Plan to form new authority proposed

By BOB NEEDHAM

The 35th District Court has developed a plan which would create a formal authority to operate the court building in Plymouth.

A contract which would make the change is now in the hands of local officials for consideration. If approved by all five governments in the court district, control of the building and grounds on Plymouth Road will shift from the City of Plymouth to the new authority.

District Court Judge James Garber said local municipal attorneys have raised some minor problems with the proposed contract, but nothing major.

The court stands on land donated from the City of Plymouth, and was built with bonds sold by the Plymouth Building Authority. Technically, the City of Plymouth now leases the building from its own Building Authority.

"It gets very convoluted. And what we're trying to do is clean it all up," Garber said Monday.

Plymouth does not want to be responsible for the court forever, Garber explained. And with the bonds being repaid, it's getting to be time for a change.

"At some point, the City of Plymouth wants out," Garber said. "At some point, somebody's going to have to own (the court's) building. And that somebody is not going to be the City of Plymouth."

The 35th District Court is unusual for Michigan in that it serves several governments — the cities of Northville and Plymouth, and the townships of Northville, Plymouth and Canton. The five governments have representatives on a court advisory board, which is now an essentially powerless body.

If the governments approve the

Songs of the season

Last Sunday shoppers and passerbys in downtown Northville were treated to a Christmas concert courtesy of the combined talents of the Northville High School choirs and the Meads Mill Chorus. All were under the direction of Mary Kay Price. Above, left, Stacie Salas, 13, and Kristi Rhodes sing along.

Schools back tax capturing

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Singh Development Company's proposed project for the city's Main/Centre corner received the support of the Northville Board of Education Monday, allowing crucial financial backing for construction of a parking deck.

School board members unanimously endorsed a proposal that calls for the city to capture taxes to finance a parking deck for Singh's plan to build a four-story retail/apartment building on the site of the old Northville Lanes.

Trustee Glenna Davis was absent from the Monday night meeting.

"This should not be looked at as setting a precedent for recapturing taxes for other city developments,"

Board President Jean Hansen told Northville City Manager Steve Walters and Mayor Chris Johnson after the board made its decision.

In financing the parking structure, the city proposes the sale of $1,120,000 in bonds to be repaid over a ten-year period. An annual cost of $170,000 would be split between Singh — who would pay $65,000 — and captured taxes at the amount of $105,000.

Because the school district receives the largest portion of the total tax revenue from the city, the bulk of the bond payback would come from school district resources.

According to the proposal, Singh also will spend $196,000 to create and surface 90 parking spaces.

Eight Mile is site of five accidents

Four people were taken to the hospital as a result of five different accidents on a three-mile stretch of Eight Mile Road over the holiday weekend.

Northville city and township police reports showed five accidents on Eight Mile between Center Street and Haggerty Road during the time from Wednesday to Saturday. In one accident Friday evening, three Northville youths were treated and released from the hospital. Another person went to the hospital after a different accident that afternoon.

According to a city police report, a car carrying three people started to cross Eight Mile on Novi Street — without obeying a stop sign — at about 5:40 p.m. Friday. Another car, driving on Eight Mile, ran into the first.

An ambulance took all three people in the first car to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia, where they were treated and released. The driver of that car was ticketed for failing to yield at a stop sign.

The other driver reported no injuries and was not ticketed.

Less than an hour earlier, someone else was hospitalized as the result of a collision at Eight Mile and Center Street.

A Plymouth resident was driving west on Eight Mile and began a left turn onto Center Street, without yielding to Eight Mile traffic, a city police report said. A second vehicle hit the first during the turn.

The driver of the first car went by ambulance to St. Mary Hospital, and was treated and released. Police ticketed that driver for failing to yield the right of way while making a left turn.

The driver of the second car was not injured and not ticketed, the report said.

In the other incidents.

Electrical fire hits floor of VFW Hall

By BOB NEEDHAM

An early-morning fire Tuesday destroyed a good deal of the floor in the Northville Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, but the head of the group hopes it will only be a couple of weeks before they can meet there again.

A passing driver reported the fire at 7:03 a.m. Tuesday, but it had probably already been burning for several hours, Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen said. Fire Department investigation showed the fire probably started electrically, in the basement ceiling.

The floor joists were burned out for a 15 or 20 foot section when the fire fighters arrived. "It had been burning quite a few hours," Allen said. The Fire Department had the flames under control within 15 or 20 minutes of their arrival, he added.

Allen said there was really no way the fire could have been avoided. "It was just one of those things — old wiring and stuff like that — that happens," he said.

Fire fighters, construction workers, and people associated with the VFW cleaned up and repaired all day Tuesday. Although the damage was fairly extensive, the group is insured for its loss.

"Fortunately, it was confined to the basement area," VFW Post 4012 Commander Butch Hubbard said. The group's irreplaceable items — like plaques and trophies — were upstairs and suffered only some smoke damage.

Hubbard said the first guess at the repair cost was $30,000 to $50,000. All the damage should be covered by insurance, though.

The group mostly lost things like tables and chairs — a lot of things which had just been bought in a recent renovation project.

Goodfellow drive

The annual Goodfellows' paper sale will be held this Saturday throughout the Northville area. Goodfellows this year will include Northville Rotary members, members of the Township police and fire departments and the City police and fire departments. Money raised by the Goodfellows will be used by the Northville Civic Concern group and will go toward the traditional Goodfellow goal — "No child without a Christmas". The group is hoping that they will be able to surpass last year's goal as they are a major contributor to the Civic Concern organization.

NEWS BRIEFS

GRANT RENEWED — A grant to help fight auto theft in Western Wayne County has been renewed for another year.

The Western Wayne Auto Theft Task Force got a $322,000 grant for another year's work, City Police Chief Rod Cannon said Monday. All involved departments commit one officer to the program each year.

"It's been a very effective program," Cannon said. "The numbers are good."

A major advantage of the setup is that it eliminates confusion between jurisdictions, Cannon said.

NEW STOP SIGNS — Stop signs are going up on E. Chigwidon at Grasmere for a trial period after a resident asked the city to look into the situation.

A Police Department study concluded that signs might help control traffic at the intersection, a memo from Police Chief Rod Cannon states. The signs will go up for a 90-day trial period after which a final decision will be made.

HANDLE DOWN — After the first month of harness racing at Northville Downs this season, betting figures show a slight decrease in average daily handle over last year.

Average daily handle during October for the Jackson at Northville racing was $460,144. During October of 1987 the average daily handle was $469,664. That's a drop of 6.3 percent.

HONORS FOR GEAKE — State Senator R. Robert Geake (R-Northville Township) received two honors recently, one from his colleagues and one from a statewide runaway group.

Geake will serve as Assistant Senate Majority Floor Leader for the next two years after being elected to the post by state Senate Republicans. It will be his second term in the position. He is also vice chairperson of the Senate Appropriations Committee and the Senate Human Resources and Senior Citizens Committee.

He was also recently named Legislator of the Year by the Michigan Network of Runaway and Youth Services. The award recognized Geake's involvement in programs to help runaway and homeless youth in the state.

HEARING TEST WARNING — The Northville Senior Citizens Center has been notified that several area seniors have received phone calls from a group conducting in-home hearing tests. Karl Peters, seniors director, notes that seniors should check with their own physicians and the Better Business Bureau before purchasing expensive hearing aids. Hearing tests must be conducted under strict conditions, Peters noted, and consumers should be wary of in-home testing programs.

SHOPPING HELP OFFERED — For all those last minute gift shoppers, package wrappers and tree trimmers, the Northville Parks and Recreation Department is offering a chance to help Santa while children are pleasantly occupied elsewhere. The department is offering movies, games, stories and crafts at the Community Center from 6-10 p.m. so that parents can have a few hours of free time during the busy season. Pre-registration is necessary at 303 W. Main Street. Cost is $3 per child.

SANTA HOTLINE — A special hotline from the North Pole to Northville will be available to allow all boys and girls to talk to Santa Claus. Santa will be available to take calls Monday-Friday Dec. 5-23 between 5 and 7 p.m. The hotline number is 348-5557. The line is sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Northville.

Moving ahead

The Northville Historical Society is moving ahead, literally, on their goal of establishing the Cady Inn on a new foundation in the Mill Race Village. Work began Monday on the slow task of moving the historic inn — inch by inch — to its new roost next to the blacksmith shop in the village. Proceeds from the recent Christmas Walk in the village will be used to further the restoration project.

Youth Assistance budget increases

Northville Youth Assistance has presented a 1989 budget which is about $6,000 more than this year's projected spending, but about $1,000 less than was originally budgeted for this year.

The youth assistance budget was approved by the Northville Township Board recently as part of the annual township budget deliberation. The city does not officially vote on its budget until the spring.

Northville Youth Assistance is one of three "shared services" between the township and the city, with each paying part of the budget based in part on total state equalized valuation. The library and the Community Recreation Department are the other shared services.

Total youth assistance spending for 1989 is budgeted at $34,879. Of that amount, $15,031 is from the township budget, $9,489 is from the city, $2,000 from public donations, $400 from interest, and $7,959 from the money

Almost the entire budget goes to salaries for the part-time youth assistance director and office worker.

The director's salary is budgeted to increase from $12 to $14 per hour, but hours per week is budgeted to decrease from 30 to 25. Director's salary as a whole will go from $18,720 budget for this year (but only $15,296 in actual expected spending) to $18,200 budgeted for next year.

Clerical help follows a similar pattern: from a budget of $6 per hour for 30 hours to $7 per hour for 25 hours. That means a drop in the budget from $9,360 to $9,100. Actual expected spending this year is $7,673.

The budget for fringe benefits will go from $2,008 in 1988 (but $1,700 expected actual) to $2,485 next year.

The largest non-salary item in the budget is education and training, unchanged at $1,000. Other costs include utilities, budgeted at $900; equipment and maintenance, $850; and promotion, $604.

When the City Council received the budget recently, council members had little comment, although Jerry Mittman questioned whether a budget with about $7,900 in expenses above revenue (using the fund balance to make up the difference) is realistic.

"What happens the next year?" Mittman asked in further discussion Monday. "They should not assume there's more money coming from us automatically."

Mittman complimented the overall reduction in the youth assistance budget. The eventual spending of all the fund balance was something NYA planned, council member Paul Polino said. NYA does not necessarily expect more funding from the city and township in the future, he added.

Council member John Buckland — a member of the youth assistance board — complimented the organization on its work. After a year and a half of operation, NYA has been referred 70 youths in the Northville community, 29 of which were eventually discharged from the program.

The purpose of the program is to match youths who might benefit from counseling by volunteers. As of Sept. 30, volunteers had put in over 1,500 hours of counseling.

"At first I didn't want to talk about our funerals. But, now I'm glad we did."

We chose Forethought<sup>SM</sup>

funeral planning It's one of those things that's so easy to put off, put out of your mind. And I guess that's what I was doing. But, once he started asking me questions about how I wanted my funeral to be, I realized how important it is for the people we leave behind to know these things. He had no idea that I wanted a simple eulogy, and just that discussion alone started us on all sorts of other topics. I found out he doesn't like organ music. We even had a few laughs.

Forethought is funeral planning... before the need arises

I thought planning our funerals together would be a terribly sad thing. But, actually, it brought us both a great sense of relief. Now we know neither one of us has all those decisions facing us in the future and we won't have to second-guess whether we did the right thing... did what the other one would have wanted. It's all planned and even paid for with the Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought funeral planning. And, there's a policy available to anyone up to age 100. There's a real peace of mind that comes with having it taken care of ahead of time with Forethought.

Northville City firefighters responded to an early morning blaze last Tuesday at the VFW Hall on South Main Street. The basement area of the hall suffered fire damage.

(The building) has been here quite a while. We just put in $50,000 worth of renovations, and then we have something like this happen," Hubbard said.

By Tuesday afternoon, the VFW had already had offers from a couple of other fraternal organizations in town to use their meeting facilities until the VFW gets resettled. The group had not yet decided what they would do, Hubbard said.

However, repair crews were already at work Tuesday afternoon, and Hubbard predicted quick progress.

Police Blotters

Donations theft charged

Juvenile charges are being sought against a boy suspected of stealing from a Salvation Army Christmas kettle, according to a township police report.

A Salvation Army pastor reported watching a 16-year-old and his mother ringing a bell for Salvation Army donations outside the Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty. The pastor saw the mother leave and the son enter the store with the kettle, the report said.

The pastor found the boy in a men's room stall with the kettle, and notified Meijer security. They called in the township police, who found 28 $1 bills in the boy's pocket, the report said.

The pastor suspected the money was taken from the kettle, and the police arrested the boy. A juvenile petition for an embezzlement charge was submitted. The boy was released to his mother.

INDECENT EXPOSURE — A case of indecent exposure in the Meijer parking lot Saturday afternoon was reported to township police.

A man called police and said his wife was followed through the lot by a man who got out of a red car and exposed himself. The man was described as a white male with blond hair, about five feet, five inches and 150 pounds. He was wearing a blue sweatshirt and blue jeans.

The man eventually entered the store, the report said. The incident occurred at about 4:30 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 26.

HAGGERTY ACCIDENT — Failed brakes may have caused an auto accident at Six Mile and Haggerty last Wednesday, according to a township police report.

A resident of Carleton was stopped at a red light on Haggerty at Six Mile when a car driven by a Plymouth resident ran into the rear of the first car. The accident took place at about 4:40 p.m. Nov. 23.

The Plymouth resident told police the brakes in the car suddenly went out. Police issued a ticket for failing to stop at a red light.

CARDS RETURNED — Six credit cards reported stolen in Novi ended up in the pickup truck of a Walled Lake resident who works in Northville, according to a township police report.

An employee of the Meijer store at Eight Mile and Haggerty found the cards in the bed of a pickup truck, and turned them in to Northville Township police, thinking they might have been placed there while the truck was parked at work.

A police check showed that the cards were from a wallet which was reported stolen from the Vic Tanny on Novi Road in Novi, the report said. The owner was notified of the discovery.

Intergovernmental group raises trash plan objections

A draft of a plan for trash disposal in Wayne County could, if approved in its current form, cause some dramatic changes in the way local citizens and local governments handle their waste.

But those communities which would be impacted by the plan are those who must approve it. And officials — both individually and through the multi-government group Conference of Western Wayne — have raised some objections.

The update of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan is currently under consideration by local officials and citizens throughout the county. The county held two public hearings on the plan during November, and local governmental bodies are discussing its implications.

The state Department of Natural Resources requires that all county solid waste plan updates be submitted for approval by Jan. 6.

