Fire hits condo units

By BOB NEEDHAM

A Saturday night fire destroyed two units of the St. Lawrence Estates condominiums, and arson is a likely cause, Fire Chief Jim Allen said Monday.

The fire — which burned in front of a live audience of about 3,000 and countless more over cable television — completely destroyed two mostly-built condominiums off Center and Seven Mile. Fire fighters controlled the spread of the blaze, however, and damage was basically confined to the two units.

The fire is believed to have been spotted from the nearby Northville Downs race track, where Saturday night racing was in full swing. Police officers at the track called in the fire at about 10:30 p.m. Saturday.

"We got the call at . . . 10:33, that there was a fire in St. Lawrence Estates. When we got there, the south two units were fully involved," Allen said. "I could see the flames from my house as I pulled out of the driveway on the other side of town."

The two units on fire were part of a group of four attached units. Allen said that city fire fighters established a line between two units to fight the blaze. The city got extensive help from the Northville Township Fire Department, Allen said.

"We had the thing under control" in an hour or so, Allen said. "We had a really good stop."

There was some minor damage to the roofs of the two adjacent units, but that was about it, he added.

Many of the race track patrons came out to watch the fire.

"We had a captive audience. We had about 3,000 spectators," Allen said. "This was such a spectacular sight, really. There were people stopped on Seven Mile watching it."

In addition, the cable channel Pro-Am Sports System (PASS) — which was taping the races at the Downs — cut away in between races to update viewers on the fire.

Allen said the fire officials were back on the scene the next morning to start the investigation. So far, it appears that the fire started in some straw in one of the condo garages — and that it was purposely set.

"It's a suspicious type fire. There was no electricity in the building, no gas. It makes you think it was accidental, or even set," Allen said. "Everything we can find at this point, it seems like it started in that garage area."

New rule may stop 10-story church

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

At a study session held last Wednesday, township planners discussed placing zoning restrictions on churches — a move that could affect the Ward Presbyterian Church project, slated to be 10 or 11 stories tall.

"We all seem to feel that the church section of the (zoning) ordinance is inadequate and needs to be updated," said commission Chairman Charles DeLand.

DeLand said the move to look at church zoning stems, in part, from a letter submitted to the commission by Fire Chief Robert Toms, in response to the Ward Church site plan.

In their initial site plan, which the commission approved two years ago, Ward's building was slated to be 40 feet tall with a 120 ft. spire. The church received a one-year extension on the plan in January 1988, but brought in a new plan last month when that extension expired.

In their revised plan, the project is proposed to be 120-feet tall or equivalent to a 10 or 11 story building. In his letter, Chief Toms said a 120-foot building would pose a problem for the fire department.

"Northville Township has always been a two-story community," Toms said. "When the township approved four-story buildings on Haggerty and Six Mile roads, we felt we would have no problems fighting fires with our man power and equipment. However, there is quite a difference between four-story and 10-story buildings."

Daddy's girl

On the Friday before Valentine's Day, daddys spent the evening dancing with their daughters at the Parks and Recreation Department's very popular get-together. Approximately 300

"couples" danced the night away. Above, dad Bryan Wainio and daughter Shauna, 4, finish bowing at the end of a square dance number at the Recreation Center.

Trash issues being settled with county

By BOB NEEDHAM

Negotiators for a group of local governments and Wayne County have reached agreement on several issues dealing with the county plan to manage solid waste, although some questions remain.

The way these issues are settled could directly impact the lives of local residents, as the plan goes into effect and residents may be required to comply with new ways to manage garbage.

Ever since the county released a proposed update of its trash management plan last fall, the intergovernmental group Conference of Western Wayne has provided the most organized feedback — and, in some cases, opposition — to the plan. But discussions stretching long past a Jan. 1 deadline for approval have settled many of the issues, and officials are hopeful the outstanding questions will soon be answered as well.

"There's been a lot of movement on both sides," said Plymouth Township Supervisor Maurice Breen, who heads the CWW's ad hoc committee on solid waste. "We pretty well have effective closure (on several issues)," he said.

Wayne County Commissioner Milt Mack (D-Wayne), who chairs the county solid waste committee, also said most of the issues were settled. "We've worked extensively with the Conference of Western Wayne," he said. "I believe that we have reached agreement on (most) of those issues."

The county plan is meant to deal with the county's rapidly shrinking

Caucuses bicker in rift on board

By BOB NEEDHAM

Some suburban members of the Wayne County Commission are unhappy with Northville representative Susan Heintz, saying she sides with Detroit against the suburbs — but Heintz responds that the feelings are based on misunderstandings and the fact that she is a Republican.

The commission has seen disagreements lately between its two caucuses: the Metro Caucus, consisting mainly of Detroit representatives, and the newly-formed Suburban Caucus. The rift has come over issues like office budgets, which were reportedly proposed at one point to be larger for Metro Caucus members; and committee assignments, which some suburban commissioners felt gave more power to Metro Caucus members.

The disagreement nearly resulted in a walk-out last week by some of the Suburban Caucus members, although things were quieter early this week. Heintz and three suburban commissioners said the rift was either mostly healed or on its way.

Northville Township resident Heintz — who also represents the City of Northville, the city and township of Plymouth, and Livonia — was a member of the Metro Caucus last year, before the Suburban Caucus ever coalesced.

She said Monday that she quit the group when she was elected vice chairperson of the commission, since a second in command should not belong to a caucus. Her election as vice chairperson was supported by the Metro Caucus members, in-

Historic District may expand

By BOB NEEDHAM

Expanded boundaries may be ahead for the Northville Historic District, but only if the residents support the idea, Mayor Chris Johnson said recently.

A three-person committee is starting to look into possible expansions of the city's Historic District, an area around the center of town which has special architectural controls and restrictions to retain a historic flavor.

A letter was recently approved by the city Historic District commission and planning commission to be sent to residents in areas which might be included in a boundary expansion. The letter is signed by the committee, Greg Presley from the planning commission and Walter Coponen and Fran Gazlay from the Historic District commission.

"Northville has established a fine reputation over the last twenty years for its Victorian era architecture, having established in 1973 the Historic District to protect and preserve many of these structures. This effort required considerable participation on the part of local citizens to research and document worthy structures. It certainly has paid off in the handsome restoration of many buildings," the letter reads in part.

"Many worthy buildings stand outside the Historic District. Therefore the city is considering expansion of the Historic District boundaries," the letter continues. The letter invites interested residents to a meeting to go over requirements and the proposal process; however, officials have since said the meeting time will have to be changed. It is now expected in April.

"Probably the most significant thing is to maintain architectural integrity within different areas of the city other than what's in the Historic District," Johnson said in explaining the situation.

He said a few people currently outside the district have expressed interest in being included. "We're not sure if we're talking about a majority opinion, a minority opinion, or one person," Johnson said.

The Historic District Commission has kicked around the idea of expanding the district at its last few meetings, said Johnson, who chairs the commission. The commission provides the additional architectural and aesthetic controls in the district, and must approve architecture, signs, and any building within the district.

A secondary purpose of expanding the district might be to improve the city's entry corridors — such as South Main Street, the north and south ends of Center Street, Eight Mile and Novi Road. "I don't know if that's feasible from an architectural standpoint," Johnson said.

"I think there's a lot of good

Climbing caseload may mean new judge for district court

By BOB NEEDHAM

The 35th District Court may be in line for an extra judge within the next few months, one of its current judges said Monday.

In a status report to the Northville City Council, 35th District Court Judge James Garber said the court may well need a third judge within two to four years. Currently, the caseload is handled by Garber, Judge John MacDonald and a half-time magistrate.

Ten years ago the court's annual caseload was around 17,000, Garber said Monday. That rose to about 27,000 by 1986; 31,111 in 1987; and 35,797 in 1988.

"There is reason to believe we will continue to grow," Garber added. January's figures showed a 22 percent increase in cases over last January.

Statewide, the average annual district court caseload is 8,000 to 10,000 per judge, Garber said. He and MacDonald are now averaging about 18,000. In fact, an extra judge was suggested by the state a few years ago, but the two felt they could handle the load at that time, Garber said.

Although the court still does not have a real "backlog," Garber said, the increasing caseload is starting to show in the amount of time between an arrest and a court disposition of a case. Two or three years ago in mid-February, the judges would probably be hearing cases from early January, Garber said. But this week he was hearing cases from late November and early December.

The state requires that 95 percent of civil case filings be finally disposed within nine months, Garber said. The 35th District Court is probably averaging 99 percent disposition within nine months, he said.

If the caseload leveled off, there would be no problem, Garber said. But that isn't likely.

Both increasing populations and increasing police forces in the local communities mean increasing numbers of court cases, Garber said.

"There's a flag starting to go up the flagpole, starting to wave a little bit. We'll have to keep an eye on it and see where it's headed," Garber said.

NEWS BRIEFS

LIBRARY JUNKET — A group of city and township officials are planning to tour the new Canton Township Library later this month.

The outing, organized by the Northville Public Library, is designed to give officials the idea of what can be accomplished in library design, services and use of space. The newly-opened Canton library is about 30,000 square feet; Northville library officials are hoping to build a new 25,000-square-foot library in Northville.

The group is set to meet in Northville at 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 28, and travel to Canton in the Northville Recreation Department's bus. An informal discussion is scheduled after the tour.

The library has invited city council members, township trustees, members of the Library Advisory Commission and Library Site Committee, library staff, and members of the Friends of the Library.

CITY GOALS SET — The Northville City Council informally OK'd a list of city goals for 1989 Monday.

The list, arising from administrative recommendations and a recent study session, met with approval from all four council members present.

Goals include progress on the street repair program; putting an elevator in city hall; getting a sidewalk repair program underway; finishing plans for expanding the fire and police wing of city hall; developing a phased plan for traffic improvements; developing a trash disposal plan with neighboring communities to meet county requirements; developing a program to enforce city property ordinances; contracting for a recodification of city ordinance books; settling on a Ford plant redevelopment plan; adopting a Cady Street Corridor plan, including parking; finishing the development phase of a revision of the city master plan; reviewing boundaries for possible expansion of the Historic District; working on joint services, including park and library development; and working on planning and zoning issues with neighbor communities.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY DINNER — The Northville Historical Society still has a few openings for its Progressive Dinner to be held Saturday, March 11. This is a revival of the popular tradition started by the Society in 1982. Donation for the event is $35 per couple for members and $40 for non-members. A limited number of reservations can be accepted. Proceeds from the evening will benefit the restoration of the Cady Inn at Mill Race Historical Village. Call JoAnn Dalziel at 349-5166 to make a reservation.

Home assignments, recipe assignments and copies of all the recipes to be served will go out to participants. The evening begins with cocktails in the Mill Race Village from 7-8 p.m.

BABY PACKETS ARE WELCOME — Since April, 94 babies in Northville have received Welcome Baby packets through the efforts of Carole Jean Stockhausen and the Friends of the Northville Library. If you have a new baby or know of a new baby — or an about-to-be-born baby — the library will take your name and you will receive a packet with a gift for the baby — its first book — along with other helpful gifts.

PUBLIC HEARING SET — A public hearing for residents has been scheduled for March 9, 1989 regarding allocation of the township's 1989 community development block grant (CDBG) funds.

County land deal still months away

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

A self-imposed April 15 deadline by Wayne County officials for the sale of the 1,040 acres of county-owned land in Northville Township will definitely pass without an agreement.

Dewitt Henry, Wayne County Director of Jobs and Economic Development, said the county will not make the deadline and added the county is about ready to put out a new schedule.

"Yeah, that slipped (making the April deadline)," Henry said. "It's (the deadline) off by several months actually, I'd say July will be the time to get to that point (completing and signing an agreement with developers)."

Henry said the primary cause for the delay is the fact that the Wayne County Commission waited until the end of January to act on a proposal by the county executive to approve money for legal fees and environmental testing.

He referred to the $300,000 recently approved by the commission to complete testing on wetlands, soil borings and for legal fees.

County Commissioner Susan

Heintz (R-Northville Township) said the commission delayed approving the money until the county's executive branch gave more control on the land's development to the local community and until the commission received the final copy of the Lam-brecht marketing study.

She said the commission tried to put the greater local control issue in writing, but was not able to.

Heintz said she hopes the county will include Northville Township in the process of choosing a developer "because the people of the township have to live with whatever goes in there."

Henry noted both Heintz and Township Supervisor Georgina Goss will sit on an advisory committee that will eventually decide which developer is chosen to build on the site

GO TO FAITH COMMUNITY WHY WE

Jim and Mary Simon

We joined Faith Community three years ago after moving to Farmington Hills from Uniontown, PA. In Pennsylvania, we both grew up in rather small communities and were very accustomed to the warmth and family atmosphere that a smaller church provides. We found that same warmth and friendliness in Faith Community. Even as Faith Community grows in size, it maintains a family-like atmosphere. We enjoy participating in many of the activities Faith Community has to offer. But most of all, we value the friendships we have developed with other members in a Community of Faith.

Police Blotters

Possible suspect stopped in thefts of radar detectors

Police may have a suspect in the theft of two radar detectors from city homes Friday night, according to police reports.

Two radar detectors were stolen from autos parked at the Northville Park Apartments off Novi Road Friday, both after a window on the auto was broken, reports said. One occurred between 11:30 p.m. Friday and 1:14 a.m. Saturday; the other was between 6 p.m. and 12:15 a.m. On one of the reports, it said the damage appeared to have been done with a BB gun.

The same night, between 6:30 p.m. and noon the next day, a window was smashed on a Ford van at the nearby Tree Top Apartments, but nothing was reported missing.

On Saturday, police learned that Novi police had arrested a Northville Township resident on suspicion of breaking and entering. Three radar detectors and a BB rifle were found in the suspect's vehicle.

FENDER-BENDERS — Three automobile accidents were reported by township police last week.

A two-car accident occurred last Monday morning on Five Mile Road near Keel Road. The driver of the second car told police that he was going westbound on Five Mile and stopped to make a left turn onto Keel when he was hit from behind by car one. Police issued a ticket to the driver of car one for failing to stop within an assured clear distance. The driver of car two was also issued a ticket for driving with a suspended license.

A two-car accident occurred at 11:33 a.m. last Monday on Seven Mile Road. Police said the driver of car one was going eastbound on Seven Mile in the right lane, while the driver of car two was traveling east on Seven Mile in the left lane. Police said the driver of car one lost control of his car and the vehicle slid into the left lane, hitting car two. Car two proceeded to slide off of Seven Mile and into a front yard fence and gate. The driver of car one was issued a ticket by police for failing to use due caution and care.

A two-car accident occurred last Thursday afternoon on Seven Mile Road near Maxwell Road. Police said the driver of car two was stopped on eastbound Seven Mile waiting to make a left turn onto northbound Maxwell, when he was hit from behind by car one. Police issued a ticket to the driver of car one for failing to stop within an assured clear distance.

STOLEN ITEMS — Two cars were broken into over the past week, according to township police reports.

In the first incident, the complainant told police last Wednesday, that over $300 in merchandise was stolen from his 1986 Ford Ranger between the dates of Dec. 15, 1988 and Jan. 1, 1989.

The victim told police unknown persons broke into the rear of his truck, which was parked on Ridge Road, and stole the following items: $250 worth of tools and a tool box, drill bits worth $62 and a dog valued at $12. $10 in damage to the vehicle was also reported to police.

In the second incident, the complainant told police unknown persons broke into his 1988 Buick and stole $510 in merchandise.

The victim said that between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m. last Thursday, the driver's door window of his car — which was parked on W. Harbour Village Drive — was broken into and the following items were stolen: a $160 radar detector and a $350 camera. The victim also said $100 damage was done to the car.

Police said they have no suspects or witnesses.

CAR RECOVERED — A 1983 Olds Delta '88 — reported stolen last Tuesday — was recovered in Canton Township last Wednesday, according to a township police report.

The complainant told police last Tuesday that between 9 p.m. and 9 a.m. his car worth $2,500 was stolen from the north part of the Northville Forest parking lot. He said the lock mechanism on the passenger side of the car had been punched out and not repaired. The victim noted this was the most likely form of entry.

Police on Tuesday said they found no broken glass and had no suspects or witness. However, on Wednesday township police were notified that the vehicle was in Canton Township. The victim went and recovered the car, noting the driver's window and steering column had been damaged. The damage was estimated at $500. Police said they still have no suspects or witnesses.

OFFICER ASSAULTED — A Plymouth resident has been charged with assault as the result of an encounter early Sunday, according to a city report.

A police car was flagged down on Center Street near Cady just after 1 a.m. Sunday, and the police found a woman lying face down in the southbound lane of Center, the report said. The woman told police she wanted to sleep there, and when an officer tried to move her she swore and kicked his legs several times, the report said.

At her request, she was taken to Botsford Hospital where she was examined and released. After returning to the police station, she continued to try to hit the police, according to the report. A preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .174.

The woman was released on $100 bond and faces a March 9 court date.

DRUNK ACCIDENT — A driver whose car door was apparently torn off when she ran into a metal post on Seven Mile was later stopped for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL), according to police reports.

A car door was found on Seven Mile east of Northville Road, apparently torn off by a row of metal posts and mailboxes at about 10:15 p.m. Thursday, according to a report. The driver, a South Lyon resident, was later stopped by city police at South Main and Johnson on suspicion of drunk driving.

According to the city report, the driver refused a breathalyzer test, but a preliminary breath test showed a blood alcohol level of .26 percent. In Michigan, .10 is considered OUIL.

The outside of the car's passenger door was missing, and a reinforcing frame piece of the car was dragging on the ground, the report said. The driver reportedly told police someone had broken or shot the door while driving on Seven Mile. The door found on Seven Mile matched the door missing from the driver's car, the reports said.

The driver faces a March 9 court date on the OUIL charge from the city, and a March 16 court date from Northville Township on a charge of failure to report an accident.

ESTATES ACCIDENT — A Northville resident was ticketed Saturday after an accident in the Northville Estates subdivision, according to a city police report.

At about 10:30 a.m., the driver lost control of an auto at the intersection of Elmsmere and Summerside. The driver skidded through the intersection and ended up turned around and off the road, the report said.

Police issued a ticket for speed too fast for the conditions.

PUMP AND RUN — The Clark gas station on South Main was hit again by a gas thief Saturday, a city police report said.

A white male about 20, with curly brown hair, pumped $12 worth of gas and drove off without paying, the report said. The car was described as a blue, two-door Chevy Cavalier.

WHEELS STOLEN — McDonald Ford was the victim of another tire-and-wheel theft last week, according to a city police report.

A Mustang was found up on blocks with all four tires and wheels missing. Total value was estimated at $1,000.

ALARM RECOVERED — A car alarm stolen from a camper off Taft Road was found the next day, according to city police reports.

Between 7 and 10 p.m. Saturday, the Volkswagen camper was broken into and the alarm box taken. Knobs were off the radio and the cover was off the speedometer, but nothing else was missing, the report said.

The next day, a resident of Dorisa Court reported finding the alarm box on his front lawn, a report said.

ARREST AT DOWNS — After arresting a woman at Northville Downs Saturday evening, police found there were three warrants outstanding for her arrest.

Police picked up the woman, a Detroit resident, after seeing her drinking beer from a can, according to a report. Alcohol is not allowed to be brought into the track.

A routine check showed the woman wanted in West Bloomfield and Royal Oak on warrants for felony fraud, and in Riverview on a misdemeanor bad check charge. The woman was released to West Bloomfield police.

City officials considering expansion of the Historic District

reasons to do it. I think it would be a good idea," he added. "There's no other way, really, to have an architectural control over the neighborhood."

Specific areas under consideration include the Bealtown area just east of the race track, the Cabbagetown area north of downtown, the south part of Wing Street, and the area along the southern central part of the city, below the current district boundary, Johnson said.

But the expansion will only take place if that is what the affected residents clearly want, Johnson said.

"A historic district is not the kind of thing you ram down someone's throat," he said. "I'm not going to have the city administration wring its hands over whether it's going to go through by one or two votes."

Johnson's home, on West Main Street, is already within the Historic District. "A neighbor moving into the house next to me knows I can't knock down my house and put up a glass cube," Johnson said.

"The down side is, any time you want to do something with a building you need one more approval," he said.

Property values within the district have gone up, Johnson said, adding that there is no way to tell how much of that, if any, is due to the historic designation.

