City earmarks grant monies for parking

Because of the Monday Holiday Law, Northville City Council has delayed its second meeting of the month to 8 p.m. Monday, February 24, when it is scheduled to hold a rehearing on use of Oakland County Block Grant Funds.

A hearing on Wayne County CDBG Funds was held at the council's February 3 meeting.

Because the city lies in both Wayne and Oakland counties, it may apply for funds from both counties. While agreeing that making two applications is added paperwork, City Manager Steve Walters commented, "it's worth it."

At the February 3 hearing $61,800 in 1986 CDBG funds was approved for the library debt retirement and $10,200 was allocated for improvement of downtown parking facilities.

Walters noted that expected Federal Regulation changes did not occur that would have made the library ineligible for block grant funds and recommended that the 1985 funds remaining and the 1986 funds be re-allocated to the city's original priorities.

The retirement of the public library addition bonds, a CDBG project since the 1978 grant year, will be completed with the allocation of a portion of the 1986 funds, Walters said.

Therefore, he recommended the remaining funds be used for phase II of the downtown development (parking facilities).

Walters said he was making the request that council consider allocating the portion of the 1986 CD Block Grant Funds from Wayne County not required to complete the retirement of the library addition bonds to development of construction plans for parking expansion within the Downtown Development District.

His report noted that the city had allocated approximately $5,500 in 1984 CDBG Funds and $16,600 in 1985 CDBG Funds for general downtown development purposes. With the addition of the $8,000 available beyond the library bond requirements for 1986 funds, the DDA would have available a total of $30,000 to proceed immediately with developing preliminary construction plans for parking expansion within the Downtown Development District.

"This need has become critical because of apparent delays in the development of the bowling alley property project, which was anticipated to be a major funding source for the initial parking expansion plans in the district," he reported to council.

If construction is delayed on that development, he said, he felt the city must find other means of financing the construction of parking in the district.

Reeling in a big one

Northville Township Police Sgt. John Sherman dons scuba gear to bring a vehicle to shore after the car ended up in Wilcox Lake following a high-speed chase Monday night. No one was injured in the incident, which began when a Westland area man attempted to elude Northville Township officers after being clocked by radar at a high rate of speed. The car was lifted out of five feet of water; the suspect spent the night in the Northville Township lockup. See story, page 8. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Committee to meet fut with united aims

By ANITA CRONE

Northville city, township and school district, as well as a smattering of citizens, have decided to meet the future head on.

More importantly, a group of about 20 is ready and waiting for whatever the future holds — with plans, ideas and a cooperative spirit.

The Future Needs Committee held its second meeting Monday and looked toward what steps it can take to be ready for an expected population surge in Northville Township and what effect the growth will have on existing city and township services.

"We need a network of ideas, we need solutions and we need to know what price tag those ideas have," said township trustee James Nowka, the chairman of the group.

"Instead of focusing on what kind of development is planned, we need to look at how to service the residents or businesses that will locate here," added Bruno Scacchitti, township business manager.

Already, new development has made an impact, said township police chief Kenneth Hardesty. "As your population increases, the number of crimes also increases."

Capt. Philip Presnell of the township police force noted the addition of the Meijer's has already made an increase in the number of calls the department handles.

"They have brought benefits to the community," Presnell said, "but they have also added to an increase in crime. Some of the situations we have handled out there have not been just simple shoplifting and the people who have been apprehended have not been petty criminals by any means."

When questioned as to whether the police department thought it was better to have more people or new direction, Hardesty responded with an affirmative to both.

"The officers we have are breaking their backs to do a good job, but we are behind in space and we are behind in manpower," he added.

Township fire chief Robert Toms echoed the sentiment with a thinly veiled request for at least one additional facility as well as a full-time paid department.

"We're up to about 200 runs a year over the last two years," Toms said. "I don't think that number is going to decrease if the population increases."

Toms noted that an increase in building will also mean an increase in work for the volunteer department.

"We need a full-time fire inspector to ensure companies and buildings meet fire regulations," Toms said, adding that additional equipment also was becoming a priority.

"The youngest pumper we have was made in 1970. Eventually, we're going to have to replace some of the older pumps."

Police nab Orin thief

A specific method of operation used by the suspect in the Orin jewelry store robbery in October, 1984, provided a lead for Northville Police Officer Dave Fendelet. After nearly 16 months of investigation, Fendelet got lucky, and the suspect has been arrested and charged with the crime.

Back on October 7, 1984, $7,695 worth of miscellaneous jewelry was stolen from Orin Jewelers at 101 East Main by a method called "smash and grab." At the scene, a good set of latent prints was left behind and ever since, Fendelet has been checking the prints with those of suspects arrested for similar crimes.

Through information from other jurisdictions, Fendelet learned that a ring of "smash and grab" thieves was working out of Detroit. So, everytime he noticed a similar method of operation by a Detroit resident on the teletype, he obtained the arrest cards (with the finger prints) of the suspects. He then took both the arrest cards and the latent from the Orin robbery to the lab technicians at the Northville State Police Post for scientific matching.

Earlier this year, another police department arrested Charlton Tarrant, 19, of Detroit for a similar robbery and Tarrant's prints scientifically matched those taken from the Orin scene. Tarrant was arrested February 5 and charged with breaking and entering and is currently being held at the Oakland County Jail, unable to post a $10,000 bond.

"I must have checked 20 or 30 prints since the crime, and we got lucky," Fendelet said.

Township police ride herd on walkaways at hospital

After months of promising that, if nothing were done toward solving the problems with walkaways from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, it would take matters into its own hands, Northville Township has done just that.

Beginning yesterday, and continuing until a more permanent solution can be discovered, the township's large, 4-wheel drive Bronco, staffed by reserve police officers on a volunteer basis, will be parked across the street from the main entrance to the hospital during daylight hours.

Initially, the Bronco will be staffed with a police officer who is on duty between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

"We've got to do something that will ensure the safety and peace of mind of the residents living near the hospital," said Supervisor Susan Heintz. "These people are scared to death. The Department of Mental Health seemed very resistant to any additional fencing."

she added. "But that's been their position right along."

State Representative Gerald Law said he is not convinced there really is a problem with putting additional fencing around the hospital grounds, other than "a personal problem" with the director of the state Mental Health Department.

"The director doesn't want a fence there, even though his own staff people have told him that the people inside the grounds don't know whether there's a fence there or not," Law said.

Law added there are 14 security people who are responsible for patrolling the grounds to ensure patients remain on the premises. He added there are currently 12 security people on the state payroll to patrol the almost vacant property on Five Mile and Sheldon roads which formerly housed the Plymouth Center.

"If you think about it, it seems odd there are almost as many security people patrolling a vacant facility as there are for a facility that houses 1,100 people," Law said.

In a related development, bids for a 6-foot high, chain-link fence, similar to the fencing installed last year, meeting with the fence on Haggerty Road and continuing parallel to Seven Mile Road toward the main entrance are being solicited by the state of Michigan.

Bids are requested to be presented by February 26.

The addition is expected to increase the amount of fencing on the property by about one-quarter mile.

Even with the new fencing, however, the facility would still not be fully enclosed.

"What we have tried to do is increase the fencing in an area where the visual monitoring capacity of our system is impaired," Thomas DeLoach, the in-

Enrollment remains static

Though housing construction is moving forward at a fast and furious pace in Northville and its sister community Novi, school officials here are predicting enrollment will remain static for the next several years.

Enrollment figures outlined for the board of education Monday night showed a decline of 17 students between the Fourth Friday and January 17.

School Superintendent George Bell said that while the enrollment decrease between the start of the school year and second semester usually exceeds this year's figure, the 17-student decline indicates that Northville is not experiencing the "baby bubble" growth anticipated.

Enrollment figures presented to the board show 3,254 students enrolled in grades K-12 (including special education) on the Fourth Friday. Current district-wide enrollment is 3,237.

Declines have occurred at the kindergarten level as well as grades 1, 5, 6, and 9-12. The high school has experienced the greatest decline in enrollment since the start of the school year with 24 fewer students currently attending classes.

Student population has increased in grades 7 and 8 with five additional students currently enrolled and grades 2-4 with nine more students.

"We have experienced a great deal of transiency," Bell told board members

All interested area working women are invited to attend the meeting and learn more about the advantages of membership in the American Business Women's Association (ABWA). Efforts are currently under way to establish an ABWA chapter for working women in the Novi, Northville and Farmington areas.

Seating and parking are limited, so interested individuals are urged to call early to make reservations. For more information or to make reservations call Bettie Johnson at 478-5048.

Correction

The picture on page 1 of last week's Northville Record showing firefighters placing a final coat of water on the new Ford Field Ice Skating Rink wrongly identified the help as being from the township fire department. Actually, the city fire department has been working with the Northville Jaycees on the project. The Record regrets the error.

Kevin Hartshorne, Jaycee chairperson for the project, reports that the Jaycees also had an assist in clearing snow from the ice rink Monday from Black's Hardware. Usually, he said, the Jaycees have been clearing the ice with their snow blowers, but last weekend's snow had to be cleared with heavier equipment.

Hartshorne anticipated that supervised open skating, slated for Mondays and Wednesdays from 6-9:30 p.m., would be initiated Monday night.

Gloria Teeter demonstrates hand spinning art

Weaver to discuss hand crafts

When Gloria Teeter took her first lessons in hand spinning and weaving in 1968 from Kate Edgerton in Northville, little could she have realized her introduction to skills of the past would lead to her becoming a teacher and judge as well as a business person.

Kate Edgerton taught spinning, weaving and ceramics at her red studio-home on Randolph for many years. Two years after taking her first lessons there, Gloria Teeter and her husband John bought the Edgerton studio-home.

In addition to potter's wheels, the home held spinning wheels and floor looms.

Gloria Teeter has taken classes at Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association and at Schoolcraft College, becoming a teacher herself in 1973.

The Teeters eventually expanded their interest in hand crafts into a full-fledged business, Traditional Handcrafts, located at 154 Mary Alexander Court. Gloria Teeter still teaches beginning floor loom weaving classes in her house. At Traditional Handcrafts, intermediate and advanced workshops in spinning, weaving and natural dyeing are taught.

She will share her interest in these arts when she speaks in an "Introduction to Spinning and Weaving" in the February Second Thursday Lecture Series sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission this week.

Teeter has participated in workshops all over the United States, both teaching and judging weaving at such events. She notes that she has been a judge on many juries for various Michigan Weaving Guild sales.

She explains that her main interest in weaving is clothing and functional pieces although she also teaches spinning.

In her dyeing workshops, students learn how to dye wool, cotton and silk used in making clothing.

Teeter is a founding member of the Mill Race Weavers' Guild which has its headquarters in the weavers' cottage in Mill Race Historical Village.

She also belongs to the Handweavers' Guild of America, Michigan Weavers' Guild, Michigan Handspinners' Guild, and Michigan League of Handweavers.

The Teeters still keep in touch with Kate Edgerton who moved east with her daughter Linda when the Teeters bought the Randolph studio. Kate Edgerton, now in her 80s, lives in Norwich, Connecticut, and "teaches on a one to one basis," Gloria Teeter reports.

Gloria Teeter's "Introduction to Spinning and Weaving" program in the Second Thursday Lecture Series sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission will be given at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Northville City Hall. Donation is $2.

Water tower controls approved

As Northville City Council approved purchase of new water tower/reservoir controls at a cost of $10,315 at its February 3 meeting, DPW superintendent Ted Mapes noted that the improvements "should be good for the next 20 years."

On his recommendation, council unanimously approved the bid of Hamlett Engineering Sales Company of Farmington Hills for $10,315 with work to be completed within 56 days after approval.

The four bids received ranged from $14,750 to $8,478; however, Mapes noted that the low bid of $8,478 from H.V. Burton Company of Livonia did not include installation. The company, he said, also did not provide a list of other cities in the state using their equipment, as requested.

In his report citing the need for the new controls, Mapes stated that the unavailability of parts for the present system necessitated getting the new controls.

