Clerks report low primary voter turnout

Area election officials were calling it "a slow day at the polls" yesterday as light turnouts were reported between 7 a.m. and 4 p.m. Usually, it was noted, however, there is a surge about dinner hour as workers vote on returning home.

Even with three millages on the ballot two police renewals totaling 2.2 mills and a fire station request for .6 mill in Northville Township, clerk Georgina Goss said that her preelec-tion prediction of a 35 percent turnout was closer to 16 percent at 4 p.m. Twelve percent of the 9,397 registered voters in the township voted absentee ballots.

In the city, clerk Cathy Konrad said there had been a total of 400 voters at the two precincts during the day with no lines. She had received 175 absentee ballots, about the same number, she said, as in the 1982 election. The city has 4,613 registered voters in two counties, almost evenly divided with 2,275 registered voters in Wayne County and 2,338 in Oakland.

Clerks in Plymouth also reported low turnouts. Only Livonia whose mayor, Edward McNamara, is a favorite in the race for Wayne County Executive, reported a heavy turnout.

Northville Township Supervisor Susan J. Heintz said she was "disappointed" by the apparent low turnout. Heintz who is running for 10th District Wayne County Commissioner had spent the early part of the day campaigning in key Livonia precincts.

Despite the low turnouts, election officials throughout the area said they expected returns to be late because of having to use paper ballots in many instances, for precinct delegate selections, in addition to machines or punch cards for county-wide and local races.

Township millages pass

The following are the unofficial election results as of 11:30 p.m. Tuesday:

Northville Township millages — Police renewal .7 mills, YES, 1,339, no, 674; police renewal 1.5 mills, YES, 1,147, no, 805; fire .6 mill, YES, 1,139, no, 799.

Wayne County Commissioner 10th District returns were incomplete and too close to call at 11:30 p.m. with Plymouth Township not counted and Heintz campaign workers expecting her to do well there: Susan J. Heintz, 3,970, Lawrence Schweiger, 1,579, Elaine Tuttle, 4,051.

State Senate 6th District, Democratic primary, Scott Bassett, 1,789, THOMAS H. HEALY, 2,844.

The Record will carry official returns next week.

School site may have new tenant

By MICHELE M. FECHT

The Northville Public Schools may have a new tenant for its Main Street facility following recent negotiations with the Department of Natural Resources.

School Superintendent George Bell said he met with state officials last week to discuss leasing the first two floors of the building.

"Definite plans are there," Bell said, noting that while details of the agreement have not been ironed out the district is looking at a maximum three-year lease on the Main Street site.

"I'm concerned about the potential growth in the area," Bell noted. "I didn't want to ask the (school) board for a commitment much more than three years."

The district has been awaiting word from the DNR about a possible lease agreement since early July when state officials toured the site. With the start of the school year quickly approaching, the superintendent said he contacted the Department of Management and Budget a few weeks ago to "try and bring it to closure."

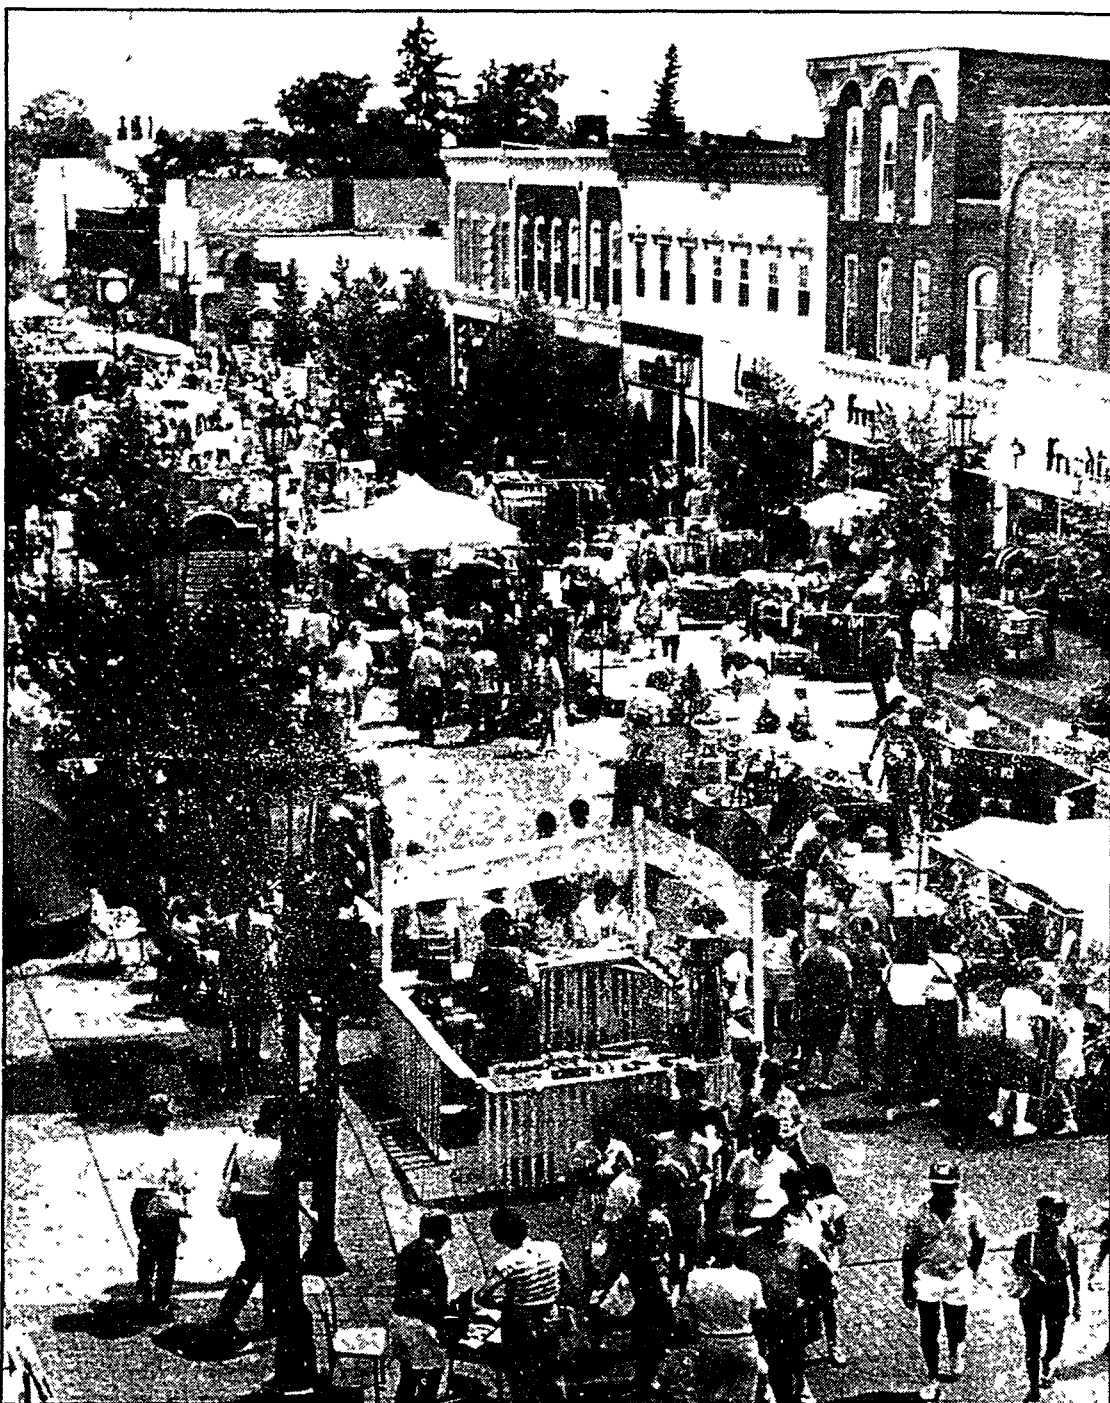

The Main Street facility would house the DNR's Southeast Michigan Field Office, currently located in the Howe Building on the former Plymouth Center for Human Development site. With plans calling for the DNR to occupy only the first two floors of the building, the district's administrative offices will remain on the third floor.

Bell said that following last week's discussion, the two parties are tentatively looking at an October 1 move-in date.

"Our main concern is school district functions," Bell noted, adding that the district will not be able to move its operations out of the first two floors until staff returns from summer vacation later this month.

Though the district moved its maintenance operations to the Cooke facility at the close of the school year in June, several departments still are

Bargain days

Arts, crafts and antiques booths as well as summer bargains from tables of local merchants drew daylong crowds to the annual downtown merchants' sidewalk sale last Saturday. The event started Friday with merchants' displays and continued Saturday. Scott Lapham, chamber president, reported the merchants and craftsmen said they "did very well" as it was a buying crowd — until the storm Saturday afternoon literally blew-away the sale.

Police, staff examine death at state hospital

A state police investigation and a separate administrative investigation by Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital staff are continuing into the death of a 25-year-old patient at the hospital, who died July 30, three days after reportedly drinking a half gallon of a highly toxic cleaning solution.

State Police Sgt. Wayne Bullen said Monday the state police were "not anticipating" filing criminal charges, although there was a possibility that the hospital might file disciplinary charges against some hospital staff members. Bullen said no evidence of misconduct had been found.

Dr. Robert Brown, NRPH director, said he anticipated his investigation would be completed "by the middle of next week."

However, concerns still remain over how the patient, Ronald Doll, who reportedly was under one-on-one supervision and under restraints at the time of the incident, managed to drink any portion of the cleaning solvent.

Reportedly the solvent, which contained some of the chemicals used in "germ warfare," was in an unmarked container. No trace of the container which Doll drank from has been found.

Bullen refused to speculate how Doll obtained the solution, nor would he speculate on the outcome of the state police investigation.

He did say, however, that the state police post was not notified by the psychiatric hospital, but instead was called by St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, where Doll was taken. Brown disputed that information, saying that hospital records show hospital officials did notify the state police as well as poison control in Ann Arbor. "It is policy that the state police be notified in an incident like this," Brown said.

Bullen said that being called by St.

Kimery funeral today

Funeral service for Northville resident Sharon Kimery, 19, is scheduled at 1 p.m. today at Roberts Park United Methodist Church in Indianapolis, Ind.

Kimery, the daughter of Don and Barbara (Braden) Kimery of Northville Township, was found dead July 31 in Richmond, Ind.

Captain J.P. Lantz of the Richmond Police Department said Friday that two teenagers discovered Kimery's body in an abandoned building about one-half mile from Erlham College, where the former Northville resident was working.

Lantz said the death still is under investigation, and he expected an autopsy report to be released sometime this week.

Born July 23, 1967, Kimery moved to Northville with her family in 1975.

A 1985 graduate of Leelanau High School in Glen Arbor, she was active in both soccer and softball. She recently had completed her freshman year at Erlham College.

She was a member of Northville First United Methodist Church and the Roberts Parks United Methodist Church in Indianapolis.

In addition to her parents, Kimery is survived by her grandmother Myrtle Braden, her sister Tami and her brother Roger.

Dr. Howard Wright, district superintendent for United Methodist Churches in Indianapolis, will officiate at today's service. Burial will be at Asbury Cemetery in Morristown, Ind.

The family suggests memorials be made to First United Methodist Church of Northville.

Developer unveils plans for bed-and-breakfast hotel

By ANITA CRONE

Although City Council Monday left no doubt that its main concern was the building of the Main-Center project by Equity Advance, the civic body gave its approval to help with funding for a proposed 40-room residential bed-and-breakfast style hotel in the city.

Telling developer Gregory Presley that it was not possible to approve a tax abatement, since that type of concession has expired, the council nevertheless approved a plan whereby it announced its intention to provide another form of assistance, possibly in the form of a parking credit, which would equal a tax abatement.

That move, Presley said, would enable him to begin to seek financing for the project, which is expected to be in construction early next spring.

Under terms of a proposal outlined to council, Presley noted that the hotel would have 40 guest rooms, two lower-level meeting rooms for 35-50 people, catered space for group luncheons, dinners or special events and retail space for crafts or a bakery.

Presley said the concept for the hotel would mix the intimacy of a European hotel with the convenience of a Bed and Breakfast facility. He said current plans called for the facility to include breakfast service in the $65 room rate and added "there was a possibility of lunch service. But certainly, we have no plans to serve dinners, except for special events."

In agreeing to promise some sort of tax relief, council members expressed some hesitation as to wording, since tax abatements are no longer being granted.

In addition, Steven Walters, city manager, noted the possibility of problems regarding parking for the facility. Both Presley and Walters had met with neighboring merchants regarding the potential parking pro-

NEWS BRIEFS

RICHARD DeNOMME will be in Amish country this weekend as a participant in the 24th annual Pletcher Village Art Festival being held Thursday through Sunday at historic Amish Acres in Nappanee, Ind.

The Highland Lakes resident is among 250 artists from the midwest area invited to participate in the working festival designed around the Amish heritage and folk art. Silversmiths, weavers, silhouette cutters, portrait artists, wood carvers and dollmakers will be working to the twang of dulcimers and banjos.

U.S. REP. CARL PURSELL, R-Plymouth, joined with more than 100 other U.S. Congressmen in attending funeral services for the late George O'Brien, R-Ill.

O'Brien's death moves Pursell one step closer to becoming the highest ranking Republican on the House Labor, Health and Human Services Subcommittee. Currently, Pursell is second only to ranking minority member Rep. Silvio Conte of Massachusetts on the subcommittee.

LOUISE CUTLER, a licensed realtor with James C. Cutler Realty and real estate seminar speaker, has been selected Member of the Year for Michigan by the Professional Speakers Association of Michigan. She has a nice plaque presented July 19 in Lansing.

She will be attending the meeting of the National Speakers Association in Phoenix. Cutler is a board member of Western Wayne and Oakland boards of realtors and of Metro Multilist.

RICHARD I. HUSTON of Northville, director of personnel services for Ford Motor Company, has been elected to serve a three year term on the board of directors of the Southeastern Chapter of the American Red Cross.

CITY COUNCIL has rescheduled its September meetings to give members the chance to celebrate Labor Day. Instead of meeting Sept. 1 and Sept. 15, as scheduled, the council will meet at 8 p.m. Sept. 8 and Sept. 22.

THE ANNUAL KIDS' party at Northville Swim Club last week ended a half-hour earlier than scheduled. The planned water "wrestle" with a greased watermelon (which was to conclude the games) had to be abandoned after one of the assisting mothers, not realizing the intended use for the green melon, thought she was helping when she sliced it.

CITY COUNCIL resembled nothing so much as a disabled list Monday night. Mayor Paul Vernon is recovering from surgery and missed the meeting; Mayor Pro-Tem Dewey Gardner was nursing the flu; and Council member John Buckland had thrown his back out of whack. No doctors were in attendance.

