Area ties one on against drug abuse

The red ribbons that have sprung up on trees, buildings and people around the town and around the township are not a sign of spring or of a new disease.

But they are a symbol of something that can be even more important: substance abuse.

Northville Action Council, as part of its focus on substance abuse, has chosen Drug Awareness Week, which began March 6, to increase the community's awareness of the problem on a local level. The red ribbons are a statement against drug abuse, explained Roxanne Casterline, a spokesperson for the NAC.

NAC plans also to distribute a parent handbook, "As Parents We Will..." to the community. The book is intended as a guide for parents and gives advice on how to be aware and to handle activities of young people that may be involved in substance abuse. Included in the book is information on setting limits for young people, how to communicate better with youngsters and where, if needed, to seek help.

Excerpts from the publication have been appearing in The Record in recent weeks.

Funding for the handbook has come from individuals and mer-

Committee starts search for administrator

By ANITA CRONE

Northville Township officials are paring down a list of 18 applicants to select a new zoning and building administrator.

The list includes people from three states and southeastern Michigan, and the committee members intend to interview six people in closed session.

Members of the search committee include Trustees Richard Allen and Thomas Handyside, Treasurer Richard Henningsen and Township

Manager Steve Brock.

Henningsen said that two people already have been interviewed and one person, from Florida, was interviewed over the telephone last Saturday. He noted that additional interviews are scheduled for this weekend and that he hopes to present recommendations to the full Board of Trustees "soon."

Brock said that all of the applicants have planning and zoning work experience and at least a bachelor's degree in urban planning, landscape architecture or natural resources.

Henningsen said that the final list of interviewees includes two females and four males.

"All in all, they are a pretty intelligent group," Brock said. Neither he nor Henningsen would release the names of the finalists.

The planning and zoning administrator will replace Matt Modrack, former community development director, who resigned to accept a similar position in Lapeer.

"We are looking for someone who has some landscape architecture background, since we have engineering and planning consultants who have expertise in looking at buildings, but not so much when it comes to site development," Brock said.

Brock said that some of the responsibilities of the position have been refined since Modrack departed and the questions devised for the interviews reflect that change in emphasis.

"I don't think that in Northville Township we are as interested in attracting developers as we are in having them work within the zoning ordinances and master plan. Here, the developers find us," he said.

Henningsen said that once the interview process is complete, he will present the qualifications of all finalists to the full board to allow them to make the final decision.

"It will be very similar to what we did when we hired Mr. Brock. And I don't think we did a very bad job then," he said, noting that when Brock was hired, the hiring committee presented the list of qualifications to the board, which then agreed with the recommendation to hire Brock.

Consent accord on commission agenda

By ANITA CRONE

The entire Wayne County Commission today is expected to decide whether to sign a consent agreement that would pay the Michigan Department of Mental Health $1.8 million for buildings located on Sheldon Road which are part of the 1,040 acres of Northville Township land the county is trying to market and sell.

At a joint meeting of the county Ways and Means Committee and the Economic Development Committee March 2, the issue of signing the agreement which currently is pending in Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Kaye Tertzag's court, no recommendation was made but the issue was passed on to the full commission.

"I think there was concern about where the $1.8 million would come from if the county actually joint-ventured the property, rather than sell it," said Wayne County Commissioner Susan J. Heintz, R-Northville Township.

Signing the consent agreement is the final step toward marketing the land, Heintz said, noting that no final action could be taken if there was a cloud on the title to the land.

She noted that she expects the consent judgment to be approved by the full commission.

"From what I have been able to find out, the consent judgment looks like it will be approved," she said.

She noted that DeWitt Henry, Jobs and Economic Development Director for Wayne County, said that once the judgment is signed, the county hopes to begin negotiations with the Department of Mental Health about the possibility of selling the large building and surrounding 18 acres that the state retained as part of the agreement.

The building currently houses the Fairweather program, a training facility for persons who are targeted to leave Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital for a group home.

However, Thomas Watkins, Jr., mental health director, said that he has had no discussions with anyone from the county regarding such a move.

"At this level, nothing has reached my desk," he said.

Heintz said that county officials have informed her that a report by the Lambrecht Co., which has a contract with Wayne County to perform a marketing and valuation study of the land, would be completed by the end of March.

"I have been told that we (the commission) can expect to see a report from Lambrecht by the end of March," she said.

During a retreat March 4-6 with other commissioners and the county executive, Heintz said there was a presentation given on plans for the acreage.

"They (the presenters) stressed that the presentation was merely a concept and they kept stressing that," Heintz said, noting that included in the presentation was an 18-hole championship golf course, a lot of residential building with each lot facing the golf course, some light industrial and some commercial development along Five Mile Road.

City officials' pay hikes hit council snag

By BOB NEEDHAM

Pay raises proposed for city administrators ran into resistance from some members of the city council Monday night.

City Manager Steve Walters recommended raises ranging from 3 percent for the housing director to 13.7 percent for the department of public works foreman. After discussion of the proposed raises — and two failed attempts to approve them — the city council eventually tabled the issue to its next meeting, March 21.

The administrators last received raises effective July 1, 1986, except the building inspector, who was hired in September 1986, and the housing director, who got a 3 percent raise last year.

Walters recommended that all the raises be retroactive to July 1, 1987. The proposals follow reviews of the administrators by Walters, the city's chief administrative officer.

Council members Jerry Mittman, Paul Folino and John Buckland all questioned certain parts of Walters recommendations.

"You've got some fairly hefty increases here," Mittman said. He said that in many cities a police chief is paid more than a DPW superintendent, whereas in Northville the two have earned the same salary.

Folino added, "I've felt that way for years, that the police chief should be higher than the DPW superintendent."

In a report to the council, Walters provided salaries of similar positions

Here's list of salaries

Here are the raises recommended for city administrators by City Manager Steve Walters:

- DPW superintendent — from $40,976 to $43,514; 6.2 percent.
- Police chief — from $40,976 to $43,514; 6.2 percent.
- Building inspector — from $35,006 to $38,521; 10 percent.
- City clerk — from $28,954 to $31,740; 9.6 percent.
- DPW foreman — from $24,211 to $27,539; 13.7 percent.
- Executive secretary — from $20,758 to $22,003; 6 percent.
- Housing director — from $30,430 to $31,366; 3 percent.

in nearby communities. However, he said, positions are often not really comparable, since department heads in Northville often do more work than people in the same or similar positions elsewhere.

"It's very hard to get your comparables in some positions like that," Walters said. Both the building inspector, Joseph Attard, and the DPW superintendent, Ted Mapes, have more responsibilities than others in similar positions, Walters said.

"I think it would be a real injustice

Police launch probe into patient's death

The Northville Township Police Department is continuing an investigation into the death of a former Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patient.

The body of the patient, 56-year-old John Zelepis of Westland, was discovered in the area of Victor and Maple Hill Drive on Feb. 26. The patient reportedly had left the hospital on Feb. 13.

Preliminary investigation attributed Zelepis's death to accidental hypothermia, said police Capt. Philip Presnell.

The patient was discovered missing from the hospital on Feb. 13, Presnell said; however, a walkaway report was not issued to state police or township police officials until Feb. 16.

Friends' microfilm project needs help

There is some talk of dredging the pond at the foot of Main Street. That would be an improvement. Not only regards looks, but in a sanitary point.

The Northville Record

A new sidewalk made its appearance in front of Armstrong & Perrin's blacksmith shop. It would be beneficial as well as ornamental to that part of town, if others would adopt the same plan.

The Northville Record

Both of the above observations, made more than 110 years ago, are among the items in the early editions of The Record which make the volunteer job of cataloging the early newspapers fascinating. They were among the stories enjoyed by Geraldine Mills, a Friends of the Library volunteer reader, last week.

The readers are cataloging by subject and name items in the early Records. In an arrangement with the Northville and Novi public libraries, and the State of Michigan Library, the early Records from 1860 to 1950 have been microfilmed.

Volunteers trained by Mernie Hines, retired Northville Public Schools librarian, have been reading and cataloging. She may be contacted about training at 349-0349.

Library staff member Al Smitley says that at the moment the number of regular volunteer readers in the Friends' project is down to about half a dozen. He would welcome additional readers. Volunteers sign up for any time during the day Mondays through Fridays, he explains.

Mills notes that history buffs can learn much about Northville and its activities a century ago through this project. Celebrations as well as court proceedings were duly noted in the 1877 editions she read last week, including:

The Northville band and red ribbon club united in a basket picnic at Griswold's Grove Friday, Aug. 24. Three coronet bands are expected to be present and a big time anticipated. A citizens meeting is to be held Monday night to make arrangements toward aiding in the matter.

Inauguration services — The new council rooms were inaugurated this week with a jury trial of two days duration. Jacob Westfall of Plymouth brought suit against Wm. H. Colby, of same place, for trespass, in matter concerning the old Mathews' homestead property. Four lawyers were engaged; Messrs. Woodman and Voorhies, for the prosecution, and Starkweather and Juslin, for the defense. Some 40 witnesses were sworn and more than ordinary interest manifested in the case. The jury decided in favor of defendant.

The microfilm reading-cataloging project is just one of several sponsored by the Northville Friends of the Library. The group's annual meeting will be held in the city council chambers at 1 p.m. March 16. Library director Patricia Orr will speak on the future of libraries, the Northville library in particular.

Officers will be elected following brief annual reports.

The board and all who wish to come are invited to gather for lunch at Genetti's at 11:30 a.m.

Two recent projects, the appearance of Neal Shine at the annual book/author luncheon co-sponsored with the Friends of Novi Library and a February used book sale, were outstanding successes, the Friends report.

In spite of a winter storm, Feb. 20, the Friends report that 20 dedicated book sale followers were on hand at the 10 a.m. opening. Videos were reported to be a big attraction. Total profit for the day was $284.61.

A six-month old Friends' Gift Book Program has resulted in $578 in contributions for books for the library. Many have been designated as memorial gifts whereas others celebrate birthdays, births and other special occasions.

The books which have been purchased will be on display in the glass showcase in the library for the month of March.

Rotary winners announced

Seven winners of $25 each for the week of March 8 in the Northville Rotary Club's 1987-88 Community Calendar Lottery, a benefit for local club projects, have been announced. They are Cathy Konrad and Gayle

NEWS BRIEFS

CORRECTION — An article in last week's Record about the city's sign ordinance and fence ordinance contained an error. A paragraph about a study session between members of the planning and historic district commissions should have said that the commissioners generally felt any variations from the present fence ordinance should go through the board of zoning appeals.

CITY APPOINTMENTS — The city council Monday night approved appointments to three city bodies.

On the recommendation of the council's personnel committee — made up of Mayor Chris Johnson and council member John Buckland — the council appointed David Mielock, Jr. and Kathleen Mary Otten to the planning commission for terms expiring this June.

The council also reappointed G. Dewey Gardner to the downtown development authority, for a term expiring in 1991. Walter Zabinski was appointed to the city's board of review for a term expiring in 1991.

VOLUNTEER AT COURT — Training and orientation sessions for the Oakland County Probate Court Volunteer Programs will be held Mondays, March 14 and 21, from 7-9 p.m. in the probate court conference room, second floor, east wing, Oakland County Courthouse, 1200 N. Telegraph.

Anyone interested in volunteering to work with children, ages 6-16, should plan to attend the sessions. For information call 858-0041 between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. week days.

ARTIST HONORED — Kristi Kunka of Northville, a senior at Ladywood High School, was one of five recipients of the regional Hallmark Awards during the scholastic art competition.

Kunka's portfolio received a blue ribbon, entitling the student to enter national competition in New York.

More than 5,000 single entries and approximately 100 portfolios were entered in the contest.

PLANNERS HONORED — A donation to the Orchards Children's Services by Real Estate Interests, Inc., has been given in honor of the Northville Township Planning Commission.

The Orchards assists the needs of emotionally troubled, neglected and abused children and their families.

TRACK HANDLE DOWN — The amount of money bet at Northville Downs during January dropped slightly from January a year ago, according to track figures.

The average daily handle during January was $565,060. The average for January, 1987 was $581,177. The figures show a 2.8 percent drop.

Total attendance for January was 77,594, and the total handle was $15,256,630.

McNAMARA MAKES IMPACT — Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara will be the guest on County Impact!, televised at 8:30 p.m. Friday on Omnicom's Channel 15 and again at 7 p.m. on Metrovision Channel 13.

Future guests on the program include former UAW president Douglas Fraser and Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss.

Township board of review set for action

The three-member Northville Township Board of Review is ready for business, but not all the new assessments have been received by township property owners.

Last week, Supervisor Georgina Goss, the township's chief assessing officer, raised the assessments on some of the township land that is targeted for development but has not yet been completed, thus reducing the assessment on other township property.

The changes delayed the mailing of final assessments until this week.

Among the property that is targeted for the highest change in assessment is the Blue Heron Pointe project on Beck Road and the Country Club Estates of Northville on Haggerty near Six Mile Road.

Goss said she based the change in rate for Blue Heron on the change in status of the property from commercial to residential and on Country Club Estates (formerly Dun Rovin) on the selling price of the property.

The changes and the resulting increase in taxes will not take effect until the winter, 1988, tax collections.

Dennis Park, developer of Blue Heron Pointe, said he understood that there would be changes in the assessments on the property.

"Certainly it is not industrial land and we have never led our purchasers to believe that the tax rate would remain the same," Park said, noting that he believed the current taxes were $8,000 for the entire parcel.

Lawrence Garon, one of the principals in Country Club Estates, said he had not seen the March 3 edition of The Record in which the changes in assessment were reported. Garon declined to comment until he had read the article.

But if the developers or any township property owner disagrees with the assessment, they do have the option of going to the Board of Review.

The board may, at its option and

"Right now, the property values and selling prices in Northville Township are high and, therefore, the resulting assessments are high."

— Zo Chisnell
Board of Review member with supporting documentation, reduce an assessment.

"We do not set the assessments," noted Zo Chisnell, a board of review member. "Assessments are set by assessors, approved by the township and the state, and certified by the county. Right now, the property values and selling prices in Northville Township are high and, therefore, the resulting assessments are high."

The assessments, also known as state equalized valuation, are equal to one-half the fair market value of the property. Goss said that given the rapidly occurring changes in township property values, the township is beginning consideration of having a full-time assessor; however, Richard Henningsen, township treasurer, said at this time he was reluctant to expend the money.

Currently the township has part-time assessors. "But the supervisor is the chief assessing officer and ultimately it is her decision," Henningsen said.

Omnicom looks for cable channel thefts

By BOB NEEDHAM

If you're getting cable television channels you're not paying for — even if you aren't purposely stealing them — the cable company is looking for you.

In mailed flyers, Omnicom Newspaper advertisements, Omnicom Cablevision is conducting a no-questions-asked "amnesty" program asking people to report cable services they are getting but not buying.

The company has set up a hotline number for reporting incorrect services. And the company says anyone who refuses to comply could end up in court.

"It's a standard operational procedure (for) cable companies," Omnicom General Manager Rik Coleman said.

The amnesty program ends March

31. After that, Coleman said, the company will examine every home in the company's service area to see if company records match what is actually going into each home.

"We will be going out and we will audit every single home. Not (just) every subscriber's home, but every single home," Coleman said.

If there are discrepancies, the company will provide an "opportunity to make it right," Coleman said. After that, he said, the company is prepared to go to court.

If someone does continually steal services, he said, "We take them to court. And part of our case in court will be much stronger because we've done this audit."

"I don't think it's a major problem," Coleman said. He guessed that a very small percentage of homes have done something to intentionally get service that is not paid for.

"We know that a lot of these are mistakes on our part," he said. "We're just saying, 'Give us a buzz and we'll fix it.'"

"Omnicom is losing revenue, and that hurts everybody. That hurts the subscribers," he said. "We don't care how it occurred; we're just trying to get it right." The amnesty hotline number is 459-8284.

