Township will go back to court over prisons

By ANITA CRONE

Northville Township will be back in Wayne County Circuit Court on the issue of prison overcrowding, probably on June 1.

The Michigan Department of Corrections has requested Judge Charles Farmer amend his earlier order prohibiting the department from putting more than 528 inmates at Scott Regional Facility, more than 311 at Phoenix Correctional Facility and more than 500 prisoners at Western Wayne Correctional Facility.

The department, in its pleadings filed with the court on May 18, contends that it has exhausted all alternatives for prisoner placement prior to increasing the census at the three western Wayne county prisons and that, were Farmer to amend his earlier ruling, the court could not conclude, through earlier action, that Northville Township would suffer any injury if the overcrowding were permitted at Scott.

Ernest Essad, representing the township, said Friday that while he may sympathize with the state's predicament, his primary responsibility is to his client.

"It's (the overcrowding) the state's problem. They need to build prisons where the communities are asking for them, not where there already are prisons," he said.

"Our communities already have accepted three prisons and now it is someone else's turn," Essad said, noting that he will take the issue to the Michigan Supreme Court if necessary.

Essad rejected the state's pleadings out of hand "They have no validity," he said, noting that the issue is not necessarily one of safety, but rather compliance with a law and with previous court rulings.

The state's first regional prison, Scott Regional Facility in Northville Township, has a design capacity of 528 inmates and a state-legislative cap of 550 prisoners.

Since, in early April, the department announced its intention to violate the caps, Farmer has twice supported the township's efforts to keep the caps in place.

On May 6, Farmer ruled that the Department of Corrections was in violation of the caps, as well as his own order of December, 1986, which included a decision that Scott remain a single-cell facility. The judge ordered Corrections to reduce the prisoner census at Scott to 550 by June 5.

However, on May 12, Corrections informed the township that it planned to move an additional 149 prisoners into Scott, an additional 82 prisoners into Western Wayne and an additional 50 into Phoenix, bringing the census of the three facilities far over the 1,361 inmates set by state statute.

On May 18, Farmer ordered the department not to send any additional prisoners into western Wayne County and to reduce, by June 5, the prisons' censuses to the state mandated caps.

"We intend to comply with the judge's order, but we have to try to find a new resolution," explained Leo Lalonde, deputy corrections director for government and media affairs.

Lalonde noted that even though two rulings already have gone against the department, "there is a crisis in terms of the number of new people coming into the system and we have no place to put them."

Township fights fire on Sheldon

Northville Township firefighters spent nearly four hours late Saturday night and early Sunday morning battling a blaze that destroyed a building on the site of the former Wayne County Child Development Center.

And, less than two days later, about 8 p.m. May 23, firefighters again were called to the site to battle a blaze. Fire Chief Robert Toms said destroyed the machine shop building. Toms said about 15 firefighters battled the blaze for about 2 hours.

Toms said he received notification of the Saturday blaze, about 11:30 p.m. and by the time the department arrived at the site, the building was totally engulfed in flame.

Efforts to put out the fire were hampered by the lack of water in hydrants on the site, Toms said, noting that Wayne County had turned off the water because of leaks.

"It's a dangerous situation there, because of the lack of water in the hydrants and the reliance on the tankers," he said, noting that the area had not yet been properly secured by Wayne County, which owns the property.

Toms said he is convinced the fire was arson.

Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty said the township was in the process of reassessing the fencing along Sheldon Road.

"We have asked the county to secure the area so incidents like this don't happen. But although they have put up new fencing, they do not patrol and the fencing often is torn down almost as fast as it is erected," Hardesty said.

He added the county had sealed off a number of steam tunnels under the cottages after a number of complaints by the township.

The buildings are part of more than 1,000 acres of Northville Township land the county is trying to sell. A marketing and valuation study of the property by the Lambrecht Company.

Council passes operating budget

By BOB NEEDHAM

The city's operating budget is in place for the next fiscal year, but the question of a special extra tax for certain projects won't be resolved until June 6.

The City Council Tuesday approved a general fund budget of $3.1 million for the year beginning July 1. The budget almost balances at that figure, but still includes $20,800 required in "miscellaneous expenditure reductions." At budget study sessions City Manager Steve Walters said these would be minor adjustments to several dozen line items.

The general fund budget approved Tuesday is based on a property tax rate of 12.49 mills, down from 13.58 this year. That rate is the figure — under the state "Truth in Taxation" formula — which will generate the same amount of tax dollars the city got this year, adjusted for new construction. One mill is one dollar of tax per thousand dollars of assessed property value.

However, the final millage total will likely be a little bit higher than 12.49 mills. In a separate action Tuesday, the council heard comments on a proposal to levy another .87 mill for specific buying projects not included in the budget.

The council will vote on levying the additional tax June 6. If passed, that money would buy a new gas tank for the Department of Public Works, a remodeling of the police department lockup cells for greater safety and suicide prevention, a trash compactor at the DPW yard and partial payment of a new base radio and console in the police station.

Walters told the residents at the meeting that the operating budget will be tight for a year or two while the new Abbey Knoll Estates and Pheasant Hills subdivisions cost the city more than the taxes from that area bring in, since they are not yet fully developed.

"As a council we have certainly gone over this at great length," Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said at the meeting. "I feel quite comfortable with the millage as proposed."

Council member John Buckland agreed, "We've done pretty well with what we have, but I think we still need the extra .87 mill."

The council approved the budget 3-0 with two members away on excused absences.

Memorial Day events, flower sale planned

The summer season opens in style this weekend as downtown Northville hosts two major events — the city's first Flower Sale featuring growers from the famous Eastern Market flower day sale and the annual Memorial Day Parade and ceremony, sponsored by the Northville VFW Post 4012.

On Friday May 27 and Saturday May 28 the streets of Northville will be awash in color and fragrance as 11 flower vendors take over Main Street from Hutton to Sheldon. These vendors are many of the same exhibitors who create traffic jams around Eastern Market during the two shows in Detroit and who were featured during the Saline flower show last weekend. The Northville Merchants' Association has brought the flowers to Northville for two days of "convenient" shopping.

The sale will open at 8 a.m. on Friday and run until dusk. On Saturday, May 28 the sale will run from 8 a.m. - 6 p.m. On sale will be flowers, plants, shrubs, hanging baskets and vegetable plants.

On Monday, May 30 the VFW

Memorial Day Parade will take place at 10 a.m. The parade marchers will gather on Griswold and march down Main Street to Wing Street. They will take Wing to Cady with a stop at the Cady Street cemetery to lay a wreath for the veterans buried there. The parade will then take First Street to Seven Mile to enter the Rural Hill cemetery for ceremonies there.

Senator Robert Geake, R-Northville Township, will be the parade Grand Marshal. Special guests will include Georgina Goss, Northville Township Supervisor; Northville Mayor Chris Johnson; James N. Garber and John MacDonald, 35th District Court judges, and the incoming State Commander of the VFW.

The Northville High School marching band will participate as will veterans from various branches of the service.

Parade organizers ask that children refrain from riding bicycles with marchers in the parade as the Memorial Day Parade is meant to be a solemn ceremony, not a celebration.

Thailand native is winning poet

By ANITA CRONE

When Yoko Oishi entered Meads Mill Middle School in 1986, she could not speak any English.

Yet, less than two years later, Oishi was awarded a certificate of merit by the Wayne County Intermediate School District for her poetry.

Oishi said she did not really intend to win and had to be forced to enter the contest.

"I wrote my poems because I had to. It was a class assignment," she said between mouthfuls of chicken nuggets and French fries.

Oishi said she likes American things, including food, but there are times when it is difficult to express herself.

"Sometimes, I wish that everyone spoke Japanese so that when I want to tell someone something, they will understand," she said.

Oishi was born in Thailand and immigrated to Japan 4½ years later. In 1986, she moved to the United States with her family and will be staying in this country for three years.

She said she finds English a particularly difficult language to learn and writing the language even more difficult.

"I don't think English writing is easy. And I don't think that I will become a poet," she said.

But when she must write English poetry, she says she tries not to write it like haiku, a very set format of Japanese poetry.

"Haiku is for the old people," she says.

Oishi notes that she particularly likes writing poems about anger which she compares to a volcano. She also said since she is so small, as is Japan, and most Americans are taller and the country so large, her poetry makes mention of the differences.

Oishi is not the only Meads Mill student to be honored. Amy Stringer won first place in short story writing and Courtney Gazlay and Jennifer Workman won certificates of merit.

Anya Guraki took second place in poetry for junior high school students. Anne Rose was awarded a certificate of merit.

Ten local students participate in band trip to Philadelphia

Eleven Northville youths are members of the American Youth Symphony Orchestra which traveled to Philadelphia recently to participate in the Liberty Bell Music Festival sponsored by "Music Maestro, Please."

Northville participants included Lori Brennan, Amy Christof, Angie Christof, Stuart Earl, Jay Fisher, Spring Francoeur, Amy Gardner, Elizabeth Mara, Kavitha Sriaman, Renee Sullivan and Andy Vartanian. The orchestra performed before a group of adjudicators who are professional musicians and music professors. They received a silver medal and an "outstanding rating."

As a result of its performance in Philadelphia, the group has been invited by "Music Maestro, Please" to attend one of its festivals to perform at the Vatican in Rome, Italy, next year. It's an honor given only to conductors and orchestras which are especially impressive.

Formerly known as the Livonia Youth Symphony Society, the American Youth Symphony Orchestra is comprised of 120 young musicians from eight to 18 years old. The young musicians are divided into three different orchestras according to their skill levels and practice every Saturday morning for three hours during the school year.

Music director is Attila Farkas, who has conducted professional orchestras throughout Europe and university orchestras in the United States.

NEWS BRIEFS

DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS: When Northville VFW Post 4012 honored the Outstanding Firefighter for 1988 of Northville Township they honored Ricke Rosselle, not Nick Rosselle as was reported here last week. Apparently Ricke has a tough time getting his name spelled correctly and we apologize for adding to his woes.

PLANNING, PLEASE — Apparently, it is never too early to make plans for college, which is why Northville High School has scheduled a parents' meeting at 7 p.m. May 31 in the high school Forum.

Counselor Gladys Cohen will discuss with parents courses required by specific colleges, how to fill out applications and provide helpful hints.

The meeting is open to parents of ninth, 10th and 11th graders. There is no charge.

ROUGE RESCUE '88 — Workers are needed for Rouge Rescue '88 at Fish Hatchery Park on Saturday, June 4.

Workers should be over 18, unless accompanied by a parent or group leader. Briefing begins at 8:30 a.m. and work begins at 9 a.m., and goes until noon. There will be a free lunch for workers.

The Northville Community Recreation Department is coordinating this year's event and asks that you preregister by calling 349-0203 as soon as possible so that lunches and supplies may be ordered.

BEAUTY IS — The city's beautification committee presented its annual awards for efforts by the community's businesses and industries Monday, during a Mayor Exchange Day luncheon hosted by the Northville Rotary.

Honorees included the Pizza Cutter, Cutler Realty, Dr. Grunheid, the Professional Building on Center Street, Ware's Square and Dr. William Demray for business landscape; Manufacturers National Bank, Ann's Fabrics, Long's Fancy Bath Boutique, Orrin Jewelers, Edwards Catering and Carryout, Peddler's Four, the Marquis Theatre and IV Seasons for businesses with sidewalk frontage; Bellanger's Car Wash for industry; and, Northville Downs, St. Paul's Lutheran Church and First Methodist Church for outside category.

Although no grand award was presented, four businesses were honored for outstanding efforts despite the fact that the work was done after the judging was completed. Those businesses included Brickscape on Old Novi Road, David Jerome's Professional Building, Northville Downs and Shopping Center Market.

POETIC JUSTICE — The literary community is taking note of Town One South, the book of Northville poems written by Kathleen Ripley Leo and illustrated by Allen Berlinski.

Following a very favorable mention in a statewide poetry newsletter, the book received a positive review in Sunday's Detroit Free Press. "It is local history spun into evocative contemporary verse, a unique sesquicentennial project of the Northville Arts Commission," the reviewer wrote.

The book will be on sale at the band shell Saturday during the flower sale. Cost is $8.32.

GROWTH SPURT — The 5-foot pines planted at Blue Heron Pointe have put on a recent growth spurt. They are now 25-feet tall, at a minimum.

In reality, the trees haven't been 5-feet tall in a long time, and certainly not when The Record said they were in a caption in last week's editions.

Restoration is key to Schrader's plans

By BOB NEEDHAM

The buildings which housed Schrader's Home Furnishings will return to their original appearance along the front and will sport downtown Northville's first painted mural along the back, under a plan approved last week.

The "Schrader's building" is actually three separate buildings pulled together with an extra facade and a common paint color, architect Greg Presley said at a Planning Commission meeting Tuesday, May 17.

"When I first heard the Schrader's building was going to be sold... my first thought was, 'Oh, what will it become?'" said Presley, whose office is almost directly across the street from the old Schrader's site.

He and developer Gary George together decided that the three buildings should return to something like their original appearance, Presley explained.

"We have essentially three buildings with three identities," he said. In addition to the furniture store — which eventually expanded into all three buildings — the site also housed a Schrader's Funeral Home and, for a couple of decades ending in the 1960s, the Northville Post Office.

The idea is to break the building back up into its three components and restore their fronts. This will mean uncovering cornices and brackets, restoring the original entrances, removing brick from stone fluted columns, polishing and restoring a marble veneer and adding millwork, Presley said.

The space will become home to six retail stores under the plan. Four stores will face North Center Street — using the four original entrances — while two others will face the parking lot. The second floor will be used for offices, with access only from the parking lot, Presley said.

George said at the meeting he has no commitments from future tenants of the space. "We've had some very good response from both local and out-of-town businesses," he said.

In any case, Presley said, the development could bring new life to that stretch of downtown.

Along the back of the buildings George plans to install a mural or painted facade. That is, in addition to real windows and an extended canopy, the backs of the buildings will be painted with building features possibly including windows, flower boxes, shadow lines or a pedestrian, Presley said. The Historic District Commission has approved the concept.

"From a developer's standpoint it is an alternative to actually creating a facade," Presley said. To build a real facade on the back would be too expensive, he added.

The mural will be put on over a coat of clear epoxy and done in enamel epoxy paint, Presley said, and should be simple to maintain.

The Planning Commission approved the proposal 6-0. Presley, who is a member of the commission, stepped down from the table during the discussion and abstained from the vote.

Police Blotters

Police charge EMS driver after unit hits two vehicles

Northville Township police have charged the driver of a CEMS emergency unit with failure to exercise due caution following a three-car accident May 16 on Eight Mile Road near Silver Springs.

According to the police report, the CEMS unit, with sirens and lights flashing, rammed into car driven by a Northville woman while the car was attempting to turn onto Silver Springs. The emergency vehicle had crossed the center lane to pass west-bound traffic when it struck the turning vehicle. The emergency vehicle also struck a stopped vehicle in the westbound lane.

One person, a passenger in the turning vehicle, was injured in the incident. He was taken to St. Mary Hospital after firefighters used the "Jaws of Life" to extricate him from the car.

The accident occurred about 9:05 p.m.

INDECENT EXPOSURE — Police in the city and township are each investigating a report of indecent exposure last week, and the criminal has a similar description in both cases.

Last Wednesday at 5 p.m., two high school age girls in Hines Park saw a man wearing no clothes at all, according to a township police report. The man never got closer than 100 feet and fled into a wooded area of the park, the report said.

Friday at about 5:30 p.m., another girl near the softball field at Northville High School saw a man jogging in green pants and a T-shirt on the other side of a fence. He stopped near her and exposed himself, the report said. The girl returned to her mother who was nearby and also witnessed the incident.

In both cases the man was described as white, heavy, about 200 pounds, with straight dark hair and a beard. However, the township report describes a man about 6 feet tall while the city report describes a man about 5 feet, 6 inches.

SPOUSE RUN OVER — A Northville woman accidentally ran over her husband's leg with a car last week, according to a city police accident report.

Just before 9 p.m. May 16 the wife pulled up to a curb and dropped off her husband. However, unknown to the wife, the husband slipped and fell to the street as he was closing the door, the report said.

The woman pulled up the car, running over the man's right leg. He was taken to the hospital for treatment, police said.

SPEAKER STOLEN — A $400 speaker was stolen from the First United Methodist Church on Eight Mile recently, according to a city police report.

The speaker was taken from a locked room behind the sanctuary, the report said. It was about three feet high and two feet wide, with five microphone jacks on the back and four volume knobs on the front.

LICENSE PLATES STOLEN — License plates were reported stolen from two vehicles parked in the lower level of the parking deck recently, according to city police reports.

One of the thefts occurred between May 13 and 17, and the other May 15 or 16, the reports said.

TIRE SLASHED — A car parked at Northville High School had a tire slashed last week, a city police report said.

The car belongs to a teacher at the high school. The incident occurred between 8 and 10 p.m. last Wednesday, the report said. Damage was estimated at $100.

STREET PAINTED — A part of Baseline Road behind Northville High School was painted with orange and green spray paint Sunday, a city police report said.

The paint read "smoke one" and an obscenity, the report said.

VANDALISM AT NHS — About $1,000 damage was done to steel storage room doors at Northville

High School last week, a city police report said.

The door and locks were recently repaired from earlier vandalism. The latest incident is estimated to have occurred the night of May 19.

MOWER STOLEN — A lawnmower was stolen from a Northville home some time over the winter, according to a city police report.

A yellow, self-propelled, J. C. Penney rotary mower was stolen from a Novi Street garage between Oct. 28 and May 14, the report said. The mower was estimated to be worth $399.

LICENSE ALTERED — A Sutters Lane teen-ager had his driver's license confiscated by township police May 17 after he was stopped for speeding and officer Larry Demeter noticed an alteration on the license.

The youth was reportedly traveling 60 miles per hour on Seven Mile Road near Silver Springs when Demeter stopped him.

The officer confiscated the license and charged the youth with possession of an altered driver's license.

INJURED PERSON — A Detroit man was found on Five Mile Road west of Maxwell May 18, dazed and injured according to a township police report.

When Officer John Werth questioned the man, he said he wanted to be transported to a hospital, but did not know where he was or how his injury occurred. The man was taken to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

MEDICINE FOUND — A Northridge resident told township police he had found 11 cardboard cases full of nitroglycerin in the dumpster behind the housing units May 18.

An officer picked out the medicine and took it to the police station, where it was put into the property room.

RADIO FOUND — A prep radio valued at $400 was found by a Meljer's employee, who notified township police on May 19.

There were no identifying marks on the radio, which was tagged and its identification number entered into the law enforcement information network.

PAINTING TAKEN — A painting of a Teddy Bear, done on sheet metal and hanging in the front of a residence on Sunnysdale, was reported missing by the homeowner May 21.

The homeowner said he last noticed the art work at 6 p.m. May 20, and reported it missing on May 21 at 4:15 p.m.

The complainant told police he heard a disturbance outside his residence about midnight, but he did not observe anyone or anything.

BAD TIMING — A Greenwood Drive teen-ager who removed two magnetic instruction cards that informed patrons to pay before pumping gas at the Gas and Go service station at Six Mile and Haggerty, picked the wrong time to remove the cards.

Northville Township Police Capt. Philip Presnell was buying gasoline at the station and observed the entire incident May 21 at 4:55 p.m.

Presnell identified himself as a police officer and confiscated the cards, notifying a gas station employee of the incident.

Presnell said he would seek warrants for larceny against the youth, and also against a 22-year-old State College, Penn. resident, who was in the car.

Presnell requested the matter be turned over to the township detective bureau for further investigation.

The instruction cards were valued at $10.

MAILBOX DAMAGED — A mailbox on Winchester Road was damaged May 22 and although a witness observed a vehicle leaving the area, no charges have been filed or warrants requested.

Township Officer Raymond Garbarino said the complainant told him he heard a loud bang and found his mailbox knocked over.

ATTENTION HOMEBUYERS Are you thinking of buying a new or existing home? The Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) has two programs to help cut the financing costs of homeownership. ## School smoking area may close

The outdoor smoking area at Northville High School will most probably be closed, effective at the start of the 1988-89 academic year.

Northville Public Schools superintendent George Bell said that the matter had been discussed at the policy subcommittee level, and he expected a recommendation to come before the entire school board at its June 27 meeting.

The district currently permits, although it does not sanction, smoking outdoors in a designated area by high school students during break periods.

A bill introduced by Sen. R. Robert

Geake of Northville Township, has passed both houses of the Legislature and prohibits smoking by both students and faculty in public schools.

The bill also prohibits smoking on school property located within 100 feet of the school building.

"We want our policy to take effect at the start of next year, rather than right now, because there is so little time left in the school year," Bell said, noting that the proposed law would effectively prohibit smoking in the high school smoking area.

The governor is expected to sign the law.

Prison stance differs

While Northville Township is going to court to stop the Michigan Department of Corrections from violating the caps at Scott Regional Facility, Plymouth Township officials are adopting a low-key response to the overcrowding at Western Wayne Correctional Facility.

Plymouth Supervisor Maurice Breen on Tuesday met with Western Wayne warden Luella Burke to satisfy himself "there will be no danger if our police or firefighters have to go to the prison."

"I want to be sure that what's happening over there is not detrimental to the health, safety and welfare of our residents," Breen said. Breen said that the prison overcrowding was not a new issue, and may be being used to garner support for a millage request to build additional beds or even a new Wayne County jail.

"The majority of people don't look at whether the problem is a state or a county problem. All they know is that the prisons are overcrowded," said Breen.

Wayne County officials, including County Executive Edward McNamara and Chief Circuit Court Judge Richard Kaufman have announced their support for a new jail.

City considers new deck rules

"The Building Department is encountering considerable disbelief from the homeowners residing at the Abbey Knoll and Pheasant Hills subdivisions when informed of the requirements regulating the construction of rear yard decks. Their disbelief is somewhat justified."

With those words, Northville Building Official Joseph Attard brought to the attention of the Planning Commission a possible glitch in the city's zoning ordinance — one which might soon be changed.

As Attard explained in a memo to Planning Commission Chairperson Dick Wilhelm, in areas zoned R-1A — which includes Pheasant Hills and Abbey Knoll — a rear yard is required to be at least 35 feet deep. Another restriction states that "horizontal projections" from a house may only extend three feet into the required setback.

"As an example, if a lot has exactly a 35 foot rear yard from the rear of the house, only a three foot deck could be constructed," Attard's letter reads. "I'm sure you will agree that a three foot deck is certainly not usable nor practical."

A homeowner faced with such a situation can apply to the city's Board of Zoning Appeals, and that's what they've been doing — about 10 in the last two months.

Planning Commissioners agreed last Tuesday that the city should consider changing the rules to allow a more reasonable deck. Two of the commissioners said a regulation dealing with the percent of yard covered might be a good way to solve the problem.

The commission members asked Planning Consultant Don Wortman to draft an ordinance change for consideration. "I think the people are entitled to a speedy response," commission and BZA member Rolland Stapleton said.

Attard recommended allowing decks into the rear yard up to 20 feet away from the lot line. According to his memo this is the requirement Plymouth Township uses, while the City of Novi allows decks up to 18 feet from the rear line and Northville Township allows 25 percent of the backyard to be covered.

City of Novi planning officials recommended a change to that city's zoning ordinance following a similar experience where homeowners were forced, in larger and larger numbers, to seek appeals from the Zoning Board of Appeals. The commission noted that backyard decks had risen in popularity in recent years and the zoning ordinance needed to keep up with that change.

Amerman sale blooms

AMERMAN

The beautiful flowers which are blooming around the Amerman community are from the successful PTA flower sale. Many thanks go to all the folks who ordered flowers, and to Lynn Zwiesler and Chris Maloney for organizing the sale.

The Junior Enrichment Series ended its year of educational programs with an outstanding harpist, Onita Sanders, who performed for the entire school and kept the students spell-bound. We all appreciate Susie Rompel's work in bringing so many exciting and varied programs to Amerman.

Congratulations to all 462 Amerman authors who have had their stories published this year. Each of our first-fourth graders who published a book received a certificate of recognition from principal Milt Jacobi. All our fifth graders will have their stories published in their own yearbook which they will receive at the honors assembly.

The Publishing Center is now officially closed, and we wish to thank everyone who so freely gave of their time and contributed to its success. A special thank you to Demetra Derro who created a personalized design on each of the first grade books, and to Betty Baird and Sue Smith, Publishing Center chairpersons.

The social event of the season, better known as the Amerman Ice Cream Social and Art Fair, will be held on Friday, June 3. There will be games galore, pizza, popcorn, pop, baked goods, a cake walk, a moon walk, and, of course, ice cream. The students' art work will be displayed in the halls, and our art teacher, Gail Raben, hopes that all the parents will enjoy seeing their children's projects. Games will begin at 5 p.m. and continue until 8 p.m. All other activities will run from 5:30 p.m. until 8:30 p.m. Tickets will be on sale that evening at three tickets for $1. A pre-sale will be held on Thursday, June 2, from 9-9:30 a.m. for the bargain price of four tickets for $1.

Please send the correct amount of money in a sealed envelope with your child.

The Amerman honors assembly will be held on June 15, at 9:15 a.m.

The last PTA meeting of the year will be held June 7, at 9:30 a.m. in the Media Center.

End of the year parties will be held during the last week of school, and Thursday, June 16, will be the last day of school for students.

Meadowbrook pro Andy Soley

The rain may have kept some spectators away, but for the thousands who did show up for the Metro Buick Dealers Charity Golf Classic at Northville's Meadowbrook Country Club last Monday, watching the pros at work was worth a little dampness.

Dorothy Beller of Northville walked over from her home to get a look at the golf games of people she usually only watched on tv. Howard and Gloria Schoenberg drove down from Imley City just for the tournament. And according to Nancy Davis of Novi, the chance of getting caught in the rain was worth it "just to watch them." Davis and her husband Bill walked to the tournament from their home at Country Place.

Margaret and Clarence Cameron from Leonard, Mich. were there because Clarence, a golf instructor at Heather Hills Country Club, wanted to watch the pros. Margaret said she was a golf fan "because I have to be."

"I'm a little envious," Clarence admitted while watching a foursome take off from the first tee.

Over 100 volunteer members from the Meadowbrook Country Club helped out for the big charity event. Proceeds went to the St. Vincent Sarah Fisher Center and Evans Scholarship Foundation.

would like to announce the following winners: first grade — Nick McMahon, second grade — Keith Droz, third grade — Jared Cromas, fourth grade — Chrissy Collings and fifth grade — Todd Zaytli. The all school chess tournament winner was Rocky Zizzo. Congratulations to all.

We are very proud to have two boys from Silver Springs singing with the Ann Arbor Boys Choir this year. They are Aaron Troschinetz and Tommy Sheppard.

Bruce Rickett's third grade room has been in "Pickle Paradise" the last few weeks. With the help of student teacher, Pat Allan, a pickle center was set up with activities such as a pickle quiz, drawing a pickle person and reciting "Peter Piper." Alissa Krueger and Amber Hines chalked up the most pickle points from the center. Derek Eckerly was the winner of the pickle guessing contest. On May 13, a pickle party climaxed the activity. The students wore — what else — green, and drank green juice and ate a variety of pickled products, including eggs, which they had pickled earlier in the week.

Michigan Week was kicked off at Silver Springs on May 16 with a flag-raising ceremony and a "Magic of Michigan" assembly. Tuesday was Career Day and everyone dressed in clothing that reflected a chosen career. On Wednesday, the "I'm glad I live in Michigan because..." posters were judged and winners were displayed in the lobby. Thursday was school clean-up day and Friday saw a balloon send-off and a slide show of "Northville — Way back When" done by teacher, Janice Henderson.

