No penalty if township broke election law

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The Northville Township Board may have violated Michigan election law by publishing a recent newsletter — but the absence of direct penalties could make it a moot point — according to the State Attorney General's Office.

"It is definitely clear by what Attorney General Frank Kelley has said on numerous occasions that public spending of money for political purposes is not allowed," said Chris Dewitt, spokesperson for the attorney general's office.

"But the legislature has not imposed any direct penalty in regards to a violation of the law," Dewitt said. "The law is lax in the enforcement power given to the prosecuting attorneys."

Moreover, Brad Wittman of the Michigan Bureau of Elections said there is no special provision, only opinions, which denote a township newsletter that endorses as being illegal.

"And there is definitely no direct penalty for the abridgment of that principle," Wittman said.

Both Wittman's and Dewitt's comments were made in relation to a controversial newsletter published by Northville Township. Entitled "Talk of the Township" the four-page newsletter, which was written by board members, contained among other articles, endorsements of both the police and park millage questions.

The newsletter was sent to residents on Nov. 4. Both millage questions were approved two weeks ago by township voters. The park millage failed after a defeat in the city.

Dewitt said that a lack of direct penalties for the violation of such an offense may detract from residents pursuing the matter.

"While the township may be in violation of the law, when no penalties are involved you get into the question of what is the value or purpose of prosecution?" he added.

Northville resident Jeff Hampton, who brought the matter of the questionable articles before the board at its Nov. 10 meeting, said although he seriously thought about filing a suit against the township, he decided he did not have enough time or money to pursue the matter.

"I think the only way to react to this situation is to hope that the board got the message that they are on shaky ground both morally and legally and it's up to us (residents) to watch them more closely in the future," Hampton said.

The shaky legal ground to which Hampton refers is based on a number of opinions filed by Attorney General Frank Kelley with respect to township newsletters.

In opinion 5597 of Nov. 28, 1979, Kelley cited a 1986 court case in which "it was considered whether a county board of supervisors may appropriate and spend county funds to print and distribute material advocating a favorable vote on the issue of whether a new county building should be constructed."

Christmas glow

The Northville Historical Society held its first-ever candlelight Christmas Walk last Friday night. Historical Society workers have been decorating the Mill Race to represent a Victorian-era Christmas. Above, Emily Presley, 2½ years old, holds her candle while touring some of the village's homes. The candlelight tour and the Christmas Walks at Mill Race (last one Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 26-27) are hoped for annual events.

Main Centre plan goes to schools

By BOB NEEDHAM

A compromise plan to finance a development on the southwest corner of Main and Center streets downtown went before school district officials Monday and reportedly met with acceptance.

The Singh Development plan to build a four-story retail / apartment building on the old Northville Lanes site stalled this fall when the plan itself received city approval, but the city and developer could not reach agreement on parking costs.

Specifically, there was a $1,000 gap in the per-space cost to Singh for building a 160-space parking deck. The city offered to finance some of the cost, charging Singh $3,000 per space, but the developer said the company could go no higher than $2,000 per space.

Some cost review from two local architects and reconsideration by the developer has resulted in a new proposal. As detailed in a letter from City Manager Steve Walters to Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell, Singh would pay $2,677 per deck space. Singh would also pay $196,000 to redevelop and reconfigure the surface parking lot southwest of Center and Cady streets for 90 more spaces.

Under the proposal, the city would finance more than half of the total parking cost for the development. The developer would pay $624,300 and the city would pay $691,700 plus interest.

The city would finance its share by tax capturing. The project site is in the Downtown Development District, in which the city may capture new tax revenue for improvements to the area.

According to Walters' summary, the project would generate about $160,000 in property taxes, of which "We had a very positive response."

— Chris Johnson
Northville Mayor

$105,000 would be captured for each of 10 years. Singh would be assessed $65,000 per year, not including what it would be spending to rebuild the lot. The parking could then be financed with a special city bond issue. Total cost to develop the required 250 new spaces is estimated at $1.3 million.

The letter to Bell lists several reasons for the school district to support the plan, including the favorable reaction to the design by city commissions; possible negative impact on redevelopment of the Cady Street area and the Ford plant; the new tax revenue which would still be generated, beyond that which would be captured; and the opportunity to strengthen downtown with a cohesive development.

This was all presented to the school board's Policy Committee Monday at a meeting which six of the seven board members attended. Since the school district is the largest taxing unit, city officials are asking for School Board support of the tax capturing idea.

Coming to the City Council meeting straight from the school committee, Mayor Chris Johnson said "Overall, the tenor of the meeting was very positive... We had a very positive response." The issue is scheduled for full School Board consideration in the next few weeks, after which it is expected to return to the City Council.

Downs wins lower assessments

By BOB NEEDHAM

Northville Downs and Wayne County have settled a four-year disagreement over the track's property tax assessment, and the Downs will get a sizable refund as a result.

A negotiated settlement between the Downs, the county and the city has lowered the track's property tax assessment for each of the last four years. The state Tax Tribunal finalized the agreement in a consent judgment reached last week.

Arnold Roberts, the Wayne County appraiser who negotiated for the county and the city, said the agreement means that every government which taxes the track land must pay back part of the money it got from that land over the past four years. Those governments include the Northville School District, the City of Northville, Wayne County and Schoolcraft College.

The schools will pay the largest share, roughly $100,000. The city is expected to pay about $50,000 plus interest, based on calculations of tax rates and assessments.

The Downs filed an appeal when its 1985 state equalized valuation (SEV) was put at $4.9 million. It also appealed the next three years' assessments.

The settlement reduced the assessment figures by over 10 percent each year. The 1985 assessment went from $4.9 to $4.4 million, a 10 percent drop; the 1986 figure went from $4.8 to $4.1 million, a 14 percent drop; the 1987 figure went from $5.1 to $4.4 million, also 14 percent; and the 1988 figure went from $5.4 to $4.6 million, a 15 percent decrease.

State rules for appealing assessments require that the assessed rate be paid until the dispute is resolved. That means all the taxing units which levy millage on the Downs land must now return some of the last four tax payments — the same percentage shares by which the consent judgment says the track was over-taxed. Interest charges are also added, Roberts said.

The land at the track is owned partly by Northville Downs and partly by the private Driving Club. Twenty-eight different tax parcels were involved in the appeal.

The state equalized value of a piece of property is by law supposed to be no more than half the true cash value of the land. According to the settlement, the true cash value of all the track land in 1988 was $9.2 million.

Roberts said that the settlement only covers assessments through the current year's assessment. "Beyond that, anything can happen," he said.

After the county and the track reached agreement, officials from each had to sign the settlement and forward it to the state Tax Tribunal for the final word. A clerk at the tribunal said a formal consent judgment was issued and mailed back to the involved parties Wednesday, Nov. 16.

City Manager Steve Walters said the taxing units pay the money to the county, which will return it to the track in a lump sum.

The city gets two different kinds of tax money from the track. Property tax — which was an issue in this appeals case — is by far the smaller income source for the city. In addition, the city gets several hundred thousand dollars from the state each year, which comes from taxes the state collects on betting revenue at the track.

Record/THOM DOUGHERTY

It rained on Santa's parade last Sunday, but the annual event wasn't dampened at all. Hordes of children, parents and just children-at-heart, waited in the rain for the first glimpse of the merry old gentleman. Above, Santa heard children's wishes in the gazebo, in spite of the weather.

Saint Nick swims into town

Raindrops substituted for snowflakes for Santa's arrival in Northville Sunday, but eager parade watchers didn't seem to mind.

Northville's annual Santa Parade was filled with music, merriment and colorful costumes. Most prevalent of all, though, were rosy cheeks and smiles upon the faces of kids who waited at the curb to see Santa ride down Main Street.

One little tyke bundled all in red stood on the sidewalk and sang "Rain, rain go away. Come back another day," while waiting for the holiday parade to begin.

Northville band students added to the festive parade music, as did a callopie player in a bright red car, holiday songs piped through a loudspeaker aboard the Dearborn Trolley and a float sponsored by Schoolcraft College, featuring Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs.

A glance down Main Street would warm even grouchy Ebenezer Scrooge into the Christmas spirit — large wreaths wearing bunches of pine cones, garlands of greenery tied with bright red bows and strings of tiny white lights lined some of the store fronts.

At the corner of Main and Center streets a few spectators carefully chose bunches of fresh green holly. There's no doubt, Christmas is in the air.

Newsletter may have broken law, but no penalties in place

"In Mosier vs. Wayne County Board of Auditors, it was concluded that, in the absence of authority, a county board may not expend public funds to attempt to influence the outcome of the election," Kelley said.

He added "... I am of the opinion that, while a commission or board may expend appropriated funds to inform the public in an objective manner on issues relevant to the function of the commission or board, it may not expend public funds to urge the electorate to support or oppose a particular candidate or ballot proposal."

The final paragraph of the township newsletter article entitled "Police Millage Proposed" reads "...This amounts to less than thirty cents per day. We hope you agree that this is not too much to pay for your continued safety and security. Please vote YES for the police millage on Nov. 8."

After the Nov. 10 board meeting, each board member said they had no problem with the contents of the newsletter, which has been given a budget of about $2,000.

However, in an attempt to rectify the situation, Township Attorney Ernest Essad said he will recommend to board members that they repay the general fund with a prorated amount for the space used by the endorsement articles in the newsletter.

"Because of the lack of penalties, probably the appropriate action is either a civil lawsuit or an administrative action to right the wrong or recover the money," Essad said.

He noted if a violation had indeed occurred, a lawsuit to recover the money would be in order.

"I suspect what will happen is that if the money is reimbursed, the issue will become moot," Essad said.

Reimbursement of the money, which would be paid by the Citizens Organized for Police Service (COPS) - a committee which supported the police millage - would not be an admission of guilt by board members, according to Essad.

"The money will be reimbursed because these (board members) are moral and ethical people who will leave no question of any wrongdoing," he said.

Essad noted prosecution of any board member on this offense would be difficult, because he said criminal wrongdoing is hard to prove.

"No individual on the board benefited from this action, meaning there was not criminal wrongdoing involved," he said.

Dewitt said that from a legal standpoint, whether a reimbursement of the general fund would relieve board members of the violation is unclear, but "from an ethical standpoint it is definitely a step in the right direction."

He said he agreed with Essad that a lack of criminal intent would have an impact on any lawsuit brought against the township.

"I doubt if anyone on the board realized any personal gain from this action," Dewitt said, adding a new vote on the millage question is also extremely doubtful.

Dewitt said the proper way to handle this type of situation is to realize the articles violate state law before they run, as trying to rectify the situation "after the fact" is difficult.

He added an earlier suggestion to run an article of an opposing viewpoint "would be trying to turn two wrongs into a right."

Resident Jeff Hampton said he would not approve of COPS repaying the general fund, but is advocating that board members make the repayments out of their own pockets.

"My reaction is that the only way to rectify the situation is for board members to pay from their own pockets, so they will realize that they did something wrong."

"And I want the board to know that the Citizens for a Better Northville will watch them closely and if they breach the public trust again, then we'll take legal action," Hampton said.

Welcome Santa!

Santa Clause came to Northville last Sunday afternoon amidst the music and fun of the annual Santa Parade. The parade is always a crowd favorite and this year, despite the rain, remained a crowded event. The annual downtown Christmas Walk through Northville's stores was held immediately following the parade.

Eight Mile study group forming

City and school district officials are putting together a special committee to study traffic problems on Eight Mile Road around Center Street.

Northville Mayor Chris Johnson and Northville School District Superintendent George Bell have discussed putting together a group to look at safety around the intersection. Both Amerman Elementary School and Northville High School are on the corner.

The committee will be made up of both administrators and private citizens, Johnson said Monday. The exact membership of the committee is not yet set, although some appointments have been made.

"They're going to be looking at traffic patterns; they're going to be looking at the general flow," Johnson said. "We're just going to wait for their recommendations back."

Judy McIntyre, who lives on the corner and has been pushing for some traffic improvements, is one member of the committee. "If nothing is done within the next couple of weeks, I am seriously thinking about organizing some kind of citizens' protest," she said.

On another front, a meeting scheduled last week to discuss speeds along the road was rescheduled for Tuesday, after the Record's press time. Erma Clarke, an information systems manager for Wayne County, said representatives from Wayne County, Oakland County and the Michigan State Police were scheduled to discuss speeds.

Police Blotters

Racing sulky is stolen from Northville Downs area

A racing sulky chained and locked to a building at Northville Downs was reported stolen last week, a city police report said.

A sulky is the two-wheeled cart on which the harness racers sit. The theft is estimated to have occurred between 2 a.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16 and 8:30 a.m. the next day.

The sulky had been chained and locked. The owner found the cable cut.

The sulky is valued at $1,300.

LANDSCAPE DAMAGE — A Northville resident was ticketed for careless driving last week after doing an estimated $1,500 damage to a local yard's landscaping.

The driver told police he meant to drive through a pile of leaves out in the street on Fairbrook at Fairbrook Court, a report said. However, he lost control and his car jumped the curb and ran over some shrubs and rocks in a lawn.

The accident happened at 2:18 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16. No injuries were reported.

PLYWOOD STOLEN — Fifty sheets of plywood were taken from a house under construction in the city last weekend, a city police report said.

The sheets — each four feet by eight feet — were taken from a lot in the new Pheasant Hills subdivision off Eight Mile Road. The total value was put at $600.

Although the theft was reported to have taken place between 4:30 p.m. Nov. 11 and 7 a.m. Nov. 14, police believe it happened the afternoon or evening of Sunday, Nov. 13.

PURSE LIFTED — A purse left unattended in a downtown store last week was reported stolen.

The purse was left on a chair in the Kitchen Witch between 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. Monday, Nov. 14, according to a police report. It was found missing with no witnesses to the theft.

The purse contained a wallet with cash and several credit cards, the report said.

BIKE FOUND — Another found bicycle has been turned in to the Northville city Police Department.

The bike, a boy's model, was found in grass just west of Northville Collision on Doherty Drive. The owner may describe and claim the bike at the city police station, in the municipal building at 215 W. Main.

VCR STOLEN — A videocassette recorder was reported missing from a Main Street home last week.

The theft is estimated to have occurred between 8:20 a.m. and 4:40 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 16, a city police report said. It was valued at $400. The brand is believed to be Panasonic.

LAMP TAKEN — A table lamp was stolen from a model at the new St. Lawrence Estates condominium complex over the weekend, according to a city police report.

A door on one of the model units at the complex — off Center Street and Seven Mile Road — had been forced open, the report said. The lamp was valued at about $150.

FAIL TO YIELD — A Northville resident turning from Eight Mile north onto Novi Road was ticketed for failing to yield Friday morning, a city police report said.

The driver turned into another vehicle traveling through the intersection on Eight Mile at about 6:10 a.m., according to the report. No injuries were reported.

FAIL TO YIELD, PART TWO — Police ticketed a Detroit resident for failing to yield after his car ran into the side of another vehicle early Saturday, according to a city police report.

The accident occurred at about 12:14 a.m. Saturday. The driver pulled from Seven Mile Road out onto South Main Street and ran into the side of a vehicle going south on Main, the report said.

DRUNK DRIVING ARREST — A Northville resident was arrested last Monday for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and driving with a suspended license, according to a township police report.

Police stopped the car on Northville Road at Seven Mile when the officer said he observed the car missing one headlight.

While conducting the traffic stop, police said the driver told them he did not have a license because it had been suspended. Police reported they noticed a strong odor of intoxicants coming from inside the car and several beer bottles were on the front passenger floor.

After failing three of four field sobriety tests, police said the driver refused to take either a preliminary breath test at the scene or a chemical test at the station.

The driver was held in jail and paid a $1,000 bond. He has a Dec. 15 court date.

TOOL THEFT — $110 in tools were reported stolen from a residence on Waterfall last Tuesday, according to a township police report.

The complainant said from Oct. 23 to Oct. 30, a $70 tool box and $40 of assorted tools were stolen from her open garage.

Police said they have no suspects or witnesses in the incident.

Effort underway to move wetlands jurisdiction to county

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Skepticism and curiosity are the preliminary reactions of both state and local officials with regards to a wetland protection proposal submitted by the Wayne County Wetland Protection Task Force.

The county task force, which is comprised of officials from many county departments, seeks to switch jurisdiction over wetland permits from the state to the county.

Northville Township Planning Director Carol Henry said she thinks the county is trying to gain power over wetland permits in order to head-off a slowdown of economic development.

"The county is trying not to hinder economic development potential because of non-quality wetlands," Henry said, adding the county believes development opportunities are being limited due to the preservation of minimal-grade wetlands.

Henry said the proposed county wetland plan calls for a ranking of all the Wayne County wetlands, from highest to lowest grade.

The county proposal would provide for the mitigation of low grade wetlands for development in exchange for the preservation of quality wetlands.

She said a land bank would also be created, where developers would put money into a wetland fund and could use the money anytime they developed on a minimal grade wetland, as part of a trade-off procedure.

"They have good ideas, but there are a lot of questions that need to be answered about the plan," Henry said.

Don Juchartz, Chairman of the Wayne County Wetlands Protection Task Force was unavailable for comment as of press time.

Meanwhile, Dennis Hull, Supervisor of the Land and Water Management Division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), said his agency is currently reviewing the Wayne County report, but he added on the surface he would not be excited to see control of wetlands shift from the state to the county level.

Hull said even though Wayne County is trying to wrestle away control of wetland permits from the state based on increasing development, "the DNR is issuing permits and maintaining the water resource base in the county."

"We (the DNR) are trying to work with the development community to protect resources while allowing for development," he said.

In making its pitch to control wetland permits, Wayne County sent its proposal to each local community on Oct. 21 and asked for response in writing by Nov. 1.

The Northville Township Planning Commission met last week and collectively decided that they needed more time to review the 61-page document before making a formal statement.

Henry said commissioners expressed two preliminary points on the county wetlands proposal: first, they prefer to have the issuance of wetland permits handled by the state rather than the county and the limited review time of the proposal is unsatisfactory.

"Wayne County has provided us with an unreasonable amount of time to review the proposal, but from a philosophical perspective I can support its premises," said Commissioner John Leinonen.

Planning Commission Chairman Charles DeLand said he believes the commission was not provided with enough time for a meaningful review of the proposal.

DeLand said the seven commissioners have been instructed to read the proposal and it will be discussed at the next planning commission meeting on Nov. 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Henry said the commission had instructed her to write a letter to the county expressing their two initial reactions to the proposal, but she added a later decision was made to delay sending the letter until after the next commission meeting.

New friends

Meeting a big, bearded gentleman can sometimes be a scary experience, but chances are that Deidre Difazio, age 1, will become fast friends with her recent acquaintance, Saint Nick. Above, Deidre and Santa were introduced following Northville's Santa parade. Santa will be back to hear children's wishes on Nov. 27 at the gazebo in the Main Street park.

Open Door plans to stay a while

The Open Door Christian Church is going to stick around, at least for a while.

All the improvements taking place at the church recently are a sign that plans for a move to bigger quarters have been shelved. And while the church knows it will have to move sooner or later, for now it's investing in its location in downtown Northville — and the pastor says it's more a part of the community than ever before.

A few years ago, the church bought some vacant land above Ten Mile Road, between Haggerty and Meadowbrook in Novi. The current location, on the corner of Dunlap and Center in an old restaurant building, was becoming too small for the growing congregation. In addition, the building was not meant to be a church.

"We had this (site) on the market for quite a while, and we had some good-looking offers," Open Door Pastor Mark Freer said. There was a lot of work needed on the building, but church officials reasoned that it didn't make much sense to do work that the next owner would probably undo.

However, all the offers for the building eventually fell through, Freer said. So that changed the church's perspective, and they decided "we just can't keep going and not put some money into the building," he said.

The church sold its Novi land to a developer who planned to build houses on it, and so the church decided to stay in Northville a while.

