Park vote may be in November

If the City of Northville decides to ask its voters a second time for a park development millage, the question might not come until November.

A memo from the city administration suggests another park vote could be delayed until November's regular city election and still allow enough time to levy the tax this year. A written opinion from Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad had suggested otherwise.

City voters defeated a .9 mill, two-year millage last November, while township voters approved the same question. The Recreation Department has asked the city to return the issue to the voters. The tax, to develop the Northville Community Park site on Beck Road, will only be levied if it passes in both municipalities.

The City Council has not yet voted on whether or not to put the question back before voters.

A memo from Essad had said the city voters would have to approve the measure before October for the millage to be levied this year. That would have meant the only way the city could return the issue to voters was in a special election.

However, the new memo from City Clerk Cathy Konrad and City

City OKs traffic changes

Several changes in traffic patterns are on the way in the City of Northville following City Council action Monday.

The council voted to adopt five recommendations from a traffic study released last February. One depends on good weather and another hinges on county funding.

The improvements approved by the council are:

- Prohibiting left turns from Randolph onto Center Street; and from the driveway across from Randolph (at Detroit Federal Savings) onto Center. This is an experimental part of a major recommendation for the Center/Randolph intersection which might include closing Randolph at Center.

- Making the intersection of Randolph and High a four-way stop.

- Making Wing and Fairbrook a four-way stop.

- Installing full traffic signals at the intersection of Main and Griswold. This was approved contingent on funding approval from Wayne and Oakland counties.

First baby

Peter David arrives in Northville

A drum roll please! The first Northville baby to be born in 1989 is little Peter David Deacon who was born on Jan. 1 at 3:13 p.m.

Peter David arrived a little earlier than expected, mother Christine reported. The baby was due on Jan. 9 but ended up starting the new year for the Deacon family.

Peter David joins two older brothers at home. Andy, 8 and Jimmy, 5 are happy with the birth of their little brother, Christine said. "They figured it was going to be a boy," she said laughing.

The new baby is "pretty adaptable" and is settling in fine, she said, but life is slightly hectic right now.

Peter's dad, Bill Deacon alerted the Record of the birth on Jan. 2. The actual time and date of birth was verified by Donna Kothari, a Northville resident who also happens to be assistant director of the medical records department at Sinai Hospital where Peter was born.

The baby weighed 8 pounds, 7 ounces at birth.

The first baby and the baby's parents will receive 12 gifts from local merchants in this the 33rd annual First Baby contest.

The deadline for birth announcements was noon, Tuesday, Jan. 10. Two other families reported 1989 births to the Record, but neither beat Peter's arrival. Fred and Susan Matyiku of Northville welcomed Zachary Grey Matyiku on Jan. 5 at 4:30 a.m. He weighed 6 pounds, 8 ounces and was 18 inches long at birth.

Larry Cadeau reported the birth of his son, Luke Edward Cadeau on Jan. 3 at 6:30 a.m. Luke weighed 5 pounds and was 17½ inches long at birth.

Local merchants welcoming the First Baby of Northville in 1989 and their gifts include:

- IV Seasons Flowers and Gifts — flower arrangement.
- Orin Jewelers — baby's first 10k gold ring.
- Freydl's — a special gift for mom.
- Crawford's — dinner for the parents.
- M-Care — free well child care for the first year.
- CMS Tanning and Toning — five free tanning visits.
- The Sawmill — a child's wood step stool.
- Guernsey Farms Dairy — 10 half gallons of milk.
- Grandma Betty's Sweets & Treats — one pound of specialty coffee.
- Margo's of Northville — free haircut and style for parents.
- Sunshine Pet Center — $20 gift certificate.
- Edwards Caterers — a special cake.

Township to choose planner

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

An appointment to the recently vacated seat on the Northville Township planning commission will be made at tonight's (Jan. 12) meeting. Township officials said no list of applicants will be released until the appointment is finalized by the board.

Supervisor Georgina Goss, who is charged with reviewing the applicants and making a recommendation to the board, said she will not release the names of the applicants to protect those individuals who are not chosen for the position.

"A name will be submitted from the candidates that I have reviewed to the board of trustees," Goss said. "I have had two written requests for the vacancy on the planning commission and those requests have included resumes."

Asked why she would not release the names prior to the board meeting, Goss said "until the selection is made by the board, I feel it is premature to release the names."

The vacancy on the planning commission occurred due to the resignation of commissioner Marvin Gans last month. Gans was an 11-year member of the commission.

Goss said she is happy to receive applications from residents interested in serving on any township commission, but she added that vacant commission positions are not advertised.

Before making her recommendation to the board, Goss said she looks at the resume, experience, community involvement, and dedication to the community of each applicant.

"I also look at each applicant's ability to work as a member of a governmental body," she added.

Goss said an interview of each candidate does not typically take place, because in past appointments an interview has not been necessary.

In the case of the current planning commission spot, Goss said she has not interviewed either candidate.

"I've looked at both resumes and I know both people," she said.

If an interview is necessary, Goss said she would not rule out making them open to the public and press. "Typically we just have not needed to conduct an interview."

If her planning commission recommendation is appointed by the board, Goss indicated that she is unsure whether she will release the name of the other applicant.

"I will talk about that with other board members and then make a decision on whether to release the other names," Goss said.

According to Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, the prac-

Assessments likely to jump

By BOB NEEDHAM

Homeowners in Northville could be seeing another year of big increases in property assessments, according to county officials.

The average hike in residential property assessments in Northville Township should be about 16.89 percent, Wayne County Director of Assessment and Equalization George McEachran said Tuesday. Both halves of the City of Northville — the Oakland and Wayne county sides — will see an average increase of about 14 percent.

Even for booming Oakland County, a 14 percent increase is pretty high. "It's one of the bigger increases," Oakland County Director of Equalization Don Bailey said. "It's close to the top."

The City of Novi marked a 15 percent hike.

But in Wayne County, the north-west area — and Northville Township in particular — is right on top.

"Your particular area, the Plymouth-Canton-Northville-Livonia area ... is where the biggest increases are," McEachran said. "You're sort of leading the pack here. The Grosse Pointes traditionally did, but you've pushed them out of first place. "If you're looking at your property as investment property, that's a real plus. If you're looking at what it's going to do to your pocketbook — maybe you don't want to see it," he continued.

The Wayne County average is about an 8 percent increase, McEachran said.

The figures are preliminary, for use by the state and the local units of government. However, both Bailey and McEachran said the final increases will average out very close to the preliminary figures.

A 10-year comparison of average home sale prices shows big jumps in Northville, McEachran said. In the township, the average price in 1978 was $63,470. By 1987, that had jumped to $136,580.

In the city, the 1978 average was $66,470. By 1987, it was $118,500.

In comparison, Grosse Pointe Shores — the most expensive community in Wayne County — went from $151,374 in 1978 to $271,630 in 1987. The City of Grosse Pointe went from $76,300 to $152,870.

Assessment figures on individual property will not be known until later this winter. By law, assessments are supposed to be between 49 and 50 percent of the true market value of a piece of property.

Schools take on Amerman crowds

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The list of fifteen possible solutions to the Amerman overcrowding problem was pared down to four Monday, as the school board heard proposals and set up a public hearing on the matter.

Superintendent George Bell presented the four solutions which were the recommendations of a study session by the board's facilities subcommittee.

The board has scheduled a public hearing for Monday, Jan. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

"Tonight, I just wanted to highlight the four proposals. At the public hearing the board and citizens will discuss the pros and cons of each," Bell said.

"We are not locked into the current four choices. We will consider and entertain any new proposals brought forth by the community."

Bell said that he will take the input from the public hearing and make a final recommendation to the board on Jan. 23. The board is slated to decide the matter at that meeting.

The Amerman overcrowding issue affects residents living west of Taft Road, north of Main Street and south of a boundary between Nine and Ten Mile roads.

The four solutions being considered by the board include: sending children (K-3) west of Taft Road to Moraine, sending children (K-4) west of Taft to Moraine, sending children (K-5) west of Taft to Moraine, and sending children (K-5) west of Taft to Cooke.

In his recommendation, Bell identified both advantages and disadvantages with all of the five proposals. He said he would not offer a proposal preference until the public hearing.

"We're trying to do what's best for the kids in Northville," Bell said. "Of the 15 proposals, a lot of them did not offer relief we are looking for. We have a target of about 500 students attending Amerman."

As of last Friday Bell said Amer-

School board approves purchase of two new buses

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

A long, drawn out dispute came to an end Monday, as the Northville Board of Education unanimously approved the purchase of two new school buses. The move solved a safety problem at a bus stop on Eight Mile Road entering the Quail Ridge subdivision.

In recommending the purchase of the 72-seat buses, Superintendent George Bell said the problem was solved by purchasing new vehicles with shorter wheel bases.

The shorter wheel base will allow the buses to maneuver around subdivision cul-de-sacs. Previously, the pick-up point had to be along Eight Mile Road, since standard buses could not turn in Quail Ridge. With the new buses, the pick-up point can be moved inside the subdivision.

Quail Ridge resident Doug McClintock, who spearheaded getting the subdivision's problem before the board, said the new buses will "absolutely solve the problem."

"George Bell researched well the potential impact (of the new buses) and I think this will get the children off of Eight Mile Road," McClintock said.

As for why the situation took so long to correct, McClintock said "I have no idea, it just took a long time."

Bell, who indicated the district is making a gradual shift from gasoline to diesel buses, noted that since the district did not plan to use diesel buses prior to 1988, he was not made aware of the shorter wheel base feature.

Only diesel buses offer a shorter wheel base vehicle, gasoline buses do not, according to Bell.

"Ultimately, the Northville School District plans to go with all diesel buses, but when we had no plans to use diesel, we did not consider them as an option (to the Quail Ridge problem)," Bell said.

Board member Donald Klokkenga, who said he has experience in the truck and bus industry, noted that Thomas Co. (the builder of the vehicle) builds a "very good bus."

NEWS BRIEFS

CORRECTION — A story about a recent city audit in the Dec. 29 issue of the Record contained an error.

The audit report delivered to the City Council last month covered the 1987-88 fiscal year. The article included the wrong date.

The Record regrets the error.

REVISED SCHOOL BOARD SCHEDULE — Because a large amount of people interested in the Amerman situation may attend the Jan. 23 school board meeting, the board altered its meeting schedule.

The Jan. 23 meeting has been changed from Silver Springs to the high school forum; the Feb. 27 meeting has been changed from Amerman to Silver Springs; and the May 22 meeting has been changed from Old Village School to Amerman.

Also, the board has scheduled a special meeting on Monday, Jan. 23 at 7:30 p.m. at Old Village School to discuss the findings of the first strategic planning session.

HEARING MOVED — Township resident Zoueflickar Nehmeh, who has been charged with one count of delivery and possession of a controlled substance, will face a calendar conference Friday in Recorder's Court in Detroit before Judge Craig Strong.

Nehmeh stood mute Tuesday before Recorder's Court Judge Dominick Carnovale at his arraignment on information.

A Recorder's Court spokesperson said all the parties will get together at the calendar conference and discuss what motions will be filed.

FORD MEETING — A first look at the future of the Northville Ford Plant is scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 17.

In a special presentation before the Northville Planning Commission, the architectural firm Quinn-Evans is scheduled to update city officials on its study of the plant's future. The city hired the firm to look at options for development after Ford announced the plant would close.

The meeting, in the City Council chambers, is open to the public.

MAYOR TAKES TO THE AIR — Northville Mayor Chris Johnson will be talking about the city with host Lou Farrell on the weekly radio show "What's On Your Mind." The show is broadcast on WCAR (1090) AM on Friday, Jan. 13 at 1 p.m.

The program is designed for audience participation and listeners can call in with questions or comments.

NEW PRESIDENT ELECTED — Ron Abramovich has been elected president of the Lexington Commons Homeowners Association. Other officers elected at the Nov. 30 meeting were John McConachie, vice president; George Stepaniak, treasurer; and Carol Lee, secretary.

Four new members of the Lexington Commons Association were elected: Jennifer Chopp, Cheryl Downs, Nancy Hill, and Carol Lee. The four retiring board members are Terry Mittman, Sandy Basse, Jay Julow and John Pankopf.

Board meetings are held on the third Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. The next meeting will be held at the home of Nancy Hill on Jan. 19. All residents are welcome to attend.

COUNTY IMPACT IS BACK — County Impact, an informational cable TV show hosted by Wayne County Commissioner Susan J. Heintz (R-Northville), will return to the air waves after an election-year hiatus. Watch local Omnicom and Metrovision listings for show times.

CONSTABLE IN TRAINING — Constable James F. Schrot of Northville Township recently attended a winter conference and training seminar sponsored by the Michigan Constables and Court Officers Association. The seminar held at Michigan State University offered instruction on law enforcement in a changing society, governmental and individual liability costs and issues.

Supervisor explores township issues

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Appointed in 1986 to succeed former Supervisor Susan Heintz, Georgina Goss won reelection to the supervisor position last November. As she begins her first four-year term, the Northville Record asked Goss to sit down last week for a look at last year's issues and what's ahead for the township in 1989. A slightly-edited transcription of the interview appears here.

Being as general or specific as you want, could you assess the township's progress in the past year?

Goss: The township has made some major progress and accomplished many goals that they had set forth.

I think our major accomplishment has been the signed agreement between WTUA and YCUA. That agreement was a landmark agreement and it was a project that we worked hard to fulfill. It (the agreement) will take care of our wastewater needs far into the future and it will give us some direct control over the cost of sewage rates in the township.

We also passed a two-mill police millage that was a major accomplishment for us, because it will allow us to maintain the high level of police services that we have had in this township.

We passed the woodlands ordinance to protect our natural resources and we passed a property maintenance ordinance, which will give the township some control over landowners that want to allow their property to become abandoned or rundown.

Our police department has continued its efficient operation and our fire department has hired a full-time assistant chief to help with fire inspections. We also have added and updated our fire equipment.

Our new building official has come in and is working diligently to keep up with building inspections as well as an expanded part-time inspection staff. We have a new planning and zoning administrator in our planning department. Our clerk's department is just finishing codification of ordinances which is a major accomplishment for this year.

The board of trustees have resolved some water and sewer assessment districts that have been hanging and causing us some problems for well over a year; we resolved those issues and they will be taken care of.

Basically, the board has just gone forward this year and accomplished many of the goals it set out to do. The whole staff has worked hard this year and we have done a lot.

Wayne County officials submitted a schedule last November for the sale of the 1,040 acres of land it owns in the township by April 15, 1989. Do you believe they can stick to this schedule?

Goss: I believe they can stick to it, but I am not sure they will. The 1,040 acres of county land in Northville township has been a financial burden on our taxpayers for a number of years. Our police and fire departments are continually servicing that property. It is not on our assessment rolls and I want to see that land in private hands and back on the assessment rolls by the end of this year.

If the land is sold in 1989, would you prefer it being sold to one developer or more than one?

Goss: I would prefer to see it going to one developer with a comprehensive mixed-use plan that would be an asset to the township.

If, in fact, it is going to go to more than one developer, I would like to see them work together to come up with a plan that would mesh together so that it comes out to be one development, rather than a piecemeal development. I don't want to see a piecemeal development.

Township residents are asking about orderly development. How would you answer them?

Goss: Orderly development is going to be the main issue in the coming year. Because of the sewage problem being resolved, development may begin, especially along the Haggerty Road corridor.

Our planning commission and township board have been committed to orderly and controlled development for the last few years. We have an excellent zoning ordinance that controls development. We are always adding and updating it. For example, the woodlands ordinance, the fence ordinance and the sign ordinance. We're revising the PRUD ordinance and we're tightening the mining ordinance.

The board and the planning commission are committed to orderly development that will fit in with the rest of the township.

What about a new library? First of all, do you think the library needs a new building?

Goss: Yes I do. The library is cramped, there is not enough room for the staff, we need more facilities for children's storytime, and we certainly need more shelf space for more books and more research area.

Building specs and everything else being equal, do you favor one site over the other?

Goss: The fish hatchery site would be a personal favorite of mine, but I cannot speak for the whole board on that. I like the wooded terrain and I like the idea there could possibly be the aesthetic beauty surrounding our library. Possibly we could take advantage of some storytelling outside or nature trails. So, that would be my personal favorite.

Does the fact that this site is partly in the township, while the other proposed site is in the city (behind the recreation building) shape your preference at all?

Georgina Goss

Record/THOM DOUGHERTY

Goss: My preference is based on the location of the fish hatchery site and not the fact that it is part in the city and part in the township.

Do you have any thoughts on how it might be proposed to be funded? Would you like to see a bond issue, or something else?

Goss: Funding for the library would probably be best suited by a bond issue, although I would have our finance director look into that and solicit input from the board of trustees.

But whether it would be a bond issue or millage it would have to be passed by the voters of the township and the city.

Continuing on the subject of joint services, the millage to develop Northville Community Park passed in the township last November but failed in the city, meaning it failed overall. What is the next step?

Goss: I would like to see the city run a special election. I think it's critical that we develop the parkland that we have.

One of our main issues is going to be acquiring and developing new recreational facilities. But, because we have 40 acres of parkland ready to be developed, I think we should utilize it.

I think the voters of the township mandated they would like to see us go forth with more soccer fields and baseball fields, and I would like to see the city give it another try.

Both local legislators have recently said they plan to discuss the issue of more local control of oil drilling. What is the township board's position on this issue?

Goss: The board has always been in favor of greater local control of anything that goes on in the township. Especially something that is critical to our health and welfare issues. And, it also is causing our residents so much grief now.

How do you plan to support this position?

Goss: Today (Friday), I spoke with Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth). We are in the process of setting up a Camera and rifle among items taken in city robbery

Over $1,000 worth of goods was reported stolen from a Dorisa Court home last week, according to a city police report.

Several items were noticed missing from the home over a period of a couple of days. They included a Yashica 35 millimeter multi-programmable camera, a Sony Watchman television set, a 22 Winchester rifle, and $20 in cash.

The thefts are believed to have occurred between 11 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3 and 10 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 5. Police are following up leads in the case.

WINDOWS MISSING - City police are investigating the apparent theft of some expensive windows from a construction site.

Four casement windows - 25 1/2 inches by 53 1/2 inches - and two large picture windows were reported missing from a construction site on Linden, a police report said. The theft took place around Dec. 15. Police are investigating a suspect.

HUTTON BREAK-IN - Over $1,000 worth of stereo equipment was stolen from a Hutton Street house last week, a city police report said.

Between 6:40 and 7:15 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 4, a window was broken on the home, apparently with a chunk of brick, the report said. Missing items included a Pioneer receiver, an Onkyo cassette deck, a JVC turntable, a Soundesign FM tuner, and two Emerson speakers. A black-and-white Philco 12-inch television was also stolen.

City police are investigating suspects in the case.

WINDOW SMASHED - A car window was smashed on W. Main last week, according to a city police report.

The night of Wednesday, Jan. 4, someone smashed the driver's door window on a car parked in a driveway, the report said. Damage was put at $140.

