Courts handle drunks

By BOB NEEDHAM

This is the second of two articles on the drunk driving enforcement system in the Northville area.

Around 600 or 700 drunk driving cases pass through the 35th District Court in Plymouth each year, and most of those end up as convictions. But what happens after a conviction varies greatly among individual cases, based mainly on the offender's previous record.

Judge James Garber estimates that the court resolves 98 or 99 percent of its drunk driving cases as convictions for either operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL) or driving while impaired (DWI).

Once a case ends in conviction, the legal system starts an involved process of evaluating the individual involved to determine the extent of their problem and an appropriate sentence.

About one-third of the convictions at the 35th District Court — covering Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township and Canton Township — are first offenders, Chief Probation Officer Susan Ewing said.

One particularly important step with a first offender is the court's screening and assessment program. This includes a written, 66-question true/false test of drinking habits. The test includes controls to help ensure validity even if the subject lies in the answers. Back-up tests at treatment centers also help in assessments.

"I think there's a misapprehension in the community and among the attorneys that it's easy to manipulate an assessment. We know that — we know people think that — so we use questions and systems that give us as accurate an assessment as possible," Ewing said.

The test results place the offender

Fire runs Drought has impact

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

This summer's drought has had an adverse effect environmentally on almost everything in Northville and around the state.

In addition to the state's agricultural and water problems, locally, the vast amount of parkland, coupled with the dry conditions and sweltering heat, have made for some dangerous fire conditions.

Northville Township Fire Chief Robert Toms said the seriousness of the problem is pretty much over, as "we've had enough rain to alleviate a lot of the problems."

"Much of the grass in the township was like straw, but we've been getting some rain and the grass is beginning to turn green," Toms added.

During the drought, however, the township fire department was kept plenty busy. Through the months of June, July, and the middle of August, the fire department responded to 82 calls, 15 more than in 1987 and 26 more than in 1986. Overall, in 1988 the fire department has made 153 runs through Aug. 18, compared to 218 runs in 1987 and 162 runs for all of 1986.

The city fire department has also experienced an increase in fire calls, as they responded to 47 calls during June, July, and the middle of August, only 19 for the same period in 1987 and 23 in 1986. Overall, the city fire department has already responded to as many calls in 1988 as they did for the previous two years. The fire department has made 81 runs in 1988, compared to 77 in all of 1987 and 81 for 1986.

With both the township and city fire departments being volunteer, the strain of these calls is hardest felt on the firefighters who, in addition to serving the community, have responsibilities to their full-time jobs.

Toms said the township has 26 paid on-call firefighters, and the increased amount of work definitely creates a problem for the volunteers.

"When the department has this many runs we have a tough time serving the community," Toms said.

"These guys can't work at a fire all night and then go to a full-time job the next day."

He noted that while the 10 or 11 men who do respond to the calls are adequate numbers to do the job, the increased amount of calls this summer could make a case for the addition of a couple of full-time firefighters to the staff. At present, Toms is the township's only full-time firefighter.

"We've had over 40 runs this month and we need to hire more men to handle it," Toms said, adding he hopes to bring up the possibility of hiring more firefighters at the next township board meeting.

As for the city's firefighters, Lieutenant Thomas Westfall said there have been no problems with the 25-person volunteer staff, despite the added runs.

"We have a bunch of dedicated guys and there have been no problems at all," Westfall said. "We have enough guys during the day so they can leave and switch with the night staff, making us always well equipped."

Westfall said it appears the worst is over, with respect to fire danger, as there has been enough rain recently to make lawns and road grass green. He said the storms of August have produced the most recent problems.

Despite the damage caused by the recent storms, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has officially lifted the open burning ban for the entire state, according to Ron Wilson, section leader for DNR resource protection.

"I have not received information from our field agents about the groundwater levels, but the fire danger is definitely down to a moderate level," Wilson said.

Wilson said from Jan. 1 to Aug. 15 of 1988, there have been 1,015 forest fires throughout the state, burning 8,239 acres of land. In comparison, there were 815 fires burning 9,478 acres for the same period in 1987 and 470 fires burning 9,929 acres for the

Leaders discuss project

By BOB NEEDHAM

The developers of the building planned for the southwest corner of Main and Center streets downtown took their plan to three city boards Tuesday in informal presentations designed to speed up the eventual approval process — and they heard that city officials would like to see a lot of changes in the plan.

Members of the Downtown Development Authority, Planning Commission and Historic District Commission reacted favorably to the Singh Development concept for the corner, which has seen a couple of projects proposed and fail in recent years. But members of the Planning Commission raised a list of objections to specific parts of the plan.

Singh Vice President Mike Kahm told the officials the company is on a "fast track" toward approval of the project, and wanted to do the informal presentations to resolve any major problems as soon as possible. The company has an option to buy the land on the corner, and the option expires Sept. 30; so the company will need to make a decision on whether the project will work by that time, Kahm said.

Some sort of city approval — at least in concept — before that time would help the company decide to go ahead with the project, Kahm said.

"I'm not sure, coming from this evening's meeting, that we even have a product that's acceptable," Kahm said at the end of the Planning Commission meeting.

"We're interested in cooperating to the extent that it's feasible," he said. "(However), it has to make economic sense for us — otherwise, we're just being artists, but not business people."

But after a special review session was scheduled for Aug. 30, Historic District Commissioner Don DiComo commented, "I don't see where this

City well dries up

By ANNE E. WILLIS

The well is dry.

That's right, the well, which has been both a city landmark and city symbol for as long as most people can remember, is no longer flowing freely down at the end of South Main Street.

The Northville well began its proud tradition of providing water to travelers and residents alike back at the turn of the century. In the early 1900s, it was indeed a spring-fed artesian well, and many people felt the water had healing properties.

According to Northville resident Don Severance, a member of the Rotary Board of Directors — the body that has overseen maintenance of the well for many years, the water was used by recovering alcoholics housed in Northville early in the century for its healthful qualities.

The well became known nationally when Northville resident Sol Hess began to write a cartoon strip known as "The Nebbs" for syndication in newspapers. Hess developed a character, the chinless Rudy Nebb, who drank from the Northville well a water he dubbed Nox' Age — for its ability to keep a person young.

Oldtime Northville residents will recall that the famous well dried up once before, around 1963. At that time, when repeated attempts to revive it failed, the city decided to temporarily connect the well with its lines to the Detroit water system. Despite the fact that signs proclaimed the well water to be city water, people still stopped to fill jugs full of the "soothing" beverage.

In 1968 the Northville Rotary paid for a new well to be drilled at the site. A good supply of water was found 47 feet deep, but it was no longer free flowing and an underground pump was installed at that time. Although this meant that the famous Northville well was really no different than any other well in the area, the legend has lived on and travelers still stop daily at the stone basin.

But the recent drought in the area has reduced the water table to the extent that despite efforts on the part of the city DPW department, a new well needs to be drilled, Jim Petris, past president of the Northville Rotary, said.

Longtime Rotary member Jan Reef, founder of Reef Industries in Northville, had made the well his personal charity and had taken care of all maintenance on the well for many years, Petris said. When Reef passed away, the Rotary continued to pay for the maintenance costs, he added. But the cost of drilling a new well may be beyond the club.

"Ted Mapes (DPW director) said we should figure on as much as $5,000 to redrill the well," Petris said. "The question is do we have the money and if we do, do we want to spend it all on this project?"

The Rotary Board of Directors will meet next Tuesday, Aug. 30 to discuss the matter and decide on a course of action, Petris said. Rotary President Dave Rekuc said "I am 99.99 percent sure that we will find a way to get the well back working soon."

Petris noted that even if the board does decide to spend the money, most well-diggers are backed-up at this time of the year, and it could take months to redrill the famous well.

Oil well has effect

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The proximity of a working oil drilling rig to a heavily residential area will apparently determine the well's effect on property values, according to several real estate agents.

"I can't honestly see where it will have an adverse effect on property values," said Kathy Layson, of Noling Real Estate Inc. in South Lyon.

Layson said she is currently selling property in Lyon Township that is bordering an oil well, and because of the high demand for housing, has experienced no problems in selling the property.

"The drilling of oil wells doesn't seem to have a big effect on property values, but a lot of it depends on the market," she added. "If the market is slow, people might choose not to live near an oil well, but right now there is no effect."

Eric Hunt, president-elect of the Western Wayne-Oakland Counties Board of Realtors, said the change in property value would depend mostly on the proximity of the well to the property.

He added that determining the effect of oil drilling on property values is highly speculative because oil drilling "does not have much of a track record around here."

Garbage

Workers pick up trash in a Northville subdivision. The area is faced with continuing concerns regarding the disposal of mountains of garbage each day. For a complete report see pages 9-11A.

NEWS BRIEFS

SCHOOL OPENING — School for Northville students K-12 starts on Sept. 6. Teachers report on Sept. 1. Special education teachers are to report Sept. 6, with students scheduled to start on Sept. 7.

IT PAYS TO SHOP IN NORTHVILLE — You may have already heard about the man in the stretch limousine cruising through Northville handing out $50 dollar bills to people in the Shopping Center Market last Friday afternoon. But did you know he made a repeat visit to the city on Friday night just before the band shell concert? While the Northville Alumni Jazz band was tuning up around 7:30 p.m., two people in front of Crawford's restaurant were pleasantly surprised when the white limousine cruised to a stop in front of them. A man stepped out, handed out two $50 bills to two people saying "You always need more of this," and left. Lucky people.

ARTS OFFICERS — The Northville Arts Commission recently elected officers for the next year.

C. Phelps Hines was reelected the commission chairperson. Jacqueline Lawrence will serve as vice chairperson and publicity chairperson. Loretta Land is secretary and Sharon DeAlexandris returns as treasurer. Kathryn Peltier is Artmarket chairperson.

BID EXTENSION — Three studies concerning the future of the city of Northville, specifically the "Cady Street Corridor" study, revising the city's Master Plan study and a study of the possible uses of the Northville Ford Plant, have been given a bid extension by the city administration. Bids were due from prospective firms vying for contracts to do the three studies, by 5 p.m. Monday, Aug. 22. That date was extended to tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 26 at 2 p.m. to allow any interested firms ample time to visit the sites and obtain necessary information.

LIBRARY UPDATE — Amelia Bedelia's fans have been sending birthday notes to her to help her celebrate her 25th birthday. Bedelia is a character in a popular children's book series. Children who wrote to Amelia Bedelia at the Northville Public Library may pick up her special thank you buttons at the library during regular hours, now through Sept. 30.

CHAMBER REMINDER — A Dale Carnegie class is being offered by the Northville Chamber of Commerce and Northville Community Education. Interested people should call the Chamber for more information at 459-7000. An informational meeting will be held in council chambers of city hall on Aug. 31.

CITIZEN OF THE YEAR — Applications are now being accepted by the Northville Chamber of Commerce for nominations for the prestigious Citizen of the Year award. The award is presented annually to an outstanding member of the community. Last year's winner was Paul Vernon. Anyone interested in nominating someone for Citizen of the Year honors should send a letter to the Chamber office outlining the nominees attributes and qualifications for the award. Nominations are due by Oct. 1. The award will be presented at the annual dinner on Oct. 15.

NHS CAR WASH — The Northville High School junior class is having a free car wash Saturday, Aug. 27 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the corner of Main Street and Dunlap. The class will be taking pledges and accepting donations for the senior prom. Anyone wishing to make a pledge should call NHS Junior Class President Katie Kemp at 348-2374.

Player's Choice manager Tony Haddad

Township considers ordinance change

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The Northville township board postponed action last Thursday, Aug. 12, on a resident's request to have restrictions on his business lifted.

Tony Haddad, manager of Player's Choice One Family Fun Center, located at 43003 W. Seven Mile Road, said the provisions of Township Ordinance No. 75 have had a large negative impact on his business.

"This is an economic matter and they're (the township board) hurting me," Haddad said. "I run a clean game room and they're not giving me the time of day."

Player's Choice is a combination pizza restaurant/arcade. Among the provisions of ordinance 75 is the stipulation that if a business has one or more video games they cannot open before noon, and must close at midnight, and cannot hire anyone under 18 years of age.

Haddad sent a letter to the township objecting to each of these provisions. "Due to the fact, that Player's Choice is not an 'arcade' but is a pizza restaurant which provides entertainment as well as food service, we would like the opportunity to be able to service our customers by opening at an earlier time and closing later than the ordinance ordains," the letter noted.

He added there are seven other pizzerias in the township, all of which are not restricted by this ordinance. "I also cater to adults and I don't see why I have to close the store late at night when customers are still here."

As for the hiring of persons under 18, Haddad said he does not see any problem with it since other stores are allowed to. "We don't propose that this younger person would be left in charge, but rather would be working under adult supervision."

Township Attorney Ernest Essad, in a February 1 letter to Mr. Haddad, said he was representing the board in stating that "the township feels that this Ordinance still meets the best interests of the community as it is adopted and does not contemplate any amendments at this time."

However, before tabling the issue to the Sept. 13 board meeting, Trustee Richard Allen said he does not see a problem allowing Player's Choice to open at 11 a.m. or to hire anyone under 18.

Trustee James Nowka said the matter was tabled to give the board an opportunity to take a closer look at the issue, but he noted the board may relax the rules a little bit for Haddad.

"I would imagine the board will accommodate him (Haddad) to some degree, but not in the whole direction," Nowka said, adding Haddad had a good point with regard to the age limitation "because it is not easy to hire people nowadays."

Nowka said while the opening time and the hiring age may be revised, he believes the closing time should remain at midnight for the arcades.

He (Haddad) con- the major interest of the arcade and that it is appropriate for arcades to operate at midnight," he added.

Trustee Don W. Jett favor of keeping the same because "if you some people it becomes a problem."

He added, however, not see a problem with Haddad to open one hour earlier, allowing younger people.

Despite the board's decisions, Haddad said he allowed to open at 10 a.m. at least at 2 a.m. he put matter to court.

"I don't see why close any time I want," said "I don't want to go to board, but I feel they're my potential earnings."

Police Blotters

Resident arrested, charged with disorderly conduct

A local man was arrested last Thursday on charges of disorderly conduct. According to a city police report, the man was found on Aug. 18 at 11 p.m. lying face down in the parking lot of the Northville Wine Shoppe without shirt or shoes. He was pounding on the pavement with his fists and screaming obscenities.

The police reported that an officer tried to talk with the man but he kept shouting obscenities. After another officer arrived both policemen tried to get the man's attention, but the man continued to pound on the pavement and swear. He then jumped to his feet and ran across Eight Mile Road with the officers in pursuit on foot.

The officers caught the man at Randolph Street after he attempted to hit one of the officers. After a brief scuffle the man was subdued, arrested and handcuffed, according to the report. While being put in the police car the man apologized and said he didn't want to cause any trouble.

The officers observed the man's hands and arms were badly cut up and bleeding. When asked about his wounds the man replied that he had been in a fight at Ford Field prior to coming to the parking lot. He also said he had previously been drinking. The man refused medical attention. He was arrested on a bench warrant out of Northville Township for failure to pay a fine. A bond was set at $500.

WINDOW PUNCHED OUT — In a related incident, at 10:50 p.m. on Aug. 18, the same man punched out the passenger side window of a car, according to a city police report. The car, a 1976 Dodge Aspen, was being driven by the complainant's little sister who was arguing with the man.

After the girl attempted to drive away the man punched the passenger's side window and attacked the car's passenger. Shattered glass was found inside the car and all over the parking lot.

BOMB THREAT — The Gas and Go station on Eight Mile Road received a bomb threat at 6:06 p.m. on August 20, according to a city police report. An employee of the gas station got a phone call from a unknown person who said "there is going to be an explosion in 10 or 15 minutes and you better notify the police and fire departments," the report noted.

After searching the building and finding nothing, the employee called the police and the station was closed. The Fire Department also searched the building and at 6:44 p.m. when there had been no explosion the station was re-opened.

HOUSE BREAK-IN — The vacationing owners of a Northville home on Maplewood, lost over $2,000 in jewelry, the result of a break-in according to city police reports. After returning home from their vacation the home owners found their stereo equipment, which is normally kept in the family room, stacked by the front door. The front door was locked but the deadbolt lock was left open, the report noted.

The suspect gained access through the rear lower level doorwall, which was pried open. The burglars damaged the door severely, the police report noted. Ten necklaces worth approximately $200 each, a video camera and five cuff links were stolen.

On Friday, Aug. 19 a neighbor observed someone in the home. The neighbor said the subject was driving a white Ford Tempo and entered through the front door as if he had a key. The suspect then went into the back yard and left. When asked if they "belonged there" the suspect said "yes." The suspect is a white male with a stocky build and a dark complexion. He is approximately 30-35 years old, about five foot eight or five foot nine inches tall and was wearing a Hawaiian shirt and glasses.

Police are also investigating a couple which came to the home prior to the break-in for an open house to sell the home. The couple video-taped the home at the time.

BREAK-IN — A Northville home on Carpenter was broken into last week. The suspect entered the home sometime during the night between Aug. 16 and 17 according to city police reports. Police believe the suspect entered through the northeast window of the living room from the front patio porch. A rear window sliding glass door which was locked was found open, but the screen door was closed. A window was also found open by the complainant and a TV which had been moved out from the wall was eight feet from the window.

WINDOW SMASHED — An unknown suspect shattered the window of a car with a pellet gun, according to a city police report. The complainant observed a small hole in the center of her window. Before police arrived the window collapsed. A small hole was found in the window of another vehicle parking approximately 50 feet away from the complainant's 1986 silver Mercury.

The incident happened on Aug. 15 between 1:45 and 2:45 p.m. while the car was parked at the Northville Ford Plant.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Plymouth resident was ticketed for operating under the influence of liquor last Sunday, according to a township police report.

Police observed the vehicle travelling westbound on Six Mile Road weaving on the road. Between Northville Road and Sheldon police said the car swerved across the center line twice.

Police reported the vehicle was pulled over at the Six Mile Road and Sheldon intersection and a strong odor of intoxicants could be detected coming from the vehicle.

After failing field sobriety tests, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .14 percent at the scene and .16 percent at the station. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL and released on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Farmington Hills resident was ticketed for operating under the influence of liquor last Friday, according to a township police report.

Police said they observed the vehicle travelling eastbound on Seven Mile Road in excess of the 45 mph speed limit.

Police reported the vehicle was stopped on Seven Mile Road, west of Haggerty Road and a strong odor of intoxicants came from inside the car and from the driver's breath.

After failing field sobriety tests, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .12 percent. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL and released on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Northville resident was ticketed for operating under the influence of liquor last Wednesday, according to a township police report.

Police said they observed the vehicle travelling northbound on Sheldon Road near Five Mile Road weaving across the center line, then back across the northbound lane and off onto the east shoulder three times.

Police said they pulled the vehicle over on Sheldon Road south of Seven Mile Road and detected a strong odor of intoxicants coming from inside the vehicle and the driver's breath.

After failing a field sobriety test, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .17 percent at the scene and .14 percent at the station. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL and released on $100 bond.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Detroit resident was ticketed for operating under the influence of liquor last Saturday, according to a township police report.

Police observed the vehicle north of Six Mile Road weaving across both the center and shoulder line.

Police said they stopped the vehicle on Northville Road north of Edward Hines Drive and detected a strong odor of intoxicants coming from inside the vehicle.

After failing field sobriety tests, a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .154 percent at the scene and .15 percent at the station. In Michigan, anything above .10 percent is considered to be legally drunk.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL and released on $100 bond.

FLAG RIP-OFF — Northville Township police reported a flag and pole stolen from a resident on Parklane last Sunday or Monday.

The complainant stated unknown persons stole the flag and pole from in front of his home between 12 p.m. Sunday and 1 a.m. Monday.

The complainant said he was home at the time of the robbery and did not see anyone around the pole.

Police said they checked with other neighborhood residents, all of whom said they saw nothing unusual around the complainant's home.

Police said they have no suspects at this time.

BIKES STOLEN — Three bikes were stolen from a residents on Bloom Crest between Aug. 18 and Aug. 14, according to a township police report.

The complainant stated that unknown persons stole the bikes, worth a combined $800, from a storage barn behind the residence.

The complainant said he does not lock the barn, which is near the back of the lot and hidden from the road and other houses by a thick stand of trees.

Police said they checked with neighbors who reported seeing nothing.

PEARLS STOLEN — A $300 pearl necklace was stolen from a resident of the Innsbrook Apartments between Aug. 7 and Aug. 18, according to a township police report.

The complainant reported unknown persons removed the pearls from her bedroom. She said she lives in the new section of the Innsbrook Apartments and construction crews have had access to her apartment for the past two weeks to finish work.

The complainant said she last saw her necklace 10 days ago.

POOL DAMAGE — Northville Township police reported damage to a pool of a resident who lives on Five Mile Road.

The complainant stated that between 11 p.m. and 9:45 a.m. last Monday, unknown persons caused $800 damage to the pool liner and raft.

Police reported three white teenage males were seen running in the neighbor's yard, but no other description was available. The youths were not seen near the pool.

The complainant said he has no suspects or witnesses. Police said they have no physical evidence.

Township woodlands ordinance runs into several legal snags

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The proposed Northville Township woodlands ordinance, which the Beautification Commission had hoped to have reviewed by the planning commission at its Aug. 30 meeting, apparently has run into some legal snags.

Township Planning Director Carol Henry said the ordinance has gone back to the drafting stage and the planning commission has instructed the township attorney to check into the legality of enforcing a woodlands ordinance.

"We don't want to put an ordinance into effect that we cannot enforce," Henry said.

Township Attorney Ernest Essad said the idea of instituting a woodlands ordinance is sweeping across the state. "Townships and cities think it (a woodlands ordinance) is a good idea, but until it has gone to court they have no idea if it's legal."

