Downtown firms moving in, out and over

Record/CHRIS BOYD

The Water Wheel Car Wash is undergoing renovation to accommodate full-sized vans

While construction in downtown Northville is causing some easily visible changes to the face of the city, several other downtown businesses are changing in more subtle ways including openings, closings, and movements.

Among the changes are:

- Green's Home Center, 107 N. Center, has closed. Outstanding orders are being handled through the Yankee Carpenter on Telegraph Road, the phone number is 338-0441.

- Green's owner Debbie Albright said that she has been busy delivering the outstanding orders. She explained that she had planned to sell the business, but that her buyer backed out.

- Meanwhile, Judy's Country Curtains — which was downstairs from Green's — is moving into Green's old space and expanding the business.

- Judy's will maintain its current line, but will add wallpaper and paint services, co-owner Judy Gullan said.

- The space vacated by Judy's will now be occupied by a new business called The Kitchen Witch, Gullan said. The new store will sell pots, pans, recipe books, and other kitchen items.

- Chirri and Sons, Inc., — the building, windows, roofing and siding firm — has moved. The company was at 101 E. Main, but has moved to the Highland Lakes Shopping Center on Seven Mile Road.

- Fran Dougher of Chirri and Sons said the firm moved because the new store is a better location for its purposes, and provides more room. The new site is about three times as large as the old, she said, and will allow the company to set up a complete showroom.

- The old Chirri and Sons site has been leased. The city Historic District Commission Monday night approved a new sign for the building, for a store called E. Christie, City Manager Steven Walters said.

- E. Christie will be operated by Shirley and Jim Cowie who also have Anne's Fabrics at 111 E. Main and Anne's Crafts at 110 N. Center.

- Belanger's Car Wash, on Main Street at the east end of downtown at Cady, is remodeling its facilities and adding a canopy.

- The Water Wheel Car Wash, which serves as a research and development facility for Belanger, is having the roof raised to accommodate full size vans, and more room is being created for testing. Workmen expected that the renovation will be complete in six weeks.

- The Elias Brothers restaurant off Cady Street — in the Northville Square building, behind the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen — closed Oct 5.

- Northville Square Associates in Southfield, owner of the building at 133 W. Main, said Wednesday that plans are to replace Elias Brothers with another restaurant. A spokesperson for the firm reported "a couple of possibilities" are being explored presently and it definitely is planned that another restaurant will occupy the space.

Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, said she understood the owner of the Northville Big Boy also owned other restaurants which were more profitable and had made the decision to close the Northville operation.

Identity crisis

It's tough for little boys to figure out what they want to be when they grow up but 3-year-old Mickey O'Brien has all his bases covered. Perhaps the Tigers could have used the youngster's help in the American League Championship Series, since he obviously is a fan, and a potential fire chief (certainly the Tigers needed a fireman relief pitcher), and even a sailor, as his boat indicates. Most likely, though, Mickey is just a little boy having fun in the fall.

Candidates to meet the public tonight

A city candidates' forum sponsored by the local chapters of the League of Women Voters and the American Association of University Women is scheduled for 7:30 tonight (Thursday) at the Northville City Hall.

With the deadline past for filing for office in the Nov. 3 city election, the campaigns of the two candidates for mayor have begun in earnest.

G. Dewey Gardner and Christopher Johnson are running for Northville mayor. Three seats on the City Council are also up for election, but only three people — Carolann Ayers, Paul Folino and Jerry Mittman — filed to run, so the only contested seat is the mayor's.

All five candidates for office were scheduled to meet the residents of the Allen Terrace senior housing complex in an informal coffee yesterday (Wednesday) morning.

Gardner, who has been a council member and mayor pro tem, said his campaign has included mailings to city residents, meetings of neighborhood campaign workers and generally "trying to get the voice of the people," he said.

"Most of the people are very satisfied. They like the way the town is going," he said. "Just because they're not at City Council meetings doesn't mean they're not interested. I found out ... The response has been overwhelming."

One important issue in the campaign will probably be zoning around downtown, Gardner said. He added that he supports continuing development of the current business district before expanding it any more.

Johnson, a member and former president of the Northville school board, began his campaign with a kickoff gathering Tuesday, Oct. 3. His efforts have been "mostly talking to people, so far," he said.

"I've been real happy with the response. You can tell people are interested," he said. He added that his campaign will address "the long-term growth of the city — how it's going to develop, where it's going to develop."

Cooperation between governmental units — in areas like services and planning — will also be important, he said. "The city has to cooperate in order to provide some services ... Zoning and planning in the township can drastically affect what happens here."

Tax cut plan will prove costly to Northville schools

By ANITA CRONE

If the suggestions incorporated in the Michigan School Finance Commission report are implemented, the Northville Public Schools could be in big trouble.

The report, prepared by a group of 45 legislators, business people, labor leaders, media representatives and school personnel, was presented to the State Board of Education in September.

Since the report was issued, school officials have not been unanimous in their approval. In fact, George Bell, superintendent of the Northville Public Schools, has said he will take an active role in opposition to the implementation of the report's suggestions, which include a 2 percent raise in the state sales tax coupled with a cap on property taxes.

"We are not an average school district by any means and yet this report is geared to improving the average school system," Bell said.

A Constitutional amendment would be required to implement the report provisions, including placing a 23-mill fixed tax rate on all commercial, industrial, utility and developmental property. The revenue from that 23 mills would be placed in a school aid fund.

Each independent school district would be authorized to levy up to 18 mills without a vote on residential, agricultural and timber cutover property. School districts could request an additional seven mills, but property taxes on individuals would be limited to 25 mills.

Northville voters have currently authorized a 35.4-mill rate.

"I think the intent to lower property taxes is good and the objective of maximizing business and commercial property taxes at 23 mills will improve the business climate in Michigan," Bell said.

He added he did not expect the report's suggestions to be implemented; however, if changes were not made, his district could lose $3.9 million per year from its operating budget.

"I think the members of the committee wanted to achieve two things — property tax relief and equalizing educational opportunities among districts," said Bell.

He said he would be "surprised if the voters approved this proposal Under current tax law, sales tax is not deductible but property taxes are."

Also among the recommendations in the report is a proviso whereby the Social Security payments for district employees, currently paid by the state for out of formula districts, would be picked up by the individual school districts. In Northville that translates to about $750,000 annually, Bell said.

Northville Public Schools expend $4,104 per pupil annually. Thirteen other districts are within that range and that covers 4.8 percent of the state's 1.6 million public school students.

"What the committee is trying to address is the majority of the districts, which currently receive $2,500-$3,999 per pupil."

"And, I cannot support a program that does not put more money into a school district. It is the state's responsibility to fund education," Bell added.

In equalizing the educational opportunities to students, the report suggests implementing a statewide core curriculum as well as the concept that parents and pupils not necessarily be bound to the school closest to their homes.

"We have already exceeded, through our curriculum, the core curriculum," Bell said. "And, as for the 'school of choice' concept, our elementary schools are not in competition with each other, and with only one middle school and one high school, there is no choice."

Bell said residents already have the opportunity to send their children to whatever elementary school they choose, providing that the additional enrollment does not create a class size burden.

"Basically, this proposal will not benefit the Northville Public Schools," Bell said. He added that he expected the Legislature to use the report as a basis for educational reform. "But I would be very surprised if it were implemented."

NEWS BRIEFS

WOMAN NO. 2 — The Northville Rotary Club is in the process of admitting its second female member. Joining Sherry Klisz on the roster is Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss.

Goss said last week she had a sponsoring member and is in the process of completing the paperwork for admission to the organization.

PLANNING OFFICERS — The Northville City Planning Commission elected new officers Tuesday, Oct. 6.

Dick Wilhelm is the new chairperson of the commission, replacing Jerry Mittman. Mittman is running unopposed for City Council this fall, and will be required to resign from the commission if he wins.

John Hardin remains vice chairperson of the commission. Michael Kowalski was elected secretary, replacing Wilhelm. All nominees were unopposed and all were elected unanimously.

TOP COPS — William Helke, the top graduate from the Detroit Metropolitan Police Academy and Matthew Mayes, who graduated sixth in his class, have joined the township police department. Mayes was sworn in Oct. 7 and Helke, who injured his back about two weeks before the class ended, is on line to join the force as soon as he receives an OK from his doctor.

The addition of the two probationary employees, brings the township force up to 17.

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT — During the Northville Planning Commission meeting Oct. 6, as the hour grew late, commission member David Totten confessed he was watching the clock.

Commission Chairperson Jerry Mittman responded, "We've got all night. City Council goes till midnight."

"And you're practicing," Totten returned. Mittman is running unopposed for a council seat.

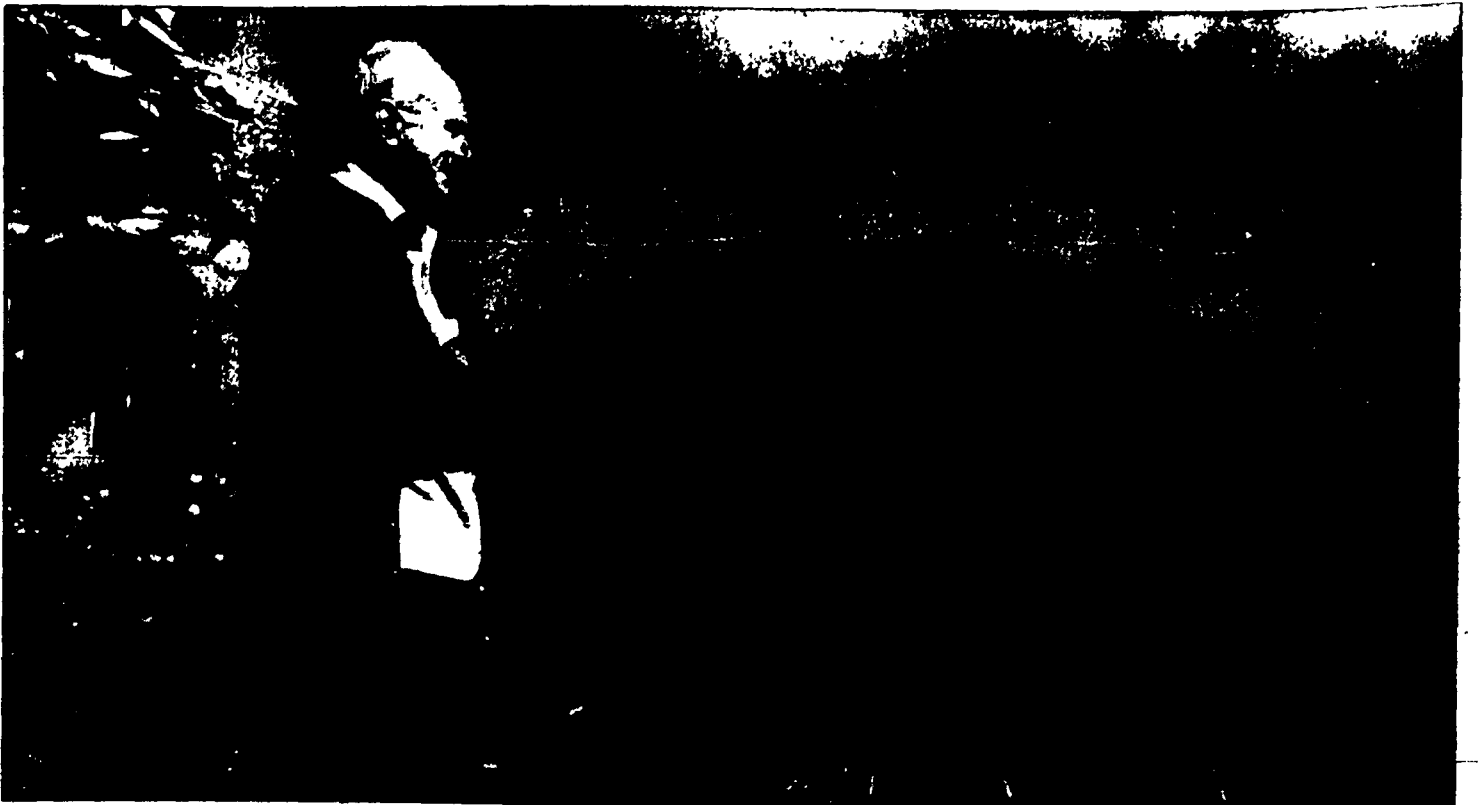

SANTA NEEDS HELPERS — Organizations, subdivisions, individuals are being sought to build floats to enter in the Santa Parade to be held downtown at 1 p.m. Nov. 22. The Northville Community Chamber of Commerce is encouraging everyone interested to participate and invites calls at 349-7640.

CWW PAYOFF — Although Northville Township is using its mid-decade census for state revenue sharing funds, its dues for Conference of Western Wayne membership are based on the 1980 Census and total $1,739.61 for the year. The board of trustees approved paying the money at the Oct. 8 meeting.

PAVING DELAYED — Wayne County has indicated that Beck Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads, will likely not be paved this year. Although some of the shoulder work is being completed, Steve Brock, township manager, said the actual paving has been postponed until 1988.

NEW APPOINTEES — Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, has been named to fill a term on the Northville Township Economic Development Corporation. Marrs' term expires Oct. 11, 1989.

Richard Henningsen and Peggy Campbell also have been appointed to positions by the trustees. Henningsen and Campbell will fill two of three vacancies on the Library Task Force Committee. A third position is expected to be filled at a later date.

Hospital drilling won't start soon

"There is an area on the property that is unused and would provide some cover from the surrounding area where we anticipate drilling from."

— Michael Harris
Somoco partner

Although officials with Somoco Inc. are going ahead with preliminary plans to explore for gas and/or oil at a Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital site, a spokesperson for the company said it could be as late as next summer before any drilling would actually start.

"It's a little premature for us to make statements as to what and when we will be doing any drilling," said Michael Harris, partner in Somoco.

Harris said, if drilling does proceed, it would involve only hospital property and the drilling rig would only be in operation for about 10 days.

Harris said the company's target site is not directly under the proposed drill site, but is still on hospital property. "There is an area on the property that is unused and would provide some cover from the surrounding area where we anticipate drilling from," Harris said. He noted that until the drilling begins, the company will actually produce gas or oil."

Walter Brown, NRPH director, said all negotiations with the company are being handled through the Department of Mental Health in Lansing.

"I do know that the area they are talking about drilling from is not located near a patient area," Brown said, noting that he expects the drill site to be fenced.

Brown and Harris said that if the drilling is successful, the gas and/or oil would provide the hospital with another source of fuel.

has no way of knowing whether gas or oil will be found.

"Even though we have had a pretty high success rating during our recent drilling, there really is no way of knowing whether a particular site

COPING WITH FOOT FATIGUE

By Jack A. Kaufman, D.P.M.

Almost everyone complains of aching feet at one time or another. When walking or standing for long periods of time the muscles of the feet work hard to balance the foot and support the arch, causing tired, aching feet.

The following exercises can help relieve and even revive your feet. Wearing comfortable clothing, begin by sitting cross-legged on the floor.

Exercise No. 2. Flexing right foot, grasp toe and gently pull toe back toward shin. Hold 15 seconds, relax 10 seconds and repeat. Switch to left foot.

Exercise No. 3. Massage sole of right foot with thumbs. Work up and down the arch with circular movements. Repeat massage on left foot.

If your feet ache often and don't improve with rest and these exercises, you could be a candidate for prescription orthotics.

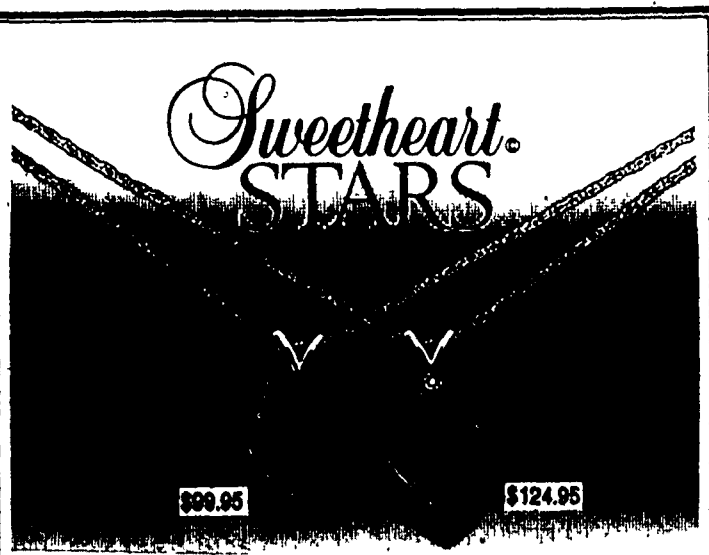

Orthotic inserts fit comfortably into most shoes and are custom designed to fit the needs of each individual. As the foot rests on the orthotic, it is gently and consistently forced into the correct position.

No health problem, no matter how minor, should be ignored. This is especially true of the feet, since they are the base of the entire skeletal structure. When foot problems arise, be sure to see a foot specialist right away.

