Oil!

Well near Maybury could produce maximum

By ANITA CRONE

The Southern Michigan Oil Co. has found oil, lots of it, on the Consumers Power Co. site on Eight Mile Road near Napier Road.

Michael Harris, partner in SOMOCO, said the test well drilled by his company beginning Nov. 15, is expected to yield 200 barrels of oil per day, the maximum allowable under Michigan Department of Natural Resources permit requirements.

The coral reef in which the oil is located actually is under Maybury State Park, land owned by the State of Michigan.

The oil comes from the same rock formation to a well the company drilled last June in Novi. The area is bounded by Wixom and Beck roads on the west and east, and Eleven Mile and Twelve Mile roads on the south and north.

It also is part of the same coral formation that has yielded oil on Napier Road and Eleven Mile Road in South Lyon.

"SOMOCO is very pleased with the 200 barrel a day potential of this well," said Harris, noting that company officials are hopeful that the well the company plans to drill on Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital property will be equally as fruitful.

He added that wells similar to those drilled in Northville, Novi and South Lyon are capable of producing "upwards of 10 years."

Harris said the company intends to commence work on the hospital site as soon as within the next 10 days.

The frozen ground will provide enough support for the heavy equipment necessary to begin preliminary drilling and by starting in the winter, when patients are less likely to be on the grounds, the company anticipates fewer safety problems, Harris said.

If the 12-to-14-day preliminary drilling process yields oil, as SOMOCO anticipates, the actual well will not be put in place until spring.

"If it (the preliminary drilling) is unsuccessful, then we'll plug the site and move on. In either event, the heavy equipment will be gone," Harris said.

Oil at the Eight Mile and Napier site was found at a vertical depth of about 3,200 feet and at a 50-degree angle and 3,100 feet from where the drill actually was put in the ground, Harris said.

He noted the work at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital site also will involve directional drilling, and that he expects the drill bit will end up about 2,400 feet east of the actual drill site.

While Harris said SOMOCO has nothing on the drawing boards for future drilling in the Northville/Novi area beyond the state hospital effort, that does not mean that there is no new oil to be found.

"The entire area, as far north as Traverse City and as far east as Port Huron, including Detroit, is part of the same coral reef formed by the seas that existed in Michigan during the Silurian era, about 300-400 million years ago," he said.

"We have no plans to go any further east and into major population areas," said Harris.

Although the DNR governs gas and oil drilling operations in counties and townships, Harris said SOMOCO still intends to take the township requirements and wishes into account, including the restoration of the land at Napier and Eight Mile roads, once the heavy equipment is removed and the permanent well is put in place.

And while the state will reap the proceeds from the Eight Mile well, under the agreement worked out between SOMOCO and the DNR, the township will be getting some benefit.

"Last year the State of Michigan DNR Land Trust Fund received some $50 million in royalties from the hundreds of drill sites in the state," Harris said. That same fund is scheduled to provide a 75 percent matching grant to the Northville Recreation Department to purchase Lapham Fields.

Lapham Field funds request makes it to state legislature

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville Community Recreation's request for a grant to buy Lapham Field has gone another step, and is on a list of grants recommended for state legislature approval.

Northville Recreation Director John Anderson said, "I think the chances (for legislative approval) are extremely good. We feel very confident. (However), we can't count on anything yet."

The recreation department hopes to buy Lapham Field, about 27 acres northwest of Beck and Six Mile roads in Northville Township. Charles Lapham has been renting the land to the recreation department.

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources announced last week that the Northville request is priority number 36 on a list of 40 recommended grants.

The board of the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Funds develops the grant recommendation list, which goes to the legislature. According to Rodney Stokes, executive secretary of the fund, a bill to approve the list and release the funds is expected to be introduced within the next two months.

The trust fund is set up to provide 75 percent of the cost of a grant project. The local community must come up with the balance before getting any money from the fund.

The trust fund board recommended a $123,000 grant for Northville. That would suggest a total price of about $160,000, but recreation officials and Lapham have not yet agreed on any price for the land.

"It's not like he has the (land) on the market. He's had the property for a long time and he has many options," Anderson said.

Lapham said he is very willing to sell the land to the recreation department once the two sides determine a fair price. "I've always told them that I would sell," he said.

Neither Lapham nor recreation officials have wanted to spend the money to appraise the land, Lapham said, so at this point nobody really knows what the land is worth.

Even if the legislature does not approve the money this year, approval may come next year. A letter from Stokes to Northville Township explains the priority system.

"Once the legislature approves the list, lands will be acquired to the extent possible by priority order. It must be noted that some of the properties on the list may ultimately be unavailable for various reasons, such as excessive asking prices."

"To compensate for such attrition, the total value of all projects on the list exceeds the actual amount of funds available. However, in the event that funds are exhausted before all properties are acquired, some lower priority projects may be delayed for one year," the letter reads.

In a press release, State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville) said he expects the legislature will approve

She's a dog

The phones virtually rang off the hook last week in the Classified Phone Room at Siger/Livingston Publications.

The reason: readers were responding to an ad under "Absolutely Free" that read, "Little girl needs loving home, pottle trained and smart."

Those responding, of course, thought some disenchanted parent was trying to give away a little girl. Placed by a Brighton resident, the ad really was offering a free dog named, Little Girl.

"We received at least 30 calls last Wednesday and more after that," said Grace Perry, Classified supervisor. "The Livingston County Sheriff's Department also received a number of calls."

Perry apologized for the flap the ad caused and promised the Classified section would be more alert next time and advise that the customer re-phrase the ad.

"We knew we were well read," Perry said, "but we didn't need an incident of this sort to confirm that fact."

Tortiseshell cat visits as temporary mascot

By ANITA CRONE

Most fire stations have a dalmation as a symbol.

In the township, however, the fire station symbol almost became a long-haired, tortoiseshell cat.

Township employees Margaret Campbell and Matt Modrack Jan. 11 found the female cat, wrapped in a blanket and wearing a pink collar, at the west end fire station.

Immediately, Campbell said, she thought that if no one claimed the animal, it would become the fire department mascot.

Chief Robert Toms, however, had other ideas.

"There is no way that the animal is going to stay at the fire hall. There is no one there to take care of it," he said.

Luckily, the issue never came full circle.

After taking the cat to the Northville Veterinary Clinic and Dr. Thomas Heslip, the township good samaritans discovered that it had a broken pelvis and would need care.

They took up a donation to pay for the animal's bills, and, since the fire chief remained firm in his resolve not to allow the cat to remain at the fire hall, began looking for a home for the animal. They already had a name for it, Chief Tuffy.

Meanwhile, Karen Riebling was desperately looking for her cat, Peugeot, who had run out the back door of her Beal Street home Jan. 11.

"Usually, when Peugeot gets out, she comes right back in," Riebling said. That night, the cat, a three-year-old long-haired tortoiseshell female, didn't come home. Nor did it return the next night or the next.

MATT MODRACK

Modrack to leave township post

Nearly two years to the day that he came to Northville Township, Matt Modrack, director of community development, has resigned to accept a similar post with the City of Lapeer.

Modrack's resignation letter has not yet been accepted by the Board of Trustees; however, he said Tuesday his last day will be Feb. 17. He begins his new job Feb. 22.

"Ever since I got into the business, I've wanted to get into a full service city that was developing or redeveloping its real downtown," Modrack said. "When the Lapeer opportunity became available, it was everything I wanted."

Lapeer, the county seat of Lapeer County, has a classic, small downtown, similar to the one in the City of Northville, Modrack said. "It has two hardware stores, a real five and dime and a full main street. And Lapeer is a full-service city, complete with its own street department, downtown development authority, developing industrial parks and residential neighborhoods."

And while Modrack is excited about the move and the opportunity for professional growth, his leavetaking will not be without a tinge of sadness.

"The people that I have worked with — the (planning) commission, the trustees, the township staff — I'm really going to miss them," he said just prior to sitting in his last regularly-scheduled planning commission meeting. "I've really enjoyed knowing the people and working with all of them."

Although he will not be at the township, for years to come people who live, work and drive through Northville Township will see evidence of Modrack's work.

"I see the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty as an example of creative planning, especially with the Gas & Go service station, as a landmark entrance to Northville Township. When the Edison substation, the Ward Church worship center and the Kiroo office plaza finally are built, I think the township will be really pleased and recognize the work that went into planning," he said.

And even though he was integral in helping the planning commission work out a plan for the Wayne County owned acreage that once housed the Wayne County Child Development Center, Modrack said it is not necessary that he be in the township for the sale and actual development

Circulation at library rises; Friday hours prove popular

By the Book

Tracking the rising circulation figures for the Northville Public Library

Graphic by JEFFREY LAPINSKI

Total circulation at the Northville Public Library rose slightly during 1987 as compared to 1986, the fifth increase since 1980.

According to the library's January report, total 1987 circulation was 114,381 items.

Library Director Pat Orr said the most popular books for the year were "Wanderlust" by Danielle Steele and "Windmills of the Gods" by Sidney Sheldon. The most circulated magazine was "Consumer Reports," she said.

The circulation total compares to 112,008 in 1986, an increase of 2.1 percent. Past years' totals are: 1985, 104,054; 1984, 105,702; 1983, 103,841; 1982, 100,073; 1981, 100,981; and 1980, 89,514. The decade has seen five annual increases and two decreases.

The opening of the library on Fridays, which was just begun a year ago, has become popular, Orr said.

"The idea took off kind of slowly last winter. People weren't used to it," she said. "Now, in the new school year, '87-'88, it's caught on quite well. It's just like any other day."

Participation has especially increased in the children's programs at the library, Orr said. For example, enrollment in the six-week summer reading program was 431. "That's up about a hundred children from '86," she said.

NEWS BRIEFS

GETAWAY DELAY — The one-day trip to the Bahamas sponsored by Northville Community Recreation was canceled Tuesday because of plane failure, but ticket holders can choose between a full refund or a rescheduled date.

Recreation Director John Anderson said ticket holders will soon get a letter explaining the options. Alternate dates are Feb. 2, 9, 16 and 23; March 1, 8, 15, 22 and 29; April 12 and 19; and May 3, 10 and 17.

Anderson was philosophical about the mishap. "If I had a choice of getting airplane problems, I'd rather have them on the ground," he said.

NEW VOLUNTEERS — A five-week training class for persons interested in volunteering to help youth through Northville Youth Assistance begins Feb. 3.

Adults, over 21, who are willing to donate their time to the program are asked to call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618.

INTRIGUE AT THE LIBRARY — The works of popular suspense writer Robert Ludlum are on display at the Northville Public Library through Feb. 5. Ludlum's intrigue and suspense have earned him a dedicated following of readers.

For those who enjoy Ludlum but have read all his works, the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation Adult Reference Committee has issued a bookmark listing other authors and books which would appeal to Ludlum fans. These bookmarks, as well as many of their selections, will be available at the Northville library.

SIGNS, FENCES CONSIDERED — The first in a series of study sessions between members of the city planning commission and historic district commission is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight, Thursday, Jan. 28.

The commissioners are set to meet in a series of meetings to discuss the city's sign ordinance, fence ordinance and master plan.

PHOTO EXHIBIT — The Northville Public Library's new display case, a gift from the Friends of the Library and the Northville Town Hall series, gets its first workout beginning Feb. 1. The case will be home to an exhibit of color photographs of nature subjects taken by local artist Robert Fritz.

SHE'S THE BEST — Jean Day, editor of The Record, last week was honored as Sliger/Livingston Journalist of the Year. The annual award, given by the parent company of The Record. Day was chosen by John Reddy, vice president editorial for Suburban Communications Corp., and by Rolly Peterson, vice president of Sliger Livingston.

The editorial staff of The Novi News, including Ann E. Willis, Chris Boyd, Neil Geoghegan, Bob Needham and Anita Crone, were honored for their work in covering the tornado which touched down in Novi on Father's Day. The coverage was given the Yearly Award of Editorial Distinction, as selected by Sliger Livingston.

BEAUTIFICATION APPOINTMENT — Andrea Graham, of Franklin Street, was appointed to the Northville Beautification Commission Monday by the city council. Her term will expire July 1, 1990.

Council opposes new liquor license

By BOB NEEDHAM

A local party store applying for a license to sell hard liquor is doing so without the blessing of the Northville City Council.

The owners of the Northville Wine Shoppe, on Eight Mile just east of Taft, have applied to the state Liquor Control Commission for a resort Specially Designated Distributor (SDD) license. The store is already using a Specially Designated Merchant (SDM) license, which only allows sale of beer and wine.

The decision on issuing the license is up to the LCC, but the city can make a recommendation for or against the application. Monday night, the Northville city council voted 5-0 to recommend against issuing the license.

There are three SDD licensed stores in the city: the Good Time Party Store on Seven Mile west of Northville Road; Hamlet Food and Deli on Novi Road above Eight Mile; and the Liquor Shoppe on Main Street downtown.

Before the council voted on its recommendation, Northville Wine Shoppe co-owner Mike Bahri repeated his reasons for applying for the license.

"We did a lot of research," he said. "The reason we want it is for the customers coming in the store right now. We're not looking for more customers, we just want to service the ones coming in (now)."

A routine police background investigation found no police reason to deny the application.

Although some council members complimented Bahri on improvements made recently to the store and the site, they opposed the license because they thought the store is too close to several schools and that the city does not need another store selling package liquor.

"I guess I question the need for another liquor store in the City of Northville, as well as the location," council member Jerry Mittman said.

"One of my major concerns is the proximity to the schools," Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers agreed.

The council voted 5-0 to recommend the LCC deny the store's application.

In response to a question from a council member, City Manager Steve Walters said the LCC probably pays some degree of attention to the recommendation of a local government.

"I would assume that it would have significant weight," he said, although he added the city has never heard a real explanation of how seriously the state takes the recommendation.

When Arbor Drugs applied for a package liquor license, the council recommended for denial, and a license was not issued, Walters said. He has never run into a case where a license was issued after a local government recommended against it, he said.

Revised Pheasant Hills layout wins OK

By BOB NEEDHAM

The plan for the second half of the Pheasant Hills subdivision is moving toward construction again.

The city planning commission granted final preliminary plat approval — a midway point in the approval process — Tuesday, Jan. 19. Wetlands on the site and objections from the city engineer had delayed construction of the second phase of the development, which is north of Eight Mile Road and west of Taft.

The planners' approval included an okay for one lot in the plan not meeting the city's requirement for 40 feet of street frontage.

The lot, number 129 on the plan, fronts 25 feet on the development's McDonald Drive. The frontage is a little wider than the planned driveway. The lot widens out farther back from the street.

"It is a little unconventional," Singh Development Vice President Michael Kahm said. He added that approval of the smaller street frontage would allow the development to maintain the integrity of all its lots.

At the suggestion of Northville City Manager Steve Walters, the planning commission voted to allow the narrower frontage for lot 129 as long as the variance does not become a basis for a "hardship" claim for any more variances from city regulations.

Planning commissioner Roland Stapleton commented, "The concern is not this developer, but the third guy down the road." Kahm said the deed covenants for the lot would include a clause stating the lot was satisfactory as platted.

The plan passed the commission 6-0.

