Township may ask for county parcel

Although no official action has been taken, there is a move afoot to ask Wayne County to allow Northville Township to retain the Sheldon Road land it uses for a fire station, the senior citizen garden and soccer fields.

"We've been burdened with the land for some time now, and we may have been lax in not offering a proposal to the county before now," said Trustee James Nowka.

The county has requested proposals from real estate developers to market more than 900 acres of county property which formerly housed the Wayne County Child Development Center. The land has been off the township tax rolls, but the township has provided fire and police service to the property.

In exchange, the county has allowed the township to use the existing fire station and the soccer fields and garden area without charge.

Included in the property the county would like to sell is nearly 100 acres which had been earmarked for a senior citizen development. That development, however, is all but dead following discussions between the Economic Development Corporation of Wayne County and the proposed developers, Northville Elderly Housing, Inc. While the developers have not totally withdrawn their contract with EDC, it is anticipated they will do so shortly.

"We have to make a stab at getting that property," Nowka said, adding that he would be willing to offer a "trade" — no charge for fire and police service in return for the county giving the property to the township.

However, the county has not reimbursed the township for its services, nor has the township requested repayment.

Supervisor Susan Heintz, who will chair a committee to review development proposals, was on vacation and not available for comment regarding Nowka's move to acquire the property.

Ronald Chapman, assistant county executive, said the county has had no request from Northville Township regarding the property, but he said the county "would certainly consider such a move."

More than a year ago, the township planning commission seriously looked at the property and zoned it according to the most beneficial proposed uses. The acreage is zoned commercial, multi-family and some light industrial.

The county's requests for proposals went into the mail Friday Chapman said. He added he anticipated making a decision on development by the middle of October.

Schematics funded

With apartments in Allen Terrace completely rented and a waiting list extending to 45 names, it was only natural that thoughts turn to Phase II of the complex, and Monday more than thoughts turned to expanding the senior citizen complex.

City Council unanimously approved $25,470 for schematic designs to build an addition to the complex. The funds were taken from the city's anticipated $100,000 budget surplus.

Noting that the addition was planned prior to the construction of the first set of 100 apartments, the housing commission recommended expanding to 197 total units.

Also in place is an extra shaft for constructing an additional elevator, room for additional mailboxes in the common mail room and, by taking two existing units that already have higher ceilings, to double the size of the community room.

In addition to the expansion, Frances Yoakam, housing director, said the existing building will be facing renovation of tahe heating/air conditioning system in the near future. She said that the expansion and renovation is estimated to cost $3.5 million.

While approving the outlay for the schematic designs, the first step toward actually building the expansion, council noted that the money paid for schematic design would be refunded from a proposed bond sale. However, should the city decide not to proceed with the expansion, the money would be taken from the city's general operating funds.

Kamp DiComo, the designers of Allen Terrace, has been contacted to design the addition. Donald DiComo said in a letter to Yoakam that even if the project does not go beyond the drawings, the housing commission would have "a completed packet of schematic drawings and an updated model indicating the same."

Revenue bonds, sold to pay for the initial project, are in the ninth year of a 25-year amortization schedule. The housing commission has recommended an additional 25-year bond issue to pay for the expansion.

Board says no wine to go

Although a request from the liquor control commission for input from the township regarding requests for new SDM licenses in the township carries more form than substance, the township trustees turned down the requests for two additional licenses.

C.A. Muer Corporation, which owns and operates Northville Charleys, and the Country Pantry & Pizza on W. Seven Mile, both had requested SDM licenses, which would allow them to sell beer and wine for carryout purposes.

Although the police department has not completed its investigation, which is required by the LCC, Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty noted that Muer sells his own wine label at other locations in the metropolitan Detroit area.

Although he said he realized that voting against the proposals would

Blaze guts school at abandoned site, firefighter injured

A fire Monday in the school building at the former Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road made a prophet out of Northville Township Fire Chief Robert Toms, totally gutted the interior of the three-story building and sent one firefighter to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Just last Thursday, Toms told Northville Township Board of Trustees that conditions on the site were deplorable and that one day soon there would be a major fire at the site, which has been the scene of many small fires.

About 10:30 a.m. Monday, Toms' worst fears came true. The fire, which Toms characterized as an arson, apparently started in the kitchen area on the south end of the building and quickly spread to the other floors of the building.

Firefighters from the township, the city of Northville and Plymouth Township fought the blaze for nearly five hours, severely hampered by a lack of water from hydrants on the site.

"We must have sent our tankers back to be filled up 10 times," Toms said, noting that he estimated more than 100,000 gallons of water were used before the fire was brought under control about 3:30 p.m.

Toms said 17 Northville Township firefighters were engaged in battling the blaze, along with four or five firefighters from the city and an additional contingent from Plymouth Township.

Roger Borg was treated at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia for smoke inhalation, but was released Monday afternoon.

While answering calls to the site of the former child development center has become routine for township firefighters, Toms said this fire was more dangerous than most.

"What's happening over there is the buildings are being torched one by one. Pretty soon, there won't be a building left standing on the site."

Toms said he had "no idea" what dollar value to put on the destroyed property.

The property is part of a 900-acre parcel Wayne County intends to offer for sale. Requests for proposals from real estate developers were put in the mail on Friday.

City firefighter Allan Zielinski struggles for air

Sports cars are 'hot' property for thieves

'You'd be surprised at the number of would-be thieves who can be scared off by locked doors or a relatively inexpensive anti-theft device.'

Rodney Cannon

Corvettes, Monte Carlo SSes, IROC-Zs and Mustangs are hot cars. Not only are they much in demand from buyers, but people who steal cars like them just fine, too.

The popularity of the sporty and sports car has been translated into an alarming statistic — automobile thefts reported to Northville City Police are up more than 100 percent from a year ago and Police Chief Rodney Cannon says part of the reason is the popularity of the vehicles.

Michigan State Police statistics are equally alarming, although reports are incomplete for the first six months of 1986. However, in 1985, automobile thefts statewide were on the rise with 70 percent of those coming in the tri-county metropolitan Detroit area, said Paul Gahide, the director of the Automobile Theft Task Force for the Michigan State Police.

In the city, one vehicle was reported stolen in June, 1986, and one car was reported taken in May to leave police investigating 11 automobile thefts since the beginning of the year. Last year only five cars were reported stolen in the same time period.

Cannon says part of the reason for the increase in thefts is the increase in number of people living in the community, coupled with automobile owners failing to take some very elementary precautions.

"You'd be surprised at the number of would-be thieves who can be scared off by locked doors or a relatively inexpensive anti-theft device," Cannon said.

Gahide noted that some thefts are actually put-up jobs where people are facing high car payments and increasingly expensive repair bills. People then have their cars stolen to get out from under high costs associated with owning the vehicles.

"The people who opt for this aren't bad people," Gahide said. "They just have nowhere else to turn to get out from the bills."

Gahide said that the automobile thief today is much more professional than his counterpart of as recently as five years ago.

"Then, your average thief was someone who wanted to joyride or who found keys in an unlocked car and wanted to 'borrow' it. Today, cars are stolen by people who have 'parts shopping lists' as well as people who want a new car without paying for it."

Cannon said that, while no one can really stop a determined thief, there are ways to make it more unlikely an individual vehicle will be stolen. He added that parking the vehicle in a locked garage or under a street light also are means of thwarting would-be thieves.

While auto thefts showed the largest rise in the major crime statistics released by the city police department, other areas of crime have also increased.

Larceny reports are up one from a year ago and arsons are up 600 percent. Three arsons were reported in June, bringing the year's total to six. Last year, during the same time period, there were no arsons reported in the city.

While reported crimes against property have increased, crimes against people have dropped in the first six months of 1986. Reported burglaries have shown a decrease with 13 reported this year as opposed to 23 a year ago and aggravated assaults show a 50 percent drop, from six reports in the first six months of 1985 to only three reports in 1986.

Farm continues to reap harvest for Meyer family

By ANN CHOWDHURY

When Howard Fredrick Meyer and his wife, Sherry, moved from Detroit to Northville in 1942 with their first two children, Howard Jr. (Howie) and Lawrence (Larry), they were establishing a way of life which continues to influence their family today.

Meyer Sr.'s forefathers had come to Greenfield township from Bremen, Germany, in 1836 and settled on what came to be known as Meyer Road in Detroit because it went through Meyer's farm.

The area gradually became industrialized, and the farm was split up and sold, though on moving his family to Northville, Howard Meyer kept part of the property on which he owned a tool and die shop.

The property Meyer bought in Northville is now The Meyer Berry Farm on West Eight Mile Road just west of Beck Road.

Sherry had fallen in love with the

All in the Family

old farmhouse because she loved antique furniture. "I knew I could just bring my furniture from Detroit and set it right down," she said.

Now, 45 years later, the home which dates back to the early 1800s is full of the memories of the happy, busy years she shared with her husband until his death in 1977, and to the present day with the frequent comings and goings of her children, grandchildren and great-grandchild.

Though Howard Sr. continued to travel into Detroit daily to the tool and die business, he farmed the 45 acres in Northville, and his growing sons helped as much as they could.

In the early days they grew grain crops, had combines in to harvest them, and what was not used for their own animals was marketed.

Sherry said that during the war years they were particularly fortunate. With the cows, chickens and hogs they were never short of food, or company, especially for Sunday dinner!

"I cured the hams, strained the milk to make butter, buttermilk and cream, and made bread twice a week," she remembers.

She is still fond of the old milk house on the premises which was built from field stone about the same time as the house and original barn in the 1830s. It still contains the covered well and one corner built in by a low wall where the milk cans stood as the water was pumped around them to cool the milk.

Behind the milk house stands a jungle gym, as sturdy as the day it was built out of plumbing fittings by former Northville plumber Alex Lyke, for the Meyer children when they were small.

As the children grew, Sherry made time for volunteer activities in Northville. She was the second volunteer PLANNERS MEET: Northville Township Planning Commission meets at 8 p.m. at township hall.

Livonia offers health screenings

Because there will be no local health screening program for senior citizens conducted in Northville this year, Northville Senior Citizens will be able to go to the Livonia Senior Center Sept. 16 and 17 for the free program.

However, Karl Peters, Northville

senior citizen coordinator, warns that Northville seniors must call the Livonia center, 522-2710, on Sept. 2, the date registration opens, in order to make an appointment.

Funded through the Senior Alliance, the screenings are conducted by the People's Community Hospital Authority.

Peters says it was indicated that Northville was not being given a local program this year as the community is too small, even though local screenings had been held here the two previous years. Instead, Livonia is being allocated an extra day.

John Gross to lecture at Schoolcraft

Sports personality John Gross will discuss "Self-Motivation: How to Achieve Your Life Goals" at a free lecture at 9:45 a.m. Monday, August 25, in Room 110/105 of the Physical Education Building on the Schoolcraft College campus.

Gross has done more than 300 network sports reports. His stories have appeared on the "Today Show," "Good Morning, America" and NFL 77 and 78.

He has reported on three Super-bowls, the USFL Championship game, the 1980 Winter Olympics, the 1984 Summer Olympics, the Indy 500 and the World Championship Title Fight between Thomas Hearns and Wilfred Benitez.

The lecture is open to the public and of charge. For more information, call 591-6400, extension 494.

When you see our guestrooms, you'll think we're a posh hotel with prices to match. But we're not. When you check out our rates, you'll think we're a bare-bones budget motel with comfort to match. But we're not. Our guestrooms look and feel like those of a hotel. But they cost a whole lot less.

NOW ISN'T THAT A PLEASANT SURPRISE!

We don't give you the kind of extras a hotel does. You know, things you don't need but must pay for anyway.

We give you extras you can really use — at no extra cost. For instance:

! An oversize, decorator appointed guestroom with extra desk-top work space and extra lighting. ! A choice of two extra-long double beds or a king-bed and parlors desk. ! A push-button phone that can be moved anywhere in the room. ! Extra large, fluffy towels and two sizes of soap bars. ! No smoking rooms. ! Free USA Today available. ! Free photocopy service. ! Satellite TV featuring Movie Channel and ESPN ! Free continental breakfast.

You're in for a pleasant surprise when you stay at Skylight Inn. Problem is, once you do there won't be any surprise left. Just lots of pleasant.

NEWS BRIEFS

SOMEWHERE OUT THERE is a golf enthusiast who may never have to buy another golf ball.

Hazen Wilson told police that during the last two months, a person or persons unknown have been picking up the golf balls at Oasis Golf Driving Range that the machine owned by the driving range has not been able to pick up.

Wilson estimates that 10,000 golf balls, valued at $4,581, have been taken.

A FILM CREW from Albuquerque, N.M., shooting footage for a planned television commercial, was the first to take advantage of Northville's new-old cost recovery policy regarding assistance for the crews.

The city council agreed to keep its current policy of charging producers $50 plus repaying the police department for the cost of two officers for at least four hours each during film sessions.

The Albuquerque crew was filming in the Main-Center street areas last week.

Wilma Young shows the raw material and the finished product of her art, carving wood dolls

Youngs carve niche in craft exhibition

The wooden dolls and turned chess figures that Wilma and Donald Young will be displaying and selling at the Northville Arts and Crafts Show this Friday and Saturday are completely "home grown."

When she begins to carve one of her acclaimed dolls, Wilma Young usually starts with a piece of wood cut from a tree on the couple's property on Nine Mile. Often it is a limb from a white ash tree that becomes a slim, graceful doll.

Using woodworking machines and working at a well equipped bench in her garage workroom, she turns the block of wood into an old-fashioned doll which she carefully paints and dresses.

Her husband does larger items, she said.

The Youngs have been creating in wood for six years. While they try to limit the number of shows in which they exhibit, they will be doing nine of them this year.

"Their work is extremely popular and an addition to the show," noted Del Black, who is serving as chairman for the show for the Northville Merchants' Association. He added that the association persuaded the Youngs to do the Northville show.

