Patient inquiry finished

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The Michigan State Police announced Tuesday, Aug. 16, that they concluded their investigation into the escape and eventual death of a Northville Regional Psychiatric patient finding no evidence of homicide or foul play.

Police officials said the death of John Zelepis, 56, of Westland is still being classified as accidental, caused by hypothermia.

"After reinterviewing the hospital staff and security who were working the night of his disappearance, we found nothing to indicate any evidence of foul play," said Lieutenant Jack Moulik of the Michigan State Police.

On February 13, Zelepis fled from his ward at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital (NRPH), only to be found three days later in a field about a quarter mile away from the hospital. NRPH is located on Seven Mile Road just west of Haggerty.

Storms hit hard

By PHIL GINOTTI and BOB NEEDHAM

Northville barely escaped the worst of the damage caused by storms early this week, while Novi suffered much of the weather's worst.

"We had about 230 (homes without power) scattered around Northville," said Marty Bufalini, supervisor of media relations for Detroit Edison. Those were all due to storm damage, possibly including trees and wires down, he said.

Northville's damage came from the storm which swept through the area Sunday night, and crews had most power restored by Tuesday afternoon.

But although Northville escaped the worst of the storm, just to the north thousands of homes lost power Sunday and others did Tuesday when another wave of severe weather hit the area. A report of a funnel cloud sighting near Eight Mile and Taft Road Tuesday went unconfirmed.

About 6,000 homes in the Novi area lost electricity Sunday night when the storm knocked out transformers.

Swim club makes a splash

By LISA VAN CAMP

Twenty-five years ago somebody had an idea they thought might hold water — the Northville Swim Club. The club, located at the base of the water tower, near Eight Mile and Center streets, has been a splashing success ever since.

One of the most popular organizations in Northville, as evidenced by a full membership and long waiting list, the swim club is a center of activity. The voices of children yelling and laughing and the sound of splashing water can be heard from the parking lot. Women sunbathe on a grassy area by the pool, and the smell of chlorine is everywhere. It is definitely a family atmosphere.

"It's a fun club," Cheryl Gazlay, chairman of the club's board of directors, said.

The club was not always so popular, according to Dan Boland one of the club's original members and president of the club for five years. The original club included only 40 or 50 people and was physically much smaller.

Park millage on fall ballot

By BOB NEEDHAM and BRUCE WEINTRAUB

A proposal for a two-year, 9-mill tax to develop the Northville Community Park will be on the city and township ballots for the Nov. 8 election.

The Northville Township Board voted unanimously Thursday, Aug. 11 to put the question to the voters. The City Council approved the question Monday, although one council member objected to parts of the proposal.

If voters in both the city and township approve the proposal, the tax would bring in an estimated $732,600 to develop the 38-acre Northville Community Park site on Beck Road north of Five Mile, just above the Scott and Phoenix state prisons. Details of the development are not yet set, but preliminary plans include lighted ball diamonds, soccer fields, restrooms and a concession stand.

For a house assessed at $50,000, the millage would mean an additional tax of $45 in the 1989 and 1990 tax collections. However, City Manager Steve Walters noted the city and township would not have to levy the full amount the second year if it was not needed to finish the work.

Members of the City Council and Township Board expressed support for the question, although Council Member Jerry Mittman voted against it because of a lack of detailed plans and the size of the millage.

Committee picks six library sites

By BOB NEEDHAM

The committee appointed to consider sites for a possible expanded Northville Public Library last week settled on a list of six sites to present to township and city officials.

The site committee developed a list of three sites which could be immediately available and another three which might be difficult to acquire. Library Director Pat Orr said Monday. The City Council and Township Board are expected to further evaluate the sites in conjunction with the appointed committee.

"Building a library is such an expensive process we're trying to find land that's available at little or no cost to save that much of the total dollars involved in building a library," Orr said.

The three readily available sites are: directly behind the Northville Community Center on West Main, with the land owned by the city and the Northville School District, behind the Scout Building on Cady west of Wing, owned by the city; and on the south side of Cady at Griswold, owned by the city, Northville Downs and the private Driving Club.

The three ideal sites are the Northville Ford Plant, either the existing building or the Ford-owned lot across Griswold; the north edge of the Cass Benton Parkway on Hines Drive, behind McDonald Ford, owned by Wayne County; and the edge of Fish Hatchery Park on Fairbrook, owned by the city, the township and the state Department of Natural Resources.

"We started out with 12 sites, some

Film sparks debate

By BRENDA BONZHEIM

Ask them about the highly-controversial, hotly-protested movie "The Last Temptation of Christ," and several local clergymen will express varied reactions.

But most of them agree that protests and widespread media attention is fueling public interest in a film that might not otherwise have fared so well at the box-office.

It's uncertain if the film — directed by Martin Scorsese — will be shown at local movie theaters and at least one Northville church is aiming to keep it that way.

Pastor Stephen Sparks of the First Baptist Church in Northville said most of the 250-300 members in his congregation have signed petitions and are planning to send them to theaters in Novi, Farmington, Canton and Plymouth, telling theater owners that they won't attend their businesses if the movie is shown there.

Sparks said he hasn't seen the film and has no intention of doing so. However, he and some members of the congregation have read and reviewed the movie script detailing Jesus' struggle between spirit and flesh.

"It's an untrue depiction of Christ and it hits right at the heart of our faith," Sparks stated in an interview Tuesday afternoon.

"The Christian community has sat back too long... we've let too much go by. We're not going to go out there and picket, but to ignore the film would cause just as much of a problem," he added.

Pastor Richard Henderson of the Faith Community United

Drunk drivers spotted

By BOB NEEDHAM and BRUCE WEINTRAUB

This is the first of two articles on drunk driving in the Northville area.

Although area enforcement of drunk driving has fallen from a few years ago — due to the end of special grant money — local police departments are keeping it a priority, officials said.

Arrests and convictions for drunk driving "are going down dramatically. There's been an interesting phenomenon occurring," 35th District Court Judge James Garber said last week.

Immediately after a revised state law on driving under the influence of alcohol in 1983, this area and the entire state experienced an immediate increase in cases, Garber said. Someone driving after drinking may be convicted of operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL), the more serious charge, or of driving while impaired (DWI).

"We used to average 650 cases a year. In 1984 and '85 we jumped up to 2,500 per year," Garber recalled. But last year the district's total was back around 600 or 700.

Statewide figures have shown "essentially the same thing," Garber said. Michigan annual figures show very similar percent drops to the local figures.

"They match up almost identically. They mirror each other in terms of percentages," Garber said.

Why the drop? "The difference, I think, clearly is in the enforcement," Garber said.

Special grants funded more enforcement of drunk driving for a three-year period, officials said, but the grant money eventually ran out and was not renewed.

"As that extra money for the enforcement fell off, so did (the arrests)," Garber said. "It's really tied almost to the day... If you trace it along on a graph, there's this three-year blip that looks like a mountain."

Western Wayne County communities formed a special alcohol enforcement task force for the area. The City of Northville — which lies across the county line — participated in

Police find no criminal wrongdoing; investigation concludes

Road in Northville Township.
 NRPH Director Walter Brown said the findings of the state police investigation are consistent with the investigation conducted by the hospital.

"With the police doing their investigation, I think if our investigation had any gaps they would have pointed them out to us," he said, adding the police have not told the hospital of any problems with their investigation.

Mouluk said the final police report, which was 50 pages long, has been reviewed by the Wayne County Prosecutor's Office, who have also found that no criminal actions occurred.

The state police were called in to investigate the case on the direction of the Department of Mental Health.

Mouluk said the police started the investigation from "square one" and found there was no evidence to suggest either that a homicide had taken place or the body was moved to the location where it was found.

He added the police did address

"After reinterviewing the hospital staff and security who were working the night of his disappearance, we found nothing to indicate any evidence of foul play."

— Lieutenant Jack Mouluk
 Michigan State Police

questions brought up early in their investigation. Those questions include:

- A three-day period between the time Zelepis escaped and the time it was reported by hospital security.
- A conflict within the hospital as to whether Zelepis received medication during his ten day stay in the hospital.
- A personal hospital account which showed Zelepis to have more than $500.
- A mystery as to how Zelepis was able to escape from the hospital since he did not possess a ground pass.

Brown said the issue of the three-day delay in reporting the incident occurred through problems within the internal mechanism of the hospital and steps have been taken to tighten the procedures so the problem does not happen again in the future.

Both Brown and Mouluk said Zelepis did receive medication during his hospital stay to control his behavior, but did not receive any medication which would have incapacitated him.

As for the money, Mouluk said Zelepis had a few dollars when he came into the hospital and had two payroll checks deposited for him into the hospital account during his stay.

Brown said Zelepis did not have a grounds pass the night of his escape. He added the patient exited through one door which was open and through another door which was momentarily unattended and opened by hospital staff.

Detective Sgt. Dean Sanderson of the Michigan State Police said earlier the investigation has shown that Zelepis suffered from emphysema and many other medical maladies other than his mental incapacity which could have caused problems for him.

Detective Sgt. Robert Silva, also of the State Police, said since it was a cool day, records show it was five degrees below zero the day Zelepis escaped, and Zelepis suffered from emphysema, he might have become confused and collapsed in the field.

Family members, who have throughout the investigation questioned the characterization of Zelepis' physical health by the hospital and state police, said they are unsatisfied with the State Police findings.

"They (the state police) are insulting us by telling us that nothing wrongful occurred in John's death," said Tom Paros, Zelepis' brother-in-law.

Paros said the case should be kept open because he believes somebody committed a wrongdoing, be it willful or unwillful.

He said his attorneys are currently looking into the case and will be soon make a determination whether to take the matter to court.

"Our motivation for taking the case to court would not be for money, but someone should pay for not only John's death, but for other escapes like this," Paros said.

"That man (Zelepis) was kept in the hospital and they were responsible for his care and well-being," he added. "John died well before his time. I think his death was uncalled for and I think something negative was involved."

Paros said his brother-in-law had a history of schizophrenia for the past 18 years, and frequently escaped from psychiatric hospitals during his visits. He added Zelepis held a job as district manager for the Detroit News in the downriver area, but was placed in NRPH on February 3, after being found wandering in Grosse Ile.

Local authorities, who are also investigating the case, have said the death was caused by hypothermia and currently believe it to be accidental.

Capt. Phil Presnell, of Northville Township Police, said the investigation is not yet complete. He said its completion has been delayed due to a manpower shortage at the police department, a lack of police overtime, and a multitude of tasks which need to be performed.

NEWS BRIEFS

OPEN HOUSE — The public is invited to attend an open house to celebrate the completion of phase one of Northville's first bed and breakfast inn, The Aichison House. Sunday, Aug. 21 from noon to 6 p.m. Don Mroz, Susan Sommer and Shane Mroz will be providing interested community members with a close up look at the renovation of a Northville landmark.

NORTHVILLE'S YUGO — A recent Cable News Network (CNN) feature was taped in downtown Northville. Northville residents were asked to rate a supposedly newfangled Yugo automobile, which has been improved to bolster a supposedly shoddy image problem. Several Northville browsers made favorable comments about the car, which has been radically redesigned for the next model year.

THE GIFT OF LIFE — The Red Cross will be taking blood donations at a community blood drive sponsored by the Orchard Hills Baptist Church and Boy Scout Troop 407 on Saturday, Aug. 20 from 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Red Cross officials have noted a serious need for blood supplies. The drive will take place at the church, located at 23455 Novi Road between Nine and Ten Mile roads.

WATER MAIN DISTRICT — The Northville City Council Monday delayed action on forming a special assessment district to install a new, larger water main down South Center Street.

The replacement main is estimated to cost around $22,500. City officials have determined it is necessary to serve the planned St. Lawrence Estates condominiums, the proposed Main Center development, Northville Downs, and a few other properties along the road.

Many lots along the stretch will not be included in the assessment, though, since they will not directly benefit from the work, City Manager Steve Walters said.

How the Downs fits in to the whole project is the only real question, Walters said. The issue is scheduled to return to the council next month for the calling of a formal public hearing on forming a district.

DELEGATES CHOSEN — The City Council elected its delegates to two upcoming meetings Monday night.

Council Member Paul Folino will serve as the council delegate to the annual meeting of the Municipal Employees' Retirement System Sept. 22 at the Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain resort in Bellaire. Mayor Chris Johnson is the alternate.

Johnson will serve as the city's representative at the annual meeting of the Michigan Municipal League, Sept. 28-30 in Saginaw. City Manager Steve Walters is the alternate.

STAIR IMPROVEMENTS — The stairs at the Cady Street parking deck will soon be improved.

The City Council Monday approved a $1,660 expenditure to do some welding work and add wood steps on top of the present metal ones. The wood steps will be about three inches wider than the metal.

City learns traffic improvement costs

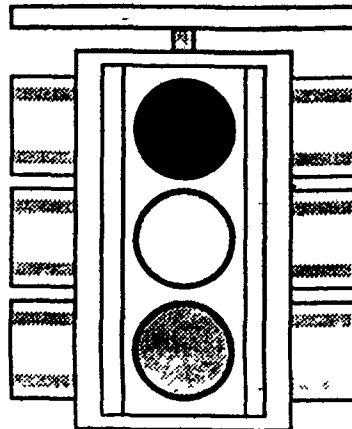

With estimated prices in hand, city officials are preparing to start deciding which recommended traffic projects the city will pursue.

The projects were recommended by traffic consultants Reid, Cool and Michalski in a report released in February and discussed among city officials at a meeting in May.

McNeely & Lincoln Associates, the city engineers, have developed cost estimates for the recommendations in the study. Suggested projects include widening Center Street to a uniform three lanes from Eight Mile to Dunlap, closing Randolph at Center, and many other changes to individual intersections and other trouble spots.

The City Council has only pursued one of recommendations so far, a reconfiguration of the Novi Road / Eight Mile intersection. No decision on adopting any of the other recommendations, or on how to pay for them, has yet been made.

At the council meeting Monday, council members agreed with a suggestion by City Manager Steve Walters for him to lay out a comprehensive recommendation to address traffic problems in the city. The plan will include alternatives.

NORTHVILLE TRAFFIC

Walters' recommendation is scheduled to come before the council at its next meeting, set for 8 p.m. Monday, Sept. 5.

In the recommended order of construction, the cost estimates for the improvements are:

- Widen Center to 33 feet for three lanes, including replacement asphalt, retaining walls, curb and driveway work, and earth work. $473,740.
- Improve Center and Dunlap intersection to include a left-turn lane and add pedestrian signals. $30,100.
- Reconfigure the Taft / Eight Mile / Randolph intersection to eliminate the separate lane for Randolph, and add a traffic signal. $58,150.
- Close Randolph Street at Center. $11,160.
- Add pedestrian signals at Main and Center. $5,000.
- Close the rear entrance to Northville High School, adding a new, signalized entrance off Eight Mile Road, and either closing or limiting turns out of the Center Street entrance. $245,970.
- Add 83 parking spaces at the west - side of the high school. $51,660.

- Convert the intersection of Randolph and High streets to a four-way stop. $990.
- Improve the Eight Mile / Novi Road intersection. $87,700.
- Straighten out the Hutton / Dunlap intersection and stripe the pavement. $4,850.
- Add traffic and pedestrian signals at the corner of Griswold and East Main. $30,000.
- Add a flashing red beacon and white stop bars on the street at Wing Street and Cady. $10,000.
- Make the Wing / Fairbrook intersection a four-way stop with stop bars $990.
- Change Fairbrook to one-way westbound at the Fairbrook / First intersection. $1,110.
- Improve the traffic signal at the corner of East Main and Hutton. $32,500.

Parking on the way?

A plan to rebuild part of a downtown parking lot for additional spaces was sent to the City Council Tuesday for action.

The members of the Downtown Development Authority unanimously voted Tuesday to recommend that the council rebuild part of the lot above Main Street and east of Center. The work, which may be completed yet this summer, would be the first in a projected series of lot reconfigurations to increase downtown parking.

After considering a plan which would have reconfigured the entire lot but would have stifled traffic flow, the DDA members Tuesday settled on a plan which concentrates on the northeast corner of the lot, just off the corner of Dunlap and Hutton. Under the plan, the spaces in that part of the lot would run in east-west rows with a new row around the perimeter of the lot.

Under the recommended plan the drive to the southwest corner of Edwards Caterer would be closed to make room for parking.

The changes would increase that lot's capacity from 144 to 188 vehicles.

The cost of redoing the lot is estimated at $79,300, and City Manager Steve Walters said at the meeting that the work could probably be done by the city's Department of Public Works rather than an outside contractor.

Walters said the project could be funded with a bond issue, which could be paid off with the $110,000 or $120,000 which businesses owe the city in parking assessments.

TIPS FROM TUCKKLAPER

Novi Dental Center

A. Allen Tuckklaper
D.D.S.

BLEACHING DISCOLORED TEETH

Discolored teeth can be restored to their original color. The discoloration may be caused by the death of the nerve, the use of certain antibiotics (tetracycline discoloration) or overfluoridated water. For whatever reasons your tooth or teeth may be discolored, there is absolutely no reason to go through life hiding your smile. Such discolorations can be corrected by a simple process known as bleaching.

Bleaching agents are applied within the tooth to remove the stains that are in the dentin. Techniques employing concentrated oxidizing agents have been successful in most cases. This process is used for internal tooth discoloration and not for the removal of surface stains that may be polished off the enamel. The bleaching process is usually successful but sometimes the discoloration may reappear after a few years and then another bleaching will be required. The process is quite harmless.

Of course, a more permanent cure for a discolored, or deformed tooth is an artificial crown or jacket (sometimes known as a cap).

Man arrested on suspicion of stealing from Meijer

A Meijer's Store detective apprehended a Detroit resident who was attempting to steal stereo equipment from the store, according to a township police report.

Police said the Meijer's store detective said she observed a male select a $79 stereo cassette deck and $69 amplified speaker system and place them in a shopping cart.

The suspect then returned some empty beer cans and went to the front of the store, leaving the cart near women's clothing.

Police said the suspect then selected another cart, placed some food items in it, and gave it to a female. The suspect then returned to the cart with the stereo equipment and pushed it out the front door.

The store detective stopped the suspect and escorted him to the loss prevention department of the store, as the suspect began screaming that he did not steal anything and refused to cooperate.

Police said the suspect refused to cooperate when they arrived at the scene and he began to struggle with the officer. The suspect was handcuffed and taken to the Northville Township police station.

The suspect was charged with larceny from a building and resisting arrest. He was released on $100 bond for each charge, and faces a 35th district court date on Sept. 15 at 9 a.m.

NHS VANDALISM — Two windows at Northville High School were broken over the weekend, according to a city police report.

Between 4 p.m. Saturday and 7:30 a.m. Sunday, two windows on the east side of the building were smashed. Police think a hard object was thrown at the windows. Damage was estimated at $300.

APARTMENT BREAK-IN — Someone just moving in to a Novi Road apartment found the door pried open last week, a city police report said.

The door was pried open and the frame damaged during the day Aug. 8. It was not known if the apartment was entered since nothing was missing, the report said.

Damage was estimated at $300.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Northville Township resident was ticketed last Wednesday for operating under the influence of liquor and driving under a suspended license, according to a township police report.

Police said they observed the vehicle travelling northbound on Silver Springs Road south of Long Wood

Police reported when they pulled the vehicle over they detected a strong odor of intoxicants coming from inside the car and could see open beer cans near the feet of the rear seat passenger.

After performing field sobriety test with some difficulty, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .11 percent at the scene and .10 at the station. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The driver was given citations for OUIL and driving while license suspended, and released on $70 bond.

AUTO THEFT — A vehicle parked outside a residence off Winchester Drive last Thursday was reported stolen, according to a township police report. The complainants told police that unknown persons stole the black GMC Jimmy, worth $11,000, from the residence during the early morning hours.

The complainant told police the only people with keys to the vehicle are he and his wife and that the payments for the vehicle are up to date.