B & E ATTEMPT - A break-in was apparently attempted - unsuccessfully - at Donna's Flowers on Novi Road last week, a city police report said.

Between 5 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 3 and noon Thursday, Jan. 5, someone apparently tried to break into the rear steel door on the building, the report said. Minor damage was reported.

SUSPICIOUS CHASE - A young girl reported being chased by a man on Allen Drive last week.

The seven-year-old girl was walking on Allen drive at 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 4 when a vehicle approached her and stopped, the report said. The girl kept walking and when a man got out of the car, she started to run. The man chased her a short way, the report said.

The man was described as a white male with short brown hair and a mustache, wearing blue jeans and sunglasses.

RADIO STOLEN - A member of the Novi Fire Department had his radio monitor stolen while eating in downtown Northville, a city police report said.

Between 2 and 4 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 4, the radio was taken from an auto parked on the upper level of the Cady Street parking deck. It was a Motorola Pager valued at $350, the report said.

DOWN'S PICKPOCKET - A man reported getting his wallet lifted at Northville Downs Friday night.

At about 11:25, the man said he was bumped by two people who then reached in his front pocket, grabbed his wallet and ran off. He tried to give chase but lost them, a police report said.

The pair was described as a black male with a stocky build and a round face, slightly balding; and a thin black female, the report said.

WHEELS STOLEN - All four tires and wheels were taken from a 1989 Ford Mustang at McDonald Ford over the weekend, according to a city police report.

The theft occurred between 11 p.m. Friday and 7 a.m. Monday. Total value was put at $1,000. Another car was also apparently scratched during the theft.

HUBCAPS STOLEN - Two hubcaps were taken from a Baseline home Saturday night or Sunday morning, according to a city police report.

The two hubcaps on the driver's side were stolen. Value was put at $70.

COMPUTER RECOVERED - A computer worth $33 and $7.53 in cash was stolen from Meads Mill Middle School before Christmas break and was recovered last Tuesday when a stepfather of a Meads student found the merchandise and returned it to the school.

Meads assistant principal Jeff Radwanski said that last Tuesday the stepfather of the youth came to school and advised him of the wallet and computer in his stepson's closet at home.

Radwanski identified the computer as school property. The stepson said on the week prior to Christmas vacation he found the wallet, took the money out, and spent it.

AUTO THEFT - Thieves pruned in to the passenger window of a 1983 Chevy van parked at Meijer's between 2:30 and 3:30 p.m. last Tuesday and stole over $400 worth of merchandise, according to a township police report.

Police said they found pry marks on the window and an adjoining window was broken as well.

Stolen items include: a $122 bag of clothing, $100 of rental tapes, a $100 tool set, and a $200 power saw. The complainant also identified $200 worth of damage to the car.

HIT AND RUNS - Two hit and run accidents occurred at Meijer's last week, according to a township police report.

Last Tuesday, police report that a car was struck on the east side of the lot between 5 and 5:30 p.m. Damage was done to the left front headlight and a minor part of the body.

Last Friday, police report a hit and run accident occurred between 12:30 and 2 p.m., as unknown persons damaged the driver's side rear bumper of the automobile.

Police said they have no suspects or witnesses in either case. They also said they have no physical evidence.

City moves ahead with new policy on parking space credits

By BOB NEEDHAM

A "two-tier" system of charging businesses for parking spaces got an initial nod of approval from most members of the Northville City Council Monday.

The city's policy on charging businesses for parking has changed several times in the last 10 years, and may change again. But for the present, City Manager Steve Walters and members of the City Council are supporting a new structure which treats new buildings differently than changes to existing buildings.

To meet the city's parking requirements, developers usually pay the city a per-space cost to use public parking in the downtown area. For most of the 1980s, the price has been $1,800 per space.

However, this price has become too low to effectively create much new parking. The city estimates it costs about that much to re-stripe surface parking lots it already owns. The city has been figuring a new parking deck will cost around $7,000 per space.

Under Walters' plan, any development requiring new parking would theoretically pay for some of its spaces in a lot and some in a deck. But the assumed proportion of lot-to-deck spaces is different for an entirely new building than for a change of use or expansion of an existing building.

The new plan is to charge $2,350 per space for a change of use or expansion - a price based on one deck space for each 20 surface spaces. Completely new buildings will pay $3,400 per space - one deck space for each five surface spaces.

The new policy was spurred by a request from the redeveloper of the old Schrader's Home Furnishings site for parking space credits at $2,000 each. The Main Centre project - the latest to negotiate parking with the city - will pay about $2,400 per space average, with the city providing some financing with captured taxes. The Schrader's developers had argued that redevelopment of existing buildings deserved lower rates.

At Monday's council meeting, Walters said the new policy would encourage redevelopment of existing buildings before the building of new ones. It would also imply - as in the past - that when the city charges fees, it will have a physical plan for how to provide the parking.

Mayor Chris Johnson and other council members supported the plan, but Council Member Paul Folino disagreed.

"I have a little problem with two different parking credit rates," Folino said adding that two identical projects could be charged different rates just because of the way they were built. "Now that, to me, doesn't make sense. I'm looking at it from a business standpoint."

Walters countered that it is appropriate for the city to encourage redevelopment of existing buildings, and to in a sense reserve the available cheaper parking for those efforts.

Council Member John Buckland called the policy a sort of necessary "two-headed monster" - with the city wanting to encourage both new development and redevelopment. "$3,400 would scare me. I think I'd go outside the city," he said.

Walters and Johnson said the policy may be changed once the results of the city's Cady Street Corridor study are known. That will include estimates of needed parking and parking costs.

new development to provide its required parking, Johnson said. However, "That would just stagnate downtown development. It would grind to a screeching halt," he said.

"Frankly, I think the policy for new development has a life of about six months," Walters said. "I don't think our future is going to see (prices) getting any lower."

One other potential option for parking would be to simply require any Johnson asked Walters to draft a proposal for formal adoption, but had it understood that a majority of the council agreed with the figures and basic idea. He also directed Walters to start using the figures in negotiations.

Planners propose ordinance to change rules for vets

By BOB NEEDHAM

A proposal to permit veterinary clinics in downtown Northville last week turned into a proposal to slightly increase the areas they may locate — not including downtown — and to add new regulations where they are already allowed.

The Northville Planning Commission last week narrowly voted to propose an ordinance which would regulate veterinary offices more closely than the current zoning ordinance does. Before the new regulations are enacted they would have to go through a public hearing and approval from the City Council.

Currently the city only specifically allows veterinary offices in the general commercial district (GCD) zoning classification, although they could probably also fall under race track zoning. They are allowed in GCD only after a special land use approval from the Planning Commission.

The GCD zoning requires of veterinary clinics that "all activities are conducted within a totally enclosed main building." Such clinics would have to meet other GCD requirements.

At the meeting Tuesday, Jan. 3, planning commissioners voted 5-4 to recommend to the City Council stronger zoning restrictions for veterinary offices in the GCD district — including a limitation that only small, domestic animals may be treated. Other proposed requirements are:

- No external evidence of use, including noise or odors which would impact other property. Also no outdoor kennels, exercise areas or storage facilities.

- No commercial boarding. Post-operative stays would be limited to three days.

- Abiding by any commission requirements "deemed necessary to insure against the occurrence of any possible nuisance to surrounding properties."

- Disposing of medical waste in accordance with the city's new rules.

- Meeting county and state regulations.

The Planning Commission proposal would also allow veterinary clinics in the city's industrial zoning districts, as a "use permitted by right" not needing a special land use approval. Currently, kennels are permitted in industrial districts.

The commission voted to send the new proposal on to the City Council after a discussion which explored several other options. The issue of veterinary clinics was on the agenda for the commission to consider permitting them in central business district (CBD), local commercial district (LCD) and professional business office (PBO) zones.

The question first arose when veterinarian Debra Zarish asked to open a practice in the Holland, Newton and Associates building on Dunlap at Center (see related story).

The Holland, Newton site is zoned CBD. After her request, two other local vets expressed interest in relocating downtown if the city decided to allow the clinics in the CBD.

There are currently no veterinarians practicing within the city limits.

A couple members of the commission suggested the issue was such a struggle in part because Zarish's specific proposal had advantages, but vet clinics in other areas zoned CBD might be a different story.

When a community tries to fit a proposal to a specific case, "the red light goes off in the back of the brain to say this really shouldn't be done," Commissioner Rolland Stapleton said midway through the discussion.

Several members of the commission said that veterinary offices were not appropriate in the central business district — and other zones — because of potential problems with noise, odor and enforcement of regulations.

Commissioner Kathleen Otton said veterinary clinics were being "maligned" because of impressions left over from the past. Modern clinics should not have an adverse impact on their neighbors, she said.

Record/THOM DOUGHERTY

Dunlap Street building sought for a veterinary office

The proposed restriction for small animal treatment resulted from concerns about larger animals being taken through the city. The other restrictions were recommended by the city planning consultant, Don Wortman.

Just before the vote, Commissioner David Totten said that he did not think the commission was an efficient group to write new city legislation, and that the commission needed more consensus on the issue.

Commissioners voting in favor of the proposal for new restrictions and expansion into industrial zoning were: John Hardin, Stapleton, Chris Gazlay, Don McCulloch and Dick Wilhelm. Voting no were Kathleen Otton, David Mielock, Greg Presley and Totten.

Before the proposal passed the commission, a motion to allow the clinics in LCD and PBO zones, with restrictions, died on a 3-6 vote.

Theoretically, GCD is not the only district in the city where veterinary clinics are currently allowed. City Manager Steve Walters said at the commission meeting that veterinary clinics would also probably be allowed under catch-all provisions in the race track and related use (RTRU) district. The only land in the city currently zoned RTRU is Northville Downs, its main parking lot, and the south side of Cady Street from Griswold almost to Center.

Veterinarian plans to take case for downtown site to BZA

A veterinarian who was denied an ordinance change to allow veterinary clinics in the Central Business District is taking her request to the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Debra Zarish has applied to the city to use a vacant building on Dunlap Street — within the CBD — as a veterinary clinic. The Planning Commission considered and eventually rejected the idea of allowing small animal clinics in the CBD, although a different proposal resulted (see related story).

The City Council is free to adopt, modify or reject the commission proposal, and Zarish has asked the council to reconsider vets in the CBD as a general change. But in the meantime, she also plans her specific case to be heard by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

In an appearance before the council Monday, Zarish asked for a reconsideration of the Planning Commission recommendation. The council agreed to listen, but said they wanted to know more background information before considering the issue.

Council members told Zarish and the building owners, Lee Holland and Charlotte Spaman-Holland, that another way to pursue the case was to the Board of Zoning Appeals. The BZA has the authority to grant variances from zoning rules in specific cases under certain conditions.

City Manager Steve Walters said "There is some substance to an appeals case." Some variances are granted on the basis of a "hardship," and the Hollands said they had received no interest in renting the building besides Zarish. The building has been advertised for three months.

Zarish said Tuesday the Hollands would probably go to the BZA under a hardship claim.

However, Lee Holland asked the council to consider a full ordinance change as well. "We want to change the ordinance."

Schools tackle Amerman overcrowding

man's enrollment is about 730 students, with total capacity being about 720 students.

Using any of the four proposals would require the district to reopen a previously closed public school. Both Cooke and Moraine have been closed since 1984.

In looking at the district's entire elementary school population, Bell said consideration was given to redefining the district's boundaries and having the two other elementary schools, Winchester and Silver Springs take some students.

Although the enrollment of both Winchester and Silver Springs is currently well under capacity, Bell indicated a redefining of the district would be only a temporary solution. He said proposed development, especially near Winchester, should soon increase school enrollments.

Board member and facilities chairman Donald Klokenga said the subcommittee came up with the four proposals "to relieve Amerman's overcrowding for the next two to three years."

"This should not be looked at as being a temporary solution," Klokenga said. "Sooner or later, however, this current solution will run out of room. From then on, the impending strategic planning program should provide some answers."

Klokenga said in paring down the 15 possibilities to four proposals, the subcommittee always tried to "inconvenience the least amount of families as possible."

"None of the four proposals affect families sending children to Winchester or Silver Springs, so we will not be disrupting anybody else in the district."

No matter which proposal, if any, are chosen, Klokenga said the cost of opening either Moraine or Cooke is very comparable, and money will not play a role in the board's decision.

Of the four proposals, sending students to Moraine would result in the displacement of an ongoing program. Moraine currently services the Early Childhood Development Center.

Moraine Principal Mary Kay Scullen said her program would not experience a major disruption if the building is opened to an elementary school.

Under the worst case scenario for her program, in which Moraine would hold elementary classes for K-5 children, Scullen said her entire program would still be able to function.

Scullen said the kids creative corner group, consisting of eight classes of 16 children per week, would be moved to Cooke school.

Scullen said this move would not result in a significant student loss, adding the other three programs run by early childhood development would remain at Moraine.

"Under all options we can maintain the programs currently offered at Moraine," Scullen said. "Whatever option is chosen by the board and community we will deal with."

She noted she feels the district "has made every possible effort to maintain its commitment to early childhood development."

Bell said the district would try to find space for other programs currently at Moraine — such as the Northville Co-op Preschool — if Moraine is opened for an elementary school.

If K-5 students were sent to Cooke school, the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center would be displaced. However, no representative from the Senior Center attended the school board meeting.

Day care rules move to council

By BOB NEEDHAM

A proposal to permit small, in-home day care operations in Northville with no local restrictions is under consideration by the City Council.

A suggested change in the city zoning ordinance would allow a person to care for up to four children in a home — with no extra city requirements — in any residential zoning district. A state license would still be required.

The proposal would also allow larger in-home day care in some residential areas, but only if the operation meets additional standards for play areas, parking and the like.

The ordinance change was approved last week by the city Planning Commission, but the City Council — the only body with the authority to pass a city ordinance — has not yet taken any action. The council has scheduled a special study session on the issue for 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 30.

If approved by the council, the new ordinance would mark a major change in the city's day care policy. The zoning ordinance does not now speak to in-home day care, and therefore treats all day care operations the same, regardless of size: allowed only under certain conditions.

Consideration of an ordinance change started when a day care home was cited for violating city zoning after a neighbor's complaint. Officials have discussed the issue for several months.

Planning Commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin crafted the proposal during commission discussion Tuesday, Jan. 3. It provides that:

• In considering the number of children allowed in a day care home, children under seven years who live in the house will be counted in the total.

• Up to four children may be cared for as a "use permitted by right" in any residentially-zoned area. State licensing is required, as is compliance with city regulations for any dwelling.

• Between five and 12 children may be cared for in areas zoned R-3 or R-4 — condominium / apartment-type zoning — providing additional requirements are met. These include a fenced play area of at least 200 square feet per child, not including required front or side yards; proper licensing; and minimum parking standards.

• Any number of children may be cared for in a child care center on land zoned central business district (CBD), local commercial district (LCD) or professional business office (PBO). The same restrictions as above would apply.

• State definitions for "family day care home" (up to six kids), "group day care home" (seven to 12 kids) and "child care center" (day care not in a home) would be added to the city zoning ordinance.

The ordinance proposal does not address allowable density of day care facilities, which was the issue the Planning Commission first took up at the council's request. City Planning Consultant Don Wortman has said any such regulation of frequency or density would probably not be allowed under state law.

The proposal passed the Planning Commission 8-1, with Chris Gazlay dissenting. Just before the vote he said he did not think child care centers were an appropriate use for some areas in the CBD.

Before making his proposal, Hardin said it was important to balance the concerns of the people who need day care services with those who don't want an impact on the neighborhood.

Township, city foresee heavy building in 1989

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB and BOB NEEDHAM

Several major building projects in the city and township of Northville which were approved last year will begin or continue construction during 1989.

Although more new ventures are likely to be proposed throughout the year, projects already approved will ensure a busy construction season on their own.

Among the projects expected to grow up in the community during the year are:

• St. Lawrence Estates Condominiums — The old site of the racetrack horse barns off Sheldon and Seven Mile has seen constant construction activity over the past few months. That activity is expected to continue throughout the year.

Of the 96 condos planned for the development, about 27 are already sold, Steve Friedman of the Selective Group said last week. Prices are in the range of $179,000 to $200,000.

The first new owners may be able to move in by the end of March. "There will be construction ongoing after that," Friedman said. The moving-in process that is scheduled to extend to June, 1990, when the final construction details should be finished.

"(The project) is meeting our expectations relative to sales, relative to the kind of a market we were seeking. The City of Northville has been a pleasure to work with," Friedman said.

• Community Federal Credit Union — The credit union has bought the lot on the southwest corner of Main and Griswold streets to put up a new building. The union will then move out of its office at the corner of Main and Center.

Although the project received city approval months ago, groundbreaking was stalled when bids came in higher than expected.

"We're still negotiating," Credit Union President Jim Cantrell said Tuesday. "We've got some new bids that came in."

The credit union hopes to break ground some time this spring, he added.

When completed, the new building will include more room inside than the credit union presently has. New features will include drive-through windows and an automatic teller machine.

• Main Centre — A long-awaited development on the southwest corner of Main and Center streets is expected to get underway this summer.

Although details must still be worked out, a plan for a four-story apartment and retail building has received all its key approvals from the city. The building will combine three floors of upscale apartments with retail stores along Main and Center streets and a restaurant on Cady.

The developer, Singh Development Company of Birmingham, hopes to start construction in early summer.

• Hampton Inn — The four-story, 128 room hotel will be ready to compete against neighboring hotels on the ever-growing Eight Mile and Haggerty Road corridor.

According to local officials, the project began in the spring of 1988 and is scheduled for completion by the end of 1989.

Hampton Inn, will be the third hotel located on the southeast corner of Eight Mile and Haggerty. Already at the intersection is the Novi Hilton and Travel Lodge.

Officials of Hampton Inn and Pepper Construction were unavailable for comment as of press time.

• Northwood Corporate Park — A five building office complex will be constructed on the hilly terrain near the township hall on Winchester and Six Mile Roads.

The project, which will be divided into three phases, features four single story buildings and one bi-level building. Two of the five buildings will be completed this summer.

"This will be a general office park consisting of all brick buildings, with their perimeters being all glass," said Dick Barker of Shaw Construction.

"The terrain of the project will be unique, because all of the buildings will have a different elevation," Barker said. "We took advantage of the terrain for purposes of views from the buildings and visibility from the street."

"For example, from one of the buildings, people will be able to see the Renaissance Center on a clear day."

Barker said the project, which will encompass 85,000 square feet, experienced a delay in getting started due to the lack of a sewer permit issued by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

He said the permit was issued in Nov., but since most of the work is masonry, they will have to wait until the weather breaks before beginning construction.

• Sunoco Gas — A full service auto repair, gas station, and mini-mart, the first of its kind in Northville, will

Sewer capacity halts projects

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

While many projects will begin construction as soon as the weather breaks, some projects — especially along Haggerty Road — are being temporarily delayed due to a lack of sewer capacity.

