Township in court tomorrow over prisons

By ANITA CRONE

Wayne County Chief Circuit Court Judge Richard C. Kaufman is a man caught in the middle of a problem.

Kaufman is the judge who told Michigan Department of Corrections Director Robert Brown in early April to remove the state prisoners from the Wayne County Jail which indirectly led to overcrowding at Phoenix Correctional Facility, Scott Regional Facility and the Western Wayne Correctional Facility in Northville and Plymouth townships.

Phoenix, as of midnight Monday, had 359 prisoners incarcerated, 48 over its statutory cap of 311. Western Wayne had 540 prisoners in house, 40 over its cap, and Scott had 600 prisoners and 15 youthful trainees contained within its walls, 50 over its

The youthful trainees are not part of the regional prison population under the dictates of the Department of Corrections, which had said that inmates housed in regional facilities would be first-time offenders at any of three custody levels - close, medium or minimum.

Kaufman also is a resident of Plymouth Township and is affected by the overcrowding at the three prisons located in Plymouth and Nor-

Council ponders millage, bonds

By BOB NEEDHAM

A bond issue proposal and slightly higher taxes may be on tap for city residents in order to meet some spending requests from the police and public works departments.

The city administration did not include several department requests for things like a new generator at City Hall and new DPW fuel storage tanks — in the budget recommended for the 1988-89 fiscal year. And in study sessions this week and last, City Gouncil members said they would like to have some of those items as soon as possible.

The administration's budget recommendation is based on a property tax rate of 12.46 mills. This year's rate is 13.58 mills.

The administration's recommendation was based on the state "truthin-taxation" formula. Since property values are rising, the same miliage rate would mean more tax dollars. charged to developed property. The truth-in-taxation level - 12.46 mills would bring in the same amount of tax money, adjusted for inflation and new construction. The administration's spending plan is expected to come close to balancing at 12.46 mills (see related story) - but that plan does not include several of the police and public works requests.

In last Tuesday's review session, the idea of a bond issue to pay for the items surfaced. And in Monday's session, Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers suggested some of the requests would better fit into the regular budget with a millage rate slightly above the truth-in-taxation level - but still lower than this year's rate - for two

Both sides approve teacher pact

By ANITA CRONE

Labor peace has been achieved in the Northville Public Schools.

Members of the Board of Education Monday unanimously approved a new, three-year contract with its teachers, the same contract the teachers, members of the Northville Education Association, overwhelmingly approved on April 27.

Although the agreement is very similar to those reached through informal bargaining sessions during the past six years, there are three specific areas where changes are readily apparent, explained the association's chief bargainer Raymond Balutowicz. Those areas include contract language, especially bringing special education teachers into the contract as teachers and association members and not referring to them as a separate unit, a district-sponsored incentive to retiring teachers, and the school calen-

Burton Knighton, the board's chief negotiator, said that the incentive, a $15,000 payout spread over three years to a teacher who retires at the end of a semester between June 1988 -June 1989 under the Michigan School Employees Retirement system, would save the district almost $20,000 annually per teacher.

'It's a mixed blessing, actually," said Dwight Sieggreen, president of the Northville Education Association. "On the one hand, you can lose some exemplary teachers, but on the other, it brings new blood into the district. I'm excited about it."

Balutowicz said this contract was not the first time the issue of a district retirement incentive was discussed, but noted that it was the first time the district agreed to the

"Our enrollment situation was right," said George Bell, superintendent of schools. "You can only do that when the enrollment is increasing, when you intend to hire new teachers to replace those who are retiring."

There's no need for undue concern about an unknown substance which has polluted Thornton Creek between the Dunbarton Pines and Brookland Farms subdivisions.

'It's my guess at this point that there's no toxic danger; it's nothing that would justify alarming people," said Margaret Fields, an environmental quality analyst with the Michigan Department of Natural Resource's Surface Water Quality

"But it's not something you'd want to be handling, either," she added. "The substance will contain some organisms that are not going to be healthy to handle."

The unknown substance was found at approximately 8:30 p.m. Monday, May 2, by Officer John Zimmer of the Novi Police Department in the stream which runs behind his personal residence in the Brookland Farms subdivision near the Nine Mile/Novi Road intersection.

Zimmer described the substance as having a "tar-like, sticky" quality. "I put my hand in it and had to use gasoline to get it off," he said Tuesday morning.

After discovering the pollutant,

Zimmer contacted the Novi Fire Department and the DNR's Surface Water Quality Division in Northville.

The fire department responded to the scene and placed absorbent pads in the stream in an effort to soak up the substance.

Both Zimmer and Fields were highly complimentary of the fire department's performance in containing the substance.

"They did a beautiful job," said . Zimmer.

'The fire department really should be commended," added Fields. "We don't typically expect fire departments to be able to do environmental work, but they seemed quite capable of handling the situation."

Fields said the nature of the substance has not yet been identified. 'We have something which is floatable, but it's not an oil slick," she said. "It's something which is floating on the surface, and there's a thinner part and a heavier part to it.

"The heavier part definitely has a tar-like quality to it, but you wouldn't expect tar to float and this material is definitely floating," she added. . She concurred with the fire department's assessment that there's ap-

Maggie Champagne steers clear of a mortar shell she let her son keep until the military claimed it

Local student finds unusual 'toy'-

Tim Champagne reads a lot of war books, so he was pretty sure he knew what he found sitting on top of a dumpster at the apartment complex where he lives.

He was right. It was a mortar shell. No one knows for sure how the shell which turned out to be a training missile, not in danger of exploding got to the dumpster. But it took a special trip from the Selfridge Air Force Base bomb squad to take it

Sunday evening at about 8 p.m., Tim -- a 12-year-old student at Amerman Elementary School — was outside at the Northville Park Apart- not a toy. "I though it was real, ments on Novi Road above Eight

"I was looking around because I thought I heard my friend. I looked on top of the garbage can and I saw a bomb," Tim said.

He recognized it as a mortar shell, but at first thought it was fake. He pulled off three styrofoam-like cuffs which turned out to be a good idea and took the shell inside. By the next morning, the shell was making Tim's mother, Maggie, a little nervous. It might have been a fake, but it felt heavy and she really didn't know what it was, she recalled.

And by then Tim was pretty sure it because of the numbers — there was a serial number - and it was metal," Tim said. So his mother decided to call the Northville police.

"They said, 'We will be right over,' and they were," she said.

The police evacuated everyone in the Champagnes' building and the one next to it. They then called the bomb disposal unit at Selfridge Air Force Base to find out what to do

After 20 or 25 minutes, the base called back, Maggle Champagne said. The shell was a training missile

"It may very well be time to look at capital improvement program," Walters said at last Tuesday's ses-

Walters said city officials would have to look at the city's current bond debt and see if a new bond issue would work within the city's debt limit. Council members said they could start considering a bond issue in detail as soon as the budget is adopted this month, and Walters said that could lead to a proposal on the ballot in November.

Ayers said Monday that a bond issue has two problems, though: the city would get no money until after the election, and that assumes the proposal passes; and some of the spending requests might not be ap-

"I think some of them should really be part of our budget," she said. "Selling all those bits and pieces on a bond issue and trying to explain that to the public seemed kind of difficult to me.

Since the city is well below its maximum property tax levy under the Headlee amendment, Ayers proposed a slightly higher rate than the administration's plan. The rate could be dedicated to specific projects and would only run for two years, she

"We are not taxing up to the limit of our possibilities," Ayers said. "I think maybe we should consider something like maybe a one-mill, two-year pledge of additional millage

Troopers hop trains to save lives

If you see a Michigan State Police decal on a train, chances are you aren't in any danger of getting a citation, as long as you're on the right side of the tracks.

The state police, in conjunction with the Norfolk and Western Railroad are trying to cut down on the number of car/train accidents by citing drivers who violate the crossing signals.

Troopers assigned to Post 21 in Northville will be riding the rails between Melvindale and Milan, between Melvindale and Munson and between Milan and the Michigan/Ohio border in an attempt to save lives.

"What we've found out is there is no such thing as a tie between an automobile and a locomotive," said Lt. Tom Garvale of the district 2 traffic division. "If a train and a car meet, the car just isn't going to win and the driver and any passengers will be picked up with a shovel."

Garvale explained that last year there were 400 car/train accidents in Michigan, making the state fifth in the country.

"The railroad is making a commitment to safety and we're happy to oblige," he said, noting that the cost of the program is minimal to Michigan's taxpayers.

"About the only thing that the taxpayer is paying is the two or three hours of a trooper's time. The railroad is picking up the rest of the

Garvale explained that a trooper boards the train in Melvindale, and equipped with binoculars, keeps an eye out for the vehicles that cross the

Once the trooper spots an offending vehicle, he radios local police in the municipality where the infraction occurs, leaving it up to the local law enforcement agency to cite the driver of the vehicle.

The first day we had the program; in operation, we had five people-targeted and were able to cite three of them," he said.

If the downriver pilot program is successful, Garvale said he hopes the program will be expanded into other communities. The program is expected to last 90 days

State prisoners' eviction from county jail led to overcrowding

ment, however, is not a party to the

Kaufman said he had no choice but to have the state come and get its prisoners

"I like Bob Brown He's a great guy and I didn't want to cause him any problems, but I had no choice. I had no room for county prisoners in the county jail and I couldn't see releasing county prisoners because there were state prisoners in my jail and no room for county prisoners," the judge said

Kaufman explained that there are two types of county prisoners incarcerated in the country jail, those who have been convicted but not yet sentenced for a felony and those who are awaiting trial for a felony who are not out on bond.

In addition, Kaufman said, the county jail also contained a number of state prisoners, primarily parole violators.

"I just couldn't keep them," Kaufman said. "The question no longer was how many additional prisoners I could take, but how many people did I not have room for.'

Although Kaufman said he is optimistic that some solution will be reached in the long run, the short term solutions are not so easy.

"The solutions in the short term are obvious. Either judges don't sentence prisoners, you release people or you build more beds."

Those suggestions are ironically the same that Leo Lalonde, assistant director for the Michigan Department of Corrections, said his department was facing when it informed Northville and Plymouth townships it intended to violate the prison caps

"Bob Brown had no choice, just like I had no choice," said Kaufman, who said by housing state prisoners in the county jail he prevented the state overcrowding from occuring earlier than it did in the western Wayne County state prisons.

Kaufman said he expects the overcrowding problem both at the state and county level to be solved by asking that the issue of additional millage for the country jail be placed on the ballot

"Most, if not all, Wayne County elected officials are in support of a number of beds being created.

ballot issue. And I think, although I may be tilting at windmills, the voters will approve the money," said

The solution to the state problem is not so simple. Although additional state facilities are in the planning stages and some are actually being built. Lalonde said the number of new prisoners being sentenced to state facilities is fast outstripping the

Funding unsure for new library

The figure does not include any costs for buying land, Orr said.

Orr hopes the community will begin thinking of an endowment fund and of potential donors to such a fund An endowment fund would likely be run through the library administration, and could be earmarked specifically for building development, she said

Library officials have discussed proposing a library millage vote to the City Council and Township Board yet this year, Orr said. Both bodies would need to approve the millage proposal, which would then put the proposal on a ballot for voters to consider.

Although a site may soon be recommended for a new Northville Public Library building, the question of how a move might be funded has not yet been addressed in depth.

A proposal for a new library might include several funding sources including a special property tax, grants and a special endowment

"We're looking at $2 million to build an adequate library. We want to spread the cost as much as we can before we ask for a millage," library Director Patricia Orr said last Monday. The $2 million figure is an initial estimate from an architect of what it would cost to construct a new building of about 25,000 square feet.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on May 18, 1988, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. DST-at the Board Room the Board of Trustees of Schoolcraft College will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1988 of an estimated additional proposed millage rate of 0.235 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982.

The Board of Trustees has the complete authority to establish that 2.27 mills be levied in 1988 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1988 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by an estimated thirteen percent (13%).