The overriding theme of the plan is a 75 percent reduction in the amount of residential trash going into landfills, which is where most of the garbage in the county currently goes. Local communities would be required to create their own plans to achieve this. The plan includes enforcement measures, mostly along the lines of not allowing a non-complying community to take trash to a landfill in the county. Communities which host new landfills could be exempted from the reduction goal.

The goal would be accomplished with more reuse and recycling; composting of some waste such as leaves and grass clippings; and incineration. More landfill space is also expected to be necessary.

The Northville City Council discussed the draft of the plan — and specifically, the 75 percent reduction goal — last week. "That obviously means, county-wide, a drastic change in the way we handle garbage," Mayor Chris Johnson said. "It's going to require, literally, the participation of every single household. . . . We've gotten used to a convenience that we can't afford any more."

However, the plan — and its 75 percent reduction requirement — is far from established. In a recent report, the Conference of Western Wayne raised some strong objections to the plan as written. The major focus was on the waste reduction goal, with objections including:

- The application of the goal to residential waste but not commercial and industrial. The report states that although estimates are unsure, residential waste is very probably less than half of all waste generated.

- The report asserts that using the exemption from the reduction requirement as a "carrot" for communities to welcome new landfills will not work. Likely host communities favor more action to reduce landfilled waste, the report states.

- The absence of cost estimates for recycling and composting to achieve the goal.

- "Uncertainties" surrounding the future of incineration. Those listed in the report include possible extra regulations on disposal of incinerator ash, possible new design standards, and possible stricter air quality regulations.

In addition to the problems with the 75 percent reduction goal, the Conference of Western Wayne report raised other objections as well. These included:

- The ways the plan would ensure landfill capacity for the next few years. For example, the report objects that the plan would restrict inter-county transfers of residential waste, but not of industrial or commercial.

- The makeup of the county 16-mentation Committee. CWW says there should be more elected officials on the committee and no one actively involved in the waste disposal business. The original committee by law includes four industry representatives. The report argues that the requirement applied only to the original plan and not to updates.

- The absence of "minimum mitigation elements" in the plan; that is, a set of standards offering cash or other benefits to communities hosting landfills.

For the plan to be implemented, two thirds of the 43 local governments in Wayne County must approve it. If the county does achieve the two-thirds majority, the DNR will impose a plan on the county.

The original county solid waste management plan was approved by 40 of the 43 governments.

Local poster set

By BOB NEEDHAM

Within a few weeks, you should be able to hang Northville on your wall.

A sort of pictorial, poster-sized map of the community is now in the works, and once finished, prints of it will be for sale around town. The proceeds will go to the Northville Jaycees.

The Yankee Doodler Art Company — which will also profit from the venture — is putting the work together now. The company sells space on the poster to local businesses and groups, and then an artist makes a cartoon-like "map" of the community showing the businesses and other local landmarks.

Yankee Doodler will have the poster printed up, and then turn them over to the Jaycees to sell. Each advertiser also gets 10 copies.

"It's going to be really unique," Northville Jaycees member Ron Barnum said. "It's something different than anything I've ever seen before."

The price for the poster has not yet been set, Barnum said. The group is considering framing the posters before they are sold, to make the project more a print than a poster.

Cindy Houtz, who has been combing the community for advertisers lately, had about 50 lined up by the end of last week. The response has been so good, she said, that the planned size of the poster will be increased, up to 27 inches by 38 inches.

"I'm pretty excited about it," she said. In addition to the paid advertisers, the poster will include local spots like the City Hall, post office, Northville High School, the downtown clock, the bandshell, and some ducks crossing Main Street. Businesses as far south as Six Mile Road will be included, she said.

Houtz wants to more or less wrap up sales in about 10 days, after which the artwork starts. That usually takes around four to six weeks, she said. Then the printer will work on the poster for two to five weeks, so the posters should be ready some time early next year, she said.

Advertising on the poster costs about $150 to $300. The company offers different options including having the business itself included; putting the business name on a truck, billboard or balloon; or just about anything else.

Before the sale of posters starts, the Jaycees are acting as intermediaries for the advertising money.

School officials criticize newest tax funding plan

By AMY ROSA

Gov. James Blanchard's new school funding proposal has met with criticism from area school officials, who say the plan won't produce enough revenue nor will it accomplish the goal of more equalized spending per district.

"I don't think the governor's new plan is clear enough at this stage for me to give an enthusiastic response," said Northville Public Schools superintendent Dr. George Bell. "A well-educated electorate will ask a lot of questions about the Governor's plan."

The plan, which was unveiled two weeks ago just as state legislators were to announce their own school finance plan, seeks to raise the state sales tax from 4 cents to 5 cents while cutting property taxes by 25 percent.

The purpose would be to swap $810 million in tax increases for $810 million in tax cuts, but earmark more money to help fund the state's poorer school districts.

"It's the Robin Hood premise," said Dr. Dolly McMaster, Northville schools assistant superintendent. Taking money away from the richer school districts to help fund poorer ones is not a popular idea with those standing to lose the money she said. "It's going to be hard to sell to the state."

The plan would have to gain voter approval — a feat that may not be likely according to officials

"Its (the plan) not all it's cracked up to be," said Novi schools assistant superintendent Dr. William Barr. He said that once people realize that swapping lower property taxes for a higher sales tax does not come out even, they'll think twice about approving the measure.

"Sales tax is no longer deductible on your federal income tax, but property tax is, so we'd be losing out," he continued. "I don't think people in Michigan will vote for a sales tax increase."

Currently both Northville and Novi school districts are considered "out-of-formula" districts, that receive no state aid because they derive so much money from property taxes. Both districts spend an average of about $4,500 per pupil. Some poorer districts often can spend less than $3,000 per student.

Added Barr, "The state hasn't lived up to giving us the percentage of its budget that it promised in the past. If we think the state will reimburse us for our loss of property taxes there is a lot of apprehension about this."

Bell agreed with Barr's comment that a 1 percent sales tax increase would not generate enough revenue for the schools, nor would probably a 2 percent increase, such as legislators have been proposing.

The bottom line, said Bell, is that the state does not put forth its fair share toward education. He said to day the state is spending only 7.4 percent of its budget on education compared to 9 percent in 1982.

"This really isn't a way to improve educational funding, but a way to reduce property taxes," added Bell. "It was an astute political move for the governor who's going to be running for office again."

While Barr concedes that where a child is born shouldn't affect the quality of his education, "it does," he said. The problem, he explained, is that the districts with the money don't want to sacrifice their programs for the benefit of others.

Bell said that although it is also his wish for more equality between state schools, his responsibility is to look out for number one. "I can't see diminishing Northville schools to supplement other districts."

McMaster agreed, saying "We all want equity for God's children — we can't afford not to do that as a nation. But we can't do it at the expense of others, we have to do it in addition to."

Perhaps a proposal that would be acceptable to all school districts would be to "equalize up" instead of "equalize down," said Barr. But that would mean the state would have to contribute more, he added.

"I honestly don't know the solution. It's not fair for a kid in Detroit to not have the same educational opportunities as a kid in Birmingham or Novi," Barr said.

Tree art

Drivers who have passed the curve at the corner of Griswold and Eight Mile roads on the way into Northville, may have noticed a rather unusual sculpture going up. Kenneth Boshell is currently in the middle of creating a totem pole out of a pine tree that had died on the front lawn of the home on the site. Tim Cousineau contracted for the sculpture. The totem pole is 35 feet tall.

Revision to city rule sought

Revised rules for city purchases may soon be enacted by the Northville City Council.

A public hearing is scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 5, on a proposed revision to the city ordinance on purchasing and related matters. The changes are recommended by City Manager Steve Walters.

Under the current rules, any purchase of more than $2,000 must be individually approved by the City Council. Anything above $2,000 requires the city to go out for competitive bids.

The new rules would allow purchases up to $5,000 without specific approval from the council, as long as they fall under a budget appropriation. The buyer for the city would have to get price quotes — but not formal sealed bids — for purchases between $1,000 and $5,000. Purchases above $5,000 would still require advertising for sealed competitive bids. The rules would not apply to a public emergency, hirings, and a few other exemptions.

The new proposal also increases — from $100 to $1,000 — the maximum value of city property which may be sold to the public or traded to a vendor for the best price. Property of any value could be sold if approved unanimously by the City Council or by three-fifths of the voters in an election.

In recent council meetings, Walters has suggested changing the purchasing rules because the current figures are outdated and require specific council approval for routine items.

The council approves all checks written on city accounts in a group at each biweekly council meeting.

Board OKs master plan for locating new utilities

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

In what local officials are calling a response to continued population growth, the Northville Township Board approved adoption of a utility master plan last Wednesday.

The utility master plan, which is similar in character to the existing land use master plan, was put together by township engineers per the recommendation of Township Trustee and Water Commission Chairman Thomas Handyside.

"The utility master plan identifies how we (the board) think the township should be developed and look with respect to water, sanitary sewer and storm drainage lines," Handyside said.

"Ultimately, if development grows as anticipated, we will be able to accomplish similar growth in utility development with the aid of this plan," he added.

Handyside said a major element of the utility plan is that the burden of developing the system will be largely met by developers.

Township Engineer Abe Munfah said an extensive amount of comprehensive study during the past seven months went into compiling the lengthy study.

"In order to provide for the township's present and future utility needs, it is necessary to have such a plan, which will allow for quality and orderly development," Munfah said.

The utility plan itself was broken down into three areas: water, sanitary sewer and storm water drainage. In each area the engineers identified current problems facing the systems and how future projections should be addressed.

"The existing condition and projected needs of each of these utility systems has been incorporated into the development of the Utility Master Plan," reads the summary of the overall plan.

"One of the objectives with the utility plan is to identify present problem areas so we can go about solving them," said Water and Sewer Commissioner William Maguire.

Current problems facing the township utility system include replacing the two-inch water line along Scenic Harbor Drive and Upland Court with an eight-inch pipe.

In addressing each of the utility needs, engineer Phil Loud said he looked at the demographics, land use and population of Northville Township.

"In the water system study, we looked at the entire system as one large network," Loud said. "First, we tried to find any deficiencies in the system and we found four or five situations where we suspect there may be problem. We think with future expansion of the system all of the problems will correct themselves with the exception of the pressure problem of Scenic Harbor Drive."

With respect to the sanitary sewer system, Loud said the utility plan will mainly serve as a guide.

"The utility master plan offers the township a tool to show what the proper layout is and what piping should be used if the area is developed," he said.

According to the plan, developers putting in the sanitary sewer line, in most cases, would be required to install a 12-inch line.

As for current sewer problems, Loud identified a severe infiltration problem in the area of Curtis Road. That was the only pressing sewer problem.

No problems with storm water drainage were noted on the utility master plan.

Munfah said following approval of the utility plan by the township board, the plan will be sent to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) for comments. It will then become an official document.

Planning Commission Chairman

Charles DeLand questioned whether the utility master plan is as defensible in court as the land use master plan.

"I'm curious to see if the utility plan has the same clout as the land use plan, because it should," DeLand said, adding he wondered whether a developer would be forced to put in a 12-inch pipe if it is so noted on the utility plan.

Township Attorney Ernest Essad said the utility master plan is designed to be a guide, like the land use master plan.

"The reason for master plans is that the community has an interest in enforcing what the engineer tells them is in their best interest," Essad said.

He added the utility plan would be enforceable in that the township planning commission would be able to deny site plan approval to a developer who did not propose adequate sewer capacity.

"The planning commission would be able to deny site plan approval based on inadequate sewer lines, because developers are not providing sewer capacity for a single site, but for an entire pipeline that services the whole township," Essad said.

He also said the DNR would deny a sewer permit for developers who proposed inadequate capacity under Public Act 98.

Munfah said once the utility plan is adopted by the board it only becomes a guideline and although it may not be a legal document, he said he has seen it work in other communities.

He noted once the utility plan is on record with the DNR and the Wayne County Health Department, the township will have two additional agencies enforcing the plan.

"A lot of communities now have a utility master plan to help both developers and the community plan ahead for utilities of the future," he said.

Change on Rogers?

By BOB NEEDHAM

A group of Rogers Street residents is fed up with traffic on their street, and they want the city to do something about it — even to the point of making it a dead end.

A petition with 38 signatures — about two-thirds from Rogers — went to the City Council last week. The document asks the city to "close this street to through traffic" and "take immediate action on this problem." The council sent the petition on to the city manager for attention, including police and engineering reports.

An accompanying letter from Richard Mazur, who organized the latest drive, suggests several actions the city might take — including a stop light, a time-delay gate, or closing off the street altogether at its north end, where it intersects Potomac. "An overwhelming majority of the petition signees would support this street blockage into a dead end street if another method cannot be successfully implemented," the letter states.

"I've lived here for 14 years and when I moved in, it was a dead-end street at the top of Rogers," Mazur said. Traffic and speeds both increased when new homes went in at the top of the hill and the street became a cut-through, he said.

Traffic counts taken by Mazur and his wife in their home during two days in November showed 74 and 75 cars per hour in the morning, and 79 and 110 cars per hour in the afternoon.

"To me, that's incredibly high volume for a residential street. I don't think there was ever any intention to make it a thoroughfare, but it's kind of become a thoroughfare by default," Mazur said.

Although speed bumps installed by the city after past complaints probably helped somewhat, they are not the way to go, Mazur said. "At least twice a day I see a car going 50 miles an hour."

He explained that the suggestions listed in the letter are just some possible ideas to make Rogers less attractive as a through route. "The support to reduce the traffic was, I'd have to say, nearly unanimous up and down the street. A few people weren't home," he said. One possibility not mentioned in the letter is a speed limit of 15 miles per hour, he added.

Rogers Street is not mentioned in a recent city-commissioned traffic study, which was based largely on input from city officials and residents.

"My proposal is just to block the street off," Mazur said. "It'd be a small inconvenience to have it blocked off, and a major quieting of the neighborhood."

Wagon Wheel parking lot disagreements are resolved

A several-months-long conflict between the city and the Wagon Wheel Lounge over its parking lot has been settled.

A gravel addition to the Wagon Wheel lot last year started the conflict. The city building official sent letters to the bar saying that the addition had been put in without formal site plan approval, and that parking would not be allowed on that area until the issue was resolved.

As of early this month, it has been.

A paving of the expanded area and restriping of the whole lot has been approved by city officials as a minor site plan, not requiring consideration by the full Planning Commission.

Architect Greg Presley said the new setup solves a drainage problem — some stormwater runoff going onto an abutting property — by sending all runoff into the Middle Rouge River, which runs along the edge of the parking lot.

The commissioners asked that the city building official make a special inspection of the site to make sure the new lot complies with the approved plan.

Commission member David Totten objected to the way the case was handled. He said commissioners had earlier requested to see copies of any site plans handled as "minor."