"There's no question that property values within the Historic District have skyrocketed," he said. "It's an unquantifiable thing. Housing values in my neighborhood have gone up considerably. . . I think it would be a good idea for more neighborhoods to be involved in the Historic District."

A letter from City Attorney James Kohl states that since the state law on historic districts does not cover boundary changes, any change in the city will have to go through the full process used to establish the original district.

That includes a report to the state, a formal public hearing with written notice to all affected property owners, and a final report with planning commission recommendations to the city council. The council has the power to establish the district, Kohl wrote.

Part of the process is an inventory of buildings, City Manager Steve Walters said, to establish their value. Historic significance is they key, but "not meaning places George Washington slept, but places of architectural value," Walters said.

"Our Historic District is historic only in terms of structural architecture."

Walters said the boundary revision could actually result in some individual sites currently in the district being excluded. This is because there are some odd cases which do not really fit into the district. "There aren't too many of those things, although there are two or three oddities of that sort," Walters said.

The letter from Kohl states that areas of a historic district do not necessarily have to be contiguous.

Walters said the first information meeting on boundary expansion will probably be in April. A date may be set in a couple of weeks, he said.

Bonds to be sold for sewer project

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

"This is the last thing you need to do to get this project off the ground," Township Attorney Ernest Essad told the board of trustees last Thursday, prior to the board's unanimous approval on the issue of bonds for the WTUA/YCUA sewer project.

Essad said the board's most recent vote on the sewer project gives him the ability to issue municipal bonds, which he will do on or about Feb. 28. He noted both Plymouth and Canton townships — who are joining Northville in the project — approved the bond issue last Tuesday.

Essad said this may be the best time to for the WTUA group to issue bonds. "As of Friday, the rates for bonds were low and currently there are very few new bonds on the market, meaning there should be a good demand for municipal bonds," he noted.

In addition to the bond sale, Essad said WTUA could be in line to receive some federal money in hopes of offsetting some of the project's cost, which is currently about $88 million.

He said WTUA could receive as much as $9 million in federal funds, mainly because this sewer project is seen as a demonstration program.

Essad said the WTUA/YCUA project may qualify for the $9 million by helping the environment in two areas: diluting the pollutants in the Rouge River by sending in clearer water than currently flows in the river, and providing enough water to flush out the river.

Besides the federal money, Essad said the project may save $5 million if it can use Wayne County owned sewer pipes. He added negotiations between WTUA and the county are underway.

Of the entire $88 million price tag, Northville Township is responsible for only 32 percent of the project cost. Essad said each community is responsible for only their share of the project.

The first bill for the project must be paid in Jan. 1993, which Essad said gives the three community's four years to build the funds to pay for the bonds.

Township Engineering Consultant Abe Munfah said the WTUA/YCUA project will be broken down into two segments:

1. Construction of the Northville and Plymouth Township portion stretching to Joy Road and along Haggerty Road to Michigan Avenue.
2. Connection of the sewer system west along Michigan Avenue to the YCUA plant and then down to the Rouge River.

Canton Township will also connect to the project in the first segment. One equalization basin and one pumping station will also be built in each of the two segments.

Munfah said his group has already begun designing the first segment of the project and added it will take 10 months to complete the designs and another two months to get the necessary permits.

He noted construction on segment one could begin within one year, but the project itself will not be completed and operable until sometime in 1993.

Latest version of day care plan would combine zoning, licensing

By BOB NEEDHAM

The latest version of a city ordinance on in-home day care moved through the city council Monday for possible eventual action.

Consideration of in-home day care, in this latest version prepared by City Manager Steve Walters, is split into two separate parts: a change in the zoning ordinance to allow small, in-home day care operations; and proposed city licensing regulations for most day care facilities.

Walters' new proposal would combine some of the state definitions for day care into the city zoning ordinance. All the specific regulations discussed by city officials would be made part of the license process, rather than part of the zoning ordinance. Walters said this sort of set-up is more consistent with the city's existing ordinance structure.

In one of the key points in the new proposal, the smallest day care homes — serving four children or less — would not need a city license, but would still have to comply with the license requirements. They would thereby avoid the paperwork, but could still be cited for any violations.

Recent city discussions of the day care issue had become somewhat stuck between a desire not to over-regulate small babysitting services and a desire to make sure neighbors do not suffer.

The city attorney has not yet reviewed Walters' proposed licensing regulations. At Monday's city council meeting, the council unanimously voted to send the licensing part to the attorney for review, and to send the latest ordinance draft to the planning commission for a public hearing. The licensing rules will also need a public hearing before approval.

Under the newest version, "family day care homes" would be defined by the city — as they already are by the state — as child day care given in a home for one to six children under the age of seven, for 28 days or more in a year. Unlike the state, the city would count the care giver's own children and other relatives in the total.

These family day care homes would be permitted by right in all residentially-zoned districts except R-4, the highest-density residential zoning, designed for multiple-family dwellings of three or more stories. The only place in the city zoned R-4 is the Allen Terrace senior housing site.

Currently, the city does not really allow day care in a home; day care centers must meet several special requirements. Consideration of this ordinance started after a neighbor complained and one in-home day care operation was ticketed, pending the outcome of the new ordinance.

Under Walters' proposal, anything caring for more than six children would be considered a "child day care center." The state adds a third definition — "group day care home" — for six to 12 children, but the new city proposal does not include this distinction.

Under the new plan, the city's child day care centers would be allowed in professional business office (PBO), local commercial district (LCD) and general commercial district (GCD).

The proposed licensing regulations use the same definitions, and state that a city license is required for any day care operations. The sole exception is family day care homes for four children or fewer, which would not need a city license but would still have to comply with the license requirements.

All day care operations, no matter what the size, are already required to have a license from the state.

Walters' proposed licensing rules — which would apply to both family day care homes and child day care centers — arose from discussion of the issue before the city council and planning commission. The suggestions include: a current state license; zoning ordinance compliance; no drop-off or pick-up between 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.; a protected, outdoor play area of at least 400 square feet and at least 200 square feet per child, in the rear yard; no outside signs; and being open to city inspection of records.

At Monday's meeting, Walters said a provision for the council to set a license fee should also be added. Another possibility is to add a provision for day care in multiple-family housing that a tenant must have the owner's permission.

A suggestion also arose at the meeting to require a fenced play area, at least for the larger child day care centers.

The council agreed to send the proposed license regulations on to the city attorney, and the proposed ordinance change on to the planning commission. If the council wishes, the two parts could be adopted together, Walters suggested.

Walters said the license regulations could probably be back from the city attorney by the next council meeting Feb. 27.

NYA, community see continued success

By BRUCE M. WEINTRAUB

The focus of the Northville Youth Assistance (NYA) may be changing a little since its inception just over two years ago, but its success will continue to be felt by the community.

"I have seen expansion of the program in that it's not just a diversion program any more, it is a support system for everyone in the community," said NYA Director Mary Ellen King.

King said the program — which began Feb. 1, 1987 — primarily focused on being a diversion for Northville youths in trouble with police.

"The NYA started as a diversion program for first time offenders, modeled after Livonia's youth assistance," King said. "Because it was so successful in Livonia — meaning 80 percent of the youths arrested by police and placed in youth assistance were never seen again by police — other communities jumped on the bandwagon."

She said when she looked at the Northville community, not many kids were arrested by police, "so I went to the schools to get their support."

Township Police Chief Ken Hardesty said he thinks the NYA gives the police another tool to guide kids, rather than in a legal arena.

"The kids she gets need counseling, which can't be supplied in the juvenile court system," Hardesty said, adding the NYA lets youth offenders know they have to correct a problem and can get counseling to do it.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

"We want to show them the consequences of their actions and have them not get into trouble with the police again — which they're not," King said.

She noted that with continued growth, the NYA program now caters to both students in trouble with police and those not getting enough support at home.

"We're trying to get the kids before they get into trouble," she said. "By having a caring, concerned person in the community there for them, it brought up the kids' confidence and gave them a much needed boost."

With the NYA premise being support and diversion, the program seems to be a huge success. After two years, the NYA has received 95 total referrals, with 97 percent of the 33 police referrals never seeing the inside of a police station again.

The program also has benefited many volunteers along the way, King said, as 58 people have contributed their time it.

She said the program has stretched beyond youths to smaller children in need of extra support. King said many adults have also enjoyed the support of interacting with children.

"This program would not exist without those 58 wonderful volunteers," King said, adding more volunteers are needed to accommodate all of the youths.

She noted the volunteer training sessions are held twice per year, with the next session beginning Feb. 22.

As for long range plans, King said she would like to see the NYA become a leader in coordinating services for the young and old in Northville.

"I can almost see this program developing into a volunteer program for both the young and old. Maybe someday this program can be called 'Assistance' instead of 'Youth Assistance.'"

King said Township Treasurer Richard Henningsen asked her about the success of the NYA. "When I told him, he said 'you know, if you've helped one kid then the whole thing is worth it.'"

Flap arises over drain board position

By BOB NEEDHAM

A sidelight to the disagreements between members of the Wayne County Commission is the replacement of William O'Neil (D-Allen Park) with Susan Heintz (R-Northville Township) as the commission's alternate representative on the county Drain Board.

Last term, although he was technically the alternate for Commission Chairperson Arthur Carter, O'Neil regularly attended the Drain Board meetings, he said Monday. Heintz is now the alternate, and she attended the board's January meeting. The board meets monthly.

"I've become very upset with her (Heintz) as a result of that first drain board meeting," O'Neil said Monday. Primarily, he said, he opposes two ideas discussed at the meeting: to charge his district for 60 percent of the salary of the board secretary; and to re-examine the efficiency of a retention basin system in Allen Park with outside engineers.

"I know he was upset," Heintz said Tuesday. "He has drain districts in his area and he feels he should represent them. I have drains also."

"I don't know why my district is being charged 60 percent, number one," O'Neil said of the secretary position. "The local communities can say that's not fair, but they don't vote on it."

Heintz said the district was charged 60 percent because that's where 60 percent of the drains are. She said the board is willing to listen if the local communities object to any charges from the board: "We'd reevaluate it, if that's what happens." The next Drain Board meeting is scheduled for Feb. 23.

The other issue over which O'Neil said he is angry at Heintz is an idea to evaluate the efficiency of locally-run parts of the drain system, specifically, a retention basin in Allen Park.

O'Neil said the city will have to bear engineering costs needlessly. "It's like they don't trust the county and the town to run this operation properly," he said. "I'm just really shocked at the whole thing."

Heintz said there is just an idea before the board to try to determine whether parts of the drain system are run more efficiently by local governments or by the county. "Whether it will even be done, I don't know," she said. "I have brought up a lot of fiscal questions on that Drain Board."

Heintz replaced O'Neil on the board just last month. The January meeting was the only one since she was seated on the board.

Caucuses bicker on the county board

cluding Grosse-Pointe-area representative David Cavanagh, and by Richard Manning (D-Redford), a former commission chairperson who is part of the Suburban Caucus.

Ed Plawecki (D-Deerborn Heights), who Heintz replaced as vice chairperson, said: "I think there's a disagreement on exactly how the commissioners are being treated, and whether the suburban commissioners are being treated equally to the Metro Caucus commissioners. It's my understanding she (Heintz) is a member of the Metro Caucus."

Heintz said that she was part of the Metro Caucus along with other suburban commissioners, before the rise of the Suburban Caucus. "Now, I'm not part of any caucus," she said. "I also don't believe in walking out of meetings."

She added that the disagreements over office budgets were premature, since nothing was decided on the figures.

Bad feelings over her position as vice chairperson arise because she is the only high-level county official who is a Republican, Heintz said. It was that fact that led the other commissioners to elect her, since she will be better able to help the county through party channels when dealing with Republican bodies or officials, she added.

"I am the only Republican in the whole county structure. There are thousands and thousands of Democrats in the whole county structure, and I am the only Republican," she said. "Establishment Democrats are not happy that I'm vice chair. I've been told that outright. . . There are a lot of people who don't want to see me vice chair."

Heintz stressed that she is not a member of any caucus, and that Cavanagh is the Metro Caucus vice chairperson. Cavanagh, Metro Caucus Chairperson Arthur Blackwell (D-Detroit), Commission Chairperson Arthur Carter (D-Detroit), and Commissioner George Cushingberry (D-Detroit) all could not be reached for comment earlier this week.

Three suburban commissioners reached Monday said they had thought she was still a Metro Caucus member, and two said they were under the impression she was vice chairperson of that caucus as well as of the commission.

In addition to Plawecki, Suburban Caucus members William O'Neil (D-Allen Park), who Heintz replaced as Carter's alternate on the three-person county Drain Board; and Milton Mack (D-Wayne) also said Monday they believed Heintz was still part of the Metro Caucus.

"She is a member of that caucus," O'Neil said. "She's asked to attend meetings I'm not asked to attend."

Heintz said if anyone believes that she is still part of the caucus, they are mistaken. But recent newspaper reports have labeled her a member as well.

"I think a lot of these stories are phony-baloney stuff. They are mainly incorrect, inaccurate," she said. "When you're a public figure, a lot of things are written about you."

She said the Detroit News, which ran a graphic including Heintz as part of the Metro Caucus, has been corrected. "Plenty of people have called them," she said. "I talked to the chairman today (Monday) and he says various commissioners are writing letters and everything. That's not the way I operate."

Caution urged in mail solicitation

The Northville Police Department is warning area residents that a nationwide fund drive for a police memorial is not all that it seems.

Several Northville residents have reported getting mail solicitations from the Law Enforcement Officers Memorial Fund, Northville Police Chief Rod Cannon said Monday. And although the organization has not yet been charged with breaking any laws, Cannon advises residents to be cautious about donating.

"I certainly am not against the memorial" — which would honor police officers who "gave the supreme sacrifice, their life," Cannon said. The memorial, authorized by Congress, would honor such officers nationwide.

However, the finances of the fund drive raise some serious questions, Cannon said — such as where most of the money is going.

"The problem is, people are getting these letters in the mail asking for donations, and there are some questions as to how it's being run," Cannon said.

According to Police Times magazine, only eight cents of every dollar donated is actually going to the cost of the memorial. "The rest of it is for administrative costs, which is questionable," Cannon said.

The magazine estimates that of $1.2 to $1.5 million donated so far, only $68,000 is earmarked for the memorial. According to the magazine, a tax return to the fundraising group showed $400,000 in public information costs, $125,000 in general management costs, and $250,000 in fundraising costs.

The fundraising letter states that the foundation will notify the local police department of anyone who donates to the fund — and therefore, by process of elimination, of anyone who does not donate.

"Nobody's saying there's anything criminal at this point, but eight cents on the dollar is not going to do the job," Cannon said.

The original Congressional authorization for the project included a five-year deadline, Cannon said. The deadline comes due in October, and according to Police Times, there is no design yet for the project.

Cannon said that it is very commendable that people are willing to donate to the cause, but they should realize the facts before giving.

He added that the Northville Police Department has no direct ties to the fundraising group.

Tax help available

The Internal Revenue Service will be offering free help in filling out federal tax returns locally this year.

The IRS has scheduled seven sessions at Northville City Hall for free, one-on-one assistance in filing returns. Both daytime and evening hours are planned.

The service is being offered in conjunction with the Northville Public Library. It will be held in the City Council chambers in the Municipal Building, 215 W. Main.

"This is a program for anyone. It's not limited to senior citizens," Library Director Pat Orr said. In the past, the community has hosted free tax help for seniors only.

Help sessions are scheduled for 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 23; 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, March 4; 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 16; 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, March 25; 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday, April 6; and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Friday, April 8.

Orr said more details should be available at the library around the end of January. The library's phone number is 349-3020.

Single family home starts rise in township in 1988

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Building statistics for 1988 released by the township last Tuesday, show an increase in single family housing starts over the previous year, but a decrease in commercial and multi-family building.

Township Building Official Mick Kruszewski said the dip in commercial and multi-family development is only a temporary lull for Northville.

"I see a lot more multi-family going up and it's very marketable," Kruszewski said, adding the trend in the township is toward a multi-family condominium-type home, while people seem to be getting away from apartments.

"For single family development, I see the same trend as last year, if not a little better," he said, noting the type of single-family homes built in the township will not be of the million-dollar variety.

In a recent interview, Township Planning Commissioner Barbara O'Brien said she believes the township has seen enough multiples and should concentrate on attracting higher income single family housing.

"I think we probably have done our share of multiples," O'Brien said.

Kruszewski, however, disagreed with O'Brien's statement and said rising housing prices may dictate the types of homes built in the township.

"It's (million-dollar homes) not happening (in the township) on a major-type basis because people are more inclined to spend something around $200,000 to $250,000," Kruszewski said.

"The prices of single family houses are getting out of sight, while multi-family homes are monetarily better for people to grab onto," he said.

As for commercial building, Kruszewski said there will be a "boom in commercial (building) this year. We don't have a lot of commercial property in the township, but what we do have people have been coming in and getting ready to develop it."

Hot spots for commercial development are located along Haggerty Road between Eight Mile and Five Mile roads, according to Kruszewski.

"It looks like commercial development is going to take off from one end of the township to another."

He noted that the many office developments which are either beginning construction or waiting for

Northville Trails subdivision gains site plan approval

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

For Northville Trail subdivision developer Luigi Cervi, the third time is a charm.

After having preliminary site plans for his project — located off of Six Mile and Haggerty roads — twice denied by the planning commission, the planners gave unanimous approval to Cervi's third proposal.

"There has been significant improvement in this layout than the previous two and most, if not all of our comments have been incorporated into this plan," said Commissioner Charles DeLand.

At the November commission meeting, planners rejected the original plan for the 85-lot subdivision due to "fundamental problems" with the proposed plans.

Revisions were made to the original plan and submitted for a special Jan. 12 planning meeting, but again the plan was denied.

According to commissioners, concerns with the plan included: the elimination of two stub streets, both of which access homes on the east section of the subdivision; change in the cul-de-sac configuration at the northwest corner of the subdivision allowing for better lot size; changing the direction of the curvature of the road and an improvement in storm water retention collection; and altering lot configuration to correct a problem of some lots fronting on the backyard of other lots.

Township Planning Consultant Claude Coates said at the Jan. 31 meeting, that most or all of the commission's concerns have been addressed by the developer.

Coates said the access road has been altered to remove the turn and noted design changes in the northern part of the subdivision has improved the configuration of some lots.

He said there are still five corner lots that have poor relations to other lots, a number Coates said can be reduced to two. He also noted no access has been shown for a water detention area.

"These are not serious concerns, however, and they could be handled at the next (final) site plan stage," Coates said.

Proposed sites of subdivision and two churches in Northville

1. Northville Trails Sub.
2. Road access to sub.
3. Temple Baptist Church
4. Ward Presbyterian Church

The site plan was passed by planners with three conditions: a lot split to be gained from Temple Baptist Church; 10 feet given off of the southeast lot to give access to a holding area; and an address problem resolution.

Township Planning Director Carol Henry said a lot split for the subdivision is necessary since the church sold one-half of their 64 acres.

Schools OK drug center

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

In its continuing effort to fight drug abuse and provide support for the community, the Northville Board of Education Monday approved the installation of a Community Commission on Drug Abuse (CCODA) Center.

CCODA will operate out of two rooms in Cooke School beginning in September. CCODA is the parent organization of the Student Assistance Program (SAP), which is currently being operated out of Northville High School.

CCODA Executive Director John Farrar said bringing the entire program to Northville will expand on the work currently being done by SAP Coordinator Charles Stillec.

The CCODA program currently has centers in Westland, Livonia, the Wayne-Westland School District and the Livonia School District.

Farrar said two board members from each group sit on the CCODA board. He added that as a full member of the program, the Northville School District will have two board members join the CCODA board.

To bring the program to Northville, the district had to guarantee CCODA two rooms and contribute $20,000. The contract between the school district and CCODA is for one-year and is renewable.

Farrar said the space at Cooke is ideal for the program because it can offer the relative privacy needed for people involved in CCODA.

Superintendent George Bell said he recommends bringing CCODA to Northville because "it is my feeling that this will provide a valuable community service as well as an educational support service which is certainly in line with the philosophy and intent of the preliminary draft of our Strategic Plan for the future."

In addition to continuing with SAP, Farrar said the new program will offer individual, group and family counseling — all on a sliding pay scale.

"CCODA is a non-profit organization which started 20 years ago to deal with the education, prevention and treatment of substance abuse," he noted. "We are also a fully licensed and accredited psychological outpatient clinic."