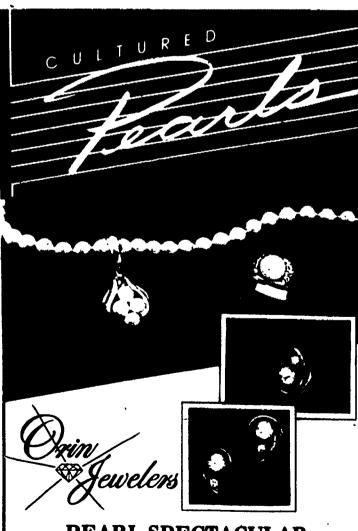

The figure for increase in revenue for operating purposes is based on the latest estimate of state equalized valuation of property located within the College District. In the event that state equalized valuation as finalized is for any reason higher than the estimate used for this hearing, the Board of Trusteesmust hold another public hearing before levying millage on any higher valuation.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Trustees may approve all or any portion the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by the Board of Trustees.

Budget almost even

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville's financial picture continued to improve last week, with the latest figures showing only minor cuts necessary for a balanced general fund budget.

At a budget review meeting Monday, City Manager Steve Walters presented figures showing that a year-end surplus, a higher-thanexpected tax base and other factors will almost balance the general fund budget. The first estimates showed a gap of almost $120,000 between expenses and revenues for next year's general fund.

The just-about-balanced general fund does not include some spending requests from the departments of police and public works (see related story). But aside from that, the city's finances are stronger than earlier figures indicated.

Walters said Monday that aside from any dedicated millage for special purchases, the rest of the general fund should balance. After several adjustments were made, the gap between revenues and expenses had narrowed to $10,500.

'When we got down to $10,500, I figured we could easily find places to absorb that (with) quite a few accounts adjusted a little bit," Walters

The picture still isn't entirely rosy, though, Walters said.

"Of course, this is with no money left at the end of next year. It's a break-even and fairly-tight budget," Walters said. "We can live with it, but we need to know there are no reserves of money in other funds for things that come up.

There is more revenue on the horizon, as the new subdivisions are built up and the downtown tax capturing gets more money, Walters said. "We're just kind of cash poor," he commented.

The latest changes in the general fund budget are:

• An expected surplus of $63,200 at the end of this year which can be applied to next year's expenses.

The surplus results from several factors, both higher revenues and lower costs. "Those are primarily taking into account two more months of actual experience," Watters said.

These higher-than-expected revenues include the city's fee for collecting school taxes, income from interest and sales of cemetery plots at higher rates. Lower-than-planned expenses include a $10,000 error in finance department salaries and the postponement of expansion work at Rural Hill Cemetery.

- · The final tax base figures are higher than the original budget document planned, bringing in another
- Next year's interest earnings are now planned for $10,000 more than the original estimate.
- · Plans for street lighting in the new Pheasant Hills and Abbey Knoll Estates subdivisions now call for light to begin in September instead of July. The two-month difference is estimated to save $4,500 in electrici-
- · Keeping the street tree program's level of planting and maintenance at this year's level. A $4,000 increase had been proposed.

There is also one other fly in the city.'s budget ointment: some of the city's expected attorney's fees — about $34,000 - were not included in the planned expenses.

Lewis Moon presides over LIT's student activities and activities buildings

Local Moon shines over LIT

By ANITA CRONE

At a time when most people are slowing down, Lewis Moon is taking on more and more challenges.

The 67-year-old Northville resident now has three buildings and more than 6,000 students a month to supervise in his job of director of student activities at Lawrence Institute of Technology

Moon is in charge not only of the growing intramural program, and the supervision of the buildings, including the recently-dedicated field house, but also supervises the fraternities and clubs on campus.

And though the work is at times strenuous. Moon said it is working with students that keeps him at Lawrence Institute of Technology and in the position he has held for the past 25 years.

"I've got something to get up in the morning for - working with a good group of students," said Moon, noting that the typical Lawrence student is more math-oriented than that of other college students.

"This is a high-tech campus with a high-tech curriculum The typical student here needs two years of calculus just to graduate We don't offer sweatsock I or sweatsock II here.

But that has also cost the Southfield college its varsity sports program, which at one time included basketball.

"You just can't compete when you are dedicated to education, rather than athletics," Moon said, noting that the private college does not offer scholarships other than those based on academics

"I would be lying if I said that I . don't sometimes miss working at the high school level, but I don't think I like what I see in competitive athletics," said Moon. "Everything is geared to winning and to turning out a professional athlete, not toward enjoying sports and enjoying participating." Although Moon said he has slowed down a bit, he isn't ready to hang up his activities totally.

"I stopped playing softball a few years ago, and I did take up golf," he admitted, but his burly face broke into a grin when he talked about his real love: fishing.

"Yeah," he said, "I like to fish, particularly for bluegill. I enjoy eating them, too."

Moon said he also enjoys spending time with his six grandchildren and puttering around his Northville workshop.

His wife, June, also taught. She was in the Farmington Hills school district until the Moons opened up Moonkin Toys. Lewis created the wooden toys and June ran the shop until they gave it up about four years

'Now, the grandkids say, 'please don't make us any more toys, Gramps." But Moon said he still likes to putter around, when he has

Although Lawrence may never win another basketball championship, the school as recently as four years ago had a nationally-ranked bowling team. It also services more than 6,000; students monthly in its weightlifting program; with its track; its handball; walleyball and volleyball; courts; its softball contests; ping-pong tournaments; touch football games and its basketball arena. "The students at Lawrence are not, spectators, they are participants," said Moon, whose own participation in organized sports was cut short when he was wounded during World War II and was paralyzed for almost - a year. 'You learn what's important when you wonder whether you'll ever walk again," said Moon, who noted that a shell exploded and his back was broken in four places. With therapy, courage and a lot of, self-determination, Moon not only. was walking again, but he was running and able to participate in sports, but not at the level he once did.

City tax base rises

The latest tax base figures for the City of Northville may not be much of a surprise: they're up.

A community's tax base is the total assessed value of all real and personal property. Property taxes are figured on these assessed values.

Last year, the city's tax base was $93.8 million. The latest figures for this year show a tax base of $115.3 million - an increase of about 23 percent in a single year.

Most of the jump came in the Oakland County part of the city, and most of it came on residential property. Oakland residential land in the city was assessed at $40.3 million in 1987, climbing to $57.1 million this year.

The biggest cause of the increase was new construction. New residential building in the Oakland County part of the city accounted for $12.5 almost even at $1.5 million.

million of the city's total $21.5 million increase

That means the biggest impact on the tax base increase is the development of the Pheasant Hills and Abbey Knoll Estates subdivisions west of Taft and north of Eight Mile. Commercial land in Oakland County also increased, from an assessed value of $1.6 million last year to almost $2 million this year. Oakland industrial land went from $437,900 to

Increases in Wayne County are smaller, according to the latest figures, but still are increases. Residential land posted the largest increase, from $29.6 million last year

Commercial land in Wayne County went from $16.5 million to $17.6 million. Industrial land stayed

More gravesites set

One effect of Northville's tight city budget is a slowdown in the planned development of more gravesites in the Rural Hill Cemetery.

At a recent City Council study session to go over the next fiscal year's budget, Department of Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes said the city is running out of available plots in the cemetery.

Developing new plots within the cemetery is "a real necessity," Mapes said. "It's going to have to be done. We're running out of spaces."

Creating the new gravesites will mean extensive work, he said, including cutting down some trees, cutting into the hillside and moving and extending some roads.

$7,300 earmarked for the project in year, he added.

this year's budget will probably not be spent until July at the earliest.

City Manager Steve Walters has proposed delaying the cemetery funding past this fiscal year. That move would help create a surplus in the general fund at the end of the year which the city can use in next year's budget, which is tighter than this

In addition, Walters' proposed lowering the amount budgeted for cemetery development next year in order to help make ends meet.

At a budget study session Monday. he said the new level of funding will still add 120 new plots to the cemetery.

"It's opening half of what's left in-Work on the project was part of the stead of all of what's left," Walters city budget for the current fiscal said Monday. Another section will year, which ends June 30. But the still need to be developed in another

Lisa Medaris' excruciating headaches forced her to drop out of school

No graduation a headache

By BOB NEEDHAM

When most people get a headache, they take an aspirin For Lisa Medaris, that doesn't work

It hasn't worked for more than three years, when Medaris first experienced a disorder that will force her to miss graduating with her class from Northville High School this

It's a disorder the medical profession does not really understand: chronic, debilitating headaches with no identifiable cause. Headaches that - unlike the usual thought - are a problem all their own, not tied to any other disorder

In her struggle to understand her headaches, Medaris has been to medical professionals specializing in opthalmology, psychiatry and neurology. None of them really had the answer In fact, she still doesn't

"I was in class in my last hour and my vision just blurred," Medaris said of her first bout with the problem It only happened for a few moments the first time, but it happened again the next day — and this time her eyes stayed crossed

The first time we went to the eye doctor he said I had a lazy muscle and it was nothing to worry about," she recalled But then she started

Then the procession got underway; Medaris went to an eye doctor, a pediatrician, a psychiatrist, an internist and a neurologist

'It was really kind of irritating. I didn't know it was headaches; I another medication.

"I had an episode in school where I passed out When I came to I couldn't see anything for a few seconds. That really shook me up "

The various diagnoses Medaris col-lected included hysterical blindness, epilepsy and clinical depression none of which were accurate.

Her mother, Andrea, recalled, "Headaches had been a running theme through the whole thing." So they went in November to the Headache Neurological Institute, which set Lisa up on a program of exercise, medication and diet "They gave me a list of foods I couldn't have, and it was everything," she said. "I could drink water." The plan, including a couple different medications, did not work. By December, her headaches were worse than ever.

'Before, I would go weeks without a headache. Now it was three and four days a week," she said. The severity was also worse, she said.

Then she went into a hospital in Chelsea with a special headache unit. 'I don't know if it helped me or not,' she said "My attitude was a lot bet-They taught me a lot. When I got out I was not well, but I wasn't real bad "

But just two weeks later she was hit with a very severe headache lasting for three full days, and went back to the hospital.

"They said, 'You're sick.' I said, 'No kidding,'" Medaris joked.

Planners table P.R.U.D.

By ANITA CRONE

In a role reversal with the township trustees, members of the Northville Township Planning Commission tabled a request from Real Estate Interests, Inc for a second Planned Residential Unit Development after the trustees earlier had unanimously given approval for the proposal.

R.E.I. is in the process of developing a P.R.U.D. at Six Mile and Haggerty roads, the current site of the Dun Rovin Golf Course. When that project came before the two bodies, it was the planning commission which gave the go-ahead and the trustees who had the questions.

The planners voted to table the issue after planning consultant Claude Coates pointed out that the parcel of land south of Dun Rovin, might not qualify for P.R.U.D.

"The critical issue is to qualify the parcel in question under the P.R.U.D option. As the option — and it is an option, not a rezoning points out, in order for a P.R.U.D. to be granted, the proposal must 'result in the preservation of very significant natural features or provide very significant recreation features," Coates pointed out.

Coates said there was no doubt the Dun Rovin site, called Country Club Estates of Northville, qualified under the option since at least a portion of the Dun Rovin golf course would be

"But there is no documented site analysis substantiating the natural assets on the site that would be preserved by granting the P.R.U.D. option. It may be there, but I don't see it. And, I question whether this is a separate P.R.U.D. or part of the original," Coates said.

Larry Garon, vice president of Real Estate Interests, Inc., told the planners that his firm wants to develop 69 acres of land south of Dun family detached homes and to move 60 attached single-family homes from Country Club Estates onto the southern site Garon noted that the new site contains "significant natural assets worth preserving, specifically significant heavily wooded hardwood trees that would not be preserved were the property to be platted for a subdivision.

Robert Leighton, an Ann Arbor land planner who planned the land use for Dun Rovin, noted that the firm had presented the planners with the required information to support a

"I'm always frustrated by property lines that cross the landscape rather arbitrarily. My concern is that if this (south property) is platted, we're going to lose a couple of significant stands of trees," Leighton said.

Leighton pointed out that he and two other individuals certified by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources had walked the site, which also includes a stream and wetlands, and were convinced that the trees and the natural beauty of the site would be preserved only by the granting of the P.R.U.D. option.

However, Coates pointed out that the documentation was not submitted with the proposal.

In a letter of analysis to the commission, Coates wrote that the location of the vegetation and its quality was not well documented.

