Township sues Department of Correction

By ANITA CRONE

Northville Township is seeking an injunction to stop the Michigan Department of Corrections from housing 300 medium security prisoners at the Scott Regional Prison before the facility is complete.

A lawsuit, which was expected to be filed yesterday in Wayne County Circuit Court, asks the court to temporarily and permanently enjoin the corrections department from moving the prisoners to the Northville Township site until such time as the cell block portion is complete and the entire prison site is secured against escape.

The suit names Robert Brown, Jr., director of the state department of corrections, the corrections commissioners and John Jabe, warden of the prison.

Although the prison originally was scheduled to open in November, Gail Light, a spokesperson for the corrections department, said Tuesday it was her understanding the department intended to house "about 250 prisoners" in the common area of the prison, including the school building and industrial building, under the supervision of officials at Phoenix Correctional Institute, which is located adjacent to the still-under-construction Scott Regional Prison. Light said she expected the transfer of prisoners to occur "within three to five weeks."

"It is absolutely unconscionable to allow prisoners to be moved into this facility until it is completed," said an irate Susan Heintz, township supervisor. "We know that Robert Brown circulated a memo to the State Legislators listing sites where some 1,900 prisoners would be housed temporarily. Scott was not mentioned as a possible site, so it seems the Corrections Department lied to the legislature as well as to us."

Township officials contend that placing the prisoners at the Scott site before the prison is complete would present a danger to the community.

The suit charges that the perimeter fence around the prison is not complete; that windows are not barred; and that the corrections department will be unable to prevent the mingling of construction workers and prison inmates at the site.

The township attorney said he was "hopeful" a hearing on the injunction requests could be set earlier than the 10-day period allowed by law.

"It is our understanding the Department of Corrections intends to move prisoners onto the site very soon. The intent of this suit is to prevent that from happening until construction at the site is complete and the prison area is secured," he said.

Police, fire millages on ballot

While much of the attention is focused on the candidates running in the August primary, township voters will have money questions facing them — specifically whether to approve or disapprove millage renewals for the police department operations and whether to tax themselves an additional .6 mills to build a new township fire station.

Two proposals for police department funding, one for .7 mills and one for 1.5 mills, are up for renewal and Chief of Police Kenneth Hardesty says passage is "absolutely imperative."

Hardesty said the funding constitutes one-half of the police department's annual budget, with the millage being supplemented by money from the general fund as well as by state revenues.

"The people have always been very supportive of the department," Hardesty said. "Like everyone, they want to know exactly what the money is being spent for, and we've shown them that their tax dollars are well spent."

Although the money is not specifically earmarked, Hardesty noted that the funds will be used for the ongoing upgrading of equipment, as well as for the hiring of additional officers. The township has 13 certified officers in the department and expects to hire one more person in the very near future.

Applications for an additional police officer are available from the township police department beginning Friday.

The wording on the primary ballot asks whether the township should be empowered to renew the .7 mills for four years, from 1987-1990, inclusive.

The second request asks whether the township should be empowered to levy 1.5 mills for five years, 1986-1990, inclusive.

In the past, the millage requests expired in different years, necessitating an additional election. However, the township trustees

Anderson family runs timely business

By ANN CHOWDHURY

The picturesque home with the gingerbread trim at 132 W. Dunlap is the ideal setting for the Anderson family's Northville Watch and Clock Shop.

It's like walking into a house with a heart beat, the soft rhythmic ticking of hundreds of clocks, and on the hour a melody of chimes.

"Clocks look good in an old home like this," agreed Mel Anderson (61) who must hold the record for the largest number of certified horologists (makers or dealers in timepieces) in one family; Mel, Lois, Dan, Norm and Andy.

The father, mother, and three sons have developed, since 1970, Michigan's largest timepiece sales and repair business.

With their stores, Eurich Clock World in Dearborn and Anderson Clock World in Troy, they are among the largest clock dealers in the country.

The wood paneled rooms of the former home boast an array of clocks, from small alarms, to wall, shelf and magnificent nine tubular bell clocks, tuned to perfection.

The most popular, according to

All in the Family

Part VII:

Mel, are the straight, glass-sided hall clocks, with a price range from $600 to $8,000.

It all started as a hobby, according to Mel, who was formerly in the trucking business and with his wife, Lois, enjoyed antiques.

"We were seriously considering opening an antique shop," Mel explained, "but one day at an auction I bought a kitchen clock, 'gingerbreads,' people call them, for $3. It was in a box, and didn't work and its case was broken.

"I went to a friend who was a jeweler, and he told me how to fix it. It had a broken spring. He got me the spring, and I took the movement apart, cleaned it and put it back together then stripped, repaired and cleaned the case."

Mel sold the clock in a garage sale for $27.

"The profit margin got to my Scottish blood and that's what got us started," he explained.

Mel threw himself into learning all he could about clocks and watches and eventually left his job as general manager of the trucking firm and started his own business.

The rest of the family were not far behind him. He taught Lois his new skills.

"She became very good at it, and she was the first woman to take and pass the state exam to be licensed to repair clocks," he said proudly.

Lois did a lot of the repair work until arthritis made it too difficult for her to handle the tools.

"Learning about the history of clocks and watches is like learning about the history of the world," Mel claimed.

"There's so much American history in the history of the clock business. The immigrants brought their skills with them, and wars were fought over the materials they needed."

"The war of 1812 was called the brass war because the British stopped brass from coming in and a man named Eli Terry invented a wooden movement shelf clock. He was the father of mass production, the first person to make a clock with interchangeable parts."

Scott warden eyes community input

By ANITA CRONE

John Jabe aimed for an engineering career when he graduated from the University of Michigan in 1962. But nearly a quarter century later, Jabe finds himself in a totally different line of work — engineering the opening of the Scott Center. Jabe is the warden of the prototype prison.

A low-key individual, both in demeanor and in attire, Jabe, who bears a remarkable resemblance to CBS basketball analyst Billy Packer, comes to his new job from the Ionia reformatory, where he was the warden for seven years. And he says some of the ideas which worked at the reformatory, he hopes to implement at Scott.

He realizes he cannot do it alone, however.

"Scott is part of the community, and we hope to involve the prisoners and the community in mutual efforts," he says, noting that he is looking for volunteers to help implement vocational training programs, educational programs, a community liaison group with monthly meetings and even a Jaycees chapter. In addition, the prison, once operational, will employ 242 people, ranging from food service workers to a physician, to guards. Right now, he says, there is one person on the job — the warden — although he says there are a number of guards undergoing training.

"I don't believe in rehabilitation," Jabe says. "I want to provide opportunities and encouragement for the prisoners, but I can't and won't try to rehabilitate someone. That's up to each individual."

Jabe says that the Michigan Department of Corrections does provide policies, but those are very broad since they apply to all of the department's facilities. "The warden at each institution then adapts those policies to the individual institutions."

At Scott, Jabe says, he expects the adaptation to be very analytical, since his educational background is in engineering. He adds that he sees his job as warden to give the prison population the opportunity to learn

Compromise offered for waters and sewers

By ANITA CRONE

Abraham Lincoln would have loved the July 21 city council meeting.

In two "great compromises," the municipal body unanimously agreed to provide city water and sewers to the majority of Northville Estates residents who opted for the services, while leaving out the majority of those who opposed the move.

The action brings to a close nearly two years of discussions, pitting neighbor against neighbor, as some residents pushed for implementation of the improvements and others were just as vigorously opposed.

"What we have been trying to do is to provide water for the people who wanted it. If you don't want the water, what earthly reason would you have for not asking your neighbor to have it," asked council member Carolann Ayers.

"It will affect our chances of resale," one resident responded. "If a buyer is looking at one house with water and sewer and a second house without it, they're going to probably buy the house that has the water and sewers."

The water project, in its latest form, would amend the current district in the southeast portion of the subdivision to include a number of lots in the southwest part of the area, where a 22-9 majority favored implementation.

Left out of the amended water district was a 17-lot area abutting the current district where residents opposed city water, 9-8.

The council agreed not to assess those lot owners who opposed im-

NEWS BRIEFS

JOHN DAVID KELMIGIAN'S ship came in a big way recently. The Novi resident was the grand prize winner in the Northville Rotary's calendar drawing. Kelmigian won $3,000.

When asked about the award, Kelmigian said he had no plans to quit his job and had no idea what he would spend the money on. "I've never won anything in my life and I just haven't had time to let it all sink in," he said. Rich Probst sold Kelmigian the winning ticket.

THE RAVEN LIVES. Although the coffee house has moved from Berkley to Northville and then to hibernation, there is discussion going on about the possibility of permanently housing the Raven in the proposed bed and breakfast hotel to be built in downtown. While the B & B is still in the planning stages, construction is scheduled to start this summer and occupancy is expected by early 1987.

CRITTER ALERT. Students ages 5-13 looking to spend part of their summer vacation with a host of animals, reptiles, birds and the like now can register for the Living Science Foundation's day camp. The Novi-based organization will be sponsoring a four-day camp experience August 4-7 at Meads Mill Middle School. Students attend sessions from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Cost is $150. To register, call 348-1985 or 348-1966.

WHEN RESIDENTS CALL the county listens, at least in one instance. Residents of Portis and Robinwood streets in the township have been informed that Wayne County will make sure those streets are "reasonably well maintained."

The county's action came in response to calls from subdivision residents protesting the condition of the roads.

THE OVERTURE Studio in Northville was host to Motown singer Martha Reeves who performed a rendition of her hit, "Dancing in the Streets," to promote Crowley's department store, Tuesday.

Music producer Dan Yessian supplied tunes for the event. Specializing in commercial jingles, he has produced the Whirlpool, Dodge Boys, and Little Caesar's slogans.

Northville resident Larry Santos owns Overture Studios.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES has scheduled a special meeting for 5:30 p.m. Thursday to decide whether to approve the plans for Colony IV. The meeting is expected to be short.

NORTHVILLE PUBLIC SCHOOLS Superintendent George Bell can breathe a sigh of relief. Leonard Rezmierski, executive director of special education services for the district, will not be heading up the superintendent's post in Washtenaw.

Rezmierski, one of four finalists for the top post in the Washtenaw Intermediate School District, received word last week that the job went to Dr. Michael Emlaw, superintendent of the Ludington Area Schools.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE FOUNDATION has elected five new members to its Board of Governors for three-year terms.

Newly-elected members are Jeanne M. Hildebrandt of Livonia, Esther Hulsing, John S. Lore and Judy Morgan of Plymouth and Orin Mazzoni, Jr. of Garden City.

Class of '41 reunion set

The Plymouth High School Class of '41 will host its 45th class reunion at 6 p.m. Aug. 23 at the Elks Hall in Northville. For more information, call Pearl Stephens at 349-0090 or William Wernett at 349-6223.

Sale space still open

Crafts, antiques and collectibles will be sold in booths on downtown streets during the Northville Merchants' Association's annual sidewalk sale Aug. 1-2. Merchants will have their bargains out on the sidewalk both Friday and Saturday during the sale.

The street sale of crafts and collectibles will open at 8:30 a.m. Saturday.

Del Black, who is chairing the sale, reports that he still has booth spaces available although they are three-fourths sold. Craftspersons and antique dealers may sign up for spaces at Del's Shoes; ask for Del or Mary Fisher, or call 349-0411.

This year, Black explains, those taking booth spaces are to have their wares in place between 6:30-8 a.m. Late comers will be reassigned spaces on the outside area.

"This year there will be a good variety of crafts and other merchandise," he notes in checking booth reservations already made.

Art fair opens

Ann Arbor's 16th annual Summer Arts Festival will open today and run through Saturday.

Sponsored by the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans, the fair will take place on State Street between South University and William, Main Street between Huron and William, and in the Ann Arbor Civic Theater parking lot on Main Street.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

This year, for the first time, a raffle to benefit the Michigan Guild, a non-profit artist service organization, will be held during the festival. Prizes include two round-trip tickets to Florida via U.S. Air, a weekend for two at the Ann Arbor Inn, a Vic Tanny membership and a gift certificate to Stein & Goetz sporting goods store.

Chatham clerk cashier Joyce Nelson ends 15-year tenure at local store

Record/ PHIL JEROME

Chatham closing leaves long-time employee jobless

By ANITA CRONE

Joyce Nelson is losing her family Saturday, but she won't be there to mourn. She will be on vacation.

When the doors at the Northville Chatham store swing closed at 11 p.m., they will not reopen, at least under the Chatham name. And that act will bring to a close 15 years of Chatham in the community.

Nelson, 48, a clerk cashier, moved to the Northville Chatham in August, 1971, one day before the retail food outlet opened for business. She has watched the store grow and flounder, change management on several occasions and watched the chain be sold to a Flint concern.

She has watched her own work change and her paycheck increase. She has watched customers come and go and, while she admits she misses some of them, she says she has few regrets about leaving.

"Chatham used to be like a family," she says, recalling the good times. "They cared about the employees, they cared about the communities they were located in and, in return, the employees cared about the company. Now, it isn't the same."

Nu-Trax announced in late June it was closing 12 Chatham stores in Wayne County, including the store in Northville — the last remaining representative of chain supermarkets in the city. All of the firm's union employees have reportedly received layoff notices, although some management personnel have been told to "stay available."

Nelson, a Fenton resident, is one of those employees who will lose her job. She began working for Chatham Jan. 23, 1969, at a pay rate of $2.84 per hour.

"That was good money at the time," she says. "I was working as a cashier at another store but, when I came to work at Chatham, my salary was doubled."

Less than a year later, her pay nearly doubled again, when the Retail Clerks union asked and received an increase to more than $4 per hour. Salary increases were regular occurrences until four years ago when Chatham employees took concessions in an attempt to save the family ownership of the chain.

"I wrote a letter favoring the concessions," Nelson said. "The Weisbergs had been good to me, and I really felt they needed the help. Everyone signed it."

But now, Nelson said, she feels betrayed. "It wasn't just one-time concessions, and it didn't seem like it meant anything to them. Then, when the chain was sold, and the new people asked for additional concessions, it just didn't seem right."

Nelson says it also didn't seem right when the store on Center Street started to "go downhill." She said it seemed like the parent company just "lost interest in keeping the stores' reputation."

Watch, clock shop keeps them running

When listening to Mel, it's easy to realize why his sons share his enthusiasm and wanted to join their father in the business.

After high school, Dan, now 34, went to learn watch making at Bowman Technical School in Lancaster, Pa., the first and oldest watch and clock making school in the country. There were only one clock-making student and six watch-making students in his year.

Most students now, Mel explained, go into jewelry repair and diamond setting, since most people will no longer pay what it costs to repair clocks and watches.

Dan became the family's watch maker, the others all specialized in clocks. When he came out of college, he helped his father start the store.

At that time Norm (36) was still in the Navy where he served for six years. After the Navy, he, too, attended Bowman Technical School before joining the business.

Andy, 23, went to Gem City College in Quincy, Ill., learning mostly clock repair, but also some watch repair. He joined the business in 1982.

Married less than a year ago, Andy met his wife, Elisha, when she came in the store with her mother to buy a clock. "She kept coming back, and after about three months we decided to get married," he said.

Jill is very involved with Girl Scout and Brownie groups, Deborah has worked at Green's Creative Home Center for nine years, and Elisha works for Arkin Industries in Novi.

Mel and Lois recently moved from the house they had lived in on Dunlap for 18 years to a ranch on Carpenter.

Both Dan and Norm have long served on the city fire department and Andy plans to join in the future.

AT SECURITY BANK OAKLAND COUNTY, WE'VE ALWAYS HAD YOUR TRUST.

NOW, WE ARE YOUR TRUST.

A great new name for an Oakland County favorite.

For years at Security Bank Oakland County, we've done our best to earn your trust. We just felt it was time we said so in the name of our bank. That's why, as of August 1, 1986, we're changing our name—to Security Bank and Trust.

Our merger with Security Bank and Trust makes us part of the eighth-largest bank in Michigan. With combined assets over $1 billion. And a total of 38 conveniently located offices (including the five existing Oakland County branches). Best of all, our new name and affiliation will enable us to provide you with expanded and improved services.

A great gift for all new checking and savings accounts.

To celebrate the introduction of our new name, the Oakland County offices of Security Bank and Trust will be offering a free American La France fire extinguisher to all new or existing customers who open a checking or savings account with $250 between July 28 and August 8. It's a great way to give your home a feeling of Security.

A great big party for one and all.

As part of our celebration, we're throwing a party! On Saturday, August 2, from 11:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., we invite you to join us at our Main Office on 10 Mile and Meadowbrook. There'll be free food, drink and gifts, and we'll be raffling off a brand new VCR to one of our lucky guests. (And as a special convenience, we'll be open for your banking business on that day from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.) Come on out and join the celebration!

We hope you'll stop by soon and get to know us—both our new name and our new services. The sign outside may be changing, but our dedication to customer satisfaction isn't. Remember: When it comes to full-service banking, you need all the Security you can get.

Anderson business keeps running leave work, and that's it," Mel said. "When I've been the only one here and the whistle's gone off, I've had to ask customers to leave, and lock the store," Dan added. "That doesn't happen very often, though, because there are usually several of us here." Though most of today's business is in sales, the Andersons have several months of repair work accumulated in their workshop.

It's increasingly difficult to find trained horologists, and, since the family has three stores, extra help is needed.

The Andersons have assisted two immigrant horologists to settle in this country, one from Poland and one from Russia.

Boris Kolosov left Russia with his father seven years ago when he was 19, and has worked for the Andersons since.

"He didn't speak a word of English, and we had to bring out an interpreter to interview him," Mel remembered.

"He'd worked as an apprentice in a clock shop in Moscow. He's just a gem of a person."

"Young men learn quickly from young men, and though he'd never seen a wood works clock like the ones we repair he's a good mechanic and soon learned."

Mel said his family always gives customers honest advice, even if it means losing business, often persuading them against repairing antique watches.

"It can be expensive compared with a modern watch, and we often say to people, 'If you're not going to use it, it doesn't pay to repair it.'"

"If the crystal's gone, you might put a crystal on to protect the face and hands, but get a little glass dome and put it in there and look at it," he said. "It'll be right twice a day!"

"To spend $75 to $100 to get a watch repaired just to put it back in the safety deposit box or jewelry drawer, well, you just don't do that."

The clock business really reflects the economy in the state. Michigan's recession a few years ago was an example.

"Nobody has to have an expensive clock," Mel stated. "It's something you do with extra money. You can go out and buy an alarm clock for $3 or $4 rather than a $1,500 grandfather clock and that antique can wait to be repaired.

"The closest we were to being out of work was when we were getting repairs out in three weeks, and I was packing up grandfather clocks for moving companies who were moving people to Texas."

It was during the recession, however, that the Andersons opened their Troy store.

"They say the time to do things is when the economy is down, that's the time for expansion," said Mel. "We had a lot of merchandise, and people we didn't want to lose so we expanded and it's been a good move for us."

Mel admits there's a tremendous amount of personal satisfaction in having all the family involved in a business that grew from his hobby.

"It's not always easy because we all live and work so close together, but we try to stay out of each other's personal life, that's been a rule."

"You don't care what you see over the fence, that's their business. I don't know what I've done right or wrong, but each of them has come back here with skills that he could have taken elsewhere. I guess we just have a good relationship."

An end of an era for Nelson, Chatham

"I remember when this store's biggest problem was parking," she says. "The manager would watch out the window as customers would drive around the parking lot for 10 or 15 minutes, trying to find a place to park. It's not like that now."

Saturday, there were five cars in the parking lot and eight people shopping in the store. The store's delicatessen counter was closed and the shelves were rapidly emptying.

The last delivery truck made its final Northville stop Friday. Nelson says that wasn't always the case.

She says she remembers coming into the store one day last January and finding an entirely new management team in place.

"They kept asking me where to find things. I didn't believe it," she says. It seemed a far cry from the days when the employees felt their chain was just a little better than the competition.

While Nelson says she will miss many of the customers, she says she expects she will be able to manage, but she wonders about some of the customers.

"I really feel sorry for some of them, especially the older ones. I had one woman, she is very elderly and has no transportation. She said she didn't know where she will shop or how she will get to a different grocery store. In a way, we were her neighborhood grocery," Nelson says.

