Schools set to review gifted plan

By MICHELE M. FECHT

A study of the school district's offerings for gifted students in grades K-12 will get under way as early as October following the Northville Board of Education's approval Monday of a Citizens Advisory Committee to review and evaluate the current program.

In keeping with past practice, the administration will be appointing residents to work with school officials and consultants in reviewing the present gifted program and making recommendations for appropriate changes — if necessary.

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instruction, noted that the formation of the Citizens Advisory Committee to study the gifted program follows recommendations established in 1982 by the Citizens Advisory Committee on Program Standards and Their Effectiveness.

In its report to the board in March, 1982, that committee recommended that a citizens' group be established for the purpose of evaluating the district's programs for its exceptional students.

The committee's recommendation was put on the backburner during the high school renovation and middle school grade restructuring.

The board's approval of a citizens' committee to study the district's gifted programming comes only a few months following a presentation to the board by the Northville Association of Academically Talented (NAAT).

At the board's meeting May 12, members of NAAT petitioned the board for changes in the district's current program for gifted students.

McMaster said selection of the 27 parents, teachers and administrators to the committee should be made by the end of September with the committee beginning its task the first week in October.

"We did not put any timelines on it at this point," McMaster noted, adding that the committee will be the first to study the district's gifted programming on a K-12 basis.

School Superintendent George Bell was quick to point out that, while the district is making the study of its gifted program a priority for the 1986-87 school year, it is not the first time the administration has paid attention to gifted programming.

When 7-year-old Jennifer Parviainen explained she wanted a boa, the snake provided for her by Shelly Meston of the Living Science Foundation wasn't exactly the type of wrap she had in mind. But Jennifer, one of the participants in last week's program at Meads Mill Middle School, tries to make the best of the situation, although you can tell she would rather have had a fuzzy boa. More pictures can be found on Page 4.

New judge, date for Scott hearing

By ANITA CRONE

Northville Township will be back in court Friday, asking the Wayne County Circuit Court to stop the Michigan Department of Corrections from moving prisoners into Scott Regional Prison before the facility is complete.

Although both sides of the dispute had agreed Aug. 1 to postpone the court hearing until Aug. 29, Martin Vittands, assistant attorney general, said Monday the Department of Corrections had asked to speed up the hearing because it did not want to spend the money to make the facility habitable if the court were to decide in favor of the township.

The township is asking that the Department of Corrections be temporarily and permanently enjoined from moving prisoners into the prison area until steps are taken to ensure the safety of workmen and area residents.

A second major aspect of the suit questions the constitutionality of the amendment to the prison overcrowding bill which permits the state temporarily to double bunk inmates to relieve overcrowded conditions.

Although Scott has been excluded from the double bunking move, the state has announced plans to move some prisoners into the facility prior to the prison being completed.

The original suit was scheduled to be heard by Judge Charles Farmer; however, both parties agreed to postpone the hearing. Farmer is on vacation, and Vittands said the hearing will be before Judge William Brennan.

Vittands said it would be up to Brennan as to whether a full hearing on the suit would take place Friday. It is possible the judge would continue the postponement until the originally agreed date.

"Frankly, the Department of Corrections does not want to spend the extra money for security for temporarily housing prisoners if it doesn't have to," Vittands said. He noted that "there is no small amount of money involved" in the erection of a security fence, including detection devices.

Vittands said there would also be expense involved in hiring guards prior to the November scheduled

Shopping Center Mkt. will replace Chatham

Northville will have a grocery store in the city limits after all.

Less than a month after Chatham, on Center Street, officially closed its doors for the last time, trucks, cars and people began scurrying around the location.

Last Wednesday, a sign went up informing people that a Shopping Center Market will be locating on the site.

"We plan to be open by mid October," said Victor Iagnemma, general manager for Shopping Center Markets. "Right now, we're moving the merchandise left here out of the store and making sure when we open we can give Northville residents the same type of service available at our other Shopping Center Market locations."

The Northville location is the fourth for Shopping Center Market, a West Bloomfield-based chain, with stores in Berkley, West Bloomfield and Ferndale. The Food Emporium in Livonia is owned by the son of Shopping Center Market's president,

Heintz, millages earn approval by electors

There were few surprises last week following the Aug. 5 primary election, but perhaps the most telling total was the number of people who voted, or who didn't vote in the primary.

Northville Township reported just over 25 percent of its registered voters went to the polls — the highest total reported of any area municipality.

With small turnouts reported, area voters chose Susan J. Heintz as the Republican candidate for 10th District Wayne County Commissioner, Edward McNamara as the Democratic candidate to oppose Robert Murphy in the race for Wayne County Executive, and R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Thomas Healy to battle for the 6th district State Senate seat Geake holds.

State Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, and Kathy Reilly both were unopposed in the race for Law's state house seat, and Dean Baker surprised Don Grimes to take the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Congressional 2nd district seat currently held by U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, who was unopposed for the GOP nomination. In statewide balloting, local electors followed the state tally in choosing Republican William Lucas to run against Gov. James Blanchard in November.

In addition to giving a boost to Heintz's run for county commissioner, township voters gave overwhelming approval to three millage issues, agreeing to tax themselves .7 mills for police operations, 1340-674, to tax themselves 1.5 mills for police operations, 1149-821 and .6 mills for the construction and operation of a new fire station, 1142-857.

Heintz needed every one of the 1,310 votes she received from township electors to help overcome Livonia City Treasurer Elaine Tuttle's showing for the same seat in Tuttle's home town. Tuttle gathered just 179 votes in Northville Township, but outpolled Heintz in Livonia 3,674-1,954. Heintz ran ahead of Tuttle and Lawrence Schweiger, the third person in the three person race, in every community except Livonia. Heintz will face Democrat John Kopka in the November general election.

Surprisingly, Livonians, who were facing two key decisions with McNamara running for county executive and Tuttle for county commissioner, managed just a 22 percent showing at the polls.

'Hill Street' has nothing on state police

By ANITA CRONE

Hill Street Blues the Northville Michigan State Police Post isn't; but then, Troopers Jeff Herweyer and Dave Bush are paid nowhere near what Bruce Weitz or Joe Spano earn. But that's the difference between the real-life job of a law enforcement officer and the magic of television.

Noted primarily as a freeway post, the Northville State Police post employs 43 troopers in four shifts. Aug. 1, I had the chance to spend an evening — between 8 p.m. and 4 a.m. — riding with Herweyer and Bush while they worked their shift.

While the reality of police work doesn't demand action every minute, there was enough activity to last the troopers for eight hours, and enough variety to keep this reporter from getting bored.

During the course of the evening, the troopers raced to Phoenix Correctional Facility, continued an investigation into a death at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, helped restrain a person on whom commitment papers were served, stopped two cars for possible OUIL incidents, patrolled the freeway rest area on I-275 near Cherry Hill, drove through city streets in New Hudson looking for possible breakings and enterings, assisted Plymouth Township police in administering a preliminary breath test to a driver and managed to stop long enough for coffee and doughnuts and dinner.

For the troopers, the night was routine. For the reporter in the back seat of the car, the night was an eye-opening experience.

The first order of business was briefing and polishing shoes. Briefing, conducted by Sgt. Andrew Baker, consisted of a report of suspects in breaking and enterings in the area, as well as a meeting with the family of the man the troopers were supposed to transport to either NRPH or to Eloise. The shoe polishing is just one of the benefits of the job, but like all benefits, there was a catch. Although each of the six troopers assigned to the 8-4 shift was wearing black shoes, there was no black shoe polish.

Then it was down to complete the paperwork from the previous night's activities and, finally, nearly an hour after the 8 p.m. briefing began, it was time to hit the road.

Schraders furnish Northville family tradition

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Next year will be the 80th anniversary of Schrader's Home Furnishings Northville store. It was founded by Nelson C. Schrader Sr., grandfather of the present owner, Nelson C. Schrader III (N.C.), in 1907.

"My grandfather was a conductor on a street car until about 1900 when he went to work for a furniture store and funeral home in Plymouth for $5 a week," N.C. said.

"In 1903 he and his brother, Fred, bought out the Plymouth store they were working for. Fred's family is still in Plymouth. Theirs is the Schrader Funeral Home.

"In 1907 a store in Northville became available so the family acquired it, and that is where we are still located."

The two brothers decided to go their separate ways. Fred stayed in Plymouth, and Nelson developed the Northville store.

All in the Family

Part IX:

At first the 111 N. Center St. location was both a furniture store and a funeral home. At that time undertaking was done in the home, except for the caskets which were upholstered inside and out at the store.

N.C.'s grandfather died before

N.C. was born, but he remembers his grandmother, Jerusha.

"They lived across from the community building on Main Street, across from the old his school. Dad was born right in that house. My grandmother was never involved in the business. She had the three children to care for.

"My father's older sister, Reva Shave, has been a Northville resident her whole life, and his other sister is Betty Northrop."

When Nelson C. Schrader Sr. died in 1936, his son, Nelson C. Schrader Jr. was a senior at Michigan State University. "When my grandfather passed away, there was no one to take care of the business, so my father came back from MSU and took over," N.C. explained.

"My father played football at Michigan State, and they were going to the Orange Bowl that year, but he was not able to go. He had no choice but to come home a month early to run the business."

Before his unscheduled departure from MSU, N.C. Jr. had met his future wife, Betty Walker, from Gaylord.

She came from a remarkably

Harper resigns post at First Presbyterian

Dr. Nile Harper, associate pastor at First Presbyterian Church in Northville, is resigning after two years of service to return to ministry in an academic setting. This coming Sunday will be his last day of service at the Northville church.

With 18 years of previous experience teaching at theological seminaries, the minister will serve in the ministry at University of Michigan where he will take on the dual role of Director of the Ecumenical Campus Center and University Pastor.

As Ecumenical Center Director, Harper will provide programs for international students to get them involved in the community and give pastoral care and counseling. He will also hold workshops and conferences on international peace concerns.

With more than 3,000 international students at U-M, Harper feels the program is necessary because of their special needs.

"I won't be able to reach and help all of them, but they do have different problems and adjustments to make than other students do. Hopefully, I will be able to help a great deal of them," Harper said.

Methodists, Episcopalians and the United Church of Christ help fund and support the Ecumenical Campus Center.

An Ann Arbor resident, Harper will serve as pastor at U-M, providing ministry and counseling for any student in need.

He will begin his new posts Sept. 1.

"It is a return to my first love," Harper said. "I love college towns, and I will draw a lot of response from Ann Arbor because people there love to join clubs and groups."

Extending his ministry in Northville through the summer, Harper noted that one of his challenges was not to leave prematurely.

"Timing is very important to me. I am staying to set up programs for the fall so I don't leave everyone at loose ends while they're busy trying to find someone to replace me," he said.

Harper had jurisdiction over 90 Presbyterian churches when he served as associate executive in east Iowa for 18 years. He was also an executive pastor for 10 years and pastor for five years.

"I've really enjoyed ministry in Northville," Harper said. "I'll really miss all the friendly, cordial people and all the friends I've made here."

Harper's wife, Judith, is associate director of financial aid at U-M.