BONNIE McINTOSH was among participants at the 31st annual Piano Teachers Conference at Michigan State University July 24-25. The Northville piano teacher became a student under concert pianist-composer Seymour Bernstein and MSU piano department chairperson Deborah Moriarty.

Designed for teaching professionals, the workshop included jazz piano and teaching techniques for young children.

Although Little Caesar's restaurant is closed, plans are in the works to build a new carry-out near the site

Commision slows Little Caesar's plans

A request for Northville Township Planning Commission approval for new development in Highland Lakes Shopping Center, including a new Little Caesar's carryout restaurant on the site, was turned down July 29.

The action on the Seven Mile shopping center proposal was taken, not because the planning commission did not agree with the project, but because the site plans presented did not match the actual building on the site.

The denial, however, did not stop the placement of a sign on the shopping center property, alerting passersby that a new Little Caesar's was "coming soon."

It had not been long since the original Little Caesar's was closed. Larry Sheehan, a planning commissioner and owner of Sheehan's restaurant, said he had sold his franchise back to the parent company just one week before Little Caesar's and the shopping center developer came before the planning commission. There was a Little Caesar's located next to Sheehan's until the sale was finalized.

Noting that the request was atypical because it called for an addition to an existing building, Deborah Meyer Bobowski, representing Vilcan Leman & Associates, the township's planning consultant, said her firm had difficulty in making a recommendation to the commission since "the configuration of the Michigan National Bank Building on the blueprints did not match the actual building on the site."

The problems with the development were further compounded by the existence of a consent judgment, obtained by the shopping center developers against the planning commission in 1979, which planning commissioners questioned whether was still enforceable under the Phase 5 plans for the shopping center.

Phase 5 development calls for a 4,800 square foot structure to be built in front of the current shopping center. Floor plans indicate the building would have four retail spaces.

Noting that he had sold his interest in the Little Caesar's franchise recently, Sheehan said, "I know the developers are anxious to get started." He asked if it would be possible to give a preliminary approval and deal with the questions brought by the planning consultants and the engineering consultants when final site plan approval was sought.

However, Sheehan voted with the rest of the planning commissioners to table the request until the blueprints would agree with the actual on-site facilities.

North Beacon Woods homes fail inspections

While S & S Homes, developers of North Beacon Woods subdivision say they are "proceeding with business as normal," five of the seven residences on which inspections for a permanent certificate of occupancy were requested failed to achieve that level.

The subdivision homeowners, many of whom are occupying their houses under a temporary certificate of occupancy, had twice approached the township board of trustees for help in getting problems they contend they have with the developer resolved.

However, some progress has been made. For one thing, S & S Homes has a full-time crew in the subdivision working just on repairs. For another, the township building department no longer is issuing temporary occupancy permits.

Although Bill Spagnoli, S & S vice president, said he was aware of the complaints against his firm, he said that none of the homes in the subdivision was "unsafe or uninhabitable." He added that of the 160 houses built, only "a small percentage of homeowners seem to be having problems and some of those problems are not the fault of the builder."

Spagnoli said also that each resident signed an agreement with S & S noting that warranty repairs did not have to be completed until the time the warranty expired, usually one year after occupancy.

"A lot of the problems people are complaining about are cosmetic. Maybe a grading wasn't completed; maybe a door is scratched. But sometimes, the problem occurs when an outside person — maybe a carpet layer — scratches a wall or a door while doing his work, and we cannot be responsible for that," Spagnoli said.

He added that repair work is ongoing in the subdivision, but the work is being done in the order requests are received by the company.

Noting that the building business is "booming," Spagnoli said his company was "having difficulty" getting tradespeople to work on repairs.

"Everyone is busy now. We are getting the work done as quickly as we can," he said.

Court sets Aug. 29 hearing on prison

By ANITA CRONE

A hearing on a lawsuit by the township, seeking to prohibit the Michigan Department of Corrections from moving prisoners into Scott Regional Prison prior to the facility being made safe, has been postponed until Aug. 29.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to the postponement Friday prior to a scheduled hearing in front of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer.

The suit, filed against the Department of Corrections and the individual department commissioners, and the new warden of the facility, John Jabe, sought a temporary and permanent injunction to halt moving prisoners into the facility until such time as the cell block portion of the prison is completed and the entire prison site secured against escape.

The township also contends that the law, signed July 21, was unconstitutional.

Although the prison was not scheduled to open until November, Gov. James Blanchard's signature on a bill allowed the corrections department temporarily to double-bunk prisoners as well as to make use of the still uncompleted facility to ease prison overcrowding.

Gail Light, a spokesperson for the corrections department, said it was her understanding "about 250 prisoners would be housed in the common areas at Scott." She did not give a specific date as to when the prisoners would move onto the site.

However, under terms agreed to by Ernest Essad, attorney for the township, and Martin Vittands, assistant attorney general, representing the state, the corrections department will not move any prisoners onto the site until Aug. 29.

"One of the reasons we consented to the postponement was that the prison was not yet ready for occupancy," Vittands said. "We are very hopeful that it will be ready by the date of the hearing, and there is a good chance that the concerns of Northville Township will be met by that time."

Vittands added that he saw much of the problem to be a "lack of communication between the corrections department and the township" and disputed the claim that the law signed by the governor was unconstitutional.

"Our position is that the law is not only constitutional, but it is necessary," Vittands said.

He added that the ultimate decision as to when, if ever, the prisoners would be moved to Scott rests with the office of Dan Bolden, assistant director of the corrections department. However, he said, the decision would not be made in a vacuum.

"John Jabe, the new warden, and the corrections department officials are on top of the situation. I don't think that the guards would stand for being moved onto the site if they did not think the facility was safe," Vittands said.

In the suit, the township noted that the perimeter fence around the prison was not complete, that windows were not barred and that the corrections department would be unable to prevent mingling of construction workers on the site and prison inmates.

Demolition scheduled

Oak Park is expected to ask for a demolition permit within the next two weeks, the first step toward actual construction of the Main-Center project in downtown Northville.

Kevin Callahan, president of Equity Advance, developers of the residential-retail center on the corner of Main and Center streets said Tuesday he was "optimistic" the demolition of the bowling alley on the site could be completed by the end of August and that groundbreaking on the new construction could begin by mid-September.

Callahan said Parliament, which will be doing the actual construction on the building, estimated to cost about $6.6 million, plans to use precast concrete which will enable workers to continue building on the site through the winter months.

"We hope to have the retail tenants in place by next summer," Callahan said. He would not detail the list of tenants committed to the project.

Casting a spell over audience

Cast members of Hansel and Gretel and the Golden Petticoat, now playing Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays at the Marquis Theatre through Aug. 28 greet youngsters in the audience prior to the performance. The Cuckoo, Christina Zayti of Northville, and witch, Joyce Uzelac watch Gretel, Tracy Wint of Northville, take a ticket from Rachel Baker, Kristen Winter and Mathew Carrol prior to Saturday's matinee. The play's plot incorporates the story of Hansel and Gretel with some literary license — a golden petticoat the witch has stolen and used to turn Hansel and Gretel's mother into a cuckoo and a good fairy into a tree. While the play is designed to delight children of all ages, it is especially fun for youngsters from 3-6. The matinees last about 45 minutes and as a special treat, the cast members mingle in the Marquis lobby with the audience to prove once again that not every witch stays bad for long and everything works out in the end.

Applicant screening will take place from 6:30-9:30 p.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12, at the Orchard Ridge Campus' Tirrell Hall.

For further information, contact Chef Kevin Enright, OCC Apprentice Coordinator, at 471-7779 or 471-7785.

Fun on Wheels

The Northville Skateboard Street Contest drew 34 competitors from as far away as Detroit and another 250 or so spectators last Saturday in the parking lot of Northville High School.

According to contest organizer Traci Johnson of the Northville Rec Center, the event was very successful. "It turned out great," Johnson reported. "We're already planning on running another one Sept. 27 because of the great turnout and enthusiasm we saw on Saturday."

"Some of the kids came out to watch and, after seeing a few routines, were ready to get in there and compete. They were saying, 'I can do that.' I think the next one will be twice as big."

The contest was sponsored by the Rec Center, Town and Country Cyclery and Easy Rider Bike Shop and, Johnson reports, the shops already have offered to sponsor the upcoming event this fall. Here is a list of the top three finishers in each of the four age categories:

12 and Under: 1. Kevin Zielke, Canton; 2. Harold Sackey, Livonia; 3. Joel Luther, Northville.

13-15: 1. Eugene Ficyk, Northville; 2. Paul Ebner, Livonia; 3. Andy Tomaselli, Livonia.

16-17: 1. Scott Breazeale, Canton; 2. Toby Balai, Northville; 3. Brad Richards, Livonia.

18 and Over: 1. Ron Arsenault, Livonia; 2. Bob Riney, Northville; 3. Steve Bock, Dearborn.

Right: During warm-ups, Bob Riney (near left) avoids a collision with Scott Kubit by pulling his 'board' out from under his feet. Riney was a little too close to Kubit as they went off the ramp at almost the same time. The two 18-year-olds both reside in Northville.

Right: Paul Ebner rides his skateboard sideways over a parking block for a string of onlookers.

State panel gets guided Western Wayne prison tour

By ANITA CRONE

Despite giving officials at Western Wayne Correctional Facility plenty of advance notice that he would be touring the medium security prison, State Sen. Robert Welborn, R-Kalamazoo, said he found the 50-year-old prison to be "one of the poorest facilities" in the state.

"I think the state bought a pig in a poke," Welborn said, referring to the sale of the former Detroit House of Corrections to the state for a prison site.

Welborn cited problems with sanitation as well as with the actual facility, noting that trays used in the kitchen were cracked and broken and that, when it rained, the land beneath the security fence washed away, possibly allowing prisoners the opportunity to walk away from the prison site.

Welborn said the trays used at the facility were similar to the insulated trays, which cost $50 each, used to feed prisoners in confinement at the southern Michigan Prison at Jackson. "At Jackson, though, only prisoners unable to come to the dining areas use those trays. At Western Wayne, apparently everyone uses them," Welborn said.

"The problem with the fence is something the prisoners told me about," Welborn noted, adding that he was informed thus far no prisoner had tried to use that as a means to escape.

Jack Welborn
State Senator

"I'm not normally a prisoners' rights advocate," Welborn said, adding, however, he was certainly considering requests by prisoners that they have something to do.

"Seeing the condition of the prison, I don't find it at all unreasonable that prisoners could be given pails of paint or buckets of water to help clean up the prison," he said.

While the senator said he was in the process of reviewing information gathered during his 2½ tour of the facility July 30, he was also investigating the "probability of a second, unannounced tour of the site" as soon as his schedule permitted.

Welborn is touring each of Michigan's prisons and noted that with the exception of the facilities in the southeastern portion of the state, his visits are nearly complete.

He said that, while Western Wayne is overcrowded, the problem with overcrowding is nowhere near the problems in other state facilities.

Accompanying Welborn on the tour was Northville Township Manager Bruno Scacchiti, State Rep. Justine Barns, D-Westland, Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen and a representative from State Rep. Gerald Law's, R-Plymouth, office.

Although Welborn's office had earlier approved the media accompanying him on the tour, when The Record and representatives from WJBK-TV and WXYZ-TV arrived at the prison, the media persons were informed they would not be allowed to accompany the group through the prison.

Homeowners air concerns over rezoning proposal

It is apparent residents who live near Five Mile and Haggerty roads do not want any type of multiple housing development for a neighbor.

A number of homeowners told the township planning commission during a public hearing July 29 that the main reason they bought their property was that it was "out in the country" and they did not want the commission to rezone the property from single family to multiple.

Although a member of the Manoogian family, owners of the property, was not in the audience to answer concerns expressed by residents, Jack Zelazny, an architect, said current plans call for 120 units to be built on the site.

"At this time, we are looking at private ownership for the units," Zelazny said, trying to appease the concerns of the neighbors.

The main concerns centered around capacity of the current sewer system, as well as access to the site.

"I don't want to be charged again for sewers if the current system can handle sewage but an increase in use would require a new system to be built," said Gerald Raymond, who said he owned four lots and two houses which would abut the proposed multiple development.

But trustee liaison Richard Allen told Raymond that any new sewer would be charged to the developer, rather than current residents.

The proposed project would encompass 17 acres, and current plans allow a 25-foot height limit for construction. An additional three acres on the site would include a retail center, the preliminary site plans of which were approved by the planning commission during its regular meeting.

Commissioner Larry Sheehan noted that, if the rezoning were approved, it still did not give the developer carte blanche to use the property as he wished.

"He still must come before the planning commission with site plans before any building could begin," Sheehan said.

His comments did little to appease the anxious homeowners.

"I looked at the master plan before I bought out here," said Andy Weinrauch, "and there was no multiple zoning when I bought. If the planning commission approves this rezoning, the next thing to go will be the golf course, and then who knows."

But commission chairperson Pat Wright told the group that she thought a multiple development could "serve as a buffer between planned office development and single-family homes."

"It's a way of protecting the land values," she said.

The commission took no action on the zoning request, but did indicate it was possible some action would be taken at the next planning commission meeting, scheduled for Aug. 26.

Heintz tops candidate spending list

Although Susan Heintz has outspent her opponents for the 10th District Wayne County Commission seat by more than $5,000, she has also raised much more money than either Elaine Tuttle or Lawrence Schweiger.

According to preliminary funding reports filed last week, Heintz has raised $15,641 and spent $7,923 through July 20.

Much of Heintz's funding has come from individual contributors;

however, nine contributors donated more than $275.

The largest donation came from John Runco, owner of Auntie Pasta's, who gave $600 to Heintz's campaign. Lobbyist James Karoub, Nate Shapero, Joe Speiser and Joseph Hartmann, owner of Commuter Transportation Co., each donated $500 to the campaign.

"What we figured was that the average contribution was $46," Heintz said.

Heintz also received a $100 donation from U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who has endorsed her candidacy and a $25 contribution from Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, a candidate for Wayne County executive.

In contrast, Tuttle has financed her own campaign, loaning herself $1,515. Schweiger has spent less than $500 on his campaign and is not required to file a report.

Although Heintz's fundraising effort appears impressive, it still is more than $4,000 short of the $19,495 raised by Katherine L. Barnhart, a county commission candidate from Grosse Pointe Farms. Barnhart, vying for the seat currently held by John Hertel, has raised $19,495 and spent $18,000 of that. Claude Rich, another 1st District candidate from Grosse Pointe Woods, has raised $17,880 and had spent $15,000 of that by the reporting deadline.