On May 18 the staff at Silver Springs held a luncheon for all the parent helpers throughout the year. Then, on May 24, the parents returned the honor with a luncheon for the teachers.

On June 7, the Silver Springs and Winchester band students will be holding a joint concert at Winchester. An ice cream social will be part of the festivities.

Silver Springs students are looking forward to their annual field day on June 9.

Both first grades will be traveling to the Detroit Zoo on June 10.

The following fourth graders scored 100 percent on the Michigan Educational Assessment Test: Karen Decatur, Rebecca Engle, Rhianna Horan, Kate Riebling and John Sabourin. The following fifth graders were winners in the Michigan

Mathematics League Competition: Liz Huntington, Steve Emaley, Courtney Price, Rocky Zizzo and Brian Kay. They all will be given their certificates at a student recognition assembly on June 14. Also at this assembly, safety patrol, science fair and spelling bee awards will be presented, as well as other achievements recognized.

Our fifth graders are eagerly anticipating a trip to Crossroads Village, Huckleberry Railroad and Pennywhistle Place on June 15. This is the second year in a row that Flint has been the destination for the fifth grade party.

On the last day of school, June 16, we will conduct our annual Run Fun through the streets of Highland Lakes. Parents are welcome to come out and join in the fun.

Marcia Cromas

WINCHESTER

The Winchester school year is drawing to a close. To celebrate the end of our year's activities a band concert, under the direction of music teacher, David Mayer, will be presented Tuesday, June 7, at 7:30 p.m. This will be immediately followed by an ice cream social. There will be a minimal charge for the ice cream. All Winchester students and their families are welcome.

There will be no school on Friday and Monday for Memorial Day. Thursday, June 16, is the last day of school. Dismissal is at 3:30 p.m.

Billy Ader and Howard Fan are to be added to our list of fourth graders severely overcrowded and we have put prisoners in every available space - gyms, television rooms and spare cells."

Farmer puts stop to prison overcrowding

Under questioning from Ernest Essad, Northville Township's attorney, Kime said that only two prisons were built between 1980-1984. "There are two reasons for that - the recession and the alternatives to incarceration. But since 1985, the state has given us everything we've asked for. Nine hundred million dollars."

Kime said that if the Emergency Powers Act were in effect, there might still be overcrowding, but there would not be a crisis.

Lloyd May, Scott warden, said that he believed his staff could maintain security at the prison by increasing staff. Thirty-five additional officers had been approved by the state, but were not yet at the facility.

May said that current staff was working overtime until the new guards were on site.

Likewise, at Phoenix Correctional Facility, warden Emmett Baylor, Jr., noted that his staff was working overtime.

"I have implemented overtime on all three shifts as well as additional transportation staff," Baylor said. He noted that he had been approved to hire 15 additional guards but they had not yet arrived.

The township's only witness, Wayne County Commissioner Susan J. Heintz, who was supervisor in 1986, when Scott was completed, testified that "Jim Curran and Mr. Kime made promises that were not kept. The governor himself flew to this area and promised there would be no more prisons built and they would adhere to the caps. They didn't."

Farmer turned to Essad and asked him what constructive suggestions he had on the matter.

"Mr. Kime has testified that Chippewa will be open on June 1. We would be willing to allow the department to transfer 50 prisoners a week out of these three facilities, even though they have broken their words 10 times before," he said.

But when Farmer questioned whether the facility would be open

June 1 or even earlier, Kime said, "It's a pole barn, but it can't be open early."

"And, if we do move the prisoners to Chippewa, we'll be back here with the same problem in six or eight weeks," Harris said. "The problem won't go away."

"If you want to take the path of least resistance, there are three institutions that are subject to financial penalties from the federal court if those caps are violated. Since money apparently is no object, maybe the state could put the additional

But Harris said that the violation would not solve the problem.

"Much of the overcrowding is from minimum and medium custody level prisoners. Those facilities under the consent decree are maximum institutions," Harris said.

"Then our only action can be to enforce your order of May 6 and beyond that, reduce the capacity of Western Wayne and Phoenix to their design capacity," Essad said.

Meads Mill schedules host of end-of-year activities

who achieved 100 percent of the objectives tested in the Michigan Education Assessment Program.

Our congratulations also to Chris Bond. His Odyssey of the Mind team won the highly valued creativity award, Renatra Fusca, at the state competition.

A total of 125 students from Winchster participated in the St. Jude's Math-A-Thon. The $3,335 they collected will be used to fight childhood cancer. The names are too numerous to mention, but we congratulate all these students for the caring they have shown to support this very worthy cause.

A final report on our Campbell Soup Labels of Education program by chairperson, Diane Gale: first prize — upper level, Anne Lauer's class; lower level — Pat Kuxhaus' class. Each class member received an ice cream bar. Second prize winners, upper — Ron Bird's class; lower — Barb Sabo's class. Each of these class members received a pack of sugarless gum. All other classes received a thank you gift of a "Footsie" hoop and ball.

A total of 32,500 labels were collected. The school received the following items for its collected labels: Easy-View magnifier for the kindergarten classes, two playground balls—10", software for the computers — Ready-Rabbit (grades K-2), Apple, Writer Rabbit—Apple, Math Rabbit (Grades K-2), MasterType—Apple, Springboard—Piece of Cake—Apple; also art sound filmstrips, a gym/hockey net and a dictionary for young readers. Thank you all for saving and turning in your labels. Our school will greatly benefit from all these new items. Please keep saving your labels for next year.

The fifth grade "Sweet Shop Sale" was held May 13. It raised $250 to cover the costs of publishing the fifth grade yearbook. Thanks to everyone who participated and helped them reach their goal.

Our last PTA meeting for this school year is June 1, at 9:30 a.m. All

MEADS MILL

Though the school year is winding down, the level of activity at Meads Mill remains high.

The track team is off to a great start. The girls team won at Novi, and the boys won against Smart. A third meet was cancelled June 2. The team will compete against Highland at home, and the season ends with the conference meet at Novi High School at noon on June 6.

Seventh and eighth grade bands will take an all day trip to Cedar Point on June 11.

Cheerleaders have been selected for the 1988-89 school year. The seventh grade squad will include Razan Asbahi, Kristi Darkowski, Wendy Forster, Cindy Jatkoe, Jenny McNally, Kristan Moore, Alissa Miller, Jennifer Pollock, Angie Snyder and Lindsay Hampton. Girls on the eighth grade squad will be Leslie Allen, Laurie Darrow, Robyn Davis, Jennifer Ellis, Kelley Garry, Jenny Hesse, Lisa Hojnacki, Kim Kurzawa, Stacey Nield, Darcy Rundell, Valerie Shuerman, and Regan Wisely.

The honors program has been scheduled for 7:30 p.m. June 15. Students participating in this event will receive notification in the mail.

The traditional end of the school year party for the eighth graders will be held from 7-9 p.m. on June 16, the last day of school. The party is provided free to the eighth graders by the PTSA. Parents are asked to be prompt in picking up students that night.

Sixth and seventh graders will be having an ice cream treat, provided by the PTSA, for the end of the year.

New officers for next year's PTSA have been elected. They are Kathy McLean, president; Nancy Lawrence, secretary; and Barbara Woodrich, treasurer. The office of vice-president is still open.

The last PTSA meeting of the year will include a brief meeting followed by hors d'oeuvres, coffee and tea. It will be at 9:30 on June 13.

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN SCHOOL

St. Paul's is winding down the school year with a variety of fun activities. This past week, grades 1-5 put on a lively orchestrated musical called "Kids Praise". The seventh and eighth graders just came back from a weekend trip to Toronto. Highlights of the trip were the Science Center, C.N. Tower and Casa Loma.

The school is looking forward to Spring Fling on June 9 from 5-8 p.m. It's a family night of varied food and fun activities.

Girls softball is over with a record of 3 wins and 4 losses. But that doesn't indicate the healthy improvement of each of the team members. The boys are still playing their games and having a great time.

Teacher conferences were held May 19 and 20, with results of national test scores discussed.

Each class is planning a special activity day for the final week of school, which begins June 6. For instance, the fifth graders are going to Four Bears Water Park while another class is off to Cedar Point.

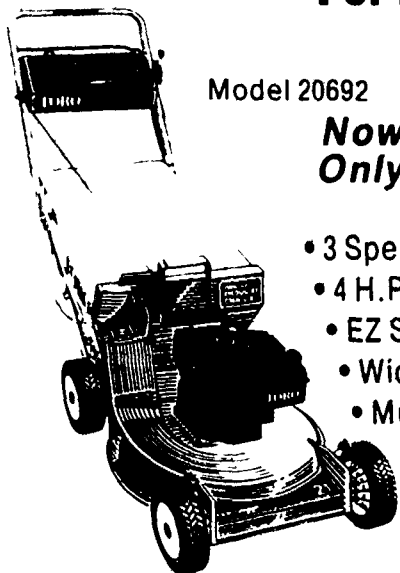

The fifth graders recently visited the Capitol Building in Lansing. They were able to see Senator Geakes' office after he had come to Meads Mill. Dundek's classroom to talk about the government building and the people who work there. The Hands on Science Museum also was experienced that day.

Science is close to the students' hearts since three fifth graders went onto stiffer competition at the high school after winning at the St. Paul's Science Fair. Tara Schuler, David Rhee and Shannon Powell, respectively, placed first, second and third in the categories of physical and life sciences.

Heads you win, tails you win.

Win with Michigan National investment opportunities.

Selecting the right investment opportunity is as easy as flipping a coin — but only if you do it at Michigan National Bank.

Win by controlling the interest rate.

The high-yield investment opportunities at Michigan National put you in charge right from the start. You control the amount you earn by the amount you deposit. The more you deposit, the more you earn. Both the Michigan National MoneyMaster Certificate of Deposit and the Money Market Account offer this unique feature.

Our MoneyMaster CD goes a step further. It also provides a higher interest rate for a longer deposit. So, although there is an interest penalty for early withdrawal on CDs, there are great rates for both larger and longer deposits.

Win with security and opportunity.

Along with control, Michigan National investments offer security and opportunity.

You have the security of knowing your investment is insured to the federal maximum. Your money is safe while it's earning interest.

And you have the opportunity to lock into a guaranteed high rate with our MoneyMaster CD. Or invest in our Money Market Account and earn a high rate and 24 hour card access to your money. You can even write up to three checks per month against the account.

Win every way.

Whether you choose the MoneyMaster CD, the Money Market Account, or both, you have control, security and opportunity on your side.

Stop by any Michigan National branch or call toll free for more information and current rates. You'll find heads you win, tails you win.

School board holds hearing on tax rate

Despite a large crowd at the May 23 Board of Education meeting, not one member of the public had any comments about the increase in money the schools will receive when the board overrides the truth in taxation level.

Under state law, a municipal body must hold a public hearing as the second of three steps required by the Truth in Taxation legislation.

The first step is authorizing the legal notice for the hearing and the final step is actually setting the taxation level.

"The State Equalized Valuation has increased and that means that if we were to levy our voter authorized millage, we would be receiving more money this year than last," said Superintendent George Bell.

"Even if we roll back our millage to 32.79, rather than our 35.4-mill rate, we will be receiving more money. But I will recommend to the board that they roll back the rate," he said.

The board is expected to take the action at its June 13 meeting.

Gas station plan heads for decision

The future of the gas station at Taft and Eight Mile should be settled, one way or another, within a couple of weeks.

A Boron Oil plan to change the car bays at its Gas & Go station into a convenience food store has led to a disagreement between city and company officials over the traffic at the corner. And last week — after discussion at several meetings — the Planning Commission voted to take action on the plan June 7.

During consideration of the proposal, members of the city's planning commission said that any remodeling project should include closing two of the four driveways at the gas station — a move recommended for safety reasons in a city-commissioned study of traffic in the city.

But Boron Oil officials objected, saying that closing the driveways would not improve safety and would destroy the traffic flow at the gas station. If it came down to it, they suggested, they might even scrap their remodeling plans before closing the driveways.

City Manager Steve Walters said at the Planning Commission meeting Tuesday, May 17 that he met with some local Boron officials and that a resolution of the disagreement seemed likely. But when the issue went higher up in Boron for consideration, Walters said, the objections returned.

Walters said, "I had a fairly strained conversation ... and it didn't get anywhere."

Walters said. A Boron official scheduled to appear at last week's meeting could not make it because of a schedule conflict, according to a letter to the city. At that meeting the Planning Commission voted to take some action on the latest plan Boron submits, whether the driveways are open or closed, on June 7.

Walters said the driveways were the only remaining issue between the company and the city, and that Boron agreed to the city's position on other questions raised in consideration of the plan.

Obituaries

JOSEPHINE F. FOLINO

Josephine F. Folino, mother of Northville City Council Member Paul Folino and Steve Folino and Jennie Taylor, all of Northville, died May 23 at St. Mary Hospital in Livonia.

Mrs. Folino came to the community in the early 1920s and was a homemaker. She was born Feb. 2, 1906 in Holland, Mich., and was 82 when she died.

Services will be held at 11 a.m. Friday at Our Lady of Victory Church with Father Frank Polla officiating. Burial will be in Rural Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Folino also is survived by a brother, Sam Fabiano of Clawson, and a sister, Margaret DeAugustino of Saginaw; eight grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.

Her husband, Louis Folino, died in 1977.

A Rosary will be held at eight tonight at the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. of Northville. The family has asked that memorials be made to the St. Louis School, 16301 Old U.S. 12, Chelsea, MI 48118.

MARVIN O. FLETCHER

Marvin O. Fletcher, a township resident for more than 30 years, died May 23. He was 67.

A retired engineer with the Ford Motor Co., Mr. Fletcher was a member of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church and a life member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

He is survived by his wife, Shirley Hyatt Fletcher, his mother, Mrs.

Tillie Fletcher; children, Sally and Curt; and a brother, Donald of Romeo.

Pastor Gene Jahnke of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novi officiated at the Wednesday funeral service. Interment was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens. Arrangements were handled by the Casterline Funeral Home, Inc. of Northville.

AMOS J. ROAME

Funeral services were held May 20 for Amos J. Roame, father of Howard and Imogene Roame and Mrs. Josephine Simler of Northville and of Charles of Farmington and Mrs. Geraldine Metras of Livonia.

Mr. Roame had made his home in Livingston, Tenn. and was there at the time of his death May 17.

A native of Tennessee, Mr. Roame was 80. He had retired from Kelsey-Hayes, where he worked on the assembly line.

He is survived by his wife, Bertha (White) Roame, five step-children, Nancy Nolen of Monroe, Tenn., Linda Rutledge of Del Ray Beach, Fla., Marlon Winningham, J.D. Winningham, and Tony Winningham, all of Livingston, seven grandchildren and eight step-grandchildren.

Services for Mr. Roame were held at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home, with the Rev. Stephen Sparks of Northville's First Baptist Church officiating. Burial was in Rural Hill Cemetery.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that the City Council of the City of Northville will hold a public hearing on Monday, June 6, 1988, in the Municipal Building at 8:00 p.m. to consider an appeal to Title 5, Chapter 10, as follows:

THE PROPERTY OWNER OF 47370 WEST EIGHT MILE ROAD (tax I.D. No. 22-33-451-008) SEEKS RELIEF FROM TITLE 5, CHAPTER 10, RESTRICT THE PARKING OF CERTAIN COMMERCIAL VEHICLES UPON RESIDENTIALLY ZONED PRIVATE PROPERTY, SECTION 5-1001 THROUGH 5-1003.

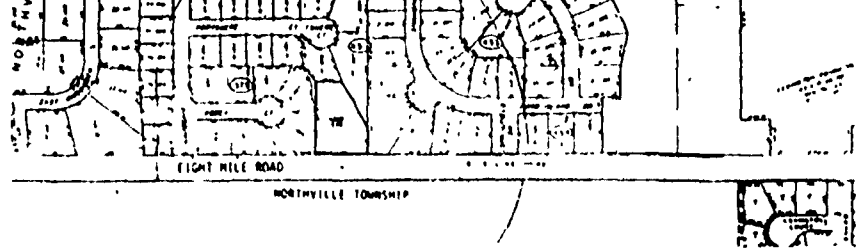

Specifically an appeal to Section 5-1002 of the City Ordinance of the City of Northville, as follows:

Sec. 5-1002 — Prohibited Use — All commercial vehicles deemed to come within the purview of this Ordinance are hereby prohibited from being parked upon any private property that has a residential zoning classification under the Zoning Ordinance of the City of Northville unless said vehicles are housed within a garage or barn, or upon any street located within a residentially zoned district unless said vehicles are engaged in furnishing services to residents in the immediate vicinity of the parked vehicle.

The appeal to Title 5, Chapter 10, is available for public inspection during regular business hours at the City Clerk's Office.

Our Opinions

City should examine question of aesthetics

We're a little confused by the plan for the future of the Schrader's Home Furnishings building on North Center Street.

The basic idea of the plan is to return the building to its original state — which actually means making it three buildings again, each with its own character. A facade is being removed to show original architectural details, and the whole project should look wonderful when it's complete.

That's on the front. The back is another story.

Along the parking lot the plan calls for a painted building facade. We've all seen these — mural-type works showing fake windows, window boxes, and other features painted on as an alternative to fully developing a true facade. One goal of the "Mainstreet '88" redevelopment is to improve rear building appearances downtown — but is this the way?

Beauty, of course, is in the eye of the beholder. There will probably be people who will like this effect, and there will probably be some who dislike it. If you don't believe that, consider the recent improvements to the Shopping Center Market, which have caused outrage among neighbors but just won recognition for their beautification.

Legislating aesthetics is a dangerous and tricky business, but the city has decided to do so with the Historic District Commission and, in a way, the Beautification Commission. As long as the city is into this business — and the approach does work, as the constant improvements downtown demonstrate — then it should do it right, and that means taking a long, hard look at the idea of painted facades.

No matter whether or not an individual likes an individual mural — or the entire concept — we question whether it appropriately belongs in a historic but redeveloping downtown. Our gut feeling is that it does not.

The powers behind the revitalization of Schrader's deserve nothing but praise for the main themes of the redevelopment. But painted facades along the back — or anywhere in the city — seem out of place. The appropriate commission — historic district, planning, beautification, or a combination — should quickly take up this issue, before serious harm comes to all the efforts to develop a historic downtown.

Take some action on Gerald Avenue

Attorney Ernest Essad told Northville Township there was one thing it could not do about Gerald Avenue and that was to do nothing.

But two weeks after Essad made his pronouncement, nothing has been done.

Gerald Avenue is a winding, potholed, too narrow piece of property that "looks like a road, acts like a road, but is not a road" and meets up with Doherty Drive on the township's northern boundary.

It is only 50-feet wide, so does not meet Wayne County's criteria for road maintenance. And, as the township has found out, it is more trouble than six-tenths of a mile of anything should be.

While historically government moves slowly, the Gerald Avenue issue has gone on too long and rather than going away, it has become even more of an embarrassment and potential trouble spot. The township has more than enough trouble to keep it occupied for the immediate future with the issue of prison overcrowding, and sewer capacity.

While we are not offering any solutions to the Gerald Avenue issue, it seems to us that it is up to the township to at least schedule a study session on the matter of Gerald Avenue, and to do it at the earliest opportunity.

One thing we are sure of, this problem will only get worse if left to fester. Currently the problem rests with the Township and it is up to that body to find an answer. Waiting will only produce more problems with potentially serious legal and financial consequences.

Learn the lessons

It must be something of a relief to city officials to have next year's budget approved and in place, although the year ahead is certainly going to be a nailbiter because of tight cash flow and zero contingency monies.

The only part of the budget still unsettled is whether the council will vote for an extra .87 mill to begin some vital capital improvements projects. From all appearances, this will pass June 6, as it should.

So now that the dust of budget time has more or less settled, there are a few disquieting items which deserve to be pointed out.

First, it was a shame that a $3 million-plus budget for 6,200 residents was eventually approved by only three people. Northville's five-member council is a small one to begin with, and when two of those cannot attend a meeting, it takes the idea of representative government uncomfortably far.

We certainly do not blame the two absent council members, and we certainly do not think the budget action should have been delayed. But the situation is still bothersome. Maybe it's time to consider a seven-member council?

Second, the budget as approved — a tight one to begin with — contained over $20,000 in various unlisted reductions from the original budget. It would have been nice to see these enumerated.

Third, the city charter mandates that the budget be adopted by the third Monday in May. This year's was adopted on the fourth Tuesday. Not a big deal, but the council should be very careful about violating its charter.

The city officials deserve credit for putting together a balanced budget in this lean year. But we hope a few lessons have been learned for the future.

Respect professions

By Phil Ginotti

My mom and pop didn't do too well for themselves, at least if you ask my neighbors.

You see, we went and watched my brother Carlo get sworn in last week in Lansing. He is now an attorney, after three or so years of extra sweat.

That, of course, means we now have a lawyer and a reporter in the same family. This has already made us the butt of neighborhood jokes.

Like: "So you got a lawyer and a reporter — second and third oldest professions on earth. Good thing you didn't have any daughters. Heh, heh."

It rankles mom somewhat, but she's too nice a person to say anything about it. Dad just smiles real nice, but kind of like an old cat sizing up a bright red show canary. Doesn't bother Carlo. Doesn't bother me.

The judges who presided over Carlo's swearing in ceremony both harped quite a bit about the image problems of the lawyering business. One of the judges, Thomas Brennan, Jr., made an interesting comment about the future of the trade.

He told the new lawyers to treat jokes and jabs about their professions the same way they would treat a racial slur. Interesting point. I don't know if they'll be able to pull it off, but, still, an interesting point here.

What he is saying is absolutely true. Unless you want to be labeled as a dolt, you don't tell racial jokes. They've become unacceptable in society. The same should be said of professions.

Somewhere in time, when it became socially unacceptable to tell jokes about blacks and Polish people, I'm sure people looked elsewhere to have someone to pound away at.

Of course, the weaknesses and vulnerabilities of certain professions cried out to help supply an easy remedy. The vulnerabilities are there, the forums are endless and you don't have to worry about offending any ethnic group, which is definitely taboo.

Lawyers, for instance, are black, white, male and female. An attack on them as a group doesn't put you at high risk because the whole thing is so distant in nature. It's cross-sectional.

Does that mean there are less racial jokes floating around nowadays? No, probably not. They just aren't told in public anymore. They're told amongst family members, associates and trusted friends. Nevertheless, the broad forums for telling and hearing such jokes are becoming remarkably constrained. There are less and less social situations where racial jokes can be told.

Reporters, lawyers and anyone who catches the wrath of these sometimes tongue-in-cheek (oftentimes not) jokes ought to work towards constraining these acceptable situations further, making them unacceptable in society as a whole. A job, sadly, is often the biggest thing that gives identity to a lot of people. In a lot of ways, your job is your life.

And why are certain professions the "bad guys?" Who knows why. Lawyers, for one, work from the shoulders up. They don't sell you a tangible product, unless of course you're under the gavel. Reporters also work from the shoulders up, except people have told me, there must not be very much up there to work with.

So where does all of this leave us? Any relief in sight for reporters, lawyers, bureaucrats, politicians, car salesmen and other such dregs? No, probably not.

But I know one thing. My mom and dad aren't convinced that they're doing all that badly in the kid department. And that counts a whole lot more than the rest of it.

Pole Sitter

going to take that lying down, do you? I was in there yesterday, and I think they're planning to get even."

"Not to worry, Cheryl," I informed her. "Your old neighbor is safe and sound. You don't think I'd write a column like that if I had any dental appointments in the immediate future, do you? Nope, memories of that column will be long forgotten before Dr. Bill gets this camper in his evil clutches once again."

"That's not what they think," she said. "According to them, you've got another appointment coming up June 3."

Panic gripped my brain. She was right; they were right. I had thought I was safe... that all my appointments were over... that I could write that column safe in the knowledge there would be no chance for revenge. But I had forgotten about that June 3 appointment. And now I was in trouble. Deep, brooding, send-in-the-cavalry kind of trouble.

And so I've decided to tell the truth. The column I wrote last week? I made it up. None of it really happened. Just a joke. A figment of my imagination.

After the fact

She stood midway between our houses, motioning me over. "You'd better look out," she warned. "They're plotting revenge."

"Who's plotting revenge?" I asked naively. "I haven't done anything to anyone. Why is anyone plotting revenge against me?"

"Remember that column you wrote about Dr. Demray last week?" she replied. "You don't think he's

Adults need communication, too

This is another in a continuing series of columns written for The Record by Mary Ellen King, director of Northville Youth Assistance.

On a recent made for television movie a typical family scenario was portrayed: Twelve-year old Johnny walks into the kitchen, the TV is blaring, mom is cooking, dad is reading the paper, sister is talking on the phone and Johnny says to dad, "I got another D on a math test today." Without looking up, dad responds, "mmm."

A few weeks later Johnny's report card comes and dad hits the roof because Johnny got a D in Math. A fight ensues between Johnny and dad. Johnny is grounded, dad is upset, mom is upset and sister feels the tension in the house.

We can all see how this situation could have been avoided by dad putting down the paper, taking Johnny into another room and talking to him about his class before his report card arrived at home. But in today's hectic world many of us do not take the time to talk and listen to our kids. Here are a few simple rules to help us really listen when our kids want to talk.

• The rule of focusing: Stop what you're doing and listen. Adolescents are not always willing to talk, so when they are we must grab the moment. Consciously keep your mind from wandering by intently attending to the youth. Do not shift the attention back to yourself, for example, "When I was in school", etc. Provide verbal and nonverbal feedback which "tells" the youth you are listening.

One word responses such as "mmm," "oh," "yes," are helpful when there are no other distractions in the room and they show the speaker that you are listening. Good concentrated eye contact, and appropriate posture and body positions are also helpful things to do to show you are listening. Above all, avoid a "dead" expressionless attitude; nothing kills a conversation more quickly than no response!

• The rule of acceptance: Children realize that they enjoy talking to parents who are warm, supporting and accepting. When you nod, smile and sincerely express understanding of the situation, you enable the youth to more fully express her or himself.

This does not mean that you must agree with everything the youth is saying; it does mean that you are trying to understand what he or she is saying. If you disagree, you can do that later. As a listener it is not our prerogative to interrupt or to disagree. When you are speaking, notice how much more fluently you talk when someone accepts what you have to say.

rule of drawing out: It is very difficult for a youth to articulate all of the ideas and feelings he or she has; therefore, the parent should try to aid the youth by asking lots of questions. Ask for more information, for more background, for more description, for feelings, reactions and responses.

Do not ask non-questions, questions that aren't really questions, but are statements of your opinions. ("Don't you think that...?") Open-ended questions get better results. Examples of open-ended questions, "Could you tell me...?" "I'm wondering if...?" "Have you thought about...?" "Can you say more about...?"

When our kids know we are really listening to them, they will not only respond but they will feel good about themselves. They will know that their parents care enough about them to take the time to LISTEN.

Bearly making it

By Neil Geoghegan

Sometimes we take for granted the wildlife around us. The only time many of us notice wild animals like a squirrel, an opossum or a muskrat is when they've been run over by a car and are crumpled along the side of the road.

Several weeks ago, on a weekend trip to the north-central area of Michigan's lower peninsula, I saw first hand the beauty and at times tragic existence of our friends from the animal kingdom. Unfortunately, that kingdom is shrinking all the time as we continue to expand and build over their homes. The fact is, to most, we haven't been very good friends.

