Rotary gets first view of planned Main Center site

By ANITA CRONE

Kevin Callahan, president of Equity Advance, unveiled what he termed "very preliminary" sketches of plans for a six-story building for the southwest corner of Main and Center last week.

Members of the Northville Rotary Club got the first view of blueprints for the building as Callahan addressed the club July 1.

Callahan showed blueprints for a six-story building, with 23 condominium units on the upper levels, space for retail stores and enclosed parking on the lower levels and office space in between.

"This building is very much designed as a multi-use building, similar in uses to the Millender Center or the Renaissance Center," Callahan said, adding that it is a much downsized version.

But, he said, like the Detroit centers, the Main Center Plaza will mix residential with retail and offices. He noted that the second level offices will average about 18,000 square feet and the design is meant to attract "white collar professionals."

Similarly, the residential units, which Callahan said he expected to cost about $150,000 when complete, are very much designed for white collar residents.

While admitting the first main commercial tenant is Elizabeth's, Callahan said a number of other interested businesses have contacted not only his firm, but Coldwell-Banker, the leasing agent.

"We've been talking to Doug and Elizabeth Campbell (Elizabeth's owners) almost from the beginning," Callahan said. "Right now, the only question we have for them is how much space they want to lease," he said.

Callahan said he expected retail space to let for $16.25 per square foot, which is about twice what some current downtown lessees are paying for commercial space.

But that trend — higher rents — should be continuing throughout the downtown area, explained Steven Walters, city manager.

"As current leases expire, I think you'll see an increase in rents," Walters said. "Even so, people are getting a bargain when you consider space along Haggerty is renting for between $10-$20 a square foot."

"Leasing space is not like two stores selling the same shirt with one store charging $8 and the other $16. It's more like charging what the market will bear. If people can't afford to pay the going price, then they will have to make a decision to locate elsewhere," Walters concluded.

While Callahan would not give a date when Equity Advance would meet with the historic district or planning commissions, he did say that the builder, Parliament Construction, intended to have the first three floors completed by December.

Parade units step Fourth in grand style

The bands played, the units marched, the sirens wailed, the politicians walked, the beds raced and the rains held off so Northville residents could celebrate the Fourth of July in fine style.

Although the parade wasn't scheduled to leave Northville Downs until 10 a.m., spectators started lining up along Main Street as early as 8:15 in order not to miss a moment.

Bob Cummings, chairman of the Fourth activities for the Northville Jaycees, said the parade was "one of the most successful we've ever had" as he noted that, while there were problems initially, "everything clicked" on the Fourth. "We had good people working," he said.

The early risers got the advantage of watching beds roll down the street during the second annual bed race sponsored by the Northville Recreation Department which pitted three teams against each other.

Gormondo II, captained by Sue Shepard, sped from Mary Alexander Court to City Hall in 57.85 seconds, beating Big Time Investments and Dundalk I for the championship. Big Time Investments had a time of 1:11.68 and Dundalk I finished in 1:21.70.

All three units finished in time to take their place among the entrants in the parade sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, but had a hard time keeping up with the politicians, who opened the parade with a sprint down Main Street.

U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, sprinted past almost everyone as he raced past the reviewing stand in order to meet his other parade commitments.

Sieggreen dives into expedition

By MICHELE M. FECHT

After three summers in the Amazon jungle rubbing elbows with river tribesmen, romping through rainforest foliage and snacking on Manioc mangos and piranhas, Meads Mill teacher Dwight Sieggreen has decided to trade his antivenom serum for Swiss chocolates.

While the South American jungle is Sieggreen's passion, the 41-year-old science instructor will forego this year's Peruvian adventure to join an Earthwatch team of marine archaeologists to explore the lost cultures of Lac de Neuchatel in Switzerland.

"This is the most exiting thing that's ever happened to me," says Sieggreen, grinning from ear-to-ear.

Though his two-week assignment forced him to cancel this summer's visit to the jungle, Sieggreen says the opportunity to be a part of an Earthwatch team has been his quest for more than four years.

Earthwatch, an international non-profit organization, sponsors research expeditions throughout the world. Teaming scholars and scientists with amateur volunteers, the organization has mobilized more than 820 projects in its 15-year history.

Though the Swiss expedition was not one of the three choices (from among 91 projects) Sieggreen listed on his application, he admits he is well-qualified to handle the task ahead.

"They required advanced diver certification and underwater photography," Sieggreen notes. "Both of those are my niches."

With more than eight years of diving experience (done mostly in the Caribbean basin) to his credit, Sieggreen will be among those exploring the underwater treasures of Lake Neuchatel.

"What we hope to uncover is a series of settlements from the Bronze Age through the 19th century," Sieggreen relates, adding that researchers will be working in four-member teams headed by three principal investigators.

Among those directing the Neuchatel expedition is Gary Stickle, an archaeological consultant for the film, "Raiders of the Lost Ark."

'Final' hearing scheduled for Estates

By ANITA CRONE

City council is giving Northville Estates residents one final chance July 21 to have city water and sanitary sewers installed in portions of the subdivision.

But not all subdivision residents will be happy with the opportunity.

The unanimous decision to call a public hearing to amend existing water and sewer districts during the next regularly-scheduled council meeting is an attempt by the municipal body to bring either water or sewers or both to the subdivision residents who requested such action during previous hearings. However, during a June 30 special meeting, the majority of lot owners in the area rejected the creation of special assessment districts for water and sewers.

Water and sewer systems are already under construction in the northern portion of the area, and water is scheduled to be available to lot owners in the southern part of the subdivision.

But west end residents, including the majority of the homeowners on Battleford Lane between Beck Road and Summerside Lane, those who live on South Chigwidden between Dunsany and Beck Road and those who live on Dunsany Road and Dunsany Court between Chigwidden and Beck, have repeatedly told council they wanted water available.

Estimated cost for the project have ranged from $2,591 per lot to $4,959 per lot, plus hookup; however, council has indicated its intention to equalize the cost of the project throughout the subdivision.

The sanitary sewer proposal is a different story, with a smaller number of residents requesting inclusion in a district. While McNeely &

Lincoln Associates, Inc., the city's engineers, noted the feasibility of bringing the sanitary sewer to three lots with very little increase in costs, providing the system to the lots requesting would increase the cost of the project considerably.

"Providing sanitary sewer service to the balance of the requesting property owners... (would require) either a deep gravity sewer along Stanstead Road or a lift station and force main would have to be constructed," Robert Warner told council.

Business is a birthright for the Casterlines

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Three generations of Casterlines have served Northville as funeral directors. According to Ray J. Casterline II, the present owner of the funeral home, it's a profession that you almost have to be born into in order to succeed.

Casterline said that only about half of the approximately 125 students in his year at the College of Mortuary Science in Indianapolis managed to graduate. No one dropped out who had been brought up in the business.

The training, which in Casterline's case followed two years of liberal arts at Ferris State College and an apprenticeship with his father, was tough. The students took classes in anatomy, pathology, embalming, chemistry, restorative art, psychology, law and business.

"Many of the students thought it would be a good profession, but until they started training had little idea of what it really involved," Casterline said. "Those of us who had been brought up in the business knew what we were getting into."

The Casterline funeral home was established in 1937 by Casterline's grandfather, Ray J. Casterline, who had obtained his mortician's license in 1920.

Until he started his own funeral home at 122 West Dunlap, he had worked as a mortician at Schraders, once an undertakers' as well as a furniture business.

The funeral home, originally a residence, is now about 100 years old. It has seen many changes. Once it was the home of a late Northville mayor and pitching ace Harry German. It was also used as a combined residence and piano studio.

Casterline remembers his grandfather more as a farmer than a mortician. He bought a small farm in Plymouth as a sideline, and as a boy Casterline spent most of his weekends there.

The rest of the time he lived next to the funeral home with his parents, Fred and Emily Casterline (formerly Emily Saner from Plymouth), and helped them with the business.

They lived in a house that used to stand in what is now the business parking lot.

Fred Casterline took over the management of the business in 1959 when his father died.

At that time the family also operated an ambulance service, and some of Casterline's earliest memories of the business are of sitting up front in the ambulance with his father. He also washed the cars and helped with yard work.

He said he never considered any other career than following in his father's and grandfather's footsteps. Other children used to tease him about the business, but to him it was always a profession just like any other.

He took the teasing in good stride. "I was bigger than most of them, and I always knew I'd have the last laugh," he said.

He feels that he probably accepted death as a reality earlier than most children, and, since it did not have the same mystique for him as for most young people, he was not so scared of it.

Casterline worked alongside his father until Fred Casterline retired

Ernie Nolan's SHOWTIME Kid

It's Nolan's Showtime

A nine-year-old Northville resident is getting an early start on his acting career.

Showtime, a national pay-television service, named Ernie Nolan the Michigan Showtime Kid in its 1985 Familytime Kid Talentquest competition.

Throughout the fall of 1985, Showtime conducted a nationwide search for four amateur youngsters to be guest hosts of Familytime, pay-television's first program devoted exclusively to family viewing.

Nolan entered the contest by mailing in his own audition tape using scripts supplied by Showtime. His ambition is to play a role in one of Shelley Duvall's fairy tales from her Showtime series "Faerie Tale Theatre."

Four national winners will soon be selected from among the state winners by a panel of celebrity judges including actress Justine Bateman of "Family Ties," children's programing producers Joan and Lydia Wilan and Headmaster of the Professional Children's School Jeffrey Lawrence.

The contestants, between the ages of six and 14, are judged on personality, delivery, creativity, and overall presence. Winners will be announced early in July.

The four national winners of the Talentquest competition will guest host one week of Showtime's Familytime programming later this year.

Familytime segments air every Monday through Friday from 4-6 p.m. and on Sundays from 6-10 a.m. Guaranteeing quality programs free of excessive violence, coarse language, sex and nudity, Familytime features films about young people, live-action and animated specials and holiday films.

Showtime will be searching for more talented youngsters again this fall.

Alumni band together to jazz up the summer

Maybe it's appropriate that the Northville Alumni Jazz Band will be performing downtown Friday night without a roof over the members' heads. The history of jazz is dotted with such sad tales.

But while he makes it clear he would prefer a stage to the ground-level under-the-stars setting he'll have for the NAJB's upcoming performance, the ambitious director of the local ensemble takes very seriously the task of winning respect.

"I'm a perfectionist," agrees Rick Balek, a sales engineer by day, occasional professional musician by night, and on Monday evenings the organizer and director of NAJB rehearsals.

"Even when we've got something down great, I feel like it could be better. But we have fun doing it... We have one member, Tom Rothermel, who drives up from Toledo, not just for gigs, but for rehearsals too."

The personnel ranges in age from 19 to mid-30s, with one common denominator. All 17 members are graduates of Northville High School. Some are still attending college: Balek's assistant director and NAJB drummer Brian Buckmaster is a distinguished percussionist at Eastern Michigan University. Tenor saxophone player Billy Hopping plays lead tenor for the University of Michigan Jazz Band.

Others are working pros: Alto saxophonist Don Buckmaster is a professional musician and Balek himself is a card-carrying union bass trombonist who has shared stages with Englebert Humperdinck, saxophonist/composer Lew Tabackin and Rob McConnell's brass band. Recently he has gigged with Joe Vitale's big band, a Detroit-area favorite.

The 17-piece band features five saxophonists, six trumpets and "three or four trombones" and showcases material expanding on last year's repertoire with Ellington classics like "Mood Indigo" and "Don't Get Around Much Any More" to covers of up-to-date jazz tunes by Spyrogyra and Maynard Ferguson.

"One of the nice things is that Northville High School's music department has a really nice collection of music charts," says Balek. "They're not always well organized, but the selection's one of the best in the state."

With so much to offer, one might think the NAJB is sitting pretty. Not so. "We're open to donations," Balek emphasizes. "We'd like to be more active, but frankly, it's difficult for us to afford rehearsal space and to ensure that we have a nice stage to present ourselves."

The Northville Alumni Jazz Band will perform at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the downtown town square park by the clock on Main Street east of Center and will present new musical selections at another scheduled performance August 1.

NEWS BRIEFS

FITTING MEMORIAL — A television and video recorder were dedicated at First United Methodist Church of Northville Sunday by the William Ziegler family of Novi in memory and honor of their daughter, Cathleen, who died in the crash of a military jet at Gander, Newfoundland, last December.

"It is a fitting time that we dedicate this memorial as we commemorate our nation's birthday and the lives of those who have given the ultimate sacrifice through the love of their nation," commented the Rev. Eric Hammar.

THERE WAS TROUBLE in Paradise June 30, or at the very least in one Northville Estates household. One member of the two-person family favored city water for the subdivision; the other was against it. When the city engineer suggested half-inch water lines to the residence, the male homeowner questioned whether it would include a shut-off valve.

TEN ONE HUNDRED dollar bills didn't seem as nifty a wedding present as a $1,000 one to the customer at the Northville Branch of Manufacturers Bank who tried to obtain such a bill Monday for a gift. The teller explained that $1,000 denominations hadn't been issued by the U.S. Treasury for several years. Largest bill currently issued is $100.

Besides, the teller observed, it's really impossible to cash bigger bills.

WHEN THE FLAGS are flying, there is only one possible holiday the nation could be celebrating. At least one youngster, who with his parents was walking toward Main Street for the Fourth of July parade came around the corner of Center Street, saw the flags and got a huge grin on his face.

"Look, mommy, it's flag day," the youngster said. Far be it from us to correct a good idea.

BILL LUCAS is running so hard for governor and so busily running Wayne County that sometimes he forgets to do some political work. Apparently, the county executive is the first candidate for state office in more than 20 years to fail to answer the Michigan League of Women Voters' candidate questionnaire.

SPACE ON WHEELS is needed by the Northville Jaycees who are seeking the donation of an unneeded trailer or cargo van in which to store such materials as barbecue equipment (used on July 4) and props for the Halloween haunted house.

Anyone who can assist is asked to call Bob Cummings, 349-4528.

NEW LEADERS — Six new officers took over the helm of Rotary July 1. Dick Milder will serve as president; Jim Petres as vice president; Pat Bradley as secretary; Tom Davidson as treasurer; Bill Tomczyk as sergeant at arms and Donald Van Ingen as bulletin editor until June 30, 1987.

Kirco selected to develop office center

There is no doubt in anyone's mind that when Ward Presbyterian Church finally moves into Northville Township, its neighbors are going to be first class.

