Smoke ban in schools takes effect

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The final cloud of smoke has been lifted from Northville schools, as the board of education adopted a student no smoking policy last Monday.

The action comes after months of review by a school board subcommittee, which recommended a student smoking ban.

The no smoking policy bans students from possessing, smoking, chewing or using tobacco products at school, on the school bus, or at any school related activity.

Superintendent George Bell said student were previously able to smoke in a small courtyard outside of the school building.

He added that the spot was not an officially designated smoking place, but rather an area where school officials accepted student smoking.

Bell said even though the legal smoking age is 18, all students are affected by the smoking ban. He added that teachers will continue to be furnished with a smoking lounge, as a part of their contractual agreement.

High school principal David Bolitho said he has talking with students to prepare them for the adoption of the ban. He added a violation of the ban will result in suspensions.

"I alerted students that there may be a change (in the smoking policy)," Bolitho said. "They are not happy with it, but they know it is coming."

Bolitho added he invited students affected by the policy change to attend the June 27 school board meeting to voice their opinions, but

Council continues debate on deck issue

By BOB NEEDHAM

The Planning Commission recommendation for a new ordinance on backyard decks was written to allow decks in some yards which currently cannot have them, but discussion of the issue at last week's City Council meeting headed in a different direction — towards possibly adding more regulations on what can and cannot be built.

The Planning Commission took up the issue after complaints — and applications to the Board of Zoning Appeals — over the way the city zoning ordinance is worded. The rules currently prohibit anything, including decks, extending into the area required as a back yard.

Therefore, a house with a minimum-sized backyard cannot have a deck — but a deck-like structure could be built within the yard as long as it was not attached to the house. The rules have stopped some residents of the Pheasant Hills and Abbey Knoll Estates subdivisions from adding decks to their homes.

After several sessions of debate, the Planning Commission recommended that the council adopt a revision which defines decks and explicitly permits them up to 20 feet from the rear lot line, not extending into designated side or front yards.

The Planning Commission's ordinance proposal defines a deck as "a structure which is non-habitable, uncovered, unenclosed, erected and joined together and placed on a permanent foundation."

The 20-foot clause was based on similar provisions in surrounding communities.

When the proposal came before the City Council, though, several members said that decks might need some more regulation. The city administration was charged with looking into clarifications of restrictions for decks going into side yards and decks taller than one story.

"I just don't know if this addresses what my concerns are," Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said of the recommendation. For example, she said, two decks in adjoining rear yards might be within 40 feet of each other.

Ayers also suggested decks might require more setback from an adjacent house than another house would, since an enclosed deck might produce more noise.

Council Member Paul Folino questioned the recommendation on two fronts, saying that the ordinance should be clearer about not allowing decks into side yard areas, including those in pie-shaped lots; and that it should limit the size of second and third deck levels to a percentage of the lowest level.

City Manager Steve Walters told the council that the Planning Commission had decided not to include any additional restrictions in its recommendation, but that did not necessarily mean the commission members would oppose such a move. "The Planning Commission may be dealt a whole new deck here," he commented.

The council members asked Walters to report back at the next council meeting, set for Monday, July 18. The Planning Commission is scheduled to meet the following night.

Oil contracts raise concern

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Oil. The word is taking on different meanings for residents in Northville Township who are being wooed by visions of a potential oil find. Is it black gold — or fool's gold?

The issue involves 106 property owners living on 120 acres of land situated in the Grandview Acres and Meadowbrook subdivisions. These subdivisions are located on the north side of Seven Mile Road, directly across from the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

Recently, Elexco Land Services, Inc., working as an agent for a Traverse City-based oil and gas company, has been attempting to secure the mineral rights from residents.

According to Joe Munsey, senior landman for Elexco, there has been a good response by residents on each of the three 40-acre plots of land. "We have a good lease hold position in the project," he said.

Munsey said the offer to sign a lease includes a royalty from the oil company in the event of an oil strike, plus a signing bonus of $100 per acre of land.

"It is less cost efficient to buy the land rather than lease it. We are telling property owners to let us take the risk of drilling," he said, adding drilling of this sort is highly speculative.

Dale Ryan, a resident in the project area, said he signed an oil lease after consulting a neighbor who had spoken with an attorney.

"I was given $550 for my 5.5 acres and was told that there will not be any drilling on my property," Ryan said. "Besides, even though it won't make me rich, I won't beef about the money."

But, some project area residents who have consulted attorneys have received recommendations not to sign a lease. Also some residents who have already signed a lease are trying to find ways to break it (See

City offers help for water trouble

The City of Northville has pulled together a series of hints for residents who are having trouble with water pressure due to the drought. A memo from City Manager Steve Walters offers these suggestions:

1. Keep ample water for drinking in the refrigerator, and refill whenever water pressure is good.
2. Purchase commercially bottled water at the grocery store and set it aside as a backup source if you get caught short from the tap.
3. If the water is cloudy or colored from the tap, let it run until it turns clear before using the water for drinking or cooking.

IMPORTANT — If the tap sucks air when you turn it on, there is a risk of contaminating your water supply lines. The State Health Department recommends that you boil water for drinking and cooking, or use bottled water, until your water supply can be tested.

IMPORTANT — To help prevent contamination of your water lines if negative pressure (sucking air) occurs at the tap, do not use chemical spraying devices attached to a hose during low pressure periods, and do not leave any hoses attached to taps either inside or outside the house. If sucking air occurs, you should immediately turn the faucet off tightly.

4. While pressure is adequate during the day, fill the bathtub full with cold water. This will provide a supply for buckets of water which can be used to rinse dishes, do minor cleaning, and flush the toilet while water pressure is low.
5. After the toilet has been used, pour a bucket of water into the bowl at a steady rate. This will produce the same normal flushing action. Afterward, be sure the normal water level remains in the Minimum age requirements may drop at Allen Terrace

By BOB NEEDHAM

The minimum age for applying to live at Allen Terrace, the city-owned senior citizens housing project, could be dropping from 62 to 60 years.

A Housing Commission recommendation to make the change came before the City Council last week, but council members delayed any action on the issue until receiving some more information.

The Allen Terrace Residents' Council had no objections to the proposal. A memo from the Housing Commission to the council lists the rationale for the recommendation:

- "Maintaining a senior citizen age group at Allen Terrace.
 - "The Older Americans Act recognizes age 60 as the minimum age.
 - "Persons with lower income(s) prior to being eligible for Social Security have difficulty finding affordable housing in the area.
 - "There would be minimal impact on the waiting list."
- But that impact — and the possible effect on the Allen Terrace Trust Fund, a commission-run fund to provide rent subsidies to low-income Allen Terrace residents — were a couple of the reasons council members decided to wait before acting on the recommendation.

"We're trying to serve the community the best we can and we know we can't serve them all," Housing Director Fran Hopp said Monday. "You can't do for everybody."

Admission to Allen Terrace is a somewhat involved process with a five-level waiting list (see related story). And although there are probably between 400 and 500 people on the list, Hopp said lowering the age two years would probably have very little effect on that.

By the end of the year, she estimated, the lower age would probably result in fewer than 10 new applicants, and those few would probably be very deserving. In addition, they would probably all be people who would be on the list eventually, she said.

"Probably the bottom line is, at what age does one become a senior?" Hopp said at the council meeting. Occasionally, people want to move into Allen Terrace earlier than the minimum age for economic reasons, she said.

"They're literally being forced out of the community while they're waiting for another candle on the cake," she said. "It's not frequent, but it does occur. . . . At least, at 62, you have a fixed income, and frequently at 60 you don't. What you have is a house that is draining you financially."

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers questioned the effect of an age lowering on the waiting list and the trust fund.

"I'm not sure what it would do to the list. It seems if we have a large list of people, moving the age limit lower only increases our problem," she said. "I'm concerned that this could only make our waiting list longer."

In addition, Ayers said, "People who are former residents or parents of residents would keep moving farther on down the list."

Council member Jerry Mittman added that even though the idea of turning 62 has no inherent importance, no matter where the age limit is set there will be that "magic birthday" and, possibly, someone waiting to reach it.

Allen Terrace, at the north end of High Street, currently has 100 apartments. Rent is $427 including all utilities except telephone.

The council took no formal action on the minimum age issue last week, but asked for more information for future consideration of the proposal.

Council approves renovation work on senior citizen housing

Some remodeling work at Allen Terrace was approved by the City Council last week.

On recommendations from the Housing Commission, which oversees operation of Allen Terrace, the council approved spending $9,350 on renovation of the office and lobby area, and $8,403 for wall covering in the corridors on the first floor of the building.

The Housing Commission is also looking at buying 60 new chairs for the Activities Room at Allen Terrace, but that purchase will not come until hearing residents' comments about two different designs.

The renovation of the lobby area will be the biggest of the projects.

At the council meeting Tuesday, July 5, Housing Director Fran Hopp said that four employees currently work in two offices totalling less than 300 square feet. The offices are so tight that a wheelchair cannot really fit inside, she added.

The renovation will take a little space from the lobby to expand the offices.

The council approved both the renovation and the wall covering expenses 5-0, and gave the Housing Commission the authority to decide on which chairs to buy.

RED WING BASEBALL ON TV — When the Detroit Red Wings hockey stars showed up in Northville to take on the Northville Township and Northville City Police, over 2000 fans showed up to watch. Now everyone can enjoy the game on cable. The charity ball game will be shown on Omnicom, Channel 15 on Friday, July 15 at 8:30 p.m.

LIBRARY SUMMER PROGRAM — Northville Public Library's Summer Reading Program will feature the film "Gnomes" in the fifth of six presentations on Wednesday, July 20 at 2 p.m. This week's film is an animated story about a family of gnomes and how they outwit the trolls. Last week's poster puzzle winners were T.C. Lopez, Dan Pillatz and Matthew Schlanser.

STOP SIGNS APPROVED — After residents in the Bealtown area of the city requested stop signs on either Yerkes or Johnson streets, the City Council last week made the intersection a four-way stop.

The issue was one of several the Bealtown Residents Association recently asked the council to address. In a letter the association said the number of children in the area made a stop intersection desirable.

An initial Police Department recommendation was not in favor of a stop sign for traffic control reasons at the intersection, but the council members asked the police to reconsider the request with an eye toward limiting speeds.

The Police Department returned with a recommendation to make the intersection a four-way stop and the council approved the plan 5-0.

NEW COMPUTERS APPROVED — The Northville Police Department will be getting computer terminals in its three main patrol cars within a few months.

The terminals will be rented under an Oakland County program and will cost a total of $3,000 each year, with the first year's cost coming from a budgeted radio upgrade program. The computers will let police officers access the Law Enforcement Information Network — for information on license plates and the like — directly from the cars, instead of calling in to the station and tying up crowded radio channels, Police Chief Rod Cannon told the City Council July 5.

"It's not a new tool. It's merely coming down to the cost level where we can participate, based on countywide purchasing," Cannon said. "This doesn't replace the radio; it doesn't replace the clerk. It simply increases the officer's efficiency on the street."

The council approved the program 5-0.

Ford plant study to move forward

The city should move ahead quickly with a study to consider future uses of the Northville Ford Plant, City Council members agreed last week.

The council voted 5-0 to authorize City Manager Steve Walters to develop specifications and let bids for the study, which will be funded — up to $13,398 — from Community Development Block Grant money. The council decided to allocate the money before the formal announcement of the closing, in anticipation of such a move.

At the council meeting Tuesday, July 5, Mayor Chris Johnson reviewed a meeting between city and Ford Motor Company officials over the plant's future beyond the announced closing in December.

"It was essentially an initial working meeting to find out what plans, if any, Ford had for the property,"

Johnson said. The city officials heard that the only definite plans are to close the plant by the end of the year, Johnson said. The president of the local union at the plant had said he would oppose the closing.

Ford will help with the city's study by supplying data the company has already gathered to the city's consultant, Johnson said. "They simply asked us not to reinvent the wheel in terms of materials they already have on file," he said.

Ford asked that the city study be geared to offer several options for the site, which was the type of study the council discussed in applying for CDBG money. At a meeting of the city's Downtown Development Authority Tuesday, City Manager Steve Walters said the study would probably take the form of a set of conceptual alternative uses from an architect's standpoint and, without the Ford Land Development Corporation, which will coordinate the consideration of private and public uses.

Johnson suggested that suggestions for the future use of the site be funneled through Walters and then to Any use other than light industrial will require city approvals, Johnson said, particularly for rezoning.

Lapham Field allotment still stalled

The state House and Senate did not vote last week on a compromise version of a bill to award money to Northville and other communities for park development, but the Department of Natural Resources point man on the issue is still not worried.

Mike McDonald, the grants coordinator for the DNR's Recreation Division, had expected the state Legislature last week to formally appropriate money from the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund for 40 projects including the possible purchase of Lapham Field. But as of Monday, the Legislature had not acted on a compromise version of an appropriations bill.

Both houses have passed slightly different bills appropriating the money.

"The reconciliation has not formally occurred," McDonald said Monday.

However, he added, the legislative session has been extended to deal with many budget issues, and the trust fund issue should be resolved soon with Northville's money included.

"I'm sure that they're going to pass this before they adjourn," McDonald said.

If and when the Legislature approves the money, up to $123,000 would become available for the Northville Recreation Department to negotiate with the Lapham family for sale of 28 acres. Under the rules governing the trust fund, the local government — in this case, the Northville Community Recreation Department — must pay 25 percent of the cost for any purchase using the fund. Northville has money available in a park fund.

Lapham Field is off the north side of Six Mile Road west of Beck, and is currently home to four soccer fields.

The Northville grant recommendation is part of a $20.1 million allocation recommended by the trust fund's governing board. Of the total, $15.3 million would go to buy land and the rest to development. The fund includes money from oil and gas royalties from state-owned land.

Suicide victim found by family in Northville home

A Northville Township man was discovered by family members last Sunday after he hung himself, according to a township police report.

Police said the step-father and sister found the victim, who hung himself in the basement with electrical cords. According to police the victim said he was going to spend last Friday at his girlfriend's home, but did not return the following day.

The family told police the victim had not been doing anything out of the ordinary before his death. A note was found near the victim's body, police said.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A

Northville Township resident was issued tickets for driving with a suspended license and operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor last Sunday.

A township police officer observed the vehicle going left of the center lane while travelling eastbound on Six Mile Road.

The officer reported that after pulling over the vehicle he noted the driver did not have a driver's license and had a strong odor of intoxicants. The driver was identified from a Michigan department of corrections employee pass.

Police reported the driver performed slowly and incorrectly on a field sobriety test, and a preliminary blood test showed a blood alcohol level of .21 percent. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The man was given citations for OUIL and driving with a suspended license. He was released on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Northville Township resident was ticketed for operating under the influence of liquor last Saturday, according to a township police report.

Police observed the vehicle following a Detroit Free Press delivery truck. After pulling the driver of the vehicle over, police reported that he said he was following delivery people who he thought were moving out.

After having problems with field sobriety tests, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .22 percent.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL and released on $100 bond.

RADAR THEFT — Northville Township Police reported a radar detector was stolen last Saturday from an automobile outside of a residence on Malvern.

According to the police report, the radar detector, worth $300, was stolen from a 1987 Ford T-Bird, as the unknown persons crashed through the driver's door window, causing $150 worth of damage.

Police said a rock was used to break the window. Currently there are no suspects.

AUTO THEFT — An automobile was stolen from an employee of Meljer's last Saturday, according to a township police report.

Police said between 6 and 9:30 p.m. the employee, a resident of Westland, reported her Chevrolet Eurosport, worth $10,000, was stolen from the store parking lot.

Items inside the vehicle included a 35mm camera worth $150, a handmade quilt worth $300, and $20 in cash, the employee told police.

Police reported that smashed glass was evident where the vehicle was parked, but at present there is no other evidence or suspects.

GARAGE THEFT — Northville Township police reported the theft of a car phone and leaf blower from a resident's garage on Beck Road last Wednesday.

Between 11 p.m. on July 5 and 6 a.m. July 6 unknown persons entered the complainant's open garage, stealing a car phone worth $400 from his unlocked vehicle and a leaf blower worth $280, according to a township police report.

Police said they have no suspects or witnesses at present.

LOT ACCIDENT — A car driven by a Northville resident went out of control in a city parking lot Friday and ran into an electrical box.

According to a police report, the driver returned to the car, started it and had just put it into drive when the car lunged forward and hit the electrical box.

There were no serious injuries. The car was impounded for an investigation of what caused the malfunction.

SHED ROBBED — Two chainsaws were stolen from a tool shed on Dunsany Court last week, according to a city police report.

The theft occurred the night of July 6. An electric chainsaw and a gas chainsaw, each worth about $150, were stolen. The shed's lock was found a few yards from the shed, the report said.

WINDOW BROKEN — The window on an excavator parked at Amerman Elementary School was broken last week, a city police report said.

Some time the night of July 7 or morning of July 8 the window was broken, causing about $100 damage, the report said.

STATUE VANDALIZED — A religious statue at Allen Monuments on Northville Road was hit with a paint pellet last week, a police report said.

The night of July 6, an eight-foot statue was hit with an orange paint pellet, splattering the statue with the paint, the report said.

A driver in city parking lot Number 2 had a little trouble last week and ended up driving the car into a transformer. The driver was unhurt and the transformer suffered only minor injuries.

Local candidates run for office

Here is a roundup of candidates who have filed for election to represent the Northville area for various posts in the general election Nov. 8:

U.S. CONGRESS, 2ND DISTRICT — Incumbent Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) does not have a primary challenger. Two Democrats, Lana Pollack and Dean Baker, have also filed for the seat.

The second Congressional District covers all of Northville Township and the part of the City of Northville in Wayne County, in addition to Plymouth, part of Livonia and parts of several other counties.

U.S. CONGRESS, 18TH DISTRICT — Incumbent William Broomfield (R-Birmingham) will be challenged by Democrat Gary Kohut.

The 18th Congressional District includes the part of the City of Northville in Oakland County, all of the City of Novi, much of the rest of Oakland County, and parts of Livingston and Macomb counties.

STATE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, 60TH DISTRICT — Incumbent Willis Bullard Jr. (R-Milford) will face Democrat Kurt Thornbladh.

The 60th state house district covers the part of the City of Northville in Oakland County, all of the City of Novi, and much of the rest of western Oakland County.

STATE HOUSE, 36TH DISTRICT — Incumbent Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) will face Democrat Jeanne Stempfen, a resident of Northville Township.

The 36th district includes all of Northville Township, the part of the City of Northville within Wayne County, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and part of Canton Township.

OAKLAND COUNTY COMMISSION, 24TH DISTRICT — John Calandro (R-Nowi) will meet Democrat Leo Foley.

The 24th district covers the Oakland County part of the City of Northville, all of the City of Novi, South Lyon and Lyon Township.

WAYNE COUNTY COMMISSION, 10TH DISTRICT — Susan Heintz (R-Northville Township) is running unopposed. The district includes all of Northville Township and the Wayne County part of the City of Northville.

City parking lots to get facelift

Long-discussed plans for improving the parking situation downtown are scheduled to start becoming reality within a few months, with the first steps to include a redesign of one city lot and the construction of a new temporary lot.

Members of Northville's Downtown Development Authority Tuesday began detailed discussion of the first in a planned series of redesigns of downtown parking lots. The first to get attention is the lot off Dunlap street northeast of Main and Center streets, which could be rebuilt by the end of September. City Manager Steve Walters said.

Bob Warner, an engineer with McNeely & Lincoln Associates, showed a drawing of a lot redesign based on an architect's concept of rearranging aisles and moving landscaping. Warner told the DDA members the city could increase the capacity of that lot by 84 spaces for an estimated cost of $110,144.

"It's coming out, at a feasible price, to be better than alternatives," City Manager Steve Walters said.

The money for the project could come from a bond issue which would be paid off from money owed to the city by businesses which have bought parking space credits, Walters said.

The DDA asked Warner to make up more detailed engineering drawings, particularly showing how the new lot would be landscaped.

The project would mean the loss of that lot for about two weeks during construction, Walters said, but by that time the city may already have a temporary lot in place on Cady Street.

Warner also presented preliminary drawings of a plan to use the undeveloped Cady Street area as a parking lot until it is developed.

For about $30,000 to $35,000 the city could lay down a surface which would last up to five years, while other parking issues are settled, Walters said. The plan in the drawing would create 192 spaces.

"The surface that we're putting in will be little more than a gravel surface. But it will be firm and it won't develop chuckholes," Walters said.

Walters was scheduled to meet yesterday with the First Presbyterian Church to discuss its role in the project.

The DDA is set to meet again July 26 to discuss more detailed plans for the lot redesign.

Borders Books opens in Northville area

By PHIL GINOTTI

From MAD Magazine to "Conversations with Nietzsche" — Perhaps that's the reason Borders Books — in its relatively brief history — has risen to the top of a tough trade.

It could be the 65,000 fiction and non-fiction titles available, or the ordering philosophy ("As long as it's in print," says General Manager Sue Kennedy).

In any case, Borders Books has come to Novi. They opened a store in the Novi Town Center Saturday. It's the third store in Michigan, the fifth in the US.

