehearsal for voices and orchestra) in preparation for Michigan Lyric Opera's debut operetta at the group's new home base, the Marquis, this Friday.

Gibert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," set in imperial Japan, retains a thoroughy British stamp. Among its favorite numbers are "Titwillow," "Three Little Maids from School," "We Are Gentlemen of Japan," and "A Wandering Minstrel, I."

Directing the show is David Pulice, one of Michigan's most experienced Gilbert and Sullivan actor/directors and a veteran of New York stage productions as well as his duties with Michigan Lyric Opera. Musical director of the MLO is Douglas Morrison, familiar to Marquis patrons with his work in "Oklahoma" and special musical evenings last fall.

Starring in the Mikado are numerous musical performers on familiar turf in Gilbert and Sullivan roles. Baritone George Bloomfield, tenor Monte Long, soprano Laurel Anne Meeker and baritone Mark Byars (recently seen at the Marquis as Jud Fry in "Oklahoma") as The Mikado head a cast of 20 gifted and experienced performers including Northville's Mary Lyle.

Performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" are at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, February 7, 8, 14 and 15 and Sunday, February 16 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets $8 in advance at the Marquis, 133 West Main, or by phone with Visa/Mastercard (call 349-8110) or $9 at the door. 33

Former waitress takes over ownership of restaurant

GREEN SHEET

Sliger/Livingston East

By MATT SEIDL

"We're getting the family back together.

Those are the words of LueCille Collier, a former waitress at the nowdefunct Jimmy's Restaurant in South Lyon.

Collier recently purchased Lyn-Nor's Restaurant at 22870 Pontiac Trail, and after just a few days of organizing, she has changed the name to "LueCille's" and brought in a touch of Jimmy's.

"It's just like the old days," said Collier, while sitting in an office adjacent to her restaurant's kitchen. "A lot of the faces around here are the same ones you saw at Jimmy's.

"The surroundings are obviously different, but the style is the same. Hopefully we can make this work just like Jimmy's did."

The interior of the building hasn't changed since its days as Lyn-Nor's, and the exterior also is very similar. The lone difference outside is a large oval sign with fancy script lettering.

Collier has done some house cleaning with the staff, though. Her daughter Cindy Collier is now manager of the restaurant, and several old friends, including Jimmy Gibson, have joined the team.

Gibson is a come-and-go chef for his former employee, working mainly during the morning hours.

"Everything I know about the restaurant business, I learned from Jimmy," Collier said. "He was a very thing go. easy man to work for. But don't get me wrong, he made you work.'

Gibson suffered a heart attack about five years ago and was forced to retire. A few years later, after a pair of ownership changes, the establishment simply folded.

Collier then moved to Middletown, Ohio, and worked in a lounge owned by her sister Sadie Dowles. After two years, Collier came back to South Lyon and recently was employed at the VFW Hall.

So how did Collier, who was a waitress at Jimmy's for 15 years, climb the ladder of success?

"Well, I'm not quite to the top yet," she laughed. "This is all very new to me. It's something I've always wanted to do, and I've just been waiting for the right opportunity to roll around. "Being the boss is a little different, but the experience I picked up with Jimmy has helped. And, of course, if I have any problems I can always turn to him. To me, Jimmy will always be the real boss.'

Collier's family and friends are very excited about the restaurant as well, which is evidenced by the abundance of volunteer helpers.

A good portion of the women waiting on tables right now are working without pay, and several odd jobs also are being performed without compensation.

"People helping people," explained Ron Perdue, who is Collier's youngest brother. "All her friends want to see the restaurtant do well. It's like one big family working together to make this

Business Briefs

JOHN A. MALASKY, national director of Alexsis, Inc., in Northville has been named to Albion College's newly-formed Economics-Professional Management Visiting Committee. The committee, which held its initial meeting January 24-25, was created by the Albion College Board of Trustees to provide the college's economics and management departments with support and guidance from key executives in businesses across the country. Chairman of the committee is Walter E. Auch, chairman and chief executive officer of the Chicago Board Options Exchange, who also is an Albion College trustee. The role of Malasky and other committee members will be to help promote and sponsor internships for Albion students in leading corporations, to guide faculty in curriculum development and revision, and to help identify leading candidates for admission to Albion and the college's Professional Management Program.

During the two days of the committee's initial meeting, members met with faculty and students for an overview of various aspects of the departments' programs, saw demonstrations of computer simulations used in the classroom and heard about recent developments in accounting education. Albion's economics program and liberal arts program in professional management are based on a rigorous economics and accounting curriculum. Internships at some of the country's leading businesses are an integral part of the department programs.

Malasky, a 1951 graduate of Albion College, has held the directorship of Alexsis, Inc., since 1981. He served as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Corporate Service, Inc., from 1968-85. He is a member of the National Association of Safety and Claims Organizations (NASCO) and has served as president and treasurer of that organization. He is a member of the Detroit Athletic Club and a trusteee of the Michigan Opera Theater.

He and his wife, Dorothy, live in Northville.

JUDITH J. FIELD, a Northville resident who has been head of the general reference department at the Flint Public Library since 1972, has been appointed director of the Legislative Reference Library for the Minnesota Legislature in St. Paul, Minnesota.

Field received her BBA, AMLS and MBA degrees from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Field assumed her new position January 15. She and her husband Nathaniel L. will continue to reside in Northville.

Blanchard proclaims Masonry Week in state

Governor James J. Blanchard has declared February 9-14 as "Masonry Week in Michigan.