In memoriam

Because Charles J. Marino, who died July 26 at age 59, loved horses, his family paid a final tribute to him by having his body taken by horse-drawn hearse from the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home to Our Lady of Victory Church for services July 29, at right, and then to Rural Hill Cemetery. The procession is shown slowly entering the cemetery, below right. Mr. Marino was founder and president of Exotic Rubber and Plastics Company and also of CJM Farms of Northville, a morgan horse farm. The Riddle funeral coach, built in 1858, was restored by R.G. and G.R. Harris Funeral Home and was driven by Tom Rost of the funeral home and by Al Schuchmann, owner of the horses. Mr. Marino's grandson, Jason Marino, pictured below, watches the proceedings with pallbearers.

Developer unveils B&B plans

blems, but came away with different ideas on responses from the neighbors.

Walters said he thought the merchants agreed in concept that the B&B would be a good idea but seemed unwilling to give away parking slots allotted to their businesses.

Presley said it was his understanding that the neighboring merchants would be "agreeable to allowing the hotel to use their parking spaces for overnight parking."

Mayor Pro-Tem Dewey Gardner, however, noted that it would be "unwise" for city council to act on the B&B proposal until after plans for Main-Center were presented to the council.

"That's a $6-$8 million project, and we are not yet sure what concessions the developers of that project are going to want from the city," Gardner said, adding that he and Walters had met with the Main-Center developers.

Presley, however, seemed happy with the promise from the council to work with him in promoting the B&B, to be located at the intersection of Main and Griswold streets. The city currently owns the property; however, Presley has made an offer to purchase half of the city-owned lot for $64,000. The remainder of the lot would be used for parking.

Presley estimated that it would take six months to have final approval for financing; however, he and his wife, Lois, have gone ahead with conceptual ideas for the facility.

Presley said he expected the hotel project to employ 23 persons, including 13 staff members and two administrators for the hotel, four part-time employees to handle the retail portion of the project and four part-time people to be involved with the catering.

He said he expected the hotel to be aimed at serving the business traveler, with a concierge service and business suites, as well as weekend tourist packages available.

The hotel, once completed, would offer individually-decorated rooms as well as suites with special comfort features and breakfast and tea would be served.

Already, Presley noted, there is talk about special events being run from the facility, including a folk concert series run by the Giltfiddler. There are also plans for a retail gourmet food store open to the public and hotel guests, as well as a physical fitness center for guests.

Northrop announces partnership formation

Ross B. Northrop Jr., owner and director of the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral homes in old Redford and Northville, announces the formation of a partnership in the firm. John B. Sassaman is Northrop's new partner.

Sassaman was born in Allentown, Pa., and moved to the Detroit area in 1956. He was graduated from Grosse Pointe High School and majored in business administration at Oakland University. He also attended and was graduated from the Wisconsin Institute Mortuary School in Milwaukee.

Sassaman, 41, lives in Plymouth with his wife, Carol, and their two children, Kelsey and Joseph. He is a member of the Lions Club of Plymouth-Northville, the Plymouth B.P.O.E. and also of the Edison Institute.

His experience includes six years at the Schrader Funeral Home in Plymouth and 15 years at Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe.

The new partner of the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Directors comments, "This is the fulfillment of a lifelong dream. The standards set by Mr. Northrop for quality service will be maintained and increased by my own experience in the funeral industry."

JOHN B. SASSAMAN

Northrop Jr., still affiliated with the firm, says he is elated about the addition of a partner, noting, "We are welcoming John and his family as partners in our firm. John's 23 years of dedication to funeral service further enhances our tradition of 76 years of caring and quality service to our many friends and clients in the area."

DNR negotiates for room in school

housed on the first two floors of the building. Aside from the school district's operations, others using the Main Street site include the Northville Area Senior Citizens' Center, Northville Cooperative Preschool and Creative Day Nursery.

Karl Peters, coordinator of the Northville Senior Citizens Advisory Council, said he has met with school officials about moving the senior citizens center to the former Cooke Junior High facility.

"They've already shown us some of the rooms," Peters noted, adding that he has indicated an interest in using the former cafeteria as a possible location for seniors' activities.

"It's a great place," he said of the Cooke facility. "It's big enough that we would be able to expand our program."

Noting that the current facility is open only two days a week, Peters said he is hoping the new site will offer more opportunities for area senior citizens.

Noting that approximately 99 percent of the senior citizens regularly participating in activities at the center drive to the Main Street site, Peters said he did not believe the new location would pose a transportation problem.

"It's just as easy to drive to Cooke," he noted. "We also have a bus that can take them."

Mary Reece of Northville Cooperative Preschool said members are scheduled to meet with the superintendent this week to discuss arrangements for moving the preschool to the Moraine Early Childhood Development Center this fall.

The superintendent said the administration assured the Northville

Co-op Preschool that space would be available elsewhere in the district should the district reach agreement with the DNR for leasing the former elementary school.

However, Creative Day Nursery, a three-year tenant at Main Street, will cease to operate in Northville.

Elaine Savola, director of Creative Day, said she has not been able to locate another site in the Northville area since receiving word that space no longer is available at Main Street.

She said she is considering possibly operating the preschool out of her home in Canton.

Area Lutherans attend Synod meet

Local Lutherans were among the 1,100 voting delegates making decisions for the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, during the 26 million-member body's convention in Indianapolis July 18-25.

Rev. Thomas M. Lubeck, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville, and Norman Roller, a member of Christ our Savior Lutheran Church in Livonia, were pastoral and lay delegates voting on resolutions and electing top officials of North America's second largest Lutheran body.

Re-elected to a third term as president of the church was Dr. Ralph A. Bohmann of St. Louis. Dr. August A. Mennicke of Brainerd, Minn. was elected first vice president.

A "year of the family" was established for 1988, acknowledging the need to minister to people affected by divorce and child abuse, among other situations, Pastor Lubeck reported.

Delegates also decided to intensify efforts to curb pornography. That resolution urges congregations to withdraw support from products and retailers involved in pornographic or violent material and to express outrage to legislators and other authorities.

Autonomous church body status was granted to Canadian districts of the synod and to its Argentine District.

The congregation also reaffirmed the church position of allowing congregations to grant women's suffrage in church assemblies and resolved to affirm its practice of "close communion" in which the sacraments usually are reserved for synod members.

More than 100 resolutions considered by the convention fell into seven categories — mission and outreach, congregational ministries, theology and church relations, goals and resources, leadership and organization, higher education and human care.

In mission and outreach, delegates set a goal of establishing 900 new congregations during the next three years and emphasized the multicultural awareness and the role of lay persons in ministry.

Local chainsaw sculptor puts life into dead wood

By VICKI GRICE

The Chainsaw Man of Michigan has struck again, this time at the Glenhurst Golf Course in Livonia.

Northville resident Kenneth D. Boshell is the celebrated chainsaw sculptor of southeastern Michigan. A self-proclaimed tree doctor, he works under the title of Dr. Boshell, (J.B. (Obstetree-Trix)). He can turn an unwanted tree stump into a unique conservation piece.

The latest creation he is currently taking on, at Glenhurst, will feature four golfers, two men and two women.

"Right now all you can see is the faces of the golfers, and it kind of looks like Mount Rushmore, so I decided to name the statue Mount Glenhurst," said Boshell. He also said the tree he is using is over 100 years old.

Some of his most elaborate works appear at other golf courses including Meadowbrook Country Club. Once a 15 foot statue, his creation of a squirrel standing on a tree stump was moved and cut down to eight feet. The Farmington Country Club hosts a six-foot squirrel and the Baypoint golf course in White Lake exhibits a three-foot goose.

Boshell's main studio is in Sterling heights, but he also does business at his Northville residence.

"If the order is small, I do it right at my home. The minimum I charge for a sculpture is $175, and it goes up from there depending on size and detail," said Boshell.

The Chainsaw Man works mainly out of Michigan, but also has private businesses in eight other states. He said most of his orders come from the metropolitan Detroit area.

Boshell has received a lot of publicity from the media, including appearances on the front pages of both the Detroit Free Press and

Detroit News, on CBS Evening News with Dan Rather, "In the News," "P.M. Magazine" and "Good Afternoon Detroit."

Also working with celebrities, Boshell produced a sculpture purchased by the Pensacola Florida Golf Association as a gift to Bob Hope. His most common order from the public is an owl. The majority of his business orders come from golf courses.

Attributing most of his publicity to word of mouth, Boshell said, "The majority of my customers are those who have seen my sculptures around town and want to know who did them. They find out and tell their neighbors."

The former butcher started chain saw sculpting in 1976, and claims he has never made a mistake. He said that he changes what could have been a mistake into a variation that makes the sculpture original. He uses no other tools, just a chain saw. "Indians have been doing this a long time, it is nothing new, and I thought, if they can do it, I can!" Boshell said.

Boshell said he puts a lot of time into his works to make them as life-like as possible.

"I work hard, but the end result is more than great...it's tree-mendous!" Boshell declared.

Domino's Pizza employees robbed outside bank

In the Township

An armed robber escaped with more than $1,662 Sunday after holding up two employees of the Domino's Pizza in Northville while they were attempting to make a night deposit at the Comerica Bank on Eight Mile west of Haggerty.

The two employees, one male and one female, told police that they drove separately to the bank, and while the male watched from his vehicle, the female went to the bank to drop the day's receipts in the night depository.

At that time, a male approached the woman, pulled a handgun and told her to drop the deposit bag and her keys and not to look at the suspect, who then fled across the street with his companion.

The victims told police they watched as a cream or white late-model Oldsmobile Cutlass exited from the National Bank of Detroit parking lot.

Neither victim could positively identify the two white males, both of whom reportedly wore nylon masks over their faces. One suspect is described as being 5-foot, 2-inches tall and weighing approximately 110 pounds. The other suspect is described as being about 6-feet and weighing between 130-140 pounds.

A $14,000 1986 two-tone brown Dodge Caravan was reported stolen July 30 from a Jamestown Circle residence. The owner of the vehicle told police that he parked the car in his driveway at 9:15 p.m. July 29 and when he went out the next morning at 7:30, the locked vehicle was missing. The van had 2,800 miles on it and had a Michigan license plate 700 NTC.

An alert patrolman noticed thick heavy smoke Aug. 2 coming from the former Wayne County Child Development Center and called in a fire report. When fire officials arrived at the scene, they noticed the fire, although no flames, coming from the director's office on the site.

Although fire officials are investigating, preliminary reports indicate the fire was arson.

A 22-inch lawn power was reported stolen from a storage shed behind a Fry Road house.

The homeowner told police the shed was unlocked, and he noticed the mower missing when he went to use it Aug. 2. He did not know how long it had been missing.

Police are investigating a possible breaking and entering and an assault with a knife case.

The injured victim told police he was pursuing a person attempting to break into a neighbor's house July 29. When police arrived, the victim was lying inside the living room of the house with apparent wounds to his stomach and beneath one eye. A kitchen knife was found near the victim.

When the owners of the house returned to the residence, they told police they could find nothing missing, although a screen had been cut.

The Michigan State Police K-9 division was called to the scene.

In the City

An employee at International Diamond Tool Company on Old Novi Road reported to police that unknown person(s) gained entry to the business and got away with a 60 gallon tank and a five horse power compressor valued at $1,000.

The incident happened sometime between 9 p.m. on July 31 and 8 p.m. the following day. According to the report, there was no sign on forced entry, but police believe it was removed through a sliding glass door on the east side of the building, then dragged on the ground to the road where it was placed on some type of vehicle.

While on patrol near Eight Mile and Old Novi roads in the early morning hours of August 2, a Northville Police officer noticed the scent of burning wood. Upon further investigation, he discovered a house fire on Old Novi Road.

The officer attempted to awake any residents in the locked house with no response. The officer noticed a fire in the east side lower bedroom, used a large rock to break a door window but still failed to gain entry. Eventually, police pried a door open but were unable to enter due to excessive smoke.

The Northville Fire Department arrived moments later and reported that no persons were found in the house and suspected arson. The investigation is still being conducted.

A Northville man, reported to police that unknown person(s) stole $170 worth of auto parts and caused $30 damage to his 1981 Oldsmobile Delta 88.

The complainant reported that he parked his vehicle in a parking lot on the west side of Taft Road just north of Eight Mile because the parking lot of his condominium complex was being repaved.

The incident happened overnight

A 36-year-old Pontiac resident reported to police that she found the hatch back window of her 1986 Honda Accord broken on August 1 between 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m.

The car, parked in Northville City Lot No. 2 sustained $572.62 worth of damages.

Volunteers sought for county park patrol

Oakland County area residents with an interest in horses and in serving the community may be perfect candidates for the Mounted Division of the Oakland County Public Safety Division.

A volunteer organization, the Mounted Division needs more people to help its 35 member patrol the Oakland County Parks in the summer, to help control strike details, to ride in parades, and to assist the Oakland County Sheriff's Department and local law enforcement officers perform such duties as find missing children and mental patients.

"Oakland County depends on the Mounted Division in many ways," said Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy. "The riders not only serve as an excellent public relations tool for us, they also help county citizens throughout the year."

If you are interested in joining this unique group of volunteers, contact Chief Medward Tessier at 858-0931. Tessier is chief of the Oakland County Public Safety Division. He also is chief for the Mounted Division.

To be a member of the Mounted Division, one must be 21 years old, have a well-trained horse and trailer, and be willing to supply his or her own gun and required saddle.

The Mounted Division, which is not supported financially by Oakland County, will supply uniforms, badges, raincoats, horse blankets and more.

"Interested horse riders also have to be willing to attend meetings the second Monday evening of every month at the Oakland County Service Complex, 1200 N. Telegraph Road in Pontiac. The meetings involve actual training of the horses during the summer months," said Tessier. "New members also have to go to the sheriff's department range and learn how to use their gun. If they aren't qualified to handle a gun, then they can't be part of the Mounted Patrol."

The Mounted Division participates in the training session sponsored by the Detroit Police Mounted Division every spring. Members go through extensive training with their horses. The training includes learning how to control large crowds without having their horses step on anyone, and how to control their horses while guns are fired, firecrackers are lit and sirens wail.

In addition, the horses practice walking through smoke and up steps. They also learn how to surround a car in a parade, among other things.

Not all of the work of the Mounted Division is of a serious nature. It sponsors several trail rides for members' families and also hosts an annual December holiday party.

Registrations accepted for Isle Royale trip

The Living Science Foundation, a Novi-based non-profit organization dedicated to the understanding of science through "hands-on" experiences, invites interested persons ages 13 and older to hike and study in scenic Isle Royale National Park.

Surrounded by beautiful Lake Superior, Isle Royale is Michigan's greatest outdoor ecology laboratory.

It is an isolated wilderness internationally known for its unique plants and animals. In recent years, Isle Royale has become famous for the ongoing study of wolf-moose interactions in its undisturbed forests.

Two highly qualified naturalists will lead the exploration of Isle Royale's forests. Tour leader Shelly Meston has spent four summers researching the effects of acid rain on the island's vegetation and Living Science senior interpreter Terri Brewer has five years' experience presenting "hands-on" science programs to students. Together they provide the knowledge and experience to ensure an exciting and rewarding trip.

