Council approves entry into 'Super Sewer'

The City of Northville unanimously agreed to join 16 other communities, including Wixom and Novi, in the Joint Rouge Valley-North Huron Valley sewer.

But Northville Township, which also is scheduled to be serviced by the "grandson of SuperSewer", is still investigating possible options before committing to the project.

David Vago, assistant director of the Wayne County Office of Public Services, Department of Public Works, told the Northville City Council that Wixom had earlier agreed to participate in the project and Novi agreed to join Monday.

Approval also must come from Plymouth, Canton, Van Buren and Redford townships and the cities of Livonia, Wayne, Westland, Inkster, Garden City, Dearborn Heights and Romulus.

"I just don't see that we have any choice in the matter," said Mayor Pro-Tem Dewey Gardner.

"No you don't," Vago said. "You are already over capacity and we do have the option of fining you up to $10,000 per day each day you are over capacity." When the supersewer project was originally proposed in an effort to clean up the state's water as well as to service a burgeoning suburban population, the federal government was expected to pick up a high percentage of the total project cost.

Since that time, however, a number of communities have expressed reluctance to participate in the system and federal grant monies have abated, Richard Hinshon explained.

"What we're looking at now is the federal government picking up 55 percent of the cost for at least the first segment of the project, with local communities and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources funding the balance," he said.

"If we get approvals from all 16 communities, located in Wayne and Oakland counties by Nov. 1, we will be able to get our grant application in by the Dec. 1 cutoff date," Vago added.

However, neither Vago nor Hinshon could promise that cost estimates would not rise nor that once the first segment of the project was completed, additional federal monies would be forthcoming. The first segment of the three-part project — by far the largest portion of construction — would cost the city of Northville $643,000, and the township $2.3 million, total. The federal government is expected to pick up 55 percent of the costs. However, had the project been built as originally proposed, the federal government would have picked up 75 percent.

By the time the project is completed, the city's share would be $1.7 million and the township's portion, $6.4 million. Should the 55 percent figure hold through the duration of the $103 million project, the city would contribute $908,000 and the township $3.3 million.

Although Vago and Hinshon said they wanted to approach the township at its Thursday board of trustees meeting, Walter Holinoty, water and sewer superintendent, said the water and sewer commission had directed its engineers to study

2nd land swap request is made

The Northville Historic District Commission will get the chance to make the initial recommendation as to whether the city will trade part of its property on Main Street to Denis Roux for Roux's Center Street parcel.

Roux proposed the property trade to City Council Monday, however, Mayor Pro Tem Dewey Gardner immediately suggested the offer, as well as Roux's plans for a two-story retail/office building be sent to the commission for study.

The request for the property trade is the second to come before city council in the past six months. James Plagens also asked the municipal body to exchange the city-owned property on Main and Griswold for a similarly-sized parcel Plagens owned. That trade, after an initial reluctance on the part of the council, was approved by the planning commission after the historic district commission gave its input into plans for a two-story retail center.

Roux said he was proposing an "even exchange" with the city and that he planned to build a light contemporary style building on the new site, located across from the M.A.G.S. building on Main Street.

While the land area to be traded is essentially the same, James C. Cutler, a local realtor and a registered appraiser, said Tuesday "Off the top of my head, it would seem that the Main Street property would be worth more than the Center Street property," Cutler said he could not determine how much more "without making a full appraisal."

Plans for Roux's building were drawn up by Kamp DiComo Associates and include nearly 6,000 square feet of retail space.

Included in the preliminary drawings were renovations to the existing parking lot, located at the rear of the proposed structure.

In supporting the trade, Steven Walters said the city would receive property adjacent to the Center Street parking structure — property the city could use for its planned expansion of the parking deck.

However, a member of the 10-Grand Club, from which Roux purchased the Center Street property, said the organization, comprised of local businessmen, had offered to sell the Center Street property to the city on at least two separate occasions before the 10-Grand Club agreed to accept Roux's offer.

The decision to refer Roux's project to the historic district commission was unanimous, and Gardner noted that the procedure was the same one followed when Plagens had proposed the property trade with the city.

"We sent it to the historic district commission and they worked with Plagens and we got a building more in keeping with the type of development we wanted downtown," Gardner noted.

Dollar drain on sub

Less than three months after city voters passed a two-mill street repair assessment, some residents of Northville Estates have learned they are going to become part of a special assessment district.

By a unanimous vote Monday, City Council said it would create a special assessment district on Elmsmere to pay for storm sewers, curbing and some repaving in an effort to eliminate flooding in the area.

That action, however, did not sit too well with some Elmsmere residents.

"Last June I was asked to participate in the distribution of literature to ask voters to approve 2 mills for an across the board street repair millage. I voted in favor of that and now you want me to pay more money," said Paul Dawson.

But Steven Walters, city manager, pointed out that Elmsmere Street residents have never been assessed for street repairs, and that the street had not been repaved when other Northville Estates streets had undergone reconstruction.

Walters added that part of the problem with excess water occurred when Northville Estates was developed. The Randolph Drain which was supposed to handle storm water runoff was not available at that time.

Robert Borthwick countered that much of the problem seems to come from Novi. "I noticed a large amount of water rapids even — coming

Linda Hohnacki, one of 15 new teachers hired by the Northville Public Schools for the 1986-87 school year, returned to the classroom last week for the first time in many years. A former community education instructor, substitute, and at-home tutor, she's now a teacher to 27 third graders at Silver Springs. Her story is on Page 6A.

Warrants name pair in armed robbery

An anonymous phone call has led to the issuing of warrants charging two men in the Aug. 3 armed robbery of two Domino's Pizza employees.

Detective Michael Panagiotides of the Northville Township Police Department said Monday, the department has obtained warrants charging a 19-year-old Canton Township resident and 20-year-old Plymouth resident with armed robbery and felony firearm.

If convicted, the two could face life in prison for the armed robbery and an additional two years in prison for using a gun during the commission of a felony.

Panagiotides' investigation lasted nearly a month, and included talking to a number of friends and acquaintances of the two men named in the warrant.

"The big break came when the father of someone who supplied one of the guns used in the robbery contacted us," Panagiotides said. "After that, it was a matter of confirming all the information we had and then asking the (Wayne County) Prosecutor's office for the warrant."

During the investigation, Panagiotides said he talked not only to two people who supplied the guns used in the robbery, but also friends and acquaintances of the two men who said they actually saw the money bag taken during the robbery and heard the suspects talking about the incident.

He was assisted in the investigation by Capt. Phillip Presnell.

After the robbery, both suspects fled the state, Panagiotides said. However, one of the men has since returned to Michigan. The other suspect is still believed to be living out of state and Panagiotides said he was "not sure" when the arrest warrant would be served on the two suspects or whether there would be one or two court cases in the incident.

The charges stem from a robbery of two Domino's Pizza employees who were making a deposit at the Comerica Bank on Eight Mile west of Haggerty.

At the time, the Domino's employees told police that while the male employee waited in a car, the female approached the bank depository to deposit the day's receipts when a "man approached her, pulled a handgun and told her to drop the deposit bag and her keys."

Both suspects were wearing nylon stocking masks at the time, the woman told police.

Once the two men are arrested, they face arraignment in 35th District Court.

DNR may delay move into Main Street site

By MICHELE M. FECHT

Despite numerous changes and delays by state officials and the less than unanimous approval for a special use permit by the city planning commission, it appears the school district's Main Street facility will have a new tenant sometime next month.

After months of negotiations with the Department of Natural Resources, school officials now are working out the final details of a three-year lease agreement with the state agency.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told school board members Monday night that the district has been in almost daily contact with the DNR during the past few weeks.

The state agency is planning to move its Southeast Michigan Field Office, currently located in the Howe Building on the former Plymouth Center for Human Development site into the first two floors of the Main Street building.

Knighton told the board that while the DNR originally planned to occupy approximately 51 percent of the building, it now appears that only about 47 percent of the facility will be needed, allowing the district to maintain its office for the gifted and talented program on the lower level of the building.

The school administration also

Library schedules story hour signup

Registration for the fall session of preschool story time begins today at the Northville Public Library.

Children ages 3½ to 5 years old who have not attended kindergarten are eligible for the program. Story time will be offered on Tuesdays from Sept. 23 through Oct. 28.

The 30-minute program is offered in both morning and afternoon sessions. The morning session begins at 10:30 a.m. with the afternoon group meeting at 1 p.m. Since previous story time participants now are entering kindergarten, room is available for new students. When sessions are filled, the library will keep a waiting list in case of cancellations.

Story time is designed to introduce preschoolers to good books and provide first lessons in listening. Children also have an opportunity to experience group interaction.

Sylvia Mazzaro, children's librarian, will be the storyteller. Mother Goose rhymes, games, songs, fingerplay, puppets, counting and recognition of colors are among the activities planned. A late October session will celebrate Halloween.

Children are expected to participate in all six sessions and are awarded a sticker for each program attended. Parents are requested to remain in the library during story time.

Library cards are required to check out materials and may be obtained at the circulation desk.

Story time is offered four times a year. Each program runs six sessions, except for the summer, which lasts four weeks. Dates for the winter session are Jan. 20 through Feb. 24 with registration scheduled for Jan. 7.

Donations of baked goods are needed for crafts fair

Northville Historical Society is looking for some assistance from resident bakers interested in donating baked goods for the upcoming Tivoli Arts and Crafts Fair.

The historical society once again will be selling baked goods at its booth during the Sept. 26 and 27 crafts fair.

Kathy Crossman, bake sale co-chairperson, asks that items such as brownies, lemon bars, date and apricot bars, cookies, muffins and cupcakes be wrapped individually or in groups of a dozen or half dozen.

Pies, cakes, coffee cakes, rolls, quick or yeast breads also are popular sellers. The historical society is hoping to raise $500 from this year's bake sale. Crossman notes that members always sell all donated baked goods.

Baked goods can be dropped off at the Northville Historical Society booth across from the fair exit at 8:30 a.m. Friday, Sept. 26. Goodies can also be dropped off at Crossman's home at 46274 Pickford on Sept. 25. Donations will also be accepted from those who do not have time to bake.

Admission to the fair is free at 9 a.m. Sept. 26 to contributors to the bake sale.

Tourism class planned

Schoolcraft College's Continuing Education program will offer a 12-week course on Travel and Convention Development beginning Thursday, Sept. 25.

Travel promotion and development currently is the state's second largest industry and the fastest growing. Instructor Robert Cartwright is sales manager of advertising and memberships for the Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan.

The introductory course will cover how to develop, promote and sell attractions, recreation and lodging. Course discussions will include career opportunities in travel promotion.

For registration and fee information, call 591-6400, ext. 409.

NEWS BRIEF

A SCHOLARSHIP FUND in memory of former Northville Township Manager Bruno Scacchitti has been established at Madonna College.

The fund would provide financial assistance to a business/public administration student at the Livonia college and donations are being accepted by Sr. Lauriana, Madonna College, 36800 Schoolcraft, Livonia, MI 48150. Donations should be designated for the Bruno Scacchitti fund.

THE CITY PLANNING commission elected officers Sept. 2 and chose Jerry Mittman to retain the chairmanship, John Hardin as vice chairman and Dick Wilhelm as secretary. The trio will serve through August, 1987.

THE TOWNSHIP has taken the first step to hire a replacement for Bruno Scacchitti, the former manager killed in an Ohio car accident.

Treasurer Richard Henningsen said he has placed "help wanted" notices in professional management publications, as well as contacting the University of Pittsburgh and Eastern Michigan University.

Henningsen said he has not yet received any responses to the notices, but added he expected to begin interviewing candidates for the job within a month.

SOME MICHIGAN PRISONERS will be looking at Oregon trees from Scott Regional Facility.

The president of the firm which won the contract to landscape the Northville Township prison facility, said his firm went outside the state to buy the 500 major trees for the site because "growers in Michigan don't grow enough of the trees to fill an order of this size."

Among the plantings are Austrian and scotch pines and a number of red maples. The trees came from Oregon, downstate New York and Pennsylvania, said Dwight Thomas, Sherwood Forest president.

TWO YEARS after the first request was made, a traffic signal has been installed at the Winchester and Six Mile Road intersection. County workers put the light in place last week.

Although township officials said they did not anticipate the signal to become operational until "later this month", the signal was turned on Friday. It is activated by a trigger mechanism at Winchester.

FIFTEEN TEACHERS were granted probationary contracts for the 1986-87 school year by the Northville Board of Education Monday.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton told the board that nine of the 15 new hires are replacing staff due to retirement, resignation, maternity leave or other reasons. The remainder are new positions resulting from new programming and the increase in enrollment.

Two resign Schoolcraft board seats

Schoolcraft College trustees Sharon Sarris and Paul Kadish have announced their resignations, prompting school officials to set in motion procedures for filling the two vacancies.

The trustees, whose individual plans were announced at a college board meeting Aug. 24, will serve until the next meeting Sept. 24.

College president Richard McDowell said the vacancies will be filled by the board of trustees and those selected will serve until the next scheduled board election on June 8, 1987. By law, the remaining five trustees have 30 days after the September meeting date to make their selections. The board will appoint two new trustees effective Oct. 22.

Persons eligible for the appointments must be registered voters of the Schoolcraft College district, which is comprised of Northville, Clarenceville, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth-Canton and a part of the Novi Community Schools.

Applicants should submit a cover letter and resume to the President's Office. Materials must be received by 5 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22. The board of trustees will review the applications, establish dates for interviews and select persons to fill the vacancies.

Both Sarris and Kadish said their resignations were due to personal moves outside the district. Sarris, a Livonia resident, will be moving to Birmingham, and Kadish, who lives in Westland, to Franklin.

Sarris was appointed to the board in 1982 and was elected in 1984 to a six-year term. The election next June will be for filling the remaining four years of that term.

Kadish, a board member since 1971, currently is serving his third term, which expires in June, 1987.

Sarris said she hoped there would be interest throughout the district for the board posts. Trustees are not paid to serve on the board and are required to attend at least one meeting a month.

"There are a lot of good people in the community, and (there were) 17 applicants when I was appointed," she noted. "I'm hoping that maybe there will be the same interest this time."

Sarris added that because of the district's configuration — with a large block of representation from Livonia — residents from smaller districts such as Garden City have difficulty fielding candidates. Noting that the college's Radcliff Center is in Garden City, Sarris said she's "hoping there would be some good candidates from Garden City."

Sarris, 41, who works as manager of employee communications for the Chevrolet-Pontiac-General Motors of Canada Group, says job commitments and a desire to live closer to her employment base at GM's Tech Center in Warren is prompting the move.

"My job responsibilities are changing and I'll be traveling more," she said. "It's becoming tougher to predict when I'm going to be home (to attend board meetings)."

Sarris, who played a key role in organizing support for Schoolcraft's recent millage election as chairperson of the millage drive, said she was leaving with "good feelings" about her contributions to the college.

Her departure also creates a vacancy on the Schoolcraft Development Authority on which she served as the board's representative overseeing a multi-million dollar emerging commercial project at Seven Mile and Haggerty, on main campus property.

Kadish, 50, is getting married on Sept. 7 and plans to move into his future wife's current home in Franklin.

"I'm looking very much forward to the wedding though it would have been nice to (fulfill) the six-year term," said Kadish, who owns Associated Group Underwriters, a Livonia-based company.

As of late last week, Kadish said he had not yet been approached by other potential candidates who may be seeking his backing, but that he does plan to encourage "a few people to throw their hat in the ring." He said it would be premature to mention their names.

About leaving the board, he said "I have mixed feelings. It's been a very important experience for me, (though) not just because of all the people I've gotten to know. I've watched the college grow and do more things for more people, which has given me a lot of satisfaction."

Since 1971, Kadish has served as board chairman, vice chair and treasurer.

McDowell, meanwhile, called both trustees' work on the board "excellent." He noted that Kadish, whom he called a "very reasonable person" has been "quite objective about things." About Sarris, he said "she has been a good leader. They will be missed."

Work begins on $2.58 million budget

Northville Township Board of Trustees got its first look at the township's proposed 1987 fiscal budget — and there were few surprises in the document.

There were some changes, however, most notably the establishment of a capital improvements fund, with $705,000 allotted for the purchase of large-scale equipment, facilities and special programs.

Already in the works are the west-end fire station and the Haggerty Road sewer, for which the new fund could be tapped. Still on the drawing boards are the projected township hall expansion or construction, a ladder truck for the fire department and a special census to be conducted in early 1987.

The general fund budget reflects a 31 percent increase over the 1986 document. The township has allotted $2.58 million in that fund, which includes personnel salaries. Included in that portion of the budget are appropriations for the hiring of two additional police officers, a code enforcement officer and a part-time building inspector.

While increases in salaries for township officials are part of the budget, there is at least one area where a decrease in funding is requested — the elections division within the clerk's office.

"There are just no elections scheduled for fiscal 1987," Clerk Georgina Goss pointed out. "There's no need to appropriate for this year, but wait until next year."

The budget also reflects a decrease in anticipated federal revenue sharing.

An undesignated fund balance of $212,000 also was included in the document and, as Jim Graham, finance analyst pointed out, the UFD is a reserve fund to be used if there is a slowdown in the economy or there is an unexpected expense. The UFD is usually about 10 percent of the total budget.

