Parking may end downtown plan

By BOB NEEDHAM

A dispute over parking cost may have killed the latest plan to develop the southwest corner of Main and Center streets.

A $160,000 gap - between what the city said it could finance and what the company said it could afford went unresolved at Monday's City Council meeting. That led officials on both sides to conclude the project is probably dead, although Singh Development Vice President Mike Kahm held out some hope for his plan.

"We're not giving up totally, but we've run into a brick wall. We have to take our rose-colored glasses off and look at this thing," Kahm said Tuesday, after the meeting. But, he added, "We're really nowhere at this stage.

City Manager Steve Walters ex-plained at the meeting that negotiations between the city and Singh led to some agreement on a $1.3 million parking plan, including a new idea for a 160-space parking deck at Center and Cady. But the highest amount Singh would pay for the deck and the highest amount the city would finance was $160,000 apart.

"It doesn't look particularly encouraging," Mayor Chris Johnson said after Walters outlined the situation.

"We were attracted to this project initially because we felt very positively about Northville," Kahm said. "We've come to the conclusion that we can't have our cake and eat it, too, at least financially "

He said the company was aware of the parking considerations all along. 'We were concerned about it, but we thought we would be able to work it out . . . The dollars just aren't there We have to make a business decision," Kahm said.

Township finalizes sewer expansion

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

"One and a half years ago we told the board that this (sewer) project was do-able and now you can make it happen," said Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad.

Essed made his remark just before the Township Board unanimously passed an agreement last Wednesday, allowing the township to send sewage flow through the Western Townships Utility Authourity (WTUA) to the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority (YCUA) plant, when the line is built.

Both Canton and Plymouth Townships, which joined Northville Township to form WTUA, approved similar agreements last week.

"Yeah!," exclaimed Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss. "It was a long, hard job putting this project together, but we're finally on our way.

"We

Consultant Abe Munfah said, Northville is served by the Wayne County interceptor system Once the Township goes on the WTUA system, there will be enough capacity to ser vice all three townships until the year 2030, Munfah said.

Under the terms of the agreement WTUA will tie into the YCUA system by Jan. 1, 1993; YCUA will treat up to 8.7 million gallons per day from WTUA in its facility; WTUA will construct an outfall to the Rouge River, YCUA will have the right to par ticipate in any YCUA plant expan sion and will have a 99-year lease on the portion of the plant expansion WTUA finances, and WTUA will pay all costs of transporting wastewater to the Ypsilanti plant

Essad said it was extremely difficult to get all the people involved, if not in agreement, than working so as not to impede the project

He noted the discharge permit ichi

tion of Southeast Michigan found worrisome levels of the gas radon in Novi and Milford, it is recommending that Northville residents test as wei).

Alex Johnson, executive assistant of the lung association, said testing is a good idea throughout the southeast Michigan area.

"For people in Northville, we recommend testing, just like we recommend for people in Detroit, Birmingham, Bloomfield Hills," he said. "Test your home . . . that's the first step."

Survey results announced last week indicated dangerously high radon levels in "the Novi-Milford area." In all, 30 homes in southeast Oakland County were tested

It is unclear how many of the test results from the survey unveiled last week came from the Northville area. Johnson has thus far been reluctant to to disclose specific areas because the test results are confidential.

Johnson said they are noticing the highest levels in the area west of 1-275 in southwestern Oakland County, But that doesn't rule out a potential problem in the Northville area as well, he said. Older homes may have a special worry, Johnson said.

"It's a very random thing," he said. "The older the home is, the more likely you are to have entry points for radon. But we're seeing it in newer homes as well."

Home radon test kits are carried at

Brookside Hardware on Novi Road and at Meijer on Haggerty and Eight Mile Black's Hardware on Main Street has the test kits on order and expects them to be in soon.

Alex Johnson

We've learned a lot," Johnson said. "You can easily, inexpensively test. We've also learned that it is not as expensive to repair and mitigate." Matt Demattos, assistant manager at Brookside, said the test kits have been selling "extremely well."

"We've been selling a ton of them," he said. "On an average day we sell

Radon is an odorless, colorless, radioactive gas which will cause 20,000 lung cancer deaths in the United States this year, according to the lung association. Studies have shown that one home in five has a radon level above the safe standard set by the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

Radon is formed when uranium in the earth's soil, water and underlying deposits of granite, phosphate and shale naturally decay. It emits into the atmosphere and breaks down into radioactive "alpha" particles. These isotopes attach themselves to dust particles in the air, where they are inhaled into the lungs and cause permanent tissue damage, according to the lung association.

City continues talks on home day care

By BOB NEEDHAM

Home day care operations continued to get attention from the Northville City Council Monday night, but pending state legislation could override any action the city might take on the issue.

One home day care center was recently cited by the city for violating the zoning ordinance, and as a result the City Council started discussing the possibility of distinguishing small, in-home day care from full-fledged day care centers.

A suggested ordinance change offered by City Manager Steve Walters would specifically allow in-home child care of six children or fewer in a residential area. All such operations are required to be licensed by the state.

After discussion Monday, the council took no formal action but agreed to discuss the issue further at its next meeting, Oct. 17-

Meanwhile, the state Senate last week passed a three-bill package which would require licensed to-home day care to be considered a residential use. Sen. Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills), whose district includes Novi and the north end of Northville, sponsored the bills. Northville's other state senator, R Robert Geake, voted in favor of the bills.

The City Council Monday heard the owners of the cited home defend the operation, while one resident of the area opposed the idea of home day care in residential areas.

Jack Ellis said he had circulated a petition of people opposing profit-making operations in a residential area.

"I moved into a residential neighborhood; there's a commercial enterprise being carried on there," he said.

Ellis suggested that any new ordinance should limit the businesses to three children, including those that live in the home "I would say that three children constitutes babysitting. Above three children constitutes day care and I think it should be limited," he said.

Ellis also suggested limits ca the number of operations in a given area. "Within that little bit of area . . . there are four people that want to start that sort of situation," he said.

Bill and Susan Butz, who own the cited home, said their operation is not an adverse impact on the area and is within state guidelines. Susan Butz, who has run a full-fledged day care center, has now applied for an in-home license, they said. They added that they operate with six or fewer children.

"To criticize without justification is, I think, unwarranted," Susan Butz said. The couple invited the council members to stop by and see their setup any time.

Council member Paul Folino repeated concerns from an earlier meeting about an ordinance protecting the rights of neighbors, and Council Member Jerry Mittman again suggested the city set a number of children fewer than six.

Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said an important concern is that an overly restrictive ordinance can result in more people operating outside state and local rules.

The council agreed to keep a fairly light agenda at the next meeting, at $ p.m. Monday, Oct. 17, for a major discussion of the issue.

sufficiency when it comes to Natural Resources (DNR) should be wastewater disposal," she added.

Community education classes offer something for everyone

By LISA VAN CAMP

Did you ever wake up in the middle of the night with the incredible urge to learn how to tie a scarf? Is there a special skill you always wished you could learn? Do you wish you could get your kids out of the house for just a few hours a week? The answer may be community education.

Karen Hooper is the supervisor of adult and community education in Northville, and has been involved with the program for six years. According to Hooper, community education isn't just for old ladies and young children.

"The classes are for anyone who wants to learn someting new," Hooper said. The community education program offers non-credit leisure classes for adults, senior citizens and kids. The classes include everything from ballroom dancing to dog obedience. The most popular community education leisure activites are the field trips.

The Coe Railroad mystery dinner on Friday, Oct 28, which includes an evening of Sherlock Holmes-like murder solving and a ride on a vintage Michigan railroad, is a favorite of seniors and yuppies alike. The price is $45 a couple and $25 for a single person.

"It's already almost booked up," Hooper said.

A trip to Eastern Market in Detroit and a weekend tour of the Agwa Canyon in Sault Ste. Marie are among the other field trips sponsored by the community education program.

The leisure classes are offered fall, winter and spring and are taught by devout enthusiasts of a hobby or skill who approach Hooper with a fire in their eye and the desire to teach.

"Most of the teachers are very good," she said.

The classes vary from term to term but there are a few old standbys. According to Hooper, most Northville residents can't resist huffing and puffing their way through an aerobics class or broadening their horizons with a foreign language and what kid wouldn't jump at the chance to be enrolled in a creative painting class?

Hooper is also a frequent student of various craft workshops and taken courses in home remodeling, and

The classes for senior citizens, according to Hooper, can really improve the quality of an elderly person's life. The classes are usually held at Allen Terrace and offer a chance to meet new people of the same age with similar interests.

"It gets them out and gives them somet?ing to do. It's important for them to be with others," Hooper said.

The most important part of the community education program, Hooper believes, is the high school completion courses. This part of the program is run in conjunction with Garden City community education and also includes cosmetology training. These classes are not always as full as the courses emphasizing leisure, but they are twice as significant.

"So we'll run them short if we have to," Hooper said.

Free private literacy tutoring is also available to anyone who shows an interest.

All of the classes are reasonably priced. Course fees range from $11 for a manicure class to $195 for an advanced reading and study skills class

Anyone interested in finding out more about a Northville Community Education course can call 344-8447.

NEWS BRIEFS

HOME PHOTOS PLANNED - Wayne County Appraisal Company is working for Northville Township in an effort to update the Township record keeping system. An individual record for each property will be maintained which will contain copies of all information concerning the property including sales, assessment, and building permits information. As part of this record, a photograph will be included.

Northville Township will have photographers taking pictures of all properties in the township. Township officials warn residents that if anyone identifies himself or herself as a township photographer and requests to enter your home, you should contact the township immediately at 348-5800.

The photographers will carry township identification and are instructed to present it when asked. The photographers do not need to enter a home and will take pictures from the front only.

STATE POLICE BLOOD DRIVE - The Michigan State Police in conjunction with the American Red Cross is sponsoring a blood drive. The drive will be Oct. 10 from noon to 6 p.m. at the Northville State Police Post. Lt. Harry B. Hall, coordinator of the project has issued an invitation to all local residents, city and township workers and others to participate.

Red Cross officials have noted a severe shortage of blood supplies in recent months. There is absolutely no risk of infection from donating blood, Red Cross officials note, as a new, sterilized needle is used for each doner.

MEDICAL WASTE CONSIDERED - The Northville Planning Commission, which had begun investigating a possible city ordinance regulating medical waste, has sent the issue on to the City Council.

At the commission's request, Planning Consultant Don Wortman suggested a few places the city could specifically regulate medical waste in its ordinance books. After receiving the report at its meeting Tuesday, Sept. 27, commissioners said it was more a council issue and voted 7-0 to send the report ahead for consideration.

NHS homecoming set next week

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Northville High School's Homecoming 1968 is set to begin next Monday with numerous projects and activities planned for the week-long celebration.

Assistant Principal Ralph Redmond said homecoming week is primarily designed to welcome back recent graduates of Northville High.

"Homecoming week is supposed to be a special occassion for college students, as we want to welcome them back to the Northville community," Redmond said. He added the week of activities is also aimed at stirring up a sense of pride and unity for the current Northville High student body.

"Identification in a school is great because it spurs interest and turns the kids on to school for further learning and socialization," Redmond said.

He noted the activities during homecoming week will be sponsored by the Pep Club and the Student Congress.

Homecoming week committee chairpersons include: Class Competition - Shirley Nagy, Pep Assembley - Erin Trosian, Lunchtime Activities - Sean Payne and Greg Siemasz, Dress-up Days - Dar-rin Marsh and Kam Ahmad, and Float Building - Rose Sapla and Chris Farley.

Other committee chairpersons inciude: Publicity - Stacy Tucker, Dance Committee - Michelle Potok and Greg Siemasz, Parade and Halftime Activities - Jenifer Pidrumy, King and Queen - Kriz Abbots and Becky Bajoreck and Escort Cars -Darrin Marsh.

> Homecoming Publicity 'Chairperson Stacy Tucker said the theme of this year's homecoming week is 'The World of Music and Dance.'

Following is a list of daily activities during Northville Homecoming Week 1968:

• MONDAY - Pajama dress-up day and musical pitch lunch activity.

Tuesday -Career day dress-up and Life Saver pass during lunch. Wednesday — Hipple dress-up day and powder puff lunchtime ac tivity.

• Thursday - Beach boy dress-up day, Miss America Pie lunch activity, and the homecoming court will be announced at half-time of the girls varsity basketball game.

• Friday — Orange and black day, lipstick race during lunch, pep assembly at 1:10 p.m., homecoming parade at 6 p.m., and the homecoming game vs. Walled Lake Western at 7:30 p.m.

Tucker said float building for all grades will be from 5-10 p.m. next Monday through Friday at the football stadium.

She added the homecoming dance will be next Saturday night from 8:30-11 p.m. in the school cafeteria, Tickets for the dance are $5 each and $10 per couple, with prices double at the door.

Library submits budget for next year

The Northville Public Library has submitted a balanced 1989 budget of $329,318 for consideration by city and township officials.

The budget is up from the amended 1988 budget of $278,513. The increase in revenues is due to larger contributions from the city and township.

The biggest increased expense is a jump in the budget for full-time salaries, from $127,647 to $160,645. An explanatory note states that this is due to a 10 percent raise over last year for union members; increases for librarians from 6 to 10 percent; 10 extra hours per week for the juvenile services librarian; and 10 hours per week of clerical time no longer provided by the city.

By far the largest chunk of library revenue comes from the budgets of the city and township of Northville Under the proposed budget, Northville Township's contribution would rise from $120,609 to $171,682. The city's share would rise from $82,776 to $108.387.

The city and township contributions are determined by an involved formula based on total state equalized valuation. The township ends up paying 61.3 percent and the city 38.7 percent in the propos ed budget.

The budget document also lists library goals for 1989. They are:

· Registering every student in Northville schools for a library card

 Adding programs for adults and young adults to include resume preparation and job hunting. estate planning and will preparation, baseball card collecting, a young adult summer activities club, and regularly scheduled book reviews and discussions.

· Continued automation of in-house technical services, including staff scheduling, program scheduling, budget forecasting, and book ordering

Producing subject bibliographies including business references, nutrition and health, infant and child care, and home repair and improvement.

The budget will go to the Township Board and City Council for consideration. The township formally adopts the library budget as part of its own budget for calendar year 1969, but the city only reviews the budget and does not formally adopt it until its own budget deliberations next spring.

Police Blotters

A vehicle which was stolen in 1962 was found by Northville City police officers while scuba diving in Lake Success, according to a township police report.

Police report the vehicle, which was stolen from a Livonia resident, was found in about 25 feet of water at the bottom of the lake.

Police said the American Automobile Association (AAA) has paid off the vehicle, and the insurance company does not want it back

Police said the Michigan State Police, who conduct training exercisps in the lake, were contacted that a wrecker from Phil's 76 would remove the vehicle without charge.

The state police said they may have the vehicle removed in the future, but for now it will remain in the lake.

DRIVING ARREST - A Hillsdale resident was ticketed for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL) last Sunday, according to a township police report.

Police said they observed a vehicle going eastbound on Seven Mile Road changing lanes without signaling and driving in the middle of both eastbound lanes over the broken white lines.

They stopped the vehicle at Seven

Mile and Haggerty roads

After failing all field sobriety tests, a preliminary breath test (PBT) showed a blood alcohol level of .116 percent at the scene and .06 percent at the station.

The driver was given a citation for OUIL, held in jail, and released on $100 bond STOLEN BIKES -- Northville Township police reported two bikes worth $75 each were stolen last Tuesday between 7 a.m. and 4:15 p.m.

from a residence on Farragut Court. The complainant stated unknown persons stole the red Schwinn and red and black bike from the front yard of the residence.

