The water's fine

Record/CHRIS BOYD

High temperatures and extreme humidity early this week sent area residents searching for ways to stay cool. Here, three-and-a-half-year-old Keith Michael Hoski takes the plunge into the pool at King's Mill Cooperative as his mother, Heather, keeps a watchful eye out. Temperatures at the time were hovering around 90 degrees.

Updated tests indicate field may be safe

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Soccer balls may once again be kicked on a field located on county-owned land, following the disclosure of test results which show the field to not be contaminated by polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs).

The soccer field is located on the east side of Sheldon Road between Five and Six Mile roads.

Glenn Brown, director of the Wayne County Department of Environmental Health, said this week that soil tests analyzed by a private laboratory on the field show a PCB level of less than one part per million.

"At this moment, it looks like the site is pretty clean," Brown said, adding the county's formal analysis of the tests should be available by the end of the week.

Brown said 10 new samples of the field were taken last week after conflicting results were found on the first set of tests conducted two weeks ago.

In the first set of tests, the county showed a PCB level of .12 parts per million on the field, while results analyzed by an independent contractor — Transformer Inspection Retrofill — showed a PCB level of 12 parts per million on the same field.

Brown said the 10 new samples, which were analyzed individually, were analyzed by Environmental Quality Laboratory in Sterling Heights.

Based on the results received from the private lab, Brown said there are essentially no PCBs on the site: "This firm seems to corroborate what the county determined earlier."

He added that if the latest data

Tension rises over city master plan

By DARRELL CLEM

Temper flared last week as the Northville Planning Commission engaged in a sometimes-heated debate over its role in developing a long-awaited revision to the city's master plan.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton charged that the city's master plan consultants have proceeded with the project without enough input from the planning commission.

In particular, Stapleton criticized a citizen survey the consultants conducted to gauge public opinion on the city's strengths, weaknesses and future development. He blasted the study, calling it statistically "invalid" and saying it gave citizens "no option" to state possible opposition to further development.

However, much of Stapleton's objections, which surfaced at the commission's June 20 meeting, stemmed from the process used for the survey. He said the planning commission should have decided which questions the study would ask before it was sent to local residents.

Planning consultant Don Wortman said more than 2,300 copies of the 23 question survey were mailed to selected households. Of those, he said, 1,379 were returned. Results are being compiled and should be completed within the next week or so.

Wortman suggested that the survey could be used by the planning commission as one of several tools for developing a revised master plan, which will define policies guiding the city's long-term growth. The plan has not been updated for nearly 12 years.

The survey polled residents' attitudes on such matters as which types of residential, commercial, and industrial development they would prefer for the city. It also asked their opinions on whether additional downtown stores or parking areas are needed downtown and whether they would support higher city taxes to provide more parks and recreation programs.

But Stapleton indicated that the ## Town plans activities for July 4th

Plans for the annual Fourth of July celebration in Northville are in place, with all the traditional events again scheduled. The day is planned to include:

MASONIC BREAKFAST — The public is invited to join the feast at the Northville Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main, and enjoy the new, expanded menu. The meal is offered by Union Chapter No. 55, Royal Arch Masons.

Presiding Excellent High Priest Herman A. Wedemeyer said serving will start at 6:30 a.m. and continue to parade time. The meal features an "all-you-can-eat" menu of pancakes, scrambled eggs, hash brown potatoes, ham, orange juice, and coffee, tea, or milk. The cost is $3.25 per adult and $1.50 per child aged 12 and under.

LEGION BREAKFAST — The American Legion Post 147 will offer a pancake and sausage breakfast from 7:30 a.m. to noon for 350 at the Legion hall, 100 W. Dunlap.

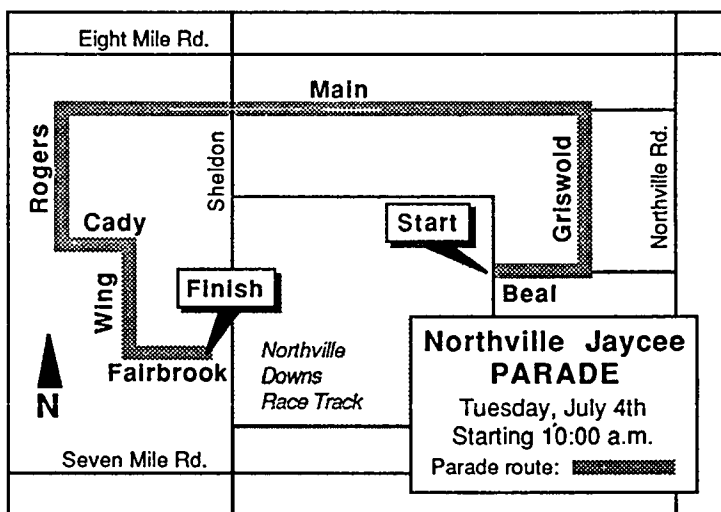

The group will serve hamburgers and hot dogs after the parade. Call 349-1060 for more information.

BED RACE — The annual Satin Sheets Bed Race is planned through the streets of downtown Northville just before the parade.

The event is sponsored by the Northville Community Recreation Department. For more information, call 349-0203.

PARADE — The parade is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. at the Northville Downs parking lot. It runs up

Fumes coming from landfill apparently pose little danger

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

For residents living near the Arbor Hills Landfill on Napier Road, fumes coming from the site have been extremely pungent over past three weeks.

"And one resident in particular believes the fumes may have led to some physical problems, although officials doubt that the odors pose any real danger."

Esther Clarke, who lives about one-quarter of a mile from Arbor Hills, said she recently began suffering severe headaches. She blames fumes from the landfill, which is located on the southwest corner of Napier and Six Mile in Salem Township.

"I had difficulty breathing, and then that went away and I got a burning sensation of the top of my head," Clarke said. She has been in Traverse City for the past two weeks as part of a vacation, and said her symptoms went away about one week after she left the landfill area.

But officials from the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and from Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI), the company which owns the landfill, said there is no reason to think the fumes are dangerous.

According to BFI District Manager Mike Stallard, fumes from the 167-acre landfill were worse three weeks ago because the company is currently doing an excavation project at the site.

Stallard said the excavation is being done to try to prevent leachate seepage from the landfill into the ground and groundwater. He added that he does not know when the excavation will be completed.

"We have had odor at the landfill because we had to uncover some old trash to do the repairs," he added. "We are making every effort to correct the problem and refill the area as soon as possible."

Stallard said his firm has fielded

Rains spur local damage

By DARRELL CLEM and BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Heavy rains and high winds produced some flooding in the Northville community last week, but for the most part, the excessive water properly drained to its natural locations.

In the city, the Rouge River rose dramatically, flooding some basements of houses along Allen Drive in the north end. The water also "washed out the road" on both sides of a bridge on Old Novi Road between Parmenter's Northville Cider Mill and Anger Manufacturing Co., said Department of Public Works Superintendent Ted Mapes

"The Rouge was way over its banks," he said.

Al Stearn, executive vice president of Warren Products at 637 Baseline, said four or five inches of water began flowing into the company's basement about 5 p.m. Wednesday, June 21.

Project begins soon

By DARRELL CLEM

Groundbreaking on the nearly-$6-million MainCentre project in Northville is expected within two weeks, according to developers and city officials.

Developers are waiting for drawings of underground utilities before giving construction crews the nod to begin building the foundation, said Mike Kahm, vice president of Singh Development Company.

However, formal groundbreaking ceremonies for the 112,000-square-foot building are not expected to be held until August, officials said.

Kahm said the city building department has issued a permit allowing Singh to begin construction of MainCentre — a four-story complex of retail stores and luxury apartments at Main and Center streets. He said plans for the project are proceeding "real well."

Kahm said MainCentre tenants are expected to begin moving into the building by next spring. He said the center should be in full use by next summer.

Kahm said the structure's first floor will house up to 15 shops, including a restaurant, and the upper levels will include 74 apartments. Rents are expected to range between $650 and $1,000. Size will range from 650 square feet to 1,300 square feet. Since the complex is being built on land that slopes from Main to Cady Street, developers also plan to include a mezzanine-type area on the side of the building facing Cady. Kahm said the area will include space for two additional apartments. Developers also plan to build a three- or four-level parking deck near the building's south side. The project's construction will disrupt traffic along Center Street, with northbound traffic being rerouted along eastbound Cady Street from August until next spring. However, Kahm said it is possible that both lanes could be open at times.

City officials recently approved spending $11,500 to repave Cady Street.

Kahm said the disruption of Center Street traffic will be necessary because construction crews will be using a "superstructure crane" for landscape work on the MainCentre courtyard.

Although the project is not expected to disrupt Main Street traffic, City Manager Steven Walters said pedestrians on the south side of Main will walk under a protective cover commonly used for safety reasons at construction sites.

MainCentre will be the first apartment venture in this area for Singh, a company that also developed the Quail Ridge and Pheasant Hills subdivisions.

Test results show soccer field may be safe represent the PCB level of the site, then there is no risk in using the soccer field.

Northville Community Recreation Director John Anderson said if the county tests come back showing a PCB level of less than one part per million he would consider using the soccer field.

"The decision would have to be made by Wayne County," Anderson said. "If Wayne County were to allow us to use the field, I would definitely consider it."

Anderson said the recreation department currently has five soccer fields — including the field off Sheldon Road — at its disposal for the coming fall season.

The other Northville soccer fields are one in Hines Park, one at Fish Hatchery Park, and two at the training center on the west side of Sheldon Road.

Brown said no decision on the use of the soccer field east of Sheldon Road will be made until the county analysis results of the soccer field are obtained.

In addition to the soil tests on the soccer field, Brown said the county will be conducting tests on 13 electrical transformers located in two or three buildings on the county land site.

"The county is going to hire a firm to do more investigation and testing on the county land," he said, adding the county is in the process of receiving bids from three or four companies.

Brown said until a new firm is hired, there are no new tests scheduled for the site. He added the cleanup operation for the site can not be determined until all tests have been completed.

He noted at least five transformers and three circuit breakers have been found to contain varying amounts of PCBs. The chemical is apparently mixed with the oil found in transformers.

"We found more transformers on the site, and four of them had some evidence of seepage from the side," Brown said, adding it is too early to tell whether the seepage contains PCBs.

NEWS BRIEFS

SUMMER READERS — Northville Public Library's Summer Readers will be treated to their third of six programs at 2 p.m. Wednesday, July 5. "Ming the Magnificent" will perform his mystical outer space magic.

Last week's poster contest winners were Charlie DeCoster, Christine Gould, and Ted Stapleton.

ROTARY INSTALLS OFFICERS — The Northville Rotary Club recently installed a new slate of officers in a ceremony at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The new officers are: John Sassaman, president; Butch Raby, vice-president; Pat Bradley, returning as secretary; and Steve Stocker, returning as treasurer.

HOUSING SURVEY SET — Bureau of Census representatives will begin visiting housing units in the Detroit area this month to conduct interviews for the American Housing Survey, according to Dwight Dean, director of the bureau's regional office in Detroit.

About 3,750 housing units will be visited through August. This is one of 11 metropolitan areas in this year's survey.

The Census Bureau and the Department of Housing and Urban Development planned the survey to obtain current information on housing, considered one of the most important measures of the nation's economy. The agencies will issue a report about 18 months after the interviews have been completed.

Information obtained in the survey is confidential by law. Bureau representatives are local residents. Each carries an official identification card with the bearer's photograph and signature.

MAKE-UP WORKSHOP — Fashion-conscious teenage girls, grades 6-12, are invited to attend a free one-hour workshop on makeup secrets.

The workshop will be conducted by Harwyn Lim, whose work has appeared in Seventeen magazine. He has also made up models at the Detroit Auto Show and at beauty pageants.

The workshop, sponsored by the Northville Public Library, is scheduled for 2 p.m. Thursday, July 6 in the city council chambers. To register, visit the library or call 349-3020.

SCHOOL SPARKS — Fireworks will again soar from the High School athletic field plateau on July 4th, following approval by the Northville Board of Education on Monday.

The request to use the school complex, including parking facilities at Northville High and Amerman Elementary, was submitted from the City of Northville and the Northville Jaycees.

Cleanup of the school property will be done by people sentenced to perform community service by the 35th District Court.

BLOOD DONATIONS SOUGHT — Blood donations are accepted at the American Red Cross Livonia Donor Center, Bell Creek Office Plaza, 29691 W. Six Mile, Suite 100C, from 2-3 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 10 a.m. - 4 p.m. Tuesday and Friday; and 9 a.m. - 2 p.m. Saturday.

For an appointment or information, call 494-2881 or 494-2856.

Red Cross Bloodmobiles will be on hand:

- From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday, July 10, at the Holiday Inn in Farmington Hills, 38123 W. Ten Mile. For an appointment call Cliff Taylor, 334-3575.
- From noon to 6 p.m. Friday, July 28, at the K-Mart in Canton, 5725 Sheldon. For an appointment call Roger Whithill, 455-9700.

Floods damage area houses, roads

"The sewer backed up on one side (of the building) and the water was coming in the other side," Stearn said. He added that workers used sandbags to avoid additional flooding and that the company didn't suffer any damages.

Elsewhere, a portion of Griswold north of Main Street was closed for about two hours Wednesday, and Mapes said the "usual flooding" was reported in such areas as the intersection of Center and Cady streets and on Beck Road north of Eight Mile.

"But it was nothing like (the flooding) Novi and Farmington Hills had," Mapes said.

In some areas, city workers unplugged drains blocked by debris, avoiding what could have led to worse conditions.

Bob Cervie, 912 Allen Drive, said the Rouge spilled about a half-inch of water into his basement. The carpet from the basement lay ruined in Cervie's driveway Tuesday.

"It really came up bad," Cervie said of the river. "This happens about once a year."

Several inches of water were reported in some Allen Drive basements. But some residents — especially those with steeper slopes in their backyards — were luckier.

Luther Kleckner, 1056 Allen Drive, said the Rouge flooded half of his yard — a level he said he hadn't seen since 1981. He said several fences located on the slope from Allen Drive to the Rouge were completely covered by water.

"That water was up," Kleckner said. "It went up like crazy."

Kansas resident Harold Westerhaus, who was visiting his son Robert at 984 Allen Drive, said the water came within a half-inch of that house. The family went out to purchase sandbags, but never had to use them.

In the township, "We did not issue a flood warning and the township had no major flood problems," said Chris Hicks, township emergency operations coordinator.

Hicks said the excess water in the township generally flowed to Hines Drive between Five and Seven Mile. She added Hines Drive is the floodplain for the township.

"Wayne County made Hines Drive

Steve Filipp (right) and his father-in-law, Tony DiVito, survey the damage of last week's rains at Filipp's house, on Northville Road below Six Mile and Waterford Bend as the township's floodplain," Hicks said, adding that flooding did occur in the Hines Drive area.

Township Water and Sewer Director Walt Holitony said barricades were put up on Hines Drive from Five to Seven Mile by Wayne County because of the flooding.

Holitony said he did not hear of any sewer backups or overflows in Northville.

"The sewer system worked pretty well," he said.

The excess rain water also has done nothing to help the contamination situation in the Rouge River.

According to Wayne County Health Officer Vernice Davis-Anthony, the excess sewer flow to treatment plants caused by thunderstorms on Wednesday, June 21 will result in additional contamination of the Rouge River and possibly to Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River.

Police Blotters

Man walks nude on township golf course, police say

Township police report an unidentified white male walked naked on the south end of the Brooklane Golf Course off of Six Mile Road on Thursday, June 20.

Police said the subject is about six feet tall, between 14 and 18 years old and had dark hair. They said he walked onto Brooklane at around 7:45 p.m. wearing gm shoes.

Police added that man covered his face with a blue T-shirt and said he did not speak to anyone while on the golf course.

TRUCK ROBBED — Township police report that $700 in merchandise was stolen from a GMC Sierra parked on Northridge between 6 p.m. June 20 and 5:30 a.m. June 21.

The victim said that someone broke the passenger window of the car and removed a $300 radar detector, a $300 box of tools, and a $100 beeper.

In addition, $325 in damage was reported to be done to the vehicle.

SCHOOL BREAK-IN — Northville police reported $250 in damage to air handling units atop Northville High School after unknown persons pried open the units and entered the school between 2 a.m. and 3 a.m. on June 17.

The incident occurred as a senior party was in progress. The incident remains under investigation.

CAR HIT — About $200 in damage was caused to a 1984 Firebird travelling northbound on Northville Road on June 16, according to a township police report.

The victim said the car was driving on Northville Road just south of Cass Benton Park when an unknown object was thrown onto the vehicle.

Police said they have no suspects at this time.

CAR WINDOW BROKEN — Almost $250 in damage was done to a 1985 Cadillac parked on Six Mile near Ridge Road on June 15 and June 16.

The victim told township police that she parked the car on Six Mile to visit friends and returned to find the back window of the car broken.

Police said they have no suspects at this time.

TUNED OUT — Two stereo speakers worth $200 were stolen from a Jeep Cherokee parked on Innsbrook between 6 p.m. June 14 and 6 a.m. June 15, according to a township police report.

The victim said he'd been using his brother's car, which he locked after parking. He said the thief entered through the driver's door.

The complainant said $100 in damage was done to the radio and interior light.

MEIJER THEFT — A Northville resident was charged with larceny from Meijer after attempting to steal a $319.97 chain saw June 16.

Township police said the store detective reported that the subject was in the hardware department of the store and selected the saw.

Police said the subject carried the saw to the Lotto ticket desk near the northeast exit and took the saw out of the store.

The subject was charged with larceny in a building and faces a July 20 district court hearing.

CAR DAMAGED — A 1988 Ford van received $100 in damage between June 16 and June 21 when someone cut the wire of a cellular phone antenna attached to the vehicle.

Police reported that the van was scratched during the incident at McDonald Ford, 550 W. Seven Mile in Northville. The van had been brought in for service.

MAILBOX STOLEN — Police reported that someone removed a mailbox from near the front of Anger Manufacturing on Baseline Road in Northville.

The mailbox was stolen between 5 p.m. Monday, June 19, and 9 a.m. Tuesday, June 20. Police also reported that a picnic table was overturned behind the building, and several wooden pallets were strewn about.

Damages totaling $30 were reported. Police have no suspects.

CLOTHING STOLEN — A Reed Street resident in Northville told police that someone took clothing valued at $50 from two bags that she left on her front porch between 12:15 p.m. and 12:25 p.m. on Thursday, June 22.

The resident told police she left the bags on the porch while she crossed the street to visit with a neighbor.

FENDER-BENDERS — At least four automobile accidents were reported to township police over the past week:

• A two-car accident occurred Thursday, June 15 at 7:45 p.m. on Six Mile Road near Haggerty. Police said the driver of one car one failed to yield while exiting a driveway onto southbound Haggerty. Police said the driver of a second car was going south on Haggerty and hit the first car. The driver of the first car was ticketed failing to yield.

• A three-car accident occurred Tuesday, June 20 at 5:03 p.m. on Seven Mile Road near Northville Road. The driver of one car said she was westbound on Seven Mile and stopped for a train east of Northville Road. When the train cleared, she put her car in drive and hit a car in front of her, forcing that car into a third, a police report said. The driver was issued a ticket for failing to stop within an assured clear distance.

• A two-car accident occurred Wednesday, June 16 at 6:30 p.m. on Eight Mile Road and Haggerty. Police said one driver was exiting the Meijer parking lot by making a left turn onto westbound Eight Mile. Police said the eastbound cars in the first two lanes allowed the car out, but the driver in the far left lane did not see him. That driver hit the first car.

The driver of the first car was issued a ticket for failing to yield.

• A two-car accident occurred on Tuesday, June 20 at 9:05 p.m. on Eight Mile Road near Haggerty. Police said the driver of car two was eastbound on Eight Mile in the right lane as through traffic. Police said while car one was making a left turn onto southbound Haggerty the driver was hit by car two. The driver of car one was issued a ticket for failing to yield.