DDA seeks spaces for parking

Discussion about parking needs in downtown Northville shifted to a new direction Tuesday with the members of the city's Downtown Development Authority agreeing to hold off discussions of an expanded parking deck in favor of considering different ways to use available space.

City Manager Steven Walters said that discussion at Tuesday's DDA meeting resulted in an idea to do an engineering study of the parking area behind the businesses on the north side of Main Street from Center to Hutton, and of the current parking deck area.

The capacity in that north parking lot could increase if changes were made, such as rearranging the spaces and layout, squaring off the Hutton/Dunlap intersection, or possibly moving Hutton, Walters said.

Then, the parking deck area will be analyzed for its potential as a surface parking lot with the option of later building a deck, Walters said.

Engineering sketches of those two areas should help the DDA consider parking needs, he said. In recent months the DDA has looked at possible designs for an expanded deck, and begun discussions of parking needs for the city.

Walters said at Tuesday's meeting that a general consensus emerged that although an exact downtown parking need had not been determined, a total figure of between 1,800 and 2,400 spaces is desirable.

"Regardless of what number you think is accurate, it's twice what we have," Walters said. So the DDA members agreed to address at least part of the shortfall in the areas where it is most needed, he explained.

House demolition supprises planners

When two houses on South Main Street were torn down recently, it surprised some residents of the area — and some members of the city's planning commission.

Earlier this summer the commission approved a site plan to turn the two homes into a medical clinic, using the existing buildings. But the buildings were torn down recently when structural damage was uncovered.

The project was on the commission's agenda Oct. 5 to inform the group of changes to the approved parking — which were approved administratively as a minor change — and of the fact that a revised landscape plan is forthcoming.

But one planning commissioner, David Totten, questioned at the meeting whether the demolition should have returned to the commission for approval as a change in site plan.

"I have a problem with this whole business. We approved using the existing houses. The existing houses were torn down," Totten said. "We approved one thing, we've got a totally different thing over there."

City Manager Steven Walters said that the city building inspector determined that the existing buildings were not sound because of fire damage behind the walls. The owner and architect decided that the houses should be rebuilt rather than replaced piece by piece, he said.

The finished building will look the same as the approved site plan, Walters said. There is no requirement in the zoning ordinance that in such a case the building cannot be completely redone, he added.

"The exterior shape, size and appearance will be identical," Walters said.

Greg Presley, the architect of the project and a newly-appointed member of the commission, said the same thing. "In the end, it will look just like what was approved by the planning commission," he said.

Lennox isn't a neophyte anymore

By BOB NEEDHAM

To hear Betty Lennox tell it, she sort of fell into the world of public service. But once she was involved in it, she stayed — and is just now preparing to close out a career which has included four different municipal jobs, all in Northville or Northville Township.

Born in Charlevoix, Lennox graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in what was then called home economics. But an engineering scholarship sidetracked her into that field for a year, which she followed with substitute teaching and styling food for television.

By this time she and her husband, Dick, had lived in Texas, Flint and New Jersey. But a job transfer brought them back to the Detroit area and, specifically, Northville Township, where they still reside in the Northville Commons subdivision.

"We drew a circle around where his office was and we started looking at communities, Northville came out the winner. It certainly proved the way to go," Lennox said.

She joined some community organizations and became known; then some people asked her to run for township clerk.

"I said I didn't even know what a township clerk would do," Lennox recalled, but she agreed to give it a try. She ran on a slate which included Jim Nowka — still a township trustee — and John E. MacDonald, now a judge of the 35th District Court. The group supported annexation of the township to the city.

She enjoyed working as clerk, she joked, because, "You just make decisions, everybody else does the work."

Before long, the office of township supervisor opened up, and the Township Board appointed Lennox to the post until the next election. At that time, inaccurate rhetoric about the terrible effects of an annexation was common, she said.

"I think because we were neophytes in politics we didn't understand what we needed to do," she said. And the annexation issue probably proved to be the difference in the election, which Lennox lost by fewer than 100 votes.

City Manager Steven Walters — who, at the time, was fairly new in his job — asked her to apply for the position of city clerk, but she still had to finish her term as township supervisor.

By the time her term ended, the city controller job had opened, she said. She applied and got the job, after a couple of years the position was upgraded to finance director.

She's been working for the city for about 10 years now, and has also maintained ties to township government through a post on the township Water and Sewer Commission.

"Maybe I've just been lucky to be in the right place at the right time," she said. "It's almost like a different life when you move from one community to another" — and she has enjoyed her chances, she said.

"There is a certain thrill working for the city. There is always something going on, and you're there for the infancy stages, the planning of it," she said.

In her post she has overseen all the city's expenditures, brought the books into two new computer systems, maintained the water billing, and many other duties.

It's a lot more complicated than when I first started, because government is more complicated," she said. Lennox is retiring, but not all at once. The city recently hired her replacement, and Lennox is helping out with training and an audit of city books.

She'll miss the people she has worked with, she said. "You couldn't ask for a nicer group. They're the kind of people I enjoy being with."

But even once she completely leaves her job, she does not expect to remain idle.

She and her husband plan to travel to Italy next spring, and to South Africa the year after that, to visit the friends she made when a delegation of women from that country visited Northville recently through the Delegation for Friendship Among Women.

Also, "In the future I would like to do something more for the community, in a different way," she said.

In her jobs with Northville and Northville Township, Lennox concluded, she acquired a lot of invaluable experience. "I certainly learned a lot," she said. "You can't do something like that and not learn."

Betty Lennox is being honored today at a reception being held from 6-8 p.m. at the Novi Hilton. It is being hosted by the city for her friends, family, present and past associates.

IN DOWNTOWN NORTHVILLE

DDA seeks spaces for parking

Discussion about parking needs in downtown Northville shifted to a new direction Tuesday with the members of the city's Downtown Development Authority agreeing to hold off discussions of an expanded parking deck in favor of considering different ways to use available space.

City Manager Steven Walters said that discussion at Tuesday's DDA meeting resulted in an idea to do an engineering study of the parking area behind the businesses on the north side of Main Street from Center to Hutton, and of the current parking deck area.

The capacity in that north parking lot could increase if changes were made such as rearranging the spaces and layout, squaring off the Hutton/Dunlap intersection, or possibly moving Hutton, Walters said.

Then the parking deck area will be analyzed for its potential as a surface parking lot with the option of later building a deck, Walters said.

Engineering sketches of those two areas should help the DDA consider parking needs, he said. In recent months the DDA has looked at possible designs for an expanded deck, and begun discussions of parking needs for the city.

Walters said at Tuesday's meeting that a general consensus emerged that although an exact downtown parking need had not been determined, a total figure of between 1,800 and 2,400 spaces is desirable.

"Regardless of what number you think is accurate, it's twice what we have," Walters said. So the DDA members agreed to address at least part of the shortfall in the areas where it is most needed, he explained.

House demolition supprises planners

When two houses on South Main Street were torn down recently, it surprised some residents of the area and some members of the city's planning commission.

Earlier this summer the commission approved a site plan to turn the two homes into a medical clinic, using the existing buildings. But the buildings were torn down recently when structural damage was uncovered.

The project was on the commission's agenda Oct. 5 to inform the group of changes to the approved parking — which were approved administratively as a minor change — and of the fact that a revised landscape plan is forthcoming.

But one planning commissioner, David Totten, questioned at the meeting whether the demolition should have returned to the commission for approval as a change in site plan.

"I have a problem with this whole business. We approved using the existing houses. The existing houses were torn down," Totten said. "We approved one thing, we've got a totally different thing over there."

City Manager Steven Walters said that the city building inspector determined that the existing buildings were not sound because of fire damage behind the walls. The owner and architect decided that the houses should be rebuilt rather than replaced piece by piece, he said.

The finished building will look the same as the approved site plan, Walters said. There is no requirement in the zoning ordinance that in such a case the building cannot be completely redone, he added.

"The exterior shape, size and appearance will be identical," Walters said.

Greg Presley, the architect of the project and a newly-appointed member of the commission, said the same thing. "In the end, it will look just like what was approved by the planning commission," he said.

Neighbors unite to oppose the sale of city-owned lot

A group of residents opposing the requested sale of a vacant city-owned lot met Saturday afternoon and was scheduled to meet again Tuesday night to ready a presentation to city council next Monday night.

Some 22 residents gathered in City Council chambers to discuss the proposed sale of the property located north of West Main and west of Rogers. Some attending the meeting were township residents in the area who had concerns about water ponding on the lot and its drainage down Caldwell.

The proposed lot sale is to be discussed at next Monday's council meeting at 8 p.m. in council chambers. At that time the city may decide whether to put the lot up for sale.

At the Oct. 5 council meeting the council also agreed to provide a formal response to queries about the installation of a sewer stub and catch basin on Caldwell (see related story).

Velma Belasco, who with her husband Walter had organized Saturday's meeting, stated it was not an organized group but residents of the area meeting to get comments of neighbors regarding the requested sale. The 2½-acre piece of property had been purchased by the city in 1969 because of the drainage problem in the area.

Richard Lyon and Keith Ebersole, whose Main Street lots adjoin the vacant, almost landlocked property at the back, had requested the city to sell the lot. They had indicated their desire to develop the property with cluster housing.

Those attending the meeting Saturday were asked to put their comments on index cards. Norman Baker volunteered to head a committee to compile the results for orderly presentation to the council.

Monday he also requested, as had been suggested at the meeting, council members Paul Folino and Carolann Ayers to walk the property with residents to evaluate it for a park or nature area. John Buckland also was asked to do so and had said he would only if the other members did so, Mrs. Baker said Monday.

Township resident Nick Serkaian attended Saturday's meeting and related his concerns regarding the installation of the sewer stub and catch basin, which, he said, now has been connected to a sewer on Orchard.

Afterward, residents attending the meeting indicated their reason for being there was the proposed sale of the property, which, in a master plan done by the University of Michigan in 1981 was suggested for park use.

Walter Belasco said "the question of sewers is not pertinent to this issue — we want a commitment from the city to keep (the property) a park."

Velma Belasco said that a petition on the table opposing the sale had been "filled in half an hour."

Some of those attending the meeting were members of the newly organized group, Concerned Residents of Northville. Nancy Bohn, speaking for the group, suggested the residents join this group of 65-70 city residents. She explained the group had organized in opposition to a rezoning request for a home on Wing Street and was continuing to monitor city actions.

David Totten, a member of the city Planning Commission, attended the meeting and said that the property, if sold, would have to be rezoned from R-1 to R-3 to permit cluster housing.

It was noted that "there aren't that many parks in the area" and that the lot was a nature area. It was suggested that the residents ask the city for an opinion from the Department of Natural Resources regarding the property, and also the Northville Recreation Department.

The DNR had been called, it was reported, and had stated it needs written permission or a proposal submitted to check out the property.

Rosemary Hagge, who lives on West Main next door to the Lyon property, related that she has a ravine lot which water drains onto.

"It was not bad until Beacon Woods was developed," she said, noting that Thompson Brown had installed storm sewers that were adequate for Lexington Commons when it was developed. They have not proved adequate for Beacon Woods, she said.

City engineer Jack McNeely had told her, she recalled, that, when the city could afford to, it would put a storm sewer in to drain the area.

Walter Belasco said he had talked to Lyon, who had been invited to attend the meeting (but had another commitment). He reported that "Lyon did say he would be happy to talk his proposal over."

"I understand it's for 18 homes, two bedrooms, in the $200,000 neighborhood. He indicated he and Ebersole want to live there themselves. They want it to be a dead-end with access out of Caldwell. 'If we can't get it the way we want to, we're going to give it up.'"

Belasco quoted Lyon as stating, "Belasco expressed concern that the property was to be sold with 'closed bids.'"

City Manager Steven Walters said Tuesday that, by ordinance requirement, any property sold by the city would first have to be advertised and then sold with sealed bids.

Council to discuss uses for city's land

Vacant land owned by the City of Northville is scheduled to be discussed by the City Council Monday.

Consideration of the city-owned property began last month when two men requested the council sell them a city-owned parcel on the city's west side. The request stated that they hope to combine that land with part of lots they own and then build a residential development on the land.

The council members agreed to look at all the vacant land owned by the city before specifically considering selling the lot.

At the last council meeting, several residents — of both the city and the township — protested any consideration of selling the lot, off the north side of Main Street and west of Rogers. At the same meeting City Manager Steve Walters presented a list of the vacant lots the city owns, some of which have a designated purpose.

The council agreed to consider the information and discuss what to do with the city-owned land at its next meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday.

A list of city-owned vacant land follows, with numbers corresponding to the maps. The notes are from Walters.

- 1 On the northwest corner of Lake and Grace 40 feet by 60 feet. No specific projected use, bought to eliminate a nuisance problem.
- 2 On the northeast corner of Randolph and High. No projected use, bought as a possible site for moving a city-owned house on Cady when the post office expanded.
- 3 Off Main west of Rogers (the lot which has been requested to be sold). Bought because there are storm water ponds on it as no drain outlet exists.
- 4 West end of Dubuar at city limits. Part of Dubuar right-of-way west of Rogers.

- 5 South side of Cady south of parking deck. A strip of two lots and parts of two others. Bought in anticipation of an expanded parking deck.
- 6 Northwest corner of Griswold and Cady. About 20 feet by 124 feet. No projected use, excess right of way from Griswold.
- 7 North side of Cady west of Griswold. Two lots. No projected use, bought to encourage commercial redevelopment.
- 8 West end of Mary Alexander Court at Center. Part of Mary Alexander Court, but south part could be sold.

Denial recommended for Wing rezoning

An application to rezone a Wing Street house from residential to business use met with a unanimous recommendation for denial Tuesday, Oct. 5, from the Northville city Planning Commission.

While the city's Planning Consultant Ronald Nino recommended the commission approve the request, about 40 residents attended the meeting with several opposing the application.

Bryn Hartshorne owns the house, on Wing off Dunlap behind the Northville Clock Shop. He applied for a change of zone from residential to professional/business office, saying that he would like to rent to a low-traffic office tenant.

One resident, Kevin Hartshorne, brother of the petitioner, opened the public hearing to consider the request with support for the plan.

"The most important reason this parcel should be rezoned is that it makes good economic sense," he said, adding that residences with children can increase the tax burden. "Commercial property produces no children and yet produces the same amount of revenue or more," he said.

"We are a unique town; we'd like to keep it that way."

"We are not trying to rezone a house in the middle of residential."

Bryn Hartshorne said that block of Wing is not a residential street. "There are only three residential houses on North Wing Street," he said. "We are not trying to rezone a house in the middle of residential."

A PBO zoning would provide a buffer between the commercial zoning of the clock shop and the residential zoning on Wing, he added. He also said a commercial tenant would take better care of the building than the residential tenants he has rented to.

Residents of the area said that a commercial tenant in the house would be dangerous to children in the area, that changing that lot could start a spread of commercial zoning down the rest of the street, that the city is not short of small office space, and that potential commercial uses of the building would be an encroachment rather than a buffer.

Mark Cryderman presented a petition with about 180 signatures against the application. "We found a very unanimous and strong opinion in favor of signing this petition and opposed to this rezoning," he said.

George McLeod said that city has a distinct downtown area and a distinct residential area. "For one to encroach on the other would be very poor planning," he said. "We are a unique town, we'd like to keep it that way."

Nino listed several aspects to consideration of the application, and concluded with a recommendation in favor of it, although he added that a recommendation against the plan would not be out of line.

"Northville's downtown incidental is a relatively small, confined space," he said. Continued viability of the downtown "demands that it be somewhat larger than it is."

Several members of the planning commission agreed with the residents that the change would be an encroachment on the residential land in the area. The commission voted 8-0 against the application.

In rezoning cases the planning commission acts as a recommending body to the city council. Any rezoning application which the commission recommends against may still be appealed directly to the council.

Health care, Frankenmuth on agenda for area seniors

Health care and a visit to Frankenmuth are among the October activities scheduled for Northville area senior citizens.

Seniors are urged to take advantage of flu shots offered to persons over 60 at M-Care. Cost for the shots are $2 and are available any day of the week.

Final plans are being completed for a visit to Frankenmuth on Oct. 20. A group will depart at 9 a.m. from the recreation building, 303 W. Main, and will return about 5:30 p.m.

Included in the visit is a stop at Bronner's, a visit to the Manufacturers' Market Place in Birch Run and lunch at either the Bavarian Inn or Zehnder's.

There is a $10 fee for the trip. Further information on all the activities may be obtained by calling 349-4140.

Township board gives first OK of a PUD to Blue Heron Pointe

The township's second planned residential unit development was the first to gain the unanimous approval of the township board of trustees Oct. 8.

The developers of Blue Heron Pointe, a 144-unit condominium development on Beck Road between Six Mile and Seven Mile roads, have received the OK to enter into a contract with the township to begin development of the site.

The township planning commission has already given final site plan approval for the first phase of the project and the water and sewer commission also has given its approval to the developers.

