Township oil drilling upsets more residents

By ANNE E. WILLIS

Oil and Northville Township residents apparently do not mix.

While residents on the east side of the township spent many hours compiling documentation to ward off potential oil leases in their subdivisions earlier in the year, a township family on the west side is unhappy with a working oil well next door to them.

But oil company officials said they have done everything possible to make sure that the two — oil and homes — are compatible.

Ed and Marlene Jezewski said they are disturbed that the oil and gas well drilled approximately 600 feet from their home on Napier Road just south of Eight Mile, is on-line again.

The Southern Michigan Oil Company, SOMOCO, drilled for oil on a site owned by Consumers Power, next door to the Jezewski home. While the well head is on the Consumers Power site, the oil is actually on state-owned land inside Maybury

State Park. SOMOCO is making use of directional drilling technology which allows the well to be in one place while pipes are laid on an angle far below the surface to retrieve the oil from another site.

The test well initially drilled by SOMOCO came up positive and appears to be a "good producer" in the words of SOMOCO partner Michael Harris. But while Harris is happy with the outcome of the initial testing, the Jezewskis are not.

"The fumes were devastating,"

Marlene said, referring to the summer months when the company did its test drilling. "I bought out here because it was beautiful and I take a lot of pride in bringing my children out here. I'm not a vicious person but they're affecting my life and the lives of my children."

The Jezewskis said they are worried about the potential contamination of the air and the well water that they use. "We wouldn't have bought here if the well had been here," Ed said. "But our hands are tied. I feel like I've been violated and you can't stop progress. How do you fight people with that kind of money behind them?"

The couple said the smell from the oil well "ruined their summer," and prevented them from enjoying their pool during one of the hottest and driest summers in recent history.

"The air was thick with smell," Marlene said. "You couldn't sit out."

Harris said SOMOCO acted quickly in August when the Jezewskis told the company about their problems with odor from the well site. Harris said that the well did not have a vapor recovery system in place initially, because the state Department of Natural Resources, regulator of oil wells in townships, does not require one.

A vapor recovery system puts gas fumes, which can be bad smelling, back into the pipe system to be funneled off for sale to Consumers Power. The system prevents the gas

Private group to pay cost share of election letter

By BOB NEEDHAM

A citizens' group which supported the Northville Township police millage last month has agreed to pay for part of an official newsletter which urged passage of the tax.

Richard Henningsen — president of the Citizens Organized for Police Services (COPS) and also a member of the Northville Township Board — said Monday that COPS will pay one-fourth the cost of the newsletter's first issue. The four-page "Talk of the Township" letter, mailed to township residents shortly before the election, devoted one page to explaining and endorsing both a two-mill increase for police and a 9-mill proposal for park development on the November ballot.

Henningsen said the group — made of officials and private citizens — would pay $323.65, or about one-fourth of the newsletter's cost. The share was selected because the election material took up about one-fourth of the space in the newsletter, Henningsen said. Township money originally paid for the entire cost of the newsletter.

"We assumed it covered one quarter of the printed material. It was one quarter of the news in it, one fourth of the area covered," Henningsen said.

In paying for a share of the newsletter, COPS is following a suggestion from Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad. He had advised such a move after being informed that using public money in an election campaign was illegal, in an opinion from State Attorney General Frank Kelley. State election officials have said that although the township's newsletter use may have been illegal, there were no penalties existing for such a violation.

Essad has said COPS repaying the money would not be an admission of wrongdoing by Township Board members, but rather a move to remain above reproach.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said Monday the issue has not come before the Township Board, and probably will not.

The newsletter included articles on both the police and park development millage under the heading "We Need Your Help!" A description of the police millage concluded, "We hope you agree that this is not too much to pay for your continued safety and security. Please vote YES for the Police Millage on November 8." The park millage story also concluded with a request for approval.

Township voters approved both issues. The park millage, a joint proposal with city government, failed in the city and therefore was defeated overall.

Eight Mile committee meets

A committee to improve safety at the Eight Mile / Center intersection met for the first time Tuesday.

The joint city-school committee was put together by Northville Mayor Chris Johnson and Northville School District Superintendent George Bell after worries about speeds along the street and safety of children at area schools.

"It was just sort of a get-acquainted meeting (covering) the history of the Eight Mile area," Northville Police Chief Rod Cannon — the committee chairperson — said Tuesday afternoon. The group expects to meet again in January, with the Michigan State Police and possibly county road officials, Cannon said.

"The goal is to try to insure safe crossing for the kids. That's the bottom line," Cannon said. "We're trying to find ways to maybe insure safety a little better."

The committee will consider speeds, warning flashers before the intersection, and other traffic control measures, Cannon said.

The Michigan State Police are starting a review of the speed limits along Eight Mile from Napier Road to Grand River on the east side of Farmington Hills. Earlier this year the City Council and School Board formally requested a lower speed limit on Eight Mile near Center.

In addition to Cannon, the committee consists of City Manager Steve Walters, Northville High School Principal David Bolitho, Amerman Elementary Principal Milt Jacobi, Assistant School Superintendent Burton Knighton, Judith McIntyre, a resident who has been pushing for action on the corner, and Mark Cryderman, another resident.

City considers veterinarians in Central Business District

By BOB NEEDHAM

As things stand now, veterinary clinics are not allowed within Northville's Central Business District.

But there's a chance — maybe a slim one — that could change.

A veterinarian has applied for some sort of zoning change which would let her open an office in the Holland Newton Associates building at 115 E. Dunlap. And on a narrow 5-4 vote, the city Planning Commission last week agreed to consider the idea.

Currently, veterinary clinics are only allowed in areas zoned general commercial district (GCD). The Dunlap site, a vacant building which has been a medical doctor's office in the past, is zoned central business district (CBD).

The vet hoping to move to town, Debra Zarish, requested a zoning change in October, withdrew it and then resubmitted it. In a letter, Zarish argues that veterinary medicine has changed since the writing of the city zoning ordinance, and that a veterinary clinic — particularly one in an isolated building — will have no adverse impact on the area.

"Together with the technical aspects of veterinary practice, our veterinary facilities have been modernized to blend well into com-

Northville well back in operation

The Silver Spring is flowing once again.

OK, so maybe it hasn't been an actual spring for decades. But the important thing is the Northville well is back in operation.

"The well is functioning and all is well with it," Department of Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes said Monday. "It all worked out."

The well — which has pumped up groundwater since the original spring on the site went dry — stopped producing this summer after years of progressively worse clogging in the water pickup. A community fundraising effort collected $7,000 to redrill the well, and the work was completed about 10 days ago.

The DPW had the water tested to make sure it was safe, and the "all clear" was sounded on Friday, Mapes said.

The community got lucky in getting the well drilled just before the onset of the very cold weather, Mapes said. If it hadn't been done when it was, the work would have had to wait.

The Northville Rotary Club oversees operation of the well, and coordinated the fundraising. Mapes said the drilling cost is not yet known, but any money left over will be used for upkeep and operation costs.

Pursell declines job with new Bush administration

U.S. Representative Carl Pursell, R-Plymouth, said Friday that he has declined an offer of an appointed position in the administration of President-elect George Bush.

"They were courteous enough and smart enough to say, 'Carl, what do you want?'... That door is always open to some of us, those of us in Congress who were early supporters of Bush," said Pursell, whose district includes Northville.

"If I had wanted to go, I'd have sat down and met with the president. I never met with the president. I never met with the president, because I wasn't interested. I would never close the door on opportunity like that when my congressional career is over, but I like what I'm doing now."

Pursell said no specific job was offered but he assumed such an offer did not include a cabinet post. He said that even if a cabinet post had been offered, he would have declined because of his position as a ranking minority member of the House Subcommittee on Labor, Health, Education and Human Services.

"I would never close the door on opportunity like that when my congressional career is over, but I like what I'm doing now."

— Carl Pursell

"It's the most influential subcommittee in Congress," said Pursell.

His subcommittee will decide about $360 billion in appropriations in the next fiscal year, second only to the $400 billion that will be appropriated by the defense subcommittee.

Pursell acknowledged there have been rumors he would accept a position in the Bush administration.

"There was a lot of speculation, but none of it came from me," said Pursell. "I said it six months ago and I've said it again today: I'm happy where I'm at. You never say never, but..."

Pursell, who in November defeated challenger Lana Pollack in a bitterly fought campaign, currently is the second-ranking Republican on the house subcommittee. He said he may move up to ranking minority member after Congress reconvenes Jan. 3.

The subcommittee, Silvio Conte of Massachusetts, who is also the ranking Republican of the full appropriations committee, is in poor health and may give up his subcommittee post, said Pursell. That would make Pursell the top Republican on the subcommittee, an enormously influential post in a Republican administration.

"I'd have more power there than I would even as secretary of education," said Pursell.

Conte had prostate surgery last summer after cancer was found and had a knee replaced after the elections. Two weeks ago, he had the knee operated on, again.

"I have to be careful, I can't call every day asking how he's doing," said Pursell. "I don't want him to think I'm putting the pressure on. He's already feeling pressure for me to take over."

Pursell, who is back in the district for the holidays, said he had expected to talk with Conte at House organization meetings in Washington last week, but Conte was unable to attend.

"You have to tiptoe around him. When you have a powerful position, you always think everyone wants your job," said Pursell. "I'm sitting there as the No. 2 person, and he knows it."

Pursell said word on the grapevine is that Conte, a 30-year House veteran, has let Bush know he'd like to finish his career as ambassador to Italy. Such an assignment would also move Pursell up to the top Republican spot on the subcommittee.

Though the full appropriations committee technically oversees subcommittee appropriations, Pursell said that in practice, the subcommittee decides appropriations, which are then rubber-stamped by the full committee.

"The full power is in the subcommittee. It's not in the full committee, and it's not on the (House) floor," said Pursell.

The House reconvenes Jan. 3. About Feb. 1, Congress will get the latest Reagan budget, with some modifications by Bush. Eleven subcommittees then decide various appropriations.

Pursell's subcommittee will hold hearings five days a week for five or six months, listening to testimony from thousands of experts before deciding on line-item amounts, which will then be forwarded to the full committee.

"It (having high-ranking Republicans on appropriations subcommittees) is especially critical for Bush to be effective in getting his programs through Congress. I'm more effective where I'm at than I would be in the administration," said Pursell.

NEWS BRIEFS

CORRECTION — In last week's Record sports section swimmer Brad Cook was misidentified in a picture. The picture which ran with the boys swimming story should have identified the swimmer as Mike Fortenberry, a senior who graduated last year.

Also, two weeks ago in the sports section a picture of a diver accompanying the girl's swim team story should have been identified as diver Wendy Beach, not Michelle Beacham.

The Record regrets the errors.

SHOVEL YOUR WALK — The City of Northville Police Department is reminding residents that a city ordinance requires sidewalks to be cleared within 24 hours after a snowfall. The snow is not allowed to be shoveled out into the street.

LUNCH WITH SANTA — Santa Claus will be in Northville in person for lunch on Thursday, Dec. 15 and Monday, Dec. 19 at the Northville Community Center.

Northville copes with Christmas questions

By BOB NEEDHAM

The Northville School District is not about to go and ignore Christmas. But it's not about to go and endorse it, either.

With considerable publicity and discussion lately about the appropriateness of Christmas-related lessons and activities in the classroom — a return of the classic church-and-state debate — Northville Superintendent George Bell last week offered his views on the issue. And basically, Bell said, the district takes proper note of the holiday — but also puts it in proper perspective.

"We have Christian kids, Islamic kids. We have Buddhists, Sikhs, Moslem, Jewish," Bell said. "As our community changes, we assimilate more different cultures into ours. A large portion of our incoming students are now coming from the Oriental and Middle Eastern cultures."

Bell said the district policy follows the principle of separating church and state.

"We recognize there has to be a separation of church and state," Bell said. "It's not the place of the school to (promote) the religious aspect of

Police recover 15 stuffed animals swiped from display

Fifteen stuffed animals stolen from a downtown Christmas display were recovered recently, according to a city police report.

The animals were found with three youths who live in Ithaca, Michigan, in the area with some other friends, according to a police report. The youths eventually confessed to stealing the animals, the report said.

With a total of $319, the animals were part of a display in front of Genitt's Hole-in-the-Wall.

FELONY ARREST — A man stopped at Northville Downs for suspected possession of marijuana over the weekend was later found to be wanted by Detroit police.

The man was picked up Saturday night by Northville police and a routine check showed an outstanding charge against the man of carrying a concealed weapon, a report said. The Detroit Police Department picked up the man by helicopter the next day.

AUTO THEFT — Two automobiles were reported stolen from the Meijer parking lot at Haggerty and Eight Mile recently.

A Novi resident lost a GMC truck valued at $18,700 between 7 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Dec. 5, a police report said. The auto was found stripped in Detroit.

Glass on the ground near where the vehicle was parked led police to conclude the driver's window was probably broken to get into it. Detroit police later impounded the vehicle, which by that time was missing its license plate, wheels and tires, all four doors, radio, clock, battery, mirrors and assorted engine parts.

In addition, an '85 Buick Regal valued at $7,000 was reported stolen from the lot between 9:45 and 6:15 Dec. 3. That investigation is continuing.

RACIAL INSULT? — A township resident who found some signs on the front lawn recently believes there may have been a racial motivation.

Six house-for-sale signs were placed on the front lawn of a township home between 9 p.m. Dec 2 and 9:30 a.m. Dec. 3. In a report to police, the homeowner said the incident might have been racially motivated.

PARTY STORE BREAK-IN — The Six-N-Park store at Six Mile and Northville Road was broken into last week, according to a police report.

Township police discovered the break-in while responding to another call at about 4:20 a.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6, the report said. The building suffered about $200 damage, but nothing was reported missing.

EIGHT-HAGGERTY ACCIDENTS — Two accidents were reported at the Eight Mile-Haggerty intersection last Wednesday evening, according to township police reports.

In the first, a Milford resident was ticketed for failure to yield after turning onto Haggerty from the Meijer lot and hitting another vehicle, according to a report.

A few hours later, an Ypsilanti resident got a ticket for the same offense after turning left from Eight Mile to Haggerty in the path of another vehicle, a report said.

No injuries were reported in either incident.

S. MAIN-SEVEN MILE ACCIDENTS — The area around S. Main Street and Seven Mile Road was the site of two accidents a few hours apart Saturday, according to city police reports.

A Livonia resident was ticketed for failure to yield after an accident about 12:15 p.m. Saturday. The car turned onto Seven Mile and hit a second, causing both vehicles to hit a third, according to a report.

At about 4:30 p.m. a Warren resident pulled out in front of another vehicle, and was also cited for failure to yield, a report said.

Neither accident caused any injuries, the report said.

LAWN VANDALISM — About $100 damage was done to a township lawn last week, according to a police report.

Between 5 and 6:30 p.m. Friday, someone went to a home on Woodhill and drove over a mailbox post. The post, two newspaper delivery boxes, two plastic garbage cans and about 10 feet of grass was reported damaged.

RESTAURANT DAMAGED — About $300 damage was done to the back doors at the Northville Crossing restaurant in what may have been an attempted burglary, according to a township police report.

The doors were attacked between 2 p.m. Dec. 4 and 9 a.m. the next morning. One door apparently had several shots from a pellet gun fired at it, the report said.

AUTO VANDALISM — Salt and lead pellets were dumped into the gas tank of a car parked on Savoy Court late last month, according to a township police report.

The incident took place between 9 p.m. Nov. 29 and 1 a.m. that morning. The car was cleaned out at a cost of about $150, the report said.

WINDOW SMASHED — The rear window of an auto on Fairbrook was smashed last week, a city police report said.

The incident happened between 7:30 and 8:55 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 6. Damage was set at $120.

DRUNK DRIVING BOUNDUP — Township and city police issued at least 5 violations for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor recently, according to reports. The incidents included:

• A Livonia resident arrested early Friday tested with a blood alcohol level of .24 percent, more than twice the level considered OUIL.

Township police stopped the driver on Haggerty near Seven Mile at 1:17 a.m. Friday after watching the car cross the center line. The driver was taken to the police station and eventually to Providence Hospital's Novi Center, where a blood test at 3:35 registered a blood alcohol level of .24 percent. In Michigan, .10 is considered OUIL. The driver faces a Jan. 13 court date.

• Police stopped an Allen Park resident on Seven Mile near Haggerty after watching the car swerve and almost hit the police car at 1:04 a.m. Saturday, according to a police report. The driver was taken to the police station and administered tests for blood alcohol content, with two results of .17 percent. The driver was released at 9:30 that morning after posting $100 bond.

EIGHT-NOVI ACCIDENT — A left-turning car caused an accident at the Eight Mile-Nowi Road intersection Friday, according to a city police report.

The driver turned into the path of another vehicle at 9:19 p.m. and was ticketed for failure to yield. No injuries were reported.

Township, residents wait for Tax Tribunal date over lawsuit

Norman Warner and a few other residents of the area just below Meadowbrook Country Club are still waiting to hear if they have to pay for a water system they don't want.

Some residents of Phillips, Pierson and Smock streets in Northville Township are opposing the formation of a special assessment district (SAD) to bring water service to the area. After an appeal was thrown out of Wayne County Circuit Court because of jurisdictional conflict, the group is looking to a hearing before the state Tax Tribunal.

However, Warner said Monday that they have not heard anything from the Tax Tribunal on when their case might be heard. "In the meantime, they're putting the system through," he said.

Township officials have said the water line is needed because wells in the area are going dry.

If the Tax Tribunal denies the residents' appeal, Warner said they will move to the Court of Appeals.

Court appearance set in drug arrest

A Northville Township resident charged with delivery and possession of a controlled substance is scheduled to be in court Friday.

The Wayne County Sheriff's department has accused Zoufickar Nehmeh with one count of the charge, arising from a raid on his Maple Hills home and River Rouge business last month. He is scheduled for arraignment in Wayne County Circuit Court tomorrow.

According to a clerk at the 26th District Court in River Rouge, Nehmeh stood mute during a preliminary examination Dec. 2 before Judge Raymond Charro.

A conviction on the charge could carry a sentence of up to life in prison.

The sheriff's department charges that an undercover deputy paid $23,000 for a kilo of cocaine at Nehmeh's Car Center in River Rouge. The raid on Nehmeh's home allegedly netted another 30 ounces of cocaine.

Nehmeh's attorney could not be reached to respond to the charge.

Office zone OK'd

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Acting on a recommendation from the planning commission, Northville Township Board of Trustees unanimously approved rezoning three parcels of property near the southeast corner of Haggerty and Six Mile roads.

The board's action, which took place at its Dec. 8 meeting, will allow the property to be rezoned from R-3 (single-family residential) to OS-1 (office service district).

As part of the Haggerty Road Corridor, the rezoning was requested by the Stratford Development Company to eventually build a small office complex.

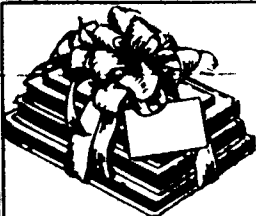

Northville Township Planning Commission approved the rezoning with an 8-0 vote at their Nov. 10 meeting. At the same time, planners recommended the rezoning be approved by the township board of trustees.

A favorable recommendation for the office rezoning also was issued by the Wayne County Planning Commission. County planners, in a written memo, advised township officials to "monitor development in the area closely so that it does not get ahead of provision of sewer and water."

Upon approving the Stratford rezoning, several trustees expressed concerns that the rezoning not creep any further along Six Mile Road because of various projects already proposed in the area.

It was noted that property zoned for the future development of Ward Presbyterian Church is located across the street from the rezoned parcels of land.