The complainant said she spoke with two neighbors who saw the blkes when they went to work. Police said they have no suspects at this time.

AUTO PARTS STOLEN - Some small parts were taken from a pickup truck parked at McDonald Ford earlier this week, according to a city police report.

Two license plate lights, a spare tire and wheel, and ties for the bed liner were taken between 5 p.m. Saturday and 11:30 a.m. Monday, the report said. Total value was estimated at $260.

Super sewer plan gets grant money

The remnants of the "super sewer" improvement plan in which the City or Northville is included, continue to move ahead, with a formal approval of federal financing and a decision on how to proceed with local financing.

Wayne County sewer improvements - to provide more capacity and reduce overflows, helping water quality in the Rouge River – are estimated to cost $78.2 million² for a three-year project. Late Friday, the federal Legislature approved a 55 percent grant to Wayne County of $34.7 million.

The rest of the money will come from the communities like Northville involved in the plan. Northville's estimated share is just over $1 million.

At Monday's City Council meeting, the council voted to pay for its snare by joining with Wayne County in a combined bond issue. The county may issue bonds' on its own or operate through the state's bond pool, whichever route gives the most Inancial benefit, City Manager Stove Walters said.

Subscription Rates

"It will be favorable to us in either event," Walters said.

The grant award comes after 17 years of planning for sewer improvements and several scale-downs of the plan as communities dropped out. Most recently, Northville and two other townships decided to pursue sending their sewage to Ypsilanti. The super sewer - named the North Huron Valley / Rouge Valley interceptor - will send sewage to Detroit.

In announcing the federal grant, Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara said parts of the Rouge may be in good enough shape to canoe in 1993. In addition to improved water quality, the sewer project should help some basement flooding problems in the region, he said.

Construction of the 15-mile system is set to begin next spring. In addition to Northville, the super sewer will serve Novi, Dearborn Heights, Garden City, Inkster, Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township, Romulus, Van Buren Township, Wayne and Westland.

Schools revise guidelines for special education behavior

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

A revised list of guidelines for the implementation of behavioral techniques in the special education program was recently introduced to the Northville Board of Education.

Special Education Director Leonard Rezmierski said the new volume took about 1½ years to com-plete and is the third generation of updates.

'We started putting together a volume on behavior techniques about 10 years ago when we realized that we couldn't begin to address behavioral problems that were coming up in our classrooms," Rezmierski said.

He added the issue of behavior modification is extremely important 'because we can't educate a student unless we get his or her behavior under control.

Rezmierski said before they developed their own behavior techniques, the district used techniques recommended by the State Department of Mental Health.

He noted there were 250 techniques connected with the state method, "which were about 249 techniques too many.'

"The department of mental health meant well but their procedure is overdone," Rezmierski said. "Our program is much simpler so we don't have to wonder which procedure to follow when an incident occurs."

The new behavior modification program is divided into three levels, with the most difficult behavior problems categorized in level three and the minor problems addressed in level one.

Chris Clinton-Cali, Principal of Old Village School, said most students in the special education program are grouped into the level one category. She said behavior techniques encountered in level one include normal ways of dealing with childhood behavior. "Every teacher deals with each child in a different way using a level one technique."

Clinton-Cali said some of the techniques used in the level one category include: social disapproval, food delay, social time-out, and educational fines. She noted parental/guardian approval for the implementation of level one behavior techniques is not required.

Rezmierski said level two and three behavior techniques are used on "students who exhibit noncomplying or unacceptable social behavior which is disruptive to learning."

He added some of the behavior techniques used for level two behavior include: satiation, contingent exclusion and movement supression time-out.

Rezmierski said before implementing level two techniques parental/guardian consent is necessary, along with meetings of peer review and multidisciplinary committees.

He said level three behavior techniques include: meal modification, aversive stimuli and food deprivation.

In addition to parent/guardian consent, peer review and multidisciplinary committee meetings, Rezmierski said imsent, plementation of level three techniques is contingent upon approval of a behavior modification review committee.

The behavior modification com; mittee is made up of two parents, one representative of the department of mental health and two educators from other districts.

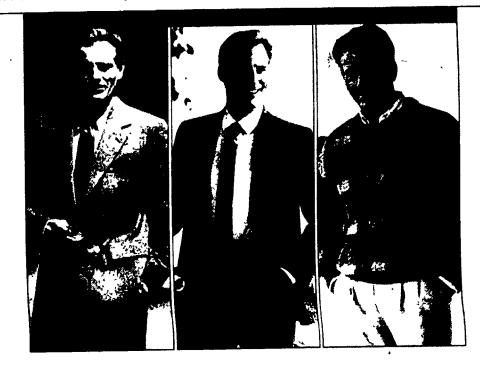

Rezmier said the behavior modification committee is ultimately responsible "to human condition and?" keeping the hearings as unbiased as possible."

Rezmierski said the tight control over the implementation of level two and three techniques is necessary to provide a program which protects' ' students, but the staff as well.

Viola Dougherty, Principal of a. Bryant School, said the new behavior . program takes care of the liability... aspects of the behavior modification situation.

"In our guidelines we have.". developed our own abuse policies, because we could be accused of abuse by using one of our techniques if they are not spelled out in the guidelines," Dougherty said.

She added the new techniques have, been arranged in an easy to read, spelled out form, so staff can easily refer to techniques needed when dealing with emergency situations.

Students encouraged to apply soon for best chance at college entrance

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Along with football games and trips to the cider mill, fall is the beginning of the college application acason, and Northville High School (NHS) officials are encouraging seniors to apply now. NHS Counselor Gladys Cohen said it is very important for seniors to apply for college in September or Oc-tober due to the competitiveness of gaining admission.

"Now is the time to apply (for col-inge) because it is a sellers market and colleges are receiving so many oplications" Cohen said. "Even bough March 1 is the deadline for most college applications, it is prealistic and much too late to appby at that time."

She added about 70 percent of the Northville High's 300 senior students applied to college last year and that figure may rise for the 1968-89 senior class.

'Everybody is scared and nervous about applying to colleges, so we recommend that students apply to at least three colleges: one which is a has an opportunity to apply to many sure bet, one which is a high risk, and local scholarships.

The money does help students pay for college, but it is also very impor-tant for students to feel the pride and boxor of winning a scholarship,' Cohen said. After receiving admission to the college of his/her choice, each senior

She noted that applications for scholarships are due at the end of April and information about what is available will be sent to the parents of each senior.

Superintendent George Bell said the Northville community is very supportive of the school system and added scholarships are an excellent way for students to be recognized for their hard work and effort.

"We get a tremendous amount of support from the local community for our kids and that support is nothing but positive," Bell said. Local organizations offering scholarships to Northville seniors this year include: American Associaciation of University Women; Northville Mothers' Club; Northville Junior Basehall; Northville Woman's Club; Woman's National Farm and Garden Association; First Presbyterian Church; First United Methodist Church; and the Edward Patrick Bergstrom Memorial Fund.

Others sponsoring scholarships in-clude: Robert W. Niemi; George Berryman; Diana Lance Memorial Fund; National Honor Society; Delta Kappa Gamma; and Nancy J. Soper Mémorial Fund.

Essad said WTUA may be able to receive some federal and state grant money to pay for the project, but added the contracts have been drafted to withstand a "worst case scenario" allowing the townships to absorb problems without getting hurt.

Goss said the recent exclusion of occurred "because the contracts have just been finalized and the townships did not apply for any money.

She added that YCUA will apply for funds and "we'll probably receive some federal and state grant money to help subsidize the project."

Essad said the YCUA agreement gives the township the ability to control cost effectiveness and capacity in a more advantageous way than history, no one could tell how the rates were set with Super Sewer, but now, in effect, the rates are based on available data and those rates will be auditable.

Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen said he was happy the agreement could be worked out. Sometimes it seemed as if we'd never make it. But the respective staffs have done excellent work to make this possible. It's the best solu-

Blue Heron plans get final approval

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

'The final three phases of Blue Heron Pointe, Northville Township's first planned residential unit development (PRUD), was unanimously approved by the plannling commission last Tuesday, amid objections by residents adjacent to the site.

Dennis Park, one of the developers of Blue Heron, said the project will feature a 140-unit condominium development on Beck Road between Six and Seven Mile roads.

Park said the first phase of the four phase project received final site plan approval last year. He noted the condominiums will range in price from $200,000 to $300,000, depending on the size.

The controversy surrounding the final approval of Blue Herron Pointe involved the fourth phase of the project.

Robert Willerer, who lives adjacent to Blue Herron's fourth phase, said he believes the condominiums, which are currently set to be built 60 feet from his property, should be set back 150 feet from his lot.

"I feel the developers are doing a beautiful job and I don't fault them," said Willerer. "But my contention is for them to look at single-family housing as opposed to condos."

Willerer said he does not want large buildings near his property and added the criteria for waiving the 160-foot setback rule was not met by the developers.

However, Township Planning Director Carol Henry said Blue Heron developers met both of the PRUD ordinance requirements for having the setback rule waived.

Henry said the planning commission can waive the 150-foot setback rule if land surrounding the development is unplatted and if the commission has determined that adjacent land in the future may be developed in other than single-family uses or it can be developed as a PRUD.

She noted both of these criteria have been met by Blue Heron with respect to the land surrounding their development.

Willerer disagreed, saying he cannot see how his property can be developed for anything but singlefamily development.

He added that he has not decided whether to persue legal action to block development on phase four of Blue Herron.

"My neighbors want to contribute to legal action, but for the betterment of the community I have not decided which way to go," Willerer said.

Planning Commissioner Richard Allen said he feels the condominiums will be the least disruptive type of development in the region because "although there are more units, condos are farther set back than singlefamily homes."

Commission Chairman Charles DeLand said because of the nature of the PRUD ordinance, the commission has more control over condominium development than singlefamily housing.

He said he feels on an overall basis, the condominium development was better because the commission can contol the landscape and placement of buildings in the project.

DeLand said he feels the developers of Blue Heron have tried to compromise with adjacent residents by relocating buildings and limiting the size of condos near Willerer's property to one-story.

"The condos in that area allow for open space and for Mr. Willerer to have a view of a nearby lake in particular," DeLand said.

"Considering what was there before (a gravel pit) I think this project turned a township eyesore into an asset," he added.

Will Meijer's store stay in Northville?

By PHIL GINOTTI

Meijer officials have denied that they have any plans to close their facility on Eight Mile and Haggerty Road, despite persistent rumors that the store is planning a move.

Several different sources contacted the Northville Record-Novi News this week discussing detailed plans of a Meijer Thrifty Acres relocation.

But Meijer's Director of Public and Consumer

Affairs Jennifer White said the store has no immediate plans to move.

The township's PRUD project, Blue Heron Pointe as seen from the air in June 1988.

"No, we don't have any plans for (moving or closing) at this point, and I don't know where that came from" White said. "I feel very confident in saying that we won't be leaving that location."

White, however, did confirm that Meijer's Corp. has acquired a 32-acre parcel of property in Plymouth Township near Schoolcraft and Haggerty Road

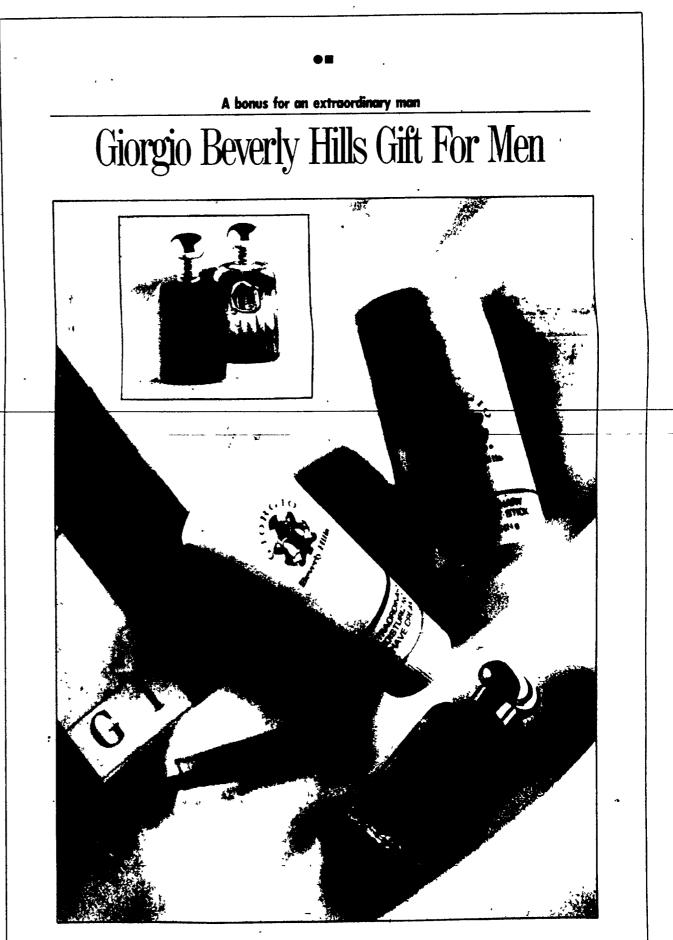

She said Meijer's has no immediate plans to huild at that location The Schoolcraft site is just several miles from the Northville Township store. "It's not on any current construction schedule." she said.

Record/CHRIS BOOD

The Northville Meijer's Thifty Acres store opened in 1985. It is 180,000 square feet. Meijer oullets statewide range from 80,000 to 245,000 in size.

White said Meijer is planning new stores in Shelby Township, Roseville, and Westland, but that they shouldn't have a substantial impact on the Northville store.

Meijer's is based in Walker, Mich.

District offers PSAT

Northville High School will be offering the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT/NMSQT) on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 9 a.m.

All juniors and sophomores are eligible to take the exam, however, only juniors are considered for the Merit Scholarship.

Northville High Principal David Bolitho said students taking the test will find out how they compare with a dationwide. group of students on the verbal and mathematics reasoning abilities measured by the test.

He added that PSAT/NMSQT scores are an impartial evaluation of ability to do college work and may be helpful in planning future education and choice of college.

The PSAT/NMSQT scores can be used to estimate performance on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT), Bolitho said, which is required for admission to many out of state colleges. The PSAT/NMSQT is a shortened version of the SAT and its score scale of 20 to 80 is equivalent to the SAT scale of 200 to 800.

Bolitho said practice, under similar conditions, on questions like those on the PSAT may give greater confidence in taking the SAT.

He said the PSAT/NMSQT is the route of entry to the National Merit Scholarship Program and the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students.

All students wanting to take the exam should pre-register for the test in the counseling office. The fee is $5.25.

Students score well on test

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

* rthville students have higher average scores on college entrance to ims compared to state and nathat if test scores, according to a sport released last week by the rict

From the 1974-75 school year through 1987-88, Northville Schools nive scored at least one point over tra national average on the American College Test (ACT).

he district has also scored higher omparison to state levels, which thville Superintendent George said is a reflection of the imince of education to the Nor-

He community Northville is a well educated comsanity and our students come from

omes where education is ingrained an important part of their lives," • 11 said

The community has high expectaons for the education of its 'udents, and combined with our best ork we hope to live up to those ex-« clations," he added

sssistant Superintendent Dolly of Master said the ACT exam is aken by about 90 percent of the Nor-" ville students entering their senior + ir of high school

She said the test is divided into four content areas: English, Math, Social Studies, and Natural Science. Scores from the four areas are then averaged into a mean composite score, with 35 being the highest score and one the lowest McMaster said depending on the university, the ACT may be one of the criteria used for determining admission. She said students take the exam whether or not they are interested in college.

Since 1976-77, Northville students have consistently scored an ACT mean composite of between 20 and 21, while the state and national composites hover around the 18 and 19 point levels.