And, according to local officials, a workable solution does not appear to be imminent.

Township Manager Steve Brock said all of the construction along Haggerty Road is being held up by the Haggerty Road sewer problem.

"The Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has still not issued us an Act 98 permit, which would allow us to put in a sanitary sewer main," Brock said.

He added the DNR is still reviewing the sewer's capacity with township engineers, and no permit issue date has been formalized.

Brock said the permit for the Haggerty Road sewer was originally submitted to the DNR in the summer of 1987. "We've given the DNR our designs and study plans to look at."

He noted the current plans would have the proposed sewer run into the Plymouth Township slide drain and into the county interceptor. The Haggerty Road sewer is slated to, at some point, eventually move onto the WTUA/YCUA sewer system.

Brock said there is sufficient interest along the Haggerty Road corridor to signal that its development will become important to the township's tax base.

"The Haggerty Road sewer is something the township has been working on for a long time and it's ready to put it behind and move ahead," he said.

Two major developments along the Haggerty Road corridor being delayed by the lack of sewer capacity include Ward Presbyterian Church (located on the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads) and an office park to be developed by Kirco Co. (located on Six Mile Road next to Ward church).

Ward Administrative Pastor John Crimmins said his group has been in communication with the township planning commission and engineers and has been told the sewer issue will be resolved in the first part of this year.

Crimmins said if the issue is resolved in early 1989, Ward would like to begin construction in late Aug. 1989.

"If the sewer does go in during the first half of 1989 we won't be delayed by the lack of it at all," Crimmins said. "If it goes in after that we could be waiting around, twiddling our thumbs."

Crimmins said Ward Church owns 130 acres of property, 40 acres of which it has sold to Kirco for development of the office complex.

Crimmins said Ward Presbyterian plans to initially build a church on 180,000 square feet of land, with a day care center and elderly retirement village expanding the project to 220,000 square feet.

The church received preliminary site plan approval from the township planning commission last year, and is planning on renewing its preliminary approval and presenting final site plans to the commission at its next meeting Jan. 31.

Crimmins said the lack of sewer capacity along Haggerty had something to do with them letting the preliminary approval period expire. Preliminary approval lasts only for one year if the developer does not pursue the next stage.

"Other factors went into that deci-meeting with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), our local legislators, and probably at least one of the resident's of the community, to discuss jurisdictional issues associated with oil and gas drilling.

We are, as a township, going to press our local legislators to initiate a push through of some legislation giving townships the same control over gas and oil drilling as cities.

We will be talking to our legislators — this meeting will be one major step towards it — and we will probably be writing some letters as well.

With Township Manager Steve Brock resigning last month, the township is losing its daily manager. Do you have anybody in mind to fill the post?

Goss: The board may elect to appoint a temporary office-type manager or administrator while we conduct a search for a new township manager.

I am going to suggest to the township board at our next meeting (tonight at 7:30 p.m.) that we create an ad hoc committee chaired by resident Betty Lennox. This ad hoc committee would be in power to review the position of township manager. They would look at the responsibilities, the job description, and whether we ought to strengthen or weaken the position.

The position was created in 1980 and the ad hoc committee will review whether it should be changed in any way. Betty Lennox has been a past clerk and supervisor of the township and has recently retired as finance director for the city. She is familiar with all aspects of municipal government and she'll be able to bring together a strong committee based on all of her experience and knowledge.

The ad hoc committee would look into this before the township searches for a new manager?

Goss: Right. So that when we are ready to activate the search committee, we'll have an updated job description, job summary, and we'll know what type of a position we want this to be.

This position started out to be a business manager. During Bruno Scacchitti's time it was elevated to township manager. Is that the position we need? Do we need to go back to business manager? Those are some of the questions we need to look at.

Would the temporary manager position be filled within the current personnel or would you look outside to fill the job?

Goss: The temporary position would be filled by somebody inside the organization. It would be a decision made by the board of trustees.

Has anybody applied or been appointed to that position?

Goss: Nobody has been appointed to that position at this time. We would probably tap a department head for the temporary manager's position, but I am not willing at this point to say who it will be, although we do have an idea. It just hasn't been decided by the full board yet.

Is there any overall timetable for filling the manager's position?

Goss: There is not a timetable. We do not want to feel that we are constrained by time. We want to do a good job and get the best possible person for the position as defined by the ad hoc committee.

When would the ad hoc committee be formed and who will be doing the work on it?

Goss: I'm going to suggest it at the board meeting and if the board of trustees concur, Betty Lennox has agreed to chair it and she'll have to put together the committee. It will meet within the next 30 days.

I would venture to guess that it would consist of a department head, a trustee and a couple of residents. But it has not been officially discussed what the composition of the committee will be.

What about an appointment to the planning commission position created by the resignation of Marvin Gans last month?

Goss: I will have an appointment for the board to act on at the next board meeting. We have had a number of people interested in that position and it's gratifying to know that so many people in the township are interested in serving on the planning commission.

What I am doing now is looking at the applications and reviewing the qualifications of each applicant, before I make a final decision on what name to present to the board.

What are the township's biggest challenges or problems to solve in the next year?

Goss: Solid waste is going to be one of our residents' biggest problems. As an authority, WTUA is going to look at the problem of solid waste, we have some residents interested in pursuing it, and there are plans for a recycling center at Arbor Hills. But that will be biggest challenge facing the township.

We always have to face the problems of growth and controlled growth. We're trying to best protect the beauty and natural resources of Northville Township.

Traffic is a terrible problem, or will be soon. Although we don't have any jurisdiction over the roads, we want to take an active interest in planning for some control of traffic and the widening of some roads. We want to be involved with the county in solving this problem.

As for joint services, acquiring land for recreation and facilities on that land is a major goal we're going to look at. As a board we are committed to finding land for recreation.

Do you have any specific goals for yourself as supervisor or for the township as a whole this year?

Goss: As a supervisor I want to do the best possible job that I can do for the community and the residents.

For the township the board as a whole is committed to maintaining a pro-active stance in controlling growth, looking at joint services, and meeting all the needs of our residents be coming to the Five Mile and Hagerty Road intersection.

Projects expected to continue in '89

The dual facility will feature a 480-square-foot mini mart and a 2,700-square-foot, four-bay car repair center. With six pumps, the gas station will have 12 car capacity.

Jim Benore, consultant for Sun Refining and Marketing Co., said the service station will bring convenience for Northville residents.

"There are very few places like this in the area and I think it will benefit residents in both Northville and Livonia," Benore said.

He added the project, which should be completed in July, has been delayed in an attempt to accommodate the aesthetic beauty of Northville.

"Normally we set up a prefabricated building, but we changed the image and landscape of the building to conform to the beauty of the township," Benore said.

Among the differences will be a mansard, angular roof instead of a flat one and a stone exterior rather than the typical porcelain material.

• Country Club Village Estates — The first of a three-phase project, 92 attached and 23 detached condominiums should be completed by the end of 1989, according to Larry Garon of Real Estates Interests Inc. This project will be the first planned residential unit development, PRUD, in Northville.

Resting on 140 acres, the village will feature 650 units — both one and two story buildings — a nine-hole golf course, and a full recreation area.

Garon said the final two phases should begin construction in 1989.

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS DECEMBER 19, 1988

The regular meeting of the Northville City Council was called to order in the Council Room by Mayor Johnson at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:
2. ROLL CALL: Present: Ayers, Folino, Johnson, Mittman. Absent: Buckland — excused. Also Present: Anderson, Konrad, Morrison, Otton, Walters, Joseph Fazio, Gary George, Ken Kunkel, Jim Eagon, and Bob Needham.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES: The minutes of the regular meeting of December 5, 1988, were approved as submitted and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS: None.
5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE AGENDA: Moved, supported, carried, to adopt the Agenda as submitted and the Consent Agenda A, through H.

6. PUBLIC HEARING: OAKLAND COUNTY COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT FUNDS: Moved, supported, carried, to allocate the projected $8,600 in 1990 Oakland County Community Development Block Grant Funds for the construction of a barrier-free pedestrian walkway from Main Street at Griswold to the Mill Race Historical Village entrance.

7. BLACK'S HARDWARE RE OUTSIDE STORAGE: Mayor Johnson stated that Mr. Black was not present and asked the Council to proceed with the next items on the agenda until Mr. Black arrived.

8. REQUEST FROM GARY GEORGE FOR PARKING SPACE CREDITS: Moved, supported, carried unanimously, to refer Gary George's parking space credit request to the City Manager for general recommendation.

9a. 1987-88 ANNUAL AUDIT PRESENTATION: Ken Kunkel and Jim Eagon were present representing Plante & Moran, they reviewed the 1987-88 Audit with Council. Mr. Kunkel stated the City had a good over all year. Mr. Eagon used an overhead projector to present a pie chart comparison between 1987 and 1988 revenues and expenditures.
Revenues: 1988 — $2,950,000 and 1987 — $2,643,000. Expenditures: 1988 — $2,885,000 and 1987 — $2,757,000. The in-take of cash for the period ending 6/30/88 as $16,136,000.

Mr. Kunkel reviewed the comments and recommendations from the audit covering State-Shared Revenues, accounting records and financial reporting, investments, Governmental Accounting Standards Board update, Financial Accounting Standards Board Statement No. 95 — Cash Flows, and taxation of nonemployee deferred employee benefits.

9b. APPOINTMENT OF AUDITOR FOR 1988-89: Moved, supported, carried unanimously, to reappoint Plante & Moran for the 1988-89 fiscal year audit.

Mayor Johnson moved item 13 up on the agenda.

13. RECREATION COMMISSION RE PARK MILLAGE ELECTION: John Anderson, Recreation Director, stated the Recreation Commission voted at their meeting on December 14 to request the City Council put the Community Park Millage question on the ballot again. The opinion from Northville Township's attorney is that the City may hold an election up until such time as the millage is to be added to the tax rolls in 1989. If the question has not passed within the City by that time, a new election must also be held in the Township.

Mayor Johnson stated the City would have to conduct a special election. He asked what the cost would be to conduct a special election. Clerk Konrad estimated a special election would cost between $1,000 and $1,200,00, but could provide a more accurate estimate at the next meeting.

Mayor Johnson asked Mr. Anderson what would be done differently. Mr. Anderson stated that because the City is small they could campaign door to door.

Councilman Mittman stated the opposition would also increase their promotion. Manager Walters stated he would check into the timing of an election, possibly combined with the local Council election in the fall. It might be possible to include this millage on the December, 1989, tax bill.

Mayor Johnson held further discussion until the administration could respond.

10. STANDARDS OF CONDUCT AND ETHICS: Manager Walters reviewed his memo of 12/16/88 of the amendments to the code of ethics from the comments of various board members, primarily the Planning Commission and Board of Zoning Appeals.

Councilman Folino asked why there was a need for Standards of Conduct and Ethics Code.

Mayor Johnson stated he requested it be generated by the City Manager because there were no guidelines to be followed. He felt it important to have a benchmark guide; to avoid a potential problem before it becomes a problem.

Manager Walters stated the boards and commissions were not clear if there was a conflict of interest. He suggested this policy be in the form of a resolution.

Mayor Johnson asked the Manager to prepare the Standards of Conduct and Ethics Resolution with the amendments for the January 9 meeting. He felt the comments from the boards and commissions were constructive and positive.

11. DISTRICT COURT BUILDING AGREEMENT: Moved, supported, carried unanimously, to authorize the Mayor and Clerk sign the Court Building Operating Agreement for the City upon the consensus approval of the five member communities.

12. MASTER PLAN OPINION SURVEY: Manager Walters reviewed his memo of 12/15/88 on the public opinion survey for the Master Plan Revision.

Manager Walters recommended the survey be conducted by method No. 2 so that it would be available to the Planning Commission on a timely basis and to give all citizens a chance to participate.

Mayor Pro-tem Ayers suggested that the questionnaire allow more than 1 person to respond from a household, and include a pre-paid return envelope.

Kathleen Otton suggested some form of pre-education to the residents, by the newspaper or notice in the water bills that the survey will be coming.

Manager Walters suggested a notice on the outside of the envelope that enclosed in the Master Plan Survey for the City of Northville.

15. TOUR: 811 SYSTEM AND JAIL RENOVATION: Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular City Council meeting at 8:30 p.m. to attend the tour in the Police Department.

Board again rejects Northville Trails plan

BY BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Citing a number of unresolved issues, the Northville Township planning commission voted to again deny preliminary site approval for the Northville Trails subdivision.

By a 6-1 margin, the commission rejected the site plan on Thursday at a special meeting called by MGM Building Co., developer of the project.

Commission Chairman Charles DeLand, Jerry Chisnell, Karen Woodside, Bernard Bach, Pat Wright, John Leinonen, and Richard Allen all voted in favor of denying site approval. Larry Sheehan voted against site approval denial.

According to commissioners the preliminary site plan of the proposed 85-lot subdivision, located off of Six Mile and Haggerty roads, was originally denied due to "fundamental problems" with the proposed plans.

Adjacent to Maple Hills subdivision, the project initially included several lots that would have abutted the rear lots of existing homes, creating "double frontage."

At the November commission meeting planners and Maple Hills residents also told the project's engineers, JCK & Associates, they were unhappy with the location of the access road and potential traffic problems that would be created by the development of Northville Trails.

On Thursday project engineers presented commissioners with a revised layout of the subdivision, complete with a shift of the access road from the southwest to the southeast corner of the project.

Despite the road relocation, commissioners identified problems with the new plan, which they said were resolvable, but too numerous to allow for approval of the plan.

"I feel uncomfortable approving this plan because there are so many concerns that this plan could be completely changed when it comes back for final site plan approval," said Commissioner Pat Wright.

"I don't think this plan is adequate for approval because our concerns are too numerous," said Planner Karen Woodside, adding the commission should review the plan again before even granting conditional site plan approval.

According to commissioners, concerns with the current Northville Trails plan include: the elimination of two stub streets, both of which access homes on the east section of the subdivision; change in the cul-de-sac configuration at the northwest corner of the subdivision, allowing for better lot size; changing the direction of the access road to allow for a curvature of the road and an improvement in storm water retention collection; and altering lot configuration to correct a problem of some lots fronting on the backyard of other lots.

Mike Powell, vice-president of JCK, who said most of the unresolved issues are correctable, added solving the road curvature problem may be difficult since the land needed to solve the problem is owned by Temple Baptist Church.

The church agreed to sell developers 64 acres at the back of the lot, but retained 32 acres for future building. Powell said while the church has been unwilling to give up any more land, negotiations are still ongoing.

"We're very surprised and disappointed (about the plan's second denial) since we're meeting all of the ordinance requirements," Powell said. "I feel the plan was denied for subjective reasons, rather than violations of township ordinances. It was a matter of a difference of opinion."

He noted changing the lot configurations may result in the loss of four or five lots.

Powell said he would have to talk to the developer before commenting on when a new plan would be presented to the commission.

"We'll have to go back and study the project because if we lose four or five lots it may not be economically feasible to continue the project," Powell said.

Maple Hills residents, who opposed the original plan, indicated they have no problem with the new proposal.

Commissioner Larry Sheehan, who voted against denial of the site plan, said he thinks the preliminary site plan should have been conditionally approved.

"I think these same problems could have been solved at the final site plan hearing," Sheehan said. "I think the commission would accomplish the same thing, but the developer would not be penalized by an increase in fees."

Sheehan is referring to the fee schedule which requires developers to pay a $600 fee for commission consideration of a new or revised preliminary site plan.

Commission consideration of a final site plan carries a fee to developers of only $300.

"We addressed all the prior items and seemed to have satisfied all of the neighbor's (Maple Hills) problems," Sheehan said. "The commission made the developers come in a second time and since they (the developers) called for a special meeting, I think it is necessary to work with them when possible."

"I think we could have solved the same problems by passing the preliminary plan with conditions and working it out at the final site plan."

Charles DeLand summed up the majority's vote saying "The message is clear. Everyone on the commission is in favor of the subdivision, but the unresolved issues must be addressed before approval is given."

Trustees grant preliminary approval for Pickford Meadows

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Following suit with a decision recently made by planners, Northville Township Board of Trustees approved preliminary plans for construction of Pickford Meadows subdivision.

The proposed subdivision consists of about 25 acres south of Seven Mile Road, east of Beck Road. Pickford Meadows consists of 12 lots.

Lying to the north of the site is the proposed Crestwood Manor subdivision, which also gained preliminary approval from both the township board of trustees and the planning commission.

Likewise, Northville Township Planning Commission approved preliminary plans for the Pickford Meadows subdivision at its Nov. 29 meeting.

Trustee Richard Allen, who acts as a liaison between the planning commission and board of trustees, told board members that access to the development would be obtained via Pickford Street, currently a gravel stub street.

The developer plans to pave a portion of Pickford, a factor questioned by Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen.

Project developers explained that the paved road was part of the service provided to residents living in Pickford Meadows subdivision.

Trustee Thomas Handyside pointed out the existence of long leads to the proposed sanitary system and asked that they be reviewed again before final site plan approval was granted.

When being considered by the planning commission, residents living along Pickford expressed concerns about the condition of the street and the impact a subdivision would have on it. They noted that the road is already difficult to maintain.

Although planners sympathized with the residents' concerns, it was noted that the road lies under county jurisdiction, leaving the township no authority over it.

Developers agreed that they would take responsibility for maintaining the road during construction of the subdivision.

Sign regulations back for work

A major overhaul and expansion of sign regulations in the City of Northville is back under discussion after a couple months of inactivity.

The 19 pages of proposed rules would, if adopted, greatly increase the restrictions on commercial signs within the city. In the latest action, the Planning Commission recently reviewed the ordinance once again and suggested some additional changes.

The ordinance is expected to return to the commission table soon before moving on for consideration by the City Council.

As proposed, the new ordinance would be substantially more restrictive on the signs allowed in the city. Among the changes would be an outright ban on internally-lit signs in the Historic District; a reduction in the formula for maximum allowed size; and Planning Commission approval for all signs outside the Historic District.

After some minor suggestions, the commission directed Planning Consultant Don Wortman to redraft the proposal incorporating the latest discussion. The motion passed 7-2, with commissioners David Totten and Rolland Stapleton dissenting, after Totten suggested sending the ordinance on to the City Council.

The City Council must approve any ordinance for it to become effective.

Talk of revising the sign ordinance began almost a year ago. Several committee meetings were held with members of the Planning Commission and Historic District Commission to focus the direction of the proposed changes.

Revisions were proposed throughout the year, but before the most recent work, the proposal had sat idle since late August.

Story by Ann Willis

The first thing everybody says is "we hope it will never happen," but the thoughts behind a disaster drill are "if it does — we'll be ready."

Twelve members of the City of Northville fire department recently undertook emergency medical technician training which included classroom work and clinical training. On a cold and windy Sunday afternoon in December, these firefighters tested their training by taking part in a mock disaster.