And, he said, "In my mind, it (both properties) has to be a unit. If you own both properties and there are no boundary lines, then they are one

"We want both these projects to stand on their own merits," responded Garon. "They are two separate

Garon also said he would not be willing to amend the P.R.U.D. for Dun Rovin, even though he noted that ported.

Rovin with approximately 104 single if the south property were approved for development under the P.R.U.D. option, there would be 60 less units in

Country Club Estates. We already have approval for Country Club Estates. Were we to amend our P.R.U.D. request, we would be further behind schedule and we already are a year behind on Dun Rovin," Garon said. Commissioner Larry Sheehan expressed reluctance to take any action on the new request. "I think Mr. Coates has pointed out some concerns that he has, and we have no guarantees that were we to approve this new P.R.U.D., that you would, in fact, move 60 units from Dun Rovin onto the new site. For all we know, if you don't amend the Dun Rovin P.R.U.D., we could be giving you approval for 60 units in Dun Rovin and the same 60 units on the new site.'

Richard Allen told Garon that he did not see anyone against the new proposal, but suggested the developers come back to the commission and show that they indeed will remove the 60 units from Dun Rovin. "I think what we want is a disclaimer and documentation, Allen said.

Commission Chairperson Charles DeLand asked Coates exactly what was being requested of the commission in regards to the P.R.U.D. re-

"You must determine whether it meets the intent of a P.R.U.D..' Coates said.

"And it is your recommendation that it does not," said DeLand.

"Yes," responded Coates. Allen suggested tabling the issue until R.E.I. brought in the requested documentation for the new site and legal terminology that would ensure the 60 attached units would not be duplicated, a suggestion the rest of the commission unanimously sup-relatively small scale of the city's general fund budget - about $3 million — makes cuts difficult. . If the city does levy more than the truth-in-taxation rate, the council will have to hold a special public hearing to formally notify the taxpayers that taxes are going up. Walters said that would probably take place during the same meeting as the budget hearing, scheduled for Tuesday, May 24.

The council members agreed to discuss the issue further at their next meeting, Monday, May 9.

The city's fiscal year begins July 1.

Board rates school head

Apparently the superintendent of the Northville Public Schools is almost perfect.

At least that appeared to be the assessment of the Northville Board of Education Monday, as they evaluated Superintendent George Bell's performance during the past

Bell, who has been in charge of the district for five years, received top marks by all seven of the board members in the areas of performance as board chief executive and performance as superintendent of schools. He was marked down slightly because the board failed to acheive its 1987-88 goals.

Each individual board member was asked to rate the superintendent on how well he adheres to board policies, how well he recommends policies, how well he keeps the board informed of his activities and decisions, his performance in providing an orderly and effective evaluation process of the district's employees, providing data and information to facilitate the board's decisionmaking process, supporting board policy and action and communication with the board

Included in the rating was the superintendent's performance in improving the instructional programs, paying attention to student safety, health and well being, facility management and planning, the management and organization of the district, financial responsibility and said he gave the superintendent a community relations.

The evaluation procedure was conducted in open session, with the board sitting as a personnel committee of the whole. The results of the evaluation will be reflected in Bell's salary and contract renewal at a regularly scheduled board of education meeting.

"Don't surprise us and we won't surprise you," joked Treasurer James Petrie, as the board began the evaluation process.

And there were few surprises. In fact, there was only one question about the superintendent's performance, and that came as a result of the one issue where the board was not unified — a foreign travel policy.

"I don't know whether we had not enough or too much information in that instance," said Trustee Robert McMahon.

"And if I had known how volatile an issue that would be, I certainly would have provided more information," Bell responded.

The issue revolves around board support for a planned trip by high school students to Germany. The teachers and students involved had requested board sanction for the trip. but the board had questions about liability.

Ironically, after finally offering its sanction, the teacher sponsoring the trip became ill and the board approval was withdrawn.

Board secretary Jay Dunkerley

less than perfect grade in his efforts to improve the instructional pro-

"I have a four here (five is perfect) because I'm looking for improvement. I see a five as perfection and I don't think we're there yet. There still needs to be improvement in the riculums," said Dunkerley. All of the board members noted that the district did not reach all of its 1987-88 goals, but Trustee Jean Hansen pointed out that she did not think that was the superintendent's problem. 'I think that we just set our goals too high," Hansen said. "I'm actually amazed that we performed as well as we did." Vice president Glenna Davis praised the efforts of the superintendent in the area of finance.

'You said when you came here 🥍 that this was not your strong area, but I really think you've grown and taken charge of that area," she said.

And Bell even laughed at himself during the evaluation, noting that he has learned to delegate the same way he learned about finance.

"You all know that I delegating as much as I enjoy finance. I do it by the seat of my pants. But with the addition of Dr. (Dolly) McMaster and Dr. (Burton) Knighton, I've learned that I can relax and let them do the work," he Zimmer and Fields reported that the source of the substance has been traced to a storm drain in the Dunbarton Pines subdivision.

Efforts to identify the substance currently are being concentrated on identifying the individual responsible for placing the substance in the drain, Fields noted.

'That's a lot quicker way to identify the substance than sending it in for analysis," she said. "If we have to send it in for analysis, it could take months before we find out what it

Fields stated further that she believes the substance has been contained, even though clean-up will be a bit more difficult because of the sticky nature of the substance. She said it probably will be necessary to "flush" the affected area because the substance is sticking to everything it touches from a range in Grayling. It wasn't a live shell because there was no powder in it - "but to look at it, you wouldn't have known it," she said.

The foam material Tim had thrown away was the incendiary part of the shell, so a search was held to find it.

Everyone was let back into their apartments, but the people at Selfridge told Maggie Champagne to just leave it where it was, close the door and not go in."

A bomb disposal unit from Selfridge showed up around 4 Monday afternoon and removed the shell.

After this experience, Tim said 7 he'll know what to do if he ever runs into a similar situation.

"They just said if you ever come across anything like that, stay away from it and call the police," Tim said.

Meads Mill Odyssey of the Mind winners plant their victory flag

Local team wins state OM contest

A group of Northville students are

The Gift of Flight team from Meads Mill, which included eighthgrader Mark Belonga, sixth-graders Richard Bell, David Rossing, Jason Lenning, Ross Fleming and Joel Elsesser and fifth-graderTravis Doolittle from Amerman, last Saturday took first-place honors during Odyssey of the Mind state competition at Central Michigan University. The team now advances to international competition June 2-4 at College Park. Md.

Northville competitors scored 146 points out of a possible 200 points to win the state championship. And the team took first place despite being penalized for improper attire.

The team was coached by Donna Bell and Pat Rossing, and Bell said the effort put forth to win the state championship was the best per-formance of the year. The team had been practicing since November. Bell has been coaching three years and said this is the best performance by a Northville squad.

Last year the middle school com-petitors finished in 12th among the 24 teams. This year, there were 26 teams'entered.

The Gift of Flight team had to construct six_airplanes, obeying the regulations put forth by the program originators.

The first plane, made out of paper and folded, had to stay aloft for as long as possible, up to 10 seconds.

The team's plane, conceived by studying books and refined by hours of testing, stayed aloft for three

The second aircraft, a glider, had to be thrown by hand across a set course and to break a balloon target. The team members constructed a flying saucer-type plane out of two Chinette plates. The students decorated their saucer to resemble a UFO and attached pins to the front of it, so that, as expected when it hit the target balloon, it popped.

The third aircraft, powered by a rubber band, flew perfectly and met the top ranking criteria of flying the length of the set course and then breaking the finish line barrier by going through a set of uprights.

Aircraft No. 4 was launched by a string and a catapault affair and it too went the required distance and broke the target balloon.

A little ingenuity was required to earn points for the fifth aircraft, which was a kite, that had to stay aloft for 20 seconds before landing and breaking a set target.

The Gift of Flight squad used fans to power their craft, and a roll of duct tape to push it back to the target.

The final aircraft was actually three folded paper planes that had to glide to a target area that was divided into various points.

The final showing depended on where the craft landed

And, to culminate the afternoon's event, the students were required to insulate an egg so that when it was sent rolling down a ramp, it did not break.

"The kids just did a fantastic job. They rolled that egg down the ramp in five tries (each team had six chances) and that egg was just as perfect when the judges examined it as it was when it was given to the team," said Bell.

She added that the squad fully intends to take advantage of the op-portunity to go to the international competition, but is seeking financial donations to make the trip.

Anyone who would like to donate to send the state champions to international competition may do so by sending a check or money order to Northville Public Schools, attention Gail Fountain, 501 W. Main, Northville,

Henrikson Insurance plan wins Planning Commission OK

A proposal to expand a downtown peals, as well as an agreement with a office building has won approval from the city Planning Commission

Henrikson Insurance will be able to build a two-story addition on the back ed the plan Tuesday, April 19. of its building, a former house on East Main The approval follows ap-next-door neighbor, to work out snags in the proposal.

The Planning Commission approv-

Among the problems in the plan were commission concerns about pearances before the Planning Com- where water runoff would go, about mission and Board of Zoning Ap- parking and about the use of a strip of a neighbor's land for a driveway.

Problems with parking and side yard requirements were resolved by the BZA The Planning Commission approval was conditioned on the company providing detailed plans for a dry well in the back of the building to control water

The driveway question also surfaced again Henrikson Insurance uses as part of its driveway a narrow strip of land which actually belongs to the Plagens building next door.

In earlier Planning Commission deliberations, the commission directed company owner Wes Henrikson to get a written agreement with Plagens to be able to use that strip But that was judged to be a littie too informal, so the city attorney drew up a formal agreement.

However, the Plagens did not sign that document. So, the commission's final approval includes a provision that if the strip of land used by Henrikson ever becomes unavailable, he would need to widen his driveway on his land to the regulation 20 feet.

There is room for such widening, but it would mean eliminating a strip of landscaping between the driveway and the building.

The Planning Commission gave Henrikson final approval on a 6-1 vote with commissioner David Totten dissenting.

Our Opinion

Purchases are needed

As a general principle, we don't like tax increases. Most people don't. But we have to think the Northville Cíty Council is on the right track this year in at least exploring the possibili-

The council members are in the midst of their annual budget deliberations, and they have learned that the next fiscal year is going to be /a tough one. There are several reasons for this, all of them unavoidable and basically temporary. City Manager, Steve-Walters has said the situation should improve after next year.

That's reassuring, but it still leaves the city with a big problem or, actually, several small problems. Balancing the budget is going to be

The city administration has a plan which would just about work out, and would keep city property owners — on the average - paying the same tax dollars as this year. But that plan left out some requests to buy a few items for the departments of police and public works.

If it was a matter of just delaying those requests for a year, there wouldn't be too much of a problem. But some of the items — like a new police base radio, a remodeling of the lockup, and a new gasoline storage tank at the DPW yard - have really been needed for years.

It would have been convenient to push these things off for another year, but the council appears unwilling to do that. They are now kicking around a couple of ideas to get some extra money.

Right now, the most likely solution appears to be a combination of a bond issue and a special designation of part of the general fund millage. Both these ideas are going to mean more taxpayer dollars going to the city.

That's unfortunate, but it really is necessary. Some of the projects that money would be used for just can't wait, and all of them are needed. Probably the least important of the proposals is an expansion of the police and fire part of City Hall, but even this would improve fire operations and police security.

So higher taxes might be a bitter pill, but the medicine will do the city good. Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers, who proposed the tax plan, and the rest of the council members deserve commendation for facing this problem

Can he cook?

By Brenda Bonzheim

I recently awoke in a cold sweat after having a nightmare that giant apron strings were choking me, the washing machine was overflowing, the microwave shorted out and the dog ran away. Frankly, entering the world of domesticity doesn't thrill me.

As the BIG DAY creeps nearer, tiny questions that never quite mattered before are beginning to surface. Questions like ... "Can Kevin cook?" "Will he cook?" Will he offer to dip his hands in hot sudsy water to do the dishes after a tasty meal I cook for him?" "Will he do the laundry?" "Will he take out the garbage?" Etc., etc.

Recently the "Can he cook?" question kept nagging at my brain, so I asked him to help me in the kitchen. To my delight, he was eager and willing to lend a hand.