The Pheasant Hills plan has gone through several changes as it has developed, including several different names. The most recent change, which came out of discussions between the Singh Development Company and the Department of Natural Resources, concerned wetlands on the site.

Singh applied to the DNR to fill in some wetlands and create replacement wetlands. The DNR eventually approved a modified plan with less filling, the removal of one section of planned roadway, and two additional lots.

The current plan shows a total of 132 lots in the complete development.

Planning director resigns, Modrack heads to Lapeer

 "It's all there. It's spelled out in a master plan for development of that parcel. The hard work is done and it was done by the commission," he said.
 In the next five years, Modrack says he sees the township facing some serious demand for single family development, especially along Haggerty Road.
 "As Haggerty Road develops in Livonia, in Northville and in Novi, a lot of that development will be offices. It will be a business center of sorts. I have every reason to believe that the people who work in those offices are going to want to live here, in Northville.
 "I think the township will see a serious demand for single-family lots and I see a shortage of that type of development. We just don't have the land right now for that building," he said.

 He noted that the preservation of natural resources is also going to become an issue in the immediate future.
 "I think the preservation of wetlands and of woodlands is going to become a very important issue in the next five years. There should be a concerted effort on the part of the boards and commissions — the planners, the trustees and the beautification commission — to address that preservation," he said.
 Just as Modrack was able to learn by listening, he said he hopes the person who succeeds him will learn.
 "One of the most important things my successor can do is to listen to the people around him or her, to absorb that information, and to apply it in a professional manner," said Modrack.

 "I was in a position to do that." While Modrack said he expects some changes, moving from the suburban Detroit area to a small self-contained city, he said he also expects a lot of similarities.

 "I expect I'll be working my regular 60-hour week," he said, laughing. But he also will be working with a much smaller staff.

"As I understand it, the planning will be done by me and a secretary," he said. "I'll adjust and I'll adjust to living in a smaller town."
 Modrack and his wife, Barbara, a reporter with The Oakland Press, plan to rent out their Royal Oak home and move to Lapeer and Modrack says he hopes it won't be long before they make friends in their new home town. "But, it will be hard to beat some of the people I've met and can call friend in the township," he said.
 He said one of his fondest memories came from a tragic event, the funeral for former township manager Bruno Scachitti.
 "I was on vacation in Traverse City when I got the call that he had died. After mulling it over for a day, I decided to go to the funeral in St. Mary, Pa.

"Since I had left directly from up north, I didn't have a chance to get a tie and here I was, a couple of hundred miles from home, sitting and standing in the funeral parlor, finally meeting the family that Bruno had talked about for years.
 "Then, in walks Don Williams. I was really impressed that he had hired a private plane and a pilot to fly him in. Don said he was leaving immediately after the funeral.
 "Barb, without thinking, said that if he were leaving, would he please leave me his tie. Without even thinking about it, Don just untied it, took it off and handed it to me.
 "That type of action typifies what Northville Township is. The people accept you and give you the ties from around their neck. That's what I'm going to miss."

discharge his obligation
 "Most of the people are cooperative and we try to give them every opportunity to come forward. But if they don't, we'll go get them," Werth said.
 During January, Werth and Presnell are devoting all of their working hours to clearing up the warrants.
 So far, 39 warrants have been cleared up locally, 11 more individuals who live out of state have paid by mail and the department has found two individuals named who have since died

 Presnell said the aim of the effort is not to punish people, but rather to dispose of paper work that has piled up over the last three years.
 "I used to go out routinely and handle this, but as the township has grown, the time element has also grown. There just isn't the time to do it on a regular basis," Presnell said.
 Once a person has been located, and if that person has been named on only one warrant and cooperates with the department, Presnell said it takes about an hour to process the individual.

"But some of these people are named in more than one warrant and some people just aren't willing to cooperate. Those people may spend some time in jail," Presnell said.
 However, any jail time is given by 35th District Court, under whose jurisdiction the warrants were initially issued.
 Court Administrator Marion Beiding said that the township effort has yielded about four arraignments each day, but hasn't really increased the court's docket.
 "We do take the fact that people have come forward on their own (after they received Presnell's letter) into account, but there is a fine schedule in place and that is being adhered to," she said.

 Chief Judge John MacDonald, who last week heard most of the cases, said that the court is also including restitution costs in fines.
 Northville Township recently enacted an ordinance allowing the township to try to recover $30 a day for the amount of money it has expended in handling people who have been convicted.
 "The township has asked us to include that and we have obliged," MacDonald said.

the Lapham Field money. "Although these projects need to be approved by the legislature I am quite certain that the townships of Canton and Northville will receive the funds recommended," Geake said. The trust fund board recommended a $62,000 grant for Canton to buy land for walking trails and picnic areas.

WTUA board sees hope for YCUA plant expansion

A spokesperson for the Western Township Utilities Authority on Jan. 12 announced that significant progress had been made toward resolving sewer concerns in western Wayne County.

The WTUA project, sending its non-contracted sewerage to the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority plant for treatment, has received strong support from Wayne County Executive Edward H. McNamara and the county's Director of Public Works, Jim Murray.

Michigan's Water Resources Commission, which must grant approval for YCUA expansion if the WTUA project is to become viable, recently received a letter from McNamara and Murray endorsing YCUA plant expansion. The WTUA board is optimistic that WRC approval will be given the project at its Feb. 18 meeting at Delta Township Hall.

Formed in 1986 by Northville, Canton and Plymouth townships to find a solution to the problem of sewage capacity in the county's western-most communities, WTUA has been holding meetings with Wayne County, YCUA and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

James Poole, Canton Township supervisor, said that WTUA, immediately upon its incorporation, began discussions with YCUA authorities to add more capacity to its plant.

"A tentative agreement was reached with YCUA last year, but we still needed the WRC to approve a discharge permit. We are now very optimistic that we'll get that approval and can move forward with our plan," Poole said.

The current plan, now being

"The outfall may actually provide benefits to the area by improving the water quality in the Rouge River, the Huron River and Belleville Lake."

— Georgina Goss
Northville supervisor

reviewed by the DNR, would allow the construction of an outfall to the Rouge River for discharge of treated flows from the Ypsilanti plant.

"The outfall may actually provide benefits to the area by improving the water quality in the Rouge River, the Huron River and Belleville Lake," said Northville Township supervisor would provide additional flow in the river and that flow would benefit the communities along the Rouge by providing movement of the river, particularly during the dry summer months.

Removing the current treated flow from the Huron River and Belleville Lake, would meet the WRC requirements for maximum phosphorous levels in those impoundments and could help promote a fledgling fishery in Belleville Lake.

"The people in our communities have waited long enough for a long-term solution to our water quality and sewer capacity problems," said Maurice Breen, WTUA chairman and supervisor of Plymouth Township.

The three townships withdrew from the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley (also known as super sewer) in December 1986, in favor of pursuing the YCUA alternative.

The DNR currently is studying super sewer and hopes to have approval of that plan completed by April, which would allow the project to qualify for federal funding under the provisions of the Clean Water Act.

Traveling cat finds her way back home

"I had just about given up hope," Riebling said. "We had looked everywhere. Since the race track is nearby, we assumed that someone had hit her and she wouldn't be coming home."

But as a last resort, Riebling called the veterinarians in town. She reached Heslip's office on Jan. 20.

"The woman who answered the phone said she would check. About 10 minutes later, we got a call. They had a cat with a pink collar and a broken pelvis."

"I went over to Dr. Heslip's, and there she was," Riebling said.

Heslip said the cat had broken her pelvis in three places and, in the course of healing, had developed a bernia, which required surgery.

But everything went well and Peugeot is now back on Beal Street, being treated like a queen.

"You know," Riebling said. "The last time Peugeot got out, it was last summer, and some animal took a bite of her tail, breaking it. This time, she possibly got hit by a car. I don't think she's going to be too anxious to go out any more."

Campbell, when she found out that Chief Tufty was really Peugeot, was happy that everything worked out well. And no one is happier than Chief Toms. He's actually smiling again.

Treasurer serves up a menu for paying back taxes

A dispute over unpaid taxes led Jan. 22 to the township government confiscating property belonging to a township restaurant.

Detective Michael Panagiotides said in his report that the township police department was requested to be on hand while the township treasurer confiscated property from Riffle's for back taxes.

Panagiotides tagged 119 pieces of restaurant equipment and watched while the equipment was loaded into a moving van at about 3:30. However, Robert Riffle, owner of the restaurant, gave treasurer Richard Henningsen a certified check and cash for the amount owing, the equipment was unloaded and returned to the restaurant.

Henningsen said Tuesday that the owners of the restaurant had previously worked out a payment plan with the township for the taxes, however, the restaurant ownership had missed one payment.

The treasurer said he made repeated attempts to contact the restaurant owners about the missed payment, including sending certified letters and a personal visit to the restaurant a week before the confiscation attempt, but the owners had not responded.

Riffle said that Henningsen's actions were "a result of vicious, totally untrue rumors about the financial viability of the restaurant."

He did say that the corporation that owns the restaurant did owe back taxes and had missed one payment. "But I had contacted my accountant and he was supposed to contact the township to arrange a new payment schedule."

CAR THEFT — A red 1979 Chevrolet Malibu was reported stolen from the downtown parking deck on Cady Street last week.

During the evening of Wednesday, Jan. 20, the unlocked car was taken from the lot, a city police report said. The car's owner told police that his car keys were missing from his jacket pocket when he finished work nearby.

WINDOW SMASHED — A rock was thrown through a window at the Warren Products building on Baseline Road last week, according to a city police report.

The window was broken between 9 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 20 and 7 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 21, the report said.

A rock was found inside the building. The window was valued at $300.

RAG TOP — A six-inch cut was made in the roof of a convertible parked in a downtown lot two weeks ago, according to a city police report.

Between 3 and 11 p.m. Jan. 14, the cut was made in the lot of Shopping Center Market on Center Street, the report said. Damage was estimated at $300.

PLATES MISSING — Two vehicle license plates were reported missing to city police last week.

In a theft noticed and reported Thursday, Jan. 21, license plates, some tools and a proof of insurance were stolen from an unlocked vehicle. It was parked on S Center Street.

In a different incident reported Sunday, a plate was noticed missing from a car parked on Novi Street.

The owner was not sure whether it had been lost or stolen, the police report said.

VEHICLE LARCENY — Several items were reported stolen from a locked vehicle last week, according to a city police report.

Between 7 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21 and 6:45 the next morning, someone broke the window of a car parked on S Main Street. A radar detector, a cassette tape holder, and eight tapes were stolen, the report said.

Damage to the car was estimated at $80, while value of the stolen items was put at $115.

OUIL ARREST — A Redford man was charged with drunk driving Jan. 22, after the car he was driving struck another vehicle stopped on Sheldon Road near Six Mile for a red light.

Called to investigate the 8:15 p.m. accident, officer Charles Cole said he detected the odor of intoxicants from the driver of the car which caused the accident.

After administering a field sobriety test, Cole said he arrested the driver of the second car and transported him to the township jail, where a breath test was administered. The man was placed under arrest and issued a violation for operating a vehicle under the influence of liquor.

MISPLACED AFFECTION — A Woodhill man told township police Jan. 21, that a Farmington Hills woman, whose advances he rejected, scratched him.

The complainant said that the woman came to his residence about midnight on the night in question, and scratched his face. He said that the woman had wanted to date him, but he had refused.

When he continued to refuse her, the complainant said, the woman became abusive and refused to leave his home. When she did leave, the complainant said, she harassed him with telephone calls.

Although the man said he did not want to file charges, he did want a report on record.

VAN DAMAGED — A Ford Motor Co. van was located in a ravine near Scenic Harbour Road Jan. 20 and police and the driver theorize that an attempt to steal the vehicle was thwarted. The complainant said that he had parked the van in the driveway near his home at about 9:30 a.m., but his wife noted it missing about 11 a.m.

Following tracks from the driveway, the driver located the vehicle in the ravine with the front end stuck in the river.

There was about $3,000 worth of damage to the front end of the car.

HOSPITAL REPORT — The township police department was notified of three walkaways last week by Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital officials. Two of the patients have been returned to the hospital, one by township of ficers.

Detroit Zoo speaker presents program at Amerman

Amerman

The students and faculty at Amerman have gotten the new year off to a great start. Despite the snow and ice, everyone is bustling around with enthusiasm, enjoying the warmth and quietness of the new carpet throughout the school.

The Responsibility Theme Committee arranged for a speaker from the Detroit Zoo Docent Association on Jan. 15. She gave a slide presentation and spoke about the winter precautions for animals at the zoo.

Family roller skating night was a great success with a tremendous turnout and was fun for all.

St. Paul's Lutheran

January started the year off with many exciting activities and rejuvenated students. The week of January 11 was "Spirit Week". Each day of the week had a theme and the students dressed accordingly. Monday was "Bright Colors Day," Tuesday, "50's and 60's Day," Wednesday, "Patriotic Day," Thursday, "Green and White Day," and Friday was "Western Day." The week culminated with the boys and girls teams playing their first home basketball games.

Basketball season has started. Although we lost our first home game, our teams are full of energy. On Jan. 29, the teams will go to Pontiac and see a Pistons game.

The week of Jan. 18 was National Pizza week. Friday the students delved into their delicious hot lunches of pizza, provided by Pizza Cutter, and organized by the Parents' Teachers'

League.

Tuesday, Jan. 19, the P.T.L. hosted Sandy Smith Rea, a local CPA, who discussed taxes. The next P.T.L. meeting will be March 15.

The fifth-grade science projects were on display. The assortment and quality of the work was superb. The projects ranged from seed germination to magnetic force, and covered life and physical sciences. The judges who volunteered their time to critique the students' efforts were Jo Kraus, a former St. Paul's teacher, and Laura Badendieck, the present upper grades science teacher.

The fifth graders are also publishing a book of poetry, called "Dream Variations 3".

January is also National Soup Month and St. Paul's is still collecting labels for the Labels for Education program. Please keep sending those name-brand labels in to help us reach our goal.

The semester ends Jan. 29. School will be closed that day for the teachers to work on report cards, which will come out the following week.

On Feb. 12, the students will hold their annual Valentine's Day skating party at Bonaventure.

The chancel choir and advanced band are going to compete at the Lutheran Music Festival, Feb. 23, at Guardian School in Dearborn.

2. Conditions for Qualification:

a. The Planning Commission may make recommendations on the clustering or attaching of buildings on parcels of land under single ownership and control which, in the opinion of the Planning Commission, have characteristics that would make sound physical development under the normal subdivision approach impractical because of parcel size, shape or dimension or because the site is located in a transitional use area or the site has natural characteristics which are worth preserving or which make planning difficult. In making a recommendation for cluster development, the Planning Commission shall find at least one of the following conditions to exist:

(1) The parcel contains floodplain or poor soil conditions that result in a substantial portion of the total area of the parcel being unbuildable.

(2) The parcel contains natural land forms which are so arranged that the change of elevation within the site includes slopes in excess of ten (10) percent between these elevations. These elevation changes and slopes shall appear as the typical feature of the site rather than the exceptional or infrequent features of the site. The topography is such that achieving road grades of less than those permitted would be impossible unless the site were mass graded. The use of one-family cluster option will, in the opinion of the Planning Commission, allow a greater preservation of the natural setting.