The city undertook a complete water system rebuilding project in 1957. At that time the water tower was built and the reservoir was reconstructed. A water pumping system that pumps the water from the underground reservoir to the elevated water tower was part of the installation.

The program was to bring the system up to date for 20 years. Until this past year, Mapes noted, the system had worked satisfactorily. Recently, however, the DPW had had problems with the aging equipment.

Pay rate adjustment sought

Both the Northville Clerical Employees Association and the Northville City D.P.W. Employees Chapter of Local 2720, Michigan Council 25, AFSCME, AFL-CIO, have requested reopening of negotiations to adjust pay rates, city manager Steve Walters reported to city council February 3.

The requests came, both groups stated, because the police officers recently received an adjustment to their pay based upon a "me too" clause in their contract, due to wage increases received by the police command officers in excess of settlements reached with the police officers.

"It is our position that not only was the police command officers salary settlements in excess of that reached with police officers, but also with our members," both the D.P.W. union and the clerical association requests to reopen contracts stated.

Walters said he had met with the clerical workers and will have a complete report for council at its February 24 meeting.

The second council session of the month is a week later than usual because next Monday, February 17, is observed officially as Washington's birthday and city offices will be closed.

State cleans up with auto exhaust testing program

By ANITA CRONE

Approximately two million car owners in Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties are getting extra instructions this year with their license plate renewal applications: notices that their vehicles are subject to emission testing.

The test, which takes about five minutes if the car is properly warmed up, is designed to test the amount of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons being released into the atmosphere through an automobile's exhaust system.

The testing program was mandated by the federal Environmental Protection Agency when tests conducted in the late 1970s showed metropolitan Detroit's air quality levels for ozone and carbon monoxide exceeded federal standards.

"In a perfect world, everybody would need to undergo the test," said Rodger James, director of Michigan's auto exhaust testing program. "Unfortunately, we don't live in a perfect world and the area where the federal government mandated changes was the tri-county area."

The federal government had promised to withhold permits and funding for construction projects unless the state implemented the testing program.

James added that since the program went into effect January 1, no permits and no funds have been withheld.

Originally, James said, the state expected 1,500 facilities would be licensed to perform the emission testing. However, as of February 8, only 1,150 service areas had received their licensing.

"There was some concern last summer that there weren't enough facilities

"In a perfect world, everybody would need to undergo the test."

— Rodger James,
director of auto exhaust testing to perform the testing we anticipated we would need," James said. "That problem has been resolved, and we anticipate we will have the required number of testing places by spring."

Testing facilities must already be licensed by the state of Michigan before they are eligible for auto emission testing (AET) licensing. There is a $50 charge for the license and the mechanics performing the actual tests must be tested by the state.

Individual facilities also must purchase the emission testing machine which runs about $7,000.

Although the state does not mandate the minimum cost of the test, James said there is a $10 maximum charge.

He added that he knew of only one facility — Crissman Cadillac in Birmingham — which offered the test for less than the maximum, although early in the program another testing facility advertised the emission test for $10 with a coupon.

"We had a chat with them and suggested that their advertising was misleading and they have since withdrawn the coupon offer," James said.

While it was anticipated that most vehicles tested would pass the test, for those which don't, there is a $65 limit this year (that limit is expected to rise) which a customer may be charged for repairs.

If repairs to the car exceed the limit, the customer may opt for a "low emission tune-up", which, when completed, may serve as a waiver for the vehicle.

All vehicles more than one year but less than nine years old, excepting diesel or electric powered vehicles, motorcycles or mopeds or which weigh more than 8,500 pounds must be tested under state requirements.

Cars or light trucks owned by Medicaid or general assistance recipients do not need to be tested.

While the testing program is scheduled to expire December 31, 1987, James said he had no indication whether the legislature would extend the program or the testing procedure to other counties.

James said that there have been no records tabulated yet as to how many vehicles have been tested to date or what percentage have passed the test.

"There is a cassette that is attached to the machine which records that data. We will be tabulating that information and it should be available in April," he said.

It's difficult to fail car emissions exam unless you cheat

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following article was written by Record reporter Anita Crone who took her 1983 automobile through four local emission stations to research the article. Yes, her Japanese-made Dodge Colt with more than 60,000 miles on the odometer passed all four inspections.

Michigan's Auto Exhaust Testing (AET) program is almost like taking a pass-fail test. Your car either passes and you can purchase a license plate, or it fails and you may have to spend up to $65 for a low emission tune-up.

And like taking a pass-fail exam, there can be some variation in the results.

Even though each machine which performs the test must be calibrated weekly, and every mechanic performing the test has been certified by the state, not every result will be the same, even though the same car is tested by the same machine at the same location.

As for taking the car to more than one AET facility, there is no guarantee that even one of the two-prong test results will match results taken earlier.

"There are a lot of variables," agrees Tom Morrison, service manager at Novi-Motive Inc. in Northville. "Mostly the variation is based on how warm the car is."

Morrison said the variation is usually not enough to change the results.

Rick Asher, manager of Asher's Union 76 on Seven Mile Road in Northville, has discovered another method of varying the test results — controlling the way the accelerator is released.

"I was testing the machine on my brother's car," Asher explains, and after I revved the engine, I quickly lifted my foot off the accelerator. The car, which was relatively new, failed. We did the test again, and this time I was more careful about lifting my foot. The car passed."

The test takes about 30 seconds, and is now mandated by law for vehicles built after 1976 and registered in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

The mechanic performing the test inputs the make of the car, vehicle identification number and the date of the test into the testing machine. Then, he inserts a probe into the vehicle's tail pipe and attaches a clamp to an engine hose. After revving the engine for about 30 seconds, the mechanic waits for the machine to spill out the results.

Most cars pass. For those that fail, however, relief can be as easy as a carburetor or timing adjustment. Repairs, by law, cannot cost more than $65. They must be done by a certified mechanic at a state-registered automotive repair facility.

While the state has not yet compiled figures on the success rate of vehicles being tested, area AET facilities say the failure rate is averaging right around 15 percent.

"The state has zeroed in on tampering. Unless a car has been tampered with, it should be able to pass the test. The standards are very liberal," says Jim Davis, owner of Eight and Taft Auto Service in Northville. "Most cars which fail probably do so because of age," Davis said.

Cars cannot emit more than 220 parts per million of hydrocarbons and 1.20 percent of their total emissions cannot be carbon monoxide.

While the AET program is scheduled to expire December 31, 1987, unless renewed by the Legislature, none of the service station owners surveyed expressed any reluctance about becoming AET stations.

"We offer service to our customers and we wanted to be able to serve them better," said Novi-Motive's Morrison. "How would it look if we did a carb adjustment, then the customer took his car to a testing station down the street and the car failed the exhaust test," Morrison asked.

That's one of the reasons Novi-Motive, Eight and Taft Auto Service, Auto-Wize and Asher's all purchased diagnostic machines capable of doing more than just exhaust testing.

"This machine has saved us time in diagnosing some problems," said C.D. Ullstrom, general manager of Auto-Wize in Northville. The Hamilton machine cost $14,500.

Schoolcraft College offers new vocational programs

Four new academic programs — three involving high technology — will be added to the Schoolcraft College curriculum this year.

"These are the areas where there will be employment opportunity. They will contribute to the economic stability of the state," said Conway Jeffress, vice president for instruction.

Most can share equipment used in other programs, Jeffress added.

"We go through BLS (Bureau of Labor Statistics) and MESC (Michigan Employment Security Commission) data," added Dr. Louis Reibling, dean of instruction, as he outlined the administration's two years of program planning.

New programs all resulting in two-year associate degrees, will be:

- Computer Aided Design (CAD) — 150 students expected. Graduates work in the drafting and architectural fields. In 63 credit hours, they study three-dimensional drawings and computer graphics in addition to academic basics (25 hours). State funds were used to train faculty and purchase computers.

- Computer Aided Drafting — 150 students expected, with a possible doubling in a year. Graduates work in industrial drafting as detailers and tool layout drafters.

The 62-credit hour program covers preparation of computer drawings for mechanical assemblies, sub-assemblies, detail drawings and product drawings.

Assistant dean Fernon Feenstra called the instructors — Leo M. Bigos and Gilbert de Avila — "the most qualified people in the state" after 14 weeks of paid training at Cadillac Motors.

- Computer Service Technician — about 40 expected. Graduates perform maintenance and repair on computer systems, microcomputers, voltmeters and oscilloscopes. In their final semester, Feenstra said, students will be assigned to the college computer laboratory as paid, "on-call" interns.

Instructor will be Jerry Wale.

- Culinary Management — about 50 expected. The explosion of chain restaurants has created a demand for people who can manage kitchens, schedule personnel, purchase, take inventory, implement cost controls and formulate menus, according to faculty member Kevin Gawronski.

Michigan State University has a four-year program, but Gawronski said Schoolcraft's offering "condenses it and gives a better opportunity to get in to the market place." Corporate management training programs are much shorter, he said.

Students will learn about the relationship of food and culture as well as how to deal with drunken patrons. Present culinary arts faculty and facilities will be used.

The three high-technology programs will be offered in fall. The culinary management program will start spring semester.

Preschool classes slated March 1

New Morning School's second series of Saturday special interest classes is slated to begin March 1.

The four-week classes will meet from 9 a.m. to noon. Classes are available for children ages 3½ to 12 years. Each class fee is $26 plus a small materials fee. Director Elaine Yagiela is looking for a parent to assist in Cooking and Crafts. The volunteer parent's child would attend class free.

Class offerings include:

- Cooking and Crafts for 3½ to 6 year olds: By popular demand this class will again be offered for the youngest students. Children will prepare nutritious snacks using graphic recipe cards. Craft activities will be included. The students will prepare and serve breakfast for their parents during the last class.

- Dinosaurs for 5-8 year olds: Also by popular demand the school will offer this class one more time for dinosaur enthusiasts in the community. Children will measure dinosaurs, make books about prehistoric animals and make papier-mache models.

- Ceramics for 7-12 year olds: This is a new class for the older student interested in making ceramic models. Students will pour their own molds, clean the model and paint with glazes. Easter models will be included.

New Morning also is enrolling for one weekday class to begin Tuesday, March 11. Easter Crafts is for 3 to 6 year olds and will meet from 12:30-2:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Fridays from March 11-25. Easter and spring crafts will include egg dyeing, bunny pillows and planting flower seeds. Easter cooking projects will be included.

The school has set a schedule of special interest classes to be offered through June. For a class brochure, call 420-3331.

Registrations are accepted on a "first come-first serve" basis. A registration form will be mailed upon request or registration may be completed at school from 9:15 a.m. to 2:45 p.m. any day. For more information, call 420-3331.

Fall registrations also are being accepted for preschool classes, kindergarten (full or half day) and grades one through eight. Classes are individualized and offer "hands on" learning.

New Morning School is located in Plymouth Township at 14501 Haggerty Road.

Madonna offers health workshops

Three health-oriented workshops are available at Madonna College in Livonia.

"Holistic Health: Caring For Yourself" is scheduled to meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. February 20. This workshop is an introduction to holistic concepts for persons wanting to take an active role in promoting their own health and well-being. The fee is $15. Continuing Education Units are available.

"Therapeutic Touch: Touch Massage Techniques for Health Professionals" will deal with the use of touch-massage as a means of communication, therapy and stress reduction in a variety of settings: gerontology, patient care, mental health and pastoral care. It will meet from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. February 22. The fee is $40.

"How To Be a Health Care Consultant" will provide an opportunity to learn how to make the transition from practitioner to consultant. This workshop will meet from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, March 15. The fee is $35. Continuing Education Units are a nationally recognized form of measurement which may be used as evidence of increased performance capabilities and personal interest. One CEU equals 10 instructional hours.

For information or registration, contact the Continuing Education Office at 591-5188.

Madonna College is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia.

Alumni eligible for award

Nominations for Schoolcraft College's Distinguished Alumni Award are being accepted at the Institutional Advancement office at the college through Feb. 14.