McMaster said the population of Northville students taking the ACT has broadened over the last few years, while the scores have remained fairly constant.

"I think the consistency of the scores shows that Northville schools has a whole lot of students who are capable of scoring well on the ACT," she added.

McMaster agreed with Bell that community expectations have contributed to the high scores generated by Northville students on the ACT. 'Effective school research tells us that high expectations (both by the community and the school district) will heighten performances by students," McMaster haid. She added that the socio-economic base of the Northville community goes along with high parent expectations.

"The school district should respond to the community's expectations and the scores indicate we're meeting the challenge," McMaster said. Northville High School Principal

David Bolitho said the ACT exam has been altered over the years to be made more relevant to students

He noted there has been a degree of consistency with respect to the scores by Northville students, despite the changes.

"We've been using the test data over the last few years and going over items with each department in the school to see what areas need to be stressed," Bolitho said.

He added there has also been an excellent degree of cooperation and learning from the elementary school level through high school.

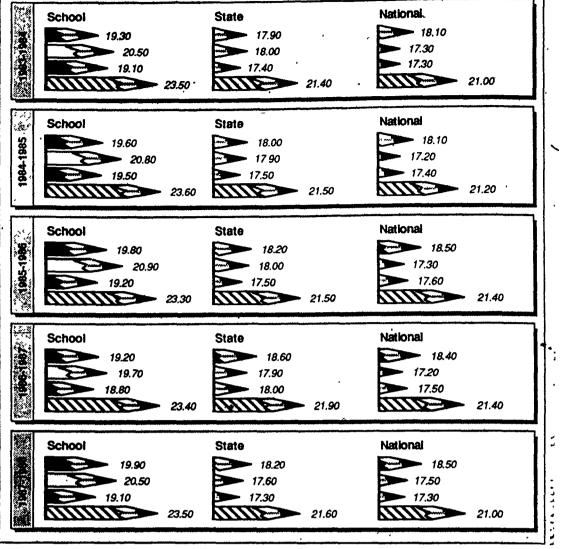

"The staff of Northville schools appears to be doing its job of challenging students and providing things necessary to make students successfui," Bolitho said.

Well fundraising efforts continue

The McDonald Ford Sales promo-tion to benefit the Northville well netted $2,250 for the effort, but well sponsors, the Northville Rotary Club, are still looking for more help

A preliminary guess is that it will cost about $5,000 to repair the well, which dried up a few weeks ago. The Rotary Club also wants to build an account to help meet future operational costs of the well.

Rotary President David Rekuc said Tuesday that the club's board considered hooking up the well to city water lines temporarily, but gave up that idea

"We cannot do that because the mains are on the other side of the street. We can't dig up the street; we can't afford that project," Rekuc said

McDonald Ford pledged $25 for each new car or truck sold during September to the well effort.

In addition, private contributions continue to come in, Rekuc said. 'Those are appreciated," he said.

'We're moving in the right direction ' Tickets are now on sale for two other well benefit efforts. A Chamber of Commerce-sponsored raffle will give one winner dinner for two at MacKinnon's and a one-night stay at the Atchison House bed-and-breakfast inn. The prizes were donated by the businesses. Tickets are available from most merchants in town and from the chamber office next to the well on South Main. Tickets are $1.

A Marquis Theater benefit performance of the musical "Shenandoah" is planned for 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 10. Tickets are $12.50. They are available at Four Seasons Flowers, 149 E. Main; Paul Folino State Farm Insurance, 430 N. Center; McDonald Ford, 550 Seven Mile; and the chamber of commerce office.

Estates residents want landscaping

'Two residents of the Northville Estates subdivision pressed the City Council for action on some landscaping concerns in the area Monday, and left the meeting with promises of action in the near future.

Robert Borthwick asked the council about the status of building the berm along Beck Road, the west side of the subdivision. He said engineers had told him there would be plenty of dirt available for the project, but he has seen dirt trucked out of the subdivision and the berm is not completed.

"The pieces just don't seem to go together, is our point," Borthwick sind

City Manager Steve Walters responded that the dirt which has been trucked out was not the city's. and that he did not know of any formal engineering estimates on the amount of dirt necessary to build the berm

Walters also said that the city believes it has located a source of free dirt. If that materializes and is of good quality, the berm will move ahead quickly. If the city must pay for the dirt, however, it will need to figure out what to do, he said.

In any case, the grass hydroseed may not sprout until next spring, Walters said

Mayor Chris Johnson said a report on the issue would be on the next agenda.

Another subdivision resident then asked why other landscape work in the subdivision had not been started by the contractor, weeks after work was scheduled

Walters said the city notified the contractor that if it did not start Tuesday, the city would proceed to hire someone else. The city had a backup contractor ready to start Wednesday if necessary, he said.

Reactions vary to news of Main Centre parking woes

By BOB NEEDHAM

Immediate reaction to the apparent demise of Singh Development's Main Centre plan ranged from severe disappointment to some doubt that losing the project world be all bad.

"I'm very disappointed that it's not going to happen," Magor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers said at Monday's City Council meeting "What's particularly disappointing is what we see a building we like, and a development we like, and the numbers don't turn out to be right, that leads to the next question: What development is right? What financially makes sense for that property?"

Singh Vice President Michael Kahm expressed regret at the council meeting. "We wanted this development very badly," Kahm told the council. "Sometimes the hardest thing is to say no."

He added that Main Centre's situation is not unusual. "It's a kind of typical problem when you're trying to develop a CBD," he said Tuesday. "We regret it. We wish it worked out differently."

Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, also said the end of the project would hurt the area. "It's going to be a loss to the community," she said. "Singh has done so well on their other developments. They were the ones that seemed to have the capital behind them ... They had some good ideas. They really did investigate all the possibilities."

She continued: "I think one important thing is the city realizes there is a parking problem. They did have the city's best interest in demanding the adequate parking."

ty's best interest in demanding the adequate parking." Downtown business owner Chuck Lapham said the parking was a vital concern, and the development could not go ahead without helping to ease the parking problems. Right now, he said, the merchants are so bilsy with the customers they get that "they haven't got time to complain about the ones that fall overboard."

The city couldn't give more money for parking without going into a financial hole, Lapham added. "I think what the developer has is a council willing to work in realistic terms." he said.

One other dowtown business person said it is important for the city to take time with the site and get a solid development.

He added that the project may yet work out. "I don't? believe it will stay down for the count. It's not going to die for $180,000. It's not going to happen," he said.

Çost of deck halts latest plan to develop downtown corner

We hate to see $160,000 be the difference between dream and reality," Goshcil Member John Buckland chamented. But Kahm said Singh has pretty much exhausted its options.

The asking price on the land — on which Singh holds an option to buy is got likely to go down, Kahm said. And the planned rents — $750 for a dnebedroom apartment, $900 for a two-bedroom and $15 per square foot for retail space — were probably and a little too high, he said. In answer to a suggestion, Kahm said the company does not want to build a cheaper project in order to make ends meet. "I guess our answer to that is we're not willing to do it," Kahm said. "If we cannot proceed ahead with that design ... we choose not to proceed. We're committed to that kind of project, that quality of project."

Singh holds an option to buy the land which originally expired Sept. 30, but was extended to the end of this week. It could probably be extended again if a resolution appeared likely, but so far it doesn't, Kahm said Tuesday.

Under the direction the negotiations were taking, Singh would have rebuilt the parking lot off Cady and built a new lot near the post office.

In addition, Singh would have built a 160-space parking deck at the corner of Center and Cady. The city would help finance the deck with a special bond issue to be paid off with new taxes from the Main Centre proiect.

But the size of the bond issue was the sticking point. The city wanted to assess Singh $3,000 per deck space, for a total city share of $640,000, or 49 percent of the total cost. Singh's highest offer was $2,000 per deck space, for the $160,000 difference.

"We're business men and we have to make the right business decision. Two thousand per space is really all we can justify," Kahm said. "Beyond that, we just cannot go. I'm sorry to put it so bluntly, but that's just the way it is."

Johnson said the city had no real choice either, since the development would certainly need the total required 245 spaces of new parking. "I don't think the city's in a position to sell you something that can't be bought," he said.

Council Member Paul Folino said the $3,000 figure was the lowest the city could reasonably go. "I just don't see how we can cut the ice any thinner than that," be said.

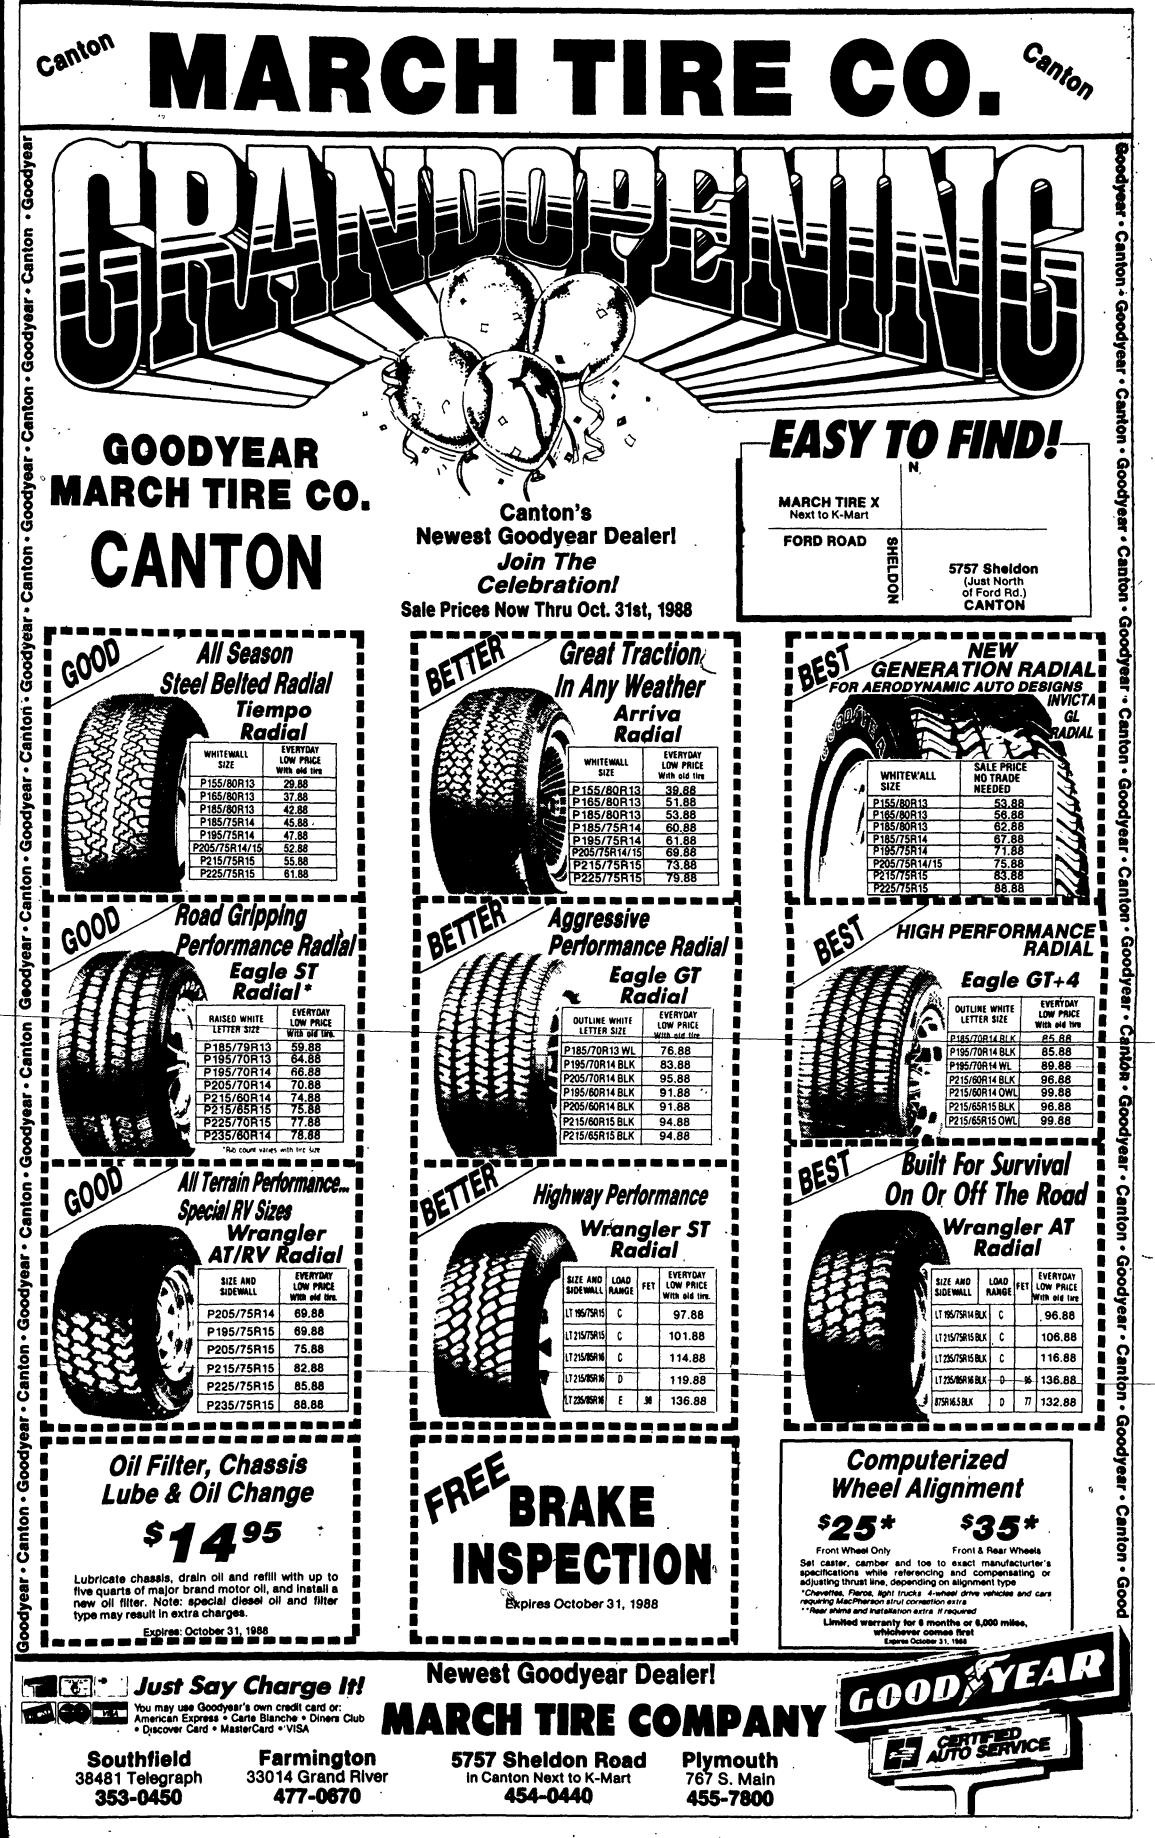

Johnson said the city had some preliminary talks with school officials about the situation, since a bond repayment would capture new taxes that would otherwise go to the school district. Johnson said he was willing to discuss things further with school officials, but that the $2,000 per space figure was "totally outside the scope of the conversation with school officials."

He added, "It appears to me the negotiations have concluded, as a practical matter."

Both Kahm and council members said the developer and the city had built a solid working relationship, and each was very willing to listen to the concerns of the other.

Little Italy restaurant opens in town

Little Italy, the new Italian restaurant in the space once occupied by Elizabeth's, is getting a warm welcome

Anticipation of the new venture combined with glowing reviews in the Detroit daily newspapers have led to a lot of business since the new restaurant opened Wednesday, Sept. 28, owner Al Valente said.