Headquartered in Farmington, the Masonry Institute is the educational, technical and promotional arm of Michigan's masonry industry. Masonry materials include concrete block, brick, stone, glass block and other hand-laid materials.

Blanchard made the following comments in his Masonry Week declaration:

"For the 11th consecutive year, the members of Michigan's masonry industry are being recognized for their many contributions to our state and its economy. This observation is sponsored by the Masonry Institute, located in Farmington.

'The masonry trade has been an important aspect of the success of civilization since the very early beginnings of humankind. Today, its function in our society is of equal importance as all trades and industries strive to utilize technological developments to improve the quality of life in our state and nation

"During this observance, it is important to recognize the many talented members of the masonry industry and their significant contributions to Michigan design and construction.'

Masonry Institute President Joe Neussendorfer added "that as Michigan moves toward its 150th anniversary in 1987, it is important to note that masonry has been the basic material used to build the state over the years.

"From our State Capitol Building to buildings new and old of every purpose all around Michigan, masonry has been

Realtor board president is on the move

Joanne Bryngelson is a woman on the move. In fact, she's moved seven times in the last 10 years as part of a successful career in real estate sales.

The most recent move was jobrelated, but had nothing to do with the physical aspects of new-home ownership. It was a boost upward careerwise with her election to the presidency of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors and the Metro Multi-Listing Service.

Bryngelson is only the second woman to hold the post since the board was organized in 1920. The previous woman president held office in 1956.

It is a fitting tribute to a decade of hard work that began for Bryngelson with a part-time secretarial job in a small real estate office near her home.

At that time she was living in Livonia. "Returning to the work force was a necessity," she recalls. "My husband was laid off, and we had four children to support."

The job was ideal because she could name her own hours, work while the children were in school and be back home when school ended.

Then the unanticipated occurred. She liked working so much that when the family's financial picture brightened, she stayed on.

Those few hours a day in the realty office were a real education, recalls Bryngelson. "I would observe the sales people, and I would say to myself, 'If that was me, this is how I'd handle it

Her keen interest in the business led a co-worker to suggest that she apply for her own broker's license. And therein began a career that has included owning her own franchise for awhile in Northville.

But being tied to a desk handling the administrative matters involved in running an office wasn't her cup of tea, Bryngelson soon learned.

"I'm a people person," she said. "I gave up the franchise to return to the field.'

The Bryngelsons were Livonia residents for 22 years before hourses "too good to pass up" brought seven moves in 10 years. "I'd see a house - fall in love with it.

We'd fix it up. Then we'd sell it," she said. The latest move was to Farmington Hills, but she and her husband Donald have no plans to move from there. "It's our retirement home." she said. But retirement is the farthest thing from her mind at the moment. She's too busy thinking and planning for the thing I'm really happy about is everyone seems to like the food," she commented. "The best advertising in the world is filling someone up with challenges that lie ahead as president of the 1,800-member association of Realtors.

Her election underscores a belief that she has held since that first day as a real estate sales person.

'It's one of the best fields women can go into," she said emphatically. "It's true now just as it was 10 years ago. It's a liberated industry and always has been.

"It's the one field where women could compete and earn the same amount of money men earned. There are no barriers. Nothing held me back.

Bryngelson, who was a telephone company customer representative before marriage, credits much of her success to organizational skills learned under the tutelage of Ma Bell.

"The telephone company had a great training program. We really learned how to organize things and how to talk to people," she said.

As presidents of the Realtors' board. Bryngelson said one of her priorities will be to see that the inner workings of the organization continue to work smoothly and possibly improve in the area of computerization.

the Birmingham-Bloomfield board, recently jointly purchased a computer system they refer to as Real Comp. It is designed to provide members with specialized state-of-the-art computer services. I'd like to see that become as problem-free as possible, she said.

Bryngleson also said she would like to see more involvement by individual board members and the 3,300 members of the multi-listing group.

She also expects to get the Western-Wayne group involved at the state level by actively supporting one of its members, Conrad Jakubowski of ERA Rymal Symes Realty in Novi, who was installed as president of the Michigan Association of Realtors on January 18. Meanwhile, Bryngelson said the real estate field is gearing up for a banner prices were higher," she noted. From all indications, 1986 should be

Other key members of the 22-member staff include cooks Bob Stamper, Ron Siebert, Paul Lucas and Brian Schmidt and waitress Linda Wilson.

With all these people helping out, one would think Collier could put her feet up on the desk and relax.

'That's not my style," she said. "This is my big dream and I want to be a part of it all the way. I probably could sit back now but it wouldn't be any fun."

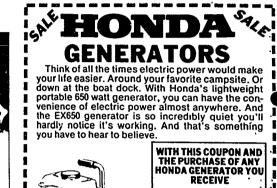

Collier says everything has gone smoothly since she purchased the spiced things up with breakfast, lunch and dinner specials. Also, Collier says the food is much different because "cooks always do things differently." The early favorite during LueCille's grand opening has been the barbecue ribs, which also were popular at Jim-right at the landmark hotel, the Royal York, which is among 36 Toronto hotels offering 50 percent off regular rates until March 2. Regular rates range from $113 to $131 a night Canadian funds. A package is available from AAA that includes trainfare and two nights at the Royal York for $95 a person. Even if you choose another hotel, and Toronto cludes free parking adjacent to the hotel. Register, unpack and unwind in the indoor pool, sauna or whirlpool.