Those eligible for the award must have earned a minimum of 30 credit hours at Schoolcraft College and have earned special distinction in public, private or volunteer endeavors.

Robbery thwarted

Robert Reed, 28, of Detroit and his sister Nadina Reed, 25, also of Detroit, were arrested by the Northville Police on February 3 at 3:20 p.m. for attempting to rob a Novi woman at gunpoint.

The victim stated that while walking through the parking lot of the Real Estate One office on Novi Road, a black male, medium build with a short beard told her to drop her purse and pulled a small gun from under his jacket. The suspect then slipped on the ice, losing his balance so the victim ran into the Real Estate One office.

The victim stated that the suspect then ran west along the north side of the building and the police were called immediately. Several seconds later, the victim reported that a full-sized green Chrysler drove by the front of the office with the suspect driving. She wrote down the license number as the vehicle drove southbound on Novi Road.

A car matching the description and license plate number was spotted by Northville Police on eastbound Eight Mile Road near Haggerty minutes later. The police stopped the car and Robert Reed and Nadina Reed, the two people in the auto, were arrested. A blue steel automatic gun was found inside a purse believed owned by Nadina Reed.

Both were transported back to the Northville Police station for questioning. Warrants were approved and the two suspects arraigned. Bond for Robert Reed was set at $50,000 and $15,000 for Nadine Reed.

A preliminary exam is set for February 13 at the 35th District Court. The two suspects were transported to the Oakland County Jail where they remain, unable to post bond.

A Plymouth man reported to police that a radar detector, valued at $300 was stolen from his unlocked 1986 Ford pickup on February 5 between 3 and 6 p.m.

The complainant stated that he was parked in front of a Northville house working on home improvements when the incident occurred.

An egg-shaped solid glass ball was used to break the right passenger window of a 1976 Chevrolet pickup owned by a Northville man and an AM-FM cassette deck, valued at $300, and a set of speakers, valued at $200, were then taken, according to the police report.

The incident happened on February 4 between 11 a.m. and 9 p.m. at city parking lot number one and damage was estimated at $50. The glass ball was left behind but the complainant handled it so no finger prints could be taken.

The General Sales Manager at McDonald Ford reported to police that sometime after 5 p.m. on February 6, a 1985 Ford Tempo, valued at $9000, was stolen from the dealership's lot.

The vehicle was brought to the dealership on January 30 by the owner, a Livonia woman, for repairs and was parked on the east side of the building.

Icy path

Icy road conditions were the cause of numerous accidents in both the city and township last week including this rollover late Friday morning on Northville Road. According to township police, the driver was northbound on Northville Road when her state-owned vehicle hit a slick spot in the roadway. The car spun across the road, into an embankment and rolled over before coming to a stop. The driver, a Detroit resident, was not injured. According to police, the car was traveling about 25 miles per hour at the time the incident occurred. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

School bus falls victim to icy road conditions

Last week's freezing rain wrought havoc to drivers throughout the community with three accidents reported between 7:45 and 8:15 a.m. February 4 on Crystal Lake Drive, township police note.

The first incident involved a Northville Public Schools bus headed eastbound on Crystal Lake at approximately 7:45 a.m.

According to the police report, the bus slid on ice and struck two parked cars near the intersection of Crystal Lake and Whiteman Court.

None of the students nor the driver was injured as a result of the accident. No violations were issued due to the icy road conditions.

Only 10 minutes after the bus incident, a driver heading east on Crystal Lake lost control of her vehicle on the icy road and struck the street sign at Althea Court.

At nearly the exact location, a driver headed eastbound on Crystal Lake at approximately 8:15 a.m. lost control of his vehicle and struck a car parked on a curb in the fire lane.

The driver told police he was traveling approximately 15 miles per hour at the time of the accident. No violations were issued.

In an attempt to curb the increasing incidence of snowblower thefts in the township, police are asking residents to keep their garage doors locked at all times.

Five snowblowers were reported stolen last week from township homes, police note. In each case the garage door was open at the time the incident occurred.

Items valued at $830 were stolen from a 1976 Ford pick-up parked at McDonald's on Five Mile sometime between 8 and 9 a.m., police report.

The complainant told police that unknown person(s) smashed the driver's side door to gain entry to his vehicle.

He further stated he did not see or hear anything unusual at the time the incident occurred.

Items stolen included two radar detectors with a total value of $550, two electric saws valued at $250 and six cassette tapes.

An alto saxophone valued at $784 was stolen from a bus stop on Scenic Harbor sometime between 8:36 and 8:40 a.m. February 7, township police report.

The 11-year-old complainant told police unknown person(s) stole his saxophone while he was waiting to be picked up for school.

He further stated he was playing about 12 feet from the instrument at the time the incident occurred.

Items valued at $490 were stolen from a 1983 Ford parked on Innsbrook, sometime between 10:15 p.m. February 6 and 7:55 p.m. February 7, police report.

Slight decline noted in district enrollment in explaining the fluctuating enrollment. He noted that elementary enrollment figures — particularly in the kindergarten ranks — sharply contrast with the numbers of senior high students. While only 195 kindergartners entered the system in September, "this year's senior class is expected to graduate 290 students in June."

"We've asked Michigan State University's Stamford system for projections for Northville," Bell said. "But I don't anticipate it will tell us much. We've done better by the seat of our pants."

The superintendent said that despite the increase in housing projected for the area, the school system is not likely to see a significant change in its student population.

Like Novi, the district is witnessing a boom in multiple housing (apartments and condominiums) which traditionally has not attracted families with school-age children.

Bell also said the market value of single-family homes currently under construction in the district is too high for young families with small children.

"Looking at the price level of new housing, we expect the students that come to us will be later elementary, middle school and high school kids," he said.

Should the district's student population take an unexpected turn upward, Bell said "there still is plenty of room for growth."

While some residents voiced concern about last year's closing of Cooke and Moraine at a time when housing construction was at its highest level in recent history, Bell said there is no need to look at reopening either facility.

"I wouldn't even seriously see a need to look at Moraine," he said. "We would be able to accommodate a baby bubble," Bell said. "In fact, we'd even have a buffer."

Patrol keeps watch on walkaways

formation officer for the state Department of Mental Health, said, noting that trees and shrubbery in the area make it difficult for the monitoring cameras to receive strong images.

In addition, DeLoach said three more safety officers have been added to the staff at the facility.

"With the additional fencing, as well as the increased number of safety officers, I think we have gone a long way toward solving the problem," DeLoach said, adding that additional plans are also being studied.

Among those is a strong effort to reduce the hospital's census to 700, an ideal DeLoach says is attainable within the next 18 to 24 months.

Heintz said she met Feb. 6 with a representative from the township's lobbyist's office and the state Department of Mental Health to discuss the situation at Northville.

Another type of fencing, this one an electronic sensing system, was also discussed at the Feb. 6 meeting, but Heintz indicated that suggestion also met with resistance from the Mental Health Department.

The latest walkaway occurred Jan. 29, when a patient being transferred from the main building to the new recreation facility left the hospital grounds on foot and headed down Marilyn Street.

New building is booming

Building permits totaling $8.2 million have been issued by the Northville Township Building Dept. for the month of January.

Included in the $8.2 million are 13 apartment buildings, encompassing 168 units at Harbor Village, two private single-family houses and expansion at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The January total is the second highest ever recorded by the Building Department, trailing $8.9 million in permits issued in May, 1985.

Community joins forces to meet future

The fire chief also had a solution. He said the township was "very near" to putting a .5 mill request for fire protection on the ballot.

"If the request gets on the ballot and passes, it will generate about $500,000 — construction of a fire station is about $400,000 and we can buy a pumper with the remaining money," he said.

While much of Monday's meeting dealt with township concerns, representatives from the school district and the city of Northville were not totally left out of the proceedings.

"The school district should be aware of anticipated growth," said Jay Dunkerley. "We can plan accordingly and we certainly want to be included in future meetings."

Dunkerley, who said he usually attends school board meetings, noted that he was representing Dr. George Bell, who was attending the Northville Board of Education meeting being held simultaneously.

Northville Mayor Paul Vernon said he recognized the importance of the city's participation in the meeting.

"While tonight's discussion may not have affected the city directly, the spirit of cooperation between the city and the township needs to be continued," Vernon said.

"The city and the township have common goals, it is necessary that we have a common planning body," he added.

Vernon said he saw the city's initial role as a passive one, but added he expected the city to take a more active position as issues affected the city more directly.

"Right now, because the city is pretty well developed, growth within the city limits is unlikely. But any growth in the township certainly will have an affect on businesses and city services," he added.

Nowka said he was pleased with the response to the initial open meeting, especially with the ideas generated.

"Right now, we're trying to establish the issues that will be facing us. Then, we'll begin looking at the solutions. The main idea is to help the community to be ready to face the future with a workable plan that will benefit the community at large," he said.

The next meeting of the Future Needs committee is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 25, in the Northville Township board meeting room.

For Ben Wharton, 15, and Dan Wharton, 10, winter fun began when snow first covered Hines Park before Christmas. In addition to going downhill on the toboggan runs at Hines park, winter sports enthusiasts can go cross country skiing at Maybury State Park on Eight Mile and ice skating starting this week at Ford Field in downtown Northville. Record photo by Steve Fecht.

Price elected NSSC president

Leon Price has been re-elected president of the Northville Senior Citizens' Club, which now boasts 153 paid members. Steve Cherne is the new first vice president. Others re-elected are Bob Walls, second vice president; Lucy Steeper, treasurer; and Madel Price, secretary.

Publicity chairperson Florence Orr reports that the club welcomes guests and new members. Yearly membership dues are $3 a person.

The club's next meeting will be a 6 p.m. potluck February 18 at First Presbyterian Church. Entertainment is planned.

Winter activities for Spinnaker Singles, a local Christian singles group, are highlighted with the appearance of Michael Wickett, a well known motivator, who will speak on "Keys to a Higher Quality of Life" at 7:30 p.m. February 28 at First Presbyterian Church, 200 East Main.

Many persons have attended Wickett's seminars on "Growth Through Goals" and gained a more positive approach to life and fulfillment of their professional goals, the singles group notes. For information about the Spinnakers call the hotline, 349-6474.

Harrison players win game, lose $150

The Farmington Harrison High School basketball squad traveled to Northville on February 7 for a basketball game with the Mustangs, and left several hours later with a 71-64 Western Lake Activities Association victory. But five members of the team also left without some possessions they came with — namely money and jewelry.

Sometime between 5:30 and 8:30 p.m. that night, while the Hawks were on the court battling it out with the Mustangs, unknown person(s) broke into five different lockers and got away with $150 worth of currency and a necklace, according to the Northville City Police report.

Three players had $10 taken from their lockers, another $20. A fifth player reported that a necklace, valued at $100, was missing from his locker as well. The door to the locker room was unlocked and several of the lockers in question did not have locks on them, leaving access to almost anyone.

The reporting officer noted that he observed the footprints of one individual in the snow leading out the south door of the locker room and into the school parking lot. The footprints are believed to be those of the suspect but no further evidence was found and there are no leads.

Northville High School Principal Dave Bolitho reported to police that the school district plans to reimburse the complainants involved as well as set up additional security measures to avoid any similar incidents.

THE MICHIGAN LOTTERY RECEIVES MANY QUESTIONS ON PRIZE PAYMENTS. THE FOLLOWING SUMMARY PROVIDES MANY OF THE ANSWERS:

Q. What percent of Lottery revenues are returned to players as prizes?

A. State law requires that as near as possible to 45 percent of gross Lottery sales be returned to players as prizes. For example, in Lotto, this means 25 percent for the jackpot, nine percent for the Second Prize pool and 11 percent for the Third Prize pool.

Q. Why are Michigan Lottery prizes paid in 20-year installments?

A. This method of payment for large prizes benefits all players by increasing the total prize money that can be awarded.

Q. Can you explain this benefit?

A. The Lottery invests approximately $550,000 of revenues for each $1 million to be awarded in a program similar to an annuity purchase. The combined principal and interest from this investment give the winner the entire $1 million in 20 years. The other $450,000 not needed for immediate full payment of a $1 million award then is used in the game as other prizes.

