Plan for Ward site hits snag; is tabled

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Citing a large number of parking spaces as their main concern, the Township planning commission tabled a revised site plan submitted by representatives of Ward Presbyterian Church at their Jan. 31 meeting.

The church property is located on the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

"I hope you've come to us with an open mind," said Commissioner Charles DeLand to Ward representatives, as planner's questioned a number of items on the church plan.

The plan was submitted by Ward officials following the expiration of an extension on a site plan which received approval two years ago.

On the parking space issue, planners expressed concern primarily about the proposed 1,700 space parking lot. Questions were also raised on the size of the one-way drives and a triangular shaped arrangement near the southeast part of the site.

Ward member James Abernethy said the church will accommodate between 2,300 and 3,000 adult members and a similar number of school children on Sundays. He noted the 1,700 parking spaces are designed to deal with a crowd of that size.

"We recognize that beyond the 2,300 who will be worshipping, there will also be a Sunday school going on, so this is our estimation of what we need," Abernethy said.

Township Planning Director Carol Henry said the zoning ordinance requires a minimum of one parking space per every three people in the building.

Henry said both front and side-yard parking are not allowed under township ordinance, but added Ward representatives received a variance on that rule from the zoning board of appeals two years ago.

She said the group would have to get a similar variance from the ZBA to again feature front and side-yard parking.

Many commissioners indicated they felt a parking lot of such magnitude would detract from the beauty of the church and would potentially make the busiest township entryway look like a parking lot.

Both commissioners and church representatives noted the church will share some parking area with the proposed Kirco office site, to be located directly north of the Ward property.

"I have a hard time wondering why they (Ward) would want that many parking spaces unless they need them," said planner Larry Sheehan. "I think (a lot that large) would take

Priorities set as city adopts 1989 goals

By BOB NEEDHAM

Continuing street repair, starting to plan for waste disposal needs and getting the Ford plant redevelopment underway are among the major concerns of the city government this year.

In a specially-called session to consider 1989 goals for the city, members of the city council Monday sat down with City Manager Steve Walters to discuss some priorities for the city's time and money. Although the session included no votes and no formal action was taken, the council members came to general agreement on what new projects should be among the city's major concerns during the year.

Working from a set of possible goals proposed by Walters, the council set some loose priorities in three general areas: capital outlay — that is, spending significant amounts of money; operation projects, dealing with the workings of city government; and planning and development projects. At the suggestion of Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers, relations between Northville and other governments was also put down as a separate goal including some sub-issues.

Walters said he built his list to deal with basically new projects, things that are not yet underway or are in the early stages of work. Projects which are already budgeted, or which are already planned, were not included.

"We promised the people who voted for the bond program we would complete it, and we have not."

Council member

Capital outlay

Street repair — Council members agreed that finishing the city-wide repaving program should be a top priority. Specifically, Walters recommended developing a schedule and financing plan for all the remaining improvements, including some sewer system improvements planned in conjunction with the street work.

"We sold a millage, and I feel compelled to complete the street program as quickly as possible," Ayers said. Council Member John Buckland added, "We promised the people who voted for the bond program we would complete it, and we have not."

• Traffic study implementation — Suggested for inclusion by Ayers, the council agreed that considering the Bus tours roll into town

By BOB NEEDHAM

"A nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to live there" probably isn't often used to describe Northville; home building and sales show the community is some place lots of people want to live.

But it's a nice place to visit as well, if the number of tour visitors is any indication. The tour business in Northville is booming, with day trips to town becoming increasingly more popular — and even three-day visits starting to appear.

The two big tour brokers in town are the Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall and the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. Both outlets are reporting tremendous satisfaction among the tour participants, and increasing numbers as a result.

Busloads of visitors come to town regularly now, to shop, eat, and learn about the history of Northville. The business has quickly grown from its beginnings just a few years ago.

"The more people read and know about Northville, the more want to come here," chamber Executive Director Laurie Marrs commented.

"We started out on a very small-scale basis," said Cathy McLeod, Genitti's tour coordinator. But with brochures, conventions, seminars, and a lot of legwork, the word got off quickly.

For example, a large share of the buses Genitti's brings to town come from Ontario. That business began

District considers funding options in reopening

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Now that the school board has selected reopening Moraine Elementary as its solution to the Amerman overcrowding problem, the question remains, how will the district pay for the change?

During his recommendation to the board last Monday, Superintendent George Bell estimated the cost of reopening Moraine at around $200,000.

In its 1988-89 budget, the Northville School District had a fund balance of about $106,000, less than one percent of the district's budget of $16.8 million for this year.

Bell has said most auditing firms prefer a fund balance of at least five percent of the total budget.

To further illustrate the district's financial status, the board had to defer the cost of two buses it bought last month until the 1989-90 budget year.

Bell said he has not yet considered how to fund Moraine's reopening, but added there are a number of options available to the district. Those options include:

- A bond issue, which is a long term debt to the school district to replace equipment and repair facilities. The district would have to have this option, as well as the next two, approved by a vote of the people.
- An increased millage. "We have the second or third lowest millage rate in Wayne County right now," Bell said, adding the district has a good SEV (state equalized valuation) which would increase the millage figure.

- Override the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment. Bell said the district was allowed to levy 35.4 mills in 1988-89, but chose only to levy 32.7 mills. He said if Headlee rolls the millage rate back even more, the district would be able to collect almost four mills with an override.

"This (overriding Headlee) would do just about anything anybody has here in mind for one year. In the long term if we're going to be a high-tech school district with high-tech equipment for kids, it's got to be there and be maintained."

Bell said the final option is to cut back other programs to support Moraine's reopening.

He added that the district would be able to pay for Moraine's reopening through the district's revenue from increased growth in the community and the cutting of some programs.

"It is possible to open Moraine — without a bond issue, millage, or Headlee override — but something will have to go that is being offered now," Bell said.

"But in Northville no one ever wants to stop doing anything. They are a very demanding because they value the education of their kids very much, so they're demanding of the services we provide for them."

Bell said the district will know in March about how much money it will receive for the 1989-90 school year, and added no decision on how to pay for Moraine's reopening will probably be made before then.

The first move in reopening Moraine Bell said, will be to hire a school administrator. He said the position has been posted and he plans on bringing a name to the board by March 13.

Tours of Northville grow in popularity with out-of-towners with McLeod's attendance at a Canadian convention, and then a lot of phone calls: "I just started out with the Windsor phone book," McLeod said.

McLeod took a big step at the New Year holiday: Genitti's first three-day event. In cooperation with the Wyndham Novi hotel, Genitti's brought a group from Hamilton, Ontario, to the area to dine, shop, see a show at the Marquis Theater, and attend a New Year's Eve party at Riffle's.

Genitti's has hosted other groups from New York, Chicago, San Francisco and elsewhere, whereas the Chamber of Commerce outings concentrate on in-state visitors. All together, it adds up to a lot of tour buses: Chamber tour guide Bruce Turnbull said he did 30 tours this summer, and Genitti's year-round schedule includes 75 to 100 visits. McLeod said Genitti's hosted 21 buses last week alone, in conjunction with the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular.

The heart of all the visits — both the chamber- and Genitti's-sponsored events — is the historical tour of Northville, and the man behind that tour is Bruce Turnbull.

"He's like a walking encyclopedia of Northville," Marrs said of the lifelong area resident.

"The week I retired from work, why, I went down to the chamber of commerce and volunteered," Turnbull recalled. At the same time, someone came in from Riffle's asking about tours of the community, and the rest is history.

"Right away we started booking tours of Northville. At that time it had never been done before," Turnbull said.

He put his personal knowledge of recent community history with information in Jack Hoffman's book, Northville: The First 100 Years to create the tour background. "We kind of combined them together to make a pretty nice route around town," Turnbull said.

Then, eventually, Genitti's employees learned the routine from Turnbull and became able to give the Turnbull tour of Northville on their own, he said.

The typical tour route is to start at the Northville Downs race track, go into Hines Park and the old ski jump site, and then on to stop at the community well on South Main, complete with history about the famous Silver Springs water. From there, it's on to the Ford plant and water wheel, possibly one of the cider mills in season, and then to Maybury State Park. Things wind up with a swing through the Historic District and sometimes a stop on the hill near Allen Terrace, for a view across much of Wayne County.

"We give them a pretty good tour," Turnbull said. "I know Northville, so it's been very interesting for me.

"I just think we've got a great town here. . . I always say we've got 7,000 boosters in Northville. I think everybody boosts Northville, whoever lives here. It's always been that way."

NEWS BRIEFS

HEINTZ NAMED TO COMMISSION — Susan Heintz, Wayne County Commissioner (R-Northville Township) has been appointed to the Michigan Commission on Intergovernmental Relations by Senate Majority Leader John Engler.

The commission was recently formed to analyze the complex relationships between various units of government. Duties of the commission include making recommendations for cooperative efforts between governmental units and working to enhance the relationships that currently exist. The commission consists of seven members appointed by Engler, seven members appointed by the Michigan Speaker of the House, five members appointed by the Governor and five members appointed by the Chief Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

MARRYING MAYOR — The Northville Historical Society recently noted in its newsletter that Northville Mayor Chris Johnson has donated wedding fees totaling $860 for 1988 for the restoration of the Cady Inn in Mill Race Village. Johnson is carrying on a tradition begun by Paul Vernon, the newsletter noted.

PLANNING OFFICERS — At its Jan. 31 meeting the township planning commission voted on new officers for the year. Charles DeLand, chairman of the commission in 1988, will continue as chairman for the next year. Karen Woodside was voted the vice chairman, and Jerry Chisnell will continue his duties as secretary for 1989.

BROCK UPDATE — Former Township Manager Steve Brock has a new job as assistant to the city manager of Farmington. Brock said he began his new position on Jan. 29 and is filling in for an employee currently on maternity leave. He added he has a one year contract for the position.

EMPLOYEE OF THE MONTH — Northville resident Libby Lockwood has been named Employee of the Month by the Wayne County Intermediate School District. Lockwood has been a special education consultant with the Intermediate School District for 17 years.

AIR FORCE APPOINTEE — Christopher J. Kornmesser, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Kornmesser of Northville, and a senior at Brother Rice High School, is a nominee to the United States Air Force Academy, according to Congressman Bill Broomfield (R-18th District).

LIBRARY NOTES — Northville Public Library's February Adult Book Display will feature the Dewey Decimal numbers 100-199. This section features the topics of psychology, unexplained phenomenon, and philosophy and will include titles such as "Cold Feet: Why Men Don't Commit," Freud's "The Interpretation of Dreams," "Haunted Houses" and "Beating Job Burnout."

The library is also looking for literary critics. There is no age requirement and experience is not necessary. The library will be furnishing bookmarks which will give readers an opportunity to evaluate new books for the next prospective reader.

MACKINNON'S REMODELS — MacKinnon's restaurant on Main Street in Northville will be closed Feb. 20 and 21 for remodeling.

Over the hurdle

City unsure about millage election

There is still no definitive word on whether a new park millage election in the city could be held in November and still be valid.

Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad has been requested to re-examine an opinion he issued which stated that a new city vote would have to pass in time for the tax to be added to township tax rolls in October. If that happened, the tax — a two-year, .9-mill proposal to develop a Beck Road park site — would be levied on homeowners in both the township and the city.

The proposal passed in the township in last November's election, but failed in the city. A provision in the ballot wording stated that the tax would not be levied unless it passed in both communities, but the wording did not specify a time frame for passage.

When asked, Essad issued an opinion that said the tax could probably be levied — in both municipalities — if it passed in the city in enough time to be added to the tax rolls this October.

The City Council has not yet decided whether to put the question back before voters. One point in its consideration of the issue is cost — if the proposal could come as part of the regular city election in November, the cost would be nominal. If a special election was run, the cost is estimated at close to $1,500.

Essad's opinion implied that November passage would be too late to levy the tax. But at the suggestion of the city administration, the city council last month asked Essad and the township to look into the issue further, based on the idea that there might be some flexibility with the county on deadlines for tax rolls.

That request was mailed out to Essad earlier this week, Township Clerk Eunice Switzler said.

Monday afternoon — before seeing the actual request — Essad said about the issue, "I think it's going to be up to the Wayne County Clerk's office and the Assessment Division."

Support group meets

Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center presents a Mother's Support Group meeting on Feb. 14 from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The group will meet at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, 39020 Five Mile Rd., Livonia. It provides support and discussion for mothers at home with young children.

Mother's Support Group will meet the second and fourth Fridays of the month. Babysitting will be provided. A fee of $3 per session is requested for the babysitting service.

For more information call 462-4440, extension 5443.

Tax help sessions offered to residents

The Internal Revenue Service will be offering free help in filling out federal tax returns locally this year.

The IRS has scheduled seven sessions at Northville City Hall for free, one-on-one assistance in filing returns. Both daytime and evening hours are planned.

The service is being offered in conjunction with the Northville Public Library. It will be held in the City Council chambers in the Municipal Building, 215 W. Main.

"This is a program for anyone. It's not limited to senior citizens," Library Director Pat Orr said. In the past, the community has hosted free tax help for seniors only.

Help sessions are scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Thursday, Feb. 11, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 23, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, March 4, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, March 25, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 6, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, April 8.

Orr said more details should be available at the library around the end of January. The library's phone number is 349-3020.

City resident discovers homemade firebomb on lawn

A homemade firebomb thrown onto a city lawn did little damage recently, according to a city police report.

At about 10:25 p.m., a Hill Street resident noticed a flame near the driveway and investigated. There was a small fire, which the resident extinguished and reported to police, the report said.

Police found the remains of a "Molotov cocktail" — a bottle filled with gasoline and stuffed with a rag used as a wick. The damage reported was minor.

POLICE ASSAULTED — A Farmington Hills man was cited for assault and battery after swearing at, shouting at, and shoving his hand into the face of a city police officer last week, according to a report.

The man became belligerent last Thursday evening at a Northville Downs betting window when asked not to smoke, the report said. The man refused to go to the police office at the track, but was eventually taken there.

According to the report, the man continued to swear at the police, held his middle finger in one officer's face, and then pushed his open hand into the officer.

The man was barred from the track and cited for assault and battery. He was released after paying $50 bond and faces a March 2 court date.

HIGH / DUNLAP ACCIDENT — A Northville resident was ticketed for making an improper left turn after an accident on High Street near Dunlap Sunday, according to a city police report.

The car was in the process of turning around in a driveway at 12:24 p.m. when the car collided with another car passing by, the report said. No injuries were reported.

NOVI ROAD ACCIDENT — A driver turning into a parking lot on Novi Road was the victim of an accident Thursday, according to a city police report.

Shortly after 10 p.m., the car was turning into a parking lot on Allen Drive when another vehicle tried to pass on the right and hit the turning car, the report said. The turning driver reported minor injuries and the passing driver was ticketed for improper passing.

WALKAWAY RETURNED — City police returned a patient to Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital after picking her up at Northville Downs last Thursday, according to a police report.

The police took the patient back to the hospital without incident.

FUZZBUSTER STOLEN — A driver who left a car unlocked for five minutes last Thursday returned to find a radar detector missing, according to a city police report.

The driver was in the Pizza Cutter restaurant from 5:50 to 5:55 p.m., leaving the car unlocked, the report said. The radar detector was valued at $230.

THIEF INTERRUPTED? — A car parked at McDonald Ford last week had a wheel and tire removed from the car, but they didn't get any farther, according to a city police report.

Between 6 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 31 and 8 a.m. the next morning, the wheel and tire were put on the ground, apparently by a would-be thief. The report speculated that the thief or thieves may have been interrupted. The dealership has suffered a series of such thefts.

TOOLS STOLEN — About $160 worth of tools were taken from a vehicle parked at the Northville Green Apartments last week, according to a city police report.

Between 4:30 p.m. Thursday and 7 a.m. Friday, the tools — which were reportedly hidden from view — were taken from a locked vehicle, the report said. Missing items included a tool belt, a power screwdriver, several wrenches, screwdrivers, vice grips, needle-nose pliers, a flashlight and other items.

GLASS BROKEN — A plate glass front door on a Main Street building was broken at 2:45 a.m. Monday, according to a police report.

Nothing appeared missing. Damage was put at $300.

DRUNK DRIVING ROUNDUP — Township and city police issued at least five tickets for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL) last week, according to police reports. Among the incidents were:

• A South Lyon resident was stopped on Eight Mile after a police officer noticed the vehicle weaving on the street at 1:15 a.m., a report said. A breathalyzer test was refused, and the driver faces a March 1 court date.

• A Northville resident was stopped after a police officer clocked the driver doing 82 miles per hour in a 40 zone on Eight Mile. The driver had trouble with field sobriety tests, and two breathalyzer tests showed a blood alcohol level of .13 percent. In Michigan, .10 percent is OUIL. A March 3 court date is scheduled.

• A Plymouth resident was stopped at 3:53 a.m. Saturday, on Northville Road after police observed the driver go through a red light and then drive 30 mph in a 40 mph zone. The driver had trouble with a field sobriety test and a breathalyzer test showed a blood alcohol level of .11 percent. The driver was held in jail until he sobered up and released on $100 bond. He faces a March 2 court date.

• A Livonia resident was ticketed for OUIL at 3:04 p.m. last Wednesday, after police clocked the driver going 55 mph in a 40 mph zone. Police said the vehicle was stopped on southbound Beck Road at Five Mile Road. The driver passed one of three field sobriety tests and registered a blood alcohol level of .13 percent. He was held in jail, released on $100 bond and faces a March 2 court date.

• A Warren resident was stopped at 11:48 p.m. last Sunday on eastbound Six Mile Road when the driver made a right turn directly in front of another vehicle, failing to yield the right of way. Police said the driver passed two of three field sobriety tests, but showed a blood alcohol level of .12 percent. In Michigan, .10 percent is OUIL. The driver was held in jail until she sobered up and faces a March 2 court date.

FENDER-BENDERS — Two automobile accidents were reported by township police last week.

• A two-car accident occurred Thursday evening on Haggerty Road near Eight Mile Road. The driver of the first car told police she was trying to pull out of the Meijer parking lot onto northbound Haggerty Road and didn't see the driver of car two. The driver of car two said he was going southbound on Haggerty and the first car pulled in front of him, making him unable to avoid a collision. Police issued a ticket to the driver of car one for failing to yield from a driveway.

• A two-car accident occurred last Saturday evening on Northville Road near Seven Mile Road. Police said the driver of car two was stopped at the left turn signal waiting for traffic to clear when she was struck by car one. The driver of car one told police she saw car two but was unable to stop. The driver of car one said she was going slower than the posted 40 mph speed limit. Police issued a ticket to the driver of car two for failing to stop within an assured clear distance.

AUTO THEFTS — Two automobiles were reported stolen to township police last week.

In the first incident, the complainant said sometime last Tuesday, between 7 p.m. and 6:30 a.m., unknown persons took her 1984 red Firebird from the carport near her residence on W. Harbour Village Dr.

The value of the car was placed at $12,000.

Police said they found no physical evidence and added they currently have no suspects or witnesses.

On the preceding day — Monday, Jan. 30 — a Detroit man reported his car was stolen from Northville Charley's.

The victim said his 1987 black Ford Escort, worth about $10,000, was parked in the first row of the lot — west of the restaurant.

The complainant said a witness told him he saw a black female get into the car, using a key to start the vehicle. The victim said his wife would have a key and added the couple separated about a month ago.