City Manager Steve Walters said the plan was handled as minor because it was an expansion of an existing use, totalling less than a 10 percent change — which is the guideline in the city Zoning Ordinance.

A minor site plan requires approval from the city manager, planning consultant and Planning Commission chairperson. A regular site plan requires a vote of the full commission.

Schools support tax capture

"Currently the (Main/Centre) property generates very little taxes," Superintendent George Bell told school board members before a vote was taken on the issue. "Without tax recapturing it is quite likely that the development underway will not take place."

Bell explained that the Main/Centre project could result in further development for the city, possibly along the Cady Street corridor and to redevelopment of the Ford plant.

"Normally I would not recommend the recapturing of taxes... however this development could further enhance the school district by leading to development downtown," Bell continued.

Trustee Jay Dunkerley noted that the school board previously conducted policy meetings to discuss the city's proposal. He added his support to the plan, citing the possible benefits the Singh development could have on the city and the school district.

"We do need commercial development," Trustee Carol Rahimi remarked.

When asked how much money the property currently generates to the school district, Walters stood from his seat in the audience and told the board that the property is assessed at about $500,000, generating about $20,000 a year to the school district.

"We've all considered the uniqueness of this plot of land," Hansen said. "If this project does not go ahead, it's possible a fourth developer would propose a smaller project which in the long run would result in generating less money to the school district than we get now." Singh Development is the third developer to propose a project for the site.

Trustee Robert McMahon noted that legally the city was not required to bring the proposal to the school board for approval. The project site is in the Downtown Development District, in which the city may capture new tax revenue for improvements to the area.

"This demonstrates the unique communication between the city council and school board," McMahon said.

Councilman Buckland stated he would like to commend the organization as a board member for a wonderful job. He noted the budget amount for 1989 is less than the budgeted amount for 1988.

Councilman Mittman noted the budget for '89 is less than the '88 budget, however, it is more than the projected '88 actual budget. He asked why the actual budget was down and the proposed budget is up. He noted the '88 budget shows more expenditures than revenues and that the board cannot continue this forever.

Mayor Johnson asked that the phone contacts, staff interviews and number of volunteer hours be explained.

Councilman Buckland noted the program has 70 referred youth, 48 trained volunteers and has displayed commendable openness and confidentiality.

Mayor Johnson indicated the additional answers will be available at Council's next regular meeting.

15. COUNCIL COMMENTS:

Manager Walters recommended the Council adopt a medical waste ordinance. He stated State and Federal bills will supersede local ordinance and it is in the City's interest to have an ordinance in force.

Mayor Johnson asked the proposed ordinance draft be presented to Council for review.

Councilman Mittman asked the status of the vacant lot on South Center. He indicated landscaping has not been provided as requested.

Mayor Johnson stated the new president of the Driving Club has been contacted by mail and requested to meet with the City to resolve the problems.

Mayor Proteem Ayers stated this dialogue has been going on for quite some time and stressed an urgency for resolving the problems.

Councilman Folino asked if the Planning Commission required the Driving Club to pave the lot.

Manager Walters stated the violation is a landscape issue.

Councilman Mittman asked if the City can put the Council and Planning Commission Agendas on the Community Cable Channel a couple days in advance of the meeting.

Mayor Johnson asked the City Clerk's Office to check into placing the agendas on the community channel.

Councilman Folino stated he thought the Plymouth Township Child Care resolution is good. He suggested adopting a resolution similar to Oak Park's resolution supporting the Michigan Liquor Control Act.

Mayor Johnson directed the City Manager to write a letter in support of the bill.

There being no further business to come before the City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting at 9:25 p.m.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

Medical waste hearing set

A proposed city law to regulate disposal of medical waste goes to the public Monday for a formal hearing.

The City Council is considering a new ordinance which would require special care in handling waste from medical facilities, and part of that consideration is the hearing. It is a chance for any member of the public to express an opinion on the proposed ordinance.

The proposal would add two paragraphs to the city "garbage and rubbish" regulations. It would require: "All medical wastes shall be placed within a sealed container or specially designated "red bag" and disposed of in a licensed MDNR (Michigan Department of Natural Resources) Type II landfill or licensed incinerator facility. Containers used for storing medical wastes or contaminated medical wastes shall be kept in a locked enclosure and shall not be placed within unlocked containers, stored outdoors, or placed outside for collection."

Currently, medical waste in the city is treated like the rest of the trash — that is, it goes into a truck and to a landfill.

The new ordinance, in its currently-proposed form, would define "medical waste" as "medical supplies and equipment used in the process of providing medical services or care, whether in a medical facility or in a home or other location, such as but not limited to bedding, syringes, bandages, surgical apparel, medicines and their containers, and various disposable or discarded instruments and other medical supplies and equipment."

Even if the City Council passes the ordinance, the wording might change after the public hearing. At the council meeting Monday, Nov. 21, member Jerry Mittman suggested the word "home" in the definition be clarified to mean nursing home rather than residence.

Mittman also suggested the council discuss whether a city ordinance is necessary in the light of pending state legislation regulating medical waste disposal.

The public hearing is scheduled as part of the regular City Council meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, Dec. 5.

Window winners chosen

It's beginning to look a lot like Christmas around town, and a major reason for the bright holiday look is the work done by the merchants in downtown Northville.

To recognize this, the Northville Chamber of Commerce annually holds a Holiday Window Display contest. The contest judging is held the day of the city's annual downtown Christmas walk. Judges for the 1988 competition were Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Chamber, Sharon De Alexandris, a member of the Arts Commission, and Susan Sommer of the Atchison House — also a member of the Chamber.

Winner of the overall Presidents' Award was Williamsburg Inspirations. They received a plaque for the honor. The Presidents' Award winner is not eligible the following year for the award. Last year's Presidents' Award was won by Edwards Caterer.

Winner in the service category was Edwards Caterer. Second place went to Margo's of Northville, and Holloway's received an honorable mention.

In the general and gifts category a new award for creativity was presented to Genitti's for their unusual igloo display. First place went to Judy's Decorating. Second place went to the Kitchen Witch and third place went to the back window of the Uptown Shops.

In the clothes category, first place went to the Marquis Boutique. Second place went to the ladies section of Freydl's.

New court authority planned

contract to create the new authority, the advisory council would be replaced by — or turned into — the new body, Garber said. "It will give it some legal authority to operate," he added.

The court building would then be in a situation along the lines of the City-County building in Detroit, which serves both the city and Wayne County through a joint authority.

All the money for the operation of the court comes from court revenue. Plymouth contracts for needed maintenance — like grass cutting, snow removal, and the like — and then charges the court. "What we're trying to do, in effect, is cut out the middleman."

The typical Michigan district court serves one city or one county. "Most of the courts in the state do not jump across multiple governmental units. Most are contiguous with a city or a county," Garber said.

And where a court does serve a few cities, like the 34th District Court downriver, one city, like Romulus, usually takes complete charge of court operations.

"We've always done things differently," Garber said. "All five of the communities wanted to play an active role."

In 1980 — when the district court consolidated its Northville, Plymouth and Canton locations into its current home — it was a financial drain on the local governments, Garber said.

Eight Mile sees five accidents

Northville Township police ticketed a Walled Lake resident for drunk driving on Eight Mile at Haggerty Wednesday morning, Nov. 23.

An Ohio resident was stopped at the traffic light at the intersection at about 7:50 a.m. when the Walled Lake man hit the car from behind, according to a police report. After investigation the man was ticketed for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol and for driving on a suspended license.

Neither driver reported any injuries in the accident.

Just after 5 p.m. Wednesday, the Eight Mile / Haggerty intersection was the site of another accident.

A Farmington Hills resident's auto was turning left from Haggerty onto Eight Mile when a car on Eight Mile ran into it, a township police report said. The first driver said the light had turned red for Eight Mile traffic, but the second driver and a witness told police the light was yellow.

The second driver reported minor injuries. The first driver was not injured and was ticketed for failing to yield.

A Birmingham resident was ticketed for improper lane use after a collision at the Eight Mile / Novi Road intersection Saturday afternoon, a city police report said.

The driver was driving in the left turn / through traffic lane on east-bound Eight Mile. The car changed into the right lane, hitting a second vehicle, the report said.

Police ticketed the first driver for improper lane use. Neither driver reported injuries.

County vows to install sign

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Local officials continue to vow that a sign will be placed in front of the Our Lady of Providence Center, despite a recent declaration by Wayne County officials that they will not install one.

"I will get a sign put up in that area," said County Commissioner Susan Heintz (R-Northville). "I made a promise to the township (to have a sign installed) and I will fulfill that promise."

The situation stems from a request by representatives of the Center, which is located at 16115 Beck Road, to the township board to install a 'Caution Handicapped in Area' sign.

During its Sept. 8 meeting, the board rejected the Center's request for installation of the sign based on a possible shift in liability from Wayne County to Northville.

Township Attorney Ernst Essad

said the township's placement of a sign near the school "opens the door for someone to sue them (the township) because they've done something with the road device."

Victoria Holland, assistant engineer of traffic operations for Wayne County, said since students are not walking to and from the school, "the county does not feel an additional sign is needed."

She added the county gave Northville Township permission to install a sign, provided the township assumes liability and maintenance responsibilities for the sign.

Upon rejecting installation of the sign, the township board sent a letter to Heintz asking for her support in getting the county to install a sign.

In response to Heintz's appeal to the county for a sign, Robert Mahoney, director of the Wayne County Department of Public Services, wrote her a letter detailing why the county decided against installing a sign.

"Please be informed that the County has established a policy of not installing 'Caution-Handicapped in Area' signs. The reason for this is twofold," Mahoney said.

"First, we believe that these types of signs are generally ignored by the travelling public. Secondly, we believe that these signs may provide a false sense of security to the handicapped as well as to those persons responsible for administering to the handicapped," he added.

Mahoney concludes the letter by reiterating that the township is free to install a sign. "... the County does allow for Townships to install and maintain signs under a permit."

Heintz said the matter has already been discussed at a public service meeting with other county commissioners and "I will put something in writing and shoot it through."

Rouge plan eyed

The grand plan to clean up the Rouge River is up for comment from individual communities, and the City of Northville has one objection to it.

The Remedial Action Plan (RAP) to clean up the Rouge has gone to the state Water Resources Commission for consideration, and the 48 local governments in the Rouge River basin have been asked to endorse it. At last week's City Council meeting, Northville officials endorsed most of the plan, but agreed on one objection — on a point which could make a $284,000 difference to the city.

The estimated cost to implement the entire RAP — which would extend to the year 2005 and beyond — is currently $300 million. Some of that money is expected from state and federal grants, but a summary of the plan warns local governments that they will collectively pay more than half.

Sewage overflow into the river is the leading source of its pollution. Two large elements of the plan are the remains of the regional "Super Sewer" expansion to Detroit — at $39.1 million — and sewer improvements through the Western Townships Utility Authority (WTUA) — at $38.4 million.

The City of Northville is part of the Super Sewer plan, and its share of the cost — including the main construction and improvements to the local system — is estimated at about $1.3 million. Northville Township is a member of WTUA, and its share of that project is about $6 million. But, under the RAP as drafted, the communities might end up paying more than that. In addition to a simple lack of sewer capacity, a special problem in Rouge pollution is combined sewage overflows (CSO) — which happen when stormwater and sewage use the same sewer line.

None, or very little, of the sewers in the city and the township are believed to be combined lines, so they do not contribute directly to the CSO problem.

The RAP proposes treating the places of CSO discharge into the Rouge system. This would require capital improvements totaling more than $500 million — over half the total RAP implementation cost.

Under the RAP as proposed, all the communities in the basin — including those without CSO problems — would share these costs for CSO treatment. And that is the point to which the city officials object.

Under the plan, Northville would pay $284,000 for CSO improvements, and the township would pay $824,000. These prices are not as large as they would be if the communities did have CSO problems.

After hearing a summary of the situation from City Manager Steve Walters and Mayor Chris Johnson, the City Council last week agreed to support the general RAP, but to express a "reservation" over paying for CSO improvements.

Without taking a formal vote on the plan, the council members informally agreed to direct Walters to support the plan in principle, but to raise the issue of CSO costs.

County board and executive at odds over new budget

There's a budget battle brewing in Wayne County.

Saying it would lead to county debt of up to $16 million, county executive Edward McNamara vowed Thursday to veto all or part of the county's newly approved 1989 operating budget. McNamara also criticized the commissioners for adding what he said was a "slush fund" to the budget.

At the same time, county commission chairman Arthur Carter said McNamara's allegations were false and guaranteed there would be an attempt by commissioners to override any or all vetoes.

(For specifics on budget disputes between the executive and commission, see related story.)

County government could grind to a halt if a budget isn't in place when the county's new fiscal year begins today, Thursday, Dec. 1. Carter, however, said county commissioners would meet today, either to override McNamara's veto or temporarily continue financing county activities until a budget compromise could be reached.

Calling the budget "very irresponsible," McNamara said commission changes would provide a "hidden deficit" of nearly $6 million. Budget alterations would immediately jeopardize heat, water, light and food at the county jail, McNamara said.

Any new county debt, he added, would jeopardize interest-free state loans awarded last December to help bail the county out of previous long-term debt.

New debts would force the county to pay a $10 million interest penalty on the $100 million loan, he said.

"For the first time in years, we've got a budget that's in the black, and we intend to keep it," McNamara said.

County commissioners approved the $254.3 million operating budget Wednesday, after making more than $13.5 million in changes to McNamara's original proposals. That figure is the sum of money shifted between budget area, including additions and deletions. The overall $254.3 million budget figure remains unchanged from McNamara's original proposal.

The major change is $6 million shifted from child care payments to a trust fund to build the new county jail. Commissioners approved the change on a motion from commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford Township.

Commissioners approved the overall budget 9-3. Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, who represents Canton Township, voted against the budget. Manning and commissioners Kay Beard, D-Inkster, who represents Westland and Garden City, voted in favor. Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville Township, was absent. According to Heintz's administrative aide Delores Newell, the commissioner was absent due to a serious illness in her family.

Commissioners Jackie Currie, D-Detroit and David Cavanagh, D-Grosse Pointe, also were absent during Wednesday's vote. Along with Heintz, they become key votes in any veto override battle. Ten votes are needed to override McNamara's veto.

While stopping short of saying he had the votes, Carter expressed confidence any override attempt would be successful.

McNamara need not veto the entire budget. Unlike President Reagan, the county executive possesses a line item veto. That means he could strike down any objectionable budget outlay, without canceling the entire budget.