The church Session authorized Kirco Realty & Development, Ltd. to develop the 45-acre 550,000 square foot office center to be located in the northwest portion of the church property. The Session also authorized the land sale to the firm; however, details of the purchase agreement are still being worked out.

Although Kirco does not yet own the land, the firm is going first class on the development, with Minouro Yamasaki Associates as the architect for the seven buildings which will comprise the office park.

Kirco is no slouch in development, either, with the firm listing the Oak Hollow Corp. campus in Southfield, a 425,000 square foot complex; the Wilshire Buildings in Troy; and the renovation of 1 Kennedy Square in downtown Detroit as its projects.

Township planning commissioners got a preliminary view of the plans during their June 24 meeting, but "We are being very careful about this project. It is our hope to have the Northville Township property as our home for the next generations."

full-scale proposals are not expected to be presented to the group until the purchase agreement is finalized. And that may take at least two months.

"We are being very careful about this project," said James Abernethy, of Ward Presbyterian. "It is our hope to have the Northville Township property as our home for the next generations."

Kirco is also looking forward to having the church as a neighbor and plans to have at least one building completed and a second nearly so by the end of 1987. Douglas Wingworth, Kirco vice president for project development, said current plans call for the construction of general office and office showroom areas, with no retail space available.

But Wingworth cautioned the project is in the "very preliminary" stages of development.

He noted that he also expected it to take about two months to "complete the purchase agreement, including dotting every i and crossing every t. That is not at all unusual a time frame," he said.

Ward is also committed to "not messing up the community", Abernethy said. "This is the entrance to Northville Township, and we want to do things right."

Abernethy added that it was very intentional on the church's part that each time the office plaza is mentioned, another facet of the planned development also comes into play. In this case, it has been a senior citizen complex.

"We are not going to hang out a sign that says 'no vacancy' to anyone who reaches out to us for help," Abernethy said. "There are hundreds of new people coming to our services each week for the first time, and we look forward to expanding our ministry to each of them — the youngsters with a full-day kindergarten and the seniors with full programs. They are all part of our family."

Even with the sale of the 45 acres, the church maintains control of more than 95 acres and has announced plans to build a large sanctuary, a church-related school and a fellowship hall, among other edifices on the property.

Commission plans special senior citizen area

Anticipating at least two requests for including senior citizen housing in the community, the Northville Township Housing Commission has instructed its consultant to prepare a preliminary plan for the creation of elderly housing districts within the township.

"Right now, the only elderly district requirements we have require a 75-acre parcel. It is apparent we are going to have requests from developers who have parcels that are far smaller than that," explained commission chairperson Pat Wright of the commission's action at its June 24 meeting.

Representatives of Ward Presbyterian Church, which owns a 140-acre site on Six Mile near Haggerty, have announced plans to build a retirement village on approximately 25 acres. And, while the church's plans are incomplete, there is no doubt in any planning commissioner's mind that the Ward project will not be the only one to come before the group.

"We think it is important to address the issue now, before the requests come, so we know exactly what we can and cannot require," Wright noted, adding that since zoning requirements go with the land, rather than a specific project, the township will be able to regulate the projects.

"If, for instance, an elderly village, with multiple housing comes into the township and then three years down the line goes belly up, we would be facing the possibility of a multiple housing unit in a single-family zoned area," warned commissioner Marvin Gans in urging Claude Coates to draw up the plans.

Even if the zoning district plans were completed by the commission's July 29 meeting, it is unlikely any commission action would be taken prior to August. Once the district gains commission approval, public hearings must be held and the entire township board of trustees must give its approval before the zoning district could be adopted.

Library friends seek good used books

Used books of all descriptions are needed by the Friends of the Northville Public Library to sell at the annual summer sidewalk sale Aug. 2

"We are seeking new books, old books, fiction and non-fiction but are hoping for some collector's items to come through," said Betty Griffin, coordinator of the sale. "People don't know what treasures may be stored in their attics.

"We'd like to find some copies of Gone With the Wind which came out 50 years ago this year, and some of the early Nancy Drew mysteries. Children's books are especially needed," Griffin said. "We cannot use textbooks for K-12, however."

The Friends ask that bags and boxes of books be light enough to be managed by women volunteers. They may be brought to the library on Main at Wing streets but will not be accepted after July 25 for the August sale.

All proceeds from the sale are used for goods and services not provided by the library budget. Last year the Friends raised $600 at the summer sale.

Beauty award for Whittington

The last weekend in June, while Louise Whittington stood in the downtown doorway of IV Seasons Flowers, everything just seemed to fall into place.

The flowers were in bloom, the ducks were parading, the chimes were ringing from the clock, and people were eating ice cream while they strolled through the downtown area.

"It was just perfect," Whittington recalled. "That's what downtown Northville should be."

Because Whittington has such definite ideas of what a proper downtown should be and because she and her husband, Ebbie, have donated time and money to help Northville achieve her ideal, the 74-year-old was honored recently by the Southeastern Michigan Beautification commissions with their community service award.

While Whittington says she appreciated the award, it didn't mean as much to her as seeing the downtown flourish.

"In 1976, I was really concerned about Northville," she says. "It was running down and nobody seemed to be doing anything about it. I have always believed that if you didn't move forward, you were moving backward, and I didn't want that to happen here."

So she met with Paul Vernon, then a council member, and his wife, Norma, and outlined her ideas about the community. The Vernons took them to heart, and a love affair between the Whittingtons and the town began.

"What I've done is so little," Whittington says. "I look around and see what Inge (Zayti) has done with the theater and what Norma has done with the flowers and what every merchant has done with the frontage, and I know that those things are very important. It makes the town what it is."

But others have looked around and seen what the Whittingtons have done as well. The Westminster chimes in the town clock are a gift from the family, and the flowers that bloom each year are a testament to Louise Whittington's efforts on behalf of Northville.

She served on the city's beautification commission when it was first established, and she has donated, with others, bulbs for planting throughout the community. In her spare time, she tends to the flowers she grows on her six acre plot.

"It's a matter of pride and of control," Whittington says. "Northville has been successful in establishing controls to implement the master plan it has established for development. I think we're seeing the results of that control now with the growth taking place here.

"I've always known that Northville is a special place — a little oasis in the middle of a burgeoning business area. I'd like it to stay that way," she says.

Louise Whittington and the town clock she made chime

'Gypsy' opens at Marquis Friday

"Gypsy," one of Broadway's best musicals, will be presented onstage at the Marquis Theatre weekends July 12 through August 3.

Based on the best-selling book of memoirs of Gypsy Rose Lee, the scene is set in the days of vaudeville, and Gypsy's eventual success as the lady of burlesque fostered by a pushy stage mother, Mama Rose, who lets nothing get in her way of making her dream of stardom come true. Tunes include "Let Me Entertain You," "Everything's Coming Up Roses" and "You Gotta Have a Gimmick."

The play is supported by a cast of young professional actors with Judy Dery as Mama Rose and Carol Lampert as Louise.

Ticket prices are Fridays, July 18, 25 and August 1, 8:30 p.m., $9; Saturdays, July 12, 19, 26 and August 2, 8:30 p.m., $12; Sunday Matinees, July 13, 20, 27 and August 3, 2:30 p.m., $8. Tickets can be purchased in advance at the Marquis stores.

How to live with someone who's living with cancer.

When one person gets cancer, everyone in the family suffers.

Nobody knows better than we do how much help and understanding is needed. That's why our service and rehabilitation programs emphasize the whole family, not just the cancer patient.

Among our regular services we provide information and guidance to patients and families, transport patients to and from treatment, supply home care items and assist patients in their return to everyday life.

Life is what concerns us. The life of cancer patients. The lives of their families. So you can see we are even more than the research organization we are so well known to be.

No one faces cancer alone.

At Security Bank Oakland County, we're dedicated to helping you avoid what we call "the finance run-around." Perhaps you're familiar with it. It starts with a savings account at that bank. Next, it's a checking account at this bank. Then, a loan or IRA through still another financial institution. Before long, you're spending unnecessary time - and possibly money - trying to keep your finances in order.

At Security Bank Oakland County, we feel you deserve better, and as an affiliate of Security Bancorp - Michigan's 7th largest bank holding company - we can act on that feeling. We work hard at providing you the most valuable combination of banking services and cost advantages possible. When you choose Security for all of your banking needs, we not only try to save you time, but money as well.

We think you'll agree that when it comes to low cost, full service banking, you need all the Security you can get.

Funeral service for Caroline P. Bogart, 93, was held at 11 a.m. Thursday at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. with the Rev. Michael L. Dunkelberger of Northbrook Presbyterian Church in Birmingham officiating.

Mrs. Bogart died June 30 in Littleton Manor Nursing Home in Littleton, Colo. A homemaker, she had been a resident of the community from 1915 to 1928 and of the Detroit area from 1928 to 1981. She was a member of the Northville Eastern Star chapter and of Calvin Presbyterian (West) Church in Detroit.

Mrs. Bogart was the widow of H. Ray Bogart whom she married Sept. 16, 1915. He died in 1973.

She was born Dec. 28, 1892, in Cherry Hill, Mich., to Henry and Alice (Cobb) Peterson.

She leaves a daughter, Dorothy McCluskie in Colorado, a son, Harold of Traverse City, five grandchildren and seven great grandchildren. She was preceded in death by one brother and three sisters.

Interment was in Rural Hill Cemetery. The family suggests that memorial contributions may be made to Littleton Nursing Home in Littleton or to Calvin Presbyterian Church West in Detroit.

EDWARD D. URSEL

Edward D. Ursel, a Ford Motor Company accountant and a resident of Northville for 10 years, died July 3 at University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor after an illness of several years. He was 47.

He was a member of First United Methodist Church of Northville and was active in Cub Scouting.

Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. July 7 at First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Eric S. Hammar, pastor, officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Ursel was born May 11, 1939, in Wyandotte to William E. and Iza A. (Jones) Ursel.

Survivors include his wife, Darlene (Mieden), parents, William and Iza Ursel of Lincoln Park, son, Thomas, and daughter, Beth Anne, both at home.

Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home Inc. The family suggests memorial tributes may be made to the Northville Methodist Church or to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

WALTER EDWARD WILHELM

Funeral service for Walter Edward Wilhelm, 84, of Northville was held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at St. Paul's Lutheran Church where he was a member. Pastor Charles Boerger officiated.

Interment was in Glen Eden Memorial Park Cemetery in Livonia. Mr. Wilhelm died July 5 at Hendry Convalescent Home in Plymouth.

He was born April 24, 1902, in Mayville, Wis., to Philip and Lydia (Krause) Wilhelm. He married Eileen Moeller who survives.

He also leaves two daughters, Gretchen Green of Plymouth and Lydia Christofides of Seattle, five grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

A resident of the community for 15 years, Mr. Wilhelm was retired manager of the film department of Jam Handy Inc, with whom he had been associated for more than 40 years.

Arrangements were by Casterline Funeral Home Inc. The family suggests memorials to St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

Bandshell money is halfway there

The sound of music is moving nearer to having a permanent location in the city, but donations are still needed before construction can begin on a proposed bandshell for town square park.

Although the city beautification commission, which is sponsoring the fund-raising effort for the bandshell is more than half way to its announced $25,000 goal, chairperson Norma Vernon said money is still being sought.

"It doesn't have to be a lot. We'd be very pleased if anybody who wanted to contribute did so — so they could really feel they have a part of the bandshell," she said.

Vernon noted that small contributions — thus far the smallest is $25 — are sometimes more important than large donations because they involve more people in a city-wide project.

While an architect has already been selected to build the bandshell, Vernon said work on the project will not begin until all money has been collected. She added she hopes the bandshell is in place by the town's fall festival.

Church schedules Bible School

"Glad Days" is the title of Meadowbrook Congregational Church's first vacation Bible School to be held July 14-18 from 9-11:30 a.m. at the church at 21355 Meadowbrook Road north of Eight Mile.

It is open to all children ages two through sixth grade (just completed.) Cost is $5 a child or $10 a family. Reservations may be made with the church, 348-7757.

Participants will explore the theme of "God creates, forgives, cares, strengthens and saves" through activities, crafts, stories, recreation and worship.

Reed convicted of armed robbery of Northville woman

In the city . . .

Robert Reed, 28, arrested by Northville City Police on Feb. 3 for attempting to rob a Novi woman at gunpoint, has been convicted.

Reed, a Detroit resident, was found guilty of three charges including: assault with intent to rob while armed (five to 20 years in prison), using a firearm during the commission of a felony (two years) and, by virtue of his extensive police record, Reed was also convicted as a habitual offender (five to 20 years).

A Northville couple reported to police that between 11 p.m. on July 2 and 7:30 a.m. the following day, unknown person(s) entered their home while they were sleeping and stole a wallet and a variety of business papers.

According to the report, the complainants said the stolen items were left on the kitchen counter and all doors to the house were closed but not locked. The next morning, the items were missing, but nothing else in the house was disturbed.

The wallet, valued at $70, contained credit cards but no money.

The complainants' daughter told police of a suspicious incident that may be linked to the burglary: about a week prior to the incident, she noticed a late model Monte Carlo (charcoal color) stop in front of the residence while the passenger in the front seat took pictures of the house.

Unknown suspect(s) removed four wire wheel covers from two vehicles parked in the west lot at the McDonald Ford dealership in Northville, according to the police report.

The complainant believes the incident occurred between 9 p.m. on July 3 and 3 p.m. on July 7. Each wheel cover was valued at $400 for a total value of $1,200.

The woman told police that the door wall window had been slightly forced, although an investigation by officers yielded no sign of damage.

A search of the Plymouth Center for Human Development grounds July 2 yielded no suspects after a safety officer at the site reported a trespasser and that shots had been fired.

The officer told local and state police officers that he had noticed a male on the grounds and, when he drew near the suspect, the suspect reportedly fired at the safety officer. However, state and local police officials conducted a search of the premises and were unable to find any signs of either the trespasser or a bullet.

A Northville woman reported to police that two youths, who told her mother that they were soliciting for one of the daily newspapers, reached into her outdoor fountain and walked away with about $1.50 in quarters. Police are investigating the woman's report.

Police 'party' nets three arrests

The State Police threw a party last Wednesday, but the "hosts" traveled to the guests.