Farrar said the center treats people of all ages, but specializes in kids.

He said CCODA decided to come to Northville because the programs already in Livonia and Westland most of the commercial property is along Seven Mile Road.

Henry said she thinks most of the residential development in the future will be of the single-family variety.

were seeing many people from this area.

"Our treatment facilities tend to serve their communities and bordering communities as well," Farrar said, adding the center will be staffed by master's degree level psychologists and social workers.

He said the exact number of CCODA staff scheduled to work in the Northville branch and their hours will depend on the community's demand for services.

Northville High School Assistant Principal Bill Hamilton said the CCODA program will expand the services offered by SAP and "answers many needs for the schools and the community."

Northville Action Council member Roxanne Casterline said she is looking forward to the beginning of CCODA in Northville.

"I as a parent feel comforted that this program exists and is now available to our community," Casterline added.

Bell said CCODA will serve to enhance the work currently done by the Northville Youth Assistance.

Fire destroys two condo units

The investigation is continuing. "We're interviewing different people," Allen said. In addition, the fire department would like to see any photos of the early stages of the fire which anyone might have. Allen planned to review the PASS tape as well.

Anyone with any photos or information can call the city police and fire departments at 349-1280.

The condominiums which burned had already been sold, said Steve Friedman of the Selective Group development company. He said the financial loss was about $400,000, but that insurance will cover most of it.

"The response of the Northville Fire Department seemed to be very good in responding to the problem and their cooperation so far has been very good," Friedman said.

In an apparently unrelated sidelight to the fire story, the Northville Fire Department responded to a fire on the same site the day before the bigger fire.

At about 5 p.m. Friday, fire fighters put out a small fire just to the north of the burned units.

Allen said the earlier fire resulted from a construction practice of keeping sand warm to prevent it from freezing. Workers on the condo project had put a 55-gallon drum in their sand pile and started a fire in it to keep the sand thawed, he said.

"They had overfilled this thing and left it unattended," Allen said.

The Friday fire was put out in just a few minutes.

Local mall cited for fire violations

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Following an order issued by Wayne County Circuit Court, the Northville Township fire and building departments were allowed to inspect the Northville Plaza Mall last week.

The mall is located on Seven Mile Road, just east of Northville Road.

As a result of that inspection, Township Fire Chief Robert Toms said he cited Franklin Properties with 115 violations, some of which must be complied with during the next 15 days.

"Some of the violations are minor, but the situation is serious enough that we want them to comply," Toms said, adding most of the violations are in the mall itself.

He noted most of the plaza's tenants have complied with fire regulations, "but the situation could be dangerous."

Franklin Properties Partner Christopher Redding said his group handles the Northville Plaza Mall property and intends on complying with the fire department regulations.

"Of course we will comply (with the violations)," Redding said. "A large number of the items have already been taken care of and the rest will be addressed.

"We're happy to comply with the laws and ordinances of the township and intend to on this issue."

Township Attorney Ernest Essad said the township filed a suit in circuit court Thursday, Feb. 2 against Franklin Properties because fire and building officials were denied access to the premise to conduct fire inspections.

He said a restraining order was issued the same day giving the township access, and both Toms and the building official went through the entire mall.

Essad noted that if a major part of the concerns are not addressed, the township will ask the court for an order to have the necessary repairs made.

He said the most serious violations will be given a 15-day deadline for compliance from the date when Franklin Properties receives the notice — which Essad said should be the end of this week.

Essad said some of the more minor violations, like denoting handicapped parking spaces, will be given up to a 45-day time limit.

New Doctors Discovery

Weight Loss Pill
Approved for U.S. Gov't. Patent
'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight
Already Sweeping U.S.

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)—An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors' claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally"
Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising."

Flushes Fat Out of Body
The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat
According to one of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-bonding process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public
If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful fat-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (plus $3 handling), or $35 for a 180 pill supply (plus $3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. WX44, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. ### Card sharks

Salary increases pass city council

Ten administrators in the City of Northville got pay raises Monday, with all but one getting hikes of five or six percent.

The single biggest percentage increase went to the foreman at the Department of Public Works, getting 8.25 percent — partly because of a past decision that the salary was out of line with other positions in the area. The biggest dollar increase, at $2,442, went to the city manager.

The raises passed the city council 4-0 with little discussion. Mayor Chris Johnson was absent. The raises were recommended by a committee made of Mayor Pro Tem Carolann Ayers, Council Member John Buckland and City Manager Steve Walters.

All the raises are retroactive to July 1, 1988.

In answer to a question, Walters said there was room in the city budget for the raises.

Council members raised no objections to the raises as proposed. Last year, there was some objection to an original proposal — mostly on the part of Council Member Paul Polino and Mittman, who this year made and seconded the motion for approval. A revised set of raises passed last year's council.

Here are the old and new salaries, dollar increase and percent increase:

• City manager — from $53,102 to $55,544, up $2,442 or 4.6 percent for inflation and merit

• Department of Public Works Superintendent — from $43,514 to $45,514, up $2,000 or 4.6 percent for inflation and merit.

• Police chief — from $43,514 to $45,514, up $2,000 or 4.6 percent for inflation and merit.

• Police captain — from $39,686 to $41,512, up $1,826 or 4.6 percent for inflation and merit.

• Building official — from $37,814 to $40,178, up $2,364; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 2 percent based on area comparable rates and double-duty as electrical inspector.

• City clerk — from $31,740 to $33,408, up $1,668; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 1 percent based on merit and comparables.

• Housing director — from $31,366 to $33,014, up $1,648; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 1 percent for merit.

• DPW foreman — from $26,666 to $28,866, up $2,200; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 4 percent to bring more into line with comparables.

• Deputy clerk — from $22,048 to $23,206, up $1,158; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 1 percent based on comparables and merit.

• Executive secretary — from $22,006 to $23,206, up $1,200; 4.25 percent for inflation plus 1.25 percent based on comparables and merit.

In addition, the rates for fire fighters were raised 4.25 percent.

Randolph change?

A city plan to use Oakland County money for improvements to Center Street has been denied, so the city is instead asking that the money go to Randolph Street.

The city had proposed that its share of the county tri-party road program be used to add a left-turn lane on Center south of Eight Mile. Under the program, a local community pays one-third of a road improvement project, with the Oakland County Road Commission paying a third and Oakland County government paying the final share.

A memo to the city council from City Manager Steve Walters reports that the county rejected the Center Street proposal because the work is entirely within city right-of-way.

As an alternative, Walters suggested — and the council approved — applying to use tri-party money to close off the lane from westbound Eight Mile into Randolph and squaring off the Randolph / Eight Mile intersection. A traffic light is also planned at the corner, one which would be synchronized with the Eight Mile / Taft light.

The county has funded the program for the next three years, giving Northville a total of almost $20,000. Leftover money from past programs could create a project budget of about $35,000, if the county approves it.

Walters said it may be possible for the city to get its full allocation in a single year, if the county has enough cash flow due to some communities delaying their projects.

The city engineers estimate that the entire project will cost $58,150. Of that, $30,000 would go to the traffic light. Walters suggested the city might be able to do all the work except the light with the tri-party money.

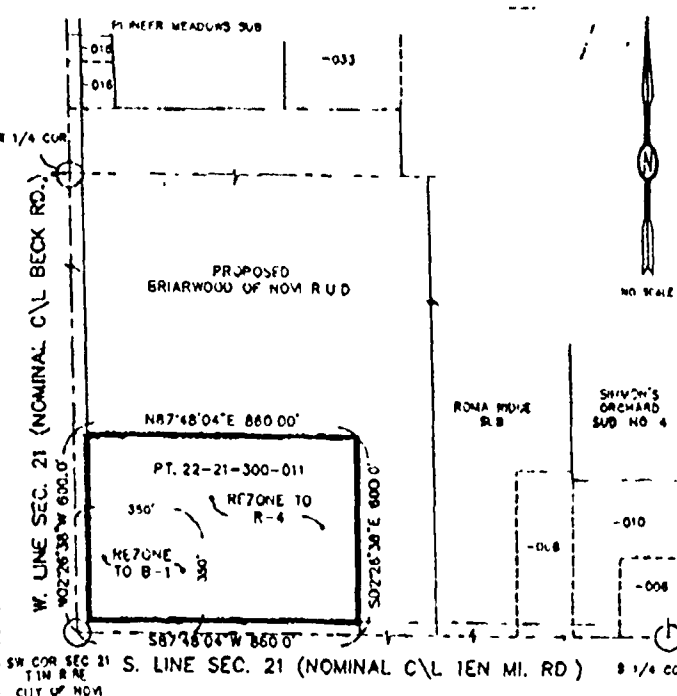

On a 4-0 vote, the council agreed to propose the Randolph project to the county.

If the county OK's the project, the final design will come back before the council for approval.

County, CWW reach accord on some garbage issues

capacity in landfills by requiring a 75 percent reduction in the amount of residential garbage which goes into landfills. It encourages alternatives like recycling and incineration and provides for a process to site new landfills and incinerators. Recycling — the preferred alternative — would mean a significant change for residents who could be required to separate household garbage by type.

One issue still outstanding between the county and CWW is the composition of the committee which will site new landfills.

"The county has moved towards us on this significantly," Breen said, by agreeing to a separate committee in the first place; the county implementation committee was originally set to site landfills.

"We're still talking about the composition of that committee, but in concept we're coming together," Breen said.

Mack said that the sticking point is the presence of three county department heads on the committee, and that the conference wants less county representation.

Another outstanding disagreement between the county and the CWW is an exemption — currently in the plan — which states communities with landfills do not have to meet the 75 percent reduction goal, as a mitigation to places with landfills and an incentive to develop new ones. The county favors this clause, but the conference opposes it.

"I think if a community is going to host a landfill, it ought to get some rewards or incentives for doing so," Mack said.

Breen said the requirement should apply to all the communities, and that even some host communities and likely host communities — Canton, Van Buren and Huron townships — agree with the CWW position.

Other issues include:

- Adoption of a hierarchy stating which types of waste disposal are best. The plan update presented in the fall did not include this, but at the suggestion of CWW, it is now included.

- The hierarchy is: reuse, then recycle and compost, then incinerate, and landfill the ashes and uncombustible residuals.

- "They pretty well have come along with that," Breen said.

- Applying the waste reduction goal to commercial and industrial sources. Currently, it would only apply to residential sources, which is believed to account for less than half of all trash produced.

- "We agree with the idea that it should be applied to the commercial and industrial users," Mack said. However, he added, there are concerns under state law about how far a county can go in regulating such waste. In addition, there may be practical problems in applying such a requirement.

"They haven't really done anything on that. We, on the other hand, haven't given them a solid way of doing it," Breen agreed.

- Including cost estimates in the plan for building centers for recycling, composting and incineration. The CWW favors this, and while the county does not disagree, Mack said it is not entirely possible.

The new version of the plan will have some information on recycling costs, Mack said. Incinerators are very different, though, because of land costs and non-specific standards on both state and federal levels for ash disposal. "Land costs vary from block to block," he said.

Incineration cost can vary from $15 to $150 per ton, depending in part on whether the ash is classified as regular, special or hazardous waste, Mack added.

Breen said the county is "waffling" on the cost issue, and added the conference believes some estimates should be possible to include in the plan.

Mack said March 6 is now the target date to discuss a revised plan draft at the committee level and release it for further public comment. He hopes for adoption in April, after which the plan would be sent to local communities, the county commission, and the county executive for consideration.

"What we're trying to do in this process is write a plan which has input from all the agencies which will have to approve it. That way, they'll have sort of pre-approved the plan and it should move ahead quickly," Mack said.

The plan must be required to be OK'd by two-thirds of the communities in Wayne County to be put into effect. If the county cannot get two-thirds approval, the state Department of Natural Resources is required to impose a plan on the county and the local communities.

The plan was supposed to be approved by Jan. 1, but Mack isn't worried about any state action.

"We're already past the deadline," he said. "The DNR is afraid to threaten us. They don't want to write this plan."

Along with the rest of the county, the plan will be applied to Northville Township and the City of Northville. The Oakland County part of the city will also be under the Wayne County plan.

Both the city and township are members of the Conference of Western Wayne, and both have endorsed the conference position (see related story). The CWW is a coalition of 17 communities in the west and northern part of the county.

Township and city back conference; township gives $2,000

The Conference of Western Wayne (CWW) efforts to change Wayne County's trash management plan have been endorsed by both Northville Township and the City of Northville, and in addition, the township has already put its money where its mouth is.

The county is nearing the final stages of a required update of its plan to manage trash, in the face of quickly-shrinking available space in area landfills (see related story). As part of the process, local governments — who will have to implement many parts of the plan — are asked for their input.

Recently, the Northville City Council gave its opinion by formally endorsing a position paper from the Conference of Western Wayne (CWW). The conference — an alliance of 17 local governments — has opposed several aspects of the county plan, although negotiations have resolved many of the issues.

At its meeting Monday, Jan. 23, the Northville City Council voted 5-0 to endorse the CWW position on the county plan update. The conference had requested individual communities to support the group position.

And Thursday, the Northville Township Board of Trustees also voted to endorse the CWW position.

One member — Thomas Handyside, who works in the solid waste industry — voted against the resolution.

The township also voted to contribute $2,000 toward the CWW trash management efforts. The money is supposed to go for a feasibility study on disposal alternatives, development of a recycling and composting program, application for grant money and legal fees.

The same $2,000 contribution is being asked of every member community in the CWW. City of Northville Mayor Chris Johnson said last week the city council might vote on the contribution at its next meeting, set for Monday, Feb. 27.

Although the CWW had notified its member communities that the $2,000 request was probably forthcoming, representatives did not vote to formally make the request until a meeting in Northville Friday morning.

Township considers church ordinance

"The fire department was never equipped to handle this type of structure."

Planner Richard Allen said this last statement by Toms is the main reason why the commission is considering placing restrictions on churches.

"The fire department is equipped to fight fires on only 40 or 50 foot (high) buildings, so that nails down that argument," Allen said.

The zoning restrictions on churches specifically discussed by planners include: limiting building height; placing a 4:1 or 3:1 ratio of setback to building height; and having a greenbelt area, the dimensions of which are still undecided.

Township Planning Consultant Claude Coates was instructed by the commission to have an ordinance draft prepared for the Feb. 28 planning commission meeting.

If an ordinance is approved quickly by both the commission and the board of trustees, such a move could affect the plans of Ward Church — to be located at the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

The most recent Ward site plan was tabled by the commission for many reasons, including problems with the parking plan and the commission's request for a traffic study.

DeLand said the current discussion of a church zoning ordinance is not being targeted at Ward Church, but at the township as a whole.

"It is unrealistic for the township to staff equipment to fight fires of one building," DeLand said, adding the ordinance could affect the new Ward plan.

"This ordinance is generally not being pointed at one particular church," he added.

Ward member James Abernethy said he has not yet seen the proposed ordinance and could not comment on the effect it could have on his group's project.

Abernethy did say, however, that the height of the church in Ward's new plan includes only an incidental increase in height.

"We have made no attempt to increase the height of the building," Abernethy said, adding that on his group's first proposal, the height of the building was hard to precisely measure.

Abernethy acknowledged the height of the proposed church is scheduled to be 120 feet at its highest peak.

He noted the Ward congregation has worked hard with the township on the project in the past and will continue to do so in the future.

"Ward Church has worked with Northville Township for a number of years and we have found their officials to be fair," Abernethy said. "I don't expect anything will happen to change my opinion."

At the present time township ordinances limit the building height of office and commercial development to a maximum of four stories. Commissioner Barbara O'Brien said the planners should require churches — which can be put in residential areas — to adhere to similar restrictions.

"It is inconsiderate to residents to have them live in the shadow of a tall building," O'Brien said. "It is unnecessary."

Planner Karen Woodside said churches taller than 50-feet would be out of character in Northville. "We should look at the scheme of Northville Township. It is primarily a country, rural community."

NORTHVILLE CITY COUNCIL MINUTES SYNOPSIS JANUARY 23, 1989

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE:

2. ROLL CALL: Present: Ayers, Buckland, Folino, Johnson, Mittman. Absent: None.

Also Present: Rod Cannon, Cathy Konrad, Ted Mapes, Bob Warner, Steve Walters and Bob Needham.

3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES:

The minutes of the regular meeting of January 9, 1989, were approved as corrected and placed on file.

4. CITIZEN COMMENTS:

David Totten, 791 Horton, asked Council for an up-date on the Baseline Road paving project.

Manager Walters stated they will have the engineering report by the next regular Council meeting on February 13. Once the engineering study is completed the road right-of-way (on the east end curve) will be discussed.

5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA:

Councilman Folino asked that a memo be sent to the Recreation Commission requesting the Council receive their minutes on a more timely basis. He also asked Greenpeace be notified that Council requests they do not canvas after 8:00 p.m.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt the Agenda, as proposed, and the Consent Agenda A, thru G.

CENTER-BASELINE ALLEY:

Manager Walters reviewed the engineer's report recommending closing the west end of the alley at Center Street by replacing the curb, top soil and grass seed. It would eliminate cut through traffic between Center and Grace streets and reduce the storm water runoff into the alley. Lowering the grade and re-establishing the driving surface with crushed limestone would eliminate flooded garages and accumulation of eroded earth materials. The residents on Baseline affected by that section of the alley closing would have their trash collected at the street.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to authorize the administration to spend funds as recommended by the engineers to close the west end of the alley at Center and lower grade of remaining alley at Center/Baseline.

7. OMNICOM CABLE TV SERVICES:

Ms. Boland, representing Omnicom, stated their costs are evaluated once a year. This past year they received a 30% increase in their fixed costs from cable channels like ESPN raising their costs. Prior to 1988, rate increases were approved through City Council. They now have uniform rates in Northville, Plymouth and Canton, and to accomplish this Northville received a $1.00 increase on basic service. They have renewed contracts with most of their channels now for 2-3 years and will not have increases like this last one.

Service improvements will be discussed at future meetings. The franchise with Omnicom is for 15 years.

8. PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH RE: TIME-RESTRICTED HANDICAPPED PARKING SIGNS:

Manager Walters stated the Presbyterian Church has requested additional handicapped parking on the west side of the church. He recommended time restricted handicapped parking signs for Sunday morning services. Chief Cannon has verified that the Michigan Vehicle Code allows such temporary handicapped signs.

City Council agreed to a 90-day trial.

9.A. MAIN/CENTRE AGREEMENT:

Manager Walters stated he received the agreement today and suggested Council review the document until the special meeting on January 30, when he would have had time to review it and report his recommendation, also, the city attorney will have had a chance to review it by then. City Council agreed to discuss this on January 30, 1989.

9.B. PARKING DECK ARCHITECTURAL

CONTRACT:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to authorize the Mayor and Clerk to sign the contract with Rich and Associates for a parking structure for the southwest corner of Cady Street and Center Street, subject to the review and approval of the City Attorney.

10. VETERINARY CLINIC ZONING:

Manager Walters reviewed the Planning Commission's discussions on the desirability of small animal veterinary clinics in the downtown and their eventual road block in developing general provisions for allowing these in the CBD. He felt it is feasible to develop a specially permitted use provision for veterinary clinics in the CBD that would restrict the use to structures which have only a single occupancy and do not have walls common with other properties. The question that City Council should decide is if veterinary clinics are desirable in the CBD.

Mayor Johnson directed the administration to prepare a draft to allow veterinary clinics in the CBD under a specially permitted use provision for the Council meeting on February 27.

Councilman Mittman requested that pet shops in the CBD also be restricted under a specially permitted use provision.

11. PARKING CREDIT POLICY:

Manager Walters reviewed the parking space credit policy. Each request to purchase parking credits will be reviewed on its own merits. The cost of parking would be at two levels. For changes of use and expansions to existing buildings of less than 50% additional floor space: $2,350 each. For new buildings and expansions to existing buildings in excess of 50% additional floor space: $3,400 each. He plans to have a written policy available to developers. In the case of a change of use, the Council could terminate the special assessment agreement with the landlord, and the building would retain that portion of parking space credits which had been paid.

Mayor Johnson, Mayor Pro-tem Ayers, Councilman Buckland and Councilman Mittman agreed with the City Manager's parking credit policy. Councilman Folino was opposed to two different costs. He wanted the parking space formula for new or renovated buildings to be the same fee.