A routine trip to my father-in-law's cabin (nicknamed the tee pee) near Lake City, is always like going to the zoo. Wildlife is everywhere and they aren't caged in. Deer are a common site in the late afternoon and evening along M-55, beavers keep their dam water-tight in the back woods behind the tee pee and bear tracks aren't uncommon either.

Tales of 400-pound bears pop up all the time but we never had the privilege of seeing one — that is until we visited the tee pee several weeks ago. On one sunny morning, four of us decided to take a walk in the back woods and while we were back there, we saw the usual sights but heard an unusual sound. It radiated from deep within the forest and it sounded like the call of a giant bird. It was very loud and had a sort of urgency about it.

Unable to see what it was, we soon headed back toward the tee pee. We proceeded down the path and into a clearing just behind the cabin and suddenly, the noise was right behind us. We spun around to see a small black creature a couple hundred feet away, running toward us and yelling like crazy. My brother-in-law Don said it looked like a bear cub, but the rest of us laughed at him. It was much too small for a cub, we said. Someone thought it looked like a skunk but as it came closer and closer we discovered that Don was right — it was a tiny black bear cub running at us.

The little thing eventually made his way to us, stopped not more than three yards from us and continued to cry out that mysterious call. The cub looked right into our eyes, examining us, apparently wondering if any of us just happened to be his mother. At this time, we were all frantically looking around for the mother, who wouldn't have been very accommodating had she caught us conversing with her youngster.

It soon became obvious to us that the cub was lost and I think it became obvious to the cub that his mother was not in our group. In a flash, the bear ran over to a 10-foot pine tree a couple feet away and climbed up the trunk. With no time to waste, we grabbed a camera and the neighbor across the street because we wanted pictures and some advice on what to do.

The neighbor has lived in Lake City full-time for decades and had never seen a cub before. She called a Department of Natural Resources officer from the area while we snapped picture after picture of the cute little thing. It was estimated that the cub was born this winter because it was no bigger than a small, plump dog. It sat in the crotch of the tree with his front legs strapped tightly around the narrow trunk and quivered with fright.

The DNR told us to leave the little creature alone, and that if it was still in the tree by the next morning, they would come out and get it. By the next morning, the cub was gone, presumably back in the woods looking for his mother. We never found out if it succeeded and we all worried about its safety but we left the tee pee with a little more respect for the wildlife we share our land with.

We also left with dozens of snap shots, for anyone who doubts our tale of the little black cub that followed us out of the woods.

Local costs give SEMCOG a bad RAP

Judging from the reaction in the city and the township, the Remedial Action Plan for the Rouge River basin, published by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, is in trouble — big trouble.

"We're putting our money into the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority and that will be our share of the cleanup," said township Supervisor Georgina Goss.

"My guess is that the state will step in and force us to comply with the plan. It could be like the sewer project. You know, if you get in and get it done now, it will cost so much. If you wait 30 years, it will cost four or five times as much and you'll still have to pay," said Steve Walters, city manager.

And SEMCOG, which released the study, says that the work must be done, even if it doesn't believe that the Rouge can be returned to a fishable or swimmable river.

Early cost estimates have put the project at $900 million and with interest rates and a 30-year time span, plus the lessening of federal, state and grant funding, the costs could rise to $1.8 billion.

Even then, "full restoration of the Rouge cannot be achieved within 30 years," the report states.

If the plan goes beyond the drawing board, the township's share would be $719,000 annually and the city would be asked to provide $174,000, annually.

Over a 30-year period, that would mean the township would have to pay $14.38 million, not counting the estimated $38.4 million it will share with Plymouth and Canton townships as part of the Western Townships Utility Authority.

The city's 30-year cost would be $3.4 million, an amount that Walters said would be about $75 annually for each homeowner.

Although the local figures for the project may appear high, they are nowhere near as large as those being apportioned to the City of Detroit, which is facing a $40.39 million annual tab, or Farmington and Farmington Hills, which combined are facing a $6.9 million annual bill.

The plan is being submitted to the Michigan Water Resources Commission, which has the authority to issue abatement and cleanup orders.

There has been no indication as to whether the commission will act on the plan or to what extent it would force the plan to be implemented.

'On the spot'

Carpet-cleaning job led to own company

By JEAN DAY

When Steve Pichan rented equipment to clean his own carpets, he little realized it would lead to his own business — Johnny on the Spot Carpet and Upholstery Cleaning.

Friends asked him to clean their carpets, leading him to start the business which is now 10 years old and headquartered in Northville.

Originally in the Wayne-Westland area, Pichan says he moved both his home and business to Northville three years ago after marketing the area. He says he became aware that many of his customers lived in the Northville/Novi area. He also services Milford, South Lyon, Plymouth and Farmington.

Johnny on the Spot now has three, fully-equipped vans and five employees — four carpet cleaners and an office manager.

"I enjoy the challenge and independence," says Pichan of his growing business.

Pichan notes that he has invested heavily in cleaning equipment, demonstrating an agitator with five small, rotating vacuum heads. He points out that this equipment "gives 10 passes over the carpet to clean thoroughly." A different wand cleans close to mopboards.

Pichan is particularly proud of the drying blowers on each of his vans. Workers use the blowers to begin drying carpet as soon as an area is cleaned. Pichan says he feels the blower drying he offers is unique to most residential and office cleaning, noting that it usually is used only for flood cleaning jobs.

Pichan, who lives on Clement Court in Northville with his wife and three daughters, feels it is important for his customers to know they're dealing locally and that Johnny on the Spot stands behind its work.

In fact, the follow-up begins before a carpet cleaner leaves his customer. Pichan and his employees ask customers to complete a check list covering customer satisfaction with the work done and the person doing the cleaning.

Pichan says that in addition to himself and Mike Foster, both full time workers who clean both upholstery and carpets, he employs college students from Schoolcraft and the University of Michigan for carpet cleaning. He says the students are fully trained by Foster and himself.

"It takes several months before I feel comfortable sending them out alone," Pichan says, explaining that new employees work first with Foster and himself.

Pichan says he has attended "two or three dozen courses put on by the industry" to keep up with latest supplies and equipment available.

"A little over a year ago a product didn't exist for removal of red stains," he illustrates. Now, special treatment of such stains with an acid used in an "ironing" process to draw out the red color is 85 percent effective, he says.

He mentions that pet stains also are tricky to remove. Each one, he says, is a different problem requiring an individual evaluation and special treatment.

Steve Pichan has moved his Johnny on the Spot carpet cleaning service to the Northville/Novi area

Oriental rugs, he adds, receive special treatment. They must be taken into the shop for cleaning as they may require being hung to dry. The firm also does repairs on Oriental rugs.

Pichan says he welcomes emergency calls and recalls one from a customer who had spilled nail polish on her carpet. "It came out well," he remembers.

"We're happy to have customers call first (before touching the stain or spill) and get advice. We can give hints on what to do — sometimes they won't even need professional care."

After the blue vans with the Johnny on the Spot logo have arrived at a home or office and cleaned carpeting or upholstery, the firm has another follow up. A day or two later Sherry calls from the office to make sure everything had been satisfactory at the residence or business.

Pichan lists MacKinnon's Restaurant, Northville Travel Plans, Jack Doheny's business as well as area realtors and apartment complexes among his customers. The firm is a member of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

As a result of his concentration on the Northville/Novi and nearby suburban areas, Pichan employs the services of Greg Brooks as telemarketing manager to telephone home owners. Brooks, he says, is a teacher at Bishop Borgess High School and does a fine job for him.

Right now the firm is offering a 20 percent discount during spring and early summer to those contacted by Brooks or who call Johnny on the Spot at 420-4001.

THE LAWN TRACTOR THAT PERFORMS LIKE A HONDA.

It's easy to start. Just turn the key and you're ready to go. It's reliable and efficient. Our lawn tractor's OHV engine shares technology that produced our fine automobiles and motorcycles.

It's easy to use. With our Mechanical Automatic Transmission (MAT), there's no clutch to operate. You just put it in gear and mow.

It's versatile. With our standard front Power Take-Off (PTO) system, you can add optional power attachments like a snowthrower.

Only one lawn tractor can do all that and equal Honda's unmatched reputation for quality. The Honda Lawn Tractor. IT'S A HONDA.

Business Briefs

SERVICEMASTER OF NORTHVILLE, a new business, has just opened. SM of Northville is licensed to clean residential/commercial carpet and upholstery, walls and ceilings as well as restoration due to fire and water damage. The business will cover Plymouth, Northville, Novi and all surrounding communities.

The new business is owned by Jim and Debbie Pollard of Plymouth. ServiceMaster of Northville stresses 100 percent customer satisfaction or the job is free. The business is located at 44740 Oregon Trail in Plymouth. The phone number is 459-0018.

STEVEN J. FISHER has joined The Selective Group/Selective Development Company. A practicing attorney with a masters degree in tax and a specialty in corporate and tax matters, Fisher most recently was associated with the law firm of Simpson and Moran.

As General Counsel/Manager of Financial and Government Affairs, Fisher will help develop the equity and financial relations for the sustained financing of various projects as well as research and design programs to develop housing for low income families and the elderly.

GLENN S. CANTOR has joined The Selective Group/Selective Development Company as Director of Acquisitions.

A graduate of the University of Chicago's MBA program, Cantor formerly was a member of the Real Estate Advisory Department of the accounting firm of Coopers and Lybrand.

In his new position, he will be responsible for expanding The Selective Group's portfolio of existing income-producing properties and implementing financial opportunities for equity investors.

UNITED SPECIALTIES of Highland has received membership in the prestigious Manufacturers' Agents National Association, it was announced by James J. Gibbons, MANA president.

United Specialties is a manufacturers' representative of industrial laser cutting machines, laser markers, engravers and coders, induction heating coils and liquid chillers.

The agency, whose president is Rudy Masek and secretary/treasurer is Cheryl Masek, covers the states of Michigan and Ohio.

MANA is the world's largest organization of independent manufacturers' agencies. Founded in 1947, the Association sponsors educational programs for agents and manufacturers, stressing the practical aspects of building sales.

SEVERAL LOCAL REALTORS have received the 1987 "President's Club" honor from the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

Realtors in South Lyon earning the award, which requires 1987 sales of $1 million or more include Eileen M. Bennett, Shirley A. Boutwell, Frederick J. Cane, Lois A. Carano, Eileen M. Foley, Kathleen Layson and Katherine Robert from Jean Noling Real Estate; and Mary K. Pardo, Linda C. Roberts, Norman H. Sieb, Tony Sparks, Laurie S. Stowell and Jean M. Wehner from Century 21 Hartford Southwest.

Susan L. Kassab of Earl Keim Realty, Blenco, in Milford also was a recipient.

ROBERT K. LOCKWOOD II

ROBERT K. LOCKWOOD II of Northville has been promoted by Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit to the position of Vice president and Trust Officer in the Trust, Corporate Agencies, Administration division.

Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit is a subsidiary of Manufacturers National Corporation, a bank holding company based in Detroit.

SHIRLEY A. NAIR of Northville has been appointed branch officer of the Five Mile-Levan office of Comerica Bank-Detroit, the principal subsidiary of Comerica Incorporated. The announcement was made by Donald R. Mandich, chairman.

Nair joined the bank in 1968 as a teller and has held positions of increasing responsibility since then. She is a member of the Livonia Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club.

THE NOVI HILTON is inviting summer travelers to "Go for the Gold" this summer with a $59 nightly rate available through Sept. 5. Reservations, which must include a Saturday night stay, may be booked any time up to one day in advance of arrival and are good for as many as 10 nights.

The Novi Hilton's $59 rate is applicable for either single or double occupancy, includes a free continental breakfast for every guest every day, and, as always, children stay free in their parents' room.

Hilton Hotels Corporation, a sponsor of the 1988 U.S. Olympic Team, is offering the $59 rate at 160 Hiltons across the nation as part of its "Golden Summer of $59" program. Additional hotels in resort and other locations will offer "Golden Summer" features at higher rates, bringing the total number of participating Hiltons to 240.

"This is an exceptional value for vacationers coming to the Detroit area or the perfect opportunity for local residents to get away and relax during the weekend," said Gary Seibert, general manager of the Novi Hilton.

Travelers may book "Golden Summer of $59" reservations by calling Hilton's toll-free reservations number at 1-800-HILTONS or the Novi Hilton at 349-4000. Rooms available at the special rate are limited so advance booking is advised.

SHIRLEY A. NAIR

Lobbia named CEO for Detroit Edison

A Novi man — John E. Lobbia, 46, has been elected president and chief operating officer of Detroit Edison by the company's board of directors. He succeeds Charles M. Heidel, 62, who is retiring this month.

Lobbia, formerly executive vice president, also was elected a director of the company at the annual meeting of shareholders.

"In his 24 years with the company," said Walter J. McCarthy, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, "John Lobbia has demonstrated significant capability for the demanding tasks that will face him in his new position and has gained the confidence and respect of Edison people at all levels as well as customers, regulators and even the company's adversaries."

Lobbia joined Detroit Edison in 1964 after graduating from the University of Detroit with a bachelor of science degree in electrical engineering. In addition to major managerial positions in the company's Division Organization, he served as assistant to the vice chairman of the board and assistant vice president and manager, Fuel Supply.

In 1982, Lobbia was elected vice president for Financial Services and later was given responsibility for corporate strategic planning at the start of a period of significant change for the company, the electric utility industry and the energy field in general.

He was elected executive vice president in May 1987 with responsibility for overseeing the company's Strategic Initiative program aimed at positioning Detroit Edison for the future in such significant functions as marketing, internal organization, human resources and cost effectiveness.

Lobbia is a member of a number of professional organizations including the Engineering Society of Detroit and Newcomen Society of the United States. He is a trustee of the Business/Education Alliance and vice chairman of the Michigan Utilities Association.

Active in community affairs, Lobbia bia served in 1987 as co-chair of the Detroit Strategic Planning Project's Education Task Force. He is also a trustee of both Oakwood Hospital and WTWS/Channel 56.

In other organizational changes, the board elected three senior vice presidents — Burkhard H. Schneider, Willard R. Holland and B. Ralph Sylvia.

In addition, a new Executive Council has been formed to ensure a cohesive leadership team and to increase the company's focus on key strategic issues. Members of the council are McCarthy; Lobbia; Ernest L. Grove, Jr., vice chairman of the board; Leon S. Cohan, senior vice president and general counsel; Schneider; Holland; and Sylvia.

SUMMER WINDS

Warm-weather concerts ahead

*All summer long
We sang a song
And then we strolled that golden sand
Two sweethearts
And the summer wind...*

Memorial Day is the traditional beginning of the summer season, and in this area one thing that means is the return of the outdoor concerts. The magical combination of live music, warm breezes and cool refreshments traditionally brings people out in droves.

This summer offers the area's usual wide selection of outdoor concerts. Of course, if you want to hear the biggest names, the well-known, regional venues Pine Knob and the Meadow Brook Music Festival are offering their usual full schedules.

But even by staying in this general area and just driving a few minutes, the concertgoer can find a tremendous variety of live music this season — from oldies to traditional jazz to chamber music to bluegrass to classical to musical theater to... you get the idea.

Local, outdoor concert series in Northville, Novi, Farmington and Plymouth provide tremendous attractions all their own. In Northville, scheduled events include the annual Bluegrass Festival and the bandshell concerts, while Novi boasts an eclectic lineup planned for the new civic center.

Here are the latest available schedules for selected area locations:

Northville

The annual Bluegrass Festival to fight Huntington's Disease is scheduled for July 24. But that is only the biggest in a long line of events scheduled all summer.

The series of Friday night concerts in the bandshell at Town Square Park, on Main Street east of Center, begins a week earlier and lasts a week later this year. In addition, there is the annual Summer-song festival and an experimental Sunday morning chamber music concert.

"The concerts are a nice addition to the Northville scene. We're flowering and blooming," said Loretta Lang of the Northville Arts Commission. "I think we're going to have a little variety this year."

Unless noted below, the concerts are sponsored by the commission and scheduled for the bandshell with free admission.

Saturday, May 28, 10:30 a.m. — The Emily Austin Chamber Ensemble, cosponsored by the Northville Merchants Association.

Friday, June 10, 7:30 p.m. — The Northville Alumni High School Jazz Band.

Friday, June 17, 7:30 p.m. — Novi Concert Band.

Friday and Saturday, June 24 and 25 — The annual Summer-song festival, sponsored by Northville Merchants Association.

Friday, July 1, 7:30 p.m. — Schoolcraft Gazebo Wind Ensemble.

Friday, July 8, 7:30 p.m. — Northville Alumni High School Jazz Band.

Friday, July 15, 7:30 p.m. — Schoolcraft Concert Band.

Sunday, July 17, 11 a.m. — The Emily Austin Chamber Ensemble.

Friday, July 22, 7:30 p.m. — The Tailgate Ramblers.

Sunday, July 24, 1 to 9 p.m. — The annual Bluegrass Festival, sponsored by the Giffordler, at Ford Field off Hutton Street. Admission is $6 for adults, $3 for seniors, $1 for children under 12 and free for infants. Performers will include Tom Chapin and the Chenille Sisters.

Friday, July 29, 7:30 p.m. — Novi Concert Band.

Friday, Aug. 5, 7:30 p.m. — Tom Rice, the Giffordler in concert.

Saturday, Aug. 6, 1 p.m. — Northville Alumni High School Jazz Band, sponsored by the Northville

Merchants Association.

Friday, Aug. 12, 7:30 p.m. — Schoolcraft Gazebo Wind Ensemble.

Friday, Aug. 19, 7:30 p.m. — Northville Alumni High School Jazz Band.

Friday, Aug. 26, 7:30 p.m. — Novi Concert Band.

Friday, Sept. 2, 7:30 p.m. — Bob DuRant Quintet.

Novi

Novi Parks and Recreation's Summer Sounds outdoor concert series shifts location this year to the new Novi Civic Center on Ten Mile east of Taft.

The series is sponsored by the Ford Motor Company Fund and Providence Hospital. All concerts are from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and have free admission.

Friday, June 24 — Steve King and the Ditties.

Friday, July 1 — Ron Coden Show.

Friday, July 8 — Brookside Jazz Ensemble.

Friday, July 22 — Down River Band.

Friday, July 29 — Macombers.

Friday, Aug. 5 — Novi Concert Band.

Friday, Aug. 12 — Doug Jacobs and the Red Garter Band.

Farmington

The outdoor amphitheater at the Farmington Community Center will host its first Summer Festival of Music this year.

Unlike other area series, the Farmington shows charge admission for most events. Tickets are available by phone at 477-8404. The center is located at 24705 Farmington Road in Farmington Hills.

The series is supported by Sinai Hospital, the Touring Arts Agency, the Michigan Council for the Arts and Observer and Eccentric Newspapers.

Sunday, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. — The J. C. Heard Big Band. Admission is $13, and chicken dinners will be for sale. Grounds open at 6 p.m.

Sunday, June 19, 6:30 p.m. — "Hats Off to Dad," a musical Father's Day revue with a roast beef and chicken buffet served by Blakeney's Restaurant. Cost is $23

Thursday, June 30, 7 p.m. — "Billie Goats Gruff," an updated musical version by the Ann Arbor

Goodtime Players. Admission $2

Sunday, July 17, 7:30 p.m. — Bugs Beddow Band. Admission is $10

Grounds open at 6 p.m. and Something Special Catering will sell a cheese and fruit tray or a turkey or tuna croissant.

Thursday, July 21, 7:30 p.m. — Oakway Symphony Orchestra. Admission free with picnics available from D&M Catering. Grounds open at 6.

Thursday, July 28, 7 p.m. — The Storytellers, dramatic readings and demonstrations of over 20 musical instruments from around the world. Admission $2.

Wednesday, Aug. 17, 7:30 p.m. — folk music duo Gemini. Admission $2.

Sunday, Aug. 21, 7:30 p.m. — Salute to Broadway with Sheri Nichols and Barbara Bredius. Admission is $10. Grounds open at 6 p.m. with picnics available from Mark Zarkin Catering.

Plymouth

The Plymouth community will offer live music every Thursday and Friday evening throughout the summer.

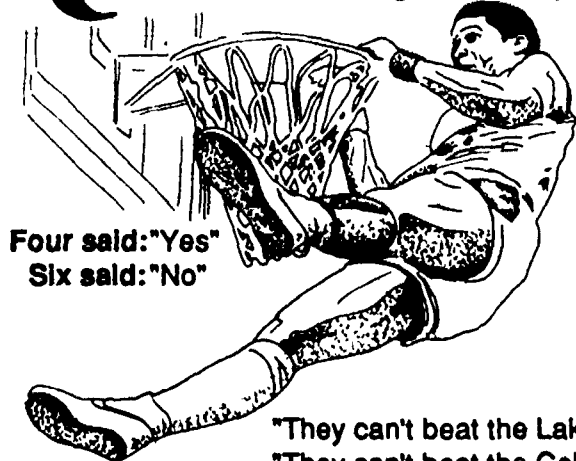

The Plymouth Community Band will play every Thursday in Kellogg Park in the heart of downtown Plymouth. The program will vary from week to week.

The Plymouth Chamber of Commerce will sponsor street dancing every Friday night with different entertainment.

Random Sample

Q:

Can the Pistons go all the way?

Four said: "Yes"
Six said: "No"

"They can't beat the Lakers."
"They can't beat the Celtics."
"Anybody can have a good series or a bad series."
"Not with the Celtics now in the picture."
"The Pistons are out for revenge."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of this newspaper.

Group urges extra caution in driving

AAA of Michigan reports that top freeway speeds have reached 80 miles per hour since the speed limit increased to 65 m.p.h. on rural interstates. Adhering to the limits can save lives this weekend and always, the group says.

Alcohol was a factor in 10 of the 14 fatal accidents.

AAA Michigan reminds motorists traveling in this state over the holiday of the following:

□ State Police are spending an additional 1,500 hours patrolling for Operation Care (Combined Accident Reduction Effort). The summer-long campaign theme is "Safety Belts — A Bright Idea." Patrol cars will have headlights on to remind travelers to buckle up.

□ Special enforcement teams are patrolling I-94 from Port Huron to

New Buffalo to combat speeding. Eleven State Police posts, the State Police Motor Carrier Division and 14 local law enforcement agencies are participating in the program all summer.

□ Fifty volunteer groups, including citizen's band radio clubs, civic organizations and church groups, are staffing 60 rest areas along main state roads and providing "safety breaks." Members of Novi REACT will be hosting a "safety break" at the rest area on I-94 in Novi. Motorists are urged to take advantage of the safety break opportunities to take a rest from driving and keep their senses sharp.

□ AAA Michigan's "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" traffic and tourism bulletins are being broadcast on 150 radio stations across the state.

Motorists should log a record 865 million miles on state roads this Memorial Day holiday, 45 million more than last year, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation. The 78-hour holiday officially runs from 6 p.m. Friday, May 27 through midnight on Monday, May 30.

Travelers on I-75 from the Michigan-Ohio state line to Flint will be able to tune their car radios to a special broadcast which provides highway construction information this summer.

Motorists traveling south toward Detroit or entering the state and heading north can tune in the messages on their radios by dialing 530-AM north of Flint and 1610-AM near Luna Pier, just north of the state line.

Eagan's celebrate golden anniversary

It was a very special moment 50 years ago when Paul and Margaret Eagan of Northville, said their vows on May 1, 1937.

The Eagan's shared another very special moment during a Golden Anniversary celebration held last Sunday, May 22.

Paul E. Eagan married Margaret V. Currier at Hope Gospel Church in Detroit. The couple had met at a halloween party in October of 1932. Paul graduated from Moody Bible Institute in April of 1936. The couple became engaged on July 4, 1935.

The Eagan's honeymooned in Washington D.C. Bridesmaid for the couple was Margaret's sister Dorothy and Paul's brother Wesley was best man. The Rev. McCaslin, assisted by Hilmore Cedarholm officiated at the service.

The Eagan's celebrated their anniversary at an open house given by their four children. Daughters Joyce Campbell, Marjorie Julien and Marilyn Cosgrove live in the area. Their son Donald Eagan lives with his wife and three children in Brazil where he is a pilot with Wiclife Bible Translators.

The Eagan's have 13 grandchildren: five granddaughters and eight grandsons. Paul and Margaret have been residents of Highland Lakes in Northville for over 15 years. They are members of the First Baptist Church of Northville.

Over 100 friends and relatives came from near and far to help celebrate the occasion.

Paul is retired from Ford Motor Company. He enjoys golf and has had three hole-in-one games thus far. Margaret enjoys knitting, crocheting, baking and gardening. Both have been very active in church activities all their lives.

In Our Town

Memorial Parade this weekend

By Ann E. Willis

Big happenings going on all over town this Memorial Day weekend. The city's first-ever Flower Show sale will fill the streets on Friday and Saturday from 8 a.m. - dusk. The Merchant's Association is hoping Northville residents and neighbors will enjoy the convenience of shopping for flowers, shrubs and other garden items in town, making the Northville Flower Sale an annual event for the Eastern Market growers.

The Emily Austin Chamber Ensemble will play at 10:30 a.m. in the bandshell during the Saturday portion of the Flower Sale. The ensemble consists of violin, cello and harp players, all of whom are currently members of the Fisher Theater Orchestra. Each has been a long term member of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra. They are faculty members of many universities and colleges in the area.

The ensemble will play light Broadway and chamber music. In addition to the flowers and music, copies of "Town One South - Northville Poems" by Kathleen Ripley Leo will be on sale for $8.32 during the Flower show.

The annual Memorial Day Parade will march down Main Street at about 10 a.m. on Monday, May 31. Veterans, boy scouts and girl scouts will march along with the Northville High School marching band. A memorial service will be held at Rural Hill Cemetery. The entire event is sponsored by the Northville VFW. Marchers are invited back to the VFW hall following the parade for a lunch.

King's Mill Flea Market date set

The eighth annual King's Mill Flea Market will be held this year on June 4 from 9 a.m. - 4 p.m. Sponsored by the Women's Club, this ever-popular event features "past treasures" from over 30 households, a table of handmade mini-crafts, none priced over $5, a bake sale, grilled-on-the-spot hot dogs, doughnuts, and beverages plus a morning and afternoon 50/50 raffle. Rain date is Sunday, June 5.

Northville Chamber Golf Outing June 3

The Northville Chamber of Commerce is planning its annual Northville Open for June 3 at the Brae Burn Golf Club at Five Mile and Napier Road.

Golf starting times begin at 11:30 a.m. with a buffet lunch at 1 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. A cash bar will be available. An all day golf package is $55 with an evening only package at $20. Reservations must be in by June 1. Checks should be made payable to the Northville Chamber of Commerce, 195 S. Main Street, Northville, 48167. For more information call 349-7640.

Registration for cub scout camp open

Spring is closing in on summer fast and that means it's time for registration for 1988 Cub Scout Day Camp.

All cub scouts are eligible to participate in the 1988 Cub Scout Day Camp at Maybury State Park on Eight Mile Road in Northville. The camp will run from July 12-15, Tuesday-Friday, from 8:30 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. each day.

The scouts will participate in various activities including archery, volleyball, fishing, songs, crafts, nature hikes, outdoor cooking, visits to a living farm and more.

Parents should contact their scout's Pack Day Camp coordinator or call Valerie at 349-8196 for more information.

Each cub scout receives a Day

Camp patch and if the scout is registered before May 31 will receive a free Day Camp t-shirt.

Scouts are urged to take advantage of the day camp program to meet new friends and have fun participating in planned activities.