"The trustees control the fund,"

Plans call for The Raven to reopen soon in Salem

By BRUCE J. MARTIN

Northville businessman Tom Rice is ready to get The Raven airborne again. But this time the folk music emporium/coffeehouse will roost in Salem Township, and Rice will have a partner in the venture.

"It's still my desire to get it going at the (proposed) bed and breakfast inn in downtown Northville," Rice said last week. "But obviously, nothing is going to be happening with that for a long time."

"Also, I'm opening a new music store in Milford and I won't have the time to run The Raven the way I did before — I can't consider putting in the time and effort."

Enter Paul Mac, a Salem Township resident whose dream of opening a folk music-coffeehouse remarkably parallels that of Rice. Both Mac and Rice knew The Raven from its glory days as a folk institution in Southfield in the sixties and seventies.

Mac was hoping to open a coffeehouse/music series at the 100-year-old Congregational Church in Salem, located on Dickerson Street near Six Mile. A former pastor, Mac and his wife, Donna, acquired the site last October.

"I struck on the idea of getting a mailing list from Tom to get the business started, so I went to see him," Mac recalled.

"No," was the initial response of Rice, who didn't want to turn over his hard-earned core of patrons to a competitor. But after the two learned more about each other's goals, it was apparent they had more to gain by joining forces than competing.

"I had a desire to keep it going," said Rice. "I was constantly getting phone calls from people asking me when we'd start up again. And I didn't want to get some schlock setting for it. I gotta admit, I just wanted to hear the music myself."

Rice said his wife, Rita, also was a strong backer of the joint venture, since it would satisfy their wish to continue the music series while being less demanding of his time.

Added Mac, "We've got an agreement where Tom lends us The Raven name and handles our bookings, while Donna and I do the really time-consuming work — mailings, getting the place ready, that sort of thing."

"We've had a lot of support from everybody from the (Salem) township board to the neighbors, they're all very enthusiastic."

The church affords The Raven a rather classy nest — a cathedral ceiling and a redecorated, rustic, quiet setting. Shows will continue much as they did when The Raven was based at the Northville Community Center one night a month, with shows at 7 and 9 p.m., no drinking and no smoking during the performance. Snacks will no longer be offered, but beverages — coffee, tea and cold drinks — will continue to be available.

All in all, the setting is designed to encourage the best possible conditions for music listening — in fact, Mac is considering offering a variety of musical events there not tied to the Raven, a brass quintet concert in October, for example.

Opening act for The Raven series will be Neil Woodward October 11. Future performers are expected to include Kitty Donahue, Mustard's Retreat, and other individuals and groups familiar to Raven followers.

"Now that we've got a facility, the sky's the limit," Rice concluded.

Artist to visit gallery

P (Pat) Buckley Moss, one of this country's most successful artists who is known worldwide for her paintings of the Amish and Mennonite people of the Shenandoah Valley, will be making a personal visit at The Frame Works gallery at 833 Penniman in Plymouth.

She will be at the gallery from noon to 3 p.m. and from 6-9 p.m. Sept. 16.

"We are very fortunate to have her visit as she is one of the most widely known American artists working today," commented Alvin H. Larson, gallery owner, in announcing her appearance.

Early this year Moss donated a complete offset print edition of her watercolor, "Family Love," to raise funds for work in the famine regions of Africa. Figures in the print, painted especially for the cause, are of a young Mennonite couple with a small child and a baby. The background includes a barn, house and geese.

Moss chose the Mennonite Central Committee Africa Fund as the relief organization to benefit from the print series, noting it had an excellent reputation for the wise use of its relief monies. The 1,000 prints were made at the artist's expense and have sold for $100 each. When the edition is sold, $100,000 will have been raised for the relief project.

Original watercolors and reproductions by Moss have sold for more than $3.5 million in a single year.

Her list of commissions includes first ladies, governors and corporate firms like Coca-Cola.

Her paintings have been exhibited in New Orleans, Houston, Denver, Norfolk and in London, among other places.

Fifty-three years old and the mother of six, the artist has a heavy exhibition and travel schedule. When she isn't on the road, she splits her time between a large barn converted into a studio home in the Shenandoah Valley near Waynesboro, Pa., and another studio home near her gallery in Georgetown.

As an art student at Cooper Union, she says she was impressed by the dedication of Picasso, the creative images of Modigliani and the willingness of Toulouse-Lautrec to paint subjects he found interesting.

Her work reflects some of these influences and shows a distinctive style which is her own. Her pictures of slim Mennonite or other figures, often with backgrounds of tall buildings, are easily recognizable.

"At first glance," says the artist, "my work appears very realistic. Yet it is impressionistic, highly designed, meticulously done."

She considers watercolor her biggest challenge but also works in oils and acrylics. In addition to original paintings and prints, the artist has made a series of collectors' plates.

Q. How much will a new ceiling cost?

A. That depends on the features and benefits of the ceiling you choose. A washable ceiling is low-cost; a washable, acoustical is more; washable, acoustical, fire-retardant is more than that. Ceiling prices, when compared with other major interior remodeling products, are inexpensive. Depending on the features you want, your new ceiling should cost somewhere between $50 and $200 for an entire 10' x 12' room.

Planning commission sends clinic plans back to ZBA

Plans to redesign the doctors' office at the corner of Linden and Dunlap were sent back to the zoning board of appeals by the Northville Planning Commission Sept. 2 after commissioners noted the variances granted by the zoning board were not enough to allow the variations requested by Gary George, owner of the property.

While the zoning board of appeals granted nine variances for the project, what was not requested, and not granted, was fencing along the south side of the property (although a variance was granted for fencing on the west side).

The ZBA granted variances on the expansion of a non-conforming use, expansion of a non-conforming structure, the front yard setback, the side yard setback, allowing parking on the front yard setback, 18 parking spaces instead of the required 23, driveway encroachment and planting along the west property line at its June 4 meeting.

Matt Collins, the architect for the project, said the expansion "would be more functional, improve parking in the area, restore portions of the building to more closely follow the original appearance of the building, and the building would be more harmonious with its neighbors."

George said the total increase of the addition would be about 530 square feet.

Ron Nino, the city planner, however, said he had a "difficult time figuring out exactly what the board of zoning appeals did. I don't know whether they granted you a variance or a waiver, and I am hesitant to take action without knowing exactly what they did."

Nino suggested it might be a good idea were George and Collins to go back to the ZBA for further waivers.

Aside from the questions about ZBA action, Nino said he also had concerns about the lack of elevation provided on the plans presented to the planning commission, as well as a lack of quantities of specific plantings to be included in the landscaping for the medical clinic.

Despite the reservations, the planning commission did approve the preliminary plans, but withheld okay on the final plans until George or his representatives returned to the ZBA.

Plagens' retail center earns okay from city planning commissioners

While the land swap which would allow James Plagens to build a two-story retail center at Hutton and Main is not yet complete, the planning commission Sept. 2, gave its approval to the plans presented by Donald DiComo, architect for the project.

In granting the preliminary and final approval for the project, Commissioner Jay Wendt noted the approval should include an agreement on air rights over city sidewalks since plans call for the second story of the proposed building to extend partially over city property.

DiComo noted that the historic district commission has given its approval for the project, which, when built, will maintain the Victorian genre of architecture prevalent in the town.

DiComo said he anticipated the city engineers would actually design the parking area for the retail center, since Plagens would be purchasing parking from the city to meet building requirements.

Part of the parking needed for the new complex will be located between Plagens' current building and the new retail development. The City Council has already approved the land swap in principal and has plans to develop additional parking which would serve the retail center. The city owns the land on the southeast corner of Hutton, currently used on Thursdays for the farmers' market while Plagens owns the property on the northern portion of the lot.

The land swap would allow Plagens to build his retail center in a "visible" location and at the same time help the city develop more of Main Street as a retail district.

DiComo noted that Plagens wanted the footings for the new building to be completed by fall, and would like to have the retail space rented by Christmas, 1987.

Madonna shows 'Man of Iron'

"Man of Iron," the 1981 Cannes Film Festival grand prize winner depicting the struggle of the Catholic Church, Communist government and Solidarity labor movement in Poland, will be shown Nov. 5 at Madonna College.

Director Andrzej Wajda crafted an instant record of history with "Man of Iron," considered one of the few satisfying fusions of documentary and fiction. Solidarity leader Lech Walesa is seen in both newsreel footage and as an actor in this accurate portrayal of recent history.

"Man of Iron" is just one of four films featured as part of Madonna College's Humanities Film Series this year.

A film adaptation of Marlowe's classic "Doctor Faustus," starring Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, will be shown Oct. 16.

Roman Polanski's first feature film, "Knife in the Water," will be featured Feb. 18. Filmed in the villages of southern Italy and cast entirely with non-professionals, "The Gospel According to St. Matthew," will be shown March 25.

All films are open to the public at no charge and will be shown at 1:30 and 7:30 p.m. in Kresge Hall on Madonna's campus. Madonna College is located at the intersection of I-96 and Levan in Livonia.

Mrs. Hojnacki faces first day

After years as a community education instructor, at-home tutor and substitute teacher, Linda Hojnacki finally has her own classroom.

One of 15 new teachers hired by the Northville Public Schools for the 1986-87 school year, Hojnacki joins a number of former teachers who are returning to fulltime teaching after spending years at home with their own children.

Hojnacki, who is teaching third grade at Silver Springs, says she was anxious to get back into the classroom.

"I really didn't expect to get a teaching position so soon," she notes, adding that she spent last year substituting in the Northville school district.

Having taught full time in Birmingham and St. Clair Shores prior to the birth of her two daughters, Lisa, 11, and Amy, 6½, Hojnacki is no newcomer to the rigors of a teacher's schedule. Prior to the family's move to Northville in 1983, she taught community education classes in both Troy and Livonia.

To help keep mom company in her new classroom, daughters Amy and Lisa gave her their chameleon. The little critter has been named "Spike" by her third graders.

"We have some gerbils at home, I'll probably get those next," Hojnacki says.

With mom off to school before the girls head to Winchester, Hojnacki says her husband Greg has taken over the morning routine.

"I think they're (Amy and Lisa) getting the best breakfast they've ever had," she exclaims.

Reflecting on her first day back at school, Hojnacki says "everything went real well."

"I went home feeling very happy. It's so nice to have my own classroom again."

Clockwise from left: Word for the first day was "terrific." Storytime includes the tale of a chameleon, one very much like Spike (playing in the cage). Mrs. Hojnacki takes pictures of students which will be used to construct mobiles. Students located their summer vacation spots. Doug Holloway is reminded to keep quiet while Mrs. Hojnacki talks to the class.

Chamber seeking area's top resident

Nominations for the 1986 Citizen of the Year award are being sought by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

The award will be presented at the annual dinner meeting of the chamber Oct. 4 at Meadowbrook Country Club.

Nominations for the 11th annual award may be made by organizations or individuals. As is traditional, last year's recipient of the honor, Russell Amerman, is chairing the selection committee. Also serving on the committee are chamber president Scott Lapham and board member David Jerome.

Nominees must be residents of the city or township of Northville.

Nominations should include offices held in civic, professional or church organizations by the nominee, his or her participation in city or township organizations, positive contributions made to the community, education, family and hobbies or other interest.

The sponsor also is asked to state why the nominee would be worthy of the Citizen of the Year award.

Lapham asks that nominations be sent as soon as possible to the committee. Forms are available at the chamber office at 195 S. Main, but nominations may be made in letter form to the committee in care of the chamber office if they include the information requested.

Traditionally names of the winners have been kept secret until the annual meeting.

First recipient was Jan Reef, owner of Reef Manufacturing and civic benefactor. The presentation was made in 1976. Reef died in 1985 at the age of 88.

Former Mayor Mike Allen, owner of Allen Monument Co., was the 1977 recipient.

Former postmaster John Steemel was the 1978 recipient, a longtime benefactor of young people and chairman of the Northville Boys State program, he died in 1981 at the age of 53.

Former executive director of the chamber, Essie Nirderer, was the 1979 recipient.

Former city attorney and active worker in Northville Presbyterian Church, Philip Ogilvie, was the 1980 recipient.

Jack Hoffman, former managing editor of The Northville Record and Northville Historian, was the 1981 recipient.

William Sliger, former owner of The Northville Record, was the 1982 recipient.

Mayor pro tem G. Dewey Gardner, owner of IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts, was the 1983 recipient.

Norma Vernon, longtime beautification worker who has served as beautification chairman, was the 1984 recipient and the first woman chosen for the honor.

Last year's recipient, Russell Amerman, is a retired superintendent of Northville Public Schools and a longtime Rotarian.

Chamber executive director Laurie Marrs notes that invitations for the chamber's annual meeting Oct. 4 will be in the mail shortly to all chamber members. Nominations also are being accepted for vacancies on the board of directors with voting to be at the annual meeting.

Bears leading an Uptown existence

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Do you think you are too old for a teddy bear? You should see the grandparents who regularly climb the stairs to visit Clancy's Good News Bears, latest of The Uptown Shops on Northville's Main Street. They claim of course to be collectors.

Do you think you are too tough for a teddy bear? You should see the bears that leave the store dressed in Mustang uniforms with their new owner's number printed on their back. A football player of course calls his teddy a mascot.

Do you think you are too smart for a teddy bear? You should see the ones being packed away to go to college. It's the cool thing to have a bear on your bed.

Do you think you are too dignified to have a teddy bear? It was the one Janet Clancy placed on her bank manager's desk that softened him into giving her a loan to start the business in the first place.

The whole venture started about four years ago when Clancy made her hard-to-please father a teddy bear for Christmas and he "turned to mush."

She dared to hope it was more than parental pride that affected him so deeply and decided to try her product on the public. She had a hit on her hands.

With early Steiff bears selling for as much as $4,000 at Sotheby's in London, and the country look (to which bears provide a perfect accent) sweeping through American homes, her timing was right.

Some (bears) are scouts in authentic miniature uniforms, others are ballet dancers with tiny tutus and tiaras. Northville High School cheerleaders carry their pom-poms, tweedy types sport caps and jackets.

Teddy bear collecting has never been more popular and Clancy is a perfectionist who strives to make a collector quality bear.

Until April this year Clancy was selling her bears mostly at craft shows and wholesale. They are now in 19 states from Oregon to New York in a total of 48 stores.

There were seven children living at home when she first started making bears and she credits them with many of the ideas that make her bears unique. Only Catherine and Erica, both 17, are home now and Clancy said that both girls and her husband Mike are very supportive.

Mike, who owns an insurance agency, does the accounting and typing, sews the real mink and sheepskin bears and makes the store's display shelves and furniture.

Clancy designs all the bears in the store and they come in many shapes, sizes and, most important, personalities.

Though she has two people helping with the basic sewing, she hand finishes every bear herself and they all are signed and dated. Some of the bears are made in limited editions and those are numbered.

Only the best fabric goes into Clancy's Good News Bears. Most of it is from Germany.

"I use mohair, alpaca and some German synthetics," Clancy said. She also sells those fabrics by the yard and provides classes for people who want to make their own bears.

"When you look for a collector bear there are certain qualities to look for," she explained. "Good fabric is one, and the collector features such as the back hump, long arms, original design and who the artist is Usually they will be signed or numbered."

She is always designing new bears. For Christmas there will be jester bears and a small bear three and a half inches tall made out of mohair. The small bear will be all handmade and cost $35.

The handmade clothing the bears wear is part of what makes them unique. Some are scouts in authentic miniature uniforms, others are ballet dancers with tiny tutus and tiaras. Northville High School cheerleaders carry their pom-poms, tweedy types sport caps and jackets, and those who favor the '20s wear flapper dresses and headbands.

Garlands of teddy bear angels are designed to be hung across mantels or doors at Christmas time.

Clancy's own bear, Harold, also resides in the store and has the honor of being head huggy bear. He often sits in his own chair near the window with a younger bear on his knee and looks down at the people on Main Street.

His job is to pick out suitable humans for his bears. They could be grandparents, collectors, football players, students, almost anyone really, just so long as they are not too young!

If you happen to glance up and catch his eye be careful. Like generations of forebears he has a way of melting human hearts.

'Night Music' plays

A Little Night Music, Stephen Sondheim's acclaimed Broadway masterpiece musical, continues weekends through Sept. 21 at the historic Northville Marquis Theatre.

Based on Ingmar Bergman's film "Smiles of a Summer Night," the two-act boasts many of Sondheim's best and best-known works — "Send In the Clowns," "Night Waltz," "Remember," "In Praise of Women," among the 16 vocal performances.

Timothy P. Lentz, seen in more than 50 southeast Michigan theatrical productions, stars as Frederick Egerman, center character in an intertwining love story. As Frederick's wife, Anne, is Bette Lynn Dahl and playing Desiree is Judy Dery, former nightclub performer and Mrs. Mullins in the Marquis' recent production of Carouse!

Directing the production is Arthur Rizzo, with musical direction by James Hohmeyer, musical staging by Kathi Bush, scenic design by William McCarty and lighting design by Max Wolf.

Tickets for performances Friday at 8:30 p.m. are $9, tickets Saturday at 8:30 p.m. are $10; and 2:30 p.m. Sunday matinee tickets are $8. Group rates available. Tickets may be charged on Visa, Mastercard or American Express, for details phone 349-8110 or 349-0868.