Omnicom's service area includes Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Belleville and Hamtramck. The area contains about 45,000 homes, almost half of which are Omnicom subscribers, Coleman said.

City defers bill for Cady Inn water and sewer

The City of Northville will loan — and possibly give — the Northville Historical Society the money to pay for a water connection and sewer tap for the Cady Inn building's new home in Mill Race Historical Village on Griswold.

The city council voted Monday night to shift the $1,320 cost of the hookups to the city's water and sewer fund, with a decision on whether the society has to repay the money to come during budget deliberations.

The move of the building from Cady Street to Mill Race has been more expensive than the society expected, with foundation cost alone rising from $14,800 to $23,400. Other moving costs are about $15,000.

"You see our expenses, and still the building stands in the parking lot," society member Fran Gazlay told the council Monday. Member Martha Nield added, "We wouldn't care except our costs have gone so much above what we thought the building would cost."

When completed, the building will serve as an office for the society.

"I'm not sure we've got an answer for you tonight," Mayor Chris Johnson said at the meeting.

The council voted 5-0 to add the cost of the hookups to a loan the city made to the society for the move. That loan is due June 30.

Johnson said the city council will consider making the loan into a donation during budget considerations, scheduled to begin next month.

City zoning board denies variances

Request for variances on side and rear yards of a proposed five-condominium complex on property immediately east of the fish hatchery property at 629 Fairbrook was denied by a 5-3 vote of the city board of zoning appeals March 2.

About 20 residents of the Fairbrook-Seven Mile area attended the hearing to protest the planned development on property that now houses a single home.

Ron Myers, architect for the developer, Hatchery Lane Associates, asked initially for a five-foot side variance and a 20-foot rear variance.

He told the board that the developer "would like to put five nice, well-done condominiums in the $225,000 to $250,000 range" on the property and assured that the development of traditional brick units would be "first class all the way."

The property is zoned R-3, which permits condominiums.

Questioned by members of the audience regarding parking for the units, Myers noted that each unit would have two-car garages and that the plan, if granted the setback variances, could provide for seven additional spaces.

Without the variance, Myers said, the extra spaces would be lost. The city requires only 2½ additional spaces.

Several residents attending the hearing pointed out that parking in the area already is a problem as street parking is not permitted.

One resident, protesting the planned development, said she had been notified by city police that it was not permitted to park on the lawn in front of her home when more space was needed.

It was also mentioned that, as presented, the parking spaces constituted front yard parking, not permitted by city ordinance.

Myers' rendering of the complex showed the property fronting on Fairbrook with a brick wall. The wall also was shown along the west side of the property with openings along the side. Myers said that if residents preferred a shrubby wall it "would be fine."

Other residents questioned whether it would not be possible to build four, rather than five, units and not need the variance.

Dr. Leonard Wades, one of the Fish

Hatchery Associates, said that fewer would not be economically feasible. He noted that several medical associates already were interested in purchasing the units.

Uta Filkin, 621 Fairbrook, noted that there were also two small lots at the rear of the property bordering on the creek that had been available. She said they had been sold three weeks ago but would have been available to add to the parcel.

She and others also questioned whether the development would not kill "what is probably the biggest oak tree in the City of Northville."

Residents said the tree was one of two located right on the west property line adjacent to the hatchery property.

In response to questions from board members, Myers reported that the width of the lot at its narrowest point is 70 feet with the angled front elevation being 83 feet. He said the extreme narrowness was the problem in designing condominiums in the luxury range.

The units shown varied from 1700 to 2304 square feet.

Filkin questioned whether watershed from the development would affect the private road to the east which accesses three lots at the back. Myers said it would have required drainage.

"The width is our hardship," he said, modifying his variance request during the meeting to a side variance of five feet and a rear one of 15 feet.

"The property is so visible (from Fairbrook) that you have to have knockout elevations all around," he said, promising that the rear views would be as attractive as the front.

Appeals board chair Charles Ayers pointed out that the plans had not gone before the planning commission at this point and that granting the variance would not mean the units would be built as shown. He stressed that it was only the initial presentation.

Ayers also noted that the board had received a letter from Council member Paul Folino on the subject and indicated it opposed the project.

Voting against granting the variance were Connie Cronin, Robert Krueger, Ayers, Roberto Lopez and Roland Stapleton. For it were John Swallow, James Bress and Lewis E. Koppitch.

Big tree, bigger controversy

Oak tree on fish hatchery property line, perhaps the city's oldest, may be in jeopardy

Planner interviews scheduled

Members of the city council and the chairperson of the planning commission are set to interview five applicants next week for the position of planning consultant.

The city has been seeking a replacement for Ron Nino, who resigned as consultant in December. City officials hope the council will hire a new planner at the March 21 council meeting.

A screening committee whittled the five interviewees down from 11 companies that submitted proposals to provide planning services to the city. The five up for consideration are Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May of Ann Arbor, Harley, Ellington, Pierce, Yee Associates of Southfield; McKenna Associates of Farmington Hills; Quinn Evans/Architects of Ann Arbor, and Vilcan-Leman, Associates of Southfield.

At the council meeting Monday night, Mayor Chris Johnson outlined the interview schedule: 45-minute interviews Wednesday, March 16, and Thursday, March 17. Interviews will begin on the hour, starting at 7 p.m., with three interviews Wednesday and two Thursday. A discussion of the applicants is scheduled to follow Thursday.

The interview sessions will be held in meetings open to the public, Johnson said at Monday's meeting.

Speed low on 8 Mile?

A lower speed on Eight Mile Road received the endorsement of the Northville city council Monday night.

The council agreed to join with the Northville school board in asking the road commissions in Wayne and Oakland counties to lower the speed limit from 40 to 30 miles per hour on Eight Mile near Center, and to put up warning flashers east and west of Center.

In a letter to City Manager Steve Walters, school Superintendent George Bell said traffic dangers of the Eight Mile/Center area include tie-ups and heavy volume in addition to high speeds. Amerman Elementary School and Northville High School are both on the corner of the intersection.

The council voted 4-1 to request the counties to lower the speed limit to 30 during school hours and install flashers. Council member Jerry Mitman dissented, saying 30 was too slow for Eight Mile Road traffic.

Steppingstone School may not be large in attendance, but that doesn't mean students don't have big ideas when it comes time for the school's annual science fair. As part of a schoolwide project, elementary students put together a number of science projects, including the one that Frank Menzel did on Saturn and its rings. From left, Elliot Bailey, 8, of Farmington, Tami Morse, 10, of Plymouth, David Bracht, 10, of Plymouth and Jeff Cozza of Northville examine the model of the planet and some of its moons.

Novi voters support 10.5-mill renewal in light turnout

By BRENDA BONZHEIM

A segment of Novi voters displayed continued confidence in their school system Tuesday by approving a renewal of 10.5 mills for operating purposes within the Novi Community School District.

Unofficial vote totals tallied 549 yes votes and 280 no votes, with the millage renewal receiving approval in all three of the district's precincts.

At Novi Middle School, Precinct No. 1, unofficial votes were 74 yes, 71 no; at Orchard Hills Elementary, Precinct No. 2, votes totaled 198 yes, 88 no; and at Village Oaks Elementary, Precinct No. 3, 284 voters favored the millage renewal and 112 opposed it. Absentee ballot totals were 13 yes, and nine no votes.

Rita Traynor, director of special programs and communications for the school district, provided the unofficial vote totals Wednesday morning and commented that school officials were pleased with the results.

Although voter turnout for Tuesday's election was fairly light, Traynor noted it was slightly higher than turnout was for the district's previous renewal election. She estimated an additional 1 percent of the district's voters responded to the 10.5 mill renewal request.

Renewal of the millage will allow business to continue as usual within the school district. Prior to the election, school officials indicated they were optimistic the millage renewal would succeed. However, at that time Superintendent Robert Pivko pointed out that a defeat would be devastating to the district because the 10.5 mills comprise about one-third of its operating budget.

The 10.5 mills had expired with the 1987 tax collection and is one of two millage packages used for school operating purposes. The other millage package consists of 13 mills and will expire with the Dec. 1989 tax collection.

As approved, the 10.5 mills will be levied for three years, 1988, 1989 and 1990. Operating purposes include salaries, supplies for classrooms, maintenance, transportation costs and the day-to-day operating costs of the schools.

None of the 10.5 mills will be used for the district's upcoming or ongoing construction projects. Those building projects will be funded by the district's $6.25 million bond issue, which was approved by voters in June 1987.

Plans for track, Ford added to grant ideas

Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) money coming to the City of Northville may be used for several projects proposed for it, but a few suggestions are not eligible for the money.

The CDBG, a federal program run through Wayne and Oakland counties, provides grant money for projects to benefit residents of low or moderate income areas, the physically handicapped or senior citizens. The city has earmarked its Oakland money for improving barrier-free entry to the Northville Community Center, but $150,000 is available in Wayne money from the past two and a half years.

City Manager Steve Walters reported to the city council Monday night that proposals for park development would not qualify under program guidelines. However, other proposals — such as improving barrier-free travel at sidewalk intersections, updating the city's master plan, and creating a plan to study downtown retail development — are eligible.

Proposals for elevators — to improve barrier-free travel in the Cady Street parking deck and in city hall — may also be eligible, Walters said.

He also suggested additional possibilities for using the money: studies to consider using the Open Door Christian Church building on Center as a library or other use, to consider uses of the Ford plant if it shuts down; or to consider uses of Northville Downs if it should close.

Walters noted that studying alternate uses of the Ford plant and the track might look premature, but might be good planning for contingencies.

The council expects to select final priorities for CDBG money at its March 21 meeting. In the meantime, a formal publication of plans is required. At Walters' suggestion, the council voted to publish a list of all the proposals, which can then be prioritized March 21.

The priority list will determine how many of the projects can be completed with the available money, Walters said.

Township eyes 19-lot water district

By BOB NEEDHAM

The Northville Township board is scheduled tonight to consider what to do about a tentative special assessment district (SAD) to bring water lines to a group of lots on the east side of the township — and the options include moving ahead with the district, abandoning it, and exploring a redrawn district.

Property owners on Smock, Pierson and Phillips roads signed petitions to form a 19-lot SAD for water service. But cost estimates caused some of the involved property owners to oppose the action at a public hearing last Thursday, March 3, while some others said they still support the idea.

If all 19 lots are included in an SAD, Township Engineer Abe Munfah recommended that each lot pay an equal share of the project's $147,800 estimated cost, based on an assumption of equal benefits for each lot. That works out to $7,778.95 per lot. The township water and sewer commission would finance the cost over 15 years, township trustee Thomas Handyside said.

However, Munfah said one stretch of pipe was included in the estimate that should not have been, and the cost will go down slightly.

Munfah said water lines to serve the 19 parcels would pick up from a line which currently stops on Phillips, then extend down Smock and also east and south down Pierson. The plan would require 3,252 feet of pipe plus eight hydrants and eight valves, he said.

The extensions would create three "dead ends" in the water main, Munfah said, which would need flushing at least every couple of months to maintain water quality.

Several letter writers and several property owners present at the hearing objected to the SAD at the estimated cost. "I'm sure a lot of people who are for this, as I am, see this as quite a bit of money, which it is," property owner Thomas Hipple III said.

People at the hearing asked if the plan could be redrawn to eliminate some of the dead ends, to eliminate some of the lots with owners who do not want the cost, or to create a plan the township would help pay for.

Handyside explained that the township shares in the cost of water or sewer lines when the improvement adds to the general benefit of the township system — for example, by finishing off a loop of pipe. "In this particular system, it doesn't," he said. Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen added that other township residents who have already paid for their water and sewer sometimes do not think it fair for their tax money to pay for these improvements to other people's property.

Some owners of land in the proposed SAD said they want out of the district because of the cost and because their wells provide good water. But a couple of others said their well water is so bad, they want to go ahead with the SAD in spite of the cost.

The hearing ended with trustee Richard Allen suggesting that the district might be redrawn to eliminate the lots that did not want to participate. The board is scheduled to consider the SAD at its meeting tonight.

Residents oppose cost of sewer district

Three of four affected homeowners have opposed the creation of a four-lot special assessment district to bring sanitary sewers to their Northville Township homes.

The property owners signed a petition to tentatively form a special assessment district and explore the cost of bringing sewers to their lots, on Smock and Stoneleigh roads on the east side of the township. But once the township engineers announced an estimated per-lot cost of $16,325, the homeowners objected.

At a public hearing Thursday, March 3, two of the four property owners stood up to oppose creation of the SAD, and written opposition from a third homeowner was read into the record.

"I think the cost is exceedingly high," resident Peter Grant said. "For just these four lots, I'm opposed." He said an earlier estimate on creating an SAD to serve his whole street with a sanitary sewer had a much lower cost per lot.

The public hearing was called only to hear opinions on the SAD. The township board is expected to make a decision on continuing with the SAD tonight, March 10.

Township Engineer Abe Munfah reported at the hearing that bringing sanitary sewer service to the four lots would require installing 780 feet of eight inch pipe, 85 feet of six inch pipe and four manholes.

Munfah estimated the total cost of the project at $65,300, and recommended that if the district goes through, the cost be shared equally among the four lots because they would receive equal benefit from the work.

Township trustee Thomas Handyside said that if the township formalizes the SAD, the water and sewer commission would finance the work over 15 years at eight percent. The township would not pay for any of the work.

Road forum examines funding

Why is the federal government cutting back on road money and what should be done about it?

Those questions were asked — and answered — by Michigan Department of Transportation officials a week ago during a regional road forum in Detroit.

Budget cuts mandated under federal Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law are expected to cost the state a minimum $150 million over the next decade. MDOT officials, however, charge the federal government is deliberately withholding $15 billion, including an estimated $200 million for Michigan over the next four years, to make the federal deficit look smaller.

"If we received that money it would more than cancel out our deficit," MDOT planning coordinator

G. Robert Adams said.

Getting Congress to release that money was one of several MDOT suggestions to improve Michigan roadways.

Others include:

- A "more equitable" distribution of federal community block grant development money, with a larger share to Michigan.

- No increase in federal road taxes, unless the withheld money is distributed to the states.

- Elimination of what MDOT called "excessive" use of federal highway grants money for experimental road projects.

- A new federal tax on ethanol (gasohol). Michigan would receive $20 million a year if gasohol were subject to gasoline taxes, Adams said.

- Increasing the federal return on gasoline tax money from 85 to 90 percent.

- Greater flexibility in construction requirements, especially for small-scale projects, as well as greater flexibility in the use of alternative financing and privatization in meeting road needs.

- Continued support for a national rail system, saving AMTRAK from its anticipated demise.

The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) called for more comprehensive planning, with greater local input.

SEMCOG also called for making an increase in the state gasoline tax and greater financing for public transportation, among other recommendations.

Police Blotters

Car swiped at Meijer's found in Detroit the next day

A car stolen from Meijer's parking lot March 4 was recovered in Detroit the next day.

The owner of the vehicle, a 1986 Pontiac Sunbird, told township officers that she had parked her car at the south end of the Meijer's lot at 7 15 a.m. while she went to work and that, when she returned at 5 15 p.m., the car was missing.

The missing vehicle was entered into the LEIN network and at 9 a.m. March 5, the township police department was notified by Detroit officers that the car had been found in the eighth precinct. The recovered car had a broken driver's side window, a damaged steering column, a punched trunk and was missing fenders, hood and grill.

Damage to the vehicle is estimated at $5,000, police said.

THEFT CHARGES DIVERTED — A man arrested on suspicion of auto theft is being recommended for the Wayne County diversion program.

A city police officer assigned to watch McDonald Ford saw two people drive off from the dealership at high speed and stopped the car, according to a police report. The driver could not produce the car's registration. Arraignment was expected this week.

The driver of the car is being sent to Wayne County's diversion program, a special option for first-time offenders in special circumstances. Under the program, the charges are not prosecuted and if the person stays out of trouble for a year, the charges are dropped.