The purpose of the drill was to test the firefighters on-the-scene reactions to an unknown disaster situation. To make the drill as lifelike as possible four volunteers offered to be real-life crash victims. These victims were made-up (squirting "blood" and all) and placed in two wrecked vehicles in the DPW yard on Doheny Drive.

The firefighters responded to the call and were observed by EMT's in the department, Crystal Forbush, of Emergency Education, Inc., who taught the course, and Chief James Allen. Forbush said using friends as "victims" added a very realistic touch to the entire situation. She noted that in a city the size of Northville volunteer firefighters could respond to an automobile crash and find friends or relatives involved. The extreme cold also added to the realistic setting, making the men work under extreme conditions.

All went well as the firefighters examined the "head-on" car crash and determined quickly which injuries were the most serious. Teamwork was emphasized as was communication and speed.

All of the firefighters involved volunteered their time for the exercise, Allen noted. He said the drill was an important educational tool which helped the firefighters learn about equipment, medical techniques and their abilities to react in emergency situations.

CWW continuing trash plan talks

The Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) is expected to take a final position tomorrow on the newest plan to manage the county's trash, and the group's executive director is hopeful that the effort will show results.

The main element of the county plan is a 75 percent reduction in residential waste going into landfills by the year 2000. But the plan also includes many other parts, and some of those have come under criticism from the CWW.

At its regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Friday, Jan. 13, at Northville Township Hall, representatives from the CWW member communities are scheduled to vote on a final resolution about the trash plan.

And although nothing has yet been changed in writing, CWW Executive Director Ann Bollin said the county is at least willing to listen to the CWW concerns.

"We do have dialogue from the county," Bollin said Monday, adding that county officials have "absolutely" listened to what the CWW has to say.

The CWW positions on the latest draft include applying the waste reduction goal to commercial and industrial waste generators as well as to residential; placing more emphasis on recycling, reuse and composting trash control methods before incineration; and including cost estimates in the plan.

"Nothing's really changed from our original position," Bollin said of Friday's proposed action.

Once the county gathers all the reaction to its plan, it will make any changes and send it on to the local governments in the county for their consideration.

If two-thirds (29) of Wayne County's 43 local governments approve the plan, each community will be required to follow it. If the county cannot get a plan passed, the state can impose one on the county.

The Conference of Western Wayne has 17 member communities, including Northville Township and the City of Northville.

Group still plans millage alternatives

It will be a little while before a group opposed to public development of the Beck Road park site offers its alternatives.

The Citizens for a Better Northville, who opposed the November millage to develop the Northville Community Park on Beck Road, were planning to offer some alternatives to a new millage election in the city (see related story). Group spokesperson Jeff Hampton said last week that they still plan to do so, but not until they get some background information together first.

"It's going to be a while before we have any proposals," Hampton said. "The first thing we're going to do is formulate some cold, hard questions that we want answered by ... the Recreation Department people."

The group had hoped to release some suggestions early this month.

Hampton said one early idea — more use of county park facilities — doesn't look as good after believing into it. But the group still believes public development of the park is not necessary, he said.

Vote may be in fall

Manager Steve Walters suggests a new park millage election could be part of the regular city election this Nov. 7. If the council put the measure on the ballot, and if city voters approved it, that would probably still be enough time to levy the tax in December, the memo states. It would require cooperation from Wayne and Oakland counties on missing a deadline for reporting millage rates.

The memo also puts the cost of a special city election at $1,428.

At Monday's City Council meeting, the council directed the administration to notify township officials of the new reasoning, and to ask for a reaction from Essand.

Walters said if the city gets an answer in February, that would still be plenty of time for the council to consider its options.

Planner to be picked

tice of not releasing the complete list of applicants is done in most other townships—including Plymouth.

"Typically we don't release the names of the people because people don't feel comfortable having their name in the public eye letting everyone know they were rejected," Breen said.

Breen said he also does not release the names of commission candidates before he makes a recommendation.

As for the open interview of candidates, Breen said he does interview prospective candidates, but does not allow the media or residents to attend.

Breen said Plymouth Township does differ from Northville in that they normally advertise for vacant commission positions.

He noted the commission selection process is roughly the same in every township, with supervisor's making a recommendation to their board for approval.

chase two buses at the list price, or lease purchase one bus and buy the demo unit at a cost of $46,900.

Bell said the district is unable to purchase the demo unit "because it does not meet the specifications we require."

He added the district business department is currently working out a way to include the purchase of these buses in the 1989-90 budget.

Bell said the district bought six buses on the 1988-89 budget.

Privatization heads list of Geake's goals for year

By BOB NEEDHAM

State Senator R. Robert Geake has his work cut out for him.

A whole package of bills to privatize many state-run services is the top item on Geake's agenda for the coming session of the state Legislature. But that's only the beginning.

In a preview of a speech to the Northville Rotary Club recently, Geake outlined his goals for the next legislative session. And while privatization is the biggest item on the agenda, it's not the only one.

The whole Republican caucus has set privatization as a priority, Geake said. The Republicans hope eventually to contract out a number of programs and services currently run by the state government.

Geake said he will return to an effort of the past and reintroduce his bills to allow private operation and construction of jails. In addition, he also expects to reintroduce bills which would allow a private insurance company to take over the entire state Medicaid system.

Other targets may include privatization of the unemployment compensation program and of airports, Geake said.

"It would be a dramatic change in state government," he said.

Geake added that he thinks the Republicans have a good chance to pass some of the privatization bills this year, while others may wait. Although the effort is being hatched in the Republican caucus, he expects to get cooperation and co-sponsorships from some Democrats.

"I think we'll probably get some parts of it through this year," Geake said. "My personal goal is to get the cooperation of the governor early in the session."

Other items on Geake's list include:

- A system under which low-income tenants become owners and managers of the buildings they live in.

- This could be worked out in the Senate Human Resources and Social Services Committee, of which Geake is vice chairperson. Other states have set up such programs, he said.

- Requiring movie ratings to be shown on videocassettes.

Geake plans to reintroduce a bill which would require videocassettes to display any rating given to a movie by the Motion Picture Association of America.

The bill passed the Senate last year but died in the House Judiciary Committee, chaired by Perry Bullard (D-Ann Arbor). "He tends to let bills die in his committee which smack of censorship, and he had problems with this," Geake commented.

- Reintroducing a bill to prohibit all smoking in public schools.

A watered-down version — applying to day care and pre-school facilities — passed last year. "I'll have a great deal of difficulty again," Geake said, because the Michigan Education Association views the idea as an infringement on teachers' rights.

- Getting a balanced budget for the Department of Social Services through the Legislature.

Robert Geake

Geake is responsible for the budget this year, as he was two years ago. He believes some cuts will be necessary.

"This will be an extremely difficult budget," he said. "My goal is to pass a budget which is fair and meets the needs of as many poor people as possible, with the money we have available."

Balanced DSS budgets in the recent past have come only from underestimating the welfare case load, Geake said. "I don't think we can avoid (cuts) if we realistically estimate the case load."

School board appoints 24 to planning team

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Twenty-four people recommended by a screening committee were approved by the Board of Education to participate in the first phase of the district's strategic planning program.

The 24-member planning team will spend three days at the Farmington Botsford Inn from Jan. 26 through Jan. 29, discussing the strengths and weaknesses of the district, prioritizing a set of goals and finding ways to achieve them.

A report on the conference will be presented to the board at a special meeting on Jan. 30.

Superintendent George Bell said over 90 people volunteered for the committee, which consists of teachers, administrators and residents of Northville.

Board President Jean Hansen said she is pleased with the amount of volunteers and interest the community has in the strategic planning process.

Bell noted that of the 24 people on the initial planning team, 16 are residents who have or had children attend Northville schools.

"It reminded me of my college sorority rush," Nield added.

The members of the 24 person initial planning team include: Bell, Northville High School Principal David Bolitho, resident Richard Brown, elementary teacher Patti Collins, Northville High teachers Susan Couzens and Mary Cullik, resident Sherry Duff, school board President Hansen, resident Kay Kepner, Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton, and elementary teacher Jeff Lightfoot.

The planning team also includes: Meads Mill Principal David Longridge, Executive Director, Chamber of Commerce Laurie Marrs, school board Treasurer Robert McMahon, assistant Superintendent Dolly McMaster, elementary Principal Kathy Morhous, Nield, resident Gregory Purcell, elementary teacher Gail Raben, and Special Education Director Leonard Reznierski.

Also on the planning team are middle school teacher Dwight Sleggreen, district Business Manager John Street, resident Bruce Turnbull and school employee Evelyn Zeuner.

Law plans to address local issues in new legislative session

By BOB NEEDHAM

When State Rep. Gerry Law returns for the new session of the state Legislature, he'll have Northville on his mind.

Several items on Law's 1989 agenda deal directly with the area he represents, including Northville Township and the south half of the City of Northville. And one — a change in the way oil and gas drilling leases are regulated in townships — springs directly from some concerns in this community.

Oil and gas drilling caused several different controversies during 1988, and Law believes that sort of situation can be avoided with some state action, either a new law or simply sitting down and talking.

Law said he has had one meeting with officials from oil companies and the state Department of Natural

Gerald Law

Resources (DNR) and plans more, including a meeting with Northville Township officials to bring them completely up to speed on the issues involved.

Currently, cities and villages are empowered to regulate drilling within their borders, while townships are not. The power in townships rests with the DNR and, specifically, its director. "He can approve or disapprove the drilling of any well in the State of Michigan just with the stroke of a pen," Law said.

If Law thinks legislation looks necessary to resolve the drilling controversies, he said he will try to pass a bill giving townships — at least in the more developed counties — the same regulatory authority enjoyed by cities.

"It's just the way the laws are. They're old," he said. "Even though we're townships, we're basically urbanized areas."

Other issues Law hopes to address include:

- Continuing to argue for supplemental state revenue-sharing payments to growing communities.

Those communities which conducted a mid-decade census showing significant growth have been in line for extra money from the state. Governor Jim Blanchard vetoed one appropriation, but the Legislature eventually returned the money, including almost $100,000 to Northville Township. A similar fight may occur this year, Law said.

- Writing legislation to protect members of homeowners association from liability for commons areas.

"The condominium and also homeowners associations are getting whacked with high liability insurance costs," Law said. "I think we ought to change the standard of negligence. We can't expect them to build six-foot, 150-volt fences around their commons areas, for crying out loud."

Currently, if an accident leads to litigation, "your home is basically attached to the lawsuit. People don't fully realize that," Law said.

- Maintaining the state tax return to cities with horse racing tracks.

The Legislature allocates some money from taxes on the tracks back to their host cities to pay for police protection and other city services. With an increasing demand for money in the Department of Corrections budget, it may be difficult to maintain the size of the allocations, Law said.

- Continuing to work on changing the structure for financing public schools.

"How much headway we'll make, I don't know," Law said. However, a proposal may end up on the ballot to "see if we're even in the ballpark or not," he added. The effort is important because better education in poorer districts can save money down the road in the welfare and corrections budgets, he said.

- Cracking down on the fighting dog industry, including higher fines and total ban on breeding, ownership and imports. Problems with vicious pit bull terriers and other dogs is often due to the dog having been bred to fight, Law said.

- Reintroducing legislation to create a system of individual medical accounts.

Along the lines of individual retirement accounts, this would allow people to set up accounts free of state income tax if the money is used to pay for medical bills or long-term group medical insurance.

- Reintroducing legislation to require regular school attendance for minors to get and keep a driver's license.

Township to get $100,000 in revenue-sharing funds

Governor Jim Blanchard has signed another bill which will return a Christmas present of about $100,000 to the Northville Township treasury. The money results from a mid-decade census conducted by the township and other growing communities in Michigan. By statute, the state government is supposed to give extra revenue-sharing money to communities which demonstrated at least 15 percent growth since 1980.

The first year's allocation was passed in the Legislature but later vetoed by Blanchard. The local communities eventually got their money, including $97,211 for Northville Township.

That was just for one fiscal year, however. In the final few days of the last legislative session, the Legislature approved the supplemental allocation for the 1988-89 state budget year. And Blanchard signed that into law Christmas Day, according to a state legislative clerk, clearing the way for another payment to the township and other local governments.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss had said the bill, if approved, would again mean close to $100,000 for township government. "It's a substantial amount of money," she said

MAGS faces possible move

Although almost a year still remains on its lease, the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) is bracing for a possible move.

MAGS' lease at its Northville Square location downtown runs through 1989, after which a large — 44 percent — rent increase has been proposed, MAGS President Karl Gansler said Monday. The group expects to negotiate that figure, but a large rent hike could send the group elsewhere, he said.

"The landlord has finally made his first offer to us. We haven't countered with our offer yet," Gansler said. "His offer was a 44 percent increase over what (the rent) is presently."

MAGS plans to counter-offer within a month or so, he added.

In case an agreement is not reached, the sales group is already looking elsewhere for a building of its own, Gansler said. MAGS has discussed putting up a building in Canton with two different contractors, he said: "We have some options open to us."

MAGS is an organization of gift wholesalers which sponsors shows for retailers. It has been in the Northville Square building, on West Main and Wing, since 1980. Northville Square was originally a small retail mall.

Since 1982, the Northville Square building has been owned by the limited partnership Northville Square Associates. The active partner is Lester Koploy.

Sewer line delays two new projects

sion (to let the approval expire), but if the sewer was there we would have acted faster," Crimmins said. "The reality was since we had no sewer capacity anyway, we may have moved slower than we otherwise would have."

Kirco Project Manager David Bade said their project has been ready for construction for the last two years, and added he has no idea when the Haggerty sewer will be approved.

"The primary delay on the project has been the lack of sewer capacity, although we did not have water either for a time. The water has been taken care of through a special assessment district," Bade said, adding the Kirco project received approval by the township board about two years ago.

Bade noted Kirco has already received one extension on its plans and hopes to get another one if needed.

As for the possibility of abandoning the multi-building office park at its current location, Bade said at this time Kirco plans on going ahead with the project along Haggerty Road.

Interment was at Cadillac Memorial Gardens East.

County elects Heintz new vice-chairperson

Susan Heintz

The new vice chairperson of the Wayne County Commission is Susan Heintz — who is Northville's representative and the only Republican on the board.

Heintz will serve with Arthur Carter (D-Detroit), who returns as chairperson. She replaces Edward Plawewski (D-Detroit) as the commission's second in command for the next two years.

Heintz was elected by a coalition of Democrats, mostly from Detroit. Several suburban commissioners — also all Democrats — abstained from last week's vote.

The election is the first time in recent memory that a Republican has been elected to one of the top posts on the commission. Heintz said her post should help the county as a whole by getting bipartisan support.

"I think there's a realization by elected officials (that) in order to pass anything at the state level, you have to pass the Republican Senate. And we will have a Republican president for the next four years at least," Heintz said.

A Republican in her post should make it easier to work through party channels to get things accomplished, she added. "That's kind of the way it's done."

As vice chairperson, Heintz will run commission meetings in Carter's absence and can also attend all committee meetings as a nonvoting member. Due to commission rules, Heintz said she expects to resign her seat as chairperson of the commission's economic development committee.

"I'd like to see a good working relationship with all levels of government, because Wayne County's going to need that," Heintz said.

She said her work with the Republicans in the state Legislature on the Wayne County financial bailout package may be one reason the Democrats supported her.

Heintz's party affiliation, however, apparently cost her the votes of some suburban commissioners, including Kay Beard (D-Inkster) and Milton Mack (D-Wayne).

While Heintz was the only candidate nominated, and no one directly voted against her nomination, Beard and Mack were among five commissioners who abstained from voting.

"Frankly, I would have liked to have seen a Democrat chosen," Beard said. "I'm a hard-working Democrat and so are my constituents."

Mack, who has called for greater suburban representation on the board, also said party politics played a role in his abstention.

"This is such a heavily Democratic body, it only seems right the vice chairman should be a Democrat," Mack said.

Mack said the abstentions weren't a show of preference for former vice chairperson Plawewski. "It wasn't a Susie Heintz versus Ed Plawewski vote," he said.

All eight Detroit-area commissioners — including those representing Redford and the Grosse Pointe area — supported Heintz.

Our Opinion

Planning appointments need public interviews

The subject of planning commission appointments has been discussed several times on this page. The focus of each of these discussions has been the need for an open and fair system for such appointments. Northville Township's most recent handling of such an appointment merits another statement of that need.

The recent resignation of Marvin Gans from the Northville Township planning commission has opened up a spot on this extremely important body. Tonight, Jan. 12, Township Supervisor Georgina Goss will make a recommendation to the board for an appointment to the commission. In a recent interview Goss said she was considering her recommendation based on two applications for the opening. No formal advertising or interview process was conducted for the position.

Township residents can best be served by the formalization of this appointment process. Residents have a right to know who the applicants are for the seats on this vital commission. Without more open information on these candidates the public is left with no way of judging how the appointment was made. While we have no reason to doubt the integrity of the appointment that will be made tonight, decisions made behind closed doors are always subject to second guessing.

If the process is done openly — with the names of those interested known to the residents of the township — then voters and taxpayers can understand the appointment process. There is no doubt that the supervisor will choose the candidate she believes to be the best for the job. Experience, community involvement and other factors most certainly will play a part in that decision. But the voters have a right to know who the choice was between.

Maintaining secrecy over the names for the sake of avoiding embarrassment for the candidate who is not chosen does not make sense. Residents who put their names in for appointments must realize they are opening themselves to public scrutiny. Residents have a right to know the experience of those who would decide future planning decisions for their community. In fact, an open interview session in which those applying are asked by the entire township board questions concerning planning philosophy is a good idea. Then the board has all the facts to make an intelligent and publicly-known decision.

When a similar issue arose in the city about one year ago, the council informally agreed to establish an open interview session for applicants for all commissions and boards. This was, and is, a good idea, but the interview sessions must be prominently advertised so that the public is aware of them.

Normally there is little discussion between those recommending and those approving such appointments. If the facts on all the candidates were known publicly then residents would be treated to an open and honest discussion of the experience and philosophy of those applying for the position. This is the way that government works best, with the public open to listen and understand the decision that the entire board makes.

The township board and city council must be held accountable for their appointments. The public has every right to know why a certain choice was made — and to hold their elected officials responsible for that decision.

The township does not advertise openings on commissions and boards, but keeps a running file of names of volunteers. Northville is extremely lucky to have as many residents as it does who are willing to put in the time to help decide the future of the community. But often the openings on lesser known committees and boards are not well publicized. A formal method of making these openings known to the public will assure that the best candidates are chosen from the widest pool possible.

Northville Trails engineers said all of these problems are resolvable. Still, seven of the eight planners voted to deny the new plan and to have the developer bring in a plan with these concerns resolved.

The one planner who voted to pass the revised site plan, Larry Sheehan, said the developer presented a workable site plan with all of the commission's concerns resolvable. Sheehan said the commission should not charge a developer the full submittal rate of $600 when the developer had already received a site plan denial. He added that the commission should work with developers, not against them.