(3) The parcel contains natural assets that would be preserved through the use of cluster development. Such assets may include natural stands of large trees, land that serves as a natural habitat for wildlife, unusual topographic features or other natural assets that should be preserved.

(4) The parcel to be developed has frontage on a major thoroughfare and is generally parallel to the thoroughfare, and is of shallow depth as measured from the thoroughfare.

(5) The parcel has frontage on a major thoroughfare and is narrow in width, as measured along the thoroughfare, which makes platting difficult, provided that the depth of the parcel is not greater than three (3) times the width. The Planning Commission may vary this ratio in the best interests of the Township.

(6) The parcel is shaped in such a way that the angles formed by its boundaries make a subdivision difficult to achieve and the parcel has frontage on a major thoroughfare.

(7) The parcel has vehicular access to a major thoroughfare and a substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by land that is located in an RM-1, RME, OS-1 or P-1 District or is located in an R-1, R-2 or R-3 District and is developed for a use other than single-family detached homes and the parcel has natural features or is shaped in such a way as to make platting difficult.

(8) The parcel contains existing recreation facilities that would be preserved through the use of cluster development. Such facilities may include golf courses, athletic fields, playgrounds or similar recreation facilities.

(9) The parcel is located at the intersection of at least two (2) major thoroughfares and a substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by major thoroughfares which would result in a substantial proportion of the lots of a development abutting the major thoroughfares and the parcel has vehicular access directly to a major thoroughfare.

(10) A substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by land that is located in an OS-2, B, FS, RD or I-1 District and the parcel has vehicular access to a major thoroughfare.

(11) The parcel is designated as Cluster Residential on the Township's Master Plan of Land Use.

b. In order to qualify a parcel for development under paragraphs (1), (2) or (3) of paragraph a. above, the Planning Commission shall determine that the parcel has these characteristics and the request shall be supported by written and/or graphic documentation, prepared by a Landscape Architect, Engineer, Professional Community Planner, Registered Architect or Environmental Design Professional. Such documentation shall include the following as appropriate: soil test borings, floodplain map, topographic map of maximum two foot contour interval, inventory of natural assets.

c. This option shall not apply to those parcels of land which have been split for the apparent purpose of coming within the requirements of this cluster option section.

3. Permitted Densities

a. Utilization of the cluster option shall require public sanitary sewer and water supply unless at least one (1) acre of land, not including streets, per dwelling unit is provided on the site. Otherwise, the maximum permitted densities including streets shall be as follows:

(1) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a(1), (2) or (3):

R-1 District - 1.0 dwelling unit/acre

R-2 District - 1.8 dwelling unit/acre

R-3 District - 2.7 dwelling unit/acre

(2) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (4), (5), (6), (7) or (8):

R-1 District - 1.5 dwelling unit/acre

R-2 District - 2.4 dwelling unit/acre

R-3 District - 3.6 dwelling unit/acre

(3) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a(9) or (10):

R-1 District - 2.0 dwelling unit/acre

R-2 District - 3.0 dwelling unit/acre

R-3 District - 5.4 dwelling unit/acre

(4) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (11), the Planning Commission shall determine the density to be permitted based upon the characteristics of the site and its surroundings.

(5) Water areas within the parcel may be included in the computation of density provided that land adjacent to the water is substantially developed as open space. In no instance, however, shall the water area cause an increase in the total number of units achievable on land not covered by water to be greater than twelve (12) percent. In those instances where the parcel qualifies under paragraphs 2a(9) or (10) above, the area used for computing density shall not include more than twenty-five (25) percent of the horizontal surface of existing ponds or lakes within the boundary of the site. The total area of newly-created lakes, however, may be included.

(6) In those instances where a parcel qualifies under paragraphs 2a(1), (2) or (3) above as well as one or more of the remaining paragraphs (4) through (10), the higher densities may be permitted provided that the Planning Commission finds that such density is reasonable and does not result in the destruction or removal of the natural assets enumerated under paragraphs 2a (1), (2) or (3).

4. Development Standards and Requirements

a. In areas meeting the criteria of 2a above, the minimum yard setbacks and minimum lot sizes per unit as required by ARTICLE XIV - SCHEDULE OF REGULATIONS, may be waived and the attaching of dwelling units may be accomplished subject to the following:

(1) The attaching of one-family dwelling units, one to another, may be permitted when said homes are attached by means of one of the following:

a) Through a common party wall forming interior room space which does not have over seventy-five (75) percent of its length in common with an abutting dwelling wall, excluding garage.

b) By means of an architectural wall detail that does not form interior room space.

c) Through abutting garage party walls of adjacent structures.

d) No other common party wall relationship is permitted and the number of units attached in this manner shall not exceed four (4).

(2) The facades or building lines of attached cluster units shall be staggered or varied so that, in the opinion of the Planning Commission they do not appear to be "row housing."

b. Yard requirements shall be provided as follows:

(1) Spacing between groups of attached buildings or between each group of four (4) unattached buildings shall be equal to at least thirty (30) feet in an R-1 District, twenty-four (24) feet in an R-2 District, twenty-two (22) feet in an R-3 District, measured between the nearest points of adjacent buildings. The minimum distance between any single detached unit and any adjacent building shall be fifteen (15) feet.

(2) Off-street parking lots (more than two (2) spaces) shall have setbacks of not less than fifty (50) feet from any public street or from any abutting one-family residential district unless excepted by SEC. 18.10 SETBACK EXCEPTION.

(3) Building setbacks from streets shall be equal to the front yard setback of the district. All other setbacks shall be not less than thirty (30) feet unless sub-paragraph (5) below applies.

(4) The living areas of buildings shall not be closer than twenty-five (25) feet to the pavement edge of interior drives. Non-living areas (garages) may be twenty (20) feet except that garage door openings (or other enclosed parking) must provide at least twenty-five (25) feet.

(5) If the cluster development includes a public street which, in the opinion of the Planning Commission, serves primarily the cluster development, the minimum street setback may be reduced to twenty-five (25) feet.

c. The area in open space (including recreation areas and water) accomplished through the use of one-family cluster shall represent at least twenty (20) percent of the horizontal area of a one-family cluster development that qualifies under paragraphs 2a(1) through (8) above and fifteen (15) percent in those qualifying under paragraphs 2a(9) or (10). The provision of walks, trails and recreation facilities is encouraged within the open space areas.

d. In order to provide an orderly transition of density, where the parcel proposed for use as a cluster development abuts a one-family residential district, and where SEC. 18.10 SETBACK EXCEPTION does not apply, the Planning Commission shall determine that the abutting one-family district is effectively buffered by means of one of the following within the cluster development:

(1) Single-family lots subject to the standards of the SCHEDULE OF REGULATIONS.

(2) Detached one-family buildings with setbacks as required by the SCHEDULE OF REGULATIONS for the applicable residential district, i.e., rear yards of fifty (50) feet and required side yards.

(3) Open or recreation space not less than one hundred (100) feet deep.

(4) Significant changes in topography which provide an effective buffer and a building setback of not less than seventy-five (75) feet.

(5) A major or secondary thoroughfare.

(6) A similar means of providing a transition.

(7) The transition area shall be free of any buildings, parking spaces or drives unless the Planning Commission finds that very unusual circumstances require such placement.

5. Procedures:

a. In making application for approval under this section, the applicant shall file a sworn statement indicating the date of acquisition of the parcel by the present owner and that the provisions of paragraph 2c are complied with.

b. Qualification for Cluster Development:

(1) Application to the Planning Commission for qualification of a parcel for cluster development shall include documentation substantiating one or more of the characteristics outlined in paragraph 2. Conditions for Qualification.

(2) The Planning Commission may make a preliminary determination as to whether or not a parcel qualifies for the cluster option under one of the provisions of 2a above, based upon the documentation submitted. Such review is not a requirement, but may be requested by the sponsor.

(3) A preliminary determination by the Planning Commission that a parcel qualifies for cluster development does not assure a favorable recommendation. It does, however, give an initial indication as to whether or not a petitioner should proceed to prepare a site plan.

c. Preliminary Site Plan and Cluster Approval:

(1) A preliminary site plan shall be submitted to the Planning Commission for review in two stages:

(a) An initial review of the plan concept, but including the information called for in paragraph (2) below.

(b) Review of the plan at a public hearing, including information called for in paragraph (3) below.

(2) In submitting a proposed layout under this section, the sponsor of the development shall include, along with the site plan, typical building elevations and floor plans, topography shown at two foot contour intervals, all computations relative to setbacks and density, a preliminary grading plan, and any other details that will assist in reviewing the proposed plan.

(3) Site plans submitted under this option shall be accompanied by information as required in paragraph 3b, SEC. 408, Subdivision Open Space Plan of the Subdivision Regulations of the Charter Township of Northville, provided, however, that:

a) Submission of an open space plan and cost estimates for the initial review of the preliminary site plan shall be at the option of the sponsor.

b) The open space plan and cost estimate shall be submitted for review at the public hearing.

(4) The Planning Commission shall give notice of the public hearing in accordance with SEC. 17.8 of this ordinance.

(5) If the Planning Commission is satisfied that the proposal meets the letter and spirit of the Northville Township Zoning Ordinance, it may recommend approval or recommend approval with conditions regarding applying the cluster option to the parcel. The Commission shall prepare a report stating the recommendation and the basis for the recommendation. The recommendation shall be forwarded to the Township Board along with any conditions upon which the approval is based.

(6) If the Planning Commission is not satisfied that the proposal meets the letter or spirit of this ordinance or finds that approval of the proposal would be detrimental to existing development in the general area and should not be approved, it shall prepare a report stating that recommendation and the basis for the recommendation.

(7) The report of the Planning Commission and its recommendation shall be forwarded to the applicant and the Township Board along with copies of the proposal, all layouts, and other relevant information.

(8) Upon receipt of the report and recommendation of the Planning Commission, the Township Board shall review the application and shall take action.

d. Final Site Plan

(1) After approval of a preliminary plan and cluster option, a final site plan shall be submitted in accordance with the requirements of Section 15.24.

(2) The applicant shall submit to the Planning Commission a proposed agreement setting forth the conditions upon which the cluster option was approved, and the final site plan and final plat approval shall be incorporated by reference to the agreement and attached to it as exhibits.

(3) If the final site plan is approved by the Planning Commission, the cluster agreement, if approved by the Township Board after review by the Planning Commission and the Township Attorney, shall be executed by the Township and applicant prior to the issuance of any building permits.

(4) As a condition for the approval of the final site plan and open space plan, the applicant shall deposit cash, irrevocable letters of credit, or other equivalent forms of security as approved by the Township Board, after review by the Township Attorney, in the amount of the estimated cost of the proposed improvements to the open land guaranteeing the completion of such improvements within a time to be set by the Planning Commission. Actual development of the open space shall be carried out concurrently with the construction of dwelling units.

II. Add the following Section 18.10.

SEC. 18.10 SETBACK EXCEPTION

For use making reference to this section, requirements applicable to a one-family residential district need not apply if the abutting property is, in the opinion of the Planning Commission, indicated on the Master Plan of Land Use as a use other than one-family residential or is an existing permanent use in a one-family residential district other than a one-family detached dwelling.

PART II. Conflicting Provisions Repealed

Any Ordinance or part of Ordinances in conflict herewith are repealed save that in all other respects Ordinance No. 77, as amended, is hereby ratified and reaffirmed.

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE ORDINANCE NO. 87 SPECIAL ASSESSMENT DISTRICT ORDINANCE

An Ordinance to provide a procedure for the collection and disposition of charges for use of special assessment projects, assessed on a benefit basis, for parcels not charged for benefit on the special assessment roll and for parcels which have been rezoned or split after confirmation of the roll.

The Charter Township of Northville ordains:

SECTION 1. In any special assessment district which has been established and which the cost of improvements have been assessed against the benefited property of the district on any basis, the owner of a buildable lot or parcel shall pay a fee hereinafter described if he seeks to receive benefit or additional benefits of the improvement after the establishment of the special assessment district, due to any of the following conditions:

a. A division of property which causes an increase in the number of buildable lots or parcels which is over and above the number determined for that particular lot or parcel during the apportionment procedure of the special assessment district process.

b. A change in the applicable zoning use district regulations, a change in the zoning use, or any other circumstance which results in an increase in the equivalent number of single family residential uses determined for that particular lot or parcel during the apportionment procedure of the special assessment district process.

Equivalent uses shall be determined as described below:

Zoning	Classification	No. of Uses Use/Acre
1 Residential	R-1	0.8
	R-2	1.8
	R-3	2.7
	RM-1	15.6
	RME	15.6
2 Commercial	B-1	5.0
	B-2	5.0

c. The extension of the special assessment district improvement to parcels not originally within the district boundaries.

SECTION 2. The owner shall pay into the special assessment district amortization account, a charge equal to the following amounts:

a. For lots or parcels not originally within the district boundaries, the charge shall be equal to the total amount of the original assessment computed for buildable lots or parcels.

b. For lots or parcels located within the district boundaries, the charge shall be limited to that portion of the assessment which is based on the additional equivalent number of single family residential uses.

SECTION 3. In addition to those charges described above, an additional charge shall be paid based upon the interest payment obtained for the bond sale. The charge shall be calculated from the date of the bond sale to the date that payment is submitted.

SECTION 4. All charges and interest shall be paid prior to the issuance of any building permit or the extension of service to the parcel, whichever is first.

SECTION 5. When any portion of the improvement cost was paid by funds of the Township of Northville Water and Sewer Department or the Township of Northville, or when the amortization account of the special assessment district has been closed and all bond holders paid in full, the charges assessed herein shall be paid by the owner into the Township Water and Sewer fund, or the Township of Northville General Fund, whichever is applicable.

SECTION 6. When the special assessment district improvement was not financed in whole or in part by the Northville Township Water and Sewer fund or the Township of Northville and when the amortization account of the special assessment district has not been closed and all bond holders paid in full, the sum collected for the additional benefit assessment shall be deposited in the special assessment district amortization account, and if any surplus remains at the close of such account, the owner of the property who has paid the charge shall be entitled to equal participation in any rebate of such excess to the same degree and on the same basis as properties assessed in a proportion based on benefit determined at the establishment of the district.

SECTION 7. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this Ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not more than $100.00 or by imprisonment in the County Jail for not more than ninety (90) days, or both, in the discretion of the Court. 'Dumping' can help

With the anticipated agreement from the Michigan Water Resources Commission for Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority sewage treatment plant expansion, comes a novel twist to an old story for communities living along the banks of the Rouge River: the discharge of treated sewage water into the river.

If, as expected, the commission Feb. 18 gives its approval for discharging effluent from YCUA into the Rouge River, rather than the Huron River and Belleville Lake, that discharge will actually benefit the waters by providing additional flows, especially during dry weather periods in the summer.

Ecologists and river watchers say that part of the problem with the Rouge is that often the water in the river does not have enough power to even cleanse the river banks, especially during July and August.

So, pollutants sit on the top of the river, along its banks and grow. However, with the constant effluent discharge from Ypsilanti and the anticipated increase in flow to the river that would bring, one major problem would be eliminated.