Christmas. But again, we can't discount the fact that Christmas is present wherever you go."

The line the schools try to walk is to recognize Christmas and its meaning while at the same time stressing that those beliefs are not shared by everyone, Bell said.

"I have advised our people to keep our kids aware that this is just one voice of one part of our culture," Bell said. "That is not to say we're not going to sing any Christmas music at the Christmas program, because we are."

"This is the holiday season in American culture," he continued. "I've told (teachers) to use good judgment. I think it would be a shame to prohibit performances of certain standard cultural activities that our kids are accustomed to. I think if they are presented properly, they can (occur) without offending any parts of our culture."

Bell said the holiday has never really been an issue in the district, but that if a student does not want to participate in such an activity, they would not have to take part. "They have every right not to," he said.

Merchants report OK holiday sales

By BOB NEEDHAM

Just before the home stretch of the marathon holiday shopping season, downtown merchants are reporting another year of at least decent sales.

"It's going very, very well. Everyone's extremely pleased," said Laurie Marra, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. Stores in the central business district are almost universally reporting an excellent Christmas season, she said.

And the stores are not the only ones. "Even restaurants are showing an increase. People are downtown shopping, and are stopping to eat," Marra said.

One big change this year is many downtown stores opening on Sunday for the holiday shoppers, Marra said. They include Lapham's, Del's Department Store, Judy's Curtains, and the Kitchen Witch, in addition to other stores which keep Sunday hours throughout the year.

"Santa Claus being down there from 12 to 5 helps a lot," Marra added.

Williamsburg Inspirations is one of the stores trying Sunday hours this year. Partner Micki Aitken said although the store's sales are down slightly this year, it has still been a successful season, and the Sunday hours have helped make it so. "It seems like everything is down a little bit," she said. "But we're still doing well."

The Northville Jewelers are doing land-office business this season, owner Alan LaVine reported. A recent move from Cady Street to the new Plagens mini-mall on Main and Hutton is the big reason behind the increase, he said.

People who knew of his location on Cady often simply did not go down there, he said, but now they do — and that's especially true of pedestrian traffic.

"I get more in one day than I got there in a week," LaVine said.

Sparr's Flowers is reporting an increase in business over last year, the store's first year in Northville.

"We're selling a lot of poinsettias and a lot of outgoing wire orders," Manager / Designer Trish Brennan said. "It seems like we're doing better than last year."

Tap fees approved

New water and sewer main connection fees were approved by the Northville Township Board of Trustees at its Dec. 8 meeting.

The fees are revisions to current township ordinances, explained Township Trustee Thomas Handyside, also chairperson of the Township Water and Sewer Commission.

Handyside said the revisions are a means of funding the Western Townships Utility Authority (WTUA). A cut-off date of Dec. 31 was established for application of the new fees.

"We feel the living unit fees are more applicable than the current formula," Handyside said. Water main connection fees accepted by the township after Dec. 31 consist of $1,500 per living unit.

For connections to the system prior to Dec. 31, fees will be based on the size of the water meter installed — the method currently used by the township.

As approved by the township board, sewer main connection fees to systems after Dec. 31 consist of $3,000 per living unit.

Prior to Dec. 31, sewer main connections are based on the size of the water meter installed.

The new fees were approved by the township board with a 7-0 vote.

Board settles disagreement over Eight Mile bus stop

By LYRIC MATSON

With a decision that received applause from the homeowners and parents present, the Northville Board of Education solved a safety problem at a bus stop on Eight Mile Road entering the Quail Ridge subdivision.

The Board voted unanimously Monday to direct the administration to find two new schoolbuses for possible purchase. The buses would have shorter wheel bases enabling them to turn in the subdivision cul-de-sacs.

With this vote, the Board made it possible to move the pick-up point from Eight Mile into the subdivision. Concerns had been raised about the safety of the children standing on a road that has experienced increased traffic as a result of growth in the area and the inaccessibility of I-275 off Nine Mile Road.

Children would instead be picked up at Woodridge Court, the first cul-de-sac inside the subdivision.

Members of the Board Policy Subcommittee met with representatives of the Quail Ridge Homeowner's

Association Dec. 5 to discuss their request for additional transportation service to the subdivision, a situation which had been discussed numerous times in recent years.

The specific request made by the Homeowners Association was that a bus enter the subdivision to pick up the children, forcing the bus to back up in order to turn around. This brought into question a long standing administrative policy that school buses are forbidden to back up during a K-12 run. This is a policy widely maintained in many school districts for safety reasons.

At a meeting Monday, the Board of Education voted to maintain that administrative policy prohibiting school buses from backing up in the normal conduct of a general education run. Previous to the vote Superintendent George Bell stated, "We can research this forever and ever and we're not going to get a different answer than we have now." In a memo to the Board he asserted, "... the fact remains that backing up a bus is less safe than not backing up a bus."

School Board President Jean Hansen said at the meeting that "From the standpoint of any board of education, busing is one of the most difficult issues we ever have to deal with."

The Board dealt with the Quail Ridge issue by investigating the availability of a 66 passenger bus with a shorter wheel base, a vehicle which could negotiate the short turn radius requirements of a residential neighborhood cul-de-sac such as those in Quail Ridge.

Each year, the Board buys four to six school buses to keep the fleet in working order. Bell recommended in his memo to the board that "the purchase of two short wheelbase, snub front diesel buses be authorized as soon as comparative research and actual testing on site of the turning radius can be accomplished."

At best, the new buses could be operational by the third week of January, 1989. Until then parents are urged to continue monitoring the behavior of their children at the bus stop to ensure their best possible safety.

Will holiday mean new sign at school?

Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz isn't making any promises.

But this is, after all, the season of Santa Claus, Charlie Brown's little tree and the happening on 94th Street. And maybe, she said, just maybe, the season can work its wonders and install a sign outside Our Lady of Providence school.

"Maybe we should expect a Christmas miracle. Stranger things have happened," Heintz said Tuesday. "I think it's about time we expect a miracle over there on Beck Road, maybe next week."

The school has been seeking a sign along the lines of "Caution — Handicapped Students in Area." But county officials have a policy against putting up such signs. And township officials denied a request to put up the sign themselves, on an attorney's recommendation that installing a sign could be taken as assuming the liability for the road.

Sounds like the sign won't happen? Not according to Heintz, who said — refusing to get any more specific — that "it's the season for good things to happen."

Downtown vets eyed

munities. Cleanliness, odor and noise control in a totally interior environment are of utmost importance. Therefore, it is now common to find aesthetically pleasing, small animal veterinary facilities located within central business districts and serving as great assets to their surrounding communities," Zarish's letter reads.

The city's planning consultant firm, Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, is recommending against allowing vets in the CBD, while suggesting that they might go in local commercial district (LCD) or professional business office (PBO) classifications, possibly as a special land use.

A memo from Ayres, Lewis refers to "the specter of boarding small animals on-site" if vets went into the CBD. Zarish said she would not board, but some seriously ill animals could require hospitalization on the site.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman added at last week's commission meeting that nearby parking should always be present for a vet's office, and might not be in the CBD. "In our opinion, a veterinary clinic is not appropriate in the CBD," he said.

Planning Commissioner Kathleen Otton has been supporting the idea of vets downtown as a service to residents, especially those without an auto. "I feel the CBD is the place for them, where they are with other businesses and would at no time cause an annoyance to a residence," she said at the meeting.

"I don't think a veterinary clinic is likely to be that much of a blot on the landscape," Commissioner David Totten agreed.

Commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin said he had reservations about allowing veterinary clinics in the CBD. That type of business might not encourage development in the area, he said.

In previous meetings, some commissioners had also expressed worries about smells and noise coming from a veterinary office.

Two other veterinarians — both with practices in Northville Township — were in the audience at the meeting, and both expressed interest in moving downtown if possible.

After some discussion about how an ordinance change could best be accommodated, the commission eventually voted 5-4 to direct Wortman to write up a proposed ordinance change for consideration.

Otton, Totten, Chris Gazlay, Don McCulloch and Greg Presley voted for the motion. Hardin, David Mielock, Roland Stapleton and Dick Wilhelm voted no.

Radon test kits available from group

Northville Township officials want residents to know that home kits to test for radon gas are available from the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan.

"They would prefer that as many people as possible buy radon kits from them," Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said this week. ALASEM will collate all the results they get and send them on to local governments, she added.

The Northville Township Board recently voted not to sell radon test kits out of Township Hall, saying that it would be an inappropriate venture into private business.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas which forms naturally in the ground. It seeps into homes and can collect in poorly-ventilated areas. The gas is believed to cause lung cancer in high concentrations; the EPA blames it for 20,000 deaths each year.

The Environmental Protection Agency recommends corrective action if a thoroughly-tested home shows a radon concentration of more than 4 picocuries per liter. A sampling of test results show a potential problem: Initial ALASEM figures showed about 20 of 60 homes in the 48167 ZIP code above the standard. EPA figures show four of eight local homes above the standard. Recent results from a private testing company showed 23 of 31 homes above the standard.

For more information about radon, or to buy a radon test kit, anyone may contact the American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan at 559-5100. The office is at 18860 W. Ten Mile Road, Southfield; 48075.

Some recommended steps to cut down radon concentration — short of costly home alterations — include opening all windows whenever practical, keeping crawl space vents open all year, and sealing gas entry points with a non-porous, non-cracking material.

Officials will survey questionnaire

City of Northville residents may soon be finding a special survey in their mail asking all sorts of things dealing with their opinion of the city.

The questionnaire is an early step in the city Planning Commission's review and update of the city Master Plan. The survey, approved by the commission last week and planned for release soon, asks 22 questions to use in developing various aspects of the Master Plan.

In addition to those residents who get the questionnaire in the mail, copies are expected to be available for anyone else interested in the city's future. The questionnaire will be distributed to residents in the downtown area.

The survey are in the forms with which the residents are asked to "strongly agree," "no opinion," "disagree" or "agree."

The questionnaire was written by Jim Ayres, Lewis, Northville, with participation from other members and other parking is needed in downtown area.

• The types of stores and services and goods provided is acceptable.

• The scale of downtown buildings, building height and design character is acceptable.

• The city recreation programs and facilities are satisfactory.

• Main streets within the city are currently adequate and capable of handling existing traffic.

The survey also asks about reasons for moving to Northville and for additional comments.

The commission approved the questionnaire 8-1, agreeing that it would not go out until the distribution was settled. Commissioner Don McCulloch cast the dissenting vote after saying the survey should include more questions about traffic.

Township settles on cost of pact for sewer capacity

Northville Township officials recently agreed to pay rent and operating expenses of $112,427.81 to the Western Townships Utilities Authority (WTUA) as part of contractual obligations with the Ypsilanti Community Utility Authority (YCUA).

The board's action occurred at its Dec. 8 meeting. Payment of the $112,427.81 was approved with a 7-0 vote.

Trustee Thomas Handyside, who is also chairperson of the Water and Sewer Commission, explained that the expenses come directly out of a contract signed by the township in late September.

WTUA communities — Northville, Plymouth and Canton — entered into the contract to acquire, construct and finance a waste water transportation system.

The agreement called for Northville Township to pay rental and operating costs to YCUA for the period ending March 1, 1989.

Initial rent payment for all involved communities was calculated at $24,162.90. Northville Township's share of the rent payment is 22.8 percent of the total, or $51,109.14. In addition, the township's share of operating expenses through March 1, 1989 is $16,318.67. The combined cost equals $112,427.81.

Under terms of the contract, WTUA will tie into the YCUA system by Jan. 1, 1993; YCUA will treat up to 8.7 million gallons per day from WTUA in its facility; WTUA will construct an outfall to the Rouge River, which YCUA will lease for 99 years; WTUA will have the right to participate in any YCUA plant expansion and will have a 99-year lease on the portion of the plant expansion WTUA finances; and WTUA will pay all costs of transporting wastewater to the Ypsilanti plant.

Township police get computers

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Township police officials won't be forced to borrow computers anymore because soon they'll have a few computers of their own.

Northville Township Board of Trustees approved the purchase of a computer system for the police department at its Dec. 8 meeting.

Board trustees voted 7-0 to purchase the computer system for $6,243.

Township Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty explained that previously the department used word processors when gathering information. He said police officials also borrowed computers from the township manager's office when needed.

Hardesty told board members the borrowed computer was frequently shuffled back and forth between departments, causing inconvenience and confusion.

"Presently we do hand recording," Hardesty continued, referring to the process used when compiling the police department's statistics. "The department has grown to a point where it can't be handled that way effectively."

Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen noted that the computer equipment would be compatible to other equipment in the township.

Henningsen said he was in favor of purchasing the equipment.

Original estimates for the computer system totaled $7,123, but the cost was reduced by $879 with the elimination of a printer, Hardesty explained. He said the system could be operated effectively with one printer at this time.

"I'm glad to see it's going in," Henningsen remarked after the board approved the computer purchase. "This will increase efficiency."

Hardesty thanked the township board for its support and said the computers would be a welcome addition to the township police department.

Happy ending to home birth tale

By ANNE E. WILLIS

Zachary Barry is a kid in a hurry. On a peaceful afternoon in November, Zachary decided to come into the world — and he wasn't waiting for anybody.

Marianne Barry, nine-months pregnant with her third child, knew that the time had come at approximately 5:45 p.m. on Nov. 22. Her husband, Thom, took the couple's two daughters, Caitlin, 4, and Blakely, 3, to a neighbor's house. While there, he received an urgent call from his wife. Things were moving quickly and "we won't be leaving the house," was the way she remembers putting it.

Thom called 911 and another neighbor, Dr. Sarah Clune, a pediatrician and friend of the family. First on the scene were two friendly, albeit nervous Northville police officers. Next came Dr. Sally. And next? Little Zachary.

The healthy seven pound, seven ounce bundle of joy was delivered at 6:30 p.m. by his neighbor, into the waiting arms of a very happy mother and a very relieved father.

While the whole family laughs about the incident now, Marianne in no way recommends "home births" to others. "It was traumatic," she said. "I was concerned, but when I saw Sally's face I was relieved. Sally was so calm, and I really didn't have much time to think about it," she said. Sally's reaction? A matter-of-fact "it had to be done."

Neither mother or child had any trouble during the delivery which was the real blessing, Dr. Clune noted. "There is a much, too much risk involved in planning on having a baby at home," she said.

But now that the unique event is over Marianne Barry has some normal hindsight. "If I'd known I was going to happen that way I would have planned better," she said laughing. "It had some rough edges to it."

A friend's congratulatory card summed up a lot of feelings she said. "He wrote — 'I thought only Dominoes delivered in less than 30 minutes.'"

Cellular phone tower set

By BRENDA DOOLEY

The age of cellular phones may soon make its mark on Northville.

Ameritech Mobile Communications received preliminary site plan approval from the Northville Planning Commission last week to mount a cellular telephone antenna on the water tower located on the Northville State Hospital property.

Plans also call for the location of a 12-foot by 24-foot unmanned building at the west base of the water tower to house telephone transmission equipment. As proposed, the structure will consist of a prefabricated storage building, a factor that caused concern among some of the township planners.

Planning Commission Vice Chairperson Marvin Goss explained that planners were striving to achieve consistent facades on structures within the township. He asked that brick be considered as an exterior facade to the proposed building.

Richard Riley, a representative of Ameritech, argued that the small storage building would not be visible from passers-by.

Goss also suggested that the area near the building be landscaped and noted that no landscaping details were included on the submitted site plan. He acknowledged that the site would be considered a leased lot, separate from the rest of the hospital property, and asked that landscaping be included as it would for any other parcel of property.

Riley said that generally Ameritech officials try not to disturb the existing landscaping near any of the company's structures. In this case he commented that landscaping at the site consists mainly of grass.

Because the company normally does not receive requests to landscape, Riley said landscaping materials were not shown on the plans. He added that company officials could provide any type of landscaping that was required. As the popularity of cellular telephones grows, Riley said the demand for expanding Ameritech's service area also grows. He explained that the Northville site would allow the company to increase capacity to its customers. He said officials were eager to begin installation as soon as possible and asked planners to grant him final site plan approval as well as preliminary site plan approval.

Commissioners, however, asked that landscaping and detailed building specifications be submitted to them before considering final approval.

Commissioner Karen Woodside asked if the antenna and storage building would have any adverse impact to homeowners in the area.

"I anticipate none," Riley responded. "We have never experienced any type of interference with equipment and televisions, radios, pacemakers ..."

Planners granted preliminary site plan approval on a 8-0 vote. Commissioner John Leinenon was absent from the meeting.

Township continues SADs

Plans for locating water and sanitary sewer assessment districts in the area near Northville Township's Ambrose Estates recently moved forward.

Northville Township Board of Trustees voted to continue establishment of both districts at its Dec. 8 meeting.

Trustees discussed what would happen if a property owner was not able to pay the costs of being located in a special assessment district (SAD) as well as the possibility of establishing an appeals process for a property owner to follow if faced with the problem.

Water and Sewer Commission Chairperson Thomas Handyside commented that such a process would be advisable and recommended that the commission be authorized to define the criteria for establishing hardship. Later in the meeting, trustees voted 7-0 to turn the matter over to the Water and Sewer Commission for further study.

The water and sewer SADs are bounded by Bradner and Robinwood streets and Five Mile Road.

Township officials plan to conduct a public hearing on establishing the Ambrose water and sewer districts on Feb. 9.

Several appointments were recently made to a variety of Northville Township boards.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss announced the appointments at the Northville Township Board of Trustees Dec. 8 meeting.

Three openings on the township Board of Appeals were filled by Don Sambhat, Karen Baja and the third to be filled by liaison members Thomas Cook and Donald Williams, both of whom will serve alternating one-year terms.

Northville Township Planning Commission had three vacancies and Goss re-appointed current planning commissioners Pat Wright and Jerry Chisnell to serve two of the three-year terms. Goss tabled naming an appointment to fill the third three-year term on the planning commission.

Russell Fogg, Zoe Chisnell and Frank St. Louis were appointed to serve on the Township Board of Review, each to serve a two-year term.

Goss also appointed Robert Russell to serve on the Northville Area Citizens Advisory Council for a three-year term.

A three-year term on the Township Beautification Committee was tabled by Goss.

The site proposed for Hatchery Lane

City rejects Hatchery Lane due to parking concerns

By BOB NEEDHAM

After being turned down for zoning variances and then told their project was too big, a local development group was told again last week that their plan is still too big — but they don't plan to give up.

The Hatchery Lane Associates want to put up a few condominiums on Fairbrook just east of Fish Hatchery Park. What they've proposed in three different forms has been turned down three different times by city boards, but the project engineer said Monday the group will probably submit plans again.

The latest denial came from the city Planning Commission Tuesday, Dec. 6. A four-unit condo plan — scaled down from five units — met with commission rejection on an 8-1 vote.

"We do agree with you," engineer Richard Scramstad told the commission in introducing the four-unit plan. "We have totally eliminated one of the units."

Scramstad said the change would allow a wider road and more landscaping on the site, which is 614 acre abutting the park. A review letter from Planning Consultant Don Wortman concluded the plan met city regulations for zoning, density, setbacks and similar concerns. The letter recommended some changes to landscaping and parking arrangements, and asked for some additional information on the plan.

Members of the Planning Commission objected to several aspects of the new plan, including the fact that the very latest version was submitted to Wortman the day before the meeting. "It becomes extraordinarily difficult to hit this moving target," Commissioner Rolland Stapleton said.

But the commission went ahead with consideration of the plan, with some members saying parking was still a problem, particularly for anyone visiting the condos.

