County voters choose Heintz, McNamara

Meeting the candidate

Northville Township Supervisor Susan J. Heintz, Republican candidate for county commission, was out early Tuesday, greeting voters at the polls. At her first stop, Northville City Hall, she chats with Owen Horsfall, a 60-year city resident. GOP campaign worker Velma Belasco watches the candidate at work.

Remember the predictions of a light turnout for yesterday's general election? Remember the conventional wisdom that says turnout historically is lighter in a non-presidential election year, especially when there are few controversial issues on the 1986 ballot?

Well, forget all that locally. If early reports from City Clerk Cathy Konrad and Township Clerk Georgina Goss were any indication, this year's election turnout could set a record.

By 11 a.m. Tuesday, Konrad said more than 500 city residents had cast their ballots. And that figure did not include the 288 absentee ballots already received in the Clerk's Office.

"When the polls opened at 7 a.m., people were already in line to vote," Konrad said, adding that there had been small lines at both of the city's two precincts.

"People are moving right along, but there have been two or three people in line all morning," she added.

Lines of prospective voters greeted poll workers in the township, too, however, Goss said those lines had dropped off somewhat by noon.

"As of 10 a.m., we had a hair over 21 percent of the registered voters who had already cast their ballots,"

Goss said, noting that those numbers were "high" for an off-year election.

While she had no figures to verify her estimates, she said she thought it was a "distinct probability" that many voters were not completing their ballots.

"There always is some dropoff between the candidates and the judges," she said. "I expect that will also be true this year."

Northville voters who cast ballots in Wayne County, saw familiar names on the ballot. Township Supervisor Susan J. Heintz running against John Kopka to replace the retiring Mary Dumas as Wayne County Commissioner.

And Edward McNamara, the mayor of Livonia, the odds on favorite to become Wayne County Executive.

Although official election results were not available when The Record went to press, incumbent U.S. Rep. Carl Pursell, state Sen. R. Robert Geake and state Rep. Gerry Law were confident of victory.

Voters also were being asked whether to retain the Wayne County Drain Commissioner as an elected office. That ballot initiative not to do so had received widespread support from the county commission, as well as McNamara.

Scott almost ready to open

With plans progressing for the anticipated opening of the Scott Regional Facility, the township still has not been asked to approve the prison.

Under the terms of the injunction issued by Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer, the Michigan Department of Corrections was prohibited from "permitting to be occupied, causing to be occupied, or in any way, shape or fashion housing prisoners in the regional prison known as the Scott Correctional Facility until such facility is completed and ready for occupancy as a single cell facility."

Officials from the corrections department have not yet requested an inspection from township officials; however, a community open house at Scott has been tentatively scheduled for Nov. 22.

Construction at Scott is continuing, but no formal request has been made to dissolve the injunction, gained when the township challenged the right of the corrections department to barracks house prisoners at the Scott site before the prison was completed.

"Absent a stipulation by the township, the corrections department would have to file a motion to dissolve the injunction," said Ernest Essad, attorney for the township.

Supervisor Susan J. Heintz said she does not have a request from the corrections department or from prison officials to have the site inspected.

"I got a call from them (Scott officials) last week, asking that we inspect the site this week, but then I had another call canceling the inspection," Heintz said.

"Given the problems we have had at DeHoCo (now the Western Wayne Correctional Facility) with walkaways, we're not going to allow any prisoners to be moved onto the site until we are assured all construction is complete," Heintz added.

Under the injunction, the Department of Corrections is bound by the ban until "such time as (it) has filed a motion to dissolve (the) injunction and said motion has been granted."

A spokesman for Farmer said no request to dissolve the injunction has been received by the court.

Although the date for the open house has been tentatively set, prison officials could not confirm a date as to when prisoners would begin occupying the $35 million facility.

Once fully operational, Scott Regional Facility is scheduled to house 550 medium and light security prisoners in single cells.

'Gas and Go' station plan fizzles

There won't be a full service gas station at the eastern entrance to Northville Township at Six Mile and Fugerty, but there may not be a Gas and Go station there either — at least there won't be if the Boron Oil Company doesn't change its plans for the station design.

The Planning Commission Oct. 30 unanimously rejected the preliminary site plan proposed by the oil company, noting that the design fails to conform to the township building requirements.

And, as Commissioner Larry Sheehan told representatives of Boron Oil, were a new station built to conform to the company's current design plans, it would violate the township's sign ordinance.

"You plan on having a lit sign, 30-inches high, going all around your canopy. That seems to violate the township's sign ordinance," Sheehan said.

"It certainly does violate it," Trustee Richard Allen noted. "You aren't going anywhere with that plan."

While the two commissioners were the most vocal in their opposition to the plans as presented, a number of township residents expressed their interest in having a full-service gas station built on the site and their intent was echoed by James Abernethy, site development administrator of Ward Presbyterian Church, which intends to build a new facility across Six Mile Road from the service station site.

The session (church board) is very concerned that the proposed BP Oil development has no service capability. We are very concerned that those who attend Ward Church may find that there is no service station even close to our new facility to handle minor service needs such as flat tires, dead batteries, car won't start, etc.," Abernethy wrote in a letter to the commission.

He also expressed concern as to the appearance of the proposed gas sta-

Jaycees confer 'Outstanding' title on Chris Johnson

By JEAN DAY

At a time when many young persons leave the towns in which they grew up and graduated from high school to seek new environs, Christopher Johnson stayed in Northville — and the community is richer because he did.

While still a student at the University of Michigan in 1976, he ran for election to the Northville Board of Education and, at age 21, became one of the youngest board members in the state. Now 31, he has been re-elected by wide margins in 1980 and 1984 and has held every office on the board.

For his unusual service, the Northville Jaycees honored him with the chapter's first Outstanding Young Person of the Year Award Oct. 22 at its meeting at city hall.

Teresa Folino, chairperson for the award, noted as she presented the honor that the Jaycees are pleased that they received three nominations. "All were worthy," she declared, "but Chris is outstanding."

She added that the official nomination was made by Douglas A. Whitaker, president of the Northville Board of Education, but that the Jaycees had received two other calls from persons wishing to nominate Chris.

Johnson, in explaining his involvement in the community, noted that he was born in Germany while his father (who died in 1980) was stationed overseas in the U.S. Air Force at Templehof Air Force Base. The family, he said, moved many times before coming to Northville. "It was the first real home town to me — that's one of the reasons I like it so much," he explained.

He added that he was honored to be the recipient, noting that such recognition "is real nice (to receive) when it happens."

Among those on hand for the presentation were Superintendent of Schools George Bell and Chris' wife, Patricia Stephens Johnson.

The couple's families both lived in Northville Estates Subdivision with the Johnson family moving to the community in 1968. Patricia did her undergraduate work at Michigan State University and went on to earn her law degree at Detroit College of Law, as did Chris. She now is a practicing attorney with Campbell, O'Brien and Misteale in Detroit, and they have bought a home at 312 West Main in Northville's historic district.

Their home is almost directly across the street from the Old Village School, headquarters for the district's special education program.

It holds special interest and meaning for the honoree.

Whitaker explained this in first term member of the Northville Board of Education, Chris Johnson was cast into a volatile and emotionally charged issue that tested his mettle and demonstrated his humanitarianism.

HE'S ELECTED — Charles E. Wheatley, M.D., of Northville has been elected to Fellowship in the American College of Cardiology. A graduate of Vanderbilt University and the University of Tennessee College of Medicine in Memphis, he currently is clinical professor of cardiology, University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor.

The 15,000 member non-profit professional medical society and teaching institution is dedicated to contributing "significantly to the prevention of cardiovascular disease."

THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE is just two weeks away from getting a grocery store within the city limits. A spokesman for Shopping Center Markets said he hopes to have the store, located on Center Street, open Nov. 12.

Already the new sign is up and employees have been hired to staff the facility, located at the same site as Chatham.

RACING DATES for the Northville Downs season have been announced by the Department of Agriculture and the Racing Commissioner's office.

Eighty-one dates, beginning Jan. 1, have been earmarked for the Northville Downs season. The annual racing season concludes Saturday, April 4.

A new track in Swartz Creek also has races scheduled to begin Jan. 1. Genesee County Racing will conclude April 5.

COUNCIL MEMBER Carolann Ayers' son, quoted at the annual Boys State-Girls State dinner in this column last week, was misidentified. Boys State delegate Ayers' first name is Douglas.

THE MEDICAL BUSINESS took center stage during the final day of the 1986 gubernatorial campaign. Gov. James Blanchard took time to designate Nov. 9-14 as Registered Nurse Anesthetist Week, while William Lucas, the GOP contender, warned of a possible outbreak of measles (rubeola) in Wayne County.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY School is the second community organization to sponsor a lottery calendar. Northville Rotary sponsored a calendar from June, 1985, through June, 1986. OLV School calendar is for 1987-88. It not only provides weekly winners with $100 prizes but is being sold ($15) to provide tuition assistance to families who need it.

For information about the calendar call the school at 349-3610.

THE 1986 JACKSON AT NORTHVILLE racing season is less than two weeks old and already three reports of arson at Northville Downs have been reported.

THERE WILL BE MORE than one church at the eastern entrance to Northville Township at Six Mile and Haggerty. Temple Baptist Church owns 64 acres of land, located next to the Ward Presbyterian Church site.

Although Temple Baptist has owned the land for about six months, Rev. Truman Dollar, senior pastor, said the church is still "six to eight years away from building on the site."

THE CITY IS $100 CLOSER to its $25,000 goal for the band shell in the Town Square Park. City Manager Steve Walters' office reports that another $100 donation has been received as well as several queries since council approved start of construction this fall at its Oct. 20 meeting. That brings the total received to $20,175.

By the way, the Town Square Park is located on the south side of Main Street in the center of town by the clock. The band shell will be located at the rear by Mary Alexander Court.

BFI seeks OK to clear contaminants

Browning Ferris Industries gained approval from the Northville Township Planning Commission Oct. 30 to "disturb" nearly 502,000 yards of landfill material in an attempt to remove contamination discovered on the landfill site.

Final approval for the removal must come from the Zoning Board of Appeals, however, before the ZBA can approve the request, a public hearing must be held and the planning commission must approve the plan.

Jeff Harris, in explaining the request for BFI, which purchased the landfill site from Holloway a year ago, said there are two primary areas which will be disturbed — one along Napier Road and a second area to the south and west of Napier.

Harris noted that the digging is necessary to clean up areas where contaminants have been discovered as part of the consent agreement signed by the DNR and BFI when the Baltimore-based firm purchased the land fill from Holloway.

In response to a question from Commissioner Charles DeLand, Harris said the contaminate discovered was organic in nature and could have been caused by one of three possible sources or a combination of all three: runoff from a feed lot, leakage in the land fill or by road runoff.

Dennis Wojcik, representing McNeely & Lincoln Associates, Inc., the township's engineering consultants, noted that his firm had retained the services of a consultant who specializes in plans as proposed by BFI to make recommendations regarding the project.

"We have one item of special concern," Wojcik said. "The proposed drainage ditches will outlet onto the land beyond the boundary of the site proposed for excavation. It appears the runoff from the site will travel overland to 3 existing drains near the site and, due to the change in slopes of the land, it appears the runoff would increase slightly and locations of point discharge would be created."

Wojcik added that the plans submitted by Browning-Ferris met the specific requirements approved by the township and that according to the consent agreement, the entire project would be monitored.

Harris said that once the project begins, BFI has 12 months to complete the work.

"It is imperative, once the permit is received, that we remove the topsoil before the ground freezes," Harris said. "Otherwise, we will be unable to complete the work in the allotted time."

QUESTION: How is hypertension (high blood pressure) diagnosed and can it be treated without the use of medication?

ANSWER: Although high blood pressure is easy to diagnose it often goes undetected for years unless found in a routine blood pressure reading or physical examination. Hypertension seldom gives warning signs or symptoms.

Blood pressure can be lowered in a number of ways. If your pressure is only slightly high, lifestyle changes may be enough to bring it within the normal range, you may not need any medication.

The following are some self-help tips in the prevention and treatment of hypertension:

1. Lose weight if necessary.
 2. No smoking.
 3. Decrease salt in your diet.
 4. Decrease fat in your diet.
 5. Restrict alcohol consumption.
 6. Restrict caffeine.
 7. Get regular exercise.
 8. Get regular medical check ups.
- If your blood pressure is not adequately controlled after reasonable efforts with life style changes there should be no hesitation in proceeding directly to drug therapy.

Judge eases Canton sewer ban but denies injunction

By ANITA CRONE

Canton Township may still be operating under a sewer ban but Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Sharon Teves Finch further defined the confines of the ban last Friday.

She told the township as well as representatives of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that Canton Township was to submit a plan to the DNR regarding a proposed venture with the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority (YCUA) as soon as possible and the DNR would have 28 days to review the plan and decide whether it was to be approved.

In the meantime, the judge noted that if the DNR turns down any sewer permit requested by the township there would be a hearing before an administrative law judge within seven days to discuss the rejection.

The judge's ruling came in response to a law suit brought by Canton seeking to stop the announced sewer ban placed on the community by the DNR.

Canton Township was seeking an injunction to stop the proposed ban, however Teves Finch ruled that there had been no harm done since there had been no applications for sewer permits.

I fail to see why Canton Township is being penalized for not participating in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Sewer said Canton Township Supervisor James Poole. Other communities are over their capacity yet the only community which has a sewer ban is Canton Township. And even if Canton joined the Silly Sewer, we would still be pumping.

During a press conference Thursday, Poole noted that Western Wayne County needed improvement in its sewer system, and agreed that a sewer system is needed, but not this particular system. What we don't need is Super Sewer," he said.

He added that he had sworn affidavits from DNR employees noting that Super Sewer was not cost effective and that he would be willing to produce those affidavits in court.

However, Teves Finch refused to take testimony instead ruling on the

— Sharon Teves Finch

questions of law.

It is important that the community be allowed to develop itself in the manner it chooses, Teves Finch said. But that development should ensure that the health of the citizens is protected.

She praised the DNR for its gratuitous announcement of intent to stop sewer construction but cautioned the state agency about unilateral banning sewer taps.

In the meantime, Wayne County and the DNR have extended the deadline for signing service agreements to participate in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer project. The three townships have not yet signed participation agreements, but Canton was the only one of 16 communities earmarked to participate in the program which declined.

Northville and Plymouth townships have not yet taken an official stand on the matter, however all three townships have indicated in a letter to YCUA that they are looking at the Ypsilanti project as an alternative to joining super sewer.

Eldon Ahles, YCUA executive director, said Monday that YCUA currently is operating at 45 percent capacity and would welcome the participation of the three communities in the program. He noted that Canton and Plymouth's participation in YCUA was not new but had been discussed as far back as 1982, when the sewage treatment plant became operational.

"The concept of Plymouth and Canton coming into YCUA is not new," Ahles said. "In 1982, Canton and Plymouth jointly funded a study about participating in our program. The study was completed in 1984."