NEWS BRIEFS

THE FINAL DAY for kindergarten screening, to allow the school district to determine whether a child is ready for school, will be held August 21 at Silver Springs Elementary School. Families who recently have moved into the district can call the school at 344-8410 to arrange for an appointment.

DRIVERS ON DUNLAP AND LINDEN take heed. There will be a four-way stop sign at the intersection, at least for the next 90 days.

City Council gave unanimous approval to a 90-day trial at the intersection, despite police department reports that say there are not enough accidents to make the move advantageous. Since 1983, four accidents have been reported at the intersection, three of them involving drivers westbound on Dunlap.

IN DEMAND: Mayor Exchange Day 1986 is barely a memory but already at least one community is getting its bid in early to switch with Northville.

Rockford, a city of 3,800 people located about 10 miles north of Grand Rapids, has requested Northville exchange mayors with it in 1987.

In a letter to Northville, Rockford City Manager Daryl J. Delabbio cited Northville's success in taking full advantage of a DDA, while the western Michigan community has just established its own Downtown Development Authority.

City Council gave its unanimous approval to the exchange.

MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL now is accepting registrations for incoming 6th, 7th and 8th grade students new to the Northville Public Schools. Registration will be held weekdays from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. Information pertaining to the opening day of school will be mailed home the week prior to the September 2 start of the 1986-87 school year.

FROM THE DEPARTMENT of good news and bad news comes a tale of a special meeting of the Northville Township Board of Trustees. After completing its regular business, the group went into a closed session to discuss property acquisition.

The bad news is that the microphones were left on in the trustees' chambers, so the discussion was heard in the hallway. The good news is that most of the trustees mumbled, so no details were understandable.

MARY DUMAS, R-Livonia, has become the chairperson on the county commission's Committee on Public Safety and Judiciary. Dumas, who did not run for re-election, was appointed following the ousters of John C. Hertel and W. Curt Boller from their respective positions as chairman and vice-chairman of the commission.

A REQUEST TO DEMOLISH the bowling alley on Center Street, the first step toward the actual building of the Main-Center complex on Main and Center streets, was expected to come before the Historic District Commission Tuesday night.

Developers also were expected to ask the 10 Grand Club, which holds the land contract on the property, for approval to demolish the existing structure. That request was expected to be routinely granted, said a spokesperson for the club.

Although the request to the municipal body was expected to be approved, the actual action came after The Record went to press.

County seeks buyer for 900-acre parcel

Wayne County Assistant Executive Ronald Chapman Friday confirmed the county is requesting real estate proposals to sell approximately 900 acres in Northville Township.

Included in the land are nearly 100 acres of the Northville Elderly Housing Development, although the proposed developers have not formally requested their proposal be dropped.

Chapman said three independent appraisers already have surveyed the land and the county expects to get between $10 and $20 million for the property.

The township also is expected to benefit by the sale since the property, which has been off the tax rolls, will be added to the tax base once a developer is found.

Chapman said the RFPs are giving developers the option of using the entire site, or a number of parcels. He noted that Susan Heintz would chair a review committee to determine which developer actually would be allowed to purchase the property.

Proposals are expected to be provided to the county by Sept. 30 and a final decision made by mid-October.

"Wayne County wants someone who has the ability to begin work immediately," Chapman said. "We are not willing to have a developer purchase the property and then hold the land for 5-20 years. We want the project on the tax rolls," he insisted.

Both Chapman and Heintz agreed there would be no tax abatement given, although Chapman said there was a possibility, depending on the type of business actually to be built on the site, of receiving Economic Development Corp. funding.

"Given the type of property we have, there really is no need for an abatement," Chapman said. "The land is in demand without it."

Chapman said "more than 20 firms" already have expressed an interest in the property, located near Five Mile and Sheldon roads. "Some of those firms have come to us with financial data and checkbook in hand," he added.

Despite the move by the county, Matthew Modrack, community development director, has not gotten overly excited. "This is not the first time people have suggested usage for the land," Modrack said. "I'll get excited when the land is sold."

While the county retains control of the property until the sale, approval of site plans will remain with the township planning commission.

According to the township master plan, much of the property is zoned commercial for light industrial and offices. Heintz said, however, there was a possibility of multiple on the west side of Sheldon.

New offerings for the fall include Folklore/Western Dancing and Fabric Painting/Stenciling.

Other senior citizen credit courses include Adventures in Literature, American Government, Armchair Travel, Basic Math, Computer for

In addition to the senior citizen courses, adult education credit classes also will be offered. Adult high school completion credit classes are offered free to adults without a high school diploma, adults with a GED certificate and no diploma and for graduates under 20 years of age as of Sept. 1, 1986.

Credit classes may also be taken by adults not needing high school credit who are interested in the subject. Credit classes will be offered at Northville High School and begin Sept. 15.

Credit courses for the fall include Accounting I, Shorthand, Typing I, Computer Applications, Word Processing, Composition I, English As A Second Language, Speech, Beginning Algebra, Basic Math I, Introduction to Science, American Government and American History.

Those interested in the vocational offerings may register for the programs in Northville.

The Cosmetology course offered through Northville Community Education and Sally Esser's Beauty Schools Inc. is available to recent high school graduates (under 20 years old) and anyone without a high school diploma.

The course offers 1,500 hours of instruction and is absolutely free. Students only are required to furnish their own uniforms.

City, township to participate in bond program

Both the city and the township are planning on participating in the Michigan Municipal Bonding Authority program, with each community passing recent resolutions to that effect.

The program, which gives local communities the opportunity to share in the state's high credit rating, could save individual communities as much as 1 percent in charges for each project they fund through the MMBA.

Carol Walters, executive director of the Michigan Municipal Bond Authority, said that nearly 60 communities have indicated their willingness to participate in the program and have identified more than $420 million worth of projects.

The city hopes to include its street repair program in the state effort while the township has identified four projects for which it is considering funding through the state program.

Included in the township effort are $2.5 million for the expansion of the present township hall or the building of a new facility; $500,000 for building the west end fire station; $875,000 for rehabilitation of the reservoir and water main expansion in the western portion of the township; and $1.3 million for Haggerty Road sewer installation.

Although both the city and the township have passed resolutions to the effect they would like to participate in the state program, finance department workers in both communities noted they were under no obligation to participate in the program.

Under the terms of community participation, Walters said each community would pledge to the state the assets from the programs for which they are requesting funding.

She said that in case of default, the communities also are asked to pledge an additional source of payment, which could include the general obligation of the issuer, revenue obtained from the project being funded, state shared revenues, the Michigan Transportation Fund Issue (gas and weight taxes) or some other state source of payment.

Walters noted that, although the state intends to continue offering the use of the state's credit rating, this is the last time the state can guarantee investment earnings to the local communities.

Critters, kids share festivities at science camp

Summer camp at Meads Mill has a new twist.

In July and August, the Living Science Foundation of Novi brought the wonders of animal life to the middle school as part of the Science and Nature Day Camp.

Children ages 5 to 11 spent four days with Charlie the Macaw, Bufo the Toad, Hero-1 the Robot and other Living Science animals.

The Science and Nature Camp, held from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. each day, offered several exciting adventures. Among the topics explored were "A Visit to the Amazon," "Pond Life," "Backbone Biology,"

"Robotics," "Teach a Parrot to Talk," "Exploring Science," and "Ride a Horse."

Sculpture, crafts, snacks, videography and a Dinosaur Egg Hunt culminated the camping activities.

The Science and Nature Day Camp is professionally administered by the interpreters of the Living Science Foundation, an organization dedicated to the understanding of science through "hands-on" participation. The Living Science Foundation has presented programs to more than a half million students in Michigan.

Schraders furnish Northville with family tradition

similar background since her parents had a furniture store and a funeral home in Gaylord.

"When he came back from college, he and my mother lived over the store in an apartment," N.C. noted.

"In the middle 1940s they purchased a home on the corner of West and Main streets and moved the funeral home to that location. Several years later they sold the funeral home to Phillips and Bonmiller who later sold to Dempsey B. Ebert."

The couple had two children, N.C. and Sarah, who married Wade Deal, also of Northville.

N.C. remembers that he started helping with the business when he was in high school. Since his mother was not involved in the business when he was small, he did not spend too much time there as a small child. "I started to help when I was old enough to lift the furniture and make deliveries," he said.

Like his father, N.C. went to MSU after graduating from Northville High School, and graduated in 1962 with a business degree and a wife. He and Diane Luchtman, who had dated in their Northville High days, married during their senior year at MSU. Diane graduated in education.

N.C. III always planned on joining his father in the business after university days. At first he was in charge of two furniture stores the family owned in Plymouth. When his father retired, they sold the Plymouth stores and kept the Northville one. His father died in 1979.

When N.C. and Diane moved to Northville, they built a house on Horton Street and were living there when their children, Steven and Susan, were born. Later they moved to Maplewood.

"Diane's probably the best sales person I have, but I can't get her into the store enough," N.C. joked. "She works on the weekends or when we are really busy."

Business strategies have had to change to keep the store as successful as it has been over the years. Not only had Schrader's Home Furnishings developed a name for quality, it has catered to the special tastes of people who settle in the Northville area.

"This area has always been traditional, wanting a colonial or country look, whereas in more metropolitan areas people would buy more contemporary or scaled down furniture," Schrader said.

"Right now we are real heavy into country and traditional." Sue Neville, the store's interior designer, agreed. "People settle in this area for a country atmosphere so we carry many reproductions of original pieces popular in the 17th and 18th century," she added.

The store has about 20,000 square feet of display area, full of inviting living room, dining room and bedroom settings of upholstered and case goods, representative of 70 top furniture companies.

A wide variety of pictures and accessories, featuring country primitives and more traditional pieces, are enough to make any homeowner's heart beat faster. The scent of eucalyptus sprays mingles with the inviting smell of new furniture.

It is important to N.C. that his customers enjoy the experience of selecting their furniture.

"When they come in here, we try to help them find something that's right for them, not necessarily what we have or want to sell, but what they need," he said.

"Most stores want to sell what they have on the floor, and we don't. Probably 75 percent of our business is special order. We have a good selection on the floor, but they can pick out any fabric they want and we order it for them, and they still get the sale price."

For years the store held two sales a year, summer and winter. Now, to compete with the growing competition, N.C. said furniture is on sale in his store all the time.

"I don't want to make the customers have to ask for a sale price, and I don't want them to walk away because they can't get it, so we have them marked sale price and make up in volume."

N.C. has found that keeping his prices competitive and offering special attention to his customers has kept them coming back even during the recent recession.

"Four years ago when there were so many stores going out of business, we were doing well. People had lost deposits in other stores and never got their money back; so they feel confident dealing with us. People were still buying but became more selective who they bought from."

It's not unusual for customers to come into Schrader's from as far afield as Bay City or Lansing, and many customers come from Dearborn and Birmingham. Sometimes people are in Northville to visit the track or race their horse and find the store by chance.

The Schraders' personal choice in furniture is, not surprisingly, the casual traditional styles they sell.

N.C. admits that, when he first moved into the business, he used to take home the pieces that did not sell in the store. At that time, he said, he could never understand how customers could spend so much time choosing a piece of furniture. As he could afford to be more selective and pick out the pieces he really liked, he began to understand why it took so long.

"You are going to live with it for a long time so it's important to make the right choice," he said.