Cummings owned Record

Glenn Cummings a former Northville resident and owner of The Northville Record from 1952 to August 1, 1956, died Sept. 2 at his home in Austin Texas.

A 1921 graduate of the University of Michigan Mr. Cummings worked on newspapers and magazines in Boston Providence New York and Detroit and was manager of The Wall Street Journal's Detroit office for several years before entering the public relations field in 1945.

With his associate, Nat Hopkins, Mr. Cummings opened a public relations office in Detroit, specializing in financial reports. The firm's clients included American Motors.

In 1952, Mr. Cummings and Hopkins purchased The Record from Louese Cansfield. Eventually, Hopkins took over the public relations firm with Mr. Cummings overseeing The Record.

Mr. Cummings' son, Tom served as manager of the then 2,500-circulation newspaper. In 1955, the father and son team started publishing The Novi News.

On Aug. 1, 1956, after four years as owner of The Record, Mr. Cummings sold The Northville Record and The Novi News to William C. Slinger, who had been general manager of The Plymouth Mail. Slinger sold the Mail to Paul Chandler in May, 1956.

After selling the two newspapers, Mr. Cummings embarked upon a new career venture in the bond-printing business. His new company, Midwest Bank Note Company, specialized in printing bonds for municipalities, school districts, counties, etc.

By introducing new techniques and employing his knowledge of offset printing, Mr. Cummings became a major force throughout the Midwest in bidding for major bond printing jobs.

He sold the company to N.H. Whiteside, an officer in a Chicago bond-printing firm, about 10 years ago.

During their years in Northville Mr. Cummings and his wife, Pauline, lived on Six Mile Road in the township. She was an active member in several local clubs and enjoyed gardening.

The Cummings moved to Austin six years ago.

Mr. Cummings is survived by his wife, son, Thomas, and daughter in law, Rosanne.

ROBERT BRADLEY HUOT

Visitation will be held from noon to 9 p.m. today and Thursday at Ross B. Northrop Funeral Home for Robert Bradley Huot, 17. Mr. Huot died Sept. 5 in Seattle, following a 3 1/2-year battle against leukemia.

A 1986 graduate of Catholic Central High School, Mr. Huot is survived by his parents, Robert and Paula (Schneider) Huot, a sister, Lyndsay, grandparents Mary and Robert Huot and Nick and Pauline Schneider, and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

The funeral service will be held at noon Friday at Our Lady of Victory Church where Mr. Huot was a member. Fr. Frank Polite will officiate. Burial will be at Rural Hill Cemetery.

The family has requested that memorial contributions be made to the Children's Leukemia Foundation of Michigan, 19022 W. Ten Mile Rd., Southfield, MI 48075.

BETTY KRIDER

Word has been received of the death of former Northville resident Betty Krider.

Mrs. Krider died Aug. 23 in Beaufort, South Carolina, after a long illness.

She is survived by a son, Scott, and daughter, Kathy.

SUZANNE N. MAULBETCH

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Suzanne N. Maulbetch of Northville. Burial was at Bethlehem Cemetery in Ann Arbor.

A homemaker, Mrs. Maulbetch died Sept. 6 at St. Marys Hospital. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Richard (Carol) Munerance and four grandchildren.

A member of Bushnell Congregational Church, Mrs. Maulbetch was preceded in death by her husband, Emory R., who died in 1953. She was born in Ann Arbor.

The Rev. E. Nell Hunt officiated at the funeral arrangements were handled by Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home.

Paul Folino offers condolences to Sandy, Gustavo and Eraldo Scacchitti

Dozens attend memorial service

By ANITA CRONE

They came by the dozens, Friday, to pay their final respects to former Northville Township Manager Bruno Scacchitti.

At a memorial service at Madonna College, representatives from government, industry and the citizenry filled the small chapel to hear Jim Nowka, Susan Heintz and Richard Ambler read their remembrances of the man who for slightly more than a year helped run Northville Township.

With Scacchitti's father, Gustavo, sister, Sandy and brother, Eraldo looking on, Nowka spoke of the "gifts" that a man gives to others, reading from Corinthians. Heintz followed and read the letter she had sent to the family and Ambler read from Timothy, chapters 6-8.

Although funeral services were held Sept. 2 in Scacchitti's hometown of St. Marys, Penn., the township opted to hold the special service for local residents who could not attend the funeral.

"Until this service, we may have thought that Bruno was dead, but now I know it wasn't final," said Clerk Georgina Goss. "We needed something like this for us, as much as for him."

Every member of the township board of trustees attended, as did mayors or their representatives from neighboring communities, including Mayor Paul Vernon, Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara and members of his staff, Plymouth Mayor William Robinson, a representative of Romulus Mayor Beverly McInally and Dearborn Heights Mayor Lyle Van Houten, Kathy Broadbent, representing Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, Kevin Kelly, son of Redford Township supervisor James P. Kelly and Ann Bolin, representing the Conference of Western Wayne.

"These were the people who knew Bruno, who he worked with, and spent time with and who were his friends, not just his colleagues," said Heintz.

Pais captures State Fair ribbons

Several Northville residents were winners in the Michigan State Fair competitions. Labor Day weekend horseback riding and vegetable display contests were among the events judged during the annual fair in Detroit.

Carol Pais won blue ribbon honors in the Vegetable Judging Contest held Friday. Receiving the award for in the bushel basket display category, Pais also won a cash prize of $20. Judged on the quality and attractiveness of the products, contestants filled their bushels with items such as honey, flowers, fruits, vegetables and canned goods.

Also a blue ribbon winner in the Peck Basket contest, Pais was awarded a $150 cash prize for the best vegetable display. Judged on the vegetable's maturity and appearance, this category is for non-commercial home garden displays containing at least 10 different vegetables. Mary Praid, also of Northville, was awarded third place in this event.

Horses and riders from Northville made a successful showing at the State Fair. Kim McClellan, riding her horse named Hi-C, won honors in the Morgan English Pleasure riding and Saddle Seat Equitation events in the 13 years and under category.

Traci Lomonaco, riding Melody Lane Fashion, was a winner in the Morgan Western Pleasure event for 14 through 17-year-olds. Suzanne Swienkowsky won in the Saddle Seat Equitation with her horse, October Moonshine, for 16 and 17-year-olds.

The Western and English Pleasure events were judged whether the horse changes gaits smoothly on how well the rider-horse combination performs as a team. The judges based their decision on the horse's performance.

In the Saddle Seat Equitation contests, judges evaluated the riders and their control over the horse. Decisions were based on the rider's poise in the saddle and the quality of riding ability.

Miniatures are on display in Plymouth

The Plymouth Historical Museum will feature a unique exhibit of Folk Art Miniatures by folk artist Barbara Kingsbury.

These hand-carved, three-dimensional ceramic miniature sculptures and buildings were made on a farm in upper state New York, and represent the simplicity of the

New York mountain people. The miniatures have been on exhibit in the Norwich Museum, Robeson Center for Arts and Science and at fairs in New York state.

Also featured in the lower level of the museum, is a display of the 75 years of Girl Scouting. The Plymouth Historical Museum, 155 S. Main St. in Plymouth, is open to the public Thursday, Saturday and Sunday, 1 to 4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for youths (11 to 17) and 25 cents for children.

Police Blotters

Football team loses belongings

In the city . . .

Friday night was not one the Northville High School football team would like to remember.

After losing to Brighton in their 1986 football opener, the gridders returned to their own high school locker room only to discover that someone (or some people) had broken into eight different lockers and stolen cash and merchandise worth nearly $800.

In addition to the cash, missing was a Seiko watch, a Mustang practice uniform, a jacket and a pair of western-style boots.

. . . in the township

Police have filed a petition in juvenile court regarding a July 31 incident involving a babysitter and the child being babysat.

According to police reports, a teenager, while babysitting in Highland Lakes, was charged with sexually molesting a younger child.

The township police have completed their investigation into the incident and has obtained enough information to ask the juvenile court for a petition against the babysitter.

The matter has been turned over to Wayne County Probate Court authorities for review. Any further action, if any, would come from the probate court.

A walkaway from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital has been returned to the facility by the hospital's security staff.

According to a police report, a Marilyn Street resident noticed a black man walking in the area and called township police. However, when officers arrived at the scene, they were met by hospital security staff, who already had the walkaway in custody Sept. 2.

A 35mm camera and a number of tools were reported stolen Sept. 2 from a car parked on Bradner Road.

The owner of the vehicle told officers that he noticed the driver's side window and the rear window of his vehicle smashed and that the camera and tools were in the car at the time.

Police have no suspects in the incident.

Lumber stolen from a Northridge construction site was reportedly used to build a treehouse in the woods east of the site, township police theorize.

The lumber, valued at $50, was reported stolen Sept. 2. And while police have no suspects in the incident, the police report noted that a number of juveniles had been reported in the area.

Also taken from the same site was $640 worth of insulation.

A gold necklace valued at more than $1,500 was reported stolen from an Innsbrook apartment. The resident told police Sept. 1 that the necklace and three rolls of quarters sitting on his kitchen table were taken while he was away from his apartment.

Although there was no sign of forced entry into the building, the resident said it was possible the door was not securely locked since he had been having trouble with latching the door.

Police have no suspects in the incident.

Jewelry valued at more than $600 was reported stolen from a Lake Success Drive home.

Although the homeowner notified police Sept. 2, she said the items were last seen June 1.

While the homeowner told police she "did not think" her home had been broken into, police are treating the incident like a robbery.

Providence-Novu offers CPR certificate classes

Providence Hospital's Community Health Education Department is presenting Heartsaver CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) as one of its fall course offerings at the Providence/Novu Center.

The three-hour class will be offered Sept. 11 and Dec. 4 from 7:10 p.m. in the Community Education classroom. The Providence/Novu Center is located at 39500 West Ten Mile near Haggerty Road.

For more information or to register for either class call the Community Health Education Department at 552-9041.

Heartsaver CPR is an introductory course that teaches participants the one person rescue for victims of heart attacks. Participants will learn the signs and signals of heart attack, risk factors and healthy heart living.

Individuals who successfully complete the course will be certified by the American Heart Association.

In Service

John R. Liddell, son of John and Silvia Liddell of 16940 Dunswood Dr. has entered the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Master Sergeant William Stansell, the Air Force recruiter here, Liddell's entry into the DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area.

Liddell is a 1985 graduate of Bishop Borgess High School and will enter the Regular Air Force March 18, 1987.

Following graduation from the six week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, he will receive technical training in the mechanical aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Second Lt. Phillip J. Beaudoin, son of Rosalyn M. Beaudoin of 44119 Brookwood Dr., has graduated from U.S. Air Force pilot training and received silver wings at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

Marine Pfc. Douglas A. Wood, son of Gerald B. Wood of 38284 Canaught, recently reported for duty with 1st Marine Division, Camp Pendleton, CA.

A 1985 graduate of Father Gabriel Richard High School, Ann Arbor, Wood joined the Marine Corps in December 1985.

DNR may be late in moving into Main Street

plans to house its central office staff on the third floor.

Knighton noted that while the DNR initially indicated its plans to move into the facility by Oct. 1, he said he has received word that the agency might have trouble making the Oct. 1 deadline. However, the assistant superintendent said state officials have agreed to honor the lease agreement effective Oct. 1.

Anticipating the October move-in date, school officials last week requested a special use permit for the Main Street site from the Northville City Planning Commission.

What Superintendent George Bell thought was a fairly routine request, raised more than a few eyebrows from commissioners.

Though the commission approved a three-year special use permit for the facility, questions were raised regarding the legality of the commission's action as it pertains to standards required for granting a special use permit.

The commission also requested school officials provide a plot plan of the parking lot area. Knighton told the school board that the parking plan already has been sent to the commission to review at its meeting Sept. 16.

Knighton further noted that the DNR has agreed to lease the facility in an "as is" condition.

Practicing in Hines Park makes perfect in Nepal

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Charlie Whiteley, 44, and his friend Glenn Baja, 34, both of Northville, don't settle for vacations. They prefer adventures.

A mountain climbing trip to Nepal (once described as "a giant staircase leading to the roof of the world") with a side trip into the jungles on the borders of India, filled the bill nicely last spring.

To wives, Judy Whiteley who waited at home with daughter Lauri, 12, and Karen Baja with four young children, the men returned bearing such exotic gifts as serving dishes made from monks skulls lined with silver, and hand woven rugs.

Whiteley, a department manager for order processing at Ford Motor Company, started mountain climbing 10 years ago when he was in Seattle on business for Ford. "I saw Mt. Rainier and I just couldn't get it out of my mind," he said.

When he returned to Northville, he started reading about mountain climbing. He practiced techniques in Hines Park.

"I used to go there at night on the toboggan run when nobody was around to say, 'look at that crazy guy.' I would dive down the toboggan slope head first with my ice axe then try to stop myself from falling."

His wife remembers the day he was making a summit attempt on Rainier. "I kept myself busy that day, wondering if he was up there and how it wasn't really bothering me. When I looked at the clock it was 3 o'clock in the morning and I was still canning tomatoes!"

Baja is not so much a mountaineer as an adventurer in general. Manager of Jonathon B. Pub restaurant in Novi, a business owned by his family, he graduated with a double major in biology and earth science from Western Michigan University and enjoys exploring the world first hand.

"It's just spiritually invigorating for me to do things like that," Baja explained. "The adventure aspect of it turns me on. I've been kayaking, scuba diving, parachuting, back packing. I'll try anything."

Baja admitted that his father tried to buy him out of the Nepal trip. "He said he'd reimburse everything if I would not go."

Karen Baja is philosophical about her husband's wanderlust, even though she often is left at home with their children, Kristin, 7, Allison, 5, Amy, 3 and Collin, 1. "I've seen people delay for one reason or another doing the things they really want to do until it's too late. I really feel I went on the Nepal trip too because Glenn brought back video film so I could even hear the noises as well as see the pictures."

Whiteley and Baja were accompanied on the trip by Whiteley's brother, Ron Whiteley from Plymouth, and his cousin Mike Murphy, a surgeon, from Connecticut.

The four of them got into shape by running stadium stairs.

They tackled two main climbs in Nepal, Mount Pokalde in the Khumbu region on the Tibet border, and Kala Pattar, just across the Khumbu Glacier from Mount Everest. They reached a height of 20,000 feet, and standing on Kala Pattar could see a 360 degree panorama of the Himalayas with the 29,000 foot Everest half a mile across the glacier.

In order to avoid a 12-day hike into the area they flew from Katmandu, the capital of Nepal, to Lukla, a village at about 9,500 feet.

"The air strip there is just a little dirt runway," Baja explained. "The Nepalese airforce fly in there occasionally and we flew in with a Swiss climbing team. The short take off and landing planes seat 14 people. They come in through valleys between the mountains and finally you see this little air strip on an angle."

"In front of the landing strip is a huge drop off so you only get one chance at landing. They've built a big stone wall at the end in case the plane doesn't stop in time."

Baja said the difference in elevation in the 150 meter long air strip is 60 meters from the bottom to the top so the plane lands up hill.

"The pilot has to come in as if to hit the ground and then stalls the plane and pulls it up. There were two wrecks at the side of the air strip where other planes had crashed."

Though the men had spent 22 hours travelling by the time they reached the little air strip 35 miles from Everest, and had a 13-hour time difference to contend with, they were so happy to land safely they were ready to start their climb.

"Adrenaline takes over," Whiteley said, "It's when you come back you crash!"

The actual expedition turned out to be as important a cultural experience as a mountain climbing one. The memories of the people they met, the homes they visited and the way of life they learned about first hand are as important as the thrills of climbing and the breathtaking views.

The party had a Sherpa guide, eight porters and four yaks to carry the equipment. Ford Motor Company, Whiteley said, is very supportive of his ventures and supplied him with enough Ford T shirts and matching caps for all the porters. He has a photograph of them, posed proudly in their new outfits.

"They had never heard of Ford and many of them had never seen an automobile, so they really got a kick out of the clothes. They felt they were on a major expedition. Most of the clothes they have are hand-me-downs," Whiteley explained.

He noted the people in the Khumbu region live as they did 400 years ago. They are mainly Sherpas who live at an altitude of about 16,000 feet and have an extraordinary ability to carry loads at very high altitudes. They are well known as guides through the Himalayas.

"Their homes have thick stone walls with no windows," Whiteley said. "They are very dark inside and they build their fires and do their cooking on the floors. Since there are no chimneys the inside fills with smoke which filters through the roof."

"In the villages they build their homes with two floors, in the side of a slope. They dig out part of the slope, keep their yak on the first floor and live on the second floor. They benefit by the heat of the animals coming up through the floor to keep their houses warm."

The Sherpas were equally interested in the American climbers.

"Whenever we stopped to eat a crowd would gather round to watch us," Baja said. "We just tried to be friendly. They had not seen many cameras and were really fascinated to see pictures of the birds of the area in my bird book."

The group spent two days in the village Namche Bazar to acclimate. "We were there on a Saturday," Whiteley said, "and they had a market where Sherpas from around the mountain areas hike in as long as four days to trade

"It's a barter system, someone had dried goat halves they had brought through the mountains from Tibet someone had rice from the low lands. There was fresh yak meat. Our porters bought our food supply there."