"We've been fortunate. We've been very busy, extremely busy. The weekends are almost booked through October. They just keep calling," he said.

The family also owns and operates the Ristorante de Maria in West Bloomfield. The main parts of the operation are Valente; his son, Jef-Irey; and his nephew, John Gallagher Valente.

Little Italy may be in the same location as Elizabeth's - and may be winning some of the same praise - but it is not at all the same restaurant, Valente said.

"Everything is so different from Elizabeth's: It has a totally different atmosphere. You've got to see it to appreciate it," he said.

"It's a different kind of food. It's a more relaxed atmosphere. The prices are lower," he continued. The restaurant is decorated as an old home,

Valente explained "It's like eating in somebody's grandmother's house or something," Valente said. "It's all family."

The new restaurant is open from 5 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday, 5 to 11 Friday and Saturday, and 4 to 9 Sunday. The Sunday hours may change to be a bit earlier, Valente said.

Student count shows more than planned

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Totals from the Northville School District's fourth Friday student count show that about 100 more students enrolled in the K-12 program than was projected last spring.

According to Assistant Superintendent Dolly McMaster, 3,626 students are enrolled in Northville Schools, compared to the Board of Education projection last spring of 3,517 students.

McMaster said although Northville is an out of formula district and does not receive state funding, the district does receive some categorical grants based on student population.

Districts qualifying for state aid (in-formula) are determined by the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) of the property owners in each com-munity. Since Northville has been above the SEV, level since 1980, they must rely on taxes from property to pay for students. Also, they must charge tuition for students coming from other districts.

"In order to get some money from the state, we must apply for categorical grants and submit yearly evaluations which show what was done with the money from the previous year," she said.

McMaster added the amount of grant money allocated to out-offormula schools is based upon the total enrollment in the district.

The categorical grants currently available to Northville Schools include: chapter one, for students in elementary school who need assistance in reading and math; chapter two, for students who are talented and gifted; and sections 97 and 96 for math and science.

As for the fourth Friday student count, McMaster said school districts throughout the state file projections in the spring based on demographic data received from their township or city governments.

She said since out of formula districts do not receive state-aid per student, errors in their spring projections could result in funding problems with respect to staff additions. In response to the increase in student enrollment, McMaster said Northville Schools hired one kindergarten and one first grade teacher for Amerman Elementary School.

The money needed to hire the additional teachers came from a change in vocational programs, a move which saved the school district about $50,000.

Following is the total amount of students enrolled in Northville schools: •Amerman Elementary - 716

students. •Silver Springs Elementary - 426

students. •Winchester Elementary - 461

students. •Moraine Early Childhood Development - 28 students.

•Meads Mill Middle School - 800 students

•Northville High School -- 1,195 students.

Council shuffles city block grant money

Grant money in the City of Northville was reallocated by the City Council Monday to fully fund three special studies looking at the city's future.

The council approved alterations to the CDBG budgets set after a public hearing earlier this year. The new changes required another hearing at which no one spoke.

The basic changes shifted money left from the library addition and money earmarked for barrier-free sidewalk improvements to the ac-

Community Development Block counts for the studies The CDBG program is a federal grant program administered locally through Wayne and Oakland counties

The studies, to be started soon, will cover the following areas:

· An overhaul of the official city Master Plan, including community goals and land use. The study is to be conducted by Ayres, Lewis, Norris, and May, the city's planning consultant firm

• A detailed look at the area around Cady Street, particularly from Northville Downs to Wing Street The study will examine the best way to develop the area, how best to handle parking needs, and consider future uses of the Northville Downs site if the track ever moves out. It will also cover the impact on immediately surrounding areas. The city has also hired Ayres, Lewis for this study. Architectural considerations of future uses for the Northville Ford Plant, which the company has said it will close at the end of the year. The study is to consider several different types of uses. Quinn Evans / Architects were hired for the work.

In related action last week, members of the Northville Planning Commission selected members to work with the firms on the studies. The Master Plan committee includes Rolland Stapleton, John Hardin and Greg Presley. The Cady Corridor committee includes David Totten, Hardin, Presley and Chris Gazlay. The Ford study committee includes Kathleen Otton, Presley and Don Mc-Culloch

City advocates fall racing at Downs in response to lease contract dispute

The City Council has gone on record in favor of a fall racing season at Northville Downs.

State Racing Commission William Cahalan, who allocates racing dates for all tracks in Michigan, has an Oct. 15 deadline to set next year's harness season. A lease problem betweed Northville Downs and the Jackson Harness Raceway has complicated the decision.

Jackson has run races at the ' Downs from October through December under a sub-lease agreement. The Downs wants to pass on higher costs from its fandlord - the Northville Driving Club - and planned capitai improvements. A disagreement over Jackson's rent for next year stalled negotiations. although officials of the tracks were scheduled to meet late Tuesday. As a result of the unsettled lease, Jackson has arranged for a possible fall race meet at Hazel Park Harness Raceway, and Northville Downs has applied for a fall meet of its own.

The Northville City Council voted 4-0 Monday to encourage Cahalan to allocate the dates to the Nerthville location, whether they are run by Northville Downs or Jackson Harness, because of the tax money the city would lose if the site remained idle for those months.

The City of Hazel Park is also considering the possible impact if the Jackson dates moved there, Hazei Park City Manager Mitch Bobowski said. The City Council will consider a report and possibly expressing an opinion to Cahalan at a meeting Monday night, he said.

"I don't have all the figures in. I haven't got to a conclusion on anything," Bobowski said Tuesday. By law, Cahalan must anhounce the allocation of harness race dates for 1969 by next Friday, Oct. 15.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions Main Centre problems require further analysis

Last week, the City of Northville seemed to be on top of the world with the imminent development of its choicest available piece of land, the southwest corner of Main and Center streets. This week, the perspective is very different.

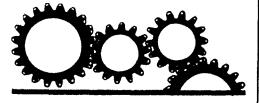

The cost of adequate parking even with substantial help from the city proposed - has stalled the project, and possibly wrecked its transmission as well. Unless some unexpected solution comes up, Singh Development might give up the development for good.

If that happens, it will touch off a flurry of head-scratching analysis. And we hope the analysts don't stop until they figure the whole thing out C

The plan should have been buildable. It had high rents, both residential and commercial; a healthy development company behind it; a cooperative and helpful Planning Commission; and a city government apparently ready to bend its policies so parking requirements were as easy to meet as possible.

Everybody knew parking was a problem, but assumed it would work Everybody was wrong. Now out everybody is asking a lot of questions about what the heck happened.

There are theories floating around: The plan, like those that went before, was "just too big." The plan should have waited until the Cady Corridor study focused the whole issue of might well be.

parking in the area. The plan relied too much on apartments. Local officials weren't willing to go far enough with tax capturing.

Lack of downtown parking is obviously the immediate problem, but that's a bit of a simplistic answer. The real question is why a plan like this can't support its own parking needs in this community. And if it can't, isn't it time for the city to realize it may have to address the parking shortage with no private help?

We certainly don't have an answer, but the issue needs a lot of quick attention. If Main Centre is dead. as it appears, it will not be good for Northville. Developers may shy away from that site and downtown in general. Dreams of development along Cady street could come crashing to earth.

The twin problems of Main Centre's apparent failure and the lack of parking are vital to the continued health of the city. The loss of this particular project, in itself, is not horrible for the city. But the implications of it

Local goverments must deal with radon issue

Radon gas is back in the news and according to the latest findings released by the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan, it's time for people in our area to take another look at the problem.

Northville's neighbor to the immediate north, Novi, has been singled out as a probable site of radon contamination. In response to this report, Novi City Hall is stocking radon test kits for residents. The kits are backed by the American Lung Association and the association will be doing the testing from the kits. The City of Novi will be providing the kits at cost for the residents of the city. This is plainly an excellent public service for its residents, and the city of Northville and the township would be wise to emulate such a project.

The words "Mrs. Dooley" are called aloud.

I look around in curiosity to see where she is. There's no response. Who is she, anyway?

It takes a minute or two before the realization hits. Oh yeah, Mrs. Dooley is me.

I haven't become familiar with the new name yet --probably because I've used "Bonzheim" as my last name for 25 years.

It's funny how attached a person becomes to a name. Somehow because my name has changed, I expected to feel like a different person, or maybe to look like a different person. But, for the most part, I'm the same.

For this brief transitional period, however, I'm experiencing somewhat of an identity crisis. When I anwer the phone at the office should I use my old name or my new name? So far I've skirted the dilemma by simply using my first name - thank goodness that stayed the same.

I've changed my byline and the name on my credit cards and checks. But that doesn't make it any easier to train my hand to master the signature Brenda "Dooley" instead of "Bonzheim", as it has for such a long time. I suspect it'll take awhile.

The worst part is being called "Mrs. Dooley" and standing there like an idiot before I realize someone's talking to me and not to Kevin's mother. Several friends and co-workers are having fun with that one.

Forum

I'm extremely happy to be married and to take Kevin's last name as my own, but I didn't expect to feel such a loss when casting mine aside. It's been slightly more than a week since we said our vows and danced the bridal dance and posed for countless wedding photographs so I suppose I shouldn't be too critical of myself for forgetting my new name or that I'm actually now a wife.

I'm not the only one who's experiencing difficulty with the transition. When introducing me to friends last weekend, Kevin stumbled, too.

'This is my fianc ... girlfr ... wife, Brenda," he said sheepishly. "Sorry, honey, but that sounds so weird."

Name changes aside, married life is fantastic so far, There are minor adjustments to be made, of course -1suppose I'll have to learn to live with Monday Night Football. As long as he does the dishes and laundry once in awhile.

It's fun to have someone to go home to, someone to talk to, someone to share things with, someone to fight over the remote control with . . .

As soon as I become familiar with "Dooley" as my name I'll tackle the next problem — periodically staring at my left hand like it's a foreign object. Oh yeah, that wedding band is mine.

> After the fact ₿у Phil Jerome

In case you were wondering, the answer is "Yes, the George P. Jerome whose obituary appears in this week's paper is indeed my Tather.*

Dad passed away early Thursday morning. He suffered from Parkinson's disease and his condition had deteriorated badly over the weekend. On Monday, we knew it was a matter of time. On Tuesday,

The Lung Association's findings dealt mainly with the Novi/Milford area, but the results should be of concern to residents in Northville and Northville Township as well. Because of this, both township and city officials should look into providing radon test kits at their respective offices. Making the program as easy and as non-confusing as possible, will go a long way toward easing residents' fears and helping to solve any problems that may appear.

While the results do not pinpoint exact areas where the gas is found to be in high levels, it does caution people in the Western Wayne county area to be aware and to consider testing their homes for the gas.

Radon gas, if found in large enough quantities can cause serious health hazards. Officials have cautionned residents not to be overly alarmed, and yet have asked that voluntary testing be done in areas of high radon incidence. They have also noted that older houses appear to be prime candidates for the gas. The Northville area has more than a few older homes in it, and as such should be considered as prime testing ground.

The reason providing test kits for the public is such a good idea is twofold. In the past when radon was first brought to the public's attention as a potential hazard, several unscrupulous firms attempted to sell expensive test kits and contracts for de-gassing the affected homes. The public should now be aware that testing kits run in the $13-25 range and that work to rid houses of radon is not as involved as at first believed. It mainly requires some sealing of foundation cracks and other openings.

Having the test kits available at city and township hall would be a service to residents, and would help to prevent fraudulent practices. Having informa-tion on radon readily available at the two offices would also serve to inform residents and help stop rumors and alarm.

Changing Times

By the time Wednesday rolled around, we knew it was a matter of hours. We sat by his bed Wednesday night, watching death close in. Hoping in a way that he knew we were there for him; but hoping even more that he was beyond the point of realizing what was happening to him.

Around eleven, Betty, his wife and our stepmother, said she would like to spend the final few hours alone with him, and we acceded to her wishes. Death came two hours later.

This column of mine is a strange little thing. It's wrong, you know. I shouldn'f write so much about myself. It's much too personal. Who cares anyway?

I write about myself more than the community I serve. More often than not, I try to write funny things that happen to me around town. Hoping that my experiences are relatively typical and others can relate to them.

Shortly after I became a columnist back in 1982, I wrote a Father's Day column in which I thanked thy father for being such a wonderful father. I've always been glad I said the things I did while my father was still well and strong enough to hear them.

Father Kukulski, who participated in the memorial service Sunday, later used the column in a Father's Day sermon urging his listeners to tell their fathers they love them.

It's good advice. Personally, I recommend it

Downs has no value to community

To the Editor:

When are the residents of Northville going to wake up to facts about Northville Downs racing and the fact that it gives very little back to the community that puts up with its patrons, noise and odors.

It's public information - check the tax rolls, the tax base from the homes in Pheasant Run would more than equal the taxes paid by the Northville Driving Club (i.e. who own the land the Downs sits on) to the city of Northville. Granted it is the "single" biggest source of tax money to the ci-ty — but if this large parcel of land were redeveloped properly it would yield far more of a tax base for the ci-

As stated in articles previously in the Record - the city has not received its full allocation from the state for its race track, so it's certainly not a benefit there either.

By accounts in the paper, in recent years incidences of crime seem to be on the rise in and out of the Northville Downs facilities. Is this a plus for our community?

In the article of Sept. 29 entitled

"Lease dispute jeopardizes fall dates" City Manager Steve Walters states "The tax money allows for a larger police force than a typical community Northville's size could otherwise support." We would not NEED a police force the size of Northville's if it weren't for the race track. New developments replacing the track's buildings, barns and parking lot would send Northville heading in the right direction.

The track has NO value to this community - anyone affiliated with race tracks wants us to believe that we could not exist without them when in reality we could - and do far better in the long run.

Political lesson To the Editor:

I feel somewhat sorry for Vice President Bush. His failing attempt to hide behind label-mongering (the big "L") and the flag is an indication of his lack of ideas in dealing with the real issues that confront our nation. The American people have benefitted enormously from legislation pro-mulgated by LIBERALS, e.g., Social Security, Medicare, Child Labor - to name a few. It seems to Laws me that most progressive legislation favoring the majority of people in our country, especially in the past 50 or so years, has been the result of the work done by the LIBERAL element in our government.

Once, the word LIBERAL was considered to be a positive attribute for a politician seeking public office. I believe it should still be. My dic-tionary defines a LIBERAL as "one who favors greater freedom in political or religious matters". Isn't that what democracy in America is all about?

Parents need to give support to children

This is another in a continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

Support - Some of the synonyms for this word are "to hold up, and add strength to"

to maintain," and "to sustain". Throughout our lives we all draw on others for strength and support. We often need a support system to get us through the difficult times. We often can benefit from a support group to bounce ideas off to evaluate if we are making appropriate decisions. We need support to get through our everyday lives. Parents especially need support to help them answer questions about specific behaviors of children, about the appropriateness of discipline techniques, and in general just getting through the child-rearing years.

In order to help Northville parents get through these times, Northville Youth Assistance (NYA) conducts weekly support group meetings for parents. The group meets Tuesday evenings at Moraine Center from 7 to 8:30 p.m. The group is open to all parents in Northville and is free.

The co-facilitators of the group are social workers who have extensive experience working with families and groups. One social worker is currently a Family Service Specialist for Head Start and previously worked as a Probation Officer for Wayne County Juvenile Court. The other social worker is a therapist in a private practice in Oakland County and previously worked for Detroit Psychiatric Institute. Both are very knowledgable and enthusiatic about working with Northville parents.

Parents who have attended this group have expressed their pleasure in being able to interact with other parents who understand their problems and concerns. They enjoy the support of others who share family situations and concerns similar to their own.