"Operation Party Store," aimed at identifying party stores willing to sell alcohol without checking identification, resulted in four suburban businesses being cited to the state Liquor Control Commission and four clerks being arrested.

The state police plan to repeat the operation Friday (July 11).

Charged with a misdemeanor, furnishing liquor to a minor, were Paula Marie Wasiak, at the Quik Pik on Five Mile Road in Northville Township; Cheryl Ann Gronski, at Hamlet Food Mart, and Geraldine Barbara Forbing, at Cap N Cork, all in Northville Township. Also cited was the Great Scott! store in Plymouth Township.

The stores also were cited to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission. The operation worked as follows:

A 19-year-old police cadet, went into party stores in Northville and Plymouth townships and, using his own identification, attempted to purchase beer. When asked for identification, the cadet produced his own driver's license. However, at the four stores, no identification was requested.

"The important thing about this operation was that there were six clerks in six stores, including Meijer's, who did ask for identification and refused to sell alcohol to a minor," said Trooper Charles Schumacher, public information officer at the State Police Northville Post.

Schumacher noted that the Northville Party Shoppe, Meijer's and the Six and Park Party Store refused to sell beer to the police cadet after checking identification.

. . . in the township

A Romulus man, who parked his Chevrolet pickup truck at Meijer's June 30, returned to find his $120 radar detector missing.

Although there were no signs of forced entry, police are investigating the incident.

A Northville resident told police that the outside storage area to her apartment was broken into June 30, although apparently nothing was taken.

Holiday's multi-event celebration

It was a grand & glorious Fourth

The politicians were one of the few units which didn't try to "bribe" the parade judges with flowers and play money to try and win first place in their division.

The payola was not altogether successful as the Redford Jaycees with their Statue of Liberty float and their precision lawnmower team captured first place in Division A, the Michigan Scottish Band won Division B, the VFW won Division C, the Salem Rockettes won the junior marching category and Four Seasons 4-H Horse Farm was selected as the top entry among animal groups. Farmington Elks won the special entries category.

Six prizes were awarded in the popular decorated bike contest which had 33 contestants. Chairperson Debbie Anderson reported that prizes were awarded in three age groups: 3-5 year olds, 1st, Julie Ann Flis, 5, and 2nd, Natasha Switalski, 3; 6-8 year olds, 1st, Nicholas Tomask, 7, and 2nd, Roxanne Warner, 7; 9-11 year olds, 1st, Carol Braund, 10, and 2nd, Molly McLoud, 11.

Burr Joslin's 1928 Ford took first prize in the pre-war car category and Robert Korson's 1956 Chevy was selected as the top post-war entry. A special interest prize was given to Riemenschneiders for their Shelby.

Other awards were presented during the day-long picnic at the Mill Race Historical Village where the Northville Jaycees were on duty at 5:30 a.m. cooking more than 200 chickens, 200 hotdogs and 200 sausages to please the crowd which managed to converge on the village on Griswold off Main almost before the last marching unit reached the reviewing stand.

"We certainly hope to make money," explained Bo Bouret, who was busily adding sauce to the chickens on the grill. "But we also certainly intend to get rid of these chickens."

Bouret needn't have worried. All the food sold out. And some people wanted more, as evidenced by the participation in the watermelon eating contest. Thirteen year old Stefan Filkin captured the first heat and Jay Luther, 11, won the second. The winners all received a watermelon.

Prior to the start of the Fourth festivities, Norma Vernon was given the Claude N. Ely award, annually presented for service to the community. Vernon chairs the city beautification commission and has sparked the many beautification projects throughout downtown, assisting with the designing and planting of beds and areas in town and along South Main.

Vernon said she had "no idea" she would win and, even when she held the plaque in her hand, was heard to protest "there are people more deserving. This isn't for me."

However, the engraving on the award belied her words.

As he had promised when the Jaycees appeared before city council for funds and parade and fireworks permissions, council member Paul Folino with friends he recruited passed among spectators at the fireworks with canisters and collected almost $400 toward cost of the fireworks.

Poe's made the grade at Moraine and at Amerman

By JEAN DAY

"I thought it was going to be sad, but it wasn't," reported Amerman teacher Naomi Poe of her final teaching days in the Northville Public School System.

"It was like a love-in," she added happily just before school recessed for the year. She told of the many remembrances she was receiving, including a gold Teddy Bear on a chain and a money gift that will be used to buy luggage.

The teacher who joined the Northville system in 1968 teaching under principal Milton Jacobi at Moraine Elementary concluded her career here teaching a first-second grade split at Amerman — under principal Jacobi.

She admitted she was concerned when Moraine closed at the end of the 1985-86 school year and she transferred to Amerman.

"But I really came among friends," she related. She rejoined a staff headed by Jacobi after 10 years under principal Donald Vaningen.

Jacobi's comment: "An outstanding teacher who will be greatly missed!"

She noted that she had "stayed longer than I would have if Al had lived." Her husband, Alfred, died in 1983. At that time, she recalled, "I was going to stay home and clean house."

As she talked, Naomi Poe held the Dr. Seuss best seller, "You're Only Old Once," billed as a book for obsolete children, which was one of her parting gifts, and told of the notes she received from children, friends and parents. As she talked a floral bouquet was delivered from a parent.

As she recalled her years of teaching first and second graders, she observed, "The reason I feel I had a measure of success in Northville was the absolute cooperation from parents in the classroom."

"They always came in and did all the messy things — like painting and cooking. I think I had good management skills," she laughed.

"Parents here really care about their children," she added.

'The reason I feel I had a measure of success in Northville was the absolute cooperation from parents in the classroom. They always came in and did all the messy things — like painting and cooking. I think I had good management skills.'

Teaching today, she related, is much different from when she began teaching second and third grades in Hazlet, N.J. She taught there for seven years before coming to Northville. Prior to that, she taught high school in Ohio for six years.

She mentioned that her 30-year teaching career found her in every level classroom except kindergarten and fifth grade.

"We taught very few facts above 20 in those early days," she recalled. "Now, the reading program is very sophisticated. Skills have moved down — children know the beginning sounds when they come into first grade."

"They are into books the first month and some in the first week."

There is an attendant problem with this, however, Naomi Poe noted. When children enroll from other areas, they often are not as prepared.

"I had an Apple computer in my classroom all year, and they've been on it every day," she pointed out, noting that spelling tests and word programs that work with opposites can be put into the computer.

In the future, Poe foresees preschool programs, such as that at Moraine, being incorporated into the school system.

"It's a demanding district," she acknowledged, noting a lot is expected of a teacher. "That's why I got my master's."

Teaching is much different today from 30 years ago when Naomi Poe first walked into a classroom as a teacher.

"You're dealing with subjects like sex in the first grade," she pointed out, mentioning the subject had come up recently in her room.

"You say, 'Yes, Mrs. Poe thinks it's all right,' but you have to go on and talk about it being later, at the right time in their lives," she related.

Looking back at the early days of her teaching, she added that "they also hired my husband." It was mentioned, she recalled, that he "could help" with her projects.

"Al did build my cooking center at Moraine," Poe said.

Many of her well-wishers on her retirement were fellow members of Delta Kappa Gamma teaching fraternity. Poe also is a past president of the teachers' union, serving for eight years in that capacity.

Looking ahead to retirement, Poe said she's planning to see more of her family. Daughter Sandra is living in Kansas and has two grown sons; Charles is living in Tennessee and has two children; William is single and living in Florida; and Alfred is married and living in Ann Arbor.

"I've said," she laughed, "that if I relocate it will have to be along the I-75."

Right now Naomi Poe intends to keep her home on Hill Street and is planning future vacation trips to Vancouver, B.C., and California.

One of the very first things she'll have to do, however, is find a place to display the resolution passed by Northville City Council recognizing her "many years of devoted service she has given to the children of our community" and commending her for that service. It was presented at the tea held in her honor at Amerman.

Casterlines are born into the business of dying

six years ago at age 60, after 40 years in the business.

"He found it depressing when he started to bury people his own age," Casterline explained. "In this business you see too many people who retire and don't get to enjoy it."

Fred Casterline is enjoying his retirement. He and his wife took their boat down the Mississippi and are living on it off the coast of Florida.

They visit Northville occasionally by sailing up the intercoastal waterway, staying for a while in New York on the way. "We call them the boat people," his son said.

Casterline's wife and family are not so closely involved with the funeral home as he and his mother were when his father was the owner.

For one thing, the family no longer lives on the premises. Casterline's wife, Roxanne, is very busy with the couple's four daughters and helping part time at Northville Montessori.

Casterline still remembers the one time his wife did help. It was the funeral of his great grandmother, and, since his parents were in the service, his wife offered to greet mourners at the door. He heard her ask a relative, "are you going to the party afterwards?"

"You just don't say that," he said, cringing. "It's a good job it was family!"

"Roxanne does understand the long hours and the night calls," he added. "Her father is a doctor."

Casterline was in fact delivered by Dr. Russell M. Atchison, who eventually became his father-in-law.

When the Casterlines first married they lived on Cady Street, but, as the family grew, they exchanged houses with Mrs. Casterline's parents on Rogers Street.

They have four daughters: Courtney, 13; Kelly, 11; Lindsey, 8; and Whitney, 3.

Their father said whether or not they join the business is up to them, but noted that it is becoming more common for women to become funeral directors. At the moment they are more interested in music and sports.

There are certain traits that Casterline feels a funeral director needs, some of which he feels are in-born.

"You have to be able to listen to people, to be caring and diplomatic," he said. "you serve people when they need it most. The most satisfying aspect of the job is helping people."

He feels that the press has given an undeserved bad image to funeral directors and thinks that in most cases they serve their communities well.

He finds the recent Federal Trade Commission ruling, which requires funeral homes to itemize services, makes it more difficult for most people to plan a funeral.

Instead of a package arrangement, people have to choose 20 different items, from transportation to professional services.

"At a time like that people are distraught enough, and it adds more confusion."

"The decisions are up to the family, and the best thing is to explain the options and leave them to decide."

He tries not to let people overextend financially if it is not appropriate, however. For example, he advised a widow with young children how to plan a very nice but affordable funeral for her husband at less cost than she had originally arranged.

Casterline's business has shaped his own attitude towards death. "Everybody has a time and place, and age doesn't seem to enter into it," he said. He regards it in a realistic, logical way and is in a way a fatalist.

Nothing, however, even 15 years in the business, takes the emotion away. "It never gets easier serving families who have lost children," he admitted.

A funeral director has to become a good judge of people and sense the kind of funeral that will be the most comforting to the survivors, he said, adding that the funeral is for the living not the dead. He finds that some people prefer more formal arrangements and others are comforted by a more relaxed, family atmosphere.

Though he does not take the business home with him, he admits the emotional stress is sometimes hard to shake off.

Casterline is often asked whether or not children should visit the funeral home or attend the funeral of a loved one. He feels it is best to let the child decide.

As for the proportion of cremations to burials, Casterline said that cremation is chosen by only about 10 percent of the families. The level is still the same as it was 10 years ago. There is still enough space for burials until the year 2000.

There's one nice thing about cemeteries, according to Casterline. Despite the negative and mysterious image they have been given in many films, they do provide a respite from the concrete.

"After all," he asked, "what else in most major cities is green!"

Sieggreen forsakes jungles for Earthwatch in Switzerland

Stickel, who earned his Ph.D. from UCLA based on his studies of Swiss archaeology, will be joined by Evan Garrison, a nautical archaeologist currently teaching at Texas A & M University, and Ralph Rowlett, a Harvard graduate and NATO Fellow, who did post-graduate work in Iron Age Archaeology at the Institute of Archaeology in London.

Sieggreen admits he originally was rejected by Earthwatch because the summer programs already were filled by the time he submitted his application. However, a cancellation on the Neuchatel project left a vacancy on the two-week expedition.

"When they called to ask me if I was interested, I said, 'You guys are talking about sending me to cold water. I want the jungle.'"

"I took it in a second," he adds.

Sieggreen's top three choices on his application included a two-week expedition to Costa Rica to study howler monkeys, a 15-day study of tropical birds in Panama and 13-day exploration of the Coral Reef.

While his search for Paleolithic ruins in Switzerland will be a far cry from studying macaws in the tropical forest, Sieggreen says the opportunity will offer him a new challenge.

"When they called to ask me if I was interested, I said, 'You guys are talking about sending me to cold water. I want the jungle.' I took it in a second."

"The dives are going to be deep and very cold," Sieggreen says of underwater exploration in the Alpine lake.

While divers will be searching for ruins beneath the waters of Lake Neuchatel, other volunteers will join Swiss excavators in unearthing the Copper Age site of St. Blaise.

Aside from the research itself, Sieggreen says he is looking forward to working with Stickel on the project.

"I can't wait to talk to him about 'Raiders of the Lost Ark,'" says Sieggreen, whose own experiences somewhat mirror those of the fictional adventurer Indiana Jones, the brainchild of movie directors Steven Spielberg and George Lucas.

Sieggreen's participation in the August 18-31 expedition will be paid for through a grant from the Leonhardt Foundation.

The fellowship, which is offered to only 28 teacher participants from across the country, is provided by the Leonhardt Foundation in an effort to train top teachers by giving them short term internships with renowned university researchers from around the world. The grant covers all costs of the project excluding travel expenses.

Sieggreen says he is planning to take along a video camera to record the team's findings and may suggest implementing archaeology as one of next year's electives at the middle school.

Since his first adventure overseas as an exchange student in West Berlin, Sieggreen has traveled to all parts of the world from Europe to the Caribbean to the jungles of Mexico and Peru.

In 1981, he took his first jungle expedition in the Yucatan.

"I ran into my first boa on that trip," Sieggreen relates. "That's when I fell in love with reptiles."

After a visit to the Yucatan, he then headed to the Amazon, where he has spent three consecutive summers.

Sieggreen admits his jungle experiences have added a new dimension to his teaching.

His science room at Meads Mill bears close resemblance to a zoo's reptile house. Boa constrictors, an iguana and other critters share space with microscopes, dissecting tools and 20-some students.

This past year, Sieggreen became a surrogate father to a South American caiman named Casey, whom he adopted from the Michigan Humane Society.

Having recently lost one of his boas to pneumonia, Sieggreen has acquired a new snake, whom he calls Boa Derek, and an Indonesian monitor lizard. The lizard, Mr. Hall Monitor, was donated to Sieggreen by Northville veterinarian Carol Geake.