The sidewalk craft show on Main and Center streets downtown will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. The streets will not be blocked off for this event, Black reported, noting that only the sidewalks will be used for the exhibits of 30 to 40 craftspeople.

"It will be a nice show," Black said. "This year's is as big as last year's, but it is a more balanced exhibit of crafts."

The Northville Alumni Jazz Band will be playing from 3-6 p.m. Friday in the Town Square Park by the clock and will be followed by the Novi Concert Band, which will be entertaining there from 7:30-9 p.m. Saturday from noon to 5 p.m. the Northville Alumni Jazz Band again will play.

Exhibits will include folk and country art, tole painting, silk and satin flowers, quilting, handmade jewelry, basket weaving, ceramics, leather work, "lace" glass pieces and needlework.

Black mentioned that local craftspeople will include Susan DeBolt who specializes in knitting and will have afghans.

Pat Schuchard of South Lyon will be bringing tole work for her booth.

for the new Northville State Hospital, organizing the "Happy Diggers" (a horticultural therapy group) for the geriatric patients, and helping the Protestant chaplain.

She also helped Northville Chief of Police Joe Denton with the first Junior Police Group, of which the Meyers' son Terrence was a member.

Sherry thinks it was the influence of this experience that led her son to law enforcement. He and his family are now in Lansing where he is a police lieutenant for Michigan State University Campus Police and teaching at the Police Academy.

The Meyers' oldest son, Howie, is an engineer for Ford, and somehow made the transition from growing up in an old farmhouse to being a dealer for Cathedralite Dome Homes, one of which is home for him and his family in Plymouth. He helped a lot in the early years of the berry farm.

Daughter Sheridan moved to San Francisco where she works for American Airlines, but still keeps in close touch with home.

Larry and his family stayed in Northville, and the farm is still a big part of his life.

Sherry remembers 10-year-old Larry sitting in a tree many years ago, watching the road when she was coming from the hospital with her new daughter, Sheridan. She soon realized, however, that he was watching in the opposite direction. He was eager for the first glimpse of the new tractor that was also being delivered that day.

When he was older, Larry raised a calf and sold it to buy a used Jeep. It was the beginning of a combined interest in agriculture and engineering which eventually lead to a degree in agricultural engineering and a dual career.

An engineer for Eaton Company, Larry is the main organizer behind the present Meyer Berry Farm.

"When Dad was getting near retirement back in the 70s, we were concerned that if he didn't produce anything on the farm he'd lose it, and wouldn't be able to afford to live there during his retirement. That was when I came up with the idea to raise strawberries," Larry explained.

The pick-your-own concept for strawberries has grown. There is now an asparagus crop before the strawberries, a vegetable stand with sweet corn, peppers, tomatoes and cantaloupe melons during the summer, chrysanthemums in the fall, pumpkins for Halloween and Christmas trees in December.

All in the Family Part X:

Larry could not manage all this alone and ever get to work, so his daughters, Kelli, Debbi Bostwick, and son, Matthew, pitch in.

Matthew does a lot of the general field work which involves the heavy machinery and tends the Christmas trees. He fits this in with his studies at MSU and bike trips.

Debbi, who has a baby daughter, Valerie, and lives in Novi, stays involved. This year she picked out, ordered and planted the chrysanthemums and will be responsible for marketing them in the fall.

Kelli, who will graduate from MSU with a degree in preschool and kindergarten education this winter, has done most of the work on the farm this summer.

What she earns from her efforts will go toward her tuition. She is responsible for the sweet corn, melons, tomatoes and green peppers now on the fruit and vegetable stand in front of the old barn.

She prepared the fields, ordered and planted the crops, sprayed them for insect control, and is harvesting them. It all makes for a busy summer away from her studies, but since she did two semesters of agriculture at MSU before moving into teaching she is enjoying the experience.

Record/JERRY ZOLYNSKY

Sherry Meyer, standing, oversees the work being done by Larry Meyer, Valerie Bostwick and Kelli Meyer

Somehow, she also fits in two hours a day working as a teacher's aide in the Kids Club Program at Moraine School, and attends night school at Oakland Community College.

Kelli admits she would not be able to handle some of the work without her father's help. "I can't hitch up the plough to the tractor alone." But she is learning fast.

She enjoys farming more then when she and her brother were small and had to ride the planter. "That was monotonous putting all those little things in the ground. It seemed to take so long, and I remember my brother and I would tell each other we would have to go to college so not to have to do this."

Ironically the skills she learned then are now helping pay her college tuition, and she is enjoying the satisfaction of raising her own crops. Some mornings it's still hard though. "I woke up with backache this morning but had to go out and pick more corn," she admitted.

It all seems worth the effort, though, when customers, many of them old friends by now, comment over the freshness and quality of the vegetables, and happily carry off the makings of a summer picnic or barbecue.

Sherry is in no way left out of the action despite her almost 76 years. In fact, she has created plenty of her own. Indulging her long time interest in antiques she started her own business, Weather Vane Antiques, as soon as the family was old enough to allow her the time.

Her touch has so transformed the old farmhouse that it has been a favorite on the Northville Presbyterian Women's Association home tours in the past.

Williamsburg blue and cream trim outside, it has a field stone basement with many of the original beams with adz marks and bark attached.

The home also has its original oak floors and an Ashly wood burning farm stove on a brick hearth. The furniture is all antique, Victorian and earlier. Many pieces are those she and her husband carefully transported from Detroit 45 years ago.

When she first started selling antiques, Sherry used her children's former play house to display them. Then in 1978, Larry moved the farm machinery out of the old barn into a new one he had built.

Sherry decided it was time for the weathered barn with its Virginia Creeper covered silo, to start a new career, and it has since been an ideal setting for her large collection of antiques.

Since the fruit and vegetable stand is set up in front of the barn, visitors are treated to a double feature.

The current main attraction of the display in the barn is a hand carved, pineapple design mahogany bed, set up for a canopy. It dates back to 1810 and has belonged to the Meyer family for 50 years. Near it stands a maple 1840 cannon ball bed.

The antiques fit in well with the fruit and vegetable business, which, according to Larry, fulfills customers recreational appetites as much as their need for food these days.

He said that until several years ago, typical customers were housewives arriving in station wagons in the morning to purchase vegetables or fruits to cook or preserve.

With more women working outside the home, most customers are now families, who consider a weekend of fruit picking, a fall drive out to the pumpkin patch, or an excursion to choose a Christmas tree something special to do with the family during the more limited time they spend together.

The Meyer family serves its customers a taste of a passing way of life, which with the berries and corn is still sweet and warm from the sun.

CHIROPRACTIC FOR BETTER HEALTH

WORKER'S COMP COVERS

For injuries which are job-related, Worker's Compensation will compensate the patient. This applies to chiropractic treatment as well as other types of health care. In fact, because of the savings in both time lost and costs, insurance companies are very favorably disposed to chiropractic treatment of injuries.

What kind of savings? Well, for every day a worker is off the job because of a job-related injury, it costs Worker's Comp, the company, and the individual money. Anything which can reduce the amount of time lost is a money-saver; and, over the years, chiropractic treatment has proven itself extremely effective in returning workers to full activity after certain types of injuries.

Of course savings in money may not be your primary interest, but it should be in your interest to be returned to full and vigorous health in the shortest possible time, and with the least chance of complications.

In the interest of better health from the office of:

TRACY KOHL, daughter of James and Judith Kohl of 1034 Springfield, is one of 40 students recently admitted to the Michigan State University Honors College.

Students who have demonstrated outstanding academic ability are considered for Honors College membership. The students and their advisors plan an academic program tailored to their individual needs and interests which may include graduate courses, independent projects and special honors courses.

Kohl, a 1985 Northville High School graduate, is a sophomore majoring in finance. She is active in many campus activities including her residence hall association and the International Association of Students in Economics and Business.

DAN CLARK, a Northville resident and Detroit Catholic Central Junior, attended the American Legion Boy's State in Lansing from June 12-18.

Belanger, Inc. sponsored his participation in the government workshop.

MICHAEL HO, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cmen Ho of Northville, was among the 40 fifth, sixth and seventh grade students participating in the 1986 Scholastic and Arts Program at Mars Hill College this summer.

The program was designed for gifted and talented youngsters. Michael is a student at Meads Mill.

KENNETH BOOTH of Northville received a National Merit Scholarship commendation from the Plano Senior High School in Plano, Texas.

Booth received a letter of commendation in honor of outstanding academic promise, demonstrated by placing in the top 5 percent of more than one million participants in the 31st annual National Merit Scholarship Program.

MICHAEL F. CHIANG, son of Shangli and Anna Chiang of 42009 Banbury Court, was awarded the Rensselaer Medal from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute (RPI).

Each year, RPI presents the Rensselaer Medal to high school students for outstanding achievements in the study of mathematics and science during their junior year. Chiang attends Catholic Central High School.

Northville resident MIKE CAMPBELL recently was graduated from the Specs Howard School of Broadcast Arts in Southfield.

A Northville High School graduate, he completed courses in broadcast arts that included radio/television production, newswriting and tape editing. Other facets of the program were voice and performance development, media time sales and promotions.

Seven Northville residents were among the 460 Michigan State University students receiving perfect 4.0 grade point averages for spring term.

Students earning perfect grade point averages include JEANNINE BERGERS, 21298 Eastfarm; MICHAEL CAIRNS, 19747 Hayes Court; CYNTHIA EPPERS, 16454 Old Bedford; PAUL HAVALA, 42266 Chatterton Court; JULI MARR, 38692 Cheshire; KRISTIN NELSEN, 18238 Shadbrook Court; and KIMBERLY TERWIN, 42928 Richards Court.

Three Northville residents were among the 141 Kalamazoo College students named to the dean's list for the spring quarter. Students named to the dean's list must achieve a 3.5 grade point average or better on a 4.0 scale.

Students named to the dean's list include LISA ANN EHLERT, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Ehlert, 42062 Banbury; TINA RAE STOECKLIN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Stoecklin, 21856 N. Center; and KAREN L. WEAVER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Weaver, 21991 Bedford Drive.

High School graduate WILLIAM L. YANT received a Schoolcraft College Trustee scholarship for the 1986-87 academic year.

Each year, the board of trustees awards scholarships to graduating seniors from the high schools located in the college district. Trustee scholarships are $500 for the academic year and are renewable. Second-year renewal requires a 2.5 grade point average and completion of 26 credit hours.

Northville resident CAROL S. MUNSELL was among the 319 Siena Heights College students receiving degrees at the college's 65th commencement ceremonies. Munsell received a bachelor of applied science degree in Allied Health: Nursing.

Northville resident KELLY BORCHERS was among the more than 200 students from throughout the United States attending the Cecchetti Ballet Conference July 6-18 at Michigan State University.

The conference, now in its 35th year, is open to young dancers 12 and older who wish to improve their dance movement and style. It is sponsored by the Cecchetti Council of America and MSU's Lifelong Education Programs.

Northville residents SUSAN GIROUX and JERRY HENDERSON were among the Ferris State College included on the academic honors list for the spring quarter.

To be eligible for the honors list, a Ferris student must have compiled a 3.5 grade point average in at least 12 quarter hours of graded work.

Senior center to dole food

Karl W. Peters, coordinator of the Northville Area Senior Center, announces that the center has become an official food distribution center for Focus Hope Food for Seniors Program. Any senior citizen, age 60 or older, will qualify for Food for Seniors if he meets the income guidelines.

Brennan returns Scott case to Farmer Aug. 29

By ANITA CRONE

Despite spending nearly two hours in Wayne County District Court Friday, Northville Township is no closer to a judicial ruling on its request for an injunction against the Michigan Department of Corrections than it was Aug. 1 when the suit to block moving prisoners temporarily onto the site of the still-under-construction Scott Regional Correctional Institute initially was filed.

Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brennan told the litigants he was unable to schedule a full hearing on the matter Aug. 15, but was willing to take the matter under advisement and call attorneys for both parties Aug. 18 and let them know whether he would be willing to hear the matter.

The suit was scheduled originally to be heard by Judge Charles Farmer Aug. 29; however, Farmer was on vacation when the Michigan Attorney General's office, representing the Department of Corrections, requested an expeditious hearing on the matter.

Martin Vittands, assistant attorney

The DeHoCo prisoners are literally lifting the cover off storm sewers and walking away from the facility.'

— Ernest Essad, Jr.
— Northville Township attorney general, told the court that the department was not willing to pay the $70,000 to erect a temporary fence to separate the temporarily housed inmates from the workers completing the construction of the prototype prison.

"After the agreement to postpone the hearing the Department of Corrections expressed concern about having to spend money for temporary housing if the court would rule that we were not able to move prisoners onto the site on a temporary basis," Vittands said in explaining the request for a new hearing date.

"If they spent the money, could they use the fence in the construction of the permanent facility," questioned Brennan. Upon being told it could not be used, Brennan then suggested the Aug. 18 alternative.

However, Ernest Essad, representing the township, told the judge he planned to be out of town and would not be available should Brennan schedule a full hearing on the 18th, and Vittands said he, too, would be out of town, suggesting an alternative of a middle-of-the-week hearing.

Brennan then informed both sides he would be at a judicial conference the latter half of the week, suggesting the alternative hearing date of Aug. 25.

After discussion among both sides and the judge, the attorneys suggested an alternative of sending the case back to Farmer's court and allowing the full hearing to be held Aug. 29 as originally agreed to by the two parties.

The township is seeking not only to stop the department from allowing double bunking at Scott, but also a hearing on the constitutionality of the prison overcrowding act amendment of 1968.

Essad said it was the township's contention that once anything other than single bedding was allowed in the prison prior to the end of 1986, the corrections department would then push for double bunking up until 1988 under the terms of the emergency overcrowding act.