Essad said he believes there has been only one court case in Michigan involving the woodlands ordinance and although the ordinance was upheld, "litigation involving it is just now coming outstream."

Essad said a major stumbling block of the ordinance, which was taken partially from Novi's existing woodlands ordinance, is the establishing of a woodlands review committee.

Initially, the proposed Northville ordinance provided for a review committee to decide if developers or homeowners were in compliance with the ordinance.

However, Essad said the township might not be able to delegate such authority to a review committee. "Cities have broader powers in terms of setting up review committees, while townships do not have such authority."

He noted a township's only authoritative bodies are the board of trustees and the planning commission, which are both mandated by the State of Michigan.

Planning Consultant Linda Lemke, who was hired by the township to help draft the woodlands ordinance, said in lieu of a woodlands review committee, the township is talking about incorporating the provisions of the ordinance into the normal site plan review process.

Prior to building, developers must submit plans of their project to the planning commission and township board for approval. There are many rules they must adhere to and potentially, the woodlands rules would become one of the requirements.

"I think this idea (of incorporating the ordinance with site plan approval) will work well because if Northville feels it wants to make the ordinance stronger they will always have the option to go back and change it," Lemke said.

She added if the woodlands ordinance is made a part of site plan review it will, in effect, accomplish the same goal as it would being a separate ordinance.

Lemke also said making it part of the site plan will also allow the single-family homeowner to become exempt from the woodlands provisions.

Essad, in a letter to Henry, said he is concerned how a woodlands ordinance would effect a single-family homeowner.

"To a great degree we agree with your concern that the Woodlands Protection Ordinance would create undue restrictions and hardships upon single-family housing which is created outside the normal subdivision type setting," Essad wrote.

Lemke said making the woodlands ordinance part of the site plan review process would eliminate any hardship on the single-family homeowner.

Planning Commissioner Richard Allen said he recommends that on all site plans involving designated woodlands, "the applicant is to arrange a mutually agreeable time to take a minimum of five members of the Planning Commission on a site walk."

"This is to be done between the time preliminary site plan drawings are made available to Northville Township and the Planning Commission Review of these plans," Allen added.

Lemke said she is currently reviewing the woodlands ordinance and should have another draft of it completed within the next two weeks.

As of press time Tuesday, Aug. 23, Lemke said she is uncertain whether a draft of the ordinance will be completed in time for planning commission review at their next meeting Tuesday, Aug. 30.

Open house

The proud owners of the city's newest bed and breakfast inn, The Atchison House, held a public open house last Sunday to let all those who had watched the months long work to renovate the historic home, inside to see the finished first floor. Above, owner Don Mroz, right, talks to Richard and Rosaline Carbott. Rosaline used to work with Dr. Atchison for many years in the home which was then the doctor's office. The house was filled for the six hour open house as people wandered through the individually decorated rooms filled with antiques.

Council disapproves of LEIN proposal

By LISA VAN CAMP

The city council voiced its disapproval of a state bill which would include the collection of $450,000 in users fees from local governments to help fund the cost of a new computer used for law enforcement.

According to the 1988-89 State Police appropriation bill, an undetermined amount must be paid by those police departments using the LEIN (Law Enforcement Information Network) computer. The LEIN is used by the Northville City Police for most aspects of law enforcement including missing person reports, stolen car identification, citizen driving records, and the registration of impounded vehicles.

The additional fees were suggested by the governor in answer to the State Police request for a new main-frame LEIN computer. According to a memo from Northville City Chief of Police Rodney Cannon to City Manager Steven Walters, "The LEIN policy council rejected the idea, but later accepted the idea when it seemed that the legislature would not approve the appropriation without the user fees."

Since there are several statutes which require police departments to use LEIN, opponents of the bill have called it unconstitutional. Because departments which use LEIN computer terminals, instead of teletype machines, are already charged an equipment rental fee, the legislature does not consider the increase a violation of any constitutional amendments.

"This is carefully structured to be a fee increase and not a mandatory equipment price," Walters said.

The Northville City Police currently uses the CLEMIS (Court Law Enforcement Management Information System) which can interface with the LEIN system. The CLEMIS system costs the police department $137 a month. The CLEMIS system is a network of several departments with a separate policy committee.

Although the impact of the new fees is unknown, the council voiced concern about the lack of information.

"Nobody knew whether it (the bill) had passed and they didn't give us any information," Councilman Paul Folino said.

Mayor Christopher Johnson recommended the city manager send a letter to the state expressing the council's disapproval. Chief Cannon was also advised to voice concern about the bill.

"Any further action we take will be through CLEMIS," Walters said.

Developer plans 'upscale' project

The Singh Development proposal for the corner of Main and Center streets is designed to be quite upscale, a company vice president said in meetings last week.

Singh's Michael Kahm said at the Planning Commission meeting that the company sees the project as "very upscale." Rents for the 68 apartments — the largest part of the building — would be around $700 for a one-bedroom unit, around $850 for a two-bedroom unit and about $900 or $950 for a few mezzanine-style units, he said.

At the DDA meeting Kahm said the rents should be in a reasonable range for the project, the target market and the location.

"Certainly, our interest as well as the city's is to keep those rents reasonable as possible, and we're going to make every effort to do that," he said. "Downtown Northville is a very attractive and desirable place to live, and people are willing to pay somewhat of a premium to live there."

The prime market will be couples without children or singles, Kahm said. "We don't believe this project will lend itself to a family atmosphere," he said.

City reviews plans

The Main Center building is planned to include 68 apartments, a restaurant, several stores and a small office. The company proposes a four-story, red brick building with a gray metal gabled roof and enclosed courtyard gardens on which some apartment units would look down.

"Our plan is also to create an identical theme down Center that you have on Main and North Center," Kahm said at the DDA meeting. "We want to do everything we possibly can to make this development a natural part of downtown."

One roadblock mentioned in the meetings Tuesday was finding adequate parking for the development, which requires 241 spaces. A reconfiguration of the lot off Cady and Center is expected to add 42 spaces, meaning Singh would still need 199 new ones. Singh has proposed to enclose 72 spaces off Cady in a carport for use of the apartments' residents.

DDA Member Glenn Long questioned the parking plan. "We're showing a plan where we're taking the prime spots out of that parking lot and fencing them in so people can't use it," he said.

Member William Sliger responded, "I feel that they're paying for these spaces. I see your point; on the other hand, I think it's important that this project is a successful one."

Parking was the only serious objection raised at the DDA meeting. But at a Planning Commission meeting that night — attended by members of the Historic District Commission — a two-hour discussion of the plan included many objections from commissioners.

One of the more important was an opinion put forth by a couple of Planning Commissioners and endorsed by Planning Consultant Don Wortman that a few aspects of the proposal — depending on interpretation — might not meet the city zoning ordinance, and would therefore require a change or a variance from the city's Board of Zoning Appeals. These included the maximum building height facing Cady, a rear yard setback and a landscaping requirement.

Other objections and concerns raised by individual commissioners included:

- A worry about fire fighters being able to get adequate access to the inner apartments, which do not have any walls facing a street.

- A suggestion that part of the wall facing Cady was too tall and sheer with no relief from the flat surface.

- A request that the developers provide a model or larger scale drawings, particularly so the Historic District Commission could get a better picture of the project's proposed details.

- The fact that air conditioning units for the units facing courtyards would blow hot air out from several directions into the court.

- A concern that noise would be bad in the courtyards.

- The proposed location of the carport at the north part of the parking lot.

- An objection to a few smaller-than-average parking spaces in the planned reconfiguration of the parking lot.

The Planning Commission tentatively scheduled a special study session on the project for 8 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 30. Kahm said the company hopes to get project approval from the Planning Commission and Historic District.

Landscaping disturbs planners

By BOB NEEDHAM

The director of the Northville Medical Clinic — which is sporting different plants and landscaping than on a city-approved plan — is going to have to detail all the changes made and resubmit a new plan with more planting.

The issue — raised when city Building Official Joe Attard noted the plan deviations — returned to the city Planning Commission last week for consideration of the latest landscape plan. After explanations of some of the changes, the commission eventually voted 5-3 to require the clinic to submit a new plan including at least the same number and quality of plants originally approved. The clinic must also prepare a report detailing exactly how the present situation differs from that original plan.

"We have enough greenery surrounding the building that more trees would not add to the beauty of the area," clinic director Dr. Alberto Vincenti said before the Planning Commission Tuesday, Aug. 16.

Vincenti said the main changes to the original plan were the elimination of five or six trees and a row of arborvitae.

Greg Presley, an architect representing Vincenti, told the commissioners that "a lot of (the trees on the site) went down for a lot of reasons," including things like disease and power lines.

The arborvitae will not fit in the area reserved for it — at the clinic's south property line — because the paving contractor made the driveway two feet too wide, leaving just a few inches for planting. Vincenti said. "We cannot put them in, because there is less than a foot between my property and my neighbor's property, so that automatically rules it out," he said.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton suggested Vincenti have the extra pavement torn up. "The asphalt can be easily removed, and probably should be," Commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin agreed.

"It cannot be done. Unless the committee would be willing to pay for it — that would be fine," Vincenti said.

Commissioner David Totten responded, "What you're telling us is, no matter what we say, you're going to do what you want. That's what you've been doing all along."

Vincenti answered, "I'm not doing what I want. It's out of my hands."

Commissioner Kathleen Otton complimented the design of the building, but said the site simply looks too bare without more vegetation. "It's about like buying a beautiful dress for your female companion, and making her go in bare feet when you take her out for dinner," she said.

"We agree with you," Vincenti responded. "Part of it is commercial. But the main changes we did had nothing to do with money."

Vincenti added the latest plan he submitted would do the trick. "We're having 15 plants planted around the building. How many plants do you want us to put in?"

City Manager Steve Walters said the building is operating under a temporary certificate of occupancy from the city, and that a permanent certificate is not issued until a project complies with an approved site plan.

The commission eventually passed, on a 5-3 vote, a motion requiring Vincenti to submit within 30 days a report defining changes to previous plans including removals and replacements. In addition, the commission required him to submit a new plan, prepared by a professional landscape architect, including replacement of all removed plants in the same number and quality.

The motion passed the commission 5-3, with commissioners Chris Gazlay, Don McCulloch and David Mielock voting no. Presley, who is a member of the commission, sat in the audience during the discussion and abstained from the vote.

Court reviews cases

into a category from one to five, with the higher numbers suggesting a more serious alcohol problem, Ewing explained.

"The purpose of the category is to determine the need for treatment," Ewing said. "We don't make an assumption that they're all alcoholic." A person scoring one on the test is generally considered to need only basic alcohol education, and maybe not even that, although all offenders are required to go through it, she said.

"We have a one-to-one interview with them where we ask in-depth questions," Ewing said. Blood tests and breathalyzer results are also an important component in evaluating an individual's situation, she said. At the worst extreme, a person might need inpatient hospital treatment.

"The way that I've seen that (the system) has worked — and it's the way we have in this court — is to carefully screen them when they come into the program," Ewing said. "If you screen them well, you're going to be sentencing them to the most appropriate treatment."

After the screening, the probation officer recommends a sentence to the judge. A person convicted of their first offense and scoring a one on the test might only be sentenced to six-month, non-reporting probation. The offender is also required to pay court costs — which could mean more than $500 — and to go through a basic alcohol highway safety course for four or six two-hour sessions.

The court lays down harsher sentences on someone who appears on a second offense, Ewing said.

"They're always given an interview, without exception," she said. "It's very unusual that we'd recommend something less than outpatient treatment."

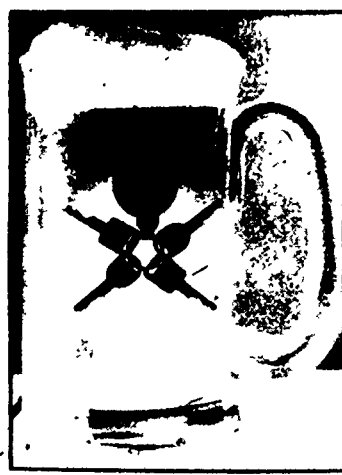

A repeat offender is looking at a minimum of one year of probation, Ewing said, including paying probation fees of $300 per year.

"Many of the repeat offenders will get work detail, whereas the first offenders won't," Ewing said. The court will require the offender to work for Canton Township, Plymouth Township or the City of Plymouth Department of Public Works, usually for two to five days, Ewing said.

The offender might wash and wax patrol cars and fire trucks of help clean up parks. In addition, they must pay a fee of $20 per day to perform the work.

Ewing said the city and township of Northville do not participate in getting work detail because they cannot provide a full-time supervisor for the offenders.

About half of the cases Ewing sees have at least two prior offenses, she said. "There seems to be a group that has numerous offenses — by that I mean five or more — and they're still in the district court system," she said.

Often, the court moves people with several offenses on to the county Circuit Court; about five percent of the offenders end up there, Ewing said. However, plea bargains and a situation where the offenses are spread out over many years might keep the case in the District Court, she explained.

Ewing said about 10 percent of the cases are people with numerous priors. "Those are a really difficult group to work with," she said.

In cases like those, the court will immediately consider inpatient treatment, Ewing said.

Another common sentence is the alternative of jail or the Alternative Community Work Force Program. Run through the Wayne County Sheriff's department, this program — which has attracted praise from the New York Times, among others — requires the offender to engage in public service work. The offender has to pay $30 a day for the work program, and if it isn't completed, the offender goes to jail.

The people with a serious alcohol problem "are hard to sentence, because they'll fall smack into one of two categories," Ewing said. Some are very cooperative, while others are "so into denial and so into the disease," she said.

"They know they're killing themselves. They'll tell you that — but they don't care," she said. "Those are the lost souls."

In all cases, Ewing said, the sentence is very broad. This way, if an alcohol problem increases during a sentence, court officials can make the necessary changes in treatment.

"We adapt to the disease," she said. "You have to be able to do that."

Chris Bodker of Parmenters Cider Mill does some fall cleaning in preparation for the Sept. 3 opening.

Parmenters gears up for fall

By ANNE E. WILLIS

It's beginning to look a lot like — fall. And that means its time for those whose businesses revolve around apples to start cleaning, and painting and hiring and generally getting ready for the season of cooler weather, corduroys and cider.

Chris Bodker, son of the current owners of Parmenters Cider Mill in Northville, has been working hard to get the landmark site in order for the coming season. Bodker said the running of a cider mill is "a lot of work, it's not a turnkey operation at all."

For him that has meant long hours spent cleaning the press room, ordering supplies, cutting grass, painting and generally doing all the little things that make the business such a success from the Saturday of Labor Day weekend to the Sunday before Thanksgiving.

Chris' parents, Vern and Ruth Bodker, purchased Parmenters Cider Mill from the Parmenters in 1968, so the family is not new to the fall business. The Parmenters sold the landmark building and moved to the upper peninsula, Chris said.

The old cider mill building burned to the ground in December of 1977 forcing the Bodkers to rebuild into an internally more modern operation. The outside of the cider mill retains its weathered country atmosphere while whitewashed cinder blocks and cement floors keep the press and other rooms clean and sanitary. The old building still had wooden floors and walls throughout, which was great for atmosphere but tough to clean, Chris noted.

Although Michigan suffered one of its worst droughts in years, Bodker said there will be no shortage of apples once the season begins. "There will be no problem getting apples, they'll just be more expensive," he said. Parmenters gets its supply of apples from the Grand Rapids area where they order cider apples, apples to be made into caramel apples and retail apples.

The difference? A caramel apple needs to be slightly on the smallish side, Bodker said, for easy dipping and eating. Retail apples need to be bigger and cider apples are either too big or too small for the other two categories. Bodker stressed that Parmenters cider is not made from any "drops" or apples that have been on the ground or are less than good for eating.

Over time the family has come to know what varieties of apples and in what quantities they should be used to make the best tasting cider. For Chris, the best blend comes from Jonathon, McIntosh and Delicious apples roughly in a combination of one third each.

His favorite eating apple is the red Delicious while for pies, Chris favors the Jonathon and the Delicious in combination.

Parmenters features cider, doughnuts and pies and is located at 714 Baseline Road in Northville.

Contact DNR for questions concerning oil, gas drilling

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Residents with questions concerning the drilling for oil or gas in their neighborhood should contact the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) in Lansing, according to State Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville).

In an interview Tuesday, Aug. 23, Geake said no state agency regulates the actual signing of the leases because that is considered to be a private contract between the oil company and property owner.

Geake's comments were made in response to concerns raised to him by residents of the Grandview Acres subdivision, who have been pursued by Elenco Land Services Inc., for leases to their mineral rights.

Geake said the DNR, which regulates oil drilling, enters the drilling procedure once an application for a drilling permit is received in Lansing through their geological survey division. "After getting the permit the oil company can set up a rig," Geake said.

"The district office of the DNR does site reviews to make sure the rig complies with the rules promulgated by the department," he said.

Geake noted the rules enforced by the DNR are pursuant to Public Act 61 of 1939 and Public Act 348 which prohibits nuisance odor. He added there are no rules regulating noise, traffic or safety concerns.

Geake said any resident who has already signed a lease is bound to it unless they can prove misrepresentation on the leasing document.

Paul Domagalski, land manager of Pangborn Exploration, the oil company which hired Elenco to secure the leases, said if residents have any questions they should contact the DNR or his company in Traverse City.

"We take care of all problems because we don't want problems with the residents," he said. "I'm here to work with residents and not be their adversary."

Drilling affects property values

Bob Van Cleef, a real estate agent in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, said quite a lot of oil drilling has been done on residential land in Oklahoma and there has not been a decrease in property values.

"There has been a lot of drilling in the old and prestigious portions of Oklahoma City and property values have not gone down because the city has had complete control of where the drilling takes place," Van Cleef said, adding that proximity of the wells to the lots and type of drilling done are major factors in determining property values.

Northville Township officials have said the township has little or no control as to the location of oil wells.

Paul Domagalski, Land Manager at Pangborn Exploration, an oil company trying to secure oil leases from residents in the Grandview Acres subdivision in Northville Township, said his company has been discussing directional drilling from a surface location which will be removed from the proximity of the subdivision.

Domagalski said although a surface location for the equipment has not yet been negotiated, this type of drilling limits the intrusion of the drilling equipment into the subdivision.

"I've never experienced a decrease in property values," he added. "If we find sour gas or there are too many problems we will most likely walk away from the project. But these decisions are made on a case by case basis."

In a report provided for Elenco Land Services, Inc., the leasing agent for Pangborn, Realtor Leo Buffa said if the wellhead is located some distance from the subdivision, there is no diminution in value of the property in the future and "mortgage lenders will continue to grant mortgages without considering the underlying gas leases."

Buffa said he based his findings on the increase in property values in Northville Township in conjunction with oil drilling which has taken place.

Layson agreed with Buffa, and said there has been no financing problems for homes built near oil wells in Lyon Township.

Attorney Carl Erickson, who has represented both oil companies and individual residents, said there are many ramifications to consider when speculating on an oil well's effect on property values.

"The drilling process itself may last anywhere from five to ten days and involve a great deal of noise and obnoxious odors," Erickson said, noting that if the well is successful, pumping jacks and large truck travel may result in a property value drop anywhere from 20 to 50 percent, depending upon proximity to the well site.

Erickson said that the loss in property values would far outweigh the gains from royalty interests and he does not recommend signing the leases.

However, Elenco Senior Land Manager Joe Munsey has said his company has never had an instance in which property values have decreased. "This is the first time in my experiences when property values would be discussed about decreasing."

Board OKs partition installation

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The Northville Board of Education ended the open space classroom concept at Silver Springs school by recently approving a $17,000 bid by AIM Systems for partition installation.

Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton recommended approval of the AIM Systems bid for the installation of a demountable partition system for Silver Springs, with the specifications being set at $50 per linear 8 foot ceiling and $59 per 9 foot ceiling.

Knighton said Silver Springs opened in 1975 under an open space concept, with classrooms having as few barriers as possible.

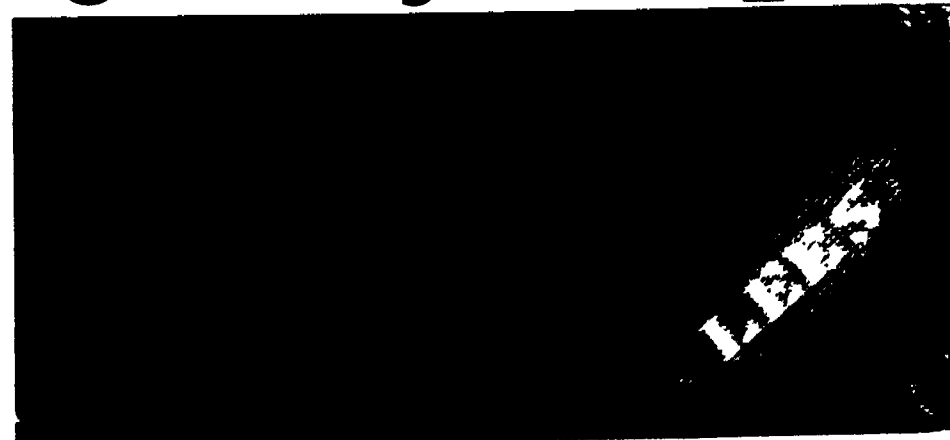

"The thinking behind the open space concept was that kids would do better if they weren't confined," Knighton said, adding that the open space concept and the multi-grading systems have become less popular.

"These concepts just are not practical for classroom instruction any more," he added. "The teachers found the concepts to be disruptive and not allowing as much privacy as is needed."

Knighton said in order to get some classroom privacy, Silver Springs teachers built partitions on their own.

He added AIM Systems, which provided the lowest of three bids on the project, began construction Aug. 1 and should be completed by Aug. 30.