"We now are presenting a legal contract by the trustees for the project," explained Matt Modrack, community development director. "The board is the only one which can amend the project."

Trustee Richard Allen, who also sits on the planning commission, said he wanted to ensure that there is language in the contract so that the lake, a converted gravel pit, would not be degraded by fertilizer runoff from the lawns of the condos.

"I think when we discussed it (the runoff question) with the township attorney, he suggested the language be included in the condo documents. That way, if there is a problem with the lake, a resident could not blame the township," Modrack said.

Trustee Thomas Handyside asked that the final contract include the dates the planning commission and the water and sewer commission gave approvals for the project.

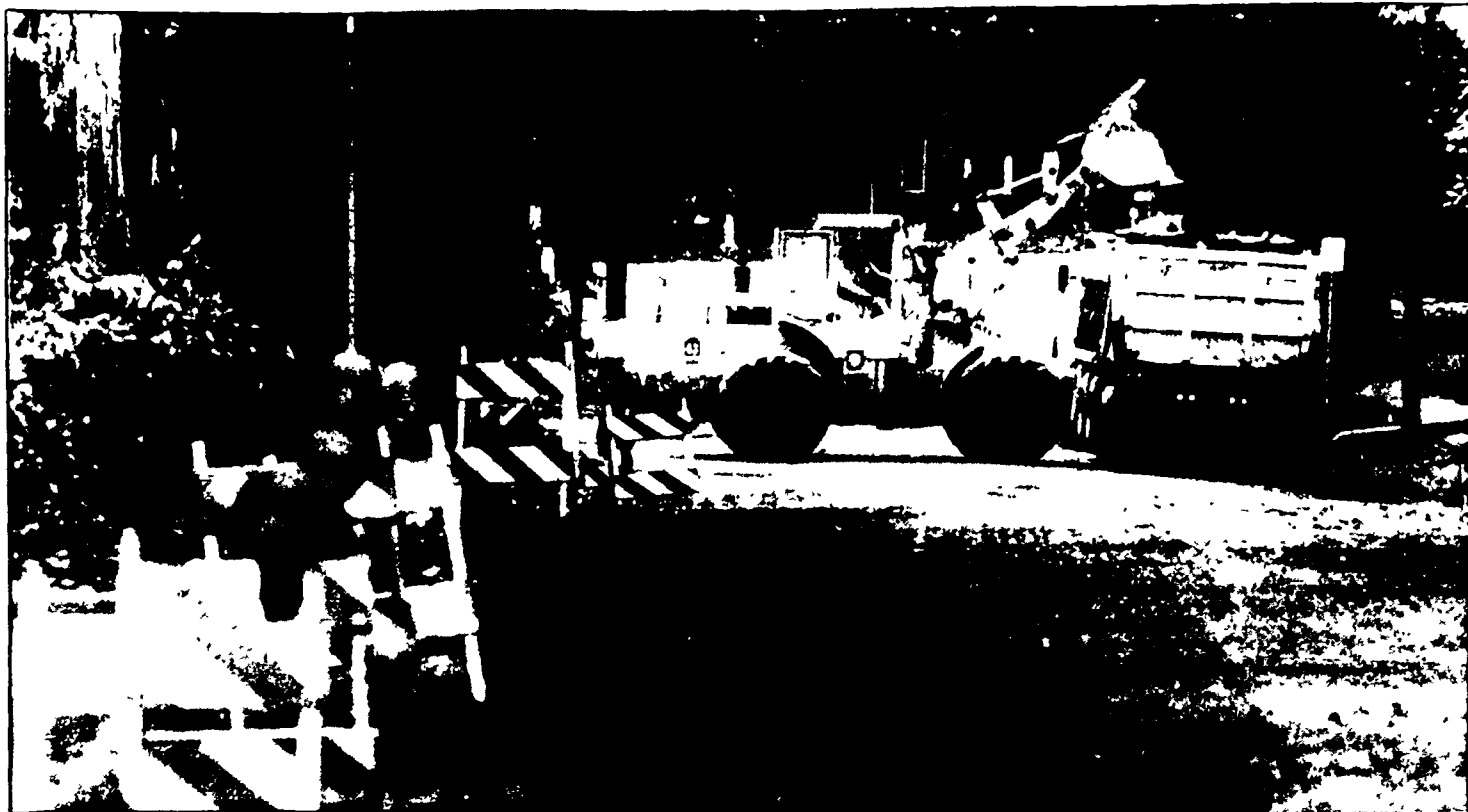

Allen also suggested that the approval date for the open space site plan also be incorporated into the contract.

"If anyone questions any of the actions, they can then go back to the contract and find out exactly who did what when," Handyside said.

The Blue Heron project was the second PRUD proposal to come before the board and the planning commission under the township's new ordinance.

The PRUD law requires that approval be given by both the trustees and planning commission for a project.

A 600-unit single family and condominium project on Haggerty Road just south of Six Mile Road is also going through the approval process. However, Dun Rovin has been held up by a lack of sewer capacity and some questions by the trustees and commissioners about density.

Cady Street is the latest city road to be resurfaced under the city's major street repair campaign.

City man gets overnight jail, drunk driving charges

A city resident is facing charges stemming from a Sept. 28 drunk driving arrest by township officers.

According to a report filed by township officers, the man's vehicle was observed traveling northbound on Sheldon, north of Six Mile Road, and crossing the center line as well as being driven on the shoulder of the road.

Officer L. C. Demeter stopped the car and noticed a strong odor of intoxicants emanating from the driver. When he questioned the driver, Demeter said, the man had difficulty counting backwards from 100, reciting the alphabet and performing numerous other field tests.

Demeter said he attempted to place the man under arrest for OUIL (operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor) the man became very agitated and tried to pull away from the arresting officer.

Demeter added that the man attempted to kick him and also kicked officer Charles Cole, who was assisting in the arrest.

The man was finally subdued and transported to the township jail, where he remained overnight.

The man has been charged with OUIL and officers are contemplating filing additional charges in the incident.

DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE — A Northville man was issued a citation for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol after two state troopers watched him drive across a guard railing.

At about 10:15 p.m. Monday, Oct. 5, the man was driving down Novi Road and tried to turn east onto Eight Mile Road, according to a police report. He told police he lost control of the car because of wet pavement, and drove through a guard rail at the intersection.

However, two troopers stopped for a red light told city police that the car was driving too fast to make the turn. When police arrived, they noticed the man walked unsteadily and smelled of alcohol, the report said.

A preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .158 percent and a breathalyzer test showed .16 percent, the report said. The man was jailed until he sobered up, the report said.

STOLEN AUTO — A 1977 Oldsmobile Cutlass was reported stolen from the Tree Top Apartments on Novi Road last week, according to a city police report.

The car was left locked at about 7:45 p.m. Thursday and was noticed missing at 6:30 a.m. Friday, the report said.

IN THE DARK — A broken wire conduit in the downtown Northville parking deck left the lower level of the deck without lights last week.

The damage was done between Oct. 5 and 7, police estimate. About $400 in damage was reported.

DOOR BROKEN — A plate glass door at the Cloverdale restaurant on Center Street was reported broken over the weekend.

The door was broken Saturday night or Sunday morning, according to a police report. Damage was estimated at $300.

MORE MAILBOX VANDALISM — Four mailboxes on East Chigwiddden were damaged over the weekend, according to city police reports.

The vandalism was estimated to have occurred late Friday or early Saturday. All the boxes were on the east side of the street and all were smashed on the south side, the reports said.

NO MORE WHEELIES — A 1988 Jeep Cherokee stolen from a Rayburn residence Sept. 28 was recovered by Farmington Hills police the next day with all four tires and wheels missing.

The owner of the car told officers that the car was locked when it was taken.

BICYCLE FOUND — A township resident reported he had found the frame of a 26-inch red Columbia bicycle in front of a Seven Mile Road business.

The bicycle was tagged and transported to the township evidence garage.

ARSON AT CENTER — Township police and fire officials are continuing to investigate an arson that occurred at the site of the former Wayne County Child Development Center on Sheldon Road Sept. 24.

Officer Jeffrey Larente reported that he was dispatched to the site on the report of a smoldering fire, and when he investigated he found a mattress on fire.

When assistant fire chief Rick Rosselle arrived on the scene, he noted that the mattress apparently had been burning for some time, judging from the amount of soot on nearby walls.

BITS AND PIECES — An attempt to break into a vehicle on Silver Springs Sept. 27 was thwarted when the drill bit broke off in the car's lock, according to the police report.

Township officers have no suspects, but they were able to retrieve the drill bit. The car's lock was damaged beyond repair.

SHOWING OFF — An Innsbrook Apartment resident told township police she saw a white male, described as about 5-foot-7, having sandy hair and a mustache, wearing a shirt or a jacket and nothing else, outside her apartment Oct. 10.

Officers checked the area outside the woman's apartment, but were unable to discover any trace of the individual.

WALKAWAY REPORT — Township officers responded to the report of a suspicious person on Winchester near Sutters Lane Oct. 6 and found that a patient from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital had left the facility.

The man, who identified himself as a patient in Ward M, was turned over to the hospital's security staff.

Although the man was the only one township officers apprehended last week, they did receive reports that eight other patients had left the hospital grounds without authorization.

GARAGE BROKEN INTO — Township officers are continuing to investigate the break-in of a Woodbend Drive garage Oct. 5 and the theft of a girl's 12-speed bicycle and a gas-powered weed cutter.

The owner of the garage told investigators that he leaves the garage door open from time to time but does not know whether it was open at the time of the incident.

Ray Baldwin shot this 26-point caribou

26-point antlers stolen from hunter's garage

Ray Baldwin is having a bad week. A very bad week.

Baldwin, who has been a serious hunter for more than 20 years, finally bagged himself a trophy animal — a 26-point caribou — on a hunting expedition in Alaska.

But while the antlers were drying in Baldwin's Northville Township garage, some one or some people broke into the garage and among other items lifted the prize antlers.

Baldwin, needless to say, was devastated. It wasn't so much the boat motor, or the water skis, or the marine bull horn or even the radar detector that has Baldwin pulling out his hair. It was the fact that whoever took the other items also took the antlers, and, without the trophy, Baldwin has no proof for Boone and Crockett, which rates trophy animals, that he made the kill.

"The antlers are just worthless to anyone but me," Baldwin said, noting that he has notified the raters that the antlers were stolen. "No one else can claim he killed the buck. What I'm really worried about is that someone will just destroy the antlers."

Township police officers speculate that whoever broke into the Baldwin garage gained entry by finding the automatic garage door opener in the car parked in the driveway since there was no sign of forced entry.

Baldwin said it would require more than a usual car to haul away the prize. "We needed a special vehicle just to transport the horns and collar from the airport home," he said.

The cape, the skin from the animal's neck forward, is rolled up in Baldwin's freezer, and Baldwin did have pictures taken of the caribou soon after it was killed, but without the actual rack, Baldwin says he isn't going to be able to make the record book, even if the buck would have qualified.

"If anyone knows about the antlers, I'd really appreciate it if they would contact me or somehow let me know where the rack is. I promise, there'll be no questions asked," he said.

Baldwin left for the Alaskan hunt Oct. 5 and spotted a pair of caribou bucks on Oct. 11. After trailing them through the tundra for about two hours, Baldwin said, he opted to take aim on the larger of the two animals.

When Baldwin measured the animal, he discovered the rack was 38-inches across and more than four feet high. It had 16 points on one side and 12 on the other.

City manager explains Caldwell sewer stub

In response to residents' charges that the city installed an unauthorized sewer stub and manhole on Caldwell, City Manager Steven Walters sent a letter to members of the City Council which says the work has been planned since 1981 and was authorized in July.

Northville Township resident Nick Serkalian and others protested at the last City Council meeting that the stub was built as a "favor" in anticipation of a rumored sale of a city-owned lot in the area. The lot has suffered drainage problems and Serkalian said the stub was being installed to allow the land to be developed.

At the meeting and in a letter, Serkalian said he had seen the sewer stub penciled in on a blueprint and been told it was being done as a "favor." In addition, he said the work would have cost much more than the stated $290.

Resident Wes Henrikson asked the council who authorized the work. Mayor Paul Vernon promised a formal response at the next council meeting, scheduled for Monday at 8 p.m.

Walters' letter to the council — in a copy sent to the Record — states that the stub was included in city sewer plans approved by the council in July.

"Obviously, the council did not specifically approve the Caldwell stub any more than any other specific manhole, catchbasin, pipe section, etc. It was part of the city engineer's plan which was approved as a whole on the basis of the bid prices and the overall project to be accomplished," the letter reads.

"However, the Caldwell storm sewer was not engineered in 1987, or even in the last two or three years. It has been the city's storm sewer plan for draining the west end of Main Street and the storm runoff west of Caldwell since November, 1981," the letter continues.

The letter explains that the original ponding problem became compounded because of a problem with the Beacon Woods subdivision, and the storm plan was developed by the city, the township, and Wayne County.

The part of the sewer plan involving Main Street was included in the paving program, and so was the stub, so that Main Street would not have to be excavated later, according to the letter.

The letter also defends the estimated cost of the stub, saying that the only part of the sewer which was not needed in the current street program was one eight-foot section of storm sewer pipe costing $30 per foot.

"Perhaps Mr. Serkalian is assuming that the manhole would not have been built if the Caldwell stub had not been included. This is not the case," the letter reads.

The letter also states that the work was on all approved blueprints, and the only document Walters could find with the stub penciled in was an engineer's worksheet written on the 1981 plan.

Serkalian said the blueprints he saw were very different from the construction. "I'm a builder and if there's anything I know how to read, it's blueprints," he said.

Newest board member learns the ropes

By ANITA CRONE

When Robert McMahon was elected to the Northville Public Schools Board of Trustees, he didn't realize that he would be going back to school.

But three months into his term, he says serving on the board has been an educational process.

"Some of the perceptions I had of the board and the schools have proven out, but in a lot of other areas, I've done a whole lot of learning," he said.

McMahon and incumbent James Petrie were elected in June to a four year term. McMahon took over the seat that had been held by Douglas Whitaker, who opted not to seek reelection after 10 years of service.

"Sitting on the board, I realize that the quality of education in Northville is very high, and the teamwork emphasized by the board and district administrators is more than just talk," McMahon said.

"Also, when you sit on this side of the table, the strengths of the district become more apparent, as do the challenges. For instance, the board must constantly deal with the changing enrollment, maintain district facilities and keep updated on possible changes in school financing."

"Also, when you sit on this side of the table, the strengths of the district become more apparent, as do the challenges. For instance, the board must constantly deal with the changing enrollment, maintain district facilities and keep updated on possible changes in school financing."

McMahon says it is "too soon" to define his role on the board. "To put a label on my role, or even on the board is very difficult. The problem with labels is that once you have one, you're pretty much stuck with it.

"And, as far as having a personal agenda, I don't think that it is possible with the board the way it is. In some districts, you have one or two people who push for programs and the others (board members) just follow along. This board is unique in that it's a team effort aimed at bettering the schools. No one person pushes," he said.

That does not mean that McMahon or other board members are not busy. In fact, McMahon said, he has spent the past three months visiting schools, attending PTA meetings and getting acquainted with being a board member.

"You really have to touch base with and educate the community when you are a member of the board," McMahon said. "And the amount of reading that I've done just to educate myself on school issues has taken a great deal of my time."

McMahon says he has three main goals for his first term in office, but says they are not that different from the board's goals.

"We need to keep abreast of what's happening in Lansing in terms of school financing, we need to look at the utilization of our existing buildings in light of the increase in enrollment, and, we need to continue to promote a quality education," he said.

He noted that he expects to spend at least the next six months doing just that.

Golf course owner's trial gets under way

By ANNE WILLIS

Beginning testimony was heard Tuesday in the trial of George Earl Cummins, charged with two counts of killing wild water fowl on the Westbrooke Golf Course on Beck Road in Novi.

Cummins is part-owner of the course, formerly called Bob-O-Link.

Denise Muscat, a Beck Road resident, testified that on May 19 at approximately 4 p.m. she heard a loud honking from geese on the golf course and went to her front door which looks out on the golf course. She said she saw "a blue Mercedes with a man driving, chasing geese and goslings around the pond."

Muscat said she watched the car chase the geese and listened to the car horn honking. "The adult geese were flapping their wings and running the goslings were trying to get away," she reported.

Muscat then testified that she saw "that the man driving the car had hit a gosling and it didn't move. Then he hit another one and went up to them and reached down with a white sack and picked them up." She said the man never left the car, just opened up the door and reached out to pick up the dead goslings. Muscat identified the defendant George Earl Cummins as the man in the car.

Cummins' defense counsel questioned Muscat's ability to see the action from her home.

"I could (see it). It was at an angle that I could see it," Muscat replied while later admitting that she could not actually see the moment of impact.

The trial was adjourned. A second day of testimony is to be scheduled.

Township supports gift of land

The Northville Township Board of Trustees Oct. 8 unanimously gave its support to a request by the Northville Recreation Department for a gift of some of the acreage Wayne County is putting on the market.