He added that articles inside the vehicle include: a $20 wallet, a $70 baseball glove, a $70 tennis racket, and $210 worth of cassette tapes.

LIGHT RIP-OFF — Northville Township police reported a scenery light was stolen sometime last Monday through Wednesday from a residence on Woodbend.

The complainant stated that unknown persons took the $50 light fixture from in front of the house.

Police said they located no physical evidence and have no suspects or witnesses.

LICENSE PLATE STOLEN — A license plate was stolen from a truck parked behind Phil's 76 service station on Main Street over the weekend, a city police report said.

Between 9:30 p.m. Saturday and 7:50 p.m. Sunday the plate was taken from a wrecker parked behind the building, the report said.

SIGN HIT — A hit-and-run driver apparently ran over a sign in the city recently, according to a city police report.

Near Lexington Drive and Concord Court a "No Parking / Fire Lane" sign was found damaged after a nearby resident heard a crash. Damage was estimated at $100.

that we could look at in depth and others that right off the top we knew were not acceptable," Orr said.

"What happens next is that the city and township will look at the three 'wish' sites . . . and determine if there's any way those sites could be available. When that's finished, we'll look at the final six and make the ultimate decision," Orr said.

The site committee's report will probably go to the City Council and Township Board for consideration in mid-September, Orr said.

"Each site that we looked at obviously has pros and cons. There wasn't one site that had all advantages and no disadvantages, and that made the committee's work much more difficult than expected," Orr said.

In the course of its meetings over the past seven months, the site committee consulted with two architects and a library planner. The committee used information from surveys and studies to create a picture of the community's makeup and its preferences for a library.

Any new library site is expected to require 25,000 square feet of space. Pros and cons the committee identified for the six finalist sites include:

- Behind the Community Center — Pros: Central location close to present location; Adequate parking available if area behind the Scout Building is used; Aesthetics, including continued use of the park for library activities; A two-story building required; The site would allow space for meeting rooms the community could use. Cons: Parking will continue to conflict with the Community Center; Some of the land is owned by the school district.
- Behind the Scout Building — Pros: Land is unused; Land is near the current site; Central location. Cons: Site is tight, requiring acquisition of the Scout Building and use of the cemetery road; Acquisition of adjacent residential lots would make more feasible.

- Cady Street at Griswold — Pros: Site is large enough to support building; Convenient parking possible; Central location. Cons: Land is owned by several owners; Closeness to race track, including safety of children, noise and odors; Possible parking problems; Limited access and visibility; Difficulty of outdoor activities.

- Ford plant — Pros: Location; Could renovate building instead of building new one; Room for auditorium and meeting rooms; Would preserve the building; Adequate parking; Library would not need entire space. Cons: Loss of tax revenue.

- Cass Benton Park — Pros: Accessible; Close to central business district; large enough for one-story building and parking. Cons: Land is owned by Wayne County; possible security problem with minors waiting to be picked up after closing.
- Fish Hatchery Park — Pros:

Aesthetically pleasing; Near the center of future community growth. Cons: Very tight, requiring removal of tennis courts; Parking would conflict with recreational activities; Security for children waiting to be picked up after closing; Acquisition required from DNR and Department of the Interior; Possible flooding; Not near present community centers.

In addition to the six sites on the final list, the committee considered in depth two other sites: Henningsen Field near Township Hall off Six Mile Road, and the Open Door Christian Church at Dunlap and Center.

"Serving the Metro Area Since 1936"

Tickets for the Michigan Lottery's "Lotto" game went on sale August 14, 1984, with the first drawing conducted on August 25. The following talks about the evolution of the game during its first four years.

Q: How does the current Super Lotto game differ from the original Lotto game?

A: Players in the current game are challenged to match six, five or four numbers from a field of 44. In the original game, the field was comprised of 40 numbers.

Q: Why was the change made?
A: At one point, Lotto and Super Lotto were offered at the same time, but with different Jackpots. Besides confusion between the two games, Super Lotto consistently outsold Lotto, indicating a clear player preference for the Super Lotto game.

Q: How is the Super Lotto Jackpot determined?

A: Like other parimutuel games, Super Lotto prize pools are based on the amount played for each drawing. The 25 cents of every sales dollar assigned to the Jackpot prize pool forms an investment in which all the principal and interest combine to pay winners a much larger total over a 20-year period. Players who match five of the winning numbers share the second prize pool comprised of 11 cents of each dollar spent on tickets. The third prize pool, shared by all who match four numbers, is paid from 13 cents of each dollar.

Q: Is there a minimum Jackpot prize in the game?

A: Super Lotto has a minimum Jackpot of $1.5 million compared to $1 million in the original game. A "rollover" — when no one matches all six winning numbers — keeps the Jackpot growing until it is won.

Q: What have been the average Super Lotto Jackpot shares?

A: Through late July, 1988, the average Super Lotto Jackpot share was over $3.9 million.

Q: What was the largest Super Lotto Jackpot?

A: On January 20, 1988, a Jackpot of nearly $29 million was hit by five players, with each receiving nearly $5.8 million.

Q: What have been the average second and third prize shares in the Super Lotto game?

A: As of late July 1988, the average Second Prize share was $2,515 while the average Third Prize share was about $90.

Huron Valley Hospital's Physicians Referral Program.

Because some things
just can't wait.

One of the most important parts of good health is a regular checkup, for everyone, not just the kids. If it's been "too long" since someone in your family has seen a doctor, no matter the reason, you can do something now. Maybe just a little reminder and a gentle nudge are all it will take. But perhaps some help finding the right doctor will be necessary. If that's the case, let Huron Valley Hospital's no charge Physicians Referral Program go to work for your family.

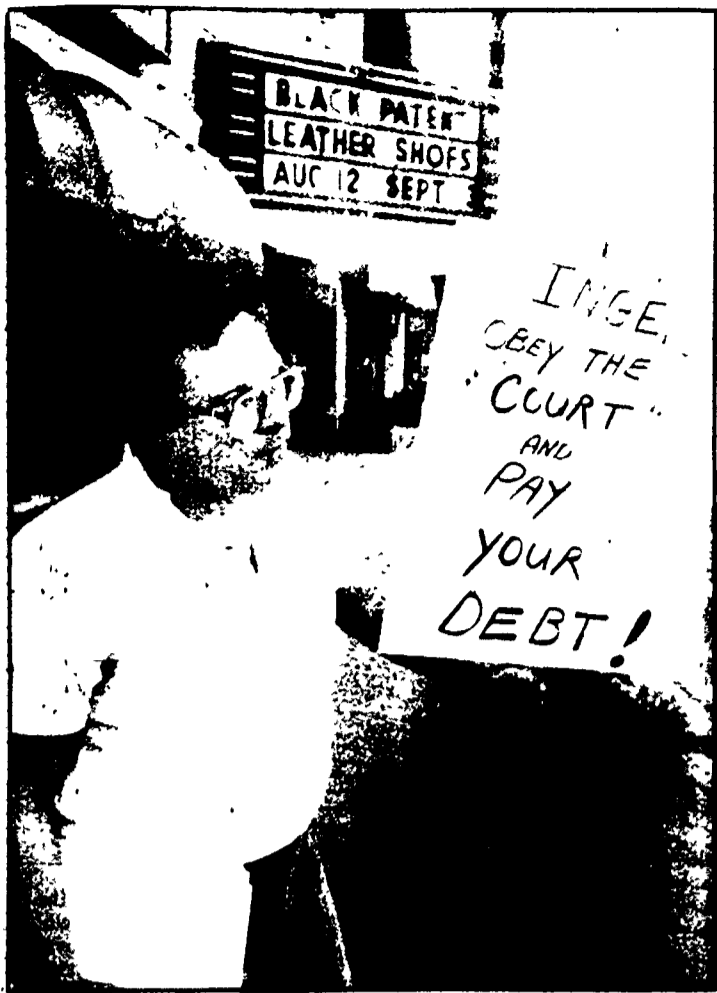

As close as the phone, our health care professionals are ready to listen and help. They understand all the reasons for needing a referral — new in town; doctor has retired; never had a doctor; just not comfortable with this doctor. Whatever the reason, whatever the need, the Huron Valley Hospital's Physicians Referral Program can help your family find the right doctors.

Ask us about office hours and locations. Give us your preference for male or female doctors. Do you want a Family Practice physician? Do you need a specialist? Huron Valley Hospital has more than 300 physicians on staff. Our doctors are located here in the community and throughout Oakland, Livingston and Wayne Counties. We'll find just the right doctor for you. And when we do, you'll have the comfort of knowing that if hospitalization is ever necessary, you'll stay in the neighborhood, because you, your family and your doctor are all part of the same Huron Valley Hospital family.

Theater dispute settled

Set-builder James Cape took his "protest of one" to the streets of Northville last week, the last step of a bitter, nine-month argument with Marquis Theater owner Inge Zayti. The private argument went public Friday, as Cape picketed the front of the theater as the crowd for "Do Black Patent Leather Shoes Really Reflect Up?" trickled in for the show. Northville Police stopped by to remind him to stay orderly and Cape complied. Cape sued Zayti earlier this year, claiming wages entitled to him for work on the Peter Pan set, went to "Never-Never Land" when it came time to pay up.

Cape handed out copies of a 35th District Court Small Claims Judgment from June requiring Zayti to pay $555.95. Cape had billed Zayti for 62 hours of set work done before the opening of Peter Pan last November 27. But in an interview this week, Zayti said she didn't owe any money and lost the suit only because she couldn't show up for the hearing. Zayti said the death of her husband prevented her from arriving for the June small claims court date, leading her to lose by default. She paid the bill Monday, according to Cape.

Board stops ordinance application

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The Northville Township Board of Trustees failed to take action last Thursday, Aug. 11, against three residents who are in violation of the township's property maintenance ordinance. Township Attorney Ernest Essad said he advised board members not to take action because one of the residents in violation of the ordinance was incorrectly notified of the hearing date. Essad said Leon Bonner was notified by the late township building director Troy Milligan that the hearing on his violation was to be on Aug. 12, when in fact it occurred on Aug. 11. Bonner, however, was present at the Aug. 11 hearing. "I advised the board that the best thing to do was not take action because of the dating technicality," Essad said. "Technically, the board could have voted (to take action on the violators), but Bonner's attorney probably would have made an issue of the incorrect dating of the hearing," he said, adding he has a meeting set up with Bonner to discuss the matter to try and resolve some of the problems. Bonner said he had a "friendly discussion" with Essad, but added if the board intends to pursue action on property maintenance violations he would be forced to take the township to court. In addition to following Essad's advice, board members admitted they were confused as to when action was to take place in response to the ordinance, which still has yet to be applied. "I treated the hearing (which occurred before the regularly scheduled board meeting) as a public hearing and maybe this was a case of confusion," said Trustee James Nowka. "It seems we blew right by this one, as there was a misunderstanding between the board and the township attorney." According to a letter written to the board by Essad, the board had the right to take action against Tony Bauss, Leon Bonner, and John Wheeler, all of whom were in violation of the property maintenance ordinance. Essad wrote that at the conclusion of the Township Board hearing, the Board shall determine whether a violation exists.

"If the Board determines that a violation does exist, it shall order specific corrective repairs, actions and/or improvement," Essad wrote. Trustee Don Williams said he wondered why the board did not take action against the three violators, and added he is very discouraged at the amount of business that is tabled at board meetings. "I plainly forgot about it (taking action)," Williams said. "I expected whoever chaired the meeting to bring it up. I expected it to come up later in the meeting and I forgot about it. I think it's a slip-up, plain and simple." Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen, who chaired the meeting in place of Township Supervisor Georgina Goss who was on vacation, was unavailable for comment.

OUIL arrests lower, but still a priority grant-funded enforcement programs through both Wayne and Oakland counties. "The idea was to try and develop a philosophical approach — get your people trained to watch for the drunk driver," Northville Police Chief Rod Cannon said. That meant more than obvious things like watching for drivers swerving around the road; it meant learning the "little identifiers" which point to people driving under the influence, Cannon said. In Oakland County, the program concentrated on watching past trouble spots or likely trouble spots. "It was pretty effective. But it was a grant, and it expired," Cannon said. "That was a good program and I'd like to see it come back. But we realize, of course, it's a dollars and cents thing." Garber and Cannon both said that the drop in drunk driving cases probably cannot be attributed to fewer people drinking and driving. "I would like to think that, but quite frankly, I don't," Garber said. "We know they're out there. Let's face it: They're not going to go away," Cannon agreed. The local police departments still consider drunk driving enforcement very important, but the lack of a special task force with that concentration is meaning less enforcement. There are still plenty of arrests, though: Northville Township had 205 OUIL cases last year and 105 so far this year, while the City of Northville had 35 last year and 13 this year. County sheriff's deputies and the Michigan State Police also may issue drunk driving citations. "They still get a priority... but it's through normal patrol," Cannon said. "We try and take a pro-active approach to crime whenever we can," Northville Township Police Captain Phil Presnell said. "We encourage our officers to take care of a problem before it could, potentially, kill somebody." The township police go after drunk drivers as vigorously as they go after any other criminal, Presnell added. "I'm not saying the police departments aren't doing their job," Garber emphasized. "They have their manpower situations, their budgetary situations and so forth." Making sure that a conviction results in a stiff penalty, as well as the educational efforts of groups like Mothers Against Drunk Driving, are also good ways to fight the problem, Cannon added.

Local church leaders react to 'Last Temptation of Christ'

Presbyterian Church in Novi has a different view about the film. He admitted that he is disturbed by the fact that Fundamentalists are attempting to represent all Christian leaders in protesting the film.

"Basically it comes down to a conflict of two interests — the people's right of expression and their religious beliefs," Henderson said. "It's pretty clear that in this country people have a right to write and create a film and if people don't like it, they don't have to go see it."

"With this movie, I feel like I'm a mature Christian who can make up my own mind. I don't want Jerry Falwell to decide what's fit and not fit for me to see."

Henderson argued that no group has a right to remove the movie from any given viewing area. He pointed out that if he were to see it, he might be offended by its content, but at the same time he said he hoped film distributors have a strong enough belief in the First Amendment to uphold it.

— Stephen Sparks
Pastor, First Baptist Church

Based on accounts he has read and viewed, Henderson said he interprets most of the controversy to be concentrated on Scorsese's portrayal of Jesus experiencing temptations.

"The problem is that the movie makes it too graphic," he said, referring to those temptations.

"If He (Jesus) was a man, as Orthodox Christians believe He was, He was tempted."

Henderson commented that the gospels portray Jesus' uncertainty about things in some instances, elements also brought out in the movie. But he also acknowledged that the movie isn't based on the gospel — it was adapted from 1955 novel by Nikos Kazantzakis.

"I think it points out an important part of our faith. Quite some time ago there was a heresy known as Docetism, which means 'to seem,' which held that Jesus only seemed to be human but he was really a God and because of that he didn't suffer.

"Churches are to fault for a certain amount of heresy — to be human means giving into temptation," Henderson continued.

Despite the controversy and protests it has created, Henderson remarked that ironically the movie has done some good.

"Now, all of a sudden, people are talking about who Jesus is and what they interpret him to be," Henderson said. "Here's Jesus on the front page of the newspaper ... how else could you get people talking about Him to this extent?"

Pastor Gene Jahnke of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novi said his initial reaction to the movie is two-fold.

"I agree with those who say the depiction of Christ in the movie is not at all consistent with the teachings of the church," Jahnke said. "It's not a good influence on people if they base their ideas of Christ on what they see in the movie. 'But I also think protesters have made it a best-seller and I'm not at all sure that protesting is the best way of objecting to it."

Jahnke added.

While Jahnke said he wouldn't recommend that people see the movie, he also would not recommend that they object to it by protesting.

"My basic response to it (the movie) is that it's garbage," said Father Leslie Harding of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church in Novi, referring to the methods in which the movie has been promoted and presented to the public.

"I wouldn't be interested in seeing it, but I won't tell people not to see it, either," Harding added. "To me, it's a cheap shot ... someone's going to make a lot of money off this because they think people's minds are in the gutter."

Harding said he advocates trusting people to make up their own minds about whether they should or should not see the film. In the same vein, he said he doesn't support banning the movie from local theaters.

"You've got to be able to trust people and to let them make up their own minds. Our Lord gave people the right to choose, didn't he?"

Father Kevin O'Brien of Holy Family Catholic Church in Novi said he didn't have much of an opinion about the movie.

"From what I understand and based on some of the reviews I've read, it's a lousy movie, but I don't have a reaction personally," O'Brien said in a Tuesday afternoon interview. "It's an item of curiosity — the more we hear about it, the more interest it creates."

Likewise, Rev. Thomas Scherger of the Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church in Novi said because he hasn't seen the movie, he found it hard to comment on it.

"I'm not a fan of censorship," he stated. "I do have some concerns about the content (of the movie), but I don't think it's appropriate to react to it."

"Right now there's a lot of heat but not a lot of light," Scherger added.

Diet Patch, Eliminates Diet Pills Burn Off Fat Hour by Hour

Guarantees Effortless Weight Loss

Just introduced on the East Coast, manufacturer can't keep up with demand. Biggest diet craze since Cambridge. Overweight people are throwing diet pills, protein drinks, exercise tapes and books out the window and lining up for blocks to buy MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patches. MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patches — are so new, so revolutionary, it has the entire diet industry buzzing. Why? Because this breakthrough Diet Patch, makes every ordinary "Diet Obstacle." For the first time ever in the diet industry, it enables an overweight individual to lose pounds and inches without the need of diet pills, exercise, diet powders or books. In fact thousands of people are now using MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patches and losing weight faster than ever before. Some people have reported as much as 4 pounds the first 24 hours. (World wide patent pending).

Patch Program Does All The Work (And Keeps The Weight Off For Good)

It's truly extraordinary how it works, just drop two drops of MEDI-DREANTM awesome ingredients, which contain no drugs what so ever and are 100% safe, on the patch we supply you with. Place patch on palm side of wrist. Let patch program go to work all day, repeat every 24 hours. You will melt losing fat from the very first hour, until you achieve your ideal weight and figure you desire. There has never been anything like it before. It's a totally new major scientific breakthrough for weight loss.

MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patch Works Hour by Hour

Talk about the Diet Patch has created a great demand in the U.S. market. In/Mod pharmaceuticals has exclusive North American distribution rights for MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patches. For over 17 years MEDI-DREANTM has wanted to give overweight people what they need, a diet alternative that really works and makes every other diet program obsolete. In/Mod pharmaceuticals has limited supply of MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patches in stock. In/Mod pharmaceuticals has signed contracts with MEDI-DREANTM, that we must limit supply to only 90 days per person, so that we give every overweight person a chance to order and put a stop to the U.S. weight problem.

Company Offers Extraordinary Guarantee

If you have not lost up to 6 pounds in the first 48 hours and up to 12 pounds in the first week or if for any reason you are not 100% satisfied with the MEDI-DREANTM Diet Patch Program, then send back the MEDI-DREANTM compound and patches and In/Mod pharmaceuticals will return your entire payment without any question. A word of caution, do not allow yourself to become too thin. If you start to lose weight too rapidly, limit the time you use the patch program, skip a day or two. Have a goal in mind and try not to go beyond it.

In/Mod pharmaceuticals is the only company in North America to sell MEDI-DREANTM Diet patches. They have tested the program and are thoroughly convinced that there is nothing like it on the market today. They have documents of literally thousands of diaphanous people who now swear by MEDI-DREANTM diet patch program.

Best of all, ordering MEDI-DREANTM diet patches is simple, fast and reliable. Send your payment to: In/Mod Pharmaceuticals, 4217 Highland Street, Suite 119, Dept. , Pontiac, Michigan 48344.

This group of Northville High School students recently returned from touring Europe.

Seventeen NHS students see Europe

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

This summer 17 Northville High School students got a chance to test their language skills and experience life in many different cultures during a two-week, four-country sojourn to Europe.