Meanwhile, Northville city police also reported these minor accidents:

• A two-vehicle accident occurred about 6:05 a.m. Thursday, June 22, at the intersection of Eight Mile and Taft. A driver making a right turn at a red light was issued a ticket for failing to yield to a vehicle headed west on Eight Mile.

• A motorist who failed to stop for a flashing red light at the intersection of Center and Dunlap streets in Northville was issued a ticket for disobeying a traffic signal.

The driver was traveling west on Dunlap and failed to stop at the intersection about 11:30 on Thursday, June 22. The vehicle was struck by a motorist traveling north on Center Street.

DRUNK DRIVING ROUNDUP — At least three drivers were ticketed for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor (OUIL) by city and township police over the past week.

• A Livonia resident was stopped by township police at 2:27 a.m. Saturday, June 17 at 2:27 a.m. on Haggerty Road near Seven Mile. Police said they paced the vehicle travelling between 65 and 69 mph in a 45 mph zone. After failing four of five field sobriety tests, the driver registered a blood alcohol level of .14 percent. In Michigan, .10 is OUIL. The driver was held in jail and released on $100 bond. He faces a July 20 court date.

• A Northville resident was ticketed by township police for OUIL at 2:30 a.m. Sunday, June 18 on Seven Mile Road near Meadowbrook. Police said they paced the driver going between 52 and 57 mph in a 45 mph zone. Police added the driver also crossed the broken white lines on two occasions. After failing four of five field sobriety tests, the driver registered a blood alcohol level of .18 percent. The driver was held in jail and released on personal bond. He faces a July 20 court date.

• A Plymouth resident was charged with OUIL by township police at 11 p.m. Monday, June 19 at 11 p.m. on Five Mile Road. Police said the driver was eastbound on Five Mile in the westbound lane and went off the roadway onto the shoulder. Police said the driver hit several mailboxes and poles before stopping. After failing field sobriety tests, the driver registered a blood alcohol level of .18 percent. The driver was held in jail and later released on $100 bond. She faces a July 20 court date.

City to do fire checks

By DARRELL CLEM

The City of Northville, ending eight years of contracts with the City of Plymouth, plans to launch its own program of fire inspections.

The city council agreed last week to terminate a contract with Plymouth officials effective Sept. 30, at which time a newly-trained inspector from Northville's volunteer fire department will begin conducting inspections.

Northville firefighter Robert Turner, who recently received state certification as a fire inspector, will begin the routine inspection of commercial, apartment and all public buildings except schools, which are inspected by state officials. Turner also will respond to reported hazards and review building plans for fire safety.

City Manager Steven Walters said local officials have been paying the City of Plymouth between $6,000 and $8,000 a year since 1981 to conduct the fire inspection program. Although Northville officials expect to spend a similar amount on the new program, Walters said the change will result in smoother, in-house operations.

Local officials said the promotion of Plymouth fire inspector Al Matthews to fire chief has reduced the amount of time he has for inspections in Northville.

Turner, who will conduct inspections one day each week, will be more accessible if fire officials need him, Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen said, adding that the inspection program will have "closer ties" to the community it serves.

Council Member Paul Folino said he believes the new program "will be much better" than the contract services with the city of Plymouth.

Walters, in a memo to city council members, said the program will enhance the "direct communication link between the inspection program and the general fire department operation."

Moreover, Walters emphasized that "it does not appear that this change will have any impact on the budget for this program."

Fumes from Salem Township dump apparently do not pose any danger

calls from residents regarding the strong odor, but said the DNR has not determined that any toxic material is present.

"We're only excavating ordinary municipal type trash," Stallard said. "There is no extraordinary or exotic type of material in the landfill."

John Shaffer, chief of the compliance support unit for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), said some chemicals have been found at Arbor Hills, but added it is unlikely that a high level of toxic contaminants is at the site.

"I doubt if any toxic air poisoning is coming from the project," Shaffer said. "The concentration of chemicals were not sufficient to justify taking emission action."

"I doubt if any toxic air poisoning is coming from the project . . . The concentration of chemicals were not sufficient to justify taking emission action."

— John Shaffer
DNR official

Shaffer said the recently-worse smell at the landfill may be caused by reduced sulfur. The excavation releases gas from the soil into the air.

"There does not seem to be a large enough concentration of contaminants to draw a big red flag," he added.

Dr. Judy Behn, a physician at Northville M-Care who treated Esther Clarke's symptoms, said she could not release any information about her diagnosis of Clarke's condition.

Even though the fumes coming from the BFI landfill may not be toxic, residents living within a mile or so of the site said the smell has become noticeably stronger lately.

"The smell got especially worse about three weeks ago," said Northville Township resident Susan Scholz. "The smell is also particularly bad when it gets hot and humid and the wind blows this way."

Scholz's son, Mark, said he goes by the landfill every day on his way to school. He said the odor three weeks ago almost made him sick.

"I had a headache because it (the smell) got so bad," Mark Scholz said.

Stacey Hirvela, who also lives near the site, said the landfill smells like banana peels — "lots of banana peels."

"The smell has gone away a little lately," Hirvela said. "But it was worse in the beginning of June. It's really bad when the temperature goes from hot to cold."

Ward gets meeting date

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Although a new meeting date on their preliminary site plan has not been finalized, officials from Ward Presbyterian Church were scheduled to appear before the Township Planning Commission on Tuesday.

Township Planning Director Carol Maise said a special meeting date of Aug. 8 has been tentatively set by the planning commission to discuss Ward's development on the corner of Haggerty and Six Mile roads.

Maise said the planning commission is currently waiting for Ward officials to confirm the August meeting date. She added the meeting was previously scheduled for July 11.

"Because of schedule conflicts, the meeting could not be held on July 11," Maise said.

Ward communications coordinator Kelly Sharkey said her group has submitted a revised site plan to the planning commission and will tentatively be making a presentation on Aug. 8.

Sharkey said the new site plan does address concerns voiced by planners on the church's height, woodlands, parking, and fire safety.

Meanwhile, Ward officials presented a site plan to planners on Tuesday which includes the church renting approximately 17,500 square feet of space in the Northville Plaza Mall.

The mall is located on Seven Mile Road west of Northville Road.

In a letter submitted to the planning commission, Ward representative R.K. Nolan said the church plans to use 4,000 sq. feet of office space, 6,000 sq. feet for an assembly hall and about 7,500 sq. feet for Christian education classes.

Ward previously rented space in Schoolcraft College, but Nolan said it is "highly desirable to consolidate the off-campus operation into one location in the community where our new church is being planned."

"We believe the above is a positive commitment by Ward Church to Northville Township en route to the finalization of plans and construction of our new facility," Nolan added.

Maise said Ward may need to appear before the zoning board of appeals to obtain a variance for having classrooms in the mall's commercial (B-3) zoning district.

School board okays 1989-90 budget

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

After putting the finishing touches on its 1988-89 budget, the Northville Board of Education formally adopted a $18.7 million spending plan for the coming school year.

In its first action, the school board closed the books on its 1988-89 budget by approving general fund expenditures of $17.6 million and revenues totaling $16.9 million.

Of the $16.9 million in revenues for 1988-89, over $15.7 million was generated from local property tax. The greatest expense in last year's budget for elementary, middle and high schools was teacher salaries.

The operating millage rate for the Northville district for 1988-89 was 32.79 mills spread over 3,626 pupils.

The total state equalized valuation (SEV) for the district was $479,182,840.

The budget for the 1989-90 school year was set by the board at $18,769,682 — roughly a 9-percent increase over last year. The district's revenues will increase this year by 11 percent to $19,224,000.

District Business Manager John Street said the unallocated amount of roughly $450,000 will be divided as follows: one percent, or $190,000, of the budget will be placed into the district's fund balance. The remaining $260,000 will be put into a discretionary fund.

Superintendent George Bell said the fund balance allocation has been prompted by the board's direction for him to put one percent of the district's revenue into the fund balance for the next five years.

Bell said the $260,000 is being reserved because the state has not finished working on this year's state aid formula.

"The yearly state aid bill, which has been approved by the House, now has a kicker of putting the state contribution to social security into the formula," he said.

If the contribution is included, Bell said the money would be subject to recapture by the state from the out-of-formula districts.

"The matter is still up in the air and the legislature will be working into September or October to finish it," Bell said, noting the money would be used for capital outlay if the district gets to keep it.

Included in the 1989-90 budget is a provision for the hiring of approximately 14 new teachers and the reopening of Moraine Elementary. Bell said the district expects an enrollment increase of between 110 and 140 students next fall.

Including passage of a Truth-in-Taxation increase, the board approved an operating millage rate of 30.46 mills for 1989-90. This rate is 7 percent lower than the 1988-89 millage of 32.79 mills.

Like the operating millage rate, the debt fund tax rate also will decrease — to 4 mills, from the 1988-89 level of 4.75 mills. Voters approved a debt millage rate of 7 mills in 1985.

School administrators get pay increases

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Northville Schools Superintendent George Bell and 10 other school administrators received 7-percent raises in contract approvals from the Board of Education on Monday.

Bell received a one-year extension to his current three-year contract, which runs through June 30, 1992. He said the extension gives him job security.

"The renewal is done every year as a form of security," Bell said. "Superintendents often do a lot of unpopular things and by having a three-year contract it gives me security. After all, there are not a lot of superintendent openings."

He added that if another renewal is not granted by the board, the contract would expire in 1992.

In his new pact, Bell will be paid an annual salary of $82,573, which translates to a 7-percent increase from his 1988-89 salary of $77,151.

"I think this contract is very fair," Bell said. "The district has treated me well and I am pleased that they (the school board members) are pleased with my performance."

Other school districts are listed below for comparison. Superintendents' salaries, number of students per district and operating budget are shown, ranked according to the superintendent's base salary. Some of the figures, particularly salaries, are from the 1988-89 school year, as not all districts have approved new administrative salaries yet.

• West Bloomfield — superintendent (1989-90), $100,700, students, 4,785, budget, $30 million.

• Birmingham — superintendent (1988-89), $95,000, students, 7,416; budget, $60.5 million.

• Novi — superintendent (1989-90), $90,201; students, 3,665, budget, $20.5 million.

• Plymouth-Canton — superintendent (1988-89), $89,770, students, 15,316, budget, $60.8 million.

• Walled Lake — superintendent (1988-89), $81,000, students, 8,966; budget, $42.3 million.

• South Lyon — superintendent (1989-90), $75,761, students, 4,196; budget, $15.4 million.

• Northville — superintendent (1988-89), $75,171; students, 3,911; budget, $18.7 million.

In addition to his salary, Bell will receive 22 vacation days and 18 sick day through the new contract. He said the benefit package is basically the same as his previous agreement.

Bell added the contract provides for the negotiation of a new salary each year. It also states that his future salaries cannot decrease from the previous year.

In addition to Bell, all other school central-office administrators received 7-percent salary increases.

The increase is based on a state equalized valuation (SEV) formula, whereby the salary increase corresponds to the area's increase in SEV. The minimum percentage salary increase is four percent, while the maximum increase is seven percent.

Assistant Superintendents Dolly McMaster and Burton Knighton will

Planners receive fifth Cady draft

By DARRELL CLEM

Yet another development plan for the city's "Cady Street Corridor" — this one including a three-level parking deck and a wider, enhanced town square — was presented last week to the Northville Planning Commission.

The fifth and latest concept also contains plans for an entry plaza, near the intersection of Cady and Center streets, that would serve as a "gateway to the downtown," according to preliminary drawings submitted to the commission by consultant Don Wortman.

Wortman presented the proposal to the commission for informational purposes only. He plans to submit it to the Downtown Development Authority, which is overseeing the Cady Street project, during a meeting to be scheduled soon.

Like previous alternatives for the development of East Cady Street — between Center and Griswold Avenue — the latest option relies heavily on a combination of retail use, parking and a pedestrian link to Main Street. It also suggests a bypass to link Center and Griswold "pending future use plans by Northville Downs."

The bypass, which would be buffered by extensive landscape work, would function as "a true edge" of the city's southward commercial growth, according to the latest draft. Future growth south of the bypass "would be considered for residential purposes" but — again — would be "dependent upon future plans of Northville Downs." In the wake of declining attendance, the track has launched a two-year, $2-million improvement project.

Among the more significant changes in the latest draft is a three-level parking deck — at the location of the existing Mary Alexander shops — that could provide a segregated level of parking for downtown employees and include separate entrances and exits at Cady and Hutton streets.

The alternative also suggests widening and enhancing the town square and connecting it with Cady Street — a move that Wortman said

"You don't just go out and say, 'Here's a sketch. Let's go build the thing.'"

— John Hardin
Northville Planning
Commissioner

would give the area "a feeling of openness."

It would, however, require the demolition of the Domino's Pizza building, Wortman said, although he added that the ownership of Domino's has not been contacted because the plans are only in the preliminary stages.

The latest option also suggests retail and office use on Cady between Church Street and Griswold — an area that had been considered for "destination-commercial" stores such as video outlets.

Destination-commercial businesses are commonly found in strip malls and draw customers for a specific purpose. But Wortman said the designation was dropped after it failed to win widespread support among city officials.

Planning commission Vice Chairperson John Hardin was among those who appeared pleased with the latest plan, presented to the commission on Tuesday, June 20. Hardin said the plan would promote a "natural, easterly growth" of the city, although he cautioned that officials must ensure the development conforms to the city's Victorian design.

Wortman said officials appear to be getting closer to the final plans for Cady with each new option. But officials said the latest option may not be the last.

"You don't just go out and say, 'Here's a sketch. Let's go build the thing,'" Hardin said.

Officials noted that major issues such as financing must be resolved before the project can be launched. They said a variety of revenue sources, both public and private, are likely to be used.

CITY OF NORTHVILLE NOTICE OF ENACTMENT

The City Council of the City of Northville following a public hearing on Monday, June 19, 1989, in the Municipal Building at 8:00 p.m. has amended Title 3, Chapter 7, Water, as follows:

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHAPTER 3, TITLE 7, ENTITLED "WATER", OF THE CODE OF ORDINANCES OF THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE TO ADD PROVISIONS RELATED TO EMERGENCY RESTRICTIONS ON WATER CONSUMPTION WHEN SUPPLY SHORTAGES ARE ANTICIPATED OR EXIST.

The City of Northville ordains:

Section 1. Chapter 3, Title 7, entitled "Water", of the Code of Ordinances of the City of Northville, is hereby amended by adding a section 7-326 as follows:
Sec. 7-326 RESTRICTIONS ON WATER CONSUMPTION DURING EMERGENCIES - The City Manager is hereby authorized to declare a "water supply emergency" whenever he determines, on the basis of existing or anticipated drought conditions, depletion of water supply, reduction in water pressure, failure of one or more parts of the supply system, or for other reasons, that there is a threat of loss of water supply to the City or a portion of the City.

(a) Method of declaration: A water supply emergency shall exist when the City Manager has caused a declaration of such emergency to be publicly announced by broadcast from one or more radio or television stations with a normal operating range covering the City. When practical, such declaration shall also be made over the appropriate cable television channel, on the City Hall telephone message machine, and in the local newspaper if the anticipated duration of the emergency warrants it. The City Manager shall make a record of each time and date and methods of such declaration. Irrespective of such methods of declaration, a water supply emergency shall be deemed to exist for any person who has received a direct written notice of such declaration.

(b) Content of declaration: A declaration of water supply emergency shall include the effective date and time of such emergency, which may be immediate; the period of time during which such emergency shall be in effect, which may be for twenty-four hours per day, and until further notice; and the types of outside water usage which are prohibited, which may include all outside uses except fire protection, and may permit certain uses on alternating days or during restricted hours.

(c) Water use restricted: Whenever a water supply emergency exists, it shall be unlawful for any person to utilize water from the City water supply system for any type of outdoor use which is in violation of the terms of the declaration.

(d) Penalty: Any person who violates subsection (c) of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500.00) or imprisonment for a period not to exceed ninety (90) days, or engagement in community service, or any combination of such fine, imprisonment and community service, in the discretion of the court, together with the cost of prosecution.

Section 2. This ordinance shall become effective ten (10) days after enactment thereof and after publication thereof.

Council resumes debate on city's sign ordinance

By DARRELL CLEM

Signs at four out of 10 businesses in Northville would exceed the maximum sign size under a proposed revision to the city's sign ordinance.

In what was termed a "conservative estimate," planning consultant Don Wortman told Northville City Council members Monday night that 40 percent of the downtown-area signs would exceed the sign size.

Sign sizes and heights would vary, depending on such factors as the type of sign and where it is located.

Wortman's remarks surfaced as the council — joined by several planning commission and Historic District commission members — met for another study session on the proposed ordinance that would result in a much-tighter set of regulations.

In a written report submitted to the council, Wortman noted that the 40-percent figure surfaced after 140 business sites in the city's central business district were studied to determine their compliance with the proposed ordinance.

But Mayor Christopher Johnson emphasized that businesses would not be forced to conform to the regulations until they replace signs or make repairs costing more than 50 percent of the sign's value. Signs also would have to conform to the new rules if a new business moves to town, replacing an old business.

"There will not be a single business that will be ordered to take down what (signs) they currently have," Johnson said after Monday's 2½-hour special session.

Moreover, Johnson cautioned that most of the signs may exceed regulations simply on the basis of the number of "message units" — or words — on the signs.

The sign ordinance recommendations, which already have been passed by the planning commission, would limit the number, size and height of signs allowed in the city. However, an appeals procedure is included for those seeking city approval to erect a nonconforming sign.

City officials Monday asked Wortman to make mostly minor changes to some portions of the 27-page ordinance prior to another study session scheduled for 8 p.m. July 13. Johnson said the revised ordinance will be circulated before the meeting, during which the council will seek input from the local merchants association and the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

At one point during Monday's meeting, officials opposed to 4-foot by 8-foot political signs questioned whether the city should adopt stricter regulations.

Mayor Pro tem Carolann Ayers said the 4-by-8 signs are "just ridiculous for political signs," some of which she said are posted "right here in town."

However, Johnson said there may be no reason to restrict political signs. Perhaps the biggest deterrent to large political signs, he said, is the backlash from workers who don't like the signs and view them as a "negative campaign tactic."

No specific recommendation for political signs was made Monday.

Other discussion included a brief debate on garage-sale signs, which "may only be placed on private property with the consent of the property owner and cannot be placed on any property located more than 500 feet from the place of sale."

City officials had considered restricting garage-sale signs to two square feet in size but, under advice from Johnson, decided to leave the size at seven square feet.

Gone from Monday's meeting were the protests of merchants who earlier this month said they viewed the proposed ordinance as too rigid. Johnson said there had been some misunderstanding about the ordinance and that many of the merchants' fears were alleviated after they had their questions answered.

Meanwhile, Johnson said the earliest the ordinance could be adopted would be some time in August. After the revisions are complete, a yet-to-be-scheduled public hearing must be held before the planning commission. Afterward, the commission will make a recommendation to the city council, which is charged with final approval.

Book storage solution found

By DARRELL CLEM

Just as it appeared that a lack of storage space could force the Friends of the Northville Public Library to abandon its used book sales, school officials have come to the rescue.

Schools Superintendent George Bell said Monday that the Friends will again be allowed to use Cooke School to store books sold to benefit the library.

"That's encouraging news," Library Director Pat Orr said. "That may mean that the book sales can continue."

Book sales in the last four years have generated about $6,000 for programs and equipment — such as a summer reading program, a computer, a copy machine, and microfilm — that do not receive money from the library's general fund, Orr said. The next sale is scheduled to coincide with a city sidewalk sale on Aug. 5, she said.

Earlier this year, space problems at Cooke forced the Friends to move out of a classroom that the group had used to store and sort books donated by the public.

As a stopgap measure, Northville Downs agreed to let the group use an office-type area at the race track for storage through Aug. 1, said Friends President Rosemary Mentag.

But the group feared that it would be without storage space in August — a situation that Friends officials last week termed "a crisis."