'I'll make the salad," he said with a smile. "But you have to promise to stay out of the kitchen when I'm doing

I should have known there would be a catch. However, I reluctantly agreed. After we went shopping for lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes, croutons and all the salad fixings, he banished me from the kitchen. I stood in the living room of the apartment and listened to his busy chopping, wondering just what he was trying to hide from me. Curiosity soon got the best of me and I attempted to innocently stroll into the kitchen.

"I knew you couldn't stay away," Kevin said with a smug smile.

"Of course I can, I just have to . . . boil some water. Yeah, I have to boil some water," I said, my eyes pealed to the counter top where he had the salad stuff laid out. Luckily he didn't ask me why I was boiling water especially since we were planning to cook on my roommate's infamous barbecue grill.

I asked him if he needed any help. He shook his head.

"You don't think I can do it do you?" he asked

I left the room. He had made his point. I vowed to myself that I would leave him alone. When dinnertime rolled around, I could hardly wait to sink my fork into the huge bowl of salad Kevin had labored over.

"This is great," I told him. It was. There were just the right amount of crispy vegetables blended into chilled lettuce leaves, sprinkled with shredded cheddar cheese and seasoned croutons.

"It's not much," Kevin said. "But it's a start."

The "Can he cook?" question wasn't weighing so heavily on my mind anymore. At least he was willing to try to tackle the challenge of cooking, what more could I ask for? Salad today, Chicken Cordon Bleu tomorrow. There was a brief silence as we happily munched on the salad. I was imagining all the delicious meals I could look forward to from Chef Kevin in the future. I asked him if there were anything else he could whip up in the

"Oh yeah, just wait till you taste my peanut butter and jelly sandwiches," he answered.

Driveways should close

An application to add a convenience store operation to the Gas 'N' Go station at Tall and Eight Mile is getting tangled up in an issue not really related to the proposed change - and that's probably a good thing.

Although Boron Oil, which owns Gas 'N' Go, is only applying to remodel its auto bays into a store, the proposal constitutes a "change of use." That means the Planning Commission must approve a site plan. And that, in turn, means the commission must consider the site as a whole.

The biggest issue to rise from application. Boron's application is the driveways. Like most corner gas stations, there are four: two on Eight Mile and two on that. We find it awfully hard to believe not on this particular corner.

would be to close the two gas station driveways which are closest to the intersection.

Some members of the Planning Commission seem unwilling to approve the application unless those driveways are closed, and they ought to stick by their guns.

At Boron's last appearance before the commission, a company representative said closing those driveways would create an unacceptable traffic flow — and if the city required the closings as a condition of approval, the company would probably withdraw its

About two hours earlier — at six o-clock — she had awakened me to report that someone or something had torn up the flowers she had planted by the patio on Saturday.

Dutiful husband that I am, I threw on some jeans and went outside to investigate. She was right. Someone or something had indeed torn up the flowers, rummaged through the woodchips, ripped them out and left them lying on the ground to die a slow and agonizing death in the glaring rays of the sun.

She thought it might have been vandals, but I dismissed the notion. The plants were really small, barely noticeable in the daylight and virtually impossible to see at night. Besides, human vandals would have attacked something different. They would have broken flower pots or cut down the tulips. No, the plants had been damaged by some kind of animal vandal.

She got out her trowel and replanted the plants. Iwent back to bed for a couple hours more sleep. And that's when I saw it . . . the grotesque creature that had torn up the flower beds the previous night.

"It's the ugliest thing you've ever seen," I told her: "First, I saw what must have been a baby. A small toad-like thing which burrowed its way through the ground at an incredible rate of speed. And then I saw the parent. Huge. Scales and warts. About two feet long: As soon as it saw me it took off. Burrowing under the ground at the speed of a rabbit. Leaving the earth upturned in its wake, like a giant mole.

"I've never seen anything like it," I continued: "You can't be outside when that thing's around. It's sinister. None of the neighborhood cats and dogs are sale. What are we going to do?".

"Not to worry," she replied, a look of disgust on hed face. "From now on you're prohibited from watching science fiction movies before you go to bed at night."

State is cheating city out of tax money

I am writing in regard to the tacetrack tax proceeds split article in the April 28th issue in the April 28th issue.

The larcenous leeches of Lansing are at it again in welshing on paying off their obligations. If it is in the law as written that local government(s) should receive 20 percent of the tax clip then so be it.

The fact that the City of Northville recovered its costs from providing track services is academic. The state bureaucracy owes the city the additional funds and should pay off without playing politics. It certainly is not as though they don't have the money!

MAKE YOUR MOVE

WHEN SHE LEAST EXPECTS IT.

Moving can be traumatic experience

This is another in a continuing series of columns written for The Record by Mary Ellen King, director of Northville Youth Northville is a growing community. It is a community in which there are many professional people who have been transferred because of employment. This growth and transition often places youths in difficult adjustment situations. Moving is a trauma that will sometimes take months to handle.

Adults must force themselves to join clubs or other activities to make the adjustment easier. Youths, who usually had no input into the move, are asked to give up their school, their friends, their room. and the familiar surroundings that give them some sense of security. The move to a new community can sometimes cause youths distress that is displayed in many Walking into a new school, meeting the principal that first day is a very scary. situation for all youths. Although we may try to convince our youth that this is an exciting, new beginning, it has little meaning when you are convinced you will never have friends again, the kids dress funny, the teachers look mean and the school isn't as nice as the old one.

Walking out of your new home into a new neighborhood is frightening. Everyone already has friends. The clicks are already formed. They don't play games by the same rules as the kids in the "old" neighborhood. Making new friends for some adults is easy, however for most of us it is very difficult. During different stages of development, youths find making new friends extremely difficult. In an interview with a fifteen year old girl, she stated, "The hardest part of moving was leaving my friends. They had a big party for me and I thought I would never stop crying. I didn't want to like the kids in Northville, I wanted to be with my real friends. When I came to Northville, the school seemed so big. Everything seemed so strange and no one would talk to me. The first week I had a hard time finding my locker. Imagine how stupid I felt - I couldn't find my locker."

For the youth who continues to have difficulties months after the move, intervention by the parents is important. As adults we must be overly conscious of the difficulties youths have when they are uprooted. Youth Assistance matches youths with trained, adult volunteers who can assist youths in their adjustment. Seeing is believing

By Neil Geoghegan

Of the five senses, sight seems to be a

If somebody did a survey asking people what sense they would give up last, I'll bet sight comes first or at least up near the top. I personally place sight pretty high up — or at least I thought I did — but recently I've grown to appreciate it even more.

About three years ago, after many months of prodding, I finally went to get an eye exam. I knew the tests would reveal that I needed some sort of corrective eye wear but l was dead set against wearing glasses. I don't like to wear jewelry so I knew that getting used to glasses would be a hideous chore after all, it took me months to get used to

When the tests revealed that my eyes did indeed need some help I decided to try contact lenses but I still refused glasses. As you thight have guessed, they were hard to get used to and the chemicals used to clean the lenses started to bother my eyes. I switched my cleaning method from the chemicals to Reating but the damage was done.

The chemical residue bothered my eyes if I left them in for more than a couple hours. This went on for months and after a while, I abandoned the lenses. I only wore them on special ocassions when I really wanted to see clearly — like to a sporting event. Although not 20/20, my eyesight wasn't bad enough to prevent me from driving without the lenses, except at night.

For the next couple years, I went though life in a blurred haze. Anything more than a couple feet away was fuzzy. If I needed to see a street sign at 55 miles per hour or the clock on the far wall at a restaurant, I turned to my wife. She became my eyes for just about anything that was any distance away.

After a while, I didn't really miss not seeing clearly. I forgot how the colors jump out at you when the leaves are changing in the fall on Beck Road, just how beautiful the swans on Wolverine Lake are and how picturesque the bright sailboats are on Walled Lake in the summer. They say you don't miss what you don't have.

Just 7 miles West of 1-275

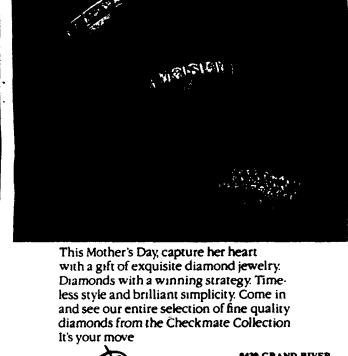

Because I rarely wore them, the contacts didn't wear out. So rather than go out and spend the money for a new pair that I could wear, I continued with the old ones on a part-time basis. When my tax refund money came back in March, I decided to use the extra cash to finally — after three years — get a new pair. My wife rejoiced but I was still leery of the darn things. Prior experience made me that way.

Well, my new lenses now give me 20/20 vision. But more importantly, they are comfortable and I am able to wear them all day with nary a red eye in sight. Everything is very clear, sharp and defined. I feel like a new man, but also a foolish one for living for the last three years in what Jimi Hendrix called a 'Purple Haze

Now, when I see something that I didn't before, I appreciate it much more. I can actually see buds on trees, the clock in the office and the driver in the other car.

Sight is certainly a biggie.

Shopping centers prone to new demands

A proliferation of retail construction in the metro Detroit area has resulted in consumers demanding more from shopping centers, and tenants opting for the best possible space in a saturated market.

'To satisfy this scenario we must create an environment that would respond to and better serve the needs of today's consumer," said Jerry Beale, founder of the Beale Group, which has been instrumental in the sale or lease of more than 200 shopping centers in southeastern Michigan

"Consumers are demanding more character and more personalization from a shopping center now than at any other time in the 30-year history of our industry.

Beale made his remarks at a meeting of the Womens Commercial Real Estate Association in Southfield's Radisson Plaza Hotel. About 40 Realtors, Certified Public Accountants and attorneys were in attendance.

FEED

They heard Beale, whose business is based in Southfield, describe his success in renovating existing strip shopping centers from Dearborn to Southfield.

"Renovating these centers has proven to be a very challenging, educational and extremely profitable business," he said.

"I'm sure you have heard the cry, Where are all the tenants to fill all the available spaces on the market today?' What is being created is a situation controlled by the tenant. A tenant can usually be expected to opt for the best available space within a given trade area, especially if locations are more or less comparable."

Beale finds today's centers have changed dramatically from what they were just a few years ago

"The size, layout, tenant mix and design have changed dramatically," he said. "We must look for ways to increase the stores' productivity if our centers will generate the cash flow that we would like to project "

A few years ago, stores were considered profitable if they generated $1 to $1.25 per square foot. Because of the competitive nature of the retail industry today, the number must be in the $2.50 to $3 range to be in the black. Beale said.

"To realize these sales projections, the developer and store owner must work in tandem. The ultimate success is tied to the success of the designer, the marketing team, the leasing and managing agents, and everybody else It is a total team effort," he said.

Beale has found a proliferation of new developers "who want to make a killing in real estate with nothing more than a modest piece of land." As a result, quality tenants are becoming increasingly difficult to secure.

The competition has resulted in strip centers taking on many features once found only in regional malls such as greater attention to design, layout, landscaping and planning, Beale said.

"More emphasis is on style and quality, with a significant amount of money being spent on design. As shopping centers begin to upscale their appearance, the consumer continues to search for the most exciting center," he said.

Existing centers can get a fresh look with new signs, adequate parking layout, attractive landscaping,

Beale cited as example a strip center he purchased in Dearborn a few years ago for $400,000 (with $50,000 down on a long-term land contract). Although the profit margin fell short of its potential, the 15,000square-foot building was attractive because all leases were short term. parking problems could be alleviated and the building could be renovated

"It appeared on the surface like a can of worms, but in reality it was a worthy challenge.'

Beale hired an architect who created a new look for $40,000. As leases expired, Beale created a complementary mix of businesses. He cited printing companies, florists and dry cleaners as desirable tenants because customers are short term and business stays strong when the economy softens. He established conforming signs, painted the 18-year-old colonial-style building, landscaped around the parking lot, added lighting, and purchased a large sign for the street to list each business and

"One would have assumed it was a new center," Beale said. "We won a city beautification award. Tenants actively promoted their business with new vigor. All rents come in regularly and we now have a waiting list of prospective tenants.

Easy steps for making a family budget

If even the thought of drawing up family budget sends shivers down your spine, take heart. Budgeting seems to have the same effect on most people.

But, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, following a few simple steps can make planning your budget much easier and less stressful

The first thing to remember is you shouldn't try to put together a complete budget in one sitting - or in one day. Completing an accurate budget takes time. If you try to do it all at once, you're likely to get frustrated or tired, or both, and give up. Take your time.