Ahles said that YCUA, which currently serves 15,000 households in the City of Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, contracted users in Augusta, Pittsfield and Superior townships and an apartment complex in Van Buren Township and a trailer park in Canton Township would certainly not be overtaxed with the addition of Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

In fact, Ahles noted, that the addition of the three communities could result in a lower rate to users of the system that already are charged $1,368 per 100 cubic feet per second of metered flow.

Ahles said he did not know how many more users would go into the YCUA should a contract be reached between the three townships and YCUA. That would be up to the townships, he said.

Should the townships pursue the YCUA option, Ahles said he anticipated it would take the YCUA five-member board a month to approve or reject the proposal, and he estimated it would take three years to lay the pipes and bring the wastes from the three townships to YCUA.

The YCUA system currently treats waste and then sends the treated waste through Willow Creek into Belleville Lake.

YCUA construction was approved under the federal construction grant programs Oct. 1, 1974 and became operational in 1982.

Judge eases Canton sewer ban but denies injunction

By ANITA CRONE

Canton Township may still be operating under a sewer ban but Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Sharon Teves Finch further defined the confines of the ban last Friday.

She told the township as well as representatives of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that Canton Township was to submit a plan to the DNR regarding a proposed venture with the Ypsilanti Community Utilities Authority (YCUA) as soon as possible and the DNR would have 28 days to review the plan and decide whether it was to be approved.

In the meantime the judge noted that if the DNR turns down any sewer permit requested by the township there would be a hearing before an administrative law judge within seven days to discuss the rejection.

The judge's ruling came in response to a law suit brought by Canton seeking to stop the announced sewer ban placed on the community by the DNR.

Canton Township was seeking an injunction to stop the proposed ban, however, Teves Finch ruled that there had been no harm done since there had been no applications for sewer permits.

I fail to see why Canton Township is being penalized for not participating in the North Huron Valley Rouge Valley sewer, said Canton Township Supervisor James Poole. Other communities are over their capacity yet the only community which has a sewer ban is Canton Township. And even if Canton joined the Silly Sewer we would still be pumping.

During a press conference Thursday, Poole noted that Western Wayne County needed improvement in its sewer system and agreed that a sewer system is needed, but not this particular system. What we don't need is Super Sewer," he said.

He added that he had sworn affidavits from DNR employees noting that Super Sewer was not cost effective and that he would be willing to produce those affidavits in court.

However, Teves Finch refused to take testimony instead ruling on the

"It is important that the community be allowed to develop itself in the manner it chooses. But that development should ensure that the health of the citizens is protected."

— Sharon Teves Finch

— Wayne County Circuit Court Judge

questions of law.

It is important that the community be allowed to develop itself in the manner it chooses, Teves Finch said. But that development should ensure that the health of the citizens is protected.

She praised the DNR for its gratuitous announcement of intent to stop sewer construction but cautioned the state agency about unilateral banning sewer taps.

In the meantime, Wayne County and the DNR have extended the deadline for signing service agreements to participate in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer project. The three townships have not yet signed participation agreements but Canton was the only one of 16 communities earmarked to participate in the program which declined.

Northville and Plymouth townships have not yet taken an official stand on the matter, however all three townships have indicated in a letter to YCUA that they are looking at the Ypsilanti project as an alternative to joining super sewer.

Eldon Ahles, YCUA executive director, said Monday that YCUA currently is operating at 45 percent capacity and would welcome the participation of the three communities in the program. He noted that Canton and Plymouth's participation in YCUA was not new but had been discussed as far back as 1982 when the sewage treatment plant became operational.

The concept of Plymouth and Canton coming into YCUA is not new, Ahles said. In 1982, Canton and Plymouth jointly funded a study about participating in our program. The study was completed in 1984.

Ahles said that YCUA, which currently serves 15,000 households in the City of Ypsilanti and Ypsilanti Township, contracted users in Augusta, Pittsfield and Superior townships and an apartment complex in Van Buren Township and a trailer park in Canton Township would certainly not be overtaxed with the addition of Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships.

In fact, Ahles noted that the addition of the three communities could result in a lower rate to users of the system that already are charged $1.88 per 100 cubic feet per second of metered flow.

Ahles said he did not know how many more users would go into the YCUA should a contract be reached between the three townships and YCUA. That would be up to the townships, he said.

Should the townships pursue the YCUA option, Ahles said he anticipated it would take the YCUA five member board a month to approve or reject the proposal and he estimated it would take three years to lay the pipes and bring the wastes from the three townships to YCUA.

The YCUA system currently treats waste and then sends the treated waste through Willow Creek into Belleville Lake.

YCUA construction was approved under the federal construction grant programs Oct. 1, 1974 and became operational in 1982.

Essex: Substance abuse begins at home

By MICHELE M. FECHT

As a 16 year veteran of the Indiana State Police, Bill Essex has more than a few stories to tell.

A fast talking Midwesterner with a wry sense of humor and a quick wit, he has little trouble captivating his audience.

However, the former undercover narcotics detective hardly is out to entertain. Currently winding up a nearly month long tour through Michigan, Essex was in Northville last week to talk about drug and alcohol abuse intervention with students, parents and school administrators.

His Oct. 27 appearance, sponsored by the Northville Action Council, was well received by middle school and high school students and the nearly 100-plus parents and community members who opted to forego the World Series to hear his evening program.

In prefacing his two-hour presentation, Essex told his audience he recognized some of his remarks might seem offensive.

"I don't intend to step on two or three toes," he admitted, "but on everyone's toes."

A father of four with children ranging in age from 3 months to college age, Essex emphasized that chemical abuse is not an isolated problem.

"There is no such thing as an individual chemical abuser," he said. "It's a family chemical abuser."

He further noted that chemical abuse is not confined to a particular element of society but crosses all social, economic and educational boundaries.

The number one drug abuser in the nation is the domestic engineer who can't start her day without caffeine," he said.

"The problem is not the substance, it's the attitude that allows us to put up with it."

— Bill Essex

In addition to caffeine she goes to the medical profession to lose weight with speed, diet pills, etc.

She can't sleep so she reaches for the barbiturates and Valium.

Essex noted that adverse parental influence is a major contributor to the drug and alcohol problems among youth.

We let our children believe that bowling without beer cannot be done, he explained. When we order our children a kiddie cocktail, we send a message to them that drinking is socially acceptable."

Though Essex shied away from quoting too many statistics, he noted that "one quarter of a million people have been killed in alcohol-related accidents in the last 10 years."

The number one drug of abuse in America is alcohol," he said. "I'm not on a temperance campaign. I'm just stating the facts."

While statistics show that alcohol use now is more prevalent than drug use among today's youth, Essex stressed that "recreational" drugs continue to pose a threat.

He told his audience that the drugs used today are not the same type of drugs used in the '60s.

In the '60s it was more of a political statement," he noted. "Drug involvement was like today's purple hair—we thought it would go away."

"Now it's become a way of life. Marijuana was never a problem. Crack is not a problem. The problem is that people think it's a fad," he said.

The problem is not the substance years ago.

However, Essex was quick to point out that he does not think drug testing will stop nationwide chemical abuse.

Drug testing is a good deterrent, but I tend to equate it with dope-smelling dogs. It does not stop drug abuse—it just disperses it for a temporary amount of time.

Besides, I never met a dog you could cross-examine on the witness stand," Essex noted.

"I just don't think mass testing is a good idea. What it tells me is that we're so inefficient with our enforcement that we cannot isolate users without massive check-ins."

Essex said he believes the media has glamorized the drug issue in both its entertainment and news formats.

He noted for instance, that all three major networks did segments on chemical abuse following Reagan's announcement last August that the federal government has joined the fight against drugs.

However, Essex pointed out that last year he wrote to all three major networks asking them to consider stories on drug use and intervention programs. He said the idea was rejected by all three news organizations which claimed that the idea did not fit into their format and that it was not a timely issue.

I view their specials last August as being purely hype for ratings purposes," he said.

Noting that he has talked to more than a million middle school and high school students during his 2½ years of fulltime lecturing, Essex said he has no regrets about leaving the police force.

"I enjoyed being a police officer and I did a good job," Essex said. "But what I'm doing now is not just another job—it is not my career. It's a way of life."

"I can't ever see myself doing anything but what I'm doing now."

U-M study highlights drug education programs

The federal government is launching a costly war on drug abuse to be carried out largely in the schools, but that may be throwing money around with a blindfold on, according to a University of Michigan researcher.

A recent U-M study of 126 alcohol and drug education programs in elementary schools, high schools and colleges shows that there is still very little understanding of what constitutes an effective prevention program, says Robert Bangert-Drowns, a researcher at the U-M Center for Research on Learning and Teaching.

"Even though the programs have been promoted enthusiastically in schools for the past 15 years," he says, "there has been no systematic attempt to determine just what works and what doesn't."

Bangert-Drowns says that the evaluations he studied were a "hodgepodge." Only 14 of the 126 measured changes in substance abuse after the programs were completed. Eighteen measured shifts in attitudes toward drug use and 26 tested for knowledge of drugs. The rest were flawed or inconclusive in their measurements.

Of the 14 that measured actual changes in behavior, only seven showed drug use had been cut. Four others showed it had gone up, one had mixed results, and two showed no change.

Bangert-Drowns' findings, however, are not all bad. Of the 26 programs that measured knowledge about drugs, 24 were extremely effective in giving students information about the effects of drugs and how they can be misused.

Of the 18 that measured changes in attitudes toward drug and alcohol abuse, 15 showed a positive effect. Four alcohol abuse programs for college students that incorporated peer counseling were unusually helpful in changing attitudes. Two programs which relied exclusively on lectures by professionals had the least impact.

Bangert-Drowns found one more encouraging fact: some of the alcohol and drug education programs have a delayed impact. Reduced drug use showed up as much as a year later in five of the programs.

Apparently, Bangert-Drowns concludes, drug abuse projects are most effective in increasing students' knowledge, less successful in changing their attitudes and least successful in changing behavior.

Although the accumulated evidence suggests that substance abuse education has not been effectively used or evaluated in the schools," Bangert-Drowns says, "there are positive indications that they can work."

Since that is the case, experts in the field had better start asking hard questions, doing thorough evaluations, and setting up programs they know will actually change behavior.

Despite the lack of hard data, substance abuse programs may serve other functions, Bangert-Drowns suggests. "A significant service of the programs is to reassure parents that the schools are at least trying to control the problem."

Mustang Squadron wins numerous awards

Northville's Mustang Cadet Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol attended the annual Michigan Wing Conference in Lansing Oct. 18 and brought home three awards.

Mustang members received three awards in an awards and honors assembly held to recognize personnel for the past year. The conference featured seminars on various phases of the CAP program. A change of command ceremony was held for Michigan Wing's commander.

C/Maj Kirk Kappel was presented with the Amelia Earhart Award which is earned by cadets through testing at the squadron level. Kappel, who also is an Eagle Scout in Northville, demonstrated his abilities in the position of Cadet Commander as well as activities officer for the squadron.

2nd Lt. Fay Dickinson was awarded a trophy for being Group II Senior of the Year. Dickinson earned the award by maintaining several positions at squadron level as well as holding the Public Affairs Officer title at group level. This included publishing a newsletter for the entire group while keeping up with the duties of administration, testing and public affairs officer at the squadron.

Dickinson also works with the personnel officer to maintain cadet and senior files. Starting the new squadron in Northville made these jobs more difficult than normal, officers noted.

Capt. Tim Dickinson, Mustang's commander, brought home a Commander's Commendation Award.

Council hears youth program plans

Two programs, aimed directly at young people, were aired in front of the Northville City Council Monday.

Maureen Osiecki proposed the city join with the township and Northville Public Schools in supporting a youth assistance program and Capt. Tim Dickinson provided information on the Mustang Cadet Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

The Youth Assistance Program, aimed at troubled youth between the ages of 7 and 18, is a four-part program to address the needs of delinquent youths and their families on a local level. A similar program is highly successful in Livonia, where 82 percent of the young people who had been through the program had no further contact with local law enforcement agencies.

Noting that the program is staffed by a paid director, clerical help and volunteer counselors, Osiecki told the council she was asking for moral, as well as financial assistance.

The township has committed $10,000 in Community Development Block Grant funds to get the program going, but as soon as the first youth enters the program, those funds would be removed, Osiecki said. She added she intends to ask the school district officials to support the program as well, and is scheduled to address the entire school board during its regular meeting next Monday.

"This program is unusual in that it is similar to the Big Brothers and Big Sisters program," noted Mayor Paul Vernon. "Counselors don't tell the youngsters what to do, but work with them."

"It's also unique in that you have local people handling local problems on a local level," Osiecki added.

"I suppose that next you'll be asking for money," Councilmember Paul Folino said. Osiecki did not deny it, but said she had applied for a grant through the criminal justice program.

Folino and Councilmember Carolann Ayers noted that they were disturbed by two facets of the program. Ayers expressed concern that the program was only for Wayne County children, even though the school district was involved. Folino questioned whether the city could afford to fund any portion of the program.

"How are we going to provide a line item in our budget for this program this late in the year," he asked.

"My main problem is that we are being asked to fund a program for three years, and we don't have a budget in front of us to determine how much funding we are being asked to provide," Ayers noted.

Vernon, who did have a copy of the budget for the program, noted that the cost would be $20,000 per year and he expected "the city and township would share costs as they do with other joint programs.

While the council took no action, Osiecki said she intended to return to the council with specific funding requests.

Dickinson said the Civil Air Patrol Mustang Cadet Squadron was not looking for funds but rather for new members.

The squadron currently has 11 youngsters involved in the national program, which stresses aerospace education, leadership and training in search and rescue, disaster relief and emergency service.

In existence since February, the local squadron has increased its visibility in the community, Dickinson said, and is hoping to do more.

"We work with local civil defense organizations and police departments in passive control," he said. The organization also performs 90 percent of the Air Force search and rescue missions nationwide.

We want your recipe for holiday stuffing

Whether it's a Thanksgiving turkey or a Christmas goose stuffing, a bird has become something of a culinary art for American cooks.

Though its name doesn't do it justice, stuffing holds a place of distinction at most holiday dinner tables.

The variations are endless whether hazelnut and mushroom sausage and apple or just plain herb laden bread crumbs.

Beginning today The Northville Record is asking readers for their favorite stuffing recipes.

It can be a traditional favorite passed down from generation to generation or an easy microwave recipe clipped from a cookbook.

Readers wishing to share their stuffing recipes, should contact the newspaper office at 349-1700. Leave your name and number and a staff writer will return your call.

Recipes will be published in the Nov. 19 issue of The Northville Record — just in time to celebrate the Pilgrims' landing at Plymouth Rock.

Library asks Sesquicentennial grant

The Northville Public Library is asking the state of Michigan for a $10,000 grant to develop a Sesquicentennial collection of library materials.

City Council Monday gave unanimous support to the bid, joining the Northville Township Board of Trustees, which approved the grant application during a special meeting Friday.

If the grant is approved, the library will be able to collect, process, publicize and make available for use a written history of the four-county (Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw and Livingston) area, including the townships of Lyon, Northville, Novi, Northfield, Plymouth and Salem.