"The thing has a design problem, and if you're the designer, that's your problem," Commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin said. "There is no place for people to park visiting the middle (two) units."

Other commissioners raised questions about access to the units for emergency vehicles and garbage trucks if cars were parked in the way. "The density is less, but the site circulation problems have not been addressed."

In moving that the plan be denied, Stapleton called the plan "too much and too little ... zoning ordinance compliance doesn't mean good planning." On an 8-1 vote, the commission rejected the plan because of inadequate on-site parking, traffic circulation, and potential hazards to through traffic on Seven Mile Road because of site design. Commissioner David Totten dissented.

Scramstad said Monday the development group would probably submit another plan revision.

"I believe the project is still going to go ahead," he said. "We're trying to resolve their comments."

The project could be back before the commission for its second meeting in January, Scramstad added.

Hatchery Lane previously had trouble at the Planning Commission in June, when commissioners told the group that the five-unit configuration was too much for the site, even though it was within the legal limits. Prior to that, in March, an earlier version of the plan was denied some variances by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Ficano accused of misconduct

Wayne County's jail controversy sent off another bombshell this week. A highly placed jail official accused Sheriff Robert Ficano of using jail personnel and food to assist the sheriff's November re-election bid.

Cmdr Richard Stover alleged Ficano used jail workers to assist his campaign bid and used jail money to pay for 300-400 meals at a pro-Ficano senior citizens campaign rally.

Stover, a 24-year department veteran, was recently promoted by Ficano to director of jail services.

The comments were made Nov. 30 during Stover's deposition before chief Wayne County Circuit Judge Richard Kaufman in the continuation of a lawsuit first filed in 1971.

Ficano, who easily won re-election Nov. 8, called the charges "unequivocally untrue" and the product of "rumors and innuendos, not facts."

"If anybody wanted to work on my campaign they did so on their own hours," Ficano said. Ficano said fewer volunteers were needed because of the nature of this year's campaign.

"Our campaign this time was primarily in the media. There wasn't the lawn signs and the kind of things we've done in the past," he said.

The allegation jail food was used at campaign stops was also untrue, Ficano said. "I don't even know what event he's referring to," Ficano said. "We had two senior citizen activities and food was donated for both."

The flame burning atop the SOMOCO oil well on Napier in Northville Township

from escaping and prevents fumes from going into the air, according to Harris.

Harris said the well next to the Jezewski house was shut down on Aug. 16 after the family complained. The well was kept off-line until Saturday, Dec. 10, so that a vapor recovery system could be installed.

Although the well itself is an oil well, siphoning oil from the reef deep within Maybury State Park, there always is a considerable amount of natural gas associated with oil wells, Harris said. The gas in this well is tapped and sold to the power company just behind the well.

On Monday morning the well was easy to spot because of a flare burning occasionally from the pipe. A safety flare tower is attached to all wells, Harris said. The idea is if gas does build up in the well and if for some reason the compressor which runs the vapor recovery system fails, then the excess gas is released and burnt off — preventing any chance of explosion from trapped gas.

The Jezewskis said they were not happy with the sound and sight of the flare, either. A guest at the home had been scared by the loud sound of the flare going off on Saturday night, Mariene said, and the reflection of the flame was noticeable in the house at night. "At night it's like having a big night light out there," she said.

The compressor that will run the vapor recovery system was not working, Harris said, but he expected to have it operational by the end of the week. After that, the flare would only light as a safety device, not on a regular basis, he said.

The oil well is expected to be on the site for the next 10-15 years, Harris said.

Harris noted that the company did not intentionally try to locate the well on the present site. The oil was found beneath Maybury State Park and a state law forbids drilling in any state parks. Several sites were looked at for the drilling operation, including the Jezewski property. The Consumers Power area proved to be the most accessible, he said.

Harris said SOMOCO is looking at only one other drilling project in Northville at this time, and that site is not on or directly near any homes.

Wayne reaches budget accord

A Wayne County budget showdown was averted Monday after county Executive Edward McNamara and county commissioners reached agreement on outlays for day-to-day county operations.

McNamara had threatened to veto all or part of the $254.3 million county operating budget, however, no action was taken as of the close of business Monday — the last day McNamara could have issued a veto.

Compromise budget revisions are expected to be approved during the commission's Dec. 15 meeting. A special commission meeting scheduled for Tuesday was canceled.

The executive and commissioners smoothed over differences during meetings late last week and early this week. McNamara agreed to the final compromise Monday, by telephone from Colorado, where he was taking a vacation.

"We're pleased," deputy county executive Michael Duggan said. "This is a good agreement. It provides for a balanced budget."

Among key compromises: Commissioners returned $3 million McNamara sought in child care payments to the state. The money, taken from the county's new 1-mill jail tax, will be used to pay the state for housing young county offenders.

McNamara will regain the ability to freeze county hiring by impounding county outlays. Commissioners initially sought to remove the executive's impounding ability, saying such responsibility properly belonged to the commission. The move will restore the executive-appointed county freeze committee. McNamara said the committee was necessary to help keep county bond ratings high.

Commissioners were allowed to keep a $310,000 increase they voted themselves to pay staff members. Commissioners said the increase was necessary because of a recent Michigan Employment Relations Commission ruling that placed their staff members in county unions.

A new executive's office post, assistant county executive for criminal justice, was created. Commissioners originally deleted financing for the post from McNamara's budget proposal. The new post will oversee court activities and child care payments, Duggan said. "Our child care payments were $16 million in 1986 and $29 million in 1988. Obviously, something has to be done." The post is expected to be filled by deputy county clerk Bryan Amann.

Other compromises involved the county jail.

Commissioners are expected to restore $800,000 they deleted from the jail operations budget. They will, however, receive more information from the county executive on $2.6 million sought to expand the county jail and $1.2 million sought for youth home expansion before projects are authorized. Commissioners created a new, unallocated jail fund with that money. The unallocated fund, they believe, gives them greater input into how the money will be spent.

In an apparent concession last week, commissioners voluntarily reduced an increase they had made to the sheriff's secondary road patrol budget, returning the money to the department's overtime budget.

The $500,000 transfer from overtime would have increased county debt by at least that much, McNamara said.

The budget went into effect Dec. 1. McNamara had until Monday to veto the document under provisions of the county charter. Ironically, the charter gives commissioners no time limit for an override attempt.

McNamara could have vetoed the entire budget or any single part he found offensive. Unlike the president, the Wayne County executive possesses a line-item veto.

Planners discuss new long-range studies

By BOB NEEDHAM

The City of Northville has recently started two large-scale studies of the community's future. One, an update and rewrite of the city Master Plan, will consider everything from community goals to transportation to zoning specific land parcels. The other, the Cady Street Corridor study, is looking in detail at the possibilities of Cady and the surrounding area.

Both studies are being funded with Community Development Block Grant money, and both are being conducted by the planning and engineering firm Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May of Ann Arbor. Don Wortman, the city's planning consultant, is working on the projects with Glenn Bowles, also of Ayres, Lewis.

In an interview last week, the Record asked Wortman and Bowles about the projects and the issues which are a part of them. Their responses appear below, with minor editing for clarity.

Q: Could you briefly describe the work you're doing with the studies? What steps are you going through?

Wortman: The Master Plan is a plan for the overall development of the city. The last one was conducted in 1970. It's been over seven years. The current one is outdated and really has to be updated.

That will examine existing land use (and future land use). It will concentrate on the downtown area, the entry corridors, infilling of certain vacant parcels that are of concern, for example the parcels around the race track.

Other transitional parcels are also key. The City of Northville is, for the most part, developed. There is not a whole lot more room for growth in the city. But there are selected parcels that are in transition. This Master Plan will key in on those, and also key in on some of the issues.

The Cady Street corridor is going to be a master plan, only on a much smaller scale. We're going to do an intensive study of the area from Center Street about two blocks to the east.

Really, our study area extends from the Ford plant all the way to the library, or to the Scout Building. So we'll take a look at a much larger area.

Q: What kinds of things will you do in the Cady Corridor study that won't be covered in the general Master Plan?

Wortman: In the Cady (study), I think parking will be a big issue, how that interfaces with the downtown. Certainly, we've heard that parking is a major concern.

Another thing is, the city owns a fair number of parcels along Cady Street. The question becomes: What is the best and highest use for those parcels? Is it commercial land use? Is it residential land use? Is it office land use? It raises a number of questions that have to be addressed.

The third issue on Cady Street, I think, is the character of that area. How high should the buildings be? What is the architectural character? What is the image quality? The Planning Commission, the DDA (Downtown Development Authority), the Historic District Commission — I think they all are very concerned about the character, the visual quality of Northville.

There are concerns about growth management; you don't want to become just another run-of-the-mill community. I think there are a lot of concerns that Northville retain its unique character. I think we have to define that character, and then somehow preserve it or enhance it or promote it along Cady Street. I think that's the challenge that we've got in front of us.

Recently at the Planning Commission, there was some discussion about how far you can plan a community's character — can the city determine it, does it have to be the free market that determines it, or somewhere in between? What's your view on that?

Wortman: I think it's somewhere in the middle. It's a tough question, and a good question.

Do we want to dictate the types of shops and stores that are in there? That's going to be hard to do. That runs smack in the face of our economic system.

But, on the other hand, I think we can encourage some of the character, through site plan review, master plan efforts, working with the DDA. I think we can kind of mold things; I don't think we can stamp out exactly what we want. I think we can kind of push things towards one end or the other, and then let it evolve from there.

Bowles: We'll be setting the general direction, but we can't dictate which shop goes in where. We can provide a direction and a general, overall theme or development pattern.

For one specific case, a lot of people were sad to see the D & C move out of town because of high rents. Is there any way that planning efforts can head off that type of thing? Or is that dictated entirely by the free market?

Bowles: The people and the market area would determine that. They haven't provided enough sales for the time store in the downtown to sustain the rent. Your community has told us that. We would lament the passing of that, too, but we would also lament the passing of the downtown theater as a Saturday matinee theater.

The downtown — all downtowns — are going through drastic changes. Northville being an established, older community, at one time they processed their food down there, they sold their groceries down there. They had their blacksmith's shops downtown, their small repair stations.

The blacksmith went the way of the car, and the car has dictated our shopping patterns. People either go to Briarwood, or Twelve Oaks, or wherever, and they don't do that particular type of shopping in the downtown anymore.

Downtown has to carve out its own niche, find its own identity. That's possibly what we're seeing here now. Northville the market area is very prosperous and wealthy. The question is: How much of that dollar can downtown Northville expect to capture? And if it's going to capture that, what is it going to have to do to market itself?

We won't be able to answer all those questions, but we'll be able to set the tone for the merchants and the DDA to go about their own business of marketing themselves.

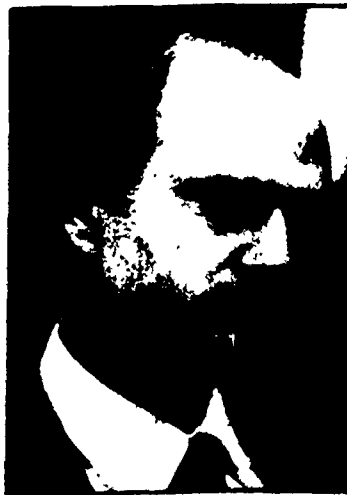

One important part of this effort is a survey of residents. What do you want it to tell you?

Bowles: We want it to tell us what the community perceives as important, and also give a general thrust for the overriding goals.

How the community perceives itself is very important. Consultants — whether they live in the community or not — are sort of apart from it. You can't dictate to a community what it thinks is important. So it's very important for us to know (how) the community sees itself, and what makes Northville Northville.

Wortman: In the Master Plan, there is going to be a section on policies. There may be policies (saying) additional parking is needed downtown. There may be policies (saying) that the community will try to minimize strip corridor commercial development. We may try to maximize recreation lands. Perhaps we will want to establish a policy that says we want to recognize the importance of the natural features, especially the Johnson Drain and the Rouge River, and create linear parks.

Those are all policies that I don't think we'll be able to develop specific plans on. But if the Planning Commission is reviewing a site plan, I think they'll be able to refer to these policies for direction in helping them make a decision.

These policies, to a large degree, will be established from the results of the questionnaire. I think it'll reflect the citizens' attitudes towards growth and development. To a large degree, the citizens, the Planning Commission, the DDA, the Historic District Commission and the City Council will all be able to mold these policies.

And that will be just as important as any maps that we develop. Because Northville is largely developed already, these policies, and these guidelines, and this general direction on the growth and character of the community, will be just as important as any land use plan.

From that standpoint I think the questionnaire is going to be very important. It's kind of to get the citizens' attitudes: What do you like about Northville? What don't you like? And then we'll be able to make interpretations from that as far as recommending direction.

There is also some thought on doing a questionnaire for the merchants. We don't know this for sure, but there's some discussion on doing a questionnaire just for the hundred or so merchants. That could specifically address the issues of what kind of shops are needed, their attitude toward parking. (But) it hasn't been formally authorized.

Are there any of those policy statements in the current Master Plan?

Bowles: There are, but they don't translate into current policy very well.

Wortman: The city is faced with a lot of issues right now. You could use bed and breakfast as one.

Or, the transition area between the downtown and the residential district, say along Dunlap Street. What is happening there? Are we gradually eating away, encroaching on those prime residential areas? Look at that as an issue. Then try to develop policies from that as to what should happen.

Bowles: Or strip commercial on South Main. A lot of side issues.

We have to understand how the older plan was developed. It wasn't geared towards policy. We're trying to gear ours more towards policy. Essentially, the land use in the city has been determined. Now we're looking at density issues, we're looking at infill issues, we're looking at corridor issues, transition issues.

What point is the questionnaire at?

Wortman: We're about 90 percent there. I think we're close to making a recommendation. It's about a three or four page questionnaire, and hopefully it will go out some time in January or February.

(The number of people surveyed) has to be determined, by the manager and City Council, partly because of budget restraints. We don't know the feasibility of sending it out to every resident, or every fourth household, something like that.

If residents do want to respond to the questionnaire, there will be additional copies available at City Hall and the library, so anybody who would like to certainly can respond.

Parking is a very important issue with any of this planning. It looks like the Main Centre project is going through now, but parking was at least a stumbling block for it. The city is addressing parking. Are there any other stumbling blocks you see down the road which might hinder this planning?

Wortman: Parking is an issue. The other one is going to be transportation. What is the roadway corridor on Cady Street? We talked about that at the last Planning Commission meeting. Should we consider other alternatives? Say, perhaps, (moving Cady) to the south? Should we consider an alternative that might even take the 90-degree intersection at Griswold and Cady Street and turn that into a sweeping turn?

What we're doing right now is investigating various road alignments and road alternatives. Because once that's established, then I think that we can come up with land use alternatives.

So parking, road alternatives, land use alternatives will all have to be looked at. And one kind of follows the other. I think we'll be able to get a feel for what type of roadway system we want on the south side of downtown, and then maybe the land use will fall into place. But we're getting into a kind of chicken-and-egg type thing, and I think we'll have to study both concurrently.

What's the best way for a resident to get involved in these efforts, to actively participate in the planning?

Wortman: Citizen input is certainly encouraged. I think the DDA and the Planning Commission both feel strongly about that.

We meet on a regular basis with the Planning Commission; the DDA meets on a regular basis. The public is certainly welcome to attend any and all of these meetings.

The other one would be to make sure they fill out the questionnaire and get their responses in.

We're in the initial phases of both (studies). As these studies gather momentum, there will be public hearings, there will be public workshops, there will be notices in the paper informing the residents of these upcoming meetings. They're certainly encouraged to attend those special meetings. I think that will be a good opportunity for residents to voice their concerns or their opinions on development.

We may also be displaying exhibits or colored illustrations of our ideas and concepts in the City Hall or the library or whatever. So that the information can get out.

After this Master Plan update, how long will it be before another is needed?

Wortman: We'll probably project this as a 10-year master plan. But I think every community should update their master plan every two years or possibly every one year. I think that was a problem in the past — since '81, we haven't done anything.

I think every year the Planning Commission should take a look at their Master Plan and update it as needed. It might be only one page or two that needs to be updated, but at least take a look at it and see what needs to be changed.

Is there anything else you'd like to bring up?

Wortman: I feel strongly about those natural resources. I don't think that the City of Northville has been utilizing or recognizing the importance of the Johnson Drain and the Rouge River. You have all that parkland along Hines Drive and so on. And even the mill pond by the Ford Plant. Somehow incorporating that a little bit more into the downtown area or into the central city. That's something we will take a long, hard look at.

You look at the bed and breakfast issue, you look at how the downtown is expanding into the existing residential area. I think maintenance of existing residential areas will be key. The impacts that Randolph Street has on some of these corridors, and Dunlap Street. I think that's going to be a primary focus.

The Master Plan has to be issue oriented. We've been working for the city since April. Since that time, I think the issues we've been faced with have been indicative of the larger scheme of things to come. I think we're going to have to make sure we get a good handle on these things, so they're reflected in the policies.

Bowles: We'll probably discuss additional issues before we get done.

The city won't be growing out any more. Population will begin to level off. I think in the next construction season we'll see the last of the big construction in town.

But it's difficult to see where the town ends and where the township begins. That might be something else we'd like to look at: To develop a unique identity to the city, so that you know you're in the city. You have a pretty good idea (now), particularly along the commercial corridors.

Wortman: Northville has an awful lot going for it. Other communities would be envious of the downtown area, the topography, the natural features that Northville has. The Historic District, the nice housing.

You have to remember that in many ways, the pluses of the community far outweigh the negatives, and you're really fortunate to have that. But I think the challenge is to improve on that, like I said before, to find what the amenities are and preserve them.

Services contract receives criticism

The new contract for shared services between the city and township governments was not immediately passed as proposed last week.

The 1989 proposed contract — with one change from this year's, giving the governments more explicit control of pay — was approved by the City Council last week, subject to one other revision. But the Township Board tabled the issue Thursday, with objections over both the whole structure of the agreement and over the council's revision.

The shared services contract covers the administration of the library, the Community Recreation Department, senior citizen services and Northville Youth Assistance, all of which are paid for by both township and city funds. The major proposed change, which was developed by a "blue-ribbon" committee of township and city officials, is more specific about the authority of the Township Board and City Council over wages and salaries for employees of shared services.

The proposal would add a phrase specifically mentioning wages and salaries along with each reference to the annual shared service budgets. In other words, where an advisory commission has been required to develop "proposed service budgets," it would now be required to develop "proposed budgets and wage and salary recommendations."

In addition, the proposed change would still allow the advisory boards to modify budgets without increasing city or township costs — but it would require the approved wage and salary schedule to remain unchanged without specific approval from the Township Board and City Council.

In addition to that change, City Manager Steve Walters recommended the contract eliminate senior citizen services as a separate category, since those operations have been combined with the recreation department. The City Council approved the new contract unanimously and with little discussion, subject to the additional change, Monday, Dec. 5.

But when the issue came up before the Township Board Thursday, it encountered some resistance. A motion to approve the contract with the changes died for lack of a second.

Trustee Thomas Handyside said the township should have more say than the city in administering the shared services, since the township pays more of the cost. The share paid by the township and city comes from a formula based on total state-equalized property value, and the township's SEV is larger than the city's.

The board passed a motion to table the contract 7-0.

Water plans approved

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Paths were cleared for the establishment of a water assessment district in the Haggerty/Six Mile road area when Northville Township Board members approved initial stages of the project last week.

A public hearing about the water assessment district was held Dec. 8, prior to the Northville Township Board of Trustees meeting. Action was taken on the issue later in the meeting, when trustees voted 7-0 to continue progress on setting up the special assessment district.