While next month's expedition may not produce a new pet for Meads Mill, Sieggreen says the experience will provide invaluable insight into the area of marine archaeology.

"What I'm hoping to do with this expedition is show them what I can do so they'll ask me to join them every year," Sieggreen says.

As for future projects, Sieggreen says there still are corners of the earth he hopes to explore.

"My goal is New Guinea by '89," Sieggreen says, noting that he would like to study mud people by the end of the decade.

"I'd also like to take an expedition through the Sahara on a camel," he relates.

Last but not least is a white shark expedition in Tasmania.

"They put you in a shark cage and drop you in the water," Sieggreen says, noting that such an endeavor provides the optimum position for photographing white sharks.

Should such a feat come to pass, it is highly unlikely Sieggreen could convince the Northville Board of Education to approve the adoption of a pet shark to keep company with Casey, Boa Derek and Mr. Hall Monitor.

in a letter.

Warner indicated estimates for construction range from $40,000 to $100,000 and noted "without detailed soil borings and analyses, it is difficult to ascertain the approximate cost."

In calling the public hearing, council indicated it would still exclude the center portion of Northville Estates, the area from which much of the opposition for the projects originated.

Previously, council has adopted the position that it would not force any resident to pay for water and sewers, however, with the necessity of including a deep ditch along Stanstead Road, where residents are evenly divided in favor and in opposition to sewers, may force the body to reassess its own stand.

One thing is certain. The July 21 hearing will be the last on the issue—at least for the next two weeks.

School Notebook

Three Northville residents were among the more than 800 Northwood Institute students receiving degrees at commencement ceremonies May 17.

Among those receiving degrees were MARTHA JANE LINDHOLM, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lindholm, BBA in marketing and management; STELLA KAYE NEAL, daughter of Kenneth and Sylvia Neal, associate degree in hotel and restaurant management, and TODD TAYLOR JENNINGS, son of Ronald Francis and Delores Jennings, associate degree in advertising.

MARGARET MURPHY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy of 42135 Westmeath Court and a junior at Ladywood High School in Livonia, has been awarded the prestigious Madame Curie Medal for outstanding academic achievement in science and mathematics.

The medal is presented by the Society of Women Engineers to one junior who has distinguished herself during the three previous school years by meeting the high standards set forth by the Society. Murphy maintains a 4.0 grade point average.

CAROL SUE MUNSSELL of 41550 Rayburn is among the part-time Sienna Heights College students named to the academic achievement list for the spring term.

Part-time students are enrolled in not less than six or more than 11 semester hours. Students must have attained a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 during spring term.

GREGORY ALAN CHRZANOWSKI, son of Mr. and Mrs. D.P. Chrzanowski of 41131 Croydon Court, received a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering at the 125th commencement of Washington University in St. Louis, Mo.

He is a graduate of Catholic Central.

JAYNE CARROLL of 44575 Galway is among 82 new engineering students who will receive $1,000 merit awards when they begin classes at Purdue University this fall.

The students were selected as the 1986 recipients of the President's Honor Award, a one-time merit award given to outstanding students entering the Schools of Engineering.

The award is based on leadership activities and academic achievement in high school, as well as college board scores and high school grades.

Our Opinions

The time is here: For sewers, water

There comes a time when elected officials must take a stand, no matter how unpopular with their constituents that action may be. That time has come and gone for the Northville City Council regarding water and sanitary sewers for Northville Estates.

While we sympathize with the subdivision residents, most of whom have had no problems with their wells or their septic systems and fail to see why they should spend $10,000 for city water and the sewer when there is no need for such an expenditure, we cannot help but think they are being shortsighted. With the increasing problem of ground-water contamination and the ever-present possibility of an electrical failure knocking out the septic system, the potential for an ecological disaster cannot be ignored.

From an economic viewpoint, the price to install the system throughout the subdivision will never be lower. An estimated $4,400 for the water mains and $5,200 for the sewer lines, spread over 15 years, is much less costly than water and sewers for other areas of the metropolitan area. And the benefits to the homeowners in terms of resale value cannot be ignored.

We commend the intent of the council not to force any lot or homeowner to pay for a system he neither wants nor needs at the present time. But the city council was elected and charged with looking out for the common good of the community and in this case the common good can be translated into city water and sewers.

The concept of water and sewers for a community is not a new one. Nor should it be a revelation to the residents of the subdivision, many of whom owned their property two years ago when the matter was first raised by city council. Following public hearings on a water and sewer system for the northern portion of the subdivision, the city did not force an assessment on any lot or homeowner for the project. Yet increasing numbers of property owners have come forth and asked to be included in the district.

The two-year time lag between approval of the assessment district and the actual implementation of the improvements was a benefit other subdivision residents do not have. In order to receive an optimum financial arrangement, approval must be given and work must be started immediately.

Already council has delayed the progress of the contractor while it has held three public hearings and scheduled a fourth. There is nothing new that can be said. Everyone has spoken. The time to act has come.

We would like nothing better than for the city to include the entire subdivision in the water and sewer project. And while the action may be unpopular with some residents, it is a responsible move and one that is a month overdue.

Tributes are earned

It seems especially appropriate that two local women have been honored during these prime days of summer for their work in beautifying our community.

During the last week in June, Louise Whittington's longtime vision of a beautification program for the downtown and her work to see it come into being were cited as she received the Southeastern Michigan Beautification Commission Community Service Award.

In addition to the donation of hundreds of tulip bulbs for the beds downtown, the Whittingtons recently had the chimes installed in the town clock. The award is a deserved honor for Louise who has worked quietly without fanfare to make our town a more pleasant place in which to live and work.

As part of the July Fourth festivities, Norma Vernon was presented with the Claude Ely Memorial Award for her service to the community. Currently chairperson of the Northville Beautification Commission on which she has served for many years, Norma Vernon has sought donations for downtown beautification, has recruited volunteers to plant and weed the downtown flower beds and has worked right along with them to get the task accomplished.

Her enthusiasm has been ongoing and boundless. Appropriately, the award plaque brings with it a monetary gift to the recipient's favorite cause. With such help and direction, Northville has gained a reputation as a very attractive community.

Because of people like Norma Vernon and Louise Whittington, neither of whom ask for personal recognition for their efforts, Northville has gained a reputation as not only a beautiful community, but a community which has maintained a sense of pride in itself and its citizens. That reputation has spread beyond the city's borders and has lured investors to the community, but investors who know that people like Norma Vernon and Louise Whittington will ensure the city maintains its beauty.

Paid bachelor

By Bruce J. Martin

I suppose the only way to stop these leering, suggestive questions I've been getting is to get it all out in the open. Faithful readers — both of you — may recall I was a reluctant participant in a March of Dimes special event called "Bid For Bachelors" June 12, an event I helped hype in my column the day before.

Michele M. Fecht's column a couple weeks ago described the female-eye view of the whole thing, but as Paul Harvey, the man who sells household cleaners with the same conviction as he describes the news, might say, "It's time you knew 'the rrrrest of the story.'"

It bears mentioning how I got into this in the first place. When the press release came in for the Bid For Bachelors night, I typed it up and sent it along without a second thought. Then noted news nose Anita Crone ran across it. Unhesitatingly, she marched over to my desk. "You are going to do this," she explained to me.

"Wrong," I said, a judgment witness will concur I pronounced at least a dozen times throughout the day. I slept soundly that night, thinking the entire matter had been resolved.

Wrong. Upon my arrival at work the next day, I was informed the March of Dimes would be delighted to have me, that the fine folks at the Novi Hilton had agreed to spring for a peerless dinner to send my dream-date and me off and that Sliger-Livingston Publications GM Rolly Peterson had agreed to bankroll a pair of tickets to Meadow Brook Music Theatre. My editor, Jean Day, even offered a bottle of very fine champagne from her family's cellar.

In order to cancel, I would have to face Jean, the March of Dimes, Rolly and the Hilton and tell them I was backing out. I know when I'm beat.

I now turn you over to italics and the present tense, which suggests the dreamlike haziness with which I remember Bid For Bachelors night.

En route to the event, I look in the rear view mirror, striving to get just the right amount of slack in my tie. Nervous? Well, it's not every day I get my sex appeal pinned down in dollars and cents for hundreds of people to scrutinize. Once a week, maybe. But not every day. Fortunately, the good people at the March of Dimes know how to prepare me. In one of the hospitality suites, the bachelors and I fortify ourselves for the evening with the open bar and a very nice prime rib dinner. The open bar is critical.

I saunter up to the woman tending the bar. "Please pour me a scotch on the rocks," I say rakishly as Don Knotts on No-Doz. She pulls out a tumbler the size of a Big Slurpee, drops a couple of ice cubes in the bottom, then turns a bottle of the stuff upside down and held it there for what seems like five minutes. By the time I finish, I am mentally ready to take on all comers. Physically is a different matter. I stride into the main ballroom like Sting at a groupies convention.

I'm overcome by a strange sensation. The female stare. I am being ogled by women who wouldn't let me empty their ashtrays under any other circumstances. Just goes to show you, put the Elephant Man on a stage, dress him nice, and you can make him a sex symbol.

My turn. I hit the stage to the roar of my noisy entourage, which I appreciate immensely. They start bidding at $100. I gulp. The room begins to sway. After I go up in little increments — no dramatic drop-dead overbids here — I'm sent off in the direction of the last bidder. At $275, I'm not in the same league as the high rollers, but I'm in at about $270 more than I expected. The lucky lady is a very nice — and much to my relief and amazement, very nice-looking — lady named Susan, a sales representative for Minolta. A former professional buyer, Susan informs me, "I thought you were a good buy." Great. I feel like a 10-year-old Pinto with only 50,000 miles.

How did the date go? Well, that's why I'm writing this now. I want to express my heartfelt appreciation to the people at the Novi Hilton for a terrific dinner, among the most elegant the likes of me has ever experienced, to my GM and editor, to the March of Dimes (come back next year if you're still single, they say), and most of all to Susan, even if she did behave like a perfect lady. I may swagger all summer.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

She got me. Got me really good, too. In the honorable sport of one-ups-manship, she won hands down. It wasn't even close. A first-round knockout.

I have made a serious effort to avoid attending the same session of the exercise class my wife is in for fear of being publicly humiliated. But as time has passed and my physical condition has improved, I made a fatal mistake this summer and started attending the same session she is in.

Actually, things weren't going too badly until I decided to take her on a couple of weeks ago. Except for Jo Sheibels, my wife is the only one in the class who does sit-ups with the board on the top rung . . . probably a 75 degree angle.

So, two weeks ago I decided to show her that she's not the only one who can do sit-ups with the board on the top rung. With great fanfare I raised the board to the top level as a hush fell over the rest of the class.

"You know she does 20 sit-ups with the board up there," said Toby, the instructor.

"That's how many I'm doing, too," I responded, and proceeded to rip off 20 Class-A sit-ups. In all honesty I admit that I was gloating a little as I slid down the board onto the floor after completing number twenty.

And that's when she got me. I was still lying there on the floor, gloating and clapping my stomach when she got on the board right after me.

"You ready?" Toby asked her.

"I'm ready," she said, hooking her feet under the bar.

And with that Toby walked over, handed her a 10-pound weight which she held on her chest as she ripped through her 20 sit-ups.

I was impressed. But I was also determined not to show it. In fact, I managed to salvage a shred of respectability during my moment of humiliation by remaining on the floor and making her step over my out-stretched body when she hopped down off the board.

Police earn thanks for run

To the Editor:
I wanted to reply to the letter concerning Colony III subdivision being filthy.
I am also a resident of the sub, but I don't think the mess is just the county's responsibility. I believe the builder, Fred Greenspan, is at fault.
After all, the dirt in the streets comes from the construction trucks that roll down the highway starting at 6:30 a.m. This has been going on for years, and the street can only take so much. I know problems exist dealing with him because I am still in the process of suing due to building problems that have also gone on for years.

It's still tough being the little guy against either a county or a corporation. All they want is your money and they get it!

Class of '88 gives thanks

To the Editor:
The Northville High School Class of 1988 would like to express its sincere appreciation to the parents and supporters donating their time and money to our car wash on Saturday, June 28.

Special thanks go to Mrs. Parades, Dr. and Mrs. Stiles, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Cousins, Mrs. Bickner and Detroit Federal Savings and Loan (for the use of their water and parking lot).

We washed over 220 cars to help raise money for our senior prom. This car wash was such a success we hope to do it again next year.

Many thanks,
Sincerely,
The Class of 1988

Death penalty on ballot

What started out as the possibility of four petition initiative issues on the November ballot Monday shrunk to just two.

A spokesperson for the Michigan Elections Commission said two petitions — to place the question of capital punishment and a ban on utility rate increases for such projects as Fermi II and the abandoned Midland nuclear plant until they are needed — have been received by the commission.

Falling to make the deadline were the Richard Chrysler-chaired effort to make the state Legislature a part-time body and an effort sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to place a deposit on wine coolers.

Three constitutional amendments are certain of ballot status because they were approved by the Michigan Legislature. They include a move to give the State Officers Compensation Commission authority to set salaries for the secretary of state and attorney general; to place the State Library and its budget under the direct authority of the Legislature; and to give constitutional status to the Legislature's Joint Administrative Rules Committee, granting it power to approve or disapprove administrative rules at any time.

Although the Elections Commission still must verify signatures on petitions, proponents of the death penalty ballot issue said they have collected 350,220 signatures. It is necessary that 304,000 valid signatures be received to place an issue on the ballot.

Petitioners favoring the part-time legislature and the deposit on wine coolers may still have the issues placed on the 1988 ballot, providing enough signatures are collected by Nov. 3. All signatures become invalid Nov. 4.

County executive race

Sumpter treasurer aims high

Thomas Gondek may be a political unknown — and he would dispute that — but, if his political projections are correct, the whole country will know him by the year 2000. That is when he plans on being elected president of the United States.

First, however, the part-time treasurer of Sumpter Township is seeking to become Wayne County Executive. He is one of 11 Democrats in the race.

"I don't have a one-year plan. I have a 12-year plan, Gondek says. "I'm going to be the Wayne County Executive for eight years, a one-term governor, and then we plan to run for the White House. When people hear that, they think 'this guy's either nuts or very ambitious.' I'm very ambitious."

Gondek, 40, is also very confident. He and his brother, Stan, own a computer and financial consulting firm, and Gondek says he has every intention of being elected.