Thousands of dollars are going into a complete building renovation. The roof is being extensively repaired, restoring the slate roof over which shingles had been nailed; sand-blasting paint off the outside stone work; painting trim; having new gutters installed; putting in all new carpeting; replacing some wood outside; and restoring some stained glass; and, eventually, putting glass back into some bricked-over windows in the rear wall.

In addition, the church hopes to improve landscaping in the front of the building, although it might need help from the city to do that, Freer said.

"Everything has cost us twice as much as we originally thought," he laughed.

"(The work) is going to carry us into the next year," he said. "There's still a lot of work to be done." Some of the outside painting and other work has been delayed because of weather.

Staying in Northville will mean some changes for the congregation, now about 250 strong and growing all the time, Freer said. The church will probably add a second Sunday service in addition to the Sunday and Thursday services it holds already, he said.

"We are using every available part of the building," Freer said. "There's no other structural way to get more room."

Freer said the church is not currently looking for a new location, but they expect to have to do so at some point. For now, he's glad the congregation is where it is.

(10.33% in November 1988) goes into effect. For example, based on the current index, the regular monthly payment for each $1,000 borrowed on an 18-year loan would be $9.84 for the first 6 payments (based on a 9.75% A.P.R.), and $10.21 for the remaining 210 payments (based on a 10.33% A.P.R.). The overall A.P.R. for the entire loan term in the example would be 10.31%. Of course, A.P.R. and payment changes after the introductory period may occur if the index varies at the time rate changes are determined.

**If you choose a fixed-rate 10-year loan, your monthly payment would be $14.49 for each $1,000 borrowed.

Katie Bondy and Sarah Heckmeyer, right, of Bruce Ricketts third grade class at Silver Springs, work on their coloring near their class project on native Americans.

School experiences native civilization

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The American Indian culture, complete with all its splendor and charm, is being showcased at Silver Springs Elementary in conjunction with its hands-on approach to teaching.

Featuring a seven-foot wigwam, paper-mache Indian people and a display case filled with Indian paraphernalia, Silver Springs is attempting to teach children by getting them involved, according to principal Ken Pawlowski.

"We're trying to put an emphasis on a hands-on approach because it makes learning come alive for kids," Pawlowski said.

"Projects like these give students a chance to experience what they're talking and learning about in class."

He noted that Silver Springs teachers are instructed to come up with creative projects designed to "extend the educational opportunities of the children."

"Projects, such as the Indian exhibit, make learning come alive for kids and gives them something to relate to," Pawlowski said.

Third grade teacher Bruce Ricketts, who coordinated the Indian project, said he came up with the idea as a way to present the material to the children.

"The Indian unit is part of the curriculum set by the school district," Ricketts said. "I designed the project to give the students an audience to display their work, which I believe gives them more of a purpose in what they're doing."

The Indian project, said Ricketts, began with each student studying the Indian culture and then choosing one aspect of it which interested him or her.

"Each student brainstormed and found some way to answer questions pertaining to their subject and then found a way to share their learning experience with others," he said.

Student projects ranged from the wigwam to Indian artifacts to a puppet show describing a particular legend.

"This is the student's first major research project and I feel it is a success in putting the goals of the project in perspective," Ricketts said.

Research by itself is often not as immediately rewarding, while "something which allows them to share their work with others is more exciting," he added.

Among the children in Ricketts' class, the hands-on teaching approach seems to be working.

Third-grader Doug Thompson, who will be staging the puppet show on Indian legends, said sometimes the work is hard "but I'm learning from the whole thing."

"I also helped put the wigwam together, and it helped me to see how Indians live," Thompson said, adding it was also fun putting the paper onto the wigwam frame.

Around this time in November it is traditional that schools teach children about America's first Thanksgiving. ## Lot restriping put off to spring

One side effect of the delay of the Main Centre plan downtown is the delay of some improvement in parking capacity in the central business district.

City officials plan to eventually reconfigure all the public parking lots downtown to put more spaces within the existing lots. The lot first in line — south of Dunlap and east of Center, behind the Marquis Theatre — was tentatively slated for this fall. But City Manager Steve Walters said this week that the physical work won't begin until spring.

The city had figured to sell a large special assessment bond for parking, including a new parking deck off Center and Cady; reconfiguration of that lot; and reconfiguration of the lot behind the theater.

But when the Singh Development plan for the Main / Center corner ran aground on parking costs, the theater lot redevelopment stopped along with it, Walters said.

"It was assumed . . . that the Singh Development project would go, that we'd sell a special assessment bond for the group of parking development," Walters said.

But there was no practical way of financing the theater lot on its own, Walters added. "It kind of threw a monkey wrench in it for us," he said.

Over the winter, city officials will consider financing the improvements in the theater lot and other lots downtown, Walters said. The theater lot and the lot from Dunlap to Main off the west side of Center are pretty straightforward projects, he said.

Other lot reconfigurations will be tied in to the city's study of the Cady Street Corridor, Walters said.

The latest plan for the theater lot presented to the Downtown Development Authority left the east side of the lot basically unchanged to preserve traffic and delivery patterns. The reconfiguration is expected to increase that lot's capacity from 144 to 188.

Prison escapee still at large

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

An inmate of the Western Wayne Correctional Facility, who escaped last Wednesday, continues to remain at-large. Western Wayne Correctional is located on Five Mile just west of Beck Road.

James Arthur Odom, who is currently serving a three to five year sentence for larceny, was last seen by Western Wayne officials at 2 p.m. last Wednesday afternoon, wearing blue pants, a yellow t-shirt and a jacket.

The 34-year-old black male is 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. He has black hair and brown eyes. Odom was reported missing at 4 p.m. on Wednesday and the prison listed his escape method as walk away.

Western Wayne administrative assistant Ralph Morgan said chances are still high that Odom will be captured and returned to the correctional facility.

"A huge majority of the escape cases are returned," Morgan said. "I would guess that figure is around 90 percent, but I have no way of knowing for sure."

Assistant Deputy Warden Charlita Frazier said a $100 reward is being offered by the state for information leading to Odom's return. Frazier said the amount of the reward, which is not determined at the institutional level, is indicative of the fact that he is not considered a dangerous prisoner.

"Based on the fact that he does not have any record of assault in his background, it is believed that Mr. Odom does not pose a threat to the area," Frazier said.

"Mr. Odom is not armed to our knowledge and has a low assault and property risk rating," she added. "He has no record of assault in his history."

According to Frazier, Odom is currently scheduled to be released in April 1991. If and when Odom is recaptured, she said he faces an added six months to five years for escaping from a secured adult facility.

Prison officials earlier said Odom's escape may have been due to a mistake by a maintenance supervisor. Morgan noted Western Wayne's internal investigation has been completed and the information has been sent to the state police for review.

"I would assume something would be done within the next week or so, and whatever has been determined necessary will be completed," Morgan said.

Information regarding the investigation should be released following the state police review.

Frazier said Odom was doing maintenance work in the minimal security section of the prison prior to his escape. She added he should have been checked by prison guards at 3 p.m., but apparently he was not checked.

Some phone charges rising

About 16,300 local Bell telephone customers can expect higher rates on their bills soon.

Growth in the Northville area has resulted in the local exchange moving up one "rate group," Michigan Bell announced recently. The change must first be ratified by the Michigan Public Service Commission, but that is considered largely a formality.

The reclassification means that residential one-party flat rate service will increase by 51 cents a month. Residential two-party flat rate service will increase by 39 cents.

Marcia Buhl, Michigan Bell's local public relations manager, said that rates will not change for residential measured service. Measured service is a lower rate allowing a certain number of calls, with an extra charge for each call above the limit.

The new charges will affect residential customers in the 344-, 347-, 348- and 349- exchanges. No commercial rates will be affected by the change, Buhl said.

Michigan Bell requested the reclassification of the Northville exchange from rate group D to group E because the number of phones in the local calling area has remained above the 200,000 mark — the upper limit for D charges — for the past 12 months, Buhl said. Rate group E consists of telephone exchanges with 200,001 or more access lines in their local calling area.

Under MPSC regulations, rate group classifications are based on the number of main telephones in the local calling area, Buhl said.

School board OKs budget revisions

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

An amended budget for the 1988-89 school year was approved by the Northville Board of Education last Monday, with almost $100,000 taken out of the district fund balance to pay for added expenses.

District Business Manager John Street said the original 1988/89 budget, which went into effect last July 1 and will run through June 30, 1989, had revenues totaling $16,842,000 and expenses amounting to $16,695,221.

Street said the amended budget shows an increase in revenue to $17,111,000 and expenses to $17,068,154. The fund balance decreased from just over $209,000 to $106,472.

Street said the increase in revenue was caused from a conservative estimate by him last May with respect to the 1988/89 projections.

He said the 1988/89 projected revenue is based on the actual 1987/88 revenues, which were higher than he originally anticipated.

Street said expenses increased for primarily two reasons: a tax assessment settlement between Northville and Wayne County and an increase in teacher salaries.

With respect to the Northville Downs settlement, Street said the matter began with an appeal filed by the Downs two years ago on their assessment.

He said the Downs assessment, which is handled by Wayne County, is based on the revenue generated by the track, rather than the Downs' property value.

"This system is used because it is hard to say what their (the Downs') property is worth on the market, since racetracks are rarely bought or sold," Street said.

He added that the tentative agreement between the Downs and the county, if accepted by the Michigan Tax Tribunal, will require the district to repay Northville Downs around $100,000.

As for the teacher salary increase, Street said the major causes are an addition of two more elementary teachers than anticipated, increments and longevity payments that were higher than budgeted and substitute teacher costs which were also higher than budgeted.

He noted that determining the exact amount for teacher salaries is difficult because the enrollment is not set until the fourth Friday of the school year.

Because of the added expenses, the district is able to contribute only $42,846 to its fund balance and not the original intended figure of $146,779.

Street said the amended figure of $42,846 will raise the fund balance to $106,472, an amount which he said bears close watching.

"The board is looking to add more to the fund balance this year and in subsequent years," Street said, adding the fund balance, which is recommended to be five to 10 percent of the total budget, will only amount to 6 percent of the budget.

"I think this (raising the fund balance) is one of the adopted goals of the board for this year and in the future," he said.

Travel agents suggest early booking for Rose Bowl

By PHIL GINOTTI and BOB NEEDHAM

Local travel agents are recommending that area residents get an early start and shop around if they plan on attending this year's Rose Bowl in Pasadena, Calif.

Michigan takes on the University of Southern California in the game, scheduled to be played Jan. 2. Inquiries about travel packages — air fare, hotels, tours — have been coming in at a steady pace, local travel agents report.

"A lot of people wait until the last minute, and that's a mistake," said Marlene Zelmanski, manager of Glynn Travel in Novi. "Some of the people who wait until the last minute either aren't going to go, or they're going to be very upset with the cost."

"If people are making plans to go to the Rose Bowl, they better do it fast."

Barbara Moore, a travel consultant at Silverjet Travel in Northville, had some concise advice for prospective travelers. "Two words: Book now," she said. "If someone waits a couple of weeks before settling their plans, there's not going to be much available," she added.

Ed Jamieson of Northville Travel Plans also emphasized the importance of early planning. "Book this week if they can do it," he said. "There's only two or three (wholesalers) in Michigan handling it."

There appears to be some confusion over airline rates, which have fluctuated somewhat throughout the month of November. Some discount fares were dropped in mid-November.

"The prices are almost changing daily," Zelmanski said. "It seems like they have changed every day this month."

Prices range from about $288 on the low end, to over $1,000 for deluxe packages Rose Bowl bound fans will receive round trip air fare for the $288 figure. They're on their own with everything else.

Jamieson said cost varies widely depending on what a person wants included in the package. Game tickets, transportation by bus or limousine, a New Year's Eve Party, parade tickets and a tour of Disneyland are some of the options, he said.

For about $950, plus airfare, Michigan fans can see the game and also take in a site-seeing/shopping tour of Beverly Hills, and a night at the Santa Anita racetrack. Glynn's Travel is offering such a deal.

Glynn Travel is also offering basic room and airfare rates are running from about $450 per person for a four-night package or $530 for a five-night package.

Elliott Travel, of Novi, is also offering a range of deals. They offer a specific air-hotel package at around $760 and a variety of other packages ranging from basic (just airfare) to escorted tours of the Pasadena area.

Agents said the prices could change in the weeks before the Rose Bowl. Charter groups are just now putting together package deals for the trip.

Travel consultant Kelly Johnson, of Elliott Travel, said they have sold about ten packages and had "quite a few inquiries." Jamieson and Moore also reported a few sales, although Jamieson had more sales when Michigan State played.

"The interest is down because Michigan State went last year," he said. "Almost 30,000 people were there from Michigan for the game."

Detroit Consumer Affairs Division Director Esther Shapiro said consumers should, as always, proceed with utmost caution.

"Know your agencies, know the qualifications, and always read the fine print," she said. "Know them well."

Most travel agencies who book charter flights won't be responsible if the chartered plane doesn't arrive when scheduled. For people who have made plans out on the west coast, a late charter plan can be a disaster.

"If you read the contract, you'll see that most people (who sell the packages) aren't responsible if that happens," she said.

Simonized NHS play delights its audiences

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Neil Simon would be proud. Using an elaborate set, keen direction and excellent acting, the Northville High School drama department delighted fans with its production of the comedy "Come Blow Your Horn."

Playing a four-night schedule last Thursday through Sunday, students transformed the school auditorium into a community theater, according to the play's director Nick Besanski.

"High school theater is good theater and there is no difference between this and a professional production if everyone involved works hard," Besanski said.

An 18-year veteran of community theater, which includes a lead role in the recent Marquis Theater production of "Shenandoah," Besanski said the student actors worked hard in portraying their characters.

"Considering the age of the actors, there was some uneasiness on opening night, but the overall effect that the playwright intends can be had in any type of theater — even in high schools," he added.

Besides the acting of the seven-member cast, Besanski said the professional set design had a lot to do with the success of the play.

Flanked by paintings, sculptures and enough plants to create a mini-jungle, the bachelor apartment set played well into the story of a Jewish couple trying to cope with their adult sons.

"We tried to do everything up to par to make this the best theater possible," said Besanski, who has been a three-year volunteer director at Northville High.

As for the acting, one senior, five juniors and one freshman made up the cast, which was highlighted by possibly the most outrageous Jewish accent heard in any auditorium.

Freshman Jeff Dart, who portrayed Mr. Baker, delighted the 100 people or so in attendance for Saturday's performance, with his Jewish accent which was complemented by an occasional crack of his voice.

"I had to practice the accent for three weeks before I was ready," said Dart, who was participating in his first high school production.

"I watched rented movies with characters having Jewish accents in preparation for the role," he added.

The audience appreciated his effort with a loud ovation during a curtain call.

Senior Dan Cooney, who played the lead character Alan Baker, said when Dart began learning the accent it was a cross between a German and a Chinese drawl.

"Jeff's (Dart) accent definitely added to the humor of the play," Cooney said, adding Besanski prepared the entire cast and crew well for the production, which raised money for the spring musical.

"He (Besanski) took us from a high school play to community theater," Cooney said. "We tried to give less of a high school performance because we think the community is sick of high school plays. I know the whole cast strove to give as good a performance as possible."

In addition to the parents, grandparents and friends of cast members who filled the auditorium, residents wanting to see a quality production were in attendance as well.

"My son goes to Northville High, but a friend of mine recommended seeing the play, so that's why I came," said Northville resident Linda Short.

"I liked the humor in the play and I thought everyone did a super job from the stage crew to the actors," she said, adding the production seemed like anything but a high school play.

Junior Rob Foulkrod, who said he came to see some friends in the play, noted although the students didn't act quite as old as professional actors "they did a real good job."

"High school plays are more human because they are not as planned out, which makes them not as boring," Foulkrod said.

Boring was no problem for Saturday's audience however, as they seemed to hang on each cast member's words during the two hour and 15 minute production.

Or as Cooney put it, "You'd guess our approach to the play would have been less serious, but in his three years here Nick Besanski has pulled high quality out of these plays."

Judging by the audience's laughter and applause throughout the production, community theater has definitely come to Northville High.

New city ethics code proposed

City Manager Steve Walters has proposed a new, expanded set of ethical standards for city employees and appointees.

Although the city charter includes some ethical standards for city officials, Walters recommended the City Council adopt a more extensive and detailed code of conduct. At Monday's council meeting, members agreed to solicit opinions on the code from employees and members of city boards, and to consider the proposal in detail at their Dec. 19 meeting.

In a memo to the council, Walters states that a formally adopted code would provide a good guide for employees and officials, and would also be a basis for judging any case of alleged misconduct.

Mayor Chris Johnson said Monday that the proposal resulted in large part from questions about any such code from people involved with city government.

Walters said the proposed code is based on state law, with some additions and extensions.

In one major difference with the ethics rules in the city charter, Walters' new proposal would apply to members of city boards and commissions and all employees. The charter rules do not.

Some of the proposed guidelines are:

- A prohibition against divulging confidential information to any unauthorized person.
- Not allowing an individual to represent their personal opinion as that of an agency.

- A requirement to use any city resources property and not for personal benefit.
- A prohibition on accepting any gift tending to influence the manner of performing official duties.

- Guidelines to prevent engaging in any business transaction in which a city officer or employee would benefit from their position or special knowledge.

- Not allowing employment which would conflict with official duties or impair judgment.

- A prohibition on financial or other dealings with a business entity in which the public officer / employee has a special interest.

- A requirement to inform a superior and refrain from participating when a city employee has a special interest in a contract, action or decision.

- A similar requirement for a board or commission member to inform the group and request to abstain from any relevant votes.

The guidelines also include a set of definitions for city employee officer, employee, and family member; and for financial and personal interest.

Red ribbons at city police station

The national "Tie One On" red ribbon campaign to fight drunk driving gets underway Monday, and the city Police Department will be supplying red ribbons to anyone who needs them.

The campaign, sponsored nationally by Mothers Against Drunk Driving, runs from Nov. 28 to Jan. 2. The idea is to tie about 30 inches of ribbon to a vehicle door handle, outside rear view mirror or antenna, as a way to draw attention to the dangers of driving after drinking.

MADD supplied the police department with a 600-yard roll of the ribbon, and the police will provide some to anyone who asks, Chief Rod Cannon said.

The "Tie One On" campaign is designed to run throughout the traditional holiday season. It is organized by MADD, local law enforcement agencies and the Office of Highway Safety Planning.

City Council takes position against child care bills

BY BOB NEEDHAM

The Northville City Council Monday has gone on record in opposition to a set of proposed state regulations for day care homes.

On a 5-0 vote, the council Monday, Nov. 7 opposed state Senate Bills 687-689 because the bills would override local control of zoning for day care operations in a home.

The city zoning ordinance currently considers all day care operations — whether a full-fledged center along the lines of Kinder-Care or a few kids in a residential home — as a business. After an in-home operation in a neighborhood was cited for violating the zoning rules, the council began consideration of a change which would treat small, in-home day care as different from larger operations.

The City Council has not passed a day care ordinance yet. Members reached some consensus on how to treat home day care — as a special use requiring a permit in residential areas. The city Planning Commission has begun discussion of how to regulate density of home day care and other issues (see related story).

The state bills — passed by the Senate and awaiting consideration by the House — would force local governments to view home day care as a residential use. Permits would have to be issued if the home met a list of conditions including fencing, maintenance, and a maximum of 16 hours of operation in a 24-hour period. In addition, home day care operations would have to be allowed if they are at least 1,500 feet from any other day care centers, adult foster care or group homes, substance abuse centers, or facilities housing inmate populations.

The state currently requires all day care providers to be licensed.

State Senator Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills), who sponsored the bills, had said that under the bills local communities could allow home day care closer than the 1,500 feet, but could not require them to be farther. He also said the purpose behind the bills is to prevent local communities from considering home day care as a business and thereby banning it.

Several members of the City Council said it is important for local communities to keep local control over such things. The council approved a resolution stating its opposition to the bills because they would erode local control.

Planners consider home day care; more discussion expected

The biggest question in city consideration of home day care regulations — how to regulate density — may be out of the city's hands.