The more than 1,000 acres are located on the site of the former Wayne County Child Development Center, off Sheldon Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads, and the Lambrecht Company currently is in the process of preparing a marketing valuation study of the property.

The recreation commission is requesting that the county give the department a stand of beech woods on 16.5 acres of the land, the fire station at the south side of the playfields, the ball diamonds and soccer fields on the west side of Sheldon Road and 10.5 acres bounded by old Five Mile Road the present Five Mile Road and the C & O Railroad which formerly were used as a day camp.

In all, Recreation Director John Anderson said, the department is requesting 47.5 of the 1,040 acres the county is putting on the market.

In voting in favor of the resolution to the county commissioners, Treasurer Richard Henningsen questioned Anderson as to whether the recreation commission had had any conversations regarding the request.

"In reading this resolution, I see a part of it as a demand and I want to know what conversations your board has had with anyone downtown," Henningsen said.

He was referring to a statement in the resolution that noted "in the event that the playfields are sold, the Northville Community Recreation Commission would retain continued use of the existing facilities until such time that a purchaser of the subject parcels delivers to the Commission a minimum of two baseball diamonds and three soccer fields, fully developed."

"This is a similar proposal that we sent to the commission a year ago. We want to remind them that we are still interested," Anderson said.

Supervisor Georgina Goss said she had had conversations with county and Lambrecht officials regarding the township's interest in some of the property.

"We have not had any discussion regarding the second part of the resolution," Goss said, referring to the same portion of the resolution Henningsen had questioned.

E-9-1-1 will enhance help

By ANITA CRONE

It is 3 a.m. and suddenly you find yourself awakened out of a sound sleep by a thud coming from downstairs. Then you hear glass shatter. You dial 9-1-1; a police dispatcher answers, but before you can tell the dispatcher about the prowler in your house, a stranger is standing in front of you, pointing a gun at your head.

Thanks to Northville Township's joining in Oakland County's proposed E-9-1-1 system (at the request of Oakland County), if the above scenario were to occur, police would be en route to the scene within minutes of receiving the call.

"As far as the residents are concerned, there will be no difference between the E (for enhanced) 9-1-1 service and the regular 9-1-1 effort, but for police departments, E-9-1-1 will be a boon," said township police chief Kenneth Hardesty.

Once the system is operational, he explained, it will not be necessary for the caller to give any information to the dispatcher.

The dispatcher will automatically receive a printout of the address of the caller, as well as the phone number of the caller.

The township will be able to piggyback with the Oakland County system because of the telephone line location. Since the current 9-1-1 calls arrive in the township from parts of Novi, the City of Northville, Salem, Lyon Township, Plymouth and Wixom, were the township not incorporated into the Oakland County plan, it would not be able to provide 9-1-1 service at all.

The Oakland County program is scheduled to be operational by September of 1988, explained Christine Hicks, police department administrative assistant. The Wayne County system is still being planned.

Livonia also is piggybacking in to the Oakland County system, however, both Wayne County communities will share the information learned with other Conference of Western Wayne participants. CWW is the point organization for western Wayne County E-9-1-1 participants.

Hicks said the E-9-1-1 program provides automatic number identification and automatic location identification once the call is placed to the police department.

"Something like that would have been a big help in an incident that occurred about 7 or 8 years ago," Hardesty recalled. "A woman called us, said her house was on fire, but said she didn't know either her address or her telephone number. She did know her name, and the dispatcher who handled the call was able to locate the address in the telephone book. But what would have happened if the woman had had an unlisted number? I don't even want to think about it."

Hardesty said the system also includes a conference-call arrangement, where the person calling could be put directly in touch with an emergency organization such as poison control.

The township's share of going on line with the program is about $58,000, Hardesty said, noting that it seems like a very small price to pay for the potential benefits.

Haunted house contest deadline Oct. 23

Deadline to register to participate in the Northville Recreation Department's second annual Haunted House Contest is Oct. 23. Residents are invited to decorate the outsides of their homes in the competition for the "most haunted house in Northville."

Homes will be judged on originality and creativity. All judging will be on the evening of Oct. 29. Winners will be announced Oct. 30.

First through third prizes will be awarded. All prizes have been donated by local merchants.

There is no entry fee for the contest, but participants must register with the Northville Recreation Department, 349-0203 by Oct. 23.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Landlocked lot should be turned into city park

A group of Northville residents is actively opposing the sale of a piece of land the city owns on its west side, north of Main Street. Two city residents have asked to buy the land in order to build homes on it, in combination with some land they already own.

The residents opposing the sale appear to be more anti-development than anything else. Mostly, they're worried that if the city council decides to sell the lot — and they'd have to go through a formal bidding process to do so, with no guarantees to the men who asked for the sale — condominiums might go up on the land.

But the opposition to selling the lot has suggested a great alternative to development: turning the lot into a park.

Park land is always a nice idea, and it gets nicer and nicer as an area develops. Almost all the land within the city limits is going to be developed soon, and the township is also quickly growing.

Most of the newer developments provide for open space somewhere among the homes. But the older areas of the city have very little park land available, and they could really use some.

Of course, the city is not totally without park land. And the proximity of Maybury State Park and Hines Park certainly helps. But if the present municipal building ever expands to the south, the city would have very little neighborhood park land left.

Which is why the idea of the lot off

RECREATION

Main as a park is so attractive, at least on the surface. Maybe there are some sound reasons why that area shouldn't be a park, or a nature area as some have suggested, but we can't think of any. Residents who have walked through the area recently have called to report how pleasant it is. Land with trees and streams is all too rare.

In fact, we see no reason to stop there. The city council recently saw a list of all the vacant property the city owns. The lot off Main is the choicest parcel, but a couple of the others could make very attractive smaller parks.

This is land the city already owns. The only possible objection we see is financial — the cost of developing and maintaining the parks, and potential tax revenue the city might lose. But these are costs that can be met somehow; the result will be worth it.

Whether the parks are run by the city or by the joint city/township recreation commission is not a major issue. The important idea is to preserve the space. When the city council talks over its list of available land Monday night, we hope parks are the priority issue. That land could serve the residents in no better way.

Hospital merits benefits from drilling operation

With the decision by Somoco Inc. to drill for gas and/or oil at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, there should be cause for celebrating.

For one thing, the hospital, should the drilling be successful, stands to receive reduced fuel costs under the arrangement being worked out between Somoco and the Michigan Department of Mental Health. For another, the ongoing conversion from coal burning to oil will get a boost if oil is actually discovered on the site.

However, there is a history of unusual communications between the department and its largest adult care facility. It would not be surprising for the hospital to receive little benefit from a successful well, and for the department to reduce fuel costs at other facilities.

We question the negotiating posture of the department and whether it has truly done its homework. A number of other residents, who earlier (in the 1950s) had worked out arrangements with utility companies to drill and/or store fuel on their property, are still receiving their gas/oil free.

Certainly the state and the hospital can expect as much.

3 winners, city loses

By Anita Crone

On the way into work Monday morning I heard an interesting comment about a town in Ohio. It seems that no one, not one single person, has filed petitions for elected office.

Even so, the newscaster reported, there will be an election in November.

I think there's a message there, a message that can be shared in the City of Northville. At least there is a race for mayor, with Dewey Gardner running against Chris Johnson. But there are three vacancies on city council and only three people running for those vacancies. And, in a town like Northville, that is a shame.

No matter who wins the mayor's seat, the council is already decided. Carolann Ayers and Paul Folino will retain their seats; Jerry Mittman will serve a two-year term. The voters have no choice, but it is their own choice that left them in the predicament.

Judging from the unifying "Concerned Residents of Northville," not everyone is content with the way things are going in the city. But, although the fledgling group has 65 members on its lists, not one of those 65 cared enough about the community to run for public office.

To be sure, some would-be candidates have not lived in the community long enough to run for office. And others, legitimately, do not have the time to serve.

But prospective candidates have slapped the residents in the face. They appear content to rally round a single issue, but are not interested enough to run for office. If that is the case, then the voters deserve the council they get and there should be no complaints.

There could be comments, though, about Saturday's football game between Michigan and Michigan State. While no one can misconstrue the fact that MSU was the winner, as a loyal U-M alumna, I question why, if Michigan threw seven interceptions, the Spartans were only able to win by six points. There's no bias in this corner. Just a sincere question. I guess the answer can be chalked up to one of those unexplained mysteries.

Another unexplained mystery may soon be explained. An expedition in Scotland is using sonar to try to locate the Loch Ness monster.

Sure, the leaders of the effort have masked their intentions by purporting to be surveying the lake, but I'd bet a year's salary the contributions pouring into the effort from all over the world are not for plotting the confines of the loch. Like many such efforts, no one is really certain whether anyone really wants to know the answer, as to whether the monster exists or not, certainly not the Scottish tourist association.

Finally, a sign of the times certainly is once again, pitting journalists and politicians at odds. Ever since the Gary Hart disclosure, there have been questions about the public's right to know and the boundaries under which journalists should provide that information.

Although there was an outcry as to whether the Miami Herald reporters went too far in staking out Hart's Washington, D.C., townhouse, there was no question about Joe Biden's disclosures. But all of a sudden there once again is a question about journalists intruding into politician's private lives. Does the media have an obligation to report Pat Robertson's marriage date? Does it have an obligation to tell the public everything about the candidates? Where does the obligation end?

Because Robertson has prided himself on obeying the Bible, the fact that he violated one of its precepts is of interest, but because he also admitted that he had made a mistake, he has thus far avoided the problems that have cost Biden and Hart their campaigns.

On a local level, the obligation is different. As community journalists, we have an obligation to keep you informed about what is going on in the community. The Nebraska Press Association has said, through its judging of the Michigan Press Association contest entries, that we do our job pretty well.

We'll take that as a compliment, at least until we get a sign that the situation has changed.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

"Are you going to tell your wife?" It was a good question.

Don't get me wrong. I hadn't done anything wrong. It's just that on the one hand you never know what you might get in trouble for. And, on the other hand, what if she had set the whole thing up in the first place just to see if I'd tell her about it.

I'm a little reluctant to relate this story because virtually everyone will find it hard to believe. Even I find it hard to believe. What's worst is that I no doubt will be subjecting myself to a lot of ridicule.

But it's true, so here goes. I received a telephone call at work last week from a lady who said she had danced with me once about five years ago and remembered me as being a particularly good dancer.

She went on to say that she's single now and was calling to find out if I might be single, too.

I told her I wasn't, but said I was extremely flattered she had called. That I realized placing the phone call must have been a hard thing to do. That by even asking she had made an old, grey-haired fellow feel pretty good.

It was after concluding the conversation that I decided I had better report it to my wife. And so I did over dinner at El Nibble Nook that night.

Her reaction was predictable. "You've got to be kidding," she said. "You expect me to believe that she danced with you once five years ago and still remembers it today? You're an o-kay dancer, but you're not exactly a Fred Astaire either."

"Wait a minute, light of my life," I responded, just a little peeved. "What's so hard to believe about that? Are you saying you don't believe that dancing with me might be memorable... that this obviously very intelligent woman just might have been impressed enough with my grace of movement and casual manner to remember it five years later?"

"Besides," I continued, ignoring her skepticism, "who's says I'm not exactly a Fred Astaire on the dance floor? The fact of the matter is that this old guy can still do the two-step with the best of them."

Reader Speaks

Wetlands are missed

To the Editor:

It was gratifying to see that The Northville Record printed an editorial in last week's edition (Oct. 8) concerning the wetlands off Eight Mile Road in the construction area.

As a resident since 1973 in the adjacent Lexington Condos, the changes I see are evident and perhaps there are more to come as building continues.

Progress is demanding and consequences follow. In this case, our little stream, part of the Randolph Drain, once was clear and free flowing. It has diminished to a trickle. A rainfall brings turbid muddy water flowing through.

The pond at Eight Mile and Taft is slowly filling up with the sediment. The grassy area adjacent to the construction site is becoming a swamp. The wheels of the mowing machines sink into the ground.

As building continues, we wonder if deterioration will keep pace. The wetlands have been disturbed and the results are evident.

What was once a natural preserve of both flora and fauna has been obliterated. The many meandering paths among hills and meadows are now gone. There were pheasants, deer, rabbits and, yes, skunks and more. Animal tracks in the winter snows criss-crossed the paths. The abandoned, but still producing, apple and pear orchards, no doubt, were the lure that drew the wildlife to that area. Waterfowl gathered on quiet little ponds.

All are now gone.

It seems to be expedient to fill in the wetlands and to try to create others, but Mother Nature can rarely if ever, be improved upon.

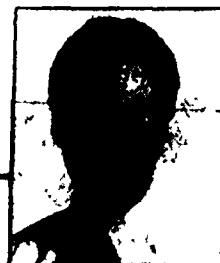

We need a voice to inform. As stated previously, it is gratifying to know that there is concern. So thanks to the decision maker to print the editorial, to the one who made the assignment, and to the writer.

My wife and I must be at that age.

We've been married a little over a year now and now it seems that every couple we know is following suit. There was a rash of weddings last spring and this fall it's even worse. Next spring there's a bunch more planned already.

I guess when you reach your mid-20s, it just seems like the right time to get married. Virtually every weekend this past summer was reserved for the usual wedding-related activities — you find yourself at showers, parties, rehearsals and the like. And the tasks get even more complicated and time consuming when you are in the wedding party. For my wife there always seems to be dresses and shoes to buy, showers to organize and a million other things. For me it's been fittings for tuxedos and organizing bachelor parties.

But the thing that gets you down is the cost. For her dress and my tuxedo, you're talking over $150 for one wedding. Then there's the shower gifts, the wedding gifts and all that. It adds up mighty quick.

I suppose I'm nit-picking. All these people getting married are very close friends and it's always a great time at the wedding. It is funny how they are all pretty much the same with just different people up at the altar — but fun just the same.

As I expected, the girls do a much better job preparing for these things than the guys do. It's really amazing how well organized those showers are — everything is planned down to the second, the food is always gourmet-style and everybody arrives in nice clothes with beautiful gifts.

In contrast, bachelor parties are usually a chaotic mess. Everybody arrives in grubby jeans and T-shirts, only to stagger home with the same clothes, now torn, dirty and beer stained. A bowl of pretzels and a crumpled up bag of chips are the only things even close to a meal, and absolutely nothing is planned out. Whatever happens, happens.

I am in the process of organizing one of these bachelor parties for my buddy Mike. The first thing I did was split up the chores, giving one simple project to each guy in the wedding party. One is handling the beverage situation, another the food and another the entertainment. It should come off well but if it doesn't, our plans are flexible anyway (translation: we have no set plans).

There are certain disgusting things you are almost always obliged to plan at these types of parties. I won't go into these in detail, but sometimes I wonder if they are included just for history's sake. What would a bachelor party be without the groom getting sick? (Probably a lot more enjoyable, right?)

Rotary announces winners

Michael DiLalle of Farmington Hills and Roberta Paja of Canton.

Seven names are drawn at the weekly meetings of the club with winners receiving their checks by mail. The lottery project financed by the sale of the community calendars for $25 is a fund raiser for club projects that assist local young people.

Hundreds tour two luxury model homes

More than 220 visitors toured two luxury model homes open in Pheasant Hills subdivision on Eight Mile west of Taft at the champagne benefit for Northville Historical Society last Thursday evening. Crowds gathered in both the Sun Villa II, left, and the Wexford model. Diana and Joe Miklos had a special interest as they inspect, at right, information about the homes because they soon are moving from New Hudson to a home in the subdivision. The oak bar is one of the many luxury features in the homes. Both furnished models continue to be open through Oct. 25 as a benefit for the historical society's renovation of the Cady Inn in Mill Race Historical Village. Sally Henrikson, society office manager, reported Wednesday that 259 visitors had toured the homes last weekend. The homes are open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Thursday from noon to 8 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Historical society volunteers are on hand in both houses to explain their features. Tickets are $2 at the door.

Gitfiddler battles identity problem

By LISA BURKS

If you were to ask business owner Tom Rice what one of the best kept secrets in Milford is he would probably point to his Gitfiddler music store.

By his own account, Rice believes the Gitfiddler suffers an identity problem at the Mill Valley location.

"We've got so much to offer the people of Milford and yet at this point in time we're still dealing with the problem of acceptability," said Rice prior to the store's first anniversary celebration Oct. 10.

"We've been here a year, and I don't have expectations of going crazy, yet I'd like to hit folks straight between the eyes and tell them we're real," he continued.

The Mill Valley location is not Rice's first venture into the music business. His original Gitfiddler outlet in Northville has been serving the metro areas' musical clientele for 15 years.

Both the Northville and Milford Gitfiddler stores specialize in exactly what the name implies — "gitfiddles" — a slang term for stringed instruments, guitars in particular.

The Northville location has built a reputation around its diversified stock of acoustic string instruments, such as guitars, banjos and mandolins. The focus in the Milford store is on top-of-the-line electric varieties.

Although guitars make up the bulk of each store's inventory, Rice points out that the Gitfiddler's reputation has been built on a three-dimensional concept of guitar sales, service and music lessons.