Our winter weekend at the luxury hotel was in a spacious room overlooking the river. As we sipped morning coffee, we watched the railroad car ferry being jockeyed into its moorings. The V-shaped picture offered a panoramic view from Belie Isle to to Ambassador Bridge. A hotel spokesperson noted that "if a direct view is requested, we try our best." The rooms with king-size beds and views are on the 13th floor and up and are worth requesting. Current weekend package price is $87 Canadian a night with the hotel giving 37 percent discount on U.S. funds, which amounts to $64 U.S. (AAA members' weekend rate is $78.30 a night Canadian funds). Reserve ahead by calling 962-3834. While hotels and most stores and restaurants give an exchange on the dollar, it is a good idea to change funds at a bank before leaving as most banks are not open on Saturday in Canada. There are currency exchanges at the bridge and tunnel. Friday night you can dine right in the hotel at the River Runner Bar and Grill or in the Park Terrace Restaurant. Or you can walk around the corner to the venerable Ye Olde Steak House at 46 Chatham West which is famous for its onion soup and steak and kidney pie.

maybe for a fishing expedition to Alaska. So there's no way to escape from the midwinter deep freeze and celebrate Valentine's Day next week in some cozy spot with your One and Only, right?

Absolutely wrong. A romantic getaway weekend beckons no more than 50 to 300 miles away - a distance possible to cover on a late Friday afternoon. Because hotels in the cities suggested within that distance offer weekend packages (some even include champagne), the adventure is not a major expense. We chose cities within the 300 mile radius because they can be reached by expressway and offer a variety of activity and good dining. Read on and make your getaway memorable.

reasonable for Detroit-area tourists. Most Chicago-bound Detroiters travel the 5 to 5½ hour trek by car. However, for those willing to spend a few extra dollars, the train offers a much more romantic mode of transportation.

Though Amtrak has eliminated many of its Detroit-Chicago runs, there still are two departures Monday through Thursday and three Fri-day through Sunday. Rates vary according to days and times. Monday through Thursday round trip rates are $50 as well as those scheduled Friday through Sunday before 10 a.m or after 4 p.m. Between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. weekend rates are $41 one way!

abounds with them, stop in the Library bar for a drink at the Royal York and enjoy the splendor of the 1,600 room hotel, one of the largest in the Commonwealth.

If you visualize your weekend in a smaller hostelry, try the Windsor Arms at 22 St. Thomas Street in the Yorkville area. It's well known for its English atmosphere and antique furnishings — and for the many celebrities who choose to stay there. Its glass enclosed Courtyard Cafe is a popular dining spot. No packages, but room rates are listed from $80 to $140 Canadian.

Another choice, that the writer likes, is the newer wing of the Park Plaza Hotel at 4 Avenue Road directly across from the Royal Ontario Museum. It and its sister hotel Plaza II at 90 Bloor in the Preferred Hotel chain offer weekend rates of $75 a night Canadian for a two-night stay. Exchange your money at a bank before leaving and you'll get about 37 percent additional on the dollar.

While it might not seem romantic to choose a northern city in mid-winter, Toronto bills itself as weatherproofed" with huge indoor shopping complexes such as Eaton Center with major department stores, boutiques and a variety of eating places. They're all accessible easily via the fast, clean and dry subway system.

If it's not snowing too hard, visit the CN Tower's observation floor for a panoramic view. Or check on the live theater at the Royal Alexandra Theatre. Buy the Saturday newspaper (the Saturday edition is the equivalent of a Sunday Detroit newspaper) to find out about other theatrical, dance or musical entertainment.

Most likely, the dining room in your hotel will have a fine reputation and nearby will be many others. Ed's Warehouse by the Royal Alexandra is popular with tourists for its reasonable prices (try the roast beef specialty) and fascinating antique memorabilia.

Saturday explore Essex County. Take highway 18 along the river to historic Amherstburg. Have lunch at the Navy Yard Restaurant. This riverside dining room is housed in an 1869 restored warehouse building at 252 Dalhousie Street. It features Canadian fare with soups, sauces and baked goods prepared on the premises.

Continue afterward on highway 18 to Learnington on Lake Erie. Known as the tomato capital of the world, the town smells of catsup cooking in summer. Its stores offer English china, British marmalades and Canadian crafts.

Two noteworthy restaurants make staying for dinner worth while. Thirteen Russell (the restaurant takes its name from its address) is a Victorian house with elaborate gingerbread. Ask for the table in the bay window for the two of you.

out at 3 p.m. From the impressive lobby to the club-like bar - where you can linger over your welcoming drink - the atmosphere's definitely romantic.

The Amway offers a smoke-free floor in its new tower for non-smokers. Toll-free number for reservations is 1-800-632-6120.

The western Michigan city is the home of the Gerald Ford presidental museum and quality furniture stores such as Carl Forsland's, a family business located a block from the museum. As you browse among the cherry pieces for which the company is famous it's possible a member of the family will be waiting on you.

Within walking distance of the hotel are the Ford museum and the new Monroe area City Center, a three-level indoor mall of shops. The Ford museum just across the river should be visited. It chronicles the former president's growing up years as well as his White House term and contains many of the former president's personal possessions and pictures. There also is an impressive replica of his office in the White House.

Worth driving through is the city's Heritage Hill area where old mansions are being preserved and renovated. In one is a restaurant called Gibson's where guests dine in rooms with high ceilings, elaborate woodwork and fireplaces.

A few miles east of the center of town is the tiny community of Ada. home of the Amway Corporation. The town boasts several boutiques and an antique shop housed in buildings in the center of town. It also is known for its covered bridge. In fair weather, visitors buy an ice cream cone at a corner shop and stroll over the bridge.