Engineering Consultant Abe Munfah explained that currently proposed plans call for extending an existing 16-inch water line from Six Mile Road to Haggerty Road to provide water service in the area. The line narrows to 12 inches in portions of the water district but Munfah said the size reduction would be more than adequate to meet water needs.

Munfah added that the district is in accordance with the township's recently approved Utility Master Plan.

Total cost of construction, engineering and design is currently estimated at $485,372, although Munfah said the figure is only a projected cost and could change in the future.

The cost translates into about $425 for each single unit developed within the water assessment district, according to Munfah.

Harold Larson, representing Ward Presbyterian Church, told the board that he advocated approval of the district. He explained that church officials initiated the water assessment district and were pleased with the progress.

Our Opinions

Vet clinics downtown would be a good move

The Northville City Planning Commission recently voted to consider an ordinance change allowing veterinary offices in the central business district. The vote to even consider the ordinance change was close, 5-4. We are pleased that the commissioners will at least carry the discussion of the change a step further.

The veterinarian who applied to the commission for a change to allow her to operate an office in the downtown area made a valid point when she said veterinarian offices have changed. They are not the loud, smelly offices of old. In many ways they resemble medical doctor's offices. While the commission is right to take into account the possibility of noise and other nuisance problems that may be associated with any business in determining the proper placement of zoning, we hope they will take a long hard look at veterinary practices before turning down the idea.

Commissioner Kathleen Otton brought out a legitimate and worthwhile consideration. Today's society contains an ever-increasing number of pet owners. Having a readily accessible and easy to walk to office(s) in the downtown area would service a great many people.

pedestrian shopping and service area. Offices mix well with commercial and both downtown and township residents find the walk-around atmosphere of the area to be a decided plus. Senior citizens who live downtown can currently shop, bank, eat out, have their hair cut and visit the drugstore — all without an automobile. Doctors' and lawyers' offices add to that service and perhaps a nearby veterinary office would as well.

We appreciate the caution with which the commission is moving. But while weighing the perceived negatives, we hope they will also take the chance to measure the positives. Animals should not be boarded for long periods in the downtown area. If a sick pet is kept overnight at the vet office, will this really be disruptive to the downtown area? Pet owners and the operator of the veterinarian office should be responsible for keeping pets leashed and picking up after their animals.

Giving the ordinance a chance and allowing discussion on the subject may raise more factors to be taken into consideration. The commission made a wise move in voting to allow further consideration of this request. In fact, at first look, we can see no reason at all for veterinarians to be barred from downtown.

Newsletter issue is over; lesson should be learned

With the signing of a check for $300 and some, the controversy over the Northville Township newsletter seems to be over.

The Citizens Organized for Police Service (COPS) have agreed to pay one fourth of the cost of "Talk of the Township," the occasional newsletter that debuted shortly before the November election. At first, the township had paid for the full cost of the letter, which included endorsements of two millage questions on the election ballot.

Although the money involved is not a lot in the context of a multi-million-dollar township budget, this situation has a huge symbolic importance. After the election, it became pretty clear — at least according to state attorney general opinions, which is all that anyone has to go on — that spending tax money in support of a political cause was illegal. Nobody was about to go to jail over it; as far as state officials could tell, there was no applicable penalty at all.

But it still left a very bad taste in the mouth that tax money was spent for political causes, however worthy those causes might have been. We endorsed those same two questions, on this very page, but nobody's taxes paid for it.

The wrong was more or less righted by COPS' offer. We say "more or less" because the payment still does not address the placement of those articles in an official township publication. In addition, we wish the Township Board, rather than a private group, had taken the initiative to solve the problem. The board needs to publicly admit that it made a mistake.

The larger issue, though, can now be considered resolved. Let's hope the lesson from this situation is learned, and learned well. Our local governments have no business using public funds for political purposes.

Feeling at home

By Ann Willis

Feeling comfortable in a town or a home takes time. Sure you can move in the plants, the pictures, the chair your grandmother gave you and the dog's bed — but to feel "at home" takes more than just piling up familiar possessions in strange rooms.

I thought about this last Saturday as I cleaned the windows in my house. I've lived in a lot of places since I left college. I've been to Maine and Chicago. I've lived in flats and apartments and I've never once cleaned the windows on those places. I ducked out on the job for various reasons — no time, living on the sixth floor — but the real reason was the sense of impermanence attached to those places. They weren't mine — legally or spiritually. They weren't home.

So why are things different now? Well, the house is still rented, but the attachment is stronger. Also the person on the inside with the Windex and the paper towels is older and in the mood to settle. Suddenly matching pots and a complete set of silverware seem to be important.

I find myself thinking seriously of buying a crock pot — and less and less seriously of buying a sailboat. For the first time in my life I have towels that match. It's sort of scary.

It's not so much the possessions (although as I age my eyes tend to wander the "home" section of advertisements more and more) it's the feeling of completeness. It was fun for a while having people over and having them sit on the floor. The thrill has gone now. People my age have furniture.

So the house I call home is becoming one. The windows are clean and the dishes all match. There is silverware for eight but the glasses still don't match. Call it a transition — but call it a home.

The same thing happens as I wander through Northville. A hometown is not necessarily the place in which you grew up. It can also be the place where when you run out on a Saturday to pick up a paper you run into four people who all know your name. It makes you think seriously about dressing better on Saturday mornings. But it also makes you feel like you belong.

On Saturday night as I drove through town and looked at the lights I thought about how nice it is to call this area home.

When I was little and we would go to my grandmother's house on Sundays, I would always fall asleep in the back seat on the way home. But I would usually wake up as I felt the car turn on to the familiar streets of home. You knew the bumps, the turns and the sound the car made on the road to your house.

Now it isn't so much the paths home that I know, but more the feeling. This is where my family is. This is where I have decided to live. My dog knows the smells of the road she walks every morning and that means home to her. I know the sound the car makes as it turns up the hill on the way home every night, and that means home to me.

A series of tiny, repeated actions and sensations and before you know it — you've settled in. The smell your first batch of cookies leaves in the air of the kitchen. The nod of hello on the sidewalk outside the drugstore. Perhaps not a native, but at least a comfortable recent addition.

not exactly in the holiday spirit, you're right.

Take the gingerbread house I was supposed to make Saturday night. We were at this perfectly lovely party . . . with perfectly lovely people, and the activity for the evening was making gingerbread houses. The hostess must have spent a week baking up all these gingerbread pieces and had elaborate instructions for people to put them together.

It was great. And people made beautiful houses. Crazy Chris and Cheryl made a gingerbread dog house behind their gingerbread house. Somebody else put a gingerbread patio behind their gingerbread house. And somebody else added a gingerbread steeple and had a gingerbread church.

Great stuff, right? And I sat there like a grinch. Like a real live Ebenezer Scrooge, scribbling down notes . . . making lists of all the things I still had to do.

"Aren't you going to make a gingerbread house?" asked Kathy, looking radiant, beautiful and Christmasy despite having baked gingerbread all day long.

"No, problem, Kathy," I responded. "I've got it penciled in for January 28."

After the fact

This is the December 15 edition . . . which means Christmas is only 10 days away. Arrggggghh.

Ten days away. Just 10 more days to get it all done. The shopping. The cards. Wrapping presents. Ten days? It can't be done.

Let's abolish Christmas. Let's postpone it a couple of months. Let's put it back in February when things aren't so busy. Yeah, that's the ticket. Let's make Christmas February 25. Or maybe February 20. That way we'll only have to do it once every four years.

Goodfellow sale is a real success

To the Editor:
Many Happy Hearts!
On Dec. 3 The Northville Rotary Club sponsored the Goodfellow Paper Sale. Other organizations and persons involved were: Northville Township Police Department, Northville Township Fire Department, Northville Fire Department, Northville Police Department, Northville Record Staff, Art Radford, Dick Gray and others.

The total collections to date are $2,221. The Township police department gave $150; several persons donated checks of $100. The Donut Scene on Center Street and Holloways Old Fashion Bakery provided goodies to refresh the workers; others provided coffee, etc.

As Chairman I wish to point out the community owes a great deal of thanks to the Northville Record for contributing the 2,000 papers for the sale — paper, ink, labor, etc.. Without the Northville Record's help the sale would not be possible. A large vote of thanks is due the community for their support. Finally, as chairman I would like to thank all persons who participated; sellers, contributors, others. All of us have Happy Hearts that the Civic Concern Committee will be able to provide for the many needy families and say Merry Christmas to them.

Holiday time can highlight problems

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

The holiday season has arrived. For some it is a time of anticipation, fun, excitement and joy. For others it is a time of loneliness, depression and tension. Many of us have read about persons committing suicide at this time of year. We may wonder how that can be possible when our own family is sharing in the joy of the season.

A young girl that I interviewed recently relayed her family situation to me. I will call her Jane. Jane came into my office very sad and depressed. She indicated a desire to end her life. Jane said that her friends and parents were unaware of her feelings. The reason for her depression was that she felt the holidays are phony. She said that throughout the year there is very little communication in her home and when there is communication it is in the form of criticism or ridicule.

During the month of December things are even worse because mom has more stress associated with parties to attend, extra shopping to do, and additional meals to prepare. Dad is more tense than usual because he has to entertain clients and to meet year end quotas for his job. In general, Jane's parents are not paying much attention to Jane and when they are, they often end up yelling at her.

Jane feels more depressed each day. Jane was angry when she said "... and then December 25th comes and there is every imaginable gift for me under the tree. I know I should be grateful but I'm not. ... It seems like my parents are just trying to make up to me for the way things are in our home throughout the year."

She went on to tell me that she wished there was no such thing as Christmas spirit since there is so much tension in her family during the holidays. She said, "If my parents were nice to each other and to me throughout the year they wouldn't need to buy extravagant gifts to relieve their guilt feelings. Only token gifts would be necessary to show our appreciation for each other and to join in the holiday spirit."

Jane is a very perceptive 14 year old. After she left my office, I thought of other youngsters I have seen throughout the years and the pain and sorrow that they also likely feel during the holidays. If parents could follow Jane's wise recommendation of being nice to each other and their families throughout the year instead of giving expensive gifts at Christmas, some families would be much happier and the children would understand the true spirit of Christmas.

As a parent, if you see that your child is depressed and lonely call NYA at 344-1618 for help. Our mission is to assist Northville youths during the Christmas season and throughout the year.

New oil well in Novi is months away

By PHIL GINOTTI

NOVI — SOMOCO Oil won't be ready to move on two new drilling sites until April or May, and is "many months" — possibly over a year — from actually sinking a new well, a company official said Monday.

They are considering sites near the Echo Valley subdivision, off of Ten Mile, between Wixom and Beck Road.

SOMOCO Vice President Michael Harris said his firm plans an informational meeting with residents this spring, but has no immediate drilling plans — refuting claims made last week by an Echo Valley homeowner in a subdivision newsletter.

The Olney, Illinois-based company first contacted Echo Valley landowners in 1984, making bids to secure oil and gas leases in exchange for the promise of future mineral royalties.

But that proposal has drawn only a lukewarm response, with residents questioning the environmental impact of the drilling, especially with the burnoff of excess gases. Most working wells are required to burn off those gases, which can leave a lingering odor.

Harris, in a Monday interview, refuted many of the claims published last week in a subdivision newsletter by Homeowner's Association President Frank Brennan, a critic of the drilling plans.

"We have not applied to the DNR and we have not applied to the city."

— Michael Harris
SOMOCO Vice President

Harris labeled as "untrue" a Brennan charge that SOMOCO has applied to the DNR for a permit.

In the December 7 newsletter, Brennan wrote "SOMOCO has applied to the State of Michigan for a permit to drill their next well to the west of Echo Valley."

The newsletter further read: "It would appear that the city's decision to approve this next well will be made in the near future. I would recommend to everyone who has an interest in it one way or another to keep abreast of city hall activity."

But Harris said no permit application has been made — either to the city or to the DNR.

"He's jumping the gun quite a bit," Harris said. "We have not applied to the DNR and we have not applied to the city."

DNR officials said they could find no record of a SOMOCO application for a new well in Novi.

Well drillers are required to get a

DNR permit, besides getting mineral leases from landowners within an 80 acre area of the site they wish to drill. They are also required to receive permits from municipalities who have well drilling ordinances on the books. Novi has such an ordinance in place.

SOMOCO operates several local oil wells — one next to the Corvo Iron Works, near Wixom and Eleven Mile Road, one in Lyon Township, and two in Northville.

"We would like to ask all of the interested parties to visit the Novi site (this spring)," Harris said. "We would like to ask all those property owners who are interested in it to be there."

Harris declined to estimate how many oil and gas leases the company has secured from area landowners and also refused to note a specific site where they would drill.

It is thought that SOMOCO will sink a well west of the subdivision, then angle the drilling towards any possible oil deposits under Echo Valley. Harris and SOMOCO engineer Tim Baker said a large area to the west of Echo Valley is currently being evaluated for possible oil deposits.

Brennan said he was "sure" that he was told by a SOMOCO official that a well drilling permit had been applied for. He said he remains opposed to the plans.

"We're talking about substantial investments in all of our homes," Brennan said. "What's going to happen if you've got a beautiful home, with that gas stench out in the yard?"

"I'm opposed and we'll continue to fight," he said.

He estimated that about 65 percent of Echo Valley residents are against the plans to drill.

Echo Valley represents about 40 acres of the 80 acres needed for the drilling. Should SOMOCO get over 50 percent of the 80 acres in question, the DNR can still grant the permit, a DNR official said Monday.

In that process — called "force pooling" — landowners who refused to sign the oil and gas leases are still entitled to the mineral royalties.

"What irks us is that anyone can shove this thing down our throats," Brennan said. "If the city is not going to support our intentions, there is going to be well-documented opposition."

Harris said SOMOCO is still interested in the site, but has no plans to force pool in the Echo Valley area.

Novi frame shop offers a lot more than just frames

By CATHERINE HUBEN

A collection of animals greets you at the door. The montage of grizzly and brown bears, snow owl, bald eagle, wolf, cougar and Canada goose blends in a spectacular rendering by Eddie LaPage, entitled "Reunited."

This signed and numbered lithograph is only the first of many treats in A. Kean's Custom Framing Shop at 42250 Grand River, just west of Novi Road in Novi's Cedar Ridge shopping center.

This is no ordinary shop. It is full of double-take, framed art. In the display area are several examples of clever and innovative matting. Some prints extend beyond their boundaries, spilling ahead-painted flower or a stem or two onto the mat.

A print of a young girl has a hand-cut, pale pink mat that traces around her hat and the basket on arm. A teddy bear print features a stunning, abstractly pieced mat that echoes the colors of the print.

A few questions to the proprietors, Bruce and Nancy Kean, provide some information. Their son, Tim, does the framing, paints some of the mat "extensions" and also fashions intricately woven and cut paper sculptures, which are framed.

Their daughter, Eileen, a third year student at The Center for Creative Studies and the "in-house graphic artist," also does the mat "extensions," as well as experimenting with various matting techniques.

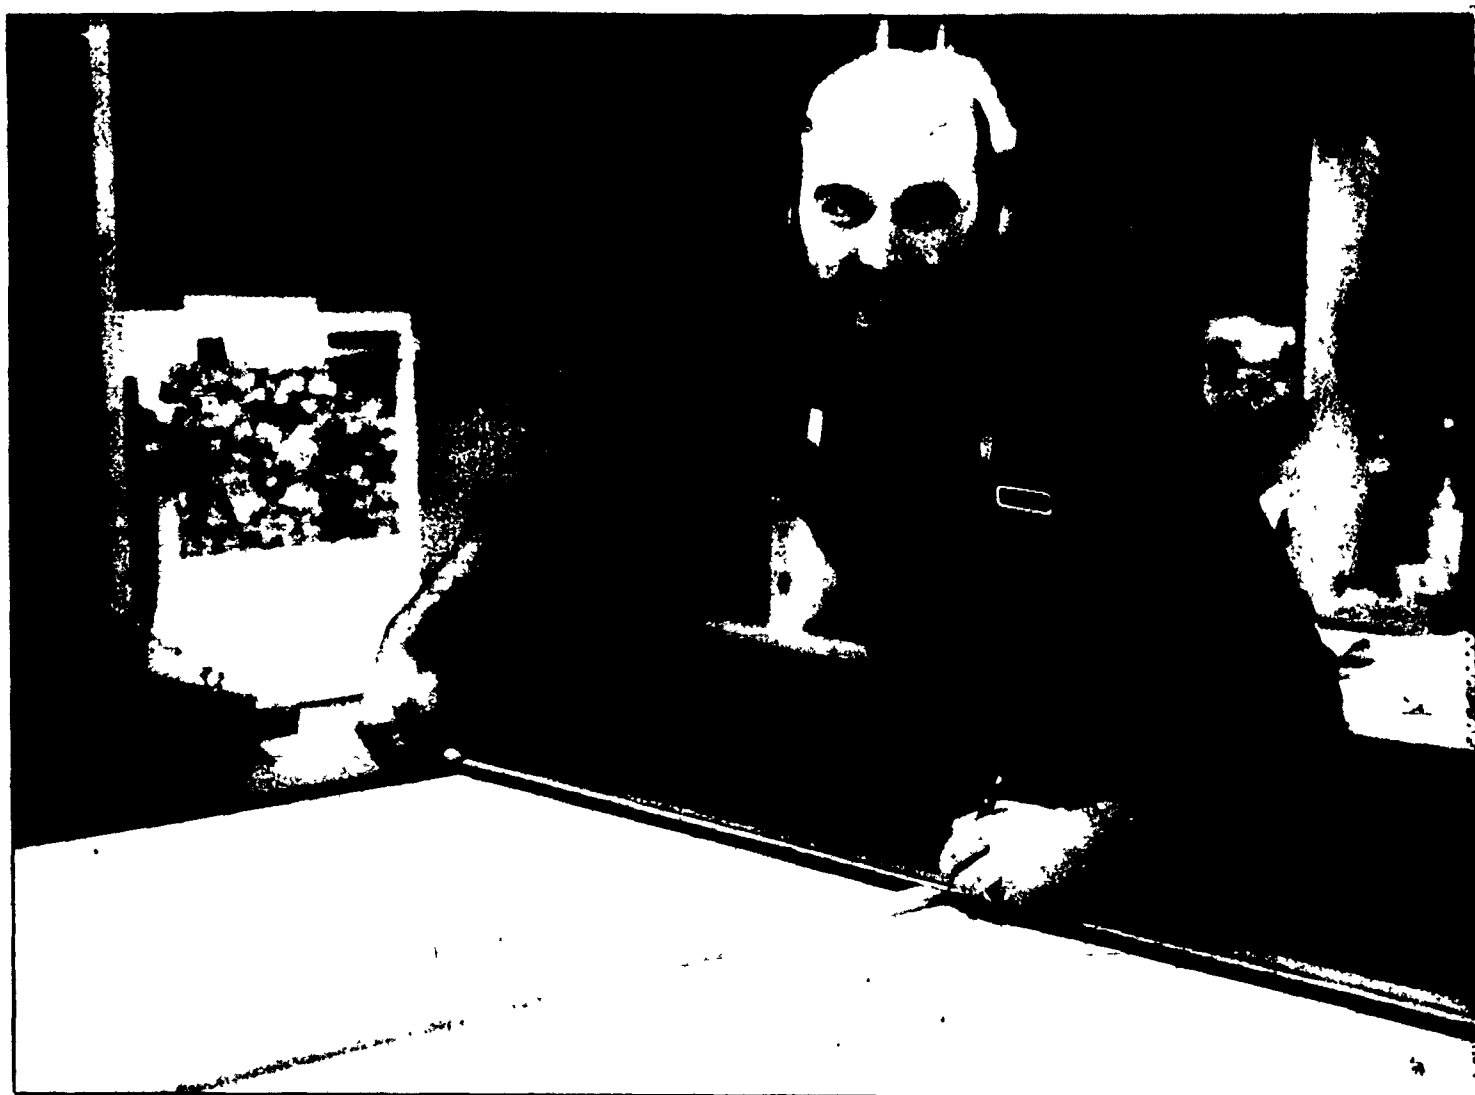

Bruce takes care of the business details, while Nancy lends her artistic expertise and creative judgment when needed.