We all need the support of others. We cannot live to the fullest in a vacuum. We can all benefit from interacting with others who have similar concerns. We can all gain strength from those who will listen to us.

Come to the NYA Parents' Support Group on Tuesday evenings. Come once or come regularily to share your experiences and get support. All Northville parents are welcome

It happened this week.

I'm not sure why, but it happened.

For the first time in my life, to my utter shock and dismay, I got a gray hair. Yes, sadly it is true.

What's even more disturbing is that this event came on the heels of my 23rd birthday. No, I did not think that I would never get a gray hair, but I just didn't think it would happen so soon. 🛩 and 23rd birthdays has been an eventful one And it has been a year in which growing old has become a reality.

Last year, on my 22nd birthday, I remember sitting in my apartment at the University of Michigan, sipping a darkly foamed beverage, and thinking I was on top of the world. After all, I had no gray hair and was getting

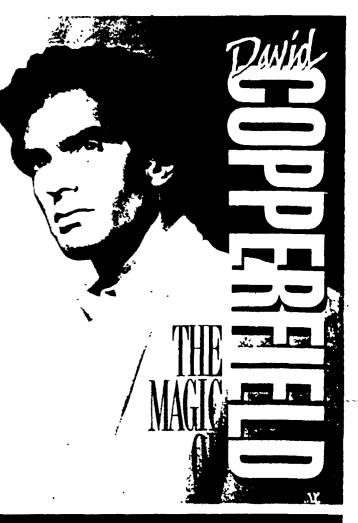

My first job as a reporter was spent at a desk with a portable typewriter at my side. No computer like at college, only a phone and typewriter to accomplish my tasks.

Now I'm covering Northville Township on a regular basis No college apartment, no Thursday night parties, no taking a day off to see a baseball game.

Thursday, October 6 1988-THE NORTHVILLE RECORD-17-A

I mean, if I'm getting gray hair on my 23rd birthday, what will happen next year? Will I be drinking prune juice and putting my teeth in a glass of Efferdent each night? Or will I all of a sudden get the urge to watch Lawrence Welk while soaking my feet in a tub of Epsom Salts?

All right, I know I'm blowing this out of proportion. But the year between my 22nd ready to graduate from the greatest school on earth (sorry, Phil).

I remember thinking that I would work at the newspaper which bid the highest for my services. And as for working at a weekly newspaper, well, let's just say that I thought a major daily would have better suited my talents. Yes, I hate to admit it, but I did suffer from such delusions.

What a difference a year makes! I'm happy here at the Northville Record. No doubt about it. But I get goose pimples when I think of what it took to get here.

But, besides fine-tuning my reporting skills, I've learned about life Yes, even though I'm out of college, I've continued to learn. And, to be honest, I've probably learned more about myself in the past year than in my four years at Michigan

I'm not sure if I want to be a reporter for the rest of my life. But this past year has shown me that I can deal with anything that comes my way.

Planners delay action on north end of Oasis rezoning

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The northern portion of the Oasis Golf Center escaped rezoning last Tuesday, when Northville Township planners postponed action on the property

Oasis parcels B.(37 acres) and C (8.5) were rezoned last July from residential (R-3) and general business (B-3) respectively, to small office (0S-1). Parcel A, the northermost section of the golf course, is a 67 acre piece of land currently zoned cluster residential The developer's rezoning request was for a change to office zoning. The Oasis Golf Center is located at Haggerty and Five Mile rnads

Planning Commission Chairman Charles DeLand said action was postponed on parcel A because developer James Blain came in with a proposal which he was not in a position to offer.

DeLand said Blain, who also is a part owner of a six acre piece of property north of parcel A, offered to designate the northern tip of land as open space.

He added the open space would act as a buffer between the proposed office project and residential developments located directly to the east and west.

DeLand said the commission tabled the issue to give Blain an opportunity to inquire about purchasing the northern property from its other three owners.

"It is worth considering rezoning parcel A if the owner of the whole triangle (north of the project) will keep the property as a greenbelt (open space)," he added.

DeLand said the commission is interested in keeping the land as a buffer because it believes that rezoning will continue to "creep" along Haggerty Road unless action is taken to slow it down.

He noted even if Blain does own the land outright, the township will have to consult with its attorney to determine what would happen if the property is ever sold.

Commissioner Richard Allen said if Blain is unable to acquire the northern property he would vote against the rezoning of parcel A because "it leaves one more piece of property which could be turned into office space.

Allen has said an unconditional rezoning of parcel A would fragment the portion of land north of the property.

"I don't want office development to migrate up Haggerty Road more than it already has, mainly because it is not in our master plan," Allen said.

He added that to his knowledge Blain has signed up one of the three owners of the northern property, while the other two owners are currently considering offers.

Blain said he thinks the planning commission's decision to postpone action on the matter to see if he can buy the property is fair.

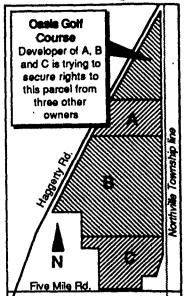

He added that if he acquires the property he has no problem devoting it as open space and the property "could be a great buffer area bet-ween office and residential."

Blain noted that if he is unable to aquire the land and is denied parcel A rezoning, he still intends to go ahead with the project on parcels B and C.

In addition to devoting land to open space, Blain has also offered to put in a 50-foot berm and limit the building size to one-story to apease concerns by Quakertown subdivision residents who abut his property.

Besides the proposed office building, Blain has also built the Northwest Airlines Reservation Center and other commercial buildings north of Quakertown.

"I plan on being cooperative with the township and surrounding neighbors because that's the way I've done business in all developments and I'm not changing," he added.

Family provides romantic rides for special events

By MADELEINE GRAHAM

The Cinderella Carriage Service provides romanticism in a horsedrawn vehicle by providing horse and carriage rides for weddings, anniversaries, cocktail parties, proms and many other occasions.

Mike and Susie Higginbotham of New Hudson developed the idea for a carriage service in 1986, though they did not begin operating until May of this year.

The carriage formerly belonged to an Amish couple in Indiana. The Higginbothams decided to have the vehicle refinished, painted and designed for comfort.

The interior columns are made of fine oak wood, covered with many coats of plastic to protect the finish and yield a fresh luster.

The carriage radiates a warm appeal with elegant red cushions. A carefully carved-out heart on the back of one of the benches is often used by newlyweds who hold hands. show their rings and have photographs taken maintenance," Mike said Benjamin is responsible for the stalls and makes sure the horses have adequate food. Mike cleans the carriage and prepares the vehicle for the road Susie cleans, grooms and French braids the horse's mane and tail.

Suste also appropriately fits bells, ribbons and a feather plume upon the horse. A wicker basket adorned with dried flowers is placed on the back of the carriage to match the occasion, and the vehicle is arrayed in ribbons that suit the event

Depending on the occasion, Mike may be seen sporting a top hat and a dapper driving suit, a western tuxedo, or a formal tux. Susie wears a Little Lord Fauntieroy suit to greet the guests. Eleven-year-old Benjamin remains behind the scenes as a handyman and apprentice.

The Memorial Day Parade in Hartland, the Star Spangled Festival in Southfield and the Detroit Senior's Day are just a few of the'events in which the Cinderella Carriage Service has participated.

Forget the sticker price Tgnore the ads. To figure the true cost of owning a car, you will have to do a lot more than just comparison shop.

If you are like most people, you probably decide how much car you can afford by estimating the amount of your annual loan payments plus the oast of insurance.

But, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, this method of calculation may land you in a financial ditch.

To find out how much your car really costs, add up all your operating expenses, including both fixed and variable costs.

In simple terms, fixed costs are those that remain the same whether you drive the car across country or just across town. Variable expenses are trickier to estimate, since they can soar or plunge depending on the type and amount of driving you do

FIXED COSTS: In most cases, fixed costs fall into four basic categories: depreciation, insurance, loan interest and loan principal.

The Hertz Corporation reports that these auto expenses increased an average of 5.5 percent in 1987. Let's take a look at the specific items that can drive the cost of owning a car way beyond your initial expectations

Depreciation is the amount by which a car's value fails during a specific period. Keep in mind that your car's value falls more rapidly in the early years and levels out after approximately four years.

Using estimated average depreciation rates, a car's value generally fails about 32 percent in the first year. The specific depreciation rate for your car may differ, but will follow roughly the same pattern. Depreciation is important to consider if you are planning to trade in or resell your car.

Insurance can represent more than 20 percent of your car's total operating costs, depending on such factors as the age of the car, the car model, the amount of your deductible, your driving record and the type of area in which you live.

For a new car, you will need collision and comprehensive coverage in addition to liability insurance. Michigan's no-fault statute also requires medical coverage and loss of income benefits, which adds to the cost of the insurance. Again, older cars are less expensive to insure - in many cases, you can choose to forego collision coverage entirely.

expense of insurance. Choosing a four-cylinder family model over an eight-cylinder sports car can save you several hundred dollars annually. Increasing your deductible (the amount of money that you must pay before the insurance kicks in) can also shave hundreds off your annual premium charges.

As with any other product or service, shop around for the best deal. Find out what discounts your insurance agent offers. If you are an older person, drive your car fewer than 7,000 miles a year, move to a less-congested community, change your commuting patterns or regularly park your car in a garage, you may be eligible for lower rates.

If you need to insure your teenage children, make sure they complete a driver's education course. That single step could save you up to 25 percent of the insurance costs.

Loan interest is a cost of car ownership that few people considered in the past, perhaps because the interest automobile loan interest add up to several hundred dollars a year) is once again an important item to factor into your car's financial bottom line.

Loan principal is a car's sticker price plus sales tax and minus your down payment. On a car with a sticker price of $10,000, four percent sales tax adds $400 to the car's cost. If you put $2,000 down, your loan principal is $8,000. The higher your principal, the higher your monthly payments. Once you've paid off the loan principal and interest, the cost of maintaining a car generally drops by a substantial amount.

CPAs say that it may pay to hold onto your car a year or two after your loan payments cease. During that period, deposit into a savings account an amount equal to your monthly loan payments. In this way, when it comes time to buy a new car, you will be able to make a larger down payment and avoid incurring an unnecessary amount of non-deductible interest. Remember, too, that the interest rates you pay on loans are bound to be at least a few percentage points higher than what your savings account earns.

VARIABLE COSTS: Variable costs include registration fees, maintenance and repair costs. replacement parts, gasoline and oil, and parking.

Registration fees represent only a small percentage of the cost of owning a car, but you should still budget for them. Included in this category are charges for vehicle registration and inspection

Maintenance and repair costs are difficult to estimate, but national averages range from about $160 for a 1-year-old car up to about $600 for a 10-year-old car. Several publications, such as Consumer Reports, offer information on the repair records of specific models.

Replacement parts are likewise hard to estimate since you never know how much work your car may require in any one year. Reserve a minimum of a few hundred dollars as a contingency against the need for new spark plugs or a new battery. Gas and oil costs, on the other hand, can be calculated quite easily. even if you don't save receipts. To estimate your gas costs, divide the amount of miles you drive annually by your car's average miles per. gallon (MPG), then multiply by the average cost per gallon of gasoline. For example, if you drive 10,000 miles a year and your car averages 20 MPG, you use approximately 500 gallons a year. At $1.10 a gallon, that comes to $550 per year.

Parking can be a substantial expense for people living in cities. Calculate how much you pay to travel to and from work over the course of one year. You may be surprised at how quickly those parking fees add up.

When you total all your expenses you may suddenly view the slightly rusted family car in a new light. The Michigan Association of CPAs recommends that you carefully consider the costs of car ownership before deciding to buy a new car.

A United Way Agency

WERE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Your blood saved somebody's baby.

Thank you for giving. Again and again.

American Red Cross GIVE BLOOD, PLEASE

You can't attord to lose. Strokes are serious. If you've already had one your risk of having another is many times greater than someone who has never had one. You should also watch your P's and Q's if your family has a history of heart disease or strokes, if you suffer from high blood pressure or obesity, or if you have been diagnosed with diabetes. All of these conditions increase your chance of having a stroke significantly, so you should learn to play this game strictly by the rules.

 High blood pressure is the greatest risk factor for stroke, and it usually has no symptoms. The only sure way to know is to have your blood pressure checked. If you are on high blood pressure medication take it exactly as prescribed. Don't run out of pills even for a single day 18-B. CHAMPION CHEVROLET PRESENTS THE NEW 1989 MODELS

Former Michigan All-American Al Wistert chats with former Michigan State Alf-American Steve Juday.

State gridiron battle relived any years have passed since Northville's Alvin (Al) Wistert donned his maize and blue uniform to battle Michigan State on the gridiron, but he recalls those days like they were yesterday.

Wistert was a two-time All-American lineman for the University of Michigan in the post-war years of the late 1940s. Just like his older brother Whitey Wistert and his younger brother Albert 'Ox' Wistert who also played at U-M, Al never lost to the Spartans.

After a one-year stint at Boston University, Wistert transferred to Michigan in 1947 and played for the Wolverines for the next three seasons. All three years, Michigan opened with Michigan State, starting with a lopsided 55-0 win in '47. It was legendary coach Fritz Crisler's last - and some say best – team.

"It was always the first game on our schedule," Wistert remembered. "Back then Fritz said he expected us to beat them just on physical condition alone." The win on Sept. 27, 1947 before 97,000 fans at Michigan Stadium was the debut for both Wistert and legendary Michigan State Coach Clarence 'Biggie' Munn. A year earlier, Munn's Syracuse team beat Wistert's Boston University squad and after the game, Wistert went into the Syracuse locker to congratulate Munn. But a year later, the situation changed dramatically. "I thought it was only fair to go into the locker room and see Biggie when we won but he wasn't in a very good mood after getting beat 55-0," Wistert said. "He felt Fritz ran up the score on him and he never forgave him. They still say that '47 team was one of Michigan's greatest teams."

teve Juday is probably the most talented football player ever to come out of Northville High School - and the most successful.

At Michigan State in the mid-1960s, Juday was an All-Big Ten and All-American stan-dout. But he also has the distinction of being the last quarterback from a Division I college in this state to lead his team to the glory of a national championship.

As a Spartan from 1962-1965, Juday actually played in three Michigan State-Michigan showdowns and had a very diplomatic 1-1-1 record in those games

As the starting quarterback for Hugh 'Duffy' Daugherty's team for three years, Juday was a key figure in the tail end of a two decade period in which MSU dominated the series. From 1950 until Juday's senior season in '65, U-M won only three times in 15 tries.

The Spartans topped the Wolverines 28-0 during Juday's first season in 1962, but he never played a down that year because back in those days, freshman players were ineligible. The following year, the intrastate rivals battled to a 7-7 tie in Ann Arbor — one of five ties in the series.

"It was my third or fourth game as a starter and at that point I was in a little deeper than I thought I'd be at that stage of my career," Juday said. "I was a sophomore on a senior-dominated team and I was just trying not to make any major mistakes. In 1963, Michigan wasn't especially strong and we had a good team, so the tie was a disappointment for us.

"Duffy wasn't happy at all because he thought we outplayed them. He truly believed that a tie was like kissing your sister. That was the ontriver same I ever played in and I remember leaving Michigan and the way with a hollow feeling." Continued on 3

Stockhausen delivers pamphlets to parents

By DOROTHY NASH

"Catch'em in the Cradle" is the title of one booklet in a packetful which Carole Jean Stockhausen delivers to the parents of new babies in Northville - as a gift from The Friends of the Northville Public Library.

It's filled with useful tips for parents, who are interested in their child's development - not just size, weight, and coordination but emotional and intellectual development as well.