The witness noted he noticed a Nissan car parked in the lot, similar to the victim's description of his wife's car. Police said they checked the wife's Farmington Hills apartment building, but did not locate the car.

STOLEN ITEMS — Three cars were broken into over the past week, according to township police reports.

In the first incident, the complainant told police $707 in cash and merchandise was stolen from her car parked on Innsbrook Dr. last Saturday between midnight and 10 a.m.

The victim said unknown persons took items left in a canvas bag, which was located on the front passenger seat of the car. No damage was done to the car. The victim said she thought she locked the car, but discovered the door may not have been completely shut and locked. Police said they have no suspects or witnesses.

On Sunday, a complainant said unknown persons smashed his front passenger side window and stole a radar detector from the dashboard. The victim said his car, a 1982 Pontiac J-2000 was parked on Northville Place. The radar detector is valued at $100 and $100 of damage was also caused to the car. Police said they have no physical evidence or suspects.

Also on Sunday, a radar detector was stolen from a car parked on Innsbrook Dr. The complainant said unknown persons broke the driver's side window of his 1986 Buick and stole the radar detector worth $75. The victim said the detector was mounted to the windshield. He valued the damage to the car at $150. Police said they dusted the car for finger prints, but found none.

NEWSBOX HEIST — A district manager for the Detroit Free Press reported a newsbox was stolen last Monday from outside Paul's Produce on Seven Mile Road in the township.

The manager said the box, which contained about $13 and is worth $400, was last seen in front of Paul's at 4 p.m. last Sunday and reported missing at 4 a.m. on Monday. He added he checked the entire area, but could not locate the machine.

Police said they have no suspects or witnesses.

TWICE ROBBED — Both Tahitian Tan and Don & Co., located in the Lake Front Plaza on Five Mile Road, were broken into twice last week.

Police said the stores were first broken into last Tuesday, when victims of both stores said they found their rear doors standing open, with pry marks on the wall of Don & Co. In the robbery, police said $140 was stolen from Tahitian Tan and $200 from Don & Co.

In the second heist of the stores Friday, police said they observed the back door of a vacant business in the plaza had been pryed open. The trail then led police to a hole in the dry wall which led into Tahitian Tan. A piece of plywood has been removed from Tahitian Tan leading to Don & Co., which is next door. The second heist netted thieves $57 in cash from Don & Co.

Police said they dusted for fingerprints, but found nothing.

MEIJER'S THEFT — A 15-year old Livonia youth was arrested for stealing a pint of vodka worth $5.09. Police said the youth was nabbed by store detectives and added he has been sent to Wayne County juvenile court.

ZBA denies appeal to allow vet clinic

By BOB NEEDHAM

An appeal to override city zoning rules and allow a veterinary clinic in the Central Business District was denied last week.

The city's Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) voted 7-2 Wednesday, Feb. 1, to deny the appeal brought by Lee Holland. Holland owns a building at 115 E. Dunlap in which Debra Zarish has proposed to open a veterinary clinic.

The current city zoning ordinance does not allow veterinary offices in the CBD, which includes the Dunlap site. Vets are only permitted in two types of zoning, general commercial district and racetrack-related use.

Holland appealed on the basis of an undue hardship, saying that Zarish was the only person who expressed interest in renting his building as an office after it had been on the market for about seven months.

Charles Ayers, chairperson of the ZBA, said the main reason for denial was a pending ordinance change which would address veterinary clinics. A secondary reason was a concern of "spot zoning," or zoning a certain site differently than the surrounding areas.

"We haven't been able to find a tenant," Holland said of the site, which used to hold a doctor's office. He said there have been about six inquiries about the site in the last seven months, and five of those nibbles were interested in using the building as a retail store.

"I think (Zarish) would be a fine addition to the community," Holland said Monday. "I think there's a need for the service, and renting that (building) out is going to be a plus. Any time you've got vacant property, it doesn't look good, regardless of how conscientious you are in keeping it up."

The ZBA is empowered by city charter to override the city zoning ordinance in special cases. Philosophically, Ayers said, "We're not to make law, we're just to interpret law where the existing law creates an undue hardship."

The ZBA denial does not necessarily mean that Zarish will not move in to the site. The city council is considering a change to the rules for the CBD, possibly to allow small-animal veterinary clinics in that zoning, with certain restrictions.

"The number one thing that was on most of the commissioners' minds was that it is being reviewed by city council, with an eye toward possibly changing the ordinance," Ayers said Monday. A better approach would be to correct the ordinance with a modification, if that's appropriate, than to allow one variance, he said.

Secondarily, "If we allow it there, we are creating spot zoning or spot exceptions," Ayers added. In addition, the zoning ordinance — with all its restrictions — was in place when Holland bought the building, so the "undue hardship" case was tougher to prove, Ayers said.

Holland did not disagree with the ZBA decision.

"I thought they had some good points. I was a little disappointed, but realistically, I think our chances were only about average," Holland said.

Amerman-Moraine-Cooke

Moraine reopens in '89

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The crosswalk over Eight Mile Road which connects Moraine Elementary to subdivisions directly to the north, is empty now.

It has been closed to children for the past four years, since the school was closed in 1984. Seven months from now it will again be a source of access for many elementary students.

One week after a decision by the Board of Education to reopen Moraine Elementary as a K-5 facility, residents affected by the move expressed both optimism and disappointment about having their children leave Amerman Elementary.

"I think it's great (to reopen Moraine)," said township resident Faith McClory. "I'm pleased with the board's decision because I like the idea of a neighborhood school."

McClory said she built her house, which is in back of Moraine, in 1981 and said she likes the idea of having her child walk to school.

As for her child changing from Amerman to Moraine, McClory said she does not foresee a problem — as long as another change is not necessary.

"I'm glad the K-3 plan wasn't selected because my child will be able to now stay at Moraine through elementary school," she noted. "I'm pleased with the decision as long as there is no more jumping around."

McClory's neighbor Heidi Needham said she is thrilled to have her child attend Moraine, even though she liked the education her daughter was getting at Amerman.

"I'm glad to have my child going to a neighborhood school," Needham said. "It's real close to our house and my daughter can now walk to school."

Needham said the moving of kids will not only help the overcrowding of students at Amerman, but an overcrowding of parents at various school functions.

"Parents in Northville get involved with their children's schooling," she said. "The PTA meetings at Amerman were always very crowded. With the move to Moraine, I think more parents will get involved."

Needham said that when she bought her lot four years ago, the switch was being made from Moraine to Amerman. "At that time we were kind of hoping our kids could attend Moraine, now it's happening."

While many parents are excited to have their children attend Moraine, city residents living near Cooke and Amerman weren't as happy.

The east/west boundary for Amerman and Moraine runs along Taft Road, with children living west of Taft attending Moraine. That means some children living closer to Amerman will go to Moraine.

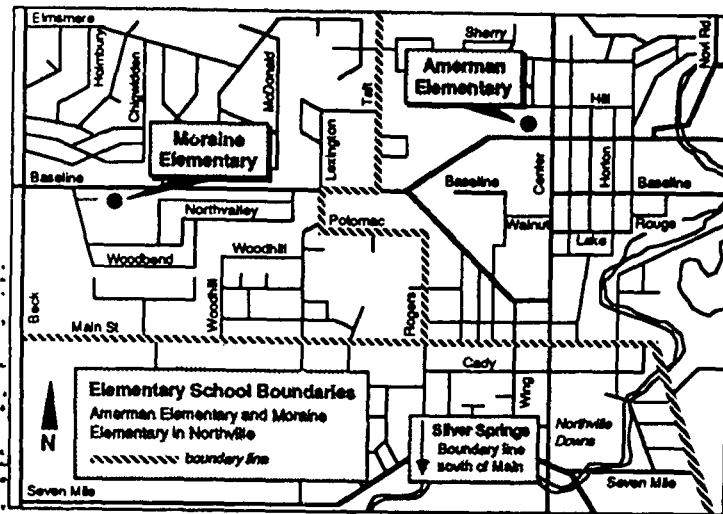

Resident Sandy Basse, who lives west of Taft, said she prefers that her children stay at Amerman for two reasons: the proximity of Amerman to her home and "my children's friends are staying at Amerman."

Basse said contrary to some other children, her two children will have a difficult time making the change from Amerman to Moraine.

"Changing schools is hard on kids because most of my children's friends will be staying at Amerman, while my children will be going to Moraine," she said.

With regard to the district's final two proposals for easing the Amerman overcrowding: either reopening Moraine or Cooke, Basse said she prefers reopening Moraine, because if Cooke is used as a junior high in the future, she does not want her children to change schools again.

"It won't be easy (changing schools), but I would like to do it now and hopefully be settled for a while."

Teachers optimistic about future move

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

"Who got hurt?" is the question Superintendent George Bell asked in weighing the school board's decision last month to reopen Moraine Elementary as a K-5 facility.

"Hurt somebody who got hurt? There isn't anyone. Not often are you able to come to a decision where somebody doesn't get hurt," he added.

Bell's comments were following board approval of his recommendations to relocate programs currently housed in Moraine to Cooke School. The programs include: Early Childhood Development, Northville Youth Assistance and the Northville Cooperative Pre-School.

In addition to relocating these programs, by reopening Moraine instead of Cooke as an elementary school, the Senior Center Drop-In Center will remain in the Cooke School cafeteria.

Directors and staff members of programs affected by Moraine's reopening expressed a positive attitude on the board's decision and said they were glad to be offered space in Cooke.

"Moraine is a wonderful facility, but it is necessary to use as a K-5 building," said Mary Kay Scullen, Moraine Primary School Principal of the Early Childhood Development Center (ECDC). "But, we've maintained all of our programs offered in the past at Moraine. Now, by having some programs at Cooke, we'll just be more spread out."

Scullen said that by having part of her staff at Moraine and part at Cooke there will be a heavy emphasis on maintaining staff unity.

"Obviously, we have an ideal situation at Moraine, but what we have at Cooke is workable," she added. "We must accentuate all of the positives and minimize the negatives of the situation."

The ECDC programs moved to Cooke include: eight classes of Kids Creative Corner, two child care classes and the Northville Cooperative Pre-School (the co-op pre-school is not affiliated with the ECDC).

ECDC programs scheduled to remain at Moraine include: two classes of Kids Creative Corner, one parent-child class, two or three classes of Wondergarten and the Kid's Club.

One class of Wondergarten and one Kid's Club section will also be offered at Silver Springs Elementary.

Scullen, whose office will be moved to Cooke, said she will have to do more traveling, but will devote as much time to each program.

She added the greatest impact on the ECDC's move will be felt by adults, not students.

"The impact on our kids will be minimal because their connection is more with the staff than the school," Scullen said.

She noted that the impact of moving on the ECDC staff will be both of a positive and negative variety.

"Being that the staff is a close unit, the move will provide greater interaction with the K-12 staff for our teachers staying at Moraine, and greater interaction with the senior citizens for teachers moving to Cooke," Scullen said.

"The most positive part of the

"The impact on our kids will be minimal because their connection is more with the staff than the school,"

— Mary Kay Scullen
Moraine Principal of Primary Education

whole scenario is that we will be maintaining the same programs and serving the same number of kids as we do now," she added.

Optimism seems to be the key word around Moraine these days, as most of the ECDC teachers said they felt positive about their program's move to Cooke.

"I'm real positive about moving because it's not the building (that's the main focus) but the program," said Kid's Creative Corner teacher Nancy Sherman.

"We'll be able to adjust to the move," she added. "We're (the teachers) all positive about the move and we're happy the district found us another place so soon."

Sherman, who noted she has already moved from Amerman to Moraine, said none of her students will be affected because all of them will be entering kindergarten next fall.

She added she believes Cooke will be an adequate facility for her program.

"Children can adapt better than adults and more quickly," Sherman said. "I think they will adapt quite well and as adults the most important thing to do is to keep a positive outlook."

Kid's Creative Corner teacher Elly Truan said she is also excited about the move and added the most important aspect of the situation is that classes in all areas will still be offered.

"As I understand it the Cooke facility will be made similar to the one here at Moraine and the space will be adequate," Truan said.

"There is an adjustment period with every move, but as long as everyone keeps an open mind and remains positive, there should be no problem."

Wondergarten teacher Kim Grinenko, who will be staying at Moraine, said although she may have to move to another classroom, she is happy to be staying at Moraine.

"I love working at Moraine," Grinenko said. "This is a wonderful facility. I've taught pre-school in a number of places, but this is the best place in terms of space, library facilities and playground."

She added however, most of the staff realizes that building changes happen sometime, so everyone must take a positive attitude to the situation.

"The communication back and forth between Moraine and Cooke may be a problem, but (in this situation) there is certainly nothing we can't handle," Grinenko said.

Cooke to house community programs

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Programs currently leasing or using space in Northville schools will largely remain unaffected by the reopening of Moraine Elementary, other than those that will move to Cooke School.

As part of his board approved recommendation to reopen Moraine as a K-5 facility, Superintendent George Bell said the Northville Youth Assistance and the Northville Cooperative Pre-School will be provided space at Cooke.

Bell also said the Senior Citizen Drop-In Center will be able to continue its use of the Cooke cafeteria.

To the directors of all three programs, the news of being offered space at Cooke came as welcome relief. All three directors said their programs would be completely displaced if not for the space provided by the school district.

"We're grateful to Dr. Bell and the school board for helping us find another room," said Susan Mihalik, president of the Northville Co-op Pre-School.

The pre-school's program is being moved from Moraine to Cooke as part of Moraine's reopening plan. Mihalik said her program currently rents one classroom from the district on a yearly basis.

"Our understanding is that a room at Cooke is being reserved for us," she added. "We're just starting to talk about the situation, but since we have no alternatives we intend to rent that room next year."

Mihalik said that she and her staff toured Cooke on Monday with the school district's administration. She added although the room being offered is smaller in comparison to this year's room, "I feel it is workable."

"Our pre-school has a long history of cooperation with Northville schools," Mihalik said. "Our program encourages parent involvement and that element carries over to the elementary school when our children graduate from the program."

She noted the Co-op program moved from Mainstreet Elementary to Moraine three years ago when the Mainstreet facility was sold to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The pre-school currently has about 60 children in its program, with classes offered to 2, 3 and 4-year-olds. There are three teachers in the co-op system.

Co-op teacher Judy Somershoe said she believes the children will have little or no trouble adjusting to their new surroundings at Cooke.

"Kids won't care (about moving) as long as their toys and atmosphere remain the same," Somershoe said. "The kids will probably have an easier time adjusting than the adults."

Somershoe, who is the only co-op teacher to have made the move from Mainstreet to Moraine, said moving to Cooke will be easier than the last move.

"When we moved to Moraine, we found out in the middle of August that we were moving, so we had to rush things," she added. "We'll handle this move well as long as we have enough time."

Somershoe said the Cooke facility is smaller than the room currently used at Moraine, but added the storage at Cooke is larger.

"We're glad to find a place that's licenseable because we simply don't have much of a choice," she noted.

Mary Ellen King, director of the Northville Youth Assistance, said no one has contacted her about being offered space at Cooke, even though finding her program space is part of the board's decision to reopen Moraine.

King said she would accept space at Cooke, although a move may be difficult for her program.

"Where we're located in Moraine, our kids can enter through the inside or outside door, because some of our referrals are troubled kids who don't want to be identified as being in the youth assistance," King said.

"I don't know what's available at Cooke, but I'm not sure kids will be able to remain anonymous," she added.

King, whose program is funded by the city and township, said when the initial funding came to support the youth assistance it included an understanding that the district would

Northville Downs pays highest SEV

A list of the ten largest taxpayers in the City of Northville starts out rather predictably: Northville Downs is way out in front.

With a 1988 property assessment of just over $5 million, the track pays more than three times as much in property taxes as the second-highest taxpayer. In addition, the track also pays racing taxes to the state, of which several hundred thousand dollars comes back to the city each year.

The total Downs state equalized valuation (SEV) — that is, property assessment — for 1988 was $5,000,890, according to figures provided by the city tax office.

At an operating millage rate of 13.36 mills, that means the track pays about $66,812 of the city's roughly $3-million budget for its general fund, not including the return from the state. At 32.7 mills to operate the Northville School District, the Downs pays $163,529 of a $16.8-million budget.

Second place in the city goes to Detroit Edison at an SEV of $1,559,610 for 1988. Next comes the Michigan Association of Gift Salesmen (MAGS) at an assessment of $1,345,540.

The rest of the Top Ten is:

4. Foundry Flask — $974,880.
5. Ford Motor Company — $924,300.
6. Shopping Center Market — $694,210.

7. Consumers Power Company — $617,800.
8. McDonald Ford — $588,160.
9. Northville Green Apartments — $516,100.

10. Treetop Apartments — $380,400.

By state law, SEV is supposed to be between 49 and 50 percent of the true cash value of a property.

Impact of track detailed in report

An annual report to the state detailing the financial impact of Northville Downs on the City of Northville shows both positive and negative factors from the city's perspective.

A year-end report required by the state shows that during 1988, the city got $729,924 in money returned from state taxes on the track. The returned money is supposed to pay for extra expenses — such as more police — the city incurs because of the track.

According to the terms of the state law, the amount of money the state returns to the city is supposed to be 20 percent of the parimutuel taxes collected by the state — up to a $900,000 cap. Under the 20 percent rule, the city's share would have been $953,829, according to the report, but limited by the cap to $900,000.

However, the 20 percent payment is not automatic; the state Legislature appropriates a lump sum each year which is used to return money to track cities. Northville and the others do not get the full share, although Northville's total has generally increased.

In an accounting of how the city used the tax money, the largest share by far was for police at $475,429. Other expenditures were $44,070 for fire services; $13,587 for refuse collection; $35,000 for S. Main street construction; $95,594 for parking development; and $66,244 for general city operations.

The report also explains two cost increases to the city and one cost decrease due to the track operation.

Matinee races run in both the Jackson at Northville and Northville Downs racing seasons increased the demand for police services, but there was no extra city revenue to make up for it, the report says. In addition, the 1985 hiring of another full-time police officer and certified part-time officers — to replace non-certified part-timers — created more cost per man hour.

On the other side of the ledger, the close of the horse barns southwest of the track means that no police officer is needed to constantly supervise the crossing, the report says.

Group seeks volunteers

Northville Youth Assistance is looking for a few good people.

Volunteers are needed for the program which matches adults with children in the Northville area in need of support and guidance.

Mary Ellen King, director of Northville NYA said that the next training session for volunteers begins on Feb. 22. Potential volunteers must be interviewed by King prior to the Feb. 22 training start. For information or appointments call King at 344-1618.

Volunteer training is a series of sessions beginning on Feb. 22 and running March 1, 8, 15, and 22 at Moraine School from 6-9 p.m.

Sessions include empathy training, communications, listening training, in-depth explanation of the program, referral services such as police, courts and school social worker, an evening on substance abuse and a panel of previously involved volunteers to answer new volunteer questions.

King noted that previous volunteers that were not matched with children said that just going through the training had proven worthwhile to their lives.

Volunteers must be over 21 years of age and the main qualifications are they be concerned, stable and care about Northville kids, King said.

Once training is completed, children are matched with volunteers. Volunteers meet with their children for approximately 1½ hours each week for up to six months. Not all volunteers are matched with children, King said.

Northville High begins search to honor alum

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Northville High School has begun its search for candidates for the 1988-89 Distinguished Alumna Award, an honor already in its sixth year.