That might not mean much to the average Joe, but for the avid reader — the one who goes to the bestsellers or slightly beyond — it means a lot.

"The size of inventory that we have is very large," Novi store General Manager Sue Kennedy said. "They range from things that are highly popular to a little bit more obscure."

"We have the scholarly and less widely read titles, but we certainly carry the other," she added.

Tom and Louis Borders opened their first store in Ann Arbor 15 years ago. Since then, stores have been opened in Indianapolis, Indiana and Atlanta. A Birmingham outlet was opened in 1985.

Borders will go into Novi with a slightly modified approach, hoping to hone in on a children-laden population. The children's section will be expanded slightly, occupying about one fourth of the store's 12,000 square foot floorspace. A one-plus year study revealed that Novi is "ripe" for a Borders store.

"We think the area, with the quality educational systems and demographics, will support something like this," she said. "It's a need here and we think it will be a very popular department."

The special children's section will place on emphasis on reading or reading related materials, like stuffed animals to go along with theme books. Clifford the giant red dog is on display. Borders also stocks the Beatrix Potter children's illustrated books as well as a collection of related tiny stuffed mice, moles and other little fuzzy creatures featured in the Potter books.

Borders offers 10 percent discounts on most hardcover titles as well as a 30 percent discount on New York Times bestsellers. Another Borders trademark is the monthly "Staff Selections," where the staff puts together a recommended five books, which are then discounted by 30 percent.

Staff selections for July include: "Nora," a biography of James Joyce's wife, written by Brenda Maddox; "The Automobile Age," by James J. Flink; "Adam, Eve, and the Serpent," by Elaine Pagels; and short stories, "Whoever Finds This: I Love You," by Faye Moskowitz and "Where I'm Calling From," by Raymond Carver.

Kennedy said business was "phenomenal" in the first weekend in Novi.

"Our first two days were just great," she said. "We're happy to be here."

Each Borders outlet is independently managed, but controlled by a parent company, Book Inventory Systems of Ann Arbor.

The drought may have put water on just about everybody's mind. Above, Dan O'Donnell of Livonia stops by Northville's well to get a fill up.

Local residents to allow oil drilling in backyards?

Carol Andrikides, also a project area resident, consulted attorney Carl Erickson, who has represented both oil companies and individual residents. She was instructed not to sign the lease.

Erickson noted that losses far outweigh any possible gains made in an oil strike. He added the lease, which is for a five year term, provides a royalty equal to one-eighth of the oil or gas produced from the well.

"Only one well may be drilled within the drilling unit. If that well is successful, approximately 200 barrels per day may be taken from it," Erickson said. "At the price of $15.75 per barrel, the daily proceeds of the well would be in the amount of $3,150. One-eighth of $3,150 is $393.75. If that latter amount is divided among 106 property owners, each would receive $3.71 per day."

He added there are many ramifications associated with oil and gas drilling in addition to the financial benefits.

"The drilling process itself may last anywhere from five to ten days and involve a great deal of noise and obnoxious odors," Erickson said, noting that if the well is successful, pumping jacks and large truck travel may result in a property value drop anywhere from 20 to 50 percent, depending upon proximity to the well site.

Erickson said that the loss in property values would far outweigh the gains from royalty interests and he does not recommend signing the lease.

Andrikides said based on her attorney's information, she decided against signing the lease. "If they had a good well at today's prices, even if I get $800 per month, what I lose in property value would take me 20 years to regain."

However, Munsey said his company has never had an instance in which property values have decreased. "This is the first time in my experiences when property values would be discussed about decreasing."

He added Elexco officials have talked to realtors and appraisers in Northville and South Lyon and the company has been told property values would not decrease.

Regarding the noise and odor caused by oil or gas pumping, Munsey said there is no odor involved and noise, which is caused mainly from a generator, is quite minimal.

"I don't think there is a great deal of noise, and the trees in the area should help to shelter some of it," he added.

"All we're doing is negotiating for oil and gas leases and in my experiences a lot of people have watched too much J.R. they base their conclusion on that and it's just not related," Munsey said.

none of the students attended the meeting.

He said he is working with the American Lung Association to accentuate the positive aspects of the no smoking policy to students.

Bolitto noted when he became principal at Northville High six years ago smoking was permitted throughout the entire building. Then, students were all "herded" into the courtyard area, and the last step is the no smoking policy.

"There were a number of policies in effect when I became principal that we have since revisited and changed. I think the last one is the smoking area," he said.

Residents concerned over leases

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Some residents in the Grandview Acres and Meadowbrook subdivisions who signed an oil and gas lease are beginning to have second thoughts about signing.

They may have some recourse. According to residents in the project area, representatives from Eleco Land Services, Inc. told homeowners that they would be forced into joining the project through "forced pooling." They said they were also told that a number of other residents had already signed the leases.

A subdivision resident, who requested anonymity, said an Eleco representative was deliberately vague in describing the oil lease. He added the Eleco agent told him the drilling would not take place near his property and "there was no problem with the well."

"The agent told us he had a lot of signers already and we should get on the bandwagon," the source said, adding the representative assured him the well would be east of his property in the Pierson Drive vicinity.

The source added the lease also does not address the issues of storage and easements, but he signed it because at the time many things were happening at once and he did not pay attention to it. He indicated he is trying to find a way to get out of it.

Carol Gatti, a project area resident who also signed a lease, said she too is trying to invalidate her agreement.

"The representative said everybody (in the subdivision) was happily signing and that he did need all the neighbors to sign anyway," Gatti said. "If all the neighbors are opposed to the leases I am willing to back out of it to keep peace in the neighborhood."

Gatti said she was given a $100 check as an incentive to sign the lease, but as yet has not cashed it.

Due to Michigan Public Act 61 of 1939, if over 50 percent of the subdivision residents agree to a project, the rest are forced to join. The practice is known as force or compulsory pooling, and will go into effect if the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) grants the oil company a permit to begin drilling.

County commissioner Susan Heintz (R-Northville) said the county does not play a role in oil drilling unless county land, such as road easements are involved.

Furthermore, Northville Township deputy clerk Eunis Switzler said local ordinances do not prohibit oil drilling.

According to DNR officials, Eleco has not yet applied for an oil drilling permit for the proposed subdivision site. Innah Pothacamura, a geologist and supervisor of permits for the DNR, said unless a large majority of residents sign leases, chances are good that a drilling permit will not be issued.

Pothacamura added the decision to issue a permit is also based on a DNR check of the proposed drilling area, with the major check points being the slope of the land, amount of wildlife in the area, and the proximity of homes in relation to the drilling site.

He did note that a public hearing would be held before issuance of a permit, with all interested parties welcome to submit testimony.

However, Carl Erickson, an attorney who represents both oil companies and residents, said the tendency is for the DNR to grant the permit and for forced pooling to occur.

Joe Munsey, senior landman for Eleco, said no fraudulent practices have been used to secure the leases and compulsory pooling is currently not being discussed as an option.

He did note, however, that the employee in charge of the leasing project has been reassigned, because "two people were on the project and it demanded only one person's time."

"We have to live with the people (in the project area)," he said. "We've been instructed to go in and acquire oil leases and we've never had to use force pooling."

Munsey noted forced pooling practices are usually used when the leasing company is unable to track down a homeowner, but the decision to force pool is made by the oil company itself, and not the leasing company.

"Our intention is to secure a lease, whatever the client does is his prerogative," Munsey said. "There's been both negative and positive publicity, but we're trying to be positive."

Erickson, who recommended to a project area homeowner not to sign the lease, said if a lease has been signed and the resident relied on misinformation from Eleco, the homeowner "has the right to rescind the lease because of fraud or possible duress committed by Eleco Land Services."

Current qualifications for admission to Allen Terrace

The process of admission to Allen Terrace is somewhat involved, and depends on which of five classifications a person falls into.

To apply at present, a person must be at least 62 years of age.

If that qualification is met, the Housing Commission considers each application individually. The most important factor here is the number of years (with a minimum of five years) a person has spent in one of five ranked classifications.

The highest classification is city residents or taxpayers. Current city residents with the five-year minimum get top priority for vacancies, with the number of years determining a person's position on the list. A 70-year resident might be at the top, followed by a 60-year resident, and so on.

If the city resident class has been exhausted, the commission moves on to the second class: former city residents. Again, one's position on the list is determined by the number of years spent in the city.

If all the interested and qualified city residents and former city residents have been placed, the commission moves to the third class, which is parent(s) of city resident. The number of years one child has lived in the city determines applicants exact position.

The same procedure holds for the fourth category, Northville Township residents, and the fifth, "others."

Housing Director Fran Hopp said the Housing Commission has never dipped into the fifth category, and has only taken applicants from the fourth one time, for a brief period during the building's initial occupancy.

DDA looks at Cady Street

Members of the Northville Downtown Development Authority (DDA) got their first look Tuesday at a tentative set of specifications for the scope of a study looking at the "Cady Street Corridor" just south of downtown.

City Manager Steve Walters presented a list of specific things to be considered as part of the study, one of several which will be funded with Community Development Block Grant money. The general idea of the study is to consider the future of the area around Cady Street west of Griswold and the area's proper position in relation to downtown, parking and other questions.

Walters said the city might be able to receive proposals from firms interested in conducting the study some time in August. Depending on the response, officials may decide to interview applicants.

The specifications outline four specific issues the study is to address:

- Creation of a master plan — including both ideal and more realistic alternatives — coordinating private development and public parking, particularly in the area on both sides of Cady from Griswold to Center.

- Evaluation of the interaction between Northville Downs and the area to the immediate north, with particular attention paid to parking, any expansion plans for the track, and using shuttle buses to central downtown.

- Consideration of future uses for the track site — including their impact on the city and the area — if the track should close.

- Evaluation of parking needs for existing and proposed projects in the area, particularly along the south side of Main Street.

DDA members reacted generally favorably to the specifications

Walters wrote, particularly to the emphasis on parking.

"I think we need to do something soon, the sooner, the better. That's what everybody's talking about: parking, parking," DDA Member Marge Davis said.

The only criticism came from authority member Bill Sliger, who suggested that including future uses of Northville Downs in the study could delay the entire study and shift attention from more immediate issues like parking.

"My only concern is that we won't move fast enough on something I consider very important," he said. "It's like having appendicitis and deciding to go in for a physical instead of having an operation."

Mayor Chris Johnson suggested that the city could require that the other three parts of the study be done first, and then the Downs considered.

Ribbon action goes national

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The red ribbon campaign that graced Northville last March in an attempt to promote substance abuse awareness is going national.

The campaign, which is believed to have been initiated at least statewide by the Northville Action Council, is designed to bring families together to create a drug free community, according to NAC spokesperson Roxanne Casterline.

Casterline said the red ribbons are supposed to encourage more people to talk about drug abuse, and to get more people involved in the community which will help to elicit a greater number of answers to the problem.

"The NAC is trying to get everybody involved aware that Northville has a substance abuse problem and trying to get long-term solutions," she added.

Casterline said it is very exciting that the red ribbon campaign is getting national attention, and the NAC plans to meet with other city officials to coordinate the Michigan component of the national campaign.

She added the NAC will try to align its red ribbon campaign with the national dates in October, even though the NAC dates are currently in March.

The red ribbon project stems from a similar effort in Atlanta, where yellow ribbons were posted throughout the city by parents and community members to increase awareness of children's safety during the period when a number of Atlanta children were being murdered.

"Our purpose was to raise the awareness of the community that substance abuse is a problem that permeates every society," said Bill Hamilton, assistant principal at Northville High School and member of the NAC.

Hamilton said the two goals of the ribbon program are to signify that a drug problem exists and to have the community join together to stop the problem.

"The NAC is trying to create a drug free environment for our youths and this activity is an attempt to create an awareness to stop the problem," Hamilton said, adding the idea for the ribbon campaign came from a brainstorming effort by the NAC.

During the week-long campaign, the NAC distributed a parent handbook, "As Parents We Will..."

Ralph Foreman, above, of Foreman Orchards, said the sour cherries are wiped out in this area and the sweet cherries are down up to 50 percent because of the drought. He is still unsure about how the dry conditions will affect the apple harvest yet.

Abbey Knoll and city reach agreement on tree issue

City of Northville officials and the residents of the Abbey Knoll Estates subdivision have agreed on a plan to give both parties what they want: trees along the sides of the subdivision's streets and money to improve its entrance.

After discussions between representatives of the association and the city, the City Council last week approved a plan which will provide the association with $100 per lot toward a fund which will pay for improvements to the subdivision entrance.

The association originally appeared before the council with a proposal to use all the money earmarked for the city street tree program for entrance improvements.

Under the street tree program, new home builders are required to deposit at least $150 per lot built into a special fund. The city's Department of Public Works uses the money to buy and plant one tree per lot — two on corner lots — in the area between the sidewalk and the street. The idea is to create and maintain a citywide theme of tree-lined streets.

In Abbey Knoll, however — like the adjacent Pheasant Hills — $250 was paid per lot for the planting of larger than required trees. That fact would eventually turn out to be the resolution to the issue.

Subdivision association members argued to the council that the money would be better spent improving the entrance on Eight Mile west of Taft, and that the irregular terrain and lot sizes would prevent the desired tree canopy effect in the area.

The City Council disagreed and turned down the association request, saying that the program was important to the city and that there was not sufficient reason to abandon it. That decision set the scene for negotiation between the association and the city.

The eventual resolution to the issue came on a suggestion by City Manager Steve Walters that the city plant the minimum, inch-and-three-quarters trees which cost about $150 each. The $100 per lot saved could then go toward improving the subdivision entrance.

The 96 lots in the subdivision will produce just under $10,000 with this plan.

The association approved the idea and at the City Council meeting July 5, the council voted 5-0 in favor of the idea. The money will be returned to the association upon presentation of invoices for work completed.

"I think it's a compromise of sorts," Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said.

"That's what the ordinance is about. We want the trees to be planted, and now they will be," Council Member Paul Follin added.

School board elects officers

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

In its first meeting of the 1988-89 school year, the Northville School Board elected its new officers and honored its recently retired members.

In its first business of the new year, the board elected Jean Hansen as its president. "I want to thank Dave Llewellyn for the fine job he has done and I want to thank the board for confidence shown me by making me president for the coming year," Hansen said.

Other elected officers are James Petrie, vice president; Glenna Davis, secretary; and Robert McMahon, treasurer.

In addition to electing new officers, the board presented plaques to Dave Llewellyn and Doug Whitaker, both of whom recently retired from the board.

New board president Jean Hansen read a resolution which honored past president Llewellyn for his services to the board.

"Dave Llewellyn should be appreciated for his leadership and dedication to the board over the last eight years," she said. "Dave brought communication and excellence which improved Northville schools."

Llewellyn said each of the eight years have been a pleasure and added he has seen a lot of positive changes in the district.

After presenting Llewellyn with a plaque, Hansen jokingly said "maybe we'll see him again in a year."

Llewellyn countered by saying "I've learned never to say never."

Whitaker, an 11-year school board member, was presented a plaque for his services to the district. He retired after the 1986-87 school year, but was reappointed last summer after Chris Johnson retired from the board to become mayor of Northville.

Hansen said Whitaker's experience has always been a stabilizing influence for the board.

"Thanks again and goodbye again," Whitaker told board members.

Safety Town returns to Northville

Safety Town is back!

The popular class that teaches safety lessons to kindergartners and beginning gardeners will be in session for 10 days from Monday, July 25 - Friday, Aug. 5. Two sessions will be held. The morning session, from 9:30-11:30 a.m. is filled, but a few openings remain in the afternoon 12:30-2:30 p.m. session. Classes are held at Amerman Elementary School in Northville.

Fees for the classes are $27 for city and township residents, $30 for Northville School District residents, and $32 for everyone else. Scholarships are available.

Safety Town is a "neat program" in the words of teacher Kathy Yutzy. Yutzy noted that the program is run by the Northville Recreation Department in conjunction with the Northville Public Schools. "It is a nationally recognized program for children," Yutzy said.

The students are taught safety rules through movies, field trips, songs, guest speakers, role playing, art projects and games. This year the students will be taught safety sign language as well. Information covers pedestrian safety, police officers as friends, auto, bike, railroad, bus, water and fire safety. Some basic first aid, home, playground, telephone, stranger/danger and strange pet safety tips are also taught.

All children receive a Safety Town t-shirt on the first day and parent reinforcement guides are sent home each day.

Registration is through the Northville recreation department. In addition to Yutzy, teacher Candy Kritch will work with the children. The two could use any interested teens volunteers to help with the program.

Hopkins inventories the township's natural beauty

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Woodlands mapper Heather Hopkins measures the size of a Shagbark Hickory

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

While the proposed Northville Township woodland ordinance will be decided in the air conditioned offices of the township hall, Heather Hopkins continues to work this summer on the "nuts and bolts" portion of the ordinance outside in the sweltering heat.

Hopkins, 22, a recent graduate in forestry from Michigan State University, is working on developing a woodlands map of the township, a key part of the woodlands ordinance package because it designates the areas out of which developers must stay.

Hopkins, who was hired as a free lance consultant, said despite the record heat, the task of plotting the woodland areas of Northville Township has been very enjoyable.

"It's been rough, especially during the one hundred degree days," Hopkins said. "But, luckily I have air conditioning at home and when I'm out in the field I take a lot of water with me."

"This job involves a lot of exploration, and it's enjoyable to see parts of the township that some Northville residents may have not ever seen," she added.

After graduating from Grand Rapids Junior College in 1985, Hopkins entered MSU intending to major in education. But, soon after, she decided to major in forestry because "it sounded good, the professors were great, and I really enjoyed it."

Hopkins said she got the opportunity to work on the woodlands map after a professor at MSU recommended for the job. At present, Hopkins said she has completed a preliminary woodlands map and is now working on a finalized version which should be done by the end of August.

She noted she began the process of putting a preliminary map together by using a collection of aerial photos to determine what woodland areas existed. Hopkins said she then did some spot checking on some of the woodland areas to determine if they belonged on the map.

She said that the finalized woodlands map will include a detailed account of what is in each of the protected areas. Hopkins said the major points in her reports on the regions include listings of the understory vegetation, ground cover, soil, wildlife signs, health assessment and topography.

Due to this summer's heat wave, Hopkins said a typical day begins around 7 a.m. After checking in at the township hall, where she bases her operation, Hopkins said she goes out to continue her field work on the map.

Beginning from where she left off the previous day, Hopkins enters the wooded area from a high ground point, and makes her way through the forest, always carefully noting the flora and fauna along the way.

The criteria for her reports is very structured and routine, and Hopkins' method for detecting the major points in each woodland area is extremely detailed and meticulous.

On a recent morning, six steps into a woodland area off of Wayne Avenue, Hopkins noted the growth of white ash and cotton wood, the healthy condition of the mammoth red oaks and sugar maples, and the relative dryness of the area.

Approximately 30 yards into the woodland, Hopkins noticed a drainage ditch and a wetland that had dried up because of the drought. A closer look by Hopkins found two tiny hoof prints of a deer and a very small paw print, which she identified as a raccoon.

Hopkins said the area in question is very healthy overall, with four different tree species providing moderate to good diversity.

She added this woodland area, like many others in the township, "is really beautiful, and should be protected. There are some places where development could occur, but even if it does it would be nice to save the trees."

Local man teaches self-defense through karate practice

Karate Instructor Robert White has many local students who have studied the martial art for up to 10 years. White teaches the art and the basic forms of self-defense.

By LISA VAN CAMP

It's dark and you're walking to your car, the parking lot is empty — you're alone. Someone is walking behind you, but you don't want to turn around and look. Your mind races, your heart beats faster. Who could it be? You feel a hand on your shoulder, the grip tightens.

Many times it's the parking lot attendant, or a friend trying to catch up with you, but what about the one time it isn't? What about the one time that you actually encounter somebody who intends to hurt you. What are you going to do?

"Study with me for a year and you'll be able to wipe the parking lot with that person," Robert White owner of the Okinawan Karate Club in Northville said.

White's style of karate is named for the island off the coast of Japan and he believes, is the best form of karate because it uses a good balance of arm and legs movements and is closest to the origins of karate.

"Of course everybody who spends time in something thinks it's the best," White said.

White began studying karate in 1965 as part of a plan to keep himself in shape while playing football for the Grand Rapids Blazers. He walked into a studio and was greeted by a smaller man who invited him to "take his best shot" the result was surprising.

"I found myself on the floor and decided there was something to this," he said.

White teaches classes at his studio and through the Novi and Northville community education programs. He gives private lessons on request and has 11 exclusive students, ranging in age from 20 to 50, who have studied with him for about 10 years. While White is a sixth degree black belt, he considers himself a student but does not compete in contests.

"I have two rooms full of trophies so winning isn't my goal anymore," he said.

About 80 percent of White's students begin karate in order to protect themselves. Young children getting "picked on" in school playgrounds want to fight back, older men required to journey to large cities for business trips are afraid of getting mugged in a strange place without family or friends.