Northville High School Spanish teacher and trip chaperone Emily Serafa said the trip, which ran from June 28 to July 12, was arranged through the Educational Travel For Everyone Company in Clarkston.

Serafa said the group began the trip in Spain, and proceeded to Switzerland, France and England. "The kids paid a flat rate of $2,195 for the two-week trip, which included everything—except one meal per day."

"I think it was a very good trip and everyone got what they paid for," Serafa said. "The kids had fun, but they learned a lot too."

Serafa said the group, which was made up of students studying French or Spanish, had to use foreign languages in order to survive.

"The hardest thing to do is adjusting to another language," she added. "The kids got frustrated and lost, but that's part of traveling and learning—things aren't done exactly the way they are at home."

"For the first time the kids were forced to use a foreign language and they were made aware of what skills they had and what they have to do to improve them," Serafa said. Dan Holstein, a senior at Northville High, said his use of the Spanish language was a little shabby at first, but after a while he became more comfortable with it.

"The trip helped with my Spanish, but it also helped me to understand other cultures and see how things differ in other countries from the United States," he added. Julie Carrothers, a graduate of Northville High and incoming freshman at Albion College, said the students were given a lot of free time during the trip and definitely had to know the language to get around.

Carrothers particularly had to use the Spanish language, as she was hit by a car and taken to a hospital in Barcelona. Although she had little more than a sprained foot, Carrothers said she had to communicate with the doctors in order to quickly remedy her situation.

"The hospitals in Europe are much different and I came to really appreciate American hospitals," she said, adding that the Barcelona hospital had exposed pipes and paint chipping off of wheel chairs.

Serafa echoed Carrothers' new found appreciation of the United States. "I've travelled abroad many times, but I'm always glad to be back home in the United States," she said.

Holstein said he also learned a lot about different cultures, especially the different cuisines of the world. "I ate squid in Spain and our Spanish tour guide also said I ate cat."

Asked if the thought of eating a cat bothered him, Holstein said "Nah—because it tasted good."

Serafa said she believes the European trip is important for the students because it makes them aware of other cultures and that the way things are in the U.S. are not the way they are in the whole world.

She added she hopes to make the trip again in another two years, with the 1992 trip being extra special since Barcelona will be hosting the summer olympics.

In addition to learning, Serafa said the students loved to shop, especially for Spanish porcelain and Swiss ski equipment. "The kids bought a lot of sweatshirts and T-shirts from everywhere, especially the Hard Rock Cafe in London."

Serafa said the students will be having a picture party this Saturday to discuss the trip and share their experiences with their parents.

Voters will decide new park millage

summer long, working on different things we felt should be in the park out there," said Council Member Paul Folino, also a member of the committee which developed the proposal. "It could be a very, very nice community park."

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers noted that the Northville Community Recreation Department unsuccessfully sought state grants to develop the park for two years. "It's not as if there were no other attempts at funding. There have been, and it's come down to this," she said.

Mittman objected, however, pointing out differences between the park as laid out in earlier recreation department plans compared to a recent conceptual sketch.

The 1986 Community Recreation Plan projects two ball fields, three soccer fields, an exercise/cross country trail and two tennis courts. The new sketch, dated Aug. 3, 1988 and developed for committee use, shows three ball fields, batting cages, two soccer fields, three beach volleyball courts, a miniature golf course and a fitness trail.

"I'm disappointed in what I see here," Mittman said of the new sketch. "It appears now we've tried to cram as much into this small area as we could, and really forgot about landscaping... You've got every square inch that you could, almost, filled up."

"I realize we're not tied to the specific plan we see here," he continued. "I think we need to walk before we run in this area and maybe do a more thorough study than what we see here." Mittman also suggested a smaller millage for four years. "I personally feel it's too much at the present time. A lot of the residents got a... 15 - 20 percent (assessment) hike this year and we had another millage a couple of months back," Mittman said.

Folino responded that the sketch is not a final plan, but simply a look at all the things which could go onto the site's 38 acres. "There's plenty of land left in there for nice landscaping," he said. "This just shows what can be put on that amount of land."

Anderson said the drawings in earlier plans had some problems including cost, some facilities not quite fitting, and active recreation planned for swampy areas. "Let's just say we saw some shortcomings and we were kind of backtracking a bit and trying to get more usage out of the park," he said.

The estimated $732,000 cost did not include the miniature golf or the batting cages, which the committee did not necessarily favor, Anderson said. He added that a smaller millage for a longer time could end up costing more for the project, and that the Recreation Commission members felt the public would like to see the project finished as soon as possible.

Walters said detailed construction drawings and a formal operating agreement between the city and township would need to be worked out if the millage passes.

"It's a little different than when we are voting a millage that we are going to levy. This is going to a vote of the people," Ayers commented. "Since it will be going to an educated electorate, I think we should put it on the ballot and allow democracy to take its course."

The millage eventually passed the council 3-1 with Mittman dissenting.

At the Township Board meeting last Thursday, the park millage proposal passed unanimously with less discussion than at the council.

Trustee James Nowka said Monday he is absolutely in favor of the proposed millage because the recreation department has been running on a very thin budget for many years.

"The recreational services are above and beyond the emergency service so I think they don't get the same amount of attention," he added. "But I think we are definitely behind in this area."

Nowka said the proposed recreation millage will mark a turning point for the community and if residents feel they need the recreation services they must support the millage.

Trustee Don Williams said he also favors the recreation millage because the community must provide their youth with a safe place to play.

Under the wording approved by city and township officials, the millage could only be levied if voters approve it in each municipality. Township Attorney Ernest Essad wrote the question.

The approved ballot wording is: "Shall the total millage assessed in any one year against all properties in the (Charter Township/City) of Northville be increased by nine-tenths (9/10) of a mill ($.90 per $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation) for a period of two (2) years (1989-1990 inclusive) to be used for the construction and development of a park to be known as Northville Community Park, which millage shall not be assessed unless the voters in the (City/Charter Township) of Northville approve an identical proposition?"

The question is now set to be on the ballots in the city and township for the general election Tuesday, Nov. 8.

Class time Creative learning

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

While most schoolage children get the summer off to work, vacation, or rest up for the upcoming school year, there is a group of special students who spend an entire calendar year learning.

These students will spend the summer doing recreational activities in addition to learning perhaps the most important lesson of all — how to survive.

In compliance with federal and state regulations, the Northville School District operates its special education program for severely mentally and multiply impaired children, 230 school days each year.

Northville Director of Special Education Leonard Rezmierski, said the summer school day for special education students runs from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., one hour and 30 minutes shorter than a regular school day. Special education classes are held at both the Old Village/Moraine and Bryant schools.

"The summer session is a bit different for students and staff, whether we're one of the few schools that have shorter days," Rezmierski said, adding the shorter days allow the teachers to have some free time during the summer.

Rezmierski said the summer special education program, which is a continuation of the regular school year instruction, is necessary because if there was no summer program the responsibility for the children would fall completely on the parents.

Sandy Richters, president of the Old Village parent/teacher organization (PTO), agreed with Rezmierski, and said it would be unrealistic to expect the parents of handicapped children to perform the same tasks that teachers do during the school year.

"The whole reason why parents send their children to school, whether they're handicapped or not, is because teachers have a certain expertise that parents do not," Richters said. "For many of these children, if they do not get their therapies and instruction, their abilities will diminish and the children will begin to regress."

Even though the special education students continue to learn during the summer months, the staff of both Old Village and Bryant try to incorporate summer activities into the learning process.

"In the summertime we try to do activities in relation to the academics," said Viola Dougherty, principal of Bryant School.

Dougherty added the children take many field trips into the community, with tours of McDonald's and Domino Farms being among the children's favorite activities.

"Most of the children are aware that they are out doing something different and not sitting being inactive," she added.

Dougherty said the summer program stresses self-care and socialization along with the regular school year objectives of academics and vocational education.

"The students get a lot out of being in a summer program because it keeps a structure in their daily routine," she said.

Richters said another advantage of the summer program is that while the students are in school, parents can spend time with their non-handicapped children.

"Parents need to spend so much time with their handicapped children that during the summer-time, when the handicapped children are in school, they can spend some time with their other children," she added.

As for the special education teachers, Old Village school Principal Chris Cali said the teaching staffs at both her school and Bryant can request the summer off. She added most teachers will work for a summer or two before taking one off.

"My teaching staff is wonderful," Cali said. "They are extremely skilled in not only teaching, but also in motivating the students."

For the summertime curriculum, Cali said her teaching staff tries to continue the children's academic progress, while attempting to provide the children with recreational activities related to their academic goals.

"The reason that more field trips take place in the summer is because the weather is more reliable and there are less transportation conflicts with the K-12 students," Cali said.

She added she has been surprised this year at the overall positive response to the field trips by the students.

"I didn't think some of the children would respond to the community activities, but we've been pleasantly surprised," Cali said, adding the teachers have worked with the students in developing social skills that are important to being a part of the community.

Old Village Teacher Dave Bartlett said since the traditional school year is generally made up of academic and vocational work, the summer field trips provide a change in scenery while continuing the educational process.

"The children are definitely intelligent enough to know the changes in scenery and appreciate them," Bartlett said, adding the special education students have been well received by the Northville community.

Cali said that if a handicapped child's education did not continue through the summer many of the students would lose as much as half of what they had been taught the year before.

She noted that although she is in favor of a summer program, she thinks the amount of days could be cut back to allow the staff and students to take a break without hurting the children.

Helping the homeless

Record/CHRIS BOYD

The Church and Society group at the Methodist Church raised $1,106 for to help the homeless in the area with a dinner last Sunday. Above, Karla and Martin Warborg of Northville sample some of the food. The money went to the Baldwin Homeless Center in Pontiac to provide security deposits for homeless families. The group hoped to help before the start of school.

City seeks grant to fix bridge

An unsafe bridge on Beal Avenue may be repaired this year at with about $70,000 of state money.

"A chunk fell out of the understructure. Initially it looked sort of patchable, (but) it's in much worse physical condition than it initially looked," City Manager Steve Walters told the City Council Monday.

Although the city engineers' recommendation adopted by the council calls for an extensive-repair plan costing around $70,000, Walters said the city might not have to pay that. The bridge is an access point to the Northville Downs race track. That, and the fact that the problem developed quickly and unexpectedly, makes the project a good bet for state grant money for bridge repair, Walters said. A memo from city engineers McNeely & Lincoln Associates said the state money might pay for 95 percent of the work.

The memo also explains the damage: "We have examined the Beal Street bridge and have found that a section of the deck has failed. The portions of the deck which have not failed are severely cracked with evidence of dissolved concrete masonry at many of the deck and wall cracks," the memo reads.

The engineers recommend removing the whole bridge deck and part of the supporting walls.

Oil lease fight continues

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The dispute over oil leases in Northville Township continues, with some residents searching for ways out of signed leases and oil company representatives denying such requests.

Elenco Land Services Inc. responded to a resident's claim of misrepresentation by stating that an investigation into the situation produced no evidence of any misrepresentation.

Elenco General Manager Randall Hansen revealed the findings of his investigation in a letter to Grandview Acres subdivision resident George Goulet.

At last count, nine letters had been sent to Elenco, and of the nine, four residents asked to be let out of their leases for reasons of misrepresentation. Three other letters included unsigned leases and uncashed incentive checks for $100. The other two letters were sent by residents who said they were not misrepresented, but did want out of their lease.

Goulet sent Elenco a letter citing that the "circumstances under which we signed the above lease were seriously misrepresented to us."

"We were specifically told that all drilling would take place on state land and that failure to sign the lease would only mean that we would be unable to share in the profits," Goulet said.

Hansen said he discussed the matter with land agent O. Duffield, who also attempted to secure leases in the area. He added that based on Duffield's explanation of his "lease presentation", his standard answer to questions regarding drilling locations and procedures, "we cannot in all honesty see where any misrepresentation, let alone fraud,

Council passes B and B rules

A new ordinance to regulate bed-and-breakfast inns was adopted Monday by the Northville City Council.

The council passed the ordinance with little discussion and no comment during a public hearing scheduled to hear opinions on the draft. One hearing had already been held before the city's Planning Commission, which drafted the ordinance proposal.

The new B-and-B rules passed the council 4-0.

The ordinance will allow B-and-B inns in any residential district in the city. A B-and-B will be a generally permitted use in the city's multiple-unit districts, R-3 and R-4. A special land use permit would be required in single-family areas, zoned R-1A, R-1B or R-2.

Restrictions on B-and-B operations include:

- No more than half the total number of bedrooms or 25 percent of total floor space, whichever is less, may be used as rented rooms. There would also be a maximum of eight rooms per inn.

- No separate cooking facilities for B-and-B stay.

- The outdoor sign would have a maximum size of two square feet with no internal illumination allowed. The Planning Commission would review sign design.

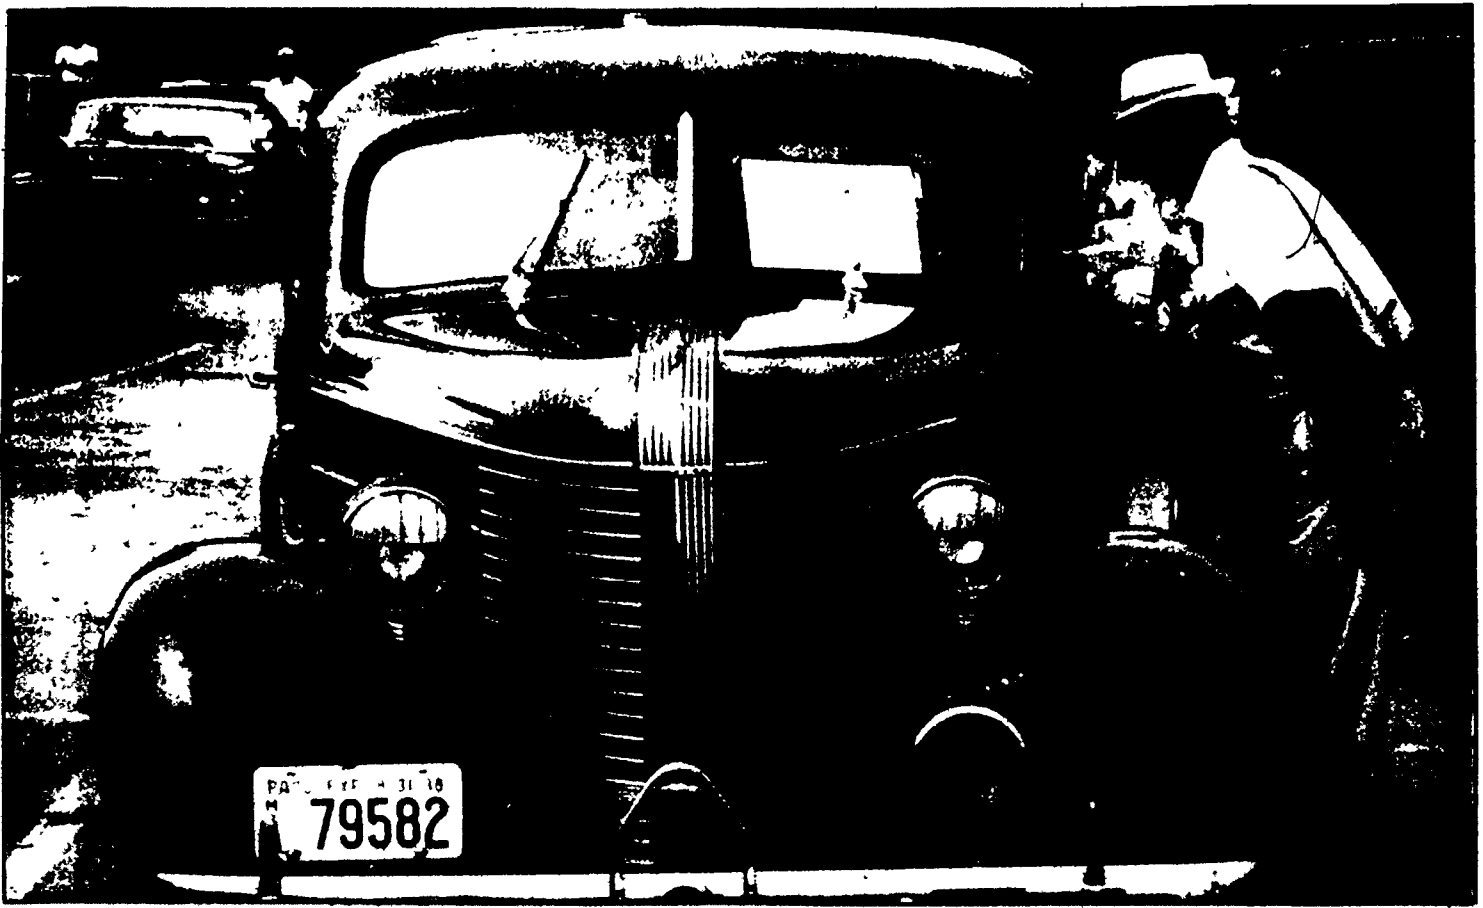

- Each rented room would require one off-street parking space, plus one for the manager. Other parking requirements would hold for B-and-Bs, but the commission could waive some dimensional requirements if safe and efficient parking is not impaired.

- The maximum length of stay would be 30 consecutive days and 60 total days in a single year.

- All applicable codes for building, living area, plumbing, electric, mechanical, fire and health would still apply.

The Planning Commission took up consideration of the B-and-B issue after one inn was proposed and city officials realized they had no ordinance to specifically address such inns.

That first B-and-B, the Atchison House on Dunlap, recently opened its doors to business. The owners are planning a community open house this weekend.

You don't have to drive an antique to Windsor, but it adds to the fun.

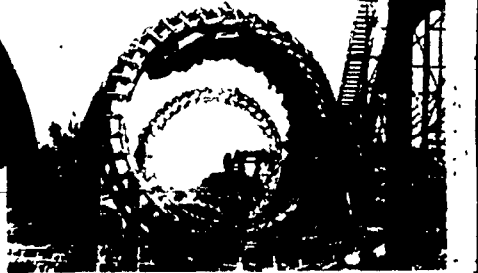

Afternoon tea with English sherry is a custom at some of the Windsor restaurants.

There are lots of charming bed & breakfast places out in Essex County.

Take the scenic south shore drive out to Point Pelee and paddle your own canoe.

Board the boat from Amherstburg and scream your head off at Boblo.

Imagine a rustic campground only 35 minutes from Detroit. It's KOA Windsor, out Hwy 401

Windsor.

An interesting place.

You'll have to go a long, long way to find a place like this. Windsor. It's not across the ocean. It's across the river.

If you like imported clothing, in an Old World atmosphere, go to McCance English Shop, downtown on Ouellette. For men - everything from fine English socks to real British duffle coats. For ladies - suits by Raffinati, sweaters from Germany, skirts from France.

Stay over 48 hours for your $400 duty exemption, in a luxurious room at Holiday Inn, right on the river, downtown. Treat yourself to a weekend in a waterfront room or a 2-floor Chalet Suite, Holiday Inn's loft apartment.

And don't miss Expo Italia, an exhibit of Italian products including furniture, jewelry, fashions, ceramic tile, coffee makers, bicycles and automobiles - Ferrari, Maserati, Lancia, Alfa Romeo and Lamborghini. It's August 19, 20 and 21, at Cleary Auditorium.

Let's go to Windsor and pulled down utility wires. Then, about 200 other homes in the northwest section of the city lost power Tuesday afternoon during a brief thunderstorm.

Detroit Edison spokesperson Fred Steen said about three quarters of the Edison customers in the Novi area lost power during the Sunday storm. Workers were bringing the first circuits back on Monday afternoon. Most were restored with full power by late Monday or early Tuesday.

"It seems that the southwest part of (Oakland) County got hit the hardest," Steen said.

In the area bounded by Eight Mile, Fourteen Mile, Haggerty and Napier roads, about 6,000 Edison customers were without power, Steen said. "Every circuit in that area is affected by the storm," he said Monday afternoon.