The City Council has asked the Planning Commission to come up with a way to control the density of small, in-home day care operations. But at the commission meeting last week, Planning Consultant Don Wortman said the city might not be allowed to impose such a rule.

Three bills under consideration in the state Legislature would force local communities to consider in-home day care as a residential use of land, and would, also set up a minimum 1,500 feet between such operations.

Without passage of the 1,500 foot requirement at the state level, "I don't see how we could regulate (density)," Wortman told the Planning Commission Tuesday, Nov. 15. Commissioner Rolland Stapleton compared the situation to the city discussion over bed-and-breakfast inns, when limitations on density were discussed but concluded to be outside the city's authority.

Wortman did recommend some changes to the current city ordinance, which effectively treats any day care provider as a business, regardless of the number of children, and of whether the operation is in a home or commercial nursery.

He suggested the city add some minimum size requirements, specifically, an 8,000 square foot minimum lot size and 5,000 square foot minimum fenced yard.

In addition, Wortman suggested incorporating state definitions into the city ordinance. The City Council had informally agreed to this step, although it has not yet voted on it.

According to a memo from Wortman, the state definitions are:

- Family day care home — a private residence in which one to six children (not including those of the resident) are cared for.

- Group day care home — a private residence in which seven to 12 non-resident children are cared for.

- Child care (or day care) center — A private residence with more than 12 children, or any day care operation not in a private residence.

The bills currently under consideration deal only with family and group day care homes.

The Northville City Council recently opposed the bills for their removal of local zoning control (see related story).

At the Planning Commission meeting, member Rolland Stapleton added another objection. "I find the attempt to regulate the person who offers quality care for children about as repugnant a piece of legislation as I can think of," he said. "I think there's got to be other legislation to deal with nuisances."

The Planning Commission members voted unanimously to defer in-depth discussion of the issue to their next meeting, scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Act now on county land

Time and time again Wayne County people have contacted Northville Township officials to discuss the selling of the 1,040 acres of land they own in the township.

And time and time again the well-intentioned county personnel have left township officials wondering if the land, which amounts to about one-third of the acreage in the township, will ever be sold.

For 50 years now the county has been trying to sell the land, which recently has been nothing but an eyesore and a fire hazard. Unkept schedules and broken promises have been the annual result of talks with the county.

Last week, county officials met with Township Supervisor Georgina Goss to present her with a firm schedule on the sale of the land. The county set the final sale date at April 15, 1989.

Although we are encouraged by the apparently firm schedule date, we will remain skeptical until the contracts have been signed.

The reason for our skepticism is hard to find. A look back to a Record article dated Feb. 4 1987, shows a headline similar to one that ran last week in this paper — "Wayne County tries to sell the land it owns in Northville Township."

Supervisor Goss, who last week expressed optimism toward the county's proposed land sale schedule, said in the 1987 issue "I do believe that some of this land will be sold, and I think it (the sale) will go through this time."

But as in the previous 50 years, that information turned out to be more a wish than a reality, with no action backing up the well-intentioned county efforts. While township personnel are wise to remain ever-optimistic, the county would do well to this time live up to its promises.

Dewitt Henry, Wayne County Director of Jobs and Economic Development, recently said the number one goal in this matter is to tighten up the proposed sale schedule.

For Mr. Henry we have just one thought. Tightening the schedule would be nice, but even nicer would be keeping to the schedule and actually following through on the land sale. The time has more than come for action.

Leave wetlands for DNR

Some Northville Township officials weren't too sure they liked the idea of Wayne County taking over authority for wetlands administration. Neither are we.

Various county officers are soliciting views on a proposal for the county to assume the power to grant wetlands permits. Currently, that power rests with the state Department of Natural Resources, and it seems like that's right where it belongs.

Local control, as an abstract concept, is always a nice thing. Specifics can change that philosophy, however. And in this specific case, the environment does not fall very naturally as a county concern.

Environmental issues require some broad oversight, and the state and county are the most fitting levels of government for that authority. But by their very nature, the issues are larger than the county. (They are often larger than the state, too, but the con-trof must go somewhere).

If the county wants to become involved in the wetlands permit process, that could prove beneficial, just as local wetlands ordinances — in cooperation with the state — have done. Ranking of wetlands quality, for example, might be a great help to the DNR. But the ultimate authority should stay there.

This proposal probably came about because of frustrations with the DNR — delays and inaccuracies in surveying wetlands; arbitrary decisions from the state, or ones perceived as arbitrary; a seeming unwillingness to listen and respond to concerns.

If these problems exist, they ought to be addressed by improving the operation of the DNR. Putting the county in charge won't solve anything in the long term. The way to improve wetlands administration is through cooperation, not a power grab. We urge township officials to convey this to the county.

Group gives memories

The history of Northville is a both a hobby and a passion for many of the area's residents. Mill Race Historical Village — Northville Historical Society's gem — has brought both residents and tourists to Northville to experience a small part of what life was like right here, decades ago.

The Society has added to its already long list of community enrichment programs by presenting the first Mill Race Christmas Walk this season. Society members are to be applauded for this effort which makes Northville's past come alive for future generations, as well as making this holiday season a more memorable one.

The Historical Society has always been a hardworking group. When Mill Race was first established the group pulled together with both manual labor and fundraising — to get the first houses renovated and placed in the village.

The village has been a part of each season of Northville. School groups have used the village, with elementary grades holding class in the buildings to experience firsthand the atmosphere of the history lessons they are taught. In the summer, weekend visitors make the village a popular spot, and the Historical Society docents are available each weekend to lead tours through the homes.

Now winter has been brought to the village. Thanks to the tremendous work of society volunteers, the village is alive with greens and Victorian-era decorations. On two successive weekends the society has hosted public Christmas Walks. Soon this too will be a tradition in Northville.

The residents of Northville owe a vote of thanks to dedicated society volunteers for their continued active participation in bringing Northville's past to us today.

Not all wet

By Ann Willis

The weathercaster on Friday night kept saying "Things don't look good for the coming weekend." He was referring to last weekend's forecast for non-stop rain. Good is obviously in the eye of the beholder.

There is nothing wrong with a rainy weekend. Trust me. They can be very good for the soul.

I had a list of things to do last weekend a mile long. Most of them required good weather. Raking leaves is not a chore that works well in the rain. Your feet get very wet, the leaves all kind of lump together and the dog won't stay outside with you while you do it. It becomes a lonely, damp, stupid thing to do in the rain.

Putting up storm windows is another — for-dry-days-only — chore. The ladder sinks in the ground when you try to stand on it. The windows can't be washed when the rain is streaming down them. Your glasses fog up and you can't see where you're going. The dog still won't get up off of the couch and come outside to help. It is a lonely, damp, stupid thing to do in the rain.

So on Saturday I decided to postpone outdoor chores until Sunday. After all, people were coming over for dinner and the house really needed cleaning. After all, there was nothing to eat in the entire house and with people coming over for dinner — a trip to the grocery store seemed to be in order. Besides I really hadn't looked at the pile of magazines growing in the living room. Michigan was playing Ohio State on TV and I had a vague idea that they revoked your diploma if you don't drop everything and watch it... so the day drifted pleasantly away with the rain peacefully falling on the outside and me peacefully occupied on the inside.

Sunday dawned with the promise of NOTHING BUT

WORK and absolutely NO EXCUSES ALLOWED. But a dawn trip to let the dog out showed that it was REALLY RAINING this time. No fooling. And it kept raining.

What a shame, I thought to myself as I stood in my slippers and robe and had a second cup of coffee while looking out the window.

What a shame, I thought to myself as I read the Sunday paper from cover to cover, with occasional glances out the window at that relentless downpour.

Even the Northville Santa Parade was not truly affected by the rain. Sure, everybody got soaked. Sure, the Christmas tree that arrived on the truck carrying Santa was covered with a plastic bag. But the smiles on the children's faces were wide — a little rain-soaked — but wide nonetheless.

And the walk downtown to watch the parade was actually kind of fun. A walk in the rain is a nice thing to do when you don't have to be anywhere afterward. The most annoying thing about rain is what it does to your hair and your clothes, not to mention the paws of your dog. But since we had no plans, thanks to the rain, it didn't really much matter.

And the rewards of a rainy Sunday afternoon are many. Like having the time to read the New York Times magazine section. Like punching the buttons on the TV and finding out "Philadelphia Story" with Katherine Hepburn and Cary Grant is on. Like lying on the couch and staring out the window and thinking "What a shame," as you drift off on a little nap.

In my book rainy days don't add up to disaster. There's only one real drawback. The smell of a damp dog.

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

Nancy Muraske will never win the Tact Award. Nancy is a member of the aerobic weight-lifting class, attend twice a week. And she takes special pride in puncturing my ego.

Take last week, for example. As part of the class, the instructor checks our percentage of body fat at regular intervals. She gets out her callipers and measures the fat on four different parts of the body. You add up the numbers, apply the total to a chart and — voila — you have a rough estimate of your percentage of body fat.

We were all having our body fat measured last week. And when it came my turn, my body fat percentage came out surprisingly low — 16.9 percent to be exact. Not bad for a man pushing 40.

Just about everybody was duly impressed with my achievement. Except, of course, for good old Muraske.

"So how come you've got a pot belly?" she asked, a sinister smile creeping across her face.

To make matters worse, I was hard-pressed for an answer. I know I don't have a pot belly; but I can't really deny that my stomach protrudes a little more than it should.

"It's genetic," I said, trying to come up with something to wipe that goofy grin off Muraske's face.

"Actually, the slight protrusion is caused by over-development of the lower abdominal muscles. You've probably noticed that I'm a real animal when it comes to sit-ups," I continued, taking another approach after the "genetics" response had flopped so badly.

Muraske was jubilant. She was absolutely elated to have severed a raw nerve in my bruised ego. But one of the things I like about her is that she doesn't quit when she's ahead. Nope, good old Nancy goes right for the jugular while her victim squirms helplessly before her.

"Didja know you're losing your hair?" she asked.

Park 'no' vote is easy to explain

To the Editor: Hopefully the Pro-Park People have smartened-up and won't waste more money surveying voters as to why the park vote was turned down. It's simple — long-time Northville residents are tired of paying and paying for everything. Because of the unending amount of multi-family, non-tax supporting dwellings being built, the regular taxpayer is increasingly buried by rising taxes, with no end in sight. The exorbitant taxes we pay are still not enough to uncrowd the schools, replace outdated text books, provide garbage pick-up, widen the roads to accommodate all the new traffic, or build a decent sized library. Some residents won't use a park because they don't care for the sports facilities being planned, there's no one in their household who would use the park, or the idea of a park near a prison complex is repulsive.

I suggest Pro-Parkers take lessons from the Pro-Well People, who raised their money independently. Those who want a park can sponsor fund raisers and build it.

There is a cure for drug abuse problem

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Charles Stille, Northville High School Student Assistance Program Coordinator.

Being in the position of the Student Assistant Program Coordinator has allowed me access to student life and some of the daily pressures and struggles students and families are faced with. My basic goal is to help them realize there are consequences for everything we do and to make healthy decisions based on the knowledge.

We, as parents, professionals and concerned persons need to be educated and in turn educate our children and fellow community members about the consequences of chemical use, abuse and dependency.

The fact is that the longer we abuse drugs such as alcohol, the worse things will get. Not only we as individuals, but our businesses and advertisers need to no longer ignore the problem. We all have to be held accountable and take action where appropriate for the goal is the safety of us all.

Recently the Detroit Free Press ran an article "Suggestive Beer Ads Shot Down," which addressed how, due to complaints from several people in Grand Rapids, 45 malt liquor billboard ads were removed.

Another article in the Free Press stated "Just Say No" doesn't stop drug abuse and neither would legalizing drugs. Former First Lady Betty Ford stated: "The answer is early education in the home to make youngsters conscious of how drugs will wreck their lives."

Yes, each of us has to realize that the longer we abuse drugs the worse things will get for us as individuals and for our community. It is a disease and if left unchecked, spreads. But there is a cure and the cure is available to each of us.

The cure is education. The cure is a needed change in attitude about drugs.

The cure is involvement and action. Every week more of our youth are trying cigarettes, alcohol, marijuana, cocaine, steroids — you name it — it is within their grasp. However, an educated and committed family and community is the best defense against drug and alcohol problems.

Within our community are several very positive and energetic resources dealing with our youth and families. Northville has confronted the facts about alcohol and drug abuse and is addressing the needs of our community members with the full support of Northville Youth Assistance, Northville Youth Forum, the Northville Action Council, Northville Record, the Northville Board of Education, businesses and churches, families and concerned others. The fruits of our cooperative efforts are beginning to pay off.

Above all, don't run away from reality because reality is here. It is not good or bad, it just is. We know a journey begins with a single step... we have taken that step, but not alone.

The Northville Action Council is a group of citizens concerned about alcohol and other drug problems in Northville. Won't you join us for a special holiday tea and film preview? Our next meeting is Thursday, Dec. 15, from 7 to 7:30 p.m. at Northville City Hall.

Picking the winners

By Neil Geoghegan

For the last three springs, workers in our office have attempted to pick the finish of all seven teams in the American League East baseball race. You know, the division with the Tigers, the Red Sox and the Yankees.

We all write our predictions down on a piece of paper just before the season gets underway and then periodically chart how it's going throughout the year. At the end, the prognosticator who is the closest to the actual finish is the winner.

Several years ago, it was agreed the winner was to receive a free meal from the losers, but for some reason the spoils never went to the victor. Well... I don't think I need to tell you who has been the winner all three times. If it was somebody else, you wouldn't be reading about it here.

I remember before the 1987 season, everybody was high on Cleveland because Sports Illustrated said they'd win it. A poor misguided reporter who has since left the office (obviously in disgrace) actually picked the Tribe to finish first and they ended up finishing 40 games behind the Tigers!

As it turned out, I tied with Managing Editor Phil Jerome when the '87 baseball campaign ended so we went the old tie-breaker route to determine a winner. Thanks to U-M quarterback Demetrious Brown, I secured another year of bragging rights when Michigan State picked off seven of his passes and won the game 17-11. Phil went on to tell me that I got lucky and that the Spartans would never get to the Rose Bowl and if they did, certainly they wouldn't win it. Amazingly, two days after the big victory in Pasadena, Phil asked me who won the game.

Last spring, everybody set their sights on dethroning the champ and because the race was so close, right down to the wire, almost everybody involved still had a chance heading into the last few weeks of the season. I was in sad shape with about a month left but a dive in the standings by the Yankees and a late rush by Toronto put me back into the picture.

On the last day of the season everything went my way and I ended up in a tie with photographer Chris Boyd. I promptly won the tie-breaker by picking the Los Angeles Dodgers over the New York Mets in the National League Championship Series — thanks in large part to former Spartan great Kirk Gibson.

Jerome — on the other hand — finished in second to last place with his predictions. This from a man who is the self-proclaimed best sportswriter in Northville (don't tell Northville resident and award-winning author/writer Lynn Henning of the Detroit News).

Throughout the years I haven't gloated about my success (until now) and Jerome has been uncharacteristically quiet through his defeats. Kind of like all those misguided baseball fans who said the Tigers would be better off without Kirk Gibson — that guy from Lapeer who led the Dodgers to a world title and was named the National League MVP. Strangely enough, you just don't hear that anymore.

But I know that next spring I'll have to be ready again because if a miracle should happen and Jerome should even finish ahead of me in our picks, I'd never hear the end of it.

Council allows a sign honoring team

The Tom Holzer Ford baseball team can put up a championship sign if they want to, but it can't say "Tom Holzer Ford."

After the team won the college division national championship in the National Amateur Baseball Federation, they requested that the City of Northville allow them to put up signs marking the feat. The issue came before the City Council a few weeks ago, and the council decided Monday night to partially grant the request.

The team — which plays in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League — is considered the Northville team in the league, since it includes former Northville High School players, provides exclusive recruiting rights for Northville players, and plays some games at the high school.

The team sponsor, Tom Holzer Ford, is on Grand River and Haggerty in Farmington Hills.

Some council members originally questioned whether the team could legitimately be considered a "Northville" team. Other concerns were the size of the sign and the appearance of the words "Tom Holzer Ford" on the sign.

At Monday's meeting, some council members said their concerns about it being a Northville team were settled.

However, Jerry Mittman said he still had doubts. "I have a feeling this is really not a Northville program made up of Northville people," he said.

After the council asked for more details on the proposed sign, the team said they would like a 24-inch by 30-inch sign reading "Home of the Tom Holzer Ford Baseball Team, 1988 NABF College Division National Champions." It would be displayed for about a year on city limits signs.

All the council members said they did not like the idea of including the sponsor's name on the sign. "It looks like an advertisement for Tom Holzer, which concerns me," council member John Buckland said.

They also said the sign as proposed looked too big, and should be on the service club sign boards.

The council members eventually approved a sign of no larger than 18 inches square, without the name of the dealership, on the service club boards for a period of one year. The decision leaves it up to the team whether they want to put up the sign under those terms. The vote was 4-1 with Mittman dissenting.

South Lyon shop features low-cal 'skinny-dipping'

By EILEEN ISOTALO

Is it too good to be true? Can you enjoy ice cream on a restrictive diet? Skinny Dip, a low-calorie frozen dessert, contains one-tenth the calories of regular ice cream and one-fourth the calorie content of leading diet-brand ice creams.

Skinny Dip is available in the heart of South Lyon at Goodie's Ice Cream and Sweet Shop at 134 Lake Street.

Kevin and Nancy Sarpolis, owners of Goodie's, are Skinny Dip fans. "It's the only ice cream I usually eat in the store," said Nancy who works in the shop part-time and loves ice cream, but is watching her weight.

Compared to 99 calories in frozen yogurt and 100 calories in some diet ice creams, a four-ounce serving of Skinny Dip contains 36 calories and sells for 96 cents per serving.

The frozen treat is made with crystalline fructose (a natural fruit sweetener). It has hypo-allergenic qualities and is an alternative for many who must avoid traditional ice cream, according to distributors of the product.

For example, product promoters said Skinny Dip lessens the quick rise in blood glucose levels that are common with other sugars and starches. This factor is an important consideration for diabetic individuals.

"It has developed its own following. Kids seem to love it, and people who are allergic to milk or refined sugar like Skinny Dip," stated Kevin. "Another bonus to Skinny Dip is that it contains no cholesterol. We have a lot of senior citizens on low cholesterol diets who come in and enjoy a Skinny Dip ice cream," he added.

"Skinny Dip was originally developed for hospitals and made available to people on special diets," Kevin said.

An Indiana-based company, Skinny Dip distributors in Michigan are Stewart and Andrea Ruben of West Bloomfield. They have been marketing the product for a year and are very enthused about the all-natural and Kosher product.

"It's an unbelievable product; nothing begins to compare with Skinny Dip," said Andrea, who explained the reasons behind the widespread interest.

"People will seek out Skinny Dip. Dieters can fill a pop can with a single serving size for only 36 calories, which is equal to eating a small apple. People assume a diet ice cream will taste bad. We find that people prefer Skinny Dip to regular soft-serve ice creams. They really like the taste of it."

"Traditional ice creams are loaded with salt and fat. Our product has a trace of sodium, no fat and no

Business Briefs

Pictured with the car in the photograph above are Dennis Doyle, Director of Sales at the Wyndham, and Wynclub Sales Manager Jane Neville. The Wynclub is specifically designed for administrative assistants who recommend the Wyndham to visiting clients.

Every two weeks a new "temporary owner" of the Porsche will be determined by a drawing. Wynclub members are automatically entered in the drawing when they reserve a room for a client at the Wyndham Garden Hotel. Each night a client stays at the Wyndham is worth an additional entry in the contest.

The winners of the drawings will be chosen at parties held at the Wyndham Hotel; the winner must be present to claim use of the Porsche 944. The bi-monthly parties last approximately one hour, and all Wynclub members receive complimentary cocktails and hors d'oeuvres. The winner will receive use of the car with unlimited mileage for a period of two weeks.