Among the Thornapple center village shops is an award winning restaurant, the Thornapple Village Inn, as well as gift shops and an Orvis sporting goods store, one of a handful in the country.

Relaxing and reasonable, the train is a perfect place to curl up with a good book or plan your itinerary for the weekend.

Pulling into Chicago's venerable Union Station is another added plus. Steeped in nostalgia, this imposing structure is an impressive greeting to the Windy City.

When it comes to hotel accommodations, there are more than ample offerings among the city's varied hostelries. Whether a room with a view of Lake Michigan or a small elegant hideaway such as the Tremont, Chicago has plenty to offer the weary travel.

For the ultimate in romance, your best bet is a weekend in the historic Drake Hotel. Restored to its former elegance, the North Michigan Avenue landmark offers visitors the optimum in luxury. While many of its spacious rooms overlook Lake Michigan and Lake Shore Drive, the view from a comfortable chair in the hotel's spectacular lobby is equally as grand. After a day of shopping along Michigan Avenue, The Palm Court is a perfect resting spot for afternoon tea (accompanied by harp music).

The Drake's Cape Cod Room also is one of the best seafood restaurants in the city. The Bookbinder Red Snapper soup should not be missed. Though regular rates at the Drake are high (from $135-$180 for a single; $155-$200 for a double), weekend packages are available at considerably more reasonable prices. In Our Town

Florida opening noted

By JEAN DAY

The black tie Grand Opening of the Design Center of the Americas in Dania, Fla., January 25 was attended by four former Northville residents who still have strong connections to our community. Bruce and Bev McAllister who established McAllister's House of Decorating in Northville were at the invitational opening celebration with their guests, Gene and Midge Karrer, former Northville residents who winter in Stuart, Fla.

The southern design center, located at Dania off the I-95, in its first phase includes a four-story, 260,000 square-foot building that is a joint venture with John C. Portman Jr. (owner and developer of the Atlanta Market Center who also developed Ren-Cen in Detroit) and Marvin I. Danto, chairman of the board of Danto Investment Company (which built the Michigan Design Center in Troy.)

The McAllisters, who lived in Northville for 35 years before moving south, now operate McAllister's House of Decorating-South in Palm City, Fla.

Woman's Club's all hearts

Billed as a "lighthearted Valentine treat," this Friday's program for Northville Woman's Club will explore "The Heart in Art." Speaker for the program at 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church is Joyce Moore of Birmingham. A docent at the Detroit Institute of Arts, she culled works of art with heart motifs from the art institute for her slide presentation.

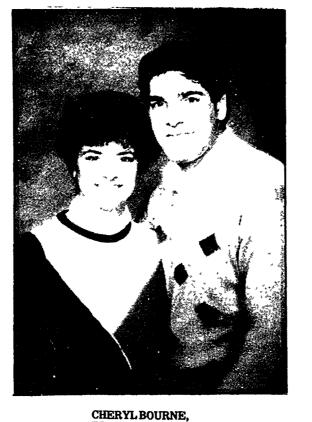

"There's a lot of humor, especially puns," explains Marion Roller, chairperson for the day. She adds that the speaker has been in the Farmington Hills Players' productions.

They're selling tickets for a fun evening

Nancy Bohn, chairperson for this year's Northville Historical Society Candlelight Ball benefit, to be held March 15 at the Novi Hilton, has lost no time getting tickets into the hands of 15 community ticketsellers.

She has tapped women to sell to their neighbors in local subdivisions. Proceeds from the tickets at $25 a person, or $50 a couple, will assist restoration work in Mill Race Historical Village. Decorations at the dinner dance will emphasize the work of the historical society — they will be historical items pertaining to the community's past. These decorations, notes the chairperson, will "launch the Susquecentennial celebrations for 1987."

Chicago's many attractions beckon

Chicago's numerous offerings can pack a weekend full of adventure. You could shop until you drop in this city whose avenues are lined with ritzy stores and boutiques such as Bally, I. Magnin, Saks and Nieman-Marcus. Though off the beaten path, a visit to Marshall Field's State Street store is worth a stop. The "marble palace" dating back to 1873 boasts the famous Tiffany Dome and the Great Clock. If it's variety you're after, a stop at Water Tower Place is a must. Its seven stories of shops and boutiques offer everything from steamer trunks at Louis Vuitton to safari garb at Banana Republic.

If shopping isn't your thing, Chicago's museums have much to offer. The Shedd Aquarium, Adler Planetarium, the Museum of Science and Industry and the Field Museum of Natural History attract throngs of visitors. For art lovers, the Art Institute of Chicago should not be missed. Though renowned for its impressionist paintings, you also can get a glimpse of Grant Wood's "American Gothic" as well as a re-creation of the old Chicago Stock Exchange.

AAUW talk will focus on curriculum

Dr. Dolly McMaster, director of curriculum and instruction for the Nor-thville Public Schools, will speak on current curriculum trends at the February meeting of the Northville branch, American Association of University Women, at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Amerman Elementary School library.

The topic addresses the branch theme for the year, "Keeping Pace With the Present."

The speaker will concentrate on the basic skills of the 1980s and '90s: instructional skills, higher order thinking skills and technological skills that enable students to become independent learners.

McMaster brought a rich background of experience with her when she came to Northville in the fall of 1984. She has a bachelor of arts degree in English, social science and math as well as a master's degree in reading from Eastern Michigan University.