The outages were caused by several different storm-related problems. "The lightning and wind just ate us up. We have a lot of wires down (and) quite a few transformers and reclosers hit by lightning. Those are the kinds of things lightning seeks out," Steen said.

Novi Road between Eight Mile and Nine Mile was closed due to a blown transformer and fallen wires. Police and fire officials cordoned off the scene while Edison work crews worked to repair the lines. Most residents and businesses in the area were left without power. Novi Road was opened up Monday afternoon.

Debate over oil leases rages ever occurred." Hansen concluded the letter by stating that no resident who signed a lease would be let out of it.

"Please understand that the lease negotiated with yourselves has been obtained by Elexco under professional standards and as such is not null or voidable," Hansen wrote. "We will not discharge your lease and intend to rely on the continued validity of the same."

Paul Domagalski, land manager of Pangborn Exploration the oil company which hired Elexco to obtain the leases, said his company has been in close contact with Elexco and believes that no misrepresentation has taken place.

He added that, in fact, Pangborn is the only company who can discharge the residents from their leases, but added they have no intention of doing so.

Some residents who have signed leases with Elexco, said they were not misrepresented at any time.

John Davis said in addition to the lease he signed on his Northville property, he has also signed one in Olsego County under the exact same provisions.

"I was absolutely not misrepresented, and anybody who said that they were is a real fool and didn't listen carefully," Davis said.

He added that Elexco land agent Steve Kerr told him he did not know where the drilling would take place.

Meanwhile, some Grandview Acres residents said they have contacted area legislators.

Residents Zo Chisnell and Randy Smither also said they have taken surveys of their neighbors, and do not agree with earlier claims by Elexco that property owners holding in excess of 50 percent of the land in the project area have been signed to leases.

Elexco officials would not comment.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JULY 18, 1988

The regular meeting of the Northville City Council was called to order in the Council Room by Mayor Johnson at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

Present: Ayers, Folino, Johnson, Mittman, Absent: Buckland - excused out-of-town. Also Present: Konrad, Walters, Warner, and Bob Needham.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:

The minutes of the regular meeting of July 5, 1988, were approved as corrected.

4. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE AGENDA:

Moved, supported, carried; to adopt the 7/18/88 Northville City Council Agenda as amended, and the Consent Agenda A, through G.

5. CITIZEN COMMENTS:

Nick Patilko, 128 Baseline, stated the Baseline parcel special assessment is still on his 1988 City tax bill. Steve Walters responded that it is an error and would be removed.

Dick Crawford, owner of Crawford's Restaurant, requested the City pursue the surplus of permutual taxes into the State general fund through a lawsuit.

Mayor Johnson stated we are working behind the scene to get the surplus through the legislature and to the cities with racetracks.

Manager Walters stated the Attorney General's legal ruling is that no permanent appropriation can be by statute (formula).

5a. JAYCEE MUSCULAR DYSTROPHY DRIVE:

Moved, supported, carried, to grant approval on short notice to the Jaycees to solicit for Muscular Dystrophy at street intersections and ask for a safety report from the Police Chief for future requests.

6. PUBLIC HEARING: WEST MAIN STREET - SANITARY SEWER DISTRICT NO. 1:

Moved, supported, carried, to confirm the special assessment roll for the West Main Street Sanitary Sewer District No. 1 as Hillcrest Subdivision Lots 64, 65, 66, 67, 68 & 69. (Plus Lots 70 & 71 in the Township); Knappa Subdivision Lot 1a, 1b, 1c, 1d, 1e and 1f; and Orchard Heights Subdivision Lots 48, 50 & 51.

7. ALLEY BETWEEN BASELINE & EIGHT MILE ROAD:

Manager Walters stated letters were sent to property owners along alley with proposed solutions to the drainage situation. Also a petition to close the east portion of the alley at Lots 4, 5 and 6 was received.

Mayor Johnson stated the alley improvement could be funded from the general fund, a combination of the general fund and special assessment, or all special assessment.

Mayor Johnson requested a study session when the reports were ready on the regrading alternative including costs of alternatives and proposed assessments, traffic flow at Center Street and a survey of the alley width.

8. CDBG STUDY OUTLINES:

Moved, supported, carried, to authorize the City Manager to proceed with the proposed big documents for the Master Plan Development Plan and the Ford Plant Redevelopment Plan; and request the Planning Commission's review.

Our Opinion

Case of patient's death — deserves more attention

The Michigan State Police have finished an investigation into the death of Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patient John Zelepis, concluding that he was not murdered. That's good information to know, but the issue cannot end there.

Zelepis walked away from the hospital in February and froze to death in a nearby field. Police found his body three days later. Six months after he died, this is still just about all we know.

The hospital conducted an investigation of its own and, according to the hospital director, changed procedures so the delay in reporting Zelepis missing won't happen again. The state police investigation, in addition to answering some incidental questions about Zelepis' life at the hospital, really just confirmed that the death was natural.

The Northville Township Police probe is still pending. They apparently have been unable to find time during the past six months to conduct an investigation which the state police finished in six weeks. Now, the township police are certainly busy people, but this case deserves absolute top priority.

Because of the long time the township police are spending with this investigation, the public and the Zelepis family have a right to expect much more when they finish with the case.

Do we even need to list the questions which no one has yet answered in public? What exactly went wrong with the hospital procedures that allowed a patient's absence to go unreported for three days? What exactly has been changed to fix that? Was there any criminal negligence involved? Has anyone even wondered if there was? In short: Why did this man die? And why has it taken so long to find out?

? We find it incredible that the life of a patient at a state hospital could end like this, without any solid answers, and even a disturbing lack of solid questions. Township police and mental health officials need to go public with a great deal more information, and we hope to heaven they meet the challenge.

Property ordinance is disturbing situation

The Northville Township Board had an opportunity to enforce its property maintenance ordinance for the first time at its meeting last Thursday. The opportunity proved to be a lost one due to confusion by the people who gave the ordinance its final approval.

Three residents were notified months ago that they were in violation of the property maintenance ordinance and all of them were instructed on how to comply. One of the residents found in violation has begun to comply with the ordinance, but the other two residents have not.

Furthermore, one of the two residents not in compliance said he has no intention of fixing the problem. Since these individuals seem to have no intention of ever complying and the board had the power to act against these people, it seems clear that some action should have been taken last Thursday.

After numerous phone calls to township board members and staff, Township Attorney Ernest Essad said he advised board members not to take action because of a problem with notifying one of the violators of an incorrect hearing date.

While we believe that Essad's advice to postpone board action until the notifying procedures are handled correctly is sound, the confusion of board members as to what occurred at the meeting is extremely troubling.

Many board members contacted after the meeting said they were confused as to when action on the matter was to take place and others said they had some misunderstandings as to the advice which Essad was providing.

The process of formally passing an ordinance is a long and arduous one. The planning commission tinkers with ordinances until they believe them sound, and then the board puts it through two readings before giving it formal approval.

Due to the 'kid glove' approach given to proposed ordinances, it is quite disturbing when board members admit confusion at the point of an ordinance's application. Furthermore, at last Thursday's meeting, board members were provided with a letter from Essad explaining their options and procedures under the property maintenance ordinance.

Questions need to be asked and answered during these discussions, so that lengthy delays which make a mockery of a much needed ordinance do not occur. There will always be occasional procedural delays. They seem to be a part of any government system. While delays due to these types of mistakes are understandable (though not particularly commendable), delays brought about because of misunderstandings should not be tolerated.

We are in favor of the property maintenance ordinance. Certainly any ordinance which helps to maintain the beauty and charm of the Northville area is worthwhile.

However, before applying the ordinance, we hope that board members completely understand its aims and procedures, and use it accordingly.

Lesson learned

By Brenda Bonzheim

It was an omen. And it taught us what naive suckers we can be at times.

It was a hot, sticky night last weekend, a hopping Saturday night designated as an official "girls night out" in celebration of my friend Linda's upcoming wedding day. Some call such celebrations bachelorette parties.

We drove the car to a trendy watering hole in downtown Detroit and parked in a rear lot. Innocent enough, right? My friend, Cheryl, pocketed her car keys in her purse and we started to walk around to the front entrance of the restaurant/pub, where we were supposed to meet the rest of the wild and crazy women in our bachelorette party. Suddenly a large sweaty man wearing no shirt and a scowl on his face came walking rapidly toward us.

"You ladies can't park here unless you pay," he barked. "You were supposed to pay the man at the booth. It costs $4 to park back here."

We looked at each other and raced to see who could pull out the money fastest. Linda, the guest of honor at this party, was the first to gain access to her wallet. She handed the man a $20 and laughed at us, while the man sauntered up to the tiny wooden booth at the back of the restaurant.

"Ha, ha, I beat you guys," Linda said with obvious glee.

"You're not supposed to pay for anything tonight. Knock it off," Cheryl growled.

"It's only $4, so chill out," Linda responded.

Unsuspecting creatures that we are, we watched as the man who took Linda's money conversed with another guy sitting outside the booth. Moments later he walked toward us again.

"Listen, I don't have any change," the man spurted out. "I'll have to run across the street to get some bills from my boss. You ladies wait right here till I get back."

And he was off, just as quickly as he appeared. Again, we simply stood there, intending to wait as he had advised us to do.

Meanwhile, the little guy sitting in the booth motioned to us. We walked up to see what he wanted.

"I hope you girls didn't give that man any money," he said. "You don't have to pay anything to park here."

First there was complete silence, followed by a trio of voices — one of them mine, of course — shouting "YOU'RE KIDDING!!!"

"We thought you knew him — he was up here talking to you," Cheryl said.

"He told me you needed water for your car. I thought you were having car trouble," the man in the booth commented. "Man, what a drag. You never have to pay to park here. Don't ever do that again."

A trio of voices — one of them mine, of course — shouted "WE GOT RIPPED OFF."

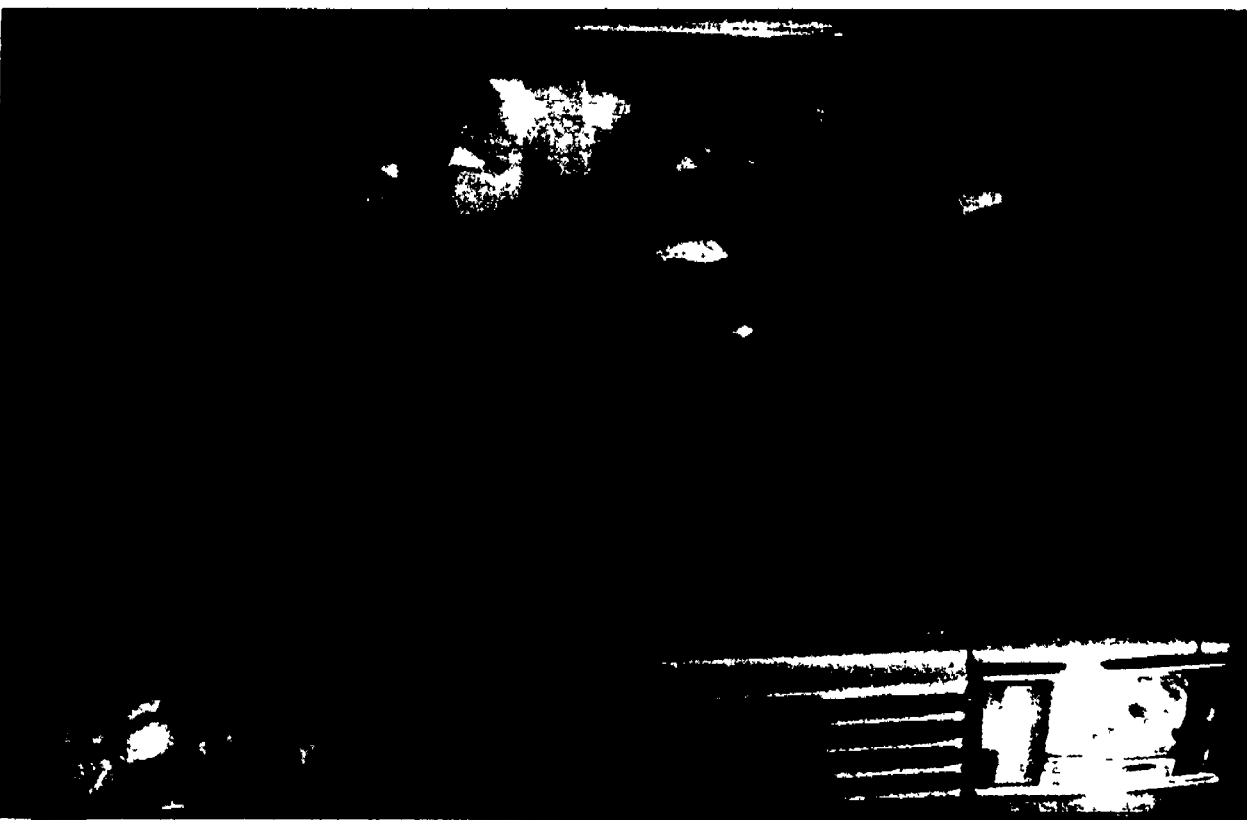

"I thought he looked suspicious," Cheryl said as we walked around to the front entrance.

"Well, we learned a lesson from this. Too bad it was my money, though," Linda said with soft laughter, still in a state of disbelief.

It's a good thing I have such wise friends. Otherwise I would probably still be standing in the parking lot, waiting for that man to come back with Linda's change.

After the fact

I thought she was my friend ... sort of.

She's definitely my favorite stylist. Whenever I need a hair cut, I always ask for Terri. Whenever she cuts my hair, we always seem to have a good time ... laughing and swapping stories about life in the fast lane. And whenever she gets done cutting my hair, I always tip her generously — 50 cents is 50 cents ... nothing to sneeze about, right?

But ol' Terri let me down big the last time she cut my hair.

"Phil," she exclaimed suddenly, "I think you've got clogged follicles."

Right there in front of God, country and everyone else in the building, she just blurted it out. "Clogged follicles."

Loud enough for everyone to hear. Like it was some kind of venereal disease or something.

"Terri, please," I exhorted, trying to salvage a shred of dignity after half the world had been told about my dread condition. "Could we have a little discretion?"

"Tell me — quietly, please — about these alleged clogged follicles. How did I catch them? Are they contagious? Can you get clogged follicles from the handles on bathroom doors? Should I make out a will? Is there any hope for a cure?"

"Can I make money from clogged follicles? You know, like those guys on the television ads who used to suffer from halitosis or psoriasis? You've got to help me, Terri. These are things a good stylist should know."

My good friend acknowledged that things looked bleak. But she also offered a ray of hope for the future. "We do have this one product which I think could help you," she said solicitously.

"It's a little expensive, but a big tipper like you, could afford it. Got your checkbook handy?"

Readers Speak

'Last Temptation' provokes furor

To the Editor:
There is no greater furor than that which is provoked by questioning the faith of the true believer!
I read "The Last Temptation of Christ" by Nikos Kazantzakis, back in 1962. At the time of the novel's paperback printing by Bantam Books, it was praised highly by: Chicago Sun Times, Washington Post, N.Y. Herald Tribune, Los Angeles Times, the N.Y. Times, and seven other publications.

Author Kazantzakis' intent, in the words of the Chicago Sun Times, was to portray a living, passionate Christ, filled with love and desire, but racked by his anguished struggle to escape the burden of divinity. The Saturday Review described Nikos Kazantzakis as "one of the great artists of the century." Let us forget, it is a novel!

I wonder how men of the cloth would respond, some of them, if "The Passover Plot" by Dr. Hugh J. Schonfield, was to be made into a movie? This book, published in the 1960s, purports to demonstrate, by scholarly, detailed evidence from the Bible and from the Dead Sea Scrolls, that Jesus planned his own arrest, crucifixion and resurrection.

It would appear that the battle is now drawn between those who accept the Bible as the infallible word of god, literally, and those who look upon it as an unparalleled work of art and great literature.
Alfred P. Galli

Today's youth faces new challenges

This is another in a continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

During the last year I have interviewed over 65 youths and their families. I have seen an overwhelming number of kids who are worried and feel pressured by today's society. Youths today have worries and pressures that were not in existence 20 or 30 years ago. Adults need to be aware of these worries and pressures and help the youth express their concerns.

A large majority of kids are worried about their own futures — "Will I make it in life?" "What am I going to do after high school?" "Will I get good enough grades to get into college?" A "Big Time" worry to several teenagers that I interviewed is AIDS. Most said that discussions at school have made them aware of the problem. The awareness is helpful to them and their friends but they are still concerned about it. Another worry to youths are drugs and alcohol. Drugs and alcohol are readily available to most youths. It takes a very strong and independent teenager to avoid the pressures of classmates who take drugs and encourage them to also.

Teenagers often feel pressured to grow up too soon. One youth said, "Society expects you to decide what you are going to do with your life when you are still in school. This is a big problem for me because I really haven't been out enough to decide what I'm going to do." There are many youths in Northville who do not know life beyond 8 Mile Road. They are feeling pressure to be independent, autonomous adults and yet they do not know what life is in the "real world." The mass media, especially television, is daily bombarding kids with a warped and twisted world where everyone is beautiful and everything works out after the end of a half-hour. Many kids expect their life to end up like the TV show which is not a realistic view of life in general. One girl said to me, "Growing up happens too fast. It does not take as long as it should and I feel this is very unfortunate."

In order to help, we have to encourage our teenagers to feel free enough with us to open up and express their feelings about their worries, concerns and pressures. In this way we may be able to help them realize peace of mind or as one teenager expressed, "Experience a sunny day in slow motion."

Money and memories

By Neil Geoghegan

I've always considered myself pretty average.

As an average kid growing up in an average city with my average family, I bought and collected baseball cards just like most of my friends. For 10 cents, you would get a packet with about six baseball cards and the bonus — a thin slab of bubble gum that was really cardboard painted pink.

As a kid, I collected the cards because I was a baseball fan — particularly the Tigers. One of my earliest memories is watching the '68 team beat the Cardinals in the World Series and then going down to McNichols Road and witnessing a mass celebration complete with confetti and streamers. I've never seen anything like it since then.

My first large collection of baseball cards came the following year, in 1969. Back then you bought a pack and hoped you didn't get many duplicates — unlike nowadays where you can buy whole series. Duplicates were traded for cards you didn't have, but often times if you had double of, say, Dean Chance, everybody else did too.

Among the '69 cards were Henry

(Hank) Aaron, Willie Mays, Roberto Clemente and Ernie Banks — all big stars and current Hall of Famers. But the biggest thrill was getting a Tiger — whether it was the great Al Kaline or back-up catcher Jim Price, who wasn't much better as a sportscaster after his baseball career.

I had a Mickey Stanley, a Willie Horton, a Don Wert and a Mickey Lolich among others. I remember trading copies of Bill Freehan and Earl Wilson just to get one Denny McLain. I figured it was well worth it since McLain had won 31 games the year before. I even had a card for a member of the Seattle Pilots — a major league team that was only in existence for one season.

In 1970, I got acquired even more baseball cards. In the wintertime, my allowance was burning a hole in my pocket so I started buying football cards too. Gale Sayers, Johnny Unitas, Bart Starr, George Blanda — I had most of the stars. I was a fan and my heroes were on these cards.

My 1971 collection was almost the entire Topps baseball series that year. For whatever reasons, I quit buying the cards after '71 — maybe I got tired of them or didn't have the money. Just like every red-blooded American kid, I grouped teams with a rubber band and stored them all in — your guessed it — a shoe box. A Hush Puppy shoe box.

Just like many others, the shoe box eventually went into the basement for storage and I didn't see them for years. When this current baseball card craze first started a few years ago, I asked my mother where my baseball cards were. She said "downstairs somewhere I suppose."

I looked through everything, hoping to find the Hush Puppy shoe box, but I never found it. I cruelly accused my mother of throwing them away, probably the same way most of my friends did. But about six months ago, during a massive clean-up effort in their basement, my parents found my shoe box filled to the top with childhood memories and, if you believe the experts, a lot of money if I decide to sell them.