Fear of rape or attack prompts women to defend themselves. Detectives, policemen, and SWAT team members interested in learning "bloodless" defense techniques are also enrolled in White's classes. Only adolescents, ages 12 to 17, see karate as a hobby.

"They want to be like Chuck Norris or Bruce Lee or somebody," White said.

A limited knowledge of karate is, according to White, only limited protection. While studying karate for a year will enable anyone to adequately protect themselves from attack, studying for 10 weeks will only make them more aware of present dangers. For this reason, White's classes focus on physical fitness instead of violence.

"I look at it like studying another art, just like dancing," he said.

In the beginning karate is primarily physical, just like any sport, after 10 or 15 years of studying however the focus of karate becomes mental. White believes karate is mastered by channeling of the Chi — every individual's untapped mental energy. Advanced martial arts are concerned with the perfection of the individual through the perfection of that flow of energy.

"It's not religious, it's spiritual in your own mind," he said.

White believes karate has additional benefits. He studies with two masters who still train everyday. They are over 85.

Area avoids serious heat-related illness

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Last week's heat wave, which seemed to transform the climate of Northville into something resembling the Amazon Jungle, luckily had little effect on the health of local residents.

According to officials at Providence Hospital in Novi, there has not been an increase in the amount of heat stroke victims brought into the emergency room over the past few days.

Dr. Mark Thomson said because the warm up in temperatures has been gradual this summer, most residents have become climatized to the heat.

Thomson said while cases of heat stroke are still fairly uncommon, heat exhaustion is a definite possibility. He added heat exhaustion is a moderate increase in body temperature, whereas heat stroke is a very high increase in temperature to around one-hundred and five degrees.

Thomson said symptoms of heat exhaustion are headaches, nausea, vomiting, and absence of flesh. Heat stroke produce more extensive symptoms of heat exhaustion, and can also be characterized by confusion and slurred speech.

He added people can avoid these symptoms by making sure to drink small amounts of liquid frequently, exercise either early or late in the day, and avoid taking salt tablets.

Thomson said young children and older people are more at risk during this hot stretch of weather because they cannot control their temperature as easily.

Karl Peters, coordinator of the senior citizens center at Cooke School, said attendance at the center has dropped 50 percent over the last few days, mostly because the center has no air conditioning.

"If it is too hot there is no sense in making the trip over here, but some people would rather be hot here than at home," Peters said.

He said seniors should make sure to drink plenty of fluids and stay out of the sun. "They should try to keep their body temperatures as cool as possible."

Peters added a good way for seniors to get exercise and stay out of the heat is to go to a shopping mall or to a relative's house that has air conditioning.

Some people around the area have had to deal with the heat more directly because of their jobs.

Jim Delano, owner of the Pizzà Cutter on Center Street, said Monday things are "not too bad," but that this week is "definitely" better than last week.

However, he added, "It's been pretty warm."

Huron Valley Hospital's Physician Referral Program.

Handpicked. Homegrown.

Every formula for good health includes a good doctor. And that's especially true for senior citizens. But seniors frequently outlive their own doctors, or see them retire from practice. And sometimes they just want a doctor who has more time and who understands their special needs better.

But finding a new physician can be difficult. That's why Huron Valley Hospital created the Physician Referral Program. As close as the phone, our staff is ready to listen and help you find the right doctors. Of course, there is no charge for this community service.

And when you choose a Huron Valley Hospital doctor, you'll have the comfort of knowing you'll stay in the neighborhood if hospitalization is ever necessary, because you and your doctor are both part of the same Huron Valley Hospital family.

A prison correction officer re-qualifies at the rifle range last September

New gun ranges considered for prisons

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Officials from the Wayne County regional corrections facilities are looking into the possibility of constructing gun ranges at the Phoenix and Wayne Western correctional institutions.

Carol Millar, Wayne County corrections regional training supervisor, said the need for a range at the corrections facilities is due to the overcrowding at the current range, located adjacent to Phoenix.

Millar said all security personnel at Phoenix, Western Wayne, and the Scott Regional correction facility must annually requalify themselves in rifle and shotgun proficiency.

She added the range currently being used is owned by the city of Detroit, and serves all three of the prisons, the Northville police, and corrections personnel from the Ypsilanti institutions.

Millar said in addition to the overcrowding problem, there is also the possibility that the existing range could be sold by the city, meaning the correction facilities would be left without any range altogether.

She noted the gun range plan is in its early stage. A representative from the National Rifle Association will come to Northville in the next two weeks to look at the land and the proposed range design.

"We want the support of the NRA before we build anything because they are the foremost experts on range design and safety," Millar said.

She added the cost of the new ranges, which are about $10,000 to $15,000 each would be incurred by the Michigan Department of Corrections.

Millar said if the ranges are constructed, the corrections facilities would continue to provide time for the Northville Township police.

She said the proposed range design is currently the safest and least noisy plan developed by the NRA.

According to Don Smith, field representative for the NRA, the latest NRA range design is on top of the ground with safety berms used to "keep the rounds of ammunition from going haywire".

He added, however, that plans to make a range more safe do not necessarily mean it will be fail safe.

"All over the United States, different configurations of range plans are used, but the people who run the ranges determine its safety," Smith said.

Recreation offers summer programs

Several special programs to get through the long, hot summer are being offered through the Northville Community Recreation Department. For more information about any of the programs, call the Community Center at 349-0203. The summer highlights include:

Field Trips — The department is offering several day trips for kids throughout the summer. The schedule is:

- Detroit Tigers baseball game against Kansas City, July 26. Registration deadline is July 15. Tickets are upper deck box seats at a $16.25 cost, including transportation. The bus leaves the Community Center at 6 p.m. and returns about 10:30 p.m.

- Four Bears Water Park in Utica, Aug. 9. Registration deadline is Aug. 5. The park includes a waterslide, bumper boats, paddle boats, miniature golf and more. The $13 fee includes a hot dog lunch. The bus leaves the Community Center at 10 a.m. and returns at 4 p.m.

- Mystery Trip, Aug. 24. Registration deadline is Aug. 19. Parents can find out the destination, but it's a secret to the kids until arrival. Kids should bring a swimsuit, towel, and a sack lunch with no bottles. The fee is $5.50. The bus will leave the Community Center at 10:30 a.m. and return at 4 p.m.

Discount Tickets — Northville Community Recreation is selling discount tickets to several amusement parks and other attractions in the area. Tickets are sold only during office hours, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community Center, 303 W. Main.

Available tickets include:

- Boblo Island (Detroit dock) for $12.50, a $3.45 savings.

- Cedar Point for $14.50, a $2.45 savings.

- The Detroit Zoo for $4, a $1 savings.

The Northville Community Recreation Department is selling discount tickets to several amusement parks in the area. The tickets are just one of several special programs for the hot summer days.

- Four Bears Water Park for $7.50, a $3.45 savings.
- Greenfield Village for $7.75, a $1.75 savings.
- Kings Island for $13.75, a $3.20 savings.
- Sea World for $14.25, a $2.70 savings.
- The Beach Waterpark for $9, a $2.95 savings.

No refunds are available for tickets.

Summer Day Camp — Northville Community Recreation is offering a two-week summer day camp program to Northville area youngsters.

Held at Maybury State Park, participants will enjoy a variety of activities, ranging from arts and crafts to games and nature study. The camp is directed by Richard Steele, assistant principal and eighth grade teacher at Our Lady of Victory school. Additional supervision includes college and high school age students.

Registration is $60 for Northville city and township residents. Registrations are accepted at the Northville Community Center, 303 W. Main.

Seminary future uncertain

The Archdiocese of Detroit apparently isn't much closer to selling the St. John's Provincial Seminary property in Plymouth Township now than when its closing was announced more than a year ago.

All but a small maintenance crew is expected to be out of the 175-acre complex at Five Mile and Sheldon roads by summer's end.

The official explanation from the archdiocese is that the property, owned by the Catholic bishops of Michigan, has not been sold yet — although offers have been received. "We hope it soon will be," said Brenda Marshall, spokeswoman for the archdiocese. "We don't have a list of people we're reaching or excluding. We're looking at all reasonable offers." She declined to be more specific.

James Anulewicz, Plymouth Township planning director, said no site plan or rezoning requests involving the property have been filed by the archdiocese for itself or prospective buyers.

The property, which includes living quarters for seminarians and a golf course, was developed in 1949. It currently is zoned for residential use with minimum lot sizes of one acre.

"The latest information I had was the archdiocese was looking at having a land planner evaluate what the most appropriate use is," Anulewicz said. "There hasn't been anything presented to me upfront that's much different than a year ago."

Mission Hills Golf Course, which encompasses about 97 of the 175 acres on the site, is leased to a private operator and therefore is on the tax rolls.

That acreage and clubhouse are assessed at $239,480 — which theoretically is half of market value. That portion of the property generated nearly $13,000 in tax revenue last year.

Lloyd Heussner said he has a lease on the golf course through 1992.

"I don't think they're anywhere now," he said of a sale. "I just don't think they're in any hurry."

Heussner said he would expect to be compensated if a sale results in eviction before his lease expires.

The main seminary buildings used for a religious purpose are tax exempt. The entire parcel would go on the tax rolls if sold and used for a non-religious purpose.

Anulewicz said the township has a definite preference in how the property is used.

"We prefer to see open space of the golf course retained and some sort of convention center using existing facilities," he said.

Declining enrollment at St. John's prompted the decision to close the facility and move seminarians to Sacred Heart Seminary in Detroit, Marshall said.

Few of the nearly 50 teachers and support staff will move to Detroit, said the Reverend Robert H. Byrne, rector/president at St. John's.

CITY OF NOVI WATER DEPARTMENT BULLETIN JULY 11, 1988

ATTENTION: City of Novi Water System Customers: We are sorry if you have been inconvenienced by the recently imposed ban on watering. The measure to ban watering was necessary to assure that residents were able to address their water needs.

Now that the situation has stabilized, we are able to relax the watering ban somewhat to allow for lawn watering.

Effective immediately, you may water your grass as follows:

If you have an even number address, you may water on even days between the hours of 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and then again on that same day from 10:00 p.m. to 4:00 a.m. the next day.

If you have an odd number address, you may water on odd days between the hours of 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. and then again on that same day from 10:00 p.m. to 4:00 a.m. the next day.

Thank you for your cooperation. If you have any questions, please call the Novi Water Department at 347-0485.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JUNE 20, 1988

The regular meeting of the Northville City Council was called to order in the Council Room by Mayor Johnson at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:
2. ROLL CALL:
Present: Ayers, Buckland, Folliott, Johnson, Mittman Also present: Atty. Konrad, Mapes, Morrison, Walters, Warner, and Bob Needham

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:
The minutes of the regular meeting of June 24, 1988 were approved as corrected.

4. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA:
Moved, supported, carried, to adopt the 6/20/88 Northville City Council Agenda as presented, and the Consent Agenda A through E.

5. CITIZEN COMMENTS:
Northville Estates Subdivision residents questioned if any of the subdivision streets would be opened at Beck Road.

Manager Walters clarified that Dunsany, Chigwidden, Battiford, and Holmby were closed and that Elmsmere was vacated, which is the only street that could not be reopened.

6. PUBLIC HEARING: CONFIRM SPECIAL ASSESSMENT ROLLS:
WEST EIGHT MILE WATER DISTRICT NO. 1

WEST EIGHT MILE SANITARY SEWER DISTRICT NO. 1

NORTHVILLE ESTATES WATER DISTRICT NO. 2

Manager Walters reviewed status of water and sewer assessment process and noted changes for the following lots: Yes, No, for water and sewer at Lots 63, 70, 110, and 69, No, for water and sewer at Lots 23, 102, 68, and 46. He recommended Council recess the public hearings to the regular July 5 meeting, allowing residents to continue to respond until June 30, 1988, in making their decisions for the water & sewer assessment rolls. He also suggested taking any changes from the audience tonight.

Mayor Johnson recessed the public hearings on the West Eight Mile Water District, No. 1, the West Eight Mile Sanitary Sewer District No. 1, the Northville Estates Water District No. 2, and the Northville Estates Sanitary Sewer District No. 2, to the regular City Council meeting on July 5, 1988.

5. CITIZEN COMMENTS: Continued
Chuck Keys, 502 W. Main Street, requested action from City Council to repair the easement in front of his home from the water & sewer construction.

Bob Warner, engineer, responded that several occurrences resulted in the delay of restoring Mr. Key's property due to street lights, Edison cable, and with the heat and lack of rain the sod farms are not delivering. Mr. Warner had pictures of 502 W. Main for the Council.

Mayor Johnson requested the administration determine the cost of hydro-sod vs. sod and which would be the quickest.

7. JAYCEES' 4TH OF JULY PROGRAM:
Moved, supported, carried, granting the Jaycees' request for the 4th of July program, for use of City Signs from 7/5/88 to 7/5/89, police and fire assistance, DPW barricades at the parade and fireworks, trash barrels at the Mill Race for the BBQ, use of city streets for the parade, fireworks permit and that the fireworks insurance policy is on hand before the 4th.

8. SALE OF CITY LOT AT GRACE AND LAKE STREET:
Moved, supported, carried, to accept the bid of $800 from Roy E. & Betty J. Thomas for the west 40 feet of Lot 8, Yerkes & Horton Addition, in the City of Northville.

9. REPORT ON LETTER FROM BEALTOWN RESIDENTS ASSOCIATION AND FROM CONCERNED RESIDENTS OF NORTHVILLE:
The City Manager reviewed the following concerns:

1. Lexington Condos pond sedimentation problem

2. Wagon Wheel Restaurant parking lot

3. VFW Ironing Yokes Street

4. Driving Club parking lot

5. Alley between Seal and Johnson

6. Yield sign at Yerkes and Johnson

Manager Walters noted the maintenance ordinance was based on Northville Township's plus a sampling of other communities and asked for Council's suggestions on other subjects to be covered, what appeal procedure should be established, and what fine and penalty should be used.

Council also discussed two other ordinances as tools relating to the same general concern, which are the inspection and occupancy permit upon change of occupancy or ownership and the licensing of rental units.

The Council felt the City Attorney, Planning Commission and Historic District Commission should review these ordinances.

10. TAX DEPOSIT RESOLUTION FOR COMMUNITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION:
Moved, supported, carried, to establish by resolution a commercial tax account at Community Federal Credit Union.

11. CALL PUBLIC HEARING TO CONFIRM ASSESSMENT ROLL FOR WEST MAIN STREET SANITARY SEWER DISTRICT NO. 1:
Moved, supported, carried, to call the final hearing on the assessment roll for the West Main Street Sanitary Sewer District No. 1, for July 20, 1988.

12. COUNCIL COMMENTS:
Councilman Folliott requested a water bid that the City Council could enforce by establishing an ordinance. He suggested designating the City Manager, DPW Superintendent and Fire Chief to determine the necessity of calling for a water ban, when conditions as no water from Detroit and dangerous conditions exist, so that we can conserve water because some people have been without.

Manager Walters stated we made a big difference with announcing the voluntary water ban through the news media and sending the post cards to all residents. He recommended that we continue with the voluntary sprinkling ban.

Ted Mapes was present to bring the Council up-to-date on the Detroit water pressure.

City Council was very concerned about some residents being without water in their residences and asked the City Manager to contact the Detroit Water Board and other communities on the same line to make some adjustments.

HOUSING VOUCHER PROGRAM:
Moved, supported, carried, to approve the resolution to enter into an Amendment to Annual Contributions Contract for the Housing Voucher Program with the United States of America, which Contract provides for annual contributions to be made by the Government to assist Local Authority in providing decent, safe and sanitary housing for families of low income, pursuant to Section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended.

12. COUNCIL COMMENTS: Continued
Councilman Folliott asked the administration to review the Universal Voter Registration Act of 1967, H.B. 5205 prohibiting road salt by 1991 and the establishment of a "user fee" for the State Public Safety Department's a la carte terminal.

There being no further business to come before City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting at 10:45 p.m.

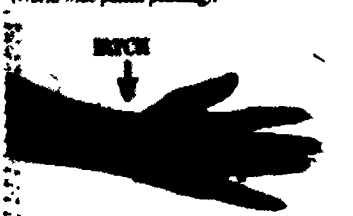

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,
CATHY M. KONRAD
CITY CLERK

Our Opinions

Local control needed on residential oil leases

Incredible as it may seem, oil pumping jacks and large trucking equipment could become a fixture in a quiet, attractive subdivision in Northville Township.

And what's even more unbelievable, neither the local government nor county officials have any control over the situation.

Oil lease agreements have been sought from the residents in the Grandview Acres and Meadowbrook subdivisions, located across from the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital off of Seven Mile Road.

The choice is not an easy one. Many residents decided to sign the lease, some saying they don't have a problem with drilling going on in their back yard.

Many residents chose not to sign the lease, worrying about a potential drop in housing prices and the possibility of noise, odor and truck traffic.

It is a complicated matter and the choice is, ultimately in this case, left to the individual homeowner to decide. Each side has a vast array of facts to present to those homeowners teetering on the edge of making a decision. Rhetoric can be made to sound very appealing especially when a check is involved.

Residents who are contemplating signing the lease should consider all sides of the argument. The oil company representative has said housing prices will not go down. Attorneys for other homeowners have said they will. A careful and measured look at both sides is needed before deciding to sign anything.

And while the residents do battle with each other over who has signed and who has not, the question remains as to why the township is left in this no man's land when it comes to stopping such blatant industrial use on residential land. There is little doubt that drilling rigs, production buildings and large tanker trucks have no business on residentially zoned land. But the township, because it is not a city, is barred from enacting zoning legislation to stop such practices.

Officials from both the Township of Northville and Wayne County have said they have no control over drilling in a residential area. At present, that authority rests with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Although the DNR may make a thorough check of the area before issuing a drilling permit, one wonders if local interests will really be considered if and when the permit is issued.

A public hearing is to be held before the permit is issued. How much impact residents will have in that decision remains to be seen.

The present situation is not fair for the homeowners. Questions regarding the drilling must be sent through the Lansing office of the DNR rather than through their own elected county or township representatives. This should be changed.

It is imperative that local governmental officials become empowered to act on zoning issues such as these, which have such a tremendous impact on their residents. When their health, property and welfare may be at stake, residents should receive representation from local officials directly.

Deck ordinance should deal with matter at hand

It's interesting to see how certain issues which seem straightforward on the surface can be tangled and involved just below that surface. One recent example is the flap over backyard decks in the city.

The whole question came to the formal attention of the city relatively recently, as new residents are moving into the new subdivisions above Eight Mile. Families are settling in, decorating, landscaping, and putting up decks — some of the time.

City regulations include a minimum rear yard requirement, and some of these new homes are built very close to the minimum. And since the present ordinances make no special provisions for sun decks — in effect, considering them part of the house — those people whose homes are close to the required rear yard are not allowed to have a deck.

The city administration has received complaints about the situation, and Board of Zoning Appeals has heard a few formal appeals. The BZA, which grants variances if a "hardship" is present, has denied the appeals.

Building Official Joseph Attard, the Planning Commission and Planning Consultant Don Wortman acted quickly — as quickly as possible for a local government — to pull together an ordinance which would allow decks up to 20 feet from the rear lot line. End of problem? No.

The recommendation came to the City Council for consideration last week and sort of ran aground. The council members brought up several questions about decks which the ordinance seemed to ignore, or at least not fully address — things like size of multi-level decks, and proximity to next-door houses. The council delayed action to give the whole matter some more thought.

No, the recommendation from the planners did not address some restrictions on decks which the city might want to adopt. But that wasn't the point of the recommendation in the first place. The idea was simply to allow some more people the chance to build decks — and, not incidentally, the new subdivisions are ideal for such structures.

The council members seem to have some legitimate concerns about what kind of decks may be built, and those concerns need to be looked at. But the immediate issue is something different, and throwing the other things into the discussion can muddle an otherwise fairly straightforward issue. We hope the council will consider the commission recommendation as whole in its present form, a separate issue from the other worries.

Two-wheel traveler

By Ann Willis

Jessica Fletcher and I have something in common.

Fletcher is the lead character in the television series "Murder She Wrote." The woman is an habitual busybody who has the annoying habit of stepping into murders wherever she goes. I don't know why people keep asking her into their homes — everytime she goes, someone dies. But that isn't what we have in common.

My mother started me watching the show. Mom likes the show because "it shows a mature woman" as the lead character. Translated it means Jessica never wears a bathing suit, never tells her age, knows how to wear a scarf and looks good in pumps. But that isn't what we have in common, either.

The TV show is on Sunday nights at a time when I'm usually lounging on the couch trying to pretend the next day isn't Monday. Watching Jessica's best friends fall to the floor week after week is one of those brainless exercises that keep me honest. I could pretend that I read Dickens on Sunday nights. I could pretend that I only switch to commercial television if PBS is experiencing signal difficulties. The truth can be harsh, but why hide it? I watch a lot of stupid shows on television — sometimes I even watch them on reruns. A mind is a terrible thing to waste but sometimes it needs a rest. Jessica provides that rest.