Under the county charter, McNamara has 10 days after receiving the budget to issue a veto. Ironically, the charter places no time limit on an override vote. By stated policy, however, commissioners have given themselves 30 days for an override attempt.

Disagreements include jail tax and commission spending

Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and county commissioners are at odds over changes commissioners made last week to several areas of the 1989 county budget.

What follows are some of the key areas of disagreement between McNamara and the commission

• JAIL TAX REVENUE: Commissioners took $6 million, most from the county's new 1-mill jail tax, and used it to create a new jail fund.

Roughly two-thirds of that amount, $4.2 million, had been budgeted by McNamara for child care payments — creating an 11-percent cut in the child care budget.

At this time, commissioners haven't allocated that money to any specific jail projects.

McNamara argues this money instead will go toward a $9 million "slush fund" commissioners intend to spend at will. Commission chairman Arthur Carter, D-Detroit, said there isn't any slush fund in the budget.

Deputy county executive Michael Duggan, however, said the money was to go for state incarceration of the county's most dangerous young offenders — and that commissioners knew that as far back as last summer, when the jail tax was initially proposed.

Rezoning sought

A second — and last — agreement between Schoolcraft College and a developer might bring the college closer to building a student services building on the Haggerty Road campus.

The agreement between Schoolcraft and Indiana-based Phillip R. Duke & Associates to build three office buildings near Six Mile and Haggerty is contingent upon two rezonings now before the city planning commission.

The rezonings, from public lands to high-rise professional office up to 12-stories high, were discussed during a Livonia city planning commission meeting last night.

If the city OK's rezoning the 38 acres now owned by the college, Schoolcraft would enter into virtually the same agreement it did in 1987 with the developer, only this time the office development would be on the south end of the campus instead of the north.

Under the proposed agreement, Duke would build and operate three office buildings on the campus' south end under a 70-year sublease with the Schoolcraft Development Authority.

Duke, in turn, would pay up to $250,000 annually into the college's accounts for the use of the new complex. The college, in turn, would combine this income with state money and a bond sale to build a student services building along Haggerty Road. "That's the plan and dream but until we have the agreement we can't do anything," said Schoolcraft president Richard McDowell.

Adelard Raby, the school's vice president for business services, said the college got $100,000 in 1988 from Duke for one office building now open at Seven Mile and Haggerty. When a second office building is built and leased, the college could get up to $250,000 from both buildings.

Ruby estimated another $250,000 could eventually be received from Duke for the three buildings in the southern complex, bringing the total income from the two complexes to $500,000 by the mid-1990s.

If built, Duke's southern venture would be the last land lease agreement for Schoolcraft.

"We have no more property to develop," McDowell said. "All the property we have left is included in our long-range plans."

The college's Newman House sits on one of the two parcels the developer is seeking to have rezoned. The parcels extend from Haggerty to the I-275 freeway north of Six Mile.

McDowell said the religious meeting facility would be rebuilt at another spot on the campus.

City planner John Nagy said a four-story office building would be built on one piece of land, if it is rezoned from one-family residence and public lands to professional office.

Questions arise over changes made to county's 1989 budget

Commissioner Richard Manning, D-Redford Township, who proposed the shift, said there were questions of whether the jail tax money could be earmarked for the child care programs specified by the executive.

McNamara said cutting the child care payments would add $4.2 million in new county debt.

Commissioners, however, said the state may have to increase its share of child care payments if a challenge to state spending under Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment provisions is successful.

• SPENDING AND HIRING FREEZES: The commission removed McNamara's ability to impound county funds through wording contained in the appropriations ordinance that formally enacts the budget.

The move effectively prevents McNamara from stopping county spending — at least without commission consent.

Though wording that would have also prevented McNamara from freezing hiring was taken out of the appropriations ordinance, the executive nonetheless argues the county could plunge back into debt without that emergency power.

Commission leaders, however, argue that the power properly belongs to the commission.

• SHERIFF'S DEPARTMENT SPENDING: Commissioners boosted the secondary road patrol, financing 22 positions, opposed to McNamara's recommended five.

In a complicated series of moves, they also cut the jail overtime budget in half, adding that $500,000 to the park patrol budget. The secondary road patrol provides back-up patrols in Ecorse, Hamtramck, Highland Park, Inkster and River Rouge.

Commissioners also canceled permanent transfer of 25 deputies from county courts to jail duties. That move, advocated by the executive, would have violated the deputy's contract, according to deputies' union chief Don Cox.

McNamara said cutting jail overtime would add at least $500,000 to county debt.

The major difference between the commission and McNamara appears to center on elimination of a county criminal justice director. The proposed director would have authority over jail operations. The post has been the focus of controversy between the executive and sheriff.

• COUNTY COMMISSION SPENDING: McNamara has said the commission has a secret agenda to boost its own staff. Carter said that allegation was untrue, and that the $310,000 commission increase will primarily go toward wages and benefits for commission staff members allowed to join with unionized county employees under a recent Michigan Employee Relation Commissions ruling.

A dental program for low-income county residents was restored and more money was added for drug enforcement through other, less controversial changes to the county budget.

The dental program primarily benefits children of low-income families, though low-income mothers-to-be can also receive services.

It provides routine dental care, including checkups and fillings. An estimated 7,000 people, most of them western Wayne and downriver residents, use the program.

County Executive Edward McNamara originally proposed eliminating the program. He later altered his request, saying up to $600,000 in county reserves could be used to keep the program going.

Our Opinions

Fix the problems in the county trash plan

Wayne County Executive Ed McNamara's goal to reduce the amount of residential trash going into landfills by 75 percent is an admirable one. In fact, you might think it would be hard to find any fault at all with it. But the Conference of Western Wayne has found faults — several of them — and they're right on the money.

Government

The proposed update of the county Solid Waste Management Plan is an ambitious document. The most ambitious part is the waste reduction goal, which — when combined with recycling, composting and other efforts — is a big step in the right direction. The county must, by logic and by law, do something about the trash disposal problem. Reducing the need for landfills is the way to go.

But there are some curious problems with the proposed update, and a document developed by the CWW clearly points them out. Foremost among the problems is the plan's strange silence on reducing landfill use by commercial and industrial entities. If this plan is going to work at all, the rules have to apply to everyone, especially since residential trash is less than half of everything that's thrown out.

The CWW report points out other problems, several of which are serious and all of which at least deserve attention. The report fully explains and documents each objection it raises.

In fact, a comparison between the county proposal and the CWW objections to it leaves the reader with the uneasy feeling that the CWW took a lot more care developing its opinion than the county did writing the update. We join the conference in asking the implementation committee to resolve these issues quickly, so the business of solving the trash crisis may begin in earnest.

Ordinance a good idea

Like most other people, we were a little concerned earlier this year when medical waste started washing up on beaches in Michigan and around the country. Obviously, a long-term solution to this problem is going to require attention on the state and federal levels. But local action can't hurt, and the City of Northville has the chance to beat everyone else to the punch.

Monday night, the City Council is holding a public hearing on a medical waste ordinance which would, simply, require proper disposal of any medical waste in the city. That isn't to say there is presently a problem with disposal, but it would be nice to have a legal, local recourse if a problem ever developed.

As proposed, the ordinance needs at least one clarification — on whether it would apply to private residences — which the council has already mentioned. After that adjustment, we hope to see quick approval of the ordinance. While other levels of government continue their debate, at least the city will have done what it could.

The $20,000 ZIP code

People who live in Novi Township are upset about a recent change by the U.S. Postal Service taking them out of the Northville 48167 ZIP code and putting them in the Novi 48050 ZIP code. Clearly this is an identity crisis situation.

The Novi Township residents are upset for a number of reasons. First there is the emotional side. They no longer feel connected with Northville. The tiny Township is located just off the corner of Nine Mile Road and Novi Road. It encompasses the Brookland Farms subdivision. Residents' children attend Northville schools, they use Northville recreation facilities and attend other Northville institutions. Now they have been stripped of their Northville mailing address and it burns them up.

We have felt for a very long time that Northville is a great place to live. But we have never been able to quantify exactly how much nicer it is to live in Northville than in other neighboring communities. The Novi Township residents have clarified that point. A spokesman for the township said that research had shown that a similar house in Novi (48050 ZIP code) sells for up to $20,000 less than in Northville. This amazes us.

That seems like an inordinate amount of money to lose just because your mail is delivered from the Novi Post Office instead of the Northville Post Office. While we agree that Northville has amenities that make living here, and the price of its housing, valuable — why should the difference of a few feet on one side of Nine Mile cost $20,000?

That question puzzles us, but so does the identity problem of Novi Township. Northville Township appears to be content with its Northville ZIP code, but perhaps that's because they haven't shopped around to find a ZIP that pays better. If Novi Township does not want a Novi ZIP code, and Novi does not want it to have a Northville ZIP code, what about a third possibility. A ZIP code all their own — for Novi Township.

Defying logic

By Phil Ginotti

Yikes!

That was my reaction when I heard that Northville Township seems to think radon gas test kits are on about the same level as hammers, squirt guns, and Christmas trees.

If you live in the township you should be angry. You should know that your township board voted a couple of weeks back to not sell radon testing units out of township hall. Why? Because they don't want to go into competition with local merchants, who are offering the kits in stores.

Northville City officials don't appear to be losing any sleep over this either. They haven't discussed radon at all — at least publicly.

This is very sad.

They (Richard Henningsen, James Nowka, Georgina Goss, and Dick Allen) ought to be ashamed of themselves. Especially, Henningsen, who said the township doesn't have "the time" to sell the kits. These four voted against selling them in town hall, and they won out by a 4-3 vote.

It makes me truly believe that a few short miles can sometimes be a cavernous divide — between one community that is aggressive in representing its residents and another that is all too willing to let the status quo rule, with a yawn.

Let's talk about what the City of Novi is doing — that community to the north of you. They began selling kits in city hall the day after high test results were announced in September. They sold 100 the first day. They're selling them at cost ($13).

They held a seminar for residents this week on the risks, how to test, and how not to get bilked by contractors who are selling sometimes overpriced repair services. They called in an expert from the county. The presentation was videotaped and will be played on cable at a later date.

The city is training a building inspector in radon reduction techniques and that inspector is currently on the lookout for any contractor attempting to "rip off" Novi residents, among his other duties. They have sent out a number of informational releases to local media, telling residents what to do. They are getting copies of all radon test results done in the city and identifying high risk areas.

Okay, so the township doesn't have the resources — the manpower — to do all of that. But how much does it take for a clerk to get up from her desk and sell a radon kit over the counter?

And what really bugs me about this whole thing is that Northville officials will now have to track down results from a number of different testing labs, if they want to. Had one company — or even the American Lung Association — been responsible for making the kits available through town hall, the township could have had most of the results right in hand within a few weeks.

Sorry, but it defies logic. Plain and simple.

Pay the piper

It was not suave. And I started feeling guilty about it afterwards. After all, my friend and his new bride — or at least her parents — had shelled out big bucks to invite us to the big occasion. And I had been rude by splitting when the weather turned rotten.

Was my friend angry with me? Would he ever talk to me again? My personal guilt trip festered as weeks and months passed without a thank-you note for the rather nice wedding present I had bought. That's when the turkey defense occurred to me.

"What's the problem, Bunkie?" I would say. "You never been a turkey before? Maybe you shudda invited Emily Post to your reception."

Brilliant, right? And I knew he would immediately recognize the validity of the argument.

The only bad part about the turkey defense in this particular case is that the guy never did send me a thank-you note for that sterling silver wedding present. What makes it even worse is that I can't really say anything about it, either.

If I did, he'd probably just look me in the eye and say, "What? You never been a turkey, Bunkie?"

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

I call it the "turkey" defense. And I'm convinced it has a great deal of merit. It might even have a basis in the U.S. Constitution.

I developed the turkey defense after being something less than suave at a wedding I attended some time ago. The wedding was fine, but I erred at the reception. What happened is that a sudden wind and rain storm washed out what had originally been planned as a lovely little outdoor buffet.

While others were scurrying to continue the reception inside, I grabbed mi esposa by the hand and suggested that we go somewhere for a cozy little dinner for two instead. And we did.

Support recreation department

To the Editor:
It is disturbing to see that a few individuals attempting to satisfy their own personal interests and goals were able to "sabotage" the recreation millage issue with their tactics. The recreation millage increase was defeated in the city, although it was approved in the township. This is probably due to the help of the much criticized township newsletter. The newsletter provided many of us with the facts in order to decide on how to vote. Our officials are elected to help carry out our wishes as members of the community and their advice is appreciated and needed to keep us informed.

Recreational activities are important to the well being and development of our children. It is unfortunate that a political interest group has not looked beyond their personal ambitions. Who will pay for the expenses of rerunning the new election and the lost time? Does this interest group respect the time of the volunteers that provide for a good recreation program? The Northville recreation department is doing a fine job in supporting the interests of our community. Let's support them so we can have the facilities that our children deserve.

J Alfred Quayle

To the Editor:
I cannot avoid giving vent to a final expression of my unquenchable disappointment over president-elect Bush's selection of pretty-boy Quayle as his running mate.

In re-reading T.S. Eliot's "The Love Song of J. Alfred Prufrock", the other day, a passage leaped out that, in my opinion, could well be mouthed by Dan Quayle; it goes like this:

No! I am not Prince Hamlet, nor was meant to be. Am an attendant lord, one that will do to swell a progress, start a scene or two, advise the prince; no doubt, an easy tool,
deferential, glad to be of use,
politic, cautious, and meticulous; full of high sense, but a bit obtuse; at times, indeed, almost ridiculous — almost, at times, the Fool.

Raffle a success

To the Editor:
On November 15, 1988, the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce was able to donate $1,000 to the Save the Well Fund. This money was raised by selling $1 raffle tickets throughout the community, with all proceeds going to the well. We commend the generosity of American Speedy Printing of Northville, the Alchison House, Davis Auto Care and MacKinnons for making this fund raising event a great success.

Method can help in solving problems

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

Many of us have not been formally trained to solve problems. We have developed our own special methods to solve problems. Some of the methods that we use work better than others. Most of us believe that compromise is the best way to solve problems. However, when a compromise is made between two people, one person has to give something up in order to get something in return. When this happens neither person may feel good about the outcome.

As an alternative to recommending compromise, we can help our youngsters learn to deal effectively with their problems by teaching them the following technique. With this problem-solving method, everyone walks away feeling like a winner. It takes more time than other methods, but it is usually well worth the time and effort.

1. DEFINE the goal — decide what needs to be accomplished.

2. BRAINSTORM — Discuss the rules of brainstorming; all ideas are acceptable, judgements are reserved and withheld, and the youth should be the one with the first suggestion, even if it takes awhile. It is a good practice to write down all brainstorm ideas in order to organize thoughts and lend credibility to the ideas.