"We are finally rewarding the administrative coordinators who work so hard to make travel schedules and meetings run smoothly," said Doyle. "The Wynclub represents those dedicated individuals who recommend the Wyndham to their most important clients because they know their stay here will be comfortable and satisfying."

A newsletter detailing rules, dates and other contest information will be distributed to all Wynclub members, Doyle added.

LEE STACEY, owner of Lee Stacey Wholesale Lumber in Highland, recently was elected to the Board of Directors of Hoo-Hoo International during the organization's 96th annual convention at the Marriott Orlando World Center in Orlando, Fla.

Hoo-Hoo is an international fraternity of lumbermen with 7,000 members in the United States, Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Stacey will serve a two-year term on the board after being elected as the Supreme Nine representative for Jurisdiction II, which includes the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, West Virginia and parts of New York and Pennsylvania. Stacey previously served on the international board in 1969 and 1970. He also served as president of the Detroit Hoo-Hoo Club No. 28 in 1966.

The recent convention was attended by delegates from across the globe including a large contingent from Australia. The convention was held jointly with Florida Lumber and the Building Material Dealer's Association. Delegates enjoyed guest speakers such as Patricia Neal, Harry Reasoner and Sam Sneed.

GAIL HOLMAN is the new owner of Northville's Fashion Cellar Hair Salon located at 102 West Main Street.

A Northville resident, Holman brings with her 10 years of hair design experience. Holman said that under the new ownership the shop will remain the same.

In addition to hair designing, Fashion Cellar will continue to offer customers tanning, manicures, makeovers (including a full-line of cosmetics) and electrolysis.

JOHN BOCK of Northville has been elected first vice president to the board of directors of the 2,000-member American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan (ALASEM).

Bock, president of Bock & Associates Public Relations, will serve through September 1989. He was elected to the board at the association's annual meeting at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

ALASEM offers $5 free community health centers to residents in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties. For more information on ALASEM or any of its programs call 559-5100 on weekdays.

Medical expenses may reduce tax load

If thinking about medical expenses makes you sick to your stomach, here's a possible antidote — Your medical bills may help you reduce your 1988 tax bill.

Tax reform has made it more difficult, but not impossible, to deduct some of your medical expenses. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you may deduct any unreimbursed medical expenses that exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI).

Let's look at an example. John has an AGI of $40,000 a year and his unreimbursed medical bills total $5,000. Since 7.5 percent of his AGI is $3,000, John can deduct the remaining $2,000 in medical expenses from his taxes as an itemized deduction.

How did John come up with $5,000 in unreimbursed medical bills? Many people assume that the only individuals who can take advantage of medical deductions are those who have been seriously ill or hospitalized over the past year. That is not always the case. Every year, people deprive themselves of a medical deduction simply because they are unaware of what constitutes an eligible medical expense.

In general, any unreimbursed medical bills paid for "the diagnosis, treatment or prevention of disease, or for treatment affecting any part or function of the body" is deductible — subject, of course, to the 7.5 percent limit. You may be surprised at how many items fall into this description.

MEDICAL, MENTAL Health and Hospital Services: Most likely, you already know you can deduct fees paid to doctors and hospitals. But you may not be aware of some finer points.

For example, you may deduct the fees paid to any qualified medical practitioner, including acupuncturists, dentists and chiropractors. The tax courts have even allowed some individuals to deduct payments to an Indian medicine man.

Money Management

Fees paid for mental health services supplied by psychiatrists, psychologists and social workers also represent qualified expenses. Deductible hospital services include all surgery fees, even those for such elective operations as a face lift.

MEDICINES AND Drugs: Any amount that you spend for medicine or drugs requiring a doctor's prescription may be deductible. The deduction holds only for prescription drugs, so don't start collecting receipts for every bottle of aspirin you buy — even if a doctor recommends that you take one aspirin a day.

TRANSPORTATION: One of the most commonly overlooked medical expenses is the cost of traveling to a doctor's office or hospital where you receive medical care. In fact, you may deduct the bus, train, plane, taxi or ambulance fare for transportation to a medical facility.

If you drive yourself, you can deduct such out-of-pocket expenses as gas, oil, parking fees and tolls. Transportation expenses are also deductible for parents accompanying a child to a medical facility. In some cases, you may even be able to deduct the cost of moving to a different climate, if the move has been prescribed by a doctor as a way to alleviate a medical condition, such as asthma or emphysema.

MEALS AND Lodging: Obviously, you may deduct the costs of meals and lodging supplied by a hospital or similar facility in which you are receiving medical treatment. However, you may also deduct the cost of lodging outside a hospital if, for example, you are a parent traveling with a sick child. In such circumstances, you are generally allowed to deduct $50 per person per night.

All nursing home fees, including meals and lodging, are deductible as well, as long as the person is living in the home primarily for medical purposes.

INSURANCE PREMIUMS: If you work for a company that requires you to pay for your medical insurance, make sure you add that cost to your medical expenses. For instance, Mary's employer takes $35 out of her paycheck each month to pay for her medical and dental policies. Over the course of the year, Mary will pay $420 in insurance premiums. While the sum is not very large, it may help her to meet the 7.5 percent limit on medical expenses.

If you are self-employed, health insurance may represent a greater expense — and a greater deduction. Self-employed taxpayers can now deduct, as a business expense, up to 25 percent of the health insurance costs for themselves, their spouses and their dependents. The deduction is taken directly off their earned income, without regard to the 7.5 percent limit.

The remaining 75 percent of the insurance premium is treated like any other itemized medical deduction and is subject to the 7.5 percent limit. For example, Tom is a freelance writer earning $30,000 a year. His annual insurance payments come to $2,000. He may take 25 percent of this amount, or $500, off his earned income. The remaining $1,500 is added into his other medical expenses and is subject to the 7.5 percent limit.

SPECIAL EQUIPMENT AND Items: If you tore a ligament in your ankle this year, the crutches you purchased may represent another medical deduction. You may deduct payments for such items as false teeth, eyeglasses, guide dogs, wheelchairs and hearing aids.

PROGRAMS TO Treat Specific Diseases or Addictions: Fees paid for services at a drug and alcohol abuse center are deductible. Other programs, such as weight-loss or stop-smoking clinics, may qualify for medical deductions if your doctor recommends the programs as treatment for a specific disease, such as hypertension.

SERVICES FOR THE Handicapped: If you send a handicapped dependent to a special school or alter your home to accommodate a physical handicap or a medical condition, you can generally write off the costs. In case of an audit, however, you should be ready to supply a written recommendation from your doctor.

CPAs remind us that unreimbursed medical expenses can be deducted only in the year in which they are paid and are available only to taxpayers who itemize. For further information on how to deduct your medical expenses, consult a qualified tax advisor.

cholesterol. It's also a nice treat for kids who have milk allergies or problems with sugar," she added.

Skinny Dip is currently available only to the public in ice cream shops, according to Andrea. The product is a powder that dissolves instantly in water and is run through soft-serve machines. Skinny Dip will soon be available in hard-pack containers and sold in supermarkets.

A variety of flavors available at Goodie's Ice Cream and Sweet Shop include vanilla, chocolate, strawberry, maple walnut, pina colada, banana, cherry and peanut butter.

"We offer flavors on a rotating basis," said Kevin. "We offer a new flavor every few weeks, and Skinny Dip milk shakes are also available for those who can have some milk and additional calories."

"We put it to the taste test and offer curious customers free samples, and they are usually surprised it tastes so good. It's creamier and lighter than regular soft-serve ice cream," added Nancy.

"Skinny Dip does cost us more to carry," explained Kevin. "It's three times as expensive as frozen yogurt, but we look at it as providing a service to people and keeping the cost comparable to regular ice cream."

"We listen to what customers want and try to accommodate them. They wanted Skinny Dip, and now we carry it. We are also exploring other health-oriented items to include our ice cream and luncheon menu. Guernsey Farms is now perfecting a frozen yogurt which we will also sell," said Kevin.

How does the Sarpolis family like doing business in South Lyon?

"The people have been very supportive and nice, and we want to be here all year for everyone. With the South Lyon Cinema opening, we are taking a deep breath and are very optimistic about our business and the future of the city," said Kevin.

Offering Skinny Dip, Guernsey Farms ice cream, soup and sandwiches, Goodie's Ice Cream and Sweet Shop is open daily from 10:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Seniors can start own businesses

The years after 50 may be the best time to start a business, according to author Ina Lee Selden in her new book, "Going Into Business for Yourself."

Selden points to the skills, experience and knowledge older people can apply to such a venture.

The new book is the latest in a series of AARP Books, an educational co-publishing project of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Selden shows older people how to assess their entrepreneurial qualities and analyze their marketable skills. She provides expert advice and practical information about securing venture capital and trade credit; preparing a sound, workable business plan; and weighing the pros and cons of working full- or part-time and away from or in the home.

The experiences of more than 20 people who started successful businesses after 50 are also described. An appendix lists organizations and publications that might provide prospective entrepreneurs with helpful information.

The author successfully began her own travel planning business several years ago. She also has been a journalist for The New York Times, Washington Post, business magazines and other publications.

AARP Books are co-published by AARP and Scott, Foresman and Company. They are available in bookstores through Little, Brown and Company.

AARP is the nation's largest organization of Americans 50 and older. The non-profit, non-partisan organization offers a wide range of membership benefits, legislative representation at federal and state levels, and educational and community service programs carried out through a national network of volunteers and local chapters.

The association, based in Washington, D.C., also offers a variety of educational and advocacy programs for older workers, who make up one-third of its total membership.

A STORY ABOUT BRIAN

This is the story of Brian,
Mr. Cool he was without tryin'.
The hallways he owned;
His charms he but loaned.
Ah my, how he left the girls sighin'.

Then a virus caught our Mr. C,
A bug with a long history;
He ached, and he sneezed;
He coughed, and he wheezed;
It was flu causing this misery.

Feeling so low was this guy,
He was set to give aspirin a try.
But remember he did
A note on the lid
That warned of a syndrome called Reye.

Rare is this trouble called Reye
But permanent it might make you lie;
Kids with the flu,
Chicken pox, too,
May suffer when aspirin they try.

How did Brian reprise his cool?
Hey, remember this dude was no fool;
He just took it slow,
That's the best way to go,
When they need you so badly at school.

IF YOU DON'T WANT TO BE SURPRISED AT TAX TIME, GET YOUR ACT TOGETHER BY JANUARY 17TH.

Nothing tricky. No strings attached. If you're on the ball, you'll find out whether your withholding is too low. Or if you need to pay estimated tax on your extra income. And if you do, under the tax law, you'll have to pay 90% of it by January 17, 1989.

So get your act together. Start now. And make your taxes less taxing.

Make your taxes less taxing.

Are your attitudes about mental illness still in the dark ages?

Our notions about mental illness have a long, dark history. Sadly, age-old fears keep us from seeing mental illness for what it really is: a distressing medical disease.
A disease that can be treated.
For an informative booklet
about mental illness, contact the American Mental Health Fund.

Learn to see the sickness.

Red-cheeked, giggling children scramble upon Santa's knee while cheerful holiday jingles blast over the intercom.

Harried shoppers skitter about, skillfully balancing bags and packages of holiday gifts.

Rows of twinkling white lights woven around a huge holiday tree rapidly blink on and off, on and off, on and off.

Dozens of shops and stores each decked out in bright holiday finery beckon to you.

Tiny beads of sweat tickle your brow.

Your stomach muscles tighten with tension and your breathing becomes irregular. The floor appears to spin wildly. You feel dazed, confused and helpless.

A blinding red panic button flashes in your brain.

What's happening?

A typical trip to the mall isn't so typical for some people. About 8.3 percent of the American population suffers from anxiety disorders and a condition called agoraphobia, ranking ahead of depression, alcohol, drug abuse and schizophrenia.

Studies indicate that among women, panic anxiety ranks as the number one psychiatric disorder in all age groups.

Agoraphobia is defined as "a fear of open spaces." However, this is an incomplete and misleading view.

People suffering from agoraphobia learn to avoid certain events or situations because of an underlying fear of losing control, going "insane," having a stroke or heart attack, fainting, publicly embarrassing themselves or having repeated episodes of severe anxiety.

Until the early 1980s, panic disorders and agoraphobia were seen as rare conditions, according to Stephen Paul Stocker, executive director of the Northville-based Psychotherapy and Counseling Services, Inc.

"My first patient had it (agoraphobia) for 20 years and didn't know it," Stocker explained.

He said the condition is more common than most people realize and usually starts when a person has a panic attack for no apparent reason. The physical sensations of anxiety attacks tend to scare those who suffer them, forcing them to think they will experience a heart attack or go "insane."

Eventually they learn to avoid experiences that first caused the panic attacks. Stocker explained that agoraphobia has different levels of severity.

"One extreme is someone who's housebound," Stocker said. "The other extreme is being very anxious — a person continues to do the things that cause anxiety but suffers through it with discomfort."

Researchers have learned that anxiety fears and agoraphobia are so great that an estimated 9 million people avoid driving; 2.4 million people avoid shopping malls; 2.8 million people avoid attending church; 2.7 people avoid grocery stores and 2.6 million people avoid being in crowds.

Panic attack! There's help for anxiety sufferers

Fortunately, treatment is available for agoraphobia. Since it is a learned fear, it can be replaced with new learning skills.

And help is close by. Northville's Psychotherapy and Counseling Services, Inc., established the Center for Agoraphobia and Anxiety Disorders in 1980 and now has a satellite office in Birmingham.

The center provides an outpatient treatment program for people suffering from agoraphobia, panic disorders and other phobic and anxiety disorders. The center is affiliated with CHARGE (Center for Help for Agoraphobia/Anxiety through new Growth Experiences), a national treatment program that has worked with over 7,500 anxiety patients.

The treatment process for anxiety, panic attacks and agoraphobia is designed to change habits of thought, belief, attitude and behavior which have contributed to the feelings of anxiety.

"Once you learn the physical sensation experienced with panic disorders is not dangerous you can learn how to cope with it," Stocker said.

Those interested in becoming involved with treatment are advised to make an appointment at the clinic, by calling 348-1100.

Home visits can be arranged for homebound agoraphobics. In addition to the Northville office, clinical services are also available in Livonia.

Volunteer in the arts

By DOROTHY NASH

If she could drop leaflets from the sky over Novi, Paula Joyner-Clinard probably would do it to tell everyone about the Novi Arts and Culture Committee and what it's bringing to Novi.

Joyner-Clinard is publicity person for the Committee, which was set up in February 1987 under the staff of the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

After much discussion, she said, "We're now a functioning, on-going committee. We have goals, officers, committees, and regular monthly meetings."

Her role in all of this? She is publicity person — editor of a printed newsletter and also coordinator of publicity for all of the committee projects.

She put out the first newsletter in September, she said. It was four pages of current and coming events in the whole area, including Detroit.

The second one will come out after the first of the year, "and maybe we'll enlarge to six pages," she said. By then there will be more things going on in Novi because one of the goals of the committee is to bring to Novi things that people won't have to go out of town to attend.

For example, "Cabaret" is coming up, and they're talking also about starting a gallery in the Civic Center. "And under our budget from Parks and Recreation," she said, "we've already bought a grand piano for the Center."

Things like that will be in the newsletter, she said. "We want to reach out to let people know that there are cultural activities here, that we have a well-rounded community for adults and children."

Would you like to have your name on the newsletter mailing list? Call Kelley Simpson at Parks and Recreation — 347-0400. Would you like to volunteer in a particular phase of the Committee — something like gallery, programming, organization? Call that same number.

Mill Race Christmas Walk held Saturday and Sunday

The Northville Historical Society will be sponsoring a weekend Christmas Walk at Mill Race Village this weekend, Saturday, Nov. 26 from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. and Sunday, Nov. 27 from noon to 5 p.m.

All of the historic buildings in the Village will be open with docents on duty to tell visitors the history of the sites. The buildings will be decorated in the style of a Victorian Christmas village. There will be sales of hand-made ornaments, baskets by the Basket Guild, handweaving, and other items for sale.

The Society will have a display in the New School church of their publications and merchandise for sale including, copies of "Northville, The First 100 Years" by Jack Hoffman, former editor of the Record, Christmas cards with local scenes done by local artists and note paper with local scenes by local artists. Replacement jackets for Hoffman's book will be given out free.

There will be available 10 x 12 inch copies of Phelps Hines original sketch of the New School Church ($1 plus envelope) which are suitable for framing.

The Silver Springs Chapter of the Questers will be selling the wrapping paper with Northville scenes done by Carolyn Dunphy and bags in three sizes made from the paper.

Local group helps needy

The Northville Civic Concern Committee, a registered non-profit organization, was formed in early 1983. Civic Concern was formed to insure that the needy would receive food, clothing, shelter, utility payments and short-term cash assistance when a more "usual" organization could not respond in time.

The receipt and distribution of its resources is supervised by 17 currently active members on the committee. These members work closely with local church organizations, social service agencies, the Salvation Army, schools and citizens to seek and service those people in the area in desperate need.

The Civic Concern Committee is servicing 40-50 families the second and fourth Thursday of each month.

Food distribution is held at Cooke School, 21200 Taft Road, Northville, Michigan, 48167. Food commodities are distributed from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Civic Concern is operated on an "all volunteer" basis. The labor and facility are provided free and, as such, is able to disburse virtually all its income for emergency food and assistance requiring very little operating expenses. In February, 1987, Civic Concern became an agency to distribute Focus Hope boxes to the elderly.

The Civic Concern Committee is planning a "Food Drive" for the needy. Items needed for distribution include canned goods, paper products, soaps, toiletries, diapers and frozen products. The food collected will be used for this holiday season's distribution baskets and also to supplement the bi-weekly boxes. Food collected can be brought to Cooke School on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Clothing for Civic Concern should be taken to Holy Family Catholic Church, 24505 Meadowbrook Road, Novi, Michigan, 48050, Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you desire a receipt for your clothing donation, please attach a card to your clothing with your name and address.

Civic Concern, being a non-profit entity, is solely dependent on community donations for its income resources. Any assistance you can provide would be greatly appreciated by the Committee. Please feel free to call Civic Concern with any questions.

Civic Concern is presently servicing clients in the Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington and Farmington Hills areas.

Reading program needs help

Children and adults in Northville and surrounding communities have the opportunity to express their thanks for a precious gift in their lives: reading. They can share that gift with others through the Gift of Reading program sponsored by the Detroit Free Press and Focus: Hope. The Gift of Reading campaign was initiated last year and with your help, this year's second annual campaign could provide 60,000 needy children (under 7) in Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties with new books for the winter holidays.

Alpha Nu, the local chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma is serving as a collection agency for this most worthwhile project. Delta Kappa Gamma is an international society of women educators whose members serve to support education and literacy throughout the world.

Should you wish to contribute, your Gift of Reading book, (hard or soft cover) should be purchased with the following age levels in mind: Birth - 2 years, 3 - 4 years, 5 - 6 years. If you choose to wrap your book, please gift tag it with the following information: Title, age level, and "Christian" or "Christmas" when or if appropriate. Book Boxes will be located in all Northville elementary school Media Centers from Nov. 1 through Nov. 30. Alpha Nu members hope you can join them in bringing the gift of reading to as many needy children as possible during this year's holiday season.

Special NHS reunion planned

If you graduated from Northville High School anytime from 1955 to 1965, you're eligible to attend the ultimate class reunion — a cruise to the Bahama Islands aboard the Premier Cruise Line.

Jay (Wittenberg) Dow, a 1960 Northville High School graduate, is attempting to see if there's sufficient interest in organizing a cruise of former classmates.

Dow currently lives in Florida and formerly was employed by the Premier Cruise Line.

"I just thought it would be a fun thing to do," she said.

Dow said she will use her contacts with the cruise line to secure the best possible rates.

"I talked to the Group Department Manager, and she said there will be a five percent rate increase in 1989, but they will hold the '89 rates for us even if we don't set sail until January to April of 1990," she reported.