CAMPAIGN '86

THE ISSUES:

- ☐ What is your stand on (a). the death penalty (b). the citizens' lobby proposal that would bar a rate increase for 'un-needed' power plants (c). Medicaid funding for abortion?
- ☐ As a freshman senator, what are your priorities?
- ☐ If you win the election, this area loses a seat on the Appropriations Committee. What do we gain?
- ☐ The state continually has promised single bedding in prisons. Each year, however, funding has precluded reaching that goal. Is single bedding necessary? How do we pay for it?
- ☐ Governor Blanchard has made some controversial appointments including Agnes Mansour at social services and Ronald Skoog at the DNR. Would you have voted to confirm these appointments?
- ☐ Is more money needed to fund public education? Is there a better way to fund public education? Do you agree with the Supreme Court's recent ruling that public schools must provide the same services to non-public school students?
- ☐ What is your position on (a). the balanced budget amendment (b). tax reform (c). liability insurance caps (d). no-fault insurance (e). seat belts (f). deposits on wine cooler bottles (g). the Equal Rights Amendment (h). prayer in schools (i). aid to the Contras (j). Gramm-Rudman-Hollings?

THE SEAT:

The winner of the Democratic primary will have the unenviable position of squaring off against R. Robert Geake for the Sixth District Michigan Senate seat during the November election. The district encompasses the communities of Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Redford Township and Livonia.

Geake, a Northville Township resident, was first elected to the State Senate in 1977, when he beat four primary challengers for the Republican nomination. He went on to defeat his Democratic opponent, Patrick McDonald, to fill the unexpired term of U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth. Geake was re-elected in 1978 and 1982.

Previous to his election to the Senate, he served three terms in the Michigan House of Representatives.

Chair of the Senior Citizens and Social Services Committee and vice chair of the Senate Appropriations Committee, Geake is an educational psychologist. He is a member of the American Education Association; the American and Michigan Psychological Associations and a member of Rotary International and the Northville Rotary Club.

BOB GEAKE

SCOTT BASSETT

1a. I'm against it because there is no reason to believe it's a deterrent and there's also no reason to believe that our jury system, or, in a bench trial, the judges are infallible in deciding who's guilty of first degree murder. I'm sure, if this state had the death penalty again that we would inevitably put to death innocent people. Every state that has it seems to execute more poor people and more black people.

1b. That's obviously a response to the Midland nuclear plant. I'm sympathetic to the notion of making the utility companies more responsible, but the specific proposal I don't know enough about to either endorse or oppose.

1c. I favor it. It's the law of this land according to Roe v. Wade in the Supreme Court that abortion is legal. It is at this point a liberty right guaranteed women to choose to terminate or continue their pregnancy at will. I don't think (abortion) should be available solely to women who can afford it.

2. I would introduce a family court bill. A bill that would create an autonomous family division of the circuit court which would consolidate all of the family cases that are spread out over four different courts together into the family division of Circuit.

Introduction of the Michigan marriage and divorce code which is something that is being sponsored by the family law section of the State Bar of Michigan. It is a complete rewrite and codification of our marriage and divorce laws.

3. What you will gain is somebody who has ideas, somebody who will forge major reform and work tirelessly and constantly to bring those reforms about.

I'm not naive enough to believe that any of these things can be done in one legislative session. But, if I'm elected, I would at least have four years and hopefully if I'm re-elected we could push these reforms through.

I'm not aware that Sen. (Robert) Geake's (R-Northville) position as vice chair of appropriations has been of real great benefit to this district. I went through clippings trying to think of a single major piece of reform that he was primarily responsible for and came up empty handed.

It's nice to be sort of a caretaker legislator who will try to keep an eye out for the interests of his district but not do a whole lot. But I don't think that's enough.

4. I really don't know if it's necessary. What I don't think we need is more prisons. That probably is going to be an unpopular position in this district, but I've long agreed with Zolton Ferency that we do a very poor job of determining who should be incarcerated and who shouldn't be incarcerated.

In part, the revised criminal code would help take care of that. It will set up distinct classes for crime and prescribe the penalties for those crimes, which won't always include incarceration. We have to stop putting away non-dangerous offenders and put them to use in the community.

There's a model program going on in Washtenaw County right now with non-dangerous offenders, non-violent offenders, who have electronic sensors attached to their ankles and their houses wired so they cannot leave their house except for certain designated times, which puts the burden back on them, not on the community.

We're talking about economic crime, primarily. Things like passing bad checks. Those people are a relatively minor threat to the well-being of the community. It's a crime against businesses in the community and the community itself.

Crime such as prostitution doesn't seem the type of thing you want to lock people up for. Drunk driving is a horrible crime, for which I would like the severest penalty. But I don't think incarceration necessarily ought to be the penalty for drunk driving. What they have done is committed a crime against the entire community, and they ought to pay back the community rather than cost the community as part of their punishment.

5. As far as Mansour goes, it was the best possible choice. She appears to be a fine administrator, and I can say that from the perspective of some knowledge. I work as an attorney for DSS. I am of counsel for the prosecutor's role in five counties. I find the Department of Social Services is as well run as a public service agency can be. I don't find in that department the kind of waste PERSONAL: Born Feb. 7, 1956. Married to Debbie Bassett; one daughter, Vicki. Resides in Livonia.

EDUCATION: Adlai Stevenson High School, Livonia. Salutatorian, Class of 1974; Wayne State University, BA in Political Science, 1978, Phi Beta Kappa; University of Michigan Law School, Juris Doctor, 1981.

EMPLOYMENT: Hyman, Gurwin, Nachman, Friedman and Winkelman, Southfield, attorney, 1981-84; University of Michigan Law School, Ann Arbor, clinical instructor of law, 1984-85; clinical assistant professor of law, 1985-present.

that some so-called welfare bashers claim. I think Mansour is doing a fine job.

We would always want more money, especially in the areas of children and youth services, but it's hard to find right now. I always hope that Mansour will be successful in persuading the governor to increase the DSS budget, because that's where the money really needs to be spent.

6a. It's needed in some cases. It's probably desperately needed in K-12 education, and it's probably desperately needed by a number of universities in the state. I don't think it's needed by the university that I work at, the University of Michigan.

What I have always been concerned about is the shabby treatment that Wayne State receives from the legislature. It's one of the prize resources of the state, especially of southeast Michigan. I went to undergraduate school at Wayne and Wayne ends up educating people for Michigan's future, not for the future of other states. We need to put the money at Wayne State where it counts, not necessarily at the University of Michigan.

I'm sure there's a better way than property taxes to fund education. I don't see any fairness or equity in funding education through property taxes. I don't think property taxes are a very fair measure of a person's ability to pay taxes for public education. If we're looking at a decrease in property taxes and in increase in income taxes to fund public education, I would agree with that.

It seems that as long as public institutions have a commitment to provide quality education to all people free of charge, and are doing that, then those people who opt for a private education ought to bear the full responsibility for it.

7a. I'm against the balanced budget amendment. In the form it went to the Michigan Legislature, it would call for a constitutional convention and I think that's dangerous.

I am very much afraid that the people who want a balanced budget want to balance it on the backs of the poor. I don't think that that's right.

7b. Talking about the national level, from what I can see, I agree with Sen. Carl Levin, D-Michigan, that it's not the way to go. By and large it would result in a tax increase for the people who live in this district.

7c. There is no liability insurance crisis. You had a cycle in which the insurance companies had reduced profits. We're going through a cycle of reduced interest rates. The insurance companies make their money on high interest rates. I'm opposed to caps. People who are injured are entitled to have a judge or a jury determine liability damages without caps and without restrictions.

7d. The debate was settled before I went to law school. I think they made a trade in no-fault, similar to one in workers compensation.

6e. I favor mandatory use of seat belts. The advantages are so obvious, the enhancement of safety is so clear that this is one time that I think government needs to infringe on the rights of the individuals. I am also opposed to the 55 mile per hour speed limit. On rural, interstat highways, I would like to see the speed limit increased to 70 miles per hour. For the urban interstates and for surface roads, 55 is fine. Most of our commerce is by truck and for truckers the current speed limit is very costly.

6f. I favor the deposit law. The dramatic difference in our roadsides since the bottle deposit law is obvious to anybody who has driven along the state highways. I don't find it unreasonable.

6g. I strongly favor the ERA. I am not satisfied with statutory efforts to extend equal rights based on sex. If we do it by piecemeal there's always the danger that courts and legislators taking a step back. If it is in our constitution, there is much less danger of that.

6h. I strongly believe in separation of church and state and I don't think that prayer belongs in schools. It is a private matter as far as I'm concerned between an individual and whatever he believes in.

6i. We need to keep our noses out of affairs in Latin America and I don't think we are doing that if we supply aid to the Contras. A bumper sticker I saw recently said it best: Nicaragua is Spanish for Vietnam.

6j. Any sort of automatic effort to keep the budget in line makes it too easy to overlook human needs and that's why I do not support it.

THOMAS HEALY

1a. I'm opposed to the death penalty. I don't think it's our right to take human life.

1b. One of the problems with the utilities is that there's too much built into the rate base. I think that's why we have such high utility rates in this state as compared to the rest of the country. Lower utility rates would not only benefit all of our cities, but would make this state more attractive for industry to move in.

1c. I'm against abortion, but I don't think you police that by taking the privilege away from poor people, and permitting it to people who are able to pay. So I would have voted for approval of the Medicaid budget. I don't think abortion funding should be taken out of Medicaid.

2. One of my priorities would be dealing with crime. The issue would be certainty of punishment. When a crime is committed, there is a certain minimum sentence. I know that means more prisons, but I think prisons should be located out of the residential areas.

You know, when DeHoCo was first built, it was way out in the country, and I think it was a mistake to vote for an increase in the number of beds out here.

The purpose of prisons is to take people out of society and, as far as I'm concerned, you don't give them a hotel room so their friends could visit.

A third one is real estate taxes. Inflated real estate values are driving up real estate taxes, and our senior citizens and our lower income people are finding it difficult to meet those taxes.

3a. Not necessarily. I think it should be up to the particular warden. There are some cases where it has to be single bedding. There are some cases where you can tolerate two in a room. There are some cases where you need solitary confinement.

3b. I have a very unusual recommendation for that. I think you go out in the country, build a big wall with barbed wire around the top, close it all in and put them (the prisoners) in tents and under the supervision of skilled labor, have them build the prisons themselves.

We are not giving hotel rooms. I know there'd be a lot of objections to that. A lot of people would call that cruel and inhumane treatment. But, there's an awful lot of people who voluntarily go to the north woods in the wintertime and sleep in sleeping bags and tents as a recreation. Now, I don't mean to treat them inhumanely, give them medical attention when they need it. Give them clothes to keep them warm and warm enough sleeping bags.

There are two things that will accomplish. It will give us new prisons at a cheaper price and it will keep the prisoners active and, therefore, less riotous. The reason they are often so riotous is that they have nothing to do.

You're going to get some opposition on that from unions because unions would like the job to go out on a contract basis, so they would also like union labor. But when they see that it's either supervise the convicts in constructing the prisons or no prisons at all, I think you might be able to convince them that this is a reasonable solution to the problem.

4. I hope to get a seat on the transportation committee so I can see some of these highways repaired. We do need highway improvement. I am for restricted funds. If all the gasoline and weight taxes went for highway construction, and to repair the roads, we'd be better off. But a certain percentage goes off for mass transportation — urban transportation, so called. I think that should be separately funded and not from gas and weight taxes.

The communities which are served by the mass transportation system should pay for it.

5. I don't know enough to comment on the Department of Natural Resources, but from what I've read in the paper about Agnes Mansour, she's doing as good a job as anybody could do with that kind of an agency, under the circumstances. It has a big budget. The poor we're always going to have with us, and we need some kind of budget to take care of those people. We're also going to have a lot of cheaters in that budget, and it's going to be difficult to eliminate (cheating) 100 percent. By and large, I think she's been doing a decent job.

EDUCATION: Drexel University (Philadelphia), 1947; University of Michigan Law School, 1950.

EMPLOYMENT: Currently special assistant to Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelley. Spent eight years on the attorney general's staff in service to the Highway Department, Liquor Control Commission, Public Service Commission and Consumer Protection Division. Formerly chief legal advisor to the Liquor Control Commission. Plymouth City Attorney, 1966-67.

In some areas, the impact of the people running a department are not immediately felt. For instance (James) Pitz, in the Department of Transportation. He's more or less an administrative head rather than a working administrator, so called. The impact of his policies takes a few years before it filters down. You can't put your finger on any one thing. I think that his policy and his direction in, for instance, repaving the Lodge freeway, is a step in the right direction.

6a. There probably is, in some cases, justification for more money to K-12 education. We, in this area, are fortunate to have well-funded schools paid for with real estate taxes. There are some school districts that are what I would say peripheral and need some supplemental funding to bring them up to a quality education.

6b. In some instances, I think I agree that not every service should be provided to the private schools.

But certain of the services should.

Even though I'm a Roman Catholic I'm not that much in favor of the parochial school system. I believe all of our children have to grow up in a pluralistic society and learn how to live in a pluralistic society, and they don't learn that in a private or parochial school.

7a. I don't favor a balanced budget amendment, because you never know when you're going to have to borrow because tax receipts do not meet your expenditures and recessions come at times you can't control, and I don't think you should cut off the possibility of borrowing in an emergency. I say that as far as the state is concerned and as far as the federal government is concerned.

7b. Tax reform? I don't know what tax reform is. I won't be dealing with the federal tax reform. I'm not familiar with it in detail, only what I've read in summary, and I suppose that some parts of it are all right. But I'd rather wait until I see the final product. It seems like two tiers of tax rates are just not enough for this country.

7c. I think if our insurance commissioner were to exercise his authority to police the insurance companies a little more, and insurance companies were made to disclose their profit and loss statements, we would find that there is not the great problem they are telling us that there is.

Rather than caps on liabilities, I'd rather see an earlier notice of claim period. The statute of limitations, I think it's two years, maybe, you could retain the two-year statute, but an injury has some kind of an inkling of an injury they claimed they suffered long before that.

6c. We never got the savings out of no-fault that they promised us when they first introduced it. It's always going to go up.

7d. I think seat belts are a good idea, and I think mandatory seat belts are a good idea, and I think check lanes are a good idea. I think we legalize check lanes for inspection of automobile equipment, why shouldn't we legalize them for inspection of the driver?

7e. Wine coolers and juice bottles should be treated the same as beer and pop. I don't approve of mandatory deposits at all. But if we're going to have it on beer and pop bottles, we should have it on the rest of the beverages.

I think the deposit increases the cost of the product. I would like to see a study on how effective it has been in reducing litter. The litter that I do see, I see it with returnable bottles.

7f. I'm ambivalent on that. I treat my wife pretty equally and she has a lot more say in some areas. I think I treat women equally, generally speaking. I don't think equal rights will necessarily bring about equal wages for the same job.

There has to be an improvement in the philosophy of the male ego in this country. I don't think you're going to be able to legislate that.

7g. I'm not for prayer in school.

7h. Somewhere along the line, we should contribute some aid in opposition to dictatorial forms of government. But I don't think this continuing fighting contributes to the welfare of mankind. So, unless we're going to give them 100 percent aid, I think we should let them determine the way their own country will be run. Since we haven't made a political decision in this country, I don't think we should be there at all.

7i. I'm not in favor of Gramm-Rudman-Hollings.

CAMPAIGN '86

EDITOR'S NOTE:

EDITOR'S NOTE: With the decision by Mary Dumas, R-Livonia, not to seek reelection to the position of Wayne County Commissioner, three Republicans announced their intention to seek their party's nomination for the job.

The commission, the 15-member legislative branch of Wayne County government, rules on the appointments made by the county executive, helps set the county budget and determines, in connection with the county executive, the direction the county takes in the future.

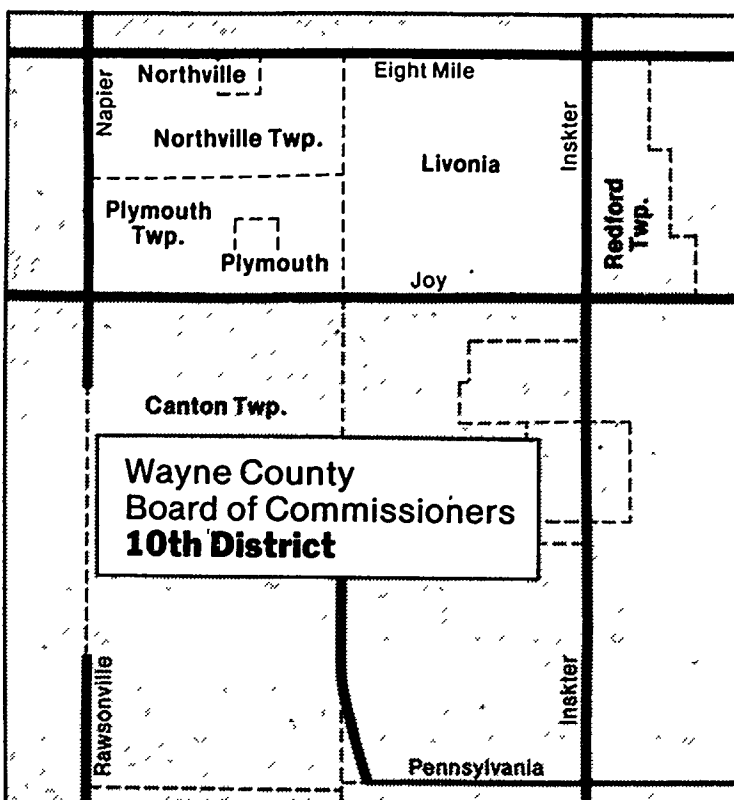

In the past, the 10th District Commissioner has been the only Republican on the Democratic body. While Dumas's decision not to seek re-election guarantees a new face from the 10th District, that will not be the only change when the new commissioners take office Jan. 2.

Commission Chairman John Hertel and Commissioner Samuel Turner are running for county executive. Commissioner William Suzore has announced his retirement.

The Northville Record individually interviewed each of the candidates for 10th District Commissioner recently, asking Susan J. Heintz, Lawrence Schweiger and Elaine Tuttle a series of questions which we felt were important to understand their stands on the issues.

Editor Jean Day and staff writers Anita Crone and Michele Fecht questioned the candidates and excerpts of the answers, edited for clarity, appear below.

The winner of the August primary will face John Kopka, unopposed on the Democratic ticket, in November.

THE ISSUES:

- ☐ What is or should be the role of the 10th district county commissioner in the (a). Conference of Western Wayne (b). SEMCOG (c). SEMTA?
- ☐ With the apparant and anticipated cutbacks in federal and state monies for programs, how do you maintain needed services for county residents? What do you consider necessary services?
- ☐ Since the voters implemented the charter, there seem to be increasing hostilities between the city and the suburbs, the county executive and the commissioners. How do you, as a new commissioner and a Republican on a Democratic body, attain fair and equal representation for the district?
- ☐ As a working individual, how do you allot your time between job, home life and political life?
- ☐ Whom do you support for county executive?
- ☐ The county parks are facing a crisis in terms of safety, the environment within them, and an increasing number of problems with juveniles. Are county parks necessary or should each municipality develop its own system? What about funding?
- ☐ Is there anything you would like to add?

SUSAN HEINTZ

1a. Conference of Western Wayne could be one where they take some issues they are pursuing — transportation study, water and sewer rates — and serve as a conduit of information. It is important that it work both ways, though, and the commissioner bring that information that affects the county to the commission.

1b. SEMCOG you don't have as much input because it's a much larger organization and deals with regional issues. But the commissioner could still play a leadership role. Review agency — housing, transportation. Mary Dumas has been very diligent about attending SEMCOG meetings.

1c. Although there is no regular SEMTA service in Northville and Plymouth, it is still important to be aware of what is going on with the organization. But, since the SEMTA board is appointed by the county executive, I don't think the commissioner will be put on the board when the new executive takes over.

2. With federal cutbacks, I think we have to look at arbitrary vs. mandated services. We've come to expect a lot from the county. I guess I have to say our most necessary services are mandated. What is county government supposed to provide? We're still crying for things like roads.

3. Sit down and talk to them, try to work out a compromise. There are certain things you can do to work with each other for a certain area. You can go and talk to them and understand their problems, and they can come and talk to you and do the same thing. More and more, Wayne County is becoming a little bit better in terms of Detroit vs. suburbs with Super Sewer being the big thing that was a major problem to many cities. It was felt that the city of Detroit was trying to stop growth in Wayne County — especially Western Wayne County — because of the way they were trying to limit sewer flows, capacities, things like that.

However, at the last meeting we had, we were told that the city of Detroit, now that they've upgraded their systems, is not only willing to look at increased flows but is willing to work with the EPA and DNR for some kind of cooperative agreement. This is the first time we've heard this from the city of Detroit in a long time. I think that should be taken as a positive sign.

On transportation issues, at least we've seen at the SEMTA board, that we're coming to some kind of workable relationship. But that isn't all settled yet. That's going to take a long time. As the city of Detroit realizes that their destiny rests on us and our destiny rests on them, I think we'll work a lot more effectively together.