The YCUA proposal, which has gained support from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, the Friends of the Rouge, and the Rouge River Watershed Committee as well as Wayne County, deserves to be taken seriously and looked at as a potential solution to a Rouge River flow problem.

While initially discharge of effluent, including the chemicals from a sewage treatment plant, is still a discharge of sewage into the Rouge, one of the state's most polluted waterways, in this case the discharge is beneficial. YCUA officials maintain (and they have the data to back up that contention) that the effluent will actually be cleaner than the water already a part of the river.

The stumbling block could be in public relations. There is still animosity, albeit subdued, toward the members of the Western Townships Utility Authority. When Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships opted out of the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley wastewater treatment plan, they left 10 communities to shoulder a larger financial burden and fewer communities to share in the costs.

It would not be surprising if some of those communities looked only at the surface problem — discharging effluent into the Rouge — and not at the benefits the solution brings.

The time has long since past for pointing fingers. If all of the communities, the 10 in the super sewer project and the three in WTUA, work together to solve a common problem, each individual municipality will benefit. There will be a regional sewer system, built at least partially with federal funds, in place in Wayne County. And a major step will have been taken to clean up the Rouge.

Denial unwarranted

Monday night, city council decided to recommend that the state's Liquor Control Commission not issue a resort liquor license to the Northville Wine Shoppe. The store, on Eight Mile Road next to the Gas 'N' Go at Taft Road, already sells beer and wine, but applied for the new license to add hard liquor to its shelves.

The decision on issuing a license is completely up to the LCC. The council can only advise, and the LCC is free to ignore whatever the council says.

However, the LCC just might listen to the council. And that would be too bad, because the council's reasons for opposing the license are rather weak.

The two main reasons, each expressed several times Monday night, were the store's location and the fact that the city does not need another store selling package liquor.

The main part of the location objection was the store's proximity to Cooke School, Amerman Elementary and Northville High School. Yes, the store is pretty close. But what does that have to do with issuing a package liquor license?

The students are already exposed to beer and wine there, so the addition of whiskey and gin isn't going to be any radical change. And, in any case, the store certainly isn't going to be selling any of it to fourth graders.

The other objection doesn't make much sense either. Maybe it's true that the city doesn't "need" another liquor store. For that matter, the city doesn't "need" any at all. This is a matter of supply and demand. The store's owners think there is a market for another package liquor store.

The oddest part of this situation is that there may be a legitimate objection to the application: the fact that, under the 1980 census, the city has its full share of package liquor licenses, forcing the Northville Wine Shoppe to apply for a special "resort" license. Even this isn't too great an objection, though, because the city probably already has enough population for a fourth regular license; they just haven't been counted yet.

The store deserved the council's support on this issue. And if the council was determined not to give it, the store at least deserved a better reason.

Winterfest — enjoy!

Everyone knows that Northville in the summer has something going every weekend. If there isn't a garage or antique sale, then there's a parade. If the merchants aren't holding a sidewalk sale, then the historical society is hosting an event at the Mill Race.

But there is something new on the horizon: Winterfest. Sandwiched between larger events, such as the Plymouth Ice Festival and the Christmas Walk, Winterfest offers new attractions.

The cooperative effort — the recreation department, the chamber of commerce and 37 merchants have joined forces — promises to provide something for everyone. There are dances for teenagers, softball and golf for athletes, snow sculpture for the youngsters and chili for those who like to eat.

And, at a time when downtown snuggles in for its long winter's nap, Winterfest is an opportunity to see the community in a different light, in the crisp cold of a winter weekend.

Winterfest seems a perfect opportunity for people to get outdoors and say hello to one another.

Solum thoughts

By Bob Needham

On the wall of my editor's office is a framed copy of the first issue — from July 15, 1869 — of the Wayne County Record, the forerunner of this newspaper.

Part of that issue is something that looks like it was supposed to be a regular feature, a column called "Solum Thoughts," by a guy called Josh Billings. In a style full of intentional poor grammar and erratic spellings, which I think was supposed to be funny, ol' Josh offered one wise saying after another on all kinds of different subjects.

One solum thought which caught my eye is this: "When you hain't got nothin' tew do, do it at once; this is the way to learn to be lazy." Now, I'm not too sure how true that is. (Right next to Josh's column is a column by the paper's "editor and proprietor," Samuel H. Little, who wrote, "We know of no reason why our beautiful village may not . . . become one of the largest towns in the state." Shows you how much journalists know.)

So like I was saying, I'm not too sure Josh is right about laziness. Maybe that's the way to do it if you really need to learn, but I've never run into the problem of not knowing how to be lazy.

It's basically come naturally to me, in fact, ever since I can remember. Sometimes — believe it or not — it even causes real trouble.

Take college, for instance. I went to school at Alma College, and — in between time spent working on the school paper, playing cards, listening to music, working on fraternity projects, watching TV, and hanging around the Main Cafe or Pizza Sam's — I majored in English and psychology. Both of those subjects require writing papers. A lot of papers.

I would always put my assignments off until the last minute. The night before something was due I would rush to the library, find all the material I could, and, in a whirlwind of energy and quick thinking, work straight through to the next morning, usually turning things in a minute or two before they were due. Or, occasionally, a few minutes after. Or a few days.

In the worst case, I didn't even start working on my honors thesis until three weeks after it was originally due, and didn't make my formal presentation until the August after I graduated. (That year, the English department began a tough new policy of closely supervising thesis work and requiring preliminary presentations. I'm convinced it's all my fault.)

Luckily, I had some very understanding professors back then, and my procrastination never caused any problems I couldn't resolve. But unfortunately, this character flaw is still with me. For the most part I've kept it from interfering with work, but away from work it's a very different story.

Last week, my laziness took a financial toll. I live in a small efficiency apartment downtown, so my car takes up valuable space in a city parking lot. I need an annual permit from the police department to park there overnight.

To start with, I had forgotten to get a permit for 1988. So I went out to my car Wednesday, after a couple days of not driving, and found two parking tickets. I started to get mad until I realized I deserved them.

Well, obviously, I knew what I had to do. But I had been kind of sick, and didn't have much energy, and didn't feel like making that long, tiring, three-block walk to the police station. I finally made it there Saturday, after my tickets totalled $15.

I don't know about you, but I've got better things to do with $15 than pay parking tickets. And it was nobody's fault but my own.

It would be great if ol' Josh Billings was still around today. I'd like to straighten him out. You can't learn to be lazy; it's an inborn talent. I'm really going to have to do something about my great talent. Tomorrow

I can remember when Northville and Novi were separated from Farmington and Plymouth and Livonia by acres of farmlands, trees and grass. As development continues those "green belts" are being replaced by shopping centers and office complexes. If you happen to miss the sign that tells you've just entered the Novi or Northville city limits, you can be excused for thinking you're still in Farmington or Livonia.

That's life, I suppose. And I'm not sure there's anything that can be done about it unless taxpayers would be willing to dig deeper into their pockets than they could ever imagine to buy up "green belts" around their cities. At the same time, I'm also convinced that each and everyone of us benefits from the healthy economy — no matter how much we protest. The basic hypocrisy of declaring our belief in urban renewal from the comfort of our suburban homes.

But that's another story. The point is that I truly believe in hometown newspapers. Newspapers exclusively about Northville or Novi, and not about lots of other neighboring cities. And I also believe a hometown newspaper is a major factor in helping its community maintain its individual identity . . . giving its residents a sense of "belonging" somewhere and to something.

It's a big challenge . . . a challenge which I hope we're meeting.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

I gave a little speech to the Northville BPW Club at Genitti's Monday night. I told them how I started my journalism career at the ripe old age of 11 back in 1955 as junior high sports reporter for The Northville Record. That was one year before Bill Sliger bought the paper and two years before there even was a Novi News.

I told them about some of my favorite and least favorite experiences with the paper during the years that have followed. I talked about the elements that make up a good newspaper.

And I told them I feel the ultimate role of a hometown community newspaper is to provide a "sense of community" in a day and age when burgeoning development threatens to destroy the individuality that exists between communities.

Baby Kayla wins big

To the Editor:

This is a picture of our daughter, Kayla (Ryan Lamm who is 15 months old) She won the title of 1987 Big Country Baby Miss, 1987 Big Country County Supreme Dutchess and Beauty Title at a big pageant held at the civic center at Abilene, Texas, on Dec. 7.

There were 900 children registered when the contest first started. Over seven counties were involved.

I lived in Northville most of my life. I think my family came to Northville around 1964. There are seven children in my family. We all attended Northville schools.

My mother sold raffle tickets for the baby pageant to a lot of friends and family. I thank everybody who purchased a ticket.

Sincerely,

Mary Lamm

(Kayla is the daughter of Johnny and Mary Lamm of Roby, Texas, and the granddaughter of Gerald and Kay Beaver of Northville.)

This is another in a continuing series of columns provided by Charles Sillec, director of the Northville High School Student Assistance Program.

Q. What do I do if I suspect someone I care about is using or abusing drugs?

A. What has to happen is called an intervention. By definition, an intervention is "a process and/or an event which interferes with, prevents and/or alters the progression of a disease or condition."

In other words, we need to interrupt the harmful and progressive effects of substance abuse. The worse the condition of the person, the more difficult or involved the intervention can be.

Once it's determined that a person is using or abusing drugs and that you want to intervene, then some of these tips may be helpful.

1. Don't overlook obvious problems.

2. Don't avoid confrontation.

3. Don't separate yourself from those you care about.

4. Keep up the consequences and don't minimize the seriousness of the behavior.

5. Watch your 'covering up,' making excuses under the guise of caring.

6. Watch how much you get frustrated because of your inability to effect change in another's behavior.

7. Do you compromise your own value systems?

8. Do you maintain the "no talk" rule in your house? It's like an elephant in the living room. Everyone pretends it's not there yet continues to worry about it.

9. Do you make judgments based on a narrow expertise in the field of drugs and alcohol?

10. Do you consistently view someone who uses drugs or alcohol as "one of those people?"

11. Do you focus blame somewhere other than on drugs/alcohol such as family, job, society, school, etc?

12. Talk to a professional about your concerns.

The above information will help you look at enabling, whether at home, school, or in the community. Enablers are usually family or friends who react to substance abuse by shielding the users from experiencing the full impact of the harmful consequences of alcohol/drug abuse.

Enablers feel responsible for others and react to their behaviors by provoking, rescuing and being victimized.

Intervention is therefore a process by which a significant other, such as family, friends, police, teachers, etc. who care, presents reality in a receivable way to a person out of touch with it.

The obvious thing to do if you suspect someone is using or abusing is to talk about it. If this doesn't work, then contracts, which are ways to control the home environment, may work.

There are various levels of contracts. Level 1 contract is written agreements; level 2 are stipulations of rules for living at home and a required level of performance and attendance at school; level 3 contracts (also known as bottom line contracts) include acceptance of a treatment intervention and follow-up recommendations in order to remain in the home and school.

Look at your enabling as being a way to only prolong the real issues until sometimes it's too late. To care is to intervene if you are concerned about drug and alcohol abuse. Take a risk.

If you have further questions, you can call me at 344-8426 or 344-1825. I would be happy to get you information and resources that may answer your concerns.

Condo development gets site plan OK

The condominium development on the St. Lawrence Barns land received final site plan approval from the Northville planning commission Tuesday, Jan. 19.

The development, called Northville Condominiums, is planned for the area southwest of Center Street and Edward Hines Drive. The commission granted approval of a plan revised slightly from what the developer, The Selective Group, proposed earlier.

The approved plan shows a sidewalk along Hines Drive and a complete alignment of the development entrance with Wing Street.

Selective Group Vice President Steve Friedman said at the planning commission meeting that he also hopes to change the architecture which has been presented. Architecture is not part of the site plan approval.

"I'd like to move ahead with the engineering and site plan as is, but I'd like to come back and show you a different picture. I'm not pleased with (the architecture) and my plans would be to change it," Friedman said.

He explained that the designs shown are more contemporary than might be appropriate for Northville.

The commission approved the site plan 5-1 on the condition that the developer provide a detailed lighting plan. Commissioner Rolland Stapleton cast the dissenting vote.

"It really wasn't a vote against the specific development per se," he said at the end of the meeting. The company has done a fairly good job, he said, but he kept thinking, "Where is the mechanism to determine if this is the highest and best use of the land?"

I was looking for some dialogue, and maybe the real dialogue occurs during the zoning process."

Fire help's appreciated

To the Editor:

We wish to thank the Northville (city) police department and fire department for their excellent response to our call for help on Jan. 9 on an oil fire we had in our basement.

Also, we thank Ely Fuel Inc. for the fast service on installing a new furnace in our time of need.

We are happy to live in a community with such fine people.

Consumers Power copes with deregulation

Edgar Doss of Consumers Power stands by instruments used to measure how much gas is flowing through the system

By MATTHEW J. VALLEY

Deregulation, changing markets and new technologies have combined to significantly reshape the natural gas industry during the past decade.

While some utility consumers have closely followed and/or taken advantage of those developments, still many other regular-paying utility customers are perhaps too removed from the situation to express an interest.

Undoubtedly, if one were to study the natural gas industry in any detail, one could easily be awestruck by its size, scope and complexity.

Take, for example, Consumers Power Company, the state's largest utility, serving nearly six million of the state's nine million residents.

The geographic area served by Consumers' natural gas operations covers approximately 13,000 square miles with more than 1.25 million gas customers accounted for in 1986.

Meanwhile, the electric operations of Consumers Power span 27,800 square miles with the total number of electric customers estimated at 1.4 million, the bulk of those being residential customers.

The company, which employs 1,050 workers locally and less than 10,000 statewide, has two major subsidiaries: Northern Michigan Exploration Company (NOMECO) explores, acquires and sells oil and natural gas, and Michigan Gas Storage Company purchases gas from interstate pipelines, stores and transports gas and sells gas to Consumers Power.

Over the past century the company has grown into one of the country's largest combination natural gas and electric utilities. Locally, Consumers Power services the South Lyon, Northville and Novi areas and a portion of Salem Township in Washtenaw County.

"I think the biggest change we've seen is that competition has replaced regulation. The customers are the winners," said Edgar Doss, manager for the Detroit metro region of Consumers Power Company.

"I think it's a positive element. We're able to provide energy at a good profit and low cost."

The vehicle which enabled deregulation to emerge was the National Gas Policy Act passed by Congress in 1978. The result?

Officials at Consumers Power believe lower rates and adequate supplies have enabled the company to maintain its strong position in the gas industry.

"We're also looking at increased emphasis on the market share to help our local dealers market natural gas products," added Doss, whose office is located in Royal Oak.

A defense against cancer can be cooked up in your kitchen.

There is evidence that diet and cancer are related. Some foods may promote cancer, while others may protect you from it.

Foods related to lowering the risk of cancer of the larynx and esophagus all have high amounts of carotene, a form of Vitamin A which is in cantaloupes, peaches, broccoli, spinach, all dark green leafy vegetables, sweet potatoes, carrots, pumpkin, winter squash, and tomatoes, citrus fruits and brussels sprouts.

Foods that may help reduce the risk of gastrointestinal and respiratory tract cancer are cabbage, broccoli, brussels sprouts, kohlrabi, cauliflower.

