THIRTY-FIVE CENTS

Metro crash victims included a local man

By JEAN DAY

Among the victims on the Northwest Airlines jet that crashed Sunday at Metro Airport was Northville resident Frank J. Vlazny.

A certified public accountant with Touche-Ross, he was taking Flight 255 to Phoenix en route to Scottsdale to attend a national training conference when he was killed in the worst air disaster ever to occur in Michigan.

He and his wife, Anita, had been Northville residents since 1981 and were parents of two sons, Brian, almost three, and Kevin, nine months.

Mr. Vlazny would have been 36 years old next Tuesday. Tuesday his widow made arrangements for a memorial Mass to be held at 10 a.m. today at Holy Family Catholic Church in Novi. Father Gerald Martin from Sacred Heart Seminary is the officiant.

Visitation was from 3-9 p.m. Wednesday at the Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

Mrs. Vlazny said she was having the Mass as there seemed to be no time frame for the release of the crash victims' bodies.

A 1972 graduate of Michigan State University, Mr. Vlazny was a manager in the tax department of Touche-

Ross. He was a member of the Petroleum Society of Michigan, the American Institute of CPAs, Michigan Association of CPAs, the Michigan Oil and Gas Association and the Detroit Athletic Club.

Raymond Lombardi, partner in charge of tax operations at Touche-Ross, said Tuesday that "Frank has been my support person for the last seven years," adding, "It's devastating when you have someone so brilliantly qualified."

"He was a technician's technician, someone we're going to miss."

Lombardi said that on Sept. 1 Mr. Vlazny would have been made manager of client services in the firm, explaining that, in the career path he had chosen, this was top recognition.

Mr. Vlazny and his wife had met at MSU. He was born Aug. 25, 1951, in Illinois to Otto and Margaret Vlazny who now live in Chicago. In addition to his wife, sons and parents, he leaves a sister, Margaret Bonomo of Chicago, and his mother-in-law, Clara Harbeck of Kalamazoo.

The family has suggested that memorial services be made to the Ronald McDonald House.

Crash claims NHS '61 grad

By PHILIP JEROME

It was a combination business/pleasure trip to Phoenix, Arizona, which carried James A. Tuck to his death aboard Northwest Airlines Flight 255 Sunday night.

Tuck, who graduated from Northville High School in 1961, was among the victims in what has been termed the worst aviation disaster in the history of Detroit Metro Airport.

A partner in the Detroit law firm of Goodman, Eden, Millender and Bedrosian, Tuck was on his way to a business meeting in Phoenix and also planned to visit his daughter Katherine, a student at Arizona State University in nearby Tempe.

"Jim was going to Phoenix to visit an expert witness on several cases he was working on," reported George Bedrosian, a senior partner in the law firm.

"But the trip also gave him an opportunity to travel down to Tempe to visit his daughter. He was looking forward to it."

Members of his 1961 Northville High School graduating class remember Tuck as being both extremely intelligent and popular.

"He was smarter than a whip, but he was also just one of the guys," said Gary Kohs, now a Birmingham resident. "What can I say? He was a friend. Was there anybody who didn't like Jim Tuck? I don't think there was."

Mary Long McLeod, another member of Tuck's graduating class, said she remembers his imitation of comedian Jonathon Winters.

"He was a very down-to-earth guy and always had a big smile on his face. I talked to him last summer and

Vernon won't run for mayor

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville Mayor Paul Vernon announced Monday he will not seek reelection this fall, a decision which sets the stage for the first new city mayor in 10 years.

Vernon won his first election for mayor in 1977, and voters returned him to the post in each of the next four elections. He is active in local organizations and has held positions on many different civic bodies.

When Vernon was elected to his fifth two-year term as mayor, in 1985, he announced that it would probably be his final term.

Before his stint as mayor, Vernon spent six years as a member of City Council, the last four as Mayor Pro Tem. He resigned from council midway through his second term in order to run for the mayor's post.

MAYOR PAUL VERNON

When elected, he replaced longtime Northville Mayor A. Malcolm Allen.

During his involvement with the city, Vernon has also served on the Historic District Commission, the Beautification Commission, the Downtown Development Authority, and the Economic Development Corporation. He is a past president of the Northville Rotary and is chairman of the American Legion Boys State program. He was also a member of the Northville Bicentennial Commission.

Vernon's decision leaves the mayor post open. The only candidate to announce for the position so far is G. Dewey Gardner, who recently resigned his City Council seat to run for the post.

Candidates for mayor must have lived in the city for two years and be a registered voter. Nominating petitions are available in the city clerk's office. They are due between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1, with the election scheduled for Tuesday, Nov. 3.

District ends; well troubles remain

Northville township board, with virtually no public discussion, dissolved the Fairway III/Meadowbrook water district Aug. 13, leaving a number of homeowners in the area irate and facing increasing problems with their wells.

Trustee Thomas Handyside, the board's newest member and the chairperson of the water and sewer commission, said that due to the economic unfeasibility of the district, it should be dissolved, a thought unanimously supported by other board members.

"I certainly would encourage those who want water to come back with a smaller district," he said.

The proposed water district has been a subject of controversy almost from its inception two years ago. Part of the problem was caused by a reluctance by two of the largest property owners in the district to participate in the water program.

In March, a public hearing to set the district resulted in opposition and threatened law suits over the means determined to assess individual rates.

A June hearing, at which most homeowners were assessed a flat rate and at which homeowners learned that the two large property owners were eliminated from the district, also met with opposition.

Ironically, it was the people who wanted water that were most concerned about the board's action.

"With no water available other than wells, we have a serious problem," said Vernice Lyons.

Carol McMann, one of the original petitioners for water, said that now she was "just disgusted" by the board's action.

Digging In

A work crew attacks West Main Street on the west side of the city, replacing the old water main with new, larger eight-inch main. The old water main is estimated to be between 50 and 60 years old. Part of Main Street is closed while the work progresses.

Sale of county land grows more doubtful

By ANITA CRONE

A contract between Wayne County and the Lambrecht Company to market and broker 1,040 acres of county-owned property at Five Mile and Sheldon roads in Northville Township is further in doubt this week.

Two separate sources have told The Record that the Lambrecht Company is in the process of dissolving its commercial brokerage division.

However, James Mawson, company president, said the Lambrecht Company is "just reorganizing." Thomas Chuba, Lambrecht vice president, said the reorganization is not under bankruptcy laws.

Chuba said that the company is not totally eliminating its commercial brokerage division, but referred all other questions to Mawson.

Efforts to reach the Lambrecht president Monday and Tuesday were unsuccessful.

The county-owned acreage represents nearly 10 percent of Northville's total land area and a full 30 percent of the township's non-taxable land.

The Lambrecht contract has been tied up in the county Economic Development Committee, chaired by Susan Heintz, R-Northville. Edward McNamara, county executive, recommended last April that Lambrecht receive the marketing and brokering contract, however, the proposal had met with less than rapid action in the committee.

At the committee's July meeting

Heintz and Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, voted in favor of approving the contract, while Detroit commissioners Bernard Kilpatrick and George Cushingberry voted in opposition.

The contract again is scheduled to be discussed at the Aug. 28 meeting of the committee.

Heintz, who is on vacation, said: "If, in fact, Lambrecht has terminated their commercial brokerage service, then it would appear that they are no longer able to fulfill the proposed contract and that a new broker must be located."

"I will await official word from the executive's office as to the accuracy of the report and any new proposals he will put forward."

McNamara said Friday he had not heard of the Lambrecht reorganization, but promised to look into the situation.

Mike Duggan, deputy county executive, said Tuesday he had received no information about any change in Lambrecht's status.

"I can tell you, though, that if Lambrecht has disbanded its commercial brokerage division, they no longer are eligible for the contract," he said.

Commission Chairman Arthur Carter, who had publicly noted his opposition to the proposed contract with Lambrecht, was willing to comment Friday.

Carter said he was "90 percent sure that the information about Lambrecht eliminating its commercial brokerage division is accurate."

Carter said that once he receives word from the county executive's office or from Lambrecht officials, he will take steps to have the project rebid.

Buildings still stand on some of the 1,040 acres of county-owned township land

NEWS BRIEFS

POSTAL PARKING — Parking directly in front of the Northville Post Office will be restricted to two spaces for handicapped only, after the City Council approved a traffic control order to that effect Monday.

Parking on the west side of Wing Street south of Cady Street will become two handicapped spaces, one on each side of the post office steps. There will be no parking, standing, or stopping for the 30 feet closest to Cady.

"I look at it as a serious pedestrian problem," city Chief Police Rod Cannon told the council. "I see near-misses almost daily." Cannon said the police department routinely monitors new traffic control orders for 90 days to see if the purpose is being accomplished.

BARR ON EXHIBIT — The work of David Barr of Northville is included among the Michigan Outdoor Sculpture currently on display at the Southfield Civic Center.

The exhibition features 18 large contemporary sculptures by 18 of Michigan's most respected artists and is sponsored by the Business Consortium of the Arts.

LOVE CONQUERS ALL — The developers of Blue Heron Pointe have made an exception to the rule of not accepting deposits on units in the proposed development.

Dennis Parks, a spokesman for Beck Road Development Co., said the firm has promised Nello Stante a corner unit since Stante Sunday proposed to his fiancée on the site.

NEW HOURS — It's back to winter hours for the Northville Public Library. Beginning Tuesday, Sept. 8, the library will be open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, and from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

COUNCIL MEETING CHANGE — The Northville City Council, which normally meets the first and third Monday of each month, has changed its Sept. 7 meeting because of the Labor Day holiday. The council will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 8, instead.

FREE PHYSICALS — Free back-to-school physicals for children are being offered through Aug. 28 at the University of Michigan M-Care Health Center in Northville. They will be done at no charge, but there will be a nominal fee for any necessary immunizations. To schedule an appointment call the center, located at 650 Griswold, at 344-1777.

CITY SWINGERS — New playground equipment for the neighborhood park at Baseline and Carpenter was approved by the Northville City Council Monday night.

The council approved spending $2094 from the parks and playground section of the general fund budget for a new swing set and two other pieces of playground equipment. One tree "of questionable health" will be removed to allow installation of the new equipment, Recreation Director John Anderson said.

OUT WITH A BANG — Jeff Radwanski, the new assistant principal at Meads Mill Middle School has been named counselor of the year by the Michigan School Counselors Association. Radwanski will receive his award Oct. 26 during the Michigan School Counselors Association meeting in Grand Rapids.

Building a controversy

Neighbors of this Winchester Road house are up in arms over the lack of progress being made toward its completion and the weeds growing around the building. But, as they are finding out, there is little they can do. The house, which has been under construction for more than 10 years, may never be occupied by its builder/owner John Wheeler of Garden City. Wheeler declined to comment on how long he has been building the house whether he intends to complete it or why he is building it. "I pay $4,100 in taxes every year and that's all I'm going to say about it," he said. "I would think my neighbors should be more concerned about the poison they are putting on their lawns and the poison they are feeding their children at fast food restaurants than about my house."

Process set for Main/Griswold land sale

The city-owned lot at the southwest corner of Main and Griswold streets is generating considerable interest from possible buyers. City Manager Steven Walters told the City Council Monday night.

The council approved guidelines for the sale Monday, including a schedule for bids and specifications for proposals from bidders. Council recently agreed to put the lot up for sale, and a sign went up on the land last week.

The property was announced last year as the site of a planned bed-and-breakfast establishment which has not materialized. The land's location, on the east edge of downtown, and its zoning — Central Business District — make it a desirable piece of property, Walters has said.

The lot's value is estimated at $160,000. It covers about 18,000 square feet, with about 107 feet of Main Street frontage and 166 feet of Griswold Street frontage.

Walters said that the sign on the lot and early publicity have generated eight or 10 inquiries from potential buyers. City Council agreed to put the land up for sale after the Community Federal Credit Union expressed interest in buying the parcel.

Under the purchase guidelines adopted by the council, formal proposals — on a special form — are due to the city clerk's office by 2 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 24, when all proposals will be opened and read.

The city's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) is scheduled to review the proposals in a special meeting Tuesday, Sept. 29, at 8 a.m., for review and a recommendation to the City Council. The Council is scheduled to consider the recommendation at its regular meeting 8 p.m. Monday, Oct. 5.

Formal proposals to purchase the land must be on a form supplied by the city clerk's office, and must include a deposit of 10 percent of the purchase price, plus full description of plans for the site. Plans must include estimated development cost, jobs created, nature of expected tenants, timetable, variances or special conditions required, and be in compliance with the city zoning ordinance.

The buyer will be required to file a formal site plan within 60 days of buying the land. Title will only transfer after the development is completed in line with approved plans.

The proposals for sale are to be considered by City Council with regard to four basic factors: offering price, minus any sales commission; tax base value of the proposed project; employment potential of the proposal; and "the expected contribution of the proposed project to the viability of the downtown development district."

The guidelines state that the city will pay a commission to a Realtor of up to 10 percent, if included in an accepted proposal. However, Walters told the council that the sale is essentially a "for sale by owner" process and not likely to attract offers through Realtors.

DNR expected to deny YCUA's request to expand

By ANITA CRONE

While the Michigan Department of Natural Resources has not yet informed the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority of its decision in writing, Roy Schramack, Detroit district supervisor of the surface water quality division, said Monday that indications are that the DNR staff will turn down a request for YCUA plant expansion.