Stockhausen said this is a new service, which Betty Griffin, who was the Friends president last year, suggested. Stockhausen was the volunteer who said she'd like to work on it.

So all last winter she and the rest of a committee pooled their resources and came up with a packet of three available booklets. The packet also includes a schedule of first-year development accomplishments outlined by M-Care Health Center and a list of helpful

parenting books on the library shelves

The first of May this year, a supply of each item had been ordered and was on hand, and Stockhausen took on the responsibility for delivering the packets for a year

Finding out about the new babies in Northville is the most difficult problem, Stockhausen said. She said she gets some from The Record but most come from churches "I go to Catholic churches once a month, and the Protestants either mail them or call me " But for new parents, the surest way to participate in the program is to register their new babies at the library, she said.

Then with the assistance of her family - five children who are sixteen to two years in age - she makes up individual packets, labels, and catalogs them according to area. Then, when she drives in a certain area, she delivers them. Those with a P.O. box or further away, she mails.

By mid-September she had delivered 47, with 6 to go, she said.

In Our Town Newcomers to tour historic Detroit

Northville Newcomers will take a tour of historic Detroit on Thursday, Nov. 3. The group will visit Indian Village, Belle Isle and a few interesting surprises, organizers said.

Chairpersons for the event are Nancy Graybiel and Barbara Pomarolli. Reservations must be made Oct. 7-21 and the tour is limited to 40 ladies. Call Barbara Pomarolli at 348-6458 for reservations. Cost is $21 per person.

Newcomers will meet in the parking lot on Seven Mile Road in front of the China Fair Restaurant. Travel will be by bus. Lunch is included in the price of the ticket, and guests are welcome.

Junior Group plans Antique Show and Sale

The Junior Group of Goodwill Industries will present its 41st Annual Antique Show and Sale, Nov. 10 through Nov. 13. The first night, Nov. 10, is the Preview Night.

Contributions for Preview Night are $30, $50 or $100. The remaining days entrance fee is $5. The donation helps provide needed services for the mentally and physically disabled.

The show will have 45 dealers assisting in choosing from a wide variety of antiques and collectables. In addition, there will be items for sale in a Craft Booth, Pantry and Goodwill Booth.

The show will take place at the Michigan State Fairgrounds, Eight Mile and Telegraph roads, in Detroit. Hours are Friday, 11 a.m.- 9 p.m., Saturday, 11 a.m.-6 p.m. and Sunday, 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Food and refreshments will be available. For more information, contact Audrey McNary, president, Junior Group Goodwill, 363-7271.

Library adds new books on cassette

Tired of Top 40s music? The Northville Public Library has recently acquired 40 new books on cassettes. The collection, many of which are fiction, also includes self-help, poetry and informational tapes. Some of the new titles include "Prince of Tides," "Love, Medicine, and Miracles", "Gorky Park", and "How to Talk so Your Kids will Listen". No obnoxious disk jockeys. No silly jingles. Perfect for trips or commuting to and from work.

Betty Johnson honored by Oakwood Hospital

Betty Delawrence Johnson, M.D. was honored at a recent dinner held at the Fairlane Manor in Dearborn. She was acknowledged for 35 years of dedicated service as a staff member at Oakwood Hospital. She was also the first woman on the staff at the hospital. Betty is the wife of Carl Johnson, a local real estate broker. The Johnson's reside at Glen Oaks apartments in Novi.

October benefit planned for Marquis

Tickets are $12 50 per person and may be reserved by calling Laverne Eady, at 626-4711 or Glenna Merillat, at 453-7146. Zonta International is a service evening will begin with wine and business and the professions. The Zonta Club of Northwest Wayne County Area has raised funds each year for seven years to support the work of First Step, the local spouse abuse shelter.

The Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet on Tuesday evening, Oct. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the Amerman Elementary School.

The program will feature Joyce Moore of the Detroit Institute of Arts. Moore will be addressing 'Women Artists in the DIA".

Born in New York, Moore has been a Michigan resident for many years. She received her B.A. in art history from Duke University in 1947. After raising four sons, Moore joined the Volunteer Committee at the DIA and has served as a docent since 1969. She has given tours in all areas of the museum as well as for many special exhibits. In 1979 she became a member of the Speaker's Bureau.

Membership in AAUW is open to all graduates who hold a baccalaureate or higher degree from a qualified college or university. For more information on membership or about the AAUW, call Dawn Eule at 349-1626.

Single Place discusses happiness of singles

Single Place offers "How to Be Single: Enjoying Yourself" with Dr. Harold Ellens on Sunday, Oct. 9 at 7 p.m

Single Place is pleased to welcome back Dr. Harold Ellens, Ph.D. who moves around all the theories and philosophies and theologies of singleness about which people are always abstractly talking. He gets right down to the practical steps of the day-to-day business for singles of making life fun.

Dr. Ellens is a minister and is in private practice in Farmington Hills. He has had a variety of experiences and in 1981 gave the Webster Talks at Fuller Theological Seminary School of Psychology and at Harvard. Dr. Ellens is highly thought of and is a friend to many people.

A $2 donation is requested and child care will be provided. Single Place will meet in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Former Michigan star relives memories

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound Wistert started to get national recognition the next season, under rookie coach Bennie Oosterban. Wistert was a twoway tackle, but excelled defensively.

The 1948 intra-state game was held at newly expanded Macklin Field (later Spartan Stadium) on Sept. 25 and it was a doglight. The Wolverines pulled out a 13-7 victory, but Wistert could tell Munn was turning around the program in East Lansing.

'I'd say Biggle brought excellence to State's football program, and you could see the difference after just one year," Wistert said. "They were a very tough opponent my final two running downfield to cover a punt SCASORS.

In 1949 - Wistert's last as a collegiate player - the Wolverines edged Michigan State 7-3 in another war at Macklin. The victory was U-M's 10th straight in the series, but it marked the end of Michigan dominance until the Bo Schembechler years in the 1970s. Under Munn and later Hugh 'Duffy' Daugherty, the upstart Spartans began to dominate the series in the 1950s and 60s as Michigan won only three of the next 18 games.

"Those last two games I played in were very physical," Wistert recali-"In the '49 game, I remember eď and seeing Michigan State's captain Bob McCurry out of the corner of my eve. I didn't think he'd be able to catch me but he did and he blindsided me with a tremendous block -I went down like an ox. I got up slowly and struggled to get up and back to the huddle but I didn't feel too bad because they carried him off on a stretcher.'

Wistert admits that the Michigan-Michigan State rivalry has grown since his playing days. In the late 40s, Michigan State was just a small college and not yet a member of the Big Ten Conference, so it wasn't the biggest game of the year (for the Wolverines.

"We really didn't look on the game as our biggest game of the season because it was a non-conference game," he said. "The rivarly is more keen now and has been since their entry into the Big Ten. I also think television has helped to make the game more of a big deal than when I played.

"Nowadays it's very intense - it's almost a bitter rivalry - because both sides are playing for bragging rights and pride. Even though I always want to see U-M win it, I root for MSU in their other games because it's a local team that represents our state

Doug Fraser entertains at benefit

By ANN E. WILLIS

Politics were at the forefront of the ·remarks made by Doug Fraser during the Fifth Annual Friends of the Northville Library Dinner, held last week at Genitti's restaurant.

Fraser, retired president of the United Auto Workers (UAW) and a Northville resident, spoke to a packed room, following the completion of the seven-course Italian meal donated to the Friends by Genitti's.

Born in Scotland and a graduate of Detroit's Chadsey High School. Fraser went to work as a metal finisher in the DeSoto plant of Chrysler Corporation at the age of 18. He became active in the UAW and was eventually elected as the sixth president of the International UAW. He retired from the post in May of 1983 and currently is a professor of labor relations at Wayne State University and holds chairs on the boards of several corporations.

Fraser was accompanied by his wife, Dr. Winifred Fraser, who is a professor of psychology, associate dean of the Graduate School of Wayne State University. She is currently a senior associate with Lutz

Associates. During his after-dinner remarks, Fraser encouraged the audience to remain involved in the political process, and defended the labor movement's involvement in campaigns and endorsements. 'We can only do so much at the bargaining table. There is so much we do not have control over," Fraser said, referring to economic, health care and trade policies that affect the auto industry.

Fraser pointed out that a more realistic relationship currently exists between American car manufacturers and their Japanese counterparts due to the "realistic relationship of the dollar, it is more competitive now," he said.

He noted that the Japanese have one percent less of the market this year, compared to last year, and that the German car manufacturers are down a ½ percent as well, for the first eight months of the year.

"We're still paying for the mistakes of the 70s," Fraser said, when American car manufacturers let quality slip. "We're building better cars now - now we just have to prove it.'

Keeping American technology and manufacturing competitive with the Japanese and keeping the trade deficit balanced is "why we're involved in the political life of the nation, and why we must stay involv-ed," Fraser said.

Fraser commented on the current presidential race, and called the recently televised debate between Bush and Dukakis - "meanspirited".

During the question and answer section of the program, Fraser, an avowed Democrat, was asked why he ventured into the Republican stronghold of Northville.

"If I'd known that 85 percent figure (of Republicans in the Northville area), I wouldn't have moved here," Fraser said jokingly. "I didn't test the political waters first ... all this time I thought half of them were Democrats - I better watch what I say," he said to laughter from the audience.

"The country will be better off come Jan. 20, no matter who is elected," Fraser said. "Bush is a heckuva lot brighter than Reagan, and that's not saying much.". "Reagan's strength . . . is making the American people feel good about themselves and their country," Fraser said. "I'm for that. But in terms of the administration of the country, Bush is better equipped."

Regarding a question on outsourcing and on the automobile companies setting up factories in Mexico and other foriegn countries where wages are much less, Fraser said he was a believer in companies setting up production sites in the countries in which they sell cars. He said he was glad to see the Koreans and the Japanese opening up plants employing American workers in the United States because of the number of cars sold here by those countries.

"America cannot compete on the basis of who can pay the lowest wage, but on technological competence," he said. He noted that a decision to build factories in other countries was a tough one, but that the companies would find that the low wages tended to be offset by low productivity. He noted that while wages may be considered to be high in American car plants, critics should look at the high productivity of the plants when analyzing the costs.

they got better. In 1964, U-M came in-to Spartan Stadium, trailed most of the game, but put on a flurry in the fourth quarter and pulled out an exciting 17-10 win. The Wolverines went on then to win the Big Ten and earn a trip to the Rose Bowl behind star quarterback Bob Timberlake.

39-0 win for the Wolverines.

"The '64 game sticks in my mind more than the other two games I played against Michigan," he recalled. "That may have been the lowest of the low points of my playing days even lower than the loss in the Rose Bowl in '66. We were winning for most of the game but we lost it at the end on a trick pass that went for a touchdown.

"I left as low as I've ever left Spartan Stadium. Duffy just didn't lose to Michigan and that was the first time we lost to them since 1955."

But all the frustrations quickly disappeared on Oct. 9, 1965 in Ann Arbor. As part of a perfect 10-0 regular season, the Spartans topped Michigan 24-7.

"If the loss the year before was a low point, the win in Ann Arbor was definitely a highlight," Juday said.

With time running out and MSU ahead 17-7, many of the second string players were on the field. With less than 10 seconds left and time ticking away, Juday assumed the clock would run out so he started onto the field to get the game ball — as he did in many big games. But in all the excitement, a Spartan player called a time out.

"Once your're on the field, you couldn't leave, so I stayed in there and called for a little dive play to the fullback to run out the clock," Juday said.

But All-American Bob Apisa popped through the line, broke a couple tackles and rambled about 35-yards for a touchdown.

"It was a tremendous touchdown run, but it was unneccessary and "When Bob got to the endzone, he fired the ball three-quarters of the way up into the stands, he was so fired up. I remember thinking as I was holding for the extra point that the whole play never should have happened.'

Juday said that the football rivarly between the two schools is probably even more heated today than it was when he played, but he also pointed out that most of the passion comes from the students and the alumni.

"I'm convinced the rivarly is more student and alumni generated, rather than player generated," he said. "There may be some hatred in the stands but if you watch the end of the game on Oct. 8, there will be more players from each team pairing up and talking with each other than at any other game of the season. They know each other and a lot of them are friends - they are just wearing different color jerseys."

Some health plans are like hospital gowns: They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Church in Society group cares about less fortunate

By LISA VAN CAMP

They're the people nobody likes to talk about. They don't have a place to go and they don't have anyone to take care of them so they wander the streets - all day every day.

They're usually not too attractive, they smell and wear dirty, old, torn clothes. Sometimes they talk to themselves and sometimes they travel in groups. They're young and old, men and women, but they all have one thing in common - they're homeless.

"This situation is real and we need to deal with it," Pat Hauser said. Hauser is the founder of the Church and Society Committee, a group dedicated to helping people in economic crisis The three-year-old committee is sponsored by the First United Methodist Church of Northville and includes seven members, all part of the Methodist Church.

The committee participates in several activites including a "feed your face" for the homeless in Detroit. Three times a year the committee members prepare a meal and transport it to the Cass Methodist Church which also acts as shelter for the homeless

We get the food from donations we feed about 300 people," she said.

The group donates money, food, clothing, furniture, canned and paper goods to two economic relief groups, the Baldwin Methodist Church in Pontiac and the Cass Methodist Church in Detroit. Both churches also act as shelters for the homeless. Everything that is donated goes straight to the homeless.

'We don't take out any administrative fees or anything," Hauser said.

In order to ensure that their labors will be fruitful, the group always allows Detroit social service agencies to allocate it's donations. The people best able to become rehabilitated are selected to receive help

Although the committee does work to improve the lives of the homeless in the inner city, they also try to concentrate on helping the temporarily homeless in Northville and Novi through a group called Civic Concern

"We try not to take our work where the community can't relate to it," Hauser said.

The Church and Society Committee has helped local tornado and fire victims as well as down-and-out corporate executives who may need clothes or even food. The group is also involved in helping the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital patients, especially those with drug and alcohol addictions. They donate the usual items to the hospital along with craft materials to help the patients occupy their time. A recent program at the hospital sponsored by the committee concentrated on educating the clients, as they are called, on the problems of babies born to addicted mothers.

"This has been quite popular with the clients so far," committee member Lee Anne Schanne said.

The three area prisons are a pet project of Schanne whose inspiration was a speech given by the program director of Scott Regional Prison on life inside a prison. Since many of the inmates have children between the ages of five and seven. Schanne has been involved in an effort to provide more toys for the prison waiting rooms

"We concentrate on retaining the family structure," she said.

The prisions have also recently lost their educational funding so the committee is currently recruiting tutorial volunteers.

According to Hauser, without public support solutions to these problems are unrealistic, so the committee also attempts to educate the Methodist congregation on possible solutions.

Before elections local candidates or their representatives are invited to speak on the issues of homelessness and poverty, "We try to heighten awareness within the congregation," Hauser said

Since, according to Hauser, the solutions to these problems will only exist with the help of future generations, educating the youth is also an important part of the committee's work. Every year the church sends a group of young people to Appalachia, an economically depressed region along the famous mountain range. The number of homeless people in Appalachia is higher than most parts of America. During their visit the young people help build homes for the poverty stricken. They also have an opportunity to attend meetings with area residents.

"They come back from this experience more apt to be socially aware," Hauser said.

The group is most important, according to Hauser, because they provide support for the poor year-round. "We don't wati until Christmas." she said.

KATHY JO FIELSTRA PETER R. JUNE II

Couple to wed in June

Mr. and Mrs. William Fielstra of Muskegon, announce the engage-ment of their daughter, Kathy Jo, to Mr. Peter R. June II of Muskegon.

The bride-elect is a 1960 graduate of Muskegon Senior High School. She is employed at the Muskegon Home Health Care Center where she is a surgical fittings technician.