Don't try to do it all yourself either. Your spouse and your children can, and probably should, pitch in. If you and your spouse don't normally share in the financial management of your family, now is a good time to start. In addition, your spouse wil be able to gauge more accurately some expenses you don't normally handle, such as food shopping or car repairs.

Getting your children involved can be a good way to teach them the importance of money management and perhaps teach them the value of a dollar, especially if they see their clothing or entertainment expenses have consistently been higher than ilt's also important to have the family discuss and set financial

priorities — the objectives of the budget. You may want to set aside money for a vacation home in the mountains while your spouse wants to enlarge your existing home. When setting your financial objectives, don't forget to protect your children's future. Make sure vou have adequate insurance - both life and disability. Losing a parent or spouse is catastrophic enough; your family shouldn't have to worry about money as well.

You shouldn't forget to protect your home and valuables either. A proper insurance policy can also help avoid a catastrophic financial loss.

And don't overlook your future. If your employer has no retirement plan or an inadequate one, budget IRA contributions for both you and your spouse. Depending on your situation, the IRA contributions may be tax deductible. Your golden years should be just that, golden.

Once you've got your budget down on paper, take a critical look at it Have you budgeted any spending money for you and your family? If not, you are probably deluding yourself, especially if you normally keep "walking around" money in your pocket. Unless you can get used to not having it, you might as well budget for it

Take a close look at your debt level as well. Are you spending more than 10 percent of your net income on consumer debt? If so, you may want to put away the credit cards and delay buying that new car until you pay off your existing debt. And the combination of rent or mortgage costs and debt payments generally shouldn't exceed 35 percent of your monthly salary. So if housing costs are high, your other credit cost should be kept

Make sure you make a provision for saving money. After all, that's one of the goals of the budget. Many financial planners recommend you save at least five to 10 percent of your income. In the future you may find you can actually save more.

You've made outthe budget, defined the objectives and did it all with your spouse and the children. What's Well, you should try your budget on for size for a month or two. To do that, keep track of virtually every dollar you or your family drastic and difficult, it is necessary.

Expect for certain fixed costs like rent, mortgage payments and car payments, all of your budget figures are estimates. As such, they need to be tested for their accuracy. For example, you may not have accounted for the cost of your lunches at work or the occasional family trip to the pizza parlor.

Once you get used to it, recording daily expenses should only take a few minutes. You can make it even easier if you get receipts for everything you buy. And make sure your family is involved here, too. They probably all spend money and will need to keep track of it.

Don't worry about small change; round off all figures. An unaccounted dollar or two is not going to wreak havoc on your budget. The same is true if you forget an item here and

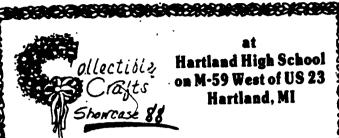

At the end of the month, CPAs recommend you compare your budget with actual expenses. You will invariably have expenses which were under or overestimated. Adjust your budget accordingly and retest it for another month.

If the actual and budget figures are a close match, congratulations. Your budget is firmly established. You should, however, periodically review the budget to make sure it reflects your current financial condition.

- Newcomers Club elects board
- Cutler Realty garden shines
- Mother's Day concert planned

Step One:

Start with three balls (tennis balls work well) or bean bags. Put two balls in your dominant hand and one ball in your other hand. For this explanation, we'll assume the right hand is the dominant hand.

Step Two:

The first ball you throw will be the one you're holding on the fingertips of your right hand. Toss it up to about chin level over toward your left hand.

Step Three:

As the red ball reaches its peak, throw the yellow ball (the one in your left hand) under it. All the balls should be coming up to about chin level.

Step Four:

As the yellow ball is heading toward your right hand, throw the green ball under it. You're now back to where you started, so just continue with this pattern.

Summer music fest set for June

By ANN E. WILLIS

Planning is moving ahead full force for Northville's "Summer Song" festival on June 24 and 25. According to organizer Toni Genitti. the festival will feature arts and craft booths and music all day long both days of the event.

The festival will open on Friday, June 24 at 3 p.m. and music will continue until 10 p m On Saturday, June 25 the festival will open at 11 a m. and go until 10 p.m.

We're calling this the 'Old Fashioned Street Dance with the Beat of the Big Band," Genitti said. One of the featured performers will be well-known artist Joe Vitale and his Big Band Sound. All musicians will play from the band shell on Main Street.

Although the date of the event is weeks away, Genitti said the organizing committee is in need of donations from area businesses or residents to help defray the costs of the entertainment. In addition the committee is looking for arts and crafts handicrafters who would like to set up booths for the event. "We want to get the community involved in the event," Genitti said.

Anyone with donations, questions, or in search of a spot at the festival should contact Toni Genitti at 349-0522.

April garden

A business with garden landscape was chosen Garden of the Month by the Country Girls branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association. The award went to James C. Cutler Realty, of 103 Rayson in downtown Northville. The garden is a good example of the use of hardy bulbs. This planting includes hyacinth, tulips, crocus, snowdrops, anemone blue star, and daffodils along with a Star Magnolia Tree — the early flowers of spring. The Country Girls have selected a Garden of the Month from May to October for several years. Anyone with a garden to nominate should call Pat Eden or Judy Beyersdorf.

The Cook's Shoppe wait staff prepares appetizers at your table

If you like garlic and love good food at an extremely reasonable price, then the Cook's Shoppe in Windsor is the place to be — if you can get reservations. But once you are on the list, and you finally arrive in Windsor, you are in for a rare dining ex-

It may take a couple of minutes after you arrive for your eyes to adjust to the dim lighting, but once the transition from daylight to darkness is overcome, you find yourself seated in a small, intimate setting. Dominating the decor is a deli counter, where you can purchase meat or pasta, the same food that is part of your dinner.

The Cook's Shoppe:

An open kitchen is set up behind the counter, so youngsters and adults alike can watch their meals being prepared.

If there is one criticism of the Cook's Shoppe, it is that the dining area is small, and the tables are close together and at no spot are you far from the two doors that open to admit diners. The food, however, leaves no room for complaints, nor room for much else to eat after dinner. It isn't so much that the menu, which includes mostly pasta with a small but complete list of other entrees, is so unusual. It's the way each dish is prepared. The Cook's Shoppe menu features lamb, a fish dish that changes daily, shrimp brochettes and the required steaks and prime rib. Each order is individually prepared and tastefully served. And every entree includes a lettuce salad that is tossed at the table. Each salad comes dressed with the house dressing, a light garlic vinagarette, and includes fresh, home-made croutons The waitperson will leave the salad, and if you have a hearty appetite and manage to finish it, the staff is more than willing to offer a refill.

Don't take it Instead, save room for one of the pasta appetizers, which range from tortellinis in a garlic and cheese cream sauce, to spaghetti, to linguine and Alfredo All of the pasta appetizers are cooked at the table, and are served quickly and hot. And, of course, in a portion that only the most hearty eater can The tortellini sauce, a light mixture of three kinds of grated cheeses, garlic, pepper and a hint of salt, is prepared tableside quickly by the wait staff, as are the other pasta appetizers. Only fresh pasta is used, not dried. Other appetizers include snails, the de rigeur shrimp cocktail and crab cocktails. But those you can get anywhere. The pasta at the Cook's Shoppe and, its neighbor, the Pasta Shoppe, are special.

Meat eaters will love the steaks and prime rib. Each portion is cooked to order and not reheated in a microwave, so that when you order your meat medium, it comes medium with just a hint of pink.

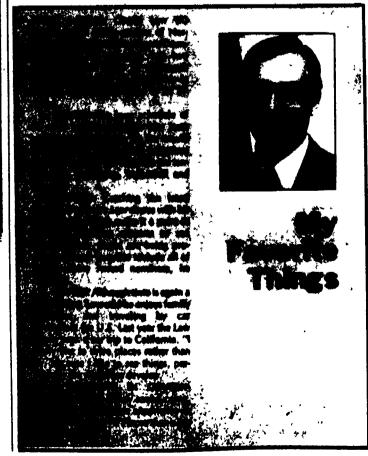

Another benefit of individual cooking is that those who like their meat cooked rare, do not end up with a middle portion of raw meat.

The same rules apply to the lamb, which actually is a rack of first-cut chops, butterflied and cooked in a light mixture of oil and herbs. A dessert menu includes ice cream dishes, as well as parfaits and cakes and pies. But by the time you finish the main course, the salad and appetizer, there isn't room for dessert. Dinners like those served at the Cook's Shoppe can cost upwards of $50 in the States. But the prices are reasonable, ranging from $5.95 to $14.95, Canadian. And you certainly can't beat that.

The Cook's Shoppe, 683 Oulette, Windsor. Hours are from noon-9:30 p.m. Tuesdays-Thursdays, from noon-11:30 p.m. Fridays, from 4-11:30 p.m. Saturdays and from 4-9:30 p.m. Sundays. All major credit cards accepted. Alcohol is served. Reservations required and may be made by calling (519) 254-3377.

Swanson places 235 in Boston

Over 300 Michigan residents were among thousands who challenged themselves on the streets in and around Beantown at the 92nd annual Boston Marathon and managed to finish the grueling 26.2-mile event. Nine of the finishers were runners from the Novi/Northville area who survived the brutal course that began in Hopkinton, Mass. and ended in downtown Boston on April 18.

Northville's Dale Yagiela fared the best among all local runners, finishing the race in 2,130th place in a time of 3:07.41. The top female finisher from the area was Donna Swanson of Northville, who finished in a time of 3:24.06 and placed a very respectable 235th.

The remaining male finishers from the area were Hubb Copp of Novi (3:11.24) in 2.475th place, Larry Stewart of Northville (3:15.28) in 2,781st place, Louis Yeager of Northville (3:20.14) in 3,120th place, Lawrence Schlanser of Northville (3:24.07) in 3,346th place, Hugh Sweeney, Jr. of Novi (3:27.47) in 3,539th place and Dennis Quenneville of Northville (3:33.57) in 3,780th

The only other woman finisher from the area was Beatrice Flanigan of Northville (3:47.10), who placed 638th overall.

Kenya's Ibrahim Hussein won the race in a time of 2:08.43 and Portugal's Rosa Mota won her second straight women's title in a time of

"I loved the race this year," Copp said. "The crowd was great and personally, I ran a much smarter race because I knew the course and I knew what to expect.

"The first part of the course is downhill so I ran it slower this time. For the second half, I was much stronger for the hills." At the Boston, the hills kick in between the 16 and the 22 mile marks, and that's the area that really got to

Pitcher Scott Stephens went seven strong innings against Farmington Harrison

Mustang nine rip Harrison

Intensity is something all coaches look for, but don't always get, from their players.

In prep baseball action last week. intensity may have been the difference between an impressive Northville win and a disappointing, mistake-filled loss. With the intensity there, the Mustangs clobbered Farmington Harrison 6-1 on April 29 and played a close to perfect game. Fours days earlier, Northville fell 15-5 to Livonia Franklin, and according to coach Bob Frellick, the intensity just wasn't there. The Mustangs committed five key errors in the contest.

"We're hitting over .300 as a team and our pitching is coming on,' Frellick said. "I think we're molding into a pretty solid team, we just need to maintain consistency with our in-

The win over Harrison was extraspecial because the team played so well. Starting pitcher Scott Stephens was never in any trouble and the defense behind him was flawless. Offensively, Northville had only nine hits but they seemed to come in key situations - like Randy Jones' threerun homer in the fifth.

"It was an outstanding ballgame for us," Frellick pointed out. "We had good intensity and everybody played well.

Catcher Mike Yard drove in Jim Willerer in the first inning with a double to start the scoring and Brian Frellick scored in the third to make it 2-0. After base hits by Frellick and Willerer in the fifth, Jones smacked his home run to up the lead to 5-0.

Harrison broke the shut out with a solo home run in the sixth off Stephens, but was much too late. In the seventh, the Mustangs wrapped up the scoring as Willerer crossed the plate for the third time in the game after reaching base on a fielder's

Frellick (3-for-4), Willerer (2-for-4) and Yard (2-for-2) were the hitting standouts but Stephens was the star as he went the full seven innings, gave up five hits, struck out seven and walked five. 'Scott did a very nice job," Frellick said, "He had two strong relief appearances going into this game and he was just as effective as a starter.