However, final approval or denial for the plan must be made by the Michigan Water Resources Commission. The commission already ignored a DNR staff recommendation to approve the YCUA expansion.

"They (YCUA) can do anything they want with 29 million gallons a day. But they are not going to receive approval to go beyond that," Schramack said.

"If his assessment of the situation is correct, the DNR decision would virtually eliminate any purchase by the Western Townships Utility Authority."

"And, if the DNR suggests a denial of YCUA expansion to the Water Resources Commission, the move could leave Northville Township in a bind."

Supervisor Georgina Goss, in a letter to the board of trustees, said "I believe it is in Northville Township's long term, best interest to have maximum control over both the transportation system and a close working relationship with the wastewater treatment plant."

"She indicated that the WTUA project, which would allow Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships to send their flows to Ypsilanti, rather than through the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley system, has much better potential.

The WTUA plan would need approval from the DNR and in order to be implemented, would require expansion of the YCUA plant. The plant currently treats about 14 million gallons per day of sewage. However, Eldon Ahles, YCUA executive director, has said the plant wishes to retain 15 percent of its current additional capacity to serve the growth of the communities currently serviced by the authority.

"Basically, if YCUA wants to provide the additional six million gallons a day it has left to WTUA, we have no problem," Schramack said. "We don't care if they sell it to California. Where the problem arises is when the plant exceeds 29 million gallons per day."

Schramack noted that DNR staff had suggested at its Aug. 6 meeting that construction of a treatment plant on the Rouge to meet the demands of the WTUA communities should be looked at.

"It seems like a something the WTUA communities should consider since it would solve a number of problems, including cleaning up the Rouge," he said.

"A tertiary treatment plant which discharged clean effluent into the Rouge would actually help the river," Schramack said. "Particularly during the summer months, the Rouge is virtually stagnant, and flows from the treatment plant would provide some movement, thus cleaning the river," he said.

Goss last week dismissed the suggestion. "Given the problems with the Rouge, problems that the DNR is very aware of, I can't see them seriously considering allowing a treatment plant on the Rouge," she said.

She noted that the WTUA attorneys were working on a draft contract between WTUA and YCUA and that the pact should be submitted to YCUA within two weeks.

Meanwhile, Ernest Essad, township attorney, told the board that the DNR has indicated it will provide the WTUA attorneys with a letter by Aug. 28 which would provide DNR requirements to expand YCUA

Scott gets OK for close custody inmates

Scott Regional Facility may soon receive 96 close custody inmates.

Northville Township police chief Kenneth Hardesty said he toured the facility Monday at the request of prison officials and that earlier concerns expressed by township officials had been alleviated.

"I told Mr. Stegall that as far as the township was concerned, the facility was secure," Hardesty said.

Still to be worked out is the formal stipulation for dismissal of a legal agreement in front of Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Farmer. Farmer retained jurisdiction over the dispute between Northville Township and the Michigan Department of Corrections surrounding the new prison. The township had requested an injunction stopping the close custody prisoners from occupying Scott until its officials were assured the cells were secure.

Electrical problems had plagued the close custody area of the prison, resulting in cells that failed to lock.

Gail Light, a spokesperson for the Department of Corrections said it could be two weeks before the first close custody inmates arrive in Northville Township.

The close custody inmates all will be from Wayne County, Light said.

"They will be transported to Scott from the reception areas at Jackson and Ionia," she said.

"I'm waiting for a letter from Chief Hardesty formally saying that the facility is ready to house the close custody prisoners," said Ernest Essad, township attorney.

"Mr. (Martin) Vittands (the assistant attorney general) is preparing language for the court," Essad said. Vittands said he hopes to have the paperwork complete within one or two days.

Scott is the first of the state's planned regional facilities, prisons

Goss wrote that a report in The Record, indicating the YCUA project would cost nearly $14 million more than would have been required had the three townships remained in the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley project, was "not an accurate comparison of the costs of the two projects."

She said the Record report compared the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley project costs including federal funding with total local funding of the WTUA/YCUA plan.

"That's comparing apples to oranges," she said.

"A bare comparison of project costs does not relate the qualitative differences between the two projects. Both projects will lead to DNR compliance requirements. Beyond that, the two projects have different benefits for the communities involved," she wrote.

designed to house minimum, medium and close custody inmates at a single site.

Jimmy Stegall, acting Scott warden, confirmed that verbal approval had been received by the Department of Corrections. "Once we get the written approval, we will have close custody prisoners on site within 24 hours," he said.

Stegall also noted that Moses McEwan, who walked away from the prison, had been apprehended by correction department workers Aug. 5. McEwan is currently in the Wayne County Jail awaiting sentencing on his escape.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Christmas comes in August during filming

It was Christmas in August when a film crew turned most of Sherry Meyer's antique shop on West Eight Mile near Beck Road into an old fashioned Christmas toy store last week. The crew was completing work on a national television commercial for a battery company

Meyer said the director of the shoot had visited her antique store last year, and, when company needed a film location, immediately thought of the barn

The battery company provided many of its own toys, but the antique store was all Meyer's. The only thing that was missing was snow, and that too was provided through the wonders of technology. Even though it was winter in the antique store in the Mayer barn, Meyer said that the customers who brought fresh fruit and produce at the farm were well aware it was summer. "Our place is always jumping, but this was a different kind of activity," she said.

Council approves four new planners; Wilhelm keeps seat

Four new members and one returning member were appointed unanimously to the Northville City Planning Commission Monday night, along with two alternates joining the Board of Zoning Appeals and a new member being named to the Downtown Development Authority original recommendations passed unanimously. "I found a review of (the recommendations) very revealing, and that satisfied the questions I had," Mayor Paul Vernon said.

Carolann Ayers, one of the two members of the committee, said that more applications for future Planning Commission vacancies have already been received.

The nine Planning Commission members each serve three-year terms, with three terms scheduled to expire each year. This year, five slots were open because of two recent resignations from the commission.

Another vacancy may occur soon: Jerry Mittman, the chairperson of the commission, recently announced he will run for City Council this fall. If Mittman wins, the city charter requires that he resign from the Planning Commission.

Also on Monday night, council unanimously appointed G. Dewey Gardner to a vacancy on the Downtown Development Authority. Gardner's DDA appointment becomes effective Sept. 1, when his recently announced resignation from City Council also takes effect.

The council also voted 4-0 to appoint Stephen Calkins and Roberto Lopez as alternates on the Board of Zoning Appeals.

On a 4-0 vote and with little discussion, the City Council returned Dick Wilhelm to the Planning Commission and added new members Christopher Gazlay, Maureen O'Callaghan Gieswein, Gregory Presley, and Rolland Stapleton. Stapleton will serve as the liaison between the Planning Commission and the BZA.

The Planning Commission appointments — which were recommended by a two-person committee which considered applications — came before the council at its last meeting, Monday, Aug. 3.

At that time, members of the council voted to postpone consideration of the recommendations for two weeks because some council members said they did not know the people recommended, and because one council member objected to the fact that an incumbent commissioner who had asked to be reappointed was not on the list of recommendations.

The members of council were given copies of the resumes of the people who had applied for the openings. At Monday's meeting, the

WORKER'S COMP COVERS

For injuries which are job-related, Worker's Compensation will compensate the patient. This applies to chiropractic treatment as well as other types of health care. In fact, because of the savings in both time lost and costs, insurance companies are very favorably disposed to chiropractic treatment of injuries.

What kind of savings? Well, for every day a worker is off the job because of a job-related injury, it costs Worker's Comp, the company, and individual money. Anything which can reduce the amount of time lost is a money-saver; and, over the years, chiropractic treatment has proven itself extremely effective in returning workers to full activity after certain types of injuries.

Of course savings in money may not be your primary interest, but it should be in your interest to be returned to full and vigorous health in the shortest possible time, and with the least chance of complications.

Police Blotters

Man may face charges after two incidents in local pub

A Livonia man, barred from O'Sheehan's on the Green, could be facing charges stemming from two incidents reported to township police Aug. 12.

The man, who, police said, had been drinking in the bar from 8 p.m. until midnight on the night in question, had a knife confiscated at midnight, after he became upset when he repeatedly was turned down for a date by a Novi woman.

The man then told other patrons at the bar that he had a knife, and police, when they arrived on the scene in response to a call from O'Sheehan's employees, confiscated the weapon.

Less than 20 minutes later the man returned to the bar and threatened a waitress. She notified police and, while the man left before police arrived a second time, officers obtained his identification from the police report of the earlier incident.

PRICE IS RIGHT — A Yamaha motorcycle, which was being offered for sale, was stolen from a Northville Road garage before the sale could be completed Aug. 10.

The owner of the motorcycle, which was valued at $1,200, told township police he had shown the bike to "three unknown men" early in the day and one of the parties said he would be back about 5 p.m. to pay for the motorcycle.

When the cycle's owner returned to his home to wait for the purchaser, he noticed that it was missing and that the garage door, which he had closed, was open.

RESTAURANT THEFT ARREST — A youth has been charged with larceny from a building as a result a theft from the Donut Scene restaurant last month, Northville city police said.

The restaurant, on Center at the north end of the central business district, was entered the night of July 16, according to a police report. Two cash register tills — each containing $75 — and a videotape from a surveillance camera were reported stolen.

Police said a male between 16 and 20 years old was arrested and charged with larceny from a building. Police said restitution will be required, plus any additional punishment a court might levy.

CITY MAN CHARGED — A Rogers Street resident has been charged with fleeing and eluding a police officer, Aug. 10.

According to the township police report, officers were called on a report of family trouble.

When officers arrived on the scene, the suspect asked if he were under arrest. When he was informed he was not, the man took off in his vehicle.

Township officers told him to stop, but the man drove through the neighborhood without activating any turn signals. With officers in pursuit and with the siren and overhead lights activated on the patrol car, officers followed the man to a Rogers Street address.

The suspect then got out of his car and ran from the officers. Sgt. John Sherman pursued him on foot, finally tackling the individual in the backyard, the report said.

Sherman arrested the man, who was held in the Northville Township jail until he posted a $100 cash bond. He has been given a Sept. 10 court date in 35th District Court.

Local Catholics ready for papal visit to area

When Pope John-Paul II arrives at the Pontiac Silverdome Sept. 19, the Northville area should be well represented.

The Rev. Frank Pollie, priest at Our Lady of Victory, said he will join with other priests, sisters and lay people in organizing a section of the Silverdome for the Mass.

Pollie said he does not yet know which section he will work in, but expects he will find out at meetings scheduled prior to the pontiff's arrival in Detroit.

He said that he has been told that Our Lady of Victory will receive 325 tickets for the Mass, and that the church will hold a lottery to distribute the tickets.

The students at Our Lady of Providence School on Beck Road have spent two weeks during the summer studying the holy father. Although the school staff has made arrangements to attend the mass at the Silverdome, the students at the school will be able to attend only if their parents make arrangements through their home parishes.

All 415 tickets allocated to Holy Family Church in Novi for the Saturday mass have been promised to the church's 2,150 member families.

"At this point we have received enough requests to fill our ticket allocation," said church secretary Barbara Thompson. She said there will be buses provided by the Novi Public Schools, used to transport parishioners to the event.

The choir from Holy Family is joining with choirs from all over the Detroit archdiocese to perform for the pope and Thompson said she is looking forward to the event.

"The chances of seeing the pope in one's lifetime are very slim. I can't even begin to imagine what it will be like to walk into the Silverdome and hear all those voices and see the pope," she said.

But even though the actual visit has drawn much of Thompson's interest, she said she also was pleased with the participation of the church membership in filling paper bags — special containers used to collect food to be distributed to area needy.

"We always get a good response to that effort, but this time the response was even better," she said.

Board of Education subcommittees for the 1987-88 academic year have been announced by David Llewellyn, board president. Each of the trustees, with the exception of Robert McMahon, the newest board member, and Llewellyn, chairs at least one subcommittee and is a representative to an outside body.

McMahon, who took office in July, has been assigned to the facilities subcommittee and to the finance body. Llewellyn is on the curriculum and the policy subcommittees.

Glenna Davis, board vice president, chairs the personnel subcommittee and is the representative to Title IX and Northville Youth Assistance. She also sits on the policy subcommittee.

Joseph Jay Dunkerley chairs the facilities subcommittee and is the school district representative to the recreation commission. He sits also on the curriculum subcommittee.

Treasurer James Petrie chairs the finance subcommittee and will represent the district at Michigan Association of School Board Meetings. Petrie, who was re-elected to the board in June, also sits on the facilities subcommittee.

Trustee Jean Hansen has agreed to be the schools' representative to the Economic Development Corp. and will chair the curriculum subcommittee. She also will sit on the finance subcommittee and the personnel subcommittee. Christopher Johnson is the chairperson of the policy subcommittee and will sit on the personnel subcommittee. Johnson also is the representative to the Metro Association for Improved School Legislation, an affiliation of 10 suburban school districts, most of them located in this area.

5 reasons to go to Windsor next Saturday

1. Like beaches? There's over a dozen of them in Windsor's Essex County. In fact there's over 25 miles of beachfront on our Lake Erie coast and Lake St. Clair. Get a great tan. Watch the waves roll in. Or just wiggle your toes in the sand. Where, else are you going to find beaches like these?