An unexpected bonus for the party was a chance meeting with Sir Edmund Hillary who had conquered Everest in 1953. He is now the ambassador to India for New Zealand, and visits the mountains of Nepal at least once a year to administer his trust fund. He does a lot to help the people of the region and was staying at the home of the Northville party's Sherpa.

"We had dinner one night with Hillary and breakfast the next morning," Baja said.

"Mostly we talked to him about his work up there," Whiteley added. "He is not able to go above 14,000 feet now because of altitude sickness. His main interest over there is the people. He's totally dedicated to them and as he walks down the street you can see they have the utmost respect for him. They just reach out to touch him. He's quite a man."

Among the mementos of the trip are Hillary's autograph which Glenn has in his log. Whiteley has a signed post card.

Another surprise was to find that a climber in a team they had been sharing the trail with was Swiss climber, Peter Habler, who with Reinhold Messner was the first to climb Everest without oxygen in 1978.

"We didn't know who he was until Hillary introduced us. We had been hiking up to Namchi with him and talking about the views," Whiteley said.

During the climb the men climbed about as high as they could go without using oxygen.

"I've never stumbled and felt so uncoordinated in my life as climbing up to the peak of Kala Pattar," Baja admitted. "It's difficult to catch your breath and it really gives you an appreciation of climbers that go above and beyond those heights. I was taking three breaths to every step at one point but standing up on that peak was unbelievable."

Both men agree that the climb into the Himalayas was thrilling. However, a trip into the Chitwan Jungle on the border between India and Nepal left them a little uneasy.

Since they had an extra day, they hired two taxis for a five-hour journey to the jungle. Baja is a keen bird watcher and was eager to see the birds. It's the mosquitoes he remembers best, however.

We had not had malaria vaccinations since we weren't planning to go at such low altitudes. Whiteley explained. "We ended up sleeping in a little grass hut with mosquitoes buzzing round all night. It was 95 degrees and we had no mosquito repellent."

We knew we were in an area where malaria was and we ended up taking blankets and covering ourselves totally. It was like being in a steam bath all night. We kept the kerosene lantern going hoping the fumes would drive them away or put us to sleep."

The next day the four adventurers braved a ride through the jungle on a platform on the back of an elephant. A rhinoceros charged the elephant while they were on board.

The guy driving the elephant seemed nervous and started beating the elephant with his stick. Baja said. "The elephant actually charged back and the rhinoceros finally backed off in the brush."

I've seen pictures of rhinos on T.V. tearing up trucks and stuff. I claimed Whiteley glad to be through with that part of the adventure.

I thought it was even scarier after we took a canoe ride and got off on the banks of a river and had to walk back through the tall grass. Baja was warming up to the memories.

The guides started picking up big rocks and I jokingly asked them if they were to throw at the rhinoceros and they said 'yes.' They told us to pick some up too. We were following rhinoceros tracks back to the jungle and we could hear them grunting off to the sides. There were no trees and we had no guns. If we had been charged there was nowhere to jump.

"I think the best thing would have been to lie on the ground interrupted Whiteley. I'd rather get stepped on than gored."

"I would have wanted to get a picture so I had my camera ready to go," Baja added.

I thought that was why we were out there, to take pictures of rhino. I didn't realize until that point we were trying not to find them. Whiteley joked.

The memories and the stories will last a life time, and both Whiteley and Baja are resolutely wondering where to go next.

One thing they agree on is that trips such as theirs, no matter how inspiring, make them appreciate more than ever the comforts of home.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Communities rate better treatment

The concept of 'super sewer,' the waste disposal system linking 16 communities in two counties appears to be a good one. It was a good idea when first proposed and it is a good idea now.

But no matter how good a concept was presented to the Northville City Council Monday night, the manner in which it was presented left something to be desired — like a little finesse.

There is no reason why communities should be held for ransom by the county or by Wade, Trim & Associates, the engineers for the latest version of the sewer. When Mayor Pro-Tem Dewey Gardner muttered "I guess there is no choice but to sign," he was told point blank that his assessment was correct, although had the city not signed on the dotted line it was conceivable that it would be charged up to $10,000 per day for each day its sewage exceeded the capacity allowed through the current system.

Some choice

It is obvious why the county wants the communities on board before Dec 1. Already the federal government's share of the funding for the sewer has dropped from a 75 percent commitment to a 55 percent promise. And indications are that unless grant applications are in by the deadline, the feds will drop their funding even lower.

It is not clear how long the City of Northville has had a copy of the contract for the project. It is known that at least three months ago communications were received by the city, asking it to participate. However, those communications were vague.

We find something alarming in the appearance of Vago for the county and Richard Hinshon for Wade Trim, suddenly urging the city clerk and mayor to sign on now or face the possibility of sanctions. Certainly these gentlemen and the organizations they represent had prior notice.

Certainly they have had time to study the system, since they came well armed with facts, figures and charts. But local communities have not had that luxury. And certainly they deserve the opportunity to have their own consultants study the plans for errors, or possibly even to present ideas that may enhance the system.

Perhaps, after studying the plans, the local engineering consultants will discover the plans are the best of all possible worlds. But they will not have the opportunity for that careful scrutiny. The fear of the federal government withdrawing funding is a very powerful incentive for quick action.

Perhaps, after reviewing the contract, city and township attorneys will find a loophole whereby the municipalities who were blackmailed into signing on would be able to back out should federal funding be withdrawn.

It is interesting that a local municipality which requests a service from the county may have to wait days, weeks and even, in some cases, decades for the county to act. These communities should remind the county of that fact.

Municipalities deserve the time to study the sewer proposal. After all, they are the ones which are going to have to live with the effects of it.

Trades unequal

Sometimes the city's financial maneuverings amaze us.

Take for instance the proposed land swap between Denis Roux and the city. Roux gives up the land he recently purchased on Center Street, the property which the 10-Grand Club virtually begged Northville to buy. In return, the city gives up part of the parking lot and some Main Street frontage.

This is the second proposed trade to come before the city council. The first one, whereby James Plagens would give the city land fronting Hutton Street (property which Plagens cannot develop into the retail center he covets) in return for the city-owned property on the corner of Main and Hutton, could give the city an extension of its central business district.

While we question the entire concept of land trades, we prefer Mr. Plagens' offer to that of Mr. Roux.

If the city coveted the land near the parking structure, why didn't it buy it when it was offered? After all, the price was right. Since a surplus exists in the budget this year, certainly the city could afford it. Why did it wait for the trade to be offered?

Prior to Mr. Roux presenting his plans for his building to the city council, we questioned City Manager Steven Walters about the trade and whether it might have been cheaper for the city to put the Main Street property on the open market and see what, if any, interest there would be in the parcel. His explanation that it was in the best interest of the city to follow the trade route — "Denis Roux had land we want, we have property he wants" — seemed logical. But that was before we found out about the city's refusal to purchase the property on Center Street.

If the city didn't want the property then, why does it want it now? We're waiting for an answer.

Defining his, hers, ours

By Michele M. Fecht

As most couples will attest, the yours, mine and ours of marriage is most always clearly defined.

After two years of wedded bliss, I've come to realize I most likely will spend my entire married life with half my refrigerator filled with boxes of film. The lower shelf belongs to him. Any remaining space goes to Stroh's. On the other hand, his half of the closet has been reduced to one quarter of its original size during the past 23 months as a result of her expanding wardrobe. He's stopped buying clothes because he has nowhere to put them.

His things include the mess on the kitchen table, the camera equipment piled in the corner of the living room and the stinking socks pleading for a run through the wash cycle. Then there are her things. The 24 bottles of various lifesaving necessities such as astringent, mousse and hair spray are scattered on the bathroom counter along with dried-up mascara wands, bottles of hardened nail polish and tufts of used cotton balls. The Kleenex wadded beneath the pillow also is hers as is the pile of fashion catalogs stacked on the chair. She is told to remove her things every time he cleans the bathroom (about once every leap year). He's reminded of his possessions when she dislocates a shoulder lifting the camera bag off the kitchen table.

"Their" things usually amount to the mound of yellowing newspapers next to the sofa (they usually turn yellow before we can agree on whose turn it is to take them to the dumpster).

While it is not too difficult to ascertain the rightful ownership of smelly socks (his) or perfumed soap (hers), other areas are not as well defined. Among the gray areas are reading materials. The nine shelves of literature, American Civil War biographies, Russian history, antiques and art belong to me. He is allowed one shelf for his books on photojournalism, photography, chemistry (yuck) and Sherlock Holmes mysteries. The Time-Life series on Vietnam is ours, however. Yet, the collection of Civil War photography is mine (most people assume it's his). The records belong to him, as does the music stand and guitar.

Then there is the sports equipment. The closetful of sweatpants, umpteen pairs of sneakers, baseball caps, bats, gloves, volleyballs, cheap plastic trophies and a few unmentionables are his. I'm lucky if I can squeeze a duffel bag containing a leotard, tights and shoes into a small corner.

As I perused our earthly possessions, I realized that much of it reflects our singular interests with very little (save for the yellowing newspapers) showing any mutual similarities. Our conversations (save for discussions about journalism) often are tainted by the same one-sidedness.

Every once in a while — just for fun, of course — we quiz one another on subjects the other knows absolutely nothing about. A former honors math student and one-time chemistry major, Steve revels in asking me questions containing science terminology only understood by a physicist. Knowing that I was an abysmal math student, he'll ask me something he learned in advanced calculus and stare at me dumbfounded when I don't come up with the answer.

His favorite trivial pursuit category, however, is sports. Sometimes I dazzle him with my brilliance as in the case of the Tigers' line-up for the final game of the '88 World Series (I guessed six of the nine players. I was more shocked than he was). Other times I think he is speaking in a foreign tongue. Hey, I knew that Lorenzo White played for Michigan State. So what if I thought he was a quarterback.

When it's my turn to play Alex Trabeck, the real fun begins. The following are recent responses to questions in the categories of history and literature.

Question: What is the name of George Washington's Virginia estate? Answer: Martha's Vineyards.

Last splash of summer

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

As long as I'm into this physical fitness thing, I might as well start getting a little more serious about it.

That's what I was thinking the other day when I made the mistake of telling my wife I thought I should start paying more attention to what I'm eating.

What I had in mind was asking her to pack me the same kind of lunch she packs for herself everyday.

But as things turned out, I didn't even have to ask.

"Want me to pack a lunch for you?" she said brightly, apparently pleased that her just slightly overweight husband was finally going to do something about his waist line.

"If it isn't a problem..." I said.

"No problem at all," she responded.

She had it all set out for me in a neat little brown bag when I left for work Monday. I carried it to the office and stuck it in the refrigerator, filled with resolve to launch a new way of life — a nutritional way of life.

There wasn't a problem until I retrieved the bag from the refrigerator at noon and opened it up to see what was inside.

"Arrggghhhhh!"

"What's wrong, Phil?" asked the ever-courteous Michele Fecht from behind her VDT.

"She fixed me a lunch, but there's nothing in here worth eating. Look at this stuff." I continued. "A couple Rye Krisp. Two little tomatoes. A peach. And a little container of cottage cheese. How's a man supposed to survive on a diet like that?"

"A bunch of us are heading out for pizza in a while," said Michele sweetly. "Maybe you'd like to join us."

"Bless you, child," I replied. "Tell me when you're ready to leave."

Tribute paid to Scacchitti

EDITOR'S NOTE. Following is the letter Northville Township Supervisor Susan J. Heintz sent to the family of Bruno Scacchitti.

On behalf of the Northville Township Board of Trustees, employees, and residents, I would like to extend our deepest sympathy to your family.

Bruno was a very special person. He was not only brilliant, but he had the gift of being able to communicate ideas to others very effectively. Many of us remember fascinating conversations with Bruno about everything from politics and philosophy to gardening and cars. He had a natural curiosity about everything. However, he was mature beyond his years. His sensitivity and intelligence will be his legacy to our township, but we will always remember his good humor and terrific outlook on life. His phenomenal grasp of problems and devotion to his work was unequalled.

Bruno told us many wonderful stories about his family. He let us in on his father's secrets for growing good tomatoes and his mother's great Italian recipes. He was so proud of his brother and sister. Bruno would tell us all the things that his family had done for him — his father's hard work, his mother's understanding, and his sister's and brother's accomplishments. He felt his family was the center of his life. He truly loved all of you so much.

Bruno was a young man whom we will never forget. As I write this letter, we are all still trying to understand why such a tragic accident should have happened to one who never did any harm, who solved problems rather than created them, who could make us laugh at ourselves and could understand the most complex of issues and resolve most of our difficulties.

If the mark of a man's life is what he leaves behind, we are indeed fortunate for knowing Bruno. We are all better people for knowing such a good and decent young man. Our only regret is that he could not have been with us any longer. Maybe he was too good for us — God wanted him more. May you find some comfort knowing so many friends share your grief and so many sympathetic thoughts go out to you.

Susan J. Heintz
Supervisor

Thanks for the memories

By Vicki Grice

This summer has been extremely educational for me. I learned how to Polish arm wrestle, to stay away from The Northville Record reporters on Tuesdays and that journalism is a challenging profession, to say the least.

Every summer, two interns are hired for a 12-week period to work for Sliger/Livingston Publications, with papers circulating in Howell, Brighton, South Lyon, Milford, Northville and Novi. This summer, I was hired along with Kathy Petersen, a student from Central Michigan University. Most of my internship was at The Northville Record and The Novi News, but I also worked at The Livingston County Press in Howell for a few weeks.

During the course of the summer, I gained a lot of experience in feature writing. I also learned how a newspaper business operates and that reporters are hard workers. The most appealing part of journalism to me is the variety and change involved in the job. Although every job entails some routine, reporters are always doing something new and different and are usually the first to know everything that happens in town.

The motivational tool that keeps the reporters on their toes is a good sense of humor. Without all the laughing (even at Phil Jerome's jokes) and joking around, the days and weeks would drag, and The Record reporters would be working for the weekends. But, fortunately, they really enjoy their work, and can't wait for Monday. Well, maybe they're not quite so eager.

It was hard to jump head first into a new situation, but it's always that way when a person is introduced to a job, school or new people. I learned quickly that Phil is the macho, muscle man of the office, B.J. is the ladies man who received four anonymous bouquets of flowers for his birthday, Jerry tries to be the comedian and Michele keeps things organized.

The staff works amazingly well together, and they all help each other out in whatever ways they can.

Journalism is a stressful, demanding and exciting career. Fortunately, I work best under stress. As a matter of fact, I need some stress to perform to my potential. With a weekly paper, the stories involve a significant amount of detail and follow-up.

keeping the reporters busy every day.

The summer flew by as usual, but I have learned so much in the past three months. Now I understand why employers require job experience to supplement an education. First-hand experience with people who are living the career I am working toward showed me exactly what my job will entail.

If I had any doubts about my career choice last spring, I don't anymore. When I decided on a career, I rated "job enjoyability" as my top priority. I made an excellent choice.

Of course, one of the major contributing factors to my good experience in the newsroom is the people I worked with. Everyone helped to make my internship a valuable experience by challenging me with stories that would be somewhat difficult, yet not expecting anything but my best. They always helped me out when I looked desperate by guiding me in the right direction.

I'm anxious to go back to school, but I will definitely miss The Northville Record!

Readers praise baseball workers but pan planners

EDITOR'S NOTE. The following letter was sent to the Northville Township Board of Trustees with a copy to The Northville Record.

I'm glad that your planning consultant finds that rezoning the property behind my house would be a "reasonable and appropriate use" of that property. Of course, I suppose that's why their master plan suggests filling the parcel with multi-family units to provide a "buffering transition." The fact is that I and my neighbors will have to live with the results of your decision.

Last night, I attended the Planning Commission meeting, at the invitation of your Director of Community Development to voice my views. My neighbors and I were handed speaker cards, and we waited our turn. After

Mr. (Ted) Martin's motion to approve the rezoning, followed by a unanimous vote, we stopped waiting and left.

Here is what I wanted to say. We residents have based decisions on the fact of the neighboring property's single-family zoning. We have bought lots, built homes, landscaped yards with this understanding. Now, that property owner requests that his zoning be changed because the present zoning is economically inconvenient. Fine. He stands to benefit by rezoning. And certainly the township stands to benefit from increased taxes. Who stands to lose?

My point is this: Rezoning the property is a favor given to the landowner. It is a favor too easily granted by the township, at the expense of neighboring residents. We will live with the traffic, the nuisances, our homes will lose value, we will lose the privacy and planted area that would accompany the less-intensive single-family development.

The situation is unfair. The proposed change is being forced upon us and we feel powerless and frustrated. I challenge you to show that our interests have been considered.

To the Editor:
Aug. 10, 1986 saw the conclusion of the 1986 baseball season in Northville. The last two weeks found all of the baseball being played at Northville High School with Northville Junior Baseball co-hosting the National Amateur Baseball Federation

Senior Division Regional Tournament, Sophomore Division World Series, and Junior Division World Series.

Northville Junior Baseball, the tournament committee and the parents of the Northville Connie Mack, Mickey Mantle, Sandy Koufax players, and the Plymouth Craiger players are to be commended, congratulated and thanked for three outstanding tournaments, greatly appreciated by all participants and spectators.

