New bed-and-breakfast facility spurs ordinance plans

A decision to allow a bed-and-breakfast inn to open in the City of Northville has spurred the city's Planning Commission into considering a special ordinance to regulate such inns

Chris Gazlay, a member of the commission, and the city administration have collected information about bed-and-breakfast ordinances from communities throughout Michigan

"I feel we have to address it, and I think we need to determine where would be a proper use," Gazlay said at the commission meeting last Tuesday "From what I see in our ordinance we only speak to a hotel / motel and they're only allowed in the central business district

"I think it's incumbent upon us to get our feelings out so an ordinance of some sort can be drafted," Gazlay added "I don't think we want a proliferation of these things all up and down our residential streets "

City Manager Steve Walters said Tuesday that it is a good idea to look at writing a bed-and-breakfast ordinance

"Consideration of an ordinance is appropriate, and by that I mean this We shouldn't just let that use accidentally fall into our zoning ordinance and let it be considered a hotel or motel," Walters said. "Right now (bed-and-breakfast inns) are sort of by default defined in commercial (zoning) and they don't make sense in commercial."

If the city does indeed want to restrict bed-and-breakfasts to a certain zoning district, that should probably be spelled out in an ordinance, Walters added

"I think it's wise for the planning commission to do something about it," Walters said

The Atchison House, a former doctors' clinic on Dunlap Street, is set to be the first bed-and-breakfast inn

Balanced attack

Spring fever can unbalance even the most steady performer but Scott Conaway seems to have gained his balance on the bike rack at Highland Lakes Shopping Center while Buddy Carsten watches. Both youngsters are students at Meads Mill Middle School.

3 candidates vie for board

By ANITA CRONE

Northville Public Schools electors will have a choice in June when they select two trustees for the Board of Education.

Three candidates, Katherine Kepner, Donald A. Klokkenga and Carol Rahimi filed nominating petitions by the 4 p.m. April 11 deadline. They have until 4 p.m. today to withdraw.

Two of the candidates are assurred of serving on the board. President David Llewellyn and Trustee Douglas Whitaker have chosen not to seek another term.

Kepner has been active in the Northville public schools for a number of years, co-chairing the citizens committee on the high school renovation, was a member of the committee defining quality education, has worked on science fairs for the school, helped develop the Junior Great Books program and was a PTA president.

She is this year's Distinguished Guest at the PTA Coordinating Council's Founders' Day dinner.

Klokkenga, an engineer who owns his own consulting firm, said he chose to run for the board because he has been involved with the schools for a number of years and because he didn't want to see no candidates on the ballot.

"It's a bad image for the schools if no one ran for the board," he said.

Although Klokkenga has been involved in politics for a number of years, both in Dearborn Heights as a

Main-Center project gets new developer

The land at the southwest corner of Main and Center streets downtown has been sold to a new developer, the Northville city manager said Tuesday.

Kevin Callahan of Equity Advance, who bought the land from the private Ten Grand Club in Northville, has sold the site to a developer who will be able to follow through with a project, Walters said

Walters did not name the buyer, and Callahan could not be reached for comment.

"I think it's a real project that's materializing," Walters said "This isn't another speculative investment type of thing "

Equity Advance had drawn up preliminary plans for a four-story building on the site, with two floors of retail and two floors of office space. Walters said the new developer is considering a three-story building with two floors of retail and one of residential space

However, he stressed, nothing is final yet. The developer has indicated a plan may be submitted to the city within a month, Walters said.

One snag in the Equity Advance plan was the cost of the parking which the city would have required for the project. That plan would have needed about 280 spaces, and Walters said a smaller plan would only need around 200.

"That makes quite a lot of difference," Walters said.

Drums' contents studied

The Michigan Department of Natural Resources is investigating the contents of eight 5-gallon drums found at the side of Seven Mile Road east of Napier on April 10.

The DNR will determine whether the material found in the plastic drums is toxic

Township police responded to a call from Wayne County Sheriff's Deputy Tom Carravallan, who discovered the drums near the stream running from Maybury State Park When township police officer Jeff Larente arrived at the scene, he noticed that two of the drums were uncapped and those contained a dark-colored liquid Two of the containers were labeled.

Sgt. John Sherman and assistant fire chief Rick Roselle were contacted and Sherman directed that the DNR be notified

Scott Schaefer, an environmental quality analyst with the DNR contacted his superiors who agreed to finance the removal of the drums

A Romulus firm which handles suspected toxic waste removed the containers at 4 p.m., nearly four hours after the drums were discovered No further clean-up at the site was required

Livonia, Ward put skids to annexation

By ANITA CRONE

The delay over Michigan Water Resources Commission action on the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority's request for a doubling of sewage treatment capacity led, at one point, to a preliminary request that the City of Livonia annex Ward Church owned property at Six Mile and Haggerty in Northville Township

However, officials with the township, Livonia and Ward say that the idea was immediately quashed.

James Abernethy, Ward's director of site development, said a member of the church had requested permission to "explore other options" in case Northville Township was unable to provide sewer service to the site

"This was an inquiry by a single, concerned member of the church. He was exploring a number of possibilities, however remote, of any eventuality that might occur if the entire (Haggerty Road) sewer project fell apart," Abernethy said.

"As soon as we (the church) became aware that an inquiry regarding annexation had been made, we immediately requested that that option be terminated and to the best of our knowledge, it has been "

The Haggerty Road sewer would service the Six Mile Road, Haggerty Road area and hook up with a similar sewer in Plymouth Township

Although a series of plans were presented in 1984, no final engineering or development plans have been approved for that sewer.

And Northville Township officials do not expect a final set of plans before June at the earliest for the Haggerty Road sewer.

Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett said he had been approached by a member of the church "in late January or maybe early February" but there were no formal discussions, nothing put in writing and no official action on the annexation proposal

"The annexation request did not come from me," Bennett said, noting that Livonia would not attempt to annex any property in a neighboring community.

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss noted that the discussions all took place before WRC gave its approval for the YCUA expansion plan

YCUA's expansion would allow the sewage treatment plant to provide tertiary treatment of sewage from Northville, Plymouth and Canton townships

Had any annexation discussions actually taken place, they would have involved more than the Ward Church site The church has a pending purchase agreement with Kirco Development Ltd, which intends to develop and build a 600,000-square foot corporate park on some of the church's acreage

Although plans for the first phase of the Kirco development have been approved by the Northville Township Planning Commission, the purchase offer between Ward and Kirco has not been executed and Abernethy said Kirco officials were unaware of even the possibility of annexation

Bennett said that Livonia did not pursue the request, mainly because that city was facing its own sewage capacity problems

"My response to the individual who contacted me was that I couldn't very well agree to take on additional capacity, since the Department of Natural Resources had informed us that we do not have any," Bennett said

Steve Brock, Northville Township manager, said he had had no discussions with Livonia officials, nor had he been contacted by them on the question of annexation

"If there was a contact, it came to the supervisor," Brock said

Rotary slates theater benefit

The Northville Rotary Club will sponsor a Premiere Night at the Marquis Theater in Northville on Thursday, April 21, as part of its participation in the Rotary International PolioPlus campaign

Stephen Paul Stocker, chairman of the local club's PolioPlus Committee, said the event will have two purposes — to tell the community about the PolioPlus program and to enlist community support for it

The Premiere Night will feature Neil Simon's popular play, "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up" Refreshments will be served at 7 p m and the performance will begin at 8 p m

Tickets for the Premiere Night are $12 50 each and are tax deductible For more information on Premiere Night, or to purchase tickets, call Stephen Paul Stocker at 348-1100, or Butch Raby at Schoolcraft College, 591-6400, ext 230

PolioPlus is the effort of Rotary International to immunize all the children in the world against polio, which remains a dreaded disease in most of Third World countries The worldwide organization (161 countries) has pledged it will provide all the polio vaccines needed for five year immunization projects in any country which requests such help

PolioPlus has achieved significant successes in such countries as Turkey, Mexico, Guatemala, the Philippines, Peru, Paraguay, and others By December, 1987, 63 nations had received PolioPlus money totaling $74 2 million from the Rotary Foundation When all projects are completed, a total of 5 million children will have been protected from polio and the objective of complete control and virtual elimination of polio will have been accomplished

NEWS BRIEFS

PRISON REFORMERS — The chairman of the House Republican Task Force on Prison Reform has scheduled a tour of Scott Regional Facility and a public hearing immediately following the tour on April 21

State Rep Mike Nye of Litchfield said his committee and state Rep Jerry Law will meet with area residents beginning at 6 p m at Plymouth Township Hall, 42350 Ann Arbor Rd

HERE'S TO YOU — Right after school board president David Llewellyn announced he would not be running for reelection given time constraints, former board president and current trustee Douglas Whitaker leaned over and said, "Be careful You might be reincarnated "

Whitaker was appointed in November to fill the remainder of Mayor Chris Johnson's unexpired term

TICKETS STILL AVAILABLE - Tickets are still available for Northville PTA Coordinating Council's Founders' Day ceremonies A 6 p.m. punch will kick things off, followed by a buffet dinner at 6 30 p.m. Wednesday

Tickets, at $10 per person, are available at any public school building or at the Board of Education office on Main Street

FREE ROOM — Northville Lodge 2504, Fraternal Order of Eagles, has established a policy of offering the use of its hall at 113 S Center free of charge to non-profit local organizations

For more information or to reserve the hall, call 349-2479.

FORDS AT THE DOWNS — The Northville City Council agreed during a recent meeting, to allow McDonald Ford to used the Northville Downs parking lot at Seven Mile and Center to display cars during the track's off season.

The dealership has been using the lot for several years. A city ordinance required that the council vote on the request because the cars constitute a special use of the land.

SPRING RITE — The Northville School Board gave the official OK for spring to begin for the district. The board unanimously approved the leasing of 55 acres of land situated on the north side of Six Mile Road just west of Sheldon Road to Milan George for agricultural purposes. Board members noted that for years the leasing of the land to George has been a sure sign that planting season is right around the corner.

STILL APARTMENTS — Despite the listing on the assessing rolls, Cedar Lakes Apartments on Six Mile Road were, are and will continue to be apartments, at least for the forseeable future.

That's the word from Frank Glickman, a vice president with Amercon, the developers of the apartments. The listing of Cedar Lakes as condominiums was simply a financing move, Glickman said.

BASEBALL SCORES — An anonymous donor has offered to give the Northville High School baseball stadium an electronic baseball scoreboard. The total cost of purchase, shipping and installation of the scoreboard would amount to approximately $4,752. The school board voted unanimously at its last meeting to gratefully accept the donation. "Tell him we give him an anonymous thank you," board president David Llewellyn said.

AMERICA AND THEM — Three Meads Mill Middle School students have been named local winners in the annual America & Me essay contest.

Katie Crawford was the school's winner and her essay advances to state competition. Carty Beach took second and Katie McLean, third

Cady deck renovation eyed again

The on-again, off-again idea of a rebuilt parking deck on Cady Street downtown is again leaning towards being on

In the latest written plan from the city administration, a new deck is portrayed as being unlikely However, after the latest discussions among city administration and the members of the Downtown Development Authority, "a deck will be described in more positive, more likely terms," City Manager Steve Walters said Tuesday

When the DDA began regular meetings again last year, the authority began with an assumption that the deck on Cady Street would have to be rebuilt and probably expanded as part of a general program to improve parking throughout downtown

However, in discussions and the latest draft of the second phase of the "Mainstreet '78" plan, the high cost per space of developing a deck led officials to think about making a simple surface lot on the site The lot was to be designed so that a deck could be built on top of the lot at some future time

Both a new deck and a new surface lot were projected to have some new retail development in the immediate area as well. Some change to the present parking deck is considered necessary because of its poor condition

But the city is now applying for grant money to conduct a study on the entire "Cady Street corridor" which will consider future parking and retail possibilities And with this larger, area-wide perspective on the parking deck site, Walters said that a new deck is again looking more likely — or at least less unlikely.

"Depending on how that develops, a deck may be more feasible," he said.

If money was no object, a deck would certainly be preferable, Walters said, since more parking would be provided in the same ground area.

But while the parking deck versus parking lot issue remains unsolved, the city is gearing up to begin rebuilding other city lots to fit more spaces into the same area. This will be done by rearranging landscaping and similar changes.

Walters said one lot may be rebuilt this year, and another one or two next year

"There isn't money just sitting there waiting to be spent on it," Walters said.

In addition, "You really only want to tear up one at a time, because parking gets shorter while you're constructing," Walters said "I don't think you'd want to tear up two at once "

Police Blotters

Police find stolen car stuck in mud at burglary site

A home on Pierson Road was burglarized April 7 and a stolen auto that apparently was used to transport the perpetrators to the scene was found stuck in the middle of the front yard of the home

Officers also are investigating the theft from a neighboring residence of a 1981 Pontiac Grand Prix that police think was used to allow the perpetrators to escape

According to a report made to the Northville Township Police Department a resident of the home that was burglarized told officers he returned from school to find the front door of the residence kicked in and items worth more than $4,000 missing

Police found a 1984 Chevrolet belonging to a Canton Township resident that was taken from a Comerica Bank parking lot at Greenfield and Warren in Detroit hours earlier stuck in the mud at the scene on Pierson Road

Among the items taken during the break in were a cordless telephone a woman's wedding ring, a hand-held television, a radar detector, a VCR camera adapter, a VCR, a video camera a radio and two guns

Although the Wayne County Sheriff's Department's K-9 unit was called to the scene, the dog lost the scent of the perpetrators at the neighboring Pierson Road home from where the Pontiac was taken

CAR STOLEN — A Farmington Hills woman told Northville Township police that her 1988 Honda Prelude was stolen from the Meijer's parking lot between 6-6 45 p m April 8

The woman told officer Lawrence Demeter that she had both sets of keys to the vehicle with her when the theft occurred and that the car had been locked when she entered the store

The car is valued at $17,000

ALARM HALTS THEFT — The owner of a 1984 Chevrolet CozyCraft, a conversion van, which he equipped with an audible alarm, still has his vehicle because of the alarm

Officer Matthew Mayes was sent to the parking lot at Northridge because of the report of an audible car alarm When he got to the site, Mayes said he saw a full-sized passenger car leaving the parking lot

He checked the lot and found the van, belonging to a 53-year-old township resident, damaged Mayes said that the side window of the vehicle had been damaged

BOMB THREAT — A Meijer's phone operator in Grand Rapids was the recipient of a telephoned bomb threat to the store at Eight Mile and Haggerty in Northville Township April 10

All telephone calls to local Meijer stores are routed through a central switchboard at the company's home office and the operator told police that about 12 20 a m on the night in question, a female called the Northville Meijer's and asked, "Did you know you have a bomb in the store?"

A male voice then stated, "You have 10 minutes to get out of the store" the operator said

The night manager told officers he checked the store but did not take any action, nor did he call township police until nearly an hour after the incident had taken place

STRANGE ACTIVITY — A Livonia woman reported a strange incident that occurred on Silver Spring Drive April 8, while the woman and two co-workers were stopped at a red light on Seven Mile Road

The woman told police that when the traffic signal changed to green, she started to make a left-hand turn when she noticed a car approaching hers from the rear at a high rate of speed

The woman said the driver of the second vehicle honked his horn and the passed her car on the left She said that the car then paced hers, staying very close to her vehicle She said she swerved her car toward the pacing car, forcing the driver of the second car onto the road shoulder

Then, the woman told police, the driver of the second vehicle pulled out a shiny silver badge, and she took it to be a police badge

When the woman stopped her car and got out of her vehicle, the driver of the second vehicle also left his The woman said she demanded to see the badge again and asked for the number, at which time the male subject got back in his car, backed it up and fled the scene

CARS DAMAGED — Township officers are investigating the report of an attempted car theft and damage to a vehicle that occurred between 6 p m -11 30 a m April 7

According to the report, one car that was parked on Pond Court suffered a cracked windshield and a second car at the same address was vandalized

CAR STOLEN — A Silver Spring Drive resident told township police that between 10 30 p m April 5 and 6 45 a m April 6 her 1987 Ford Mustang GT was stolen from the carport at her residence

The woman told police that her car payments were up to date and that she has no idea who stole the vehicle

HOSPITAL REPORT — There were five reports of walkaways from Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital last week and township police assisted in returning two patients to the facility

On April 6, a hospital safety officer flagged down officer William Helke on Dunswood and Helke assisted the man in returning a 24-year-old patient to the hospital without incident

Also on April 6, officer Raymond Garbarino noticed a man walking on Seven Mile Road near Pierson When Garbarino stopped the man, he said he was a hospital patient and Garbarino returned him to the facility

AUTO VANDALISM — A car parked on the top level of the Cady Street parking deck downtown had a hole punched in its radiator last week, according to a city police report

The incident occurred Tuesday, April 5 The car — a 1975 Ford Mustang — suffered about $100 damage, the report said

FLAGS STOLEN AGAIN — Two flags were stolen from in front of the Veterans of Foreign Wars building on South Main street over the weekend, according to a city police report

An American flag worth $35 and a POW / MIA flag worth $25 were stolen, the report said

SUBJECTS STILL SOUGHT — The manager of a Secretary of State branch office at Northville Plaza was able to help police officers draw a composite sketch of the man who robbed him at gunpoint of the day's receipts last week

Although the sketch has been circulated, thus far, the township police department has no subject in custody Anyone who recognizes the subject, is asked to contact Capt. Philip Presnell at 349-9400

Rapes in nearby communities spur extra concern for safety

By PHILIP JEROME, ANITA CRONE and BOB NEEDHAM

Amidst concern over a series of rapes reported in central Oakland County recently, law enforcement officials are cautioning women throughout the area to take a little extra care

"We don't want to use fear tactics, just common sense," City of Northville Police Chief Rod Cannon said "Don't take the false sense of security that it can't happen It can happen and it does happen"

Township Police Capt Philip Presnell said that although the reported incidents have taken place in Oakland County, Northville was not that far away

Anyone who thinks it can't happen here is inviting trouble, said City of Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole

Referring to the series of apparently related rapes or attempted rapes in Farmington, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield, Bloomfield Township and Birmingham, BeGole said it is naive to believe the rapist will confine his activities to those communities

In fact, BeGole laid out one scenario which would indicate that local residents should be particularly careful

"What can happen in these cases is that the rapist will leave an area where people are looking for him and very much alarmed and move to another area where people are not as alarmed and not as cautious," BeGole said

Cannon said taking precautions really boils down to common sense, and he offered several specific suggestions for caution,

"In the twilight time of the day, if you notice a car behind you, that looks like it has been following you, don't pull into your driveway," Cannon said "If there's a car on your tail, don't go home. Swing into the police department."