On Monday, however, Bell said the Friends would be allowed to use a locker-room area at Cooke for storage at least through the next school year. He said the room is roughly the same size as the Cooke classroom formerly used by the Friends.

School officials' decision to let the group return to Cooke came after the Northville City Council and the Northville Township Board sent letters to Bell asking that the school district try to provide the storage space.

Due to overcrowding at the city library, the lack of storage space has been an ongoing problem for the Friends.

Until 1987, the group shared with the police department a small room at city hall. However, the group was forced to move after the department converted the area into a dressing room for women on the police force.

Under an agreement with the city, the Department of Public Works moved the books to Cooke School, where programs ranging from preschool to drug-abuse prevention are currently based.

Meanwhile, Bell said he told Tom Bailey, the school district's director of buildings and grounds, to notify the Friends that the space at Cooke is immediately available.

"We'll have one more year of space for them, anyway," Bell said.

Our Opinions

Planners deserve input in master plan issues

The discussion of the city master plan at last week's planning commission meeting raised a very interesting — and valid — point.

Commissioner Rolland Stapleton objected to the procedure being used to develop an update and expansion of the formal master plan for the city. Specifically, he said that the hired consultants have been doing too much work on their own with too little input from the members of the commission.

The consultants are from Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, a professional planning firm headquartered in Ann Arbor. The people who work there are experts in municipal planning. The planning commission is a group of volunteers who are not experts, but who live in Northville.

Obviously, both sides need to be heard in this situation. The commissioners' perspectives and concerns must drive the professional work of the consultants. Like Rolland Stapleton, we are concerned that this is not happening.

The consultants' role is fairly well defined: they are supposed to develop a document for approval. The commissioners' role may be less well defined. They hold the authority to approve of the document, but what is their role in its development?

Since they are the people with the ties and the commitment to Northville, the commissioners' opinions must be taken into careful consideration as the document is written. That isn't happening, at least not enough, or last week's discussion would never have happened.

Government

Some of the commissioners already feel slighted that they have not had a more active role in the development of the Cady Street Corridor plan, which will itself become an integral part of the master plan. They must not be slighted on the rest of the plan, or they will end up with a document which they will find difficult or impossible to approve.

The next commission meeting is supposed to dedicate a large chunk of time to discussion of the master plan between the commissioners and the consultants. This is a good, if tardy, step toward resolving the difficulties.

Such discussions must continue. If the eventual master-plan document differs greatly from the planning commissioners' vision of the city, the plan will be of very little value to anyone.

Citizens pull together and the town benefits

The Northville community recently experienced two good examples of the power people have when they band together for a good cause.

One case started with some concerns about the safety of school children crossing the intersection of Eight Mile and Center Streets. Although a topic of concern in the past, this issue has become especially active in recent months.

Formal action by the city council and school board did little apparent good. Individual citizen protests likewise met with little response from the authorities with the power over such matters.

But then a local committee was formed to look at the situation in depth. And that committee recently scored a major victory by getting Wayne County government to allow the establishment of a school speed zone along Eight Mile near Center.

The victory was not total; a permanent, lower speed limit will not happen, and the cost for the school speed zone is going to have to be met locally.

The victory was, however, substantial, and the primary goal — protecting the safety of the students as much as possible — should be achieved by the time school opens.

People pulling together will also result in some tangible results at the Old Village School on Main Street.

The school will soon get a new playground designed to allow use by any students, including those with physical disabilities. It will be only the second such playground in Wayne County, and a tremendous resource for Northville and the surrounding area.

The most amazing thing about the playground is that it will be built with no public money at all. Grants, donations and fundraisers are behind the $30,000 project. The effort that went into planning the playground and raising the money — although it has not yet all been raised — deserves the appreciation of the entire community.

The town comes out a real winner in both of these cases. Our thanks to the caring people who made these events happen.

No respect

By Neil Geoghegan

To say it's been very eventful in the world of sports lately would be an understatement — and a lot of people don't like it one bit.

With the Pistons, the Grand Prix, Thomas Hearn, Pete Rose, Sparky Anderson, and the like, many lead stories on television and page-one articles in the newspapers the last few weeks have been about sporting events or sport figures. And from comments I've heard and read, there are quite a few people out there who are getting tired of seeing prominent coverage of sports in areas normally reserved for crime and political news.

The argument is that very few people care about what happens to Pete Rose, and the space or time could be used for more important things — like paternity suits and flag-burners.

Well, as a sports writer, I'd have to disagree. Most of the recent coverage of these sports-related events has been extensive — granted — but there has been a very big interest in each and every one. When the Pistons made a run to their first National Basketball Association title several weeks ago, the interest was almost universal among Michiganders. Many, many people who don't even like basketball were following the Bad Boys with close scrutiny.

As a matter of fact, this area was so captivated, a sell-out crowd of more than 21,000 fans showed up at the Palace for game four of the championship series with the Lakers, just to watch the game on an overgrown, hard-to-see television! And several thousand more fans were turned away. Although it was lost in the excitement of the title, this kind of thing is unprecedented in the history of sports.

People around here complained about what they viewed as biased reporting by CBS during the playoffs, but most came from Johnny-come-lately fans. Without even an appearance on the cover of Sports Illustrated, the Pistons may have been the most underappreciated world champions in recent memory, but dedicated sports fans were more incensed with the decision (or non-decision) in the Hearn-Sugar Ray Leonard boxing match. After all, judge Dalby Shirley said publicly that he thought Hearn won the fight — but his score card said it was a 112-112 draw.

Sparky and Rose haven't had the best of springs, but, as bona fide baseball legends, their problems are of great interest to the public in general. The focus is on them and not their sport, and that's why the media attention has been so extensive.

And what about the Detroit Grand Prix? Now that Formula One has been replaced by the Indy cars, the switch became a big story. Then when 50,000 fewer fans showed up, and three of the top four finishers were former Formula One drivers, questions were raised; about whether the move was a good one. Everyone welcomed the American drivers, but the first thing they did was complain about the bumpy course — sound familiar? The only difference from a year ago was that the complaints didn't come from somebody with a French accent.

In Northville and Novi, sports also end up on the front page occasionally. When the Novi football team advanced all the way to the Class A semifinals last fall, it was the biggest news in the city. Same can be said of Northville's run for the girls soccer title a few weeks ago.

You may not like sports, but it's hard to deny that there are times when they are big news.

Alotta legs

My lovely wife, on the other hand, was less understanding.

"That's it," she roared after the rotten machine broke down for the third time. "You spend more time lying underneath that thing than you do sitting on it. It's going in the trash. I'm calling Goodwill. I'm calling the Salvation Army. First come, first serve."

I tried to explain that she wanted to throw away a $2,000 machine for the want of a 20-cent part, but she was adamant . . . and that teed me off more than the tractor.

"You're like the joke about the rich Texan," I blurted out finally. "The one who went out and bought a new Cadillac because the one he was driving got a flat tire."

"And I'm not going to let you throw it away. You want to sink us farther in debt just because you were dumb enough to marry a jerk who couldn't fix an elephant if it were standing on top of him."

"What's that supposed to mean?" she asked, puzzled.

"I don't know what it means," I roared, still seething. "But you're not throwing away that lawnmower."

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

I'll tell you what I'm good at — Scrabble, crossword puzzles and Ms. Pac Man.

What I'm not good at is fixing things.

Take my riding lawnmower, for example. The darn thing has been causing me more problems lately than dogs cause cats . . . ants cause picnics . . . bureaucrats cause taxpayers. You get the picture.

And last Saturday had to be the worst. I can't tell you how many trips I made to buy parts and get things fixed. And no sooner would I get something fixed than something different would go wrong.

I suffered the tribulation with the patience of Job.

Readers Speak

Ethics of soccer article questioned

To the Editor:

I wish to comment on the ethics of your newspaper. To quote Mr. David Bolitho: "There is no sense in dragging it through the public when it is a school problem," but you did anyway by printing Jeff Hawkins' article "Suspensions cloud championship run."

The paper was discredited through your actions. Journalism is based on a foundation of facts, but that article has few. The facts presented have nothing to do with the suspensions. Their only purpose is to further embarrass those two players; only Heather Sixt and Marcie Dart will suffer. For they paid for what they did; now they wish to forget, but you have prolonged the pain. Miss Sixt probably appreciates the accompanying photo. It was in bad taste. Perhaps your paper would like to write up a formal declaration of guilt for its hypothesis that they lost because Heather was suspended. You could attach the picture of Heather, and if you're lucky, maybe she will sign it, admitting to something that was not her fault. This is what Mr. Hawkins' article suggests.

Instead of editing for grammar, maybe you should read between the lines. If the Northville Girls Varsity Soccer team lost because of a single player, they would never have reached the state finals.

The article is a hypothesis. To suggest that the outcome of a game would be changed by a player's presence fails to report the facts. This was the first, and hopefully the last, article I have to read concerning athletes being suspended. Have no other suspensions occurred this year? You only felt this article had merit because it occurred during a winning season. If an athlete had been suspended from a losing team it never would have been printed.

Congratulations to Bruce Weintraub and Neil Geoghegan for their contributions. I cannot believe it took all three of you to write so little. I am sorry; there were a lot of quotes.

I encourage you to keep up your efforts, reporting what concerns the reader. That article does not interest people, and now you are walking the line between The Northville Record and The Northville Inquirer.

Church height

To the Editor:

In reference to the recent debate over the height of the buildings in the Township of Northville, it seems that two of our planning commissioners have confused Northville with other urban areas in our state and haven't noticed that there is a more suburban personality reflected here. We, the residents of Northville, may not be legally responsible for protecting every building within our boundaries, but morally, the community would be responsible for upgrading our equipment and manpower, to protect our firefighters, as well as the church members.

I, as well as the others who signed a petition given to the commissioners, support the fire chief. The fire chief, who is a professional in fire fighting and rescue, has stated several times that he could not effectively fight a fire in a building higher than four stories. We then must be responsible citizens and ask that builders show a concern for the community and comply.

I was upset by the tone of the meeting on May 23, because the petitioners' moral character was questioned by a board member, simply because we opted to use our legal rights and show our support of the proposed ordinance limiting the height of all buildings to four stories, by passing and signing a petition reflecting that support. How better to show our commissioners where the majority of residents stand on this issue than to present their personal signatures?

As a taxpayer of Northville, I do not want the additional burden of having to purchase new equipment in order to protect any building if it could be avoided. It does not seem unfair or un-Christian to ask that all churches sympathize with our position and compromise.

I have lived here six years and have found the residents here extremely friendly and community oriented. I truly resent any church that would come here and question the residents' motives and character, simply because we do not agree with them on this issue! Especially when the majority of their parishioners do not live within the township boundaries.

Leasa Carney

Friendly place

To the Editor:

As anyone who has actually been there can clearly tell you, the "Starting Gate" is a family-oriented sort of place. It is not at all uncommon, on any Friday night, to see many of the young families of our town enjoying an evening out at dinner there. The laughter of their children, the excellent food, and the courteous and friendly demeanor of all of the staff make it a pleasure to be there, and a credit to the Northville community business association.

For all of these reasons, I am all the more shocked and appalled at the reprehensibly vindictive treatment which Jim and Mary Rea (the thoroughly honest and totally reputable owners of the Starting Gate) are being subjected to by the Liquor Control board of this state.

The laws concerning drug peddling in a liquor-licensed establishment were enacted to prevent the criminal element from combining the two activities. These laws were not intended to be warped and perverted into the unwarranted (albeit "legal") persecution of legitimate business persons, as I believe has happened here.

Think about it... If you owned a flower store, and some fool kid you accidentally hired used your showroom for a cocaine deal, should you be personally embarrassed before the community, and loose a significant portion of your flower sales, as a result? There is no difference!

In fact, it is only a small jump from the horrors of "legal" law enforcement currently being seen in downtown Beijing, China to the travesty being worked on Jim and Mary here in the splendid little town of Northville. Undercover secret police agents, trials behind closed doors, no notice that the arrest even occurred to Jim and Mary from the police... The Reas first heard of it three months later when they read it in the Northville Record! It is, I think, only a matter of degree. Frankly, as a law-abiding business person myself, it scares the hell out of me. Maybe, Beijing-style, it is supposed to. That scares me even more.

Appeals, probably, are so expensive and humiliating as to be "not among the options" for Jim and Mary, and I can certainly understand that. I can only say that, when the disheartening and degrading "Closed-for-Narcotics" signs are nailed upon the doors of the Starting Gate, I will feel for Jim and Mary, and for their genuinely pleasant and hard-working staff. More importantly, when those signs are removed ten miserable, unjust days later, I will be back drinking coffee in my favorite chair by the window and, once again, I hope to enjoy the laughter of the children, and the friendly Northville people, with the Reas on a warm summer's Friday night. I hope the rest of our Northville community will do the same.

Bell noise

To the Editor:

The citizens of my neighborhood have been duped. Several years ago we went down to city hall because we were concerned that the expansion of the Michigan Bell building on Center and N. Ely would create a noise problem. The air conditioning units on the existing building were noisy. What would happen in the case of an expansion?

We were assured that it would not be any noisier and a green wall would be built to muffle the sound and disguise the building. Guess what? It was noisier. Each spring, when we started to leave our windows open and spend more time outside, we had to adapt first to the constant humming. This is the price for phone service?

Add insult to injury: a new air-conditioning unit was recently installed. It was unbearable. Michigan Bell employees have assured us (again) that steps will be taken. An enclosure was built around the unit.

Many nights I have spent on the couch because the buzzing makes it impossible to sleep. I no longer hear the serenade of the crickets, as the buzzing drowns them out. The chirping sounds of the birds used to be a joyous way to welcome the morning. At this point I'd even welcome the patter of raindrops.

My nerves are frazzled, and I resent the assault on my ability to enjoy my home. It may as well be acid rain. Must we be sacrificed for the "benefit of the community's phone service"?

Parent thanks

To the Editor:

It is with our deepest gratitude that we would like to thank the people of Northville. The tremendous support brought forth by the merchants, citizens, and our parents made our Senior Party fun and successful. We greatly appreciate the countless hours and materials put into our Senior Party. It was a memorable way to bring a great year to an end. Thank you.

Communication in families is important

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

It is important for parents to communicate with their children. Children typically develop communication skills from the example of their parents. Parents who do not communicate effectively with each other will not communicate well with their children. For a healthy marriage and a good example to children, it is important that parents learn to communicate well with each other.

Parents need to just talk to each other. They can talk about what they are doing, what they just did, what they are planning to do. They can talk about what they are thinking, what they are feeling, what they are concerned about. If a spouse says something, it is important for the other spouse to acknowledge the message in order to keep the conversation going.

While one partner is speaking, the other should respond with eye contact, facial expressions and head movements. For example, if one person has a blank look on their face, communication will no doubt cease. An excellent way to show that you are genuinely interested in the other person is to ask questions and not assume that you know what your spouse means.

As you listen to your spouse, try to put yourself in your spouse's shoes and try to see things the way your spouse is seeing them. You can then say things that validate the other's point of view. For example, saying "Yeah, that must have hurt your feelings," "that would have made me mad, too," or "I know just what you're going through," lets the other person know that you are on their wavelength.

Another suggestion to increase communication is to summarize in your own words what the other person is saying. Examples of helpful phrases are, "So what you're saying is..." or "What you've said so far is..." or "What I understand is that..."

When you want to end a conversation, the best thing to do is to be direct about it and be clear about why the conversation is ending.

Practice good communication with each other so that in turn you will communicate effectively with your children. Your children will then be able to take effective communicating skills with them into their adult years.

If you are having difficulty communicating with your children or spouse, call 344-1618 for help.

Why is it...

By Amy Rosa

Sitting around on a lazy summer day, numerous questions pop into my mind.

I think about what the areas of Northville and Novi looked like after the flooding rain of last week, and I ask myself, "Was this really the worst flooding that occurred here in 100 years, as I had been told? And if so, who's been around long enough to judge? And why isn't anybody talking about the greenhouse effect anymore?"

I also wonder why Sheldon Road running through the center of Northville is called Center Street too — or is it why is Center Street also called Sheldon?

Did you know, by the way, that if you are ever shy one egg for a particular recipe, you can use two egg yolks instead? I wonder who was able to get all the cook books in America to print that, knowing full well that if someone were creating, say, meat loaf, for instance, and that person discovered he was shy one egg, where in tarnation he would get another egg so he could use the egg yolk to successfully substitute? I wonder about things like that.

I also wonder why, on certain wine bottle labels, the print says "made from selected grapes." How could a wine ever be made from "unselected grapes"? I don't get it. They have to be picked, i.e., selected, in order to get squashed and become fermented, don't they?

On a different note, I also wonder why the media has been hyping up "Batman" like there is no tomorrow. My guess is that it started with one network morning talk show, one newspaper movie critic, and then everyone else had to follow suit to compete. This flick better live up to all the hoopla. (I'll be sorely disappointed if Batman doesn't pal around with his sidekick Robin, as I have not seen Robin in any previews. Who is going to run around saying things like "Holy Villian-burgers Batman, there's the Joker taking off with a load of stolen cheeseburgers"?)

I wonder, too, whatever happened to the good old drive-in movie theaters. I only ask because I thought they were extinct until I noticed one in Commerce Township near my house. I saw the latest "Star Trek" sequel there last weekend, and had a blast.

Also, why does Captain Kirk have more hair now than when he commanded the Enterprise in the 1960s?

And hereXare a couple more. Can anyone tell me why roller derby fell off the face of the planet? And why am I the only humanoid who likes salt-and-vinegar potato chips? Times are a-changing.

City gears up for annual Fourth of July celebration

Griswold to Main, Main to Rogers, Rogers to Cady, Cady to Wing, Wing to Fairbrook, and Fairbrook back to the Downs.

According to parade sponsors the Northville Jaycees, the theme of this year's parade is "Northville Then and Now." The grand marshal is "Queen Victoria." Everyone is welcome to participate with floats, antique vehicles, marching groups and decorated bikes.

Prizes will be awarded for all classifications. Bike judging will take place at the Downs parking lot at 9:30 a.m.

Anyone with a convertible who wishes to drive a dignitary in the parade may call Bob Cummings at 349-4528.

MILL RACE HAPPENINGS — The Northville Historical Society is sponsoring activities at Mill Race Historical Village from just after the parade until 4 p.m. Attractions include:

- Docents on duty in all the homes.
- Sixteen crafters including unfinished wood, silk flowers, antiques, and country crafts.

- Sales and demonstrations by the Mill Race Weavers Guild in the Cottage House.

- A basket sale by the Mill Race Basket Guild in the New School Church.

- Blacksmith Tom Swigart will demonstrate in the Hirsch

Blacksmith Shop.

- Performances by the Novi Concert Band.
- A new display of antique machines.

- The Mountain Men camping out behind the Yerkes House.

- The sale of "Step by Step Through Northville," a new book of four walking tours of the community.

BARBECUE — In the one major deviation from tradition this year, the barbecue will not include chicken because of health department requirements.

The barbecue is scheduled from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Mill Race Historical Village. The menu is a hot dog dinner for $3.50, a bratwurst dinner for $4.25, and a sausage dinner for $5.

Dinners include a sandwich, col- eslaw, chips and pop. All items will also be sold separately.

Northville posters will be available for sale at the picnic site.

FIREWORKS — Viewing will be at Northville High School, Cooke School and Amerman Elementary School. Parking is $1. Parking for handicappers will be available at Cooke. Parking lots open at 6:30 p.m.

The Jaycees are seeking donations for the events. They may be sent to the Northville Jaycees at P.O. Box 241, Northville. For more information on the Jaycee-sponsored events, call Teresa Folino at 349-3391 or Sharon Rizzo at 348-0679.

Planning commission enters heated debate on master plan

commission failed in its duties by not setting parameters for the study, which he said "does not test what the community wants." He said the commission should have given the consultants more direction in developing the questionnaire.

Stapleton charged that as city officials attempt to revise the master plan, "the existence of this survey is going to prejudice everything we're going to do — like it or not."