Four days and nights will be spent on Isle Royale hiking the island's trails and studying its plants and animals, its glacial history and man's impact on its ecology.

The trip is from Sunday, Aug. 17, through Sunday, Aug. 24. Cost is $300 per hiker and includes all meals.

OH, MY ACHING BACK

If you're like a lot of people, you may have occasional or persistent back pain and wonder what caused it. You try to think of some incident in which you may have strained your back, and come up with nothing. But there must be some reason why you have back pains. The truth is that even the simplest of incidents may be the cause, such as reaching high on a shelf to get something. Or stooping suddenly to pick up something that has fallen. Or maybe you need some tips on good posture. Whatever the cause, the problem may be that your spinal column is out of alignment. No pain-killing drug can cure the cause. It can dull the pain for awhile and give you temporary relief. But if your back is out of alignment, the pain will probably not go away unless you get the treatment you need. No symptom can be more depressing than persistent back pain. Don't delay treatment when help is readily available.

Boy Scout trio becomes Eagle Scouts

Northville Boy Scout Troop 755 has added three new names to its already long list of scouts to attain the rank of Eagle Scout.

Mike Lapham, son of James and Kathleen Lapham, 20401 Lexington Blvd.; John Kissinger, son of Stewart C. and Susan Kissinger, 528 Reed; and Kirk Kabel, son of Tim and Pat Kabel, 40734 Stoneleigh, were all awarded the rank this spring.

A scout has to be under 18 years of age to reach Eagle status, and Lapham just made the cut-off mark. The senior at Redford Catholic Central organized a very challenging and useful community project before receiving his badge, including work on the historical schoolhouse in Mill Race Historical Village.

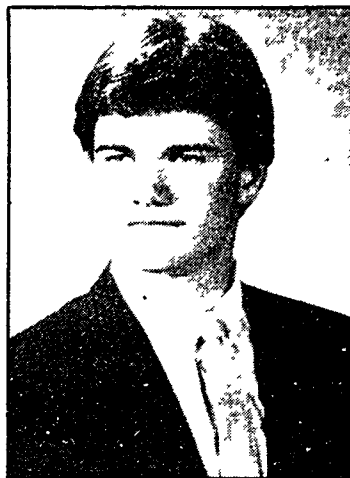

Mike, with some assistance from fellow scouts, built a porch filled in a stone foundation a foot high around the original building that dates back to 1870. Lapham organized the project, designed it and kept a journal on the process.

Lapham's been involved in scouting since he was seven years old. He was a senior patrol leader in the troop and now is an assistant scoutmaster. He plans to attend Bowling Green State University in Ohio in the fall and major in business.

John, a 16-year-old sophomore at Northville High School, has been involved in scouting for four years. His project included organizing and implementing a vigorous landscaping project at Allen Terrace senior citizen apartment complex in Northville. John gathered together different groups of scouts at various times to plant and generally clean up the Allen Terrace grounds.

Kirk's project took over a year from the initial planning stage to completion. With help from a total of 15 other scouts, Kirk organized and planned a hiking trail at Maybury State Park. The project took 219 man hours of work, and was completed in April of 1985.

The scouts cut out stumps and other obstructions to construct a trail near the fishing ponds complete with wood chips.

Kirk, 17, will be a senior at Northville High School next fall.

Alan Griffith keeps smiling while working downtown

Summer employee quickly becomes downtown fixture

Alan Griffith is rapidly becoming one of the most familiar faces in the downtown area.

If you don't recognize his front side, perhaps you've seen him bending over the flower barrels, weeding, watering and generally sprucing up the downtown. That's his job, at least for the summer.

Griffith, a rising sophomore at Michigan State University and a 1985 graduate of Northville High School, is back home this summer, working for the city department of public works. His work keeps him outside on sunny days, but inside when it rains.

"Actually, I really like the job," Griffith says. "It gives me a chance to work on my tan. And it's a lot better job than waiting tables or washing dishes, like some of my friends from college are doing."

An Eagle Scout, Griffith says he finds the job interesting, especially when he weeds. "You never know what you're going to find in those buckets," he laughs. "Already I've found a broken pool cue and a lot of golf balls."

Unfortunately, Griffith doesn't golf. Track and cross country is his chosen sport and while he says he hasn't pursued organized sports in college, he still likes to run.

Sometimes, he says he wishes he could run from some of the requests he gets.

"One older lady really got down on me because I was weeding the flowers. She wanted to know why I was doing that when the streets were in such horrible shape. I didn't know what to tell her," he says.

On other requests, he has no trouble helping, although, he says, he does have some questions.

"An awful lot of people stop me and ask how to get to the Hilton," he says. "I've learned to ask them which one — the Novi or Plymouth Hilton — but what I don't understand is why they come to Northville to ask about those hotels."

Griffith's day starts at either 6 a.m. or 7 a.m., and he generally completes his duties by 2:30 or 3:30 p.m. That leaves him time to run, or go to the beach or return home. The one thing he doesn't do at home is weed or water his own lawn.

"I'm real happy to tell my mom how to do it," he says.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

NRPH can't bury ongoing problems

With reports of the latest death of a patient at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital drawing media attention to the facility, we cannot help but be alarmed at the rumors that are surfacing about the hospital.

For one thing, the Michigan State Police maintain they were not told by NRPH officials about the incident until after the police were notified by Livonia St. Mary Hospital. However, NRPH Director Robert Brown, after checking his records, contends his staff notified the state police as well as poison control in Ann Arbor.

For another, we find it difficult to believe that a patient, reportedly in restraints and under one-on-one supervision, was able to find and drink nearly half a gallon of extremely toxic cleaning solution.

For a third, we have heard that the cleaning solution, described as having the same chemical composition as "germ warfare" chemicals, was in an unlabeled container. And the actual container from which the patient drank has not been located.

And perhaps most importantly, the State Police report the incident occurred the last weekend in July yet the public did not learn about it until nearly a week later.

It does not take a genius to discern that there is a major problem with reports of this incident. Nor does it take a great deal of intelligence to realize there are serious discrepancies regarding the reporting of the incident. Perhaps, if this were an isolated incident, there would not be much concern. But this is not a one-time incident. The death of Ronald Doll and the apparent cover-up surrounding the details of his death are symbolic of activities at the hospital.

Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital is supported with taxpayers' money and, as such, deserves taxpayer scrutiny. It is the taxpayer who can demand that staff be trained and accountable to the hospital director and the State Legislature, which funds the institution.

We sympathize with the families of patients who must be institutionalized, but we have no sympathy for an institution which has consistently put itself above the public and apparently feels it is not accountable to anyone. Perhaps, as with other institutions, it is time someone really looks at what is going on inside Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and takes steps to correct any problems which may be discovered.

Any efforts now will not save Ronald Doll. But they may save the next patient. And the patients to come. If the Legislature will not take control of the situation, it is time to find someone who will.

World Series event deserves welcome

Northville High School's baseball field currently is the playing site for a pair of National Amateur Baseball Federation World Series Tournaments, and a small minority of area residents have expressed displeasure.

But the notion that hosting such an event is for the exclusive benefit of outsiders, at the expense of local players, just isn't the case. Tournament Director Bob Frellick and his staff put a tremendous amount of time into these tournaments, and the rewards of their efforts go directly to Northville Junior Baseball.

As the host city, a local team receives an automatic bid into the prestigious event, alongside some of the best teams in the nation. For the Junior Division World Series beginning tomorrow, the Northville (Blue) Mickey Mantle squad will be in there competing with top notch competition from New York, Louisville, Illinois and even Vancouver, Canada. If Northville didn't host the event, this local team would be deprived of a chance to play.

These events are also a prime opportunity for Northville to show off its facilities, along with the numerous hard working and dedicated organizers like Frellick. If the NABF organizers weren't pleased with the facilities and organization Northville's shown in these world series, why would they keep coming back?

Proposal makes the grade

So what about Proposal 48, the new standard developed to determine academic eligibility for incoming college freshman athletes? Is it fair? Are the entrance tests fair? Are you in favor of it?

Lately, I've been getting questions like this and it's kind of funny. I've known about the proposal since 1982, and nobody asked me about it then. But then again, it wasn't in effect yet and consequently there weren't any hot-shot blue-chippers dropping like flies — failing to make the grade and being shipped off to the land of junior colleges and remedial college courses.

Since that has happened, everybody seems to have an opinion as to why it is wrong or why it is right. Four years ago nobody even knew about it, and hardly anybody had an opinion on its effects. Let's face it, a lot of the grippers have pretty selfish motives. University of Michigan basketball fans were in favor of cleaning up the NCAA's act until it hit home and wiped out a year of eligibility for Coach Bill Frieder's two prized recruits: Terry Mills and Rumeal Robinson.

Other basketball players, who were considered among the nation's top freshman prospects, suffered the same fate as Mills and Robinson. Notre Dame's big recruit, Keith Robinson from Buffalo, didn't score high enough on his entrance exam and neither did the University of Illinois' Nelson Anderson.

I attended the McDonald's All American Basketball All Star game last spring in Detroit, and, every other day, I recognize one of the players from Joe Louis Arena as another star who couldn't make the grade. Both Robinsons, Mills and Anderson were all selected to the McDonald game as part of the most prestigious tournament for high school seniors. They were all great talents on the hardwood but apparently don't seem to be very outstanding when it comes to trivial things, like "what is the definition of rapprochement?"

Clearly, the NCAA decided to do something about the many athletes who leave college and are still unable to read at the fifth grade level. Proposal 48 is supposed to remedy the problem, and to a certain extent I think it will. No longer can high school stars cruise into a college, taking the place of other students who are more academically deserving, without doing their share of school work.

Now the big question is, "What was your grade point average in your core curriculum and how good did you do on the ACTs," instead of "what was your scoring average," or, "what is your time in the 40?"

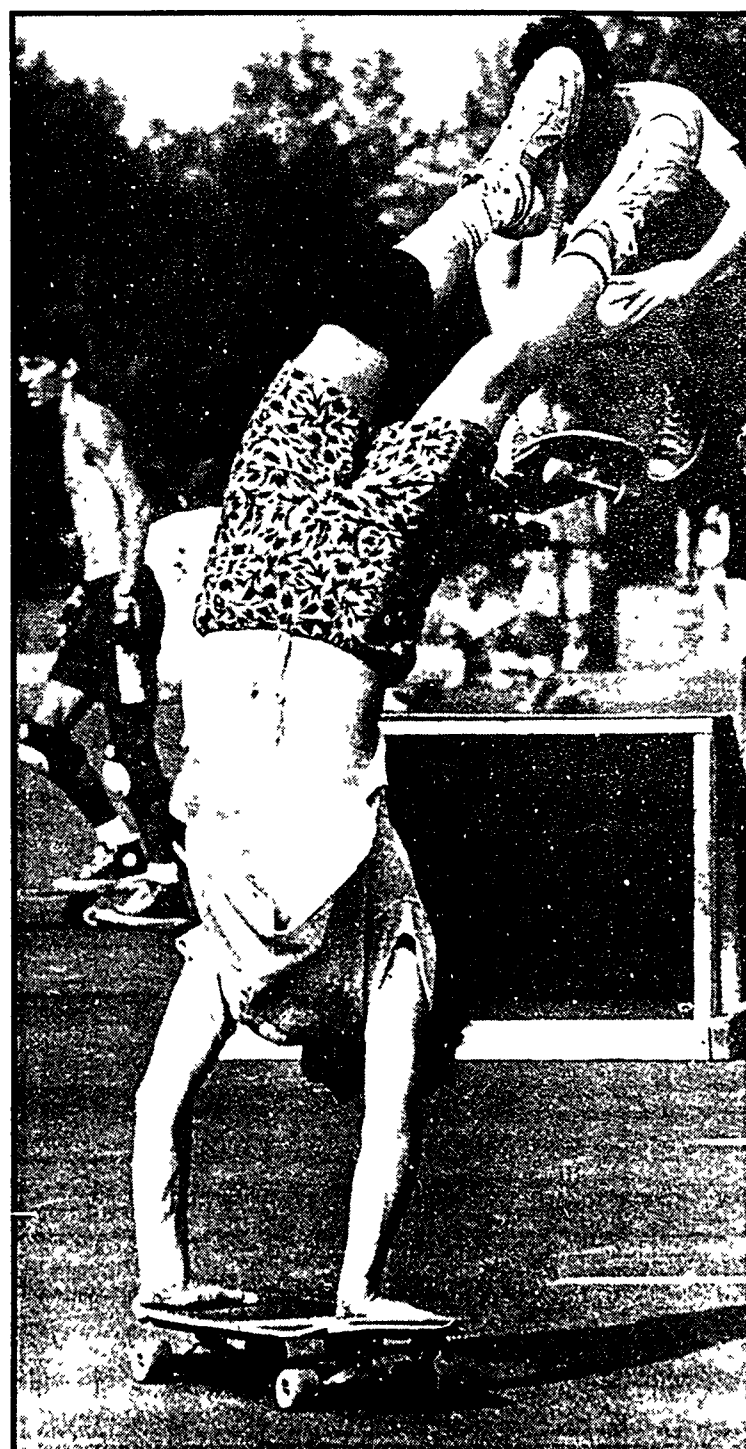

Even with all its inherent problems, like possible cultural biases, the proposal is making associated-athletes, coaches, parents and just about anybody associated with college athletics more concerned with the academic end of it all — and that is a step in the right direction.

I have a few minor beefs about the entire proposal, but overall, it is a legitimate start toward trying to get a handle on this problem. If Rumeal Robinson can take the test three times and failed all three, maybe he should be provided with enticements to concentrate on his studies the first year. Unfortunately, the rules prohibit a player like Robinson from practicing with the team — and I think that is a mistake. Most incoming stars are basketball or football junkies as it is, and common sense tells you that these athletes will be somewhere playing the game they love while the rest of the team practices anyway.

By the way, "rapprochement" means a reestablishing of cordial relations. I looked it up.

After the Fact

By Phil Jerome

People who know me know that I'm a moderately humble kinda guy. So, hopefully, you'll excuse me if I brag a bit about having gone "international."

Longtime readers may remember that back in March I wrote a column about a P.R. person in Minnesota associated with the company that makes Bisquick who wrote me a letter saying she had read my column about the cinnamon rolls my mother used to make.

I crowed in a subsequent column about my national influence, and went so far to suggest that maybe I should offer some free advice to President Reagan.

Well, now I've found out that this column is read around the world — sort of.

Some time ago, I received an airmail letter from a lady named Peggy Czacki in Lardero, Spain.

"Dear Mr. Jerome," she wrote. "Pertaining to your column of Wed., March 19, 1986 — your paper is read not only around the country — but 'around the world!'"