"The people who work for us are people right at the top of their field," said Rice, noting that many of his instructors are Detroit area performers.

The professionals who work at the Gitfiddler stores reflect Rice's insistence on being a people-oriented business. This, he said, stems from his feelings of intimidation as a youngster going into other music stores and dealing with "hotshot" musicians who didn't seem to want to give him the time of day.

"Unfortunately, it's an attitude that carries over with music," Rice said.

"However, I opened under the premise of really going to bat for people, helping them with their decisions and giving them a real chance to experience music in a very pleasurable environment," he added.

Rice's clientele in both stores ranged from experienced professionals to beginners and represents all ages.

Northville's 16 instructors teach over 400 students a week from ages 3 to 80. Nine instructors in Milford handle around 100 students, although Rice hopes to reach a capacity of 200 more in the near future. Lessons are available for persons to learn on a variety of instruments.

When helping a customer decide which type of guitar to initially purchase, Rice first asks them to determine what type of music they best identify with.

This in turn determines whether they should go with a nylon string classical, steel string acoustic flat top for a country-western sound, or electric for rock'n'roll and blues.

"I let the guitar do a lot of the talking," said Rice. "I play it and explain the differences in quality which range from beginner to intermediate to advanced, and let the customer hear the sounds themselves," he added.

According to Rice, a major misconception with beginners is that an electric guitar is something to move up to after mastering basic techniques on an acoustic model.

He feels that, in actuality, the electric guitar is much easier to play. The reason for this is that an acoustic guitar produces its own sound and the strings must be gauged to produce volume.

Electric guitar sounds are generated through a magnetic pickup, so the strings are lightly gauged and very close to the neck, therefore making it easier to play.

"I tell people to go with a person's energy," said Rice. "If it's in electric, don't put them on a classical. A lot of interest is lost that way," he said.

With all his experience and reputation behind him, Rice holds high hopes for his Milford store.

"It took a long time to develop the Northville store. A lot of years doing good business with good people," reflected Rice, who noted that most of his Milford employees have come over from the original shop.

"I chose Milford because it's very similar to Northville," stated Rice, who makes no qualms about not being the "mall type."

"I like identity and the only way to get identity is to be in your own building in a small town like Milford."

Parents should start planning now for college educations

The statistics are almost frightening. You've probably heard that by the year 2000, it will cost $90,000 to $100,000 for a four-year college education.

Or perhaps you read the current average cost of $10,200 for a private college education is expected to increase at a rate of six to seven percent a year. What's a parent to do? How can you plan to cover future education costs?

The Michigan Association of CPAs cautions parents who have begun a college savings program to re-examine their savings strategies in light of the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

For those who have not yet begun a college savings plan, CPAs say it's never too early to start. Tax Reform has virtually eliminated the tax advantages of the two most popular college savings vehicles — custodial accounts set up under the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act and the Clifford Trust which allowed assets to be set aside in a child's name for a minimum of 10 years during which time earnings were taxed at the child's lower rates.

While you may still open a custodial account or a Clifford Trust, it may be less beneficial under tax reform since any unearned income over $1,000 received by a child is taxed at the parent's higher marginal tax rate until the child reaches age 14. When a child is 14 or older, his or her earnings will be taxed at the child's rate.

Given the new rules, CPAs suggest if you have a child under 14, you plan his or her investments carefully so the annual investment generates approximately $1,000 to take advantage of the exclusion available to the child. For any additional funds you wish to invest in your child's name, consider those instruments that defer taxable income until your child reaches age 14 and can take advantage of a potentially lower tax bracket.

Money Management

If you're saving for a child's education, there are a number of strategies you may want to consider.

SERIES EE SAVINGS BONDS: This is one of the simplest strategies. You can buy Series EE Bonds in your child's name in denominations ranging from $50 to $10,000. The interest is not federally taxed until the bonds mature or are redeemed and the interest is also exempt from state and local taxes.

New savings bonds mature in 12 years so you can plan your purchases so that the bonds will mature after your child's 14th birthday. In this way, when the bonds mature, your child will be taxed for the accumulated interest, but taxed at his or her own rate.

LIFE INSURANCE: As a result of tax reform, life insurance has become a favored means of saving for college because of its tax-deferred nature. As the cash values of insurance policies build up, there are no taxes due on the earnings until they are withdrawn. When the tuition bills start to come in, you can borrow against the policy's earnings, at little or no interest. And, generally, there's no tax bill as long as you don't dig too deeply into the policy.

A single premium whole life policy provides a valuable tax shelter for college funds, particularly for those parents in a position to pay a single, large premium payment. With a single premium policy, you make one large, lump-sum payment of at least $5,000 and your earnings begin to accumulate on a tax-deferred basis.

Single premium life offers the added benefit of having the company deduct fees and commissions out of earnings rather than from the beginning balance, leaving more of the premium intact to earn interest. Like other cash-value policies, you may borrow at little or no cost and generally with no adverse tax consequence.

DEFERRED ANNUITIES: An annuity is a vehicle that allows you to save money for a specific date in the future. When you set up a deferred annuity for your child's college education, interest accumulates tax-deferred on the funds deposited and payout begins when your child reaches college age.

Single premium annuities can be paid for with a series of contributions. With both types, federal and state income taxes on earnings within the plan are deferred until payments begin, provided you are 59½. Should you withdraw earnings prior to age 59½, you will be subject to income tax and a 10 percent penalty.

ZERO-COUPON BONDS: Zero-coupon bonds can be especially well-suited for college savings plans. You buy zero-coupon bonds at a significant discount and receive the full face amount when the bond matures. This gives you the advantage of knowing exactly how much money your child will have available when he or she reaches those college gates.

The yield on zero-coupon bonds is determined by the current interest rate at the time of purchase and is locked in until the bond matures. You might also consider investing in zero coupon municipal bonds issued by local and state governments. The interest is exempt from federal taxes and state taxes if you buy bonds issued in the state where you live.

A caution: Be sure the bonds you select cannot be redeemed prior to the bond's maturity.

EDUCATION FUTURES: A new concept in financing a college education is now being offered by a growing number of universities. Basically, it is a prepaid plan similar in concept to a zero-coupon bond. Only in this case, you make a payment (or payments) to the college of your choice when your child is young in return for a guarantee that the child's full tuition (not room and board) will be covered when the child attends. The younger your child, the smaller the payment.

This plan is not without risk. First of all, the college of your choice may not be the college of your child's choice. Although you may find it hard to believe your cute little two-year-old daughter would flatly refuse the chance to attend your alma mater, it can happen.

And what if your son does not meet the school's entrance requirements? According to current rules at many universities, unless your child attends the school at least one year, you get back only the initial deposit and forfeit all interest.

In Michigan, the Michigan Education Trust is offering parents a prepaid financing plan. Funds placed in the Trust are deductible on your Michigan Income Tax return, but the Internal Revenue Service has yet to determine how prepayment plans will be treated for tax purposes. For more information or to be placed on the Trust's waiting list, call their hotline in Lansing at (517) 373-8435.

Keep in mind that the Internal Revenue Service has not yet determined how college prepayment plans will be treated for tax purposes. There is the possibility that the IRS may decide to tax the earnings on prepayments when the time comes to use them to pay tuition.

Savings for your child's education have become more of a challenge under tax reform, says CPAs, making it all the more important to start while your child is young.

Gitfiddler struggling with identity in Milford

"Like its flavor, with the merchants supporting each other," he said.

Rice said that customers who already have discovered the Milford Gitfiddler have been very pleased.

"You have to have a place to buy guitar strings, send your kids for lessons and buy books. Before us there wasn't anyone close by to render all these needs," Rice said.

"Then it turns out that Milford has an enormous band program — one of the tops in the country — so now students don't have to go far for things like reeds, repairs, books and lessons," he added.

At this time, some band instruments are sold on consignment, but Rice notes that that realm of the business may possibly be expanded in the future.

Rice sums up what the Gitfiddler has to offer in his overall philosophy of music.

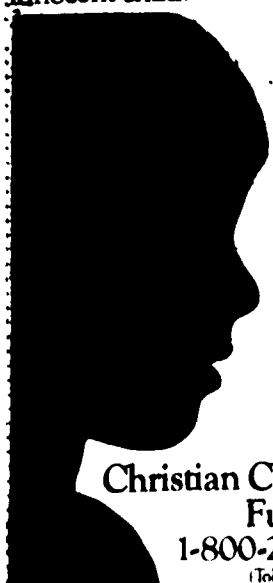

"It's an extension of yourself that you never knew you had," he said. "It allows you to pull out of yourself the creativity that each of us has. It makes you feel good."

BALANCING ACT

Returning to school requires shuffling responsibilities

When school bells ring, they are not just calling children back into the classroom. If you are a woman, even a working woman with children, the bells may be tolling for thee.

When the school bells rang this fall, Novi resident Norma Kirk was one who listened.

Like many women today, Kirk is a mother whose work and responsibilities extend beyond caring for her own home and children. She does promotional work several days a week and assists her husband Rich with his accounting business.

She teaches health and personal care to senior citizens in Southfield and religion to children in Novi. She sings with the Agape group, which entertains residents of area convalescent homes. She manages to schedule and chauffeur sons Jason, 11, and Sammy, 9, to soccer and their classes.

Somehow the term "working mother" seems inadequate in describing women like Kirk.

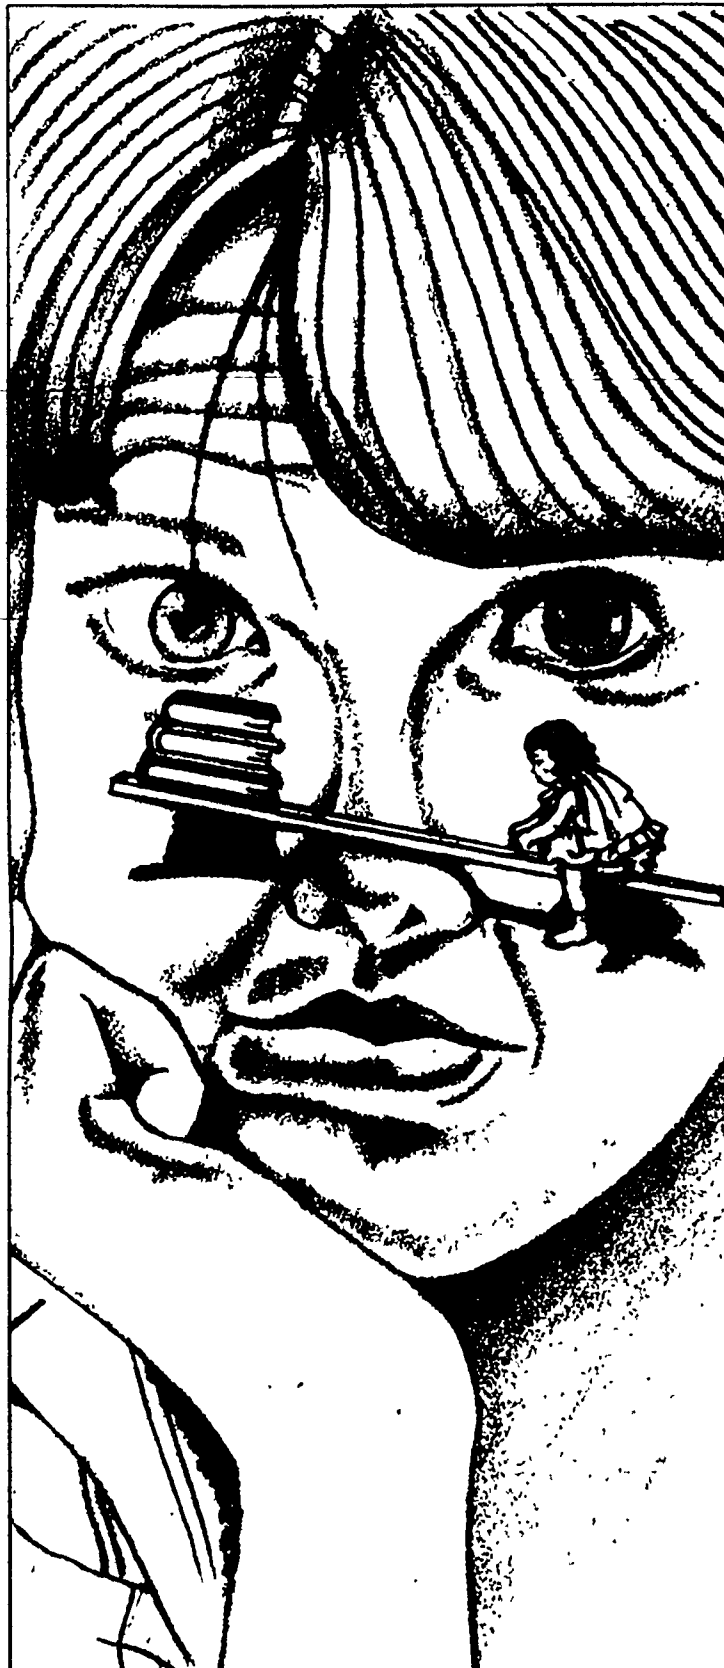

Kirk has joined a growing number of working mothers who have decided to take on one more responsibility — furthering their own education. Norma Kirk currently is a student at Madonna College.

There are more women enrolled in college programs today than at any other time since the end of World War II. Although female students are entering colleges in increasing numbers directly from high school, many more are women who had delayed entry or postponed completion of their studies.

Ginny Wilhelm, director of the Women's Resource Center at Schoolcraft Community College, says women make up 57 percent of Schoolcraft's student body, and that all schools are welcoming the influx of female students.

"All schools, not just Schoolcraft, make every effort to accommodate the adult student," Wilhelm said. "Classes are scheduled for evenings and weekends" to better meet their schedules.

"There are programs for children, tutoring and financial aid. Most schools have a learning assistance center," she added.

When the Women's Resource Center sponsored an all-day "Thinking About College?" program in August, about 80 women met with department representatives to learn more about admission procedures, career planning and the educational programs offered by Schoolcraft in academic, health and technical fields.

"It was such a success that we have several mini-programs planned for the coming year," Wilhelm said.

Some working mothers with children, like Norma Kirk, manage to juggle their responsibilities while their own children are in school. Others wait until their children are grown, or they have completed their own education. Some mothers take classes for personal growth or job advancement. But many have no choice.

One of the largest groups of working women are those who are single with children. Many are suddenly single because of death or divorce, and they need to gain or upgrade skills in order to obtain a job that will support their family. Schoolcraft is one college that specifically has set aside valuable financial aid dollars for single-mother families.

Wilhelm said most of the working-mother-students do well in classes at Schoolcraft. "They know how to manage their time; (and) they are motivated," she said. "They want to be here, and they are paying their own way."

As for Norma Kirk, picking up college textbooks after a 15-year academic break, adjustments have to be made in the way she and her family have come to live their lives.

"I am sorry it took me so long to realize it did not have to hurt my family," Kirk said. "I felt so guilty every time I thought of doing it."

Wilhelm: '(Working-mother-students) know how to manage their time; (and) they are motivated. They want to be here, and they are paying their own way.'

Henry Ford II "loomed larger than life in any gathering," Eleanor Breitmeier related last Friday as she recalled encounters with members of the Ford family and other families that comprise Detroit's society.

Breitmeier, the chronicler of society happenings for the Detroit News for 35 years until she retired earlier this year, spoke to a packed ballroom of members and guests of Northville Woman's Club at the Novi Hilton, opening the club's 95th year.

"He said he was tired," Breitmeier remembered as she mentioned he and his wife, Kathy, made what is thought to be his last public appearance at a black tie evening May 29 in honor of Breitmeier and her husband, Armand Gebert, both reporters at the News who retired together.

At the time another society columnist, Tim Kiska, wrote: "It's one for the history books, in that there are few reporters in town Ford would even speak with, much less put on a tuxedo and walk out the door for." (In actuality, he wore a business suit but the compliment was real.)

Shortly after, the Fords left for England and their home at Henley on the Thames that previously had belonged to Lee Radziwill, sister of Jackie Kennedy Onassis.

"It was on Oct. 15, 1980, that Henry Ford and Kathy eloped to Carson City, Nev.," Breitmeier said, relating that on their return the Roy Zurkowskis (he's chairman of the board of Vic Tanny) gave an elaborate reception for the couple — complete with ice carvings on the swimming pool, Dom Perignon and printed menus.

His son, Edsel, gave the toast, saying he hoped that marriage would take because he didn't want to make the acquaintance of any more step mothers," said Breitmeier.

She called Edsel "a winner," and noted that his wife, Cynthia "is his greatest asset." She mentioned that they are parents of three young sons and that, Edsel, like any young father, had accompanied the two older ones trick-or-treating last Halloween in their Grosse Pointe neighborhood.

What advice had his father given him?

"Never depend on our name or money to bring us happiness, and do what you want to do and you have my support," Edsel had told Breitmeier in response to her question. She had been called back to the News to assist with stories after Henry Ford's death.