Q. Must winners pay taxes on prize amounts?

A. Michigan Lottery prizes are exempt from state and local taxes, but not from federal income tax. The Internal Revenue Service requires a 20 percent deduction from payment of all awards over $5,000. Total tax paid by any prize winner may be higher or lower depending on other income.

Q. Does this benefit winners of large prizes who receive annual payments instead of a lump sum?

A. Using a $1 million award as an example, present tax laws might cut this amount in half if it was all paid at one time, giving the winner only $500,000. Under the 20-year payment plan, a $1 million winner is paid $800,000 by the Lottery, $300,000 more.

Q. Do all Lottery states use this method of payment?

A. All lottery states do, for the same reasons.

Q. What if a winner dies before the 20-year payout period passes?

A. The Lottery ALWAYS pays out the full prize amount. The remainder of a prize is paid to the estate of a deceased winner. Payments also go to the estate of deceased winners of $1,000 a week for life prizes until the $1 million minimum has been collected.

Send your Lottery question to: Winner's Circle, Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

If your question is used, you will receive 50 free instant game tickets. This month's winner circle question comes from Lucky Fulton of Brohaman

2 area businessmen hope diversity will aid new party shop

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Two young businessmen from Warren decide they want to start their own pizza-beverage type-business. But they want to find the ideal location.

The eastern suburbs were immediately ruled out because one said, "There are a lot of cut throats in the area, and we were looking for a growing community that was a little quieter."

Through advice from friends, they started their search in the western suburbs. First was Novi, then Canton and Plymouth. The last stop was Northville. The two didn't need to look any farther — it was perfect.

All this happened in April of 1985 and on July 18 of that year, Steve Tolomei and Norm Taylor opened their business called "Discount Beverage and Party Store" in Northville.

"Northville is a nice growing area, and we liked the downtown atmosphere," Tolomei said. "It seems like the east side life is in the fast lane — but it's peaceful in Northville, and we thought it was the most promising area to start our first business."

Tolomei began working at a party store-pizzeria at age 16. After 10 years in the business, he was a store manager but decided it was time to give it a shot on his own.

Taylor in the meantime was a member of a top-40 rock band and his dealings with promoters and contracts gave him a good background into the business end of it.

Prior to the acquisition, the store at 116 Dunlap Street was strictly a beverage retail outlet, but the two, new 27-year-old owners planned on adding a pizza and submarine sandwich menu. This meant some changes, not the least of which was adding "and Party Store" to the name. But it would take several months to complete all the work and red tape.

"When we opened for business, it was just the pop and beer end of it," Tolomei said. "We made some changes and most of the work, with the exception of the professional work, we did ourselves."

The first task was a massive clean-up followed by building a separate kitchen area for the preparation of the food. A whole new electrical system was added as well as additional plumbing and new counters and tops.

"I think our regular customers were impressed because we tried to upgrade the quality of the materials and the look of the store," Tolomei pointed out.

It wasn't until Thanksgiving time that all the work and inspections were completed and the second phase of the business was ready.

"We bought the store with food in mind," Tolomei said. "It's a convenience to your customers to be diversified. Now we can sell them a whole lunch rather than just a beverage, and we think that's important."

Tolomei admits that it isn't easy to get established with a new business, but the help of fellow merchants and regular customers made the first few months much easier.

"It's tough to get established and get accepted right off the bat, but our regulars treat us like family," he said. "The other business people in town seemed to accept us right away, and we even received some advice from some people whom we compete with at lunchtime. Now we're steadily building up a regular clientele."

According to Tolomei, even though they have ventured into the food end of it and have altered the appearance of the store, the beverages can still be sold at a discount because they avoid the mark up prices of a wholesaler.

"We've dressed up the store a little bit, but we have kept the prices down at the same time," Tolomei said.

The two owners have been friends for nearly 10 years and actually live just three blocks away from each other in Warren. One of the biggest headaches for both Tolomei and Taylor is actually getting to the store. It's a one hour drive, one way.

"On every parade a little rain must fall," Tolomei mused. "It's not all that bad, but we do plan on relocating."

A deal to rent a house in the area fell through once, but they haven't given up.

"We both really like the area and the people," Tolomei said.

WHEN DOCTORS CHOOSE HEALTH CARE COVERAGE FOR THEIR OWN FAMILIES, THEY CHOOSE ONLY ONE OF THESE SERVICES.

HMO PPO TRADITIONAL HEALTH CARE

Doctors know a lot about health care coverage. They see it from the inside out. They've had to adjust their practices to new demands for cost effectiveness and health protection. Many doctors belong to HMOs and PPOs and service old and new patients with them. But for their own families, doctors choose traditional health care overwhelmingly. In fact, in a recent random survey¹ of Oakland County physicians in 21 specialties, 100% of them had chosen traditional health care over HMOs and PPOs for themselves and their families. Traditional health care is founded on the doctor-patient relationship, the cornerstone of quality care. It's based on confidentiality, the trust that develops over time, and the enhanced medical knowledge that a long-term, well-rounded relationship can offer. The difference with traditional health care is that it gives you and your doctor the greatest flexibility in making decisions about your health. Perhaps that's why physicians choose it for themselves and their families.

TRADITIONAL HEALTH CARE.

The choice you make for yourself

¹ 100 physicians in obstetrics, gynecology, internal medicine, orthopedics, cardiology, endocrinology, radiology, urology, dermatology, neurology, gastroenterology, general practice, ophthalmology, hematology, infectious diseases, infertility, oncology, pediatrics, otology, allergy and rheumatology were asked "What health care coverage do you have for yourself and your family: HMO, PPO, or traditional health care?"

Our Opinions

Cooperation key to future

The efforts of township, city and school district officials, as well as the input of ordinary citizens, in a Future Needs Committee is a giant step in the right direction for the community of Northville.

All too often when cooperation between individual municipalities, each with its own governmental body, is discussed, a contest develops to see who gets the most power and who can receive the most praise for the least amount of effort. And in the end, it is the citizens who are caught in the middle.

There was a time, in the not-too-distant past when the City of Northville and the Township of Northville jealously protected their own boundaries. And the school district was expected to continue its business of educating the children from each community and to leave governing to the elected officials.

With the formulation of the Future Needs Committee, policy makers from all three governmental units have consciously decided to ignore the political and physical boundaries which segregate the township from the city and the schools from the city council and township board and to think instead of themselves as one community.

There is precedent for such action. The Downriver Community Conference in western Wayne County is one example; the affiliation of Plymouth city and township, Canton Township and the city and township of Northville in 35th District court and Force Five, is another.

In an era where funds from federal and state agencies are being carefully scrutinized and severely curtailed, a unified front can put the community in line for a bigger share of a decreasing pie. And ultimately, it is the citizenry that benefits in terms of more services, better quality of those services and eventually, lower costs per person.

The Future Needs Committee is an idea whose time has come. It is hoped the cooperation which led to the formation of the group will continue through its existence and that the committee's life will be a long one.

Welcome new faces

The nine members of the Current Issues class at Allen Terrace who attended the February 3 meeting of Northville City Council raised good questions about composition of city boards, commissions and committees.

Anyone looking at the list of those who serve the city on these bodies has to become aware that the same names appear on several boards and committees. The "senior students" did a service by asking why. It enabled city manager Steve Walters and council members to explain that some council members serve on such boards or commissions by charter or ordinance requirement, especially Mayor Paul Vernon who is required to head the Downtown Development Authority and mayor pro tem Dewey Gardner, who serves on the DDA because he is a property owner and downtown business person.

Likewise, the Historic District Commission rules require that the seven members include the mayor and a council member as well as a planning commission member, three historical society members and an architect, if available.

The observation that some spouses of council members serve on appointive bodies was a valid query. Council member Carolann Ayers, however, was able to explain that both her husband Charles (who is vice chair of the zoning board of appeals) and John Buckland's wife Lesa (who is on the planning commission) held their posts before Ayers and Buckland were elected to council.

So far so good. In some other instances of persons serving on city boards and commissions, however, the same names appear because the persons have proved faithful and can be counted upon. When their terms expire, they seem automatically to be reappointed — because they can be counted upon. This is the entrenchment that has given rise to statements that membership on these bodies is a "closed group."

It is difficult to justify that claim when vacancies currently exist on the Historic District Commission, the Zoning Appeals Board, the Downtown Development Authority and the recreation commission. When the council does receive applications from citizens who would like to serve on these bodies, it is of vital importance that they look at new faces who could bring fresh thinking — even though the newcomers' approaches may not be as tried and true as those of persons the council knows.

Advertiser name game

By Neil Geoghegan

Have you ever stopped to think about the names of the products you buy every day?

Occasionally we chuckle at a strange or unusual name, but it is hardly a topic of everyday conversation. But the big advertising agencies sure take the whole thing seriously, because they think the name of a product or service is very important. After all, they argue, you can change your packaging, your promotion or your advertising, but it is very difficult and usually not recommended to change the name.

We consumers learn to associate the two together and if it's changed, it can mean problems for the product. That's why it's not unusual for a company to spend as much as $1 million to come up with the right name. Proctor and Gamble spent that much to come up with Coast soap and Tide detergent. (They obviously spent a lot of time on the beach.)

Most new automobiles are named four or five years before they even hit the market. Nowadays, cars often have strange-modern names like Laser, Tempo and Celica, or sequences of numbers and letters like Z-28, RX-7 and 300 SX. The reason for this is that all the good names have already been taken. If you want to name a new car after a horse, good luck finding one that hasn't been used (Pinto, Maverick, Mustang, Bronco etc.). As a matter of fact, most good animal names have been used, with leanings toward cats (Cougar, Bobcat, Lynx, Jaguar etc.).

One of the new trends in naming a product is to splice together two descriptive words into one sleek term. Gillette combined silk and science and came up with Silkience. Another relatively new trend is the use of acronyms like Kodak and Xerox.

But there are also many product names that become so widely used and accepted, that it develops into just another name in our everyday language. How many people say, "please pass the facial tissue" or "I'll have some gelatin?" It's always Kleenex and Jello, but those are brand names. They are so common, you can even find them in some dictionaries.

In advertisements, they now say "Jello brand gelatin" in an attempt to avoid losing their trademark. It doesn't help the identity of Jello if everybody refers to gelatin by their name. We wear denim jeans and drink cola soft drinks but we say Levi's and Coke. We also throw around a spherical saucer and call it a Frisbee. Even our underwear has become BVD's.

And then there is the opposite. The name of a type of product that many people assume to be a brand, like Granny Smith Apples.

And with all the money and effort that goes into naming these things, we still get the real clunkers. How long did it take Ronco to think up Mister Microphone. Some names are so unimaginative or ridiculous you wonder if it wasn't planned that way just to draw attention to a particular product. Examples: Alpo dog food, B and M baked beans, Corny corn puffs, Twinkies sponge cake and the ever-popular Ty-D-Bol.

Ironically, all this commotion about putting a label on a product is a relatively new advertising scheme. Legend has it that Harley Proctor, a founder of Proctor and Gamble, named Ivory soap after hearing a sermon in church that quoted the Bible and used the word ivory. This happened in 1879, and since Ivory was introduced, it has been one of the company's best selling products — still is today.

We sure have come a long way.

Stuffed up

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Well, I survived. Made it through the first session of my new aerobic weight training class with no trouble at all.

Actually, that's not totally true. I made it through the first session, but to say I had no trouble at all may be a slight exaggeration.

My wife, the physical fitness nut who runs four miles every noon hour and takes the aerobic weight training class three nights a week, has been trying to get me to increase my physical activity for the past five or six years.

Realizing that it's been a good 10 years since I've had any type of exercise whatsoever and that I'm not getting any younger, I finally relented and let her register me for the weight training class she thinks is so wonderful.