Fletcher is a resident of Cabot Cove, Maine. On the show she rides her bicycle all over the small, quaint, seaside community. People stop her and wave to her. She stops to chat on her way to the market. (Those people put themselves in imminent danger of being murdered by doing so, but they recklessly plunge ahead.) It's a nice picture, Jessica on her bicycle, Cabot Cove in the background — and that's what we have in common. The bicycle, not Cabot Cove.

I moved recently. I now live a nice bicycle ride away from my office, and for the past two weeks I have been cycling to work each day. At first I felt kind of foolish. I mean, there I am at the stoplight at Center and Main Street. It's 8 a.m. I am on my 10-speed. I look to the right. There is a man in his Ford Escort. His shirt is crisp, his tie is tight around his neck. He stares straight ahead gently gunning the engine waiting for the green signal. I look to the left. There is a woman in a Chevy van. She is putting on lipstick in her rearview mirror. There I am on my 10-speed. No tie. No lipstick. Just my bicycle and me. What is wrong with this picture, I think?

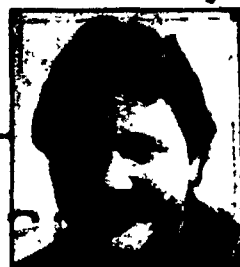

Clearly, it is not trendy to bicycle to work. Now probably most people don't live within easy cycling distance of their jobs. And if they did, they might not enjoy the fact that your hair is never the same once you glide down the Griswold hill. Or the fact that despite the best preventive devices, grease still has a tendency to jump from the bicycle to your clothes. It is inevitable. So are bugs in the teeth and in the eyes on the way home at night. Jessica is never shown spitting out gnats in Cabot Cove, but I know they're there. Right behind the lobster boats.

After the first few mornings I grew used to the feeling. I casually circled past my silent car as I left the house. I felt my legs tighten as I began the uphill that led to the easy, free downhill where the early morning air raised goose pimples on my arms. I even grew used to the seat.

Now I treat those car commuters in the same manner Jessica does. I smile. I wave. I peddle on. I know first-hand how the street paving program is working and I see the early morning joggers and walkers as I roll by. The picture looks just fine right now. Who knows, I may begin experimenting with scarves.

Birthday card?

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

I'm free. Unattached. A bachelor once again.

What happened is that mi esposa was called out of town to perform a little family service work at her brother's home in Cincinnati.

"Bummer," I said when I got the news. "You're gonna be gone a whole week? Whatever shall I do?"

That's what I told her. What I thought is: "Awesome, dude. A whole week by myself. Come and go as I want. Get home whenever I feel like it. What's the toll in the Windsor Tunnel? What time does Jason's open? What time does Jason's close? There'll be fun, fun, fun till daddy takes the T-bird away."

I drove her to the airport last Saturday. Waved a tearful goodbye as she boarded the plane. And set out in search of high adventure and something cold to drink.

Unfortunately, things haven't worked out as planned. Being single — even for a week — has been a real bummer.

First of all, there's the food problem. How was I to know the toaster would break the first time I popped a slice of breakfast inside? Or the milk would turn sour as soon as I poured it on a bowl of breakfast?

And then there's the household responsibility problem. Does anyone know if the water conditioner is supposed to click all the time? Fortunately, I remembered that Wednesday is garbage day.

But most of all there's the household pet problem. Fresh water in the birdbath daily. Fill the hummingbird feeder. And, worst of all, the kitties. Kitties get fed at 7 a.m. and let outside at 7:30 a.m. They return at 6 p.m. for supper and get outside privileges again at 6:30 p.m. They have to be let back in at 10:30 p.m. — if they feel like it. If not, you've got to stay up until they're ready to come in for a midnight snack.

There's been no Windsor. No Jason's. I'm tied to the home. Responsibility weighs heavy on my mind. There are chores to do. Kitties to feed. Hurry home, sweetheart. I want my freedom back.

Main/Center history is recounted

To the Editor:
Your editorial Thursday has certainly made me optimistic about the Main/Center development. I eagerly await the plans to be submitted to the Historic District Commission for our review.

I believe, however, that the history behind this development should be told from the beginning since much of this town as well as this newspaper is evidently not aware of it.

The original proposal, submitted by the 108 Group was for a restaurant, a small amount of office space, retail space and 46 residential units. The concept of which sounds similar to what's being proposed today by the new developer.

The key word here appears to be 'Developer'. Until this time the previous land owner's have not been in the development business. The 108 Group principals were successful business men in the janitorial and electrical alarm systems business which saw an opportunity for the future of this site and they proceeded with great flash and vigor. The most recent owners, Equity Advance Company, is likewise not a developer. They are investment brokers, specializing in investment syndications. Both groups relied heavily on acquiring a major investor to make the project work. Without the owners having a real track record in development and with the lingering problem of adequate parking, a major investor was not to be found.

As the design architect for the previous proposals, I care not to fault and discredit the energy and efforts previously tried but to consider this town the richer for the attempt. Perhaps if the city would have owned the land it could have held a proposal competition and selected the development group as a condition to the land sale, but it does not.

The new owner is in the development business and has the weight and the expertise to get this building off the ground. The architect has a fine reputation in our industry and I am sure we can expect a good design.

The reality in the development and construction business today is that anything can happen to a project right up to the eleventh hour. I intend to keep my fingers crossed for this project's success.

D&C important

To the Editor:
I can remember the Kresge Store on Main Street in Plymouth. It was a real focal point in town across from Kellogg Park. You could pick up so many things there. "What a mistake" I said when it left and a furniture store moved in. It had a luncheon counter where so many people met and ate lunch.

This too is how I feel about our D & C in Northville. I have lived here ten years and always enjoy stopping into D & C for odds and ends. My two boys love it too — all of their carefully selected matchbox cars were purchased there.

I can more than understand Black's Hardware's need to expand and this is a great opportunity for them, but I sure won't be happy to see our D & C leave. Like Kresge a very special shop will be gone — the dime store in town — a place to pick up things reasonably. If rates in Northville have forced D & C's move out, it sure is sad, this is not the type of store we should lose.

Our downtown stores are convenient, friendly and are so much better than their mail-type counterparts. D & C's 31 years in Northville has meant a lot to this community and residents, and I hope D & C can relocate and continue to serve Northville.

Great Fourth!

To the Editor:
What a way to start the day on the Fourth of July!

We had outstanding weather (now it can rain), bands, marchers, floats, horses, antique cars and clowns. Put them all together and you have a lot of fun and entertainment for the whole community.

We would like to thank our 1988 Grand Marshall Paul Folino, who also got an extra surprise that day by being presented the Ely Award.

Many thanks to the City of Northville and Northville Township for their continued support. A big thanks to all of the individual donations that have come in to help us cover the expenses of the parade.

I personally would like to thank all the Jaycees and volunteers who helped make the parade a success.

To anyone that would like to enter next year you can send a note: The Northville Jaycees, P.O. Box 241, Northville, MI 48167.

Bob Cummings

1988 Fourth of July Parade Chairman

Red Ribbon Campaign goes national

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Charles Stille, Northville High School Student Assistance Program Coordinator.

Taking part in the Fourth of July Parade in Northville helped me become really aware that we are a community all unto our own. We don't sprawl for miles and miles and most of us recognize many others if not by name at least by face. It was also apparent during the parade that people there cared — in most cases about having fun, the excitement, the sharing and the closeness that the parade provided. It was among many other positives a healthy, drug free activity.

Another very meaningful activity is also approaching and represents something which each family and sector of our community can get involved in.

The "Red Ribbon Campaign" will be a national program thanks to Northville's energy and commitment last year and the individual efforts of the Northville Action Council and several committed community members. The campaign will be coordinated by the National Federation of Parents for Drug Free Youth and will be observed October 23-30.

The purpose of the Michigan Red Ribbon Campaign is to promote healthy, drug free lifestyles. The theme for the week is "The Choice For Me, Drug Free".

The method to reach the most people with the message is to wear or display Red Ribbons as the symbol of the choice to be free from illegal drugs or alcohol abuse.

The schedule for the week is as follows:
• October 22-23: Red Ribbon Sabbath

- October 24: Wear Red Day
- October 26: Balloon Launch Day
- October 28 & 30: Red Ribbon Sports Weekend

The long term goal is to involve all segments of our communities in combating drug abuse.

If you have any questions or problems regarding the Red Ribbon Campaign or concerns regarding a friend or family members use and/or abuse of drugs, alcohol — or need a referral for an evaluation, or are sick and tired of being sick and tired, call me at 425-0636 during the summer. You may also call the Adolescent Recovery Center at the same number, Livonia Counseling at 261-3760 or Northville Youth Assistance at 344-1618. It's never too late to ask for help!

Hot flashes

By Bruce Weintraub

Whew! I can't believe how hot it is this year. From the parking lot behind the newspaper to my desk is about, oh, 600 feet.

But, last Thursday, those were the longest 600 feet that I have ever walked in my life. I was sweating so much after walking those measley 200 yards, that I drank a 32 ounce bottle of Gatorade in about 6 seconds flat (a new Gatorade-drinking record, I believe).

At this point it is sooooo hot that I must brainstorm to figure out why or how this impossible string of endless heat, sun, air stagnation, and overall yuck feeling days could be happening.

Before I start, I want everyone to know that whatever I come up with, this heat wave is entirely my fault. This devilish, unbelievable, inhumane heat wave is completely my fault.

My first hypothesis: Mrs. Katanick, my third-grade teacher, told me that if I ever thought about cheating on a test, I would burn for eternity. Well, guess what. In fourth grade, I accidentally looked on my friend's math test to find out what 10x11 was.

Little did I know 14 years later it would be the high temperature for Northville for an entire week.

My second hypothesis: In Saudi Arabia, I've heard the government will discipline its citizens by taking off the piece of a person's body which was used to aid in his crime. Well, guess what. Years ago, when I was but a small tot, I gave a hot foot to the coach of my little league team. In some strange twisted way, my father is getting back at me (I'm still real sorry dad).

My third hypothesis: There is a gorgeous woman who is burning after me and...oh well, it was just a thought.

My fourth hypothesis: This is it. I've got it now. There has and always will be a national plot to drive me crazy. Nature tried the snow storm of 1977 but I survived it. West Bloomfield's tornado of 1976 also left me with nary a scratch. I even survived the hurricane of 1981 when our family decided to spend the wrong week in Puerto Rico. But, even though I've survived the worst that nature can dish out, this heat wave is unbearable.

I just can't take it anymore. Imagine a home without air conditioning, no water pressure, no ice cubes! My gosh, even an overheated car gets a swig of water to cool off. What is an overheated person supposed to do?...

RING "Hi Mom, I can't talk now, I'm right in the middle of writing my column. By the way, did you buy the four half-gallons of chocolate ice cream?"

ELSIE E. FREYDL

Mrs. Elsie E. (Hughes) Freydl, 85, died June 29 in Pennekot Hospital, Hastings.

Mrs. Freydl was born in Prairieville. She graduated from Western State Teacher's College. She lived and taught school for many years in the Northville and Detroit School Systems and retired in 1963 from Northville Elementary School. She moved to the Hastings area in 1969.

Mrs. Freydl is survived by a daughter, Jean Stovall of Tampa, Fla., a son, Jerry Freydl of Brighton, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Her husband, Frank Freydl, died in 1960.

Memorial services were held July 1 at the Williams Funeral Home in Delton. Memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

JAMES W. BURNS

Mr. James W. Burns, 21, of Milford, died suddenly July 7 at St. Joseph Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Mr. Burns was born in 1966 to James W. and Sylvia G. (Coon) Burns.

He is survived by his parents, Jim and Sally Foote of Milford, grandparents, Stan and Hazel Coon of Northville, James and Ina Burns of St. Clair and Lloyd Foote of Oak Park, sisters Jane of South Lyon and Ruth of Carbondale, Ill., brother Eric of Milford and dear friend Trisha "Puckner" of Howell.

Mr. Burns was an engine machinist and he graduated from Milford High School in 1985.

Funeral services were held on July 11 at Ward Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Steve Johnson officiated. Interment was at Grand Lawn cemetery. Arrangements were by Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville.

EILEEN S. REECE

Mrs. Eileen S. Reece, 78, of Novi died July 2 at her home.

Mrs. Reece was born in 1910 in Stillwater, Penn. to Harry Grant and Bertha Emily (Robins) Bittenberger. She later married Marion Reece who preceded her in death in 1986.

Mrs. Reece is survived by her son Robert H. Smith of Novi, two stepdaughters and stepsons; two sisters and one brother, two grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

She lived in the Novi community for the past 1½ years. She was a member of the Novi and Northville Area Senior Citizens groups and the Christian Church of Benton, Penn.

A private service was held at the Casterline Funeral Home in Northville. The family suggests memorials to the Christian Church in Benton, Pa.

RICHARD N. JAMES

Mr. Richard N. James, 74, of Walled Lake, formerly of Northville Township, died July 4 at the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan in Detroit.

Mr. James was born in 1914 in Detroit to Ezra and Amanda (Richards) James. He later married Lucille who preceded him in death in 1980.

Mr. James is survived by daughters Mrs. Mary Lou Ansari of Coldwater; Mrs. Frances Ann Brandi of Livonia; Miss Deborah James of Wixom and Miss Janet James of Conn.; sons Denis Lane of Fremont; and Patrick Lane of Calif.; brother John James of Detroit and three grandchildren.

Mr. James moved to Northville in 1954. He was retired from the Ford Motor Company. He was a member of St. Colette's Catholic Church and the K of C.

A Rosary service was held July 6 at Casterline Funeral Home in Northville. Funeral services were held July 7 at St. Colette's Catholic Church in Livonia. Father Jerry Cupple officiated. Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Hospice of Southeastern Michigan or to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Officials stump for jail tax

Eighteen months into his term, Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara is back on the campaign trail.

McNamara and a host of other county officials, including county commission chairman Arthur Carter, prosecutor John O'Hair and chief circuit Judge Richard Kaufman are all out stumping for the proposed 1-mill county jail tax.

They say they'll meet with newspaper editorial boards, service clubs, civic groups, church groups and anyone else who will listen.

It will be a low-key campaign. "We don't have any dollars available to buy ads or go on radio or TV," McNamara said. "We've got to pretty much depend on whatever we can do."

But supporters are optimistic nonetheless.

Early poll results showed heavy support for the jail tax, McNamara said.

The poll, conducted in April, showed 65.4 percent of those surveyed would support a 1-mill jail tax if the election were held that day. Twenty-seven percent were opposed, with 7.6 percent uncertain. Among 141 western Wayne respondents surveyed, 94 said they were in favor of the tax, 33 were opposed, and 14 were uncertain.

Support was 2-to-1 or better among Detroit and downriver respondents, as well as among a small sample from the Grosse Pointe area.

In contrast, 57.2 percent of those surveyed said they supported renewing a one mill tax to finance day-to-day county programs and services.

The poll was conducted by Nordhaus Research Inc. of Southfield.

That, however, was two months ago. There's a host of issues, including a countywide school tax proposal and concern about the county's financial condition, that may have to be cleared in order to gain voter approval.

For supporters, however, the issue boils down to maintaining a "credible criminal justice system."

"To me, the debate is do I want my property taxes to increase 1 mill or do I want to let Kaufman keep releasing about 1,800 felons a year — not to mention having no room for misdemeanors," Judge Kaufman said. In his role as chief of the Wayne County Circuit Court, Kaufman is responsible for ordering prisoner releases.

The jail tax would be levied from 1988-97. It would raise an estimated more than $20 million per year, according to county calculations. An estimated $15 million would be reserved in 1989-90 to build the new jail. By 1992, that money would be reserved to operate the jail.

The jail tax would be the first new county tax since 1976 — when voters approved 0.5 mill, ironically, to build a new jail.

That jail, the Andrew C. Baird

Detention Facility in downtown Detroit, is now filled to overflowing, county officials say, with some 4,000 felons being released early over the past two years because space wasn't available.

Back then, county officials made a mistake in determining how much money was needed. County officials now agree too little was used to offset operating costs.

"One of the problems is that when the voters approved building a new jail there wasn't sufficient foresight to realize you're going to have to operate it, too," Kaufman said. "We're trying not to make that mistake this time."

Despite the poll results and despite an anti-crime, anti-drug groundswell, selling the tax increase to voters might not be easy, especially in Western Wayne.

But despite their traditional anti-tax posture, McNamara said suburban voters could be easier to convince than expected.

"This is the place where there's something to steal, not downtown," he said. "It's all gone down there."

The jail tax won't be the only countywide tax increase proposal on the ballot. Wayne County Intermediate Schools seeks a similar 1-mill tax increase for special education programs — itself a proposal with a strong emotional pull.

Barber reflects on 3 generations of style changes

By LISA BURKS

"I've been cutting hair for three generations," reflected 54-year-old Duane Applebee. "That sounds awful for my age," chuckled the owner of Duane's Styling and Barber Shop in Highland Township.

Indeed, the Highland resident has been taking a little off the tops of heads of area men, boys — and boys who have grown to be men — for 32 years.

Applebee began cutting hair in 1956 in Milford, then relocated to a house he purchased in Highland on the corner of Milford and Livingston roads in 1959.

"Mr. Ashley, the original barber in this area, had owned that corner 50 years ago. He never barbered there, but he owned it just the same," noted Applebee of the coincidence.

After a debilitating car accident nine years later, Applebee moved to smaller quarters in a remodeled carriage shed behind the house which is now about 110 years old. He currently rents the house to Unique Florals and Jon Peterson Insurance.

Over the years, Applebee has witnessed many changes in the Highland area, and in hair fashions alike.

"When I moved here in 1939, I was four years old and Milford Road was gravel," he mused.

And hair styles, he noted, have come full circle. In the early 1950s, hair was shorter on men, then in the late '50s and '60s it was long. The '70s saw partially long locks, and the '80s is the age of heavy styling.

"Today, people are more acceptable to changes in general, and how men change their hair styles specifically," Applebee said.

Well, that is unless one is a parent.

"In the late '60s, fathers would fist fight with their sons because the sons did not want their hair cut short. Now, those sons of the '60s have become fathers who fight with their sons because their sons do want their hair cut real short," Applebee laughed.

He recounted one incident where a father wouldn't let his son have a certain cut because the father didn't like the company his son kept with a friend whose hair was similar.

"I don't know where the old adage of 'don't be like other kids' came from. Parents who stress this are usually sending out the message to be like them (the parents). It's a paradox. They are basically good kids — let them be themselves," Applebee said.

Applebee added that his own two children, now grown, wore their hair in a way comfortable to them.

There is always a reason for a change in hairstyles, said Applebee. The long hair of the '60s was rebellious, and it was long 100 years ago as well. During the World War II years, it was short for sanitary reasons.

"Now, it's short hair with earrings and necklaces," said the barber, touching his hand to his cheek. "A man wouldn't be caught dead like that in the war years, but now it's fashionable," he said.

Some of today's ultra-modern styles require lots of heavy styling techniques which make it necessary for stylists to go to school. In turn, Applebee said, customers pay too much.

"Kids out here aren't that radical yet," laughed Applebee, who said he simply cuts the hair to the desired length and lets the client do his or her own styling, gelling and moussing.

"Basically, today's cut is a bunch on top and left longer in the back," he explained.

Although business is fairly regular, Applebee likes to take customers by appointment so he can gauge his time more easily. If necessary, he will take walk-ins. "But they may have to wait a while," he said with a grin.

"I am thankful that I can work every day," said Applebee. After his accident, he was determined to go back to work if he could stand. After some rehabilitation and the aid of a standing frame, he was able to return to work at his smaller shop and offer a shave and haircut with the best of them. The hard work and determination paid off.

"The people in the area were very good to me, and my wife put up with a lot," he acknowledged.

Applebee and his wife, Mary Lou, an employee at the First of America Bank in East Highland, have been married 34 years. They have a son, Randy, 32, and a daughter, Bonnie, 24, and two grandchildren by Randy, ages 3½ years and four months.

Up until five years ago, Applebee was standing with the aid of the frame, but since then he has opted for a wheelchair. This doesn't keep him from shampooing, cutting and perming hair, "but it does make it rather

Business Briefs

JOHN R. ENGLER, president and chief executive officer of Security Bank and Trust, has announced the official opening of a new branch office in Novi at 39465 Fourteen Mile at Haggerty Road. Engler is pictured above with various city, county and bank officials during official ribbon-cutting ceremonies for the new branch.

The Fourteen Mile office is the 39th branch of Security Bank and Trust and the sixth in the Oakland County region. Other Oakland County locations are Ten Mile/Meadowbrook Road, Nine Mile/Novi Road, Pontiac Trail/Beck Road, Ten Mile/Taft Road, Baldwin/Walden roads and Thirteen Mile/Telegraph Road.

"The new branch signifies the commitment we've had in the Novi community since 1975 and will continue to have in the future," said Engler.

Engler noted that Security Bank and Trust offers a wide range of banking services including a No Annual Fee bankcard, Almost Instant Loan Approval and 24-hour banking. "These services along with Manager Gaetano DiCarlo and his friendly staff are part of our promise to make our customers feel important," Engler said.