Librarian Patricia Orr noted in the grant application the extent of local history available for study currently consists of two books: Northville, the First 100 Years by former Record publisher Jack Hoffman, and Early Northville by Laura Smith Hixson.

published by the Northville Historical Society.

Orr noted that while The Northville Record is available on microfilm from 1960-1985, the microfilm has never been indexed and not all issues of the paper during that time are available.

A number of local groups are supporting the project, including the Friends of the Northville Library, Members of that organization are volunteering to compile the index of the existing collection of The Northville Record, and the Northville Historical Society is donating its collection to the library on permanent loan.

If the grant is approved, funds will be used to train volunteers to index the microfilm, to purchase books and materials to add to the collection, to compile a bibliography of the items purchased and to increase the hours of Alan R. Smitley, who will supervise the project.

Schoolcraft property rezoned for hotel, offices

The Livonia Planning Commission has voted to rezone 16.5 acres of Schoolcraft College property for the construction of a hotel-office building complex.

The commission split 6-2 with members Herman Kluever and Michael Soranno dissenting, said city planner John Nagy. Nagy said detractors were concerned the area would not be well "served" by the development of another hotel.

Located off Seven Mile and I-275, the project site borders the "Golden Corridor," so named because of the number of development projects that have sprung up there in recent years.

The Livonia City Council will consider the rezoning, but probably won't hold public hearing on the issue until sometime in December, said

Nagy.

The property previously was zoned public land.

The project is being developed by P. R. Duke and Associates of Indiana. Company representatives told city officials recently that they plan to develop up to an eight-story hotel with two, four-story office buildings as well as a one-story restaurant. If they decide against a hotel, which is still optional, said Nagy, company officials will submit plans replacing it with a third office building.

No hotel firm has been named yet to the project.

Schoolcraft College has decided to lease the land for development so as to recoup additional college operating revenues.

Save time in an emergency.

When someone you love needs emergency medical care, it's no time for indecision or confusion. You need to get the patient to the hospital quickly and through the registration process smoothly.

Families served by the new Huron Valley Hospital can now prepare for emergencies by pre-registering at the hospital for emergency room care. There is no charge for this community service.

The Huron Valley Hospital Emergency Room Pre-registration Program puts important patient information into the hospital's data bank for use by emergency room staff. Mom, dad, grandparents and children can each receive their own registration card.

There is no substitute for your community hospital in a life-threatening emergency. Freestanding Urgent Care centers, even those associated with hospitals, do not provide the overnight Advanced Cardiac Life Support care so often required in serious emergencies. Huron Valley Hospital, a 153-bed, full-service hospital, does—with complete cardiac and critical care units, full radio communications to emergency vehicles, a helicopter landing port; emergency-trained nurses and physicians. And additional specialists on staff are available to respond to emergencies in orthopedics, pediatrics, obstetrics, radiology and surgery.

Steven Beson, 4, eyeballs the soft drinks during Halloween festivities at the Northville Fire Station

Fire department provides holiday treats

After the trick or treating in the neighborhoods ended Friday, city and township residents got one final treat at the City Fire Station.

That's where the volunteer fire department moved its vehicles, hosed out the inside of the station and dished out drinks, pop corn and cotton candy to more than 500 ghosts and goblins of all ages.

The annual event, sponsored by the city fire department, attracted people from all over the city and the township. And no one got tricked, except maybe the firefighters who at one point had to struggle to keep up with the growing demand for drinks and sweets.

No one was left out even City

Manager Steven Walters got his fill of cotton candy. Walters was easily recognizable dressed as a city manager.

Not quite so recognizable were the age-group winners in the costume contest at the Recreation Department. Judges Walters, Recreation Specialist Traci Johnson and Record Staff Writer Anita Crone had a difficult time winnowing the field to select three winners in each of four age groups.

Four-year-old John Berg caught the judges' eyes in his green stegosaurus outfit taking first place among the newborn to 5-year-old category. Rachel McIntosh, 15 months dressed as a round little pumpkin complete with an orange cap, took second and Damien Meinicke, 11 months, had difficulty walking in his devil's outfit but had no problem taking third.

Rachel Stockhausen, 9, was the first of three Stockhausen children to earn first-place trophies in the competition. Rachel was the epitome of an A&W carhop, complete with foaming root beer and the ever-present wad of chewing gum. She skated away with the top award in the 6-10-year-old division, followed by 10-year-old Andy Phelps, dressed as a tree "Robot." Aaron Troschinetz, 10, won third prize.

A 1967 Chevy, driven by Juliet Stockhausen and Susannah Sant, both 13, and accompanied by 11-year-old Luke Stockhausen took top honors in the 11-15 category. Angie Putman, 11, was second in her costume as an old woman, and Charlie Chaplin, who in real life is 11-year-old Jennifer Guy, took third.

While most teenagers were attending the Northville-Nowi football game, adults won awards in the 18-and-over division. Laura Droze, dressed as a realistic pot-bellied stove, won the top award, even before the judges realized that there was something cooking — a baby — inside the stove. Beth Beson, dressed as an Hawaiian islander, took the second place trophy.

Committee sees quality as challenge facing state's schools

Quality, not quantity is the main challenge facing Michigan schools.

That's the finding of a special committee appointed by the state board of education and headed by Geraldine Kiessel, Garden City Junior High School principal.

The committee studied the future of Michigan's teachers and made recommendations to help ensure an adequate supply of teachers and strengthen teacher preparation programs.

"We tackled the problem of supply and demand by researching a lot of statistics and we came to the definite conclusion that the issue was not maintaining an adequate number of teachers, but maintaining good, quality teachers to ensure quality education," she said.

It's a very critical time for the state to make a commitment to education and the future of Michigan.

Although Michigan will face a teacher shortage, it will be more selective than in other states, Kiessel said.

Math, chemistry and physics are some of the areas where the shortage may be noticed.

"Our schools of education are at their maximum closing enrollments," Kiessel said.

"As our economy is turning around, many teachers who left in the '70s to find jobs in other states want to come back. The state department (of education) has been deluged with out-of-state requests of certification."

Also, many teachers who were laid off or who left the field voluntarily during the '70s teacher glut are becoming recertified and returning to work.

The committee predicts that more than 20,000 new teachers will enter Michigan classrooms by the year 1990.

Kiessel was appointed to the commission through a nomination by the executive board of the Michigan Association of School Principals. The state school board sifted through nominations from many professional educational organizations and selected a panel of nine to fill the committee seats.

Committee recommendations were presented to the state board last week.

"It was a very high-powered commission," Kiessel said. "We had an excellent working committee whose members were all dedicated to the task of making some 50 recommendations to the state board."

The committee reviewed reams of literature and research statistics pertinent to its study and listened to presentations on teacher supply and demand and teacher education given by local educators, and state national experts.

Statewide group meetings were held to solicit recommendations and reactions to help the committee members form their proposals. These meetings were held with groups of parents, teachers, representatives from the business and labor communities, teacher educators and school administrators.

"Initially it was so overwhelming, we weren't quite sure where to start," Kiessel said. "What we didn't want was to be a committee of nine people who just researched and wrote their own opinions. We really made a point of soliciting input by holding these hearings all over the state."

Once recommendations were developed, they were divided based on who should be responsible for implementing them. The five areas of recommendations include many suggestions and ideas.

"One thing we've asked for is for the governor to establish a blue ribbon commission on school finances and quality education," she said.

"We really need to take a look at the way our schools are funded and at the inequities from district to district."

Under the current system, schools in underprivileged areas have a much harder time recruiting and keeping quality teachers because the districts have less money and salaries are lower than many suburban districts.

"Another suggestion which we're very proud of and think is very innovative is the formation of a preteaching corps," she said.

"Under this program high school students who are thought to have the potential to be good teachers are singled out and encouraged to become involved and explore a career in education."

Involving community members in evaluations and audits of their schools is another committee suggestion to help increase the quality of education, as well as promoting continued collaboration between school districts and school of education.

Local BPW club gives Toni Genitti its annual award

By JENNIFER CHARNEY

It's noon on a typical Friday. The phone is ringing off the hook. The lunch crowd is beginning to arrive, weaving around the gift-shop browsers to the line for the restaurant in the far corner.

Behind a partition, food preparers are grinding meat and breading veal steaks. A few yards away in the kitchen, waitpersons scurry to the dining room with the specials of the day.

"It's organized confusion," said John Genitti, co-owner of Genitti's Hole-In-The-Wall restaurant and gift shop at 108 E. Main.

And holding it together in the middle of it all is his wife, Antonia "Toni" Genitti, 33, the congenial dynamo named Woman of the Year by the Northville Business and Professional Women.

Toni Genitti coordinates the efforts of 23 employees and 12 family members, flitting between the cash register and the kitchen with enlivening playfulness.

"You got a table for me?" a customer in the lines asked a passing waitperson.

"We always have a table for you," beamed Toni Genitti, overhearing his question while on her way to the basement.

"We need some more jar lids," said an employee to another as she passed by.

"Why don't you just buy more pint jars?" Toni Genitti added, breaking her conversation for a moment while vending her way to the kitchen.

It's all in a day's work at Genitti's. The Genittis established Genitti's, formerly the EMB Food Market, in 1970. John and his wife ran the store as a meat market until 1979 when they started the Hole-In-The-Wall restaurant, knocking out a doorway to an adjoining storage room.

— Toni Genitti

In 1980 the Genittis set up a gift shop, which grew from an 8 by 8-foot area to include two floors of the adjacent store.

John is the chef and Toni manages the gift shop.

Toni Genitti, who lives with her husband and children at 417 Dubuque, raised her two children, Andrew, 11, and Laura, 8, while working daily at the market.

"(When it was a meat market) it wasn't real busy, so I could handle taking care of (Andrew)," Toni recalled. "Many a day he'd sit in the milk crate and just watch customers go by."

Now business is booming at Genitti's.

"(The restaurant) really went well almost immediately," said Toni Genitti. "When we opened up, there were not that many restaurants here. She said the story of their restaurant with its acclaimed Italian fare was not an overnight success, however.

"It was a lot of hard work," she continued. "It was a real struggle at first when the kids were little."

People were skeptical of the restaurant's unorthodox procedures such as the lunchtime honor system when customers pay without a table check, telling the cashier what they ordered.

Then there were the restaurant's hours.

People would say, "What do you mean you're open for lunch only from 11 to 3?" said Toni Genitti.

Aside from all her work at the restaurant, Toni Genitti is an active Northville booster.

She is chairperson for Northville's June music festival, Summersong, has headed many downtown activities and serves as treasurer for the Downtown Merchants' Association.

Genitti sponsors several Northville tours each month in cooperation with the Detroit Convention Bureau.

John and Toni Genitti also host an annual Friends of the Northville Library dinner in September with all proceeds going to the Friends.

"We help just about anyone that asks for it," said Toni. "I like the education. Almost overnight the Northville Schools had to provide for hundreds who resided in institutions located in the school district.

The community was fearful of mixing institutional residents with local children. Opposition emerged. Vision and leadership were needed. Chris Johnson supplied it, becoming the calm and authoritative spokesman the community needed. His commitment strengthened educators and gave the community confidence to give the program a chance.

Whitaker went on to point out that this program is now 10 years old, widely emulated and nationally respected.

It has enriched the lives of hundreds of multiple handicapped young people who otherwise would have been confined in institutions. Parents and staff involved with this Institutional Special Education Program know they have no stronger advocate than Chris Johnson.

He has given outstanding service to a forlorn segment of humanity that was for so long ignored.

After graduation from Northville High School in 1973 with honors, Chris Johnson began attending the University of Michigan, receiving his B.S. degree in 1978. He received his J.D. degree from Detroit College of Law in 1981. He was admitted to the bar that year.

Since 1981 he has been a trial attorney at the firm of Cummings, McCreary, Davis and Aho P.C. since 1981 and has had a wide range of cases, including cases before the federal district courts, the federal appeals courts, the Michigan Supreme Court and appeals courts of the State of Michigan.

He currently serves as general counsel to the Michigan Municipal Risk Management Authority. In that position he provides legal advice to more than 700 local units of government. He also serves as assistant township attorney for the Township of Redford and the Charter Township of Van Buren.

In addition to his service on the school board, Johnson served from 1977-78 and again in 1983-85 on the Northville Recreation Commission.

In 1984 he was elected Vice President of the Metropolitan Association for Improved School Legislation. MAISL is a consortium of 10 local school districts which seeks to improve legislation impacting local school children. In 1986, he was elected its president.

In making the nomination Board President Whitaker pointed out that all of his public service has been voluntary and without pay. He began serving on the Board of Education when the school district was experiencing major upheavals. He became a dedicated team member of the board and worked to bring stability to the district.

Whitaker also noted that "a major focus" of Johnson's was the improvement of conditions and instruction at Northville High School. As president of the board during the 1983-84 school year he worked for passage of the bond issue which would renovate the high school.

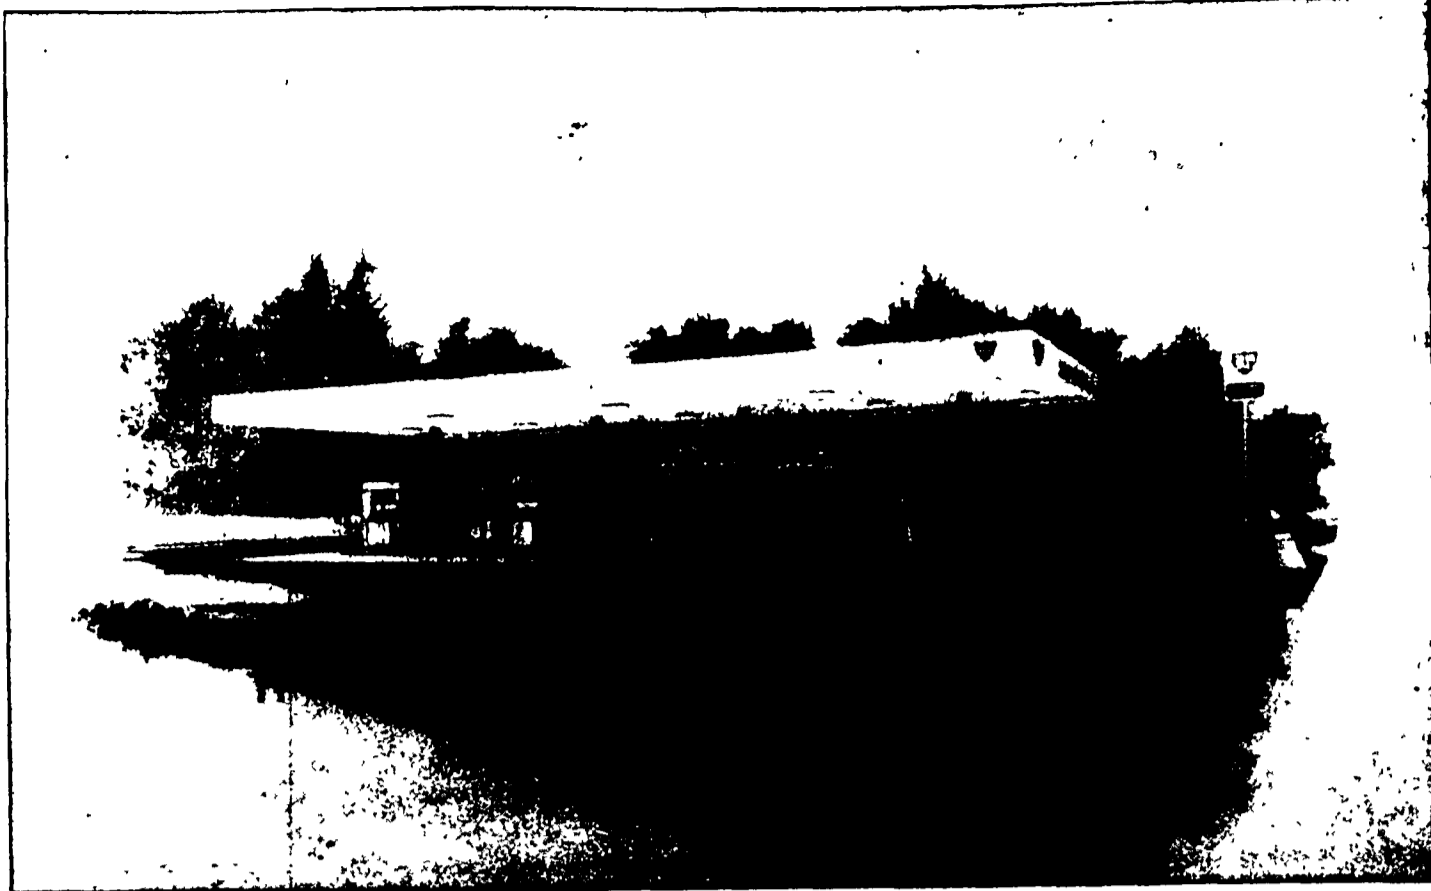

In 1982 Johnson became the second recipient of the PTA/PTSA District-wide Service Award.