Fortunately, I had a bad case of the flu and missed the first four sessions. But time ran out last Wednesday and I headed off for class with more than a little apprehension.

The truth of the matter is that I wasn't concerned about working out on the weight machine. What scared me was the thought that I might not make it through the warm-up exercises.

My fears proved well-founded. I made it through the neck stretches okay, but as soon as I tried the second warm-up exercise — the toe-touches — I felt the muscle in the back of my left leg pop.

There were more problems as soon as we hit the weight room. The first three sit-ups went okay, but the fourth one caused me to double over with stomach cramps.

The rotten class finally came to an end and I hobbled home, bent over from the waist with my left leg dangling behind me at a 60 degree angle.

"How did it go?" she asked as I hopped in the door.

"No problem, my pet," I replied with as much confidence as I could muster. "But I think I'm going to go for bulk and definition. I want to get cut up. I want to get ripped. I want to enter some of those bodybuilding competitions."

"Two more sessions ought to do it. Who knows, you could be looking at the next Conan the Barbarian."

Reader Speaks

Resident criticizes police indifference

To the Editor:

Recently my mother called from the township hall located on Six Mile Road nearest Winchester informing my older brother and I that her car's tire had gone flat and that we should come and fix it.

Naturally, we left immediately and were soon there. At that time my mother left in the car we were driving while we stayed to change the flat. Thinking it would be a quick job, we soon went to work.

As luck would have it, only four of the five lug nuts came off before the lug wrench broke. "No problem. This is a police and fire station. They're bound to have a wrench we could borrow," I remember saying to myself. With that I bravely trod into the building.

After waiting in line for seemingly centuries and being otherwise totally ignored, I caught a policeman's attention. He looked like any other businessman except for that a revolver was attached to his waist.

"Just some sort of scare tactic," I reassured myself.

I explained to him my situation and was, quite frankly, somewhat outraged to hear him say the following:

"Sorry, about all I can do is call a wrecker."

I insisted, politely mind you, "you must have at least one car back there with a wrench in it."

"Nope. Sorry. Did you say this car was on the side of the road?"

"No," I said. "I guess I'll just call my mother."

Probably deeply engrossed in his duty to the world, he had no comment after I said that.

After I called my mother I exited the building and joined my brother. At the same time we saw a policeman in his car leaving. Hoping to save some time we motioned him towards our stranded selves. Much to our surprise, he very politely waved back, then continued on his way.

At any rate, my mother came and the tire was finally changed. That night, though, I thought hard about the day's events and wondered.

I'm not trying to put down police, but I always thought they were supposed to help citizens in need. I suppose, and I should hope that, they were busy doing other, more important things, but in our great town of Northville I would have thought that the local peacekeeper could at least help a fellow resident in his time of need.

Maybe today's police force just doesn't realize that not all youth is corrupted nor are all of us not trustworthy.

One lug wrench. Hmmm...

Sincerely,
Todd A. Gray,
Student

Lawmaker supports school budget increase

"The proposed increase for education in the 1987 budget is good news for Michigan schools, and I'm glad to see our priorities are straight," commented Representative Gerald H. Law (R-Plymouth) last week, noting, "the state of our educational system is looking better in 1986."

He points out that the 1987 spending plan calls for a 5.5 percent increase for elementary, secondary and higher education, including community colleges.

Under the budget proposal, $1.02 billion would be appropriated for higher education, an increase of $49.6 million. Community colleges would be allocated $185.2 million, a $9.7 million increase. This budget would include a 3.4 percent increase in the Job Training and Retraining Investment Fund.

The K-12 budget plans calls for $1.9 billion in spending with $1.39 billion in the school aid budget and $516 million in general fund money.

The announcement of the budget figures coincided with news reports of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP) test scores released by the state Department of Education.

"The figures gave us some good news and some bad," said Law. The percentage of Michigan public school students passing the standardized reading and math tests rose during 1985 but, Law noted, despite this gain, nearly one-third of all seventh- and tenth-graders did not pass the math portion, which tests basic skills, such as metric measurements, fractions, geometry and equations.

"There's much more work to be done. Adequately funding our schools is only part of the solution. Many other issues, such as student and teacher competency tests and teacher certification rules must be addressed."

"I am confident," Law said, "we can make our schools even better, and I will maintain my commitment to this goal."

'Bugs' keep pestering common cold sufferers

If man can walk on the moon, why can't he cure the common cold? As it turns out, cures may not be so "common" after all.

There may be more than 200 viruses that cause what we refer to as a cold, according to John Jovanovich, M.D., of Henry Ford Hospital's Internal Medicine Department. The large number of "bugs" is the reason why a cure or a vaccine to prevent colds is unlikely.

The best way to prevent catching a cold is to avoid contact with someone who already has one, according to Dr. Jovanovich. "When an afflicted person coughs or sneezes, virus-laden water droplets may be deposited on his hands or may become airborne." If you come into contact with these droplets, you stand a good chance of contracting the virus.

If you do catch a cold, follow the old-fashioned remedies — get plenty of rest, drink lots of fluids and eat chicken soup.

If you do catch a cold, follow the old-fashioned remedies — get plenty of rest, drink lots of fluids and eat chicken soup. Yes, that's right, chicken soup. According to Dr. Jovanovich, the hot steam from the broth thins nasal secretions and helps your body to expel them, making you more comfortable and helping your body to recover faster.

If you buy cold medications, it's best to choose those that relieve individual symptoms. The all-in-one medications usually contain antihistamines, which usually are unnecessary and may make you drowsy.

Your symptoms may not necessarily signal a cold at all. If you have a headache, high fever and are vomiting, it is likely you have the flu, which is also caused by a virus. Fortunately, flu vaccines are available and may be used by nearly everyone. The vaccine is helpful especially for people with chronic diseases such as high blood pressure (hypertension), heart disease, lung disease and diabetes and health care workers, according to Dr. Jovanovich. Flu vaccine should not be given to people who are allergic to eggs.

Colds and flu have become almost routine illnesses, and usually self-treatment and letting the virus run its course are enough. However, in some cases you should seek medical attention. People with chronic disease and the elderly should consult with their doctor if afflicted with either illness.

If your symptoms are accompanied by a high fever, vomiting, or if you are coughing up large amounts of phlegm, you should seek medical attention. You should also see your doctor if a cold or bout of flu lasts longer than three to four days.

Bill addresses auto damage

A bill introduced by State Senator Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills) would fill a gap in Michigan's consumer protection laws.

Under current law, a person who buys a new car or a dealer-demonstrator model from a dealership has almost no protection if that car was severely damaged prior to sale.

Other than to avoid bad customer relations, the dealer has virtually no incentive to inform a prospective purchaser that a car has been damaged.

The Faxon bill would require a new car dealer to fully inform a customer about all damage the dealer knows or should know about. If the damage amounts to $500 or more.

"I heard about a case where a dealer/demonstrator car was hit by two police cars involved in a high-speed chase," said Faxon. "The city's insurance company paid for the repairs, and the car was sold as new.

"It wasn't until the unfortunate owner confronted the dealership about the severe problems with fit, finish, rattles, missing parts, bad brakes and bent wheel rims that they admitted the source of the damage."

"The owners had no relevant recourse except to swallow their pride and take the car back to the dealership whenever a new problem was discovered."

Under the bill, if a car is being sold as new or as a demonstrator model, the dealer would have to provide the customer with written notice of all repairs made to the vehicle. The notice would indicate the area of damage, cost of repairs and a description of each major part repaired or replaced.

If the dealer failed to fully inform the customer, the car could be returned for a full refund.

The Novi Choralaires currently are in the midst of their annual patron drive. Membership of the singing group includes area residents.

The Choralaires must raise money each year to purchase music, pay salaries and fund their annual spring concert. Individuals and merchants may show their support for the choral group by donating during the 1986 patron drive.

In exchange for contributing to the group, patrons receive a decal that can be displayed to show their support of the arts in Novi. They also receive two tickets to the spring concert and are listed in all programs printed by the Choralaires during the year.

Individuals contributing $24 or less will be listed as "friends" in the program. Merchants contributing $25, to $49 will be listed in the program as "business patrons."

Individuals and merchants who contribute over $50 will be listed as "major patrons."

Former police chief Jim Boylan now works as a private investigator

Ex-cop happy to be a P.I.

By MATT SEIDL

Jim Boylan is discovering that the shiny piece of metal he once cherished isn't all it's cracked up to be.

The former Green Oak Township police chief currently is in his fourth year as a private investigator. And even though his police badge opened several doors during 18 years on the force, he says it sometimes got in the way.

"The badge can be good and bad," said Boylan, whose detective agency is located on Main Street in Brighton. "It puts you in control of a lot of situations, but it also turns people off."

"As a private investigator, I've found that people are more open with me. They're not intimidated, so they'll talk freely and on the level. Of course, now that I don't have the badge, they don't have to talk if they don't want."

Boylan offered an example of the badge-less benefits. He said he once was taken into six different "dope houses" by an informant while investigating a homicide in Livingston County.

"That was the first time it really dawned on me that not having the badge made a difference," Boylan said. "Those people all knew I was a PI, yet they were talking to me about a lot of interesting things."

longer is involved with apprehending suspects. He still can make a citizen's arrest, but admits he usually just reports information to his clients.

Boylan does carry a gun, however, and says it's for "obvious protection purposes." He has never been involved in a shooting incident as a private investigator.

Boylan, 45, began police work in Grand Rapids in 1963. He then was a sergeant on the Federal Narcotics Task Force in Detroit for 13 years before taking over in Green Oak in December of 1978.

"I just wanted to do something different," said Boylan, who resigned from Green Oak in August of 1982. "I knew I would always be involved in police work, but I wanted to get away from the grind."

"I really like it, too," he added. "In

Job rate at 6-year high

Employment in Michigan reached its second highest level in history during 1985 as the number of workers with jobs averaged more than 3.9 million.

Richard Simmons, Jr., director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission, said the average number of employed workers in the state rose 63,000 in 1985 to a six-year high of 3.934 million. Michigan's employment peaked in 1979 when it averaged a record 3.979 million.

As employment improved so did the state's jobless rate which fell to an average of 9.9 percent last year—a full percentage point below the 1984 average of 11.2 percent and 5.6 percent below the 1982 peak average of 15.5 percent.

It was the first time that Michigan's annual average unemployment rate has been in single digits since 1979 when it averaged 7.8 percent.

Simmons noted that the largest job gains occurred among men as their employment total grew by 45,000 to 2.225 million.

Employment among women grew at a slower pace to 1,709 million, an increase of 18,000.

Overall teenage unemployment fell in 1985 to 22.2 percent from 24.5 percent in 1984. The jobless rate for black teens in the state increased to 57.7 percent from 51.6 percent in 1984.

Insurance companies keep detective busy this field, you can do the things you want to do and deal with the people you want to deal with. You can be selective to an extent, and that's nice."

Boylan spends most of his time working for insurance companies and investigating possible frauds. For example, if a company is suspicious about a claim, they will call Boylan and ask him to talk to the people involved and complete facts.

After a few days of investigating, Boylan reports back to the company. His three most common conclusions are fraud with proof, no fraud with proof, and possible fraud with no proof.

"There are a lot of phony claims out there," Boylan noted. "The real bad area is auto theft. I've heard figures that say anywhere from 15 to 50 percent of all auto theft claims are phony."

"I really can't say if that's true or not, but I will say that I see a lot of bad ones."

Boylan also investigates fire losses, body injuries and other types of theft for insurance companies. He checks into criminal defense and domestic problems on an individual basis as well.

Boylan employs one full-time investigator, Tom Reese, and five part-timers. Boylan and Reese worked together in Green Oak, and Reese also is a current part-time officer in South Lyon.

"Tom and I work closely on some cases and alone on others," Boylan said. "There are times when you want two people at an interview though. One reason is to read the other people at the scene and another is for protection."

Boylan does not get involved with domestic work very often. Actually, he tries to talk people out of using his service.

"First of all, we don't come cheap and a lot of people can't afford us," he said. "We mainly try to advise people on what their alternatives are. If they're dead set on us, though, we'll usually do it."