"Of course, I don't know if President Reagan is reading your paper or not. And my current job (housewife) does not carry much weight as far as spreading your opinions. The reason I read your paper is simple. We moved here a year ago from Northville and like your paper so much we have it sent here.

"We've brought some Bisquick with us so could you send me that cinnamon roll recipe — or print the recipe in the paper. Also, you could print my letter so I can say hello to my friends in Northville. And keep up the good work in your exercise class."

Naturally, I felt pretty good about the letter. But good Ol' Peggy added a touch to keep my ego from getting too big. The letter came addressed to "David" Jerome, my older brother.

Program defended

Restoration hits home

By Michele M. Fecht

To the Editor:
In regards to last week's letter to the editor, "Program inadequate," which attacks Northville Junior Baseball and specifically, Mr. (Robert) Frellick, I wish to correct a totally uninformed and gutless opinion.

The editorial (i.e. letter) opens by stating that this "anonymous" person is uncomfortable with Northville hosting the upcoming World Series and also states that he/she feels "it is very hypocritical."

Mr. Frellick and the members of Northville Junior Baseball do not hold the World Series to cater to strangers, but, quite the contrary. The World Series is held to benefit the kids, parents, the baseball program and the community of Northville.

The World Series presents Northville kids with the opportunity of playing competitive baseball and taking part in a very special life experience, an experience they will cherish for life, (I know because I've been there!), an experience made possible by Northville Junior Baseball.

Granted this tournament involves out of state teams, but this also only helps to serve the community of Northville, and to show off our terrific facilities, which brings me to my next point.

Northville High School's baseball diamond (more appropriately called Bob Frellick Stadium) is perhaps the best stadium in the state of Michigan. This is the opinion of people who have been all over the state, such as coaches, players and pro and college scouts.

The field did not just all of a sudden get that way, it took hundreds of hours of hard, arduous work (the majority done by Mr. Frellick) and it also took thousands of donated dollars. Fields do not get better by people sitting on their butts and bad-mouthing conditions.

The recreation department has made strides towards improvement under its new administration by Mr. (John) Anderson. But they work with a limited budget and with limited manpower. Maybe if you (whoever you are) and some other people who sit back and just complain would get out and take some action, more positive things would happen. Just grab a shovel, rake or a wheelbarrow and put a little muscle into it.

In regards to bringing Mr. Frellick into your complaint, that was a cheap shot; totally uninformed, and outright wrong. Bob Frellick did not just "work hard for Northville Junior Baseball in the past" but is working harder than ever to improve the program and provide the kids in the community with a fun experience and a learning environment. These two things are what he stresses in the program and to his teams.

My dad believes that winning is nice, but that having fun and learning about life is what it is all about.

And when was the last time you were up at 7 a.m. Saturday morning lining the baselines and mowing the infield so your kids could play on a nice field, or staying after to make the field playable for the next team? My father does not do any of this for recognition or pride, he does it for the kids, the kids of Northville.

Sincerely,
Steve Frellick
(A proud son and member of the Northville Junior Baseball program)

To the Editor:

In response to the recent complaint about the Northville Junior Baseball Program being inadequate, I would like to respond by saying that the reader that wrote in was ill-informed.

I have been a participant as well as an umpire in the program for many years and have seen changes in the program which have been encouraging.

Ford Field looks better today than it has for years; the other fields have also been upgraded. This has taken a lot of hard work on the part of the Northville Recreation Department. And, as for the World Series, its record speaks for itself. Being asked to host it year after year is a credit to the community.

The Northville Recreation Department should be commended, not criticized for its efforts.

Sincerely,
Scott Paredes

For someone who doesn't even pump her own gas, renovating an old house has been a definite culture shock.

At first glance, it appeared that a little elbow grease, a few coats of paint and some mini-print wallpaper would take care of the cosmetic problems. First impressions are very deceiving.

Three months after purchasing our little abode, we have completed the demolition — tearing out all the walls and ceilings. A century of crumbling plaster patched together by umpteen coats of paint and layers of wallpaper left cracks and ripples in every wall and ceiling in the house (save for the kitchen which had linoleum on the walls as well as the floor). What were minor distractions upon first inspection became major problems once we signed our names on the dotted line. To alleviate these unsightly imperfections, we decided just to tear out the walls and ceilings. We figured it was a weekend chore — shouldn't take much time at all.

Two bedrooms, a bathroom and dining room, living room and library later, we've finally finished smashing the walls with crowbars. The lath is piled so high in our back yard it looks like we've gone into the kindling business. We've also managed to go through a case of trash bags, masks, safety glasses and gloves. Such endeavors do wonders for one's appearance. The dust has turned my hair prematurely gray and my contact lenses now resemble tid-dlywinks.

Upon dismantling the inside of our new house, we have uncovered two floors of antique wiring, century old plumbing (and its contents) and rickety joists and support beams. There has been little more than a trace of insulation.

The hardwood floors we had hoped to find beneath the soiled carpets turned out to be covered with plywood. It took us a half hour to pull up one corner of a single sheet of plywood which was adhered with glue.

With only one bathroom in the house — not counting the commode located in the corner of what is to become the library — we initially planned to add a small half-bath on the lower level. However, our plans have somewhat changed. At last count, we were adding a dark room, laundry and full bath downstairs while also doubling the size of our closet-sized kitchen.

And this is only the inside. We haven't even begun plans for the outside. The fact that the lawn looks like a meadow, the porch is about to collapse, the roof needs replacing and the asbestos siding is beginning to crumble has us a wee bit concerned. Coupled with that is the chimney which must be dismantled brick by brick. We're hoping it's not the major support for the roof.

While all this sounds pretty grim, there have been a few pleasant surprises. In ripping out baseboards upstairs, we found a Mason's newspaper perfectly preserved among the plaster. Dated 1888, it's the first evidence we've uncovered which pinpoints the age of the house. We've also unearthed an old postcard and picture frame as well as several sheets of hand-painted wallpaper.

Friends eagerly awaiting an invitation to our first open house, shouldn't hold their breath. Our original May move-in date has been indefinitely postponed. We figure we might get in there by the time the snow flies.

This is not to say we don't welcome visitors. Just make sure you bring a crowbar.

Newcomer group appreciates coverage

To the Editor:

Many thanks for the excellent coverage you have given our organization during the past year. It (Our Town) is one of the first articles I and many other citizens read when they get their paper.

It has provided an opportunity for people of different backgrounds to feel at home in Northville, not just accept it as another stopping place in their lives. We have 186 members plus a large alumni group who have come to depend on your articles to help them become aware of the excellent ways to make new friends and find avenues of service in our community.

As our new year gets under way, we would appreciate any space that is available. Your photographers did an excellent job covering many events in the past year and are welcome to any of our events in the coming year.

The consistent listing of our events in the Community Calendar was especially helpful, reminding our members that the event they signed up for is indeed coming up in the next week.

Again, many thanks.

Article worth saving

To the Editor:

I want to thank you for last week's edition, July 30, Our Town section. The article dealing with animal welfare was absolutely wonderful.

Caroline Case is to be commended for such an insightful and sensitive story on the care of our friends — the animals. I'm saving the entire section as must reading for some younger members in my family.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely yours,
Kay Hudkins

Mary Ann deserves credit

To the Editor:

I've read with great interest (the All in the Family series of profiles of families in business) the Allens, the Casterlines, lastly, the Spagnuolo family that are still operating their family businesses.

However, after talking to several friends of mine, some living in Northville, we are all puzzled by the omission of Joe's sister, Mary Ann, in the last article.

She must have been about 10 or 11 years old when their mother died. We all knew she helped to raise her brothers and sister at the expense of her own childhood.

I spent many hours at their ice cream parlor, as did nearly all my fellow classmates and the other kids from N.H.S. (Class of '33).

After football, baseball and basketball games, everyone headed for "Mary Ann's," as we all dubbed the store. It was the place for the elite to meet.

She was the main attraction for all of us, listening to everyone's problems, consoling them and joking with everyone.

Who will ever forget the "yummy" marshmallow sundaes with chocolate ice cream, or the "tin roof" sundae consisting of vanilla ice cream covered with chocolate syrup topped with peanuts.

There was also a fabulous candy counter with all sorts of luscious chocolates.

Some of the football team members always reinforced themselves with her special malted milks before their games. I remember one of them saying that, when he got hit, it always tasted good "coming up."

Of course, this was all over 40 years ago and you younger people in Northville probably don't even know Mary Ann, but, believe me, our generation will never forget her. There was no McDonalds, Burger Chefs or Pizza Parlors. Just Mary Ann's place.

Bless you, Mary Ann, for giving us so many beautiful memories of days gone by.

Sincerely,
Florence Johnson Miller
Dexter, Mich.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mary Ann Spagnuolo Weston, now widowed, is fine and is a resident of Allen Terrace, Northville's senior citizen complex, her nephew, Jim, reports.

NHS grad turns publisher

A former Northville resident is hitting the big time as an entrepreneur at the University of Texas in Austin.

Daniel Hutton, a 1981 Northville High School graduate, began a new student magazine at the University of Texas this spring. The newsmagazine, called Offbeat, printed its first issue March 17 and already boasts a circulation of 27,000.

According to Hutton, the new publication provides the reader with an alternative to Austin's contemporary newspapers and magazines.

"We're more a community magazine dealing with college students," said Hutton, a U-T journalism senior and Offbeat editor. "We're trying to get students involved in the community with information they can't find elsewhere. We offer more in-depth reporting than straight news."

In the second edition, Offbeat featured a correspondent's first-hand account of the Berkeley riots.

Sticking to its offbeat theme, the newsmagazine featured a visit with the Jehovah's Witnesses in the same issue as the Berkeley riot story. The magazine covers both political and cultural issues.

Offbeat was started in November, 1985, with a $3,000 loan from the University's Ex-Students' Association. Hutton organized the paper with the help of five other undergraduates.

"We can offer students the opportunity to get hands-on experience. Everyone is worried about supplementing their schoolwork and getting a job. Our original staff was composed of just five students. After the second edition, we boast of a staff of 50 and have people calling every day asking if they can help," Hutton said.

More than 18,000 off-campus students and various local merchants receive an edition of Offbeat every three weeks.

"Because Austin is full of 'off-beat' people, the student newsmagazine is holding its own among other subscription-free publications in the area," Hutton said.

Mary Hospital, rather than by Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital officials "hindered" the investigation by the state police, although he would not confirm the possibility of a cover-up by hospital employees or officials.

"Officials at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital are cooperating in the investigation," Bullen said.

Bullen also said he could not confirm, nor deny, speculation that NRPH officials did not follow procedure once they discovered Doll had ingested the substance. Apparently the hospital staff failed to notify poison control once they discovered Doll had drunk the cleaning solution, and the medical staff induced vomiting before checking whether that was the proper procedure.

Another staff person had suggested forcing Doll to drink milk, rather than to induce vomiting. That suggestion was apparently not followed.

Bullen said he expected the state police investigation to be concluded "within 10 days."

Chuck Muer restaurants salute Michigan products

By JEAN DAY

Northville Charley's, together with other participating Chuck Muer restaurants, is boosting the state's yield of good things to eat in a "Michigan Tastefully Done" special menu promotion through Aug. 28.

The celebration is a joint promotion of Muer's with the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Dinner patrons at Northville Charley's at 41122 Seven Mile in Northville Township are being greeted with a display of Michigan produce and Michigan-made wines at a "produce market" set up in the restaurant foyer. While they wait for a table, diners are invited to "sample" one of five Michigan wines in the promotion and may buy the fresh produce on display.

Michigan products from the land and the lakes are featured on the dinner menu that begins with complimentary starters. In addition to the standard cole slaw, featured starters are a tomato, cucumber and red onion vinaigrette salad, a creamy cucumber and onion salad and a Michigan navy bean and onion marinated salad.

The menu boasts such Great Lakes catches as rainbow trout, white fish and walleye. The latter is served pan fried with a sautee of black walnut butter.

Northville Charley's general manager Bob Heathfield is enthusiastic about the promotion and points out that the desserts are especially popular as they include tart cherry pie and an unusual Michigan Cherry Ice served with fresh red cherries. Muer hasn't forgotten Sanders either, including a hot fudge cream puff as well as a Vernors gingerale float and Grunwald's double-thick chocolate fudge.

The restaurant reports that Grunwald's fudge is made nearby in Plymouth. Northville Charley's has bought 350 packages already and gives each diner a piece when the bill is presented.

Dining room manager Mary Landstrom says the herb marinated chicken breasts have been one of the menu's most popular dinners with the pan-fried walleye and Lake Michigan perch also favorites.

The walleye is pan fried in batter with the black walnut butter sautee on top.

Five Michigan wines are served — Grand Traverse Chardonnay and Grand Traverse Johannisburg Riesling, Fenn Valley Vidal Blanc, St. Julian Village Blush and Tabor Hill Vidal Blanc demi sec. The wines are priced from $2.25 to $2.50 a glass and from $7.95 to $9.95 a bottle.

The waiters and waitresses wear blue jean aprons inscribed with the Celebrate Michigan logo, red bandanas and straw hats to carry out the Michigan country theme as they greet customers. Landstrom notes that most are from the Northville and Novi areas so customers often are their neighbors.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has supplied "Yes!Michigan" banners and the posters that decorate the restaurant as the Michigan products are spotlighted.

Muer notes, "We're a product of Michigan, ourselves," adding that he started his 31-restaurant organization at the Hotel Pontchartrain in 1964.

Northville Charley's, opened as Muer's first tavern restaurant, was the forerunner of his informal eateries, now called family dining restaurants. They also include Chuck Muer's Charley's in Livonia and Wayne, Fairlane Charley's in Dearborn, Southfield Charley's, Uptown Charley's in Madison Heights, Bloomfield Charley's, Eastside Charley's and Van Dyke Charley's.

"We owe a lot to the plentiful fresh supply of fish, produce, dairy products and meats that Michigan provides for us, so we're happy to honor these things with a special menu and promotion," Muer stated as his celebration of Michigan products

CAROL A. STARR of Union Lake recently attended the Michigan State Meeting of the International Dance-Exercise Association (IDEA) in Rochester, Michigan. She is a pre-natal and post-partum instructor with the PREG-EX program at the Providence Novi Center.

The Michigan meeting was the first of 50 state meetings to be conducted by IDEA, a San Diego-based trade association of over 10,000 dance-exercise professionals in the United States and 34 countries.

Recognizing the need for increased knowledge of how to teach safe and more effective classes, the instructors gathered to hear presentations about the causes and prevention of aerobics injuries, designing fun but safe choreography and an examination of exercise myths. The meeting also provided instructors an opportunity to network with their peers, exchange ideas about business concerns and set goals for the future of the industry.