I still have the cards, along with a 1967 Tiger Yearbook and a 1938 sports schedule. I don't know if I'll ever give them up because even though I have single cards valued at $30 apiece, you can't put a price on some of those memories.

Council approves deck ordinance

People hoping to build decks in the City of Northville now have a new set of regulations under which they may do so.

The City Council Monday approved a new ordinance to regulate deck construction which will go into effect in 10 days.

The ordinance was spurred when a few cases before the city's Board of Zoning Appeals pointed up the fact that decks were not specifically covered in the city's rules and therefore were considered part of a house by default. This meant a house which was built up to or almost up to the required rear yard could not legally add a backyard deck.

The new ordinance eases this restriction somewhat by allowing decks into the back yard up to 25 feet from the rear lot line. So, on single-family residential land zoned R-1B, there is still no encroachment allowed into the required 25-foot rear yard — but in the larger-lot R-1A district, such as in all the city subdivisions west of Taft Road, decks may extend 10 feet into the required 35-foot rear yard.

The new ordinance also adds some restrictions. Decks are subject to lot coverage limitations, and they may not be more than 25 percent covered by a screened porch, gazebo or the like.

Restrictions which apply to the area of the deck extending into the required rear yard include: it may not go above the first floor of the house, it may not have any area covered, and shall not be converted into an enclosed, habitable space.

Decks may not extend into required side or front yards.

The new ordinance defines a deck as "a structure associated with a residential structure which provides a surface for tables and chairs, and is intended to be used as a means of access between the residence and the yard, and as an area for passive outdoor recreation.

The city Planning Commission developed a draft of the ordinance after city Building Official Joe Attard brought the issue to the commission's attention. The planners recommended to the council allowing decks up to 20 feet from the rear lot line, which the council changed to 25 feet.

A memo from Attard to City Manager Steve Walters notes that under the new rules, two decks in the city do not conform to the required setback. Two others, which did not conform before adopting the ordinance, are now in compliance.

At a public hearing Monday before the council adopted the ordinance, no one from the public spoke on the issue.

The only opposition to the draft came from Council Member Paul Folino, who had pushed for a clause limiting the size of second and third deck levels compared to the first.

"I don't think it's right. I think it becomes a monstrosity and not something nice for the neighbors," he said. "I shall vote against it because it does not address what I consider all of the (concerns) of decks."

Other council members countered that upper levels are not permitted within required rear yards, and that the market would prevent such structures otherwise.

The new ordinance passed 3-1 with Folino dissenting.

"I think we definitely need a specific deck ordinance, with a definition of a deck, which we have here. We currently do not have anything that specifically refers to decks," Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said.

The cost of a yearly membership was under $100 in those days, and concern over the club's financial stability also caused many people to sell their memberships during the winter season through advertisements in the Northville Record.

"Then in the spring we didn't know who the members were," Boland said. The club's by-laws have since been rewritten to avoid this problem.

Although many of the satisfied swimmers who now glide along the pool's bright blue surface are Northville and Novi residents, the membership also includes people from as far away as Grosse Pointe and Brighton. New members, according to club membership chairman Kathi Jerome, must pay a $175 initiation fee and purchase a $500 bond which is refunded when they leave the club.

"The bond is like stock in the club," she said.

Yearly dues are $200 and most people are willing to pay the price. The club membership currently stands at 350 families and has been increased from 300 recently because of the 205 family waiting list.

"350 is the maximum number the bylaws will allow," Gazlay said.

The 25 meter pool also includes a diving well. The club plans to completely renovate their club house and kiddie pool. The renovation will begin at the end of August.

"Right after our anniversary party the trucks are going to come in and start ripping everything up," Gazlay said.

The swim club hosts a sea of social events including parties for adults as well as kids, a treasure hunt and a Fourth of July fireworks display.

"This year they couldn't do the fireworks because of the weather," Tom Valade, an employee of the club for six years said.

The club's nine employees are all certified lifeguards with cardiopulmonary resuscitation training. Their float in the Northville Fourth of July Parade won first place. "This is the second year in a row," Valade said.

The club also sponsors a swim team which competes with five other area swim teams. The competition, according to Gazlay, is not intense. "It's a fun league," she said.

'Everyone's a model' at Highland studio

By LISA BURKS

You don't have to be Christie Brinkley to feel like a highly-paid model at Gracon Studio in Highland.

The combination of owner Grace Zimmerman's personal warmth and her steadfast philosophy that "everybody is a model in their own way" has helped ease many a camera-shy subject during her six years in business.

Entering her fourth year under contract with both Milford and Lakeland high schools in the Huron Valley School District, she estimates that about 80 percent of her business is derived from shooting senior portraits and capturing sports and social events on film for the high school yearbooks.

"My biggest reward is the rapport I have with the young people. I love kids — I have lots myself," laughed the mother of five grown children.

A apparently that rapport is a contributing factor to Gracon Studio's rising popularity, which is stretching outside the Highland community.

This is evidenced by the increasing number of portrait orders from high school seniors in Hartland, South Lyon, Brighton, Holly, Fenton and Davisburg, to name a few.

Zimmerman said she would dearly love to pick up additional school contracts, but coinciding yearbook deadlines make it virtually impossible at this time.

Besides the nearly 900 high school senior portrait sittings she does yearly, Zimmerman also photographs individual adults and children, couples, families and pets — both inside the studio and on location.

Wedding bookings are also a large part of her business, particularly in the spring and summer months. This year, as seems to be the case every year, Zimmerman is scheduled to photograph weddings every weekend from May through November.

While many studios use backdrop canvases or book-lined library shelves or fields of wildflowers, Gracon Studio opts for the real thing whenever possible.

"My favorite photography is done outdoors because the colors are so natural," Zimmerman explained.

Grace Zimmerman keeps things in focus at the Gracon Studio in Highland

Much of her outdoor photography is shot on the grounds surrounding the western motif of the complex in which her studio is located. Gracon Studio was the first tenant in the building at 1419 South Milford Road.

Purple flowering foliage growing in the field out back, blue stained barnwood on the sides of the structure and an old wood railing on the porch-like sidewalk in front of the studio are some of the popular backgrounds Zimmerman uses to enhance her portraits, many of which adorn the walls of the lobby and hallways of the shop.

And there are no limits to what she will capture on film, or how.

Most unusual are her pet portraits. Animals are cropping up in family group shots, individually with their masters or all by themselves. Zimmerman pointed to a stunning portrait of a young woman and her dog that she photographed in Kensington MetroPark in Milford.

"I've never had one (a pet portrait) not turn out," said Zimmerman, an accomplished equine photographer as well. Her trick is to allow the animal to sniff out and prowl around the studio or wherever the portrait is being shot so that it will feel comfortable in its surroundings.

"When it comes to taking a picture, if I haven't done it yet, I will definitely give it a try," she said with an adventurous tone in her voice.

Zimmerman said she had always been interested in photography, and ever since high school she attended every class and joined every club pertaining to photography that she could find.

When she married and started raising a family, there were tons of pictures being taken around the house, Zimmerman explained.

She began freelancing, first at weddings and then at another studio where she met the woman who would become her partner. Gracon Studio was opened April 1, 1982, and the women worked together until Zimmerman's partner retired two years ago and she became sole proprietor.

"You have to have a feel for photography, an eye for composition," said Zimmerman, who added that the technical skills fall into place with some practice. Her skills, she pointed out, were all acquired on the job from experts and professionals she worked with.

The hard part, she said, was learning to wear "all the hats" in the studio after her partner left.

"Most photographic businesses in the Detroit Professional Photographers Association are run by couples. The man is the master artist doing the photography, and the woman is running the office," Zimmerman, a divorcee, pointed out.

Despite occasionally feeling pulled in every direction, Zimmerman feels very fortunate to have a creative and dedicated staff she can depend on.

She also credits the professional courtesy extended to her by a few of the Pontiac area photographic studios whenever she has a technical question or needs to refer overflow business.

"Photographers are a different breed, and are very close-knit if they are not in direct competition with each other," she said.

Because of early yearbook deadlines for both Milford and Lakeland high schools, all seniors must be photographed by Sept. 1, which is before school even begins this fall.

Many students and parents are unhappy with the arrangement, particularly because the portraits taken almost a year before graduation may not resemble the student by the time spring rolls around.

Although Gracon Studio has no control over such deadlines, a cap-and-gown sitting is offered in addition to the senior portrait sitting at no extra charge, and can be taken in the spring.

I encourage the students to come

DANIEL J. GRADY

JAMES C. RUCKER

DANIEL J. GRADY has been named branch manager of Manufacturers Bank's new office at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road in Novi.

Grady joined the bank in 1984 as a management trainee. Since that time he has gained extensive experience in branch banking and most recently served as branch manager of the bank's Laurel Park/Six Mile office in Livonia.

Grady holds a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and currently resides in Oak Park.

JAMES C. RUCKER of Northville has been appointed executive director of the Quality Network of General Motors. The appointment was announced President Robert C. Stempel.

Stempel said that Rucker, who has been on special assignment as chairman of the GM Design/Engineering Process task team since October 1987, will report to Edward P. Czapor, vice president and group executive in charge of the Quality, Reliability and Service Parts Group.

"Jim Rucker's experience in improving the product development process will serve him well in meeting the Quality Network's goals of producing the highest quality, most customer-valued products," Stempel said.

Donald F. Ephlin, UAW vice president and director of the union's GM Department, said Rucker's appointment "will enhance union-management efforts to emphasize teamwork as a key element to successfully competing in the world marketplace."

Stempel and Ephlin co-chair the GM Quality Council, which oversees the activities of the Quality Network — a joint process developed by GM and the UAW focusing on continuous improvement in customer satisfaction with the corporation's products and services.

Rucker succeeds Lewis B. Campbell who recently was named vice president and manager of the Buick-Oldsmobile-Cadillac Group's Flint Automotive Division.

Rucker holds bachelor's and master's degrees in industrial engineering from Ohio State University. He began his GM career with Chevrolet Motor Division in Cleveland in 1964, and held successively a variety of positions with the GM Design Staff, Delco Remy Division, the GM Financial Staff and Oldsmobile Division.

SCHOOLCRAFT COLLEGE'S Business Development Center reported a 76 percent student enrollment increase this year on its customized training programs. Courses taken increased by 43 percent.

The Business Development Center works closely with community businesses on designing the programs. The Center has recently focused on retraining programs for displaced workers, workers affected by plant closings and reorganizations.

For additional information on Business Development Center courses and programs call 591-6400, extension 476.

THE HOLTEN COMPANIES of Wixom has been selected by Bentley Tool, Inc., to design and build the first of possibly three buildings that will more than double Bentley's current facilities in Wixom. The decision was announced by Michael R. Nutting, president of Bentley Tool, Inc., and owner of an industrial park in Wixom. Bentley Tool, Inc., manufactures tools, dies, jigs and fixtures. The new facility will serve as Bentley's headquarters.

Holten Companies, a design/build, construction management and general contracting firm, will design and construct the 17,200 square-foot, single-story office and production facility, devoting approximately 3,200 square feet to office and 14,000 square feet to production. Occupancy is planned for fall 1988.

The office building design incorporates Stran Pre-engineered Building Systems, using the high-tech DRIVIT application and plenty of glass, yielding an aesthetically pleasing contemporary facade. The two crane-way production facility will be enhanced with air conditioning to allow needed climate control and personal comfort.

Horner received the award, which is given to a member of the MSA E board of directors, for his outstanding achievement and service to the organization over many years.

Horner, who has served on MSA E's board of directors for six years, also has served MSA E as president, chairman of the convention and staff development conference, and insurance program counsel. A's counsel, Horner was responsible for developing health, disability and life insurance programs for smaller association staffs that otherwise could not have participated in group-sponsored insurance.

In conjunction with MSA E's annual convention, Gov. James J. Blanchard issued a proclamation declaring July 10-16 as Michigan Association Week in recognition of the value of professional and trade associations in the life and economy of Michigan. In addition, the state Legislature issued a joint proclamation honoring MSA E.

MSA E is the association of associations in Michigan. Each year, the number of associations and individual group membership continues to increase. MSA E membership has grown nearly 60 percent in the past four years.

SA BA YOS PASTRY SHOP has opened for business at 43063 Seven Mile in Northville's Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

Sabayons is owned and operated by brothers Tim and Brian Schwartz. All pastries are baked on-site by Tim Schwartz, who graduated from the Oakland Community College Culinary Arts program in 1981 and has worked as head pastry chef at Jacques Patisserie in Detroit for the past seven years.

The new bakery specializes in fine pastries, torts, flans and, especially, wedding cakes. Also available are muffins, croissants, Danish, coffee cakes, breads, brownies, a complete line of birthday cakes of all sizes, and five different kinds of cookies. A notable specialty is the Malsovit dietary bread which is baked fresh daily on the premises.

Sabayons has been opened since mid-July.

RUSSELL GARDNER, a Farm Bureau agent from South Lyon, was among 5,000 members of the Million Dollar Round Table (MDRT) who gathered in Atlanta, Georgia, to attend the sales association's 61st annual meeting. More than 40 countries were represented, making the MDRT the most comprehensive sales forum in the life insurance industry.

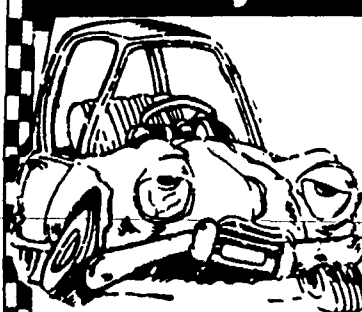

During the five-day meeting, more than 100 professional speakers discussed subjects of vital concern to those in the life insurance and financial planning fields. Experts in such areas as estate planning, taxes, business and law shared their knowledge in a series of seminars.

WILLIAM M. SPIETZ, formerly of Milford, has been promoted to senior principal engineer in the Centrifugal and Absorption Systems Business Unit of The Trane Company in La Crosse, Wis. He had been principal engineer.

Spietz, who received his Bachelor of Science degree in metallurgy from Michigan Technological University in 1970, joined Trane in 1973 as a weld engineer. He was promoted to senior engineer in 1978 and principal engineer in 1984.

A worldwide manufacturer of heating, ventilating, air conditioning and refrigeration equipment, Trane is a division of American Standard Inc.

back before graduation, especially the boys, because there is such a big change within that year," said Zimmerman, noting that most students take the advice. Some mothers and fathers, however, prefer to have it all done in one sitting for fear their child will never make it back in front of the camera.

Camera-shyness is nothing new to Zimmerman, who believes that once a person is warmed up and relaxed, the real person will shine through.

She cited an example of one young man who started out quite stiff and uncomfortable when seated in front of the lights.

"We talked and I kidded around with him. Half way through, I told him, 'Hey, you're relaxed! Now we're going to start over' and we did," she recounted.

"Most people don't feel important enough to have a portrait taken. I take the time to make them realize that they are," Zimmerman said.

And the operative word at Gracon is "time." Sittings are scheduled for no less than one-half hour each.

"We make sure the students gets plenty of time for this. It's an important picture of an important time in their lives," said Zimmerman, who added that the next event of similar importance will be their weddings, especially for the girls.

Normal business hours at Gracon Studio are Tuesday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., but they are extended due to "senior season." For more information call 887-8666.

OCCUPANCY AUGUST 1988

When can you deduct education costs?

Can you still get a tax deduction for educational expenses?

The answer depends on the type of expenses you incur. A French teacher who has just spent the summer traveling through France to home her skills may have a great photo album now, but she doesn't have tax-deductible educational expenses.

On the other hand, someone who has taken the past year off from a biology research job to pursue a full-time graduate course in biology can now return to work in the same field and trim her tax bill as well.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, taxpayers who are enrolled in educational courses related to their current work may be able to deduct their expenses — if they meet the guidelines specified by today's tax laws.

To qualify for the deduction, you must meet one of two requirements. One, you must be required by your employer or by law to take the course in order to maintain your salary, status or job. If this is the case, make sure the educational course actually serves a business purpose. Technically, the IRS can disallow a deduction if the required education qualifies you for a new trade or benefits you personally, rather than the business itself.

Two, if the studies you pursue maintain or improve skills related to your present work, the expenses are generally deductible.

Let's look at an example supplied by the IRS itself. A teacher is required to take a college course every year to keep his teaching position. If he pays for the course himself, he can deduct the costs even if he eventually receives a master's degree and an increase in salary. If the course isn't required by his employer, and he takes it to enhance his knowledge of the topic he teaches, he still gets the deduction.

So, why doesn't the French teacher's jaunt to France qualify? As of 1987, you can no longer deduct the cost of travel that in itself is a form of education — even if the travel expenses are directly related to your work or business.

A number of other educational situations may also automatically disqualify you for the deduction.

If you are enrolled in a course that will qualify you for an entirely new trade or profession, the expenses are completely non-deductible whether or not you actually intend to pursue a career in the new profession.

For example, a police officer who enrolls in law school to gain a better understanding of the legal process cannot deduct his educational expenses, regardless of his intention to not pursue a career as a lawyer.

In some professions, you may have a little more flexibility than in others. For example, all teaching and related duties are considered to be the same general type of work. A classroom teacher who wants to become a school administrator has not changed his basic type of business.

In contrast, a computer operator may not deduct the educational costs incurred in becoming a computer programmer. To find out if your educational program constitutes preparation for a change in career, consult your tax advisor.

You also are unable to deduct expenses for studies that help you meet the minimum educational requirements of your chosen profession or trade. If you are already working, you may incorrectly assume that you have met the minimum educational requirements of your trade or profession. To be sure, ask your employer or professional association to detail the minimum educational standards required for your position.

Other courses ineligible for the deduction include those taken for purely personal reasons, as well as those taken to enable you to return to work or re-enter a previous business (unless the absence from work was temporary). In addition, you may not deduct expenses for attending law school or medical school or for taking a Bar or CPA review course.

Once you are certain that your educational courses qualify for the tax deduction, keep a careful record of all related expenses. Include amounts spent on tuition, books, supplies and laboratory fees. Other tax-deductible expenses may range from correspondence courses to private tutoring. If you pay someone to type a paper for you as part of an educational program, you will generally be able to add those dollars to your tax-deductible total as well.

Also deductible are the transportation costs for traveling by bus, train, taxi or car from your present place of employment to the school in which you are enrolled. Depending on the distance between your job and the school, you will be able to deduct either one-way or round trip expenses.

If you stop at home on your way to school, you may deduct the cost of travel from your home to school — but only to the extent that it doesn't exceed the cost of going directly from work to school. The cost of traveling between your home and school on a non-working day is not deductible.

Home resales figures still on the upswing

July marked the fourth straight month in which area home resales topped last year's figures, according to a new report of Metro MLS, the state's largest multiple listing service.

"Our members sold 1,613 units during the month, including 1,481 single-family homes and 208 condominiums," reported Metro MLS President Marjory R. Pickett. "This represents a near two percent gain from the 1,584 units sold in July of 1987."

"After a first quarter that ran below last year, sales picked up in April and should continue strong. With prices continuing to trend upwards, we believe more buyers are recognizing homes as one of the better investment opportunities around today."

She reported that single-family home prices paid in July averaged $87,246 compared to $78,260 a year ago.

Condo averages went to $91,885 from $83,418.

"The median price for the month, with half selling for more and half less, was $74,000," Pickett said. "About 30 percent of our sales are under $50,000 to indicate that we can still serve first-time buyers and those with lower incomes."

This year's buyers also are finding

more properties on the market with listings through the Metro MLS in July up 4.4 percent from a year ago and about 2.3 percent year-to-date.