Ask her about the difference between a lithograph and a print, and she is only too happy to explain the difference. (The litho involves a complicated inking process on a stone or metal "matrix," which is repeated for each color and the print is just a photographic reproduction.)

Ask about etchings (her unqualified favorites), and she'll guide you to a large display rack where she pulls out several, drawing attention to the embossing and delicate coloring. A tiny, hand-colored duck in silver and blue entitled "Hyacinth III," and a hen nestled among a cache of ecru eggs by Yvonne Davis are just two of many finely executed etchings offered at $55 each.

Mrs. Kean feels "etchings are undervalued because of the amount

KIM CAMPBELL-VOYTAL

GARY WACHLER has been named manager of David Wachler & Sons Jewelers, which has opened in the Novi Town Center at Grand River and Novi Road.

A third generation member of the Wachler family, he previously managed the store in the Detroit Renaissance Center.

The new Novi Town Center store is the third David Wachler & Sons Jewelers and contains 2,700 square feet of retail floor space.

KIMBERLY CAMPBELL-VOYTAL of Northville has been added to the faculty staff at Madonna College in Livonia as a Nursing Instructor. She will teach "Episodic Nursing."

Campbell-Voytal has MSN and BS degrees from Wayne State University. She received her RN degree from Grace Hospital.

ROBERT SIMMONS, DDS, has been selected as a clinical instructor in the Department of Operative and Restorative Dentistry at the University of Detroit Dental School.

Dr. Simmons also maintains a private practice on Center Street in Northville. He is a 1984 graduate of the University of Detroit Dental School.

RICH and PAULA HERSTEIN have become the owners of the Farmington Little Professor Book Center. Located in the Halstead Shopping Center at Grand River and Halstead Road in Farmington Hills, the community bookstore was opened in 1972 and features books for all ages and interests.

"The Hersteins will be excellent owners for our successful Farmington location," said Jon Wisotzky, president of Little Professor Book Centers Inc. "Paula has worked for the headquarters of Little Professor Book Centers for over 12 years and really knows the book industry. Rich has been in retail food marketing for several years."

The Hersteins recently completed the chain's professional bookseller training seminar at Little Professor's home office in Ann Arbor. The Hersteins purchased the store from Art and Barbara Underwood, who are retiring.

"We're excited about continuing to serve the Farmington area's reading needs," said Rich Herstein. "This is a community that is extremely interested in all types of books."

The Farmington Little Professor Book Center features a full selection of books for all interests and ages, discounted New York Times best sellers, and complete services, such as a Free Book Offer program, free gift wrapping, special ordering, a book mailing service, telephone orders and gift certificates redeemable at Little Professor Book Centers nationwide.

Little Professor Book Centers Inc. is the nation's largest chain of independently owned and operated bookstores with more than 120 outlets in 35 states. The chain opened 16 stores in 1987 and plans to open 25 to 30 stores this year. Other Detroit area locations include Dearborn, Madison Heights and Plymouth. Other Michigan locations include Traverse City, Ann Arbor, Burton and Brighton.

It's the final stretch for tax deductions

When it comes to tax planning, December is the final stretch.

You have just under a month to take steps that may lower your tax bill next April. To help you make the most of these last days of 1988, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests you make the most of your miscellaneous expenses.

Of course, miscellaneous expenses can help reduce your taxes only if you itemize, so find out now if you can itemize on your 1988 tax return. Remember, too, that most miscellaneous expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed two percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI).

So, if your AGI is $30,000 a year and your miscellaneous expenses come to $900, you may deduct only the amount exceeding $600 — or $300.

If your miscellaneous expenses are just reaching the two-percent mark, it's time for some quick tax-planning action. The following tips outline some deductible miscellaneous expenses you may have overlooked.

□ Attend a work-related seminar. Before the month ends, attend a one- or two-day seminar related to your current job. The costs will be deductible as a miscellaneous expense.

□ Stock up on uniforms. Does your job require you to wear a uniform? If so, December may be a good time to pick up a few extra sets of work clothes. The expenses may help you reach or pass the two-percent threshold.

□ Start subscribing. You can deduct the subscription cost of any newspaper or magazine related to your business. In addition, you can write off subscription fees to investment or tax-related magazines such as "Money" or "Changing Times." But the costs have to be reasonable.

If you take out a three-year subscription, you can generally deduct only one-third of the entire cost. The remaining two-thirds can be deducted in subsequent years.

□ Buy tax books. If you think you may want a little extra advice this tax season, start purchasing tax publications before the year ends. Any tax book you buy now will trim your taxes in April.

□ Join a professional society or union. The membership fees or union dues constitute a miscellaneous expense.

□ Look for a job. If you are contemplating a job change, start pounding the pavement right away. Any job-hunting expenses you incur through the remainder of the year can be written off on your 1988 return. Eligible expenses include phone calls, transportation costs and fees charged by a career counselor.

In addition, any cost related to revising your resume — from typesetting fees to photo copying charges — is deductible.

□ Get a safe deposit box. Store investment papers or taxable securities in a safe deposit box and the fees become deductible.

□ Hire an appraiser. If you hire an appraiser to evaluate a casualty loss or the value of a charitable contribution, the appraisal fees in either situation are fully deductible. Remember, too, that if you donate property valued at more than $5,000, an independent appraisal is not optional — it's mandatory.

□ Give a holiday party for clients or employees. Here's a great way to score points with clients or employees, and reduce your tax bill at the same time. Hold a legitimate business meeting and follow it up with a holiday party and you may be able to deduct 80 percent of the expenses.

Be sure to document the purpose of the business meeting, the names of attendees and all related expenses.

□ Buy flowers for your secretary. Or send a get well bouquet to an employee laid up in the hospital. You may deduct the cost of business gifts worth up to $255 presented to any one person in one year.

□ Deduct miscellaneous business expenses. You can also deduct miscellaneous business expenses, such as those incurred by mailing holiday cards to employees or clients, but be ready to prove that the cards serve a valid business function. Other items that may fall under this category include buying a poster for your office or a pen and pencil set for your desk.

□ See a tax advisor. You know that tax preparation fees are deductible, but do you know that you can also deduct the cost of consulting a tax advisor about the tax implications of a divorce or an employment contract? If you have any questions related to these matters, remember that a meeting held in 1988 may turn into a very smart investment — and a much-needed tax deduction.

□ Visit your financial advisor. If you're worried about the performance of your favorite stock or mutual fund, visit your financial advisor. If the visit is "ordinary and necessary," and you discuss your investments, the cost of attending the meeting are usually deductible.

□ Deduct custodial fees. The custodial fees that banks charge for managing your IRA account or that mutual funds charge for handling your dividend reinvestment plan, are also deductible. If you are not certain that you currently pay such fees, check your account statements or call a representative at the bank or mutual fund and ask them to detail all expenses related to your account.

□ If you can't itemize, postpone. If you've done some quick calculations and realize that it doesn't pay to itemize this year, postpone your miscellaneous expenses.

A. Kean's offers more than custom frames of time the artist must spend on each." As she thumbs through a catalog featuring the exquisite work of Cathey and Cynthia December, one can appreciate her opinion that etchings are "probably the best art form today."

She explains that the artist has complete control over the process from the initial plate design through the acid etching of the plate, the embossing in a special press, hand-coloring and the eventual destruction of the plate.

As a result, limited edition, hand-pulled Intaglios (the Italian word for the etching process) are all considered originals in their own right because the artist is involved in every step, which is painstakingly repeated for each etching.

The Kean's meticulous framing of Arthur Nevens' duck decoy series takes the process seriously. The artist's thumbprints, (made as the etching was removed from the embossing press) are still evident on the hand-made deckle-edged paper. Nevens' combination of soft-washed ochres and vibrant colors (especially the emerald green markings on one duck) are complemented by rich, dark-wood frames, and heavy, layered, rag mats, reflecting Nancy Kean's eye for balance and symmetry as well as her unerring talent for combining mat color, frame and art.

By using a combination of matting techniques, the Kean's create infinite variations. Upon close inspection, some display pieces reveal cleanly routed "V" grooves, and even reverse beveling, which creates depth on the perimeter of the print or etching.

One piece — a spare watercolor by Diane Graebner — has a simple, hand-linked border on the mat that repeats the predominantly blue colors and echoes the simplicity of the Amish way of life.

Another, a flat-world map, has a deftly inked "extension" of its figure-eight equator on a contrasting mat. Almost anything can be ordered or customized, and most of the one-of-a-kind display pieces are for sale as are a variety of prints and lithos.

A check of one of the bins reveals several fine bird prints by Gibraltar artist Jim Foote of United States postage stamp fame. Signed and numbered lithos by Carole Moses of Carmel, California, who specializes in a primitive, country style, are also available.

A close look at the back of some of the work framed for long-term preservation reveals great care and attention to detail. Four rounds of quarter-inch, sliced cork are glued to each corner so the print can "breathe," and brown draft paper is attached for a neat, professionally finished look.

The Kean's also "den" glass to preserve valuable art. The glass absorbs up to 60 percent more ultraviolet rays than regular glass, which means approximately 90 percent of the damaging rays cannot penetrate the glass. The art becomes almost fade-proof and can last a century.

Difficult-to-find, routed frames are available for stained glass windows or panels. The wood is raw and ready for staining.

Tim Kean is able to match any color you may require, having finished all the wood furniture in the shop.

Don't Play With Stroke.

You can't afford to lose. Strokes are serious. If you've already had one, your risk of having another is many times greater than someone who has never had one. You should also watch your P's and Q's if your family has a history of heart disease or strokes, if you suffer from high blood pressure or obesity, or if you have been diagnosed with diabetes. All of these conditions increase your chance of having a stroke significantly, so you should learn to play this game strictly by the rules.

- High blood pressure is the greatest risk factor for stroke, and it usually has no symptoms. The only sure way to know is to have your blood pressure checked. If you are on high blood pressure medication, take it exactly as prescribed. Don't run out of pills, even for a single day.

- Know what you should weigh and work to maintain that weight.
- Follow your doctor's advice about exercise.
- Eat a low-fat, low-cholesterol diet and reduce salt intake.
- Don't smoke cigarettes.
- Know the warning signs of stroke. They spell DANGER.

Ties are universally acknowledged as being the most useless and superfluous articles of clothing. —From The Book of Ties, by Davide Mosconi and Riccardo Villarosa Businessmen tend to feel naked without them.

Women insist on picking them out for the men in their lives.

They're part of the everyday routine for millions of men — chugging down a cup of coffee, slipping on a tie.

There's no doubt that neckties are ingrained into the American way of life. What young child doesn't remember the dignified, "grown-up" feeling of wearing his first clip-on tie?

But where did ties come from? Milan authors Davide Mosconi, a well-known fashion photographer, and Riccardo Villarosa, a journalist and owner of a photographic agency, explored the topic in The Book of Ties.

"What motivates multitudes of human beings to wind a piece of material around their necks remains a mystery," they wrote.

Researchers find it difficult to pinpoint exactly when men began to wear ties, but have agreed that they were practically unheard of until about 300 years ago.

When compiling information for their book, Mosconi and Villarosa discovered that Ancient Egyptians wore broad neckbands of precious stones around their necks, perhaps early versions of a tie.

Their research unveils that men of all time periods and cultures seem to have a need to wear something around their necks. As an example, they point to primitive cultures that, even today, wear leather straps and amulets around their necks.

Forerunners to neckties are thought to be scarves, worn by Orientals and Romans during military expeditions.

A population from eastern Europe known as the Croats are hailed as the inventors of the modern tie, hence the term cravat.

The necktie is thought to have evolved during the Thirty Years War (1618-1648), although no one can be sure why. According to Mosconi and Villarosa, some claim that the necktie was adopted by Croatian troops serving the King of France, who tied their fashionable wide collars in a knot.

Whatever the origin, ties have stood the test of time. They have undergone variations in width, length, patterns and material. So what's in style today?

Knit ties are out. Silk is in. Standard width is eight centimeters. Predominant necktie colors are reds, yellows and shades of wine. Those observations come from James Morgan, manager of the Tie Rack, a London-based specialty store that recently opened at Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall.

Morgan reported that businessmen who traditionally reached for conservative ties are now wearing flashier patterns and colors. Paisley has become a big-seller in the business circles, he noted.

In addition, Morgan remarked that women are having a big say in what kind of tie a man wears.

Upon graduating from the clip-on variety, most men master the art of knotting a tie around their necks. And there are as many types of knots as there are personalities — knots such as the Effortless, Prince Albert, Christensen, Onassis, Windsor (regular, dwarf and half), Uncle Sam, Nicky, Diagonal, Vismara, Villarosa, Down Under, Half-Mast ... the list goes on.

Morgan said that reverse Windsor knots and regular Windsor knots appear to be the most popular types.

"There are probably 100 different ways to tie a tie," Morgan said. "It depends entirely on the individual."

The next nagging question may be — why do we wear ties?

Not surprisingly, some psychologists view ties as sexual symbols. John Carl Fluegel in The Psychology of Clothes said that scarves, ties, hats, collars, overcoats, trousers and cloaks can be seen as phallic symbols, while scarves, belts and garters can be considered female sexual symbols.

Skeptical? Morgan points to a theory of his own. He observed that ties serve to break up a wide expanse of a man's shirt, serving more as an article of fashion.

Tie telltales

You may be able to tell a lot about people by the style of tie they wear and the way they tie it.

In their well-researched publication The Book of Ties, authors Davide Mosconi and Riccardo Villarosa suggest that those who wear ties with geometrical designs such as square, stripes or small patterns may indicate a yearning for order.

Tie-wearers opting for stripes on their neckties may follow a life of organized decision and may possess the desire to follow a certain line of action, the authors write.

Wide-striped ties may denote an exuberant character or those seeking to try new things. Narrow stripes, on the other hand, may signify a mind inclined toward precision and meticulousness.

"Generally speaking, the larger the design is, the greater the physical commitment," the book states.

Meaning that larger designs are more appropriate to wear to the golf course or to an outdoor picnic while ties with smaller designs are more suitable to wear to the office.

If the tie design doesn't tell enough about a person's character, take a look at the knot.

Large, loose knots may suggest a jolly, kindhearted person. At the other end of the spectrum, small knots may denote a selfish, mean person.

Q: If you were to receive a fruitcake as a present, would you eat it?

One-and-a-half said: "Yes"
Eight-and-a-half said: "No"

"I'd varnish it and use it as a doorstop ..."
"I'd eat half and throw the other half away."
"I find fruitcakes distinctly disgusting."
"Fruitcake is more tradition, than like."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of this newspaper.

Volunteer cultivates local arts

By DOROTHY NASH

Some dreamers can see their dreams come true, as in the case of C. Phelps Hines, who is volunteer chairman of the Northville Arts Commission.

The Commission, which is under the aegis of the Northville City Council, promotes cultural projects and activities in the area. The fifteen members meet once a month at the City Hall to discuss new and existing ideas that will bring programs of specific and general interest to residents of Northville.

Some ideas they work on have bombed. For example, an attempt to stage a play at the high school — the downtown theater was unavailable — was met with, as Hines said, "not enough community interest."

But the summer-long, Friday evening band concerts have become a tremendous hit.

And the September Art Market — it has had its second year — is another dream realized.

Now, starting this month, an art lecture series is being presented in the City Hall Council Chambers. Will it be popular? That's to be seen.

The biggest dream for Hines, is yet to come, he hopes. He would like to have a separate building for performing arts. It would be an art nucleus, Hines said. Classes of all kinds would be conducted there, and there could be contests in any field of art.

Is there an opportunity for other volunteers to help make dreams like this come true? The answer is YES. Although the Commission is limited to 15 members, which are appointed by the City Council, there is a group, Friends of the Arts, which is available to an unlimited number of members. These people are the ones who implement the ideas, each working on what appeals to them most.

If you are interested, you may get more information by calling City Hall at 349-1300 or Hines at 349-0349.

In Our Town Woman's Club hosts meeting

The Northville Woman's Club will be having a festive holiday meeting tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will be the annual new member recognition day and will feature "Music of the Season".

South Lyon singer Bethany Mehr will be the featured entertainer. The meeting begins at 1:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Mothers' Club Cocktail Parties

Once again turnout was high for the annual fundraiser for the Northville Mothers' Club. The Christmas cocktail parties have been a tradition in Northville for many years, and this year saw guests flocking to the warm get-togethers at 10 Northville homes.

All the money raised from the parties is used by the Club for the Northville schools.

Good company, holiday spirits and tantalizing appetizers made this year's Mothers' Club Cocktail Party a success.

Favorite hors d'oeuvres making a debut included hot ryes, Mexican dip with taco chips, tasty treats and creamed dried beef with artichokes. Other popular appetizers featured at the festive occasion included crudites (raw vegetables with dip), meatballs and sauce and spinach balls.

Mothers' Club members passed along their recipes to share with other holiday planners. Following is a list of appetizer recipes:

HOT RYES

1 cup finely grated Swiss cheese
1/4 cup cooked crumbled bacon
1 1/4-ounce can ripe olives, chopped
1/4 cup minced green onions or chives
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup mayonnaise
Party rye bread — light and pumpernickel

Mix all ingredients (except bread). Spread on bread. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. May be frozen after baking. Warm in oven before serving.

MEXICAN DIP

18-ounce package cream cheese
1 1/4-ounce can chopped green chilies
1 15-ounce can Hormel No Bean Chili
2 8-ounce packages shredded cheddar cheese
Serve with one large bag of taco chips

Place cream cheese in the middle of an ovenproof plate. Drain green chilies. Layer chilies on top of the cream cheese. Frost the cream cheese block on all sides with the chili. Cover the entire block with shredded cheddar cheese. Bake in a 300-350 degree oven for 10 to 20 minutes or until cheddar cheese starts to melt. Serve with taco chips.

CREAMED DRIED BEEF WITH ARTICHOKE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 14-ounce can artichoke hearts, drained and sliced

1/2 cup Chablis or other dry white wine
1 1/2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 5-ounce jars sliced beef, rinsed and coarsely chopped
1 16-ounce carton sour cream

Melt butter in large skillet. Add artichokes, Chablis, cheese and dried beef, mixing well. Cook over medium heat, stirring often, until bubbly. Stir in sour cream; cook until thoroughly heated. DO NOT BOIL. Serve with mini bagels. Sprinkle paprika on top of mix and spread on bagels.

SPINACH BALLS

4 packages frozen chopped spinach, drained
4 cups Pepperidge Farm stuffing mix (not cubed)
2 cups grated Parmesan cheese
12 eggs, beaten slightly
1 1/2 cups (3 sticks) butter, softened

Bake while frozen on ungreased cookie sheet for 12 minutes at 350 degrees.

MEATBALLS AND SAUCE

Sauce:
1 1/2 12-ounce jar cocktail/chili sauce
2 1/2 cups grape jelly
5 tablespoons lemon juice

Mix sauce thoroughly and pour over meatballs. Heat meatballs in slow oven or microwave. If frozen, it is a good idea to let the meatballs defrost in the refrigerator on the day of the party from early morning.