In addition to prevention and detection of skin cancer, Blum and Michels treat acne, warts, moles and other skin growths. Collagen treatments are available for age lines and wrinkles.

LECHTER'S, a kitchenware and gift store at Twelve Oaks Mall, recently held a drawing in celebration of its 100th store opening.

Karin Rubin of Farmington Hills won the grand prize of a $100 shopping spree in the store. Lechter's also gave away free gifts with any $5 purchase.

Nadine Dickson, manager of the Lechter's store at Twelve Oaks, said the drawing attracted quite a few customers. "I think that helped the other stores, also," she said. "We had a sales contest going on at the same time and we had a lot of fun with the drawing. It was exciting to assist our winner in selecting her $100 worth of merchandise."

State's home sales fifth in nation

Michigan was on the move in more ways than one in 1985, according to the Metro MLS, which reports the state was fifth in the nation in home resales last year.

"Figures from our national association indicate sales of 167,200 existing homes in Michigan last year, including single-family, condos and co-op apartments," said Joanne R. Bryngelson, president of the multiple listing service.

"The only states topping us were California with 407,200 units, Pennsylvania with 210,800 units, Texas with 203,800 units and New York with 190,700 units."

Bryngelson said figures for surrounding states showed 162,500 resales in Ohio, 140,900 in Illinois, 90,100 in Indiana and 65,500 in Wisconsin.

"We think existing home sales are a good indicator of overall economic activity and this shows Michigan moving up faster than a lot of the more populous states," said Bryngelson.

"The good news is that the trend is continuing. The report showed Michigan with a 17.1 percent sales growth in the first quarter this year compared to 1985.

"Nationally, the first quarter gain was 10.3 percent. With a 21 percent increase through the first six months, sales by our members are running even higher and we are looking for a strong third quarter which is usually the best of the year."

Bryngelson credited much of Michigan's increased home sales to new industry attracted here in the past few years.

"Managers and workers coming here from most other states will see prices as a bargain compared to what they are leaving," she said.

"A report from the National Association of Realtors for the first quarter of 1986 showed the median price in the Detroit area at $54,000. This ranked us as the fourth lowest among 46 metropolitan areas covered in the survey," she said.

Muer restaurants salute Michigan

began July 28.

Northville Charley's kitchen manager, Mike MacAskill, is using novel recipes created for products for which Michigan is the country's number-one supplier, such as the tart cherries, blueberries, dry and navy beans, cucumbers and pickles. The recipes were created by Craig Common, Muer's kitchen expert.

His herb recipe for marinating the chicken breasts uses basil, chervil, rosemary and garlic. The chicken is marinated for 24 hours in the mixture before being grill broiled.

Landstrom reports it already is a popular feature on the Michigan menu. It is a separate entry at $7.95 or one of three entries, along with lean barbecued pork ribs and chargrilled fresh lake trout, called a Summertime Country Grill, and priced at $11.25.

She adds that the accompanying vegetables include Michigan yellowskin butterball potatoes and the choice of corn on the cob or a medley of squash.

In addition, patrons at participating restaurants are being invited to "Solve the Mystery of the Missing Tart" and have a chance to win one of three free weekends at Mackinac Island's Grand Hotel during the Unicorn Festival, Leelanau Country Inn near Leland and Chuck Muer's River Crab Motor Inn near St. Clair.

The mystery story is really an educational tour of Michigan's famous products with patrons challenged to guess the name of the villain who stole the tart from Michigan's tart cherries.

The M-M-M-Michigan celebration is offered at dinnertime only in the Charley's restaurants and also Diggers in Farmington Hills and Meriweather's in Southfield.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS FROM FRIENDS TO FRIENDS. I'm perfectly fine. I can drive with my eyes closed. There's nothing wrong with me. Are you joking—I feel great. What am I—a wimp? I'm in great shape to drive. You're not serious are you? What's a couple of beers? Nobody drives my car but me. I've never felt better. I can drink with the best of them. But I only had a few. So I had a couple. I can drive rings around anybody. I can drive my own car, thank you. I'm not drunk. I drive better when I'm like this. Who says I can't drink and drive? I can hold my booze. I know what I'm doing. I always drive like this. So with me. Trust me. What's a few more drinks with me. I'm not with my eyes closed. I'm not with me. I can drink and drive.

Day Trips

Place: Walled Lake
Route: East Lake Drive to Pontiac Trail
Travel time (round trip): 40 minutes
Admission: $4 adults; $3 children (2-10) and senior citizens.

Take a nine-mile round trip ride back through time and on board the Coe Railroad. Board the train, 1921 Erie Lackawana coaches pulled by a 1945 Alco electric diesel engine, at the 1887 Walled Lake depot and travel at about 20 miles an hour on the railroad tracks, through wetlands, past scenic ponds to Woodpecker Lake in West Bloomfield, then turn around and come back.

The whole trip takes about 50 minutes, but spans decades as Judy Coe explains a history of railroading enroute. Sometimes Larry Coe, her husband, gets into the storytelling act, but more often he's the engineer.

At the end of the trip, train riders can browse through the gift shop where nearly everything is train-related. A yo-yo and magic show completes the activities.

Part of the charm of the Coe Railroad is its location in reference to Novi and Northville. You don't have to plan a full day of it — two hours is time enough to travel to the depot and back and participate in the ride, which leaves plenty of time for other activities.

Regularly scheduled trips leave the station at noon, 1:30 and 3 p.m. Saturday and at 1, 2:30 and 4 p.m. on Sundays. During the rest of the week, the Coe Railroad is a fully functional, ICC-approved carrier.

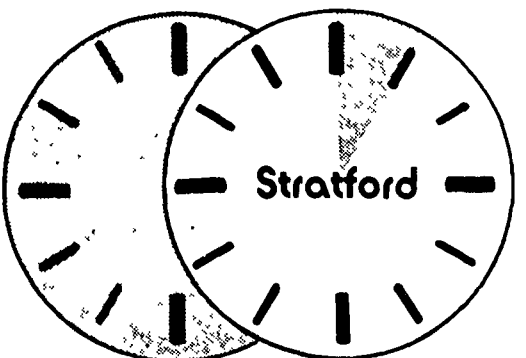

The excursion is designed to span all age ranges, but Coe says young teenagers usually aren't very excited by the trip.

The Coes also are very willing to help with private parties, including birthday celebrations, and there is a special group rate available.

The Coe Railroad trips run on weekends through October and Coe says he is hoping to include a Christmas ride in December.

No matter which car participants enter, they have the opportunity to go back in time. Each of the Erie-Lackawana cars has been refurbished and each is 80 feet long. While the cars aren't air conditioned, the windows do work and the ride on the stuffed seats is comfortable.

Further information on the Coe Railroad may be obtained by calling 624-1248.

Place: Stratford, Ontario
Travel time (round trip): 8 hours
Route: Highway 401 east to Highway 126, then follow the signs
Admission: varies, depending on day, time of performance and play

Place: Frankenmuth
Route: I-75 north to Frankenmuth exit
Travel time (round trip): 3 hours
Admission: $8.95 per adult, family style "all you can eat" dinner; most tours, free.

The German immigrants knew a good thing when they found it and the rest of the state, not to mention U.S. and Canada, are still finding it in Frankenmuth.

Known for years as THE place for chicken, Frankenmuth is just now beginning to strut its other finery.

Municipalities and large department stores have known of and shopped at Bronner's for years. That's where they find their Christmas displays, which include nearly everything religious and secular for the holiday season, more than 30,000 displays.

Santa Claus coming down the chimney can be found nestled among numerous creches and artificial Christmas trees around Bronner's also welcomes retail shoppers as well as those "just looking" 361 days a year. Hours are from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. weekdays, 9 a.m.-7 p.m. Saturday and 1-7 p.m. Sundays June 1-Dec. 24; 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Mondays-Thursdays and Saturdays, from 9 a.m.-9 p.m. Fridays and 1-7 p.m. Sundays the rest of the year.

If it's hard to get into the Christmas spirit in August, get into the German Lutheran while wandering the cozy general stores that abound on the city's main street. For the little ones, penny candy still exists; for older people, the Carling brewery welcomes visitors, and there is a winery.

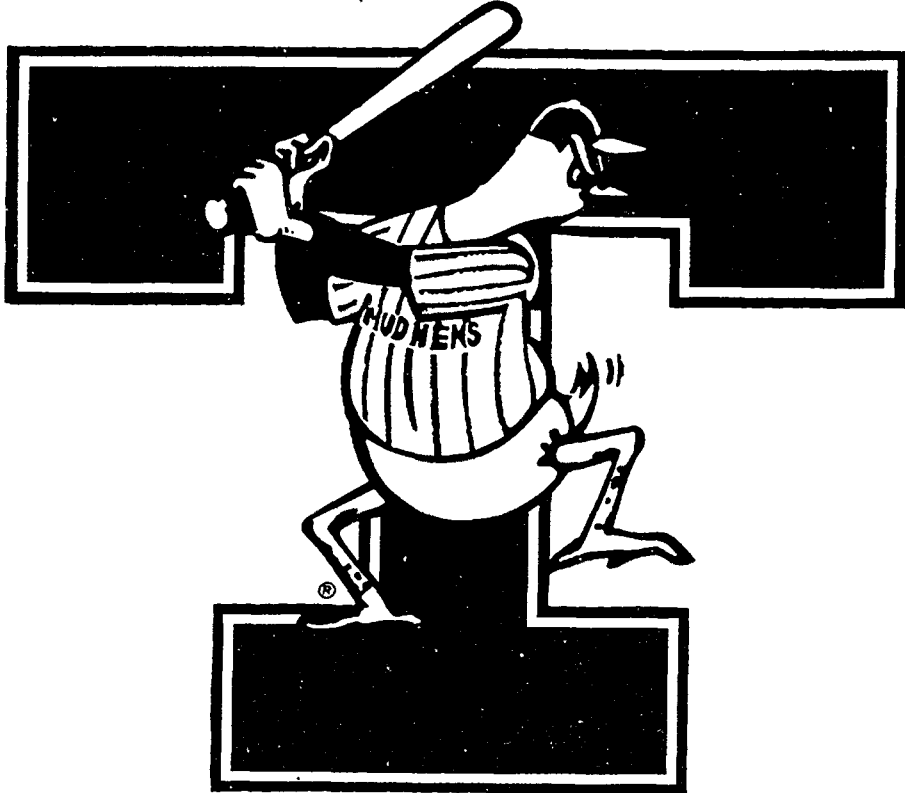

The real fame of Frankenmuth, however, is its chicken dinners. It's not fancy food served at either the Bavarian Inn or its across-the-street neighbor, Zehnders, but there is a lot of it and you can't beat the price.

Each of the eateries has a number of dining rooms to accommodate the thousands of people that want the dinners and each dinner comes with a number of side orders, including noodles, mashed potatoes, gravy, relish trays and breads baked on the premises.

Chicken livers are extra and well worth the price. Come with a hearty appetite, since it's the same price whether you eat one plate or 10 plates of food. Unlike most all-you-can-eat restaurants, Zehnders and Bavarian Inn offer all you can eat of the side dishes as well.

To walk off the meal, the town is full of little nooks and crannies, including the covered bridge behind the Bavarian Inn and a number of antique shops, all open late. Another "must see" is the world famous glockenspiel tower, where three melodies are played daily at noon, 6 and 9 p.m. while carved figures move to the music.

Toledo Mud Hens

While the Stratford Festival in Stratford, Ont., is in the midst of its 34th season, many area residents still haven't crossed the border to enjoy its Shakespearian delights.

For those who may have found it difficult to get away for a weekend or more, or who may wonder if this Canadian summer festival (rated as one of the three great English-speaking classic theaters) is for you, consider a day trip.

Albeit, it's a full day's outing but a rewarding one.

First step is to use the festival's Detroit number (964-4668) to find out what tickets are available for a Wednesday, Friday, Saturday or Sunday matinee and to reserve with a credit card. Or, if you wish to take a small risk and don't care what play you see, just go. Tickets may be purchased at the Festival box office.

If MacBeth or Hamlet seem heavy fare for a starter, remember that Rodgers and Hart's hit musical based on The Comedy of Errors — The Boys from Syracuse — is among the 10 offerings at the 2300-seat Festival Theatre, the 1100-seat Avon Theatre and the Third Stage this season.

Because there's much to enjoy in the town on the banks of the Avon River, get an early start, at least by 9 a.m., because you must pick up reserved tickets an hour before the 2 p.m. performance. Cross the border at Windsor and follow Highway 401 east to interchange 189, taking highway 126 through London and following the markers.

If you didn't pack a lunch to eat in the grassy parkway by the Avon River, stop at the Leslie Cheese House Ltd. at 423 Erie Street on the way into town and pick up a sandwich, and some excellent cheese. Or drop by the little bakery on Ontario Street in town, or, if you've really arrived early, enjoy a light meal at the Terrace Restaurant on the terrace of the Festival Theatre. It's only a few blocks from town center.

Take a minute to make a dinner reservation, or call beforehand to ensure not being disappointed. Local residents long have dined at the venerable Queen's Hotel in the heart of town on Ontario Street. Unlike the early days of the festival, there's no shortage of dining places. A personal favorite is the Waterlot, a French country restaurant in an old home located 11 miles east via Highway No. 8 in New Hamburg. Reservations are necessary.

After the play, take a stroll along Ontario Street where shops carry English china, woolen goods and work of Canadian crafts people.

Place: Maumee, Ohio
Travel time (round trip): 3 hours
Route: I-275 south
Admission: $4 box seats, $3 reserved seats, $2 general admission

If you exclude a trip down to the corner of Michigan and Trumbull to see the Detroit Tigers, there really aren't any other professional baseball franchises close enough for area residents to enjoy America's favorite past time on an exciting day trip — are there?

Actually there is a team. It's a pro team that plays in a real stadium and it takes around an hour and a half to get there from here. The distance is less than 75 miles, ticket prices are very low and the parking is free.

If you haven't already guessed, the team is the Toledo Mud Hens. Yes, Max Klinger's favorite team. "The best place in Toledo to watch a baseball game and down a few bottles of Stroh's Bohemian beer," as Max put it to his buddies at the MASH 4077th. The same team NBC sportscaster Bob Costas bragged about playing for, even though dedicated Mud Hen fans knew that the remark was made in jest — Costas was fibbing.

The Mud Hens, a Toledo baseball franchise since 1883 (not including a decade layoff from 1955-65), play their home games at the Lucas County Stadium, which is part of a large sports facility called the Lucas County Recreation Center. The complex includes softball, football and soccer fields, tennis and handball courts, a track and a swimming pool in addition to the baseball stadium. Three years ago, the 10,025 seat stadium was renovated with all new seats installed closer to the field, and a new press box was built along with a luxurious glass-enclosed restaurant call the Diamond Club. Klinger would have been proud.