BATHTUB STOLEN — A fiberglass bathtub was stolen from a house under construction in the Pheasant Hills subdivision last week, according to a city police report.

Drywall was damaged and a pipe cut in the theft, the report said. The damage was estimated at $300.

CAR RECOVERED — A car reported missing from Northville Downs Feb. 29 was found a few hours later in the spot from which it was taken, according to a city police report.

The car, left with a key inside, was parked near the track barns and found missing at 6 45. A guard noticed someone driving the car back into the area after a few hours, and the car was found at 10 26.

Police are seeking a warrant against the person the guard saw driving the car. Police hope to charge the driver with unlawfully driving away an automobile.

MARIJUANA POSSESSION — People were cited for possession of marijuana at Northville Downs in two separate incidents recently.

Northville police approached three subjects Feb. 27 on suspicion of marijuana possession, a city police report said. One was cited for possession and released, but another had an outstanding warrant for failure to appear in court on a cocaine possession charge. Northville police held the man until Madison Heights police picked him up.

Then, on Feb. 29, a police officer saw a man smoking what looked like a marijuana joint. When the officer approached the man, he denied smoking marijuana, but blew smoke out into the officer's face, the report said.

The man was cited for marijuana possession and later picked up by the St. Clair Shores police department, who had an outstanding traffic warrant on the man.

GARAGE DENTED — A city resident returned home Sunday evening to find a garage door marred and dented inward, a city police report said.

The mark on the door and location of the dent made it look as though a car had hit the door, the report said.

Damage was estimated at $500.

AUTO VANDALISM — A car spoiler was cracked and then pulled off a car in the Northville High School parking lot last week, according to a city police report.

The incident occurred between 7 30 a.m. and 6 p.m. March 2, the report said. A rough estimate put the damage at $300.

BREAK-IN ATTEMPTED — A businessman with an office located in the 19000 block of Fry told township police March 3 that unknown person(s) had attempted to break into his place of employment between 8 30 p.m. March 2 and 10 a.m. March 3.

Although no entry to the business was gained, the complainant said, he told officers that there were pry marks at the front door of the business and damage to the door casing.

Police are continuing to investigate the incident.

BIKE STOLEN — A Swan Lake Apartment resident told township officers that her son's 20-inch stunt bicycle was stolen from her apartment March 2.

According to the police report, the bicycle was stored in the first floor hallway of the apartment and entry was gained by prying open the front door of the closet. The front door of the apartment building apparently was open the resident said.

Although there were other bicycles stored in the same location, the only bike missing was the performance bike, valued at more than $300.

IDENTITY CRISIS — An Ann Arbor man, stopped for speeding in Northville Township March 1, is facing additional charges stemming from the incident.

According to the township police report, the man gave officers a false name, did not have a driver's license, proof of registration and proof of insurance for the vehicle he was driving.

Officer Matthew Mayes noted also that the vehicle had improper license plates.

Upon further investigation, Mayes said in his report that the subject's driver's license had been suspended indefinitely by the Secretary of State's office and that it had expired in 1987.

The subject, who eventually gave officers his correct name, was charged with having improper plates on his vehicle and with driving with a suspended license.

Township officers are also seeking a warrant charging the man with interfering with a police officer by giving a false name at the time of his arrest.

TRAILER DAMAGED — Township police are investigating a report of two damaged construction trailers Feb. 29.

The complainant, a Surrey Lane resident, told police that he observed two white males, approximately 14 or 15 years old, run from construction equipment located near his home.

The complainant said he also observed that two office trailers had been broken into and that the entire interior of one of them had been ransacked.

In addition, officer Michael Wildt noted in his report that the exterior of the trailer had been spray-painted with profanities.

Neither the police nor the complainant know whether the youngsters were involved in the damage or the break-in.

TRAILER ROBBED — More than $300 worth of equipment was stolen Feb. 29 from a construction trailer at Innsbrook Apartments on Seven Mile Road.

Suggestions for raises hit some turbulence

to pay Ted Mapes less than the police chief just for the sake of doing that. There isn't any person more important to the city than Ted Mapes — except the mayor — and I would include myself in that," Walters said.

The city should pay what is fair for good people, Walters said. "I feel these are well justified."

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers then moved to approve the raises, but no one supported the motion. Mayor Chris Johnson, who later said he did not object to the recommendations, chairs the council meetings and therefore cannot make or support motions.

After Ayers' motion died, Johnson asked what the council members' objections were.

Mittman said he did not think the raises should go back to last July. Walters responded that the department heads willingly receive raises last of all city employees — after the city has settled contracts with its employee unions — and they should not be penalized for that.

Folino and Mittman then returned to the issue of police chief salary compared to DPW superintendent, with both agreeing that the police chief deserves higher pay. Mittman proposed a smaller increase for the DPW head while Folino and Ayers proposed instead a larger increase for the police chief. Both were recommended for 6.2 percent raises.

"I think the police chief and anyone in that department has a much more hazardous job and deserves more income than other departments. That's my opinion," Folino said.

Mittman added, "Any time they stop a car, they're putting their life on the line."

Walters disagreed. "The DPW superintendent's job, if you really look at the demand on the individual, is a much more demanding job than the police chief's," he said.

Without detracting from the work of the police department, Walters added, DPW employees must be ready to go to work at night, in bad weather and during emergencies. "I cannot recommend to you that the police chief be higher than the DPW superintendent at this point in time," he said. "Both these people are critical to the city, but Ted Mapes is no less so, even though he's almost never shot at."

DPW work "is not very dramatic and it's not very romantic and it's not very exciting," Walters continued. "It's taken for granted if the work is done."

Buckland and Mittman questioned a 10 percent recommended raise for the building inspector. "What you're proposing is a 10 percent increase after 10 months on the job," Mittman said.

Walters said the department has become busier since the building inspector was hired, and that he does extra work many others in a similar position would not do.

After further discussion, Ayers moved to approve all the recommendations except the building inspector salary. That motion also died for lack of support.

She then voted to table the issue to the next meeting, a move the council approved 4-1 with Johnson dissenting.

She was born July 9, 1906, in Minnesota to George W. and Anna (Johnson) McLaughlin. A sister, Virginia, preceded her in death.

Funeral service was held at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Casterline Funeral Home Inc. with the Rev. Eric S. Hammar of First United Methodist Church of Northville officiating. Burial was in Forest Hill Cemetery in Eau Claire, Wis.

chants, as well as from the Northville Jaycees, the Northville Mothers' Club, the Northville-Novis Colts, the Northville Recreation Department, Kiwanis, Rotary International, the Northville Command Officers Association, the Northville Junior Baseball Association and the Northville Montessori Center.

NAC activities have been given approval by the Northville Board of Education, as well as both the city and the township police department, the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce and the local governmental units.

Tonight, Charles Stilec, director of the Northville High School Student Assistance Program, has planned, in conjunction with the Northville Action Council, a special community program at Meads Mill. The program begins at 7 p.m. and features Betty Nicolay, a three-year volunteer for Maplegrove Community Education, who will speak on substance use and abuse and how it affects families.

A film will follow Nicolay's talk and Steve R., a recovering substance abuser, will give a first-hand account of substance abuse and the road to recovery.

The red ribbons posted throughout the community are an outgrowth of a similar effort in Atlanta, where parents and the community posted yellow ribbons in an effort to increase awareness of children's safety during the time a number of Atlanta youngsters were being slain.

The red ribbons as a symbol locally were used most recently during the New Year's holiday when Mothers Against Drunk Driving and Students Against Drunk Driving asked police departments to put red ribbons on their patrol cars to increase awareness of teen-agers staying away from alcohol at the holiday time.

Casterline said that if this week's effort is successful, the council intends to repeat the observance in future years.

Already, the success is measurable. Downtown lamp posts are ringed with the ribbons and a number of merchants have displayed the symbol in their businesses. In addition, homes throughout the community are sporting the ribbons.

Our Opinions

Death a tragedy

The death of 56-year-old John Zelepis of Westland, a patient at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, is a tragedy that may not have been preventable, given the procedure the hospital follows when a patient leaves the grounds.

Since NRPH is a hospital and is not a prison, patients are treated with respect. They are not handcuffed or restrained, unless they are a danger to themselves or to others. They are not routinely locked in their rooms or on wards, but are allowed to wander the facility during daylight hours. They are given passes to go home but, on the facility's grounds, they are monitored.

Hospital officials say that if a staff member sees a patient leave the grounds without permission her/she is obligated to notify the hospital's safety department. Once a patient is discovered missing, again the safety department is notified and a search of the grounds and immediate vicinity is supposed to be undertaken.

If a patient cannot be found after a ward count, the ward physician or the physician on call can place the patient on unauthorized leave status, and the report is forwarded to the Michigan State Police and the local police departments through the LEIN network.

Although the investigation into Zelepis's death has not been completed, hospital procedures apparently were followed. But once searchers could not find the man, the search stopped.

Walter Brown, the hospital director, said that there is no continued search for a patient beyond the initial safety-department effort. And once a patient has been placed on UL status for a specified period of time and still has not been found, the person is declared discharged.

The tragedy of the Zelepis case is that he was not found during the initial search. And 13 days elapsed from the time he left his ward until his body was discovered in the Maple Hills subdivision.

Perhaps, with a more intensive search, Zelepis would have been found. And, had the man been found immediately, or even within hours of his leaving the hospital, he might not have died. But if hospital staff and local police departments were to search for each person placed on unauthorized leave, they would not have time to complete their duties.

It seems like a classic case of Catch 22. Unfortunately, John Zelepis was not an abstract idea. He was a living person. And that's the tragedy.

Ribbons signal need

As it does for many events, the Northville community has wholeheartedly embraced the red-ribbon campaign, tying the bows to bodies, trees and building fronts.

But while the ribbons go a long way toward increasing the awareness that substance abuse, particularly among young people, is a serious problem, the next step for community members will be harder: doing something about stemming drug and alcohol use and abuse.

Groups, organizations and facilities such as the Northville Action Council, the Northville High School Student Assistance Program and Northville Youth Assistance are already in place to help combat substance abuse, but these groups are comprised primarily of volunteers and their budgets, such as they are, are severely strained.

While no one has come out and asked for additional financial assistance, just the fact that within four months of being founded, Northville Youth Assistance served as many clients as its planners expected to be served in a year; that rather than being ignored, the student assistance coordinator finds himself in demand; and that the handbook put out by the Northville Action Council was published with donations by civic groups, speaks to the need for additional funding.

The ribbons are a start toward dealing with substance abuse. But a good start deserves a rousing finish. We think the community can give that with its support.

Openness is good

Members of the Northville city council and City Manager Steve Walters got into a very frank discussion Monday night about proposed raises for city administrators.

Walters recommended large raises for some of the officials, including people like the superintendent of the department of public works, the building inspector and the police chief. Some of the council members, however, questioned some of Walters' requests.

Feelings ran a little high. Walters fought for his recommendations, arguing that the people are certainly worth the money. Some of the raises, though, seemed like a bit much to some of the council. Nothing was decided Monday; the council tabled the issue to its next meeting. It will be very interesting to watch what happens then.

We don't want to support a certain side in this disagreement, since both have valid arguments. Our comment is that it's refreshing to see this debate taking place at all; it would have been very easy for the council to approve the raises without any real discussion.

Pay for the people who run the city is a vital concern, as is restraint in spending. However the issue is resolved, it's a valid issue. It demonstrates that the manager is looking out for his people, and that the council members are looking out for theirs, the taxpayers.

Assessing the risk

By Anita Crone

Being a new homeowner, I couldn't wait until I got to pay taxes the first time. I mean, that first tax bill, like losing a first tooth, is something to look forward to. Everyone has to do it and some people get to do it earlier, some later.

I imagine, after the first time, paying taxes gets to be a bit of a drag. But the first bill and the first payment are a milestone. My first tax bill meant that I finally was a productive member of society. I was responsible. I was a member of a community.

I had an ulterior motive in wanting to see that first bill. I just knew that I was going to have an incorrect assessment and that meant I could go to the Board of Review.

Early in my tenure as a reporter for The Northville Record, I had written a story about the Board of Review, what it does, how to get through it and what documentation the board requires to change an assessment.

I had learned that selling price was important and that comparables — the price that similar homes in the same area were selling for — always provided good documentation.

I knew that it was important to schedule an appointment, and to be on time. I also had learned that people who had experienced hardships could even petition the board for understanding and if documentation were provided, the board usually granted that reduction.

I couldn't have been better prepared if I sat on the board myself. After all, Board of Review members are appointed by the municipality and certainly understood some of the unique aspects of the community.

Diligently I searched my local newspaper for the dates the board would meet. I faithfully followed the news about rising assessments. I understood that real estate prices, like warm air, were continuing to rise and that it was unlikely that either would fall soon.

But all of that didn't affect me a great deal. After all, my building, before becoming a condominium, had been apartments and apartments in very bad state of repair at that. Right next door to my condominium there were some brand new condos being built and those units (heh, heh, heh) were selling for twice and more than what I paid for my unit.

Let me tell you. I just couldn't wait for the board to announce its meeting dates. Every night I would look at my purchase agreement. Every day I would talk to my neighbors about the prices we paid. I even got them to agree to sign documents detailing their purchase prices.

I pulled all that information into a separate file, specifically marked it Board of Review and put the file in a box next to my front door.

Every day I added a bit more information to the file and was becoming more confident each week that I would provide the board with so many documents that even if I didn't get to talk for more than five minutes, the board would have no choice but to lower my tax rate.

Then, I got my tax statement from Walled Lake. I literally ran from the mailbox, and, with a big smile on my face, I poured a glass of my favorite wine, wine I had been saving for a special occasion.

With trembling fingers, I opened the envelope and looked at the bill. There, in black letters and numbers, I saw my SEV. I read it again. Surely, there had been some mistake. It couldn't be that low.

I walked to the door, pulled down that Board of Review file and stuffed it in the wastebasket. Then I closed the verticals, locked the door and peeked out. I didn't want the assessor to discover where I lived. After all, if the assessor never comes to visit, my taxes won't go up.

lady passed away.

I mean no disrespect to the memory of Belle or the ladies of the church, but I happened to think of them Saturday morning when I attended the 16th annual Community Recognition Breakfast sponsored by the Novi Jaycees.

Down at the bottom of the program — after all but the most important award had been presented — there was an item called "Special Presentation." And I was pretty sure I knew what it meant. And, I suspect, everybody else in the room knew what it meant — the Novi Jaycees were going to present Phil Jerome with the annual "American Press Certificate of Appreciation" Award.

I felt a little like Belle McColl must have felt when she was summoned to the church for some obviously fraudulent reason on her birthday every year. It's hard to be surprised when you know what's coming.

But this year they surprised me. I didn't receive the Certificate of Appreciation. Instead, they made me an honorary member of the Novi Jaycees.

Needless to say, I'm honored

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

When I was a boy there was a lady at the Northville Presbyterian Church named Belle McColl. She was a rather elderly lady, late 80s or early 90s, and she was rather revered by the other ladies of the church.

In fact, Belle was so admired that they held a birthday party for her each year. Not just any birthday party, either. It was always a surprise birthday party.

Maybe it was that Belle fooled them by living as long as she did. But whatever the reason, the fact was that every year the ladies gave her a surprise birthday party. They were probably on the 14th or 15th annual Belle McColl surprise birthday party when that dear

City traffic proposals evaluated by resident

To the Editor:
I am addressing this letter to the city officials who will be faced with the decision of making changes in our city's traffic patterns.

After reviewing articles in The Northville Record and a copy of the traffic study, I am concerned with some of the recommendations proposed.

It appears that the closing of Randolph Street at Center Street will create more northbound traffic on the streets of Wing, High West and Linden. Since a "no right hand turn" has been posted at certain times on High Street and West Street (which the majority of residents on Linden Street signed a petition to receive similar treatment), it seems that the majority of the southbound traffic will be diverted onto Linden and Wing Streets and with the proposed stop sign at High Street and Randolph Street, it would suggest that traffic will exit before this sign, meaning Linden Street.