Thank you Bud Yard, Bill Braund, John and Louise Newitt, Charlene, Steve, Lynn and Brian Frellick, Mike and Sherr Daniels, Alma and Ed Stephens, Judy Walsh, Ed and Marilyn Harp, Terry Heaton, Jerry Jones, Bob and Kay Kehoe, John Anderson, Tracy Johnson, Ken

Dominique, Hank and Ann Dutkiewicz, Jim Behen, John Osborne, Northville High School, Novi High School, City and Township of Northville, Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain — guest minister, James Newman and Coach Rusty Frank — guest speakers at banquets, all of the business establishments that supported the tournaments, The Northville Record, and as mentioned earlier, all the parents of the players.

The two World Series events were indicated by the National Amateur Baseball officials in attendance, to be the best ever put on and witnessed. Everybody can certainly share in that compliment and feel good and proud about a job well done, and appreciated by our visitors from New York to British Columbia.

The tournaments were not only a tremendous success from the personal development standpoint, but once again, each one of the tournaments turned a profit — thanks to all of the above mentioned people. All the profits go directly into our local Northville Junior Baseball Program. In fact, each of the last three years' tournament profits have progressively increased.

It should also be noted that there are monies donated to the sponsor of our tournament by our co-host Little Caesar's Amateur Baseball Federation and the National Amateur Baseball Federation and a big thanks also goes to them for their support and financial involvement.

Thank you

Sincerely
Bob Frellick

Mustangs' net win eases coach's collegiate fears

Despite some early hesitancy about scheduling a tennis match with a college team, the late results proved the scrimmage was a good idea for the Mustangs.

Coach Uta Filkin said she was "a little worried" about pitting her team against the Henry Ford Community College squad, but the Mustangs erased that worry with a 6-4 win.

There were even bright spots in defeats, as the Mustangs who failed to win went down fighting, extending their older and more experienced opponents to three sets.

For the coach, however, one of the Northville victories was a bittersweet affair. Sophomore No. 1 singles player Adrienne Edwards downed a personal friend of her coach, Lennis Horst, 6-4, 6-2.

"I had some concerns about how a sophomore, even a very good sophomore like Adrienne, would do against someone older and more experienced," Filkin said.

Edwards' twin sister, Abby, had an even easier time with Dawn LeFranc, besting her 6-2, 6-0.

Even area rankings failed to derail Northville. Leslie Oliver, a senior, outplayed area-ranked Christy Kolacs 6-4, 6-4. Other Northville singles winners were Kathleen Kotarski and Heidi Robins. Kotarski downed Sue Lafferty 6-2, 6-3 and Robins bested Lori Korchwang 6-1, 6-3.

Nanci Dutkiewics and Shannon Couzens, who normally do not play varsity matches, outpointed Henry Ford's Korchwang and Michelle McLean in a pro set doubles encounter 10-7.

Almee Edwards "played her heart out" against Joann Kolacs, but fell 6-1, 2-6, 4-6 and Lauren Oliver dropped a three-set affair to McLean 2-6, 7-5, 2-6.

In doubles play, the Mustangs had more than they wanted against Henry Ford, as the college players swept the two regular-length matches. Abby Edwards and Jennifer Travin fell to Horst and LeFranc 8-7 (7-2 tiebreaker) 3-6 and Laura Nance and Julie Milgard, who is following in the footsteps of her older sister, Jennifer, dropped a three set affair to Kolacs and Lafferty, 6-3, 2-6, 4-6.

While the victory was pleasant, even more pleasant for the Mustangs was the opportunity to play a match rather than just practice for the season. It also gave Filkin one last chance to assess her players before they begin conference play.

And what she saw certainly heartened the coach and gave her additional insights into her players.

Robins and Kotarski, both of whom the coach said could be "very good singles players", forsook their doubles tandem for individual games and remained undefeated. The duo went through last year undefeated as the Mustangs No. 1 doubles team.

Fans should get a big kick from soccer team veterans

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Most high school soccer programs would be satisfied with a 10-7-3 record. But at Northville, where soccer is a major sport stressed to players at very young ages, slightly better than .500 just doesn't sit right with too many people.

The Mustangs' spectacular campaign in '85 wasn't a picnic for then first year Coach Dave Yezback, but an impressive finish and another year of experience and maturity could very well set up a stellar season for Northville this fall.

"I'm very happy with the progress of the squad this year," Yezback said. "Compared with last year at this point, they look a lot better. We're pretty deep in returning players, we have eight seniors on the roster, so I think we are more mature with a lot of veterans. We've got depth, I think, to replace the departed seniors."

Four seniors have been lost to graduation, and three of those were starters. Matt Peitz, Fred Cahill and Matt Ashby will all be missed, but Yezback has a solid core of 17 returning lettermen back.

"I still don't have all my starting positions set, but I feel comfortable with that problem because we have such good balance on the team," Yezback pointed out.

At the wing positions, Yezback has four top prospects. The top returnee is senior Nick Morris who was the Mustangs' leading scorer in '85 and was named to the All-Division second team. The other include senior Paul Maliszewski, his brother Brad Maliszewski (the only freshman on the team) and junior Walt Wittrick.

Four candidates are currently fighting it out for a starting spot in the center forward positions as well. They are veteran juniors Steve Yezback and Ken Neal along with newcomers Andy Frey (sophomore) and Scott Howard (junior).

The midfield positions could very well be the strength for Northville in '86. Yezback has five top notch returners, and all five have an abun-

Youth sets the pace in the pool

By ANITA CRONE

The Northville girls' swim team has come a long way since Coach William Dicks took over the program in 1981. For one thing, there are more team members. For another, those swimmers have shown a versatility in events and a penchant for shaving seconds off of previous best times. And most importantly, Dicks is confident that finally he has swimmers who will see a lot of action, especially in the away meets where the hosting team has a six-lane pool.

On the downside, the 1986 version of the Mustangs is young, younger and youngest. Thirteen of the 33 team members are freshmen and 13 are sophomores, including returning state qualifier Sue Settles.

Dicks is carrying five seniors and a junior this year, and is expecting each of them to improve on their times of a year ago.

"I don't think there's any doubt that we're ahead of our pace of a year ago," Dicks said following the squad's final practice before the season opening in the Brighton Relays. "Each individual swimmer is in better condition now than she was last year and that's reflected in her timing."

He's optimistic that the improvement early will also reflect an improvement in the final league stan-

Brighton's air attack spoils Schumacher's grid opener

By ANITA CRONE

There's some good news and some bad news for the Mustang griders. The good news is they don't have to play Brighton again. The bad news is the opponents don't get any easier in the next couple of weeks.

Northville opened its 1986 campaign with a mostly inexperienced defense and Brighton took advantage of the opportunity to showcase the arm of quarterback Joe Gabriele for a 42-21 win. Gabriele threw five touchdown passes and amassed 275 yards while doing so.

Northville doesn't have much time to recover as it faces Westland John Glenn Friday in the home opener followed a week later by Farmington Harrison.

"We don't expect John Glenn to throw as much as Brighton did," said Coach Darrel Schumacher, making his debut as the head mentor. "But in case they do, we're going to be working on defending the pass."

Schumacher said he saw some bright spots in the contest, most notably the way his defensive unit showed they knew how to play the game, but there were also some glaring problems, including the defenders getting to the play late.

"The kids got there, but they were a step late, and against a quarterback like Gabriele, that was deadly," Schumacher said.

Also fatal were two quick Brighton touchdowns, one with just 31 seconds left in the first half when Gabriele hit Tom Bellevue on a 19-yard strike and the second with just 1 1/2 minutes gone in the third quarter, when Gabriele again hit Bellevue, this time with a 20-yarder.

"We played well with them up until then. But those two quick ones really killed us," Schumacher said.

The loss was especially painful for the Mustangs, who not only lost the game, but may have lost punter Tony Greco for the season. Greco, who had 17 tackles and two sacks, broke his hand.

Brighton served notice early that it wanted to control the airways, and more importantly, that it could control them. Almost before the crowd had come through the gate, the Bulldogs were on the board as Gabriele tossed the first of his five touchdowns.

Staggered but still in the game, the Mustangs mounted their own offensive effort, moving down the field with Jim Cerretani going in from two yards out. Jack Sylvestre's kick made it 7-6 with 5:11 left in the half.

Forced to the air, the Mustangs responded with an air attack of their own. Matt Hubert hit Dave Kozier with 3:33 remaining in the third quarter to cap a 40-yard drive and in the last quarter, Scott Stephens hit Hubert with a 23-yard bullseye to close out the Northville scoring.

While Schumacher said he was basically pleased with the effort he singled out Dana Letarte at noseguard and Ed Walsh for special praise.

"They helped us stay close when we needed to," he said. "Greco was outstanding, but there's certainly a problem when you have a lineman making that many tackles."

Tony Briningstool led the team in hits with 37.

On the offensive side of the ledger, Cerretani took top honors with 14 rushes for 32 yards followed by Chris Sellen, who gained 29 yards in eight tries. Stephens averaged three yards a carry.

Cross Country

Boys' team is perfect

John Frisbie. Remember the name. Cross country runners may not have the chance to learn his name, but they are going to remember his backside.

Frisbie, who is running his first year of cross country, led the way for Northville's 15-49 dual meet victory over South Lyon and was the top Mustang finisher in the 60-team West Bloomfield Invitational Saturday.

"I'm happy with the way some of the individual's are running, but cross country is a team sport and we've got to get some better performances from some other members of the team," said Coach Ed Gabrys.

"We did well as a team (in the invitational)," Gabrys added. "But we still have a way to go, especially with our No. 4-7 runners. Those are the people we're counting on to score points and to displace the opponent's scorers."

Frisbie was one of five Northville runners to record personal bests over the Marshbanks Metropark course and he took nearly 30 seconds off his earlier best time to finish the 5,000-meter course in 16:37, good enough for seventh place overall in Division II competition.

Also notching a season best was Kevin Haas, who finished in 17:12, seven seconds faster than the 17:19 previous best. Haas also earned a medal for finishing 28th in his division.

Lakeland took the team title in the Mustangs' division with 99 points, followed by South Creek, 114, Farmington, 124, Holly, 145, Okemos, 161, Hazel Park, 198, Clo, 244, and Northville, 253.

In the invitational, Frisbie ran a solid race, clocking a 5:07 over the first mile, a 5:36 over the second and passing two Hazel Park runners in the final 1.1-mile to record the seventh place finish.

Haas, a senior, was also consistent and followed his coach's advice to the letter, never letting Frisbie get more than a minute in front of him.

"What we try to do is make sure that there's never more than a 30-second lag each mile between the runner in front and the trailing runner," Gabrys said.

Jeff Hoose, who finished in 18:34, beat his best time at Marshbank, as did Scott Sinkwitts (18:44) and Greg Newton (18:44). Doug Meadows' 18:35 equalled his time at Marshbank a year ago.

While Frisbie and Haas were the only Mustangs to medal at West Bloomfield, Northville also got a strong performance from Scott Wiley, who finished 52nd. Hoose was 83rd, Meadows 85th, Sinkwitts 93rd and Newton 98th.

Against South Lyon, the Mustangs were clearly in charge, capturing nine of the first 10 places.

Northville again was paced by Frisbie, who set a Mustang junior record over the Cass Benton 5k course with a strong 16:54.

Haas, who finished in 17:19, good for second place, had held the record with a 17:04, set last year.

Wiley, with an 18:26, took third, followed by Meadows, 18:54 and Hoose, 18:55, to round out the perfect meet scoring.

Sinkwitts, with a 19:04, finished sixth, in front of the first South Lyon runner to score points.

While their scores did not count in the team totals, Newton, Kirk Kabel and Mike Nuechterlein also turned in strong performances. Newton finished eighth overall in 19:24, Kabel took ninth with a 19:32 and Nuechterlein finished 10th in 19:43.

Swim team's numbers are up, ages are down

dings. Last year the Mustangs finished tied for seventh in the league, and Dicks said he expects to finish in the top half this year, rather than near the bottom.

He's counting heavily on Settles, whose main event is the 200 freestyle, to show improvement in that event as well as to swim the butterfly.

"Part of the advantage of this team is that I have a number of swimmers who can and will swim any number of events," the coach said.

Included in that list are senior captains Diane Ford (breaststroke and freestyle), Shari Thompson (freestyle and backstroke) and Dee LaChance (butterfly and freestyle).

Other seniors include Erika Neisen

(breast and free), and Karen Petersen (free and fly). Also back for another year of varsity competition is junior Laura Abramovich, who swims the breaststroke and freestyle.

A quartet of sophomores will be handling much of the work on the diving board, led by veteran Michelle Beacham. Newcomers are Wendy Beach, Stacie Clark and Heidi Patterson. Freshman Michelle Stephens is expected to help out, too.

"Diving won't be a giveaway this year," Dicks promised, noting that the only thing holding back the Mustangs is their youth. "With the number of sophomore and freshman divers we have, we might be expected to be weak. But we're going to surprise some people with our experience and then we're going to start winning some events," he said.

Youth is a given on the team, but the experience level is not. Additional returning sophomores include Sandy Loftus (freestyle), Pam Wesley (backstroke and distance free), Becky Frayne (free and individual medley), Kris Fortenberry (back and free) and Stacie Lang (free). Kerry Rhoads is a sophomore transfer from Ypsilanti, where she swam freestyle for the varsity last year and Julie Hillfinger is making her varsity debut as a sophomore. Debbie Buell, a freshman, brings a history of age-group victories to the Mustang tank squad and is expected to challenge the more experienced high school swimmers for a place in the meets.

Other frosh include Kendra Cicero, Karen Coon, Rachel Davis, Lauri Fortenberry, Colleen Gamary, Kathy Keyes, Pam Mirisola, Kari Van Noord, Katie Davis, Stephanie Brannan and Stacy Tucker.

Dicks said he hopes that some of the younger swimmers will be able to provide points in meets and quality points at that. "We know that we can score. But we need someone who is going to fill in behind the No. 1 swimmer in each event," he said. Dicks noted that with the meet scoring, it would be possible to win every event but still lose the meet. "We need people to take the seconds and the thirds, as well as the firsts," he said. With the number of swimmers on the team, he hopes that need will be filled soon.

Frosh sets girls' pace

Recruiting — the scourge of coaches.

While the Michigan High School Athletic Association frowns on a coach going looking for athletes outside the school district boundaries, for some coaches, like Northville's Ann Cook, recruiting is a fact of life.

Cook went looking for runners this season and came up with a good one in freshman Lisa Brown. She also went looking for someone to fill a spot on the team. But that effort was too late to stop the Mustangs from not fielding a complete, 5-member squad in Northville's opening meet against South Lyon Sept. 4.

It did not come too late to keep Brown from winning a medal in the West Bloomfield Invitational Sept. 6.

Despite some foot problems, Brown forgot her well-plotted race at Marshbanks Metropark, took more than one minute off the time she recorded in an earlier time trial, and finished 10th overall in her division.

Brown, who finished fifth overall in her first varsity race, a dual event against South Lyon just two days earlier, had run 23:34 at Cass Benton. Jennifer Goeborn took third in that meet with 23:13 and Nancy Belding, who finished with the 23:08, took 10th against South Lyon.

Unfortunately, the Mustangs went into the South Lyon meet with only four runners, and while the individual efforts gave Cook the opportunity to assess the team members, there was no team score recorded.

BOYS 10 & UNDER: Ken Reibholz notched a pair of goals and John McMahon added a solo shot to lead Arsenal over Livonia 3-2. Jason Muever on defense and Reibholz on offense shared MVP honors. Jason Bristol's solo goal helped Uster tie Livonia 2-1. Ty Fowler, Chris O'Connor and Danny Schwartz shared the duties in goal for Northville. Shane Byrly gave Hotspurs the only goal they needed as Hotspurs shutout Plymouth 3-0. Jeff Zuber, in goal, did not allow a single Plymouth shot into the net. Livonia 8 jumped all over the Rowdies to take a 4-4 win, despite the efforts of Bryan Miller, the defensive MVP and Mattie Kuzains, the offensive MVP. Ken Harrison scored three of the Stingers' four goals as the Northville Team defeated the Livonia Blue Thunder 4-3. Tim Berger and Dwayne Newrock shared defensive honors. Bill Russell provided the offense as the Express downed the Plymouth Chargers 2-1.

BOYS 10 & UNDER: Lisa Burnardo ripped off seven goals and Emily Lawrence added four as Northville 1 downed Northville 2. Livonia 3 scored Northville 1-0 despite the efforts of Lori Letaris, defensive MVP and Beth Garfield, offensive MVP.

BOYS 12 & UNDER: Farmington 7 shut out

Northville Arsenal 2-0. The Rowdies downed United 8-1, with Joel Eisenauer scoring United's only goal. Joel Pittaway, who shared the duties in goal with Ian Switaleski, was the offensive MVP for United. Marc Chissem, Marc Golden and Mike Husak scored the goals in the Express 5-1 win over Plymouth 7. Team MVPs were Sean Gordon, Chad Tolstedt and Brandon Teas. George Lawson in goal held the Plymouth Blue Flames scoreless while Jason Kirk, Rob Kuzains and Brian Newrock notched goals in the Hot Spurs' 3-0 victory.

UNDER 13 BOYS: David Sude was the offensive MVP and Chris Frederick joined Sude in the scoring effort to lead the Northville Sting to a 3-0 win over the Genesee Dubas. Dan McQuaid spurred the defense and Jeremy Lawrence and Ryan Henkel combined for the shutout in goal.