Northville High School Principal David Bolitho said the award is a way for the district to honor an "outstanding graduate."

"Northville High School has graduated many outstanding people who have made significant contributions to the improvement of our society on the local, state, national and international levels," Bolitho said.

He noted the award was established in 1983 through community involvement, including district teachers, senior students, former Northville Record Editor Jean Day, and members of the community.

Past winners of the Distinguished Alumna Award include: Major and Mrs. James F. Higgins in 1984, Dr. Russell Atchison in 1985, Paul Folino in 1986, Elsa Couse Stuber and Scott Anderson in 1987 and Dr. Carol Yanne in 1988.

Bolitho said nominations for the 1989 award will be accepted through April 7.

Township planners approve expansion at local Meijer store

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Once and for all, Meijer's is not moving.

After rumors circulated last fall about the all-night store moving from its Eight Mile and Haggerty location, the township planning commission approved a 36,000 square foot expansion on Jan. 31.

Rick Morgan, Meijer's senior real estate representative, said the proposed expansion should put an end to all rumors.

"We've come in with expanding the store and adding parking. This is a successful store and we've never considered selling it," Morgan said.

He added that the success of the Northville store — which opened in 1985 — is the reason for the expansion, resulting in an additional 27,000 square feet in retail space and 9,000 square feet of storage.

With the expansion the overall square footage of the store will rise from its current level of 175,000 to almost 211,000 square feet.

The new retail space will be stocked with more hardware and clothing items, as well as more checkout stands, Morgan noted.

The retail building will be added to the northern portion of the store, while the storage building will be placed in back.

Morgan said the garden center, currently located at the northern edge of the store, will hopefully be moved to the northeast part of the parking lot.

Planners were generally pleased with Meijer's expansion plan, but had concerns about store parking and the temporary garden location.

"I've got a problem with the garden center," said Commissioner Bernard Bach. "I'd like to see it at the other corner of the lot."

Commissioner Larry Sheehan said that having the garden center at the northwest corner of the lot may cause a lot of traffic congestion at the store's entrance, and could potentially back up traffic onto Haggerty Road.

Morgan said the store's thought is too get customers as far from the construction site as possible, while allowing employees to service the center.

The placement of the garden center — which will be moved to its normal location upon completion of the expansion — will soon be determined by the township's Zoning Board of Appeals.

As for Meijer's parking lot, Morgan said the store currently has 1,364 spaces, but will drop to 1,289 during the garden center move.

He added the Northville Meijer's has as many parking spaces as any other Meijer's store in the metro area.

Morgan said the store would like construction on the expansion to begin on March 1 and be completed by Oct. 1. He noted this schedule would allow the store to prepare for the Christmas shopping season.

find housing for it.

"I'm glad the school district is willing to find another space for us to continue the program," she said.

The Senior Citizen Drop-In Center is another program that will continue to receive space in Northville schools for the 1989-90 year.

Senior Citizen Coordinator Karl Peters said he is pleased the center will be able to remain in the Cooke cafeteria.

"We're very happy to be at Cooke and we're looking forward to staying here as long as the district keeps Cooke School closed," he said.

Peters said his group likes the Cooke facility, but added the "seniors would like a place of their own. Cooke School has been a great place for the senior program, though, because it has been large enough to allow for growth."

Good scout Values still popular

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Northville resident Jim Lapham will always be a Boy Scout at heart.

As Scout Master of Northville's Boy Scout Troop 755, he has seen 21 young men achieve Eagle Scout status during the past nine years. Lapham is assisted by Bob Griffith in his scout mastering duties.

Becoming an Eagle Scout is no easy task — just ask Lapham. "It takes four years of hard work," he said.

Before being named an Eagle Scout, young men are required to earn 21 merit badges — there are 135 of them in all — in a wide range of activities such as fingerprinting, lifesaving, painting, personal fitness, horsemanship, raising pets, pioneering and citizenship — just to name a few.

"We expose men to many aspects of life," Lapham said. "A lot of them associate their experiences of earning a merit badge with a profession later in life."

As one example, Lapham said a scout he knows went on to become a doctor because of interest evoked through earning a lifesaving merit badge.

But earning merit badges isn't the only requirement of a scout working toward Eagle Scout status. He must also demonstrate leadership in the scouting organization by acting as a Patrol Leader, Quartermaster or Senior Patrol Leader. In addition, a scout must also initiate and carry out a project — one of the most important aspects of the requirements.

"The project usually involves more than 100 hours of work," Lapham said.

Projects completed by his scouts include building 20 barricades for the Northville Department of Public Works, carving a 4,000-foot ski trail at Maybury State Park and constructing a picnic area at Our Lady of Providence School.

"Hopefully an Eagle Scout carries his honor with humility and thinks about the scouting oath throughout his life," Lapham remarked.

He has been active in the Boy Scout program since 1944, when he joined the Cub Scouts at the young age of 9.

"I stuck with it because it satisfied my desires for leadership, travel and organization," Lapham explained.

For a period of time when he got married and began a family, Lapham wasn't actively involved with the Boy Scouts, he said. But when his son, Michael, joined as a

"Hopefully an Eagle Scout carries his honor with humility and thinks about the scouting oath throughout his life."

Scoutmaster

Cub Scout, Lapham became a Cub Scout Leader.

"When my son went on to Boy Scouts, I did, too," he said. He became a Boy Scout Leader.

Although Michael is now attending college, his father decided to stick with Boy Scouting. He discusses his scouts with a note of great pride in his voice.

"I like young men — I like to see in their faces the thrill of accomplishment," Lapham said. "I also take pride in our country and in the flag ... this is doing my part in observing that pride."

Lapham also said he is very conservation-conscious, another reason he strongly advocates the Boy Scouts of America. He can even tell you when the program began — in 1890.

"Basically scouting has not changed," Lapham said. "There's a saying that goes 'America has returned to the values scouting has never left.'"

Lapham's experiences with the Boy Scout program have given his family the thrill of traveling to Australia and to several states in the U.S. He has also attended various World Jamborees, a gathering held every four years to unite scouts from around the world.

In August, Lapham plans to take 36 scouts from troops 755 and 903 to the National Jamboree in Virginia.

Other upcoming events include conducting ceremonies for three more Eagle Scouts and 5 more in June.

"I'd like to point out that there are two good troops in Northville — Troop 903 led by Dave Morton and John Beemer," Lapham said.

Scholarship offered

Community Federal Credit Union and the Plymouth Business and Professional Women's Club announce that applications are now being accepted for the Margaret Dunning Scholarship. Community Federal Credit Union established the scholarship to recognize Margaret Dunning's 23 years of volunteer service as a member of the Credit Union's Board of Directors. Nineteen of those years were spent as the Board's President.

Applicants should send a self-addressed stamped envelope to the Plymouth BPW Scholarship Committee, P.O. Box 5338, Plymouth, MI, 48170 for an application. Completed applications are due to the same address by March 1.

Plymouth BPW is a local chapter of the State and National BPW/USA Federations. The BPW objective is to elevate standards for, promote the interest of, and bring about a spirit of cooperation among working women.

Community Federal Credit Union contributed $9,500, representing $500 for each of the 19 years Margaret Dunning served as President.

Plan approval still unresolved

By BOB NEEDHAM

It's going to be a while yet before there are any new apartments built below the school bus yard on Eight Mile.

Plans were tabled recently for a project which has been in the works for about two years. If and when the development goes through, it would be a 15-unit townhouse / apartment complex on the north side of Eight Mile just east of the Northville Wine Shoppe.

Developer Metti W. Metti returned to the city planning commission Tuesday, Jan. 17 for the latest consideration of his plan. The commission voted unanimously to table Metti's request until several site planning issues are addressed.

Metti had been to the commission several times before, with earlier versions of the plan and a rezoning request for the northern part of his site.

"I've been here enough times for members of the commission to be aware of the project," Metti said in introducing his application.

But one snag quickly arose at the meeting: Metti and his architect both said they had not seen the latest letter of review from Planning Consultant Don Wortman, although Wortman said he had been in contact with another member of the architectural firm, Malak Associates of Southfield.

Wortman's review focused on four aspects of the Metti plan, and one in particular was discussed before the commission — namely, whether the development as planned would be one building or three.

The plan was split into three blocks of five apartment units, but the three blocks share a common roof and trim. Wortman raised the question of whether this made the development one building or three. The question is significant because the blocks are six feet apart, when separate buildings would have to be 22 feet apart under the city's zoning ordinance. Building separation is required for fire concerns.

Metti said he could enclose the open areas to make the development a single building, if that would allay the commission concerns.

Commission members suggested he might be better served by applying to the Board of Zoning Appeals, but Metti declined. "I want to avoid another bureaucracy. I want to keep it here — a kinder, gentler commission," Metti said. Others suggested getting an opinion on the case from the fire marshal.

Wortman's other concerns with the plan were a lack of detail on what existing plants will remain; marking a designated area for visitor parking; and adding foundation plantings.

The commission voted 8-0 to table the plan until those questions were addressed and a new police study on traffic in the area was supplied.

Johnson takes post

Northville Mayor Chris Johnson has been elected secretary of the Conference of Western Wayne.

The member communities in the conference recently elected officers for 1989. In addition to Johnson, the officers are: Westland Mayor Charles "Trav" Griffin, elected chairperson for the third straight year; Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally, vice chairperson; and Huron Township Supervisor Christine Gamber, treasurer.

In existence since 1984, the Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) operates under an inter-local agreement set up under the state's Urban Cooperation Act of 1967. The conference is designed as a planning and development agency to coordinate programs and facilities for the security, enrichment and well-being of member communities and individual citizens.

The CWW has focused on governmental needs and interests, helping members deal with other governments, providing technical assistance, and increasing public awareness of local government. Some recent CWW issues have included solid waste and enhanced 911 emergency service.

There are 17 member communities in the CWW, including both the City of Northville and Northville Township.

City-wide resident's group works together

By BOB NEEDHAM

They say you can't fight city hall, but they don't say it within earshot of the Concerned Residents of Northville.

The group's members have been fighting city hall — and anything else seen as a threat to the quality of their residential life — for about a year and a half now. And judging by the outcome of some of their causes, they're getting pretty good at it.

But maybe "fighting" isn't quite the right word. The positions taken by the Concerned Residents are not adversarial as much as they are motivational; much of the group's success comes by spurring along events which might have come to pass anyway. Or might not.

"We're trying to keep a balance between residential use and other uses," said David Totten, a founder / board member who chairs the meetings of the group. "I'm glad we formed the organization. It seems to me Northville is at a point where it can develop in such different ways."

Totten is happy with the group's progress: "I'm quite encouraged, frankly. It seems to me we've had enough success with the things we've done. We don't remake the shape of the earth or anything, but in a small, low-key way . . . I think we're fairly successful, considering the kinds of tools we bring to it."

"We don't have a lot of clout. If we were an organization of the 50 wealthiest landowners in Northville, we'd probably have a tremendous amount of clout. But I don't think we have that, or can expect to."

The group came into being after a few requests before the city Planning Commission — on which Totten sits — to rezone residential sites for commercial use. The applications were opposed by people active in the various residents' associations around the city, but in no coordinated manner.

"It was at a point in time when several fairly activist-type people felt their neighborhoods might be threatened by various activities that were non-residential in nature," Totten said. He and his wife, Carolyn, and some others gradually came to realize "there needed to be something."

Then one day, while out for a walk, Carolyn Totten had a brainstorm. "She said, 'What we really need is a city-wide group.' It sounded like a good idea," Totten recalled.

The Tottens got together with others from different areas of the city — Nancy Berg and Nancy Bohn from the Cabbagetown group, Carol Strauch from Bealtown, and a few others — for some informal meetings in the summer of 1987. "We consciously attempted to make it city wide," he said, and the group now includes representation from many areas in the city.

After some informal get-togethers, the group somewhat formalized itself that September. A sort of manifesto written as a Letter to the Editor explained the members' intentions: "The Concerned Residents of Northville will try to keep residential Northville from being nibbled out of existence in this way. We expect to appear at hearings, write letters and do whatever else seems appropriate to make clear to elected and other officials what actions we think are needed to safeguard our homes."

In less than two years the group has grown to quite a size: although not all of them are active, the roster includes about 45 or 50 families.

"That's quite viable, I think," Totten said. "I think it's been fairly well received . . . An organization of this type will have an awful lot more people on the membership roll than come to any meeting."

However, the most recent meeting pulled 20 people, which is bigger than the average crowd at a city council meeting — and not too bad for "a January night when you don't have a burning issue," Totten said.

Although described as "a very informal organization," the group does have a board of directors — Totten, Bohn, Strauch, and Jay Wendt — and a fairly regular meeting schedule — in January, April, July and October. The group functions on $2 dues charged to each member family.

"We don't have much of a structure," Totten said. "We've gradually settled into an informal kind of arrangement, and I have a feeling most people don't want much formality . . . We have a good time."

He added, "In a volunteer organization, the actions are usually taken by a relatively small number of people. Our basic tool is writing letters, or going to city council, or a combination."

The combination appears to work pretty well.

For an example, consider a letter the group wrote to the city after a meeting last spring. The letter pushed for action on three issues: sedimentation in the Randolph Drain and holding pond near Taft Road and Eight Mile; improvements to parking lots at the Wagon Wheel Lounge and across from Northville Downs; and "the existence in our community of homes and other properties that clearly violate safety and sanitary standards."

After the letter came before the city council, the city helped examine solutions to the sedimentation problem by having its engineers do cost estimates and facilitating discussion between the local residents and a developer who caused at least some of the problem.

The city also began — and recently completed — negotiations for the improvement of the two parking lots. And the very next meeting after the Concerned Residents complained about property upkeep, the administration presented an early draft of a property maintenance ordinance which has since been added to the books.

"It's a matter of wearing the rock down with little drops of water," Totten laughed.

Items on the group's most recent agenda included updates on past efforts, the city's proposed ordinance to cover in-home day care, and the speed limit on Eight Mile Road.

The wide variety of issues addressed by the group may help boost its membership. "I think you pull in people with an issue," Carolyn Totten said.

"Anytime a neighborhood's affected, it's possible some people will join you," her husband added. "There are also people who get cockeyed notions. And you listen to them and hope they don't join."

Totten said the group is useful whenever people run into an issue and don't quite know how to deal with it.

"We're a resource," he said. "It's good to have an organization in place."

In one recent issue — whether Griswold Street was an appropriate route for trucks — there was no real consensus within the group. But in a case like that, the Concerned Residents are still available for advice.

"We will help them organize, we will help them set up whatever know-how it takes — and it doesn't take much, obviously — to go to the city government," Totten said. "I'm totally sold on the idea that every neighborhood needs a group as a kind of watchdog . . . (Residents) get very angry, but they don't know what to do. We're there to get the sulking out of people."

The Concerned Residents of Northville may be contacted through Nancy Bohn at 348-5096 or Carol Strauch at 348-8893. This is the first in an occasional series of stories on residents' associations in Northville.

How to Become a Non-Smoker

by Elaine Kissel, Ph.D.

We have all heard of the smoker who suddenly decides to stop smoking, and does. We have also heard of the person who stops smoking after only one session of hypnosis. These cases are interesting because they tell us something about the potential within each individual to achieve a desired goal. But with further investigation we discover that more than 97% of those people go back to smoking within days, months or even years. Some extra stress, trauma or other stimulus even causes them to retreat back to cigarettes.

Cigarette smoking is a coping mechanism, an addiction, and whether it is physical, or emotional, it's an addiction that is difficult to alleviate. Until recently it was socially acceptable and considered harmless. Smoking involves motor as well as psychological processes and is an oral form of satisfaction and seems to relax the smoker. The hazards of smoking are well known yet do very little in many cases to force the relinquishing of cigarettes. Obviously smoking fills many needs.

Many smokers are concerned with weight gain and withdrawal symptoms if they stop.

For these reasons careful and concerned help through hypnosis is most important. One session of hypnosis, as has been said before can initiate the process of change or in some cases help a person act upon a decision with more confidence. However, it is rare that one session of hypnosis can make a non-smoker out of everyone who smokes.

For a hypnotic suggestion followed by one person may have no effect on another, and the same is true for hypnotic inductions. Personalized hypnosis and the learning of self hypnosis and other self-supporting techniques are the answer. And since no habit is simple, and each person is a unique and complex human being, each subject needs to be understood and literally nurtured into becoming a non-smoker. And hypnosis is a superb tool for alleviating withdrawal symptoms and helping the client develop the confidence and coping skills needed to be comfortable in any situation without cigarettes.

The care, concern and specialized attention Elaine offers people to overcome smoking behavior and desires has proven effective. She teaches self hypnosis and Mind Mastery which enables those withdrawing from cigarettes to instantly overcome the urge to smoke and to re-inforce the new attitudes and behavior.

Some people stop smoking after their first sessions of hypnosis with Elaine, however to make the effect permanent, re-inforcement is essential. Other smokers gradually withdraw by cutting down, and here too, reinforcement is all important to reach and maintain the goal.

Elaine encourages natural withdrawal from smoking. That is, she encourages her client's subconscious to enact the change utilizing inner resources in whatever way is most comfortable and effective for the individual.

Learning to be a non-smoker need not be painful or difficult, nor need it result in weight gain. The desire to stop smoking, the personal decision is an important factor though, and without it non-smoking behavior is impossible to effect.

The potential in each person to reach a desired goal can be evoked in hypnosis, NOT FORCED. Yet Elaine has been instrumental in helping people who come to her to stop smoking understand themselves better and therefore make the decision to stop.

Northville Downs continues matinees

Afternoon matinees at Northville Downs are going to continue, but on a basically week-to-week basis, the state racing commissioner's office said Monday.

Afternoon racing at the Downs has been an issue for several months, ever since Racing Commissioner William Cahalan did not include any matinees in his allocation of 1989 harness racing dates. Under protest from the Downs and its fall tenant, Jackson Harness Raceway, Cahalan relented to the point of allowing matinees during January to see how it worked — after which another evaluation would be made.

State Director of Racing Operations Jim Wright said Monday that matinees at the Downs will continue "into February" — but could be cut off at any time if a problem develops.

Cahalan's concern was that Michigan might not have enough horses to support matinees and evening races. Warnings about low horse stock were common at a public hearing on 1989 race dates.

The Downs fought to keep its matinees, though, because they have lately been the only part of the track's business which is improving. Attendance and betting at matinees have been up at the Downs, while nighttime figures have gradually but steadily fallen over the past few years.

"We did four weeks to experiment," Wright said. "We wanted to see if there would be an effect on the horse supply. There hasn't been."

The continuation of matinees has had no adverse impact so far, he added. However, if a problem with horse supply does develop, the matinees may be ended.

In exchange for permission to continue the matinees in January, the Downs had to agree to run fewer evening races.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at the Casterline Funeral Home in Northville. Pastor Robert Banks of Salem Bible Church officiated. Interment was at Lapham Cemetery in Salem Township.

The family would appreciate memorials to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

Council moves to fix alley problems near Baseline

By BOB NEEDHAM

Several steps designed to improve conditions in a local alley were taken by the Northville City Council at a recent meeting.

The council voted 5-0 to spend $4,700 on some work to improve storm water drainage and related concerns in the T-shaped alley, which runs behind Center and Baseline streets around Grace Street. Residents of the area have said that stormwater drainage and flooding, traffic volume, traffic speed and the condition of the alley surface have been an increasing problem over the last few years.