Security Bank and Trust is the largest subsidiary of Security Bancorp. Inc. and is the eighth largest bank in the state. Security Bancorp. Inc. is the seventh largest multi-bank holding company in Michigan with seven banking subsidiaries and 78 offices in Metropolitan Detroit.

ELSIE BELLINGER of Northville recently attended Amway Corporation's annual convention in Grand Rapids.

A local distributor of Amway Products, Bellinger participated in a two-day convention designed to educate and motivate distributors. She joined more than 6,000 other distributors from around the world to learn about new products, services and policies.

Amway Corporation, now in its 29th year, had estimated retail sales of $1.5 billion in 1987. One of the world's largest network marketing companies, Amway has one million distributors and operates in more than 40 countries and territories.

DR. ROBERT J. STILES has been commended for assisting research that promotes improved health care. Dr. Stiles' offices are located at 43269 Grand River Avenue in Novi.

The Foundation for Chiropractic Education and Research credited Dr. Stiles for continuing involvement with research in low back pain, a debilitating and costly condition that affects millions of people. He is one of several doctors identified by the the Foundation as a "1988 Advocate for Improved Health Care."

"I feel it is my duty as a doctor in this community to support scientific research that promotes better health care for everyone," said Dr. Stiles.

MAIL BOXES ETC. USA, the largest franchisor of private postal and business service centers, has opened a new center in Novi at 43422 West Oaks Drive in the West Oaks II shopping center.

Les Beare, owner and operator of the San Diego-based franchise, said he offers a wide range of postal and business services which include private mail box rental with 24-hour access; message service; copy service; and shipping via UPS, Emery and other carriers for fast and expert handling, using modern techniques such as foam-in-place packaging.

Communication services include Telex and Facsimile Transmissions worldwide.

Mail Boxes, Etc. USA also makes keys, rubber stamps and business cards in addition to offering a quality resume-writing service.

DECORATING DEN of Michigan has announced the grand opening of a Northville franchise owned and operated by Anita Baydoun.

Decorating Den owners are professionally trained decorators who travel to a customer's home with over 5,000 samples of draperies, wallcoverings, floor coverings, furniture and accessories in a specially equipped ColorVan.

Baydoun's service includes interior decorating consultations at no fee. This allows customers in the Northville area to enjoy the convenience of reviewing samples in their homes, avoiding the time-consuming job of going from store-to-store trying to match colors and fabrics.

There are 26 Decorating Den franchises in Michigan and more than 700 across the country. Decorating Den is the ninth fastest-growing franchise operation in the nation.

Baydoun studied interior design at Henry Ford Community College and attended the University of Central Florida. She is currently participating in a four-year training program to become a Decorating Den Certified Designer. She lives in Farmington Hills with her husband Eddie and their two children.

Aging parents may need financial help

Money Management

America is growing older. By the year 2020, almost one-third of the U.S. population will be at least 55 years old.

That statistic may not mean much to you right now, but its impact on your life almost certainly will. For many individuals, the aging of America means a new financial challenge—supporting elderly parents.

Caring for elderly parents need not be a financial ordeal, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs. By assessing your parents' finances, sharing responsibilities with other family members and taking advantage of numerous tax breaks, you can provide your parents with a comfortable existence—without sending yourself to the poor house.

Have no doubt about it—supporting an elderly parent can be expensive. Injuries or illnesses can drastically reduce an aging parent's assets as well as your own. Nursing homes that cost $100 or more a day rapidly deplete even substantial savings.

In fact, some experts estimate that two-thirds of the people who enter nursing homes as private paying patients eventually end up as Medicaid patients.

To minimize the potential financial burden of supporting aging parents, start by reviewing your parents' budget. Be certain the budget lists all expenses and liabilities. Next, evaluate your parents' assets, including all benefits and income sources such as a pension fund, Social Security, insurance policies and Medicare.

Match their assets against the cost of expenses, taking into account all average medical and living expenses, or those of a nursing home (if necessary).

Once you have a grasp of how much money your parents can contribute to their own support, you will be able to judge the degree of support you and other family members may have to supply. Then, you can start planning ways to raise the funds.

If you anticipate that a parent may have to live in a nursing home, look into nursing home insurance. If your parent must remain in a home for an extended time, the insurance will cover a portion of the expenses.

Another source of financial aid for families with limited resources is the Medicaid program. Eligibility requirements vary by state, but remember that many state Medicaid programs will reject applicants if they exceed specific limitations regarding the value of such personal assets as savings and burial-expenses accounts.

If Medicaid is out of the question for your family, you can still have a number of options available. You can provide income to your aging parents through trusts or loans of your own. In a trust, you name your parents as beneficiary and thus any income earned will belong to them. Since they are probably in a lower tax bracket than you, they will be able to retain a greater percentage of the funds.

Before you establish a trust, make sure you can afford the cost. A CPA will be able to help you assess your own finances and, if you decide to establish a trust, he or she will be able to answer any questions you may have regarding the implication of changes in the tax law.

If you think taxes have little to do with your ability to support aging parents, think again. Both you and your parents can benefit from tax breaks that enable you to spend less on taxes and more on support.

For example, if you provide more than half of a parent's annual support—including housing, food, clothing, medical and dental expenses—you might be eligible for an additional tax exemption, which is $1,950 in 1988. To be eligible, your dependent parent must receive less than $1,950 of taxable gross income in 1988 and must not be required to file a joint return for that year.

If you and your brothers and sisters share the costs for at least one-half of a parent's annual support, and no one person provides more than half the support, you can still get a tax break. To claim the deduction, you must provide more than 10 percent of your parent's support. In addition, everyone providing more than 10 percent of your parent's total support must agree in writing on who claims the tax exemption in any particular year.

In addition, if you hire someone to provide for a dependent parent who is disabled and unable to care for him or herself while you work or look for work, you may be eligible for a tax credit of up to 30 percent of the amount you pay for the service. Under the Child and Dependent Tax Credit, your tax credit can be as much as $720 for one qualified dependent and $1,440 for two.

A number of tax benefits are also available for your aging parents. Tax reform has replaced the exemptions for age and blindness with a higher standard deduction. For a married individual who is at least 65 or blind, the additional standard deduction is $600, or 1,200 if both blind and 65 or older.

A single person who is at least 65 or blind gets an additional standard deduction of $750, or $1,500 if both blind and 65 or older.

Also take note that individuals who are at least 65, or retired with a permanent total disability, may be eligible for certain tax credits. Depending on the level of their annual adjusted gross income plus the amount of any non-taxable Social Security and related benefits, your elderly parents may be eligible for a tax credit of up to $750 if one qualifies and $1,125 if they both qualify and file a joint return.

Other tax advantages for the elderly include the once-in-a-lifetime $25,000 exclusion-of-gain provision, which enables individuals meeting certain age, ownership and use requirements to exclude from their gross income some or all of the gains from selling their principal home.

The aging of America shouldn't translate into a personal financial crisis. Talk to your parents about their needs and resources. When you're ready to begin planning for their support, CPAs suggest that you consult an expert for advice that will enable you and your parents to enjoy a financially secure future.

NFIB opposes increase in minimum wage

A number of Michigan legislators want healthy increases in the minimum wage to help low-income workers, beginning with $1 more per hour in January.

But business owners think differently, said National Federation of Independent Business/Michigan (NFIB/Michigan) Director Juanita Pierman. They know that a proposed 50 percent increase in Michigan's minimum wage (from $3.35 per hour now to $5 per hour in 1992) will hurt many businesses and force them to lay-off workers.

She gave the example of a Main Street merchant employing five people at the minimum wage. Under the proposed law, their combined annual salaries will rise from $34,640 to $52,000. Workers compensation costs will increase at least $364 and the Michigan business owner will pay an increased Single Business Tax on the higher wage and higher workers comp and unemployment comp charges.

Social Security taxes and fringe

... the owner may have to cut costs by laying off those low-skilled workers just helped by the minimum wage increase. Other options are to trim benefits for all workers, to automate or mechanize certain jobs, or to use part-time or leased employees who require no benefits at all.

— Juanita Pierman,
NFIB/Michigan Director

benefits also will increase, matched by comprehensive salary increases to keep others ahead of the minimum wage employees.

In sum, the merchant will soon have thousands of dollars in additional operating costs every year, with no increase in revenues.

What's the merchant to do?

The owner will be forced to raise prices, which affects all customers and breeds inflation.

Or the owner may have to cut costs, Pierman said, by laying off those low-skilled workers just helped by the minimum wage increase.

Other options are to trim benefits for all workers, to automate or mechanize certain jobs, or to use part-time or leased employees who require no benefits at all.

In short order, the minimum wage increase will limit job opportunities for the poor, the unskilled and especially the disadvantaged youth. It will hurt exactly those it was meant to help, Pierman said.

She pointed to a 1980 University of Michigan employer study about a then-pending increase in the minimum wage. Of those surveyed:

□ 11 percent said they cancelled or postponed plans to hire new workers.

□ 9 percent said they would reduce employee work hours.

□ 7 percent said they would lay off workers.

□ 6 percent said they would not fill vacancies.

Pierman called on Michigan legislators to temper altruism with reason when considering a minimum wage increase.

Highland barber reflects on changing styles

difficult to use a straight edge," he said with a smile. As a result, his customers are left to fend off their beards themselves with today's modern plastic disposable razors.

Besides running his business five days a week, Applebee is actively involved with community organizations, including the Salvation Army, Church of the Holy Spirit, Highland Fire Department, Milford Community Chest and St. Vincent De Paul Society.

A good deal of his volunteer time is spent keeping track of the area's Salvation Army account, which pays the bills for people who are out of work, sick or victims of a crisis such as a house fire.

"There is a tremendous need in the area. The social climate is different here compared to the inner city where there are totally all-out poor people," he explained.

"We help them get through the rough times rather than turn off their utilities, kick them out and send them to the city," added Applebee, who has been involved for 13 years.

Next to fishing, Applebee likes to spend his free time painting and the fruits of his labor can be seen displayed for sale on the walls of his barber shop.

Most of the pieces are nature and lake scenes of beautiful color and depth. The going price for an Ap-plebee original is $35 to $65.

An artist since 1980, he claims never to have drawn before, but it was something he always wanted to try, and when he did, he liked it.

Recently, Applebee considered retiring, but decided to "keep plugging away" because he enjoys his work and his customers, who range in age from children to senior citizens.

"There are a lot of nice people in Highland, and more than half of my clientele has been with me for 25 years," he said proudly.

Somehow, one gets the impression Applebee is waiting around to see what styles the fourth generation will come up with.

Duane's Styling and Barber Shop is located at 212 S. Milford Road. Business hours are Tuesday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Holy Spirit You who make me see everything and showed me the way to reach my ideals. You who gave me the divine gift to forgive and forget the wrong that is done to me, and You who are in all instances of my life with me, I in this short dialogue want to thank You for everything and confirm once more that I never want to be separated from You no matter how great the material desire might be.
I want to be with You and my loved ones in your perpetual glory. Amen. Thank You for Your love towards me and my loved ones. S.V.

If you don't keep their names alive, who will?

An invitation to place the name of a member of your family who immigrated to America in the only national museum created to honor them.

Whether your ancestors first set foot on American soil at Ellis Island, or entered through another gateway, here is a unique opportunity to show your gratitude. And to present your family with a gift that will be meaningful now and for generations to come.

When you make a $100 contribution to restore Ellis Island, the name you designate will be permanently placed on the newly created American Immigrant Wall of Honor. You can choose the name of an ancestor or just your own family name. And you'll receive an Official Certificate of Registration. To register additional names, list each name and country of origin on a separate sheet. And remember, there is a minimum gift of $100 for each.

Please send your contribution today. By acting now you assure that the Ellis Island Immigration Museum will be a place to honor your own heritage, as well as a monument to the great American traditions of freedom, hope and opportunity.

The only thing a kid should be getting in school is smarter.

Unfortunately what too many of them are getting instead is drugs. With your help it doesn't have to be this way.

There is a program called Schools Without Drugs. The Challenge that can help you deal with the drug problem in your community or school.

Find out about it. The smarter you are about what works against drugs, the better chance our kids will understand how dumb it is to take them.

The Best of Random Sample

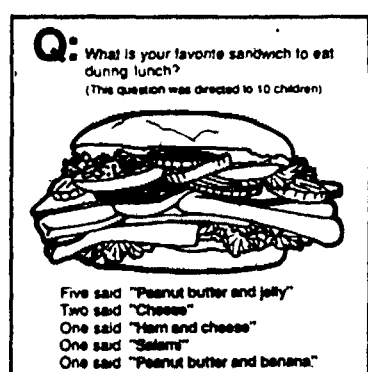

July 16, 1987

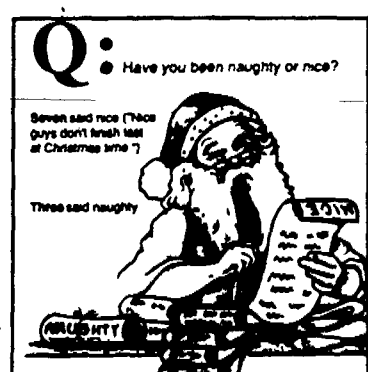

Nov. 19, 1987

Feb. 18, 1988

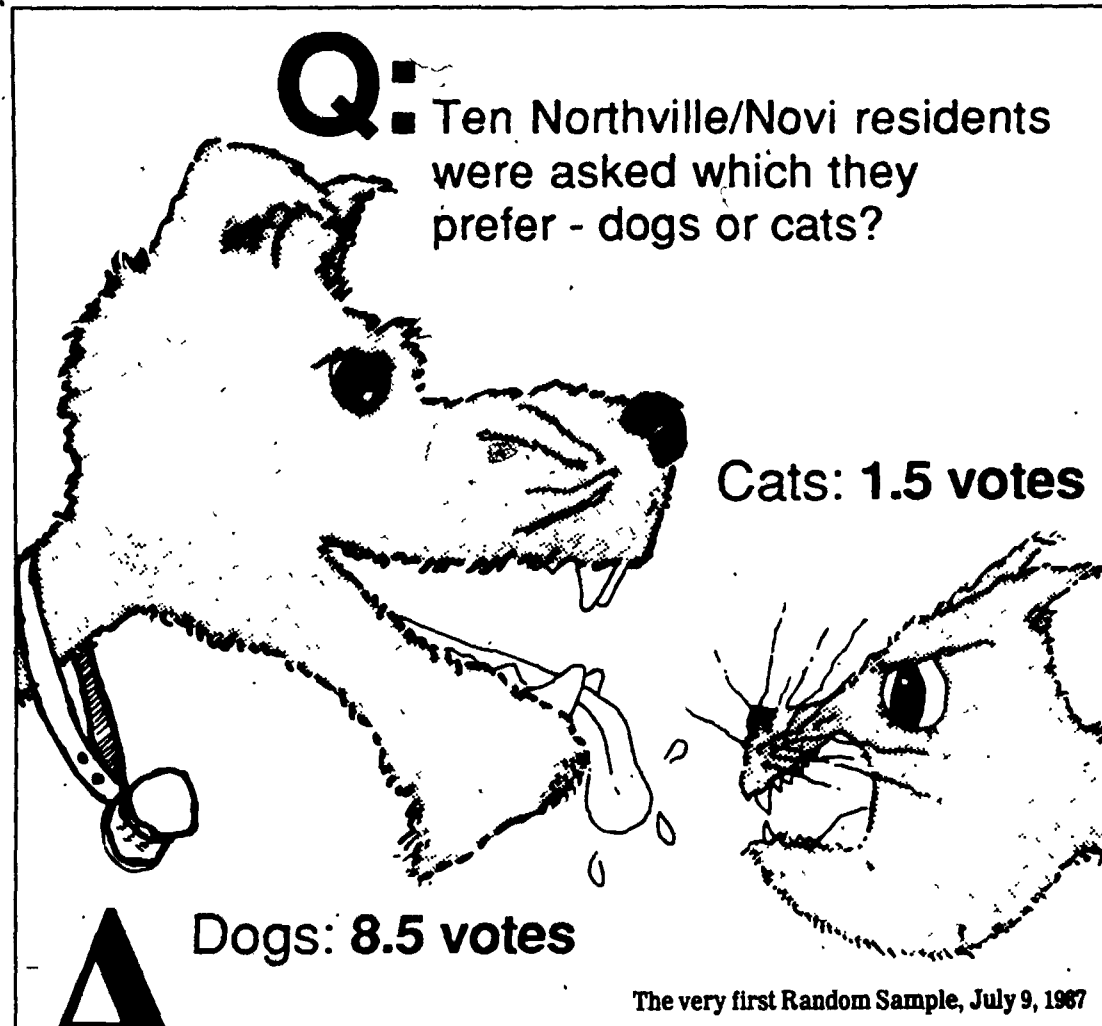

Nov. 26, 1987

Dec. 17, 1987

Question:

Who sleeps in the nude, eats pepperoni pizza and may own a handgun?

Dogs: 8.5 votes

Cats: 1.5 votes

The very first Random Sample, July 9, 1987

Answer: Your neighbor and mine. For exactly one year now we here at the Northville Record and the Novi News have been asking some fairly impertinent, somewhat silly and occasionally serious questions of the residents of our respective areas. Inquiring minds want to know — so we figured why not just ask?

To keep the matter in perspective we made sure that only 10 people were polled each week so that no one could possibly accuse us of trying to be scientifically accurate. Here's a quick breakdown of the "typical" Northville and Novi resident.

Your neighbor believes firmly that the Tigers will win the pennant, that red jelly beans are the only ones worth eating, that leaving town is essential for a summer vacation and that only pumpkin pie should be served at Thanksgiving.

If your neighbor is a woman she is less than excited about the return of the mini-skirt, and conversely (no real surprise here), if your neighbor is male he's anxious to see hems rise.

This neighbor owns a dog and has no idea what the Pope's real name is. He or she is law abiding and almost always wears a seatbelt.

By the same token, this neighbor has great intentions when it comes time to vote. Our poll found that 80 percent of you thought you were going to cast your ballots in the local elections. On election day, however, a mere 22 percent in Novi, and 31 percent in Northville actually bothered to vote.

A majority of you believe in ghosts, will let your children play with toy guns, watch the Olympics and have smoked. Your spouse snores, your housing assessment is too high and you tend to tip in the 15 percent range when dining out.

The children of Novi and Northville prefer peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and are "kind of" ready for school to start each September.

When it comes to your preferences regarding the weather you have strong ones. The majority of residents are never ready for winter (except for the smart-alecky one who said "I don't care I'm going to Florida") and find summer weather — even the balmy summer of 1987 — plenty hot enough.

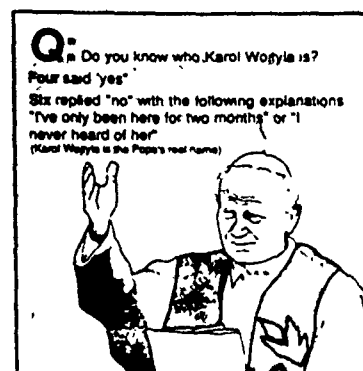

When it comes to procrastinators, this area may have more than its fair share. 70 percent of you had not finished your Christmas shopping by Christmas Eve, and another 70 percent (it couldn't have been the same people, now could it?) had not done their income tax by April 14.

There are plenty of sports fans in the two communities, and most of them felt that there was too much fighting in hockey, that Tiger Stadium should be saved, that the Pistons could not go all the way and that Kirk Gibson would be missed.

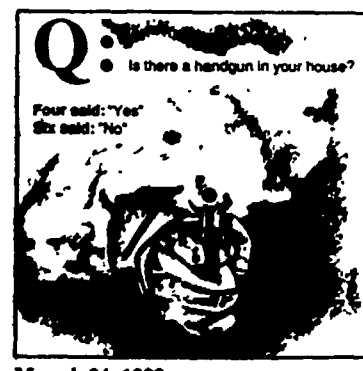

Most of the people in this area are not satisfied with the two presidential candidates and believe that the 50s were truly happy days. Most are not in favor of casino gambling and planted a garden in this year of the drought.

Linda Burton

Burton aids Auxiliary

By DOROTHY NASH

Has anyone ever helped you when you needed it most, and you had no way of repaying the kindness? It happened to Linda Burton a long while ago, and this is basically why she has been volunteering in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary for almost nine years.

For the last two years she has been president, not only presiding at monthly meetings but also taking over six chairmanships when the appointees were unable to continue.

Do you remember the Northville Memorial Day parade? That was a project of hers. In fact she produced it for five years. Just after Christmas each year she started planning — writing to the marching participant groups and also the chaplain and the speaker for the cemetery service. Then she saw that it went off on schedule.

But maybe the actual repaying of the kindness shows up most in what is done with money raised from poppy sales, rummage and bake sales and donations. The poppy money stays in the community, she said, and it is spent on Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for needy people, not necessarily veterans.

The rest of the money buys American flags for schools, Boy and Girl Scout troops, and the Chamber of Commerce. And it pays for canteen books which patients in the V.A. Hospital in Ann Arbor may use for the purchase of small items and necessities.