TAKING ON THE TRASH

A growing problem gets attention

The question of what to do with our trash might not seem, at first glance, like the most serious problem facing society. But it is getting more and more attention from public officials lately, because without some fairly quick action the problem could reach crisis proportions.

The general public and the press are becoming more aware of the problems of trash disposal, too, due to incidents like the famous "garbage barge" from New York and the protests over the incinerator planned in Detroit.

In Oakland and Wayne counties, the problem is easy to state: most of our trash ends up in landfills, and their space is running out. Officials attack the issue on two main fronts; namely, reducing the amount of waste we produce and finding something to do with it besides dumping.

On the next two pages are a series of articles looking at different parts of the trash disposal issue, including suggestions for concerned citizens, a look at the special problem of dangerous materials in household trash, and a summary of governmental plans.

TAKING ON THE TRASH: Present

Trash holds danger

A steady dribble. That's the best way to describe the amount of household hazardous materials "going out with the trash," so to speak. Unused pesticides, aerosol can residues, paints, thinners, solvents and other toxins simply get thrown out with household trash because there aren't yet any other fully accepted disposal techniques. Bagged up, boxed up, unknown to refuse handlers, these small quantities — thimblefuls — have added up over time.

These are often the same materials which collect and leak through landfill liners, causing environmental contamination later. It is a direct result of the state's reliance on archaic "catch-all" style landfills, environmental experts say.

There is little real data on the extent of the problem, but there is increasing evidence that household and farm chemicals which have been outlawed for years are being disposed of in the trash regularly. The problem results from stiff regulation and penalties for the use of banned chemicals, but very few disposal alternatives.

The Michigan Toxic Substance Control Commission earlier this year sponsored a pilot drop-off program, where residents could dispose of unused, outdated, outlawed pesticides at no charge. Response to the drop-off program was lukewarm, but TSCC officials got an eye-opener.

Residents at three state locations threw out hundreds of gallons of unused chemicals, hundreds of pounds of granular pesticides, and other various materials. It left TSCC officials with some chilling estimates about how much could be slipping through the system and getting land-filled statewide.

"Obviously, it is unacceptable that this material go in landfills," TSCC Secretary Charles Cubbage said. "We need to put in place some mechanism where we can get to it rather than putting it in the landfill."

"The problem with households is that it is a constant dribble and it is going into all the landfills," he said.

Currently, a patchwork system of county programs is available across the state. Kent and Ingham counties sponsor a once-a-month drop off day. Macomb County collects the household materials on a call basis. Oakland County is planning a similar program this fall.

With the TSCC sponsoring an intensified one-day program in Kent County this spring, 119 residents showed up to discard old and unused items. They ranged from unused cans of bug spray to a pair of 50 gallon drums of DDT, thought to be over 30 years old. Kent County residents discarded 180 gallons of liquid pesticides, 149 containers of various solid pesticides, and 46 partially used aerosol cans.

"You take that volume of material against 'x' population, and you'll get a picture of the heavy amount out there," Cubbage said. "Is it typical of what everybody has in their backyard or garage? Maybe not. But do we know? No, we don't."

Cubbage said approximately one quarter of the materials dropped off were either banned or illegal, or old enough to be past their point of effectiveness.

The materials were incinerated at an out-of-state facility. The cost of incineration was $10 to $12 per gallon for the liquid materials and $2.50 per pound for the solids.

State lacks programs

Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) officials are still recommending that some household hazardous materials — even those as serious as chlordane — be disposed of with regular household trash.

In the absence of special hazardous materials pickup or drop-off days, DNR officials are recommending that such materials be double-bagged or packaged with sand or cat litter and disposed of in the garbage.

"If they feel that they must dispose of it immediately, that's what we are recommending," said Joan Peck, the chief of the DNR's Land Application Unit.

However, she cautioned that residents use that option only as a last resort. They should instead store the hazardous materials and not use them until their county, local unit of government, or the state comes up with a drop-off or pickup program in their area.

Currently, the only local county to supply such a program is Macomb County, which does it on an appointment basis. The DNR is currently in the process of devising a statewide household hazardous materials drop-off program, though prospects are uncertain at this date.

The DNR and the state Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC) give incentives for local county health departments to adopt such programs. But county objections include expense, feasibility, and especially liability, according to TSCC Secretary Charles Cubbage.

He said disposal of the materials is risky because of accidents that may occur in transport. Communities could also be at risk from storage of the materials at a hazardous waste landfill. If one of the landfills contaminated groundwater, each and every person or governmental agency that contributed to the landfill could be exposed to a lawsuit, Cubbage said.

Oakland County officials shot down the hazardous materials program last week, ending months of planning, Cubbage said.

Oakland County Corporate Counsel head Jack Hays said the county's risk manager recommended against the program because of a clause in the contract which requires the county to excuse the state from all liability that may occur.

"I understand where they are coming from; it's just difficult to accept," Cubbage said. "They are following legal advice that protects the institution rather than the people. There's a lot of poison out there that has to be dealt with."

Cubbage said a more solid program could be implemented with passage of the state's proposed $800 million environmental bond issue.

Citizens can help problem

Although a few recycling centers dot the landscapes of Wayne and Oakland counties, the people who live in Northville and Novi do not currently have too many opportunities to help reduce the amount of trash in landfills.

That situation may improve very soon, though, with the construction of a new recycling center in Canton. And aside from recycling, individual households can still help fight the problem in small ways.

"It's important that the public, as well as government, begin to think about how to cut down on the amount of packaging that they use or buy," Wayne County Recycling Coordinator Les Vilcone said.

That's only possible to a certain degree, he added, but even the type of disposable material used can make a difference. Environmentalists ask that consumers stay away from plastic foam — like that used for some drinking cups and fast-food containers — whenever possible, although plastic manufacturers argue that coated paper substitutes are little or no better.

Lawn composting is another good way to help control waste, Vilcone said. Grass clippings, leaves and scraps from the number of homes in Oakland and Wayne counties can add up to an awful lot of space in landfills, he said, but homeowners can reduce that by using their biodegradable trash as effective garden compost.

One other option is the food store check-out line. "When at the grocery store, instead of using plastic bags, you can ask for paper. A lot of paper bags are made with recycled paper," Vilcone said.

Business executives can sometimes reduce the amount of trash at their companies by limiting packaging and recycling waste paper. For example, Frito-Lay reuses cardboard cartons, and Wayne County itself recycles 85 percent of the paper from its offices, Vilcone said.

Private companies buying waste paper are listed in the yellow pages under "Recycling Centers" and "Waste Paper," but these are primarily geared to industry.

A few recycling drop-off places do exist in the area — including Trenton, Canton, Orion and Huntington Woods — but most are open only to residents of certain communities. Ann Arbor has a curbside pickup recycling program, and Holly is just implementing a similar system.

Residents of Northville and Novi can still recycle — but they'll have to drive to do so, to either Canton or Birmingham. Residents should sort things like plastic bottles (with lids removed), newspapers (in sacks), cans (flattened) and glass jars (washed).

The Birmingham Recycling Center accepts recyclables from anyone, said Jerry Miley, chief engineer of Oakland County's solid waste unit. The Birmingham center is at the Department of Public Services Yard at 851 S. Eton. and is open from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

Another option to be open soon is at the Woodland Meadows Landfill off Van Born and Hannan roads in Canton. Once open, the proceeds from recycling will go to non-profit organizations in Canton, said Rob McClellon, recycling coordinator for Waste Management Inc. When the center first opens scrap metal and glass jars will not be accepted, but the services may be expanded to these items before long.

"It's not quite ready, but it will be ready soon," McClellon said.

"Anyone who wants to drop off something, may."

When dealing with hazardous materials, Michigan Toxic Substances Control Commission Secretary Charles Cubbage recommended storing them away until a system of collection can be devised. Currently, only a handful of Michigan counties are able to perform pickup of outlawed or outdated pesticides.

Cubbage suggested that residents throwing out bottles of legal pesticides make sure that they use up all of the residues before disposing of it. This can be done by double or triple rinsing the containers and applying it in lawns or gardens.

Aerosol cans should be used up entirely before being disposed of, he said.

Finally, Miley suggested the best thing a concerned resident can do is push local officials for a recycling program of their own.

"These programs take a great, dedicated local effort. There's got to be really a grass-roots groundswell for it. If the people in an area want recycling, they have to agitate the councils, get them going," Miley said.

Fill questions mount

Experts admit reform in the handling of household wastes is probably a long way off, with more programs on paper than in practice.

Oakland County's program, to be implemented by the Oakland County Solid Waste Board, is currently bogged down in a political and legal struggle.

Questions still to be decided include where a waste-to-energy incinerator should be located, who can finance the facility, and where landfills to handle the ash and other materials will be constructed.

A bitter court fight has clouded the issue of where such a facility should be put. The Oakland County Executive and the Oakland County Board of Commissioners are at odds over who is legally allowed to float bonds for such a facility. Selection of landfill sites is down the road, but expected to cause another bitter legal fight.

Experts caution that it will take much more than a separation and incineration program. A change in attitudes and a change in the way people regard refuse will also have to occur.

"People need to know that their responsibility doesn't end when they place their trash at the curb," said Environmental Consultant Lillian Dean. "They are part of a system, part of a process."

"Too often, people think that when they put it out by the curb, it becomes someone else's responsibility," she added. "When space gets more scarce, that's when the value of recycling and conservation will really show."

Currently, private and municipal solid waste handlers in Oakland County dump their trash in any of six active facilities. Wayne County contains 12 active landfills.

"A great deal of the materials going into landfills ... simply shouldn't be going there," said Charles Cubbage, Secretary of the Michigan Toxic Substances Control Commission. Cubbage said it was "absolutely unacceptable" that newspapers, grass clippings, household organic materials, and household hazardous materials (like pesticides and solvents) be put out with trash.

"It's really an awareness problem more than anything else," he said. "That's why we've got to get the message out."

When garbage leaves a house, it begins a journey which will eventually take it to a landfill in a nearby community. The whole thing starts when the resident takes the trash out to the curb.

Trash collector Ron Vick gets a hand from 38-year Northville resident Norman Shelley.

Browning-Ferris Industries employee Terry Luttmann wipes his forehead near the finish of a morning route. Next stop: the landfill.

A truck from Browning-Ferris Industries, a large trash control firm, prepares to head back to the BFI-operated landfill at Six Mile and Napier Roads in Salem. A trash collector rides in the traditional spot.

End of the line: the Arbor Hills landfill in Salem.

Stats tell story

The experts on trash have a host of figures available for anyone who doubts the extent of the disposal problems — and they're figures which may surprise some people.

"Michigan produces 1.1 million tons of trash each year," Wayne County Recycling Coordinator Les Vilcone said. "And each of us contributes three to four pounds a day."

A favorite, very telling statistic is this: the State of Michigan every day produces enough garbage to fill the Pontiac Silverdome. "Imagine that thing being completely filled with trash," Vilcone said.

On a national scale, the environmental group Greenpeace estimates that America produces 400,000 tons of garbage every day.

Most of the garbage is going into landfills. According to the 1983 version of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan — currently being updated — the area sends almost 90 percent of its trash to landfills.

And finally, no matter what society does with its trash, it adds up to a lot of money: According to Greenpeace, national average costs for burning trash is $100 per ton, for landfilling is $90 per ton, and for recycling those materials which can be recycled, $40 per ton.

TAKING ON THE TRASH: Future

Trash can be burned, left, or recycled

When officials look at what to do about the growing garbage problem, they do not have a whole lot of alternatives to consider.

One obvious goal is simply to reduce the amount of trash produced. Beyond this, however, basically three options exist for handling the garbage which is produced: landfills, incinerators, and recycling efforts including reuse and composting.

Local officials concerned about the issue are moving toward addressing it on all three of those fronts. None of the options is especially cheap, and each has its individual problems.

Landfills are hard to locate — nobody wants one in their back yard — and difficult to build so that the environment is protected, officials said. Their life span, obviously, is limited to the amount of room in them.

Jerry Miley, chief engineer of Oakland County's Solid Waste Unit, pointed out that incinerators are both necessary and somewhat advantageous. Specifically, they can produce both electrical and steam energy to help control costs.

However, incinerators are expensive to build. They become cheaper to run once they are up, but markets for the steam energy may be hard to find. They have a limited lifespan, estimated at 20 years.

Environmental groups protest that incinerators release many different dangerous chemicals into the air. Technology allows some control of this, but a cleaner incinerator becomes even more expensive to build. They also share a problem with landfills: neighbors usually object, as the long-running dispute over a new facility proposed in Pontiac shows. And finally, landfills are still necessary as a place to put the incinerator's ashes.

Recycling is often the answer of Each garbage control option has its own special problems. Long-term solutions will likely combine several strategies.

choice for officials involved in the issue. Wayne County Recycling Coordinator Les Vilcone said recycling a ton of paper saves 17 trees and requires 30 percent less energy than manufacturing new paper.

But recycling also has problems. For one, only certain kinds of trash — mainly glass, metal and paper — can be effectively recycled. Another problem some programs face is difficulty getting residents to participate, since recycling requires a lot of effort washing and sorting. And finally, Vilcone noted that to really make recycling effective, a demand for recycled goods must be created — and that demand does not presently exist.

Landfills like this one in Salem are running out of room. Plans call for this to eventually be covered over as a ski hill.

Landfills have little time left

Part of the reason officials are looking so seriously at the garbage problem is the fact that a potential crisis is very close.

Oakland County Chief Engineer of the Solid Waste Unit Jerry Miley said the count will run out of landfill space within five years at its present rate of usage — and with Oakland's growing population, the rate of usage is not going to get any slower.

"If things happen to change that, to increase the rate of usage, we'll just be in a worse position," Miley said.

Some new landfills are being planned or developed in Oakland County, but even if those open, they alone won't be enough to extend the county's landfill time for very long, Miley added.

Wayne County's problem is even more immediate, with an estimated life for landfill space of two and a half to three years.

Wayne and Oakland Counties have a lot of company, however. The Institute for Local Self-Reliance estimates the nation as a whole will use up its currently existing landfill space by 1990, and according to the environmental group Greenpeace, landfills in America are presently closing at a rate of ten per week.

County, community planning gets underway

Local and county officials recognize the extent and seriousness of the trash problem, and are developing plans for how to cope in the future.

State law mandates that counties prepare a plan every five years, and both Oakland and Wayne counties are deep into their latest updates. Although the two counties will use somewhat different approaches, both will likely require cooperation from local municipalities.

Ed McNamara has mandated that by the year 2000 in Wayne County, we must reduce the amount of the solid waste stream by 75 percent because of the shortage of landfill space," Les Vilcone, the county's recycling coordinator, said.

"We do recognize that there would have to be some more landfill space. Even though the public is not real excited about this — until we find other ways of getting (the amount of trash) down," Vilcone said.

Recycling will be the key to this goal, Vilcone said; the county believes 40 percent of current trash is recyclable. A state Department of Natural Resources goal is to recycle 20 to 30 percent of the state's trash.

Recycling centers — where people can drop off sorted items — is a good step, Vilcone said.

"To facilitate the recycling program, I feel we need about four to five recycling processing stations" for paper, metal and glass, Vilcone said. "Things are really starting to take off."

But a house-to-house pickup is the eventual goal.

"Curbside recycling is the real way to go," he said. "That's what we're moving toward. That's what I'd like to see happen in Wayne County ... That would take the materials out of the waste stream right away."

In addition, the plans eventually call for a special house-to-house pickup of hazardous waste four times a year. The county will also need to burn some of its garbage, Vilcone said.

"By going through those processes, we feel we can bring about a 75 percent reduction," Vilcone said.

In Oakland County, plans for an incinerator and more landfills spark controversies. Past studies have recommended even more incinerators in the county.

But Oakland is now seriously considering a major recycling program, Jerry Miley, chief engineer of the county's Solid Waste Unit, said. The county Board of Commissioners recently spent $101,000 for Resource Recycling Systems of Ann Arbor to write a plan the county can use.

"The law requires the county to take a hard look at recycling," Miley said. "We've had some studies in the past on recycling, but they were — studies. This time we wanted more than a study. We wanted a plan to implement ... This will become part of the county plan."

Once Oakland and Wayne counties finish their updated plans, they will probably require local communities — including Novi, Northville and Northville Township — to take part. Miley explained that Oakland County will ask each of its 61 municipalities to approve the plan. If 67 percent — or 41 — of the communities OK the document, all 61 will automatically become a part of it and must participate.

Wayne County's plan update will require each local community to submit in 1991 a plan of intent to cope with its trash, Vilcone said. By 1993, the county will require some implementation of the local plans.

Local municipalities are not waiting until the counties mandate action, however.

The City of Novi belongs to a special consortium of cities — the others are Southfield, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Walled Lake and South Lyon — created to consider garbage issues. The group was scheduled to meet in Novi last night, Aug. 24, to begin considering the group's options.

Concern over rising landfill costs in part spurred the Northville City Council to buy a trash compactor for the city's Department of Public Works yard. The compactor, which is not yet delivered, will help the problem somewhat, Mayor Chris Johnson said.

"We're going to participate in the county plan," Johnson said. "I'm sure the city won't have a choice in the matter. There will be a plan and we will participate in the plan."

"We'll also look at cooperation along the lines of the Conference of Western Wayne," possibly considering cooperating with other communities on an incinerator, he said.

"Incineration, of course, is controversial, but probably provides the quickest landfill impact," Johnson said. "With the environmental concerns, you'd want to make sure the incinerator is up to all of the latest standards."

Northville Township officials have discussed garbage concerns in the context of the Western Townships Utility Authority, which also includes Plymouth Township and Canton Township. The townships formed the authority specifically for sewer worries, but may expand its work to include trash, Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

"We are, as a group, (going to) look at the solid waste issue," Goss said. "It is the issue of the next few years."

The group has only briefly considered the problem thus far, Goss said, but will address it more in depth once the sewer issue is settled. The communities have considered asking other local municipalities to join with them in any garbage efforts, she added.

Northville teacher spends summer in Alaskan Islands

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Combined with earning extra money by taking an extended family vacation, spending three weeks on Alaska's Pribilof Islands may not seem like a summertime activity for most teachers.

Meads Mill teacher Dwight Sieggreen said he spent only 600 dollars on the Arctic Circle is just as much an adventure in a long list of eventful trips.

Sieggreen, a 6th grade science and math teacher at Meads, spent three weeks (July 17 through Aug. 15) on St. George Island, about 1,000 miles northwest of Alaska, studying the feeding ecology of seabirds.

We found that it takes 40 percent more food to feed seabirds in the Pribilofs," Sieggreen said, adding the data generated from the expedition could reduce fish quotas for polar countries.

He added the project, which was conducted by the University of California-Berkeley and sponsored by University Research Expeditions Programs, found that everything in the arctic area needs more food to survive due to the extreme conditions.

As for the conditions on St. George, Sieggreen said the temperatures ranged from 42 to 47, with persistent drizzle and wind gusts up to 45 knots, making wool clothing a necessity.

"It was colder than Michigan in the summertime, but not as cold as I expected," he added.

Sieggreen said St. George was an animal lover's paradise, "as there were about 2.5 million seabirds and thousands of seals and arctic foxes."

"I witnessed a seal hunting by the Aleutians (local eskimo tribe on St. George)," he added. "They clubbed the seal to death and I had a hard time watching it. It's something that I'll never forget."

Sieggreen said the trip to Alaska was a last minute replacement for a cancelled trip to study Vizcachas in Argentina, which he was previously assigned.

He noted this is the third year in which he has completed a field research study. Previously, Sieggreen said he participated in a 1986 expedition studying the lost cultures of Lac de Neuchatel in Massachusetts and a 1987 study of blue monkeys in Argentina.

"These expeditions give the teacher an opportunity for field research in which we learn the most important skill in the educational process - training the mind how to think," Sieggreen said.

In return for a grant amounting to two-thirds of the project cost, Sieggreen said he will have to write a project which fits in with the curriculum that went along with the summer project.

"In these projects the teacher experiences wilderness areas he/she could not do anywhere else," he noted. "There is some adventure in being in a remote area of the world, but this is like getting a new education, only in the field."

Meads Mill Principal David Longridge said the summer expeditions are very positive for everyone in the community, because the teacher brings experiences back which enhance the curriculum.

"I always encourage teachers to make the trips, although not everyone wants to travel that much in the summer," he added.

Longridge said another factor in preventing teachers from making the trip is the high cost. For example, although Sieggreen received a two-thirds grant for the 1985 trip, the video equipment alone made the venture expensive.

"Both government and private industry should put up more money to fund teacher's travel because it improves education overall," Longridge said.

Sieggreen said he applies every year for a project assignment, hoping that something will come through. As for future expedition plans, Sieggreen said he would like to take part in a study of Orangutans in Borneo, a project which he has been unable to land the last two years.

"I always have had interest in the tropical environment of the South Pacific," he added.

Teachers, principals and parents from Northville and surrounding areas were taught textbook evaluation procedures.

Schools hold workshop

Over 70 educators from school districts in the metro-Detroit area were on hand in Northville to hear Connie Muther, director of Textbook Adoption Advisory Services of Manchester, Conn., present a two-day workshop at Northville High School on Aug. 22 and 23.

Muther, who conducts workshops nationwide to help schools select appropriate textbooks for specific teachers, students and curriculum, presented a workshop entitled "Textbook Adoption and Curriculum Renewal". Workshops are geared for school administrators, curriculum specialists and teachers to guide them in matching textbooks to their district needs.

The author of an ongoing column on textbook selection in "Educational Leadership", Muther is also a contributing writer for many other educational journals. Utilizing her diverse background as a research analyst for publishers, textbook program consultant, pre-program reviewer and teacher, she offers a unique insight into textbook selection.