May garden

In early spring while most of the garden's perennials are still dormant, Bill and Helen McAskin's garden is ablaze with alpine mountain miniature wildflowers.

The McAskin's garden was chosen May Garden of the Month by the Country Girls Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association.

Both of the McAskins are teachers in Southfield and take great pride in cultivating their plants through exchange societies and with seeds propagated and divided in their basement throughout the winter months.

Bill belongs to the American Rock Garden Society, Alpine Rock Garden Society, Scottish Rock Garden Society and Penstemon Society. He is able to obtain rare seeds which are virtually unobtainable except from these sources.

A friend introduced Bill to these delicate miniature plants, many of which you need to peer right into to fully appreciate their color and delicate design.

The McAskins have landscaped their Winchester Street home with winding walks filled with woodchips, many perennials, rocks from Ohio's Lake Erie area and although they feel that their spring gardens are really their favorite flowering time, theirs is a garden for all seasons.

While most of the plants are identified by a variety of English names, the McAskins usually use the Latin terminology to prevent confusion of varieties.

Now Providence Hospital gives you more ways to give birth.

More birthing options than any other hospital.

Introducing Providence Hospital's New Life Center. Suburban Detroit's newest, and we think finest, obstetrics facility. Our New Life Center gives you more birthing options, more choices, than any other area hospital.

LDR Suites, a popular choice.

Our ten LDR suites allow mothers to labor, birth and recover in one location. These private suites are a welcome departure from the traditional hospital birth experience. Beautifully decorated, each suite creates the perfect setting for you to spend time with your family and bond with your baby.

Traditional Delivery Suites.

Our new delivery suites are for mothers who wish to have the traditional birth experience or for those who may require a Cesarean delivery. Your husband, or any labor partner who has been through an approved childbirth class, may be with you in the delivery suite during labor, birth and bonding with your baby. Each of our delivery suites is state-of-the-art in every way.

High-Risk Rooms.

For women with medical problems, we have two high-risk rooms which offer specialized care during labor, birth and the early recovery period. Because we have an obstetrician in-house at all times, we can provide the essential medical attention you need in the critical moments before your physician arrives.

Another option, the Family Birthing Center.

Our freestanding Family Birthing Center offers another alternative in the birthing experience. The only one of its kind in the state of Michigan, the Center provides a home-like setting with a staff of experienced nurses dedicated to natural birthing techniques.

Our Family Birthing Center is accredited by the National Association of Childbearing Centers and offers the advantages of a home birth. Family and friends are welcome and you can go home in just 24 hours.

Should the need arise, Neonatal Intensive Care Unit.

Our NICU has the advanced medical equipment and the sophisticated technology to care for seriously ill newborns. An obstetrician, neonatologist and perinatologist are available 24 hours a day to care for newborns with special problems.

Learn about your options. Set up a tour.

So if you're planning to have a baby, visit Providence Hospital and learn about all your options. Ask your doctor about Providence, or give us a call at 424-3068 for a free brochure and to schedule a tour. If you don't have a physician, call Providence Hospital's physician referral service at 424-3999.

Big band sound comes to the area

By ANITA CRONE

The big band sounds are coming back to the Novi-Walled Lake area. The Glenn Miller Orchestra will perform June 5 on the deck at Key Largo on East Lake Drive in a benefit performance for Providence Hospital's neonatal intensive care unit.

The concert was the brainchild of Roger Kazanowski and his brother, Robert, whose son was born prematurely. Although it has been six years since the baby died, Roger Kazanowski said his brother always promised to repay the hospital for their efforts, in trying to save the baby.

The other reason for the concert is to promote the Walled Lake/Novi area and try to bring back the good times that were part of the Walled Lake Casino.

"That casino was known nationwide because of the types of entertainment that played there," said Kazanowski. "We wanted to bring that back and, after we bought Key Largo, it seemed like the perfect place to do it."

"Key Largo opened last summer to rave reviews and long lines," Kazanowski said, laughing. "We can laugh about it now, but when we opened, we didn't advertise because we wanted to iron out the kinks that usually crop up with a new restaurant. We opened on a weekday and the next night there was a two-hour wait for a table."

"Rapidly becoming known as a 'summer place' because of its deck and lakeside setting, Key Largo opened its deck area bar on May 18. Plans for the deck include live entertainment on Fridays and Saturdays and, if the attendance warrants, maybe on Wednesdays."

The famous name 'big band visits will be an annual event, providing the initial effort with the Glenn Miller Orchestra is successful, said Kazanowski.

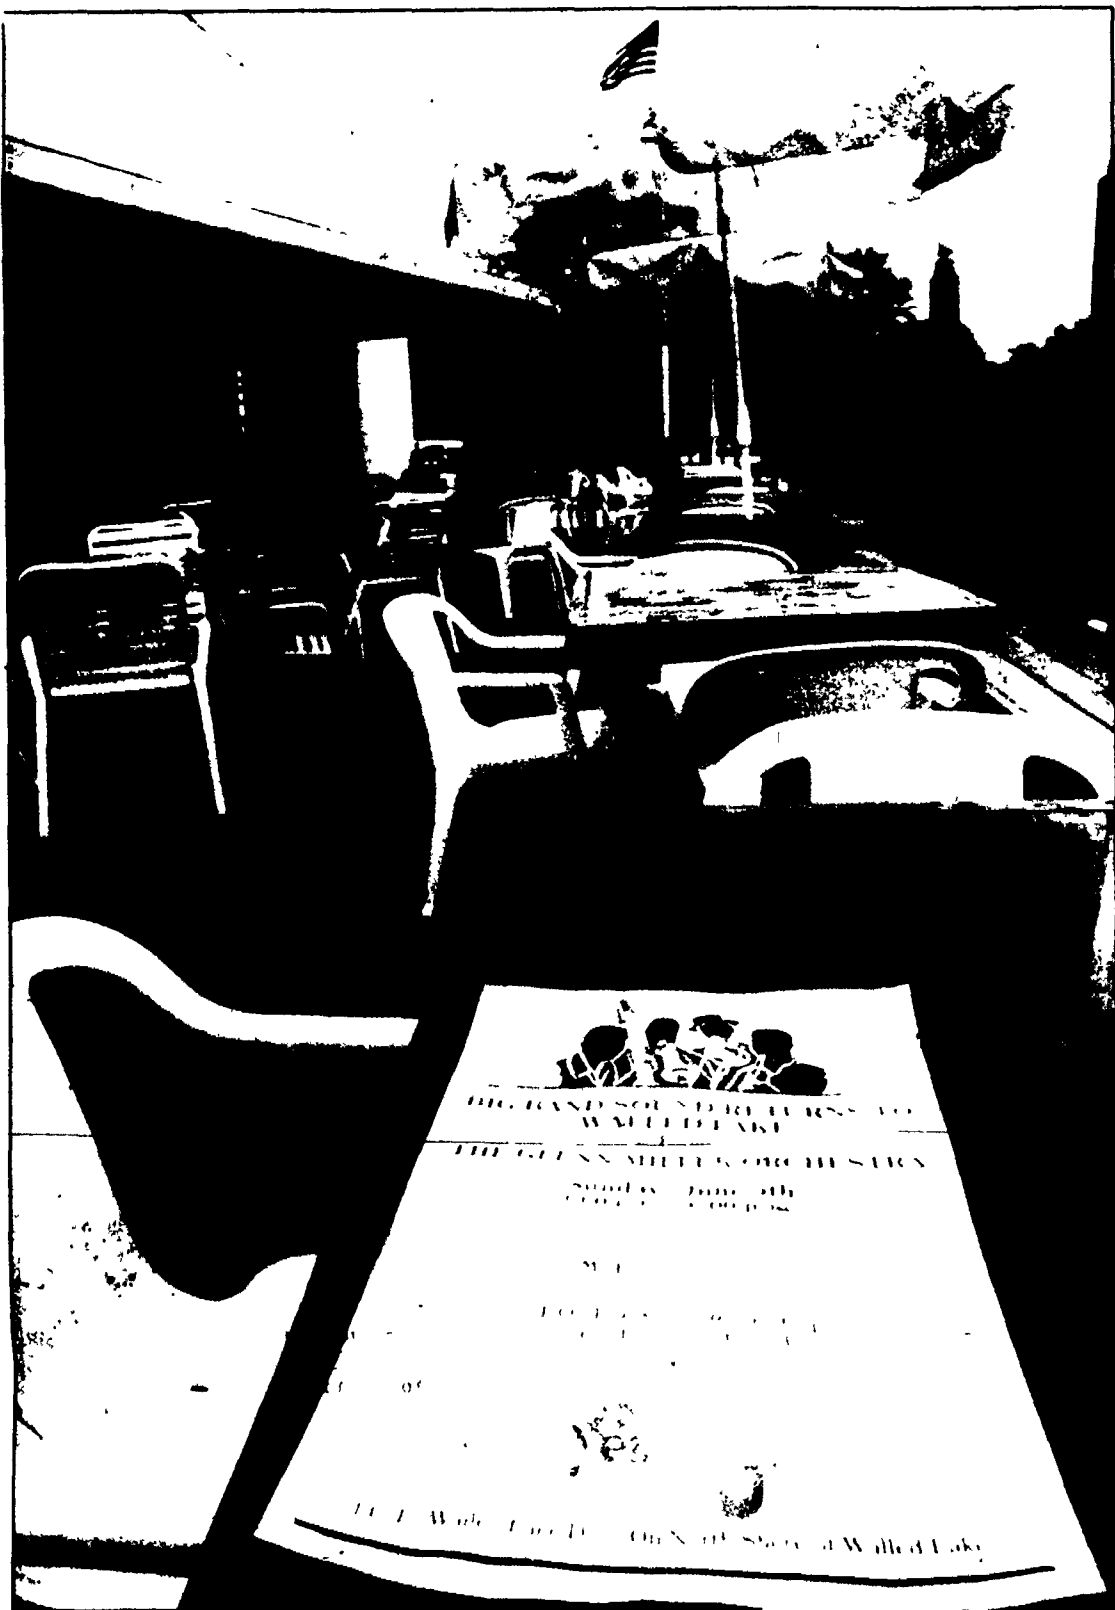

"One of the goals is to promote the restaurant, and this is a good way to do that. But we're also promoting the community. People will come to hear the Glenn Miller Orchestra and maybe see a community they haven't seen in a long time — see how it's changed and grown. Other people will be newcomers who only heard about the casino, but are too young to remember it."

Already Kazanowski's efforts are beginning to pay off. Tickets for the concert are going fast, even though a single ticket which includes a Moët Champagne brunch and reserved seating are $50 and a ticket without the brunch is $30.

The band that will play June 5 is not the original Glenn Miller Orchestra, which was one of the most successful bands of the Swing Era.

Miller disbanded his musical organization in 1942, when he entered the Army and then organized the Glenn Miller Army Air Force Band.

Miller himself was declared officially dead in 1945, one year after he took off in a single-engine plane bound for France from England and was never seen again.

The Glenn Miller Orchestra comes to Walled Lake next weekend

The current 19-member orchestra was formed in 1956 under the direction of drummer Ray McKinley, who had become the unofficial leader of the Army Air Force band after Miller's disappearance.

The band today, under the direction of Dick Gerhart, plays many of the original Miller arrangements, as well as some more modern music.

Kazanowski said that when he first conceived the idea of bringing a "name" band to Key Largo, he had a choice of the Duke Ellington Band or the Glenn Miller Orchestra. He opted for the orchestra because he thought it would appeal to the widest audience, and "quite frankly, it was slightly less expensive. Neither band was cheap."

Kicking off the afternoon's entertainment is the Dennis Tini quartet. The day's festivities begin at 1 p.m. Ticket information is available by calling 669-1441.

Schoolcraft to present 'Agnes of God'

Schoolcraft College's theater department will present John Pielmeier's drama "Agnes of God," a mystery that intertwines the lives of three women in a triangle of murder, faith and love.

Performances are scheduled for May 29 and June 3, 4 and 5. Tickets are $5. In addition, a dinner theater presentation is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, May 27 and 28. Tickets are $12.50.

Tickets are available at the college's bookstore. For more information call 591-6400, extension 265.

KOPIT PLAYS Ann Arbor Civic Theatre presents two plays by Arthur Kopit for the next three weekends.

The group will present "The Day the Whores Came Out to Play Tennis" and "Chamber Music" at 8 p.m. May 26, 27 and 28, and June 2, 3, 4, 9, 10 and 11.

Tickets are $5 or two for the price of one at the door on Thursdays. For ticket information and reservations call 662-7282.

Mini circus displayed

Billed as the "biggest little show on earth," the Howard Bros. Circus is one man's tribute to the great traveling circuses of the '20s and '30s — and it's on display at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn all this year.

Occupying 7,000 square feet of museum space, the exhibit is made of a 30-year collection of more than one million miniature pieces on a scale of three-quarters of an inch to one foot. The display recreates every conceivable aspect of circus life, from the high wire acts, to the hijinks of small boys trying to sneak in for free, to the back lot where 1,600 miniature employees eat, don costumes, practice or relax.

The exhibit is the work of Howard Tibbals, who hand-built, collected or supervised the construction of all the pieces in the miniature circus. The circus has appeared at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tennessee, the National Geographic Society's Explorers Hall in Washington, D.C., and the Rochester (N.Y.) Museum and Science Center. It will be on display in Dearborn throughout 1988.

Mustangs nab first ever title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Teamwork has been a major factor in the Northville softball team's great success this season, so it was very appropriate that everyone contributed when the squad captured its first-ever WLAA Western Division title.

The Mustangs (9-1 in division play) grabbed the crown with a convincing 10-1 win over Farmington Harrison on May 20, and it was an overpowering hitting attack and the usually strong pitching and defense that did the trick.

"The girls were very proud of themselves, knowing it was the first division title for softball," coach Bob Gerlach said. "We set the goal before the season and the kids worked hard to get it — they deserved it."

Northville scored one in the first, four in the third and five more in the sixth to wrap up the victory. The hitting stars were Jeanine LaPrad (three runs scored), Karen Baird (2-for-4 with four RBIs and two runs scored) and pitcher Amy Freimund (2-for-4).

Freimund was fantastic again on the mound, but that is almost expected after such a strong junior season. She fanned five, walked three and allowed just two hits and has now given up just one earned run in the last eight WLAA games. For the season, her earned run average in conference play is a minuscule 1.23.

The Mustangs' showdown with Westland John Glenn took place May 24 (after Record deadline). Both teams were tied for first place in the conference race with 13-2 records heading into the game, so the winner will grab sole possession of the championship.

NORTHVILLE 2-6, LIVONIA STEVENSON 1-5: The Mustangs got two steps closer to the WLAA crown with a doubleheader sweep over the Spartans.

Northville won game one the way they've been winning a lot of games this season — with great pitching from Freimund. Down 1-0, the Mustangs scored twice in the fourth on RBI hits by Kincer and Leslie Wendel and it stood up.

Freimund scattered four hits, struck out seven and walked two.

"We've been getting by with great pitching and solid defense all season long," Gerlach said. "It's nothing new to us — if we don't hit, we don't panic."

Rozann Staknis pitched the second game and was well supported by a much more effective offense. Northville broke a 2-2 tie with a two-run rally in the third and then matched Stevenson run for run down the stretch, including the game-winner in the bottom of the seventh. Megan Abraham ended a hitting slump and led the Mustangs with two hits in three tries.

NORTHVILLE 13, YPSILANTI 1: In a pre-district game of the MHSAA Class A Tournament, the Mustangs travelled to Ypsilanti and crushed the host team unmercifully. The game was so lopsided, it was called after five innings as the mercy rule was invoked.

"It was probably our best hitting performance," coach Bob Gerlach said. "We were smacking the ball all over the place and we earned all the runs this time. We didn't get any help from walks or errors."

Northville scored two in the first inning, five in the third and six in the fourth en route to the triumph. Nanci Dutkiewicz (2-for-4, two RBIs) and Baird (two RBIs, one double) led the 14-hit Mustang attack. Every player in the line-up had at least one hit.

Freimund allowed just one earned run and three hits and fanned four to notch her 15th pitching victory of the season. Northville now moves one more step in district play with the win, and will host South Lyon on May 27 at 2 p.m. for the right to advance to Brighton for the district finals.

SOUTH LYON 5, NORTHVILLE 4: Gerlach had a feeling his team would eventually face the Lions in the MHSAA tournament, so when the two teams met in a non-conference clash on May 18, he decided not to pitch Freimund.

Things started out well for the locals as they scored twice in both the first and second innings on a pair of two-run doubles by Kerry Bulin and Baird, but South Lyon came back to tie the score at 4-4 in the bottom of the second. The scored remained deadlocked until the Lions pushed a run across the plate in the bottom of the ninth to win it.

"This was really the first game of the year that we threw away," Gerlach said. "We blew a 4-0 lead but if you're going to do it, it's better to give it away against a non-conference team."

Rozann Staknis started the game and pitched well. Baird led the attack with three hits and two RBIs in four plate appearances.

McCumber wins at Meadowbrook

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Thousands of golf fans refused to let a steady drizzle dampen their fun last Monday (May 23) during the Metro Buick Dealer's Charity Golf Classic, held at Northville's Meadowbrook Country Club.

Spectators from Metro Detroit and beyond came to see over a dozen professionals team up with nearly 60 amateurs to raise money for the St. Vincent Sarah Fisher Center and the Evans Scholarship Foundation for caddies. There were several local amateurs from Northville and Novi trying to match the pros stroke for stroke but as expected, they weren't very successful.

Medalist honors among the professionals went to Mark McCumber, 36, from Middleburg, Fla. McCumber — who's been on the PGA tour for 11 years and has career earnings in excess of $1.6 million — carded a four under par 32-36 — 68 to edge three others by a stroke. The amateur foursome sponsored by Hershiser Properties took first-place honors as a team. Orel Hershiser Sr. of Northville, Robert Forte, James Ninowski and George Valassis combined for an 18-under 54 while teamed with professional Don Pooley.

Tournament organizers were expecting a crowd of somewhere between 4-5,000 but early estimates indicate that the numbers were much lower — about 2,500. Most attribute the turn out to poor weather and the fact that this was the first event of its type in the Detroit area in several years and the first ever at Meadowbrook.

Despite the wet weather and difficult pin placements on nearly every hole, the amateurs all seemed to have a good time. Novi High School graduate Tom Celani was a member of a team sponsored by All-State Fasteners and played the round with 1987 Buick Open Champion Robert Wrenn. Celani's team ended up in second place among the amateurs with a 15-under 57.

"This is great," Celani said as he approached the No. 7 tee. "It's a real treat to play with a pro. They are very obliging and they are very willing to help you. I'm not playing so well right now but I'm still having a great time."

Wrenn shot an even par 35-37 — 72 for the round and was constantly helping the All State squad chart putts and formulate strategy. His only complaint with the course was the difficult pin placements.

"Stevie Wonder must have set these pins," he laughed. "Some are like putting into the side of a mountain — they are very tough."

"But other than that, I really like this course. It's a good layout and it's in excellent shape. I've never played here before but I like the old-style courses like this."

The largest group of spectators followed Payne Stewart around the course and stayed with his group even when the rains came at noontime. Stewart — easily recognizable in his old-fashioned golfing attire — ended the round with a 34-35 — 69, which tied Pooley (34-35 — 69) and Steve Pate (34-35 — 69) for second place behind McCumber.

A group of Northville amateurs teamed up for the Premiere Video squad and included locals like Larry Bennett, Martin Padmos and John Padmos. The team played the round with professional Wayne Levi and ended up placing third with a 14-under 58. Levi was one of seven pros who failed to reach par (36-37 — 73).

Boys track team tops WLW to win first conference meet

It took a while but the Northville boys track team finally won a WLAA dual meet.

The Mustangs took 11 firsts en route to an easy 89-48 triumph over Walled Lake Western on May 18, which raised the team's record to 3-5 overall, 1-3 in the WLAA.

"Western isn't very strong but we had some good performances and that's what I'm looking for," Northville Coach Dennis Faletti said.

Chris Kuffner and Mark Kiraly were the only double-winners for the Mustangs. Kuffner took honors in the shot put (40'-4") and discus (135'-11") while Kiraly was the winner in the 100 (11.6) and 200-meter dashes (23.9). The rest of the Northville victories came from Jeff Cross and John Hacker — who tied for first in the high jump (5'-8") — Shawn Starkweather in the pole vault (11'-0"), Todd Feliks in the 110 hurdles (15.8), Cory Robinson in the 300 hurdles (44.7), Steve Austin in the 400 (53.6) and three of the four relay events. The winning 400 relay featured Kiraly, Todd Daniels, Steve Ventura and Rick Subotich (46.6); the 1,600 relay included Ventura, Al Kuljurgis, Austin and Subotich (3:35.6) and the 3,200 team sported Karl Siegert, Jay Griffith, Scott Sinkwitts and John Frisbie (8:52.8).

The second place finishes came from Kuljurgis in the high jump (5'-8"), Austin in the long jump (19'-7 1/2"), Joe Ferry in the pole vault (9'-0"), Robinson in the 110 hurdles (16.6), Greg Price in the 300 hurdles (47.4), Sinkwitts in the 800 (2:04.3) and Frisbie in the 1,600 (4:31.9). The third-place finishers included Derek Forbing in the shot put (36'-0"), Bob Dudley in the discus (123'-0"), Kul-jurgis in the long jump (18'-6 1/4"), John Okasinski in the pole vault (8'-0"), Daniels in the 100 (12.0) and 200 (24.9), Siegert in the 400 (55.5), Griffith in the 800 (2:08.2), Mike Nuechterlien in the 1,600 (4:59.9) and Jason Hoose in the 3,200 (12:12.8).

"I don't look at the places as much as I look at the performances and I was happy with what I saw," Faletti said.

MHSAA CLASS A REGIONAL: Only one Mustang performer — John Frisbie — qualified for the state meet on May 20 at Milford, but Faletti was pleased that Northville was well represented in the finals of the 18-team Regional and that his team showed some season-best performances.

Frisbie registered his career-best time in the 3,200-meter run (9:42.3) and that was enough to give him third place honors and a trip to the states. The other Mustangs in the finals (top six) were Chris Kuffner in the discus and the 3,200 relay team of Austin, Griffith, Frisbie and Sinkwitts. Kuffner placed sixth overall with a 139'-4" effort in the finals and the relay team placed fourth in a time of 8:17.2.

Mark Kiraly made it to the semifinals of the 100-yard dash and ended up placing seventh (10.47), just missing the finals by less than a second. The 400 relay team of Kiraly, Daniels, Ventura and Subotich didn't place but did register a season-best time of 45.9. The 1,600 relay team of Austin, Griffith, Frisbie and Sinkwitts also notched their best time of the season with a 3:32.8.

"We did quite a bit better than we have at regionals the past few years, so that's nice," Faletti said. "I thought we did quite well."

RECREATION BRIEFS

BICYCLE SAFETY: There will be a bicycle safety and licensing clinic held on June 4 from 10 a.m. to noon in the Northville Downs Parking Lot. For more information, please call 349-0203.

ADULT BASKETBALL: The registration deadline for the adult summer basketball league will be on June 10 at 4 p.m. Returning teams will be guaranteed a spot if registered by May 31.

Entry fee is $195 per team. In addition, each team pays $15 each game for officials. Games will be held on Sunday evenings at the Northville Community Center. The season starts June 19 and runs through Aug. 21.

TENNIS LESSONS: Northville Community Recreation is offering group tennis lessons this spring at the Fish Hatchery tennis courts. Classes for all ages and levels are available weekend evenings. Call the Community Center for registrations.

OPEN GYM HOURS: The Northville Community Center open gymnasium hours are as follows:

Monday — 2:30-6 p.m., adults only from 6-8 p.m.
Tuesday — 2:30-5:30 p.m.

OPEN SWIMMING: Open swimming at Northville High School will continue through June 15. Open swimming hours will be: Monday-Thursday (7:30-9 p.m.) and Saturday (noon-1 p.m.). The adult swim lap will be Monday through Thursday from 7:30-9 p.m.

FREE FISHING WEEKEND: Michigan travelers will be able to fish free anywhere in Michigan — the inland streams, rivers and lakes, or Great Lakes waters — during the third annual Free Fishing Weekend, June 11-12.

Frequently touted as "some of the greatest fisheries in the United States," Michigan's 11,000 lakes and 36,000 miles of rivers and streams will play host to beginning anglers and veterans alike, during a promotion of one of the state's most popular sports. The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) is sponsoring the event, which is held simultaneously with National Fishing Week.

Although anglers are not required to have a fishing license or trout-salmon stamp during the two-day free fishing festival, normal fishing rules and regulations will apply.

For more information contact the Fisheries Division of DNR at (517) 373-1280. For information on fishing conditions around the state, call the conditions hotline, (517) 373-0908.

WRESTLING CLUB: The Michigan Wrestling Club invites all high school and former college wrestlers in the area to train at Schoolcraft College each Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8:30-10 p.m. in the Olympic styles.

For more information, call John Wood at 397-1776.

Short-handed trackers fall to Warriors

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Mike Webb hasn't had the luxury of fielding a full squad very often during his tenure as the Northville girls' track coach.

Injuries, illnesses, vacations and any other problem imaginable has seemed to haunt him throughout. So when the Mustangs lost a close WLAA dual meet to Walled Lake Western, 70-58 on May 18, his team was — not surprisingly — short-handed again.

This time the squad was without several key performers in the sprint events and Webb believes it cost Northville a victory.

"We could have probably won if we'd have had at least one of our top sprinters healthy," he said. "We got beat in the two sprint relays and I'm sure we'd have won it if we'd had (Christi) Lenaghan or (Wendy) Davis. The youngsters who filled in put up a good fight but we still took a beating in those races."

Lenaghan was ill so Webb kept her out of the action. Davis did run in the 100-meter dash but aggravated a leg injury and had to sit out the rest of the meet. Senior Erin Holmberg was the only real sprinter left after that.

Katie Brugman grabbed points for Northville in the shot put and discus, but was the only Mustang to do so. The senior was first in the shot put (career-best 29'3") and second in the discus (91'2"). The rest of the Northville firsts included Leigh Bills in the 300 hurdles (59.4), Robin McDuffie in the 400 (69.0), Jennifer Goshorn in the 800 (2:53.02), Lisa Brown in the 3,200 (13:51) and both distance relays. The 1,600 team of McDuffie, Cathy Page, Holmberg and Goshorn placed first (4:44) and so did the 3,200 team featuring Brugman, Kelly Frederick, Page and Goshorn.

season push in the distance events with a pair of seconds in the 1,600 (6:00) and the 3,200 (13:51.4). The only other second came from Megan Holmberg in the 800 (2:53.33). The Mustang thirds were registered by Page in the long jump (14'-3/4), Davis in the 100 (14.2), Brugman in the 800 (2:59) and Brown in the 1,600 (6:05).

"I think everybody did well," Webb said. "The times weren't real great but the girls did the best they can and that's the main thing."

MHSAA CLASS A REGIONAL: There wasn't much to report about when Northville competed in regional competition on May 20 at Milford. The Mustangs failed to put a single competitor in the finals.

"I was basically looking for good performances," Webb pointed out. "The only one that even came close to placing (top six) was Lenaghan and she got into the semifinals. I didn't expect to see any of our girls in the finals because we were running against huge schools like Ann Arbor Pioneer and they are one of the top teams in the state."