Whether the business will pass to the fourth generation is not certain. One thing N.C. knows for sure is that he wants his children to start out their career elsewhere, at least at first.

If they eventually do decide on the furniture business, it will be when they know about other options and have an education that will allow them to make a choice.

Steven, 20, is attending Miami University on a football scholarship and is parents are enjoying following his team, which has been picked to win the conference championship this fall. He is in business school majoring in marketing.

Susan, 17, will be a senior at Northville High next year and also is active in sports, especially basketball. She hopes to follow in her brother's footsteps and attend Miami University school of business.

When the Schrader family is not busy helping people make the most of the indoors, it is likely to be enjoying the Michigan outdoors.

"We have a place up north on Elk Lake, and my hobbies are hunting and fishing," N.C. said.

Governor promises to help ease area traffic crunch

By BRUCE J. MARTIN

Call it a campaign promise, but a welcome promise it was. Governor James Blanchard has announced he is taking steps to implement a remedy for Haggerty Road's traffic problems "as soon as possible."

Blanchard announced his commitment to an interchange at I-96 and Haggerty Road and road widening following a helicopter tour of the Haggerty/I-96/I-275 region. Noting extensive economic growth here and his familiarity with the area (besides being from Pleasant Ridge, Blanchard's mother once lived in Southfield and now resides in South Lyon), the governor called the northwest suburbs "one of the hottest development areas in the country."

"Traffic is a problem, but it's a nice kind of problem," Blanchard told a group of business and government representatives and media at the Henry Ford Medical Center in West Bloomfield. "It means there's growth, there are jobs being created. Other parts of the state would like to have the problems you do."

"But this kind of incredible traffic congestion is becoming a danger to the quality of life and, indeed, to the safety of the residents. We have to manage growth; that's why government provides these services."

"There's been some stalemate locally," he pointed out. "Obviously, the state needs to play a stronger role, and that's what we're here to say."

Asked to comment on claims by officials at various levels of government that insufficient funds were

'Traffic is a problem, but it's a nice kind of problem. It means there's growth, there are jobs being created. Other parts of the state would like to have the problems you do.'

Gov. James Blanchard

deferring road improvement programs, Blanchard responded: "Fortunately the State of Michigan is fiscally solvent right now. It ought to be able to provide the dollars needed for these improvements."

"We don't want to provide a plan we can't implement... hopefully we can do this to the savings of the taxpayer, not the detriment."

Blanchard said he expected the Michigan Department of Transportation to draft a program of improvements within 30 days, at which time the program would be announced.

"In general, the strategy for the I-96 corridor will provide a better traffic flow," he remarked. "People who live here would like a reasonable quality of life, and would like the roads and streets to flow as well as possible. Hopefully we'll have something you'll be able to support."

Queried about an extension of I-275 northward, construction urged by many local officials but resisted by many property owners, Blanchard said, "My commitment is to widen Haggerty, not to tie into any other plans."

Attending the July 28 press conference were state senators Richard Fessler (R-Walled Lake) and Jack Faxon (D-Novi, Southfield), who, Blanchard said, were pressing actively for road and highway improvements in the area.

Citing a large number of development projects in Commerce Township, Fessler said the traffic burden caused by development "is going to get worse without some action."

"This morning, traffic was backed up to the point where people were moving at 10-15 miles an hour from seven to nine o'clock."

Faxon added, "I anticipate this will represent a major breakthrough for major development centers," then quipped: "It's appropriate this is being announced at a hospital since we're trying to get some major arteries unclogged. This is better than a bypass."

Members of the Novi Chamber of Commerce took the opportunity provided by the press conference to present Blanchard with a letter stressing the "horrendous" nature of traffic problems on Haggerty Road which the governor said he would take "under advisement."

Hilton 'unity breakfast': Hail, hail the GOP's all here

One day after Michigan Republican voters selected Wayne County Executive William Lucas to carry their banner in the November general election, Lucas and his primary opponents, Brighton businessman Dick Chrysler, State Rep. Colleen Engler, R-Mt. Pleasant, and Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy spearheaded a GOP unity breakfast at the Novi Hilton.

More than 200 Republicans including state chairman Spencer Abraham, national committeeman Peter Secchia, former Gov. George Romney, national committeewoman Ronna Romney, Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson, former state Rep. Jack Kirksey, state Sen. R. Robert Geake and candidates and precinct delegates heard the former governor proclaim, "we've got the right candidate for the right job," in his support of Lucas. Secchia told the group that the issue for the general election was not taxes. "Taxes is a subordinate issue. There is only one issue that will win this campaign, and that issue is jobs."

Chrysler, in giving Lucas three personal checks from himself, his wife, Katie, and son, Richard, said if he had any regrets about the campaign, "it was I let the people of Michigan down."

Equally gracious in giving her support to Lucas, Engler said "I'll be out there 200 percent working for the Lucas ticket."

Engler, who was mentioned as a possible runningmate for Lucas, took herself out of contention early, saying she did not want to be considered for the No. 2 spot on the ballot.

Murphy, who finished a distant fourth in the race, said he could take consolation in "that an executive is going to be sitting in an executive's chair come November. If we work together, we can move the governor out of office."

Although the gubernatorial candidates joined together on the ballroom stage, the show and the morning clearly belonged to Lucas.

Gracious in victory, Lucas congratulated his "Republican teammates" on a hard-fought campaign and added he hoped he could count on their support in the future.

Following the speeches, the district chairpersons in attendance, including Michael Legg, the 2nd District chairman, adjourned to a "leadership conference", while Lucas began his first day as the GOP nominee with a phone call from President Ronald Reagan.

Unopposed Republicans gain the most votes

Even though the turnout was not large, northwestern Wayne County voters maintained their historic penchant for voting GOP, even in those races where the Republicans were unopposed, and the GOP candidates easily outdistanced their Democratic challengers.

Geake, who was unopposed for the Republican nomination for the Sixth District State Senate seat he has held since 1977, received 11,024 votes.

Healy, who beat Scott Bassett for the Democratic nomination for the seat, finished a distant second with 3,550 votes. Bassett had 2,101.

Healy said he was surprised by his margin of victory, especially in Livonia, Bassett's hometown, where Healy outpolled his opponent 2,571-1,625.

"I know I'll be facing a real uphill battle against Mr. Geake," he said.

Pursell, who did not spend a great deal of time campaigning in the district, is looking forward to a campaign on "all the issues," explained spokesperson Gary Cates.

"The Congressman, in a conscious decision on priorities, worked with the leadership here on legislative issues," Cates said.

That decision may have worked against him in the primary. Geake and Law received about 300 more total votes than did the U.S. Congressman, although Pursell easily outdistanced both opponents in the primary vote. Pursell received 26,464 votes; Baker received 6,844 and Grimes, 6,528.

In other elections, Wayne County voters chose Gregory Stempien, a Northville resident who practices in Livonia, John Murphy, David Szymanski, James Rashid, Kathleen Macdonald and Sean Kavanagh to run for three vacancies on the Wayne County Circuit Court.

Jessica Cooper and Lawrence Ter-nan bested a field of five candidates for the one vacancy on the Oakland County 6th Circuit court.

about six months, is the more serious of the two, and Friday it was his turn to drive.

"We alternate driving," Herweyer said. "I drove last night, he drives tonight."

Although the two men genuinely like each other, they say they do not socialize outside of work and both attended Ferris State College at the same time.

Herweyer, originally involved in law enforcement in the Flint area, is blond and likes to portray himself as a beach boy. "I got up (on skis) and didn't get my uniform wet," he says. There won't be much of a chance to ski on the job now, however. Last week Herweyer was transferred to the Detroit Freeway State Police Post.

Bush is more serious. He and his wife, a nurse, reside in Dearborn; he has been with the Northville post for just under a year. Last week he was transferred to the crime lab where he will become a polygraph specialist.

While the two men joke with the other six troopers assigned to the split shift, once they enter their vehicle, they become very serious, checking flashing lights and spotlights to make sure all is in working order.

State police work is serious business, and a mistake can cost an officer his life. Neither man likes to talk about the chance they may die in the line of duty.

"We know it's possible. But we don't keep thinking about it," Bush says, when pressed.

They are prepared as well as they can be, though. All troopers wear bullet-proof vests under their uniforms — items that can add 10 pounds to their weight. "It's not too bad in the winter, since it provides extra insulation, but in the summer, you start sweating 10 minutes after you put it on," Herweyer says.

In addition, both men carry heavy-duty flashlights, personal guns, night sticks, handcuffs and other safety items on their persons. In the vehicle are larger and more specialized guns, restraints, flares and vehicle safety items.

The plastic restraints were needed on the first run, to locate and transport a man whose family had obtained a court order for his placement in a mental facility.

After leaving the post, the first stop was downtown Northville, where the man was sitting on a bench, watching

Life on the water is a mariner's dream.

So you don't need a water or land accident to sink those dreams. Boat insurance from Auto-Owners protects your boat in case of collision in the water or on land... it provides fire and theft coverage, and liability and medical protection for you and your family can also be added.

'Hill Street' action isn't missing on ride with state police

Bush and Herweyer approached the man, talked to him and waited until a second car, carrying two more troopers, pulled up behind them. When the man resisted, each of the troopers grabbed one appendage and when the man was restrained, he was put in the second car for transport to Westland.

The next stop was NRPH and an interview with a staff member regarding an investigation into the death of a patient. Both troopers were involved in the questioning, and both explained the seriousness of the incident. Yet, the interviewee remained adamant he was telling the truth, although the troopers later confessed they were frustrated since the information they had already gathered left questions as to the attendant's veracity.

"Originally, he told us one story. Then tonight, he told us something else," Bush, who has a master's degree in public administration, muttered.

After a stop for coffee and doughnuts, the troopers got into the real routine of the evening, driving through Novi, watching alertly for speeders, possible OUIL drivers and traffic incidents.

The troopers didn't have to wait long. As they drove out of Dunkin' Donuts, a vehicle sped by. Following the car, the troopers finally turned on their flashing lights when they spotted a case of beer in the rear window.

Five teenagers pile out of a subcompact on a Novi street and while Bush talks to the passengers, Herweyer questions the driver, the only one who admits he was not drinking and ironically, the only one over 21.

Then the officers pull out the beer, placing it on top of the car and tell the boys to wait in the car. For the officers, it's time to write tickets — one to each of the passengers, one to the driver.

When the tickets are written and distributed, it's decision time for the driver. "You can either pour it out or we'll confiscate it," Bush explains.

It's a hard choice for the driver. "Can't you pour it out? I hate to see all that beer go down the drain."

The officers can't and won't. But the passengers oblige. Everyone goes on his way.

"In Walled Lake, (where the youngsters will have to appear in court) they are usually pretty good about following through on our tickets," Bush says. "Other courts aren't so cooperative. In some courts, it hardly pays to stop anyone. They usually get off with a warning."

The troopers got no warning while cruising through New Hudson that a possible incident was developing at Phoenix Correctional Facility. A radio call informed Bush and Herweyer that there had been a signal from the prison and repeated attempts to raise officials at Phoenix by radio and telephone had failed.

Even 20 miles away, Bush didn't hesitate. Turning on his flashers, his foot hit the accelerator and the car roared onto the freeway.