"The other candidates see this quote, hayseed, unquote who comes out of Sumpter Township (but) with the information we have and the information in our data base, if the election were held today, I'd win it. And I'll win it in August," he says.

Gondek explained his reasoning:

Republicans elect (Livonia Mayor Edward) McNamara in the non-partisan mayoral elections in Livonia, but they can't help him in August; Detroit commissioner Samuel Turner and Frank Wilkerson, an assistant county executive, will split the Detroit vote; John Hertel is strong only on the east side; and (Wayne County Sheriff Robert) Ficano is weak in western Wayne.

"We've got the western Wayne County vote," said Gondek, "and the votes that put the county executive in place come from western Wayne County."

Although Gondek has run a low-profile campaign so far, he says that will change July 13 when his election committee will run newspaper ads, hire airplanes, and send out mass mailings. Money, he says, is no object, though he won't disclose his budget or his source of revenue.

Gondek says he is a graduate of "the school of hard knocks." After high school, he entered St. Bonaventure Seminary in Wisconsin to become a monk, but quit school in 1964 and returned home to help give his twin brother, Tim, some direction in his life.

The two applied for a job at Greak Lakes Steel, though only Tom was hired — for the mailroom at $235 a month. Eighteen years later — with a two-year time out for military service — he had risen through the ranks the firm and had a sales position in the Chicago office.

He was elected treasurer of Sumpter Township in 1984, the first time he won public office. He was unsuccessful in 1973 in a bid for the Romulus city council. Since becoming township treasurer, he said he has turned a projected $30,000 deficit into the highest credit rating in Sumpter's history.

"Government should operate as a business," he said. "It's management's responsibility to make sure the job gets done. The next county executive has got to be an individual with a very strong financial background. We're losing federal revenue sharing and Gramm-Rudman is kicking everyone in the behind. They're saying there are no free lunches, and I don't necessarily disagree with that."

Gondek's platform includes plans for satellite county offices, better representation for western Wayne county, state-of-the-art computer equipment for the sheriff's department and reorganization of the office of drain commissioner.

Better Insulin

The Type I diabetic requires daily doses of insulin and cannot depend on diet or oral medicines to control blood sugar levels. The good news in recent years for such individuals has been the advent of newer and better insulin.

Most commercial insulin is extracted from beef and pork pancreases. Older techniques for removing the insulin hormone did not eliminate certain impurities. The advent of newer extraction procedures (primarily ion-exchange chromatography) has produced an insulin that is more pure. All insulin sold in the United States now contains only 10 or less parts-per-million impurities. One study showed that today's insulin, when used in the typical Type I diabetic, allowed for a 15 percent dose reduction over older insulins.

Some of the newest types of insulin are the "human insulins." Human insulin is actually synthetic or semisynthetic protein that is structurally identical to the insulin produced by the human pancreas. Pharmaceutical companies make the human insulin by chemically modifying insulin that is obtained from pork sources. Another method involves the use of certain bacteria that have been genetically engineered to produce the insulin.

Tax commission may rule on DeHoCo land in Aug.

The Michigan Tax Commission is expected to decide by the end of August whether Northville Township can place the property upon which the Detroit House of Corrections was located on the tax rolls.

Commission chairman Robert Vandemark said Northville Township's request had been received by the commission and was currently being evaluated by the membership and the commission's counsel.

"The tax rolls are not complete until December, so apparently there is no rush on this matter," Vandemark said.

However, the city of Detroit, which owns the land, had contested the township's intent to place the property on the tax rolls and had filed suit in the Michigan Tax Tribunal. None of the involved parties would comment on the status of the suit, which named the township, the county of Wayne and Northville Public Schools as defendants.

A separate suit had been filed against Plymouth Township.

"I'VE LOOKED AROUND, AND I'M CONFIDENT THAT LIBERTY GIVES ME THE BEST PROTECTION FOR THE RIGHT PRICE."

Jim West and daughter Allison Auto, Home and Life Policyholder

Choosing the right insurance company wasn't easy I compared, and found that Liberty Mutual offers the best protection at the right price for my auto, home and life insurance. Senate group to hear public

While most state senators will be turning their attention to the 1986 election, Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, may be hard at work holding public hearings on Medicaid-funded abortions.

"We'll probably be holding some hearings during the summer," Geake said. But he added he did not yet know where those hearings will be held.

The hearings will center around whether to place a Medicaid-funded abortion ballot issue before the voters in November. However, working for the proposal would have to be approved by the state Elections Commission Sept. 5, four days before the entire Legislature is scheduled to be back in session.

The controversy on the issue occurred when the Legislature adjourned after approving all but the $1.4 billion Medicaid portion of the $6.1 billion budget.

Although the state House approved a three-month Medicaid budget after failing to override a gubernatorial veto, the Senate, rather than take up the measure, referred it to Geake's subcommittee.

Geake, vice chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee and chairman of the Senate Appropriations Social Services subcommittee, said the delay would allow the Senate to "keep all our options open. The responsible thing to do is to weigh the pros and cons of all our options."

Geake indicated he was not in favor of putting the abortion question to the voters. "I like to see these questions decided by the legislators. That's why they were elected."

An opponent of Medicaid funded abortions, Geake added that he doubted the state House of Representatives would allow the issue to be placed on the ballot.

And he also had reservations about the ballot issue being a true test of Michigan voters' stands on the issue, the same concerns expressed by Agnes Mansour, director of the Michigan Department of Social Services: If the Medicaid abortion question were placed on the ballot, money from all over the nation would be pumped in the state by such warring groups as the National Organization for Women or Right to Life.

Heintz named to parks group

As if Susan Heintz, Northville Township supervisor, doesn't have enough to keep her busy this summer, Bill Lucas, county executive, has given her another job.

Heintz is expected to be named chairperson of a 19-member citizens' task force on the Wayne County park system. The group will be charged with looking at alternative funding as well as ways to upgrade the parks system.

"It's become increasingly more difficult to get money out of the general fund (for parks' funding)," said Curt Boller, county commissioner from Brownstown Township.

"I personally think that the system won't be funded another year, and it's a matter of survival because of reductions in revenues."

Boller, a proponent of the task force, noted he expects the group to look at the possibility of a ballot issue, as well as increasing user fees and possibly working out an arrangement with the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Parks Authority.

In addition to Heintz, other nominees to the task force include commission appointees Ronald Reinke, Livonia parks director; Robert Beeny, of Wayne; Ralph Tack, assistant to the mayor in Westland; Gloria Schermesser, an aide to county commissioner William Suzore; William Kreger Sr., former chairman of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority; Tom Hill of Trenton; and Leonard Halas.

In addition to Heintz, Lucas has named Michael Legg, a Northville resident and chairman of the Second District Republican Party; Red Browning, former Grosse Pointe mayor; Heintz Prechter, chairman of American Sunroof Corp.; Alan Swormstedt, a partner with the Detroit accounting firm of Deloitte Haskins & Sells; Nancy White, a representative of the League of Women Voters; and Boller.

Open house marks anniversary

Lifelong Northville resident Paul Folino celebrated his 25th anniversary as a State Farm Insurance agent and adjuster with an open house at his office on Center Street in Northville June 29.

"I invited all my clients, friends, State Farm employees and anyone else who wanted to stop by to say hello and have some punch and cookies," Folino said.

Folino has operated several other businesses in the city as well as his insurance firm, including Paul's Sweet Shop and Pizzeria — the first pizzeria in western Wayne County. His earlier State Farm office, on the site of the M.A.G.S. building on Main Street, now is the Weaver's Cottage at the Mill Race Historical Village. He donated it to the historical society after his current office was built in 1977.

Folino has also been active in many organizations in Northville. He is a seven-year Northville Community Chamber of Commerce member and a past president of the organization as well as a 14-year veteran of the Northville City Council. His city involvement also includes membership in the Rotary Club for the last six years. In 1955 he was responsible for the establishment of a permanent Christmas decorating program for the city. This year he was named Northville High School Distinguished Alumnus at commencement exercises.

Simmons utilizes latest technology in dental practice

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Sometimes it takes a new kid just out of college to introduce to the real world some of the new techniques and procedures that have been recently developed.

Often times, the veterans of the work force loose touch with a lot of the more innovative findings and methods — the avante garde. If you're talking about Northville and talking about dentistry, Bob Simmons is the right man to bring the latest techniques to the area.

Simmons and his wife Carol were raised in Northville, were high school and college sweethearts, were married and are now back home with a brand new practice on Center Street near Hardee's. He is just a few years out of the University of Detroit Dental School and is trying to bring a new approach to the field.

"I've seen a lot of the procedures other dentists use," Simmons said. "There are old-time dentists out there who aren't innovative and are sticking to the techniques they were taught in dental school 30 years ago."

"Everything has changed so drastically since then — some of it is really outdated."

Simmons provides innovative techniques such as cosmetic bonding, sealants and micro-ID dots. Most of these methods are fresh out of the '80s.

"As far as patient management, the type of anesthetic and even the ways an office is decorated, we are trying to use all the new findings," Simmons said. "A lot of studies have shown that it is better to have a more subtle atmosphere in the office, versus the white walls and bright lights."

"A lot of research has gone into showing that the fear a person has of going to the dentist is both physical and psychological. With kids, we like to make the appointments real pleasant and hopefully they will leave with a positive image and won't fear coming back."

The new micro-dot technique is currently used by very few dentists, but the idea is catching on, and Simmons is confident the process can be valuable. A tiny micro chip is bonded onto a non-stress bearing area of a child's tooth. The chip carries important information such as name, address and special messages such as medical conditions and allergies.

"A lot of emergency rooms have been instructed to check for the micro dots," Simmons reported. "With so many kids missing these days, it's a new and effective way to try to combat it."

The procedure is very simple. The patient fills out a form, a private company puts all the specified information on the chip and a dentist, like Simmons, bonds it to the teeth free of charge.

The sealant procedure has only been around a few years and is another new find that Simmons believes in. A plastic coating is put over the back molar teeth of children during their cavity prone years. The coating wards off any decay for up to eight years. Once the patient is past the prone years, the sealant is removed.

"It's just another new preventative-type procedure," Simmons said.

Simmons graduated from Northville High in 1973 and spent the next few years as an assistant golf professional at Meadowbrook Country Club. In 1976, he enrolled at Eastern Michigan University, majoring in Chemistry. Upon graduation four years later, Simmons promptly enrolled at U-D and graduated four years after that.

He became an associate with another dentist in West Bloomfield and commuted from Northville until the move back home became a reality in early April.

"My ultimate goal was to come back to Northville with my own practice," Simmons explained. "With all the growth around here, it's a great move."

With Carol as the receptionist, the practice was opened on April 4. On May 23, the Simmons' held an open house.

"We were open for a month or so and then we had the open house so everybody in the area could come in and see the office," Simmons said. "So far the response has been absolutely great. We know quite a few people in the area and that's been a big plus for us."

RENEE HODKINSON

RICK G. BETKER

RENEE HODKINSON of Northville has been named chief financial officer for the R.A. DeMattia Company and its land development affiliate. The design/construction firm is headquartered in Plymouth.

Hodkinson is responsible for all the financial areas of both the construction and land development companies. Prior to joining the firm, Hodkinson worked for 10 years at Coopers & Lybrand, an international public accounting firm. She is a CPA and a graduate of the University of Michigan.

RICK G. BETKER has rejoined Ross Roy Inc. advertising agency as vice president/account supervisor. The announcement was made by Glen W. Fortinberry, president and CEO.

Betker returns to the agency responsible for the Chrysler Credit account and Chrysler regional marketing. He previously was with Ross Roy for nine years before assuming an account management position with Intergroup Marketing and Promotions.

Betker received his BA degree in communication arts and sciences from Michigan State University. He and his family are Northville residents.

P. DOUG BAETZ of Northville has been appointed major accounts representative for Washtenaw County by Selective Copy Machines, a company headquartered in Oak Park.

In his new position, Baetz will be responsible for the sales, rentals and ownerships of photocopiers in Washtenaw County businesses.

Selective Copy Machines represents Ricoh and Toshiba products.

Baetz has been a Northville resident for 14 years.

CHARLES M. YOUNG of Northville has earned membership in Lutheran Brotherhood's 1985 Leaders' Club.

The Leaders' Club is one of the society's top sales honors. Representatives qualify for membership based on sales of insurance and investment products to Lutherans. Lutheran Brotherhood and its subsidiaries offer life and health insurance, annuities and mutual funds.

Young is associated with Lutheran Brotherhood's Karl W. Mueller Agency, located in Rochester.

Lutheran Brotherhood has over $16.2 billion of life insurance in force and more than $4 billion in assets under management. In 1985, the society's fraternal activities program allocated $24 million in support of its members, the Lutheran Church and communities across the country.

The Quality Goes In Before You Do!

Pre-paying mortgage may save money

By increasing your monthly mortgage payments, if only by $25, you could typically save $50,000 or more in interest payments and build equity faster.

But the answer to a key question about interest rates, says the Michigan Association of CPAs, could also show that you may not save at all. Interest rates could make the difference.

In the early years, most of the mortgage payment goes toward interest payments and not the principal (the outstanding loan balance). But as equity increases, the outstanding loan amount decreases, and with it, the amount of interest charged. If you shorten the loan period by prepaying, less interest is paid overall and the faster your equity grows.

Prepayment is nothing new and most conventional mortgages already allow for at least some prepayment with no penalty.

Let's say the Smith family buys a home for $74,900 and puts $8,000 down. At 12.25 percent, their 30-year fixed rate mortgage of $66,900 would cost $701 per month. At the end of 30 years, the Smiths will have paid an eye-popping $185,475 in interest payments. A loan at 13 or 14 percent could well exceed $200,000 in interest payments.

Money Management

If, from the start, the Smiths added only $25 to their monthly loan payments, bringing it to $726 instead of $701, they would have cut the loan term to 23 years and saved $49,379 of the interest. If they added $40, the savings would come to $74,379 after only 20 years.

Prepayments are flexible. Additional principal can be prepaid when money is available or not paid when money is tight. Every additional dollar, no matter when it is paid, will help reduce interest.

You will benefit the most, however, if you start paying early and keep your house until it is fully paid. But even those who sell along the way will benefit from increased equity.