The Textbook Adoption Advisory Services Workshops teach methods that involve teachers and students in a controlled, scientific way — ultimately saving time and money in choosing textbooks. Muther also shows teachers how to effectively work with textbooks within their curriculum.

The cooperative workshop, with Dr. Dolly McMaster, Northville Schools' Assistant Superintendent for Instructional Services as local coordinator, was sponsored jointly by Northville Public Schools, the Wayne County Intermediate School District and the Wayne County Instructional Leadership Council.

An interesting place.

You'll have to go a long, long way to find a place like this. Windsor. It's not across the ocean. It's across the river.

If you like imported clothing, in an Old World atmosphere, go to McCance English Shop, downtown on Ouellette. For men—everything from fine English socks to real British duffle coats. For ladies—suits by Raffinati, sweaters from Germany, skirts from France.

Stay over 48 hours for your $400 duty exemption, in a luxurious room at Holiday Inn, right on the river, downtown. Treat yourself to a weekend in a waterfront room on a 2-floor Chalet Suite, Holiday Inn's loft apartment.

And whether you want to shop or eat, you'll enjoy Devonshire Mall, 10 minutes from downtown, at Howard and E.C. Row. Have lunch at The Food Court and then shop for bargains at over 175 stores.

Northville teacher spends summer in Alaskan Islands

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Compared with earning extra money or taking an extended family vacation, spending three weeks on Alaska's Pribilof Islands may not seem like the ideal summertime activity for many teachers.

For Meads Mill teacher Dwight Sieggreen, a summer spent only 600 miles from the Arctic Circle is just another adventure in a long list of eventful trips.

Sieggreen, a 6th grade science and math teacher at Meads, spent three weeks (July 17 through Aug. 15) on St. George Island, about 1,000 miles northwest of Alaska, studying the feeding ecology of seabirds.

"We found that it takes 40 percent more food to feed seabirds in the Pribilofs," Sieggreen said, adding the data generated from the expedition could reduce fish quotas for polar countries.

He added the project, which was conducted by the University of California-Berkeley and sponsored by University Research Expeditions Programs, found that everything in the arctic area needs more food to survive due to the extreme conditions.

As for the conditions on St. George, Sieggreen said the temperatures ranged from 42 to 47, with persistent drizzle and wind gusts up to 45 knots, making wool clothing a necessity.

"It was colder than Michigan in the summertime, but not as cold as I expected," he added.

Sieggreen said St. George was an animal lover's paradise, as there were about 2.5 million seabirds and thousands of seals and arctic foxes.

"I witnessed a seal hunting by the Aleutians (local eskimo tribe on St. George)," he added. "They clubbed the seal to death and I had a hard time watching it. It's something that I'll never forget."

Sieggreen said the trip to Alaska was a last minute replacement for a cancelled trip to study Vizcachas in Argentina, which he was previously assigned.

He noted this is the third year in which he has completed a field research study. Previously, Sieggreen said he participated in a 1986 expedition studying the lost cultures of Lac de Neuchatel in Massachusetts and a 1987 study of blue monkeys in Argentina.

"These expeditions give the teacher an opportunity for field research in which we learn the most important skill in the educational process - training the mind how to think," Sieggreen said.

In return for a grant amounting to two-thirds of the project cost, Sieggreen said he will have to write a project which fits in with the curriculum that went along with the summer project.

"In these projects the teacher experiences wilderness areas he/she could not do anywhere else," he noted. "There is some adventure in being in a remote area of the world, but this is like getting a new education, only in the field."

Meads Mill Principal David Longridge said the summer expeditions are very positive for everyone in the community, because the teacher brings experiences back which enhance the curriculum.

"I always encourage teachers to make the trips, although not everyone wants to travel that much in the summer," he added.

Longridge said another factor in preventing teachers from making the trip is the high cost. For example, although Sieggreen received a two-thirds grant for the 1985 trip, the video equipment alone made the venture expensive.

"Both government and private industry should put up more money to fund teacher's travel because it improves education overall," Longridge said.

Sieggreen said he applies every year for a project assignment, hoping that something will come through. As for future expedition plans, Sieggreen said he would like to take part in a study of Orangutans in Borneo, a project which he has been unable to land the last two years.

"I always have had interest in the tropical environment of the South Pacific," he added.

Unique house frame set

By ANNE E. WILLIS

The framing of a new house in the Northville area is not cause to stop the car. Let's face it, new homes in this area have been going up at a fairly rapid rate, not to mention additions and renovations. But when was the last time you noticed giant oak timbers being lifted skyward in preparation for a new home?

On Garfield Road, between Eight and Nine Mile roads, a house constructed of oak timbers was in the process of being framed last Friday afternoon. The house, soon to be home to Debra and Larry Edson and their son Chris, was being framed by the Riverbend Timber Framing company. According to Larry Edson, the concept of real oak timbers appealed to him for many reasons.

"All the timbers will be exposed in the house," a look that the Edson's liked. Also, he noted that super insulating stress skin panels are then attached to the frame, which wraps the frame in a nearly air-tight blanket. "It ends up using about 20 percent less energy," Edson said. "It's extremely energy efficient."

The house, which will be about 2,700 square feet when complete, will cost about $250 to heat for the entire year, Edson estimated.

The Edson's currently live in Dearborn and are moving to the area because they have outgrown their current house, he said.

"These houses tend to last for 4,000 years," Edson said. When asked who had verified those numbers, he said the Japanese have been building houses of oak timber frames for centuries. "This style of building was popular in America 100-200 years ago," Edson said.

The Edson house sits on a wood cellar, in addition to being framed by the wood beams. The cellar, different from the typical poured concrete cellar, will be easy for the family to finish themselves, Edson said, and will be dryer than a conventional cellar. The wood "sits in a sea of pea gravel," which will make it exceptionally dry, he said.

The cost of the home will be comparable to a like-sized custom built home, he said. The family plans to move in at the beginning of next year.

Artmarket looks for artists

Although the Northville Artmarket has about the same number of artists signed up to participate as it had last year, the organizers are still looking for more exhibitors.

"Artmarket '88" — the second annual fine arts show sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission — is scheduled Sept. 16, 17 and 18 downtown as part of the annual "Autumnfest."

Organizer Kathryn Peltier said many of the artists from last year are planning to return for the second year. About 25 artists are set to participate, but the commission would like to see between 40 and 50 exhibitors, she said.

The show will include oil painting, water colors, pottery, jewelry, wood work, pen and ink, pencil drawing, photography and art glass, Peltier said. "We've really patterned our whole approach to the show on the Ann Arbor art fair," she said.

Peltier said the commission is seeking fine artists as opposed to craft workers, though she added the distinction can be difficult to make.

The street fair will include entertainment like mimes, clowns, jugglers, bandshell music and possibly demonstrations by participating artists.

Anyone interested in exhibiting, or in finding out more about the project, may call Peltier at 348-7026.

City opts out of truck ordinance

The City of Northville probably won't be adopting an ordinance requiring all trucks to be covered, at least not for a while.

At a recent City Council meeting one member of the council suggested the city look into adopting an ordinance similar to one in Northville Township requiring trucks with open tops to be covered up when driving through.

But at their meeting Monday, Aug. 15, council members informally agreed with a recommendation from Police Chief Rod Cannon that the city does not really need such an ordinance at this point.

"We really haven't had any problem other than some spilling of gravel on occasion," Cannon told the council. "Our major concern, as I can determine here (from past reports), is loose gravel."

Any loose gravel problems can be handled by city police enforcing an applicable state law, Cannon said. State law requires loads to be secured so that they do not fall out of the truck, and the city has an ordinance making it possible for city police to cite any violation of state law as a misdemeanor.

"It appears this will be a good way of handling it," Mayor Chris Johnson said.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF ENACTMENT

The City Council of the City of Northville, following a Public Hearing on Monday, August 15, 1988, at 8:00 p.m., in the Council Room of the Municipal Building, 215 West Main Street, has adopted the following ordinance: AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND TITLE 4, CHAPTER 12, "ZONING ORDINANCE", OF THE CITY CODE OF ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE BY ADDING SECTION 16.17 OF THE ZONING ORDINANCE, BED AND BREAKFAST ACCOMMODATIONS AND SECTION 22.2 DEFINITIONS SUBSECTION 11a. BED AND BREAKFAST ACCOMMODATIONS:

The City of Northville ordains:

Section 1. Title 4, Chapter 12, "Zoning Ordinance" of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville is hereby amended to include the following:

SECTION 16.17 — BED AND BREAKFAST ACCOMMODATIONS

A Special Land Use to the R-1A, R-1B and R-2 zoning districts. A use Permitted by Right in the R-3 and R-4 zoning districts. All districts subject to the following provisions:

a. Usable Floor Space: Not more than fifty (50) percent of the total number of bedrooms or twenty-five percent (25%) of the total floor area of the residence, (whichever is least) to a maximum of 8 rooms shall be used for bed and breakfast sleeping rooms.

b. Cooking Facilities: There shall not be separate cooking facilities used for bed and breakfast stay.

c. Signs: No sign larger than two (2) square feet identifying the bed and breakfast shall be permitted. Internal illumination of signs shall not be permitted and all signs, placement and illumination shall be reviewed by the Planning Commission.

d. Parking: One parking space shall be provided off-street in the interior side yard or rear yard area for each occupant room, plus one space for the resident manager. The Planning Commission may require a landscape buffer between lot and parking area.

e. Off-Street Parking Layout and Design: Such off-street parking shall meet the design and layout requirements of Article 15. However, the Planning Commission may waive selected dimensional requirements for parking areas and entrance drives if safe and efficient parking is not impaired.

f. Length of Stay: No transient occupant shall reside on the premises for more than thirty (30) consecutive days and more than 60 days total in any one year.

g. Compliance: All such facilities shall comply with all applicable local, county and state building, occupant living area, plumbing, electrical, mechanical, fire and health codes.

SECTION 22.2

11a. Bed and Breakfast Accommodations: A use in which transient guests are provided a sleeping room and board in return for payment.

Section 3. This ordinance shall become effective ten (10) days after enactment thereof and after publication thereof.

Printed copies of the complete text of the ordinance are available for inspection by and distribution to the public at the City Clerk's Office during regular business hours.

Introduced: 8/11/88
Published: 8/11/88 & 8/25/88

City approves Taft Road asphalt repair program

Taft Road in the City of Northville will be fixed with a sturdier, smoother asphalt surface than it presently has, the City Council decided last week.

On a recommendation from engineer Bob Warner of McNeely & Lincoln Associates, the city plans to use a technique called "rubblizing" — breaking up the existing pavement, then covering it over with a new five-inch-thick asphalt overlay. Pavement will be seven inches thick just before Eight Mile Road to absorb the added stresses of vehicles coming down the hill.

The City Council approved the program Monday, Aug. 15.

"It (will) result in a smoother road and a more stable road which we hope would last for a long time," Warner told the council. He said the road will be smoother and also quieter without the concrete joints presently in the road.

The project is estimated to cost $149,000, which will come from the money generated by the city-wide street repair millage.

The large expense of the money for Taft might mean other projects would be less than hoped for, City Manager Steve Walters said, since the street repair money is starting to run low. Specifically, he said, Baseline Road might just be recovered instead of completely rebuilt with new curbs and gutters added.

The council voted 4-0 to start work on Taft as soon as possible. Warner said the project would take about 30 days from start to finish.

An additional advantage of the rubblizing technique is that it provides better drainage of stormwater under the road, engineer Jack McNeely noted.

City OKs rules enforcement

A Police Department effort to enforce the city rules for building identification has brought most of the city into compliance, but additional enforcement power was added to the ordinance last week.

Police Chief Rod Cannon told the City Council Monday, Aug. 15, that in recent weeks the department has contacted 138 homeowners who were in violation of the building identification rules. The ordinance, adopted last October, was adopted to make identification of buildings easier for police, fire and emergency medical workers.

"We are getting good cooperation from the residents," Cannon said. "Of the 100-plus (notified) there are only about 15 that haven't complied, and that was of two weeks ago."

He said the police are giving property owners 30 days to comply with the ordinance requirements, but then a problem can arise — until Monday, there was no next step to take.

"The follow-up is hindered, because if we cite them — there's no fine," Cannon said.

On Cannon's recommendation, the council adopted a $10 fine payable at the city violations bureau. However, the fine may be avoided by demonstrating compliance with the rules in the ordinance.

The rules include requirements that buildings be identified by numerals — script words are not enough — at least three inches tall. The numbers must be visible from the center of the road by a vehicle travelling in either direction. The color of the numerals must contrast with the background.

The ordinance also contains rules for buildings under construction. Putting up permanent numbers in compliance with the ordinance is a condition of occupancy for a new building.

City given sewer repair schedule

Improvements to the City of Northville sewer system — part of the regional North Huron Valley / Rouge Valley expansion project — must be completed by the middle of 1991, the city has heard.

In a formal "order of abatement" recently sent to the city, the state Department of Natural Resources lays out a schedule for making improvements the city must follow.

Similar orders have gone out to other communities involved in the regional sewer project. "Northville doesn't have quite as involved an abatement order as some communities do," City Manager Steve Walters said at the City Council Monday, Aug. 15.

One of the major problems identified in area sewers is storm water and other contaminants getting into the older sewer systems, and much of the needed repairs involve fixing those problems.

The city's work is detailed in a 1981 sewer rehabilitation plan and later amendments.

Under the schedule in the abatement order, Northville's first deadline is Aug. 1, 1989, when the city must have submitted plans and specifications for its repairs.

By that Dec. 1 the city must advertise for bids for the work, issuing a contract and authorizing work to start by Feb. 1, 1990. Work must start by March 1, 1990, and be finished by June 1, 1991.

After that, the abatement order details a schedule for certifying that the repairs have been completed. The certification report must be submitted by June 1, 1992.

The Northville City Council agreed to sign the order Monday on a 4-0 vote.

Our Opinion

Park millage details need to be ironed out

A proposal for a two-year, .9-mill tax to develop the Northville Community Park will be on the township and city ballots for the Nov. 8 election.

Congratulations should go out to the committee which worked quickly and well to get the proposal to the two government bodies for approval in time for the question to be put on the November ballot. There was little question in the minds of committee members over whether the millage question needed to be voted upon by the people of the community. The Northville Community Recreation Department had tried for two successive years to get funding to develop the park through state grants. If the community feels that having the park as an active recreation site is a real need, then it will vote to fund the park through the millage. Postponing the question would have been unfortunate for all concerned.

The move to put the millage question to the voters received almost a unanimous voice of support from both the township board and the city council. While the question should have been moved on to the ballot for this November to avoid another year's delay in deciding the question, the one voice of dissent heard on the city council, that of member Jerry Mittman, raised some valid concerns that need immediate attention.

Mittman brought out the point that the plans for the Community Park have changed since originally discussed in 1986. At that time the project was planned to include two ball fields, three soccer fields, an exercise/cross country trail and two tennis courts. The newest plans, dated Aug. 3 1988, sketch out three ball fields, batting cages, two soccer fields, three beach volleyball courts, a miniature golf course and a fitness trail.

Mittman expressed concern over the amount of activity planned for the park. He also said he thought the planned .9-mill tax was too much to ask the residents of the two communities to pay.

Now we realize that no decision on exactly what will be built in the park has been made. Ideas are still being developed, and no doubt several new sketches will be played with before a final one is agreed on. But the time to settle what will or will not be a part of the Northville Community Park is now. The committee that is overseeing the proposal should iron out the details in the next few weeks, and the committee should ask for and receive input from the citizens of both the township and the city as part of that process.

The best way to determine what people will or will not vote for, is to ask them. Is it too much for the area? Do they really want a public park with a miniature golf course in it? Are two soccer fields enough? Do we need more room for passive greenspace, more trees and picnic room? Communication with the community on these questions should be a major part of the decision-making process.

And that decision should not be left until after the millage is approved, if it is approved. Voters in the community deserve to know exactly what they will be voting for, and that means as detailed a plan for the special millage money as is possible. There is time to iron out the specifics, to involve the community and make a decision. The time is now. The committee has made one critical step and must now finish the job — prior to the November election.

Act now on garbage

Solid waste is a buzzword that has made it easier for bureaucrats to deal with garbage. That point shouldn't surprise anyone.

But what is surprising about the trash problem is the overwhelming feeling that "someone must be taking care of it" — that the responsibility ends when you set household rubbish by the curb.

In fact, the garbage problem is everyone's problem. Government must do what it can to reassert that point, while at the same time spurring recycling, composting, and hazardous materials programs, in an effort to get those materials out of the waste stream.

Bulk materials — grass clippings, leaves, household organics, glass, metals, etc. — can be recycled or composted. They simply can't take up precious and dwindling landfill space anymore. Hazardous materials, which are now just going out with the trash, must be removed from the waste stream now and given special treatment, before they leak through landfill liners and contaminate groundwater years from now.

But these are the concerns. They have been identified over and over and over again. What's missing now is action.

We fear that sincere and meaningful action on these subjects will occur only after a crisis situation arises. That seems to be the way we have become accustomed to handle a problem. It's very unfortunate.

Local solutions are being pursued only at a leisurely pace. There is no sense of urgency in any of the deliberations about solving this problem — no uniform goal that permeates all levels of government and unites them in a sense of cooperation.

One of the areas that is long overdue for change is the hazardous materials issue. Little is being done to remove countless household hazardous wastes from the waste stream. Oakland County and the state's Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC) are both bickering about getting it done, but neither wants to accept the responsibility. That's not a way to confront this problem.

Wayne County has admitted that a special problem does exist regarding household toxic wastes, but is still in the talking stages about a four-time a year special pick-up for such materials. The county is in no way near to putting the program into practice.

Action on the long-awaited waste-to-energy landfill program has been spotted with litigation and promises to be spotted with quite a bit more before it comes to fruition.

But despite government's best efforts, they can't "prime the pump" on their own. When people get concerned about it — when they begin to see themselves as part of the environment and not just passive, serviced contributors, things will change.

It's got to happen quickly. Everyone's got to get involved.

Smaller is better

By Phil Ginotti

They take a beating, these little mid-Michigan communities. I'm thinking this as I drive through Holt, Dimondale, Shaftsburg, Bath and Webberville on my way to the one that probably takes the cake — Fowlerville.

A bad place? Certainly not.

It's the place I probably spend most of my time on weekends — laying in girlfriend Jenny's pool until my skin shrivels. Or playing hoop out by the barn until I'm ready to drop, then go swimming.

What's wrong with these little communities? Well, not much really. It's a public relations question more than anything else.

Sorry, but "Webberville," "Fowlerville" and "Shaftsburg" just sound like places that have something wrong with them. They beg to be criticized. Haven't found out why yet. For some reason, when I mention Fowlerville, people cover their mouths and snigger.

And I'm guilty too. When Jenny called me about Fowlerville's first-ever homicide last year, I said, "No prob. They ought to just get all 60 of you together and sort out who did it."

We like to kid about dinky places like this — tipping cows, getting the family together for when the sow has long-awaited little piggies.

Well all that's just fine with me. Fine because I wouldn't mind living in a dinky place like that one day. I wouldn't mind having them stay a well-kept secret. Have a good chuckle on me. Tell a friend what a terrible place Fowlerville and Webberville must be.

Truth is, for the younger generation which has been priced out of Oakland County, forced to flee like a pack of refugees, these places might be the only hope.

Livingston County, true, is a lot like crossing over the Macon County line. The speed limit in downtown Fowlerville is 25 miles per hour. That's 25 — not 27, 29 or 33. And certainly not 57 as I discovered one Friday afternoon in 1986.

And the name of the bar is really "The Bloated Goat." They aren't kidding. Eighty cents a beer anytime of the day.

People like to brag about Oakland County being a great place to live, with the lakes, streams, wetlands, forests, etc. Truth is, one day we'll look back at Oakland County and study how not to create a place for people to live.

Twenty years from now, we'll see the credits rolling for leaderless, gridlocked Oakland County. We blindly followed an unwritten doctrine of overpricing everything. Making an effort to attract commercial and industrial developments that really supplied a fraction of the wealth they promised.

If you're still in Oakland County 20 years from now, maybe you can pound your fist on the steering wheel and curse leadership that insisted they had everything under control when they really didn't. You can sit there and wonder when M-9 is really going through... as your new car overheats.

That's fine. I'll be northwest of here, shriveling in the pool.

Up the down staircase

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

It's a conspiracy. I'm talking about the devious group of reprobates who collect my garbage every week. They're out to get me. And the problem is they're shift.

One of the few household chores for which I'm responsible is taking out the garbage every Wednesday. I know what you're thinking. That taking out the garbage once a week is not exactly an equal distribution of household duties. That I must be some kind of chauvinist for not shouldering a larger share of the load. But the fact remains that one of my few tasks is making sure the garbage gets to the curb before the garbage men do.

And I take pride in my job. It ain't much, but I do it well. I march that garbage out there in style. Set it up in nice straight lines right there at the curb.

That's why this plot by the garbage men is particularly heinous. What they do is try to lull me into believing they won't show up until three in the afternoon. Everything's fine as long as I have the trash out by two.

But just when you think you've got 'em figured out, they'll do something sneaky. Like showing up at seven in the morning.

For months they've been coming at three. But yesterday they made their move. In a dead sleep I heard the sound of the garbage truck creeping quietly around the corner at six-thirty. In a flash I was up and out of bed. Faster than a fireman I jumped into my jeans. Tore outside. Yanked open the garage door. Grabbed the handle of the garbage cart. And sprinted to the curb. It was all there when they arrived.

I stood gloating on the porch — arms folded triumphantly across my chest — as they rolled up in front of the house. I was tempted sorely to bellow out in defiance... a primordial scream of conquest.

But I refrained. Squelched the urge. Winning gracefully is part of the fun.