Her doctoral degree was granted by Michigan State University in administration.

She began her educational career as a teacher in the Plymouth-Canton School District. She remained in Plymouth for 13 years and served as president of the Plymouth-Canton Education Association. After leaving Plymouth, she held assistant prin-cipalship positions in both West Bloomfield and Brighton before coming to Northville.

She has served as president of the State Middle School Association and as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Middle School Association. She has taught courses at Michigan State University in supervision of curriculum, instructional supervision, middle school curriculum and middle school administration.

Guests are welcome at the program. Women interested in joining the local branch may call Joyce Liddle, 348-2416. Any woman holding a baccalaureate or higher degree from an institution on the AAUW list of qualified institutions, or a degree from a foreign school recognized by the International Federation of University Women, or a foreign degree acceptable as a basis for admission at graduate schools at regionally ac-credited universities of the United States is eligible for membership.

Hlohenics' research reveals home was early area farm

By JEAN DAY

"Early American builders must have loved cottages because they built so many of them," observes Eileen Hlohenic who has lived with her husband John and family in the cottagestyle Victorian home at 529 Randolph since 1949.

The four, round white pillars on the front porch are the most distinctive feature of the white frame house set on the south side of the street. They were, the owner says, "a little extravagance in what otherwise was a rather frugel undertaking."

The saltbox shape, story and a half house, she understands, was the original farmhouse in the area, probably built in the middle 1800s.

"It was just far enough away from Main Street to operate as a farm." Eileen Hlohenic's research has shown the property then ran back to Linden Court and up the hill to Rogers Street. She obtained this information years ago from the late Mrs. Hay whose home was located at the top of Rogers Street. "With the exception of the kitchen and basement, it's probably much the same now as it was originally," Eileen Hlohenic told fellow members of Base Line Questers last Thursday as she hosted the chapter's January meeting at her home.

A small barn on the property later became a garage. Behind it originally was a large chicken coop.

The late Claude Tapp, grandson of the family living in the house in the 1870s, told the Hlohenics that his grandmother, Mary Lewis (1857-1930), sold eggs, milk and butter to supplement the family income. She was the wife of Orville Lewis (1848-1932) who worked at the Globe Furniture Company in Northville.

Claude Tapp's mother, Lillian Lewis Tapp, and her brother Frank were two of the couple's four children.

Frank was a first sergeant in the 33rd the property for a driveway," Elleen Hlohenic relates.

It was in the 1930s that Ippolita and Angeline Martino bought the house, excavated the basement and updated.

They also were responsible for planting three varieties of grape vines on the property. A concord grape vine still exists but the others had to be removed when the present garage was built.

The Hlohenics extended the stair into the living room — "it had steps going up like a stepladder" — and added an arch between the living and dining rooms.

They also replastered both rooms but retained the built-in cupboard in the dining room of tongue-in-groove wood of the original wainscoting. Eileen Hlohenic points out that "extensive still boast the wide, original floorboards. The Hiohenics have added closets. "Our modernization wasn't intended to be authentic - we did what was necessary with four children," Eileen Hlohenic explains candidly. The bedroom windows extend to the floor and still have wavy, old panes of glass in the dormered rooms that retain much of their orginial charm. A patchwork quilt covers the bed in the smaller room. A small bedroom also is located off the living room at the front of the house. The kitchen at the rear probably was created from a woodshed, the Hohenics think.

"It was crowded when all four children were at home," Mrs. Hlohenic recalls. Mark now lives in Ypsilanti, Sharon (Gladd) in Livonia, Mike in Minnesota and John in Florida.

Eileen Hlohenic still teaches piano part-time. She had been a nurse at Maybury Sanatorium. Her husband first retired from DeHoCo and then from the Secretary of State's office.

In researching the history of her home Eileen Hlohenic has expanded her study to include background on cot-tages themselves. In describing her 'cottage" to Questers, she referred to a book, "Villas and Cottages," written by Calvert Vaux in 1857 that contains pictures of homes. Included was the popular gothic style with extensive scrollwork.

Originally a vacation or summer home, such cottages were identifiable as detached, one family dwellings, the reference explains.

"Front porches were especially popular," Hlohenic notes, adding that most such cottages probably cost $1,500 or $1,600 to build. Of course, they had no indoor plumbing and the sink usually was on the back porch.

Eileen Hlohenic treasures a sketch of her cottage done by Ann Gentry. She understands that the artist was a member of Three Cities Art Club but has been unable to gain any other information about the sketcher. She hopes anyone knowing Gentry will call

The Hlohenics also have a few mementoes uncovered in their renovation of the Randolph Street house: several handmade nails and a greenish glass bottle marked "Doc and Marshalls snuff."

Mustang cagers add two more to victim list

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Mustang cagers aren't sneaking up on anybody anymore, but the wins keep coming at a delightfully regular pace. Early in the season Northville surprised a few teams, but now, everybody knows Omar Harrison has put together a tight-knit squad that plays very well as a team.

Last week, the Mustangs added North Farmington and Livonia Churchill to the list of victims. On January 28, the Raiders fell 60-52 in the first game played in the refurbished Northville gym this season while Churchill dropped a 58-53 decision to the Mustangs last Friday. Northville (9-3, 8-2 in the WLAA) has now won six of the last seven games and still has a firm grip on second place in the Western Division.

'You can't be any happier than I am about what we're accomplishing this season," Harrison said. "We just have to continue to go out every game and play hard. We want to keep our at-titudes in perspective and not get cocky. "This team seems to have the right amount of talent and desire to keep hanging in there.'