However, some commissioners defended the study, saying that comments from more than 1,300 residents have at least some merit.

Vice Chair John Hardin said labeling all the results as invalid is an unfair assessment of the survey. He said the study "does represent the feelings of the community to a degree."

City Manager Steven Walters

agreed, saying the citizen comments should not simply be discarded.

Commissioner David Totten, noting that "the fat's in the fire" and "we can't 'unmail' the survey," suggested it could be used as a minor source of information in developing the master plan.

Totten said that, to some extent, he agreed with Stapleton that the city's consultants have become the city's master planners. Moreover, he said that relations — as they pertain to the master plan — have deteriorated between the commission and its consultants. Totten added, however, that the two sides "work well" together on such matters as site plans.

Some commissioners indicated that the commission and its consultants could mend their relations by having more-detailed discussions about the master plan at future meetings.

In other developments, some commissioners balked at a suggestion by Wortman that the commission consider organizing public workshops in which scores of citizens would work in small groups to develop lists of the city's strengths and weaknesses.

Wortman said each group would have a designated leader. Results of the sessions would be compiled by the consultants.

Stapleton again voiced concerns that the planning commission would be asking the public to perform a role that the commission itself hasn't attempted.

"The planning process belongs here first," he said.

Totten also said he didn't believe the sessions would be worthwhile.

Meanwhile, the commission decided to devote virtually all of its next regular meeting to discussing the master plan. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. Tuesday, July 11, at city hall.

Gas service questioned

One member of the Northville City Council is concerned that two gas stations in town do not offer full service, but workers at the stations said they do.

At a city council meeting last month, Council Member Paul Folino said the Clark station on S. Main and the Mobil station at Taft and Eight Mile seemed not to be offering full service at any of their pumps. The city zoning ordinance requires that full service be available.

Folino said the Clark station had refused him full service, and that Mobil often keeps blockades across the full service.

Clark Manager Laura North said the station does offer full service, although it has to be at the regular self-serve pumps. "It's at the self-serve island, but if you want full service you can get it," she said.

City Manager Steve Walters said the police chief sent a letter to Mobil explaining the requirement. Walters added that he tested Mobil by asking for full service, and was told someone would be happy to pump his gas for him at one of the pumps marked for self service.

A worker at Mobil said the station offers full service whenever possible, but sometimes the full service island has to be closed because they do not have enough help.

The issue is whether full service is available, not whether a specific full service island is open, Walters said.

He said recently that the city has never taken a formal complaint of a violation of the full-service provision. A formal complaint would mean a signed complaint with the police department, he said.

Council Member Jerry Mittman asked if the requirement was a reasonable one, and said the council might want to reconsider the rule.

Folino suggested the requirement is useful for people who are not physically able to pump their own gas.

Walters later explained that the requirement for full service actually did not start out as an added requirement, but rather as an attempt at deregulation. In the original zoning ordinance, gas stations were defined with full service.

Old Ballpark reports plans for franchises

By RICK KEATING

"The ultimate souvenir"

A resident of the Novi area for the last 25 years, Leahy opened the first Old Ball Park in Livonia in 1979. It was, at the time, the first full-line sports memorabilia store in Michigan. It was also one of the first in the country where people could buy exact replicas of jerseys and hats worn by major league ball players.

Today, The Old Ball Park has stores at the Merri-Five Shopping Center in Livonia and the Novi Town Center in Novi. It is still the largest sports memorabilia store in the midwest. Carrying both hobby items and clothes, the store draws clientele of all ages. Over 150 major league ball players have passed through its doors over the last 10 years.

Leahy feels the Old Ball Park has an edge on the competition not only because it carries a full line of memorabilia, but also because it is open year-round. Leahy cites the recent Piston's mania as an example.

"I would bet that 80 percent of the stores selling Piston's T-shirts won't have them in 30 days," he said. "People who come to the Old Ball Park in three years expect to find a 1989 world champion T-shirt. We still sell 1984 pennants."

And now Leahy is planning to take his store nationwide. Feeling that the Old Ball Park had something unique to offer, Leahy has decided to franchise. He believes The Old Ball Park is the first full-line sports memorabilia store to do so.

The model for the franchise is the Novi store. Most of the stores will be 1,600 to 2,000 square feet, and will combine hobby items with licensed merchandise. All stores will have green carpeting, section beams like those at Tiger Stadium, a hat rack with over 1,000 major league caps, a full line of NHL memorabilia (available year-round) and heat machines to press names and numbers onto custom-made jerseys as well as television and VCRs.

Leahy reports plans to franchise Old Ballpark operations

The Novi store currently has on display the jerseys of Alan Trammell and Sparky Anderson as well as seats from Tiger stadium and Olympia. Even Kirk Gibson's college football jersey at Michigan State.

The hobby section may vary from store to store. The Old Ball Park carries a complete line of baseball cards from all teams, but, naturally, features the Tigers. The cards are organized by the players' names. If you have trouble finding a certain card — or any merchandise for that matter — the store will special order

'I would bet that 80 percent of the stores selling Piston's T-shirts won't have them in 30 days. People who come to the Old Ball Park in three years expect to find a 1989 world champion T-shirt. We still sell 1984 pennants.'

— Mike Leahy, president
The Old Ballpark, Inc.

if it possible
The most valuable Tiger card, Leahy reveals is an Al Kaline which runs about $350

Ultimately, Leahy plans to franchise his store across the nation. The initial plan, however, is to open from three to nine Old Ball Parks in Michigan by the end of 1990.

After the first 10 stores in Michigan are opened, more stores will be opened in Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. All in all, the plan is to have 100 stores nationwide within five years.

Leahy recently sold his first franchise to a sports lover named Bob Unis, a Wixom native, who will open his store in the Ann Arbor area within the next 60 days.

Leahy feels a big reason why the franchise will be successful is that most sports fans would rather buy official merchandise from The Old Ball Park than a department store. He feels it's doubtful a department store would have the same expertise that he and his staff can offer.

Leahy stresses the importance of trained employees. "When people come in and spend $30 or $40 on a baseball card, they have questions. We look for very special people who understand that ... people at the hobby counter are there for investment purposes."

Leahy warns that those interested in opening a franchise should expect starting costs of between $50,000 to $100,000. The costs include the franchise fee, racks, floor plans, a sign, carpeting, inventory and rent. For more information call 851-9110 during normal business hours

Dale Watts is Vice President of Franchise Sales. He is in charge of 90 percent of the set up work and will direct the operation. Leahy's job is helping franchises with day to day operations.

Leahy says that owning a store like The Old Ball Park is ideal for a person from 40 to 50 years old who loves sports and is "burned out" with his present job. Leahy himself left a high-paying sales job to open The Old Ball Park.

Leahy credits a great deal of his success to John Recker, manager of the Novi store.

Trammell Crow completes leasing of Novi office building

The Trammell Crow Company has completed its leasing efforts for Novi Town Center I with the addition of three new tenants.

Sony Corporation, the Southfield Corporation and the Continental Can Company have recently taken up residence in the three-story building.

Phase I of the Office Center consists of 92,700 square feet of gross leasable space. The combination of a landscaped atrium with the convenience, economy and efficiency of the building appeals to a variety of business users. The Office Center overlooks a private lake and offers extensive landscaping and pedestrian walkways.

Sony Corporation has chosen Novi Town Center I to be the home of its regional office. Several divisions make up the operation including Consumer Services, Pro Video and AOEM. The western suburban location of the Town Center facility was a major drawing point for Sony. Other factors included in the decision were the grounds and accessibility of the area.

The Southland Corporation, parent company of 7-Eleven Stores, also chose Novi Town Center I as the place to locate its Detroit area regional office. The 6,000 square foot area which houses Southland includes a variety of operations.

The additions of Sony Corporation, the Southland Corporation and Continental Can complete the list of area business operations who have found Novi Town Center I to be the ideal location for their operations. Other tenants at the Town Center include Abbott Laboratories; AP Industries, Inc.; Challenger Electrical Equipment Corporation; George Constantine and Daryl Salisbury; Ganton Technologies, Inc.; Financial Application Consulting Services, Inc.; James Harrington III; Richard Gilbert; Hastings and Chivetta, Inc.; Liberty Mutual Insurance Company; Micro Engineering Solutions; National Jewelers Credit Association; Nissei Sangyo American, LTD.; and Warzyn Engineering.

Novi Town Center I is located directly behind the Wyndam Garden Hotel just off I-96 and Novi Road in Novi. For more information call Trammell Crow Project Manager John Fricke at (313) 348-7300.

Consumer feedback vital to retailers

Companies want customers to come to them with questions, ideas, compliments and complaints.

Why? Because top management in businesses across the nation have discovered the vital importance of customer feedback — and a company's responses to it.

With each response a business reveals its level of concern for the quality of its goods and services, as well as its commitment to customer satisfaction.

In a study conducted by the Technical Assistance Research Programs Institute (TARP), it was reported that the majority of customers don't bother to express dissatisfaction with a product or service to the firms concerned.

It also revealed that 70 percent of those who do complain and receive a satisfactory response continue to be customers. Only 37 percent of those who do not complain, on the other hand, are willing to give the product or service another try.

According to Elaine Glasser, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service Home Economist, dissatisfied complainants tell twice as many people about their negative experiences as satisfied complainants tell about their positive interactions.

Based on findings that customers are more likely to communicate with companies if they're confident of a positive response, firms are installing toll-free, easy-access 800 numbers in their consumer affairs departments.

More and more consumers are calling. They're finding it easier, not to mention quicker, to ask questions or describe a problem over the phone than in a letter. Studies show that the number of complaints doubles, even triples, and inquiries increase three to 10 times when 800 numbers are made available.

Consumers may want to straighten out a billing matter, obtain information on product use and care, learn where they can obtain service.

To discover if a company you wish to contact has a toll-free number, call the toll-free information operator at 1-800-555-1212.

Resident Assistant Manager

Bring Your Expertise To One Of America's Fastest Growing Retailers!

Now that we've reduced the restocking of a major department store to a science, there might be a position awaiting you at Ames!

As an Ames Resident Assistant Manager, you'll be trained to use a combination of management and merchandising skills to make sure that our shelves and displays are kept well-stocked and appealing. Prior supervisory experience is a must, as you'll be guiding the efforts of several employees. If you're a night owl, you'll love the hours: 1:30pm till midnight, Monday through Friday...no weekends...no relocation.

If you have at least 2 years of college or 2 years of management or supervisory experience, you'll find this newly created position a challenge. As one of America's fastest growing companies, Ames can certainly make it rewarding with an excellent salary/benefits package--and plenty of room for advancement.

FACTORY AUTHORIZED INVENTORY SELL-OUT

Chrysler Motors Corp. along with LaFontaine Bros. Arbor Dodge is overstocked with brand new 1989 Dodges! We must liquidate over 2.7 million dollars worth of new Dodge cars, trucks and vans.

Going On Now Thru 4th of July, Arbor Dodge will be selling out their entire 1989 model inventory...not just a few select models, but all cars, trucks & vans including all Dodge Caravans, Shadows, Omnis, etc... no models excluded.

Chrysler Motors Corp. has said we must sell over 100 new vehicles during this period in order to earn and make room for our 1990 allocations. Chrysler Motors in conjunction with this inventory clearance, is offering 0.0%-2.9% a.p.r. and rebates up to $2,000. Financing specialist will be on duty to arrange for immediate delivery so please bring your title and pay-off information. Authorized appraisers will be on duty to all offer top value for your trade.

NO FUSS..NO GIMMICKS..NO HAGGLING. All models will be marked down to our lowest price and displayed on the window. We will not advertise these prices as they will be so low they would disrupt business conditions of other dealers. Hurry in today...you've never seen anything like this before!

This is your opportunity to select the new Dodge you want at a price you never thought possible. This is for retail customers only. We will not sell to dealers, prices apply to stock units only.

There is absolutely no reason to wait for lower prices...there won't be any!

OPEN SATURDAY 9-5

Around the Yard: Gardening

Keep roses healthy

By Patricia Denton

Roses are highly prized in the home garden for the sheer loveliness of the blooms and their sweet, nostalgic fragrance.

Modern varieties offer also a very long season from continuous flowering from early summer through late autumn, and into early winter in mild areas.

To enjoy the very best that your rose plants have to offer, keep the soil around their roots uniformly dampened but not soggy. Roses, like most other plants, cannot thrive well in wet soil. But a deeply and evenly dampened root area will help to ensure healthy foliage and an abundance of long-lasting flowers of fine substance and color.

Watering at ground level with soaker hoses or an emitter system is ideal for roses, but if an overhead sprinkler is used, water in the morning so that the foliage will be dry by evening. Leaves wet into the night make ideal sites for the spread of fungus disease.

Mildew, in particular, spreads quickly in conditions of cool, damp nights and warm days. That's why this disease often becomes such a severe problem in roses (and begonias) as the nights become cool toward summer's end. Inconsistent watering or allowing the plant to go dry at the roots also seems to help set these plants up for the spreading of mildew.

If you fertilized your rose plants late in the winter or in early spring, you could sprinkle a light scattering of balanced, general purpose fertilizer over the root areas again this month. Or purchase a product especially designed for roses. Whatever you decide to use, scratch the granules lightly into the soil surface, or cover them with a mulch layer to eliminate the loss of some of the nutrients through volatile action into the air.

Fertilize in a similar fashion again in mid to late July, but not after that. It's best to send rose plants a little lean and mean into winter. In August or September, however, a dressing of bone meal, and wood ash if you have some, will strengthen the roots and help to harden the plants for winter.

Watch for diseased foliage this month and through the summer, and take steps to control any problem before it spreads. Black spot is an unfortunately common fungus disease of roses. It usually starts with leaves on the lower portions of the plants as the spores over-winter on the ground as well as on the canes.

Pick off any spotted leaves as soon as you notice them. Burn or trash the leaves and give the affected plant a follow-up spray with a fungicide. I use the mildest effective one—Safer's Natural Garden Fungicide with sulfur.

Pick up and destroy any fallen foliage too. After you do this ground cleanup, it's an ideal time to lay a soil-enriching, moisture-retaining mulch layer over the soil around the plants. Use compost or processed manure, alone or mixed with damp peat. This layer will serve as a disease prevention measure, making it difficult for any disease spores left on the soil surface to germinate and release into the air.

Deal with powdery mildew, which appears as a fine grayish-white film on leaf surfaces, in much the same fashion, removing affected foliage and spraying at the first sign of the problem.

Maintaining a bug watch can prevent a lot of garden grief, too. Aphids are easily spotted clustered around young, succulent shoot tips, which will become twisted and curled with the aphids' feeding unless the pests are dealt with early.

Of all the aphid controls I've used, blasting them off the plants with a jet of water from the hose has proved the most effective in my garden. Then I'll sometimes spray after that with Safer's Insecticidal Soap to catch any malingerers.

Prune rose bushes for continued bloom production as you gather flowers for the house. Do this by cutting the flower-bearing stems back to a five-segment leaf stem. The first few leaf stems below the flower will often bear three-part leaves. But it's the growth bud nestled in the joints between parent stem and five-leaflet stems that will elongate into the best flowering growth.

Have a professional inspect that home you want to buy

If you are buying a home, co-op or condominium, plan to have it properly inspected by an experienced, competent home inspector.

"A home inspection should be an automatic step in the home buying process," advises Donald McKeon, president of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Board of Realtors. "Knowing what to expect — both inside and out — will help you make an informed decision about the value of the home and the future upkeep," he said.

A comprehensive home inspection includes a visual examination of the structure from top to bottom, including the heating and air conditioning systems (weather permitting), the interior plumbing and electric systems, the roof and visible insulation, walls, ceiling, floors, windows and doors, the foundation, basement and visible structure.

Following the examination, most inspectors will provide a report which not only points possible defects for areas of concern, but also the positive aspects of the structure as well as the type of maintenance that will be necessary to keep it in good shape.

"Home buyers who consider doing the inspection themselves should be aware that even the most experienced homeowners lack the knowledge and expertise of a professional home inspection firm which may have inspected hundreds or thousands of homes," McKeon said.

For example, watermarks in the basement may indicate a chronic seepage problem, or simply may be the result of a single incident. A professional assessment will provide complete information about the condition of the property you are considering, and will help avoid any unpleasant surprises after the sale. In addition, a home inspector can remain totally objective, while you, as the prospective homebuyer, may be emotionally involved.

The inspection fee for a typical single-family house will vary depending upon the geographic area, as do home prices. The particular features of the home such as size, age and special structures will be taken into consideration as well.

"The cost, however, should not be a factor in your decision to have a home inspected," said McKeon. "You might save many times the cost of the inspection if you are able to renegotiate the purchase price based on significant problems revealed by the inspector." Consult your real estate agent or lawyer for advice.

A home inspection which does reveal major problems does not necessarily mean you should not buy the house. The inspector can advise you of effective solutions and project the costs involved.

If an inspection report indicates that there are not major defects, you can complete the purchase with peace of mind about the home systems and property. In addition, you will have learned a great deal about the home in the inspector's report, which should be kept for future reference.

When selecting a home inspector, your real estate agent may be able to supply you with a listing of local inspection firms. You may wish to avoid, however, firms affiliated with realty or construction firms. When interviewing a potential home inspection firm, carefully inquire about the specifics of their work and company. The following list of questions will assist you in the interview:

- ☐ How long have you been in the residential inspection business?
- ☐ What type of insurance do you carry?
- ☐ Do you have a published list of the items you inspect?
- ☐ Do you have a published list, and can you give me the names of customer references?
- ☐ Do you give accurate cost estimates for any major defects discovered during the inspection?

☐ What are the qualifications of the specific inspector who will inspect my house?

☐ How long will the inspector spend in the house?

☐ How much do you charge, and on what do you base your fees?

The answers to these questions should provide you with enough information to make a sound choice in selecting the firm to inspect your property. Base your decision on the answers to all the questions, but give special weight to the qualifications of the inspector, the type of report issued and the items inspected.

Professional inspection companies will be happy to answer all your questions. Avoid firms which issue only a verbal report. The report should be in a narrative form, not just a checklist of items inspected. Avoid, also, firms which indicate that they can do the inspection in a relatively short amount of time — thorough inspection takes several hours. The inspection time, however, will vary with the house.

It is important that the company you choose maintain a high standard of ethics. The inspector should neither offer to perform work nor recommend contractors to you. The company you choose should meet or exceed the standards established by the American Society of Home Inspectors, a national association of professional home inspectors.

Property inspection work is not limited to residential properties or prospective homebuyers. Many inspectors help homeowners with analysis and solutions to specific problems such as energy conservation, wet basements and/or cracked foundations. Inspectors also can inspect work upon completion to ensure that a contract has been properly fulfilled.

Around the House: Design

Small house angles onto lot

By James McAlexander

The Roosevelt 1 was designed as either a high-quality starter house or an efficient "empty-nester" home for couple with grown children. Small in area, the Roosevelt 1 still has a spacious open feeling.

The entrance is dramatic, a raised landing a step above a vaulted living/dining room with tall windows on three sides.

The kitchen is two steps up from the dining area and separated by an open counter. This arrangement screens the work area from the table below, but allows hosts in the kitchen to converse with their guests.

The angled floor plan of the Roosevelt 1 makes maximum use of its small area. For instance, the main bath is quite small—except the extra space created by the odd wall opens up the door area for a laundry hamper or towel rack.