14 & UNDER BOYS: The Arsenal downed the Jaguars 5-0. Larry Geisick combined in goal with Mike Ferguson to hold Livonia Reds scoreless while scoring one of United's two goals. Kyle Legal scored the other for Northville 2. Kevin Vaughn and Chris Walker were the MVPs. The Express edged Plymouth 2 with Randy Steiner and Jeff Ozanick scoring for Northville.

14 & UNDER GIRLS: Ashley McLean went on a scoring tear with five goals to pace the Pies over the Stingers 7-4. Nicole Cross and Amy Stringer were named MVPs. The best efforts of the Arsenal weren't enough to avoid a 3-3 tie with the Plymouth Stealers. Laura Whitley, Joellen Filkin and Tricia Lukowski scored for Northville. Jackie Matthews and Wendy Carroll share the MVP honors while United fell to Plymouth Mustangs 4-4.

UNDER 17 BOYS: Matt He, the goalie, was the defensive MVP and John Frederick was the offensive MVP in the Arsenal's 3-1 defeat at the hands of Plymouth 1. Northville's goal came on a corner kick.

UNDER 17 GIRLS: Sue Settles and Meredith Piner each scored a goal while Lakes 1 was beating Northville United 4-2. Livonia 1 outscored the Hot Spurs 4-2. Michelle Ordowski was named the Northville MVP on defense and Jenny Beller took honors on offense. Jill Tomalty scored the lone Northville goal in the Arsenal's 2-1 loss to Farmington 1.

Colts

VARSITY: The Northville-Hot Colts could small victory, or at the very least a tie Sept. 7 but a fast Stealer back caught up with Bill Kelley at the two yard line to give the Plymouth Stealers a 12-4 victory. The Stealers got on the board in the first quarter when a Coll fumble gave the visitors possession of the football on the 15 yard line. It took just one play for Plymouth to go in front 6-0. Plymouth added to that total in the second quarter, when, with 8:28 left in the half, a romp over left tackle netted 45 yards and six more points. Robert Nichols blocked the PAT. Chris Harris gave the Colls some something to cheer about as he threw a nifty little sideline pass to Kelley, who ran it in for Northville-Hot's only score. While the offense was sluggish, especially in the first half, the defensive unit kept the game close. Craig Probert recovered a Stealer fumble at the Coll 48 yard line just before halftime and, of course, Kelley staged his last-minute heroics when he recovered the fumble at the Stealer 47 and got to the two before he was tackled as time ran out.

JUNIOR VARSITY: Although the defense played tough, the offense couldn't get established as the Northville-Hot Colts lost their season opener in the Plymouth-Canton Stealers 5-0. The Stealers really cracked the Colts defense with a searing run up the middle in the third quarter and a fourth-quarter field goal. But the Colts failed to respond, despite strong running by Brad Burtz, who led the offense with 66 yards on the ground. Jason Walker added another 22 yards. Jerry Willis led the best defenses with eight solo tackles and several assists. Eric Starkweather, Chris Barkman, Deway White and Walker also turned in solid efforts on defense.

Shots don't fall, Mustangs do, 41-28

If there's consolation in losing, the Mustang girls' basketball team had a lot of consoling to do this week.

Northville opens league competition tomorrow at Livonia Churchill, and the Mustangs go into the contest nursing the effects of a 41-28 loss to Pinckney Sept. 2, their second in three outings and a loss against a team Coach Ed Kritch said the Mustangs should have beaten.

But it's hard to win a hoop contest when the team is shooting 22 percent from the field and when its top scorer, Anne Griffiths, notches just seven points.

Northville's problem wasn't so much its shot selection as it was the shots just failed to fall in Couple that with the extended absence of Sue Schrader, out due to an operation, and just five points from Tricia Drucker, normally tossing in 14, and the result is a long night on the basketball court.

"After a game like that, there are just two things you can do," Kritch said. "You can become discouraged and worry about it, or you can say, 'hey, it's over and done. Let's forget about it and play some ball.'" Kritch is obviously a proponent of the latter option. Although Kritch has yet to see Churchill play this year (Churchill opened its season last night), the Northville coach says he expects the two teams to match up well both in height and ability.

"We've both got forwards as our top scorers, we both have a strong, aggressive center and we both are capable of playing good basketball," he said.

Kritch said he expects the Mustangs to be tested early. "I expect them to pick us up aggressively with a full-court pressure and to have to contend with strong man-to-man defense," he said.

But he is confident the Mustangs can handle it. "We have to control the first 6-8 minutes and establish our game," he said. "Then maybe we can relax and play some ball."

Northville had little time to relax against Pinckney, which parlayed an 18-14 lead at the half into a 31-17 advantage by the end of the third quarter.

Linksmen ride a 204 to victory

If first shots are any indication, the 1986 version of the Mustang golf team got its licks on the links in early, beating Thurston 204-226.

That 204 score, paced by senior medalist Don Tassic's one-over-par 37, was lower than the Northville varsity had recorded all last season. And the Mustangs recorded their victory in windy conditions.

If Tassic's performance wasn't quite enough to have Coach Harold McVicar singing in the shower, first year golfer Dave McKee's 40 was a symphony of consistency, and left no doubt the Mustangs were ready to round up their visitors from Redford.

Jay Moore, a senior, tallied a 41, two strokes below his average of 43 a year ago and James Nordbeck, another sophomore, carded a 42.

Rounding out the scoring were seniors Rick McCulloch and John Nordbeck, each with a 44.

McVicar got the opportunity to view some of his golfers who normal ly don't see much varsity action when Thurston agreed to allow an exhibition matchup.

Varsity golfer Kirk Windisch, who was late for the opening match, was demoted to the exhibition, but it certainly didn't hurt his game as he came through with a nine-hole 40. Brad Wheeler carded a 46, Dave Ruckle a 48, Mike Fortenberry scored a 51, Craig Schlonksi a 52 and Rob Knight a 56.

Coaches sought for Meads Mill

Northville Public Schools is looking for a few good coaches for its middle school program.

Dennis Colligan, athletic director, said an assistant football coach is needed for the 7th-8th grade team at Meads Mill Middle School and a 7th grade coach is needed for the girls basketball team, also at Meads Mill.

Anyone interested in the jobs, which Colligan hopes to staff by Friday, should contact Tom Cey at Meads Mill, 344-8435, or Colligan, at the high school, 344-8420.

dance of experience. Leading the way is senior Dan Magdich, a first team All-Division performer a year ago. The rest are senior Stuart Kissinger and juniors Eric Halverson, Paul Stoecklin, Chris Anderson. Rookies Tim Goode and Steve Austin are also listed as midfield possibilities.

"At midfield, we are real strong," Yezback said. "I feel very comfortable with them in there. There's no doubt, it's our strongest position right now."

Another deep position is at fullback, and Yezback has a five-man unit of returning juniors and seniors to work with Ken Kossak and Doug Ayers are both back for their senior seasons after grabbing All-Division second team honors in '85. They will be joined by senior Scott Wolfe and juniors Ian Newton, Chris Goode and newcomer Ross Kern.

Perhaps the most solid position for the Mustangs is at Goalkeeper with senior Todd Stowell. He was an All-Division second team goalie a year ago and has been impressive in early practices.

"We look for good things from Todd," Yezback said.

Holloway hits the jackpot

Northville's Bobby Holloway correctly predicted the outcome of 13 of the 15 games in the Novi News/Northville Record football contest to win the top prize of $15.

Holloway, a veteran football contest entrant, failed only to call the Rams' victory over St. Louis and San Diego's conquest of the Dolphins as he was all alone in first place with only two incorrect answers. A total of six entrants had three misses, so the tie-breaker had to be utilized to determine second and third place winners.

When the results were tabulated, Chris Odum of Northville had taken second prize of $10, while Carolann Ayers, also of Northville, had the $5 third prize.

3rd PRIZE $5
ENTER TODAY...

CONTEST RULES

Take a plain piece of paper and number down the left hand side form 1 to 15.

You will notice that each square below is also numbered from 1 to 15 and each contains a football game to be staged this coming weekend. To complete your entry you must do the following:

- After each number on your paper write the name of the sponsor of the corresponding squares.
- Following the sponsor's name - write the name of the winning team.
- In addition, you must pick the total points scored on the outcome of the game in square 15. This will be used in the case of a tie and then the contestant whose score is closest to the actual score will be declared the winner.

Be sure to write your name, address and phone number plainly on your piece of paper (your entry). In case of a tie, prize money will be split. NOTE: Only ONE entry per HOUSEHOLD family per week. Prize money paid only to name on entry. PLEASE do not enter several times using friends names. Such entries will be disqualified if discovered.

Copies of the contest will be posted at the Northville Record office at 104 W. Main, each week. Entries should be addressed "Football Contest" Northville Record, 104 W. Main, Northville and must be postmarked or brought to our office no later than 4 p.m. each Friday.

Novi firm tops Michigan's 'Private 100'

Stephen and Diana Howard have made Spearhead the fastest growing new company in Michigan

By KATHLEEN MUTCH

Stephen Howard, president of Novi-based Spearhead Automated Systems, is smiling broadly from the cover of the May issue of Michigan Business magazine. He has good reason to smile.

Under Howard's management Spearhead Automated Systems, designers and builders of turn-key automated production systems, has grown from 1981 revenues of $124,000 and three employees to 1985 revenues of over $8 million and 60 employees.

Spearhead's automated manufacturing systems produce interior car components such as instrument panels, consoles, trunk and headliners, molded floor coverings and door panels, vehicle parts made with plastics and textiles. The company's growth is even more remarkable because it began with the company's founding in 1981 in the depths of a national recession that devastated so much of the automotive industry.

"It was a little tough," Howard admits with a weary smile. "We kept it lean and mean."

Assessing his company's current condition, he says with some understatement, "It's better than the first 18 months when we were surviving month to month and living job to job."

"Car companies are very demanding," he continued. "It was very tough. We worked every Sunday and holiday to meet delivery dates. We had to do a lot of the engineering and coordinating for them."

GM can call in the afternoon needing someone immediately. On a moment's notice, with only a change of clothes and a tool box, we have to have someone on his way to the GM site. Once in that plant, that person is Spearhead Automated Systems. Not me. Not my sales manager. Not anyone else. Our reputation is built on our people and our machines in the field.

was a direct outgrowth of Howard's experience working with his father-in-law, Olaf Kroneman, Jr. Howard credits his wife, Diana, with convincing him to work with her father at Liberty Tool and Engineering of Walled Lake, a business that's been in the family over 50 years.

"I resisted at first. I got along so well with my father-in-law. I didn't want to risk our good relationship," Howard said. His wife prevailed.

Describing himself as "optimistic" and "a risk-taker", Howard says Kroneman's "cautious, conservative" approach to business provided "a good counter-balance" that was sometimes needed to temper his own "over-enthusiasm" for project ideas.

"I enjoyed the industry but I wanted into the high-tech areas. I wanted a cushion for the times when the down-side of the up-down cycle would hit," he said.

After working out a licensing agreement with a West German producer of automated manufacturing systems, Roder and Spengler, the decision was made. Howard would head a new venture into the high-tech areas of automated systems design and manufacturing — Spearhead Automated Systems.

Today Howard and Kroneman still work closely together, but their two companies are separately owned and managed.

Spearhead Automated Systems also works closely with the European and Japanese firms with which it has developed mutually beneficial working agreements.

One lure of foreign involvements is the opportunity to expand and add to one's markets. "This is not just a U.S. industry," explained Howard. Spearhead's connections allow it to compete with foreign based automotive suppliers overseas.

Manufacturing licensing agreements allow Spearhead to produce foreign-designed parts to be used in the field.

MARTIN FRIEDMAN

WILLIAM J. AUSTIN

MARTIN FRIEDMAN of Novi has been named Group Media Supervisor Planning by W.B. Doner and Company.

Friedman joins Doner from Doyle Dane Bernbach of New York where he started as media planner in 1976 and was promoted to associate media planning director. While there Friedman was responsible for establishing media planning objectives and developing and executing media strategies on a variety of accounts, including Proctor and Gamble, Marl, Nabisco Brands, Weight Watchers, Frozen Foods, Borden, Bayer Aspirin and Wrangler Jeans.

Friedman has received four Effie awards from the American Marketing Association of marketing effectiveness.

At Doner, Friedman will supervise a group responsible for developing media objectives and strategies and subsequent execution on a variety of Doner's accounts, primarily packaged goods. Friedman also will participate in departmental strategic planning.

He graduated from Baruch College at City College of New York with a BBA in marketing and a minor in advertising. Friedman is a member of the Adercraft Club of Detroit and the Elk's Lodge.

WILLIAM J. AUSTIN of Walled Lake has been re-elected treasurer of the board of League Services Corporation (LSC), a subsidiary of the Michigan Credit Union League (MCUL).

Austin is the manager of Livonia Community Credit Union. He represents 29 credit unions and some 220,000 individual credit union members in western Wayne County and westside suburban Detroit as MCUL alternate director of the Filene Chapter of Credit Unions.

The MCUL is a statewide trade association headquartered in Southfield. Its 650 member credit unions provide financial services to one-third of Michigan's population, serving three million individual credit union members with more than $7 billion in assets. League Services Corporation is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the league.

HAROLD N. HYLAND of Novi was among a group of Lutheran Brotherhood district representatives who successfully completed one of the fraternal insurance society's career schools.

Held Aug. 4-7 at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minn., the Career IV School offered several workshops geared toward technical and personal development. Topics covered included creative selling ideas, charitable giving techniques, investment planning strategies, ways of coping with death and a tax law update.

Those attending developed a heightened awareness of changes in the marketplace and were provided with skills to adapt to those changes. Hyland is associated with Lutheran Brotherhood's Karl Mueller Agency based in Rochester, Mich.

The contest took place over a two-month period with all Hallmark stores vying to see which could sell the most jewelry. This is the third winning year for Geri's which has taken fourth, third and now second place.

TOURISM LEADERS, prominent restaurateurs and hotel executives will share the spotlight with front-line employees (award-winning bellman, waiter/waitress, roomkeeper, front office person and kitchen employee) when the Michigan Lodging Association (MLA) holds its annual Convention and Trade Show at the Novi Hilton on Sept. 14-16.

An awards program will climax at a Tuesday noon luncheon (Sept. 16) when the MLA honors five Michigan employees who distinguished themselves with dedicated service in 1986. Winners of the Michigan bellman and roomkeeper awards will be entered in the 1987 American Hotel & Motel Association awards program at its June 1987 convention in San Francisco.

Keynote speaker at 9 a.m. Tuesday will be Doug Ross, director of the Michigan Department of Commerce. Ross had achieved an exceptional business background before accepting his present appointment. He served as president of a food brokerage firm, economic analyst for ABC television and a state senator.

Hans Schuler, chairman and president of a lower Michigan restaurant chain, will be a panelist on Monday, Sept. 15, for "Food and Beverage Marketing - How to Increase Your Revenues." Schuler was co-chairman of the Governor's annual conference on tourism in 1985 and 1986 and for many years has been well-known for his philanthropic activities in Michigan.

JOHN (BUD) P. MCGOWAN has been named manager of Ford Parts and Service Division's National Parts Distribution Center.

McGowan, who joined Ford Motor Company in 1957 as a parts expeditor, has been the Regional Distribution Operations Manager West since 1983. He also has held managerial assignments in Boston, Kansas City and New York. He received a degree in Business Administration from the University of Detroit in 1963.

McGowan is married with three children and is a Northville resident.

TOM ESCH of Novi has received an award for individual performance in selling Dodge vehicles. He is a new vehicle salesperson for Town and Country Dodge in Farmington.

Esch has reached the Silver level of recognition in Dodge's unique Sales Professional Club. Specially-designed incentives and awards are provided for outstanding product knowledge and sales achievement at three performance levels - bronze, silver and gold. Membership in each level is determined by points earned for sales of new cars and trucks.

Here's financial tips for aging parents

Caring for elderly parents need not be difficult. By assessing your parent's finances, sharing responsibility with other family members and taking advantage of tax breaks, the Michigan Association of CPAs says you can do much to provide a comfortable environment for aging parents without straining your own finances.

Start by reviewing your parent's budget. Be certain the budget is realistic and lists all items that require regular payments as well as all anticipated expenses. If support is needed, see if money can be set aside to help you pay for it. Don't forget Social Security as a potential source of funds.

Costs for support can be high. Injuries or illnesses, after all, could reduce an aging parent's assets. A nursing home can cost $100 a day or more.

To prepare for those and other expenses, you should evaluate your parent's finances and match his or her assets against the costs of medical or nursing home care. When you know how much your parent might contribute to his or her own support, you are better able to judge how much support others may have to furnish. Then, you start planning ways to raise the money.

Consider looking into nursing home insurance. If your parent must remain in a home for an extended time, the insurance covers a portion of the expenses.

Currently, the Federal Medicaid program pays nursing home costs for many older people providing they satisfy eligibility rules. To qualify for Medicaid in Michigan, an individual can have no more than $1,700 per month in assets and a couple can have no more than $2,550 per month in assets. Some types of assets may be excluded, but this varies from county to county. Contact your local Social Service office for more information and to obtain an application by mail.

If you and your parent decide that Medicaid is the only solution for meeting nursing home costs, consider setting up a trust whereby your parents surrender their rights to the assets placed in it. Remember, Medicaid applications could be denied if a person's assets are transferred to their children or to a trust within two years of application.