Taking the idea of higher monthly payments a step further, let's say you had a two-year-old conventional 30-year $60,000 mortgage at 14 percent and you had enough money to pay off in one payment the entire principal for years three and four. If the payment was $400, for example, that sum would shorten your loan term by two years and that would lessen your interest by about $17,000. Not a bad return on $400. Or is it?

Before you begin to prepay your mortgage, either by adding a little to each payment or by paying off a year's principal, CPAs suggest you ask one question: Where else could you invest your money?

If the Smiths had begun putting their additional money in an investment paying the same percentage rate as their mortgage, they would have earned the same amount of money. In other words, paying ahead on a 14 percent mortgage yields, in effect, a 14 percent rate of return. So, if your mortgage is 14 percent and the best investment you can find is only 12 percent, you may be ahead of the game prepaying the mortgage.

Remember, once you invest additional money in a home through paying off the mortgage, the only way you can get it back is to refinance, take out a second mortgage or sell the house. You may be able to find a relatively safe investment paying a higher yield than your mortgage and one that is far more liquid.

If you have decided that prepayment is for you, but you are looking for a more regimented system, consider asking your lender to convert your monthly payments to bi-weekly payments.

By the end of the year you will have made the equivalent of one extra month's payment. The results may surprise you. If the Smiths made bi-weekly payments on their $66,900 mortgage, the loan would be paid off in less than 19 years, rather than 30, for a total savings of $80,971 in interest charges. Full-term interest would have been $185,475.

The key, say the CPAs, is the interest rate. If you have a low interest rate mortgage and if you're considering moving in the next few years, keep your mortgage. But if you have a higher interest rate on your loan and intend to stay put for several years, prepaying would bring you big dividends.

The primary reasons for refinancing are to lower your monthly payment and reduce the total interest paid.

In the past, you might have been able to renegotiate your mortgage with your current lender at relatively little cost. Today, because so many mortgages are routinely sold to investors, you'll probably have to obtain a new loan to pay off your old one, said Elaine M. Glasser, Extension Service of Oakland.

This means you'll acquire the usual expenses, such as those for appraisal and credit reports, loan application, legal counsel, and termite or sanitation inspection. You can still save. For example, have your land survey updated or your title insurance policy reissued by the same company.

The largest of your costs will be the "mortgage origination fee," commonly known as points. Each point equals 1 percent of the total amount financed. One to four points is typical for refinancing.

In addition, you may be hit with a pre-payment penalty. This charge, which is becoming less common, could total as much as six months' interest. Your current lender often will waive a penalty if you refinance there.

The traditional rule of thumb advises refinancing when mortgage rates drop by three percentage points. However, in some cases, you might profit in the long run with a drop of less. If the amount financed, including your estimated closing costs, total less than 80 percent of the purchase price of your home, you should qualify for a lender's best rate. Shop around.

013 Card of Thanks

SUPERMAN! Thankyou for rescuing me from 219-B at 3:15a.m.; June 29, 1986. Love, Lois Lane.

The family of Lester Bowers wishes to thank everyone for all the cards, flowers and prayers expressed in our time of sorrow. Emma Bowers, Howard Clair Family, Robert Bowers Family, Charles Lemon Family.

TO all our friends and neighbors on E. Washington and Fleming Streets. Perhaps you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray. If so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say; Perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day, whatever you did to, console our hearts, we thank you so much whatever the part. By the family of John A. Chubb.

Our Unseen Neighbors

Story by Bruce Martin Art by Jeffrey Lapinski

The times we usually see the critters that inhabit the woods and swamps around us is after one has come out on the short end of an auto collision after wandering onto a roadway.

But they're here. They're all around us in those yet-undeveloped forests, in those unbuildable swamps and bogs, around the waterways in the Rouge River basin. And as our area continues to develop and populate with members of homo sapiens, all the other species of beasts that were here before us have to make room, more or less.

So, before we serve their eviction notices, let's get to know a few of the ones we don't see rummaging our bird feeders or scrambling atop our telephone wires: the unseen animals around us.

Furry Friends

Right about now, the thickets of nearby forests are dotted with the brand-new fawns of white-tailed deer. Most are born in June, and it takes about a month for them to get their land legs. Herds of deer often can be seen at Maybury State Park; they are most active at dusk or dawn.

Less common, but occasionally spotted in Wayne, Oakland and Livingston counties' least populated forests and open brushlands is the red fox, prized for its fur, and the occasional coyote, which is basically a wild dog, with as many color variations as possessed by the domestic variety. The gray fox, similar in size but possessing white hair-tipped with black, is extremely rare, in fact, it's a protected mammal.

They like you to think of the minck exotic beast, but the shaggy fur-bearer can be found along streams and lakes which course wooded areas. Since it is nearly dark-brown, it's hard to spot at night when it does most of its hunting for mice and muskrats and other small creatures.

Raccoons often can be found in Wayne and Oakland county forests in wooded areas, especially near streams and lakes. They are primarily nocturnal but are occasionally seen during the day. They occasionally raid farm livestock, but generally they don't look for trouble.

Almost entirely nocturnal is the opossum which favors wooded areas around waterways and swamps. Days, the critter will inhabit almost any kind of shelter where it can be safe and warm, from old brush piles, to holes in trees to underneath an old building.

Adult woodchucks at 21-25 inches long are the largest member of the squirrel family and are identifiable by a grizzled yellowish grey hair and black feet. Mostly woodchucks are active during the day stuffing themselves with green vegetation for winter hibernation. They dig complicated burrow systems up to 40 feet or more in length and four feet in depth.

The striped skunk, likely familiar to you one way or another, in true Pepe LePew fashion is polygamous. This time of year, the young are beginning to accompany their mother on nightly searches for food. They actually are valuable for preying on small rodents.

Muskrat, dark brown with flattened tail and the size of a small house cat, is worth watching in late summer-early fall for its skill at constructing houses in waterways not unlike the better-known beaver (seen in Northern Michigan).

Michigan forests and streams are filled with many smaller creatures: the southern flying squirrel (noteworthy for the fold of skin joining its wrists and hind feet, the better to glide with), the eastern fox squirrel, eastern grey squirrel, red squirrel, eastern chipmunk (distinguishable by stripes on its sides), and the just-as-it-sounds thirteen-lined ground squirrel.

Also, southeast Michigan hosts the eastern mole, many varieties of shrews (the smallest variety of mammals), and, yes, bats; the attractively-named and common big brown bat is one of the largest. All the members of the bat family common in Michigan are mostly beneficial for their role in insect control.

In Cold Blood

Summer swamps of southeast Michigan, as nearby and even distant human residents can attest, are classic meeting grounds for a multi-voiced chorus of frogs, for snakes and for other amphibians and reptiles. Trust us.

The bullfrog, which can measure eight inches in length, is found almost everywhere in the U.S. and is the frog whose legs appear most frequently on restaurant platters.

The western chorus frog has a voice mostly heard in early spring which one naturalist describes as "sounding like two marbles clicking together."

Other varieties identified in Oakland and Wayne County swamps include the small (1-1½-inch), heavily-warted Blanchard's cricket frog (no relation to Jim); the northern leopard frog, a four-inch spotted favorite specimen of biology students (it possesses a distinctive long, low croak alternating with several short sharp notes); the green frog, which sounds like a plucked banjo string, and the variably-hued wood frog, which sounds something like a duck.

Oh, yes, and there are toads. The most common, American toad is about 4½ inches in length and emits a long musical trill often described as ventriloquistic, so that one never knows from which direction it is coming.

Southeast Michigan has its share of snakes, only one of which can pose a serious threat to humans: the massasauga, which may be dangerous to young children bitten by one — but the probability of the threat is minimal even if one is trying to get bit. Adults average two feet in length.

The common garter snake is one of the largest of garter snakes, averaging two feet in adults and occasionally stretching double that length. The most widespread snake in the U.S., these snakes are often a harmless catch for junior biologists — they are marked by three yellowish stripes with a double row of black spots between the stripes. They can range a long way from water, and will eat almost anything they can swallow.

Other common snakes include the eastern milk snake (2-3 feet long); the eastern ribbon snake (2-3 feet), and the biggest, the northern water snake (2-4½ feet).

They may sound nasty, but consider one of the nastiest reptilian beasts hereabouts: the common snapping turtle, which is as ugly as it is belligerent and big (30 pounds on average in adults). These usually stay barely underwater in ponds or lakes, where they are known to nip adventurous swimmers.

More docile, small and common are the spotted turtle, the quite common musk turtle (named for their foul-smelling secretions when captured by, say, a stray fisherman's line), and the eastern spiny softshell turtle.

One of the largest varieties of salamanders is widely found in southeast Michigan: the 12-13 inch, stout eastern tiger salamander, marked with dull yellow spots on dark brown or black skin.

If you seek nature, just look about you

"If you seek a pleasant peninsula look around you," says the Say Yes state's seal and flag. And indeed, with Michigan's unique situation relating to lakes, it's possible to view a wide range of wildlife.

Up north are the most dramatic species: elk just south of the Mackinac region in controlled environments, beavers from Lansing north, grey wolves in the northern peninsula and Isle Royale, black bear in the top half of the southern peninsula and throughout the northern peninsula.

But it's possible for young and old participants in local nature tours to see much more of southeast Michigan's fauna and flora than one might expect.

Kensington Metropark offers the best series of local nature walks and talks, with naturalists who plainly love what they do. From November to April, the naturalists take their tours to some 450 schools in the five-county area, with presentations featuring staff artists, slides and movies, while special family events at the park continue through all four seasons.

Coming up later this month: At 1:30 p.m. Saturday, July 12, "Snakes Alive," a slide show at the Kensington Nature Center, offers a hands-on — that's right, hands-on — experience with a garter snake. "We like to get people who have a phobia about snakes to handle one, just so we can show them there's no reason to be afraid," says Kensington's Mark Szabo. At 2 p.m. Sunday, July 13, a fossil-finding tour will be hosted by one of the naturalists. "It's a very popular program," says Szabo. "We encourage people to bring collecting bags from home and keep any fossils they find."

At 8 p.m. Wednesday, July 16, an evening nature cruise aboard the Island Queen offers guests a chance to see the wildlife that emerges near sunset. Blue herons, swans, and often deer can be viewed. Tickets are $2.

A special event at the park from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. July 19-20 is a Country Fair, featuring musical entertainment as well as nature talks and tours.

At 8 p.m. July 24, a nature walk Szabo describes as "ideal for people who work during the day," begins at the Nature Center. "The air's moist then, so birds sing more; you're more likely to see deer. It's very relaxing," he says.

Beginning this Thursday, Kensington offers Nature's Morning Revue, a weekly nature hike beginning at 9:30 a.m. every Thursday through July 21.

All the above programs are free except the nature cruise. A vehicle entry permit (daily — $2, annual — $10) and pre-registration are required. For more details, phone toll-free at 1-800-247-2757.

The Kensington Nature Center is open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. all summer. It features eight miles of nature trails, a building featuring rotating seasonal exhibits. Fish, snakes and honeybees are on exhibit there through most of the year.

Mathes, Becker vows exchanged

Michelle Lynn Mathes became the bride of David Lowell Becker of Fort Wayne, Ind., in a double ring ceremony May 31 at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia. She is the daughter of Kent P. Mathes of West Main Street and Analee Mathes of Silver Springs Drive. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Becker of Fort Wayne.

The Rev. Nils Becker, uncle of the bridegroom, flew in from Seoul, Korea, to officiate the ceremony with Dr. Bartlett Hess. Special music was by Bob and Susi Jones of Fort Wayne. The bride's floor length, Victorian-style gown was of ivory peau de soie. It was designed with long lace sleeves puffed at the shoulders. The fitted lace bodice came to a V at the waist. Delicate rosebud lace edged the hemline of the skirt which extended into a train five feet in diameter. Her ivory veil fell in three tiers to the waist. The gown had been made by the bride's friend, Lynn Ruffner, who served as honor attendant. The cascading bridal bouquet contained white roses, white gardenias, lily of the valley and ivy. Bridesmaids were Sandra Horine, Cheryl Bagdanovich, Pamela Nesmith and Kristin Rosmorduc. The attendants all wore floor-length emerald green crepe de Chine dresses with ivory lace bodices and ivory sashes. They carried nosegays of yellow freesia, lily of the valley, baby's-breath and ivy. Alexis Yanoff was flower girl and David Goldberg ring bearer.

Daniel Zehr of Fort Wayne was best man. Groomsmen were Michael Bagdanovich, Richard Nesmith, Kent and Michael Mathes. Ushers were Jon Bieri, David Cadaret, Mark Horine and Mark Tobias. A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the 2 p.m. ceremony with approximately 200 guests attending. Relatives attended from California, New Jersey, Texas, Pennsylvania and Canada. After a two-week wedding trip to Hillsboro Beach, Fla., the newlyweds are living in Fort Wayne. He is a graduate of Taylor University in Upland, Ind., where the couple met. She is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University.

Engagements

Karen Pegrum-Michael Hoydic

Mr. and Mrs. R. Bruce Pegrum of 45716 Clement Court announce the engagement of their daughter, Karen Lynn, to Michael Joseph Hoydic of Toledo. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman P. Hoydic of Flint. The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Northville High School and a 1985 graduate of Central Michigan University school of business with a major in accounting. She presently is employed by Price Waterhouse as an accountant in Toledo. Her fiancé is a graduate of Flint Powers High School and a 1985 graduate of Central Michigan University. He presently is employed by Motorola as a sales representative. A November 8 wedding date has been set.

KAREN PEGRUM, MICHAEL HOYDIC

Royal Oak, and Robert Charles Daniels of Columbia, S.C. He is the son of Charles and Joy M. Daniels of 41615 Suters Lane.

Their parents are announcing the engagement.

The bride-elect is a 1986 graduate of Wittenberg University with a B.A. degree in psychology and English. Her fiancé is a 1983 graduate of the University of Michigan. He is employed with Cadillac Motor Division of General Motors in Columbia, S.C.

Jennifer Antuna-Kevin Travers

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Antuna Jr. of 1131 Jeffrey Drive announce the engagement of their daughter, Jennifer Lynn, to Kevin Michael Travers of Northville. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Travers of 19765 Hayes Court. The bride-elect, a 1981 graduate of Northville High School, is a free-lance advertising artist. She is a past assistant manager at Nawrot Pendleton Shop of Novi and now is employed by A & P of Novi. Her fiancé, a 1980 Northville High School graduate, is completing work on a bachelor's degree in business administration with a major in marketing at Wayne State University and currently is employed by Comerica Bank as an account manager with Comerica Acceptance Corp. An August 9 wedding date has been set.