Lenaghan's 12.4 clocking in the 100-meter dash was fast enough to get her into the semifinals (top 12) but she didn't advance beyond that. Northville did, however, sport several outstanding performances, like Brugman's 29'-3/4" effort in the shot put, which was yet another personal best. Kendra Huard had her career-best in the 200 (29.6) and the 3,200 relay team of Brugman, Frederick, Megan Holmberg and Goshorn shaved several seconds off their previous best. The team's 10:59 marked the first time the group has been under 11 minutes.

The Mustangs (1-8 overall, 0-5 in the WLAA) will wrap up the regular season tonight (May 26) on the road against Plymouth Canton.

John Padmos, 25, was one of the most impressive amateurs on the course as he played Levi stroke for stroke on several holes. A large gallery surrounded the tee at No. 1, and after his group completed the first hole, Padmos gave a sigh of relief.

"I'm glad the first hole is over," he said. "Having all those people looking at you can get you nervous. I've never played in front of this many people."

"But I'm a member here so I know the course very well and I'm confident I can do O.K. It's a lot of fun to play with (Levi) but I haven't been able to observe how he plays because I'm more worried about myself and what I need to do."

When Levi knocked in a 25-foot putt for a birdie on the par five 549-yard second hole, a spectator took a jab at the greenkeeper for his pin placements.

"That will show our greenkeeper," he said. "All that's missing on these greens is the windmills."

Mike McGuffin — Novi's All-Area kicker last fall — was lucky enough to caddle for Fred Couples, and the 28-year-old Californian impressed him as a player and as a person.

"He really wales on the ball," McGuffin marvelled after Couples sent another drive into orbit. "I can't believe how hard he hits it and is still in complete control of where it goes."

"Plus he seems to be a great guy."

Couples had his problems, however, and ended up in a tie for 11th place at three over par (38-37 — 75) with Clarence Rose (35-40 — 75) and Andy Soley (37-38 — 75), the head pro at Meadowbrook. Just like most of the professionals, Rose had flown into Michigan from Fort Worth, Texas a few hours prior to the event following the final round of the Colonial National Invitational on May 22. Rose had a three-stroke lead in that tournament heading into the final day but ended up placing fifth overall.

The final group of golfers — sponsored by AT&T — included PGA veteran Hal Sutton, who probably had the most impressive resume of any golfer in attendance. In seven years on the tour, Sutton has seven PGA victories and career earnings of more than $2.2 million. Included in his victory list is the 1983 PGA Championship and the 1986 Memorial Tournament.

For the day, Sutton carded a one-over par 35-38 — 73, but just like most of the latter groups, he had to play much of his round in the rain.

"With the weather and the pin placements, it's been a very defensive round of golf for me," Sutton said. "The course is good — it's got a nice layout — but it has some blind shots so you have to know where you're going."

"The only complaint I have is the pins. It's not so bad for us (professionals), but for the rest of the guys it's tough to have fun when you constantly battling the greens. I've played in a lot of these kinds of events and I've never seen the pin placements so difficult."

The rest of the professional field included Roger Maltbie (34-37 — 71), Danny Edwards (35-36 — 71), Dan Pohl (35-38 — 73) from Mount Pleasant, and Evan (Big Cat) Williams (40-38 — 78) from Rochester.

Mustangs of the Week

KAREN BAIRD

JEFF WESLEY

Karen Baird was a standout on the soccer field for the Mustangs and now she's a standout on the softball field. Northville Coach Bob Gerlach is very happy she made the switch to softball this season because she's been one of his team's top run producers — she's also one of our "Mustangs of the Week." In a 10-1 win over Farmington Harrison that clinched the division title for Northville, Baird was 2-for-4 with 4 RBIs and two runs scored. In a 13-1 pre-district win over Ypsilanti, Baird had two key RBIs and in a 5-4 loss to South Lyon, the junior shortstop was 3-for-4 with two runs batted in.

Jeff Wesley and his No. 1 doubles partner Ken Spigarelli were the stars of the 1988 tennis season at Northville. The duo had the best record of any flight (18-4) during the regular season and were the most successful in the post-season tournaments, and that's why Wesley has been chosen as a "Mustang of the Week." At the WLSAA Meet on May 17, Wesley and Spigarelli advanced to the semifinals before falling to a team from Plymouth Salem. Three days later, they were the only Northville flight to make it to the semifinals of the MHSAA Class A regionals. "They carried our team as far as consistent wins," Coach Dick Norton said.

Soccer: Express cruise, 5-0

BOYS UNDER 16: Lance Bethell's goal was one of the few bright spots in United's 5-1 loss to Livonia No. 9. Chris Melvin was the defender of the week. Livonia No. 3 blanked Northville Arsenal 3-0. Brett Inman and Jeff Gorman were honored for their fine play. The Northville Express got two goals each from Hammond and Ryan Reisman en route to a 5-2 shut out victory over Livonia No. 1. Chris Bak and Jed Myers started the winners. The Hot Spots and Plymouth No. 3 battled to a scoreless tie. Nick Kothari, Clark Wormer and Nick Johnson were the Spurs' MVP. The Northville Sting played Kensington to a 1-1 tie. Michael Linker and Chris Luebke were the defensive and offensive MVPs respectively.

GIRLS UNDER 18: Gwen Osborne tallied a goal and it was just enough to help Northville Arsenal salvage a 1-1 tie with Livonia No. 3. Amy Cole, Amanda Holderman and Jenny Keeler were the standout players for Arsenal. Plymouth No. 2 topped Northville United 3-1. Amy Heckemeyer scored the only goal for United. The Northville Express was awarded a victory over Plymouth No. 1 on a forfeit.

GIRLS UNDER 12: Jodi Fischer scored a goal and it was enough to propel Arsenal to a 1-0 win over Novi No. 1. Trudy Warburg was the defensive MVP for Arsenal. The Northville Express got goals from Julie Cipicchio and Anita Wilhelm to edge Farmington No. 2 2-1. Karlyn Veres and Amy Patricia were the MVPs for the winning team. Huron Valley No. 1 trounced Northville United 3-0. Melissa Michaels and Angie Snyder were honored for their play.

BOYS UNDER 14: Ken Schultz scored three times and Pat Kennedy added another as Northville United stopped South Lyon 4-3. Rob Nelson and Andy Woodrich were the MVPs for United. In a cross town battle, The Northville Rowdies edged the Northville Express 3-2. Chris Barbara and Adam Davis scored for the Express. Arsenal nipped Plymouth No. 1, 1-0 on a goal by Brandon Cuadra. Mike Hamilton notched the shut out in goal for Arsenal.

GIRLS UNDER 14: The Northville Express-Birmingham No. 1 match was cancelled due to rain. Northville United topped the Northville Rowdies 4-3 in a hard fought match. Stephanie Neff scored the winning goal in the last minute of the game. Bethanie MacLean paced the Rowdies with two goals. South Lyon turned back Northville Arsenal 2-1. Kristen Brown scored Arsenal's only goal and the MVPs were Kathy Gesdorf and Suzi Morton.

BOYS UNDER 16: Northville Arsenal received two goals from Dave Smith and single goals from Justin Marr and Steve Lang on the way to a 4-1 triumph over Plymouth No. 1. Jeremy Lawrence and Paul Hodgins were the game's MVPs.

Kickers tune-up for tourney with win

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville kickers wanted to end the regular season with a stiff challenge in order to be better prepared for the upcoming MHSAA state playoffs. And Ann Arbor Pioneer was more than happy to oblige.

The two teams hooked up on May 17 in the non-conference clash at Northville and the Mustangs were relieved, and maybe even a little lucky, to come away with a hard fought 2-1 victory. Actually, the match wasn't as close as the score indicates, but the sixth-ranked Mustangs still had to battle the Pioneers for a solid 80 minutes.

"We controlled pretty much the entire game but we couldn't put the ball in the darn net," Northville Coach Stan Smalec commented. "Pioneer was 8-1 heading into the match and they have a nice program."

"Our kids had to play hard but we got everybody in. A game like this is far, far better for us than a game where we win 10-0."

The Mustangs never trailed in the game, but Pioneer was never very far behind. The first goal of the match came at the 20-minute mark of the first half from Marcie Dart. The freshman halfback took passes from Abby Edwards and Jennifer Schuerman prior to the score. It remained 1-0 at halftime.

Northville scored the winning goal 23-minutes into the second half as Heather Sixt fed Schuerman and she scored on a three-on-one breakaway.

"It was a clean pass off a direct kick that was trapped nicely and then Schuerman, Jodi (Smalec) and (Heidi) Wagner all made a break for the goal," Smalec explained. "With the two decoys on the wings, Jennifer went right up the middle and beat the goalie."

Pioneer's lone goal came with about 26 seconds left in the match on a goal by All-Stater Yolandra Marino.

"It came on a breakdown on the defense," Smalec said. "People left their marks, but those things happen in a long game."

For the game, Northville outshot Pioneer 25-10. Despite the win, the Mustangs suffered several minor injuries to some key players including Jodi Smalec (ankle), but the coach believes all players will be healthy and ready for district play this week.

"I thought Shannon Loper did a nice job at her halfback position," Smalec said. "Michelle McQuaid and Jennifer Howland also did a nice job at fullback."

STATISTICS: Scoring goals hasn't been as much of a problem this season as it has been other years for the Mustangs. Senior Jodi Smalec — the coach's daughter — paced all scorers during the regular season with 21 goals and 19 assists in 16 games. It was one of the most prolific scoring seasons for any player in Northville history.

"It's a lot of goals but the thing I'm really impressed with is all those assists," Smalec said. "It means Jodi was involved in a whole lot of our scoring."

Jennifer Schuerman, who led the team a year ago with 15 goals, was second on the team with 17 goals and six assists. Jenny Stevens was third with eight goals, six assists.

"Those three have done quite well but that's a tribute to the halfbacks and fullbacks who move the ball up and control the game. You need the passes to score."

Sophomore goaltender Kristi Turner also has some sterling numbers after her first regular season as a starter. Turner allowed just nine goals in 16 games (.56 average per game) and registered 10 shut outs.

"Kristi has been outstanding but you also need to credit Heather Sixt and her defensive crew," Smalec pointed out. "They do an outstanding job back there."

Baseball: Pirates top Twins

H. LEAGUE: On May 7, the Pirates came back from an early deficit to beat the Twins 11-4. Mark Sander paced the winners with two home runs. Robbie Norton also belted out two hits while the Pirates pitchers held the Twins in check. The Pirates broke open a 6-4 game with a five-run rally in the fifth inning.

On May 11, the Pirates tied the Braves to one hit and cruised to an easy 10-0 victory. Pitchers Mark Sander and Dave McCulloch teamed up for the one-hitter. Sander, Jared Swart, James Damico, Robbie Norton and Chuck Yessan each delivered key base hits for the Pirates. The Astros crushed the Padres 10-0 on May 12. Scott Holloway was the winning pitcher and Brett Inman paced the offense with a home run. The Blue Jays broke a 2-2 tie with five runs in the third inning and went on to beat the Expos 15-5 on May 14. Todd Roberts had an outstanding outing with three doubles in three plate appearances and five RBIs. Bobby Buck, A.J. Istan and Ross Baker each chipped in with two hits and two runs. Bill Rondell (2-for-3, 2 RBIs) tied the Expos.

G. LEAGUE: The Padres defeated the Pirates 11-10 on May 14. Paul Herten was the winning pitcher and Ryan McKenna notched the save with sparkling relief in the last inning. Paul Donnelly hit a home run for the Padres. The Astros survived a five-run rally in the fourth and ended up beating the Angels 14-8 on May 14. Steve Christensen led the Astros with a home run and four RBIs. The winning pitcher was Neil Yaele, who allowed just one run in three innings of work and fanned five. Marc Chaisson scored three runs as 10 different Astros crossed the plate in the game.

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If the Northville netters proved anything while competing at conference and regional tournaments last week, it was that they are competitive. The Mustangs didn't have any WLAA champs and didn't have any players advance individually to the state meet, but coach Dick Norton's crew had a lot of success nonetheless.

At the 12-team WLAA Meet on May 17 at Livonia Stevenson, Northville placed sixth overall and sported first-round winners in six of the seven flights.

"It went pretty well," Norton said. "We didn't get any points at No. 2 singles but that was the only one. It's pleasing to see most of the guys have some success in this meet. I always like to see them get at least one win so they can feel good about themselves."

Northville's top doubles duo of Ken Spigarelli and Jeff Wesley were the only ones to make it into the semifinals. Seeded fourth, the Spigarelli/Wesley team got a bye in round one, nipped Scott Sheik and Dave Anderson 6-4, 5-7, 7-6 in the next round but then eventually lost in the third round to Plymouth Salem's Scott Hobbs and Matt Lore (3-6, 3-6).

The No. 2 doubles team featuring Chad Bosscher and Matt Oliver won their first match but lost in round two to another team from Salem. Todd Booth and Mike Mathes (No. 3) also won in the first round but fell to Stevenson's Allan Paterson and Bob Dimitrov.

In singles, Doug Kamieniecki (No. 1) won his first round match when Franklin's Paul Fujimoto suffered an injury and couldn't play, but was promptly crushed by North Farmington's Josh Hoffman in the next round. Third singles player Kurt Reickel beat Walled Lake Western's Brian Carpenter in round one but suffered a 1-6, 0-6 defeat to Scott Smith of Franklin. Jeff Gursky (No. 4) also advanced to the second round but was knocked out by North Farmington's Joe Howitt (2-6, 3-6).

Plymouth Canton ended up winning the team title, North Farmington was second, Stevenson third, Farmington Harrison fourth and Livonia Franklin fifth.

At the MHSAA Class A Regional on May 20 at Ann Arbor Pioneer, the Mustangs continued to be very competitive and ended up placing fifth in a field of 15 teams. This time, all seven Northville players managed first round victories and that alone had Norton in a good mood.

"I was very pleased with it," he said. "We got a couple very good draws and that helps but I thought all the guys did very well."

Again, the Spigarelli/Wesley duo were the only ones to survive past the second round. After wins over teams from Churchill and Temperance Bedford in the first two rounds, Spigarelli and Wesley advanced to the semifinals before falling to Ann Arbor Huron's Chuck Watts and John Buatti (1-6, 4-6).

Bosscher and Oliver won big in the first round over a twosome from Romulus but then lost to Ann Arbor Pioneer's Brock Hastie and Bob Serr (1-6, 1-6). The No. 3 team of Booth and Mathes beat a Novi team early but were then knocked out by John Lutz and Greg Peterson (4-6, 2-6) of Brighton.

In singles, Kamieniecki advanced to round two with an early victory but then fell to Canton's Mike Burt (3-6, 0-6), the tourney's number three seed.

Northville baseballers fall to 8-15 with three defeats

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville baseballers have been just a few breaks away from turning around a season that's featured numerous close defeats. And coach Bob Frellick is confident it will happen eventually.

Unfortunately, the season may end before that happens. In action last week, the Mustangs continued to play pretty well but also continued to lose the close, competitive games. In four outings Northville managed just one victory — an impressive 5-4 decision over Farmington Harrison on May 20 — but the squad's record dropped to 8-15 overall, 6-8 in the WLAA.

"We had another strong week," Frellick said. "These kids are playing outstanding ball, we're just not getting the breaks."

The Mustangs trailed most of the game against Harrison but came up with two runs in the top of the seventh on a clutch homer by catcher Mike Yard and held on for the victory. Starter Todd Ebersole went the distance and grabbed the win. He allowed 11 big hits but gave up just four earned runs, struck out four and walked one.

"Harrison had just come off beating (Plymouth) Salem so they are a very solid team," Frellick said. "They'll do well in the Class B state tournament."

Northville scored twice in the first on just one hit to take a brief lead but the Hawks came back to tie it in the bottom of the inning on the strength of four hits. Harrison then took the lead with single runs in the second and third innings and held onto a 4-3 lead into the seventh.

After a base hit by Jim Willerer, Yard cranked his game-winning home run over the fence in left field and Ebersole sent the Hawks down in order in the bottom of the inning to preserve the victory.

"It was a clutch hit by Yard," Frellick said. "It was nice to see because it finally gave us a win in a close one."

Brian Frellick (2-for-4) was the only Mustang with multiple hits.

"We had another strong week. These kids are playing outstanding ball, we're just not getting the breaks. I keep telling the kids to give it all they have and the breaks will come."

— Bob Frellick
Mustang Baseball Coach

LIVONIA STEVENSON 8-7, NORTHVILLE 5-3: A doubleheader loss to Livonia Stevenson on May 16 very well could have been a split or a sweep for the Mustangs, according to Frellick.

In game one, Northville erased a 2-0 deficit with a big five-run rally in the third. Willerer, Randy Jones, Derek Osborne, Mike Yard and Dave Strange all had hits in the inning. But the Spartans regained the lead for good in the fifth and won it going away. Stevenson scored two runs in each of the final three innings.

"(Stevenson) seemed to get most of their hits with runners in scoring position and we didn't," Frellick said.

Both teams had 10 hits in the game but Steve Nigro allowed five earned runs in a little over four innings of work and suffered the loss. Yard (3-for-4) and Jones (2-for-3) paced the Northville attack.

In the nightcap, the Spartans jumped in front 3-0 after two innings and never trailed. Northville did score twice in the third and once more in the fourth but Stevenson tallied four more in the last four innings off starter Brad Wheeler.

Wheeler was actually the victim of some poor fielding. In six innings, he allowed four earned runs and scattered seven hits but the Mustangs were tagged with three costly errors. "Only four of their runs were earned so we hurt ourselves with errors," Frellick said. "Wheeler pitched a pretty strong game."

Jones went 2-for-3 in game two to wrap up a fine doubleheader. For the day he was 4-for-6.

and Steve Ross later scored on an RBI double by Dave Skown.

But in the second, the Mustangs came back to take a brief lead with a three-run rally that included hits by Eddie Walsh and Osborne and a couple walks.

Novi eased in front 4-3 with two more runs in the fourth on hits by Brian Schram, Eric Schneider and Wladishkin, but Northville knotted it again with a run in the top of the seventh when Walsh reached base on an error and scored on a single by Dave Strange.

The winning run came in the bottom of the inning. Wladishkin came through again with a key hit and Ross delivered a sacrifice that scored Matt Chirgwin, who led off with a walk.

Wladishkin was the hitting star for Novi as he went 3-for-4. No Mustang player had more than one hit but Walsh led the way with two runs scored.

"It's always nice to beat a rival like Northville," Novi Coach Gar Frantz commented. "It means a lot to the seniors especially."

Chasing the American Dream

From Taiwan's shores, the Songs have worked hard and long to give their family a life without struggle

In 1963, 825 Taiwanese natives, most of them students and their families, most of them seeking a better life, immigrated to the United States, leaving behind family and friends.

Through the years, those immigrants followed the American dream, working and studying to prove they were worthy of the opportunity America offered.

One of those young people was Winston Song, then known as Ching, who left his brothers and sisters, father and mother behind in search of a master's degree at an American university and a dream of a better opportunity for the family he would one day have.

But to turn those dreams into reality took hours of hard work, learning a new language to go along with the Taiwanese and Mandarin he already spoke, and striving to find acceptance in his new land.

Winston worked hard, earning a master's degree from the University of Nebraska and a second master's from Washington University in St. Louis. But even with the degrees, both in engineering, Winston Song said he still finds English difficult to speak and America and its customs sometimes difficult to understand.

Even today, 17 years after he arrived, Song says that he still is looked upon as a foreigner at the Ford Motor Co., where he works. But he has sworn that his children, Ellen, a seventh-grader at Meads Mill Middle School and Andrew, a fourth-grader at Amerman, will not have to struggle.

The children do not struggle. Both are near the top of their class academically, and Ellen Song admits academics come easily, despite the four-to-six-hours she and Andrew spend at Chinese school every Saturday, the music lessons they take and the hours spent practicing as members of the American Youth Symphony.

Winston Song beams at his children, knowing that despite their obvious Asian features, they are real Americans.

"That is the reason I came to this country," said Winston Song. "I did not want the children to have the difficulties I had. It is very difficult to get into the university in Taiwan, no matter how hard you study."

Song and his wife, Jennie, who he returned to Taiwan to marry, both have Taiwanese university degrees. Jenny is one of the many volunteer teachers at the Chinese school, held each Saturday at Schoolcraft College.

Andrew Song and others practice martial arts exercises (below) while Ellen (right) rehearses a traditional Chinese dance after Chinese school, which they attend on Saturdays. After Chinese school, which is held at Schoolcraft College, Ellen and friends (far below) talk in the hall.

There, members of the Wayne, Washtenaw and Oakland county Chinese communities get together. The students learn to write and speak Chinese, learn about their culture and the country that many of the youngsters have never seen.

The Songs, though, have been to Taiwan and Ellen says she hopes to go again.

"I was excited to see Taiwan," said Andrew. "I had heard about it, and I knew we had relatives there, but seeing it was special."

Ellen said she had little difficulty communicating with her Taiwanese relatives. "We speak Taiwanese at home, so it wasn't much different there," she said.

For Winston and Jenny, though, the trip home was difficult. "My mother is there and each time I see her, we realize that it could be the last time," he said. "But she realizes that moving to the United States was something that I had to do."

Jennie's entire family lives in Taiwan, but she has devoted herself to her husband and her children as well as to her home.

Jenny's kitchen is filled with all the modern conveniences, microwave oven, Formica countertops, electric stove and dishwashers. And it is immaculate.

Her china cabinet in the dining room is filled with favorite pieces from Taiwan and from the United States. Interspersed with the cups and saucers Jenny said she bought because she liked them, are rice bowls, jade wine decanters filled with Chinese wine, and the tiny cups, much like those the Japanese use for Saki.

If pressed, Jenny will pull out the wok and the Chinese cookbooks.

"But a lot of time, I am too busy to cook," she said. For Winston, who is a vegetarian, Jenny said she tries to find vegetables similar to those in China. Winston said she has become adept at improvising, too.

The children, though, are thoroughly American, and it is not unusual for Jenny to stop at McDonald's or Hardee's between picking up Andrew or Ellen and taking them to their next lesson.

Winston Song beams at his children, knowing that despite their obvious Asian features, they are real Americans. "That is the reason I came to this country. I did not want the children to have the difficulties I had. It is very difficult to get into the university in Taiwan, no matter how hard you study."

"It seems like everyone is always busy," said Winston. But he admits part of that busyness is to not dwell upon the past, always to look toward the future.

Winston and Jenny are determined that their children will have the advantages of both the Taiwanese and American cultures. Every once in a while, though, the parents think of their own families left in Taiwan. At one time, Winston said, he considered bringing his mother with him to America.

Winston said that not long after Andrew was born, he considered asking his mother to move with him, since he has a sister in California and two brothers who also live in the United States. Two other brothers and one sister remained in Taiwan.

"But as long as she (my mother) still has family in Taiwan, we decided it was better that she stay there. Her friends and her family are there. It is her home."

How long the Songs will make their home in Novi's Dunbarton subdivision still remains to be seen. They moved to the community in September, lured by the excellent ranking of the Northville Public Schools, said Winston.

"We were living in Westland, but the schools were not as good and now, I can afford to live here. It helps the children."

So far, both youngsters hope to become medical doctors, but a lot can change between now and then. Ellen has a step up, since she is one of three Meads Mill youngsters who in September will be studying advanced algebra at Northville High School.

As for Andrew, his first task is to compete in a speech competition sponsored by the Chinese school. Although his parents insist they do not push their youngsters, either artistically or academically, it is clear that the older Songs are enthused with the showing of the younger generation.

"This is the opportunity I came to this country for," said Winston. "This makes it all worthwhile."

Brains Over the Brawns

The coaches can tune the muscles but when it comes to a Red Wing's head 'set', the doctor is Hugh Bray

On the wall behind his desk, deep beneath the seats at Joe Louis Arena, there's a photograph of a strange advertisement for sweetbread. It says BRAINS $25 — DRIVE IN.

In a lot of ways this sign says a lot about Dr. Hugh Bray, the Northville resident who is the Detroit Red Wings team psychologist. Delving into the minds of the players and trying to help them sort out their mental and emotional problems is what Bray is all about. What goes on in the brain of a young hockey player from Saskatchewan, and how that affects his performance is Bray's specialty and for the Red Wing organization, his door is always open.

It also says something about this man's disposition. In a lighthearted and at times humorous way, Bray has a soothing effect on anyone with whom he comes into contact. Maybe it's because he comes across as being trustworthy, sensible, attentive and friendly. He's the kind of person with whom you would feel comfortable enough to share a personal problem. He is able to pinpoint the trouble and is uniquely qualified to give suggestions on a solution.

Bray is one of a growing number of team psychologists on the scene in professional athletics nowadays. He is actually a pioneer in the field because he was one of the first. He started with Detroit Coach Jacques Demers when he was in St. Louis several years ago — and the position was almost unheard of. Now team psychologists are commonplace.