4. Well, first of all, I have a very supportive family. And, another thing which is helpful is my husband and I have very different lives, we have very different kind of jobs. We have made an agreement that I don't talk about General Motors and my husband doesn't talk about politics, and we get along really very well. But as far as trying to get some kind of perspective, it's difficult in the middle of a political campaign because so much of your time is spent doing the politics of it, and I'm especially involved in a lot of regional things, a lot of task force committees and commissions. It's been difficult but not impossible. The thing that suffers is that you have an extremely dirty house.

I couldn't serve on anything in the township because I would be resigning from the township. I'd like to stay involved in the parks because I've always had an interest in the parks being chairman of the Rouge, on the Hines Park Task Force and now the Blue Ribbon committee.

I'd like to have some role in transportation. However, I don't think that that's going to happen. As soon as there is a new county executive I'll be turning in my resignation because that's what you do. I doubt very seriously — no matter who the county executive is — that I'd be reappointed to that board. But, I would like to have some kind of input into that even if it's through the Conference of Western Wayne study that they're talking about. That's a combined study with downriver and us. I'd also still like to have some input on the senior board. I'm a delegate to Senior Alliance, but I can't vote on a lot of things there because of the conflict of interest with being with Northville Township. I would like to stay active with that because I think that that's a field that's going to have implications for a lot of things county wide and state wide if Gramm-Rudman goes into effect. Of course Meals on Wheels operates right out of Northville Township. A million meals a year.

5. I haven't endorsed anyone in the race because I feel primaries are held for political parties. I'm not in that political party. I'm a Republican. To be honest, I'm not supporting the Republican because I have no idea who he is. I have never met the gentleman. Insofar as who is the best man, I think they are all capable. I could work probably the best with Ficano and McNamara. Of course, McNamara and I have worked on a lot of commissions. He is the one that recommended me to be executive director of the Conference of Western Wayne. Ficano has always been helpful to me on the Hines Park Task Force. And they're both western Wayne people. I know them. That's probably why I'd be more comfortable. John Hertel I've only met a couple of times, one of which was when I was appointed to the SEMTA board, the other time was up in Lansing. I just do not know him as well. That would be the only impediment. I'm really staying out of that race. Although I've been told not to discount Turner. I basically know Sam Turner from when I went to commission meetings.

6a. This county park, the Hines Park, is necessary because it's a

LAWRENCE SCHWEIGER

1a. The role of the 10th District Commissioner is to see, naturally, that that particular district is taken care of within the system of Wayne County, to supply services for the community in which he resides.

But also the commissioner of the 10th district should be concerned about getting along with the rest of the commission in a harmonious relationship. Without unity we can't function as a county government.

I believe one of the chief essentials today is credibility within Wayne County and accountability. Since we've had the home rule charter, now that we have an executive branch and a legislative branch, we have to do our utmost to coordinate those services and get on with the job at hand in taking care of the constituents we serve.

I'm probably the only (candidate) from the private sector, which gives me the education and the business background, plus a long history of community service which I don't think the other candidates can compare with at this point. I am used to working within budgets and making a buck, so, as such, we know how to allocate and to get the best for our dollar, and I think this is what we have to do in Wayne County. We have to stop being a kind of a country club or inheriting public offices from each other and get at the job at hand — that is to serve the public. I am that type.

1b. Well, SEMCOG, naturally is a combination of the unity of various other counties, and I would plan to be active in any possible way I could be. I would do whatever I could, and I really plan on working on this.

1c. I believe you should try to be a member of any association that you can. How are you going to be visible or how are you going to see the needs of the community unless you have that visibility? The way to do it is to serve on any board or commission that you're able to serve on.

2a. Federal grants are about 1 percent of our total budget and I think our budget, according to some 1984 figures, was $284 million. Out of that, half of the budget went for mental health and welfare. Other commissions do have some budget. I think the road commission has a budget of $150 million. I would try to get as much revenue sharing as we can, but if it's not forthcoming, we have to make do within the system and we have to make do within the revenues that are forthcoming to us.

I'm for a balanced budget, and I don't believe in deficit spending. I know we have had this in the past, and the county is paying off its debt to the state. But I believe you have to run (county government) like a household. You only have so much money to spend, and you have to spend within those means and make do with what you have because sooner or later you have to pay the fiddler and, when that day comes, it's not always the best time.

2b. Because our communities are getting older, mental health and welfare services are very important. Our community has to take care of the indigent. It has to take care of senior citizens. I know Livonia, where I reside, is rapidly becoming a middle-aged community. Older people have problems that youth does not have and, as such, I believe my background would be in these areas — senior citizens, youth programs, mental health, education and all those areas that make up a viable community.

One other candidate brought it up, and I agree with her, we do have some property that is salable and we could turn that into tax-earning revenue. That should be addressed. To get rid of properties we no longer need and turn that into tax revenues. So I believe we should divest ourselves of things that no longer serve us or are not revenue generating. We have to work within the means of our budget.

3. What we have to achieve is unity and harmony within the system if we're going to be productive. I would work toward harmonious relationships with all the commissioners. Naturally, they're concerned with their district, but we should basically be concerned about the county in general. Only then, can we look at what our common interests are which eventually will be self-serving. We'll be able to serve our own district. I believe we should take care of each other's problems. Also, we have to work within the legislative and the executive branches. We have to do away with this self-serving, em-

ELAINE TUTTLE

1a. Well, the role is to represent the 10th district. I'm not sure how specific you want to be. Are we talking about duties here? I don't know what that (the Conference of Western Wayne) is. I'm not familiar with it at all.

1b. You're asking me questions that really have nothing to do with this district. I get the brochures on SEMCOG. I read them all the time. It has to do with transportation, and they send out statistics on housing and that. What do they do for the community? They don't do anything for the community. Neither do those other ones specifically you're talking about. So why are we talking about them? Because Susy knows what it's about and I don't? She's on SEMCOG, isn't she? Why do we have questions about SEMCOG? If it covers the county, then obviously there's a role. It's not one of the primary things county commissioners should be concerned about.

1c. That's transportation. That's something we don't have out here. There's definitely (a role for the commissioner). It's important because there is no transportation here. In our city, senior citizens get around by the senior citizen service that's paid for by the federal government. Out here, that's the way it is, and I assume it's the same thing throughout Wayne County.

2a. There's still a certain amount of money coming in. With construction increasing, there aren't going to be any cutbacks that I can see.

2b. Snowplowing is very important. The roads. Indigent care. Most of the services Wayne County provides don't affect this area that much. The Wayne County services that we're paying for, we're not getting now. Indigent care, most of the indigents come from the inner city. We pay to keep crime out of here. We pay for indigent care, we pay for the jails, the courts. Who uses those? We're paying — in this particular area — we probably pay 10-12 percent of the county's expenses for the year. We get very little in services for that. From the standpoint of snowplowing, that's one thing we do need. I think that should be right up there. They should be servicing this area first rather than the areas that have bus service. Our area depends on cars for transportation. About the only thing you can do as a commissioner is to try to get the support of the other commissioners.

Maybe the county doesn't have enough help. Maybe it doesn't have enough equipment. We need to find out what the problem is.

3a. I think right now we're in a pretty good position because the two front-runners are from Livonia. The mayor and I are on very good terms these days, and Bob Ficano and I we've always been friendly.

I have no problem with the Detroit commissioners. I've been going to the meetings and the people there have been very friendly to me. I grew up in Detroit. I think to be able to relate to someone from the inner city, if you've lived there yourself, you understand their problems and talk their language and I think you have a much better chance of communicating than someone who has grown up in the suburbs and has no concept of what it's like to live in the City of Detroit.

Again, you're talking about funds. Where do the bulk of the funds go? To the jails, to the courts and to the sheriff's patrol. We're not fighting for funds for unnecessary services. In Detroit they plow the main roads. They plow the main roads here, too. There have to be schedules established. We pay here to keep crime out of here. The bulk of crime is in the inner city. They have a problem there. Most of the indigents come from the inner city. The indigent care problem is not one of who uses it. It's how they pay for it.

4. My family's grown, my time is pretty much my own. Most of my affiliations after work are business — business associations. I go to different political meetings, but I'm not really into political associations.

The job (county commissioner) boils down to one afternoon a week and that's going to the meetings. I've been attending all the meetings, and nobody has missed me. They have committee meetings during the day. The question that's asked is "How can you be in two places at one time?" The job I'm in right now is flexible. I don't go in at 8 in the morning but I'm always there after 5 p.m. I come and go as I please. I have a deputy that takes over my office when I'm not there. If I were elected commissioner, I also am allowed an aide for meetings that I can't attend. It's the same question you might ask the other nine people that work full time on the commission — two of whom work for government. Again, if they can manage time away from the government office, either as an attorney or as the dean of a college, if they can do that, I consider myself just as qualified to pick up the work I have to do at night.

5. I think anybody who takes sides in this particular race is silly because it's going to be very, very close. Right now it's an extremely close race. McNamara has this area pretty well wrapped up. Ficano is the sheriff, and he's very strong downriver where the sheriff's deputies patrol. Hertel is very strong on the east side. Each one has his own block of voters. The main thing is who draws the Detroit votes and that's going to be very difficult for a white person to do.

The only one of the three I really don't know is Hertel. To be very honest with you, I could probably work best with McNamara. We fight, we have political arguments off and on. We've had some major political differences where we've ended up in court. We understand each other, we shake hands, we make up and then we go to something else. We had a big dispute about the pension fund at Christmas time. We settled the thing, it's over and done with. We've since shaken hands and made up. He knows from a business standpoint that if you have a problem, come to me, you put in money, dollars, or give it to me and explain it. He probably would have a good chance of getting my vote from a business standpoint than he probably would from some of the other commissioners. The theory is you can't spend plementation of the water program until those residents opted to join the water district.

However, council members noted that those who join the assessment district after the assessment rolls are complete would have to pay the full cost of the project up front, rather than being able to spread the cost of the program over 15 years.

The proposed sewer district met with equally heated comments, with the council giving residents one final chance to voice their opinions.

Listing the lot owners one by one, Mayor Paul Vernon allowed each audience member to publicly state whether he or she wanted to change his/her opinion from the inclination residents had voiced in previous meetings and through petitions.

A count of the proposed district showed residents opposed to sewer service 46-35; however, Ayers offered a revised district which eliminated the majority in opposition to the sewers while allowing the majority of those who favored the plan to assess themselves for the cost.

Before the new district could be implemented, however, Steve Walters, city manager, said the engineering for the district would have to be resolved. Part of the problem would be in sharing facilities with Northville Township's North Beacon Woods subdivision.

"The project would not involve any capacity changes, merely transportation," Walters noted. He added that he was not sure whether costs for the project would increase from earlier estimates.

One subdivision resident questioned whether the city engineers could indicate how long the current septic systems could be expected to operate without trouble.

"I don't mean to panic anyone, but soil studies indicate the seven types of soil on the subdivision land have been classified as 'severe,'" said Jack McNeeley of McNeeley and Lincoln.

"That doesn't mean the septic systems are going to fail. What it means is that the land in this subdivision cannot support a septic system as readily as other land."

Soil in the area has been found to perk slowly in some cases and in others to not filter properly, increasing the risk of groundwater contamination.

Police renewal, fire millage on primary ballot decided that it would best serve the needs of the community to have the two millages expire at the same time.

The fire millage proposal will be used to construct a fire station in the western portion of the township. Plans for the building are already drawn up and, if the measure is approved, Fire Chief Robert Toms is hopeful the building can begin by late fall or early spring.

If approved, the five-year tax can be used only for the construction, equipping, operating and maintaining the proposed structure.

"If you look at the current population of the township, we really don't need the station today. But we certainly need it tomorrow, especially if the county sells the property it owns on Sheldon Road and we lose the use of that station," Toms said.

He added that, if the township population continues to increase and the proposed building boom occurs in the western part of the township, the new station is imperative.

Obituaries

J. CHARLES DICKINSON JR.

A memorial service for former Northville resident J. Charles Dickinson Jr. will be held at 8 p.m. Friday at First Presbyterian Church of Northville. Dr. Nile Harper, associate pastor, will officiate at the service in the church lounge.

Mr. Dickinson, who was 52, died June 16 in Orange, Calif., at the age of 52.

He grew up in Northville, was a 1952 graduate of Northville High School and a 1959 graduate of Eastern Michigan University.

He began his teaching career in Farmington and moved to California where he taught in the Anaheim district for 24 years.

Born July 12, 1933, he served in the U.S. Navy from 1952-55.

He was a member of First Presbyterian Church of Northville, Northville Masonic Temple and the Northville Jaycees.

He leaves his mother, Mrs. Ada (Cook) Taylor in Northville, his wife, Margie, and daughter, Natasha, in California, and a sister, Lillian Erdelyi in Novi.

MARY O'DOHERTY

Mary Bridget Byrne O'Doherty of Northville died July 19 after a brief illness.

A memorial service will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church.

Mrs. O'Doherty was born in Quebec in 1894. With her husband, James Michael, she moved to Detroit where she raised her family. She moved to Northville in 1976.

She is survived by her son, Joseph of Northville; daughter, Margaret of Southgate; sisters, Muriel, Margaret and Isabel, all of Ottawa; four grandsons and one granddaughter, two great grandsons and one great granddaughter.

She was preceded in death by her husband.

The family suggests that memorial contributions may be made to the Father Solanus Guild, 1780 Mt. Elliott Ave., Detroit, MI, 48207, or to Little Sisters of the Poor, 17550 Southfield, Detroit, MI, 48235.

ARLENE CAMARIGG

Funeral service for former Northville resident Arlene Marjorie Ann Camarigg of Aurora, Colo., was held July 19 at Jehovah's Witness-Plymouth Congregation. Reader was Thomas Kaytes. Burial was at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Camarigg died July 15 in Aurora. She was 57.

Born in Detroit, Sept. 8, 1928, to Henry and Rose Marie (Lillich) Toussaint, she was a homemaker and member of Jehovah's Witness of Aurora.

She is survived by her husband, Keith, and her daughters, Mrs. Rhonda M. Anderson of Colorado and Donna and Valerie, both at home.

Other survivors included her sister

Mrs. Joan Noonan and brother Charles Toussaint, both of Northville.

WILSON STEPHEN

Funeral service for Northville resident Wilson Stephen will be held at 8 p.m. today at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. Dr. Nile Harper, associate minister of First Presbyterian Church of Northville where Mr. Stephen was a member, will officiate.

Mr. Stephen died July 21 at Sinai Hospital in Detroit after an illness of several weeks. He was 83.

Mr. Stephen, who was retired, moved to the community three years ago from Ann Arbor.

He was the father of Dianne McCulloch of Northville. Other survivors are his wife, Patricia (Smith) Stephen, a son, Roger Stephen of Oregon, and four grandchildren.

He was born Jan. 26, 1903, in Illinois to Edward Isiah and Clover May (Wilson) Stephen.

Visitation is scheduled from 4 p.m. until the time of service at Casterline Funeral Home. Burial will be in Northville.

The family suggests that memorial tributes may be made to the fight against Alzheimer's disease or to the charity of the donor's choice.

In Service

Navy Seaman Recruit James C. Forgacs, son of James C. Forgacs of 42724 Lyric Court, has completed training at Recruit Training Command in San Diego.

During Forgacs' eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the navy's basic fields.

Forgacs' studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

An Invitation to A Michigan Family Reunion.

Michigan's Sesquicentennial is a wonderful opportunity to celebrate a number of things not the least of which are family and friends. Because with so many things to see and do there will never be a better time to invite the people you love to the state you love. And to make the welcome official, if you like, Governor Blanchard would be delighted to send a letter of invitation and information about Michigan to any out-of-state guest you name. Just call 1-800-MICH150 or use the coupon. And make this a reunion you, your family and friends will always remember.

Jabe aims to involve community in Scott activities skills that will stand them well when they return to their community. And return the inmates will.

"Statistics show that 75 percent return to the community from which they came within four years and 50 percent return within three years. It doesn't do any good for us to provide agricultural training at Scott when there aren't many farms within a 30-mile radius of the prison" from which the prison will draw its inmate population.

Nor does he worry much about being second-guessed or about the scrutiny he expects will come from the general public once the prototype prison opens its doors in August.

"I feel good about myself, and I have no problem sleeping at night," he says. "I make a number of decisions during the course of a week — some of them major, some of them minor. I try to analyze the decisions on a daily basis."

"I know that there are times I am going to make mistakes, but I am also willing to admit that I make mistakes. I don't like to make them, but that's life," he says.

As warden, he says he sees his job as protecting the community, but he also wants to make Scott a functional prison. He says that he has some very strict rules, including ensuring prisoners are up and working their assignments as directed.

"Beds will be made by 8 a.m., and lights will be turned off at midnight. I won't coddle a prisoner."

He won't ignore one, either, he says. He has a history of being an accessible warden and talking to both prisoners and staff to find out what's going on within the institution.

Currently Jabe is doing his own discovery, looking for a home in the area for himself, his wife, Jean, daughter Kari, a freshman at the University of Michigan, and son, Michael, beginning a master's degree program at Central Michigan University.

Police Blotters

Runaways returned

In the Township

A 24-year-old Northville Township man is scheduled to appear in 35th District Court Aug. 12, to answer charges stemming from a July 16 incident.

Police noticed the man's vehicle speeding on Northville Road, followed it eastbound on Six Mile Road, and with flashers flashing and siren wailing, followed the vehicle to a driveway.

The driver was charged with operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor, driving with a suspended license and resisting arrest.

A Detroit man ate some of the evidence July 16, but Meijer's employees still found enough left over to call township police about an apparent shoplifting.

Store employees watched the suspect eat cherries and potato chips and drink some orange juice, none of which he paid for, and try to walk out of the store wearing a pair of new Converse shoes.

The man was arrested by township police and remained in the township cells until a $100 cash bond was posted.

Two Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patients are back at the facility after township police were called by the hospital security staff.

One male patient was found walking along Six Mile Road July 17 and a second patient barely left the hospital grounds July 18 before he was apprehended by officers.

A car reported stolen in South Lyon was discovered burning on the west side of Beck Road July 17.

A gas can on the rear floorboard led fire officials to suspect arson in the blaze, however, Rick Rozelle said the actual cause of the fire was still under investigation.

The vehicle reportedly was stolen during a breaking and entering of an automobile repair facility.

In the City

A 30-year-old Northville woman reported to police a case of indecent exposure on July 15 at about 11:30 p.m. According to the police report, a white male stopped his car and asked the complainant for directions to Arbor Street. The complainant went into her house to get a map and, upon returning, reported she noticed that the man was exposing himself inside the car.

The complainant immediately called police as the man drove off. He was described as about 30-years old, easy talking, neatly dressed and clean shaven.

While visiting Town and Country Bike Shop in Northville, a 41-year-old South Lyon man accidentally dropped his wallet and walked away at about 5 p.m. on July 17, according to the police report.

Several days later, the wallet and all contents, except $200 in assorted bills, was returned through the U.S. Mail. The wallet was put in a drop box in South Lyon.

Upside down

Andy Sambrone of Cal's Car Care (left) tries to figure out a way to hook up the tow chain to this 1986 Mustang following a one car accident on Eight Mile near Beck on July 21. The driver, Jeffrey Allen Albert, 16, of Livonia was uninjured and walked away from the accident but was given a citation by Northville Police for improper passing. According to the police report, Albert started to pass a vehicle while heading west on Eight Mile but after moving into the oncoming lane he realized he would collide with an eastbound vehicle. Upon breaking and returning to the westbound lane, Albert lost control, hit the shoulder, slid sideways and rolled the car over in the roadside ditch.

Nuclear waste in salt mines spurs Nemeth to run

Charles Nemeth has grave concerns about the possibility of nuclear waste being stored in the salt mines that run underneath Detroit and many downriver communities.

The Dearborn resident is so concerned that he has decided to do something about it. That something is to run for Wayne County Executive.

Although Nemeth's name will appear on the ballot, he says he does not have the advantages of some of the other candidates, whose names will also appear on the Democratic primary ballot.

"I don't have half a million or three quarters of a million dollars like some of the other candidates," he says. "All I have is a belief that the executive has too much power."

Along with stopping the salt mines from becoming a nuclear storage area, Nemeth says he would like to see some of the commissions that were a part of Wayne County government for years put back in place.

"The drain commissioner dates back to the Magna Carta. Who gave Wayne County the right to eliminate that office," he questions.

He says he favors also reinstituting the road commission as a separate entity, as well as making the county coroner's office an elected office.

"It seems like, if the county executive or county government can't control the person in office, they eliminate the office, just like they're doing with the drain commissioner and just like they did with the road commission," Nemeth says.