Kjirsten Johnson-Robert Daniels

A November wedding is being planned by Kjirsten Kay Johnson, daughter of Stuart J. and Donna K. Johnson of

Sally Schueler wed in June rites

Sally Schueler and Dr. Scott Tyler exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight service June 14 at Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in Birmingham.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schueler of Rhonwood Drive, Northville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Barney Tyler of Lathrup Village.

For the ceremony the bride wore a gown of ivory English tulle with lace overlays embroidered with pearls. She carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath tied with satin streamers.

Lisa Conaway was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Schueler, Peggy Tyler, Sue Dotterer and Julie McGregor. They wore matching ivory gowns.

Dr. Brian Tyler was best man. Ushers were William Schueler, William Eagan, David MacDonald and Kenneth Tiseo.

A reception followed at Plum

Hollow Country Club. The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University and is employed at the Merchandise Mart as a designer for Steelcase Furniture.

The bridegroom is a graduate of University of Michigan dental school and will be attending Northwestern University to specialize in orthodontics.

Mathes, Becker vows exchanged

Michelle Lynn Mathes became the bride of David Lowell Becker of Fort Wayne, Ind., in a double ring ceremony May 31 at Ward Presbyterian Church in Livonia.

She is the daughter of Kent P. Mathes of West Main Street and Analee Mathes of Silver Springs Drive. The bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Lowell E. Becker of Fort Wayne.

The Rev. Nils Becker, uncle of the bridegroom, flew in from Seoul, Korea, to officiate the ceremony with Dr. Bartlett Hess. Special music was by Bob and Susi Jones of Fort Wayne.

The bride's floor length, Victorian-style gown was of ivory peau de soie. It was designed with long lace sleeves puffed at the shoulders. The fitted lace bodice came to a V at the waist. Delicate rosebud lace edged the hemline of the skirt which extended into a train five feet in diameter. Her ivory veil fell in three tiers to the waist. The gown had been made by the bride's friend, Lynn Ruffner, who served as honor attendant.

The cascading bridal bouquet contained white roses, white gardenias, lily of the valley and ivy.

Bridesmaids were Sandra Horine, Cheryl Bagdanovich, Pamela Nesmith and Kristin Rosmorduc.

The attendants all wore floor-length emerald green crepe de Chine dresses with ivory lace bodices and ivory sashes. They carried nosegays of yellow freesia, lily of the valley, baby's-breath and ivy.

Alexis Yanoff was flower girl and David Goldberg ring bearer.

Daniel Zehr of Fort Wayne was best man.

Groomsmen were Michael Bagdanovich, Richard Nesmith, Kent and Michael Mathes. Ushers were Jon Bieri, David Cadaret, Mark Horine and Mark Tobias.

A reception in the church fellowship hall followed the 2 p.m. ceremony with approximately 200 guests attending. Relatives attended from California, New Jersey, Texas, Pennsylvania and Canada.

After a two-week wedding trip to Hillsboro Beach, Fla., the newlyweds are living in Fort Wayne. He is a graduate of Taylor University in Upland, Ind., where the couple met. She is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID LOWELL BECKER

DR. AND MRS. SCOTT TYLER

Sally Schueler wed in June rites

Sally Schueler and Dr. Scott Tyler exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight service June 14 at Lutheran Church of the Redeemer in Birmingham.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schueler of Rhonwood Drive, Northville. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Barney Tyler of Lathrup Village.

For the ceremony the bride wore a gown of ivory English tulle with lace

overlays embroidered with pearls. She carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath tied with satin streamers.

Lisa Conaway was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Cindy Schueler, Peggy Tyler, Sue Dotterer and Julie McGregor. They wore matching ivory gowns.

Dr. Brian Tyler was best man. Ushers were William Schueler, William Eagan, David MacDonald and Kenneth Tiseo.

A reception followed at Plum

Hollow Country Club. The bride is a graduate of Michigan State University and is employed at the Merchandise Mart as a designer for Steelcase Furniture.

The bridegroom is a graduate of University of Michigan dental school and will be attending Northwestern University to specialize in orthodontics.

The newlyweds will be making their home in Chicago.

BASEBALL: Expos continue winning

G-LEAGUE: The Expos scored at least two runs in each of the first four innings to turn back the Braves 10-7 on June 17. With the Braves ahead 7-4 after three innings, the Expos went on to outscore their opponents 5-0 the rest of the way for the win. Josh Wiegand recorded three hits, two runs batted in and was the winning pitcher in relief. A bases loaded triple by Scott Bassin was the Expos' key hit in the comeback bid. On June 18, the Expos slipped by the Padres 3-2 thanks to timely hitting and effective pitching from Brad Telepo. The Padres claimed an early 2-1 advantage, but the Expos pulled ahead for good in the fifth. The game-winner coming off the bat of Jason Urbahn. Josh Wiegand and Urbahn each had two hits for the winners. The Reds scored all of their runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings to beat the Giants 13-6 on June 20. The hitting standouts for the Reds were Mark Scholtz (two hits, three RBIs), Bill Birdsall (one homer, three runs batted in), Tim Stewart (three RBIs) and Jerry Birdsall (two triples). Bill and Jerry Birdsall combined on the pitching mound for the win. The Astros broke the Expos' winning streak in convincing fashion June 20. With four runs in the first and five more in the third, the Astros cruised to a 12-1 win. A last-inning run by Expos' Josh Wiegand, without the aid of a hit, avoided the shutout. The Expos bounced back on June 24 and posted a 6-4 triumph over the Pirates. Brad Telepo was again strong on the mound and Josh Wiegand was perfect in final three innings of relief. Scott Bassin was the hitting star for the winners, with two hits and two runs batted in. The first place Pirates out hit the Astros 10-2 and won the contest 5-3 on June 25. The Astros took an early 2-0 lead, but it disappeared as the Pirates scored in four of the next six innings. Aaron Hodgkin (home run) and Adam Fisher (RBI single) were the offensive spearheads for the Astros, who played the game with only eight players in uniform. Derek Demoracki notched the win on the mound for the Pirates. Led by the hitting of Mike McCormack, Brian Collins and Jason Petre, the Astros whipped the Giants 18-6 June 26. Adding in the offensive onslaught was Aaron Hodgkin (two homers) and Tim Petrosky (one home run). In the first four innings, the Astros scored 16 runs to the Giants for. The Astros just barely slipped by the Braves on June 28 by a score of 8-7. The Braves scored all seven runs in the first three innings and had a 7-2 lead, but the Astros came back for the win, including five runs in the final two innings. Tim Petrosky (three hits), Kevin Rosinski and Adam Fisher (two hits each) paced the attack for the Astros. John Garr and Chris Heaton pitched well for the Braves and hitting was provided by Gordie Collins and Steve Winger. On July 1, the Astros scored two late runs to slip by the Padres 5-4. A two-run single by Kevin Rosinski proved to be the difference in the late rally. Hodgkin hit another home run and Joey Staknis of the Padres slapped a triple.

H-LEAGUE: The Phillies took an early 3-2 lead after one inning but failed to hold on as the Expos came from behind to win the game 12-9 on June 18. Five run rallies in both the second and fifth innings were crucial to the win. Jason McDonald and Matt Popov each scored two runs for the winners. In a make-up game, the Expos downed the Mets 12-10 on June 21. The score was tied at 6-6 after two, but the Expos exploded for five runs in the third to break it open. Relief pitcher Andy Genitt came on in the fifth and proceeded to strike out four of the nine batters he faced. Mike Kapisky scored three runs and Matt Popov went 3-for-4 to help record the win.

F-LEAGUE: The Padres increased their record to 8-2 after winning a 21-10 decision over the Giants June 23. A first inning eight-run outburst by the Padres was too much for the Giants to overcome. Don Lewis (5-for-5, four RBIs), Nick Salas (three RBIs), Jason Fladdig (2-for-3, three RBIs) and Ben Odom (2-for-3) were the hitting stars for the Padres. Joe Kaley (4-for-5) and John Mach (four runs batted in) paced the Giants' attack. Dann Marsh and Mach each blasted homers while Ben Odom picked up the win.

SOFTBALL: Liberties crush Phillies

GIRLS INTERMEDIATE: The Liberties started off slow but gained momentum and eventually crushed the Phillies 21-4 on June 24. After just one hit and failing to score in the first inning, the Liberties proceeded to belt out 34 hits and 13 runs in the final two innings alone to complete the rout. Hitting stars for the winners were Sue Land and Rozann Staknis (three hits each), Melanie Apigian, Kate Holstein and Teri Juhasz (two hits each). Later on that same day, the Liberties bashed out 21 hits and pulled out a 13-9 win over the Falcons in a high scoring affair. Cindy MacDuff had three RBIs, Jenny Juhasz added two RBIs and Allison Downs ripped three hits for the Liberties. The Travellers fought off a late rally by the Falcons to win a close 21-20 game on June 25. The Travellers jumped out to leads of 12-6 and 20-12 only to see the Falcons come back with eight big runs in the bottom of the seventh to make it interesting. Becky Crampton and Danielle Novak paced the offense for the winners by getting four hits in as many as bats Michelle Mears (5-for-5) and Elizabeth Lamb (4-for-5) led the Falcons' hitting attack. Despite giving up 29 hits, Jenny Bush recorded the win. The Liberties continued on a hitting streak and trounced the Aztecs 17-5 on June 25. The Liberties scored runs in all but one inning, adding five run outbursts in the fourth and sixth. In the sixth, Laura MacDuff had a great day at the plate smashing two homers, one triple and five runs batted in. Other hitting stars included Kate Holstein, Melanie Apigian and Jenny Juhasz. On June 30, the Phillies slipped past the Falcons 12-8. With the score knotted at 3-3 heading into the fifth inning, the Phillies pulled away with four runs in the fifth and another five in the sixth. Tina York (4-for-4, five RBIs), Nichole Bush (4-for-4, three RBIs) and Michelle Stevens (2-for-4, three RBIs) were the hitting stars for the Phillies. Karen Pump, Dawn Donnelly and Donna Donnelly each had three hits for the Falcons.

RECREATION BRIEFS

BED RACE RESULTS: The results of the second annual bed race held prior to the parade on July 4th by the Rec Department are as follows: First Place — Gormondo II (57.85), captained by Sue Shepard; Second Place — Big Time Investments (1:11.68), captained by Jacquie Rundell; Third Place — Dundalk I (1:21.70), captained by Bob Neff.

NEW COACH: Schoolcraft College's Athletic Director Dr. Marvin Gans has announced the hiring of Bob Wenzel as Head Coach of the men's basketball team. Wenzel was previously the head coach at Lansing Community College and is a graduate of Kent State. He holds a masters degree from Michigan State University.

SOFTBALL TOURNEY: Times Chemical presents the ninth annual men's softball tournament July 26-27 at Lucy Road Park in Howell. Entry fee per team is $100 before July 18, and $110 after, plus two ASA sanctioned softballs. Trophies will be awarded to the first and second place sponsors with the winning team receiving 15 T-shirts and individual trophies.

SOCCER REGISTRATIONS: The Northville Soccer Association is still accepting registrations for the fall 1986 soccer season. All boys and girls born in 1980 or before are invited. The season runs from September through October. Registration is held at the Rec Center Monday through Friday between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

NORTHVILLE RIDE: The Wolverine Sports Club is sponsoring a 25 mile bicycle ride through Northville every Wednesday evening this summer and fall. The ride leaves promptly at 6 p.m. from the Northville Municipal Parking Lot located at Center just south of Main. The 25-mile ride is at a 16-mile per hour pace. Riders should be capable of making their own repairs. Call 348-9693 for more information.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS: The Rec Center is sponsoring the Northville Open Tennis Classic, the Junior Tennis Classic and the Adult Doubles Tournament this summer. Entry forms currently are available. The Open will be July 11-13 for men and women singles and doubles. Fee is $8. The Junior Classic will be held July 25-27 in four age groups (12-under, 14-under, 16-under and 18-under). Fee is $8. The Doubles Tournament is slated for August 15-17 for men's, women's and mixed doubles. Fee is $10.

A great flight signals a toast. Ken Zawisa shares a warm toast with his crew after a flight in last year's festival.

Bit of bubbly

Freixenet to add some sparkle

Officials of the Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival have named Freixenet Champagne as the official champagne for the event.

"Champagne and ballooning go hand-in-hand," said Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel and pilot of the Mayflower Hotel hot air balloon.

America's consumption of the bubbly is booming and Freixenet has become the leading importer of sparkling wines. Last year 6.2 million cases of sparkling wine were imported into this country.

"FREIXENET" PRODUCES Cordon Negro, Brut Barroco, Carta Nevada and Brut Nature and continues to be the number-one line of Spanish sparkling wines sold in the U.S. and it

'Champagne and ballooning go hand-in-hand.'

— Scott Lorenz
hot air balloon pilot

now holds the number-one position among all imported sparkling wines.

Gordon Boring, co-chairman of the sixth annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival added: "All pilots and sponsors will receive a bottle of Freixenet champagne on their free sponsor ride Saturday morning, July 12." Spectators also can view the six-story black and gold Freixenet hot air balloon throughout the weekend.

Up, up and away!

Balloon fest flaring up for takeoff

MICHIGAN'S LARGEST annual hot air balloon festival will rise in numbers and quality when the first launch is held Friday, July 11, in Canton.

Some 60 hot air balloons will be competing in the sixth annual Mayflower Hotel Hot Air Balloon Festival Friday, Saturday and Sunday, July 11-13.

About a quarter of a million spectators are expected to watch five separate races at the Centennial Educational Park, a 305-acre site at Joy Road and Canton Center Road.

Signed up so far are some top-notch balloonists who participated in the World's Hot Air Balloon Competition last summer in Battle Creek, says Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth, and co-sponsor of the festival with Gordon Boring of the Wicker Basket Balloon Center.

Top crews from throughout the U.S. and world are drawn, in part, by the attractive prizes offered as well as the natural beauty of the Plymouth-Canton community, the large crowds, and accommodations made by the sponsors.