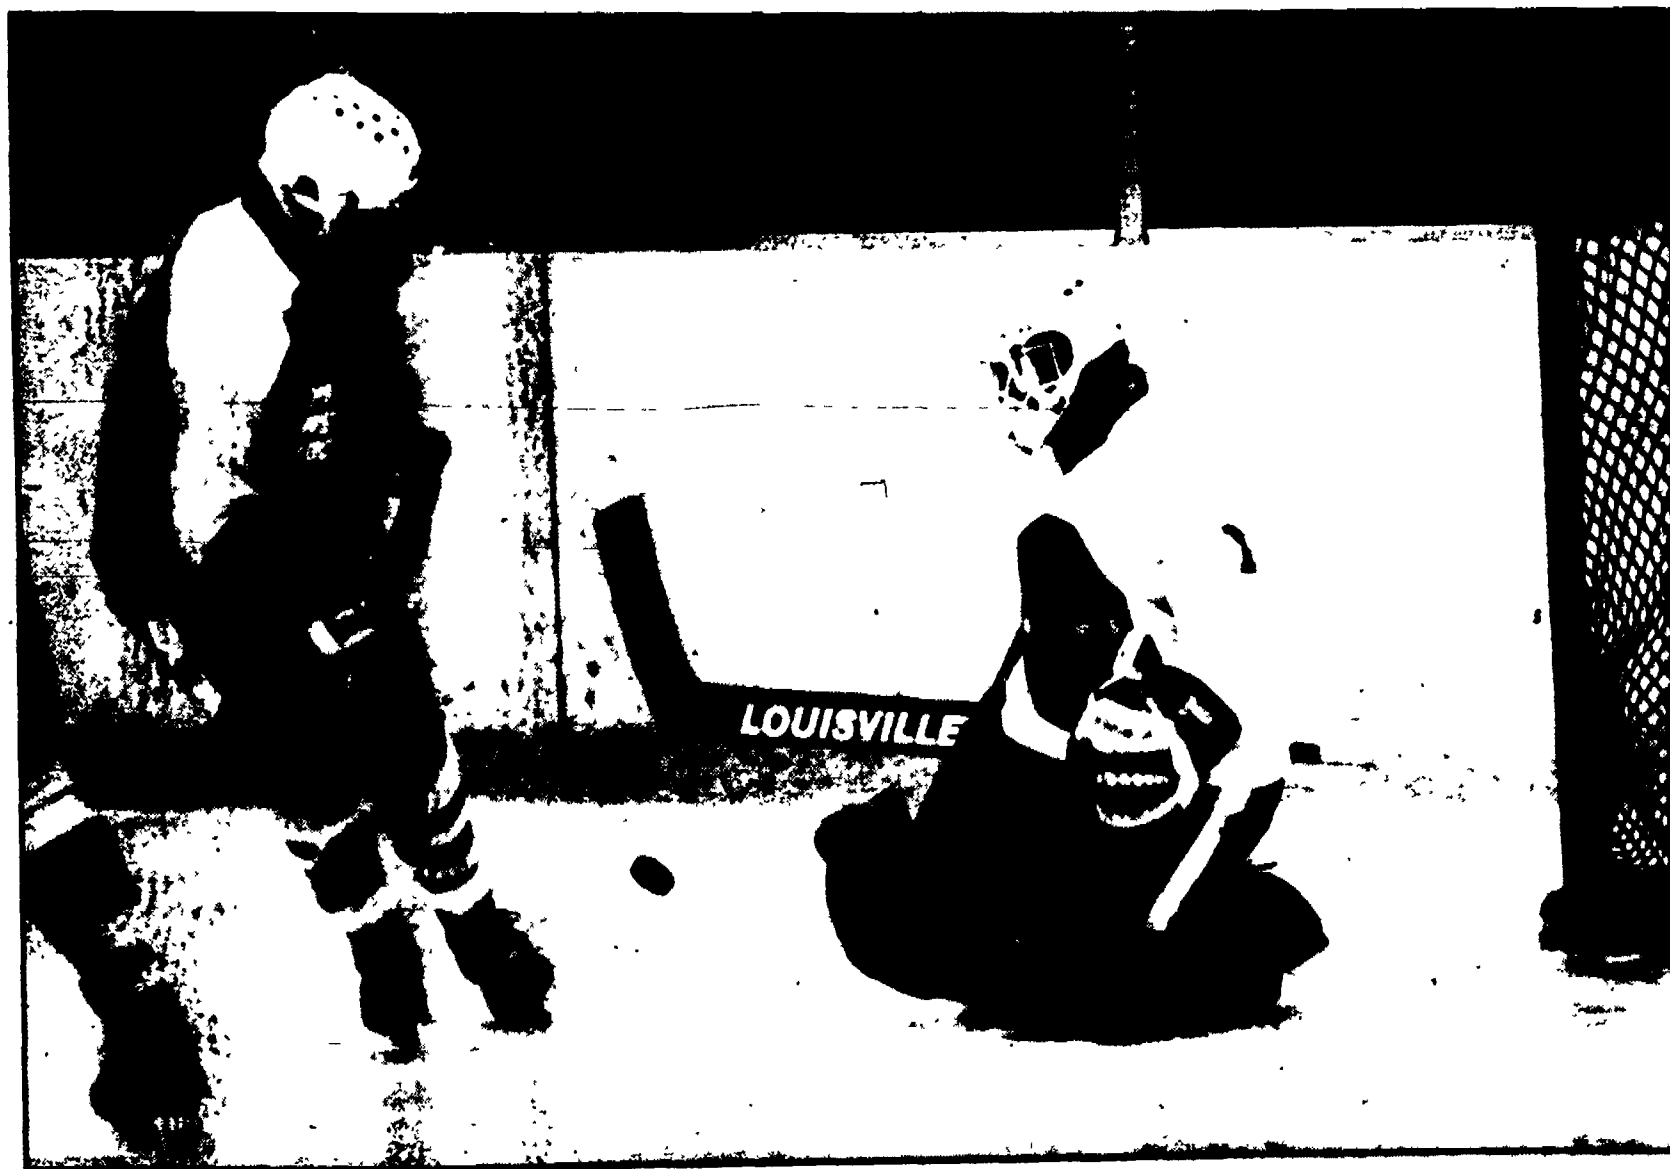

"You can't separate the mind from the body," he said. "If you don't pay attention to the mental side of it, you lose a large portion of the game. What's happened is there has finally been an acceptance on the part of the management of professional sports. They now realize the importance of the mental aspects of the game."

"I've heard about players from teams that don't have a psychologist, pushing for it and that's nice to see. The mental edge is important — a team that thinks it can win has a much better chance of doing it than another team that doesn't."

NEIGHBORS

ques. He's a strong supporter of what I'm doing — he's very much aware of the mental aspect of the game. He's a player's coach and he wants to give them any edge he can."

The entire organization, from owners Mike and Marian Ilitch to general manager Jim Devellano, has always been behind what Bray is trying to do for the players and that makes for a very good working situation, Bray said.

"I'm always getting favorable input from Mr. Devellano and the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Ilitch are paying my salary is an example that this organization is doing everything it can to approach excellence. I've never received any negative feedback."

Bray grew up in Royal Oak and has followed the Red Wings since he was a young boy. His parents lived in Northville for many years and he now owns the same home his grandfather lived in before his death. Bray and his wife Susan have a one-year old son named Matthew and he is perfectly content with his job and his home.

"To me, this is the ideal job," he admitted. "As long as the Red Wings want me, I can't see moving on to something else. The Northville/Novi area has really grown and changed over the years, but we really like it. It's a very comfortable place to live."

In his spare time, Bray is a goaltender in an over-40 league based in Plymouth. Hockey has always been one of his great loves and he feels that playing the game can help him relate to what some of the players are going through.

"It makes it a little easier for them to accept me if they know that I'm trying to play the same game they are," he said. "There's a lot of mental preparation needed to be a goalie — probably more than any position — and I can really relate to what (Greg) Stefan or (Glen) Hanlon go through at times."

The Red Wings were the worst team in the National Hockey League three seasons ago but since then, the team has now made two straight appearances in the semifinals. The fact that Demers and his system came to Detroit immediately following the disastrous season of 1985-86 is not a coincidence. And Bray is a big part of the team.

"This is probably the nicest group of people I've ever been associated with," he said. "They are hard working guys who are willing to do some of the things I suggest and then they come back and give me feedback."

"I have a lot of respect for Jacques and it's a credit to him how far we've come. The team he's assembled takes pride in their work and they won't let up until they reach their goal of winning the Stanley Cup."

Many of the Red Wing players call Bray 'Doc.' Exchanges between player and doctor are on a personal level and it illustrates the great rapport he has with the team members. It isn't a typical patient-doctor relationship — it's more like student-teacher, according to Bray — and he certainly isn't teaching them anything about how to play hockey.

"I spent almost a year trying to develop a rapport with all the players and I believe I am accepted," he pointed out. "I'm dealing with young men and usually their first reaction to me is 'I'm not crazy.' I had to figure out a way to approach them in order to help them."

"Everyone is different. I can just walk up to some and ask them if anything is bothering them — others it may take more time. I think most of the players feel comfortable with me and if they have a problem, they will come to me — and that all goes back to the rapport."

According to Bray, it is sometimes very hard for professional athletes to admit they have a problem because in their jobs, it's important to be in control at all times.

"It takes a big person to be able to admit that they have a problem," Bray explained. "We have a team of big people."

Bray joined the Red Wings in March of 1987, when that season was nearly over. When he came upon the scene, Bray found that Demers had already made great strides with the players in areas like attitudes and confidence, and he did it in a very short period of time. The Red Wing organization had experienced nothing but losing seasons and disappointments until Demers came along.

"Jacques is so good with the players, he had all the negativeness of years past turned around when I showed up," Bray admitted. "The reason I'm here is Jac-

For Love of History

From country schools to families trees, to her 1868 home, Marjorie Bourns writes and lives a life of history in Milford

As an elementary teacher for many years, Marjorie Bourns of Milford instructed young pupils in everything from reading and writing to geography and math, but her real love is history.

She has demonstrated her fondness for the past by writing or collaborating on several books concerning the past and present days of the Milford area. From "country" schools right through the history of the town, the chronicles of the Milford Methodist Church and the "reading" of Oak Grove Cemetery, Bourns has helped put it all down in print for future generations.

Her current project is genealogies — not just her own and her husband Louis' ancestry, but the family trees of some 25 other local families, beginning with John Vincent who named Milford and gave land for the first school in the Milford area.

Born in Detroit in her grandmother Henkel's small house on Livingston Street, Bourns feels nostalgic when she drives by the spot now. The Henkel home was "torn down in the 1920s to make way for a freeway. The plot where my birthplace was is now a part of the lawn of Harper Hospital," she commented wryly.

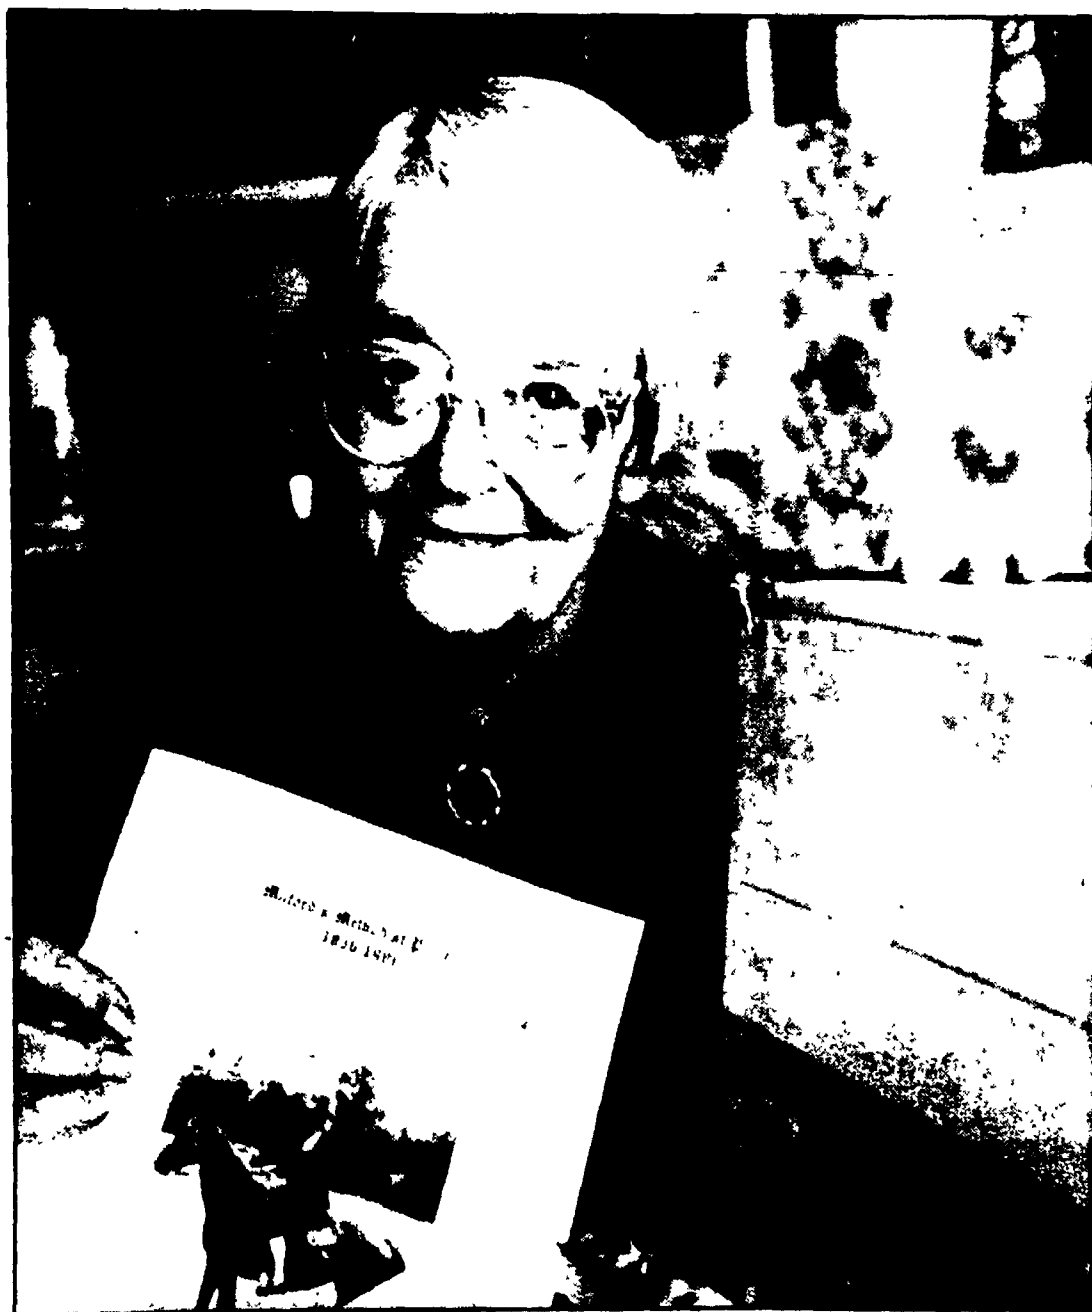

It has been many years since Bourns left that birthplace to take up residence with her parents in the Milford area and eventually to become probably its most prolific writer of local history.

Bourns not only writes about history, she lives in an historic home. "My parents, Walter Jackson and Mary M. Henkel owned 80 acres on what is known as General Motors Road. The brick house was built in 1868 by Isaac Crawford II — a great uncle in the Bourns line.

"When the land was sold in 1909, it was bought by my father. When in the course of time Louis and I came here, that meant that the acreage with the buildings stayed in the same family from 1850 to the present time. The rest of the property was sold by my Uncle Frank Jackson to General Motors in 1923."

Bourns relates that no house or barn was built on the property until the Crawfords came. They (the Crawfords) felled trees from the 14 acres of woods and took them to the sawmill in Linden to be made into boards for the four barns, pig pen and chicken house that are still in use.

"My first school years were spent in a country school with no water or electricity."

Marjorie Bourns (opposite page and above) is the author of many books on the past and present days of the Milford area.

donor of the land, John Pickett," Bourns reported. "Supposedly that land, now in the General Motors Proving Ground, was to revert to the Pickett family if not used for a school building. It was last used (as a school) in 1951."

For her first book, "Common School to Consolidation, A History of Huron Valley 1832-1946," Bourns drew on her own experiences, both as a student and a teacher in one- and two-room schools. The book has been reprinted three times and has been placed in some Michigan college libraries. The 72-page book was used as the Milford Township project to commemorate the 1976 celebration.

Because of Bourns' fond memories of those early days at Pickett School, she asked for the teacher's chair when the school was closed. "While I am not 'into antiques,' our family knows well the history of that chair. At least seven had gone to Pickett and today very few persons know it as a site of good learning."

In Bourns' day, pupils had to pass the eighth grade tests with an average of 75 percent correct in order to advance to high school. "Questions were sent out from the state and pupils went to the nearest graded school which had an acting principal. Miss Lottie Lamb taught seventh and eighth grades at Milford and she was in charge.

"Twice in my life I have been scared to death and I confess the worst was in Miss Lamb's room. She had her own students and those coming in from the country schools and not a word was spoken by any (during the testing)."

Despite her fright, Bourns obviously passed the tests and went on to enter Milford High School in the fall of 1923. She was a member of the debate team and served with three other students as "librarians." She graduated in 1927, a member of the first senior class in the new high school building on Hickory Street.

Bourns began advanced study for what turned out to be her "career" in September 1927 when she went to Oakland County Normal School in Pontiac. In the 1920s, those who held a high school diploma could get a teaching certificate by taking math, English, social studies and other academic subjects for one year.

She said each student had to practice penmanship until the company which printed the student book (Palmer) felt from reviewing "your pages your writing was very good. I did some research and found that my certificate was dated February 1928."

Bourns spent many evenings at the kitchen table of Martha Avery's apartment in Pontiac practicing penmanship and making lesson plans. "Mrs. Avery rented a bedroom with use of the kitchen for two meals a day for $3 a week. Considering costs for a year of college, I kept records that said I spent $93 for room and board. No fees for tuition or books," the former teacher noted.

The fun and the work really began for Bourns on the first day of school in September 1928 when she began teaching at the West Highland School — "all eight grades and close to 40 students. It had been a two-room school for many years but it burned in the spring of 1928.

"Russell Lemmon, a local builder, built the new school and a duplicate of it was built at Hickory Ridge. Both buildings have been moved to Highland. The West Highland School is to be used for the Huron Valley Credit Union and the other school is now the middle section of the Highland Library."

Bourns . . .

Always hungry for education, Bourns continued her studies and received her master's degree in teaching reading in 1958 from Eastern Michigan University.

After taking some time off from teaching in the 1940s to become the mother of three children (women teachers were not allowed to teach and be married in the local area in the '40s), Bourns went back to the classroom in 1951. It was while she was teaching at Johnson Elementary School that she became concerned that the school did not have an area where the total library resources could be shared.

When federal funds were made available in the 1960s, Bourns was asked to become elementary librarian and went on to start libraries at Johnson and Baker schools. She also planned for the four new elementary schools as they were added to the district and later became director of the Elementary Media Center.

"Libraries always have been a part of my life, both as school librarian and on the board of our public library in Milford." She served on the library board for 44 of its 58 years of existence, retiring in 1983. She also compiled a history of the Milford Library.

"Being a secretary of something seemed to follow me — of the library board, the Huron Valley Credit Union, the teachers' union and probably some others that I have forgotten," she recalled with a smile.

After her retirement from the school district in 1975, Bourns began putting her memories into written pages. Following the successful publishing of the "country school" book, she collaborated with Sue Lowe, Barbara Young and Cynthia Barr on "Ten Minutes Ahead of the World: A History of Milford," which was published in 1982.

With the first 1,000 copies already sold, a second printing is now in progress. "As careful as we were, there were a few misspellings and such. It is now being reprinted with a few corrections and should be ready for sale this summer," the co-author said.

"That book, and all my books, have a good index. If I buy a book, it has to have an index. I am very adamant about that."

Bourns recalls well when she and the other co-authors of the Milford book of history first sat down to plan the project. "We just wrote down ideas one evening and from that we wrote the table of contents. We never varied from it (the table of contents).

"We each took a section to do. I was the 'people' person. Barbara Young did the early history. Sue Lowe worked on places and did the editing and Cynthia Barr was in charge of pictures."

Bourns worked with Patsy Patterson in compiling "Milford's Methodist Pioneers", the Methodist church history for Milford. "It was hard to find the really early part. We did fine from 1872 on because we had The Milford Times, (to refer to) but from 1850-70 we were really on our own. When they built the new church a lot of the old papers were thrown out."

It was in 1978, Bourns participated in the "reading" of Milford's Oak Grove Cemetery (gleaning the information on each burial from the stones and the records).

"This (the reading) is an ongoing project as each year there are burials at Oak Grove. There are quite a few buried without stones."

Since 1975, Bourns admits having been bitten by the genealogy bug. "Both my husband's lines (ancestors) and mine have been put into notebooks. Some go back nine generations. My family's had never been collected.

"The Bourns' family history had been done in the early 1900s, but we wrote one back to the 1760s."

The genealogies of Milford pioneer families on which Bourns is currently working will be presented to the Milford Public Library and the Milford Historical Society. "When I finish those, I shall go back to my stamp collection which antedates all the histories," she commented.

Filling Some Big Shoes

Story by Bob Needham □ Photography by Chris Boyd

His uncle is gone.
Now it's Lou Carlo's job to fill the vacancy in the

Lou Carlo knows he's filling some pretty big shoes.

His uncle, John Carlo, helped start up the Northville Downs harness raceway and guided its operation for decades. The track was a major success story in Michigan horse racing, and became an important part of Northville, drawing people to town and shouldering the largest single share of the city's tax base.

When John Carlo passed away eighteen months ago, the community and the track lost a vital figure. Big shoes to fill — but Lou Carlo was maybe the one person who could.

"I started working in harness racing when I was 19 years old, and I was introduced to it by my uncle, one of the men who founded this racetrack," Lou Carlo said in a recent interview.

A native of Buffalo, New York, he worked in racing for a couple of years before a two-year stint in the Army, stationed at Fort Gordon, Georgia. "I really was blessed" in entering the service just after the Korean War, Carlo said.

After the Army, Carlo — with strong support from his uncle — attended Michigan State University, earning a degree in economics with honors. The thinking was that the economics training would help Carlo in the horse racing business, and it did.

John Carlo had interests in tracks in Ohio, Illinois and Kentucky in addition to Northville Downs.

"I went and worked that circuit with him, and I never left him. I was an associate, an employee, a partner and everything else from that point on," Carlo said.

"When I was with my uncle and unmarried ... it was exciting and interesting. We were at the top of things," he added.

Carlo settled in Ohio, running the tracks in Ohio and Kentucky while his uncle used the Downs as a base for the Michigan and Illinois operations. The Illinois track was eventually sold.

In 1968 Carlo got married, and he and his wife Linda began a family which now includes six children — Mary, John, Ed, Mike, Helen and Joe — from 13 to 1. The first five Carlo children are named after Carlo's uncle, father and their sisters and brother, in the exact same order of birth.

John and Lou Carlo continued their partnership all this time. But every career comes to a close some time.

"About seven years ago my uncle's health began to fail and I started splitting my time between Ohio and Michigan to give him some support," Carlo said. In 1986, John Carlo passed away at age 89.

Lou Carlo now splits his time between Northville and Lebanon, Ohio. When in town, he lives in a house on Beal Avenue right at the track.

There has been really only one major problem in Carlo's life recently: a serious heart attack caused some permanent damage and forced him to have a six-way bypass last year.

The heart problem caught him a little unaware, Carlo said, since his father's side of the family was generally long-lived. But his mother's family has a history of heart disease.

"Everybody will tell you I'm a Type A personality. I charge on everything I do," he said.

Once he suffered the heart attack, Carlo squarely faced the problem — but it wasn't easy. "I had a very, very tough recovery. The surgery was a success, but it was a very tough recovery for me," he said.

He went to Florida for seven weeks to recover with his sister. "That's when I started to come around," he said.

But the recovery has not been complete. Some people have heart attacks and feel great afterward. "I've had a heart attack and I'm not great now," Carlo said.

He's back to a full schedule now, though, and has a regular three-and-a-half-mile walk around Northville for exercise.

Carlo likes spending spare time with his family. "Mostly I enjoy watching my kids. They're a lot of fun," he said. Aside from that, his one hobby is really another facet of his business: he owns some thoroughbred horses.

Clearly, as shown by his immersion in the business, Carlo enjoys horse racing.

"I owe a lot to it," he said. "I learned a lot from working with my uncle. He was a great man; he was a great citizen. I learned a lot from him about people and life and relationships. I came to him almost as a high school dropout and graduated from Michigan State University with honors, with his support."

A large part of his enjoyment comes from his business associates, particularly the horsemen and the Downs recording secretary. "If I didn't have Margaret Zayti there I couldn't do this ... I rest on her 40 years of experience," he said.

"I've enjoyed the people in every segment — I've enjoyed my relationship with the customers, I've enjoyed my relationship with the horsemen, I've enjoyed myself in the towns I've been in," Carlo said.

"I've never had a day when I regretted going to work," Carlo concluded. "I was always going to talk to someone I like and respect. The first of those was his uncle."

A Touch of Elegance

Joseph Yezbick, executive chef at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi, runs his 1940 Plymouth, "The Businessman's Coupe," the same way he runs his kitchen — with elegance and patience.

Beginning as a fry cook in 1971, Yezbick worked his way up the culinary ladder. For the better part of his career he has worked for Sheraton at various locations. After several years of city hopping, he decided to settle near his hometown of Southfield and worked for Sheraton as an independent chef.

The days are sometimes long. With 70 employees under his direction, Yezbick serves some 700 to 1,000 meals a day, with special events approaching 2,000.

Just a stone's throw from the life of the big city, the Waldsmiths have taken a once floundering farm and won

If there was a "Who's Who" of local farmers — a directory of the up-and-comers in what is thought to be a dead industry — Mike Waldsmith and wife Cathy are locks to be in it.

The youthful pair, within the space of four short years, turned around a floundering farm, restoring it to at least a shadow of its once great status.

Mike Waldsmith (right) closes up the fertilizer bins and kicks up some dust (above) planting corn for feed for the dairy herd.

Then they went a little further. They started racking up awards. The Waldsmiths won the Progressive Dairyman of the Year award in March and are aiming even higher for the next few years.

And it's all coming off within a stone's throw of the big city. The Waldsmith farm, which they manage for a local doctor, is tucked away in rural northern Washtenaw County, a minute from downtown Salem Township, 15 minutes from Northville, less than a half an hour from the Detroit waterfront.

"No, I never thought I'd be here," said Mike "Wally" Waldsmith, who at just 27, has been managing the Water Cress farm for slightly less than four years. "Maybe somewhere up north, but not here. This is as close to the city as you can get."

Corn is going in the ground right now and it's a busy time of year. His day starts at 5 a.m. and ends well after sundown. Taking time out to talk doesn't happen. Interviews — he's already done three in the last two weeks — are combined with work.

A Real People Person

Story by Matthew J. Valley □ Photography by John Galloway

Fred Verran weaves together knowledge, loyalty, drive, sensitivity and humor into a Salem Township landmark

In his 14 years as chief inspector, Fred Verran has built a reputation as a problem solver and invaluable communication link to the Salem Township public.

Those who know the inner workings of Salem Township government talk of Verran's ability to weave knowledge, loyalty, drive, sensitivity and a sense of humor into a difficult job, one that often requires him to wear many hats.

But it is that multi-faceted role which seems to suit him well, for Verran is a man who holds many interests, both professionally and personally.

"He's probably one of the best-known and liked citizens of the community I know of," said Phil Brandon, former longtime supervisor of Salem Township, now retired.

"He's a real people person. He enjoys working with them and will spend hours talking to them and listening to their problems.

Whether they are requesting clarification on a setback requirement for a pole barn or seeking guidance on how to best solve a problem of off-road vehicles motoring across their property, or simply expressing their anger about barking dogs, more than likely Salem residents will turn to Verran for help.

"People just don't know how busy I am. Sometimes they call and expect me to get to their problem right away," Verran explained, reflecting on his job from his office chair.

"When I first started it was not nearly as busy. The township has grown so much. Sometimes we'll have them waiting in line in the office," added the chief inspector, who has resided in a white-frame house on Six Mile Road for the past 40 years.

Verran and Office Manager Mary Cutler are the only full time employees of the township.

As chief inspector, Verran is responsible for overseeing all building inspections in the township, enforcing compliance with the township zoning ordinance and monitoring activity at the Arbor Hills landfill on Six Mile Road as it relates to state and county regulations. When necessary, he will take ordinance violators to court on behalf of the township.

In addition, Verran's miscellaneous duties include attendance at appropriate township board and planning commission meetings, handling of nuisance calls, initiating action to remove junk cars from the township, answering calls regarding road maintenance, snow removal and dust control and even updating the zoning map.

"I've had people say to me, 'Fred, I wouldn't have this job for anything,'" Verran said with a hearty laugh. "I kid about it, but I've met a lot of nice people. I get a letter from time to time from people who I've helped."

Born in St. Ives, located in the coastal county of Cornwall, England, Verran immigrated to the United States in 1926 at the age of 18 with his mother, sister, Rose, 21, and brother, Jack, 12. They arrived in New York before departing again for Detroit, where their father, a builder, was awaiting their arrival.

Verran said in those days finding a job could be a tall order, especially at the onset of the Great Depression.

"We came to Detroit because we thought it was a hub of activity, a good place to get a job."

Young Verran was fortunate. For 13 years, he worked for the A&P Tea Co. in Detroit, managing one of the company's meat and grocery stores. Verran said the skills he acquired during his apprenticeship under Sir Thomas Lipton (Lipton Tea Co.) while in England enabled him to land the job with A&P Tea Co.

Eventually, Verran opened his own grocery and meat business, C.F. (Cedar Farm) Markets, in northwest Detroit. "Things went well. We acquired two markets," Verran recalled. Verran retired from the grocery business in 1968.