He is correct in saying the planning commission should work with developers to bring the best possible projects to Northville Township. But to suggest that the planning commission approve a preliminary site plan which brings up more questions than it answers is ridiculous.

It is the planning commission's responsibility to carefully analyze each site plan during the preliminary and final stage, before passing it. To suggest, as Sheehan does, that numerous preliminary site plan problems can be worked out at the final stage bypasses the entire purpose of preliminary approval.

The planning commission is a governmental body charged with an important task — shaping the aesthetic and practical nature of Northville Township. It is comforting to know that as a whole the commissioners do not take this assignment lightly.

Looking for snow

By Amy Rosa

I'm waiting!

I mean where is it? Where is all the snow? We are north of the Mason-Dixon Line, are we not?

You Michiganders haven't shown this southern gal much in the way of weather this year. This has been about as boring as Florida was, except during hurricane season.

I can't help it. I really do want to see some snow. No more of these wimpy 1- and 2-inch "snow storms" please — let's have some real white stuff. I've starved for it for seven years now, perspiring (men sweat) it out in the arm pit of America — Florida's Gulf coast.

Don't take me wrong, it's not so bad in Tampa. Especially if you don't mind never having dry underarms and your oily skin and curly hair acting up from the humidity. Not to mention the fact that you have approximately one week during which to wear all 500 sweaters you own. Really, it isn't too bad.

But what Tampa hasn't got is a change of seasons, and that includes snow. Foolish me, I thought I would get my fill of it up here. Ha! That remains to be seen.

I know what you're saying: It's awful to drive through; you have to scrape your car off; you have to wear extra outdoor gear because of it, etc., etc.

Yea I know all those things, but what about sled riding (which I still like to do by the way), ice skating (to date my husband has refused to take me because of some unfortunate adolescent experience involving roller-skates), and just plain old frolicking in the snow? You can't do much of that if it isn't even necessary to plow the roads.

And best of all, how about getting cozy next to your significant other in front of a warm fire, watching the snowfall and sipping whatever is your poison, all the while wondering if you'll actually be able to make it into work the next morning. (I still live in Birmingham.)

Alas, it's just a dream. I just hope there is still some time for it to come true.

I'm a faithful watcher of the local TV weathermen, for my heart beats with excitement every time I hear Mal Sillars deliver his extended forecast. C'mon guys, can't you rustle up another Alberta Clipper, or whatever that wintery weather pattern is that comes from the heights of Canada to our very land?

I've been told by many that the weather we've had in the last year (my only year thus far in Michigan) has been "unusual."

"Stiffling," is more like what June through September was. I have to admit I was flabbergasted to discover that there was another state in the country to surpass the humidity level of Florida. (I don't know much about New Orleans and Mississippi, but have gathered from movies that they are in the same boat.)

Anyway, I guess I am just disappointed to not have received the "normal" weather patterns and "average" temperatures that the rest of you have had before I got here.

Oh well, there is still a couple of months left for Old Man Winter, and there's always next year.

The price of freedom

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

"Well, I hope you're proud of yourself," she said after we had arrived home from an evening of Scrabble at the Byerly's.

"And why shouldn't I be, my little double-letter score," I gloated while strutting around the kitchen. "I was awesome. Did you see me ripping off those 20 and 30 point words?"

"Why shouldn't you be? You really want to know why you shouldn't be proud of yourself? Okay, I'll tell you. Because you made a real jerk out of yourself, that's why."

"There we were. You, me, Carol, Andy, Cheryl and both the kids. Sitting down for a friendly little game of Scrabble. And you start behaving like it's the world championship.

"Everybody else was putting down those pleasant little words, and you're taking 20 minutes per move. Even the kids were disgusted."

"And then you had to start citing all those obscure rules. You didn't even want Colleen to use the Scrabble dictionary."

"Using the dictionary is against the rules," I said.

"Yeah, but Colleen is only nine," she shot back.

"And then you objected when Carol took credit for putting an 's' on the end of that long word. And you objected again when they wouldn't let you use 'fa' on that whoopdy-do 37-point word you thought had because 'fa' had already been used somewhere else."

"Yeah, but I was right, wasn't I? When I demanded that they check the rules, they found out I was right, didn't they?"

"And that wasn't the worst part," she continued, ignoring my pleas. "The worst part was when the game was over . . . the way you broke into the Ickey Shuffle and spiked the Scrabble board."

Residential effects of oil drilling

To the Editor:
I live in the 8 Mile and Napier Road area. I want to share with my neighbors in the Northville community what it is like to live near a gas and oil well. My family's health is a major concern to me. I find it difficult to believe my husband and children's health will not be affected by the fumes and odors being released on a daily basis. Even with our home closed, there is no escape. We have been suffering headaches any time the well is in operation.

With the odors from the well, I would never know if I had a gas leak in my house unless I have Consumers Power out daily to check.

My water supply is from a private well. During one of my many conversations with the DNR, they told me that the oil spill was cleaned up. Boy, was I surprised since no one had bothered to tell me that there was an oil spill approximately 600 feet from my well.

My clothes come out of the drier now with a petroleum odor.

My family and I have enjoyed a vegetable garden for the six years that we have lived here. This summer, I was afraid to feed my family anything we produced.

My husband and I struggled and worked hard to get our home. The school system, the natural setting, and the wonderful wildlife were all reasons we wanted to live in Northville. Since the well went in, they built a road to accommodate the heavy industrial trucks and equipment to service the well and its activities. The wildlife has all but disappeared from our area and the natural setting has been further destroyed by the blaze of the flame that is used to burn off excess fumes day and night.

I urge my neighbors not to let this happen to them. There is no amount of money that would make living with these concerns worthwhile. Please protect your families by not allowing this in our neighborhoods.

Motorist ordeal

To the Editor:

In the early hours of the morning, Jan. 1, 1989, my daughter was returning home from work on I-696. She is an employee of the Hotel St. Regis, and she had finished her job in the banquet room at 2:30 a.m. About 3 a.m. she was literally run off the road by the driver of another car who crossed over two lanes of traffic and forced her car onto the shoulder of I-696. The shoulder was lined with construction barrels and signs into which she plowed at about 55 mph.

I would like to publicly extend my gratitude to the motorist from Lansing who was traveling behind her on his way from Detroit to Lansing. He stopped behind her vehicle which now rested on the shoulder with two blown tires and a shattered windshield. The driver who had caused the accident was gone.

This kind, older gentleman yanked her door open, made sure she was all right, and told her he had seen everything. He offered to take her home, all the way to Brighton where we live. Mr. Jergovich made sure the car was secure, and advised her to make a police report. Neither this good Samaritan nor my daughter knew that there was a state police post nearby. So the two of them drove to Brighton to the state police post so they could explain what had happened to her car, and that she would get a wrecker to haul it away during the day.

The officer at the Brighton Post was most gracious and helpful to her, saying the car would be unharmed and at least 48 hours would elapse before the car would be hauled away. At 4 a.m. Mr. Jergovich, a complete stranger, drove my daughter home, and then continued on his way to Lansing. We shall always be indebted to him for his care and concern for my daughter.

Imagine our chagrin to discover that at 7:30 a.m. the Northville State Police Post had impounded her car! After numerous telephone calls we discovered she had to make a police report to Trooper Percy of the Northville Post. At approximately 11:30 p.m. on Jan. 1, 1989, we reported to Officer Percy.

In contrast with the kindness of a total stranger, the graciousness of Trooper Campbell at the Brighton Post, she was greeted by a trooper who obviously believed she had been drunk at the time of the accident and had concocted a story with the help of a "friend" to exonerate herself.

Trooper Percy questioned every statement she made to him. He assumed she had been drinking, asking her how much alcohol she had consumed. She told him she had not been drinking but was returning from work. Trooper Percy retaliated that this made no difference. He implied that Mr. Jergovich was her friend, otherwise she would not have gotten into his car.

Trooper Percy said she should have stayed in her car, or gotten out to walk along the highway at 3 a.m. to find a phone. When she tried to explain that she had broken down before on the freeway and waited for hours for the police who never came, he dismissed her explanations curtly.

I have never been so rudely treated by a state employee. I understand that the police were out in force to keep drunk drivers off the road that night. Where were they when my daughter was forced off the road? But to automatically prejudice her was inexcusable. Trooper Percy refused to listen to her or to me with an open mind. He had his mind made up as to what had happened on I-696 early that morning, and nothing could convince him otherwise.

I found Trooper Percy's behavior reprehensible and insensitive. Perhaps dealing with the criminal element in society has blunted his abilities to distinguish between justice and injustice. Trooper Percy, I know that this letter will in no way change your attitude about my daughter. However, I want you to know that there are good and honest citizens in Michigan who care. I'm sorry you failed to realize this.

This open forum allows me to express my rage at your callousness and to thank the kindness of a stranger who only asked my daughter that she do the same for someone else in distress someday.

Positive encouragement helps children

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

Many of us start a new year with resolutions and goals. By the time February comes around some of us have forgotten our resolutions or realize that they were impossible to attain. For 1989 I would like to challenge each Northville parent to consider the important and achievable goal of giving positive encouragement to their children.

Encouragement helps children believe in themselves and their abilities. It builds a child's self-esteem. Parents who give encouragement help their children accept and learn from their mistakes. On the other hand, lack of encouragement can be destructive. A poorly handled incident in a child's life can diminish a child's self-esteem for many years.

For example, an 11-year-old boy I recently interviewed had an unfortunate experience when his parents focused on his mistakes rather than encouraging him to believe in his abilities. The incident started with the youngster's school principal recommending to the parents that the boy repeat the first grade because of poor academic performance.

The negative manner in which the parents presented this recommendation to the boy made him feel stupid and incompetent. As a result the boy's self-esteem was lowered considerably by his parents handling of the situation. During the three years since this incident, this youngster has become very dominate and controlling with his peers.

Very likely this behavior is associated with the boy's need to counteract his feelings of inadequacy and lack of self-confidence. As a result of professional consulting, his parents have recently tried to build his self-esteem through encouragement. However, the first grade incident so affected him that his parents' recent efforts have not yet shown signs of success in building up his self-confidence.

Helping children reinforce their feelings of self-esteem may require parents to change their usual communication and behavior patterns. Instead of focusing on the children's mistakes, it is much more effective to let the child know which of their actions that you like or appreciate.

If we want a child to view himself as a worthwhile person, we must genuinely accept them as they are, including all of their imperfections. We must learn to separate the deed from the doer.

Children will not always perform as we would like. While it is important to let them know when they can improve their behavior or attitude, it is also very important to let them know that they are valued as a person no matter how they perform. Focusing on the positive reinforces the message to the child that he is OK. Accepting a youngster as he is will help him feel worthwhile as a person and will give him the courage to try again.

Encouraging statements such as "I like the way you handled that," "I appreciate what you did," "It looks as if you worked very hard on that" and "You're improving," help build feelings of self-worth and self-esteem. It also sends the very important message that you love them.

If you have not been encouraging your children, make 1989 the year to begin. NYA (344-1618) can aid you in attaining this goal.

Livonia man survives New Year's attack

LIVONIA — Bleeding from numerous cuts on his body, a Livonia man walked 1½ miles New Year's Day to get help after being slashed with a knife on Edward Hines Drive near Levan.

The slashing followed a 12:30 a.m. traffic altercation in which a dark-colored Camaro forced the 24-year-old victim off the road and into some trees.

Police said on Wednesday that they had identified "about a dozen cars registered in the area that match the Camaro's description. Livonia Police Sgt. Jesse Bartlett said an investigation of the car's owners would take at least through last Friday.

After receiving 70 stitches, the victim, who police declined to identify, was released Jan. 2 from St. Mary Hospital.

He had cuts on his forehead, neck, cheek, hand and stomach, said Bartlett. The deepest wound was on the victim's hand, which he had held up to defend himself, Bartlett said.

He walked a long distance to get help," Bartlett said. "He passed houses but was afraid to knock on doors because he was so bloody. He was afraid they wouldn't help him."

After an hour-long interview with the victim Wednesday, a Michigan State Police artist compiled a composite drawing of the knife-wielding attacker.

Police are seeking a man who was a passenger in a dark blue or black 1980 or 1981 Camaro. The victim said the Camaro was in poor condition.

Bartlett said the passenger jumped out of the Camaro, pulled a six-inch, non-collapsible knife out of his jacket and attacked the victim as he tried to run away.

Bartlett described the assailant as white, about 24, 5 feet 8 inches to 5 feet 10 inches, medium build, brown hair, with a light mustache and a few days growth of beard. He was wearing a brown leather jacket and a blue shirt. Anyone with information should call Bartlett at 421-2141.

Following the initial police report and description, Livonia Police Lt. Michael Murray reported that the victim is no longer cooperating with police officers in their investigation.

"The victim is not cooperating and we have no idea why," Murray said Friday. "He failed to appear when asked to do so to further the investigation."

"The investigation has slowed due to the fact that he is not cooperating."

Police plan to have the victim look at photos from their own files that match the composite sketch. As of Friday, the victim had not shown up to view the photos Murray said.

The victim gave police the following account of the incident:

He was westbound on Hines Drive near Levan Knoll when he saw a car coming toward him in the same westbound lane. He swerved to avoid hitting the car and crashed into some trees.

Because of the damage to his car, he couldn't get his car started, nor could he immediately open the door.

In the meantime, the car that had forced him off the road turned around and pulled up behind him. Shouting obscenities, the passenger got out, pulled a knife and came toward him.

The victim finally got his car door open and started to run. But the driver of the Camaro pulled up in front of him and blocked his escape.

His assailant slashed him with the knife and then got back into the Camaro, which headed east on Hines Drive.

The victim walked 1½ miles to a pizzeria at Newburgh Road and Ann Arbor Trail, where he called police.

On Monday, police released a man picked up 10 minutes after the attack who was in a dark car near Hines Drive.

The man passed a polygraph exam and his photo was not identified by the victim, Bartlett said.

Gov. Blanchard signs recycling bills into law

Two bills sponsored by state Rep. James Kosteva, D-Canton, are part of an eight-bill package promoting recycling that Gov. James J. Blanchard has signed into law.

The new laws and an executive order will make state government a leader in the effort to reduce the nearly 12 million tons of trash generated in Michigan every year, the governor said.

Kosteva's House Bills 5805-5806 and a companion measure require the labeling of plastic containers to facilitate plastics recycling.

They establish a government-industry plastics recycling consortium to do research on recycling technologies.

And they create a recycling target enterprise advisory committee within the state Department of Natural Resources to promote creation of jobs in the recycling industry.

A former township planner, Kosteva, 36, will start his third term in the Legislature this year.

"The state can lead the way in promoting waste education and recycling as alternative to landfills, in order to protect our health and to maintain the quality of Michigan's environment," Blanchard said.

A policy adopted by the state Natural Resources Commission last year sets a goal of reducing landfilling of trash from 85 percent to 15 percent over the next 15 years, he said.

Proposal C, the $660 million bond issue approved by voters Nov. 8, contains $150 million to implement solid waste policy.

Other bills signed by Blanchard will:

- Require 50 percent of state paper purchases to be recycled paper and 20 percent of product purchases to be recycled products by 1991. The three Senate bills also seek to expand the state's paper recovery program. The goal is to recover 12,000 tons of paper each year, saving an estimated 42,000 cubic yards of dump space. Sponsors were Sens. Vern Ehlers, R-Grand Rapids, and Jack Welborn, R-Kalamazoo.

- Clarify the state requirement that all counties must consider recycling in solid waste plans. The DNR is authorized to establish a pilot program to collect used motor oil for recycling at state facilities. Sponsors were Ehlers and Connie Binsfeld, R-

Maple City.

By executive order, Blanchard told state departments to:

- Undertake at least one project in 1989 to demonstrate the usefulness of recycled products.
- Create a "Recycling State Park," at which facilities and equipment would be largely made from recycled materials.
- Set up dropoff facilities at some commuter lots operated by the state Department of Transportation to promote awareness of recycling.
- Revise state purchasing policies to eliminate barriers to purchase of recycled products.
- Ban state purchase of materials that generate excessive amounts of trash or contain chemicals that deplete the ozone layer.

'Skins game'

Pro football stars open boot store

By KARIN SWAN

Patty Wallace, manager of Jim and Chuck's Boot Shop in Novi's West Oaks II shopping center, nodded toward the green iguana lounging comfortably on her shoulder.

"This is Chuck," she said. "You can pet him."

Chuck has full run of the store, explained Wallace as the iguana stretched out and dug his nails into her sweater to stabilize himself.

Chuck obviously was not worried about losing his exotic skin to the boots which line the shelves of the boot shop.

The Novi store offers a wide selection of more than 2,000 styles of boots. The boots are made of man-made and hand-made leathers of elephant, ostrich and, of course, iguana.

Also available are boots in such exotic leathers as rattlesnake, python and boa. Not to mention eel, shark, sea bass and water snake.

Jim and Chuck's bills itself as the official boot shop of the National Football League. Autographed pictures of various sports stars are hung on the wall above the counter, and the catalog claims Jim and Chuck's is "Where the pros shop."

The Novi store is part of a nine-store chain which includes outlets in the east and midwest. Cincinnati Bengals' quarterback "Boomer" Esiason and Frank Reich of the Buffalo Bills each own 25 percent of the business.

The two pro footballers started doing promotional work for the original Jim and Chuck's in Ohio in 1986 and ultimately decided to purchase shares in the business

Today, Esiason and Reich plan continued expansion and have a goal of operating 50 stores before they reach 30 years of age.

The Novi store has been open since September, selling hundreds of name brand boots including Dan Post, Zodiac, Hardley Davidson and Dingo.

Also available are such leather goods as wallets, shoes and belts.

Each particular boot style has its own name — "Spanish Fly," "Midnight Rider," "Grey Ghost" and "Dismal Spirit."

The boots come in natural colors as well as dyed hues in tan, black, chocolate and burnt-apple red, ranging in price from $60 to $600 and up.

"We buy in large quantities so our prices are consistently lower all the time," said Wallace. "We don't mark boots down for sales."

"It's fun to work here," she continued. "The owners are relaxed; there's no pressure... no tension."

Wallace said the boots sell themselves because they're comfortable and well-made. "Since this is a specialty store, most people know what they want before they come in," she said.

"I meet all kinds of people. A lot of sports and radio personalities come here to see the boots," she said, mentioning to the autographed pictures above the main desk in the center of the boot store.

For the time being, Chuck the Iguana has the limelight to himself. But that will end when the football season comes to a close. Esiason and Reich are planning to visit Novi late in January to promote their store.

And, according to Wallace, they'll be bringing a lot of their friends with them.

Business Briefs

THE COBB AGENCY of Milford and Howell recently announced the addition of Peter Sugierski to its professional staff. Sugierski will serve as department head of Cobb's new Life, Health and Group Division.

A South Lyon resident and Wayne State University graduate, Sugierski will be responsible for the service and development of individual and group life, health and disability programs.

Prior to joining the agency, he was employed with one of the largest financial service companies in the United States. His new division will be licensed with Ohio National Life, Jackson National Life, Manufacturers Life, American Community, Auto-Owners Life, Paul Revere and Provident.