Communities within the 1,600 square mile Metro MLS territory with the most sales this year and the year-to-date median price are Livonia, 1,015 ($84,900); Detroit, 959 (range from $23,900 to $40,000); Farmington/Farmington Hills, 760 ($124,950); Redford Township, 687 ($49,450); Dearborn, 597 ($63,900); Westland, 574 ($56,000); Southfield, 515 ($74,500); Canton, 513 ($95,000); Dearborn Heights, 460 ($56,000); and Commerce Township, 343 ($78,000).

Zero interest 'til 1989—it's attracting a lot of interest

No interest charges until February 24, 1989. And no monthly payment until April 1989.

THE MOST REVOLUTIONARY NUMBER SINCE 1776

Placing a price tag of just $895 on a fully configured (with monitor) dual-drive Model D Personal Computer and Word Processing System from Leading Edge is truly an event of historic proportions.

Because it means that virtually everyone can now afford an easy-to-use personal computer and word processing system that runs the same software as either the IBM PC or the PS 2 Model 50.

And think about all you get. In addition to a fully configured easy-to-use IBM compatible personal computer and word processing system, you get the popular keyboard with a Click that helps reduce typing errors, the only 20 month warranty around which is backed by a nationwide network of service centers, plus comprehensive yet easy-to-understand user manuals.

If you don't keep their names alive, who will?

An invitation to place the name of a member of your family who immigrated to America in the only national museum created to honor them.

Whether your ancestors first set foot on American soil at Ellis Island, or entered through another gateway, here is a unique opportunity to show your gratitude. And to present your family with a gift that will be meaningful now and for generations to come.

When you make a $100 contribution to restore Ellis Island, the name you designate will be permanently placed on the newly created American Immigrant Wall of Honor. You can choose the name of an ancestor or just your own family name. And you'll receive an Official Certificate of Registration. To register additional names, list each name and country of origin on a separate sheet. And remember, there is a minimum gift of $100 for each.

Please send your contribution today. By acting now you assure that the Ellis Island Immigration Museum will be a place to honor your own heritage, as well as a monument to the great American traditions of freedom, hope and opportunity.

Tennis shoes are a foot's best friend. What a combination ... you and your tennies treading along, shuffling the sidewalk, hitting the pavement, kicking up dust, riding the air, shooting hoops, trampling the grass, sliding into home plate, hoofing around town.

A smile tugs at the corners of your mouth and trickles down to those happy feet encased in colorful, carefree canvas — ruby red or royal blue or passionate purple or sunshine yellow or magnificent magenta or flashy turquoise or neon orange — or maybe just simple brilliant white.

If solids don't fit the occasion, there are bright, busy prints or checkered patterns or wide stripes or even camouflage designs. Anything and everything goes. Take your pick. Canvas, leather or suede models are available in either high-tops or low-rise sneakers. Whatever feels best and, more importantly, looks best on the feet. Whether heading back to school or trucking off to gym class, tennis shoes are a fashion must for any wardrobe.

Prices range from $23.99 for casual canvas Converse tennis shoes, to $47 for leather Sperry Topsiders — the more elaborate the design, the higher the price.

Agape leader brings smiles to volunteering

By DOROTHY NASH

Ronald L. Ward, the professional business growth consultant, is also known as Ron Ward, the volunteer — the provider of free twice-a-month entertainment for each of 300 nursing homes in Wayne, Macomb, and Oakland counties.

Almost two years ago he organized a tax-exempt, charitable trust, which he calls Agape Smiles Foundation, Inc. Agape is a Greek word, he said, meaning "giving love," and that's what Ward proposes to do — give love and smiles to older people who have had no choice but to go into or be put into nursing homes.

"When I was growing up in Oklahoma," he said, "seniors had their own houses or they lived with their kids. Now with the growing number of them, we're putting them away, just as we do cars and everything else."

So, to help alleviate the loneliness of these forgotten people and to prove to them that somebody cares, Ward has attracted a wide variety of entertainers — singers, dancers, who bring a show right inside their front doors.

And it's not just nursing homes that he's interested in, he said, but wherever senior citizens can be found. For example in senior apartments and drop-in centers.

His own services as well as those of the five-member board of directors are free. Only the office manager is paid.

But providing entertainment like this, and he envisions in time doing it nation-wide, does cost money. And that money comes from personal and business contributions as well as from occasional concerts presented by the Agape Singers, the forerunner of the Foundation.

If you, as an individual or as a spokesperson for a group, would like to entertain or help sponsor Agape Smiles Foundation, Ron Ward invites you to call his office at 478-1819.

Ron Ward heads up the Agape singers

Young scientist

Beth Swayne, left, of Northville, recently participated in the Women in Engineering Program at Michigan Technological University. Swayne is pictured during a metallurgical engineering workshop being shown the process of extracting coal from an unrefined potash mixture. The metallurgical workshop featured demonstrations and discussions of the ways that engineering principles are used to meet the needs of industry. Swayne was among 220 high school women selected to attend one of the two week-long sessions held each summer on the MTU campus. She attends Northville High School where she is class president and a member of the National Honor Society. She also participates in soccer, volleyball and skiing. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Daniel Swayne of Northville.

Church schedules activities for August

Pat Hurley, well-known throughout the United States for his humorous messages to high school students, will appear at the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene on Sunday, Aug. 28.

Hurley is scheduled to speak at the 9:30 and 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. services. The church is located at 21260 Haggerty Road, across from the Novi Hilton.

Since 1970, Hurley has performed to more than one million students and parents in over 800 schools. From 1980-82, he served as resident comedian on ABC-TV's "Kids Are People,"

Too," and in 1982 he won an Emmy for hosting a Los Angeles talk show titled "Teen Scene."

Hurley currently works as a host and producer for WGN-TV in Chicago, where he specializes in family and youth programming.

Two other events are coming up at the Detroit First Church of the Nazarene in the near future.

The annual Labor Day Breakfast will be served Sunday, Sept. 4, at 9:30 a.m. Following the breakfast at 10:30 a.m. will be a service led by Evangelist Jack French.

French and his wife were missionaries in Brazil for four years and then pastored two churches in the United States. He has spoken across the United States, Canada and many other countries. His focus during the past 17 years has been to reach out to youth.

Immediately following the service will be a reception for Vernon and Carolyn Lunn. An executive vice president with the Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company, Lunn has retired and is moving with his wife to Kansas City. He has been a longtime member of the church board. Carolyn Lunn has taught the community Bible study for 10 years and Sunday school classes for many years.

Finally, a special report will be given by the teens and adults who participated in the recent Work and Witness outreach to Hawaii on Sunday, Sept. 11, at 6 p.m. Vacation Bible schools, special activities, work crews for the missionary's home and very special sharing were some of the happenings during the two-week program.

Single Place plans money management class

Single Place, a group from the First Presbyterian Church of Northville organized with the purpose of providing friendship, caring and sharing for all single adults, is sponsoring a presentation on "Singles and Money" Aug. 28.

The program will inform participants on how to start having their dollars working as hard as they do. You do not need thousands of dollars to start an investment plan. This workshop will also cover concerns about saving, banking, mortgages and/or renting.

Single Place will welcome John S. Davidson who is president of U.S.A. Financial in Troy. Davidson is an attorney and speaker to many groups including singles, and his company does a lot of community education programs on financial planning throughout the metro-Detroit area.

A donation of $2 is requested. A afterward there will be an ice cream social as members celebrate the end of August.

Livonia Public Library - Carl Sandburg Branch
30100 W. Seven Mile, Livonia
On Monday, August 29
10 A.M. to Noon or 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.
Please Forward Any Inquiries to P.O. Box 188 Northville, MI 48167

Rocking

Brent Williams, son of William and Betty Williams of Northville, is pictured studying various rock formations during a geology exploration, a feature of Michigan Technological University's Summer Youth Program. He was among 900 junior and senior high school students attending the 16th annual Summer Youth Program held at Michigan Tech from July 11-Aug. 6. Each student had the opportunity to participate in one of the 47 week-long explorations. Williams attends Northville High School where he is manager of the basketball team. Also participating in the Summer Youth Program was his sister, Tanya Williams. She attends Meads Mill Middle School where she is a member of the school newspaper staff and participates in forensics.

Birth class to begin

The Plymouth Childbirth Education Association is offering a seven week childbirth series beginning Aug. 30 at 7:30 p.m. at First United Methodist Church on Eight Mile and Taft roads in Northville.

An Orientation Class will begin on Monday, Aug. 15, at 7:30 p.m. at Newburgh Methodist Church, 36500 Ann Arbor Trail, in Livonia.

This is an introduction to birth techniques and features a birth film, "Saturday's Children." There is a $1 per person charge at the door. For more information call 459-7477. You do not need to register ahead of time.

School Notebook

Local students honored by schools

CARA LEE BROTT, daughter of Thomas and Sharon Schwarze of Northville, has completed with distinction her sophomore year at the Orme School, a college preparatory co-ed boarding school located 70 miles north of Phoenix, Ariz.

Cara was recognized for her academics for achieving honors or high honors all year. She was active in cheerleading, stage choir, soccer and horsemanship.

A Northville student was among the more than 200 dancers at the July

6-18 Cecchetti Ballet Conference at Michigan State University

Meg Cieszynski of Northville, joined young dancers ages 12 and up from throughout the U.S. in daily classes with prominent international faculty. The event concluded with a public performance in MSU's Wharton Center for the Performing Arts. Instructors included Paul Sutherland, ballet master of the New Jersey Ballet Company, Francoise Martinet, former New York City Opera ballerina and current chair of the University of Iowa Dance department, Diane Van Schoor of South Africa, a Cecchetti Method examiner; Peter Pawlyshyn, Iowa Ballet of Des Moines; and Peggy Benson, associate director of Jazz Dance Theatre, Ann Arbor.

More than 200 students were named to the Kalamazoo College Dean's List for the last academic quarter. To achieve the honor, students must earn a 3.5 grade point average, or above, on a scale of 4.0.

CHRISTOPHER D. SIROSKY, a freshman, son of Ms. Mary E. Newton of Silken Glen in Northville and Mr. Dennis S. Sirosky of Broquet in Northville; KAREN L. WEAVER, a junior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Weaver of Bedford Drive in Northville, were both named to the Dean's List.

PAUL JOHN BARROW of Westview Drive in Northville, received his master of music degree from Bowling Green State University on Saturday, Aug. 13.

Summer science

Sandra Loftus, daughter of James and Linda Loftus of Northville, is pictured participating in a chemistry laboratory workshop during the Summer Institute for the Arts and Sciences at Michigan Technological University. The program at MTU is one of five similar programs being sponsored by the Michigan State Board of Education in which 1,200 high school students will participate this summer. The Summer Institute gives 10th and 11th grade students a unique opportunity to explore the hard sciences of physics and chemistry or to develop skills in creative writing, technical writing, graphic arts, dance and music. Loftus attends Northville High School where she is captain of the varsity swim team and a member of the National Honor Society, Students Against Drunk Driving and the Science Olympiad.

Welcome Tea set for local preschool

The Northville Cooperative Preschool will kick off the 1988-89 school year with its annual "Welcome Tea" on Tuesday, Aug. 23 at 1 p.m. at the First United Methodist Church in Northville. The church is located at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft roads.

Board members will be present during the tea to greet and orient new members and to help returning members get reacquainted.

Board members for the 1988-89 school year are: Susan Mihalik — President, Val Corbin — First Vice President; Marilyn Kowalkowski — Second Vice President; Wendi Gossett — Secretary; Joan Wadsworth — Treasurer; Jane Gardner — Assistant Treasurer; Kathy Pellicke — Membership; Carol Strauch — GDCNC Representative; Mindy Risher — "Kid Bits" Editor; and Nan Piekarski — Publicity.

Two openings remain in the Fours/Early Fives Class and one opening is available in the Toddlers Class. Contact Kathy Pellicke at 348-1691 for more information.

Pom Pon squads return with awards

The Northville Pom Pon squad recently returned from the Mid-American Camp held at Saginaw Valley College. The squad received the following awards:

- Took First Place with their performance in the original routine competition
- The NHS Pom Pon squad was awarded for being the "peppiest squad"
- The NHS squad was awarded the "Staff Award" for being the easiest and most enjoyable squad to work with.

The squad also received two second places and one first place in the nightly speed learning competitions.

The squad also received a second place award for their performance in a variety of kicklines.

Four squad members decided to try out for the American All-Star team, each one of whom made the team.

The Northville High School Pom Pon squad is looking for continued support from the community. The squad is planning a car wash and garage sale for later in the summer.

Golf fashion moves forward

By LISA VAN CAMP

Golf, it's more than a game, it's a fashion statement. Almost since the beginning of the game golfers have suffered numerous insults aimed at their clothing, but don't they deserve it? Anyone who wears plaid knickers, pink and green shorts, or shirts decorated with ducks has got to expect at least a few comments, right?

The manufacturing and designing of golf clothes has, however become a lucrative industry governed by its own unique fashion trends. Golf clothing has moved out of the pro-shop and into specialty stores which sell only golf equipment and accessories. These stores offer a wider selection than most golf course pro-shops at sometimes cheaper prices. Although the Caddy Shack golf shop in Hunters Square in Farmington carries a full line of clubs, balls, tees, umbrellas, bags, and offers regripping services, according to store employee Adam Springel, the store sells mostly clothing.

This year, Springel said, knickers are definitely out. Women are turning to non-traditional solid colors like navy blue and black instead of the more feminine light purples and pinks.

"Men are still wearing the pastel colors," Springel said.

The most popular brand names are still the traditional golf wear manufacturers. Jack Nicklaus shirts sell very well with men, and what

"Most golfers are well-dressed...whether it is a sweater and slacks, or shorts and a shirt."

— Nancy Purdo — Bay Pointe Golf Club.

golfer would be complete without at least one Izod alligator?

"Head clothes sell well with both men and ladies," Springel said.

The similarities, however end there. Women, Springel said, make more of an attempt to coordinate their golf outfits but men buy single pieces of clothing. The majority of the Caddy Shack's customers are women, especially on Father's Day, one of the busiest days in their peak season.

"Most of the men's clothes are bought by women," Kathy Austim, an employee of the Caddy Shack said.

The most important factor any golfer considers before buying clothing is weather. This summer's hot dry weather requires light materials which "breathe" such as cotton and light colors, like white, which don't attract the heat. Golf clothes must also be made of durable materials since they must endure harsh weather conditions.

The dry summer has only slightly affected fashions on the fairways — rainwear is almost non-existent.

"People still buy umbrellas though," Springel said.

Many golfers must also consider golf course dress codes when choosing their clothing. While most public golf courses have no dress codes, private golf clubs do not allow blue jeans, halter-tops, tank-tops, bathing suits, cut-offs, and shoes must be worn. These codes are presented to club members in the course rules and regulations, and are made available for guests.

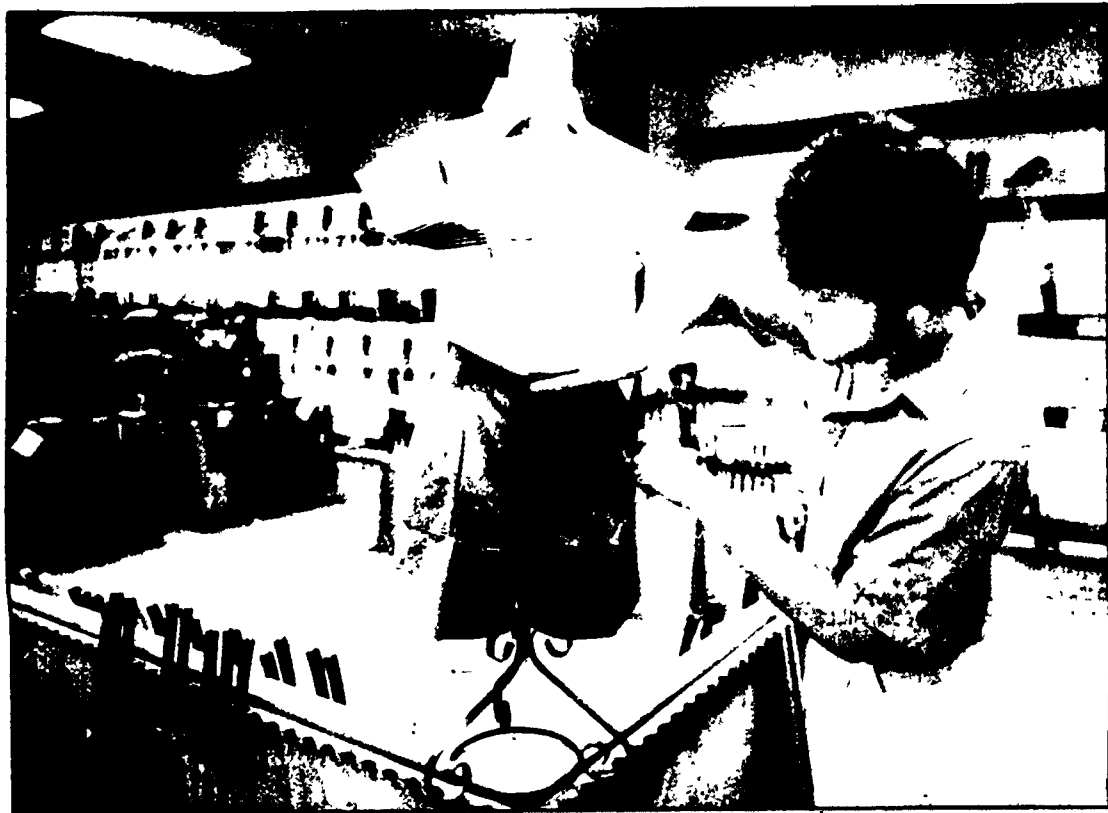

"Most golfers are well-dressed...whether it is a sweater and slacks, or shorts and a shirt," Nancy Purdo, an employee of Bay Pointe Golf Club said.

The Caddy Shack golf shop is open from 10 a.m.-9 p.m., Monday through Saturday and from 12-5 p.m. on Sunday.

Friend's tickets on sale

The Friends of the Northville Library will be holding their fifth annual benefit dinner at Genitt's on Monday, Sept. 26. Guest speaker will be Douglas Fraser, retired president of the United Auto Workers and a Northville resident.

Fraser retired from the UAW in 1983 and has been a visiting professor at the University of Michigan, lecturer at Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government, and Politics and a professor of labor studies at Wayne State University.

Tickets may be purchased by members of the Friends starting last Monday, at the library. No more than four of the $20 tickets will be available per membership. Tickets will go on sale to the general public on Monday, Aug. 29. A waiting list for hopefuls is also available at the library.

The benefit will feature the well-known Genitt's seven-course dinner. Dinner will begin at 7 p.m. with a cash bar at 6:30 p.m.

The Friends realized a net of $700 from the Used Book Sale held during the city's Sidewalk Sale. Barbara Kimery was chairperson of the sale and the money will be put toward the purchase of a major gift for the library for the centennial celebration in 1989.

The Used Book Sale featured iced orange drink courtesy of M. Care, the University of Michigan Hospital health care facility on Griswold. The service was arranged through Friends member Peg Campbell.

Friends members who helped with the sale were: Mary MacGillivray, Ann Gardner, Gloria Collins, Mary Ellen Edison, Fae Taylor, Anita Hallam, Betty Griffin, Elayne Elliott, Kathy Hunt, Jane Owen, Ann Thompson, Geraldine Mills, Fred Kerr, Loretta Lang, Judy Lang, Joe Lang, Chuck Sweeney, Jane Missel, Bob Russell, Lois Winters, Vernice Lyons and Ann Cox.

The Friends gift program has realized 43 donors and $1,023 in just under a year of existence, according to Gift Program chairperson, Gretchen Tuohy.

The Gift Book Program is a vehicle to memorialize a loved one or honor someone on the occasion of a birthday, anniversary, Christmas, graduation, or other event, by a contribution to the Friends. Donors of $20 or more, the average cost of a book today, may specify an area of interest for the book they wish to contribute. A bookplate will be placed in the book indicating the name of the honored person and the name of the donor.

Books have been contributed on opera, mountain crafts, Irish history, antiques, computers, alcoholism, cats, etc.