Work approved by the city council during the Monday, Jan. 23 meeting, is considered a temporary solution, to see how much of the problem is solved. The city engineering firm, McNeely & Lincoln Associates, has offered several options for a more permanent solution, but they all include installing a storm sewer at greater cost.

Work approved by the council is in two main parts, closing one end of the alley and regrading the surface.

The first part is closing the west end of the alley behind Baseline at Center Street. This would mean putting in new curb, fill dirt, and seed; costing $1,400.

A report from Robert Warner of

Some residents of the area present at the meeting said the project looked like a good step as it was outlined, but again asked the council to do something else to control traffic in the alley.

McNeely & Lincoln Associates says that this closing will reduce traffic congestion, end traffic cut-throughs, and reduce the rate and volume of storm water runoff.

The second part of the operation is restoring the former grade of the alley. Residents have said that new gravel is regularly dumped in to fill in ruts, but that the higher grade developed over the years causes gravel and large amounts of water to wash into people's yards and basements.

The runoff "is a problem that's continuing, if not getting a little bit worse," Baseline resident Doug Berg said at the council meeting. A recent rain put three or four inches of water in his basement, he said.

According to Warner's report, the regrading will mean the removal of about 160 cubic yards of fill material, and the laying down of 22 tons of crushed limestone for a better driving surface. The work would cost about $3,300.

Once done, that would lower the east-west leg of the alley about a foot and a half, the report says. Stormwater will still collect, but not as much; and the sediment washing into the Baseline back yards should end, the report says.

City Manager Steve Walters said the work might mean some different problems; that is, the city would stop dumping gravel in to fill in any ruts which occur. Simple re-grading will still help fix ruts during most of the year, but when the ground is frozen, they will be a fact of life, Walters said.

Warner recommends monitoring the situation once the work is done, and if drainage is still a problem, considering additional work. That would most likely mean new curbing to direct water to a new storm sewer. Paving might also be an option, although the report recommends against it currently.

The city is footing the bill for the work currently planned, out of its general street maintenance funds. If more work is needed, the city and area residents would probably have to share the cost, Walters said.

Some residents of the area present at the meeting said the project looked like a good step as it was outlined, but again asked the council to do something else to control traffic in the alley.

One engineering option — opening the alley through to Eight Mile — was recommended against because of concerns about making Eight Mile more congested and dangerous, and about more stormwater runoff from the north end of the alley.

Ward plan tabled over parking size

away from the general beauty of the church

"Our concern is looking at all that black top. But, with the proper landscaping, cars can come across Haggerty Road and not look at a parking lot."

Commissioner Barbara O'Brien said she would like to see church officials consider putting some of the parking spaces behind the building.

"I welcome the church (into Northville) because I see it as an opportunity to be an asset to our town," she added. "But I think about the parking lot and I just can't see it. I think even your members will be happier if the parking is put in back."

Commissioner Richard Allen suggested a four to six foot berm on the front and side portion of the parking lot — allowing people entering the township to see the green grass and building — without seeing the black top.

Ward officials seemed agreeable to Allen's suggestion and indicated a berm is on an updated set of plans.

At present, the church is being positioned behind the parking lot because Ward officials said the dimensions of the building prohibit it from being built closer to Six Mile and Haggerty roads. A large retention pond is directly off the northeast corner of Six Mile and Haggerty.

"The long range plan calls for further development and growth of the educational program," Abernethy said. "Combined with that the natural form of the land makes parking in the back not feasible."

Ward officials said during their first site plan submittal two years ago, commissioners indicated then that they wanted the building set farther back off of Six Mile and Haggerty. The building is further off the road in this plan.

Ward studies traffic flow

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

In addition to parking facility concerns, the township planning commissioners identified many other problems with the site plan submitted Jan. 31 by Ward Presbyterian Church.

The commission required Ward officials to conduct a traffic impact study after many planners admitted they had reservations on how the additional traffic would affect the area on Wednesdays and Sundays — peak church days.

"I question whether it won't overburden Six Mile Road by having three entrances on Six Mile and one on Haggerty," said Commissioner Larry Sheehan.

Planner Richard Allen suggested Ward officials get a traffic consultant to look at the situation, "or you'll have the damndest problem on Sundays. I encourage you to get a traffic consultant to look at the flow."

Township Planning Director Carol Henry said the planning commission can require developers to submit a traffic impact study if the project is of large enough magnitude.

Henry said the traffic study will generally concentrate on issues such as trip generation from the building, timing and how much traffic the intersection (Six Mile and Haggerty) can handle.

In total the church will be built on 42 acres of property, with four access points and three main entrances. The building is slated to be over 200,000 square feet.

The church gained preliminary site plan approval two years ago and received a one year extension last January. The project, according to Ward officials, is being delayed because of the lack of a sewer system.

Attorney Harold Larson, who is representing Ward Church, said his group is discouraged over the tabling of the most recent site plan and added the new plan is more or less a refinement of the previously approved plan.

James Abernethy, a Ward member, brought up the fact that the planning commission had already approved a Ward plan and noted this new proposal is much like the previous one.

However many commissioners — new one's especially — expressed their intention of treating Ward's current proposal as a completely new plan without allowing the previous plan to effect the new one.

"This is a new site plan and if you want me to vote on it you must present me with sufficient information," said planner Karen Woodside, who is one of three commissioners (Barbara O'Brien and John Leinonen are the other two) who did not consider the first Ward proposal.

Henry said the commission is looking at the current Ward proposal more closely this time because most of the planners have had a couple of years to consider the plan.

"They've (planners) had an opportunity to look at Ward's current location (Six Mile and Farmington roads) and see what it's like on a Sunday," Henry said. "It's crazy over there. They even have to shuttle-bus people to the church."

Northville barber has retired

On the opposite wall a handwritten poster board sign lists the prices for a haircut — $7; $6 for seniors and children.

"I haven't charged enough," Wigginton commented.

After 15 years of cutting hair in the Northville shop, Wigginton has decided to retire. He plans to pack up his car and travel with his wife, Nellie, to California.

He's made the decision to set aside his shears, but Wigginton will readily admit that he's apprehensive about retiring.

"Even at my age I feel like working," he said. "But common sense tells me it's time to try a few other things. I have faith I'll be able to get back into something if I want to."

Originally from western Kentucky, the slim, easy-going barber currently resides in Livonia. And although he enjoys cutting hair, he hasn't always worked as a barber.

"I had jobs that made good money but I didn't like them," Wigginton said. "A distant relative of mine was a barber and I saw that he enjoyed it so I decided to give it a try."

In 1950 Wigginton enrolled in a barber school and his career evolved from there. For several years Wigginton worked as a barber during the day and dabbled in real estate at night.

"You make a living barbering, but my money came from real estate," he said. "You have to know how to save because there are no benefits."

As a barber, Wigginton said he enjoyed being independent and owning his own business. But most of all he said he liked the people.

"I have seen the town change a lot," he said.

At the same time, Wigginton acknowledged the changes in the hair grooming industry. Most small barber shops have been replaced by large, fancy beauty shops or franchised hair salons.

When Wigginton leaves, Tom Arbanis plans to take over the business. "He'll probably remodel," Wigginton said. "I never got around to it. I enjoyed being here — I liked the people."

Parking credit system is best solution for City

The city last week approved a new price structure for developers to buy parking space credits. The council wisely passed a new two-tiered structure which allows developers who make use of current downtown structures a lower rate than those who use new commercial buildings.

Development

The new agreement puts an end to the variety of prices developers were negotiating with the city for spaces. A certain number of spaces are required for any new commercial development. In the past prices have varied, but most have been near $1,800 per space. This price is lower than the current, actual cost of providing the spaces.

Since parking is one of the most crucial elements for both maintaining and increasing the development of Northville's downtown, a rate structure which actually will cover the expense of creating the new spaces is vital.

And, while the idea of a different rate for different developers may appear on the surface to be unfair — the two-tiered system is the best incentive the city council has to assure that Northville's historic downtown buildings are renovated and maintained, not bulldozed and rebuilt.

Very few cities have a downtown area with the charm and the architecture of Northville's. The 1978 renovation of the Northville downtown area did much to create the atmosphere that exists today. In order to compete with the efficiency of new buildings, the council showed good judgement in offering an incentive to developers who agree to invest in continued renovations.

The expansion or change in use of an existing building will cost the developer $2,350 per space. The expansion must be less than 50 percent of the floor area to fall under this price. New buildings, or expansions over 50 percent, will pay $3,400 per parking space credit. The differences in price fall somewhere between the actual costs of redeveloping new spaces in existing lots and the cost of spaces in a parking deck, according to City Manager Steve Walters.

Each request for parking credits will be treated separately, based on three criteria. This will allow developers an equal and fair determination and will make sure that the community as a whole is best served.

Everyone benefits from tour organizer's work

Another healthy sign for downtown Northville can be found in the increasing number of tour buses pulling down Main Street. Congratulations should go to the effort put in by Genitti's employees, the Northville Chamber of Commerce and volunteer Bruce Turnbull for the tremendous work they do in keeping business booming in Northville.

While we may at times be frustrated over the crowds on the sidewalks at lunchtime, or in the traffic on a summer afternoon, that frustration is actually a positive symbol of entrepreneurship at work. An empty downtown with cleared sidewalks and lots of room at tables for lunch, would soon be a dead downtown.

Those of us who live and work in Northville may find it a bit startling to see visitors from Ontario gazing at us from the windows of tour buses as we walk to the bank. But the town that the visitors see from those buses is alive with history, thanks to the work done by guides like Turnbull. And the historic homes, scenic township, diverse shops and restaurants apparently offer enough variety and interest to keep the buses rolling.

The work done by individuals does make a difference in Northville. When Genitti's first started reaching beyond the immediate area in promoting the restaurant, it promoted the entire town. And by continuing and strengthening that promotion, all aspects of Northville benefit.

A strong and vibrant downtown will do much to keep Northville, both city and township, a great place to live.

Agenda setting

By Phil Ginotti

How do you give people what they want and also give them what they should want to know? How is this done?

Media types constantly wrangle over these questions, and there are rarely any answers. They'll kick some ideas around smugly, then go home without many answers. There aren't any, really.

You want to give most of the people what they want? Fine. Done. You end up with Madonna's dress — the single event that got more coverage than any other while I've covered the Novi/Northville area.

The bigwigs rained down upon this town then, when a teen swiped the dress from the Twelve Oaks Mall last year. Television, radio, major Detroit daily newspapers . . . he . . . this thing got national coverage.

I don't know what my reaction was then, but I remember feeling that what I'm doing here must be terribly pointless if this is the only thing people really care about. The dailies, television people, have pretty good judgment. They give the people what they want, so to speak.

But really, we should be terribly offended by this. This type of thing takes us for extremely stupid people, wagging our heads up and down as if lobotomized. Giving us something to talk about at the supermarket or over cards, and nothing more.

Think of all the things that have happened in the area since and before then. Think of all the challenges this area faces that some assignment editor somewhere has decided just aren't "sexy" enough to merit any coverage. It's very sad.

Which is why I'm announcing a whole new irresponsible campaign of my own. From this day forward, I will ram solid waste issues down your throat, pardon the pun. Call it a "pet" issue, call it an abuse of media power. Lay the blame totally at my feet.

But you aren't reading/hearing enough about this problem, simply because someone has made a value judgment that you just don't care to read about it. They haven't presented why you should care about it though, which leaves me in a quandary.

I think it's big, because within the next few years, people will totally change the way they handle household trash. They will be forced to separate glass, metals, plastics, paper and organics from their trash. That's no secret, though most people, I would say, aren't aware of the magnitude of this.

They also aren't aware of the personal responsibility involved. The days of putting waste by the curb and having it become someone else's problem will end. And there will be great wailing and gnashing of teeth, for a while anyway.

And it's also going to cost you some money. Big money. There are new landfills to build, new incinerators to construct, recycling programs to put in place. All because we didn't seem to care too much about it until we had to.

Whatever. It just seems that the status quo is pretty unacceptable here.

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

She surveyed slowly all that we had done. Finally, she placed her hands on her hips and announced, "At last. It's mine."

She was dead tired. We had been washing and painting since noon, and it was now after midnight. We had stopped only for carry-in pizza. But despite the fatigue, I rather admired her ability to get that note of victory in her voice. Heck, at that point, I rather admired her ability to stand up.

I was in a lot worse shape. Covered with paint. Lying on my stomach. My arm outstretched under the water softener. Applying the last dab of paint to one of those impossible to reach spots with a backhanded flick of the wrist that would have made Boris Becker proud.

"Think I might be able to slip a little question in here, my little Rembrandt?" I asked meekly, beginning to realize that my right arm was lodged securely under the water softener. "What do you mean, 'At last. It's mine?'"

"The house," she answered. "At last it's my house. It has my curtains and my carpets and my furniture. And now it has my paint on every wall. We don't have to live in somebody else's house any more. At last it's ours. We've done everything."

I hadn't thought about it before, but she was right. We bought our humble abode in 1975. And we have lived a lot of years with the former residents' rugs and curtains and paint. Replacing them slowly but surely as funds would permit.

"Then I guess this is something of an auspicious moment, isn't it?" I asked.

"It sure is," she replied.

"I've got one last request," I continued. "Think you might grab hold of my left arm and try to pull me out from under the water softener?"

Library issue needs to be resolved

To the Editor:

The City and Township have waited and fiddled an awfully long time in agreeing on building a new library for this city and township. I would certainly like to see them give a lot higher priority to getting that project decided on and started than they have so far. A library is used by citizens of all ages and it is one of the least controversial and positive uses for which public money can be spent. The present library is in no way adequate for this growing, upscale community.

City Council and Township Board, how about getting off your duffs, making some decisions and scheduling a groundbreaking ceremony for the new building sometime this spring

David Totten

Monitor cable

To the Editor:

I agree with your editorial ("Subscribers stay tuned") suggestion that "... Omnicom should allow interested citizens a voice on that committee as well." The "committee" made up of the city and Omnicom was the idea of Lisa Boland, general manager of Omnicom. Of course Omnicom wouldn't want us mostly irate subscribers on that committee because Omnicom's contract certainly would not be renewed (in four years). Let us citizens keep the heat on Omnicom, the city and township long before four years is up to assure either better and fairer priced cable television or another cable company to replace the sub-par Omnicom service we currently must subscribe to if we want cable TV.

Compared to nearby cable TV companies (e.g. Continental Cablevision), Omnicom's service, policies, procedures and practices are outdated or inadequate. They don't have near the quantity or variety of channel offerings. Their equipment is antiquated or "low tech" and their rates are too high. What more could we not want? And they raise their rates — again!

So let's get our ducks in a row now, let our elected officials know how we feel and start the process of improving our local cable TV service either by Omnicom catching up with the times and having a fairer rate structure or by bringing in another cable TV company. At the same time let's press Omnicom to respond to our demands for the same objectives. If they want to keep us, changes (for the better) must be made.

Parents and kids should learn stress relief

This another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Mary Ellen King, Director of Northville Youth Assistance.

Many adults feel stress on their jobs and in their home situations. Children feel stress at school, at home and with peer relationships. Stress management seminars are advertised, stress self-help books are available, talk shows on TV deal with the subject of stress.

Many adults feel that children do not have anything to feel stressed about, but in reality they do. A 13-year-old girl I interviewed recently told me about a school day experience. She began her day by spilling a glass of milk on her book report. She then did poorly on a spelling test and at lunch some girls teased her about having a crush on a boy.

When she came home from school her mother yelled at her to clean up her room. After doing her chores she started to write her book report again. It was then that she felt a tightness in her chest and the start of a head ache.

This girl needed to learn relaxation techniques in order to feel rested, relaxed and alert. It is important as parents to teach our children relaxation techniques, four of which are outlined below.

• DEEP BREATHING — Close your eyes. Let your arms and shoulders relax, with your mouth closed, breathe for a few seconds. Breathe out slowly through your mouth. Repeat several times.

• IMAGERY — Sit or lie down and close your eyes. Picture yourself in a meadow, at a beach, or in any peaceful place. Imagine the sights, colors, smells and sounds. Enjoy your mental vacation for 10 minutes.

• MEDITATION — Sit comfortably, close your eyes, and breathe slowly and deeply through your nose. Each time you breathe out through your mouth, silently say a word: "one," "place," "rest," or any word you choose. Concentrate on the word and your breathing for 10 — 20 minutes.

• MUSCLE RELAXATION — Lie down. Tighten the muscles in your right arm by making a fist. Hold the tension a moment. Then relax your hand, and enjoy feeling the tension flow away. Repeat with your left arm. In a similar way, tense and relax the muscles in your legs, shoulders, chest, back and face.

It is important for children as well as adults to learn stress management techniques. If you feel that your youngster is under a great deal of stress, call Northville Youth Assistance at 344-1618 and perhaps we can help him/her deal with it better.

Technical difficulties

By Neil Goeghegan

Recent technological advances in the world of electronics usually end up making our lives easier. I mean, what would we do without electric apple peelers and pasta makers? But as a music collector, it makes for some difficult decisions.

Advances in this field, especially in the last five or 10 years, have revolutionized the recording industry. For the first time ever, compact disc sales are now exceeding album sales — and that's really been the biggest change. They call it the digital revolution, and I suppose it is.

The world was obviously ready for a non-friction format with unequaled sound reproduction. But with its introduction came the big dilemma for everyone with stereo equipment: when — or if — to make the jump to CDs and what to do with all the music you already have on other formats.

When CDs first made an appearance, the players and the discs were very pricey, and the selection wasn't great. Old-guard vinyl and tape aficionados dismissed it at first, mainly because they couldn't get a lot of their favorite albums on CD yet. "If I can't get Sonny and Cher's Greatest Hits on CD, I don't want it!" was a common cry.

But in a very short period of time, the CD took off and converts were everywhere. The same people that were dead set against CDs finally broke down. They went out and bought a player for under $200 and then started loading up on their favorites. "I didn't know there was a harmonica solo at the end of Proud Mary," they said.

So that's where we now stand. But unless you have an endless supply of cash, or just won the lottery, the key question is: which discs to buy? Do you try to completely duplicate your album and tape selection with CDs — which is very expensive — or do you buy all those albums you always wanted but never got around to getting. The second choice gives you far more music, but much of it is on a soon-to-be obsolete format. Or is it?

Is the digital format really an obsolete-proof system like they say it is? Sure there is no wear but how do we know these CDs will last forever? I saw an exhibition where a guy put peanut butter on a CD and it still played flawlessly. I'll admit, that was impressive, but what about nuclear fall-out? How does it effect a CD? I can honestly say I've never seen that one tested.

And what is the future for an apparently antiquated format like vinyl records? Are they history like the reel-to-reel tapes and the 78 rpm records are today, and if so, what should we do with them. And what about tapes? Everybody likes them because you can reproduce music onto them, but they wear at a fast rate just like albums. Are they on the way out like albums appear to be?

There is another new breakthrough making waves in Japan right now, and it adds to the confusion. It's called DAT (Digital Audio Tapes), and its basically a combination of CD laser technology in a cassette tape. The tape is played by a laser with superb sound quality, but like conventional tapes, it wears over a period of time. What does this new technology add to the whole picture?

And another thing — will we be able to tape things onto a blank CD some day? And even though it's another area, what about these new High-Definition Televisions I keep hearing about? There are a lot of questions swirling in my head... and... I can't even remember what the original question was. I have a headache.