It took just 10 minutes to complete the trip, and even Herweyer was surprised at the time. "I thought these cars didn't go much faster than 110," he said. Bush told me the car was going 120 miles an hour.

While Bush seemed to have no difficulty handling his car, other cars on the road were not so proficient. A number of cars slowed down when their drivers realized there were flashing red lights behind them, but some hesitated before pulling over to the side of the road.

Bush explained that troopers are given special instruction in driving at high rates of speed as well as in controlling their vehicles during a skid. "It's a lot of instinct, watching out for the cars in front of us as well as for those that may enter the freeway. You just have to watch the tires and anticipate," he said.

Pulling into the parking lot at the prison, the troopers informed other cars en route of their location and then waited until one more car arrived before Bush and Herweyer got out of the car, guns drawn.

Although the incident was a false alarm, Bush explained it was better to take precautions. The men waited until guards from the facility and two more State Police cars appeared before putting their guns back in the car. A quick joke with the other troopers and it was back to business, in this case providing a PBT for a Plymouth Township officer.

The test proved that neither of two young men were capable of driving, and, when Plymouth Township officers arrested the driver of the stopped car, Bush and Herweyer transported his passenger to an all-night eatery where the passenger could call for a ride home.

Still keeping their eyes open, the troopers continued on their road patrol, stopping at the rest area to ensure there was no funny business going on in the rest rooms. The rest area was the site of a previous investigation regarding homosexual activity and while the vehicles parked on the site had only male sleeping drivers, each was occupied and most of the drivers were asleep.

There was time for one last stop before returning to the post and, ironically, that stop occurred on the freeway south of the Seven Mile Road exit. A Ford was travelling within the speed limit but with expired license tabs. That stop netted the driver two tickets — one for expired plates, the other for no insurance.

As Bush maneuvered his police car behind the stopped Ford, Herweyer pointed out the "method" of the stop.

"We try to position our car about four inches closer to the road than the stopped vehicle is. That makes it safer for the driver we stop, but more dangerous for us," he noted.

A PERSONAL TRIBUTE IN REMEMBRANCE OF A GREAT LADY

Mary Ayanian nee Der Haroutounian was born July 4, 1912 in the city of Adabazar, in Turkish held Armenia.

In 1915, at 3 years of age she was orphaned as a result of the Armenian massacres and genocide perpetrated by the Turks — she lost her father, mother & infant sister — and was found roaming in the deserts of Der El Zor.

She was placed in an English Missionary Orphanage in Aleppo, Syria and was eventually adopted by Joseph & Mary Garbooshian of Kessab with whom she lived until 1929. She was one of eight children and dearly loved by her adopted parents.

In the summer of 1929 a young Armenian-American named John Ayanian left Detroit for his birthplace, Kessab — for a visit with a purpose. He took with him a bridal gown & a wedding band & whomsoever the gown and ring would fit would become John Ayanian's wife. It fit Mary Garbooshian and on July 27, 1929 they were wed, they arrived in America and made Detroit their home. They were to be blessed with 3 children Sam, Catherine, & Vartan.

Life for Mary Ayanian was a Blessing, and her life was her husband & her children. Arriving in America at the time of the Great Depression & experiencing hard times as so many of their neighbors — she never once complained always believing that tomorrow would be better. A person of great faith God always answered her prayers, and she gave of herself — her love & devotion to those that were hers — and through her their lives were blessed.

John & Mary's wedded life, though at times which was hard & trying, was fun & their home was haven for newly arrived relatives & friends. Those who enjoyed her hospitality & prepared meals will always remember her as a giving person who enjoyed doing for others — for as once an orphan she was now able to share with others her bountiful life.

Besides her family, her great love was baseball and she was a great fan of the Detroit Tigers. In the past, summer was anxiously awaited by her for it meant Sunday drives to Cass Park in Northville — to watch the scheduled baseball games that were played on the sandlots and she could sit through a double-header and still crave for more. And no one rooted for the Tigers, better or more, than Mary Ayanian.

Her happy & peaceful life was shattered in 1957 when after a short 28 years of wedded bliss, her husband, John, suddenly died. She was widowed at the age 45 and now she dedicated her life solely to her children & grandchildren.

A new bond was created between her daughter, Catherine & herself — they became more like sisters — and were inseparable. When Cathy & her family moved into Northville in 1968 she too established residency here first in an apartment and later in 1978, the Allen Terrace Senior Citizens Complex.

Living only a 1/2 mile away from Cathy's house she took pride in the fact that she had two homes she could call her own — her quaint & comfortable apartment and a house on Bloomcrest Drive.

In the years that followed her greatest joy and happiness was derived from the successes of all her grandchildren — she was a happy and very proud grandmother who carried in her purse enough pictures of the kids to fill a photo album — with newspaper articles and clippings to boot.

At Northville High School the students lovingly called her grandma as she became a permanent fixture at football, baseball, volleyball & basketball games. She loved to watch her grandchildren play — and in the last couple of years, especially at the girls basketball games, she would sit on a chair on the gym floor near the foul line, rather than in the bleachers, to cheer & give encouragement to her granddaughters team. Administrators, teachers, coaches, referees, & players all knew Mary Ayanian — and everyone loved her.

She was a member of St. John's Armenian Church and the Ladies' Auxiliary and loved to attend their meetings or the Senior Citizens luncheons that are held every Tuesday at the Church Hall in Southfield.

She was a good person who looked for & praised the good in all that she knew. She had many great qualities that endeared her to many — who regarded her as a friend.

In all her days she never forgot that she never forgot that she was orphaned; for after every meal she would say — "Thank You Lord ... Please give to the needy."

Mary Ayanian entered her eternal rest on Thursday, August 7th following a sudden heart attack — and she left us very beautiful memories.

She was my wife's mother — I called her ma — and I loved her.

I will miss her forevermore.

Our Opinions

Main-Center plan needs careful look

We are breathing a huge sigh of relief this week after noting that representatives of Parliament Construction Co. were coming before the Historic District Commission Tuesday for permission to demolish the bowling alley on Center Street. That request means that the long-awaited Main-Center project is a step closer to reality.

Along with city officials, business people and residents in this community we watched as first one developer and then another unveiled grandiose plans for a development on this corner so essential to the downtown of Northville.

Initial plans for the complex had brought almost unanimous praise and high hopes, but left many disappointed when those plans turned out to be nothing more than wishful thinking, backed more by hot air than by dollars.

When Equity Advance and its president, Kevin Callahan, announced they had purchased an option on the property and then followed through with real dollars, we were hesitant to get our hopes raised, lest this project, too, fall short of its lofty goal of an office/retail/residential complex.

We were fearful when nearly six months after the 10-Grand Club sold its land to Callahan no plans had been presented to any civic body and there appeared to be no move to get the project moved from blueprint to reality. Now, we can join with the rest of the community in watching the demolition of the bowling alley actually take place. Even if the project were to fall apart now, and we have no reason to think it will, this developer has gone one step beyond where the former developer left off.

We are not deluding ourselves to think we can now relax and await the next development in this continuing saga of the Main-Center complex. There will be other requests to come before other civic bodies. We realize the importance of the project to Northville. After all, a $6-$10 million project is nothing to sneeze at.

But we also have very strong concerns that the elation of getting the project under way may give city council, city officials and business people in the community the idea that they can allow this developer carte blanche on the project. That would be a mistake. Plans should be scrutinized as carefully, if not more carefully, than plans for other projects in the community.

The Main-Center complex has been described, even before the first shovel of dirt has been lifted, as a showcase for Northville. That designation carries with it a responsibility to make this project one everyone can be proud of. We expect Equity Advance, the Historic District Commission, City Council, the Downtown Development Authority and others involved in the project to take care that the reality of the building matches the promises that heralded its birth.

Keep eyes open

There's a good reason we put Gov. James Blanchard's promise to present a quick solution to the traffic problems of the I-96-Haggerty Road non-interchange into headlines in this issue.

It's because the promise is one we want him to remember and the Michigan Department of Transportation to remember and you to remember.

If you're not satisfied with the scale and pace of improvements Michigan's top executive plans to announce within a month — a widening of Haggerty Road and an interchange at I-96 as soon as possible — then you should feel free to take your beef to the polls this November. If Blanchard's carefully-timed announcement is exposed as just another election-year promise, then voters who use Haggerty and the expressway would be well justified in turning their backs on the incumbent governor.

What of the other state legislators who appeared with the Blanchard entourage for the preelection media splash?

State Sen. Richard Fessler obviously saw the event as an opportunity to boost his stock for the general election.

We have no real problem with that; we're satisfied legislation Fessler has proposed to ease infrastructure improvements in Oakland County addresses the demands of his constituency.

As for the appearance at the conference of State Rep. Willis Bullard, who decried Blanchard for a "lack of leadership" only a couple weeks before when Bullard announced his support of William Lucas for governor, we're a little more skeptical. First Bullard rips into the governor's tax-and-spend policies, then he poses for pictures with Blanchard because the governor is pledging funding for road improvements.

We're wary of election-year promises, naturally. Regardless of the stakes, nobody at our newspaper will gamble a week's pay, regardless of the odds, that roadwork will start in 1987, much as we'd like that development.

But 1988 seems to us to be a very reasonable time to expect substantial improvements to Haggerty Road and at the very least, a start of actual construction of a ramp at I-96.

We'll see what the governor has to say.

Going over local news

By Jean Day

What is local? Because those of us who write and photograph for our community newspaper feel that giving our readers news of what is happening within the area of our circulation is a main objective, the question is important to us. The question is one of the most frequently discussed at staff meetings.

Is the news (or picture) local because it happened within our boundaries? Is it still local if the person photographed or written about is not from the community? Is it more local if he or she is? Ultimately, the answer is "it depends." It depends on the event and its impact. The Fourth of July parade in Northville is an example. Many groups participate in the parade who are from nearby communities. The militia group is a favorite of the parade watchers and of photographers who see the picture possibilities.

In fact, the question of who or what is local is particularly important to our photographers. Generally, if an event is happening in the community that is newsworthy, we want to cover it. Then Jerry Zolynsky, our staff photographer, has to decide what angle is most important and newsworthy. The sticky part is who is featured in the pictures Jerry snaps. Because he is an excellent photographer and cares about the quality of his shots, he aims to capture special expressions and peak action.

Jerry knows that the editor who chooses the pictures to be used in an edition would like the subjects to be "local," persons who will be recognized by neighbors and classmates, whose families will clip the pictures for a scrapbook. That's the ideal — and it often is hard to attain. How does Jerry know which clowns or acts are local as he shoots pictures of a fast-moving parade? Ultimately, he tries for good pictures of the event.

The Record's School Notebook is a well-read column and one about which we receive many inquiries. It contains news sent by colleges and universities about local students. School reporter Michele Fecht edits the column and uses information in the order sent. It can be frustrating, however, as the large universities, University of Michigan and Michigan State University in particular, send only 4.0 point honor rolls while other institutions report 3.0 and above.

Probably the biggest frustration is in the wedding news. We are admittedly very liberal about deadlines. While we would prefer to use the wedding story in the month following the ceremony, we are finding it almost impossible to do so. Wedding photographers get the blame for the late pictures as the bride or her mother explains how difficult it has been to obtain a black and white print for the newspaper. When the bride or her bridegroom has grown up in the community (usually the parents still live here), we do want the wedding news.