The attorney noted that the corrections department had circulated a memorandum to the state Legislature listing 19 facilities where double bunking would be allowed. "Scott was notably absent from the list," Essad said.

"Although the Department of Corrections has repeatedly assured us and the Legislature that it would not double bunk prisoners at Scott, we were given the same assurances when the department took over DeHoCo. There, prisoners are literally lifting the cover off storm sewers and walking away from the facility," he said.

Scott originally was scheduled to open as a single-cell facility in November; however, during the request on rescheduling the hearing date, a representative for the state said he anticipated the prison would not be fully ready to open prior to mid-December.

Until the hearing, the state has assured the township it will not move any prisoners onto the site.

Township controls DeHoCo land taxes

The signing Aug. 11 of a stipulation of voluntary dismissal of petition in the Michigan Tax Tribunal leaves a decision whether to pursue placing two contiguous, previously tax exempt parcels of land on the township's tax rolls up to Northville Township.

However, the township has made no decision as to whether it will pursue the matter, started early this year, when the township board of review denied a petition from Detroit that the property, which Detroit contended was used to train police officers, be allowed to maintain its tax exempt status.

Immediately upon the ruling by the board of review, the township asked the Michigan Tax Commission to approve putting the two parcels on the rolls, but did not receive a response from that body until recently.

Detroit, meanwhile, filed a lawsuit in the Michigan Tax Tribunal, contending that the township had improperly added the land to the tax rolls after the first meeting of the board of review and that Detroit should receive a refund of any taxes paid.

"I think Detroit acted precipitously in filing the suit, since the property was not on the rolls," said Charles G. Hemming, who signed the agreement to dismiss the suit for the township.

By signing the agreement, all parties agreed to halt action in the tax tribunal; however, Hemming noted that it was possible, should the township pursue taxing the property, Detroit would again bring suit in the tribunal.

Meanwhile, the tax commission agreed that the matter should be decided by the tax tribunal, although a letter from commission member John Person approved placing the land on the assessment rolls.

Person's letter agreed, however, "the tax tribunal was the proper body to rule on the matter." And Robert Vandermark, chairman of the tax commission, said the commission would decline to rule on the matter.

"What the agreement does is stop action in the tax tribunal," agreed Janet Cox, public affairs officer for the Michigan Department of Treasury.

Seven-year-old Brandon Pender prays at services Sunday while the Rev. Eric Hammar, minister of First United Methodist Church, performs the blessing of the animals. Pender and his dog, Cider, were among the many worshippers attending the ser-

County budget holds the line on spending

Although county fiscal experts project an increase in property tax revenue for fiscal 1987, Wayne County Executive William Lucas' proposed $203 million budget calls for "holding the line" on expenses.

Despite the modest increase in property tax revenue — the first increase in nearly five years — the county is expected to lose $10.7 million in federal revenue sharing.

"Wayne County's financial picture for the 1986-1987 fiscal year continues to be severely restricted by reductions in revenue and increases in operating costs. We have over the last four years made great strides toward acknowledging substantial debt and obligations previously unrecognized by past county budgets," Lucas said in his budget message to county commissioners, who must act on the budget.

The budget, which Lucas described as "stern," calls for $3.1 million less in spending over this year and outlines reductions in several departments. They include the offices of the Wayne County Board of Commissioners and County Executive, medical diagnostic service in the sheriff's department, the Wayne County Youth Home and the Wayne County Clerk's office.

According to Wayne County Budget Director Ervin Morehead, the recommended budget will be fueled by $130.5 million in general property taxes, representing a $4.5 million increase over the current year. The difference is projected to come from an estimated 3.5 percent rise in property values.

The new budget is based on the current 7.07 general operating millage, which remains unchanged. The budget year begins Dec. 1.

The Lucas budget, down from this year's spending level of $206.8 million, takes into account the $10.7 million anticipated loss in federal revenue sharing. Other factors are the cost of medical care for county indigents and disputed COLA payments now tied up in litigation before the state Supreme Court, said Morehead.

"There are only two things standing in the way of Wayne County's good health," said Morehead. "They are the Patient Care Management System and the AFSCME/COLA issue facing the Supreme Court. Now we've paid some of that because of decisions made in the Court of Appeals, but we're estimating (the remainder) is between $8-$17 million."

"That's going to represent a significant problem for our budget because there's nothing in the budget for that," he said.

According to Morehead, this year's recommended budget draft calls for $12.7 million more in five key areas and some $2.5 million in cuts in others. The balance will be offset by rolling back other department expenses to current levels and in some cases to 1984-1985 levels.

"Some departments will have to cut back further because there are no provisions for pay increases," he said.

The recommended cuts include:

- $800,000 in expenses for the Wayne County Board of Commissioners. Morehead said that amount translates to approximately six staff positions and some operating expenses. Lucas' proposed budget has allocated $2.44 million;

- $286,000 in the office of the Wayne County Executive, leaving a recommended $1.2 million in the budget one month before Lucas retires from the post;

- $451,000 in cuts causing the elimination of a Medical Diagnostic Program run in the Sheriff's Department for jail inmates. In a previous budget skirmish, the Lucas administration attempted to use outside contractors to perform this service to avoid paying higher government union salaries. Another battle is expected this year;

- $391,000 in cuts to the county clerk's office;

- $373,000 in cuts to the county youth home. Morehead said he expected little impact in this area and expects to offset the cuts by raising the daily rate for care of wards of the state. The state currently pays Wayne County $109 per day for the care of one child and plans are to raise that to $125. There is a twofold purpose in that, he said. The youth home is chronically overcrowded and county placements are difficult to make because of a state backlog in transferring youngsters out of the facility;

- $240,000 in the prosecutor's office. "Their budget is a couple of million dollars so this represents peanuts to them," he said.

The areas to be increased include: $4.6 million to the Wayne County Probate Court; $2.3 million to pay off the county's $34.9 million deficit; $600,000 to the building division; $500,000 to the Department of Social Services; and, $1.6 million for updating data processing services.

Also included in the budget is restoration of park funding, bringing the park system to a proposed budget of $4.1 million, the same amount originally scheduled for last year. However, the commissioners cut the budget to $3.25 million.

County commissioners will study the budget and make their recommendations. Both the commission and executive must agree on the document before it is adopted.

Gypsies fleece elderly city resident

In the city . . .

Northville City Police received a report on what is believed to be the first gypsy-type activity in the area this summer.

According to the police report, a white male and female successfully pulled off a variation of the home improvement scam, robbing a 92-year-old Northville woman of over $1,500 in belongings, including her pet poodle, "Peppie."

On Aug. 15 at about 3 p.m., the victim told police she left her cooking in the kitchen to answer a knock on the door. The two suspects entered the house to discuss possible home repair to her roof.

Suddenly, the female started to walk into the kitchen commenting on the smell of food, and the victim followed. While the female followed through with the distraction, the male remained in other room unattended.

The couple eventually left the house and drove off in an unidentified car, but the owner soon discovered Peppie was missing as well as a white gold ring with a one half carat diamond, valued at $1,500.

The male is described as about 35 years old, between 135 and 145 pounds, wearing a white T-shirt, dark baseball cap and a mustache.

. . . in the township

Northville Township Police recovered a 1983 Cadillac Eldorado reported stolen by a Plymouth woman, Aug. 15.

Police found the car, running but with the steering column punched out and the radio missing, after responding to a citizen's report of the vehicle abandoned in a field south of Northville Forest Drive.

Police estimate there was $600 worth of damage to the $20,000 car. There are no suspects in the incident.

A boy's 10-speed bicycle, which had been reported stolen from a city youth, was recovered by township police Aug. 11. The bicycle was abandoned for two days in the backyard of the Christian Community Church before a township resident contacted the police department.

Two apparent walkaways from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital were returned to the facility last week.

Hospital security officers returned a 30-year-old black man to the facility after he was discovered walking on Maxwell north of Seven Mile Road Aug. 11.

In another incident, a township man took a 76-year-old male to his home after the resident discovered the man walking near a lake Aug. 12.

The elderly man was transported to the hospital by police, who left him with the admitting clerk at the facility.

A Southfield woman, working in Northville Township, discovered the hard way that the Ladies Home Journal had not authorized anyone to perform a survey on sexual freedom.

The woman told police she received a call from a male who identified himself as a psychologist performing a survey for the magazine. After talking to the caller for two hours, the woman hung up, only to have the man call back two hours later, requesting more information.

The woman again answered the man's questions; however, she became suspicious when the man called back a third time. The woman told police she contacted the magazine, which said it was conducting no such survey and would not do so over the telephone.

When the man called back yet a fourth time, the woman confronted him with the information and then called police, who have no suspects in the incident.

Bid process begins for western fire hall

Citing the possibility of Wayne County selling the land on which a fire station is located on Sheldon Road north of Five Mile, Fire Chief Robert Toms asked the township board of trustees to request bids on completing the voter-approved fire station in the western part of the township.

"If Wayne County sells the child development center, we would lose our fire station," Toms said in making his request at last Thursday's board of trustees meeting.

Toms noted that the township has had numerous calls to the facility, but has been hampered in fighting the fires by the lack of water at the site.

"Obviously, the county has turned off the water to the hydrants and so when we are called in, we have to bring our own water," he said.

Bruno Scacchitti, township manager, told the board he thought it unlikely that a request for bids would affect the township's request for bonding, and the board voted unanimously to proceed with the bids.

Voters approved Aug. 5 a 0.6-mill tax increase to pay for the new station, which is expected to cost $350,000. The additional funding would be used for fire department operations.

The fire station design calls for three bays as well as a work area around the station. Included in the initial designs are living and recreation quarters for firefighters, although with the exception of Toms, the township firefighters are all volunteers.

False alarm brings fire department running

More firefighters responded to a false alarm in July than responded to any other township fire department call.

According to a report issued by Fire Chief Robert Toms' office, 16 volunteer firefighters answered a July 13 false alarm at Woodbend.

Thirteen firefighters answered the call to help on two separate vehicle fires. The first was reported July 17 at Beck Road between Six and Seven Mile roads; the second on July 23 on Woodhill.

In all, the department responded to 19 calls for assistance including two false alarms, six to assist the police department, two calls to washdown an area, two fires in dumpsters, one rubbish fire and one rescue run.

Township to LCC: No more carry out wine

not necessarily stop the LCC from granting permits, Trustee James Nowka said denying the permits might be a way to stop additional requests for licenses.

"I have nothing against the businesses requesting the licenses, but we are getting inundated with requests. I feel we should deny these and direct the clerk to send a letter to the LCC requesting they reject the requests," Nowka said.

The LCC routinely sends communities a 15-day notice indicating a request has been made for a license. Included in the notice is a paragraph stating "although local governing body approval is not required by the Michigan Liquor Control Act for off-premise licenses, the local governing body or its designee, may notify the Commission within 15 days of receipt of this letter if the applicant location will not be in compliance with all appropriate state and local building, plumbing, zoning, fire, sanitation and health laws and ordinances, or if the applicant is considered ineligible due to other factors."

There is no provision in the notice for denying the request on the basis used by the trustees.

Novi Skylight Inn opens for business

Another hotel is now open along the I-275/Haggerty Road corridor.

The 128-room Skylight Inn on Haggerty Road near Eight Mile, immediately east of the Novi Hilton, opened for business last week.

The Skylight Inn is the twelfth and newest property for the Skylight Inn chain of "rooms-only" inns located throughout the eastern United States. The new inn is only 30 minutes from a sister facility in Southfield, the second ever built by the chain.

Ryan H. Hardin is manager of the new Skylight Inn/Novi. Cheryl Cassidy of Northville is sales manager in charge of corporate and group bookings.

"We've found the Detroit area to be a strong market for this new concept in high-quality, rooms-only lodging," said Ronald W. Lingafelter, president of the chain which is headquartered in Cleveland, Ohio.

"We are delighted to be part of the growth along the I-275 corridor and believe Skylight Inns offer a needed 'in-between' choice for the Novi/Farmington area."

Lingafelter stressed that Skylight Inns are neither budget motels nor full-service hotels. "Our rooms are 10 percent larger than motels, and our services and appointments are of higher quality than the budgets," he said. "But our rates are much lower than full-service hotels because we've eliminated the costs of restaurants and lounges."

"Our emphasis is put on the place where our guests spend most of their time — the rooms. Our guest rooms and services are designed for the business traveler, but this higher level of quality is a favorite of families, too," he added.

Lingafelter said each room contains a choice of two double beds or a king-size bed (at no extra charge). The rooms have more desk-top work space and a higher level of lighting than is common in "rooms-only" hotels. Each room features extra thick towels, a push-button telephone with extra-long cord that stretches from desk to bedside, and premium satellite television with AM/FM radio and bedside shutoff.

The chain rounds off its guest services with free continental breakfasts, free local telephone calls, free photocopy service, wake-up service and a national toll-free reservations system.

No-smoking rooms and rooms fully equipped for the handicapped also are available. The family plans allows children under 18 to stay free with their parents.

Circus comes to Novi

Ladies, gentlemen and children of all ages will have a chance to "run away to the circus" when the Novi Jaycees bring the Franzen Brothers Circus to town for two performances this Thursday.

The tent will be set up at Lakeshore Park, and performances are scheduled at 5:30 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. The circus will be in town for just one day.

The Aug. 21 performance under the big top will mark the third time the Jaycees have brought the circus to town.

The Franzen Brothers Circus features more than 50 wild and domestic animals, as well as acrobats, jugglers, magicians and, of course, the clowns.

For those wishing to sneak a look at the circus before the evening shows, the animals will be unloaded and the tent will be raised at 9 a.m.

Homeowners ask help in easing parking, speeding woes

An angry group of city homeowners brought its concerns to city council regarding a high rate of traffic on residential streets.