City defines goals for the coming year

recommendations in the study released a year ago should at least be part of this spring's city budget discussions. The actual work could be phased in.

• Sidewalks — Walters suggested, and the council agreed, that citywide sidewalk repair is important. This would involve both work by individuals as well as city planning for which areas still need sidewalks, and city work on its own sidewalks as well. This may also be phased in.

• City Hall elevator — This project has been proposed and approved using different years' allocations of Community Development Block Grant money, but enough funds have never been together at a single time. Walters' memo indicates that if the city does not act soon on the elevator, it will lose 1986 CDBG money approved for the project.

City officials want an elevator to improve barrier-free access between floors at the municipal building, particularly if the Northville Public Library completes an expected move out and the city uses that space.

• City Hall expansion — A long-planned extension of the west side of the municipal building is also on the goal list, at least to finish a construction plan and financing plan. The idea — for which preliminary drawings already exist — is to extend the police and fire areas to the back of the building. This would allow more adequate movement in the fire hall and an enclosed garage for police cars, officials have said.

• The council members agreed the most important of these three projects is to begin local planning for trash disposal. Wayne County is in the midst of updating a plan — which is expected to require participation by every local community — to reduce the amount of waste going in to landfills by using more recycling, composting, incineration and other techniques. Landfill space is running out, and the new situation may require extra participation from citizens who are used to leaving everything at the curb, Mayor Chris Johnson said.

"Those days are gone in another year and a half, two years," Johnson said. "We're really talking about changing the way we live."

• Second on the city's list of operational changes is a more formal program for regular enforcement of city ordinances for signs, litter, snow removal, property maintenance and the like.

"I would suggest we look at some kind of routine ordinance enforcement," Walters suggested, since the police officers and city building official do not have the time to give adequate attention to those matters.

Such a change could be funded through the building inspection fund by a part-time officer, Walters suggested. "The money's there, really, it's just the staff isn't," he said.

• Next comes a recodification of the city's ordinance book. This is needed for better organization and removal of outdated ordinances, the officials agreed, but can wait. When asked if the project was able to be deferred for a time, Walters replied that "it has been so far."

The project would require significant time from both the city administration and city council, and would also require hiring a special firm to do the recodification, Walters said.

Planning and development

• Tops on this list is settling on a specific redevelopment for the Northville Ford Plant site. The planning is already underway with a specially-commissioned city study.

The council agreed this should be tops in the group because of the timing; Ford wants to see the study as soon as possible.

• Just as important to the council, but a little less pressured in time, was the Cady Street corridor study. This is also underway, and a progress report was scheduled to be delivered to the city planning commission Tuesday.

The study is set to include an overview of downtown parking needs, as well as specific consideration of parking in the Cady area.

• Completing the development phase of a revised city master plan was next on the list. This project is also already funded.

• Finally, the council agreed on including as a goal a review of boundaries and feasibility of expanding the city's Historic District. Walters said such a proposal would probably grow out of master plan discussions.

The district could be extended down the major streets leading into the city — for greater city aesthetic control — and possibly in other areas, Walters said. Some minor changes to cut small areas out of the district might also be considered, he said.

Johnson said such efforts should be done with the consent of the property owners for the area in question. "I'd rather have that be a cooperation-type thing," he said.

Intergovernmental

Ayers' suggested heading included such items as continuing examination of the cooperative services contract between the city and township, more planning in conjunction with Novi and other neighbors, and consideration of a possible new library and park land.

"There needs to be discussion with the township on how that is a li going to relate. I think we need to keep up the dialogue and relationship," Ayers said.

Walters suggested waste management could also fall under this heading, since any such efforts will probably mean several communities working together.

At the end of the session, Walters said he would distill the council discussion down into a revised and prioritized list of goals for the council members.

The goal session was suggested at a recent meeting by Council Member Jerry Mittman, who said such a session might prove fruitful in focusing the city's energy and direction.

Commission Order - CFI 113.89
(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)
Regulations On Tiger Muskellunge

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being section 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission, at its September 8, 1988 meeting, ordered that for a period of five years hybrid Muskellunge, commonly known as the "tiger muskellunge", shall be deemed a muskellunge, and that it shall be unlawful to take or possess tiger muskellunge except in accordance with laws, rules and regulations governing muskellunge.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1989 and shall remain effective through March 31, 1994.

Sam Bazzi of Sam's Cafe is one of the tenants at the Pheasant Run Plaza

Novi convenience center seeks community support

By PHILIP JEROME

"Homeowners, we need you. We are here to serve you. Please come visit us."

That's the message Allie Fayz would like to pass on to residents surrounding the Pheasant Run Plaza near the Grand River/Haggerty Road intersection in Novi.

Fayz is the owner and leasing agent for the 23,500 square foot convenience center which currently has 12 tenants.

And even though he maintains that business is generally good, he admits that he also needs to generate additional traffic for the merchants in the center.

The Pheasant Run Plaza, according to Fayz, is the oldest of a series of convenience-type centers which have sprung up in Novi since 1985.

It opened in May of 1986 with 15 tenants — 12 of which are still in place. The client mix is fairly typical of convenience centers which are designed to meet the day-to-day needs of consumers in the general vicinity.

Pheasant Run, for example, includes a Papa Romanow's Pizzeria, Quick Weight Loss Medical Center, The Box Shoppe (a packaging store), Kentucky Fried Chicken, Bulk Foods of Novi, Wesley Berry Flower Shop, Fantastic Sam's (haircutting salon), Financial Services Inc., Price Point Jewelry, Oxford Tailoring and Clothing and Sir Speedy Printing.

The center initially included a restaurant named Cucina di Pasta, which has moved on and been replaced by another restaurant — Sam's Cafe.

Three of the original tenants — Discount Video, Tropa-Tan and A&M Mart (specializing in vacuum cleaners) — have either gone out of business or moved to other locations, leaving three vacancies in the shopping center at the current time.

Fayz said he is not particularly worried about finding new tenants to replace the three which have left.

Pheasant Run Plaza, he maintains, is a very good convenience center with a nice mix of tenants who are concerned about meeting the needs of the community. He points with pride to a beautification award from the Novi Planning Commission for shopping center design.

At the same time, however, he admits that finding new tenants is tougher than it used to be. Pulling out copies of the Detroit Free Press and Detroit News, he points to small ads in the "Business Opportunities" sections seeking tenants for Pheasant Run Plaza. He also notes that another of the new convenience centers in Novi has an advertisement for tenants on the same page.

"I've never had to do this (advertise for tenants) before," he said. "It used to be that all you had to do was put up a small sign for tenants and you'd get more than enough calls to fill the vacancies."

CAROL MASON, vice president of Red Carpet Keim/Carol Mason in Novi, has been installed as a director of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors and Metro MLS. Mason is pictured above with Eric J. Hunt, 1989 president of the organization.

Mason has been a member of the real estate association since 1976 and currently resides in Novi.

Metro MLS services over 4,500 members in a 1,600 square mile territory in the Detroit metropolitan area.

MICHAEL J. BURNS has been appointed to the position of account manager for Detroit Ball Bearing. The appointment was announced by District Manager Hilary Gross.

A recent graduate of Eastern Michigan University with a BS degree in Industrial Distribution, Burns began his tenure with Detroit Ball Bearing after serving an intensive apprenticeship with the company's veteran marketing personnel.

In his new position, Burns' education and training will provide him with an excellent background for providing his customers with high levels of service and technical assistance.

Detroit Ball Bearing is part of the INVETECH network of industrial distribution companies and is Michigan's largest distributor of bearings, power transmission components, v-belts, electrical drives and controls, and related industrial products.

W. DAVID FOOTE of Milford has been appointed corporate comptroller of AMETEK, Inc. The announcement was made by Allan Kornfeld, senior vice president and chief financial officer of the Fortune 500 industrial manufacturer.

Foote, 48, succeeds Otto W. Richards, who resigned as AMETEK comptroller in November to become chief financial officer of Ketema, Inc., a new company which AMETEK formed and spun off to its stockholders Nov. 30, 1988.

Foote, a Certified Management Accountant, became director of corporate accounting for American Motors four years ago and subsequently, in its merger into Chrysler Corporation, served as manager of accounting transition for the Southfield auto manufacturer. Earlier, Foote held controller and other financial and operations management positions with Sheller Globe Corp., an Ohio manufacturer of automotive parts and Ex-Cell-O Corp., a Michigan manufacturer of automotive parts and machine tool equipment.

A graduate of Bentley College in Waltham, Mass., Foote earned a MBA degree from Northeastern University in Boston. He then graduated from the Program for Management Development at Harvard Business School in Cambridge.

Foote, his wife Helen and three of his five children will be relocating to the Chester County, Pa., area where he will work from AMETEK's headquarters.

LELAH HAYES of Highland has been awarded the free use of a pink Buick Century by Mary Kay Cosmetics, Inc.

Hayes, a Mary Kay independent sales director, was awarded the car in recognition of her leadership and sales achievements with the Dallas-based cosmetic company. She led her sales unit to exceed specified sales levels during a six-month qualification period.

UNITED INSURANCE GROUP CASUALTY of South Lyon has joined the Independent Insurance Agents of Michigan (IIAM), which is headquartered in Lansing. Charles Marriott is president of the agency.

Through his affiliation with IIAM, Marriott subscribes to a professional code of business ethics and receives the benefits of membership in Michigan's largest organization of insurance agencies representing 7,000 insurance professionals statewide.

RUSSELL E. NELSON of Northville has been re-elected President of the American Fund for Dental Health. The Chicago-based $2 million dollar fund-raising organization supports dental research, education and public service.

Two programs financed by the fund this year include a program to help dentists reduce patient fear in the dental office and a project to train the dental team to identify and refer potential child abuse victims.

Nelson has held a leadership role with the American Fund for

STEPHEN GALLANIS

Dental Health (AFDH) for over 12 years having served as treasurer and vice president, as well as a member of the executive committee and the board. Nelson is the first non-dentist to serve as president of the fund in over 25 years.

Prior to his retirement in 1987, Nelson served as president of the Kerr Manufacturing Company headquartered in Romulus and Group Executive of the Sybron Corporation.

For the past seven years, Nelson has been appointed to represent the dental industry as a member of the Industry Advisory Committee to the U.S. Secretary of Commerce on International Trade. Nelson has been chairman of the Board of the American Dental Trade Association and is an associate member of the American Dental Association.

A Detroit area native, Nelson graduated in 1942 from Walsh College in Troy and currently serves as a Walsh College Trustee. He later completed the Executive Development Program of the Graduate School of Business Administration at the University of Michigan.

Nelson and his wife, Virginia, reside in Northville.

STEPHEN GALLANIS, CPA, of Novi has been promoted to a manager at Schmaltz & Company, P.C., Certified Public Accountants and Business Consultants.

A graduate of Michigan State University, Gallanis has been with the firm's accounting and auditing group since 1981.

Tax laws can benefit older Americans

If you are an older American, you may be able to strengthen your financial position by learning how to make the tax law work for you. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a little knowledge can go a long way in making your tax bill more manageable.

HIGH STANDARD DEDUCTION: First of all, if you are at least age 65 (or blind) and do not itemize on your tax return, you qualify for an extra standard deduction. For married individuals filing jointly, the 1988 standard deduction is $5,000 plus an additional deduction of $600 per qualified spouse.

For single taxpayers, the standard deduction is $3,000 plus an extra $750. The additional deduction doubles for anyone who is both elderly and blind.

TAX CREDIT FOR THE ELDERLY OR PERMANENTLY DISABLED: Elderly taxpayers with a low annual income may also qualify for a special tax credit — worth as much as $750 for single individuals and $1,125 for married couples. (Taxpayers under 65 who retired with a permanent and total disability may likewise qualify for this credit.)

The credit is based on a taxpayer's income, filing status, age and spouse's age (if the taxpayer is married). As a general rule, if you are single with an adjusted gross income (AGI) exceeding $17,500 or married, filing jointly with a combined AGI over $25,000, you are ineligible for the credit. Similarly, you can be disqualified if your non-taxable Social Security or pension benefits exceed certain limits.

For those who do qualify, be warn-

Money Management

Figuring the amount of the credit requires a sharp pencil or trusty calculator. To summarize, the tax credit is 15 percent of a "base amount," minus any non-taxable pension benefits you receive (including Social Security) and one-half of any adjusted gross income exceeding $7,500 if single or $10,000 if married.

For 1988, the base amount is $5,000 for qualified single taxpayers, heads of household or qualifying widow or widowers; $5,000 for married couples filing a joint return if only one spouse qualifies for the credit, or $7,500 if both qualify; and $3,750 for certain qualified couples who file separately.

EXCLUSION OF GAIN FROM SELLING A HOUSE: If you are a homeowner, your age may be the key to another tax break as well — one that can unlock the profits in your home. If you are at least age 55 and meet certain ownership and use requirements, the once-in-a-lifetime exclusion-of-gain provision can enable you to avoid paying tax on up to $125,000 of the profit realized from selling your principal home.

Be sure that you thoroughly understand this critical tax break. Used properly, the $125,000 exclusion of gain can help you secure a financially sound retirement. Unfortunately, too many taxpayers unwillingly squander the exclusion simply because they failed to get all the facts. Sarah and Frank found that out the hard way.

Sarah was widowed at age 55. At that time, she sold her home at a $130,000 profit and moved into a rented apartment. To lower her tax bill, she claimed her $125,000 exclusion of gain. Three years later, she met and married Frank, age 62. During their first few months of marriage, the couple sold Frank's home for $250,000 and bought a condominium in Florida for $150,000. Frank's gain on the sale of his house, after buying the condominium, was $100,000. When it came time to file his taxes, Frank wanted to exclude the gain from his income, but could not.

What Frank and Sarah hadn't realized was the $125,000 exclusion-of-gain provision is allowed only once in a lifetime per individual or per couple. Because he sold the home after marrying Sarah rather than before, Frank could no longer claim the exclusion — even though he had never used it before. Since their combined income puts them into the 33 percent tax bracket, Frank and Sarah's misunderstanding of tax law could cost them as much as $33,000.

HANDLING LUMP-SUM DISTRIBUTIONS: When it comes to costly mistakes, few are greater than mishandling a lump-sum distribution from your employer's retirement plan. Unfortunately, tax reform has not made this task any easier.

If you were not at least age 50 before Jan. 1, 1986, and you receive a lump-sum distribution before age 59½, you have only two choices: pay taxes on the distribution or roll the funds over into an IRA or other qualified retirement plan. On the other hand, if you were at least age 50 before Jan. 1, 1986, and you participated in your employer's retirement plan for a minimum of five years, your options generally include a tax-free rollover, five-year averaging at 1988 rates or 10-year averaging at 1986 rates.

Complicating matters further, you have to decide whether to roll the funds over within 60 days. After that time, the funds will be treated — and taxed — as regular income.

Paul, for example, retired in 1988 and received a lump-sum distribution of $250,000 from his employer's pension plan. While considering his options, Paul deposited the distribution check in his savings account. Sixty-four days later, Paul decided to roll his funds into an IRA. But his decision came too late. Because he missed the 60-day deadline, Paul has to pay taxes on the entire $250,000 — which can be as much as $82,500 since he is in the 33 percent bracket.

If you are faced with a lump-sum distribution, your best bet is to discuss your options with a tax expert. He or she can determine which method will result in the best after-tax return.

Wachler jewelry store stresses satisfaction

Do you remember the days when you could get personal service from the owner of a business who was willing to go out of his way to make sure you were satisfied with his products?

Well, now you can find that kind of special attention and pride in fine work at David Wachler & Sons Jewelers which opened recently in the Novi Town Center.

Family-owned and operated, the store features quality merchandise, custom designs and customer-oriented personal service.

"Our reputation comes from 65 years of satisfied customers in the greater Detroit metropolitan area that my father and uncle and their father before them, David Wachler, built from a small shop in downtown Detroit where they made custom jewelry," said Buzz Wachler, owner of the new store.

"Now we have two sons and four grandsons carrying on that tradition for a wide range of customers from all over the area who shop at our stores in downtown Birmingham, the Renaissance Center in Detroit and, now, our new store in Novi."

Sparkling diamonds can be found in the store in everything from diamond stud earrings to engagement and wedding rings to loose stones that can be put into custom settings.

"We do a lot of work in specially designed engagement rings and wedding bands," Wachler noted. "If a customer comes in and wants something, if we don't have it, we can make it for him."

"We are very service oriented and there is always a Wachler on site, either my cousin Gary or myself, who customers can talk to about their purchases."

Watches are featured in a circular boutique area in one section of the store and come in a wide variety of styles such as Seiko, Jaz, Pulsar II, Baume & Mercier, Ebel, Omega, Cartier, Raymond Weil and Daniel Mink.

"We have gift items that range from a $30 pair of earrings to a $1,000 watch or a $5,000 diamond necklace," said Wachler. "We encourage customers to come in and just look around because, although we have all price ranges, we have very high standards for all the merchandise we carry. We offer very good quality jewelry at competitive prices."

The store design also reflects those high standards with its marble foyer entrance, soft grey and burgundy interior and the 30 display cases which house thousands of pieces of jewelry of all kinds that Wachlers has been making and stocking since June especially for the Novi store.

"We picked Novi for our new store because of the growth in the area," said Wachler. "We have existing customers from this general area and knew it could use a store like ours. We wanted to broaden our customer base and expect customers to come from Novi, Northville, Farmington, West Bloomfield, Livonia, Plymouth, Brighton and even Ann Arbor."

David Wachler & Sons Jewelry is located on the west side of the Town Center next to Borders Books in the copper-domed building at 43251 Crescent Drive.

CPAs offer retirement planning advice

"Old age is the most unexpected of all the things that happen to a man," wrote Leon Trotsky more than 50 years ago.

That saying certainly holds true today for the vast majority of Americans who postpone retirement planning until the last moment.

As a result, only five percent of all Americans are financially independent at age 65. In fact, according to the U.S. Department of Commerce, approximately 75 percent of all retirees end up depending on family, friends and Social Security as their only sources of income or support.

If you find these statistics frightening, the Michigan Association of CPAs advises you to begin investing for your retirement now, no matter how far in the future your retirement may be.

A financially-fit retiree will generally draw income from four basic sources — Social Security, an employer-sponsored retirement plan, personal retirement savings accounts and other investment holdings.

One of the most common financial mistakes Americans make is assuming that Social Security can provide sufficient retirement income all by itself. Undoubtedly, many retirees could not afford to live without Social Security. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services estimates that 60 percent of the population over age 65 would have incomes below the poverty level if they did not receive Social Security.

But Social Security was never meant to serve as a retiree's sole means of support. Social Security just provides the foundation for your retirement funds. It's your responsibility to build on that foundation.

Where should you start? First, check your employer's pension plan to see how much money you can expect to receive upon retirement or separation from the company. But even if the pension plan seems extremely generous, remember that the benefit of your employer-sponsored retirement program may be significantly reduced if you do not remain with the company long enough to become fully vested.

In light of this fact, and the uncertainty concerning the future health of the Social Security system, personal retirement savings plans may become the most important vehicle for accumulating funds for your golden years.

Although IRAs' acclaim as an investment tool suffered a blow due to tax reform, there are still benefits to investing in them. First of all, many people can still deduct at least a portion of their IRA contributions. As long as you are not covered by a retirement plan, you may contribute and deduct the maximum amount allowed, regardless of income.