"We don't take pictures in the motel room like you see on television. We might put people inside the motel at a time and outside at a time, but we'll let the judge decide what actually went on in the room."

Boylan's job requires knocking on doors and talking to a lot of people. He also performs surveillance, which is better known as a stake-out to television buffs.

"Television makes PI life seem a lot more exciting than it really is," Boylan laughed. "People are very curious when they first learn I'm a private investigator. I think they expect me to look like Tom Selleck and throw them up against a wall or something."

"To be honest, the glamour just isn't there. I love the work and it's very challenging, but it's not even close to what you see on the tube."

Boylan's agency has been moving up the ladder slowly but surely since 1982. He says he's very comfortable with his position and plans to continue work in the field for "quite a while."

Boylan and several other related companies in the metropolitan Detroit area have considered forming a small confederation. The idea is to help each other since so many people approach the wrong service for help.

"This way, we could direct the people to services within our group," he said. "I would be the only PI in the group, and if a person who needed my service went to one of the other places, then they would send the person to me. And then vice versa if someone came to me and needed someone else."

Boylan, who stands 6'4" and weighs well over 200 pounds, doesn't drive a sleek red convertible or wear a Detroit Tiger baseball cap like his television peers. Nonetheless, he's making it in the PI life.

Economy still lags in state

The Michigan Business Activity Index (MBAI) increased one percent in December to close the year at 137.

Overall, the index increased 5.9 percent in 1985, compared to a record gain of 13 percent in 1984.

"The year 1985 saw respectable but unspectacular growth for Michigan," said Patrick L. Anderson, associate economist for Manufacturers Bank.

"Our unemployment rate finally dropped below 10 percent, and automobile sales nationally reached near-record levels. However, despite Michigan's improvement, it still lags the nation in labor force, income and population growth."

"Because Michigan's pro-cyclical economy normally exaggerates the national business cycle, we would expect to perform better than the nation during these times of economic recovery," said Anderson.

December's increase resulted from improved labor market activity, offsetting declines in auto and steel production. Automobile sales improved from the depressed level of November.

HEART in ART

The Wedding Dance by Pieter Bruegel the Elder

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Love, the feeling that makes the world go round, has been the inspiration of artists since time immemorial.

In a light hearted, tongue-in-cheek presentation of "Heart in Art," Detroit Institute of Art docent Joyce Moore translated the many love-inspired works housed in the DIA collection in a slide presentation last Friday at Northville Woman's Club.

Her translation offered a tempting invitation to revisit the Institute and inspect the originals.

She asked her audience to imagine each painting or sculpture on the front of a valentine card, and, after telling them a little about the artist, subject and style, suggested an appropriate message to include in the card.

"I hope none of you have any ripe fruit or vegetables in your pocketbooks," she joked.

Her first slide, an example of the love of a father for his son, was the bronze sculpture, 'Return of the Prodigal Son,' by the 17th century Italian artist Antonio Montauti.

It illustrates the Bible story from Luke: the father coming down the house steps to greet his repentant son, returning in rags after squandering his share of the inheritance.

It was, Moore said, one of the 12 bronze figures on biblical themes ordered from the Medici workshops in Florence.

She pointed out the fine detail possible on the bronze which would not have been attainable on wood or stone, a tear on the father's cheek and holes in his son's clothes.

"It is typical baroque Florentine bronze of the finest quality, because they were acknowledged to be the best workers in the medium," she said.

For the accompanying message she suggested, "I don't know why I love like I do. I just do!"

From the biblical theme she moved to myth and Love turns the world and inspires artists legend and the painting by Peter Paul Rubens — Briseis being given back to Achilles.

The painting illustrates a story of the Trojan wars when King Agamemnon claimed, among war prizes from captured cities, the beautiful slave girl Briseis.

Because Achilles loved Briseis, the king agreed to return her realizing he could not have won the war without Achilles' help.

In the painting, Achilles is rushing forward with his arms open wide to greet Briseis who has just arrived by ship.

Other figures surround the lovers on the harbor, creating a lively, vivid scene.

Moore explained that Briseis resembled the artist's second wife, and the painting (done on panel) was intended as a sketch for tapestry for his new father-in-law who was a tapestry merchant.

"A better painter could not be chosen to paint a love scene than Peter Paul Rubens because he really did a lot of loving," Moore said. "He loved life, he loved to paint, he loved his wife, his children, his home and his fellow citizens and he was loved by them, too."

For the message to go with the painting she chose, "Valentine, you take the prize!"

Another of Moore's choices for the valentine theme was the painting of Pygmalion and Galatea by French artist Louis Lagrenée, 1724-1805.

The story, from Greek mythology, which inspired the painting, told of how Pygmalion, king of Cyprus, carved a statue of Galatea. It was so beautiful he fell in love with it. He prayed to the goddess of love to bring her to life.

His prayer was answered and the painting shows him next to the statue as it turns from marble into warm, pink flesh. However, one foot still was cold white marble.

"This is probably awful," Moore noted, "but the message to go in this valentine card is, 'Valentine, you're marbelous!'"

A statue of Aphrodite by Pierre Auguste Renoir was another of Moore's choices. Aphrodite was in Greek mythology, the Olympian goddess of love, beauty and fertility.

Her naked figure is represented by Renoir at the end of the 19th century, with a solidity and volume not typical of other artists' works at the time, but in keeping with his earlier paintings of the female figure.

Moore explained Renoir turned to sculpture when his rheumatic hands could no longer manipulate a brush.

In her outstretched hand, Aphrodite grasps the golden apple of discord, awarded to her by Paris when she offered him Helen, the fairest of women.

The message Moore chose for the card depicting Aphrodite was, "Valentine, you are the apple of my eye!"

For a change of pace, a hanging Chinese scroll complete with calligraphy and painting was chosen as a valentine.

It was made about 1500 and was, Moore said, the work of two friends who she imagines to be sitting in a garden drinking wine. They decided to send a card to a friend, who, though getting along in years, has no male heirs.

One of the friends does the calligraphy, a verse titled, "Ode to a Pomegranate," a pomegranate being a symbol of fecundity.

They wish their friend the blessing of a male heir, and add a painting which represents a branch with pomegranates and buds of a special type of melon which ripens in the fall.

For this card, which is pregnant with meaning, Moore chose the message, "This bud's for you."

Pieter Bruegel's painting, 'The Wedding Dance,' was another of Moore's choices. The Flemish painter lived from 1525-1569 and his unique, easily recognizable style depicts the everyday life around him at a time when most artists were staying with religious themes.

The Wedding Dance depicts more than 100 joyful people dancing and celebrating a marriage. It's a lively, colorful painting, typical of the artist.

According to Moore, it was painted on wood, and the thin paint allows the under drawing to show through, giving a good feel to Bruegel's technique.

Moore's message?

"Valentine, may I have this dance?"

The Nut Gatherers is one of the Detroit Institute of Art's best loved paintings, so it too was chosen since it illustrates a friendship between two young girls which probably will last a lifetime.

It was painted by William Bougereau and shows the two friends relaxing after a nut gathering exhibition, engrossed in conversation.

Moore said she chose the type of message to go with it that school friends would write in each other's autograph books: "Yours till the U.S. drinks Canada Dry."

Applicants sought for BPW award

By JEAN DAY

Longtime residents will have no trouble remembering Bea Carlson. She had the distinction of being the first woman to serve on the Northville City Council. She also was a tireless worker for beautification, serving as founder and member of the Northville Beautification Commission until she died at age 83 in 1979. It was Bea Carlson who was the author of the city's beautification statute.

A resident of the community since 1934, she also was a volunteer and official in the Red Cross, a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, a president of the VFW Auxiliary and a founder of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club. Two years before her death, this energetic woman was building a wall at her home on Cady Street.

When the BPW established its Womanhood Award, it fittingly named it after the city council member and BPW founder.

Harriet E. Welland, chairperson of the BPW Foundation and Scholarship Committee, announces that applicants now are being sought for the Bea Carlson Womanhood Award.

"Any woman who needs short-term financial assistance to begin, resume or upgrade her career is invited to apply," she reports. The award, the committee emphasizes, may be used for education-related expenses including child care, travel to school and books.

An applicant must be accepted officially into an accredited program or course of study, be a resident of the City of Northville, have a Northville mailing address or be a member of the Northville Business and Professional Women's Club. She must demonstrate the need for financial assistance to upgrade skills or complete education for career advancement, train for a new career field to enter or re-enter the job market.

The committee notes that the award does not cover study at the doctoral level, correspondence courses or post-doctoral studies.

The recipient's selection will be based upon need as shown on application and potential use of the grant. Applications may be obtained by mail from Northville BPW Scholarship Chairman, 331 North Ely, Northville, 48167. Completed form is to be received back no later than 5 p.m. April 15.

Friends slate repeat dinner, Windsor trip

Friends of Northville Library group has a full year of activities already under way. The in-library used book sale today is being chaired by Claudene Kinnaird. During National Library Week, April 6-12, a field trip to the Windsor Library is being planned by Sue Fostey. It seems that no Friends' groups exist in Windsor so the Northville members are sharing their ideas to help generate interest in forming a Canadian group.

Friends' president Geraldine Mills explains that the Windsor trip will set the stage for an exchange of children between the Northville and Windsor libraries in the fall. She also reports that the benefit dinner donated by John and Toni Genitti in September (with William Kienzle as speaker) yielded a profit of $1,480. The Genittis, she announces, have promised to sponsor another benefit this fall — on September 29.

With proceeds from its book sales and benefits the Friends group has funded a summer reading program at the library, purchased a VCR stand, purchased Christmas candy, given a Christmas puppet show, bought candy for the Fourth of July parade, a manual roll film attachment and hanging plants for the library.

Next meeting of the group, which is open to everyone interested in helping the library, will be at 7:30 p.m. March 12 in the city council chambers.

It will be an election meeting. Slate to be voted on for the coming year includes: president, Betty Griffin; vice president, Pat Allen; secretary, Pat Kitchen; treasurer, Val Cook; directors, Sue Fostey, Geraldine Mills and Lois Winters.

Local antique show set

A winter Northville Antique Show is scheduled February 21-23 at the Northville Community Center, 303 West Main.

Manager Ruby Fleming announces that American primitives, glass, jewelry, china, toys, dolls, furniture, clocks and decorative accessories will be featured by dealers.

Show hours are noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, February 21-22, and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday, February 23.

Home cooked food by Erma will be available on the premises.

Families announce arrival of Kristen, Drew, Emily

Reid and Ellen Creager of Village Oaks in Novi are parents of their second daughter, Kristen Michele. She was born January 30 at Providence Hospital weighing six pounds, 10 ounces.

Kristen joins a sister, Cara Elizabeth, 3, at home.

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Creager of New Vernon, New Jersey, Doris Bergen of Pittsburg, Kansas, and James Sponseller of Rochester.

Ellen Creager is a former reporter for The Northville Record who now is with the Detroit Free Press. Reid Creager formerly was a sports reporter with The Novi News and now is a sports reporter with the Oakland Press.

Donald and Beth Sturniolo of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, are parents of their first child, Drew, born January 25. He weighed 11 pounds, three ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. C. Phelps Hines of Northville. Mervin Hines returned last weekend from getting acquainted with her new grandson.

Emily Claire Mannisto, daughter of Keith and Anne Mannisto of Plymouth, was born December 27 at Sinai Hospital. She is the couple's second daughter, joining a sister, Jessie Louise, 3, at home. She weighed eight pounds, five ounces at birth.

Anne Mannisto is the Northville librarian; she is on a leave of absence and will return in mid-March.

Grandparents are Ralph and Ruth Mannisto and Evelyn Vargo, all of Northville. Mrs. Jessie Richter of Uniontown, Pennsylvania, is the maternal great grandmother.

Laurie Marrs takes the helm as chamber's executive director

New chamber executive director hopes to unify community efforts

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Though it's only been slightly more than two months since Laurie Marrs took over the front office of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce building, the new executive director already has a packed agenda.