He says that the drain commissioner was doing the job the way it was supposed to be done, but the county commission found out it couldn't exercise any control over the man in charge of the office.

"I know that the drain commissioner wouldn't let nuclear waste be stored in the salt mines," Nemeth insists.

Calling himself a specialist in "recalls, recounts and election challenges," Nemeth says he plans to challenge the August primary election, especially if the National Guard is called out to help in Detroit.

"If they need to call out the guard, then there's something wrong with the election. I didn't call out the guard. The Detroit election commissioner is doing that."

Nemeth said he tried to have former Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard recalled and twice ran unsuccessfully against Hubbard. He has run also for the U.S. Congress in 1976, for State Representative in 1982 and for Wayne County Sheriff in the late 1940s.

He has run for probate judge, precinct delegate and "just about every other elected office there is," and while never getting elected, he says he isn't ready to stop trying.

Retired now, but still "looking for work," Nemeth says he formerly managed the Botsford Inn in Farmington.

"I saw how the politicians operated. They had a lot of private meetings where they planned their strategy. That's where the real work took place," he says.

If elected, Nemeth says he would help the county out of its current fiscal crisis by instituting a lottery where shares would be sold.

"They have lotteries for everything else, why not to help the county get out of debt?"

Nemeth is a graduate of Fordson High School in Dearborn and has attended the University of Detroit, UCLA, and Henry Ford Community College.

Grand Opening

Nothing Fried!

CONCEPT OF MR. P'S PASTA

Our restaurant offers the alternative to what is available in fast foods. Instead of fried meats, fried fish, fried potatoes, fried chicken, our restaurant has nothing fried. In addition, our foods are as low in sodium as possible. Our water is purified of all chlorine and chemicals so your coffee, juice, ice and water taste better.

Our main premise is fresh. The pasta is made on premises with 100% semolina flour—no preservatives. Our breads, rolls, pastries, baked daily—on premise—no preservatives.

Our sauces are made fresh daily on premise, substituting herbs as much as possible for sodium. Our chicken (fresh not frozen), simmered in sauce placed on a bed of fresh egg noodles.

Our fish, baked Prime Icelandic Cod. Our super stacked ham, corned beef, roast beef, or turkey sandwiches on fresh baked bread, onion roll or kaiser roll is 95% fat free, low sodium, no MSG, all natural ingredients.

Back to the original healthy concept: Baked, Broiled or Boiled (simmered).

Our Opinions

Police, fire millage deserve 'Yes' vote

Township electors will be facing three financial issues when they vote Aug. 5. Each addresses public safety concerns and each is worthy of passage.

There are two renewal issues for police operations, and one new request for funding for a new fire station in the western portion of the township.

Perhaps the strongest case can be made for the police questions. The first is asking voters to approve a .7-mill renewal for four years, 1987-1990, inclusive; the second for 1.5 mills for five years, 1986-1990, inclusive.

These are not new costs to taxpayers. The only change is that instead of the issues appearing on separate ballots during separate elections, the township trustees have opted to allow the two issues to expire at the same time, in 1990, with a view toward merging the requests into a single ballot issue in the future.

Nor are the requests out of line with the services provided by the police department, a department that has prided itself on being able to justify each request for funds. Included in the plans are the hiring of an additional officer, as well as equipment updating.

The funding represents half of the department's operating budget with the rest being garnered from the general fund and state contributions. In real dollars, it will cost taxpayers a total of $2.25 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation.

We find the requests reasonable and necessary and urge electors to give approval to both millage questions.

The third millage request is for .6 mills for five years with the money earmarked for construction and operation of a new fire station in the township's western area. We find this request also reasonable.

While we have some concerns about the immediate need for such a building, we can find no fault with the thinking of township officials who realize that if they wait until the facility is needed, it may be too late to place the measure on the ballot.

The immediacy of placing the funding request on the primary ballot is heightened by speculation that Wayne County may be close to selling the Sheldon Road property where fire equipment is stationed and dispatched, leaving the community with just one fire station.

Judging from the manner in which the township treasurer and officials have previously handled money issues, we have few doubts that the station will be built as cost-efficiently as possible. If anything, our concern is that there will be some sacrificing made to the bottom line at the expense of equipment and future needs of the department.

As the township's population increases and commercial construction continues to climb, we find money spent for fire protection to be funds well spent.

We urge a 'yes' vote for the fire millage.

Chatham's closing leaves a void

With the scheduled closing Saturday of the Chatham store in Northville, the city will be left without a grocery chain within its boundaries. We find that distressing, not only in terms of the loss to the community in general, but specifically to the people within the community who for the past 15 years have looked upon the store as their "neighborhood grocery."

Many senior citizens, with limited transportation, have walked to the store, done their shopping, and then walked home. They will no longer have that option. Instead, some people who have been able to be self sufficient will find themselves having to rely on friends or other means of transportation to do their grocery shopping.

While we understand the business concerns that have forced the supermarket chain to close and realize that as individuals we cannot force a company to remain in a location, we cannot help but feel betrayed by Chatham and by its owners, Nu-Trax. Employees and shoppers alike have commented that the store "seemed to go downhill. It was like they just didn't care." And that attitude, coupled with the advent of Meijer's in the township, have forced the closing of the Chatham stores.

Nor is it the fault of the city. In fact, city officials have bent over backwards in an attempt to keep the grocery store in the community by offering the firm the opportunity to take advantage of a tax abatement should the company have wanted to remodel its Center Street store. The city was politely told thanks but no thanks.

And so, without the hoopla and almost without a whimper Chatham will close Saturday. As of today, there are no plans to open another chain grocery store in the city. And Northville is that much poorer because of it.

We're endorsing

By Jean Day

Several months ago I asked a publisher of a northern Michigan group of weekly newspapers if he endorsed in an election.

"—, no," he replied. "I have to live and work with those people (candidates) afterward."

I understood, and almost envied him his "out." The candidates in his communities usually are local business people whom his readers also know. This is not often the situation in our suburban communities where residents commute to jobs outside the immediate area. Because the staffs at The Record and The Novi News know those running for office at the local level, however, we are committed, as part of journalistic responsibility, to telling our readers which candidates we think would serve our communities best.

We know in our suburban communities that most readers do not attend board and council meetings unless there is a specific issue of interest. We do. We also work with people on a day-to-day basis and are aware of their involvements, their strengths and weaknesses.

The endorsements that we will run next week will be the result of interviews of the local candidates who have opposition in the Aug. 5 primary. Northville has more competition than our sister community of Novi at this time. One of the high interest races in Northville Township is for the post of Wayne County Commissioner, a post held by Mary Dumas. Dumas is not running for reelection, leaving the field open to Susan Heintz, Northville Township supervisor, Elaine Tuttle, City of Livonia treasurer, and Lawrence Schweiger, Ford supervisor.

For the past several weeks The Record has been running profile stories of Democratic candidates for the Wayne County Executive post being vacated by William Lucas. Since there is no primary competition to Bob Murphy, the only Republican running, we have not profiled him.

Monday a reader called who planned to vote by absentee ballot. She raised an uneasy question when she asked, hopefully, if we were going to endorse any candidates for judge. Frankly, I feel as she does that these races are the most difficult to check at the polls. Very few of us know the philosophies of those running for judgeships. Many candidates are attorneys or judges at a lower court. The winners will shape the direction of our justice in the future. Because we, as weekly papers, cannot cover the courts on a regular basis, we do not endorse judicial candidates.

In the past, local chapters of the League of Women Voters have taken on this responsibility and performed a great service for members. Recently, the local leagues have suffered from lack of members with time for this research. (For Record readers, the Wayne County Bar Association has listed candidates for circuit judge according to their qualification. The story is in this issue.)

In this year's August primary The Record and The News will depart from usual practice of not endorsing at the governor level for good reason. Newspapers of our parent company, Suburban Communications, as well as the Brighton Argus in the Sliger/Livingston Publications division, have covered the candidates seeking to be the Republican opposing Gov. James Blanchard because they are local residents in the areas of circulation. They have been interviewed in a forum conducted by the Observer and Eccentric Newspapers (with editor Rich Perlberg of The Argus participating) and next week we will be running a gubernatorial endorsement for the primary.

I would be the first to admit that it is easier, as my northern Michigan journalist does, to stay away from endorsements. For a newspaper in our communities, it would not be responsible.

After the Fact

By Phil Jerome

Caroline got married Saturday. I'm talking about John and Jackie's little girl, of course.

I know this because I was invited to attend the wedding. Well, I was sort of invited to the wedding.

I was pounding away at the VDT late Friday afternoon when my good friend Joe Brett called up and asked if I had anything planned for Saturday.

"Just the usual stuff," I reported. "You know, mow the lawn. Trim the hedges. That kind of stuff."

"It's not important," he came back. "I've got a better idea. Let's hop on one of those cheapie flights to New York and head out to see Caroline get married."

"You've got your press credentials, don't you? O.K., that's all we need. We'll cover the wedding. Bring your camera for pictures, and I'll be your assistant. You know, carry your camera equipment and be around to getidents on the pictures."

"Hey, it'll be a lot of fun. This is your big chance to put the paper on the map. Go national. Right up there with all the biggies. Time, People, National Enquirer. They'll all be there. And you'll be right there with them."

"But, Joe," I protested. "There'll be thousands of photographers there. They don't just let anybody in, you know? You have to get your press credentials months in advance for something like this. They're pretty careful about who they let in."

"Don't worry about it," he responded. "Even if you can't crash the wedding, you'll have a good story. 'Local press barred from Kennedy nuptials.' You can't lose. It will be a real coup."

I had the distinct feeling he was serious. When I asked him what time to meet him at the airport, he already knew the flight schedule.

So we did it. Yes, folks, we've got extensive photo coverage of the Kennedy wedding in this issue. Just turn to Page 18A for complete coverage.

Tuttle makes second bid for county commissioner what you don't have and being an accountant. I look very closely at budgets. You work around what you have to spend.

6. Each municipality's got its own parks. The park we're talking about here is the Edward Hines Park, right? The person that's handling the park right now has done a pretty good job with it. I don't see where you say it's unsafe. There's a drug problem off Haggerty Road. I ride my bicycle through there all the time. They've moved the drug problem from Inkster Road and off Telegraph. What they've done is close the park off at Inkster Road. You can't get on to it on Saturday mornings. Those people that used to congregate on Inkster Road now are congregating in this area.

I'm in the park all the time. You go Saturday morning and ride your bike and you've got the whole parkway to yourself. The commissioner from this area should be saying, 'Hey, you settled the problem down there now get up here and solve our problem here.' The park is actually a lot better than it used to be. The only problem now is the bathrooms.

6b. I'd be in favor of user fees. I'd rather see a user fee than taxes raised.

ed. Park is benefiting individuals who use it — a lot of whom aren't even residents here — aren't residents of Wayne County. I would rather see a user fee than see taxes raised.

7. I approached Mary Dumas with this idea. I'm a single mother, I've worked all my life. I raised my family without anybody helping me. I've seen people on ADC and welfare which is a tremendous problem for the country, and yet welfare breeds welfare. Friends that are teachers tell me that once a child is past the third grade we can't do anything with them — they are pretty much a lost cause. So if you're going to do anything about solving the problem, you have to do it before a child reaches the third grade. So I mentioned to Mary — again I grew up in Detroit — there is an area there called Herman Gardens which is a huge complex where people on welfare live. The whole place is completely torn up. Half the buildings are vacant, the windows are broken, the plumbing is out. But the structure is built so well. Couldn't we fence this off with a 10-foot-high-fence and make this a welfare community.

Force people into it if they caught them cheating on welfare. The whole idea is to make it a self-supporting welfare community. The kids would see their mothers working, they'd buy their own food at a store. Therefore, you get the idea that you don't have money if you don't work for it. The idea would be that men would come in there during the day — fathers or whomever — they would have to be out of there before night so you don't have people having more kids that they can't support. The whole idea is to give kids a decent place to live. Make sure kids are on a bus to school everyday, make sure they're fed if parents don't feed them.

It's never been tried anywhere. It needs coordinating with the county, the state and the City of Detroit. I just think it would be something interesting. Welfare breeds welfare, there seems to be no solution to the problem.

It's a thought, it's an idea. There are all kinds of federal grants for job training. The only problem would be that most people wouldn't want to go into it. You don't want to be stereotyped in a welfare community. How do you get them to go in? Either they volunteer to go or you catch them cheating. If you catch them cheating, you force them in there. Try the project, if it doesn't work, just abandon it. You don't know if it will work until you try it.

Reader Speaks

Column was unfair

To the Editor:
I would like to ask Anita Crone ("Fearing a deadly penalty," July 10) several questions and pass along some information that she may not be aware of.

Is she always consistent? If she is in favor of abortion on demand and against the death penalty, is that any different than the problem she has with the Right to Life?

I believe that Michigan Right of Life has not taken an official stand on the death penalty issue. Is that sufficient reason to call them "Right to Death?"

It could be a matter of priority. Anita mentioned 16 total cases of possible state mandate death if the death penalty were legal.

The State of Michigan (you and me) pays for the deaths (with our tax dollars) of 52 babies every day. One out of every three babies in this country is now aborted. The womb is much more often fatal than the electric chair. The Right to Lifeers have their hands full with the greater evil: speaking out for those who cannot.

The reason the state funding for Medicaid abortion issue has become "perpetual" is that perpetually one man (previously Gov. Milliken, now Gov. Blanchard) goes against the will of more than a majority of our state legislators and decided on his own what the will of the Legislature and the people of the state should be.

Yes, the State of Michigan has existed for 149 years and only recently have we been buying the extermination of our future state residents.

Sincerely,
William and Carole Jean Stockhausen

4. I am a doer, and I have to make things hop. Being an old ex-paratrooper, I'm used to running, and I've always run, and I guess I've been running all my life. I'm very bored with inactivity so I always have my hand into something. Even at work. I'm a supervisor, and I'm a working supervisor. I get in with my people, and I want to be a part of the organization and I enjoy working with them. I'm not a status-minded individual. I'm not a kingdom builder. I'm a people person.

Well, I will retire from Ford if I'm elected. It is a full-time job as far as I'm concerned to do it right. Looking at the enormous problems confronting Wayne County, the commissioner is a vital part of curing that. I don't see how one can expect to do this on a catch-as-catch can basis. You've got to live it.

5a. I have difficulty answering that. Of course, I'm very familiar with Ed McNamara. We go way back. I think my mayor has been inclined to take credit for a lot of things happening in Livonia that are not justly due him. We're a great community. We're working people, like Northville. We volunteer, we serve and we support our schools and our community in general. It hasn't been a difficult city to run.

A lot of the things — industrial growth and things — were started long before Ed McNamara came into office. I'm not saying he hasn't been a good mayor. I'm implying that not all credit is due him. Probably, for running the city or things of that nature, coming from the community, Ed would do a good job there.

Also, Bob Ficano is a personal friend. He knows county government, more so than McNamara, and he would be a valuable asset. As for Hertel and Turner, I believe Turner would be an asset as he knows the City of Detroit. I think the City of Detroit plays a very important role in Wayne County and unless you can take the City of Detroit, you can't win.

5b. Knowing Ed and knowing Bob and having met Mr. Hertel, I would have no problems working with any of them. None at all.

6a. The park system encompasses about 4,000 acres of property, and it's very necessary because people need recreation. They have to go somewhere where they can relax.

6b. I believe that within the budget, I would definitely be in favor of working within the budget system to ensure the parks got their fair share of allocations of funds available to us.

Parks get about $200,000, which is a pittance. You know, if one half of our budget is health and welfare, certainly recreation is a part of health and welfare, to a degree. I think the park allocation is very low, and I would try to increase that allocation and maybe cut back on some other areas that are not as important.

7. Other than the fact that I'm available to serve, and, of the candidates, I'm your best choice.

Absentee ballots available for August 5 primary

Although the primary election is still nearly two weeks away, absentee voter applications are available now for those who wish to take advantage of this method of voting.

State law allows persons over 60, those who are expecting to be out of town on election day, those physically unable to attend the polls, those whose religious tenets preclude them attending the polls, those who have been appointed as an election inspector in a precinct other than where they vote, or those confined to jail awaiting arraignment for trial to vote by absentee ballot.

A request for an absentee ballot may be obtained by calling either the city or township clerk; however, the actual ballots must be returned to the proper body prior to polls closing on Aug. 5.

Northville Township senior citizens have already received application forms for the absentee ballots, but are under no obligation to vote absentee.

Those whose requests are received by Aug. 2 will receive their ballots in the mail, explained Georgina Goss, township clerk. However, she noted, it is also possible to get a ballot in person at the township hall.

Kathy Conrad said Northville city voters may also request absentee ballots, either by telephone or through the mail. She said the clerk's office will be open from 8:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2, to allow those who want to vote absentee to do so.

flood plain. That's its primary use, and we've really got to have it. As many times as it has been closed off you can see how many times it has been necessary. It was set up for a good purpose. I think Eric Reickel has done a tremendous job in bringing up the image of the parks and seeing to it that they have been maintained on a very limited budget. I know on Saturday we took a ride through and looked at every nook and cranny. There was a tremendous amount of people that were there, on bikes, with families, jogging and doing all that kind of stuff. But at night, the character of the park changes. It's (the problems with safety) not anywhere near as serious as it used to be. In Northville we can all remember Beer Hill. It's nothing like that. We know there is drug dealing going on in the park that we are aware of and there are problems of vandalism involved in the restrooms. I think the deputies have been real vigilant about going into areas where they think it's necessary. I don't see how local governments can pick up that function. The park was built to be a county park. The individual jurisdictions do go in there and police it, but, if they have an incident, they call the sheriff.

6b. That's what this (Blue Ribbon) committee is supposed to be looking at. I've heard all kinds of ways of funding from giving them to Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority to user fees, to some kind of millage to upping them in the budget. City of Detroit commissioners have traditionally been against funding Hines Park because they don't feel city of Detroit people get any benefit out of it. They feel that if it's out-Wayne County, then out-Wayne County ought to pay for it.

I haven't been convinced of anything yet. Basically, because it's so foreign to us. Those of us in Wayne County have been so used to taking it out of general fund.

7. The only thing that makes me a little different from the rest of the candidates is that I believe the growth in Western Wayne County — especially the 10th district — mandates that the person holding this position should take it as a full-time position. I guess the salary is sufficient that it can be looked at as that. Of the three candidates, I think I would be the one that would be assuming it as a full-time effort. Not that there aren't other commissioners that do it (part time). I understand that. But, I think concerns of the 10th district are such that right now we're in a phenomenal growth phase.

There are a lot of things going on in the county that involve this growth phase. Primarily infrastructure systems, but a lot of other things going on that are going to require county input. I just think we need to have somebody down there full time. We used to say that about Mary. Mary Dumas is down there full time. I don't think that by sending aides to meetings or things like that that a lot of the goals of the 10th district can be met. I think you have to have a full-time commissioner down there.

I think goals of the 10th district can be different. I think they are right now in terms of growth. I think demographics here are a little bit different. We have a difference between an aging metropolitan area and a growing, kind of young area. The concerns are going to be different. We are going to be looking at things such as sewers, roads, water, basic things.

Detroit Bar Association rates court candidates

The Detroit Bar Association has rated the candidates running for Wayne County Circuit Court.

Gregory Stempin, of Northville, Livonia City Attorney Harry Tatigian, John A. Murphy and Joseph N. Baltimore were rated well qualified.

Stephen B. Foley, James P. Ryan, Patrick J. McDonald, Paul Bricker, Robert Costello, Ada S. Kerwin, William Monaghan, James Rashid, Timothy Scallen and David J.

Szymanski were rated qualified.

Sean Kavanagh, Kathleen MacDonald and Michael Murphy were rated as not qualified by the committee, which rated each candidate based on information acquired from a questionnaire submitted by the candidate, an interview of the candidate and the candidate's professional reputation as an attorney or judge.

Primary voters will select three candidates to advance to the November ballot.

Connie Mack team makes late-season surge

You'll have to excuse Northville Connie Mack Coach Bob Frellick for using the word "great" over and over again to describe his team's play last week. It's just that the word seems to fit so well.

"We had a great week," Frellick said. "Great pitching, hitting and fielding."

If there was ever any doubt that the Northville entry is gaining momentum with each game, there isn't now. With the exception of a well played 3-0 loss to Windsor on July 15, Northville cruised through the remaining four games unscathed. A 6-2 triumph over Waterford followed two days after the loss to Windsor, then came a doubleheader sweep of Fowler last Saturday and a masterful pitching performance by Kelly Bell on Sunday in a 3-0 shutout win over Westland.