Our photographers tell us that it is easy to take along an extra camera to shoot a black and white print. It also is possible to have a pre-wedding portrait of the bride taken, but it usually is at additional cost. One photograph that arrived shortly after the ceremony came from a photographer who provides the newspaper picture as his "gift" to the couple. We wish all bridal photographers would do so. A wedding in this issue of The Record occurred longer ago than we like to receive the news; in this instance, however, it happened out of town and in unusual circumstances that should make it interesting reading even for those who do not know the bridegroom who grew up here.

To help readers provide the news of these events of life, the newspaper office has engagement, wedding, birth, anniversary and death notice forms. Death notices, or obituaries, are treated as news stories by our newspaper and are not paid for by the family or funeral director.

There is one section, however, where "locals" call to say they do not wish to see their names — the police blotter. Readers should know that the newspaper does not, and should not, delete names if the persons involved have been charged, or, in case of an accident, injured. We are well aware, the blotters, too, are of local interest — some have said "best read" along with classifieds.

After the Fact

By Phil Jerome

Well, the big day is coming up Saturday.

One of those days that strike fear and trepidation in the heart. One of those days to look forward to with equal parts of anticipation and high anxiety.

I'm talking class reunion here, folks. And not just any class reunion, either. We're talking the big 2-5. That's right, the 25th reunion of the Northville High School graduating class of '61.

Somehow I managed to get appointed to the reunion committee. And somehow I managed to get appointed chairman of the committee, which didn't turn out to be as much work as I thought it would, mainly because Mary (Long) McLeod and Connie (Springer) Kohs turned out to be such hard workers.

At any rate, just about all the arrangements have been completed. Meadowbrook Country Club will be the site. And about the only things left to do are pick up the out-of-staters at the airport and make certain they all get nestled snug in their beds at the Novi Hilton.

Now all I have to worry about is me. You don't think I started taking that aerobic weightlifting course last February for nothing, do you? Heck no. It's class reunion time. Time to slim down. Muscle up. Pretend my weight's been this low ever since Ellison and Stefanski slipped me the ol' diploma.

I'd still like to lose about five more pounds before Saturday, and I think total starvation may be the answer. I've even been thinking about a little Grecian Formula — not to eliminate the grey hair, just to soften it a little.

I had also given some consideration to my neighbor's offer to provide me with a new Cadillac for the weekend, but decided against that one.

The truth of the matter is that both the Grecian Formula and the Cadillac are out. It's going to be 'Plain ol' Phil' with all his grey hair and in his '79 Mustang.

Of course, my fabulous new body will speak for itself.

Shattered view of warranty

I knew there had to be a reason Managing Editor Phil Jerome kept saying that Kevin Wilson was listed as the columnist when he meant that I got to write the column for the Novi News and The Northville Record. Last week, I found out why.

Kevin, they tell me, used to like writing about automobiles. He had a love-hate relationship with vehicles, so maybe it is fitting that he now works for AutoWeek. Maybe now I know why I replaced him. Since I couldn't reach Kevin to write an automobile column, I thought I would write my own. This column is about automobiles, or one auto in particular — mine.

Don't get me wrong. I like cars, or some of them. I like Porsches, BMWs, MGs and Corvettes. I like some Plymouths, an occasional Ford and until last week, I felt pride driving my Honda.

Friday, however, I came out to my car ready to go to lunch with my coworkers only to discover that the hatchback window on my vehicle was cracked. It wasn't just one crack, however. There were thousands of them, all little, all self-contained and all meaning trouble.

Although I was not happy, I thought there would be no problem. After all, the window was not really broken. I mean, except for all these cracks, the glass was still attached to the hatchback and the hatch was still attached to the car. Besides, I thought, the car was under warranty and there was no reason the manufacturer wouldn't fix it.

That just goes to show how wrong a person can be. Upon contacting the dealership where I bought my car, I was informed that glass was not covered by the warranty. The dealer suggested I drive right over (about 45 minutes one way) and they'd take a look at the car.

I patiently explained that if I drove the car and went over a bump, I expected the whole window to cave in and then I wouldn't be able to prove that no one hit the car with a baseball bat, a rock or any foreign object. I was sure that the glass had just busted by itself, with no help from outside sources.

Although the dealer agreed with me, he said the company still did not warranty the glass. Even after I carefully read the warranty book, including the inclusions and the exclusions, I couldn't convince him that the company should cover the damage.

The next step was the customer service division for the company. There, a young man patiently explained that even though the warranty book did not specifically exclude glass, like it did tires, belts and hoses, it didn't specifically include glass repair either.

As a consumer, I've read all the reports that say you're supposed to read the fine print before signing a document, but it took American Honda to inform me that you have to read the "non-print" as well.

As for the weather, it got in its licks, too. It rained Wednesday night and by Thursday morning I was convinced there were ducks swimming in my back seat. Hopefully, the next time it rains, I'll have a window in my car to watch from.

On another topic, thank goodness for Susan Heintz and Edward McNamara. By winning the nomination for 10th District Wayne County Commissioner and Wayne County Executive, Heintz and McNamara gave The Record a .400 batting average in the primary election. Out of the five races in which we endorsed, they were the two winners. Of course, the pollsters were fooled also when Dean Baker upset Don Grimes. Now I know how the Chicago newspaper editors felt when they announced in their headline Dewey defeats Truman. It ain't over 'til it's over.

NAB cites Power for national honor

Philip Power, chairman of Suburban Communications Corporation, in Ann Arbor, has been selected tops in the nation for his outstanding leadership in job training to help solve the nation's employment problems. Power was chosen in a nationwide competition as the National Alliance of Business 1986 Distinguished Performance Award winner in the category of Business Volunteer of the Year.

"Philip Power is a model of achievement in job training public/private partnerships," Alliance President William H. Kolberg said. "He is one of 11 award winners chosen nationwide for their efforts in building new opportunities for productive employment for all Americans, and is therefore cited as among the nation's best efforts at resolving the difficult issue of structural unemployment."

The award cited Power for his creative leadership in reshaping Michigan's job training system. As chairman of the Michigan Job Training Coordinating Council since 1983, Power has consistently sought to improve Michigan's job training services.

Among Power's many contributions, he has instituted a job training management information system and has placed major emphasis on compiling accurate labor market information. Working closely with Michigan's Governor James J. Blanchard, Power helped reshape the state's management of job training activities by creating the Governor's Office for Job Training.

Power will receive the award at Job Training '86 - New Directions...New Ideas, the Alliance's 18th Annual Conference and Exhibition, Sept. 14-17, at the Chicago Marriott Downtown, Chicago. More than 2,000 business and job training leaders from across the nation are expected to attend the conference, the largest national gathering on job training issues.

Out of the 217 nominations received this year, the Alliance will recognize 11 organizations and individuals who have made significant contributions to job training partnerships — in the areas of dislocated workers, youth, employment/economic development, rural job training programs, state leadership, service delivery area, training for a targeted population and outstanding company of the year. An outstanding job training professional and two business volunteers will be recognized for their commitment to the partnership.

The 1986 Distinguished Performance Awards were initially reviewed by a team of job training experts on staff at the National Alliance of Business. Final judging was conducted by the following members of the Alliance's Board of Directors: Richard F. Schubert, president of the American Red Cross and former president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation; Lloyd N. Hand, senior partner, Verner, Lipfert, Bernhard, McPherson & Hand, former vice president and assistant to the chairman of TRW and a past president of the Alliance; and Malcom R. Lovell, Jr., executive-in-residence, George Washington University, School of Government and Business Administration and former assistant secretary, U.S. Department of Labor from 1970-1973.

In the past four years the Alliance's Distinguished Performance Awards, the only national awards program of its kind, have brought public and professional recognition to more than 45 individuals and organizations who are the backbone of job training partnerships in more than 600 communities in every state in the nation.

The Alliance is an independent, business-led, non-profit corporation whose mission is to increase private sector training and job opportunities for the nation's economically disadvantaged and long-term unemployed.

Broomfield bill puts armed forces at borders

U.S. Rep. William Broomfield, R-Milford whose district includes the Oakland County portion of the city of Northville, has announced he will cosponsor legislation to allow the president, if he certifies our borders are out of control, to use armed forces to help secure the borders.

Noting that immigration officials will detain more than two million illegal aliens this year, a 50 percent increase over a year ago, Broomfield says illegal immigrations will cost the U.S. taxpayer $25 billion in social programs, education and law enforcement costs.

Broomfield says crime associated with illegal immigration is rising rapidly, much of it in illegal narcotic trafficking. Broomfield's Washington office noted that in fiscal year 1984, about $42 million in illegal narcotics was seized by the border patrol. That figure tripled last year and is expected to hit at least $350 million in 1986.

Police Blotter

Windsurfer stolen

In the city . . .

The Northville City Police Department received a call at 11:40 p.m. Aug. 4 concerning a possible car accident at the corner of Beal and Griswold streets. But when the officers arrived, they found a 26-year-old Wixon man at the wheel of a 1986 AMC Eagle with Canadian license plates, and no apparent accident. After checking with Northville Township police, the officers discovered the vehicle was just then being reported stolen from O'Sheehan's Restaurant. The suspect told police he took the car as a practical joke, but the owner of the vehicle later stated that he had never met the suspect. Northville Police then arrested the man for possession of stolen property. Allegedly, the suspect took the keys off a counter in O'Sheehan's while the owner, an Ontario resident, wasn't looking. The suspect received a court date and was later released under Wayne County's diversionary program. A 30-year-old Northville man reported to police that unknown person(s) stole his windsurfer, valued at $900. The complainant stated that he chained the windsurfer to a tree in his backyard July 8 and noticed it missing July 23. The man told police he had given two friends permission to use the board anytime, but, after checking with them and finding they didn't have it, he decided to file a police report.

State trooper promoted

State Police Trooper and Novi resident Gregory Matfly has been promoted to sergeant at the Northville State Police post. Five new recruits have been assigned to the post. Michael J. Moore from Detroit, Rose Shile from West Branch, Vivian Jones from Ypsilanti, Steve Schook from Tecumseh and Andrew Wing from Sterling Heights began work Aug. 5. Leaving the post are Robert Lesneski, John Loyd, Ronald Nelson, Doug Sundmacher, Bradley Young and Jeff Herweyer, all being assigned to the Detroit Freeway Post, David Bush, who is being transferred to the Crime Lab and Darryl Moncrease, heading for the Erie Post.

opening of the facility. If the court rules in favor of the state, Vittands said any guards hired would be "experienced" rather than using the guards now in training for employment at Scott. While the Department of Corrections has said there would be a maximum of 250 prisoners temporarily housed at Scott, Vittands said he did not expect that number of prisoners to be moved immediately onto the site if the court finds in favor of the Department of Corrections. The township has contended right along that it wants no inmates moved onto the prison site until measures are taken to ensure the safety of area residents and to prohibit mingling of workers on the site and the inmates.