Another route is for you to provide income to your aging parent through trusts or loans of your own. You can establish a trust naming your parent as beneficiary. The income earned belongs to your parent, who will probably be in a lower tax bracket than you. Before you establish a trust consider your own needs to make sure you can afford the cost. A CPA can help you establish a trust and keep you abreast of possible tax law changes.

If you provide more than half your parent's support (housing, food, clothing, medical and dental) you get a $1,080 tax exemption. For example, if you pay $4,000 a year for the care of a parent and your parent gets an additional $3,600 a year from Social Security and all other sources of income, you get the dependent tax deduction. However, for you to be eligible, the dependent parent cannot receive $1,080 or more a year of taxable gross income.

Even if you share the support costs for your aging parent with your brothers and sisters, you could still get a tax break. To claim the deduction, you must contribute more than 10 percent of the total support costs and meet certain other requirements. In addition, all of those providing more than 10 percent must agree—in writing—who will claim the tax exemption for that year. Someone else can claim the deduction the following year. Be sure your parent applies for all the tax benefits he or she is entitled to, including the tax credit for the elderly. If your parent is age 65 or older and has a low income, he or she may receive a tax credit of up to $750. A couple age 65 or over could receive a maximum credit of $1,125.

Should your parent be disabled and unable to care for him or herself, you may qualify for a tax credit if you hire someone to provide care while you work. The Child and Dependent Care tax credit can be applied to your parent's care if you are single and must work or you are married and both you and your spouse work. Depending on your adjusted gross income you may get a tax credit of up to 30 percent of the costs of such care. The maximum credit is $720 for one parent and $1,440 if you are caring for two or more. As income increases, the tax credit decreases.

You can also claim a medical expense deduction to the extent that all medical expenses exceed five percent of your adjusted gross income.

Once you have a grasp of your parent's needs and have a financial plan in place to meet those needs, CPAs say both you and your parent can begin to enjoy a more financially secure future.

Local man purchases Detroit Title Agency

Richard T. Schwandt (CPA) has purchased Detroit Title Insurance Agency and is the company's new president. Based in Southfield, Detroit Title is Michigan's largest representative for Lawyers Title Insurance Corporation.

RICHARD SCHWANDT

Schwandt and his wife Candice and their two children are Novi residents.

A former senior vice president of Real Estate One, Inc., Schwandt has 13 years experience in the real estate field. Prior to joining Real Estate One, he was with B.F. Chamberlain Company, where he functioned as executive vice president of both the residential real estate company and Executive Relocation Corporation, the company's third-party home buying subsidiary.

From 1973-77 he was with the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors, where he served as executive vice president.

Schwandt graduated from Michigan State University in 1970 with a bachelor's degree in Accounting and Financial Administration. He then joined the firm of Ernst & Ernst (now Ernst & Whitney) as a senior accountant.

Active in both the Realtor and accounting fields, Schwandt is currently serving on the board of directors of RELO, the nation's largest referral network of independent real estate brokers. He holds memberships in the following organizations: Michigan Association of CPAs, American Institute of CPAs, National Association of Accountants, Michigan Association of Realtors, National Association of Realtors, Michigan Land Title Association and the Mortgage Bankers Association.

Hard work moves Spearhead to the top

ed by companies located in this country.

Marketing agreements allow Spearhead to install, service and supply spare parts for foreign-produced automated systems that are in use by companies here.

But there's another attraction, one that holds special appeal to Howard—the promise of sharing in the latest advances in the high-tech areas that first drew him into the automotive industry. Spearhead's agreements with foreign companies enables it to stay on the cutting edge of those technologies.

"The industry is changing toward turn-key systems. We've had a lot of competition come on since we started."

Describing a turn-key system, Howard said, "We are responsible for design, manufacture, installation, service and parts for a system designed to do the whole thing in one automated line. Our reputation hinges on our ability to do it all."

Turn-key systems, according to Howard, save material and reduce the amount of time lost in production and shipping. When production is automated and under the control and supervision of one company from design to delivery, quality improves.

Automated systems also can improve the quality of working conditions for the employees. "The work is hard on employees—stretching and molding cloth and plastics by hand, working with hot glues and rough textures," Howard said. "We installed three large systems at Ford. We've seen worker attitudes on automation change from 'never in this plant' to 'it will never work here' to 'how soon can we have it'."

Howard said that automated systems don't have to mean job loss for employees. "We've been able to have the same people run the machines who were doing the job by hand before."

Sometimes, success brings its own problems. "When Detroit got busy, we had heavy turnover. That's natural. Detroit has the largest pool of skilled workers, but there weren't enough good people in this town (metro Detroit) to handle the work. We ran ads for a year-and-a-half straight. We needed skilled tool makers, machine makers, fixture builders. We couldn't get the workers we needed."

Howard is philosophical but realistic about the problems. "It's never going to change. This is a panic business. Car sales go up, car sales go down, and with sales, the rest of the industry."

"We're not auto-dependent, we are auto-related," Howard said of Spearhead's position in the industry. "We're always looking for new areas to further enhance our niche."

"We're conservative at the moment, responding to cutbacks and project delays by the Big Three. With a determined smile, Spearhead's president said, "We're keeping lean." The smile breaks into a grin as he adds, "And mean."

Howard's success was recognized recently when Spearhead was named the fastest growing company in "Michigan's Private 100," a survey conducted by Michigan Business, Durocher & Company, Inc., a Detroit-based public relations firm and the Michigan offices of Arthur Young & Company, a public accounting and management consulting firm.

To qualify for Michigan's Private 100, companies had to be privately-held and Michigan-based with fiscal 1981 net sales between $100,000 and $30 million. The first place rating was based on Spearhead's five-year compound annual rate of revenue growth of 104.13 percent.

Oakland Chamber hosts workshop on tax reform

An exclusive briefing on the New Federal Income Tax Law will be sponsored by the Oakland County Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, Sept. 24, from noon to 3 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the briefing and luncheon which will be held in the Main Event Banquet Room at the Pontiac Silverdome located at 1200 Featherstone Road in Pontiac.

The cost of the briefing and luncheon is $15 per person, and advance registrations are required. For more information or to make reservations call 683-4747 or 644-1229.

The briefing will be presented by a pair of tax experts: Timothy Dankoff (CPA) with Plante & Moran CPAs and Mark Wilson, a tax attorney with the law firm of Hill Lewis Adams Goodrich and Tait.

Dankoff and Wilson will present an overview of the new tax law and explain how it will affect individuals and how it will impact individual businesses.

the fairy godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns. But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of our newspaper! It's like magic the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way the fairy godmother makes all her magic, too!

"I can eat as many vegetables as I want without consuming any fat, and they are very satisfying and filling," Shah said. "I can eat dishes such as lasagna, and just replace the meat with vegetables, or just sauce, and you will never know the difference. It's just all what you're used to."

Meatless diet keeps local vegetarian going strong

By VICKI GRICE

Many people today are challenging the traditional idea that meat is essential to the diet by relying on vegetables to provide the vitamins and protein necessary to maintain a healthy body and sufficient energy level. Dipti Shah, 25, is a vegetarian who insists that meat does more harm than good to the body. "All meat is processed, high in cholesterol and fatty," said Shah. "Meat is responsible for the high rate of heart attacks, cholesterol and weight problems so many Americans have." Shah, a native of India now living in Northville, said her food choice stems from both religious and health beliefs. Shah has adjusted to American cooking by replacing all meat with vegetables. Her religion, Hindu, prohibits people from eating any kind of meat. Shah said that when Hindu immigrants come to America, many of them discover meat, but while in India, they strictly avoid it. Protein intake from meat can be replaced by proteins in whole wheat bread, split peas and any kind of beans. Spinach should also be a part of a diet, considering it is one of the healthiest foods. These vegetables are vitamin rich and relying on them for protein is all a matter of habit, according to Shah.

Although avoiding chicken and fish as well, Shah does eat cheese. She has a tremendous amount of energy, and runs regularly for exercise. "I rarely get really tired, and I'm always on the go. I think I am more active than the average person," Shah said. She attributes her high energy level to diet and exercise. Her weight doesn't fluctuate, and she insists that exercise is essential for everybody, even people on vegetable diets. Shah even makes her own soup broth out of juice from crushed vegetables, milk and water. She said her dishes are quick and easy to make. Living in a meat-oriented society is a culture shock for Shah, but she said she has adjusted well and hasn't had any problems with restaurants not having an item on the menu to suit her needs. "American restaurants always have something I can order. It may only be a salad, but I can find something."

Tivoli Fair set

JEAN DAY

Summer hasn't been an idle time for several local residents. Carol Kiraly, who is chairing the popular Tivoli Fair of crafts for the third year, reports that 118 booths of handcrafts have been signed up for the show to be held Sept. 26 and 27 at Northville Downs.

Sponsored by the Northville Historical Society, the fair is a major moneyraiser for the society's projects in Mill Race Historical Village. It also has gained a reputation as one of the best arts and crafts shows in the area. Kiraly reports that Linda Maxfield is assisting as co-chair of the fair this year.

She adds that the Northville Jaycees will be in charge of the food operation. Cub Scouts and Girl Scouts will be selling candy and calendars.

All she needs now, Kiraly says, is more willing hands. Any members of Northville Historical Society willing to volunteer to work during the two-day event should call her at 348-3779. Fair hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday, Sept. 26, and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Saturday, Sept. 27. Donation is $1.50 with children under 12 and senior citizens 50 cents.

Craft booths this year will include baskets, candles, ceramics, carved toys, country furniture, folk art, folk dolls, miniatures, pierced lamp shades, rag rugs, samplers, tinware, tole painting, wreaths and wheat weaving.

Business women slate first meeting of season

Northville Business and Professional Women's Club has reserved the Miles Standish Room of the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth for its first meeting of the season at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Sept. 22. President Elizabeth Lamoreaux will be presiding.

It's woman's club's 94th annual announcement

Woman's Club, one of the oldest in Wayne County, is opening its 94th year with a luncheon and fashion show Oct. 3 at Meadowbrook Country Club. Fashions will be by Talbot's of Twelve Oaks and hair and make-up will be by Gerald's of Northville. Chair of the day, Marcia Lee, notes that cocktail hour will begin at 11:30 a.m. with luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

In keeping with tradition president Pat Eden and her officers will be honoring past presidents and honorary members.

MR. AND MRS. DONALD O'BRYAN

Dearborn rites unite couple

Carrie Jane Barron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Barron of 21000 E. Chigwidden, exchanged marriage vows with Donald William O'Bryan of Plymouth in a 2 p.m. ceremony at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Dearborn.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Patrick O'Bryan of Dearborn.

The Rev. Msgr. Edmond A. Fournier officiated at the June 28 service at which Paula Folino was the soloist.

The bride's gown of candlelight silk crepe was styled with a sweetheart neckline. Chantilly lace edged the neckline, the short sleeves and the hemline of the skirt which extended into a chapel train.

The bride's long, crescent-shaped cascade bouquet contained bridal white roses, lily of the valley, mauve sweetheart roses and an accent of Swedish ruscus.

Elizabeth Barron was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaid was Cindy Hines. They wore tea-length satin gowns fashioned with sweetheart necklines, rosette sleeves and cummerbunds. They carried small crescent shaped cascades of pink bachelor's buttons, lavender freesia lily of the valley, statice and bridal white roses.

Flower girl was Chrissy Vettrano, niece of the bridegroom.

Mathew O'Bryan was best man for his brother. Another brother, Patrick O'Bryan, and Andrew Barron and Jeffery Hines were ushers.

A reception for 180 guests followed at Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. A special guest was the bride's grandmother, Dorothy Barron of Niles.

After a wedding trip to Phoenix and Tucson, Ariz., the newlyweds are making their home in Plymouth.

The bride is a Northville High School graduate. She attended Schoolcraft College and Western Michigan University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Bishop Borghees High School and Arizona State University. He is a sales engineer of K-L-A Laboratories Inc. in Dearborn.

July wedding plans announced

Sam and Evelyn Ghannam of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Shirley, to Daniel Lewis. He is the son of Art and Sharon Lewis of Thornton, Colo.

an architect with Rossetti Associates Architects and Planners in Detroit.

Her fiancée is a graduate of North Glenn High School in North Glenn, Colo., and received his associate degree of applied science in electronics technology from Denver Institute of Technology. He is a field engineer with Harris Corporation in Troy.

The bride-elect is a 1977 graduate of Northville High School. She received her bachelor of science and bachelor of architecture degrees from Troy Lawrence Institute of Technology. She presently is

A July 4, 1987, wedding date has been set.

Local AAUW studies 'Women and the Media'

Annual fall potluck dinner meeting of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women will be held at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday in the fellowship hall of First Presbyterian Church of Northville. Guests are invited.

Featured speaker will be Kay Kirby, whose topic is to be "Women and the Media." Points she will touch upon include what to watch for in the media in an election year and how women fare in the news media today.

The speaker holds a B.A. degree in journalism from Michigan State University and an M.A. from the University of Michigan. She first worked on the Birmingham Eccentric and then was a reporter and feature writer for the Associated Press. After leaving that position, she wrote magazine articles and feature stories for the Detroit News.

She also was a journalism instructor for Wayne State University and for the University of Detroit.

Presently back in the freelance writing field, Kirby with two partners has just opened a new company called The Write Connection.

She currently is president-elect of the Grosse Pointe Branch of AAUW and has served that branch in many capacities.

Any woman interested in attending the Northville dinner meeting is asked to call membership chairperson Ann Newton at 348-7994.

Some of our customers hope the Tigers will win 93 games this summer.

Adrienne and Abby Edwards, a pair of twin sisters from Northville, are "Cat People." The girls own a cat, Champion Waddacat Skye, that has won awards for its beauty and uniqueness. The cat is a Scottish Fold, named for ears that look like small folds of skin.

"Skye has won awards because she has perfect characteristics for her breed," said Abby. "She is definitely a cutie!"

Adrienne explained that the Scottish Fold breed is known for having a small, round, head, tiny flaps for ears, short legs and a short tail.

"We entered her in contests when she was a kitten and the judges really liked her," Abby said. "Not all Scottish Folds have such unique features, some have the same ears all cats have."

The twins bought Skye from a breeder in Brighton who told them she was a show kitten. As a kitten, Skye won a first place award, was a finalist in four rings and placed third overall out of 80 felines in the Michigan Cat Fanciers competition.

Cats can show human-like companionship. Skye, for example, enjoys taking an afternoon nap lying on her back with her feet in the air, loves to snack on cheese and passes time by watching birds and squirrels run around in the backyard.

"She's really an indoor cat. She's notorious for scratching on the screen to go outside and then once she's out she wants to come right back in," Abby said.

Although Skye is a champion show cat, she doesn't get too many special privileges — except for being treated like any other person in the family! She does get special food called Iams, a premium cat food that is easily digested.

The Edwards are supporters of cat's rights. They will not allow a dog into the household because it will invade Skye's territory.

"Dogs smell, and they jump and drool all over you," Adrienne said. "I would much rather have a cat."

Skye, a one-year-old, black-and-white cat, has a companion of the same blood line. Timmy, another Scottish fold, is also a member of the Edward household.

"The two cats make great companions," Adrienne said. "They chum around and play together all the time. I think they would be lonely without each other."

Although the Edwards plan to breed Skye, they have to wait until they find a male Scottish Fold that doesn't have strong breed characteristics.

"You can't breed two Folds that have the folded ears. One of the cats must have normal cat ears or else the kittens could be born with birth defects," Abby explained.

The twins say Skye's different from other cats in many ways. She is uncoordinated and has to prepare herself before jumping, has a very sensitive tail, and definitely has a mind of her own.

"We love our cats, and they both have such different personalities," Abby said. "Skye and Timmy are both part of our family, my mom has always been a cat lover."

SECURITY BANCORP'S BANK ON THE TIGERS SWEEPSTAKES

Count the Tigers' victories and win $1,000 or instant cash!

- 1. Use our Bank-A-Matic/24 automatic teller service and you're automatically entered!
- 2. Win instant cash prizes of $1, $10, $25 or $100!
- 3. Match the number on your receipt with the Tigers' total victories and you're a finalist!
- 4. Win the $1,000 Grand Prize, a pair of season tickets or $500!

This summer cheer for the Tigers all the way to the bank in Security Bancorp's Bank On The Tigers Sweepstakes the sweepstakes where Detroit Tiger victories can help you win season tickets or a Grand Prize of $1,000! Or you can win cash instantly!

To enter, just use Bank-A-Matic/24 automatic teller service for any transaction and save your receipt. Each receipt you collect gives you two chances to win!

If your receipt shows an Instant Win Cash Prize amount of $1, $10, $25 or $100 you're a winner! And you can claim your winnings immediately at any participating Security Bancorp Bank.

But whether or not you're an Instant Winner, you should hang on to that receipt — it could be your ticket to season tickets! Or the $1,000 Grand Prize!

Each receipt you collect will also display a Tigers Victory Number between 60 (games) and 110 (games). This number is your chance to win in the Bank On The Tigers "Sweepstakes Drawing".

So save your receipts — and follow the Tigers throughout the 1986 baseball season to see if their final victory total matches any of your Tigers Victory Numbers. If it does, you could be a winner!