If you (and your spouse, if you are filing a joint return) are not an active participant in a qualified retirement plan, you can contribute and deduct up to $2,000 of your earnings.

If your spouse does not earn any compensation for the year, you may contribute up to $2,250 to a spousal IRA. And if both you and your spouse are employed, you can each contribute up to $2,000 of your earned income to your own accounts.

If you or your spouse are covered by a retirement plan, you may still contribute to an IRA, but the amount you may deduct will depend on your adjusted gross income (AGI). If you are single and your AGI is $25,000 or less, you may continue to deduct up to $2,000 for an IRA.

Likewise, if you are married and your joint AGI is $40,000 or less, you can still deduct up to $4,000 if you both work and each earns at least $2,000.

Single taxpayers with adjusted gross incomes between $25,000 and $35,000, and married couples with adjusted gross incomes between $40,000 and $50,000, may partially deduct IRA contributions.

Even if you can't deduct any of your contributions, IRAs nevertheless offer several significant advantages. You can control how much you contribute, where you invest and how aggressive or conservative your investment should be.

In addition, your IRA savings will grow and compound tax-deferred until withdrawal, thus building your retirement funds faster than you could through many other regular investment channels.

Another highly recommended method for building retirement savings is deferred compensation plans, often referred to as 401(k) plans. In 1988, the maximum amount you can contribute to a 401(k) plan is $7,313. The delightful aspect of 401(k) plans is that whatever amount you contribute is automatically sliced off your taxable income.

In other words, if you earn $40,000 a year and contribute $4,000 to a 401(k) plan, you will report only $36,000 on your income tax return. In addition, all interest and dividends are again tax-deferred. If your employer will match a portion of your contributions, consider yourself doubly lucky and contribute as much as you can afford.

If you are self-employed, concentrate on setting up a Keogh retirement plan. In most cases, your deposits will be tax deductible — and your savings will compound with all interest tax-deferred. Depending on the type of Keogh you establish (a defined-contribution pension plan, a defined-benefit plan, or a profit-sharing plan), you can contribute up to approximately 13 to 20 percent of your net self-employment earnings.

Saving for your retirement will undoubtedly require investigation of various investment options. CPAs suggest that you choose low-risk investments that offer you the opportunity to reduce your taxable income and accumulate savings with all interest or gain tax-deferred or tax-free. Alternatives to consider include annuities, municipal bonds, EE savings bonds and certain life insurance policies.

Major retailers offer diverse job opportunities

While many people have worked as clerks or cashiers for retail stores, they often don't think of the diverse job possibilities these organizations offer.

Yet, Perry Freelon, employment specialist for Meier, Inc., says a retail operation is like a city, requiring a variety of jobs.

"We have almost a whole building full of computer professionals, and we also have our own legal staff," said Freelon. In addition, Meier employs truck drivers, warehouse workers, accountants and office clerks.

Success in an organization such as Meier requires that employees be comfortable around people, said Freelon. "They need to be able to communicate ideas effectively and concisely. And a friendly smile never hurts," he added.

Everyone who works in a store, including the store manager, must be prepared to work a variety of hours, said Freelon.

"Many of our customers work nine to five, Monday through Friday," he said. "They shop on evenings, they shop on weekends. We find that even our Sunday business has grown. That's when we need our best people there."

Freelon sees opportunities for advancement in an organization such as Meier. He suggests that a degree in business, merchandising, management or communications would provide skills necessary to be a good manager.

"Because of the activity with customers and the fact you are making decisions very rapidly, it can be an exciting career," said Freelon.

We have the grounds for living in the country.

At Country Club Village of Northville, you'll see the most desirable colonial and ranch homes. Truly beautiful.

But there are other grounds for living in this quaint village setting. An expansive new lifestyle, blending pleasurable activities and welcome leisure.

Golf—at your front lawn

Homeowners at Country Club Village can play 9 relaxing holes of golf at the adjoining course.

A lively way of life

The Village's private recreation center lets you put more life in your life. You can splash around in a sparkling swimming pool or perfect your backhand and serve on an exclusive tennis court.

If nature is your entertainment enjoy unhurried walks on our luxuriant grounds.

Take it easy

Life at Country Club Village is easier, too. Just lay back and watch someone else mow your lawn or shovel your snow.

The best of town and country

You might think that this peaceful country club existence is far from everything.

Actually, it's just a quick spin from business and an exciting array of shops—from the sleek modern to the antique.

Come to Country Club Village. Where living is a great experience. Every day.

WHAT OTHER CHARITY WOULD SIT UP, ROLL OVER AND BEG FOR YOUR MONEY?

The animals at the Michigan Humane Society are prepared to do whatever tricks it takes to gain your support.

They'll sit up for your donation which provides shelter, love, medical care and emergency rescues for thousands of sick, injured, abused and abandoned animals.

They'll roll over for a contribution that helps cover the expenses of investigation and prosecuting thousands of cruelty cases every year.

They're begging for your money. Do you have the heart to send them away empty-pawed?

Passion

His

Passion. Love. Passionate love. He knew he had a firm grasp of what it was and what it wasn't. Or at least he thought he knew. And when he wasn't sure, he rarely expended much energy thinking about it.

It was much easier just to clear it from his mind. After all, there was business at hand — business that was always intense and demanding. Business that seldom offered a break or a warm pat on the back or words of reassurance. A haven. It wasn't there.

This was a world that was oftentimes cold and heartless. And there was only one place where it wasn't like that at all. A secret place, where he could act like himself. Or something like that.

It meant talking like he never did anywhere else. It meant talking about things he would never talk about. Never ever. Or doing things he wouldn't dare do anywhere else.

It was with her. And it wasn't a place. It was a presence. Her presence.

But was this "himself?" Or just some sort of bizarre "anti-self." An expression of the opposite extreme of what he stood for — what he was. Did he act like this bizarre opposite extreme, or was this simply a valid middle ground of what he was. Was this what he was?

He saw candlelight dinners as a necessary acquiescence to her. It made her feel happy and warm and he knew that. But even then, there was a tingle, a dull throb in the pit of his stomach every once in awhile. He discounted it. The feeling was quite unexplainable, and impossible to admit to. No, this dinner was an acquiescence to her femininity. That's all.

He could never quite grasp why she got so emotional at movies, but she did. She cried during "Bambi" — he laughed at her for just an instant and rolled his eyes. And almost as it was happening, he felt guilty. He would feel guilty forever for laughing at her just then. He felt guilty most of all because he honestly felt terribly sad when he saw the tears well up in her eyes.

She never reminded him about laughing as she cried in the movie theater, even though she thought about it and he thought about it at every movie they went to from that day forward.

This is why he spent little energy thinking about it. It was terribly divisive. Disturbing. And most of all, difficult to comprehend.

He knew he felt terribly special when she pouted and pursed her lips about having to sit through a basketball game. He felt a warm feeling inside when he turned the doubleplay or blasted one out of the park in the softball games Saturday, knowing she was watching from the stands. But he couldn't let it on to anyone else. That would be a disaster.

He considered himself to be a lot like any other male. It was a somewhat distorted view. He rarely liked to look at pictures of himself, but occasionally he would study them very closely. He would note the shortcomings only briefly, then clear them from his mind.

But he, overall, was comfortable.

He would think a lot about her, then clear it from his mind. After all there was business at hand.

But she would be back. It always seemed to happen that way. He really didn't have an answer why.

Hers

It's in the way he moves his head. The touch of his hand. The brush of his lips. His skin against yours.

That's passion.

There is a scale to passion. Grand and glorious passion happens seldom. More often days are sent in pursuit of the smaller passions — the intimacy and the sweetness that are the stuff of everyday life.

But passion, the driving force between a man and a woman, is there — right from the start.

When a woman notices a man for the first time, it's a combination of sensations and tiny details that start the spark. There is a feeling of anticipation, of fear and of excitement. A casual meeting of the eyes and it all begins.

Passion. It's in the way he walks and how he speaks. It's the sound of his voice and the way he makes you blush. It rushes through you the first time you look into his eyes and see his smile. It's the flushed feeling you get when he's near.

Hot and sweaty, tender and sweet, quick and fiery. Passion is the sun and the moon and the stars and the sky. It's whatever two people make of it.

But for all the passionate moments of life, for all the times when the world swam with the touch of his lips — there is a stronger passion, an enduring one.

Because passion is also lifelong.

It's waking up together, sharing ice cream cones, steamy showers and foot massages. It's making dinner together and hanging around to share cereal in the morning. Passion is watching him shave and stealing his favorite sweatshirt to wear on Saturday after he's left. There is passion in the birth of a child and in the thousands of crises a couple endures on its way through the world.

Passion ebbs and flows with relationships, starting hot and sweaty, ending tender and sweet.

Passion is romance. It's flowers and notes. Long love letters sent when he's out of town. It's the smell of his after shave left on the pillow case.

It's candlelight and soft music. A fire glowing in the grate. Wine glasses empty and the conversation grows slower. The dishes wait on the table. For one night passion takes on the old meaning — desire and love combine in two people.

Passion reverberates throughout a relationship. It's there the first time he says "I love you" and it's there the first time you fight. For passion is anger. It's hurting words and slamming doors. There is nothing as bitter or as passionate as two people in love who are angry. No one knows better where the weak parts are, where to jab the tender spots and how to cause the tears to flow.

And no one knows how to make up better. The quiet coming together. The stroke of his hand against your forehead. The sound of "I'm sorry," and the gentle smile that tugs at your heart.

Passion is as simple as you and he talking. The sharing of dreams and of days. It's as complex as two lives joining, the intertwining of hearts and families.

It's in the way he moves his head. The touch of his hand. The brush of his lips. His skin against yours.

That's passion.

Q:

Have you missed snow this winter?

Four said: "Yes"
Six said: "No"

"Yes, I like to ski and snowmobile."
"Michigan without snow in the winter is weird."
"It's been a nice break from shovelling."
"I played golf once this winter and I can't wait for spring."
"I can't wait for opening day at Tiger Stadium."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of this newspaper.

Shoebridge volunteers

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Northville's Wynn Shoebridge has been known to bring a sunny smile to patients at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

A volunteer for Catherine McAuley Health Center, Shoebridge began donating time at the hospital when she heard about its Art A La Cart program.

"The project really excited me," Shoebridge said. "Patients look forward to the cart coming around."

The program involves volunteers bringing art to patients' units, enabling them to select a print to hang in their rooms.

Shoebridge said most of her visits were to terminally ill patients or to those with long-term illnesses. In a soft-spoken voice, she's quick to admit that the patients often have a more positive attitude about their hospital stay than she might.

Volunteering for the hospital isn't the only thing that keeps Shoebridge busy. She also volunteers two mornings a week for the South Lyon schools. And she has given her time to the homebound meal program in Novi.

"Each one (volunteering activity) has its own reward," Shoebridge said. "You feel good when you come home. It's very satisfying for me."

Shoebridge became acquainted with volunteer work by contacting Schoolcraft College's Women's Resource Center. She worked at the center before moving on to other volunteering projects.

"People at the Resource Center really steered me in the right direction," she commented. "I didn't know what to do with myself before going there."

An advocate of volunteering, Shoebridge said giving time to worthy programs is beneficial in many ways.

"Everywhere I've gone, people have been wonderful — not only the people I meet, but the people I've worked with."

In Our Town

Historical Society
renews a tradition

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Northville Historical Society is reawakening a community tradition.

The Society proudly presents the revival of its popular Progressive Dinner, which will be held Saturday, March 11.

The progressive dinner will take the place of the Society's annual dinner dance.

Similar progressive dinners were hosted by the Society in 1982, 1983 and 1984 (Sonja Lane was chairperson of the event in 1982 and 1983 JoAnn Dalziel was chairperson of the 1984 event.)

The progressive dinners were then replaced with a dinner dance in 1985. Dinner dances were held in consecutive years until 1988. This year's progressive dinner will once again be coordinated by Dalziel.

Donation for the event is $35 per couple for members of the Northville Historical Society and $40 for non-members. In addition, those attending will be asked to provide a designated dish toward the dinner.

Proceeds from the evening will benefit the restoration of the Cady Inn at Mill Race Historical Village.

The evening will begin with cocktails at either the Yerkes House or the new Church building at Mill Race Village from 7 to 8 p.m.

Guests will then proceed to their designated dinner home — one of 17 homes in Northville participating in the festivity — from 8:30 to 10:15 p.m. The final stop for the 204 dinner guests will be at one of the four pre-assigned dessert homes, from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m.

Prior to March 11, guests can expect to receive their home assignments, recipe assignments and copies of all recipes to be served. Pre-registration for Society members was conducted on Feb. 6.

Reservations are open to the community beginning Feb. 9 and will be accepted until Feb. 15. Reservations will be taken by Laurie Marrs at 348-5933 or 349-7640. A check payable to the Northville Historical Society confirms the reservation.

As in the past, the Society will compile a waiting list because last-minute cancellations have proved a need for extra names.

All guests will be treated to the same menu, which was created by Linda Heaton and Barb Sixt.

Appetizers served at Mill Race will consist of Wine Punch, Honey Mustard Pinwheels, Skewered Tortellini, Mushroom Croustades and Open Face Cucumber Rounds.

Dinner will include Chicken Breasts Stuffed with Prosciutto and Fresh Mozzarella Cheese, Broccoli California, Spinach Salad With Strawberries and Oranges, Sabayon Dinner Rolls and Wine.

Dessert will be Fudge Almond Torte with Ice Cream, Coffee and Tea.

The 17 dinner home hosts and hostesses are:
Mary Bandyke and Steve Ball, 315 Griswold.
Linda and Kevin Clark, 1027 Springfield.
Mary Jane and Mark Cryderman, 206 W. Dunlap.
Biz and Fran Gazlay, 221 S. Rogers.
Sandy and John Rae, 146 S. Rogers (Ravine Cottage).
Mary Ann and Jim Smith, 412 W. Dunlap.

JoAnn Dalziel, left, visits with Meg Coponen, one of the hostesses for the 1989 Northville Historical Society's Progressive Dinner.

Carole Jean and Bill Stockhausen, 218 W. Dunlap.
Joan Wadsworth and Steve Calkins, 317 W. Dunlap.
Mary and Chuck Keys, 502 W. Main.
Barb and Al Glover, 404 W. Main.
Meg and Walt Coponen, 495 W. Cady.
Nancy and Dick Bohn, 220 N. Wing.
Phyllis and Anthony Heckemeyer, 630 Potomac.
Jean and Blake Couse, 20355 Woodhill.
Linda and Jim Aaron, 45977 Pickford.
Kay and Tom Moilanen, 18332 Laraugh.
Sue and Bob Nix, 18276 Arselot.
Dessert will be served at the homes of:
Susan Sommer and Don Mroz, 501 W. Dunlap (Atchison House).
Cheryl and Chris Gazlay, 718 Grandview.
Martha and Jim Nield, 18234 Arselot.
Laurie and Terry Marrs, 45730 Fermaugh.
Dalziel, chairperson of the Northville Historical Society 1989 Progressive Dinner, said she looks forward to the enthusiastic participation that the Society has experienced in the past.

Center seeks volunteers

Northville's Our Lady of Providence Center for the developmentally impaired is currently accepting volunteers to assist its staff.

Volunteers are needed to supervise the girls in Our Lady of Providence Center's workshop program. The program enables the girls to acquire vocational skills.

Training will be provided to all interested volunteers. Hours are flexible and all age groups of volunteers are welcome, from teens to retirees.

Volunteers interested in assisting as workshop aides or in other volunteer assignments are encouraged to call Sister Theresa at 453-1300 for more information.

Our Lady of Providence is at 16115 Beck Rd. in Northville.

Honor roll released by Our Lady of Victory School

PTA News is published weekly in the Record. This week's news is from Our Lady of Victory. Any school interested in publishing its PTA or school news in the Record should contact the newspaper at 349-1700.

The Partners in Excellence (PIE) Reading Program began on Monday, Jan. 23 and will continue for the next seven weeks. Children in every classroom will be reading books with the goal of a new encyclopedia in each classroom.

On Friday, Jan. 27 all students enjoyed a pop and pizza party, compliments of Mr. Sid Grutza for achieving our goal in the candy sale. Thank you Mr. Grutza.

Our Lady of Victory School hosted an open house on Thursday, Feb. 2, in honor of Catholic Schools Week. Parents were invited to attend from 10-11 a.m. and enjoyed coffee and doughnuts outside the office, while viewing the excellent work of our students.

The second quarter ended on Friday, Jan. 20. The following students achieved the honor roll recognition in this quarter:

In fourth grade, Emerson Addison, Michael Andersen, Timothy Burke, Christine Buser, Meghan Cautillo, Anthony Fessler, Lauren Gugala, John-Curtis Hammerle, Kristy Hoffman, Lyndsay Huot, Jacqueline Korreck, Denise Larabell, Eric Lemieux, Sarah Matthews, Marc McDonald, Jenny McMullen, Erik Myers, Dana Novara, Kelly O'Reilly, Jessica Voogd, Scott Welcher, Craig Winowiecki, Kristen Witt, Jeffrey Woodside, Jonathan Woodsum, Sarah Wright and Michael Zelenock.

In fifth grade, Nicole Acciaoli, Eric Brevik, Michael Clancy, Lisa Cousineau, Carrie Dalziel, Joshua Grutza, Rebecca Haas, Casey Holtschneider, Jennifer King, Rick Kowal, Kathryn Mittman, Paul Moore, Jessica Pereira, Emily Reardon, Sharyn Sanderson, Erica Slayton, Bradley Swanson, Lisa Wisniewski.

Sixth graders named to the honor roll were Lauren Agoston, Sarah Andersen, Brian Buser, Cara Cecil, Dominic Fracassi, David Fuelling, Megan Goebel, Kevin Heintz, Mary Hubert, Michael Kramarczyk, John Martin, Gregory Obrecht, Kathleen Reardon, Brian Shapona, Rachel Stockhausen, Kate Walle, Trudy Warborg and Stephanie Wright.

Seventh graders included Mary Pat Bahl, Erica Brevik, John Buser, Pam Clancy, Erin Dunn, Paul Fessler, John Holtschneider, Karyl Jordan, Kelly Korreck, Pat McClanahan, Nicole Mills, Kevin O'Reilly, Julie Pond, Ellen Tomica and Shannon Wehah.

Eighth graders included Becky Albanese, Kelly Berger, Amy Bott, Leah Criner, Maggie Crotteau, Brandon Dalziel, Mike Dorrington, Kevin Jakubowski, Kristi McKenna, Julie McMullen, Betsy Monczka, Denny Mullally, Andy Radzialowski, Sara Tambornini, Aaron Voogd, Lisa Weidenbach and Katie Wright. Congratulations to all.

Grades 5-8 participated in the National Geography Bee recently. The Bee, sponsored by National Geographic World, addresses the broad subject matter of geography.

Answers are usually a word or phrase. Questions focused on utilizing such tools of geography as maps, charts, graphs and photographs. The top five winners in each class participated in the OLV Bee on Wednesday, Jan. 18. The winner will take a multiple choice qualifying exam. The top 100 students will advance to the state level in April. State winners will advance to Washington D.C. in May. The national champion will receive a $25,000 college scholarship. The students participating in our school final are:

Fifth graders: Emily Reardon, Lisa Wisniewski, Casey Holtschneider, Joshua Grutza and Sharyn Sanderson; sixth graders: Brian Buser, Dominic Fracassi, Rachel Stockhausen, Trudy Warborg and Mary Hubert; seventh graders: Kelly Korreck, Paul Fessler, Patrick McClanahan, Pamela Clancy and Kevin O'Reilly; eighth graders: Brandon Dalziel, Lisa Weidenbach, Betsy Monczka, Maggie Crotteau and Kelly Berger.