3. SELECT — This process involves discussing the consequences and desirability of alternative actions and selecting a solution that will be implemented.

4. PLAN — Deciding who will do what, when and where to implement the solution.

The plan must be specific and it must involve the parents as well as the youth.

5. IMPLEMENT — Put the plan into action.

6. EVALUATE — Come together after a set time frame and decide if the plan is working, if everyone is satisfied with it and if any changes should be made. If the plan is not working, it may mean that the goal needs to be changed and the entire process worked through again.

The families that have tried this problem-solving technique have expressed to me their families' success in solving every day problems such as curfew, bedtime, division of chores, homework schedules, etc.

If you try this method in your family and you run into a roadblock, call NYA at 349-1618 for additional help.

Family feud

By Brenda Dooley

Christmas is a special time of heartfelt merriment, giving and togetherness.

Until you tell one of your families that you won't be spending the holiday with them. I know this to be true because unfortunately my side of the family is the unhappy party.

Hubby Kevin and I began to eagerly look forward to spending our first Christmas together months ago. Until the dreaded question popped up.

"Where are we going to spend Christmas?" I asked while the image of trekking to Grand Rapids for the holiday flickered into my mind. The highway would be lightly dusted with snow and we'd be sitting all warm and toasty inside the car singing "Have a Merry Little Christmas" and munching on crunchy candy canes all the way there. The back seat would be piled with colorfully wrapped gifts decorated with red and green bows and ribbons. And for once I wouldn't mind the 2½ hour drive to the Bonzheimer homestead.

Kevin looked at me with skepticism as if there wasn't, really, any question at all.

"I thought we were going to my mom's house," he said, wiping that merry little image out of my head.

Of course the pout came next. It didn't work.

"Honey, we agreed," he reminded me. And he was right.

As compromising newlyweds we had agreed that we'd alternate Thanksgiving and Christmases between our families. Thanksgiving had been spent in Grand Rapids this year — next year we'll go to Mom Dooley's house. It sounded like a logical, workable system. Until spending Christmas away from my family for the first time in my life neared reality.

"But..." I started. He gave me that look of utter husbandly exasperation. "OK, you're right."

Images of spending Christmas with my new family replaced the previous illusions. It would be fun establishing new traditions with my new family members — sitting around the fireplace at the Dooley homestead, swapping stories and exchanging gifts. After all, I can munch candy canes just as easily there. My spirits rose and I looked forward to Christmas again. Until the dreaded question resurfaced.

This time it came from my mom.

"What are you guys doing for Christmas?" she asked after an enormous Thanksgiving dinner.

"We're going to Kevin's mom's house," I said. There was silence.

"Well you're coming here, too, AREN'T YOU?"

"Mom, it's kind of a long drive... the weather will probably be bad." Suddenly I felt like a guilty six-year-old caught in a terrible lie. She was giving me that infamous look and I shifted in my chair uncomfortably.

"We'll talk about it later," I mumbled. End of discussion. What a coward I had been.

I'm sure the conversation will arise again and I'm hoping it'll be easier to argue my case long distance. People tell me to stand my ground because the first year is the hardest. It's probably true.

"Just think, dear, when we get our own house we'll be able to have both families over for the holidays," Kevin said.

That will be the merriest Christmas of all.

Designing woman Green Oak woman specializes

By MADELEINE GRAHAM

Designing custom curtains, draperies and accessories to highlight your home are just a few of the specialties of Lynn Gentner, designer and seamstress who owns and operates L'Interiors in Green Oak Township.

Her flair for the right touch has enabled her to run a successful sewing business out of her home, just west of the City of South Lyon, for the past 2½ years.

"I've learned the basic sewing techniques from my mother, and I've just expanded from there," said Gentner, who also works as a radiation therapy technologist with cancer patients at St. Joseph Hospital in Flint.

The change of pace from technologist to decorator provides a soothing transition in Gentner's life.

"I do not boast that I'm a professional decorator. I think I have the knack. I love to see other people's houses warm and charming for their guests," she said.

Her interest in decorating began in high school when she worked in a furniture store in Livonia. By her own account, Gentner said she's always enjoyed "seeing things in their place."

Plain walls and drab rooms offer a challenge to Gentner's imagination. Her portfolio consists of completed work on both residential homes as well as commercial businesses. Gentner's skill for decorating homes ranges from country and traditional to contemporary.

"If a customer has an idea, I'm willing to go with that idea. If they're not really sure what they would like, then I offer suggestions," explained Gentner.

A fresh, open appeal to a living room may be maintained by a simple lace curtain which allows the sunlight to permeate. Pillows displaying colors in the room are added to provide a delicate effect.

"A print they (customers) never imagined can often go with existing furniture. You can mix and match prints more than people think," said Gentner.

A kitchen shutter may be enhanced by a neatly tucked curtain which gathers fashionably to the frame. A careful selection of stenciling is used to provide a subtle decoration.

Gentner points out that bathroom cabinet spaces which are open may be aesthetically enhanced by draping a curtain across the front.

Bedroom decor offers a delightful incentive for Gentner. She enjoys designing quilts and adding a gentle ruffle. Pillows are once again a desired favorite.

Gentner emphasizes that she enjoys her work and functions well under the pressure of time constraints. The Green Oak decorator emphasizes her prices are reasonable and that she is happy to provide free cost estimates to customers before any project is undertaken.

Price fluctuations are due to the many varieties of fabrics, and the amount of materials required, Gentner said. "I can assure you that my prices compete very well with those in the field."

Business Briefs

ROBERT B. FAIR JR. of Northville has been elected chairman of the Metropolitan Detroit Advisory Board of the Salvation Army. Fair served as administrator of finance and personnel for industry-government relations for General Motors up to the time of his retirement earlier this year.

The Salvation Army continues to serve people in need living in the Detroit metropolitan area through multi-faceted programs such as emergency lodging for families; shelter for the homeless; feeding programs for the homeless and low income residents; residence and education for unwed mothers; summer camp for the visually handicapped, senior citizens and others; disaster relief services; and one of the most successful substance abuse treatment programs in Michigan.

REAL ESTATE ONE has announced the affiliation of Stan Johnston with its office at 1045 Novi Road.

Johnston has been active in the area as a school teacher, Northville School Board member and Northville City Council member as well as a real estate since 1967.

He is a Northville resident who lives with his wife in Kings Mill.

RONALD G. NADER of Northville was honored at the International Film and Television Festival in New York. A Channel 7 Production Editor, Nader won the Bronze Award for editing the hour-long documentary on teenage pregnancy titled "My Baby Is Pregnant."

Nader also was recognized by the Festival for his work editing a 30-second public service announcement for the Afro-American Museum of History.

Since joining Channel 7 in 1971 as film editor, Nader has worked in a variety of positions in that area advancing him to production editor.

A native of Detroit, Nader and his wife Noreen reside in Northville with their daughter.

She strives for 'homey' interiors

Word of mouth is how Gentner builds her clientele, which she said includes residents in Novi, Northville, South Lyon and Milford.

"The common denominator (among customers) is that they're ready for a change. They feel they can't get it done by themselves."

Depending on the amount of work requested, the time for completing projects fluctuates. Gentner tells the customer up front the amount of time she believes will be involved and holds herself to that deadline. Bedroom drapes, for example, take her two weeks to complete.

"Business has been steady. I constantly have two jobs going at the same time. A big job may take me a month or two, and a small job a few weeks."

A carpenter's daughter, Gentner also does the installation work for the business whatever way they want it done. I want to see a satisfied customer," she said.

Gentner uses professional equipment to handle her projects. A serger sewing machine and two standard sewing machines are used to correctly do the job.

A press iron is used when installing curtains. Gentner provides curtain rods. She also reported that over half of her customers request accessory items.

Gentner added that many customers prefer that she just remake an item, such as cushion covers. She stresses, however, that she does not do upholstery work. Alteration of existing curtains is provided.

Double Dare, based on the TV show, is now available in box game form

New toys invade stores, wish lists

Retailers ready with new fad toys

Stories by Sharon Rose

All around the world, children are making lists, and checking them twice. Maybe three or four times for revisions, corrections and additions. After all, Santa Claus is coming to town.

Meanwhile, up at the North Pole, Santa's hoping he accurately analyzed his marketing research back in June. He doesn't want to run out of computer chips. Cabbage Patch Kids, cars or trucks.

Some things never change. Baby dolls, bikes and toy trains are always in style. But take it from Santa, a few things do change. Every holiday season his busy little elves surprise him with something new and special. This year is no exception.

Even Santa was skeptical when the elves showed him prototypes of Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. But the kids think the sewer dwelling "heroes in a half shell" are cool, and they're harmless enough, taking up the age-old fight of good vs. evil with gags and sarcasm as weapons. The creepy creatures by Playmates are based on a cartoon show by the same name.

Fisher Price's colorful Pocket

Rockers are nifty little mini tape players that play tiny two-song cassettes continuously. The tapes include popular songs by the original artists and accessories include down-sized amplifier, speakers, tape storage cases, jewelry and earphones.

Matchbox's Talking Pee Wee Herman is nattily dressed in his usual gray suit and red bow tie, but if you pull the ring in his back, he'll surprise you with six of his favorite expressions, such as, "I know you are but what am I?" Good question.

Pressman's Double Dare game is based on the Nickelodeon TV game show and comes complete with questions and answers, timer, physical challenges, stunt helmet and a promise to be "all the fun without the mess." If you've ever watched the show, you'll understand why this is so important. Sliding into a swimming pool filled with ice cream and chocolate sauce is nothing you'd want your kids to try in the living room.

Small fry will have fun with Fisher Price's Magic Scan Checkout Counter. Just like at the grocery store, the toy comes with a moving conveyor belt, a scanner that beeps and flashes and a cash register with an advancing receipt.

Now all you need is an enormous total and a fainting housewife for total realism. Play food sold separately, of course.

Bedtime's made easier with Kidster's Mother Goose Talking Lamp. This goose-necked "what else?" lamp is disguised as a lovable, book-toting Mother Goose and hides a cassette player which plays an hour-long tape of lullabies and bedtime stories. When the tape ends, the lamp gradually dims and turns itself off.

Magnadoodle by Ideal is a magnetic drawing board with a special pen, drawing discs and sliding eraser. Kids can use this versatile toy to draw, play games or write memos.

The electronics and toy industries successfully merged with exciting results for youngsters. Parker Brothers, Tudor, Video Technology and Tiger Electronics are a few of the companies marketing Electronic Baseball games with a variety of prices and features. Families can also have fun with electronic football, game shows such as "Wheel of Fortune" and a multitude of educational toys which make light of math, spelling and language arts.

Similarly, some junior computers

Delores Jacob of Southfield, talks to Games by James salesperson Gretchen Essenmacher who leans on the game Outburst aimed at preschool and lower elementary students can be hooked up with video cassette recorders to turn the home television into a learning tool. Socrates, by Video Technology, is an educational video system aimed at the five to ten age group which includes games in math, language, music and art.

Lots of hits from the past are available and updated for another season. Children can not only adopt Coleco's Cabbage Patch Kids, but Cabbage Patch Preemies, Babies, Toddlers, Talking Kids and Splashin' Kids to join them in the tub, and Kids with Growing Hair for last minute style changes. Not to be outdone, Teddy Ruxpin that story-telling bear, is joined by a smaller sized Baby Teddy Ruxpin from Worlds of Wonder.

Barbie that glamorous blonde survivor (from Mattel) has three new singing sidekicks, Belinda, Becky and Bopsy, also known as The Sensations. If you buy this sensational version of Barbie, a tape of the group's songs is included. There's also a Christmas style Barbie all dolled up for the holidays in a crimson ball gown and bouffant hairstyle.

Kenner has introduced Haunted Humans to its Ghost Buster line and Hasbro has added a Night Striker vehicle to its GI Joe arsenal. Sports fans no longer need to be content with old-fashioned trading cards. Kenner's Starting Lineup is a series of poseable athletic figures, based on actual superstar players. No word yet on whether Kirk Gibson is available in a Tiger or Dodger uniform.

Nintendo Entertainment Systems are still hot. The games to look for this season are Super Mario Brothers II and Zelda II (also called The Adventures of Link). Sega Master Systems and Atari 2600, a down-sized and priced junior video Games by James store manager King Coats tries his hand at Ta-Ka-Radi, the original wood game

Santa's ready for grown-ups with plenty of toys for them

Plenty of grown-up kids are making holiday wish lists, too. And Santa'selves are ready with toys, games and gadgets that would tickle the fancy of Scrooge himself.

The shelves of Games by James at Twelve Oaks Mall are loaded with games and puzzles aimed at both little and big kids. Store manager King Coats recommends several seasonal winners.

Balderdash, by the Games Gang, is a board game of bluffing. The object is to create outrageous but believable definitions for selected esoteric words. A sample word card contained 1. lamulus, 2. keelvine and 3. yarbrough. Actual definitions: 1. magician's helper, 2. lead pencil, 3. "bust" hand in bridge. "Laugh, Learn and Lie."

"How to Host a Murder" by Intuitive Marketing is back with all new crimes. Billed as a combination sleuthing game and party, the set comes complete with a host guide, invitations, optional dinner menu and costume guide, cassette tape with details of the murder and clue manuals. Everyone plays a part and has a motive.

"Jitters," by Milton Bradley, is a card and letter dice game with a timer. Players have 90 seconds to create words that match a crossword-style pattern on selected cards. Coats said this was a big hit at his party.

"Outburst" by Hersch & Company is a fast-paced team game of categories played something like the TV game show, "Family Feud." A topic is selected and even though there may be many possible answers, only 10 are correct. This is unfair, the manufacturer admits, but "You no makka the game, you no makka the rules." The game is played with a timer and group brainstorming is encouraged, adding to the general noise and hilarity.

Quickwit, by Petermark, is a challenging question and answer game of wits with categories that involve logic, visual perception, vocabulary and general knowledge. Our favorites were the Eye'll be the Judge category in which players saw a magnified partial picture and had to guess what it was.

Tony Randall's Word Quest, Second Edition, is a board game of multiple-choice definitions with three levels of difficulty. Players advance on the board by choosing the correct definition or challenging an opponent's choice.

Ingenuties is a hands-on store at Twelve Oaks Mall filled with ideas for that hard-to-surprise person on your list. They specialize in electronic and executive novelties. Store Manager Paul Schneider says anything in neon or neon, a kind of fake neon with black light and fluorescent colors, is popular this year. Accordingly, he's stocked with acrylic see-through phones equipped with flashing pink or blue neon trim and eye-catching black neon clocks with bright red yellow and blue faces.