The complex is located in Maumee, Ohio, a suburb south of Toledo. Traveling south on either I-75 or US 23, Mud Hen fans should exit at Anthony Wayne Trail (Ohio Route 24), follow the signs into Maumee and turn onto Key Street and into the Lucas County complex, which is actually the old county fairgrounds.

Ticket prices are very reasonable: $4 for box seats, $3 for reserved and $2 for general admission. All children and senior citizens receive a dollar off each ticket price — and parking is free.

The Mud Hens are the AAA minor league affiliate for the Minnesota Twins and are currently stumbling through a 44-60 season. But Hamilton reports that since late June, the team's play has picked up.

Place: Leamington, Ontario
Travel time (round trip): 4 hours
Route: Highway 3
Admission: Admission charge to park between Memorial Day and Labor Day

Make Point Pelee National Park in Leamington, Ont., the focus of a day-long circle tour that can include Jack Miner's bird sanctuary in Kingsville and restored Fort Malden in Amherstburg.

Cross to Canada at Windsor and take Highway 3 to Leamington. You'll be traveling through one of the most fertile farmland areas of Ontario and may want to stop at one of the many roadside stands for fresh produce. Leamington has been dubbed the tomato capital of the world and, in season, you'll be able to smell the Heinz catsup cooking at the factory there.

In Leamington, follow signs to Point Pelee. When you pass the park gate, you will be in the most southern area of the Canadian mainland. Two thirds of the park is marshland that abounds with plant and animal life which visitors can observe firsthand from a mile-long boardwalk.

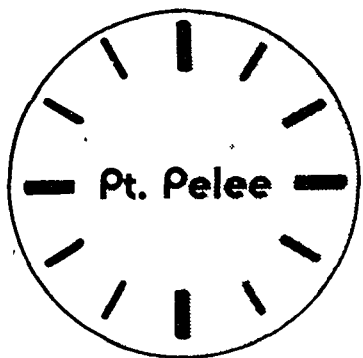

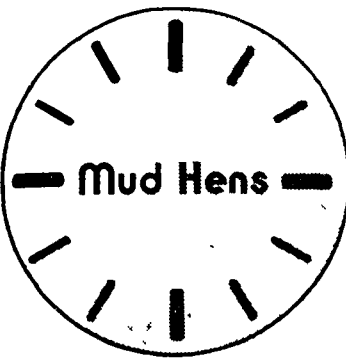

Each spring and fall thousands of birds invade the park there are more than 332 species on the park list with 90 staying to nest. Walking is the best way to view the park that extends into Lake Erie, but there are trackless trains operating from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. during the summer.

Swimming and sun bathing are popular on the sand beaches with changing houses available.

At nearby Kingsville on Lake Erie is the bird sanctuary established by naturalist Jack Miner in 1904. However, the thousands of wild geese, swans and ducks don't arrive until the migration season in late fall.

In Amherstburg, the Navy Yard Restaurant at 252 Dalhousie Street at the river, is a popular restaurant. An 1849 hotel has been restored invitingly. Menu includes rabbit stew and salmon Wellington. Do make a reservation, however. The number is (519) 736-6574.

If you've reversed the circle trip and find yourself in Leamington at dinner hour, seek out Thirteen Russell. This restaurant is in a turn-of-the-century home and takes its name from the address. Lunch is served Monday through Friday; dinner daily. Make reservations by calling (519) 326-8401.

European students visit

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Four students from France and two from Spain spent most of July with Northville families as part of the Nacel Cultural Exchanges.

Ron and Carole Rossi volunteered to take a French student when they saw the request for host families in The Northville Record. They thought it would be a good experience for their daughter, Stephanie (14), and son, Mark (13).

Rossi explained that the families were carefully matched according to their interests and hobbies to enjoy similar activities.

Their guest has been Nathalie Chapel (15) from Simiane near Marseille.

Jon and Carey Gary and their daughter, Krista (15), hosted Cecile Barbet-Carrere (15) from Salon, also near Marseille.

Hosts and guests were enthusiastic about the visit.

Nathalie particularly enjoyed computer games in the Rossi home and using their word processor to write letters home. She enjoyed Greenfield Village and Boblo and spent some time with the Rossis at Myrtle Beach, S.C., before returning home last week.

The French girls agreed that the Fourth of July festivities were among the highlights of their visit. "I think it is wonderful the Americans are so patriotic," said Cecile, "but they can still understand the thinking of other countries."

To Jacqueline Iannone, who is the French house guest of George and Marilyn Petersen and their daughter, Karen, the Fourth fireworks also were impressive. He viewed the Detroit Freedom Festival display from Windsor with Karen and a group of her friends.

Cecile and Nathalie were surprised by the amount of freedom enjoyed by American teenagers, and the speed at which they grow up.

"In France we drive at 18. A girl of 14 here is like a girl of 17," Cecile said. "I think girls have boy friends early here because they can drive to the movies and be free very early. They have make up and look like an adult persons, but inside they are children."

She added that she wishes she would be able to drive at 16, though, because she loves cars.

Despite other restrictions, she noted that children in France are allowed to drink wine with meals from an early age and finds it hard to believe a mother would not be able to send her daughter under 21 to the store for wine.

Though American teenagers seem older than French ones, Cecile thinks American senior citizens seem younger than their French counterparts.

"I can't imagine my grandfather in a McDonalds or listening to Bruce Springsteen," she said mischievously, "but Jon's father knows the latest things. If my grandfather saw Madonna, he would think she was crazy!"

Like most American teens Cecile has her idols. She loves Michael J. Fox and has seen Back to the Future four times.

Between them the two girls were taking home T-shirts with iron on designs, magazines featuring Michael J. Fox, stationery, copies of Gone with the Wind and The Outsiders, a coke bottle radio, and scrapbooks of ticket stubs and other mementos.

Both girls enjoyed the American food, especially the hamburgers.

They became very attached to their host families. "It's really very strange, but you stay with a family you have never known and after one month you will really miss them," said Cecile.

The families also enjoyed their visitors and felt they all gained from the experience.

Carole Rossi hopes Nathalie's visit will encourage Stephanie to learn a language and help her decide whether she would like to visit France.

"I have learned a few words of French now, but I can tell I'll have to work hard to speak it well," Stephanie said.

Carey Gary added, "Krista had expected Cecile to be so different, but they are so much the same, teenage girls with the same worries, interests and fears."

"They have found many more similarities than differences. As Cecile leaves, I feel like a daughter has left."

Others with French guests were Dr. Tom Heslip and his wife Millie; their visitor was Jean Bonnenfant.

Families with Spanish visitors have been Bradley and Barbara Krause hosting Marina Lopez Viadufresne, and David and Darleen Sweeney whose visitor was Joaquin De Ros Padros.

The exchanges are organized each year by Evelyn and Julian Prince of West Bloomfield. This is the 11th year they have taken place in Michigan.

Couples exchange vows in ceremonies

Roseann Tuggle married to U.S. Army captain

A wedding trip to Bermuda followed the marriage of Roseann Tuggle and Captain Reid Hays Albert of Fayetteville, N.C.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Tuggle of 19801 Smock Road. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Albert of Plymouth.

Deacon Dennis Scanland officiated at the 6:30 p.m. double-ring ceremony July 5 at St. Paul's Monastery on Schoolcraft in Detroit. The ceremony included the symbolic lighting of a unity candle.

The bride was driven to the ceremony in a Silver Cloud Rolls Royce.

She wore a Jeoncarlo-design gown in Victorian styling. It featured a high neckline with v-shape yoke of illusion. The ornate pearl and lace was repeated on the long sleeves. Pearls also decorated her headpiece holding a puffed veil of illusion. The bridal bouquet contained a dozen white roses.

Lori Ann Nidzgorski, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a pink silk Gibson Girl-style tea length dress with lace collar. She carried pink and white daisies.

Bridesmaids were Linda Roland of Livonia, Katy Gladd and Eileen Kosidlo, both of Northville, who wore dresses matching the honor attendants.

dant's.

Captain Paul H. Albert of Dayton, Ohio, was best man. Ushers were Dan O'Neil of Detroit, Kirk Albert of Atlanta, Ga., Rob Stevens of Denver, Jerry Tuggle Jr. and Mark Tuggle who offered special readings during the ceremony.

A reception for 130 guests followed at Bonnie Brook Golf Club in Redford.

A special feature of the reception was the celebration of the 51st wedding anniversary of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Zaino of Farmington. They renewed their marriage vows before Deacon Scanland at the reception with the bride and bridegroom serving as their attendants.

The bride is a graduate of Ladywood High School. She attended Oakland Community College for two years and was a General Motors national narrator for three years.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Plymouth High School and Central Michigan University. He is a captain in the U.S. Army Special Forces.

The couple met at Christmas, 1985, at a party given by the bride's sister.

Following their honeymoon in Bermuda where they planned to enjoy snorkeling and skin diving, the newlyweds are making their home in Fayetteville.

Mrs. Mary A. Leake, were united in marriage at St. Paul of the Cross Monastery in Detroit.

The bride wore the bridegroom's mother's wedding gown of ivory silk chiffon over tulle and taffeta for the May 31 ceremony. Floor length, the gown featured an off-the-shoulder neckline with bodice and bouffant skirt trimmed in lace scallops accented with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

The bride's cascade bouquet was of dendrobium, fragia, roses and stephanotis accented with English ivy and greens.

The bride's sister, Elizabeth C. Hartmann, was honor maid in a floor-length peach taffeta gown with bouffant skirt. The off-the-shoulder neckline was trimmed with antique ivory lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink tiger lilies with white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

James P. Leake was best man for his brother. Ushers were William C. Hartmann, brother of the bride, and Jeffrey A. Leake, brother of the bridegroom.

Readings given by Jeffrey and James Leake reflected the emphasis on love and family. The ceremony was completed by the lighting of a unity candle and the renewal of marriage vows for all married couples present.

A champagne and hors d'oeuvre reception was held at the Hartmann home under a large white tent with flowers and table settings carrying out the peach-color bridal theme. Music was by harpist Jane Rosenson and flutist Jill Felver, both members of the Toledo Symphonic Orchestra.

After a wedding trip through the eastern states collecting antiques, the newlyweds are making their home in Plymouth.

The bride, a Northville High School graduate, attended Schoolcraft College and currently is employed by Bell Industries as an account executive.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Livonia Churchill High School, currently is attending Eastern Michigan University and is employed by U.S. Sprint in Tella-Marketing.

The bride's cascade bouquet contained calla lilies, white roses, baby's-breath and English ivy.

Sheila Porta, aunt of the bride, was maid of honor in a floor-length lavender dress of shimmering organza over taffeta with ruffled tiers at the shoulders and hemline and down the back of the skirt.

Bridesmaids were Sharyn Groves, Jennifer Luther, Pam Smedley, Theresa Daniels and Nancy Durst. They wore rainbow colored dresses in yellow, blue, peach, green and pink of shimmering organza over taffeta matching the honor maid's gown.

They carried daisy and carnation cascade arrangements to match their dresses.

Jennifer Holder in pink organza was flower girl, carrying a floral basket.

Melissa Schiffrar, sister of the bride, was a miniature bride in a gown of white organza. Christopher Schiffrar, brother of the bride, was a miniature bridegroom.

Michael Kroth was best man. Ushers were Todd Schiffrar and Greg Good, brothers of the bride and bridegroom, respectively.

Groomsmen were Clifford Good, brother of the bridegroom, Dale Alexander, Gary Waterman, Edward Opaleski and Dennis Mick.

A reception for 400 guests was held at Meadowbrook Country Club. A special guest was the bride's great grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Clark of Iron Mountain.

After an eight-day wedding trip to Maui, Hawaii, the newlyweds are making their home in Garden City.

The bride is a 1981 graduate of Northville High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Brighton High School and the University of Michigan where he majored in engineering. He is employed at Chrysler Stamping Plant in Sterling Heights.

Appetite Suppressants
A recent survey by Better Homes and Gardens indicates that 9 out of 10 Americans think they weigh too much, and over one-third want to lose at least 15 pounds. For most individuals, weight control comes down to either eating less of the types of foods that are high in calories and/or increasing calorie-burning activities. One approach to consuming fewer calories is through the use of appetite suppressants. The process of eating is controlled by a complex feedback system involving two centers located in the brain. Inhibition of one of these centers, called the "appetite center," decreases the desire for food intake. It has been suggested, from the results of animal studies that phenylpropanolamine, a drug chemically similar to amphetamine, might be an inhibitor of the "appetite center." Authorities do not agree on its effectiveness as an appetite suppressant. Millions of dollars are spent on non-prescription products containing this medicine each year. Some of the newer non-prescription appetite suppressants contain various dietary fibers which, according to the companies that make these products, "give the person a feeling of being full and causes them to eat smaller quantities of food at meal time."

The Northville Record

Swallow pursues Olympic dream

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

For Northville's Jerod Swallow, the big goal always has been the Olympics. It really doesn't matter to him what year or where — a chance to represent his country against the best in the world is all that matters.

Swallow, with his ice dance partner Jodie Balogh of Livonia, competed in last week's National Olympic Festival in Houston, Texas, with the idea of impressing the judges, the members of the Olympic Selection Committee and the U.S. Figure Skating Association. An impressive performance there can be the stepping stone to a berth on the Olympic team in '88, or it can set the ground work for a push in 1992. Either way, Jerod Swallow would be happy.

"We're still pushing as hard as we can for '88, but I think they really want us for 1992," Swallow admitted.

At 19, Swallow was the youngest ice dancer at the festival, and a sixth-place finish overall was encouraging to both Swallow and Balogh. When the two competed at the Olympic Festival in Baton Rouge, La., in 1985, they finished ninth.

"I was the youngest, and my partner was about average age, so we are one of the youngest teams coming up," Swallow said. "We were pretty pleased because we moved up from last year."

"We had a new routine that we've been working on, and it went well. A lot of the others just did the same routine from last year."

Swallow and Balogh flew down to Texas July 22, at the U.S. Olympic Committee's expense. They qualified for the festival by virtue of their top 10 finish at the National Championships last year. July 23 they began practicing on the ice of the Summit, which is the home of the Houston Rockets.

All the figure skaters were housed in dorms on the campus of Rice University along with other athletes, and Swallow was impressed with the city and the hospitality.

"Houston is a beautiful town, and the facilities were great," he said. "They treated us very well; they even threw parties for us."

Following the opening ceremonies July 25 in the Astrodome, the ice skating events began the next afternoon at the Summit. For nearly three hours, all the ice dance partners performed their compulsory exercises with the free dance competition on July 27.

"We did well," Swallow said. "Being the youngest really boosted our confidence. After two days, it was over."

Most of the skaters left Houston the following day, but Jerod stayed behind with his parents for a few extra days, then drove home.