Fruits, vegetables and whole-grain cereals such as oatmeal, bran and wheat may help lower the risk of colorectal cancer.

Foods high in fats, salt or nitrite-cured foods such as ham, and fish and types of sausages smoked by traditional methods should be eaten in moderation.

Be moderate in consumption of alcohol also.

A good rule of thumb is cut down on fat and don't be fat. Weight reduction may lower cancer risk. Our 12-year study of nearly a million Americans uncovered high cancer risks particularly among people 40% or more overweight.

Now, more than ever, we know you can cook up your own defense against cancer. So eat healthy and be healthy.

No one faces cancer alone.

Tax reform curtails many deductions

Money Management

"Base-broadening" is the term Congress likes to use, but to the average taxpayer it simply means that more of his or her income is going to be subject to the tax man.

In addition to eliminating and curbing deductions, Congress took a big bite out of many exclusions of income that were allowed under the old law. While tax rates have been lowered, more of your income is likely to be subject to tax, cautions the Michigan Association of CPAs.

Five of the key areas affected are dividends, unemployment compensation, long-term capital gains, income shifting and scholarships and fellowships.

DIVIDEND EXCLUSION: Under prior tax law, an individual could exclude from income the first $100 in qualifying dividends ($200 on a joint return). With this exclusion repealed, all dividends received on stock holdings after Dec. 31, 1986, are fully taxable.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION: Before the 1986 Tax Reform Act, unemployed workers received a partial exclusion for unemployment compensation. Payments received in 1987 are taxed just like wages. Although unemployment compensation will be fully taxable, workers' compensation benefits remain tax-free.

LONG-TERM CAPITAL GAINS: Long-term capital gains were significantly affected by the Tax Reform Act of 1986. While in the past investors were allowed to exclude from income 60 percent of their profits from sales of assets held for more than six months — including real estate and stock — the new law eliminates this special treatment.

Beginning in 1988, long-term capital gains will be taxed at the same rates as ordinary income. That means salaries, wages, dividends and investment profits will all be taxed at the same rates.

To soften the blow to investors, Congress wrote a special provision in the law for this transitional year. Although taxpayers will include net capital gains from their investments in with their regular income, the tax on long-term capital gains, for 1987 only, will be capped at 28 percent.

Beginning in 1988, all capital gains, whether short- or long-term, will be taxed just like wages and other income.

INCOME SHIFTING: Under the prior tax law, parents could realize a substantial tax savings by shifting income into their children's names because interest on money in a child's name was taxed at the child's rate. The Tax Reform Act takes direct aim at this practice. First, it abolished the tax benefits of Clifford Trusts, a tool many parents have used to shift income to their children.

The new law actually contains two sets of guidelines — one for children under age 14 and one for children 14 and older.

For those under 14, the first $1,000 of unearned income will be taxed at the child's lower rates. Children who are eligible to be claimed as dependents on their parent's returns will no longer be able to take a personal exemption on their own returns. The law does allow children to use up to $500 of their standard deduction to shelter unearned income and permits another $500 to be taxed at the child's rate. Any earnings above $1,000 are taxed at the parent's highest tax rate.

For children age 14 and older, all income, earned and unearned, is taxed at the child's rate.

There are still some advantages to shifting income. First of all, a child under 14 can still have up to $1,000 of unearned income taxed at his or her own rate. That means, at today's interest rates, a child could have more than $10,000 in his or her name invested in income-producing assets before unearned income would pass the $1,000 limit.

Professionals are advising parents to consider those investments that defer taxable income until the child reaches age 14. U.S. Series EE Savings Bonds are one example.

SCHOLARSHIP RECIPIENTS: Before tax reform, a student studying toward a degree could exclude from income all scholarship money received for tuition, room and board, travel, books, research and equipment. Under tax reform, degree candidates may exclude only course-related expenses such as tuition, books, supplies and equipment.

Previously, degree candidates who were required to teach courses or conduct research as part of their degree requirements were allowed to exclude that income, as well. Now, as a result of the Tax Reform Act, that income will be subject to tax.

The new provisions in the tax law apply to scholarships and fellowships granted after Aug. 16, 1986. Students who receive money from scholarships and fellowships granted before that date don't have to worry about the new rules.

Non-degree candidates who previously were allowed a limited exclusion receive no exclusion under tax reform. They must pay taxes on the full amount granted after Aug. 16, 1986.

There were some exclusions from income that were not affected by tax reform. These include:

- premiums for medical insurance and the first $50,000 of term life insurance paid by your employer on your behalf;
- life insurance benefits you receive as a beneficiary;
- damages received as a result of a personal injury suit;
- money you inherit or gifts you receive;
- most fringe benefits provided by your employer; and
- interest earned on tax-exempt state and local bonds.

As was the case under the old law, your wages, salary, tips, interest, alimony received, business profits, rents and royalties are all included as income.

The bottom line is that it is entirely possible and probable that the income figure you report on your return is likely to be considerably higher than last year — even if you didn't get a raise.

MESC releases guide on occupation choices

A comprehensive career planning guide to help people make career choices has been published by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC), according to MESC Director Richard Simmons Jr.

The 40-page guide, entitled "Outlook — Michigan Career Outlook in the 80s and 90s," is available at no charge through MESC offices statewide.

"Outlook" contains summary occupational and educational information for 230 occupations commonly found in Michigan, Simmons said.

He said the guide is intended for young people who are making career plans, for those re-entering the work force and for experienced workers who may be considering a career change. "Outlook" will help them as they explore career options.

"Selecting a career or occupation to follow is not an easy decision, and there are no fool proof ways for choosing the right career," Simmons stated.

He pointed out, however, that knowing where to go for help and information is the first step in successful career planning, and this is where "Outlook" can become a major aid.

The occupational and educational information in "Outlook" is specific to Michigan and is clustered into 13 broad groupings: education and related occupations; science; sales; agriculture and related occupations; business and office; mechanics and repairers; health; transportation and industrial production and related occupations.

For each of the 230 occupations contained in "Outlook," there is a brief description of the job, its approximate pay and an employment outlook based on MESC's 1995 projections. There is also information about suggested education or training for the job, a recommended course of study and a listing of training sites in Michigan.

"Outlook" goes on to describe educational and training opportunities in Michigan including a listing of community colleges, colleges and universities, and private and secondary vocational schools. Sources of financial assistance for education and training programs are also discussed.

Finally, "Outlook" offers information about various state agencies and programs that offer employment and training assistance to job seekers.

The MESC prepared "Outlook" in cooperation with the Michigan Occupational Information Coordinating Committee (MOICC) and bases the occupational and educational information on data found in the Michigan Occupational Information System (MOIS).

Consumers Power thrives under deregulation

Specifically, Doss is referring to such products as gas lamps, gas logs and gas cooking instruments as opposed to electric.

Armed with what Doss refers to as an aggressive and progressive management team, the company reported a net income of $65 million in 1986, a dramatic turnaround from its reported loss of $389 million in 1985.

In reflecting on the former woes of the gas industry, Doss said it was the federal regulation of the 1950s which set a cap on the well-head price, eventually resulting in increased consumption and decreased production.

"In deregulation everyone wins, the producer, the consumer — it's based on supply and demand."

One of the most profound changes felt by Consumers Power, according to Doss, is gas transportation — the transfer of gas to customers who have purchased it directly from the producer, rather than from the local utility or pipeline company. This approach has allowed some customers to save millions of dollars.

Gas transportation gives companies like Consumers Power the ability to buy gas on the spot market, viewed as a complement to long-term contracts needed to guarantee a reliable supply for customers.

Among the big beneficiaries willing to take the chance are schools, factories and office buildings, Doss explained.

Meanwhile, development currently is under way for Consumers Power to transform its financially-troubled Midland Nuclear Plant to a gas-fired facility under a project name known as Midland Cogeneration Venture.

Cogeneration involves the use of waste heat from a factory's boilers to generate electricity. The plan calls for the Midland plant to sell steam and electricity to Dow Chemical Co., plus electricity to customers of Consumers Power.

To ensure an adequate natural supply is always in reserve, Consumers Power has its own storage fields scattered throughout the region such as the one on Napier Road in Northville Township, which is capable of storing up to 3.9 cubic billion feet of gas during the summer months.

Dale Borders, gas field foreman at the Northville Field Office, said that it's considered a small storage field in industry terms. Borders added that the primary role of the Northville Field Office in recent years has been that of a maintenance facility.

"We maintain the oil heads, gas well heads, pipeline and right-of-way," Borders explained, emphasizing the busiest time of year is in the summer when several inspections are conducted on site.

"We can also help supply gas in an emergency situation," added Borders, referring to an incident a few years ago when a Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. pumping station in Milford Township experienced an explosion.

Housed on the same Northville site in a separate building are several engines used to operate the compressor, which pumps the natural gas through the system to other access points.

According to Doss, one misconception utility customers often possess is the idea Consumers Power establishes the utility rates, when in fact it is the state's Public Service Commission (PSC) which determines the rates following extensive hearings.

Doss also points out that customers may not be aware of just how expensive the process is to pipe natural gas to their homes.

"I think people don't realize the cost of the energy product. Out of every dollar spent about 68 cents goes to the natural gas supplier. The gas must be picked up at the (state) border for distribution, the system must be operated and maintained, millions are paid in property taxes, workers are paid, and it is our job to make a profit, all on 32 cents (for every dollar)," Doss said.

According to a financial data sheet distributed by the company, operating revenue for 1986 came to $3.1 billion. The figure was made up of approximately $1.77 billion in electric revenues (57 percent of total) and $1.28 billion in gas revenue (41 percent of the total).

"This is not a mundane business we're in," concluded Doss. "It's exciting and changing rapidly."

Consumers Power also offers a number of community and financial assistance programs to customers including:

- Targeted fuel assistance. This plan helps low-income households pay their heating fuel bills. Benefits of up to $200 are paid directly to the heating fuel supplier. Low-income homeowners and renters may apply.
- Emergency needs program. This program helps low-income residents pay for heating fuel, electricity and energy-related home repairs in emergency situations.
- Energy conservation financing plan. Interested persons may qualify for up to $1,000 in interest-free ceiling insulation loans. To be eligible, persons must heat their home with natural gas from Consumers Power and live in a home that needs ceiling insulation.
- Senior care credit. Customers 65 and older are protected from shutoff during the winter and can arrange for special payment terms at any time.

Senior living at Independence Village

Senior adults who are looking for a place to live which offers them the opportunity to be independent and active should look to Independence Village of Brighton. This new housing community, scheduled to open next summer, is the first of its kind in Livingston County.

Independence Village's first phase of construction will consist of 60 senior apartments. It will be developed on approximately 6.5 acres located at 833 E. Grand River in Brighton, conveniently positioned adjacent to the Kroger/Perry Shopping Plaza.

"Independence Village of Brighton has been designed to fulfill a greatly needed demand for active, self-sufficient seniors in the greater Brighton area," says Tom Sheppard, president of PM Diversified. "We feel that Independence Village of Brighton will accommodate those seniors who are interested in cultural and community activities, as well as meeting new people who share common interests."

Along with two distinctive floor plans, each having its own kitchen, Independence Village of Brighton will offer an almost endless list of fine features. The lobby, which has easy access to the reception room and library, is spacious with plenty of room for socializing around an open-hearth fireplace. The adjoining formal dining room overlooks a beautifully landscaped courtyard. Other attractions include: in-house medical services, 30 meals per month, housekeeping, electricity, heat and water, and professional on-site management.

For information, call Rita K. Valasz, (313) 229-9190.

GRAND OPENING

MAPLE PLACE VILLAS

Obviously, people still appreciate a classic.

SOLD OUT UNTIL FALL 1988

How embarrassing! Here we are, all set to announce the official opening of five model homes brilliantly decorated by Perlmutter / Freiwald but we've sold almost every home we can build until next Fall (120 sold in six months).

Why don't you come out anyway, visit our furnished models and visualize living in a forest surrounding Maple Place Villas in West Bloomfield.

You can still get on a waiting list for a home that might become available in an earlier phase.

After all, it isn't easy to own a Classic these days.

Coping with SMOKING

Story by Anita Crone

For years smokers have puffed in peace, polluting their lungs and the air around them, willfully contributing to their own ill health.

That's how four women interviewed for this story — Carol Wobermin, Sally Smith, Jane Doe and Nancy Jones (all except Wobermin agreed to be interviewed only if their names were not used) — say they look upon smoking.

But on another level, the one that really matters to them now, they say they see no reason to give up something they really enjoy — smoking cigarettes.

Even as the places where smoking is permitted continue to decline, and the national trend is toward protecting non-smokers from tobacco smoke, tars and nicotine, smokers are still puffing away.

"If I never had anything liquid to drink, and that includes water, I would never smoke again," said Smith.

"I can go for hours in the car without a cigarette, but as soon as we stop and I have anything at all to drink, I have to have a cigarette," she said.

Smith, who has an advanced degree and routinely works with troubled youngsters, says she consciously tries not to smoke in front of the youth.

"I see myself as a role model and knowing the problems that go along with smoking, I don't think it's a good idea to smoke in front of them. I don't deny that I smoke if anyone asks, but I certainly don't volunteer that I smoke."

At home, she, like other parents, says she tries to consider her family's health.

Wobermin, said she never smoked in high school, but, while working in Boston, would routinely go to one of the automatic cafeteria centers and, while waiting 90 minutes for a class to start, found cigarettes a way to pass the time.