When at home, and when leaving, make sure the house is secure, Cannon advised If a stranger comes to the door, use a chain lock or the peep window to identify him, he added

In a car, lock the car doors If you come home and the house does not look right, proceed straight to the police station, Cannon said

Presnell suggested parking a vehicle in a well-lighted area and before exiting, to look around. "If anything doesn't look right, then for heaven's sake don't get out of the car"

If an attack does occur, Cannon recommended that the victim use a whistle or scream to draw attention and possibly frighten off the attacker.

"Hairspray is a great tool if you're being attacked," Cannon added. Hairspray in an attacker's face burns his eyes

"Don't hesitate to call the police. That's what we're here for," Cannon concluded

Presnell cautioned against relying on Mace or a similar substance.

"In most of the attacks, the woman

Some post offices open late for taxes

By PHIL GINOTTI

If you are a last-minute income tax filer, you may have to leave Northville do get your return in on time

The Northville Post Office will close up shop Friday, April 15, at 5 p m Northville residents who have waited until the very last minute will have to go elsewhere to get their forms in by the midnight deadline

Post offices in Ann Arbor, Livonia, Farmington, Southfield, Birmingham and Pontiac will offer extended hour service this year to accommodate the last-minute rush, which is expected to be slightly more severe this year due to the impact of sweeping new code changes

"Our experience has shown that a lot of taxpayers will wait until the very last minute to file," United States Post Office spokesperson Susan Gillespie said "We're placing more emphasis on special collections and special cancellation in an effort to help people get their forms off to the IRS in time "

At the extended service locations, taxpayers can either leave the mail with a postal clerk or in the receptacle outside the post office The mail receptacles will be emptied periodically throughout the night and each will be stamped before the midnight tax deadline Friday, Gillespie said

Northville Postmaster Wallace Cates said the post office is just slowing down after a period of long lines — but he hasn't been able to tell how much of the crowd is there for tax filing and how much is there for new stamps.

"There's no way for me to determine what's really going on with the crowd at this time," Cates said Tuesday "Because of the change of stamps, we've had a line-up for the last two weeks "

Forms, pamphlets and tax advice books are available at the Novi Public Library located near the Civic Center on Ten Mile The library closes at 5 p m

Basic forms, such as the 1040, are available at the library while master copies of more complicated forms are available for photocopying, according to Reference/Adult Services Librarian Donna Hollis

"We have reproductions available for almost any form," Hollis said State and Detroit city income tax forms are also available at the Novi Public Library

"We expect it to pick up quite a bit in the next few days as we get closer to the deadline," Hollis added "It hasn't been any more busy than last year up until now "

One thing library employees won't be able to provide is probably what most late-filing taxpayers need — help

"We aren't tax experts, but we can help everyone find the right forms," Hollis said "We just can't answer questions about taxes themselves "

Hollis said several helpful pamphlets and tax books are available at the library Residents with tax questions can also call the special IRS hotline at 1-800-462-0830 for help

A flood of questions about tax returns this year have led librarians in some neghboring communities to don their "No Tax Advice" buttons, which the IRS sent to libraries and some local government offices this year

Gillespie said it is impossible to estimate how many local tax returns will be filed late this year

"We know there are going to be a lot," she said

Although the Novi Post Office won't be open late Friday to handle last-minute income tax filings, several area post offices will offer extended service They include

Township hires Henry as new administrator

It didn't take township officials long to get a new zoning and building administrator

Carol Henry, the Board of Trustees' second choice, early this week accepted the position Larry DeBrincat, the unanimous choice of the board, accepted and then turned down the employment offer

Henry is a planner and has worked with Wayne County and the South East Michigan Council of Governments, working on plan preparation including zoning, land use, site plan and environmental review

Most recently she has been an urban planner in the county department of Jobs and Economic Development's planning division, where she was responsible for staff support to the county planning commission, the Solid Waste Implementation Committee and the Detroit Regional Census Advisory Council

She also was responsible for reviewing rezoning petitions, master plans, wetlands and community grant proposals

Trustee Thomas Handyside had recommended Henry's efforts as a staff worker for the Solid Waste Implementation Committee on which he serves

Prior to joining the county, Henry was a planning analyst for SEMCOG and a research analyst in Battle Creek

Henry is a member of the American Planning Association, the Government Administrators Association, the Michigan Land Information Exchange and a board member of the Livonia Jaycees

She holds a bachelor's degree in economics and sociology and a master's in urban planning from the University of Michigan

Prior to moving to Livonia, Henry was a township resident

Terry wins citation from the state police

Three and a half year old Adam Terry was all dressed up on April 6 After all his father Trooper John Terry was about to get a citation for meritorius service from the Michigan State Police

None of that impressed Adam, nor did the fact that the top brass from the state police's District II and Post 21 were on hand for the auspicious occasion All Adam wanted to do was wear his daddy's hat

Robert J Bellaire presented John Terry with a medal, a ribbon to be worn on his uniform blouse and the actual certificate The award for meritorius service is one of the top three presented by the state police

Receiving the highest award presented to a civilian by the state police was Southfield firefighter/paramedic Keith T Rowley Rowley received the Michigan State Police citation for professional excellence

Rowley and Terry in October 1987, rescued a woman trapped in a burning car, probably saving her life, Bellaire explained

"I'm just glad that John was there," said Terry in accepting his certificate

Terry explained that after a multicar accident, he watched as a flare ignited gasoline from a punctured gas tank, and the woman's car caught on fire

"I didn't think much about it," Terry said "I did a quick injury assessment, found out she wasn't severely hurt and we just pulled her out It was a very small window, though "

Also on hand for the award presentation was Lt Jack Moulik, commander of Post 21, Lt Harry Hall, assistant Post 21 commander and a number of Terry's fellow troopers

City readies for master plan review

A committee of the City of Northville Planning Commission is getting ready to review the entire structure and substance of the city's master plan

In meetings of the city's Planning Commission over the past few months, the idea of reviewing and updating the master plan has been mentioned often, but has recently been delayed in anticipation of the city hiring a new planning consultant

The City Council hired Ayres, Lewis Norris and May as the new planning firm last month At last Tuesday's commission meeting, Donald Wortman of Ayres, Lewis began initial discussion of the master plan with the members of the commission

The city has applied to fund the master plan review with some of its money available through the federal community development block grant (CDBG) program City Manager Steve Walters said a draft of a revised master plan might be done by December

The commission ended up appointing five members — Chris Gazlay, Michael Kowalski, Greg Presley, Rolland Stapleton and Richard Wilhelm — to a committee which met Tuesday morning in the first of several sessions to discuss the plan, and what exactly needs to be reviewed

"It was a lot of very conceptual stuff," Walters said after the committee meeting The first step in reviewing the plan will be to develop a proposal stating exactly what the city wants reviewed

"Mostly it's a description of what the redraft will incorporate," Walters said

At the meeting of the full Planning Commission last Tuesday, Wortman explained what a master plan can be for a city

"What you want is something that reflects more the day to day and also the future of the community," he said It should include specific concerns like downtown, traffic, aesthetics of entry corridors, parks, and borders with other communities

"If we were to embark on an update of the master plan (we would) touch on all these issues," Wortman said "I think there is a number of issues that would all have to dovetail together "

It is a good idea to update a master plan about every two years, Wortman said For one reason, an updated master plan reflecting current land use can help in court cases arising from a denied rezoning request For another, it can provide direction when properties are redeveloped, he said

"From a legal standpoint and from a transitional redevelopment standpoint, I think it's a useful tool," Wortman said "There are some things you should really have a current document on "

The next meeting of the Planning Commission's master plan committee is scheduled for 7:30 a m Tuesday, April 26, at Edward's Caterer on Dunlap Street The meeting is open

the city When the clinic closed, the city's Board of Zoning Appeals approved using the building — which sits on residentially zoned land — as an inn, within certain guidelines about number of rooms, only serving breakfast, and the like It is expected to open for business this year

Any ordinance the city adopts would probably not affect the Atchison House, Walters said "They can operate regardless because of the variance they got," he said And anyway, he said, any restrictions in an ordinance would proably be similar to those placed on the Atchison House project by the BZA.

In the ordinances collected from other communities, restrictions cover such things as maximum number of rooms, room size, maximum length of stay and special sign restrictions

Although favoring the idea of considering an ordinance, Walters does not foresee a problem with proposals for too many such inns

Parents meeting closed to public

There is no open meeting scheduled tonight to discuss the smoking area at Northville High School

That's the word from George Bell, superintendent of schools and David Bolitho, high school principal Bolitho will be addressing the seven members of the Northville High School Substance Abuse Program Parent Support Group on the issue of the smoking area

"It is very possible at some point this issue will be coming before the Board (of Education)," Bolitho said "But right now, that issue is only one item on the agenda And the meeting is restricted to the members of the group"

Bell said the first he had heard of such a meeting was when he read a letter to the editor in last week's edition of The Record And, since Bolitho was out of town during the schools' Easter holiday, he was unable to reach Bolitho to confirm the meeting

"The first I knew about it (a meeting) was when I read the paper But I find it unusual that Mr Bolitho would not have spoken to me before scheduling a meeting I'm inclined to believe there was a misunderstanding," Bell said

Marilyn Golden, the writer of the letter, said she may have "jumped the gun"

"I think, given the laws regarding smoking, that it would be wrong for the high school or the school administration to sanction a smoking area for high school students," Golden said

Currently, high school students who smoke cigarettes do so outside the building in a small courtyard

Bell said that the area has not officially been designated as a smoking area, but school officials have accepted the fact that it does exist

"We have learned that it is difficult to tell a person who smokes he can't do it, and this way, the smokers are outside and we do not have to contend with students smoking in the school building or in the lavatories," Bell said

Bolitho said he expected the Board of Education to revise the smoking policy and probably make some changes

"There were a number of policies in effect when I became principal that we have since revisited and changed I think the last one is the smoking area," Bolitho said

The Board of Education's policy subcommittee has been reviewing the smoking policy and Bolitho said he expected a recommendation from the group in the near future

Street project gears up

The street repair program in the City of Northville is just about to get underway again

The repaving of city streets being funded by a special city millage will begin again the first week in May, City Manager Steve Walters said Monday Work on the paving stopped during the winter because of weather

But even before the actual paving gets underway again, the contractor will start work on curb and lawn repair that was not completed last fall

"There isn't a schedule yet" of streets to be paved, Walters said, but some idea of what will be done first may become available by next week

Terry wins citation from the state police

Three and-a-half year old Adam Terry was all dressed up on April 6 After all his father Trooper John Terry, was about to get a citation for meritorius service from the Michigan State Police

None of that impressed Adam, nor did the fact that the top brass from the state police's District II and Post 21 were on hand for the auspicious occasion All Adam wanted to do was wear his daddy's hat

Robert J Bellaire presented John Terry with a medal, a ribbon to be worn on his uniform blouse and the actual certificate The award for meritorius service is one of the top three presented by the state police

Receiving the highest award presented to a civilian by the state police was Southfield firefighter/paramedic Keith T Rowley Rowley received the Michigan State Police citation for professional excellence

Rowley and Terry in October 1987, rescued a woman trapped in a burning car, probably saving her life, Bellaire explained

"I'm just glad that John was there," said Terry in accepting his certificate

Terry explained that after a multicar accident, he watched as a flare ignited gasoline from a punctured gas tank, and the woman's car caught on fire

"I didn't think much about it," Terry said "I did a quick injury assessment, found out she wasn't severely hurt, and we just pulled her out It was a very small window, though "

Also on hand for the award presentation was Lt Jack Moulik, commander of Post 21, Lt Harry Hall, assistant Post 21 commander and a number of Terry's fellow troopers

City readies for master plan review

A committee of the City of Northville Planning Commission is getting ready to review the entire structure and substance of the city's master plan

In meetings of the city's Planning Commission over the past few months, the idea of reviewing and updating the master plan has been mentioned often, but has recently been delayed in anticipation of the city hiring a new planning consultant

The City Council hired Ayres, Lewis Norris and May as the new planning firm last month At last Tuesday's commission meeting, Donald Wortman of Ayres, Lewis began initial discussion of the master plan with the members of the commission

The city has applied to fund the master plan review with some of its money available through the federal community development block grant (CDBG) program City Manager Steve Walters said a draft of a revised master plan might be done by December

The commission ended up appointing five members — Chris Gazlay, Michael Kowalski, Greg Presley, Rolland Stapleton and Richard Wilhelm — to a committee which met Tuesday morning in the first of several sessions to discuss the plan, and what exactly needs to be reviewed

"It was a lot of very conceptual stuff," Walters said after the committee meeting The first step in reviewing the plan will be to develop a proposal stating exactly what the city wants reviewed

"Mostly it's a description of what the redraft will incorporate," Walters said

At the meeting of the full Planning Commission last Tuesday, Wortman explained what a master plan can be for a city

"What you want is something that reflects more the day to day and also the future of the community," he said It should include specific concerns like downtown, traffic, aesthetics of entry corridors, parks, and borders with other communities

"If we were to embark on an update of the master plan (we would) touch on all these issues," Wortman said "I think there is a number of issues that would all have to dovetail together "

It is a good idea to update a master plan about every two years, Wortman said For one reason, an updated master plan reflecting current land use can help in court cases arising from a denied rezoning request For another, it can provide direction when properties are redeveloped, he said

"From a legal standpoint and from a transitional redevelopment standpoint, I think it's a useful tool," Wortman said. "There are some things you should really have a current document on "

The next meeting of the Planning Commission's master plan committee is scheduled for 7:30 a.m Tuesday, April 26, at Edward's Caterer on Dunlap Street The meeting is open

the city When the clinic closed, the city's Board of Zoning Appeals approved using the building — which sits on residentially zoned land — as an inn, within certain guidelines about number of rooms, only serving breakfast, and the like It is expected to open for business this year

Any ordinance the city adopts would probably not affect the Atchison House, Walters said "They can operate regardless because of the variance they got," he said. And anyway, he said, any restrictions in an ordinance would proably be similar to those placed on the Atchison House project by the BZA.

In the ordinances collected from other communities, restrictions cover such things as maximum number of rooms, room size, maximum length of stay and special sign restrictions

Although favoring the idea of considering an ordinance, Walters does not foresee a problem with proposals for too many such inns

Parents meeting closed to public

There is no open meeting scheduled tonight to discuss the smoking area at Northville High School

That's the word from George Bell, superintendent of schools and David Bolitho, high school principal Bolitho will be addressing the seven members of the Northville High School Substance Abuse Program Parent Support Group on the issue of the smoking area

"It is very possible at some point this issue will be coming before the Board (of Education)," Bolitho said 'But right now, that issue is only one item on the agenda And the meeting is restricted to the members of the group "

Bell said the first he had heard of such a meeting was when he read a letter to the editor in last week's edition of The Record And, since Bolitho was out of town during the schools' Easter holiday, he was unable to reach Bolitho to confirm the meeting

"The first I knew about it (a meeting) was when I read the paper But I find it unusual that Mr Bolitho would not have spoken to me before scheduling a meeting I'm inclined to believe there was a misunderstanding," Bell said

Marilyn Golden, the writer of the letter, said she may have "jumped the gun "

"I think, given the laws regarding smoking, that it would be wrong for the high school or the school administration to sanction a smoking area for high school students," Golden said

Currently, high school students who smoke cigarettes do so outside the building in a small courtyard

Bell said that the area has not officially been designated as a smoking area, but school officials have accepted the fact that it does exist

"We have learned that it is difficult to tell a person who smokes he can't do it, and this way, the smokers are outside and we do not have to contend with students smoking in the school building or in the lavatories," Bell said

Bolitho said he expected the Board of Education to revise the smoking policy and probably make some changes

"There were a number of policies in effect when I became principal that we have since revisited and changed I think the last one is the smoking area," Bolitho said

The Board of Education's policy subcommittee has been reviewing the smoking policy and Bolitho said he expected a recommendation from the group in the near future

Street project gears up

The street repair program in the City of Northville is just about to get underway again

The repaving of city streets being funded by a special city millage will begin again the first week in May, City Manager Steve Walters said Monday Work on the paving stopped during the winter because of weather

But even before the actual paving gets underway again, the contractor will start work on curb and lawn repair that was not completed last fall

"There isn't a schedule yet" of streets to be paved, Walters said, but some idea of what will be done first may become available by next week

All the city-maintained streets are eventually scheduled to be repaved as part of the program, except a few that were done not long before the program began

The Northville Ford plant once again is the focus of rumors regarding its potential closure

Rumors running rampant on Ford sale

By ANITA CRONE

A sure sign of spring is the proliferation of rumors regarding the Ford Motor Co plant in Northville and this spring is no exception.