Representatives of the Buchner's Hill Homeowners Association told the council that the traffic situation in their neighborhood was "deplorable"; that the high school students exiting the parking lot added to the problem; construction traffic blocked driveways and entrances to the subdivision streets and that it would only get worse once planned multifamily dwellings actually were built.

One resident likened the traffic on East, Baseline and High streets to "Detroit Dragway, without the safety precautions."

"We can put in stop signs, speed bumps and other safety measures, but it won't solve the problem," the resident said.

Another homeowner, Henry Caroselli, told council at its Aug. 4 meeting that he thought it was "unlawful to allow high school kids to leave a school parking lot and drive into a residential area."

And yet another homeowner suggested it might be advantageous to disallow planned construction in the area.

Agreeing there was a problem with traffic, city council told the residents that they could not prohibit construction; however, it could force the planning commission to make sure developers had a traffic plan included with their site plan.

Nor, could the council force the board of education to pay for constructing an additional street in the area, Steven Walters, city manager said.

"I think the most we could hope for, based on past experience, would be a request to the schools to give us the variance," Walters said. However, he said he would consider asking the school district to share in the cost of possibly extending Baseline or building an additional street to allow additional access to Eight Mile Road.

Although Buchner's Hill homeowners said they had gone to the high school in June, hoping to reach a resolution to the problem, school Superintendent George Bell said last week that he had not had any contact with the group and no one from the homeowners association attended the school board meeting.

Midwestern pact is renewed

Citing efforts by Midwestern Sanitation, the city's contracted refuse collection service, to hold the line on costs over the next three years, city council Monday unanimously agreed to renew the contract with the firm rather than placing the contract out for bids.

Ted Mapes, public works superintendent, in a letter to the council noted that Midwestern Sanitation has proposed a three year extension with just a 7 percent increase over the life of the pact. Midwestern Sanitation also is increasing the costs to the city significantly reflecting a 71 percent increase ($842) in costs for using a landfill.

However, Midwestern has requested an insert into the new contract, stating that if significant increases in landfill rates are communicated to the contractor, the contractor will immediately notify the city, in writing, of the amount of the increase in rates. Within 60 days from the date of notice from the contractor of the new rates, the city may request the reopening of the contract for negotiation. If no request for reopening the contract is made, the rates proposed by landfill operators will be accepted as increased and incorporated into the agreement.

The costs also include the additional service provided by Midwestern Sanitation, including pickup during the city's annual sidewalk sales and increase in service six months of the year at Northville Downs.

"It is not likely that the city could take bids on this service and receive a better price for the quality of service being furnished," Mapes noted in a letter to Steven Walters, city manager.

Presenting a survey of rates charged to other area communities, Mapes noted that Northville is charged approximately $3.14 monthly per stop for the 2,009 stops the company makes each month. Included in the price is commercial pickup.

Only the city of Wayne, which pays $2.98 per stop, and Garden City, at $3.08 per stop, pay less. However, both communities are charged an extra disposal/incinerator fee and no commercial service is offered in Wayne.

Northville's contract with Midwestern Sanitation, Inc., an Inkster firm, expires Sept. 30.

Sidewalk vote foils unanimity

It has been two months since the Northville City Council took a vote that was not unanimous. The civic body did it again Monday.

Councilman Paul Folino voted against the 3-1 majority on a request to eliminate the requirement of putting sidewalks on Elsmere Drive when paving of the road is completed in Northville Estates subdivision.

In requesting a necessity hearing, Denis Roux had noted he wanted the road repaved but, in keeping with the rest of the subdivision, did not want to have sidewalks unless the council required him to do so.

Folino had earlier proposed the project, including sidewalks, be approved, but that motion died for lack of support.

Ironically, the naysayer on the body was the same man who voted "no" June 16. Folino was in the minority then on the request for a proposed land switch in which James Plagens and the city would exchange property on Main and Hutton.

Jockeying continues on wine cooler deposit issue

The question as to whether to add wine cooler bottles to the state's mandatory deposit laws in time for the November general election is far from settled, although Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti, Speaker of the House, has insisted he will not call the house back into session early to discuss the question.

State Sen. Ed Fredricks, R-Holland, has written a letter to Gov. James Blanchard asking him to call a special legislative session in early September for the purpose of placing the question on the ballot.

The move would have support from a number of representatives, including Rep. Willis "Bill" Bullard, R-Milford.

"I would favor going back into session and the Legislature should pass the bill," Bullard said. He is one of the co-sponsors of the measure in the House.

"Theoretically, there is no need for the voters to decide the issue. The Legislature should deal with it," Bullard said.

The Senate has already passed the measure, but the Legislature adjourned for its summer recess without the House addressing the issue.

However, the Senate Republican Information Office, in announcing Fredricks' letter to the governor, noted that the State Constitution allows the governor to call a special session during a recess.

"It is reasonable to ask state legislators to return to their duties for an issue on which the public feels as strongly as this," Fredricks said.

The Legislature is scheduled to return to Lansing Sept. 9; however, in order for an issue approved by the state governing body to appear on the ballot, it must be received by the Secretary of State's Election Division by Sept. 5.

'I would favor going back into session and the Legislature should pass the bill. Theoretically, there is no need for the voters to decide the issue. The Legislature should deal with it.'

— State Rep. Willis "Bill" Bullard

Fredricks said in a press release that it would be possible for the Governor to call a special session just to discuss the wine cooler deposit, or, should he want to, to include two other proposed ballot issues as well.

The question of the death penalty and limiting what utilities could charge for still-under-construction or "unnecessary" power plants, could also be placed on the ballot by the Legislature. Currently, the length of time supporters of both measures used to collect signatures in petition drives is being challenged in an Ingham County Circuit Court.

While neither supporting or rejecting the wine cooler deposit issue, Paul K. Fershee Jr., president of the Michigan Food Dealers Association, said the Legislature should make a complete study of the state's current mandatory deposit law.

"Before any action is taken on the wine cooler issue, everyone needs to fully understand how the present law operates," Fershee said.

"We think there should be an independent study, or at the very least a serious legislative review of the issue, before the Legislature—or the people—take any action," he concluded.

Owen said Friday the deposit issue can be best resolved by the Legislature, rather than putting the question on the November ballot.

Fershee, whose organization represents independent grocers across Michigan, said a question also remains on how the deposit issue should be handled legislatively.

"Article II, Section IX of the Michigan Constitution states that amending an initiated law requires a three-fourths vote of the Legislature, but some legislators think they can pass a bill by a simple majority and it will become law. We disagree. Expanding the law in any way is an amendment to the mandatory Deposit Act and requires a three-fourths approval," Fershee said.

The Senate, which passed the bill July 1, gave its overwhelming approval 32-2, with four senators not voting.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Southfield, both voted with the majority.

Obituary

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

County must share responsibility

The fire reported on the front page of this week's Northville Record is far from the first occurring at the former Wayne County Training School site on Sheldon Road. We'd like to see it be the last. Over the years that the property has stood vacant the buildings have been, as township police have said, attractive nuisances.

It has been impossible to keep vandals off the property. The police have been there patrolling daily, and it has become routine for the department to respond to reports of trespassers. Firefighters also have been called regularly to the scene. Monday's fire was more serious than many the fire department was called to extinguish. It also pointed up the real cost to the community in terms of human life. One firefighter was taken to the hospital; thankfully, he was released the same day. But it easily might not have ended so happily.

Since there no longer is water in the hydrants on the site, firefighters were forced to make numerous runs to fill the tankers, leaving the remaining firefighters understaffed and fighting a blaze that totally gutted the building interior. Not only did the trips take their toll in time but in manpower as well.

The shell of the once-substantial building is not the only arson testament standing on the grounds, and vandals continue to be attracted to the remaining structures.

Young people continue to use the property as a lovers' lane; arsonists continue to start fires; and the township continues to be obligated to provide police and fire protection — with no reimbursement from the county which still owns the property.

While we applaud the county's announced plans to put the property up for sale and are interested in the proposal put forth by Trustee James Nowka that the township ask the county for 10-15 acres on the site currently used for athletic fields, the community garden, and an additional fire station, we have grave reservations that any action will come in time to save either the remaining buildings or possibly a life.

It's a good show

Not too many years ago, residents who came to town did so to pick up their cleaning, buy stamps or an ice cream cone.

They still do, but they also have many other reasons to come into Northville's attractive downtown. Added to the traditional sidewalk and city garage sales are a growing list of attractions sponsored by the local merchants and/or the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce not the least of which is this weekend's arts and crafts show.

More than 30 craftspersons will be displaying their wares on the downtown sidewalks from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. In addition, the Northville

However, every action possible should be taken to have the property sold and developed in the near future. In the meantime the county should be asked to provide security on the property and water. Probably the buildings should be totally razed. At the very least a protective fence should be placed around the site, or both. Given the county budget status we doubt that the latter steps will be given consideration. But the township at least deserves security help and a water supply on the property.

Merchants Association is sponsoring the appearances of the Northville Alumni Jazz Band and the Novi Concert Band for the enjoyment of shoppers and browsers in the Town Square Park by the clock.

Those who remember downtown before its Mainstreet '76 renovation know that the scene is far different today. Ten years ago there were empty store buildings and little to bring one into town other than errands and business. All of which is to say that local officials and merchants both have worked hard to make Northville an attractive, alive community and deserve congratulations for their efforts. And don't miss this weekend's show.

Kid sis ties the knot

By Bruce J. Martin

Ever since I took this job, my little sister has besieged me to immortalize her in print. I've told her repeatedly she probably wouldn't care for the treatment.

That's pretty typical of the mean, despicable, nasty things I have said to my sister throughout her 24 years. But everybody knows I'm a reasonable guy. She's deserved every one of them.

Debbie is the quintessential kid sis, the model for the B-sitcom stereotype. She's the creep who played her Bay City Rollers 45s until there were no grooves left on them. She's the brat who left none of my transgressions untattled. She's the little bleep who could clean out Dad's wallet with a dewy-eyed pout. I had to grovel.

Sunrise, sunset. Debbie got married Saturday in a blatant ploy to circumvent the slavery laws and rake in two or three railroad cars full of gifts. The brothers KaraMartin did their share. The three of us chipped in to buy her a microwave that cooks, bakes, boils, pops, reheats, rings, tells time, does logarithms and redecorates the kitchen. Perhaps one day, she will actually invite us over to dinner and have her bridegroom cook us something in it.

We were under orders not to inform the "lucky" gent, named David, what life with Debbie has been for us. But now that the knot is tied, we can speak freely.

You know the expression, "You're not losing a daughter, you're gaining a son?" There's a corollary in which we, the brothers, are not losing a sister, but gaining a brother. That's correct. In the happy couple's future marital disputes we are prepared to side with Dave all the way.

Oh, I suppose if Dave does something completely out of line, we'll have to pull a Sonny Corleone. But back Debbie's television viewing rights or control of the family budget? Sorry. Debbie's a walking case for spouse abuse.

Anyway, it was a wonderful wedding. Short. And it was a great reception, except there was a heavy contingent of The Relatives and Friends of The Family That Time Forgot, But Who Not Only Remember You, They Know All About You.

Maybe you know the kind. They come up to me and say things like, "Bruce, I understand your bathroom's a mess, you spent too much money Friday night and you missed three deadlines for last week's issue of the paper." Meanwhile, I'm perspiring like a geyser, and struggling in vain just to remember their names. "Yes, how are you, ah, cuz? Boy, you've changed so much, I hardly recognize you, heh heh."

Just once, I'd like one of them to come up to me and go, "Who the blazes are you? Are we related or something like that?" Actually, I think one guy did that to me late in the reception. I think he was my brother.

By the way, I really should run this disclaimer for anybody who has a hard time with sarcasm and hyperbole: I love Debbie and Dave both, and wish the couple every happiness they can get their hands on.

Taste for cheerleading

Novi kids attended Northville High School. People like Tom Darling and Yvonne Schingek.

Sherry Coykendall came the farthest, flying in from Tacoma, Wash., and winning a subscription to the paper for her efforts. But she wasn't the only one who came a long way. Bob Nauman came from California. Ann Parton and Harry Schenimann came up from North Carolina. Bill North from South Carolina. Linda Bell and Barb Rumley both arrived from Florida. April Fox came from Texas. Racena Bailey from Colorado. Jerry and Linda (McKinney) Forbes from Kentucky. And Carol Johnson from Georgia. If Carol's daughter isn't homecoming queen at the University of Georgia in a couple of years there's something wrong.

Gary Kohs tricked Ann Parton, a majorette in high school, into showing she can still twirl the baton. And Bonnie Jordan received the prize for having the most grandchildren ... about 45 minutes before doing a mean Texas two-step that had the deejay wondering how that lady in the white dress could possibly be a grandmother.

We reverted back to proper teenage manners when greeting the parents of classmates, who also were invited to attend. It was "Mrs. Nauman" and "Mrs. Dresselhouse" and "Mrs. Steeper." Although Mr. and Mrs. Petrock are now Joe and Marion to me.

My dear friend Mike Adas even made a last-minute appearance from New Jersey, where he's a professor at Rutgers. Geez, it was fun. I can hardly wait to do it again.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

Well, we did it. The Northville High School graduating class of '61 held its 25th reunion at Meadowbrook Country Club last Saturday. And a rousing success it was, too.

Approximately 50 classmates (out of 130) showed up. And when spouses were added in we had roughly 90 people there. We had a deejay to spin the "golden oldies" and danced till one o'clock.

After our clean-up crew had completed its work, I adjourned to Room 444 at the Novi Hilton where my close friend Jim Petrock was staying for the night before flying back to Denver. We talked to three-thirty.

All the out-of-towners were stunned to see Novi. You've got to remember that Novi wasn't much 25 years ago. Didn't even have its own high school. All the

Rezoning hearing sparks criticism

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was sent to the Northville Township Planning Commission with a copy to The Northville Record.

Re: RZ 86-10, Manoojian Parcel Rezoning, single family to multi family.