Also at the V.A. Hospital, the Auxiliary and the VFW put on a party every other month for the patients who can come to the social hall. "The men have bingo games, and we provide refreshments," Burton said.

In summing it up, Linda Burton said her Auxiliary work is for "a good cause, a constructive service to the community in which we live."

And it's open even to women who are not related to men eligible for membership in the VFW. The Auxiliary has an auxiliary called Special Friends. Anyone interested in volunteering time for it may inquire at the Post headquarters at 438 S. Main Street in Northville.

Redoing the ROOMS at the INN

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville's first — and, so far, only — bed-and-breakfast inn is undergoing its finishing touches in preparation for a grand unveiling within a few weeks.

The Atchison House, a home-turned-hospital-turned-clinic-turned-B-and-B, has been through extensive renovations over the last few months to begin returning the building to something close to its original design, a project which will continue in the months ahead. The first phase of the work is now close enough to completion for the inn to expect its first guests by the end of the month.

Owners Don Mroz and Susan Sommer have overseen a complete overhaul of the old Doctors' Clinic on Linden and Dunlap in the city's Historic District. Initially, the Atchison House will have five guest rooms, eventually to be expanded to six when work is finished.

The project has included extensive carpentry, a complete overhaul of the plumbing and a replacement of most of the wiring, Mroz said last week. The overall plan includes removal of additions as well as replacing balustrades and other architectural features to restore the building very close to its initial, 1892 appearance.

"It's been quite a project," Mroz laughed. "It took a lot longer and cost a lot more (than planned), like everybody told us."

Several decorators / designers from the area have each adopted a

Susan Sommer and Don Mroz oversee initial construction work in March at the Atchison House, a former medical clinic which the couple is in the process of transforming into the first bed-and-breakfast inn in the Northville area. The new venture is named for Dr. Russell Atchison, a local doctor who owned and worked in the clinic for years. Built in 1882, the building began its history as a residence and also served as a hospital.

room in the Atchison House as a special project, giving each room a unique identity. E. Christie, Judy's Curtains, Edwards Caterers, Joy Holloway, Kay Mollenan and the Gathering Basket have all taken on a room, and Fisher Wallpaper and Paint's Marian Houts — who once lived just a couple of blocks from the new inn — is doing the gallery, dining room and main hall.

"All the rooms are really going to be different," Mroz said.

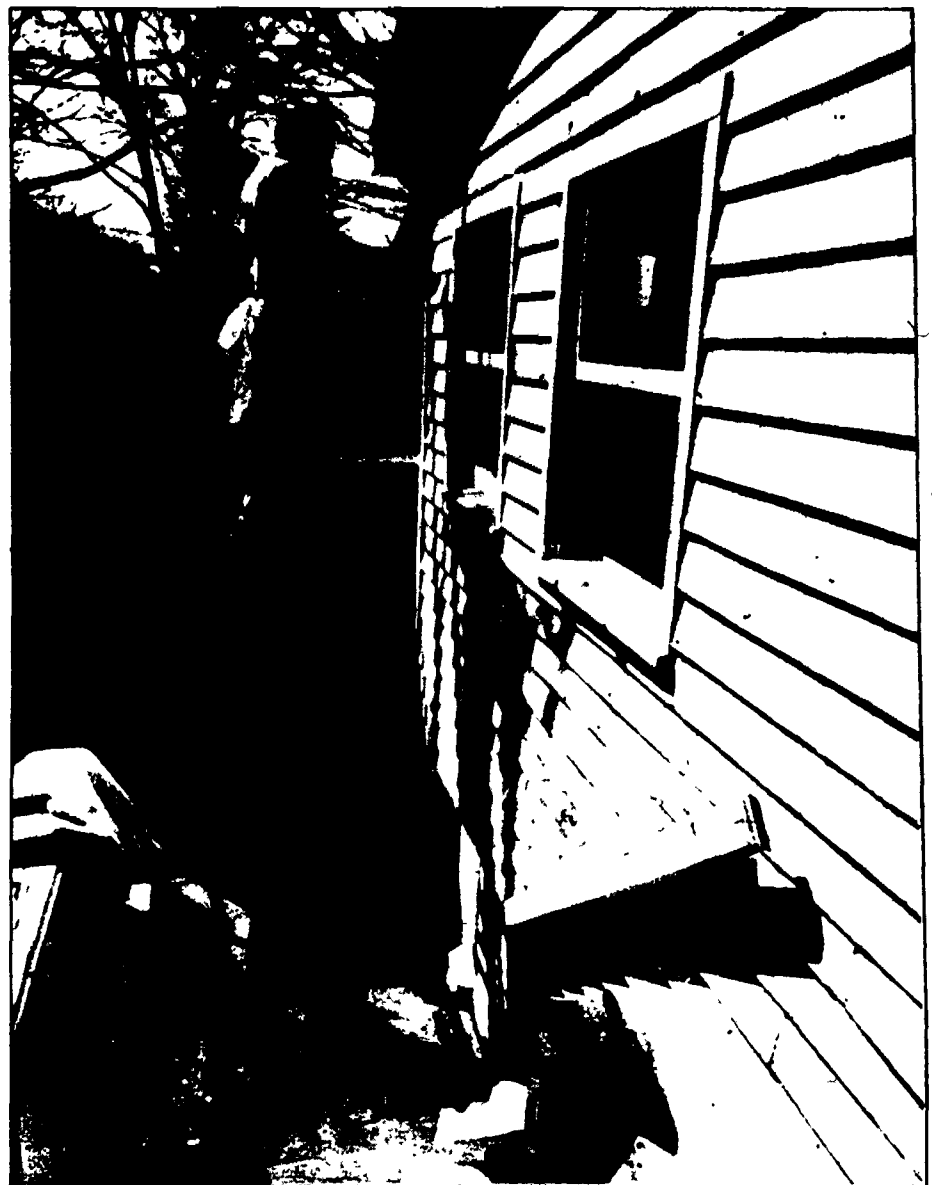

After the final decorating touches are complete, the owners plan to introduce the new inn to the community through open houses, probably one for merchants and neighbors and another for anyone who is interested, Mroz said.

"I bet we've had over 300 people through here already. It's unbelievable," Mroz said. "We have just gotten a ton of support from the community. It's been just wonderful."

E. Christie owner Shirley Cowie checks a stencil in late June.

Although the bulk of the work is taking place inside the building, the exterior is also being redone and transformed to the original building shape. Shown here in April, co-owner Don Mroz applies a coat of paint.

Proceeds from the tournament were used to buy many items for the schools, according to Sixt.

Programs offered at Women's Center

A Displaced Homemaker Program is offered by the Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College. The program is funded through grants from the Departments of Education and Labor. Project HERS (Homemaker's Employment Reentry system) offers career interest assessment, assertiveness training, resume writing and interview techniques for displaced homemakers including women on public assistance.

Displaced Homemakers are people who have worked in the home most of their lives, and who have lost their source of income due to death, disability, desertion, divorce or separation from the person on whom they have been dependent.

Financial aid is available to cover the cost of tuition for those who are on public assistance, displaced homemakers, homemakers, or single parents who lack adequate job skills as well as recent, skilled, full-time work experience.

Project HERS meets on Tuesday and Thursday, 12:30-3 p.m. beginning July 19. For further information on registration and financial assistance call 591-6400, ext. 430.

The Women's Resource Center is also presenting a special program designed for adults who are contemplating college. "Thinking About College?" will be held Aug. 8 from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. in the Liberal Arts Building, Room B-200.

The program will feature information on academic programs, financial aid, and special support services. A panel of adult students will share their experiences and answer questions.

The program will include a tour of the campus. A $3.50 light lunch is optional. For reservations call 591-6400, ext. 430.

The Women's Resource Center is also offering the Women's Divorce Support Group on July 26 from 7-9 p.m. in the Lower Waterman Center Conference Room at the College. The Divorce Support Group will feature guest speakers Joan Garside and Marlene Kershaw on the topic "Could College Be the Answer?"

The Divorce Support Group is a group for women who are separated, divorced, in the process of, or contemplating divorce. The two speakers, program coordinators, will discuss options and opportunities available to women who need to enter the work world.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile roads in Livonia.

Kosko baby is born

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff and Jan Kosko of Dearborn announce the arrival of their daughter, Kathryn Elizabeth. She was born on June 25 at Oakwood Hospital.

Kathryn weighed five pounds, 13 ounces at the time of birth. She is the first child for the Koskos. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dick and Elaine Kosko of Dearborn, Ray Jackson of Canton and Joyce Jackson of Northville. Great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred and Rose Kosko of Florida.

Meal drivers needed

Where there's a will, there ought to be a way. The Northville area Senior Nutrition Program is looking for that way.

Out-Wayne County Human Services, Inc. is a non-profit organization which serves meals to the home-bound senior citizens in Northville out of the Nutrition Site in Allen Terrace. There are 44 other Nutrition Sites in Western Wayne County. Volunteer drivers are urgently needed to deliver noon meals, Monday through Friday to home-bound, disabled elderly people living in Northville. Individuals who can give one hour one day or more per week, should call Out-Wayne County Human Services at 453-2525 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Volunteers are reimbursed 23 cents per mile.

Bandshell concerts held

The Community Wind Ensemble returns to downtown Northville as this week's offering in the Friday evening concert series.

Directed by Marc Dickey, the ensemble will perform a variety of marches, overtures and show tunes.

The ensemble is a regular feature at summer concerts in Northville and is appearing as part of the Northville Arts Commission's 1988 Summer Band Concert Series.

Sponsored by Schoolcraft College, the ensemble is open to experienced musicians of all ages. The 50-member concert band is composed of Schoolcraft students, faculty and area residents from Wayne and Oakland counties. In the summer season the ensemble invites high school and college musicians who are on summer vacation to perform with the band.

The concert is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m. at the bandshell off Main Street downtown.

Dating services sell hope to singles

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Singles have long tried to develop ways to meet people of the opposite sex.

Bars were the "in thing" for a while, but the creation of the video camera has opened up new ways for people to meet that special someone.

Video dating isn't the only method used by dating services though, as some cupid consultants employ mailing or advertising methods. Still other dating companies use the old fashioned approach of pairing people together.

However, finding these dating service companies may be as much of a struggle as finding that special someone. Out of the eight dating service companies listed in the yellow pages, five had disconnected phone numbers, making the dating service business seem like a dying fad.

But, alas, for the singles who want to change the usual night of solitude into gin rummy there is hope. While two of the reputable firms don't make any promises about the number of dating or marriage prospects, both have had great success in putting couples together.

Amy Schiff, owner of Sincere Singles in Ann Arbor, said her organization is not a dating service; rather, it is a monthly publication magazine containing personal ads.

Schiff said the ads, which appear in an attractive 40-page booklet, are divided into geographical sections of the metro Detroit area, making the service more personalized than the companion ads found in many newspapers.

She added the procedure is all very private, as no names or phone numbers are used in the ads. If, after reading an ad, a person wishes to respond, a letter and $2 fee is sent to Sincere Singles, and the letter is forwarded to the individual. Subscription to the magazine costs $15 per year.

Schiff said placing an ad in the

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Dating services offer an alternative to the personals

magazine costs $25 for 20 words, "but a normal ad is usually 40-60 words which costs between $35 and $40."

She added the popularity of the magazine is heightened by people feeling more comfortable by having their first contact on the phone.

"This is a safe service because people are not hanging around bars, and they can feel secure by not having to expose themselves," Schiff said, adding the service caters mainly to professional and white collar people. To contact Sincere Singles call 476-6110 or write to Amy Schiff, P.O. Box 1719, Ann Arbor, MI, 48106.

Video dating is the newest method of companion connecting, but even this new wave style of meeting people requires the matchmaking touch.

Paula Winkler, owner of Today's World dating service in Allen Park, said she created the idea of the service 10 years ago after being asked by friends to introduce them to other acquaintances.

Winkler said each of her clients, which now number 200, begins the process by making an hour long video tape, describing their interests, likes, and dislikes. Then, the client scans through a photo album of club members of the opposite sex, and if a person interests him/her, the client will view their video tape.

Winkler added she then will call the person who was viewed and arrange for that person to see the video tape of the interested party. If the people involved consent, Winkler said she will arrange for them to contact each other.

She noted the dating system seems to be successful, as five couples have married through her efforts.

An advantage of joining Today's Way is their qualification of each member being free from communicable diseases, according to employee Vicky Cherry.

"That's why people come to us, so they are provided with a disease-free environment," Cherry said.

She said in addition to clients choosing their own dates, Today's World employees also work to put together people with similar interests.

For more information on Today's World call Paula or Vicky at 381-5656.

MTV exhibit swings into Twelve Oaks

MTV's travelling exhibit of fashion, future and rock music stops at Twelve Oaks Mall July 14-17. The exhibit, called MTV's "Museum of Unnatural History," is a four-part, three-dimensional showcase look at the worlds of fashion, new music, technology and rock and roll history.

The exhibit is cosponsored by several corporations including Apple Computer, Clairol, Dutch Boy, Hershey, Maybelline, Pontiac Motors, and Orion Pictures.

The exhibit covers more than 3,000 square feet.

BUGS BEDDOW BAND — Trombonist Bugs Beddow and his band will bring their blend of jazz and pop music to the Farmington Community Center's outdoor amphitheater for a concert at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 17. With the grounds open at 6 p.m., concertgoers may bring a picnic or buy food at the center.

Tickets are $10 and are available at the center, located on Farmington Road north of Ten Mile in Farmington Hills. The outdoor amphitheater is located in back of the Georgian mansion. The center is an independent, non-profit organization. For more information, call 477-9404.

"DEARIE DAYS" — Plymouth's Old Village area hosts the 16th annual "Dearie Days" festival from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. July 16.

The festival tries to recreate the atmosphere of an old-fashioned summer day with barbershop quartet singing, callopie music, clowns, face painting, a raffle, old-fashioned bicycles and antique cars. Throughout the village, merchants will be outside their shops with sidewalk sales and booths of antiques and collectibles.

Nearby

CONCERT FOR KIDS — The second annual Teddy Bear Concert and Carnival, featuring the Songsters, comes to Ann Arbor Huron High School at 1 p.m. Sunday, July 17.

The afternoon will include music, clowns, games, face-painting and more. Tickets are $5 and $3 at the door or in advance from Herb David Guitar Studio on E. Liberty in Ann Arbor. Proceeds benefit the Washtenaw Area Council for Children.

For more information call 761-7071.

CLASSIC CARS — Over $1 million worth of antique autos will be displayed at Flint's Crossroads Village and Huckleberry Railroad Sunday, July 17.

The vehicles, all at least 25 years old, will be exhibited and paraded through the village. The schedule includes a parade at 1:30 and competitions at 2:30.

Admission is included in the regular village ticket price of $5.95 for adults, $4.95 for senior citizens and $3.95 for children 4-12. Children three and under are admitted free. The village and railroad are just north of Flint off I-475. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. weekdays and 11 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. For more information call 736-7100.

NEEDLEWORK ART — Members of the Guild of Needle Chapter of the Embroiderers Guild of America, Inc., are exhibiting works of "The Eye and the Needle" at the County Galleria and the Courthouse lobbies in the Oakland County complex off Telegraph Road through Aug. 1.

The guild, formed in 1975, consists of over 100 members from southeast Michigan who create clothing, Christmas stockings, samplers, pictures, pillows, handbags and more with hardanger, needlepoint, pull thread, blackwork, tatting, smocking, counted cross-stitch, silk and metal, hand dyeing and quilting.

The exhibit is showing in the College Exhibit Gallery in the library wing. Hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday and 1-4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Admission is free. The college is at 1-96 and Levan Road in Livonia. For more information call 591-5187.

To have an event listed in "Nearby," write to: Nearby, Northville Record, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, Mich., 48167. Photos or other artwork are welcome.

Farmington festival offers variety of events

The 24th annual Farmington/Farmington Hills Rounders Festival, which began Sunday, continues through Saturday with a variety of activities scheduled in the community.

This year's theme is "A Kaleidoscope of the World," emphasizing ethnic and cultural diversity in the Farmington area.

The main event of the festival is a jazz festival from 5 to 11 p.m. Saturday at the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College. The only charge is a $3 parking fee to hear the Detroit Music Company, the Wolverine Jazz Band, the U.S. Air Force's Flight One band, and the J.C. Heard band.

The center of events is the plaza just east of Farmington Road on Grand River in downtown Farmington, but other events take place in different areas. The schedule for Friday, Saturday and Sunday includes:

- Jaycee Radio Control Model Air Show — North Farmington High School, 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and noon to 5 Sunday.

- Arts and Crafts Sales — 9 a.m. to dark through Saturday at the downtown Farmington parking lot, Masonic Temple, Muirwood Square at Drake and Grand River, Farmington Training Center on Thomas St., at Warren's Corners at Farmington Road below Grand River (the Saturday sale here ends at 6 p.m.).

- Bingo Tent — 9 a.m. to dark Friday and Saturday in downtown Farmington at Grand River.

- Ice Cream Social — At the First United Methodist Church in Farmington from noon to 9 p.m. Friday and noon to 8 p.m. Saturday.

- Masonic Temple Meals — dinner from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday and noon to 6 p.m. Saturday; pancake breakfast from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sunday.

- Detroit Police Blue Pigs Band — 2 to 5 p.m. Saturday at the Farmington library.

- Men's Softball Tournament — Drake Ball Field and Harrison High School, from 6 to 11 p.m. Friday, 9 a.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sunday. For information, call 473-9570.

- Farmington Historical Museum Tours — 1 to 8 p.m. Friday and 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

- Festival Parade — 10 a.m. Saturday, from the Grand River Drive-In to Farmington Road.

- Games for Kids — Noon to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, with carnival music from 5 to 8 p.m., at the Village Commons Shopping Center.

- Teeter-Totter Marathon — 2 p.m. Friday through 2 p.m. Saturday at the Farmington United Methodist Church.

- Ox Roast — noon to midnight Thursday through Saturday at the Elks Club on Orchard Lake Road.

- 50 / 50 Bingo — noon to midnight Friday and Saturday at VFW Post 2280 on Orchard Lake Road above Grand River.

- Ask the Handyman — 1 to 3 p.m. Saturday at Damman Hardware in downtown Farmington.

- Festival Showmobile Entertainment — music and magic Friday and Saturday in the Downtown Farmington Shopping Center.

- Antique and Exotic Cars — noon to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Uptown Farmington Center on Grand River near Orchard Lake Road.

- Body Building Contest — At the Uptown Farmington Center on Grand River near Orchard Lake Road Saturday afternoon. Music by Rite is scheduled from noon to 1 p.m., body building preliminaries from 1 to 2:30, music from 2:30 to 5, and body building finals at 5.

- Free exams — Spinal and weight bearing analyses and scoliosis evaluations for children, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the Lowen Chiropractic Clinic on Farmington Road.

SAIL AWAY

Northville-based team is racing to Mackinac

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

When 'Hot Ticket' takes to Lake Huron this weekend for the annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac race, Northville will be well represented once again.

Six of the nine-man crew in the 'Hot Ticket' boat are Northville residents, and that includes skipper Robert Kirkman and his sons Bob, 19, and Michael, 14.

Kirkman is no stranger to this race or sailing. He's been involved in the sport for 16 years and this will be his sixth Mackinac race.

"We've been sailing for a long time and this is the third boat," he said.

The rest of the Northville connection features Rob Baidas, Bill Spagnoli and Ted Miloch. The crew will be rounded out by Sean Foran of Livonia, Frank Mikiciuk of Dearborn and navigator George Thompson of Livonia.

"Normally we race with about nine-to-11 crew members," Kirkman explained. "We are sticking with nine because in the Mackinac race, you want as few as possible for weight purposes but you need enough for two separate shifts."

Most of the crew know each other because of their participation in another sport — hockey.

"Many of us are in a hockey program in Livonia and that's how we first met," Kirkman recalled. "There's a lot of fathers and sons and we just have a good time."

Kirkman, his son Bob and Rob Baidas are the helmsmen. They will each take turns running 90-minute shifts throughout the race. The rest of the crew will work in three-hour shifts until the multi-day event is completed. The race will start in the early afternoon on July 16 in Port Huron and will probably end in the afternoon on July 18 off Mackinac Island's Mission Point.

The boats must travel from Port Huron to the Cove Island Bell Buoy in the northwest corner of Lake Huron near Georgian Bay. From there it's a direct line straight west to the finish

Holzer streak hits nine wins

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville's Tom Holzer Ford began the past week by winning a game on the mercy rule, and from there, things only got better.

When the dust settled after a double header against Ann Arbor Wendy's Sunday, Holzer had racked up a quick four wins in five days, stretching their winning streak to nine games and looking more than ever like the best challenge to Little Caesars Pizza's drive for the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League title.

Holzer's recipe for success over the past week included equal parts pitching and hitting: the team outscored its opponents by an amazing 41-7 over the four games. Holzer (15-6), with a firm grip on second place, is hoping the formula will keep clicking through the remaining nine games of the season, two of which are against first-place Caesars (18-3).