Once again plant employees are speculating whether the plant will remain open and, if not, to where their gas-tank manufacturing operation will be transferred

The plant currently manufactures metal gas tanks for Ford trucks, however, the tanks on the later model Rangers are made of plastic

The manufacturing operation would be transferred to Dearborn or to Milan, said a plant employee However, Rex Greenslade, manager of public affairs for the Detroit Regional Office said it would be premature to comment on the possible plant closing

"I think we've made no secret of our ongoing review of our manaufacturing operations, but it would be premature to comment on any potential closing," said Greenslade

Greenslade said it would also be premature to comment on when a decision on the fate of the plant, one of Henry Ford's experimental waterwheel facilities and the only one still in operation, would be forthcoming.

Steve Walters, city manager, said the city has had no contact with Ford Motor Co. regarding the plant in "about three or four years."

"The last time we had any formal information from them they didn't indicate any plans to close the plant or to keep it open," Walters said

"What I want to know is what happened to the promises that were made in 1983 by Max Jurosek, the general manager of Ford Engine Division," said Norm Fultz, president of Local 896. "He (Jurosek) promised us that if we made it (the contract) work, we would give us all the work we could handle That hasn't happened "

Fultz said that the gas tank for the Thunderbird, currently controlled by the Dearborn Engine plant, has been outsourced and the Northville plant was not given an opportunity to bid the job.

"There is no doubt that we could have made those tanks," Fultz said "Last year, this plant made a $1 7 million profit and that's with only 42 people working."

Fultz said that the current contract that covers Ford employees has a moritorium on plant closings, with the exception of the Green Island, N Y facility and another plant in Canton, Ohio

But Greenslade countered that that contract "is a very, very involved document."

"As I understand it, I don't believe there is a moratorium on plant closings There is a guaranteed employment provision, though," Greenslade said

Fultz said that if the Northville operation were terminated, he expected employees to be offered jobs in Milan or in Dearborn.

Historically, the Northville plant has been the subject of rumors regarding its closing, the most recent surfacing in December 1987 when former Mayor Paul Vernon said in his state of the city address he expected the plant to close by the end of the year

William Sherrick, plant manager, countered Vernon's assessment and said he expected the plant to remain open at least until the end of 1988.

"Ford would need about 18-24 months to shut down the entire operation here," Sherrick said in October 1987.

Fultz said the current union contract would require six months notification before any action on closing the plant would be taken. Thus far, he said, there has been no formal notification of a potential closing.

Special ed costs, requirements rise

By ANN E. WILLIS

The costs for providing special education services to both public and private school children are rising dramatically for Northville The Northville Board of Education received an update at Monday night's meeting on just why those costs are skyrocketing.

Leonard Rezmierski, the district's director of special education services, presented the board with some background information on special education services or auxiliary services, and some projections for the growth of those services

The bottom line of the update was that the school district is required by law to provide services to any student who goes to a school located within the district boundaries and who meets the requirements for special education, regardless of the home city of the student.

This means that students at private and parochial schools receive the same auxiliary services as students in the public schools, and the cost for those services is footed by the Northville Public Schools.

The School Code of 1976 requires a school district which provides auxiliary services to its resident pupils in the elementary and secondary grades, provide the same services, on an equal basis, to pupils in the elementary and secondary grades at non-public schools. These services must be provided in non-religious settings, according to another state legislative decision.

Currently Northville provides services to six auxiliary schools: Fairlane West School (formerly Christian Community School), Our Lady of Providence, Our Lady of Victory, St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran School, Steppingstone Center for the Potentially Gifted and William Allan Academy.

Rezmierski noted that the district has an excellent relationship with all six auxiliary schools but that enrollment in the special education program is growing — and so are the costs

Currently the program is servicing 38 students and Rezmierski said it has the potential to grow to as many as 75 students by June 16 Two years ago the program serviced three students, he said

In addition to assisting the students in direct service programs, the special education staff has done 58 evaluations of children to determine their eligibility for the program, through March 31 of this year In the 1985-86 year the program evaluated 30 students. Rezmierski noted that it took 145 staff hours to evaluate the 58 students this year alone. The program has nine staff members

Rezmierski said his main concern was the pace at which the parochial and private schools were entering the area He mentioned the possibility of the Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church school with its potential of up to 1,200 students and the Fairlane West Church school.

"Northville has been given the No 1 designation for real estate for church schools to be built," Rezmierski said "Parents are coming from great distances to drop children off in Northville."

Approximately 5-7 seven percent of a school's enrollment generally is eligible for special education services, Rezmierski noted

The potential of large schools, with large enrollments and the subsequent increases in auxiliary services needed, would require more staffing for the special education department sometime in the near future, he said.

Superintendent George Bell noted that a recent court case by the cities of Livonia and Birmingham sought to overturn the requirement that public schools provide special education services to all students attending school within the district's boundary and sought payment for the services from the city in which the student resides, not the one in which the school is located. The cities lost that case and no appeal has been filed.

A BETTER WAY TO CLEAN TEETH

Dental plaque is a sticky invisible film that contains bacteria and is the major casue of tooth decay and periodontal (gum) disease The trouble with removing plaque from teeth is that you can't see it easily with the naked eye But there is a way to make the "invisible" show up Chew a disclosing tablet before brushing your teeth and it will leave a red stain where the plaque is on your teeth Remove all the red stain and you'll remove the plaque Here's a five step procedure to use before going to bed each night if you want healthy teeth

1 Make the plaque visible by chewing a disclosing tablet
2 Brush your teeth using a dry soft bristle brush without toothpaste Place the bristles at a 45 degree angle pointing toward the gum Move the brush back and forth with short strokes Clean chewing surfaces with short scrubbing strokes
3 Use unwaxed dental floss to clean between the teeth and under the gum edges
4 Rinse and examine the teeth for any remaining red areas
5 Brush again using toothpaste concentrating on the areas that still contain plaque For best results don't eat again before going to bed

Czanko, left, Rosemary Mentag and Amy Strumann aren't just blowing smoke about the Friends of the Library

Friends of library to hold membership drive

With a goal of 40 new members, the Friends of the Northville Public Library are conducting a membership drive during American Library Week April 18-23

A group of 64 Friends have volunteered to staff the library for six days to encourage library users to become members as a way to lend support to the library The Friends work to add equipment and provide services the annual budget does not provide

To give the library a festive appearance during American Library Week, balloons will decorate the reading and children's areas. The balloons are printed with the slogan "Ask a Librarian" Young children who come to the library before 3 p.m. will be given a balloon as they leave.

"The Friends have spent nearly $5,000 in the past year to enhance library equipment and programs," Nancy Czanko, chairperson of the membership drive and board member said.

"Our major gifts were the new photocopier, film projector and glass showcase We have raised money for a computer which has not yet been purchased and we have contributed two grants of $500 apiece. One was a matching grant for $500 provided by the National Endowment for the Humanities for books on the U.S Constitution in observance of its bicentennial The other was for books on local history in observance of the Michigan Sesquicentennial

"We appreciate members who can help with our activities but are equally appreciative of those who join just to give financial support to a community service," Czanko said

Membership in the Friends starts at $2 for students and senior citizens A family or individual may join for $5 Contributing memberships are $10, sustaining, $25, and patron, $100. Contributions are tax deductible under IRS and state of Michigan guidelines

In recent months the Friends have conducted a telephone survey of the public on possible sites for a new library and are currently tabulating a user survey conducted by the library

The Friends generate funds through an ongoing sale of used paperback books, three quarterly sales of used books and videocassettes and a sidewalk sale in the summer

Other monies are raised at a benefit dinner at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall restaurant, a book and author luncheon, and a gift book program.

In other celebrations for American Library Week, the library will continue its recent display of feature books on various topics These displays, which have included the intrigue of Robert Ludlum, cooking and nutrician, romances of Danielle Steele and gardening have received high circulation

Beginning during American Library Week, April 18-23, a variety of books will be highlighted which have been read and recommended by the library's staff members

What a day for a ride

The grass was turning green and the weather was warming up just in time for Easter break. And students who often have to be pulled out of bed to make it to school on time had no such problem when it came to fun.

Police: Use common sense to stop rape

is grabbed from behind so Mace is virtually useless," he said, suggesting instead that the victim scream or make noise in an attempt to attract attention

"One of the advantages of living in a small town like Northville is that people are familiar with their neighbors and their cars They know if something isn't right and should know to call the police if they see a strange car That's what we're here for," he said

There have been a total of 10 rapes or attempted rapes in western Oakland County since April 1987

The most recent incident occurred Thursday, March 31, when a Farmington Hills woman in her 30s was raped in her home near Thirteen Mile and Orchard Lake Road at 9 p.m. by a knife-wielding man wearing a ski mask The man was waiting for the woman in her home. He blindfolded her, sexually assaulted her and robbed her of a diamond ring. Before leaving on foot, the man also took a stereo cassette recorder, according to Lt Richard Murphy of the Farmington Hills Police Department.

The woman was treated at Botsford General Hospital and released late Thursday evening.

The Bloomfield Township Police Department's canine unit tracked the man to an undisclosed area where he apparently got into a car and drove away, Murphy said.

In most of the Oakland County assaults, the attacker wielded a large knife, wore a ski mask and surprised his victims when they returned home alone

Farmington Hills Police Chief Willian Dwyer said the rape victims are probably stalked anywhere from two weeks to four months before the rapist strikes. Dwyer added that the man may stalk one or more victims simultaneously.

"He follows the victims from work or a restaurant or somewhere they would normally be," said Dwyer. "When he feels she will be alone, he strikes. This guy is well-planned and methodical."

The latest description available of the rapist is that he is a white man, 20-30 years of age, 5'8" tall, 150 pounds and of slim build. When last seen he was wearing black gloves, black ski mask, acid-washed buttonfly jeans and a dark shirt

BeGole indicated that detectives from Novi, Farmington, Farmington Hills and West Bloomfield meet regularly to share information about the crimes

Police feel they now have new physical evidence which suggests the man who raped the Farmington Hills woman on March 31 traveled to Cleveland for the Easter weekend The same evidence further implicates the same man in the Thanksgiving rapes of two women in Farmington Hills

Write 'No' for contest

The police departments in the City of Northville and Northville Township are joining with other law enforcement officials in sponsoring an anti-drug essay contest

Local police departments in western Wayne County the Wayne County Sheriff's Department and the Detroit Free Press are sponsoring the contest Students in kindergarten through grade 12 are asked to write on the different themes on the general topic "Say No to Drugs"

The contest runs through May 6 The rules say that each essay will be judged simply "on its own merit" A representative from the Northville Police Department — probably Chief Rod Cannon — will help in the judging

The contest is divided into four categories, and one essay from each category will earn a prize The categories are

- Kindergarten through grade three — In less than 25 words or through pictures with captions telling why it is wrong to take illegal drugs
- Grade four through grade six — In 50 words or less, telling why illegal drug use is dangerous
- Grade seven through grade nine — In 200 to 300 words, telling why I should "Say no to drugs"
- Grade 10 through grade 12 — In 500 to 800 words, telling why I should "Say no to drugs" and recommend ways to prevent drug use in our schools and communities

Essays should be submitted to Essay contest, care of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department, 1231 St. Antoine, Detroit, Michigan, 48226

Annexation try leaves good neighbors at odds

While it is easy to understand the frustrations felt by developers, residents and business owners over the lack of sewer capacity and the multiple delays toward the construction of new sewer facilities, a move to annexation by another community is not the solution

Thankfully, a site review committee of Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church and Livonia Mayor Robert Bennett understand and a preliminary investigation by a member of the church to ascertain whether Livonia would pursue annexing the church property on Haggerty and Six Mile roads was quashed.

The leadership of the church has worked too long and too hard to build a good relationship with Northville Township to have that good neighbor image blown away by what apparently was a single inquiry by a single member of the church.

However, given the ongoing questions of sewer capacity in southeastern Michigan and particularly in the western Wayne County and southern Oakland County areas, it is easy to see how frustration can lead to action — any action — in an attempt to solve a problem.

For two years, members of Ward Church have attended Northville Township Planning Commission meetings, township Board of Trustee meetings and have been actively involved in the machinations between the Michigan Water Resources Commission and the Western Townships Utility Authority to gain approval for Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority plant expansion.

It is ironic that the question of annexation surfaced just weeks before the WRC granted approval for the expansion. But irony aside, the effort was made and the response from Livonia was emphatic enough, we hope, to put the issue to rest forever.

Now, when a viable solution to sewer capacity is so close, it is time for everyone involved to take a long, hard look at making sure that everyone works together to put the sewer in the ground.

Ward Church will be located in Northville Township for a long time. It would be a shame if one incident should turn the good neighbor efforts put forth by the church and the township into just idle promises.

B and B ordinance deserves consideration

As mentioned before on this page, we're looking forward to the opening later this year of the first bed-and-breakfast inn in the Northville area. The Atchison House is sure to be an asset to the community, and it will be a fine use for the old doctors' clinic on Dunlap street.

It seems like most people agree. But the planned opening of the Atchison House has started some city officials to worrying that this is the start of a trend, and that people are going to be opening inns on every neighborhood corner

The proposed answer to this concern is an ordinance regulating bed-and-breakfasts. While we don't really share the worries about a proliferation of inns, we agree some type of ordinance is a good idea.

The way the city's zoning ordinance currently reads, bed-and-breakfasts must be considered by default to be hotels. And hotels are permitted only in commercial areas.

The idea of a bed-and-breakfast inn is clearly more suited to a residential area than downtown, and we applaud the Board of Zoning Appeals decision which allowed the setting up of an inn in the old clinic building on residentially-zoned land.

So, the zoning ordinance really contains a built-in conflict when it comes to bed-and-breakfast inns. The planning commission members and the city administration appear to have realized this, and are now beginning work to correct it.

What we'll probably end up with is a much more expanded section of the zoning ordinance dealing with the different hotel-type businesses, with clear definitions of each — and where each belongs in the city. In addition, there may be restrictions on how the establishments may operate, much like the rules adopted in communities which have several operating bed-and-breakfast inns.

Northville has hardly become such a resort community that we're going to see people flocking to open bed-and-breakfasts in every other house. But still, in case we do see a few more proposals, it would be nice if, so to speak, the zoning ordinance's ducks were in a row A new ordinance would help.

Live and learn I've heard the phrase dozens of times but it gained a new meaning after last weekend.

My roommate, Cheryl, and I decided to go shopping last Saturday It started as an innocent venture but by the middle of the afternoon we had visited at least six stores, browsing through some of them and picking up necessities at others

Late in the day, when we were about ready to give our weary feet and depleted checkbooks a rest, she spotted it the barbecue grill of her dreams. She stopped to admire it, as it stood among the other grills like a shiny new toy Her eyes sparkled as she eyed its wooden-slated shelves bordering each side, its clean tan exterior. Why, it even had a lever attached to an inside tray that made it possible to lift or lower the charcoal briquets to the grilling rack. As an added feature, it had wheels to make moving the grill a cinch.

Immediately, I knew she was a goner. After lifting the lid, she proclaimed that she had to have it and started listing all of the yummy delicacies we could cook on the grill — steaks, chicken, burgers, ribs, hotdogs, need I go on? I admit, I joined in with her enthusiasm and we filled out an order form for the grill.

In our haste, we neglected to notice that the glorious grill on display didn't bear much resemblance to the single cardboard box with the words "ASSEMBLY REQUIRED" written on, that we received after paying for it. Instead, we happily carted the box off to the car and headed for the grocery store to buy some chicken, barbecue sauce and charcoal.

We had it all planned. We'd take a rest and put the beautiful new grill together on Sunday afternoon. Then we'd feast on our delicious barbecued meal. We invited my fiance, Kevin, over to enjoy our repast, too (we also thought he might come in handy if we needed a little help putting the grill together)

On Sunday we unpacked the grill. But it didn't look very much like a grill. The box contained hundreds of tiny screws and nuts and metal rods and wooden slats and pieces of strangely shaped metal and a couple of plastic black wheels. We looked at it suspiciously and studied the directions for putting it together

Whoever wrote the directions spoke a language far beyond human comprehension and logic. It took over an hour to just to tell the difference between the four varieties of screws. Kevin arrived on the scene as Cheryl was violently attempting to attach the plastic wheels to the frame. Momentarily, he was our hero as we hoped he would be able to make sense out of the directions. About a half hour later, he said he forgot something at home and left us alone with the grill parts.

An agonizing 5½ hours later the parts began to resemble a grill. By now, Cheryl and I didn't care what it looked like. We were even attempting to set fire to it and cook the chicken over the flames. As it turned out, the grill got put together but we're still not sure how we did it. After our experience, though, we both vowed NEVER to buy an unassembled item again in our lifetimes.

By the way, the chicken was mighty tasty

Now that's stuck!

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

Joyce said it best That's Joyce Stowell, my neighbor Not James Joyce, the novelist

"You must have giant rabbits over here," she said after observing the thousands of little divots of dirt left lying on the ground after we had the lawn aerated last week

Joyce had conjured up some flimsy excuse for stopping by the house Monday afternoon But the true reason for her visit was to learn what tricks Mr Phil is planning for his lawn this year

"Eat your heart out, Joyce," I said in response to the rabbit remark "Those divots came from having the lawn aerated And you're having trouble dealing with the fact that — once again this year — Mr Phil will have the best lawn in the neighborhood

"Look at the bright side," I added. "The quality of my lawn will boost the prestige of the entire subdivision. It gives the rest of you guys something to shoot for. In the long run, we'll all benefit as the whole subdivision makes steady progress trying to follow my example."