ERA REAL ESTATE is airing a homebuyers television show on WKBD-TV/Channel 50 every Sunday at 9 a.m. The half-hour show called "ERA Real Estate Showcase" has the ability to present 80 different homes, condominiums, commercial properties and builder developments available in this area.

The featured properties include the ERA Real Estate company name, the listing agent, phone number, selling price and location.

While the use of television is not new in marketing homes for sale, this is the first time such a program has been totally sponsored by one national real estate system on a major network in the Detroit area, said George O. Goodling, president of ERA First Federal.

"We're responding to the time demands placed on our society today," said Goodling. "An interested home buyer can now do in 30 minutes what could have taken days and months of their time. We see this as our opportunity to do a better job for both our buyers and our sellers."

HAROLD HYLAND, a district representative with Lutheran Brotherhood, was cited for outstanding life insurance service at the 38th annual convention of the National Association of Fraternal Insurance Counselors.

He received a certificate for outstanding production over $8 million in 1987.

As a Fraternal Insurance counselor, Hyland was required to complete an extensive basic and advanced training course, pass three comprehensive examinations and meet established production requirements. He has been a representative in this area since 1975.

DAVID MANN, broker/owner of Realty World-Mann & Associates at 1510 South Milford Road in Highland, was a recent participant at the corporation's management training program in Washington D.C.

RealStart, an in-depth management program, is designed to give new members a step-by-step management plan for their company's growth through the rapid implementation and full understanding of all the Realty World programs and services.

Realty World is the third largest real estate franchise organization in North America, with its headquarters in the Washington D.C. area and with broker members throughout the United States and Canada.

If you don't keep their names alive, who will?

An invitation to place the name of a member of your family who immigrated to America in the only national museum created to honor them.

Whether your ancestors first set foot on American soil at Ellis Island, or entered through another gateway, here is a unique opportunity to show your gratitude. And to present your family with a gift that will be meaningful now and for generations to come.

When you make a $100 contribution to restore Ellis Island, the name you designate will be permanently placed on the newly created American Immigrant Wall of Honor. You can choose the name of an ancestor or just your own family name. And you'll receive an Official Certificate of Registration. To register additional names, list each name and country of origin on a separate sheet. And remember, there is a minimum gift of $100 for each.

Please send your contribution today. By acting now you assure that the Ellis Island Immigration Museum will be a place to honor your own heritage, as well as a monument to the great American traditions of freedom, hope and opportunity.

On the morning of February 18, 1986, a 40-year old Dearborn man became annoyed at the barking of his sister's 9-year old German Shepherd, Toro. So annoyed, in fact, the man fashioned a spear out of an 8-inch knife taped to a 5-foot length of pipe and stabbed the dog repeatedly until he dropped to the floor. The stabbing was so severe, Toro later had to be destroyed.

But the cruelty didn't end there.

Just 10 months later, the same man approached a 56-year old Dearborn woman outside a local shopping center. Throwing her to the ground, he attempted to gouge her eyes out and choke her. He proceeded to stab a responding Dearborn police officer and had to be shot twice before being apprehended.

Disturbing? Yes.

Coincidental? No.

A recent study by Dr. Alan R. Felthous, M.D. of the University of Texas and Stephen R. Kellert, Ph.D. of Yale University concludes "a pattern of substantial animal abuse may conceivably be associated with a pattern of recurrent violence against people."

Granted, every case of animal abuse doesn't lead to human abuse. But too often, evidence shows that those who commit crimes against another human being have abused an animal in the past.

One such example is a 10-year old Boston youth who took perverse pleasure in trapping puppies and kittens in orange crates and shooting arrows into the box. The young man's name? Albert DeSalvo, later known as "The Boston Strangler."

Unfortunately, such animal abuse is usually unreported or ignored until it escalates.

The problem is that violence inflicted upon an animal, especially at the hands of a child, isn't always considered a problem. It's dismissed as a childish prank or rationalized as an error in judgment.

At the Michigan Humane Society, we do consider it a problem. Because animal abusers all too often grow into human abusers. That's why the MHS, as the only defense against animal abuse; is the first line of defense against human abuse.

That's why we continue to battle for stronger legislation, vigorous prosecution, tougher punishments and mandatory counseling of offenders.

The fact is, normal people don't abuse animals. Such actions are an early sign of deviant behavior. Recognized, it can be corrected. Ignored, it gets worse.

If you want to help prevent animal abuse, support the MHS with a generous contribution. If you're concerned about the increasing violence in our society, support the MHS.

Because if we can allow someone to commit an act of violence against an animal, we shouldn't be surprised when that individual strikes out against another human being.

The hard truth is, left unchecked, the next victim could be your pet, your child or even you.

The problems of animal abuse just get bigger...and bigger...and bigger.

SOUPS

As the cold days of winter progress, nothing is better for warming up than a fresh bowl of homemade soup. To save money or to save time, a healthy homemade soup might be just what the doctor ordered.

With just a few minutes of preparation in the morning, a pot full of hot soup can be ready and waiting at dinnertime. It may take a little longer to prepare than soup from a can, but the benefits of homemade soup make the extra effort worthwhile.

Although no more expensive than soup from a can, homemade soup can be custom-tailored to a family's nutritional needs as well as each person's individual taste.

First and foremost, by preparing homemade soup a family can avoid all the preservatives added to pre-canned meals. One of the additives most prevalent in canned soups is monosodium glutamate, a concentrated form of sodium.

Monosodium glutamate, or MSG, is usually extracted from grains or beets and is used to enhance the flavor of some foods or modify the acidity in foods such as tomatoes.

Although MSG has long been considered the "magic powder" of the Orient. Avoiding it has its advantages, especially to those who must watch their sodium intake.

In many canned foods, this kind of flavor enhancement is necessary because of the canning process. As with the home canning process, factory canning uses blanching of foods and high temperatures to ensure the prolonged life of the foods.

However, these high temperatures and blanching often rinse away many of the vitamins found in fresh or frozen vegetables.

Making homemade soup not only prevents these important vitamins from being rinsed away, it also prevents artificial flavorings from hiding the natural flavor of the ingredients.

Homemade soups can also be enriched, but not with the chemical additives most manufacturers use.

One simple way to enrich soup is to cook it in a cast iron pot. One cookbook proclaims that simmering a soup in a cast iron pot will boost the soup's iron content.

Just a few hours in an iron pot and a soup will have 30 times more iron than soup cooked in another pot, according to "Bethlehem's Favorite Recipes" cookbook.

Another helpful hint provided by the cookbook is to remove soups from the heat before adding thickeners. Thickeners such as flour and cornstarch tend to form fewer lumps when mixed in away from the heat source.

In addition, flour is a better thickener for hot soups and cornstarch is better for cold soups, the cookbook notes.

If the soup is too salty, adding a raw potato and then discarding it after the cooking is finished will help, as the potato will absorb the salt during cooking, according to the cookbook.

Another cookbook suggests that mothers can sneak vegetables past the eyes and mouths of their unwilling children by pureeing the vegetables before adding them to her homemade soup.

Yet another advantage of homemade soup is the time saved in preparation. While it certainly takes longer to make than pre-canned soup, soup from a can is hardly dinner for a family.

With a minimum of preparation time in the morning, homemade soup can be left simmering all day in a crockpot providing a healthy mid-afternoon snack or a dinner meal-in-one.

In addition, soup is an economical meal. Whether begun from chicken backs and necks or the choicest stew meat, homemade soup can be either cheap or extravagant. The choice is entirely up to the cook.

Soup is ideal for entertaining as it can be made well in advance of the guests' arrival, freeing the host or hostess to enjoy the evening with their guests instead of rushing to the kitchen. Since there is usually only one pot, clean-up is minimal.

To prepare homemade soup, the first step is to make a stock, a sort of base for the final product. Stocks can be made whenever ingredients are available and frozen for future use.

"The Rodale Cookbook" suggests cooks use leftover meats as a good stock starter or bean or potato base rather than meats. To form a good stock, let the meat simmer for several hours on a low temperature.

Remember this most important ingredient — love — found in every pot of homemade soup, cannot be purchased at the supermarket or even specialty stores.

Don't combine meats of distinctly different flavors. Although beef and veal make a good combination, ham and lamb do not. Each has a flavor of its own and should be treated individually.

If using an oxtail or similar soup bone, the cookbook suggests asking the butcher to crack the bones. This allows the minerals and other nutrients in the bone to escape into the stock more quickly.

The cookbook also suggests that because a stock is simply a base on which to build, salt should be the only seasoning added. A little salt added to the stock will bring out the natural flavoring of the meat without overpowering it.

In addition, it suggests adding an unlikely ingredient — vinegar. The taste and smell of the vinegar will cook away as the vinegar releases calcium from the bones into the broth.

Then once the stock is ready, the cookbook suggests letting it cool. In the cooling process, excess fat will rise to the surface and congeal, making it easier to remove and making the soup healthier.

Next, let the stock simmer a couple hours with onions and celery tops before adding other vegetables.

Finally, let the soup simmer a few more hours. For an added protein boost, serve with cheese or peanut butter and crackers.

Finally, "The Rodale Cookbook" suggests that a pureed soup is an ideal baby food without the chemicals and additives of manufactured baby food.

Still, the most important reason for making homemade soup cannot be found in a nutrition book or by reading a label. It has nothing to do with convenience or health or even economics. It has to do with love.

Remember this most important ingredient — love — found in every pot of homemade soup, cannot be purchased at the supermarket or even specialty stores.

Remember coming home from school on a rainy, cold afternoon and having a bowl of tomato soup and a grilled cheese sandwich for lunch? That has to be one of the most time-honored, soothing soup twosomes invented by nurturing moms and dads.

So many foods go well with soup, and everyone has a personal favorite. Fresh crusty bread seems to go perfectly with a steaming bowl of lentil or vegetable soup. Any cook will be welcomed to the table with applause when seen bearing that combination.

Soup and salad combinations are traditional favorites in the restaurant world, and summertime cold soups and fresh salads are a wonderful light meal on hot and steamy days.

Hot and hearty soups go equally well with crisp salads. Often the heavy soup is perfectly complemented by the combination of a cool lettuce or fresh fruit salad.

But crackers have to remain the all time favorite food to accompany soup. Oyster crackers are spread in abundance over hot chili. Saltine crackers are on most kitchen shelves — right next to the cans of soup.

Cheese accompaniments are also big favorites. What would French onion soup be without the melted cheese? Cheese and crackers make a natural sidedish to almost any soup. Different cheeses can create different taste sensations to go with almost any soup. Sharper, deeper flavors to help cut the stronger soups, and lighter more delicate cheeses to accompany less robust soup dishes.

A sandwich and a bowl of soup has been a lunchtime standard for millions of people. Ask a small child what goes best with soup and the answer is likely to be a peanut butter and jelly sandwich or bologna. But on a cold and snowy day a towering turkey sandwich and a hot bowl of split pea soup brings out the appetite in any age.

Everyone likes soup, it seems and everyone has a perfect "go-with-it" food. Celery and peanut butter, french bread, taco chips and bread sticks — anything that can be dunked, sprinkled or crushed tastes good with soup.

Guest speaker

Northville Woman's Club welcomed guest speaker Joyce Eskra, right, from Rainbow Acres to a recent meeting to talk to members about foster care. Also in attendance were foster care parents such as Carol Caccia, left, who also spoke about their experiences.

Woman's Club to view quilt film

The Northville Woman's Club program on Jan. 20 will feature the film "Hearts and Hands," presented by the Education Department of Henry Ford Museum and Greenfield Village.

While depicting the artistry of past generations of American needlewomen, the film also focuses on the social importance of shared activities like quilting bees.

Recognizing that today's busy women continue to practice a wide range of needlework, we invite members and guests to display pieces of their own work at the Jan. 20 meeting. Pictures of non-portable work such as rugs and wall hangings are also welcome at the meeting.

If possible, club members are requested to arrive at the meeting a few minutes before 1:30 p.m. to set up the display.

Co-chairpersons of the day are Dottie Crain and Marian Pickl. For more information call Pickl at 349-4299.

Two births announced

Kenneth Carl and Sharron Dargatz of Orchard Lake announce the birth of a son, KEVIN CARL.

He was born Dec. 29 at Providence Hospital in Southfield, weighing 8 pounds, 10 ounces. He measured 21½ inches long.

Baby Kevin joins a brother, Derek Paul, 4, at home.

Paternal grandfather is Arthur Dargatz. The baby's great aunt is Alice Dargatz.

Maternal grandparents are Earl and Millie Burton.

The Dargatz family moved from Northville in Dec. 1988 to Orchard Lake.

Mark and Angela Thomson of Northville announce the birth of a daughter, MELANIE ANNE.

Melanie was born Oct. 11, 1988 at Providence Hospital in Southfield. She weighed 8 pounds, 9 ounces.

Paternal grandparents are John and Theresa Thomson of Grosse Pointe Park.

Paternal grandmother is Antonia Schaefer of Trenton.

Paternal great-grandmothers are Theresa Thomson of Hancock and Alma Villemure of Newberry.

Daytime childbirth education classes offered

The Plymouth Childbirth Education Association is offering a seven-week childbirth series during the day.

Childbirth classes will be held Tuesday, Jan. 31 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Methodist Church, 777 W. Eight Mile Rd. in Northville; Tuesday, Jan. 3 at 7:30 p.m. at St. Michael Lutheran Church, 7000 Sheldon in Canton; and Saturday, Jan. 14 at 10 a.m. at the Garden City Hospital Health Education Center, 6701 Harrison in Garden City.

The group also offers a two-week course for expectant couples on "Newborn Care," beginning Tuesday, Jan. 17 through Jan. 24 at Geneva United Presbyterian Church, 5835 Sheldon Rd. in Canton. The classes give information on care and development of the newborn from birth through three months of age.

For more information on these and other available classes call 459-7477. Registration is required.

MR. AND MRS. J. PATRICK
MCGIVERN

Northville woman weds

Catherine Marie Foust, daughter of Gloria and Robert Foust of Northville, was wed to J. Patrick McGivern of Burke, Va., on Oct. 29 at the Arts Club of Washington in the District of Columbia.

Parents of the bridegroom are Bert and John McGivern of Annapolis, Md.

The couple was wed at 6:30 p.m., the Rev. Jeanne Brenneis officiating. The bride's brother, Robert K. Foust, stood up with her during the ceremony.

Michael McGivern, the groom's brother, served as best man.

The intimate wedding ceremony was attended by about 24 members of the immediate family as well as longtime friends of the bride and groom.

A reception followed the wedding at the Arts Club of Washington in the District of Columbia. Because the wedding and reception were held on Halloween weekend, the after-dinner cocktails and dancing took on a masquerade flavor, with guests wearing wigs and masks. The reception was attended by about 60 guests.

The couple plan to honeymoon at the end of January in Bonaire, the Netherlands Antilles.

A graduate of Michigan State University, the bride works as an interior design/project manager at WBA, an architectural/interior design firm in Alexandria, Va. She is a professional member of the American Society of Interior Designers.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Long Island University. He works as a partner in a general contracting firm.

The couple will reside in Burke, Va.

MR. & MRS. DONALD DEWAR

Couple exchange vows

Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville served as the setting for the Oct. 8 wedding of Sheri Cordero of Northville to Donald Dewar of Hayward, Calif.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cordero of Northville. Parents of the groom are Mr. J. David Dewar of Farmington and Mrs. Marilyn Dewar of Farmington Hills.

Highlights of the double-ring afternoon ceremony included singing by Mark O'Brien and readings by Nancy O'Brien, Candy Dery and Marcella Decina. Gift offerings were carried by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Parnell, godparents of the bride. Father John Budde officiated the ceremony.

The bride wore a floor-length gown accented with a Victorian scalloped neck of lace, beads and sequins. The gown featured a fitted sweetheart bodice with illusion lace in front and back, adorned with beads and sequins. The puffed sleeves were accented with lace and sequins at the shoulders, tapering to a fitted lace sleeve. The crystal organza skirt was embroidered with lace medallions and hand beading to accent the ruffled bottom, leading to the back with layers of bubble ruffles flowing into a full cathedral train.

The bride's headpiece consisted of a wreath of flowers and pearls highlighted with lillies of the valley cascading down the left side. It also featured a fingertip veil. She carried a short cascade bouquet of white bridal roses, pink alstromeria and stephanotis, accented with ivy and camilla lace.

Maid of honor was Tina Cordero, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Marcella Decina of Canton, Angie Collins of Milford, Teddy Patzias of Ann Arbor and Karen Kemp of Southgate. Patzias and Kemp are Alpha Chi Omega sorority sisters of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore sweetheart tea-length gowns with puffed sleeves of forest green. They carried hand-tied mixed bouquets.

Alana Viola served as flower girl and Ben Dewar acted as ring bearer.

Best man was David Dewar of Wixom, brother of the groom. Ushers were Dan Dewar of California, brother of the groom; Chris Reynolds of Farmington, Dan Sundt of Auburn Hills and Mike Dery of West Bloomfield. Mike Dewar served as junior usher.

A reception followed the wedding at Santa Banquet Center in Keego Harbor, attended by 200 guests.

The couple honeymooned for two weeks in England and Scotland.

The bride is a graduate of Ladywood High School. She attended Michigan State University for three years and is a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority. She plans to attend San Jose State University.

A graduate of Farmington High School, the groom attended Michigan State University and graduated in 1985. He is a member of Delta Chi fraternity.

The couple plan to reside in Hayward, California.

CARLA MARIE CORNETT
DOUGLAS EDWARD COOK

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Major Preston Cornett of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Carla Marie Cornett, to Douglas Edward Cook of Northville, the son of Mr. Larry Cook of Livonia and Mrs. Beverly Cook of Walled Lake.

The bride-elect graduated from Novi High School in 1982. She graduated from Oakland Community College in 1983, where she earned an associate's degree in word processing and text editing.

She has been employed for the last five years as executive assistant at Forbes/Cohen Properties in Southfield, a shopping center development company.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Northville High School in 1978. He is a junior at Lawrence Institute of Technology, where he is pursuing a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is presently working for an engineering company in Farmington Hills.

The couple plan an April wedding.

Methodist Church hosts parenting course

First Methodist Church of Northville will conduct a Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP) series of group discussions and readings for eight consecutive weeks, beginning Sunday, Jan. 22.

Sessions will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. on Jan. 22, Jan. 29, Feb. 5, Feb. 12, Feb. 19, Feb. 26, March 5 and March 12 at First Methodist Church of Northville.

The STEP program is intended to show parents how to effectively communicate with their children. The courses offer a realistic, sensible approach to the parent-child relationship in a training environment.

Church officials report that last year's enrollment in the course attracted families from South Lyon, Plymouth Township, Farmington Hills and Canton. The course is open to the public but enrollment is limited. Cost is $20, which includes a handbook and supplies.