Dow noted further that there are substantial savings associated with group fares. If 15 or more Northville High School graduates book cabins through the same package, there will be a discount ranging from 35-40 percent.

Premier Cruise Lines also is the official cruise line for Disney World in Orlando. Dow reported that the group department manager has said she is willing to offer the 3-4 day Disney package to anyone in the group for an additional $195.

Anyone interested in more information about the cruise package is asked to contact Jay Dow at Post Office Box 993, Cocoa Beach, Florida 32932-0993, or Roger Atchinson at 1514 Black Oak Place, Plymouth, Minnesota 55447.

Couple recite vows

Michelle Marie Martin and Matthew Thomas Pitt were married Oct. 8 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville.

Pastor Thomas Lubeck officiated the ceremony.

A large bow attached to the back of the skirt was edged with a double row of ruffles that flowed into a long, wide cathedral train.

A crown of silk flowers with pearls held her veil. She carried a silk arrangement of dusty rose and white flowers.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her uncle, Stanley Kwasek of Rochester. Tammy Martin, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor.

Coats for kids

Local merchant helps clothe kids

By AMY ROSA

Thanks to area residents and a chain of local dry cleaning stores, fewer metro-Detroit students will miss school this year because of a lack of warm clothing.

And there is still time to contribute, as the annual "Coats For Kids" campaign heads into its second week.

For the sixth consecutive year, metro-Detroiters are donating coats their children have outgrown and making cash contributions to purchase new coats.

The used coats are dry cleaned for free by 56 One-Hour Martinizing Stores, which serve as the drop-off sites. Distribution is then handled through participating school systems by way of the Salvation Army.

Other sponsors of the "Coats For Kids" program are WJLB radio, whose parent company American Booth started the program seven years ago, and WJBK-Channel 2.

This is the second year the Martinizing stores have been participants, said Henry Kraus, who owns eight stores including one on Novi Road at Ten Mile in Novi and another on Seven Mile in Northville Township.

"There aren't many community projects that a drycleaner can be involved in," Kraus said, calling the stores' donation an "institutional advantage."

Last year the stores cleaned 6,000 coats in an untold number of manhours.

He added, "You get a good feeling from this. It's good for everyone. It's good for us, too."

And it's good for the at least 10,000 children project officials hope to clothe this year. According to WJLB marketing services manager and station project overseer Bernadette Banko, 10,000 is set as this year's "standing goal."

Although 11,000 children received coats in 1987, "there's definitely a greater need for coats than what we can deliver," she said. Last year many school districts put in requests the project just couldn't cover, she added.

Most of the coats will go to youngsters in Wayne County, with Detroit, Highland Park and Hamtramck being heavy recipients, said Banko.

In Oakland County school districts in Royal Oak, Berkley and Hazel Park will also get a portion, along with a couple of areas in Macomb County.

Detroit may have the largest of ficial "Coats For Kids" campaign anywhere, said Banko, adding that several other Booth American stations are sponsoring similar programs in Ohio and Indiana.

Project officials say the campaign was created by Booth American in 1981 when economic conditions throughout the country had given rise to a new group of needy tagged "the new poor."

These people were produced by massive layoffs and plant closings in the industrial cities, and, Booth realized, added to the group of youngsters who missed school days during winter's bitter months because of a lack of warm clothing—especially coats.

The campaign was brought to Detroit in 1982, when WJLB adopted "Coats For Kids" as its annual major community service project.

"What we really need is cash donations to buy enough coats to make up the difference," Banko said, adding that the dry cleaners will be accepting coats through the end of November.

To give a money gift, checks should be made payable to "Coats For Kids" and sent to: Coats For Kids, c/o WJLB, Suite 2050, Penobscot Building, Detroit, MI, 48226.

An Omnicom studio provides the setting for the local show 'County Impact.'

Cable companies offer public access

The world of public access television — programming conceived and produced locally by the general public on your cable system — is a great resource that's gone largely untapped.

That's the word from public access staffers from Omnicom Cable and Metrovision Cable, the two cable companies that serve Northville and Novi respectively.

"We get very good response from people who know about public access TV," said Rich Berry, who is the sports director at Omnicom. "But not everybody knows that we exist. It's a great opportunity for the general public but not many people take advantage of it."

Both Omnicom and Metrovision have a public access channel that are reserved for programming by and for local residents. Both companies also feature other channels that deal specifically with issues like higher education.

For Metrovision subscribers, the public access outlet is channel 12. For Omnicom, it's channel 15.

"The public access station from Metrovision is a cooperative effort by the cable company, by the residents and by the local governments of Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills," said Lark Samoulian, the director of the Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission. "(Metrovision) also offers channel 10 for higher education programming — the studio is available and located at Novi High School — and channels 30 and 31, which is designated for use by Oakland Community College."

Whether it's with Metrovision or Omnicom, to be a part of local access programming all you really need to do is take a training course on how to use the equipment.

"As long as the person is trained, they can produce their own program on Omnicom and really, do whatever they want," Perry said.

According to Samoulian, Metrovision offers workshops on a month-to-month basis designed to show how to run the equipment and how to produce a show.

"We've had these workshops for about five years and they seem to work well," she said. "Once those are completed, you are eligible to produce your own show."

Both public access stations offer a nice variety of shows including sports shows, talk shows, children's programs and even in-depth series dealing with subjects like coping with disabilities and families in crisis. In addition, Omnicom has a channel (8) reserved for local origination — programs produced by the cable company itself.

"Our priority is local programming," Samoulian said. "We also share programming with other community channels. We pride ourselves on trying to get the word out to the public about what we offer but there is still many people out there who don't know what we have to offer."

Northville swimmers grab WLAA crown

Tankers outpoint Canton by 82

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Mustang swim coach Bill Dicks said his '88 squad is the best he's ever had — and that was before the squad grabbed the WLAA title.

Last weekend, the Northville girls proved that they are also the best team in the always tough Western Lakes this season by dominating the conference meet at Plymouth Salem. The Mustangs took first-place honors in the 12-team field very easily, outdistancing second place Canton by 82 points.

"There's no way to describe or convey the way the girls and coaching staff felt after it was all over," Dicks said. "Obviously, we did well. The girls swam fast all through the competition. We increased our point spread from the prelims right on through to the finals."

Northville gained a measure of revenge by topping third-place Livonia Churchill by nearly 100 points. Earlier in the season, the Chargers handed the Mustangs their only dual meet loss of the '88 campaign.

"There was no doubt about who was the best team this year," Dicks said. "Surprisingly, this wasn't any more lopsided than some of the other league meets have been the last few years, but we did win it easily. It was a great effort by the whole team."

"The girls believed in themselves and stuck with our training program and it paid off."

The Mustangs placed first in three events, but it was overall team depth that made the big difference. In 11 events, Northville had 24 top 12 finishes, including four in the top 10 in diving. The Mustangs had more than one swimmer in eight of the nine individual event finals.

"The girls saw their goals, and they saw the master plan and they knew what was expected of them," Dicks said. "It all came together."

"Every girl on the team had a part in this and that makes it special. We managed to put it all together at the right time, and we deserved it."

Junior Debbie Buell and freshman Kristin Storm contributed heavily to the point total by winning one race each and combining with two teammates for a third. Buell took the honors in the 500-yard freestyle race with a lifetime best effort. She also added a fourth in the 200 IM and combined with Storm, Pam Holdridge and Michelle Stephens to win the 200 medley relay.

"Debbie will continue to go faster and improve because she's such a hard worker," Dicks said. "She put it all together mentally and physically."

Storm may be one of the top freshman swimmers in the state, and she continued her fine season with a win in the 100 freestyle. She added a second in the 50 freestyle as well.

"If (Kristin) keeps working hard, she has the potential to be a real dominate figure for us in the years to come," Dicks said. "She obviously has a bright future."

The diving event was the biggest single point producer for Northville but that didn't surprise anybody. The Mustangs have great depth and talent in that area and put it to good use. Junior Wendy Beach set a school record for points in an 11 dive format and ended up placing second overall. She was followed by teammates Michelle Beacham in third place, Beth Frayne in fifth and Barb Woodruff in 10th.

"The divers really came through for us," Dicks said. "They did a good job, but they have been doing it all season."

Another highlight was Holdridge's school record effort and second place finish in the 100 butterfly. Julie Hilfinger was fifth in the same event and Teri Juhasz added an eighth, even though she was seeded down in 12th.

Other multiple-place finishes for Northville came in the 50 freestyle, the 200 IM, the 500 freestyle, the 100 backstroke, the 100 breaststroke and the 100 freestyle. The only single finish was Megan Holmberg's seventh in the 200 freestyle and the 400 freestyle relay team of Hilfinger, Becky Frayne, Juhasz and Holmberg, who placed fourth.

In the 50 freestyle, Stephens was fifth and Becky Frayne was sixth; in the 200 IM, Hilfinger was sixth; in the 500 freestyle, Claire Cryderman was sixth and Kristen Woodsum was 12th; in the backstroke, Holmberg was fourth and Holdridge was sixth; in the breast stroke, Juhasz was sixth (and missed a state cut by just two-tenths of a second) and Stephens was seventh, and in the 100 freestyle, Becky Frayne was seeded 12th but moved up to ninth in the finals.

"The good swims we had didn't surprise me but I didn't think the point spread would be as wide as it was," Dicks said. "I told the girls before the meet that they could win it. If we swam poorly, we would have allowed somebody else to win it."

Mustangs advance to finals

by topping South Lyon, Novi

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The stage is set.

The Northville girls basketball squad now has a chance to put the finishing touches on the best season in school history with an MHSAA district crown. If the Mustangs managed to upset Plymouth Salem on Nov. 22 (after Record deadline), they will have survived in one of the toughest district tournaments in the state. It would be the perfect ending to a great campaign for coach Ed Kritch and his squad.

Northville advanced to the finals of its own district last week by knocking off South Lyon in the first round and then bombing Novi in the semifinals. The Northville-Salem final became official when the Rocks nipped once-seaten and fifth-ranked Plymouth Canton in the other semifinal clash.

"We've worked very hard since early August and I think we deserve to be here (in the finals)," Kritch said. "We'll be competitive with Salem — we think we have a legitimate shot."

Just as Kritch expected prior to the journey, his team had a tough time with South Lyon on Nov. 17 before pulling out a 46-44 victory. Northville opened an early 13-point lead but let the Lions off the hook with a very poor second quarter. A solid third quarter performance helped the Mustangs reestablish control and it was enough to help the squad to hold on down the stretch, despite a late South Lyon run.

"We let (South Lyon) back into it when we were close to knocking them out in the first quarter," Kritch said. Seniors Karen Baird, Debbie Stevens and Heather Sixt combined to score all 18 points in the first quarter and Northville jumped ahead 10-10. But trouble started in the second.

"We were rushing our shots and we ended up a little out of control on offense," Kritch explained. "I think maybe the girls relaxed a little and we ended up losing our concentration."

In the disastrous second quarter,

"We were rushing our shots and we ended up a little out of control on offense. I think maybe the girls relaxed a little and we ended up losing our concentration."

— Ed Kritch
Mustang Basketball Coach

the Mustangs were outscored 12-3 and actually gave up the lead for the first time when the Lions' Justina Holman hit a basket at the buzzer.

"For them to be in front 22-21 at the half after we led by as many as 13, it had to be a big emotional lift for them," Kritch said.

Northville came out with the hot hand to start the second half and promptly scored the first six points on baskets by Sixt, Kate Holstein and Sue LaPrad. Another 18-10 advantage in the period gave the Mustangs a 39-32 lead heading into the fourth but with Stevens in foul trouble, South Lyon began to whittle away at the deficit.

"Debbie got her fourth foul late in the third and when she came back in, she had to play conservatively on defense and Holman took advantage of it," Kritch said.

Holman scored seven in the last quarter, and her last bucket cut the lead to two at 46-44 with a minute left. At that point, Kritch called for a complete stall and it worked well until Baird turned it over with 33 seconds remaining. Fortunately for Northville, Holman was whistled for a traveling violation 16 seconds later and that turned it back over.

With six seconds left Baird missed the front end of the 1-1 free throw opportunity but Lion guard Jenny Shanks lost the ball out of bounds just before the buzzer.

"We were hanging on the whole way," Kritch said.

The balanced Mustang attack was paced by Baird's 13. Sixt added 11 while Stevens and Holstein each chipped in 10. Holman led all scorers with 17.

NORTHVILLE 55, NOVI 23: Nobody gave Novi much of a chance in the district final, so the end result — a 32-point win — wasn't much of a surprise.

The Mustangs used an aggressive pressing defense to open up a 14-4 lead after one quarter of play, but the Wildcats came back with a run of their own. Novi scored 12 of the next 20 points and cut the lead to 22-16 with about two minutes remaining. Kritch then called a time-out to regroup and it seemed to work as Northville scored the final five to take a 27-16 lead.

The momentum continued in the second half as the Mustangs outscored Novi 17-2 to make it 44-18 heading into the final quarter.

"We outscored (Novi) 24-2 in one span," Kritch said. "After that lapse in the second quarter, we got down to business and knocked them out of it. It was over by the end of the third quarter."

An 11-5 advantage in the fourth closed it out. Baird led all scorers with 19 and Stevens added 13. The Northville defense held Novi's top scorer — Nicki Kasten — to a team-high seven.

Traverse City ends Novi playoff hopes

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Two yards. Just six feet. That's all that stood between the Novi football team and a first-ever berth in the Class A state championship game.

But a cruel twist of fate ended the 'Cats' miraculous run, and number-two ranked Traverse City escaped with a 13-12 victory last Saturday (Nov. 19) at Houseman Field in an MHSAA semi-final clash.

Novi entered the contest as a heavy underdog — the undisputed Cinderella team of the Class A ranks — and for the third straight week, appeared on its way to yet another playoff upset.

Trailing by a point, the Wildcats recovered a perfectly executed on-side kick with just over a minute remaining in the game. A 35-yard pass play moved Novi inside the Trojan 10. And two plays later, the 'Cats were knocking on the door at the two, poised to score the winning touchdown in stunning fashion with just 34 seconds on the clock.

But the snap from center Mark Davio to quarterback Ken Hendrian on third-and-goal was not perfect. Hendrian never really had control of the ball as he turned to hand off to tailback Scott Wladischkin up the middle. The ball hit Wladischkin's shoulder, bounced high into the air and into the end zone where Traverse City's Doug Hulett was waiting.

The moment he cradled the ball in his hands, the most successful football season in Novi High School history came to an abrupt and painful end.

It was a great high school football game — one of the most exciting in Michigan playoff history — but that hardly seemed to matter to the heartbroken Wildcat players and fans. "So many thoughts go through your mind," Novi Coach John Osborne said. "I keep replaying it in my mind, wondering if we could have done it any different. But of course there's not much we can do now. "We were so close. And to have it taken away like that, it's tough. It's very hard to accept, especially for the kids. It was a devastating loss."

Right from the start, the Trojans took control offensively and scored two quick touchdowns in the first quarter. The big and deep Traverse City team controlled the line of scrimmage, and the Wildcat defense was on its heels and in trouble.

Traverse City took the opening kickoff and marched 65 yards for the first score — most of the yardage courtesy of bruising fullback Mike Nadlicki. The 6-foot-2, 215-pound runner powered in from three yards out, and Josh Wuertel's extra point made it 7-0.

The Novi offense then got off to a disastrous start. Hendrian bobbled the first snap from scrimmage but recovered the ball himself. Then on the second play, Wladischkin ripped off a 12-yard run before fumbling the ball and giving the Trojans possession at the Novi 44. Five plays later, Nadlicki made it 13-0 with a seven-yard jaunt with two minutes still remaining in the opening quarter.

"We went with a rubber ball instead of a leather ball the first couple possessions because we thought it would be easier to hang onto in the wet," Osborne said. "It's the first time we've used it all year, and I think psychologically the kids let it affect them."

Early in the second quarter, runner Craig Berry and Hendrian botch-

Hendrian's late surge keyed Wildcat success

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Ken Hendrian's done something no quarterback in Novi history has ever been able to do — lead the Wildcats to the state playoff semi-finals.

Jeff Tanderis didn't do it. Neither did Steve Lukkar, Dave Brown or Brian Schram. None of the great quarterbacks in Novi High School history.

Despite being a first-year starter, Hendrian ended up being a valuable cog in the Novi offensive machine. And, perhaps more importantly, he peaked down the stretch, helping the 'Cats put together an incredible run in the playoffs against the best competition Michigan can offer.

Early in the season, Hendrian wasn't much of a threat. With Scott Wladischkin and Craig Berry handling most of the load on the ground, Coach John Osborne stuck with the running game.

"Early in the year, we didn't feel the need to pass much because we were winning and having so much success on the ground," Osborne said. "Ken came into the season with a lack of experience, but he improved with every game. I didn't want to put too much pressure on him so we didn't pass the ball much."

But as the season wore on and the opposition started to key on Wladischkin and Berry more and more, Hendrian started to play a more important role.

In the first half of the season, he basically handed the ball off. But in the last half, he started passing more and running more. Once the team made the playoffs, Hendrian had developed into another explosive weapon in Osborne's arsenal.

"There's no doubt that Ken had a great run in the tournament," Osborne said. "If somebody forgot about him and focused on just Wladischkin, Ken was ready to exploit the situation."

Statistically, Hendrian's numbers on the year weren't outstanding, but his late-season surge is something no statistics can measure. It may have been the biggest factor why the Novi offense was able to move the ball so effectively and score points against some of the best defenses in the state.

"Novi's quarterback is very dangerous," Traverse City Coach Jim Ooley said. "He ran very well and he has a strong arm."

For the season, Hendrian completed 49-of-103 passes for 713 yards and six touchdowns. He added just over 200 yards rushing as well. His best game of the season was a 7-for-12, 127-yard performance against Okemos in the first round of the playoffs. He also ran well, scoring four touchdowns in three post-season games, including the game-winner in overtime against Okemos and two in the, heartbreaking '13-12 defeat to Traverse City.

"I just go out and do whatever it takes for us to win," Hendrian said. "If it means passing or running or both, I'll do it. I really don't care about the stats. I know a lot of quarterbacks who have better numbers than me, but they aren't in the playoffs."

Depth, injuries plague runners' season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

When opposing cross country teams have upwards of 20 runners and you have eight, you know you're in big trouble to begin with.

And if injuries hit your team like the plague, and the eight suddenly falls to five with several others at less than full strength, it's nightmare time.

That's what Northville girls cross country coach Nick Dunwoodie had to deal with in '88. With just eight on the roster to begin with, depth was a serious weakness. Before the season even began, he lost Rachel Davis for most of the season with tendonitis in the knee. Soon number-two runner Rozann Stakis was lost for the season with a stress fracture and Lisa Brown followed with what is also believed to be a stress fracture. By mid-season, the Mustangs were having trouble fielding the required five runners to finish a meet.

"We obviously need to get more girls out for the team," Dunwoodie said. "We're not real deep so it doesn't leave much room for injuries. Numbers would help us tremendously and that's our goal."

Northville finished the season with a 2-4 overall dual meet mark, but both of the victories came against WLAA Western Division opponents. To finish fourth in the six-team division was quite an accomplishment for a team so devastated by injury.

"We beat Harrison when we were pretty healthy, but we beat Walled Lake Western without Brown or Stakis," Dunwoodie said.

Sophomore Maricle Dart was solid all season, despite hamstring problems down the stretch. Dart was the Mustangs' top finisher in every meet, and the highlight was probably a 16th place finish in the WLAA Meet and All-Division kudos.

"There's no doubt she'll be our key runner for the next few years," Dunwoodie said. "Her times dropped by about a minute from last year and I don't see any reason why she can't continue to improve."

With Dart, Stakis and Brown, the Mustangs had a nice 1-2-3 punch — but it wasn't in place for very long. Depth was the biggest hurdle, though, as two of the younger runners didn't even come out for the team until after the first dual meet.