Actually, Bell's seven inning stint on the mound versus Windsor was almost as impressive, but he didn't get any offensive help from his teammates. Bell went the distance, struck out five, walked four and surrendered just three hits. But at the plate, Northville managed just four hits of its own, saddling Bell with the loss.

"We hit the ball well, but it always seemed to be right at somebody," Frellick reported. "Our pitching and fielding was outstanding — we had four double plays."

After seven innings of play against Waterford, the score was deadlocked at 2-2. It remained knotted until Nor-

"We didn't start the season with a lot of success, but we've really never played badly. These players have never been down all season, but the enthusiasm is starting to peak and it's happening at a good time."

— Bob Frellick

thville staged a four-run rally in the tenth inning to pull out the win. A two-run triple by Paul Newitt was the big blow, but Eric Terlecki and Keith Dutkiewicz added RBI hits as well. Pitchers Tony Craig and Doug Martin combined for 13 strike outs and just three walks with Martin recording the win in relief.

The twinbill sweep over Fowler featured two closely contested games with Northville coming from behind both times. In the opener, Fowler raced to a 4-0 lead on two homers off starter George Daraban in the first inning. But Northville caught up in the fourth by scoring single runs in every inning and went on to win the game 8-6.

Mark Olsen collected a two-run homer, Eric Terlecki added three hits in four at bats and John Lobbia went 2-for-3 to pace the attack.

In the nightcap, Northville took a 2-0 lead, fell behind 4-2 and then stormed back with some home run power to win 9-8. Daraban smacked a two-run homer in the fourth to tie it at 4-4, and Martin put them ahead for good with a four-bagger in the fifth.

Eight Northville players had hits with Olson, Jeff Harp and Martin collecting two apiece. Dutkiewicz went the distance and got the win.

After the fine performance against Windsor, Bell followed it up with a near perfect one-hit shutout against Westland. He faced just 24 batters, struck out six and walked two. The only hit was a bunt single.

"We didn't start the season with a lot of success, but we've really never played badly," Frellick said. "These players have never been down all season, but the enthusiasm is starting to peak and it's happening at a good time."

Rec Center organizes a skateboard contest

With all the perceived problems associated with skateboard use in the streets of Northville recently, city officials have decided to do something constructive about it. They urged the Northville Community Recreation Department to organize a Skateboard Street Contest, and now it is a reality.

In cooperation with Town and Country Cyclery and The Easy Rider Bike Shop, the Rec Center is sponsoring the contest on Saturday, Aug. 2, at the Northville High School parking lot.

"One of the reasons we're running it is because of the immense popularity of skateboarding," Rec Center Director John Anderson said. "It provides an opportunity for the area's best to showcase their skateboarding stuff. It's a positive way to channel their interests."

While it's been suggested the contest would be an alternative to the skateboarding question, Anderson rejected the idea.

"This isn't designed to solve the skateboarding problem," he admitted.

The one-day event will begin at 9:30 a.m. with registration and course practice. At 10:30 a.m. a demonstration of street skateboarding techniques and tricks will be held. Competition will then begin at 11 a.m.

"Each competitor will have two to four minutes to execute his or her stunts," reported Traci Johnson of the Rec Center, who is organizing the event. "We will have several obstacles and other props to help with the routines, but they don't have to use any of them if they don't want to."

Included for the planned props are ramps, large wooden pools and piles of sand that will be placed around the course in the parking lot.

Competitors may enter novice or experienced categories and will be divided into the following age groups: 12-under, 13-15, 16-17 and 18-over. Entry fee is $5 and includes first, second and third place trophies in each age group and a merchandise raffle.

Registrations will be accepted the day of the event, but pre-registration forms are now available at the Rec Center, at Town and Country Cyclery in Northville and at The Easy Rider Bike Shop in Canton.

Golf Notes

THE REAL ENEMY: A golfer's biggest enemy isn't a sand trap or the rough — it is lightning.

Seventy percent of all deaths and injuries from lightning occur between noon and 6 p.m. — consequently the peak times for patronage on the golf course. That's why some knowledge and common sense for the golfers caught in a thunderstorm are very important. Here are a few things you should know:

- Avoid water — the farther away from water the better during a thunderstorm. You don't have to be in the water to be jolted.
- Avoid the protection of trees. They are ideal targets for lightning bolts.
- Stay clear of any metal objects including golf clubs, flag sticks, carts etc.

□ Isolated sun and rain shelters should also be avoided unless they are equipped with lightning protection equipment.

□ The best place during a thunderstorm is the clubhouse and the next best place is an automobile.

□ To allow enough time to find adequate shelter there is a way of figuring out how far you are away from the storm. Fortunately, lightning can be heard as well as seen. The distant rumbling of storm clouds can provide an aerial alarm. An easy way to gauge your distance from a storm is to count the seconds which elapse between the lightning and the thunder. By dividing the number of seconds by five you have determined the number of miles away the storm is from you.

□ If you're stuck in the open, seek out the lowest possible ground, such as a ditch or a culvert. Try to avoid being caught projected above the landscape.

□ If you feel your hair stand on end, lightning is about to strike somewhere close. Crouch down, wrap your arms around your knees and lower your head. This way you'll be as low as possible and still have relatively little body area touching the ground.

WAYNE STATE BENEFIT: The fifth annual Wayne State University Football Benefit Golf Outing will be held Aug. 25 at Northville's Meadowbrook Country Club. Sponsored by the Wayne State Football program, proceeds from the event will be used to support the Tartar gridiron program.

The day will consist of registration, buffet lunch, open bar, a 1 p.m. Texas scramble shot gun start, cocktail hour and a dinner program commencing at 7 p.m. Tickets for the golf outing and dinner are $175 per person. Guests for dinner only are $100 per person.

Hole sponsorships are also available at the 1986 WSU Football Outing. For more information on the outing, call 577-4288 or 577-4280.

KIWANIS GOLF OUTING: The Kiwanis Club of Northville will hold its Sixth Annual Golf Outing at Baypointe Golf Club in West Bloomfield on Aug. 11.

As in the past, the proceeds from the event will benefit the Kiwanis' "Special People and Projects," such as Handicapped Bowling and Mary Freebed Center.

Local merchants and businessmen are asked to help by sponsoring a hole for $100, a tax deductible donation. Sponsors will be recognized individually by the placement of signs at their hole and collectively at the evening banquet.

Entry fee is $100 per person and includes golf, cart, refreshments, prizes, full complement of meals and entertainment.

In addition, any participant who scores a hole-in-one on the 169-yard, par three seventh hole will be awarded a $10,000 cash prize.

For more information, call 349-6497 or 349-3092.

Newitt was Mustangs' MVP in basketball

Hustle, desire fuel Newitt's successes

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

There wasn't a high school coach that didn't rave about the athletic ability and superior determination of Northville's Paul Newitt. Or any coach for that matter.

And with Newitt, you're talking about a lot of coaches. The 18-year-old competed in sports all through his high school days, earning six varsity letters. In the summers when there was no high school football, basketball or baseball, Newitt engulfed himself in the summer baseball leagues.

"I look back on the high school sports with a lot of fond memories," Newitt said. "My senior year was a lot of fun because we had some good teams. I thought we had a good senior class as far as athletics and the teams I was on were pretty successful."

Last fall, Newitt was the football team's MVP. He was a terror on defense and filled in admirably at quarterback following a rash of injuries.

"He was a great one," Mustang football Coach Dennis Colligan said. "He got more out of his abilities than anybody I've ever coached. He's all heart, he plays from inside and is very competitive."

"Paul just put his mind to something, knew the job had to be done and found a way to get it done successfully."

Newitt readily admits that basketball isn't his best sport. At 5-foot-10, he had a distinct disadvantage going up against much bigger forwards, and yet he led the team in rebounding, steals and all-out hustle. The ultimate honor came at the end of the season when Newitt was named the team MVP by his teammates, despite unimpressive offensive stats. Newitt found his role on the basketball court, gave it all he had and helped the team to its best record in years.

"Newitt is the kind of player any coach loves to have on his team," Northville basketball Coach Omar Harrison said. "It's great to have a kid like him willing to give 100-percent and do all the dirty work."

But it is in baseball that Newitt really excels. For the Mustangs he was a team leader in hitting, fielding and by example. He was a unanimous All-Area selection and also made the WLAA All-Division squad.

Now that it's summer, Newitt is still into baseball full force, playing for two teams and also working for the United Parcel Service and saving for college. He is currently one of the top hitters for the Farmington American Legion team that plays in Novi and is back with his high school coach Bob Frellick on the Northville Connie Mack entry.

"Right after work I always have to go right to a game, and it gets hectic sometimes," he admitted. "But I love playing."

Newitt is the only representative from Northville on the Farmington team, but the first baseman has been very productive at the plate. For Coach Randy Meier. Behind the hitting of Newitt, Farmington has a fine 19-11 overall record, good for second place in the league.

Ironically, if the American Legion team places second in the district playoffs this weekend, it advances to the NABF Senior Regional tourney in Northville. The host team is none other than Frellick's Connie Mack squad. Newitt will have to make the decision which team to play for.

"Newitt is an outstanding athlete and is doing a good job for us," Meier said. "He plays for two teams which is tough sometimes, but he is always ready to play when he comes to the field."

This fall, Newitt plans to attend Henry Ford Community College and then transfer to either Central Michigan or Bowling Green. And, of course, he plans to play baseball.

"The coach (at Henry Ford) didn't promise me anything — he's already got two firstbasemen," Newitt explained. "But I'm still going to try and make the team."

Why is Newitt considering CMU and Bowling Green? Because they both offer the academic program he is interested in — sports management, of course.

Holzer fighting for final playoff spot

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With only one week of regular season play remaining and a playoff spot riding in the balance, Tom Holzer Ford appears to be on the right track, but any little derailment could very well send the team packing.

In three important contests last week, Holzer continued to keep pace in the playoff race with a little of everything — a win over Wendy's on July 16, a tie with Walter's Appliance on July 18 and a loss to Little Caesars last Saturday. Holzer's overall record is now 13-10-2 in the LCBL, good for sole possession of the fourth and final playoff spot. But Walter's is just two points behind and showing no signs of letting up.

"It's pretty close, but we are two points ahead and we do have a game in hand," said co-coach Fred Schmidt. "I think we have a good chance to make the playoffs, but we certainly can't relax for one second."

The 2-2 tie with Walter's last Friday wasn't a disappointment for Holzer — actually it felt more like a win. First off, it prevented Walter's from gaining any ground, and it also clinched a season series advantage for Holzer — which could prove very important in case of a tie at season's end. In head-to-head games, Holzer has won three games, lost twice and tied once. If the two teams tie for the final playoff spot, Holzer would get the nod.

"That tie was really a win for us at this stage," Schmidt declared. "In case of a tie, we'd be in the playoffs and it very well could come down to that."

Starter Dan Kopitzke scattered eight hits, walked four and struck out six against Walter's but never seemed to get much help from the offense. Martin Eddy doubled in the first and scored on an infield error, but Walter's came back to tie it in their half of the inning.

Eddy continued his season-long hitting tear by blasting a solo homer in the third to make it 2-1, where it remained until Walter's sent the game into extra innings with the equalizer in the bottom of the seventh.

"We played hard, but we failed to hit with men on base," Schmidt said. "Actually, we haven't been doing it for the past two weeks. We're getting the runners on, but we're not getting any timely hits and driving them in."

A perfect example was the eighth inning. Holzer's Darren Genereau doubled with one out, advanced to third on a sacrifice bunt by Scott Peterson and then was stranded. Walter's pitcher Tim Boyd struck out the next two batters to end the threat. After the eighth, the game was then called due to curfew.

It was a first inning three-run rally against Wendy's that ultimately keyed the 4-1 victory on July 16. Again it was Eddy leading the offensive charge with a two-run double.

"He is producing all our runs lately," Schmidt pointed out. "If somebody else could help him, we would probably have a better record. Eddy is just an amazing hitter — the (Detroit) Tigers were out to see him again and their scouts like him. He reminds me of Steve Kemp — I think he's the best hitter in the league."

Wendy's scored a run in the third, but Holzer starter and winner Greg Ryba was in total control the whole way. Ryba walked just one, struck out five and allowed just three hits.

"Greg pitched excellent," Schmidt said. "(Wendy's) has hit our pitchers pretty well this season but not against Ryba. Even the three hits they had weren't hit very hard."

On Saturday, first place Little Caesars capitalized on every break and showed Holzer why they belong at the top of the standings with an 11-2 whitewash. Chris Stout started and through five innings Caesars built up a 4-2 lead, but in the sixth, Stout was tagged for seven runs. Chris Dominique then came on in relief but the outcome was already decided.

"It really wasn't a blow out until after that sixth inning," Schmidt said. "And most of the damage was done with two outs."

Eddy smacked out two doubles, Darin Armstrong added two hits and Tom Cotter chipped in a double to lead Holzer.

LCBL All Stars split pair

The Livonia Collegiate Baseball All Stars had an up and down day on July 14. The team fell to the Detroit Adray League stars 7-2 at the annual All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium, but followed it up with a 5-4 victory over veterans from the Class A circuit in an exhibition later in the day at Livonia's Ford Field.

Five players on the Tom Holzer Ford roster, Northville's LCBL entry, made the team, but only pitcher Dan Kopitzke had a noteworthy performance. As one of the five all star hurlers, Kopitzke threw one inning for the Livonia team and sent Detroit down without a run.

Later that day, Livonia jumped out to a 5-0 lead over the Class A standouts and then held on for a certain measure of revenge. A key figure in the early start was Holzer catcher Kevin Ritter who had two hits in three at bats, including an RBI single.

League Line

BASEBALL: Padres, Astros crowned league champs

Q-LEAGUE: The Astros scored two runs in the fifth inning to break open a 3-3 tie and ultimately defeat the Padres 5-3 in action on July 1. Mike Totty, Brett Butz and Kevin Worth paced the Padres' hitting attack. The Padres came back on July 9 with an exciting 11-9 win over the Giants in post-season tournament action. The Padres put together two big rallies in the second (five runs) and the fourth (four runs) to hold off the charging Giants. Offensively, Dan Fulleigh's two hits and two runs scored led the Padres, while Andy Radzlawski's top notch defense, including four key stops at first base, keyed the win. Mike McCormick was the hitting standout for the Giants with three doubles, all in crucial situations. McCormick's first two-bagger drove in three runs, his second scored two and his final double added the Giants' last run of the game. Other hitting stars for the Giants included Joey Stankis (seven RBIs, one homer) and Kevin Shaw (4-for-4 with three RBIs). The Padres ended the season with a 12-4 mark, the Giants dropped to 5-11.

H-LEAGUE: The Reds came from behind to beat the Rangers 6-5 with good pitching from Ryan Smallwood and Ross Fleming. The Reds got two hits each from Jeremy Johnson, Fleming and David Morelli. Steven George got two hits as well and pitched two scoreless innings for the Rangers. The Reds, behind the hitting of Nick Bovee and David Smith, bounced the Expos 6-2. Morelli started and supplied the Expos with six innings. Fleming then came in to pitch the save. Good baserunning by the Reds and costly errors by the Expos combined for the outcome. Andy Genitt pitched three consecutive scoreless innings for the Expos, but their final season record dropped to 8-8. The Reds continued their winning streak by beating the Braves 7-2. Steven Moore and Smallwood provided some solid pitching and Morelli delivered a grand slam home run to lead the Reds. The season ended with the Astros, Reds and Cubs tied for first place with identical 14-4 records. The Astros were declared the champs with a 3-1 record in head-to-head competition among these three teams. . . . The Phillies nipped the Pirates 3-2 in the last game of the season. Pitchers Brad Smith and Scott Anderson held the Pirates in check most of the way. Mark Rittler and Bo Fowler delivered key hits for the winners.

F-LEAGUE: The Padres scored runs in each of the first five innings to take a 12-6 lead and then held off a furious late-inning charge by the Astros to pull out a 12-11 victory on July 9. Ben Odom led the Padres with two hits in three at bats and Don Lewis added a homer. Dennis Cassidy paced the Astros by going 2-for-4. Steve Bastian started for the Padres and recorded the win. . . . The Padres raised their record to 11-4 with a convincing 10-1 win over the Reds on July 11. Don Lewis was again the catalyst with a pair of homers while Larry Oslecki, Ben Odom and Kyle Legel added two hits each. Bill Kelly, Charles Damavettes and Tim Hubbert had two hits for the Reds.

SOCCER: WSSL United wins Wolverine Tournament

WSSL UNITED: WSSL United, a locally based under 14 girls' soccer team, won the Wolverine Invitational Soccer Tournament during the Fourth of July weekend. The tournament, sponsored by the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association and Schoolcraft College, brought more than 180 soccer teams in for the competition. In United's age group, there were 11 other teams competing for honors. Playing in torrid 95-degree weather, United defeated the Troy Blues 2-0 for the Championship. United's first goal came on a direct kick by Margaret Martin from the 22-yard line. Her shot cleared a defensive wall of players and got by the goalie's fingertips in the upper left corner of the net. The second goal was scored on a breakaway by Jennifer Russell. The win raises United's undefeated mark to 20-0-2. The team's next challenge will be in Carmel, Ind., July 19 for the Midwest Regional Tournament. United won the Michigan State Championship earlier this season thus qualifying as the state's only entry in the under 14 age group to compete against champs from 11 other states.

SOFTBALL: Gems down Liberties, grab championship

GIRLS INTERMEDIATE: The Liberties needed a win over the Gems on July 2 to force a championship playoff game, but it didn't happen. The Gems shut out the Liberties 3-0 to grab the title outright. Sue LaPrade and Jenny Juhatz had two hits each for the Liberties in this pitchers' duel. Gems ended the season at 15-1, while the Liberties dropped to 13-3. . . . In the season finale, The Falcons outslated the Sunbirds 4-1 on July 15. Karen Pump was a perfect 3-for-3 in the game and teammates Elizabeth Lamb, Nancy Ballard, Donna Donnelly and Jennifer Kopp each had two hits for the Falcons. Courtney Casterline paced the Sunbirds with three hits.

Northville to host several big tourneys

Northville hosted the National Amateur Baseball Federation Junior Division World Series last summer and apparently liked the experience. This summer the Northville High School field will play host to a pair of NABF World Series tournaments and a Senior Regional.

"I really think these tournaments are a worthwhile venture for Northville," said Tournament Director Bob Frellick. "It shows people from all over the country what a fine program we have and it enables our players to compete as the host team."

"It's a very positive thing and even though it takes a lot of work, it's worth it." Next Tuesday (July 29), the NABF Senior Regional, featuring six Connie Mack level teams (age 16-18), will fight it out in Northville for five days. The host team is the Northville Connie Mack entry along with teams from Macomb County, Detroit, Redford and other still undetermined areas.

On Aug. 1-3, Northville plays host to the NABF Sophomore World Series with four top Sandy Koufax level teams (age 12-14) from all over the country, including a local team and even one from Seattle, Wash., area.

Just after these two tournaments end, the Junior Division World Series will make its second consecutive visit to Northville in early August.

RECREATION BRIEFS

SWIMMING TRYOUTS: Northville High School women's swim Coach Bill Dicks invites all high school swimmers to try out for the Mustang team on Aug. 11 at 2 p.m. at the high school pool. All swimmers must have physical cards completely filled out.

COED SOFTBALL: The Northville coed softball playoffs are under way. In the first round of action on July 20, first place Northville Methodist beat third place Meyer Berry Farm, and second place Country Merchants downed fourth place Fairway Farmers. Northville Methodist and Country Merchants will battle it out on July 27 at Fish Hatchery No. 1 at 6 p.m.

SOCCER SCHOOL: The Northville Soccer School still has openings for its Aug. 4-8 session. The school is taught by Steve Swanson and Sasho Cirvowski at Lapham Field. The morning session (9 a.m.-noon) is for high school girls and the afternoon session is coed (ages 7-14). Registration will be accepted through Aug. 1.

NORTHVILLE RIDE: The Wolverine Sports Club is sponsoring a 25 mile bicycle ride through Northville every Wednesday evening this summer and fall. The ride leaves promptly at 6 p.m. from the Northville Municipal Parking Lot located at Center just south of Main. The 25-mile ride is at a 16-mile per hour pace. Riders should be capable of making their own repairs. Call 348-9693 for more information.

TENNIS TOURNEYS: The Rec Center is sponsoring the Northville Junior Tennis Classic and the Adult Doubles Tournament this summer. Entry forms currently are available. The Junior Classic will be held July 25-27 in four age groups (12-under, 14-under, 16-under and 18-under). Fee is $8. The Doubles Tournament is slated for Aug. 15-17 for men's, women's and mixed doubles. Fee is $10.