12. COUNCIL MEETING DATE CONFLICTS:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to hold the regular City Council meetings in July on the 10th and 24th, and in September on Tuesday, the 5th.

13. WAYNE COUNTY SOLID WASTE PLAN:

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt a resolution supporting revisions to the Five Year Update of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan.

14. NORTH HURON VALLEY/ROUGE VALLEY FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS:

Manager Walters advised Council of the Custodial Account Agreement with Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit, and the Letter of Understanding pertaining to the Agreement and use of project funds that were sent to the City Attorney for his review and recommendation. The City will participate with Wayne County's bond issue and does not need to take any action at this point unless we want to respond to the documents Council did not have any comments.

15. 1989-1991 TRI PARTY PROGRAM:

Manager Walters recommended the Eight Mile Road and Center Street widening improvement project for the City's use of the three year cycle for a total of $19,146.

Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt the 1989-1991 Tri Party Program Resolution.

16. COUNCIL COMMENTS:

Council confirmed the appointment of Mayor Pro-tem Ayers as the delegate and Ted Mapes as the alternate to the Rouge River Watershed Council, 1/89-1/91.

Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular City Council meeting at 10:05 p.m.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED,

CATHY M. KONRAD,

Our Opinion

Township should move swiftly on church rules

Northville Township is considering an ordinance amendment that will restrict the height of churches. This is a necessary amendment and one that needs to be finished quickly.

Development

The township recently discovered a rather large hole in its zoning ordinance — one that could allow a church to be built with no limitation on the church's height. While the township rightfully controls the height of office and commercial buildings, the limitation on churches was never explored before. Recently, Ward Church has come in with site plans that call for a 10-to-11-story church. That would make the church the highest point of land between downtown Detroit and Ann Arbor — a very obvious point of reference on Six Mile Road in the township.

In addition, Fire Chief Robert Toms brought out a very important point. The township is not equipped to fight a fire in a building over four stories. If the township allows taller buildings, then the necessary equipment would have to be stocked.

Churches are wonderful additions to a community. Most zoning ordinances allow churches to be built in residentially zoned neighborhoods. This is true of Northville Township. With that in mind, the township move to limit the height — and to specifically tie the building setbacks to the size of the building and to require some greenbelt space — is a good one. Massive buildings do not belong in residential neighborhoods. Likewise, there is both a safety and aesthetic limit to the size buildings should be in the township.

Planners need to move quickly ahead with this change. While Ward Church will be a wonderful addition to the township, there is a limit to the size that building should be. The time to take action is now, before preliminary site plan approval is given.

Deadlines must be met

Missing deadlines is an old habit for Wayne County when it comes to selling the 1,040 acres of land it owns in Northville Township, and it appears to be one that is tough to break.

In November the county set up a series of deadlines for completion of steps that would assure the prompt sale of the land. As of this, the third week in February of 1989, the county has just begun to meet the timetable set for last November. This does not bode well for Northville.

While we understand that politics plays a role in almost everything that is done on the county level, after years and years of watching the land sit empty, the patience of the township has indeed been tried. For several years the county has said "We plan to have the land sold this year," and it has never come true. Apparently deadlines are both easily set and easily broken.

Some movement has been made, however. The land has been readvertised — and a fair number of developers have shown interest. Soil borings, wetlands mapping and other necessary steps will now be done so that the specifications for the land can be sent to those developers and they can in turn submit plans for the area.

The county has made some effort to keep the township informed. A meeting was held yesterday to bring Township Supervisor Georgina Goss and Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz (R-Northville Township) up to date. Having Goss and Heintz on the committee that will eventually decide on the developer to whom the land will be sold is a good idea. While the township will eventually decide on the proper use, through its zoning and planning approvals, Goss and Heintz can help speed the process by keeping the township's goals in the forefront of the negotiations.

We hope that the delays are over and that real movement and real deadlines will be the order of the day from now on.

Hats off to the NYA

Happy anniversary to the Northville Youth Assistance Program. Since its start in February of 1987 the program has grown, as has its influence on the community.

Mary Ellen King, director of NYA, noted that what started as a diversion for children who were in trouble with the police, has grown into a counseling and support system for children in trouble — and for the important "at-risk" children. Those are the children who have not yet seen the inside of a police station, but have been recognized by school officials, parents or social workers as being in need of support because of the potential for trouble.

The NYA program is a fine addition to the Northville community. Prevention is always a powerful tool with children, and the NYA's continuing work at helping both parents and children before serious problems occur, is crucial. The program allows police another means to deal with youthful offenders and provides a counseling system that can be of more help than juvenile detention in some cases.

A new training session will begin for NYA volunteers on Feb. 22. Many of the 58 volunteers with the program have said that the experience of the training process has helped them in their own lives, as well as in dealing with children through the program. If you are interested in volunteering with NYA contact King at 344-1618 for more details on the program. Interviews are necessary prior to beginning the training seminar.

Happy limericking

By Brenda Dooley

There was an old well in Northville
Countless water buckets it did fill Until one gloomy day,
The water flowed away
Though people flock to it still

In case you're wondering, that's my attempt at creating a limerick — a rhymed nonsense poem of five lines. The amusing form of poetry is said to have originated in Limerick, a county in Ireland. Limericks were first created by Edward Lear, a landscape painter, who designed verses and drawings to entertain the grandchildren of his friend the Earl of Derby.

I'll try my hand at it again:

An important young man of Northville
Decided to sit upon his windowsill
He seldom left his seat
Not even to eat
So now he must swallow a vitamin pill

OK, so maybe Lear was much better at it than I. Do you think you can do better? Good, because you'll have a chance. The Record and Novi News will conduct the First Annual Limerick Contest to give you, the readers, an opportunity to show us your limerick-writing talents.

The overall contest winner will receive a specially printed and framed copy of the winning limerick. And of course, we'll share it with other readers by publishing it in the March 16 edition of the Record, just in time for St. Patrick's Day. We'll also publish as many "runners-up" as possible.

Sharpen your pencil and try creating a limerick of your very own. Here are general guidelines to observe — the first and second lines rhyme with the fifth line and the shorter third line rhymes with the shorter fourth line. There are no other requirements except that the limerick must consist of five rhymed lines — the subject matter is up to you. (Please keep in mind that we're basically a family newspaper). Next week we'll print an entry form for the contest. Deadline for entering is Friday, March 10.

To give you a start, following are a few examples from the book "Laughable Limericks," compiled by Sara and John E. Brewton:

There was a young lady of Kent,
Whose nose was most awfully bent.
One day, I suppose,
She followed her nose,
For no one knew which way she went.

Get the idea? Here's another:

A silly young fellow named Hyde
In a funeral procession was spied;
When asked, "Who is dead?"
He giggled and said,
"I don't know; I just came for the ride."

From Molly Manley, receptionist in the newspaper office, comes this original creation:

A young lady from Northville, Mich.
Thought her community was all she could wish.
Then she learned all the facts
About property tax
And wondered whatever happened to Tisch?

Good luck. And happy limericking.

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

Most people realize The Northville Record and Novi News are produced by the same staff. Bob Needham and Bruce Weintraub concentrate on Northville; Phil Ginotti and Amy Rosa concentrate on Novi. But sports reporter Neil Geoghegan, living reporter Brenda Dooley and photographer Chris Boyd serve both newspapers.

Ann Willis is the big boss. She's the supervisor of all the reporters. I only supervise one person — Ann Willis.

All of that fascinating information is by way of introduction to telling you that I have been concentrating on Novi for the past week. Unlike Northville which published its centennial edition in the 1960s, the City of Novi will celebrate its 20th birthday next week.

And to mark the occasion we've been working hard to produce a 20th anniversary section especially about Novi. The section will be published in next week's edition of The News.

The scary thing about the project is the realization that I've been around almost as long as Novi. The city was incorporated in 1969; I started with the paper in 1971.

Reporters are reading back through old papers to pluck interesting names, events and tidbits from the contemporary history book we publish every week. And what's scary is that I know most of them. "Did you know the first mayor was a guy named Joe Crupi?" they ask. "Sure, I knew Joe," I respond.

What's neat about the project is the realization that my contemporaries — like Gil Henderson, Ed Kriewall, Romaine Roethel and many others — are a part of history. What's scary about the project is that it makes me feel very, very old.

I guess I'm lucky we're not working on the history of Northville right now. My family moved to Northville in 1955. I knew a lot of the current city leaders when they were kids ... and the stories I could tell. There, that ought to make them nervous.

Society needs tougher drug laws

To the Editor:

The advocates of legalizing drugs say that it will take the profit motive away from the drug pushers of organized crime. This may be true but it isn't the point. The point is, will it create an atmosphere that will be more conducive for our young people to reject drugs. I think the very opposite would happen. It would make the procurement of drugs so easily accessible, that it would create a huge jump in the number of users. It would be similar to the transition from the illegal lottery to the legal lottery in which millions of people who never gambled before became compulsive gamblers. What we need from this secular humanistic society is for the Supreme Court to pass down some rulings that would take the handcuffs off the police and allow them to arrest somebody. We also need judges with some steel in their backbone who would hand down some capital punishment sentences for drug pushing. So reject this new ploy by these politicians who promise Utopia but give us misery and hell. Vote these festering boils on the rump of society out of office. That concerned grandfather of nine angels and veteran of World War II,

Children of alcoholics need more support

This is another in the continuing series of columns written for the Record by Charles Stilec, Northville High School Student Assistance Program Coordinator.

Michael D. Mulvihill, MSW, clinical director of the Substance Abuse and Professional Services Program wrote the following article on Children of Alcoholics.

Much needed attention has emerged over the past several years regarding adolescent substance abuse. In both the educational system and in the treatment field we are beginning to identify the problems more rapidly and start the intervention process. Reaching all kids who have started the using cycle and facilitating their entry into high quality treatment is our great challenge, but significant strides have been made. For this, we owe many thanks to our Student Assistance Programs, Youth Assistance Programs and to qualified professionals in the community. However, there is yet another group of kids who we have scarcely begun to identify — they are the Adolescent Children of Alcoholics (ACOA's). In 1969, Margaret Cook called them "The Forgotten Children" in a book of the same title. Mrs. Cook was one of the first researchers to bring attention to this area when she studied 115 children one or both of whose parents are alcoholic. She concluded that these children have many serious problems or at-risk for problems and that the family of alcoholics are frequently overlooked.

While this research originally surfaced in 1969 these children in my opinion continue to be overlooked. It behooves us to learn more about them and begin identifying them with a goal of dealing with their current concerns or preventing future problems. Many of them will go on to become alcoholics themselves, marry one or become involved in some other kind of addictive relationship.

In school, these kids are often the "wall flowers" or the kids who steadily perform but refuse to bring attention to themselves. Frequently, they are not working up to their potential because of their preoccupation with the alcoholic.

Morehouse, in 1986 and Cork, 1969 have identified a number of feelings that are characteristic of these ACOA's:

- Children feel responsible, directly or indirectly, for their parent's drinking. They may be told, for example, "If you wouldn't bother me all the time, I wouldn't drink." This feeling may develop into the perception that something is wrong with themselves.

- Children equate their parent's drinking with not being loved. They feel, for example, "If dad really loved me, he wouldn't drink."

- Children feel angry with the non-alcoholic parent for not making things better. They wish that the non-alcoholic parent would provide protection from the violence that sometimes occurs or from assuming "parental responsibilities and roles." These children tend to be overly responsible and feel that "Mom doesn't look after us, so I have to be the mother."

- Children fear that the alcoholic will get hurt, sick, or die as a result of being intoxicated. They have difficulty concentrating on school fearing that, "Mom will fall asleep with a lit cigarette" or "Dad will have a car accident on the way home from work."

- Parent's inconsistent behavior makes adolescents reluctant to bring friends home because they never know what to expect. Many adolescents avoid close friendships because of this problem. They are often afraid to return home not knowing what to expect.

- Once children are old enough to realize that alcoholic drinking is frowned upon by others or is "different," they always feel shame and embarrassment. Many adolescents are willing to take criticism from friends or teachers rather than "expose" their parent's problem. When kids at school talk about having fun with their families these children feel very left out.

- When the alcoholic parent is more permissive or affectionate while intoxicated, the adolescent may want the parent to drink but then feel guilty. This guilt and confusion further leads into an inner world of preoccupation and shame.

Once the school counselor or substance abuse specialist demonstrates an understanding of what it is like to live with an alcoholic parent their first reaction is surprise, "How did you know?"

Often they will be tearful and the "floodgates" will open and the adolescent spills what has been kept inside and unspoken for so many years. This adolescent needs to know that his/her concerns and feelings are shared by most other adolescents with parents who drink too much. This process can work the beginning of a successful recovery from the effect of family alcoholism.

Finally, we need to continue to challenge ourselves, to identify these "Forgotten Children" and provide them with support and encouragement to bring out their hidden fears and potential.

Grant OK'd to memorialize Amerman

By LYRIC MATSON

A move is afoot to keep the memory of former Superintendent of Schools Russell Amerman alive by helping Northville students.

The Russell H. Amerman Program Incentive Grant has recently been established. The grant is an award for individual teachers and supportive staff in grades K-12 to use for special instructional projects that would otherwise be impossible due to lack of funding.

The program is being spearheaded by the Northville Rotary Club, which has voted to set aside a yearly sum of money to be awarded to teachers whose applications are chosen for the grant.

The grants are designed to provide teachers with incentive grants implementing creative ideas and innovative approaches toward teaching. They are intended to supplement other fund sources which support classroom activities and may not be used for textbooks, substitute teacher salaries, teacher stipends, conference attendance, college or university coursework or other professional development activities.

According to George Bell, Superintendent of the Northville Public Schools, "Russell Amerman was intrinsically a teacher... this kind of memorial will rub off on a lot more kids than just a scholarship for one."

Grant requests for special projects would be awarded in amounts of $100-

$500. The Northville Rotarians, at their meeting Dec. 6, elected to make an initial commitment of $1000.

Bell noted in a report to the Rotary, that the program would be best served by the establishment of a trust of $10,000-$15,000, so that the interest generated each year could make it a more permanent fund. Without this trust it would be necessary to raise at least $500-$1000 a year to make the award possible, he said.

As Amerman was a Past District Governor, the Northville Rotary is hoping that all clubs in the District will participate in the fundraising for this project. They are establishing a special account for this purpose and invite donations to be made to the Northville Rotary Foundation and earmarked for the Amerman Fund.

Amerman was an educator for 39 years, and served as Superintendent of the Northville Public Schools from 1932 until his retirement in 1965. Through his involvement in the Rotary Club, his church and the public school system he influenced a great amount of people including many children, Bell said.

"Russell Amerman was a very special person. This is a fitting memorial to the impact that he has had on the educational program in our community," Bell said.

Deadlines for grant requests will be May 1, with awards being made by Aug. 15. Applications will be approved based on originality, creativity and potential for impact at the classroom level.

How to Become a Non-Smoker

Elaine Kissel, Ph.D.

We have all heard of the smoker who suddenly decides to stop smoking, and does. We have also heard of the person who stops smoking after only one session of hypnosis. These cases are interesting because they tell us something about the potential within each individual to achieve a desired goal. But with further investigation we discover that more than 97% of those people go back to smoking within days, months or even years. Some extra stress, trauma or other stimulus even causes them to retreat back to cigarettes.

Cigarette smoking is a coping mechanism, an addiction, and whether it is physical, or emotional, it's an addiction that is difficult to alleviate. Until recently it was socially acceptable and considered harmless. Smoking involves motor as well as psychological processes and is an oral form of satisfaction and seems to relax the smoker. The hazards of smoking are well known yet do very little in many cases to force the relinquishing of cigarettes. Obviously smoking fills many needs.

Many smokers are concerned with weight gain and with withdrawal symptoms if they stop.

For these reasons careful and concerned help through hypnosis is most important. One session of hypnosis, as has been said before can initiate the process of change or in some cases help a person act upon a decision with more confidence. However, it is rare that one session of hypnosis can make a non-smoker out of everyone who smokes.

For a hypnotic suggestion followed by one person may have no effect on another, and the same is true for hypnotic inductions. Personalized hypnosis and the learning of self hypnosis and other self-supporting techniques are the answer. And since no habit is simple, and each person is a unique and complex human being, each subject needs to be understood and literally nurtured into becoming a non-smoker. And hypnosis is a superb tool for alleviating withdrawal symptoms and helping the client develop the confidence and coping skills needed to be comfortable in any situation without cigarettes.

The care, concern and specialized attention Elaine offers people to overcome smoking behavior and desires has proven effective. She teaches self hypnosis and Mind Mastery which enables those withdrawing from cigarettes to instantly overcome the urge to smoke and to re-inforce the new attitudes and behavior.

Some people stop smoking after their first sessions of hypnosis with Elaine, however to make the effect permanent, re-inforcement is essential. Other smokers gradually withdraw by cutting down, and here too, reinforcement is all important to reach and maintain the goal.

Elaine encourages natural withdrawal from smoking. That is, she encourages her client's subconscious to enact the change utilizing inner resources in whatever way is most comfortable and effective for the individual.

Learning to be a non-smoker need not be painful or difficult, nor need it result in weight gain. The desire to stop smoking, the personal decision is an important factor though, and without it non-smoking behavior is impossible to effect.

The potential in each person to reach a desired goal can be evoked in hypnosis, NOT FORCED. Yet Elaine has been instrumental in helping people who come to her to stop smoking understand themselves better and therefore make the decision to stop.

Rezoning on Oasis tabled to work out nearby green belt

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

The northern portion of the Oasis Golf Center escaped rezoning again last Tuesday, as the Northville Township planners unanimously voted to table action on the property.

Oasis parcels B (37 acres) and C (8.5 acres) were rezoned last July from residential (R-3) and general business (B-3) respectively, to small office (OS-1).

Parcel A, the northernmost section of the golf course, is a 6.7 acre parcel currently zoned cluster residential. The developer's rezoning request was for a change to office zoning. The Oasis Golf Center is located at Haggerty and Five Mile roads.

The rezoning of parcel A was originally tabled last October by planners to give developer James Blain an opportunity to purchase the property directly north of parcel A. Blain has offered to designate the property north of parcel A as open space — designed to act as a buffer between the proposed office project and residential developments located directly to the east and west.

Norman Hyman, Blain's attorney, said during the Jan. 31 planning commission meeting, that his client has completed negotiations with the property's three other owners and has agreements or options for all of the land up to the top of the triangle.

"He (Blain) will dedicate the tip of the triangle as a green space or buffer area," Hyman said, adding he believes the move should remove any concern the township may have as to any future development of the land.

Parcel A does not include the tip of the triangle.

Commissioner Charles DeLand said according to township attorney Ernest Essad the process of dedicating land as a greenbelt is too complicated to handle.

"We all want to preserve the tip of the triangle and you've said you want to so we'll see if we can work something out," DeLand said.

He has said the commission is interested in keeping the land as a buffer because it believes that rezoning will continue to "creep" along Haggerty Road unless action is taken to slow it down.

Hyman said the dedication of the land as a greenbelt does not guarantee that the land will never be developed, but said it is the next closest thing.

Hyman said he would contact Essad to discuss the issue.

In an interview Monday afternoon, Essad said the problem centers around the township being able to guarantee that the land will remain a "greenbelt."

"I think there is sufficient room under the ordinance for an office building on the land north of parcel A," Essad said. "It would be hard to get a developer to develop on the land."

Essad said that Hyman has contacted him since last Tuesday's commission meeting to discuss the issue, but added Blain's attorney made no formal request to have him review the case.

He noted a couple of options available to Blain may include drawing up a Declaration of Restriction or a scenic easement.

Essad said a scenic easement would give people of the township rights to "unfettered use of the property as a scenic view. It restricts the use of the land such that nothing can be placed on it to restrict their view."

He said any plan of action on the part of the township or developer will depend on Blain's attorney "and until I hear from him, we'll see."

"But I am sure we'll be able to work something out."

Blain has said if he is denied parcel A rezoning, he still intends to go ahead with the project on parcels B and C.

In addition to devoting land to open space, Blain has also offered to put in a 50-foot berm and limit the building size to one-story to appease concerns by Quakertown subdivision residents who abut his property.

Besides the proposed office building, Blain has also built the Northwest Airlines Reservation Center and other commercial buildings north of Quakertown.

"I plan on being cooperative with the township and surrounding neighbors because that's the way I've done business in all developments and I'm not changing," he added.