Other big sellers include Swatch Phones, the pink aqua combination is a hit with teens, and an electronic pocket-sized Phone Card, which stores 280 names and phone numbers and the ability to actually dial a touchtone phone. Electronic Spellmaster instantly corrects spelling errors and Wordfinder, the electronic dictionary thesaurus, will list synonyms to save writers from redundancy.

"Snoboggan 1x4" by Sovylor is an inflatable toboggan with a 300-pound weight capacity. Two adults and two children can surf the snowdrifts on this lightweight sled.

Schneider expects desk toys to be a big hit for executive types. The store carries desktop games of bowling, golf and tennis and an Executive Crdl, a heap of tiny, shiny magnetic diamond shapes which can be molded like clay and is available in three sizes.

Life Members continue Holly Sale

It's not too late to decorate your home with boughs of fresh festive holly.

The Life Members group of the Northville Mothers' Club is still taking orders for holly as part of its annual Holly Sale.

Proceeds from the sale will benefit the club's scholarship fund. The holly is priced at $7 a bunch.

Group members will deliver the holly to homes within Northville School District boundaries during the first week in December, in plenty of time for holiday decorating.

The group purchases the holly from Portland, Ore.

To place an order call Sharon Lineman at 349-6679, Carolyn Nieuwkoop at 349-0933, or Sue Anger at 349-0068.

The Northville Mothers' Club's Life Members group is comprised of those who have been members for 10 years or longer.

Town Hall series notes schedule change

Ticket holders of the Northville Town Hall Series are advised to take note of a schedule change.

An appearance by noted singer-director-composer-producer Phil Marcus Esser has been changed from March 9 to March 2 due to a scheduling conflict at the Plymouth Hilton.

Esser will take the stage at 11 a.m. on March 2.

The 28th Town Hall Committee regrets any inconvenience the date change may have caused.

Three churches sing "Messiah"

Joyous Christmas sounds will fill the air at three local churches this weekend as choral members perform Handel's "Messiah."

The choir of the First Presbyterian Church in Northville, 200 East Main St., presents the "Messiah" Sunday (Dec. 4) at 6 p.m. Its choir is composed of singers from the church, as well as community members.

Admission to the concert is $5 and the public is invited to attend.

The Orchard Lake Music Series Committee will also feature its 18th annual presentation of the "Messiah," with two performances scheduled — one on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and one on Sunday at 4 p.m. Both performances will take place at Orchard Lake Community Church, Presbyterian, 5171 Commerce Rd., Orchard Lake.

Advance tickets for both performances are available for a $5 donation by calling 363-5141.

This year's presentation will consist of the entire Christmas section of the "Messiah," including the story of the birth and resurrection.

Soloists for the presentation will be William Ashby, tenor; Dodie Berry, Dorothy Fridel, Patti Melochie, Dilya Morgan, Kim Miller and Jill Crane, sopranos; Kriss Herrera-Satterlee and Joyce Kilbourne, altos; and Fred Fuller, bass.

A reception will follow both performances in Fellowship Hall.

Northville resident Marc Meyers will be a featured soloist in a performance of the Christmas section of Handel's "Messiah" on Sunday, Dec. 11 at 4 p.m. at Antioch Lutheran Church in Farmington Hills. The church is located at the corners of Thirteen Mile and Farmington roads in Farmington Hills.

The Antioch Community Choral will present the Christmas portion of this holiday favorite. The Choral is composed of members of Antioch Lutheran Church and other community churches. Highlights will include professional soloists and the familiar "Hallelujah Chorus". The Choral is under the direction of George Scott and will be accompanied by organist William Johnston. A freewill offering will be taken after the concert. For more information call 626-7906.

Civic Concern seeks donations

The Northville Civic Concern Committee, a registered non-profit organization, was formed in early 1983. Civic Concern was formed to insure that the needy would receive food, clothing, shelter, utility payments and short-term cash assistance when a more "usual" organization could not respond in time.

The receipt and distribution of its resources is supervised by 17 currently active members on the committee. These members work closely with local church organizations, social service agencies, the Salvation Army, schools and citizens to seek and service those people in the area in desperate need.

The Civic Concern Committee is servicing 40-50 families the second and fourth Thursday of each month. Food distribution is held at Cooke School, 21200 Taft Road, Northville, Michigan, 48167. Food commodities are distributed from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Civic Concern is operated on an "all volunteer" basis. The labor and facility are provided free and, as such, is able to disburse virtually all its income for emergency food and assistance requiring very little operating expenses. In February, 1987, Civic Concern became an agency to distribute Focus 1 tape boxes to the elderly.

The Civic Concern Committee is planning a "Food Drive" for the needy. Items needed for distribution include canned goods, paper products, soaps, toiletries, diapers and frozen products. The food collected will be used for this holiday season's distribution baskets and also to supplement the bi-weekly boxes. Food collected can be brought to Cooke School on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Clothing for Civic Concern should be taken to Holy Family Catholic Church, 24505 Meadowbrook Road, Novi, Michigan, 48050, Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. If you desire a receipt for your clothing donation, please attach a card to your clothing with your name and address.

Civic Concern, being a non-profit entity, is solely dependent on community donations for its income resources. Any assistance you can provide would be greatly appreciated by the Committee. Please feel free to call Civic Concern with any questions.

Civic Concern is presently servicing clients in the Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington and Farmington Hills areas.

Advent is celebrated

The First United Methodist Church of Northville will host a community "ADVENTURE" this Saturday from 10 to 11:30 a.m.

The church event will feature a mini-sanctuary service, candle making, puppets, cookie decorating, small gift making, a birthday party for Jesus and a visit from St. Nick.

Decorated cookies and small gifts will benefit local shut-ins during the holidays.

The community is welcome to participate in the event. A donation of $2 per family is requested, as well as one gift for giving.

Directors of the "ADVENTURE" are Jane Berquist, director of religious education; Lane Norton, children's coordinator; and Kim Yarbrough, family ministries.

The church is located at the intersection of Taft and Eight Mile roads. For more information call 349-1144.

Author Kathy Ripley Leo, left, stands with illustrator Al Berlinski on either side of a promotional board for the book "Town One South". Ripley will be giving a series of readings in December.

"Town One" author will read poetry

Northville poet Kathleen Ripley Leo, author of "Town One South," has three public appearances scheduled in town over the next week.

The book, a collection of historic poems published by the Northville Arts Commission, was released earlier this year. Arts commission Publicity Chairperson Jacqueline Lawrence said the group has sold about half of the 2,000 books printed.

"Our book sales are going great," Lawrence said. "It's nicely received in the community, and outside the community."

The upcoming events are:

- A meet-the-author / autograph session at Bookstall on the Main, 116 E. Main downtown, from 1 to 3 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 4. Refreshments will be served.
- A poetry reading at the annual Christmas tea of Our Lady's League at Our Lady of Victory Church, 770 Thayer, on Monday, Dec. 5. There will be a chance to meet the author and to buy copies of the book.
- A poetry reading at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 201 Elm, at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 8.

Copies of the book are also for sale at Bookstall on the Main.

"Town One South" is the first in a projected series of fine arts projects by the arts commission.

The Shrine Chapel of Our Lady of Orchard Lake at St. Mary's College provided the setting for the Sept. 3 marriage of Kathleen Mary Zabinski to Daniel P. Tollis.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Zabinski of Northville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tollis of Warren.

Father Michael Dylag officiated at the double ring wedding ceremony which took place at 3 p.m. Readings were recited by Jacqueline Tollis, sister-in-law of the groom; and Pamela Wasko, cousin of the bride.

Wearing a hand-beaded and sequined gown of white taffeta highlighted with Alencon lace on the bodice and lace trim on the chapel-length train, the bride was given away by her father, Walter Zabinski. She carried a cascading bouquet of white sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Matron of honor was Suzanne Zorza. Bridesmaids were Diane Payeur-Sturman, Carolyn Kley, Aline Zabinski and Cynthia Tollis. All wore ballerina-length satin gowns of daphne rose. For shoppers without a budget, "Fax Phones" are useful machines which send copies through the phone lines. And Casio makes a "Portable Color TV/VCR" in a small, five-pound console. It takes

Help for the indecisive is at hand with the "Sound F Crystal Ball." Place your hand on the glass and ask away. The crystal ball will respond with a definite "yes" or "no."

For the frustrated fisherman there is an "Electronic Fish Trophy." In a desperate bid for freedom, the plaque-mounted fake fish will flap its tail, grasp and flex its gills at the sound of a human voice.

Getaways are romantic idea

By PHILIP JEROME

There was a time when hotels were regarded as places for travelers... places where people stayed overnight while away from home.

And while travelers continue to comprise a major portion of the occupancy rate at virtually any hotel, changing lifestyles — particularly the number of two-income households — has opened a whole new market for hotels, many of which offer special packages to attract couples looking for a mini-vacation which also is close to home.

Greg Fernholz, general manager of the Radisson Suite Hotel in Farmington Hills, noted that surveys indicate that most weekend guests come from a 10-mile radius of the hotel.

Surveys also show that the popularity of weekend trips is on the rise as the number of dual-career couples in the country is approaching the 30 million mark. In fact, a survey taken in 1986 showed that half of all trips taken were on weekends.

"For families where both spouses work, a weekend getaway is a perfect chance to leave the kids and job pressures at home," said Fernholz.

Another factor in the increasing number of special weekend packages geared specifically for couples boils down to pure economics. Typically, hotels are busiest on weekdays when business travelers fill the rooms.

Occupancy rates tend to drop significantly on weekends when the business travelers return home. The special weekend packages are designed in part to keep rooms filled and staff busy.

"The market has gotten very competitive," commented Pat Kilner, director of sales and marketing at the Sheraton Oaks. "As a result, there are some tremendous bargains out there for people who want to get away for a weekend. Some of the rates are quite incredible."

To help attract the weekend couples trade, the Radisson Suite is offering a "Romantic Adventure" package for $69. "It's a great mini-getaway," said Fernholz. "Everyone has the need to escape to a quiet place and leave day-to-day pressures at home. We think we have the perfect hideaway."

Guests receive two-room suites consisting of a sleeping room with a king bed, and a living room, two remote control televisions, with cable, free HBO movies, two phones, a fully-stocked refrigerator and a "Do Not Disturb" sign.

Also included in the $69 "Romantic Getaway" package are complimentary champagne, a full-course buffet breakfast, theater tickets for a nearby cinema and two cocktails. A "Weekend Adventure" package which excludes the champagne and cinema tickets, is available at $59.

The Radisson Suite is not the only local hotel which attempts to lure couples with special weekend packages. Here's a look at packages available for couples at other Novi hotels.

NOVI WYNDHAM: The "couples package" at the Novi Wyndham is called the "$55.95 Special," according to Carolyn Anderson of the sales department.

The package includes the room, two tickets to General Cinema in the Novi Town Center, and dinner for two at the Friday or Saturday night buffet.

In addition, guests can obtain a pass to use the facilities at the Vic Tanny Health Club adjacent to the Wyndham. Other amenities include a full-service restaurant, a lobby bar and shuttle service to Twelve Oaks Mall.

SHERATON OAKS: Pat Kilner, director of sales and marketing at the Sheraton Oaks, reported that the hotel's "couples" special is called the "Club Sheraton Hollywood Nights" package. The package has been so popular that it has been sold out for the remainder of the year, but will be offered again in January at a price of $65 per night per couple.

The package includes a guest room, lobster or prime rib dinner, breakfast for two and two tickets for either the Movies at Twelve Oaks or the Town Center Cinemas.

Guests also can use the other facilities at the Sheraton Oaks, including two racquetball courts, an exercise room, a sauna, a whirlpool and an indoor swimming pool. Also available is fine dining at Anthony's or Chez Raphael, live entertainment in Anthony's Lounge during the evenings and shuttle service to Twelve Oaks Mall.

NOVI HILTON: The Novi Hilton offers two "Weekend Memory" packages geared specifically for couples, according to Debbie Marshall, the hotel's director of marketing.

The "Celebration" package includes overnight accommodations with a king bed and chilled champagne upon arrival. Also included is dinner in the Crystal Swan restaurant, turn-down service with chocolate mints, and breakfast-in-bed or Sunday brunch. The package is priced at $105.

A second package aimed at couples is the "Bed and Broadway" package which includes dinner at the Crystal Swan, a live Broadway revue show in the Forum, overnight accommodations and a continental breakfast. The package is priced at $119 per couple.

Guests also have access to all the Hilton's other amenities — hot tub, sauna, swimming, pool, exercise room and dancing in Whispers Lounge.

Hilton hosts "Bed and Broadway"

After a day of hectic holiday shopping, it may be worthwhile to spend a Saturday evening at the Novi Hilton, enjoying the hotel's Bed and Broadway theater package.

The musical revue Tap Ltd. (Theater Arts Productions) of Farmington Hills will offer family-oriented entertainment in the Novi Hilton's dinner/theater format. The upbeat tempo revue follows in the footsteps of the highly successful "Cole, George, Ira and More," one of the group's shows previously featured at the Novi Hilton.

The show includes TAP performers impersonating celebrities as they might sing some favorite holiday tunes. Sing-a-longs and a version of "Name That Tune" also are featured in the show.

Reservations are required. For more information and reservations call 349-4000 or 683-1827.

There will be two shows nightly at 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Dec. 3, 10 and 17.

All-area football squad a real class act

Five Mustangs make top defensive unit

Here is the 1988 Sliger/Livingston East first-team defense.

BOB DUDLEY, Northville, lineman: Dudley was one of the biggest surprises during the 1988 season for Northville.

Despite being a first-year varsity player, this 6-foot-5, 220-pound senior emerged as a force and combined with Rob Spradlin to form a solid defensive wall.

Dudley had 39 solo tackles and 18 assists, and was considered the final piece of the puzzle for the Mustangs defensively.

"Bob really strengthened our defense," Mustang coach Darrel Schumacher said. "Along with (Rob) Spradlin, they made it tough to run the ball off-tackle against us. It was his first official season as a varsity player and he came along well. He improved with every game. His desire to succeed was evident in his intensity."

DARIN JOHNSON, Novi, lineman: Johnson led Novi in tackles this season with 61 solos and 41 assists despite missing a game due to injury.

At 6-1 and 185 pounds, Johnson possesses great physical strength and quickness — making him one of the top defensive ends around. He led the team in quarterback sacks and was also a solid offensive tackle. Johnson's strength is well documented — he was the KVC discus champ last spring as a junior.

"Darin's forte is his quickness," Coach John Osborne said. "He combines nice foot speed with great strength. I'd say he's one of our top six players in the 40-yard dash and that should say something about a lineman. This is his first year as a starter, but I expected him to be a good player, and he certainly proved it to be true."