The magical story of "The Wizard of Oz" has special significance for six talented local young actors.

Kristi Lyn Darkowski, Amy Fowkes, Ernie Nolan, Michael Mittmann, Christina Farrar, all of Northville, and Kori Davis of Novi take the stage for performances of the much-loved play "The Wizard of Oz" currently running at Northville's Marquis Theater.

Davis plays a munchkin and a citizen of Oz. She is a sixth grader at Novi Meadows and attended the Marquis Theater Summer Camp in June. She has studied tap and jazz, as well as piano, for four years. Davis is also a member of the Oakland Junior Choir.

Playing the role of a coroner and a citizen of Oz, Mittman performed for the first time with the Marquis as Michael Darling in "Peter Pan" when he was 10. Since then Mittman has performed in "Carousel," "Gypsy" and "South Pacific." He has also played a dwarf in the Greenfield Village Players production of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Mittman is in the eighth grade at Meads Mill School.

Nolan assumes the role of a coroner and citizen of Oz. He appeared on the Marquis stage last year as L.B. in "Peter Pan." A 12-year-old at Our Lady of Sorrows in Farmington, Nolan has studied music and theater with the Marquis Summer Camp and Performance Workshop in Berkeley. He was also the 1985 Showtime Talent Quest winner for Michigan.

Appearing as a munchkin in the "Wizard of Oz" is Fowkes. She attends Meads Mill School as a sixth grader. For the past two years she has attended the Marquis Theater Day Camp. Fowkes also has performed with the Little Stars in Pennsylvania.

Darkowski plays a munchkin and a citizen of Oz in the Marquis production. She is in the seventh grade at Meads Mill School and has studied tap, jazz, ballet, voice and acting. Darkowski has done modeling at Lakeside and Briarwood Mall's Beauty School fashion shows as well as K-Mart ads. She also performed in a production of "Annie" at the Great Lakes Dinner Theater.

Taking a role as a munchkin is Farrar, who attends Silver Spring Elementary as a third grader. She participated in the Marquis Theater Camp in June 1988 and has studied ballet, tap and jazz for five years. Farrar has also studied piano for four years. She attended Summer Music Camp in Kingston, Ontario.

"The Wizard of Oz" runs at Marquis Theater until Dec. 30. Performances are scheduled at 8 p.m. Dec. 16 and Dec. 30; at 2:30 p.m. Dec. 17, Dec. 27, Dec. 28, Dec. 29, Dec. 30; at 1 p.m. on Dec. 18; and 4:30 p.m. on Dec. 18.

Tickets are $6.50 and $8.50 and can be purchased at the door or in advance by calling 349-8110 or 349-0000. Shows run 90 minutes.

Red Cross expresses need for blood donors

Christmas trees, Christmas cards, stockings hung by the chimney with care. These all are wonderful holiday traditions. But some people have another, more significant holiday custom... donating blood.

For 11 months out of the year, southeastern Michigan hospitals need about 1,000 pints of blood per day. But, during the holiday and post-holiday season, this need increases dramatically.

Unfortunately, there are not enough traditional holiday blood donors to offset the increased demand for blood. Consequently, area hospitals often suffer blood shortages, and the American Red Cross must go out of the community to locate another blood supply. It also means that people who have postponed elective surgery until after the holidays may have to postpone again due to a diminished blood supply.

Trimming trees and hanging stockings is fun. Saving a life is even better. Try donating blood this — and every — holiday season and feel the true Christmas spirit. Make it a tradition to call the American Red Cross at 494-2800 to give blood.

Distinguished speaker

Detroit Free Press Book Reviewer Robert McKelvey was the guest of honor at a recent meeting of the Northville Woman's Club. McKelvey spoke to the group during its special Guest Day.

Two couples announce births

Robert and Maureen Kahler of Novi announce the birth of a son, DANIEL ROBERT.

He was born Oct. 15 at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Detroit, weighing 7 pounds, 9 ounces. He was 19 inches long at the time of birth.

Grandparents are Ruth O'Driscoll of Northville and Edwin Keegan, also of Northville.

Great-grandmothers are Mutie Stotsberry of Lincoln Park and Margaret Keegan of Tustin, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Sullivan, former Northville residents, announce the birth of a son, PATRICK MATTHEW, in Grand Junction, Colo.

He joins a brother at home, Christopher Cook.

The parents are graduates of Northville High School. Mr. Sullivan was with the Northville Township Police Department and Northville Recreation Department.

Mrs. Sullivan, the former Susan Wright, was employed at Cummins of Michigan prior to moving to Colorado.

and Richard Sullivan of Northville, flew to Colorado for the christening of their first grandchild and to assist the new parents.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. E.L. (Bud) Kunz of Northville, and Howard Wright of Missouri.

The birth of Patrick has brought the count to eight grandchildren for the Kunz family.

Mrs. Kunz joined the Sullivans in Colorado to spend Thanksgiving week and to greet the new baby.

Single Place plans gathering at First Presbyterian Church

Single Place will host a special Holiday Gathering Dec. 18 at First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

The holiday event begins at 6 p.m. in the library lounge area at the church. Hors d'oeuvres and a harpist will be featured.

Those attending also will be treated to a presentation entitled "Outsmarting the Holidays," by Bev Versele.

There will be a $2 fee for the holiday gathering and those attending are asked to bring an hors d'oeuvre to serve eight people. Child care will be provided at the church.

Versele, the featured speaker, describes herself as a "happily divorced parent of six." She explains her attitude by quoting her philosophy, "You can look at life as either a half-empty glass or a half-full one. My life is full. Life is meant to be a full, rich experience to be lived positively."

After 23 years of marriage, Versele will spend her sixth Christmas as a single parent of two sons, ages 26 and 25; four daughters, ages 24, 22, 16 and 14; and one granddaughter, 18-months-old.

Humor is the basis for Versele's positive outlook on life. She says humor keeps her looking forward to the future and not drowning in the negativism of the past. Versele says she believes that nothing can be done to change the past but as positive individuals we can shape our future with promise, happiness and humor.

Having experienced every emotional facet of a "single" holiday, Versele is qualified to speak about the topic. Since her divorce, she enrolled in college and earned a bachelor of arts degree from Siena Heights College. She is now working on completing her master's degree.

Versele also has worked full-time at Oakland Community College for 10 years and recently assumed the responsibilities of Academic Affairs Office Manager in the Office of the Deans.

Versele has lectured before numerous groups, addressing the concerns of others who strive to achieve a happy, healthy, rewarding and humorous life after divorce.

Three local Masons receive rites

Three Northville men were among a class of 75 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties to receive Scottish Rite Freemasonry's

32nd Degree. Thomas F. Amend, Mark L. Helm and Douglas E. Kurth, all of Northville, were local Masons who received the rite at the final session of the Detroit Valley's 305th reunion at the Masonic Temple on Nov. 5.

MR. AND MRS. PETER M. WINES

Couple exchange vows

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Hodgkin of Winchester Drive in Northville. The groom is the son of Mr. Ambrose Wines of Hartland and Mrs. Shirley Reber of West Branch.

Readings were recited by Mr. Frank Wines, brother of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white slipper satin gown with a sweetheart neckline adorned with re-embroidered Alencon lace with pearl accents. The chapel length train was accented with a three tier bubble. She carried a cascading bouquet of sweetheart roses, carnations and orchids.

Matron of honor was Maria Cheeseman, sister of the groom. Bridesmaids were Judy Bielenda, sister of the groom, and Kathy Raciti, cousin of the bride. They wore floor length satin gowns of daphne rose.

Best man was Mike Bielenda, brother-in-law of the groom. Ushers were Mike Huntton, friend of the groom, and Aaron Hodgkin, brother of the bride.

Pta News

Students awarded for good conduct

PTA News is published weekly in the Record. This week's news is from Meads Mill Middle School. Any school interested in publishing its PTA or school news in the Record should contact the newspaper at 349-1700.

Eleven students at Meads Mill have been caught being good by the staff. They were rewarded with a Little Caesars certificate good for a pizza and a drink. Those caught this month were: Chuck Apligian, Matt Cutting, Ryan DeBora, Marc Golden, Greg Mechan, Shannon Neff, Ben Nelson, Dan Schwartz, Ian Switlaski, Karl Veres and Rob Wood.

Student volunteers are needed for the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators Conference to be held in March at Meads Mill. Permission forms have been distributed and should be returned to the office by Dec. 16.

An elephant, a snake and a turtle from the Detroit Zoo have been adopted by the sixth grade with the $20 they collected. Rather than invite these animals to the school, plans are being made for the students to go see them at a later date at the zoo. The sixth graders also found the true spirit of the season by collecting coats for donation to the Salvation Army.

Dec. 19 is the next After School Activity. This will be a holiday theme for this school event. Remember, the sixth graders attend free. Parents can pick up students attending at 4:45 p.m.

Students in the eighth grade have been working hard in their English classes. The eighth grade winners of the "America and Me" writing contest have been announced. Congratulations to Allison Bullock, Jennifer Dickinson, Jessica Holderman, Emily Kniebes, Destiny Lopez, Mike McCormick, Braden Robison, Stephanie Schimpf, Jennifer Workman and Julie Zweisler. In another writing competition, three students from each eighth grade team were selected to write a timed, competitive essay on Dec. 16. The three top writers will represent Meads Mill as Promising Young Writers for the National Council of Teachers of English.

Spelling bees have been held to determine finalists for the eighth grade Liv-Oaks and Lawrence Institute of Technology spelling competition. The Liv-Oaks League Spelling competition will be in January for all three grades, beginning with sixth grade on Jan. 16 at Highland, Jan. 17 for seventh grade at Scranton and Jan. 18 at Clarenceville. Teams will include five students and one alternate.

Both teams of eighth graders will be going to see the "Wizard of Oz" at the Marquis Theater during December.

The co-ed swim team had its first meet on Dec. 13. The next meet will be Dec. 22 at the high school against Lincoln Park and Jan. 10 at Belleville. Meets begin at 4 p.m.

The next PTSA meeting will be Jan. 9 at 9:30 a.m. Until then, the staff and students wish everyone a very happy and safe holiday.

Special Note: A reception will be held in the Amerman Media Center on Thursday, Dec. 22 from 3:45-5 p.m. for Madeline Crawford who is retiring from the Northville Public Schools. She is a longtime secretary at Amerman. A cordial invitation is extended to Madeline's many friends to honor her on this special occasion.

Library celebrates holidays

Christmas has arrived in all its splendor and glory at Northville Public Library.

However, tree trimmers are needed to dress up the library's Christmas tree. In preparation of the holiday, area children are asked to help decorate the Christmas tree.

Librarians report that handmade decorations are needed to give the tree a festive, Christmas-y appearance.

Children who have designed and created their own holiday decorations are asked to bring them to the library and to hang them on the Christmas tree.

Participating children will receive a special Christmas treat in exchange for their contribution.

Other holiday amenities featured at the library include a display case highlighting books on making toys and dolls for the Christmas gift-giving season.

Examples of handmade toys also decorate the display case.

Because of the holiday season, the library will be closed on Dec. 23, 24, 25 and 31. It will also be closed on Monday, Jan. 2.

For more information call the library at 349-3020.

State boasts variety of skiing spots

A few years ago, Rand McNally gave Detroit the title "Ski Capital of America."

Detroit? You bet. No, nobody moved the Rockies or the Alleghenies, for that matter. It's just that Detroit has the good fortune of being situated in a state with nearly 50 downhill ski resorts and thousands of miles of cross-country ski trails at almost 200 parks, resorts, quiet areas and wilderness sites.

In Michigan, the ski hills rise from 100 to 600 feet above the rolling upper Great Lakes countryside.

Here, long quiet trails wind through the nearly 19 million acres of forest that blanket most of the northern Lower Peninsula and 90 percent of the Upper Peninsula.

It also is here that the winter winds, roaring out of Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Ontario, pick up warmth and moisture as they pass over the relatively warmer waters of the Great Lakes and deposit snow on the hills of Michigan.

Most winters, the snow is heavy and consistent on the downside of lakes Michigan and Superior. In the copper country of the Upper Peninsula, annual snowfalls measuring 200 inches deep, or more, are not uncommon.

However, Michigan ski resort operators know the capriciousness of Great Lakes winters. Long ago they stopped relying on the wind and a prayer for good snow — particularly at either end of the winter season.

Michigan resorts pioneered the use of snow-making equipment in the 1950s, and today some 35 Michigan ski resorts make their own snow when Mother Nature holds back.

In fact, five resorts will be using Snomax this year. Sugar Loaf, Crystal Mountain and Pine Mountain began using Snomax last year and this year Indianhead Mountain and Nub's Nob will too.

Snomax enables resort operators to produce up to 300 percent more snow than standard snow-making normally provides.

With snow-making equipment, skiing is good at most resorts from about Thanksgiving — with some of the best skiing available in late winter and early spring.

Michigan's best-known ski resorts tend to be clustered in the hilly northwest quadrant of the Lower Peninsula and the relatively mountainous regions of the western Upper Peninsula.

Resorts and ski facilities, however, can be found in virtually every part of Michigan — from the suburbs of Detroit to Jones, located within shouting distance of South Bend, Ind., to the campus of Michigan Technological University on the Keweenaw Peninsula.

In the Detroit area, evening and weekend skiing is a short drive from home at such facilities as Alpine Valley (Milford), Mt. Brighton (Brighton), Teeple Hill, Mt. Holly (Holly), Pine Knob (Clarkston) or Riverview Highlands (Riverview). Vertical drops are 200-350 feet, and night skiing is often available.

Eastern Michigan boasts nearly a dozen resorts, such as Tyrolean and Sylvan resorts near Gaylord; Michaywe, Hanson Hills and Skyline near Grayling; Blitz Apple Mountain near Freeland; Mio Mountain at Mio; and Snowsake Mountain near Harrison.

Facilities range from standard to plush, and the vertical drop at most of these resorts is in the 200-foot range.

At such southwest facilities as Cannonburg and Pando, not far from Grand Rapids, Bittersweet at Otsego, Timber Ridge at Gobels, Ski World at Buchanan, Swiss Valley at Jones, or Michigan's Hollow Grand Haven, vertical drops range from 150 to 250 feet, and there's a strong emphasis on day trippers.

In the northwest, upscale is the native language. Vertical drops tend to be higher — from 150 to more than 600 feet — and the emphasis is on longer weekends and vacation packages with indoor and outdoor pools, nightclubs, discos and full-service resorts.

They are well-known throughout the Midwest — The Boyne, the Homestead, Crystal Mountain, Nub's Nob, Shanty Creek-Schuss Mountain, Sugar Loaf, Caberfae and Grand Traverse Resort, which isn't a downhill resort but is active in winter sports promotion, including cross-country skiing.

In the Upper Peninsula, 600-foot drops become routine — as does the snow and Michigan's closet brush with deep powder skiing. Big Powderhorn and Blackjack at Bessemer, Indianhead at Wakefield, Porcupine Mountains State Park and Ski Brule/Ski Homestead at Iron River are legends in the Midwest.

Marquette Mountain in Marquette, Mt. Ripley at Michigan Tech in Houghton, Mt. Zion at Gogebic College in Ironwood, along with Al Quaal Recreation Area in Ishpeming, Gladstone Sports Park and Pine Mountain Lodge in Iron Mountain round out the Upper Peninsula collection of ski resorts — a collection that ranges from day-trip facilities to full-service resorts.

South Lyon win lifts cagers to 2-1 start

By ANN E. WILLIS

Aggressive is the one word the Mustangs are using to describe their style of play this year. But they might want to add another word — hungry.

An aggressive style of play and a strong desire to win are the two big reasons Northville is 2-1 at the start of the basketball season. In an 85-48 trouncing of South Lyon on Dec. 6, the Mustangs showed just how far those two attributes will take them. "The kids played real well," Coach Omar Harrison said. "I don't think South Lyon is as strong this year as they have been in the past, but we have a pretty decent squad from top to bottom and it doesn't hurt us to come off the bench."

The team has easily outpaced its miserable start of last year, and Harrison credits a renewed enthusiasm and sense of purpose on the part of the players, for the turnaround.

The Mustangs outscored their opponents in all four quarters of the game, setting the tone with a 21-12 first quarter shooting difference. By the half the cagers had stretched it to a 12 point lead, with the team entering the locker room with a 38-26 score.

"Our kids are aggressive," Harrison said. "We really don't set up the half-court game, we press all over the court. We try to make things happen."

The scoring trio of Chris House, Rob Walsh and Mike Karfis accounted for all of the double-digit scoring in Northville. House had a team-high 16 points, Walsh scored 14 and Karfis added 10. Top scorer for South Lyon was Tony Garrett with 10 points.

House was top scorer on the team last year and appears to be on a steady pace to repeat this year. Walsh is newcomer to the team this year and is providing Harrison with a steady one-two punch in the line-up. "We've been getting pretty balanced scoring with Rob and Chris as high scorers," he said.

The Mustangs were able to put the game virtually out of reach in the third quarter when they outscored South Lyon 24-7.

Point guard Karfis contributed a team-high six assists and David McKee added four assists. Harrison said he was particularly pleased with their effort. But the real key to the Mustangs lies in their defensive play.

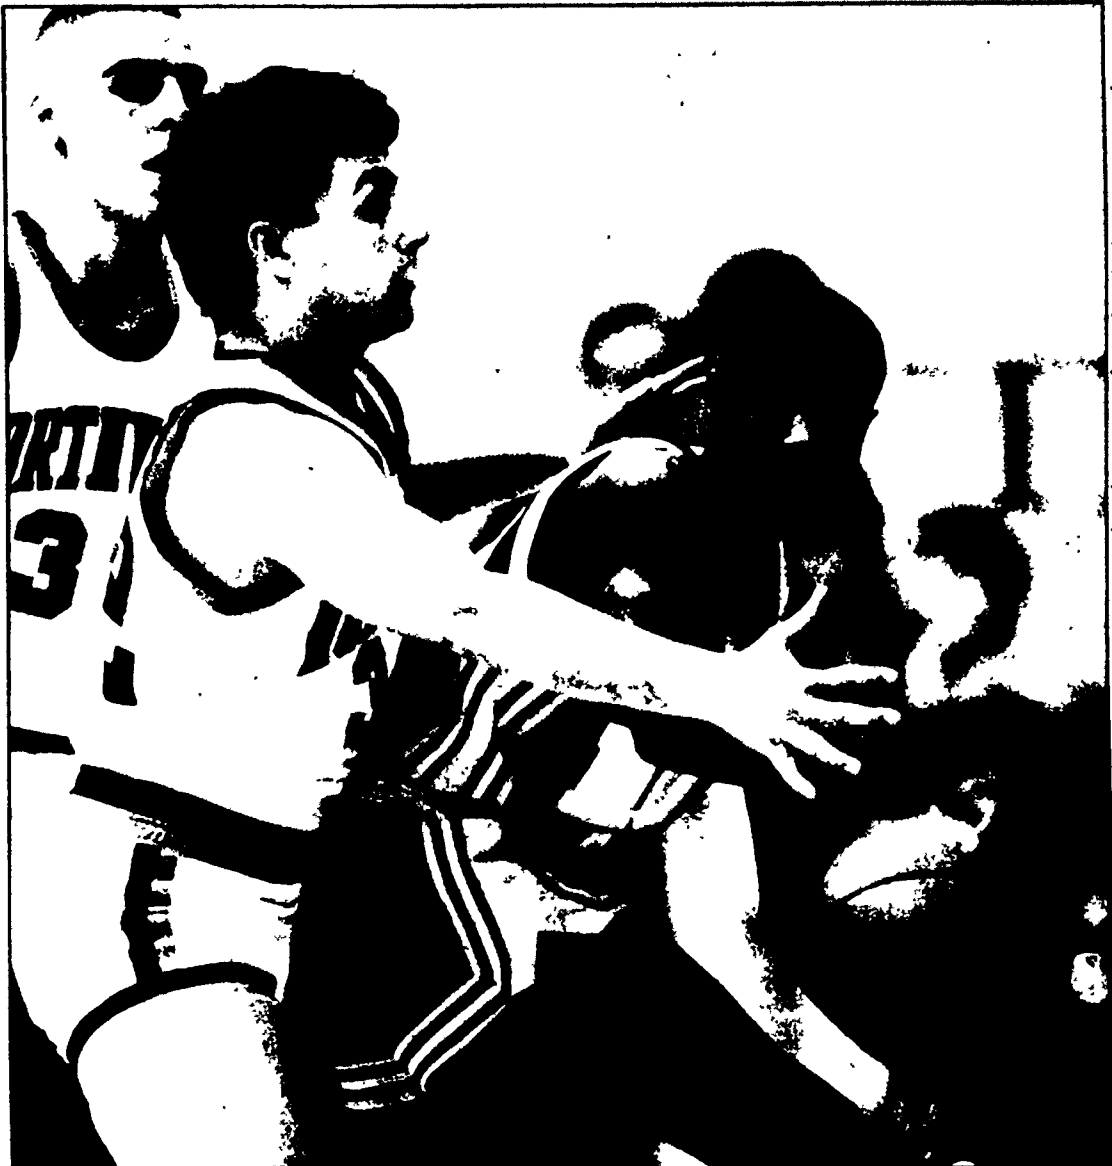

"I expect us to make things happen by playing defense, by putting pressure on," Harrison said. "The kids have a great attitude, they want to win and they're serious about it."