2. Kids of all ages love Bob Lo. When you take the boat from Amherstburg, the ride's a little shorter and costs a little less.

3. Imagine a place where lush tropical vegetation grows in profusion. It's not the Amazon, it's not deepest Africa, it's Colasanti's Tropical Gardens.

4. Go to Windsor for the nightlife. Like jazz. Like rock'n'roll. How about bluegrass or bagpipes or pops or symphony? If you're looking for a little night music, you've come to the right place. Windsor.

5. You can have lunch or dinner right on the water at places like Windsor Hilton, Smitty's on the River or Lakeshore Terrace Hotel down in Kingsville. Because Windsor, Essex County is practically the world capital of waterfront restaurants.

Actually, there are more than five reasons to go to Windsor next weekend. In fact, no one really knows how many there are. Go to Windsor for a walk along the beach, a stroll in the park or take a ferry ride to Pelee Island. It's more than a way to get out of the house. It's a way to have a good time. Just say

Start of gifted program delayed to '88

It will take longer than originally anticipated for the Northville Public Schools' gifted program to become operational.

Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for instructional services, told the Board of Education Aug. 10 that it did not appear feasible to implement a pilot gifted program for the beginning of the 1987-88 academic year.

However, McMaster said, there are steps that can be taken to ensure the program gets off the ground, and she outlined a three-year program to put the gifted program into operation.

The board approved the hiring of a gifted resource teacher to work with Gayle Fountain, the district's gifted program coordinator.

The resource teacher would assist with refining the gifted curriculum for third-, fourth-, and fifth-graders, assist in developing curriculum and programming for a third grade magnet/pilot program, which would be implemented in September 1988, assist in the development of curriculum and programming for a middle school pilot to be implemented in September 1988, serve on gifted-related district committees, assist as resource teacher as needed, and perform other tasks as may be assigned.

"In addition to bringing on additional staff, we need to look at increasing the budget for the program especially in light of the categorical aid cutbacks at the state," McMaster said. She recommended a $5,000 allocation from the general fund to be used in the gifted program.

Gov. James Blanchard has vetoed part of the 1987 school budget, particularly in transportation and gifted program areas.

"What you are saying is that Gayle would have a counterpart for one year," said Jean Hansen, a trustee.

"Yes. As I watched other districts our size develop their gifted and talented programs, I saw that they had a counterpart for Gayle's position at the elementary level," McMaster replied in supporting the hiring of the resource teacher.

McMaster noted that the gifted program would begin at the elementary school level and that the middle school gifted program would "get off the ground as quickly as we can."

Under the plan approved by the board specific gifted programs would not be in place until 1988; however, programs would be developed and in place for screening for the 1988 academic year for third grade students.

"After meeting with the three elementary school principals and Gayle Fountain, we discovered that it would be impossible to develop a meaningful program by the start of the 1987 academic year," McMaster said.

"However, there are a number of things that we can do now to have the program in place by 1988."

McMaster said she hoped to have the identification and screening procedures in place by January 1988 and the third grade pilot program ready to go by September 1988.

The middle school pilot program would be developed during the 1988-89 academic year and would be in place to begin in September 1989.

The high school gifted program would be in place by September 1990, McMaster told the board.

Board Secretary Joseph "Jay" Dunkerley said he had concerns about delaying implementation at the high school level, but McMaster said the program was dependent upon the budget. "The (high school) program is not delayed in terms of workload, but what the budget will bear," she said.

Superintendent George Bell told the board that the governor has imposed a $16 million cut from the state's gifted and talented program budget.

"I would urge parents who are concerned to contact Sen. (R. Robert) Geake about those cuts," he said. He also recommended approving McMaster's proposal. "But we won't know what money is available until the third week in September."

Funds from the state are apportioned based on a "Fourth Friday" count of individuals enrolled in school districts.

Cable programmers honor local show

Omnicom Cable Community Affairs & Programs Director Maria Holmes announces that a local program "Videotunes Live" was a top national winner in the Hometown Video USA Awards.

The show won for the best live volunteer series in the contest sponsored by the National Federation of Local Cable Programmers. This year's contest which is celebrating its 10th anniversary had over 1400 entries in various categories from around the country.

Producers David Daniele and Jim Leinbach note that they use local talent to give the show its special community appeal.

"I try to give talented people a shot at being on television — just like the big stars. Just because it's local cable doesn't mean it's not real television. When people turn the channel, it's not always the number on the channel selector that they watch it's what's on the screen that counts," said Daniele.

And what's on Videotunes Live? A combination of MTV-type music videos with all local talent, candid interviews and antics with Daniele (Dr. Z) and Leinbach (Jimmy Ray). The newest addition to the show is a dummy named Eugene — really Omnicom's Executive Producer John Martin behind the scenes making the wise cracking co-host come to life.

Part of the backbone of the show that makes it all happen is the Assistant Producer Lori Schumont, Director Peter Smith and cameraman John Polson who have been a part of the crew since the beginning of the show in 1985.

"The reason the program is such a success is due to the hard work these people have put in behind the scenes," says Daniele. "We could not have won this award without their help, we thank them very much."

What's next for Videotunes Live? Maybe a shot at local syndication and there's talk of a sponsorship by Warner Brothers Records, says Omnicom. The show is shown every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:30 p.m. and again on Saturdays at 7 p.m. on Omnicom Channel 8. It is taped live on Mondays with a video request line for people watching at home to be a part of the action.

Some of the local talent appearing this year includes, The New Trend, Read About the Twins, heavy-metal band Dethroll and local comedian Arturo Shelton. Anyone interested in being on the show may contact Daniele between 1-5 p.m. at 459-7335 or 459-7391.

Sale of county land in township grows more doubtful

Carter said he cannot speak for the entire commission, but he had spoken to five or six commissioners and they were in favor of rebidding the project.

"What I expect will happen is that the county executive will select another firm to market and I will immediately submit the recommendation to Commissioner Heintz's committee," he said.

Noting that the commission has "a unique opportunity to correct (the contract) if indeed it (the elimination of Lambrecht's commercial brokerage division) is true," Carter said he expected the entire Metro Caucus, the Detroit commissioners and Heintz, to support Heintz's committee in finding a new firm to market the land.

Carter said he had several concerns with the contract with Lambrecht among them giving one firm the right to market and broker the property, and refusing to consider a joint venture with the county and a proposed developer.

"If the local citizenry is interested, we can get involved in some sort of joint venture, similar to the one at Schoolcraft College," he said.

Schoolcraft has leased college-owned property to a private developer. The private corporation plans to build an office center and possibly a hotel on the site, and the school will share in proceeds of the development.

Carter noted that as part of a joint venture, the county might consider putting in sewers and/or roads at the site.

"The county has the capacity to put in sewers and roads as part of its contribution. I've had some conversations with Mr. McNamara and with the Economic Development Corporation staff about that possibility,"

Carter said.

In Northville Township, reaction to a further delay on selling the property was muted, at best.

"If the project has to be rebid and is further delayed, it further discombobulates an already chaotic situation," said Matt Modrack, community development director.

The Township Planning Commission has authorized Vilcan-Leman, its planning consultants, to prepare a marketing study of the land.

Modrack said any action taken by the county would have no effect on that study.

Friendly suggestion: Buy a library book to honor someone

A new gift program to add to the collection of books and other materials at the Northville Public Library has been started by the Friends of the Library.

The program also provides a way to honor someone on the occasion of a birthday, anniversary, passing the bar, graduation or other similar event, or to memorialize a deceased friend or loved one.

"Many of us are looking for a lasting way to honor someone. What better way than to provide a book or other material for the library that will be used by library patrons for years to come," said Betty Griffin, president of the Friends.

A donor may choose a gift of fiction or non-fiction, as well as designate whether the volume is for the adult or children's collection.

For example, if the honored person is interested in art, the gift book may be related to that field. Other gift possibilities suggested are children's encyclopedia or books for preschoolers.

If the donor wishes to give a gift of $20 or more, the average cost of a book, the gift will be acknowledged with a bookplate in the designated volume, along with the name of the donor as well as that of the honored person. A gift of any amount is most welcome, however, Griffin added.

Special envelopes for designating a gift to the library may be obtained in the library as well as at local funeral homes.

Contributions are tax deductible under current regulations, Griffin noted.

Override vote means $12,000 for Northville street repairs

The City of Northville is in line to receive nearly $12,000 from Oakland County for street repairs, following a veto override by the county Board of Commissioners last week.

The board voted 23-3 Thursday, Aug. 13, to override a veto of a plan to return surplus funds to local communities.

Although Northville is in the midst of an extensive street repair program funded by a special citywide two-mill tax, the override means that Northville is set to receive an additional $11,985—the city's share of a $5 million return to municipalities.

Oakland County ended 1986 with a surplus of over $6.3 million, and county officials spent several months debating the uses of the money. Rejecting a recommendation from county executive Daniel Murphy to use the money for several different projects, the county Board of Commissioners voted July 23 to return $5 million of the money to the 61 municipalities within the county, with the money dedicated for road improvements.

Some members of the board of commissioners have called the $5 million a symbolic move to show the dedication of the county to work on road repair and improvement—and to solve a small part of the county's road problems. The Oakland County Road Commission has estimated that the county needs over $700 million for road improvements over the next 10 years.

Murphy vetoed the board's action Aug. 6 in a prepared statement—sent to heads of local governments—Murphy listed several reasons for his veto.

Most important, Murphy said, were several legal opinions that under state law, the county could not return excess revenue to local communities for a designated purpose, since that is not an expressly permitted use for county money. In addition, Murphy said, new local revenue not controlled by voters would work against the Headlee amendment, and the county has other important needs for the extra money.

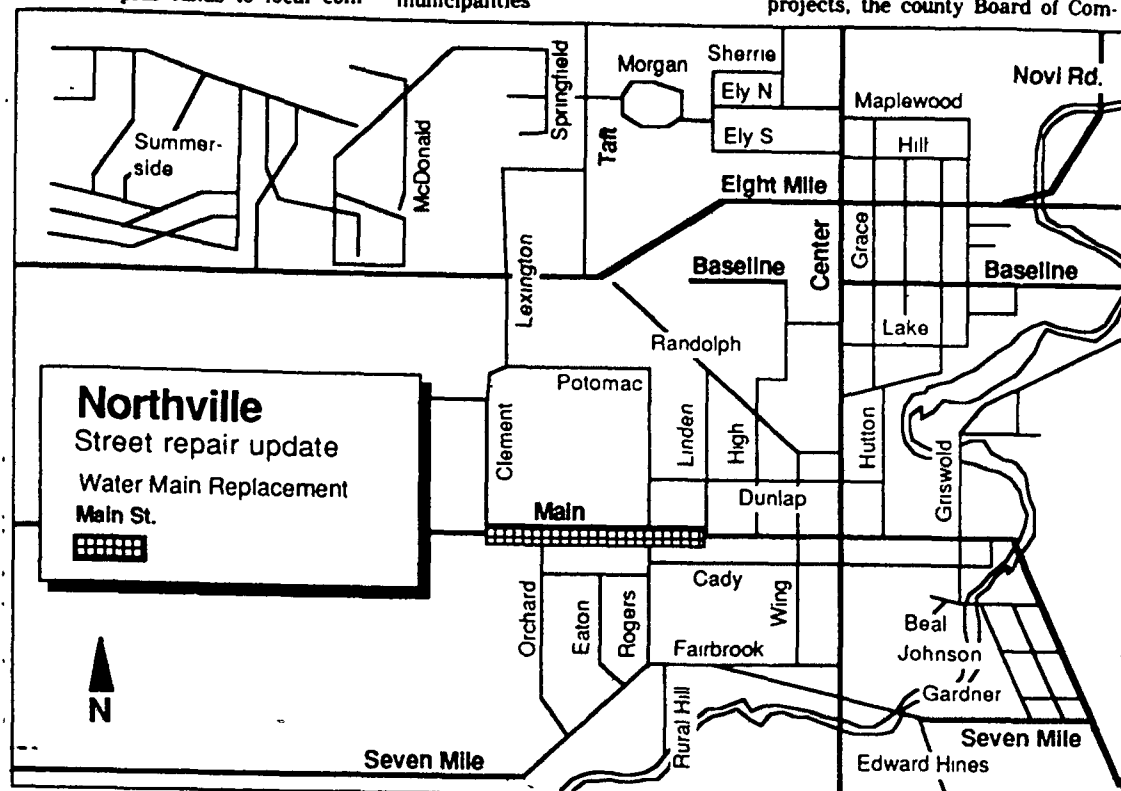

The return of the money may face a challenge in court, some county officials have said.

Oakland County Commissioner John Calandro (R-Nov), who represents the Oakland County portion of the city of Northville, explained that the money would be returned on a formula based on each municipality's state equalized value (SEV). The percent of the total county SEV which a single community comprises will determine that community's share of the $5 million.

"It works in the reverse fashion of the way we tax," Calandro said. Northville's share based on the SEV formula is $11,985.

Calandro said the money would be restricted for use in the Oakland County part of the city, that which is north of Eight Mile/Baseline Road. The money can only be used on major roads, not subdivision or private roads, he added.