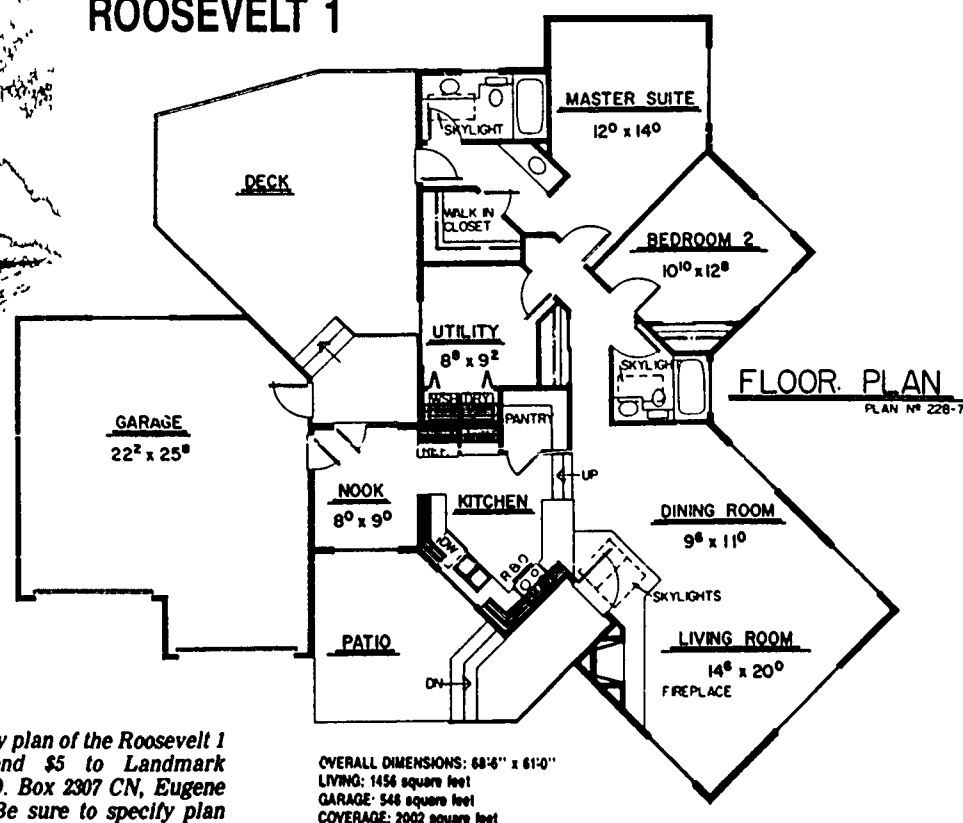

Instead of wasting floor space on a long corridor to reach the bedrooms, the Roosevelt 1 bends the floor plan around a short hall so that the doors to all the back rooms are within a few steps of one another.

The end result is two full baths, a separate utility area, a master suite with vanity and walk-in, and a kitchen with breakfast nook and pantry. These are amenities rarely seen together in a home under 1,500 square feet.

The Roosevelt 1 fits nicely on a compact lot and still leaves plenty of space for outside deck between the wings.

ROOSEVELT 1

For a study plan of the Roosevelt 1 (228-71), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Around the House: Decorating

A sofa would have left this narrow room looking overstuffed, so the decorator opted for four club chairs instead

No room? You'll love a love seat

Q: Our living room is a headache to arrange. It's less than 13 feet wide and has French doors down the wall opposite the fireplace. There's literally nowhere to put the sofa.

What can I do for seating?—Crowded in California.

A: Perhaps you should forget about a sofa. Remember, usually only two people sit on a sofa at a time. Everyone hates the middle.

Think love seats, instead. You could use a pair flanking the fireplace and fill in with pull-up chairs.

Or you could borrow an idea from design pro Marilyn Jaeger, who created the apartment living room we show here.

Not only is the room squeezingly narrow, its owners have to walk through the dining room. A sofa would have blocked everything, visually and traffic-wise.

So Jaeger conquered inner space by tossing out all thoughts of a sofa and settling instead for four comfortably roomy chairs.

To supplement seating possibilities, she used a pair of African stools that do double duty as tables.

Some of her other strategies for stretching the narrow space:

□ Wrap the room with built-ins. Merely eliminating clutter makes everything look more open and spacious.

□ Use a color that "paints out" visual noise. Jaeger says she chose a "flesh-tone" everywhere, including the chairs, to blend everything smoothly together.

□ Use wall-to-wall carpet. It aids the illusion of unbroken space.

□ Avoid sharp contrast, also fundamental to creating that illusion. Note how the exceptions—the old iron gate and wall-hung sculpture—jump out from the homogenized color scheme.

□ Perform mirror magic. It's hardly big news, but it's well worth repeating: Mirrors make you see double the space that actually exists.

Q: I've found a wonderful old mirrored screen stashed away in an outbuilding on the farm we recently bought.

Since all our decorating has been done around a rustic theme, will this beveled and arched-top screen look too formal?

Besides, where can I put it? There are six panels all together.—L.K.

A: Mirrors mainly reflect what is around them, rather than making overt design statements on their own. So I see no reason you can't work your serendipity into your country theme in a number of places.

Against the wall behind a sofa, for example, or before a doorway, where you'd like a little privacy, say, the dining room door leading into the kitchen.

A screen also makes a marvelous bed "head," adds an illusion of depth to any corner, goes beautifully between a pair of windows for extra architectural interest.

If you're still worried that it's too formal, you can "countryfy" your screen with a variety of art objects hung over the front: a vine wreath, a couple of rural landscape paintings and even more mirrors in assorted sizes and frame shapes.

Seller financing is a viable option

Many home buyers and sellers, frustrated by complicated institutional loan offerings, are finding "seller financing" to be the best method to finance a home purchase.

Seller financing simply means the previous owner (seller) carries back a note and mortgage for part or all of the purchase price.

In the case of a conventional home loan, a lending institution loans hard dollars to the buyer. With seller financing, the seller loans his equity in the property.

In either case, the loan is normally repaid in stipulated monthly payments, including principle and interest. The interest rate is usually about the same with either type of financing—sometimes a bit higher with seller financing.

If the home purchase is totally financed by the seller, the transaction can be simple, fast and inexpensive. There are no long delays or stiff closing costs and "points" charged by an institutional lender.

All terms in the seller financing note are negotiable between the buyer and seller. The broker (or brokers) involved in the transaction can usually work out terms that are fair for both parties.

It's not the type of home financing you'll see touted in ads and promotional mailings from lenders.

And there certainly are no "teaser interest rates" or other gimmicky techniques involved with this financing. In some cases it's the best possible form of home financing.

A word of caution: Both buyer and seller should be sure the title to the property is clean—free and clear with no liens. Work with a seasoned title company.

Also, the seller should be sure that the buyer is financially responsible and can handle the monthly payments, along with other housing costs.

Offering to sell a home with seller financing to a qualified buyer can be a big marketing-plus. It can attract many buyers because of its obvious advantages, and there is not much competition for this type of offering.

The financing can work equally well for a buyer who assumes an existing mortgage loan and seller finances the rest, or a transaction where the property is totally seller financed. But when a loan is assumed there is usually an assumption for charged to the buyer.

Q: Are there any significant differences between the lifestyle of homeowners and home renters?

A: A study on that subject was recently conducted by the National Association of Realtors. Here are a few of its most noteworthy findings:

The study revealed that because homeowners have a higher social and economic stake in their neighborhoods, they tend to be more involved in politics, community and volunteer activities than comparable renting households, and tend to keep their homes in better condition.

It was found that homeowners in each of these categories—age, income, race and household—had higher percentages for voting in national elections.

Homeowners in each category volunteered more frequently to community organizations and participated more often in community improvement activities.

The study also found that owner-occupied housing shows fewer problems than does renter-occupied housing with regard to exposed wiring, open holes and cracks, and water leaks from the roof and ceiling.

And households anticipating home ownership build up more savings than renters—not only for their down payment, but for non-equity related savings following the purchase.

Making a creative display of photos

Summer vacations often mean time to dust off the old family camera and start snapping a new batch of unforgettable shots.

Unfortunately, if you're like most people, those fun photos will probably just get stashed away in a shoebox or drawer, and only rarely will they be pulled out and enjoyed.

Here are some ideas for changing that routine.

The easiest way to enjoy your photos time and again is to make them accessible. Instead of boxing them up, why not fill a basket, a large ceramic bowl or a quaint wooden toolbox with photos? Displayed on the coffee table or another central spot, they'll be irresistible to thumb through every now and then, especially if friends know you change the pictures occasionally.

There are other ways to make the most of your favorite photos. If you have one that's particularly meaningful to you, give it a special mat border before you frame it. For example, stencil a colorful design around the matting—this is a good way to make a color dominant in the picture.

A picture may be worth a thousand words, but you can make it say even more. Offset the picture on a piece of mat board to make room for a poem, Bible verse or saying that's appropriate for that photo. Decorative writing, such as calligraphy, will add a special touch.

Another interesting matting technique is a counted cross-stitch border. Leave an empty square large enough for the photo, plus some spacing in the center of the fabric. After stitching around this square, mount the fabric on a piece of board the same color as your fabric. Fold excess fabric around to the back of the board and tape it into place.

A clever way to display photos of family and best friends is with a phone board. Next to your phone, hang a bulletin board and fill it with photos of folks you might be calling. Use colorful paper clips to attach the phone number to each corresponding picture. Update the photos as often as you wish.

A growth chart is an excellent way to display your child's photos. Cut a piece of cardboard 65 inches long and 12 inches wide. Cover the cardboard with bright fabric, self-adhesive shelf paper or wallpaper remnants, then glue a 60-inch tape measure off to one side, flush with the bottom of the cardboard.

At various stages in your child's growth, mount a picture taken at a certain age adjacent to his or her height at that age. A plain white self-stick label next to the photo will help describe the age or date, height and any other memorable facts about the photo.

Here is one way to truly make a photo fun before you frame it. Enlarge a photo to at least 8-by-10 inches and turn it into a jigsaw puzzle by gluing it to a thick piece of board cut the same size as the photo.

Use a sharp knife to cut puzzle shapes out of the picture and let the family enjoy piecing together a favorite shot of your vacation, for example. Then flip the puzzle over by sandwiching it between something sturdy, like a cookie sheet or poster board.

Cut a piece of heavyweight paper slightly smaller than the puzzle; a grocery bag is perfect for the job. Glue this across the back of the puzzle to hold all the pieces together. Then frame the pieced picture just as you would a regular enlarged photo, with or without a mat border.

Please submit ideas and photographs along with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Kelle Banks Bartfield, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190.

Around the House Repairs

Refinishing that antique bathtub

Q: Some time ago your column contained advice regarding the refinishing of old bathtubs.

Unfortunately, I did not keep a copy. Now I need this information badly. Would it be possible to repeat this information?—M.G.

A: We have had several recent requests for information on cleaning and restoring older bathtubs and sinks. So, we are happy to repeat the information.

The process that will give your tub or sink a new permanent surface without removing the fixtures from the bathroom is relatively new.

It is a synthetic porcelain glaze developed for use on porcelain, fiberglass, ceramic tile, china and Formica finishes.

This is not a do-it-yourself process. It takes a trained professional to apply the new finish accurately. Some refinishers won't do the work on a tub or sink made of china, since the china surface cannot be prepared for refinishing as well as steel and cast-iron with original porcelain finishes.

Check with firms that specialize in repairing and refinishing bathtubs and sinks. They might also be listed as specialists in porcelain refinishing. Check with several contractors for price estimates and information on the type of guarantee provided. You also might want to check with previous customers for recommendations on their work.

The refinishing process requires that the entire surface be cleaned, sanded and chemically etched. Rust is chemically removed. Cracks, chips and pits are filled and sanded smooth. Several coats of a special primer are applied and the final finish coat is sprayed on. The new coating is available in several colors and custom colors can be mixed.

Another, less permanent, method of refinishing your tub is to apply a new finish in epoxy enamel. Several companies make this product which is available in kits at most paint stores. This method will not be as durable as the professional refinishing described above. However, it can be effective.

Here are two brands you can look for: Nybco, made by New York Bronze Powder Co., Elizabeth, NJ 07210, and Klenk's, made by Zynolite Products Inc., Compton, CA 90221. Follow manufacturer's directions carefully.

Q: We are renting an older home where the bathtubs and sinks are dingy and dirty-looking.

I have tried various commercial cleaners, but nothing seems to get them sparkling clean. Do you have any cleaning suggestions?—C.A.

A: An effective cleaning method will depend on the composition of the fixtures, i.e., whether it is porcelain or fiberglass.

In either case you can try the following cleaning method: Make a thick paste of scratch-scouring powder and peroxide, adding a small amount of cream of tartar. Rub on stains and allow to remain about a half-hour. Rinse off with clear water. Repeat treatments until stains are removed.

Another method of removing hard water staining is to apply a solution of oxalic acid diluted with water. Use a rag, sponge or dish mop. Rinse off with plenty of clear water.

Use rubber gloves and wear old clothing and eye goggles when working with acid mixtures. Pour acid into water to mix this solution, not water into the acid. Be careful not to splash or spill the solution on surrounding areas.

Another effective cleaning method for porcelain surfaces (do not use on fiberglass) is to use a fine-grained pumice stone. If your porcelain is old and pitted, this won't work. But it is very effective for use on difficult stains on porcelain that is in good condition. When applied with a lot of elbow grease, your bathtub and sink surfaces can sparkle like new.

Q: How can I get glass shower doors clean? Water and soap scum have created a film almost impossible to remove. The tracks of the shower doors are also in the same condition.—K.G.

A: There are some commercial products on the market which can be effective. Lime Away is one. Another relatively new product is De-Solve-It manufactured by Orange Sol Inc., Chandler, Ariz.

White vinegar used with steel wool also is good for glass surfaces, but not fiberglass. Rinse with plenty of clear water.

To clean shower door tracks, use peroxide. Pour into tracks, full strength, let the peroxide set until it quits "boiling," then wipe it out with paper towels. It may take a second application if the buildup has gone on too long. No other cleaner should be necessary.

Tom Skubic, vice-president of C & C Sports in Brighton, demonstrates the thrill of riding the waves on a Yamaha WaveRunner

WATER TOYS

By Lisa Felicelli

Just push the electric starter, hang onto the handlebars and you're off — a refreshing spray splashes and shoots over your legs as you sit comfortably on a padded seat and tear full-throttle across the waves.

Welcome to the wettest — and wildest — personal watercraft ride of your life!

Environmentally-safe, jet-powered personal watercraft first emerged in 1974 when Kawasaki rolled all the aspects of a motorcycle, snowmobile and water vehicle into the original Jet Ski.

"Riding a Jet Ski is like waterskiing without the physical stress of hanging onto a rope," said Jon Glassel, owner of Howell Cycle on West Grand River in Howell. "But there is a definite balance factor involved."

While the Jet Ski is fundamentally a one-person vehicle designed to be driven standing up, a wide variety of personal watercraft have popped up like umbrellas in a rainstorm throughout the past three years.

"Because the newer 'rider-friendly' watercraft are so stable, it's now possible to ride one fully-dressed without getting wet," noted Bill Piggins, owner and president of C & C Sports on West Grand River in Brighton.

Currently Kawasaki, Yamaha and Bombardier reign as personal watercraft royalty and each have different vehicles on the market aimed to please non-experienced leisure-seekers as well as advanced wave-riders.

Rider-friendly watercraft include, among other brands, the Bombardier Sea-Doo, Yamaha WaveRunner and WaveJammer and Kawasaki Jet Ski X-2.

Riders of all skill and fitness levels can board such watercraft as the Yamaha Wave-Jammer and roar away with confidence on the first run. This stable mini-jet, intended for a solo rider, accelerates up to 35 mph and is easy to control. With one quick turn of the padded steering column and throttle all-out, even the novice can safely enjoy fast splashing spinouts.

Water-riders may also set their own pace and chart their own course on Yamaha's WaveRunner. While it isn't the fastest, the WaveRunner comfortably seats two and provides plenty of high-performance power.

"Riding double is more fun for the driver," Piggins admitted with a grin. "Nobody wants to just sit there when they could be 'behind the wheels.' Driving is exhilarating."

Even more exhilarating is operating one of Kawasaki's swiftly swerving Jet Skis.

"My typical Jet Ski buyer has no interest in stable watercraft," Glassel said.

He explained that the Jet Ski has a higher performance motor compared to the rider-friendly water vehicles and is even more maneuverable. However, this craft also requires more skill.

"Riders have to lean into their turns on a Jet Ski in addition to turning the bars," Glassel said. "The more you lean, the more throttle you apply and the more you veer the steering bars, the sharper your turn will be."

Experienced riders are attracted to the Jet Ski's amazing agility, which enables them to spin complete doughnuts, carve corners and whip into high-speed power slides. In fact, the wide appeal of this sport resulted in the formation of the International Jet Ski Association.

Kawasaki has introduced a variety of Jet Skis, each designed for a different skill level.

One example is the all-new 1989 Jet Ski Tandem Sport. It features comfortable accommodations for two, easy-access controls and delivers over 51 horsepower — power that's easy to direct because of the new hull's extra stability.

Eric Meier of Brighton and reporter Lisa Felicelli, behind the controls, ride double aboard the Yamaha WaveRunner

Additional versions include the Jet Ski 300SX, X-2 and 650SX.

"All of the models feature an automatic idle," Glassel added. "In case the captain goes overboard, the Jet Ski will automatically slow to an idle and circle back to the rider."

Of course, going overboard — or having other accidents — isn't the main objective when riding any of the personal watercraft.

Piggins emphasized that because the watercraft are so new and easy to get caught up with, riders often forget that there are other boaters on the water and boaters are rarely knowledgeable about their speedy and smaller counterparts.

"The biggest safety tip I can offer is to be aware of the other boaters," he said. "It's easy to forget that you're not the only one out there."

Boaters, too, need to be educated, Piggins added. Personal watercraft, which are classified as "Class A" inboard boats, don't travel in straight lines; they can turn abruptly and are quite capable of cutting off other water recreationalists.

"That's what we're all striving for right now — rider safety," he said. "The watercraft are designed to be safe. Riding responsibly keeps them safe."

Despite subtle brand differences in design and horsepower, all of the personal water vehicles feature a number of safety and recreational advantages.

The watercraft, which range in dry weight from 250 to 375 pounds, are easy to transport and store. Piggins noted that vehicles such as the Yamaha WaveRunner can also be loaded onto another boat.

In addition to convenience, shielded water-jet propulsion systems replace propellers, sturdy bumper rails protect the craft and sealed flotation cells make these water rides virtually unsinkable.

"Riding one of these watercraft is an exhilarating experience," Piggins concluded. "Everybody should try it at least once in their lifetime."

For more information about personal watercraft, call C & C Sports at (313) 227-7068 (rider-friendly crafts) or Howell Cycle at (517) 546-3310 (Jet Skis).

Safety Tips

Personal watercraft are high performance "Class A" inboard power boats. The Personal Watercraft Industry Association advises recreationists to follow these guidelines for their own safety, their friends' safety and the safety of other water enthusiasts.

- Attend a boating safety course before riding the vehicle.
- Be fully acquainted with local regulations — buoys, signs, lights — to be fully informed about the marine environment.
- Respect the rights of other marine recreationists. Avoid swimmers and steer clear of fishing boats.
- Always look over your shoulder before turning. It's easy to forget that you're not the only boater out there!
- Never travel farther from shore than you can swim and never travel after dark. Personal watercraft have no lighting equipment.
- Do not ride under the influence of drugs or alcohol.
- Guard against hypothermia (abnormally low body temperature) in cold water with a wet suit or dry suit.
- Remember that without applying the throttle, you cannot steer.
- Both driver and passenger must be experienced solo riders on a Jet Ski.
- Don't hang onto the handlebars if you're about to go overboard.
- Your personal watercraft is not a toy. Observe minimum boating-age requirements.
- Wear an approved personal flotation device.
- Eye-protection is recommended to protect eyes from water spray.
- Deck shoes, tennis shoes or similar protective foot wear is also recommended to protect your feet from underwater sharp objects.
- Wave-riders may also choose to purchase from a variety of gear to enhance their days out on the water. Wet suits and dry suits will keep the cold out and the fun going, riding booties will prevent riders from slipping and gloves will protect weary palms from callouses.
- Avoid waterskiers, their boats and tow ropes.
- Don't tailgate. You might hit a fallen rider or his boat.
- Carry an approved fire extinguisher on board.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Burkett, Sr. of West Green, Ga., announce the engagement of their daughter, Tina Charlene, to Eric David Reinholz of Douglas, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin F. Reinholz of Northville.