I know that no one wants the traffic on their residential street; however this "pass through" traffic that is suggested to be diverted from the business district will be passing through a residential area and with the recent photo on the cover of The Northville Record showing my daughter and her two new neighbors (Feb. 11, 1988) I can see at least three "little" reasons to widen Center Street from Seven Mile to Eight Mile and close Randolph at Eight Mile and keep our residential neighborhood just that, a neighborhood and not an extension of the central business district.

Where will the money come from for these projects? Where is the money going to from our new assessments?

Sincerely,
Martin A. Waldo
and family

Media bashing

By Bob Needham

It must be an awful lot of fun to attack the media. It seems like the latest craze, the hot new trend. Everybody's doing it.

There's an article in the new issue of Washington Journalism Review that says attacks on the press are nothing new. Well, maybe not, but I think the number and intensity of them certainly are.

The presidential campaign has a lot to do with it. Jesse Jackson, Pat Robertson and Gary Hart, for example, have all turned media bashing into major campaign themes. But the candidates are not the only ones; it seems like almost everyone in the news is furious about the fact.

Being an alleged reporter myself, I feel sort of left out of the fun. I suppose I could start bashing my colleagues in the state and national press, but to be honest, I'm a little scared to. Call me a wimp, but you just never know when Dan Rather will call up and — under the guise of a political profile — start poking into all that embarrassing Iran/Contra stuff again. (I forgot! All right? Now leave me alone!)

Besides, I think there is some unwritten code that journalists are supposed to stick together. At least there was once. There's a Humphrey Bogart movie called "Deadline U.S.A." where Bogie, the tough journalist, is being threatened by some crime lord he's exposing. "Never beat up a reporter, they say," Bogie tells the guy. "Like killing a cop on duty, they say."

Of course, Bogie had a tendency to overstate things. (Would you believe it's like kicking dirt on a cop's shoes? Nah, that's still an overstatement.) But I do think there might have been, at one time, a different attitude about the press.

It seems to me people used to like newspapers, and used to appreciate what they tried to do. They were the guardian of the rights of the people, especially of the people no one else paid any attention to. They still try to do that, but you have to look long and hard for someone who thinks they should.

Community newspapers like this one usually are not major targets, although we get our share. And it's very frustrating.

Please don't misunderstand this. I'm not saying we don't deserve criticism; of course we do, and I, for one, always welcome feedback on anything I do. (Honest. And if you ever have any, please let me know.)

The problem is that so much of the bashing — on any level — is so far off-target that the legitimate criticisms get lost in the confusion. The press, like any other business, is not perfect. But when you spend a lot of time dealing with outrageous charges that just do not make any sense, it's a lot tougher to try to work on the charges that do.

In fact, just writing this column has left me pretty drained. To heck with it; I'm tired of missing out on the fun. I think I'll go dump a bucket of ice water on my editor's head.

Accident aid appreciated

To the Editor:
The management and staff of the Northville Post Office would like to express our appreciation and thanks to those individuals who assisted and offered assistance at the scene of the serious traffic accident which occurred at Eight Mile Road near the Woodland Glen Apartments on Jan. 29, 1988, in which a postal Jeep and one of our letter carriers were involved.

Police, fire and emergency service personnel arrived on the scene within minutes of the accident.

I arrived within minutes of the accident occurring and by that time the accident scene was under control and the entire situation was being handled in an extremely professional manner.

Again, thanks to those involved.

With thirty years of prior experience, Jim Mackie started his own commercial carpet contracting company 4½ years ago. Offices were formerly in Livonia, and as the company expanded, we moved our operations to Novi.

Now that we are settled here, we want to get the message to the people in this area that we are open for business.

Generally, a commercial contracting business does not advertise in the newspaper, but we have added an up-to-date residential showroom and want people to know we are in the area and ready to service them.

We are currently purchasing from all the major carpet mills, allowing us to offer a large selection of carpets to our customers.

We consistently demonstrate to our customers that we offer the best value and service available.

The Novi News, Northville Record and Observer & Eccentric Newspapers have been most helpful and beneficial to us through their advertising of our business. They have made the public aware of our new location in Novi, and of our new up-to-date residential showroom.

Gas station on Eight Mile wants to sell beverages

By BOB NEEDHAM

A gas station at the corner of Taft and Eight Mile roads has applied to the city to remodel and add cold beverage sales to its services.

The Boron Oil Company wants to remodel its Gas-N-Go self-serve station on the northeast corner of the intersection to add five coolers for beverages, according to an application filed with the city. The remodeling would take place in the garage bays, which would become a convenience store area, according to the application.

The proposal came before the city planning commission Tuesday, March 1, but commissioners referred the plan back for more information.

Proposed work includes installing five new coolers and their wiring, adding 12 drop light fixtures, retile part of the floor and ceiling, adding a formica-topped swing door, and other accompanying work. The company estimates the project will cost $21,000.

"We're simply remodeling the interior of the building. No exterior changes," said Patrick Raymond, a maintenance field engineer for Boron.

At the planning commission meeting, city planning consultant Ron Nino said the architects for the project are revising the plans to include information missing from the plan submitted to the city.

In addition, commissioners questioned whether the two driveways closest to the intersection should stay open. The recently-released city traffic study recommends that those driveways be closed.

"That's a busy gas station. There's a lot of traffic in and out of there," commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin said.

Raymond said the company wants to keep all the entrances to the site.

"We're not prepared to give up any of the approaches at this time," Raymond said. The two closest to the intersection are the two best entrances, he added.

Hardin said the commissioners would study the traffic report and consider the issue further. "There have been a number of serious accidents there. I think any time we can do something to improve that situation, we should," he said.

"Safety first, I agree with you," Raymond responded.

The four commissioners present eventually voted to refer the application back to Boron for more information on a handicap access ramp, a resolution of the new parking configuration, checks of the site's land grades, and other concerns.

Communicate, watch for symptoms of abuse

This is another in a continuing series of columns prepared for The Record by Charles Stille, Northville High School Student Assistance Program coordinator.

In recognition of National PTA Drug Awareness Week, March 6-12, we will focus on two issues from the parent handbook, "As Parents We Will..."

The first is talking with our children about alcohol and other drugs.

Dr. Robert Dupont has written in the book, "Getting Tough on Gateway Drugs: A Guide for the Family," that: "Teenagers had one major message for their parents: They wanted to be listened to. They wanted concern and respect. They wanted time and attention from their parents."

Talking with your child about alcohol and other drugs means becoming informed about alcohol and other drugs and their effects. Be a credible source of information for your child.

It means initiating active discussions centered on the media's portrayal of attitudes projected in advertising, television programs, films, magazines and music.

It means making your position on alcohol and other drug use clear to your child so that he/she knows where you stand, even if you have no indication he/she is involved. Base your discussions on issues of health and well being.

It means letting your youngster know you trust him/her. Allow your child the opportunity to prove he/she can live up to your expectations. Praise him/her for good judgment whenever appropriate.

It means trying to reach agreement with your spouse about handling the issue of alcohol and other drug use. There should be consistency and mutual support in your communications with your child on this subject.

If you suspect alcohol or other drug use, avoid unproductive accusations and name calling. Sit down with your child when he/she is not drunk or stoned and discuss calmly any evidence you have about his/her use. Talk about your personal concern for him/her. Although you disapprove of his/her behavior, you still love him/her. Try to keep the discussions on a rational level.

Consider seeking professional counseling. This may help to reopen communication between parent and child by providing a neutral ground for expression of feelings. A counselor who works primarily in the field of alcohol and other drug problems may be the most beneficial.

Be a good model. Your own use influences your child's use.

Help your child understand the reasons for your expectations. You love him/her and you are concerned about his/her well being.

The second is signs and symptoms of use and abuse.

Some symptoms of teen alcohol/drug abuse are not clear cut. Many of the signs can be confused with "normal" adolescent behavior or with health disfunctions. However, it is critical to be alert and to know that a combination of the following characteristics may be cause for concern.

Has your child's personality changed noticeably? Does he/she have sudden mood swings and unpredictable behavior?

Does your child seem to be losing old friends and spending time with a new group about whom you know little or who are known as a party bunch?

Is your child unable to account for large sums of money, or have you had objects or money mysteriously disappear from your home?

Does your child defend his/her right to drink?

Is your child reluctant to talk about alcohol or other drugs?

Does your child drive irresponsibly?

Does your child lie about drug and alcohol use as well as other activities?

Have you ever found drug paraphernalia or bottles or beer cans in his/her room? Did your child "explain it away" when confronted?

Has your child lost interest in his/her physical appearance?

Has your child admitted to trying alcohol or other drugs "just once" while denying any regular involvement?

Are you hearing rumors about your child's partying, goofing off, or drinking?

Has your child been cutting classes or been tardy frequently?

Do you, as parents, conceal from each other information about your child's behavior?

Is your child suddenly less responsive? Is he/she losing interest in school, work, athletics, extracurricular activities, family and/or other previous interests?

To show your support for a drug free community, remember to display and to wear a red ribbon through March 12.

New limo service makes celebrities out of customers

By MELODY ARNDT

As the door is opened for me, I peer inside at the luxurious, blue velvet interior. One thought is foremost in my mind — thank goodness I opted for the skirt and jacket this morning instead of blue jeans and boots.

Somewhat the picture of a blue-jeaned, snow-booted leg stepping into this fabulous limousine does not mesh with the scenario that is unfolding.

The script reads something like this. An actress (someone along the line of Crystal Carrington) is about to be swept away to a rendezvous at an intimate, four-star restaurant. Her personal chauffeur phones ahead from the limousine, confirming the reservation, ensuring that preparations have been undertaken for this very important passenger.

As I alight from the limousine, patrons in the restaurant crane their necks for a view of the VIP, smiling in recognition.

"People want to live in a fairy land," says Joe Bustamante, better known as "Mr. B," general manager of Spirit Limousine, Inc. "They want to experience what it is like to be treated like a multi-millionaire. We will show them, right from the personal chauffeur on down."

The beautiful, sleek white limousine is the first vehicle to be a part of Spirit Limousine, Inc. The relatively new service, started as recently as January 1, prides itself on a new approach to transportation.

"We provide a service you won't get anywhere else," Bustamante proclaims. "We give our customers the opportunity to experience professionalism in a world of mediocrity."

The 1988 Cadillac XL Brougham, valued at around $75,000, is far from mediocre. With a seating capacity of eight, the automobile offers all the conveniences, including color television, AM/FM cassette player, intercom, telephone, VCR and private bar.

If the vehicle itself is not impressive enough, Bustamante believes the professional service is.

What to do if your taxes are audited

You finger the envelope gingerly — not quite sure what to do. You already got your refund check. Yesterday was your birthday, but it's not likely the Internal Revenue Service is sending you a birthday card. Should you open it now or wait for your spouse to get home?

Curiosity gets the best of you. You sit down in your favorite chair, open the envelope and read the letter. Then, like every other taxpayer who has ever received an audit notice, you ask, "Why me?"

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, your chance of being selected for an audit depends a lot on how your financial profile compares with that of other taxpayers with similar income and deductions.

The greatest bulk of audits are selected through a computer screening process called DIF — that stands for the Discriminant Income Function system. The DIF is a computer program of mathematical formulas which is designed specifically to select those returns that are most likely to contain tax errors.

The DIF compares your deductions, credits and exemptions with the norm for taxpayers with similar levels of income and assigns points to certain entries on your return.

The higher the number of points your return scores, the better your chances of being audited. Returns are then screened by IRS examiners and those that have the highest probability of error are selected for audits.

There are certain risk factors that increase your chances of being audited. By far, the most likely item to trigger an audit is a claim of losses through a tax shelter the IRS considers abusive. In fact, if you have invested in such a shelter, you might as well start preparing your defense.

Generally speaking, the larger your income, the better your chance of being chosen for an audit. (Taxpayers with income over $50,000 are more likely to be audited, probably because this group is more likely to claim the kinds of questionable tax write-offs the IRS is on the lookout for.) Taxpayers whose occupations cause them to get paid mostly in cash also have a better than average chance of being audited.

Claiming deductions that are higher than the average for those in your income bracket is likely to raise a red flag at the IRS. For example, if you make $30,000 a year and claim a $5,000 deduction to your favorite charity, the IRS may very well be skeptical. Yet the same deduction made by someone earning $120,000 a year may go unnoticed. If you have deductions that may seem out of the ordinary to the IRS, some tax experts recommend you attach documentation to support your figures.

There are certain other deductions that the IRS likes to examine. Cash charitable contributions and large casualty losses attract the attention of the IRS because they are difficult to prove.

Depreciation and bad debts are also likely targets because the IRS feels that taxpayers often don't understand the technicalities involved Claims for what the IRS considers unreasonable business and entertainment expenses might also generate some unwanted correspondence.

The IRS also looks carefully at the returns of taxpayers who file Schedule C for unincorporated businesses, particularly if that is the primary source of their income.

And last, but not least, illegal tax protest can almost guarantee you an appointment with your local auditor.

Computer-selected returns account for about 75 percent of all returns audited. The remaining 25 percent come from other sources. Your return may be selected for examination because of a related audit. If your business partner or ex-spouse is being audited, this could direct the IRS to your return.

Some taxpayers are audited as a result of a special IRS target. If the IRS feels a particular area of tax law is being abused, they are inclined to review the returns of affected taxpayers. A deduction for a home office was a recent target of the IRS.

Your selection of a tax preparer may also have a bearing on your chance of being audited. Should the name of the preparer you select be on the list of questionable preparers, you may have to defend the numbers on your return.

In the last few years, the IRS has become much more efficient at matching information returns filed by employers' banks, dividend-paying corporations and government agencies with the amounts reported on taxpayers' returns. An inconsistency is likely to set off bells and sirens at the IRS.

Perhaps the most dreaded of all audits, at least in terms of time and trouble, are those conducted under the Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program (TCMP).

The TCMP is a statistical measurement tool the Internal Revenue Service uses to establish a profile of the prevailing practices of taxpayers. The program attempts to determine a reasonable range of deductions for taxpayers with certain incomes. This information is then used to design the DIF computer formula which screens returns.

In fact, in reality the TCMP is probably more like a census than an audit. It is conducted once every three years and generally involves some 50,000 taxpayers. The taxpayers selected are chosen entirely at random and represent all income levels.

While other audits generally examine only a few items, TCMPs scrutinize the taxpayer's return and require line-by-line accounting and complete documentation. By complete, we mean complete. If your filing status indicates you're married, you will be asked to produce your marriage license. If you show three dependent children, the IRS will want to see a birth certificate for each.

If you are unlucky enough to win the audit lottery, you may want to work with a tax professional who can help prepare you for the audit itself.

Single-family housing shows 7.3 percent rise

Statistics released by the Michigan Association of Home Builders (MAHB) showed new single-family housing construction posted a 7.3 percent gain over the 12-month period ending December 31, 1987, over the same period in 1986.

Ann Arbor builder Harry Durbin, president of the 6,500 member trade association representing the housing industry in Michigan, reported that year-end totals for single-family construction showed 28,948 units as compared with a total of 26,973 in 1986.

"Although the 7.3 percent increase in 1987 was not as dramatic as the increases of 20 percent and 25 percent in 1984 and 1985, it was a good indication of the continued prosperity in Michigan," said Durbin. "Lower interest rates definitely were the key factor in continuing the recovery in Michigan housing since the depression of the industry in 1982."

While single-family construction continued its upswing, the multi-family construction side showed its first decline since 1982. Construction of multi-family units finished 1987 at a total of 17,292 — down 10.3 percent from 1986 totals of 19,281.

The decline in multi-family starts was anticipated by the MAHB as the implications of federal tax reform removed the investor incentives from multi-family projects.