To make a contribution to the Gift Book Program, pick up a remittance envelope in the library from the table to the right of the entrance.

As a gift to the Northville Library in commemoration of the sesquicentennial anniversary of the state of Michigan, the Friends donated $500 to be used in ways that would enhance the library's material on local history.

In addition to books, and other materials, library director Pat Orr has contracted to have all issues of the Northville Record for 1987 and half of 1988 microfilmed for use by researchers, historians, genealogists and others simply wishing to refer to back issues.

The Friends Welcome Baby program has been a big success according to Carole Jean Stockhausen, coordinator of the project. The Friends have given 47 new babies and their parents from the Northville area a Welcome Baby packet. All parents have responded in a very positive way.

Upon notification of a new baby in the community, a packet is sent that includes a letter of welcome to the library from the Friends. A baby's first book is included, along with a bibliography of books in the Northville library helpful to parents. M. Care provides a letter outlining what a baby is expected to do during its first year. A miniature library card for the baby is also included, along with a book of finger plays and songs entitled "Catch 'Em in the Cradle."

In Service

JONATHAN S. HOWARD son of Patricia S. Howard of Ely, in Northville, and Roy W. Howard of St. Clair Shores, has entered the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Technical Sergeant Michael Gasparetto, Air Force Force recruiter, Howard's entry into the DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job or skill area.

Howard is a 1988 graduate of Northville High School and will enter the Regular Air Force on Nov. 1.

Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training as a medical laboratory specialist and be assigned to an Air Force duty.

NAVY Lt. J.G. DAVID RIVARD whose wife, Diane, is the daughter of Frank and Sue Kulha of Old Bedford in Northville, recently received the Navy Achievement Medal.

He received the decoration for his superior performance of duty while stationed with Helicopter Combat Support Squadron-11, Naval Air Station North Island, San Diego.

PRICE GUIDE

Those cards in the attic could be worth money to a collector

Baseball card collecting is booming

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A recent feature in Sports Illustrated on baseball card collecting spotlighted the tremendous popularity this hobby/business is currently enjoying.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars and baseball cards change hands every year in this, the newest fad to hit the collecting world.

If your mother didn't throw out the cardboard box you kept your cards in as a kid, dig them out because chances are you now have a mini-goldmine. Card-collecting magazines, sports memorabilia shows and clubs have been popping up like weeds as a place for collectors to buy, sell and trade.

The Maple North Baseball Card Club was started by C. Timothy Bartlett of Wixom in the spring of this year and now there are a dozen regular members. He is planning to print a newsletter, he holds group meetings at least three times a week for trading and helps organize trips to baseball card shows in the metro-Detroit area.

"There is no admission fee or anything," he said. "We usually do our trading on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays and we make it a rule that no money can change hands at these trading sessions."

"There is nothing wrong with using baseball cards as an investment but I don't like people in it who are only there to jack-up the prices artificially. That just makes it harder for everybody in the hobby."

According to Bartlett, there is no substitute for research and knowledge of baseball when it comes to building a collection. The hottest selling cards of the 1980s are rookie cards of players who go on to become stars. Mark McGwire, Mike Greenwald, Jose Canseco are just a few who's cards have gone out of site. A 1987 McGwire Topps, for example, is selling for $3.50 while most of the others in that set go for anywhere from $.03 to $.08 apiece. Of course, the older cards are normally even more valuable. For example, a 1952 Mickey Mantle in mint condition has a value of $6,000.

"I have access to information about young players who I think will be big in the future, so I go after them," Bartlett said. "My advice to somebody getting into the hobby is to get to know about it before you invest in it. You should try to get to know people already into it and learn from them. A lot of things can be done in this hobby and it doesn't take a whole lot of money I've never made any significant money from baseball cards but I have always come out about even."

Books like the 'Baseball Card Price Guide' by Dr. James Beckett is a handy reference source for collectors. It gives current prices for individual cards and for sets. It's important to know what the cards are worth because, unfortunately, there are unscrupulous dealers around.

"The people that ruin the hobby are the big dealers who are only interested in the money," Bartlett said. "We'd like to bring it back to a hobby status again, where there is sentimental value as well as monetary value. Right now, baseball cards are a hot pursuit among investors and there is money to be made, but you don't have to rip off people to get it."

The big question about baseball card collecting is "why?" Why has it become so popular?

"People want to remember their childhood," Bartlett explained. "It's baby boomers who are now in their 30s and have the money and want to buy memorabilia from when they grew up. Baseball cards are the perfect thing for them. There is danger in this who's thing, though. We could all end up with a lot of cardboard that's worthless if we have a depression again because you have to have the demand."

Local stores like 'The Old Ball Park' in Novi (phone 349-4466) and Livonia (261-4810), and Hamond's Sports Collectibles in Farmington Hills (phone 551-2000) have wide selections of baseball cards for sale and for trade. You can find a great number of literature available on the subject, from yearly price guides to weekly magazines at local bookstores. For more information on the Maple North Baseball Card Club, call 624-3093.

Contemporary art comes to historic hall

The art of the present combines with the tradition of the past at Meadow Brook Hall this weekend for the Art at Meadow Brook fair.

The works of 104 contemporary artists from eight states will be displayed for show and sale Saturday and Sunday in the courtyard and gardens of Meadow Brook Hall, on the campus of Oakland University in Rochester.

The hall, former home of Mathilda Dodge Wilson, includes the finest designs, fixtures and furnishings. The art in the show, selected by the hall's creative council, is designed to provide a contemporary counterpoint to the tradition of the home.

Admission and parking are free both days of the exhibit. Meadow Brook Hall will be open for tours, with an admission charge. Refreshments will be available.

Hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call 370-3140.

BLUEGRASS FESTIVAL - The country's top bluegrass acts plus some up-and-coming talent will gather this weekend for the eighth annual Bluegrass Festival at the Monroe County KOA camping resort at US-23 and Summerfield Road.

The lineup includes Jim and Jesse and the Virginia Boys, the Osborne Brothers, Jimmy Martin and the Sunny Mountain Boys, the Lewis Family, and many others.

ly, and many others.

The festival runs Thursday through Saturday. Three-day tickets are $20 in advance or $25 at the gate and include free camping and electricity. Single-day tickets are $13, children under 10 with parents are free. Tickets are available at Ticketmaster outlets.

For more information call E & W Productions at (419) 726-5089 or the campground at 856-4972.

BRITISH SPORTS CARS - The British Sports Car Council Friendly Concours takes place at Flint's Crossroads Village from 11:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 21.

About 100 classics will be displayed throughout the village. Makes will include Rolls Royce, Bentley, Morgan, MG, Jaguar, Triumph, Austin Healey, and Lotus.

Free magic shows, craft demonstrations and the Huckleberry Railroad are added attractions during the afternoon. Tickets are $5.95 for adults, $4.95 for seniors, and $3.95 for children 4-12. The village is just north of Flint off I-475. For more information call 736-7100.

"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER" - The Henry Ford Museum Theater presents this classic 1939 comedy Fridays and Saturdays through Sept. 10. A Sunday matinee is scheduled Aug. 28 at 4:30 p.m. For more information call 241-1620.

STUDENT ART - The Madonna College Exhibit Gallery presents "Student Prints Past and Present," a display of the college's print collection and donated student work.

Admission is free and open to the public. The exhibit runs through Aug. 13. Hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The college is located at I-96 and Levan Road in Livonia. For more information call 591-5187.

POSTER ART - Over Here American Poster Art in the Great War 1917-1919 featuring 66 posters used to mobilize the will of the nation during World War I, runs at the Detroit Historical Museum through September.

The museum is located at 401 Woodward Avenue and is open Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

To have an event listed in Nearby, write to Nearby, Northville Record, 101 W. Main Street, Northville, Mich. 48161. Photos or other artwork are welcome.

Farmington center hosts Broadway tribute

The Farmington Community Center will close its Summer Festival of Music at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 21, with "A Salute to Broadway" starring Sheri Nichols and Barbara Bredius.

Tickets are $10 and can be purchased at the center until show time.

Nichols is known to Detroit area performers for her one-woman show, "Le Miracle de Piaf." Her partner in this show is Barbara Bredius, who is known for a one-woman show of her own, "BarbraSong," and many productions with Phil Marcus Esser.

For the Farmington show, Nichols and Bredius plan to sing a wide-ranging program including Irving Berlin's "Go to the Devil."

Stephen Sondheim's "Broadway Baby," and a medley of comic impersonations of famous Broadway singers.

The concert will be at the center's amphitheater in back of the Landmark Center, 405 Farmington Road. Tickets are welcome. Show doors open at 6 p.m.

For more information on the show call 477-8464.

Holzer Ford nabs NABF World Series title

Record/Thom Dougherty

Holzer third baseman Scott Peterson fires to first in action earlier this season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville's Tom Holzer Ford culminated an incredible stretch run that included 24 wins in 30 games and took first place honors at the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) College World Series last weekend in Youngstown, Ohio.

The tournament featured four of the best college-level teams in the nation. Ironically, Northville has served as the host city for the NABF Sophomore and Junior World Series tournaments for several years now, so it's no stranger to the NABF organization.

"It was terrific," said Holzer manager Bob Peterson. "We've had an entry in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) for four years now and I thought it was a nice culmination. We have a lot of 20 year olds on the team who have been with us for several years. They have been the nucleus of the team and I thought it was a fitting way for them to go out — with a national title. All the hard work paid off."

Holzer went 3-1 in the double-elimination tourney, including a convincing 5-0 triumph over the Clark Griffith Rebels of Falls Church, Va. in the finals to win the crown. The action at Youngstown's Pemberton Park began on Aug. 11 and ended two days later.

Holzer entered the championship game on Aug. 14 after having lost a heartbreaking 11-10 decision to the Rebels the day before. Both teams had one loss making Sunday's contest a do-or-die proposition, but Holzer entered the game with confidence according to Peterson.

"We bounced back very quick after the devastating loss on Saturday," he said. "Our entire team was at the ballpark before any of our opponents showed up and I knew our guys were ready. It felt good."

Holzer jumped ahead with single runs in the second and third innings and then added another for starting pitcher Brett Loomis in the fifth. Loomis talked Peterson into using him despite a one-day rest, and the 1986 Northville High School graduate was nothing short of brilliant. Loomis hurled a three-hit shutout through six and two-thirds innings of work and then departed with a sore arm. He fanned seven and walked three.

"I was overwhelmed with Brett's performance," Peterson said. "He wanted to pitch in the championship game after only one day of rest but I let him because he's such a gamer. It was just a marvelous performance."

Steve Hirshman, a 16-year-old from Howell, came on to relieve Loomis and secured the shutout by scattering two hits the rest of the way. Holzer added two more insurance runs in the top of the ninth on two hits and two wild pitches to supply the final margin of victory. Rebel pitcher Todd Fiegel from the University of Virginia fanned 11 Holzer batters, but suffered the loss.

TOM HOLZER FORD 4, CLARK GRIFFITH REBELS 3: Holzer opened the tournament with a tense, one-run victory over the Rebels on Aug. 11. Pitcher Tom Cotter allowed one hit and struck out seven in four innings of relief work to gain the victory.

Loomis started the game but was tagged for back-to-back home runs in the second inning. Keith Dutkiewicz drove in a run in the third to narrow the gap to 2-1 but Loomis couldn't find the plate in the fifth, and gave up another run on four walks.

But Holzer came back to knot the score at 3-3 with two runs in the sixth. Dutkiewicz and Kevin Ritter led off the inning with singles then scored on Paul Newitt's two-out hit.

It remained 3-3 until the ninth. With two out, Steve Rudelic singled, went to second on a passed ball and then scored the game-winner when the Rebel pitcher threw wild to first on a bunt attempt by Hirshman.

Dutkiewicz (3-for-4), Rudelic (2-for-4) and Ritter (2-for-4) were the hitting stars for Holzer.

TOM HOLZER FORD 10, KETTERING YANKEES 5: Holzer made it two in a row with a routine victory over the Yankees from the Dayton, Ohio area on Aug. 12.

Holzer rallied for five runs in the first inning, added two more by the fourth inning and then coasted from there with a 7-3 lead in tow. Starting pitcher Chris Kloc went the first five innings, scattered nine hits, had six strike outs and walked zero. Hirshman relieved him and gave up just one earned run in the final four innings.

Monroe native Dan Hilliard paced the Holzer hitting attack with four hits in five plate appearances and two runs batted in. Dutkiewicz continued his hitting spree with three hits (including a home run) and two RBIs while Rudelic (2-for-3) and Newitt (2-for-5) also contributed.

CLARK GRIFFITH REBELS 11, TOM HOLZER FORD 10: Holzer blew a 10-6 eighth-inning lead and lost their first and only game of the NABF tournament on Aug. 13.

The Rebels scored three runs in the first and three more in the second to take a 6-1 lead but Holzer came back with nine runs over the next five innings.

Mike Salach started the game but was chased after just two innings and six earned runs. Hilliard took over in the third and pitched shutout ball through the seventh but Tom Cotter was rocked for five runs when he came in for the eighth, including a three-run homer.

AWARDS: As expected, Holzer dominated the All-Tournament team with five team members represented. Loomis, Dutkiewicz, Rudelic, Ritter and Hilliard were all named to the team. Northville natives Loomis and Dutkiewicz shared the Most Valuable Player Award — Loomis garnering Most Valuable Pitcher accolades and Dutkiewicz the Most Valuable Batter award. Dutkiewicz went 9-for-17 in the tourney for a .529 average.

The NABF College World Series trophy was presented to Peterson by Tournament Advisor Louis Tiberi. The trophy will be on display at the Tom Holzer Ford dealership in Farmington Hills.

LOOMIS CONTINUES: Holzer pitcher Brett Loomis was picked up by LCBL rival Little Caesars for the All-American Amateur Baseball Association Tournament that gets underway this weekend in Johnstown, Pa.

Collins directs NHS equestrian squad

By LISA VAN CAMP

Everybody knows Northville High School has a football team, a baseball team, a basketball team, a track team and a tennis team. What most people don't know is that included in this long list of teams is a group of people who wouldn't normally be considered athletes and don't even practice on the school grounds — the Northville Equestrian Team.

The team is under the direction of a new coach, Kristi Collins. Collins has been riding horses for 10 years and was a member of the team at Northville High School for two years. She has a sister who is also a team veteran and her mother, Judy Trexler, is helping her coach the team. Collins volunteered for the job as a way to help the community.

"I just thought it would be a nice way to help out the school," she said.

Since this group of saddle happy competitors is rated a Class B, the team cannot include more than 10 members. There are currently six members on the team, five of whom are returning.

The team competes against riders from many area schools including South Lyon, Hartland and Brighton. They are involved in three meets, held on consecutive weeks in the fall. Collins' ultimate goal is to be able to travel to the state meet held at the Ingham County Fair Grounds in Mason, Mich. Although she has high hopes for the team's future, Collins realizes there is room for improvement.

"I think this will be a rebuilding year for the team," she said.

As the coach, Collins' duties will be largely as a coordinator of team activities. She will set up practices which concur with each member's schedule, attend interscholastic sports meetings and organize clinics to teach members more about their horses. Since the team does not have a set practice location, she must also travel to the team member's barns about twice a week for individual practices.

"At competitions I'll just make sure everyone is where they're supposed to be and not running around somewhere," she said.

While at their meets, the team members may compete in three categories — showmanship, equitation and horsemanship. Showmanship includes only English riders and evaluates just the rider, not the horse. Only Western riders may compete in the equitation category which is the same as showmanship. Horsemanship includes several technical drills like contesting, barrel and flag racing, and down and back.

Most team members, according to Collins, have been riding horses for six or seven years while a few are two or three year horseback veterans. The most important prerequisite for joining the team is a basic knowledge of riding skills. Surprisingly, it is not required that a member own a horse suitable for competition. According to Collins, some team members rent or borrow horses for the season. "Really anybody can join," she said.

Although the team only competes in the fall, they must sponsor fundraisers throughout the year because they do not receive financial support from the school.

"We've had a raffle, a flower sale, a donut sale and a lot more," parent sponsor Sandy North said.

MHSAA boss answers questions

Perhaps John E. "Jack" Roberts who is just completing his second year with the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA), has taken a page from Teddy Roosevelt.

During his brief stint with the MHSAA, the executive director has walked softly, but carried a big stick.

The 39-year-old Roberts, who succeeded Vern Norris, has initiated several subtle changes during his tenure with his primary focus being to create a positive image for all high school athletes, coaches, fans and administrators.

Roberts, unlike his predecessor, is not hiding up in his East Lansing offices. He is taking his agenda to its member schools and the press, which often scrutinizes MHSAA policies. He has held open forums and made himself accessible throughout the state.

With another school year just around the corner, Roberts met with reporters last month to discuss his agenda for the future.

Roberts, a former administrator with the National High School Athletic Federation, hopes to address two issues along with the 19-member Representative Council during the 1988-89 school year. First, cheerleading and secondly, establishing guidelines for out-of-season sports (primarily summer basketball).

On cheerleading, Roberts says "There are many principals and athletic directors who wish the MHSAA would govern cheerleading. There are also those who wish us to govern, but don't want us to sponsor state-level competition... and that's the rub. Some of our members want us to sponsor competition because it would eliminate schools involved in so-called 'World and National' championship competition. I can accept with enthusiasm our role in sponsoring cheerleading but only with competition."

Roberts also wanted to clear up a misconception that he is initiating a drive to eliminate summer basketball. The Representative Council rejected proposals that would put a limit on such activities.

On out-of-season basketball, Roberts says, "Some thought it came from the top, but all we did was get everybody's idea. We wanted to get a consensus from our members on what they thought.

"What we can't do is let discussion and debate on this paralyze us so that we make no progress in other areas."

students, players and coaches. We gave them a warning.

"And this year we had a clear presence of administrators. Two years ago the sportsmanship on the ice and in the stands was atrocious, but this year the behavior was very good. We had no problems, and if we did, somebody was right on it before anything got started."

"On the press's role of reporting bad sportsmanship, Roberts adds: 'If we have a campaign, it's our job to stress things from a positive standpoint. We don't want to point out the negative standards.'

"But I don't think it's the press's role to be in a campaign. Hopefully they'll show some balance."

"One year we had a coach who came back (to the state finals) to a chorus of boos because of the way he behaved previously. I looked at that as, 'You reap what you sow.' We have to ask ourselves, did the people create their own circumstance?"

Roberts also gave his views on several other topics:

"On tournament sponsorship and sites: 'There's an effort to develop tournament cities, but it takes a two or three-year commitment. Some sports are hard to promote, unless we make something of an event out of it.

"On tournament sponsorship and sites: 'There's an effort to develop tournament cities, but it takes a two or three-year commitment. Some sports are hard to promote, unless we make something of an event out of it.

We hope some communities will call them their own. Right now volleyball is looking for a home. And maybe someday cross country can call a place their own."

"On the new state wrestling tournament format (team dual and individual tournaments): 'I don't think the wrestlers ever had more attention or were treated better than they were this year. Next May, after two years, we're committed to a thorough evaluation. Philosophically I support the dual team concept. My major concern was that regional attendance fell off for the individual tournament. It also concerns me that some coaches held out their outstanding wrestlers in the team duals. It sends a message that the team is not as important as two or three individuals. But I suspect the dual meet format will endure."

"On officiating, Roberts has appointed Bill Bupp to oversee this area: 'As a result of this appointment, we'll see more activity by our association with the local associations. We need the assistance of the local official's associations. We're developing a program so that everybody has the same curriculum and recruiting methods."

"The number of officials increased six percent, which is bucking all national trends. The only sport on the decline is gymnastics. That's a danger area because it's a very technical sport to judge. The lack of soccer and ice hockey officials is also a problem because of how fast it has grown.

"On classifications, the MHSAA has given schools the option of moving up a class. They also instituted 'cooperative programs' in which neighboring Class D schools can join forces and sponsor one sport, as long as the enrollment stays within the maximum 281 students.