"It was really relaxing," he pointed out. "It was like a mini-vacation. Because I went to the one in Baton Rouge, I pretty much knew what to expect — it was a lot easier this time around."

Members of the U.S. Figure Skating Association were on hand in Houston to begin the selection process for international competition later in the year. According to Swallow, that makes the festival showing even more important.

"It was really important to us," he said. "The World team and Olympic teams usually come out of the skaters they pick for international competition."

Since the skating season doesn't start until late October, Swallow and Balogh will continue practicing, with occasional exhibitions thrown in, until the next big competition. Because the season usually ends in February, Swallow said getting ready for such an important summer competition wasn't easy.

Next on the agenda is an exhibition on Aug. 13 at the Detroit Skating Club. But for Swallow and Balogh, the long range agenda also includes a trip to the Olympics — whether it's in 1988 or 1992.

Northville bounced at home

A tough team from Warren bounced the Northville Connie Mack baseball squad on successive days to knock the team out of its own regional tournament last weekend.

Coach Bob Frellick's squad made it to the third round of the NABF Senior Regional undefeated, but the home field luck ran out in a 6-1 loss to the Warren Patriots July 31. Because of the double elimination format, the two teams got together the following day, and Warren pulled out an 8-7 win in extra innings and then went on to win the tournament.

"There was a lot of good competition out there, and I thought it was an excellent tournament," Frellick said.

In a surprising development, Northville received a forfeit win in the first round July 29 as the Royal Oak American Legion coach failed to show up. But the Northville entry looked impressive the next day by downing Mussill's Sport Shop of Allen Park 5-3.

"We played pretty much the way we have all year long," Frellick said. "We had one big rally, and it turned out to be enough."

'There was a lot of good competition out there, and I thought it was an excellent tournament'

— Bob Frellick
Northville Coach

In the fourth inning, a three-run homer by Mark Olsen set the stage for a four-run rally that put Northville ahead for good. Keith Dutkiewicz was the winning pitcher and also added a seventh inning homer to provide the final margin of victory. Dutkiewicz went the first six innings, gave up six hits and two earned runs before giving way to reliever Tony Craig, who got the save.

But Thursday, Northville ran into a tough Warren pitcher, managed just three hits and lost the game 6-1. Eric Terlecki smashed a third-inning home run for one of the hits, to help Northville avoid the shut out.

"The kid from Warren pitched a super game," Frellick said. "He struck out seven and walked just three, and we never seemed to get anything going against him. It was a well played game except for our errors."

When the two teams met the next day, it was much closer. After seven innings and the score tied 7-7, the game was suspended due to darkness and resumed on Saturday. Two innings later, Warren scratched a run off Dutkiewicz, who relieved starter Kelly Bell, thus ending Northville season with a 14-9 record.

After the home team grabbed the lead on a homer by Dutkiewicz, Warren scored runs in the first three innings and went ahead 7-1 heading into the fourth. The big comeback started in the fifth as a George Daraban single drove in two and cut the lead to 7-3. The next inning, Northville put together five hits and more four runs to tie the score.

Holzer finds going tough in playoffs

Prior to the season, Tom Holzer co-Coach Fred Schmidt and Bob Peterson set a few goals they thought were obtainable for Northville's entry in the LCBL. One was finishing in the top half of the standings. Another was to win 15 games during the season.

Both goals were reached when Holzer staged a rally down the stretch to win its final three games and grab sole possession of third place and a 15-13-2 record. But in the playoffs, the local entry found out the hard way that it still lags behind the league's elite.

After falling to second place Livonia Adray in the opening round of the playoff July 27, Holzer rebounded for a nine inning triumph over Maple Appliance July 30 in the losers' bracket. But the double-elimination tournament ended agonizingly for Holzer the next day as first place Little Caesars staged a 15-1 massacre.

"We certainly didn't play very well," Schmidt said. "I think we all would have been happier if the season could have ended with the win on Wednesday (against Maple Appliance)."

Against perennial menace Adray, the Holzer batters failed to generate much offense, and eventually fell 4-1 on just four hits. Adray ace Don Vesting, an Eastern Michigan standout, fanned nine batters, walked two and won the pitchers dual against Holzer's Dan Kopitzke.

Adray opened the scoring with a run in the top of the second, but Holzer tied it in its half of the inning. Scott Peterson singled to center and later scored on a hit by John Collins that bounced off Adray second baseman Scott Weiler's head. Weiler was taken to a nearby hospital with a severe cut on the eyebrow.

Unfortunately for Holzer, that was the extent of the offense. Vesting blanked the team the rest of the way, giving up just two more hits in the final seven innings. Adray broke the tie in the fifth with three runs off Kopitzke, and it proved to be plenty for Vesting.

The loss dropped Holzer into the losers' bracket against Maple Appliance, who lost to first place Little Caesars 8-6 that same day. An aggressive eight inning pulled Holzer out of a 4-4 tie and proved to be the difference in the 7-5 victory.

A key home run by red-hot Darrin Armstrong, with two runners aboard in the third inning, paced a four-run rally that put Holzer in command 4-0. But Maple chipped away at the lead with a run in the fifth and three more in the sixth off starter Chris Willerer to knot the score at 4-4.

Then came Holzer's winning rally in the eighth. Armstrong led off with a single and a bad throw to second base on a sacrificial bunt by Scott Draper left everybody safe. An infield hit by Peterson loaded the bases, and Collins responded with a clutch two-run single. Holzer's final run came without another hit.

Little Caesars quickly put an end to the one game win streak by dominating Holzer in all aspects of the game July 31. The Northville entry scored first and led 1-0 at one point, but Caesars pulled out to a 3-1 lead after three innings. In the fourth, Holzer starter Darrin Armstrong was tagged for four more runs, and the rout was on.

"We had a good amount of hits, but we never could drive any in," Schmidt pointed out. "We were a little short on clutch hitting, and Little Caesars played a very solid game."

United places 8th in nation

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

It was a spring season that extended half way through the summer months. In the final two games, the team had to play on a field with a heat index of over 110 degrees, resulting in two identical 1-0 defeats.

But, despite all the little inconveniences, Bob Dart, Coach of the WSSL United squad, loved every minute of it. United is Northville's 14 and under entry in the Bonanza Premier Soccer League, which is affiliated with the Michigan Youth Soccer Association and sponsored by the Northville Soccer Association. The spring 1986 season will forever be stamped in his mind and the minds of the 16 United players as a truly great season.

"These girls set a lot of goals for themselves before the season began and the amazing thing is that they accomplished every last one of them," Dart said.

The long and productive season came to an unfortunate close for the United squad on July 21 in Carmel, Ind., at the Midwest Regional Tournament. Against 11 other state champions from all over the Midwest, United advanced all the way to the final four before falling 1-0 in both a semifinal contest and a consolation game for third place.

"Afterwards some of the girls were disappointed, but I asked them, 'How can you be down?'" Dart related. "I told them they have nothing to be ashamed of . . . how many people get the opportunity to play on a state championship team and then make it to the final four in a regional tournament. What they accomplished was incredible."

The season started for Dart and United back in April. With a lot of hard work, dedication and talent, the team finished the regular season undefeated at 6-0-2. But the excitement was just about to start as the post-season tournaments were about to get under way.

At the Buckeye Invitational Tournament in late May, United went 5-0-1 to bring home the first place trophy for the 14 and under age group. In the finals of the largest soccer tournament in the Midwest, United defeated the Ohio (South) State Champs in an exciting shootout.

"The Buckeye Tourney was the kick-off for us," Dart said. "It gave us some momentum and showed the girls what they were capable of doing."

Next on the agenda was the Michigan State Cup Championships in Sterling Heights. The tournament in early June crowns the state champs in each age group and enables them to compete against other state titlists in the Midwest Regionals. In the finals, United

For accurate drives Reid stresses basics

"Sports Skills" is a Northville Record weekly series designed to help you improve your game — whether your game is golf or tennis, or whatever. Every week, a local expert will give tips on certain skills associated with a specific sport.

When it comes to golf, Joe Reid believes in the basics — the fundamentals: Reid, the head golf pro at Meadowbrook Country Club in Northville, knows that to become a good golfer the correct fundamentals are a must.

"Everybody plays golf a little differently, including the pros, but the fundamentals should all be the same," Reid pointed out. "I don't care what your particular problem or concern about your game is, the fundamentals are still the most important. If you never work on the fundamentals, you'll never get any better. You will just end up engraving bad habits."

When you look for direction from Reid on a particular aspect of the game — like driving — he will start out examining your fundamental execution. Your basic grip, your stance, your positioning — these are the things he looks at.

"Distance isn't very important in driving, accuracy is the thing you really want to try to focus on," Reid said. "Hitting the ball straight means that you want the club face to meet the ball squarely."

"That means everything about your swing should be lined up. Your feet should be in a straight line as well as your hips — your shoulders should be lined up with the target and the club face should meet the ball squarely. If you do all these things, you will hit the ball to the target."

But for many golfers, the drive doesn't always go to the target. Often times the ball curves to the right (slice) or to the left (hook).

"If you open the club face, the ball is going to go to the right, and you have sliced it," Reid pointed out. "If you close the club, it's going to hook. There is no secret to correcting the problem, you just have to work hard at hitting the ball squarely. Many times, people hit the ball nice and it feels good, but it's just not straight."

The grip of the club is also very important, but the philosophy on the subject has changed over the years. No longer will you hear that one way to hold the club is the right way.

"I heard Lee Trevino say the other day that there is no right or wrong way to hold the club — just that you hold it firmly and are able to control it," Reid said. "That sums up the current teachings now about grips."

The basic grip which is becoming the most popular and widely used is the overlapping grip, where the index finger on the right hand overlaps the left hand between the pinky and ring fingers.

An interlocking grip is also common, but mostly for golfers with short-stubby fingers or younger kids. Jack Nicklaus uses the interlocking grip, where the left index finger is locked around the right pinky, because of his short fingers.

"The key with a grip is that you want both hands to work as one," Reid said. "If you don't do that, one hand will dominate. That's why a baseball grip isn't effective — you can't control the club head."

"Doug Ford once told me, 'I've seen bad players with good grips, but I've never seen a good player with a bad grip.'"

The distance to stand back from the ball when driving depends on the person's height, length of arms and what is comfortable. There are some general rules, but Reid is quick to point out that it is different for everybody.

"You want to stand a comfortable distance away from the ball so that your arms are free from your body and your feet should be spread apart the width of your shoulders," he explained. "For an iron shot, the ball should be about two inches behind your left heel (for a right handed golfer). For a wood shot it can be anywhere from two inches to even with your left toe."

What's the reason for the difference in positioning between irons and woods? According to Reid, it's better to hit the woods on the upswing and the irons more on the downswing.

"There is no part of the swing that is more important than any other," he said. "If you mess up one one part, it will probably cause you trouble on the drives."

"But as a teacher, you don't want to bombard the student with everything at once. You have to give them one or two things to work on until they can do it without thinking about it. Then you can move onto something else. It's bad teaching if you give them a bunch at one time because it's too much to think about."

"The golf swing happens so fast, everybody should try to concentrate on one area that is bothering them when they are out on the course. If they want to change or improve something, they should go out and hit at the driving range."

Record/JERRY ZOLYNSKY

Meadowbrook pro Joe Reid demonstrates a proper swing and follow through

What is the most common driving error Reid spots? Is it slicing, or hooking, or not watching the ball, or not a long enough backswing, or a bad follow through? No.

"The most common error — at least for men — is they try to swing too hard," Reid said. "The harder they swing, the more it will magnify the mistakes they are making — it just makes the whole situation worse."

West Coast team nabs World Series title

One World Series down and one to go.

That is the current situation at the Northville High School baseball field. The NABF Sophomore World Series came to a not-so-dramatic conclusion last Sunday (Aug. 3) amid the threatening weather with A-One Transfer out of Renton, Wash., grabbing the title easily.

The Washington team clobbered the Huber Heights (Ohio) Warriors 24-3 in the championship game to take home the trophy. The other three teams involved in the tournament included the host team, Plymouth-Canton Craiger; the Michigan Regional winner, Shelby-Utica TSI; and the New York

Regional winners, Brooklyn 68th Precinct.

Next up will be the first round of the NABF Junior World Series, which gets under way with three games tomorrow (Aug. 7). The first game at 9 a.m. will feature a still undetermined qualifier from New York against the Minooka (Ill.) Merchants. Game Two pits the Michigan champs from Utica against Valley Sports of Louisville, Ky., at noon while Northville Mickey Mantle (Blue), the host team, will take on the Manchester (Ohio) A's. The Victoria Firefighters from Vancouver, Canada, received a first round bye.

The double elimination tournament is scheduled to run through Sunday.

rallied behind goals from Marcie Dart and Amy Trunck to beat the Troy Bluebreaks 2-1 and grab first place honors.

But, before exiting for Carmel, United continued the winning streak with another title at the Wolverine Invitational Soccer Tournament over the Fourth of July weekend at Schoolcraft College. The tourney, sponsored by the Michigan State Youth Soccer Association, drew more than 180 teams from all over the Midwest. In the finals, United again turned back the Troy Bluebreaks 2-0 to raise the season record to 20-0-2 and bring another tournament trophy to Northville.

At the Midwest Regional, United breezed into the semifinals with wins over the state champs from Wisconsin and Ohio (North) and a tie with Illinois. But in the semifinals, United failed to generate much offense and was eliminated by the host Indiana team 1-0. It was the first loss of the season for United and the first goal given up by United's outstanding goaltender Kristy Turner in the regionals.

In the consolation match, United fell again to Minnesota but still grabbed sole possession of fourth place in the Regional rankings and eighth in the nation.

"These girls work real hard, and they have dedicated themselves to soccer," Dart said. "It has really paid off."

"This season is something we've been pointing to for one and a half years. We knew the girls would be at their best this year because a lot of them will now go on to high school and play."

Along with the great team accomplishments came the individual awards. A total of eight United players was selected to the 1986 Michigan State Select Girls Soccer team, and three are from Northville. Turner, Dart and Andrea Barber, along with five other teammates, were named to the team after state-wide tryouts.

"The state select team traveled to Racine, Wis., in June to compete against similar teams from the Midwest," Dart said. "We felt very honored to have that many girls on the 23-person team."

In addition, Turner was selected as the top goalie in a 12-state region of the Midwest. And the rest of the United squad is highly regarded by area coaches who would love to have them play on their high school teams.

"That United team is going to feed at least three high school programs with some excellent talent," said Northville boys' soccer Coach Dave Yezback. "I watched them a few times, and they were an excellent team."

Dart said that one reason for the great showing in 1986 has been team chemistry. With 10 of the same players on the United roster in 1984, they captured the state title in the 12 and under age category.

"The basic unit of this team has been together since I began coaching them almost two years ago," Dart pointed out. "The familiarity they have with each other is very important and the chemistry they have makes a big difference."