In another area, Johnson's service as a member of the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police Special Committee on Jail Rules was cited. He drafted the legislation which ultimately was adopted by the state Legislature. It was a bill defining penal institutions and the role of the Michigan Department of Corrections to local lock-ups. His appointment to Michigan's local Lock-up Advisory Board as ex-officio member was in 1984 and continues to the present.

In being chosen for the local Jaycee honor, Johnson's name automatically was placed in nomination for the honor of becoming one of Michigan's Ten Outstanding Young Persons of the year. They are to be announced by the State Jaycees the end of January with the presentation to be at the Novi Hilton in February.

In stating why Chris Johnson should be selected, Whitaker wrote: "In a short span of years Chris Johnson has given his community more than most citizens give in a lifetime. This would be reason enough to recognize him."

"More significant, however, is his leadership ability. He has demonstrated and the future good he can accomplish with it. This is a young man on his way to doing important things for the public good. He has a gift for bringing people together to get things done in a way that preserves unity and places purpose above all else."

Artist's rendering of new Gas and Go station

Township planners nix station design

tion noting that the church and Kirco office building have already made plans to accommodate their position at a principal entrance to the township.

"Entrances make an important statement about the character and quality of the community. Being aware of this, the Edison substation has been relocated to a new site. With Edison's cooperation, the above ground utility poles are likely to be rerouted, at Ward and Kirco's expense, to further improve the appearance of this important corner," Abernethy wrote.

However, officials for BP Oil indicated that while they recognized the need for full service stations, they were not (at least in their Gas and Go division) in the business of providing full service gas stations.

George Stack of BP Oil told the group that the design of the station was "an attempt to present a clean

"This company can afford to put up a service station in keeping with the image of the township. It doesn't need to have a glaring eyesore."

— Donald Williams, township trustee image of the community, yet to maintain our corporate identity."

That response brought even more outrage from the commission and audience, particularly from Township Trustee Donald Williams.

"I'm just a contractor. But I'm very concerned about this station. This is the entrance to the township and yellow and green are not very pretty colors," he said.

"This company can afford to put up a service station in keeping with the image of the township. It doesn't need to have a glaring eyesore," Williams said.

Supervisor Susan Heintz, in a letter to the Boron Oil Company, expressed her "disappointment with the aesthetic character" of the proposed service station and offered to have the township serve as a test market for the company's proposed upscale brand of gasoline.

"With our anticipated growth in residential and office development and the scarcity of competing service stations in the area, you will capitalize on a very unique circumstance," Heintz wrote.

She invited representatives of Boron Oil to visit the township "so you can fully understand the purpose of the appeal."

While expressing disappointment with the plans for the service station, the planning commission did approve BP Oil's request for rezoning, changing the zoning for the facility from office to freeway service.

Currently, there is a Gas and Go facility on the southwest corner of Haggerty and Six Mile Road; however, plans by Boron Oil called for the tearing down of the current facility and the creation of a larger self-service gas station on the site.

Toni Genitti named 'Woman of the Year'

community

And the community likes her. "She seems to have time for everything and everybody," explained Jeanette Westerhaus, an employee. "She'll stop what she's doing to make Northville a better place."

But Toni Genitti said what made it possible for her to win the BPW award were the efforts of all those who work at Genitti's.

"I'm accepting the award for everybody," she declared.

John Genitti said his wife's award was most deserved.

"She could have been Woman of the Year for the last 15 years," he said.

Toni Genitti will be honored for her involvement in the community by the 45-member Northville BPW at the chapter's Nov. 24 meeting at the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth.

Toni was announced as Northville's BPW Woman of the Year award winner at the BPW fall district meeting and luncheon held Oct. 18 at Oakland Community College in Farmington Hills.

Northville BPW president Elizabeth LaMoreaux explained that the award is designed to honor business and professional women who have distinguished themselves in their careers and communities.

The award is announced during National Business Women's Week, begun in 1928 to salute the accomplishments of working women, and observed the third week in October.

The chapter, which meets the fourth Monday of each month at the Mayflower Hotel for dinner and programs designed for working women, welcomes interested visitors, president LaMoreaux noted.

Toledo trip planned

Toledo at Christmastime is being offered by Northville Community Education to all area residents interested in touring the city during the holidays.

The Dec. 5 day trip will include travel by Michigan Trailways coach. The group will tour Libby Glass, Bertram's Christmas Shop, the famous Portside Mall and the "West End" for a tour of two mansions. Lunch will be served at one of the mansions.

Participants will return home by 6 p.m. Cost of the trip is $35 per person and includes round trip transportation and lunch.

Reservations must be made by Monday, Nov. 24, with the Community Education office, 344-8447.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Sewer should wait for further review

The Nov. 1 deadline for communities to sign a service agreement to participate in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer has come and gone and, just as it was in the beginning of the project, three communities — Plymouth Township, Canton Township and Northville Township — are noticeably absent from the list of participants.

The Son of Super Sewer, as the project has come to be known, is still viable, however, as time progresses, it becomes less so. Perhaps now is as good a time as any to review the project, as well as the effects on the remaining 13 communities still on board.

Wayne County and the Department of Natural Resources have pushed to have this project approved, citing the probability of federal funding available for Phase One as well as a likelihood of federal and/or state support for the remaining two construction phases of the sewer. But the federal funding promised is not yet approved. President Ronald Reagan has not yet signed the 1986 Clean Water Act, and the 55 percent federal funds for the sewer were slated to come from that act.

Originally, Super Sewer and its offspring were needed to clean pollution in the Rouge River. It was not designed as a growth aide, but rather as a means to help reduce problems with the Rouge and to help turn that waterway into a viable, recreational river. That may still be the aim of the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley project, but it appears less likely.

When Canton Township opted out of the system, Wayne County officials and the DNR agreed that, even with Canton in the project, the township still would need to pump its storm and wastewater. The cost of the project similarly dropped to the remaining communities because Canton's share of ineligible funding requirements was high.

Northville Township, nearly a month after requesting the DNR for specific examples of where and when it exceeds its purchased flow capacity, is still waiting for an answer, five days after the deadline for communities to sign the service agreement and 24 days before the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is due to receive the grant application from Wayne County.

The Record has never taken a stand on whether the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer is a good project. Nor do we intend to do so now. We simply have not studied the project. We have not received information requested from the DNR and from Wayne County and cannot, without that information, make an assessment of the project's worth.

Ironically, the information we requested from the DNR and from the county is the same information Northville Township has been unable to obtain exactly when and where the township is over its capacity.

The 13 communities which have signed the operating agreement, including the City of Novi and the City of Northville are no longer under the deadline (which has changed numerous times) imposed by Wayne County and the DNR. And some communities, like Novi, have taken action to look once again at the alternatives to the sewer.

While the program is on hold, now would seem an ideal opportunity to have the county, the DNR and all 16 communities really look at the sewer in an objective manner. Let each community ascertain what benefits it would derive from the sewer and at what costs.

Now would be an ideal time for Wade Trim, the project's engineers, to design a sewer that would help to solve the pollution problem in the Rouge and that would be viable for any number of communities.

The current comment from the DNR, the EPA and Wayne County is that the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer would not lose its funding priority were the project to be passed over another year. In 1987, the project still would be No. 1. If federal funds are available in 1987, the same percentage would hold.

When Circuit Court Judge Sharon Teves Finch heard a suit brought by Canton Township seeking an injunction against a DNR-proposed sewer ban on the township, she did not direct either the DNR or Canton to take immediate action. That was a telling point since the judge was instrumental in forcing Van Buren Township to join the original Super Sewer.

The Governor's Office has been looking at providing loans or grants to the participating communities. There has been no specific proposal to come out of that office, even though 1986 is an election year and the Son of Super Sewer would be an ideal recipient of election year rhetoric, especially in the predominantly Republican areas of Oakland and western Wayne counties.

We urge federal, state and local agencies and governments to allow the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer to be delayed another year and to use the time available to really study the project and to propose a viable sewer, which has viable support from the local communities.

Communities, such as Novi, which are facing an immediate need for increased capacity to help growth, are already looking at alternatives. One such alternative might be another version of Super Sewer. But Novi deserves as much information as possible before making its decision.

In essence, that is all Canton, Northville and Plymouth townships are asking. The time, and the information, to make a proper decision. That's all we're asking for, too.

We'll trade with Detroit

By Anita Crone

Have we got an offer for the mayor of Detroit.

Us gun-toting, radical, racist suburbanites are willing to keep ourselves outside the City of Detroit boundaries if the Mayor of Detroit is willing to keep his unwanted prisoners inside the City of Detroit. We'll even match the mayor 5-1.

That's right. For every gun-toting suburbanite Mayor Coleman Young, his city officials, or police force discover causing problems in Detroit, we'll accept five convicted prisoners for any of our three prisons.

What we won't accept, no matter how vocal the mayor of Detroit gets in his pleadings, are any more of Detroit's unwanted prisons or juvenile detention homes.

This area has already suffered the slings and arrows from Detroit. Many of western Wayne County's current residents once made their homes in Detroit. Some of us have family still living in the city. No one forced us to move out here. We did it of our own free will, after careful thought and after saving our pennies.

That doesn't mean we don't sympathize with Detroit. No matter how far away from Detroit's borders we move, we still realize that Detroit's image is our image. We realize that we depend on Detroit for some very basic needs — water, sewer and indentity. But we do not take these items from the city. We pay for them.

Apparently, however, Detroit is working with a different currency from the suburbs. It does not have to build two regional prisons within its borders while it owns land in Northville Township. It thinks, or at least the mayor publicly states, that he can consider building his prisons on land the city owns in the township.

It can take land it currently owns, where the closed Wayne County Child Development Center now sits, and construct a juvenile detention facility. Of course, suburban taxpayers will not have the opportunity to vote on the measure. After all, if Detroit owns the land, Detroit can build on the property, providing it gets approval from the planning commissions of the involved communities.

But where is the tradeoff. What do the communities involved receive. Apparently, not much.

The suburban communities such as Northville, Plymouth, Livonia and even our neighbors in Novi, have paid their dues to the city. We continue to pay them in water and sewer charges. We go to Detroit for culture and entertainment, but no one is holding a gun to our heads and forcing us to visit Detroit. And no one should force us to pledge allegiance to the city.

I don't understand what the mayor of Detroit hopes to accomplish by baiting the suburbs. It appears he is driving suburban dollars and developers further from Detroit when he should, as the suburbs are doing, try to lure them back to their roots. Perhaps some day Mr. Young will realize that you can catch more flies with honey than with a fly swatter. Hopefully, that will happen before the suburbs swat back.

Already Canton Township has served notice that it wants no part of the City of Detroit Wastewater Treatment Plant or its excessive charges. Canton, Northville and Plymouth townships don't even want to participate in the county-lauded North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley sewer.

One of the main concerns of the three townships is that there are no guarantees that they will not be charged to renovate and update the City of Detroit plant.

Already Northville Township has had to contend with the City of Detroit fighting the township's attempt to put city land lying vacant on the township tax rolls. In fact, Detroit tried to get an injunction before the land was even taxed. That doesn't seem to be a viable way to win friends and influence people.

What we would like to see is an attempt by Detroit and the suburban communities to cooperate, to talk to one another in person, rather than through the media or through threats, and try to iron out their differences. Neither area can exist without the other, but if current efforts continue, that certainly is not the case.

Hello There!

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

It's Saturday. My day off. The day breaks cold and damp. I couldn't be happier.

"Bummer," I say, trying to sound like I mean it. Look at that rain. Looks like we can forget about doing any lawn work today."

"We're going to clean the fence by the park," she said as if she hadn't even heard me.

"Didn't we do that last week?" I asked.

"We cleaned our side of the fence last week. This week we're going to clean the other side of the fence the park side of the fence."

"You've got to be kidding," I replied. "You mean we're really going to clean Maybury State Park."

"That's right," she said firmly. "It looks like a jungle over there. It needs to be cleaned."

"But that's the way it's supposed to look," I countered. "It's a wildlife preserve. All that brush makes nice winter houses for your little bunny buddies."

"Next thing I know you'll want to landscape back there. Put in a shed for a lawnmower so we can hop the fence and keep the grass trimmed nice and low. What are we going to do if the neighbors see us? Tell them we're cleaning the park? If this gets out, we'll be the laughing stock of the neighborhood. People will say, 'There go the Jeromes. They're the ones trying to clean the state park.'"

"You about ready to go?" she asked, interrupting my monologue in mid-sentence.

"I'll be right with you, my pet," I grumbled, resigned to the fact I was going to have to clean the park. "Maybe we could start on Kensington after we finish with Maybury."

School board clarifies different salary information

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a copy of The Record of a letter to James Koster replying to a letter to the Editor in last week's Record

Dear Mr. Koster

This letter is written in response to your letter to the Editor published in The Northville Record Wednesday, Oct. 29, 1986 in which you accuse the Board of Education of "blatantly violating the public trust."

Over the course of the 1985-86 school year, due to unknown factors in the final SEV and the potential settlement in the Dearborn No. 7 School District, the salary schedule for teachers was adjusted a total of three times.

First, and the one that was erroneously printed in the paper, was the schedule based upon an estimate for the year of a 4 percent increase in SEV. The second, which you received over the telephone (the actual salary paid during the year), was based upon the final increase in SEV of 4.95 percent. The third salary schedule, resulting from the final Dearborn No. 7 agreement, was not established until the end of the 1985-86 school year.