Commission OKs changes to Main / Center project

By BOB NEEDHAM

Several changes to the plan for the major "MainCentre" project downtown passed the Northville Planning Commission last week.

A reconfiguration of the building plan and an expansion over to a neighboring building have expanded the total square footage of the project from 89,620 to 94,530. Five new apartments have been added, to bring the total from 69 to 74 units.

The building, by the Singh Development Company, is planned to run along Center from Main to Cady, with groundbreaking expected this summer. Plans call for a four-story building of retail stores, apartments and a restaurant.

The major change from the previous plan which will be visible from outside is the expansion of the building to the west, so that the bottom of the building will now abut the Country Ridge Realty / Perrins building directly to the west. Previously, a 10-foot alley had been planned; the space will still be there, but it will be an enclosed 20-foot-wide area for loading and service.

The changes also mean an increase in the project's required parking spaces, from 249 to 257. The parking, largely in the form of a deck on the south side of Cady Street, is being designed separately.

The most discussion at the planning commission meeting Tuesday, Feb. 7 dealt with how the building and parking deck will fit in if Cady Street is widened or moved. A special city study of the area is examining the possibility of a relocated Cady Street.

George Erdstein, architect of the MainCentre project, said the current plan is to connect the building and the parking deck with a pedestrian bridge over Cady. Some commissioners questioned how that would work if Cady was widened or moved. Singh Vice President Michael Kahm said the current design would not preclude a Cady Street widened for two-way traffic all the way through.

The revisions to the plan passed the commission 5-0, with four members of the commission absent.

City Planning Consultant Don Wortman said he had some aesthetic concerns about a pedestrian bridge connecting the main building and the parking deck, saying that often they don't look good. Kahm agreed that pedestrian bridges sometimes don't look good, but said they can, and that the MainCentre bridge would look fine. He said there are some such bridges in Ann Arbor.

Some preliminary parking deck designs are expected in a couple of weeks.

City's court revenue drops

A financial report on the 35th District Court showed a drop in revenues to the City of Northville last year.

In a report to the city council Monday, Judge James Garber said the money from the court to the city decreased by about $3,000 in 1988 as compared to 1987. Revenue to the city declined by about $2,500 while costs increased about $500, Garber said.

However, a great increase in activity — largely in Canton Township — meant that the city's financial share of overall court operations dropped from 9.5 percent to about 8.2 percent. Overall ticket revenue for the court was up about 18 percent, Garber said.

The decrease in revenue came with an almost identical number of cases from the city: from 2,939 in 1987 to 2,940 in 1988. "I don't think you could have planned it that way if you'd tried," Garber said.

He suggested the revenue drop might be due to fewer drunk driving tickets and more speeding tickets written. Drunk driving fines are higher.

Although the revenue drop was probably an anomaly, the court will keep an eye on the figures and keep the city apprised, Garber said.

The fact that the court is a revenue source at all for its communities is unusual, Garber said. While the 35th District Court annually returns money to its municipalities, most municipalities in the area have to financially support their district courts.

"If you'd told me 10 years ago we'd be in this good shape, I'd be overjoyed," Garber said.

The 35th District Court, on Plymouth Road in Plymouth, serves Northville, Northville Township, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township.

Agreement on county land tract won't come before mid-summer

Henry said the land was readvertised from Nov. 13 through Nov. 23 because inadequate proposals were submitted during the first ad campaign, by developers. He noted the county received 25 developer proposals during the second advertisement.

According to Henry the list of 25 developers has been paired down to 12, all of whom are being considered for development of the property.

He said the next step in the process is to send out specifications on the land to developers, who will then send full-blown detailed development proposals to the county.

As for delays in developing the property, since county buildings were closed in 1978, Henry said disputes over ownership of the entire parcel have slowed the process.

He added the county now believes they have cleared all ownership disputes and have all the titles necessary to sell the property to developers.

Henry said the county can now concentrate on attracting quality development that will return the highest tax yield to both the county and township.

Heintz said if the county has clear title to the land it has made a major breakthrough in the sale of the parcel.

She noted the county called for an informational meeting on Wednesday (after Record deadline) to update local leaders on the county land sale. Township Supervisor Georgina Goss was also scheduled to attend the meeting.

Ordinance procedure clarified

The back-and-forth juggling of a proposed city ordinance on in-home day care may give rise to a change in city procedure for zoning ordinance amendments.

City Manager Steve Walters on Tuesday, Feb. 7 proposed an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would clarify the procedure for changing any part of that ordinance.

The procedure for amendments to the text of the zoning ordinance has been somewhat up in the air; a public hearing has been required before any change, before either the city planing commission or city council.

Walters recommends changing the ordinance to specifically state that for any change to the zoning ordinance — either to the text or to the zoning map — a public hearing must be held before the planning commission. The commission must then send a recommendation to the city council for action.

Walters' recommendation arose from research to deal with the city's day care ordinance. The ordinance started at the city council, was sent on to the planning commission for input, returned to the council — and will now go back to the planning commission for a public hearing before a final return to the council for a vote.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman said he will draft an ordinance to clarify the procedure for changing the zoning ordinance. That, itself, will have to go through a hearing at the planning commission and a council vote.

"We're in no hurry on this thing. We've gone along this long," Wortman said.

Appe'teaser gets 'shot in the arm' on 10th birthday

By DAWN RIFFENBURG

As the Milford Appe'teaser nears its 10-year anniversary this June, owner Chris Angelosante is injecting some new life into the famed restaurant, a move he hopes will give the eating establishment a "shot in the arm."

The management staff additions and changes are due largely to growth, Angelosante explained. Nearly 10 years ago, when Angelosante opened the Appe'teaser, it seated 60 people. Now, it has grown to a 160-seat restaurant.

The success of the Appe'teaser eventually prompted Angelosante to open two additional establishments, including a Birmingham Appe'teaser, opened in May 1986, and Novi's Appe'teaser-To-Go, opened in 1987.

"Since we've done all that expanding, I've come to realize that what I had here was perfection," he said. "It was a perfected place in terms of service and food. When I got done opening all these restaurants, I realized I hadn't developed any managers."

Angelosante recently hired three new managers and a chef, bringing new blood to the Milford establishment.

"It's been a few years of working with people, of sifting through them, of trial and error, but I finally have a management staff here that's everything I could expect," he said.

Those new additions to the staff include:

□ Rick Kirchner — Kirchner has lived in Milford for 20 years. He said he's seen the downtown evolve into "a storybook block," and believes the restaurant has been a part of that rejuvenation.

"Rick's very much a business manager," Angelosante said. "He sees a lot of things in and about people and how they're handling their job. He thinks like I do."

Kirchner's immediate goal for the Appe'teaser is to "keep the good and go along with the new," he said.

□ Lucinda Axler transferred to Milford from the Birmingham Appe'teaser, where she trained for two years.

Axler has been with the Milford restaurant since mid-October.

"She carries a real strong fist when dealing with people," Angelosante said. "She's firm but fair."

One goal Axler has identified is to accommodate the business customer, perhaps by faster service at lunchtime, for example.

"We have a great staff here, and a lot of the waitstaff has been here for a long time," she said. "But everybody can always get better. If we rest on this plateau, we'll never reach our goal of 110-percent service."

□ Teri Booth — The Highland resident began by waitressing at the Appe'teaser.

"She quickly showed management potential," Angelosante said.

"Teri rounds off the whole thing. She brings to the table her corporate experience, plus a pleasing warmth."

Booth's background is with the C.A. Muer Corp. Some of her plans for the Appe'teaser include a new focus on the community.

"For instance, we do things for the senior citizens, like take them our day-old bread and a birthday cake every month to the home as well," she said. "We want people to feel part of our family."

□ Pete Roth — Milford's new chef came from the Birmingham Appe'teaser and has known Angelosante since high school. He said he is working on some menu changes, including the use of more seasonal food.

"I'd like to concentrate on lighter fare, but not real expensive things," Roth said. "I'm not planning 50 things with lobster, maybe something more in the line of interesting new chicken dishes. I'm constantly looking for a challenge. I don't want to be complacent."

Roth said he plans to inject more variety into the Appe'teaser menu.

"We have a good chemistry," Angelosante said about Roth. "Pete's contributed a lot to the kitchen, and brought in a lot of creative, new ideas."

Expanding and growing has divided Angelosante's attention three ways. Since the Milford restaurant was already running smoothly, he said service and business dropped somewhat while he concentrated on the two new establishments.

"What we really had here was perfection," he said. "I was in every corner of this restaurant. Anything wrong was corrected immediately. It was easy to build a business here."

Then we opened a new restaurant, and I'm not here in the dining room anymore. I'm not here in the kitchen anymore. The staff needed enthusiasm and constant reminders."

The three new managers will be

Angelosante's eyes and ears, paying attention to all those little details that make the Appe'teaser a success, he said.

This tree died of a heart attack.

Carving hearts on trees seems harmless enough.

But the fact is, it cut short the life of this majestic oak.

By gouging into the bark, vandals crippled the tree's vascular system. So, like thousands of other innocent victims each year, the tree slowly died.

But the fight against vandalism is gathering strength from the example of Lynn Brauer and Carol Eichling.

When vandals girdled a 300 year old Chinquapin Oak near their Marthasville, Missouri home, they wrapped the wound in sphagnum moss and tended the tree daily, despite blizzard conditions.

If not for the severe winter, arborists feel the Chinquapin might have survived.

We believe miracles can take root. When people care enough.

Give a hoot.
Don't pollute.

TOYS FOR PETS

BY BRENDA DOOLEY

Patches, the calico cat, basks in the warmth of the afternoon sun.

Through sleepy eyelids the contented feline lazily gazes at a fuzzy pink toy mouse laying on the floor beneath her cozy windowsill seat.

The cat yawns deeply, stretches her paw high into the air and jumps down to the floor to playfully bat the toy mouse around. It skitters across the ivory tiled floor while she watches with intense concentration.

Patches chases the pink mouse, pushes it again with her paw, watching as the toy glides under the safety of an overstuffed chair. Little foam-filled balls are scattered in several of the kitty's favorite hiding places, ready for her to retrieve when she wants to play with them.

Moments later the sunny windowsill beckons to her and the cat returns to her favorite place to nap.

Not far away Rusty the dog dozes on the pet-weathered red and green plaid basement couch, his wet puppy nose resting upon a well-chewed rawhide bone. Rusty dutifully ignores a basket snugly fit with a pillow that was meant to serve as the dog's bed.

Before settling down for a nap, the long-haired reddish brown puppy spent carefree hours playing with his puppy toys - a squeaky yellow bird, a worn rubber baseball, a brand new rawhide bone just waiting to be chewed.

The playthings temporarily substituted for his owners while the house sat empty.

A blue rubber ball lies completely still on the couch cushion where Rusty sleeps. Within a paw's reach, the ball is also pockmarked with teeth indentations.

An afternoon of playful activity has tired the two pets.

Here and there throughout the comfortable country house sit wicker baskets overflowing with rubber bones, small stuffed animals, colorful balls, knitted puppy and kitty sweaters and squeaky toys in the shapes of hamburgers, hotdogs and pretzels.

Obviously Patches and Rusty belong to a generous pet-loving family. Their toys represent the affection often bestowed upon them. And when the owners are busy at work the toys offer Rusty and Patches an outlet for their unending energy.

It's common for pet owners to spend money on toys for their beloved dogs, cats, gerbils, rabbits, horses, birds or whatever animal species lie closest to their hearts.

Trips to the pet store wouldn't be the same without roaming through countless aisles of pet treats, pet food and of course, pet toys.

At Sunshine Pet Center in Northville, owner Yvonne Jacques said business is good for a broad range of dog and cat toys.

The most popular for cats include an artificial mouse, that looks like a real one and brings out the "hunting instinct" in the cat, Jacques said. Other favorite feline toys include the Cat Dancer toy which is a wire action toy; the fake fur jumping spider; and any type of Cat Nip toy, but particularly the Bopper, a sock-like toy with cat nip and a string that can be attached to a door, and the Cat Comber which is a self-grooming aid with cat nip that Jacques said her own cats just love.

For dogs the list is led by the Nyla-Bone, which is a safe nylon bone for chewing which cleans a dogs teeth and is stocked in different flavors and sizes. Then comes the Tuffy, which is an aero-dynamic rubber toy that is guaranteed to withstand all the chewing a dog can do. It, too, cleans the pet's teeth and gums.

Jacques recommends any type of large latex ball, and the Buddha-bone which is an all natural rope bone that can be put in the washer. She does not recommend raw hide bones as they are tough for dogs to digest, she said.

Specialty Pet Supplies in Plymouth offers an impressive 5,000 square feet of shopping for enthusiastic pet owners. Salesperson Cindy Hyer said the most popular pet toy at Specialty Pet Supplies currently is the Un-bone, a stuffed animal that isn't really stuffed. Other big sellers include a squeaky toy named Bucky Big Ears, Nylar bones, Buddah bones and little latex pigs.

Holey socks, cast aside tennis shoes and old tennis balls can also provide hours of entertainment.

Eight said: "Yes"
Two said: "No"

"It's ok as long as my boyfriend doesn't spend too much time looking at it."
"It's well done."
"It's indecent exposure and leads to pornography."
"You bet!"
"What does it have to do with sports?"

Sellas works to beautify Northville

By DOROTHY NASH

The most beautiful property in all of Wayne County, according to Catherine (Tina) Sellas, is Northville Township. And, as chairman of the Northville Township Beautification Commission, she volunteers to keep it that way.

She meets monthly with five women and six men, each of whom is employed full or part time, to discuss and implement beautification projects.

For example, they are now talking about having bike paths put west through Six Mile Road and west through Seven Mile to Maybury State Park, Sellas said. This means having landscaping along the roads and encouraging new construction to help keep "the countryish look".

Also, with Arbor Day coming up on April 15, Sellas said, they have asked the Township Board of Trustees to purchase seedlings of trees like light spruce, pines, and flowering dogwood which Township residents may have at no cost, to plant on their own property.

And to encourage businesses, schools, and institutions to put on an attractive face in landscaping, windows, and overall appearance, the Commission will give Beautification Awards to those most deserving as judged by committee members in September and May.

For a few recent Commission accomplishments, Sellas suggested you look at the Fish Hatchery Park sign and surrounding planting (done cooperatively with the City Commission) and the painting of the exterior of the Northville State Hospital vacant building (done in response to a letter).

If you are a Township resident, interested in maintaining the natural beauty of the area in which you live, why not go to the Township hall to apply for membership in the Beautification Commission?

You can be a part of a group of residents who, as Sellas said, "enjoy thinking about things and seeing that they get done."

Catherine (Tina) Sellas enjoys volunteering

In Our Town

Town Hall hosts lecture by Esser

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Ticketholders of the Northville Town Hall Series are reminded that the appearance of Phil Marcus Esser has been changed from March 9 to March 2.

Town Hall Committee members moved Esser's appearance ahead by one week because of scheduling conflicts.

Esser will speak at 11 a.m. at the Plymouth Hilton, followed by a luncheon. Tickets for the luncheon can still be purchased. Deadline for buying the tickets is 7 to 10 days prior to the Town Hall lecture.

Tickets are $11 and can be obtained by sending a check payable to Northville Town Hall, P.O. Box 93, Northville, 48167, Attention: Virginia Kaiser, Luncheon Chairperson.

After 20 years of performing, Esser has become metro Detroit's busiest and most versatile producer of musical entertainment. The baritone folk singer is probably best known for his soulful rendering of the melancholy love songs of Jacques Brel, usually sung with his longtime partner Barbara Bredius.

Last year Esser wrote, produced, sang in and created original music for the Michigan Sesquicentennial. In addition, he produced and coordinated all of the outdoor entertainment for the first Detroit Festival of the Arts.

Northville Town Hall is enjoying its 28th season of providing entertainment to local residents. The committee has hosted appearances this year by television consumer reporter John Stossel and Hollywood critic Susan Granger.

Northville Woman's Club to meet

Northville Woman's Club will meet Friday (Feb. 17) at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville at 1:30 p.m. Guest speaker will be Mrs. Helen Garber, a Plymouth resident, who's presentation will be entitled "Let's Chat About Presidents." Chairperson of the event is Donna Bock.

Historical Society plans meeting

Today's (Feb. 16) board meeting of the Northville Historical Society will be held at the home of the Cassadys, 47250 Chigwidden Drive, in the Northville Estates subdivision.

Local doctor attends inauguration

Dr. and Mrs. James S. Tsoucaris of Northville recently attended the Inauguration of President George Bush and Vice President James Danforth Quayle in Washington D.C.

Their seats were 50 feet from the presidential viewing stand. In addition to witnessing the Inauguration on Friday morning, the Northville residents attended the Presidential Inaugural Ball at the Sheraton Washington that evening. They also viewed the Inaugural Parade and the American Bicentennial Presidential Inaugural Opening Celebration at the Lincoln Memorial.

Dr. and Mrs. Tsoucaris also attended the Michigan Inaugural Kick-Off Reception on the roof of the Hotel Washington and Congressman Carl Pursell's breakfast on the morning of the Inauguration.

The Northville couple reported that the event was "a very patriotic experience... something everyone should have the opportunity to do at least once."

Historical Society continues ticket sales

A few reservations are still available for the Northville Historical Society's Progressive Dinner, which will be held Saturday, March 11.

Those interested in attending the event should contact JoAnn Dalziel at 349-5166. Donation for the dinner is $35 per couple for members of the Historical Society and $40 for non-members. In addition, those attending will be asked to provide a designated dish toward the dinner.

Proceeds from the evening will benefit the restoration of the Cady Inn at Mill Race Historical Village.

The evening will begin with cocktails at either the Yerkes House or the New Church building at Mill Race Village from 7 to 8 p.m. Guests will then proceed to their designated dinner home — one of the 17 homes in Northville participating in the event.

Prior to March 11, guests can expect to receive their home assignments, recipe suggestions and copies of all recipes to be served. A check payable to the Northville Historical Society confirms the reservation.

As in the past, the Society will compile a waiting list because last-minute cancellations have proved a need for extra names.

Dinner theater planned

Fairlane Assembly of God in Northville and Dearborn will host the Rhema/Drama Dinner Theater on Feb. 17-18.

Theater performances will be shown at the Clarenceville United Methodist Church, 20300 Middlebelt in Livonia.

The Rhema/Drama Dinner Theater provides entertainment for the entire family. Appetizers will be served at 6:30 p.m., followed by an elegant, full-course meal.

Menu selections include yellow fin tuna with dijon sauce and chicken en papillote. The theater production follows dinner.

Tickets are $14 per person and must be purchased in advance in the foyer, after Sunday morning and evening services or from the Fairlane Central Music and Drama office between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

For ticket orders and further information contact Susan Harrison at 561-3300.

Northville group to aid in fund-raising project

The Northville Branch of the American Association of University Women (AAUW) will take part in meeting a nationwide $250,000 challenge grant launching the Eleanor Roosevelt Fund for Women and Girls. The fund was created by the AAUW Educational Foundation last summer in celebration of a century of fellowship awards and grants to women.

"We are beginning a new century of funding that will shape a brighter future for women and girls," Winifred Fraser said. "We recognize that early education is the key to preparing girls for future challenges, so we will put our resources into helping teachers provide the training that will allow girls to tap their full potential," she added.

Action and research that will be sponsored by the Fund centers on:

- Teacher Enrichment sabbaticals for elementary and secondary teachers to enable them to reach girls in math and science and potential dropouts,

- research that will have relevance for schools and communities, and
- community action projects suggested by the research.

In addition to qualifying as a charter member of the fund by raising $5 per member, the Northville branch will help recruit teachers this spring for the sabbatical program. The sabbaticals will provide teachers with time and resources to increase their effectiveness with girls in math and science courses and with girls in peril of dropping out.

The role of women and girls in the next generation of scientific and technological achievement is of supreme importance, according to the organization. AAUW, which values a diverse membership, promotes equity for women, education, and positive societal change.

PTA News is published weekly in the Record. This week's news is from Meads Mill Middle School. Any school interested in publishing its PTA or school news in the Record should contact the newspaper at 349-1700.