Builder members of the statewide Association continued to be optimistic in their projections for 1988. There is a general feeling that interest rates will continue to hold in their present range for most of 1988, and MAHB is projecting a 5 percent increase in single-family construction over 1987 totals which would mean just over 30,000 units being put up in the state.

"Durbin and other state officers are aware of national projections which call for a general 5 percent drop in 1988 starts, but Durbin believes that 'national statistics simply do not account for regional trends or recovery periods like we are experiencing in Michigan.'"

BBB report examines home shopping services

Home shopping services, which allow consumers to order goods at home after viewing them on television, is the subject of a new report published by the Better Business Bureau.

Home shopping services, also known as electronic merchandising or video shopping, are a combination of advertising, game show and call-in talk show which have changed people from passive to active television viewers.

The Better Business Bureau (BBB) report gives an overview of this industry and discusses the market potential, the kinds of products offered, the mechanism of order fulfillment, customer experience based on Better Business Bureau complaint data, the absence of regulations and the pricing policies of the various companies.

BBB research has shown the advertised savings claims of the shows were generally found to be less than claimed when compared to the prices for the same items in the local stores checked. The report indicates that home shopping prices are sometimes bargains but are more often competitive with the local market.

For a copy of this report send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Better Business Bureau, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226. Attn: PR — Home Shopping Services.

New limousine service offers 'touch of class'

"Our drivers are professional people, just as professional as, for instance, a corporate pilot. They are educated, fastidious and safe — the care of the passenger is first and foremost in their minds."

Who uses a limousine service such as Spirit Limousine?

According to Bustamante, just about anyone wanting to be treated like a dignitary, if only for an evening. That includes real VIPs.

"We will be providing the transportation for Presidential candidate Pat Robertson when he is in town," Bustamante reported.

At the other end of the spectrum, the limousine has also been hired by a father for the birthday party of his three-year-old son. "They just wanted to ride around and watch movies on the VCR," Bustamante smiles.

In addition to the typical wedding parties, prom-goers and frequent flyers, Spirit Limousine is making a concerted effort to cater to the special needs of the corporate executive. "While we are serving an individual or a company," Bustamante explains, "we represent ourselves as their employee."

For airport service, this includes meeting the client at the gate, carrying baggage and providing a safe, relaxing transition to hotel or office.

A limousine offers the corporate individual a highly prized business commodity — privacy. Whether the businessperson wants to hold a small meeting in the limo or simply relax in solitude, he or she can do so, uninterrupted by telephone calls or insistent co-workers.

"Our customers get more than they pay for," Bustamante assures, including the rapid attention of passers by. However, Bustamante believes "gawkers are less of a problem than an expectation. You are the celebrity."

Edison opens office in Novi Town Center

To make Detroit Edison products and services more accessible to Oakland County residents, the utility company has opened a new customer office in the Novi Town Center at 43292 Eleven Mile.

"Our new locations are in areas with high consumer traffic," said Maurice L. Vermeulen, Detroit Edison's Oakland Division manager. "Customers now will find it easier to get information on products such as security lighting, helpful tips on how to make their lives more comfortable with electric energy and assistance with their monthly statements."

"In addition, we are allocating more employees to help Oakland customers who call Detroit Edison." More than twice as many Oakland County customers call the utility compared to those who visit customer offices.

With the new location providing expanded service, the Milford, Lincoln Center (Oak Park) and Rochester customer offices have been closed.

More than 450,000 customer visits are made to Detroit Edison's Oakland County customer offices every year. The new Novi office, along with offices in Birmingham, Pontiac and Royal Oak, will serve Oakland County's 1.1 million residents. Business hours for all customer offices are 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Detroit Edison's Oakland County customer offices now include:

□ Novi Town Center Regional Customer Office at 43292 Eleven Mile in the Novi Town Center at Grand River and Novi Roads.

□ Birmingham Customer Office at 175 West Merrill adjacent to Shain Park.

□ Royal Oak Customer Office at 303 South Williams (Corner of Third and Williams).

□ Pontiac Oakland Pointe Regional Customer Office at 490 North Telegraph in the Oakland Pointe Shopping Center at Telegraph and Elizabeth Lake Roads.

Booklet provides tips on financial planners

In the past two decades, financial planning has evolved into a multi-billion dollar industry with thousands of advisors who plan and manage investors' finances.

To help consumers select a reputable financial planner who meets their needs, the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan has released a booklet titled "Tips on Financial Planners."

The booklet is the latest in the BBB's Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest. Copies of the new booklet can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the BBB at 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226.

"Consumers should not take the process of looking for a financial planner lightly," said Detroit BBB President Thomas F. Ashcraft.

"The booklet gives advice on what to look for and what to avoid when selecting a financial planner, including a list of questions the consumer should ask."

"It also provides a section on the 'red flags' of fraud and abuse," he said.

the fairy godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns. But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of our newspaper! It's like magic the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way the fairy godmother makes all her magic, too!

EXOTIC EATS

Pass the lion, please . . .

Thinking up something new and different to fix for dinner every night isn't easy, is it?

In fact, it's downright hard coming up with unusual and exciting fare to please the particular palates of the pernicious pirates who congregate around the table every night, clamoring to be fed.

Tell the truth now. Have you ever harbored a secret fantasy to yell out, "Fried rattlesnake," when the raucous rustlers want to know what's roasting in the chuck wagon?

Ever wanted to bellow, "Pot Roast of Lion," when all the "big game hunters" bivouac around the campfire after a busy day of forging their way through the suburban jungle?

If the answer to any of those questions is "yes," we've got fabulous news. Right here — in your own hometown newspaper — are the recipes which will make your fantasies come true.

Great recipes. Exotic recipes. Recipes provided by the culinary staffs at the Sheraton Oaks and Novi Hilton.

Recipes for pot roast of lion, alligator soup, marinated octopus and fried rattlesnake.

Pot Roast of Lion

Executive Chef David Wilson and the culinary staff at the Novi Hilton provided this recipe for Pot Roast of Lion.

*1/4 cup vegetable oil
1/4 cup flour
3-5 lbs. semi-boneless lion shoulder roast
1 1/2 lbs. battiane of carrots
1 1/2 lbs. battiane of celery
8 small potatoes, peeled
2 medium onion slices
1 tbsp. thyme leaves
1 tsp. cracked black pepper
3 medium bay leaves
1 tsp. rosemary
1 1/2 gallons water
3 oz. paste chicken base (one small jar bouillon cubes)
4 oz. dry sherry wine*

Coat lion roast with oil very lightly, then sprinkle with flour. Place remaining oil in a heavy skillet and heat. Brown roast evenly on both sides.

Remove roast from skillet and place in roasting pan.

Place spice into skillet that was used to brown off roast and heat. Deglaze pan by pouring in water and letting it boil. Dissolve bouillon cubes in water.

Pour over meat. Add sherry and cover. Cook in 350 degree oven until tender. Add vegetables and let cook an additional few minutes until vegetables are tender.

Remove meat and vegetables from liquid. Pour liquid into heavy sauce pan and let it cook down until approximately one-third of the liquid has evaporated.

Thicken liquid with roux to desired thickness.

Serve thinly sliced with vegetable and potatoes and sherry sauce.

Roux: A thickening agent made with butter and flour, then cooked slowly until golden brown. Mix one cup melted butter and 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour together thoroughly and cook on stove top in heavy bottom pot until golden brown, stirring constantly.

Oh joyous day and hallelujah. Read on, oh harried meal-maker. And when the assembled tribe of braves and squaws pow-wows in front of plates filled with roast tenderloin of lion, just remember where you read 'em.

Oriental Squid Salad

This recipe for Oriental squid salad is used as an appetizer, says Executive Chef Yezbeck. The dish has an Oriental flair.