Franzen Brothers Circus comes to Novi

The circus is coming. The circus is coming. Ladies, gentlemen and children of all ages will have a chance to "run away to the circus" when the Novi Jaycees bring the Franzen Brothers Circus to town for two performances on Thursday, Aug. 21. The tent will be set up at Lakeshore Park on Walled Lake, and performances are scheduled at 5:30 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. The circus will be in town for just one day. The Aug. 21 performance under the big top will mark the third time the Jaycees have brought the circus to town. The Franzen Brothers Circus features more than 50 wild and domestic animals, as well as acrobats, jugglers, magicians and, of course, the clowns. For those wishing to sneak a look at the circus before the evening shows, the animals will be unloaded and the tent will be raised at 9 a.m. Tickets for the circus can be purchased in advance at $4 for adults and $3 for children. In addition, family tickets for two adults and four children can be purchased in advance for $15. Advance tickets can be ordered from the Novi Jaycees at 348-NOVI or the Novi Parks and Recreation Department at 349-1976. Tickets purchased at the gate are $5 for adults and $4 for children. In conjunction with the arrival of the circus, the Jaycees and the Novi Parks and Recreation Department are sponsoring a coloring contest. Pictures are available from any Jaycee or at Parks & Rec offices. Three prizes for coloring the picture of Poco the Clown will be awarded at both performances. Participants must be present to win. The Franzen Brothers Circus is being brought to Novi by the Novi Jaycees. All proceeds will be used for such Jaycee projects as Needy Family Christmas, Safety Town, Christmas Tree Lighting and Super Saturday.

The tour, priced at $175 a person double occupancy, includes four meals one breakfast, one lunch and two dinners as well as two nights' stay at the Perry Hotel. Continental breakfast will be served en route to Sterling, first tour stop. There will be shopping time in Petoskey's famed gaslight district and a stop at the Indian River Catholic Shrine as well as a ferry ride to Mackinac Island. A $25 deposit will hold reservations. Register at the center, 349-4140, or at the Northville Community Recreation Department, 349-0203.

Pebble VanConant found a new career at Spearhead Automated Systems, Inc., in Novi

MJOB means new job for Pebble

Only one displaced worker in 200 can get in, but those who do are enjoying a new crack at jobs.

"My unemployment benefits ran out three weeks before I was done with school," said Pebble VanConant, a 33-year-old single mother of two, who was honored recently as the outstanding student in her retraining program at Oakland Community College.

She breathed a sigh of relief as she told about her "exceptionally interesting" 55-hour per week apprentice machinist job with Spearhead Automated Systems, Inc. The Novi firm designs automated fixtures and production systems.

"Prior to her layoff, Pebble worked as a silk-screener," said Joe Forbes, director of Gov. Blanchard's Job Opportunity Bank. "So there is a major change in her career."

Forbes presented VanConant a letter signed by James J. Blanchard, congratulating her on being the outstanding student in her 21-member class at OCC's Auburn Hills campus.

"The community colleges have been very helpful to us," said Forbes, a seven-term state representative from Oak Park and Southfield until he joined the administration.

MJOB is a scholarship program to meet the needs of an estimated 200,000 "displaced workers" — people who lost their jobs and have no prospect of being rehired in the same occupation.

With a $2 million appropriation, MJOB seeks to train 1,000 of those persons and place at least 70 percent of them in training-related jobs earning $4 an hour or more, Forbes said.

Community colleges administer the program — screening and testing applicants, teaching the classes and placing them in jobs with the help of trade associations.

VanConant was laid off in January from a seven-year job with a sign company in Pontiac where she operated a drill press and silk screen color table machinery.

In a local paper she saw an article on MJOB and recalled, "It said they didn't have enough people to fill the class. I was interested in the horticulture program because I've always had sort of a green thumb

"I took the two tests for horticulture and saw there were three other tests. So I took the other tests because I didn't have a ride home and didn't want to sit around."

"They called me the next day and said I scored higher than the men in math."

OCC signed her up for the program. MJOB covered her tuition, books and course supplies.

"We were a pilot program — make or break," she said. "We started in March. It lasted 23 weeks. We started with 22 and ended with 16."

"We went to school a total of six hours — two classroom hours in the morning studying algebra, shop math and blueprint reading, then four hours in a machine shop atmosphere."

"There were three women in our class. The three of us talked about it and thought the men would resent it, but we didn't experience that (resentment) at all."

Sharing the spotlight with VanConant at the OCC awards presentation was Diana L. Howard, who, with her husband Stephen, owns Spearhead. It hired VanConant in June

Mrs. Howard, manager of marketing and sales development at Spearhead, said the male employees are young and have no difficulty accepting female co-workers in a traditionally male field.

The firm, cited by Gov. Blanchard as one of the fastest growing in its field in Michigan, grew from nothing to $8 million in sales and a work force of about 60 in just five years.

The program will be more dependent on state funds, Forbes said, because "we're about to take a 55 percent cut on the federal dislocated workers money."

"We've turned it around from a total federal program," he continued. "We're grateful to the community colleges. This is the avenue of contact between ourselves and local workers."

To be eligible, a person must be a Michigan resident, a dislocated worker unemployed or underemployed due to layoff, employed at least three years previously in the same industry or occupation, and capable of successfully completing a retraining program.

IRAs will continue to have advantages for small investors

Small investors will probably continue to find Individual Retirement Account (IRAs) and the stock market a good investment after the tax reforms to be worked out by a Congressional conference committee take effect next year.

According to Doug Henney, Assistant Manager of E.F. Hutton in East Lansing, IRAs would continue to be an excellent investment for people who can deduct contributions. However, he would advise against further use of IRAs by any taxpayers for whom Congress eliminates deductibility. For such people, tax-exempt annuities would offer the same opportunity to accumulate interest tax-free without the severe withdrawal restrictions of IRAs.

The current Senate tax reform bill would dramatically limit the deductibility of IRA contributions, allowing it only for persons not already covered by a pension plan. The House plan would change current law only by requiring that 401(k) plan contributions be subtracted from the $2,000 IRA deduction.

E.F. Hutton's Equity Research Division in Washington has predicted that at least some deductibility of IRA contributions for taxpayers with pension plans could be retained in the compromise budget.

The Senate bill has been criticized as giving too small a tax cut to the middle classes relative to the tax cuts given at the top and bottom of the income scale, and they anticipate that broader IRA retention is one form which a middle-class tax savings would be likely to take. In addition, President Reagan, who has generally supported the Senate package, has endorsed continuation of the IRA deduction.

Small investors should also be aware that the current $100/person dividend exclusion allowed under current law would be repealed under both plans. In addition, the rate at which long-term capital gains (those on assets held over six months) are taxed will increase. The House plan would reduce the current 60 percent exclusion of long-term capital gains to 42 percent. Combined with the House's top individual rate of 38 percent, this would mean a maximum capital gains rate of 22 percent. The Senate plan would eliminate the capital gains exclusion entirely, making the top capital gains rate equal to 27 percent, its top rate on ordinary income.

Henney said that while E.F. Hutton expects the Senate's complete elimination of capital gains exclusion to be adopted, the change would be advantageous to many investors despite the rate hike. It would eliminate the current disparity between after-tax rates of return on assets held for more and less than six months, thus allowing investors to trade more freely.

E.F. Hutton expects the stock market generally to continue to rise after the current tax reforms are in place. Investors may wish to consider shifting from manufacturing to service industry investments. Manufacturing corporations will be hurt by the loss of the investment tax credit and increases in the depreciation schedules for capital assets.

Auto sales in particular will be affected by the elimination of consumer interest deductibility and of the investment tax credit, which has provided an incentive to businesses to buy autos.

The award of distinction was presented to the Ford Motor Company's Transmission and Chassis Division in the Fully-dense category of the 1986 Powder Metallurgy "Part of the Year" Design competition.

The award was given for a forged steel powdered metal automatic transmission race made by Imperial Clevite, Inc., of Salem, Ind.

Tompkins and Gustafson accepted the award at a special luncheon held during the 1986 annual P/M conference and exhibition in Boston, Mass.

Powder metallurgy is an automated metal working process for making a wide range of precision metal components and shapes from a variety of metals in powder form. The process converts raw materials and provides reliability and improved manufacturing productivity.

Parts made by this process are used in automobiles, farm and garden equipment, business machines and home appliances. The competition is sponsored each year by the Metal Power Industries Federation.

Tompkins, who graduated from the University of Michigan School of Business with a BBA degree in 1977, has been a buyer at Ford for the past seven years. She handled more than $70 million worth of purchases for the company in 1985.

BELANGER INC., of Northville is inviting motorists who plan to get their cars washed to do so at its Water Wheel Car Wash at 455 E. Cady at South Main in downtown Northville between Aug. 28-30.

The car wash is participating in the "Wash America" campaign benefiting the March of Dimes' fight against birth defects by making donations to the March of Dimes for every car wash sold on those dates.

ANN B. KELLY, Realtor Associate with Century 21 Suburban in Northville, has been honored for outstanding sales achievement with over $4 million in sales and being one of the top 21 sales associates for the first quarter of 1986.

Kelly was also honored for being a charter member of the Century 21 Multi-Million Dollar Club. She is well on her way this year to receiving the coveted Centurian Award given to those Century 21 sales people who have closed transactions totaling in excess of $5 million during one year.

Make sure valuables are stored safely

Theft is increasing in many areas, insurance costs more and your estate is growing to the point where you are wondering where to keep important documents and valuable items.

The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests you consider a home safe, a bank safe deposit box or a private security vault company.

A few years ago, if your valuables were stolen you could recover much of their value by deducting the loss on your income tax return. Under current tax laws, if you itemize, you can only deduct casualty losses of personal-use property that exceed 10 percent of your adjusted gross income and only after subtracting $100 from each loss.

You could, however, recoup some of your losses through your homeowner's insurance, which typically places a limit of $500 or $1,000, depending on the policy, on high-value items such as watches and jewelry. For an extra cost, a special personal items rider would normally enable you to recover the full market value of a stolen item.

But how can you keep your valuable items, as well as numerous important papers, safe and at hand? The answer depends on just how many items you have, how valuable they are and how often you need to use them.

Many people today possess a modest collection of necklaces, bracelets or earrings, plus a few valuable rings and an expensive watch or two. Add to these items negotiable securities and perhaps cash or travelers checks, plus important documents such as birth certificates, passports, insurance policies, bills of sale and deeds. For those who want to keep all these items safe from fire or theft, a home safe may be the answer.

Start with a phone call to the Better Business Bureau, police department or any local consumer group that could help you find a competent home safe dealer. The dealer will help you decide what kind of safe is needed and what level of security is necessary. Decide early on if you need a fire-resistant safe, a burglary-resistant safe or one that satisfies both requirements.

Fire-resistant safes are graded for their ability to maintain interior temperatures for certain periods of time. Underwriters Laboratories (UL), for example, refers to fire-resistant safes as one-, two-, three- or four-hour safes. Most, however, will not foil a burglar for very long.

Safes providing security offer little resistance to high temperatures but will discourage a burglar. These safes are rated according to the time it takes for a burglar to break in using common tools. Some safes guard against both fire and burglary.

The most common types of safes fit into a wall or are buried in basement floors. A typical wall unit, about 10 square inches, might cost less than $200, plus approximately $50 to $75 for installation. Prices can increase sharply, depending on size and quality.