Rationing puts bumps in paving

The contractor may begin the next phase of the city street repair program by the end of this month, but the city may have to curtail the work if a feared shortage of liquid asphalt materializes. City Manager Steven Walters said Monday.

At the regular City Council meeting, the council voted 4-0 to extend the city's contract with Detroit Concrete Products Corporation, MacInnis Brothers—the firm which did the repaving in the northeast section of the city—to also cover phase two of the project, mostly the area west of Center.

DCP could begin work sometime around the end of August, Walters said. However, asphalt suppliers may be rationing this fall, Walters said.

At current prices, phase two of the street repair program is estimated to cost $986,714.

In the event that rationing causes a scaling-back of the paving project this fall, McNeely & Lincoln Associates have developed a list of streets to carry priority in repairs. They are:

- Church Street from East Main Street to Cady Street.

- Fairbrook Court,
- Grandview Avenue from Orchard Avenue to Eaton Drive,
- Linden Court,
- Linden Street from Randolph Street to West Main Street,

Community educators aim for seniors

Registration for special senior citizen classes, offered through the Northville Community Education program, is being accepted at the Senior Center (Cooke School) and at the Community Education Office, Room 310, 501 W. Main Street through Aug. 26.

The classes, which are specifically designed for senior citizens, have been designed to fulfill the requirements for a high school diploma and to provide enrichment to senior citizens.

Students working toward a high school diploma may register free, but there is a $10 fee for those taking the classes on an enrichment basis.

Among the course offerings are "Adventures in Literature," a 20-week course offered Mondays from 9 a.m. to noon at Allen Terrace; "What to Do With What You've Got," a 20-week social studies class offered from 9 a.m. to noon Mondays at the Senior Center; and "Genealogy I," a social studies class offered for 20 weeks on Tuesdays from 1-4 p.m. at the Senior Center.

Other classes include "Michigan Wildlife," a Tuesday afternoon class (1-4 p.m.) offered at Allen Terrace; "Michigan History," a class exploring Michigan's history prior to 1900, which is offered from 9 a.m. to noon Wednesdays at Allen Terrace; and,

"Fitness After Fifty," which will allow participants to stay fit by walking. The fitness class will be held from 1-4 p.m. Wednesdays at Allen Terrace.

Art classes, including drawing and painting, watercolor, and printmaking also are scheduled through the Community Education Program.

Drawing and Painting is offered Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to noon at the Senior Center; watercolor will be held from 1-4 p.m. at Allen Terrace on Thursdays and printmaking is offered from 9 a.m. to noon at the Senior Center.

Registration for the classes must be completed in person and registrants must bring their social security number in order to register, said Karen Hooper, program supervisor.

She added that registration also may be made at the first class, and urged those interested to call the Community Education office, 344-8447 by Aug. 26, if registration is to be completed at the first class. Classes begin the week of Aug. 31.

All classes require at least 10 people enrolled to fill the roster.

Transportation to classes will be offered through the senior citizen bus and there is a 50-cent round-trip fee for the ride. Reservations for the bus must be made 24 hours in advance.

End of district leaves angry residents

"We have a large amount of iron in our water and the minute your softener goes out, you have a serious problem. We're in the 20th Century and it's time the people realized that," she said.

McMann noted that she has no intention of repititioning the board. "I have my name on a list for a condominium in Farmington Hills and I'm moving out," she said.

Bernard Baldwin, another original petitioner, said while he didn't need water in the sense that he was not able to drink his water, he definitely wanted the district to go through.

"It doesn't take any great deal of sense to realize that if you allow 80 acres out of the district, the costs are going to go up," he said.

Baldwin said a number of people still interested in water held a "sort of kitchen cabinet meeting on the steps of Township Hall" and decided to repitition for water.

"They really gave us a job. They just washed us out," said an irate Sonja Windisch. "It seems that the people who are opposed to water are farmers. They like the taste of well water and don't realize that the value of their homes will increase if water is provided. I just think it's kind of naive if people think they can stop water from coming. We need it."

Ken Belenair was equally adamant about the need for water.

"When you have 51 percent of the people in an area asking for water, then there's an obligation to provide it," he said. "I think the water district should have been shoved right through."

Although Belenair said he is retired and had some concerns about the costs, he noted that his neighbors were "not exactly living below the poverty level."

"There isn't a house in the district that costs less than $100,000 and most of those people have at least two cars. The whole township needs city water, and these people are no exception," he said.

Lyons, who is collecting signatures on a new petition, said she hoped to present the new request to the board for its September meeting.

he told me how happy he was how pleased he was with his life and his family.

"We talked about getting together for lunch, but we never did and now it's too late."

Bedrosian, who hired Tuck into the law firm 19 years ago, said he was an excellent attorney. "He was a very a major contributor to the success of this law firm," he said.

"He worked here doing legal research when he was a student at the University of Michigan, and he joined our firm after graduating and had been here ever since."

Tuck attended the University of Michigan Law School and had specialized in plaintiffs' litigation since 1968. He had served Wayne County as a State Bar Commissioner since September of 1966 and was president of the Metropolitan Chapter of the Association of Trial Lawyers of America in 1980-81.

A visitation was held at Verheyden Funeral Home in Grosse Pointe Park on Wednesday and a memorial service was scheduled for today at the McGregor Memorial Conference Center at Wayne State University.

Tuck is survived by his wife, Joan; two children, Katherine, 20, and David, 18; his mother, Dorothy Tuck; and a brother.

The family has asked that memorials donations be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation at 110 East Warren, Detroit 48201 in lieu of flowers.

Little radon found

Residents of western Wayne County should be able to breathe easier if preliminary radon data is confirmed, according to Vernice Davis-Anthony, Wayne County health officer.

Radon, a colorless and tasteless gas which is a potentially dangerous substance, migrates up through the soil and is commonly found in small concentrations in homes.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has set four picocuries per liter as the level at which more testing or remedial action is needed.

The county health department, with support of the Michigan Department of Public Health and EPA, has recently learned the results from preliminary screening conducted during April and May. Owners of all of the tested homes have been notified of the results, with just two of the 38 homes showing radon levels slightly higher than the suggested action level. It was suggested that the owners of the two homes conduct a 12-month confirmation test.

Additional homes are scheduled to be tested during late fall and early winter.

Providence plans new facility in Novi

By PHILIP JEROME

Citing a need for increased health care services in Novi, Providence Hospital officials have revealed plans to develop "a full-service health care facility" on the southwest corner of the Ten Mile/Taft Road intersection.

Robert Kelly, vice president of planning for Providence Hospital, said Monday that the hospital owns a 70-acre parcel at the Ten Mile/Taft Road intersection and would like to develop it into medical campus-type facility.

The information was released at a meeting attended by Novi City Council and Planning Commission members at the hospital's headquarters in Southfield.

Providence Hospital currently operates an ambulatory care center at the Ten Mile/Haggerty Road intersection in Novi as well as other ambulatory care centers in South Lyon, Brighton and Milford.

The 70-acre site would be considerably larger than the Ten Mile/Haggerty Road site which contains approximately 20 acres. Providence's Southfield facility is located on a 22-acre parcel.

Hospital officials cited population growth and a need for increased health care services as the reasons for seeking to develop a medical campus in Novi.

"We have experienced major growth at our Novi facility since it opened and anticipate additional growth in the future," said Michael Cervenak of the Providence Hospital staff.

"We currently have almost 20,000 visits to the emergency room per year at the Novi facility, making it the busiest of all our ambulatory care facilities," added Cervenak.

Kelly said Providence officials have determined through their strategic planning process that the Ten Mile/Haggerty Road location is not large enough to provide all the medical services that will be required by the Novi community in the future.

Kelly also revealed that Providence has received approval from the State Department of Public Health to expand services in pediatrics, internal medicine, dentistry, allergies, emergency care and diagnostic medicine at the Ten Mile/Haggerty site.

In addition, Kelly said, the Department of Public Health has approved Providence's Certificate of Need application to add new areas of medical service at the existing Novi facility. Included are psychology, prosthodontics, rehabilitation and physical medicine, a pain clinic and additional diagnostic services.

Health care providers are required to obtain approval from the Department of Public Health before expanding health care services in a given area. Kelly said a Certificate of Need has not yet been filed for the proposed Ten Mile/Taft Road facility.

Although the proposed Ten Mile/Taft Road location is more than three times as big as Providence's existing Southfield facility, Kelly said there are no plans to develop a medical facility the size of the Southfield facility or Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak, for example.

"Potentially it could be a full-service health facility, but it would not be a major hospital site like Beaumont or Providence/Southfield," Kelly said. "The plan does, however, have the potential to provide a full scope of medical services."

Kelly emphasized that the existing Providence/Southfield and Providence/Novi sites would be retained

Kelly also reported that the Ten Mile/Taft Road site was selected because of its proximity to the school/municipal complex on the southeast corner of the intersection.

"With city hall, the high school, the library and police station all at that location, it is a center for community services," he said. "It was our feeling that the addition of a medical services center would be compatible with what currently exists in terms of a community center where residents can obtain services."

Providence officials are talking in terms of a three-phase development which can be adjusted on the basis of need and developing trends in the field of medical services. Paul Williams, an architect with the Minneapolis-based firm of Hammel, Green & Abrahamson, Inc., said preliminary plans call for the first phase to contain additional medical office space.

The second phase would include another medical office building and outpatient diagnostic and treatment services. Phase Three would include expansion of outpatient services with a potential for an inpatient facility if the need develops.

Williams said the site would be developed to have a medical campus-type appearance with broad greenbelts along the perimeter.

Providence officials emphasized throughout the presentation that plans are only in conceptual stages and that square footage estimates or building configurations are nothing more than preliminary at the present time.

An official application has not yet been made to the city.

"Little Mary Sunshine," a musical spoof of the Nelson Eddy/Jeanette McDonald genre, is finishing up its final week at the Domino's Farms Summer Theater in Ann Arbor.

Pictured above in a scene from the play are Thad Spender, Kevin Wright and Suzanne Ogden. The musical comedy follows Mary through an unpredictable series of adventures as she seeks the help of Mountie Captain "Big Jim" to escape from the treacherous Indian, Yellow Feather.

Shows will be presented this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 2 p.m. A buffet-style dinner theater is available 1½ hours before all four performances. For reservations or ticket information call the box office at 662-3070.

"Greater Tuna," a comedy about small town life in rural America, is coming to Northville's Marquis Theatre for a limited engagement through Aug. 30.

Pictured above in a scene from the comedy are Charles Vanhoose and Stan Cahill, who play all the characters — male and female — in the show.

"Greater Tuna" is a folksy slice of life, displaying a gallery of small-town types. The fictional story focuses on the Bumiller family — the youngest daughter collects stray dogs, the eldest daughter will never be a cheerleader, the son is an infantile delinquent and the aunt is an elderly Lizzie Borden-type.

Shows will be presented Fridays and Saturdays at 8 p.m. and Sundays at 2:30 p.m. Call 349-8110 or 349-0868 for ticket information.

The Novi Concert Band will provide the music as the 1987 Summer Concert Series sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission continues Friday.

The band will be playing this Friday, August 14, at 7:30 p.m. in the park across from the clock on Main Street in downtown Northville.

An Outdoor Summer Concert will be presented on the grounds of the Henry Ford Hospital/West Bloomfield Center on Sunday, August 23, at 7:30 p.m. Performing will be the Executives "Puttin' on the Ritz" Big Band.

All musical selections will be suitable for dancing or listening, and a dance floor will be designated adjacent to the stage.

No seating is provided and concert-goers are encouraged to bring their own lawn chairs and/or blankets for sitting on the grassy knoll in front of the stage. The concert is free and plenty of parking is available. Call 334-5660 for more information.

The Nine Mile mansion is pictured in a mortgage document

Elegant Novi restaurant renovated and preserved

By ANN E. WILLIS

The stately Georgian manor which has stood near the corner of Nine Mile and Novi Road since 1930-31 is getting a face lift, thanks to restaurant entrepreneur Steve Romanik.

Romanik, owner of the West Bloomfield restaurant of the same name, purchased the former White House Manor restaurant and is renovating the old house into an innovative eatery.

The house was originally built by Charles Rogers, the inventor of condensed milk. Legend has it that Rogers built the house, which stands around a sweeping central driveway, as a showcase for his granddaughter's wedding. However, she ran off and got married, destroying his dream of her descending the staircase to be married. The manor stands on land originally settled by the Thornton family in the 1800s.

Romanik removed many of the house's interior walls to create a more visible, open feeling and said he is planning a restaurant that will be both casual and elegant with a "homey" flavor to it.

The house will retain much of the original design, including hard wood floors, working marble fire places, cherry wood paneling and leaded glass. The house was built in a traditional Georgian style with exact symmetry and classic proportions, Romanik said.

He is re-doing much of the interior and exterior, including adding terraces on the second floor for outside dining. He is replacing the original copper roofing with identical material and plans a slate terrace on the ground floor for casual outside dining.

The restaurant will seat 185, Romanik said. He is planning to use the upper floor for weddings and parties. At some point in the future he would like to add a Maryland Crab House to the basement area.

Romanik said he does all the cooking himself and foresees a menu of light California-style entrees, mixed with hamburgers and even some Cajun-style cooking. "I want it to be the kind of restaurant I would enjoy coming to," he said. "Someplace you would go however you are dressed, just to have a good time."