Congratulations to the following sixth graders who earned A's in all of their academic subjects for the first semester: Angela Baca, Tim Beemer, Anthony DeBenedet, Kristin Domeracki, Nikki Ebel, Lindsay Ferguson, Beth Ganfield, Christine Goering, Katrina Heckemeyer, James Holman, Jenny Hursey, Brandon Mossio, Shawna Murphy, Mark Pomaroli, Jeremy Sweet, Mike Vartanian, Kim Yaeke, and Rocky Zizzo. In other sixth grade news, the Liv-Oaks Middle School Spelling Bee winners included Meads Mill's own Laura Brown as the individual spelling champion! Other team members were Annie Marrs, Shawna Murphy, Brad Smith, Mike Vartanian, and Rhonda White.

The second annual Knowledge Master Open was held on Feb. 8. Over 1000 teams of fifth and sixth graders from the United States and Canada compete via computer on a range of subjects. Last year, Meads ranked in the top 50 of all teams in the nation.

Band Director Gary Gandolfi reports that the Meads Mill band participants in the annual solo and ensemble competition received all one and two ratings. This is the first time the band has accomplished this.

They were awarded medals for their efforts.

Eighth graders have been busy with science projects which were displayed last week, and several academic contests in the works. Students are preparing entries for the Detroit Free Press Writing Contest and the Wayne County Intermediate School District Writing Awards Program. In the America and Me essay contest, Destiny Lopez placed second and Jessica Holderman placed third.

Four students were selected to participate in the Detroit Country Day Math Contest on Feb. 4. They were Marc Chlason, Nathan Connell, Pagag Parekk, and Ellen Song. All eighth graders entered the Michigan Mathematics League Competition on Feb. 8. Concepts math students will compete in an interdisciplinary math and social studies program called "President's Rally" on Feb. 17.

Students will be bringing home information about a unique fund raiser by the PTSA in co-operation with the Detroit Edison Co. It is called group energy management. For each home that receives a home energy analysis, the school will earn $4. There is no charge to the homeowner.

There will be no school for middle school students on March 9 and 10 due to the school hosting the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators Conference on those days.

The next PTSA meeting will be March 7 at 7:15 p.m. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Plans begin for Girls State

Eight sponsorships to the 1989 session of the American Legion Auxiliary Girls State program are available to girls in their junior year at Northville High School, the local Northville Auxiliary to Post 147 announces.

Interested girls in their junior year are invited to contact Alta Olson, junior class advisor, in the high school counseling office to make application for the local scholarships to the program which will be held June 10-18 on the campus of Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant.

The auxiliary notes that this is the 49th session of the program designed as a practical experience in the problems of self-government as operated in Michigan.

Delegates to the 1989 program will be selected by mid-March and their names sent to Girls State by the April 1 deadline.

Local organizations and businesses supporting the program with full sponsorships to the nine-day Girls State are:

Northville Mothers' Club, which sponsors two delegates; Northville Branch, Woman's National Farm and Garden Association; Northville Kiwanis; Northville Woman's Club and Northville Business and Professional Women, a joint sponsorship; Belanger, Inc.; Casterline Funeral Home, Inc.; and Northville Downs.

Local Girls State chair Jean Day and co-chair Nan Oliver note that the Northville community is fortunate to have so many sponsors making it possible to send the eight qualified junior girls to the program in government.

Candidates for the program must attend the full nine-day session, be citizens of the United States, be in their junior year (11th grade) and be returning to complete their senior year at Northville High School.

Either Day or Oliver may be contacted for more information about the program.

Northville gains St. James American Catholic Church

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Nearly a year ago Father Leo Beauchamp took a gamble.

The obliging, kind-hearted, silver-haired man took a dream of creating the first American Catholic Church and molded it into existence.

Beauchamp probably wouldn't call his venture into unknown territory a gamble, though. An eternal optimist, he recognized a need for the St. James American Catholic Church and had faith that he would succeed.

An ordained priest of the Old Roman Catholic Church in North America, he now leads a congregation of about 26 families, or 60 people.

"We're happy with that ... we started with nothing," Beauchamp said. "We have new people in our congregation every Sunday."

Families from Northville, Novi, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Plymouth and Canton currently attend the church, according to Beauchamp. Some are divorced people who have somehow "fallen away" from the Catholic Church, he added.

"A person's past doesn't matter to us," Beauchamp said in his friendly, soft-spoken voice. "We don't ask any questions — all that matters is that they're practicing their faith. I'm not interested in transferring a person from church to church — we're here for anybody."

The congregation currently meets at Silver Springs Elementary School in Northville. Mass is celebrated every Sunday at 10 a.m. The church is supported by collections taken at Sunday Mass.

When it was initially formed last March, Beauchamp held Mass at the Mill Race Historical Village church. Because the building only has one entrance, the Northville Historical Society — the group that rented the church to Beauchamp on a weekly basis — had problems securing fire insurance for the structure.

Beauchamp explained that Northville Historical Society members appropriately requested that the congregation find another place to meet, leading them to Silver Springs Elementary School.

"It was no problem for us," Beauchamp said about the move. "It doesn't really matter where we meet and the school is great."

Plans for starting an American Catholic Church were first discussed among a group of Catholics and priests in April 1986, Beauchamp said. In October 1987 they decided to form a church under the leadership of Beauchamp, the first church of its kind.

Actual formation of the church began in March 1988, when masses were celebrated at Mill Race Village. Northville was selected for the church location because Beauchamp grew up in the area, he explained.

St. James American Catholic Church differs from the Roman Catholic Church in four areas — the church welcomes married or unmarried priests, communion is offered for all people (divorced, or divorced and remarried), birth control is allowed within the marriage (although the church does not advocate abortion) and communal confession is provided at the beginning of each Mass rather than the traditional one-on-one confession. However, Beauchamp said that private confession is available upon request.

"Most people don't know much about us," Beauchamp said. "Fifty percent of our exposure comes from advertisements. We get a few phone calls asking what we're all about and I usually invite people to attend Mass. We're a legitimate church."

"We use the same altar books, use the same literature and wear the same vestments (as the Roman Catholic Church does)," he added.

Roots of the American Catholic Church can be traced back to the 7th Century. Its origins come from the ancient Catholic Church of Utrecht, Holland, often called the Old Roman Catholic or Old Catholic Church.

"At that time some Catholics wanted celibate clergy and some didn't," Beauchamp explained, trying to keep the historical narrative simple. "All priests were married at one time."

Growth and development of the Old Catholic Church was acknowledged by religious leaders, including the Popes, and the independent Catholic movement came to America in 1914.

"We named ourselves American Catholics in 1986," he said. "In 1987 we got serious, obtained legal status and adopted constitutions and by-laws. We also became affiliated with the Old Roman Catholic Church."

Although the American Catholic movement is small it is surely gaining strength, represented by the fact that Beauchamp was just recently consecrated Bishop of the American Catholic Church.

"We felt the need for a bishop as part of our organization," Beauchamp remarked. "It was not my dream to become bishop — it was sort of handed to me."

Eventually there are plans for constructing an American Catholic Church "somewhere in the area," according to Beauchamp.

Beauchamp accepts no salary from the church. He and Sally, his wife of 33 years, support themselves by building and selling houses. The Beauchamps have a daughter, Vicki, who lives in Ann Arbor where she works as a free-lance writer.

Beauchamp studied at St. John's Seminary in Plymouth and Sacred Heart in Detroit. He was preparing to become a deacon in the Roman Catholic Church but couldn't resolve philosophical differences. He split from the church and got married.

In 1984 Beauchamp was ordained by the International Christian Churches in Florida. He became pastor of an Independent Church for two years before becoming involved in the American Catholic movement.

As Bishop of St. James American Catholic Church, Beauchamp seems happy to be exactly where he is now

Volunteers working on an oral history project discuss upcoming plans

Group seeks volunteers for project

By BRENDA DOOLEY

A group of Northville residents make it their business to listen to people.

Through the combined efforts of the Northville Public Library and Northville Historical Society a handful of earnest volunteers have embarked on an ambitious project — to record oral histories of 105 residents in the community.

The cooperative project began in July 1988 and volunteers hope to complete it next summer. But the committee needs help.

"Most of the people who volunteered for this project agreed to volunteer thinking it would be a short-term project," said Diane Rockall, director of the oral histories project. "It's turning into more than that now. We need more volunteers."

A committee of 11 has interviewed 42 residents so far. The interviewees come from a variety of areas, including Northville, Northville Township, Novi, Salem and Plymouth Township.

The project involves compiling a list of prospective interview candidates, contacting them by mail and obtaining a biographical history of the interviewee. Next an interview is scheduled, a list of questions is drawn up and the interview is recorded.

After taping an interview, a written transcript is recorded, a lengthy process that involves listening to the tape and doing some editing. Library Coordinator Al Smitley and Sally Hendrickson have been working on the transcripts.

"There tends to be variations in places and locations and how people remember them," Rockall said. "But the variations don't disturb the project volunteers."

"That's the flexibility of what oral history involves. I think it's the flavor of what we're looking for," said volunteer Kathy Leo.

So far only three written transcripts have been completed. Eventually there are plans to compile the tapes into a master index of subjects.

"There are a lot of applications for them (the tapes)," Leo remarked. "If someone was trying to do family history, they could find out about the street they live on, or what the town was like..."

Rockall said most of the oral history the committee has compiled comes from the 1920s and 1930s, although there is some that dates back to just after the turn of the century.

Longtime Northville Library supporter Betty Griffin first dreamed up the idea of recording oral histories of the area. At the same time, members of the Northville Historical Society considered embarking on such a project.

Northville resident Mernie Hines, who is involved in both groups, suggested that the library and Historical Society combine efforts. And the idea was born.

Some of the volunteers themselves have tidbits of local history to offer.

"Nicknames in Northville were horrendous," volunteer Marian Zayti recalled. "Cabbage Town got its name because it's in a rural area where lots of gardens were planted. A lot of people planted cabbage and we all know what happens if cabbage sits too long in the field. The smell drifted into town from that area..."

"And Beal Town was named after Mr. Beal."

Each volunteer has an interesting anecdote to tell as a result of an oral history interview.

"Mr. Amerman boggled my mind when he talked about financing the schools during the depression," volunteer Mernie Hines said.

Other project volunteers include Werna Roberts, Betty Griffin, Lois Winters, Claudine Kinnaird, Faye Reeves and Phelps Hines.

Rockall stressed that volunteers are needed to ensure that the project is completed. Volunteers are sought to help with interviews, transcription and clerical functions such as making phone calls, photocopying and record keeping. If interested in volunteering for the project, contact Rockall at 349-9005.

Homestead Gallery showcases new art

By PHIL GINOTTI

Splashes of brilliant color — the reds, the oranges, hot pink. Or confounding grey images of sadness and personal pain. These things confront you on your very first step into the Homestead Gallery of Contemporary Arts, a surprising new venture near downtown Walled Lake.

The studio, located at 136 South Pontiac Trail in the old Tuttle homestead, promises "non-intimidating" surroundings to experience, study, and buy new art. It's been open approximately two months.

"That's the idea of it," said Terry Shapiro, a co-founder and president of Homestead. "We want people to walk in and not be afraid about what to do or what to ask."

It's a unique environment, full of twists and challenging contradictions. New, but old.

The Tuttle homestead was one of the first to go up in the area. Back in the 1830s, settler Jesse Tuttle and his wife Martha carved their property out of the wilderness near the northern shores of "Chin-A-Bee-Win," which, of course, later became Walled Lake.

George Ross Tuttle was born in 1832 — the "first white birth" in Walled Lake Village, according to history books.

Now the home with the rich history — the still-solid oak floor — houses a variety of provocative artistic creations, difficult to pigeonhole as avant-garde or "new wave."

On one side of the small "working studio" sits bright, traditional new watercolors from a local talent lake scenes, landscapes. On the wall sized German expressionist-style portrayal of a difficult time in her life.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Sitting on a nearby display table is "the bondage box," a ceramic creation (about the size of a hat box), illustrated with dark and realistic portrayals of human bondage and the tools of the craft.

"Working on consignment allows us to be a little bit more adventurous," Shapiro said. "We don't say to the artists 'Give us the just the stuff that will sell.' We ask them what they've got in the corner of their studio, what other things they're working on."

But in Walled Lake, of all places? Shapiro admitted that it was a chancey move.

"We just fell in love with this place ... it's absolutely intriguing," she said gazing at the view out over Walled Lake.

"We're very happy to be here. We hope it's going to draw people from all of the western suburbs," she said.

Shapiro and her partner, Doree Schwartz of Franklin, are currently leasing the bottom floor of the old home, but are moving towards purchase once various improvements are completed.

The gallery has a number of special events planned for this year, including a visit from the Michigan Sculptor's Guild in late May, and sponsorship of Walled Lake's Market Days, scheduled for Sept. 17.

It also is leasing out studio space to artists and holding periodic classes, all with the goal of creating a "working gallery" for local artists.

The Homestead Gallery is closed Mondays, but open from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. the rest of the week, and 11 a.m. until 9 p.m. on Thursdays and Fridays.

The phone number to the Homestead Gallery is 669-8980.

Mustangs send three grapplers to state meet

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If any team in the area deserves to qualify three individuals for the MHSAA State Wrestling Meet, it's Northville.

Not to be outdone by any local team, the Mustangs advanced six grapplers to the Individual Regionals on Feb. 11 at Plymouth Canton — so it was poetic justice that three of the six managed to survive the brutal competition and move on to the biggest, most important meet of the season. During the regular season, the rock-solid Mustangs had a 14-4 dual meet record and grabbed the school's first ever WLA Western Division crown.

"To get three through is very, very good," Northville Assistant Coach Bob Boshoven said. "We would have obviously liked to see even more, but being realistic, having three is great."

It's the most individuals a Mustang team has qualified for the state meet in a long, long time. Sophomore Brandon Mardosian in the 112-pound classification, junior Garnett Potter at 145 and senior Mike Hale at 189 will form the Northville contingent who will be battling the state's best on Feb. 17-18 at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

"Having three in the finals hasn't happened here in a long time, and it was an extremely tough regional," Coach Jack Townsley said. "To get anybody through would be a great accomplishment."

I'm very happy for a senior like Mike Hale. He stuck it out through the hard times and now he deserves the good times we're having right now."

All three Mustang qualifiers placed fourth at Canton and slipped into the field because the top four in each weight division were allowed to advance. But it also means Northville's chances for a state title are pretty remote because all three will be paired with regional champions in the first round of competition this weekend.

Mardosian dropped an early match to Omar Burciaga of Adrian (6-4) but fought back in the consolation round and beat Dustin Pawlick of Southgate 11-8 to get into the consolation finals and assure himself of a trip to the state finals. In the battle for third place, Mardosian fell to Burciaga

"(Burciaga) is a senior and a real tough kid," Boshoven said. "Brandon wrestled him very well."

The biggest surprise of the tourney for Northville may have been Garnett Potter. He lost in the first round to the eventual runner-up finisher from Temperance-Bedford but came back to beat Eric Schellenbarger of Livonia Churchill 4-2 in the loser's bracket. In the consolation finals, Potter was pinned in the third period by Redford Catholic Central's Brian Tulley.

"I'm never completely surprised by what happens at these kinds of events, but of the six that made it (to the regionals), I don't think I'd pick Potter as one of the favorites to advance," Townsley said. "But he's been solid for us all year. He has a 25-9 record, and most of his wins came at 152."

After topping Jeff Komaromi of Belleville in round one, Hale lost to old nemesis Derek Tharp of Westland John Glenn in the second round. Tharp pinned Hale in 1:07 and went on to grab second place in the 189 weight class. In the consolation semifinals, Hale pinned Catholic Central's Lou Yeager (3:56) in impressive fashion, but then fell to Komaromi in the second period of the consolation finals.

"It was Hale's third loss in three tries to Tharp," Boshoven said. "I thought Mike should have had third place because he beat Komaromi earlier in the day."

Kevin Khashan (103), Andy Frey (130) and Bob Townsend (160) were also regional qualifiers, but failed to place. Khashan lost to the eventual champion in the first round, grabbed his only win of the competition in round two and then was knocked out by Gil Perez of Adrian in 3:45.

Frey also suffered two losses in his first three matches. His win was over Lucian VanCleave of North Farmington, but the losses were to 130-pounders from Dearborn Fordson and Romulus. Townsend fell in his first two matches, but both came against eventual state qualifiers.

"I was the most disappointed for Andy Frey — and not because he didn't perform well," Boshoven admitted. "He is such a good wrestler and has been for four years — it's just too bad he didn't get a shot at the state meet as a senior."

Salem knocks wrestlers out of tourney

Without stars like Kevin Khashan and Brandon Mardosian in the lineup, Northville chances to upend Plymouth Salem in the MHSAA Team District Tournament on Feb. 8 were non-existent.

After clobbering Plymouth Canton 61-6 in the quarterfinals, the host Mustangs dropped a lopsided 49-16 decision to Salem which knocked them out of the team tourney. Khashan was recovering from the flu and Mardosian was nursing a muscle pull, so neither competed in the team competition.

"If we would have had a chance to beat Salem, I would have put them in, but we wanted both to be fit and ready for the individual regionals," Northville Coach Jack Townsley said. "Salem is a superior team. It's tough for us to beat somebody like that even if we are healthy."

The Rocks opened a 19-0 lead before the Mustangs could break the losing cycle with back-to-back victories by Andy Frey and John Kochanek. Frey (130) outpointed Mike Shumate 16-7 and Kochanek (135) won a 9-4 decision from Jeff Coleman. Salem wrapped it up with wins in five of the last seven bouts. Garnett Potter and Mike Hale were the remaining two victorious Mustangs. Potter topped Chuck Apligian and Hale pinned Anthony Perkins in 1:31.

NORTHVILLE 61, PLYMOUTH CANTON 6: The Chiefs didn't put up much of a fight in the first clash of the districts for the Mustangs.

Northville was credited with 11 victories in 13 tries, but seven of those were defaults. The list of actual winners included Matt Maliszewski (112), Kochanek (130), Frey (135), Potter (145), Bob Townsend (160) and Darren Kehoe (171).

"It was an easy one," Townsley said. "They voided a bunch of weights to us, so it wasn't much of a challenge."

Harrison pulls out 74-65 win

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Emotions play a big role in athletics, but pure athletic ability is often the cornerstone of success.

The Northville cagers stayed with visiting Farmington Harrison last Friday (Feb. 10), and did it with an emotional, fired-up performance. But the Hawks' athletic superiority won out at the end as the Mustangs dropped a competitive 74-65 decision.

Harrison — who's lost only twice in 19 tries this season — out scored Northville 43-30 in the middle two quarters, and that was the difference in the game. Chris House and Heath Myers combined for 47 points in the contest for the Mustangs, but didn't get much help. No other Northville player scored more than six.

"We played them nose-to-nose," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "Harrison has beaten us twice now, but they haven't blown us out."

The Mustangs took an early three point lead after eight minutes of play, and appeared to be headed for a 31-31 tie at intermission, but guard Mill Coleman sank a three-pointer at the buzzer to put Harrison in front for good.

"That one took a lot out of us mentally," Harrison said. "We played a lot on emotion — so psychologically, it affected us. Every time we'd score or do something positive, (Harrison) would come back and respond. We thought we would be even after one half and then Coleman hits a long-range bomb."

The Hawks increased their lead to 10 after a 24-17 run in the third quarter, and again, Coleman was the leader with two more three-point shots in an eight-minute span.

In the final quarter, the never-say-die Mustangs narrowed the lead to six on several occasions, but never got any closer.

"Our kids never gave up," Harrison pointed out. "We had eight fewer free throw attempts in the

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville's Dudley signs with BGSU

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

After greeting Northville High's Bob Dudley with a friendly "How ya doin' big, guy," Bowling Green State University Assistant Coach Reggie Oliver proceeded to get the 6-foot-5, 220-pounder's signature on a National Letter of Intent, stating his desire to play college ball for the Falcons.

In return, Bowling Green is guaranteeing the former Mustang grid star a full-ride athletic scholarship. The signing took place on Feb. 8 in a conference room at Northville High School. It was the first day college football recruits could sign the binding letters of intent.

Dudley only played one season of varsity high school football, but college recruiters from most Mid-American Conference schools, most Ivy League schools and even others like Vanderbilt and Northwestern, showed interest in him. Dudley narrowed his choices to five — Vanderbilt, Brown, Pennsylvania, Air Force and Bowling Green — before picking the MAC school in northern Ohio.

"The Ivy League schools are very expensive and they don't grant financial aid," Dudley said. "Vanderbilt's in Tennessee and that's just too far from home and I really didn't want to commit to five-years service after I finished school at the Air Force Academy."