— Nick Dunwoodie

"We had about five decent runners but losing Brown and Stakis would be like the Pistons losing Isiah Thomas and Adrian Dantley," Dunwoodie said. "Some of our girls weren't in season-opening shape until the end of the season."

Dunwoodie did get a bit of a reprieve in the last dual meet of the season with the return of Davis. Obviously, she wasn't in the best of shape and wasn't 100 percent, but it helped.

"I was surprised she came back as soon as she did," he said. "There's no treatment for tendonitis except rest."

With virtually the entire team returning next season, Dunwoodie is excited about the future — but his optimism is contingent upon good health.

"I think we can have a good team if we can stay healthy," he said. "These girls hung tough this season and they never gave up. Last year, we ran just as hard but we had no one miss a race due to an injury. There are years when everything goes wrong like this, and there is really no explanation."

"The effort was there, we were just unlucky."

Athletic trainers play important role

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

who are all those people camped out on the sidelines at prep sporting events, tending to the injured?

You know, the ones who tape the twisted ankle and put bandages on the goalie's scraped arms. It's the athletic trainers, of course.

During the fall season, trainers seem to play an extra important role with football in full gear, but they are needed year-round. Both Novi and Northville High Schools sport athletic trainers for all sports and athletes — from soccer to gymnastics.

"We kept our new trainer — Melissa Martis — quite busy this season," said Mustang soccer Coach Dave Yezback.

Martis is the Northville trainer and Randy Perrin handles Novi. Both are professional, registered trainers assigned the sometimes difficult task of keeping athletes healthy and in peak condition.

Martis is a member of the professional staff at Botsford Hospital's Physical Therapy Department. She works out of the TRACC facility (Total Rehabilitation and Athletic Conditioning Center) in Novi and is farmed out to Northville High.

"TRACC is involved with five high schools — Northville, Farmington, Farmington Harrison, North Farmington and Brother Rice — and I was assigned Northville. I'm the only one from our office dealing with Northville."

Perrin is in his second year as the head trainer at Novi. He is contracted out from the Center for Sports Medicine and Fitness in Ann Arbor.

"The center has a contract with Novi for a professional athletic trainer," Perrin said. "So I go to the high school every day in the afternoon to deal with the injured athletes and in the morning, I work here at the clinic as a physical therapist — dealing mainly with athletic injuries and rehabilitation."

Martis is at Northville two days a week to examine and tend to injured athletes. In addition, she attended every home football and soccer game this fall and will be doing the same this winter for boys basketball, wrestling and gymnastics.

"I was busy this season with soccer," Martis said. "We had a broken nose and a broken arm, plus a lot of other injuries. It was a lot for a quote, 'non-contact' sport."

"I also had a lot to do with the football team but that's not unusual. Anytime you have two people colliding like that, you'll have injuries."

Because Martis is not a full-time trainer for Northville, she did not travel with the Mustangs to away games, but she thinks that is very much needed.

"It's not in our contract to travel with the teams but I wish it was because not all injuries happen at home," she said. "I think a trainer is needed full-time."

Perrin, on the other hand, is considered a full-time trainer and covers all home events in Novi and travels with the Wildcat football team.

"I love sports, especially at the high school level," Perrin said. "It's a great feeling to be associated with the kids."

Martis first became interested in the sports medicine field while attending Ferris State College in Big Rapids. She pursued the field and is now certified by the National Athletic Trainers Association.

"I just fell into it in college — it wasn't really a dream of mine," Martis said. "I like sports and medicine and this was a way to combine the two in a career. I'm more sports-related now as far as physical therapy goes — that's my area of specialty."

It didn't take long before Martis and Perrin started to think of themselves as just another part of the team on football Fridays. That's because the players and coaches wanted it that way.

"The kids were fabulous and the coaching staff made me feel welcome," Martis said. "I started rooting for the Mustangs just as much as everybody else because I felt like I was part of the team."

Perrin received his degree in sports medicine from Indiana State University and is presently working on his master's degree at the University of Michigan.

"The coaching staff at Novi is one of the best I've ever worked with," he said. "They really care about the athletes, and that is a good situation to be in."

Needless to say, both Perrin and Martis love what they do. "I love it," Martis said. "You can work in a clinic but to me it's not true athletic training."

Trojans hand Novi 13-12 heartbreaker

ed another handoff to give the Trojans the ball in Novi territory again. When the defense held, Wuerfel ended up attempting a 42-yard field goal which sailed wide right.

On their next possession, the 'Cats didn't fumble the ball away and appeared to gain momentum from the missed field goal moments earlier. Novi drove 80 yards in 11 plays, with Hendrian bulging in from two yards out for the touchdown. The big play in the drive was a 22-yard run by Wladischkin, but his run on the two-point conversion failed.

On the last play of the half, Wladischkin intercepted a pass from Traverse City's Greg Lobdell and returned it 36 yards before being knocked out of bounds. The half ended 13-6.

"We kind of kept ourselves in the game in the second quarter and that gave us a big lift," Osborne said. "We were getting the ball back to start the second half, and we felt we could move the ball on them. Our task at the half was to find a way to stop them offensively."

Midway through the third, Traverse City put together a 14-play drive which stalled at the Novi six. Wuerfel then missed a 23-yard chip shot as the 'Cats dodged another bullet.

"That's when the game turned around," Osborne said. "If they make the field goal, we need to score twice to win and that wouldn't have been a very good situation to be in."

With six minutes remaining, Novi took possession near midfield and moved down the field, utilizing Hendrian's running skills on the option. With 1:19 left on the clock, Hendrian narrowed the lead to one when he broke a tackle in his own backfield, turned up field and scored from five yards out.

"It was a great drive; Hendrian executed the option very well," Osborne said. "At that point, I liked our chances because the clock was running out."

Without hesitation, Osborne called for the two-point conversion, forsaking an extra point attempt and an almost certain overtime.

"We were committed before the game to go for the two," he explained. "We've had inconsistencies in our kicking game, and we think our chances are better to get the two-point conversion than the extra point."

On the play, Wladischkin started to the right on an apparent sweep but handed off to Berry on a reverse.

With the option to run or pass, Berry spotted Mark Tolsdorf in the back of the end zone, but the pass slipped out of his hands and was intercepted by Doug Hulet.

"It was a run-pass option and it didn't come off," Osborne noted. "I thought sending Wladischkin one way would be enough of a decoy to tip the field in our favor, but (Traverse City) played it well."

With many of the fans gathering their belongings and heading for the exits, Novi's Brian Daniels recovered the ensuing onside kick, and Hendrian promptly hit Tolsdorf with a 35-yard pass on the next play to move it down to the 10. The catch was a leaping grab between three defenders and it, Osborne said, "put us back into business."

A six-yard run by Wladischkin and a two-yard pass from Hendrian to Steve Tashman made it third-and-goal at the two with 34 seconds remaining. That's when the bobbled snap ended up in Hulet's hands, and the Traverse City faithful erupted in joy and relief.

"I have no idea what happened," a dejected Hendrian said after the game. "The ball was slippery, and we didn't have a good connection."

On the Novi side, devastation set in. The Wildcats realized they had missed a golden opportunity to play one game for the state title.

"To have it inside the two, it seemed so easy," Osborne said. "It was so close and yet so far. It was a dive play to Wladischkin, and we thought his momentum would get him over the top. The Traverse City linemen were submarining."

For the game, Wladischkin ended his brilliant prep career with 139 yards in 26 carries. Nadlicki gained 152 yards on 25 attempts.

"I think somebody up above had something to do with how the game ended," Trojan Coach Jim Ooley said. "(Novi) is so explosive and they have so many weapons. If you stop one kid, somebody else will kill you. They have a heckuva team, a great runner in Wladischkin and a nice quarterback."

"We moved the ball well, but penalties killed us more than their defense. Novi's been a second-half ball club all during the playoffs so the way they came back on us didn't surprise me."

For the third consecutive playoff clash, the gutsy Novi defense failed to allow a single point in the second half of play. In 12 quarters of post-season action, the 'Cats only allowed points in five periods.

Wildcat runner Scott Wladischkin rushed for a school-record 1,496 yards in '88

Infant swimming program advised

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

A future Olympic gold medalist like Mark Spitz or Matt Biondi may or may not be splashing around in local infant and toddler swimming programs.

But a greater appreciation for water and an attempt to improve children's chances against drowning are attainable goals, according to local recreation directors and swimming instructors.

"If children overcome their fear of water at a young age, they probably will never have a problem with it," said Northville Swimming Coordinator Cecilia Ginger.

Northville Recreation Supervisor Traci Johnson said the swimming program, which is open to children age infant through toddler, attempts to acquaint and make children feel comfortable in the water.

"We emphasize an orientation to water and a basic knowledge of water skills, such as learning to hold your breath underwater and floating techniques," Johnson said.

"We don't teach swimming skills at such a young age because we think children need to get used to the water first," she said, adding it's important for children to gain respect for water at an early age.

Ginger said the younger the child, the easier it is for them to become comfortable with aquatic surroundings.

"Young children used to swim in their mother's womb, so they tolerate the water easier than older children because it is not as foreign to them," she said.

Ginger noted that in the nine-week program which recently concluded but will resume in mid-January, parents remain with their child in the water at all times to provide a comfortable atmosphere.

"A child's comfortability in the water will mainly depend on the attitude of the parents," Ginger said. "If the parents view the swimming class as a nice, fun thing to do, then the children will also."

Johnson said registration for the upcoming winter session will begin after Jan. 1. Classes, which cost $16 for Northville residents, begin Jan. 14 and run every Saturday from 12:30 to 1 p.m. in the Northville High School swimming pool.

She said six or seven children usually participate in the class, with spring and summer sessions being the most crowded, because of the cool temperatures of the high school pool in the winter time.

Novi residents can also enroll their children in a swimming program, according to Clara Porter, Director of Novi Community Education.

Porter said the Novi young person swimming program is divided into two groups: aquababy, for children six months to two years and aquatol, for children two to four years old.

In the aquababy program, Porter said the instructors only attempt to introduce children to water and no swimming or floating techniques are taught.

"Our feeling is that six months to two years is not a good age to learn how to swim; rather, it is a time to overcome a fear of water," Porter said.

She noted in the aquatol program the children use kickboards in an attempt to become more water safe. "The general approach is to introduce them to the basic swimming positions,"

"Parents enjoy introducing their children to water because not only will it help reduce their fear, but it will also increase a child's appreciation for water," Porter said.

"Children must learn, in addition to becoming comfortable with water, that pools are not safe and while they should not be frightened of them, they should know to be careful around them."

Novi community education does not offer a winter swimming program for children, as the next program begins on April 12 and runs each Saturday at a cost of $16 per session.

Porter said the classes, which are typically well attended, are not offered in the winter because parents usually don't like exposing their children to the cold after being in a pool.

"We find that parents don't like taking their children into the cold after having them inside a pool, so we don't offer the class in the winter," she added.

"And the whole point of the class is to make both parents and children comfortable with being in the water."

Pap smear can help diagnose disease, cancer

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.

The pap smear has been a source of controversy in recent years, both in terms of the frequency at which it should be done and in the accuracy of interpretation. Despite these controversies, the pap smear has been instrumental in diagnosing disease and cancer in many women.

The pap smear is a sampling of cells taken from the cervix (the opening of the uterus). It is performed by inserting a speculum into the vagina so the cervix can be visualized. A cotton swab or brush is then used to gently remove cells from inside the opening of the cervix. A second sampling device, the wooden spatula, is then used to remove cells from the outside of the cervix. These cells are spread on a slide and the cells preserved by a fixative spray. The slide is then sent to a cytology lab where a specially trained individual reviews the slide for abnormalities.

The pap smear has been traditionally broken down into five classes. This classification system helps the clinician to interpret the significance of the pap smear results and to decide on the need for further therapy. The following is a summary of how the classes are defined.

A Class I pap smear is normal. This indicates there is no evidence of a malignancy or premalignancy in the cervix. In addition to indicating the presence or absence of the malignancy, the pap smear may also provide information about the hormonal status of the women (the presence or absence of estrogen and progesterone), possibly exposure to DES, exposure to radiation therapy and the presence of certain anemias.

The papsmear may also indicate the presence of an infection. Yeast, trichomonas, herpes as well as others, can be detected on a pap smear. Follow-up treatment may be required.

A Class II pap smear generally indicates the presence of infection with reactive changes in the cells of the cervix. These changes can be caused by bacterial or viral organisms. If the infection is bacterial, it is generally treated with either an oral antibiotic and/or antibiotic cream which is used in the vagina. A pap smear is repeated after the treatment is completed and the cervix has had a chance to heal.

The most common viral infections are the condylomatous changes. These are caused by the human papillomavirus (HPV), and are frequently sexually transmitted. Because these changes are caused by a virus, they cannot be treated with an antibiotic. These changes can regress spontaneously, but may also progress to more serious abnormalities. Their treatment will be discussed with the Class III pap smear.

A Class III pap smear indicates dysplasias. These are classified as mild, moderate and severe. This diagnosis is made by examining the cells removed from the cervix and looking for specific abnormalities within these cells. These changes are frequently associated with the human papillomavirus and can progress to cancer if untreated.

If a pap smear indicates such an abnormality, the woman is contacted by her physician. The physician will probably recommend a colposcopy and biopsy of the cervix.

The colposcopy and biopsy are diagnostic procedures performed in the physician's office. A speculum is inserted into the vagina so the cervix can be visualized. The colposcope, which is like a microscope, is used to examine the cervix under magnification to identify the location of the abnormal cells. Different solutions are placed on the cervix to help identify these cells. Once the abnormal areas are identified, a small biopsy is taken.

A follow-up, appointment is scheduled for the physician to review the pathology report with the woman and decide on the method of treatment. This usually involves cryosurgery (freezing therapy), laser surgery or electrocautery (heat therapy). Usually all can be performed in the office with minimal discomfort. Return appointments on a more frequent basis for pap smears will be scheduled.

There are occasions when the physician may be unable to visualize the abnormal area of the cervix. If this occurs, she or he will recommend a cone biopsy. This is a larger cone-shaped biopsy of the cervix. It is usually performed as an outpatient in a surgical center since anesthesia is needed. It is frequently therapeutic as well as diagnostic.

A Class IV pap smear represents a carcinoma in situ. This refers to malignant type changes that have remained on the surface of the cervix and have not invaded into the body of the cervix. This pap smear is evaluated in the same manner as the Class III pap smear. Cone biopsies, however, are more common to rule out invasions into the body of the cervix. Treatment for this abnormality is also the same as a Class III pap smear.

A Class V pap smear indicates invasive cervical cancers. Again, diagnosis is similar to the Class III and IV with colposcopy and biopsy, and if needed, cone biopsy. The treatment, however, is more radical and, depending on the stage of cancer involves either major surgery or radiation therapy.

The pap smear has been and continues to be an invaluable tool for the screening of female reproductive problems. This is especially true in the detection and treatment of cervical cancer. It is imperative that a woman see her physician to have this exam performed, even if she has had a hysterectomy. She and her physician can decide on the frequency with which a pap smear is needed. Regardless of whether it is every three months or every three years, it is still important for a woman to have a pelvic exam (manual exam of the pelvic organs) on a yearly basis.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

☐ Be very careful with sharp knives.

☐ Use pot holders or oven mitts when taking things from oven.

Our earliest memories of Christmas usually revolve around the Christmas tree. This is where Santa placed all our important gifts, from toys to bicycles — to, perhaps, diamonds.

According to "The Joy of Christmas" by Helen Feingold and Mary Lee Grisanti (Baron's Educational Series Inc.), the tradition of decorating Christmas trees originated in Germany.

"Every parlor had a tree, and no matter what the financial status, it was decorated. Jewelry, pieces of mirror, cotton wool, even silver knives and forks were used, as well as handcrafted ornaments. Then as now, collections of ornaments were handed down from one generation to another and treasured."

Years ago in the United States, trees were decorated with edibles such as apples, fruits, nuts, marzipan, cookies, strings of cranberries and popcorn. Soon, though, elaborate ornaments from Europe came into vogue.

"These were handcrafted of embossed cardboard, tin, wax and glass — molded, blown and spun," say Feingold and Grisanti. "They came in myriad shapes and sizes, silvered inside and with painted decorations outside. Glass bead and tinsel ropes became popular, as well as cotton wool for snow, paper ornaments from Japan, and papier-mache objects.

"Glass ornaments, and, later, molded light bulbs were made in every shape: Santa Clauses, reindeer, angles, pine cones, grapes, drums, fruits and vegetables, houses, animals, trumpets, bears, violins, birds with hangers or clipons for fastening to the tree branches.

"With tinsel comes the legend that a spider wove webs over a tree and, when it was blessed by Christ, the webs turned to silver. Bells are for rejoicing on this happy occasion. Lights are for joy and faith. The star at the top of the tree represent the Star of Bethlehem, and angels are, of course, the heavenly hosts proclaiming the birth of Christ."

Holiday decorating often begins with the tree. Designers who create stratagems for the White House tree often carry the theme to other ornamentation as well. One year it was pretty plaid bows all over the tree. The same plaid was used on gift boxes and carried over to floral table arrangements.

A few years back cleverly designed single-color schemes were the rage. There were trees bearing only silver balls, or red, or blue.

Trees made of aluminum shone like rainbows as color wheels turned at their bases. Nothing was to smack of nostalgia.

Happily, the mood has changed and we have transferred those one-color balls to glass bowls or jars, and even straw baskets.

Nostalgia and old-fashioned trees are back. No longer do you have to be embarrassed about hanging the chipped teddy bear ornament that was your favorite as a child.

Store-bought treasures

A home with a brightly decorated tree feels cheerful and welcoming. The magic you need to transform your home this Christmas is as close as the nearest variety or department store.

You'll find bins stuffed with ornaments and shelves a-glitter with tinsel garlands. Many shopping malls open seasonal shops with theme-decorated trees, hundreds of ornaments, music and animated figures.

Remember: The lights go on the tree first — then the garlands, ornaments and last of all, icicles. Whether you select tiny twinkling lights or those with traditional strawberry-shaped bulbs, be sure you have a string (or strings) long enough to wrap several times around the tree.

Cover the base of your tree with a sparkling white tree skirt or "snow drape," mound angel hair below the tree to look like snow. Add your teddy bear collection or a train set that can gaily traverse the tree's circumference when friends stop by.

Shiny, silvery tinsel garlands come in many colors, including red, green, blue, gold, silver, white — and combinations of colors.

Bead garlands resemble ropes of popcorn and cranberries. They come in gold, silver, white and red; some have a metallic finish, others are clear or translucent.

Vine and wreath garlands in elegant white and gold, or decorated with woody pine cones, apples and berries, lend a touch of opulence to your tree.

Place shiny ornaments, such as glass balls and mirrors, near the tree lights. Reflections will multiply the brightness.

Put tiny, fragile ornaments close to the top of the tree, at adult eye level and out of the reach of curious little hands. Larger ornaments go lower, where the added weight is supported by bigger branches.

The icing on your tree is icicles. Traditionally, these are made of shredded silver foil, but many colors are available. Drape the strands over the tips of the branches.

Ornaments to make

Handmade ornaments are treasures that greet you with memories, year after year. Making them is inexpensive and fun for the entire family. String popcorn and cranberries for a homemade red-and-white garland. Or ask each friend who stops by to create an ornament — keep a basket of red glass balls, sequins, glitter, fabric and glue under the tree.

Save whole egg shells by piercing each end of the egg and blowing the contents into a dish. Decorate the shells with designs from Christmas cards, using indelible-ink pens.

Thread the holes in each with yarn or string so it can be hung on the tree. (Because blown eggs are fragile, it's a good idea to dip them in a clear plastic craft glaze. This adds durability as well as a glossy finish.)

Make a claylike dough from flour and salt (4 cups flour, 1 cup salt, 1½ cups warm water); roll it out like pie pastry to a thickness of ½ inch. Cut out shapes with cookie cutters. Place on aluminum foil on cookie sheet; insert ornament hangers. Bake in a moderate oven until hard (45 minutes to an hour).