Joyce knew I had her. She just hated to admit it. In fact, I suspect the rest of the neighbors will admit it too. Bob and Carol. Andy and Cheryl. Ron and Peggy. All of 'em.

Except, of course, for Ed and Yvonne. Particularly Ed, the retired farmer who lives across the street Who thinks life is never better than when he's seated atop his tractor And who mows his lawn about 102 times per week.

I was doing a little raking Saturday, getting things ready for the first mow-job of spring, while Ed and Bob were out mending fence

"Wait'll you see my lawn this year," I hollered at them "I'm getting ready to have the best lawn in the sub again this year "

"It takes an old farmer to grow a good lawn," hollered Ed in response And then he went and revved up his new tractor — just to let me know the gauntlet has been dropped

Readers Speak

It's time to get on high-tech road

To the Editor

First of all, I'd like to thank The Northville Record for providing such an open forum for our residents' views and also allowing the type of discourse we sometimes see in our community's No 1 journal

I've recently exprressed my views about developing parcels of land along Sheldon and Five Mile roads for high-tech businesses, a hotel (or two), luxury condos and perhaps an exclusive-style shopping mall of modest size

Mr Higgins vehemently disagrees with me, and after reading his responses, I admit he makes some good points However, I feel he slighted or slanted some of my thoughts and I'd like to respond here to his views and allegations

Mr Higgins's desire not to have such a development "in his backyard" is seemingly the popular or winning position Because, while Plymouth Township has the well-planned, attractive, revenue-yielding Executive Park and Spinaker Center, we have abandoned, blighted, unsafe, eyesore buildings sitting on economically stagnant land. I know what I, and most people, would rather have in their backyard — and it's not ruins, either

Yes, we have a desirable community, but to have a well-planned, well-engineered and beautifully designed commercial strip, not in the midst of our residential areas, bringing in tax dollars, will make our township yet more desirable and stem the ac celerating taxes on our property

I don't plan on selling any too soon, and the taxes I may pay over time could wipe out much of any profit I may realize when I do sell

I'm not talking about a "Rouge Plant", but a tasteful, dynamic commercial development as is seen in Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield and even Birmingham, which adds to their desirability And, with the support, ideas and involvement of our total community, we can do it even better

We're on the edge of a "Golden High Tech Corridor," and our neighbors are taking advantage of it — right up to our door If I have to look at a "boom," I hope it's ours, too Because, we'll certainly see Plymouth's and it will be right across Five Mile

Diligent, concerned and smart planning will save most of the environment and landscape and it would be something even Mr Higgins would be glad to look over his fence at while knowing his taxes are at least palatable, thanks to Northville's "Tech Town "

Sincerly,
Greg Arceri

To the Editor:
As five members of the Parish Council at Our Lady of Victory Parish, we read with interest the Record's interpretation of the March 26th meeting of more than 150 members of Our Lady of Victory Parish at the First United Methodist Church

We respect the tradition of the Record for its presentation of facts However, we found three items objectionable in the presentation made on this event First, the article's headline leads readers to believe that a new principal for our school has been found This is not the case, we still have our very caring and highly qualified principal Mrs Sharalene Thompson Second, identification of individuals making comments should have been unilateral. The phrase "member of the Church Council who declined to be identified" indicates a sense of poor journalistic inference Last, as five of fifteen Council members presently representative of the Our Lady of Victory Parish, we would like to state that at no time during our tenure have we ever discussed as a Council any of the purported ideas expressed by the "unidentified Council member", and would like to know why that "unidentified Council member" would presume to speak for us as a body in such an irresponsible manner

We would hope that the Record would thoroughly investigate this situation — so that a more accurate representation could be made to the intelligent readership of the Record

Israeli soldiers

To the Editor

I am much aggrieved by the sight of Israeli soldiers mercilessly beating elderly women and children with clubs The arrogance and bullying tactics of these armed barbarians are reminiscent of Hitler's SS, or South Africa's present day behavior towards the Blacks

The evil hand of Kissinger bears considerable responsibility for the impasse in the Middle East It was he who, in 1975, set the policy of not negotiating with the representatives of the Palestinians, the PLO More recently, it was Kissinger who urged the Israeli to put down the insurrection as quickly as possible, "overwhelmingly, brutally and rapidly."

As in Botha's hell, the Israeli's have denied access to the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, recently, to the electronic press. How long are U S billions and military equipment to be used in oppressing and killing people whose only desire is to live in peace on land they can call their own?

Very truly yours,
Alfred P. Galli

Driven to distraction

By Phil Ginotti

Everybody always said, "Phil, be very careful when you drive a new car," and you can build a case for this being pretty good advice

First, you've got the homing devices to put up with A small, gregarious lot has seen to it that your new car is equipped with one of these.

Basically, these people, from their headquarters, Idiot Central, are able to track you at all times. They see to it that your path is strewn with near misses and your life, in the process, made like hell on earth

They contract work out to young kids in muscle cars, old people, and the drivers of rust-riddled flatbed trucks. They have extensive ground forces as well, equipped with shopping carts, bikes and skateboards. The works.

And, of course, their goal is to come as close as possible without leaving a scratch. This is done just to keep the fear of what could happen fresh in your mind, rather than just getting the first good gouge over with.

In your mind, you're worrying about "The First One." You stop laughing at Earl Scheib commercials. You don't think the rolly-polly parking lot attendant is funny anymore. Breakfast becomes only a prelude to the commute A time to worry earnestly about every bouncing pebble with your name on it. That stray soul who just pulled himself up out of the gutter this morning, dusted off and settled in behind the wheel. The lady drying her fingernails by sticking her hands — both of them — out the window.

One day, I'm motoring through west Oakland County and I look up to see this kid, no more than 16, in my rear view mirror. One hand around his girl, his other elbow leaning on the window. Who knows what's driving the car. In addition, his lips are planted on his girlfriend, with his eyes supposedly pointed left towards the roadway. Try this sometime.

So I pull over and let him go by. The kid saves shearing the driver's side door off my car at the last minute by bolting across the center line directly into the path of, you guessed it, a 1988 Grand Am. The sticker is still fresh on the window Mission accomplished. Twice

And of course, Mother Nature is in on this This time I'm driving on a local freeway. The guy in front of me, driving another Grand Am, suddenly locks up his breaks. "WHAM," he hits a deer dead-on. The deer flies up over the car and directly in the path of my plastic grill. I missed it, but only by an inch or two. And it wasn't easy.

Then a strange thing happened. I get out of the car to check on this poor soul who just wiped out Bambi's little brother, and he has a strange smile on his face. His wife is trying to comfort him, but he doesn't need it. He is at rest. At peace for just a moment in this troubled world of ours.

His car, of course, is heavily damaged. In the illumniation of one of the headlights, which is now hanging by a wire and pointed toward the ground, I can see a steaming trail of green fluid forming a pool at his feet.

Then I take a closer look. Wait a minute, this car has 30,000 miles on it. Why, it's not new at all. It's a 1986 Grand Am.

And it dawns on me. Two years worth of close calls are now over for this guy. Two years of hell on earth are behind him. It's genuine relief. Earned relief. And it's only in the distant future for me.

Teachers win tenure in district

Northville High School will have add one new teacher to its official rolls following action by the school board last Monday night

Linda Balfour, a high school math teacher hired in February to fill a vacancy, was granted a probationary contract by the board. Balfour will serve a one-year probationary period in Northville Teachers are required to serve two years of probation unless they have received tenure in another Michigan school district. Balfour taught for 6½ years prior to her Northville hiring.

In other board action, four teachers were granted tenure. Teachers become eligible for tenure following the two-year probationary period. Teachers Lynne Cavanaugh of Winchester, Cheryl Gibbs of Meads Mill, Elizabeth Parker of Meads Mill and Janet Salmon of Meads Mill received tenured status effective at the beginning of the 1988-89 school year.

Jeffrey Wixom, owner of Sunset Sportswear, displays one of his finished products in the production room

Small investment pays big dividends for local business

By KAY FAHEY

Jeffrey Wixom, owner of Sunset Sportswear in Green Oak Township, summarizes his business philosophy with this simple adage "If you fail to plan, you can plan on failing"

The 26-year-old entrepreneur applies his work ethic to the creation and printing of designs on T-shirts, jackets and caps for businesses and organizations

The thriving business is located in the Colonial Industrial Park off Ten Mile

Wixom first printed one of his designs on a T-shirt for a class assignment when he was a senior at Lakeland High School in the Huron Valley School District He received so many requests for the shirt, he decided to go into business.

"I had a job bussing tables at a restaurant in Brighton, and I had saved $900. I used that money to buy used equipment and started out in my dad's basement That was in March 1979," Wixom recalled

Wixom sold his shirts by going to local businesses and showing them samples of his work Nearly six years later, he was able to purchase new equipment and move out of the basement into rented quarters. In the summer of 1986, he moved to his own facility

"I was just throwing money out the window, paying rent, and I needed more space. Now I have 16,000 square feet, compared to 1,000, and I'm only paying $38 per month more," Wixom said

From the beginning, he has been self-financed "I always made do with what I had I would save, and then invest that money in a new machine," Wixom explained.

The frugality has paid off Sunset Sportswear now has the capacity to print 500 shirts per hour "A big job is 1,000 for T-shirts, but the average order is from two to six dozen Our minimum order is one dozen for shirts, two dozen for caps and a half dozen for jackets. Right now we're working on about 50 orders," he said.

Although Wixom is able to handle large orders, he does not hesitate to take small ones "Small orders turn into large ones, and businesses refer other businesses Right now I have about five orders a day just from repeat business."

Most of Wixom's customers are within a 50-mile radius, and include such well known names as GM Proving Ground His primary clientele are businesses, schools and athletic teams

Wixom attributes much of his success to an emphasis on quality workmanship "I want to represent us as a high quality multi-color printer Quality of design and color separation are very important. I want the designs to be clean and

CONGRESSMAN CARL D PURSELL (above, left) has been awarded his fourth "Golden Bulldog" by the Watchdogs of the Treasury The award was based on Pursell's voting efforts to cut federal spending, eliminate waster and reduce the national deficit It was presented by Watchdog sponsor George Franklin (right), vice president of the Kellogg Company of Battle Creek

Pursell scored 80 percent in the most recent "Economy Voting Record"

According to the Watchdogs, the award is presented to "those members of Congress who vote to contain unnecessary government spending at least 75 percent of the time," based on a compilation of selected votes on economic and fiscal issues published in the Economy Voting Record

"While I'm proud to receive this award, I am more proud of the fiscally-responsible voting record it represents," Pursell said during a recent ceremony where the presentation was made

JEFFREY P HAMMERER of Novi is one of 13 employees of Armstrong World Industries, Inc , to receive the 1987 President's Award for Excellence, the highest annual award given to Armstrong employees in recognition of outstanding achievements

Hammerer is a senior marketing representative in the Residential Building Products Division in Detroit Each winner of the President's Award receives $2,500 in cash, $3,000 in Armstrong stock, a bronze plaque, a blazer, a commemorative pen and pencil set, and a lapel pin or necklace

Headquartered in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, Armstrong is primarily a manufacturer and marketer of interior furnishings Its products include floor coverings (resilient flooring and carpets), building products and furniture .The company, which achieved record sales of $2 365 billion in 1987, also makes a variety of specialty products for the building, automotive, textile and other industries

THE NOVI HILTON has earned the Four Diamond award from the American Automobile Association (AAA) to classify it among the nation's top accommodations, according to AAA Michigan.

"Guests visiting a Four Diamond establishment are assured of superior facilities, additional amenities, exceptional service and extra touches that separate good lodging from excellent lodging," stated AAA Michigan Touring Manager Brian Potter.

"AAA thoroughly inspects and rates facilities each year to help travelers take the guesswork out of selecting a place to spend the night," Potter said

Only 7 percent of the more than 18,000-AAA approved accommodations inspected annually are selected for Four Diamond status

A total of 21 Michigan hotels received the Four Diamond award Diamond ratings will appear next to establishment listings in the 1988 AAA Michigan/Wisconsin TourBook, which will be available at AAA Michigan offices statewide in May.

INSURANCE EXCHANGE AGENCY, INC., in Northville was named to the President's Million $ Council in 1988 by Citizens Insurance Company It is the second year in which the insurance agency has achieved the honor with Citizens

"The President's Million $ Council is a special honorary group established by Citizens to recognize outstanding sales and above-average underwriting results by the independent agencies which represent us," explained James J Coville, vice president of marketing at Citizens Insurance Company in Howell

The Insurance Exchange Agency placed over $2 5 million in premium with Citizens in 1987 and fulfilled all other requirements to qualify for the honor The agency will receive an award plaque and other special benefits

The Insurance Exchange Agency is one of only 25 selected from among more than 500 independent agencies that represent Citizens, the largest writer of insurance through independent agents in Michigan

KATHLEEEN A GODFREY has been named accountant for the R A DeMattia Company, a leading land development and design/build construction firm headquartered in Plymouth

Godfrey, who holds a BBA in Finance from Western Michigan University, is responsible for the preparation of various reports within development and corporate sections including insurance and budgeting

MARY O'NEILL of Whitmore Lake recently joined the staff at VIP 1000 — a promotions and advertising agency — as advertising associate for the business

O'Neill is married, has three children and has been a Whitmore Lake resident since June 1987. She has several years of experience in the public relations field and has developed skills in many areas of advertising programs

JUDY NEUBACHER, a Certified Financial Planner, recently opened a business at 22322 Pontiac Trail in South Lyon She shares an office — which is located behind the Convenient Dental Center — with Jacob R Strecker, CPA

A former teacher and restaurant owner, Neubacher offers financial planning services for both businesses and individuals

JUDY CUBBERLY

CHARLES KIRBY

JUDY CUBBERLY of Novi has joined the staff at the Northville/Novi office of Real Estate One. She and her husband Gary reside with their three sons in Novi's Village Oaks subdivision.

The Real Estate One family of companies is based on two basic principles: providing the highest level of service to all buyers and sellers and developing their own people to their highest level of success

CHARLES KIRBY, AIA, has been promoted to vice president of DeMattia and Associates, the architectural/design affiliate of the R.A DeMattia Company, a leading land development and design/build construction firm headquartered in Plymouth.

Kirby, who formerly held the position of director of architecture, joined the firm in 1984. He is a registered architect and a graduate of the University of Detroit.

PETER WERTHMANN

JIM SUNDBERG

PETER J. WERTHMANN of Highland has been named personnel and administration manager for Ford Moter Land Development Corporation after serving as organization development administrator for Ford Motor Company's Plastic Products Division.

In his new post, Werthmann will have personnel and administrative responsibilities for Ford Land's work involving major real estate projects in the Detroit area and Colorado Springs, and the providing of real estate consulting and service to the parent company's worldwide activities

Werthmann joined Ford in 1966 as an administrative specialist for the Automotive Assembly Division He later served in a variety of personnel and organization positions involving hourly employment, labor relations and training at various plant, division and staff locations in southeastern Michigan.

He was named organization development administrator at the former Plastics, Paint and Vinyl Division in 1984 and at Plastics Products Division in 1986.

Before joining Ford, he served as credit manager and later as personnel manager for the Sheraton Motor Inn in New York City.

A native of New York, he received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Michigan State University in 1962.

JIM SUNDBERG of Northville has been appointed engineering manager by Ingersoll-Rand Company's Automated Production Systems (APS) Division, a major supplier of automated assembly, engine testing, weater-jet cutting and sophisticated fastener-tightening systems for the automotive, appliance, ordinance and other manufacturing industries.

Following a 12-year hiatus, Sundberg returns to APS where he had been a project engineer until 1975, specializing in highly sensitive ordnance assembly systems and automated transfer lines for assembling automotive differentials. In the interim, he owned and operated a professional engineering firm.

As engineering manager, he will direct all APS design engineering functions for APS systems and other proprietary APS machinery components.

FAME INDUSTRIES has announced plans to enlarge its facilities in Wixom. Fame Industries manufactures specialty conveyor systems, automation equipment and assembly systems related to the auto industry.

Fame Industries acquired the five-acre site from Wixom's McQuade/O'Brien Developers last fall and has selected Holton Companies as the design/build firm. Groundbreaking ceremonies were held recently.

Holton Companies, a design/build, construction management and general contracting firm, has designed and will construct the 24,000 square foot single-story office/production facility, devoting approximately 4,000 square feet to office space and 20,000 square feet to production.

The building is oriented on the site to provide the most pleasing architectural features toward Grand River Avenue, and landscaping is extensive to provide a pleasant overall view. The building will combine conventional construction in the office enclosure and pre-engineered steel construction in the manufacturing enclosure. Occupancy is planned for June 1988.