His daughter, Charlotte, told Breitmeier that he had given her a "sense of independence" and that she learned not to depend on other people to solve her problems and not to care what others think.

Daughter, Anne, had responded that she had learned her manners from her parents and early in life had learned how to make her own decisions.

Noting that she had introduced Charlotte Ford, who has written a

Celebrating a decade

An anniversary tea Oct. 6 marked 10 years of service and fun for Country Girls Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. Hostess Lonna Lemmon, right above, welcomed officers of the Michigan Division and other organizations at her home. President Camille Bloomberg, left in photo at right, with past presidents Pat Eden, Lois Winters and Elizabeth Joslin were greeters. The branch was organized in September, 1977, under sponsorship of Lake Pointe Branch of Plymouth.

'Taste of Missions' slated by Christian Community

Congo Chicken with Savory Rice and Mock Plantain Bread, both East African dishes, are just two of the ethnic foods to be served at an international banquet at 6 p.m. this Saturday at Christian Community Church.

Other countries to be featured are France, Greece, Italy, Mexico and the United States as well as the Orient.

This "Taste of Missions" will launch the annual missions convention at the church located at 41355 Six Mile west of Haggerty in Northville Township.

Guest speaker at the banquet and at the 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services Sunday will be veteran missionary/evangelist Rev. Morris Plotts. Better known as "Bwana Tembo," Swahili for Mr. Elephant, he will share his experiences in the wilds of Africa as he often has done on radio and nationwide television programs.

The church reports that "many have said as he relates stories of God's love and grace in the dark continent of Africa, one feels as though they were tramping the jungle trails with him."

Plotts has traveled nearly two and a half million miles in gospel work. His journeys have taken him three times around the world and into over 50 countries. He is still blazing a gospel trail into Africa.

He currently is in America raising funds to build an evangelistic center for the primitive tribe of Maasi living just north of Mount Kilimanjaro.

In succeeding services, Rev. Bruce Mumm and Rev. Dean Elliott will share their experiences in the ministry to Thailand and in youth missions around the world.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the banquet and Sunday mission services. The church asks those planning to attend the banquet to call the church office, 348-9030, to make reservations.

Clothing donations needed

This Saturday is the final day for the collection of warm clothing at First Presbyterian Church of Northville to be donated to inner city residents.

Ed Harp, chairman, says donations will be accepted from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the fellowship hall entrance.

to the church off Mary Alexander Court. He asks that clothing be placed in plastic bags. Receipts will be given.

Donations will be sent that afternoon to the Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit for sorting and distribution.

book as well as columns on manners, at a Birmingham program. Breitmeyer said that "today it is the rage to go to work." She recalled Charlotte Ford's comment that "getting up in the morning to have something to do is wonderful."

Breitmeyer said that most affluent, old families in Detroit society shun exposure.

"The William Clay Fords want no publicity," she said, mentioning that Mrs. William Clay Ford is the former Martha Firestone and that when their daughter, Elizabeth, was married last June they gave the press a one paragraph statement making the bare announcement.

"It is possible for those who are not of older 'real society,'" she said, "to acquire status through what they do for the community by supporting and working for such causes as the Detroit Symphony, the Detroit Institute of Arts, Detroit Historical Museum, Orchestra Hall and the Detroit Zoo."

"They can become bona fide somebodies if willing to work at it."

Henry Ford's second wife, Cristina, Breitmeyer said, had had a difficult time with such activities.

"I don't understand those club and charity things — they don't exist in Europe," Breitmeyer quoted her as explaining. She mentioned that Cristina was a woman of the world and a true international jet setter and loved attention.

"She never learned to drive and never rose before noon," she said.

Of Ford's first wife, the former Anne McDonnell, Breitmeyer said she was a socially appropriate mate for Ford as she came from an old-line Eastern stockholder family. She was responsible for bringing the Metropolitan Opera Company to Detroit. She now is married to an attorney, Dean Johnson.

Breitmeyer, when called back to the News to assist with Ford funeral stories, telephoned her to ask if she would be attending the funeral. "She said no and told me she was recuperating from cancer surgery."

Breitmeyer said she often was asked how Henry Ford met Kathy DuRoss, his third wife, and that she had the story directly from the source.

"Marjory Fisher was giving a dinner party and needed an extra woman to fill in for David Metcalf, who was Ford's guest in town. Kathy was recommended by a friend who skied with her as an attractive model. The hostess then called Henry Ford and said, 'she lives on your side of town; stop and pick her up.'"

Her best friends still are those from her modeling days, she added.

Breitmeyer said she probably knew Cristina best of the three wives because she "loved attention and would call when she had house guests such as Imelda Marcos, Merle Oberon and Van Cliburn."

"When Van Cliburn came to visit, Cristina rented a grand piano — don't you find it strange that with all the antiques and art they did not have a piano in the house — but they didn't."

Henry Ford did not always like the publicity he received, Breitmeyer told her audience as she recalled a story in the late 1960s she had written when the Fords were going to dinner with Lyndon and Lady Bird at the White House.

"Cristina's hairdresser called to tell me about the wig he had designed with an upsweep and curl down the back and said I could have the sketch."

"I trotted out and got it and we used it in the paper that Sunday."

"A few days later I received a scolding letter from Henry Ford saying he did not appreciate the story at all — imagine as busy as he was, he noticed it and let me know."

Of another automotive giant, Lee Iacocca, Breitmeyer told of attending the recent marriage of his daughter, Lia, as a guest of the family Bridesmaids rode to the ceremony at St. Hugo of the Hills standing in a London doubledecker bus in order not to wrinkle their gowns. It was a fairy tale wedding.

"But the Pope aced Vic Damone out," she said, saying that it was planned that he sing for Lia's wedding as he had at her sister's. However, Damone was playing an engagement in Nevada and with airport security so tight, there was doubt he would be able to sing at the wedding and return in time for his act.

"Peggy Johnson was sitting next to him (Iacocca) at the wedding and acting very married," Breitmeyer reported.

"But when I asked how things were going, she said, 'well, you tell me, one day I'm married and the next I'm divorced.'"

Breitmeyer's coverage of royalty included the visit of King Carl Gustav of Sweden a decade ago. It was one of the few times, she said, that she and her husband were able to cover a story together. Gebert's beat was an ethnic one.

"The king was leaving just five days before we were to be married," she said, and, when the king confided to Gebert that he was going home to marry a commoner, Gebert replied, "So am I."

In Our Town

Eleanor's people here

By JEAN DAY

When Eleanor Breitmeyer spoke last Friday of the social figures and Detroit "movers" whose activities she had covered for 35 years for The Detroit News, it was apparent that "Eleanor's people" also included many, long-time local residents.

She had worked part time at The Record from age 15 through her years at the University of Michigan, and then full time until joining the society department of the News in 1952.

Speaking at the opening of Northville Woman's Club, she told Rosella Lee that it had been her husband, L. G. Lee, who inspired her love of music when he was music director at Northville High School. She noted that Charles Yahne and Elroy Ellison had been sponsors of her class. The latter's wife, Araminta Ellison, gave the past presidents' response at the luncheon program at the Novi Hilton, noting that, when she joined the club, members presented the programs. Mary Yahne also attended as a past president.

Marge Jennings, Iris Kampf, Ruth Mary Atchison, Betty Allen, and Bernice Newhouse were others remembered, along with club president Marge Bolton, Diane Rockall, a newer resident and active member of the Northville Historical Society, also was spotted by the speaker who related how she had been of valuable assistance as she headed the News files floor until her recent retirement.

Eleanor and her husband, Armand Gebert, both retired from the News in May. "Since we retire together every night," she quipped, "we felt it appropriate that we retire from the News together." They have just bought a condo on Drake Road in Farmington Hills and will be moving there from Southfield.

Garden Club branches hosting state meeting

Both the Northville and Country Girls local branches of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association will be helping host the Michigan Division's fall state meeting Oct. 28 at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Other host branches are Lake Pointe Village, Plymouth and Trailwood.

Phyllis Slattery of Northville is serving as coordinator of the day. Rita MacGregor, Michigan Division president, will preside over the town hall-type meeting at 9:30 a.m. following registration and coffee at 9 a.m. Luncheon and program will be at 12:30 p.m. Bea Peterson, 10th Frysinger exchangee, will relate her experiences and travels in New Zealand under the exchange program.

Historical Society stages two benefits in a week

With two fund raisers less than a week apart, members of the Northville Historical Society have been busy. President Carol Kiraly reported that craftspeople participating in the Tivoli Fair Oct. 2-3 at Northville Downs were pleased with the benefit for the Mill Race Historical Village. However, the event did not realize as great a profit as in past years as attendance was down about 10 percent.

Tours of "The Wexford" and "Sun Villa II" model homes in Pheasant Hills subdivision on Eight Mile west of Taft are continuing through Oct. 25. The gala opening Oct. 8 packed both models. Historical society members are serving as hostesses in both homes with the $2 donation at the door going to the society's restoration project for the Cady Inn.

Michigan competes with Hollywood

By CHRISTOPHER J. KOZLOWSKI

To heck with Hollywood, hooray for Farmington Hills — Studio City is about to open for business just across Novi's eastern border.

Located in the Farmington Hills industrial park near Ten Mile and Grand River Avenue, the new videotape production park is about to give most other area studios a run for their money (not to mention their clientele) by offering production companies the use of the largest soundstage in the midwest as well as numerous other production support facilities.

According to Mary Benjamin, marketing director for Grace and Wild Studios, Studio Center will become the metropolitan Detroit area's first Hollywood-type studio facility wherein numerous technical services are offered.

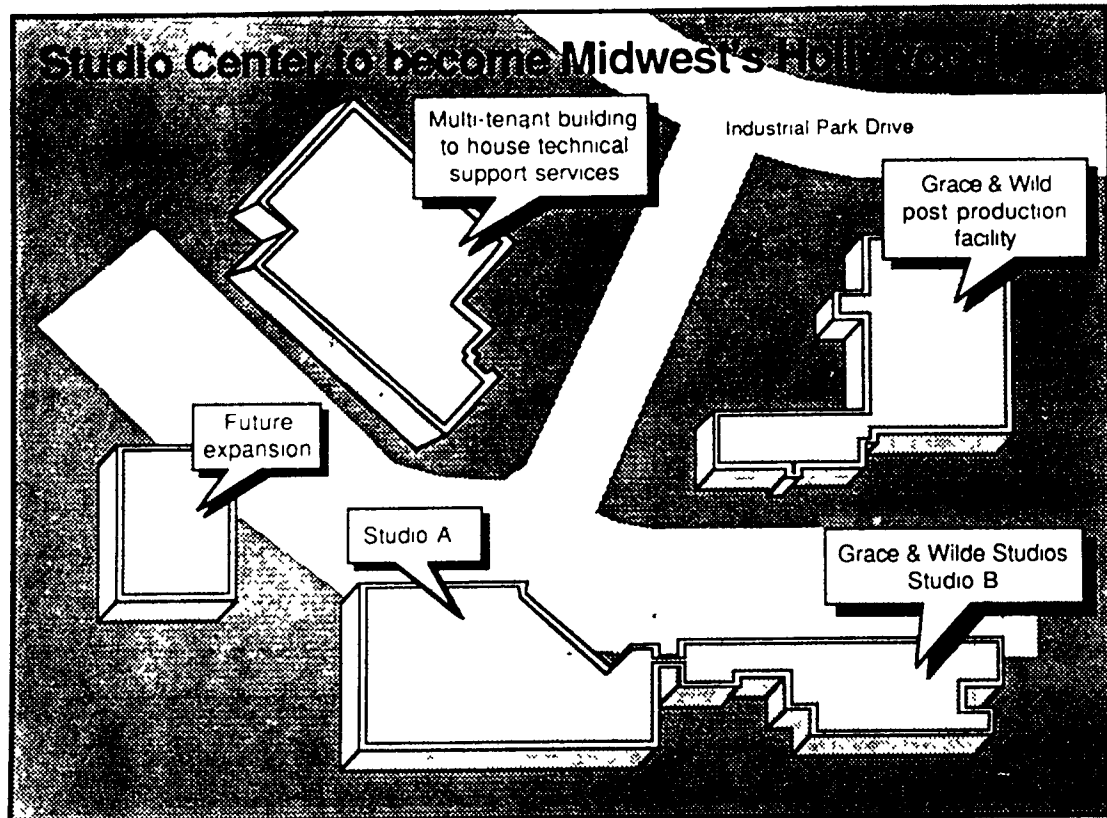

The home of Grace and Wild Studios since 1984, Studio Center will house numerous companies which provide technical support services for videotape productions equipment and supplies, production companies and video editing companies to name a few.

According to Benjamin, the concept of locating videotape/motion picture facilities in one central location is not a new one to the industry.

"Actually, (Hollywood) is where the whole idea originated," she said. "On the old Hollywood lots, a lot of different production companies and people would lease space in one area to make it a more convenient place to work."

Grace and Wild Studios have been located in the industrial park since November 1984 when the facilities were bought from CBS-Fox Video. Co-owner Steven Wild, then a CBS employee, bought the facility with Harvey Grace when CBS moved to its current location in Livonia (off Seven Mile near Northville).

The studio currently serves

metropolitan Detroit advertising companies and corporations by providing videotape studio facilities, technological support, videotape editing, computer graphics and film-to-video transferring.

Grace and Wild serves companies in the Detroit area like Chrysler Corp., WNIC-radio, Kruncher's Potato Chips, Highland Appliance, the National Bank of Detroit and Strohs. In addition, Grace and Wild also create computer graphics used by many of the Detroit-area TV stations, according to Benjamin.

According to Benjamin, Grace and Wild will double the facilities it has available with the Studio City expansion by adding an extra-large soundstage, a new insert soundstage and by renovating its existing soundstage.

Benjamin said the expanded square footage, along with the addition of the new 44,000 square foot support services building will offer more advantages for production companies wishing to create videotape materials.

"There will be an even greater range of services for producers to take advantage of," Benjamin said.

"When (the additions are) completed by the end of the year, we hope to be doing a lot more of the major production work that is done in town," Benjamin added.

"Our main objective is to offer as complete a range of services as we can for the Michigan production community," she said. "And we hope that it will be attractive enough in the instances when producers come in from out of town to work that this will be the obvious choice for them."

Northville netters place second in regional

Doubles player Nanci Dutkiewicz prepares to hit a forehand

Record/CHRIS BOYD

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The most successful team this fall at Northville High School is without a doubt the girls' tennis squad.

Under Coach Uta Filkin, the netters ended the regular season with a fine 10-2 overall mark (10-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association) to tie with two others atop the league standings. On Oct. 5, the Mustangs nipped a very good Livonia Stevenson team 4-3, to preserve a share of first.

The three-way tie was to be broken the following day at the WLAA conference Championships but rain forced a postponement. All 12 teams in the league finally decided the issue six days later on Oct. 12 (after Record deadline) at Livonia Stevenson.

The weather did hold up, however for the MHSAA Class A Regional last weekend and, as the host team, Northville made the most of its chances. In a strong field of 12 teams and 120 players, the Mustangs finished second as a team, thus qualifying for the state meet as a unit. Northville's 17 points was five behind the winners from North Farmington.

"I was very pleased," Filkin said. "It wasn't ideal tennis weather, but the girls really responded and played well. We had a few tough losses I didn't quite expect but as a team, we had enough points for second, which was the most important part."

The second place finish was very important as the top two teams from each regional are the only ones who qualify for the state meet — to be held in Midland this weekend.

Individually, the Mustangs brought home one regional championship and three runner-up finishes — which means in the seven flights, Northville placed competitors in the finals four times.

The lone title came at No. 3 doubles as seniors Aimee Edwards and Shannon Couzens teamed up for a very close 6-3, 5-7, 6-3 victory in the finals over Amy Wittrock and Kathy McConnell of Livonia Stevenson. Edwards and Couzens, the number two seed, went undefeated this season in

Kickers battle Chargers before falling

Northville Soccer Coach Dave Yezback has discovered that his team tends to play either up or down to the level of the opponents. It's not a good situation to be in if you are going up against a weaker team, but it can be a godsend against more talented teams.

This exact scenario came true last week for the Mustangs in a 2-1 defeat against Livonia Churchill (Oct. 5) and a 1-1 tie to Walled Lake Western (on Oct. 7). The loss to Churchill was probably more satisfying to the Northville players than the tie at Western. After all, the Chargers are ranked third in the state, while the Warriors are a fairly new program. Losing to one of the state's top teams is no disgrace, but tying an inferior team just may be

The first half of play against Churchill was a defensive gem as both teams repeatedly shut the other's attack down. Despite an offensive-oriented attack by both teams, the half ended a scoreless tie.

"It was a very good half," Yezback said. "We were ready to take them on and we did. (Churchill) came out and played a wide-open game and so we obliged. It was probably one of the best halves we've played this season."

Four minutes into the second half, the Mustangs pulled in front on a pretty goal by Steve Yezback. Andy Frey's throw in was headed by Noel Korowin over to Yezback and he back-headed it into the net to make it 1-0.