The ground floor area will open on to the over two-acre site, where customers will be welcome to roam, he said. He plans to have one area of the restaurant offering just desserts and said he can foresee Novi residents driving up for some pie a la mode or one of his famous brownies.

The restaurant will be called "Home Sweet Home" and will open around Sept. 8.

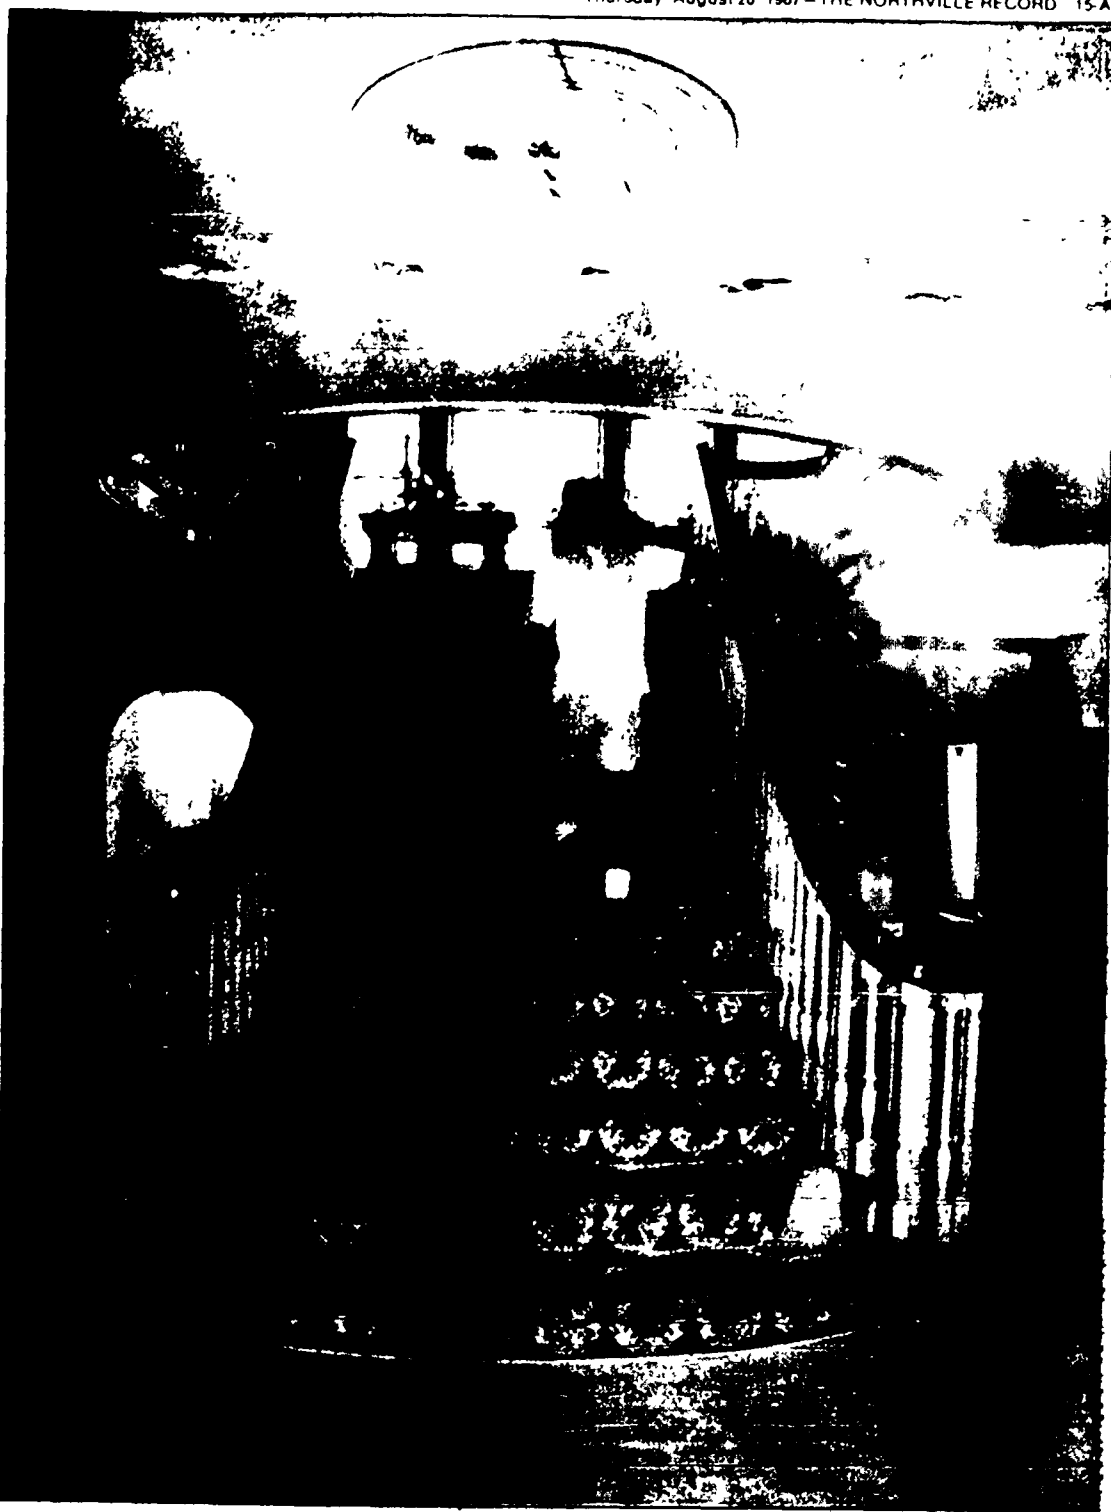

Romanik owned the Appeteezer restaurant in Milford for nine years and said he was looking for a chance to move back to the area. "I really liked Milford and thought Novi would be a nice place to open up in," he said.

"The city people have been real fair," Romanik commented. He said he had heard a lot of talk about how tough it was to do business in the City of Novi but said "they (city officials) are firm, but real fair."

Much of the interior of the house will be done in accessories of the 1920s. In the attic of the house he has gathered odds and ends from various sources that he plans to scatter about the large restaurant. Visitors will get their first look into the dining room through an old china cabinet, and he plans on using old pie cabinets as well.

The house was built "real solid," Romanik said. Steel beams support the structure throughout. "It was built to last a long time," he said. "And we're building it to stay here a long time."

"I don't think I could be a gentleman farmer — but maybe I could be a gentleman cook."

Our Opinions

Rouge sewer plant just another ploy?

If the state Water Resources Commission follows the recommendation of the Department of Natural Resources staff, a sewage treatment plant on the banks of the Rouge River is a definite possibility.

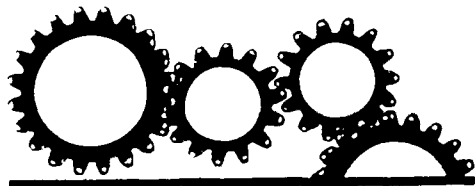

So, too, is the outcry from conservation groups and other organizations concerned with the Rouge. After spending two years in a well-publicized effort to clean up the banks and the waters of the Rouge, it is unlikely that a sewage treatment plant will be met with any kind of support.

A tertiary treatment plant to handle the combined sewage flows from Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships is a definite necessity. But there already is such a plant — the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority system in place in Ypsilanti Township. The problem is the unwillingness of the DNR to allow plant expansion and give the three townships access to the facility.

There also is a plant providing secondary treatment in Detroit, however, the three townships have made it very clear that they have no interest in remaining a part of Detroit's sewage customer listings.

Constructing a sewage treatment plant on the Rouge, at least on the surface, seems to make sense. The new plant would allow the DNR to stick to its guns in denying the Ypsilanti plant expansion and would give the three townships an alternative to the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley waste treatment system.

DNR officials have said that such a plant would actually help clean up the Rouge, since, during the summer the waters of the middle Rouge are virtually stagnant. Running clean flows into the river would actually increase the amount of water downstream and serve as a cleansing mechanism for the river banks.

But the people who have worked hard to clean the Rouge are now faced with a dilemma: Not only have they worked to clean the river's waters, but they have concentrated their efforts on the banks as well. By no stretch of the imagination could a sewage treatment plant benefit the recreational use of the Rouge or its surrounding land.

Officials from Friends of the Rouge could not comment on whether or not a sewage treatment plant, constructed downstream of the Newburgh, Phoenix or Wilcox impoundments, should be built since they have not seen any information in writing. And township officials have been reluctant to comment until they receive the DNR's position in writing. That letter is expected Aug. 28.

There are serious doubts that a plant along the Rouge will actually be built, but then, there are strong doubts that the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley system will ever become anything more than a paper sewer.

It seems that a treatment plant on the Rouge will create more problems — politically, environmentally and emotionally than it would solve.

Of course, such a plan could be so ridiculous in theory that its entry into southeastern Michigan sewage history could leave the Water Resources Commission with no alternative but to allow YCUA plant expansion.

Many accomplishments

Mayor Paul Vernon's announcement that he will not run for reelection to the city's top elective post Monday marks the end of 16 years of dedicated service on Northville City Council, 10 as mayor.

Mayor Vernon has served the city ably during some of its most important development. That the downtown is the attraction it is today is due in large part to his efforts. He has been a strong supporter and motivator of the Mainstreet '78 program that brought the renovation of the center of town.

Ten years ago, when he succeeded A. Malcolm Allen as mayor, after serving as mayor pro tem for four years, there were empty stores on Main and Center streets and merchants were seeing their business leaving for nearby shopping centers.

While many people were responsible for the success of Mainstreet '78, it was Mayor Vernon and his wife, Norma, who spearheaded the extensive beautification project that made the final result as attractive as it is today. Both worked tirelessly encouraging groups and individuals to donate benches, trees and guards that were not considered possible in the budget. They also recruited hundreds of volunteers to plant the bulbs that create bursts of color in the springtime.

But the Mainstreet '78 project was not essentially a beautification project; it was intended to be an economic revival of the downtown — and became a most successful one.

Mayor Vernon's contributions also included an active interest and contribution to the Historic District which has guaranteed that the Victorian homes which are part of the community's attractiveness are preserved. He also has been a strong supporter of Mill Race Historic Village, which has become one of the community's attractions.

His time has been given generously to many, many city activities. Additionally, he has served local organizations. Upon the death of then-postmaster John Steimel he ensured the future of the American Legion Boys State program by taking over its chairmanship. Northville sends one of the largest delegations in the state to the program.

We hope that both Mayor Vernon and his wife, Norma, will continue their interest and help in these many areas beyond the council. Both can take satisfaction in their contributions to our city.

Real life drama

By Ann Willis

As I was leaving the office in Northville the other evening, I noticed a family walking slowly home with ice cream cones dripping down their hands. Two little girls in shorts skipped ahead of their parents. The taller of the two girls suddenly broke away, pulled the smaller girl's pigtail, and ran away giggling wildly. The chase was on.

Not too long ago I was dozing in the sun by the pool. A woman was lying on a chaise lounge near me, with a headset on. It was quiet and hot — when suddenly this woman bolted upright and screamed "The Tigers won — they won it in the ninth, we're in second place." Then she lay back down.

These little flashes of daily life make me stop for a while and usually make me smile. When I was leaving work, instead of gunning out of the parking lot in hopes of making the light, I stopped and watched this perfectly normal family. That day down by the pool I laughed, and instead of lying there worrying about work or the fact I had no clean clothes, I thought about how something like a Tiger win could force people out of their normal "private space."

All these rather normal mundane parts of my life flashed through my mind as I tried to answer a friend's inquiry. One of my college buddies makes an annual visit and her first question is always "So what's new?" Because I write for a living, it naturally follows that I never write letters and most of my friends have learned to live with never quite knowing what city or what job I'm in.

But this year when Julie asked to be updated on a year of my life, I faltered. "What's new?" — Nothing much. I've learned slowly that most people outside of my immediate family do not care to know the routine items that make up a year of settled existence.

Let's face it, I'm a reporter for a suburban newspaper. For the most part I deal with stories on development. Try telling people about the great berm story you wrote last week, or the titillating account of last week's council meeting. They tend to remember suddenly they have a plane leaving for Ohio in 10 minutes that they just can't miss.

I spend my days interviewing the people around here. That may mean talking to a Girl Scout, or an expert on sewers, or an irate homeowner. It may mean trips to exciting spots like the parks and recreation building, the library and city hall. My days are relatively routine, with deadlines and meetings — just like most of working America.

I enjoy those chats with Girl Scouts and I like talking to homeowners. I'm getting used to city hall coffee and I'm adjusting to terms like "solid waste." But let's face it, it doesn't make for exciting playback to a person who remembers the days when a typical week for me might have been a climb up a mountain, a game of mud football and a cross-country car trip.

So I've settled down and become a part of suburban routine. So I can't regale my friends with pithy stories about life in the fast lane. There are bits and pieces of real life drama going on all around me and for now I'm content to sit back and enjoy it.

A couple of days ago I was walking my dog through Novi. It was hot, but then that goes without saying these days. Five teen-age boys were playing basketball on a court nearby. Their shirts were off and they were sweating as they battled each other for the ball. Their concentration was on each other and they were more interested in shoving shoulders and hitting wrists than in getting the ball in the basket. They seemed to think, despite the fact the tallest one was all of 5'8", that dunking was something they should try — and try — and try. They were not getting a whole lot of shots in.