NORTHVILLE 71, EDSSEL FORD 91: Although the final score may show a 20-point difference between the two teams, the Mustang squad that took the floor on Dec. 9 was not a 20-point loser.

"It wasn't a 20-point-difference ballgame," Harrison said. "We were in the game with three minutes left — and were down only nine points at one point. It was a much closer game than the score indicates."

The real key to the entire game was the amazing scoring percentage of the Edsel Ford ball club, Harrison said. "The real problem was that Edsel Ford shot the lights out," Harrison said. "They had to have a high percentage."

Edsel Ford standout for the night was John Tobin who hit five three-point shots, defeating the mighty Mustang defense by sheer range. "We'd extend the defense and he'd back up five more feet and still hit

Harrison said he was very pleased with the tenacity the team showed. In the first minutes of the first quarter the Mustangs were down 14-5. "The kids could have panicked, but they didn't fall apart," Harrison said. "They played consistently."

The club ended up winning the quarter taking a one-point 20-19 lead. "You have to hand it to the kids," Harrison said.

Edsel Ford battled back during the second quarter and the half-time score showed a very close 43-40 lead by Edsel Ford.

Northville never gave up, despite the tremendous shooting by the Edsel Ford team. Harrison said it would have been easy for a less mature and committed team to give up in the face of the challenge, but the

"They're (Edsel Ford) not a bad ball club," Harrison said. "They are one of the better teams in the league. They beat John Glenn by 40 points, and it's rated one of the best teams in the league. I feel pretty good about our performance."

Northville managed to stay close through the third quarter, with the score standing at 65-56. But the fourth quarter was all Edsel Ford. "Things just fell apart," Harrison said.

The coach said he was pleased with the outstanding strength of the Mustang bench. "We went nine deep and out of a squad of 12 that's pretty deep." The bench figures to be a key to the future success of the team.

Mike Karfis, starting point guard for the Mustangs, found himself in early foul trouble, which aggravated a bad situation. He picked up three fouls in the first half "which really handcuffed him," Harrison said. He was whistled for two more in the third and ended up contributing nothing offensively to the effort.

"With Edsel Ford, you make your points and then they make theirs. They pressed, we pressed — it was a very up-tempo game," Harrison said.

"We stayed with them pretty much all the way," he said, noting that the discouraging part was watching them come back every time, point for point and put up another basket.

"We should feel proud of the kids. They hung in there and that's all we can ask."

The cagers take on Stevenson in their first away game today, Dec. 15

Swimmers look stronger in Belleville Invitational

By ANN E. WILLIS

It's shaping up to be a good season for the Northville boys swim team. And according to Coach Mark Heiden, a serious year-round "shaping up" program is exactly why the results are so good.

The Mustangs faced their first competition in the Belleville Invitational last Saturday, and placed fourth overall — but scored 51 more points this year than they did in the same meet last year. And that, Heiden said, is because the team is in much better shape for the beginning of the season.

"The team surprised me," Heiden said. "I knew they were going to swim well, but they did even better. They're a small group but the desire is way up there. They're in shape now; we're already training for speed."

Heiden said the year-round training regimen started by most of the swimmers has meant the difference in starting out competitive — versus beginning the season trying to get in shape.

Perhaps the biggest indication of how far the Mustangs have come both in training and in reducing their overall times was shown by sophomore Brad Cook who placed third in the 100 butterfly with a time of 58.919 — cutting dramatically the time of his fastest swim in all of last year (1:02.2).

"Brad trained really hard all summer," Heiden said, "I expected his times to drop but I was really amazed."

Jason Stringer came in fifth in the same event with a time of 1:02.025.

The Mustang divers are expected to do very well this season, and if this meet is any indication, they could add quite a few points to the team's overall efforts.

"I knew they were going to swim well, but they did even better. They're a small group but the desire is way up there. They're in shape now; we're already training for speed."

The divers ended the meet in 1-2-3 order with Larry Osiecki taking first place honors; Osiecki was in second place going into the finals of the diving round and nailed his final three dives to take first place with 373 points. Rob Devyak placed second with a total of 369.45 points and Steve Lang was third with 318.85.

The 200 medley relay A-team of Andy Wayne, Cook, Matt Hanna and Stringer placed second with a time of 1:50.75. "That's almost two seconds faster than last year," Heiden noted. The B-team relay placed seventh with a time of 1:57.835, a faster time than several of the A-teams swam.

The Mustangs had three people place in the top 12 in the 200 yard freestyle. Matt Van Horn was 10th with a time of 2:06.009; John Warren was sixth with a lifetime best time of 2:00.213; and Chris Handyside placed fifth with his lifetime best time of 2:00.146.

Heiden was particularly pleased to see the way the team performed in the overall standings, because one of the team's top freestylers, Bob Holdridge was out of the meet due to illness. "We had to do a little scrambling," Heiden said to fill in — but the team performed up to his expectations even without Holdridge. "Think about what we could have done with him," he said.

In the 200 IM Hanna placed 11th with a time of 2:26.332 and sophomore Eric Newton placed second with a time of 2:06.274. "That was a real good swim for this early in the season," Heiden said.

Sophomore Angelo Perakis placed in 10th place in the 50 yard freestyle with a lifetime best time of 25.436. Heiden said the placement was remarkable because Perakis just began swimming last year.

In the 100 yard freestyle Dave Morante placed ninth with a time of 55.286. John Warren was sixth at 54.641. The 500 yard freestyle proved to be a very strong event for the Mustangs. Matt Van Horn placed ninth with a lifetime best of 5:38.638. Chris Handyside was seventh with a time of 5:36.161 and Eric Newton placed third with a time of 4:58.376.

In the 100 yard backstroke Wayne had a time of 1:04.818 for a seventh place finish. Parakis placed 11th in a lifetime best time of 1:16.725 in the 100 yard breaststroke. And Hanna took a third in the 100 yard breaststroke with a time of 1:10.521 — "A fantastic job for a freshman," Heiden said

The team did very well in the final relays as well. In the 400 freestyle relay the A-team of Cook, Warren, Newton and Wayne took a second place with a time of 3:33.254. The B-team relay placed fourth Heiden was very impressed with the times his team pulled, but once again was faced with the frustration of having very good swimmers — but just not enough of them. The schools that consistently place ahead of Northville such as Belleville and Catholic Central have 35-40 swimmers on their teams, he said.

"Going into the backstroke we were tied for third place with Belleville and were just about 20 points out of second place. And I just ran out of kids. We're a small team, with just 18 kids swimming and diving. It's not that we don't have fast kids — it's just that we don't have enough of them"

Overall winner of the Belleville Invitational was Plymouth Salem. Catholic Central ended in second with Belleville third and Northville in fourth place

First WLAA title is only one highlight in big year for individual swimmers and Mustang swim team

By ANN E. WILLIS

"It was a very successful season," Coach Bill Dicks said in looking back on the 1988 girls swim season. For Dicks, the measurement of the season can be made in the way team members met or exceeded their individual and team goals.

But an even clearer indication of how well the team did was the setting of several school records and the winning of the WLAA League Championship, for the first time ever. "That's no minor task," Dicks said. "The WLAA is probably the toughest league."

The Mustangs sent seven swimmers/divers to the finals of the MHSAA Class A Swimming and Diving Championships and the team as a whole registered 23 points and ended up in 19th place. The Mustangs easily outdistanced their state meet results of a year ago, where the team failed to score any points at all.

Qualifiers for the state meet were Wendy Beach, Michelle Beacham, Barb Woodruff and Beth Frayne. Debbie Buell, Kristen Storm, Pam Holdridge and Michelle Stephens and Megan Holmberg.

Holdridge won All-State honors in the 100-yard butterfly. Holdridge finished fourth overall in the State Meet with a 59.86 effort.

The 200 medley relay squad of Buell, Storm, Stephens and Holdridge were first place finishers in the WLAA meet and placed 15th at the state meet. Storm finished 16th in the 50 freestyle and 19th in the 100 freestyle. Buell finished seventh in the 200 IM and eighth in the 500 freestyle. The 400 freestyle relay team of Storm, Holdridge, Holmberg and Stephens placed 18th.

Dicks said he was most impressed with the hard work and excellent attitude shown by the team, and supportive parents, all year long.

"Probably the biggest highlight of the year was just working with the team. I believe everyone on the team was outstanding. If we hadn't done it as a team we never would have won the league title."

The Mustangs swam hard all year, but Dicks said he was particularly pleased with the way the girls peaked as the season progressed. "We had 42 'best times' in the last two meets of the season. That's an indication of how hard we swam."

Individually several team members had outstanding seasons. Divers Wendy Beach and Michelle Beacham broke school records in the 1987 year and Beach came back this year and set a new school record for points in an 11 dive format.

In the important WLAA Conference Meet the Mustang team swept to a first place finish out of the 12 competing teams. Northville easily outpaced Livonia Churchill by nearly 100 points. Early in the season Churchill was the first, and only, loss the Mustangs took in dual meet competition.

Junior Debbie Buell won the 500 yard freestyle race in the WLAA meet with a lifetime best time. Buell was named the Most Valuable Performer for the team during its banquet.

Although the team will be losing several key swimmers to graduation, including the two top divers, Beach and Beacham, Coach Dicks said he is not particularly worried about the future.

Dicks said the team strength of the Mustang squad, its depth and work habits, will make them tough again in 1989. "We're losing some very important people, and they will be missed, but the improvements made this year by the freshmen and sophomores shows that by next year they will be ready to take up some of the slack. That's how we did so well this year — by filling in and backing up."

"We had the same number of stars this year as last year. The difference was in the ones that don't get their names in the paper every week... the solid performances and the extra effort on the part of the middle-line kids. That helped us win it this year and will help us next year."

Tough Schoolcraft volleyball team spikes its way to a national title

When Schoolcraft College volleyball coach Tom Teeters would send his team into the weight room for a workout after winning a match this season, there was a not-so-subtle message he was delivering. Stay strong, he was saying. Don't let weariness defeat you.

Teeters' hard-work ethic paid big dividends last week at the NJCAA tournament in Miami. After three grueling days of competition, the Lady Ocelots were within sight of their goal — a national championship — by Wednesday.

SC beat Texas-Southmost CC 15-11, 15-9 in the first two games of their best-of-five title match and led 12-2 in the third. But, as Teeters would later admit, "They wore us down." Southmost rallied for a 15-12 victory in the third game.

That could have turned the tide against the Lady Ocelots. But their mental toughness, nurtured in those seemingly endless workouts, saved them; they won game four easily, 15-5, and with it claimed the NJCAA championship.

It was an extraordinary accomplishment for a team that seemed to lack the size to be dominant.

"By far, we exceeded expectations," said Teeters, who earlier this year had coached Livonia Ladywood to a Class A state title. "I knew we were good, but we were so short."

"We worked so hard, like weightlifting in the summer in 95-degree weather, and all the hard work paid off. It took a lot of pushing, but they wanted to be pushed. If you want to be pushed, go to Schoolcraft."

The final match against Southmost was exceptional. "They're known for their defense," said Teeters of the Brownsville, Texas team. "We had to work a lot."

Nikki Stubbs and Maria Evans, both from Garden City, led the Lady Ocelot attack. Stubbs had 24 kills in the match (.393 kill percentage) and Evans had 23 (.273). Evans also had "the best defensive match of her life," according to Teeters, collecting 40 digs.

Both players were named to the all-NJCAA tournament team, together with teammate Alisha Love. Stubbs was the tourney's most valuable performer. Teeters was selected as coach of the year.

Sarah Heddle contributed 22 kills against Southmost (.230), while Chris Paciero (from Livonia Churchill) had 48 assists-to-kills in 125 sets with just one error and Love had two service aces.

Earlier Wednesday in the match pairing the double-elimination tournament's two unbeaten teams, SC overwhelmed Manatee (Fla.) 15-7, 15-1. The Lady Ocelots took total control midway through the first game, which was tied at 7-all. From that point on, SC outscored Manatee 23-1 the rest of the match.

Stubbs had 12 kills (.391), one solo block and two block assists, while Heddle (.411) and Evans (.304) added seven kills each. Heddle also had one solo block and two block assists, and again Paciero's setting was superb.

SC did not lose a match in the tournament. In Monday's pool play, the Lady Ocelots lost just one of nine games, and in Tuesday's two best-of-three matches they won in straight games.

One of their Tuesday wins came against Barton (Kan) CC by a 15-8, 15-12 margin. "We beat them for the first time ever," said Teeters. Earlier Tuesday, SC had defeated Kankakee (Ill.) CC 15-9, 15-8.

In Monday's three-game pool play, the Lady Ocelots defeated Delaware Tech 15-0, 15-3, 15-3; Nebraska CC 15-10, 15-11, 9-15; and Ricks (Idaho) CC 15-13, 17-15, 15-9.

Wrestlers earn high marks in the season's first meet

By ANNE WILLIS

Scoring over 100 points in the Belleville Invitational, the Mustang grapplers have already posted one of their best scores in several years.

Coach Jack Townsley said he was pleased with the overall effort put forth by the team and has even higher hopes as the season progresses.

The Mustangs finished in fifth place out of a total of 12 teams competing in the match. For the first time in several years the team posted a point total over 100 points — scoring 129 points for the meet. Overall meet winner was Romulus.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the match came in the 145-pound weight division where junior Kurt Cureton finished in third place after winning his first two matches. He ended up winning a total of three matches and losing one.

This is Cureton's first season on the varsity team and Townsley said he was very pleased with his first outing.

Another big winner for the day was Mike Hale at 189. Hale finished second and wrestled "very well," according to Townsley. "He had a very tough opponent in the finals — Jeff Komaromi of Belleville." Hale lost the final match 11-9, and placed second in the division.

In the 103-pound weight division Keyin Khashan, a sophomore, was beaten once and finished in sixth place overall. The meet should prove to be important match experience for Khashan and Townsley said "he did about what we expected."

At 112 pounds, Brandon Mardossian, won two and lost two finishing fifth. Mardossian, a sophomore transfer student with great potential, was injured in his first match and finished the day wrestling injured. "He could have done better," Townsley noted, but was bothered by the mishap. He does not know how serious the problem is.

At 119 pounds Mike Mathes, a returning senior, finished third after pinning a couple of opponents in matches. At the 125-pound weight division freshman Mike Huff showed himself to be in good early season form, finishing fifth while winning two and losing two.

Anchor wrestler Andy Frey managed a fifth place finish in the 135 pound weight division after having a busy morning which included taking the ACT test and making a dash for the weigh-in in Ypsilanti. "The 135 pound division is a tough weight class," Townsley said, although he expects that Frey will do well as the season progresses.

pound mark and finished fourth. Darin Kehoe, a senior, finished sixth at the 171 weight classification.

The early Belleville Invite provided Townsley with an opportunity "to see things we didn't do well and things we did do well. Overall I have a good feeling. This is a good group of kids — they're hard workers and nice kids.

"The kids wrestled hard and the attitude was excellent. They expect to do well and generally they do."

Townsley expects that three or four of the wrestlers could do very well as the season progresses "if things go well and injuries don't slow them down. Our better seniors can match up with anyone's seniors," he said.

The main stumbling block to the Mustang team is the fact that most of the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLAA) teams begin wrestling programs in the junior high — and even the grade schools. While Townsley sees his team for the first time as ninth graders, other schools such as powerhouses Romulus, Belleville, Salem and Westland, have been working with a core group of athletes for many years "Their sophomore and juniors are often like our seniors," he said.

The Mustang team took on Plymouth Salem Tuesday, Dec. 13, after Record deadline.

Dice onion and grind walnuts very, very finely. Mash Braunsweiger and cream cheese together vigorously (do this with your hands, a potato masher, etc.) Mix in onions, but not the walnuts. Add a few sprinkles of Worcestershire sauce, mix it in.

Shape mixture into a football on a large serving platter. Dust outside surface with ground walnuts. If for a college game, place strips of creamed cheese on surface, as football "stripes." If for a pro game (unlikely around here), leave stripes off. Form football "laces" with whole walnuts.

POTATOES BYRON

Six large baking potatoes
One-half pound butter, melted
One-half teaspoon salt
Freshly ground pepper
One-half cup heavy cream
Three-quarters cup coarsely shredded Swiss cheese

Turn into nine-inch glass pie pan, pour cream over and let stand 30 minutes. Sprinkle with cheese and bake in preheated 375 oven 20 minutes or until cheese melts and forms golden crust. Makes six servings.

SESAME BROCCOLI WITH SNOW PEAS

One-half pound snow peas, trimmed
Four tablespoons Oriental sesame oil
One-half cup unsalted cashews
Two tablespoons sesame seeds
Two tablespoons soy sauce
Two tablespoons rice vinegar

Bring large saucepan of water to a boil. Add broccoli, return to boil and cook over moderate heat for four minutes. Drain at once and refresh under cold running water until cool, about one minute. Drain well, dry gently with paper towel, and place in large bowl.

In a second pot of boiling water, boil snow peas for one minute, drain and refresh as before. Pat dry with paper towel, add snow peas to broccoli.

In small skillet, combine one tablespoon of sesame oil, the cashews and sesame seeds. Cook, stirring over moderate heat for two minutes, until seeds are golden brown. Set aside.

In small bowl, whisk soy sauce, vinegar, and remaining three tablespoons sesame oil until blended. Pour dressing over vegetables. Add toasted cashews and sesame seeds and toss gently to coat vegetables with dressing. Allow to marinate at room temperature for one to six hours before serving.

One onion, chopped
One-quarter cup brown sugar
Two teaspoons salt

"HOMEMADE" STYLE TOMATO SOUP (a meal primarily for singles)

I don't know how many generations of my family this recipe has been passed down from, but I'll do my best in relating this "secret" recipe taught to me by my very own mother.