Thank you for inviting me to the public hearing regarding the rezoning of the Manoojian property that lies behind my backyard. Next time, however, you can save the postage, and I can save a wasted evening. I say this for the following reasons:

1. You held the meeting to solicit the reaction of my neighborhood to rezoning the vacant parcel from single family to multi-family. You could tell us nothing about the owner's plans. He wasn't present. You claimed that his intentions were irrelevant to the decision. Well... what reaction could you realistically expect in this situation?
2. You went through a great deal of trouble to call this special meeting. We learned at this meeting that the township had already approved a new master plan, in January, that called for the rezoning in question. Don't you think that our reaction should have been solicited when the township was considering the new master plan? Isn't the current rezoning request a formality at this point?
3. At the regular meetings, held after the public hearings, you approved the site plan of the adjacent commercial property that will provide access to the rezoned property. The site plan provided a 37-foot drive to the rezoned property, even though it was noted that a 60-foot width would be needed if the residential property remained as single-family zoning.

4. You assured us that you will act in our interest. The landowner in question has for years stated his intention to build apartments on his site. In January, the township approved a masterplan that calls for rezoning his property from single to multiple family, to act as a "buffer." Perhaps if we were consulted earlier, we might have suggested green space as a buffer. Perhaps, if our reaction to the plan had been solicited earlier, the master plan could have eliminated the need for a buffer west of Haggerty.

For the record, I want you to know that I have lived with an apartment complex behind my backyard: when it was well managed, I lived with the trash, traffic noise, and burglaries that the "privacy fence" did nothing to prevent; when it was poorly managed, I lived with the fights and drug activity. And I lived with my property value lower than that of my neighbor across the street.

Thank you for looking after my interest, and for letting me have input as to whether the property will be rezoned. I'm buying a security system for my house now: I don't have to wait for the vote.

Sincerely,
Tony Wolf

Lamenting summer's end

By Michele M. Fecht

Just as I was about to begin enjoying summer, kids are packing away the beach gear and heading to the drugstore for their yearly supply of crayons, three-ring binders, lunch boxes and Bic pens.

While my stuffy nose and watery eyes convince me that summer is far from over, the start of the new school year is the first indication that autumn is right around the corner.

For some reason, summer always escapes me. The countless projects I planned back in May have gone undone. The trip to Stratford, concerts at Meadow Brook, raspberry picking at the u-pick farm, the quest for at least a semblance of a tan (I have yet to expose an elbow to the sun's rays) — I've missed them all. In fact, I haven't even torn the tags off the bathing suit I bought back in April.

While I like warm weather (particularly after four months of Michigan winter), I can't seem to get in sync with summer. The sunworshippers all have dark, golden tans by mid-June, while I'm trying to muster enough courage to expose my big toe to the throngs of sun bunnies by the pool. By July, the stores are putting out their fall fashions, and I'm still looking for pastel shoes.

Now August is drawing to a close, and I'm faced with another lost summer. I suppose those who have sat under the stars at Meadow Brook, have taken in Shakespeare at Stratford and have made enough raspberry jam to give away at Christmas now are getting ready for fall.

They've probably already bought their woolly sweaters (mine have been sitting in a heap for four months eagerly awaiting a trip to the drycleaners), repaired the broken frames on their storm windows and picked herbs from their garden for the Thanksgiving stuffing.

Incredible as it might seem, there only are 127 shopping days left before Christmas. If you don't believe me, I'm sure Hallmark will remind you that the holidays are approaching — probably sometime before Columbus Day.

As an education writer, my work schedule tends to coincide with the school year. During the past month or so, I feel as though I've been on a hiatus of sorts. School board meetings have been few and far between, administrators have been on vacation, no students or staff in sight. While it's been a nice break for me, my managing editor has reminded on several occasions that newspapers still are published during the summer break. In other words, school or no school, we still need to fill the paper.

As the school buses begin their trial runs through area subdivisions this week, I'm reminded that it's only a matter of time before I'll be back into the swing of things. I figure by this time next month, parents already will have bombarded the school board with complaints about the bus schedule (a yearly ritual), MEAP tests will have been administered and school officials will be bracing themselves for the Fourth Friday count.

As for me, I'll probably be weeding through the heap of sweaters in my closet trying to find something to wear.

Private business seminar offered

More than 95 percent of U.S. businesses today are family owned, yet barely 25 percent are successfully passed on to the next generation. Although the reasons vary, failure frequently results from a lack of planning.

To assist private business owners in developing a plan for the succession of ownership and management of their business, The University of Michigan's School of Business Administration will offer a four-day seminar this fall.

The seminar, titled "Succession Planning for Private Business: Passing Ownership and Management to the Next Generation," will be presented Sept. 30 - Oct. 3 at the Executive Education Center, School of Business Administration, in Ann Arbor.

The seminar, which will be taught by members of the Business School faculty and legal practitioners, will serve as a catalyst for developing and implementing succession plans. Enrollment will be limited to create a highly interactive, workshop atmosphere.

"Training the heirs is often neglected," according to George Siedel, University of Michigan professor of business law and faculty director of the seminar. "The owner erroneously assumes that the children have grown up with the business' and have — through natural osmosis — acquired the same knowledge, skills, talents, values and operating philosophy that took the owner or founder a lifetime to learn.

"At the founder's death, the heirs or surviving spouse often face the financial shock of huge estate and federal taxes that may force the sale of all or part of the business. Internal feuds and rivalries between family members or long-term employees can create devastating morale problems after the founder's death or retirement."

For more information, contact Louis Wilson, administrative director, at 764-1379 or 763-9463.

Plymouth Symphony Orchestra opens 41st season

The Plymouth Symphony Orchestra will begin its 41st season, at 8 p.m. Friday, Oct. 17, in the Plymouth Salem High School auditorium. The symphony's new music director/conductor, Leon Gregorian has announced six concert subscription series and a three concert musicale series.

Maestro Gregorian made his first appearance with the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra at the special Fourth of July concert held in the Plymouth Township park. In addition to his duties with the Plymouth Symphony he is Director of the Michigan State University orchestras.

Residents of Plymouth, Northville,

Novi and Canton have received in the mail information about the 1986-87 subscription season. Anyone not receiving the mailing may call 451-2112 to receive the brochure.

The opening concert of the series conducted by Gregorian will feature pianist Ralph Votapek. Votapek is the only American to have been awarded the grand prize for his performance in the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition. He has appeared with major orchestras of the United States, including the Chicago Symphony and the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Second concert in the series will be at 8 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 22, in the Plymouth Salem auditorium. Violinist Glenn Basham will perform with the orchestra in Bruch's Concerto No. 1 in G minor, OP. 26 for violin and orchestra. Basham was the top prize winner in the 1986 National Young Artist Competition sponsored by the Renaud Foundation and hosted by the Lansing Symphony.

Gregorian will conduct the orchestra for the special December concerts featuring the Northern Ballet Theater under the artistic direction of Michelle Wolfe in a presentation of Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker" at 8 p.m., Saturday, Dec. 13, and 2 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 14, in the Plymouth Salem auditorium.

Duo pianists Dai Uk Lee and Yong Hi Moon will join the orchestra for the 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 8 concert to be held at the Novi High School auditorium. Moon and Lee have played two-piano and four-hand recitals throughout the U.S. and in Korea where they have been honored by the Korean government.

Guest conductor David Mairs will join the orchestra for the 3 p.m. Sunday, March 15, concert in the Plymouth Salem auditorium. The family concert has been titled "Close Encounters of a Musical Kind" and will feature music of American composers.

The final concert of the subscription series will be a Pop's concert conducted by Gregorian. Guest artist for the Sunday, May 3, concert at 3 p.m. at Plymouth Salem auditorium will be trumpeter, Ramon Parcells. Parcells is principal trumpet with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and teaches at the University of Michigan.

The Musicale series will begin with an organ recital by David Wagner at 4 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 9, at the First Presbyterian Church of Plymouth.

The second musicale, at 4 p.m. Jan. 18, will feature Pauline Martin, piano; Shaul Ben-Neir, flute; Treva Womble, oboe; Douglas Corneisen, clarinet; Corbin Wagner, horn; and Robert Williams, bassoon. The woodwind chamber music concert location is to be announced.

The final musicale will be "Crazy Antics of the Bassoon Quartet," including Robert Williams, Paul Ganson, Victoria King and Lyell Lindsey. The concert will take place at 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 1, 8 p.m. in the Canton Little Theater.

A reception and refreshments will follow each musicale concert.

Marge Mitchell, R.N., checks Michael Showerman's pulse as Volunteer Chairman Emily Klebba looks on South Lyon store gives blood drive a shot in the arm

By KATHY PETERSEN

The American Red Cross is getting a helping hand from Showerman's IGA in South Lyon.

Showerman Manager Dennis Swaney said the store offered a $100 shopping spree to the winner of a drawing. The names of donors from the last South Lyon blood drive, July 18, were put into a bowl and a winner's name was drawn after the drive ended. This is the second time Showerman's has sponsored the promotion.

Swaney said the project was designed both to promote the store and to generate more interest in blood donations.

He said the drawing does seem to increase interest in the blood drive and that Showerman's will continue sponsoring it "as long as we continue to see good results."

Showerman's also sponsored a separate contest among their employees which increased their interest in donating blood.

At the next blood drive Swaney hopes to challenge other businesses in the area to a contest. Whichever business has the highest percentage of employees donate blood will win. Details have not been decided on yet.

"We kind of kicked that idea around last time, but there wasn't enough time to plan it," he said.

Lynn Lecours, Red Cross spokesperson, said while such promotions are not common they are not unheard of. She said they are not practiced by the Red Cross themselves since it is a completely volunteer donation effort.

"They are not encouraged by us or suggested by us," Lecours said. "We're thrilled when people do this."

Emily Klebba, local chairperson of Red Cross volunteers, said promotions do increase the number of volunteers but also stressed that the Red Cross does not buy blood.

She said other common promotions are for employees. Factories often give vouchers for a free meal in the company cafeteria to employees who donate blood.

She supported Showerman's effort but said it should not be necessary.

"Everybody seemed to think it was very nice," she said of the promotion. "It really shouldn't be necessary in order for them to be aware of the need for blood."

Lecours said if other businesses are interested in sponsoring similar promotions the Red Cross will provide them with material promoting the blood drive itself. The Red Cross is cautious about becoming associated with the giveaways, however.

Business Briefs

FRANK A. RODOCKER

TED MINKE

FRANK A. RODOCKER of Milford has been appointed manager of customer service by the Packaging Systems Division of Ex-Cell-O Corporation.

In his new position, Rodocker will be responsible for the coordination of Pure-Pak filling machine installations, warranty work and customer inquiries.

Rodocker joined Ex-Cell-O in 1965 as a junior development technician and has held various positions since then. Most recently, he was supervisor of the prototype test center.

Rodocker and his wife, Sue, reside in Milford with their two children.

TED MINKE has been appointed Vice President for Operations by the Cadillac Asphalt Paving Company of Novi, a leader in the construction business since 1941.

Minke will be responsible for all asphalt production and construction operations. A 17-year employee, Minke has risen through various ranks as a surveyor, crew chief, milling superintendent and operations manager to his current position.

Cadillac's facilities include three modern, fully computerized plants and a company-owned laboratory. Recipient of numerous awards, Cadillac provides a full range of services and the necessary expertise to develop special designs to either follow plans/specifications precisely or solutions to paving problems.

SOUTH LYON ELECTRONICS recently opened its doors at 22970 Pontiac Trail in South Lyon.

Owned by Dale and Catherine Wiltse of Milford, the business offers television replacement parts, stereos, C.B. radios, antennas, video cassette recorders, telephones, etc.

South Lyon Electronics also deals with several leading manufacturers, including Magnavox, Cobra, Sharp, Karko, Fox and Emerson.

Store hours are 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday.

AL WEISS of Novi now is employed on a part-time basis by Northville Camera at 105 E. Main St. in downtown Northville, owners Bill and Dee Richardson announce.

Weiss, an expert in all phases of photography, formerly was employed by World Camera for almost 10 years as darkroom manager and instructor. He has 35 years' experience in photography, 25 in New York City and 10 in Michigan. His specialties are portraiture (both adults and children), darkroom techniques, cameras and accessories.

The Richardsons invite camera enthusiasts to drop by the store to meet Weiss.

GLEN KUSCHEL of Milford is being recognized by General Telephone Company of Michigan on his 35th anniversary of employment with the company.

Kuschel, a private business exchange maintenance supervisor (PBX) in the company's Milford office, is responsible for the maintenance of PBX systems throughout the state's thumb area.

Kuschel started his telephone career in Milford as a line person and has held various craft and management positions. He assumed his present position in 1983.

MARY JO BOURJAILY of Milford has been promoted to Director of Communications at D'Arcy Masius Benton & Bowles in Bloomfield Hills.

In her new position, Bourjaily is responsible for developing new public relations business in addition to servicing existing DMB&B clients and supervising all communications programs. She previously was Manager of Communications since joining the agency in 1982.

Bourjaily has a bachelor's degree in Journalism and a master's in Communications from Michigan State University. She is a member of the Detroit Press Club and the Public Relations Society of America.

WILLIAM R. HARTMAN of Oak Park has been promoted to Banking Officer and District Manager of the Novi branch office of the National Bank of Detroit.

NEXT OF SKIN, a women's lingerie store located at 400 N. Main in Milford, currently is in its first year of business.

Owner Sally Hogan-Horchler has started with the basics — slips, brassieres and underwear. She expects to expand soon with nightwear and hosiery.

Store hours are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

If the cost of electric heating is sending you through the roof, Hit the Switch from Electricity to PROPANE.

Do you lose your head every time you get your electric heating bill? If so, then you should hit the switch from your inefficient and costly electric heating system to clean, efficient, economical propane from Northwest Propane, Inc.