A couple of teen-age girls were sitting watching the game. One of them, a tall, long-legged pretty girl, couldn't take it any longer. She joined the boys and while they were busy tripping each other, stole the ball, wove between the flailing legs and made an easy, effortless lay-up. Then she went and sat down.

The whole thing made me smile.

After the Fact

By Phil Jerome

I was talking to Gary Kohs Tuesday afternoon.

Gary and I went to school at Northville High School together, and we had just learned that one of our classmates, Jim Tuck, was among the people who died in the tragic plane crash at Metro Airport Sunday night.

We spent some time talking about Jim ... about how smart he was, but you never would have guessed it because he always had a big smile on his face and always seemed to be involved in some kind of mischievous scheme.

And eventually we got around to talking about life. About how your life can come to an end so suddenly. And what that means about how you should live your life.

Gary has an interesting philosophy. He's been pretty successful. He's president of Marketing Corporation of America in Birmingham, and does promotions for big Fortune 500-type companies across the United States ... and throughout the world, for that matter.

Gary was saying how he gets up every morning and tells himself two things. "Number one," he said, "is I tell myself to be sure to have fun today. And number two is I tell myself to be absolutely certain not to let anybody trash my life ... not let anybody keep me from having fun."

"There was a time when I used to let people trash my life," he continued. "Somebody would say something that upset me and I was ready to take them on."

"But not any more. Now if somebody tries to cause trouble, I just walk away. I don't let them get to me any more. Life's too short," he added. "You never know which day will be your last."

I agreed with him in theory, if not in practice. And we both agreed that we hoped Jim Tuck could say his life had been fun before it came to an end in that ball of fire that spread out across Middlebelt Road Sunday night.

Last Sunday night's air disaster at Metropolitan Airport didn't end in tragedy for our family, as it did for the young widow in our community with whom I talked yesterday, but it might have

It was the end of my husband's family's first big reunion — 13 relatives had made their way to the family cottage near the Mackinac Bridge the week before, coming from Hawaii, California and New York to join the rest in Michigan

Sunday night, after a few days of fishing, swimming and sightseeing on Mackinac Island, everyone was preparing to go home. The newly wed couple (we all were enjoying getting to know the charming bride) left in mid-afternoon from Pellston Airport to catch a flight west from Metropolitan Airport on Northwest Airlines

Later, after news of the worst air disaster in Michigan history flashed on television, those still at the cottage received a telephone call from the couple they had changed from a Northwest flight to United to make their connection to California and were still at the airport

They knew my husband's mother would be returning to Novi, would be aware of the disaster and probably was worrying. Right. However, the Northwest flight they switched from was 179. It had been delayed, and then was canceled, because of mechanical difficulties. Passengers were to have been put on two later Northwest flights, one presumably Flight 255, but Doug and Tracy would not have made their connection to Los Angeles. They transferred to a United flight and were still on the ground when the crash occurred

We finally learned the details they sat in the plane for four hours before the United flight was canceled at midnight, they finally found a room at a Ramada Inn at 2 a.m., getting a ride with the flight crew, and arrived home at 7 a.m. Monday. Tuesday they still had no clue where their luggage might be — but that didn't seem the disaster it might have under other circumstances.

Two other young relatives, a niece and nephew, found that air travel can be difficult, also, as they sat in their plane in Chicago for five hours Sunday night en route to San Jose in the delay caused by that area's big rainfall

The real tragedy was for the survivors of up to 158 victims in the Flight 255 crash. I have great admiration for the young widow of Northville resident Frank J. Viazny who this week must have pulled together very strong mental resources to make plans for the memorial Mass scheduled for today. She has two small sons, Brian, almost three, and Kevin, nine months, to care for alone. Raymond Lombardi in her husband's firm, Touche-Ross, Tuesday also was obviously feeling the loss of a CPA who was rising in the firm and was going to be much missed.

It was sad assignment to write the local story of the disaster, as it also was for Philip Jerome, who personally knew former resident James Tuck, a member of his Northville High School graduating class, also a crash victim. I kept wishing the story could have ended for the the Viazny and Tuck families with relief, as it had for us

Coach clarifies move

To the Editor:
I am writing this letter with reference to your recent article on "NHS without full-time golf coach." I feel bad about Northville High School not having a golf coach. However, I take exception with the statement from Dennis Colligan: "McVicar decided that he had coached long enough and wanted a little more free time."

I feel compelled to explain this to the parents and players whom I was involved with the past two years, as they all were tremendously supportive

I hope that Northville High School is able to find a golf coach and that the team enjoys a very successful year. I feel that any high school sport is a stepping stone for the players involved in character development.

Thanks,
Harold McVicar,
Former golf coach
Northville High School

Local reps on health board

Northville and Novi will have representatives on the Governor's Task Force on Access to Health Care. Gov. James J. Blanchard announced his appointments Aug. 6 to the broad-based task force, called for by the Governor in his 1987 State of the State message.

Tom Watkins of Northville, Director of the state Department of Mental Health, and Paul Pollicchio of Novi, first vice president, Service Employees International Union, AFL-CIO, Local 79, are among the 40 members.

Also on the task force is Edward McNamara, Wayne County Executive. The task force will study the uninsured population in Michigan and recommend policies and programs to ensure each Michigan citizen has access to adequate health care.

The task force is to assess the degree to which financial barriers prevent Michigan residents from receiving needed health care.

Northville Blue falls early in World Series

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville's Joe Kaley attempts to score against Long Island (N.Y.) during the Junior World Series

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Again the host team from Northville found the going difficult at the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) Junior World Series last week, but that's hardly surprising.

While the other six participants from all across the U.S. had to qualify for the tournament, the Northville Blue Mickey Mantle team received an automatic bid as the host team. The local squad did put up a good fight in its only two tournament games, but lost both and was quickly eliminated from the tourney.

"It's tough for the host team because we didn't qualify and we play a lot less games during the season than all the others," Blue Coach Paul Baetz said. "But it is fantastic for the kids. All our kids got a chance to play in the world series and that is very nice. This may be their only experience with something like this."

The toast of the tournament was undoubtedly the Dixie squad of Lexington, Ky., who sliced through the opposition to win the NABF crown with an unbeaten record. The Kentucky team went 5-0 and nipped the Long Island (N.Y.) Tigers 4-3 in the finals on Aug. 8 to capture the title at the Northville High School diamond.

Northville Blue opened the tourney Aug. 7 following a first round bye, and fell to Reisterstown, Md., 8-4. But the game was much closer until an error opened the flood gates and enabled the Maryland team to gather a bit of steam and put the locals away.

With Northville winning 3-1 and two out in the fifth inning, disaster struck. With runners on second and third, the pitcher threw wild to first base following a bunt attempt and both runs scored to tied it at 3-3. The next batter homered, and in a flash, the Northville team trailed 5-3.

"That was the play of the tournament for us," Baetz said. "From then on, the kids worried about that one play and it killed us."

For the game, Northville scored three runs in the fourth inning, and tallied all six of the game's hits in that one inning as well. The players of the game were third baseman Joe Kaley, who made five tremendous defensive plays, and outfielder Randy Jones, who went 2-for-3 with two runs batted in.

The loss dropped Northville into the loser's bracket later that same day, and this time the team ran up against a fired-up group from Long Island. Northville gave up eight runs in the first three innings and ended up falling 12-3.

"The kids were still a little shell-shocked from the other game — they just couldn't forget it," Baetz explained. "We gave away the first game, and the kids were thinking about it in the back of their minds."

To make matters worse, Long Island was coming off a close 4-3 defeat to Dixie and was out to redeem itself. Kaley and Brian Frellick paced the Blue attack with two hits apiece, but that was the extent of the Northville offense.

"It was a first class tournament," Baetz said. "(Tournament Director) Bob Frellick does a great job. It was the best tourney I've ever been associated with."

The Michigan representative at the world series was the South Farmington American Legion team, coached by Lou Pirronello. The team lost its opener to the Long Island Tigers, but came back in the consolation rounds to top Maumee, Ohio, and Redmond, Wash., back-to-back. South Farmington then was eliminated by the eventual champs from Lexington, 7-4, in round four on Aug. 8.

"I still feel good about the way the team played," Pirronello said. "I definitely feel we could have gone all the way, but it wasn't there."

Locals enjoy beach volleyball in Novi

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

California — the place Archie Bunker once called the "land of the fruits, the nuts and the flakes" — is usually this country's biggest trend-setter.

Wine coolers, organic diets, highway snipers and, of course, beach volleyball all originated in California. Novi has picked up a few of the more harmless trends along the way, and The Goat Farm Tavern on Novi Road is leading the pack. Not only can you enjoy many different brands and flavors of wine coolers at The Goat Farm, you can play honest-to-goodness, authentic California Beach Volleyball.

The sand is there, and so is the net, the ball and the boundary lines. From there you need a little imagination because the thundering Pacific surf, the hot California sun and valley girls in bikinis are missing. But what the heck, all the essentials are there.

"It's good outdoor fun," said Northville's Todd Hutchins, captain of the Dogs, one of five teams entered in the Coed Monday Night Sixes League. "We take a very relaxed approach to the games and concentrate on having a good time. It's not nearly as serious or competitive as the indoor leagues."

There are currently 12 teams in two leagues that play once a week at the beach volleyball court next to the Goat Farm. Mondays are reserved for the four and six-player coed teams, while Tuesdays feature the more competitive triples (three-players per team). In beach volleyball, you see a lot of diving, jumping, falling and laughing — everyone seems to be having a good time.

"It's certainly different than indoor volleyball," said Phil Hutchins. "It's funner because you can dive and not get hurt."

Last summer was the rookie season for beach volleyball at the Goat Farm. Tavern owner Paul Baker and dedicated volleyballer Gary Kelber were the two main forces in getting the league off the ground. A volleyball pit was dug and sand was trucked in, thanks to B&V Construction in Novi. New Hudson Fence provided the net posts and all systems were go.

"We had only two matches at night last season, but now we have lights and are playing a lot of games at dusk," Kelber said. "Sometimes the mosquitoes come out of the swamp out back with a vengeance, so there are still some areas to be worked out — but we're getting there."

Kelber was the organizer last season, and although he still plays in the league, he turned over the organizing job to former Novi Parks and Recreation Director Tom O'Branovich.

"This beach-style volleyball has been gaining popularity all across the country," O'Branovich explained. "It's becoming more and more the thing to do in the summer. Everyone likes the idea of playing on the sand because it is soft and you can fall in it and not get hurt. It's not as tough on your body."

And although the sand helps cushion the falls, it also makes jumping and maneuvering a much more difficult task. When the ground is soft and shifty, players often become mired and bogged down during a match.

"It's tough to get off the ground," Todd Hutchins said. "The sand is a little bit harder right now because of the rain, but normally it isn't. So the key is positioning yourself so you don't have to move a long way in a short period of time."

O'Branovich said that this year's turnout was slightly ahead of last year's, and the popularity appears to be as strong as ever.

"It is more challenging in the sand because it is hard to jump," he said. "There's not an overwhelming call for players but obviously there is still a lot of interest. We will be advertising a fall league soon and we'll see what kind of a response we get to that."

The Goat Farm Leagues seem to draw volleyballers from all over the area. A championship team from the Northville Recreation indoor leagues, called Das Hounds, is now undercover in Novi as The Dogs.

"We play in the Northville recreation leagues and we are serious about it but here we just do it for fun," said Dogs member Charlie Stilec.

Curiously, The Dogs remain undefeated in league play.

Koch wins local golf tourney

Shawn Koch of Northville won a four-hole playoff from Kevin McFarlane to capture first place in the Second Annual Brooklane Junior Golf Tournament Boys' nine-hole event July 31.

Nick and Shaun Fein of Northville tied for first in the boys' four-hole division. Northville's Brook Maurer and Eric Ozog captured the two-hole title.

CHARITY GOLF TOURNEY: The Westland Police Officers Association will hold a charity golf tournament from 8-11 a.m. on Sept. 3 at Rolling Meadows Golf Course in Whitmore Lake.

The cost is $40 per person and includes 18 holes of golf, steak dinner, refreshments and door prizes.

For more information, call Jay Deachenos between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. at 722-9600.

Rep. Carl Pursell (left) and former Tiger Jim Bunning

Pursell coaches GOP team

Republican and Democrat Congressmen gathered in late July on the ballfield to play the 26th Annual Congressional Baseball Game to benefit the Children's Hospital in Washington, D.C.

At the helm for the GOP when the umpire called "play ball" was Congressman Carl Pursell of Plymouth, making his coaching debut. In past years, Pursell played first base.

Although the Republicans lost the game 15-14 in the seven-inning classic, Pursell was pleased with the performance of his GOP team which included former Detroit Tiger pitcher Jim Bunning, now a freshman congressman from Kentucky.

"Needless to say, when you lose by one run, the game was close," Pursell said afterward.

Republicans still lead the Democrats 17-8 (with one tie) in the series. Pursell replaced long-time friend and manager Rep. Silvio Conte (R-Mass.), who retired his ball uniform after last year's game.