The editorial denouncement of the Northville Planning Commission vote to require sodium vapor lighting within a private development deserves applause. Let us encourage aesthetic creativity and diversity by allowing developers to use light sources that complement their projects. While highly efficient sodium vapor bulbs may be the accepted standard for public street lighting, they may not be appropriate for all projects, particularly those of a residential nature.

It is a great responsibility resculpting a town through a committee process. I charge the volunteers that make up the various city commissions to police the progress of Northville while protecting its charming character and historical highlights.

Film stirs flap

To the Editor:
As an amateur biblical scholar who, over the years, has slowly evolved into a full blown Secular Humanist, I have come to believe that, as the American philosopher Santayana put it, "God is not the name of an actual being or reality, it is a name for the highest ideal of man. It is a symbol for perfect truth, beauty and goodness."

On Aug. 19 I went to see "The Last Temptation of Christ" at the Americana Theatre. I came away from viewing it with my long held conviction that the man Jesus was but a rebel of his time. He was a man who saw the injustices and inequities of his era and tried to bring about a change in the way people related to one another. Because the religious community of the period felt that their position of power was being threatened, they managed to have Jesus crucified, crucifixion being the manner of dealing with enemies of the status quo.

The message Jesus meant to bring to the world was that we should love one another — a lesson we have yet to learn. Organized religion has from the beginning, unfortunately, chosen to clothe Jesus in super-natural and un-natural attributes, sidetracking the central message of his, so far, failed mission.

I regret and am dismayed that our so-called spiritual leaders have not found a way, in light of our advanced knowledge of the world about us, to up-date the means by which the message of Jesus and all the other prophets is disseminated.

Power Outages

To the Editor:
The following is a letter our organization, the Concerned Residents of Northville, sent to Detroit Edison.

The Northville community has recently experienced several power outages, some of up to twenty hours duration. Naturally we are not the only community in which they have occurred. But we do find that almost every storm, however brief, causes some outages in our area.

Our first concern is physical. Are your technical facilities in our area adequate, especially in light of the huge increase in housing and commercial construction here? Can anything be done to improve the reliability of electrical service to our area? Most of us are almost entirely dependent these days on electrical power to run our homes and businesses. Some things like light and toasters can be done without. Others, such as home freezers, business cash registers, business computers and traffic lights are urgently needed by their users to avoid total breakdown. Is there any way our service can be made more reliable?

Secondly, we would appreciate a system, with attendant publicity, that permits us to have some idea when power will be restored. On our last big outage most of our calls to the designated number got busy signals. Those who tried over a period of hours eventually got a lady who told us power would be restored any time between the immediate present and some time the next day. One customer was told at three in the afternoon that Edison had been "aware of the problem" since nine that morning. But the customers had been aware of the problem at seven the previous evening, 14 hours earlier. When we called our police department the only information they had was that they hadn't heard anything.

Edison's relations with its customers would improve considerably if you would set up a system by which real information is funnelled to a central point so that customers might phone and be told that Novi is three hours away from power, Farmington five, etc. Granted, all times would be estimates, we understand that. But we would not be completely in the dark about whether to empty the freezer and buy ice, or bring in a manual cash drawer to replace the electrically operated one. Finally, it would be helpful — and again, good P.R. — to send the radio and TV stations detailed announcements as to when power can be restored. The word that 35,000 people are without power in southeastern Michigan is amazingly unhelpful to someone with a three-day catch of fish in the freezer.

Children suffer from alcoholic parents

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Charles Stille, Northville High School Student Assistance Program Coordinator.

Alcoholism is a disease that affects all areas of the drinker's life. Presently this disease afflicts about 10 million Americans. A person who has this disease cannot control when or how much alcohol they will consume. This lack of control over their drinking leads to a lack of control over their entire lives. Alcoholics suffer from unpredictable mood swings, depression, ill health and many other symptoms. The family of the alcoholic suffers also.

Children of alcoholics often feel guilty for a parent's drinking. Alcoholism is nobody's fault, not even the alcoholics.

The family of an alcoholic, like any family, bands together to help the member who is having trouble. This is a healthy response to a normal situation.

In an alcoholic family, however, other family members tend to cover up for the alcoholic to protect the family from "shame".

Children may not understand the problem yet they are afraid to bring friends home, are afraid their parents might divorce, or are afraid to ride with a drinking parent. Loyalty to the family keeps children from going outside the family for help.

Children of alcoholics often find it necessary to keep their feelings of fear, anger, guilt and loneliness pent up inside in order to hide the problem and avoid further pain.

However, not talking about a problem like alcoholism can do more harm than good.

Estimates indicate there are from 10-50 million children under the age of 18 living in alcoholic homes. Research indicates there may be a genetic or environmental link which makes children of alcoholics often suffer emotional problems which may be the result of growing up in alcoholic homes.

Parents who drink often cannot take care of children's basic daily needs. Perhaps children go hungry, wear dirty clothes or are left unattended. These children may not learn good living habits and may grow up feeling unimportant because Mom or Dad didn't pay attention to them.

Other things that can occur are being in danger, suffering mental or physical abuse, neglect, isolation, poor nutrition and poor hygiene.

As this article mentioned last time, children of alcoholics try to adapt to their situations in unhealthy ways. Many of them don't talk about the disease, about their feelings of guilt, shame and loneliness. They don't trust their parents because so many promises have been broken. They don't feel because it's easier than dealing with pain. Children of alcoholics may not be able to trust because they fear disappointment and emotional commitment.

Alcoholic parents are often too busy with their own problems to respond to those of their children.

All children need consistency in their home environment. They like to have meals at the same time each day, to go to bed at the same time and to be able to predict their parent's reactions to certain situations.

Alcoholic parents are not always able to provide regular meals. They may force their children to go to bed early so they can drink.

All children and especially children of alcoholics need to know they are not at fault for things they cannot control.

All children need to be assured of their safety.

All children need parents who are good listeners, parents who are dependable, who are interested in them.

All children need to know what is expected of them.

All children need parents to react and respond consistently to their needs.

Help is available!

No longer is the alcoholic the only one treated, now the entire family is treated and supported.

Homeowners may be responsible for sidewalk repair

Within a few weeks homeowners in the City of Northville will learn if they have to repair sidewalks at their property.

City engineers McNeely & Lincoln Associates recently completed a survey of sidewalks throughout the city, totaling about 34,000 square feet — square by square — that needs replacement. A memo states that about 4,000 square feet of that amount will be the city's responsibility, but individual property owners will pay for the rest.

In addition, the city may require the installation of sidewalks along some stretches of roadway which do not currently have them. At the City Council meeting Monday, Aug. 15, the council delayed action on that issue, but approved going ahead with the sidewalk repair program.

In most cities the owners of abutting property are responsible for upkeep of sidewalks.

Notices are scheduled to go out to property owners over the next few weeks, explaining the program and its requirements. Homeowners will have until Nov. 15 to make repairs on their own or with an independent contractor, but any repairs not done by that date will be included in a city-wide program.

The city-run part of the program is estimated to cost $3 per square foot along sidewalks and $3.40 per square foot at driveways since a thicker concrete is required. Beginning in April, 1989, sidewalks would be torn up and replaced throughout the city, with the project projected to be finished by the end of July.

The council is scheduled Sept. 6 to consider a recommendation as to what portions of the city with no sidewalks at all should be required to put them in.

Schoolcraft's Placement Center offers three job-hunting videos

Schoolcraft College's Career Planning and Placement Center has produced three video tapes designed to provide individuals with job-hunting skills. The tapes include information on resume writing, job searching and successful interviewing.

The Career Planning and Placement Center tapes have become popular with agencies and community colleges in southeastern Michigan and have been submitted to the College Placement Council for national distribution consideration. For additional information contact the College at 591-6400.

"Spiritual and Ethical Considerations in Hospice Care" will be presented at Madonna College Sept. 6 - Dec. 16. It will present the ethical principles involved in problem solving of moral issues for clients, families, and care givers on Tuesdays, 4-7 p.m. For information, call 591-5103.

On Sept. 6 - Dec. 16, Madonna College will offer the two semester hour course, "Emerging Issues in Interdisciplinary Hospice Care," on Tuesdays, 7-9 p.m. The course will review relevant literature found in periodicals from the various disciplines that provide care givers for the hospice, noting emerging trends and issues. For information call 591-5103.

In response to the growing interest in Japan and the Japanese language, Madonna College offers for the fall term "Introduction to Japanese Language and Culture, I and II" which acquaints the student to the rudiments of spoken and written Japanese, and to Japanese history from antiquity to the early 20th century will be offered on Wednesdays, from 4-7 p.m.

Cost is $100 per credit for the four semester-hour course. For information, call 591-5170.

On Sept. 10 Madonna College presents "Intermediate Japanese Language and Culture, I and II," a part of Madonna's Japanese Studies program — the first of its kind in metropolitan Detroit beginning Saturday, Sept. 10, 9 a.m. - noon. Cost is $100 per credit for the four semester courses. For information, call 591-5170.

Schoolcraft College telecourses offerings for fall include Introduction to Business, Business Management, Principle of Economics, Survey of American Government and Principles of Sociology.

Telecourses are fully credited and offer the convenience and flexibility of receiving course lectures within your own home and time schedule. All courses are televised over Channel 56 as well as the College Cable Channel.

A mandatory telecourse orientation is scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 27 at 9 a.m. in the Liberal Arts Building, room LA-200.

For further information call 591-6400, ext. 412 or 418.

The Medical Record Technician program at Schoolcraft College was awarded a continued six year accreditation by the American Medical Association's Committee on Allied Health Education and Accreditation.

The committee based its recommendation on the high caliber of the Medical Record program at the college. The program trains students for employment as information technicians in several health care facilities, including hospitals, nursing homes and clinics. Instruction includes both classroom and health care settings. To graduate, students must have the skills to maintain health care data consistent with medical, administrative, ethical and legal accreditation.

Schoolcraft College will be holding auditions for its Community Choir. The Schoolcraft College Community Choir is a mixed choir of experienced singers interested in performing the music of the masters. Instruction in vocal and choral techniques will be provided by a professional singer/conductor.

In addition to presenting its traditional holiday concert in December, the choir will appear with the Scandinavian Symphony Orchestra this fall and they will provide the musical entertainment for Schoolcraft College's popular Madrigal Dinner.

The choir will meet for 14 weeks on Tuesdays from 7:30-10 p.m. beginning Sept. 6 at the Calvary Baptist Church on Joy Road in Canton. Call Shari Clawson at 349-8175 by Aug. 30 for an audition. Cost is $35.

"Food Service Sanitation will be offered at Madonna College in Livonia on Saturday mornings, Sept. 10 - Nov. 12 from 9 a.m.-noon. A course for owners, managers and supervisors of food service establishments to provide information on the cause and control of foodborne illness, the specifics of Michigan's Food Service Sanitation Law, the interpretation of the inspection report forms and the resources available for training and motivating employees toward compliance with regulations. Certification is available for those completing the course and passing the examinations provided by the National Restaurant Association and the Michigan Department of Public Health. Cost for the course is $200, College credit or $100 continuing education units. For more information call 591-5103.

"Fundamental Concepts in Hospice Care," offered at Madonna College, deals with the history of the hospice movement and the philosophy of care inherent in it. The three semester-hour course is held Thursdays 4-7 p.m. in Room 205. For information, call 591-5103.

Madonna College offers "Principles of Reading Instruction" during the fall term on Tuesdays, 1:30-3:30 p.m. Thursdays, 7-9 p.m. or Fridays 9-11 a.m. This three semester hour course meets the state reading requirement for elementary or secondary teachers as it applies psychological principles to the reading-learning process. For information, call 591-5103.

Study the issues presented by contemporary writers of literature for young people: violence in society, search for identity, family life, friendship, historical fiction, and adventure at Madonna College. "Literature for Young Adults" will be offered Thursdays, from 4:30-6:30 p.m. For information call 591-5103.

"Group Dynamics and Discussion Techniques" at Madonna College will present forms and methods of group discussion to develop proficiency in communication and leadership. This four semester hour course is offered on Wednesdays, 7-10 p.m. For information, call 591-5103.

"Adolescent Psychology" at Madonna College this fall term examines the nature of adolescent and pre-adolescent behavior and its underlying dynamics. Emphasis on normal behavior development as it relates to the physical, emotional, social, and intellectual growth of adolescents. This four semester hour course will be offered Tuesdays, 4-7 p.m. For information, call 591-5103.

What's in a name?

Good fortune smiles on Furama

By MADELEINE GRAHAM

Furama, you ask? Ah yes, a Chinese restaurant whose name means beautiful capital and implies lucky.

A small, unimposing restaurant which seems to reflect the style of its owners, Furama is located in the Highland Plaza at 1340 South Milford Road in Highland Township.

Furama Chinese Restaurant is a family business operated and maintained by Connie Seto and her husband Fu. As chef, Fu supervises three other family members in the kitchen, while Connie manages the dining room. The Seto family works hard toward the success of Furama by toiling seven days a week, 13 hours a day.

Connie has been in the United States about 10 years and pursued her interest in the restaurant business at Fortuna Inn Restaurant in South Lyon prior to opening Furama.

Connie's relatives work at Fortuna Inn, which she said provided an excellent learning experience and much needed exposure to the operations of running a business.

Furama has been situated in Highland for about six months. Connie and Fu were pleased to say about 90 percent of their customers continue to patronize their restaurant after the first visit.

"We chose Highland because the people are friendly. We see they have no Chinese restaurant, and we feel we can please them," explained Connie.

Connie and Fu provide carry-out service for those wishing to enjoy the delicacies in their own environment. Almond chicken, fried rice, chef's special, Szechuan and Mandarin dinners are the preferences of most customers, Connie indicated. Egg drop and wonton soup accompany the dinners. Most entrees range in price from $6.50 to $7.50, although some dinners, such as Lobster Kow, sell for $12.25.

The Sunday all-you-can-eat buffet special has proven to be an excellent addition to the menu as many customers enjoy the opportunity to sample the 10 items provided for the day. The buffet is priced at $3.50 for children and $6.95 for adults.

Conscientious individuals monitoring daily food allowance will be pleased to know that Furama has a Weight Watcher's menu. Recognizing a health-oriented trend in the United States, Connie and Fu decided to test a Weight Watcher's selection, which has become very popular with their customers. A vegetarian dish is also available.

Family dinners may be ordered for two to six members. Almond boneless chicken, Cantonese chow mein, and Furama special are just a few of the variety of family dinners offered.

"Of course, no meal is complete without the traditional fortune cookie which follows each meal."

"Service is important, though we had trouble in the beginning. We've worked hard to improve. We feel we are doing much better now, but we want the customer to let us know," Connie emphasized.

Chopsticks are provided for those wishing to dine in traditional fashion while an atmosphere of Chinese culture sets the tone. Birds in pastel colors are beautifully portrayed on wall hangings, and light fixtures are accentuated by stained glass which depicts gorgeous scenes in nature.

Hanging above the refreshment counter are four lamps in red — symbolizing good luck. Placemats reveal the zodiac signs of China and tell of the fortunes in the year of one's birth; 1988 is the year of the dragon. A theme of red decor has been carefully interwoven as red is the symbol of good in China.

Connie and Fu perceive Furama as an able contender in the boom of restaurant establishments. The Setos recognize the important ingredients of success in the highly competitive restaurant business — quality food, hard work, dining atmosphere and good service were the objectives Connie and Fu expressed.

Though the work is demanding, Connie and Fu said they derive much pleasure from managing Furama. The Setos admit they are still in the learning process, but believe with the knowledge they have obtained through the years, Furama will have good fortune.

Business Briefs

JOHN E. ENKEMANN JR.

JOHN E. ENKEMANN JR. of Novi has been named assistant chief of architectural development at Albert Kahn Associates, Inc., Detroit architects and engineers.

Enkemann, a registered architect, joined AKA in 1978 and was named an associate in 1983 and a senior associate in 1985. He served as project architect for a new manufacturing building for the Kellogg Company in Battle Creek and a new stamping plant for The Budd Company in Shelbyville, Ky.

He is a graduate of the Lawrence Institute of Technology (BS Arch. 1980). Professionally active, he is a member of the American Institute of Architects, the Michigan Society of Architects and the Engineering Society of Detroit, where he currently serves on the membership committee.

Enkemann, his wife, and two children, Kurt and Janell, reside on Midway in Novi.

JOHN J. SCHUSTER of Novi has been named a senior associate (stockholder) of Albert Kahn Associates, Inc., Architects and Engineers.

A registered electrical engineer, Schuster joined the firm in 1978 as a senior staff engineer. His background includes more than 25 years of experience in design, cost estimating, and specification of electrical power generating and distribution systems and electrical equipment. Schuster was named an associate of the firm in 1983. He has served as project electrical engineer for numerous commissions, including those for the Chrysler Corporation in Warren and Sterling Heights.

Professionally active, he is a member of the National Society of Professional Engineers, the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers and the Engineering Society of Detroit.

Schuster and his family make their home on Portsmouth in Novi.

JOHN J. SCHUSTER

CHARLES J. WEATHERED of Northville has been named Director of Market Planning Activity by the General Motors Truck & Bus Group. The appointment was announced by E. Michael Mutchler, GM vice president and executive in charge of the Truck & Bus Group.

As Director of Market Planning Activity, a newly-created position, Weathered, 59, will be responsible for coordinating GMC Truck and Chevrolet truck marketing input with related Truck & Bus Group processes. He had been program manager for future Suburban and utility vehicles since February.

Weathered joined GM in 1974 as manager of market planning and research for the former Transportation Systems Division in Warren. Following a number of marketing assignments, he was appointed general director of worldwide commercial vehicles for the GM Marketing and Product Planning staff in 1985.

DR. M. JAVAID YOUSUF, a pulmonologist/intensivist from Northville, has joined the staff of St. Mary Hospital in Livonia as Associate Director of Critical Care Medicine and Pulmonary Function. He will be working with Dr. Babu Paidipaty, director of the units.

Yousuf comes to St. Mary Hospital from the Veterans Hospital in Allen Park, where he was Director of Intensive Care. His specialty in pulmonology involves working with lung diseases — emphysema, asthma, chronic bronchitis, cancer and occupational lung diseases. He will be implementing and monitoring patients with the high-tech Collins Pulmonary Function equipment, which is now located in the new St. Mary Hospital Pavilion.

Yousuf is a member of the Wayne State University Medical School faculty, working in the Department of Pulmonary Medicine.

A Northville resident, he lives with his wife, who is studying for a career in psychiatry, and a 17-month-old son.

Placing a price tag of just $895 on a fully configured (with monitor) dual-drive Model D2 personal computer and word processing system from Leading Edge is truly an act of historic proportions.

Because it means that virtually everyone can now afford an easy-to-use personal computer and word processing system that runs the same software as either the IBM PC or the PS/2.

Model 30

And think about all you get. In addition to a fully configured, easy-to-use IBM compatible personal computer and word processing system you get the popular Keyboard with a Click™ that helps reduce typing errors, the only 20-month warranty around which is backed by a nationwide network of service centers, plus comprehensive set easy-to-understand user manuals.

How Can You Tell A Tough Tractor?

LOOK BETWEEN THE WHEELS.

The front axle is the key to a smooth ride and long life. That's why every Wheel Horse tractor, right down to our smallest lawn tractor, has a cast-iron front axle. It absorbs the bumps on any terrain, yet keeps its shape.

On many small tractors, you'll find the front axle is stamped out of steel, often as part of the frame. When you consider the amount of weight it supports and the ground it works on, you'll understand the importance of the Wheel Horse front axle. It's a difference you'll measure in years.

LIMITED TIME OFFER!

You'd expect to pay more for this kind of engineering. Especially when it results in better performance and longer tractor life. But right now, your Wheel Horse dealer is making a special offer.

CPAs offer suggestions for selecting the best interest rate

In today's financially complex world, nothing is simple any more — not even interest rates.

If you think differently, try selecting the best interest rate simply by scanning the local newspapers. Advertisements fight for your attention by boldly announcing annual rates that vary by fractions of a percentage point based on how much you deposit, what type of accounts you choose and whether the yield is tax-free, tax-deferred or taxable. Convinced?

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a little knowledge can go a long way in helping you choose the right money market account or certificate of deposit (CD) for your investment. To make an informed decision, you must understand how interest is compounded, evaluate the annual yields offered by various accounts and investigate the type of fees the institution can charge.

Imagine you have only two possible choices for your investment: a CD with an annual rate of 8 percent, compounded monthly, and a CD with an annual rate of 8.1 percent, compounded semi-annually. Which is the better investment?

If you think that the 8.1 percent CD is better because its annual rate is higher, think again. In this case, the account offering the lower rate of 8 percent will actually earn more because of the power of compounding.

Most people actually choose to deposit their money in a bank or other savings institution by virtue of newspaper advertisements that proclaim "the highest available interest rates." But, in fact, those impressive interest rates advertised in one-inch print and with slick Madison-Avenue style, may not always be the best available.

Under federal regulations, any advertisement that lists an interest rate for a savings account must also disclose the annual rate. The annual rate alone tells you very little. To really understand the investment value of a savings account, you have to know how often the interest earned on your money is compounded.

Compounding means that your interest is periodically added to your savings so that your interest earns more interest. Interest can be compounded in any number of ways — daily, monthly, semi-annually or annually. In general, the shorter the compounding period, the more total interest you earn on the account.

Look at the difference compounding makes. A one-year CD advertising a 10 percent "simple" interest rate would earn $100 in interest on a $1,000 deposit at maturity. By comparison, the same 10 percent compounded daily would be equivalent to an account earning 10.52 percent — for a return of $105.20 on the same one-year CD.

Now, that extra $5.20 may not seem a lot to you, but those dollars can add up faster than you might expect. In the above example, an account earning a non-compounded interest rate of 10 percent would double in value in 7.2 years. If compounded daily, the same account would double approximately 18 months earlier.