But at the 22 minute mark, the Chargers knotted the score on a goal by John Gentile, off a corner kick. About 10 minutes later, Churchill did it again as Dan Diehl beat goalie Roger Kimary on a corner kick. It ended up being the winning goal as the Chargers held on for the final 10 minutes.

"(Churchill) is very aggressive on corner kicks," Yezback said. "It seems like they send everybody to the ball and we just couldn't handle it."

Northville was only outshot by one (18-17), and despite the loss, Yezback wasn't down on his team afterwards.

Footballers drop another close one

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Mustang footballers refuse to get involved in anything but a close game.

All six Northville games this season have been decided by a touchdown or less, but the home team has only managed one victory. Game after game, the Mustang faithful leave disappointed in another close loss. But one thing is for certain, nobody can complain that they haven't received their money's worth of excitement.

Last Friday (Oct. 9) wasn't any different. The Northville-Walled Lake Western clash followed a familiar script, but, in the end, it was the Mustangs who couldn't remember their lines. The Warriors pulled out a 21-17 win with a clutch fourth quarter score, to win a hard-fought game between two struggling WLAA squads (1-4 records for both, heading in).

"This one was a tremendous disappointment," Mustang Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "We were confident heading in. I thought both teams were equal in talent but the way the kids were improving, I thought it was our game to win. We played fairly well and that's why it is particularly disappointing."

The Northville defense provided the offense with a few opportunities, and they cashed in on one of them, but when it got down to the fourth quarter, the Northville defense failed to stop the Warriors during their game-winning, come-from-behind drive.

On Western's second play from scrimmage in the first quarter, Sam Khashan made a jarring hit on the ballcarrier and recovered the fumble at the Warrior 19. Three plays later, fullback Paul Basile broke into the end zone, was hit hard by a defender and the ball popped up in the air. Alert guard Chris Kuffner grabbed the ball in the air and dove in for the score.

"It was a lineman's dream come true," Schumacher said.

Before the quarter ended, the Warriors tied it up following a poor punt and a short 35-yard drive. But in the second quarter, Northville came back with a time-consuming march, beginning on its own 41. The drive culminated with a nine-yard T.D. pass from Mustang quarterback Greg Price to flanker Derek Osborne. The point after attempt by Todd Daniels was perfect, and Northville was in front again, 14-7.

"That as Derek's fifth touchdown of the year for us," Schumacher said. "I've always said that if you get the ball anywhere near him, he'll catch it. He has really done an outstanding job for us."

Just before halftime, Western put

Scott Sinkwitts grimaces as he runs up a hill at Cass Benton

Depth hurts harriers in loss to Patriots

Pack times and depth problems continue to worry Northville boys' cross country coach Ed Gaybry but the improvements are there and the consistent time drops from top to bottom are good signs.

Maybe that explains the teams' mixed results in action last week. On Oct. 6, the Mustangs placed seventh in a field of 14 teams at the Redford Union Invite at Cass Benton Park. Two days later, Northville gave up too much depth to Livonia Franklin and the Patriots ran away with a 24-33 WLAA dual meet victory. Gaybry's squad then wrapped up the week by finishing ninth out of 25 teams at the Ann Arbor Invite at Buhr Park on Oct. 10. The Mustangs' dual meet record falls to 1-4 on the season (0-3 in Western Division).

At the Redford Union Invite, 60 percent of the Northville runners registered their best times of the year at Cass Benton. As a team, the Mustangs scored 153 points — 67 off the pace set by the winners from Dearborn.

"We saw good competition and I was pleased with the way we ran. This was a regional-calibre field and Frisbie appears to be peaking at the right time while Sinkwitts is also doing a great job."

— Ed Gabrys
Cross Country Coach

"It was a good finish considering the competition," Gaybry said. "We've been dropping times pretty well."

Northville's top runner, John Frisbie, had another outstanding run, placing second overall in a field of over 100. Frisbie was 15 seconds behind Walled Lake Western's Brian Grasso in 16:41 — just seven seconds off his personal best. Scott Sinkwitts continued to provide the team with an excellent 1-2 punch by placing 17th overall in a new personal best time of 17:36. He was followed by Doug Meadows (36th place, 18:05), Jeff Hoose (46th, 18:27), Jay Griffith (52nd, 18:34), Andy Haas (58th, 18:58) and Jason Hoose (66th, 19:01).

Franklin went 2-4-5-6-7 against the Mustangs on Oct. 8 as depth was the key decider. Frisbie won the race in 16:33 to re-establish his personal best time by a second but the only other Northville runner in the top seven was Sinkwitts (third place overall, 17:30). Jeff Hoose was eighth (18:08), Meadows in ninth (18:11), Griffith 12th (18:14) and Haas 14th (18:52).

"We had a chance but on paper and in person (Franklin) was a little bit stronger," Gaybry said.

The calibre of competition was extremely high at the Ann Arbor run, but it didn't intimidate Frisbie as he finished fifth overall in a large field of 175 runners. His time of 16:00 knocked another 13 seconds off his previous best. Sinkwitts added his best time of 17:23 to come in second on the team but was down in 48th place overall. He was followed by Meadows (65th, 17:43), Griffith (77th, 17:59), Jeff Hoose (91st, 18:09) and Haas (109th, 18:25).

As a team, Northville scored 206 points, but it was more than 200 behind Ann Arbor Pioneer, who took top team honors.

"I thought it was a good day for us," Gaybry said. "We saw good competition and I was pleased with the way we ran. This was a regional-calibre field and Frisbie appears to be peaking at the right time while Sinkwitts is also doing a great job — he cut 48 seconds off his best time."

Staknis paces runners in win over Franklin

With four runners coming in under the 23-minute barrier, the Northville girls' cross country squad managed to collect just enough points for a closer-than-close 27-28 Western Lakes League dual meet triumph over Livonia Franklin on Oct. 8 at Cass Benton park.

A few days later, the Mustangs continued the momentum with a seventh-place team finish in a field of 13 teams at the Ann Arbor Invite at Buhr Park. Northville scored 188 points and even though it was nearly 170 points behind first-place Ann Arbor Pioneer, Mustang Coach Nick Dunwoodie was contented.

The win over Franklin gives Dunwoodie's runners a 2-1 record in WLAA divisional action and 2-3 overall. Northville put five runners in the top nine against the Pats, with freshman Roxann Staknis leading the way. Her time of 21:12 was good for first place overall and a new personal best time.

"Roxann ran with a group of boys from the Franklin team," Dunwoodie said. "She stayed with them for most of the way and she won the girls' race by a wide margin."

Dunwoodie's other super freshman, Marcie Dart, is still plagued by an aggravated thigh muscle. But despite the injury, she still came in second for the team (fourth overall) in 22:01. She was followed closely by improving senior Jenny Goshorn in fifth (22:17), Lisa Brown in eighth (22:56) and Jean Riney in ninth (23:17).

"Marcie, Roxann and Jenny ran together for the first half of the race and then Roxann pulled away," Dunwoodie said. "Marcie's leg is still very sore and that's the reason she hasn't been able to keep up with Roxann's pace lately. She is still improving but she's not 100 percent yet. As for Jenny, she is really coming on. I wouldn't be surprised if she is right up at the top on our team at season's end."

In Ann Arbor, Staknis was the top Mustang runner and finished 14th overall in 20:37. As a top-15 finisher, she received a medal. Dart was next (32nd, 21:25), followed by Goshorn (41st, 21:55), Brown (49th, 22:11) and Riney (52nd, 22:26).

"The course was nowhere near as tough as Cass Benton, but the field was very quick and I think that helped our kids with their times," Dunwoodie said. "Our first five girls were all under 23 minutes this time."

Introducing Scan-Alert Service.

Because the gap between security and no security is very small indeed.

You may be thinking about investing in an alarm system to protect your business or residence. Or you may have already invested in one. But what happens if an intruder cuts the line to that system? In most cases, the system shuts down.

Unless you have new Scan-Alert* service, Scan-Alert service is an inexpensive addition for most alarm systems that use your phone line to transmit a signal to your alarm company. So not only can emergency calls get through, the system is also automatically triggered if the telephone line is cut or tampered with. Definitely a worthwhile investment for your peace of mind.

PLEASE NOTE: Michigan Bell's responsibility is limited to the transmission link between your business and your independent alarm company's monitoring facility.

*Scan-Alert service is available in certain areas. Restrictions may apply.
*Scan-Alert is a service mark of Western Bell, Inc. used under license to Michigan Bell.

Bob Rankin, Ben Szostek and John Macinnis all scored for the winning team while Joe Hammond and Nathan Murawski were cited for their fine play. Also in Cup play, the Hot Spurs ripped the Stompers 7-0. The hero of the day was Eric Moore, who scored five times. Clark Wormer and Ravi Mujumdar were also honored for their efforts. Ryan McGrath's goal was one of the few bright spots in the Rowdies 4-1 defeat to the Sting. Brandon Pender led the Sting with a pair of goals and David Anderson was the defensive star. Arsenal downed the Northville Sting behind some great offensive plays by Rick Hugener. Matt Hower was Arsenal's top defender in this Northville Cup match. David Craig scored a goal but it wasn't enough as United tripped the Rowdies 2-1. Corney Robinson and Billy Ader were standouts despite the loss. Goals by Chad Gilchrist and Jared Swart helped the Cosmos blank Livonia No. 4 2-0. Goalie Chris Luebe was the defensive MVP and notched the shutout. The Express sailed past the Cosmos 4-0 in Northville Cup action. Chad Gilchrist and Jeff Brazunas were honored for their fine play. Farmington No. 1 handled the Stompers rather easily 3-0. Bob Smith was the MVP for the Stompers. The Hot Spurs burned the Stompers 7-0 in a Northville Cup match. Jason Desaro was the Stompers' MVP. Despite some fine individual play by Jeff Brazunas and Matt Swart, Plymouth No. 1 edged the Northville Cosmos 2-0.

UNDER 18 GIRLS: Northville United shut out Northville Arsenal 2-0 on goals by Amy Heckemeyer and Amanda DeKoker. Elizabeth Kueger and Robyn Kostela were cited as the top players of the game for Arsenal. Scott Lloyd and David Roising were the Express MVPs. The Sting bounced Plymouth No. 3 2-0 on goals from Scott Anderson and J.P. Martin. Jason Abbey was the game's top defender. A Bill Rundle goal wasn't enough as South Lyon cruised to a 6-1 victory over Northville Arsenal. Joel Elissor and Matt Basse paced the Arsenal team with fine play. Farmington No. 1 edged the Northville Rowdies 1-0. Jason Macher and Matt Murawski were the MVPs for the Rowdies.

UNDER 14 BOYS: David Chaves scored twice while Brandon Cuadra, Joe Lang and Jeff Kinnelly each added one as Northville Arsenal bombed Farmington No. 3 5-0. Goalie Mike Hamilton registered the shutout but had help from defensive MVP Ian Switalski. The Northville Rowdies crushed Farmington No. 2 8-0. Leading the attack was Ben Blossom, who scored two times and was the offensive MVP. Pat Kennedy scored twice for Northville United but it was the only offense the team could muster in a 3-2 loss to Livonia No. 2. Rob Nelson and Matt Osacki were named most valuable players for United. The Express fell to South Lyon 3-2 on the road. Rodg Kotlyo scored both goals for the locals while Troy Heimick and Jeff Ozannich were named MVPs. Plymouth No. 1 nipped Northville Arsenal 2-1 despite the fine offensive play of David Chaves and Neil Haxton. Robby Clark was the top defensive player in the game. In Northville Cup semi-final action, United turned back the Express 5-2. Leading the way for United was Matt Osacki (three goals). Steve Moore and Pat Kennedy.

UNDER 14 GIRLS: United trounced Plymouth No. 1 9-0 thanks to a three-goal outburst by Wendy Carroll. Stephanie Neff chipped in with two more goals while four goalkeepers shared in the shutout. United came back to beat the Northville Express by the same score (9-0). Neff scored three goals. Valerie Schuerman added two. The defensive stars of the game included Arwin Levinson and the four goalies. The Express handed South Lyon a 7-3 defeat and Gie Wilcox's three goals made the big difference. Jennifer Rush was cited as the game's outstanding defensive player. Birmingham No. 2 cruised to a 4-1 win over Arsenal. Laura White and Mary Clark were recognized for their fine play. Goals by Shawn Saydak and Bethany MacLean enabled the Rowdies to pin a 2-0 loss on Huron Valley. Sarah Piner and Becky Zeppa were named the Rowdies' MVPs. Plymouth No. 2 and the Rowdies battled to a 2-2 standoff. Bethany MacLean saved the day for the Rowdies with a pair of goals.

UNDER 19 GIRLS: Meredith Piner and Krista Novak each registered hat tricks (three goals each) as Northville blasted Livonia 7-0. Arin Levinson also scored for the winners and goalkeepers Janet Schiacter and Sue Settles were perfect in goal. The MVP awards for the game went to Jenny Nieuwkoop and Jenny Beyersdorf.

FOOTBALL: Colts drop 4th in a row

VARSITY: The Northville/Novi Colts managed a pair of long touchdown drives but still lost to the Garden City Chargers 21-12. Hirohito Fukushima ran the ball in for the first TD following an opening possession 70-yard scoring drive. Brandon Hayes notched the second together a longer drive — this time beginning at its own 37. During the eight play drive, a roughing the passer penalty by Northville kept the drive alive, setting up a five-yard TD run for a Warrior running back. Daniels blocked the extra point attempt however, and the Mustangs held on to a slim 14-13 lead with 2:52 remaining.

Other offensive standouts included Chris Harris and Jason Stolberg. The defense was led by the fine play of Todd Wrightman and Chris Barbara. After four games of play, the Colts remain winless at 0-4.

"That was really the break we were looking for," Schumacher said. "I was confident we could pull it out."

Northville increased the lead with a 35-yard field goal by Daniels late in the third quarter. The Mustangs took possession of the ball at their own 37 and drove down inside the Warrior 20 before stalling. Daniels, the team's back-up kicker heading into the season, gave the locals a 17-13 advantage with 23 seconds left in the quarter.

"Our kicking game is coming around," Schumacher said. "Todd Daniels was really rushed into service when (number one kicker) Chris Kuffner was injured. He is doing a nice job and improving every week."

But early into the fourth, the normally stingy Northville defense made several mistakes which enabled Western to move down the field for the go ahead score. The Warriors started at their own 21 — 79 yards and six plays later, the Mustangs were behind for the first time in the game. A key 33-yard pass set up the touchdown, a 21-yard pass in the corner of the end zone.

Western went for, and got, the two point conversion and with 9:43 remaining, Northville now trailed 21-17.

"On that drive, we made several mental mistakes but I have to give Western a lot of the credit," Schumacher said. "On the touchdown, they executed a nice play action pass and our defensive backs were beaten."

"I've come to expect a lot from our defense but (Western) exposed our weaknesses. When you give up 54 yards in two plays, you are in trouble."

The Mustangs never really threatened the rest of the game. The deepest penetration in three more possessions was the 45.

Mike Yard paced the ground attack with 44 brutal yards on 17 carries while Price was 6-for-14 in the air for 44 yards and one touchdown. Defensively, Daniels (eight solo tackles and three assists) and Khashan (four solos, two assists, two sacks, one fumble recovery) led the way. Defensive tackle Brad Krirsh also had a fine day with four solos and an assist.

"It was (Western's) homecoming and they played real hard," Schumacher said. "We never gave up, but it just wasn't our day."

Northville won the statistical battle with more first downs (10-7) and more total offense yards (200-180), but Walled Lake Western won the war.

With a 1-5 overall record (1-4 in WLAA), Northville is in the unenviable position of hosting state-power Farmington Harrison tomorrow (Oct. 16) after just coming off a close loss. The Hawks are 6-0 and ranked number one in the state, class B.

"You can't say enough about their program," Schumacher pointed out. "If I didn't think we had a chance to win, I wouldn't be in coaching. We've got a few tricks up our sleeves and we have nothing to lose."

"Everybody thinks they can name their score against us but we'll go out and give them everything we have."

Third-ranked Churchill too much for kickers

"I am very proud of the way the boys rose to the occasion against a team that really didn't take us seriously at least not at first," he said.

The Mustangs failed to bounce back effectively two days later against Western and were hampered by the Warriors' very small home field. Yezback believes the home field advantage was a very big factor in the tie.

"Walled Lake's defense took us off our game," he said. "Their field size limited us in what we could do. On a bigger field, we could have opened things up a bit more and used our skills a little more."

At the 24-minute mark of the first half, Western got on the scoreboard first. Northville was unable to clear the ball from out in front of its own net and the ball popped into the goal. The score remained 1-0 for most of the game, as Western's defense frustrated the Mustangs time and time again.

With only four minutes remaining in the game, Northville finally tied the score and salvaged the game on a Brad Malizewski tally, which came off a crossing pass from Korowin. With a few seconds left, the Mustangs actually had an ideal chance to pull out the win but couldn't convert a penalty kick. Senior Ken Neal took the shot but the Western goal guessed right, dove and stopped the shot.