Her fiance is the son of Mrs. Peter June and the late Peter R. June of Old Bedford in Northville. He is a 1980 graduate of Northville High School and a 1965 graduate of Central Michigan University. He is employed as an account executive with Goodrich Broadcasting in Muskegon. A June wedding is planned.

Special reunion cruise offered for NHS grads

If you graduated from Northville if we don't set sail until January to High School anytime from 1955 to 1965, you're eligible to attend the ultimate class reunion - a cruise to the Bahama Islands aboard the Premier Cruise Line.

Jay (Wittenberg) Bow, a 1960 Northville High School graduate, is at-tempting to see if there's sufficient interest in organizing a cruise of former classmates.

Dow currently lives in Florida and formerly was employed by the Premier Cruise Line. "I just thought it would be a fun thing to do," she said. Dow said she will use her contacts with the cruise line to secure the best possible rates. "I talked to the Group Department Manager, and she said there will be a five percent rate increase in 1989, but they will hold the '89 rates for us even April of 1990," she reported.

Dow noted further that there are substanial savings associated with group fares. If 15 or more Northville High School graduates book cabins through the same package, there will be a discount ranging from 35-40 percent.

Premier Cruise Lines also is the official cruise line for Disney World in Orlando. Dow reported that the group department manager has said she is willing to offer the 3-4 day Disney package to anyone in the group for an additional $195.

Anyone interested in more information about the cruise package is asked to contact Jay Dow at Post Office Box 993, Cocoa Beach, Florida 32923-0993, or Roger Atchinson at 1514 Black Oak Place, Plymouth, Minnesota 55447.

Girl Scouts are looking for volunteer recruits

Approximately 360 Northville girls will grow into self-confident young women thanks to adults in the community who voluntewer their time and talents to Girl Scouts. And, as the number of girls involved in scouting increases every year, so does the need for adult volunteers.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council is looking for volunteers to 'Take the Lead' in the Girl Scout tradition. Parents, as well as those without children, professionals, and senior citizens are needed as program consultants, committee members, event directors, media representatives and troop leaders. Whether escorting a troop of girls on a trip to explore Europe or teaching a girl how to say "no" when a friend says "yes", Girl Scout volunteers do more than help with camp outs and cookie sales. They use their skills, talents, and guidance to give girls in the community the finest opportunity for personal growth and achievement Commitment can be a few days a year or several days a month, but the rewards can last a lifetime

If you're interested in volunteering or would like more information on Girl Scouting, call 313-483-2370 or write the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, P.O. Box 539, Ypsilanti, Michigan, 48197 The Huron Valley Council is a United Way agency serving nearly 12,000 girls in Washtenaw, Livingsten, western Wayne, and Monroe counties.

Imported coffee is popular in area

By BOB NEEDHAM

If you start the day with Maxwell House or Folgers, you may be missing a good thing

Specialty coffees, popular for years, offer an alternative to the mass-market brews which continue to sell strongly in the area. People at two local stores specializing in coffee said the main reason for continued popularity is very simple: the gourmet stuff tastes better.

"There really is a difference I personally taste the difference between regular coffee and gourmet coffee." said Diane Niess, manager of the Coffee Beanery store in Twelve Oaks Mall

Elizabeth Burch, owner of Grandma Betty's Sweets and Treats on Center Street, said that while supermarket coffee brands may have their place, they also have their limitations

"They're mass marketing. They have to buy in massive amounts," she said And, as a result, "It's like having colored water in your mouth

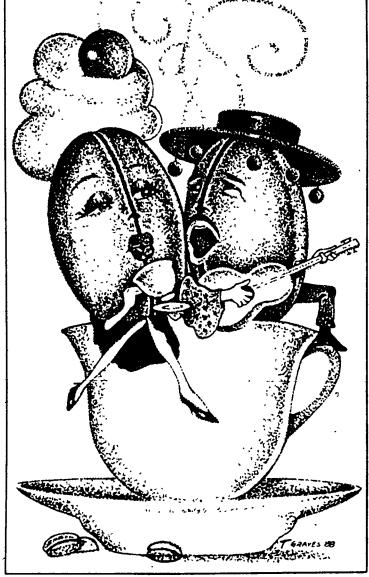

But you don't have to settle for colored water And according to Niess, more and more people aren't In fact, the Coffee Beanery chain now has 20 other stores in Michigan and Ohio, just 11 years after the first one opened at Fairlane Mall in Dearborn.

The Twelve Oaks store's business has dropped just a little recently because of a move within the mall. Niess said, but she and Burch both reported constant strong sales of specialty coffees.

Niess said the Northville / Novi area is the prime sort of market for gourmet coffee.

'We're looking for the middle to upper middle class, who are willing to try, and purchase," she said

If someone is interested in becoming educated about coffee but doesn't know where to start, both Burch and Niess suggested the best way to learn is simply going into the store and asking questions

Sweets and Treats has a designated regular and decaf-feinated variety of coffee brewed for sampling every day, and the Coffee

Beanery may have five or six kinds going. Although even tasting in the store may not be the best introduction; Niess commented, "personally,

The Northville 'Record

Lowly Canton tops gridders

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Plymouth Canton has never had a winning football season, but that would probably change if the Chiefs played Northville every week. For the third straight season, Canton endwith a 21-15 victory.

Heading into last Friday's (Sept. 30) WLAA Western Division clash, Canton had a very unspectacular 0-4 record, but the Chiefs appear to have the Mustang's number the past few years.

It was a game Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher expected his team to win, but it didn't happen.

"It's real painful," Schumacher said. "(Canton) played well and earned it. Statistically, we dominated the game, but we gave up some big plays. It was a game we should have come out ahead in, but it iust didn't happen."

It was a close game throughout with Northville taking an early lead, trailing 12-8 at halftime and clinging to a 13-13 tie heading into the final quarter. But the Chiefs put together a 70-yard touchdown drive to win it and drop Northville's season record to 2-3 (1-3 in the WLAA).

"We didn't break down in one particular area but there were lapses here and there and Canton capitalized on them every time, it seemed,' Schumacher said.

Mike Karfis set up the Mustangs first score with his third interception of the season early in the first quarter. Karfis then rambled 45yards on a draw play and that set up his two-yard scoring plunge. To cap it off, Karfis then ran the ball in on the two-point conversion and it was 8-0.

"We didn't break down in one particular area but there ed up on top in the battle, this time were lapses here and there and Canton capitalized on them every time, it seemed."

Canton came back just before the half with a 60-yard scoring strike from quarterback Karl Wukie to Mark Barrette on a play action pass The extra point try failed and Northville hung on, 8-6.

A bad exchange between Greg Price and Karfis resulted in a fumble midway through the second quarter and the Chiefs took over on the Northville 27. Four plays later - including a pass interference call against the Mustangs - running back Mike Young took it into the endzone from eight yards out to put Canton ahead 12-8 at halftime.

In the third, Northville put together an impressive 12-play, 70-yard drive to retake the lead Sam Khashan scored the touchdown on a 12-yard counter play and Chris Kulfner's kick made it 15-12. But Canton came Technically, Northville High School is located in Oakland County, but the Mustangs are never invited to the county golf championships like neighboring Novi and South Lyon always are But maybe there's a reason.

Northville clobbered North Farmington by 10 strokes in a dual meet on Sept. 27, which was just one day after the Raiders placed second in the 44team Oakland County Meet. Ironically, first place Bloomfield Fills Lahser was scheduled to take on Northville in a dual meet in late August but never showed up. The Mustangs were awarded a forfeit victory.

As'a result, it's pretty plain to see that this season, the Mustangs may be the best team in Oakland County. Nobody can deny that coach Don we came through," Morgan said. "They beat Stevenson, who is the only team to beat us, so we knew they'd be tough to beat."

Golfers grab Western Division title

In an amazing exhibition of balance, four Mustang golfers tied for medalist honors with a score of 38 Kevin Telepo, Chris Lemmon, Mike Crichton and Dave McKee were all at the top of the leader board and Jason Sherman's 40 was the fifth score used Lronically, the team's top per-former this season—James Nordbeck — had a 41 and his score was thrown out!

"James didn't like that at all," Morgan laughed. "Never in my wildest dreams did I ever think we'd throw out a good score like that. A 41 is often times a medalist score

NORTHVILLE 193, FARMINGTON HAR-RISON 228: It was more of the same two days later at San Marino Golf Course against the Hawks.

Lemmon was the medalist on the day with a 37 He was followed by Nordbeck (38), McKee (38), Crichton (41) and Telepo (43).

The Mustangs ended the regular season with a 12-1 mark (8-1 in the WLAA) - with the lone setback a one-stroke heartbreaker to Stevenson in early September. The WLAA Meet will be on Oct 10 at Huron Meadows, and Morgan still believes North Farmington is the team to beat

"We'll need to place first at the league meet if we want to get the title," he said "I think our chances are excellent if we keep our mental attitude. We feel a little disappointed because we missed having an undefeated season by one stroke, but I think it helped us in the long run We learned from it and it made us mentally tougher

Morgan's squad is the best of the WLAA Western Division if not the entire conference. A 35-stroke victory over Farmington Harrison last week settled that issue, but the 192-202 triumph over North Farmington was the big news.

If anybody stands in the way of the WLAA title. it's North. But at Glen Oaks Golf Course, Northville put together its best outing of the season and won handily.

'We've got a good chance to go to the state meet and that's still our number one goal."

Home-pool is no advantage for Northville swimmers

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

'Most teams believe competing at their own home field, court, course or pool is a big advantage, but for the Northville girls swim squad, hosting Livonia Churchill on Sept. 29 in their four-lane pool was probably the key factor in the 44-39 defeat.

Because the meet was held in a four lane instead of six lane pool, the Mustangs couldn't take advantage of their superior depth. As a result, Northville dropped its first dual meet decision of the season by just five points, but it was a costly loss to a WLAA Western Division foe. Prior to the meet, the Mustangs were ranked among the top 10 Class A teams in Michigan by the swimming coaches association.

"It was obviously a close meet," coach Bill Dicks said. "In four events, the total time we lost to Churchill was less than two seconds We had a lot of personal best times but we seemed to get touched-out in a lot of races.

'On paper, we seemed to be the stronger team, but the fact that we swam in a four-lane pool hurt us."

Northville managed five wins in 11 events and added six seconds, but it wasn't enough to catch the Chargers. Debbie Buell and Kristen Storm were two-time winners. Buell took the bonors in the 200-yard freestyle and the 50 freestyle, while Storm won the so freestyle and the 100 breast stroke. Wendy Beach had the only other Nor-Buell's win and lifetime best performance in the 500 freestyle, and Storm's pool record effort en route to backstroke and the two relay events. . a win in the 50 freestyle. Buell's time in the 500 was also a pool record and a state qualifying cut. The rest of the firsts included Barb Woodruff in diving, Kristi Fortenberry in the 100 butterfly, Pam Wesley in the 100 freestyle, Holmberg in the 100 backstroke, Stephens in the 100 breast stroke, the 200 medley relay team (with Holmberg, Buell, Hilfinger and Holdridge) and the 400 freestyle relay team (featuring Claire Cryderman, Wesley, Betsie Petricca and Kendra Cicero).

> "Even the events we didn't win, we still outpointed Thurston," Dicks said.

> The second place finishes came from Cryderman in the 200 freestyle, Allison Sleving in the 200 IM, Petricca in the 100 freestyle, Frayne in the 100 backstroke, Holdridge in the 100 breast stroke, Theresa Michel in the 50 freestyle and the two 'B' relay teams. Thirds were notched by Cicero in the 200 freestyle . and Kristen Woodsum in the 200 IM.

FENTON RELAYS: The Mustangs justified their position as one of the state's best with a first-place team said. "(Thurston) didn't have the finish in this 13-team event on Oct. 1.

Northville scored 270 points and had a pair of first place finishes and two more seconds

"I was satisfied with the way we swam," Dicks admitted "We used a lot of kids in off events but I still saw a lot of drops in times and that was nice To be first out of 12 is pretty good "

The 400 medley relay team of Holmberg, Buell, Hilfinger and Holdridge placed first overall and so was the 400 IM relay team - featuring Holmberg, Susan Kowalkski, Hilfinger and Buell

The runner-up finishes came in the 200 breast stroke relay (with Kowalkski, Stacy Lang, Sandy Loftus and Storm), and the 800 freestyle relay (with Cryderman, Wesley, Woodsum and Sieving)

"Everybody swam well," Dicks said. "We were either equal too or better than almost all of our best times

The Mustangs (2-1 overall, 1-1 in the WLAA) will try to get back on track against conference opponent Plymouth Canton tonight (Oct 6) on the road.

"If we have any shot at the division title, we have to beat Canton," Dicks said. "I think our depth will help us out in their six-lane pool."

Netters notch another division crown

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

It was another bittersweet week for the Northville netters.

With a 7-0 win over Walled Lake Western on Sept. 26, the Mustangs secured their third straight WLAA Western Division title. But a pair of extremely close defeats to Livonia Stevenson and North Farmington all but knocked Northville out of the conference race, preventing the team from defending it's 1967 championship

The win over the Warriors was very easy. All seven matches were two-setters and only one set in the entire contest could be considered close: a 6-3, 7-6 win for the third doubles team of Alica Hanson and Kavitha Sriraman, who beat Toffy Wackerle and Tina Gardner. The rest of the doubles results included a 6-0, 6-2 win by No. 1 team Jacquie Trausch and Neysa Colizzi over Ann Wentzel and Sara Jaffe, and Merilynn Millgard's and Jennifer Juhasz's 6-2, 6-3 win at No. 2 over Angle Crawford and Heather Hobson.

In singles, Adrienne Edwards cruised to a 6-0, 6-0 win over Kristen Anthony, Abby Edwards dumped Heather McHugh 6-1, 6-1, Karen Vogt blanked Dawn Petrovick 6-0, 6-0 and Diane Vogt topped Marcie Cohen 6-2,

"It felt very good to whether the division, but losing the next two matches kind of put a damper on it. We played some wonderful tennis but we couldn't get the points and the games when we really needed them."

Mustang Tennis Coach

"I think we had a strong showing but (Western) isn't such a strong team," Northville Coach Uta Filkin said. "It felt very good to win the division, but losing the next two matches kind of put a damper on it."

STEVENSON 4, NORTHVILLE 3: The Mustangs won the top three singles matches with case on Sept. 28, but hard-fought battles ensued in the remaining four flights, and somehow, Northville lost them all. "This was a total heartbreaker, it was so close," Filkin said. Adrienne Edwards didn't have any trouble with Renea Bonser (6-2, 6-1), Abby Edwards crushed Christine Newton (6-1, 6-3) and Karen Vogt topped Holly Findling (6-2, 6-3). Northville needed to pull out just one of the remaining four matches to win the meet but couldn't do it.

Uta Filkin

Diane Vogt fell to Cortney Richa (8-6, 5-7), Trausch and Colizzi didn't have it against Tina Gelmisi and Diane Walsh (1-6, 4-6), the Millgard/-Juhsz duo dropped a three-hour marathon to Mary Francis Larabell and Amy Snow (5-7, 6-4, 4-6), and the third team of Hanson and Sriraman fell to Kathy McConnell and Molly Yock (4-6, 6-7).

"It's about as close as you can get without winning," Filkin said. "Any of the four matches we lost could have gone either way, that's why it is so frustrating."

Harriers down another WLAA rival

It was supposed to be a rebuilding the top four runners in succession. As year for the Northville boys cross a matter of fact, the Mustangs country squad, but it hasn't worked out that way and nobody is happier about it than coach Ed Gabrys.