The bride-elect is 1979 graduate of Colquitt County High School in Moultrie, Ga., and attended South Georgia College in Douglas, Ga.

She is employed at PCC Airfoils Inc. in Douglas as a junior cost accountant.

A former Northville resident, the future bridegroom is a 1979 graduate of Northville High School and a 1987 graduate of Wayne State University. He is the metallurgical engineer at PCC Airfoils Inc. in Douglas, Ga.

A July wedding is planned.

Local students receive academic honors

MACLYN BURNS received his bachelor of science degree in aerospace engineering at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. He graduated magna cum laude.

This summer he will study in Brussels, Belgium, at the VonKarman Institute of Fluid Dynamics and will continue his education this fall at Princeton University in New Jersey.

Hillsdale College has recognized students who achieved academic excellence during the second semester of the 1988-89 school year by announcing its Dean's List.

Northville students qualifying for the Dean's List were KRISTEN DUDLEY, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dudley II of Westridge Lane. She is a graduate of Northville High School.

CLAIRE LANGRAN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Langran of England. She also is a graduate of Northville High School.

DAVID LAWRENCE, son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Lawrence of Williamsburg Court in Northville. He is a graduate of Detroit Catholic Central in Redford. He earned a 4.0 grade point average for the semester.

Oakland University honored 1,497 students in five separate ceremonies June 3. Graduates from Northville included LOUISE T. DOYLE, who earned a bachelor's degree in psychology.

Some 374 students are included on the list of those who completed the requirements for certificates, associate's, bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees at Ferris State University during the winter quarter. Northville graduates included MARK STEVEN DEAL, who earned an associate's degree in applied science from Ferris State University.

Nearly 1,200 Ferris State University students were included on the academic honors list for the spring quarter.

To be eligible, a student must have compiled a 3.5 grade point average in at least 12 quarter hours of graded work. Among the honored students from Northville were JUDITH L. BALTZ, BRENT A. HOSTUTLER and JAMES L. PONDER.

Central Michigan University's winter semester honors list includes students from the Northville area who placed in the top 10 percent of their class.

Northville students qualifying for the honors list were JAYNE R. CARROLL and SHEILA M. WORDEN.

MICHAEL R. WISSMAN, son of Judy and Robert Wissman of Meade Road in Northville, is a member of the Western Michigan University precision flying team, the Sky Broncos, which recently returned from national competition in Grand Forks, N.D.

The National Intercollegiate Flying Association "Safecon '89" included a variety of events emphasizing safety. Teams from 23 universities participated. WMU's team brought home a trophy for its fifth-place finish in "ground events." The team also was judged fifth in overall team effort.

Wissman is a 1984 graduate of Northville High School and will receive a bachelor's degree in aviation technology and flight operations in June 1989.

Northville students named to the Dean's List in recognition for superior academic achievement during the past term at Madonna College in Livonia were:

NANCY G. ALBANESE, THOMAS J. ARBANAS, CHERYL L. BERRYMAN, AMY B. BUSARD, STEPHANIE R. CHESNEY, JEANINE M. DELAZZER, DANIEL J. DUGGAN, WILLIAM K. EDMONDS, WALTER H. HOLINOTY, JUDITH A. KORYBALSKI, MICHELLE R. MARINO, MICHELE L. MARSH, MELISSA A. MERYERS, JUDITH A. POMPEI, DIANA M. RACHO, MOLLIE L. SCHRAMM, SUSAN M. SNYDER, SUSAN M. SOBCHAK, PAUL J. WITTWER.

SHANNON COUZENS, daughter of Jack and Susan Couzens of West Nine Mile Road in Northville, received the Robert Dale Holmes Memorial Prize during the annual awards convocation at Centre College.

The prize is awarded annually to a freshman who reveals most clearly the value of his college training and the spirit of the college by improvement of his work, by his diligence and by his character.

A 1988 graduate of Northville High School, Couzens is on the women's tennis team at Centre, a liberal arts college in Danville, Ky.

LESLIE NORBACK, of Northville, a sophomore studying English at Adrian College, was one of 189 students named to the spring 1989 Dean's List.

To achieve this honor, a student must maintain a 3.5 grade point average on the basis of at least 12 credit hours.

KEVIN FREDERICK HAAS, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Frederick

Haas of Winchester Drive in Northville, was named to the Dean's List with distinction at Duke University for the 1988-89 school year.

To make the dean's list, a student must achieve a 3.3 grade point average from a possible 4.0; for dean's list with distinction, an average of 3.6 or above.

GEORGENE BRUDER, BETSY BUCKMASTER, SUZANNE GRAVES, PATRICIA LYNETT, CAROL MEGDAN, JUDITH POMPEI, PATRICIA POMPEI, MOLLIE SCHRAMM, SUSAN SNYDER, SONORA WIDAK and DEAN WITT. All earned bachelor's degrees.

Earning an associate's degree was CLAIRE LEJEUNE.

TIMOTHY GARY STRAUSS, son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Strauss of Northville, was named to the honors list at Michigan State University.

Northville High School junior STEPHANIE WOOD participated in Albion College's government simulation program, Operation Bentley. She is the daughter of Michael and Nancy Wood of Northville.

The week-long program in May offers 100 select high school juniors the opportunity to study and simulate the workings of state and local government. Also during the week, there are lectures, discussions, films, seminars with guest officials and a visit to the State Capitol in Lansing.

DAVID ARTHUR BAIRD of Northville was recently inducted to the national honor society Phi Beta Kappa.

Singles group offers summer workshop

Single Place presents "Keep Your Life in Balance," a special four-week summer workshop, by Betty L. Bird. A singles guide to relationships, the workshop runs on Wednesdays beginning July 12 through Aug. 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Cost for the workshop is $20, which includes refreshments, a notebook and speaker. The workshop donation, however, will not include the cost of five planned activities.

Following is list of scheduled topics.

Wednesday, July 12:

Self-Awareness/Attraction. This session is designed to help singles develop a game plan to create positive changes in their lifestyles by taking risks and reassessing value systems.

Wednesday, July 19: Communications. The workshop teaches the importance of communication techniques and strategies in improving relationships with others. Non-verbal signals and body language will be covered. Participants will learn how to initiate and continue a conversation with emphasis on "pairing techniques" and non-physical intimacy.

Wednesday, July 26: Psychology of a Relationship. This session will help singles to develop a better perspective of their own personalities and their relationships with others. They will learn and understand the importance of feelings in a relationship.

Wednesday, Aug. 2: Dating and Romance. From attraction to commitment, this workshop covers the five phases of a relationship. They will learn the importance of dating etiquette. Singles also will be given creative ideas for romantic activities.

Hot jazz

Hillside, Sheraton offer summer jazz concerts

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Locals craving a music with a southern flavor this summer can enjoy listening to Metro Detroit's premier jazz musicians at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth.

And for residents desiring a newer type of sound, the Sheraton Oaks Hotel in Novi will be home to some of Detroit's best rhythm-and-blues and Top 40 bands.

The Hillside, located at 41661 Plymouth Road, kicked off its first jazz-filled summer with a three-day festival last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Hillside special projects coordinator Dorothy DiTommaso said the restaurant had about 200 guests each night for the festival, which will run on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays through the end of the summer.

"We feel jazz is becoming the 'in' music again," DiTommaso said. "We also think the jazz is experiencing a rebirth in popularity."

In addition, DiTommaso said the Hillside wants to bring jazz — which is mainly presented in Detroit and Ann Arbor — to the Plymouth and Northville area.

"We wanted to put some life into the community," she added. "There just seems to be nothing like it in the area."

Performing on the Hillside veranda this summer will be vocalist Pinkie Smith and musician Billy Street, both of whom played at the Rhinoceros Club in Detroit.

With local talent booked for the next month, DiTommaso said she hopes people will come out for the show, which has no admission charge.

DiTommaso added a full-service restaurant and bar will be available for show-goers, with seating for guests on the veranda near the band.

Wednesday shows will run from 7 to 10 p.m. and Friday and Saturday performances will be from 7 to 11 p.m. DiTommaso said another two or three days of shows might also be added after Labor Day.

However, as jazz sounds fill the Plymouth night air, the Sheraton Oaks in Novi will be catering to a more modern type of music this summer.

Sheraton Oaks marketing representative DeAnn Forbes said the hotel will be featuring local jazz, rhythm-and-blues and Top 40 groups like Alexander Zonjic, The Regular Boys and Steve King and the Ditties.

In their second year of concerts, Forbes said the hotel "found there was a better audience for the non-jazz acts."

Also free to the public, Forbes said the concerts will be held on Thursdays from 6 to 8:30 p.m. She added "fun foods" such as hot dogs and nachos will be served.

Forbes added the concerts will be held in the outside pool area on sunny days and in the hotel atrium during rain. "We'll definitely hold the show either way," she said.

She added the hotel is trying to have the concerts appeal to people who live and / or work in Novi. Combined with a small setting, Forbes said the hotel's atmosphere is very comfortable.

"We're trying to provide a more intimate and relaxed setting," she said.

City to host Fourth of July activities

Upcoming Fourth of July activities around town include Northville's Fifth Annual Satin Sheets Bed Race, sponsored by the Northville Community Recreation Department. The race is held prior to the Fourth of July parade, at 9:30 a.m. Adult teams race their beds through the Northville business district for the fastest time overall.

Entry fee is $25 for new teams and $10 for returning teams which still have their beds. The entry fee includes a bed frame, but teams are responsible for decorating their beds.

The annual Fourth of July parade in Northville begins at 10 a.m. through downtown, followed by the Northville Jaycees' annual barbecue at Mill Race Village from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. At dusk, fireworks will be shown at the Northville High School. Also, throughout the day, arts, crafts and music will be featured, courtesy of the Northville Historical Society.

SUMMER SOUNDS — Northville Arts Commission continues its complimentary Summer Concert Series this Friday, June 30, with an appearance by the Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble.

Other performers include the Novi Concert Band on July 7; Northville Jazz Orchestra on July 14; Detroit Brass Society on July 21; Schoolcraft Wind Ensemble on July 28; Tom Rice, Mark Mitchell & Jeff Branch, an evening of folk and bluegrass music, on Aug. 4; Squander — Pop and Country Standards, on Aug. 11; Novi Concert Band on Aug. 25; and Northville Jazz Orchestra on Sept. 1.

The concerts begin at 7:30 p.m. at the town square band shell in downtown Northville and the community is encouraged to attend. Concerts continue at the band shell every Friday evening until Sept. 1.

MORE MUSIC — Novi Arts and Culture Committee kicks off its 1989 Summer Concert Series

In Town

Friday, June 30, with a performance by the Brookside Jazz Ensemble, featuring Novi High School Band Director Craig Strain.

GUS MACKER

Basketball on the street

By BUDDY MOOREHOUSE

Most basketball fans know it as the Gus Macker 3-On-3 Tournament, a three-day celebration of pick-up hoops the likes of which you won't see anywhere else on the planet.

But the tournament's real name is "The Sweet 16th Annual One and Only Original Heartbeat of America, All-Silk, All-Covered Village, All-Mackerville, All-Ionia County, All-PrimeBank Shots, All-World, All-Galaxy, All-Universe, 'Hello Nurse. This is Dr. J from St. Mary's.' Read My Lips... No More Rain! Kinder and Gentler GUS MACKER, who needs a T.O. Baby! Thirst Quenchin' Invitational Takin' It To The Hoop in Belding's Most Sunny Neighborhood Three-on-Three Outdoor Call Your Own Hopefully o Time U.B.U. Charity Basketball Tournament."

Got all that? If you'd prefer, of course, you just can call it "The Macker." Whatever you call it, though, rest assured that if you're a basketball fan, you'll love it.

The Gus Macker tournament, now in its 16th year, is the premier pick-up basketball event in the country. And it takes place in little Belding, Mich., near Grand Rapids.

For three days next month—July 7-9—the streets of Belding will be transformed into the world's largest outdoor basketball court. Dozens of baskets are erected on the streets, and the hooping commences.

This year, over 12,000 players and thousands more spectators are expected for the Macker. Last year's event drew 10,856 players competing on 2,714 teams.

The tournament is played for charity, with all proceeds benefitting the West Michigan Kidney Dialysis Center. Teams (consisting of four people—one substitute and three players) pay an entry fee of $50, and they're guaranteed at least three games in the double-elimination event.

The teams compete in various classifications based on age and skill level. The top three teams in each division then receive trophies.

The game format is strictly pick-up, as everyone calls their own fouls and violations. You play to 20 (a basket is worth one point), and have to win by two. This year, the Macker has added a two-point line to spice up the action.

One of the real highlights of the weekend is the slam-dunk contest, set for Saturday night.

The Macker draws teams from all over Michigan and the Midwest, including some from this area. In Pinckney, the "Perimeters" (Ryan Schauland, Tim Rawlings, Jeff Malay and Tony Spadafore) have been practicing for the tournament all summer.

Those four will be sophomores at Pinckney High School this fall, and last year, they played together on the Pirates' freshmen basketball team.

This year, they'll be making their second trip to the Macker. In 1988, they advanced quite far in their bracket before being eliminated. The Perimeters became interested in the Macker through Schauland, whose family used to live in the Grand Rapids area. Up there, anyone and everyone gets a team together for the Macker.

And in case you're wondering, yes, there really is a Gus Macker. His real name is Scott McNeal, and as a basketball-crazy kid, he picked up the nickname Gus Macker. In 1974, he started the tournament in Lowell, a small town near Belding. It's been growing in leaps and bounds ever since.

For more information on the Macker, call (616) 794-1500.

Red Timbers: Attracting the business crowd

dining out

There's not much question about what the Red Timbers restaurant is all about.

Located on Grand River, west of Haggerty Road, in Novi, the Red Timbers does a thriving trade by catering primarily to the businessmen and women who populate the numerous office and industrial parks which surround the area.

Upon entering the restaurant, it's easy to see why it's particularly popular with the business trade.

Dark panelling on the walls are accented with decorative brick and dark shades of red, creating the type of atmosphere where you would expect businessmen to be discussing deals while eating their meals.

A long bar occupies virtually the entire length of the restaurant and is a particularly busy place during the "happy hour" immediately after working hours and for several hours thereafter.

As for the dining area itself, it is marked with a brick fireplace at one of the room which adds further to the relaxing "club-like" atmosphere of the restaurant.

As you might expect of a restaurant which places a heavy emphasis on attracting the business crowd, the menu tends to be rather traditional with a heavy emphasis on fish and meat, particularly beef.

It should also be said, however, that the menu is extensive, providing a wide variety of choices.

The selection of appetizers, for example, runs the gamut from breaded mozzarella sticks and fresh fruit cup to Oysters Rockefeller, escargot and blue points on the half shell.

The seven choices of salads include a shrimp salad, tuna salad plate, Grecian and Maurice salads, and pasta seafood primavera.

There also are seven "overstuffed sandwiches" for the luncheon trade, including the prime rib of beef sandwich, stacked corn beef, a gulf shrimp and crabmeat sandwich, and the ever-popular reubens and ground-rounds.

But on to dinner where the diner has a choice of 10 fish ("lakes and seas") selections and 17 meat ("oven, skillet and broiler") entrees.

After being seated, guests are given a basket of rather mundane crackers to munch on over their drinks. The disappointment associated with the cellophane-wrapped, commercially-made crackers is alleviated when the waitperson delivers the "bread basket" of fresh rolls, which, she reports, are baked in the Red Timbers' own kitchen.

Dinners also are served with a choice of soup or salad and a choice of potato or vegetable.

Lake Michigan whitefish to Alaskan king crab legs or cold-water lobster tail.

The selections of meat range from Breast of Chicken Cordon Bleu and sauteed calves liver to Rack of Lamb Pariselle and Chateaubriand. Also available are lamb chops, pork chops, prime rib and tournedos of beef tenderloin, and — happily — several veal dishes, including Provimi Veal Oscar and Provimi Veal San Francisco.

Despite the rather traditional — albeit extensive — nature of the menu, it should also be noted that the chef does provide some creativity in the preparation of the dishes. The Tournedos of Beef, for example, are served in cognac with artichoke hearts and bernaie sauce, while the Breast of Chicken Marguarite includes green peppers, mushrooms and sour cream with a side of angel hair pasta.

Dessert fare is rather standard, featuring cheese cake, apple and cherry pie, and tortes. The dessert selections are usually displayed on a dessert tray, although a recent visit to the Red Timbers was marred when the waitperson reported that the tray was not available that particular evening.

Despite the fact that it tends to appeal to the business trade, the Red Timbers does not approach the style of Chez Raphael's or even the Crystal Swan at the Novi Hilton. And despite its extensive menu, the restaurant makes few pretenses. It is what it is — and that has proven to be a successful formula.

Red Timbers, 40380 Grand River, Novi 478-7154. Open for lunch Monday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dinners served Monday through Thursday from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 5 p.m. to midnight. Live entertainment and dancing from Tuesday through Saturday. Liquor license. All major credit cards.

Lisa Russell, 18, of Northville, recently won first prize in the 1989 Miss Grand Prix pageant. An aspiring actress, Russell moved to Northville two months ago to compete in the pageant and begin a career as a model and narrator on the travelling auto-show circuit in addition to modeling. Russell is taking classes at a local junior college. With an already busy schedule, Russell said she spends her limited spare time doing her following favorite things:

1. DANCING. "I like to dance because it helps to relieve pressure," Russell said.
2. MODELING. A model for the last four years, Russell said she loves to model because "you get to travel and meet people."
3. TRAVEL. Russell said in between all her trips as a model, she especially enjoys visiting friends in Los Angeles and Miami.
4. BOATING. After a long day of modeling, Russell said she enjoys relaxing on the water and watching the waves roll by.
5. WATCHING 'GENERAL HOSPITAL.' Not a big television watcher, Russell said she finds time in her day to watch her favorite soap opera. "I know a couple of people on the show," she added.

MAPPING OUT THE STARS

Freimund, Baird named to 1st team

In Hollywood you can buy a map that will show you where stars like Johnny Carson, Jack Nicholson and Zsa Zsa Gabor live. It's called a Map of the Stars.

The Novi News and Northville Record are providing a similar map but this one shows where the local softball stars showcased their abilities during this past season. The following 11 players make up the 1989 Sliger-Livingston East All Area Softball first team and we're sure you'll agree — they are the stars around here.

FIRST TEAM

KELLY FORBIS Lakeland pitcher. Very few were surprised when this Detroit newspaper named this 5-foot, 11 senior Miss Softball in Michigan.

I think Kelly's the best pitcher in the state. Eagles coach Kent Griffiths said. She's as tough as anyone we saw all year — and we played the toughest competition in the state.

Forbis, headed to the University of Michigan on a full ride scholarship posted a 35-4 record and 0.87 ERA. She struck out 407 and walked only 28 in 273 1/3 innings.

But pitching wasn't her lone forte. Forbis also led the area with a .488 batting average, 60 hits, 12 doubles, six triples, three home runs and 43 RBI.

Kelly really did the job offensively this year. Griffiths said. She proved that part of her game during the off season. She's always been a power type hitter, but this year she hit for average as well.

As a result of her efforts Forbis has been named Sliger-Livingston East Player of the Year for 1989.

AMY FREIMUND, Northville pitcher. Mustangs coach Bob Gerlach says you run out of superlatives with Amy. Freimund was one of the most outstanding hurlers in the state with the numbers to prove it. She was 17-4 on the year with an impressive .64 ERA. She pitched 142 innings during the campaign and fanned 159 — including eight or more strikeouts in seven games.

If it wasn't for Amy we wouldn't have won the Western Lakes (Academics Association) and been two-time Western Division champs. Gerlach pointed out. She has great intensity and her control is a tribute to her dedication. She works real hard at it. She's a year round pitcher.