Also, check into our SPEEDY propane tank installation prices from 125 gallon tanks to 1000 gallon total heating tanks.

Comparing electric hot water heating to propane hot water heating, you can save, in some cases, "Over $300.00 per year."

Check with your local electric utility and GAMA rating for your electric water heater or old gas water heater for current rate

Cat People

Record/JERRY ZOLYNSKY

Joyce Stowell loves all animals but has a special fondness for cats — and kittens and neighborhood tough guy.

The one-half cat is Bob, who Stowell owns jointly with her neighbor. Bob, she explains, is a stray who wanders back and forth between her barn and her neighbor's garage — the reason the two women each claim half-ownership.

Shortly after Bob's arrival, the co-owners discovered that Bob was really Roberta. A litter of four kittens born in Stowell's barn approximately a month ago was ample proof of Bob's gender.

"Bob's still pretty frightened around people," reports Stowell. "It took a long time for her to let us touch her and look at her kittens. But Bob's coming around now. Partly because we put out food for her and partly because we rescued one of her kittens."

The story of the kitten rescue illustrates how devoted true Cat People can be to the animals. After having her kittens, Bob kept moving them around in the garage to prevent Stowell and her neighbor from seeing or touching them. One of the best hiding places also proved to be treacherous, and one of the kittens fell into an overhang and was unable to get out.

Bob was upset. But she didn't need to worry, not with a pair of Cat People on the lookout for her well-being. Armed with a saw, crowbar and hammer, Stowell and her neighbor dismantled the barn until they were able to free the kitten.

"I think that's when Bob really began to trust us," says Stowell. "She knew we saved her kitten."

Stowell has found good homes for all the kittens, and Bob's future is assured — as long as she decides to take up permanent residence in her current location.

Bob doesn't know it yet, but her human protectors have decided to split the cost of taking her to the vet to receive all her shots and be sterilized. And Stowell says she's sort of hoping Bob sticks around.

"She's an excellent 'mouser.' Bozo's not much help in the barn. He thinks mice are part of the family and won't catch them."

Stowell — like Porter, Burrell, Scherkenbach and many others — wears the title of "Cat Person" proudly.

"There's just something nice about cats," she says. "They all have their own personalities. They're so independent. Dogs are there all the time, but cats... cats have independent streaks."

"You've got to know how to catch their moods."

Mary Ellen Scherkenbach's cats play the piano

Cats seem an unlikely choice of pets in the Scherkenbach home. With four boys ranging in age from five to 13 years, one would expect to find a shaggy sheepdog named Rover or a spaniel called Spot.

Yet, the Scherkenbach boys — Matthew, Stefan, John and James — find the family felines — Spunky, Sylvester and Miss Kitty — terrific pets as well as playmates.

"Each son had a cat," explains Mary Ellen Scherkenbach. "However, we lost one a few months ago. She swallowed some string."

Snatching year-old Spunky from his perch on the piano bench, Scherkenbach says all three are house cats. "We've lost three cats on Eight Mile," she says.

"Sylvester is the only one who stays out at night." A five-year-old mixed breed, Sylvester flew with the family from Maryland when they moved to Northville five years ago. The other two — Spunky and Miss Kitty — are more recent additions.

Miss Kitty, like her Gunsmoke namesake, is "very reserved and elegant," Scherkenbach notes. "My husband never had a cat as a child and fell in love with my parents' cat when we were courting."

"Miss Kitty is really his kitty," she says of the soft brown Siamese.

Scherkenbach adds that Miss Kitty "can be a real pain. She is very temperamental," says the mother of four boys, three cats and a few goldfish.

The other two cats, Spunky (her eight-year-old son named the black-and-white mixed breed after television's Spunky Brewster) and Sylvester (named after the infamous Sylvester of Sylvester and Tweety fame) are just "nice, ordinary cats," she says.

Cat privileges extend to running up and down the stairs and sleeping with the boys — as long as they don't curl up on the pillow.

However, their favorite activity is playing the piano. "Sometimes at night, if the piano is left open, we'll hear them running across the keyboard," she notes. "However, they'll never be performing kitties," she adds.

Clara Porter provides a home for five cats

It doesn't take long to figure out that Novi's Clara Porter is a "cat person."

Walk into her Village Oaks home and you see them everywhere. All five of them. Addis Ababba and Kebra Nagast, the Abyssinians, are lying together on the kitchen table. Habish Rama, an Ocicat, is having a bite to eat. Attatabia is standing by the back door, waiting to be let out. And Buddy is off by himself, lying on the kitchen counter.

The real live cats are only part of the kitty decor in the Porter residence, as any true "cat person" knows. Seven glass and ceramic cats plus one wooden cat sit on an end table in the living room. There's a painting of a cat on the wall in the den. And there's an assortment of kitty toys — catnip mice, etc. — batted around the television set in the den.

Plus the entire house has been cat-proofed. "We prefer leather furniture because it doesn't pick up the fur," says Porter, who is director of community education for the Novi school district. "And we're in the process of replacing the carpeting with wood floors. It's easier to clean fur off wood floors than it is carpeting."

There's a kitty-sized hole in the bottom of the door leading to the basement. "That's so they can use the litter box downstairs without us having to get up," explains Porter.

Yes, the cats are allowed on the table. Except when company's present, of course.

And, yes, the cats sleep in bed with the Porters at night. "It's not unusual to have three or four of them in bed with us the whole night, particularly in the winter when we have the electric blanket on," says Porter.

She even heats up the cat food in the microwave before putting it out to eat. "It's cold when it comes right out of the refrigerator," she explains.

"Yes, I'm definitely a 'cat person.' They're graceful. They're clean. They're pretty to look at. You hold them and they purr. Cats are very affectionate animals."

Brenda Burrell's are definitely not aloof

Maybe they should call them the Furr-ells.

After years of indifference to the felis domestica species, Brenda and Graham Burrell found themselves adoptive carekeepers in quick succession of one, then two, then three strays. "Three is nice, but more would be too much work," says Brenda.

Treemonisha, named for the Scott Joplin opera, entered first. "We found him crying and crying in a tree," Brenda recalls. "We thought he was lost, so we tried for two weeks to find his home. First we ran lost-and-found ads and then 'absolutely free' ads to give him away. We didn't want to be cat owners."

Treemonisha soon became such a welcome addition to the Burrell home that the idea of adding a second feline didn't sound so bad. "A couple of months later, one of our neighbor kids brought Chip by, thinking he might be one of ours," says Brenda. Apparently Chip thought he was, too. He began perching on the window ledge outside whatever room the Burrells could be found. A regular peeping Tom.

"We called him Chip because he likes crunchy things," says Brenda. Indeed, Chip's food preferences run to potato chips and his taste in toys runs to the plastic caps of milk cartons.

Elsbeth, named for a character in the PBS series The Flame Trees of Thika, melted Brenda's heart a cold winter two years later. "Elsbeth's more like a dog than a cat," she says. "He's very needy; he likes to follow you around and run around a lot. He's very playful."

"You hear all these things about how cats are aloof and can't be trained, but I'm not sure that's true."

Come on, you've trained a cat? "Well, not really," Brenda laughs. "They train us. But they know when we're angry at them. If they're doing something that's not really intelligent, like chewing on an electrical cord, I — oh, boy, am I going to hear it about this — I squirt 'em with my plant mister."

Suzanne M. Hancock wed in OLV service

After Suzanne Marie Hancock and Paul James Graves exchanged vows and rings in a Nuptial Mass at Our Lady of Victory Church, they were transported by horse-driven carriage to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Hancock, 18700 Edenderry, where they greeted guests in an outdoor receiving line.

An evening reception was held later at Meadowbrook Country Club for 250 guests.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Graves of Hartland. Father Frank Pollie officiated at the June 28 ceremony in which readings were given by Ellen Graves, sister of the bridegroom, Jane Bender, aunt of the bride, and by Angela Gawlas, a friend of the bride. A prayer of faithfulness was given by Greg and Callie Graves, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom. The offertory was by Mike and Mary Krzyskowski, brother-in-law and sister of the bridegroom.

Richard Tomalty of Northville, a friend of the bride's family, was soloist.

The bride's gown of white taffeta was accented with Schiffler embroidery and seed pearls. The cathedral train was edged with Chantilly lace. A jeweled fingertip-length veil was held by a beaded headband. The bride's cascade bouquet contained white roses, gardenias and stephanotis.

Jackie Janareli of Rochester was honor attendant for the bride. She wore a pastel lavender gown and carried a bouquet of pastel flowers matching the gowns of the bridesmaids.

Marianne Hancock and Chris Graves, sisters of the bride and bridegroom respectively, Debbie Herrick, cousin of the bride, and Kristin Tomalty were bridesmaids in taffeta gowns of varied pastel hues. They carried pastel floral bouquets.

Elizabeth Herrick was flower girl in white taffeta for her cousin.

James Haneklav of Atlanta, longtime friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Danny Hancock, cousin of the bride, Ronald Graves, brother of the bridegroom, Eric Wright, cousin of the bridegroom and Garron Gawlas. Tony Wampler, in a white tuxedo, was ring bearer.

After a 10-day trip to Hawaii the newlyweds are making their home in Cedar Lake Apartments in Northville.

The bride is a graduate of Mercy High School and is majoring in business at Madonna College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Hartland High School and of Michigan State University with a degree in finance. He is employed by E.F. Hutton.

Marshalls, McLouds bidden goodbye

By JEAN DAY

Some of the summer's entertaining has been farewells for departing residents. When you've called Northville "home" for more than two decades, leaving can be difficult, comments Betty Marshall. The Robert Marshalls have sold their home on Woodhill and will be moving shortly to Dataw Island in South Carolina where they are building a new home.

The Marshalls have been honored at a dinner party given by across-the street neighbors and friends, the Bernard Bachs. Next Sunday evening their neighbors to the west, the Robert Holloways and Tad Evanses are hosting a backyard get together both to say goodbye to the Marshalls and to welcome as new neighbors Don and Pam Trumble, Novi residents who are purchasing the Marshall home.

Since the Marshalls also are my next-door neighbors, it's impossible to resist the temptation to relate that when they moved in, my then-preschool daughter, Laurie, reported she felt "so safe" in her neighborhood "with the Marshalls on one side and the Guards on the other." They'll be missed.

Mill Race benefactor's departing

Fourteen members of the Country Girls Branch of the WNFGA gathered at Riffles restaurant Aug. 12 to bid farewell to Brenda McLoud. The McLoud family — husband, Eddy, Brenda and their children, Molly and John — will be moving to Montgomery, Ohio, the last of the month. Brenda has been responsible for scheduling fellow Engaged

The engagement of Tracy Lee Ade to David K. Meissner of Wixom is announced by her parents, Mrs. Myrna Ade of 44813 North Hills Drive and David Lee Ade of Troy.

Kurt Riebling takes Irish bride as 'Londonderry Air' is played

When Caroline Scully of Dublin, Ireland, became the bride of Kurt Riebling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Riebling of Galway Drive, at Salem United Church of Christ in Farmington, a special tribute was paid to her Irish heritage.

As her mother, Mrs. Charles Scully, who had come from Dublin for the wedding, was escorted to her seat, Londonderry Air was played on the organ by Erich Balling, organist. Judy Van Vliet was soloist and Debra Van Vliet pianist.

The bride also is the daughter of the late Mr. Scully. The single ring ceremony was held at 6 p.m. August 2 and included a Communion service. The Rev. Becky Myrick was the officiant.

The bride had been visiting a Northville family last summer when she met her future husband as she brought a bike in for repair to the Town n' Country Cyclery on Center. The bridegroom and his brother, Paul, own and operate the shop.

In June of this year the couple traveled to Ireland to visit Caroline's family. She returned to the United States as his fiancee and the wedding date was set.

As she was escorted to the altar by the bridegroom's father, the bride wore a tea length gown of ivory lace fashioned with a scoop neckline and flounced hemline. A tiny cap held her lace embossed veil.

She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis, sweetheart roses and baby's-breath tied with ivory lace.

Karen Riebling was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Pamela Horen and Darlene Horen. They wore turquoise lace and satin gowns and carried turquoise mums and starburst button mums.

The bridegroom's niece and nephew, Kate Riebling, 8, and Andrew Riebling, 5, participated as flower girl and junior usher respectively.

Paul Riebling was best man for his brother. Ushers were Paul and Mark Horen.

A dinner reception followed at Mercy College Center.

The newlyweds went to Rio de Janeiro for their honeymoon. The expense paid trip was awarded by the Raleigh Bicycle Company for the shop's being one of the top sellers for Raleigh bicycles in the state.

AAUW gives two scholarship awards

Two Northville High School graduates of the Class of 1986 will be starting college shortly with special honors. Lisa Lutz and Diane Dragon were the recipients of the Northville Branch, American Association of University Women, scholarship awards of $500 each at graduation.

Jay Ward, branch scholarship chairperson, notes that both had been accepted at University of Michigan.

Before graduation, the recipients and their mothers were honor guests of the branch at a dinner meeting at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Both recipients were honor graduates of the Class of 1986 and members of the National Honor Society.

Kenneth Cooks feted by their family

When Ruth and Kenneth Cook were married in 1936, she had the distinction of being the first member of her Northville High School graduating class of 1936 to marry. He was a New Hudson school graduate.

On July 19 they celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary at the Plymouth Cultural Center with 127 friends and relatives. Guests from California, Texas, Connecticut, Florida, New York and many cities in Michigan visited and listened to music for dancing from the 1930s to the present.

The Cooks now live in Traverse City where he has a tool and die shop.

The anniversary reception was given by their children son Dale and his wife, Sue, of Traverse City; daughter Linda and her husband, John Measel, of South Lyon; son David and his wife, Kathy, of Highland; and son Dennis and his wife, Hau, of Connecticut. Dennis is serving his 21st year in the U.S. Navy.