Filing for tax extension saves worries

Money Management

You wake up in a sweat April 15 is closing in and your records are still an intimidating mess Deadline anxiety is making you consider desperate actions

Should you rush to push the return out the door? Or maybe the IRS won't notice if you mail the forms out just a little bit late

If you choose either action, at best, you risk losing money from a carelessly prepared return, at worst, you may suddenly find yourself paying penalties in addition to any tax due

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you have one choice that will keep you from losing both sleep and money request an automatic filing extension by submitting Form 4868 by April 15, 1988

An automatic extension pushes the filing deadline to Aug 15, giving you an additional four months to prepare and file your tax return Take note that the key term here is file, not pay While the IRS allows you an extension for filing your completed tax forms at a later date, any tax due must be paid at the time you request an extension or you'll face interest and possibly penalty fees

(Individuals who need more time to pay their taxes can submit Form 1127, which requires you to document the details of any extraordinary hardship preventing you from paying your taxes on time)

An automatic filing extension is easy to obtain No one from the IRS will knock on your door demanding to know why you are not filing on time

In fact, if you happen to be traveling outside of the United States and Puerto Rico on April 15, 1988, you don't even have to submit Form 4868 Your filing and payment deadlines will be postponed until June 15, 1988, automatically

If you file a joint return, only one spouse need be out of the country on April 15, 1988, for the automatic extension to apply Your only requirement is attaching a statement to your return, explaining that you were out of the United States and Puerto Rico on the due date of your return

Outside of this exception, anyone else desiring an extension must file Form 4868 — a simple, one-page, seven-question form asking you to estimate your tax liability for 1987 and pay any tax due

Paying less than your total 1987 tax bill triggers an interest charge. The IRS interest charge is levied on any amount you oe — even when you apply for an automatic extension A penalty of one-half of one percent (5) a month is slapped on those who have not paid 90 percent or more of their tax bill by April 15. The penalty grows by .5 percent a month, but cannot exceed 25 percent

To avoid the penalty, carefully calculate whether you have paid at least 90 percent of your tax. This can be a little tricky, especially for someone with lots of deductions and several sources of income However, for an employee with few deductions and only one principal source of income, the calculations are relatively simple

To estimate whether you meet the 90 percent requirement, you'll need a 1040 or 1040A form at your side Check the W-2 mailed to you by your employer to see how much tax was withheld from your paycheck and how much income you received Total any additional sources of income, and then calculate any adjustments to income Refer to your tax form and follow the next three steps

First, compare your total itemized deductions with the amount of your standard deduction (formerly called zero-bracket amount) and determine which is greater. Secondly, add to the higher figure the monetary value of any personal exemptions to which you are entitled Finally, subtract the total arrived at in step two from your adjusted gross income The amount calculated in this step will be your taxable income. Check the 1987 tax table to estimate what your tax bill will be and compare this number to the amount you have already paid through withholding or estimated tax payments. If that amount is at least 90 percent of the figure in the tax table, you are safe from the penalty

If at the end of the four-month extension period you are still unable to file a return, you can request a second extension period you are still unable to file a return, you can request a second extension by filing Form 2688. If granted, the second extension buys an additional two months, making the filing deadline October 15

But don't assume that the second extension is automatic — this grace period is granted only to individuals proving hardship or reasonable cause Incomplete reasons such as "illness" or "practitioner too busy" are not acceptable You will have to supply detailed explanations, so don't count on a second extension unless you have a legitimate claim

Remember, filing extensions are intended to help people who cannot conveniently file a return by April 15 If you are a chronic procrastinator, however, postponing the tax deadline is simply impractical If you can calculate where you stand in relation to the 90 percent requirement, filing a 1040 may require just a bit more time and effort than the extension form

One final reassuring note on extensions CPAs say there is no truth to the myth that filing for an extension invites an IRS audit IRS officials also repudiate this rumor Rather than breaking into a sweat over the April 15 deadline this year, you may want to look into filing for an extension

Social Security says beneficiaries must file

Beneficiaries who worked last year and earned over the Social Security annual earnings limit are required to file an annual report of earnings with Social Security by April 15

You should take the time to use this report for one of the things it is designed to be — a planning tool that permits you to work and receive Social Security benefits painlessly and profitably

The report is completed to show how much you earned last year and how much you expect to earn in the current year Social Security then adjusts your benefits to reflect your estimate

Problems occur when people earn more than they estimate and fail to report it to Social Security so that their benefits can be adjusted to reflect the increased earnings The result is that thy receive more benefits than they are entitled to — an overpayment

The law requires that overpayments be paid back Generally, this is accomplished through deductions from future benefits but it may be repaid in a lump sum In any case, the process can be painful to people who rely on Social Security benefits as their primary source of income after they stop working

When making an estimate of earnings, a person should consider such things as cost-of living increases potential raises, tips, etc Employees should note that the amount that must be reported is gross earnings not take-home pay For self employed persons the amount that must be reported is net income after deducting business expenses

Any change in earnings should be reported as soon as possible to avoid overpayments Changes may be reported by telephone, mail or in person to any Social Security office

Failure to file an annual earnings report may require a person to pay a monetary penalty Failure to provide an estimate of earnings for 1988 could result in an interruption of benefits

The earnings limit for beneficiaries under 65 was $6,000 in 1987 and is $6,120 for 1988 For people 65-69, the limit was $8,160 in 1987 and $8,400 in 1988 The earnings limits do not apply to people 70 and over

You should have received a copy of the earnings report form in the mail If not, call any Social Security office for a form The number is 858-2523

crisp with sharp lines," he said

Watching Wixom demonstrate the procedure used to print a design makes the difficulties of the operation clear Each color in the design must be applied separately, and the lines cannot deviate by even a millimeter

To make the process even more complex, Wixom frequently fades colors into each other. For example, in one of his designs, the beak of a toucan fades from orange to yellow. "You have to go over it a few times to get it to come out right."

Wixom and his artists create the designs in his upstairs workshop. Transferring the designs to cloth requires the use of photographic negatives. "You have to use your imagination a lot in doing the separate stages of design work," Wixom said.

Wixom also emphasizes the use of imagination in creating designs. "I like to do modern, trendy stuff. I like to use puff ink to make a design look more real. For example, we used puff ink on a pumpkin and on a soccer ball to make them puff out on the material. It has a better effect," he said.

Once the design is complete, Wixom has it approved by the customer before the order is filled so that mistakes can be detected, especially spelling errors.

After the design is printed, the ink must be cured to keep it from smearing. "It must be cured — reach 320 degrees — and not just dry to the touch. I have a conveyor dryer that cost nine grand ($9,000), and all it does is just dry the ink on shirts and jackets," Wixom laughed.

Sunset Sportswear offers shirts in either 100 percent or blended cotton and carries two weights of fabric. "I buy shirts from all over. Right nowsuppliers are very short on shirts, especially 100 percent cotton High quality cotton shirts have gone up in price 50 cents in the past 18 months I've had to absorb a lot of dollar increases," Wixom said.

Currently, Wixom is putting together a catalogue of all Sunset Sportswear s products "It's a big growth step for us. I don't want to grow too fast I try to think of everything ahead."

Wixom added, "A couple of years ago, sales more than doubled, and things were really hectic. I felt like I didn't do my customers justice. I'm trying to do the best I can do."

BBB warns consumers of auto equity offers

Consumers who have been tempted to take advantage of advertisements claiming to rescue them from car payments, or ads offering assistance in getting a car with instant credit approval, should look at such ads with caution, according to the Better Business Bureau.

"Auto equity promotors" are individuals or companies in the business of acquiring vehicles from an original owner or lessee who cannot continue to make payments and then sells or subleases the car (for a fee) to someone who otherwise may have had problems purchasing or leasing a car.

Although the original owner or lessee does not have the car any longer, the car still remains in his or her name.

According to a BBB report, "Auto Equity Plans", contract assumption or subleasing is a growing issue from which several problems can arise Most purchase/lease agreements prohibit assumption by a third party Some states have passed laws making it a felony to assume a sales contract or to sublease without the express written permission of the lien holder (usually thefinancial institution) or the lessor

Also, some of the auto equity promotors may simply pocket payments received rather than pay the lending institution and then leave town. If the lending institution does not receive its payment, it will attempt to repossess the car, and the original owner or lessee still owes the balance even though the car is not in his or her possession.

For a copy of this report, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the BBB, 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226 Attn Auto Equity Plans

013 Card of Thanks

THE Family of Donald R MacDonald would like to thank all of our friends for their friendship, sympathy, support and tributes during Don's illness and death
Rev Gary Damon of United Methodist Church of Howell and Rev Kenneth Gruebel of the Geneva Presbyterian Church of Canton were there when we needed them, and will always be remembered for their kind words and prayers in the hospital and during the funeral service. Thank you again, to the members of the Methodist Women's Association for the very lovely dinner you served after the service
Don would have been pleased to know that the Pall bearers were Norman Pettibone Mac Smith, Doug Swann who all grew up together in Howell Dick Pless and Mike Dilloway who were buddies from the Genral Motors Proving Grounds, and 2 members from the Antique Car Club, Jerry Daugherty and Albert Sawallich
Thank you again, each and every one of our friends May God bless you all Sincerely, Barb MacDonald, Chris and Tom Knapp Tom and Wensday MacDonald, Marie and Kim Sawyer

EXOTIC PETS

Boas, tarantulas rate high among more unusual pets

By Brenda Bonzheim

An eager tail-wagging welcome from floppy-eared Rover at the end of the day isn't the dream of every pet owner

And the comforting purr of a furry feline isn't music to all pet lovers' ears.

A select few, for instance, prefer to snuggle with a smooth scaly boa. Or to have the skin on their arm tickled affectionately by the hairy legs of a black tarantula

Still others may enjoy stroking the beak of a crested white cockatoo or simply watching a miniature school of brilliant metallic-colored tropical fish swim leisurely within an aquarium.

Energetic Spider or Squirrel monkeys may catch the fancy of some animal fans, while sea anemones, shrimps and crabs are tops with others.

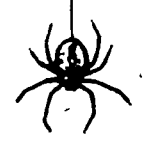
Certain species of lizards, scorpions (with the stinger removed), iguanas, pythons and parrots also have been incorporated into the households of several pet owners seeking an unusual animal companion.

The owners of these unusual adopted critters certainly didn't scour faraway tropical islands or steamy, sandy safaris in search of the exotic pet of their dreams. Instead, they probably hopped into their cars and headed posthaste for a specialty pet shop, many of which can be found locally.

At The House of Pets in Garden City, owner Larry Lempicki carries a variety of animals, reptiles, fish and exotic birds. Upon request, he also has filled special orders for cougars, wallabies (small kangaroos) and bears, just to name a few.

His 3,200 square foot store, however, allows him to keep several kinds of other unusual pets in stock. The most popular sellers at his store are reptiles — such as boas and pythons — tarantulas, scorpions and tropical fish

Various types of monkeys also can be found at Lempicki's pet shop, such as African, Spider and Squirrel breeds. Lempicki said he doesn't sell as many monkeys as he does reptiles because they're more expensive and require a lot of care and attention. A Spider money, for example, costs about $2,000, he said.



When it comes to the more exotic pets, Lempicki pointed out that he is particularly careful about who he sells them to

"We have to be selective about who takes the pets home because it takes special care to own them and not everyone is equipped to do so," Lempicki said "In some cases I tend to discourage rather than encourage potential pet owners from purchasing one of the more unusual pets because they may not know what they're getting into"

Lempicki has a special license that allows him to sell animals such as the cougars and wallabies. Because he is one of the few to sell such unusual pets, he draws customers from a wide area — they have come from Grand Rapids, Ohio and Canada, as well as locally.

Bill Halstead, owner of a Farmington pet store called The Everglades, said tropical, freshwater and saltwater fish are the most popular sellers at his store.

Exotic birds, such as parrots and cockatoos, also prove to be favorites among his customers. Unconventional pets, including iguanas, spiders and scorpions are frequently requested, too.

"I probably sell a couple of tarantulas a week, sometimes less and sometimes more," Halstead commented

Tarantulas range in price from $8.99 to $19.99

Before purchasing an out-of-the-ordinary reptile, bird or insect as a pet, several factors must be considered, such as the cost of taking care of it and the expense of supplying its dietary needs

Tarantulas and scorpions, for example, eat live crickets The crickets also are available at Halstead's store

Iguanas, on the other hand, prefer to munch on tasty garden salads. Boas and pythons require a diet of mice, rats and assorted small animals, Halstead added

The price of purchasing a boa depends mainly on its size, Halstead explained. A two-foot boa costs approximately $200, while a five-foot boa may cost anywhere from $300 to $500.

The store serves customers from several communities, including Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington Hills and Southfield

At Fins, Fur and Feathers, a pet shop in Livonia, exotic birds are a specialty Owners of the store also take special orders for unusual pets.

Debbie Lee, co-owner of the store, said tropical fish are the most popular sellers there. Exotic birds — cockatiels, parrots, cockatoos, macaws and several others — are next in popularity.

The birds range in price from $29.99 to thousands of dollars. A true grade cockatoo, like the one featured on the former "Barretta" TV show is worth $10,000 because it's on the endangered species list, Lee noted.

Lee and her business partner, Gerard Grzasko, spend a lot of time taming the birds and teaching them to talk

"I don't think it's fair to sell a bird to someone and say 'here, you can teach it to talk and when it bites you, put it in a cage.' We're really fussy about the birds we buy and about who we sell them to," Lee noted "They're very, very intelligent creatures."

The screening process of potential pet owners is needed because large parrots have the mentality of a three-year-old child and require an extremely specialized diet as well as extensive care and attention, Lee explained. She estimated that 60 percent of the birds sold to customers die within three to five years after purchasing them because they're fed an inadequate diet.

The birds need to eat from the four basic food groups every day, just as humans do, Lee pointed out. At Fins, Fur and Feathers the birds are fed Topper's Bird Ranch diet, a type of bird food that contains no sunflower seeds, apples, yogurt and regular 'people food.'

Although a market does exist for exotic pets, most area pet stores limit their selections to more traditional animals.

At Docktor's Pet Center of Northland, dogs, cats, tropical and freshwater fish, hamsters and gerbils are the most frequently purchased pets. Lovebirds and parrots are the favorites among feathered friends

Juanita Montgomery, manager of Docktor's, said Rottwilder puppies are the most popular breed of dog sold at her Northland shop.

As most pet shop owners will agree, the allure of owning an exotic or unusual pet may be more glamorous than it actually is. But for those who choose to come home to a monkey, tarantula or cockatoo, the extra care and expense is part of the satisfaction of being a pet owner

Home improvements make cents

A recent study by "Remodeling Contractor" estimates that adding a fireplace at an average cost of $3,350 adds an average of $4,600 to the resale value of a home. That's a profit of 38 percent.

Homeowners are putting more into home improvement than ever before. And, if they do it right, it's worth it, according to Gerald Kosmensky, president of the Southern Michigan Home Owners Warrant (HOW) Corp., the nation's oldest and largest warrant and insurance program.

The Census Bureau estimates that $91 3 billion was spent on home remodeling last year, up nearly 14 percent from a year earlier. "Remodeling Contractor" magazine estimates that this year, homeowners will spend another $90 billion on home improvements.

Why is renovation booming? According to a recent Wall Street Journal interview, people who find their home is the best performing item in their portfolio are buying houses and making improvements with an eye to reselling at a profit.

From a purely investment standpoint, there are both winners and losers when it comes to home improvements. Not all renovations spell profit

Today's big winners are the addition of a fireplace or full bath. A recent study by "Remodeling Contractor" estimates that adding a fireplace at an average cost of $3,350 adds an average of $4,600 to the resale value of a home. That's a profit of 38 percent.

Adding a full bath at an average cost of $8,200 adds an average of $10,000 or a profit of 22 percent.

Other cost-effective home improvements include remodeling an outdated kitchen, adding a family room, bedroom or central air-conditioning, and the addition of energy-saving features such as insulation, siding or storm windows.

The biggest investment mistake, according to "Remodeling Contractor," is a swimming pool. At an average cost of $19,500, the addition of a pool only adds $6,500 at resale, representing a loss of 67 percent. Other losers include tennis courts, finished attics and re-roofing.

If you are thinking about resale, you cannot afford to overlook the fact that more than 90 percent of all prospective home buyers consider an insured warranty an improtant consideration in their buying decision, according to "Professional Builder" magazine.

Says Kosmensky: "It is clear that today's home buyers understand the investment potential of a home and want to do everything they can to protect that investment.

Under the HOW program, builders warranty their homes against faulty workmanship and materials for one year, and against major structural defects and defects in the wiring, plumbing, heating and cooling ventilating and mechanical systems for two years.

HOW builders carry insurance on their warranties so that the home will be repaired by HOW's insurer if the builder does not or cannot make the repairs required by the warranty.

For the last eight years of the program, the builder carries insurance to cover the cost of repairing major structural defects in the home.

HOW is the only new home warranty and insurance program endorsed by the National Association of Home Builders.

Senior trip to Lansing planned

Northville area senior citizens have several offerings to choose from through the Northville Community Recreation department this month.

☐ Senior Center Travelog: The Northville Area Senior Citizens Center will be showing films on Hawaii, New England, and "Steady As She Goes" at the Activity Center from 11 a.m. until noon. There is no charge for this program.

☐ Catherine McAuley Health Series: The Catherine McAuley Health Series will be offered at Allen Terrace on Wednesday, April 20 at 12:30 p.m. The topic will be "Diabetes & You" and will be presented by Mary Vanden Bosch, R.N. Topics covered will be : What causes diabetes, who is at risk, symptoms and treatments of diabetes, and diet and drugs to control diabetes. There is no charge for the program and lunch is available at Allen Terrace before the health series. You must make reservations 24 hours in advance at 349-9661.