Cooling off

The Northville Swim Club, located on Baseline Road west of the high school, has been a very popular refuge from the stifling heat this summer. Above, local kids charge into the pool with reckless abandon following 'quiet time' for the adults. C.J. Sherbels, 11, (far right) shows his somewhat comical form on a dive, while Jennifer Taylor, 7, (right) comes up for air after a dive of her own. The club is as popular as ever, reports lifeguard Kim Valade. "There is a two year waiting period right now," she said. "We've been packed — this summer has been as busy as I've ever seen it." Club membership is 350 families and the facilities include a main pool, a diving pool, three diving boards, volleyball and basketball courts and a playground.

Talking houses

Real estate firm utilizes new concept to aid buyers

By ANITA CRONE

You've heard of talking heads like Max Headroom, talking horses like Mr. Ed and talking cars, so it stands to reason that talking houses wouldn't be far behind.

But instead of talking houses appearing on television, they are springing up in Northville, Livonia and other parts of southeastern Michigan anywhere that Bruce Roy Realty has a listing.

Bruce Roy Realty is one of the first firms in Michigan to take advantage of Talking House, a relatively low cost real estate tool that enables a prospective home buyer to hear a taped message about a house that is part of the system.

"Everybody loves it," said Ann Roy, broker at Bruce Roy Realty.

A Talking House is a house equipped with a special AM transmitter, attached to a 1 1/2-tape and plugged in to the house. To hear the message, a car radio is tuned to 1190 AM.

A special sign, like the one in front of 1012 Grace Court in Northville, informs everyone that the house is a Talking House and how to tune in the message.

Once the radio is tuned to the correct frequency, the house on Grace Court explains that it sits on a 100-by-130 foot lot, was built in 1968 and the back lot with the trees visible from the road is part of the property.

Roy said she purposely does not include a price in her message, but does provide enough information so people who are looking at houses can determine if they are seriously interested in a particular Talking House.

"You'd be surprised at the number of people who tell us they 'just want the locations so they can drive by' and then want to go inside and see the houses," said Sherry Klisz, a Realtor with Bruce Roy Realty. "The Talking House lets them drive by, but also gives them information so they can know if they want to actually see the inside of the house."

Roy said she read about Talking House, which is marketed by Realty Electronics in Fond Du Lac, Wis., in a real estate newsletter.

"I'm one of those people who picks up on new ideas and brings them back here to see if they work," Roy said, explaining why she elected to try Talking House.

Thus far, she has put two transmitters in houses, one in a home listed in Livonia, the other on the Grace Court house. She said she really has no idea whether the concept works as well as Realty Electronics says it does in marketing brochures, since the Livonia house was sold before the system was in place and access to the home on Grace Court is hindered by street repaving.

Richard Matthew, president of Realty Electronics, said however, the idea is so simple and the cost so economical that Talking House is selling itself.

"I am a real estate broker, and let me tell you, the idea of having a house providing basic information is unbeatable," he said. "You don't have to have a salesperson on hand, no one has to write down phone numbers of a lot of houses they aren't interested in, then go home, make telephone calls and finally get to see a house. The Talking House does all the work."

Thus far, the Talking House is available only through Bruce Roy Realty, but Matthew said his company has begun a marketing campaign in Michigan only recently.

"There were other firms that marketed similar products, but for one reason or another it just didn't take hold. Some of the products were too expensive, others too complicated and still other companies didn't have a professional marketing effort. We've eliminated those glitches and let the houses do the talking," he said.

Buyers can visit model for condos.

A model of the Northville Oaks condominiums on Taft Road north in Northville is now open, the development's real estate agency announced.

One furnished model and one upstairs unfurnished model are now open daily (except Thursday) from 1-6 p.m., said Mary Ellen Ramseyer of Century 21 M.J.L. Corporate Transferee Services.

Tentative prices for the 24-unit development have been set at $81,900 for a lower unit or $79,900 for an upper.

The purchase price, when confirmed, will include all appliances, carpeting and window treatments, Ramseyer said. All units have two bedrooms and two full baths.

Ramseyer said the development sits on a hill on Taft Road northeast of the Eight Mile intersection. The site presents "a beautiful view" of the Northville area, she added.

Improvements still to be made to the development include additional landscaping and carports, Ramseyer said.

More information about Northville Oaks is available from Ramseyer or Judy McDonald at Century 21 M.J.L. Corporate Transferee Service, (85) 6700.

Financial plan key to retirement

Those golden years — your retirement — are finally here. Maybe you've been looking forward to it for years. Or maybe you're not quite sure you're ready to join the ranks of the retirees.

Are you wondering how you'll find time to do all the things you want to do? Or are you worried about how you'll fill all those empty hours? Everyone faces retirement with a personal perspective, but if there's a common thread of concern that seems to affect recent retirees, it's money.

One key to managing your money comfortably on a fixed income is knowing what your income and expenses are and formulating a realistic budget, reports the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Some retirees might be inclined to live it up and enjoy life. Those people run the risk of outliving their capital. Other retirees tend to be very conservative, scrimping and saving at every corner. They may never get around to enjoying their hard-earned savings.

Basically, it's a question of balance. Knowing what your income and expenses are and how much discretionary income you have left, allows you to make informed budgeting decisions.

If you are nearing retirement, you're probably wondering how your financial needs will change. Some experts estimate an individual household needs 70 to 75 percent of current income to live comfortably in retirement. Actually, your individual expenses and circumstances will determine what you need. Many of your expenses will remain the same. If you rent a home or still have a mortgage, the monthly payments continue. Even if your mortgage is paid off, you must still contend with utility costs, real estate taxes, water and sewer bills and homeowner's insurance.

Some expenses will decrease. You will no longer have to maintain a business wardrobe, pay for commuter costs and daily lunches or give to yet another co-worker's birthday or get well fund.

On the other hand, at this age, many people are faced with increased medical expenses — for doctors, dentists, prescriptions and other health-care costs. And you'll probably see an increase in leisure activity expenses as you take advantage of your free time to pursue the interests you never had quite enough time for when you were working.

The first step in establishing a workable budget is to determine what your income and expenses are. Add up what you (and your spouse, if applicable) receive from such retirement sources as Social Security, pensions, IRA and Keogh benefits and annuities, and from other sources including savings interest, dividends and other investment earnings you receive on a regular basis. Then total up your fixed and variable expenses. Fixed expenses may include your mortgage or rent payment, property taxes, loan and insurance payments, food, utilities, automobile and transportation expenses and anything else you pay on a regular basis. Variable costs may include such items as clothing, housing maintenance and repairs, medical expenses and recreation.

It's a good idea to separate your fixed and variable expenses so you know which are likely to be affected by inflation and, if necessary, what income and expense items can be adjusted.

People living on fixed incomes have a justifiable concern about providing for their needs, especially during times of high inflation. Except for Social Security cost of living increases, much of the retiree's income often remains the same, while expenses are sure to increase. As a safeguard, you'll want to manage your other investments very carefully. This is not the time to take chances on risky investments. Again, balance is the key.

Along with your fixed-income investments, you may want some growth-oriented instruments that can help shelter you against inflation.

Keep abreast of changing economic conditions so you can respond quickly. Now, more than ever, your goal should be to do as well as you can with what you have.

Tax reform will prove beneficial for the majority of older people, particularly those with low and middle incomes. The new law eliminates the extra personal exemption that could previously be claimed by individuals who were 65 and older or blind. But, as a substitute of sorts, taxpayers who are 65 and older or blind and do not itemize can claim an extra standard deduction of $750 for each single individual and $600 for each married individual or surviving spouse.

These extra deductions are in addition to the increased regular standard deductions. Another plus — people who are 65 and older do not have to wait until 1988 to take advantage of the increase in the standard deduction. The higher amounts take effect for them in 1987. With the increase in the standard personal exemption and the extra standard deduction, taxpayers who do not itemize are likely to fare better under the new law than the old.

Beginning in 1987, those who do itemize face a reduction in the amount of medical expenses that are deductible. Starting with your 1987 return, medical expenses are deductible to the extent they exceed 7½ percent of your adjusted gross income, as opposed to five percent under the old law.

Arbor Drugs unveils Novi building plans

Brick-laying ceremonies for an Arbor Drugs' Distribution facility were held recently in Novi.

The 233,600 square foot facility is located on a 20.9 acre site on Novi Road between Grand River and Ten Mile.

A ribbon bedecked brick was put in place by Eugene Applebaum, Chairman of the Board and President of Arbor, Patricia Karevich, Mayor of the City of Novi, and Ben Donaldson, President of Cunningham Limp Construction Company.

Following the ceremony, guests, wearing hard hats, enjoyed hot dogs and ice cream cones at the construction site.

Applebaum described the building as almost five acres under one roof. "To accommodate future expansion, the site is designed so the building can easily double in size," said Applebaum.

It is a structural steel building with decorative split-faced block and insulated metal siding veneer. There will be 22 truck bays — 12 shipping and 10 receiving.

Applebaum reported that the building has been substantially completed. Installation of racks is under way and a move in date of November-December is anticipated, said Applebaum.

"We are planning to be fully operational after the first of the year," he added.

Cunningham Limp Construction Company and Cunningham Limp Engineers, engineers-builders-developers, are responsible for all phases of the project.

Electric sales increase

Consumers Power Company today reported that electric sales for the first half of 1987 increased 1.8 percent compared to the same period in 1986 and were the highest in the company's 101-year history.

Warmer than normal temperatures in May and June and continued economic growth in Michigan, particularly in the central and western portions of the state, were responsible for the sales increase.

"Consumers Power has recorded three consecutive years (1984-1986) of record electric sales. Based on the first half of this year, it is now virtually certain that 1987 will, for the fourth year in a row, set an all-time electric sales record," said William T. McCormick, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Consumers Power Company.

Fall 1987

Chris Boyd

As your thoughts turn to Labor Day picnics and which teams will be in this year's World Series, you can almost bet that most American students (grades K-12 and beyond) are out shopping to stock their closets with the latest in fall fashions.

One can't be caught at school wearing last year's Calvins or Reeboks, so for a look at what's going to be hotter than hot, here's a sampling of what you can bet the "in" crowd will be sporting when the first hour bell chimes two weeks from now.

In the photo above, Novi's Kim Dasher, 17, is wearing a white cotton turtle neck ($32), black and white skirt ($36), black coat ($76), black beret ($12) and black kilt ($48) from Contempo Casuals. Novi's Jessica McLaughlin, 4, is wearing a pink Healthtex varsity sweatshirt ($12.98), a white turtleneck ($4.98) and a pink Healthtex fleece skirt ($9.38) from Children's Place. Novi's Amy Coleman, 16, is wearing an indigo shirt ($30), a white cotton blouse ($28), a brown leather jacket ($260), white varsity socks ($4.50), pewter clip-on earrings ($8.50), a pewter bracelet ($14), an airplane pin ($6.50) and a red belt ($10) from Contempo Casuals. Novi's Maureen Devlin, 16, is wearing a yellow hunter print skirt ($58), a Lake Harmony red sweater ($45) and a yellow hunter print blouse ($45) from American Eagle; and Northville's Daniel Arnold, 4, is wearing faded black bugleboy suspender pants ($17.98), a long-sleeve black rugby polo shirt ($8.98) and a long-sleeve button-front red box-print shirt ($9.98) from Children's Place.

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of this newspaper.

Testing doesn't always make grade

The majority of pre-school age children deemed "unfit" for making the transition to kindergarten are not mentally or emotionally deficient — they may instead be victims of an outdated, inaccurate "school readiness" testing system, according to a pediatric psychologist at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

Only about 2 percent of the children who "fail" school readiness tests usually administered in the spring should legitimately be held in preschool an extra year, while the others are grossly mis-evaluated, said Ralph Gibson, Ph.D., a professor of psychology in pediatrics and communicable diseases.

"The tests given to preschoolers have questionable predictive value of how a child is going to do at all," he said.

The most commonly used tests, some of which have been used since the 1930s, are very limited in scope and don't take into account the "total child." Furthermore, teachers administering the tests are often untrained in assessing child development, he maintained.

"The methods of pre-school testing used across the country emphasize some language, motor and perceptual skills. They assess very few aspects of a child's overall development. Such a narrow perspective virtually guarantees that a lot of bright, capable children aren't going to pass the screening," he said.

Instead, they're often erroneously given labels such as "learning disabled" or "hyperactive," or are said to have dyslexia or an "attention deficit disorder."

"When the parents are hit with those buzzwords and are told their child didn't pass the test, they assume that little Johnny has 'failed' nursery school and therefore has blown his chance of getting into Harvard. This, of course, is absolutely ridiculous, there's no way a kid can fail nursery school," Gibson said.

At best, school readiness tests assess a child's current skills in perception, language and motor coordination. They do not take into account the fact that children between ages 3 and 4 are at a stage of very rapid development. "A child who appears 'unready' in May might be more than ready for kindergarten by July," he said.

Parents often unrealistically expect their child to develop academic skills in nursery school. While a certain degree of incidental learning takes place, the point of nursery school is to teach children social skills, he said. "However, by the time a child is ready for kindergarten, he or she should already have picked up a few basics, such as knowing how to print their name, identifying colors and geometric shapes and being familiar with the concept of numbers."