STEP encourages mutual respect between a parent and child, as well as increased cooperation, more effective communication and a more responsible, self-reliant attitude among children.

Local instructors include Lane Norton and Jane Berquist, the church's director of religious education.

For more information about the STEP program call the church's education offices at 349-1144. Reserved enrollment is required.

First Methodist Church of Northville is at Eight Mile and Taft roads in Northville.

Marquis sets auditions

The Marquis Theater in Northville is conducting auditions for upcoming productions of the classic children's story "The Velveteen Rabbit."

Auditions will be held Jan. 14 from noon to 5 p.m. for children ages 7 to 14; and Jan. 15 from 2 to 5 p.m. for adults.

Those auditioning are asked to have a prepared children's song in their own key, to be prepared for movement and to be ready for cold readings. Actors and actresses chosen to participate in the play will be paid for their performances.

Productions of "The Velveteen Rabbit" will consist of day performances. Show dates are scheduled for March 4-22.

For more information call the Marquis box office at 349-8110.

Some health plans are like hospital gowns: They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs. Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Your health deserves the best.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale Kennedy of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Cheryl Ann, to John William Hawes, Jr. of South Bend, Ind.

The bridegroom-elect is the son of J. William Hawes of Lansing.

The prospective bride graduated from Northville High School in 1984. She plans to graduate from Western Michigan University in December.

She works as a substitute teacher in the Farmington Hills school system.

A 1982 graduate of Waverly High School, the bridegroom-elect graduated from Western Michigan University this year. He works as an area manager for the Dayton Hudson Department Store Company.

The couple plan a June 1989 wedding.

KELLY A. LAUCK
BRUCE T. MORLAND

Kelly Lauck to marry

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth E. Lauck of Northville announce the engagement of their daughter, Kelly, to Bruce T. Morland of Wixom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morland of Detroit.

The bride-elect graduated from Northville High School in 1980. She earned a bachelor of science degree in business management from Madonna College in 1984. She is employed at Control Gaging Inc. in Ann Arbor.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Northville High School in 1979. He is self-employed at B. Morland Landscape.

The couple plan an April 7 wedding.

Northville Library offers adult book display

Northville Public Library's adult book display will feature books representing the ten basic sections of the Dewey decimal system during 1989. These will be accompanied each month by a flier which will list examples of books from the featured section of the month.

During January, Dewey numbers 000-099 will be highlighted. These books will include bibliographies, book collecting and care, librarianship, journalism, and computers. At first glance, January's feature might sound a bit dull, but at closer examination, one might find them quite interesting. Included in this section, for example, are "The Live Album", "Desktop Publishing", "Sequels, an Annotated Guide to Novels in Series", and "Above Top Secret: The Worldwide UFO Coverup".

Soups remove chill from winter season

If you are in a recipe rut and are looking for some new ideas for satisfying meals, you may want to try some delicious soups.

All of the recipes provided here are kitchen-tested. After trying them once, however, you may want to experiment and try different seasonings and even ingredients.

That is what's so great about soups — it is hard to ruin them! Just take it easy on the seasonings, adding only a little at a time until you reach the taste you are seeking.

Happy soup making!

Sue's Vegetable Soup

Select one pound or more of stew meat or buy an inexpensive chuck roast. Cut into small pieces, trimming away all fat. Cover with water and simmer about one hour. Then add cut-up celery, sliced carrots, chopped onion and two to three cans of whole tomatoes, depending upon desired amount. (Squish the tomatoes with your hands before adding, however.)

Add one to two bay leaves and simmer about 45 minutes. Then add one-third cup washed barley (or rice) and whatever fresh or frozen vegetables you like: broccoli, cauliflower, green or yellow beans, corn, peas, potatoes, etc.

Add additional water and one medium-size can tomato sauce, along with salt, one to two tablespoons sugar, and any other seasonings desired. Simmer until vegetables are tender. Remove bay leaves and serve.

If you make this in a crockpot, simmer the beef with water on stovetop, skim fat and then add all ingredients to crockpot. Cover and turn on high while getting ready for work. Then turn to low and forget about it until dinnertime. Check seasonings before serving and adjust accordingly.

Bean Soup

One pound dry navy beans - washed thoroughly

Two quarts cold water

Soak overnight or bring to a boil, simmer two minutes, cover, and soak one hour. Do not drain.

Add:

One meaty ham bone

One-half teaspoon salt

Six whole black peppercorns

One large bay leaf

One medium onion, chopped

Bring to a boil. Simmer 3-3½ hours or until beans are soft. Skim off foam once in awhile. Mash beans slightly if desired. Cut ham from bone and add to soup. Yield: 6 servings.

Chicken-Rice Soup

Six cups chicken stock (see recipe below)

One-half cup brown rice (raw)

One-third cup onion, diced

One-third cup celery, diced

Two tablespoons oil

One cup cooked chicken, diced

Salt, kelp, tamari soy sauce to taste

Heat chicken stock to boiling. Add rice and simmer 35 minutes

Saute onion and celery in oil for about five minutes and add to soup. Add chicken, correct seasoning and just before serving, add parsley. Makes approximately six servings.

Blues performer brings solo concert to Novi on Sunday

By KARIN SWAN

The blues — Chicago-style — are coming to Novi.

Waves of sound, hot as a summer night's rain steaming off concrete, will fill the Novi Civic Center when Peter "Madcat" Ruth appears through the Novi Arts and Culture Committee this Sunday, Jan. 15, at 3 p.m.

"Madcat" has performed across the United States as well as in England, Switzerland, New Zealand and Australia.

He has played the Lincoln Center, the Sydney (Australia) Opera House, Kennedy Center and Carnegie Hall when he was on a three-year world tour with jazz pianist Dave Brubeck.

But, now, Madcat has gone solo. "It's all electrified," said Madcat of his one-man show.

"As a one-man band, I play guitar and harmonica. Old blues songs ... folk music with jazz influences ... songs you wouldn't know the words to."

Ruth strikes each chord, plays every resonating heartstring, with feeling. The harmonica sings with the soul's sweet longing, holds a steady blue light burning incandescent.

Madcat said he decided to become a musician when he was in junior high school and heard the Kingston Trio. "There was an incredible resurgence of folk music at that time," he recalled. "Bob Dylan, Peter, Paul and Mary. A folk revival was happening."

"I lived on the edge of the city ... Chicago. I took the subway every Saturday for years to the Old Town School of Music. I started with lessons on the ukulele and guitar."

A major influence on Madcat's music was taking lessons from Walter Horton, a black blues musician and harmonica player in Chicago. "It took me a long time to get up the nerve to ask him for lessons," said Madcat. "I'd take a lesson, then practice for six months. Then I'd go back for another lesson."

"My buddies and I used to hang out and listen to the great Chicago blues musicians. We liked their names — Muddy Waters, Magic Sam. They were stage names ... blues names. We all chose names for ourselves. That's how I got the name 'Madcat.'"

Ruth said he has played the harmonica every day for more than 25 years. During his 20 years as a professional musician, he has cut more than 30 records ... both solos and with other bands. He's played in many rock 'n' roll bands including Chris Brubeck's Sky King, New Heavenly Blue and Blackfoot.

He also has played harmonica on television, for movie soundtracks and with symphony orchestras.

In 1968, Madcat formed a five-piece rock 'n' roll band named Madcat's Pressure Cooker. He splits his time between solo appearances and playing with the band.

His most recent tapes include "Madcat Gone Solo," "Madcat's Pressure Cooker Live at the Blind

Pig" and "Madcat Mostly for Kids" from Beancake Records in Ann Arbor.

"I think 39 is the perfect age to start a rock 'n' roll band; it really is," he said. "We started in the Great Lakes states, playing bars and coffee houses in addition to concerts. Now, we're playing the eastern half of the country."

"It's intense up there on stage," he continued. "It's wild. How do I stand it? I meditate and chant. I practice Siddha meditation. It keeps me calm ... centered."

"I host a meditation center in my home in Ann Arbor every week." Ruth's music is charged with a child-like joy and buoyancy. His songs are sparks of neon lights glinting in the heart's clear mirror.

"I want to play harmonica until I'm 120," he said. "I want to go everywhere ... play every corner of the world."

Peter "Madcat" Ruth will perform at the Novi Civic Center this Sunday, Jan. 15, at 3 p.m. Tickets priced at $5 per person or $15 per family are available at the Novi Parks and Recreation Department in the Novi Civic Center on Ten Mile. Tickets also will be available at the door. For more information call 347-0400.

PLYMOUTH ICE FESTIVAL

By ALICIA GARRISON

A sparkling display of ice-carved sculptures are glistening the streets of downtown Plymouth during its Seventh Annual Ice Sculpture Spectacular, now underway through Jan. 15.

Capturing the tranquility of a winter wonderland, carvers have transformed more than 400 tons of ice into breathtaking works of art.

More than 300 sculptures located in Kellogg Park and surrounding streets will be available for free public viewing 24 hours daily through Jan. 15.

The theme for this year's ice extravaganza is "The YMCA and The American Family."

"We want to remind the spectators that the American family has an important role in forging tomorrow's leaders and in instilling those eternal values that build character," R. Scott Lorenz, co-chairperson of the event, said.

"In building the family up, we could think of no better agency to work into our theme than the YMCAs of America," Lorenz added.

Among some of the displays are sculptures of dinosaurs, the American flag (25 feet long and 15 feet wide), Liberty Bell and a 25-foot-long train filled with circus animals.

Midwest Ice, the major sponsor, will feature a castle surrounded by Disney characters.

Using ice-carving tools, chain saws and picks, professional chefs and culinary arts students hand-carved each unique sculpture from blocks of ice weighing 440 pounds each.

Nighttime is often the best time to view the sculptures in Kellogg Park, when they're colored with brilliant lights. Plymouth chamber executive director Mary Roehr said, "In fact, many people make an evening of dining, viewing the sculptures and browsing in downtown stores," she said.

The Plymouth ice spectacular has been named as one of the top

100 events in North America by the American Bus Association, Lorenz said. "If the weather holds up, it will be the best show yet."

For culinary arts students throughout Southeast Michigan, the ice festival provides them the opportunity to learn from professional ice carvers and create large volumes of ice sculptures—"a skill that must be acquired if they are to work as chefs after school," Fernon Feenstra, dean of culinary arts at Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia, said.

As many as 100 of the most famous chefs from hotels and restaurants all over North America will compete in the Professional Chefs Competition from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, Jan. 14, in Kellogg Park.

Prizes will include airline trips, televisions, video cassette recorders and ice-carving tools.

A regional three-man, five-block competition will take place at 7 p.m. Friday, Jan. 13. Three-man teams will carve ice statues out of five large blocks of ice (weighing 440 pounds each) within a specified time limit. The winner will represent the region in national competition.

Other events that will take place during the ice festival are the Plymouth Winter Antique Show and Michigan Art '89.

The antique show will be held in the Plymouth Cultural Center Jan. 13-15. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and noon to 6 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call (313) 455-6620.

An exhibition of selected works by Michigan artists will be on display Jan. 11-15 during Michigan Art '89. The exhibit will be held at 271 South Main, Plymouth. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday; 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday; and noon to 5 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free. For more information, call (313) 455-5260.

Horse-drawn carriages and hay wagons will be used to shuttle visitors between the historic sections and the city's main downtown area. The downtown drop-off/pick-up point will be on Church Street, west of Main Street across from the Plymouth Historical Museum. Signs will be posted on the main routes into Plymouth directing visitors to additional weekend parking sites.

Dinner will be served on the 36th floor of the Ren Cen, with the program beginning at 6:30 p.m. Reservations are $45-$50. Tickets must be purchased in advance. Call 833-7937 for more information.

Wyndham Cafe: Covering all the basics

dining out

One of the area's better-kept dining secrets is the restaurant in the Wyndham Garden Hotel in Novi's Town Center.

The reason is pretty much obvious — the Wyndham is, first and foremost, a hotel. It caters primarily to a business clientele, and the restaurant exists primarily as an adjunct to the lodgings — a place where guests can stop for breakfast, lunch or dinner before heading off for business appointments and conferences.

Still, the Wyndham Cafe provides a pleasant dining alternative for area residents.

The cafe derives perhaps its best attribute from the nature of the hotel itself. Designed as it is to appeal to an upscale corporate traveler, the Wyndham emphasizes a plush, home-like atmosphere with paneled walls, deep carpets and plush, comfortable appointments.

Extra effort has been made to make it seem like a living room, and the effort has been successful.

All those qualities are exhibited in the relatively small dining area off the main lobby. The cafe is decorated with dark wood paneling accented with shades of salmon; tables are covered with linen tablecloths.

The wine list is small, but adequate. And the menu, like the wine list, provides a limited but adequate selection of entrees, covering all the basics.

The list of appetizers, for example, includes buffalo wings served with celery and bleu cheese dressing, fried mozzarella, potato skins and shrimp cocktail.

The Wyndham offers seven regular entrees along with several specials which change daily. The basics are all there — New York strip steak, filet mignon, pork tenderloin medallions and shrimp scampi.

Other entrees include grilled chicken teriyaki, grilled swordfish and a vegetarian stir fry.

Meals are accompanied by a basket of rolls, choice of soup or salad, and a vegetable. Prices are very reasonable, ranging from $6.50 for the vegetarian stir fry to $15.95 for the New York strip.

Chloe LeRoux offers service with a smile at the Wyndham Cafe

The same emphasis on the "basics" can be seen in the selection of desserts — New York style cheesecake, deep-dish fruit cobblers and various pies. Two exceptions are ice cream trifles and something called "chocolate chip delight," which is basically an ice cream sandwich between two chocolate chip cookies covered with hot fudge and whipped cream.

A recent visit to the Wyndham Cafe produced a mixed review on virtually every count. The cafe — with its plush appointments — is comfortable and relaxing. Unfortunately, it is situated next to the lobby, and diners are subjected to the sounds of groups of people checking in and out of the hotel. One has to wonder why the owners do not construct a wall to separate the lobby from the dining area.

The wait staff was extremely pleasant, personable and attentive, but was not trained as adequately as one would expect in a first-class restaurant. The bottle of wine we ordered, for example, was opened before it was brought to the table.

Our waitperson also bore the responsibility for having to relate which items on the menu were and were not available.

The same mixed bag was true of the food. The filet mignon and other pieces of meat were excellent — nicely prepared and nicely presented. Other dishes — a pasta selection, for example — were no more than adequate.

In summary, the Wyndham is first and foremost a hotel. The plush appointments throughout the hotel and in the dining room make for an extremely comfortable and relaxing dining experience.

But despite its attributes, the cafe is not all that it could and should be. The good news is that most of its shortcomings could be easily remedied with a little more attention from the owners.

The Wyndham Novi Cafe, 42100 Crescent Boulevard, Novi. 344-8800. Open Monday through Friday for breakfast (6:30 to 10 a.m.), lunch (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and dinner (5-10 p.m.); Saturday for breakfast (7-11 a.m.), lunch (11 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and dinner (5-10 p.m.); and Sundays for breakfast buffet only (7 a.m. to 2 p.m.) and dinner (5-10 p.m.). Liquor license. All major credit cards.

Northville High senior Lori Bernardo is a student on the move. The 1988 Homecoming Queen is a member of the Northville Singers, Student Congress, National Honor Society, and the Northville Action Council, just to name a few of her many activities. While she currently lives in Northville with her parents and one brother and sister, Bernardo will be attending Michigan State University this fall, where she intends to major in psychology.

1. TRAVELING: — A frequent traveler, Bernardo said her excursion to the Orient last summer was particularly exciting. "I enjoy the adventure of traveling and also seeing different cultures."

2. SINGING: — "I love to perform in front of an audience," Bernardo said, adding her most enjoyable performance was in last spring's high school musical "Fiddler on the Roof."

3. MICHIGAN STATE UNIVERSITY: — Bernardo said she is really excited to start college on the "beautiful" East Lansing campus.

4. LEADERSHIP: — "It's very rewarding to meet the challenges associated with leadership," she said, adding it's also a great way to meet new people.

5. WORKING: — A waitress at Guernsey's Restaurant for the past two years, Bernardo said she enjoys working, not only because of the money, but "it's also a great way to make friends. I've met some of my best friends through work."

Mustang point guard Mike Karfis (with ball) tries to power his way around a defender in prep action earlier this season

Cagers raise record to 4-3

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

In an unusual non-conference match-up, the Northville cagers rebounded from the long holiday layover and dumped Class D Evangel Christian Academy of Detroit 49-33 on Jan. 6.

The Mustangs (4-3 overall) slowed down the tempo in the game to offset what Northville Coach Omar Harrison perceived as a "quickness advantage" for the visitors. Evangel Christian entered the game with a 6-2 record and had scored over 100 points three times this season, and Northville was without the services of leading scorer and rebounder Chris House, who was out with an injured ankle.

"We played a slow-down game because we wanted to offset their quickness," Harrison said. "They scored 120 points in one game, so our plan was to work for the good shots and keep the tempo at our pace. It worked — I guess — because we won the ball game."

Harrison was concerned that his team may be intimidated by the Detroit team, but it didn't happen. The Mustangs hit only six field goals in the first half, but held Evangel Christian to three baskets and built a 19-11 halftime advantage.

"We had a chance to really open it up in the first half at the free throw line, but we hit on only 4-of-11," Harrison said. "I don't think we were intimidated though — our kids didn't back off."

The two teams picked up the pace a little in the third quarter and played on even terms but Northville pulled away early in the fourth. When the lead reached 15 with about three minutes remaining, Harrison called for a semi-stall and Northville took some time off the clock. Evangel Christian was forced to foul but this time the Mustangs made 8-of-10 free throws to close it out.

"They started throwing up a lot of three point tries to get back in it but we would rebound the ball and then take some more time off the clock," Harrison said.

Senior forward Greg Price had one of his best games of the season, hauling down eight rebounds and adding eight points. Heath Myers and Rob Walsh paced the scoring with 12 each.

"It was an open week on our schedule and we felt it was a good game to get back into it after the holidays," Harrison said.

The victory was Northville's fourth in seven tries. Last season, the Mustangs managed just four wins in 21 games.

"I feel good about being 4-3 at this stage," Harrison said. "We have some key division games coming up and I think we're capable of beating some of these teams."

Northville travels to Livonia to take on Franklin tomorrow (Jan. 13).

Mustang spikers struggle, but go 2-2 in tournament

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Heading into the Walled Lake Invite on Jan. 7, most of the 12 teams in attendance already had a half-dozen volleyball matches under their belts — but not Northville. The Mustangs only prior action of the season was a dual meet win over Novi back on Dec. 19.

So when Northville went 2-1 in pool play and advanced to the playoffs, it was a nice showing for a team with such limited experience. Nevertheless, coach Paul Osborn was critical of the team's poor serving accuracy, faulty positioning and lack of communication throughout the tournament.

"We've only played once in the past month so it made a difference," he said. "We're behind a lot of these teams."