☐ RSVP/Retired Senior Volunteer program: Betty Carver, from RSVP, will be at the activity center recruiting senior citizens for volunteering opportunities in and around the area. Carver will be making her presentation at 11 a.m. on Thursday, April 21. Call 349-4140 for reservations or for further information

☐ State Senior Power Day: Senior citizens from Northville or Northville Township are invited to attend the State Senior Power day in Lansing on Wednesday, April 27. The Northville Area Senior Citizens Advisory Council is providing transportation to and from Lansing as well as lunch. Pick up will be from homes or apartments at 7:30 a.m. and the return to Northville should be by 6 p.m. Participants will be able to join activities in Lansing, tour the capital building and visit with their state representative. Early reservations are recommended

Four Northville volunteers honored

Four Northville residents are being honored for their volunteer service by Catherine McAuley Health Center.

Anne Borrusch, Jean Lamont, Sylvia Thacker and Elaine Washburn will be cited for their service to the health care center at a recognition dinner tonight, April 14, at a banquet at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor.

The four Northville women are among 700 Catherine McAuley Health Center volunteers who donated a total of more than 49,000 hours of service over the past year in 110 different service areas.

"The value of their precious time and caring cannot be measured," JoAnne Desmond, director of Volunteer Services said. "Their help and concern add a special dimension to the Health Center."

Volunteers deliver flowers, work on patient units, provide care and assistance for patients undergoing chemotherapy, act as tour guides, make initial visits to patients in the name of Pastoral Ministry and much more.

Volunteer placement is available at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Mercywood Health Building, Reichert Health Building, Maple Health Building, Huron Oaks Chemical Dependency Treatment Facility — all in Ann Arbor, or the Arbor Health Building in Plymouth and the McAuley Health Building in Canton.

Prospective volunteers can attend an information meeting from 7-8 p.m. April 25 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Education Center on E. Huron River Drive in Ann Arbor. Two information meetings specially geared for teens will be held from 10-11 a.m. May 14 and from 7-8 p.m. on May 17 also in the Education Center. Adults are welcome to attend the May information meetings.

For more information or to sign up to attend an information meeting, call the Volunteer Services Department, 572-4159.

NHS graduates plan two summer reunions

If it's spring then class reunions cannot be far behind.

Two Northville High School graduating classes are celebrating reunions this summer and are anxious to get in touch with former classmates.

☐ The 1978 graduating class of Northville High School will be holding their 10 year class reunion on Saturday, June 25 at the Novi Sheraton Oaks Hotel. A reception will be held from 7-8 p.m. with dinner following at 8 p.m.

Tickets are available by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to: The Class of 1978, c/o 1953 Borman Court, Milford, MI, 48042.

☐ The 1983 graduating class of Northville High School will be celebrating its five year class reunion on August 13 at Corsi's in Livonia on Seven Mile Road.

For more information on times and ticket information contact Sue Bosanko at 349-8694; Michael Kaley at 349-6489 or Liz (Rosenthal) Weisner at 517-546-4905.

Methodist Church sets April calendar

April begins a busy spring for members of the First United Methodist Church of Northville. The church has several special programs and activities planned for the coming weeks.

☐ A new adult studies series is being presented. On Thursday, April 14 at 1 p.m. will be "Exploring the Dimensions of Prayer". This will be a six week Maxie Dunnam study. Jane Berquist is the facilitator.

On Sunday, April 17 at 9:15 a.m. "Raising P.G. Kids in an X-Rated Society" by T. Gore, will be presented

On Sunday April 17 at 9:15 a.m. "Maturing in Faith" a study led by Lois & Fred Finzer will meet.

On Sunday, April 17 at 11 a.m. a new member class begins and meets for six weeks.

☐ The United Methodist Women are holding several programs. On Tuesday, April 12 at noon the program will be Susy Heintz, Wayne County Commissioner speaking on "Social Responsibility" She will answer questions on Wayne County concerns at the meeting.

On Monday, April 18 the program will be on the "Status & Role of Women". The group is meeting at 6:30 p.m. at Riffles Restaurant for dinner and discussion

A support group for mothers meets on April 18 at 9:30 a.m. Moms Offer Moms Support, M.O.M.S., is a support group for mothers of pre-schoolers. This meeting will be with Paula Lupo, a religious educator for 12 years who will be speaking on the subject "A Mother's Heart." Child care will be available.

☐ A special "Masculine Rummage Sale" will be held on April 29-30. The men of the congregation will hold the annual event featuring furniture, lawn furniture, appliances, household items, yard equipment, bikes, sporting items — everything but clothing. All items are needed by April 28.

For further information on any of these programs or events contact the church office at 349-1144 or 349-1680.

La Leche meets April 19

The "Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties" will be the topic at the April meeting of the Northville/Novi La Leche League.

The meeting will be held on Tuesday, April 19 at 9:30 a.m. The La Leche league offers both encouragement and breastfeeding information to interested women. Babies are welcome.

Nature events spring up with walks and classes

As the weather grows warmer the urge to get outside and enjoy nature grows too The University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens sponsors several spring wildflower walks for nature buffs this month.

On April 17 there will be an "Identifying Blood Root and Hepatica" walk. On April 24 the program will be "Look for Trillium and Spring Beauty" and on May 1 the topic will be "Search for Jack-In-The-Pulpit and Wild Geranium".

Participants of the free 1½ hour nature walks should meet Docents on the front steps of the Conservatory.

On Friday, April 22 the Friends of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens will host a free lecture titled, "Man's Best Friend· The Spider"

Speaker James L. Strayer, a naturalist and biology instructor at Wahtenaw Community College has learned much of what he knows about spiders from obscure books, photographing them and close observation.

Strayer said that he feels by using a bit of anthropomorphism, spiders can be seen as having a much closer relationship to humans than with which most of the population feels comfortable. The reputation that spiders have is undeserved, especially for the female, who has a fascinating courtship and excellent parental care, he noted.

The Matthaei Botanical Gardens is located at 1800 North Dixboro Road, Northeast of Ann Arbor and just south of Plymouth Road.

For more information contact Margaret Vergith, promotion coordinator at 763-7060.

Bee school offers instruction

LIVONIA — Southeastern Michigan's 50th annual Bee School will be held Saturday, April 30, at Schoolcraft College. The public is invited to attend. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. and the program will get under way at 9 a.m The registration fee is $3.

The day-long bee school, presented by the Southeastern Michigan Beekeepers Association in cooperation with the College, is designed for beekeepers with one or two colonies, for individuals who are planning to acquire their first hive, for the professional apiarist, or anyone interested in honey bees.

Several different programs have been scheduled during the day. They include lectures and movies on "Varroa Mites" and "Making Beekeeping Enjoyable: 50 Years of Southeastern Michigan Beekeeping." Charles Fisher, well-known Ohio beekeeper, and Roger Hopingarner, Ph.D , of Michigan State University will be the featured speakers.

Demonstrations will include collecting pollen, beeswax rendering, detecting bee diseases, installing package bees and using the microscope to examine your bees. Also planned are exhibits of new beekeeping equipment.

This year, the newly-crowned Michigan Honey Queen, Debbie Dalbak of Farmington, will attend the program. The day includes a picnic-style potluck lunch, movies, door prizes and raffles.

Further information is available by calling Schoolcraft College biology professor Roger Sutherland at 591-6400, extension 521, or Homer Pugh at 879-6634.

Schoolcraft College is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia.

Kensington offerings

Several nature events will be held at Kensington Metropark to herald the arrival of spring.

□ "Pond Life in Spring" will initiate visitors to the life beneath the water by having participants use dipnets to learn about the inhabitants of the pond. The program will be held Saturday, April 23 at 1:30 p.m. Visitors are advised to wear boots.

□ "Amphibian Afternoon" is an opportunity to see and hear some of the resident singing males as they advertise for mates. The program will be held on Sunday, April 24 at 2 p.m. Waterproof boots should be worn for this 1½ hour program.

□ "Woodcock: Flights of Fancy" allows participants to experience the courtship flight of the woodcock while learning about their natural history. This will be held on Wednesday, April 27 at 7:30 p.m. Visitors should dress for the temperature at the park after sunset.

Most of the programs at the park are free, but some may have a nominal charge and advance registration. A vehicle entry permit is required. For information or registration contact the Huron-Clinton Metroparks at 1-800-24-PARKS, toll-free.

Wildflower walks open

LIVONIA — The 11th annual Wildflower Walks on the nature trails of the Livonia Bicentennial Park will be held April 18 through May 28.

The annual event is sponsored by the Schoolcraft College Biology Department and is open to the public without admission charge.

The tours, lasting 45 minutes and covering approximately one-half mile, are conducted by faculty members and persons who have completed a wildflower class at Schoolcraft. Guides this year will include Margaret Converse of Livonia, Kay Wittliff of Farmington, Grover Niergarth of Brighton, and Roger and Mary Sutherland of Ann Arbor.

Bicentennial Park is located on Seven Mile between Newburgh and Farmington roads.

Individuals and groups such as scouts, garden clubs, retirees, churches or any other organizations may schedule a time by contacting Schoolcraft College Biology Professor Roger Sutherland at 591-6400, extension 521.

Northville dental hygienist Janet Wilson

All smiles

Hygienist shines at job

By SHARON ROSE
special writer

Janet Souder Wilson has a lovely smile. But, why wouldn't she? As president of the 900-member Michigan Dental Hygienists' Association (MDHA), keeping a smile that's bright and healthy is her business.

Wilson is a Novi resident who has practiced dental hygiene in Northville for nearly 15 years. In addition to this full-time job and her duties with the MDHA, Wilson is also president of the Washtenaw Children's Dental Clinic, which serves the dental needs of area youth from low-income families.

Not a person to take any of her considerable duties lightly, Wilson explained, "Dental hygiene is not just a job or a place where I put in my time, it's a career and my profession. I wanted to give something back to my community and my profession."

Wilson dates her interest in dental hygiene to her days at North Farmington High School.

"The summer of my sophomore year, I wanted to do something to keep busy. I responded to a want ad for a dentist's receptionist," Wilson laughed.

"The dentist explained as tactfully as he could that I was just too young for the position, but offered to let me do some volunteer work for the summer. I was happy to do it. It kept me busy for the summer, was fun and educational."

The experience also helped her choose a career.

"I liked working with people and enjoyed biology and science," she said. "The volunteer work helped me decide on the field of health care."

Wilson earned a BS degree in Dental Hygiene from University of Michigan in 1973 and settled down to private practice. She joined the MDHA but wasn't particularly active.

"For a period of time after graduation, I allowed myself to become totally involved with my immediate surroundings; my family, my home and my job. I developed a narrow perspective on the profession and the issues affecting it; something like walking down the street with your eyes focused on the ground three feet in front of you," Wilson explained.

"I was beginning to feel a little burned-out. Hygienists work by themselves a lot, and I began to feel a need to talk to others in my field, to share experiences and brush up on my skills," she continued. "I was challenged by a few friends to become involved in my professional association and as I have done so, I've come to see and appreciate a larger picture."

The MDHA is a professionally and politically active organization of mostly women whose goals are to improve the oral health of the public and advance the art and science of dental hygiene. They accomplish this through a variety of educational conferences and seminars offering up-

Spring, summer ceremonies planned for engaged couples

Mr. and Mrs. Ike Crittenden of Williamston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheryl, to Fredrick Kent McPhail of Charlotte. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent McPhail of Northville.

The bride-elect is a 1981 graduate of Williamston High School and attended Lansing Community College. She is currently employed by the East Lansing Police Department.

Her fiance is a 1983 graduate of Northville High School. He is a 1987 graduate of Michigan State University and the Mid-Michigan Law Enforcement Academy. He is currently a police officer in Charlotte

An August 13 wedding is planned.

Edith C. Davis of Livonia and Thomas E. Davis of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter Sheryl Ann to Ronald J. Wainz, M.D.. He is the son of Peggy J. Wainz of Wilmington, Ohio and the late Mathias A. Wainz.

The bride-elect graduated from Livonia Stevenson High School and Michigan State University. She will receive a Masters degree in Health Services Administration from the University of Michigan in April. She is employed by Mercy Alternative in Ann Arbor.

Her fiance is a graduate of Springfield Shawnee High School, the University of Dayton and Washington University Medical School He completed his internship and residency training at the University of Michigan Medical Center in 1987. He is currently a fellow in Pulmonary and Critical Care Medicine at the University of Michigan.

A May 14 wedding is planned at St. Fancis of Assisi in Ann Arbor.

The Northville Historical Society has announced "Scout Day at Mill Race Village" on Monday, April 25 at 3:45-5:30 p.m.

The buildings will be open and staffed by docents and all scouts will be presented with a memento of the visit. The society suggests a contribution of $1 per scout.

Reservations can be made by calling Sally Henrikson at 348-1845.

Esser concert in Novi

Singer-director-composer-producer Phil Marcus Esser will perform a special one-night concert in the Novi Civic Center on Saturday, April 30 at 8 p.m.

Esser has been entertaining Detroit-area audiences for over 20 years with his caberet-style performances. He has become well-known for his special renderings of the tender love songs of Jacques Brel. He is currently performing in a new one-man show "Heart and Soul" at Tremonti's in downtown Detroit.

Esser's Novi appearance will be a benefit performance toward the purchase of a baby grand piano for the new Novi Civic Center.

Tickets for the special performance are $10 and are available at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 W. Ten Mile Road. For further information call 347-0400.

Lauren was born on March 25 at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills. She weighed six pounds six ounces at birth.

The new baby joins her sister, Lindsay Nicole, 2, at home. Grandparents are Lenore Troher of Northville and Douglas and Barbara Adams of Northville.

Northville hygienist works hard dates on medical techniques and oral health products, innovations in the field and other professional issues.

The MDHA keeps a close eye on government involvement in health through its Political Action Committee (HY-PAC). A quarterly magazine, The Bulletin, keeps members informed of upcoming meetings, current issues and is a communication arm for the many local chapters.

The Association operates a speaker's bureau and makes available a "Let the Tooth Be Told" kit for use with elementary school children.

Dental hygienists are licensed by the state and governed by the state Board of Dentistry. Until the late seventies, hygienists were not represented on the Board at all, but in 1977, as a result of a lawsuit and the subsequent enactment of the Michigan Public Health Code, MDHA gained professional representation with two seats on the Board. It is a measure of their success that an MDHA member recently served as president of the Board of Dentistry.

"We're an emerging profession," said Wilson. "Since achieving representation on the Board of Dentistry, I believe we've improved our awareness of laws governing health care and our compliance with them. We're always examining our shortcomings with an eye toward improvement."

In Michigan, dental hygienists work at the assignment of a dentist. Hygienists do initial screenings, take radiographs (x-rays), make diagnostic casts, do oral cancer screening, periodontal charting, clean and polish teeth.

The MDHA actively recruits interested individuals. There are some 5,000 licensed dental hygienists in Michigan, and, Wilson emphasizes, always room for more.

"It's interesting and challenging work with flexible hours, so it's easy to combine a career with a family," she said. "High school students or adults interested in a career change should consult a counselor, spend some time with a dental hygienist or contact MDHA headquarters (phone 517-484-1352) for information."

Wilson continued, "Explore the options. In addition to private practice, there are opportunities within public health programs, research, administrative, teaching and sales positions — even politics. One of our hygienists is an aid to a state legislator, advising him on health issues."

Wilson's theme for her 18-month presidential term is, "Realizing Our Potential."

"It's a personal and professional theme," she explained. "I think many people, myself included, tend to limit themselves.

Buying antiques offers enjoyment

Want to know what's an antique? There really isn't an easy answer to that question, said Helen Meisel, proprietor of Antiques on Center Street in Northville and promoter of two annual antique shows at the Northville Community Center.

"Basically, you can characterize an antique as something you don't have to pay duty on, something that is at least 100 years old and something that a reputable dealer tells you is an antique," she said.

An antique also is something that you use, not something that is put away.

Meisel knows what is and what is not an antique and is most comfortable talking about what is not an antique, rather than what is.

"I can tell an antique by the touch, by the taste and by feeling it," she said, matter-of-factly. "But I couldn't tell you exactly how I know. That's the difficult part."

Meisel's shop contains clothing, metalwork, quilts, pictures and various types of glass and china. She says that china and Depression glass "aren't my bag," but when asked to pinpoint exactly what type of antiques she specializes in, she's hesitant.

"Just look at the shop and tell me what you would say I specialize in," she says. And to be sure, pinpointing an area of specialization is very difficult.

Dolls, furniture, silverware and signs are in the shop. Also on display are rhinestone jewelry, a few cups and saucers, glassware, hurricane lamps and the like.

Nearly every crevice and corner is full of some type of antique, but all of it is reasonably priced.

"I think you should charge what an item is worth, but you shouldn't gouge the customer. That's part of being a scrupulous dealer — being fair to the customer," Meisel explains.

Garage sales often compete with dealers, especially those 'sales' that are a continuing basis and no taxes are charged. "I dislike them. A legal garage sale is one thing. But perennial sales are something else. They (the people who run them) don't pay taxes, don't have any overhead like a regular shop and they don't set well with other dealers Profit in this business is not a dirty word."

A practiced eye can identify an antique

But profit is not Meisel's only motivation. She says she has always loved antiques. "I grew up with them. My grandparents had them, my parents had them and I've got them."

But some things that Meisel was raised with — Depression glass for instance — hold no attraction for her.

Meisel buys and sells and says she always tries to give and to get a fair price. One of her peeves are customers who come in and try to dicker.

"They don't go into Hudson's and offer $20 for a dress that is marked $50. Why would they do that with an antique dealer? My merchandise is fairly priced."

Another tip from Meisel is that if someone discovers an antique that they like, they should buy it. "You shouldn't have to think about it. If you do, you may lose out on it," she says.

Another of Meisel's peeves are people who steal from her. She's lost more than one item to theft

To learn about antiques, Meisel suggests going to a library and really studying what is available.