"I don't know if we can play much better than we are," Holzer Coach Bob Peterson said after beating Wendy's twice Sunday. "After the games I had nothing to say (to the players) except 'nice game.'"

Although Caesars record might look a little intimidating, Holzer has split the four meetings between the teams, accounting for two of Caesars three losses. And the last two times the teams met, Holzer won both.

"We beat them the last two times we played, so that's a good sign," Peterson said.

Holzer's record-boosting during the past week came at the expense of Wendy's in three of the four games, including Sunday's double-header wins of 8-0 and 10-1.

Tom Cotter threw a three-hit shutout in the first game Sunday, walking none and striking out nine as he raised his record to 3-2.

Rick Tavormina went 3-for-4, backed up by 2-for-4 performances from Kevin Ritter and Keith Dutkiewicz. Andy Fairman knocked in two RBIs and Scott Peterson walked three times for Holzer, a repeat performance of the previous Wednesday.

In the second game, Dan Hilliard almost equalled Cotter's heat with a three-hitter of his own. He struck out line. The straight line distance is about 258 miles, but the actual traveling distance (depending on the weather conditions) is anywhere from 350 to 400 miles.

Three years ago, Kirkman's boat was captured in a terrible storm off Cove Island and the mast snapped in half. It was the only time Kirkman's boat failed to finish the race. Last year, 'Hot Ticket' placed 10th of 25 boats in its class and 61st out of a total of more than 300.

"We'll finish and we hope to do well," Kirkman said. "The Mackinac race is more luck than anything else — it's a matter of who gets the best air. Don't get me wrong. It takes a good boat and a good crew but being in the right spot at the right time can make all the difference in the world."

'Hot Ticket' will race in the International Measurement System (IMS) 'B' class this weekend. The boat is a 35-footer that draws seven-foot of water and was built in 1983.

"I bought the boat out of Newport, Rhode Island," Kirkman said. "It is the most competitive boat we've ever had. Our older boats were not as competitive."

'Hot Ticket' is docked at the Ford Yacht Club on Grosse Ile at the base of the Detroit River. Kirkman estimates that his boat is probably among the top five sailing boats of its kind on Lake Erie.

The crew practices every Wednesday evening and on weekends, preparing for the big race. Among many competitions this spring, 'Hot Ticket' placed first in a sprint from Grosse Ile to Put-In-Bay, Ohio at the end of May.

"We practice crew organization and sail changing," Kirkman explained. "It takes a lot of time to get ready for Mackinac. Everybody on the boat has a particular job on the boat and we're all working out and trying to get in the best physical shape."

"By the time we get to Mackinac, we're bushed. It's a very grueling race and it's very hard to sleep on a boat."

eight and walked two to even his record at 2-2.

Fairman and Ritter each hit a home run in the second game. Ritter's came in the third with one man on and Fairman poked a three-run shot in the fifth. Fairman is leading the league in homers with six and Ritter is second with five.

Steve Rudelic and Dutkiewicz each had two hits in the second game, with Rudelic adding two RBIs.

The strength of the Holzer starting pitchers is an important factor in the winning streak. "Out of the last seven, I think we've had six complete games," Peterson said.

TOM HOLZER 9, WALTER'S APPLIANCE 2: Eastern Michigan University signee Kevin Knoche turned in a strong pitching performance Friday, striking out six while surrendering six hits and two walks. He didn't give up a run until the fifth inning.

The Holzer bats gave Knoche plenty of support, scoring three runs in both the second and third innings and adding one more in each of the fifth, sixth and seventh.

Four Holzer players — Tavormina, Fairman, Ritter and Bob Tatro — each had two hits, and Tavormina collected three RBIs. Fairman had two RBIs on his fifth home run. Ritter, Dutkiewicz, Tatro and Rudelic each added single RBIs.

TOM HOLZER 14, ANN ARBOR WENDY'S 4 (MERCY RULE): Holzer burst through with 10 runs in the second inning last Wednesday to put Wendy's in a hole they never escaped, forcing the game to be called after five innings on the mercy rule.

Holzer added three runs in the third and one in the fourth for a total of fourteen runs on thirteen hits. Mike Salach struck out three and walked two for Holzer to raise his record to 2-0.

The big blow in the 14-run second was a grand slam by Keith Dutkiewicz, who went two-for-four on the day. Paul Newkirk hit three-for-four with two RBIs and scored three times. Rick Tavormina and George Hampton had two hits apiece. Scott Peterson collected three walks for the day.

Here are the LCBL standings after Sunday:

NHS grad drives for racing's aristocracy

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

When Novi's Ken Winters started racing cars and pumping some of his own money into the sport, even his own family thought he was throwing money away.

But now it's all starting to pay off in a big way and nobody is accusing Winters of anything except being a legitimate up-and-coming talent in American motor racing.

Unlike a year ago, the Northville High School graduate has moved up another notch in car classification and is excelling at a surprising rate. He's now piloting a Sports 2000 class car and is currently in fifth place out of 35 drivers in the Pro Series Standings after five events.

Winters was in second place until a bit of bad luck came his way during his fourth race in Watkins Glen New York, recently. He blew a fuel pump during the race lap and was unable to start the race. Winters said the lead driver in the series also did not race and so while he lost some ground, he believes he can make it up.

Six more races are to follow this summer and Winters is just 19 points out of first place. A win is worth 20 points. He still believes with some luck and hard work, he has a shot at winning the title.

Winters' car is a Lola with a two-liter Ford engine and is sponsored by Delwal Corporation in Novi. It has a top speed of 150 miles per hour and must weight at least 1,200 pounds with driver in tow. Last summer, Winters drove a Formula Vee car that had a top speed of 120 and less than half the horsepower of a Sports 2000.

"I first drove the new car in March and I won the first two races at Road Atlanta and Memphis," he said.

"Those races were part of the SCCA (Sports Car Club of America) National Championship Series."

Winters, 25, views this season like any other — as a stepping stone to bigger and faster things. If he can continue to do well in Sports 2000, he hopes to get a chance in the Formula Atlantic class next season. Formula Atlantic — like the Super Vee class — is a training ground and perhaps a stepping stone for future Indy car drivers, and that is Winters' ultimate goal.

"Next year I'm shooting for Formula Atlantic," he pointed out. "If I could do well and finish in the top three at that level, I could be looking at an Indy ride — that's the ultimate goal. Of course, everyone would also like to get a chance to race Formula One."

But Winters knows he must pay his dues now to ever get a chance like that.

"Right now, I'm looking to win the Pro Series," he said. "It's tough because the races are all across the country and I'm seeing a lot of the tracks for the first time. Out of the 10 races in the series, I'll see six new tracks."

"But I can't complain. I'm by far the best rookie so far in Sports 2000 and I'm hoping to get the 'Rookie of the Year' award — that would really help me get more publicity for the car and myself. Already I am beating some guys who have been around for a while and they all are serious about racing."

Winters has nothing but good things to say about his sponsors at Delwal. With every step up in competition, the costs increase and Delwal owner and president William (Spike) Walker has been very supportive. It costs roughly $75,000 a season to run a Sports 2000 car and Formula Atlantic would be twice that. Incredibly, to furnish and run an Indy car is somewhere between $1-2 million.

"Spike is happy with how I'm doing and my main concern is to make Delwal happy," Winters explained. "I feel I'm on the right course and it all hinges on sponsorship. I can honestly say I wouldn't be where I am now without Delwal."

During the season, Winters can only find time to work two or three days a week at Jubbu Design in Northville, his regular job outside of racing. Almost all of the money he is making now is going right back into racing, but Winters is hoping it will pay off in the long run.

"I hope it does," he said. "I spent $20,000 of my own money to get into Formula V but I think it was worth it because I got me started. Right now I'd say I'm ahead of schedule."

"The car and the crew is really good and you have to have the equipment and the backing if you want to excel in racing. I have that."

BASEBALL: Mets take two

H LEAGUE. The Twins erased a 2-0 deficit with a five-run rally in the second inning and went on to top the Expos 8-4 in action on June 18. Shane Bieber and Tim Burke each had solo home runs and Eric Swedick went 3-for-3 for the winners. Bill Spaniol started the game and was the winner for the Twins and also added two hits in two plate appearances. The Twins exploded offensively to down the Astros 18-7 on June 20. Five-run rallies in the first, third and fourth innings helped the Twins move out to a big lead. James Carroll pitched two innings, struck out six and was the winner. He also went 4-for-4 at the plate including a triple. Tim Burke (3-for-5) and Mike McNulty (2-for-2) also helped the cause.

The Indians broke open a close game with four runs in the fifth inning and it tilted the team to a 7-2 victory over the Twins on June 23. Eric Swedick (2-for-3) and Tim Burke (2-for-2) starred for the Twins in a losing effort. Kevin Watkins, Tim Andert and Brian Wagner were the standouts on defense. The Mets scored all their runs in the third, fourth and fifth innings and it was enough to beat the Giants 11-8 on June 27. Joe Hammond (3-for-4) and Tom Howie (3-for-3) paced the offensive output. Hammond fanned six in a little over three innings of pitching work and was the victor. Aaron Nelson, Jeff Slevin, Ben Szostek and Doug Holloway led the Giants. The Mets staged a stunning comeback to beat the Pirates 8-4 on June 29. Trailing 7-3 the Mets scored six runs in the last inning to pull out the victory. Chris Reavitt (3-for-4) and John Matheis (three RBIs) were the hitting stars for the winners. Mark Bender had three hits for the Pirates. The Reds shut out the Angels 5-0 on June 28. Pitchers Tom Willer and Jay Malick combined to shut down the Angels and Willer was also a force at the plate, going 2-for-3 with 3 RBIs. Eric Moore had two hits for the Angels. The Braves scored two early runs and held on to top the Reds 4-0 on June 23. Bill Ford's triple drove in a run and Jeff Koche added a run-scoring single for the Braves. Jake Wegand was the winning pitcher. Tom Willer went 2-for-2 for the Reds.

Struggling Mack team drops two

By ANN E. WILLIS

"We're struggling," were the simple words of Coach John Osborne regarding the Northville Connie Mack team's current 3-9-1 record.

The Northville team faced North Farmington / West Bloomfield in two games last week, and it wasn't until the second game that Osborne said he saw "the light at the end of the tunnel."

The July 9 game saw the team begin to pick up defensively, a move Osborne has been looking for. "Overall they started playing fundamentally better in the field," Osborne said, and noted that in spite of the lopsided, 16-5 losing score, the team has been producing offensively.

"We can get guys on base, we just have trouble coming up with the big hit," Osborne said. The coach noted that the team has been getting six runs per game, which, under better circumstances, would be plenty to keep them in the running. However, the coach is quick to point out that circumstances have not been particularly normal.

The Northville squad has been without a regular pitcher in recent games due to vacation, injury and one pitcher who left the team. Adam Behne was the starting pitcher in Saturday's game. Behne is a basic knuckleball pitcher, according to Osborne, and he started strong in the first inning by pitching his way out of a bases-loaded jam.

But the strong North Farmington team came back in the third inning for five runs. Northville managed to keep it close in the third following a two-out walk by Randy Jones, another walk by Jim Willer, a third walk by Mike Yard and then a three-run double by R.C. Heaton.

"We haven't had many like that," Osborne noted. "That hit got us right back in the game."

The hitting continued in the fourth inning when Northville added two runs on a single by Derek Osborne, a single by Steve Ventura and a third single by Adam Behne which knocked in the two runs. But that was the last scoring chance for Northville.

Tom Symnar came in to pitch for his first time for the Northville squad and "didn't do too bad a job," Osborne noted. But a combination of singles and some bad luck, like a sure-thing double play ball to end the inning that took a wicked hop over the shortstop's head, soon put the game out of reach and added another victory for the North Farmington / West Bloomfield team.

NORTH FARMINGTON 20, NORTHVILLE 4: "We just didn't have the pitching to hold them in check," Osborne said. The blowout began early when North Farmington got four in the first inning and two more in the second before Northville got on the board in the top of the third with two. But the stronger team, North Farmington, brought in seven runs in the bottom of the third and "that's all she wrote for us," Osborne said.

The two hits in the third inning for Northville came on a walk by Steve Ventura, a force out by Randy Jones which moved the runner up, a single by Brian Frelick and then a key double by Jim Willer which sent the runners in. The only other scoring came on a series of walks and ground balls in the fifth and a series of singles in the last of the seventh by Derek Osborne and Dave McKee which resulted in the last run on a sacrifice by Randy Jones.

Osborne noted that much of the scoring by North Farmington occurred in two-out situations and said that the Northville team must improve on "covering all outs."

"We need to cherish every one of them; we cannot continue to give extra outs," the coach said.

"We now have the two powerhouse teams out of the way (North Farmington and South Farmington / Novi) and we have an opportunity to move up," Osborne said in addition, Tod Ebersole, the Northville pitching ace, will be back in town this week and will help sort out the pitching problems for the team.

There are six more regular season games for the team and then Northville will host the regional Connie Mack tournament July 26.

Glinz keeps fit in variety of ways

By BOB NEEDHAM

When Art Glinz says "I just like to play sports," it may sound like an understatement.

That's because the number of sports he likes to play is a little awe-inspiring. A retiree for several years, Glinz now has more time than ever to enjoy his sports — and he's making the most of the chance.

Glinz pitches softball for the Novi Old-Timers in the Northwest Parks and Recreation Association Senior Citizen Softball Program, and was a founding member of the team. He also plays tennis between three and five times a week. When he's not doing one of those, he might spend time with horseshoes, ping-pong, or pool. He also likes bowling and basketball.

"I don't have time for golf any more," he added.

Glinz has been active in various sports throughout his life, sometimes in leagues or sometimes more informally. He's suffered a little — for example, breaking his nose in a basketball game — but that hasn't stopped his enjoyment of the game. Or games.

One of the main attraction of sports is companionship, Glinz said, and also keeping fit. But his wife suggested there's something else, too.

"He likes the competition. I'd say competition is number one with him," Lorna Glinz said.

Nowadays, Glinz said he probably plays more tennis than anything else. In the winter he'll play at the Redford YWCA, but in the summer he enjoys playing outside.

"Any park you want to mention, I'm there," he laughed.

He's very competitive at tennis, and has been for much of his life. In high school he was among the top ten players in the City of Detroit. And last year at the YWCA, he won the most games in the Monday night league.

For the past several years Glinz has competed in the Michigan Senior Olympics, bringing home several medals to add to an already-extensive trophy collection.

"You could only enter three (events) and one year I won all three," Glinz said. His sports in the Senior Olympics are tennis, horseshoes and ping-pong.

"No matter how old you are, there's people to play you," he said. Throughout his life, Glinz has been deeply involved in different sports at different times. "I like them all when I get going in them," he said.

At one time the main interest was bowling. "Four nights a week he was bowling. Good thing I like cards," his wife laughed.

Although Glinz plans to skip the Senior Olympics this year — a format change is making it harder to get to the different events — he shows no signs of letting up on his level of activity.

"They said yesterday on the tennis court, 'You were out all out,'" Glinz said. "I was the first one there and the last one there."

Fitness camps scheduled near Oxford

American Health and Fitness announces registration and sign up for the 1988 Summer Fitness Camps. Two sessions are available this year: Womens Camp, July 21-24, and a new, coed session, August 18-21.

This year's camps will be at the Echo Grove camp, north of Pontiac near Oxford, Michigan. Featured speakers this year will include Colleen Gensler, nutritionist and author of 'Emotional Weight', Colleen Dodi, Herbalist and radio personality, and Dr. Stephen Friedman D.O. from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, on body composition and cardiovascular fitness.

In addition, the mobile testing unit from the hospital's Community Health Center will be at the coed camp to provide body composition analysis and cholesterol screening for the camp participants. All exercise classes are taught by certified instructors, and there will also be some free time in the afternoons to partake of some of your favorite recreation or to get to know your fellow campers better. Meals are specially prepared for the campers, and are nutritionally sound and low in fat.

The price of the camp is $199.00 for the Womens Camp and $219.00 for the Coed Camp. If you would like further information or a brochure of the camp, call or write American Health and Fitness, P.O. Box 52489, Livonia, Mich. 48152, or (313) 537-7343. Each camp is limited to 55 participants, so call to make your reservations soon.

CHOLESTEROL SCREENINGS: The staff of the Henry Ford Medical Center in Plymouth is offering $5 cholesterol screenings from 3-7 p.m. the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Exposure to sun creates risk of carcinoma

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.

With the summer months upon us, it is likely we'll be spending increasing amounts of time in the sun. As a result of this, many of us will be increasing our risk for the most common cancer in Caucasians — carcinoma of the skin.

An estimated 500,000 Americans get skin cancer each year. This results in more than one in seven Americans developing some form of skin cancer in their lifetime. Although it is not responsible for all carcinomas of the skin, chronic exposure to ultraviolet rays of sunlight is the single most important cause. Hence, most of these cancers occur on the areas of skin that remain uncovered when an individual is fully clothed.

Although less common, overexposure to X-rays or certain chemical carcinogens, such as arsenic, can increase your risk of skin cancer. Fair-skinned individuals who burn easily have an increased risk, as well as those who work outdoors and are exposed to considerable sunlight. If you had a severe childhood or adolescent sunburn, your risk is higher. Individuals who have unusual moles or suffer from genetic diseases characterized by sunlight intolerance (albinism) are at higher risk for skin cancer. Finally, those individuals with immunologic deficiencies, such as those associated with lymphoma or immunosuppressive therapy, are more predisposed to malignant skin lesions.

The most common types of skin cancer are basal cell carcinoma and squamous cell carcinoma. Basal cell carcinoma accounts for more than 75 percent of all skin cancers. Although these tumors rarely spread to other parts of the body, they are locally invasive. If neglected, they may invade underlying structures and cause considerable damage and disfigurement.

Like most tumors, they are remarkably painless in their course. They usually appear as slow-growing, raised, translucent, pearly nodules that, if untreated, may crust, ulcerate and sometimes bleed. They occur most commonly on the head, face, neck, hands and trunk. If detected and treated early, there is a 95 percent cure rate.

Squamous cell carcinoma is the second-most common form of skin cancer. These tumors have a variable tendency to spread depending upon their size, extent of invasion, location and whether they arise from a premalignant lesion, a burn scar, chronic inflammatory condition or from apparently normal skin.

Squamous cell carcinomas usually are raised, red or pink, opaque nodules or wart-like groups that ulcerate in the center. Typically they develop on the rim of ears, the face, lips, mouth, hands and other sun-exposed areas of the body. The cure rate is high. Ninety-five percent of all squamous cell carcinomas can be cured if detected and treated early.

Primary malignant melanoma is the most serious form of skin cancer and the leading cause of death from all diseases arising on the skin. Its incidence has alarmingly doubled in the last 10 years, possibly due to increased "weekend" exposure to sunlight, especially among persons in professional and managerial positions. Persons in the South, where sunlight is more intense, are especially at risk. While malignant melanoma can strike anyone, Caucasians are at far greater risk than individuals with darker skin. Among Caucasians, certain individuals are at higher risks than others. These include:

1. Individuals with a previous melanoma; your risk is 900 times greater in the first three years after diagnosis.
2. Individuals with unusual moles have 22 to 30 times increased risk.
3. Fair-skinned individuals have seven to 10 times greater risk.
4. Excessive exposure to sunlight in the first 10 to 15 years of life increases your risk threefold.
5. Your risk increases eight to 10 times if your parent, sibling or child has had melanoma.

The key to a cure for melanoma is early recognition. If you have a lesion you are concerned about, you should consult a skin specialist. Melanomas typically have a mottled appearance with variegation of color. Because of this, the lesions include shades of red, white or blue and shades resulting from their mixture with brown or black. Lesions, however, may be uniformly colored, such as bluish black or bluish red.

The second distinguishing factor is its irregular border, which is often "notched." These lesions frequently appear on the upper back, torso, lower legs, head and neck. If detected early, surgical removal of melanomas can cure the disease in most cases.

As is the case with many of the problems related to sun exposure, exercising good sense goes a long way toward preventing skin cancer. Minimize sun exposure especially between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Always apply a sunscreen when outdoors, even on cloudy days. A Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15 should be used by those with fair skin for protection against skin cancer.

Since sun exposure damage accumulates during a lifetime, be sure to apply sunscreen to infants, children and teenagers. Finally, examine your skin and your children's skin regularly for any changes in moles, freckles or skin discolorations, and consult a skin specialist if you become concerned.

Michigan '50s Festival filled with fun events

Welcome back to the '50s — those glorious days of rock 'n' roll, Elvis Presley, Pat Boone, frats and greasers, drive-in restaurants and all the other wonderful things which make people recall the greatest decade in American history with love and longing.

"Everything's in place," reported Connie Mallett, president of the Michigan '50s Festival Committee. "It looks like everything has come together."

The highlight of the '50s Festival will occur Saturday, July 16, when Sha Na Na performs two concerts at the Novi High School football stadium. One of the concerts will be at 3 p.m. and the second will take place at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets for the Sha Na Na concerts are available at all TicketMaster outlets as well as the Novi Chamber of Commerce and the Novi Parks and Recreation Department. Tickets are priced at $15 for reserved seating, $10 for bleachers and $5 for lawn seating.