In addition to establishing contact with new residents and businesses, writing a monthly newsletter, answering correspondence and keeping the chamber's 152 members apprised of what's going on in the community, the new director also has initiated several projects of her own.

"One of the goals I've set is to develop a unity between the township and the city," she notes. "I'd also like to work closely with the downtown merchants' association."

Marrs says her most important objective at this stage is recruiting new members. When not behind her desk at the bend at South Main, she is pounding the pavement in an effort to bring new members into the fold.

Among her first tasks since taking over the post December 2 was updating and redesigning the chamber's membership application. The new application, which Marrs is delivering to all merchants, retailers, professional and service organizations not involved with the chamber, has provided the necessary tool toward getting a membership drive off the ground.

"I'm encouraging people to give me both positive and negative feedback," she notes of her contact with businesses. A questionnaire also is being sent out to chamber members.

Marrs says she believes one of the key factors in uniting the community is getting more township business owners involved in the chamber.

"There is tremendous potential in the township," she notes. "I think everyone in both the city and township would benefit by working together."

She says she has received a positive reception from the township businesses she has approached thus far with many indicating an interest in joining the 21-year-old organization.

"I also would like to see the downtown merchants' association work closely with the chamber," she says, noting the two organizations would undoubtedly benefit by combining their efforts.

While most of the chamber's offerings already were in place before she took over as executive director, Marrs says she is exploring ways to expand the services available to members. Having reviewed the offerings of other communities in the West Suburban Area Council of Chambers (of which Northville is part), Marrs says she is considering a few proposed changes to present to the chamber's 11-member board of directors. Among those additions are instituting regular luncheons or seminars for members and guests as well as promoting additional fundraising activities.

Having spent the past several years as a fulltime homemaker and volunteer, Marrs says the chamber post has added a new dimension to her community involvement.

"I love the challenge," she says, adding that her new job has given her an opportunity to familiarize herself with all aspects of the community.

A former Detroit Public Schools teacher, Marrs has been involved in a host of volunteer projects since moving to the community nine years ago with her husband Terry. The couple has two daughters, Andrea, 8, and Kelly, 11.

An active member in the Northville Historical Society, she handled publicity last year for the Tivoli Fair. In fact, Marrs notes it was during her stint as publicity chairperson for the popular crafts event that she first heard the chamber was looking to fill its executive director post.

A longtime member of the PTA (first at Winchester, now at Silver Springs and Meads Mill since the family's recent move to Farmington), the former teacher stills keep one hand in the classroom. She currently heads the Great Books program at Silver Springs and teaches fourth grade catechism at Our Lady of Victory.

Noting that she and her husband moved to Northville from the east side, the chamber director said they recently considered moving back to their hometown when her husband took a new job with Ford Motor Company.

"We looked around and decided we didn't want to leave," she said. "We're really at home here."

The Northville Record

Mustang cagers fall to Hawks again, 71-64

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A 71-64 loss to Western Division leader Farmington Harrison all but eliminated the Northville cagers from a shot at the title, but a 71-60 victory over Plymouth Salem salvaged a split in WLAA play last week as the Mustangs continue through one of the most successful seasons in years.

Last Friday (February 7), the undefeated Hawks took advantage of a final quarter Northville shooting slump, outscoring the Mustangs 24-19 and winning by seven. But three days earlier, the Mustangs came up with another consistent outing, utilizing an effective full court press that negated the Rocks' height advantage.

"This was definitely a week we could have easily lost both games," Northville Coach Omar Harrison said. "We won one out of two, and a win is a win."

The Mustangs (10-4 overall, 9-3 in WLAA) had the chance to cut Harrison's grip on first place to one game last Friday, but the Hawks showed down the stretch why they are 14-0. Northville took a 17-12 lead after one quarter, and the home crowd was getting primed for a big upset.

But in the second, Harrison started to heat up at both ends of the floor and went on a 20-12 binge to take a three point lead into the locker room. Matt Hinds, the Mustangs' 6-6 center, was whistled for three early fouls and had to sit out most of the quarter, which didn't help either.

"The difference was (Harrison's) spurt in the second quarter," Harrison admitted. "We were ahead and had the momentum and suddenly we were down at the half. That hurt us."

But the gutsy Mustangs refused to die and actually outscored the Hawks by a point in the third quarter to make it a two point game. It was in the fourth quarter that Northville suddenly couldn't connect on anything. While Harrison continued hitting on 56-percent of its shots, the Mustangs kept missing and helplessly watched the lead grow.

"We just went cold — we couldn't hit anything," Harrison pointed out. "They tried a box and one defense in order to stop (Don) Norton and our other guys couldn't pick up the slack."

Other teams have deployed various defenses to slow down Northville's 6-2 senior sharpshooter, but teammates Mike Hilfinger, Matt Hinds and Kirk Morrison always seemed to take the initiative. But Friday, everybody was missing and the Hawks quickly went up by 11.

With three minutes to play, the Mustangs began to intentionally foul Harrison in an attempt to creep back in to it — and it almost worked. Norton had fouled out at the four minute mark, but the team wasn't about to call it quits.

"We started to foul them and at one point we got it down to six with less than a minute to go," Harrison reported. "But they made the shots when they had to — it was a close ball game."

"We had them taking the shots we wanted, but they kept making the darn things. Plus we had a few calls that went against us a little and we never did recover, but we never gave up either. We didn't play a bad game — it was a good battle between two good teams."

Hilfinger led a banced scoring attack with 15, Morrison added 14 while Hinds and Norton chipped in 13. Scott Bissell paced the Hawks with 18, but the Mustangs held high-scoring Ken George to 10.

The Salem contest pitted Northville's quickness with the Rocks' height, but the result was never much in doubt. The Mustangs were up by five after one quarter and 13 by halftime.

"I felt good about this game," Harrison admitted. "The kids came out and played their game and enjoyed themselves. (Salem) is a tall team, but I think by extending our defense, we sort of took the big guys out of the ball game."

Heading into the final stanza, Northville had a commanding 57-39 lead, but the Salem starters made a run at the Mustang second string to make the score look a little bit more respectable. Hilfinger hit on seven-of-eight from the free throw line en route to a game-high 23 points. Norton had 18 and Hinds was effective against Salem's big men with 12 points and tied with Paul Newitt for rebounding honors with eight apiece.

"Hinds did a real good job," Harrison said. "He didn't back off from their big guys and had a nice ball game."

This week the Mustangs will take on two teams they have already beaten this season. Walled Lake Western was to be in town Tuesday, February 11 (after Record deadline) and then Northville will travel to Livonia Franklin this Friday.

"These are two teams we've beaten, but we cannot look past these teams," Harrison said. "If we take anybody lightly, chances are we will lose. We have to be at our best if we want to continue to win."

Stevenson depth paces swim win

It was a week of contrasts for the Mustang swim team. First came Livonia Stevenson, the elite of the Western Lakes Activity Association, and then Walled Lake Western, a young squad that has nowhere to go but up.

Northville Coach Keith Wright believes his team fits in somewhere between the two, but last week's action proved that the Mustangs are probably a lot closer to the top. Stevenson used its superior depth to get by Northville 53-30 on February 4, but the Mustangs bounced back to trounce the Warriors 117-55 on February 6 using mostly underclassmen.

The Spartans are the defending WLAA champs and are the overwhelming favorite to do it again, but Northville, now 4-4-2 overall and 4-2-1 in the WLAA, held its own and gave Stevenson some very tough competition.

"We swam very, very well," Wright said. "(Stevenson) was real good competition for us but their depth was the difference."

The Mustangs responded by taking five firsts in 11 events, but two of those were shared firsts. In another series of uncanny events, two swimmers from each team touched the wall at the same time according to the automatic electronic timing system that measures out to one-hundredth of a second. This oddity, that happened in both the 100-yard backstroke and the 100 breaststroke, comes on the heels of two dual meet ties in a row for Northville two weeks ago.

"I think it is even more unusual to have two dead heats in a row than to have two team ties," Wright said.

Jeff Bainbridge and a Spartan swimmer both touched at 58.01 in the backstroke, giving each a first place finish and three points. In the next race, Eric Lelendecker and Stevenson's John Adzema tied with a time of 1:07.6 as well.

In the 200 medley relay, the Mustang team of Bainbridge, Lelendecker, Doug Buell and Darius Mikalonis took first place with a season-best time of 1:45.5. Obviously, it was destined to be a meet of close races for Bainbridge as he was edged by one-tenth of a second in the 50 freestyle and settled for a second.

Buell qualified for the state meet in the 100 butterfly with a lifetime best 55.2, which was good enough for another Northville first while the 400 medley relay team of Buell, Mikalonis, Dave Wayne and Craig Smith, rounded out the wins with a 3:28.8.

But the level of competition went way down two days later at Western, so Wright improvised and the results were very promising. With the exception of the two relay teams, Wright used only underclassmen, and the Mustang substitutes dominated the Warrior regulars.

"It was an ideal opportunity to give some of our younger boys some valuable experience in a meet, and they really responded," Wright said.

Sophomore Jim Thompson was entered in the 200 freestyle race for the first time this season, and he came away with an impressive win (2:11.3). Freshman John Warren followed with a first place finish in the 200 IM (2:20.4). The veterans Mikalonis, Lelendecker, Buell and Bainbridge took first place honors in the 200 medley relay, and after the first three events, Northville was already in command.

Young divers Robert Deyak and Reece Baldwin increased the lead with their best efforts of the season. Deyak's 148.55 in the one-meter was a 15-point improvement over his previous best score, and landed his initial first place

Spikers slumping

Just when it looked like the struggling Mustang volleyball squad had broken its recent slump, disaster struck.

Northville ended a two game losing streak with a 6-15, 16-14, 15-8 come-from-behind win on February 3 at Plymouth Canton but two days later, the Mustangs were on the short end of a 2-15, 0-15 slaughter at Livonia Churchill.

"I guess we didn't show up against Churchill," Northville Coach Steve McDonald said. "I've never got beat that bad in my life."

The loss was a hard one for McDonald to take because he really thought his team was coming out of the slump. And with the post-season state tournaments quickly approaching, Northville (7-5, 5-4 in WLAA) seems to be on a downhill slide rather than peaking.

"We're trying everything we can to get out of this thing," McDonald said. "It was very discouraging, but the girls weren't as upset as I thought they would be and that kinda hurt too."

At Canton, the Chiefs jumped out to a 6-1 lead before the Mustangs showed any signs of life and cut it to 6-4. But another lapse helped Canton reel off six straight points and they coasted to the opening-game win.

"They dominated us the whole first game," McDonald admitted. "But in the second, it was close but we should have won by a lot more."

This time it was Northville's turn to take the early advantage. At one point it was 11-4 but another Mustang lapse opened the door for the Chiefs to get back into contention and eventually tie it up at 14-all.

In a lucky break, a Canton player watched a Northville shot hit the line to make it 15-14, and Lynn Frelick ended it with a service ace.

Canton never did regroup after coming so close, and the Mustangs closed it out rather easily.

"It wasn't a lot of what we did," McDonald pointed out. "(Canton) just lost their confidence and we gained some.

"We were really happy because we needed the win. We played well in streaks but (Canton) almost got us. We played well when we had to."

Robin Strunk had an effective outing at the net for Northville with 14 hits and five kills. Dawn Kucher didn't have the great stats, but McDonald cited her strong net game as she kept the ball alive in several crucial situations. Kucher did lead the team with a perfect 12-of-12 serving.

Despite making some progress at Canton, the Mustangs took a few giant steps backward at Churchill, a team Northville beat on January 20. The Chargers clearly dominated every aspect of the game.

"This time (Churchill) had fire in their eyes," McDonald said. "I don't think they made one substitution — they were trying to give us the message."

The Mustangs managed to score just two points in the match and served the ball only 16 times in the two games.

"Whatever we did, it didn't matter," McDonald admitted. "It was like an epidemic of poor play on our part. I think the girls now realize that they are a good team if they play together but, if they don't, they aren't very good."