THIS YEAR A PRIZE of a trip for two to Paris, France, via American Airlines has been added to the prizes such as a new automobile and trips offered by Eastern Airlines and British Airways.

Last year spectators traveled to Plymouth from as far away as South Carolina, Kentucky, Maryland and Cincinnati to view such annual favorite entries as First of America, Ford Motorcraft, New York Air, Eastern Airlines, America Yazaki and E.F. Hutton to name a few.

New balloonists signed up for 1986 include Pilot Air Freight of Romulus, and favorites at balloon festivals throughout the U.S. such as Budweiser and Slush Puppy.

A popular feature of last year's festival to be repeated this summer will be the Experimental Aircraft Association Fly-In from 7 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 12. A number of antique airplanes, dating back to the 1930s, will be on display at Mettetal Airport, on Joy Road about one mile east of the launch site.

ALSO RETURNING BY popular demand is one of the most popular events of the three-day summer spectacular — The Early Riser Inflation Sale. Literally thousands of shoppers line the streets of downtown Plymouth at 5 a.m. Saturday to be there when the shops' doors open. The shops will be offering discounts of 50 percent for the first hour beginning 5 a.m., 40 percent off from 6 to 7 a.m., etc., to 10 percent to those who don't show up until 9 a.m.

The launches are scheduled for 6 p.m. Friday, and 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday (launch times are approximate and depend on weather conditions). In between the launches on Saturday and Sunday there will be an Art In The Park show in Kellogg Park, a New England-type Commons in the heart of the downtown area.

For those who are smitten by the sport and want to take up ballooning, a Hot Air Balloon School is scheduled at 8 a.m. Aug. 9, 10 in the Mayflower Hotel to offer all the training needed to become a licensed pilot.

The launch site, which has plenty of parking, is easily accessible from I-275 freeway and M-14. From I-275 exit at Ann Arbor Road (Plymouth) and proceed west to fourth traffic light (Sheldon Road), turn south on Sheldon to first traffic light (Joy) and turn west to the Launch Site. From the south, exit I-275 at Ford Road (Canton) and proceed west about three miles to Canton Center Road, turn north and proceed two miles to Launch Site. From M-14 exit at Sheldon Road and travel south on Sheldon to sixth traffic light (Joy) and turn west to the Launch Site.

For information about hot air balloon rides, call the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at (313) 669-4230. For festival information, call the Canton Chamber of Commerce at (313) 453-1540.

Five-year-old Robert Lykins of Utica got tired of waiting for the big balloons to inflate so he launched a couple of his own — secured to his fishing rod.

WSDP is festival's 'voice'

WSDP (88.1 on the FM dial) will be broadcasting traffic information, weather conditions, balloon departures and interviews with festival organizers during the weekend of the Hot Air Balloon Festival.

Plymouth-Canton's "community radio station," based at Plymouth Salem High School, will broadcast in stereo from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 12-13.

"Our station philosophy is not only to provide a realistic learning environment for our student staff but to serve our community as well," said Andrew Melin, station manager. "The Mayflower Balloon Festival is a significant community event and WSDP looks forward to a mutually beneficial relationship."

Scott Lorenz, an organizer of the event, said one of the important services will be WSDP's broadcasting of weather conditions as balloons cannot be launched when it's too windy and so spectators will want to keep track of the weather as part of making plans to attend.

WSDP is owned and operated by Plymouth-Canton Community Schools with broadcast facilities at the Centennial Educational Park, which also is the site of the festival.

Balloons away! The Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival July 11-13 in Canton is one of the largest balloon events in North America. Here is a group ready to ascend.

Balloon festival has its ups...

...and downs

One of last year's participants was Ken Zawisa. He is shown preparing to inflate his balloon, Visions Too. To do so, he holds the bottom of the balloon open. The fan in the foreground fills the envelope with air.

After a safe landing at Mettetal airport last year, Zawisa packs his balloon.

Staff photos by Bill Bresler

Downside

Eventually the fun side of ballooning — the drifting and floating — has to come to an end. Once on the ground, there's the job of packing it in. One of the many tasks is securing the vent as balloonist Jan Zawisa demonstrates.

McAuley center to offer first aid, balloons for kids

Catherine McAuley Health Center will provide first aid for balloonists during the hot air balloon festival.

The first aid station will be at the McAuley Health Promotion van, which will be parked in Centennial Park. Health professionals, from McAuley Urgent Care at the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth will staff the van.

Visitors are invited to stop by the van even if they don't need health care. They'll be passing out balloons to the children.

Prizes add to excitement

A week's vacation in Florida is the top prize in the Canton Chamber of Commerce's Mayflower Hot Air Balloon festival Contest.

The grand prize is a week's vacation for two at a condominium on the waterfront near Fort Myers, Fla. The stay in the condo, on Charlotte Harbor, has been donated by Suncoast Travel in Plymouth. Air fare is provided by participating Chamber members.

Second prize is a crystal chandelier from Master Lighting in Canton, third prize a weekend for two at the Mayflower Hotel, fourth prize a hot air balloon ride for two compliments of the Mayflower Hotel.

Entry forms for the contest are available at the Canton Chamber office on Canton Center Road south of Joy and at participating locations.

Shutterbugs to compete at fest

A new twist has been added to the Observer Newspapers' photo contest held in conjunction with the 1986 Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The standard feature of the contest will be a color print contest for photographs taken during the three-day festival.

An optional category to enter this year is a special black and white promotional division that will feature as a prize a free hot air balloon ride for two.

As in past years, the winning color entry will be published in full color on Page 1A of the Canton Observer and Plymouth Observer this fall.

The contest is sponsored by the Canton and Plymouth Observer Newspapers with co-sponsors being Quicksilver One Hour Photo, 1313 Ann Arbor Road, Plymouth, and the Mayflower Hotel.

1986 IS THE second year in a row that

Warm beer

Talk about unusual shots. Here's one. A unique feature of this balloon is that there is no vent hole at the top, unlike conventional designs. To descend, the pilot must wait for the balloon to cool instead of releasing hot air through the vent.

the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival Photo Contest has been a color-print-only competition. In earlier years slides were the medium.

Prints entered will become the property of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and will not be returned. Anyone wanting to retain a personal copy should have an extra print made before submitting their entry for the contest.

All entries should have the name, address and phone number of the photographer placed on the back of the print. Entrants are asked to keep the negative of their entry on file so it can be submitted to the Observer if necessary if they are chosen a winner.

Photographs entered must be taken in the Plymouth-Canton community during the three-day festival, Friday through Sunday, July 11-13.

The deadline to submit entries is 5 p.m. Friday, July 25.

Entries may be mailed or delivered in person to the Observer Newspapers at 489 S. Main. Questions may be asked by calling 459-2700.

THE SPECIAL black and white category involves taking photos of the Mayflower Hotel hot air balloon to be used in promoting the 1987 festival.

In return for allowing the winning photo to be used for promotion, the winner will be awarded a free hot air balloon ride for two as scheduled with Scott Lorenz, general manager of the Mayflower Hotel. The same rules and deadlines also apply to this special category.

In the black and white category, second-place winner will receive free Norwegian scrod dinners for four in the newly renovated Steakhouse of the Mayflower Hotel and third place will receive Sunday dinner for four in the Mayflower Hotel.

The first-place winner in the color print contest, in addition to having his/her photo printed on Page 1A of the Canton and Plymouth Observers, will receive a 16-by-20-inch framed copy of their entry, $50 cash, two rolls of film with free processing from Quicksilver.

The second-place winner will receive a framed 11-by-14-inch enlargement of their entry, $25 cash, a roll of film with free processing from Quicksilver, and free Norwegian scrod dinners for four in the Steakhouse.

The third-place winner will receive an 8-by-10-inch framed enlargement of their entry, Sunday brunch for four in the Mayflower Meeting House, and a roll of film with free processing from Quicksilver.

Honorable mentions will receive free processing for one roll of film from Quicksilver and a meal pass for two from the Mayflower.

Only three entries per person will be accepted.

Employees or family members of employees of the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers or Suburban Communications Corp. are ineligible.

Judging will be directed by staff photographer Bill Bresler, assisted by members of the Observer news staff. Criteria will include composition, color, ability to reproduce on newsprint, and degree of difficulty in taking the shot.

By dawn's early light . . . bargains

Whoever said inflation is fun isn't kidding.

Not when the inflation occurs in Plymouth and is tied to the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival. What it adds up to is that many businesses will be offering specially priced merchandise to give a further lift to the event.

More than 50 merchants will be involved in the special selling spree that will see bargains ranging from 50 percent off down to 10 percent off, depending on the hour.

To really take advantage of the sale though, you'll have to be in Plymouth at the crack of dawn.

STARTING AT 5 A.M., participating stores will offer merchandise at 50 percent off. After that, everything is downhill — 6-7 a.m. will bring 40 percent discounts; 7-8 a.m., 30 percent off; 8-9 a.m., 20 percent; and 9-10 a.m. 10 percent.

By 10 a.m., most of the prices will be back to normal. Many of the stores offer over half their regular merchandise in this sale.

"The sale is unique to Plymouth," said a Plymouth Chamber of Commerce spokesman. "And it's been tremendously successful."

Many customers queue up in front of their favorite store long before 5 a.m. in order to be the first in the store, store owners report. A lot of folks "check out" the store on Friday to see what's going on sale in order to save time on Saturday morning.

For those people who can't make it that early, many stores sales will be conducting special sales all day long, "but you won't find anything to compare with the prices those first magic hours," the chamber spokesman said.

Land craft

Art in the Park has 150 exhibitors

MORE THAN 150 artists and craftsmen from 57 Michigan cities will be participating in the Art in the Park, held annually in Plymouth in conjunction with the Mayflower Hot Air Balloon Festival.

The exhibits will be in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, July 12, 13.

Art in the Park is scheduled to give balloon festival spectators something to do between the dawn and dusk lift-offs at the launch site.

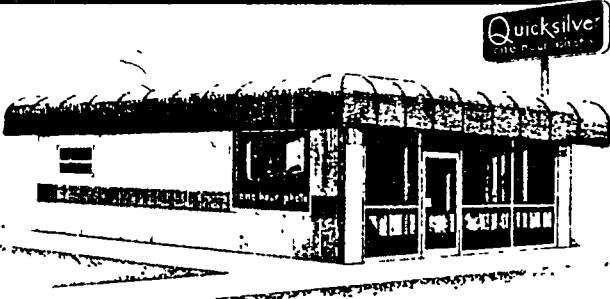

Show Director Diane Quinn says there will be a wide assortment of country and folk art.

THERE WILL BE paintings on traditional canvass as well as on wood, tin, shirts, and sawblades in oils, watercolors, and acrylics.

Also shown will be every imaginable form of needlework, quilting, applique, knitting, crocheting, Swiss embroidery, cross stitch, and needle punch.

Also featured will be: handmade furniture for the home, patio, for children, dolls and birds; flower arrangements from silk and dried flowers, potpourri, wreaths of herbs, pieces, grapevines and muslin; glass — stained, blasted, etched, fused and reverse glass painting; lamps and lamp shades; woven baskets and rugs.

There will be hand-forged reproductions from Greenfield Village, whirligigs, music boxes, pottery; checkerboards, chimes, claycandle houses, calligraphy, bears, geese, rabbits, sheep, ducks, cats, hearts, clowns and dolls; primitive art to solar-powered arts.

Balloon pilot school set

A Hot Air Balloon Seminar will be held in Plymouth the beginning of August.

The seminar will be conducted by Van Stifler, who is associated with Fort Wayne Ground Schools.

The session will begin at 8 a.m. Aug. 9-10 at the Mayflower Hotel.

Individuals completing the two-day course will be eligible to take a written exam to become a licensed hot air balloon pilot by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA).

THE SEMINAR WILL cover such topics as federal regulation, density, altitude, lifting force, landing, ballooning weather, equipment, vocabulary, aeronautical charts, weather reports, good operating practice, and mountain flying.

The seminar cover the information required for both private and commercial hot air balloons, and free balloon pilot licenses.

The tuition of $125 (additional family members at $30 each) includes all classroom presentations, hand-out materials and loan of an aeronautical chart, circular protractor, and test guides.

Stifler also is a designated written test examiner appointed by the FAA and will administer the written test upon course completion.

STIFLER GUARANTEES that persons attending the seminar will pass the FAA written examination or tuition will be refunded.

The classes begin 8 a.m. Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 9-10, with a lunch break at 11:45 a.m. Afternoon sessions run from 1-4 p.m. On Sunday, the written exams will be given at 1 p.m. and will last about 90 minutes.

Reservations are necessary and may be made by calling the Wicker Basket Balloon Center at (313) 669-4230 or by calling Stifler at (219) 747-5533. Payment is due on the morning on Aug. 3.

One of the home-designed and built biplanes at the show last year was Stan Wallis' "Red-Winged Blackbird," powered by 351-cubic-inch Ford V-8.

'Backyard Eagles' rev engines for flapjack fly-in

MEMBERS OF THE local E.A.A. Chapter 113 will be hosting a Fly-in Pancake Breakfast at Mettetal Airport, in Canton, on Saturday morning, July 12, as part of the balloon festival.

Breakfast will be served 7-11 a.m. at $3 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

What is the E.A.A. — or Experimental Aircraft Association?

It is an international organization, dedicated to promoting general aviation and to encourage those who want to design and/or build their own aircraft.

E.A.A. Chapter 113 is comprised of a group of local pilots who have built, are now building, or who dream of building and flying their own aircraft. They call themselves the "Backyard Eagles" and they are ordinary people with extraordinary dreams.

WHAT IS A FLY-IN Pancake Breakfast? It's a tradition among pilot groups to host and attend weekend early morning breakfasts served at airports, generally inside a large aircraft hangar. It could best be described as an "ice cream social" but with the pancakes the main fare and flying the topic of conversation.

The pilots come to socialize, admire each other's airplanes, to "fly-in" and usually the breakfast part is the incidental catalyst to make it happen at a certain time and place.

For the non-flying general public, this event provides an opportunity to visit the airport, meet the pilots, have breakfast, and admire a variety of aircraft on display. It's a chance to see just about everything from a factory-built aircraft right on down to a single-seat "homebuilt" aircraft. And with the E.A.A. group, the emphasis is definitely on the "homebuilt."

One of the most unusual planes from a design standpoint at last year's show was this Rutan Varietez piloted by LaVerne Dinatale.

"... A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?"