If you have some very valuable items or items that are not used frequently, you might want to consider a bank safe deposit box. For about $20 a year, you can rent a box 2-by-5-by-22 inches. Finding available space, however, may be difficult.

For those who don't want to wait for a bank deposit box, a private security vault firm may be the answer. Although more expensive than bank boxes, they offer 24-hour access, more sizes to choose from and often provide better temperature and humidity control. Many offer better security features; too, such as more up-to-date identification procedures and fire suppression systems.

Prices vary from city to city, but you could expect to pay from $50 to $150 a year for a 3-by-5-by-24 inch box. But renting space from a security vault company to store your valuables could lower the cost of your personal items insurance rider, if you have one, because your valuables are safer there than in your home.

Finding a safe place for your valuables should allow you to rest easier. As you sort out your valuables and your financial and other important papers, take this opportunity to contact a CPA and together review your entire estate.

Manufactured housing shows increases

Almost one-third of all new single family homes sold in America last year were manufactured homes.

The cost per square foot of new manufactured homes has decreased slightly over the past two years from $20.29 in 1983 to $20.19 in 1985, while the average per-square-foot cost of a site-built home increased nearly nine percent from $41.65 in 1983 to $45.18 in 1985.

These are a few of the statistics contained in the 1986 edition of "Quick Facts about the Manufactured Housing Industry," published by the Manufactured Housing Institute.

Some of the highlights contained in this year's edition of industry facts are the following:

□ Manufacturers sold 283,489 new homes in 1985.

□ Of the new manufactured homes sold in 1985, 33 percent were multi-section homes, up from 29 percent in 1984 and 27 percent in 1983.

□ The average sales price of a manufactured home in 1985 was $21,800 compared to $20,720 for a site-built home (both excluding land).

□ Ninety-five percent of manufactured homes are not moved once transported to a homesite.

□ Some 72 percent of new manufactured home buyers are under age 40 and their median household income is $19,800.

Single copies of "Quick Facts" are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business letter-size envelope to Quick Facts, Manufactured Housing Institute, P.O. Box 15848, Arlington, VA 22215.

The Manufactured Housing Institute is the national trade association of manufactured home builders and their suppliers.

Everyone's amazed when they hear what U.S. Savings Bonds have to offer.

Savings Bonds earn market-based interest rates—just like money market accounts—so you're guaranteed a competitive return, no matter what happens to interest rates. All you have to do is hold your Bonds for five years.

What's more, the interest you earn is completely free from state and local income taxes. And federal taxes can be deferred.

You can buy Bonds for as little as $25. And it's easy—purchase them where you work or bank. For the current rate, call 1-800-US-BONDS.

U.S. Savings Bonds—An investment too good for words.

Bonds held less than five years earn a lower rate. A public service of this publication.

How to keep your child away from drugs.

Arming them in a suit of steel might help. But once they leave your home, they're really on their own.

What can you do? Learn to recognize the symptoms of drug abuse. Look for failing grades in school. And irrational behavior. But most importantly, keep your lines of communication open with your children. Encourage them to tell you if they get offers of drugs. Show them you understand about peer pressure and how tough it is to walk away.

Teach your children to resist offers of drugs with a simple no.

In the Northville/Novi area, there currently are 17 preschools in operation with additional programs on the drawing board (such as the proposed Gerber Children's Center in Novi). To help parents find their way through the preschool maze, we've compiled the following list:

Sinus Headache Relief

The most common form of pain reported to physicians is headache. And two of the most common types of headaches are caused by either muscle tension or sinus problems. Muscle tension headache may feel as if a tight band is being constricted about the head at the forehead. Sinus headache is characterized by pain in the forehead, around the eyes, or behind the eyes — areas near the sinuses. Sinus headaches tend to linger for longer periods of time than do muscle tension headaches.

Both headache types can often be cared for with nonprescription medicines. Muscle tension headaches often respond to rest, neck massage, warm baths, and pain relievers such as aspirin or acetaminophen.

Sinus headaches may respond to warm, moist heat placed over the sinus areas. Although a dampened towel may be used, there are special heating pads that have been developed for this purpose. Medicines that may be helpful include decongestants and antihistamines as well as non-prescription pain relievers. Sinus headaches are often associated with allergy, and, for this reason, antihistamines may be of special value in those individuals who have allergic symptoms.

Manresa marks year

By JEAN DAY

Because their back yards in Northville Estates adjoin, it seemed a logical idea last weekend for Reggie and Robert Hodson and Joan and Ted Marzonie to co-host a picnic last Saturday marking the 10th anniversary of the Northville Manresa Caravan of Alhambra. Among the 200 Alhambra members from area caravans attending was Ken Kress, who organized the Manresa Caravan and now holds the title of past Supreme Captain of the Body in Alhambra.

"We thought 10 years deserved a celebration," Reggie Hodson explained, adding that, because both they and the Marzonies have pools, it was an ideal setting for the family outing.

Alhambra is known for its work with special children. Scholarships are provided for teachers of special education, and the organization has purchased a camp for retarded children in the Irish Hills. St. Louis Center in Chelsea, a school for retarded boys, also receives support. Hodson adds that one of its popular programs is an annual performing arts and talent show.

Manresa members work to maintain the playground at Our Lady of Providence home on Beck Road and also repair the bicycles there.

She is a cum laude graduate of the University of Dallas and has spent the last year doing cancer research in Microbiology at the University of Texas Medical Center in Dallas.

Bride hand stitches gown of Civil War era-design for plantation ceremony

Nottaway Plantation near Baton Rouge, La., known as the largest plantation in the South, was chosen as the setting for the wedding of Paula and Eric Purcell. The bride descended the wide stairway to be married in the White Room of the mansion where the five daughters of the original plantation owner had been wed in the Civil War era. She was escorted by her brother, John Curatelli of Fort Lauderdale.

For the ceremony, the bride wore a gown made from an authentic Civil War pattern. She hand-sewed the gown and the many undergarments which would have been worn with it in the Civil War era, including pants, under-the-hoop petticoat, hoop, over-the-hoop petticoat, camisole under the corset, corset and corset cover.

Of ivory silk imported from Thailand, the gown was hand stitched except for the main seams. Lavish scallops of lace and blue ribbon adorned the hemline with the detailing repeated on the back of the skirt. A lace picture hat with powder blue ribbon and veiling and lace mitts complemented the gown.

The bride plans to wear the ensemble in a competition of the North-South Skirmish. Her husband has been active in the association since he was 15 years old.

The newlyweds now are making their home in New Orleans following a wedding trip to Hawaii. The couple met through the bride's mother, Barbara Curatelli, of Satellite Beach, Fla., and the bridegroom's grandmother, Kay Dunton, who are bridge partners in Satellite.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Purcell of Thornapple Lane. They attended the wedding with Dr. and Mrs. Dean Ward of Northville. The bride also is the daughter of the late John Curatelli.

Harpichord and flute music provided background for the double ring, 7 p.m. ceremony at which the Rev. George Hicks, a Presbyterian minister from Baton Rouge, officiated April 26.

The bride's sister, Debra Savino of Orlando, Fla., was honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Ruby Melecco of West Palm Beach and Bonnie Shaughnessy of Virginia Beach, Va. They wore royal blue satin gowns.

Steve Bolint of Houston was best man. Ushers were Tim Kelly of Northville, Steve Cotichio of Grosse Pointe, Tom South of Ferndale and Eddie Schutta of New York.

The reception, held in a building on the plantation grounds, was attended by guests from many parts of the country, including California, Florida, New York, Ohio and Michigan. The bride had made the three-tier wedding cake which featured a fountain and bridges to satellite cakes.

Afterward, the wedding party remained overnight at the plantation.

The bride, who is a surgical nurse, is a member of the Army Reserve.

The bridegroom, a 1977 graduate of Northville High School, is an engineer with Shell Oil in New Orleans.

Age is no barrier for local seniors on softball field

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A popular saying making the rounds these days is that you're never too old to live out your childhood.

A group of senior citizens from Novi and surrounding areas certainly believes it, and every week heads out to the softball diamond to prove it.

The Novi Old Timers are preparing to wrap up their third season as members of the Eastside Senior Baseball League for players age 55 and older. The team was manager Chuck Burke's idea and, with help from Novi's Parks and Recreation, it became a reality. It gives the local seniors a much needed chance to make new friends, get exercise and compete in a friendly atmosphere against their peers.

Throughout metro Detroit, there are class A senior teams (no women), class B (optional) and class C (mandatory four women). The Old Timers, nicknamed the "OTs," play in the eight-team B Division with teams from Troy, Birmingham, Warren, Rochester, Independence Township.

"Most teams are on the other side of the suburbs, but we don't care, we just want to play," the 69-year old Burke said. "We like the other teams in our class. They are friendly groups — we just have a ball when we play together, nobody gets angry at anybody."

The players want to win and give it all they have, but there is an atmosphere of fun and accomplishment while they are out on the field — not bitter rivalry. The seniors take everything in stride and are able to laugh at themselves in the process.

"That a boy, Ted, way to run those bases — now you can go lay down."

Burke had been playing softball for most of his life, but after reaching his 50s, there weren't any more teams to play on. In 1984, he heard about the senior leagues in Florida and thought, "Why can't we have it here?"

"Some of us played a lot of softball until we were 50, and since then we hadn't been doing much until we got this team together," Burke related. "All of us were just waiting for something like this."

With that in mind, Burke approached Kathy Crawford at the Novi Parks and Recreation and got the ball rolling.

"I got together with Kathy and (Director) Tom O'Branovic and they got behind the idea," Burke explained. "They were terrific in helping me out, and I ended up with 15 for our first season."

During the '84 season, the OTs won just one game, but Burke was already seeing improvement. The players were learning how to play again and the spectator support continued to grow.

"There were also guys who came out that had never played baseball, but we took them anyway," Burke said. "And the wives usually come out for the games and that's a nice thing too."

Last season, the OTs improved their record to four wins, and this season the team grabbed first place in the league with a fine 8-1 mark. The OTs play today (Aug. 13) for the league championship.

Along with the success have come more players. The roster has grown to 19, and Burke always tries to get everybody some playing time.

"The maximum is 20 players, and I don't like to turn anybody down," he said. "I think everybody on our team is over 60, probably because a lot of guys 55 to 60 are still working."

"Where is the donuts today?"

Roughly three-quarters of the team resides in Novi, but there are also players from Northville, one from Troy, one from Farmington Hills and even one from Detroit.

"It's a long way to drive, but it's worth it," said George Proimos of Detroit. "We have a lot of fun — especially with these guys."

Burke has nothing but praise for Novi's Parks and Recreation Department. Crawford has been involved since the beginning, O'Branovic has continued to support the team, and program coordinator Dan Davis is often times an umpire at the OTs home games.

"They supply the balls and the fees — they are terrific in helping us out," Burke said. "If it weren't for them, we probably wouldn't have done it."

In the seniors league, 11 players are allowed on the field and substitutions can be made at any time. Even if a player isn't in the field, he must bat. The five-run an inning mercy rule and pinch runners are just a few of the other rules that are designed to help the game run smoother and easier for the participants.

"Everybody must bat, but all our guys can hit," Burke pointed out. "They all try their hardest, they get up there and swing like mad."