"But Bowling Green was great. The facilities were the best I've seen and the people were great. The football program is the winningest MAC team in the 1980s."

Present for the signing was Dudley's mother, Mary Lou and Northville Football Coach Darrel Schumacher.

"I think Bob made a good decision and he'll be happy down at Bowling Green," said Mary Lou Dudley. "He's an enthusiastic student and athlete and I'm sure he'll do just fine. The school is only 90 miles away so I'll be able to see him play."

Despite just two seasons of organized football experience, Dudley made great strides last fall and became a defensive standout for the Mustangs. He registered 39 solo tackles and 18 assists, and was named to the Sliger-Livingston East, All-Area squad as a defensive lineman.

"We begged Bob to come out for football as an underclassman," said Northville Athletic Director and former football Coach Dennis Colligan. "It's scary to think how good he can be with some more experience. He's got tremendous potential as a player, he's highly motivated, a good student and at 6-foot-5, he has the frame to bulk up."

According to Dudley, he didn't give football a try until his junior year. He started off on the junior varsity squad, moved his way up to the varsity ranks his senior year and is now very glad he gave it a shot.

"My dad really didn't want me to play football, but after my parents were divorced the summer before my junior year, I decided to try it," he said. "I'm very glad I did."

Bowling Green recruited Dudley as a defensive end, which is basically the same position he played last fall for the Mustangs. Oliver, a five-year assistant under head coach Moe Ankney, also signed Nick Martin, a 6-3, 280-pound offensive tackle from U-D High School in Detroit on Feb. 8.

"We have a good group of recruits this year," Oliver said. "With only two, this is probably the lowest number we've signed out of Michigan since I've been at Bowling Green. Every year, the State of Michigan has been good to us."

Oliver, who is the Falcon quarterback coach, said the Bowling Green coaching staff liked Dudley because of his size and speed.

"All of Bob's football is in front of him," he said. "To find an athlete of his physical size and athletic ability is a big plus. He's got the frame to put on weight and we knew he came from a good background."

Dudley, who carries a 3.3 grade point average, made an official recruiting visit to Bowling Green the second week in January and made up his mind soon after that. And even though the whole recruiting process

Swimmers top WLW, Brighton

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

After losing two meets in a row in mid-January, the Northville tankers have bounced back nicely.

Last week, the Mustangs won a pair over Brighton and Walled Lake Western to extend their winning streak to four and raise their season record to an impressive 8-2 mark overall (6-1 in the WLAA).

The 67-16 whitewash against Western on Feb. 9 wasn't entirely unexpected. Northville proved its superiority by taking firsts in all 11 events, and added a handful of personal best swims to boot.

"(Western) isn't strong traditionally, and it was in our pool, so we expected to win," Mustang Coach Mark Heiden said. "It gave us a chance to swim a lot of kids in different events and so consequently we had kids scoring points who normally don't get much of a chance."

Sophomore standout Eric Newton paced Northville with individual victories in the 500-yard freestyle and the 200 IM (2:04.7). In the 500, Newton's time of 4:53.21 set a new school record, was a personal best effort by four full seconds and qualified him for the state meet in the event. It was one of the state's top 12 performances in the 500 this season.

Another highlight was diver Rob Devyak's ninth straight win. Devyak headed into the competition ranked sixth in the state but his score of 269.85 may move him into the top three. This season, Devyak has yet to lose to an opposing diver.

The rest of the Mustang wins came from Bob Holdridge in the 200 freestyle (1:57.07), Chris Handyside in the 50 freestyle (23.83), Brad Cook in the 100 butterfly (personal best 58.17), Dan Brugeman in the 100

Record/CHRIS BOYD

freestyle (personal best 56.46), Chris Nix in the 100 backstroke (1:15.17), Matt Hanna in the 100 breast stroke (personal best 1:08.99), the 200 medley relay team of Dave Morante, Hanna, Matt Schlegel and Kevin Smoot (1:56.56), and the 400 freestyle relay team of Handyside, Cook, Holdridge and Greg Thomas (3:44.95).

The Northville seconds included Nix in the 200 freestyle (2:25.59), Handyside in the 500 freestyle (personal best 5:27.54), Schlegel in the 100 butterfly (1:04.33), Steve Lang in diving (232.05 point total) and Smoot in the 100 freestyle (personal best 1:01.88). The thirds came from Thomas in the 200 IM (2:45.14), Adam Fisher in the 100 backstroke (1:25.66) and Brugeman in the 100 breast stroke (1:18.21).

NORTHVILLE 90, BRIGHTON 82: In a meet that was a little closer than expected, the Mustangs edged the host Bulldogs by eight points on Feb. 7.

Northville managed just five wins but outpointed Brighton in most events with superior depth. Again, the Mustangs had an extraordinary number of personal best performances, and that made Heiden happy.

"We pretty much beat Brighton with our depth," he said. "They were very fast but we outpointed them. I am happy with all our personal bests — I always look at that to measure the success of a meet."

Newton was the only two-time winner for Northville. His time of 4:57.14 in the 500 freestyle was a personal and school record at the time, but those marks lasted only two days. He was also the winner in the 200 IM (2:04.65).

The rest of the first place finishes were notched by Devyak in diving (241.50 point total), the 200 medley relay team of Newton, Hanna, Cook and Handyside (1:48.52) and the 400 freestyle relay team of Brugeman, Lang, Matt VanHorn and Jason Stringer (3:44.69).

Mustang runner-up finishes came from Stringer in the 200 freestyle (personal best 1:58.35) and the 100 butterfly (1:00.22), Handyside in the 50 freestyle (personal best 23.81) and the 100 freestyle (personal best 52.93), Hanna in the 100 breast stroke (personal best 1:09.03) and Lang in diving (216.35). The thirds included Cook in the 200 IM (2:14.24) and the 100 freestyle (53.77), Holdridge in the 100 butterfly (personal best 1:02.05) and the 100 breast stroke (1:09.36), nanHorn in the 500 freestyle (personal best 5:35.13) and Morante in the 100 backstroke (1:04.86).

Northville will travel to North Farmington tonight (Feb. 16) to take on the Raiders in what promises to be a very competitive inter-division clash.

Gymnasts set mark, fall to John Glenn

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

For the second time this season, the Northville gymnasts dropped a dual meet by less than a half-point, and that had Mustang Coach Michelle Charniga complaining about the judging.

Behind the scoring of All-Stater Wendy Minch, visiting Westland John Glenn edged Northville 131.3-130.9 on Feb. 9 to end a five-meet winning streak by the Mustangs. Ironically, the team's 130.9 score set a new school record by 85-hundredths of a point, but was four-tenths behind the Rockets.

"One of the judges had car trouble and couldn't make it, so we only had one," Charniga said. "When that happens, you tend to see scores that aren't balanced — and that's what happened."

"It was very discouraging because we scored over 130 again, set another school record, and still got beat. The ball just doesn't seem to bounce our way in the close meets. It's the second time we've lost by five-tenths of a point."

Minch showed why she is perhaps the top high school gymnast in the state. Her all-around score of 38.00 (out of a possible 40) included individual wins in all four events. Her teammate Debbie Williams was second in the all-around (35.5), followed by Northville's Wendy Beach (34.4).

"(Glenn) had two outstanding performers but then the level dropped dramatically from there," Charniga said. "Our strategy was to beat them with depth, and I thought the girls did very well — but the scores were a little low."

The Mustangs — who beat Glenn five days earlier at the Plymouth Canton Invitational — lost the meet in the balance beam. It was the only event the Rockets managed to outscore Northville, but because it was by more than two points, the Mustangs were never able to recover.

"I wasn't disappointed in the effort but I was a little disappointed in our balance beam scores," Charniga said.

In the vault, Northville grabbed a narrow lead with a team score of 32.7. Beach led the Mustangs with an 8.4, but was third overall. Lee LaChance was fourth (8.2), Stacy Kasmarick fifth (8.1) and Melanie Apiligan sixth (8.0).

Glenn failed to gain any ground in the uneven bars, but again Beach's 8.9 was only good for third-place overall. LaChance was fourth (8.4), Mia DeHart fifth (8.1) and Robyn Chatman sixth (personal best 7.9) as Northville scored 33.0 as a team.

"A 33 is about right for us," Charniga said. "We did well in bars."

Problems in the balance beam — including falls and low scores — enabled the Rockets to open a 99.0-97.4 lead and that was the difference in the meet. DeHart led the Mustangs with an 8.6 (third place) and was followed by Beach in fourth (8.1) and LaChance in sixth (7.8).

"I thought we were off a little as a team, but the scores were low for the level the girls were performing," Charniga said.

Charniga and the squad knew a lot of ground needed to be gained in the final event to pull out the victory, and even though Northville did outscore Glenn in the floor exercise, it wasn't quite enough.

"Wendy (Beach) went into her routine knowing we needed a 9.4 to tie, but that's a pretty unrealistic thing to place on a kid," Charniga said.

Beach ended up placing third overall with a 9.0.

Spikers dump Canton second time around

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Holding true to form, the Northville volleyballers played well and won their Wednesday match last week, but had more trouble two days earlier on a dreaded Monday.

For whatever reason, the Mustangs seem to play their best volleyball on Wednesdays. That's why they have yet to lose a match that falls on that particular day of the week. Back on Jan. 23 — a Monday — Northville dropped a 15-4, 15-7 decision to Plymouth Canton. But the rematch was on Feb. 8 — a Wednesday — and the Mustangs unceremoniously dumped the Chiefs 16-14, 15-1.

"It was a Wednesday night match — what else can I say?" Northville Coach Paul Osborn asked. "I told the girls before the match that (Livonia) Churchill is the only team in our division that is good enough to beat us when we are playing well. It feels good to beat Canton the second time around because it shows that we are improving."

In game one, the Mustangs jumped out to a 3-0 lead after the first rotation but the Chiefs rebounded to tie the score at 9-9 after rotation number two. From there, both teams went point for point with the score tied at 12-12 and then at 14-14. But senior Debbie Stevens served out the game, getting the 15th and 16th points in a row.

"I think the turning point was late in the game when Stevens and (Jenny) Urbahns started to shut down Canton's two outside hitters," Osborn said. "It was a hard fought game."

With renewed confidence, the Mustangs scored the first 13 points in game two to win the match going away. Jenny Cipicchio, Sue LaPrad and Nancy Belding were instrumental in the victory as they combined to serve for 10 Northville points in the game.

"It was 2-0 after the first rotation and then all of a sudden, the girls started getting points off their serves. Canton made it harder on themselves with three bad serves in a row in that span," Osborn said.

For the match, the Mustangs served at 81 percent, set at 92 percent, hit at 87 percent and had an 88 percent serve reception rate — the highest so far this season. Belding led the hitters with 15 hits and seven kills. Stevens added 12 hits and five kills.

"Nancy Belding is probably our hardest hitter but she had been having a hard time with her timing prior to the Canton match," Osborn said. "Overall, we probably had one of our better outings as a unit."

LIVONIA CHURCHILL 15-15, NORTHVILLE 6-6: The Monday evening curse continued for the Mustangs on Feb. 6. Despite a season record of 10-9-3 (4-4 in the WLAA), Northville has a woeful 1-4 mark on Mondays.

"It was a Monday night game, but I think the fact that Churchill is one of the best teams in our conference had a lot to do with it," Osborn pointed out. "We actually played pretty well. We have nothing to be ashamed of."

Although the lopsided score didn't show it, the Mustangs played a solid match, and forced the talented Chargers to beat them with accurate hitting.

"(Churchill) made very few mistakes and they hit very well against us," Osborn said. "We didn't give them anything — they had to earn it."

Game one started off very competitively. After one rotation, the score was tied at 6-6, but the Chargers proceeded to score nine in a row from that point on, but it did take them two more rotations to put Northville away.

Game two was very similar. After one rotation, the Mustangs held a modest 5-4 lead, but after the next rotation, Churchill had built an 11-6 cushion. In the next rotation, the Chargers wrapped it up with four straight points.

"The two games couldn't have been more identical," Osborn said. "We only had three bad serves the whole match, but again (Churchill) hit to the open areas and beat us."

Statistically, Osborn was happy with his teams serving (91), hitting (81), setting (87) and serve reception (79) percentages. He had kind words for middle blockers like Stevens and Urbahns, who played well at the net. The two combined for 10 solo blocks against a good spiking team.

Locals excel for Bulldogs

Local Northville youngsters performed very well for the Bobcat Aquatic Club at the Golden Serpent Meet several weekends ago.

In the 13-14 age division, Jodi Wesley was second in the 500-yard freestyle (5:37.08), fifth in the 200 IM (2:24.12), sixth in the 200 breast stroke (2:45.86), the 200 backstroke (2:32.87), and 200 freestyle (2:08.91). In addition, Jim Lee was first in the 200 butterfly (2:21.31), third in the 400 IM (5:19.78), fourth in the 100 freestyle (57.51), fifth in the 200 backstroke (2:30), and sixth in the 100 backstroke (1:09.89). Mike Speerschnelder was fourth in the freestyle (5:42.35), fifth in the 100 backstroke (1:09.23), and sixth in the 100 freestyle (57.96).

Swimming in the 10 and Under 200 Individual Medley was Erica Anderson, and she placed first (1:35.04).

In other 10 and under events, Amity Heckenmeyer was first in the 50 freestyle (29.16), second in the freestyle, third in the 50 breast stroke (40.77), fourth in the 200 IM (2:55.54), fourth 100 breast stroke, and fifth in the 50 butterfly. In addition, Rebecca Anderson was fifth in the 100 butterfly (1:35.04).

In the 11-12 age group events David Wesley was third in the 500 freestyle (6:07.06). Katrina Heckenmeyer was fourth in the 200 IM (2:44.64) and Julie Jensen was first in the 200 backstroke (2:16.26) and second in the 100 backstroke (1:03.67).

Mustangs of the Week

CHRIS HOUSE

ROB DEVYAK

Senior center Chris House is really starting to play top-notch ball for the Northville cagers. In action last week, the 6-foot-5 House averaged 20 points per game and over 10 rebounds in two games and is one of our 'Mustangs of the Week.' In a 71-68 overtime win at Walled Lake Western, House scored 16 points and added seven rebounds. Three days later, he poured in a season-high 24 points and 14 rebounds in a 74-65 loss to Farmington Harrison. "It was House's best game of the season," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "I feel he's beginning to finally play up to the level we thought he'd play all season."

Senior diver Rob Devyak has quietly put together a truly outstanding season so far this winter for the Northville divers and we think 'Mustang of the Week' honors are in order. His first-place finish in a 67-16 win over Walled Lake Western on Feb. 9 was his ninth dual meet victory in a row. Devyak scored an impressive 269.85 against the Warriors and has yet to lose to an opposing diver this season. That accomplishment followed another first-place finish two days earlier in a 90-82 win over Brighton. Devyak's point total was 241.50. "Rob's been outstanding and consistent," Northville Coach Mark Heiden said.

fourth then they did and that made a big difference.

"We out hit them 22-18 in field goals, but all the free throws and three pointers won it for them."

House had his best game of the season with 24 points and 14 rebounds. Myers added 23, including a trio of three-pointers.

"It was House's best game of the season," Harrison said. "I feel he's beginning to finally play up to the level we thought he'd play all season. Myers is shooting more and because of that, he is being more productive. He's averaging over 20 points a game in the last three games — before that, he had eight against North Farmington."

Starting forward Rob Walsh, who is averaging in double figures, scored only one point in the game. He has been bothered recently by an undetermined ailment.

"Rob hasn't been feeling well lately," Harrison said. "He says he doesn't have any energy but we haven't been able to find out what it is."

NORTHVILLE 71, WALLED LAKE WESTERN 68 (OT): The Mustangs gutted out a three-point, overtime victory over the host Warriors on Feb. 7. Western was without top player Kevin White — who suffered a broken hand — but that hardly mattered to the Northville contingent.

"A win is a win and we'll take it — especially on the road," Harrison said.

The victory avenged what may have been the Mustangs' most disappointing loss of the season back on Jan. 17. Northville fell to the Warriors at home and then proceeded to lose the next four.

"I was happy with the win," Harrison said. "(Western) is not a bad ball club."

Both teams opened the game with a flurry at the offensive end and after one quarter, the Mustangs held a narrow 21-19 advantage. But things slowed down considerably in the second stanza — especially at Northville's end — and that allowed Western to knot the score at 34-34 at halftime.

The momentum continued for the Warriors in the second half as they built a lead. With less than a minute remaining in the game and Western ahead 63-58, Harrison called for his team to pressure the inbound pass after a made basket and the strategy worked. Two straight steals led directly to five quick Mustang points which tied it and sent the game into overtime. House made a key offensive rebound and two clutch free throws to tie it but missed an easy shot at the buzzer that would have won it.

In the extra session, Western scored the first basket but Northville came back with two inside buckets by House and Scott Meredith.

was fun, according to Dudley, he had a hard time saying no to the other schools.

"I'm not very good with salesmen because I can't say no, and that's what recruiters are — they are trying to sell their school. But once I narrowed it down, it was pretty easy to make my decision."

"With my size, I'm very fortunate. When you look at me on film, you see that there are a lot of guys who are better players because I don't have the experience. I'm going to have to work harder to make up for that. My goal is to contribute next season and make the travel squad."

Staying fit isn't always expensive

It doesn't have to cost a mint to stay fit and trim.

During the winter, exercise buffs tend to look indoors for a way to keep in shape and there are several types of equipment to help them meet their objective.

And here's the best news of all — basic items of home exercise equipment can be bought for less than $50.

Most essential to any type of workout that involves sit-ups, push-ups, leg stretches or similar muscle-toning activities is a floor mat. There are several brands of floor mats on the market now and most of them are small enough to roll up and stash away in a dark corner of a closet when they're not needed.

Valerie Sedestrom, a manager at Herman's World of Sporting Goods in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall, said most people prefer floor mats with removable covers rather than the all-nylon models.

The removable covers simply zip off for easy washing after a vigorous workout. Exercise mats are generally priced from $20 to $35, Sedestrom said.

For fitness-conscious people who need help in motivation, there are dozens of exercise videos available and most are priced in the $19.99 range.

Jane Fonda's workout videotapes continue to enjoy top popularity but there are others tailored to special groups of people, including senior citizens, teens and children. They range from fast-paced music videos to the low-impact variety. Take your pick.

Those seeking to build endurance can find help with a simple but often forgotten piece of equipment — a jump rope. Again, there are several brands available in a variety of colors and materials.

Sedestrom said the biggest sellers are nylon jump ropes with swivel handles, priced at $10 to $12. However, there are dozens to choose from including a weighted jump rope that has weights in the handles and throughout the length of the rope.

Handweights are also "handy" ways to keep in shape. They're small and inexpensive and go a long way toward strengthening the upper body. Wrist weights with velcro fasteners can easily be converted into ankle weights, doubling their value.

Whether they're small dumbbells or wrap-around weight bands, these items are a good investment for any home exercise program.

Tennis or golf fans can work on strengthening their grips by using small, inexpensive hand grippers. They work their magic when exercisers squeeze them with their hands — an activity that doesn't take long but does a lot of good.

Another helpful fitness item to add to the home exercise equipment list is a pull-up bar. The bars don't take a lot of space to mount and some are expandable to fit any type of doorway.

By doing a few chin-ups or pull-ups, both men and women are sure to tone and strengthen their upper bodies.

Many factors increase risk for heart disease

By SYLVA DVORAK

Approximately half of the people in the United States today die of some form of cardiovascular disease, most commonly heart attacks and strokes. A heart attack is caused by a lack of blood flow and oxygen to the heart tissue and a stroke is caused by lack of blood and oxygen to the brain. The result can be tissue death.

Unfortunately, there is no inoculation for heart attacks or strokes. There is hope, however, that we will be able to prevent or reverse coronary artery disease.

Artery disease often begins with a condition called hardening of the arteries, or atherosclerosis. In atherosclerosis, cholesterol (also called plaque) forms on the inner walls of the arteries. This causes the arteries to lose their elasticity as well as to narrow the passage for blood flow and oxygen.

There are many "risk-factors" that, when present, increase the likelihood of having a stroke or heart attack. Some of these factors are beyond our control. For example, the average risk of heart disease is greater for men than for women, particularly before the age of 65, and heredity also plays an important role.