Harrison has said all along that this current Mustang team wins because each player knows his role. Don Norton and Mike Hilfinger do a lot of the scoring, but it's the unsung players like Paul Newitt, Gary Harper, Kirk Mor-rison, Steve Grant and Matt Hinds that deserve just as much credit.

"I know people get tired of hearing me talk about Newitt, but the guy is just an ideal player to have on a team," Harrison admitted. "What he lacks in natural ability, he more than makes up for in hustle and heart. He is all over the floor like a little water-bug, and you just can't realize how much trouble he causes other teams.

most of the year. A big push in either win. Morrison, Hinds and Grant have the first or second quarter gives the all improved and are becoming scoring team enough of a cushion to hold onto threats as well as Norton and Hilfthe rest of the way. ly manages to pull out the close ones. Against North, it was a 17-7 spurt in the second quarter that opened up a six point spread at intermission. The second half was evenly played, which didn't help the Raiders much because they never did gain much ground.

"The kids played good consistent basketball, and they wanted to play good in the new renovated facility. Harrison said. "I had classified (North Farmington) as one of the better teams in the league so I think a lot of credit should be handed to our kids."

Norton led a balanced Mustang attack with 19 points. Hilfinger added 12 while Morrison and Hinds each chipped in with 11. Hinds was the top rebounder. with 11.

The Churchill clash was the biggest game of the season to date. The Chargers were riding a five game winning streak and a win over Northville would pull them into a tie for second place in the division.

Again a strong second quarter put the Mustangs in command, and a steady fourth quarter helped secure the victory. Clinging to a one point lead heading into the fourth, Northville turn-ed back the comeback bid by outscoring Churchill 13-11 the rest of the way. "I was really concerned about this game, but the kids had a goal of keeping sole possession of second place and they did it." Harrison explained.

Churchill employed a triangle and two defense designed to stop Norton and Hilfinger, but Morrison and Hinds picked up the slack. Norton's 13 did lead all scorers, but Morrison and Hinds each contributed 12 valuable points. The big difference in the game though, was rebounding as the Chargers had just 23 boards to the Mustangs' 54.

Northville will host first place Farm-ington Harrison (10-0 in the WLAA) this Friday (February 7) in a battle between the top two teams in the Western Division. If the Mustangs entertain any thoughts of winning the division crown, a win over the high-flying Hawks is a must. The two teams met back in December and Harrison handed Northville its worst defeat of the season, 62- 🔮 47.

Mustangs tie Novi 86-86 for 2nd straight standoff

Get out the record books.

It seems very unlikely that the Northville tankers didn't at least tie a state record this past week - and the key word is tie. In a very interesting turn of events, the Mustangs and Novi swam to an 86-86 tie in a dual meet on January 28, giving Northville its second standoff in a row. Five days earlier, Livonia Churchill and the swimmers battled to an 86-all tie.

"Ho-Hum, just another tie," laughed Mustang Coach Keith Wright. "You can go many years without a tie, and we go out and have two in a row. If I was a betting man, I'd go out and play the lottery. and make sure to use the number 86."

"I've never heard of a team having two ties in row," added Novi Coach Larry Tehan.

Luckily, Northville broke the streak with a very convincing 55-28 trouncing over Farmington Harrison in a Western Lakes confrontation last Thursday. For the season, the Mustangs' record now stands at 3-3-2, 3-1-1 in the WLAA.

The Novi meet was a friendly, nonleague match-up that turned into an exciting, well-balanced affair. Northville had the lead for most of the race, but the Wildcats tied it up twice, the second time coming at the end of the competition.

"It's a pleasure to swim against (Teahan) and his team," Wright said. "It was real good competition and they have a very good program. I think this was the beginning of a very good rivalry.

Swimming

strong everywhere else. It was give and take the whole way.

The Mustang 200-yard medley relay team of Jeff Bainbridge, Eric Leiendecker, Doug Buell and Craig Smith took top honors in the opening event with a 1:49.1. Novi's team of Jeff Cohen, Matt Lorenz, Dave Bolton and Tim McBride finished next (1:52.9), but Northville took a third and the lead.

The Wildcat's super-freshman Jon Cohen won the 200 freestyle (1:49.6) and teammate Eric Sarlund placed third (1:56.43), but the Mustangs managed a second and clung to a 16-14 advantage at that point. The 200 IM saw Buell pull away for a six second victory (2:14.9) over Novi's Jeff Cohen and Lorenz to make it 25-21.

Bainbridge captured a first in the 50 free (23.6), six-tenths of a second ahead of the Wildcat's second place finisher Steve Warthman to increase the lead to eight, but Novi got it all back in the next event. The more experienced Wildcat divers went 1-2-4 to pull into a 39-39 tie with Brian Paul's 198.8 was good for first

But Northville responded with a 1-3-4 finish in the 100 butterfly to outscore Novi 11-5 in the event and go back in time of 1:05.3. Jeff Cohen's first in the 100 breaststroke (1:08.4) and a third and fourth by Dave Suchyta and Brad Fraley respectively made it an 80-79 spread heading into the final race.

The last two wins followed the same script the Mustangs have been pursuing

"We knew we had to go 1-3 to win and, if we just went first, it would be a tie," Teahan explained. "I debated switching our relays around and go for the win, but it would have been a gamble. I didn't want to weaken our A team so much that they couldn't win the race so I decided to leave it the way we had planned.'