Since the final settlement, the administration and teachers union have reached agreement upon the amount of overpayment which teachers must reimburse the district.

By the end of the current school year, teachers will have fully refunded $85,689 to finalize the 1982-85 contract. This information was sent to you along with other material regarding the settlement. The 1985-86 salary schedule range is as follows:

B.A. Minimum $17,849, Maximum $30,955;

M.A. Minimum $19,658, Maximum $36,783.

The amounts printed in the Annual Report were incorrectly taken from the interim settlement instead of the final adjusted contract. The error was not perpetrated by the Board of Education. It was mine, and I accept responsibility for it. I regret any inconvenience it may have caused you.

As a former school business official, you are certainly aware that the SEV of any municipality or school district varies during the year because of adjustments made through Tax Tribunal actions.

A call to the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation once a week could result in a different number for each inquiry. The $331,442, 798 figure in the Annual Report is the certified SEV of the School District as provided by the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation. A copy of the letter from the Bureau establishing the figure printed in The Record is attached.

The figure listed in the Annual Report is correct and is intended to be used for district purposes throughout the year. The fact that the amount represents an increase over the previous school year of more than 7 percent means that it would have absolutely no impact on our SEV based salary schedule regardless of fluctuations.

Your allegation that the Northville Board of Education has violated the public trust is unfortunate when it is clear you fully understand that the SEV certified at the beginning of a school year varies with Tax Tribunal actions.

At an earlier meeting when three administrators and two board members met with you to help you sort out the figures of another contract settlement, you mentioned that analyzing contracts was your "hobby." I am pleased to provide you with materials for your hobby; however, I must remind you that my first responsibility is to manage the Northville School system. I appreciate your concern for the Northville Schools, Mr. Koster, and I assure you we will do everything possible to answer reasonable questions.

Sincerely,
George R. Bell
Superintendent

Copy of the letter from the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation dated July 25, 1985, to the secretary of the

Northville Board of Education

You are required by law, on or before Sept. 15 or within 10 days after the annual meeting, if held in September, to notify the township or city clerk of each township and city in which your school district is located in the amount of school tax voted by your board to be raised for the year 1985. (Sec. 564 of Act No. 269, Public Acts of 1955, School Code, as last amended by Act 75 of the Public Acts of 1979 (M.S.A. 15.41213))

Enclosed is a form of resolution to be passed by your board and to be kept on file in your office. Also enclosed are copies of this resolution to be filled out and mailed to the township or city clerk whose name appears as addressee on the attached transmittal letter.

To avoid confusion and mistakes the resolution should show both the amount of tax levied and the rate of tax applied to the state equalized value. The maximum allocated tax rate for your district has been fixed by the County Tax Allocation Board. The current total State Equalized Value of your district is $321,442,798.

The tax levy shown in the first paragraph of the resolution should include not only the tax levied within the millage allocated by the County Tax Allocation Board but also all voted levied, whether for operating purposes, building fund or debt retirement.

This matter should be attended to at your earliest convenience.

Decisions to live with

By Michele M. Fecht

The good news about Election '86 is that it's over.

Having been inundated these past few weeks with a blitz of political news from various media sources, I suspect there are other voters out there also breathing a sigh of relief.

For readers who have been following coverage of this year's election in The Record, there has probably been some question as to whether there was anything else going on in Northville during the past month. We've devoted a lot of newspaper space to interviews with candidates. Some would probably argue too much space.

One of the difficulties we've had in covering this election (and if coverage in other papers is any indication, they've had similar problems) is trying to keep a handle on the issues and races facing voters.

As the local newspaper, we gave priority to those races in our district such as county commission, state senate, state house and U.S. Congress. Having been criticized in the primary for not providing information about county circuit court candidates, we also included that race in our general election coverage along with information about the statewide ballot proposals.

Having sat through countless interviews and transcribed enough tape to fill a garbage can, I believe we offered voters ample information about districtwide issues and candidates to make an intelligent choice at the polls. Unfortunately, Northville voters were asked to decide much more than whether the county should eliminate the office of drain commissioner.

Voters were faced with choosing an Attorney General, two Supreme Court judges, two State Board of Education trustees and two appointees to the University of Michigan Board of Regents, the Michigan State University Board of Trustees and the Wayne State University Board of Governors.

We didn't cover any of those races and, frankly, I didn't see enough coverage in other newspapers to give me the information I needed to make an intelligent choice at the polls. While I hate to admit it, I chose the candidate with the name recognition or the one who received the endorsements of other newspapers and organizations.

Though I've never been much of a political animal, I've always felt fairly sure of myself when heading into the voting booth. That was true up until yesterday. As the curtain closed behind me, I couldn't help but think how easy it would be to vote the party ticket.

I'm sure other voters had similar frustrations. How can voters be certain they are electing the most qualified candidate—not the one with the heftiest campaign purse or their party's support (which usually is one in the same)?

The money spent during election years is appalling as is the amount of time candidates spend getting re-elected when they should be attempting to meet the needs of their constituents.

There is good reason why they call this the silly season. Unfortunately, the electorate is forced to live with its decision (right or wrong) until the next campaign rolls around.

Reception merits repeating

To the Editor

On Sunday, Nov. 2, the Northville Arts Commission held a reception for Northville Area Artists. The artists enjoyed meeting one another, and, of course, the commissioners enjoyed meeting the artists.

Those artists in attendance were: Helen Zelinska, Kathleen Leo, Lynn Paquette, Jane Martin, Caroline Dunphy, Roy Petersen, Margaret Coponen, Linda Ord, Salma Zarou (accompanied by her sister Ferial), Martha Barnes, Dorothea Shafer, Susan Cutting, Jo Krause (accompanied by her husband Warner), Dorothy Robe and Linda Rigdon.

This event was so successful we hope to repeat it soon.

Northville firm expands in new direction

Reef Mfg. breaks ground with calibration company

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville manufacturer, inventor and community benefactor Jan Reef died a year and a half ago, but the company he founded, Reef Manufacturing, continues to grow.

On Nov. 1, Reef's widow Nelly was on hand for the ribbon-cutting ceremony marking the grand opening of the Reef Calibration Service. The new service is a stab at diversifying the already successful and highly respected gauge manufacturing business.

Reef's daughter Marge Cinader, one of the major supporters behind the expansion along with plant manager Mike Bishop, said her father would have been very supportive of the new service and that's one of the reasons the company has pursued the idea.

"He would have just loved it," she said. "He was in the inventing end of the business and never even mentioned anything about calibration, but if he were here today, he'd be in glory over all this."

Jan Reef, a native of the Netherlands, launched the Northville business in 1941, and ever since the company has manufactured the Reef gauge. The gauge is designed to measure the accuracy of materials used and manufactured by numerous industries, including the automotive and aircraft industries.

"The new calibration service is separate from the gauges, but it's all related," Cinader reported. "We just wanted to diversify and add to the gauging."

According to Bishop, who is in charge of the new service, the calibration can measure the accuracy of materials to the millionth of an inch. It has much more sophisticated measurement capabilities than the gauges.

"We plan to do dimensional calibration," Bishop explained. "It's the same field as the gauges, but a different area."

Bishop was certified in the Navy as a calibration specialist, and it was through coaxing from him that the board of directors at Reef decided to take his suggestion and expand the business.

"I was a laboratory technician in the Navy and, when I got out, I tried to find a job in the calibration area but the jobs were few and far between. I knew we had space in the warehouse and so I began talking with Marge (Cinader) about the possibilities. Before I knew it, it was materialized."

Cinader pointed out that an area of the existing warehouse wasn't being used, so it has been converted into a laboratory to handle the new service. As a result, no addition to the existing

DR. KENNETH D. POSS, foot specialist, has announced the association of Dr. Randy H. Bernstein into his practice of podiatric medicine and surgery.

Dr. Bernstein is a surgical staff member at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills, North Detroit General Hospital of Detroit and Milton Community Hospital in River Rouge. He finished his surgical residence from Brent General Hospital in 1985 following graduation from the Ohio College of Podiatric Medicine.

Dr. Bernstein will be assisting Dr. Poss in treating such foot and ankle problems as bunions, in-grown nails, warts, calluses, foot and ankle trauma, and sports medicine injuries.

Both doctors also are certified in laser surgery and will be working at all four Foot Health Centers. The centers are located at 41630 West Ten Mile in Novi, 311 Center Street in Northville, 30931 West Seven Mile in Livonia and 14500 West McNichols Road in Detroit.

Both doctors will be providing 24-hour emergency coverage seven days a week. Night hours also are available.

CORR-PACK, INC. of Northville has been named by the Burroughs Corporation as one of its top Michigan suppliers for 1985.

Corr-Pack supplies the computer manufacturer with corrugated containers for Burroughs' hardware and software products.

AMOS STACKHOUSE of Northville accepts Ford Parts and Service Division's 1986 Service Engineering Office Technical Award from General Manager Joe Kordick.

Stackhouse, an engineer in the Advanced Service Engineering Department at Ford's Service Research Center in Dearborn, was recognized for developing a body collision repair manual for the 1986 Ford Taurus and Mercury Sable. The manual is available to the nation's 55,000 independent body shops, including 2,500 Ford and Lincoln-Mercury dealerships.

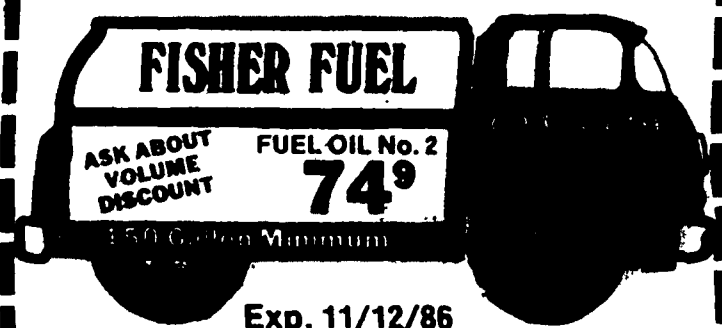

Stackhouse is a 1957 graduate of the University of California at Berkeley where he earned a degree in electrical engineering. He and his wife, Marian, make their home in Highland Lakes in Northville.

THE NORTHVILLE KINDER-CARE Learning Center was the recipient of the Kinder-Care Learning Centers, Inc. "Best of Care Award 1986" for the district. The Northville center is located at 20675 Silver Springs Drive.

"Best of Care" awards are presented at the district, regional and corporate levels to centers that have excelled in meeting requirements set forth by corporate offices. The award certifies excellence in the field of child care as it relates to programs for children, staff and the general level of child care provided.

The award was presented to Jackie Schubert, director of the Northville facility, by Area Manager Robin Johnson. Thirteen centers took part locally for the district award. Kinder-Care Learning Centers, Inc., has been in operation since 1969 and currently has over 1,100 centers in the U.S. and Canada.

Tips for investing in the stock market

Some people know when to make a move in the stock market by the position of the planets. Others depend on intuition.

For those who would rather give common sense a try, the Michigan Association of CPAs recommends some simple guidelines that can give you a winning advantage on Wall Street.

Don't invest more than you can afford to lose. CPAs remind you to keep enough money aside to meet your everyday needs as well as emergencies. Picking a winning stock won't help you if you are forced to sell before its price goes up.

How much money to invest in the stock market depends on your financial situation, the nature of your other investments, your investment strategy and several other factors. Whatever you invest, to be safe, first build a financial base by putting your money into low-risk stocks. Then move on to growth, aggressive growth and speculative stocks only when you feel comfortable doing so.

Be sure to set some goals. Do you want to invest for short-term profit or long-term appreciation? Once you decide, buy only those stocks that fit your strategy.

Don't hold on to losers. No one can invest without running into at least some disappointing deals. The trick is to cut your losses by getting out before you lose too much money. Many investors find this hard to do. After all, no one likes to take a loss, much less admit they picked a sour investment. Others become attached to a favorite stock and won't sell it. Remember, if a stock loses half its value, its price will have to double for you to break even.

Diversify. One basic rule for gaining in the stock market is to diversify your holdings. Too many investments of different types, however, can be difficult to track. A good mutual fund is one recognized way to diversify.

Look to the future. Looking only at a stock's history is not the best way to measure future performance. You may find a clue in the past, but the business and economic forces the company faces in the next few years could hold much of the stock's fate. So take the time to consider what lies ahead. By the same token, don't wait until it is too late to make a purchase.

Don't take tips. Rumors abound in investment circles as individuals hunt for those rare deals that will double or triple their money. The serious investor is not apt to act on questionable advice.

Be patient. While some investors are slow to sell, others are too quick to unload. Even the best investments need time to pay off. Don't panic or react too quickly to adverse news unless it reflects serious problems at the company and in its industry. The company may very well survive bad headlines.

Be realistic. If you are prudent, your goal will not be to make a lot of money in a short period of time. Those great buys that produce hefty overnight profits are rare. Better to follow your strategy closely, be patient and enjoy the profits when they come.

Find a stockbroker you can trust. The personal chemistry between you and your broker, and subsequently how easy it is to communicate, can make the difference between success and failure. Find one who listens and understands your goals.

Buy what you know. Many people fail to tap their own expertise and knowledge when choosing stocks. If, for example, you are involved in the publishing industry and know all about the industry's problems and opportunities, don't buy stocks in the food industry where you may have less practical knowledge. If you are a regular customer at a large company, you may already know enough about the company to evaluate the prospects for its securities.

Purchased wisely, stocks can be an important part of your financial plan. But choosing the winners is not easy. It will help to follow a clear strategy and make careful choices. It is also important to choose a good financial planning team. A CPA can help you analyze the tax effects of taking a gain or loss and can help you with your overall financial plan.

Women entrepreneurs to get help from state

Women entrepreneurs will have better access to state services, government contracts and capital under changes in the Michigan Commerce Department, according to Director Doug Ross.

Ross announced the expansion of the department's Office of Women Business Owners (OWBO) when he addressed the National Association of Women Business Owners in Southfield.

"Earlier this year," Ross said, "the Commerce Department sponsored two meetings with women business owners throughout the state, during which they expressed concerns about the need for increased access to economic development opportunities in Michigan."

"In response to this need, we have initiated the expansion of services available through our Office of Women Business Owners," said Ross.

The expanded state program will include:

Establishing a toll-free hotline (800-831-9090) through which business information and assistance will be provided.

Providing procurement assistance for state and federal contracts by helping women business owners meet certification required to secure government contracts, and to provide notification when those contracts are available.

Providing service and training through community economic development networks, such as Community Growth Alliances and Small Business Centers across the state.

The state also will hold annual procurement trade fairs with women business owners and state purchasing agents.

Ross said seven new staff positions have been created, bringing the total number of OWBO staff persons to nine.

Because women business owners are concentrated in retail and services firms, they often lack the hard assets that banks traditionally require for collateral for loans, Ross said.

The program will help to reduce these difficulties by offering financial advice and counseling services to help package loan requests for public or private sources.

Governor James Blanchard created OWBO in 1983, making the Commerce Department office one of only two state-run programs in the country devoted exclusively to women entrepreneurs.