According to Dr. Carl Orringer, Medical Director of Cardiac Preventive Programs at the Medsport located at Domino's Farms, the three most important risk factors for heart disease are high blood pressure, high blood cholesterol and cigarette smoking. These are facts that we do have some control over. Other important factors include diabetes, overweight, lack of exercise and stress.

To determine your risk of heart disease, score yourself in the table to the right.

Now that you know about risk factors associated with atherosclerosis, don't become one of the approximately 63 million people in the United States who suffer from some sort of heart disease or related disorder. For good health, and to avoid cardiovascular disease, stop smoking; reduce blood pressure and weight, if necessary. Eat a balanced, adequate and varied diet; reduce fat intake, especially saturated fat; increase activity; and now that you have it all under control — enjoy life.

Use care when checking costs

Whether you want a new car or a new home, there are some simple rules to follow. Research the best way to approach your bank by discussing your financial situation with an accountant, financial planner or by attending seminars at your local bank, credit union or savings and loan.

Take a breath and plunge into the decision. First, sit down and seriously assess how much you need.

Let's say you want a new car or want to make some major home improvements. Find out what it's really going to cost. In other words, shop around. Establish precisely the kind of dollars you're looking for.

The first place to look for that loan is nearby. That is, if you've used a particular lending agency in the past, and you've been happy with the terms and service, it is worth going back to, at least for a look.

Whether you go to a new bank or one you've been dealing with for a long time, the first thing you want to do is sit down with a loan officer and start asking questions.

Ask what the annual percentage rate is on the loan.

Next, find out about the finance charge, the dollar cost of credit on the loan amount you're considering.

If you're a home owner — and your loan amount is substantial — you might be wise to ask about home equity loans. These are loans secured by the equity you've built up in your home.

Ask the loan officer what the monthly payments would be on the loan over a period of time. If the lending institution offers a variable rate loan, make sure you know what the top end would be at all times during the loan.

Once you have an idea what the loan will cost, it's time to consider the viability of borrowing money compared to your ability to pay it.

Take a long, hard look at your financial situation, your income and expenses, on a monthly and annual basis. Can you afford the payments without putting too much stress on your finances?

By this time, you have a pretty good overview of how much you need, what it's going to cost and your ability to pay.

Start shopping again. Ask your friends and relatives about lending institutions they recommend. Read ads. Check around.

Whittle the list down and now head out there, armed with paper and pencil, and visit the various lending institutions to get specific details. Bring a notebook and list headings: loan amount, length of loan, APR, monthly payments, and record the information from your short list of institutions so you can go home and make a true comparison.

When you get out there, one thing that might surprise you is how anxious banks and thrifts are to give you personal loans.

Rates vary, but while the prime rate hovers around the eight percent to 10 percent range, lending money is paid back at a rate high in the teens, hovering near 20 percent. So don't be seduced into thinking you should go for a loan just because it's made attractive.

Not everyone is going to find it easy. Women still have a harder time in getting loans, particularly business loans, reports a new study. Women entrepreneurs seeking to borrow money are turned down 22 percent of the time, compared to 13 percent for men.

Older Americans looking for loans, however, are in for some good news. The federal government has recently taken the wraps off its plans for the first generation of federally insured home-equity conversion mortgages for the elderly.

Equity conversion means transforming home real-estate value into monthly cash payments to an aged owner. That owner, or the owner's heirs, need not repay a cent of the money in many cases until the house is sold or the owner moves out, them get a loan.

For example, both the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the American Bar Association offer loan programs. Also, many employers offer reduced-rate educational loans, in addition to scholarships, to employees' children.

• Personal loans. Experts say these are about the worst kind of loans going. The only ones worth signing up for are interest-free loans sometimes offered by years down the road. For further information on one of these loans, contact the local Federal Housing Administration.

Now, the most common loans people look for fall into four categories: auto, education, personal and home mortgages.

• Auto. Your best bet is financing arrangements offered by auto manufacturers. These promotions allow you to get 2.1 percent to 3.2 percent financing on selected models that the auto companies want to move out of dealer showrooms.

• Educational loans. Check with the colleges or universities under consideration — many schools use part of their endowment to fund no-interest or low-interest loans.

Teen-agers who are working in certain fields and are also in school may find that their jobs not only pay them, but can help big retailers.

Why are these frowned upon? Quite simply, you'll be paying around 16 percent interest on borrowed money from the bank, somewhere up toward 20 percent on money owed to credit companies.

• Home mortgages. Obviously, this is a complicated topic, but one hint experts agree on is that if you're buying a new home, financing through the builder will probably be the best deal.

Speaking of loans and homes, there is the question of home equity loans. When these loans came into fashion recently, it looked to many like an instant key to a personal vault.

But tapping home equity for cash could be a big mistake.

In fact, home equity loans, or second mortgages, can be the ticket to digging yourself deeper into debt.

Organize, Organize!

What do you do when your bank statement arrives in the mail each month?

If you reconcile it to your check register down to the last penny, you are the soul of fiscal responsibility.

But banks estimate that at least half their customers never balance their checkbooks. Most gingerly open the statement and glance at it — and breathe a sign of relief if the numbers look right.

Those folks are very likely headed for personal pecuniary disaster. There is no better time than now to get on the road to fiscal fitness.

"In most cases, a salary that refuses to stretch from payday to payday doesn't indicate insufficient income, it means that the timing of expenses with the arrival of paychecks is off," says Don and Joan German, authors of "Ninety Days to Financial Fitness" (Collier Books).

The Germans say that, for most people, overdue bills could be cleared up if you got an extra paycheck one month. But without seriously overhauling your spending habits, that hypothetical extra paycheck would go the way of all the others.

The real problem behind money that seems to disappear without a trace is one of management, more than money.

The Germans' 90-day plan is geared to help reform money mismanagers. Here are 10 steps they recommend to get started.

• Go on a real money diet. "Practice austerity, austerity, austerity," they advise. A life of beer-and-TV evenings and brown bag lunches won't be easy, but you only have to do it long enough to catch up on your bills.

• Cut your losses. Get rid of things that drain your resources, such as the old sports car that is constantly in the shop or the too-expensive apartment.

• Contact your creditors. If you contact them the Germans suggest, you will probably shock them into being agreeable.

• Suggest some payment terms, such as skipping a few payments without interest or even refinancing the debt.

• Take out a bill-payer loan. But promise yourself only to use it to pay off the bills. The authors warn that there is a trap to this option: people often use it to get caught up, only to fall behind again.

• Borrow on your life insurance. If your policy is more than a few years old, it could have cash value against which you can borrow.

• Sell a collection. Stamps, coins, comic books, records — all of these will appeal to collectors. And bring you needed cash.

• Hold a garage sale. Selling "un-needed property" (or "previously owned" goods) can raise $500 to $1,000.

• Use bonuses and unexpected inheritances to pay off debts. New clothes or a car might look smart, but financial solvency is so much nicer.

Bag the Savings

Sunday newspapers are getting thicker and slicker.

Some of the bulk comes from discount coupons.

Once stuffed loose-leaf into the Sunday paper, discounting has become such big business that coupons are now packaged in mini-magazine format.

But before you toss these colorful coupon collections, it pays to scan them quickly to match frequently purchased products with cents-off offers. Sometimes there's literally more meat in the coupon sections than in the news pages.

Smart shoppers look for ways to save money wherever they can. They follow the old adage that if you take care of the cents, the dollars will take care of themselves. You actually can save hundreds of dollars over a year by following some simple but savvy supermarket shopping strategies.

Take advantage of holiday discounts, such as corned beef on sale before St. Patrick's Day or summer barbecue specials. Besides price, be sure to look at a store's variety.

Low prices won't really save you much if you have to waste time and mileage shopping at a second store to fill in items on your shopping list.

Most supermarkets accept manufacturers' coupons, and several even publish their own money-saving offers in local newspapers. Clip and save coupons only on products you regularly use or have been wanting to try.

Price isn't the only consideration. Quality, nutritional contribution and appetite appeal to the family are other factors that can override price.

An efficient and astute coupon shopper can save up to 15 percent off weekly grocery bills. Keep coupons in a special folder or even a card file organized in groups. Match coupons with your grocery list before going to the store, and don't forget them at home on the kitchen counter.

Dairy product expenses vary among individuals and families, depending on consumption and product cost.

To get the best buys, be aware of price differences. The best milk bargains, for example, are low-fat, skim, and non-fat milk in half-gallon or gallon containers. Buying that way can save you up to 20 cents a quart. Supermarkets and retail dairy stores may have lower prices than convenience quick-shop outlets.

Cheeses vary widely in price, but processed cheeses are less expensive than natural; imports usually are higher than domestic. Aged, sliced or grated cheeses all cost more than a plain brick. Most stores have weekly cheese specials, so you often can get your favorites for less.

Produce takes about 20 percent of the average food dollar. Evaluate the relative prices of fresh, frozen or canned fruits and vegetables.

Buy only what you're sure you'll use — and be sure you're getting the freshest, crispest and best produce.

Higher-priced produce shouldn't be off-limits if you or your family enjoy these items.

Also beware that snack foods can quickly add dollars and fatten your grocery bills, as well as you. If you do buy chips, candy, pretzels, remember they're more economical in large bags than individual serving packages.

Try substituting more nutritious alternatives such as raisins, fresh popcorn, nuts and fresh fruit, and cut down on the number of prepared snacks and soft drinks you buy. Changing your snack habits will save money and help add up to a better diet.

Besides clipping coupons, you may want to clip these tips for smart supermarket shopping:

- Make a list and stick to it. This curbs impulse spending on items you don't really need.

- Don't shop on an empty stomach. Studies indicate you can spend 10 percent to 15 percent more on your food bill when you're hungry.

- Survey the weekly supermarket ads. Take advantage of weekly advertised specials, especially for non-perishable staples.

- While there are cash-saving benefits in coupon clipping, be wary of the coupon trap. Use coupons only for those items you normally buy. Don't let coupons cost you money for items you don't really need.

- Use unit pricing, a shopping tool that lets you compare prices between brands and sizes located on shelf tags. They provide costs in like units for the item. Information generally is given in cost per ounce, per pound or per count.

- Peak season is a prime time to buy fresh produce. The peak of the harvest for fresh fruits and vegetables offers you the best prices and the best quality. Take advantage and buy often.

- Bigger is not always better. Larger-size packages usually cost less on a per-unit basis. But it's not a better buy if it's too large to use before it's stale or spoiled.

- Use open-dating codes, especially on perishables, to maximize shelf life at home. Open-dating lets you know at a glance if the produce is fresh.

Most stores use a "pull date" — the last day the item is offered for sale, but which still allows a few days for using at home. At stores that use a "pack date," especially with meat, inquire how long the product will remain fresh at home.

- Be flexible at the meat and produce counters. This means being flexible in your menu plan to take advantage of unadvertised "in-store specials" and switching from one item to another.

- Move in on "family-pack" savings. Meat departments often have a section that offers larger-sized packages at cents off per pound savings. Repackage these larger sizes into smaller quantities at home and freeze.

Here are additional tips to help bolster your grocery savvy:

- Keep a diary of your shopping habits. Track when and how often you head to the store, as well as what you purchase.

- Try to do your shopping just once a week. Multiple trips to the store add up to more junk and more dollars.

- Plan the week's menus before you shop. Avoid separate menus for parents and children.

- Stock up on non-perishable items when prices are good.

- Don't be a slave to brand loyalty. Lower prices do not necessarily mean lower quality.

- Learn how to parlay leftovers into new meals. Leftover soup can become part of a sauce or stew.

- Learn how to cook with bargain cuts of meat. Take your cue from the French.

Tax changes mean planning

Change invariably leads to confusion, and the 1986 tax law was no exception. With a year behind us, most of us — and most tax preparers — are learning to adjust to the new guidelines.

Despite the collective moans of taxpayers across America, in many ways the new system is simpler. Hundreds of loopholes have been closed, 15 tax brackets have collapsed into three and tax rates overall are lower.

Even so, for millions of Americans, the reshaping of the tax code has made paying taxes even more complex.

If you're among these predominantly middle- and upper-income taxpayers, you stand a 50-50 chance of paying more — not to mention the extra time and expense it will take you to prepare your returns and plot tax-saving strategies.

You need professional help with your returns if you make more than $40,000 a year, have income from investments or from a business and claim a lot of deductions.

Depending on the complexity of the return, a tax preparer will charge from $50 to $500.

How do you find a qualified tax preparer? Get recommendations from friends and professional associates. Interview several prospects and request an estimate of charges.

Ask if the preparer will charge extra to accompany you to an audit. And find out who will pay for any errors the preparer might make.

If you plan to do your own taxes but don't feel 100 percent confident, look for do-it-yourself tax preparation books or computer software designed to prepare taxes.

As you compile your papers for the annual reckoning, keep these tax tips in mind from Arthur Andersen & Company:

- Vacation homes are no longer a great tax shelter. You're better off if you use your vacation home as a residence for part of the year, rather than as a year-round rental.

The new law sharply curbs deductions for operating expenses, depreciation, interest and taxes — especially for

If you personally use your vacation home for 15 days or more each year, you can qualify for certain tax-saving deductions.

- Your kids' assets may now cost you more. Before tax reform, interest, dividends and other income produced by assets owned by a minor child were taxed at the child's rate, which was generally negligible.

Starting now, interest, dividends and capital gains of more than $1,000 paid to a child under age 14 will be taxed at your marginal rate.

- Your home office had better generate income. The IRS has taken steps to discourage taxpayers from creating losses with a home office deduction in order to shelter other income.

Be prepared to prove your home office is used exclusively for business, not hobbies, and you have no other office in which to conduct your business.

- The rules for deducting interest have changed. The IRS ranks borrowed money in five categories: personal investment, passive, business and qualified residence. Deductibility varies in each category.

In 1988, for example, you can deduct all the interest on debts incurred for business purposes, but only 40 percent of the interest on personal debt.

Categories are determined by the way you spend the money you borrow. Try to borrow in a high-deductible category — such as residential debt, instead of personal debt. Keep your borrowing in separate accounts. And remember: tracking where the money goes is essential to taking any deduction at all.

- Bunching deductions can save you a bundle. Tax reform radically changed the deducting game.

You can generally take deductions only when the total passes a key amount; even then, only the overage is deductible.

Medical expenses, for instance, must amount past 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income (AGI). Unreimbursed casualty or theft losses must pass 10 percent.

Miscellaneous itemized deductions, such as tax preparation fees and professional dues, must pass two percent.

Your best strategy is to "bunch" these deductions in a single year to cross the threshold. Taking the bunch in a year when you expect your AGI to be low helps, too.

- Claim your parents as dependents. If your parents live with you or if you are financing their nursing home care, consider this option. It provides one personal exemption per parent of $1,950 in 1988 and $2,000 in 1989. (These benefits are less for higher-income taxpayers.)

Parents qualify as dependents if they do not file a joint return and if they have gross income of less than $1,950 (excluding non-taxable income, such as the untaxed portion of Social Security). You must pay more than 50 percent of your parents' support, including costs such as housing, food, transportation and medical care.

- Auto leasing looks good. Not only have car prices skyrocketed, tax reform is phasing out the deduction for consumer interest expense between now and 1990.

As that deduction drops, so does your ability to finance an auto purchase, making leasing much more attractive. When you lease a car, you don't need a big down payment, which can amount to as much as 20 percent of the car's purchase price.

- Contribute to charity. Charitable contributions are still a good deduction under tax reform — providing you itemize deductions. And while you're at it, make sure you get all that is coming to you.

For example, include your out-of-pocket costs of serving refreshments at gatherings of qualified charities in your home.

Parking, tolls and mileage at 12 cents per mile can be deducted when you attend meetings of charitable groups.

And the cost of materials you buy for donated handiwork — such as knitted items and baked goods are also deductible.

- Reduce your withholding and estimated payments. If the government returns money, you should never have sent it.

To make sure you prepay the right amount, project your tax liability for the current taxable year. Then check your records or more recent pay stub to see what you've contributed so far and determine how much you are scheduled to pay for the rest of the year.

If you discover you are overpaying, adjust future payments to make sure you remit only the minimum amount required by the IRS.

Credit card use requires care

Living on credit cards has become a national pastime for an overwhelming number of Americans.

Right or wrong, it's a disease that innocently took root in the 1960s as a matter of convenience. If you needed a car, you asked your bank about a car loan. If you needed a new suit, you may have flipped out a credit card and charged it.

It got so easy, it put many Americans into debt. But these days the old ways of financing debts are sure to backfire on plastic addicts, particularly in the wake of the current tax laws.

Tax reform has forced many card users to rethink how they buy and pay for goods and services. People now live on real money rather than plastic cards.

"Today, if a consumer has overspent or is living from paycheck to paycheck, chances are he's indebted to at least eight major credit card firms and has an average balance of $1,098.34," according to Dan Brigham, media specialist at Visa International.

Credit cards can kill a budget in a second, especially if you let the balance grow and only make small monthly payments.

The 22 percent interest is outrageous to many consumers since interest figures cannot be deducted for tax purposes. Brigham says many people are beginning to pay their credit card bills off each month.

"We've found that 29.8 percent of all Visa cardholders pay off their transactions before any interest is incurred. They use it as a 30-day notice."

Brigham revealed that anyone can delay any interest being incurred if it is timed right.

"You could have 55 days without interest charged if you buy on the day or shortly after the billing day shown on your Visa bill," states Brigham.

"The charge will sit there for 30 days before it is billed, then you've got another 25 days before it is due. We figure most people can fit three paychecks into a 55-day period, which is usually ample time to pay off a bill without interest."

The multipurpose card market is dominated by five major companies —

American Express, Visa, Mastercard, Carte Blanche and Diners Club.

More than $275 billion is spent by 291 million cardholders. The majority of cardholders spent money via Visa, with Mastercard and American Express following in second and third place.

Credit card misuse is perhaps the greatest trap most Americans fall into, according to Harold Moe, a financial adviser in Wisconsin.

"Few people have self-control when plastic is lining a wallet," says Moe.

Years ago, Moe devised a plan for using credit cards. It worked for him. It has worked for those who have attended his many seminars on the subject of money management. Here's the plan in brief:

Credit card use, con't. pg. 6

- Avoid using credit cards for anything less than $25. A significant number of bad debts stem from small purchases. (Visa says its average purchase is $60.63.) Some people are still paying off the hamburger they bought in 1979.

- Watch out for direct-mail offers for free, pre-approved premium credit cards. Giving you a no-limit credit line is a safe bet for these financial institutions that you will be generating hefty commissions and interest fees.

- Get rid of all credit card duplications. Only keep two or three for emergency reasons.

- Don't be a slave to credit cards. Pay cash whenever possible, or if you charge the purchase, pay off the credit card balance every month.

The experts suggest you take a look at your own credit card situation. Here are six danger signs. If you answer no to these questions, then you are probably in good shape. If the answer is yes, take heed.

- Do your outstanding monthly installment payments (credit cards and charge accounts) exceed 20 percent of your net income. Do not include your home mortgage.

- Do you find it necessary to regularly use money from savings to pay monthly expenses?

- Have you begun delaying payments that you once paid promptly?

- Do you charge everyday expenses?

- If necessary, would it take you more than one year to pay off all outstanding debts (not including home mortgage)?

- Do you always check your credit card bill for mistakes before paying? Experts say at least two percent of bills from department stores, restaurants and gas stations are incorrect because of human error, computer glitches and fraud.

The Fair Credit Billing Act limits your liability for errors to $50 and gives you a means of handling disputes.

You only have 60 days to correct the error, so notify the credit card firm quickly — first by phone, then with a backup letter explaining the reason you're disputing the charge.

Creditors who won't cooperate in resolving the conflict can be reported to the Federal Trade Commission.

Budgeting is not easy. If you're having trouble handling the chore alone, contact the Consumer Credit Counselors Office near you. This respected, non-profit organization will help you work out your credit problems and set up a debt management program.

For the nearest office write: National Foundation for Consumer Credit Inc., 8701 Georgia Ave., Silver Spring, Md., 20910. Or get Bank of America's free consumer information circular on debts. Write Bank of America, Dept. 3120, Box 37128, San Francisco, Calif., 94137.

In the long run, curbing the use of credit cards can only reap many benefits. You'll live within the limits of your paycheck. You won't buy unnecessary items and, more important, those financial worries you've been carrying around won't consume you.