The Franklin game started off well for Northville, but it didn't last long. The Mustangs took an early 3-0 advantage in the first thanks to a tworun triple by Derek Osborne and a run-scoring single by Yard. The Patriots tied it in the second off starter Steve Nigro, but an error and a walk seemed to hurt more than the

Another error in the third handed Franklin a run and a brief lead but Northville grabbed it back with two runs in the bottom of the inning — the big hit was a two-run homer by Tom Skynar. But that was to be the end of the scoring for the Mustangs.

A third error and a home run keyed a five-run fourth for the Pats, a fourth error helped two more score in the sixth and the fifth and final error, combined with two more homers, enabled four more runs to cross the plate. Just like that it was 15-5.

'I don't think our intensity was very good as a team," Frellick said. "I think that really affected us."

Nigro and his reliever Scott Probert were hit hard but only surrendered three earned runs combined in more than six innings of work. The main culprit was the errors.

"We actually played pretty well but we made too many mistakes,' Frellick explained. "Each error hurt bacause Franklin seemed to come back with a key hit. They capitalized on every one and that's a sign of a good team. They played pretty well." Osborne and Yard were the only Mustang players with multiple hits in the game. They both went 2-for-4. The split leaves Northville with a 4-overall mark, 3-1 in the WLAA Western Division. Frellick is still confident his team can contend for the division title now that his pitching staff is starting to round into form.

"Our pitching is really coming on strong," he said. "We've lowered our earned run average by over three points from last season. I think we're equal to or better than anybody in our division and I think we can compete with the best in the other division.

Top-ranked kickers top Falcons 5-2, remain unbeaten

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

First came number-one ranked Plymouth Canton and now number three-ranked Farmington.

The Northville girl's soccer squad has been knocking off some of the state's best teams the last two weeks, but it's very unlikely Stan Smalec's squad will be able to play giant-killer - at least for a while. That's because the Mustangs are now the state's top ranked Class A team, according to the Michigan Soccer Coaches Association.

Northville completed yet another week without a loss and raised its season record to 7-0-2 with three big victories by a combined score of 26-2. The big win was a 5-2 triumph over Farmington on April 27, but the Mustangs also topped Novi 7-0 on April 25 and Redford Union 14-0 on Farmington entered the game with high expectations and revenge on their minds. Last season, Northville destroyed the Falcons 5-1 in the regular season, but a rejuvenated Jenny Schuerman and a red-hot Jodi Smalec were poised for an encore performance.

"It was a good win for us and it came on a terrible day," Stan Smalec explained. "We had rain and snow and wind — you name it. But we played a solid game from the start."

Jodi Smalec opened the scoring with a goal at the 14-minute mark on a pass from Schuerman and then three minutes later, Schuerman scored and Abby Edwards collected the assist. With the Northville defense in high gear, the first half Farmington got on the scoreboard several minutes into the second half on a goal by Margaret Martin but Schuerman made it 3-1 after taking a pass from Smalec and beating the Falcon goaltender at the eightminute mark.

Farmington's Carrie Maier narrowed it again with a tally at the 23minute mark but not more than 10 seconds later Edwards made it 4-2 on an unassisted goal. Smalec then wrapped up the scoring with her second goal of the game on passes from Schoerman and Edwards. For the game, Northville outshot the Falcons

"The kids played very well," Smalec said. "(Karen) Cavanaugh marked Carrie Maier and did a good job and I thought it was a very good all-around team effort. One of our un-sung heroes was Heidi Wagner — she did an outstanding job.'

With the number-one ranking and formidable opponents like Livonia Stevenson and Brigaton coming up, Smalec knows it's going to be very difficult to maintain the ranking and secure the unbeaten record.

"It carries extra pressure but it's a privilege and an honor to be recognized," he said. "It's going to be tough to hang onto it because everybody now wants to get a shot at us."

NORTHVILLE 7, NOVI 0: The gutsy Wildcats held the Mustangs scoreless for the first quarter of the game, but talent prevailed in the final 20 minutes of the first half.

Schuerman broke the scoreless tie at the 21-minute mark after taking a nice pass from Edwards and about 10 minutes later, Edwards notched a goal, this time from Heldi Wagner.

Northville's Jodi Smalec (center) maneuvers between two Novi defenders on April 25

Edwards and Wagner set up Schuerman for her second score at the 33-minute mark and the hat trick followed five minutes later from Marcie Dart and Shannon Loper. The score was 4-0 at the intermission. Schuerman scored her fourth early in the second half, from Jennifer Dragon and Smalec to make it 5-0 and Smalec added two late goals to provide the final margin of victory.

Dart assisted on the final two goals. 'I think we overlooked Novi a little Smalec said. "We started slow in both halves. We may have scored seven times but we had to fight for UNION 0: It was one of the most lopsided games ever and the Mustangs used every player on the roster. Smalec cleared the bench early, but it was still a massacre.

Jodi Smalec was the offensive star as she registéred her second, fourgoal outing of the young season. Schuerman and Debbie Stevens each scored three times and Jenny Stevens, Beth Swayne, Amy Goode and Heather Sixt all added single tallies. Loper, Smalec, Jenny Stevens and Schuerman all notched three assists apiece.

Everything was clicking but it wasn't the intense kind of game that I wanted," Smalec admitted. "It was a game where I thought Union would be better than they were.'

Tracksters drop another close dual meet

The Northville boy's track squad is developing a bad habit of losing the close meets, and last week's clash with WLAA Western Division foe Livonia Franklin was all too

The Mustangs dropped a 73-64 decision to the Patriots on April 28 - the team's third loss in four tries this season — and all have been decided by less than 10 points. The only consolation for coach Dennis Faletti is that the team is very competive and is making huge strides compared to a year ago.

"Last year we lost to Franklin by 55 so we are making progress but you like to have some wins to show for it," he said. "I thought it was an even meet heading in and it was. Most of the events were very close.

Northville was without the services of Rich Subotich, who was ill. He anchors three of the four relay races and his absence may have cost the Mustangs a win.

Mark Kiraly continues to give to squad some outstanding performances in the sprint events. The junior took first-place honors in the 100 (11.5) and 200-meter dashes (24.3), and ended up the only twotime winner for Northville. The other winners included John Frisble in the 3,200-meter run (10:33), John Hacker in the high jump (5'-10"), Steve Austin in the long jump (19'-4"), Todd Daniels in the shot put (36'-7"), Chris Kuffner in the discus (131'-7") and the 1,600 relay team of Carl Sigert, Al Kuljurgis, Scott Sinkwitts and Austin (3:41.2).

Todd Feliks paced the runner-up efforts with a pair of seconds in the 110 (16.9) and 300 hurdles (43.8). The rest of the seconds came from Frisbie in the 1,600 (4:53), Sinkwitts in the 800 (2:08), Kuffner in the shot put and Jeff Cross in the high jump (5'-10")

Thirds were registered by Austin in the 400 (55.9), Kuljugis in the high jump (5'-8"), Derek Forbing in the shot put and Eric Billmora in the discus (107'-7").

NOVI RELAYS: Finishing eighth out of eight teams is not an ideal situation but that's where the Mustangs placed in Novi last weekend. Northville scored 29 points, more than 60 less than the winners from Farmington Harrison.

"I split a lot of our relay teams up in order to give everybody an opportunity to compete and I think it hurt our score," Faletti said. "I wanted this to be a fun meet for the kids so I sacrificed some points."

The Mustangs top finish was a second in the high jump relay, Hacker (5'-10"), Cross (5'-6") and Kuljurgis (5'-6") combined for a 16'-10" effort. The only other top three finish came from the discus relay team of Kuffner, Billmora and Bob Dudley (3317-0" combined).

"There was 13 events and we placed in the top six in seven of them," Faletti said. "We were real competitive in most events and that's what I wanted to see."

Northville (1-3 overall, 0-1 in the WLAA) travels to Livonia Churchill today (May 5) to take on the Chargers in another division battle. -

Competitive Mustang netters fall to Salem, Canton

Doug Kamienecki hits a backhand in action earlier this season

Although the Mustang tennis squad continues to be very competitive, the victories aren't coming with much

In action last week, Northville lost to both Plymouth Salem and Canton to give the team five losses in the last six tries. On April 25, Salem took two of three in doubles and split in the singles flights to nip the Mustangs 4-3. Canton then ripped the locals 6-1 on April 29 in the match that was actually much closer than the score in-

Northville was to take on Walled Lake Central on April 27 but it was rained out and rescheduled for today (May 5).

The feature match in the loss to Salem came at No. 4 singles. Jeff Gursky and Jeff Stomer battled through a three-set, three hour plus battle that was just about as evenly matched as possible. Gursky eventually came out the winner 7-6, 6-7, 7-6 as each set was settled in a tie-

'It was certainly the match of the day," Mustang Coach Dick Norton said. "They were out there battling each other for a long time. You can't get any closer.'

The only other Northville winner in the singles competition was Rob Richcreek at No. 2. He topped Bob Bower in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4. Doug Kamienecki lost to Rich Cundiff 3-6, 1-6 at No. 1 and Kurt Reickel fell to Wade Garard 1-6, 5-7 at No. 3.

The lone doubles winners were the third team of Matt Oliver and Todd Booth. They had no trouble with Casey Kirkpatrick and Chris Marshak (6-2, 6-2).

The top doubles team of Ken Spigarelli and Jeff Wesley played their worst match of the season and ended up on the short end of a 2-6, 4-6 loss to Scott Hobbs and Matt Lore. At No. 2, Chad Bosscher and Mike Mathes were defeated by Ryan Bannan and Ryan Fitzpatrick 1-6, 4-6.

"Our top doubles team couldn't seem to get going," Norton said. "It was the poorest they've played this nicely against Canton, however, and ended up giving the Mustangs their only point. After dropping the first set 5-7, they came back to win it 6-1, 6-3 over Rich Gurchak and Martin

The Bosscher/Mathes team at No. 2 lost to Dan Nowicht and Brian Schmidt (4-6, 1-6) and the No. 3 team of Oliver and Booth came up short against Tony Spognoli and Chris Harper (1-6, 3-6). In singles, Kamienecki fell to Mike Burt (1-6, 2-6), Richcreek was outlasted by Dan Orlandi (6-4, 2-6, 2-6), Reickel was blasted by Jim Gallagher (1-6, 0-6) and Gursky dropped an identical 1-6, 0-6 decision to Steve Schmidt.

"It was fairly close, I suppose," Norton pointed out. "Our guys were competive in most of the matches but (Canton) is the top team in our division, along with Farmington Harrision,

"We played hard all the way so we have nothing to be ashamed of. If you can be pleased with a loss, I was."

Local hockey stars are honored

Northville may not be known as a haven for top-notch collegiate hockey haven — but maybe it should be.

Two Northville residents — Jerry Pawlowski and Todd Krygler - have been honored for their fine play this past season as members of the Harvard and Connecticut teams respectively.

Pawlowski, a 1984 Northville High School graduate, has been named to receive the Tudor Award at Harvard University. The Tudor Award is given to the most valuable player on the Crimson hockey team.

Pawlowski, the son of David and Eileen Harris of North Hills Court, is a senior at Harvard, majoring in A four-year starter on the Harvard hockey team, he has been drafted by the Hartford Whalers and currently is negotiating a contract to play professional hockey.

A 5'10", 185-pound defenseman, Pawlowski has helped lead Harvard to the NCAA playoffs in each of the last four years. During the past year, Harvard finished first in the ECAC and the Ivy League and reached the quarter-finals of the NCAA hockey tournament before losing to Michigan State.

Pawlowski finished sixth in scoring for Harvard this year with five goals and 20 assists for a total of 25 points. Krygler, an All-American, was recently named one of U-Conn's most outstanding senior athletes. He set numerous career and single season records as a member of the Huskies hockey program the past four seasons.

year older but also it rained for most of the race," he pointed out. "Last year at the end of the race, I had hypothermia — this year I was on cloud nine after the race."

Copp's wife Nancy sat in the rain for the entire race with a video camera waiting for her husband to go by. She ended up capturing the moment on film but the cheering was so loud, Copp ran on by without seeing or hearing her.