McDonald knows it's not too late to turn everything around. Northville has three dual meets and a tournament on tap before the Western Lakes Conference Championships on February 22. The Mustangs host WLAA leader Walled Lake Western tonight (February 12 at 6:30 p.m.) and will be out to avenge an earlier season defeat to the Warriors. Then it's on to the Schoolcraft Invite this weekend.

"I definitely feel this is an ideal time for us to get our act together," McDonald said. "These next three weeks are the time you want to start playing the best of the year."

Come on down to the Downs

It's like an island surrounded by the city of Northville. Only visitors seem to notice it. The residents know it's there but rarely give it a second thought.

It is the Northville Downs. You know, the harness racing track just south of downtown. It's probably located in your backyard, but not a whole lot of Northville residents frequent the track. Most racing fans come from Detroit and suburbs like Southfield, or Birmingham, or Livonia — but not too many from Northville.

Hazel Park has its harness race track, too. I wonder if Hazel Parkers are patrons to the track that is located in their town?

Maybe the people of Northville just don't like harness racing. Maybe they don't like the implications that go along with all the betting. Maybe they have better things to spend their money on.

It could be all of the above. But one thing is for sure, everybody likes the revenue that the track generates. The local businesses like it. The residents like it, and the city government loves it.

Two days before the new year, I went to the Downs to (as they say in the business) "bet on the ponies." For the people who know me, it was hard to believe. After all, I'd never been to any type of horse racing before. I'm more of a football, basketball, baseball-type sports fan.

Not much of a bettor either. My luck in these types of things runs in streaks — bad and worse. But I figured it would be fun and an interesting new experience.

A friend and I started with a combined $25 as we entered Michigan's oldest race track. Even though we had press clubhouse passes we chose to sit in the grandstand along with about 3,000 others and substitute luxury for a more appropriate atmosphere.

After seven races and numerous ill-advised two dollar bets and 12 ounce beers, we were somehow having fun and losing money at the same time. My friend's $10 was long gone, but I managed to save $4 — good enough for two more bets of another pair of Strohs.

I wisely made my bets on the eighth race after carefully studying the program that had a bunch of numbers and letters that made very little sense to me. I didn't even wait to see what the odds were, I had a hunch and went with it.

"Two dollars on number three to win and two on number five to place in the eighth," I said as I parted with the last of my money.

After 10 minutes of anxious anticipation, the eighth race began. At the half mile mark, number three (Flashy Zayre) was in the back of the pack but started to make its move on the back straightaway.

Flashy Zayre pulled even with two other leaders on the last turn, and I started to jump up and down. That proved to be a bad move — not only did I spill my beverage, I lost track of my horse. It wasn't until the pack was approaching the wire that I finally located number three just in time to see it cross the line first.

Second place was so close it required a photo finish. To my surprise, Number five (Topkick), the forgotten horse I picked to place, just nosed out Fleet Bowl for second. The rookie had beat the odds!

After some more jumping around and a few spirited high fives, I cashed in my winning tickets for $10.80. I was in a great mood until my friend told me that if I had picked the third place finisher as well, the trifecta paid over $100.

But I felt better when I remembered that I only had enough for two bets and, unlike most gamblers, I quit with my huge winnings.

In all, it was a lot of fun. I didn't feel underhanded or deceitful at all. Jackson at Northville ended on New Year's Eve, but the regular Northville meet began the following day and will continue through the winter. What the heck, give it a shot. I won't tell if you won't.

Wrestlers settle for ninth at WLAA

The 1985-86 Northville wrestling team has never pretended to be one of the better teams in the Western Lakes Activities Association, and last Saturday's WLAA Conference meet verified it.

The Mustangs won just twice against WLAA teams in dual meet competition this season. And true to form, those two teams, plus one Northville didn't compete against, were the only three the home team managed to top in the 12-team tournament at Westland John Glenn on February 8.

Plymouth Salem won the tournament while the Mustangs finished down in ninth place, ahead on North Farmington, Farmington Harrison and Livonia Franklin.

"I had no idea where we'd finish, but I suppose we did all right," Northville Coach Jack Townsley said. "We had to forfeit two weights because of illness and injuries so I think we did pretty well — as well as we could."

The Mustangs failed to field a grappler in the finals, but three did make it

'We had to forfeit two weights because of illness and injury so I think we did pretty well — as well as we could.'

to the consolation finals — Tim Millen at 198, Ken Kehoe at 145 and Jason Lazar at 155.

Millen pinned North Farmington's John Connulas in 41 seconds of his first round action but was pinned by Matt Parillo of Farmington in the next round. Parillo went on to win the 198-pound title while Millen grabbed third place by pinning Jason Willets of Walled Lake Central in the first period of the consolation finals.

But Kehoe and Lazar both lost their bouts and had to settle for fourth place finishes. Kehoe won his first match with a quick pin, but Salem's Ed Wheble knocked him out of the winners bracket with a pin in 46 seconds. In the consolation finals, Brian Schemanski of Glenn beat Kehoe. Lazar was pinned in the second period of his opening match and then lost in the consolation finals as well.

Two other Northville wrestlers placed in the top six. Keith Graham lost to top seeded Dave Zehnder of Walled Lake Western in the opening round of a 105-pound match but did manage a sixth. Junior Paul Maliszewski was pinned at 3:48 of his first bout at 126 but rebounded to beat Bob Renard of Glenn 4-2 in the losers bracket. Maliszewski, however, was beaten by Farmington's Mike Pallo later and also grabbed a sixth.

"Paul was just outmanned," Townsley said. "He wrestles well if it is somebody that is his physical build, but he has trouble with guys who are bigger and stronger than he is."

John McRae, the Mustangs' regular 167-pounder, had to withdraw from the tournament because he reinjured a nagging shoulder problem. Townsley was forced to forfeit that weight as well as heavyweight, as regular Karl Freydl had the flu and didn't make the trip.

Northville will have a full week to recover before beginning state district action. The Mustangs travel down to the Ypsilanti High School District this Saturday (February 15).

finish of the season. Baldwin was third with a 144, up 20 points in the last two meets.

Junior Jeff Buell, Doug's brother, had a very productive outing with wins in both the 100 butterfly (103.7) and the 100 breaststroke (116.5), and freshman Dave Fellicelli won the 100 backstroke as well (108.7). Sophomore Paul Stoeklin dropped 13 seconds from his best time ever to take a first in the 500 freestyle (5:36.2), and Wright was very impressed.

"Paul has a lot of potential, and every time he goes out there, he gets more and more confidence and you can see it in his times," Wright said.

Northville will host Livonia Franklin tomorrow (February 13) at 7 p.m. in the last home meet of the season. It will be senior night and a large crowd is expected.

Progesterone and PMS

Recent studies indicate that at least 40 percent of adult women experience some type of health problem prior to their monthly menstrual cycle. Symptoms collectively referred to as premenstrual syndrome, or PMS, include headache, tension, depression, dizziness, tenderness of the breasts, painful joints, and swelling.

While the exact cause of PMS is unknown, several treatments have proven beneficial. No one medicine relieves all symptoms in all women. Diuretics, arthritis-type pain relievers, antidepressants, and tranquilizers are frequently prescribed.

A compound being used with increasing frequency for PMS is progesterone, a hormone occurring naturally in the body. Some clinicians believe that progesterone may be effective in PMS because it supplements low hormone levels that occur in some women in the early phase of the menstrual cycle. Many women taking oral progesterone-containing contraceptives have experienced relief of PMS symptoms.

Progesterone often produces the best results when used as vaginal or rectal suppositories. Suppositories may produce higher progesterone blood levels than the oral preparations.

Yvonne Beebe compiled a 7.3 in her balance beam routine against Harrison

Gymnasts score 115 but lose to Hawks

It's a situation that gymnastic teams face quite often, but the fact that it happens a lot doesn't make it any easier to take.

A team usually can gauge its improvement by monitoring the team score. If the scores go up each meet, it is improvement the gymnasts can actually see. But what is the proper reaction when a team sees dramatic improvement but still loses by a bundle?

How can a coach be happy with the progress but disappointed with a defeat at the same time? That is the dilemma facing Northville Coach Michelle Charniga and her squad.

The Mustangs improved their best team score of the season by more than four points but still lost to powerful Farmington Harrison 130.05-115.65 on February 3. It drops the team's record to 2-3 overall, 1-2 in the WLAA.

"We had a very good score but (Harrison) is one of the better teams in the area," Charniga explained. "We're doing good for ourselves but some of the teams we're going against are totally out of my kids' league."

To qualify for the state regionals, a team needs to score 118 or better three times during the season. Harrison has topped that mark every time out this year with a majority of the team coming from the Farmington Gymnastics Center.

"I know we're improving every time we go out," Charniga said. "It's just that some of these teams have girls that have been working in (gymnastic) clubs for years and we have a lot of girls who are new to the sport. They keep moving up and we never seem to equal out."

But the disappointment of losing didn't seem to lessen Charniga's optimistic outlook on the team.

"We are scoring a lot of sevens and a couple of eights," she said. "Our top four scorers are starting to score in the sevens consistently and that is really helping us."

The vault was the first event of the meet, and Harrison quickly established an early lead. Tonya Hickman's 7.85 and Yvonne Beebe's 7.8 were only good for fifth and sixth place respectively. All of the Hawks' top four scores were well into the eights with the winner grabbing an 8.8. Wendy Beach (7.5) and Angie Miller (6.75) rounded out the top four Mustang scores.

Northville had better luck in the uneven bars with a second and a third place finish but was gaining little ground. Hickman was again the top scorer for the Mustangs with a 7.8 and second place while Beach was right behind in third with a 7.7.

The last two events featured an impressive display by Beach, just a freshman. In the balance beam and the floor exercise, Beach kept pace with the best Harrison had. Her 8.15 in the beam was her top score ever in high school competition and was enough for a second overall. Hickman fell once during her routine but still managed to score a 7.4, good for a sixth, while Beebe scored a 7.3 and Theresa Gatti had a season-best 6.35 without a fall.

Beach came back with a 8.05 in the floor and another second place but was still well behind the winning score of 8.95. Beebe compiled a 7.8 for her best score in the event this season and Hickman was next with a 7.2.

"The girls were real happy with the scores but bummed out that they lost," Charniga said. "I think it is a realistic goal to try and qualify for the regionals as a team and if we keep improving at this rate, we can do it."

A gymnast needs four scores of 7.3 or better during the season to qualify individually for the balance beam or uneven bars, four of 7.4 or better in the floor exercise and four of 7.7 or better in the vault.

Sieving takes 5 firsts

Northville's Jeff Sieving didn't have to convince the other 24 teams at the Southfield Swim Club Mini C-Meet that he is one of the area's finest young swimmers.

The seven-year old Sieving, a member of the Clarenceville Swim Club, made a lot of believers in the 12-and-under meet by capturing five firsts, two seconds and three thirds.

In the seven and under age group, Sieving won the 25 breaststroke (21.11), the 25 backstroke (19.21), the 25 freestyle (15.99), the 50 backstroke (43.36) and the 50 breaststroke (47.45). He also was runner up in the 25 breaststroke (18.19) and the 50 freestyle (35.71).

Sieving placed third in the eight and under 50 freestyle (35.21) and was a member of Clarenceville's 100 freestyle (3rd) and 100 medley relay (3rd) teams.

Caldwell swims at Albion

Northville resident Julie Caldwell is a new member of the 1985-86 Albion College women's swim team. Caldwell, who is a 1984 graduate of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills, is a sophomore at Albion, specializing in the breaststroke.

Last week, Caldwell swam the fastest time of any Briton swimmer in the 100 breaststroke in a meet against Hope College. Her time of 1:24.00 would have been good for first place in the event, but Caldwell was entered as an exhibition swimmer because of her new status on the team.

So far this season, Albion has yet to win a dual meet, but as soon as Caldwell becomes a full-fledged swimmer that may change.