"It takes time and it takes study. But you have to start somewhere," she says.

Once the study is complete, she says, talking to dealers is a good way to increase knowledge. "People are willing to talk. And antiques are worth talking about."

Northville's top scorer a year ago — Jennifer Schuerman — is back for her senior campaign

Smalec looks to fill big holes on defense

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Every spring, it seems like the soccer community forgets about Stan Smalec's Northville squad.

They always talk about Livonia Stevenson, Livonia Churchill and now the two Plymouth schools are everyone's pick . . . as usual, the Mustangs don't seem to get any respect in the pre-season girl's soccer outlook.

But just about every year, the Rodney Dangerfields of the WLAA end up turning a lot of heads during the season and are usually ranked among the state's best by tournament time. Last year, Northville lost two in a row to start the season, but then went on a 15-game winless streak and were ranked fourth as the campaign ended. With a senior-oriented team, the Mustangs ended the season with a fine 12-3-2 mark — and all three losses came against state champion Plymouth Salem and runner-up Churchill

The current Mustangs won't be as experienced as last year, but the talent is there. Almost every player on the roster played soccer in the off-season and Smalec is hoping all the hard work will help ease the pain of replacing nine senior starters.

"We have some unknowns, especially on defense," he said. "All the defensive positions, except one, need to be filled and that's including the goaltender. But I think we've got the kind of kids to fill those holes. We have some talented juniors who are moving up from the junior varsity and we have a super freshman class."

Smalec's very successful defensive system will be tested all season, but for a change, Northville has the firepower to score a lot of goals. Almost all of the returnees are offensive players and leading the way will be senior wingers Jodie Smalec, Jenny Stevens and Jennifer Schuerman.

Smalec has been a starter since she was a freshman and comes in with very high expectations According to her father/coach, Smalec worked hard in the off-season and should be a goal-scoring threat whenever she touches the ball

"Jodie's in the best shape she's [illegible] in her li[illegible] he[illegible] "We [illegible] of le[illegible] and she knows we'll be counting on her to put the ball in the net."

Stevens will start at right wing. Smalec describes her as the most coachable player he's ever come across. Stevens, who is the team's co-captain along with Jodie Smalec, always seemed to be on the field when the Mustangs scored last season — she made things happen.

Schuerman led the team in scoring a year ago with 15 goals and Smalec is looking for more of the same. She will start at left winger. The only other senior on the squad is Heidi Wagner, who's had knee problems but is a key team-performer up front.

"We've got some firepower up front," he said. "The key is how hard they work to get quality scoring chances. They are talented, but they will be marked by every team, so it won't be easy.

"A lot of the leadership we need will fall on our seniors up front."

Junior Shannon Loper is a returning regular in the front line as well, and according to Smalec, she's looked very good in early workouts. Two other juniors — Abby Edwards and Heather Sixt — head the list of seven impressive 11th graders. Edwards is a three-year varsity player and will start at a halfback position. Smalec says that Edwards has one of the best throw-ins and corner-kicks in the business. Sixt, on the other hand, is the lone starting defender returning from '87.

"Heather is going to have to be the general back there and she knows it," Smalec predicted. "She's been on the team for three years and she's had the experience that we are lacking on defense."

The rest of the junior players include Jacquie Trausch, Beth Swayne, Jennifer Dragon and Debbie Stevens Trausch, Swayne and Dragon are all starting candidates at midfield — Stevens is a fullback who played indoors in the off-season and could be a starter.

Heading the sophomore class is goalie Kristi Turner, who was brought up from the junior varsity last season and shared time in the net with All-Stater Tricia Ducker down the stretch This varsity experience can only help the youngster, who is projected as a future star The remaining sophomores on the roster are Andie Barber and Neysa Colizzi — fullback candidates who saw brief varsity action at the end of last season.

"Kristi Turner could have been a starter for any team in our league last year," Smalec said. "It's a real plus to have her back because she's a talker, a general out on the field and that's the one thing Ducker lacked. She is a solid goaltender."

A very promising freshman group is lead by Karen Cavanaugh and Marcie Dart — two youngsters with unlimited potential. Cavanaugh will see plenty of action at either the midfield or stopper positions and Dart may share center-halfback duties with Jodie Smalec.

"Cavanaugh has a lot of soccer sense for a freshman," he said. "She is very versatile and could actually play any position on the field. Dart is very fast, has good ball sense and she works very well with Cavanaugh."

Freshman Amy Goode and Michelle McQuaid round out the roster. Goode will probably be converted from a halfback to a fullback because she has great defensive skills. McQuaid reminds Smalec of a young Julie Nowka — a quiet, strong and effective fullback from the Mustang's state championship team of 1984.

"I want to avoid comparing this team to last year's team." Smalec pointed out. "We'll probably have another slow start but we'll be ready for anybody by mid-season. I look for Salem and Canton to be the two powerhouses in the conference, but Stevenson and Franklin are two veteran teams, Churchill has a great program and Farmington will be tough."

So where does Northville fit in?

"I'd fit us somewhere in the middle of those six," he said. "On any given day, we can beat anybody, we just need to jell together as a unit. I want a total team concept. You don't win with stars — it takes all 11 players."

The Mustangs opened the season yesterday (April 13, after Record deadline) against Western Division foe Farmington Harrison and Smalec was ready.

"There is talent on this team, it's just a matter of making it fit together," he said. "I have a very good feeling about the team."

Faletti optimistic about boys track

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

To say that the boys track program at Northville High has been struggling lately would be an understatement. It's a program that's won just two dual meets in the past two seasons — one in '86 and one in '87.

To make matters even more difficult, the program is now going through a coaching change . well, sort of. When Paul Osborn took over the head coaching reins in girls volleyball last winter, he decided to give way to assistant Dennis Faletti in track. Osborn is now, Faletti's assistant coach in what amounted to a flip-flop of duties

The big question remains: can the Mustang track program break out of what's been a winning slump for the past few seasons?

"I'm cautiously optimistic," Faletti said "Barring injuries, we should have a good season, but how good I really don't know. A lot of it depends on how strong our opponents are."

Faletti, who coached track at Eastern Michigan University for 10 years before coming to Northville last season, has a fairly veteran team. Last season was an adjustment period between coach and team — so things should go smoother than it would for a new coach coming in cold.

"We have a fairly upper-class team," he said. "I worked with the team last year and I think the kids learned a lot — I hope it will pay off this season. They got used to me and my training methods, so everybody should be more comfortable. It should show up in our performances."

Faletti uses the word 'performance' a lot His goal is to get the best from each athlete and that means hard training and the elimination of mistakes.

"I really won't look at our record to see how much we've improved, I'll look at the performances," he pointed out "If we do our best, we'll be OK. If we perform to the best of our abilities, I'm sure our record will improve."

In the field events — particularly in the discus and pole vault — a good group of returning letterwinners should make it an area of strength. Junior Chris Kuffner is back in the discus and should be the top performer. He threw over 137 feet as a sophomore and Faletti is hoping for even more improvement. He will probably be backed up by junior Eric Billmoria.

Junior Sean Starkweather is the only serious contender in the pole vault, but he should do well He was the team's top vaulter as a sophomore Returnees John Hacker (sr) and Al Kuljurgis (Jr.) are the top two candidates in the high jump and Kuljurgis and Steve Austin (Sr.) will likely be the two top long jumpers.

The shot put is still up for grabs and it looms as an area of concern. Right now, junior Todd Daniels is the number one thrower but big newcomer Bob Dudley (Jr.) has shown good potential.

The team's top sprinter is junior Mark Kiraly, who was a standout sprinter last season Kiraly is the man to beat in the 100 and 200-meter dashes and will be a member of the 400-meter relay team. He'll be joined in the 100 and the relay by Daniels, Mark Dozier (Sr.) and Neil White (So), and by Rich Subotich (Sr.) and Kuljurgis in the 200. The top 400 candidates are Austin and Subotich.

"Kiraly is really above the rest right now in the sprints," Faletti said. "We have some speed but it's hard to assess. I'm fairly confident with this group, especially with the sprint relay."

Meadowbrook to host top PGA golfers

Some of the PGA's top money winners will be coming to Northville.

On Monday, May 23, Meadowbrook Country Club will host the Metro Buick Dealers Charity Golf Classic.

Tournament director Roy Gaddey has lined up 14 pros, many of whom have already topped the $1 million mark in career earnings, including Payne Stewart, Hal Sutton, Dan Pohl, Fred Couples, Steve Pate (winner of tourneys already this year), Chip Beck, Roger Maltbie and Wayne Levi.

"It will be a quality event," said Gaddey "It will be good for the spectators They'll be able to bring their cameras and obtain autographs.

"I know the area of Livonia, Plymouth and Northville will support the event."

Gaddey said Meadowbrook had a lot to offer.

"In trying to find the best location, the criteria we used was road access, parking and quality of the course," he said.

"We narrowed it down to three or four clubs, but Meadowbrook was the best for us because it was close to I-275 and we could use Northville Downs for parking. We also liked the willingness of the members to stage such an event."

Proceeds from the tournament will benefit the St. Vincent Sarah Fisher Center and the Evans Caddie scholarship Foundation

Each foursome in the Pro-Am will be sponsored by a Detroit area corporation One foursome is still available Interested individuals should contact Gaddey at 540-8155.

Advanced discount tickets are available through TicketMaster, J L. Hudson and AAA outlets for $10. Tickets are also available at the gate the day of the tournament for $15 (Discount corporate ticket packages are also available by calling Gaddey).

New coach optimistic

The team's top performer in the 800 is senior standout John Frisbie, but he won't compete in the event because he will run in the 1,600-meter (mile run), 3,200-meter (two mile run) and the two mile relay events. The top prospects in the 800 include cross country holdovers Scott Sinkwitts (Sr.) and Jay Griffiths (Jr.).

Frisbie — who was an All-State cross country runner last fall — is the top miler. He's gone 4:43 in practice, which is close to his best of last season. He will be joined in the mile by Sinkwitts and Jeff Hoose (Sr.). But Frisbie's best event is the two mile, at least according to Faletti. The rest of the two milers are still up in the air — nobody is even close to pushing Frisbie. The two mile relay will include Frisbie, Griffiths, Hoose and Sinkwitts.

"(John) thinks his best event is the mile but I think it's the two mile," Faletti said. "He's never really shown his great running ability on the track like he's done in cross country," Faletti explained. "But he's used to me as a coach now and with us working together, I think he'll have a good season."

The mile relay group will probably include Austin, Kuljurgis, Sinkwitts and Subotich. Steve Ventura (Jr.), Kuljurgis, Subotich and Kiraly are the top candiates for the 800 relay.

The 110-meter high and 300-meter intermediate hurdles will be anchored by senior Todd Feliks, who was the team's top hurdler in '87. According to Feletti, he's already running faster times than a year ago, so it will probably be two strong events for the Mustangs. The rest of the hurdlers includes Hacker, Greg Price (Jr.), and Cory Robinson (Jr.).

Baseballer's sport better pitching

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Last season, Northville baseball coach Bob Frellick was forced to go with a young and inexperienced team. The result was a not-so-impressive 8-18 record, 6-12 in the Western Lakes league

But last season's misfortunes could be this season's good fortune. The Mustangs are now a veteran team with experience and no glaring weaknesses. The rebuilding year is now just a memory and Frellick is optimistic it will pay off this spring

"I think we'll have a good, solid, competitive team this year," he said. "This group is talented and they have a lot of confidence in themselves"

The big difference from a year ago is probably in the pitching corps. In '87, pitching was a definite problem but Frellick has four returnees from that staff and two promising newcomers in the fold Three are righthanded and three are southpaws.

"I think we have a good pitching staff," he said. "It's the first time in a long time we've have three lefties and we have some experience It should be much stronger than last year."

The returnees include seniors Scott Stephens, Todd Ebersole and Brad Wheeker and junior Andy Parker Stephens had the team's lowest earned run average in '87 and will join Wheeker as a right-handed starter Ebersole had a promising summer and will team up with Parker as the top two starting lefties Scott Probert and southpaw Steve Nigro are both up from the junior varsity ranks and Nigro in particular has been very impressive in early workouts.

Rounding out the battery is senior catcher Mike Yard, who was a second-team All-Area selection as a junior Frellick describes Yard as a smart player with good defensive skills and a powerful bat

"I think Mike will be one of the top catchers in our conference," he said. "He's worked very hard in the off-season He's got a strong arm and he's smart — we'll have him calling the games from behind the plate"

Heading the infield will be firstbaseman Derek Osborne, who tore opposing pitchers apart as a junior and led the team with a 406 average Osborne is also known as a fine fielder and Frellick is hoping for a big senior season from him.

Junior Dave McKee, a returning letterwinner, will take over the spot at second base. According to Frellick, he is a fine defensive player but suspect on offense Jim Willerer (Jr.), Dave Strange (Sr.) and Tom Skynar (Sr) are the three candidates vying for the two remaining infield spots at shortstop and third base. The odd man out will likely see action as the designated hitter

"We have a lot of returnees in the infield who were on the team last year," Frellick said "I think we'll have [illegible]

The three outfield spots are slated to go to Ed Walsh (Sr.), Brian Frellick (Jr) and Randy Jones (Jr.). Frellick — the coach's son — will be the rightfielder but the other two spots are still undecided.

"All three of these kids have good perception, speed and have fairly strong arms," Frellick said. "Hitting-wise I believe two of the three will hit over 300."

The rest of the squad includes outfield back-up Roger Kimary (Jr.) and infield reserves Darren Kehoe (Jr), Scott Donnelly (Jr.) and Rob Thomasson (Sr.). Thomasson has impressed Frellick with his hitting and will probably see some action at a designated hitter as well.

"I think we'll be strong overall with what we have coming back," he said "I'm looking for a strong offensive season and I think we have good experience defensively

"Pitching is the key. I'm looking forward to having a strong year."

Frellick believes Plymouth Salem and Westland John Glenn are the two teams to beat in conference play, but also believes the WLAA Western Division race is wide open.

"In our division, it may be the closest since I've been coaching," he predicted "I don't think there is any doubt that we'll be contenders. Our pitching will be better — our ERA will improve tremendously — and that's the key difference from last year"

MHSAA appoints Cvengros to position

Escanaba High School principal Jerry Cvengros has been appointed associate director of the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), with duties to be assumed Aug. 1. Cvengros was named to the position at the March 25 meeting of the MHSAA's Representative Council at Ann Arbor.

The appointment of Cvengros, 54, fulfills a long-time request of the Representative Council and an interview process conducted over the past few months by Executive Director John E. "Jack" Roberts.

The new position, according to Roberts, is "part education, part investigation" Cvengros will coordinate MHSAA in-service programs for athletic directors and non-faculty coaches and be its principal investigator of allegations of violations of MHSAA regulations. "Jerry has both the experience and the sensitivity to perform both aspects of the new job magnificently."

Cvengros was a prominent prep football coach at Escanaba, guiding the Eskymos to the Class A state championship game on two occasions, winning the title in 1981. He was named principal at the school in 1983, and was also elected to the MHSAA's Representative Council that year. He has served as president of the Council since 1986.

A life-long Michigan resident, Cvengros earned his masters degree from Northern Michigan University. He has been an educator for over three decades as a teacher for 30 years, a football and track coach for 27 and 18 years respectively, an athletic director for 13 years and principal for five years.

Cvengros is active in the Michigan and National Associations of Secondary School Principals, remains a member of the National Interscholastic Athletic Administrators Association, and is a past president of the National Federation Interscholastic Coaches Association He has also been elected to the Michigan High School Coaches Association Hall of Fame and Upper Peninsula Hall of Fame.

VOLLEYBALL PLAYOFFS: In other action taken at the March 25 meeting, the Representative Council approved a plan to double the number of volleyball district tournaments and bring a total of 28 teams (eight in Class A,B,C and four in Class D) to the finals round in a single city over a two-day period, with all four final games to be playued at one site. In previous years, the tournament had been split with the four finalists in the four Lower Peninsula classes playing at two venues on the same day.

"This plan allows the association to provided the same support and prestige to volleyball for girls in the winter as girls basketball enjoys in the fall," Roberts said.

SUPERVISOR OF OFFICALS NAMED: In another staffing move allowed by the appointment of Cvengros, one intended to strengthen MHSAA support and services to athletic officials, Roberts has named Assistant Director Bill Bupp to the additional post of supervisor of officials, effective Aug. 1

Bupp was a 20-year official with the MHSAA before joining the staff in October 1986. He will coordinate expansion of the Association's efforts to recruit, train and evaluate officials.

"Bill is an excellent communicator and educator, and he captures the vision we have of the MHSAA working with local officials associations to improve the quality and quantity of interscholastic athletic officials in Michigan," Roberts said. "Bill is an inovator and has accepted the call to implement significant expansion in the MHSAA officials program."

Water better than sugar 'sports drinks'

Athletes who drink sugar "sports drinks" to boost their performance may actually be dehydrating their body, according to Meda Harrison, R.D. of the Detroit Dietetic Association. Many athletes feel they need the extra sodium and potassium (electrolytes) which these drinks have. However, sugared beverages, which many electrolyte drinks are, actually leave the stomach much slower than plain water.

Strong sugar solutions draw water from the body into the stomach to dilute the sugar concentration and dehydrate the athlete. Electrolyte drinks with a small amount of sugar are acceptable if electrolyte and sugar concentrations are low, but they may not be necessary and can be costly. Some sports drinks made with glucose polymers are more easily absorbed and can heighten endurance events which last more than one hour.