More important than picking up the rudimentary concepts behind the "three Rs," however, is the child's emotional development, which cannot be measured by a test. "An evaluation should never be done in a mechanistic way without finding out about the child's feelings, how he or she copes with negative emotions such as anger and depression, and how he or she interacts with family members."

For this reason, if there are any doubts about a child's readiness, Gibson recommends that parents consult a pediatrician or a child clinical psychologist for a more complete assessment. A pediatric psychologist can then evaluate the child more thoroughly using a variety of methods, including verbal and non-verbal intelligence tests, drawings and exploratory conversations with the child and his or her parents.

Assessment by a child clinical psychologist or pediatrician is also more objective than an evaluation by someone within the school system, Gibson said.

Couple wed in Kalamazoo

Karla Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Heath of Kalamazoo, became the bride of Scott Morgan of Kalamazoo in a double ring ceremony at Zion Lutheran Church in Kalamazoo.

He is the son of Barbara Morgan of Northville and Ed Morgan of Westland.
The Rev. Timothy Koenig officiated at the 7 p.m. service May 22.

The bride wore a traditional white satin wedding gown trimmed in lace and styled with puffed melon sleeves. She carried a colonial bouquet of silk flowers. She had made all the flowers used in the wedding.

Karla Heath, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a tea-length gown in soft floral pastels. Stephen Morgan was best man for his brother.

A reception for 150 guests was held at Don Neal's reception hall.
After a wedding trip to Toronto, the newlyweds are making their home in Kalamazoo.

The bride is a graduate of Bronson School of Nursing and is a registered nurse with Hospice of Greater Kalamazoo. The bridegroom, a 1979 graduate of Northville High School, attended Western Michigan University and is employed at Kalamazoo Stamping and Die Company.

In Our Town

Newcomers slate fall coffee, parties

By JEAN DAY

A fall membership coffee, a lobster luau and a western hoedown are three upcoming opportunities for newcomers in the community to become acquainted. Northville Newcomers, one of our town's most active organizations, isn't waiting until Labor Day to schedule activities.

Newcomers president Christine Knapp announces that the lobster luau will be Saturday, Aug. 29, at the home of Marie and Bill Rumbley on Mayo Drive. Co-chairing arrangements for the couple outing are Suzanne and Forest Warren. In addition to lobster, Hawaiian dancers are promised.

The western hoedown is a couples' event to be held Sept. 26 at 7:45 p.m. at Sugar Bush Farms in Ypsilanti. Pat Custer and Marty Novak are making arrangements for the party which will include a hayride, chili feast and a square dance. Reservations are being taken, starting today, through Sept. 18. Cost is $26 a couple with reservations limited to 25 couples. Call Marty Novak at 349-4266.

Women who are new to the community are invited to attend the club's annual fall membership coffee at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Sept. 10, at First United Methodist Church, Eight Mile at Taft.

President Knapp notes that the invitation is to all women who have lived in the Northville School District five years or less. Board members will be present to explain club programs, including ladies day and couples' events. Annual dues are $10 for full participation in all activities, including 35 interest groups that range from crafts and bridge to wallyball and theater. A monthly newsletter keeps members updated on what is happening. Pati Walz, membership, 344-9824 or President Knapp, 348-1279, may be called for more information.

WAFGA's 21st annual flower show is next week

"Michigan — Legends and Legacies" is the title for the exhibit of floral arrangements created by 22 Michigan branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Now one of the largest judged events of its kind in the country, the show will be presented Aug. 24-29 at Summit Place shopping center at 315 N. Telegraph in Pontiac.

Northville branches are participants in the show which will include free daily lectures at 2 p.m. Topics, Monday through Saturday in order, are "Growing and Making Your Own Potpourri," "Recipe for Flower Arranging," "Learning about Lilies," "Bonsai, a Way to Grow," "Theorem Painting" and "Pioneer Musketry and Musket Balls."

Dr. Chamberlain's ministry designed to fill many needs

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an interview with Dr. Lawrence A. Chamberlain, pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Northville, is the first in a series of stories on our local churches which will run in the coming weeks.

By ANN CHOWDHURY

Six years ago droves of people were leaving the metro Detroit area because of the slump in the auto industry. That was when the Rev. Dr. Lawrence A. Chamberlain moved here from Salem, Ohio, as pastor of Northville's First Presbyterian Church.

"The whole area was in the doldrums of the auto thing, and I wanted to share those times," Chamberlain said.

He has seen similar times in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, in the Nixon era and seen the trauma of layoffs and people looking for jobs. "I felt I had the skills to help," he explained, "— that it would be a meaningful ministry."

Since Chamberlain took the reins of Northville's oldest church, a church established in 1892, its membership has grown from 850 to almost 1200.

Though part of the growth can be attributed to recent population growth in the community, church members quickly point out that they are attracted to the church because it meets their current needs and offers something for everyone.

Church member Thomas Cook, president of Three PM Inc., Livonia, moved with his family to Northville seven years ago. As a business person he is geared to achievements and progress and he sees the First Presbyterian Church as performing the same way.

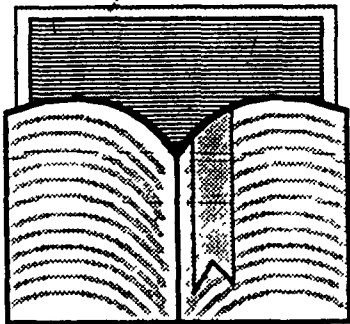

"It has programs for the whole family to enjoy, and we also keep going because of the people we meet there."

The church has always served as the center for a community ministry. It provides meeting space for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, Rotary and Northville Woman's Club.

It sponsors the oldest Alcoholics

In the Pulpit

An introduction to area ministers and their churches

Anonymous unit in Michigan, a program which has grown over the years to include Alateen and Alanon units as well as the traditional A.A. program.

A graduate of Westminster Choir College prior to his days in Princeton and McCormick seminaries, Chamberlain is proud of the church's musical accomplishments.

"Throughout its history, the Presbyterian Church has had an affinity for the arts," Chamberlain pointed out. "Music is part of our tradition and our heritage."

Jeffrey Fowler is the director of music and education. His senior choir has over 50 voices and swells to over 70 for special performances of the "Messiah" at Christmas.

It has become a tradition for singers from other churches to join the choir for its special offerings.

According to Chamberlain, both the music and education programs have grown to the extent that a third minister has been recruited to take over the education and youth ministry.

Fowler will continue as director of music while he completes his doctorate at the University of Michigan. "By that time the music program will have grown to a full-time position," Chamberlain said.

"We are really making a push in our programs in terms of ministering to the young," he stressed. "The next associate will provide a presence among the young in the community. Our program is not designed for reciprocity though."

He explained that the person who takes the new position will be out wherever the young are, at sports events, chaperoning school dances, wherever needed.

Though adolescence has always been a difficult time he feels that the young have extra problems to cope with today, and he hopes that the church will be able to provide them with coping skills.

"Previous generations were raised with the chance of upward mobility. Parents who had not been to college wanted us to go to college and do better than they had. Today the young realize that they might never be economically or socially better off than their parents.

"They also realize that in some ways they may be better off. They understand and are aware that it's all up for grabs. In more wealthy communities people have been appraised of the limited benefits of materialism. They have so much, but in terms of ultimate experience they have no more than other happy, healthy families."

Chamberlain sees that the church's role is to search out and provide perspective where it is needed, and that churches are growing because of a need for help in a society where change is rampant.

He sees the Detroit area as being on the cutting edge of changes in the global economy. "It's the most fertile ground for preaching in the country and it's a wonderfully exciting time to be here," he said.

"The work ethic says that, if you work hard, things will go well. It used to work, but it isn't working any longer. It's confusing. The people here build cars. If you do everything right, when you turn the key it runs. Apply that to life styles, and it doesn't work any more and it's confusing."

He feels that the church can ease the frustrations of those whose lives and jobs are affected by global economic upheavals, help them realize the difference between who they are and what they do, and convince them that tough times don't last but tough people do.

Rev. James Russell is the associate pastor in charge of mission and outreach. It's an area that has grown rapidly in since 1981 when the mission giving was seven percent of every dollar that came in. The amount has increased until it is now 25 percent, about $70,000.

The church has also adopted local outreach programs through Care and Share Fund and global ministry in Cancun, Mexico.

A task force of adults will go to Mexico to work on constructing a hospital wing the church is committed to funding.

The Senior High Youth go annually on mission work camp trips. This year they went to Kentucky to work in programs to help the less fortunate.

They also help downtown Detroit congregations, providing food, clothing and health care. At Christmas they collect toys which are cleaned, repaired and distributed in the city.

When the church received the gift of a new van, the old van was completely serviced, put in good running condition and given to an inner city church of the denomination.

"It's part of what the church calls an 'urban-suburban' coalition," said Chamberlain. "Presbyterians believe the church is larger than any one congregation. We are committed to sharing the gospel cooperatively."

Russell is also in charge of the newest portion of the church's program, its ministry to singles. Divorce recovery programs are in great demand. One week over 70 new people participated in the singles ministry.

"Singles are a large drawing card for us," said Chamberlain. "Divorcees often feel the church has disowned them. Finding this church

Town Hall lecture change: Sheila MacRae will speak

Northville Town Hall will launch its 27th season a week later than previously announced. Humorous author Theresa Bloomingdale will open the series Oct. 15 at the Sheraton Oaks Novi.

In a second change from the announced schedule, Sheila MacRae will replace Tony Martin as the second attraction in the series on Nov. 12. Martin canceled due to illness.

MacRae, whose topic will be "The Ladies Who Last," will talk about the world of entertainment. She will sing Gershwin, Porter, Coward and Son. Her numbers as she reminisces about life, love and career.

In her lecture she portrays personalities of the day — Elizabeth Taylor, Dinah Shore, Olivia Newton John, Jackie Onassis, Barbara Streisand — with humor and in her sometimes biting style.

According to her agent, Keedick Lecture Bureau, "her tribute to all of the ladies in the entertainment business who are over 40 is a show stopper." Helen Hayes, Mary Martin, Ethel Merman, Julie Harris and Kim Stanley are included.

Theresa Bloomingdale's first book, "I Should Have Seen It Coming When the Rabbit Died," was an instant success. It was followed by "Up a Family Tree," another hit, and "Murphy Must Have Been a Mother" (And Other Laws I Live By).

A resident of Omaha, she had 10 children in 12 years and when the last one entered school began to write about the insanity of having 10 children yet proving the joys and hardships outweigh the miseries.

James Humes, who worked in the Eisenhower White House while attending George Washington University Law School and who later served in both the Nixon and Ford White House as a presidential speech writer, will be the third lecturer on March 10, 1988. He is known for his portrayals of Winston Churchill.

Final speaker in the 1987-88 series will be Helen Thomas, who will speak April 14.

White House Bureau Chief for United Press International, Thomas has reported the activities of presidents and first ladies since 1960. She is the first woman to head up the presidential coverage of a major wire service and is the senior staffer of the UPI reporting team regularly assigned to the White House. She was born in Winchester, Ky., and grew up in Detroit, graduating from Wayne State University.

Tickets for Northville Town Hall are sold by season subscription only for $25 and are available from Martha Lyon, ticket chairman. Check should be made payable to Northville Town Hall and mailed with a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Northville Town Hall, P.O. Box 93, Northville 48167.

Presbyterian minister sees church fulfilling needs accepts and supports them has drawn many to us.

Though the pastor spends 40 percent of his time marriage counseling and stresses that the church affirms married life, he also understands that people grow apart as well as together.

About 50 percent of the church members are above 50 years of age and the special concerns of the older members are taken into consideration. Members are brought to worship from the Allen Terrace, the city's retirement housing complex.

The church is even exploring the possibility of day care for the elderly who need supportive care during the day while their children work. It would be a pre-nursing home kind of arrangement, but finding a feasible way to finance such a project is proving difficult.

Chamberlain is very sensitive to the children in the church and makes a special effort to include them in the Sunday services. A filled candy jar on his office coffee table is a standing invitation to the younger set and a valued memento from his former church in Salem, Ohio.

He explained that during his last service in Salem, the children presented him with the candy jar and

"It's mainline, traditional and consistent with biblical preaching."

— Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain

each child came forward with a piece of candy to fill it. This was their gift to the children of Northville.

At his first service in Northville, he presented the children with the jar which now has a place of honor in his office.

James and Dorothy Crain and their family have been church members since 1971. Dorothy, chairman of the Women's Association, said that all women church members are automatically members of the association.

She said that it breaks down into smaller circles to provide fellowship and Bible study, and considers its main purpose local and worldwide missions.

The Women's Association also provides support for the mostly younger women who have recently started a Young Mothers Group.

Crain credits Chamberlain's charisma with attracting more people to the church.

"He has real flair. His preaching is dynamic and demonstrative and he is a good story teller," she said. "He's been good for our church, built it up, and is in tune with the needs of the community."

Despite the many rules the church plays in the community, Chamberlain stresses, "Our main focus will always be worship. Presbyterians have always had biblical preaching supported by disciplines of study, sharing and service as the hallmark of their reformed faith."

He admits that he enjoys preaching and feels his approach has attracted people to his church.

"It's mainline, traditional and consistent with biblical preaching. We preach out of the context of the life people are living, deal with things vital for people today, and people are desperate for that," he said.