OLV School has sent for membership into the Society of Prayer for World Peace. The society has been working toward the attainment of global peace and harmony through the movement. Membership is open to all those who endorse and support the movement which includes the Peace Pole Project. Our school has ordered a Peace Pole with the message "May Peace Prevail on Earth" in three languages. Peace Poles are four-sided obelisk shaped poles decorated with the message. The planting of the pole acts as an expression for our love for humanity and wish for global peace. Our Peace Pole should arrive soon and will become a permanent fixture at our school.

Wednesday, Jan. 25, was our school spelling bee. Participants were; Grade 5: Sharyn Sanderson, Kathryn Mittman, Rick Kowal, Casey Holtschneider, Becky Haas; Grade 6: Kevin Heintz, Derrick Okonmah, Ryan McKenna, Trudy Warborg, Sarah Andersen; Grade 7: Erica Brevik, Karyl Jorday, Pamela Clancy, Annette Hohl, Scott Sanderson; Grade 8: Kelly Berger, Julie McMullen, Maggie Crotteau, Lisa Weidenbach, Amy Bott.

The winner was Pamela Clancy with the runner-up being Maggie Crotteau. Pam will now represent O.L.V. at the regionals to be held in early March. Good luck Pam.

Catholic Schools Week was celebrated the week of Jan. 30. The Theme was Communities with memories — Putting Excellence to Work. The calendar of events was: Monday: Sweat suit day with a 50 cent donation used for the purchase of a Peace Pole. Bruce Turnball spoke to grades 5-8 about the history of Northville. Wednesday: Student Council sponsored a luncheon for the teachers. Thursday: Open House was held for parents from 10-11 a.m. Friday: An all-school mass was celebrated at 9:15 a.m. Students in all grades also participated in an essay or poster contest centering on the theme for the week.

The following students will represent O.L.V. on Feb. 4, at the Math Invitational: Brandon Dalziel, Kelly Berger, Stefan Scherkenbach, Pamela Clancy. Good luck students!

Single Place to welcome presentations by two noteworthy speakers

Single Place presents "Body Broadcasts" with noted speaker Paul Seaser on Sunday, Feb. 12 at 7 p.m.

Seaser's presentation will focus on the non-verbal body language we all use. He'll shed light on body language by helping his audience understand what their friends, lover, customers and supervisor are really feeling behind the words they use.

Seaser is no stranger to Single Place and is a frequent guest on radio and television talk programs. He organized one of the largest singles programs in the downriver area and speaks at many adult community programs.

A $3 donation is requested of those attending the program. Child care will be provided.

Single Place will also host a special presentation by Michael Wickett, a master motivator who will speak about the topic "Tap More of Your Potential" on Saturday, March 18 from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Wickett speaks throughout the country, sharing ideas of how to develop the best within ourselves. This special three-hour Saturday morning seminar will cost $15. Call the Singles Hotline at 349-6474 to make reservations.

Also upcoming is a special seminar about the popular book "The Road Less Traveled," by M. Scott Peck, M.D.

The book is a new psychology of love, traditional values and spiritual growth. Speakers featured during the seminars include Dr. William Greenman, Dr. Robert Erard, Dr. J. Harold Ellens and the Rev. Ray Lumley.

Seminars will be held at the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church in Northville on Wednesday, Feb. 15, 22, March 1, 8, 15 and 22 at 7:30 p.m.

On Wednesday, Feb. 15, Dr.

Gratia Kay Lousma visited recently with the Northville Woman's Club

Libraries sponsor Spina's appearance

One of America's most distinguished photojournalists, Tony Spina, will speak at the third annual book and author luncheon sponsored by the Friends of the Northville, Novi and Plymouth public libraries on Tuesday, March 7.

The luncheon will take place at the Novi Civic Center, 45175 Ten Mile Road, at noon. It will be catered by Novi's Home Sweet Home Restaurant.

Spina's presentation will feature slides of some of his finest work. He is the chief photographer for the Detroit Free Press and special assistant to the managing editor.

A winner of more than 450 state, national and international awards, Spina is well known locally as part of the staff that won the Pulitzer Prize in 1968 for coverage of the Detroit riot.

In 1985, Spina won the Sprague Award, the highest honor of the National Press Photographers Association. The week after the luncheon he will be in New York City for the opening of an exhibit of his photographs in the Nikon House.

In his long and distinguished career at the Free Press, Spina has photographed eight American presidents and four popes. His photograph of Pope John XXIII became the Pontiff's official portrait.

Some of his award-winning photographs may be found in Spina's book, "Tony Spina, Chief Photographer," which will be available at the luncheon. Books will be signed for all purchasers.

As a writer, Spina is the author of a weekly column on photography which appears in the Free Press and more than 200 other newspapers.

TONY SPINA

Known for photographs that combine art with a strong sense of journalism, Spina has had over 80 one-man exhibitions, including shows at the Detroit Institute of Arts, the Los Angeles County Museum and the Vatican Museum.

A native Detroit, Spina attended Cass Technical High School and graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology. In 1980, he won the Distinguished Alumni Award from DIT.

He and his wife, Frances, live in Bloomfield Hills and are the parents of three children and have four grandchildren.

Tickets for the luncheon are available at the Northville, Novi and Plymouth libraries at $10 each. No tickets will be sold after March 3.

Married to an astronaut

Lousma speaks to Northville Woman's Club

By BRENDA DOOLEY

It's highly unusual to view "Home Movies From Space."

But that's exactly what members of the Northville Woman's Club and their spouses watched last week, courtesy of Gratia Kay Lousma.

The wife of astronaut Jack Lousma, she served as his "back-up crew" during the group's Feb. 3 evening meeting. Jack was unable to appear at the Woman's Club gathering because he was in Washington attending to other matters.

Gratia visited with club members while enjoying dinner at the First United Methodist Church of Northville. Woman's Club members displayed their patriotism by decorating the dining area in a red, white and blue theme.

Following dinner and dessert, Gratia presented a "home movie" that her husband filmed while aboard the space shuttle Columbia for eight days in 1982.

"I wish Jack could be here tonight because when he tells the story there's always a quiver in his voice," Gratia said.

"The spaceship seemed to take a long time to lift off for me," she added. "Jack always told me after the first 7½ minutes he'd be safe — it takes that long for the spaceship to get into orbit."

Those watching the movie learned that space is always black and from the spaceship the astronauts had a clear view of highways, cities and land masses on Earth. They also discovered that the astronauts were required to exercise while in space — not an easy accomplishment because of their weightlessness.

"It was a wonderful experience and a wonderful phase of our lives," Gratia said, referring to her husband's flights into space.

When the movie ended, she shared some of her experiences as the wife of an astronaut and the mother of four children.

"I believe meeting together and sharing our experiences is very beneficial and important," she said, praising the Woman's Club for their regular meetings and programs.

Before beginning his career as an astronaut, Gratia said Jack worked as a shoe salesman.

"How many times do we get what we signed up for?" she asked in good humor, evoking bursts of laughter from the audience.

The Lousmas were married in 1957 and at that time Jack was enrolled in the University of Michigan Business School. Initially he had aspirations of owning a shoe store but eventually changed his mind and decided to enroll in the University's engineering school.

"One day Jack came home and told me he had joined the Marine Corps," Gratia said. "When I asked him why he said 'because they're the only ones who will let me fly an airplane.'"

After graduating from the University of Michigan, Jack was commissioned into the Marine Corps and the Lousmas moved to Florida.

Another story Gratia shared with the Woman's Club took place in 1962 when Jack was overseas with a U.S. Marine squadron. Gratia said she went back to Ann Arbor to keep herself busy while he was away. One night she was listening to the 6 p.m. news and heard a news bulletin that Lt. Lousma's plane had exploded over the sea.

Gratia said she called Washington and even the Red Cross, searching for further details but no one could offer her any.

"Later that night I finally received a telegram that read: 'Parachute worked as advertised — Jack,'" she said.

In 1973 Jack flew Sky Lab II for 59 days, conducting experiments in space. Gratia recalled talking to Jack while he was in orbit, via a communications system installed in their home by NASA.

"You may wonder what we talked about — everyday things like the washing machine broke down ... Then Jack told us to go out on the lawn because he would be flying over Houston in 15 minutes and he wanted us to watch for the spaceship," she said.

Gratia described the experience as one of the most memorable ones she shared with her children while Jack was away.

"It looked like a fast-moving star," she said.

While he was away, Gratia took care of family matters.

"I got pretty good at managing my life without him and he'd come home again and mess it up," she said good-naturedly.

Throughout her narration, Gratia extolled the importance of family and friendship in the lives of her audience. She asked her audience to remember that the only place they can't be replaced is in their families. She urged them to realize what an important role model they play in their children's lives because "principles are caught, not taught."

"A lot of people ask Jack if he felt closer to God in space — I feel what they're really asking is if there's hope in this high-tech world ... I think there is," she said.

Gratia suggested that people be adaptable and flexible to change and to look to their families for strength and hope.

"Our families love us as we are," Gratia said. "We have to think of that unconditional love to set ourselves free from our fears."

She said her source of strength also comes from God.

"I watched Jack talk about his experiences when we had lunch with the King and Queen of Belgium — he told them he saw 16 sunrises and sunsets every day," Gratia said. "It made me realize we're not the center of the universe. We're just a planet in the lower left hand of the universe ... We live in a magnificent creation."

"We're all really astronauts on this earth. We have to learn to get along ... we have to learn to conserve our resources," Gratia said.

Huron Valley Hospital's Physicians Referral Program.

Because some things just can't wait.

One of the most important parts of good health is a regular checkup, for everyone, not just the kids. If it's been "too long" since someone in your family has seen a doctor, no matter the reason, you can do something now. Maybe just a little reminder and a gentle nudge are all it will take. But perhaps some help finding the right doctor will be necessary. If that's the case, let Huron Valley Hospital's no charge Physicians Referral Program go to work for your family.

As close as the phone, our health care professionals are ready to listen and help. They understand all the reasons for needing a referral — new in town; doctor has retired; never had a doctor; just not comfortable with this doctor. Whatever the reason, whatever the need, the Huron Valley Hospital's Physicians Referral Program can help your family find the right doctors.

Ask us about office hours and locations. Give us your preference for male or female doctors. Do you want a Family Practice physician? Do you need a specialist? Huron Valley Hospital has more than 300 physicians on staff. Our doctors are located here in the community and throughout Oakland, Livingston and Wayne Counties. We'll find just the right doctor for you. And when we do, you'll have the comfort of knowing that if hospitalization is ever necessary, you'll stay in the neighborhood, because you, your family and your doctor are all part of the same Huron Valley Hospital family.

Please phone 360-3300, extension 3450, weekdays between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Nintendo provides reporter with outlet

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

This writer is an avid player of video games, who had a terrible time finding the current ultimate in video game technology — Nintendo. Following is a personal account of finding a video game lover's dream.

It came. After receiving the final bill and sending the last check which makes the car finally mine, I notice a strange thing — I have extra money in the bank.

Like any other red-blooded American, my first thought is not to save it, but how should I spend it? My first thought is Nintendo.

I've been admiring Nintendo from afar for about three months now. With its sleek black cords and easy-to-hold controllers — for video maniacs, just looking at the game itself is heavenly.

But there is more to Nintendo than just the game box. There is one thing that sets this system apart from any other including Atari — the games.

Video game-holics can surely attest to the fact that Nintendo's games are nothing short of incredible. The action and graphics available on most of the cassettes makes playing the games — be it Donkey Kong or Double Dribble — an absolute delight.

With all this in mind and a blank check in my wallet, I started out in search of Nintendo.

It's a Sunday afternoon and most stores close at 5 p.m. I have plenty of time.

I walk into the Toys "R" Us store, my first stop. Looking through the glass case, I see every video game known to man — every game except Nintendo.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Two young video enthusiasts play the Nintendo game 1942

I run to the salesperson and — between gasps — ask him, where is the Nintendo game set?

"We're sold out of them," he responds and asks if I want to order a game.

My answer is no. I want Nintendo, and I want it today.

Next stop is Children's Palace. Again no game.

The clock continues to tick. It is now 4:30, and I'm thinking that my dream of playing Ice Hockey tonight will skate by and remain unfulfilled.

The last stop on my 30-mile odyssey through every store in Bloomfield and Southfield lands me at Highland Appliance.

I slowly walk to the sales counter, and in the weakest of voices say, "Do you have Nintendo?"

The salesperson looks at me strangely and answers "Yes. We have one left. Would you like to buy it?"

I could not contain my joy. "Yes," I shout aloud. After adding in extra games and controllers, the investment costs me around $150. But it was money well spent.

I've been riveted to my television screen, albeit in my spare time, ever since. The game has provided the perfect way to relax after a long day at the office.

The problem with Nintendo, however, is that because there are so many games to choose from, I can't decide what to buy first. Games of adventure, skill and sports are all available, as are aerobic cassettes.

At first my friends were wary about me buying a video game package. They thought I would play it constantly and they would never see me.

But because it's Nintendo, now we all play together.

Wrestlers send 6 to regionals

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville grapplers proved their team strength this season by capturing the school's first ever WLAA Western Division title. Last week, the Mustangs got a chance to show their individual talents at the MHSAA District Tournament and responded by qualifying six wrestlers for regional competition, including one district champion — freshman Kevin Khashan at 103.

Northville was the host team for the five-team pre-districts on Feb. 1 and amazingly qualified 11 wrestlers for the districts. There are only 13 weight divisions but the Mustangs managed to place (top three) in 11 of them.

"We were obviously real happy with what happened at the pre-districts," assistant coach Bob Boshoven said. "It seemed like everybody in the line-up rose to the occasion — even the kids who haven't had much success this season."

Five Northville competitors placed first in the pre-districts, including Khashan, sophomore Brandon Mardosian at 112, senior John Kochanek at 135, senior Garrett Potter at 145 and senior Mike Hale at 189. Kochanek — who has a sub-500 record this season — was one of the Mustangs who surprised a lot of people.

The locals added three seconds and three thirds to round out the 11 qualifiers. Mike Mathes at 119, Andy Frey at 130 and Bob Townsend at 160 were all runner-up finishers while freshman Mike Huff (125), Darrin Kehoe (171) and Derek Forbing (jwrl) grabbed thirds.

"The only weight divisions we didn't advance in were 140 and 152," Boshoven said. "We dominated the pre-district, along with (Plymouth) Salem. They also sent 11 to the districts."

Representatives from 18 teams were on hand for the individual districts on Feb. 4 at Salem. A top-four finish was needed to advance on to regional action and of Northville's 11 competitors, six made it.

"We qualified six to the regionals and I don't think we've ever done that before," Boshoven said. "I knew we had a chance for six but I really didn't think all six would make it. Some of our younger kids continue to improve and we seem to be peaking right now."

Khashan, who placed second at 103 in the WLAA Meet, went 3-0 on the day and nipped Rusty Fowler of Redford Catholic Central 7-6 in the finals to grab the title. Khashan got an escape in the final 10 seconds of the bout to pull it off. Two out of the three wrestlers Khashan beat ended up qualifying for the regionals as well.

"Boy, is Kevin ever coming on," Boshoven said. "He has improved by leaps and bounds."

Mardosian was 2-1 on the day, losing only to Craig Richardson of Salem, 5-3 in the finals of the 112-pound classification. Ironically, Mardosian pinned Richardson when the two met in the pre-districts.

"Both guys wrestled very well," Boshoven said. "Richardson is a senior and he had to work hard for the win. Brandon didn't give him anything."

Frey made it all the way to the 130-pound finals with three easy wins, but he was pinned by Catholic Central's Matt Helm in 1:27 of the championship bout. Helm is rated one of the best 130-pounders in the state.

"Andy's weight class is a real tough one," Boshoven said. "We weren't disappointed in his second at all — we were just glad to get him through and qualified for the regionals."

Gymnasts top elusive 130-point barrier

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville gymnastics squad made coach Michelle Charniga's birthday a memorable one on Feb. 4 at the Plymouth Canton Invitational, by scoring a school-record 130.15 and placing sixth overall in the 17-team competition.

"To get over that 130 barrier was great — I was so happy," Charniga said. "It was a great birthday present."

Despite the record setting performance, the Mustangs were disappointed when host Canton nipped them for fifth place, by less than a point, in the last event. Midland Dow took the team honors with an unbelievable 142.15 score. Rockford was second, Troy Athens third and North Farmington fourth.

"We beat Westland John Glenn, Plymouth Salem and Farmington and those are our next three dual meet opponents," Charniga said. "I knew this team had the potential to score 130 and now that that barrier has been reached, we can move on and try to improve even more."

Perhaps an even bigger — and longer lasting — birthday present for Charniga was the unveiling of freshman transfer student Mia DeHart from Ohio. DeHart moved right into the starting group and immediately became one of the team's top scorers.

"She's only a freshman, and she's outstanding," Charniga said.

Myers scores 26 in Mustang's 75-72 cage win over Franklin

A win is a win, but they seem to get even bigger and more precious during a losing streak.

That's why Northville's 75-72 WLAA Western Division basketball victory over Livonia Franklin on Feb. 3 was a 'big win.' It ended the Mustangs' five-game winless streak and provided the team with its first conference triumph since Jan. 13 against — you guessed it — Livonia Franklin.

"I don't think there's any doubt that this was a big win for us," Northville Coach Omar Harrison said. "(Franklin) is the only team in our division to beat both Farmington Harrison and Plymouth Canton, so you know they are a good team, but for some reason we've been able to beat them twice. I guess we just match up well with them."

The Mustangs staged a late-game comeback to pull out the win. Trailing by six with a little over three minutes remaining, Northville got five quick points from senior center Chris House to pull within a basket. The home team then hit five-of-six from the free throw line in the final half-minute — including the game-winner by senior Greg Price with less than 20 seconds left on the clock.

"I'd say that for once this season, we won it at the free throw line instead of the other way around," Harrison said. "(Franklin) was 13-of-27 from the free throw line and we were 21-of-31."

For the first time in several weeks, the Mustangs did not have a poor quarter offensively. The Patriots took a narrow 16-14 lead after one quarter but Northville came back to outscore Franklin by eight in the second stanza and pull ahead 40-34 at halftime. In the second, Heath Myers poured in 15 points to lead the way.

The Pats did gain some ground in the third quarter, but unlike several recent defeats, the Mustangs seemed to play with more confidence following intermission.

"At the half, I told the kids to shoot with confidence and that I really didn't care if they went in or not," Harrison said.

Franklin made a run early in the fourth that whipped out a 56-53 deficit and it took House's heroics in the final minutes to keep Northville within striking distance. Trailing 72-71 with 20 seconds remaining, Myers made one free throw, but missed the second. Alerty, Price scrambled for the rebound, was fouled and made both to give the Mustangs the lead.

The Patriots were whistled for a traveling violation with six seconds on the clock and Myers closed it out with two more free throws.

"We finally got some breaks to go our way," Harrison said. "We led most of the game but when we got down late in the game, I thought 'here we go again.'"