The Sunday morning after the reception the Cooks were picked up in a limousine at the Hilton where they were staying and were taken to church in Plymouth for Mass. Then they were driven to the Measels for a noon dinner for out of town relatives and friends.

The Cooks were surprised to receive congratulations on their golden anniversary from Gov. James Blanchard and President Ronald Reagan.

SECURITY BANCORP'S BANK ON THE TIGERS SWEEPSTAKES

Count the Tigers' victories and win $1,000 or instant cash!

1. Use our Bank-A-Matic/24 automatic teller service and you're automatically entered!
2. Win instant cash prizes of $1, $10, $25 or $100!
3. Match the number on your receipt with the Tigers' total victories and you're a finalist!
4. Win the $1,000 Grand Prize, a pair of season tickets or $500!

This summer, cheer for the Tigers all the way to the bank in Security Bancorp's "Bank On The Tigers" Sweepstakes, the sweepstakes where Detroit Tiger victories can help you win season tickets or a Grand Prize of $1,000! Or you can win cash instantly!

To enter, just use Bank-A-Matic/24 automatic teller service for any transaction, and save your receipt. Each receipt you collect gives you two chances to win!

If your receipt shows an Instant Win Cash Prize amount of $1, $10, $25 or $100, you're a winner! And you can claim your winnings immediately at any participating Security Bancorp Bank.

But whether or not you're an Instant Winner, you should hang on to that receipt—it could be your ticket to season tickets! Or the $1,000 Grand Prize!

Each receipt you collect will also display a Tigers Victory Number between 60 (games) and 110 (games). This number is your chance to win in the "Bank On The Tigers" Sweepstakes Drawing!

So save your receipts—and follow the Tigers throughout the 1986 baseball season to see if their final victory total matches any of your Tigers Victory Numbers. If it does, you could be a winner!

After the Tigers' last regular-season game, all customers holding a receipt with a number that matches the Tigers' final victory total must notify Security Bancorp. (Special postage-paid postcards will be available at all participating banks for you to mail in.)

Then, on October 27, the Sweepstakes Drawing will be held, and one lucky customer will win the Grand Prize of $1,000! Second and Third Prizes of Tigers season tickets and two $500 cash prizes will also be awarded.

So enjoy 24-hour banking—and enter the "Bank On The Tigers" Sweepstakes today!

Title is honorary, but Old Bailey duties are real

By JEAN DAY

The sheriff of The City of London came to town last week, but he was "on holiday" without the scarlet robes and gold chain with the seal of office he dons at least twice a week to carry out his duties.

Jack Neary and his wife, Kathie, were here for a brief visit with their former neighbors, the Richard Bohns.

Neary's title is an honorary one bestowed for a year, but the duties that come with the title make it a full-time office.

In fact, the Nearys have moved out of their home in Brentwood, Essex, into apartments over Old Bailey for the term. The Nearys were the Bohns' neighbors while Richard Bohn was in England at the European headquarters of Ford.

Actually, there are two sheriffs, both Queen's sheriffs, for the old City of London, which encompasses one square mile.

One is a lay sheriff and the other an alderman sheriff, who, Neary explained, will go forward to be Lord Mayor of London. Neary is the lay sheriff.

The title goes back to the sixth century with the lay sheriff being elected by the 22,000 liverymen of the city. The practice dates back to early times when it was members of the guilds who elected.

The queen then approves the election as the sheriffs hold the Queen's Seal.

"In the early days the sheriffs collected the taxes. Sadly, that's been dropped," Neary noted with a smile.

When Neary's appointment ends, he will go back to being a cost consultant to the construction industry. His office is a 10-minute walk from Old Bailey; so he is able to keep in contact during his service as sheriff.

"We attend upon the Lord Mayor who has an even more onerous schedule as he meets visiting dignitaries from all over the world. The Lord Mayor makes two to three speeches a day," Neary continued.

He explained that, technically, the royal family cannot enter The City of London without invitation. So the Queen and other members of royalty are met there by the Lord Mayor.

"Any head of state who comes is met by the Lord Mayor and the sheriffs. The Queen introduces us to them," Neary related, detailing his duties.

The prime function of the sheriffs is having full responsibility for the 19 courts at Old Bailey. Neary explained that this involves the jury panels, witnesses and defending counsels. He noted that up to 3,000 meals a day are served at the jail.

The two sheriffs divide the duties of office with Neary on duty Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

"First we bow the judges into the courts at 9:30 a.m.," he related. At lunchtime the 24 judges are the guests of the Lord Mayor with the sheriff responsible for getting them back into the court afternoon sessions at 2 p.m.

"We rise at 2 p.m.," he explained, "to put them back into the courts."

The process is repeated again in the afternoon as the judges break for tea.

Old Bailey is on the site of historic Newgate Prison. By law the courts have a public gallery, which Neary said, "visitors can queue up to enter."

There have been some memorable official duties for Neary and his wife. In June they flew to the United States on the Concorde to mark the 10th anniversary of the first Concorde flight. The ceremony took place in Washington. Neary was in his ceremonial robes and chains for the occasion. They flew into New York and also met New York Mayor Ed Koch.

"It's a great bird," he mentioned, noting that the era of the Concorde is expected to end in 15 years, the estimated remaining life of the seven in operation.

Trips to the United States are welcome because the Nearys' son, Robert, and family live in Connecticut.

The Nearys' daughter, Sara, presently is completing work on a revision of the Oxford dictionary. Now the mother of a four-year-old daughter, she had been the Bohns' baby sitter in England.

Kathie Neary recalled last week that she and Nancy Bohn had been 10-pin bowlers together in England. During their stay in Michigan the Nearys also visited Pat and Marilyn Simpson in Farmington who also had been in Britain with Ford.

The four day visit at the Bohns' Victorian home on Wing Street last week was a return of hospitality. The Bohns had visited the Nearys last year.

From Northville the Nearys left Thursday for Toronto where he would be meeting with the mayor of that city and also vacationing north of Toronto in the Muskoka Lakes region.

When he completes his term as sheriff, Neary's involvement with The City won't end, however. He still will hold the office of common councilman as well as other posts in The City's government.

Area antique shows, festivals, picnics slated

Throughout the area, many varied events are upcoming.

Between 150,000 and 200,000 persons are expected to attend the Plymouth Fall Festival Sept. 4-7.

A popular highlight will be the 24th annual Antique Mart sponsored by the Plymouth Symphony League Sept. 5-7 at the Plymouth Cultural Center. All proceeds of the 20-dealer show will benefit the Plymouth Symphony Orchestra. A wide variety of primitive, Victorian and European furniture will be displayed.

A preview wine and hors d'oeuvres reception will be held from 8-10 p.m. Sept. 4 at the cultural center. A donation of $10 a person includes admission to the preview reception and to the three day antique mart. Reservations are required and should be made with Marge Rourke, 420-2099, by Aug. 29.

Plymouth Business and Professional Women will be offering Bingo as the opening day event of the Plymouth Fall Festival beginning at 6 p.m. Sept. 4 under The Gathering, a covered pavilion fronting on Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth.

Proceeds will benefit the scholarship fund. A total of $2,000 has been donated as prizes by local businesses.

Food, games and entertainment will be featured in downtown Plymouth during the four-day event.

Daylily Promotions is presenting a Fine Arts & Crafts Fair, Sept. 6-7, on the grounds of Cobblestone Farm, 2781 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor. Art work ranging from pottery and photography to country wood and teddy bears will be for sale by 50 Midwest artists and craftsmen.

The restored 19th-century farm house will be open for tours and colonial demonstrations for both days of the fair. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 6, and noon to 5 p.m. Sept. 7.

The Brighton Lions Club will present its 28th annual picnic from 3 p.m. until midnight this Saturday at Euler Lake on Euler Road north of Grand River Avenue. Along with sloppy joes and hot dogs the club will serve potato salad, beans, Howell melons and corn on the cob.

In addition to food, there will be 100 booths of arts and crafts and a four-act play, "Innocents A-broad."

Members of Hill and Dale Garden Club of Farmington Hills will present their fall fundraiser, "Designs in Flight," Sept. 30 at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi. A boutique of hand-crafts, a fashion show and luncheon are planned.

The boutique will be open from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1:45-3 p.m. Tickets for the luncheon fashion show are $17.50 and must be purchased in advance by calling 553-8670. proceeds support the club's garden therapy program that serves almost 300 special education students in the schools.

Belladonna Medicines

Atropine is one example of the belladonna alkaloids — a group of naturally occurring medicines obtained from plants. Belladonna alkaloids cause a partial or complete reversal of the effects of the chemical acetylcholine that is normally produced by the body. It is acetylcholine that causes the pupils to constrict, the gastrointestinal tract to propel food, the mouth to produce saliva, and hundreds of other regulatory effects.

Belladonna counters these effects and causes the pupils to dilate, the gastrointestinal tract to slow down, and saliva production to decrease. At one time in history women placed belladonna in their eyes to enlarge pupil size and, by their way of thinking, enhance beauty. Mascara and eye shadow serve much the same purpose today and draw attention to "larger" eyes.

One of the chief uses of belladonna today is in treatment of gastrointestinal problems such as ulcers and irritable bowel syndrome. Because belladonna helps relieve spasms of the stomach and intestines, its alkaloids are classified as "antispasmodic" agents. The chief benefit of belladonna use in stomach and bowel disorders may be pain relief through elimination of cramping.

The Northville Record

Record/JERRY ZOLYNSKY

In Syracuse, Ind., Frey earned his Exceptional Performance (EP) rating in the slalom, thus qualifying for the Nationals in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Northville's Frey courts state skiing records

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Water skiing at competitive levels is for the athletic, the strong, the balanced and the fearless. It certainly isn't for anyone afraid of hitting the water at 36 miles per hour or sailing 100 feet in the air above the water.

Northville's Andy Frey, 14, fits the first category perfectly, and water skiing is his specialty. He started recreational skiing at age five, and four years later he was first entered competitively. Andy's father, Larry Frey, saw his son's potential at a very early age.

"Andy was always good on skis, but he needs to continue to work hard at it," he said. "We go out in the summer virtually every day as long as the weather permits — from the middle of April to the middle of October."

Just about every weekend during the summer, the Northville High School sophomore is off to test his skills in American Water Skiing Association (AWSA) sanctioned events all over the Midwest. There are three areas of competition — slalom, jumping and trick skiing — and Frey, who skis in the boys' age group (13-17), is rated high in all three.

"Slalom has been his best event for the last few years, but this season he's been doing real well in jumping," Larry pointed out.

In the competitive water skiing circuit, there are three rating levels starting with Expert, then Master and finally EP (Exceptional Performance), and Frey currently holds one of each rating. In Syracuse, Ind., on July 12-13, Frey earned his EP rating and qualified for the nationals in the slalom. A masters rating in the jump also came this season when Frey first topped the 112-foot mark. In trick skiing, Frey holds an expert rating.

"One of Andy's goals is to get the state record in the jump which is 130-feet," Larry said. "I think he'll make it."

"I think I can make it," Andy stated. "I keep adding 10 feet to my

'One of Andy's goals is to get the state record in the jump which is 130-feet ... I think he'll make it.'

— Larry Frey

jumps every year and, at that pace, I'll be right there in two years."

During the course of the regular season, which included 10 tournaments, Frey went undefeated in the jump. At a water ski course on the Grand River in Lansing, Frey topped the 114-foot mark, his best jump ever.

"I like the slalom and jump the best," Andy admitted. "I don't put as much time into the tricks as I do in the other two. I work on it maybe once a week."

The Frey duo practices nearly every day on a converted gravel pit near Brighton with other members of the Tivoli Gardens Ski Club. Tivoli is nothing more than a long and narrow man-made pit with water in it, but everybody agrees it is one of the best spots in the state for water ski practice.

"There are no waves because the wind doesn't affect it," Andy said. "It's just big enough for a slalom course and a few jumps, but I think it's the best place in the state."

On July 26-27, Tivoli Gardens hosted the 1986 Michigan State Championships, and Frey grabbed a state title with a first place finish in the jumping event (113'). He also finished third in both the slalom and tricks.

Through circumstances beyond his control, Frey has a pair of disadvantages that could work against him if he let it happen. Because he competes in the boys' division, it means that often times his opponents are two to three years older than he is. In addition, being from a northern state, Frey has only a few months of practice time due to weather restraints. Much less time compared to the unlimited potential a skier from Florida or California enjoys.

"When we to the Midwest meets, Michigan kids usually do very well, but when we go against kids down south who can ski 10 months out of the year — it's tough," Andy said. "The northern skiers have to work that much harder."

"It takes a lot of water time, and it takes more work than people think."

At the Midwest Regional Championships on Aug. 2-3 in Kankakee, Ill., Frey was beaten in the jump for the first time this season. He was seeded third but placed down in sixth against skiers from a 13-state region. Frey placed fourth in the slalom as well.

"Water skiing is the sport I really point for," Andy explained. "I like it a lot — if you're not improving it can get tiresome, but as long as I'm getting better and I have something to shoot for, it's great."

"In high school I play on the soccer and wrestling teams, but skiing is my main interest," he said. "My goal is to get a college scholarship from a school that has a ski program."

Only skiers with EP ratings can be invited to the United States Nationals, and Frey's EP in the slalom was enough to attract the AWSA's attention. Both Andy and Larry plan to fly down to West Palm Beach, Fla. for the nationals this month.

"Before every season, I sit down with my dad and write down all the goals I want to achieve for that year," Andy said. "My dad is a big help to me — he is always willing to go out to (Tivoli) and pull me around and then I rest and pull him (with the boat)."

Yes, the Freys really pull for each other.

Kara McNeil — just another fine player in G-League

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Kara McNeil was the Pirate's top catcher during the 1986 season

Every year or so you hear about legal battles that arise when a girl decides she wants to play on the boys' team. Usually, lawyers are brought in on both sides, and the youngster ends up in the middle of it.