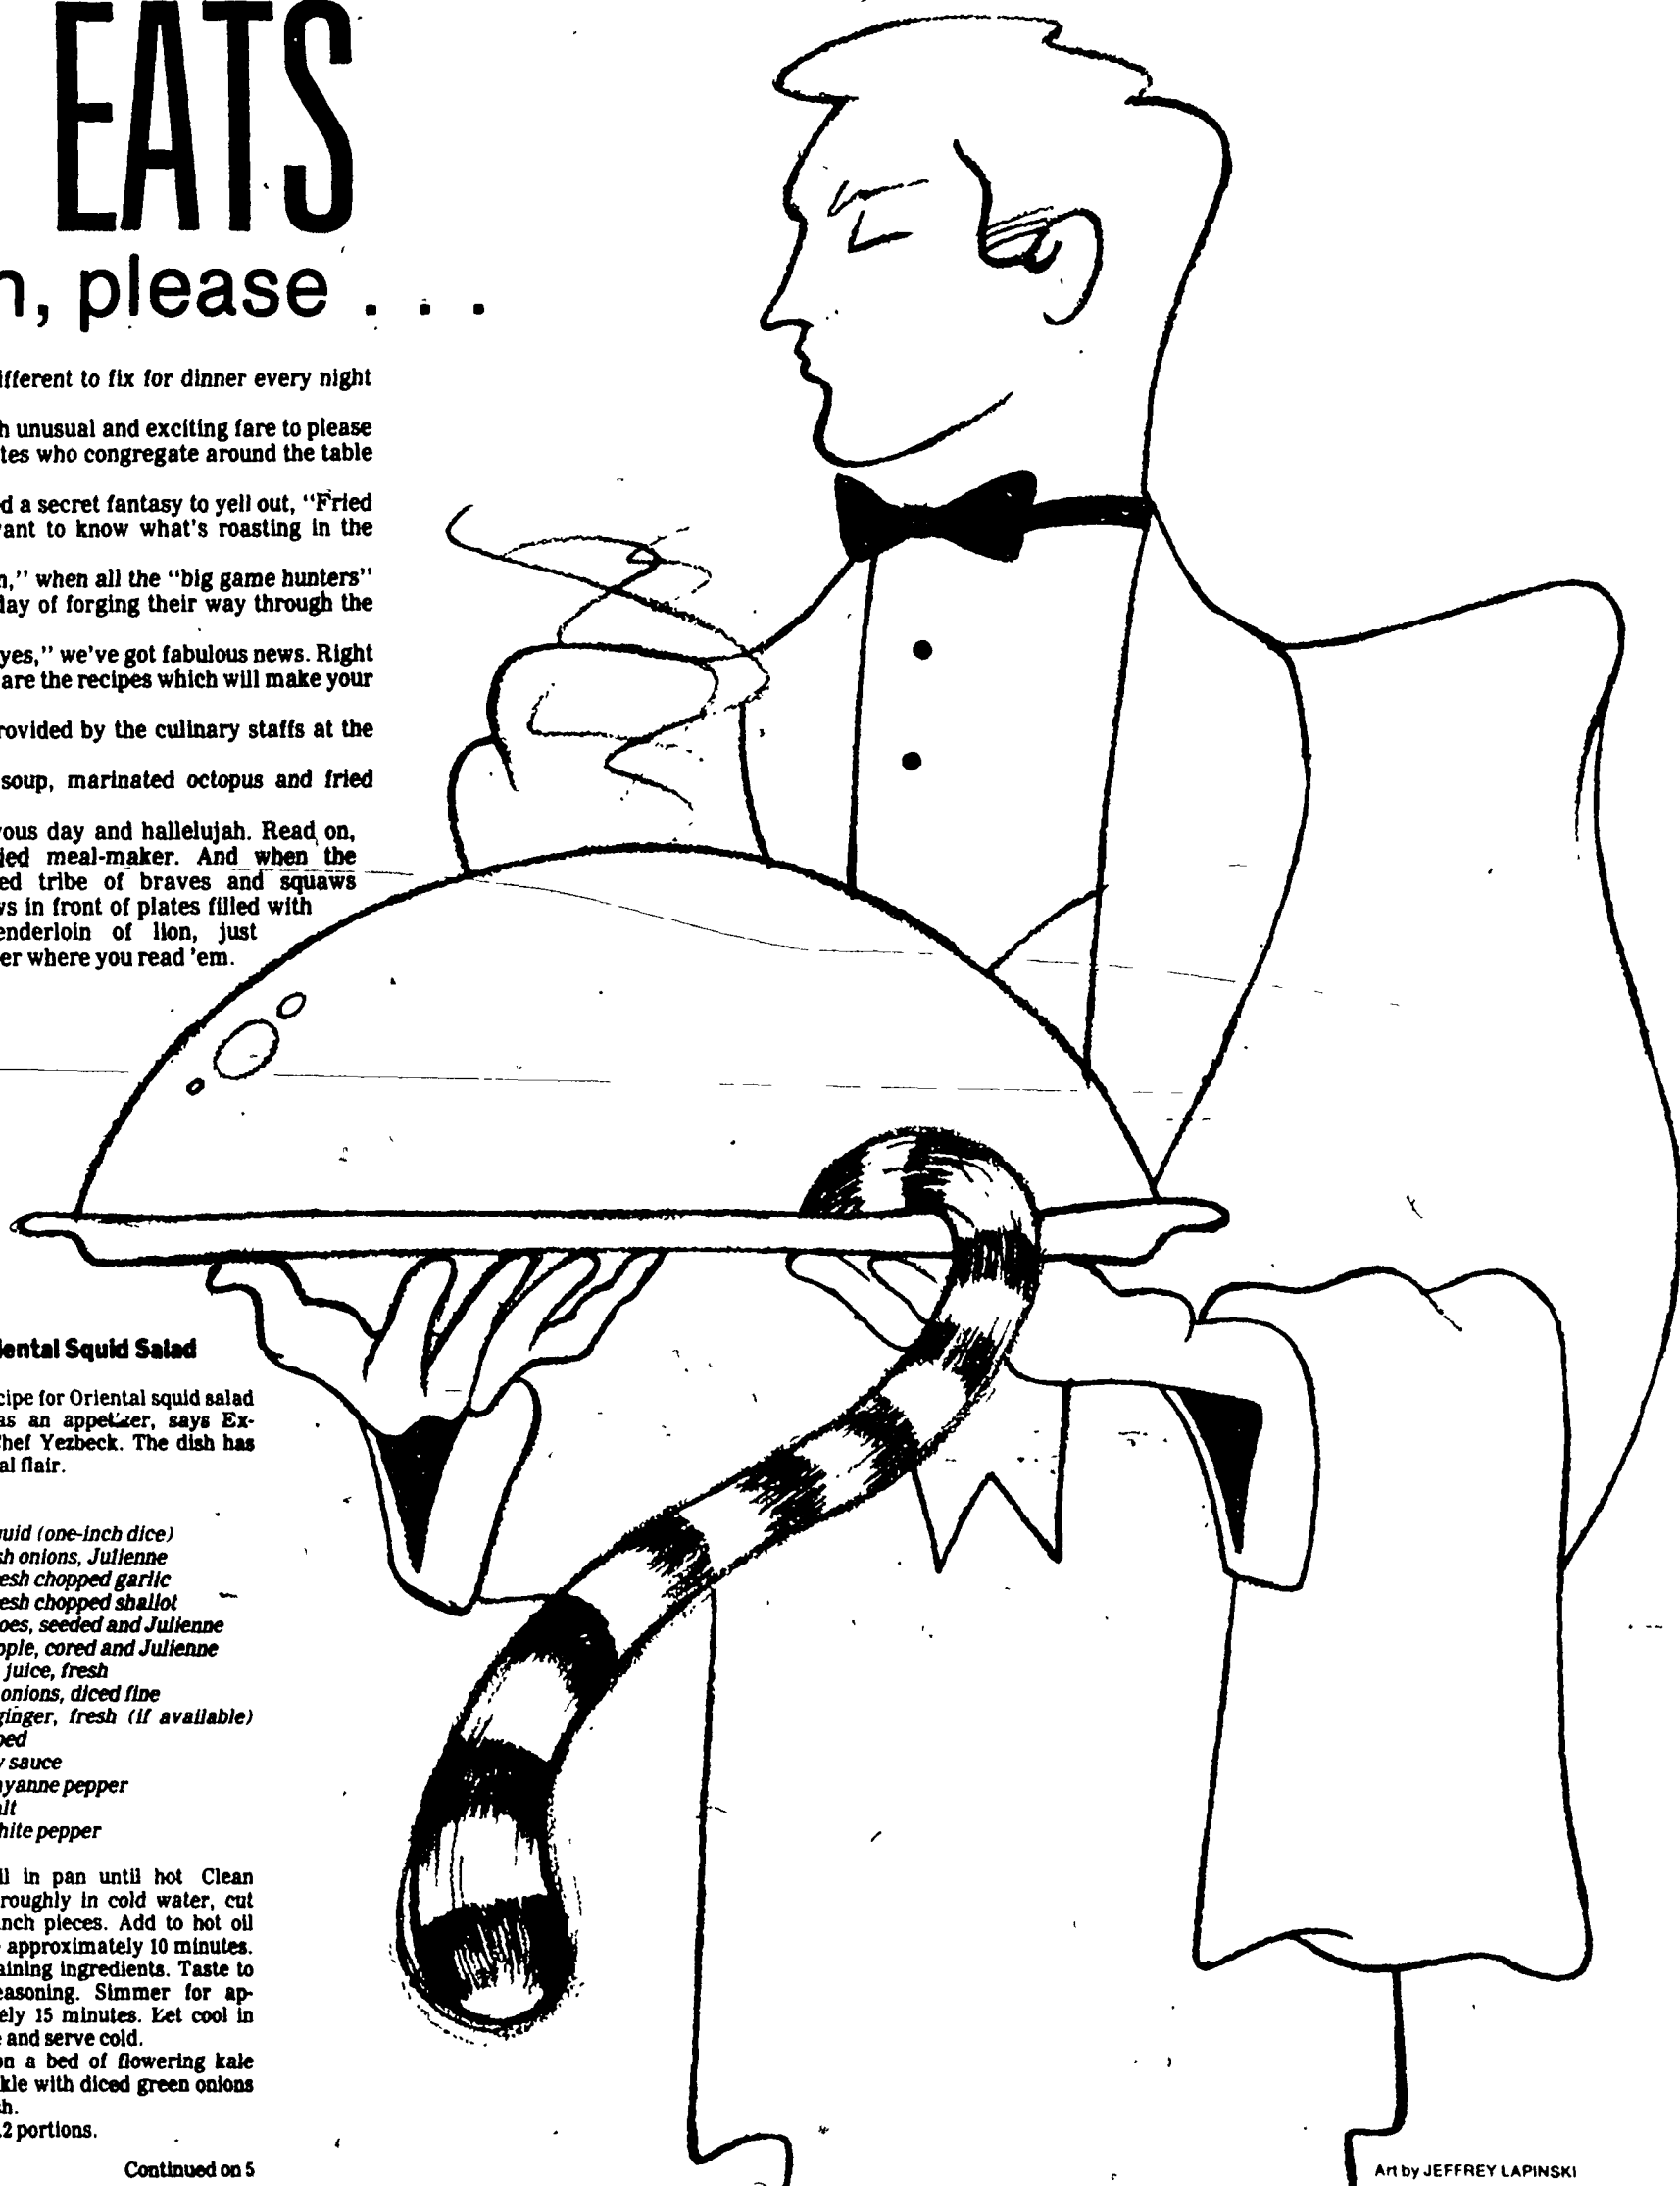

*4 oz. oil
5 lbs. squid (one-inch dice)
2 spanish onions, Julienne
2 lbs. fresh chopped garlic
2 lbs. fresh chopped shallot
2 tomatoes, seeded and Julienne
1 pineapple, cored and Julienne
2 lemon juice, fresh
6 green onions, diced fine
1 lbs. ginger, fresh (if available) and chopped
1 oz. soy sauce
1 lbs. cayenne pepper
1 lbs. salt
1 lbs. white pepper*

Heat oil in pan until hot. Clean squid thoroughly in cold water, cut into one-inch pieces. Add to hot oil and saute approximately 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Taste to adjust seasoning. Simmer for approximately 15 minutes. Let cool in marinade and serve cold.

Serve on a bed of flowering kale and sprinkle with diced green onions for garnish.

Yields 12 portions.

Shopping safari for lion meat

You've made up your mind. It's going to be alligator soup and roast lion for supper.

You've got all the ingredients — except for the alligator and lion meat, of course. So you hop in the car, head for your favorite meat market and tell the butcher you need a couple pounds of lion and alligator meat.

Here's a warning — Expect to get a funny look from the man standing behind the counter of ham, chicken and pot roast.

Galen Anderson of Andy's Meat Hut and Jack Lapides of Jack's Meat Market reported that they don't usually carry squid or octopus. But, they added, they can get it for you without any problem if given a couple days notice.

They also agreed that lion, alligator and rattlesnake pose a somewhat larger problem, however.

But you can get lion, alligator and rattlesnake — and numerous other exotic meats — if you only know where to look.

To find the answer all you have to do is contact David Wilson, executive chef at the Novi Hilton, or Joseph Yezbeck, executive chef at the Sheraton Oaks.

Wilson: 'You can get just about anything if you know where to look. I can get zebra, beaver, elk, moose, even peacock. Just about anything as long as it's not an endangered species.'

Both men reported that exotic meats have to be purchased through specialty suppliers. And both men also agreed that they would be happy to assist anyone who would like to acquire exotic meats.

"You can get just about anything if you know where to look," said Wilson, who offered a series of exotic meals at the Hilton earlier this year.

"I can get zebra, beaver, elk, moose, even peacock. Just about anything as long as it's not an endangered species."

Yezbeck concurred: "You name it and it's available," he said. "Lion, hippopotamus, wild boar, Eels from France."

Although Wilson and Yezbeck said they'd be happy to help people acquire specialty meats, it isn't necessary to go through them to get something special for the dinner table.

One of the many companies across the country which specializes in exotic game is Polarica Game Meats and Poultry, located in San Francisco, California.

Scott Peterson, an account executive with the company, said Polarica is a Swedish company with outlets in several cities around the world.

"We do more than specialize in exotic meats," said Peterson. "We also specialize in exotic fruits and vegetables. For example, we can get berries which are quite a delicacy from our farms in northern Sweden and the Arctic Circle. We don't get very many requests that we can't handle."

Where does the meat come from? Aren't companies like Polarica promoting the slaughter of wild animals in Africa and other parts of the world to appease the palates of food-conscious Americans?

Definitely not, according to Peterson. "Take lion, for example," he said. "Our company has its own lion farm in Illinois. Both lion and zebra are raised on our own farms, and we also have what you might call farms for things like alligator and turtle."

In Our Town

Spring show dates set

By JEAN DAY

Along with the first spring thaw come announcements for upcoming arts and crafts and antique shows.

Among the 65 artisans who will be showing their wares at the Handcrafters Unlimited Arts and Craft Show March 25-26 at the Northville Community Center at 303 W. Main are Judy Berlinski and Kay Kehoe of Northville. Berlinski is known for her clay groupings while Kehoe will show "school spirit" items.

Show sponsor Sue Smith notes that variety is ensured by having only three artisans in a craft category. This year the show will have out of state artisans.

The annual spring antique show at the Northville Community Center sponsored by Helen Meisel is upcoming March 18-20.

Northville residents Linda Maxfield, Jeannette Hagedorn and Kay Kehoe will be participants in Crafter's Corner, the spring craft show of Catholic Central Mothers' Club, being held from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, March 19, at Catholic Central High School, 14200 Breakfast Drive, between Beech Daly and Inkster off Lyndon in Redford.

Maxfield is known for her handmade monogrammed bags, luggage and sweatshirts. Hagedorn will be showing machine knitted sweaters and vests. Kehoe will be showing small wood novelty articles. Also in the show is Sally Masterson of Novi with jewelry.

Embroidery expert to talk

Japanese embroidery will be the program topic for the March 16 meeting of the Women's Association of First Presbyterian Church of Northville. An indoor picnic starting promptly at 12:30 p.m. at the church will precede the program.

Bea Keeber will speak on her experiences studying the art of embroidery in Japan. She will show slides and samples of Japanese work as well as work of her own.

The speaker has had instruction books published and teaches both Japanese and crewel embroidery in the Farmington, Farmington Hills area. She is married to Willard Keeber and is the mother of five children.

Guests are most welcome at the program for which baby sitting will be provided. Participants are asked to bring a sandwich, cut into four pieces, and a free will offering.

Designers demonstrate ways to bring spring into homes

While it may be a few weeks before signs of spring will be sprouting around doorways, it's possible to "create spring" right now both indoors and out with arrangements that combine fresh flowers and plants with real-looking silk blossoms.

Designers Louise Whittington, Dewey Gardner and Arlene Burkhardt of IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts brought examples of these popular arrangements and demonstrated how to make others at last Friday's meeting of Northville Woman's Club.

The meeting was held in New School Church in Mill Race Historical Village. Members stepped through soft, thawing ground to fill the building.

Whittington began with suggestions of bright baskets or wreaths for both front and back doors and then presented arrangements for every room in a home.

As an alternative door treatment, she showed a straw picture hat with the brim encircled with flowers.

As a contrast to a bright arrangement for an entry or living room, she showed a monochromatic basket arrangement of beige-hued flowers.

"Add companion pieces," she suggested, "to make a grouping with more interest."

To illustrate, she began by placing on a table a basket filled with fresh statice and silk flowers.

"Now we add a garden book and a little watering can to make a grouping."

Next to a silvery-blue painted basket filled with blue flowers, the designer placed a sugar bowl topped with a miniature bird and added pewter candlesticks with bows and a flower at the base of the candles.

"You may use candles for a luncheon because it sets the mood," she said.

Gardner created a dramatic arrangement for a hallway with gladioli, pussy willow branches and dried bird of paradise in a black vase.

"You wouldn't think of black and white expressing spring, but it does," noted Whittington. Gardner pointed out that if the arrangement were to be placed in front of a mirror, it should be designed to include interest in the back.

It was suggested that a dramatic effect could be created with a black vase filled with tulips.

"Scrounge around for a black vase and fill it with three or four French pink tulips," Whittington suggested.

While most people think of Holland in conjunction with tulips, she told the audience of seeing "miles of greenhouses in France."

The designers also like mirrors under arrangements. For an elegant dinner, Whittington suggested a pale pink cloth with three floral arrangements holding candles set along the table, perhaps on mirrors.

The store has a beveled mirror it rents for special occasions, but Gardner said mirrors can be purchased readily at K-mart and other stores.

Showing a simple white peace lily with miniature blossoms, Whittington said it is "very lovely on a glass top coffee table."

Created for a coffee table was an arrangement of fresh goldenrod, dried baby's breath and peach silk roses.

Whittington told the admiring audience that the violets and ivy filling a basket still were in their pots and said they are used this way a great deal.

Decorating the basket handle was a pastel-check bow. She warned that violets need good light and a high phosphorus fertilizer. "If your fertilizer has three numbers on it, the middle number is phosphorus," she said.

In addition to table arrangements in a dining room, Whittington suggested using a wall basket filled with flowers in colors that coordinate with those in a table arrangement.

For a family room, the designers showed a dark wood planter basket with daffodils interspersed with plants and decorated with an Easter rabbit.

For the bedroom and bath, Whittington said to think of color coordinated arrangement for the two rooms. She showed an all silk arrangement in a slim vase, and, for the bath, miniature grapevine wreaths forming a cage for a pretend bird suspended on pink ribbons.

Showing a basket rimmed with silk flowers, she suggested filling it with soap or hand towels for the bathroom.

Perhaps the designers' most dramatic arrangement was created for the kitchen. It was a basket filled with silk vegetables — tall spikes of asparagus, tomatoes, lettuce and onions.

"But it's expensive," Louise Whittington warned. "I think $17 is a lot for a head of lettuce."

Roast Tenderloin of Lion in 'Ambush'

This recipe comes from Executive Chef Joseph Yezbeck and the culinary staff at the Sheraton Oaks. It's a roasted tenderloin of lion with wild mushrooms, onion, bacon and parsley duxelle marinated in white wine, fresh herbs and juniper berries. Served with a sauce of natural juices and garnished with fresh honeycomb.

2-3 lbs. tenderloin of lion
1 ounce wild mushrooms (morel or chanterelle)
1 Spanish onion, peeled and quartered
1/2 lbs. juniper smoked bacon
2 lbs. garlic
2 lbs. shallot
4 oz. butter
2 quarts white wine
1 pint oil
1 oz. cracked black pepper
4 bay leaves
2 oz. brandy
1 oz. parsley, rinse in cold water
1 lbs. salt
1 lbs. white pepper, ground
12 sprigs fresh herbs, including oregano, basil and thyme
1 oz. juniper berries
1 quart game stock
6 pcs. fresh honeycomb

If using dried mushrooms, soak in brandy overnight until soft.

Puree mushrooms, onion, bacon, parsley, garlic, shallot, salt and white pepper in food processor until finely chopped. Heat pan, add butter and saute duxelle for five minutes. Add one quart of white wine and reduce until all liquid is gone. Cool.

Take lion tenderloin and marinate for six hours or overnight in marinade. (Marinade: one quart white wine, oil, fresh herbs, juniper berries, cracked black peppercorn and bay leaf).

Remove tenderloin from marinade. Drain and pat dry. Make lengthwise incision in lion. Add duxelle (cold) to tenderloin. Tie tenderloin with butcher string.

In a saute pan heat two ounces of butter until clear. Season tenderloin with salt and pepper. Sear tenderloin in pan on all sides until brown. Remove from pan. Put tenderloin in 350 degree oven and cook until medium rare or 120 degree internal temperature.

In saute pan (still hot) deglaze pan with brandy until reduced by one half. Add game stock and simmer until reduced by half. Taste and adjust seasoning.

To serve: Slice tenderloin in half-inch slices and fan on plate. Pour jus over lion and serve. Garnish with fresh honeycomb around fanned tenderloin. Garnish plate with flowering kale.

Creole Alligator Soup Piquante

Executive Chef Wilson and the Novi Hilton staff provided this recipe for Creole Alligator Soup Piquante.

1/4 cup whole butter
1/2 cup fresh chopped garlic
3 cups finely chopped onions
2 cups finely chopped bell peppers
1 tsp rosemary leaves
1 tsp thyme leaves
3 large bay leaves
4 lbs. ground alligator tail meat
2 1/2 gallons water
1/2 cup chicken base paste (one small jar bouillon cubes)
2 1/2 cups tomato puree
8 oz. Cajun power garlic sauce

In a three-gallon pot heat butter and sautee garlic, onions, bell peppers, rosemary, thyme and bay leaves over medium heat until vegetables begin to turn clear.

Add alligator meat and saute until light and tender.

Add water and small jar of chicken bouillon cubes. Bring to a boil. Add tomato puree and Cajun power sauce.

Reduce heat and simmer to desired consistency.

If you like, you may thicken slightly with roux.

Serve with sour cream and horse radish.

Roux: A thickening agent made with butter and flour, then cooked slowly until golden brown. Mix one cup melted butter and 2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour together thoroughly and cook on stove top in heavy bottom pot until golden brown, stirring constantly.

Marinated Octopus

As unusual as it sounds, octopus is a delicious dish, according to Executive Chef Yezbeck. Marinating the octopus helps to tenderize and enrich the flavor. He says it is nice to serve as an appetizer before an entrée.

5 lbs. octopus

Marinade:

2 quarts oil
1 1/2 pints red wine vinegar
2 lemon juice — fresh lemons
2 lbs. garlic, fresh and chopped fine
2 lbs. shallots, fresh and chopped fine
2 pints white wine
1/2 tsp. tabasco sauce
1 tsp. oregano
1 tsp. basil
1 tsp. thyme
1 tsp. white wine Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. grey poupon mustard
1 lbs. black pepper
2 tsp. salt
1 onion, diced fine
4 bay leaves
1 tsp. white pepper

Rinse octopus (remove head, using only tentacles) in cold water. Cut in half-inch slices. Put octopus in sauce pan, cover with water, add juice of one lemon, one pint of white wine, four bay leaves, salt and white pepper. Bring to a boil and remove from heat. Let cool in poaching liquid.