Verran is proud to be an American. He cherishes the economic opportunity afforded him here. "The American people are great people. It was easy for me to make the transition."

But at the same time, the fond memories of his life in England are not easily forgotten. "I had a great childhood. Lots of friends, swimming, the ocean life. I wouldn't give that away for anything."

To this day, Verran is an avid sailor. Whenever he gets the chance, he will ride his sloop on the open waters of Kensington Lake. His closest friends will frequently sail with him. "On the weekends I just like to go."

When he's not working or sailing, Verran also enjoys raising Angus (derived from Angus, county in Scotland) cattle as a hobby on his 100-acre farm, something he's done for many years.

As a boy in England, Verran attended Newquay College, equivalent to a high school setting here, he explained. He graduated when he was 14, well versed in Verran and Office Manager Mary Cutler on the job in Salem.

Laura, served seven years, 1967-74, as clerk of Salem Township.

"I really like the Salem lifestyle. I really call it more or less country-style living. Most like Salem Township just the way it is," Verran said.

Salem Township Supervisor Richard Sackett, who has worked with Verran for four years and known him for many more, speaks highly of Verran's ability to work with people.

"He seems to make friends wherever he goes. He handles matters of the township and doesn't offend anyone," said Sackett.

Verran's job is really a living experience. "I learn every day. You learn as you go along. I've always tried to be fair and listen."

He talked in detail about a number of other subjects pertaining to the Salem area and its growth. It rings clear Verran knows just about everyone who is someone in this community of communities known as South Lyon.

In listening to Verran it doesn't take one long to determine he is articulate, gracious in demeanor and has lots of energy and enthusiasm when discussing his life and the community. His ability to laugh at himself and others seems to suit him well. By his own account, Verran doesn't like to remain idle for any length of time. "I tell you, Matt, God's been good to me. I have no problem getting up at 6 a.m. I do today just want I want to do. That's right," he said.

Cheerio.

They 'vacation' in the sun but their visits are not for self; the Armstrong bring a gift of vision to those less fortunate

Chuck and Helen Armstrong of Highland Township can best be described as persons committed to helping others.

And for the past 15 years, they have been doing just that, travelling to Central America during the summer to work among the poor. There they examine and fit people with glasses as well as help to cure eye injuries.

An optometrist whose office is in Allen Park, Chuck always liked to travel. When he heard about a group of optometrists going to Haiti in 1973, Chuck and Helen joined the team.

"It was like being in Africa," explained Chuck of the primitive lifestyle. "We stayed in a hotel and worked from dawn till dusk because there were so many people who needed our help."

Haiti in those days was governed by "Papa Doc" Duvalier, a dictator who kept the wealth for himself and ruled with an iron hand.

The group of optometrists and volunteers quickly experienced the feel of dictatorship through an innocent happening. As the busload was headed for the mountains to work one day, several of the student optometrists were riding on top of the bus enjoying the sun.

Innocently, several students pulled down a poster of Papa Doc which hung over the road. The next day the bus was stopped and the group hassled.

"Haiti was incredibly poor," said Helen. "Such poverty you never saw. The people dressed in rags. It isn't a country to which we want to return even though the countryside was just beautiful."

The Armstrongs then began travelling to Costa Rica, another poor country in Central America. Unlike their hotel stay in Haiti, the couple was adopted by a native family, Faleo and Hilda Rodriguez and their 10 children.

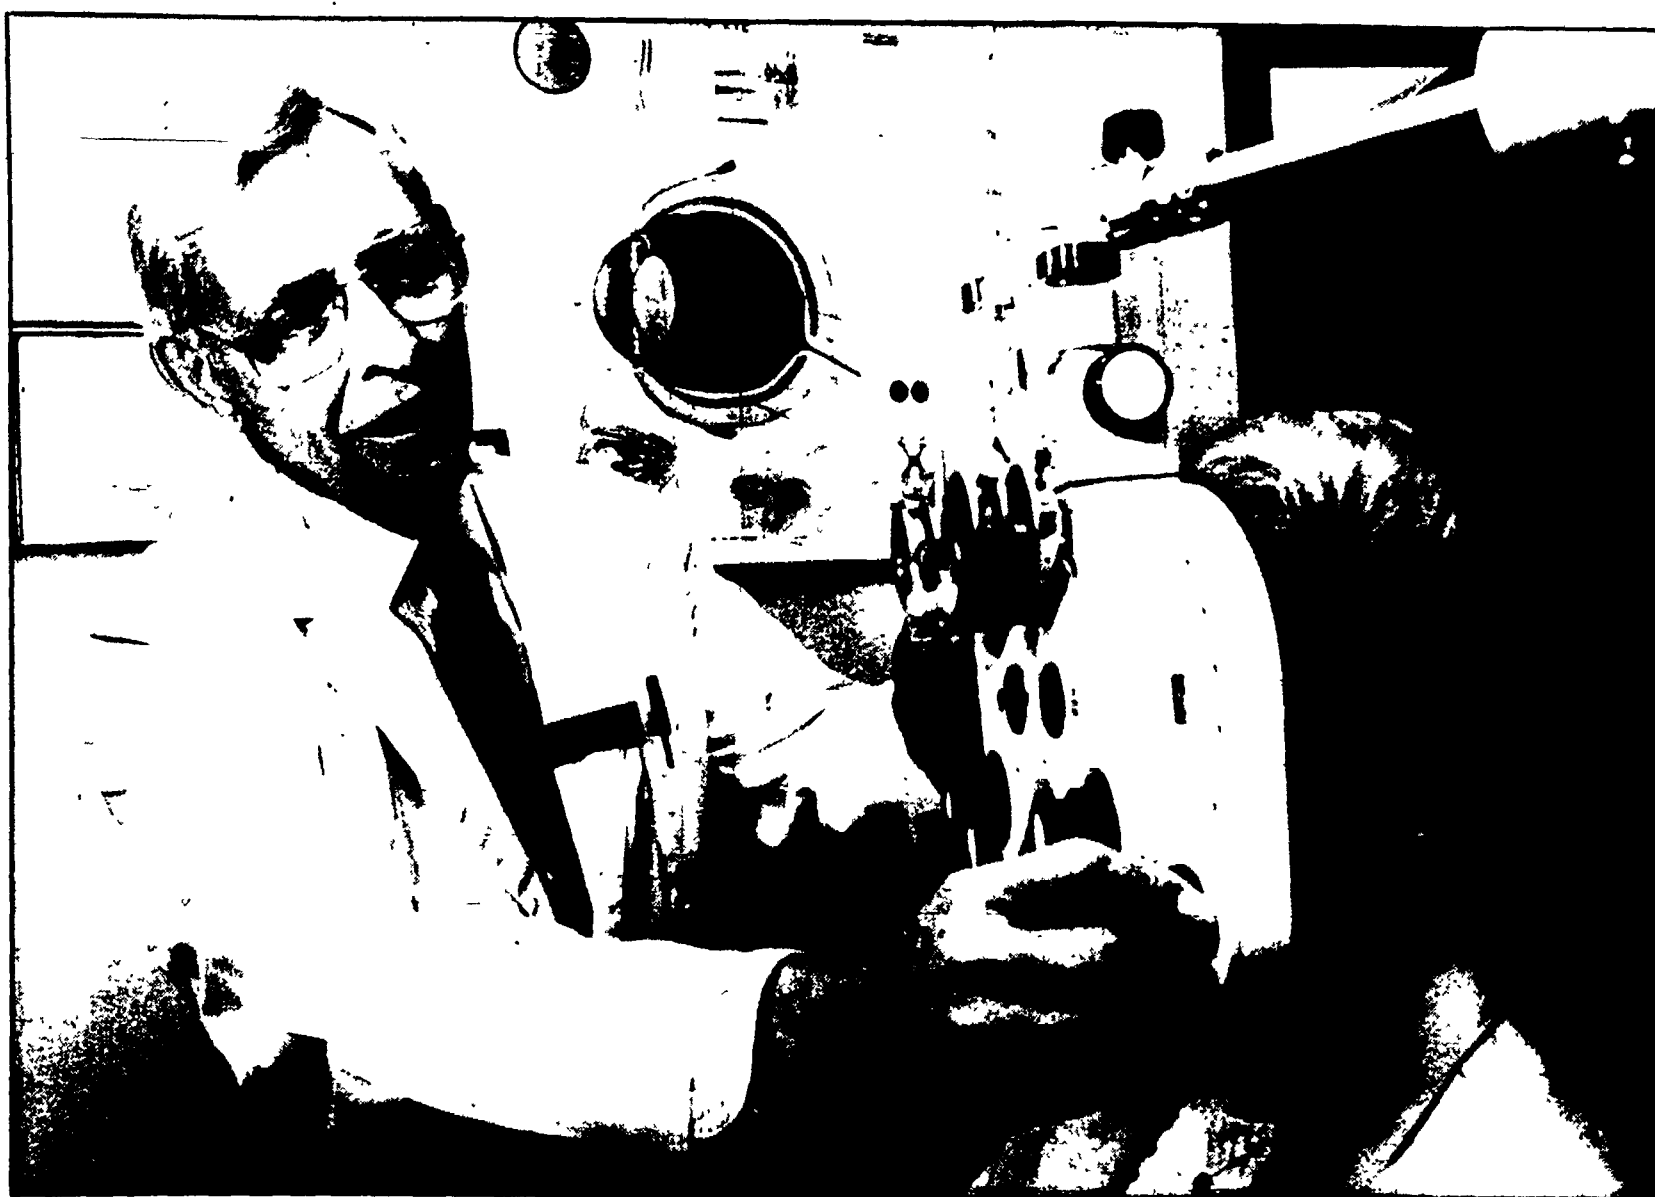

Each student or optometrist or volunteer was adopted by a host family. From meeting the Americans at the airport to delivering them to their new families, the Lion's Club of Costa Rica worked out all the details.

"Most of the people in Costa Rica are involved in farming, lumbering or business. There is a middle class there, but they have terrific cash flow problems," said Chuck.

The usual procedure followed was for the optometrists to visit a different region every day during the 10-day to two-week period they were in Costa Rica.

The group split up into teams comprised of six to eight students and two certified optometrists. Usually a few local people served as interpreters from the Spanish-speaking patients to the doctors and students.

their host family, the Armstrongs would take their jug of water and meet the rest of their team. Then they would travel by cars driven by village people for 1 to 1½ hours before arriving at a school where the people seeking help had been standing in lines for hours.

"They came in droves to be there at 6 a.m. They walked or rode horseback to get there," noted Helen.

The Armstrong's daughter Allyson and Helen, along with other volunteers, would then perform initial eye checkups. Helen, incidentally, when she isn't working as a volunteer, serves as zoning administrator for Highland Township.

Student optometrists followed up with additional tests for diseases before the patients were finally checked by the doctors who prescribed and fitted them with glasses.

The glasses used for the patients were transported to Costa Rica by the students from the Southern College of Optometry in Memphis, Tenn. They collected the glasses from donations from all over the country, including those from Lion's Clubs.

The optometric students then neutralized the lenses or categorized them by strength from simple reading glasses to bifocals. Discarded, used frames were used for the lenses to make usable eye glasses.

"With poor sanitary conditions, we also saw a lot of infections. We saw sun-damaged eyes, too," Chuck continued.

It was not uncommon for the optometrists to treat eye injuries either. Becoming drunk on a Saturday night and getting involved in machette fights were a contributing cause to both arm injuries as well as missing limbs.

"The Costa Ricans are my kind of people. They were very appreciative of our efforts and tried hard to please us," Helen related.

For example, Chuck is proud of the beautiful cane made of 12 different hardwoods that he was presented at the conclusion of one of his trips to Costa Rica.

Becoming accustomed to the food for some team members was a bit difficult, but the Armstrongs generally liked it.

"For breakfast, we had tortilla chips with sort of a bean pate and a sweet-sour cream. Sometimes we had fried plantain, which is a banana-like fruit that is first boiled in a brown sugar water, sliced thinly and then fried," explained Helen.

Native women usually prepared lunch for the optometric teams which often consisted of a weak, but tasty soup and a lot of beans and rice.

Despite the fact that the Armstrongs pay their own way to and from Costa Rica for their working "vacations," they are grateful for the experience.

Together in Song

Story by Brenda Bonzheim □ Photography by Chris Boyd

The 'butcher, baker and candlestick maker' share a common bond that exists in the harmony and beauty of song

A page of sheet music ruffles and a hush falls over the group. The silence becomes more absolute when Stacey Becker's fingers delicately tickle a few ivory piano keys on the black baby grand, filling the empty auditorium with musical chords.

Haphazardly, the Novi Choralaires take their places on a stack of bleachers, waiting for the song's piano introduction to cue them to start singing. Another practice session has begun.

Standing in rows, it becomes immediately apparent that they range in age, background, personality and height. Yet the 40-member community choir all share a common bond — a genuine love for singing.

Singing brings them together tonight just as it has for 13 years and although some of the choir members have moved on to be replaced by others, the desire to perform remains strong.

Many of the Choralaires members compare their involvement in the choir as a form of positive addiction — they keep coming to rehearsals year after year because they truly enjoy learning songs and socializing with each other.

Renee Hanson has been a Choralaire for 10 years. Since first becoming a member of the auditioned community choir she has moved from her Novi residence to Union Lake, but her heart remains true to the group.

"I just keep coming back," Hanson said with a contagious smile. "It's a lot of fun for me."

Likewise, Northville resident Carol Crabill says she greatly enjoys her 13 year affiliation with the group.

"I'm a charter member," she recounted. "The original accompanist for the Choralaires was a good friend of mine and she encouraged me to become involved in the choir when it first started. Now I just can't stay away."

For Novi resident Linda Short, the Choralaires became a way of making friends. Originally from the South, she moved to Michigan and found herself faced with a new lifestyle.

"I was a member of a community choir in Atlanta, Georgia, and I wanted to become involved in another one," Short recalled.

Eventually she heard about the Novi Choralaires and was encouraged to attend a few of the group's rehearsals to get an idea of what the choir was about. She liked what she saw, but didn't join right away because she was busy settling into a new environment.

This is her first year as a member of the choir and she admitted that she's having fun.

"It's a nice break from every day things you have to do," Short said. "I like it a lot."

Sponsored by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department, the Choralaires consists of local men and women who have an interest in music and singing. The choir performs annual concerts for the community, accompanied on the piano, synthesizer, string bass and drums. Most recognized is the Choralaires' Spring Concert, usually performed on Mother's Day weekend.

Soprano members of the Choralaires include Karla Banning, Novi; Sally Benner, Redford; Shirley Brady, Dearborn; Gladys Budd, Novi; Carol Crabill, Northville; Jan Hulbert, Farmington Hills; Florence Jones, Dearborn; Esther Kerr, Novi; Amy Kouba, Brighton; Brenda Martel, Detroit; Pat Redoutey, Novi; Edie Scovill, Novi; Linda Short, Northville; Mary Simon, Farmington Hills; and Becky Staab, Novi.

Union Lake; Rose Johnson, Livonia; Anita Lawton, Novi; Becky Menzel, Livonia; Kathy Riggs, Novi; Bobbi Sedestrom, Livonia; Ruth Sill, Novi; Karen Tomilo, Walled Lake; Cindy White, Novi; Dorothy Veenstra, Farmington Hills; and Elaine Wroe, Novi.

Tenor singers are Bob Ballard, Northville; Dick Bayerl, Northville; Phil Forsyth, Northville; George Giese, Novi; Ian McQuade, Wixom; Al Menzel, Livonia; Bob Peritch, Novi; and Steve Riggs, Novi.

Basses include Noel Brown, Novi; Jim Ingles, Farmington; Bob Jones, Dearborn; Jack Lehman, Westland; Keith Milam, Northville; Daril Riley, Novi; Lynn Salk, Southfield; Jim Simon, Farmington Hills; and Frank Wassilak, Whitmore Lake.

President of the group is Becky Staab; First Vice President is Ruth Sill; Second Vice President is Elaine Wroe; Secretary is Shirley Brady; Treasurer is Gladys Budd; Librarian is Karla Banning.

Janet Wassalik has been director of the Choraliares since 1977. Her easygoing manner seems deceiving at first but it soon becomes apparent that she strives to make each choir performance a mirror of perfection. Each member of the group looks to her for guidance through music selections, while at the same time her attention is divided among lighting and sound crews, as well as the accompanists.

All remains quiet until the curtain rises and the pianist strikes a few notes. On cue, forty melodious voices fill the empty spaces in the auditorium with song.

Waldsmith...

Mike Waldsmith is responsible for 480 rolling acres of choice farmland and 50 head of dairy cattle at a farm that was a centerpiece of dairy production in the 1940s. Things fell off quite a bit after the original owner sold the farm, and bottomed out in the 1970s before Kim purchased it.

The Waldsmiths started a complex improvement plan, based on good record-keeping, sweat, and a lot of things laypersons just don't understand. Hard work paid off.

"We're not even all the way there," said Waldsmith. "Things were pretty sad around here when we first got started. There were a lot of problems."

"We've got it going in the right direction," he added. "You see, if you don't understand dairy production, I can't explain it to you. It's a very involved process. You can't have one weak link anywhere."

In the end, yearly dairy production for his herd jumped from a little over 11,000 pounds of milk per cow to over 17,000 pounds, a mammoth jump. In addition, the herd calving interval fell from one per 480 days to one per 365 days. All of that was good enough to earn the Waldsmiths the March Progressive Dairyman award, given by the Michigan Dairy Herd Association. The award was presented during Agriculture and Natural Resources week at MSU, in late March.

Mike Waldsmith was a displaced farm kid all of his life. He was raised in Livonia, but worked summers at a farm in rural Montclair County. Waldsmith graduated from Livonia Stevenson and worked at the farm for a year. That was enough spark to get him started at Michigan State.

"I didn't like Livonia, not at all," Waldsmith said, scrunching up his sun blistered face. "This is what I want to do, no question."

And he and Cathy have survived the strains of a demanding profession.

"For three years, she's been up at five, off to MSU and then back here at night," he said. "She would study until midnight, then get up and do it all over again. She's very dedicated. I'd take about one day of that."

The Waldsmiths hope to also move closer to owning their own dairy herd this year, though Mike isn't as sure about owning their own farm.

"It's a good way to spend the rest of your life in debt," Mike said. "There are ways to make money in certain areas, but everybody has their own way of doing it. Farming just went through a depression. The rest of the economy was going good, but farmers were going broke. A lot of people don't know that."

Dragon People

Story by Pat Bray □ Photography by John Galloway

What brought together a Chinese despot, a poetic protest, the spot Down Under and this Northfield pair?

One man's protest against a despotic Chinese emperor more than 2,000 years ago led directly to a Northfield Township couple viewing the Southern Cross from the warm shores of Australia.

If those two events hardly seem connected, it probably won't help to say dragons play an important part in the relationship.

It all began when the statesman-poet Chu-Yaun threw himself into a river because of the suffering inflicted on his people by their evil government.

Residents of a small fishing village rushed out in their boats to save him. They banged pots and thrashed oars in the water to scare fish away from Chu-Yaun.

Though those Chinese peasants struggled in vain to save a man whose integrity they valued, his sacrifice and their efforts evolved into the second most important festival in China.

The Dragon Boat Festival centers around races between colorful 40-foot dragon-shaped boats in commemoration of Chu-Yaun and those who tried to save him.

Ron and Lissie Miller of Dixboro Road paddled in the United States dragon boat during international competition in Perth, Australia this February.

"I don't think I'll ever forget that sound of the drums from all the different boats," Ron said while recently reminiscing about the trip.

The Millers, who have lived in their Dixboro home for 10 years, have three children, Amy, 17; Jeani, 16 and Eric, 9.

After just two days of practice in 80 and 90 degree temperatures with 20 other volunteers, the couple took part in the international races where their team "did respectable."

The U.S. boat tied for first in the mixed mens' and womens' boat races with teams from Taiwan and Hong Kong. Twenty teams from Australia also held competitions.

Races were run on the Black Swan River near Perth, which is partially salt water. Lissie said coordinating strokes to the drum beat was the most important factor in a doing well in the races.

She added it wasn't hard to tell if a team of paddlers was experienced or not.

"The ones who knew what they were doing looked like one fluid motion. The newcomers looked like spastic caterpillars," said Lissie, a special education teacher in the Wayne-Westland School District.

To get ready for the strain of paddling the massive canoes all out during the 2½-minute races, both Ron and Lissie exercised before the trip. Ron, 42, jogged, lifted weights and worked out on exercise machines at a health club. Lissie, 43, put her time in on the family rowing machine.

"We were basically ready, but some of the others weren't. I could hear after a race they were suffering. You're pouring your guts out in 90-degree heat for two minutes straight," during a race said Ron, who works for J.L. Hudsons.

"The last leg was always the hardest. It seemed like you would never stop," added Lissie, who explained the paddling was done much like when kneeling in a normal canoe.

Along with a drummer to set a cadence, each canoe also had a "sweep" in the back who steered the canoe with an oversized paddle. Although in Australia the teams raced for a finish line, dragon boats usually carry a "flag catcher" as well. This crew member, who is often small and light, wraps his or her legs around the head of the dragon and extends over the water to pull a floating flag at the finish line.

The U.S. team's best time over the 500-meter course was about two minutes and 20 seconds. The best time for all the crews was captured by an Australian crew that finished in just under two minutes.

"It's a blast. It's kind of a crazy sport. The paddlers race their best, but they don't take the sport so seriously as to get uptight. It's a fun loving sport," said Sue Smith, president of the two-year-old American Dragon Boat Association.

Smith, a friend of Lissie's from college, predicted the sport will catch on in America because the racing itself is surrounded by a festive atmosphere. She added the first international race in the United States is set for June 18 in Chicago.

"There is a team from Kalamazoo going which is great because it means Michigan will be represented," said Smith, adding about 20 teams from the U.S. as well as teams from New Zealand and Canada are expected to compete.

Smith added anyone interested in participating in the races can contact the Millers for details.

Smith said the whole goal of the association is to promote cultural understanding by bringing people from different countries together for a few days of spirited competition and celebrations.

One of those celebrations almost got out of hand for Ron.

Two days after the American team arrived in Australia, Ron was asked to escort the newly arrived 29-member Taiwan team to a restaurant across the street from the hotel. He soon found out only one of the Taiwanese contingent could speak some English and that all 29 wanted to take a bus across the road.

After managing to make the restaurant and going through the "ordeal of trying to order food," members of the team started toasting Ron with cognac.

"They came up one at a time. After the third one I realized they were all going to toast me. I finally worked it out so everybody drank at once."

Lissie recalled a seven-course Chinese meal that was "out of this world." The teams had been split in groups among the tables to get acquainted with the other paddlers and the night got "very loud with laughing and singing. It was the Chinese New Year then," she said.

Just a Football Coach

It may be an understatement to those Oakland grid fans but Art Paddy, a football legend, keeps it all in perspective

Some say Art Paddy has forgotten more about football than other coaches will ever know.

Some even refer to him as a legend in his own time.

But Paddy, a 70-year-old mastermind who has deceived hundreds of opponents with his version of the Wing-T offense, fails to understand the hoopla.

"The press and everything is real nice. Hey, I like to be recognized just like anyone else," he said.

Paddy then adjusted his patio chair and stared out onto Lake Sherwood, which sits comfortably behind his Commerce Township home.

"But who really cares? I'm just a football coach," he added. "I work hard at it and take a lot of pride in it, but you have to keep things in perspective."

Paddy has learned about perspective over the years. His experiences include a successful high school athletic career, a trip to the Philippine Islands during World War II, a four-year bout with malaria and coaching a state championship football team in 1977.

But describing himself as "just a football coach" may be somewhat of an understatement. To many Oakland County football followers, Arthur Paddy is a household name.

Paddy's coaching career began in 1946 at Cass City High School and currently is going strong at Olivet College, which lured him from the prep ranks last winter.

His role at Olivet, an NCAA Division III school, will be identical to the one he filled at Lakeland High School last fall. He is expected to take an offense which has had very little success in the past and convert it into a deadly weapon.

Paddy spent only one season with Lakeland, but his presence as offensive coordinator was felt in a big way. The Eagles went from 0-9 in 1986 to 5-4 in 1987, and his Wing-T attack was believed to be the main difference.

Paddy's Wing-T is more than an unusual formation, however. He has added a great deal of deception — the result of disciplined fakes from his quarterback and running backs, and sometimes even his linemen.

When asked to explain the offense, the veteran coach struggled to come up with the appropriate words.

"I really don't know how to say this," he said, now standing up in the middle of the room. "Deception definitely is the key. It helps us with what we're trying to do. I guess you can say it gives us an edge because defenses have to hesitate for a second before they come after us.

"But people don't realize that we still have to block and tackle just like any other team. This isn't some kind of magical offense. It will work, but only if the players execute it with good football technique.

"The reason I like it, I guess, is because it gives us that little advantage. It won't help us beat a team that's five touchdowns better than us, but it might be the difference if we're playing someone who's equal."

Paddy learned the basics of the offense from Elmer Engle while coaching junior varsity football at Bay City Central in the early 1950s. Engle was the head coach and had played under a similar system at the University of Illinois.

There are only a handful of coaches in Michigan who teach the deceiving version of the Wing-T, and most of them learned it from either Engle or Paddy.

Paddy does not want to be recognized as just an offensive football coach, though.

"I can do some other things," he said with a modest tone. "When I was a head coach, I felt my teams played good defense as well. Our defense was just overshadowed because we scored a lot of points."

Paddy also was a successful basketball boss. Performing double duty for more than 30 years of his career, he led a Bay City Central team to the regional finals and a West Bloomfield squad to the 1970 state semifinals.

Paddy describes himself as a hard-nosed coach — which is on target with his reputation.

"I use the same philosophy on the field as I used in the classroom," he said. "If kids aren't paying attention, they can't learn. I don't tolerate any screwing around."

When asked if he has mellowed over the years, Paddy shook his head side to side and said "no." A minute later, however, he changed his answer.

"I'm a little nicer now," he said while laughing. "Let's put it this way. I insist the same things be done, but I say them with less intensity."

Paddy is less intense off the field as well. He enjoys golfing and reading in his spare time, and is able to put football aside during the off-season.

Paddy also has a wife (June), two daughters (Jan and Libby), a dog and a cat to keep him busy. And, of course, there is always a chore or two to do around the house.

His daughter, Jan, actually has a role in the Olivet coaching job. Paddy plans to stay at her home in Lansing at least one night a week during the season to alleviate the driving time.

As for the future, Paddy says he will just play it by ear. He predicts a short stay at Olivet and will not rule out another high school job if his good health holds up.

At Cass City, Paddy was named athletic director and assumed head coaching duties in football, basketball, baseball and track just six months after returning from the Phillipine Islands.

His next move came six years later as he took over Bay City Central's junior varsity football and basketball teams. He remained an assistant football coach the following four seasons while moving up as a basketball mentor.

Then, in 1957, Paddy signed with West Bloomfield High School where he served as head football and basketball coach for 16 years. He also was an athletic director for eight years.

From there, he went to Orchard Lake St Mary's for five seasons, took two years off and then directed Ortonville Brandon's grid squad for seven years.

The highlight of his career came in his final season at Orchard Lake St. Mary's. He led the Eaglets to a 13-0 record and Class C state championship, defeating West Iron County, 48-13, in the title game at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Paddy is unable to compile a career coaching record, but estimates a victory total of 195. He has directed four undefeated teams.