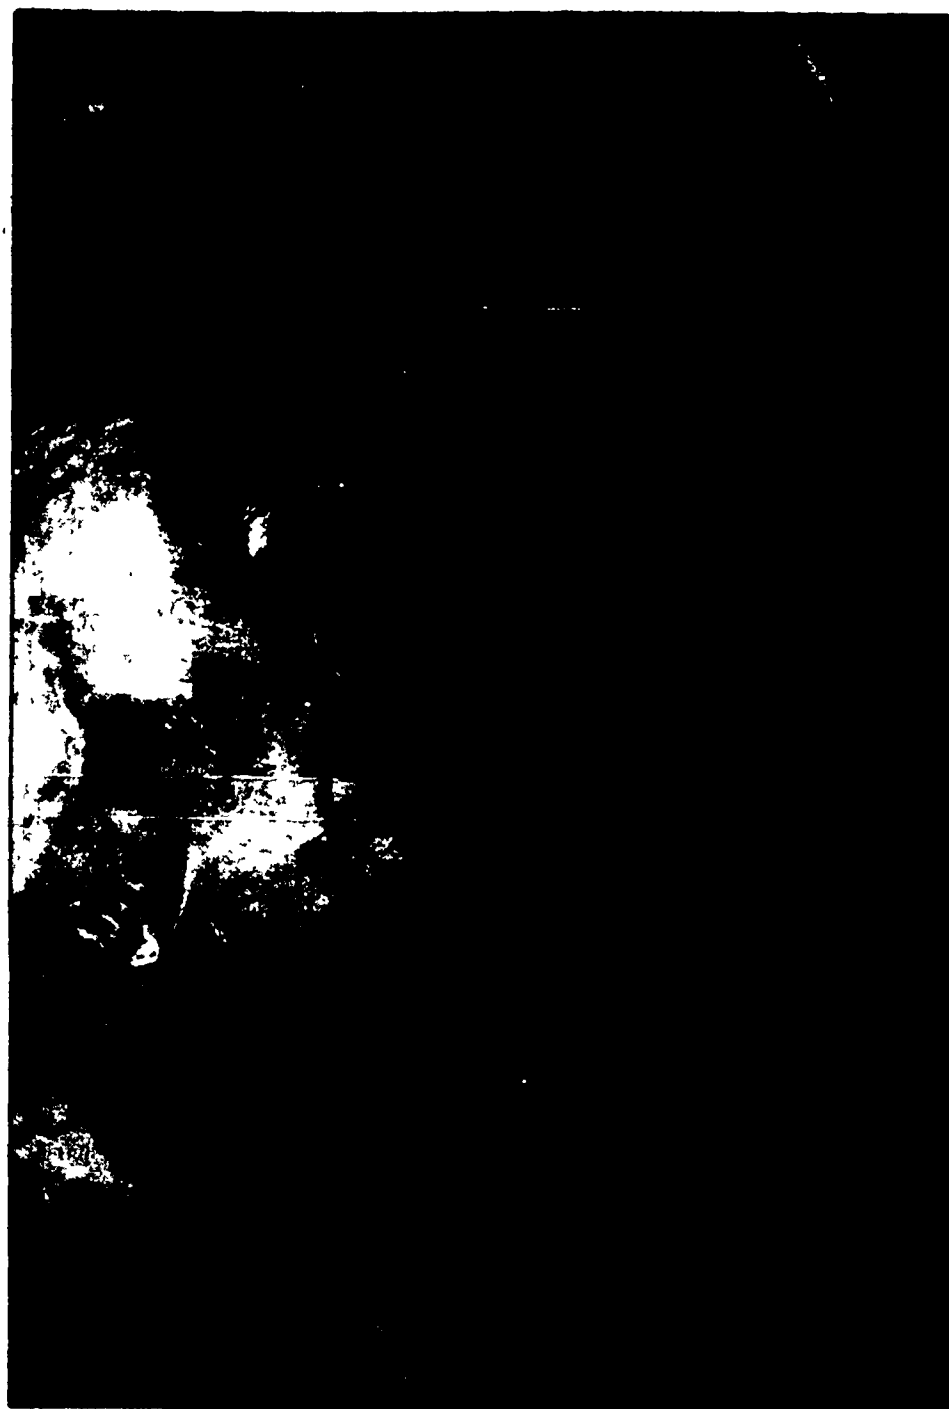

Still a student (at Schoolcraft) and still a smoker, Wobermin said her smoking and her education were interrupted once. Seven years ago she was able to quit smoking for six years just by throwing away her cigarettes, and again, more recently, for two days following surgery.

"Sure, I think there will come a time when I'll quit again," she said, "but not until I'm ready."

Meanwhile, she contends with anti-smoking comments by her family and occasional comments from strangers.

"My children wear contact lenses and they tell me the smoking contributes to eye irritation. I try to be conscious of their problems and cut down if they really complain," she says.

She is not as tolerant of comments from strangers. Once, she said, someone in her physical education class saw her take out a pack of cigarettes, lay them on the bench and complete her workout.

"He started lecturing me about how it was bad. I just walked away," she said.

"I don't mind if a friend or a family member comes up to me because I know they care about me. But a stranger is something else," Wobermin said.

Doe says one of her biggest problems is that her husband is a reformed smoker.

"He and my sons are always telling me they absolutely despise my smoking. It's gotten to the point that I don't smoke in front of them, and when I do smoke in the house, I go to the basement," she said.

Doe, who started smoking as a junior in high school, said she has a philosophy about smokers: "They are oral people, they talk a lot, they are outgoing 'people' people. For them, or I should say for us, smoking is relaxing."

Although Doe says she has thought about quitting, especially since two of her close friends have quit recently, stopping smoking is not an option right now.

"I'm just not ready to do it. Smoking helps me think, but I have become conscious of where I am when I smoke."

She works in an office where there is a designated smoking area. She says that since the state law banning smoking except in designated areas went into effect, she has come "very close" to smoking in the open.

"So far, no one has fined me or written me up or threatened to fire me, but people have complained and I know they could take action," she said.

"The main problem I have now is that while I enjoy a cigarette, I feel guilty when I try to smoke in a social setting. There are places where I go where they don't put out ashtrays. So, I either don't smoke or go outside," she said.

Although Doe is a smoker, she says she doesn't think smokers should have rights when they interfere with non-smokers.

"It's one thing to harm your own health. It's something else when my smoking hurts other people."

Jones, also college educated, says she knows she will feel much better when she quits.

"It's not a question of if. It's a question of when, but it isn't now," she said.

Spurred by reports of potential damage to her health, Jones said she tried to quit about a year ago by cutting down on the number of cigarettes she smoked each day.

"I got down to two and then I started getting light headed and really wanted to smoke. I just enjoy it, so I put off quitting," she said.

She has cut down, she says, noting that she does not smoke in restaurants, on airplanes or in the car when her family is traveling with her. But the reminders of her smoking are still there.

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss quit smoking two months ago, after seeing a hypnotist.

Goss, now 50, said she began smoking when, as a 24-year-old mother, "I dragged my oldest son kicking and screaming to kindergarten. My neighbor, who watched all this, invited me to relax and have a cigarette. That's how I started smoking."

She said that she still craves cigarettes, but has made a conscious effort not to smoke, just as she made a conscious decision to smoke.

"I really felt guilty as a smoker. I felt guilty about the cost and about what I was doing to the people around me. I even felt guilty when I bought a very expensive white dress, put it on for the first time, and burned a hole in it."

While Goss said that most people around her smoked when she began smoking, she is now conscious of the growing number of non-smokers.

"My son (a teen-ager) absolutely despised it when I smoked. But I really didn't care then. I enjoyed smoking. Now, it matters that he is proud of me."

She said that while she is saving money, much of it has gone for a new wardrobe. "Sure, I gained weight, but it's beginning to level off and I know I can take it off. But I've spent all this money for a new wardrobe and I'm not sure I want to spend all that money again."

"Seriously, I never want to go through quitting smoking. It was the hardest thing without a doubt I ever had to do. No one should ever have to go through that."

Explaining behaviors at age six

Why are some six-year-olds able to sit still, concentrate and settle disputes peacefully while others squirm, race around and smack other kids who get in their way? A University of Michigan study has found that the difference is rooted in the infant-mother relationship.

"Our research," said Sheryl L. Olson, assistant professor of psychology at U-M, "suggests that there are three different aspects of the infant-mother relationship which predict how the child will behave at age six."

"First, we found that infants who are securely attached to their mothers by the time they are 13 months tend to be self-controlled by age six. We can determine how securely attached an infant is by how the infant reacts to separation from the mother. Both secure and insecure babies may get upset, and even cry hard, when their mothers leave them briefly with a stranger. Insecure babies, however, will continue to cry or show their distress in other ways for a long time after the mother returns."

"Other insecure babies will simply ignore the mother," Olson added. "They tend to avoid their mothers by moving away from them or by refusing to look at them when they return. In either manifestation of insecure attachment, there is trouble ahead."

Another important factor in the infant-mother relationship, Olson said, is the quality of the verbal and emotional exchange during the child's second year. "During the second year, language and cognitive skills develop rapidly, and toddlers need a great deal of positive verbal interaction at this stage. We found that mothers who did not talk frequently to their 2-year-olds, or who were generally harsh in their responses, had trouble on their hands four years later. Mothers who did talk frequently and who praised the child were likely to have a self-controlled child at age six."

A third factor was the quality of maternal control. "Clear, consistent, non-punitive discipline for two-year-olds had a significant impact on the children's ability to control themselves at age six," Olson said. "Mothers who were specific about what the child should do, and were patient and consistent, had a very positive effect."

Olson has been studying the development of self-control in children with John E. Bates, professor of psychology at Indiana University, and Kathryn Bayles, a graduate student there.

In 1978 the research team began testing 168 children for physical and mental development as well as emotional temperament at six months, 13 months and 24 months. The infants were from predominantly middle-class families. Fifty-seven percent were male and 51 percent were first-born.

At each stage of the study, the psychologists asked the mothers to describe their infant's behavior and character. In addition, they recorded two three-hour observations of the mother and child at home, when the babies were six months and 24 months old.

The researchers also observed the pair at 13 months and performed a laboratory test that measured how the baby reacted to the mother's return after she had left the child alone with a stranger for a few minutes.

In a five-year follow-up study, they evaluated 80 of the children in the original study for their ability to maintain physical and emotional self-control. The children were asked to match familiar figures, draw a line slowly and walk a line slowly. They also were evaluated on their capacity to delay gratification, stick to a specific activity during free play, stay seated in a room alone while they worked on an assigned task and complete a worksheet.

In addition, teachers were asked to evaluate the six-year-olds for aggressive behavior, impulsiveness, inattention, overactivity, anxiety, depression and withdrawal.

"The teachers' reports," Olson noted, "didn't always correlate with the mother's. Apparently, a child can lack self-control at home — be aggressive and impulsive — and still be cooperative at school."

The findings are important, Olson said, because "the emergence of self-control is one of the most significant developmental landmarks of the early childhood period. Children who do not develop sufficient self-control are at risk of becoming hyperactive and aggressive. They also are likely to have learning problems and be rejected by their peers."

Awaiting a foundation

Record/Chris Boyd

Northville Historical Society members inspect the initial excavation for a foundation for the Cady Inn, in background. The digging uncovered a layer of soft loam and an underground spring, which are expected to raise the cost from $14,000 to $23,000. Proceeds from the society's Candlelight Ball in February will go toward the foundation and restoration costs of the building which was moved from Cady Street in September to Mill Race Historical Village.

In Our Town

Historical society ball to aid Mill Race work

By JEAN DAY

Tickets are going on sale for one of our town's most popular benefits. Northville Historical Society has set Feb. 27 as the date for its annual Candlelight Ball, which will be held at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

Proceeds from the $25 a person donation will be used for Mill Race Historical Village projects, including the restoration of the Cady Inn.

The committee headed by Patsy Johnson reports that it is "hoping for another good turnout." Members include Sally and Ed Flayer, Sue and Paul Anker and Cheryl and Chris Gazlay.

The dinner features filet of beef tenderloin, and dancing will be to the music of the Summer Knights. As is traditional, the theme will be romantic hearts.

Tickets are available from any committee member, from the historical society office in the Mill Race, 348-1845, and at the Bookstall on the Main. Deadline to purchase is Feb. 19.

Newcomers plan 'Beach Party,' symphony outing

February couples' event for Northville Newcomers will be a "Beach Party" complete with submarine sandwiches, Guernsey ice cream and disk jockey music by Thomas and Thomas.

It will be held from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Feb. 20 at the Plymouth Cultural Center, 525 Farmer. Chairpersons are Marie Rumbley and Suzanne Warren. Reservations are being taken this week through Feb. 12 by Warren, who may be contacted at 349-3363. Cost is $22 a couple. There will be a cash bar.

Richards open house marks 50th wedding anniversary

William H. and Rosezetta M. Richards celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary this month at an open house at the home they built on Chubb Road 30 years ago and have lived in ever since.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM RICHARDS

She was Rosezetta M. Campbell when she met her future husband at her parents' home in Plymouth. A native Michigander, Mrs. Richards was born in Cadillac.

Her husband had come from Penzance in Cornwall, England.

They were married Jan. 15, 1938, in Detroit in the chambers of Judge Frank Murphy with her parents as attendants.

Seven years ago they visited England.

Their golden wedding celebration was held from 1-5 p.m. Jan. 16 with about 47 friends and relatives attending.

After their marriage, the newlyweds rented a farm five miles west of Northville on Six Mile Road for 20 years before buying acreage on Chubb and building their home there.

William has been retired from the Northville Ford Valve Plant for 22 years with 30 years of service.

For the past eight years, Rosezetta has been employed with Hardees in Northville.

They are members of the First Baptist Church of Northville and both are crossword puzzle fans.

William keeps busy also mowing the grass and taking care of their two acres. He also has played golf.

Mrs. Richards also enjoys reading.

When their first child, Barbara Jean (now Mrs. Kenneth Wolfe), was 21, the couple began a second family.

Elizabeth M. Richards of Plymouth and William H. Richards Jr. of Livonia. In addition to their three children they have four grandchildren. A fifth grandchild is expected in February.

Wedding attendants, family plan surprise for Atchisons

Fifty years of marriage were celebrated by Dr. and Mrs. Russell M. Atchison last Friday evening.

They had exchanged marriage vows 50 years earlier, on Jan. 22, 1938, at the home of Dr. Lawrence Seaton, president of Albion College. He officiated at the ceremony.

The couple had met during an emergency that occurred when the former Ruth Mary Baldwin was working for her father, Richard Baldwin, who at that time owned The Northville Record. The Record office was on North Center Street where Bowden Associates insurance now is located.

Dr. Atchison, who had come home from Ann Arbor to take over his ailing father's medical practice, was called to The Record office when a stray bullet from a shooting gallery (now the site of the Little People's Shoppe) pierced the wall and continued through into newspaper office, lodging in the back of Editor Baldwin.

According to family history, Dr. Atchison cut off the tie of the wounded man in an effort to impress the editor's daughter. The action, however, did not endear him to Harriet Baldwin, who had saved for many months during the depression to buy the special tie for her husband's birthday.

For the wedding, the bride picked up her maid of honor, Mary Campbell, at her college dormitory and they walked the half block to President Seaton's home. On the way, Mary fell and suffered a concussion as it was cold and slippery.

Bob Bruegel, the best man, was suffering with an abscessed tooth. Therefore, the dinner following at Schuler's in Marshall was short-lived.

The best man and maid of honor later married and last Friday were in town for a surprise dinner with the Atchisons at the Lark restaurant. The couple's four children, U.S. Air Force Col. R.M. Atchison of Washington, D.C., Russell M. Atchison of Montana, Rhonda Schlack of Dryden, Mich., and Roxanne Casterline of Northville, arranged for a limousine to transport the foursome to the restaurant and for flowers and champagne.

This time, noted Roxanne Casterline, there were no injuries.

The Atchisons also are grandparents of eight.

Delivery doesn't mean just pizza

After a stressful day at the office a hot, tasty meal at home often sounds appealing, but slaving in a steamy kitchen probably doesn't.

There are times when even the thought of driving the car to the drive-up window at Arby's, Wendy's, McDonald's, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Pizza Hut or any fast-food haven sounds exhausting. Yet the hunger is still there, waiting to be answered.

Instead of sitting at home, staring at empty cupboards and wishing food would magically descend from the ceiling, pick up the phone. Don't succumb to those delivery food blues — dinner is just minutes away and it doesn't have to be pepperoni pizza again.

Several local restaurants provide delivery service for food selections on their menus, including burgers, french fries, salads, pasta, submarine sandwiches, sweet-and-sour shrimp and eggrolls.

In Northville, the Pizza Cutter restaurant offers submarine sandwiches, pasta dishes and salads in addition to pizza as delivery items.

Michelle Hopkins, a Pizza Cutter employee, said the alternative menu selections are popular at the restaurant, particularly near the dinner hour.