Mix all ingredients for marinade. Taste to adjust seasoning. Drain water from octopus. Place in bowl and cover with marinade. Let marinade over night.

Serve over bed of flowering kale.

Stop! In the name of history

By BOB NEEDHAM

The building, a two-story house on West Grand Boulevard in Detroit, was not built to be a museum. It wasn't built to be a recording studio, either, but that didn't stop the Hitsville U.S.A. building — once the home of Motown Records, now the site of the Motown Historical Museum — from becoming one of the most famous places in the pop music world.

The Hitsville U.S.A. sign still sits on the front of the building, although no one has recorded a hit there for 15 years. In its day as the center of Motown, the house saw an incredible string of hits. The atmosphere from those days is still intact, and the house-turned-museum attracts visitors from as far away as Great Britain and Japan.

Berry Gordy Jr. bought the house in 1959, when he was a songwriter with ambitions of managing singers, museum director Esther Gordy Edwards recalled in a recent interview. Gordy was working with Marvin Johnson and Smokey Robinson at the time. "When Smokey's contract ran out, he said (to Gordy), 'Hey, man, why don't you go into business for yourself?' We're not making any money," Edwards said.

So Gordy founded the company which would eventually become the Motown empire, and headquartered his business in the house on the Boulevard. Eventually the company would move into seven more houses on the street, and into a 10-story building on Woodward Avenue, and finally to Los Angeles.

And in spite of the tremendous success the company has enjoyed — marked by Gordy's recent induction into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, along with several Motown recording artists — "They're still trying to get the same sound" as they had in the small studio at Hitsville U.S.A., Edwards said.

A visitor to the Motown Historical Museum first sees the gold and platinum records on the walls — honors for Stevie Wonder, the Supremes, Marvin Gaye, the Temptations, and many other Motown artists. The walls also hold newspaper articles and special honors, testimonials to the achievements reached in the building.

At the back of the first floor, the original Motown recording studio sits just as it did when the company moved to L.A., Edwards said. A small control room still holds an outdated eight-track mixer, modified by Motown technicians from a three-track machine.

A Steinway piano holds handwritten sheet music, while behind it is a toy piano actually used on a record or two.

Upstairs, the exhibits are organized into areas for the company's three functions: record manufacturing, music publishing and personal management.

The visitor finds more gold and platinum records, photographs of Motown superstars and non-stars, and collections of covers from early and rare Motown albums. There is also plenty of sheet music, posters, and memorabilia from the company's famous musical revues. Souvenirs are available at a gift counter.

As Edwards — who managed some of the early Motown artists, and later ran the company's foreign operations — describes it, the idea of a Motown museum gradually evolved after the company packed up for the west coast.

All throughout the label's history, Hitsville U.S.A. attracted visitors. Edwards said that the lead singer of Herman's Hermits once spent the night in the lobby, listening to an overnight recording session, because the door to the studio was locked.

But after the company left, the visitors kept coming. Edwards is a sort of historian for the company, and she had held onto a lot of early material. So it was a natural progression to put things out for people to see, she explained.

"This little Hitsville U.S.A. house is known around the world," Edwards said. Not too long ago, a couple of British visitors spent three days at Hitsville.

"They just wanted to bask in the atmosphere of Tamla/Motown," Edwards said. Other visitors have included people like Elvis Costello and the Clash.

In a special ceremony last December, a Michigan Historical Marker went up at the Hitsville site. "That kind of sanctioned the worth of the museum as a historic site," Edwards said.

"It's still evolving," she continued, saying that the museum might eventually expand into some of the other houses along Grand Boulevard.

"We're trying to get a master plan of what our goals and directions will be for the next five years," Edwards said.

"The museum is not a corporation project. It's a labor of love," Edwards said.

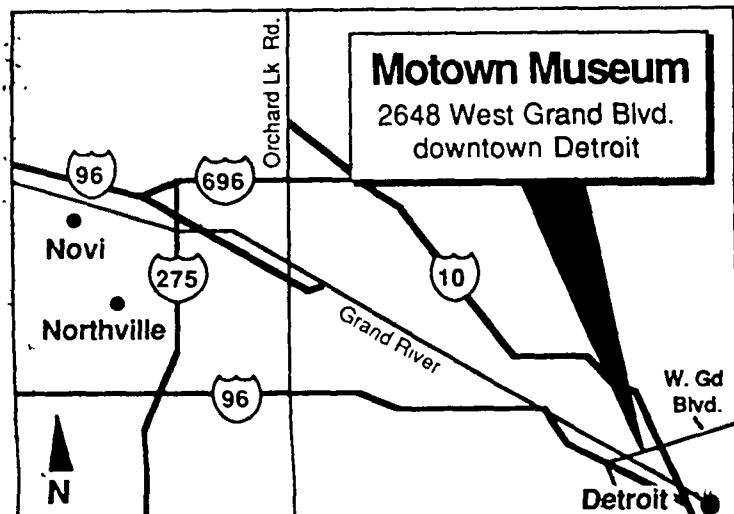

Obviously, the museum project, just like the company, is close to her heart.

"(Motown) wasn't by accident. It was a business built on a family concept," she said. "They were not working for money. They were working for the love of what they were doing. (Often), if a person works for the love of what they're doing, rather than the money they're making, they get both."

Edwards knows well the importance of Motown, its music and its history.

"It not only entertains, but it motivates and educates and brings about a better understanding," she said. "And it proves that young people from the inner cities can reach their full potential in life with just a little help and understanding."

The Motown Historical Museum is located at 2648 West Grand Boulevard in Detroit, a few blocks west of and across the street from the Fisher Building. Admission is $2. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The museum's phone number is 867-0991.

Gymnasts score 121.40; place 5th at WLAA meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville gymnasts are now consistently scoring in the 120s and garnering more and more respect along the way, but it still isn't enough to pull to team up to the level of the Western Lakes Activities Association elite.

If there was ever any doubt, the Mustangs (6-3 overall) found out that fact on March 3 at the conference meet at North Farmington. While the host Raiders took first-place honors with a score of 132.9, Northville registered a solid 121.40 but had to settle for fifth place in the nine-team event. The locals also finished behind Plymouth Canton (131.25), Plymouth Salem (127.8) and Westland John Glenn (126.5).

"I was hoping to surprise a few teams and sneak in with third or fourth place, but I wasn't disappointed," Mustang Coach Michelle Charniga said. "To score 121 in the league championship meet isn't bad at all. It was actually pretty good when you consider that we scored pretty bad in the parallel bars and mediocre in the balance beam."

Northville opened the competition in impressive fashion by scoring 31.45 points in vault. Juniors Wendy Beach and Yvonne Beebe tied for team-scoring honors with identical 8.1 scores and ended up placing 11th overall. The other Mustang performers included Lee LaChance (7.75), Robyn Chatman (7.5) and Becky Carney (7.45).

Beach was outstanding in the bars, but the rest of her teammates had some problems. Charniga was hoping for a team score at or above the 30 mark, so the resulting 28.65 score was a disappointment. Beach's 8.65 effort was good for third place overall, but the next highest score for Northville was Beebe's 7.55. LaChance had no falls in her routine but the judges gave her a surprisingly low 6.9. The remaining performers were Megan Graham (5.55) and Kathy Abraham (5.2).

"Our bars score was low but Lee had no falls and I thought her score was outrageous," Charniga said. "We have to remember that these are only high school kids. The judges were much too picky."

A 29.1 point total in the balance beam was actually one of the better scores for the team so far this season, but it didn't help the situation much as opponents like Salem and Glenn were pulling away. Beebe was 11th overall with a 7.85 effort, but was the only Mustang gymnast to place in the top 12. Beach (7.35) and LaChance (7.0) weren't at their best — Graham (6.9) Karen Pyle (6.85) also competed.

Northville saved the best for last, however. In the floor exercise, the Mustangs exploded for 32.2 points, bailing themselves out of what could have been a disappointing final point total for the day. Beach was again the team's top performer with an 8.4 — good for 11th overall. She was followed by LaChance (8.1), Chatman (7.85) Tracie Surdub (7.85) and Pyle (7.65).

"I was worried that we wouldn't get up to 120 for the meet after our low score on bars," Charniga said. "But our scores in the floor exercise were great."

In the hotly contested all-around competition, Beach placed ninth with a 32.5 total — just 1.8 out of second place. LaChance didn't have a stellar outing, but still placed 15th in the overall with a 29.75.

"If Wendy wouldn't have struggled in the beam and had those two falls, she would have been second," Charniga predicted. "That shows how close the all-around was."

For the second season in a row, Northville has qualified as a team for the Michigan High School Athletic Association Class A regional. It will be held this year on March 12 at Hillsdale and will feature top-notch teams from hotbed gymnastics areas like Jackson, Ann Arbor and Plymouth. To move onto the state championships, a gymnast must place in the top eight in the four events (top six in the all-around). Charniga said she feels that Beach has a good chance to qualify in any or all events and that LaChance could qualify in floor exercise, vault and bars.

"We want to really clean up the routines for the regionals," Charniga explained. "Wendy has never made it to the state meet, so that is obviously one of her goals and Lee has a chance too. There will be super gymnasts there so it won't be easy. We have a lot of work ahead of us."

Canton eliminates NHS cagers, 74-59

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Some losses are easier to take than others.

Northville Coach Tim Lutes doesn't like to lose any games, but he particularly dislikes to lose the games in which his team doesn't play hard.

Last week the Mustangs didn't play hard and dropped a Western Lakes Activities Association loser's bracket game on March 5 against Livonia Stevenson. The Spartans led the whole game and cruised to an easy, 66-49, triumph.

The Mustangs came back two days later in the first round of the Michigan High School Athletic Association district tournament against Plymouth Canton. While Northville played very hard in front of the home crowd, the final outcome was a 74-59 loss. The reaction from the coach was different.

"It (the game against Canton) was nice because we played hard," Lutes said. "The kids didn't quit — they really wanted to win. We didn't have the same kind of intensity against Stevenson."

"I told them we had a chance and they believed it. With just a few converted plays here and there, we could have been close at the end."

The Chiefs seemed to take Northville lightly, and in the early going, the Mustangs took control of the boards and were very stingy on defense. Canton went scoreless for the first three minutes of the game, but Northville didn't capitalize.

"We came out and played very good defense, but we didn't score," Lutes said. "We could have been ahead 8-0 and just didn't finish off our scoring opportunities."

The Chiefs finally broke the scoreless drought, registered the game's first six points and proceeded to increase the lead to 17-6 after one quarter.

"It was nice because we played hard — the kids didn't quit — they really wanted to win. (They) knew they played hard and they knew they were in the ball game."

— Tim Lutes
Mustang Basketball Coach

A scoring spurt by the Mustangs in the first six minutes of the second cut the lead to four, 27-23, but Canton rallied just before the half and pushed the margin back into double figures at intermission.

Another run in the third cut it Canton's lead to 10 but Northville then proceeded to turn the ball over three straight times. An 8-0 run to start the final stanza again shaved the lead back to 10 with five minutes left, but a three-pointer by Canton and another costly turnover by the Mustangs ended the threat. The Chiefs won it by 15.

"We played some good basketball in spurts — but that inconsistency has been the same thing that's plagued us all year," Lutes said. "And I don't want to take anything away from Canton — they are a fine team. They crashed the boards in the second, third and fourth quarters and made the big plays when they had too."

"But my kids knew they played hard and they knew they were in the ball game."

Junior Chris House led Northville with 14 points and Heath Myers came off the bench and chipped in 13.

The loss to Stevenson left a bad taste in Lutes's mouth because he didn't feel the team showed up ready to play. For short spans, the Mustangs were able to stay with the Spartans (6-13), but in a flash, Stevenson would put on the spurt and increase the lead. It eventually added up.

"We didn't play well at all — we came out flat," Lutes said. "The kids didn't feel that the game was very important. (Stevenson) dominated the rebounding and we just didn't play aggressive or physical enough to get anything done on the inside. On defense, we didn't do a good job."

Northville kept it close in the first quarter by trading baskets, but it was downhill from there. House — the Mustangs' leading rebounder and scorer — failed to grab a single rebound and scored a season-low four points. Ron McDonald netted 12 while Derek Osborn and Scott Stephens added nine each for Northville.

"The chemistry has never been good — we've struggled with it all year," Lutes said. "We are not a team with an abundance of talent, so to win we need to give extra and we don't always do it. We don't play well all the time and that makes it very difficult to overcome."

MHSAA reports record spectator turnouts

With record-setting numbers being turned in at the finals of boys soccer and the semifinal level of the football playoffs, Michigan High School Athletic Association fall championships saw an increase in spectator attendance.

A total of 347,599 fans attended all levels of tournament competition where admission was charged. Those sports are: girls basketball, cross country, football, boys soccer and girls swimming. Other fall sports sponsored by the MHSAA are boys golf and girls tennis.

Football enjoyed its greatest success since the playoffs field was expanded to 64 teams in 1985, with 165,980 spectators — a figure which included a semi-final attendance of 21,715 — the highest since the MHSAA began keeping records in 1962. The old playoff attendance mark was 165,475 in 1986, when a record 53,904 fans attended the finals at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Boys soccer continued its growth in spectator appeal, with a record 14,331 fans attending the four levels of that tournament, topping the '86 mark of 14,086, the first year district tournaments were held. This fall's finals attendance figure of 3,194 eclipsed the 1986 record of 2,888.

Girls basketball figures show that 160,808 fans attended that tournament at all levels and the total of 111,145 fans at district sites and 33,529 at regionals was up from 1986.

The cross country competition attracted 3,681 fans and the girls swimming and diving preliminaries and finals attracted 2,819 spectators.

"We're pleased to see that the fan appeal of high school championships is experiencing overall growth," said John E. Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA. "Weather and pairings often attract attendance, but the interest has remained good over time and we expect fine followings at winter events."

The most popular high school sporting event in the state — the MHSAA's annual boys basketball tournament — got under way March 7 at 125 centers across the state, including Northville.

The tournament annually produces hoards of magic moments and culminates on March 25 with the semifinals at Jenison Fieldhouse in East Lansing, and the following day, with the finals at Crysler Arena in Ann Arbor.

"It's magic in the respect that so many teams get a chance to start anew and seize that opportunity to

Spikers' season ends with loss to powerful Ladywood

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Like an actor who doesn't want to leave the stage, the stubborn Northville volleyballers refused to bow out in a hurry of the Michigan High School Athletic Association district playoffs.

With top-notch teams, like Livonia Ladywood and hosting Walled Lake Central, in the district, the Mustangs would have needed nearly a miracle to advance to the regionals, but coach Paul Osborn and his team weren't about to give up.

Northville advanced to the semifinals with a first-round victory over a good South Lyon squad on March 5, but then had to face state-ranked Ladywood several hours later. The Mustangs fell in two games, but put up a valiant battle in game two. The loss ended the Mustangs' 1987-88 season, but the team has a respectable 16-13 overall record including tournament play.

Northville rebounded from a mediocre first game to beat South Lyon 12-15, 15-9, 15-6. The Lions had beaten Novi earlier in the week in pre-district action to earn a berth in the tournament.

Behind the hitting of senior Julie Howell, South Lyon jumped out to a 13-4 lead in the first game. In the early going, the Mustangs just didn't seem ready to play. But senior Denise Akroush sparked the team with seven serving aces in a row to get Northville back into contention. The heroics were just a hint of what was to come.

"(Akroush) was tough," South Lyon Coach Ed Baldwin said. "That run of seven gave her the confidence and she really hurt us after that."