Although the Federal Reserve Board does not require bank advertisements to disclose the compounding period applied to an investor's deposit, many ads do volunteer this information — often in fine print located beneath the interest rate figure.

Another number that is frequently trumpeted in ads is the "effective annual yield," which provides a more accurate gauge for those shopping for the best savings account. This figure reflects the impact that compounding has on the annual interest rate. By comparing effective annual yields between two or more accounts, you can get a fairly accurate idea of how hard your money will be working for you in the account.

A simple comparison of yields may not work, however, if you are comparing taxable investments to those exempt from taxes, such as a municipal bond. The actual yield of a tax-exempt account depends not only on the account's interest rate and compounding method, but also on your tax bracket. If you are in the 33 percent bracket, a 5 percent tax-free yield is really the equivalent of a 7.5 percent taxable yield.

In a tax-deferred account, such as an IRA or 401K plan, the tax is not eliminated, rather, it is merely postponed until a later date. The primary advantage of such investments is that they allow you to build assets at a faster rate by dramatically enhancing the effect of compounding.

A few other wrinkles must be smoothed over before you can rest assured that the account with the highest annual yield will actually provide you with the best bottom-line earnings. For instance, some accounts require you to deposit a specific amount in order to get the advertised yield. While the boldly printed rate and yield numbers may catch your eye, the ad may make no mention about any minimum deposit.

According to a Federal Reserve Board study, some depositors are paying fees as high as $60 a year. Some banks that offer the convenience of automatic teller machines charge as much as $1 for each transaction conducted at one of their machines. Other fees that take a bite out of your savings include penalties for low balances or early withdrawals.

NOVENA to St. Jude/Mary the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever.
Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us. St. Jude, worker of miracles, pray for us.
St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.
Say this prayer 9 times a day;
by the 8th day, your prayer will be answered. Publication must be promised. GS.

TERROR on the TRACKS

"What I like best about this ride is the first drop. It's not that steep, but the fear of decapitation by the boardwalk makes your heart skip a beat."

—Harry J. Austin
Pompano Beach, Florida

Who is this Harry J. Austin guy, anyway?

He's got to be crazy, right? ... the fear of decapitation by the boardwalk makes your heart skip a beat?

No kidding, Harry. Fear of decapitation doesn't do much for your head either.

It's also potentially hazardous for several other important organs ... not to mention your eyes, ears, nose and throat.

But there's something you ought to know about Harry before you judge him too harshly. Harry is a member of an organization known as American Coaster Enthusiasts (ACE).

And the quote at the top of this story is taken from a letter he wrote to ACE's quarterly magazine, "Roller Coaster," about a ride called the "Florida Hurricane" located at Boardwalk and Baseball, an amusement park in Florida.

One of the functions of the ACE is to give coaster fanatics an opportunity to exchange information about the strengths and weaknesses of roller-coasters across the county, explained

Steve Mitzel, a 16-year-old junior-to-be at Novi High School and the only Novi-Northville area member of the organization.

Actually, ACE is only one of four rollercoaster organizations of which Mitzel is a member. He's also a card-carrying member of the Western New York Coaster Club, the National Amusement Park Historical Association and the Historic Amusement Foundation, an organization whose sole purpose is to develop a "park of the past."

The "Greenfield Village" of amusement parks is slated for construction in Indiana in 1991 and will feature renovated amusement park rides from the '40s and '50s, according to Mitzel.

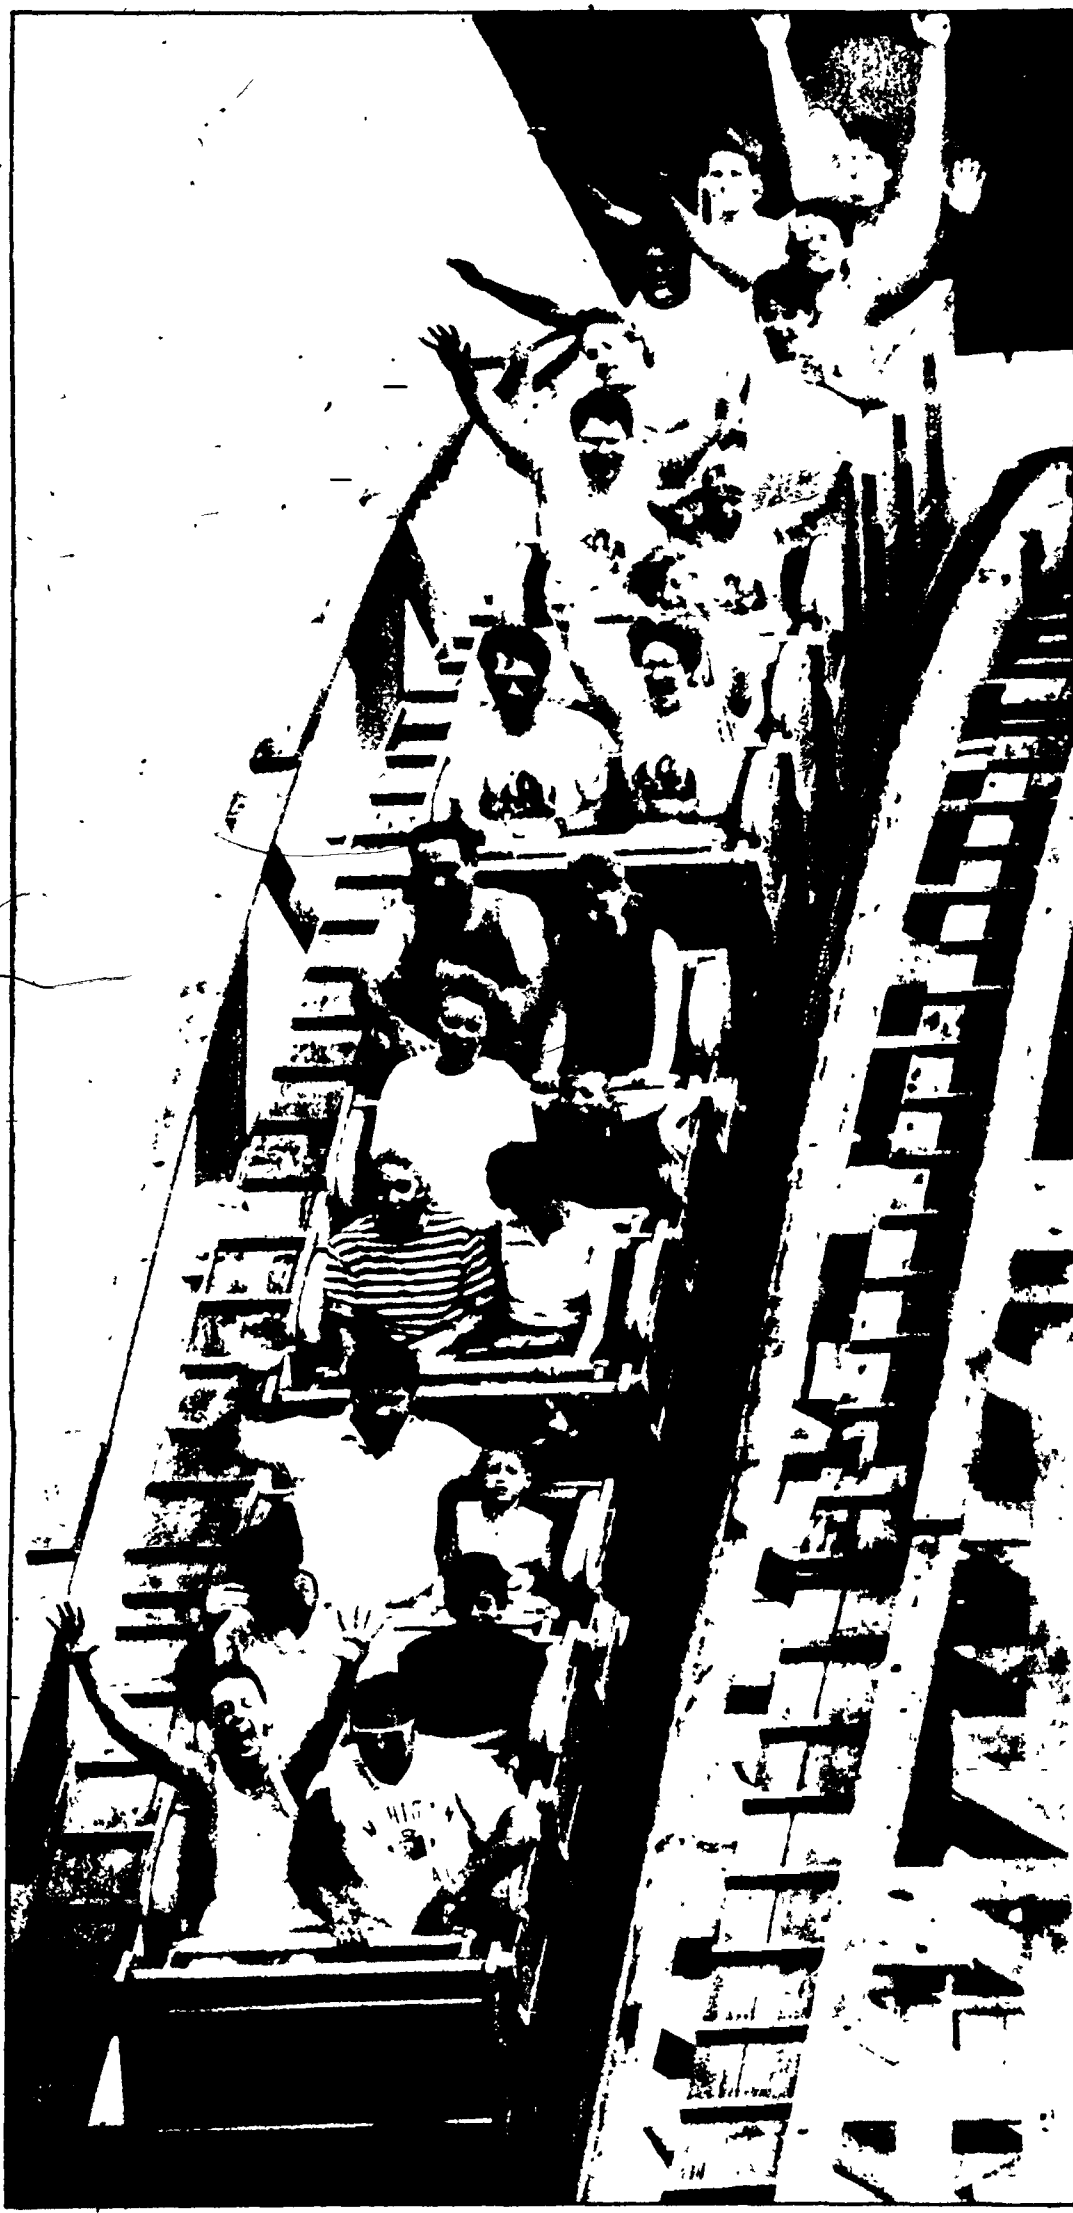

But ACE is the biggie ... as far as rollercoaster organizations are concerned. Based in Chicago, ACE currently has approximately 1,500 members from all 50 states and sponsors two national conventions a year.

Mitzel reports that he's a relative

Do you think the Detroit Grand Prix should be moved to Belle Isle?

Four said: "Yes"
Four said: "No"
Two said: "No opinion"

"I never really thought about it."
"They have no choice. It's better there or not at all."

"That's a good place to hold it - the traffic might be a problem, though."

A hospice volunteer helps entire family

By DOROTHY NASH

Death and dying are subjects many people think about only when they experience them with a family member, and then they can be overwhelming.

For this reason there are hospice care workers — Anne Bright is one — who volunteer time "to lend an ear and a helping hand" to terminally ill patients and the families of those who have decided to die at home.

Under the supervision of a nurse, who visits patient and family after a request has been made for hospice help, the volunteer, Bright said, makes contact and arranges time for hospice visits, convenient for everybody, usually twice a week. After each visit, she added, the hospice worker fills out a form, telling the nurse any observations made.

Bright said, in hospicing "we're giving the family an opportunity to rest and also get out of the house."

things like give medication, help with simple leg and arm exercises at bedside, read, and listen to the patient talk, frequently about the past.

"It's very uplifting to hear the positive things people say about their lives," she commented. Also, being with the patient "gives you an appreciation for how much people can endure."

There is, of course, training for this volunteering — 10 weeks of two-hour evening sessions in which there is discussion on medication, the emotional aspects of cancer, and grief.

Grief is included because grief and embarrassment follow the death of the patient, and hospicing continues with the family. Bright said, for as long as a year in perhaps monthly contacts in person or by phone — again "to lend an ear and a helping hand."

It's a volunteer opportunity open to anyone interested, and more help is needed.

In Our Town

Newcomers set first event, fall hoedown is Sept. 24

By ANN E. WILLIS

Mill Race celebrates anniversary

While the weather remains summerlike, September is right around the corner and that means the start of many fall activities, clubs and organizations that took the summer off.

The Northville Newcomers Club has announced a Western Hoedown, scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 24 at 7:45 p.m. The hoedown will take place at Sugar Bush Farms, 3620 Gottfredson Road in Ypsilanti. Chairpersons for the event are Doug and Sue McCoy.

The hoedown will include hayride, feasting and plenty of square dancing.

The club will be taking reservations beginning Sept. 1 and running through Sept. 16. The event is limited to 50 couples. For information or to make reservations call Sue McCoy at 348-8272. Cost is $23 per couple plus an appetizer.

The Mill Race Museum will celebrate its first anniversary with poetry readings by Kathleen Ripley Leo. Leo will read from her recent publication, "Town One South" which provides glimpses of Northville.

The reading will take place at 2 p.m. this Sunday, Aug. 28 in the Mill Race Museum adjacent to the Blacksmith Shop.

This will also be the final Sunday to view the museum's current exhibit, "A View of Northville" works by local artists. The museum is open Sunday from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m. There is no admission but donations are suggested to the Village.

"Gardens of Northville" goes to television

the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association entitled "Gardens of Northville" will feature the English Garden of Bob and Shirley Thom of Appleby Lane in Northville Township. The Omnicon production will be shown on the cable network Channel 15 on Monday, Aug. 29 at 7 p.m., Wednesday, Aug. 31 at 6:30 p.m., and Friday, Sept. 2 at 7 p.m.

It will feature discussions as to basic design, the choosing of plants, color coordination, soil preparation and care as well as a personal tour of the Thom's Garden.

Bridge openings still available

The Northville Mothers' Club still has openings in their marathon bridge ladies day groups. Anyone interested in playing marathon bridge during the day, contact Glenda Buist at 349-8713, or Helen McDee at 349-2287.

Local coaster enthusiast rates the thrills of riding the rails

neophyte among coaster enthusiasts. In fact, he admits that he was scared to death of them until his brothers "dragged" him on the Blue Streak at Cedar Point a few years ago.

"Now I love 'em," he said enthusiastically. "You can't get me off once I'm on."

Mitzel says he has ridden approximately 23 different coasters since overcoming his fear of them. He rates the "Wolverine Wildcat" and "The Corkscrew" at Michigan's Adventure in Muskegon as the top two coasters in Michigan.

He also has ridden all the "adult" coasters at Cedar Point, Disney World, Crystal Beach in Ontario, Santa Cruz Beach and Boardwalk in California, Great American in California and Six Flags/Great American in Illinois.

So what are the top coasters in the United States?

Mitzel says ACE does not rank rollercoasters, apparently because it does not want to create animosity with the owners of amusement parks ... many of whom like to boast that their coasters are the best.

Mitzel, however, is not reluctant to offer his own choices. At the top of his list is the "Wolverine Wildcat" in Muskegon. He also gives top marks to "The Comet" at Crystal Beach in Ontario, "The Giant Dipper" in Santa Cruz and "The Gemini" at Cedar Point.

All of his favorites have one thing in common — all are wooden rollercoasters, which he claims, are far superior to the steel coasters.

"They (wooden coasters) give you a rougher ride," he explained, adding that other ACE members might argue that steel coasters are superior because "they do loops and wooden coasters can't."

Mitzel also acknowledges that his list of top coasters should not be considered comprehensive because of his relatively limited experience.

"The veteran coaster enthusiasts would probably rate 'The Cyclone' at Coney Island in New York as the best," he said.

Other coasters with a reputation for excellence include "The Cyclone" at Riverside Park in Massachusetts, "The Texas Cyclone" at Six Flags/Astroworld in Houston, "Mr. Twister" in Denver, and "The Beast" and "The Vortex" at Kings Island in Ohio.

The most famous coaster of all time, according to Mitzel, was the Crystal Beach "Cyclone" in New York.

"Some people claim it was the most terrifying coaster in history," he noted of the coaster which was built in 1927 and lasted until 1948. "They had a fulltime nurse on duty at the loading zone at all times."

Mitzel also offered the following facts about rollercoasters:

□ The longest coaster in the world is "The Beast" at Kings Island in Ohio with a total track length of 7,400 feet.

□ The highest coaster in the world is the Tokyo Land Loop Coaster in Japan which is 193 feet high.

Mitzel said the record for highest coaster is scheduled to be broken next year when Cedar Point opens a new coaster named the Magnum-XL which will be almost 200 feet high and have a 192-foot drop. The cars, which weigh more than a ton apiece, will reach speeds of 70-75 miles per hour.

There's one other fact about coasters which Mitzel knows by heart. The record for most consecutive hours on a rollercoaster was set in 1980 by a Florida disk jockey named Jim King who rode the same coaster for 368 hours, covering some 10,000 miles.

"I read that his record has been broken," he said. "I don't know what the new record is yet, but someday I'd like to try to break it myself. Of course, you've got to find a park which will cooperate with you. But I think I'd like to go for the world record some time after I finish college."

Great idea, Steve. And if you ever run into a guy named Harry J. Austin, the best advice is probably to turn around and head rapidly in the other direction.

Anyone wishing to apply for membership in the American Coaster Enthusiasts may write the organization at Post Office Box 8226, Chicago, Ill. 60680. Members receive a membership card, a quarterly magazine titled "Roller Coaster," news and information about coasters throughout the world, and special coaster privileges at many of the top parks.

Program to help careers

The Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College is offering a Displaced Homemaker Program funded through grants from the Departments of Education and Labor. Project HERS (Homemaker's Employment Reentry System) offers career interest assessment, assertiveness training, resume writing and interview techniques.

Displaced Homemakers are people who have worked in the home most of their lives, and who have lost their source of income due to death, disability, desertion, divorce or separation from the person on whom they have been dependent.

Financial aid is available to cover the cost of tuition for those who are on public assistance, displaced homemakers, homemakers, or single parents who lack adequate job skills as well as recent, skilled, full-time work experience.

Project HERS meets on Tuesday and Thursday, 12:30-3 p.m. beginning Sept. 20. For further information on registration and financial assistance, call 501-6400, ext. 430.

Concert is Novi band

The Novi Concert Band returns to the bandshell in downtown Northville for a concert at 7:30 p.m. this Friday evening, Aug. 26.

The Novi Concert Band is a symphonic wind ensemble which was formed in 1982 under the auspices of the City of Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

The band is designed to give adults with a musical background a chance to exercise their talent, to represent the City of Novi, and to provide another outlet for mature band students.

The ensemble has a varied repertoire from classical to light middle-of-the-road pop.

Next week's concert is Bob Du Rant's 17-piece big band. That concert is scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m. Friday, Sept. 1. The Bob Du Rant show closes out this summer's concert season. The bandshell shows are sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission.

Years of work pay off

By JUDY BEYERSDORF
and PAT EDEN

Tucked away in a shady corner on Springwood in the western limits of the city of Northville is the colorful garden of Ruth and Ray Heyman.

They have worked to weave a corner lot filled with majestic trees and small areas of sunshine into a combination of annual and perennial treasures. Containers on wheels can be moved to give access to that elusive sunshine that skits around between trees and house during the day. This provides the maximum amount of sun to grow tomatoes and sun-loving annuals.

Ray has worked 25 years tenderly caring for his lawn and trees. Ruth admits to a lifelong love of nature, the earth and plants. She has created gardens in each of the homes where she has lived. She takes cuttings from her annuals and brings them in to the house extending her gardening hobby to a year round pursuit. She planted over 700 annual plants she bought from the nursery as well as those she tended in the basement this year.

This garden shows a harmony with nature as the back is kept natural with wildflowers and flowering spring bulbs. Circles of giant hosta plants grow around trees, as well as colorful impatiens, begonias and geranium which fill the front yard. And the side entrance is filled with bright tall flowers that lend themselves to cut arrangements. A bird feeder in the middle of the yard is busy all day with an assortment of feathered friends and the antics of the chipmunks and squirrels keep the Heyman's as well as their visitors amused and entertained throughout the year.