The Mustangs opened the pool play with a 15-13, 15-13 triumph over Clarkston, but Osborn was disappointed in the way his team failed to put the Wolves away after jumping out to big leads. In game one, Northville raced to a 9-4 lead, increased it to 11-6 and then, according to Osborn, "fell apart" before winning a close one. In game two, the Mustangs scored the first nine points but again lost the momentum and had to hold on for another close win.

"I'm not sure exactly what happened," Osborn said. "The only consolation was that we won both games."

BIRMINGHAM SEAHOLM 15-15, NORTHVILLE 10-8: The Mustangs dropped two straight in the second round of pool action to the Maples.

Osborn reorganized his defense to stop Seaholm's fine middle blocker Sandy Brass, and it worked to a degree. But Northville killed itself with mistakes — and most were mental.

"With this 6-foot-1 middle blocker, Seaholm is a one-girl team," Osborn said. "She scores 85 percent of their points, so we set up a defense to contain her — and it worked. But we beat ourselves. The girls didn't get their serves over, they didn't communicate well and they were out of position."

In games one and two, Brass accounted for only nine points total, which was only about 40 percent of the Maples' points.

NORTHVILLE 15-15, LIVONIA FRANKLIN 11-6: The Mustangs were matched with an old WLAA Western Division foe in round three, and again game one was a struggle before Northville pulled it out. Game two saw the locals jump out to an early lead, but this time they held on for an easy victory.

"We still had the same problems but obviously Franklin isn't the same calibre as Seaholm," Osborn said.

At the end of pool play, the Mustangs were ranked fifth overall and the top eight moved on to play in the playoffs

WALLED LAKE CENTRAL 15-15, NORTHVILLE 3-10: In the single elimination playoffs, the Vikings knocked Northville out in quick order. Central cruised to an easy win in game one but then struggled a bit before closing it out in game two.

"We just gave up in the first game," Osborn said. "We didn't set, hit or block well. We improved a little in game two, but Central made a lot more errors and that's how we scored 10 points."

For the tournament, the Mustangs had a mediocre hitting percentage of 57, but did set at a 72 percent rate. The service accuracy was only 71 percent (Osborn would like to see that up near 90) but he was pleased with the squad's blocking and serve reception (81 percent).

"In pool play, we did well in our blocking — especially Debbie Stevens," Osborn said. "I was pleased with that but you can't win with blocking alone."

Northville (3-2 overall) will open the WLAA season this Monday (Jan. 16) at home against Livonia Churchill

Charniga optimistic about 'most talented squad ever'

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville gymnastics program is coming off its best season ever and has virtually the entire squad back for another season — plus a healthy group of promising newcomers.

Mustang Coach Michelle Charniga believes that the '89 squad is her most talented group ever but the question remains: Will it be enough for Northville to compete with gymnastics giants like North Farmington, Plymouth Salem and Plymouth Canton in the WLAA?

Charniga may get an answer to that question in a hurry because the Mustangs are scheduled to take on two of those three in the first week of action.

"Last year was our best team ever but we'll be better," Charniga said. "We have a lot of depth and experience with our juniors and seniors and we have a nice group of newcomers that are excelling real fast."

Northville has 12 returnees and nine rookies for a squad of 21. It's the largest ever and Charniga had to cut four others.

"I had about 25 come out for the team and it was too many," she said. "I've found out in practice that I've made the right decisions — we should have a nice team."

The Mustangs will be looking to improve on last year's 6-3 dual meet record and third place finish in the WLAA Western Division. Charniga also believes this squad will top the school record of 123 for points in a meet — also set last season.

"I hope we can contend and compete with the best of the conference," Charniga said. "I know Canton and North Farmington are strong and those are our first two meets. There's no doubt we're moving forward and getting better, I just don't know if it will be enough."

"Last year was our best team ever but we'll be better."

Michelle Charniga

Charniga has two legitimate stars in senior Wendy Beach and junior Lee LaChance, and they are the backbone of the team. Both have been standouts since they were freshmen and both are poised for stellar performances as all-arounders. Beach has the ability to be solid in every event but will be looking to put her problems in the balance beam behind her.

"It's kind of sad to see Wendy a senior already," Charniga said. "She's been with me four years and she had a good summer of training. So far she's strong and healthy and she's been working on a lot of new tricks."

Beach has the kind of talent and experience to reach her goal of qualifying for the state meet — something she's yet to do.

"I know she has a chance," Charniga said. "Her experience is such an advantage because she knows what to expect. It seems like I get more nervous for her than she does — she's one I don't have to worry about."

Pushing Beach for top honors on the team is LaChance, who continues to show improvement every year with a strict summer training program. LaChance is another solid all-arounder, but her uneven parallel bar routine is described by Charniga as "fantastic."

"Lee may be just as strong as Beach," she said. "Every year I think she has peaked but she comes back better than ever. She is an unbelievable talent and with her and Wendy, it provides good competitiveness on the team."

The third all-arounder is senior Yvonne Beebe, who like Beach, has been a contributor for four years. Beebe has been slowed throughout her prep career with injuries and asthma, but is always a threat to score very well in vault and uneven bars. The only other senior on the squad is returnee Kathy Abraham, who is a specialist on the bars.

A strong junior class of performers should really help provide depth for Northville. Eleventh graders like Becky Carney, Jenny McMillan, Karen Pyle, Megan Graham, Robyn Chatman and Alicia Estigoy all competed and contributed last year. Chatman and Graham will probably be the fourth and fifth all-arounders this season. Chatman is a fine tumbler with a good background in gymnastics, but needs work on the balance beam. Graham excels on the beam and bars.

Carney and Pyle are both third-year varsity performers, and together they form a formidable all-around combo — with Carney on the vault and bars, and Pyle on floor exercise and beam. McMillan will see action on the beam and floor exercise and Estigoy should contribute in vault and floor exercise.

Heading the sophomore group is Jessica Henthorne (top events include beam and bars), and Tracie Surdu (floor exercise) — both of whom were on the team as freshmen. The other tenth graders are Beth Hammond (vault, beam) and Kamal Badda (floor exercise).

A promising group of freshmen are led by Stacy Kasmarick, who is already a fine all-arounder with loads of potential. The others are Kersten Emsley (tumbler), Sue Okasinski (possible all-arounder), Ris Fleming (floor exercise, balance beam), Beth Frayne (floor exercise, vault), Beth Cannizzaro (floor exercise) and Melanie Apligan (vault).

Junior gymnast Lee LaChance should battle Wendy Beach for top individual honors in '89

Grapplers fall to Bulldogs, 31-20

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville wrestlers ran into a tough, and yet defensive squad from Brighton on Jan. 5 and fell to the Bulldogs 31-20 in a non-conference clash. "Brighton has a strange team — they are physically as tough as they come but they wrestle very defensively," Northville Coach Jack Townsend said. "I've never seen a team that physical — but they don't do much with it. Then again, they don't let you do much."

The Mustangs won six of 13 matches, but three were by a combined score of 4-0. It was a good indication as to the defensive tactics preferred by Brighton. It all started with Andy Frey's 2-0 win over Jeremy McBride in the 135-pound match, carried on through Bob Townsend's 1-0 squeaker against Jason Seitz at 160 and ended with Darren Kehoe's 1-0 victory over Ken Grove.

"Townsend got an escape in the last period and held on in his bout," Townsend said. "Kehoe did the same thing, only this time his escape was in the second period. Not much was going on."

Mike Hale also notched a close win at 189, nipping Craig Stawski 6-5. The other Mustang winners were Kevin Khashan at 103 and Brandon Mardosian at 112. Mardosian dominated Mitch Zoldowski 9-6 and he was a regional qualifier last season.

"(Brandon) wrestled as well as he has all year," Townsend said. "Overall, just the fact that we saw some action after the holidays but before getting back into conference competition was good for us. I thought there was two or three matches that we didn't do very well, but other than that, we did pretty well."

FREESTYLE TOURNAMENT: Assistant Coach Bob Boshoven took six Mustangs to a Freestyle Olympic Wrestling Tournament at Hazel Park High School last Sunday (Jan. 9). The event was sponsored by the Van Dyke Wrestling Club.

Five of the Northville competitors — Mardosian, Khashan, Chad Bosscher, Garnett Potter and Jason Vertrees — ended up placing, and that pleased Boshoven.

"You're allowed to participate in two outside tournaments or non-high school events a year," he said. "I let the kids know this tourney was available and the ones that went did very well."

Mardosian placed first in the 112-pound elite age group, Khashan was first in the 105 cadet age group and Bosscher was first in the 106 elite group. Vertrees was second in the 178 elite group and Potter was second in the 165 elite group, despite moving up a weight classification.

Northville (4-2 overall) travels to Livonia tonight (Jan. 12) to take on fellow WLA Western Division foe Franklin.

Bret Keir gets second chance at GRJC

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Keir (66) was a dominating player for the Wildcats

There may be no better symbol of Novi's success on the football field in the 1980s than Bret Keir.

Wearing number 66 for the Wildcats from 1985-87, Keir was an enforcer on defense and a fierce competitor on offense. Keir was big, strong and intense. As a starter, he helped Novi to a pair of Kensington Valley Conference titles and a 17-2 record. Last year, he was also one of the best wrestlers in the state.

But problems in the classroom put a damper on his dreams of playing Division I college football. Today, Keir attends Grand Rapids Junior College and is competing in both football and wrestling. The football season ended Thanksgiving night in Phoenix, Ariz. and the wrestling season is now starting up.

By going the junior college route, Keir has avoided any of the Proposition 48 ramifications which he would have faced if he'd gone straight to a four-year institution after high school. If he completes his two-year curriculum and gets an associates degree, he will be free to move on to the school of his choice with a clean academic record.

And that's exactly what he plans to do.

"I chose to go to GRJC for a lot of reasons," Keir said. "They have a great football program, they've been to three straight bowl games, they have good coaches and four-year college's recruit there a lot. I went there to work on my football and to work on my grades — it was exactly what I needed. I know I made the right decision."

Grand Rapids is the only junior (or community) college in the State of Michigan to offer football. And, under coach Fred Julian, the Raiders have been very successful. After going 9-1 during the regular season in '88, GRJC accepted a bid to the Valley of the Sun Bowl in Phoenix for the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) National Championship.

For Keir, it was a fine rookie season. He started several games as a defensive lineman, was on the traveling squad all season and saw an impressive amount of playing time for a freshman.

"Bret had a good season," said his father, Dave Keir. "It was a learning experience for him, but I think it made the transition from high school to college much easier. Now, he knows what it's going to take to get to a four-year school."

Despite playing linebacker as a senior at Novi, Keir started as a defensive tackle for the Raiders in the first two games of the season. About midway through the season, the coaches used him on occasion at the nose guard position as well as at defensive tackle — he was the first substitute off the bench.

"I ended up getting some good playing time and even though I didn't really do anything spectacular, I got the job done and that's what they (the coaches) were looking for," Keir said.

His playing weight at GRJC was 225 — about the same as it was his senior year at Novi. But Keir plans to bulk up to about 240 for next season and put together a great season. His chance for a Division I college football scholarship is at stake.

"Going to a junior college will help me because if you go to a four-year school, you very rarely play as a freshman and a lot of times you get red-shirted," Keir said. "When I do go to a four-year school, I'll be ready to play right away — and I am definitely planning on going on to play."

RECREATION BRIEFS

Impressive speakers to highlight conference

LANSING — An impressive lineup of speakers — including motivation expert Bill Amato — will highlight the "Women in Sports" Leadership Conference at the Sheraton Inn-Lansing on Jan. 29-31.

The conference is sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA).

"This is an outstanding group of speakers who can directly address the challenges that face women's athletics going into the 1990s," said MHSAA Executive Director Jack Roberts. "We are hopeful that men and women affiliated with educational athletics will avail themselves of the opportunity to attend the conference."

Amato, a Brighton resident, is recognized for inspiring speeches which create warm transformation in his audiences. His credo is — "The quality of your life is the quality of your communications!"

With this theme he brings new awareness to his audiences — particularly as it relates to communication and motivation. His advanced skills in Neuro Linguistic Programming, along with his personal and professional commitment to excellence, are the foundations upon which he accomplishes excellent results.

Through his company, Bill Amato Associates, he regularly conducts seminars for large and small companies. Amato has a bachelor's degree in business.

Other featured speakers include Capt. Michelle Johnson of the U.S. Air Force, Donald L. Bemis, superintendent of public instruction for the State of Michigan, Sharon Wilch of the Colorado High School Activities Association, and Nora Lynn Finch, associate athletic director at North Carolina State University.

Panelists for various strategy sessions will be announced in the coming weeks. More information about the "Women in Sports" Leadership Conference may be obtained by contacting the MHSAA at 1019 Trowbridge Road, East Lansing, MI 48823, or by calling 1-517-332-5046.

Commit to your exercise schedule

By PHILIP JEROME

For Northville's Phyllis Heckemeyer, maintaining a regular exercise program means getting up at 5:45 in the morning to travel to Novi High School where she swims laps in the "Early Morning Jog and Swim" program.

For Lori Hayduk of Novi, it means waiting for her husband to get home from work at 5:30 p.m. so he can watch the kids while she heads off to her "Fitness in the '80s" aerobic weight training class at Novi High School.

Both women say that it's sometimes difficult to fit in a regular program of exercise around their other chores and responsibilities.

But they also believe that exercise is important to them. And have made a commitment to make sure it's part of their regular schedules.

Many people begin the new year by making resolutions to shed pounds, reduce waistlines and improve muscle tone, but those resolutions all too often fall by the wayside. And one of the main reasons is that they simply do not allocate times in their schedules for exercise programs.

Debra Hoppe, a fitness instructor certified by the Association for Fitness Professionals, said that "no time" is one of the reasons that people give most frequently for not maintaining an active exercise program.

And while she acknowledges that lack of time is a legitimate concern for many people in our fast-paced contemporary society, Hoppe suggests that people should make a point of finding the time to include a regular exercise program in their schedules — even if it means eliminating something else.

"Most people tend to be lazy, so they tend to look for reasons why they can't exercise," said Hoppe, who teaches maternity fitness classes at the Providence/Novi Center.

"Lack of time is one of the most frequent excuses, but it's not the only excuse," she continued. "We also hear people say that facilities are not convenient or that classes are too expensive."

"When people come to me and say they don't exercise regularly because they don't have enough time, I simply ask them how much importance they place on a healthy lifestyle."

"My first question is — 'How important is your life to you?'"

Hoppe said that one of the keys to making sure that a regular exercise program is included in your lifestyle is to realize that it does not necessarily have to take a great deal of time.

"Whenever someone signs up for

Record/PHIL JEROME

'No time' is the most frequent reason people give for not maintaining an exercise program one of my programs, I ask them what they hope to accomplish," she said. "After we've determined their objectives, we can design a program to fit their needs."

Hoppe said there are three basic elements to any exercise program — duration, intensity and frequency.

A person hoping to lose weight should reduce the intensity and increase the duration of their workouts, she said.

A person hoping to improve his or her cardiovascular condition, on the other hand, should concentrate on intensity and reduce duration. "A good cardiovascular workout probably shouldn't take any longer than 20 to 30 minutes," she said.

As for frequency, Hoppe recommends three times per week. "Some experts say that working out once per week does you more harm than good, but I don't necessarily ascribe to that theory," she said. "Still, a good physical fitness program involves working out three times per week."

The person truly interested in improving their level of physical fitness will not use "no time" as an excuse, she added.

Heckemeyer, for example, has found that she can complete her early morning workout of swimming laps and still get home in time to fix lunches and bundle her children off to school.

"It's just a matter of priorities," said Hoppe. "Anyone who says they don't have time to exercise has to make a decision about just how important their health really is to them."

Alzheimer's support group sets meeting

The Novi Support Group of the Alzheimer's Association will meet on Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Novi Care Center.

This support group, which is for caregivers, family members and friends of individuals afflicted by Alzheimer's disease, meets on the second Thursday of each month at 7 p.m. and offers educational support programs.

Novi Care Center is located at 24500 Meadowbrook Road. For more information, call 477-2000.

SMOKELESS CLASSES. The Smokeless System Classes will start on Jan. 17 at the MedSport facility at Domino's Farm in Ann Arbor.

There will be an introductory session, a skill development session and a maintenance session and all three start at 7 p.m. For more information,

Fitness Tips

Abstinence not the cure for overindulgence

By SYLVA DVORAK, M.D.

Now that the first week of 1989 is almost over, how many of you are wondering whether or not you can keep your New Year's resolutions?

Did you resolve to lose ten pounds, exercise one hour a day, limit your drinking to one beer or glass of wine a week and get at least eight hours of sleep a night?

Stringent resolutions like this are doomed to fail and sometimes you blame yourself for failing instead of blaming your impossible goals.

Change is not easy. Habits and patterns that took years to develop are most likely not going to disappear in a few weeks.

How can you make changes successfully and permanently? First of all, be determined to do it — make up your mind that this year's resolutions will not be broken. Learn from your past experiences. This will give you an idea of your weak and strong areas. Set yourself up for success by working on one goal at a time. And make reaching your goal reasonable.

The cure for overindulgence is not total abstinence. Eating too much ice cream does not mean you must never eat ice cream again. Drinking too much on one occasion does not mean you must quit entirely. And, not exercising does not mean you should immediately start running five miles every day.

This all-or-nothing attitude sets you up for broken vows. Plato wrote in The Republic: "Know always to choose in such things the life that is seated in the mean and shun the excess in either direction... for this is the greatest happiness for man."

Moderation may seem a dull virtue, but it's a healthy one. Total abstinence only makes your heart grow fonder of the "forbidden fruits." You do not have to abstain entirely from the foods, drinks or activities you enjoy. All things are fine in moderation.

There is also the danger of becoming a fitness fanatic, i.e., going too far in the "healthy" direction. Many people over-exercise and diet excessively and this can be just as unhealthy. Remember, the rule: all things are fine in moderation.

Further, don't expect to be perfect. Once you have a positive plan, stay with it the best you can. You may "blow it" once, but just because you ate everything in sight one day, doesn't mean you might as well forget the whole week's or year's weight loss efforts. DON'T GIVE UP! Tomorrow is another day, so forget the one "bad day" and start the next day thinking positively and get on the right track again.

Most importantly, develop a behavior change plan that fits your lifestyle. What works for one person may not work for you. You are responsible for your own change in behavior, but ask for support and encouragement from your co-workers, spouse and friends. Think positively and set realistic, reachable goals.

Finally, reward yourself and make your rewards easily attainable such as going to a movie.

Now that you have the tools to make permanent changes, getting started is the hardest part. Once you have done this, you are on your way to success.

Changes take time but the positive rewards are well worth it. Make your resolutions last a lifetime!

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

How can a multiple car family minimize insurance costs?

No problem.

Auto-Owners gives families with two or more cars a reduced insurance rate. That makes their exceptional auto coverage and claims service even more attractive.

So if you're a multiple car family trying to minimize insurance costs—call your "no problem" Auto-Owners agent and find out how this discount can be "no problem" for you.