With 'Novi Trackers' emblazoned proudly on the back of his shirt, Copp received encouragement from the crowd in typical Boston fashion.

"Because of their accents, they would yell, 'Come on Nahve' and 'Let's go Nahve,'" Copp laughed. "I'm going to try and go back every year, as long as I can qualify. Next year I'd like to take my kids." Swanson was the top female finisher in the area and was seventh among all Michigan runners. It was Swanson's first Boston Marathon but certainly not her last.

"I was very pleased with the way it went," she said. "I had to break 3:30 in order to qualify for next year and I did it, so I plan to go back.

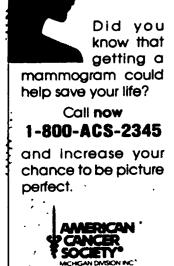

'Boston is a very fun city and until you run it, you can't imagine the 26-mile event in 4:08, which is a fine spectators. For 26 miles there are time for a race run on only trails people going wild and trying to keep you going. It makes the whole thing very exciting."

As with most first-timers, Swanson found the early part of the course rather easy, but it took a heavy toll when the hills started to pop up later

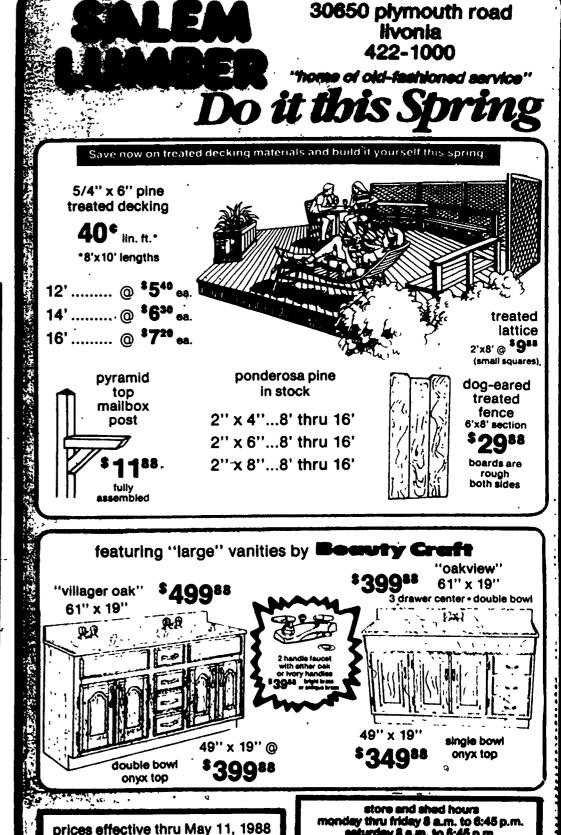

"I went out faster than I should have and once I got to the hills. it got to my legs," she pointed out. "The hills were tough

With less than two weeks to recouperate, Swanson competed in the Michigan Trail Marathon last Sunday (May 1) in Pinckney and won the women's race. She finished the 26-mile event in 4:08, which is a fine no pavement

22-0 victory highlights softballers week

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

How far have the Northville softballers come in two years?

... the Mustangs can have an off day and still pull out a win, like they did on May 2 in the first game of a doubleheader against North Farmington, 4-3. The squad also sports such depth, the backup players have actually outplayed starters from some of the areas weaker teams. That happened in an embarrassingly lopsided 22-0 victory over Farmington Harrison on April 29.

Those two wins raised Northville's winning streak to seven straight heading back to the Novi Tournament in mid-April. The squad's 7-4 overall record — 4-0 in the WLAA Western Division — is on pace to break last season's school record of 15 wins and all coach Bob Gerlach wants from his team is more of the same.

"There's no doubt we're on a roll," he said. 'Right now we're where we want to be."

The Mustangs were a little sluggish against North Farmington and fell behind 3-1 after three innnings of game one. But even on an off-day, Northville was able to come back and steal the victory with a mini-rally in the sixth inning.

"The first game of conference doubleheaders are the ones that count on our record, so this was the most important game," Geriach said.

The Raiders jumped in front with two runs in the top of the first as starter Amy Freimund gave up a pair of walks and a two-run single. The rally began

Nanci Dutkiewicz cut the lead in half in the bottom of the inning by tripling down the left field line and scoring on a wild pitch, but North Farmington scored again in the third on two hits and a passed

The Mustangs narrowed the lead with a run in the fourth and then took the lead for good in the sixth. After a walk to Freimund, Kristi Fortenberry knocked her in with a hit to tie the game at 3-3. Dutkiewicz then came through again with an RBI double and the run turned out to be the game winner.

Freimund struck out nine, walked three and notched the win. The junior hurler surrendered three earned runs and seven hits in seven innings of work. The hitting star was Dutkiewicz, who went 2-for-2 with two walks and one run scored.

"(North) is on the tough side of the conference and I was impressed with them," Gerlach said. They played a good defensive game and I felt we were a little sluggish. To be honest, we were lucky to get out of there with a win."

Even though the nightcap didn't count, the game was very exciting. The Raiders started strong again and pulled ahead 10-2 after four innings but Northville came back to tie it with two in the fourth, two more in the fifth and four in the sixth. In the top of the seventh, North loaded the bases against starter Kim Wilds, with no outs, but then only managed to scratch one run across home plate. But in the bottom of the inning, the Mustangs went down 1-2-3, and the run stood up,

"It was a opportunity to give everybody a chance to play and I was happy that we didn't roll over when we were down 10-2," Gerlach pointed out. "We didn't hit that well but we received 14

Wilds suffered the loss, but it was a fairly good outing. She gave up eight runs and eight hits but only walked four and fanned three. Offensively, Yvonne Beebe scored three times to lead Nor-

"We were pleased with what happened (against North Farmington)," Gerlach said. "We won the

The five-inning mercy rule win over Harrison featured great pitching from Freimund and offensive fireworks from Karen Baird and Jeanine LaPrad. Freimund had a no-hitter going into the final inning, but lost it with just two outs to go. In the game, she struck out four, walked two and faced just 17 batters

The highlight of the game was a monsterous three-run homer by Baird in the fourth. For the game, she went 1-for-2 with two walks and three runs batted in. LaPrad was a perfect 3-for-3 with four runs scored and two RBIs.

"(Harrison) was pretty weak so we played everybody and that was nice," Gerlach said. "Our backup unit did a nice job.'

The big inning for the Mustangs came in the se-cond. Some timely hits and numerous walks helped the team push 11 runners across the plate. Northville added five in the fourth and five more in the fifth to complete the rout.

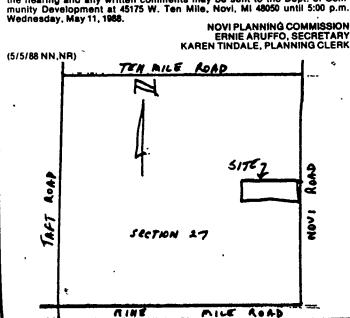

"We had a bunch of walks," Gerlach reported. "We had 19 base on balls and that makes it easy to score runs. But I thought we hit the ball well too."

Patriots pin 75-23 defeat on thinclads

The 1988 season is slowly and painfully turning into a nightmare for the Northville girl's track team. But Coach Mike Webb hasn't given up hope for a late-season rush, at least not yet.

In a 75-23 defeat to Livonia Franklin on April 28, the Mustangs got distance runners Jennifer Goshorn and Jean Riney back after they missed several meets with the flu, but the squad is still reeling from the loss of Krista Schwartz and Dawn Leland. Both were injured and are assumed out for the season.

"I don't want to make excuses but it hurts when you have so many top performers either out or still trying to make it back 100 percent," Webb explained. "I expected the meet with Franklin to be close but we're just not getting the times and performances I kind of expected we would heading into the season."

The silver lining in the otherwise dark cloud of the loss to the Patriots, was the steady improvement shown by field event specialist Katie Brugman. The senior took first place in the discus with a career-best throw of 82'-3" and then came back to take the honors in the shot put (26'-5"). The rest of the Northville wins came from Wendy Davis in the 200 (30.36), Christi Lenaghan in the 100 (14.6). Lisa Brown in the 3,200-meter run (best ever time of 13:24), the 1,600 relay team (4:42.2) featuring Robin McDuffie, Kendra Huard and Kelly Fredrick and the 400 relay team of Lenaghan, Huard, Erin Holmberg and Davis (56.75). The 800 relay team was en route to a win but was disqualified.

Brown came back to place second in the 1,200 (6:18.8) and pace the runner-up finishes. The rest included Huard in the 200 (31.05), Davis in the 100 (14.7) and McDuffie in the 400 (70.6). The only thirds came from Riney in the 3,200 (14:07) and Cathy Page in the long jump (14'-1").

NOVI RELAYS: The woes continued over the weekend as the Mustangs placed eighth in the eight-team Novi Relays. On the day, Northville scored nine points and managed to place in the top four just twice.

The 400 relay team of Lenaghan, Holmberg, Huard and Davis clocked

in at 55.8 and placed third overall. It was the team's best time of the season. The long jump relay — including Page, Lee Bills and Elissa

Mustangs of the Week

AMY FREIMUND

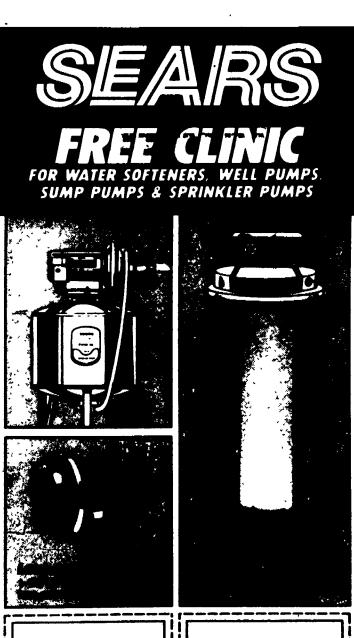

The most important player in softball is most often the pitcher because an effective one can dominate a game. That's what Northville's Amy Freimund did in a 22-0 win over Farmington Harrison last week. For her great pitching performance, Freimund has been named a "Mustang of the Week." Against Harrison, the junior hurler was just two outs from a no-hitter and even though she didn't get it, Freimund got the win by striking out four, walking only two and surrendering just one hit. In other action, she also grabbed a win in a close 4-3 win over North Farmington last week. Freimund fanned nine, walked three, gave up seven hits and three earned runs in seven innings of work.

JENNIFER SCHUERMAN

Aftega slow start, Jennifer Schuerman is starting to show the same form that made her the leading scorer on the Northville girl's soccer team a year ago. In three wins last week - including a key 5-2 triumph over highly ranked Farmington Schuerman was a scoring machine. She tallied nine goals and five assists for the week and we think that's more than enough for "Mustang of the Week" honors. In a 7-0 win over Novi on April 25, Schuerman ended her scoring slump with four goals in the match, including three in a 10 minute span late in the first half. She added two goals and two assists in the big win over Farmington and wrapped up a great week with three goals and three assists in a 14-0 win over Redford Union.

Foot problems common for joggers

By PHIL JEROME

It's been four (ull months since you decided to take up jogging — a New Year's resolution to shed 15 ugly pounds and get in better physical condition.

And it seems to be paying off.
You've lost weight. You feel stronger. You're more productive at work. And you just generally feel better — stronger, smarter, healthier.

So now comes the big question? How are your feet?

. If the answer is "good," then you've been doing something right. Or you've been just plain lucky.

According to Dr. Kenneth Poss, a podiatrist with offices in Novi, many joggers and runners enter into training programs without giving proper consideration to the fact that the feet will bear the brunt of the burden for your new resolve. "We find ourselves working with a lot of runners who develop foot problems as a result of their exercise programs," said Poss, a graduate of the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine in Philadelphia and a member of the American College of Foot Surgeons.

"If they don't take care of their feet, they're subjecting themselves to all types of problems," he continued, noting that typical problems involve heel pain, arch pain and shin

Poss said both novice and experienced runners should remember that the foot is an intricate combination of 26 bones, numerous joints, muscles, tendons and major and minor nerves and blood vessels.