OPEN SWIMMING: There will be open swimming at Northville High School Pool on Monday through Thursday 7-8 p.m. Adult lap swim follows from 8-9 p.m. Fee is $1 per person.

ALL STAR TICKETS: Tickets for the Michigan High School All Star Football Game are available at the Rec Center for $4, a dollar off the gate price. The game will feature the state's top senior players from last fall at will be played at Spartan Stadium at Michigan State University on Aug. 2.

Tax reform proposals would restrict IRAs

Despite the fact that Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) represent the most popular form of investment among those surveyed in the Edward D. Jones & Co. Investor Poll, nearly two-thirds of investors say they will be inclined to decrease or stop making contributions to their IRAs if the Senate Finance Committee's recommendation on IRAs is adopted by the House-Senate Conference Committee considering tax reform.

The Senate version of the tax overhaul bill would eliminate the IRA deduction for anyone covered by an employer-provided pension plan (interest earned on IRAs would be tax-deferred).

Sixty percent of those surveyed say they will be inclined to decrease the amount of their IRA contribution if the Senate recommendation is adopted by the committee. Likewise, 55 percent say they would be inclined to stop making IRA contributions altogether.

More than three-quarters (77 percent) of those surveyed say they would not be inclined to match or increase their IRA contribution next year if the Senate recommendation on IRAs is part of the committee's bill.

The poll surveyed nearly 800 (787) investors across the nation. The poll was commissioned by Edward D. Jones & Co., a St. Louis, Missouri-based investment firm with the nation's largest network of offices, to determine current trends in investment attitudes.

The poll was conducted by Opinion Research, Inc., of St. Louis, Mo.

Among key findings:

TAX REFORM

A sub-sample of 441 investors was re-polled to determine specific attitudes about current pending tax-reform legislation.

Nearly two-thirds (63 percent) said they're not in favor of the Senate's proposal to eliminate tax deductions on IRAs.

60 percent say the Senate tax reform bill would benefit the wealthy at the expense of the middle class.

Nearly half say they probably do not have an accurate understanding of the differences between the two bills.

53 percent say they are in favor of the Senate's proposal to eliminate many tax shelters.

More than half (51 percent) say the Senate bill's top individual tax rate of 27 percent is more fair to the American tax payer than the House bill, while 30 percent favor the House version which sets a top rate of 38 percent.

"Certainly the poll results underscore investor concerns regarding key issues addressed in both the Senate and House bills," said John Bachmann, managing partner of Edward D. Jones & Co. "We believe, however, that the strong negative initial reaction to the Senate bill's recommendation on IRAs is premature. If this proposal is enacted into law, we believe that investors will move beyond this initial negative response and will come to realize that the tax-deferral of income provided by the IRA still makes it an excellent investment vehicle."

Only 22 percent said they would be likely to discontinue and 25 percent would reduce their stock investments if the Senate recommendation which would discontinue taxing profits from stock investments at a lower rate than other income is passed by the committee.

"People invest in stocks for economic reasons, not for reasons that are tax-motivated," said Bachmann.

"If tax reform does indeed stimulate economic growth, the equity market is bound to respond favorably."

Highland firm automates movie rentals

By PAT BRAY

Highland Township's Family Video has taken the movie rental business where it has never gone before.

The company's store at 2942 E. Highland Road is the first fully automated 24-hour videocassette outlet in the U.S., according to office manager Mark Storum.

"It's really amazing to see the first time," said Storum. "We had kids who would come in just to watch it."

The "Video Vendor" machine looks much like its name implies. It is quite similar to a large snack vendor with the selection of 320 tapes clearly visible behind a glass screen.

The machine holds both VHS and Beta format tapes.

The principle behind the $16,000 machine is much the same as automatic bank tellers.

Each customer is issued an identification card with a magnetic strip along the back. The card is used not only in renting tapes, but also as a security measure for late-night shoppers since it unlocks the store's door.

A list of available tapes is posted on the machine. A customer checks the catalog number of the tape against the appropriate slot in the machine. If the tape has not been rented, simple directions displayed on a built-in video screen direct the customer as he makes his selection.

The card's identification number is entered into the machine by running it through a slot. The customer then punches in the number of the desired tape. A robot arm slides over to the appropriate slot, picks up the tape and carries it to a delivery chute.

The machine accepts cash payments in $1 or $5 bills. There is also a coin slot for quarters. A receipt is issued with each transaction.

The cost of renting from the machine is $2 a movie Monday through Thursday and $3 from Friday to Sunday. Storum said the price is a 75 cent savings compared to previous prices at the store.

Two is the maximum number of tapes that can be rented on a card at any one time. One or both must be returned before another selection can be made.

Advertising manager Mickey Hay said although the machine cannot give back change, it does store any amount over the fee as credit toward a future rental.

Anyone who had a membership with the store prior to its automation received a free card. A card will cost new members $10.

Business Briefs

PATRICK M. McDONALD, FIC, was recently honored by officials of Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) for surpassing $100 million in sales of life insurance as a general agent. His milestone represents cumulative insurance sales by district representatives under his direction since he was first named general agent in 1984.

The McDonald Agency at 42315 Ann Arbor Road in Plymouth has 19 insurance representatives serving Lutherans and their families in Monroe and portions of Wayne and Oakland counties in Michigan.

AAL is the nation's largest fraternal benefit society in terms of assets and life insurance in force. AAL's 1.3 million members participate in the association's insurance and fraternal programs, the latter often designed to provide needed help and services on the local level through 6,400 branches across the United States. AAL's home office is in Appleton, Wisconsin.

DALE J. MALINOWSKI, O.D., of the Northville Vision Clinic was among the participants in OptiFair MidWest '86, the largest and most comprehensive ophthalmic conference in the United States. The four-day meeting at the O'Hare Expo Center in Chicago June 12-15 involved more than 260 educational seminars and over 350 exhibits displaying new products and services in the world of eyecare and eyewear.

Included were automated instruments for measuring vision deficiencies and new contact lenses that highlight different materials and unique fitting qualities. OptiFair MidWest '86 is one of five national conferences sponsored annually by Advisory Enterprises, publishers of magazines that serve the eyecare community.

YALE TOOL & ENGRAVING, INC., formerly of Farmington Hills, has been relocated to larger facilities in Plymouth.

Frank A. Bauss of Northville is president and Bruce Zalobsky of Milford is vice-president/general manager of the company.

Yale Tool is a broad-based industrial engraving and small tooling facility that provides engraving and prototype tooling services to the aerospace, automotive, computer, government, medical and manufacturing industries.

SHUSTER AND ASSOCIATES accounting agency of South Lyon has announced that Glenn and Marge Spitz have affiliated with their office, located at 719 S. Lafayette.

The new affiliation will result in a new name for the firm, which will be known as Shuster and Spitz Inc.

Mr. Spitz brings over 10 years of public accounting experience to the agency. Mrs. Spitz, meanwhile, has managed the accounting office for five of those years.

In addition to its accounting and tax service, Shuster and Spitz will specialize in bookkeeping and financial planning for the individual and small business.

The accounting firm also announces the addition of CPA Edward Forsyth as part of an overall plan to improve service to old and new clients in anticipation of impending changes in federal tax laws.

SAVA STEFANOVIC

RANDALL DeRUITER

DR. SAVA STEFANOVIC has been appointed Vice President, Research and Engineering by the Packaging Systems Division of Ex-Cell-O Corporation. In this position, Dr. Stefanovic will be responsible for all research and engineering activities of the division, including Pure-Pak machine modifications, the aseptic program and carton developments to meet the needs of the packaging industry.

Dr. Stefanovic joined Ex-Cell-O in 1984 as technical director of the aseptic program for the Packaging Systems Division. Prior to joining Ex-Cell-O, he was a project leader in the food engineering branch of the Food and Drug Administration. His responsibilities there included an extensive research and pilot plant program on aseptic processing and packaging.

Dr. Stefanovic holds a Ph.D. degree in chemical engineering from the University of Cincinnati, a Master's degree in chemical engineering from Purdue and an MBA from Xavier. He is a member of the American Society for Testing Materials, the Institute of Food Technologists and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

RANDALL DeRUITER, P.E., of Plymouth has been named vice president of operations for the R.A. DeMattia Company, a leading full service design/construction firm headquartered in Plymouth and headed by R.A. DeMattia of Northville.

DeRuiter has overall responsibility for the construction operations throughout the U.S. as well as the company's steel erection forces. The R.A. DeMattia Company had construction revenues of $30 million in 1985.

DeRuiter, who joined the firm in 1983, is a registered engineer and a graduate of the University of Michigan.

CHARLES M. YOUNG, FIC, of Novi has become a registered representative of Lutheran Brotherhood Securities Corp. (LBSC).

As a registered representative, Young is now qualified to sell the four mutual funds distributed by LBSC. LBSC is a subsidiary of Lutheran Brotherhood, a fraternal insurance society. Both corporations are headquartered in Minneapolis.

Also a Lutheran Brotherhood District Representative, Young is associated with the Karl Mueller Agency, based in Rochester.

Housing costs in state below national levels

Even with the current rising trend here, local home prices still have a lot of catching up to do to reach those in most other areas of the country, according to Metro MLS.

"Our average price this year remains close to the $70,000 figure reported for the midwest state grouping at the end of March," said Joanne R. Bryngelson, president of the multiple listing service.

"This compares to a national average of $97,000 reported at the same time. The highest average is now in the northeastern states where it has reached $121,000. Western states, the leader until late last year, now have an average of $118,500 with the south following at $94,800."

She said average prices in the northeast United States have risen nearly 50 percent since 1980. This compares to jumps of about 25 percent in the south and midwest and 20 percent nationally. The slowest climb, 13 percent, has been in the west which led the nation in rising home prices during the late 1970s.

Bryngelson noted that the midwest also represents the best housing bargains when prices are quoted as medians, in which half sell for more and half for less. The median price is generally 10 to 20 percent lower than the average.

"Our median then would also be close to the $63,800 quoted for all of the midwest in March, she said. "The national median price was $80,000 with the highest, $101,300 in the northeast."

She pointed out that regional prices often are distorted by those in major metropolitan areas such as Boston and New York in the northeast and San Francisco and Orange County in California.

"The Detroit metro area seems to be one of the exceptions," she said. "We are still showing up among the lowest-priced metro regions in the country in quarterly surveys conducted by the National Association of Realtors."

This should be a big plus for attracting more businesses and industry to locate here. The executives moving in will find they can buy a lot more home for their housing money or find housing comparable to what they are leaving at a greatly reduced price."

New trends in videos sent process special offers for customers. Hay said some promotional deals are being planned for the store.

Storum said public reception to the machine was mixed at first, but business at the store has tripled since it was installed. He said customers like the freedom of making a selection at any time. They also do not have to rush to get the tape back by closing time.

Late fees on tapes begin at 12 a.m. after the initial renting period.

Storum said the company, which is owned by Jim Lang, has a total of 14 Video Vendors throughout the lower part of the state. He said the other 13 machines are already in Perry Drug Stores. Barring any unforeseen problems, Video Vendors will soon be in all Perry Drug stores in Michigan.

"The business is growing real quick," Storum said.

The value of a machine fully loaded with tapes is about $35,000. Storum said there are surveillance cameras at the store and it is fully protected with alarm systems.

Hay said none of the four employees at the store lost their jobs because of the machine. She said they were moved to different positions within the company.

Hay said one employee will be on hand during regular business hours to accept card application information. A card can then be picked up at the store until 12 a.m.

Storum said it is important for customers to notify the company if their cards are lost or stolen since they are responsible for tapes with which it is rented. He said the card's number can be voided from the machine and a new card issued. He said the average cost of buying a videocassette is about $70.

'Teamwork critical for business success'

By VICKI GRICE

"We need each other because of our differences, not because of our likenesses," Marilyn M. Semonick told the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce June 23.

Insisting that people must work together and make progress as a team, Semonick noted that everyone has unique talents and must rely on each other to compensate for individual weaknesses.

Director of Spectrum Communications, a Bloomfield Hills-based firm, Semonick stressed that the most successful people understand and appreciate others for their differences. But they also know themselves.

In the business world as well as in everyday activity, Semonick said that to communicate most effectively, "you must radiate a high degree of trust in yourself and the other person while keeping the level of tension very low."

When there is too much tension in a conversation, she noted, people tend to put up barriers and fail to communicate effectively.

"The older we get, the tighter our tunnel of vision," she said.

Semonick emphasized that to be an effective decision-maker and problem-solver is to understand and have an open mind to all possible solutions to a problem.

"Put yourself in positions where you use your best talents most effectively and that way you won't set yourself up for failure," she said.

Semonick said it is important to examine others' behavior, not personality, through their "assertiveness and responsiveness." She also mentioned that this behavior is both observable and predictable.

"We need to be more observant of others instead of worrying about ourselves so much," she said.

Semonick separated behavior qualities into four groups and explained the stereotypical characteristics of each:

□ People with a high level of assertiveness and low responsiveness are driving and dynamic. Many serious business people fall into this category. These people are decision-makers, result-oriented and are known as the "control specialists" because they may not have the best answer, but the only answer. They need a challenge and their solutions are never wrong.

□ People that have both a high assertiveness and high responsiveness level are influential and expressive. These are the "people people." They have the best verbal skills because they are always talking. They are motivated by recognition, and are the most emotional of all behavior types. Because they are so friendly, these people are often overcommitted. They are the "communications specialists."

□ People with high responsiveness and low assertiveness levels are extremely family-oriented. These business people are the ones who can't work at their desk because it is so cluttered with family pictures. They are good stress managers and worry about taking care of other people before themselves. Because these supportive and amiable people are so loyal, they often have difficulty leaving even the most destructive situations. Unlike the dynamic people, these procrastinators are not eager for change.

□ And lastly, those with both low assertiveness and responsiveness levels are competent and analytical. They are completely organized, and therefore will drive dynamic people crazy. They are perfectionists and have no tolerance for people who don't do things the "right way." Accuracy is of extreme importance. These people are not expressive and therefore often keep feelings to themselves.

Semonick noted that these behavioral qualities are preferences, not abilities. They are a reflection of one's upbringing and can be changed.

MARILYNN M. SEMONICK

tion of one's upbringing and can be changed.

She stressed that it is necessary to do a self-inventory and get to know and accept the "person in the mirror."

"All of us play different music," she said. "Examine yourself and the music you play, analyze it and learn to compose it to make the most of the talents you have."

Proposals affect IRAs

The most widely held form of investments were individual retirement and Keough accounts (46 percent), certificates of deposit (42 percent), common or preferred stocks (37 percent) and money market funds (32 percent).

□ 66 percent say they favor conservative investments over aggressive ones.

□ Two-thirds (67 percent) say they are satisfied with the performance of their investments over the last year.

□ 61 percent predict that the percentage of their income they will invest over the next two to three years will increase.

"The fact that a majority of those surveyed plan to increase their investment activity is a vote of confidence in the American economic system and an indication that people think there is potential for further economic growth," said Bachmann.

INTEREST RATES

□ The majority (52 percent) say recent interest rate trends have not had an impact on their investment activity.

□ 83 percent say they would choose a fixed rate rather than a variable interest rate for a home loan.

□ The sample was split fairly evenly (45 percent to 44 percent) when asked to predict whether the trend toward lower interest rates will continue.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The sources of financial information that investors say they consult most frequently before making an investment decision are bank officer, stock broker or registered representative, financial magazines and newspapers, and accountants.

□ More than three-quarters 88 percent of those surveyed say that insuring adequate income for retirement is an important financial goal.

□ 80 percent say important goals are both to maximize the value of their assets and to maximize income from investments.

□ 67 percent of those with children say providing a college education for

'We believe, however, that the strong negative initial reaction to the Senate bill's recommendation on IRAs is premature. If this proposal is enacted into law, we believe that investors will move beyond this initial negative response and will come to realize that the tax-deferral of income provided by the IRA still makes in an excellent investment vehicle.'

— John Bachmann, Managing partner their children is an important goal. □ Just over half 53 percent of those with children hope to leave an estate for their children.

OTHER ISSUES

□ The majority (68 percent) say they are confident the economy will improve over the next two to three years.

□ 62 percent say their overall confidence in the economy is greater now than a year ago.

□ More than four-fifths (82 percent) say they have achieved more financially than their parents.

The Edward D. Jones & Co. Investor Poll is based on telephone interviews with investors throughout the nation. The survey was conducted between May 27 and June 15.

Good news on auto insurance premium rates

More than three-fourths of AAA Michigan's 1.2 million policyholders had their auto insurance premiums lowered or left unchanged at renewal time as part of a statewide rate adjustment which took effect July 1.

"The April 1 revisions in the Essential Insurance Act allow us to adjust rates based on each community's claims experience, which means that only 22 percent of our policy holders will have their rates increased," stated AAA Michigan Insurance Vice President Thomas G. Bowman.

Bowman said that 28 percent of AAA policyholders would receive premium reductions of up to 10 percent, while rates for 50 percent of the policyholders would remain unchanged. Overall, AAA Michigan's premium income will remain the same statewide.

"Although the new law allows a maximum increase of 7.5 percent for Detroit, rates there will rise an average 6.4 percent," Bowman said.

"That compares to an average annual increase of more than 9.5 percent since 1981." The new law limits annual rate increases in Detroit to 4 percent plus the annual inflation rate, which was 3.5 percent in 1985.

Under the original Essential Insurance Act, an increase in the highest-rated territory would have required AAA Michigan to raise rates for most of its policy holders a comparable amount.

"The old law seriously restricted our ability to use claims experience and competition as rate-setting factors and created an unfair pricing structure," Bowman said. "With the change in the law, AAA Michigan's rates will be extremely competitive and most of our members will realize a savings on auto insurance premiums."

AAA Michigan is the state's largest auto insurer, providing protection to one-fourth of the state's motorists.

013 Card of Thanks

OUR very special thanks to the Burns Township Fire Department, Vernon Township Fire Department, Howell Fire Department, neighbors and friends that helped during our recent fire. You people are all terrific. Jim and Val Ritter and Ed and Loretta Ritter.

PRAYER to the Holy Spirit. Holy Spirit who make me see everything and who show me the way to reach my ideal, who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, who are in all the instances of my life with me, I in this short dialogue want to thank you for everything and confess more that I never want to be separated from you no matter how great the material desires might be. I want to be with you and my loved ones in my perpetual joy. Amen. Person must pray this 3 consecutive days without asking a favor, then promise to publish. AC

THE wife of Lawrence Horsfall wishes to thank the family, friends, and neighbors for their kindness, and special appreciation to Rev. Schultz, Mildred.

A NEW WAY TO CUT THE COST OF SELLING YOUR HOUSE.

INTRODUCING THE BEST SELLER PLAN.

Some 80 years ago, Coldwell Banker wrote the book on real estate.

Today, we're adding a new chapter that'll help you save money while preparing your house for sale.

We call it The Best Seller Plan — a comprehensive home selling guide filled with valuable benefits and savings.

And it's all yours when you list with a Coldwell Banker Sales Associate.

SHARPEN YOUR SCISSORS.

The Best Seller Plan includes 20 coupons from Sears, each offering savings of 10-30% off regular prices. These coupons were carefully selected to help you save on products and services you'll need most when selling your house.

COUPON 30% Off House Paint 30% off the purchase of any Sears interior or exterior paint.

Paint, for example, will go a long way toward making your house look its best — both inside and out.

FOR MARKET EVALUATION AT NO COST OR OBLIGATION, CALL:

BIRMINGHAM.....842-2400
LAKESIDE.....247-0060
LIVONIA.....476-6636
MACOMB.....296-3240
OAKLAND.....589-1344
TROY.....524-9575
TWELVE OAKS.....348-4700
WEST BLOOMFIELD...737-9000

COUPON 10% Off Sears Carpet/Upholstery Cleaning 10% off the purchase of any Sears carpet and upholstery cleaning.

Professional cleaning can make your carpets look new, eliminating tracks in halls, entries and other frequently used areas. Have your upholstered chairs and couches cleaned, as well, to make your house look especially bright and well-cared for — a big plus when it's being shown.

In addition to the Sears coupons, you'll find savings on a variety of moving services.

COUPON American Airlines Special Saver Fare Save 30% Roundtrip Airfare when you relocate.

American Airlines, for example, offers reduced airfares when you travel between your current city and your new hometown for the purpose of relocation.

COUPON United Van Lines, Inc. 20% Discount

United Van Lines offers you a discount on interstate moves within the continental United States. Hilton Hotels offers reduced weekend rates. And UHAUL offers discounts on packing materials, storage rooms, garden equipment and more.