Opposing players had a feeble .120 batting average against Freimund and only 16 batters received walks throughout the year. She added seven shutouts, several one-hitters and a no-hitter.

At the plate, Freimund batted .333 with 15 runs, 11 RBI and a .450 on base percentage.

SHEILA HATTON, South Lyon, catcher. Sheila was born with a guy's arm. Lions coach Gary Huettler said. I mean it. It's just so strong. There aren't too many softball players with a better one.

Huettler was referring to the cannon like throws Hatton has made around local diamonds throughout her career. That skill coupled with a .350 batting average, are just two reasons this senior received a partial scholarship from the University of Evansville.

A four year starter for South Lyon Hatton also recorded seven doubles, 21 RBI, 12 runs and five stolen bases.

Sheila had a real nice season around local diamonds. She played with good intensity, like she always has but she was much more relaxed at the plate. Perhaps making an early decision on college helped her out. She just seemed like a confident player out there.

KAREN BAIRD Northville infielder. Baird was the most outstanding hitter on the best squad in the 12 team WLAA. This senior led the team in virtually every offensive category including slugging percentage (.830). She averaged .400 with 24 RBI, 22 runs, 45 total bases and a .512 on base percentage.

Last year, Karen's batting average was under .200 in the conference but this year it was .436, Gerlach said. That's a big turn around.

She didn't come out for softball until her junior year, so I only had her for two seasons. She is a great athlete and her leadership quality was amazing. The rest of the girls on the team really listened and looked up to her.

Baird added two triples and two home runs and committed only two errors from her shortstop position.

KAREN GRACE, Lakeland infielder. A severe ankle injury early in the season, along with her opponents' respect, kept this senior first baseman from accumulating big numbers.

She batted .409 with 11 extra base hits and 25 RBI, but could have produced more had she not missed two weeks of the season and walked 30 times.

Karen is a true power hitter. Griffiths said. Rarely did she hit the

RECREATION BRIEFS

SOCCER REGISTRATION: Registration for Fall '89 youth soccer is still being taken at the Northville Recreation Building from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The season is for player born between 1971-1983 and the games will be played in Sept. and Oct.

SATIN SHEETS BED RACE: The fifth annual "Satin Sheets Bed Race" will be held July 4 prior to the parade. Adult teams race their decorated beds up Main Street for the overall fastest time. Teams must pre-register for the event and may do so in the Northville Recreation Department office through June 30.

Entry fee for the new teams is $25 and includes the bed frame (teams are responsible for the wheels). Entry fee for returning teams is $10 if they still have their bed.

For more information regarding this event, contact Northville Recreation at 349-0203.

BENEFIT SOFTBALL: The South Oakland Chapter of the Children's Leukemia Foundation (CLF) of Michigan will be sponsoring a benefit softball outing at 2 p.m. July 30 in Memorial Park in Royal Oak.

The game will feature the Detroit Red Wings taking on the Di Fonzo & Company of the CLF South Oakland Chapter.

For ticket information, call 353-8222.

WIXOM-WALLED LAKE RUN: The Wixom-Walled Lake 5K Run will be held on July 4 at 9 a.m. at Gilbert Willis Park in Wixom.

All profits from the $5 registration fee go to D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education).

For further information, call 624-2850.

SOFTBALL BENEFIT TOURNEY: Ken Lysczarz of Warren is sponsoring the Third annual Jim Northrup / Lysczarz Brothers Midsummer Softball Classic July 8-9 at Rotunda Fields in Dearborn.

A highlight of the two-day tournament is a celebrity softball game between members of the Detroit Red Wings and Channel 2, WJBK-TV. The game will be held at 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Some 30 teams are expected to participate in several classes. The tourney is open to Women's Class C and D, Men's Class E and Co-ed Class. A Men's Open Class tournament will also be held.

Entry fee is $125 per team, which includes umpires and balls. Proceeds will benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Revamped Holzer squad is struggling

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The local baseball team that doesn't look at all familiar is really the same Tom Holzer Ford squad that has represented the Novi / Northville area in the Livonia Collegiate Baseball League (LCBL) for the last four years.

If the faces aren't familiar, it's because the squad sports an entirely new lineup and a new head coach.

Novi High School football coach John Osborne has taken over the coaching duties from Bob Peterson, but a late start and heavy age-limit losses have transformed the Holzer team into a young, inexperienced and struggling group.

Holzer has suffered 14 straight defeats to start the summer season... quite a turnaround from last year when the squad went 24-6 and won the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) College World Series in Youngstown, Ohio.

But solid college players like Keith Dutkiewicz, Kevin Ritter, Tom Cotter and Scott Peterson are gone because they have exceeded the 20-year-old age limit. Other stars like Brett Loomis, Andy Fairman, Rick Tavormina and Dan Hilliard have moved on to other teams, thinking that Holzer wouldn't field a squad this summer.

"I knew because of work commitments, I wouldn't be able to continue as the head coach," Peterson explained. "I searched all winter for someone to take over, but I didn't have any luck. I told the league we wouldn't be back."

"But then, about two weeks before the season was to start, John Osborne called me and said he'd be willing to take over. There was still a spot in the league but we lagged way behind everybody else and had to scramble to get a team together. It's tough to compete in this league when you don't recruit."

There was one hold-over from the year before — Chris Hansen of Wayne State — but early in the season, he injured his arm and is now out for the season. Peterson has also stayed on as an assistant coach.

"Blending together has been a problem, and getting off to such a late start didn't help," Osborne said. "We had some trouble finding players who were still available."

As with prior Holzer rosters, the '89 team has its share of former Northville High School players — Eddie Walsh, Randy Jones, Derek Osborne, Tom Skynar, Scott Griggs, and Brian Frellick.

Novi is represented by Steve Ross and Rob Baumgartel.

In the outfield, Osborne has several promising players, including Walsh, Jones, Frellick, Baumgartel and Chris Williams, an '87 Redford Union graduate.

Walsh (Northville '88) joined the team in mid-June after completing his first year at Kalamazoo College. According to Osborne, he is off to a good start at the plate and is seeing action in right field.

Jones (Northville '89) is "our most steady center fielder," according to Osborne. "He's got great footspeed and a good bat." Unfortunately, he's been bothered with a case of poison ivy.

Baumgartel (Novi '87) attends Western Michigan and is Holzer's leading hitter so far this season. Frellick (Northville '88) has been used strictly as a reserve but is also playing at the Connie Mack level.

Infielders on the roster include Derek Osborne, Griggers, Ross, Greg Hysell and Eric Regnier. Osborne (Northville '88) has been a fixture at first base and has the team's only home run so far. Griggers (Northville '87) has been out of baseball for a year but has seen action at third base and can pitch.

Ross is coming off a fine senior year at Novi High School and has been a standout defensive player at both third and second base. Hysell is also an option at second base, and Regnier is the regular shortstop.

The starting catcher is John Frazzini (Lakeland '88) who attends Grand Valley State College and is Holzer's only all-star selection this season.

The pitching rotation includes Chris Bronis (Taylor Center '88), Brian Lenaghan (Redford Catholic Central '86), Rob Moore (Southgate '87), Todd Griggers (Westland John Glenn '88) and Jeff Kot (Walled Lake Western and Michigan State). According to Osborne, Bronis has been the most effective hurler so far.

Holzer also has several players who are versatile and have seen action at a number of different positions. Craig Bowan (Walled Lake Western '87) is an infielder, outfielder and pitcher.

Banquet raises $3,000 for college scholarships

In early June, Northville Junior Baseball held a charity banquet at Genitti's that raised over $3,000 to go toward a college scholarship fund named in memory of Ken Dominique.

Dominique — who passed away this spring — was one of the original founders of Northville Junior Baseball back in 1974.

"We in Northville Junior Baseball decided it would be nice to set up a scholarship fund in Ken's name," Northville High School Coach Bob Frellick said. "Anybody who's participated in our leagues can apply for aid and the selection committee will pick the recipients."

The selection committee includes members of the board of directors. The first award from the Ken Dominique Memorial Scholarship will be in the spring of 1990 and will be the sum of $500.

The banquet included Genitti's famous seven-course Italian meal, which was donated by the Northville eatery. Cost per person was $25 and Frellick reported an encouraging turnout.

"The response was outstanding, especially considering it was the first year of the scholarship program," he said. "By the time it's all said and done, we think we'll have close to $6,000 in the fund."

For donations, send a check to: The Ken Dominique Memorial Scholarship Fund, 20219 Woodhill, Northville, MI 48167.

Northville defensive wiz named to All-Area 2nd team

Here is the 1989 Sliger-Livingston East All-Area second team:

KERRY BULIN, Northville, outfield: Bulin has been a standout player for the Mustang squad since she was a sophomore, and it's in the field where she really excels.

"What makes Kerry good is her defensive skills," Northville Coach Bob Gerlach said. "She has the kind of range to the alleys that very few players have. She's well disciplined, has the best arm on the team and rarely makes a mistake."

Bulin had a perfect 1,000 fielding percentage in conference games, and only one error for the entire season. Offensively, she batted .280 with 14 runs scored, 11 RBI, three doubles, a .440 slugging percentage and a .419 on base percentage.

HEATHER CAMPBELL, Novi, Pitcher: Just a sophomore, Campbell was the winning pitcher in every Wildcat victory this season. Despite a slow start, Campbell came on strong in the final two-thirds of the campaign and was one of the key players for Novi.

"Heather was named our Most Valuable Player," Novi Coach John Peace said. "How well we did usually depended on her. As the season progressed, she started throwing strikes consistently. It got to a point where if she had the defense behind her, we would win a lot of games."

Campbell's 11-12 overall record is a little deceiving because four of those losses were by one run. She was among the area leaders in strikeouts with 75 and 28 of her 58 walks came in the first week of the season.

DARCY CUPP, Novi, Infielder: Like Deanna Reed, Cupp was a pleasant surprise. Cupp established herself as one of the best contact hitters around, despite her habit of swinging at pitches out of the strike zone.

Cupp had a .321 average with 19 runs scored, 14 RBI and 12 stolen bases.

"She hit the ball when she went up to the plate," Peace said. "She really moved the ball, but her average would have been even higher if she was a little more patient at the plate. One time in practice, she took a swing at a ball that bounced in front of the plate and smacked it for a single

LYNN HARMALA, South Lyon, pitcher: This hard-working senior, South Lyon's lone representative on the All-Kensington Valley Conference first team, won 16 of 27 decisions and had a 1.62 ERA.

"We'll miss Lynn in many ways, both on and off the field," Huetter said. "She's just a great kid and a great player. Her record wasn't spectacular, but her ERA opened some eyes."

An improved changeup and rise ball, as well as experience, keyed Harmala's success. Her pitching totals include 144 strikeouts in 177 innings.

STACY WHITE, Lakeland, catcher: This senior catcher was a spark plug at the top of Lakeland's lineup, batting .346 with 38 runs and 43 stolen bases. The latter two statistics are area-bests.

"Losing Stacy will be tough," Griffiths said. "She's been a great player for four years. Her and Kelly (Forbis) were like one out there. They worked so well together. Plus, it's not very often that you find someone with speed like Stacy and an arm like Stacy."

White's totals include four doubles,

11 RBI and 29 walks.

TRICIA EISINGER, South Lyon, infielder: Huetter compares this senior second baseman to former South Lyon star Renee Wheeler, a defensive wizard who helped the Lions reach the state semifinals in 1986.

"They're different players, but Tricia's definitely in her league," the coach said. "She has an excellent glove and an accurate arm. I can't say enough about her defense."

Eisinger handled 107 of 116 chances successfully (.938 percentage), with three of her misuses coming at shortstop. She also hit .290 with 16 RBI, 26 runs and 19 stolen bases, and fanned only three times in 117 plate appearances.

DANA MARGIOTTA, Lakeland, infielder: This freshman shortstop makes even the toughest of chances seem routine.

"Dana's a great fielder," Griffiths commented. "She handles just about everything. She charges the ball well and smothers the tough hops. It's really something for a freshman to play such a key role on a state runner-up team."

Margiotta, who played all four infield positions, also batted .302 with 19 RBI and 23 stolen bases. She struck out only nine times in 124 plate appearances.

KARI WOODGATE, Lakeland, infielder: What this junior lacks in size, she makes up for with determination. "Kari does a lot of things that don't appear in the scorebook," Griffiths said. "She plays second and third base with no fear at all."

A late-season slump left Woodgate — a right-handed batter who bunts from the left side — with a .232 batting average. She scored 15 runs, walked 14 times and stole 11 bases.

BREN HAYDEN, Milford, outfielder: One of the big surprises in the area, this left fielder committed only one error and batted .292 from the No. 2 spot in Milford's lineup.

"Bren's a good athlete, and when you have that, you have a lot of potential," Pingston said. "She came into her own this year. She was solid all the way around, including her defense."

Hayden's other statistics include two doubles, one triple, one home run, 14 RBI, 15 runs and seven walks.

Pingston also described her as one of the fastest players on the Milford club.

KHRISTY McALLISTER, Lakeland, outfielder: An experienced softball player, this junior batted over .400 most of the season before falling off in late May.

"Khristy does some things very well," her coach said. "She's a great bunter and rarely strikes out. Her fundamentals are pretty good."

McAllister hit .337 with three doubles, 10 RBI, 12 stolen bases, 15 walks and 19 runs.

KAREN SALVATI, Milford, designated hitter: Despite a late slump, this junior recorded a .392 batting average, eight doubles, two triples and one home run.

"Karen did the job with her bat," said Pingston, noting that 11 of her 20 hits went for extra bases. "She has a lot of power, which makes her high average even more impressive. She'll be a big part of our team next year."

Salvati, who pitched for the Redskins early in the season, also totaled 12 RBI and 12 runs.

ball softly. Even her outs were hard. She has a real quick swing, so it's difficult to throw the ball past her. When she sits back and really gets hold of one, it's something to see."

Grace also excels on the bases, evidenced by her 25 runs and 21 stolen bases, and in the field, where she committed only two errors. She has been a varsity player for four years.

Grace plans to walk-on at Eastern Michigan University, Griffiths mentioned.

DEANNA REED, Novi, infielder: This junior southpaw may have been the surprise of the season in the Kensington Valley Conference. Reed came out of nowhere and ended up among the league and area leaders in key statistics like RBI, average and triples.

"Deanna averaged more than one RBI a game," Novi coach John Peace said. "She hit the ball very hard and I think she was by far one of the best hitters in the KVC — for sure the best lefty."

Reed drove in 35 runs, scored 14 herself, led the Wildcats in doubles (7) and triples (3) and had an impressive .462 average.

"She seemed to be in the middle of almost every hitting rally we had," Peace said. "It wasn't unusual for her to get four or five RBIs in one game."

TINA WEISS, South Lyon, infielder: Huetter's only disappointment involving Weiss is that the senior third baseman does not plan to pursue a college career.

"I truly believe Tina can play college ball," her coach commented. "She has a great arm and a great attitude, too. She was a fun kid to coach."

In her four seasons with South Lyon's varsity team, Weiss became a master at fielding bunts and firing to either first or second base. "She makes a lot of good decisions," Huetter said. "Handling bunts is a big part of softball and Tina does it extremely well."

Weiss batted .339 with nine doubles, four triples and 31 RBI this past season. She also swiped 23 bases and scored 18 times.

JODI BRENDEL, Lakeland, outfielder: This senior handles the bat as well as anyone in the area, especially in the bunting department.

"You name it, Jodi can do it," Griffiths said. "She's a great bunter. She really perfected the slap bunt this year. She just does a great job moving runners along, bunts, hit and runs, everything."

A three-year varsity player, Brendel hit .301 with six extra-base hits and 19 RBI. She also scored 26 runs, stole 17 bases and walked 19 times.

"She kept a lot of rallies going," her coach added. "You need that type of player. She could hit the ball hard when she wanted to, but her best asset was bat control. You wish everyone could do what she did."

Brendel was versatile on defense as well, playing all three outfield positions.

NICKI KASTEN, Novi, Outfielder: Kasten is one of the most effective players in the area when it comes to getting on base. She is a fine contact hitter with a good eye and a picture-perfect ability to get the bunt down and turn it into a hit.

She led the Wildcats in hitting (.463), stolen bases (25) and runs scored (29). Kasten owned a .561 on-base percentage and knocked in 10 runs.

"Nicki is a very good leader and a fine athlete," Novi Coach John Peace said. "She has a great deal of desire and is very coachable. She really enjoys athletics and works hard at it."

A mid-season broken nose sidelined Kasten for a few games but she came back strong and hit the ball better than ever.

"She's an excellent bunter with good speed, and because of her, we scored a lot of runs," Peace said.

But Stephens' main strengths came offensively where she consistently made contact (five strikeouts in 110 plate appearances) and hit the ball with authority.

"Jenny is a true contact hitter," Huetter said. "I've known her since the sixth grade and it was obvious then that she'd be a good hitter. She hits a lot of line drives right up the middle."

Stephens batted .398 from her third spot in South Lyon's batting order. Her other statistics include two doubles, two triples, 14 RBI, 24 runs, 17 walks and 18 stolen bases.

BECKY PINGSTON, Milford, designated hitter: Boasting a .407 batting average and 2.60 ERA, this catcher / pitcher was too good to leave off the first team.

"We could always count on Becky," said Mark Pingston, her father and coach. "She was a solid player all year. She did a nice job as our lead-off hitter and was strong on defense, whether she was pitching or catching. We're looking forward to big things from her next year."

Pingston's other offensive statistics include two doubles, one triple, 10 RBI, 16 runs, 12 walks and seven stolen bases. As a pitcher, she posted an 8-8 record and struck out 85 batters in 118½ innings.

Pingston is considered one of the best athletes in her class, excelling in basketball and volleyball as well.

the American Heart Association of Michigan.

"We don't endorse specific products, but if they meet our guidelines, we allow companies to use the seal on their packaging."

Veltman said the Michigan program, which has been dropped to permit the national organization to develop its CHIP program, was reactive rather than proactive.

"When a company approached us to use our seal, we referred them to a nutritionist who analyzed their product to make certain it met our dietary guidelines," said Veltman.

"If the product did not measure up, the nutritionist would tell the company what it had to do to meet the guidelines. It was then up to the company to decide whether it wanted to alter its product appropriately."

The guidelines, according to Ferriss, were that cholesterol had to be less than 300 milligrams per day, sodium intake had to be less than 3,000 milligrams per day, and fat content had to be less than 30 percent of the overall diet per day.

In addition, Ferriss noted that the muffins which carry the American Heart Association of Michigan's seal are high in fiber. "We don't have a recommendation on fiber content, but we do suggest that people eat high-fiber diets," she said.

As a result of the CHIP program, the Michigan association will no longer be granting approval for use of its symbol on products. Companies which want the Heart Association's approval are referred to national offices.

But in the meantime, Muffins & More and Motor City Muffins will be permitted to continue using the symbol.

The goal, said Veltman, is to provide the consumer with information which will help him or her select foods which meet nutritional guidelines.

ANONYMOUS PROGRAMS: Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills offers Narcotics Anonymous, Alcoholics Anonymous, and Smokers Anonymous meetings every week.

Narcotics Anonymous meets every Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.; Alcoholics Anonymous meets on Tuesdays from 8-10 p.m., Thursdays from 8-10 p.m. and Sundays from 7-9 p.m.; and Smokers Anonymous meets Saturdays at 7 p.m.

For more information call 471-8090.

WALKING AT THE MALL: People who enjoy walking are invited to use the climate-controlled corridors at Twelve Oaks Mall. Walkers are welcome Monday through Saturday at 8 a.m. and Sunday at 11 a.m.

All walkers must register at the Twelve Oaks security office.