The Mustangs fell too far behind too early and dropped a close first game, but things started out differently in game two. Akroush continued her serving assault by scoring five straight points to start the game. And even though South Lyon came back, Northville salted away the game by matching the Lions point for point the rest of the way.

Akroush ended any South Lyon hopes in game three by again serving for the game's first five points. It seemed to take the spirit out of the Lions and the Mustangs cruised to a match-clinching victory.

"Akroush was fantastic," Osborn said. "She took over the match. I'll bet she scored more points in the three games with her serve than our whole team did hitting the ball." (South Lyon) had a hard time returning it and by the third game, it had them down on themselves. It was almost as if they gave up trying to return her serves."

"(Julie) Howell is their big gun and we knew if we could shut her down hitting-wise, we'd have a chance," Osborn said. "That's what we did in the second and third games."

For the match, Akroush was good on 97 percent on her serves and had an amazing 15 aces. As a team, Northville was successful 74 percent of the time on serve reception, 94 percent on setting and 78 percent on hitting.

Following a 90-minute rest, the Mustangs fell to Ladywood 1-15, 11-15. The first game wasn't close at all, but Northville did come back to give the top-ranked team in Wayne County some problems.

"We were there, but we couldn't play with them the whole match," Osborn said. "They are an excellent team — I wish we could compete with a team of their caliber. In the first game, they picked us apart."

Mental errors and the inability to adjust to Ladywood's attack made for a very lopsided score in game one. But game two was much closer, and again Akroush was one of the main reasons. She served for the first five points to give the Mustangs an early lead, but Ladywood rebounded to score nine straight and go ahead, 9-5. Northville regained the lead at 11-9, but Ladywood closed out the match, scoring the final six points.

"We gave them a battle," Osborn said. "Of their 15 points, they hit seven in an area I call the power alley. We just didn't adjust well enough."

For the match, Northville set at an 87 percent rate, but the Mustangs' numbers dropped in the serve reception (79 percent) and hitting (70 percent) areas.

"I felt good that we went to the semifinals and didn't bow out in the first match," Osborn said.

Tankers settle for 5th at WLAA swim meet

Northville swimming Coach Mark Heiden may be new to this area, but that doesn't mean he can't correctly predict what will happen at the Western Lakes Activities Association swim meet.

Heading into last week's conference meet March 2, Heiden predicted his Mustangs would place somewhere between third and fifth at the 12-team event held at Plymouth Salem. And although he would have preferred third or fourth, Northville did place fifth with 100 points, and Heiden was satisfied with his team's performance.

"I was hoping for higher, but everyone on the team did well, so I am not disappointed," he said. "We had some real nice time drops, especially in the preliminaries, and that is what you want to see in a meet of this caliber."

The WLAA is recognized around the state as one of the premier swimming conferences, so Heiden wasn't about to complain about the effort — especially with the tremendous strides the team has shown this season. A year ago, the Mustangs placed 10th overall and scored just 44 points.

Salem took first-place honors in the meet, but only two Western Division rivals — Plymouth Canton and Farmington Harrison — managed to top Northville. Heading into the final relay, the Mustangs trailed Harrison, 94-82, and had an outside chance of ridding the Hawks for fourth, but the Hawks' top seeded 400-yard freestyle squad placed second while Northville's combo could only manage a sixth-place finish.

The star of the meet for the Mustangs was freshman sensation

Eric Newton, who was the team's only two-time individual winner. Newton placed third in both the 200 IM (2:03.99) and the 500 freestyle (5:00.23). His time in the IM was enough to break the qualifying cutoff for the state finals and Newton will be Northville's sole representative at the state meet. Newton's time in the 500 prelims was a personal-best 4:57.93.

Northville's best event of the three-day meet was diving, even though regular contributor Steve Lang missed the competition with a broken nose. Rob Devyak's second was the Mustangs' highest finish, and he was just 12 points out of first. Devyak's point total of 386.5 was for 11 dives. Freshman Larry Osiecki placed fifth, just two points out of fourth, with 343 points.

Northville placed both relay teams in the top six. The 200 medley relay group — John Warren, Andy Wayne, Mike Fortenberry and Andy Viskantis — set a new season record with a time of 1:46.0 and placed fifth. The 400 freestyle team included Newton, Fortenberry, Viskantis and Craig Smith and placed sixth (3:28.89).

The rest of the top-12 efforts by the Mustangs included Viskantis's eighth in the 100 butterfly (56.97), Smith's eighth in the 100 freestyle (50.28) and 11th in the 50 freestyle (23.50), Wayne's 11th in the 100 backstroke (1:02.83) and Dave Morante's 12th in the 100 backstroke (1:03.68).

"We placed in nine of the 11 events, so they did real well," Heiden said. "I was impressed with the league overall. There were so many state qualifiers, you almost needed to get a state cut to be in the top six."

Mustang tanker Brad Cook accepts congratulations

Eric Newton qualifies for state meet

Northville's contingent at the Michigan High School Athletic Association state swimming meet, to be held on March 11-12 at the Intramural Pool at Eastern Michigan University, will be anywhere from one to three individuals. That is for certain.

But the Mustang total wasn't decided until after the Class A diving regionals on March 8 (after Record deadline). Northville's Rob Devyak and Larry Osiecki both qualified for the regional, held in Brighton, but needed to place among the top 12 to advance to the state meet. If one, or both, qualify, they will join freshman swimmer Eric Newton in state competition. There were anywhere from 40 to 50 divers competing for the 12 spots in Brighton, and although Northville's rookie Coach Mark Heiden is new to all this, he believes both Devyak and Osiecki have a chance.

"It's pretty tough to make it to the finals as a diver, but if they do their best and handle the pressure, I think they can qualify," he said.

Newton will be competing in the 200-yard IM at the state meet. His time of 2:03.99 in the finals of the event at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet last weekend gave him a spot in the finals in what amounted to his last chance to qualify this season.

Heiden knows that it is very difficult for a freshman to make an impact in such a competitive meet, but he is optimistic.

"I'm sure Eric will be going back (to the state meet) year after year, so this is very good experience for him," he said.

Gridder's fitness regime never ends

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If anybody thinks that major college athletics isn't a year-round effort — think again.

Conditioning, weight training and strict dieting are usually as much a part of the off-season as they are during the season for many athletes — especially major college football players. Former Northville gridiron star Tony Briningstool, who will be a redshirted freshman next fall for the Rose Bowl champion Michigan State Spartans, knows this only too well.

Briningstool is put on a regimented training program that extends year-round at MSU — just like all his teammates — and the advantages are plain to see already. When he arrived in East Lansing last summer, Briningstool weighed 218 pounds — but now, he is already up to 233 and has increased his speed and quickness as the same time.

"Our coaches have the whole year planned out," he said. "After our bowl game we rest for two and a half weeks then we start our winter program. After two more weeks rest in April we start our spring practice, then a rest, then summer practice and then the season. It's a year round thing."

Briningstool is currently in the middle of his winter conditioning program which includes a specially designed diet, running and — of course — weight lifting.

"I eat a diet that's based on high protein and high carbohydrates," Briningstool explained. "I eat with the team every night at our training table. They give us a lot of juices for vitamin C, red meat and fish for protein and breads, salads, dairy products and fruit. They keep us away from sugar, except for certain players who need more calories to

"I feel like I'm getting extra conditioning on my own. I think it's helping to make me a better football player."

— Tony Briningstool
MSU linebacker

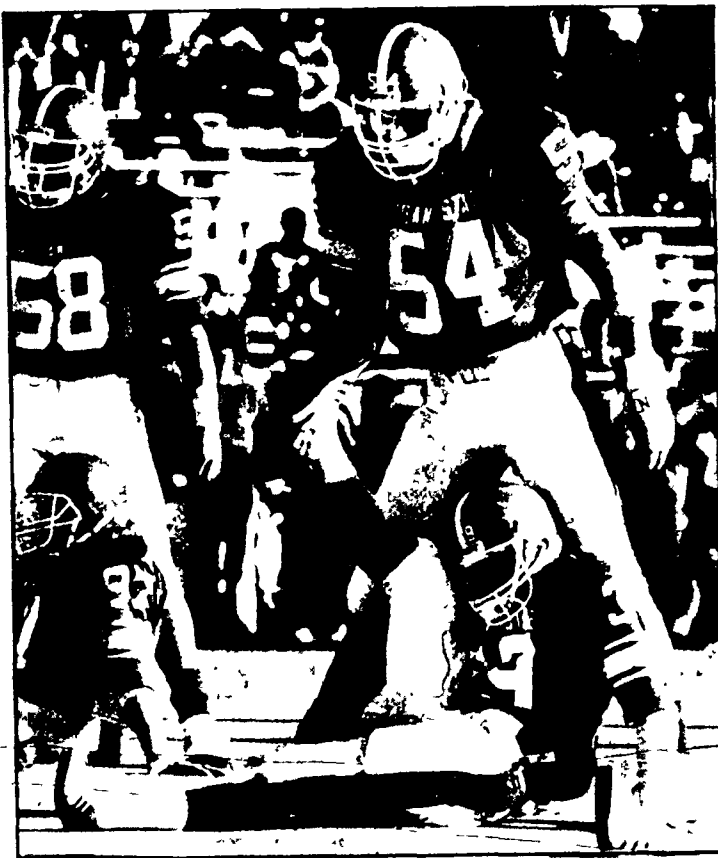

bulk up their size."

Briningstool is one of those players. Unlike most American's, he needs an additional 500 calories per day, according to the team nutritionist.

"They showed me how to add the calories to my meals every day," he said. "But our diet goes hand in hand with weight lifting and conditioning. I've gained 15 pounds already but I still want to be somewhere between 235 and 240."

Briningstool lifts weights five days a week with his teammates. Immediately following the afternoon weight lifting session, he is provided a protein supplement drink by the weight coach and then heads to the training table to eat.

The condition program includes two days of distance running and two days of sprints. The distance regime includes a series of 12-minute runs which are sandwiched around stretching and cool down periods. The distance work is designed to build cardiovascular endurance. The sprints include what the coaches call "ladders" — which are speed runs of various lengths from 20 to 100 yards. They are run in sets with virtually no rests in between.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Off-season work is a big part of Briningstool's (54) training

"You have to be in shape to be able to recover from ladders," Briningstool said. "They are designed to make you quicker."

As everybody around Northville already knows, Briningstool is a very dedicated player. So it should come as no surprise that he also has a personal regime of fitness he follows on his own. The program includes sited drills, jumping rope, pass drop practice and shuffle drills — all of which simulate many of the things a linebacker does in a real game.

"I feel like I'm getting extra conditioning on my own," he said. "I think it's helping to make me a better football player."

Fitness Tips

Medication is used to lower cholesterol levels

By JUDITH BEHN, MD

The importance of lowering an elevated blood cholesterol to reduce heart disease is well established. As discussed in a previous article in this series, a low-fat low cholesterol diet is the mainstay of therapy. Sometimes diet does not bring the cholesterol level into an acceptable range. Then, medication to lower the cholesterol must be considered.

Because treatment of high cholesterol is lifelong, the decision to start a drug should not be made lightly. Diet, in conjunction with weight loss and aerobic exercise, should be tried for at least six months.

For three months of this time period, an individual should be on a Step II diet, where less than 30 percent of total calories are derived from fat and less than 8 percent of calories are derived from saturated fat. Daily cholesterol intake should not exceed 200 mg.

Any medication that may elevate cholesterol, such as some blood pressure pills, should be stopped. In addition, any secondary causes of high cholesterol, such as diabetes, an underactive thyroid and certain kidney disorders, should be searched for and treated.

This diet must be continued after drug therapy is started. These two forms of therapy complement each other. Remember that in addition to the fats we eat, cholesterol is also produced by the liver. Medications work in two ways; they decrease cholesterol production by the liver or increase the rate at which cholesterol is metabolized and cleared from the bloodstream.

The most commonly used medications are summarized below. Bile acid sequestrants and nicotinic acid are considered first-line therapy.

Bile acid sequestrants: Cholestyramine or Colestipol: Cholesterol is used to make bile, a substance that aids in digestion. Normally, bile is absorbed from the stomach and recycled. Bile acid sequestrants bind bile and prevent it from being absorbed. Thus, the liver must take up cholesterol from the bloodstream to make new bile. The result is that blood cholesterol is decreased.

These drugs come as powders that are mixed in water or juice; some people find the powders unpalatable. They are not absorbed, so side effects are limited to the gastrointestinal tract, chiefly constipation and bloating. Also, these agents can interfere with absorption of other medications so they should be taken alone. Finally, bile acid sequestrants can cause blood triglycerides to increase, therefore, they cannot be taken by people with hypertriglyceridemia.

Nicotinic acid: This B vitamin, when taken in pharmacologic doses, decreases synthesis of cholesterol by the liver. It lowers both triglycerides and cholesterol. Nicotinic acid is the least expensive of all these agents. The most problematic side effect is flushing of the skin, but this can be mitigated by aspirin. Gastrointestinal cramping and an increase in blood sugar can also occur.

HMG CoA Reductase Inhibitors — Lovastatin: These agents decrease synthesis of cholesterol by interfering with an enzyme, needed to manufacture cholesterol. These are the newest agents and only one, lovastatin, is on the market for general use. It is generally well tolerated. The side effects include muscle inflammation and changes in blood tests of liver function. Because these drugs are new and long-term side effects are not known, they are best reserved for persons in whom other medications do not work.

Gemfibrozil: This medication primarily reduces triglycerides but does reduce low-density lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol somewhat. It increases high-density lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol (the "good" kind of cholesterol). Side effects are usually gastrointestinal symptoms and it can cause gallstones.

Probucol: This agent increases the destruction and elimination of LDL cholesterol from the bloodstream. It also lowers HDL cholesterol to some extent so HDL levels must be periodically monitored. The main side effect is diarrhea. Probucol can cause heart rhythm disturbances in animals, but this has not been a problem in humans.

Generally, if diet alone is not effective in lowering cholesterol, then diet and a single drug can reduce cholesterol to an acceptable level. Because of the variety of medication available, one can be found that is effective and well tolerated. Rarely are two medications needed. If they are, consultation with a physician who specializes in blood lipid disorders may be warranted.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

We put it all together

A TOTAL NEW-HOME FINANCE PLAN

IF YOU OWN THE LAND TO BUILD ON, HAVE A GOOD CREDIT RATING & CAN PUT SOME TIME INTO THE PROJECT CHELSEA LUMBER will save you up to 100% of the cost of getting your new home "MORTGAGE-READY" by assuming a Construction Period Mortgage at a lower rate and with less hassle than you'll find anywhere.

AND NOW, IF YOU CHOOSE, WE CAN ARRANGE FOR YOUR LONG-TERM MORTGAGE WITH A BANK THAT WORKS WITH OUR PLAN.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

- 1 We'll write an itemized and fully priced materials list while —
- 2 You get bids for those services CHELSEA LUMBER doesn't normally provide. (Heating, Plumbing, Carpeting, any outside labor costs, etc.).
- 3 With this we'll have all the numbers for your new home and everything we'll need to get a final Mortgage Commitment from a bank — your bank or one that's working with ours.
- 4 Next, we'll prepare a Mortgage & Promissory Note to cover the construction period.
- 5 You buy Insurance (mainly fire protection) naming CHELSEA LUMBER as the Mortgagee and — a Property Survey is made that locates the new house on your land (if we arrange for it the cost is $90)
- 6 Finally, we'll order Title Insurance in the amount of the construction Mortgage about $2 per thousand is charged to your account).

Now, with the paper work taken care of, construction can begin. As your house goes up, we'll charge your account as we deliver materials AND pay the outside bills as they come in. You pay nothing until the house is finished and your first bank-mortgage payment is due!!!

NO BANK, NO OTHER SUPPLIER - NOBODY COMES CLOSE TO THIS NEW HOME FINANCE PLAN. FOR FACE-TO-FACE DETAILS SEE BOB, JOE, DENNIS, JOHN OR IVAN.