In running, all of these components work together to provide balance, support and propulsion for the entire weight of the body. Because of the added strain on the feet created by an active jogging program. Poss makes the following recommendations:

Poss also recommends that jog-gers incorporate flexibility exercises into their programs for injury avoidance. Many joggers and marathon runners stress stengthening and endurance training which can often lead to shortened muscles and decreased flexibility with subsequent muscle imbalance, arch pain, shin splits, and strained muscles and ligaments, he said.

Flexibility exercises can reduce pain and strain on muscles and should be done before and after every vigorous workout in a "stretch, hold. relax" pattern. Holding a muscle in the stretch position inhibits reflex contraction. Such a program should enhance a jogger's performance.

Finally, Poss notes that running is not the same as walking fast. When running, only one foot is on the ground at a time and each foot hits the ground up to 2,000 times per mile, bearing up to eight times the body weight, he said.

Gout occurs when tiny uric acid crystals deposit in a joint. This causes severe inflammation and the affected joint becomes hot, red and exquisitely tender. The first toe is most commonly affected, but other joints may be involved. Gout can also cause kidney stones. Fortunately, gout responds quite well to medical Infection can also cause arthritis. Normally a joint is sterile. If bacteria or other organisms manage to invade a joint, acute arthritis will develop. The most common organisms to cause arthritis are the skin bacterial staphylococcus and sexually transmitted gonorrhea.

Infections elsewhere in the body can indirectly cause arthritis. Rheumatic fever is a disease that occurs after a strep throat infection. In this condition the body develops arthritis in response to the throat infection, but the joints are not actually infected with the strep bacteria.

If you suspect you may have a type RA, the lining of the joint capsule of arthritis, your physician will first do a physical exam of your joints. In called the synovium, becomes inflammed. The joints appear red hot addition to diagnosis, this exam in arthritis the X-ray may look normal. Later in the disease the characteristic bone changes appear in the X-ray.

Blood tests can help determine what type of arthritis you have. The rheumatoid factor is a substance that is found in the blood of persons with rheumatoid arthritis. The sedimentation rate is a test that reveals the presence of inflammation in the body. Uric acid may be elevated in persons with gout. A complete blood nt may reve in some types of arthritis.

If a joint is swollen with excessive joint fluid, the physician can remove the fluid with a needle. The fluid has different characteristics depending on the type of arthritis. Removing the fluid is the only way to diagnose an infected joint.

Some types of arthritis are difficult to diagnose early in their course, so it may take time and several visits over a period of time for a correct diagnosis. Occassionally a referral to a rheumatologist (a specialist in arthritis) is made.

There is treatment for arthritis. For the common types such as OA and RA, treatment consists of medication, exercise, rest and sometimes surgery. Aspirin, usually used in high doses, is the most common medication used. Non steraidal anti-inflammatory drugs are frequently used. They work similarly to aspirin but are taken less often. They are more expensive and usually require a prescription. In RA, medications are available that can halt the progression of the disease, such as cold pills or shots.

Exercise is necessary in arthritis to maintain joint flexibility and strengthen the muscles supporting the joints. Special range of motion exercises have been designed to keep the joints as limber as possible. A physical therapist is usually employed to help with an exercise program.

Rest is also important. Activities must be planned so that the in-dividual does not get fatigued or overuse a joint. Support devices such as braces and canes also provide rest

Surgery can be useful in certain instances to relieve pain and improve joint function.

Developing joint pain should not be viewed as a sign of old age from which there is no relief. It is important to obtain a proper diagnosis of what type of arthritis is present. Although most arthritises cannot be cured, the combination of medication and exercise can markedly improve function and the quality of life.

Success is an easy sell

By Mary Rodrique staff writer

Having a successful track record is a drawing card for the selling of the Greater Livonia Expo '88, according to the show sponsor, the Livonia Chamber of Commerce.

Jenny Levy, chamber communications director, has a lively 10-minute videotape of last year's show's highlights, allowing prospective exhibitors to see the exposition in action.

She also has a 60-second commercial airing on MetroVision's public cable television channel.

"I really believe we'll sell out and have a waiting list," said Michael Cooney, chamber services manager, pointing to a map of the exhibition hall with several blocks of space already committed. There are 40 exhibitors from last year.

"The purpose is to offer business people an opportunity to discuss their needs. It's a networking resource. And we hope to attract new business to the area," Levy said.

WHILE MANY of the 128 confirmed exhibitors are members of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, officials hope to gain new converts at expo, which is scheduled Tuesday-Thursday, May 10-12, at the Schoolcraft College athletic facility. The

"We are drawing primarily from Livonia but we have a number from elsewhere, a perimeter of five or six miles," Cooney said. One exhibitor is coming from Toledo. But the firm, a waste-disposal business, considers the Livonia market part of its territory.

"It's a good mix."

Expo was the result of a brainstorming session by chamber executive director John White and local businessman Pete Ventura, who were looking for ways to help promote local business.

"There was enthusiasm over the trade-show idea. It's not new or unique, other communities have tried it. But the seed got planted," Cooney said

"Last year we were dealing with an unknown. The concept needed definition. Now we have a proven track record."

Last year's show took eight months to put together. With 120 exhibitors and about 900 visitors for the kickoff event alone, it was considered a huge success.

Once again, Jim Skinner & Associates is acting as contractual manager for the trade show.

"We're going to concentrate on work attire, but we'll probably throw in some casual clothes," said Jean Cote, sales promotion manager.

JACOBSON'S, LIVONIA opened Aug. 15, too late for participation in the first annual Livonia Expo in 1987.

"We're looking forward to it. We're glad they asked us," Cote said.

Store manager John Purkiss echoed that enthusiasm.

"It's really amazing how Expo exploded last year. It shows how intense the business community of greater Livonia is," he said.

Sponsored by the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, Expo is a trade show that will bring together about 130 local businesses May 10-12. Several special activities are planned.

The fashion show will run 40 minutes. Lightweight, drapable fabrics will be emphasized.

"We're seeing a lot of suiting this year," Cote said. "The emphasis is on silk, cool cottons, cool wools and linens."

While pretty pastels abound for spring, summer promises "a hot bright look - fuchsia, turquoise, royal and red. Hosiery will have just a hint of

"Accessories will be big and bright along with the colors. There's a '60's influence — big hoops, bangles."

VIEWERS ALSO will note a strong nautical influence with lots of navy and white accented with matte gold accessories, including chain belting.

Taste of Livonia shares expo aim

staff writer

Livonia Expo '88 will get off to a delicious start on Tuesday, May 10, with a sampling of some of the finest foods in town.

A show preview/cocktail party will feature hors d'oeuvres from Fonte d'Amore, Livonia Charley's, the two Livonia Holiday Inns, Roma's, Joe's Produce, the Novi Hilton, Lorries Confectionately Yours and others.

"Booths will be randomly set up throughout the exhibit hall to encourage people to circulate and to avoid bottlenecks," said Michael Cooney, services manager for the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, show sponsor.

AT THE premiere exhibition last year, 900 guests attended and Cooney expects at least the same number, if not more, this year.

The idea behind "A Taste of Livonia," like the Expo itself, is to promote

"It's a promotional effort on their part to acquaint the public with their abilities to cater," Cooney said. "These people can offer you facilities and amenities all in one package. There will be ample occasion to discuss with prospective clients."

John Del Signore, owner of Fonte d'Amore, is building a new banquet hall in town. And Roma's of Livonia just moved into new headquarters on Merriman, according to Cooney.

"We're going to shoot for about 15 to participate in A Taste of Livonia," he said. Last year 10 food establishments participated.

Lorrie Leonard, owner of Lorrie's Confectionately Yours bake shop in the Laurel Park Commons shopping center, is a repeat exhibitor.

"We did petite pastry, tortes, cheesecakes, truffles, and we'll do more of the same this year," Leonard

ABOUT 128 booths have been reserved by local businesses, ranging from banks to hospitals to automotive and computer-related firms. The expo will run through Thursday, May 12.

The preview party will allow guests to sample hors d'oeuvres as they walk through the showroom display area in the Schoolcraft College athletic facilities, on the Livonia campus at 18600 Haggerty.

Admission to the 6-9 p.m. party is $15 a person, with a discount rate available for purchase of 20 or more tickets. Tickets are available from the Livonia Chamber of Commerce, 15401 Farmington Road. Call 427-2122.

white are popular combinations. Another trend is small print suits and mixing flowers, dots, stripes and checks.

"Silhouettes remain clean, not the big box overdressed look," Cote added. "Jackets are nipped at the waist for figure accentuating."

For those who prefer not to accentuate their figures, peplum waists, which Cote calls "the epitomy of feminine dressing" are very popular and flattering for less-than-perfect physiques.

Floral pins in the hair, hat, dress or even on shoes are popular this season.

"In the men's area, large windowpane suiting, big plaids and doublepleated waists are big," Cote said.

Suspenders are popular. There's a pastel influence for coats. Doublebreasted suits are in, as are spread collars as opposed to button-down style.

"Ties are very bright and busy in patterns and bold stripes."

FASHION WATCHERS can expect to see a lot of silk in the show.

"Silk is a big draw," said Craig Wesley, ready-to-wear supervisor. "Cool wools are a new trend. It's almost woven, like a cotton. It's very fine and tight."

Men, too, will have a clean look. Accessories include pocket squares and suspenders. Men's hosiery includes

NARAGON BUSINESS MACHINES DOUBLES BOOTH SIZE!!

LIVONIA TRADE EXPO GETS TOP RATING FROM NARAGON BUSINESS MACHINES. Jerry Heregon gives the Livonia Expo highest marks in the categor ies of generating new business and rejuvenating qld. Jerry has been involved in many other trade shows, but feels the 1967 Livenia Expo was the most beneficial. When asked why, he stated, "The show has very high attendance. We made many new nces who ultimately became new customers. Additionally, our company has past busin dealings with almost half the people present. Sesing these existing customers at the show gave us the opportunity to reintroduce curseives and show them versi of the new products currently available. Many of our existing customers believed Neragon only sold and serviced typewriters. We were able to make people sware of the fact that we also sold and serviced copiers, fex equipment, calcula computers, and printers. Additionally, the Livonia Expo gave us the chance to inform a large number of people that our company now represents such menu-fecturers as IBM, Epson, Adler, Victor and meny others. The Expo encouraged many existing custom-ers who were pleased with our services in the past to proach us for new products and services. We were happy with the results of the 1987 show, we have ubted our booth stae for the 1986 Expo."

NEW THIS year are a business seminar, fashion show and five o'clock business connection.

"Financing for Business Expansion" is the topic of the Wednesday seminar, which features a panel of speakers including a certified public accountant, banker and financial planner. The morning program costs $35 for chamber members and $45 for non-members.

"It should assist those who need help getting loans, acquaint them with the methodology," Cooney said.

The fashion show is being presented by Jacobson's Livonia store at 6 p.m. Wednesday, May 11. Admission is free. Clothing for men and women, , with an emphasis on business apparel. will be highlighted.

The Five O'clock Business Connection is a regular monthly feature of the Livonia Chamber, which happens to coincide with expo.

"It's an evening cocktail format allowing chamber members and friends an opportunity for networking in a social atmosphere. Attendance is usually between 100 and 300 people," according to Cooney.

A Taste of Livonia, the kickoff party featuring Livonia-area food businesses and a Wednesday afternoon luncheon honoring the Small Busi-

The trade show is open to the public from 1:30 to 8 p.m. Wednesday and 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday.

Mike Cooney of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce keeps track of exhibitors' booths for the second Great Livonia Business Exposition. The dots tell the story for 1988.

IN ADDITION to expo, the Livonia Chamber of Commerce publishes a community directory and distributes 39,000 copies free to residences, commercial and retail businesses in the city. It is a phone directory that includes a shopping guide, list of clubs. schools and city officials.

The chamber also publishes a monthly newsletter for its membership listing such things as tips on improving employee/employer relations, available seminars and services.

The seminar being held in conjunction with expo is one in a series of quarterly seminars sponsored by the chamber focusing on what the organization determines to be a need.

"We also work closely with the two colleges here in town, the city and county administrations and act as a direct liaison with our officials in Lansing regarding business matters," Cooney said.

"We also help by offering general advice - where to find a good attorney. Every day is different."

This year the chamber will not have its own booth at expo.

"We'll freelance the area, visiting all the booths," Cooney said.