Home games are played every other week at Power Park at 9:30 a.m. The team's uniforms came courtesy of the Novi Bowl and say "Novi OTs" on the back. Practice is every Monday afternoon at the Goat Farm, and Burke reports that attendance at the practice sessions is very good.

"We practice a lot, and everybody comes out and gives 100-percent," he said. "We feel good after we practice and after we play."

"The guys are really taking it to heart now, and having a good time with it. They just can't wait for the next practice."

"We gotta run faster than that with two outs!"

Burke would be the first to tell you that it isn't all fun and games when the OTs get out on the field — they are there to win as well.

"We try real hard to win, but we are also out there to have fun," said pitching ace Art Glinz, the oldest player on the team at 74. "We do both."

"Our players really try," Burke confirmed. "They will run like crazy just to get a fly ball . . . and feel good afterwards."

Hitting at the senior level isn't a problem, but the fielding is often the difference between a win and a loss.

"Everybody makes errors at this level," said Burke, who plays shortstop for the OTs. "We're all old timers so you have to expect that."

"That's really what wins and loses these games. Sometimes you get lucky, but nobody gets mad and nobody jumps on you if you make an error because we all take our turns making them."

Another big advantage to the program is that the players and their families quickly become friends and get together for other activities in addition to softball. It's a chance for them to meet others their own age with some of the same problems, the same solutions and the same experiences.

"We've acquired all sorts of friends through this," Burke said. "We play golf and we get together with our wives at home and play pinochle. We certainly have developed quite a friendship between our team members."

"Great play — even if it's the enemy you have to give them credit."

There are a dozen original members of the team who were there from the very beginning, including: Joe McNamee, Kim Masser, Art Glinz, Harry Brown, Nelson Abernathy, Fred Birkby, Ted Brenner, Art Greenfield, Al Dreis and Chuck's younger brother, Ernie. Also on the roster is former major leaguer Alex Rajahunok who played for New York in the late 1940s.

"They call me the pitching ace, but we have a lot of pitchers," a modest Glinz pointed out. "I'm the oldest guy on the team so they put me at pitcher. We just go out there and have fun." "Yes, I'm an original player," Brenner, the assistant manager-catcher and former school principal said. "It's been great fun these past seasons — it gives us something to do and we love it."

"I wanted to play and Kathy (Crawford) was very receptive when I asked about an opening on the team," said Scott Brown, a first-year rookie from Farmington Hills. "It's been more than I expected — these are a real nice bunch of guys."

Despite being a 55 and over team, the turn over for the OTs isn't very great. Only two players from the '85 team failed to make it this season, and Burke said he plans to keep it going for as long as possible.

"A lot of guys now live in condos but there are quite a few that still have their homes," he said. "I plan to do this until my body won't let me anymore, and I know a lot of the guys feel the same way."

"We're old timers, but we're proud of it," Burke explained. "Not only can we still move around, but we are playing softball and winning."

Taught in steps, serving's a snap

"Sports Skills" is a Northville Record weekly series designed to help you improve your game — whether your game is golf or tennis, or whatever. Every week, a local expert will give tips on certain skills associated with a specific sport.

What makes John McEnroe, Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova the best tennis players in the world? One of the big reasons is their effective service game.

The serve in tennis parallels the drive in golf, the pitch in baseball or the snap in football. They are all very important aspects because the actual competition cannot begin until these tasks are carried out.

Novi Parks and Recreation tennis instructor Donna Polinsky knows the importance, and sometimes the complexities, of teaching the serve to aspiring tennis players. For that reason, Polinsky uses a routine of steps designed to break down the motion of the serve so the student can better understand the proper execution.

"Rather than teach it all in one part, it's better to start out in steps," Polinsky said. "The first step is to drop the racquet beside your body like a pendulum, then drop your elbow up high behind your head so the racquet scratches your back. The key is to keep the elbow high."

For beginner classes, Polinsky has her students practice this step over and over until they can do it without any difficulty. The rest of the service motion is not completed at this time and tennis balls aren't used, just the racquets.

The next step is for the students to extend their arm and racquet straight above their heads and measure approximately how high the toss should be for the racquet to hit the ball squarely and naturally. Polinsky said that illustrating this on a fence is effective because the student can better gauge the height of a desired toss.

"Of all the problems people have with serves, the biggest problem is the toss," Polinsky explained. "Having a consistent toss, with little roll or spin on the ball is a good start to an effective serve. I tell players to think of their hand as an elevator when raising the ball."

The next step puts the players back to the service position on the court where the service motion is picked up from where it left off — with the racquet behind the head, scratching the back. Still without using any tennis balls, Polinsky instructs the students to simulate the ball toss and the follow through only.

"The motion is tossing the ball and then almost throwing the racquet over the net," Polinsky said. "It's a throwing movement out into the court and toward the target, and there should be some wrist action."

Polinsky then hands out the balls and the students are asked to toss and serve the ball, starting from the point where the racquet is behind their heads, scratching their back. When the students can successfully serve the ball eight to 10 times, Polinsky believes they are ready to combine the individual steps. The result is a full service motion — the dropping of the racquet, the scratch of the back, the toss, the hit and follow through.

"Within an hour, most of the students can successfully reach this level, but they are serving without power," Polinsky pointed out. "Once the motion and techniques are correct, they can start to increase the speed a little."

If a player continually hits the serve into the net, wide to the right or left or just too deep, Polinsky can usually correct the problem.

"There are three basic corrections," she said. "If you keep hitting it into the net, your elbow is probably dropping too far or the toss isn't high enough. If the serve is too far right or left, your positioning is probably the problem. If the serve is continually too far, generally it's because the wrist isn't being snapped enough."

Positioning is important, and a good rule to remember, whether serving to the deuce (left) court or ad court (right), is that if you drew a line from your right to left toe and beyond, the line should extend straight to your target.

Polinsky demonstrates the steps that combine for an accurate serve

Holzer makes great strides in campaign

On the last day of July, Northville's Collegiate baseball entry, Tom Holzer Ford, wrapped up the 1986 season by finishing in third place. In the tough Livonia Collegiate Baseball League, the Northville team ended up with a respectable 16-14-2 record — not bad for a team that has only been in existence for two seasons.

"We accomplished a lot of our goals, and, heading into the 1987 season, we are considered a solid team," co-coach Fred Schmidt said. "We still lack depth and consistency in pitching, but we will be a force to reckon with next year."

Schmidt and co-coach Bob Peterson hoped the team could top the 15 win mark in 1986 — and it did. With 15 wins, they figured, the team would make the playoffs — and it did that too. All in all, the season was filled with optimism and satisfaction.

"We definitely made strides this season," Schmidt explained. "The main goal was 15 wins, hoping it would get us into the playoffs. Number two was to generate a better offense than a year ago, and I think we did that too. We still need more pitching — it's just not as good as the two teams that finished above us in the standings."

"We have the (pitching) talent, next season we need to develop it more. Part of the problem is that we are still so young as a team. If everybody comes back, we should have three pitchers over (age) 20 and that would be a first for us."

Hurler Dan Kopitzke turned out to be Holzer's ace this season, even though no Northville pitcher ranked among the league's top 10 in earned run average. Kopitzke was the LCBL's second most proficient strike out artist, with 50 on the year, and was Holzer's only pitcher represented in the All-Star Game.

But the standout player for Holzer, and perhaps the entire LCBL, was outfielder Martin Eddy. A player who emerged from nowhere to tear up the league's pitching, Eddy grabbed the batting title with an outstanding .405 average (34 hits in 84 at bats). He was also in the league's top three in RBIs (second with 26), extra base hits (first with 20) and runs scored (third with 26). In the most valuable player voting, Eddy tied with three others for third.

"Eddy will probably be the outstanding player in the league coming back next year," Schmidt predicted. "He is plain and simply a great hitter, and he sure did catch the eyes of a lot of big league scouts."

Another Holzer player at the top of his trade is 18-year old catcher Kevin Ritter. He was voted in as the starting catcher for the All-Star Game and batted .328 on the year.

"Ritter is undoubtedly by far the best catcher in the league," Schmidt stated. "He has such great potential because he is so solid and so young."

As the second youngest team in the league, Holzer should have a fine nucleus back next season. Schmidt is also every excited about the top-notch local talent coming up from the Northville area.

"The 17-18 year old talent in Northville is the best I've seen around, so we hope to get a nice influx of players, maybe five or six from Bob Frellick's (Connie Mack) team. They have an excellent group of quality players."

With the combination of tested veterans and promising rookies, Holzer should be improved and even more a threat to the established powers like Livonia Adray and Little Caesars.

"We now have the nucleus to win consistently at this level," Schmidt pointed out. "We've already done the hard work, now we need to put the finishing touches on it. The days of us getting out-personnelled are over. I'm very excited about next year."

Shortstop for Valley Sports relays to first while a Minooka runner streaks by in World Series action Friday

Blues place fifth in Jr. World Series

The second and final NABF World Series of the summer has now departed Northville, but a mountain of compliments, thank you's and new friends were left behind.

The 1986 Junior World Series wrapped up play last Sunday (Aug. 10), and Tournament Director Bob Frellick said it was the best one yet.

"It was the best tournament I've ever experienced," Frellick pointed out. "We received a lot of good, positive feedback from everybody, and there weren't any major problems at all."

The final team to qualify for the series ended up taking the first place trophy home, going undefeated in five games. The Bayside Yankees, representing the New York Regional, cruised through the tournament scoring 59 runs and surrendering only 20. Bayside's high powered offense averaged over 10 runs a game, and the pitching staffs of the other six squads couldn't keep up.

"Bayside was a good ball club," Frellick said. "They were strong all the way through their line-up. Nobody was able to handle their hitters."

Northville Mickey Mantle Blue was the host team, and, despite a lackluster record heading in (5-12), the team rose to the occasion and completed a very satisfying week of play. In first round action Aug. 7, Northville surprised the Manchester As by a score of 5-3 to advance to the second round. Manchester, the Strongsville (Ohio) Regional winner, dropped into the loser's bracket of the double elimination tournament.

"That win really put the boys on a high," Blue Coach Jim Behen said. "They were very excited, and it was such a positive experience for them."

In round two, Northville fell to the Victoria Firefighters 7-2. Victoria, the winner from the Seattle Area Regional, eventually moved on to the finals to face Bayside while the home team dropped into the lower bracket.

Northville's next game on Aug. 8 pitted the two Michigan teams against one another, and the state champs from Utica pinned the Blues with a 9-2 loss. But, despite the exit, Behen was very pleased as the Blue team ended the tourney in fifth place, ahead of both Manchester and the Manooka (Illinois regional) Merchants.

"We were extremely happy with the way the boys played," Behen said. "With this tough competition, we considered it an honor and a pleasure to be associated with a tournament like this."

"It's good for the Northville kids to see this caliber of play — it can only help our programs. It's also good for the younger kids that come out to watch."

To host an event like the Junior World Series takes long hours of work and planning, but Frellick believes it was all worth the effort.

"There is so many positives the kids and the community get out of an event like this," he explained. "The (Northville Junior Baseball) board will meet in the next three to four weeks and we'll decide whether we want to pursue more tournaments like this next year."