Replacing lost fluid is extremely important to the athlete, especially in the heat. Studies have shown that excessive sweating compromises the body's ability to circulate blood and regulate body temperature. As sweating continues, the water portion of the blood decreases, reducing the blood volume and making it more difficult for muscle contraction and temperature regulation. Also, as little as two percent of body weight lost as sweat can lead to impaired performance.

It is important to realize that the body is losing much more water than electrolytes in sweat. Therefore, the primary concern of the athlete is to replace fluids and not electrolytes.

Electrolyte replacement is usually only indicated during ultra-endurance events (three or more hours) and during extreme environmental conditions. The small amounts of electrolytes lost in sweat from events shorter than three hours can easily be obtained from a normal balanced diet.

An interesting fact is that eight ounces of orange juice contains 21 times the amount of potassium as a popular sports drink, and eight ounces of V-8 juice contains six times the amount of sodium and 23 times the amount of potassium so the athlete can actually get more sodium and potassium by drinking these fluids at much less the price

An athlete must know that thirst is not an accurate indicator of hydration status. In fact, the thirst response is blunted during and immediately after vigorous exercise. Therefore, the athlete should take special care to meet his/her fluid needs.

Athletic performance is closely linked with hydration status. Adequate fluids before, during, and after the event can make a big difference to performance.

DNR offers clinic guide for fishing weekend

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is offering a step-by-step fishing clinic guide and other fishing promotion and support materials to groups planning fishing clinics or derbies during Michigan's third annual free fishing weekend, June 11-12

The special fishing weekend allows residents or nonresidents to fish in Michigan's Great Lakes or inland waters without a fishing licence or trout/salmon stamp these two days. The event is being held to coincide with National Fishing Week, June 6-12.

"Last year over 50 Michigan groups asked us directly to assist and advertise their free fishing weekend," said DNR Director Gordon E. Guyer. "We encourage groups to again contact us to help them organize or publicize their free fishing weekend event."

Interested groups or individuals should contact the DNR's Fisheries Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing, MI 48909 or call (517) 373-1280 for more information.

"We had a fantastic community turnout that day, not just by kids but by parents too," said one past clinic holder. "We advertised our event by distributing flyers at local schools; the kids brought their own or borrowed fishing equipment and we helped them fish, award prizes and provide refreshments," he added. "We plan to make this an annual affair."

"Free fishing days offer a terrific opportunity for groups, businesses, communities and especially veteran anglers to pass on their knowledge of fishing," said DNR Fisheries Chief John Scott "Children, families, single parents, senior citizens, women and men who have never fished, are just looking for some basic fishing instruction and a single fishing experience to get 'hooked' on Michigan fishing "

Northville netter's deeper this season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville boy's tennis coach Dick Norton believes his 1988 Mustangs are deeper and have more balance in the line-up than a year ago, and he's hoping that will be enough to propel the team to yet another winning season.

Unlike previous seasons, Northville won't feature a real strong number one singles player, so Norton is counting on returning regulars — who are all a year older — to be a year better out on the court. Even though the strength at the top isn't quite what it was a season ago, the Mustangs appear to be stronger in the other singles flights and are almost certain to improve at the top in doubles. The big question mark is the No. 2 and 3 doubles teams.

"I think we'll be a little bit deeper than last year but that probably means we'll be hurting at the top, especially in singles," Norton said.

No. 1 singles performer Mike Reitenga — who had the best record of any Mustang last season — has been lost to graduation. Filling Reitenga's spot will be a major task for Norton.

He's already decided to go with two singles veterans — Doug Kamienecki (Sr.) and Rob Richcreek (Jr.) — on an interchanging basis. Kamienecki was a regular at No. 2 last season and Richcreek was the second most successful player on the team a year ago at No. 3 singles with a 12-7 record. Norton will alternate between the two because there really isn't much to choose from.

"They are both very equal in talent," Norton pointed out. "If they played each other 10 times, they would each win five. I think we'll be a little weaker at No. 1, but stronger at No. 2 regardless of which one is playing where."

"I think we'll be a little bit deeper than last year but that probably means we'll be hurting at the top, especially in singles. I would hope we're no worse than last year but I think the WLAA will be a little stronger. In most meets, the singles will have to carry us, but I'm looking for more consistency and wins at first doubles."

— Dick Norton
Mustang Tennis Coach

The third and fourth singles slots are also open to two veterans. Senior Matt Oliver didn't play last season, but was a regular in doubles as a sophomore and junior Kurt Reickel was the regular at No. 4 a year ago.

"Reickel and Oliver are also very close," Norton said. "I think we'll be a little bit tougher in singles but I'm not so sure they'll be able to do any better record-wise. They are all experienced so I think they'll play well."

Last season none of the three doubles teams sported winning records, but five letterwinners are back, and a good group of newcomers are in place to fill in the gaps. The No. 1 doubles team of Ken Spigarelli (Jr.) and Jeff Wesley (Jr.) return intact for their second season together at the varsity level, and for Norton, it's one area he probably won't have to worry about.

The top candidates at No. 2 doubles is Chad Bosscher (Jr.) and Ken Neal (Sr.). Bosscher was a part-timer last year in doubles and Neal played on the varsity as a sophomore but not as a junior.

"It's an area of concern but not as much of a concern as it was last year," Norton admitted. "We'll struggle at two and three doubles, but not as much as we did a year ago."

The final double spot is still up for grabs but senior Jeff Gursky and junior Mike Mathes are probably the top candidates. Gursky, a two-year varsity performer, has doubles experience and Mathes lettered as a sophomore last season. The other teams competing for playing time include: Tim Ponder (So.) and Eric Stempien (Jr.), Todd Booth (Jr.) and Jason Baker (Fr.) and Justin Marr (Fr.) and Brian Telepo (Fr.).

"Overall, doubles will probably be better because we have more experienced players," Norton said. "The No. 1 team was extremely competitive and they'll be better this year. I think they'll get over the hump and win some of the close ones they lost last year."

According to Norton, defending WLAA Western Division champs Plymouth Canton are again the team to beat, along with the defending conference titlists from North Farmington. Northville had a 7-6 overall mark in '87, but were only 5-6 against WLAA opponents. Norton is hoping to improve on both marks, but admits that it won't be easy.

"I would hope we're no worse than last year," he said, "but I think the WLAA will be a little stronger. In most meets, the singles will have to carry us, but I'm looking for more consistency and wins at first doubles.

"This is a nice group to work with and I'm looking forward to a pretty good season."

Senior Doug Kamienecki will play either No. 1 or 2 singles

Six wallyballers in action at Racquetball Farmington on Nine Mile Road

Wallyball: up and coming sport

By BRENDA BONZHEIM

Wallyball, an up-and-coming sport that combines the techniques of volleyball with an element of racquetball, is gaining popularity locally as a socially-oriented recreation.

In simple terms, playing wallyball is like playing volleyball on a racquetball court. Players make use of the court's surrounding four walls to manuever a volleyball over a net and score points.

Bob Swanson, manager of Racquetball Farmington, explained that wallyball tends to become more fast-paced than a game of volleyball because the court walls are used during the game. He noted that more and more of the club's patrons are expressing interest in the sport.

"Wallyball is basically a version of volleyball. Players use the same techniques and principles as volleyball, but they have the advantage of using the wall," Swanson said.

Although racquetball enjoys top billing in popularity at the Farmington club, Swanson said wallyball also is gaining acceptance and popularity there.

"Racquetball is still the most popular here," he said. "Whereas racquetball is a game for two people, in wallyball there are six to eight people together on the court, so it's a more social game. A lot of people who have never heard of the game play it for the first time and find that they really like it."

Swanson added that players seem to prefer racquetball for its workout value, while wallyball tends to be played for its recreational value

Racquetball Farmington, which is located at 34200 Nine Mile in Farmington, is open to the public; there are no membership fees. The club offers 22 courts for racquetball or wallyball games. Players may rent court time two days in advance by phone, or pre-pay for a court a week in advance.

Courts for both wallyball and racquetball also are available at the Livonia Racquetime Center, 36600 Plymouth Road. Eight of the facility's 14 racquetball courts can be converted into wallyball courts.

Joanne Vassel,' an employee at Livonia Racquetime Center, said wallyball is becoming more popular at the club as people learn more about the game.

Catering to wallyball's rising popularity, a wallyball league has been formed at the center on Thursday and Sunday nights, although the Thursday night games are winding down. In addition, on Friday evenings the club hosts 'Wallyball Night,' when players are offered discounts on court rental fees to give them a chance to try their hands at the game

"Racquetball is still our main drawing game here, but wallyball is getting popular, too, as people are learning more about it. It's not a difficult game to learn and you don't have to be very good at it to have fun," Vassel pointed out.

To reserve courts at Livonia Racquetime Center, Vassel advised players to call two days in advance or to pre-pay a week in advance.

'Fitness is ageless' conference to be held

'Fitness is ageless' is the theme of Schoolcraft College's 16th Conference on Physical Activity for Older Adults — Emphasizing Leadership on May 5 from 8:30 a.m -4 p m in the college's Physical Education Building.

The conference is designed for those who work with older adults. It includes discussions on the attributes of successful senior centers, demonstrations of healthful cooking and exercise and a variety of workshops that promote physical activity in the daily life of the senior.

The fee is $22 for regular registration and $20 for multiple registrations, students and senior adults. Registration fee includes continental breakfast, lunch and all materials.

For more information, call 591-6400, ext. 540.

HEALTH SEMINARS: The Schoolcraft College Biology Department invites area residents to attend a series of comprehensive health seminars. The series is scheduled from April 18-28.

Fitness Tips

Tips are offered to prevent aerobic injuries

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.

This week's article will discuss causes, treatment and prevention of injuries related to aerobic exercise. These injuries usually result from instantaneous trauma caused by falls or collisions, faulty equipment, overuse, muscle imbalance or incorrect exercise technique.

Proper protection of your exercise environment can greatly reduce your risk of injury. If you are involved in an aerobic dance class, make sure the floor is resilient or padded with a carpet that is firmly attached. If exercising at home, the area should also be cleared of furniture, loose wires or other objects. If you're a jogger or runner, a grass or track surface is much better than the road or other hardtop surfaces.

It is also very important to keep yourself hydrated during exercise, especially if it is of high intensity. Fluid intake should occur before, during and after your activity. Dehydration can help contribute to heat exhaustion and heat stroke.

Proper clothing is also important. Joggers and runners need a shoe with good conditioning at the heel since this is the greatest site of impact. Aerobic dancers need more cushioning for the balls of the feet. The tread on the shoes is smooth for aerobic dance and rough for jogging. A rough tread on a shoe during aerobic dance can cause the foot to come to a direct halt with impact

Long, loose slacks should be avoided. These can catch under your feet or in your bicycle chain Tight-fitting garments should also be avoided since they can restrict flexibility and impede circulation. Dress in layers so they can be removed to prevent overheating.

Overuse is another important source of injury. This relates to the frequency, intensity and duration of exercise. This is especially important for impact-type activities where mechanical stress on an anatomic structure can cause failure It should also be noted that the physiological benfits of aerobic exercise do not increase in direct proportion to increases in the intensity of exercise.

A final cause of injury is muscle imbalance This causes injury because the rapid and forceful contraction of a strong muscle can put excessive tension on a weaker one. It can also result in misalignment at joints, which can result in a greater vulnerability at that joint and in other locations. To prevent this problem, exercise programs should be designed to strengthen all muscle groups, and after exercise the group should be stretched to prevent abnormal contractions.

Here are some guidelines to help prevent injury for the average woman engaging in aerobic exercise:

1 For impact activities, especially those involving repeated foot activities, routines should be limited to 30 minutes at intervals not exceeding 70 percent of maximal heart rate. There should be a day of rest between sessions.

2 A resilient floor should be selected if exercise has repeated foot impacts If this is not available, modify the program so that feet remain close to the floor.

3. Aerobic exercise should be proceeded by a gentle warm-up routine that utilizes the full range of motion of joints

4 Muscles that are used repeatedly during aerobic exercise should be stretched before and after the exercise.

5 To prevent muscle imbalance, specific exercises should be used to strengthen the antagonists to those muscles used forcefully and repetitively during aerobic exercise.

6. To reduce the severity of impact shock on lower extremities, repetitive jumping on the same foot should not exceed four consecutive jumps

7 Extremes of joint flexion and extension (i.e., deep knee bends) should be avoided.

8. Feet should be moved repeatedly to prevent cramping in intrinsic muscles of the feet.

9. Trunk rotation should be avoided while on your feet with hips or lower spine flexed.

10. Intense physical activity should always be followed by a cool-down period of lighter activity.

11. You should be given a specific means of assessing your physicial status and progress.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

The YMCA has been one of the major innovators in helping people to be healthier and more productive. Since 1852, the "Y" has been interested in strengthening the whole person to be more alive. These classes are specifically planned to help you become more firm in mind, body, and spirit. Major emphasis will be placed on fitness.

You will be exercising to music. Exercise will include limbering, warm-ups, low-impact aerobics(cardio-vascular portion), and a cool-down with spot reducing exercises include that focus on reducing the various problem spots of the body. This is a great way to become slimmer, healthier, and more relaxed. BRING A FRIEND!! Wear loose fitting clothing and good supporting exercise shoes. All morning class participants should bring one pound weights and rug or mat. Evening class participants should bring a rug or mat. All participants will be asked to fill out a Health History Form.

DESCRIPTION OF CLASSES:

Low Intensity: individually paced class to gradually increase endurance, fitness and stamina.
Moderate: Progressive, moderately paced class geared to the person under 40.

BABYSITTING:

Babysitting is available at 9:15-10:15 M-W-F class for children ages 1.5-6 years. You must register your child for babysitting when you register for the class. Babysitting fees are paid directly to the sitter on a daily basis. Fees are $1.00 per child per time, $1 50 for 2 children per time, and $2.00 for 3 or more children per time. Children must be offspring of the class participant.

Fees:	Members	Non-Members
1/2 hour classes	$17.00	$25.00
45 minute classes	$20.00	$30.00

1/2 hour classes:

Parent-Baby/Tot: A water adjustment class for the infant and small child. Stresses safety skills for both child and parent. Lays foundation for future swimming. (Ages 6 months-3.5 years)

Pre-Tadpole: An orientation class for parent and preschooler to the Tadpole program. A good introduction to the water for any child just beginning swim lessons. The class is structured so that the parents will gradually let the instructor take over the class so that by the 5th class the children are in the water with just the instructor. (Ages 3-5 years)

45 minute classes:

Tadpole 1: A beginning swim class for preschool and kindergartners Child should be comfortable in the water but need not know how to swim. Class size is small, stresses safety and beginning swim skills. (Ages 3-6 years)

Tadpole 2: A more advance class for preschool and kindergartners. Child must have either passed Tadpole 1 or can swim 20 feet on front without floatation device and without assistance. Class will introduce backstroke, sitting dive, treading water, as well as improve the front crawl. (Ages 4-6 years)

Polliwog: Beginning class for the child just learning to swim. Time is spent on water adjustment, safety skills, and beginning swimming skills. (Ages 6-12 years)

Guppy: Intermediate beginning class for children who have either passed Polliwog or can swim 20 feet on front without floatation device and without assistance. Will learn rotary breathing, treading water, and sculling on back. (Ages 6-12 years)

Minnow: Advanced beginning class for children who have either passed Guppy or can swim 50 feet with rotary breathing. Introduces back crawl and diving. (Ages 6-12 years)

Fish: Intermediate class for children who have either passed Minnow or know front and back crawls and can swim two lengths of the pool. Introduces breast strok, increases endurance, and improve techniques. (Ages 6-12 years)

Flying Fish: Advance Intermediate (Ages 6-12 years)

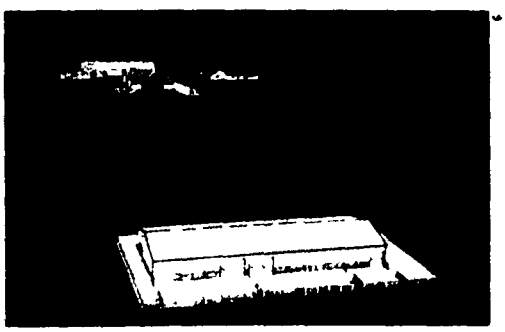
HORSE FARMS!

MINUTES FROM GRAND BLANC . . .

. . . and close to I-69, I-75, and US-23. Love animals—horses, cattle, sheep? This farm could house them all! Custom quality is apparent in every corner of this 58-acre workable farm. Property includes an exciting 2,800 square foot quad-level home with four bedrooms, three and one half ceramic baths, formal dining room, Florida room with brick barbeque, two fireplaces, attached garage, and solid cherrywood cabinetry, doors, and trim throughout. You'll also find two large, well-kept barns with water, 110/220 power, telephone, tack room, and hay storage; blacktop drives; one half-mile track; two run-in shelters with water; and complete pasture and perimeter fencing. $279,000. (S-66) 625-9700.



ADJACENT TO THE PROPERTY ABOVE . . .

. . . is another farm equally as versatile. Please note the distinct quality construction in this maintenance-free, five bedroom Cape Cod featuring three ceramic baths, formal dining room, first floor laundry, kitchen with Jenn-Air range and dishwasher, full basement, attached garage, and a 2,000 square foot deck that surrounds the home. There are three large barns, one which would make a perfect indoor arena, offering plenty of hay and grain storage, water, 110/220 power, telephone, a heated office and restroom, and many other features too numerous to mention! All this is situated on 55 acres of professionally landscaped property with pasture and perimeter fencing. $496,000. (S-65) 625-9700. May be purchased together or separately.