The winless week left Northville with an 8-5-2 overall mark (4-3-1 in the WLAA). In the first round of the MHSAA Class A District draw, the Mustangs will host North Farmington on Oct. 19 at 7 p.m. Livonia Churchill and Stevenson, two of the better teams in the state, are also members of the six-team regional field.

dual meet action until the match with Stevenson on Oct. 5, when they fell to Witrock and McConnell. But at the regionals, it was time for sweet revenge.

"Aimee and Shannon played exceptionally well," Filkin said. "Aimee was sick when they lost earlier in the week but Saturday she was fine and they both played wonderfully."

At No. 2 singles, Abby Edwards (seeded second) won two matches to advance to the finals, but had to settle for second place finish. North Farmington's Becky Gressler pulled out the win, 6-3, 6-2, but the match was much closer than the score indicates.

At No. 3, second seeded Kathleen Kotarski won twice to move into the finals against North Farmington's Ann Heimbach, but she then lost 6-3, 6-3.

The same thing happened to freshman Karen Vogt at No. 4. Due to scheduling problems on Friday, Vogt was forced to play from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday with just a half hour break in the middle. After reaching the finals, she ran out of gas and fell to North Farmington's Meredith Wall 7-5, 6-7, 2-6.

In the top singles bracket, Adrienne Edwards contributed by winning her first round match over Ladywood's top player which provided Northville with an additional point. Edwards then fell in the next round.

In other doubles action, the No. 1 team of Jennifer Trabin and Nanci Dutkiewicz made it to the semifinals but lost to Plymouth Canton's Sandy Bajer and Michelle Khurana, 6-0, 6-3. At No. 2, Julie Millgard and Laura Nance also made it to the semis before dropping a 6-3, 6-2 decision to Lisa Manning and Tina Gelmsi.

"I'd say we lived up to our dual meet record," Filkin said. "North Farmington beat us in the regional and they were the only team in the league that's beaten us."

Against Stevenson, the Mustangs won three of four single matches and added a win in doubles to secure the victory.

"It was a close one," Filkin said. "Stevenson didn't have a great dual meet record but they played us very, very tough."

Abby Edwards downed Cheryl Bonser 7-6, 6-2 at No. 2. Kotarski blasted Renea Bonser 7-5, 6-0 at No. 3 and Vogt topped Amy Snow 6-2, 6-2 at No. 4.

In doubles, the lone winner was Trabin and Dutkiewicz at No. 1 — they bounced Mary Peeloni and Christine Newton 6-1, 6-1. Millgard and Nance dropped their first match of the season at No. 2 and Aimee Edwards and Couzens did the same at No. 3.

Cagers pin 95th straight loss on Hawks

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville cagers' competition last week ran the gamut from the very good to the awful. And despite the up and down level of the competition, the Mustangs played hard and consistent in both games — a fact that pleased Northville Coach Ed Kritch.

On Oct. 6, the basketballers played well, but still came out on the short end of a 54-49 decision to a fine Wall Lake Western squad. But two days later, Northville ran into the hapless Hawks from Farmington Harrison and promptly blasted the team 59-23. For the season, the Mustangs are now 6-5 overall (3-2 in the WLA Western Division).

With sisters Diane and Michelle Wall Lake Western sports a very tall and talented team, especially along the front line. But for the whole game, the shorter Mustangs refused to quit battling Western. To negate the size disadvantage, Kritch employed a defensive press the whole game, and it was successful on various occasions.

"I thought our press gave them guards problems and it kind of negated their size a bit," Kritch said. "They have a lot of size and we don't, so it was a very big concern for us."

The first quarter was a scoring battle between Diane Hall and Debbie Stevens, a pair of front-court players taking it to each other. In the head-to-head match-up, Stevens gave up five or six inches to Hall, but was still able to take her inside as well as out the perimeter, and convert. After one quarter, Western led 12-9 with Hall scoring eight and Stevens adding seven.

In the second quarter, the two stars slowed down their scoring pace a bit but were still the major offensive weapons. Thanks to six more points by Hall, the Warriors took a slim 22-21 lead into the locker room. In the second, Debbie's sister Jenny Stevens helped keep Northville close by hitting a pair of long-range shots.

In the second half, Kritch made a few defensive adjustments to slow down Hall, and it worked. The 6-foot-1 forward scored only four in the second half. In the meantime, guard Karen Baird caught fire for the Mustangs and helped to put the team

Mustang Basketball Coach

In front 36-35 heading into the final eight minutes. Baird scored 10 in the third quarter alone after being held scoreless in the first half.

Baird kept the pressure up in the fourth but Western continued to fight back as the lead seesawed back and forth. With less than two minutes left and the Warriors on top 50-48, Baird fouled out and suddenly, things started to fall apart. Western made a pair of free throws to go ahead 52-48, and Northville failed to score on its next possession. As the Warriors tried to stall away the game, Kritch left his seat on the bench to yell defensive instructions to his team and was nailed with a technical foul. Western made both free throws, making the Mustangs' final point of little importance.

"When they called the technical, it took the starch out of us," Kritch said. "It was an unfortunate situation. But it was a great effort by our kids."

"I thought we played as hard as any team I've ever been associated with. It was a shame we got beat but I don't want to take anything away from Western. The lead never reached more than four points the whole game, until the final minute of the game."

Baird led the team with 17 and Debbie Stevens chipped in with 14. Katie Brugman added eight rebounds and Jeanne LaPrad had four steals. For Walled Lake, Diane Hall ended with a game-high 20.

The Mustangs jumped out in front of Harrison 20-2 after one quarter and went on to a 36-point victory. It was the Hawks' 95th loss in a row, dating back five seasons.

"We attacked them immediately," Kritch said. "We certainly don't want to be the first team they beat in five years so we tried to get it over with as soon as possible — we did that in the first quarter.

"You don't want to give them a chance. We did what we wanted to do in the first quarter and it was over."

The lead ballooned to 36-11 at halftime and 47-11 after three quarters even though Kritch had been substituting freely since early in the second quarter. Every player on the Northville roster played in the game and eight players scored. Debbie Stevens paced the balanced attack with 12 points while seniors Jenny Stevens and LaPrad added 10 apiece. It marked the first time either one has scored in double figures during their varsity careers. LaPrad also chipped in with seven steals.

Northville has now played every team in the Western Division once. At the midway point, Plymouth Canton is in first place (5-0), Walled Lake Western in second (4-1) and Northville third (3-2).

Kevin Telepo paces linksters and qualifies for state meet

It was a memorable week of golf for Northville's Kevin Telepo, and he's been playing the game for years.

The junior linkster paced the Mustangs at the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) tournament on Oct. 5, and then came back with another strong showing at the MHSAA Class A Regional tournament on Oct. 9. For his tremendous efforts in these key tournaments, Telepo earned himself a berth on the All-Western Division team and qualified for the state championship tournament. Not exactly a routine week.

In the 12-team WLAA tourney at Huron Meadows, Northville placed fourth overall, nearly 100 strokes behind the winners from Walled Lake Western. Livonia Churchill was second and North Farmington third.

"The greens were real fast and we learned a lot about the pressures of tournament play," Mustang Coach Don Morgan said. "I wasn't really disappointed with our performance because the competition was very good. Walled Lake Western and Churchill were the only two teams to beat us during the dual meets and finish ahead of us. I really can't be displeased with it."

Telepo paced all Northville scores with a 39-41 — 80. He was followed by James Nordbeck (43-39 — 82), Chris Lemmon (41-45 — 86), Dave McKee

"I'm tickled to death for Kevin. He has been getting much more consistent as the season progresses and he's just a junior so he has a very bright future."

— Don Morgan
Mustang Golf Coach

(40-49) and Kirk Windisch (44-47 — 91). For their efforts, Telepo and Nordbeck were named to the WLAA All-Division team.

"Kevin was outstanding and Nordbeck had one of the better back-nine rounds in the league," Morgan said.

The following day, Northville turned around and clobbered North Farmington 208-221 in the season-ending dual meet at Meadowbrook. Ironically, North had topped the Mustangs by six strokes less than 24 hours earlier at the league tournament.

"We flip-flopped with them," Morgan said. "I don't really know how to figure it. Meadowbrook is a tough course and for us to get a 208 is great. We did an exceptional job."

The win left Northville with a 10-2 overall dual meet mark, 8-2 in the WLAA. Morgan's team finished third in the Western Division and fourth in the conference.

Windisch bounced back with a 39 against North, which tied him for medalist honors. He was followed by Lemmon (40), Telepo (43), McKee (43) and Nordbeck (43).

Despite finishing just 14 strokes off the lead at the Regional tourney at Huron Meadows, the Mustangs finished down in 12th place out of 17 teams. Livonia Churchill and Walled Lake Western tied for first place honors with a 338 score.

"I'm not disappointed," Morgan said. "We are a young club, but we showed we won't be intimidated at the big meets and that we'll be ready for them next year."

Telepo continued his hot-streak by carding a fine 39-41 — 80, which placed him second overall — just four strokes off the pace — in a huge field of 85 golfers. As one of the top five scorers in the regional, Telepo qualified for the state meet to be held Oct. 17 at 9:30 a.m. at Forrest Akers Golf Course in East Lansing.

"I'm tickled to death for Kevin," Morgan said. "He has been getting much more consistent as the season progresses and he's just a junior so he has a very bright future."

Chiefs knock off Mustang tankers

Knowing what talent other teams have and how opposing athletes have performed in the past, coaches in sports such as swimming usually can make a pretty good guess at the possible outcome of a meet.

Oct. 8 was one time the system didn't work, and Plymouth Canton girls' swimming Coach Hooker Wellman couldn't have been happier.

"I figured they had us by six points," he said after the Chiefs knocked off Northville 48-35 in a WLAA Western Division meet in the Mustangs' pool.

"Our kids swam real, real well," said Wellman, acknowledging the fact the Mustangs were missing a couple swimmers who were ill.

It was Northville's second dual meet loss in a row and dropped the squad's overall record to 2-2 (1-2 in WLAA). Mustang Coach Bill Dicks was unavailable for comment.

Guide for hunters is offered by MUCC

As the days get shorter, the nights get cooler and the leaves begin to change color with the coming of autumn, and thousands of sportsmen and women are turning their thoughts to some of Michigan's most exciting outdoor sports offerings — hunting for waterfowl, upland game birds and white tail deer.

For young novices and seasoned hunters alike, it is a time to brush up on the important skills they will need to bring home their favorite quarry. No matter what the level of experience and expertise that may have in the field, an invaluable resource for hunters of all ages is "Hunt Michigan! — How to, Where to, When to," the most-definitive guide to hunting opportunities available in Michigan.

"Hunt Michigan" contains individual chapters on how to hunt every game species found in Michigan. It has a separate chapter on hunting opportunities in each of the state's 83 counties. Other chapters are devoted to hunting opportunities in all of Michigan's state game and recreation areas.

Copies of "Hunt Michigan" are available for $14.95 each, postage and tax included. They may be ordered by sending a check or money order to MUCC, P.O. Box 30235, Lansing, MI 48909. All proceeds from the sale of the book go to support MUCC's conservation education programs.

Swimmer incorrectly identified

The Sept. 24 issue of the Northville Record incorrectly stated that the Mustang girls' varsity swim team had no seniors on the '87 squad. Senior Laura Abramovich is a member of Coach Bill Dicks' team and has been involved in the swimming program for three seasons.

In Shape

For Novi cops, it pays to be in shape

It pays to be in shape if you're a cop in Novi.

That's not just an expression, it's a fact. Members of the Novi Police Department really do get paid for being in good physical condition.

Under a provision in the union contract, officers can receive a $100 bonus by passing a medical examination and meeting the requirements of a testing program which consists of pushups, situps and a two-mile run.

Although reluctant to be singled out as the person responsible for the program, Captain Richard Faulkner will admit that he was one of the original proponents.

A 26-year veteran of the department, Faulkner, 51, is an advertisement for the value of a regular physical fitness regime. Trim and flat-bellied, he jogs up to seven miles a day three times per week, and concludes his runs with a series of pushups and situps.

But it wasn't always that way. "I developed a little laziness in my lifestyle back in the 1970s," he said. "I went on a deer-hunting expedition out west and had a miserable time because I was in such poor physical condition."

Faulkner said he went on a diet after returning from the trip, and lost about 20 pounds, but also came to the realization that he needed to adopt an exercise program in order to achieve his goal of being physically fit. He began jogging at that time and today weighs in at a trim 175 pounds.

"I know what a good physical fitness program has done for me, and I wanted to pass the same benefits along to my fellow officers," he said.

Faulkner notes that physical fitness may be more important to police officers than it is to other people. He cited one study which showed that 56 percent of the nation's police personnel are overweight and another study which showed that the average age of death of officers in the United States is 59 as compared to 73 years for the general population.

"It's my opinion that an officer who feels or knows in his mind that he is physically capable of handling any situation which comes up out there on the street is able to perform better," said Faulkner.

"An officer who feels good

Captain Richard Faulkner shows off the weight lifting equipment at the Novi Police Department

physically will feel good mentally. He will have a better attitude toward himself and that attitude will be portrayed in his work.

"Productivity is higher. Sick time is lower."

"There's a lot being written today about burnout and stress," he continued. "I suspect that a lot of stress is mental, but it's also related to physical condition. An officer who is physically fit is better able to cope with the mental aspects of performing his duties."

Novi's Physical Fitness Testing (PFT) program was added to the contracts of the Novi Police Command Officers Association three years ago and the Novi Police Officers Association this past year. "They (patrol officers) wanted it, but we had to wait until the old contract expired before we were able to insert it in the new contract," Faulkner explained.

The PFT program is voluntary for all officers employed by the department prior to Aug. 1, 1987. It is mandatory for all officers hired after that date.

"It's an extremely good program," said Faulkner. "I hope it will spread to other police departments throughout the area."

"Officers who opt to take the program receive a complete medical examination which is paid by the city. If they pass the exam and pass the test, they get the $100 bonus."

"But the real benefit to the officers is that they are encouraged to improve their level of physical fitness. Some people may look at the requirements of the test and think it's too easy, but I say let them try it."

"The thing is that in order to pass the test you have to adopt a personal physical fitness program. Once you get started, it's a lot easier to continue. Plus, it leads to other things."

Once people start getting concerned about their physical condition, they start adopting better nutritional habits.

"In the long run it pays off for the department and it pays off for the individual."

Faulkner admits the program started slowly. But he said he's encouraged by the fact that it seems to be growing in popularity.

"Eleven of our 33 officers signed up to participate in the program this year," he noted. "That's 33 percent of the department. And we think it's going to grow from here. We fully expect to see more involvement in the future."

"Ultimately, I'd like to see this type of program be mandatory for all police officers, and eventually it will be because of the way the contract is written. But in the meantime, it's definitely a step in the right direction."

Fitness Tips

Here's test police take

If you were a member of the Novi Police Department, would you be able to receive the $100 bonus by passing the city's Physical Fitness Training Program?

Police Captain Richard Faulkner said it's a lot tougher than it might appear. But if you think you're in pretty good condition and would like to take the test on your own, here's what to do.

The test consists of three parts — pushups with a two-minute time limit, situps with a two-minute time limit and a two-mile run. You have to meet the minimum levels for your respective age/sex category in all three events to receive the bonus.

Here are the ground rules:

□ Pushups shall be done with palms of the hands flat on the ground and toes on the ground, no other portion of the body will be permitted to touch the ground during the duration of the two-minute exercise period. Exercise will begin with the arms extended. The body will be lowered until the upper arm is horizontal or slightly below horizontal; it is not necessary to touch the chest, chin or any other portion of the body to the ground.

□ Situps shall be done with knees bent, hands locked behind the head and the feet held down. The exercise begins with the participant lying with the upper body on the ground until the upper body is past the vertical, then lower the upper body back to the ground. The lowering of the body and raising back constitutes one repetition.

□ The run consists of a two-mile distance within the prescribed time period.

The minimum acceptable standards for passing the test are set down in the chart on the right.

CLEANING OF BRACED TEETH

A dentist puts braces on a child's teeth to straighten them or correct dental handicaps. But braces make teeth harder to clean, can act as food traps and thus increase the chance of tooth decay. But this can easily be overcome. One of the best methods of cleaning debris from braced teeth is the oral irrigator — an electric device which directs a pulsating stream of water onto the teeth.

Dental researchers at Loyola University tested this premise. Braced youngsters were divided into two equal groups. The first brushed their teeth after each meal, then used an oral irrigator once a day. The second group also brushed but followed with a simple rinsing.

After nine weeks, group one (the irrigators) showed an 80% reduction in total bacteria. In contrast, the group of rinsers had only an insignificant drop in bacterial count. The results indicate that if the irrigator cleaning process is combined with brushing, proper diet, and frequent examinations, a child can have straight teeth without the penalty of additional cavities.