And even though the Sha Na Na concerts will be the festival's top attraction, they are not the only attractions that will be featured during the five-day festival which runs from Wednesday, July 13, through Sunday, July 17.

The second major event in the '50s Festival will be the "Sock Hop Express" which is scheduled for Friday, July 15, from 8:30 p.m. to the following day at 1 a.m.

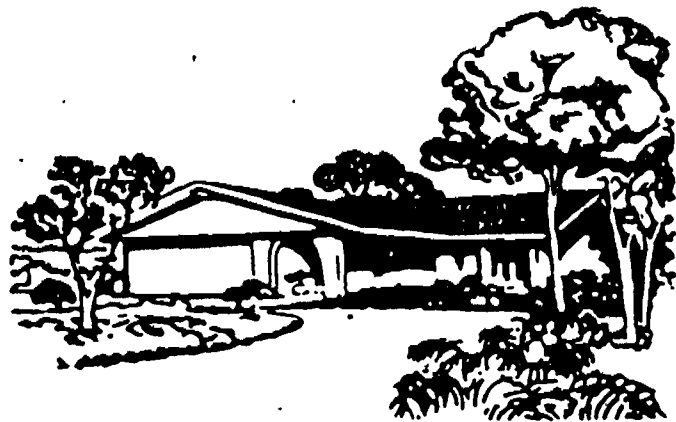

Two buses from the Oakland County Parks and Recreation Department have been lined up to take participants back and forth to four different parties taking place at four hotels. Performing at the Sheraton Oaks will be KISS-FM deejay Jim McKenzie and the "Black Tie" band. Steve King and the Tittlies" will perform at the Wyndham Hotel, Moose and Da Sharks will provide the entertainment at the Farmington Hills Holiday Inn and Danny Van's "Tribute to Elvis" show will be held at the Novi Hilton.

Mallett said each of the four parties will be completely different with each hotel planning its own evening of dancing, singing, contests and prizes.

Sha Na Na performs the best of '50s music

Sha Na Na, the group which has become synonymous with music from the '50s, will perform two concerts at the Novi High School football field on Saturday, July 16, in conjunction with the Michigan '50s Festival.

Concerts are scheduled at 3 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $15 for reserved seating, $10 for bleachers and $5 for lawn seating. Tickets may be purchased in advance at all TicketMaster outlets as well as the Novi Chamber of Commerce and the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

The "Larados," a group billed as the "Deacons of Doo-Wop," will be the opening act in front of Sha Na Na for both concerts.

Sha Na Na was "born" in 1969 when a small group of undergraduates at Columbia University in New York City decided they were having more fun singing "acapella" versions of classic '50s rock 'n' roll songs than the music they were singing with the university glee club.

Encouraged by the demonstrated enthusiasm of their fans at the clubs they sang at, they began touring other campuses, creating the same enthusiasm every place they sang. Their seventh appearance was at the now-famous "Woodstock Festival" in upstate New York.

In over 17 years of dedicating itself to the classics of rock 'n' roll and Sha Na Na will perform at the Novi High School football field on Saturday at 3 and 8:30 p.m.

celebrating the memory of that music by performing with their original instrumental and vocal sounds, Sha Na Na has made its name a permanent part of rock 'n' roll Americana.

"The Michigan '50s Festival is proud to have a group with the credentials of Sha Na Na and its obvious ties to the music of the '50s," said

Connie Mallett, president of the Michigan '50s Festival Committee. "Sha Na Na goes beyond the '50s nostalgia for which it is best known and become an American institution," she said.

"The concert promises to be a super opportunity to sing your favorite oldies and we have an added bonus to our already great show with the Larados," she added.

Mallett also said the Festival Committee was pleased to have the Larados open the show. "They're the No. 1 '50s group in Detroit, and we are extremely happy to have an area group of their stature as part of the '50s Festival," she said.

'50s Fest loaded with five days of fun

Tickets for the "Sock Hop Express" are priced at $12 per person and include transportation aboard the buses as well as admission to the various hotels.

In addition to the two featured events, the '50s Festival will include a wide variety of activities throughout the five days it is in action.

Official grand opening ceremonies were held at Festival headquarters in the Novi Town Center on Wednesday, July 13, at 5:30 p.m.

Another major attraction promises to be the carnival sponsored by the Novi Jaycees outside the Novi Civic Center throughout the festival. The carnival has been scheduled to coincide with the festival and replaces the former "Gala Days" celebration sponsored by the Jaycees.

Throughout the five-day festival there will be a variety of sidewalk sales and crafts shows in both West Oaks and the Novi Town Center.

Scheduled for Sunday, July 17, from 7-9 p.m. is an event called "Cruise Grand River." Classic automobiles from the 1950s will be on display in the West Oaks shopping center and the Town Center on Sunday afternoon, and Grand River will be closed from 7-9 p.m. for a "cruise" of '50s cars. The event is sponsored by the Red Timbers, Victor's Novi Inn, Appe'teaser Country Epicure and Kosch's Deli-Pub in the Town Center.

The Red Timbers will be renamed

"Arnold's Drive-In" for the event and will feature waitresses on roller skates, grilled hamburgers and hot-dogs, beer and entertainment consisting of a Neil Diamond impersonator at 4 p.m. and an Elvis Presley impersonator at 6 p.m.

Victor's will be renamed "Remember When" from 3-9 p.m. when activities will include a dunk tank with city officials, a senior citizens egg toss, revolving board games and entertainment provided by Ronnie Howard and the Night Shift

Band from 5-9 p.m.

"Twist Away" will be the name of Appe'teaser's Country Epicure during "Cruise Grand River." Kevin Wetzel will provide '50s'style entertainment and there will be a variety of contests including twist contests for adults and children, a dirty dancing contest and a hula-hoop contest.

~~Kesich's Dell Pub will become "Car Hop Service" for the "Cruise."~~

Throughout the five-day festival there will be a variety of sidewalk sales and crafts shows in both West Oaks and the Novi Town Center. And the first-ever '50s festival will be culminated with a giant fireworks display at the Lakepointe Office Center in the Town Center on Sunday at 10 p.m.

"Everything ought to come off well," reported Mallett.

Danny Vann brings his "Elvis" show to the Novi Hilton during the Sock Hop Express

Four hotels featured on Sock Hop Express

The Michigan 50's Festival "Sock Hop Express" is ready to roll through Novi with an evening of scheduled events designed to keep the city hopping all night.

Scheduled for Friday, July 15, the Express will make its way to four of the city's participating hotels offering the best in solid gold memories and dancing to the best live music available.

The concurrent parties are scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. and run through 1 p.m.

"We have two Oakland Parks and Recreation buses to take our rock 'n' rollers to each stop on the tour," said Connie Mallett, president of the Michigan '50s Festival.

Participating hotels are the Novi Hilton, the Sheraton Oaks, the Farmington Hills Holiday Inn and the new Wyndham Novi Hotel.

Tickets are priced at $12 per person and include free transportation aboard the Sock Hop buses and free admission to each of the four parties throughout the evening.

The Sheraton Oaks Party will feature. The Sheraton will feature KISS-FM radio deejay Jim McKenzie and the "Black Tie" Band.

The Wyndham Novi will have "Steve King & the Dittlies."

The Farmington Hills Holiday Inn will host "Moose & Da Sharks."

And the Novi Hilton will feature Danny Vann's "Tribute to Elvis Show." The grand ballroom at the Hilton will be transformed into a high school gymnasium with '50s memorabilia and a snack bar for the event.

The Sock Hop Express will take off from the Novi Hilton at 8:30 p.m. and make stops at each hotel, delivering and picking people up and carrying them to the next stop on the tour.

"It's hard to say what's going to happen because each hotel is planning its own evening," reported Mallett. "But, rest assured it will be fun and more fun. Dancing, singing, contests, prizes and I guess you can still 'come as you were!' It promises to be a re-creation of a stroll down memory lane, a solid gold blast from the past, today, and it's yet another super Michigan 50's Festival event.

Tickets for the Sock Hop Express are available at each of the four participating hotels as well as the Novi Civic Center and the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

'57 Chevy available in raffle

Remember the "good old days" of the '50 when you were the coolest guy around as you cruised the drive-ins in your '57 Chevy?

Well, now's your chance to relive those glorious days of wolf whistles and bubble skirts by purchasing a ticket for the stylish 1957 Chevrolet Bel-Air being raffled off by the Novi Rotary Club in conjunction with the Michigan '50s Festival.

Tickets cost $1 and can be purchased from any Rotarian or at Festival Headquarters in the Novi Town Center.

The drawing will be held July 21 at the Novi Civic Center.

The Rotary Club has invested better than $30,000 in purchasing and restoring the vintage '57 Chevy, doing everything possible to make it as authentic as possible.

So, live it up. Take a chance.

Somebody's going to win it, and the lucky winner no doubt will be the envy of every car hop from Maine to California.

Novi Rotary is offering this spiffy '57 Chevy Bel-Air in conjunction with the '50s Festival

MTV's 'Museum' featured at Twelve Oaks

Sure, MTV is a johnny-come-lately (relatively speaking) to the rock 'n' roll bandwagon. But nobody can deny that it hasn't been an important element in preserving the music of the '50s.

And MTV will be an important part of the Michigan '50s Festival in Novi this week.

MTV's huge traveling exhibit of fashion, futurama and rock 'n' roll makes its next stop in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall July 14-17. The exhibition, called MTV's "Museum of UnNatural History," is a four-part 3-dimensional showcase of MTV's look at the worlds of fashion, new music, technology and rock 'n' roll history. Each wing of the museum features MTV vid-head tour guides, surprises and corporate-sponsored displays.

"We took a lot of time and care to build a program that really embodies the spirit and cutting edge attitude of MTV," says Bob Friedman, Senior Vice President, Marketing & Promotion, MTV Networks.

"The museum represents the first chance our audience has ever had to touch and feel MTV.

"Along the museum's path, rock 'n' roll artists, celebrities, local market radio deejays and MTV vee-jays will make appearances. The museum sponsors are helping to turn out the stars and their other contributions enable the show to provide the intricate and original displays free-of-charge to Museum goers," says Friedman, who describes the museum as part amusement park and part circus on a traveling basis. MTV

10/July 94/1995/50s Festival

PRODUCTS FOR BETTER LIVING:

The Museum, covering over 3,000 square feet, incorporates sophisticated technological displays like "Robo Doc's Body Shop" in its Products for Better Living hall. The Body Shop is an outrageous look at the evolution of the gas station/fender bender garage into a complex robotic auto parts clinic — complete with a greasy-fingered robot mechanic.

Corporate sponsors are also built-in to Products for Better Living. Swatch Watch created a peek at time — past and present, and Hershey's developed a viewmaster display of Twizzlers in animated motion.

In a futuristic setting featuring Macintosh and Apple Computers, Apple Computer, Inc. will show how life at home can be enhanced with the help of a personal computer.

ADDICTED TO STYLE: MTV's fashion setting flair risks its reputation with a campy 3-D "Gone Fishing" display featuring such moving scenes as a day at the beach and summer camping. Addicted to Style also includes a huge 16-monitor video wall echo-cube sporting Pontiac's special museum message, and Clairol's interactive Rock'n Styling Club for on-the-spot hair makeovers. Dutch Boy's color paint center and Maybelline's unnaturally oversized vanity and makeover area round out the ADDICTED TO STYLE gallery.

NEW MUSIC: The world's most provocative rock 'n' roll artists and video directors invade the New Music Hall through a specially engineered, "breathing," video wall. Lucky consumers will also be able to star in their own music video using the New Music stage and props. Orion Pictures is also featured in New Music with a life-like movie theater showing sneak peaks of upcoming movies complete with the movies' major stars at select locations. Polaroid will loan cameras and "photo sets" to museum-goers and Yamaha will feature concerts from its technologically correct sound stage. A new game, Yoshi's Puzzle, will make appearances on the "breathing" video wall.

LONG LIVE ROCK: MTV's collection of UnNatural History is completed with a sampling of rock music's most treasured archives. The memorabilia, courtesy of The Hard Rock Cafe, includes items like the brown leather vest (complete with fringe) Jimi Hendrix wore on an album cover, outtakes from the Beatles' Abbey Road album cover photo shoot and a TCB (Takin' Care of Business) original necklace — complete with lightning bolt — that Elvis Presley gave to his close friends (officially licensed Elvis Wine is also on hand).

"It's not an emergency, but I think I should see a doctor today."

Many health problems can wait a day for treatment. But there are times when you won't want to. Urgent Care is designed for asthma attacks, for croup and cuts, breaks and bruises, sprains and infection. Physicians help with urgencies that shouldn't wait until tomorrow. A trip to Urgent Care assures you time-saving, affordable, personal care. In plenty of time.

In Record Time...

An Urgent Care Center should provide immediate communication with your personal physician for follow-up care. There should be no need to chase notes, find lab or X-ray results, translate or transfer treatment.

Timely Diagnosis...

The best Urgent Care Center houses complete diagnostic services, including a large laboratory and complete X-ray department for accurate, timely test results.

Time-Saving Specialists...

An Urgent Care Center should have available specialists in every necessary area for in-depth, master care, from head to toe.

Save Time, Save Cost...

The last thing you need to worry about during an urgent medical problem is money. Most Urgent Care visits should be comparable in cost to an office call. And, the center should handle most major insurances, including Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Medicare, Aetna, Teamsters, and more.

Designed for Life-Threatening Conditions Including Serious Accident Trauma.

Strokes. Heart attacks. Concussions. Burns. Poisonings. Convulsions. Hospital Emergency Care is designed for these and other serious problems. If life is threatened, it's an emergency. If in doubt, consider it an emergency. Go to a hospital emergency room immediately.

Emergency Rooms Are Equipped to Save Lives...

Hospital Emergency Rooms are staffed by a complete medical team trained to respond to life-threatening situations. They have immediate access to radiotelemetry communications, complete medical imaging and X-ray equipment, cardiac life support systems, computerized laboratory facilities; everything necessary to save lives day and night.

In addition, a hospital Emergency Room has the resources of the entire hospital behind it. Diagnostic equipment. Surgical suites. Critical and intensive care. Pediatrics. Rehabilitation facilities. In-house physicians, registered nurses. Specialists. All available 24 hours a day.

From Emergency Room to Hospital Without Delay.

Emergency Room patients who require additional care can be immediately admitted directly into the hospital. Records do not have to be transferred. Family members can stay near their loved ones. And since the Emergency Room team is already an integral part of the hospital staff, they continue to provide vital support to the medical team which follows the patient's treatment through to recovery.

Knowing the difference between an urgency and an emergency can make a difference in the choice of facility best prepared to respond to a patient's needs.

Woodland Urgent Care: Master Care for Medical Problems.

When you walk through the door to a Woodland Health Care Center for treatment of an Urgent Care problem, you have immediate access to high quality, master care from over 70 physicians, from laboratory and radiology departments, from optical and nuclear medicine, and from cardiology and pharmacy.

Woodland Specialists: Medical Mastery.

Medical mastery, from specialists in over 35 areas, gives you in-depth, intensive care right here, at Woodland. We've got you covered from head to toe, with dermatologists, orthopedists, ophthalmologists, neurologists, doctors who specialize in diabetes and hearts, arthritis and cosmetic surgery. What's more, these specialists practice out of the finest hospitals in Michigan—an additional benefit to you, if you should need it.

Urgent Care staff provides immediate evaluation from X-ray and lab results. Master Care: Woodland.

Woodland's Master Plan: Personal Care and Personal Records.

As a regular patient of Woodland Health Care Center, your records are here, and available to the Urgent Care physician. Knowing your past medical history, and all about you, is a part of the best kind of treatment we can give you.

Many of our Urgent Care physicians have their own fine, private practices. As a new patient to Woodland, you may choose to have that physician provide you with follow-up care. Or, through our patient advisor or our Physician Referral Service, you can find the personal physician who is just right for you.

By the way, our Physician Referral Service is an excellent source of information on specialists, and community services, should you ever need it.

Woodland Master Stroke: Accurate Diagnosis.

Quick, accurate diagnosis of a medical problem is the first step in its cure. Because we have a fully staffed laboratory, a fully equipped X-ray department, special nuclear medical techniques and ultrasound equipment, we have state-of-the-art capability to diagnose the most intricate or elusive problem. The first step becomes a running start to getting well.

Woodland Master Key: Communication and Commitment.

Your Urgent Care physician, your personal physician, your specialist, technician, nurse, receptionist, and clerk work hand in hand to communicate for you, and act as your advocate, no matter what the problem, from bruises to billing, infection to insurance. And, when it comes to insurance and billing, Woodland is rated by its patients as exceptional for our helpful, considerate personnel, who ease your way through the medical cost maze. Especially important is that we work with most major insurances.

Woodland Urgent Care: A Master Piece of Your Medical Care Picture.

One of the best things about Woodland is that we are not out of touch and out of reach. We are connected, and we are community. We link with one of the premier health care providers in the United States—The Detroit Medical Center. Through them, our family extends into your community to touch one of the newest, world-class hospitals—Huron Valley Hospital. Whatever your needs, you're not far from home.

When You Don't Have a Doctor Is Probably the Time You'll Need One.

The Woodland Health Care Center Physician Referral Service is a toll-free link to over 70 physicians. Concerned representatives will help you choose a doctor from over 35 specialty areas, and make an appointment for you in any of our Woodland locations. If you have a question about a medical problem, a need for a community service, or if you want the right physician for you, Woodland's Physician Referral Service will help.

For Assistance in Choosing a Physician, Call Woodland's Physician Referral Service.

Woodland Health Care Centers offer ongoing Wellness Programs to the community throughout the year. Pre-registration is required. For information about dates and times, call 1-800-323-0425.

"Health Talks"

Woodland helps you learn about various health problems with our community "Health Talks." With each of these popular programs, our highly qualified Woodland physicians discuss a particular health area and then suggest preventive measures or possible solutions. These programs are free to the public. For further information, or to be placed on our mailing list, call toll free 1-800-323-0425.

Lamaze Childbirth Preparation

Participate in the birth process with the Lamaze technique. Learn relaxation and breathing skills and the mechanics of labor and delivery. For parents who have taken Lamaze within the last 2½ years, a one-night Lamaze Refresher is also offered.

Hatha Yoga

Yoga is an ancient system of exercise using postures, called asanas, to develop flexibility and strength. This tends to calm both the central nervous system and the mind. Woodland is presenting a series of courses on this successful stress reduction method.

CPR

Specially trained nurses will present cardiopulmonary resuscitation for certification, including one-person rescue, and the signs, signals and prevention of heart attacks. Included will be information on adolescent and infant CPR, dealing with problems most common in children.

Huron Valley Hospital Brings Complete World-Class Care to Western Oakland County.

"In an emergency, there is just no substitute for a full-service hospital," says Dr. Ralph Kontry, Medical Director of Emergency Room Services at Huron Valley Hospital. "Huron Valley Hospital provides the only hospital-based emergency department and adjoining inpatient beds in western Oakland County. We are staffed with physicians who are experienced and trained in emergency medicine, and we have the most advanced medical equipment ready day and night."

The Emergency Room Department at Huron Valley Hospital is part of the county-wide EMS (Emergency Medical Service) program. Our advanced emergency radiotelemetry equipment enables the emergency room physician to communicate with the field personnel who are equipped to administer treatment. Huron Valley Hospital also has its own helicopter pad serviced by all regional medical air transport services.

Hospitalized patients stay close to home. Huron Valley Hospital provides the only private and semi-private rooms and primary nursing care for adults and children in western Oakland County.

Emergency patients brought by ambulance with heart attacks, poisonings, head injuries and other traumas are treated in fully equipped specialty rooms—each designed, staffed and equipped for specific emergencies.

Huron Valley Hospital emergency physicians and registered nurses are trained in all areas of emergency care. A team of emergency specialists including obstetricians, pediatricians, surgeons and internists, is always available. We have physicians in-house 24 hours a day. Our all-RN nursing staff works closely with physicians—as a team—to provide quality emergency care with a special sensitivity to the patient and family. Additional medical staff specialists are available for emergencies in orthopedics, radiology, cardiology, plastic surgery and neurosurgery.

When an emergency requires surgery...the Huron Valley Hospital surgical team responds day or night.

New Preregistration Program Streamlines Emergency Room Registration.

Time is of the essence in an emergency. So Huron Valley Hospital has instituted a FREE Emergency Room Preregistration Program that simplifies the registration process.

In this program, area residents fill out an application form which requires most of the information needed for emergency admittance. When filled out and returned to Huron Valley Hospital, this information will help a patient register more quickly in an emergency situation.

Preregistered family members receive their own embossed Emergency Room Identification Card to carry. The card also provides space for Medical Alert Information for individuals who would like to call attention to specific medical conditions. (NOTE: It is NOT necessary to be registered in this program to receive treatment at Huron Valley Hospital.)

For more information, call Huron Valley Hospital at 360-3300, extension 3450.

Carry this one close to your heart—the Huron Valley Hospital Emergency Room Preregistration Card.