The Wildcats did take first place, but the Mustangs assured the tie by placing second and third. The winning team of Warthman, Bolton, Sarlund and Jon Cohen (3:30.0) tallied eight more Novi points, but the six Northville ac-cumulated made it 86-86.

The Harrison meet wasn't nearly as close, but it had two things going for it: it was the Mustangs first home meet of the season and it was a key WLAA confrontation. Almost outshadowing Northville's performance was the refurbished pool which sports an impressive new electrical timing system.

"The new timing system makes all the difference in the world," Wright said. "Now we have all the splits at our disposal and it's posted so the spec-tators can see to times. It's really great and adds a whole new dimension.'

Both teams were missing key swimmers due to the flu and as a result both coaches weren't sure what to expect. It was assumed that Novi would have a leg up in diving and the long distance events while Northville had the edge in the sprint races, but nobody was sure.

"(Wright) thought we'd beat them and I thought they would beat us," Teahan said. "We knew we had a chance to hit them hard in the diving and long distances, but they are very front, 50-44. Doug Buell's winning time was (56.6); second went to Lorenz (106.6).

The next race - the 100 freestyle was a key juncture and Warthman rose to the occasion to steal a first from Northville (52.3) and keep the Wildcats close. In the 500 freestyle, Novi swept the top two spots, as expected, with Jon Cohen in first (4:51.5) and Sarlund next (5:13.1), and the Mustang lead was just

The Mustangs bombed the Hawks by taking eight of 11 firsts. Doug Buell won the 200 IM (2:10.8) and the 100 butterfly (55.8) and was a member of the winning medley relay team along with Leiendecker, Bainbridge and Smith (1:49.1).

Darius Mikalonis was also a triplewinner with a 1:54.4 in the 200 freestyle, a 50.7 in the 100 freestyle (just four-tenths of a second off the school record), and as part of the 400 freestyle relay team (3:39.0). Bainbridge took the 50 freestyle (23.2) and the 100 backstroke (58.5) to round out the firsts.

of them.' Northville edged Belleville 110.45-108.05 on January 27 and then came back with a convincing 108.85-99.2 WLAA victory at Western last Wednesday. Actually, the Mustang team scores were a little down from the squad's top tally of 111.05 set two weeks ago, but Charniga is still delighted.

"We weren't as sharp against Walled Lake Western and our floor (exercise) scores were a little low but I can't complain about two wins.

"I thought it would be a rebuilding year but we've come through. Each time I see improvement."

Against Belleville, Northville fell behind by a half point following the vault, but pulled ahead by winning the next three events as a team.

Leading the way was freshman Wendy Beach who recorded top four finishes in all the events, including firsts in two. Beach won the balance beam with a score of 8.15, won the floor exercise with an 8.1 and placed second in the uneven bars (7.3) and fourth in the vault (7.15).

Another freshman, Yvonne Beebe, was right behind Beach with a second in the beam (7.85), a third in the floor (7.45) and a pair of fourths in the vault (7.15) and the bars (6.85).

Tanya Hickman and Angie Miller also performed well. Hickman placed third in the vault (7.2) and the bars (7.0), and grabbed fourths in both the beam (7.05) and the floor (7.2). Miller's 7.05 was good for fifth in the vault.

Other impressive performances were recorded by Theresa Gatti and Donna and Patti Dunnabeck. Gatti scored a 4.5 in her first try at the beam while the Dunnabeck sisters compiled a 5.35 and a 5.2 respectively in their first attempts in the floor exercise.

A talented Walled Lake Western gymnast took first place in all four events but got little help from her teammates as the Mustangs took a majority of the remaining spots for the nine point win.

In the vault, Hickman's 7.7 tied for second and Beebe's 7.3 was good for fourth. But Charniga was pleasantly surprised where sophomore Shelly Steinhebel scored a 6.05 in her first vault attempt ever in competition.

Hickman took second in the uneven bars (7.2) and was followed closely by Beach (7.15) and Beebe (7.05). Beach then came back with a fine 7.95 in the beam but was edged out for first by five-tenths. Hickman was third with a 7.2 and Gatti raised her score more than a point (5.6) in her second try in the event. Beach grabbed another second in the floor exercise (7.7) while Stienhebel's 6.05 was her highest score this season.

Now 1-1 in WLAA Gymnasts even record with wins has come of age.

"All the judges are different, and they were tougher this time around," she said.

Miller to race in Dome

Northville resident Dwayne Miller will be one of 90 competitors at Mickey Thompson's Off-Road Grand Prix this weekend at the Silverdome

Miller, 16, will compete in the fourwheel ATV Class, which is one of the six separate competition classes. In all, the spectators will see 17 races in the second round of this nine-city series.

The family-oriented program of racing will take place on February 8 at 7 p.m. over a specially contructed course set up on the floor of the Silverdome, complete with ad-justable steel ramps and a rugged terrain.

Miller is one of 16 competitors from the state of Michigan.

Mandy Olgren's spike hits the net against Livonia Franklin

Northville spikers hit slump, fall to Western and Franklin

It was a week Northville Volleybali Coach Steve McDonald would just as soon forget about, but the task of figuring out what went wrong and what corrections must be made will likely keep it fresh in his mind for quite a while.

After jumping off to a good start, the spikers have hit a slump. Coming off three straight wins, and four in the last five outings, the Mustangs lost to Walled Lake Western 6-15, 9-15 and Livonia Franklin 9-15, 1-15. But it wasn't just the losses, it was the way Northville was trounced in both, that has McDonald worried.