EXCLUSIVELY FROM COLDWELL BANKER

Only The Best Seller Plan offers home sellers all these savings, plus a variety of additional services — homesearch and relocation assistance from Coldwell Banker, equity investment opportunities from Dean Witter Reynolds and on-the-spot homeowners insurance from Allstate.

It's all there to help you sell your house for the best possible price in the shortest possible time. With the least inconvenience and worry.

So call your local Coldwell Banker office, today. And get more out of your house. For less.

The Best Seller Plan is available when you list your house with a Coldwell Banker Sales Associate on a 90-day minimum, exclusive-right-to-sell listing.

the fairy godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns. But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of our newspaper! It's like magic the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way the fairy godmother makes all her magic, too!

LAKE LIFE

Making the most of a water wonderland

So your friends live in ritzy subdivisions. So they drive the latest Lamborghinis, dine out every night of the week, wear Dior and Calvin Klein ensembles to breakfast. There's a way your lifestyle can be the one that drives them secretly mad with envy.

Latch onto a lake.

Although the amount of lakefront property in the Northville- Novi area is scarce, it's here, all right. And to a large extent, the area's smaller private and public lakes are still somewhat undiscovered.

Only one lake in the area draws a crowd that is interested in the entertainment value of water sports associated with the lakefront: Walled Lake. The only all-sports lake that extends into the boundaries of Novi, Walled Lake offers residents a rustic lake environment that's rare in the Detroit suburbs.

"The recreational advantages of living on the lake such as boating and the convenience of always having something fun to do, especially when entertaining guests, is what I like best about living here," said Sandra Phillips, who lives on Walled Lake.

Many other small private lakes, often within subdivisions, in the Northville/Novi area attract people, often because of the view the property offers.

"We find that many buyers of lakefront property in Northville, such as in the Highland Lakes subdivision, really are looking for something that offers more than a view of someone else's backyard," said Jim Bress of Earl Keim Realty in Northville.

Although they don't offer public access, various private lakes are available for buyers in the area. These lakes include Shawood and Meadowbrook, both in Novi, Lake Success, Silver Spring, Crystal, Swan Harbor, Waterford Lake Phoenix Lake, and Highland Lakes, all in Northville. These lakes don't allow motorized vehicles but offer privileges such as swimming, fishing, canoeing and ice skating or cross-country skiing in the winter to private home owners.

Lakefront property is appealing and romantic enough but many prospective buyers forget to consider some unforeseen disadvantages of lakefront living, especially on larger lakes.

"One bad thing about living on a lake is the cost involved," said Sandy Phillips. "Besides the cost of the property alone, you also have to consider the cost of upkeep if you want to put in a dock, a beach or just want to keep the property clean — everything costs money."

Other problems that may be encountered are virtually uncontrollable.

"You are somewhat at the mercy of nature when you live on a lake," said Gary Phillips. "The ice in the winter can rip apart your shoreline if you don't have a sufficient wall to protect it, and when this water melts it's a real mess."

The cost of living on almost any lake, small or large, has increased

The wet stuff

Living on a lake may make life worthwhile, especially this time of year. But living on a lake in style — now that's something extra. Our models Cheryl Lane and Bob Libery, both of Northville, have the right idea, we think. They're perched on Novi resident Jack Ostol's 19-foot 1986 Four Winns Candia 190 Brougham power boat. It sports a 200 h.p. V-8 Mercury Inboard-Outboard Mercury Cruiser. Also a built-in bar. Cheryl's swimsuit is by Sassafra, available at Gantos. Her sunglasses are from Laura Blagioti, available at Detroit Optometric Centers. Bob's rigged out in flag-flecked shorts by Newport Blue, available at Hudson's. Mono-ski is an O'Brien Alpha Centauri, available at Herman's Sporting Goods.

In Our Town

It's Cupid's dance

By JEAN DAY

It may seem a long time away when we're in the midst of a summer heat wave, but Valentine's Day has been chosen by Northville Historical Society as the date for its annual dinner dance.

The Feb. 14 event will be held at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. Nancy Bohn has been in charge of making reservations, society president Martha Nield mentions. She adds that volunteers will be welcomed and may call her or Nancy.

In our community, social events are among prime fundraisers for organizations. Right now, Kiwanis Club president George McLeod is seeking golfers to help support local projects of the club by attending its annual golf outing Aug. 11 at Baypointe Golf Club. The $100 fee includes lunch and dinner at the club as well as an open bar and all-day golfing, he says. Anyone interested may call him at 349-3092.

She's Redford band director

Mary Jo Marburger, who has been a junior high band director at Klamath Falls, Ore., is returning to her home state to become band director at Redford Union High School — she will be the first woman band director in the high school's history.

A graduate of Northville High School and the University of Michigan where she played in the marching band, she is preparing now for a two-week band camp at Redford Union. She also holds a master's degree from the University of Colorado at Boulder.

Her parents, the Irvin Marburgers of Whipple Drive, also are expecting Gwen Marburger's mother from Pompano Beach, Florida, this month.

Peter Roberts cited by the Red Cross

Peter Roberts of Northville has been awarded the Joan B. Warren Leadership Award by the American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter. He has been a Red Cross volunteer for 24 years, serving as aquatic and small craft chairman, health and safety services advisory committee member, water safety and lifeguard instructor trainer, as an instructor in adapted aquatics (swimming for persons with mental or physical disabilities), small craft, CPR and first aid.

The Red Cross announces that he has certified nearly 10,000 students and 570 instructors in Red Cross programs. He is a professor of aquatics at Wayne State University.

The award was established to recognize and encourage volunteers who have exhibited exceptional leadership qualities. The award brings a stipend to attend the Council for National Cooperation in Aquatics in Indianapolis in November.

Milford Tour

Historic homes will be featured

Although the weekend of September 20-21 is three months away, Milford Historical Society members are busy preparing for the 11th annual home tour.

Six historic homes, one commercial site, and the Historical Museum will be featured in this year's tour. Also included in the tour are a Fine Crafts Festival in Central Park with over 60 crafters, a parade of vintage cars in downtown Milford on Sunday and a pioneer family living in the log cabin in South Side Park.

Several of the historic homes will have displays such as depression glass, quilts, dolls, and even one decorated for Christmas. Some of the crafters will be demonstrating their crafts during the festival, and a variety of pioneer activities will be happening at the log cabin.

The dates of the Milford Historical Society Home Tour are September 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday and 12 noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. Price of the tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens. This ticket allows one to tour the six historic homes and all the other sites.

Sites on the tour include: the home of Harold and Suzanne Haskew, 3920 Old Plank Rd.; the home of Hugh and Elsie Garner, 203 Washington St.; the Milford Historical Society, 124 E.

Commerce; the home of Paul and Sandy Heumann at 2895 Wixom Rd.; the office of Attorney Janet L. Kinzinger, 530 N. Main; the home of Merlin and Delores Feigley, 625 Hickory St.; the home of Sandy Samms at 431 East St.; and home of Virgene E. Wright, 303 Trotter Trail.

For further information, call Jane or Tom Watkins at 313-685-9380 or Kari or Mark Elenbaas at 313-684-2903.

Nature study course sponsored by MUCC

Nature admirers looking for a summer getaway can avoid costly motel reservations and crowded campsites by registering for a weekend nature study course, Aug. 8-10, at the Department of Natural Resources Conference Center on the north shore of Higgins Lake.

The weekend adventure offers courses on orienteering, nature photography, back country field trips and astronomy, all conducted by trained biologists and naturalists. The program is sponsored by Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), Michigan's largest conservation organization.

"Our goal in offering these weekend courses is to educate the public and get them excited about the environment and the need for conservation of our precious natural resources," said Teri Littrell, MUCC education coordinator.

The course classes begin Friday, Aug. 8, at 7 p.m. and end after lunch on Sunday, Aug. 10. Several optional activities are on the agenda for Saturday afternoon, Aug. 9, including instruction on canoeing, camping, backpacking and Michigan travel adventures.

MUCC summer weekend activities include the following:

□ Conyours and Compasses - an introduction to Swedish orienteering techniques in the outdoors, including instruction in map reading and proper use of a compass.

□ Nature photography - from tips on film and lens selection to closeups of wildflowers, this course teaches photographing nature.

□ Field Trips to Discovery - a series of field trips to a deer management area, a heron rookery, a bog and other natural sites on the north shore of Higgins Lake.

□ Backyard Astronomer - study of constellations, meteor showers, planets, moons and sky motions are only a few of the unique features of this course.

MUCC staff members will instruct courses along with wildlife naturalists. Dennis Hanser, a wildlife and nature photographer, will conduct the course series on nature photography. Wildlife biologist and naturalist Chuck Barnes will share his knowledge of natural history. Michael Best, science writer for the Detroit News, will help out on the astronomy expedition. Kevin Frailey, director of the MUCC Youth Conservation Camp, will teach techniques on correctly using a map and compass.

"Our weekend courses are designed for individuals who have had no prior experience in the study of nature and wildlife," Littrell said. "It's an excellent opportunity for everyone to enjoy a quiet weekend and learn about nature in the beautiful setting at Higgins Lake."

The total cost for the MUCC Weekend Summer course at the Conference Center is $95 per person, including two nights lodging, six meals and course fees. An optional canoe trip, Sunday, Aug. 10, costs $9 per person.

For additional information on the MUCC Summer Weekend Courses contact: Michigan United Conservation Clubs, P.O. Box 30235, Lansing, Mich., 48909. Telephone: (517) 371-1041.

MUCC is the largest non-profit state federation of sportsmen's and conservation organizations in America. It is dedicated to furthering the cause of the environment and conservation, and to promoting programs designed to educate citizens in natural resource conservation and environmental protection and enhancement.

Julie Bartson married in candlelight rites at St. Paul of the Cross Julie Marie Bartson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester J. Bartson of 16400 Sutters Lane Court, became the bride of Bela Frank Antal of Livonia in a double ring, candlelight ceremony at St. Paul of the Cross Chapel in Detroit.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Asselin of Livonia.

Father Francis Cusack was assisted throughout the May 31 ceremony by the couple. The service included two spiritual readings selected by the bride and bridegroom which were read by the bride's brother, Lester Bartson III. He is a professor of classical history at the University of Massachusetts, Boston campus.

Tenor Dean Asselin, uncle of the bridegroom, sang Ave Maria during the ceremony. He formerly has sung on television and with local orchestras.

The bride wore a white satin Alfred Angelo princess-style gown fashioned with a full skirt that extended into a lace-edged cathedral train. A beaded lace Juliet cap held her cathedral-length veil. Her bouquet was of white and yellow roses and lilies of the valley.

She wore a gold and diamond cross necklace which had been worn by her mother at her wedding.

Alisa Bieritz of Plymouth was the bride's honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Laura Pope of Westland, Patti Antal of Livonia, sister of the bridegroom, and Sandi Jameson of Washington, Mich.

They wore floor-length gowns of yellow taffeta and carried yellow and white carnation bouquets.

Crystal Pope, as flower girl, wore a full-length dress of lace and carried a basket of yellow and white daisies.

John Asselin was best man for his brother.

Ushers were Frank Bartson of Plymouth and Lester Bartson III of Marblehead, Mass., brothers of the bride, and Michael Bieritz of Plymouth.

A reception for 180 guests followed the 5 p.m. ceremony. It was held in the Plymouth Hilton ballrooms.

After a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, Canada, and Marblehead, Mass., the newlyweds are making their home in Westland.

The bride is a graduate of Dorsey Business Schools. She is a legal secretary.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Schoolcraft College's culinary arts and business management. He currently is Chef DeParte at the Westin Hotel in Renaissance Center in Detroit.

Recent newspaper articles and television news reports tell us that we are losing the war in our fight against cancer. Although new and exciting drug therapies are proving to be highly effective against a variety of cancer types people are developing cancer more frequently than ever before. Tobacco use in its various forms (cigarettes, cigars, chewing, and smokeless) appears to be the primary factor responsible for increased cancer frequency.

Cancer is not our only preventable health problem, however. According to Alvin Tarlov, M.D., president of the Kaiser Foundation, "It has been estimated that 67% of all disease and premature death is potentially preventable. And 52% of the estimated 455 billion dollar economic cost of illness in 1980 resulted from tobacco use, alcohol misuse, drug abuse, automobile crashes and other injuries—all clearly preventable."

Although prescription and non-prescription drugs can help us live longer, healthier lives, they are not enough. Consider avoiding tobacco using alcohol in moderation if at all, always wearing seat belts, obtaining regular exercise eating a balanced diet that is low in sodium and high in fiber, and using medicines only when needed.

Tubing, windsurfing top lake activities

If you live on a lake, or near a lake, or even not so near a lake — there is plenty of sports activities available. Summer is the time and area lakes are the place, whether it's water skiing, jet skiing, scuba or snorkeling, tubing or windsurfing.

The up and coming activity, that has really caught on in the last few years is tubing. What started out as just an inner tube from an old truck tire is now a tube specially designed to be pulled from behind a power boat with a person riding on top of the tube who, in turn, are riding on top of the water.

"It's basically the same thing as an inner tube but it has handles on top of the tube," said Dan Norton of Hermans Sporting Goods in Novi. "The handles eliminate the need to hang onto the tow rope and it makes it a little bit more maneuverable."

Norton reports that the tubes aren't very expensive ($10-$20), and that they are one of this summer's hottest items.

"It's been one of the things that is selling out very quickly after we get them in," he said. "It's certainly a lot cheaper than going out and buying an inner tube."

Another quick seller is the knee board. It's a 2½-foot long board that the rider kneels on while it is towed from behind a boat. The rider needs to employ some of the same skills used by surfers.

"It's like a mini-surf board," Norton pointed out. "They run up to about $40 and they big sellers along with the tubes."

Another activity that is popular in area lakes is snorkeling and scuba diving. Contrary to some beliefs, there is a lot to see under the surface of our lakes, and Bill King from Underwater Outfitters in Union Lake highly recommends it.

"There is a lot to see around here," he admitted. "Of course there are fish to see and occasional small wrecks like sunken row boats but most of the time people go out to see what they can find. There's always all kinds of things to find in lakes around here."

King recommends snorkeling to everybody and scuba diving to anybody who's got some swimming ability and a healthy heart and lungs. In some of the shallower area lakes, snorkeling is just as effective as diving — but at a much cheaper price.

"For $25 to $150, a person can get a mask, fins and a snorkel that are good quality," King pointed out. "Scuba divers have to be good snorkelers — they go hand in hand."

An important question to scuba divers is whether to buy or rent. Renting all the necessary equipment for a whole weekend of diving runs between $30-$60 — but to purchase everything, it could run as high as $1,000.

"If a person does a lot of diving, it's more economical to buy the equipment," King explained.

To get scuba tanks filled with oxygen, a diver must take a scuba class and be certified. Most scuba shops offer certification classes, and even though they aren't required by law, the classes are highly recommended.

"It's wise to become certified because diving is easy and safe, however there are some potential problems you need to be aware of," King admitted. "A complete 10 session course runs about $140."

To illustrate just how popular scuba diving is in this area, King said there are 15 scuba shops between Ann Arbor and Port Huron.

Of all the activities, jet skiing may be the most expensive — but according to some, it's the most exciting as well.

"It's a riot," said Waterford's Scott Ries, just after pulling in from a spirited ride on Walled Lake. "Once you get to the point where you can stand up, I think it's the funnest summer sport because you can control it. It's like a miniature boat out there."

A brand new 1986 jet ski can run well over $3,000, but Ries said they require relatively little maintenance. Once you plop down the three grand for the jet ski, the expenses are very minimum.

"Mine is an '84 and it is still going strong so I guess they last quite a long time," Ries pointed out. "There's very little maintenance from what I've found. You don't even have to add oil because it is mixed in with the gas."

Jet skis can also travel up to 40 mph, depending on the type of propeller and the different pitch desired. At several Oakland County lakes, jet skis can be rented but the price is also quite stiff: $20-$25 an hour.

"In some area lakes, like Cass Lake, they are real popular and in some it isn't," Ries said. "I couldn't really tell you if it's popular all over."

No matter what water you are near, windsurfing is rapidly becoming the thing to do on it.

Low cost, compared to sailing, and exciting for people of all ages, a windsurfer can go almost anywhere, since it's easily transportable.

Perry Smith, assistant sales manager at Michigan Windsurfing in Keego Harbor, in the heart of lake country, says that it is possible to buy the basic board and sail for about $400. But it is also possible to spend more than $2,000 for high-tech equipment.

Windsurfing is also a sport that does not discriminate because of age or physique. "The only restriction is that you have to be strong enough to pull yourself up," Smith says.

He adds that there are boards designed for children as young as 5 and just on July 17 he taught a 55-year-old 105-pound woman the basics of windsurfing.

"She was really determined to learn and she learned," Smith said.

Smith said windsurfing is also a relatively safe sport, with the main problem occurring when novices get up on their boards, sail blissfully across a lake and then can't get back to their starting point.

"For a beginner, it's best to sail on an inland lake with an offshore breeze between eight and 10 knots," he said. "Then, the worst thing that happens if you can't get back to shore on the water is that you'll have to walk the board back."

The French windsurfing team that recently crossed the Atlantic on a specially-designed board had a lot of experience. And the man who recently set the board speed record was clocked at 32.85 knots.

Windsurfing, especially by more advanced sailors, also spans the seasons. Smith says people can begin sailing — with a dry suit — in early spring; can add a wet suit for late spring outings; strip down to a bathing suit in the summer; go back to the wet suit in early fall; and put on the dry suit for the late fall.

For beginners, lessons are available and Smith says Michigan Windsurfing is running a 2-for-1 special weekdays. A four-hour lesson for two people is $45.

WUF volunteers

Northville resident Carol Couse, right, is pictured with 1986 Women for United Foundation president Winnie Ostrowski at the recent annual meeting of WUF, active volunteer arm of the United Foundation. It is involved in events such as Project Health-O-Rama, Heart-of-Gold Awards Luncheon and related Torch Drive activities. Another Northville resident, Donald H. Lindemier, administrative assistant, Communication Workers of America, has been elected to serve on the United Foundation board of directors, Walter J. McCarthy, chairman, the Detroit Edison Company and chairman of the board, United Foundation, announced. He is one of 13 local executives newly elected to the 150-member UF board. The UF Torch Drive raises operating funds for 143 charitable organizations in the tri-county area.

Area lakes: they can offer a unique lifestyle tremendously within the past five years.

"There has been a substantial increase, sometimes as much as $20,000 within the past five or six years," said Dianne Gates of Real Estate One, Inc.

A lakefront house on Walled Lake, for example, with two bedrooms and two baths sold for $45,000 in 1981 and a comparable house on the same street sold for $61,140 in 1986. A house in Northville on Fermanaugh Street sold for $162,000 in 1982, and comparable house next door sold for $186,000 in 1986. A two-bedroom, one-bath house on Phoenix Lake in Northville sold for $118,000 in 1986 while a larger, four-bedroom house on the same street sold for $96,000 (they were in comparable condition).

Gates said she has sold 19 lakefront homes in the Northville/Novi area so far this year.

Another interesting attraction is the possibility of living on or near a water-filled gravel pit. There currently are no restrictions for those people who have property on the water as far as the privilege of using motor vehicles and designated swimming areas, but there is absolutely no public swimming or fishing access available on the sites.

"We used to have a very serious problem with trespassers swimming in the pits because they are accessible from the road," said one Northville police officer. "We have to restrict use to private owners for safety reasons, because there are no lifeguards, and very few houses surrounding the pits."

The officer made reference to the gravel pit on Griswold Street in Northville, saying that this area used to attract the public, mostly teenagers, but strict enforcement through fines has discouraged trespassing.

Obviously, lake front living has advantages and disadvantages as well. Some people who have experienced it's serenity and uniquely peaceful environment overlook some of the hard work involved.

"Something that I will always enjoy is all the wildlife the lake seems to attract." We see everything from Blue Herons to turtles to fish jumping and rabbits hopping around," Sandra Phillips said. "I would never trade the lake front lifestyle for city living. It's definitely worth the work it sometimes involves."

Bender receives '86 Golden Alumni Award

Ed Bender, a 1935 Northville High School graduate, was awarded the Golden Alumnus Award of 1986 by the Concord College Alumni Association in West Virginia.

The former Taylor high school teacher was one of several individuals honored for at least 25 years of dedicated service to the college and the Alumni Association.

Bender retired from full time teaching but still works in the same field on a part time basis.

For Bender, the highlight of the event was the surprise attendance of his whole family, along with 200 alumni. He has been active in many Concord College functions, including membership in the Executive Council and Presidents' Club.

Museums offer attractions

Now is prime time for visiting local historical museums and taking advantage of their summer celebrations.

The Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main St., is featuring many attractions, including a fishing exhibit from the 1920s, sea shell collection from around the world, and a special exhibit of "Coca-Cola" items.

The "Coca-Cola" attraction traces the origins and first uses of the modern soft drink back to 1886. "Coke" was first used as a medicine, and was first served as a soft drink in the 1920s.

The Plymouth Historical Museum is open to the public Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for youths (11-17), and 25 cents for children.

Greenmead, Livonia's Historical Museum and Village is open for guided tours, picnics and garden strolls.

1986 events include:
□ Civil War Encampment, July 27, noon to 5 p.m.
□ Music Under the Sun, August 24.
□ Needlework show and exhibit, August 24, noon to 5 p.m.

Greenmead is located on 103 acres on the corner of Newburgh and Eight Mile roads. The museum is open Sunday from 1-4 p.m., and group tours during the week are arranged by appointment only. Visitors may tour the 1840 to 1920 period homes, general store and church.

Admission is $1 for adults, and 25 cents for children 10 to 18 years old.

Rural garden, orchard receive club's acclaim

Clockwise from upper right: Showing off one of her many garden varieties is Hazel Coon with her dog Penny. Stan Coon pulls weeds from his vegetable garden (above) and inspects a plum tree (at right), one of 110 fruit trees on his Docksey property. Upper left, Stan takes a close look at his corn crop.

A rural garden and orchard on three acres is the choice of the Country Girls Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association as its Garden of the Month for July.

Stan and Hazel Coon have lived and gardened at 18157 Docksey, off Ridge in the western part of Northville Township, for 20 years and, especially in winter, enjoy the delicious fruit and vegetables they grow.

Camille Bloomberg nominated the Coons' gardens for the title, Pat Eden, co-chair of the project with Judy Byersdorf, reports.

When they visited the Coons and saw their orchard with 110 fruit trees, their vegetable and fruit gardens, they concurred with the suggestion.

Stan Coon tends the vegetable garden and the orchard while the flower garden near the house with its many old-fashioned varieties is Hazel Coon's special interest.

The orchard contains apricot, cherry, nut, peach, pear, plum and nectarine as well as apple trees. There's also a grape arbor.

In the flower garden edged by a brick path are daisies, coral bells, forget-me-nots, snapdragons, lavender, red phlox, rhododendron, shasta maroon, gallardia, hardy red asters and dahlia. Mrs. Coon also lists rebeckia, lupine, marist blue (balloon plant), silver mound gladiol and pansies among its contents.

Old fashioned hollyhocks and buttercups as well as the border plant, sweet alyssum, grow on the property along with chrysanthemums. There also are red impatiens, pots of geraniums and, along the side of the barn, monarda.

Black and red raspberry bushes share garden space with rhubarb and strawberry plants, onions, asparagus, beans, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, pea pods, melons, cantaloupe, tomatoes, squash, carrots, potatoes, Brussels sprouts and zucchini.

"Bird watching and feeding is another joy of Stan and Hazel," Eden adds, relating that hummingbirds appear about 1 p.m. most days at the red impatiens.

CHRISTOPHER J. SCHALDENBRAND, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilford J. Schaldenbrand of 21234 Halstead, was graduated from Interlochen Arts Academy at commencement ceremonies May 31.

He was a member of the Academy's Choir and Chorale, where he sang bass, and participated in a master class given by Elizabeth Parcells, soprano.

He participated in the Michigan Youth Arts Festival Soloist Competition in April and took first place in the David Matchell Voice Award in Lansing.

Schaldenbrand received a fine arts award for voice at the Academy's Honors Convocation May 30.

Interlochen Arts Academy graduated 150 seniors this year out of a total student body of 425.

Twenty-five Northville residents were among the more than 4,500 students receiving degrees from Michigan State University at spring term commencement.

Local students receiving degrees were MARTHA ALSPAUGH, 242 S. Center, BA, accounting; WALLACE BAILEY, 40145 Fairway III, MBA, business administration; JEANNINE BERGERS, 21298 Eastfarm, BA, marketing (high honors); LINDA BOBEK, 21915 Cumberland, BS, merchandising management; BARRIE BOWMAN, 21285 Woodhill, BA, elementary education; KAREN CASSADY, 850 Carpenter, BA, advertising; MICHAEL CHIO, 19224 Marilyn, BS, social science; MARK DAVIS, 18162 Jamestown, BS, physical education (honors); CHERYL DIDYK, 46855 Timberlane, BS, merchandising management; SCOTT FAUSTYN, 46060 Pickford Court, BA, social science-urban studies.

STACEY HOOVER, 21975 Bedford, BS, nursing; KEVIN KING, 21053 E. Glenhaven, BS, packaging; JAMES KONCZAL, 23733 Heartwood, BS, packaging; RODNEY KURZAWA, 15871 Winchester, BA, general business; MICHAEL LIDDELL, 21818 Bedford, BS, biological science; COLLEEN McDUGALL, 22074 Cumberland, BA, MLM-operations management; CARRIE MULDER, 38773 Westchester, BS, merchandising management; WALTER ORLANDINI, 42237 Westmeath, MBA, business administration; MICHAEL PEARSON, 7753 Pontiac Trail, BA, accounting; WILLIAM PHILLIPS, 43905 Six Mile, BS, computer science; SHERI ROBINS, 16472 Old Bedford, BA, communication; EDMOND SWAD, 21484 Beauford Court, BA, accounting; CARRIE TODD, 23971 Woodham, BA, communication; BRUCE WILKINSON, 846 Grace, BS, mechanical engineering and GREGORY WOLFE, 19484 Inlet Court, BS, electrical engineering.

Northville resident MARK HOLLAND was among the students inducted into the Tau Beta Pi national engineering honor society at Lawrence Institute Technology.

The students enrolled in one of LIT's three engineering programs were chosen for membership on the basis of academic merit and had to meet the approval of a screening committee, the LIT engineering faculty, and the national Tau Beta Pi office. The top students in the junior year and senior classes become eligible for membership in December and May of each year.

Two Northville residents were among the students receiving degrees from the University of Detroit.

DANIEL M. MAJEWSKI, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Majewski of 21855 Connemara Drive, received a master's degree in finance. While attending U of D, Majewski was awarded a graduate fellowship in accounting.

KAREN WILEY, a Northville resident and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert McGeehan of Plymouth, received a bachelor of science degree in health services. While attending U of D, Wiley was the recipient of the Dean's Key Award.

Northville resident RANDON CHISNELL, a Schoolcraft College student, has been awarded the 1986-87 Western Michigan University Academic Scholarship.

The selection is based on a superior academic record and course selection at Schoolcraft College. In addition to its academic distinction, the award provides a $500 renewable scholarship at Western Michigan University.

MARY BETH LINCOLN, daughter of Neil and Claire Lincoln of Northville, received a master of science degree in human genetics from Sarah Lawrence College in a commencement ceremony May 23.

She has obtained a position as a genetic counselor for the University of North Carolina Obstetrics Department.

Sarah Lawrence College awarded approximately 225 bachelor of arts degrees and 50 master of arts, fine arts and science degrees to the graduating class of 1986.

Northville resident DAVID GUY SINACOLA was among the students receiving degrees from Walsh College of Accountancy and Business Administration in Troy at commencement ceremonies June 8.

Sinacola received a bachelor of business administration degree.

DEREK K. BAIR, son of Keith and Mary Ellen Bair of 21104 East Glen Haven Circle, was one of 87 graduating medical students honored at a special student recognition ceremony held by the Wright State University School of Medicine June 13.

During the ceremony, students received the traditional hoods signifying graduation from medical school. The Class of 1986 is the WSU School of Medicine's seventh graduating class.

Bair is participating in a residency program in pediatrics at the Medical College of Ohio.

DR. JONELLE DELAWRENCE, daughter of Dr. Betty Johnson and Carl Johnson of Lexington Blvd., has graduated from the residency program in Obstetrics at Gynecology at Oakwood Hospital in Dearborn.

A graduate of Michigan State University Medical School, she expects to open a practice in this area within the next few months.

KRISTIN M. NELSEN, daughter of David and Deanne Nelsen of 18238 Shadbrook, is one of 58 students inducted into Michigan State University's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Nelsen is a physiology major, has earned three varsity letters in swimming and has twice been named a scholar athlete. She plans to attend medical school.

Seniors with outstanding academic records in a broad program of demanding courses, including foreign language and mathematics, are invited to join the honorary.

Nelsen is a 1983 Northville High School graduate.

Phi Beta Kappa, the nation's oldest honorary, was founded at the College of William and Mary in 1776, with an MSU chapter chartered in 1968.

JEANNINE BERGERS of 21298 E. Farm was among 21 Michigan State University students named Outstanding Seniors of 1986 in recognition of their academic achievement, leadership, awards and honors, and overall contributions to the university.

A total of 79 graduating seniors were nominated for the award by deans, department chairpersons and student organizations.

Bergers was graduated in June with high honors.

ANTHONY MICHAEL ARMADA, son of Dr. and Mrs. Severo R. Armada, Jr. of 972 Springfield Court, was among the 237 physicians receiving diplomas from the University of Michigan Medical School last month.

The new doctors received their diplomas from Joseph E. Johnson III, M.D., dean of the Medical School, who also administered the Hippocratic Oath. William DeVries, M.D., the first surgeon to implant a permanent artificial heart in a patient, addressed the graduates on how failure in life can have positive consequences.

Armada is a 1978 University of Detroit High School graduate and a 1982 University of Michigan graduate. He attended the University of Michigan Medical School on an Air Force Health Professions Scholarship. After completing a radiology residency at Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, he will serve four years with the United States Air Force.

Northville residents JILL TOWER and DEE FRACASSI were among the 594 students awarded associate of arts degrees from Washtenaw Community College at commencement ceremonies June 19.

CHRISTINE REGAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Regan of 1020 Fairfax Court, was among the Hillsdale College students named to the dean's list for spring semester.

The dean's list, published each semester, consists of all students who attain grade-point averages of 3.4 or better out of a possible 4.0 points.

LENORE BECHTEL

MARCIA CURTIS

Bechtel goes 'head first' into diet book

With the publication of a new diet book, a former Northville reporter and her sister took on some tough competition.

Movie star James Coco, promoting his diet book on the Tonight Show, took along trousers that fit before he lost 100 pounds. In a hilarious few minutes when he and substitute host Joan Rivers rollicked on the floor trying to squeeze into the pants together, Bantam officials congratulated themselves on an assured bestseller.

So goes the continuing saga of diet books. Richard Simmons, exercise guru, skyrocketed sales of his diet book by hyping it on his own television show. Jane Fonda's name alone demands wide media coverage for her "New Workout and Weight Loss Program." Elizabeth Taylor's tale of how she transformed her body from a size 14 to a size eight is already in the news - two years prior to publication time.

Unfortunately for Lenore Bechtel and Marcia Curtis, the reading public is not so breathlessly awaiting their recently released diet book, "The Head-First Diet." Bechtel, behavior counselor and award-winning writer now living in Southfield, and Curtis, a postmaster and prize-winning cook from Winslow, Indiana, are counting on successful dieters to spread the good word about their new diet.

"Our diet is a high-fiber, nutri-

'Our diet is a high-fiber, nutritionally superior diet that works for gradual, permanent weight loss, and that's what people really want - not gimmick diets.'

— Lenore Bechtel

tionally superior diet that works for gradual, permanent weight loss, and that's what people really want - not gimmick diets," Bechtel said. "The American public is too smart to believe that eating five grapefruits a day is a good way to lose weight, and that's the nonsense-type diet publishers have been thrusting at them recently."

Bechtel and Curtis are sure that with 40 percent of the American population overweight, many will stumble upon their book and lose weight with their head-first approach. The book, subtitled "How to Lose Weight and Be Happy Not Hungry," is available in bookstores throughout Metropolitan Detroit, including Bookstall on the Main, Northville Book Exchange, Plymouth Book World and Little Book Center of Plymouth.

The approach of "The Head-First Diet" is to take your mind off food and focus on resolving the problems that cause you to overeat. The book has tear-out shopping lists and check lists so dieters can grocery shop without thinking about meal preparation.

The book features menus and original recipes for four full weeks, with particular behavior modification techniques to practice each day. "It takes 20 consecutive days for your subconscious to accept any new habit," Bechtel explained. "Without that repetition, your subconscious will go right back to its old fattening eating practices. That's why we have a day-by-day plan to reprogram the subconscious."

How did sisters separated by 300 miles happen to write "The Head-First Diet?" The nutritional research started when Curtis resolved to control her husband's pre-diabetic condition with nutrition. The resulting recipes not only controlled his medical problems without the insulin doctors had predicted, they also took 28 pounds off of Bechtel's husband.

At the same time Bechtel was program developer for a hypnosis center, researching the mysteries of the subconscious mind. The sisters decided they should pool their talents and combine the best of nutrition with the best of behavior modification for the best diets.

The authors are gathering success stories, which they hope will get their book the kind of attention automatically lavished upon their movie star competitors.

"The book has been out less than month and we've already received a thank-you note from a woman who lost 15 pounds to look better for her daughter's wedding," Bechtel said. "Six of her friends sent orders for the book."

After Bechtel conducts a "Head-First Dieting" seminar for Plymouth YMCA in the fall, she expects area residents to provide more evidence of the diet's validity. Seminar participants will start the diet after the first session and lose eight to 12 pounds before the third and last session.

"People can lose weight happily, not hungrily," Bechtel explained. "That's what makes this diet great!"

Meads students receive many awards

Meads Mill Middle School students received many awards for achievement during the 1985-86 school year.

Northwestern University sponsored the Midwest Talent Search. Students given awards in this category must have achieved a percentile score of 95 percent or higher on a recent achievement test in the areas of math, verbal or non-verbal.

Northville Tenth Annual Folk and Bluegrass Festival

Roy McGinnis & the Sunnysiders

While their roots are in West Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee, for 20 years, leader-vocalist Roy McGinnis, fiddler V.E. Idney (right), guitarist Richard MacIntosh, banjoist Paul Boyd and string bassist Bo Kazy have made a Michigan home for their renowned brand of pure — and sunny — bluegrass. The group has shared stages with Bill Monroe and the Stanley Brothers and has recorded six singles and seven albums.

Reel Happy String Band

This year's festival headliners are Detroit-based Dan Cantwell, Kim Dominick, Jerry Castle, Gary Reynolds and Bob Miller, a quintet of multi-instrumentalists who can fire up an Irish jig, a bluegrass ditty or an old jazz classic with the same spirit and polish. The RHSB is a regular favorite Sunday afternoons at the Novi Sheraton.

Mustards Retreat

Ann Arbor-based David Tamulevich and Michael Hough, together known inexplicably as Mustards Retreat, are one of Michigan's most popular acoustic music duos. Featuring material as spare as &capella two-part harmony to virtuosic duets on guitar, harmonica, bass, penny whistle, dulcimer, concertina and autoharp, their music touches many bases.

Neil Woodward

Neil Woodward is known to local music-lovers and musicians as a master player and instructor of stringed instruments. But in addition to his dexterity on guitar, mandolin, fiddle, banjo, dulcimer and yes, balalaika, Woodward is an accomplished singer and songwriter. His heart belongs to the blues, but Woodward in performance showcases a wide range of original and traditional music.

Phoenix

For eight years, Northville's annual folk festival has served as a yearly reunion for guitarists Matt Watroba and Chris Davio and vocalist Ann Anthony — and each time they've appeared, the Plymouth trio's sparkling vocal harmony on standards and obscure tunes alike has made them a festival favorite.

Song Sisters (Children's Show)

Chris Ritter and Footloose vocalist Julie Austin team up for a show that's geared for kids from pre-primary to eighth grade. "Everything we do is very interactive," says Chris, and indeed, children are invited to sing, dance and even learn a little bit about music with the "sisters."

Bobby Lewis, Mike Irish, Dave Eversole & Teresa Smith

What multi-instrumentalist-vocalist Bobby Lewis, guitarist-vocalist Mike Irish, bassist Dave Eversole and vocalist Teresa Smith are all about is harmony and energetic semi-acoustic music, with an emphasis on nimble pickings and all-around good vibes. One of the favorites at last year's festival.

Hot Grass

Based around Pontiac, Hot Grass last April won the Michigan Marlboro Country Music Roundup even though mandolinian Steve Olive, banjoist David Boesen, string bass ace Cathy Boesen and guitarist Brad Fuller's ensemble specialty is first-rate bluegrass. They played to a sold-out Joe Louis Arena in Detroit last May in a country festival featuring Merle Haggard, Ricky Skaggs and Hank Williams, Jr.

Joe McKinney & North-South Connection

Augmented recently by bassist Gary Ritter, one of the music instructors at The Citifiddler Music Store in Northville, Joe McKinney and the North-South Connection get their name and style by weaving the country influences of their members. Nashville's Teresa Lillis, the bluegrass connection of McKinney and banjoist Lee Kaufman, plus Ritter's contemporary electric bass for an engaging mix of styles.

Footloose

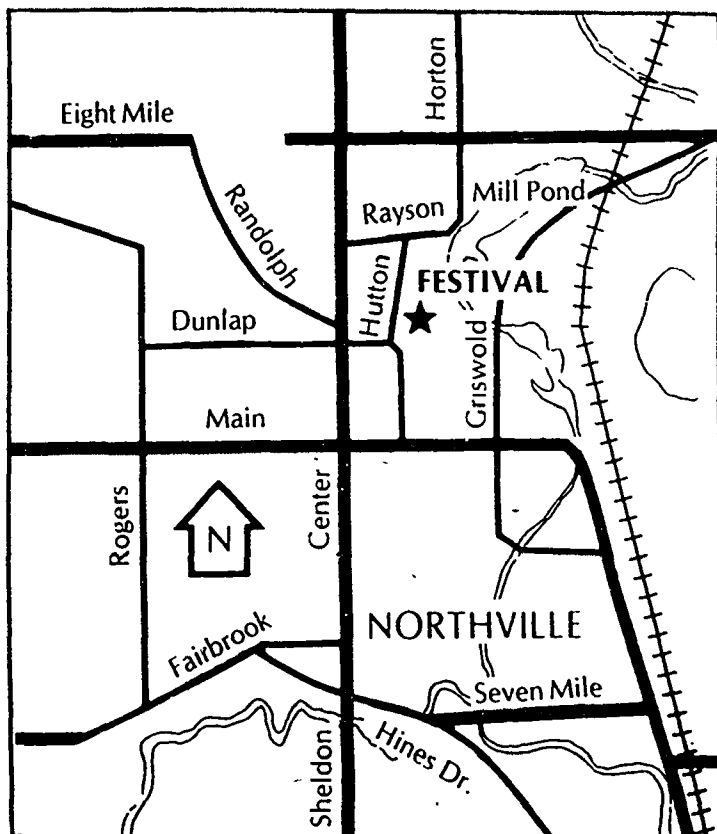

One of the most successful acoustic music ensembles on the southeast Michigan circuit, with recordings and prestigious bookings under their collective belt, the versatile and virtuosic Footloose — Julie Austin, Gary Reynolds, Dave Crandall, Bill Barton and Myron Grant — keep the music lively whether playing bluegrass, folk, blues, jazz and/or everything in between.

Minimum donation (proceeds to combat Huntington's Disease) is $5, $2 for senior citizens, $1 for children under 12; infants held in arms are free. For more information, phone The Citifiddler Music Store, Northville, at 349-9420.

Welcome

"Huntington's Disease is a killer, and people who drop by for the tenth annual day of fun and outstanding music on Sunday, July 27, at Northville's Ford Field will be helping to fight this dread disease.

Proceeds from the festival will be donated toward research seeking a cure for Huntington's, a genetic disease which strikes down people in the prime of their lives. We've been quite successful in raising over $30,000 annually. We'd like to match that figure at this tenth annual event.

"We invite everyone to bring their families and friends to enjoy the outstanding talent and benefit a very worthy cause.

"Seating is on the lawn, so bring your blankets and lawn chairs. Food and beverages will be available at the site with all proceeds going to the Committee to Combat Huntington's Disease.

"It's a festive atmosphere with a growing reputation for quality music and a good time for all. Everyone is welcome to stay until the last chord is strummed."

HUNTINGTON'S DISEASE affects as many as 10 of every 100,000 persons, but the lack of reliable figures may mask an even greater incidence than is now known. Every son or daughter of a parent with HD has a 50 percent chance of inheriting it.

To find out more about HD and how you can help the fight against it, write to: Huntington's Disease Foundation of America, Michigan Chapter, c/o Jerry Wieske, 107 Mark Drive, Mt. Clemens, MI 48043.