As of 1985, Michigan women business owners ranked in the top five states for having the most owned businesses.

Existing home sales still exceed 1985 levels

While slipping below the pace of a month earlier, area existing home sales in September continued well ahead of those in 1985, according to a report from Metro MLS.

The state's largest multiple listing service recorded sales of 1,397 detached homes and 85 condominiums by its members during the month. The 1,482 total was down from 1,562 in August, but above the 1,388 total of a year ago.

New listings, which last month were at their lowest point since February, remain a concern," said Metro MLS President Joanne R

Bryngelson. "Strong sales by our members through the past two years have cut sharply into the housing stock built up during the recessionary period. With a reduced number of new listings now appearing, our sales-to-listing ratio in September was up nearly 25 percent above the preceding year."

She noted that one of the first shortages to appear may be homes in the higher price ranges.

"Our members have sold 2,535 homes so far this year with prices above $100,000, including 274 that went for $200,000 or more," she said.

"The $100,000-and-up total for all of last year was only 1,953."

She noted that a dip in sales helped bring the average Metro MLS sales price for September down to $65,715 from the $75,691 reported in August. The average sales price through September last year was about 10 percent lower at $62,360.

"While property values have been appreciating, we don't think they have really approached the 10 percent level yet," Bryngelson said. "Our average has been distorted by the sale of so many more higher priced homes this year. We don't want either buyers or sellers to have false expectations of today's market."

"Listings are down, but there is still a good selection of homes available in most of the communities."

Metro MLS membership is concentrated in Western Wayne and major portions of Oakland and Livingston counties. Their total sales in the first three quarters of this year reached 15,304 units or 9.6 percent above the same period in 1985.

Reef Mfg. expanding

plant located on Seven Mile in Northville Township was necessary.

"We had the area so we figured, why not use it," Cinader said. "We constructed the laboratory within the building and had to purchase new machinery so the investment was substantial. But judging from what I've seen from other companies (who provide the same service), I'm quite sure it will all pay off. We are very optimistic."

Reef Manufacturing sent out a brochure to potential customers about the new calibration service in September and a company catalog went out in October. One of the reasons for the optimism has been the great response already.

"We have customers who couldn't wait," Cinader said. "We started with the new service about the second week in October, but we hadn't planned to start until November. We've already had work in and gone."

For Bishop, the early response has been both rewarding and hectic. "It's been great — the work is already piling up," he said. "We are getting a lot of work from companies we've dealt with before and also from others we've never done business with."

"I hope to see it surpass the gauging some day. I hope it grows immensely to where I have to almost sleep here."

ROOT FOR THE UNDERDOG.

Hurt, alone, unwanted. They are the victims of tragic accidents or intentional cruelty. Unfortunately, the Michigan Humane Society handles scores of these sad cases daily, receiving hundreds of calls reporting animals in distress. Our rescue vans are on the road thirteen hours a day, seven days a week. But our goal is around-the-clock vigilance. These rescue efforts and medical attention take money. More than we have. Won't you please help these underdogs? They deserve a fighting chance.

Give to the Michigan Humane Society.

COPS & GUNS

Revolver is a necessary but seldom-used tool of the trade

Art/page design by JEFFREY LAFINSKI

"You're a big man when you've got that gun."

It's a phrase police officers don't hear very often ... and hear too often.

"It sort of gets under your skin when somebody says something like that," commented one local police officer recently. "It's like they're challenging you."

"They don't understand the role of a gun in police work. They don't understand that the last thing a cop wants to do is have to take that gun out of its holsters."

"Some people have the impression police are gun happy ... that they get a kick out of carrying that gun around on their hips all day. But that's simply not the case. In fact, the opposite is true."

"The basic rule is that you only take the gun out of its holster to protect your own life or to protect somebody else's life."

"Plus, whenever you take the gun out of the holster, you're prepared to use it. It's sort of a last resort."

How often do local law enforcement officers use their guns? Have they ever been shot at? Have they ever shot at someone else? What is the role of the gun in police work?

We decided to ask four local police officers those questions and others. Officers were selected at random from the Novi, Northville and Northville Township police departments as well as the Michigan State Police Post in Northville. No effort was made to seek out officers who may have been involved in shooting incidents at one time or another during their careers.

The following story is comprised of the answers we received when we asked cops to talk about their guns:

LT. ROBERT STARNES
Novi Police Department

Bob Starnes has been an officer with the Novi Police Department more than 20 years. He currently serves as commander of the road patrol.

"Honestly, I don't recall any of our officers ... wait, I have to retract a little of that. We use our guns when responding to B&E alarms or B&Es in progress. We'll use them for that. But as far as pointing them at somebody, it's strictly taboo."

"The only time our officers use their guns is at the (shooting) range, and even there it's strictly, strictly supervised."

"I just don't recall a time that any of our officers have ever used their guns in the line of ... No, there was an incident several years ago. Remember the hold-up at the bank on Novi Road near Twelve Oaks? The robber was holding the bank manager hostage. Several officers responded to the call — McGregor, Jelly. And Jelly had his opportunity to fire off a shot and he took it."

"As soon as he fired, the robber threw his gun to the ground and gave up. Released the manager. He apparently didn't expect the officer to shoot."

"That was a case where it was totally justified. Bank robbery, Federal offense. Citizen held captive. Clearly shot."

"There was a big embankment behind the robber and the hostage. The only place the bullet could have gone was into the embankment. The one shot the officer took was sufficient to do the job and end the crisis. I'm sure he (the robber) heard the bullet going by him."

"We would never even consider shooting a gun if the bullet might hit an bystander. We don't even fire warning shots. Whenever you shoot your gun, the bullet has to go somewhere. If you shoot a round into the air, it's going to come down some place. Even when you shoot at the ground, there's a chance the bullet could hit a rock and ricochet."

"T.V. hypes things up so much. In a one-hour T.V. show, it seems like Don Johnson fires off several hundred rounds. Many officers go through their entire careers without ever firing a shot in the line of duty ... many without ever taking the gun out of their holsters."

"There's absolutely no horseplay with a gun. Never. You'll never see an officer practicing quick draws. As the commanding officer, if I walk into the squad room and see horseplay with a gun ... the officer will be immediately suspended. Guns are dangerous."

"You have to understand police. A gun is nothing more to a police officer than a hammer is to a carpenter. It's a tool of the trade. It's like building a house, you can't do your job without it. At the end of the day, he puts his gun away just like the carpenter puts away his hammer."

"I personally have had my gun out of its holster only once in the line of duty. A few years ago we had a call about some kids ... not kids, people in their early 20s ... trying to cash in some money at the Novi Road Big Boy. And they had a gun. I was in a one-man unit and drove over behind the restaurant — and there they were. There was a guy standing there with a gun."

"Obviously, my first thought was to disarm him. I pulled my gun out for a grand total of maybe five seconds. Just long enough to get his gun. Then mine went right back in the holster."

"That's the safest place for it."

SGT. GARY CALLENDER
Northville Police Department

Gary Callender has been an officer with the Northville Police Department for 12 years.

"I've drawn my gun on many occasions. I think all our officers have because you don't know what type of situation you are going to get into, especially on bank alarms or B&Es in progress. Certain instances it's only intelligent to pull the weapon prior to going in, but I've never shot at anyone."

"I've only been shot at once. The call came in to back up Novi police. There was a mental patient with a gun in the woods. I was walking on the railroad tracks on Novi Road, just north of Eight Mile, and the guy took a shot at me. It whizzed by my head. He popped up and threw the gun down so there was obviously no need to neutralize him."

"There wasn't a whole lot I could do to him because his story was that he was shooting at a rabbit and the bullet ricocheted off the creek by my head."

"That was the only time, but once is enough. I spent 13 months in Vietnam so I know what a round sounds like when it goes by your head."

"Sometimes pointing the gun at somebody is an absolute necessity, but we never have it in a cocked position. We train this so there are no accidental misfires. I won't point it at anyone unless I have reason to use lethal force."

"I am a firearms range instructor, and I think work at the range is great. We do night-fire, we do day-fire, we do on-duty, off-duty, shotgun, rifle — whatever weapons we have in this department we train each officer."

"To our department and most others, warning shots are prohibited. The problem with it is if you shoot a warning shot up in the air it has to come down somewhere and, with policemen's luck, it's going to wind up in somebody's head."

"About one percent of what you see on T.V. is maybe true. The best T.V. show was probably Barney Miller. Contrary to popular belief, it's not all glamor. We go on some really ugly rounds like accident runs, death runs, things like that. On T.V., they are involved in a shooting and back on the streets in 10 minutes. In reality, when you shoot at somebody and hit them, you are automatically, without any questions, suspended. They have to have a full investigation before you are cleared."

"One of the craziest shows I ever saw was Adam 12 — they were involved in two or three shootings, a couple of breakings and enterings in progress and an armed robbery, all in a half-hour. But if television actually showed what police work is like, you'd be bored. Nobody would watch it."

"Having a gun is a necessity due to the fact I don't know if the 'bad guy's' got one. If I knew they didn't have one, I wouldn't wear one."

SGT. JOHN SHERMAN
Northville Township Police

Sgt. John Sherman has been an officer with the Northville Township police department for 10 1/2 years. He currently is in charge of firearms training for the department, officer-in-charge of the special operations team (SOT) and coordinator of the reserve officers training program.

"It would be extremely regrettable if a police officer killed someone with his weapon, but when an officer pulls his firearm, he is doing nothing more than taking the final step toward stopping an aggressive action."

"I have never shot anyone, but I have pulled my firearm — a department-issued Smith and Wesson Model 65 — on a number of occasions."

Fall benefits offer wine and champagne

By JEAN DAY

Want to taste "unknown" wines of the world, sip champagne while viewing fall fashions, or swap a too small pair of skates for skis?

It is all possible at upcoming events planned by local organizations during the next 10 days.

Historical Society hosts fourth wine tasting

Northville Historical Society members and prospective new members are invited to learn about the wines of Australia, Cyprus, Argentina, Algeria, Canada and Eastern Europe at a Fourth Annual Wine Tasting at 8 p.m. this Friday at the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village.

Those attending are asked to bring wine glasses and a "creative" hors d'oeuvre. Reservations are $10 a person and should be made with Sally Henrikson, Mill Race secretary, 348-1845. The program is being presented by society member Dennis Cassady.

The historical society has become known as one of the best ways for newcomers to the community to become acquainted with its residents and its past. While reservations are limited to 100 in the historic church building, there still are some available, sponsors report.

"From Rags to Riches" show's at V.F.W.

"From Rags to Riches" fashion extravaganza is planned by the Auxiliary of Northville V.F.W. Post 4012 at the post home at 438 S. Main for 1 p.m. Sunday. A fund raiser for the post building maintenance fund, the event is full of "riches," promises chair Kerry Bogater. These include champagne, luncheon and door prizes.

The fashions will be presented by Northville resident and auxiliary member Peg Hoag and are from her Canton store.

Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door, but the auxiliary would appreciate advance reservations. Call 476-0672 or 348-1490. Everyone is welcome. It's a good opportunity for newcomers to get to know the post auxiliary members.

Popular ski-skate sale and swap's Nov. 15

The annual Ski-Skate Sale sponsored by Northville Mothers' Club will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, at Meads Mill Middle School cafeteria. The school is located off Six Mile near Bradner.

Sports items to sell can be brought to the school from 4-7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 14, and from 8-9 a.m. Nov. 15. Proceeds from the sale (the club collects 15 percent of the sale price) go to the club's general fund for school projects in Northville, Sue Todd, this year's chair, explains. Co-chair is Jacque Payne.

High bidders will get AAUW crafts

AAUW workers Ann Newton, left, and Ann Thompson put finishing touches on auction items.

A gingerbread church, baskets, dried flower arrangements and the AAUW's own well-known packaged soup mixture will be sold or up for bids at the annual craft and baked goods auction of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Amerman Elementary School library located on Center just north of Eight Mile.

The public is invited to participate in this popular event.

Proceeds from the auction again will be used for two scholarships awarded to Northville High School graduates.

Auction chair Ann Newton reports that the sale of crafts and baked goods will begin at 7 p.m.

The auction will start at 7:30 p.m. She adds that last year's spirited auctioneers, Chris Johnson and Norm Frankel, are returning by popular demand.

Most items for sale are made or donated by AAUW members. There also will be several gifts donated by local merchants. An interesting array will be available, Newton promises, noting that many are suitable for Christmas gifts.

Featured articles include baskets handmade by Jean Hansen and gingerbread houses "engineered" by Peg O'Doherty. Other favorites are dried flower arrangements, decorative boxes filled with pot-pourri, peppermint candy wreaths and tin punch Christmas tree ornaments.

With the AAUW's packaged soup mixture will come a booklet prepared by Yvonne Stephens, director of food services for the Northville schools, describing its ingredients and nutritional content. Guests at past auctions, Newton relates, have found this is a welcome small gift for teachers, neighbors and holiday hostesses.

Also popular at the sale are the homemade breads, cookies, jams and other food items which can save purchasers time in their own kitchens.

All women in the community are welcome to attend the fun event which has become a local highlight of the start of the holiday season.

Women interested in joining AAUW may call membership vice-president Ann Newton, 348-7584.

Fall benefits offer wine and champagne

By JEAN DAY

Want to taste "unknown" wines of the world, sip champagne while viewing fall fashions, or swap a too small pair of skates for skis?

It is all possible at upcoming events planned by local organizations during the next 10 days.

Historical Society hosts fourth wine tasting

Northville Historical Society members and prospective new members are invited to learn about the wines of Australia, Cyprus, Argentina, Algeria, Canada and Eastern Europe at a Fourth Annual Wine Tasting at 8 p.m. this Friday at the New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village.

Those attending are asked to bring wine glasses and a "creative" hors d'oeuvre. Reservations are $10 a person and should be made with Sally Henrikson, Mill Race secretary, 348-1845. The program is being presented by society member Dennis Cassidy.

The historical society has become known as one of the best ways for newcomers to the community to become acquainted with its residents and its past. While reservations are limited to 100 in the historic church building, there still are some available, sponsors report.

"From Rags to Riches" show's at V.F.W.

"From Rags to Riches" fashion extravaganza is planned by the Auxiliary of Northville V F W Post 4012 at the post home at 438 S. Main for 1 p.m. Sunday. A fund raiser for the post building maintenance fund, the event is full of "riches," promises chair Kerry Bogater. These include champagne, luncheon and door prizes.

The fashions will be presented by Northville resident and auxiliary member Peg Hoag and are from her Canton store.

Tickets are $10 and will be available at the door, but the auxiliary would appreciate advance reservations. Call 476-0672 or 348-1490. Everyone is welcome. It's a good opportunity for newcomers to get to know the post auxiliary members.

Popular ski-skate sale and swap's Nov. 15

The annual Ski-Skate Sale sponsored by Northville Mothers' Club will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 15, at Meads Mill Middle School cafeteria. The school is located off Six Mile near Bradner.