"We're just gonna have to go back to the basics and try to figure out why we were playing so poor," McDonald said. 'There isn't just one thing we can pinpoint, it was a lot of little things, like communicating, that we just weren't doing."

Against Western, Northville showed streaks of brilliance, but it was the lapses in between that ultimately decided the Western Lakes Activity Associa-tion show-down. After scoring the first point, the Mustangs gave up eight straight and found themselves in an early hole. Some good up front play by Tricia Ducker and Robin Strunk helped Northville claw the score back to 6-9, but the powerful Warriors (11-1, 8-0 in WLAA) then reeled off six unanswered points to take the first game.

Game two was close most of the way. With the Musatngs clinging to a 7-5 advantage, Western scored 10 to Northville's 2 the rest of the way to close out the match.

"I didn't think we played all that bad against Western, but there wasn't any spark," McDonald said. "We played well in spurts and you can't do that against a good team like (Western). "We had problems on offense and free-balled a lot back to them and gave them too many opportunities — they beat us at the net."

Lisa Cipicchio, Strunk and Dawn Kutcher were all a perfect 6-of-6 in serving, but the Mustangs as a team were a rather mediocre 26-of-34 - well below the season average. Up front, Frellick had 11 hits and two kills to lead Nor-

If the loss to Western was disappoin-ting, then the setback against Franklin was disastrous. It was by far the Mustangs' worse performance of the season, and the 1-15 blow-out in the second game was the nails in the coffin. "As a group, we came out flat, in-

On January 29, the first ever Ford the Jaycees' co-chairperson of the pro-Field ice rink was open and ready for area skaters. The 90-by-140 foot rink became reality because of a combined effort by the Northville Jaycees, Recreation Center and fire department.

6-C-THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-Wednesday, February 5, 1986

Grapplers fade in upper weights

The Mustang wresting team came back down to earth last week by dropping a pair after winning five of seven dual meets since the new year.

The 48-21 setback to Brighton on January 28 and the 44-30 defeat at Plymouth Canton on January 30 were almost carbon-copy meets. Northville managed to stay very close against both these teams up to the 167-pound match. But in both cases, the Mustangs (5-10, 2-6 in the WLAA) fell apart in the later weight divisions which proved to be the big difference.

The undermanned Mustangs won four of the first nine matches against KVC powerhouse Brighton to pull within three points after the 155 match. But four straight losses, all by pins, added up to another loss. "(Brighton's) last four wrestlers

"(Brighton's) last four wrestlers were very tough and we got pinned by all of them," Townsley said. "It was very interesting up until that point though."

Sophomore Keith Graham notched Northville's first win of the day by pinning the Bulldog's Damon Grever at 2:30 in the 105 contest and Paul Maliszewski followed it up by pinning Bob Lage in the 128 bout in just 1:21. After losses at 132 and 138, Dana

After losses at 132 and 138, Dana Letarte and Ken Kehoe strung together Mustang victories in the next two and Brighton's lead was just 24-21. Letarte came from behind to pin tough Steve DeLuca at 3:52 of the 145 match and Kehoe decisioned Bill O'Donnell 10-5 at 155 to record the last Northville win.

155 to record the last Northville win. Injuries are cropping up for the Mustangs and the 167-pound division has been the hardest hit. Jason Lazar is out with an elbow injury and John

McRae is sidelined with shoulder problems which means that Townsley was forced to go with the third stringer, who is normally on the junior varsity is normally on the junior varsity. Against Canton, the Mustangs did win in one of the upper weight divisions, but it was too late for it to make any difference in the score. Senior Tim Millen recorded a pin over Jim Crews at 3:11 in the 198 bout but that was about all Townsley was hoping for anyway.

"We have a lot of injuries in the upper divisions and we're replacing inexperienced wrestlers, so we really didn't expect to win in those matches, but we did fight hard." Townsley said.

did fight hard," Townsley said. Other Northville wins included freshman Andy Frey at 112, sophomore John Frisbee at 112 and Kehoe at 155. All three were by pins, with Kehoe's coming after just 32 seconds. But the big surprise was the outstanding job Glen Kilgore came up with as a replacement at 138. With regular Tony Lawrence out with a minor back problem, Kilgore came in pinned Stu Richeson in 4:04. Ironically, Kilgore usually wrestles for the Mustang junior varsity. "This one was also interesting up un-

"This one was also interesting up until the last four or five matches," Townsley pointed out. "We didn't win, but we're doing all right. Most of our first year wrestlers have had the advantage of almost a whole season of experience, and they are not the All-American pin anymore — they all have improved a lot."

This Saturday, the grapplers travel to Westland John Glenn for the Western Lakes Athletic Association Conference Meet.

Robert Pado, a senior at Northville High School and a golf caddie at Meadowbrook Country Club, has been awarded a Chick Evans college scholarship along with 27 other outstanding Michigan caddies.

The scholarship, part of the national Evans Scholar program, is awarded on a competitive basis considering caddie record, academic standing in high school and the need for financial aid. Support for the Evans program, which currently aids over 860 scholars, comes from the contributions of more than 100,000 golfers, including more than 15,000 in Michigan. Pado, who resides at 39900 Sunbury in Northville, is one of 14 Michigan students who will attend the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor while another 14 will enroll at Michigan State University in East Lansing. Each Evans grant covers full tuition and housing in the Evans Chapter House on campus. The coeducational chapters at MSU and Michigan are two of the 14 houses operated by the Evans program in the midwest.