If a craving for Chinese food tickles your palate, the Rikshaw Inn of Novi also offers delivery service.

Restaurant manager Carl Angott said the Rikshaw restaurant chain has been in business 14 years, but this is the first time it has entered the delivery restaurant market.

"As far as I know, we're the only Chinese restaurant in the area to deliver," he said. "A lot of restaurants in Canada provide the service, so we wanted to bring it to the Detroit area."

Angott said his restaurant in the West Oaks II shopping center is the only one within the chain to offer delivery service.

Lunch time and the 6 p.m. dinner hour are proving to be the peak delivery periods at the Rikshaw, according to Angott. He said the restaurant has gotten a good response for delivery food.

The Rikshaw's entire menu is available for delivery, including boneless almond chicken, sweet-and-sour chicken, lemon chicken and empress chicken — a spicy dinner strewn with cashews. Shrimp selections include the sweet-and-sour variety, shrimp with lobster sauce and Cantonese shrimp.

More traditional dishes such as chow mein and subgum with chicken, beef or pork are available for delivery as well. Beef dishes include pepper steak and beef with snow pea pods. Honey garlic wings and eggrolls are offered as accompaniments to the dinners. All dinners include fried rice.

Angott said the restaurant delivers within a five-mile radius right now.

"We're new at this game and we'll learn as we go," he said.

Other restaurants providing delivery service include The Original Romano's Pizza & Catering, which offers chicken, pasta dishes, ribs, salads and subs. The restaurant serves Walled Lake, Novi, Wixom, Farmington, Livonia and surrounding communities.

At the Great American Pizza restaurant in Northville, Greek and tossed salads, and bread sticks join the usual pizza fare.

Burger Fresh is one of the growing delivery establishments. The restaurant is headquartered in Ann Arbor and made its first delivery there in June 1987. Since then, other Burger Fresh restaurants have sprung up in Farmington Hills, Livonia, Southfield and Madison Heights.

Saul Leff, manager/owner of the Burger Fresh on Halstead Road near Grand River Avenue, said the chain of restaurants consists of individually-owned establishments. His Farmington Hills restaurant, which opened in November 1987, is one of two operating in that city.

"So far we've had very good response," Leff said. "We thought the idea was a much needed alternative to pizza."

Business at Leff's Burger Fresh is especially brisk during lunchtime, when businesses frequently call in orders. Leff said the restaurant's popularity among families is growing at dinner, too.

"As our trucks are seen and we open more stores, I'm sure we'll gain wider recognition and keep growing," Leff said.

Menu selections at Burger Fresh include burgers, sandwiches, a steamed veggie entree — fresh steamed vegetables on a bed of potatoes, topped with cheese sauce — a garden salad, homemade broccoli soup, a kid's meal and beverages. The kid's meal consists of a kid's burger, french fries and a surprise.

Leff said the most popular items, in order, are the Freshburger with cheese, the Big Freshburger — two four-ounce beef patties with cheese and special sauce — and the garden salad, which comes with either a creamy ranch or Italian Lite dressing.

Broiled or battered breast of chicken and fish fillet sandwiches also are available, as well as french fries. Prices range from $1.73 for the Freshburger to $2.98 for the steamed veggie entree.

Delivery hours are 10:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and noon to 9 p.m. Sunday. Carry-out orders are available at Burger Fresh, also.

Since each Burger Fresh restaurant has a designated delivery area, it's advisable to call ahead to be sure the service is available in your community.

The next time a hard day squelches your cooking desire, dinner may be just a phone call away.

Twelve Oaks Mall hosts band fest

"The halls are alive With the sound of music..."

Julie Andrews isn't going to be there. But the halls of Twelve Oaks Mall are definitely going to be alive with the sound of music this Saturday, Jan. 30, when Twelve Oaks hosts the Eighth Annual Festival of Community Bands.

Seven bands drawn from throughout the metropolitan area will take part in the event, which is scheduled to run continuously from 11:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Each of the seven bands gets a solo shot during the day. Then, at 6:30 p.m., all seven bands are scheduled to join together for a "massed band blowout."

Among the bands scheduled to participate are the Schoolcraft College Community Wind Ensemble and the South Oakland Concert Band, which is sponsored by Oakland Community College.

If the festival gets your musical energy flowing, both the Schoolcraft and OCC bands welcome people who want to audition.

For more information on the South Oakland band call Amerliq Overton Cunningham at OCC's Royal Oak campus, 967-5740. For more information on the Schoolcraft band, call John Witten at 591-4400, ext. 327.

Comeback!

Cagers notch 1st win in overtime

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Interim coach Tim Lutes looked up to the ceiling several times, wondering if things could get worse. Athletic director Dennis Colligan stood near the north wall of the gymnasium, shaking his head.

For the first half of the basketball game between Northville and Livonia Franklin last Friday (Jan. 22), the winless Mustangs sank to new depths. Despite playing at home before a very large and vocal crowd, Northville fell behind early and trailed 30-15 at the intermission to a team with a 1-7 record.

But the Mustangs never quit, and neither did the crowd as it cheered the team on to a brilliant second half comeback and a stunning 55-53 overtime victory — Northville's first in 15 tries dating back to the end of last season.

"It was crazy — the kids went bananas when we finally won it," said Lutes. "The crowd was fantastic and I think they played a big part in the comeback. The crowd just wouldn't let the kids give up."

The first half may have been Northville's worse of the season. The team connected on just 25 percent from the field and was without the services of two key players, Jeff Terwin and Ron McDonald, who were hampered by injuries. Terwin didn't even dress due to a sore back and McDonald, despite playing the first few minutes, had to leave the game for good when his injured leg started acting up.

Franklin raced out to a 13-6 lead after one quarter as the Mustangs consistently missed a variety of shots — many high percentage efforts. It was the same story in the second quarter and Northville went into the locker room at halftime with its offensive output doubled.

"A lot of the time in the first half, we got the exact shots we wanted, but we didn't hit them," Lutes said. "We just didn't complete our plays, whether it was a bad pass, a violation — it always seemed to be a series of things."

In the locker room, Lutes changed the point of attack for the Mustangs, and the players seemed to take the adjustment to heart. Northville began attacking the wings of the Patriot defense in the second half, and found much more success.

"We took (Franklin) on at their weak points and I thought the kids did just an amazing job," Lutes pointed out. "They did exactly as we diagrammed it at halftime and I think it really showed how intelligent they are. With just a few minutes of instruction, they went out and executed it and got back into the game."

The altered attack led to numerous easy baskets in the second half, but it was an aggressive defense that really made the difference in the third. The Mustangs outscored the Patriots 12-6 in the quarter to slice the lead to nine, and the momentum was definitely shifting.

Ahead by 11 early in the fourth, Franklin went into the four-corner offense in an attempt to run down the clock. It worked at first but with about five minutes remaining, Northville started to force some turnovers. With a minute remaining, senior Eric Halverson narrowed the lead to five with a put-back basket and several seconds later, another turnover and a Heath Myers conversion made it 49-46.

With under 20 seconds remaining, the Mustangs fouled in order to stop the clock and the strategy worked as the Franklin player missed both free throws. Myers moved the ball up court after the second miss and calmly sank a three-point shot to tie the score with just three seconds left. Franklin's desperation attempt from half court was off the money and the game went into overtime.

"We had a heck of a fourth quarter," Lutes said. "We didn't turn the ball over and we were patient."

Northville center Chris House took over and scored the first six points in the overtime session to salt away the win. The Patriots did narrow it to two, at 55-53, but never tied it again.

"It's hard for me to figure out the reason why we were a different team in the second half," Lutes wondered. "It was really a horrible first half and a fabulous second."

For the season, the Mustangs had been averaging only 46 points per game, but Friday night the team exploded for 40 points in the second half alone.

House paced the attack with a game-high 22 points — 19 in the second half — and added 11 rebounds. Myers chipped in with 13 points and Halverson provided five assists and some key leadership down the stretch. Another key performer was point guard Kevin Hains, who replaced Terwin and had an excellent second half.

LIVONIA STEVENSON 61, NORTHVILLE 52: The cagers were involved in another contest last week (Jan. 19), but the outcome wasn't as sweet.

The Mustangs kept it close in the first half and trailed 34-30 at halftime. Northville took Stevenson out of its zone defense and actually led 15-13 after one quarter, but the Spartans' man-to-man seemed to give the home team much more trouble.

A lackluster third quarter put Northville in a nine-point hole, and it was too much to overcome. The Mustangs made just 5-of-10 from the free throw line and scored just one point out of a possible six-point possession in the third, and it was costly. The Spartans outscored Northville 14-9 in the third and then held on in the fourth for a nine-point triumph.

"It was a very typical game for us because we were outscored in the second half," Lutes said. "We've been outscored in 15 of 16 quarters in the second half this season."

Guard Scott Stephens scored 14 points and Halverson added 13 for Northville.

The Mustangs (1-8 overall, 1-4 in WLAA) get back into action tomorrow (Jan. 29) as they host Western Division rival Farmington Harrison.

Gymnasts drop meet, score record 122.10

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Last week, Northville gymnastics Coach Michelle Charniga predicted that her team would pull it all together and start scoring well above the 115 regional qualifying cutoff.

Well, Charniga was right, and her prediction came true with surprising swiftness. On Jan. 18, the gymnasts fell to mighty Plymouth Canton, but the Mustangs scored over 122 points in a scoring explosion that left everyone startled and yet pleased. It was nearly 10 point higher than the team's previous best this season, and was a full seven points above that all important 115 cutoff. Sure, Northville lost the meet, but that was expected — the surprise was how well the girls scored as a team and how close they actually came to upsetting the Chiefs.

"I knew they could do it," Charniga said. "The outcome really didn't matter — the girls were so thrilled to go over 120 points that they really weren't so concerned about what Canton did. We didn't have one single individual score under six."

"This team has some great potential and it was just a matter of time before they all started clicking at the same time. Now we want to maintain this kind of team score."

In the 129.60-122.10 defeat, the Mustangs stayed close to Canton in every event except the balance beam, and that has been an area of concern for Charniga all season long. The Chiefs took a slim two-point advantage after the vault but Northville came back to win the uneven bars by a point and narrow the gap. Canton then turned back the challenge by outscoring the Mustangs 32.1-27.55 in beam and establishing a six-point cushion. In the floor exercise, Northville was outscored by less than a point, but the damage was done.

"Beam is still hurting us," Charniga said. "That's right where we lost it against Canton. The girls do great in practice but they seem to be losing their concentration in the meets. It was the only event where they really beat us."

In vault, Wendy Beach scored a season-high 8.3, but it was only good enough for a fourth-place finish. Lee LaChance was sixth with a personal best score of 8.05 while the rest of the Mustang scores include Vyonne Beebe's 7.9, Robyn Chatman's personal best 7.65, Kathy Abraham's 6.7 and Becky Carney's 6.35.

"Everything was clicking and the vaults were right on, it's just that Canton was also outstanding in the event," Charniga said. "For us to score nearly 32 points as a team in that event is outstanding."

Northville really peaked in bars. The team took three of the top four places and scored 31.50 to Canton's 30.95. Beach again led the way with a fine score of 8.4. Beebe was next with an 8.1 and she was followed by Abraham (7.75), LaChance (7.25), Carney (6.6) and Megan Graham (6.35). Beach took first place honors, Beebe was second and Abraham fourth. In addition, Abraham, Carney and Graham each established new personal best scores in the event.

"It was a great team effort," Charniga pointed out. "Wendy pulled off a great routine and it was nice to beat Canton in an event. I don't think we've ever done that before."

Things quickly took a turn for the worse, however, as the problems with the balance beam began to mount. The best Northville could manage was a sixth place finish by LaChance (7.35). Beach was next with a 7.15, but didn't place, Jenny McMillian (6.8), Beebe (6.25), Karen Pyle (6.25) and Graham (6.15) followed.

The Mustangs came back with some solid scores in the floor exercise, but Beach continued to struggle. LaChance took team honors with a personal best 8.3, which was good for a second place tie. Beach followed with a 7.95 (fourth overall) and Chatman was next with a personal best 7.75 (fifth). The rest of the Northville scores included Tracie Surdue's 7.15, Graham's 7.05 and Alissa Estigoy's 6.65.

"I knew we had one of the best teams in the league, we just need to pull it all together each meet," Charniga said. "We've got a lot of depth and three strong all-arounders — we just need to avoid having off-nights."

The Mustangs (2-2 overall) don't get back into action until Feb. 3 when they travel to Walled Lake to take on Western.

Spikers place 3rd at 16-team invite

If it weren't for the Salem Invitational, last week could have been a total disaster for the Mustang volleyballers.

According to Northville Coach Paul Osborn, his team didn't improve at all in WLAA dual meets against Livonia Churchill (on Jan. 18) and Plymouth Canton (on Jan. 20). As a result, the Mustangs fell to Churchill 15-6, 15-5 and then dropped a 15-6, 17-15 decision to the Chiefs.

But the spikers (1-3 overall, 0-3 in WLAA) came back to play quite well at the invitational last Saturday (Jan. 23), which may have salvaged the entire week's work. Northville went 2-1-1 at Salem, but more importantly advanced to the semifinals of pool play — which was good for a third-place tie in the 16-team event.

Serve reception and passing problems plagued the visiting Mustangs in the Churchill match. The team was successful on just 42 percent when it came to serve reception, and according to Osborn, that is much too low.

"It was the same problems we've had all season — passing the ball and defensive coverage," he said. "We've got to be closer to 75 percent on our serve reception if we want to win some games."

In other statistical areas, Northville performed well. The team made good on 88 percent of its serves and 80 percent setting, but the problem areas were too much to overcome.

Against Canton, the reception number rose to 61 percent, while service (83) and hitting (68) percentages remained high, but the Mustangs still fell. The scores were much closer than the Churchill match, however.

"We really didn't improve against Churchill or Canton," Osborn said. "I brought in a former volleyball player of mine on Friday to see the team and she gave me some suggestions — they must have worked because we played much better at the Salem Invite."

In the first round of pool play, Northville split two games with Saline 15-11, 5-15 but then went on a two-match winning streak. The Mustangs topped Walled Lake Western 15-4, 15-13 in the second round and then turned back Hazel Park 15-1, 15-13.

The 2-1 mark in pool play advanced the team into the semifinals to face the host team, and although the Rocks won the match in three games, it was a battle. Salem won the first game 16-14 after coming back from a 13-3 deficit, and the difference was unforced errors by Northville.

In game two, the Mustangs fell behind 13-8 but then staged a comeback of their own to win 16-14. It may have taken all the fight out of the team, however, as the Rocks won the third and deciding game 15-8.

"Unforced errors got us in the first game, but we had only three in the second," Osborn said. "We may have used up all our energy on the comeback because we were very tired and we didn't have anything left for the last game."

"I think the girls realize if they try to do what we tell them to do, we will have some success," Osborn said.

Dave Gudmundsen (bottom) tries to get a leg hold in the 132-pound bout versus Franklin

Grapplers edge Franklin, 36-34

Northville High School graduate Jeff Metz took his soccer talents on to Eastern Michigan University in 1984 and has now wrapped up a brilliant career.

Metz was a three-year starter for the Mustangs and culminated his prep career in '83 by securing a berth on the All-State team. He was also named team 'Most Valuable Player.'