Sports items to sell can be brought to the school from 4-7 p.m. Friday, Nov. 14, and from 8-9 a.m. Nov. 15. Proceeds from the sale (the club collects 15 percent of the sale price) go to the club's general fund for school projects in Northville, Sue Todd, this year's chair, explains. Co-chair is Jacque Payne.

High bidders will get AAUW crafts

AAUW workers Ann Newton, left, and Ann Thompson put finishing touches on auction items.

A gingerbread church, baskets, dried flower arrangements and the AAUW's own well-known packaged soup mixture will be sold or up for bids at the annual craft and baked goods auction of the Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women beginning at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Amerman Elementary School library located on Center just north of Eight Mile.

The public is invited to participate in this popular event.

Proceeds from the auction again will be used for two scholarships awarded to Northville High School graduates.

Auction chair Ann Newton reports that the sale of crafts and baked goods will begin at 7 p.m.

The auction will start at 7:30 p.m. She adds that last year's spirited auctioneers, Chris Johnson and Norm Frankel, are returning by popular demand.

Most items for sale are made or donated by AAUW members. There also will be several gifts donated by local merchants. An interesting array will be available, Newton promises, noting that many are suitable for Christmas gifts.

Featured articles include baskets handmade by Jean Hansen and gingerbread houses "engineered" by Peg O'Doherty. Other favorites are dried flower arrangements, decorative boxes filled with pot-pourri, peppermint candy wreaths and tin punch Christmas tree ornaments.

With the AAUW's packaged soup mixture will come a booklet prepared by Yvonne Stephens, director of food services for the Northville schools, describing its ingredients and nutritional content. Guests at past auctions, Newton relates, have found this is a welcome small gift for teachers, neighbors and holiday hostesses.

Also popular at the sale are the homemade breads, cookies, jams and other food items which can save purchasers time in their own kitchens.

All women in the community are welcome to attend the fun event which has become a local highlight of the start of the holiday season.

Women interested in joining AAUW may call membership vice-president Ann Newton, 348-7994.

Guns: Just a tool of the police trade

Sgt. John Sherman
Northville Township Police

You pull the firearm any time the threat is there. I will pull it out during a holdup alarm in progress, a breaking-and-entering in progress or similar life-threatening situation. But I have never fired it, and neither, as far as I know, has any Northville Township officer.

"There is no comparison between what someone sees on television and the reality of seeing a gunshot wound. Television does a great injustice to police work. It distorts the reality of law enforcement and the severity of what happens when someone is shot by a gun.

"On television, someone takes out his gun and fires to wound someone from 150 feet away and the television character does exactly what he intends to do. In reality, there is no way you're going to hit someone from that distance, except by accident.

"As a police officer, I've had numerous opportunities to observe the horrible effects of a gunshot wound and I know how horrible it is.

"I look at my gun as a means to protect my life, the life of a fellow officer or a citizen. When you become a police officer, you take an oath to protect and serve, and the firearm is a means of protecting.

"When I was issued my firearm, it added responsibility to my position. I think it weighs about 2½ to 3 pounds, but sometimes it feels like it weighs a ton. I do check it every day to make sure it's functional, but I don't show off with it. It is a responsibility to carry a firearm and I think every officer handles it properly. We do weed out the cowboys.

"I remember one time, when I thought I might really have to shoot someone. I had stopped a vehicle for running a red light and the car pulled over. When I got up to the car, the man in it was fumbling with a key to his glove box — legally, we call it a furtive movement.

"I told him to stop and he didn't. So I knocked on his window with my flashlight, still telling him to stop. He kept right on trying to unlock the box. I was still outside the car and he finally got the box open. As it fell open, I saw the steel of a gun and the man in the car reaching toward it.

"I thought right then about displaying my firearm — by this time I had my hand on it, but it was still in the holster — but I knew that I still would have been able to display it without him having time to fire. He reached over the gun and got out his registration. I wrote him for carrying a concealed weapon since the gun wasn't registered.

"That's an example of where training comes in and how important it is."

TROOPER
Charles Schumacher
Michigan State Police

Charles Schumacher has been a trooper with the Michigan State Police since 1979. He currently is in charge of public information for the Northville Post.

"Painters have paint brushes, carpenters have hammers and police officers have guns. I've been a trooper since 1979 and I've drawn my gun, a 38-caliber Smith and Wesson six-shot revolver Model 10, less than 10 times.

"Troopers have very strict rules about when we can draw our weapons, but once it is drawn, I know that I fully intend to use it. Under Official Order 71, issued in March of 1984, troopers may only display their guns under the following situations:

"Murder or its attempt, armed robbery or its attempt, arson, criminal sexual contact, felonious assault or kidnapping. And if a trooper does fire the firearm, there is a very stringent review process — first by the post commander, then by Lansing (headquarters) and then by a prosecutor.

"But I know that when I am in a situation, I'm the one who's bringing the weapon to the situation in some cases. The only weapon there may be the one I'm wearing.

"Even though I've seldom drawn my gun, when I have drawn it, I'm not thinking about what can happen. I'm thinking about the situation and what I've been trained to do.

"That's one of the reasons I'm glad our firearms training has been improved. We used to train where we were taught to stand up, take aim and fire. Now, we've got speed loading, shooting in all kinds of lighting situations and from all positions.

"When you're in a situation when you have to display your weapon, you're not going to be necessarily standing up and taking aim.

"Under our regulations, we are supposed to carry our guns at all times. I take mine home with me, but I have small children and I'm very careful about where I put it.

Pain Relief
Pain is one of the experiences of life that all of us share. Yet, for reasons that are not completely clear, individuals react differently to the same pain levels.
Pain is often classified as being either acute or chronic. Acute pain tends to occur unexpectedly and for short periods of time. Causes include problems such as toothache, insect stings, and trauma. Chronic pain, on the other hand, may continue for weeks, months, and even years. Chronic pain may be due to arthritis, cancer, and a variety of neurological problems including sciatica.
Severe pain may be either acute or chronic in nature and often requires the use of the prescription narcotic medicines for relief. Mild to moderate pain, however, can often be relieved with the products available without prescription from your pharmacist. Most of the non-prescription pain relievers contain aspirin, an aspirin derivative, acetaminophen or ibuprofen. All have been proven to be effective pain relievers in hundreds of clinical tests. These products containing these medicines can be purchased without prescription as an indication of safety. Ask us for the recommendation of an effective and relatively safe product.

Cookbook debuts at holiday bazaar of church Saturday

"Our Favorite Things," a 260-page cookbook compiled by the Women's Service Club of Meadowbrook Congregational Church, will be among the items sold at the Visions of Christmas Bazaar this Saturday at the church.

The cookbook is the club's first publishing effort, according to committee chairperson Linda Jo Hare. She noted that proceeds from the sale of the book will go toward equipping the church kitchen.

Recipes were contributed by the 25-member service group and friends and cover the gamut from appetizers and brunch to candy and desserts.

"One of the things we tried to do was make this more than just a collection of recipes," Hare noted. "We tried to add a touch of humor, a touch of whimsy."

Hare's recipe for Elephant Stew, a bathtub dish serving 2,157, is an example of the cookbook's lighter side.

"With my last name being Hare, I just couldn't resist adding this one," she said.

The cookbook, at $9 per copy, currently is available at the church office at 21355 Meadowbrook Road. However, Hare said the club expects the bulk of its sales to come during its "Visions of Christmas" Bazaar.

Scheduled from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, the bazaar will include a Parson's Attic, featuring quality used items; a Christmas Booth displaying holiday decorations and wreaths; and a Country Kitchen featuring baked goods and canned jellies, jams, preserves and homemade candies.

A Kiddie Korner will offer Christmas shopping by featuring gifts for parents, brothers and sisters — all at children's prices.

The Men's Fellowship Group also will be taking orders for Christmas greens.

In addition to the cookbook and bazaar, the Meadowbrook Women's Service Club also sponsors two rummage sales, a plant and bake sale and a Christmas family workshop.

The Northville Record

Northville drops 12-7 cliffhanger to Novi

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Mustang rally ends on last play of the game

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Friday's gridiron clash between Novi and Northville was a good example of why high school football is so great.

The heart-pounding 12-7 Novi win was decided on a game's final play, climaxing a contest that carried all the ups and downs, struggles, heroics and emotions of most great athletic events.

Northville, with just two wins this season, was the definite underdog and had nothing to lose. Coach Darrel Schumacher's squad was ready and played its best game of the season, fighting valiantly all evening and gaining a lot of respect along the way.

Novi, at 7-1 the clear favorite, didn't play very well but somehow managed to pull out a victory in a game it probably didn't deserve to win — just like most good teams frequently do. On paper it looked like a mismatch — but on the field it was a classic battle.

"That one will be in the memories for a long time — that's for sure," Mustang Coach Darrel Schumacher said.

As the game continued, Northville seemed to gain more and more confidence. Every time the Mustang defense stopped the high powered Wildcat offense, you could almost sense that a late-game flourish would decide the issue. With Novi clinging to a slim 12-7 lead, Northville pulled out a last-ditch drive with less than two minutes remaining, and with the aid of several clutch pass completions, drove down to the Wildcat two yard line. With no time outs and 11 seconds left in the game, Mustang quarterback Jack Sylvestre took the snap, spun to his left and began to drop back to pass, attempting to finish one of the season's most stunning upsets. But Wildcat linebacker Joe Miskovich broke through the line on a blitz, grabbed Sylvestre and hauled him down as the clock ran out.

"It was a 70 blitz," Miskovich said after the game. "I timed the count, found a whole and stepped right through. They were trying to trip me up with their legs but I got through — I was determined to get there."

Schumacher was hoping to either get a T.D. or an incomplete pass that would stop the clock. Osborne was thinking blitz, hoping his secondary could handle the coverage alone.

"(Novi) doubled up on the guard spot, and it left it open for their linebacker to come through," Schumacher explained. "We figured they'd be sending everybody, we were just hoping for time to pass the ball."

"We obviously blitzed on the play because we didn't have a lot of yards behind us to guard against the pass,"

'Our players are extremely disappointed because they honestly felt they could win the ball game — it was a very heartbreaking.'

— Darrel Schumacher, Mustang Football Coach

Osborne said. "It was a team effort, everybody took a gap and if they do it right, somebody should get freed up — it was Joe (Miskovich)."

Novi took advantage of a fumbled punt just before the half to score the game's first points, and added the second touchdown and a 12-0 lead early in the third quarter after a poor Northville punt gave them great field position. The Mustangs scored the final points midway through the fourth thanks to a long drive. It all set the stage for the final second heroics.

"It was probably our best game," Schumacher said. "I was extremely pleased with the way the kids played, but we just couldn't finish it off. Our players are extremely disappointed because they honestly felt they could win the ball game — it was very heartbreaking."

The first quarter went according to plans with Novi moving the ball on offense and shutting down Northville completely on defense. But the Cats hurt themselves with penalties and mistakes and the Mustangs held on.

"During that span we sort of got lulled to sleep," Osborne said. "Then all of the sudden things got turned around and the longer the game went on, the more confident they got."

Northville put together a 66-yard drive in the second quarter, with the aid of a roughing the kicker call against Novi. With a first and goal at the 14, Mustang quarterback Scott Stevens tossed an interception to Neil Garry in the end zone. Ironically, it was Garry who was flagged for the roughing penalty that kept the drive alive.

With time running out in the half, Novi got a big break and capitalized. Matt Hubert fumbled a Wildcat punt, and Jason Korte pounced on the loose ball at the Northville 43 with less than two minutes remaining. On a fourth down play, Novi quarterback Jeff Tanderys hit Scott Wladishkin for a clutch 27 yard pass reception that moved the ball down to the 16 with 21 seconds left. Tanderys then connected to flanker Brian Schram on

Division hopes dwindle for cagers

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A costly 41-31 loss to Walled Lake Western on Oct. 28 may have dashed Northville's drive for the school's first divisional basketball title. But the Mustangs (9-8 overall, 8-6 in the WLAA) rebounded two days later to trounce Livonia Franklin 63-45, proving to Coach Ed Kritch that his team isn't ready to pack it in just yet.

The loss to Western was a hard pill to swallow because it all but assures Plymouth Canton of the WLAA Western Division crown. It was also a loss to the same Western team Northville beat handily earlier in the season. With six losses in league play, the Mustangs trail Canton by two games. Even though the two teams play each other one more time in the season finale, Canton would have to lose a game prior to the match-up to give Northville a chance, and Kritch doesn't believe it will happen.

"Let's face it," he said, "we had to win that game and now, there is no way, in my opinion, we can win the division. That was one of our goals going in so we need to start focusing on the district tournament now. I think we can still attain that goal if we work hard as a team. The important thing is we still have something to play for and it's well within our reach."

Against the Warriors, Kritch's squad opened the game in good shape and led 11-6 after one quarter. But with each successive quarter, the Mustangs' execution and intensity seemed to drop off.

"It was a strange thing because we played a good first quarter and everything seemed to be going along well," Kritch explained. Then, I thought we played a little worse in the second quarter, a little worse in the third and a little worse in the fourth."

At halftime, Northville trailed 18-16 and was still very much in the game, but a 15-6 spurt by Western in the third opened an 11 point cushion and the Mustangs never caught up.

"It was frustrating because it certainly was a game we had to win," Kritch pondered. "To lose and play well is one thing, but to lose like we did and play poorly is real disappointing. I felt like we didn't have any intensity and that we looked lethargic on the court."

One of the keys to the defeat was Northville's inability to break the Western's full court press. Turnovers and an overall loss of poise spelled doom for the Mustangs in the second half.

"We really lost our poise bringing the ball up court and once that happened, we started to make mistakes on offense and defense — the whole thing just caved in from there," Kritch admitted.

One of the few bright spots was top-notch play from senior forward Tricia Ducker, who poured in a team-high 12 points and 11 rebounds.

"Tricia was the highlight if we had one," Kritch pointed out. "She did a nice job and really has been playing well the last couple of weeks. I thought she was the best player on the floor."

Two more seniors, Roxanne Serkalian and Sue

Schrader, also helped the cause. Serkalian scored seven points and Schrader added six points and eight rebounds.

The character of the team came through in Thursday's win, much to Kritch's relief. After playing a very closely contested first half, Northville wore down Franklin in the second half, outscoring the Patriots 34-15 on the way to an 18-point blow out. Defense has been the Mustang trademark since Kritch became coach and that was the difference in the game.

"We went back to the basics and used an active half court man-to-man defense and even though Franklin did nice job against it early in the game, I thought we finally wore them down," Kritch said. "They started to take shots from further and further out, and it was just a matter of time."

For the first time in several weeks, Northville did a nice job of using the fast break to get the easy points. In addition, the Mustangs dominated the boards, both offensively and defensively, for the entire four quarters.

"We left the game Thursday night really feeling good about ourselves for the first time in the last couple of weeks," Kritch said. "We really played hard and effectively for the whole game. We looked like the basketball team I still think we can become."

"We could have packed it in after Tuesday's loss, but the way we came back showed me that these kids still want to make something of this season."

Division showdown on tap for tankers?

All indications point to a season-ending showdown to determine the WLAA Western Division girls' swimming title, and Northville is right in the thick of it. If all goes according to plan, the Mustangs home meet with Plymouth Canton next week will decide whether Northville gets a share of the division championship.