ROB SPRADLIN, Northville, lineman: At 6-5 and 260 pounds, Spradlin is the biggest player on our all-area team. Just a junior, Spradlin will likely be a Division I college recruit next year if he continues the kind of play he exhibited in the last half of the 1988 season.

He had 40 solo tackles, 21 assists and two forced fumbles en route to all-division honors in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

"Rob developed into a fine all-around lineman," Schumacher said. "Running into him is like running into a brick wall. He's still got a little bit of baby fat, but he will lose that and it should help improve his quickness and agility. He's got a great chance to be an outstanding college player."

TODD DANIELS, Northville, linebacker: Often overshadowed by teammate Mike Hale, Daniels led Northville in tackles (73) and was an all-division selection in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

Daniels doesn't have great size at 5-11 and 190 pounds, but he makes up for it with excellent speed and hard hitting. Daniels nabbed two fumble recoveries and is a sprinter on the Mustangs track team.

"In all honesty, Todd is a better reading linebacker than Tony Briningstool," Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He didn't have as many big plays as Tony, but he is the best reading linebacker we've ever had. Todd has great instincts for the game. I truly believe if he had more

All-area defense

Good-looking, possibly. Well-dressed, definitely. But no way is this year's Sliger/Livingston East first-team defensive unit soft. Pictured from left to right are Bob Dudley, Todd Daniels, Sam Khashan, Mike Hale and Rob Spradlin of Northville; Bruce Hamlin and Steve Andrus of Lakeland; and Kevin Warford and Jim Scheloske of South Lyon. Novi's Darin Johnson, Doug Justus and Steve Tashman were unable to attend the photo session, which was hosted by President Tuxedo of Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi.

Karfis, Fellicelli named to all-area offensive team

Here is the 1988 Sliger/Livingston East first-team offense.

MIKE SKATZKA, South Lyon, quarterback: This 5-foot-10, 167-pound senior is the all-time career passing leader at South Lyon with 2,098 yards. In three years with the varsity, he has completed 148 of 306 passes for 19 touchdowns.

Skatzka was particularly impressive this past season despite missing four games with a serious knee injury. While directing the area's most explosive offense, he connected on 29 of 54 passes for seven touchdowns and was intercepted only twice.

"Sure, it was a critical blow to us when Mike went down," South Lyon Coach Bob Scheloske said. "But it really wasn't the physical skills, even though his were good, that made him so valuable. It was the leadership that he provided for the team. He was like a coach on the field."

MIKE KARFIS, Northville, running back: This hard-hitting senior was the top fullback in the area with 710 yards on 130 attempts. He is a first-team all-area performer for the second straight year and was named to the All-Western Lakes Activities Association squad as well.

Karfis led the Mustangs in scoring (five touchdowns) and all-purpose yardage (1,043), and was an outstanding defensive back (three interceptions, 30 solo tackles and 21 assists).

"Mike is a great two-way player," Northville coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He has a good nose for getting the needed yardage on offense and he's a hard hitter on defense. He loves to hit."

"Mike worked very hard to get himself into the best possible shape to go both ways this year, and he was outstanding."

STEVE MORSE, South Lyon, running back: Combining strength and speed, this 5-11, 182-pound senior carried the ball 136 times for 931 yards. He also scored a team-high 62 points.

"Steve is one tough kid," Lions coach Bob Scheloske said. "What makes him good is his determination. You'll realize it when you tackle him. He truly loves contact."

Scheloske mentioned that Morse's love for contact actually was his biggest fault.

"We really had to work with Steve on cutting away from the defense," the coach explained. "Sometimes he would just put his head down and try to run over people. We had to convince him that going around them might be better."

"But you can't get upset with a kid who has a fault like that. You just wish you had 50 others like him."

Morse is second on South Lyon's all-time career rushing list with 1,758 yards.

SCOTT WLADISCHKIN, Novi, running back: The top player in the area and one of the premier two-way players in the state, Wladischkin can do it all.

This 5-11, 180-pound senior rushed for nearly 1,500 yards this season (a school record) and averaged 6.8 yards every time he carried the ball. He also led the Wildcats in receiving yardage (194) and touchdowns (18). He is the all-time leading ground gainer in Novi history.

His 128 points was second in the state among Class A players in Michigan.

"Scottie's a great one," Novi coach John Osborne said. "He's an impact player on both sides of the ball. He's the guy that turns us from a good football team into a very good, maybe great, team."

MARK HOORN, South Lyon, wide receiver: Several Mid-American Conference universities are interested in this 6-2, 183-pound senior, who possesses a great nose for the football.

As a receiver for the Lions, Hoorn caught 27 passes for 665 yards and eight touchdowns. He also recorded six interceptions and 71 tackles from his safety position on defense.

"Mark is probably the best receiver I've had," South Lyon Coach Bob Scheloske said. "He has great hands and great concentration. Some of the catches he made this season were outstanding."

"His only drawback, in terms of playing college ball, may be that he can't run 40 yards in 4.4 or 4.5. Sometimes that's all these college coaches want."

Hoorn, who covers the 40 in 4.6 or 4.7, is a standout center fielder on South Lyon's baseball team as well. Some feel he can play both sports at a Division I school.

STEVE GILBERT, Milford, tight end: According to Coach Mike Shearer, this 6-4, 200-pound senior — who caught 19 passes for 275 yards and three touchdowns — has yet to reach his full potential.

"Steve is a young senior. He still hasn't turned 17," Shearer said. "He's just now starting to come into his own. He's been growing so fast and now everything's starting to catch up. You can see him maturing."

"I would guess, by looking at his frame, that he could put on 40 more pounds. He seems interested in playing college football, perhaps at Albion, and I would have to say that he is very capable."

Along with his good hands, Gilbert also possesses a nose for the football on defense. He recorded 55 tackles and one fumble recovery from his defensive end and defensive back positions.

MARK DAVIO, Novi, center: This 6-0, 195-pound senior was one of the unsung heroes for the Wildcats in 1988.

Even though it was his first season as a starter, Davio was a solid two-way lineman. Novi had one of the most potent ground games in the area and Davio was a key factor from his center position, opening holes consistently and efficiently.

"I couldn't really ask for more from Mark," Novi coach John Osborne said. "He had an outstanding year. He's not real big physically and yet no task seems impossible for him. He takes on all challenges and size doesn't seem to matter. You can't go any place without a dedicated line and Mark's one of our leaders."

BOB AHRENS, Novi, lineman: Probably the most dominating big man in the Kensington Valley Conference — and he's just a junior — Ahrens (6-3, 245) was an imposing figure on both sides of the ball for the Wildcats.

He will undoubtedly be a major college recruit next year because a lot of players have good size but few combine Ahrens' outstanding physical strength and agility.

Ahrens is a dedicated weightlifter and also an outstanding heavyweight wrestler.

"He's shown a marked improvement from a year ago," Novi coach John Osborne said. "Bob's demonstrated a lot of agility and foot speed to go along with his size and strength. If he can show college scouts this type of play, he will be a big-time recruit."

PAT BELL, South Lyon, lineman: This 5-11, 205-pound guard was instrumental in South Lyon's rushing attack, which netted more than 1,500 yards this season.

"We did most of our running up the middle behind Pat, Jim (Scheloske) and Bob (Gibson)," Lions coach Bob Scheloske said. "Pat had a real nice season. He graded out in eight of our nine games... and he was a much better player this year because of his leadership."

All-area offense

"Pat is your typical South Lyon kid," the coach added. "He works hard and he's tough."

DAVE FELICELLI, Northville, lineman: At 6-1, 215-pounds, Felicelli was the Mustangs' biggest and best offensive lineman. He is a two-year starter, and, according to Coach Darrel Schumacher, has shown great improvement.

"Dave overcame some nagging injuries and kept working hard all year," Schumacher said. "He was very important to our team and did an outstanding job. In all honesty, he was better than we anticipated because he kept improving so much. His strengths are that he's got good quickness and he's sound technically."

SCOTT HORST, Milford, lineman: This 6-4, 210-pound senior guard has to be considered one of the top student-athletes in the state.

Not only does Horst dominate offensively and defensively for the Redskins, he also is ranked first out of 355 students in his class.

"I can see why Scott is a 4.0 student," Coach Mike Shearer said. "He is the quickest learning kid I have ever had. He picks up everything instantly. He just absorbs it like a sponge."

Another thing he does very well is compensate. He may not be stronger or faster than the other guy, but he knows how to make up for it. You just let him know what the bottom line is and he'll get the job done."

Horst, who has received several letters from Division I and Division II colleges, led the Milford defense with 72 tackles. He was used at three positions — tackle, nose guard and linebacker — and also handled the Redskins' long snaps.

CRAIG BERRY, Novi, special teams: This junior speedster is a threat to score a touchdown every time he touches the ball. He possesses great foot speed, great moves and a knack for breaking tackles.

He rushed for over 500 yards on the year, was second on the team in receiving yardage and led the area in return yardage. He returned two punts for touchdowns, was third in the area in scoring with 62 points and had over 1,000 yards in all-purpose yardage. All this from a kid who is only 5-6, 158 pounds.

"Craig is one of those kids who has that extra ability that doesn't come along every year," Coach John Osborne said. "It's a God-given talent. He sure is an exciting player, especially in the open field. He's on the small side, but it's almost an advantage the way he's able to duck under people and spin away from tacklers."

BOB GILBERT, Milford, kicker: This 5-9, 145-pound senior was successful on all 11 of his extra-point kicks and even threw for one two-point conversion. He did not attempt a field goal during the season.

"Bob is not a long-distance kicker, but he's accurate. His numbers prove that," Redskins Mike Shearer said.

Osborne and Wladischkin tops in area

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Novi football coach John Osborne and star back Scott Wladischkin make a dynamic duo. For the three years that Osborne and Wladischkin have been together — wreaking havoc on the opposition, the Wildcat football program has amassed a stellar 27-4 overall record.

Together, they've led the program to a record three consecutive Kensington Valley Conference titles and two straight MHSAA playoff appearances.

It's not to say that other players and coaches haven't had a big part in Novi's success the past two seasons, it's just that Osborne and Wladischkin are the stars.

The "Cats" recent run in the Class A playoffs has afforded them both additional exposure on the state level. People outside this area are starting to discover that Osborne is one of the state's top public school football coaches and Wladischkin is one of the top runners in Michigan.

That's one of the reasons why Osborne and Wladischkin have been named the 1988 Tiger-Livingston East Coach and Player of the Year respectively.

For Osborne, a longtime Northville resident, it's his third straight such honor. For Wladischkin, it's the first of what will probably be many individual awards coming his way in the near future.

"Scott's a great one," Osborne said. "I think he's the one who turns us from a good team into a great one — maybe great — team. He is an impact player on the both sides of the ball."

Wladischkin's offensive numbers are staggering. He's gained 1,498 yards rushing in 210 carries in 12 games. That's nearly seven yards every time he touches the ball.

His 18 touchdowns and 128 points made him the most productive player in the area by far. He will leave Novi as the all-time leading ground gainer with well over 2,000 yards in his career.

His season rushing total is also a new school record.

On defense, he led the Novi secondary in tackles (52 total), had two pass interceptions and a couple of fumble recoveries. Osborne calls him the best two-way player in the KVC and one of the best in the state.

"I think Scott is a capable runner, receiver and defensive back — he can perform and perform well at any spot," he said. "I think he'll be a great college player."

Wladischkin said he's receiving more and more letters and inquiries from college scouts every day — especially when Novi started making its way through the playoffs.

The Mid-American Conference teams are especially interested, and now the Big Ten squads are moving into the picture. The fact that Wladischkin is also a blue chip baseball player adds significantly to the picture.

"I'm hoping the publicity the team is getting will help me get a good scholarship," he said. "In talking it over with my coaches, they think it's a good idea for me to get a football scholarship and then maybe walk on as a baseball player."

Hale, Spradlin lead defensive selections

size, college's would be all over him."

MIKE HALE, Northville, linebacker: Hale is the latest in a long line of talented Mustang linebackers, following in the footsteps of Tony Briningstool (Michigan State) and Tim Millen (Navy).

This 6-1, 205-pound senior is a two-time all-area and all-conference selection from his outside linebacker spot. He had 48 solo tackles, 19 assists, two sacks, two pass deflections, four fumbles caused, one fumble recovery and one blocked field goal this season.

"Mike's one of the better outside linebackers in the area," Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He's a little on the small side, but he's got a lot of heart and he's a born leader. His teammates really respect him, and he's going to be very, very hard to replace. If Mike were any taller, he'd be a big-time college recruit."

JIM SCHELOSKE, South Lyon, linebacker: Another Division I college prospect, this 6-2, 221-pound senior was a mainstay on both sides of the ball.

As a linebacker, Scheloske led the Lions with 94 tackles even though the opposition double-teamed him most of the season. He also was South Lyon's best offensive lineman — a rare label for a center.

"Most colleges are looking at Jim as a center," said father and coach Bob Scheloske. "They like his combination of agility and size. He's able to get to linebackers and he's also strong enough to take on nosemen."

"Moving Jim from tackle to center was a key move for us this year," he added. "We were able to change our entire blocking scheme. Most of our success came when we ran right up the middle."

STEVE TASHMAN, Novi, linebacker: Tashman was Novi's top linebacker with 40 solo stops, 37 assists and two interceptions — pretty fair numbers for an outside backer.

"He's our inspirational leader," Coach John Osborne said. "He's been very strong for us all year. His strong suit is his deceptive strength and quickness, and that's why he is able to rush the quarterback, cover backs out of the backfield and meet runners inside. He was a force all over the field."

BRUCE HAMLIN, Lakeland, defensive back: A 5-11, 165-pound strong safety, Hamlin was one of the few bright spots during Lakeland's 1-8 campaign.

The two-year starter recorded 21 solo tackles, 22 assists and one pass interception. He also knocked down four passes and recovered three fumbles — one of which was returned 57 yards for a game-winning touchdown.

"Bruce is a good athlete," Eagles coach Bill Mohr said. "He's got excellent quickness and good straight-away speed. He also has a good nose for the football. Whenever it's in the air or on the ground, he's usually around it."

Hamlin dabbled in offense as well, returning six kickoffs for 77 yards and rushing five times for 70 yards.

DOUG JUSTUS, Novi, defensive back: This senior cornerback has been a solid player all season long. He led the team in interceptions (three) and pass deflections, and chipped in 31 tackles.

Justus is one of the fastest players on the Novi team (along with Craig Berry and Scott Wladischkin) and seems to have a nose for the ball.