When cool, decorate the "cookies" with acrylic paint. These are ready for the tree as is; however, a clear craft glaze will help preserve them.

Make reindeer and toy soldiers from old-fashioned round-head clothespins.

With the prongs up, the clothespin becomes a reindeer; paint the antlers brown, draw large eyes on each side and glue on a small red pom-pom for a nose.

Begin your holiday with greenery

Christmastime brings so much more than tidings of comfort and joy.

There is the harried pace. The pressures of partying and gift-giving. Shopping nightmares. The expense. All combine to dampen the spirit of love and celebration.

One way to avoid being swept under by commercialization or anxiety is to set the stage for Christmas in your own home.

Start with holiday greenery. The rich color and redolence of evergreens and a few winter plants can vanquish the humbug completely.

Ever wonder how Christmas trees came about? Pines were first decorated at Christmas time in the mid-16th century. The Germans decorated trees at Easter and this was a natural extension of that custom.

Other countries were slow to pick up the tradition. There was no mention of Christmas trees in Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," written in the mid-19th century. They were still considered an eccentric extravagance. Soon merchandising took hold in America. By the late 1800s, Christmas trees were an American rage — the bigger and more laden, the better.

Christmas trees were almost as varied as snowflakes. Decorations aside, there are more than 55 species of pine in the United States alone, most of which would make lovely Christmas trees. Noble, Douglas and Scotch are a few of the favorites.

Choosing and decorating your Christmas tree initiates the holiday season for the whole family. One way to make this a bona fide adventure is to cut your own tree.

If you live near a national forest, 8/GIFT GUIDE/November 23, 1988

"If you are thinking about live trees, consider a Norfolk Island pine"

telephone the park service to find out if there is cutting in your area. They'll issue you an inexpensive permit if they are available. This is as close as you can come to an old-fashioned Christmas.

Otherwise, there are many "choose and cut" operations nationwide. Trees are grown in fields and prepriced according to grade. Growers provide saws and cutting instructions.

Some "choose and cut" operations provide hot cider and hayrides.

Many families can get a lot of pleasure out of a trip to the convenient corner Christmas tree lot. Be sure to choose a fresh tree. Avoid any that look dry or damaged.

A few easy preparations once you've carried the tree home will preserve its freshness into January. Recut the bottom at a slant and set it in a pail of water in the coolest area of the house or basement.

Allow it to soak for a couple of days. Then situate the tree in a large kettle filled with sand or gravel. Add water to keep the tree moist.

Place the tree as far as possible from direct sunlight, fireplaces and heaters. You can add a Christmas tree preservative or floral preservative to the water.

If you are thinking about live trees, consider a Norfolk Island pine. Their airy, horizontal foliage makes them an ideal indoor plant all year. Or brave to decorate a non-pine. Perhaps there's a house or garden plant you've been longing for. Christmas may be the best time to buy and celebrate its purchase with ornaments.

Fruit, citrus and nut trees and even some cactuses make unusual and lively scaffolding for garlands and lights.

Some season greeters prefer artificial Christmas trees. There are almost as many fake varieties as there are authentic.

Basically, artificial trees come in either plastic or PVC. Plastic is stiffer, less genuine feeling, while PVC has a nice, almost silken quality. As expected, PVC costs about 30 percent more. The most popular tree "species" is the fuller, denser Canadian pine. Almost all "species" come in either green or white. A "crystalline" finish — kind of a festive iridescent white — is available in several styles.

These fake trees are not bargains. A two-foot tree costs around $20 and a 10-foot tree, $250 in plastic and $300 or more in PVC. But then again, you don't have to buy a new one every year.

Since evergreen boughs are flammable, fill in around the fireplace with poinsettias instead. Or blooming poinsettias in the window bring a rosy hue to the room.

These South American natives are bred in 65 varieties and five different colors. They are on the retail market for only six weeks, from mid-November through December. Nevertheless, they are the No. 1 potted plant in terms of the wholesale dollar value, outselling even mums and geraniums.

If you have a poinsettia from last year, bringing it to bloom is a tricky business. It needs cooler temperatures, around 60 degrees Fahrenheit, shorter 10-hour days and 14 hours of uninterrupted darkness for at least three months.

Christmas cactus, Latin American in origin, is fast gaining popularity. You can count on last year's cactus blooming on schedule without careful tending.

But florists and nurseries will be able to supply you with timely blooming cactuses. Try them in clusters for large centerpieces, or in cache pots for bathrooms and guest rooms.

Not just for halls are the boughs of holly. Use holly around your candlesticks to decorate your Christmas feasts. Make a miniature Christmas tree for a table decoration by sticking a Styrofoam cone full of holly.

Herb and spices contribute to the substance and sensuality of Christmas, both in tradition and in practicality.

Rosemary is possibly the most Christmasy of herbs. Pious etymology maintains that the blue flowers are attributed to the blue of Mary's robe.

As a potted plant, rosemary adds an intoxicating presence. Include rosemary in your homemade potpourri. Potpourri stashed in canisters, pomanders and wicker baskets around the house will fill the house with welcoming fragrance.

Soft dolls, teddy bears are favorites

There you are, wandering among endless shelves of high-tech toys, trying to decide what Christmas gifts to buy your 5-year-old son.

Did he say he wants that gizmo that lets him pretend he's blowing up a major metropolitan area? Or was it one of those adolescent turtles with martial arts skills?

You sigh, until you spot a Raggedy Ann doll on a distant shelf.

Ambling over to the stuffed animal and doll section like a refugee, you take comfort in the warm, fuzzy memories that wash over you as you pick up Raggedy Ann. When you see hundreds of the world's most adorable plastic eyes looking at you, you are inspired: Why not a stuffed toy or doll for the boy!

In spite of what youngsters dazzled by high tech will tell you to the contrary, stuffed critters and dolls are still highly popular gifts among children.

And they're not just fun and lovable. According to Parents magazine, toys such as teddy bears and dolls help a child grow because they offer children "a license for fantasy play beyond the room, the block, even the neighborhood — children practice with their dolls many of the arts and skills of living."

While there are perennial favorites that never seem to go out of style — your basic teddy bear, Barbie, Raggedy Ann and Andy and so on — each year seems to bring a wave of new versions of old classics and totally new characters. And the public absolutely loves them.

Bear market

In the early part of this century, President Teddy Roosevelt trapped a female bear but refused to shoot it and orphan its cub. The press went crazy over the story, and the next thing you know there were "Teddy bears" selling like hotcakes.

"... there are perennial favorites that never go out of style — your basic Teddy bear, Barbie, Raggedy Ann and Andy ..."

That basic little bear has gone through some changes over the years and has, in fact, spawned an ever-changing zoo of stuffed animals that walk, talk, flip — or just sit there with smiles that could melt a heart of stone.

These plush critters range in size from just right for Christmas stockings to, well, huge. There are pandas and polar bears, grizzlies and sun bears and some even come in a tantalizing variety of personas.

For example, some of the more popular stuffed bears in recent years have come from the North American Bear Company, whose whimsical collection of characters such as Bearly Temple, Bearilyn Monroe, Rembearandt and Albeart Einstein has kept adults and children alike mixing chuckles with their cuddles.

Another maker of popular stuffed toys, Dakin, doesn't stop at bears. The Dakin lineup includes plenty of other cuddly critters, some of them from favorite comic strips such as "Bloom County" and "Garfield." The "Garfield Stuck-on-You" stuffed animal, which sticks to windows, is popping up everywhere.

Check out the new Goro Gorilla which comes in three sizes and two colors and other stuck-on-you characters.

Other stuffed stuff sure to please the little ones are ever-popular dinosaurs, TV characters such as ALF and Pee-Wee Herman and that lovable, looney Roger Rabbit.

Or, if you want something really different, give the kids "Once Upon a Pillow." These clever items are comfortable to sleep pillows that open up into fully illustrated, six-page, soft storybooks.

The cloth pages are printed with full-color illustrations with big, easy-to-read storybook type. Also from this company are "Pillow People" and "Moody Babies," respectively adult and baby pillow-type figures that make slumber squeezably fun.

Hello, dollies

Still standing there hugging Raggedy Ann? Guess what? She's 70 years old! She and her brother bounced into American family tradition from a 1918 storybook. Illustrator Johnny Gruelle created Raggedy Ann from an old rag doll, adding red yarn hair and bright shoe-button eyes. Raggedy Andy was America's first boy's doll.

To celebrate Raggedy Ann's "birthday," new storybooks have been released from Random House. There are also Raggedy Ann and Andy jigsaw puzzles by Milton Bradley, Flambro figurines, Parco cookies, nightshirts, greeting cards and more.

The constant popularity of Raggedy Ann and Andy, say many retailers, is typical of the traditional doll's enduring quality. Traditional Raggedy siblings are becoming popular.

So are collectible cuties in costumes from other countries.

Top-selling dolls at F.A.O. Schwarz include storybook characters from Madame Alexander and the French-made beauties by Krolle. Dolls by Gotz are tops, so are the lifelike models by Himstedt, which are sculpted from photos of real children.

Some kids, however, prefer high tech and gadgets to tradition. These youngsters will probably want the dolls they see on Saturday morning television, an array of dolls that range from Barbie to her arch-rival, Maxi.

Mattel's Talking Baby Heather, who actually "grows" from a 6-month-old baby to a toddler is another favorite. When you speak to her, she looks in the direction of your voice and she'll tell you a story when you ask her to. Tickle her and she laughs. Rub her tummy and she goes to sleep. Baby Grows is a similar doll made by Playmates.

One model doll from Mattel is Little Miss Makeup. Rub her with a sponge soaked in ice water and eyeshadow appears on her eyelids, earrings on her ears and nail polish at her fingertips. Use warm water to make it all disappear.

Ship early for on time arrival of gifts

Once you've wrapped all the gifts and set some under the tree, there are bound to be a few that need to be shipped to relatives and friends across the country — or the ocean — before you can settle down for your long winter's nap.

Here's what shippers look for, whether you send by post office or parcel service.

Regulations

☐ No brown paper wrap on outside of box to be shipped. Place your carefully gift-wrapped creation inside another cardboard box.

☐ Surround gifts with at least two inches of packing material such as Styrofoam pack or bubble wrap.

☐ Tape box closed with filament tape, not cellophane or masking tape.

☐ Write address clearly on outside of the box, and include inside the box a piece of paper with the address, in case the address on front is obliterated.

☐ Use ZIP codes.

☐ Some parcel firms have size and weight restrictions — call first for information if you have an especially large or heavy package to ship.

Delivery deadlines

☐ Continental United States

Postal: Priority Mail for packages takes two days, coast-to-coast. Parcel Post takes seven to 10 days coast-to-coast.

Parcel by ground: Six to seven working days, coast-to-coast; one to two days for a local delivery; three to four days for a regional delivery.

Parcel by air: Two-day coast-to-coast delivery.

☐ Canada

Postal: Airmail packages by Dec. 12 to have them there for Christmas.

Parcel: Eight-day ground delivery;

three-day air delivery.

☐ Africa, Australia

Postal: Airmail packages by Nov. 21.

Parcel: Most companies do not service Africa. Three-day delivery by air to Australia.

☐ Europe, Far East

Postal: Airmail packages by Dec. 2.

Parcel: Three-day delivery by air.

☐ South America, Alaska, Hawaii

Postal: Airmail packages by Dec. 5.

Parcel: Three-day delivery by air.

☐ Caribbean

Postal: Airmail packages by Dec. 9.

Parcel: Three-day delivery by air.

Special options

☐ Parcel delivery firms often will pick up packages at your home for a nominal fee. United Parcel Service, for example, charges $3.75 for one week — no matter how many packages you ship. Call the company one day in advance of desired pickup with accurate package size, weight and delivery address.

☐ Parcel delivery firms often will set up temporary shops in convenient Christmas spots, such as shopping malls. They take some of the hassle out of shipping, but you'll pay for that convenience in higher shipping rates.

☐ Check into insurance to cover the cost of replacing damaged or lost packages. Some parcel firms offer free insurance up to $100. Post office charges for insurance begin at 70 cents for $50 of coverage.

Ornament collection brings renewed joy each year

Creating an ornament collection is one of the joys of Christmas.

It adds fun to shopping in gift shops, craft sales, Christmas boutiques and antique stores. Friends and relatives delight in presenting you with additions to your assortment.

Display your collection on your Christmas tree, on your coffee table or fireplace mantel.

Many collectors have two trees at Christmas — a large one decorated with glass balls, tinsel, lights, icicles and "generic" ornaments and a second, smaller tree just for theme ornaments.

Possible themes for your collection are endless. Here are a few popular ones (they can be hand-made, store-bought or antique):

TEDDY BEARS: Have yourself a "beary" Christmas with a tree full of tiny plush bears wearing knit scarves, hand-painted wood and ceramic bears, bears appliqued on tiny pillows and party bears holding balloons.

ANGELS: These can be ethereally delicate or chubby cherubs. They are made from beads, shiny fabrics, glass, foil, wood and porcelain.

KITCHEN ITEMS: These include shiny cookie cutters tied with red ribbon, gingerbread boys made of brown velvet, miniature rolling pins and utensils, metal mesh hearts and stars, and dollhouse kitchen furniture.

WOOD ORNAMENTS: Many of these are imported and hand-painted. They include rocking horses, sleighs, soldiers, nutcrackers, toy trains and tiny houses.

SNOWFLAKES: These delicate creations are usually made of frosted metal filigree, paper, glass mirrors, and gold and silver foils.

SANTAS: Show off traditional and contemporary versions of St. Nicholas, Kriss Kringle, and Santa and Mrs. Claus, made of wood, felt and stained glass.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS: Decorate your tree with gold and silver hunter's horns, angels' trumpets, drums, flutes, harps and fiddles.

Other themes for collectible ornaments include clowns, carousel horses, cats, lambs, elves, bells, dogs, mice, geese, fruit, barnyard animals, toys, birds, airplanes, penguins, snowmen and reindeer — to name but a few.

'TIS THE SEASON TO SHINE

What are you wearing to the party?

Holiday fashion sizzles, flirts, shouts and makes merry. Children are spiffy in bright reds and plaids. Guys look great in vibrant colors. Ladies shine in silk, taffeta, lace, crepe and satin — in metallics, jewel tones and hues of stained glass.

'Tis the season to dress up as you never have before. Rent a Santa costume, a tux or a formal. Go for the glitz and you can't go wrong.

Elfin fashions

If your children look like they're dressed for Scotland, they're in style.

Little boys may not be killed, but they're wearing piles of plaid: scarves, shirts, sweaters and pants.

As with grown-up gear, holiday fashion for children mixes patterns. Cozy your young man in red, yellow and black plaid pants with striped suspenders, a white shirt and a sporty bandanna scarf.

Or combine a blue striped shirt and dark blue pants with a blue and purple plaid scarf.

Little girls snuggle in oversize sweaters in royal blue, kelly green and red, worn over plaid knee-length (or shorter) full skirts and solid-color tights.

Cabbage roses are this year's grandma-pleasing look for girls. Dresses with soft, delicate floral patterns are nostalgic — and feminine — trimmed with side ties and bows, double ruffles and lace collars.

The holiday hunk

The "worst sin" a party host can commit is "to blend in," says a Mamaroneck, N.Y., wardrobe consultant who adds, "You never want people to go home saying, 'Which one was the host.'"

Suspenders, say Lois Fenton in Success magazine, are "one way a man can look both striking and unique, but respectable at a party."

Try lizard-trimmed suspenders with a woven paisley jacquard print or fire-engine red ones with a white silk shirt.

Other ways to stand out in the crowd? French cuffs with unusual cuff links (platinum or colorful silk knots) or a vibrant silk tie (in lavender or red and royal blue stripes) with your old dependable blue blazer.

After several seasons of black, white and other neutrals, the big news for holiday menswear is color — plum purple, orange, acid green, taxicab yellow, lipstick red and royal blue.

Look for bright bursts of color in accent pieces — sweaters, jacket linings, vests, cardigans, bow ties and cummerbunds. When the mood is formal, go creative with plaid and vivid scarves and ascots.

For a snazzy holiday style, look rich — old rich: like a 10th-century British dandy, complete with waistcoat and frock coat. You'll find that more menswear lines than ever before — including sport-wear companies — are expanding their selections of tailored jackets and blazers.

Important details include velvet, corduroy or suede contrast collars, as in the collar of a Chesterfield coat.

Evening essentials

Even Scarlett O'Hara had to worry over what she was going to wear to the ball. Designer Ann Lawrence suggests these evening "have to haves" for every woman's wardrobe:

— A great little dress. Simple styles such as a chemise or silk crepe dress are versatile and seasonless. Select intense colors such as brilliant red, fuchsia or chartreuse for excitement.

— Dinner suit. This is a sophisticated way to wear a dress and jacket for evening. For a classic tailored feeling, select a gray wool crepe suited dress with a bodice draped in silver metallic for added drama. A more elaborate option is a suit cut from stained glass metallic with black velvet flocking. Both allow for easy nonsense dressing.

— Evening pajamas. Pants are the newest alternatives to dresses. Pajamas cut in black velvet with gold sequins are sleek, sophisticated and comfortable, especially for home entertaining.

— Ball gown. For the utmost in formal dressing — particularly black tie and other gala events — a gown is appropriate.

There are many silhouettes from which to choose — a fitted gown with shirred bodice and sleeves is sleek and seductive; a full gown that has a hand-beaded bodice with voluminous yards of satin also fits any elegant occasion.

□ Evening wrap. A black satin wrap lined in shocking pink or electric yellow trimmed with beaded fringe can be worn traditionally as a stole or draped dramatically around the neck for the more adventuresome.

□ Cocoon coat. This is the new look in furs: a black velvet three-quarter length coat with shirred bodice and sleeves. It's simple, elegant and great to take along on trips.

□ Finishing touches. Polish your look with a beaded handbag, classic jewelry, an uncomplicated hairstyle and simple, yet stylish evening shoes.

Rentals aweigh

The clock is counting down toward New Year's and you're still wondering what to wear. You've been in a zillion shops lately, and you're not thrilled about hitting them again to buy party clothes. So you sort through your closet. Zip. Nada. Zilch.

You have access to a wide range of formalwear — tuxedos if you're a guy, formal if you're a gal — at specialty shops that rent party outfits.

Even if you're an odd size, they can fit you. The best part is you don't have to buy the clothes or store them. You simply rent and return them.

If you have yet to play Santa, this is the year to give the kids a thrill they'll never forget. Costume rental shops will have you ho-ho-ing in style, complete with bear and boots.

To avoid the rush, shop early!

The most important thing you should know about buying kids' holiday gifts is to shop early — ideally after Columbus Day sales but before the Thanksgiving rush.

However, since you're reading this, you're already too late to follow this advice. But even if you're shopping late, the following suggestions may help insure successful and relatively unharried gift-buying and giving.

□ Don't get too caught up in what is advertised on television.

We now are deep in the blitz of television commercials, with a new hunk of overpriced plastic being pushed every 30 seconds. Kids find these ads impossible to resist, screaming, "Come and watch — this is what I really want!"

Those desperate pleas resound through the aisles of our local toy store, but try to keep in mind that your child will forget about the toy as soon as it's not pumped on television any longer, which will be exactly one day after he or she receives it. Try can turn up some wonders the giant stores don't carry.

Especially for last-minute shopping, the small stores offer a level of sanity and service that can be well worth the few extra dollars they sometimes charge.

A 6-year-old girl might be thrilled with an elaborate party dress, a preteen-ager might be thrilled to get a real sewing to discern which TV-touted item your child really wants the most and buy only that one.

□ Shop by mail for young children's toys.

Many items in catalogs are more interesting and less expensive than what you will find in the stores and shopping by mail can be a lifesaver if you have tiny kids. Let your children look through the catalog themselves and put an "X" over the one item per page, say, that they want the most.

This is more fun for kids than strolling through a store, gives them a perspective on what is out there besides the high-visibility television toys and will help you choose gifts they will really like.