Last week, the tankers extended their unbeaten string to four by knocking off a good Brighton squad 47-36 on Oct. 28 and a not-so-good Walled Lake Western team 62-18 last Thursday. For the season, Northville sports a fine 7-1-1 overall mark.

The Mustangs won eight of the 11 events against Brighton and Coach Bill Dicks liked what he saw.

"I thought we swam well," he said. "You have to be pleased whenever you can beat Brighton because they are a traditional powerhouse and they have a nice program. It was fairly close and that was good for us."

Northville's top swimmers took charge against the Bulldogs, as Julie Hillfinger and Shari Thompson each won twice and accounted for half of the wins on the evening. Hillfinger won the 200-yard IM and the 100 butterfly while Thompson was first in the 200 and 500 freestyle events. Thompson was also a member of the winning 400 freestyle relay team along with Becky Frayne, Pam Wesley and Debbie Buell.

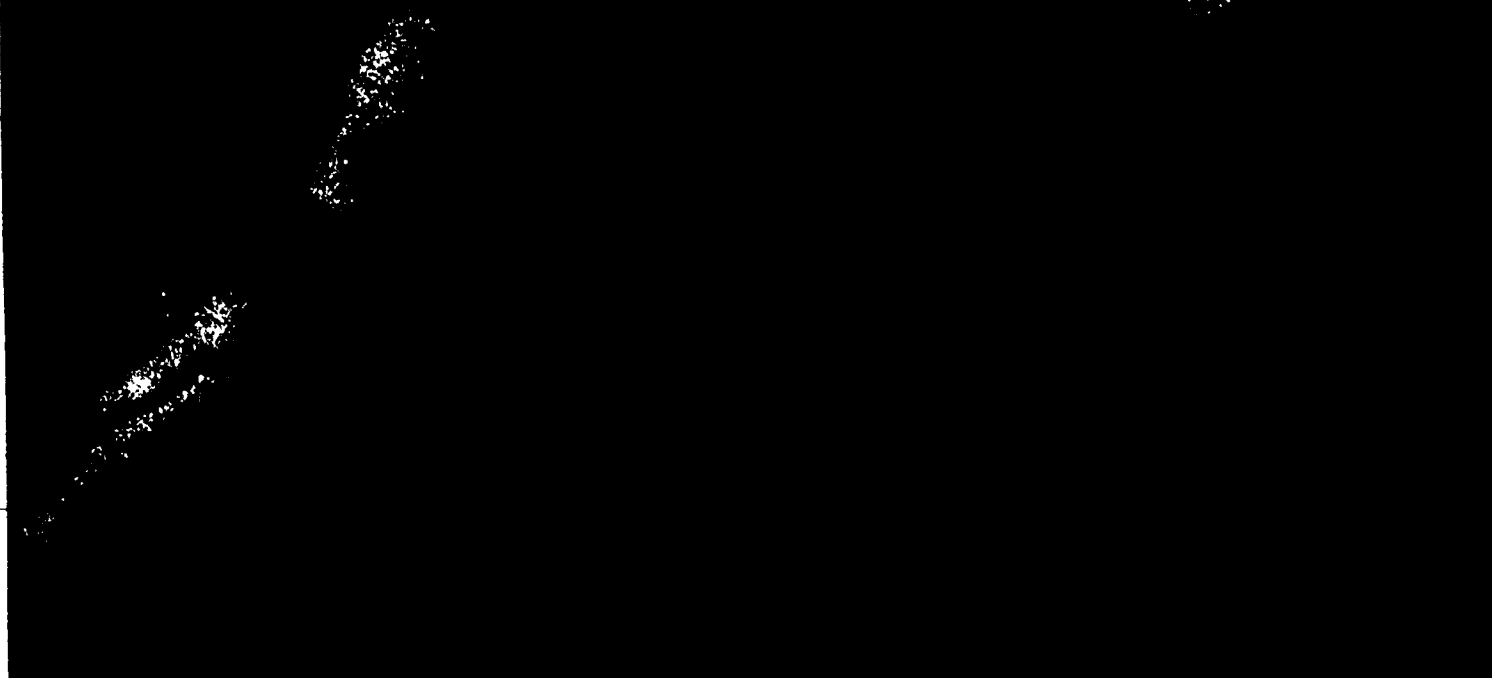

Other winners were Michelle Stephens in the 100 freestyle, Wesley in the 100 backstroke and Buell in the 100 breaststroke. Runner-up efforts by Northville included Wendy Beach in diving, Wesley in the 50 freestyle and the team of Hillfinger, Buell, Stephens and Dee LaChance in the 200 medley relay.

Despite switching the line-up around and using swimmers in events they aren't used to competing in, Dicks saw his team trounce Walled Lake Western. The Mustangs won every event, overwhelming the Warriors with better talent and depth.

A lot of our girls swam in different events than usual and others didn't swim at all," Dicks reported. "Overall, I think we did a good job in that situation."

Of the nine individual events, a different Northville swimmer was victorious except for Kristi Fortenberry's double win effort in the 100 butterfly and the 200 IM. Hillfinger won the 200 freestyle, Buell placed first in the 50 freestyle, Thompson had no trouble in the 500 freestyle event and Wesley was the winner in the 100 backstroke.

Other winners were Frayne in the 100 freestyle, Beach in diving and Diane Ford in the 100 breaststroke. Hillfinger, LaChance, Erika Nelson and Karen Peterson combined for a win in the 200 medley relay to open the meet and Thompson, Sue Settles,

Dee LaChance was a member of Northville's winning 200 medley relay team versus Walled Lake Western

Stephens and Buell ended the meet with a first in the 400 freestyle relay. Second place finishes were recorded by Lauri Fortenberry (100 butterfly), Karen Coon (500 freestyle), Stacy Lang (100 breaststroke), Michelle Beacham (diving), Frayne (50 freestyle) and the team of Fortenberry, Kathy Keyes, Pam Mirisola and Sandy Loftus (200 medley relay).

A win over Livonia Franklin tomorrow (Nov. 6) will set up the showdown with Canton, and Dicks is getting the team prepared.

"If we can beat Canton, we will tie with them for the division title," he said. "I don't think we'll have any trouble with Franklin because we just have too much depth."

"Obviously we'll try our best to beat Canton, but we are really shooting for our best performance of the season in the conference meet (Nov. 21)."

Frisbie 27 Haas 31 at state meet

Culminating another banner cross country season, Northville runners John Frisbie and Kevin Haas participated, along with 84 of the Michigan's top runners, in the State Championship Meet last Saturday in Flint.

According to Mustang Coach Ed Gabrys, the goal heading in was a top third finish for both in the individual race, and that's exactly what happened. Frisbie, the first-year running sensation, put in his second fastest time ever (16:26) to place 27th in the field. Haas, in his second state meet, recorded a personal best time of 16:27 to place 31st.

"We were looking for a top third finish, and it puts them right in that range," Gabrys said. "That was the objective, and they did real well. The course was a little more challenging than Cass Benton so I am very pleased."

The individual race, run at the IMA Brookwood Golf Course in Flint, was very quick. Generally, the team race is the faster of the two, but Gabrys reported that it wasn't so last Saturday.

"Man for man the quality was better in the individual race," he said. "At the mile mark, it was one thundering herd going by and almost everyone was under the five minute mark."

Both Frisbie and Haas recorded their fastest opening mile splits ever, with 4:53 and 4:58 times respectively. The two Northville runners stayed very close to one another for the whole five kilometer race, just as it has been most of the season.

"They have both been very consistent all season, and I think the competition helped them get the most out of each other," Gabrys said. "The big story was that they both peaked at the end, like you want them to, and they pushed each other on."

"They figured out, at the midpoint of the season, that it was an ideal chance for them to improve together rather than having a winner-take-all type rivalry. They used the situation to their advantage to push each other as all good athletes usually do — it's been a great combination."

For Frisbie, finishing in the top 30 is a great accomplishment, but Gabrys reported that he felt a mid-season injury probably slowed him down a bit.

"He's handled it well though," Gabrys said. "He mixes in well with all the other quality runners in the area and, being just a junior, he now has next season to look forward to. He's capable of going under 16 minutes and that is All-State calibre."

Haas ended his high school career in impressive fashion. Last year as a junior, he placed 55th in the state meet and topping that mark was one of the main goals in '86.

"He moved up and he knew it," Gabrys said. "He felt it was a great culmination to his career."

Colts fall behind early and lose to Garden City, 27-14

The Novi/Northville Colts varsity squad fell behind early and was never able to catch up, dropping a 27-14 decision to the Garden City Chargers on Oct. 26. Colt mistakes, like a blocked punt and an interception, resulted in an early deficit. Not even a pair of Colt T.D.'s in the second half could turn it around.

The Colts' first possession gave Garden City the ball on the Colt 10, and two plays later the score was 7-0. In the second stanza, the Chargers picked off a Colt pass in the end zone with the team threatening to score on the four yard line and promptly drove 80 yards for the second touchdown. With two minutes left in the half, the Chargers made it 20-0 with another score.

In the third, Chris Harris hit Bill Kelley for a 41-yard scoring pass, but Garden City came back with another T.D. in the fourth to make the score 27-6. The Colts last score came with less than three minutes remaining when Craig Probert caught a 13-yard pass from Ryan Kilner. The Colts record drops to 3-5.

The Junior Varsity team ended the season with a comeback 9-7 win over the Garden City Chargers, highlighted by a fourth-quarter safety.

ran for the extra-point to tie the game in the fourth quarter.

The Colts gave up a first half touchdown but fought back. Chris Barbara hit Mike Borashko for a 14-yard scoring toss and Jason Walker

The swarming Colt defense then trapped a Charger runner in the end zone for the game-winning safety just minutes later. Bret Butz paced the defense with 63 yards rushing. The Colts' overall record is 4-4.

Wright resigns as boys' swim coach

Northville High School Athletic Director Dennis Colligan announced last Monday that men's swim coach Keith Wright has resigned his post, citing a time commitment problem.

Wright came to Northville last season after many successful seasons at Bentley High School after the Livonia school was closed. He guided the Mustang tankers to a share of the WLAA Western Division Championship in his first and only season at the helm. Last season, Northville sported a 6-5-2 overall record, 6-2-1 in the conference and a fine 4-0-1 in the division.

Wright was a very popular and successful coach, and Colligan expressed sadness in his departure.

"He did a great job for the short time he was here, and we are sorry to see him go," Colligan said. "He said there'd be a problem for him to get out of work and get to practice any sooner than 4 p.m. He didn't think it would be fair to the program to make the swimmers start practice so late every day."

According to Colligan, a letter was received from Wright in September expressing his intention to step down.

"We tried to talk him out of it, but his mind is set," Colligan said. "He's just talking on the time thing."

As a result, Northville is searching for a new coach to take over the program. Any interested parties can contact Colligan at 344-8430.

KEITH WRIGHT

Gridders drop heartbreaker

the next play for the T D

"We knew when (Novi) gets in close, they like to go to Schram because he has good height and jumping ability," Schumacher said. "I'm convinced we had it defended very well, he was double-teamed and just made a nice play."

But Mike McGuffin's point after attempt was blocked by Jeff Hamilton and the half ended at 6-0.

A high snap forced a 17-yard Mustang punt, giving Novi the ball at the Northville 36 early in the third. Randy Parker snared a 20-yard pass from Tanderys on a third down play and then tight end Bill Yankowski caught the touchdown pass over the middle from 13 yards out. Again, the quick Novi strike ended on a sour note as the two point conversion attempt failed.

The Mustang scoring drive started at their own 25 and was kept alive by a pass interference penalty against the Wildcats. With just less than seven minutes left in the game, Sylvestre bolted into the endzone untouched on a 10 yard quarterback bootleg and then kicked the extra point to narrow the gap to 12-7.

The Northville defense held Novi in check down the stretch and gave the offense possession two more times. With only 1:41 left on the clock, the Mustangs started at their own 25 and drove down the field.

Wildcat defender Matt Kamish dropped a potential game ending interception early in the drive and, with renewed life, Sylvestre kept it alive with three clutch pass completions. On a fourth and 11 at the 42, he hit Mike Yard on the 30 yarder down to the Novi 28. On the next play, Greg Kozler caught a 16-yard sideline pass moving it down to the 12 with 40 seconds left. Hubert then grabbed the third throw, eluded a couple of tacklers and was upended by Wildcat defensive back Dave Senkbell just two yards from a win.

"He was upset about the dropped punt and tried everything humanly possible to score the winning touchdown," Schumacher said about Hubert. "I give the kid a lot of credit."

After stopping the clock with a pass out of bounds, Miskovich sacked Sylvestre to end the game.

"Northville had a great night," Osborne said. "To their credit, after we had them 12-0 they never quit. Their defense shut us down and played very well."

Northville's Bartling wins football contest

With several "top 20" teams going head to head, it was a tough week for entrants in The Northville Record/Novi News football contest.

But that didn't stop Todd Bartling of Northville from doing an exemplary job. Bartling missed just two games to end up all alone in first place and win the $15 first prize in the weekly grid game.

Most entrants missed four or five games, but four contestants submitted entries with just three mistakes so the old tie-breaker once again had to be called in to play to determine the second and third place winners.

And not even the tie-breaker was enough to break the deadlock as Jim Bonnell of Novi and Linda Gromacki of Milford both predicted that Ohio

State and Iowa would run up a total of 37 points in the tie-breaker, just four away from the actual total of 41 in the Buckeyes' convincing 31-10 triumph.

As a result, Bonnell and Gromacki will split the prize money of $10 and $5 for second and third place, receiving $7.50 apiece.

Other entrants with just three misses were Doug Martin and Steve Lang, both of Northville.

With more people entering the weekly football contest than ever before, no single person has won the top prize more than once. And with the 1986 contest headed into its final weeks, time is running out for somebody to accomplish the feat. So get those pencils sharpened and try to finish the season on a high note.

SOCCKER: Pandas lose, but still win White Division crown

BOYS UNDER 16: Northville Arsenal and Livonia No. 1 battled to a scoreless tie. The Arsenal goalie was John McMahon and the top defender was Jeff Koche. Goals from Ty Fowler and Danny Schwartz weren't enough as United was ripped 3-2 by Plymouth No. 4. United MVPs were Henry Hewson and Steve McCarthy. The Hot Spurs beat Livonia No. 4, 2-2. Spurs goals were notched by Eric Moore and Dominic Fracassi. Plymouth No. 7 trounced the Rowdies 7-0. A goal by Joe Hammond helped the Express tie Farmington No. 4, 1-1. Defensive standout in the game was Andrew Litelman.

GIRLS UNDER 12: Northville United Custard Time slipped past Arsenal 1-0 in a cross-town matchup. The game's lone score was from Elizabeth Rhoad. MVPs for United were Randi Elzavoy and Valerie Schuerman. Arsenal MVPs were Suzie Morton and Jennifer Hesse. Despite some fine defensive play from Becky Zappa and Jenny Lower, the Express lost a 1-0 heartbreaker to Plymouth No. 3.