"That gives us one bit of flexibility not built into the system before," Roberts said. "The cooperative programs in Class D has given life to some schools that have not been there before. The leagues, of course, must approve a cooperative program."

"Overall I'm very happy with the four classes (A, B, C and D). With approximately 175 in each class, it provides a challenge to be a champion. Some states have smaller representation and that cheapens the challenge."

And what about separate state tournaments for public and private schools? Roberts does not see that happening. He points to a proposal by the Atlanta Community Schools which wanted to reclassify private schools. The proposal was rejected by the MHSAA's representative council.

"Now we have a standing committee of people who come from both persuasions," Roberts explained. "It's good that we have this kind of vigorous discussion."

If anything, Roberts has brought vigorous discussion to its membership. The MHSAA, which won a test case last year in Federal Court on the question of eligibility and transfers, apparently won't be bogged down with litigation.

Northville's Andy Frey is undefeated so far this season in waterski jumping

Unbeaten Frey qualifies for AWA National Tournament

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

When you think of athletic scholarships, football and basketball come to mind first. Of course there are others like tennis, baseball, swimming . . . and water skiing.

Waterskiing? Yes, if your Andy Frey. The 16-year old senior-to-be this fall at Northville High School is such an accomplished skier, he is currently being recruited by a host of southern schools that have nationally prominent waterski programs.

So far this season, Frey has attended nearly a dozen American Waterski Association (AWA) sanctioned tournaments and he remains undefeated in the jumping events for boys age 13-to-17. Frey is also among the top performers in the slalom among his peers.

The highlight of the season came on Aug. 5-7 at the AWA Midwest Regionals in Duquoin, Ill. The event featured several dozens of the top waterskiers in a 12-state region, and Frey took first place honors in the jumping event with a 118-foot effort. He was seeded first in the competition and had to top 24 others. In the slalom, Frey ended up placing third overall, out of 27 participants.

"I've been skiing competitively since I was nine years old and I never get tired of it," Frey said

"Sometimes I get frustrated and I have to take a little time off, but I always go back because I love it."

By placing in the top three in both events, Frey automatically qualified for the AWA National Tournament, slated to get underway this weekend in West Palm Beach, Fla. He warmed up for the nationals by taking first place honors in jumping at the Tivoli Gardens Tournament last weekend in Brighton. Frey's jump of 127-feet set a personal best mark.

"Andy is real strong in jumping," his father/coach Larry Frey said. "His 127-foot jump would have taken sixth place in the nationals last year."

Frey will have to be at his best at West Palm Beach because at this level, there is virtually no room for mistakes. Each competitor has just one round to perform his best — unlike other tournaments that have two rounds. Many of his warm-weather competitors, who ski year-round, have routinely topped the 130-foot mark.

"When you go out at the nationals, one error and your done," Larry Frey explained. "A lot will depend on how well Andy does on that one day. In the jumps, you really need to combine a real hard cut to the jump for acceleration, and you need to get good lift. Andy's really been putting these two together very well lately — when he gets to the ramps, he's going about 55-60 miles per hour and the boat is only allowed to go 30."

It will be Frey's fifth appearance in the AWA Nationals and each time, the family videotapes the events and he uses them as a learning tool.

"I'm confident I can place well in jumps," Andy said. "If I'm having a real good day I should do well in the slalom too. I'm hoping to beat my personal best jump of 127."

Frey will also have an opportunity to impress several college coaches while in Florida. The ultimate goal is a scholarship of some sort, but a lot of that depends on how well he performs.

"Andy is definitely planning on skiing in college and he's working on getting a scholarship," Larry said. "He's had about five or six from down south that have already shown some interest."

According to Frey, the schools at the top of the list include Northeast Louisiana, Florida State, Rollins College, the University of Central Florida and Florida Southern. All have nationally respected skiing programs.

"There are mostly just partial scholarships available — there's very few full rides," Andy pointed out. "I'll take anything I can get. I've always wanted to live down in Florida because I can't stand the cold weather."

A 'special' story

By Neil Geoghegan

Novi. When you think of the city, you think of the malls — Twelve Oaks, West Oaks and the Town Center. It's the city where Madonna's dress was taken, but it's also the city that was the namesake for one of the most dominating racing engines of its time.

A lot of people in Novi don't know the story behind the Novi Special. Many think it was a car, but it was actually a power plant — a classically designed V-8 racing engine with cylinder banks of 90 degrees. For those really interested in the engine (and the race cars it powered) that is so much a part of local history, check out the September 1988 issue of Road & Track magazine.

A feature on the Novi Special is included. The headline calls the Novi Special "The Greatest Car That Never Won." Racers equipped with the Novi Special engine raced at the Indianapolis 500 about 15 times and had unprecedented success in qualifying, but never won a race. By the end of its tenure there was talk of the Novi jinx.

Brothers Ed and Bud Winfield decided in 1938 to build a front drive Indy racer and went to Leo Goossen to design the engine. The results were a V-8 with 30 more horse power than the Offenhauser engine that was so popular at the time. But money problems slowed down the Winfields because the engine proved too costly to develop.

Enter Lew Welch of Novi, a successful car owner at Indy for years. Welch was approached by the Winfields to help finance the project and he agreed . . . with one strange stipulation — that the engine be named after his hometown.

The first race car powered by the Novi Special hurtled around the brickyard in 1941, and the results were promising as Ralph Hepburn piloted the car to a fourth-place finish. World War II halted the festivities for the Novi Special until it again appeared in the 1946 race, this time with several modifications including a huge 85-gallon fuel tank to help offset its horrendous fuel consumption (three miles to the gallon).

The car was called the Novi Governor Special in 1946. And in practice, it set a new Indy lap record of 133.944 mph. In the race, Hepburn ran away from the competition and built a lead of a mile-and-a-half before developing brake troubles which eventually forced him to retire from the race. Two Novis ran in 1947, but the best either one managed was a fourth-place finish.

During qualifying for the 1948 Indy, Hepburn was tragically killed when he lost control of the car in the northeast turn, and talk of the Novi jinx surfaced. In 1949, the Novi Special grabbed the pole position, but a snapped rear axle ended its run. Driver Duke Nalon also grabbed the 1951 pole at Indy with a run of over 136 mph, but an ignition problem forced the car to retire on lap 151.

It was the same story in 1952. The following year, driver Chet Miller was flirting with the illusive 140-mph barrier in qualifying when he lost control in the southwest turn, hit the barrier head first and died of a broken neck. By this time, rear-drive racers were the wave of the future, and the Novi Special faded away for several years.

It made several encores in the late 50s and early 60s in rear-drive racers at Indy, but never saw the winner's circle either.

Throughout its years at Indy, the Novi name was used to refer to the whole car, not just the engine. An original Novi Special is still around today. It's owned by the City of Novi and has been on exhibit at the Novi Civic Center. It's now a symbol of the city and its history.

Mall is summer haven for walkers

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

While some summertime activities have had to be delayed or cancelled this year due to the extreme heat, many walking enthusiasts have been able to keep moving without breaking a stride or sweat.

That's because walkers both young and old have been able to pursue their daily exercise routine in the cool, comfortable confines of the Twelve Oaks Mall.

Twelve Oaks Marketing Director Elaine Kah said the mall, which opens its doors at 8 a.m. on weekdays and 11 a.m. on Sunday, provides walkers with a clean, climate-controlled environment to complete their daily walk.

She added that the top portion of the mall is eight-tenths of a mile, while the lower level is five-tenths of a mile, making a complete walk of Twelve Oaks one and three-tenths miles long.

Kah said the number of walkers, which usually dips during the summertime months, have been steady due to Michigan's heat wave of 1988.

"The numbers of walkers is usually higher in the winter because people like to walk outside during the summer months," Kah said. "But considering the heat we've had there is a fairly good number of mall walkers this summer."

Kah said the mall asks people who would like to walk inside to register first, and although it is not a requirement, they ask that prospective walkers be sure they are in good physical condition.

Kah said the walking program began about a year ago, and although it isn't quite like being outdoors, it definitely has its advantages.

"We used to open the mall for walking at 6:30 a.m., but now we pushed back the time to 8 a.m. so that cleaning crews can wash the floors and give the walkers a clean place to exercise," Kah said. "The walkers can exercise until 10 a.m. and after they finish they have the opportunity to get a coffee or juice at a mall restaurant."

Kah said this provides social gratification to walking in Twelve Oaks, in addition to the physical advantages.

Farmington Hills resident Maurice Kitchen said his doctor recommended that he begin walking, following his recent heart attack.

Kitchen said although he walks outside his home six days and inside Twelve Oaks on Sundays, he prefers walking inside the mall.

"I prefer the inside, stabilized climate of Twelve Oaks because after having a heart condition, I can't be in the extreme heat or cold," Kitchen said, adding he usually walks about two miles each day.

He added the clean, flat surface in the mall is also easier on his feet in comparison to the gravel road outside his home.

Dr. David Friedman, also of Farmington Hills, said he walks about four miles inside Twelve Oaks every day after work during the week and in the morning on the weekends.

"I like walking inside because it's cleaner, there are no smoke or gas fumes, and it is much cooler than walking outside," he said.

Friedman, who said walking helps keep the circulation and muscles toned, added that walking in Twelve Oaks is extremely enjoyable because all of the mall employees are very pleasant.

Friedman said he appreciates Twelve Oaks allowing him a clean place to walk, but a major drawback to mall walking is that his wife can only walk about half as far as he can.

"When she finishes walking, I keep going, and she goes and shops," Friedman said jokingly. "That's when it costs me something to walk."

Local hospital offers fall health classes

Botsford General Hospital on Grand River in Farmington Hills is offering numerous health and fitness related classes this fall.

• An adult CPR class is being offered the first Thursday of every month from 7-10 p.m., in the Administration and Education Center. Fee is $5, for more information call 471-9990.

• Free blood pressure screenings and vision screenings will be offered on Sept. 12 and Oct. 10 from 1-4 p.m.

• Infant and child CPR will be the first Monday of each month from 7-10 p.m. Fee is $5.

• A workshop in stress management skills is scheduled for Sept. 13 from 7-9:30 p.m. and will run for four consecutive Tuesdays. Program charge is $60 and pre-registration is required.

• Blood pressure education classes will be held on Oct. 19 and run for four consecutive Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m. Fee is $25.

• An Alzheimer support group will meet at 7:30 p.m. the first Tuesday of every month. For more information, call Carolyn Darling at 477-7400.

Fitness Notes

BLOOD PRESSURE CLASSES: The Oakland County Health Division will offer a series of six blood pressure control classes to residents of Oakland County. The classes will be held weekly, from 7-9 p.m., at the Oakland County Health Division's South office, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield, on Wednesdays, September 28, October 5, 12, 19, 26 and November 2. All classes are free but pre-registration is required as class size is limited.

Topics that will be covered during these classes include:

1. defining the disease (an overview of high blood pressure and its control)
2. medications used in treatment
3. dietary recommendations (meal planning and food choices)
4. living with high blood pressure

5. cholesterol teaching
Classes will be taught by Oakland County Health Division public health nurses and nutritionists. Activities and information shared will help class participants better understand high blood pressure and self-care skills. Spouses and/or other family members are encouraged to attend. For further information or to pre-register, call 424-7042.

IMMUNIZATION CLINIC: The Oakland County Health Division will be offering an immunization clinic for Walled Lake and surrounding areas at the Walled Lake United Methodist Church, 313 Northport, Walled Lake, on Tuesday, September 6, from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and Haemophilus influenzae Type B (HIB) will be available.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany a child under 18 years of age. Please bring any previous records of immunizations, including notices which might have been sent home.

1980s bring new concerns for genital cancer

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.

The 1980s have brought some new concerns for the many men and women who are sexually active. The advent of AIDS, penicillin-resistant strains of gonorrhea and other types of sexually transmitted diseases have caused many individuals to re-examine their attitudes toward intimate encounters. Where once a simple shot may have cured a sexually transmitted disease, the sequel today can be chronic pain, infertility, extreme disability and death.

One such genital infection which has been on the rise in the 1980s is the venereal or genital wart. The medical name for this condition is condyloma acuminatum and it is caused by the human papillomavirus. It has become the subject of increasing attention because of its increasing frequency, association with abnormal Pap smears, potential relationship to genital cancers and its difficulty to treat.

The human papillomavirus (HPV) is a group of DNA viruses that cause a variety of skin diseases. There are more than 40 different types that can be associated with different disease states. While it is possible to identify the specific subgroup of HPV in a lesion, this technique is still not readily available to the practicing physician.

The genital HPV is primarily sexually transmitted. Infected patients usually have a wartlike lesion outside the vagina, near the anus, on the penis or in the vagina. Lesions can also occur on the cervix, in the urethra and rectum, as well as in the mouth and on the vocal cords. They may be asymptomatic except for the presence of the wartlike growth or cause itching, burning, pain, tenderness and discomfort with intercourse.

If they involve the cervix, they may be asymptomatic except for an abnormal Pap smear. The HPV virus has been associated with Class II, III, and IV Pap smears, in addition to cancer of the cervix, vagina and vulva (the area outside the vagina). An exact cause and effect relationship between the virus and cancer has not been established.

The presence of venereal warts in pregnancy can cause special problems. They often are more difficult to treat and tend to recur. They are capable of growing large enough to obstruct the vagina necessitating a Cesarean delivery. In addition, the virus has been reported to be transmitted to the newborn, producing warts on an infant's vocal cords. Vocal cord lesions also have been identified in individuals who have oral sex in the presence of the virus.

The incubation period for the virus is not known. On the average, there is a three month interval from exposure to the development of lesions. This, however, can be much longer in some individuals. Recurrence is also quite common and can be a special problem for immunosuppressed patients, diabetics and pregnant women.

Diagnosis of genital warts is usually performed by clinical examination alone. If a physician is unsure or the lesion fails to respond to therapy, a biopsy may be taken. Flat wartlike lesions can be difficult to see with the naked eye. A dilute vinegar solution and magnification can often help identify these lesions. This is especially true in examining the male partner.

If a Pap smear is abnormal, a physician will usually use a colposcope to examine the cervix. This instrument is similar to a microscope and allows the physician to view the cervix under magnification. A biopsy may then be taken to rule out a premalignant lesion.

As mentioned early, treatment of the HPV infections can be difficult because no specific antiviral therapy is widely available. Topical agents such as podophyllin and trichloroacetic acid are frequently used. These may require several applications. A another topical treatment is 5-fluorouracil. Cryotherapy (freezing therapy), electrocautery (burning therapy) and laser therapy are also common treatment modalities. Interferon is also being investigated for use in particularly difficult cases to treat. The recurrence rate of these infections is an especially troublesome problem that often proves frustrating to both the patient and physician.

As with any sexually transmitted disease, if you are concerned that you may be affected, it is important to be examined. This can frequently be an embarrassing and anxiety-producing situation.

A physician should be sensitive to these feelings. If you are the sexual partner of someone who has been diagnosed as having an HPV infection, it is equally important that you be examined, as there is a relatively high degree of contagiousness. Your physician should be helpful with any additional questions you may have.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Fisher Park

Encompassing the best of English Manor and Colonial American designs from the 18th century, Fisher Park recalls the refined, gentle lifestyles of a bygone era. Its emphasis on the fine elements of Queen Anne styling, produces a look of understated elegance and fine country living. Each piece is carefully crafted in rich pecan solids and veneers, then hand-rubbed with a deep, nut-brown Tudor finish enlivened with golden undertones. The custom-made brass hardware is combined with delicate, filigreed backplates to complete the authentic look and feel of a carefully tended antique. And the extensive choice of pieces lets you add a special warmth and elegance to every room in your home.

The Ewing Story

In June of 1954, Ed and Thelma Ewing opened the E.D. Ewing Furniture Company at 412 West Main Street in Brighton. This fulfilled a life-long dream of having their own business that they could share with their family.

The following year, their son John was discharged from the Navy and joined Ewing Furniture. As the business grew, it became necessary to move to a larger building. In 1960, the Ewings purchased and remodeled their present location at 217 West Main St.

Over the years, the Ewings have always been involved in their community. They have worked with the Chamber of Commerce, Local governments, and various civic and church organizations in support of their community. Now, the third generation of the Ewings is involved in the business.

E.D. Ewing's Thomasville Gallery exemplifies their commitment to bringing their community the finest quality home furnishings, displayed in idea-provoking settings, at the best possible value.

Visit E.D. Ewing Furniture during their Thomasville Gallery Sale and see why the third-generation Ewings are serving third-generation Ewing customers!

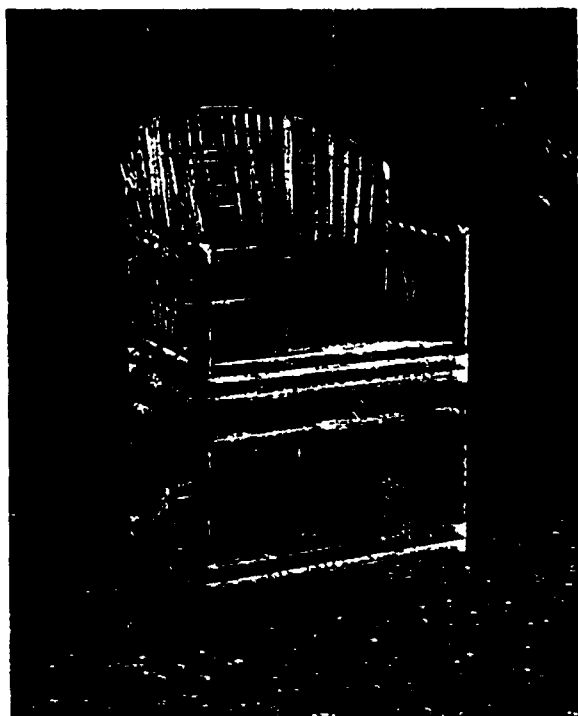

Home Electronics Centers

Crafted to blend beauty and function, Thomasville's Home Electronics Centers have been designed for optimum flexibility to accommodate any system of audio-video components and accessories, including most 27" TV's. And no matter which components or accessories you use, convenient features provide for efficient use, installation and storage. Features such as pull-out shelves for your turntable, VCR and TV, and built-in electrical receptacles. A felt-lined compartmentalized drawer for organizing VHS/Beta tapes, cassettes and compact discs. Pocket doors which slide out of sight for unobstructed television viewing. Most of all, the quality and construction is in the best Thomasville Furniture tradition.

Homecoming

Homecoming. The name says it all. Comfortable, honest and traditional. Warm and familiar, this comfortable collection is beautifully crafted from select oak solids and veneers. The special touches such as oatmeal porcelain drawer pulls, marble-like work surface on the buffet, and custom designed brass kickplates on the round dining room table will remind you of those family gatherings of yesteryear. Homecoming offers you a wide range of choices and decorating options for every room in your home. Featuring the Thomasville quality and styling you can depend on year after year, each piece is finished in a medium brown tone that accentuates the rich oak wood grain. Homecoming conveys a timeless strength, warmth and charm that every member of the family will be happy to come home to.

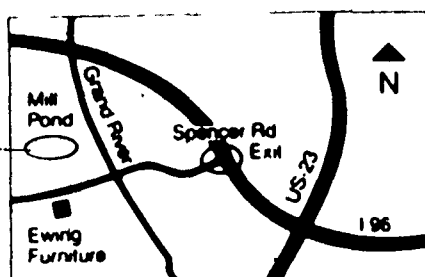

Decorating the bedroom of your dreams might be simpler than you think. Perhaps it's nothing more than a well-placed throw rug or mini-blinds that allow more instead of less light in the morning. There's an inherent simplicity to the Homecoming bedroom, one that can be appreciated without close inspection (obviously... just look at this room). But this collection bears a closer look at E.D. Ewing Furniture.

At our Thomasville Gallery, you'll find beautiful displays, enlightening ideas, professional assistance... and outstanding value. Come in and see for yourself.