Tomato
Water
Salt
Pepper
Maybe some preservatives

Go to the store, buy a can of tomato soup. This will require some decision making on your part as most stores usually carry several brands. I prefer Campbell's, because they have a neat label.

After you get home, open up the can using a can opener. The next part requires some brain work on the part of the cook (or shall I say chef?) as you will need a pan which is neither too small, and cannot hold the amount of soup being prepared, or one which is too large, which will only be a hassle cleaning.

HOLIDAY MAIN DISHES

Pour the soup into the pan (scraping all leftover bits out of the can and into the pan) and heat at a medium temperature. If you are in a big hurry, feel free to turn the heat all the way up.

Now, I hope you saved the empty can, because now you have to fill it up with water. Tap water will do nicely, and I've never noticed a difference between using hot or cold water. It's all your own choice!

This is then poured with all ingredients into the pot. Hint: use less water for a thicker soup, and conversely more for a "soupier" soup.

Stir occasionally and taste every once in a while to tell if it's warm enough. If you have the heat on full, as above, you'll probably want to do a good deal more stirring (unless you enjoy scraping burned and blackened tomatoes off your pot).

By now you should have a feast fit for a king and for a time-saving tip, when it comes times to do the dishes, just do as I do and eat right out of the pot. Add salt and pepper to taste, and you've got a regular smorgasbord. If you're serving to guests, don't tell them it's store-bought, and they'll never guess!

By the by, I wouldn't recommend eating out of a pot if you do have guests, you'll just have to wash more dishes this time.

If you liked this, I also have a recipe for oatmeal which requires only boiling water (believe it or not!). There's even one for chunky clam chowder that doesn't need a thing added.

Joseph R. Williams

MELODIE'S FAVORITE CURRIED CHICKEN

It's not a traditional holiday dish, but the spicy curry can warm up a cold night. I cooked it for my girlfriend, and it was love at first bite.

Two-thirds cup white onion, chopped
Two-thirds cup green pepper, chopped
One-quarter teaspoon minced garlic
One-half teaspoon ground ginger
One whole breast of chicken, fileted and fat removed, cut into bite-size chunks
One teaspoon chicken boullion mix
One-quarter cup water
One-half of an Ida Red or other cooking apple, diced
Two-thirds cup sour cream
One-half tablespoon curry (or more, to taste)

Saute onion, pepper, garlic and ginger in a little bit of oil until tender. Add chicken, and continue cooking until chicken is very lightly browned.

Prepare boullion with base mix and water. Add to chicken and vegetables. Bring to a boil over a medium flame.

Add apples, sour cream and curry (use a full tablespoon of curry, but that's too spicy for most tastes).

Simmer for five minutes, then serve over a bed of cooked brown or white rice with a little chutney on the side.

I made this dish up myself and never had a set recipe for it until now.

SALMON/TUNA MUFFINS

One large can red salmon
One small can white tuna
Two medium onions, chopped
Two cups Rice Krispies dry cereal
Two eggs
Salt, pepper to taste
Three teaspoons chopped, fresh parsley

Using a large mixing bowl, mix everything together until it looks well blended, including all juice and bones from salmon (they're good for you!).

Lightly grease a large muffin tin. Fill cups (heaping) with mixture. Bake in medium (375) oven for one hour or until nicely browned on top.

Serves four. Add creamed peas for topping if you desire.

This is a good recipe to have on hand when snowbound, as the ingredients keep, you can vary it several ways, and it's nutritious. Dried parsley can be substituted; you can add cream of celery soup if you need more moisture, or milk can be substituted.

TOMMY'S FAVORITE MEATBALLS

Son Tommy, who is six feet plus tall, grew up with these as his favorite dinner. We like to think they contributed to his growth and strength, which is legendary...

One pound ground pork or sausage
Three eggs
Three large onions, chopped
Eight slices dry bread (homemade style, heavy and hearty, can be half brown, half white)
One teaspoon dried lovage leaves
One-half teaspoon thyme
One-half teaspoon sweet basil
Salt, pepper to taste
One can cream of mushroom soup
One can cream of celery soup
Water as needed

Break bread into small pieces in very large mixing bowl. Drizzle with boiling water and pull apart with fork until fine in consistency (you can also zip them through your blender).

Add meat, eggs, onions and seasonings. Mix very well until you can easily form golf-ball sized meatballs. Brown in Dutch oven on all sides in butter. Pour off extra fat. Add soup, thinned with half the amount of water called for on cans. Cover and bake in 375 oven for one and one-half hours until browned.

Serve with baked potatoes, bashed neeps (recipe following), tossed green salad and hot crusty rolls.

BASHED NEEPS

Don't let the name fool you. And don't reject this dish until you've tried it. Besides being good for you, the taste and color are pleasing and if you've a drop of Scottish blood in your veins, you'll think you're strolling among the heather...

Two medium to large rutabagas
Water as needed
Salt and pepper to taste

Dollop of butter
Fresh parsley to garnish

Peel rutabagas and cut into small pieces. Cover with water, bring to a boil. Cook until fork tender. Mash with gusto until smooth and consistent. Add butter and parsley, salt and pepper. Serve.

Insist that children under 4 eat this and they'll grow up thinking everyone has Bashed Neeps with meatballs, and especially at Christmas and Thanksgiving, when it graces the dining room table.

Dorothy Webster

LION'S ROCK BREAST OF CHICKEN PECAN

One-half teaspoon salt

One-quarter teaspoon freshly ground pepper
One egg white, beaten until frothy
Three tablespoons grainy mustard
One-half cup finely ground pecans
One-half cup fresh bread crumbs
Two skinless, boneless chicken breast halves
Two tablespoons unsalted butter
One-quarter cup heavy cream

Combine flour, salt and pepper in a shallow bowl. In second bowl, blend egg white with two tablespoons mustard. Combine pecans and bread crumbs in third bowl.

One at a time, dredge chicken breast in flour and shake off excess. Next dip in egg white mixture to coat. Finally, dip into pecan-bread crumb mixture, pressing so coating adheres to both sides. Set aside on rack.

In medium skillet, melt butter over moderately high heat. When foam subsides, add chicken breasts. Cook on one side until crisp and brown, about three minutes. Then turn, reduce heat to moderately low and cook until chicken has just lost pinkness inside, about five minutes.

Meanwhile, in small saucepan, warm the cream over moderate heat. Add remaining one tablespoon mustard and pinch of pepper; cook until warmed through, three to five minutes.

To serve, slice the breasts on the diagonal and fan out decoratively on two warmed serving plates. Pass sauce on side. Serves two.

FINNISH COFFE BRAID (PULLA)

Two packages dry yeast
One-half cup warm water
One and one-half cups lukewarm milk
One cup sugar
One teaspoon salt
Two and one-half teaspoons ground cardamom
Four eggs
Seven to eight cups all-purpose flour
One-half cup melted butter or margarine

Sprinkle yeast on warm water. Let stand a few minutes. Stir to blend. Stir in milk, sugar, salt, cardamom, eggs and two cups of flour. Beat until smooth. Add three more cups flour and beat until smooth. (I use my Kitchen Aid mixer for as much of this beating as possible.) Stir in the melted butter. Now add enough of the remaining flour to make a soft dough which can be handled. Cover. Let rise for 15 minutes. Turn out on a floured board. Knead until smooth and elastic. Place in a greased bowl. Cover. Let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about one hour or more. Punch down. Cover. Let rise again until almost double in bulk or about 30 to 45 minutes.

Turn out on a slightly floured board. Divide into two or three portions. Make braids. Let rise about 30 to 45 minutes. Brush lightly with a slightly beaten egg and sprinkle with sugar. Bake at 375 about 25-30 minutes. Yield: two long or three shorter braids.

tions. American Finns generally always make pulla for Christmas. In our home, we served it sliced and pass the butter. If it is around long enough to become a bit stale, we then toast the slices. Delicious!

Fold whites into batter, divide between pans and bake about 55 minutes. Cool 10 minutes, turn out on rack.

with lemon syrup and let it be absorbed. Cool.

One-half teaspoon salt
One orange

In a small bowl, toss together blueberries, nuts and the one-quarter cup flour. Carefully stir into batter.

Pour into greased 8x4x2 loaf pan. Bake in 350 oven for 55-60 minutes or until bread tests done. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Remove and cool on wire rack.

great-grandfather was mayor of Detroit.

One cup grated carrots
One cup brown sugar
One cup raisins
One cup suet
One cup grated potatoes
One cup flour
One teaspoon soda
One teaspoon cinnamon
One teaspoon cloves
One-quarter pound citron
One cup walnuts

Put into mold and steam for three hours.

Sauce:

One egg
Two tablespoons flour
One tablespoon butter
One cup white or brown sugar
One cup or more hot water

Robb Wilson

STEAMED DATE PUDDING

Three tablespoons melted shortening
Two cups flour
Three-quarters teaspoon soda
One teaspoon ground cloves
One teaspoon cinnamon
One-quarter teaspoon allspice
One-half teaspoon salt
One cup milk
Three-quarters cup molasses
One-half pound dates, chopped

Sift flour and spices together and mix with molasses and milk. Add shortening. Fold in dates. Pour into greased mold and steam for two hours. Serve with Lemon n' Orange Sauce (below).

Orange n' Lemon Sauce:

One tablespoon cornstarch
One-half cup sugar
Dash of salt
Juice of one orange
Add boiling water to juice to make one cup
Juice of one lemon
One-half teaspoon grated orange rind
One-half teaspoon grated lemon rind
One tablespoon butter

Combine cornstarch, sugar and salt, mix well. Add orange juice, water and lemon juice. Stir constantly and boil gently five minutes. Add rinds and butter. Makes about one and one-third cups sauce.

For Tart Lemon Sauce, omit orange juice and use one cup boiling water. Omit orange rind and use grated rind of one lemon, add one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg.

Our Christmas traditions of caroling, cocktail parties and dinners, and a special holiday punch can all be traced to ancient English winter rituals.

In medieval England a special ceremony was performed to pay tribute to the apple trees people depended on to produce fruit. The people of a community formed a procession and visited the local orchards in the dead of winter. There, they saluted the trees by pouring a special liquor over the roots of one of the major trees. This liquor was simply heated ale or cider that had been sweetened and spiced. Roasted apples and pieces of toasted bread were often floated in the mixture. After the libation was offered, an incantation similar to this was sung:

"Stand fast at root
Beat well at top
Every twig bear apple big
Every bow bear apple now."

Often dancing followed and the procession moved on to the next orchard where the ritual was repeated.

By the reign of Henry VII (1485-1509), this pagan rite had become a series of feasts for Christian upper classes. People paid visits to the homes of neighbors rather than the orchards. At each stop there would be singing, and food and drink were served. The drink served remained heated ale with sugar, nutmeg, ginger and roasted apples. Those who could afford it would substitute a rich wine for the ale.

HOLIDAY BEVERAGES

The toast "waes hael" began being offered with the liquor. This Anglo-Saxon term meant "be hale or whole" and was used to wish people very good health. In this way, the mulled ale or wine liquor became known as "wassail." The tradition of paying visits to neighbors for festive parties or even brief sessions of song was known as "wassailing."

In the time of Henry VII, wassail was presented at formal dinners with great ceremony. A small procession preceded the wassail bowl and, as it entered the dining hall, special wassail carols were sung. The youngsters of the era went door-to-door begging for apples and ale, presumably for use in making the wassail.

The spirit of wassailing survives today in the form of caroling and Christmas cocktail parties and dinners. For the many people who would enjoy serving wassail to their guests, here's a simple recipe that has been adapted for modern use:

WASSAIL

1 quart heated ale
2 tsp. each of nutmeg, ginger and cinnamon
½ bottle heated sherry

Juice and grated peel of 1 lemon
Sugar to taste

Combine these ingredients and serve hot with roasted apples and pieces of toasted bread floating in the bowl.

ROASTED APPLES

¼ cup brown sugar
2 tsp. butter or margarine

Core the apples and fill their centers with brown sugar. Place in an 8"x8" pan and dot the tops with butter or margarine. Add ¾ cup boiling water to the pan. Bake at 375° for about 50 minutes. Apples should be tender but not mushy.

SCANDINAVIAN GLOG

Two bottles of burgundy wine
One pint of vodka
One-half pound sugar
10 cloves
One cinnamon stick
Slivered almonds
Raisins
Two tablespoons grated orange rind (optional)

Pour wine into a pot. Add sugar and spices. Simmer slowly without boiling until sugar completely dissolves. Add vodka and heat, but do not boil. Serve in mugs with slivered almonds and raisins. Makes 10-12 servings. Traditional food of my family's ancestry.

A light snow is falling as you and your family drive up to the house. Through the fog-shrouded windows the Christmas tree glows brightly.

As you approach the holly-bedecked door, the aroma of baked turkey and the happy voices of your relatives rise in a symphony of pleasure and greetings.

That's not your scenario? No, you've got a new baby, that balloon payment due Dec. 15 and your sister is mad because you spent Thanksgiving with your husband's family.

Don't feel alone. No holidays create as much stress as Christmas or Hanukkah. Somewhere between our childhood (some would say childish) expectations and the commercial assault that seems to begin in August, the joy is squeezed out of the holidays, leaving us feeling like a pouch of freeze-dried astronaut food.

What to do? Well, you can let the holiday blues drive you into a deep, dark depression or you can act like an adult. Sure, sitting around and pouting may be more fun, but being an adult is more rewarding.

Giving and getting

Too often exchanging Christmas gifts has moved from ritual to commodity trading. I know of a couple (unmarried) where she sets a dollar limit he must spend and then drops broad hints about what and from what stores would be acceptable.

Greedy? Maybe so, but it takes the guesswork out of giving, at least for that individual.

But there are those of us who believe that gifts should come from the heart — you know, that shriveled receptacle of our emotions. But it gets more and more difficult as the holiday approaches, the budget shrinks and the stores come to resemble stockyards.

Yet there is something more insidious lingering behind all this stress — the psychology of gift giving and receiving, experts agree, goes to the core of your self-worth.

First you must find out what you like more — giving or receiving.

If you are one of those who keeps a running total of who gave you what and was it equal to what you gave them, then you are heading for a Christmas crash.

On the other extreme, if you're the type who buys and buys and buys expensive one-of-a-kind gifts to impress those you love, like, abhor or merely tolerate, then you, too, are asking to be an unhappy Christmas elf.

True, these are extremes, and you may recognize some of those traits in your personality, but they are indicative of what you feel about yourself. The best way to avoid the holiday blues is not to set traps for yourself.

Here are some ways to maintain your sanity:

- Gifts are meant to impart delight. Knowing what you want and ordering your spouse to get it for you denies him the pleasure of giving and denies you the surprise.

- Give in proportion. Buying a diamond pin to impress your boss when he makes 10 times your salary is just plain foolish.

- Obligation gifts. These you can't avoid. Your cousin twice removed. People who give you gifts for no apparent reason. Service people who keep appliances functioning. Generic presents such as fruit-cakes, sausage-and-cheese gifts packs or a bottle of whatever will do just fine.

22/COOKBOOK/December 14/15, 1988

HOLIDAY DEPRESSION

- Be gracious when accepting gifts. If you don't get what you want, remember that's what after-Christmas sales are for.

Modern traditions

Most people accept the fallacy that if Christmas isn't exactly like it was when they were kids, then something is wrong.

Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The last 20 years have brought an economic and cultural change in the family. Mom no longer stays home and bakes cookies for Wally and the Beav while Dad commutes to his office. Now Mom and Dad — sometimes just Mom — pile the kids in the car for the hop to day care before heading off to their respective offices.

The old traditions, and the work involved to maintain them, are sometimes just not feasible. What to do? Keep those that work, then make up new ones that fit your way of life.

As always, Christmas and Hanukkah are for kids. Their memories should be special. That means Santa Claus, Christmas cookies, presents and a sense of wonder.

Children delight in rituals. They find the religious aspects of the celebration as well as the preparations for Christmas Day itself intriguing. And by focusing your attention, and as a result theirs, on the purely commercial parts of the celebration you deny them a special pleasure.

Think back to the Christmas memories that are most special to you. Most likely they were the times when your family did things together. The same holds true for your children.

Trimming the tree, baking cookies and wrapping presents may be the obvious rituals, but don't overlook watching the "Peanuts" Christmas special together or a simple drive in town where the houses are decked out with holiday displays. The emphasis is on doing and being together, no matter what the task.

Be sure to include youngsters in the task. It may seem easier to string the outdoor lights without help from the 6-year-old, but this is what he'll remember.

This is also a good time to bring the generations together. And not just the grandparents visiting from Arizona, but uncles and aunts and friends as well to work together and talk about old times. The kids may be disinterested at first, but something sooner or later is sure to capture their interest.

Of course, the primary traditions are centered around meals. This is a good time to include everyone in the preparation, but it's also an opportunity to baby yourself.

If there is a particular dish that means Christmas to you, then make it, even if you are the only person who enjoys it. Although it is a simple pleasure, it's one that goes a long way.

Maintain those traditions peculiar to your family. Do you open presents on Christmas Eve or Christmas Day? Do you light candles on the menorah and play dreidel every night, or just the first two? Read the nativity story from the Bible?

Each of these events gives meaning to the celebration.

If you are single or have no children, be sure to hook up with those of your same situation or include yourself in family gatherings.

If no invitations are forthcoming, then do the inviting yourself. Create your own traditions for you and your friends, even if it's renting a copy of "It's a Wonderful Life" and serving some eggnog.

Sometimes events preclude a happy holiday. A death in the family or a divorce or some other event may rob you of good cheer.

If you are not in the mood, then don't force a ritual that will remind you of who is missing.

If it means doing things differently or celebrating the holiday in a low-key manner or even going away for a few days, then do it.

The holidays are also a time of healing. Do whatever it takes to help you cope with grief.

Good Cheer

So far all this has been theoretical. Here are some things you can do to settle your neurotic self down and enjoy the holidays:

- Schedule early. This is especially important for step-families. Figure out who is spending what holiday where and with whom at least a month in advance.

This precludes any hurt feelings or fouled-up travel arrangements. Also this gives you an idea how many guests you might have and allows you to make the necessary preparations.

- Reserve. If you are traveling, make reservations in advance. The airlines are always booked, and the perfect flight at the most convenient time might just not be available Dec. 22.

- Shop alone. True, it's fun to shop with your pals, but realistically it's better to shop at your pace at the stores you like. Christmas season is the World Series of shopping. The pros go it alone.

- Safety first. Christmas and its accompanying adornments can spell danger, especially for children. Make sure your tree and other decorations are flame resistant.

Keep poisonous plants — holly and mistletoe — out of reach of children.

Take the time to clean your fireplace and, most of all, don't use it to burn wrapping paper. The sudden burst of flame has ruined more than one celebration.

- You first. It may seem foolish given all that needs to be done, but take the time to relax. Have a leisurely lunch between shopping expeditions. Go to the movies while the rest of mankind is mall-walking. Decorate alone, just the way you like. If all else fails, take a bubble bath.

- Indulge, but not too much. Face it, it's useless to maintain a strict diet during the holidays. Too many temptations and why make yourself miserable?

Moderation is the key, especially when it comes to drinking. A sensible plan is to maintain a balanced diet during the non-festive meals and don't splurge during the feasts.

Also designate a non-drinking driver if you are making the rounds of parties. Too much cheer can make you a statistic.

- Shop early. Yes, it is a tad late to mention this, but when you get your new calendar, mark Oct. 15 as the day to start, then forget about it until then.