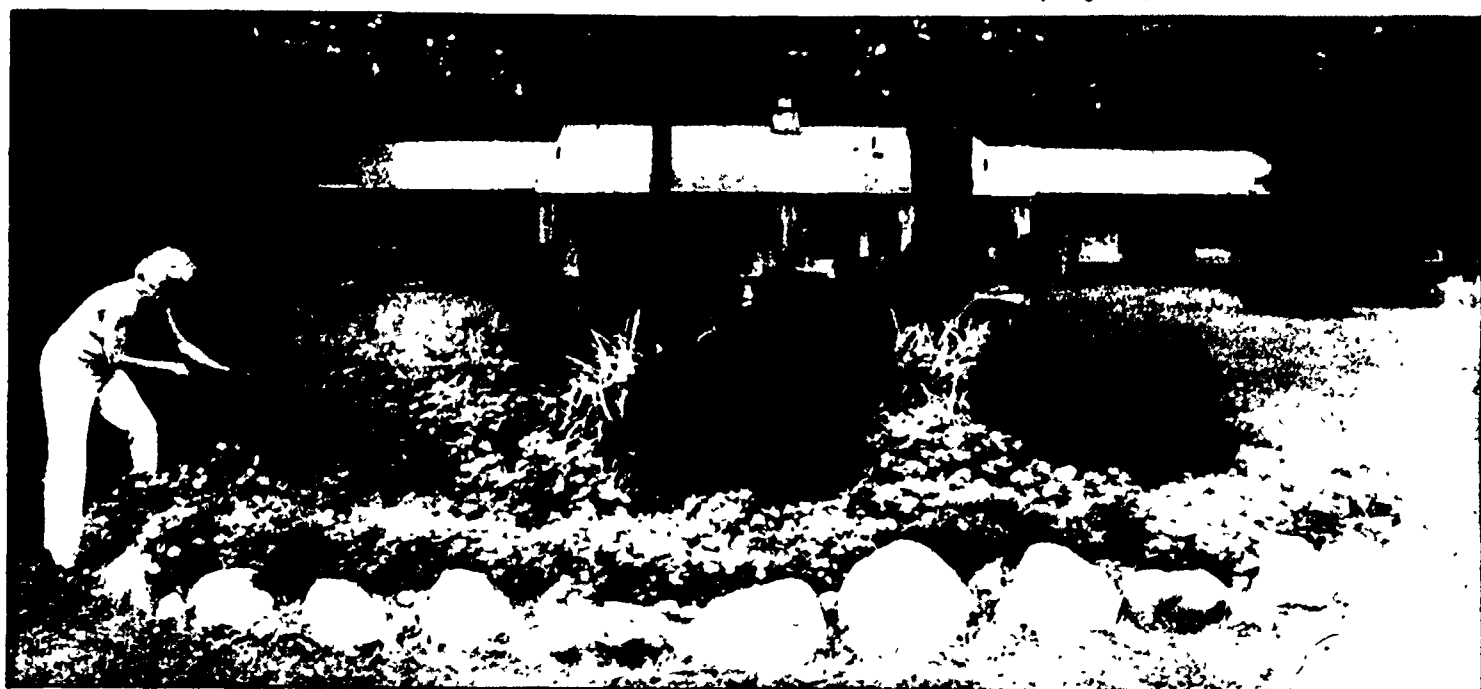

Flowers in the Heyman garden include

PERENNIALS: tulips, daffodils, peonies, iris, columbine, delphinium, coral bells, bleeding hearts, gaillardia, English daisy, chrysanthemum, daylilies, roses and lupine.

ANNUALS: impatiens, petunias, marigolds, dwarf dahlias, salvia, geraniums.

WILD FLOWERS: trillium.

New pastor in town

St. Paul Lutheran Church of Northville has announced the arrival of its new Associate Pastor, the Reverend Lawrence A. Kinne. Pastor Kinne will join the pastoral staff of St. Paul's in team ministry with Pastor Thomas Lubeck. Pastor Kinne will be applying 36 years of pastoral experience to his role at Northville, concentrating in the areas of ministry to shut-in members and assisting the caring/keeping ministry of the congregation.

Pastor Kinne and his wife, Delores, come to Northville from Adrian, where he served as pastor to Hope Lutheran Church for 6½ years. Prior to that, he served as pastor of Christ the King Lutheran Church in Southgate and also previously, as pastor of St. Matthew Lutheran Church at Walled Lake.

The Kinnes have four children: Timothy who is in his last year at Concordia Seminary, Fort Wayne, Ind.; Maureen Wolford of Port Huron; and Joyce Schonscheck of Walled Lake, who are all married, and Loren who resides in South Bend, Ind. Pastor and Delores have seven grandchildren.

The community is invited to attend the formal Installation Service for Pastor Kinne which will be held at St. Paul Lutheran Church at 201 Elm Street on Sunday, Aug. 28, at 4 p.m. The Rev. Dr. Richard Schlect, former President of the Michigan District of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, will be the guest preacher. A reception will be held immediately following the worship service in St. Paul's gymnasium in honor of the Kinnes.

Mapes baby born

Gary and Janise Mapes of Wixom announce the birth of their son, Andrew Michael, on July 25.

Andrew was born at Huron Valley Hospital. He weighed nine pounds, 7½ ounces and was 21 inches long at birth. He is the first child for the Mapes.

The new baby's paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Ted Mapes of Northville. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Botts of Livonia. Maternal great-grandmother is Mrs. Jane Fischer of Westland. Paternal great-grandparents are Mrs. Fred Wick of Northville and Mr. and Mrs. Emory Mapes of Northville.

Metropark lists events

Several events and nature activities are scheduled at Kensington Metropark during the month of August.

Vehicles entering the park are required to have a vehicle entry permit. (Annual: regular $10, senior citizen $5 or daily $2).

"Full Moon Walk", a naturalist led walk to search for creatures of the night and learn about moon folklore, will be held on Saturday, Aug. 27 at 8 p.m. Participants may bring flashlights.

"Summer Survival" is an opportunity to learn the basics of how to survive an emergency situation in the out-of-doors. It will be held on Sunday, Aug. 28 at 2 p.m. This program is recommended for ages 10 through adult.

This summer the Island Queen, a 66-passenger sternwheeler, continues to make 45 minute tours of Kent Lake in Kensington Metropark near Millford/Brighton.

One-man-band enlivens local lounge

By KARIN SWAN

They're still serving dinners at the Country Epicure when Kevin Wetzel takes the stage in the lounge.

He strums soft, easy-listening music to people waiting for tables or simply sipping cocktails and munching shrimp and oyster appetizers.

"I really have to hold back and keep the music as background; we have to keep the noise level down," said Wetzel who bills himself as "the original one-man band" and opened in the lounge at the renovated Epicure last October.

The tempo shifts after ten o'clock. And so does the volume. As the diners leave, the crowd changes. The people are younger... louder.

Wetzel visibly loosens up. He jokes with the regulars and belts out the tunes.

"Things start happening. People start moving tables off the dance floor. We have a crowd of regulars, people who like to dance," he said. "But the audience changes nightly, and every night is different."

Wetzel's music ranges from blues to country, but most of his songs are contemporary, popular music from the '50s through the '80s.

Wetzel got his start on guitar, and it has remained his primary instrument. But he's also proficient on a variety of instruments, including bass drums, synthesizers, harmonica and piano keyboards.

Wetzel records and tapes the backgrounds for each of the songs he performs at a recording studio in his Livonia home.

The background voice and instruments are blended so subtly that it is impossible to tell exactly where the tape ends, and the live voice of Wetzel and his guitar begin as he performs.

The process of recording the background consists of taping each individually-played instrument. Wetzel learns the parts and plays each himself, one at a time, on separate tapes. Then he mixes and blends them on stereo cassette to form one unit.

Wetzel began his musical career, and earned his first paycheck, when he was only 10 years old. He started a neighborhood band with his brother in his hometown of Jackson, Michigan.

They played local parties and

Kevin Wetzel is featured four nights a week at the Country Epicure dances, and soon began getting bookings across the state. The demanding life of being on tour had begun. Wetzel joined various bands, playing lounges and concerts. He played different parts with his voice and instruments with such bands as John Mayall, B.B. King and The Little River Band.

"I got tired of traveling across the country. I've been a musician all my life. Now I've put it all together. The purpose of a one-man band is for one person to sound like six — like a whole band. Some guys use machines for their backgrounds, but I don't. I do it all myself. I have the freedom to do what I do the best."

Wetzel is an active songwriter and has published 15 to 20 songs with his partner, Gary Shoehack.

"We write the lyrics first and then the music. We write a lot of pop country songs. We have some really good, solid country tunes."

Wetzel also writes music and lyrics for radio and television commercials. His voice may be vaguely recognizable as the rough, raspy solo on the popular Tubby Submarines radio commercials.

Twice a year Wetzel donates his talents for a benefit held by Sinai Hospital in Detroit. The proceeds are used for their extensive rehabilitation center.

Wetzel also sings and plays for private parties. He recently recorded, mixed and produced the music for "Learn to Fall," a play that ran at the Attic Theater in Detroit.

Wetzel's obvious favorite workplace is Epicure's Lounge.

waitstaff, kitchen and bus people, and even the owner, Karen Angelosante.

"There were tons and tons of people out here, and only a few were wearing construction belts. I did a lot of the carpentry and finish work myself. We had a great time; I like the atmosphere here. There's a lot of fun and friendship within the staff. Everyone gets along great; and it's a fun place for people to come."

"We're going to make the Lounge happen."

Wetzel performs at the Epicure Lounge four nights a week. He takes the small stage Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturday at 8 p.m.

And as soon as the dinner crowd clears out, things start rocking. The "original one-man band" makes sure of it.

Novi Hilton has 'psychathon' Sunday

The Novi Hilton will host a 36-hour "psychathon" — billed as "an all-out psychic gala" — to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association Sunday and Monday.

The event will start at noon Sunday, Aug. 28 and run to midnight Monday, Aug. 29. On Sunday, Michigan MDA poster child Ryan Young, television news anchor Bruce Kirk and psychic Diana will open the "psychathon."

Throughout the gala, a wide array of parapsychological arts will be talked about, as well as offering shifts of psychics, readers of Tarot cards and crystal balls. In addition, numerologists and astrologers will be on hand to read and chart the public.

Admission is $15, which will be donated to MDA. Admission buys two private readings.

CERAMICS EXHIBIT — "Color and Clay," a 46-piece juried exhibition by artists from 20 states, runs through Sept. 3 at Pewabic Pottery in Detroit.

The exhibition is intended to illustrate the scope of work being done today and will serve as a survey of the broad range of techniques possible in this media. A catalog is available documenting the exhibition, including both technical information and historical precedents for work using color and clay.

Pewabic Pottery is located at 10125 East Jefferson in Detroit. Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. An internationally-recognized ceramic learning center, museum and gallery, Pewabic is owned and operated by the nonprofit Pewabic Society, Inc. For further information, call 822-0954.

CAR SHOW — More than 300 classic and exotic vehicles including Packards, Buicks, Fords, Hudsons, Chryslers and foreign cars will be featured during the sixth annual Spirit of Detroit Car Show and Swap Meet from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 28.

The show is being presented by the Detroit chapter of the Veteran Motor Car Club of America, the Detroit Historical Department and the Detroit Historical Society. Proceeds will benefit the Detroit Historical Department's Automobile Collection Restoration Fund.

This year the show spotlights automobiles of 1948. Individuals can register entries in the show up to and including the day of the event.

Collectors will have an opportunity to buy and swap automobiles, parts and accessories. Many special activities are scheduled.

Admission is $2 per person and children under 12 accompanied by an adult will be admitted free. Car registration is $5. Historic Fort Wayne is at 6325 W. Jefferson at Livernois, just off the Fisher Freeway. Parking is free.

FENTON ART SHOW — The Fenton Artist Guild is sponsoring its 10th annual Art at the Center Fine Arts Show from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Aug. 27 and 28.

There are 95 artists from Michigan and Ohio registered in a variety of media including watercolor, oil, acrylics, pen and ink, fiber arts, basketry, pottery, woodcarving, jewelry and photography.

The show is on the grounds of the Fenton Community Center. For more information call 887-4411.

"THE MAN WHO CAME TO DINNER" — The Henry Ford Museum Theater presents this classic 1939 comedy Fridays and Saturdays through Sept. 10. A Sunday matinee is scheduled Aug. 28 at 4:30 p.m. For more information call 271-1620.

PLYMOUTH EXHIBIT — The Plymouth Historical Museum is presenting an exhibit called "Summer Fun" through Sept. 1.

Sea shells from around the world, bathing suits from the 1920s and fishing equipment from the '20s are some of the items in the exhibit.

The museum is also featuring a special exhibit of Majolica, a soft pottery with relief and covered with colored enamel glazes.

The museum is located at 155 South Main in Plymouth. It is open Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 1-4 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults, 50 cents for youth aged 11 to 17, and 25 cents for children 5 to 11.

POSTER ART — "Over Here: American Poster Art in the Great War, 1917-1919," featuring 66 posters used to mobilize the will of the nation during World War I, runs at the Detroit Historical Museum through September.

The museum is located at 5401 Woodward Avenue and is open Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Dilly Cheese Burgers

Preparation time: 15 minutes. Cooking time: 10 to 12 minutes

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1/2 cup shredded zucchini
- 1/2 cup chopped mushroom
- 1/4 teaspoon dill weed, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup plain yogurt
- 1 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 4 whole wheat buns, split
- 4 lettuce leaves
- 4 slices brisk cheese
- 2 slices Cheddar cheese, cut in half diagonally
- Chopped tomatoes

Combine ground beef, zucchini, mushrooms, 1/4 teaspoon dill, salt and pepper, mixing lightly but thoroughly. Divide into 4 portions and form into patties, 1/2 inch thick. Place on rack in broiler pan so burgers are 3 to 4 inches from heat. Broil 10 to 12 minutes, turning once. Combine yogurt, mayonnaise, remaining dill and a dash of pepper. Spread bottom half of each bun with 1 teaspoon yogurt mixture; top with lettuce leaf, one slice brisk cheese, burger, one half slice Cheddar cheese, 1 tablespoon yogurt mixture and chopped tomatoes. Cover with bun tops. 4 servings.

Mustang golfers readying for great season

Mustang golfers Chris Lemmon (front) and James Nordbeck examine a putt

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Don Morgan can hardly keep his optimism restrained.

As the head coach of the Northville boy's golf squad, Morgan may have the talent in '88 to improve on last season's impressive 10-2 record — but it won't be easy.

Morgan enters his second year as the Mustang coach on the heels of a very successful rookie campaign. He took the remnants of a talented but underachieving 3-7 team in '86 and molded them into a consistent winner last fall. Now the task is to maintain that level.

"I feel much more comfortable heading in than I did last year," Morgan said. "Hey, I'm excited."

With just one of his top six golfers from '87 lost to graduation, Morgan has very high hopes for the Mustangs. He has one of the top returning golfers in the state in Kevin Telepo, he has one of the most promising underclassmen around in Chris Lemmon, he has an experienced veteran in James Nordbeck and a transfer student who could challenge for team medalist honors.

"We're shooting to make the state meet as a team this season and I think the kids really believe they can do it," Morgan said. "I think we can be very respectable in every tournament we are entered in."

"We all have a good feeling about this season. We feel we can contend for the Western Lakes title and for the regional title."

The team's top returnee has to be Telepo, who finished seventh overall in the MHSAA Class A Meet last October. He led the team with a 39.31 average for nine holes, was second in the Class A regional and was named team MVP.

"Kevin is right where he left off last season," Morgan reported. "We'll be counting heavily on him to score well for us. He's a powerful and accurate driver and he keeps the ball in play. I'd have to say he's more mentally into the game this year and that comes with experience. The extra composure comes with maturity."

As a freshman last season, Lemmon was simply outstanding for the Mustangs and he is coming off a very productive summer tournament slate that included an impressive victory in the World Series of Junior Golf's Michigan Championship in July. Lemmon topped high school-age players from all over the state with a 36-hole score of 75-76 — 151 score.

"Chris has the capability to be a great player," Morgan said. "He's strong mentally and a lot of it has to do with all the work he's done in the off-season. He's strong around the greens and he keeps his composure better than most kids his age. He thinks his way around a course."

Lemmon was second on the team with a 41.09 average for nine holes last year.

Senior James Nordbeck returns for his fourth year on the Northville varsity and Morgan has been impressed with his early practice rounds. Nordbeck had a 41.64 average in '87 and according to Morgan, he's improved anywhere from two to three strokes a round.

"James is playing very well," he said. "Just like Kevin and Chris, James has played in a lot of tournaments this summer and because he's been on the team for so long, he knows what to expect and what it's all about. He's a consistent player in all aspects of the game."

Another player who may challenge these three for team medalist honors is Mike Crichton, who transferred from Redford Catholic Central for his senior year.

"He's going to be right up there with everybody else," Morgan predicted. "I think Kevin, Chris, James and Mike will all be fighting it out all season but I'm sure it will complement their games."

The fifth golfer will probably be veteran Dave McKee, who was number five a year ago. McKee (44.36 average) is described by Morgan as solid and dependable — he will share team co-captain honors with Telepo.

The battle for the sixth spot in the line-up will go to either sophomore Jason Schuerman or junior John Schriever — both are promising players up from the J.V. ranks.

Improving on last year's 10-2 mark won't be easy, however, because Morgan has assembled a much tougher and more demanding schedule — especially early in the campaign. After opening at the Brighton Invite on Aug. 26, the Mustangs will host St. Johns of Toledo, who were the Ohio state champs last year, on Aug. 29 and will then travel to Bloomfield Hills Lahser (third at the Michigan state meet in '87) on Aug. 30.

"I was looking for some tougher competition and I hope it helps us," Morgan explained. "If you play against a lot of weak-sisters, you can't really tell a thing about yourselves. This way we'll be tournament-wise early in the season. I'm excited and I know the kids are hungry this season."

Holzer's season highlighted by NABF national crown

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If it wasn't for a second chance at the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) College World Series, Northville's Tom Holzer Ford probably would have some sour memories of the 1988 season.

The Northville entry in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) failed in its bid to topple Little Caesars for the second straight year in league action despite finishing the regular season with a flurry — including a 15-2 record down the stretch.

But the veteran Holzer squad never gave up. While Caesars went off to the prestigious American Amateur Baseball Conference (AABC) tournament in Johnstown, Pa., Holzer has to win a qualifying regional for the right to go to Youngstown, Ohio for the less-prestigious NABF event. The locals did win the regional, and then they won the national title, capping off a remarkable 30-12 season that included wins in 24 of the final 30 games after a dreadful 6-6 start.

"All these players will remember that when they were 20 they were on a team that won a national tournament and that's a nice legacy to leave behind," Holzer Coach Bob Peterson said. "Very few people can say that — it was nice that we could represent Northville this way."

For Holzer, the backbone of the team included several Northville High School stars from a few years ago. Guys like Keith Dutkiewicz, Paul Newitt, Chris Willer, Scott Peterson and Brett Loomis have been on the team for at least three seasons apiece, and winning the NABF World Series was a nice way to wrap up their involvement with Tom Holzer Ford. Other key performers like Kevin Ritter and Tom Cotter have also played their last season with Holzer.

"This group of veteran players have been through some frustrating seasons and they've been together a long time," Peterson said. "It was very rewarding to see them succeed in Youngstown."

"It was fun watching the kids go after the NABF together. That makes it all really worthwhile. Not winning the league was disappointing but maybe it was a blessing because it opened up a chance to compete for a national title."

Offensively, Holzer was simply outstanding all season, as the team's .334 batting average can attest. All eight regulars in the field had averages well above the .300 mark, led by Dutkiewicz (.413). The Ferris State junior also was second on the team in RBIs with 34.

University of Michigan-bound Andy Fairman made his rookie season in the LCBL a memorable one as he led the league in homers (10) and RBIs (35), and had a fine .361 average. Rick Tavormina was second on the team in batting (.379 average) and Ritter led the team in runs scored (45), added six home runs and a .352 average. Peterson was the LCBL leader in walks (46) and on-base percentage (.602) and had a batting average of .358.

"The offense was better than I thought it would be," Peterson said. "I knew we'd be a solid hitting team, but I didn't think it would go this deep in the order."

The pitching staff got off to a very slow start and that's why Holzer struggled in the early going. But after that, the hurlers regrouped and had a fine stretch run.

"We won 22 regular season games but I was a little disappointed in our early pitching," Peterson admitted. "I thought we were much too good to be 6-6 and the problem was pitching."

Mike Salach and Loomis led the team with 4-0 records and had 3.14 and 2.80 earned run averages respectively. Dan Hilliard came on strong over the final third of the season to take staff ERA honors (2.09) and a 3-2 record. Chris Willer (3-1, 2.95) and Tom Cotter (3-2, 2.96) also contributed heavily during the season.

"I was really proud to see the way we picked it up after the slow start," Peterson said. "The chemistry was real good and that's a key element in winning. We just couldn't overcome the big early lead by Caesars."

Heat concerns worry coaches and parents

By LISA VAN CAMP

It was the first day of real football practice in Albion. The first day the players had to really sweat — drills, sprints — what the coaches call conditioning. A 16-year-old boy with a clean bill of health collapsed during practice and later died. The cause of death is not yet known, but many people blame the weather.

Although it's hard to believe the climate in Michigan can actually be that intense, this summer's inescapable heat has already claimed three lives in the Detroit area. As the temperature continues to climb, the heat has many local coaches and parents concerned.

In response to this concern a pre-season letter on the affects of heat exhaustion has been sent by Novi High School Athletic Director John Fundukian to all coaches.

"It reminds them to go easy, be cautious, push the liquids and monitor the athletes," Fundukian said.

According to Novi High School Athletic Trainer Randy Perrin, there are three types of heat related injuries: heat cramps, heat exhaustion and heat stroke. These occur after the body has sweated out all of its essential salts and nutrients called electrolytes.

The cure-all seems to be water. According to Northville High School Football Coach Darrel Schumacher, water is available at every drill station during practice and team members are encouraged to rehydrate themselves throughout the day, not just during practice.

"We pour a lot of liquids in our athletes," he said.

Because of the amount of pressure on soccer team hopefuls at Northville High School, Coach Dave Yezback advocates frequent rest breaks. According to Yezback, many individual team members refuse to take a break, even if they are tired, at the risk of being cut from the team and looking bad to their teammates.

"So we have to stop them all," he said.

The time a team practices has also changed. Both soccer and football teams now practice during the coolest part of the day. The Northville teams practice at night before 8 p.m. and the Novi teams practice in the morning before 1 p.m. The practices are also less strenuous. According to Schumacher, a hot and cranky football player will be less willing to work than his not so over-worked teammates, so he alternates the hard and easy drills allowing the players time to recover.