"Doug's been a strong player for us," Coach John Osborne said. "He's got good physical skills and he really works at it. He made some great plays to help us pull out some wins earlier in the season."

SAM KHASHAN, Northville, defensive back: For two straight years, Khashan has been the Mustangs' big-play guy both offensively and defensively. The 5-11, 178-pound senior made a position change from linebacker to strong safety this year and handled the adjustment very well.

Defensively, Khashan had 34 solo tackles, 21 assists, three sacks and four fumble recoveries. Offensively, as a receiver, he hauled down 16 passes for 200 yards and two touchdowns.

"It seemed that whenever we needed something big, Sam was the man whether on offense or defense," Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "I have great respect for this young man because he made a position change and never missed a beat. He's an outstanding athlete with good skills."

KEVIN WARFORD, South Lyon, defensive back: The development of this 6-2, 171-pound junior was a key for the Lions, who stifled the opposition when it tried to pass or run to the outside.

Warford finished the season with 28 solo tackles and two interceptions.

"Kevin got so much better as the season went on," South Lyon coach Bob Scheloske said. "Teams usually try to pick on an underclassman out there, but they couldn't do it with him. He's fast, probably the second fastest kid in the school behind (wide receiver Dave) Osborn, and he hits pretty well."

Warford was a one-way player this season, but should see plenty of action as a running back next fall.

STEVE ANDRUS, Lakeland, punter: A 70-yard boot, two others over 50 yards and seven which landed inside the 10 yard line are just some of the reasons this senior was named to the all-area squad.

"Steve has a strong leg, and he also has the ability to angle the ball away from the return men," Lakeland coach Bill Mohr said. "He was a real asset to us when we were playing for field position."

Andrus' accomplishments were not limited to punting, though. He recorded five receptions.

Salem comeback ends Northville's season

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The most successful season in Northville girls' basketball history ended on Nov. 22 in a thrilling and yet most disappointing way.

All-State point guard Jill Estey scored five points in the final minute of play — including the game-winning shot — to help Plymouth Salem rebound from a game-long deficit to nip the Mustangs 38-36 in the finals of the 22nd District tournament in Northville.

For coach Ed Kritch and his players, it was a bitter defeat. It put an abrupt end to a landmark campaign that featured 16 victories — a school record — and a high-powered offense you would normally equate to the college game. The hero in defeat was Mustang guard Karen Baird, who single-handedly kept the Rocks at bay with one of the finest outings of her fine career. But when she fouled out down the stretch, it was obviously a costly loss.

Northville led the whole way, but the late run by the Rocks put a damper on a great effort and a great game. With 50 seconds left and Salem trailing by four and no time-outs left, it appeared the Mustangs would survive one of the toughest districts in the state. But Estey lived up to her reputation by canning a three-point bomb moments later and then hitting a 17-foot jumper with two seconds on the clock to break the tie.

"It was an unbelievable game," Kritch said. "I felt we gave it everything we had — that was obvious. It was just a shame the way it ended for us."

"We controlled the game for 31 of 32 minutes, but that one minute cost us the game."

Kritch wanted his squad to take the early lead and force the Rocks to play their style — and that's exactly what the Mustangs were able to do. In a meeting between the same two teams just a week earlier, Salem pulled in front and then proceeded to stall the win away with Estey at the helm. This time, Northville was in control.

"As long as we stayed ahead, (Salem) couldn't control the game," Kritch said. "They ended up having to scramble just to stay in the game."

Baird put together what Kritch called "the finest quarter of her career" to start things off. With Estey trying but failing to defend her, Baird exploded for a dozen points in the first quarter — scoring every Northville point in the process — and giving the team, a 12-6 lead.

Baird's outburst was almost a must because leading-scorer Debbie Stevens was whistled for three fouls in the first five minutes of play and missed much of the first half.

"Historically, Karen's had her best outings in the biggest games," Kritch recalled. "She was carrying us and we were following her. She was unstoppable."

The Mustangs continued the trend in the second half by outscoring Salem 7-4 to take a 19-10 halftime advantage. Baird added a three-pointer to up her point total to 15 and helped hold Estey scoreless in the first half.

"It was 19-10 but it could have been 25-10," Kritch said. "We dominated the first half both offensively and defensively. If we would have hit a few of the easy shots we missed in the second quarter, we could have knocked Salem out of the game."

As expected, the Rocks came out fired up in the second half, turned up the pressure and immediately extended their defense. Salem began to chip away at the lead in the third, making up four points, and then eventually pulling even at 31-31 with 2:40 remaining in the fourth. With Baird sitting beside Kritch after fouling out, Stevens put Northville back in front with a jumper at the 1:15 mark and then Sue LaPrad upped the margin to four by canning a pair of pressure-packed free throws with less than a minute remaining.

"When (LaPrad's) second shot went in, I felt we were home free," Kritch admitted.

But Estey took only five seconds to bring the ball down court and launch a long-range three-pointer that cut the lead to 35-34. Stevens was fouled and made one of two free throws at the other end with 36 seconds left but Salem's Sarah Ruete tied it 11 seconds later on an offensive rebound and a put-back. Moments later, LaPrad turned the ball over while attempting to bring the ball upcourt against heavy defensive pressure, and that set up Estey's game winner.

"That night, we were better than Salem," Kritch said. "I don't think the best team won, but I don't want to take anything away from Salem. We held them to 31 points in 31 minutes and then let them score seven in the final 45 seconds."

"It was extremely disappointing because we felt we had the game won and it was taken away. And the worst thing about it is that it ends our season — we don't get another chance. But I have to give (Estey) credit. We held her scoreless in the first half and she comes back to score five in the last minute."

Baird ended her prep career with a game-high 19 but she was the only Mustang to score in double figures. Ruete paced the Rocks with 12 and Estey ended with nine.

"As soon as it got close, we knew we had a chance," Salem Coach Fred Thomann said. "But I didn't know if we were ever going to get close. The key for us (in the second half) is that we had to extend our defense to 94 feet and see what happened. We had to gamble and get into a full-court game. It was not pretty, but eventually we got the job done."

Northville wrapped up the 1988 season with a 16-7 record. Salem advances to regional action with an 18-4 mark.

"It was a classic game," Kritch said. "We rose to the level of play you expect in a district final."

Mustangs hoping to reverse recent basketball fortunes

By NEIL GOGHEGAN

Coming off a disastrous 4-17 campaign last year — and a miserable 12-30 record the past two seasons — the only possible place for the Northville basketball program to go is up.

And with three frontcourt starters and a handful of promising letterwinners returning to the fold and additional newcomers, that's exactly what coach Omar Harrison and his players are planning to do. A combination of injuries, inexperience and off-court problems led to much of the problems a year ago, but Harrison is hoping his team can learn from those experiences and somehow turn the whole affair into a positive that will help the squad this season.

Midway through the 87-88 season — with the Mustangs struggling at 0-8 — Harrison stepped down as coach for personal reasons and gave way to interim coach Tim Lutes who finished out the year. It was a blow to an already difficult situation, but now Harrison is back and ready for a new beginning.

"I feel good about the team," he said. "This year we seem to have a better attitude and we want to have more fun. We'll try to use last season as something to build on. I can tell you this, the kids are determined not to have a season like the last one."

"I had some personal problems and overall it was an upsetting year."

The top returnee is senior Chris House, who led the Mustangs in scoring (13.5 average) and rebounding (7.5) last year. The 6-foot-5 center has good size and shooting ability, and should be one of the premier players in the area.

"We're looking for a lot from Chris — especially leadership and scoring," Harrison said. "I think he's one of our better shooters and he's an intelligent player. He sees things very well out on the court."

Joining House up front will be senior forwards Heath Myers (6-3) and Greg Price (6-4). Both earned starting jobs in the second half of last season and return with some much-needed experience. The three give Harrison decent size along the front wall.

Myers worked out diligently in the fall and attended clinics during the off season, so he is trying to make himself a better player," Harrison said. "Hopefully, we'll get some scoring out of him. Desire and hustle are Heath's strong points."

"I like to call Greg Price a blue-collar player. There is no harder worker and we'll need him to get rebounds and play good solid defense for us. He can score, but whenever he does score it's really gravy."

The point guard position is still up for grabs. The top three candidates include junior Steve Bastian (5-9) along with seniors Mike Karfis (5-11) and Dave McKee (5-6). Karfis is coming off a tremendous football campaign and may have the inside track on the spot. He is a fine athlete who has confidence in what he can do.

"Mike's not the world's greatest basketball player but he is a good athlete and he has a lot of confidence in himself," Harrison said. "If we can get him to play within himself, he'll be a big asset to the team."

McKee is a small but very quick returnee who excels on defense and passing. Bastian is a smart player who works hard on the court.

"Whichever one of those three comes through for me will get the playing time," Harrison said.

The off-guard spot is also open but newcomer Rob Walsh appears in line for the job. Walsh (6-1, senior) is a transfer from Florida and has been a pleasant surprise in early workouts. Junior Joe Kaley (5-10) is also fighting for the starting nod.

"(Rob) is a very good shooter so he'll probably be our off-guard," Harrison said. "I don't know too much about him but I do know that he does have varsity experience. He's the kind of backcourt player we need."

"Joe Kaley is the type of kid who can play either guard position. He's a decent shooter and he always gives 100 percent."

The top back-ups up front include sophomore Mike Lang and junior Scott Meredith. Both are 6-foot-5 with lots of potential but no varsity experience. Lang played on the freshman squad a year ago and Meredith is up from the junior varsity ranks. Also slated for reserve action is 6-3 junior Paul Grant and 5-11 junior Noel Korwin. Grant was a J.V. starter last season and is versatile enough to play in the backcourt or frontcourt. Korwin is recovering from a broken arm suffered during soccer season, and is described by Harrison as a "quick, defensive-type player."

"Obviously, we're striving to improve on last year's record," Harrison said. "I think we'll be a very competitive team in our conference and our division but I really don't know where we'll fit in. If things fall into place, a lot of good things could happen to this team."

The early consensus is that Farmington Harrison is the team to beat in the WLAA Western Division race.

The Hawks are coming off a state Class B football title and will feature gridiron stars like Mill Coleman, Bryan Waulderon and Chad Burgess.

SEASON OPENER: The Mustangs will open the 1988-89 campaign

tomorrow (Dec. 2) in a non-league clash at home against Novi.

The game will be broadcast live by radio station WOV1 (89.5 FM) with the pre-game show starting at 7:20 p.m. The play-by-play will be handled by Mark

VanAmejde and Eric Oakley.

Tankers send large contingent to states

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Buoyed by a recent Western Lakes League championship, the Northville swimmers are heading into the MHSAA state swim meet on Dec. 2-3 at Michigan State's Charles McCaffrey Pool looking like a confident mob.

The Mustangs have qualified swimmers in all 11 events for the state meet, which will make Northville one of the largest contingents in East Lansing. Coach Bill Dicks calls this team his best ever, so it's only appropriate that the representation continues the trend.

"This is the best representation we've had in the state meet in quite a while," he said. "These girls have done a tremendous job this year and we're hoping this will put the finishing touches on a great season."

As a team, Northville (10-1 overall) is probably one of the top 10 squads in the state. The Mustangs sport depth at just about every event and have a number of individuals and relay teams who are shooting for a place in the finals (top six). According to Dicks, those goals are attainable.

Perhaps the team's greatest strength is diving. Northville sent four divers to the Class A Regional on Nov. 29 (after Record deadline) in Brighton and should advance at least two to the finals with a top 12 finish.

"This is the first time we've ever qualified four divers for the regionals and we could have had five but we came up a little short," Dicks said. "There aren't many who have four — maybe one or two other schools."

The four qualifiers include Wendy Beach, Michelle Beacham, Barb Woodruff and Beth Frayne. Junior Katie Davis just missed but will get another shot next year.

"It has to be the deepest group we've ever had," said diving coach Cecil Woodruff. "We had three of the top five in our conference and that's unheard of."

Beach has been scoring in the 370 range and that should put her up among the premier divers in the state. In addition, Beacham is close behind her.

"Those two have an excellent chance of making it to the state meet," Woodruff said. "As for Barb Woodruff and Beth Frayne, if they have a good meet, they have a chance too."

Dicks has been busy jockeying swimmers and events, hoping to get that perfect line-up that will give the Mustangs the maximum points. If all goes as expected, Northville should be in the top 10 as a team.

"We have a shot at top 10," he said. "A lot depends where other teams place their people and how well our girls swim. Our times at the WLAA Meet would have put us in the top 10

Record/THOM DOUGHERTY

Senior Michelle Beacham is one of four Mustang divers to qualify for regional competition in the state last year."

The 200-yard medley relay team of Debbie Buell, Kristen Storm, Pam Holdridge and Michelle Stephens are the WLAA champs and are a good bet to make the finals and place in the top six.

"When those four get together, they go fast," Dicks said. "I think we have a shot at top six. I'm confident we can be in the top 10."

Buell will also compete in two individual events — probably the 200 IM and the 500 freestyle — although she has also qualified in the 200 freestyle. Dicks is expecting the junior standout to place in the top 12 in both events.

Just a freshman, Storm is poised to make her first state meet experience a memorable one. She will compete in the 400 freestyle relay with Holdridge, Erin Holmberg and Stephens and will be in either the 50 or 100 individual freestyle race. Dicks thinks she has the capability to be in the top 12 in both individual events and in the relay. Storm has also qualified in the 100 breast stroke, but will probably swim in the freestyle races instead.

"Storm has a little bit better shot in the 50 as far as points but I'm not so sure the 100 isn't her best event," Dicks said.

Holdridge is currently clocking in at about one-minute flat in the 100 butterfly and that should be enough to place her in the top six overall. She set the Northville school record in the event at the WLAA Meet. The only other qualifier is Holmberg, who made the state cut in the 100 backstroke that same day.

at participating stores!

1988 by COTTER & COMPANY CHICAGO IL 60614 100% Member Owned Warehouse Distributors & Merchandisers
Because this is a syndicated publication prepared in advance by Cotter & Company for distribution by over 8000 independently owned and operated retail store members, some merchandise illustrated may not be immediately available on demand. However, any item that is unavailable can be ordered in full carton by the member store from a regional warehouse. Many items in this circular come unassembled. This store is not responsible for assembling merchandise unless stated. This circular must be prepared months in advance of the actual distribution period. At times, an advertised item may not be available because of very above anticipated demand or because of circumstances beyond our control, while we try to avoid such situations, we have no control over our manufacturers' delivery problems. This store reserves the right to change quantities, correct pricing errors and require certain credit office approval of time payment sales. Prevailing rates will be added to prices. This catalog is distributed by True Value members who own their own stores and set their own retail prices.