Myers led all scorers with a career-high 26 points. House added 12 and Scott Meredith chipped in 11. In addition, Meredith and House combined for 19 rebounds and point guard Mike Karfis added six assists. Roy Hall led Franklin with 25.

"Heath Myers had one great ball game," Harrison said. "I told him before the game that if he doesn't start to shoot the ball more often, I'll bench him. He ended up putting up 18 shots in the game and that's what I wanted."

"This win should give us some confidence. Our kids feel good about the themselves, so maybe this will start something for us down the stretch of the season."

NORTH FARMINGTON 55, NORTHVILLE 49: The Mustangs wilted under the pressure of North Farmington's full-court defense in the fourth quarter and enabled the Raiders to come-from-behind and pull out a six-point home victory on Jan. 31.

Northville managed to take a 32-31 halftime lead after an evenly-played first half, but the defenses took over to start the second half. Both teams combined to score 14 points in the third quarter but the Mustangs still maintained the one-point advantage.

"We had another bad third quarter offensively, but it didn't hurt us bad because we held them down defensively, and that kept us in it," Harrison said. "We always talk about starting the second half strong so maybe it's on their minds and it ends up causing the problem — I don't know."

North forced several turnovers early in the fourth, and once they got the lead, point guard Matt Hoffman took control. The Raiders had 14 free throw attempts in the final eight minutes — including seven by Hoffman — and even though they made just nine, it was enough to preserve the lead.

"We sort of folded against their press and that was the difference," Harrison said.

House and Rob Walsh combined to lead Northville with 14 points each, but no other Mustang player scored in double figures.

Northville (6-9 overall, 2-6 in the WLAA Western Division) will host Farmington Harrison tomorrow (Feb. 10) in the last regular season game of the year.

RECREATION BRIEFS

NORTHVILLE SOFTBALL: Registration for the 1989 softball season in Northville is going on for the next few weeks.

Returning teams can register through Feb. 10 and new teams can register after Feb. 13 as space exists.

Leagues for men, women and coed teams are being formed. The men's games are held on Mondays or Wednesdays at the Northville recreation area. There is an eight-team maximum and the season will continue for 14 weeks. Fee is $200 per team and includes umpire deposit and game balls.

Women's games are held on Tuesdays or Thursdays at Waterford Bend. An eight-team limit has been set for the 14-week season. Cost is also $200 per team.

The coed games are on Sunday at the Fish Hatchery Park. There is a 10-team maximum and the season will be 14-weeks long. Cost is $175 per team.

There is no residency requirement for any league but each non-resident must pay an additional $15. For more information, contact the Northville Recreation Department at 349-0203.

OPEN SWIMMING: Open swimming at the Northville High School Pool will be on Mondays and Wednesdays from 7:30-8:30 p.m. An adult lap swim will follow from 8:30 until 9:30 p.m.

Fee is $1 per person, payable at the door. Locker rooms and showers are available.

OPEN GYM: Open gym hours at the Northville Community Center are as follows: Monday through Friday from 2:30-3:30 p.m. for basketball; Thursday from 8:30-10 p.m. for volleyball and Friday from 7-9 p.m. for adult basketball.

COACHES NEEDED: An assistant coach or two are needed in the Northville Travel Baseball Program. The Mickey Mantle team in the 15-16 age division is now planning for the 1989 season, according to coach Paul Baetz. Potential assistants should call Baetz at 532-2036.

SKI LESSONS: The Northville Recreation Department is offering group cross country ski lessons on Feb. 10 (over 14).

All of the classes will be held at Maybury State Park. Pre-registration is required. Cost for Northville residents is $6 — $11 for non-residents. Equipment rental is available for an additional $6. Call 349-0203 for more information.

Gymnasts win fifth dual meet in a row

Northville started things off with a fine team score of 33.1 in the vault as all five scores were above the 8.0 mark. Senior Wendy Beach led the way with an 8.5, Yvonne Beebe was next (8.3) while Melanie Apiglian, Lee LaChance and Mia DeHart all added scores of 8.15. Beach ended up 19th overall and Beebe was 29th out of 82 participants.

The situation improved for the squad in the uneven bars. Beach completed a flawless routine but fell on her dismount and had to settle for an 8.75. Nevertheless, it was good for 13th place overall. LaChance tied for 16th place with an 8.65 and DeHart followed with an 8.4 and tied for 23rd. As a team, the Mustangs scored 33.35.

In the balance beam, Northville's team score was only 31.3. DeHart paced Northville with an 8.0 and that was good for 30th place overall. Beach was 36th with a 7.8.

The Mustangs wrapped up the competition with a 32.40 score in the floor exercise. Again, DeHart led the way with an 8.25 (24th place) and Beach followed in 33rd with an 8.1. Tracy Surdu added a personal-best score of 8.05.

In the all-around competition, Beach was 20th with a 33.15, DeHart was 23rd (32.8) and LaChance was 34th (31.10). The all-around winner from John Glenn scored 37.50.

"There is still room for improvement and that's why everybody is so thrilled," Charniga said. "The kids were so pleased with their performance after it was all over."

NORTHVILLE 123.1, FARMINGTON HARRISON 115.15: Faulty equipment at Harrison was blamed for injuries to Yvonne Beebe and Lee LaChance, and that tended to overshadow an eight-point victory by the Mustangs on Jan. 30.

Wrestling team sends six to regionals

Townsend was the third and final Mustang to place second. He was pinned by Salem's Steve Burlison in 3:43 of the title bout at 160, but Boshoven was estatic with the lofty finish. Of Townsend's 11 losses this season, five have been to Burlison, and three more to a state-qualifier from Belleville.

"I knew Bobby had a chance to be in the top four, but taking second surprised me," Boshoven said. "He wrestled very hard and you have to remember — this is his first year as a varsity wrestler. He is improving step-by-step with each meet and he's becoming one of our more solid wrestlers."

Potter moved down to 145 from his normal spot at 152 and it seemed to

"Yvonne hurt her back while competing on the uneven bars and Lee twisted her ankle in the same event," Charniga said. "They weren't serious injuries but it kind of took us out of synch. Other than that, we did pretty well."

Freshman Stacy Kasmarick scored a meet-high 8.45 in the vault and was Northville's surprise leader. She was followed by Beebe in second (8.4), Beach in third (8.35), LaChance in fifth (8.15) and Becky Carney in sixth (8.0).

"I was thrilled that everybody scored in the eights and we scored 33.35 as a team," Charniga said. "We did very well in the vault, but it was downhill from there."

In the fateful uneven bars event, Beach picked up the slack for her injured teammates and registered a marvelous 9.0 and first-place honors. It was her highest score ever in the event. LaChance was second (7.7) despite the ankle problem and Robyn Chatman was third (6.55) with a fall.

In the balance beam, Beach was again the meet leader with an 8.2, Karen Pyle was third (7.2) and Megan Graham fourth (7.0), but the team score of 28.65 was way below the team's average. In the floor exercise, Beach took first (8.45), LaChance was second (8.15) and Chatman was third (7.35).

NORTHVILLE 128.2, HARTLAND 120.3: The Mustangs' score was a new school-record, but it lasted only three days.

Northville clobbered the Eagles in the first three events and then stayed with the Eagles in their specialty event — the floor exercise — to win easily on Feb. 1. It was Northville's fifth straight dual meet victory of the season.

The Mustangs swept the top two places in the vault and established an early lead with 33.25 team points.

help. He fell to Brian Tulley of Catholic Central in the semis, but came back to edge Farmington's Todd Jacobs 1-0 in the consolation finals to grab third place.

"Garnett has done the job for us all year," Boshoven said. "He wrestled

Mustangs of the Week

NANCY BELDING

Senior Nancy Belding is starting to assert herself on the volleyball court. The 5-foot-9 strong-side hitter has developed into a force at the net for Northville Coach Paul Osborn and now combines with Debbie Stevens to give the squad a potent 1-2 punch. In two dual meets last week, Belding was perfect (20-for-20) from the service line and was the team's top hitter. That's why Belding is one of our 'Mustangs of the Week.' In a win over Farmington Harrison on Feb. 1, Belding was good on 5-of-6 hits and two kills. Two days earlier in a loss to Walled Lake Western, she had 17 hits and one kill.

HEATH MYERS

Northville cager Heath Myers was a key figure in last Friday's 75-72 victory over Livonia Franklin and we think 'Mustang of the Week' honors are in order. The 6-foot-3 senior swingman ended the game with a career-high 26 points, and that included a phenomenal second quarter when he poured in 15 points in a span of just eight minutes. "Heath Myers had one great ball game," Northville Coach Omar Harrison said. "I told him before the game that if he doesn't start to shoot the ball more often, I'll bench him." Myers is currently leading the team with a 12.5 scoring average.

Mustang volleyballers trounce Harrison

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With serving, hitting and setting rates above 90 percent, the Northville volleyball squad thumped WLLA Western Division foe Farmington Harrison 15-4, 15-8 on Feb. 1 and are now 2-3 in division play.

"We played well," said Mustang Coach Paul Osborn. "We only free-balled it over 13 times and had only nine ball-handling errors. We served at 91 percent, set at 97 percent and hit at 90 percent, and that's also good execution."

In game one, Northville bolted out to a 14-0 lead and were ahead 14-2 after the first rotation. In the second game, the Hawks took a brief 4-0 lead but the Mustangs regained control with 10 straight points. After Harrison narrowed it to 10-8, Northville served out the final five points.

Nancy Belding had an outstanding outing: 11-of-11 from the service line, 5-of-6 hits and two kills. Debbie Stevens (5-of-5 serves, two kills) and Jenny Urbahns (10-of-10 hits, one kill) also contributed to the victory.

HOWELL INVITATIONAL: The Mustangs went 5-3 in pool play at the 15-team Howell Invite on Feb. 4, but a fluke in the tie-breaker procedure prevented the squad from advancing to the quarterfinal round. Nevertheless, Osborn was pleased with what he saw.

"I'm happy," he said. "It wasn't a bad weekend of volleyball for us. I think the girls matured. We still have a long way to go but we're getting there."

In round one, the Mustangs swept Fowlerville 15-5, 15-9 and Osborn was pleased that his team didn't make many mental errors. In round two, Westland John Glenn fell 15-9, 17-15 in a pair of very competitive battles.

Livonia Churchill then ended Northville's streak in the third round with a 15-12, 15-7 victory. In game one, the Chargers pulled out to a 10-4 lead, saw it disappear when the Mustangs went on an 8-0 run, and then pulled it out by scoring the final five points. In game two, Northville took an early 5-1 lead, but then fell behind 10-5 and never recovered.

"For some reason, we free-balled it over too much and (Churchill) took advantage of it," Osborn said.

In the fourth and final match of pool play, the Mustangs were crushed by Brighton 15-3 in game one, but fought back to win game two 15-12.

"When we face Brighton, we tend to be intimidated by them," Osborn explained. "They are big and they are the only team to double-block against us.

"Coming back felt nice. When we're on, we can play with anybody. It's my job to try and get the girls to be on every time we play."

Against Brighton, Stevens and Urbahns combined for 10 solo blocks in game two — seven for Northville points.

The top two teams in each of the three pools were allowed to advance into the quarterfinals. After pool play, Northville tied with Brighton for second place in pool A but the tie-breaker employed was total points in head-to-head meetings, and the Bulldogs won that one, 23-18.

WALLED LAKE WESTERN 10-15, NORTHVILLE 15-9-12: The Warriors came back from a 1-0 deficit to beat the Mustangs in three hard-fought games on Jan. 30.

In game one, Northville took leads of 7-3 and 12-8 before closing out the win. But in game two, the Warriors rebounded from a 4-1 deficit to go ahead 12-5 and then pulled it out despite a late surge by the Mustangs. In the third and deciding game, Northville was ahead 12-11 but Western scored the final four points to pull it out.

The Mustangs hit at 77 percent, served and set at a rate of 93 percent, and successfully returned serves at a 73 percent clip. The squad also had 28 hitting and setting errors.

"It was close all the way," Osborn said. "We had the statistics to beat (Western) but we only hit the ball 34 times and free-balled it over 29 times. The girls made some mental errors out on the court — especially in the third game — and that really hurt us."

Nancy Belding was good on 9-of-9 serves, had 17 hits and one kill to pace Northville. Debbie Stevens added seven hits and a kill.

The Mustangs are now 9-7-2 overall this season.

Danger accompanies winter storms

One of the most serious dangers accompanying any winter storm is the threat of physical overexertion which leads to heart attacks and strokes.

This is a serious threat for elderly people and people with heart conditions. But even young and healthy people should take precautions.

"It is important to remain indoors during storms and severe cold to avoid unnecessary risks," said Gail Christie, manager of Oakland County Emergency Medical Services and Disaster Control. "If you must exert yourself, pace your activity and ask a friend for help."

To lessen any risks to your health, Christie suggests protecting your lungs from extremely cold air by covering your mouth with a scarf or bandana.

She also offers several other helpful tips to keep the residents of Oakland County warm and dry this winter:

- Take a thermos of warm beverage with you when outside for an extended period of time.

- Wear several layers of loose-fitting clothing to trap body heat while permitting air to circulate.

- Remove layers of clothing to avoid perspiration and subsequent chill.

- Wear tightly woven and waterproof clothing as outer garments.

- Wear mittens snug at the wrist rather than fingered gloves.

- Wear a wool cap to keep your body heat from escaping.

The more you know and prepare for winter storms, the better your chances are for survival in an emergency situation. This is especially true for those who must travel by car during an ice or snow storm.

To avoid becoming a victim of ice storm ignorance, Oakland County Emergency Medical Services and Disaster Control is providing helpful

Record/CHRIS BOYD

With outdoor winter activities, like snowblowing, there is always the threat of physical overexertion hints to prepare.

"With more deaths as a result of winter storms during the last three decades than from tornadoes, hurricanes and floods combined, we want to insure the safety of our road traveler," Christie said.

Christie suggests if you must travel, take someone else along or let someone know the route you intend to travel. She also says to make sure your car is properly serviced, equipped with chains or snow tires and has a full tank of gas.

The car should also be equipped with a container of sand, a shovel, a windshield scraper, flares, booster cables, tow line or rope, a flashlight, a warm blanket, heavy gloves and mittens, extra woolen socks and a wool hat.

Christie advises stranded drivers to stay calm and rationally plan their course of action. Once everyone is settled in the car, Christie offers these helpful tips:

- Keep a portable radio handy for weather information and other emergency advice.

- Stay in the vehicle where rescuers will find you.

- Put on flashers, raise the hood of your car or hang a cloth off the aerial or out the car window.

- Do not waste gas by running your heat. Exercise to maintain body heat by clapping your hands together and lifting your legs up and down. But do not overdo it. Exercise warms you, but it can also cause body heat loss.

- At night turn the dome light on so work crews may spot you.

- Keep fresh air in your car. Freezing wet snow and wind-driven snow can completely seal the passenger compartment.

For more information about winter survival contact Gail Christie at 858-5300.

Cost is $25. For more information, call 471-8090.

BLOOD PRESSURE CONTROL CLASSES: The Oakland County Health Division will offer a series of six blood pressure control classes to residents of Oakland County. The classes will be held weekly, from 2-4 p.m., at the Oakland County Health Division's south office, 27725 Greenfield Rd., Southfield, on Feb. 22 and March 1, 8, 15, 22, 29. All classes are free but pre-registration is required as class size is limited.

Topics that will be covered during these classes include:

- Defining the disease (an overview of high blood pressure and its control).
- Medications used in treatment.
- Dietary recommendations (meal planning and food choices).

- Living with high blood pressure.
- Cholesterol teaching.

Classes will be taught by Oakland County Health Division public health nurses and nutritionists. Activities and information shared will help class participants better understand high blood pressure and self-care skills. Spouses and/or other family members are encouraged to attend.

For further information or to pre-register, call 424-7042.

PRE-NATAL/POST-PARTUM FITNESS: Debra Hoppe will lead a pre-natal/post-partum exercise class Saturday mornings at 10 a.m. at Providence Hospital in Novi.

Classes are on-going and participants can enroll at any time by calling 227-7284. A physician consent form is necessary to participate.

WALKING AT THE MALL: People who enjoy walking are invited to use the climate-controlled corridors at Twelve Oaks Mall. Walkers are welcomed Monday through Saturday at 9 a.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m.

All walkers must register at the Twelve Oaks security office.

The lower-level track is .5 miles, and the upper-level track is .8 miles. A complete trip around the mall is 1-1/3 miles.

CHOLESTEROL SCREENINGS: The staff of the Henry Ford Medical Center in Plymouth is offering $5 cholesterol screenings from 3-7 p.m. the fourth Wednesday of each month.

Appointments are necessary and can be made by calling 453-5600.

The Plymouth Center, 261 S. Main St., is open from 7 a.m.-9 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 8 a.m.-7 p.m. on Friday; 9 a.m.-1 p.m. and 2-6 p.m. Saturdays and noon-4 p.m. Sundays.

The medically-approved exercise classes, designed specifically for pregnant women, are taught by certified instructors and provide many benefits.

A package of information is available by calling 936-5186.

OVER-50 FITNESS: Twelve Oaks Mall is providing a safe, proven and highly-effective workout for older people and others who are interested in a low impact, aerobic exercise program. The program is offered every Tuesday and Thursday from 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor Court (lower level).

The "Fitness over 50" program has been designed and field-tested for more than 10 years at the University of Michigan. It provides a non-strenuous but invigorating program that will improve your strength and muscle tone, and increase your energy and endurance.

The event is free and open to the public.

Fiber may help lower blood cholesterol levels

By NELDA MERCER, M.S., R.D.

Coronary heart disease remains the number one cause of death in the United States. Research indicates that there is a direct correlation between serum cholesterol and risk of coronary heart disease.

Preliminary studies indicate that some types of fiber may help to lower blood cholesterol levels and thus may help to reduce the risk of coronary heart disease.

What is fiber? Fiber is most commonly thought of as the part of plant foods that human enzymes cannot digest. These fibers pass through the body and aid in bowel regularity. This is true for fibers such as bran or whole grains. However, some fibers can be partially digested and have been recently found to play an important role in our diets.

Fiber can be divided into two categories: water-insoluble fibers and water-soluble fibers. These two fibers perform different functions in the body.

Water-insoluble fibers are the most familiar to us. They are found in the plant cell walls and include cellulose, hemicellulose and lignin. One of the most common sources of water-soluble fibers is wheat bran. Vegetables and whole grain cereals are also good sources.

What do water-insoluble fibers do in the body? They add bulk to the diet, absorbing water and decreasing the time it takes food to move through the digestive system. This swift passage helps prevent constipation and may also serve to dilute any carcinogens, giving them less time to do harm. Recent studies suggest that foods high in water-soluble fibers are viscous and form gels in water. They include primarily gums and pectins and are found in beans, some fruits and vegetables, oats and barley. Research indicates that soluble fibers can play a role in lowering blood cholesterol levels and helping to regulate the body's use of glucose.

Since soluble and insoluble fibers have different functions in the body, it is important to eat a variety of high-fiber foods in order to get both types.

How much fiber should you eat? As a general rule, you can get the fiber you need by eating several servings of fiber-rich foods each day without the need for high-fiber supplements. Americans eat on the average of 10 to 20 grams of fiber per day. The National Cancer Institute recommends that we eat foods which provide 25 to 35 grams of fiber per day. This means that most people should double their intake of fiber.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.