He became the Huron's starting goalkeeper as a freshman when the senior starter left the team for personal reasons, and kept the job for four seasons. He ushered in his first college match with a shutout.

Metz went on to become a key performer and was honored as the Eastern Michigan 'Most Valuable Player' twice — following his sophomore and senior seasons.

Last fall, with Metz in goal, the Huron soccer team captured the second best record in school history. The squad had a fine 12-6-1 record and Metz was a key performer, leading the team to eight shutouts. His fine senior season didn't go unnoticed — Metz was later named to the All Mid-American team.

The 1987 season was also a success statistically as Eastern set a pair of new school records for most goals for in a season and fewest goals against. As you might imagine, Metz had a major role in the second record.

"It was a great four years," he said. "It was always very challenging. I was lucky to get the starting job as a freshman and I learned a heck of a lot in that time. There were never any real low points, it always seemed to get better and my senior season was by far the most successful for me and the team."

In the summer of 1987, Metz was the starting goalie for the local Arsenal team that captured the Great Lakes Men's League (GLML) championship. The team — coached by Dr. John Starcevic — gave up an average of less than one goal per game. Ironically, Starcevic's son Steve, played high school soccer with Metz.

Steve, a current Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science player, also had a great season in '87 and is one of 22 candidates for the Missouri Athletic Club Collegiate Soccer Player of the Year Award.

The ballot was based on nominations from all across the United States. The winner will be formally announced on Feb. 2.

The voting is by college coaches. Starcevic was the Rams' (13-4-3 record) best defensive player and led the team and the Philadelphia Soccer Seven League with 11 goals, three assists and 25 points. The junior defenseman was named the Soccer Seven League Player of the Year.

"I didn't expect it," said a stunned Starcevic. "It's a good feeling. It's great that other people are aware of our area. To be in the company of those players is an honor."

Former Mustang soccer stars excel in college atmosphere

The Northville wrestlers didn't show the kind of intensity their coaches had hoped to see last week, but the Mustangs did come out of it with a WLAA Western Division dual meet victory.

On Jan. 21, the grapplers fell behind early but rallied back when they had to and pulled out a very close 36-34 win over Livonia Franklin. Two days prior, Northville staged a very uninspired effort at the South Lyon Triangular and lost to the Lions 46-21 and to Jackson Northwestern 45-29.

Franklin took a seven point lead by pinning all three Mustang wrestlers at 155, 167 and 185. To salvage the win, Northville needed two wins at 198 and heavyweight, and one had to be a pin. So Mike Hale and Derek Forbing came to the rescue to accomplish just that, and give the home team a narrow two-point victory.

"It was nice to see us come from behind," Assistant Coach Bob Boshoven said. "Hale and Forbing really saved us at the end."

Mike Mathes (112) pinned Robert Knittle in 1:30 to get the Mustangs into the win column. Steve Graham (119) pinned Steve Seleur in :33, John Frisbie won at 138 by default, Garnett Potter decisioned Dave Kube 6-2, but it was the only Northville win until late in the match.

Hale needed a pin over Walter Brown at 198 and he got it in 2:43 to cut the lead to 34-33. That set up the deciding bout between Forbing and Franklin's Keith Luback, which was ultimately won by Forbing on a close 5-4 decision.

Against South Lyon, the Mustangs only managed to win four of 13 bouts. Andy Frey (128) pinned Wade Smith in 5:14, Dave Gudmundson (132) pinned Scott Wellgoz in 2:40, Donovan Campbell (167) decisioned Dan Warford 8-7 and Hale (198) pinned Ted Collins in 1:14.

Goalkeeper Jeff Metz in action for the Hurons

Things didn't get much better against Jackson. Northville won only three bouts outright, and then was awarded two more by default. Frey raised his season mark to 21-3 by pinning Frank Griswold in 5:35, Gudmundson made it two in a row with a technical fall win over Rob Houdenberg and Campbell pinned Richle Grace in 19 seconds.

"We didn't wrestle well," Boshoven said. "The intensity just wasn't there. We had an emotional letdown."

The Mustangs (4-8-1 overall, 2-3 in WLAA) travel to meet Walled Lake Western tonight (Jan. 28) in another key Western Division clash.

Reardon's 23 paces OLV to 33-30 upset

Tim Reardon powered Our Lady of Victory's 7th-8th grade boys basketball team to a 33-30 upset win over Farmington's Our Lady of Sorrows on Jan. 24.

Despite being double-teamed, Reardon was unstoppable and led all scorers with 23 points. Justin Gugala scored only four points in the game, but all came on clutch free throws in the final 30 seconds of play. Brian O'Reilly (four points) and Matt Goebel (two points) rounded out the scoring for the Cougars.

Things went differently for the 7-8th grade girls' team as it suffered a heartbreaking 42-40 loss to Sorrows in overtime. The OLV cagers were victims of their own inability to convert free throw opportunities, hitting just 6-of-33 from the charity stripe. Heather Humphrey (12 points), Susie Weidenbach (nine points), Mary Grace Yankowski (eight points) and Karen Pump (seven points) led the Cougars' balanced attack.

The OLV girls still lead the division with a 5-1 record while Sorrows improved their second place record to 4-2.

Record/Chris Boyd

Novi class helps keep seniors fit

There's a joke that says growing older isn't much fun — but it beats the heck out of the alternative.

The aging process is something that everyone must deal with and learn to accept. Like it or not, everyone is in the process of growing older. And everyone has to learn to cope with the physical changes which accompany the aging process.

By now, everybody should realize it's important for people of all ages to be involved in a regular program of physical fitness. Age is no longer an excuse for not having a fitness program and exercising regularly.

At the same time, however, it's important that people realize the aging process places certain restrictions on the types of activities they participate in and that those restrictions be incorporated in the fitness program, according to Debbie Foster, who teaches a class called "Senior Exercise" through the Novi Community Education Department.

community Education Department.

The class meets every Monday, Wednesday and Thursday from 9-10 a.m. at Novi Meadows School.

Foster, 29, attended Illinois Wesleyan University in Bloomington, Ill., earning a BS degree in Physical Education and Spanish.

"Senior Exercise" is designed for people over 50, but Foster said class members range in age from slightly under 50 to over 80 years old. "What's important," she said, "is that they're involved in a regular exercise program."

The most important thing that older people need to know about an exercise program is not to hurt themselves, Foster said.

"There's an old saying about 'no pain, no gain' which is simply not accurate," she said. "People have to know that it's not smart to hurt themselves and to ease up when an exercise starts to become uncomfortable."

"Everyone has to know his or her own limitations," she continued. "When they reach those limitations, it's time to stop."

Foster's class consists of four basic sections. There's a 10-minute warm-up period; 20 minutes of strengthening, toning and flexibility exercises; 20 minutes of circulatory-respiratory exercises; and a 10-minute cool-down period.

What do older people need to be aware of when participating in an exercise program?

Foster said seniors are not as supple as youngsters. In fact, skeletal frailty is one of the symptoms of the aging process. "If you have brittle bones as opposed to supple bones, it's easier to damage them," she said.

As a consequence, Foster steers her students away from any type of exercise which creates excessive pressure on the bones. "I wouldn't have my students do any rope skipping or aerobic dancing, unless it's low-impact aerobic dancing," she said.

Foster also makes certain her program does not place excessive pressure on the joints — another area of the body highly susceptible to the aging process. "As a general rule," she said, "don't bend the joints more than 90 degrees. Knee-bends are O.K. Deep knee-bends are not O.K."

As to what are good exercises for older people, Foster recommends situps, pushups and all stretching exercises — anything which doesn't "jar" the body or place excessive pressure on the joints is good, she said.

Swimming and walking are two of the best, not only for seniors but for people of all ages, she added.

As a general rule, people in their 50s and 60s should be able to do the same exercises they did when they were 30. "They just need to do them a little slower," Foster said.

Fitness Tips

Low cholesterol meals can be found anywhere

By PEG CAMPBELL

Much has been written recently about blood cholesterol levels. We now know that levels should be below 200. The first and most important defense against a high blood cholesterol level is diet.

Two weeks ago, Dr. Judith Behn wrote an article on lowering cholesterol through diet. Specific recommendations are that 30 percent or fewer calories be derived from fat. This generally translates to a reduction in consumption dietary cholesterol and saturated fats. These are primarily from products of animal origin (meat and whole dairy products) and palm and coconut oils.

At home it is fairly easy to maintain this diet. For those who eat out frequently, it may present more of a problem. However, with a little forethought and practice, you'll find that delicious low-cholesterol, low-fat meals can be found most anywhere.

The first rule in restaurant eating is to study the menu. Remember that chicken and fish (with skin removed) contain less fat and cholesterol than red meat. Enlist the help of your waiter or waitress. Ask how your selections are prepared. Certain terms and phrases indicate low-fat preparation. Look for:

- "steamed"
- "in its own juice"
- "garden fresh"
- "broiled"
- "roasted"
- "poached"
- "charbroiled"

By the same token, other terms warn of saturated fat and cholesterol in preparation. Avoid foods that are:

- "butter" or "in a buttery sauce"
- "sauteed," "fried," "panfried," "crispy," "braised"
- "creamed," "in cream sauce"
- "au gratin," "parmesan," "in cheese sauce" or "escaloped"
- "casserole dishes"

When ordering, ask to have sauces and toppings served on the side so that you can control the amount you use. Ask to substitute margarine for butter and plain yogurt for sour cream.

Salads are a great choice, but be cautious about dressings. Choose vinegar-and-oil based selections or ask for fresh lemon on the side.

Should you have a problem selecting a fat-free, low-cholesterol entree, ask if you can have a selection "broiled" instead of "fried", or ask for assistance in designing an entree from salad and vegetable selections.

For dessert, select fresh fruit. When you get to coffee, be wary of dairy substitutes. Those are often made from saturated-fat bases like palm and coconut oils, which raise blood cholesterol levels. Ask instead for skim or low-fat milk.

Fast food, once a major problem for those on a low fat diet, is changing. Look for salad bars where you choose your own selections. Avoid cheeses and fat dressings. Try baked potatoes with vegetables or yogurt dressings.

If you have no choice, and a hamburger is all there is, choose the regular (2 oz.) hamburger on a bun with lettuce, tomato and onion.

Don't get easily discouraged. There are plenty of acceptable choices and substitutions. Ask questions and be creative.

To help with the preparation of low-cholesterol foods at home, a low-cholesterol cooking class will be held at the Northville M-CARE Health Center, 650 Griswold.

Chef Jeff Gabriel, instructor at the Schoolcraft College Culinary Arts Program, will present the program on Feb. 3 at 7 p.m. Call 344-1777 to pre-register. There is a $3 fee, payable at the door.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics.

The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPP

Rolling over Super Lotto Jackpots to increase the top prize for the next drawing has raised some questions from players. The following addresses those inquiries

Q: How many Jackpot winners were there in 1987 and what were the prize amounts?

A: Of the 70 Jackpot winners, three won prizes of $10 million or more, 12 won $5-$10 million, 12 won $2-$5 million, and 31 won $1-$2 million. The remainder won less than $1 million.

Q: When the Jackpot rolls over, why isn't the prize money awarded to other winners in the game?

A: With distribution to other winners, Jackpots would likely never rise above the minimum, taking away much of the inherent excitement of the game. This would likely cause decreased sales, and consequently a decrease in the Lottery's contribution to education as well as in the amount awarded as prizes.

Q: Why can't the top Jackpot be limited to say $10 million with any extra going to winners of lesser prizes?

A: The rules of the Lotto game state that only players matching all six winning numbers share the Jackpot prize. In many drawings there is more than one Jackpot winner so each receives a share of the full prize.

Q: Why were the rules written this way?

A: Michigan's Lotto game was based on the proven experience and success of other states' ongoing Lotto games.

Q: How do large Jackpots affect sales?

A: It is a fact that sales rise as Jackpots grow — a sign that players indeed want large Jackpots. Increased sales mean more dollars for schools and one of the charges of the Lottery is to maximize revenues to aid the state School Aid Fund.

Q: How are Jackpot amounts determined?

A: Jackpots are based on 25 percent of each sales dollar. This sum is invested and when combined with interest earned over the next 19 years forms the total amount paid to winners.

For asking the question leading to this column, Keith Sylvester of Dearborn will receive 50 free tickets for the Lottery's new instant game "3 Cards Up."

If you have a question not yet covered in these columns, send it to "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Diet Pills Sweeping U.S.

Doctors Invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

New 'Fat Magnet' Diet Pill Guarantees Fast Weight Loss

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special) — An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose fat by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

No Dieting — Eat Normally

Best of all, "you can continue to eat all of your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You will start losing fat from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight and figure you desire."

There has never been anything like it before. It is a totally new major medical breakthrough for weight loss (worldwide patent pending).

Flushes Fat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in fat particles. Then, all that trapped fat is naturally "flushed" right out of your body because it cannot be digested.

Within 2 days you will notice a change in the color of your stool as the fat particles are being eliminated.

"Pills Do All the Work"

According to the doctors, the fat-magnet pills do all the work while you quickly lose fat with no starvation diet menus to follow, no calorie counting, no exercising, and no hunger pangs. It is 100% safe. You simply take the pills with a glass of water before meals.

The fat-magnet pills have just been offered to the American public and are already sweeping the country with record sales and reports of dramatic weight loss. It's the "lazy way" to lose weight for people who enjoy eating.

Now Available to Public

If you need to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these new highly successful fat-magnet pills (now available from the doctor's exclusive manufacturer by mail or phone order only) by sending $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$2 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (+$3 handling), cash, check or money order to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W24, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. (Unconditional money-back guarantee if not 100% satisfied.) Visa, MasterCard and American Express OK. (Send card number, expire date, and signature.) For fastest service for credit card orders ONLY call anytime 24 hours, toll free 1(800)527-9700, ext. W24.

My linda Maskell, R.N.

My linda Maskell has presided over the births of thousands of babies -- in body and in spirit. As a labor and delivery room nurse for over ten years, Maskell is an excellent teacher of Lamaze techniques here at Woodland. She has helped parents learn the skills necessary to actively participate in the healthy birth of their children. "It is special to be able to prepare parents," she said, "to make them knowledgeable about the birth and about the emotions that happen all at once. It's incredible."

Diane Siegel DiVita

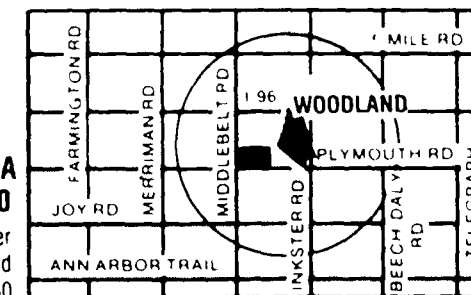

As a school teacher in the Detroit inner city, Diane Siegel DiVita has called on her Yoga training more than once to bring balance back into her life. "Pain comes with worries about the future, or remembrances of the past," DiVita said.

Yoga is a discipline that centers you in the present moment. Her students of Yoga rave about her classes and her ability to help them release tension. Besides teaching middle school Spanish, French and English, DiVita is President of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit. She has studied Yoga for 20 years.