For Northville's Kara McNeil, 12, that was never a concern. Over a year ago, she joined the Rangers, a G-League entry, and this season it was the Pirates. Yes, Kara is the only girl to play in the league, but being the only female player was the furthest thing from her mind when she decided to try it.

"I like hardball better than softball," she said. "It is more of a challenge."

So with that in mind, Kara became a Ranger and — surprise — nobody made a fuss about it. As a matter of fact, nobody even mentioned it and, after two full seasons, there has yet to be a problem.

"We chose Kara in our draft because she is a good athlete," Pirate Coach Larry Osiecki declared. "She lives by us, and we knew she had a good attitude and got along real well with all the other players."

In her first two years of organized ball, Kara played softball like most other girls, but her brother John played for the Rangers. Kara went to

'Most of the players were my classmates, so I decided to try it — plus I was better than some of them.'

a few of the practices, got to know the players and the coaches, and it was then she decided to make the change.

"I practiced with John quite a bit, and I enjoyed it more than softball," Kara pointed out. "It was more fun and more challenging. Most of the players were my classmates, and they knew me; so I decided to try it — plus I was better than some of them."

Last season with the Rangers was a learning year, but it all paid off this past season. Not only did Kara have a fine campaign, the Pirates grabbed the G-League championship with a 13-2-1 record.

"She was an important part of our team," Osiecki said. "Kara is an excellent catcher, and it's unusual to have a good catcher at this level. She's fast and has a heck of an arm."

Kara was a regular in the Pirate line-up, never playing fewer than four innings in a game. Her .357 batting average was seventh best on the team, and she added six runs batted in. Defensively, Kara's strong arm made her one of the toughest catchers in the league to try to steal against. In the first week of the season, she stole down two runners trying to steal second base following a strike out.

"It's important to me to do my best, but I don't get mad if we don't win every game," Kara explained. "I've always liked baseball and, playing with all the guys, I just have to practice that much harder."

Perhaps the most refreshing aspect of this story was the way Kara was accepted in the league among the other players and coaches. Osiecki said everybody was upfront about it, and he never heard any whispering or signs of disapproval.

"Everybody just treats me like just another player," Kara said. "And that's the way I like it."

"The boys have always accepted her," said Osiecki's wife Maureen. "There's never been a problem. Other communities have lawsuits and that nonsense, but here it's different."

"Before a game, all the boys would give the coaches their watches and wallets for safe keeping — Kara would give them her earrings. Everything seemed so natural."

FCA holds monthly meeting today

The Northwest Detroit Adult chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes will hold its regular monthly meeting today (Aug. 20) at 6:30 p.m. at the Denny's Restaurant on Telegraph Road, south of 12 Mile in Southfield. Reservations are not required. For further information, contact Northville resident Clay Graham at 349-5515.

The Michigan FCA and Bloomfield Hills Christian Church will present the Living Waters Ski Jamboree at Four Bears Water Park and Recreation Area in Utica Sept. 6. The schedule includes a ski clinic at 10 a.m. and a water ski and flying show at noon. A second water ski show and kite flying exhibition will be held from 4-5 p.m.

The park will remain open until 10 p.m., and ticket prices include access to the waterslide, paddle boats, miniature golf, swimming and picnicking. Tickets are $9 at the door, $8 in advance.

Andrikides named reserve champ

Horses and ponies from across the state competed in a Michigan Hunter Jumper Association sanctioned horse show July 12-13 at the Bloomfield Open Hunt Club. But these animals needed talented riders as well, and Northville's Michelle Andrikides was one of them.

In the Small-Medium Pony Hunter Division, Andrikides was awarded the Reserve Champion aboard Second Graham. The Champion in the division was Jennifer Hayes of Clarkston who was riding Shamrock Leprechaun. In the Hunter Division, the horses are judged for style, manners and their ability in hurling the fences.

Is It Really Worth It To Go Anywhere Else

Frantz offers his tips for bunting

"Sports Skills" is a Northville Record weekly series designed to help you improve your game — whether your game is golf or tennis, or whatever. Every week, a local expert will give tips on certain skills associated with a specific sport.

In baseball, the bunt is a very valuable play, but even at the major league level the task of getting down an effective bunt is often times very difficult to do.

Novi baseball Coach Gar Frantz played a lot of ball and tried a lot of bunts in his days as a player. Now the coach tries to pass on the expertise to his players — not always an easy task either.

"We bunt every day in practice," Frantz said. "It's very important because a bunt can sacrifice a runner, give you a hit or squeeze a runner in from third. Those situations come about often during the course of a game, and the good teams and players take advantage (of the bunt)."

The first thing Frantz stresses to his players is proper positioning in the batter's box. For either a right or left hander, the batter should stand much further up in the batter's box than normal.

"If you're back behind the plate, when you bunt, the ball will probably hit the plate after the bunt attempt and pop right into the air to the catcher," Frantz explained. "But if you're out in front of the plate a bit, the ball will first hit the ground in the dead area in front of the plate and die — that's what you want."

Another key technique is having the patience to wait until the pitcher is releasing the ball before squaring to bunt. A premature move will tip off the pitcher and his fielders behind him that a bunt attempt is coming. And, according to Frantz, that extra second or so makes a big difference — the element of surprise is on the batter's side.

"If you show it too early, it isn't a surprise," he said. "That's why you usually want to bunt on the first pitch if it is a strike. After one pitch, everybody knows what you are trying to do and your chances of being successful will be less."

Learning to lay off a pitch out of the strike zone is one of the biggest problems associated with bunting. Frantz drills into his team the importance of bunting at strikes, but it doesn't always work.

"If you start bunting at bad pitches you're either going to miss the ball or hit it foul or make a bad bunt," Frantz pointed out. "In practice, we tell them only to bunt at good pitches."

There are three basic bunting situations: the squeeze bunt, the sacrifice bunt and bunting for a hit. Most coaches teach the same fundamental motion for all three, but a recent trend has changed that slightly. In the sacrifice situation with a runner on either first or second base, some coaches call for both hands to slide up the bat about halfway when bunting. The standard execution, with one hand at the bat's base and the other midway up the shaft, isn't used. This new method is supposed to deaden the ball off the bat even more, but many coaches, including Frantz, don't believe in or teach this technique.

Novi Coach Gar Frantz shows the proper bunting form when the ball meets the bat

Record/JERRY ZOLYNSKY

"I definitely don't like it," Frantz admitted. "If you slide both hands up the handle, it may deaden the ball more, but you've just lost the outside of the strike zone. I'd rather teach the standard technique for all three types of bunts than use two different kinds. It usually confuses the player."

At the point of the pitcher's release, a batter should then begin to prepare for the bunt. While the bat is quickly brought straight down from the shoulder to in front of the plate, the batter can either square up or rotate his hips — whichever position he is the most comfortable with. For a right hander, the right hand slides down the handle, with the finger tip just barely touching the bottom of the bat and the thumb parallel to the shaft. For southpaws, the hands are reversed.

"Ninety-nine percent of the time, the best bunt is down the third base line," Frantz said. "It's an easy motion, and it is a hard play for the third baseman."

"(For a right hander) the barrel of the bat should be pointing at the first base coach. We always teach them to stick the bat right at the top of the strike zone and then to come down with it if they need to. If the pitch is going over the bat, they know it's a ball and they know they shouldn't try to bunt it. If you go up with the bat to get a pitch, you're going to pop it up."

For lefthanders, Frantz likes to see them stand very close to the plate so they can effectively drag a bunt down the line and get some momentum going to first base at the same time. If they are too far off the plate, the batter can't cover the outside of the plate.

Frantz believes in the bunt for a number of very good reasons. With runners on, it is a very effective way to advance the runners and at the same time, it can often develop into a hit.

"You have to think positive if you want to be a good bunter," he explained. "You have to go up thinking hit. If you move the runners up, then the batter did his job — but if he gets a hit, it's nothing but a bonus."

While girls' basketball players prepare, area coaches welcome new smaller ball

QUICK QUIZ: bigger than a volleyball but smaller than a basketball?

ANSWER: official women's basketball.

That's right. Women are getting a break these days because of their smaller hands. Actually, they've been getting a break for two years in the college ranks, but it's just now affecting the Michigan prep scene.

Beginning this season, all high school games in Michigan will be played with a smaller-size ball. The rule was adopted during the summer of 1985, but due to various problems, its official starting date was delayed until the 1986 season.

The new ball has a circumference of 28½-29 inches, compared to the men's ball which is 29½-30 inches. The diameter of the rim is 18 inches.

Area coaches are accepting the change with open arms. They've seen the improvement in the college game and can't wait to see the same type of developments within their game.

'I'm extremely pleased with it. I see it enhancing the girls' game — it won't detract from their play at all.'

— Ed Kritch
Mustang Basketball Coach

"I think it's good," Novi Coach Bill Ayotte said. "Since they've had it in college for several years now, it only makes sense to be consistent. I've thought for years we should go to it, and now that we have I think it's a positive thing."

"I'm extremely pleased with it," Northville Coach Ed Kritch said. "The girls' hands are not as big or as strong as the boys'. I see it enhancing the girls' game — it won't detract from their play at all."

Several phases of the game — dribbling, rebounding, passing, receiving and shooting — all should improve as a result of the new ball. Coaches say the improvements will come immediately, too, and that the adjustment period will be very short. The pace of women's basketball on the collegiate level has picked up dramatically during the past two seasons. The dribbling is much sharper, passes are more crisp and perimeter shooting has developed.

"I know that the college game has improved," Kritch said. "They can pass more accurately and farther, they handle the ball better and their shooting range improved about three feet.

"All facets of the game will get better," Ayotte predicted. "Passing will be better and that leads to a better offense."

Area coaches differ on whether or not to expect a drastic increase in scoring this fall. Ayotte feels it may take a while before high school girls take advantage of the smaller ball, same-size-rim situation. But Kritch believes the change will be immediate.

"I believe we will see an immediate scoring surge," Kritch said. "It will probably be an average of five to 10 more points a game per team. Everything will be affected including free throw percentage."

"I think it will help the smaller players first, and it will definitely help an up-tempo game," Ayotte said. "Longer passes and less turnovers will mean more scoring, but I'm not sure how long it will take before we see it."

RECREATION BRIEFS

ORIENTATION PROGRAM: John Gross of WXYZ-TV will speak at the Schoolcraft College Athletic Orientation Program Aug. 25 at 9:45 a.m. Gross will be the keynote speaker of the program entitled, "How To Succeed at Schoolcraft College as a Student Athlete."

The program will run from Aug. 25 through Aug. 28. The Athletic Orientation Week is a part of the Student Athlete Support System and is coordinated by Judy Mack. The program is designed to provide guidance to the student-athlete in maintaining a balance between academic and athletic responsibilities.

ROTARY GUEST: The Northville Rotary Club invites the public to attend its weekly meeting Aug. 26 featuring guest speaker John Stevens. Stevens was the owner and captain of the "Sprint," the 1986 winner of the Port Huron to Mackinac Boat Race. The meeting, including lunch, begins at noon. For more information call Wes Henrikson at 349-4650.

AMUSEMENT PARK TICKETS: The Rec Center, in cooperation with the Michigan Recreation and Park Association, is selling summer tickets to the following amusement areas: Bob-Lo, Cedar Point, Detroit Zoo, Greenfield Village, Kings Island and Sea World. For more information, call 349-0203.

ACS GOLF: The Wayne County Unit of the American Cancer Society will sponsor its first annual ACS Golf Championship on Aug. 28 at links at Pinewood.

Any person making a $100 donation to the American Cancer Society can compete, and Ben Davis will be on hand as the guest professional. Included in the package is a buffet luncheon and sit-down steak dinner.

The first place winner will represent Wayne County at the State Tournament at Boyne Highlands, Sept. 6-7. For more information, call 425-6830.

With the number of Michigan Lottery ticket terminals increasing throughout the state, the number of people discovering the fun of Daily games is on the rise. The following answers some of the most frequently asked questions about the Daily 3 and Daily 4 games.

How long have the Daily games been around?

The Daily 3 game drawings began in 1977, while the Daily 4 games began in 1981.

How do you play the games?

The Daily 3 game challenges players to match a three-digit number drawn, while Daily 4 players try to match a four-digit number. In either game, depending on how you place your wager, you can win prizes for matching digits drawn in either the exact order they were drawn, or various combinations of those digits. For full details, ask your Lottery retailer for "The Daily 3 Game Made Simple" or "The Daily 4 Game Made Simple." These free brochures tell you all you need to know about rules, prizes and odds for these games.

How much does it cost to play?

The Daily 3 game can be played for either 50¢ or $1, while all Daily 4 tickets are $1.

How much can you win?

In the Daily 3 game, players can win up to $500. Players in the Daily 4 game can win up to $5,000.

How are the three or four numbers selected?

Air-driven wheels, designed, built, tested and certified by the Engineering College of Wayne State University, are used to draw the numbers under supervision of a Lottery manager and an independent auditor.

Are these drawings televised?

Yes. Live drawings are shown or announcements of winning numbers are made at 7:29 p.m. Monday-Saturday on the statewide Lottery network of television stations.

If I can't watch the drawings, how do I get the numbers?

The news media are informed of the drawing results immediately after they take place. In addition, Lottery retailers post the winning numbers in their place of business.

Tell me about the Daily 3 bonus weeks I keep hearing about.

To add to player rewards and create new interest in the game, the Lottery occasionally offers weekly bonuses such as the current round running to Labor Day. One night each week, either a double draw, where the Lottery plays on two different numbers drawn, or a bonus payment is made on all winning straight bets on that night's three-digit number.

Because her Daily game question led to this column, Linda Lawrence of Richland will receive 50 "Michigan 150" instant game tickets.

If you have a Lottery question you'd like answered, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.