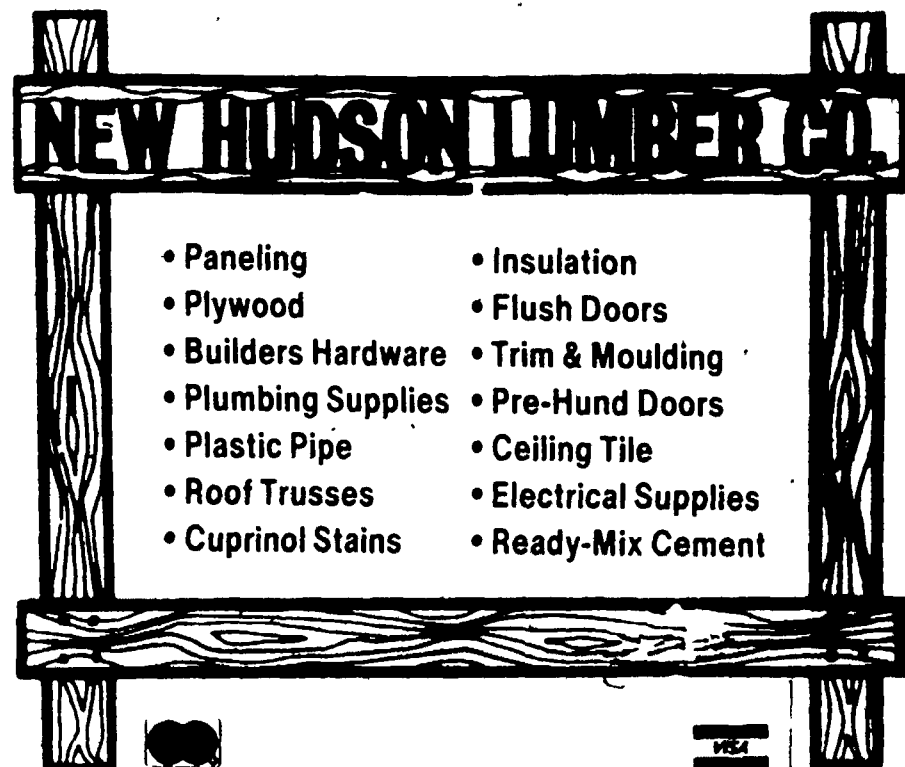

Born and raised in Benton Harbor, Paddy attended the University of Michigan where he studied to be a teacher. He also was a member of the football and wrestling teams.

"To be honest, I got into teaching so I could coach," he said. It's something I always wanted to do."

And he's still doing it 42 years later.

A Life of 'Shear' Enjoyment

Story by Lora Helou □ Photography by John Galloway

For 32 years, he's been a good listener, a good clipper and can discuss "just about anything under the sun"

Gary Treganowan fashions his life with a pair of scissors. In an unpretentious brick building tucked away on Wells Street in the City of South Lyon, Treganowan has cut himself the distinction of owning and operating a business in the same location longer than any other downtown merchant.

A barber for 32 years, Treganowan has outlasted the whitewashed windows and "for sale" signs which have been known to blemish the downtown storefronts.

"I know a lot of people who grew up in South Lyon and still live here — I'm one of them. It must be a good place to live. I know it's a good place to work," he remarked of his lifestyle that provides "shear" enjoyment.

Treganowan operates Town and Country Barber Shop five days a week. His wife, Christine, runs a beauty salon in the back of the building.

Treganowan began his career as a barber in 1956, two years after graduating from South Lyon High School. His father, Fred, had the place built to house the barbershop for his two sons, Gary and Jack. The brother barbers worked together until Jack was killed in a freak plane crash at New Hudson airport in 1960.

After that, Gary took in other apprentice barbers and now he works by himself. Christine has remodeled the back as her beauty salon. Her original oil paintings decorate the walls in both the front and back.

Treganowan is a good listener. He can handle a pair of scissors and a comb swiftly and efficiently while discussing "just about anything under the sun," he said. His customers usually dictate the topic of conversation.

"You have to be sensitive and listen. After a while you get to read people. Some people are in talkative moods and others just want to be quiet," he related.

"One of the interesting things about this job is that everybody who comes through the door is expert at something. Some of the older people are walking books with interesting occupations or experiences from some time back here in town. It's a treat to listen, and I learn a lot, too," said Treganowan.

A newcomer to the area walking down the city streets sees the florist shop, antique shops, auto parts distributors or the local saddlery. A walking anthology of city history, Treganowan sees beyond those window trimmings.

He bowled in what is now the South Lyon Resale Shop, 120 E. Lake St. He bought groceries from Gordy Showerman in what is now Stratton's Auto Parts store, 125 E. Lake St. Even his own barbershop stands on the ground which used to be the local livery stable.

Treganowan, the father of four, enjoys having his children attend school in the same community he did.

"It's (the community) grown a lot now. . . But one of the best things about South Lyon is that it's a friendly place to be and I hope that part of the community doesn't change after all this growth we're witnessing," he said.

"Guys whose hair I used to cut over 20 years ago are bringing in their sons. I get a real kick out of that, although it's kind of dating me," he quipped.

Cruising in freshly waxed cars was prime entertainment in Treganowan's high school days, during the early 1950s.

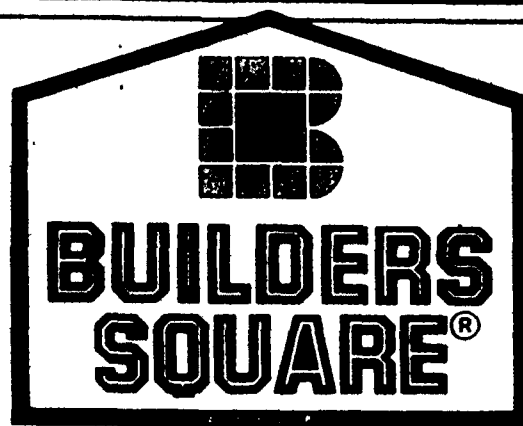

"Treg," as he was often called by friends, would motor to Island Lake State Recreation Area, the Lakes Drive-In in Brighton, a burger stand in Howell or even to a roller skating rink in Plymouth.

Treg's first job was as a general laborer at John Cartis' apple orchard, located at the corner of Milford and Ten Mile roads. It was while working there he managed to save $100, enough to buy from his uncle his first set of wheels, a '37 Ford. His twinkling eyes tell of fond remembrances of his first solo drive, first date and even the inaugural "ding" which dented the passenger door.

Since the old city water tower on Detroit Street was torn down in the early 1980s, Treganowan now admits to a high school prank in which he and his buddies painted their "Fellas" group insignia on the tower one night during his senior year. Treg, a bit afraid of heights, stood lookout half-way up the tower.

"All the evidence has been destroyed now. I guess the statute of limitations on that stunt has run out. . . I just hope my kids don't get any ideas," he cajoled.

Gary and Christine Treganowan now live in Green Oak Township with their children Debbie, Jennifer, Jason and John.

HOSPITAL

Sharing a Dream.

Twenty-five years ago, families in western Oakland County had no choice. Going to the hospital meant a long trip to the city. But a healthy, growing community wants and needs its own hospital. So the planning began.

This is the story of a true "community" hospital. A dream come true. It's the story of a first-class facility—Huron Valley Hospital. Fully equipped. Fully staffed. Capable of handling a full range of medical problems. It's about neighbors, business leaders and local government officials working together to build a hospital and facilitate a better life for everyone. It's the story of a local resource. A neighbor. A friend. A dream.

The Resources to Fulfill Our Mission.

Our mission is to be a full-service, community hospital dedicated to the total health care needs of western Oakland and eastern Livingston Counties. To this end we employ a staff of more than 400 persons in one of America's newest and best equipped hospital facilities. With these important resources, we are able to provide excellent patient care and important Community Health Education and Wellness programs.

Actual construction of our 153,000 square foot facility was begun in October 1984, and the hospital was dedicated March 2, 1986.

As of this writing we are licensed to operate 119 Medical/Surgical beds, 13 Obstetrics beds, 11 Pediatrics beds and 10 Intensive Care/Coronary Care beds for a total of 153 patient beds.

More than 300 physicians in 37 specialties make up our medical staff. We have over 170 registered nurses and a complete clinical staff.

We are a Health System affiliate of The Detroit Medical Center, accredited by the JCAHO (Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations), and are members of the Michigan Hospital Association and the American Hospital Association.

Our Professional Staff.

More than 300 physicians, including medical doctors (M.D.s), doctors of osteopathy (D.O.s) and doctors of dental surgery (D.D.S.s) have chosen to work and practice at Huron Valley Hospital. These physicians represent virtually all branches of medicine and collectively constitute a vital community resource. We have internal medicine physicians, obstetricians and pediatricians on duty 24 hours a day in the hospital or immediately available.

The registered nurse staff at Huron Valley Hospital is very special. Trained at some of the finest hospitals and medical centers, these professionals have many years of skilled experience to offer. They have chosen Huron Valley Hospital because here they have a special opportunity to participate in the management and delivery of primary patient care.

Our professional team also includes a wide spectrum of technologists and specialists in such areas as cardiopulmonary; laboratory and pharmacy services; radiology and medical imaging; physical, respiratory, speech and language therapy; occupational health; diet and nutrition; exercise and many other specialized services for total health care.

All of these fine professionals make up an outstanding medical team that is dedicated not just to staying current but to leading the way with the latest medical developments in their fields. In a world of rapidly changing technology, Huron Valley Hospital professionals recognize that their need for learning never ends.

Continuing professional growth, education and development are encouraged and are important requirements for continued affiliation with this hospital.

Family-Centered Care.

Our hospital is new and designed to be friendly and inviting. Visit us and bring your family. Our helpful staff will show you how this modern hospital works.

Health care professionals have long recognized that a comfortable setting can help speed recovery. That's why our rooms are bright, homey, and offer views of the surrounding woods and countryside. All rooms have individual telephones and television sets. Private rooms are available.

Because we're close to home, it's easy for family and friends to visit and help speed the patient's recovery. Our flexible visiting hours also help. When visitors are present at mealtime, they are encouraged to order a guest tray and dine with the patient. Visitors may also order from our award-winning menu, just as patients do (subject, of course, to medical restrictions).

All of this special close-to-home care is part of the Huron Valley Hospital Family-Centered Health Care concept. This unique approach to patient care combines state-of-the-art medical treatment with the healing power of family love in comfortable, familiar surroundings.

Overnight Patient Care.

If you're a patient, and are going to be with us one or more nights for medical, surgical, obstetric, gynecology, pediatric, telemetry or critical care, we'll do everything possible to make you feel comfortable. We understand that entering a hospital for any reason can be worrisome, and all of our doctors, nurses and clinical staff are specially trained and personally concerned about dealing with those patient fears that are natural at such a time.

Surgery. Inpatient and Outpatient.

Our Department of Surgery includes 16 surgical specialties, plus highly skilled anesthesiologists. There are four modern surgical and endoscopy rooms to handle a wide variety of surgical procedures. The suites feature the most up-to-date equipment and are staffed with experienced professionals, recruited for their knowledge, experience and expertise in surgical procedures and ability to care for patients undergoing surgery.

Blood tests and other preadmission tests are usually performed on an outpatient basis two to seven days before the scheduled surgery date.

The advance testing permits the anesthesiologists and surgeon to review the results, and provides time for the Primary Care Nurse to counsel both the patient and the family on what to expect and how to prepare for the hospital experience.

When the day for surgery arrives, specially trained registered nurses assist highly respected surgeons and other specialists in each phase of operative care. Following surgery, whether performed on an inpatient or outpatient basis, patients are monitored in modern recovery rooms that provide exceptional patient care. Pediatric outpatients often complete their recovery in the pediatrics area of the hospital with other young patients.

Whether they are performed on an inpatient or outpatient basis, surgical procedures conducted in a full-service hospital such as ours are more cost-efficient for both patients and their families. And our support services and professional resources help to insure safety and a fast response to any medical emergency.

After patients are discharged, their nurses follow up with telephone calls to verify or ascertain progress, clarify discharge instructions and answer questions.

Primary Care Nursing.

At Huron Valley Hospital, each patient is assigned a Primary Care Nurse. Under the direction of the attending physician, this nurse plans, coordinates and provides the patient's total care, and serves as the personal liaison between patient, family, doctor, supporting physicians, hospital, and community. This insures continuity of care and creates a kind of bond with the members of the medical team, thus providing the patient with optimum treatment, rest and care. Our Primary Care Nursing program, through follow-up phone calls, promotes close relationships between nurse and patient even after the hospital stay. "My nurse" is a phrase that really means something here at Huron Valley Hospital.

Emergency Room Care.

Huron Valley Hospital is a dynamic, modern, state-of-the-art facility. Our equipment, technology and resources (including our staff of highly skilled physicians, nurses, professional staff and therapists) are comparable to those in much larger metropolitan hospitals, and far exceed the capabilities of typical community hospitals.

Our Emergency Room is a designated Level II Emergency Department. It is equipped with a Cardiac Room, a Trauma Room, an Obstetrics/Gynecology Room, an Orthopedic Room, an Ear/Nose/Throat Room and facilities to handle all emergencies including pediatrics, ophthalmology, neurosurgery, general, oral and plastic surgery. Physicians are on duty 24 hours a day.

Our emergency medicine physicians work closely with the hospital's extensive Surgery, Laboratory and Radiology Departments. And all staff specialists are on call to the Emergency Room around the clock. This makes it possible for us to respond to any emergency—from industrial accidents to sports injuries to auto accidents.

A fully equipped Trauma Room is ready and staffed to handle head injuries, poisonings and other serious injuries. And our Emergency Medical Service (EMS) communications network allows our emergency physicians to monitor patients at the accident scene electronically, and direct their care from the hospital.

Most important, this outstanding emergency capability is available to you right here in western Oakland County. No longer do you have to drive miles and miles to find a quality hospital Emergency Room. Patients who require surgery or further treatment can be admitted directly into a private or semi-private room, eliminating the need for an ambulance ride to another facility. There is also a heliport on the hospital grounds to accommodate patients who must be transported by air.

When an emergency brings a patient to Huron Valley Hospital, that patient can stay here for almost any type of treatment required.

Patient Advocacy.

At Huron Valley Hospital, the patient comes first. To make sure that patients needs are properly identified and met, a patient advocate is a vital part of the health care team. First and foremost, this advocate is a good listener, who will respond to all patient and hospital-related family concerns. This person's job is to explain and interpret hospital policies and procedures, answer questions about patient's rights and responsibilities, and provide a human channel for patients to resolve any hospital concerns or issues.

*"I very much appreciate the hospital including pastors as part of a total healing effort.
We really are all part of this community."*

Dr. Philip Hazelton

Senior Minister

Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian

Critical Care Facilities.

Area families now have a Critical Care Unit providing medical, surgical and coronary intensive care close by. Staffed by a professional Critical Care Team, this is the patient care unit of the hospital which provides specialized surveillance and support of vital functions for patients with acute or potentially life-threatening impairments or conditions.

Our 10-bed Critical Care Unit was designed and built with the very latest equipment and technology, including comprehensive computerized bedside monitoring. Patients who may require this intensive monitoring include those who have suffered a heart attack, angina pectoris or who have had a pacemaker implant.

Built in the preferred modern, open circular design, this facility enables attending physicians, and Critical Care Nurses to be just steps away from each patient. The professionals in this unit are all specially certified to deliver and monitor advanced Critical Care medical procedures.

Next to the Critical Care Unit is a special facility designed for patients who need continuous monitoring by both telemetry and the nursing staff, but do not require the same degree of surveillance practiced in Intensive Care.

Patients requiring critical care often develop that need suddenly and without warning. Now the care and the facility they need is only minutes from home at Huron Valley Hospital.

Occupational Health.

Good Health is Good Business.

Area business and industry have a new resource for occupational health services—close and convenient to the work place. Services include 24-hour care for work-related injuries, emergency care for industrial accidents, preemployment physicals, executive physicals, return to work exams, immunizations and worksite safety consultations.

Cardiopulmonary and Neuroscience.

Huron Valley Hospital has special programs for the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of heart and lung disease. These critical areas are all under the medical direction of cardiologists and pulmonologists who direct and interpret diagnostic studies. Cardiac specialists here utilize the latest non-invasive diagnostic procedures, including Holter monitoring, stress testing, echocardiography and cardiac doppler. Our advanced computerized medical imaging technology gives physicians the opportunity to examine the body without the traditional invasive risks. Cholesterol measurements, blood pressure checks, pulmonary function testing and risk factor analysis are also used as diagnostic tools.

We also offer respiratory therapy treatments, continuous ventilation for adults and neonates, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, pulmonary function, oxygen therapy and consulting services to physicians, patients and families requiring home-care procedures in this vital area.

Cardiac Rehabilitation.

Our Cardiac Rehabilitation program is exceptionally well qualified to help patients recover from heart attack, angioplasty, cardiac transplant, coronary artery bypass graft and/or valve replacement. Many such patients are referred to us from tertiary care hospitals for recovery close to home.

Using a multidisciplinary approach, our highly regarded staff provides patients with optimal conditions for improving their physiological, psychological and behavioral functions. This staff includes a clinical nurse specialist and an exercise specialist under the medical direction of a Board-Certified cardiologist. Rehabilitation Phase I begins immediately after a cardiac event. Specific guidelines are developed for the progression of physical activity, both supervised and private. Phase II is an outpatient program which supervises further physical recovery with exercise, training and continuous monitoring.

Our Cardiac Rehabilitation staff also works with cardiac-prone individuals to help them reduce the risk of coronary artery disease.

Follow-Up Care.

At Huron Valley Hospital, our concern (and even our service) continues after the patient goes home. Home-care services are usually arranged in advance with one of our social workers or discharge planners. They contact the hospital's Central Processing Department or a community agency regarding medical supplies or equipment such as dressings, catheters, beds, wheelchairs or orthopedic equipment ordered by the physician for in-home use. Surgical outpatients as well as all inpatients can expect to receive a personal phone call from their Primary Care Nurse after discharge. The nurse checks on recovery progress and answers questions.

Physical Therapy and Rehabilitation programs, as well as discharge planning and a wide variety of outpatient follow-up procedures, are all part of the Huron Valley Hospital Continuing Care concept.

Medical social workers are available to help discharged patients and their families with professional counseling and assistance in coping with personal and family problems created or aggravated by illness, disability or the anxiety of hospitalization.

After patients are discharged and feeling better, our president contacts them to ask about the care they received. We listen to find out what patients want and don't want, like and don't like. We want to know how we can serve our patients better in every way.

These kinds of services may go beyond what is traditionally thought of as "patient care." But, at Huron Valley Hospital, they're simply part of our comprehensive continuous efforts to be responsive to the needs and expectations—both in wellness and illness—of all our patients, their families and the community.

Pharmacy and I.V. Therapy Services.

Our well-stocked and staffed Pharmacy has been designed to serve the comprehensive drug and medicine needs of a full-service community hospital. Its primary responsibility is to insure that high-quality pharmaceutical services are provided to all patients.

In addition to its key role in unit dose drug distribution and I.V. therapy, the Pharmacy is also a source for diabetes educational information, cardiac rehabilitation supplies and drug information for all types of patients and families. Its staff of registered pharmacists is also involved with pharmacokinetic drug dosing and monitoring.

Laboratory Services.

When a doctor requests blood tests or analysis of other body fluids and/or tissue, or any other type of laboratory test, the Huron Valley Hospital Laboratory provides the necessary resources to meet the physician's needs. Using the latest in computerized technology, and working under the supervision of a qualified staff pathologist, our registered medical technologists are capable of performing over 500 different tests. These include tests on blood, tissue, lymph, bone and much more.

When specialized tests, such as microbiology tissue testing, are required, we work in collaboration with the reference and referral laboratories at such respected institutions as Harper Hospital, Grace Hospital and Children's Hospital of Michigan.

Physical Therapy.

Our Physical Therapy Department provides the multiplicity of services required to evaluate and treat inpatients and outpatients with physical dysfunction. Licensed physical therapists plan therapy programs utilizing the latest equipment designed to help patients regain their normal strength and flexibility after primary treatment.

Services provided by the Physical Therapy Department at Huron Valley Hospital include moist heat, paraffin, shortwave diathermy, electrical stimulation, whirlpool, isokinetic exercise and joint testing, ultrasound, kinetron and many other specialized types of therapy.

Our physical therapists help with soft tissue mobilization, joint mobilization, pelvic and cervical traction, gait training, hand rehabilitation, nerve reeducation, infectious wound management, amputee training, prosthetic training and many other areas of recovery.

They are also trained in the rehabilitation of neurological dysfunctions, neuromuscular dysfunctions, and postsurgical trauma therapy.

The medical director of this department is an orthopedic surgeon. Psychiatrists are also available for consultation.

Speech and Occupational Therapy.

Speech and Language Pathology and Occupational Therapy services at Huron Valley Hospital are dedicated to helping patients regain, restore, reinforce and improve communication disorders and physical performance. Particular emphasis is put on the learning skills and functions necessary for performing the activities of daily living.

These services are designed to assist both children and adults with a wide range of disorders, including neurological deficits, upper extremity injuries, arthritis or joint deformities, burns, blindness, mastectomies, muscle disorders, amputations, stroke, head injury, neuromuscular disease, delayed development, hearing impairment, voice problems, stuttering, swallowing and eating disorders.

Radiology Services.

Because we are a full-service medical/surgical hospital, we have the resources to help physicians diagnose patient problems and to help them monitor patient progress, whether the patient is being admitted or being treated on an outpatient basis.

We offer comprehensive diagnostic radiology and medical imaging capabilities. Our Radiology services include everything from the traditional X-ray that photographs broken bones and searches for other internal problems, to ultrasound and full-body C.T. scans, low-radiation mammography and nuclear medicine scanning. Board-Certified radiologists interpret the findings and provide professional support to doctors who refer their patients for diagnostic testing.

This combination of advanced equipment and specially trained professionals is generally available only in a full-service facility such as Huron Valley Hospital.

Community Health Education.

Huron Valley Hospital works hard to promote better health in the community. We offer a variety of health promotion programs to foster awareness, influence attitudes, and identify alternatives, so that individuals can make informed choices and positive behavior changes toward better health.

Our Community Health and Wellness program and Family Life Education program include a Children's Health Fair, Senior Citizens' Health Talks and activities, classes in "kicking" the smoking habit, cardiopulmonary resuscitation, first aid, birth awareness and many other valuable learning and growing opportunities.

We also sponsor a number of support groups which help patients and family members cope with chronic illnesses.

Physician Referral Program.

Through our Physician Referral Program we put families and individuals in touch with our affiliated doctors, who have met the high standards required to practice at Huron Valley Hospital. Many of these fine professionals practice in the community, and many specialists also serve on the staff of teaching hospitals, or have academic appointments at Wayne State University School of Medicine. This referral service allows people in the community to establish a family-doctor relationship that is convenient and compatible whether they are long time residents or new to the area. In addition, this individualized referral eliminates the stress of trying to locate a doctor during a medical emergency.

A Special Place for Children.

A stay at any hospital can be especially unsettling for children. At Huron Valley Hospital, we take extra steps to help children feel safe and secure. Our Primary Nurses really get to know their patients, even when they're only here for a short time. What's more, with our flexible visiting hours, and the availability of overnight accommodations for parents, moms and dads can always be close to their little ones. This is a comforting arrangement for both parent and child.

Special orientation tours and Community Education programs such as our preschool and kindergarten class visits and "Children's Health Fair" help young people get to know the hospital. We strongly urge teachers and parents to take advantage of these events and bring their children.

Maternal/Child Care.

The birth of a child is a special event—one that is best shared by the entire family. And, since Huron Valley Hospital is close to home, most family members and friends can visit frequently, enjoy and participate in the experience. Sharing the joy of birth is another major feature of our Family-Centered Care.

With a normal delivery, mothers can choose from a variety of birthing concepts, including intimate-style labor and delivery and postnatal care, in which fathers can participate in the miracle of birth. Our more traditional, fully equipped labor and modern delivery rooms are, of course, still the choice of many doctors and mothers.

An obstetrician and a pediatrician are always available 24 hours a day. Consulting services in neonatology and perinatology are available right here, through our affiliation with The Detroit Medical Center.

In our bright and cheerful Maternity Unit, mothers and newborns can enjoy "couplet care."

This concept brings newborn and mother together, in the same room whenever possible, and under the care and direction of the same registered nurse. Of course, new moms need rest, too, so couplet care is carefully monitored for the good health of both baby and mother.

To prepare parents and acquaint the entire family with the hospital, preadmission tours and Family Life Education classes are available.

Speaking to Neighbors.

Local civic, professional and community groups with an interest in any aspect of health care are invited to contact our Speakers' Bureau. Huron Valley Hospital can provide health professionals to address seniors, young people, families, students, and others on such topics as wellness, nutrition, high blood pressure, heart disease, stress management, weight management, lifestyle changes or any other current health issue.

All these services, all these programs, and many more are available at your community hospital—Huron Valley Hospital.

Serving Behind the Scenes.

Huron Valley Hospital was designed and built to serve the families of western Oakland and eastern Livingston Counties. More than 80 percent of the people who work in the hospital actually live in this area. They are your neighbors and friends. The people just down the road and across the street.

Of course our physicians, nurses and professional staff are the most visible to patients and visitors. But they are supported by a large group of dedicated service professionals who are also an essential part of the Huron Valley Hospital family.

Our Dietary Services Department develops menus that satisfy patients' palates as well as their nutritional needs. The registered dieticians who head up this department also provide nutritional counseling to patients with special needs, such as diabetics or persons recovering from cardiac problems.

The Environmental Services staff is busy around the clock helping make patients comfortable with clean and attractive rooms. Friendly, neighborhood staffing creates a pleasant "comfort zone" for patients. Plant Operations staff and our biomedical technicians, along with Environmental Services personnel, make certain the building and grounds are clean and hospital equipment is in top working condition, and that everything meets our high safety standards.

Admitting and switchboard personnel have the responsibility to make patients and their families and friends feel at home when they call and when they walk in the door. Medical Records and Data Processing keep track of myriad patient records, preadmission reviews, insurance verifications and computerized reports.

The Materials Management group works to purchase and maintain an adequate inventory and distribution of supplies—from antiseptic cleaners to linens to X-ray film—while keeping a tight control on cost.

The Human Resources group keeps our top quality staff at full force—currently over 400 full and part-time employees. And the Community Relations team helps keep area residents, businesses, industry, physicians and employees informed about hospital services and events.

Volunteers Add Their Support.

A sure sign of the community enthusiasm which greeted the opening of Huron Valley Hospital was the spontaneous offer by hundreds of people to serve as volunteers.

More than 200 people now participate in the Huron Valley Hospital Auxiliary. Most are involved indirectly with patient care, offering friendly assistance to hospitalized patients and departmental staff.

A welcome and important contributing group are the many local clergy who visit the hospital regularly. Through visits with patients and their families, they provide a large share of the spiritual support that's so much a part of total patient care. A nondenominational meditation lounge is maintained at the hospital for use by clergy, patients, families and staff.

Neighbors.

This is the story of Huron Valley Hospital. It's about advanced technology and modern medical equipment. Surgical suites and laboratories. Hundreds of daily details that make up a full-service hospital. It's about service and caring.

But most of all it's a story about the people, the neighbors, who make this hospital "work." Physicians, nurses, medical and nonmedical staff, volunteers, patients, community and business leaders.

Huron Valley Hospital. Friend. Neighbor.

For more information about the hospital, its beginnings, current services, staff and/or future plans, please contact our office of Community Relations at (313) 360-3450.