Also, a marked catalog can be a good guidebook to pass along to generous grandparents.

□ Scout out-of-the-way stores.

There are many advantages to shopping the big toy discounters, but prowling small neighborhood book and toy shops machine and a toddler may be more interested in the wrapping paper and ribbon than what's inside the box anyway.

Think of things your child can really use and buy versions a notch or two higher in appeal and/or price from what you'd choose in a more practical frame of mind.

□ Surprise them.

Kids can sometimes be so definite about what they want that you may not even look for the unexpected gift. Again, this is probably something not advertised on television but may nonetheless offer far more enjoyment.

□ Don't buy too much.

Maybe it's guilt, maybe it's materialism, but studies show that most working parents buy more toys than their child really wants or needs.

Too many toys can — believe it or not — overwhelm a child on Christmas morning. Curb your desire to overbuy and concentrate on choosing the four or five items that are sure to be big hits.

Videos add to holiday spirits

"White Christmas" (Paramount) — Life doesn't get any more "Christmas-y" than this Irving Berlin classic. Bing Crosby and Danny Kaye are a song-and-dance team who visit a Vermont farmhouse, where they join up with a sister act, played by Rosemary Clooney and Vera-Ellen. Together they team up to save the owner of the farm. Sweet, sappy, full of the Christmas spirit — not to mention immortal songs like "Sisters," "Count Your Blessings," and yup, "White Christmas."

"Dumbo" (Disney) — Disney animation near its peak, plus a story that can melt the heart of any Scrooge. Kids — and parents who are children at heart — can't resist this story of an infant elephant who overcomes ridicule to become a circus star.

"Heidi" (CBS/Fox) — A sugar-sweet, but determined girl is separated from her kindly grandfather. Will they be reunited? Hey, this is a Christmas movie, so you guess — but it's still worth watching. Incidentally, the film "costars" the Swiss Alps in the background and they turn in a breathtaking performance themselves.

"It's A Wonderful Life" (Public Domain) — This is director Frank Capra's sentimental classic. In it, Jimmy Stewart plays a despondent man who's about to kill himself on Christmas Eve. However, before he does the deed, an eccentric angel shows him what life would have been like in his hometown if he had never been born. The message is very life-affirming.

"Miracle On 34th Street" (Playhouse Video) — Is Santa Claus real? Don't answer until you see this venerable old favorite of a yuletide film. In it, Macy's department store hires what it thinks is an actor as Santa, but gets quite a bit more than it had on mind. As in, uh, the real thing.

"A Christmas Story" (MGM/UA) — The scene is the Midwest in the early 1940s, a young boy wants a Daisy air rifle for Christmas, and it's all sweet sentiments from the nation's heartland from there. Based on the short story "In God We Trust, All Others Pay Cash."

"A Christmas Carol" (MGM/UA) — This is the story of 'ol Ebenezer Scrooge, the meanest miser in London. He overworks his humble clerk, whose little son may die. Well, Ebenezer gets a visit from, quite literally, the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future and sees the error of his ways. Based on the timeless Charles Dickens novel.

"The Bishop's Wife" (Embassy) — An all-star cast headed by Cary Grant, David Niven, Loretta Young and Elsa Lanchester team up in this heartwarming story about an author regaining faith his abilities through the help of a "blithe spirit."

"Santa Claus: The Movie" (Media) — The legend of Santa Claus comes to life in this big-budget Hollywood extravaganza. In it, Dudley Moore stars as an elf who teams up with Santa to save Christmas for a dastardly toy tycoon, played by John Lithgow. Good fun.

Let's be honest.

How many times have you purchased a Christmas gift for the man in your life and been influenced by even the slightest ulterior motive? Never, you say?

What about that new drill you bought him last year when some new bathroom cabinets just happened to be needed, hmm? Or how about the cologne you bought the year before because you love the way it smells on him?

This Christmas, take those ulterior motives and lock them in a closet. Have a look at some gift ideas that are for him and him alone.

For work

There are plenty of gifts you can give to enhance a man's work life, everything from clothes to an elaborate desk set.

In the clothes area, take a look at such fine lines as the new Tommy Hilfiger Collection, a group of exclusive designs featuring such rich fabrics as Brazilian wools, smooth-surfaced tweeds and lamb-swool treated for an ultrasoft finish.

Hot items this year for the clothes-conscious male are suspenders, bow ties, tie pins and argyle socks.

Or you can help him tackle the briefcase problem. Handy and necessary though briefcases may be, trying to find a convenient place to leave them open and out of the way can make him want to toss his Samsonite out the window.

Unless he has the original Executive Briefcase Chair. This 16-inch-high chair made of Guatemalan pine is just the right size and height for a briefcase perch and comes with a brass medallion engraved with the owner's name.

Other work-related gifts include travel alarm clocks, calculators that store addresses and convert money or the tiniest of dictation machines.

Is he a handyman or grease monkey every weekend? Give him a gift certificate to your local hardware store, a subscription to Sunset Magazine for great do-it-yourself projects or a new tool chest, complete with shiny car tools.

Surprise him with that power saw or drill he has been wanting. Look for the kind with interchangeable nibs, so they serve more than one function. Quality gloves and gardening tools will be appreciated by your leisure-time horticulturist.

Another thought is to update his current tool set with top-of-the-line tools that he would never buy for himself. Present them in a bright red metal tool chest and he is ready to go.

For play

Ever hear the saying about the only difference between men and boys being the size of their toys? That saying holds more truth these days, what with the tremendous array of gadgets, gizmos, doodads and thingies available for the bored male.

One of the best sources for such "toys" is The Sharper Image. Both a catalog and a chain of retail stores across the country, The Sharper Image is a smorgasbord of high-tech fun stuff. You only have to drive as far as Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall to shop at the store. Many of the items are also available in local home electronic or department stores.

Take, for example, the Casio Digital Horn. This all-in-one combo of six computerized wind instruments — trumpet, clarinet, saxophone, flute, oboe and digital synth-reed — is packaged in an instrument shaped like a saxophone. Of course, you could just give him a Sony Walkman with six of his favorite jazz tapes.

Or how about a golf training device that's self-contained in a golf club? The Power Trainer improves the distance and accuracy of your drive and monitors the critical timing of the golfer's swing release, then "clicks" at swings that connect too late or too early.

Your favorite tennis bum can always use a set of snappy togs? The harrier in your life will run like the wind in a new pair of the hottest new running shoes on the market.

Is he a car buff? Buy him a personalized license plate holder, seat covers or a new compact disc car stereo. Better yet, buy him a radio-controlled race car set.

For something different

If the ideas thus far strike you as a little tame or dull, you might want to consider buying him something out of the ordinary.

For example, does he have the alarm clock? Consider the Off-the-Wall Action Alarm Clock.

This clever device is actually a small digital clock imbedded in different balls — baseballs, basketballs or footballs — and the alarm shuts off when the ball is thrown.

Is he a chocolate lover? Give him a basket filled with truffles, chocolate-covered pretzels, a piggy bank full of chocolate kisses and a month's supply of hot cocoa. Top it off with a mug sporting his favorite comic character, whether it's Snoopy, the Far Side or Roger Rabbit.

Then there's The Revenger, the ultimate answer to less-than-friendly drivers. This little device, which looks like a radar detector, provides offended motorists with a way to vent their rush hour fury. The dashboard-mounted Revenger flashes yellow, red and green lights and emits several different noises such as sonarlike pings and whistles.

There, now. Don't you feel great about putting aside all those ulterior motives?

This Christmas, the man in your life will be thrilled to know that you gift-shopped for him and him alone.

To please your lady ...

You want to get her the very best but do you know what that is?

Just keep one thing in mind — the gift must appeal to her fantasies.

This may sound tricky. But chances are, these fantasies are not so far from the ones you have about her. That's why you care about each other.

To others, she may seem like a no-nonsense career woman. But in your eyes she's more exotic, sensual, more daring, more romantic. Indulge yourself and at the same time indulge her.

Trends are on the side of your pocket-book. When it comes to jewelry, all that glitters need not be real.

Oversize faux gems have never been more popular. Necklaces, bracelets and earrings of walnut size "jewels" may look like a king's ransom. But they're really just plastic built to refract light, priced around $100.

If your favorite lady is not the glitzy type, she'll probably prefer something more sincere. Charm bracelets are timeless and memorable. Charms range from ridiculously inexpensive for silver to costly bejeweled varieties. The average size gold charm, which could be engraved with an endearment, is in the $100 to $200 range.

While you're almost safe with jewelry, beauty products are more tricky. Adornment says she's worth it, but an industrial-strength makeup kit may say she needs it.

Be careful. Don't resort to a bottle of her favorite perfume (unless you'd be happy with a tie). If you feel she would truly love something in her fragrance, go for bath products — soaps, talcs, splashes, etc.

Seek out beauty accessories rather than makeup. One of the nicest things a woman can own is a matching set of sable or lamb's hair cosmetic brushes. Or perhaps she could use a stylish traveling cosmetic case.

Beauty treatments are worth considering, too. Many salons offer gift certificates for massages, facials, manicures, pedicures, hair cuts, reflexology and even nutritional counseling.

Depending on your budget, you may want to give one, two or three of these items, or maybe a whole day in the lap of luxury.

If the lady in question hasn't already had her colors "done," a color analyst can put her in touch with her palette.

For $50 to $200 a professional studies her skin, eye and hair color to determine which colors suit her best. Most women become slaves to their color charts.

Saying it with lingerie is more effective than saying it with roses. Gear up for your foray into a world of slippery fabrics, frills, lace and an embarrassment of unmentionables.

Steer clear of synthetics, cotton and the color white. These are the bland staples of every woman's underwear drawer. You want to make more of a statement so, again, play into her fantasies.

Hang tightly to the silks and satins. Choose the lower plunges of decollete.

Consider more racy colors, heart-stop black or jungle prints. Don't let go of your money before you've gone several steps beyond reason.

If you're looking for something slightly less intimate but no less sensual, head for the linen department. Extra plush monogrammed towels to match her bathroom, satin sheets, an angora throw or guest towels edged with Belgian lace — all are refined with a distinctive feminine appeal.

Even if you've lived together for 20 years, it's difficult to buy clothing for someone else. Without seeing her in it, there's no way of telling what quirk of tailoring will do what to what.

Direct your purchases to accessories instead. Accessories in luxury materials — leather, cashmere, silk, feathers — will be more appreciated even if they're small.

Look into satin evening clutches, lace collars and silk scarves. Department stores are showing suede gloves, either in neutral shades of any of the winter brights — hunter green, persimmon or a deep rich yellow.

It's best to be wary of kitchen accoutrements at Christmas. They smack of servitude. That's the last thing a woman wants to think about after a frenzy of holiday preparations. Don't buy appliances.

But if your demoiselle is truly a dedicated and loving cook, she may delight in receiving exotic ingredients such as walnut or hazelnut oil, extra virgin olive oil spiced with garlic and pimentos, pine nuts, dried tomatoes, balsamic vinegar or a selection of herbed cooking wines.

Does she hanker after adventure? Maybe she needs lessons in hang gliding or skydiving or mountain climbing.

Maybe she hasn't had the means or opportunity to pursue a sport or extracurricular activity.

Hopefully your pre-Christmas espionage has given you a few clues. What does she talk about? Where does her eye rove? You might want to discuss your decision with a close friend of hers. Try not to discuss it with her. The best gift givers have learned the magic of surprise.

Retailers seek green holiday

By Julie Brown
staff writer

Plymouth-Canton merchants are hoping for a green Christmas.

They're not necessarily opposed to the sight of snow come Dec. 25, but they depend on green cash to boost business during the holidays.

"Christmas is a very important season in the year," said Fred Beitner, co-owner of Beitner Jewelry, on Ann Arbor Trail in downtown Plymouth. Business during the holidays is several times what other seasons amount to.

Necklaces, bracelets, rings and other jewelry items are among those things people buy this time of year, Beitner said. People's spending habits vary from year to year, depending on the state of the economy.

"People will spend more when times are good," he said.

His store also sells many gifts for weddings, graduations, anniversaries and other special occasions.

PLANS ARE to expand hours and bring in extra sales staff at his store for the holidays.

Down the street, those at Wayside Gifts are planning a busy holiday season. That home accessory store is at Ann Arbor Trail and Main Street in Plymouth.

Nationally, gift/card shops do 58 percent of their business in the last six weeks of the year, according to Hugh Jarvis, owner of Wayside Gifts.

"We are not actually a normal gift shop. In our particular business, they're looking to give gifts for the home."

Christmas decorations, small lamps and Baldwin brass items are among those that shoppers look for at Wayside Gifts. Candles, candle arrangements and such crystal items as vases and decanters are popular.

"I would say it's going to be a good Christmas."

People tend to spend more on holiday gifts, Jarvis said. Shoppers are in a festive mood this time of year.

Jarvis will increase his store's hours and sales staff from now through Christmas. That's needed to keep up with demand.

Business receives holiday boost

In attracting customers, local merchants must compete with large shopping centers. Jarvis has found that high-quality service and merchandise attract customers.

"Service. Service and a friendly atmosphere."

LOCAL STORES can't compete with large malls on a price level, he said, so it's important to emphasize quality and service.

"They will buy in Plymouth as well as any place else."

Merchants in Plymouth's Old Village are counting on a green Christmas, according to Richard Montgomery, president of the Old Village Association.

Montgomery is a commercial/industrial auctioneer and appraiser; his office is on Mill Street in Old Village. His business isn't particularly seasonal, but he knows how important the holidays are to merchants.

From noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 27, merchants in Old Village will hold their "Village Christmas Walk."

Plans are to have each merchant offer some kind of beverage. The event will include a visit from Santa Claus, festive holiday music and an opportunity to see the Christmas decorations and visit the stores.

"That's our kickoff to our Christmas season," Montgomery said.

Shoppers in Old Village do have to walk outside and get cold; on the other hand, they get to find many unusual items, he said.

"I think it's the ambiance of being in Old Village and in Plymouth even. It's not like you're in a brand-new cement mall."

MONTGOMERY WOULD someday like to see a regular shuttle service between downtown Plymouth and Old Village. Old Village is along Starkweather, Mill and the surrounding streets, about three-fourths of a mile from downtown.

"I think our merchants benefit from having both areas. I know I shop in both areas, and it's not inconvenient for me at all. I think it's very important to tie in those two retail areas as one."

Old Village merchants are looking forward to the "Village Christmas Walk," he said. Residents are excited about the event as well; the Old Village Association includes residents and merchants.

Montgomery plans to do his holiday shopping locally. His wife has certain stores she likes; she's partial to Country Dolls, an Old Village store, and to Maggie and Me, a women's clothing store in downtown Plymouth.

"I always do mine (shopping) in Plymouth, in Old Village and in downtown Plymouth."

Canton merchants are also looking forward to a busy holiday season.

The Canton Chamber of Commerce is planning a special holiday event, scheduled for 9-11 a.m. Friday, Nov. 25, at the Canton Cinema on Ford Road. The "Santa Comes to Canton" event is held the day after Thanksgiving, the traditional kickoff to the holiday shopping season.

WEATHER PERMITTING, Santa Claus will arrive by helicopter in Canton. Children participating will watch a free movie and will receive goodie bags full of items from merchants.

parents will also be featured, according to Joan Bolek, executive director of the Canton Chamber of Commerce. Advance registration is not required, but movie attendance will be limited to 500 children.

More than 600 children participated last year, Bolek said. The event is an ongoing one, sponsored each year by the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

"There was over 1,000 people there last year," she said.

John Schwartz is among Canton businessmen planning a busy holiday season. His business, John Schwartz Greenhouse, is a wholesale one.

Schwartz, who's also treasurer for the Canton Chamber of Commerce, sells merchandise to garden centers and flower shops. He sells houseplants and poinsettias during the holidays.

"When you get into this time of year, they're maybe tired of the look of their house." The holiday season's a busy and lengthy one.

"This is what makes the season so good. We've always looked forward to it here in the greenhouse business."

Development of long-lasting poinsettias has made for changes, he said. It's possible to buy a poinsettia on Dec. 1 and have it last through mid-January and beyond.

SOME PEOPLE in his business even joke that the poinsettias are too good; they last too long, meaning people don't replace them.

Schwartz, who has been in business in Canton since 1946, may bring in a little extra help during the holidays.

"Being a long holiday, you don't get the big rush all at one time." Flower shops will, however, need extra sales staff.

Other Canton merchants Schwartz has talked with are optimistic.

"This is the time when a lot of the places will cover the costs and make that profit. There's a feeling of confidence. I think they are looking forward to Christmas," Schwartz said.

Retail stores and wholesale businesses aren't the only ones dependent on holiday sales; others benefit as well.

"I'm not really dependent on it, but it is a nice bonus," said Russ Webster, owner of the Penniman Deli in downtown Plymouth.

Party trays and catering account for much of Webster's extra business this time of year.

'Love Basket' drive

The fifth annual Salvation Army "Baskets Filled with Love" is under way.

The annual food drive/telethon is sponsored by Omnicom Cable in cooperation with the Plymouth and Canton chambers of commerce.

The "Baskets Filled With Love" Telethon will be broadcast Saturday, Dec. 10, at Omnicom's studio, south of Joy between Haggerty and Lilley.

BUSINESSES, SCHOOLS, churches and service organizations are being asked to participate by posting a "Baskets Filled With Love" poster and collecting canned goods in a "love box."

The poster and boxes are available by contacting the Salvation Army, 453-5464. Volunteers also are needed to help with follow-up calls to more than 1,200 places.

Arrangements can be made to have the food picked up by contacting the Salvation Army, or canned goods/donations can be brought to Omnicom the day of the telethon.

Any merchant, school, service club or church that contributes this year is invited to appear in the telethon to discuss how they collected the goods and to share information about their group.

The telethon is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. on Channel 15.

The Annual Tree Lighting and Caroling Ceremony will take place at 6 p.m. Friday, Nov. 25, at the band shell in Kellogg Park. For the youngsters' delight, Santa will be there to lead the carols and help local officials light the community Christmas tree.

Santa plans local visits

Santa will meet with youngsters in his decorated house in Kellogg Park in downtown Plymouth from 6:30-8 p.m. Friday, Nov. 25.

The house will be open every weekend until Christmas. Times are as follows: 4-8 p.m. Friday; 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday; noon to 5 p.m. Sunday.

As in past years, the Chamber of Commerce will sell photographs with Santa for $3.50 to help cover costs.

The traditional Christmas Walk in Old Village has been set from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday, Nov. 27. Refreshments will be served in shops and carolers will entertain shoppers. The double-decker bus will run at regular intervals between Old Village and downtown until 5 p.m.

Luminaries, contest part of festivities

Luminaries may be bought from the Beautification Committee or at the Recreation Department in the Canton Township Hall, Oct. 1 to Dec. 10. They will also be available at the K mart shopping center from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Dec. 3. Ten units may be bought for $2.50. Kits include white paper bags and candles; sand for anchoring the luminaries is available behind the township hall.

Jan. 6 is day for Latin gifting

The traditional gift-giving day in much of Latin America is Three Kings Day, Jan. 6. In anticipation of a bounty of treats, each child places newly cut grass and a dish of water under his or her bed as nourishment for the Three Kings' camels.

In the morning, if the household's adults have done their part, the grass and water have been replaced with presents.

Safe and Warm... At Last. 139<sup>97</sup>

Now there's a new hi-tech space heater so safe and efficient, it makes others obsolete. Because, unlike others, HEATECH uses a patented, sealed heat system that generates all the warmth you need—with none of the hazards.

■ No dangerous fuels or fumes. ■ No risk of fire—even with small children. ■ No exposed elements or hot surfaces. ■ 3 separate automatic cutoff devices.

Along with its unequalled safety, HEATECH warms much more efficiently than the other leading electric space heaters. ■ It uses 30% less energy. ■ It warms 3 times faster.

With all the added safety and efficiency of HEATECH Space Heaters, can you afford anything less?