After the Tigers last regular season game, all customers holding a receipt with a number that matches the Tigers final victory total must notify Security Bancorp (Special postage paid postcards will be available at all participating banks for you to mail in).

Then, on October 27 the Sweepstakes Drawing will be held, and one lucky customer will win the Grand Prize of $1,000! Second and Third Prizes of Tigers season tickets and two $500 cash prizes will also be awarded.

So enjoy 24 hour banking and enter the Bank On The Tigers Sweepstakes today!

Newcomers' annual coffee draws 150

New year under way

"I have yet to quilt, but I've learned a lot - I just haven't applied it," Leasa Carney confessed to about 150 members of Northville Newcomers and guests at the club's annual membership coffee Thursday evening at First Methodist Church of Northville.

As she introduced board members and interest group chairpersons, the Newcomers' president was stressing that new arrivals to the community often enjoy just getting together with other newcomers as she noted that she had joined the quilting group last year. Kathy Arenz and Sue Hart, interest group chairpersons, reported that there are about 40 interest groups with subjects ranging from a book reviews, antiques and collectibles, golf, gourmet dining, exercise and bowling to bridge, pinocle and euchre.

Laurie Graff, who heads up a group for Bunco, reported, "It takes three minutes to learn."

"If you can read a recipe and like to eat, it's a good group to join," Holly Feeney explained of the gourmet couples' cooking group. Thirty couples had met on the first Saturday of the month last year, she said, predicting that this year twice as many would sign up for the popular evening.

Judy Whiteley reported there is even an Out to Lunch Bunch who get together just to have lunch at interesting places.

Beth Beson reported on a group of mothers who get together to take their children on outings, mentioning that the group had visited Maybury State Park and Kensington last year.

Other groups include Stitch and Chat, theater, tennis, volleyball, walleyball and a recipe exchange. There's even a wine tasting group headed by Nancy Bohri.

President Carney noted that in addition to the interest group meetings there are monthly Ladies Day events and Couples' events. The latter will include an evening at Northville Downs, a Road Rally, dinner theater to see "The Spider" at Greenfield Village, bowling night, Las Vegas Night, a toga party and progressive dinner.

In October the club women will be going to Portside in Toledo on a shopping spree, in November they'll create a Christmas craft, in December they'll visit Cranbrook.

Newcomers' annual dues are just $10. Leasa Carney invites any residents new to the community with a Northville mailing address or who live in the Northville school district to call her at 349-6037 or membership chairperson Patty Kondratko at 349-7959 for more information.

In conjunction with the evening meeting for Newcomers last week a Newcomer alum tea was held at the home of Lani Bond Thursday morning. This group welcomes members who have lived in the community more than five years and who belonged to Newcomers.

Tickets still available for Town Hall

DOUGLAS A. FRASER

Northville Town Hall ticket chairman Martha Lyon reports that some tickets still are available for the lecture series' 26th season, which will open at 11 a.m. Oct. 9 at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi. Retired UAW president Douglas A. Fraser, now a Northville resident is the speaker.

Gene Perret known as an entertaining speaker and comedy writer will follow Nov. 13.

Author William X. Kienzle will talk March 12, 1987 and actress Eva Gabor will close the series April 16, 1987.

The tickets at $25 for the four lectures are sold by the series only. All lectures are at 11 a.m. on Thursdays at the Sheraton Oaks.

Mail orders should be sent to Northville Town Hall, P.O. Box 93, Northville, Mich. 48167, with a stamped, self-addressed envelope included with the check.

Celebrity luncheons which follow the lecture at 1 p.m. may be purchased individually at $11 or for the season at $44. Only season ticketholders may attend the luncheon. Luncheon reservation checks should be sent to the above address to the attention of Sandy Chouinard.

She notes that lunch seats will be assigned this year so that friends who wish to sit together should send their requests for tickets together.

Douglas Fraser is known as "the labor leader everyone respects." He rose through the ranks to become the UAW's sixth International President, a position he held until his retirement in May, 1983.

Although retired, he maintains an active career as a professor of labor studies at Wayne State University and currently is the Jerry Wurf fellow and lecturer at the John F. Kennedy School at Harvard University. He also has served as a visiting professor at the University of Michigan.

Currently he is serving as co-chair with Lee Iaccocca on the Michigan Governor's Commission on Jobs and Economic Development.

The labor leader is a man who never lost touch.

Gene Perret has been head writer for Bob Hope and also has done similar writing for Bill Cosby, Phyllis Diller and Joan Rivers. He than meat eaters because they ingest less fat, Fanelli said.

Vegetarians: Meat's out, but not taste

Less fat intake also means vegetarians often have lower risk of getting heart disease. Egan said. But some non-meat foods, such as many dairy products, have high-fat contents, which means vegetarians who eat them are not necessarily lowering their risk of heart diseases.

Other advantages of being a vegetarian are that non-meat eaters tend to get adequate amounts of fruits, vegetables and whole grains, she said.

Furthermore, the vegetarian diet is a relatively cheap one, Egan added.

Egan said she does not worry about lack of protein for vegetarians who eat some chicken and fish, because people only need a small amount of meat (four ounces a day) for a complete food program.

Dr. Fox is one person who is a vegetarian mainly for ethical reasons. He said the goal of his book is to reduce the overall consumption of meat.

He gives several reasons for wanting to reduce the amount of animals that are raised for meat. First, he said only 10 to 20 pounds of meat can be gained from animals that require the use of one acre of land.

Conversely, he said 280 pounds of soybeans products can be grown on the same amount of land.

Not only is more land required to raise animals, but he said doing so also depletes topsoil and water reserves in the earth (to keep the land moist). "Basically we are stealing from future generations, because we are wasting non-renewable sources."

He said that by raising farm animals, society is pushing out predators, eagles, buffalo and other wildlife. "Agriculture has caused the worldwide destruction of forests and natural grasslands. A lot of people don't make this connection."

He gives another argument for vegetarianism: the inhumane treatment of animals. He said farm animals are generally subjected to suffering in the way they are raised, transported and slaughtered.

He said if people must eat meat, they should buy the meat from humans who treat their animals humanely.

Chicken is a better choice than pork, he said, because chickens suffer less than pigs. However, he said tofu or soybean curd are a better choice than chicken.

According to Fox, eating meat is unhealthy, because the fat stores chemical residues of pesticides from the crops.

He said meat also contains growth hormones and may contain food poisoning.

One group of people see vegetarianism as a healthy way of life for another reason: religion.

Pastor Jim Hiner of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Farmington explains why his religion encourages vegetarianism.

He said that in the New Testament Apostle Paul makes references about a Christian's body being a temple of the Holy Spirit.

He said if God is working through people, they should not put harmful substances in themselves. He also said studies have shown that being vegetarian makes people healthier.

He said the healthier people are the better God can use them for whatever task he is carrying out.

We do these things because we feel that it makes us better people, he said. We don't teach that you become a vegetarian in order to get to heaven.

Vegetarian recipes for meatless eating

2 Tbsp butter
1/2 cup cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees

Saute onions in butter. Add prepared tomatoes and sugar. Bring to a boil, simmer on low heat, stirring periodically, for 7 minutes.

In a bowl, combine crushed spinach, apple, salt and pepper.

In a casserole dish, put half the tomato sauce on the bottom, half the macaroni and half the cheese on top.

Then, continuing to layer ingredients, add half the spinach, then all the vegetables. Pour on the rest of the sauce, add remaining spinach then cheese on top.

Bake for 20 minutes. Let stand 15 minutes before serving.

32 oz spaghetti sauce
3 potatoes boiled and chopped
1 cup peas
3 onions
2 Tbsp butter
Pinch of salt, pinch of pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees

Saute onions in butter. Add potatoes, peas, salt and pepper. Cook for 15 to 20 minutes.

Put one layer (3) noodles on the bottom of a 9x13 inch pan. On top put 1/2 of the vegetable combination then, continuing to layer, add 1/2 of the ricotta cheese, 1/2 of the tomato sauce and 1/2 of the mozzarella cheese.

Repeat process twice with remaining ingredients.

Bake for 40 minutes.

PEA SOUP

10 cup frozen peas, crushed
1 cup water
2 cups milk
1 tsp sugar
Pinch salt, pinch pepper
Cheese optional

Combine peas, water and milk and strain. Cook liquid until boiling, add salt, pepper and sugar, mix thoroughly. When serving, sprinkle cheese on top of soup.

FRUIT DESSERT

12 oz tub of whipped cream
1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened but not melted
1 apple, sliced
1 cup grapes
2 peaches, sliced
2 bananas, sliced
1/2 cup pecans
1/4 cup raisins

Combine all ingredients in a bowl mix together. Serve.

VEGETABLE RICE DISH

2 cups rice, boiled
3 medium sized onions
2 cups fresh vegetables, chopped (can use mixed frozen veggies) sugar peas, carrots and green beans
2 Tbsp butter
1 tsp salt
1 tsp pepper
Sprinkle of cinnamon
Sprinkle of cashews and raisins optional

Saute onions in butter. Add vegetables, salt, pepper and cinnamon. Let simmer, stirring to avoid burning, for 10 minutes.

In a bowl, combine rice and vegetable mixture, stir together. Sprinkle cashews and raisins on top. Serve.

VEGETABLE LASAGNA

9 lasagna noodles, boiled
16 oz ricotta or cottage cheese
1 lb mozzarella cheese

Religious tenets made Shah a lifelong vegetarian

Shah said "Mexican and Chinese restaurants usually have vegetarian dishes."

A typical dinner in the Shah household includes rice as a main entrée with a dish consisting of French-cut, lima or dried beans and fresh vegetables. She also makes sure her diet includes an abundance of fruit. Her husband eats whatever she cooks.

"Burt is the same religion as I am, but he doesn't follow the vegetarian diet as strictly. At home he eats like me, but when we go out, he tries dishes with meat in them, Shah said.

The biggest downfall vegetarians can encounter is eating too many snacks, sweets and fried food. Although these foods can create problems if exercised in excess, Shah believes they don't present problems if exercise is part of daily routine.

"Exercise and diet go hand in hand no matter what you eat, the food has to be burned off somehow."

A lifelong vegetarian, Shah believes her meatless diet provides the essential food value needed, even for a growing child. Although her religion strongly influences her food choice, she said if she had children she would bring them up as vegetarians for health reasons.

"I'm not so sure I am healthier short term, but in the long run, I won't have any heart, cholesterol, weight problems or anything else associated with fatty, processed meats."

Shah is a student at Eastern Michigan University, working on her master's degree in chemistry which she hopes to complete by next summer. She has lived in Northville and America for that matter, since 1981.

Vaccines and Toxoids

Many of the viral infections that killed thousands in the early part of this century are controlled today through the routine use of vaccines and toxoids. Parents are somewhat familiar with these biological products since they are required by most school systems for children beginning school. Immunization of children at various ages starting at age two months is necessary to provide protection against conditions such as pertussis, diphtheria, tetanus, polio, red measles, German measles and mumps, the so-called childhood diseases.

Vaccines contain small amounts of bacteria, viruses or other organisms that have been killed or rendered noninfectious. The administration of vaccine provides the body with the ability to withstand subsequent exposures to corresponding infections.

Toxoids provide the same type of immunity as do vaccines, but they do not contain any organisms. Some toxoids are composed of small amounts of the poisons of bacteria that are active in the body. Toxoids are used to protect against diphtheria, tetanus and botulism, the poisons that are converted

For the past month, athletes across the country have been dressed in helmets, shoulder pads and jerseys and tight fitting pants with knee padding preparing to play America's fall pastime—football.

They've been practicing but touchdowns, stunts, blitzes, post patterns, fly patterns down and outs, plunges, sweeps and draws—all that funny terminology that most of us couldn't fathom if we had the Detroit Lion playbook right in front of us.

But we do understand that football is here. The pros started Sunday, many colleges have two games under their collective belts and the University of Michigan Wolverines and Michigan State Spartans open their seasons this Saturday.

The players have trained hard. They've put in long, grueling hours getting their heads taken off by teammates, their own temperamental coaches and now opposing players.

They're ready, but what about the people who fill the stadiums to watch football—the fans? Are they ready for another grueling season? How much have they prepared? How many hours have they put in getting ready to properly root the home team on to victory?

If you're like most people, you've yet to break a sweat running around getting ready to trek to Ann Arbor, East Lansing, Mt. Pleasant or any of the other college sites sprinkled around the state.

But that first home game isn't that far away—and if you wait until the last moment you may find out there's more preparation time needed than meets the eye.

In many ways, it's like camping. You tend to pack everything but the kitchen sink. And for football games, you can leave the tent behind.

But here are some thoughts on what to take.

Be prepared for any kind of weather. So that means get out the umbrella (preferably with the school insignia on it), the rain slickers, your fall (or later in the season, winter) jackets and appropriate headgear and footwear.

You can never trust the weather. The day may begin sunny and warm and end up rainy (snowy)

Here Comes Football

The players are ready . . . are you?

and cold.

Do you know where you stashed your stadium blanket? How about the padded cushion to alleviate some of the pain of sitting on a wooden or metal bench for three to four hours?

If you're one of those who likes to see the action close up but who has tickets in row Double Z, haul out and dust off those binoculars. And you'll also need your portable radio so you can listen to the play-by-play of your game or maybe tune in to see how the arch-rival down the road is doing.

Meanwhile, your basic outfit for game day must drip in school colors, right down to those special Maize and Blue underwear or those lucky Green and White Spartan socks.

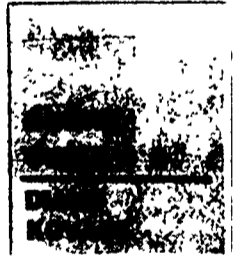

The most preparation comes with creating the sumptuous feast for the tailgate picnic before the game. That involves stocking up on drinks, snacks and preparing the main dishes, and finding all the proper containers to put your food and liquid refreshments in.

And now comes the fun part. You're off to the game. You may find yourself a bit rusty, a little out of sync for the first couple of games, tailgating in 80-degree weather and watching football when you think you should be on the golf course or at the beach.

Just like the team out on the field, it may take awhile before you get your act together. So, give it time and enjoy this fall's football mania.

Oh, by the way, one last thought. Don't rush off to the stadium without those tickets.

Roman Terrace: A study in contrasts

Situated near the busy Twelve Mile/Orchard Lake Road intersection in Farmington Hills, the Roman Terrace is a series of contrasts as diverse as its location.

Those familiar with the area know the intersection is a busy one. Gas stations, a car wash, lots of traffic generated by the signature office buildings on Twelve Mile to and from the I-96 interchange.

And yet in the midst of the hustle and bustle is an attractive restaurant which lives up to its name of terrace. A rich, plush interior. Lots of greenery. Dimly lighted with dark leather booths and high backed chairs.

The contrast is best exemplified by what the Roman Terrace calls its "Garden Room"—a narrow strip of tables located adjacent to large windows which look out over all the activity outside. Given the generally unattractive nature of the exterior view, it's a wonder that the Garden Room works. But it does.

The same contrast exemplifies the restaurant itself. On one hand, the Roman Terrace rates generally high marks, particularly for the quality of its food. Yet, on the other hand, the restaurant falls short in several aspects which are critical to the generally high level which it strives to achieve.

The Roman Terrace, as is obvious from its name, features Italian cuisine. Lots of pasta and seafood specialties along with such standard Italian dishes as chicken cacciatore and chicken parmesana.

And there are many good things to be said about the food. Meals are accompanied by an artfully presented salad, featuring a variety of vegetables and a basket of warm rolls baked in the premises and topped with a grated cheese sauce.

The wine list is more than adequate and affords diners a generally good selection of wines to accompany their meals.

Appetizers include shrimp cocktail as well as escargot en croûte, oysters Rockefeller stuffed with cream and an antipasto platter.

As is usual as appetizers are half-orders of the pasta selections, which also can be ordered as dinners. The pastas are a strong point. The Fettuccine Danielle (homemade spinach noodles, black olives, mushrooms and artichoke hearts with parmesan cheese); Linguine with clam sauce and Fettuccine Tetrazzini (sauteed breast of chicken strips, onions and mushrooms in wine and served over pasta) are interesting eating.

The menu features more than 30 entree selections including the 10 pasta dishes and daily seafood specials. Specialties of the house include chateaubriand bouquièrre, which is served most attractively and Chicken Saltimboca alla Romana.

For desserts there's a nice selection of pastries, along with such distinctively Italian fare as homemade spumoni, ice cream and homemade cannolis along with Zabaglione (served with fresh strawberries).

The fallings of the Roman Terrace lie in the areas of service and presentation. Packets of packaged sugar on the table. What appeared to be an ice cream scoop of butter (a sprig of parsley would aid immeasurably). I don't mind having to refill my own wine glass, but at a restaurant with the aspirations of the Roman Terrace I shouldn't have to. On the other hand, I do object to being asked to save my silverware from course to course.

The deficiencies are all things which could and should be corrected easily. Attention to such details would help the Roman Terrace to more fully meet the promise which it otherwise fulfills.

The Roman Terrace 27822 Orchard Lake Road Farmington Hills. Open for luncheons and dinners Monday through Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. and Fridays and Saturdays from 11:30 a.m. to midnight. Liquor license American Express, Visa, MasterCard 851-4094.