"You have to understand that a

Novi senior John Cohen failed to make the U.S. Olympic team in the 200-yard breaststroke

Novi's Cohen swims at Olympic Trials

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Jon Cohen's Olympic dream will have to wait another four years.

The 17-year-old Novi swimming sensation has been pointing toward the 1992 Summer Olympics for some time, so his appearance in the 1988 Olympic Trials in Austin, Texas, last weekend was a tremendous bonus, even though he failed to make the team and didn't swim particularly well.

For most, a chance to qualify for the United States Olympic team is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, but if everything goes according to plans, Cohen will have a much better chance in 1992.

He'll be 21 years old then, which is the peak age for male swimmers, and he'll probably have at least three seasons of collegiate swimming under his belt.

Just qualifying for the Olympic Trials is no small accomplishment and establishes Cohen as one of the top young Olympic hopefuls in the country competing in such a meet can only help his chances, and his dreams, for 1992. He was the youngest male from Michigan to qualify for the trials.

Cohen qualified for the Olympic Trials in the 200-yard breaststroke. He made the cut at the Junior Nationals in Orlando, Fla., on July 30-31 with a time of 2:23.82 — nearly a second quicker than the qualifying cutoff. He placed fourth overall.

"I feel it's the biggest accomplishment I've made so far in swimming," said Cohen. "I don't consider the breaststroke my best, but I swam well."

Although he failed to qualify for the trials in the 400 IM, 200 IM and 100 breaststroke events while swimming in Orlando, Cohen did post impressive times and places. He set a new Michigan state record of 4:34.0 in the 400 and placed fourth, but didn't reach the cut. Cohen also was eighth in the 200 IM (2:09.8) and 12th in the 100 breaststroke (1:07.4).

"Jon was the only boy from the metro-Detroit area to make the trials," his mother Cyndy said. "It's a big accomplishment just to qualify. He's considered one of the best all-around swimmers in the country for his age."

So how well did Cohen do in Texas? Well, the Cohen family is refusing to say where he placed or what his time was in the 200 breaststroke, but meet officials say he placed 65th out of 78 total swimmers with a time of 2:26.50.

"He did not come close to improving his best time," was all Cyndy Cohen would say.

Cohen did finish ahead of John Moore from Okemos who was the 1988 state champ in the 200 breaststroke, but he would have needed to place in the top two overall to make the U.S. Olympic team. Mike Barkowman and Kirk Stackle were the two who made the team.

"I know my chances are remote, but there is still a chance," Cohen said prior to the competition. "It's not very common to see a high school guy on the team. Everybody knows about the Olympics — it's such a big deal because it happens only once every four years and I'm thrilled to be at the trials.

"I still think my best chance (for the Olympics) is 1992. I can learn a lot from a meet like this. It's a once-in-a-lifetime thing, but for me I'm hoping it's a twice-in-a-lifetime thing."

RECREATION BRIEFS

Northville tops on KVC's want list?

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville High School, a member of the Kensington Valley Conference (KVC)? Probably not, but it hasn't been ruled out.

The prospect of the Mustangs changing conference affiliation has been a hot and cold running rumor for quite a while now. Everybody knows that Northville is currently a member of the 12-team Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) but that could change if some high placed administrative officials in Northville are dissatisfied with the current situation and are in favor of the change.

It's hardly a secret that the KVC has been wanting an eighth member in their league, and according to reports, Northville is at the top of the list. The main criteria for an eighth member appears to be a smaller class A school with close proximity to the other KVC members — and on both accounts, Northville seems to fit the bill perfectly.

With roughly 1,200 students, Northville is a solid Class A high school, but would still be smaller than most of the other KVC entrants. Location-wise, Northville is just a few miles south of Novi High, and the Wildcat teams haven't had any major problems in the travel department and they've been in the KVC since the early 1980s.

"We've been looking for an eighth member for a while now but we don't have any hot prospects," said former Novi Athletic Director John Osborne. "It's very difficult to have an odd number of teams for scheduling purposes so we'd love to have somebody like Northville."

According to Osborne, the KVC has considered many schools as their eighth member over the years including Walled Lake Western, Holly and even Ortonville Brandon. But if Northville was to make such a change, the WLAA would be stuck with an odd number of teams.

Larger Class A schools like Clarkston have inquired about the eighth spot, but reportedly were turned down because they were too large and too far away.

"We've tried to woo several schools but we haven't had any success yet," Osborne said. "We've also turned a few down."

Many observers assume Northville would prefer to get out of the WLAA because the league houses a host of very large Class A schools, like Livonia Churchill and Westland John Glenn (both have over 2,000 students). Only Farmington Harrison and Farmington High Schools have enrollments that are less than Northville among WLAA members. But assuming that Northville wants out of the WLAA may not necessarily be true.

"At this point I'm not aware of any desire for us to make a change," Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan said.

According to Colligan, many Northville coaches would be against the move, specifically in areas where the Mustangs are able to compete with the rest of the WLAA on a regular basis — like tennis, swimming and soccer. If it was to become a member of the KVC, Northville would probably dominate in these areas. The KVC has only two schools with swimming programs, is just starting a conference soccer league and is generally considered less respected in both boys and girls tennis.

"Among some coaches, I'm sure they would be in favor of it," Colligan said. "But others like swimming and soccer would probably be dead against it. Can you imagine what our girls soccer team would do to the rest of the KVC team? It wouldn't be very fun."

In addition to all the athletic aspects, there is also academics and other non-athletic activities to consider. Colligan said that being a member of such a large and respected conference like the WLAA has its advantages in many areas.

"The sheer size of the WLAA is a definite factor," he said. "The WLAA is so solid in all areas, not just athletically but academically. We have a strong board of directors and we are well organized. There is a lot of other things to take into consideration besides football and basketball."

Novi and Northville hook up on the gridiron at the end of each season, even though they are members of two separate leagues, but rumors have surfaced that the KVC is trying to lure Northville from the WLAA

Colligan said that they haven't been approached by the KVC, at least not formally, but if they were, they would at least consider the proposition.

"If we were approached formally and if there was some support for such a change, we would have to look into it very closely," Colligan said.

"We have a great respect for the KVC but such a decision is far above what an athletic director would decide — we have a principal, a school board and a superintendent that would all be involved heavily in any discussion."

Northville Football Coach Darrel Schumacher was very careful and conservative when questioned on the subject, but did say that Northville

"would be a good addition to the KVC."

"Anytime you can compete against schools that are more comparable in size, it's a welcome chance," he said. "But the league we're in is one of the best in the state and that makes us work that much harder to be competitive."

"Both conferences are good, solid organizations. The KVC has schools more our size but you can't look at just the athletics."

Schumacher points out that Farmington Harrison is the smallest of the WLAA schools, and yet the Hawks are perennial powers in football every year.

"The thing that throws the whole argument out the door is Harrison," he pointed out. "They do put extra emphasis on football but they have the tradition."

Heat concerns abound

student tires a lot quicker in this heat," he said.

Will this weather effect the teams later in the season? The coaches say "no." Although the less strenuous practices will result in a not so well conditioned team at the season's start, the coaches hope to make up for lost time later in the season.

"I just can't push them like I normally do ... but everybody else is in the same boat," Yezback said.

According to Novi Soccer Coach Nick Valentini, the key is watching the players for signs of stress and fatigue. Since this task is easier to accomplish without helmets, pads and other heat insulating equipment which can disguise the affects of heat exhaustion, Valentini said his job is easier then that of a football coach. But this "too hot to breathe" weather is run of the mill for Novi soccer players.

"It's like this every August ... we have it all under control," Valentini said.

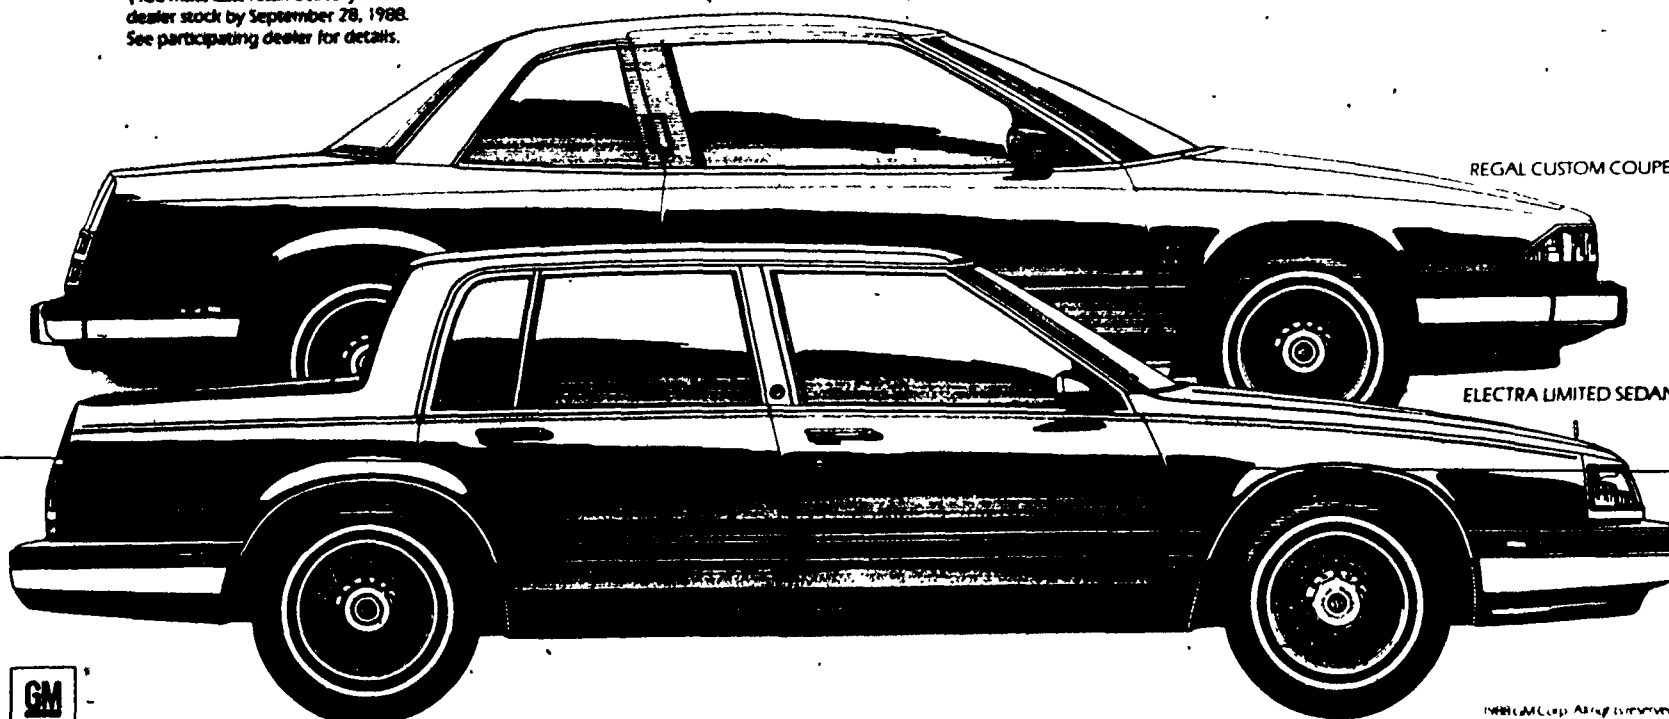

As far as most parents are concerned any precautions are well worth it. According to Judy Hendrian, the mother of Novi starting quarterback Ken Hendrian, being there is the best preventive medicine. Ken's father also attends his games with a ready supply of Gatorade and water.

Hair care routine is recommended

By PHIL GINOTTI

It's a foreign concept to most people — a technical and specific "hair care" routine.

But as people continue to stay active, toiling away at aerobics, racquetball, swimming, and all of the other activities that are putting a historical thumbprint on "the 80s," hair care is becoming a real focus.

Situation: "Yuppie" takes on a twice-a-week aerobic class.

Situation: Couple enrolls at local club for swimming program, taking advantage of one of the newest, low-risk types of athletic activities.

In each, there are certain preparations to be made. There are shoes, goggles, gym bags, and new outfits to be bought. Schedules to be rearranged. Babysitters to be brought on board.

One of the minuscule details that will probably get left out is personal care products, specifically, shampoos. In fact, most people will probably pluck their trusted brand out of the shower on their way to "the workout," almost as an afterthought.

But there can be a better way, and local hair stylists have some recommendations.

First off, the person embarking on a new exercise program will probably be taking a second daily shower two or three times a week. The shampoo that worked just fine once-a-day might not be suited for that kind of multiple cleansing.

Swimmers have to fight chlorine. They can use a specially blended shampoo to remove deposits, besides taking a few other steps that can make hair care easier.

"A lot of products that are sold in stores have a great deal of detergent in them," said Samira Dabish, a hair stylist at "Heidi's" in Twelve Oaks

Mall. "It is very harsh on your hair... and you may begin to notice a difference if you change your routine."

Dabish recommended that people try a hair care product tailored to their own hair type.

"It really depends a lot on the type of hair you have," she said. "We can take a look at what kind of hair you have and prescribe a type of treatment for it."

Heidi's also makes available ALOE/RID, a treatment which removes chemical, hairspray, or medication deposits.

Ruth Coursey, from the "Hair Performers" shop in the Novi Town Center, said removing chlorine should be a top priority for swimmers.

"There are a number of shampoos intended strictly for that purpose," she said. "They aren't to be used every day though."

She recommended checking with a local salon or sporting goods store for proper brands.

Coursey says swimmers should perform a light conditioning rinse before entering the pool, rinse thoroughly, then begin swimming with their hair still partially wet.

"That prevents the chlorine and other chemicals from being absorbed as rapidly," she said.

Coursey said choosing an over-the-counter shampoo is tough because most are very similar. But there are differences.

"If they have a high alcohol content, or alcohol type products listed high in the 'contents' section, then you probably should be looking somewhere else," she said.

Reconstructive conditioners are also available to deal with hair that has been exposed continually to chlorine or other types of chemicals.

12th annual 'Run For Youth' race slated

The 12th annual 'Run For Youth' event will be held on Sept. 17 at the corner of Hines Drive and Ann Arbor Trail in Livonia.

There will be three races: a one mile run (starts 9:40 a.m.), a 5 K (at 9:30 a.m.) and a 10 K (at 10 a.m.). Registration can be made at Perrinville School from 8-9:50 a.m. the day of the race.

Entry fee is $10 and runners receive T-shirt, awards, pop and pizza.

HEALTH/FITNESS CLASSES: Botsford General Hospital on Grand River in Farmington Hills is offering numerous health and fitness related classes this fall.

"An adult CPR class is being offered the first Thursday of every month from 7-10 p.m., in the Administration and Education Center. Fee is $5, for more information call 471-8090.

"Free blood pressure screenings and vision screenings will be offered on Sept. 12 and Oct. 10 from 1-4 p.m.

"Infant and child CPR will be the first Monday of each month from 7-10 p.m. Fee is $5.

"A workshop in stress management skills is scheduled for Sept. 13 from 7-9:30 p.m. and will run for four consecutive Tuesdays. Program charge is $60 and pre-registration is required.

"Blood pressure education classes will be held on Oct. 19 and run for four consecutive Tuesdays from 7-9 p.m. Fee is $25.

"An Alzheimer support group will meet at 7:30 p.m. the first Tuesday of every month. For more information, call Carolyn Darling at 477-7400.

BLOOD PRESSURE CLASSES: The Oakland County Health Division will offer a series of six blood pressure control classes to residents of Oakland County. The classes will be held weekly, from 7-9 p.m., at the Oakland County Health Division's South office, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield, on Wednesdays, September 28, October 5, 12, 19, 26 and November 2. All classes are free but pre-registration is required as class size is limited.

Topics that will be covered during these classes include:

1. defining the disease (an overview of high blood pressure and its control)
2. medications used in treatment
3. dietary recommendations (meal planning and food choices)
4. living with high blood pressure
5. cholesterol teaching

Classes will be taught by Oakland County Health

Division public health nurses and nutritionists. Activities and information shared will help class participants better understand high blood pressure and self-care skills. Spouses and/or other family members are encouraged to attend.

For further information or to pre-register, call 424-7042.

IMMUNIZATION CLINIC: The Oakland County Health Division will be offering an immunization clinic for Walled Lake and surrounding areas at the Walled Lake United Methodist Church, 313 Northport, Walled Lake, on Tuesday, September 6, from 9:30 a.m. to noon.

Immunizations for measles, German measles, mumps, polio, diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough and Haemophilus influenzae Type B (HIB) will be available.

A parent or legal guardian must accompany a child under 18 years of age. Please bring any previous records of immunizations, including notices which might have been sent home from the child's school pertaining to immunizations.

Immunizations will be given at the same time and location on the first Tuesday of every month. The next scheduled immunization clinic will be on October 4.

For further information, call 424-7042.

DIABETES CLASSES: A series of six diabetes classes will be held on Thursday evenings, from 7-9 p.m., in the auditorium of the Oakland County Health Division's South office, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield. These classes are scheduled to begin on Thursday, September 8.

These classes are for adult diabetics and their family members. They are taught by a public health nurse and a registered dietitian. Topics that will be discussed include the nature of the disease, dietary management, medications and suggestions for coping with everyday problems.

There are no fees charged for these classes. However, you are asked to pre-register as enrollment is limited.

To register, please call 424-7042.

WOODLAND URGENCY LINE: Is it a medical emergency? Now Woodland Health Care Center can help determine the answer to that question, with the newly-installed Woodland Urgency Line, a 24-hour, toll-free service that is offered to Woodland's 100,000-plus patients in the tri-county area.

The Urgency Line, implemented July 25, will offer assistance as to whether a situation is an emergency or an urgency. If it is deemed an emergency, the caller will be directed to a nearby emergency facility, and the call will serve as authorization for the HMO patient's insurance. If it is not an emergency, Woodland will encourage the patient to schedule an appointment for the following day with their physician.

"It's a service that's unique in the market," said Sharyn Schlarmann, director of marketing and public relations for Woodland. "It's toll-free, it meets the HMO insurance authorization requirement, and it offers access to a physician, 365 days a year."

The Urgency Line phone number is 1-800-833-2791.

Woodland Health Care Centers is an affiliate of The Detroit Medical Center. Woodland consists of four health care centers, and offers full-service medical — including over 70 physicians in various specialties with full technical facilities — under one roof. The Detroit Medical Center is a high-technology health care delivery system, and is recognized as one of the premier health care systems in the United States.

EXPECTANT PARENTS CLASSES: The Oakland County Health Division will offer a series of six Expectant Parent Classes beginning on Wednesday, September 7, in the Southfield office of the Health Division, 27725 Greenfield Road, Southfield.

Classes will be held in the evenings from 7 to 9 p.m. and will be taught by public health nurses. There is no charge for attending the series of classes, but you are asked to pre-register as enrollment is limited.

Topics will include maternal physical changes, good nutrition, growth and development of the fetus and the baby, labor and delivery, infant care and parenting.

The Health Division advises that you enroll as early in your pregnancy as possible.

To register, please call 424-7042.

Fitness Tips

Toilet training for children shouldn't be rushed

By NEIGATHA GRANEY, M.D.

The mere mention of potty training can stir emotions in many parents. One reason is that parents feel pressure to adhere to timetables set by older brothers and sisters or other children. An important thing to remember is that potty training cannot be rushed; the child must be ready and able to delay a bowel movement or wetting until in the proper place. Potty training can be a much easier process if parents do not expect too much too soon or try too hard.

First of all, the child must be able to understand what you are asking him or her to do and have some control over the bowel and bladder muscles. Children are usually able to do both after 18 months of age. This is a good age to introduce the potty seat to your child. Encourage him or her to sit on it at least once a day with or without clothes on. A good time to try is after meals for bowel movements and several times during the day for urination.

If your child does not want to sit on the potty seat, then he or she isn't ready. Sometimes a few weeks may pass before interest is shown again. Gentle persistence is the best approach; and also remember to reward any efforts with a few words of praise.

Changing from diapers to training pants further encourages children to potty train as it makes them feel more independent. Most parents know that this is exactly what two-year olds are constantly in search of. Nighttime bladder control usually follows daytime control although there may be a long delay.

Another important factor is that parents who have set limits on their child's behavior will find that because their child has learned some self-control in other areas, he or she will be more likely to cooperate with potty training efforts.

Remember that accidents do happen, especially when kids are tired or going through a stressful time. Finally, and most important of all, remember that patience is the key to successful potty training.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

LA NOUVELLE. LASSALE.

Sleek and sinuous Lassale design. For him: round white dial displays day, date, 12-hour and 24-hour time, dual time zone and phases of the moon. Set off with a satiny gold-tone link bracelet. For her: baguette with ivory color dial and circle with black dial. Both with gold-tone bracelets. Polished performers, all.

BORICS WILL GIVE YOU A NEW REASON TO SMILE.

BECAUSE YOU'LL LIKE THE WAY YOU LOOK

In fact, we guarantee you'll like it. For just $6, our trained professionals will give you a quality haircut. They'll wet down your hair with a special cutting solution, cut it the way you want and blow it dry.

Clean hair is necessary for accurate hair cutting. You can shampoo your hair on the day of your visit, or, for a small charge, we'll shampoo it for you. Because, at BoRics, you pay only for the services you need.

You can't beat BoRics for convenience, either. No appointments are necessary. Just walk into one of our convenient locations Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., or Saturday 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.*

Don't settle for the uninteresting styles of a barbershop or the high prices of a beauty salon. Stop into BoRics and let us give you a new reason to smile, too.