With a convincing 16-48 pasting of Livonia Churchill on Sept. 29 at Cass Benton Park, the unheralded Mustangs are now 2-0 against WLAA Western Division teams (2-1 overall). The tough portion of the schedule is still to come, but Gabrys is pleased with the progress his young and inexperinced group has shown the past few weeks weeks.

There was little doubt who would win this meet when Northville placed eighth runner finished ahead of the Charger's second runner.

"We took the top four spots but (Churchill) had a couple of their top runners out," Gabrys admitted. "We would have still won the meet but it would have been closer I'm sure."

Sophomore Andy Haas knocked 26 seconds off his previous personal best effort at Cass Benton with an 18:13 and a first place finish. He was followed in order by senior Jay Griffith (18:31) and a pair of newcomers - Steve Coon (18:40) and Jon Meek (18:41).

"At the mile point, Churchill had two guys in the lead pack but soon after that they started to drop a bit and we came on strong," Gabrys said

What really made Gabrys happy was to see his team's pack time between the first and fourth runners cut to 28 seconds. It was the narrowest pack time of the season, and that bodes well for the rest of the season.

The rest of the Northville finishers included Aaron Wiseley (sixth, 19:27), Mike Huff (seventh, 19:31), Paul Grant (eighth, 19:38) and Jason Hoose (ninth, 19:45). Of the top eight, six Mustang runners set personal best times.

With wins over Churchill and Harrison, Northville has a pair of confidence builders and they'll need it with Western Division co-favorites Plymouth Canton (Oct. 6) and Walled Lake Western (Oct. 20) on the borizon.

Kickers beat Canton, fall to C.C., Pioneer

Sometimes, it's not how many you win, but who you beat.

The Northville kickers had an unimpressive 1-2 record in soccer action last week, but the win was against a tough WLAA opponent and the two defeats came against two non-conference foes.

With the season already past the halfway point, the Mustangs have a 6-4-2 overall record (4-1-1 in the WLAA). But more importantly, the locals are 3-0 in divison play and must be considered a contender for the crown - but powerful Livonia Churchill stands in the way, and that's a mighty big obstacle.

Northville moved into the con-tender's position with a 1-0 triumph over a solid Plymouth Canton squad at home on Sept. 26. The Mustangs then dropped a pair of home matches to respectable non-conference teams from Redford Catholic Central and Ann Arbor Pioneer, Catholic Central pulled out a 2-1 win on Sept. 28 and Pioneer registered a 5-2 victory on Sept. 30.

Northville Coach Dave Yezback was unavailable for comment.

The Mustangs took on Churchill in Livonia Sept. 5 (after Record deadline), and the winner will be in the driver's seat in the battle for the division crown.

Slumping cagers blow lead, fall 46-45

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

After winning six in a row to start the '88 campaign, the Northville girls basketball squad has since dropped two of three and are now trying to get back on track.

In action last week, the Mustangs dumped Livonia Stevenson 55-40 on Sept. 27 but came back two days later to lose a 46-45 heartbreaker to Livonia Franklin. Northville blew a nine-point fourth quarter lead against the Patriots and lost it in the final 10 seconds.

"This was a tough loss to take," Mustang Coach Ed Kritch said. "We knew (Franklin) was capable. They were 5-2 heading in but it's tough to get beat by one point - especially the way we got beat.

'I felt we were outcoached in the last few seconds. We had a defensive breakdown in the last 10 seconds and I feel responsible."

After a fairly close battle through three quarters, Northville scored the first three points of the final quarter to go ahead by nine. But from that point on, the Mustangs seemed to close-up offensively and only managed to score three points the rest of the WAY.

"Our six points in the fourth was the lowest output of the season in a quarter, except for the Canton game," Kritch said.

With Northville struggling to score, Franklin made a move and pulled within three (43-40) with 35 seconds remaining. A Karen Baird free throw increased the lead to four but Franklin nailed a three-point shot and a free throw to tie it at 44-44 with 14 seconds left. But Heather Sixt made one of two free throws to give the Mustangs a 45-44 lead and the Pats called a time out with four seconds left, setting up the winning basket.

Franklin tried a backdoor cut on the inbounds pass and it worked, freeing up a player for an easy lay-up and a one-point victory as time expired.

"We felt we blew the game, rather than Franklin beating us," Kritch said. "And I'm not knocking Franklin because they played well, but they only had the lead one other time in the game. Out of 32-minutes of play, they had the lead for less than a minute, but they had it at the end when it counted.'

Northville had a narrow 11-10 lead after one quarter and 24-23 advantage at intermission, but did open up a six-point lead heading into the fourth quarter.

"We got a solid effort but our execution isn't where it should be," Kritch said. "We need to get rejuvinated - we're in a little slump right now."

Debble Stevens led all scorers with 23 points and nine rebounds, but was the only Mustang to score in double figures Baird added nine points. Unfortunately, both Northville (7-2 overall, 1-2 in WLAA Western Division) losses have been against WLAA Western Division teams, and that puts the team in a difficult situation: they need to make up lots of ground if a division title is still a goal.

"The loss really cost us," Knotch said. "We have Walled Lake Western next (on Oct 4, after Record deadline) and that is a must win for us '

NORTHVILLE 55, STEVENSON 40: The Mustangs consistently pulled - away from the Spartans in each who scored seven points and had her quarter, but it wasn't until the second half that the gap was substantial.

"I thought we played pretty hard for a road game," Kritch said. "We showed a lot of patience and poise, and we pulled it out down the stretch.'

Northville had a slim two-point halftime lead but outscored Stevenson 30-17 in the second half, including a 17-9 advantage in the fourth quarter. Kritch was impressed with the play of forward Kate Holstein, best game of the year.

"We got a big lift from Kate and I am glad to see more players contributing," he said

Record/CHRIS BOYD

The Spartans employed a sagging zone defense on Stevens in the second half after she burned them for 12 in the first half, so she started kicking the ball out to wide open players. One was Heather Sixt, who scored 10 in the final 16 minutes and had 14 for the game. Stevens still led the team with 17 points and eight rebounds and Baird chipped in 15 points, four assists and four steals

We're blowing our own horn..

Just as it takes more than one musician to make a band, it takes the combined efforts of many dedicated people to produce prize-winning newspapers.

Once again the Sliger-Livingston chain won the most awards in the 1988 Annual Better Newspaper Contest sponsored by the Michigan Press Association.

Members-of-the Georgia Press Association juried 1.725 entries from 127 newspapers in the state. We're proud of our 29 awards, and of all the people who work together to bring the local news to you each week.

You're invited to join in the applause...

Mustangs of the Week

KRISTEN STORM

Kristen Storm has been a standout for the Northville swim team all season, especially in the freestyle and breast stroke sprint events. In a 44-39 loss to Livonia Churchill on Sept. 29, Storm was a two-time winner, taking first-place honors in the 50-yard freestyle and the 100 breast stroke. She was also a member of the runner-up 200 medley relay team. Two days earlier, Storm was a star in the Mustang's 121-51 win over Redford Thurston. She took first place in the 50 freestyle and set a new Thurston pool record in the process. To make all these accomplishments even more impressive, Storm is just a freshman. That's why she is a 'Mustang of the Week.'

MIKE KARFIS

To say Mike Karfis is an important part of the Northville football team would be an understatement. The senior paved the way for the Mustangs' first touchdown against Plymouth Canton on Sept. 30 with a diving interception — his third of the season. Karifs then set up the score by reeling off a 45-yard run, scored the touchdown from two yards out and then ran in the two-point conversion. For the season the defensive back/ fullback leads the area in interceptions and is third in rushing yards with 385 — behind two tailbacks. For his fine effort against Canton, Karfis has been chosen a 'Mustang of the Week.'

Chiefs edge Northville for first victory

back to tie if on the next possession with a 23-yard field goal by Tony Riggs.

Early in the fourth, Canton missed a 44-yard field goal try but came back with time running out and put together a drive that ended with a 30yard scoring pass from Wukie to Young on a screen pass with 3:57 remaining.

"We missed a lot of tackles on that screen play and it turned into the game winner," Schumacher said.

Another failed kick by the Chiefs left the door open at 21-15 with enough time remaining, but the Mustangs fumbled on their next possession when a flea-flicker attempt went awry and Canton promptly ran out the clock.

"The worst part about it was that we thought we should have won the game," Schumacher said. "We'll just have to bounce back."

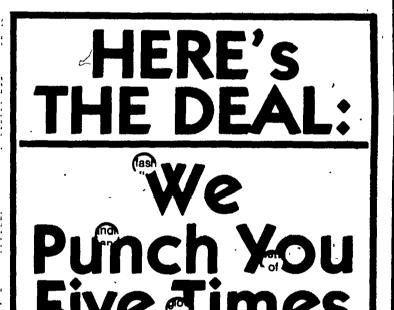

Tailback Randy Jones didn't play in the game because of a knee injury, but Karfis played well as he lugged the ball 14 times for 90 yards. Price had another rough outing though, completing just 4-of-13 for 48 yards and a pair of interceptions. Defensively, Todd Daniels (eight solos, two assists), Rob Spradlin (eight solos, two assists) and Mike Hale (eight solos, 1 assist) led the way. Northville had more first downs (11-7) and more total offense (200-182) than Canton, but lost the battle on the scoreboard, and that's what really counts.

The Mustangs will travel to Livonia Franklin for a Saturday afternoon game (Oct. 8), the teams fifth road game in six weeks. It's another key WLAA Western Division clash, and Schumacher knows the Patriots will be tough to beat

"Franklin is an excellent football team and they've always been a physical team," he said "We're going to have our hands full

"We're at the point right now where we are a decent learn and if we can get untracked, we can win some

Goggles can offer eye protection

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Next to his patented "sky book," Los Angeles Laker basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is probably best known for wearing goggles to protect his eyes.

Following Abdul-Jabbar's lead. other sports stars such as Roy Tarpley, Eric Dickerson and James Worthy have donned goggles as a method of protecting their eyes. But are goggles a necessary precaution to eye protection? Dr Arnold Sokol of the Novi Vision Clinic said the type of eye protection used by an athlete depends on the sport Sokol said all individuals participating in raquetball should use goggles not only to protect their eyes but also to prevent their checkbones from being fractured. He added that baseball players should wear some form of shaded lens to protect their eyes, against glare and dust.

Dr. Martin Levin of the Northville Vision Clinic said people do not need to wear goggles during athletic activities in most cases.

"People who do not wear goggles during athletic activities are not significantly more vulnerable to an eye injury," Levin said.

He agreed with Sokol that individuals should wear goggles while playing raquetball "because in many cases being hit in the eye with a raquetball can cause much internal hemorrhaging."

Levin said he also strongly recommends that individuals wear protective eye gear when playing tennis and hockey. He said particularly in hockey, being hit in the eye by a puck, stick or elbow can cause real damage

Levin noted swimmers do not necessarily need to wear goggles. "Chlorine can be irritating but it is not debilitating," he said. He added that swimmers who wear glasses can obtain prescription goggles from their eyecare specialist.

As for contact lens wearers, Sokol said individuals who normally wear contact lenses can continue using them during sporting activities, especially if they are soft lenses. "Soft lenses don't fall off as easily as hard lenses," he said.

Levin said in most cases soft lenses out too easily."

ext. 410.

An unidentified Plymouth Canton football player models Rec Specs protective eyewear will not detach from the eye because of the way the lens conforms to the eye and the large amount of eye area it covers. He added that there have been cases where contact lenses protected eyes by acting as a barrier to the eye getting scratched

Sokol said while soft contact lenses are excellent to wear during any sport, he does not recommend wearing hard lenses "because they come

Sokol said people who wear glasses should purchase a special pair of athletic glasses which have safety frames and polycarbonate lenses.

"Regular glasses are subject to easy breakage," Sokol said. "This type of athletic lens provides max-imum durability while it protects

Levin said athletic glasses are usually constructed with hard rubber frames and break-hinges, which release rather than snap in half.

He noted the polycarbonate material is a strong enough plastic to withstand the impact of a bullet. "With the polycarbonate lens there is less of a risk of a lens cracking in half.'

In addition to athletic glasses, Levin said it is a good idea to use a strap on the frame to "keep the glasses in place during sporting ac-tivities."

Alzheimer's disease affects 2.5 million in U.S.

By JUDITH BEHN, M.D.

Alzheimer's disease (AD)is a progressive degenerative disease of the brain that results in impaired thinking and behavior. The cause is unknown. AD was first described in 1906 by neurologist, Alois Alzheimer but widespread public awareness of the disorder has only come about recently. AD is common; at least 2.5 million adults are affected in the United States.

Progressive memory loss is the most obvious feature of AD. Intially, the symptoms may be subtle. With time an individual becomes more confused and agitated and develops marked behavior changes. Eventually patients become unable to care for themselves. The time course varies, but the average time from diagnosis to death is five years.

It is important that the diagnosis of AD be established. Currently there is . structure. The individual with AD not a specific test AD produces characteristic changes in brain tissue, but this can only be determined post-mortem. The diagnosis is made when the signs and symptoms of AD are clearly present and other causes of dementia have been excluded. A variety of metabolic and neurologic disorders and even depression can cause altered mental function.

A person suspected of having AD should have a physical and neurological exam and blood work. Additional tests, such as a brain CAT scan or an eletroencephalogram. may help to establish the diagnosis.

There is not yet a cure for AD. Medications can control the agitation and behavior changes but do not halt the progression of the disease. Thus, a diagnosis of AD means significant changes can occur in the family suffer: loss of independence and the family assumes new responsibilities. Often the spouse or one of the children takes on the care of the person with AD. This can be an emotionally and physically demanding task. Sharing the responsibilities among different family members and utilizing community resources will ease the burden.

Community services are available. A visiting nurse can provide instruction in giving medication, dealing with maintenance and other potential problems. A home health aid can assist with bathing, feeding and transport. Day care may be available to allow the care-giver and occasional day off.

The Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADRDA) is a voluntary organization that provides education and assistance to AD individuals and their families Local chapters have support groups for family members. Information can be obtained by calling the local chapter listed in the telephone directory.

There are several excellent books about AD. Two that may be helpful to families coping with AD are: The Loss of Life: A Family Resource for the care of Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders, by D. Cohen and C. Eisdorfer; and The 36-Hour Day: A family Guide to Caring for Persons with Alzheimer's Disease and Related Dementing Illnesses, by N. Mace and P. Rabins.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of bealth-related topics. The series is coordinated by Pog Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Collector's Cherry

Celebrating 25 years of Thomasville craftsmanship.

Collector's Cherry by Thomasville has been America's favorite furniture choice since it was introduced a quarter century ago Whether you choose the formal elegance of the Collector's Cherry Double Pedestal Table, Chippendale Chairs and large Tracery China or the charm of the Corner Cabinet and Queen Anne Table and Chairs — the craftsmanship is unmistakably Thomasville

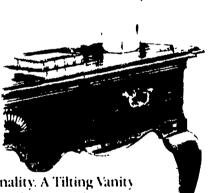

The gracious lines of the Collector's Cherry Oval Cocktail Table and the classic Chippendale styling of the Drawer End Table reflect the 18th century design heritage which is still as popular today as it was over two hundred years ago Collector's Cherry occasional tables add enduring beauty to any living area

Thomasville

Breathtaking Collector's Cherry bedrooms combine the beauty of the past while accommodating your storage needs of today. The stately Chest-on-Chest with seven spacious drawers and brass hardware is a handSome addition to any bedroom. The Storage Headboard system is the epitome of functionality. A Tilting Vanity Mirror adds a charming touch to the seven drawer Dressing Chest. The Cannonball Headboard and Footboard feature sweeping curves and turned posts topped with richly grained cannonball finials