The lower level track is five-tenths of a mile, while the upper level track is eight-tenths of a mile. A complete trip around the mall is one and one-third miles.

s Tips

Sunscreens protect skin from damaging rays

summers have you ourself that as long as sunburned, you didn't about skin cancer or rinkles? If you're like orobably a good many matologists are get- out that even if you e accumulative effects re on unprotected skin ng, sagging, discolora- skin cancer.

le to protect yourself an? To do so you must ny and your choice of ultraviolet (UV) rays sun are classified by A, B, and C. Most of e wavelength) rays are he ozone layer in the atmosphere. The two e we commonly hear aviolet A and B rays. e long been known to e sunburn and other sun- n damage. Most e formulated to protect rays.

ight in the A, or long nge is the subject of a ew clinical research. ight used almost exclusively in tanning salons) were once thought to be "safe" tanning rays, but recent studies suggest that excessive exposure to UVA rays can lead to long term damage in the form of wrinkles and decreased tone and elasticity of the skin, or simply, accelerated aging.

One way to avoid having 40-year-old skin that looks like well-worn leather driving gloves is to protect yourself with sunscreens. The typical PABA formula sunscreens primarily block UVB rays. To ward off the wrinkle-causing effects of the UVA rays, apply a sunscreen that has an ingredient of three to seven percent concentration of a benzophenone. Look for the ingredients oxybenzone, methoxbenzone or sulfisobenzene on the label. With the help of these chemical protectors it is possible to get a tan with less risk.

In choosing a sunscreen, you should consider the degree of natural protection your skin has, the length of time you spend in the sun, the intensity of the sun's rays in your geographic area, and the sun protection factor (SPF) of the product.

Dermatologists have categorized skin types in this easy-to-understand method:

• Type 1: Always burns, rarely tan.

Very fair with red or blond hair, and usually freckles.

• Type 2: Burns easily, tans minimally. Usually fair skinned.

• Type 3: Sometimes burns; gradually tans.

• Type 4: Minimum burning, always tans. Medium pigmentation.

• Type 5: Very seldom burns, always tans. Medium to heavy pigmentation.

• Type 6: Never burns, but tans darkly. Heavy pigmentation.

The SPF is the ratio between the amount of exposure to ultraviolet rays required to cause skin redness with and without a sunscreen. So, if a sunscreen has an SPF of 15, theoretically, the skin it is applied to can be exposed to the sun 15 times longer than the same skin without protection. However, elements such as wind, water and sweat diminish the effect of sunscreens and requires them to be reapplied frequently. Check the label on yours for recommendations as to how often it should be reapplied to maintain its degree of effectiveness. The U.S. FDA designates five degrees of protection according to products' SPF:

• Ultra sun protection SPF 15 or greater

• Maximal sun protection SPF 8 to 15

• Extra sun protection SPF 6 to 8

• Moderate sun protection SPF 4 to 6

• Minimal sun protection SPF 2 to 4

The higher the SPF number, the more protection from UVB exposure a particular sunscreen provides. Use these standardized SPF's to match the specific level of sun protection to your individual level of sun sensitivity determined from the previous skin-type chart. By combining this information, you can choose the appropriate sunscreen that will ensure a high degree of protection against sun damage to your skin, and still acquire some tanning.

Only the ultra formations with a SPF of greater than 15, or the opaque reflectors such as zinc oxide provide near total filtration of ultra violet rays. Look for more tips next week to enhance the safety of enjoying the summer sun.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Welcome visitors, pilots

We welcome spectators and pilots to the fifth annual Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival.

On behalf of the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce, we are honored and privileged to host the Challenge, the state championship of hot air ballooning.

The Michigan Challenge has grown tremendously in stature in the four years that the Howell chamber has hosted the event. We hope you enjoy the balloonfest events and your stay in Howell.

Chairpersons Carolyn Barley and David Johnson and the balloonfest committee members have worked many hours to ensure that visitors will take home lasting memories of a tremendous 1989 Michigan Challenge. There's much to do in Howell, so we hope everyone will participate in as many events as possible.

We extend our heartfelt thanks to all of our balloon sponsors, our generous advertisers and the many volunteers who make this event so successful each year. We sincerely hope that the efforts of the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce make the event enjoyable for all who attend.

Visit McPherson's hospitality tent

Stop by the McPherson Hospital hospitality tent near McPherson Middle School during the Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival.

The folks from McPherson will be serving sit-down meals, featuring chicken, hamburgers, barbecue, cole slaw, salads, pop and ice cream from 5-9 p.m. Friday, July 7, and from noon-9 p.m. Saturday, July 8.

Local music groups also will be performing at the tent, and for the kiddies, pony rides will be offered.

For the second year, McPherson Hospital is the major sponsor of the Michigan Challenge.

McPherson has donated $3,000 to support the fifth annual Challenge event, which is considered the state championship of hot air ballooning.

Hospital officials say they view the sponsorship "as an opportunity to support and participate in an activity that has become a major vehicle for showcasing our community."

McPherson also will be letting balloon festival visitors know about groundbreaking ceremonies July 23 for the hospital's $15.5 million modernization plan.

The project calls for three additional buildings totaling 60,000 square feet plus renovation of an additional 20,000 feet of the existing facility. Completion is expected by 1991.

Challenge determines state champion

What could top last year's Michigan Challenge hot air ballooning championships, which saw perfect weather and record crowds?

Hopefully, the 1989 Michigan Challenge, scheduled July 7-9 (Friday, Saturday and Sunday) in Howell.

The balloon festival committee has worked hard to ensure that the fifth annual Michigan Challenge will be the best ever.

One major change in this year's Michigan Challenge is the weekend date. For four straight years, the Challenge has been held in June, conflicting with Grand Prix weekend in Detroit.

"We're off the Grand Prix date, and we think the July 7-9 dates will be better for our event," said Lee Reeves, executive director of the Howell chamber of commerce.

"We think we're giving our community and visitors a wonderful family event. The balloons are a visual delight, and we have many other activities planned for the weekend."

Forty-two of the country's best pilots, including 1985 and 1988 Michigan Challenge champions Richard Rudlaff of Pontiac and Phil Glebe of Brighton, and a former world and national champion, Bruce Comstock of Ann Arbor, will be competing in the event.

Pilots will be vying for trophies and cash ($500 for first, $300 for second and $200 for third), plus prizes and merchandise totalling another $2,000.

The Michigan Challenge, hosted by the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce with a major sponsorship by McPherson Hospital of Howell, is the state championship of hot air ballooning.

Balloonists will be in the air competing in various races, such as Judge Declared Goal, Hare and Hound, CNT (for controlled navigational trajectory) and Pilot Declared Goal. Points will be awarded in each competition to determine the overall champion.

Balloon launches are scheduled for 6-8 p.m. Friday, July 7; 6-8 a.m. and 6-8 p.m. Saturday, July 8; and 6-8 a.m. Sunday, July 9. The launch site is McPherson Middle School on West Grand River Avenue in Howell.

Weather conditions determine if balloons can be launched. Obviously, it's unsafe for pilots to be flying in foul weather, but wind conditions are also a determining factor.

Winds exceeding 12 mph will keep the balloonists grounded. That's just too windy for safe flying. Listen to Howell radio station WHMI (1350 AM and 93.5 FM) for the latest weather conditions and launch information throughout the Michigan Challenge weekend.

Parking to see the balloon launches will be $4 per car for Friday and Saturday, July 7-8, and $3 per car Sunday, July 9.

There will be plenty to do at the launch site other than watch the balloons.

Howell man leads skydivers

Kevin Blackwell will be dropping in on old Howell friends July 7-9. Really dropping in . . . from the sky.

Blackwell, 27, a 1980 Howell High School graduate, will lead a 12-member U.S. Navy Seals "Leapfrogs" skydiving team in an exhibition during the Michigan Challenge hot-air balloon festival in Howell.

The Navy parachute team is scheduled to jump between 5-6 p.m. Friday, July 7; between 8-9 a.m. and 5-6 p.m. Saturday, July 8; and noon on Sunday, July 9.

Another jump is slated at 1 p.m. Saturday, July 8, at the Ames department store, 2300 E. Grand River, Howell. Ames generously donated $900 to help defray expenses for the Leapfrogs' Howell appearance.

It's not coincidence that Blackwell, an intelligence specialist first class, and the Leapfrogs will be jumping in Howell.

Blackwell, a member of the Leapfrogs since December 1987, has additional duties of scheduling the crack skydiving unit's exhibitions.

"Howell is still my home, my parents (Jackie and Ernest Blackwell) live there," said Blackwell, whose unit is based in Coronado, Calif., near San Diego.

"I knew about the balloon festival and thought it would be a natural for the Leapfrogs."

Howell will be one of 30 to 40 stops the Leapfrogs make around the country in 1989. One skydiving exhibition has been

'I knew about the balloon festival and thought it would be a natural for the Leapfrogs.'

Kevin Blackwell
Member, U.S. Navy
Leapfrog skydiving team

scheduled for British Columbia, Canada.

For the Howell visit, Blackwell first contacted area Navy recruiter Rick Earhart and the U.S. Navy Recruiting Command in Washington, D.C., for go-aheads. "Our visits are made to areas where there is a recruiting need," Blackwell said.

Then he telephoned Lee Reeves, executive director of the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce, which stages the balloon festival each year. Reeves says she thinks the Leapfrogs will be a natural complement to the Michigan Challenge.

The Leapfrogs perform a two-part show, Blackwell said, the free-fall skydiving followed by maneuvers with their parachutes.

One of the skydiving stunts is called the barber's pole, as two jumpers, with a 15-foot line between them, circle each other. Using smoke grenades, they create a spiral barber pole effect.

Another maneuver is the slow-fast fall, in which one diver descends going 220 mph, while the other falls at a 120 mph clip. "The crowds can see the difference in fall rates," Blackwell said.

Once their parachutes open, the Leapfrogs perform other daring maneuvers.

Blackwell said skydiving is inherently dangerous but with today's technology and equipment "and the level of our jumpers, there's not much danger."

"It's not a difficult sport," Blackwell said. "Overcoming any fear you might have is the toughest part about it."

Blackwell said the Leapfrogs will be taking off from either Selfridge Air Force Base, Mt. Clemens, or Lansing's Capitol City Airport in either Huey helicopters or a large fixed-wing aircraft to make their jumps.

Pilots take challenge

7, from McPherson Middle School. There will be an 8K run (4.8 miles) and a one-mile walk.

McPherson Hospital's hospitality tent near the launch site will be open 5-9 p.m. July 7 and noon-9 p.m. July 8, featuring sit-down meals (chicken, hamburgers, barbecue, salads, cole slaw, pop and ice cream), live music by area talent and pony rides for children.

Sunday, July 9, is Family Day at the launch site, starting with a balloon fly-in from 6-8 a.m.

The Howell Rotary will be serving up a pancake breakfast from 6-9:30 a.m. at the Howell High School cafeteria ($3.50 for adults, $2.50 for children 12 and under). All proceeds will be used for Rotary Club scholarships.

From noon-3 p.m., several events are planned at the launch site, including a wildlife exhibit by the Howell Nature Center; a helium balloon launch sponsored by Elias Brothers Big Boy Restaurant of Howell; and special non-competitive games sponsored by the Howell Recreation Center.

Downtown will be bustling during fest

Downtown Howell will be bustling with activities on Saturday, July 8, during the Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival.

The Howell Area Chamber of Commerce retailers division has a full day of events planned, beginning with a crack-of-dawn inflation sale at 5 a.m. and ending with a street dance from 9-11 p.m. at the county courthouse amphitheater.

In between, there will be plenty to do downtown.

Actually, the downtown activities begin Friday night, July 7, with an 8 o'clock free concert at the amphitheater, featuring two bands, Naked Truth (Ted Reed, lead singer; Mike Travis, drummer; Brian Raleigh, bass guitar; and John Guido, guitar), and 83rd Dream.

Early Saturday risers can cash in on some real bargains at downtown Howell's second annual crack-of-dawn inflation sale, which begins at 5 in the morning (no, that's not a misprint).

"We had a tremendous response last year," said Barb Rakowski of E-Z Sleep Waterbeds. "Stores had people lined up out their doors. My own store is on the smallish side, and I had 20 people at a time in here."

The attraction for early-birds is the tremendous sale prices that many stores are offering.

Stores will be offering up to 50 percent off on selected merchandise from 5-6 a.m.; up to 40 percent off from 6-7 a.m.; up to 30 percent off from 7-8 a.m.; up to 20 percent off from 8-9 a.m.; and up to 10 percent off from 9-10 a.m.

"You can see the earlier you arrive, the more potential savings you can realize," Rakowski said.

Some store owners and staff will be dressed in pajamas to greet their customers and will be serving free coffee and donuts.

Antique auction

Tim Nahri will be conducting an auction featuring antiques, collectibles, glassware and furniture at 10 a.m. on the courthouse lawn.

Also, in the downtown area will be a sidewalk antique show, featuring area dealers, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Car show

Three antique car clubs—the Motor City Model A's from Milford and Dearborn, the General Motors Classic Car Club from the GM Proving Grounds in Milford and the South Lyon Hot Rods—will be displaying classic cars starting at noon in the parking lots of First National Bank and First of America Bank.

Coney eating contest

Come to the downtown festivities with a big appetite. Fat Dale's Coney Island Restaurant is hosting a coney island hot dog eating contest on the courthouse lawn, starting at noon. You can stuff yourself for free. Let's see who can eat the most coney dogs and live to tell the story.

Karate demonstration

Master Wong from the Kils Korean Karate school of Brighton will lead a demonstration of karate moves and techniques on the courthouse lawn at 1 p.m.

Jessica Gubala of Hoe-Down Cloggers

Dog show

The Livingston County Animal Shelter and Results Dog Training School will host a dog show 2 p.m. at the courthouse amphitheater. Children and adults are invited to bring their dogs and compete for prizes and ribbons in categories such as smallest and largest dog, best trick, ugliest, owner-pet look-alike and best costume (pet and owner). There's no cost to enter. The Results Dog Training School will present an obedience drill team of dogs, a cart-pulling demonstration and a parade of breeds.

4-H demonstration

Livingston County 4-H'ers will be demonstrating how they make their crafts and also displaying smaller pets, such as rabbits, poultry, hamsters and guinea pigs at 3 p.m. at the courthouse amphitheater.

Chorale performs

The Howell High School chorale will sing old favorites, starting at 4 p.m. at the courthouse amphitheater.

Clogging

The Howell Hoe-Down Cloggers, under the direction of Pat Gubala, will demonstrate its special brand of dancing at 8 p.m. at the courthouse amphitheater.

Street dance

Tabu will play Top 40 and oldies hits for a street dance from 9-11 p.m. at the courthouse amphitheater.

On July 23rd, this garden~variety instrument will help us make medical history

Once again, McPherson Hospital is breaking new ground. This time, with a $15 million modernization plan.

At 1:00 p.m., Sunday, July 23, ground breaking ceremonies will be held for McPherson Hospital's Major Building Program.

Responding to your needs, we're building a spacious, modern Emergency Room and a community room where you may attend childbirth, aerobics, stop-smoking and other classes.

We're also eager to see our birthing program bloom into six labor/delivery/recovery/post partum rooms, all fresh and new, just like our babies.

A new critical care unit, a new lobby and a convenient gift shop are part of our new plant, too. So are new inpatient rooms, many of them designed as private rooms.

And when we're done, it will be easier to get to those outpatient services you use most. We think you'll like that.

We'll also have more room for our growing Radiology, Surgery, Ambulatory Care and Cardiopulmonary services, which will help us nurture patient comfort along with technological advances.

So, on Sunday, July 23, stop by 620 Byron Road at 1 o'clock and join in our ground breaking ceremonies.

See for yourself that when Livingston County needs innovative health care services, we roll up our sleeves and dig right in.

Pilots 'play games' to decide state titleist

You could say that it's all fun and games for the Michigan Challenge hot air balloon pilots.

Certainly, it's fun commanding a colorful airborne balloon. But it also requires a lot of skill, and those skills will receive the ultimate test during the Michigan Challenge July 7-9.

That's where the "games" come into play. Pilots will be competing in up to four contests, depending on weather conditions, to determine the Challenge champion.

The games include:

Hare and Hound—The object for participants is to follow a "hare" (a chase balloon), and throw a marker as close as possible to the hare's final landing spot.

In this race, the hare takes off approximately 10 minutes ahead of the "hounds" and flies not less than 45 minutes and not more than an hour. It's a follow-the-leader style race.

Judge Declared Goal—In this task, a judge declares a goal, a specific target area. The competing balloonists attempt to fly to the target and drop their markers, trying to get as close as possible to the mark.

This contest often combines with FIFO (Fly In, Fly Out) in which the judge declares two goals in line—one at the balloon field and one downwind for a two-part task. Scored as two separate races.

CNT—The name, Controlled Navigational Trajectory event, sounds ominous, but the event is fun for spectators as well as pilots. In a large open area, a fixed target is selected and marked with an X. Then each competing pilot selects a launch site three miles from the target, in any direction. The object is to float over the target and drop a marker as close as possible to the X.

Pilot Declared Goal—This may sound easier than the Judge Declared Goal, where the balloonmeister tells the pilots where to fly. But really it isn't. The balloonmeister will always declare goals he knows the pilots can reach. But when pilots have to declare their own goals, they sometimes misjudge and once aloft discover it's not so easy to reach their destination.

Festival souvenirs on sale

Don't leave town without your official Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival souvenir.

Multi-colored T-shirts and sweatshirts, with the Michigan Challenge logo, are available from the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce, 404 E. Grand River Ave.; Howell Travel, 102 E. Grand River Ave.; and Better World Travel, 112 S. Walnut St.

The T-shirts are selling for $8 and the sweatshirts for $15. They're available in adult and children's sizes.

Also available are Michigan Challenge lapel pins for $3.50.

Lee Reeves, executive director of the Howell chamber, also noted that many businesses around Howell will be selling balloon festival-related items and souvenirs.

You can take rides in copters

Visitors to the Michigan Challenge won't be able to take a hot air balloon ride, but they'll still have a chance to get aloft in the blue skies around Howell.

That's because Helicopter Airways Service, Detroit, will be offering helicopter rides all three days of the Challenge.

Rides, $10 per person, will be lifting off from Howell High School.

On Friday, July 7, Helicopter Airways Service will be offering its air tours around town from 4 p.m. to dark and on Saturday and Sunday, July 8 and 9, starting at noon.

Arts and Crafts Fair

The Michigan Challenge arts and crafts fair will feature some 75 exhibitors this year.

Exhibitors will be setting up in front of Howell High School, many beneath a 60 by 120 foot canopy and others outside the canopy.

Exhibitors are coming from as far away as Florida, Frederick said.

The fair will run from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday, July 8, and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sunday, July 9.

Keep eyes on road, not balloons

If you're driving through the Howell area during the Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival, keep your eyes on the road, not on the airborne balloons.

It's easy to become distracted by the colorful balloons floating overhead, so Michigan Challenge officials urge that spectators be careful drivers if they follow a balloon on its journey.

for others who are equally drawn by the spectacle of the hot air balloons.

Fenders have been dented in the past by motorists who were watching the sky instead of the road.

Should you arrive at a landing site with the balloon, remain at road's edge as the pilot's recovery crew helps retrieve the craft.

Remember that most times the balloonist is landing his craft on private property. That property belongs to an owner who may not appreciate spectators walking in to get closer to the balloon.

So, stay off fences, keep out of fields. Don't run through someone's yard or scare someone's animals. Be content to watch from the roadside, and remember to be a careful driver.

Volunteers' hard work leads to a great event

Thousands of hours of volunteer work go into making the Michigan Challenge hot air balloon festival a success.

Most volunteers serve because they want to do something for their community.

Carolyn Barley, who with David Johnson, is chairing the balloon festival committee, summed up the feelings of the volunteer group this way:

"I grew up in this town and remember attending the Fourth of July parade and many other events every year. Serving on the balloonfest committee is a way of giving something back to today's youth."

Barley, who has worked for Howell Public Schools for 17 years, has been involved in the balloonfest since 1986. Her husband, Jim, a Howell attorney, serves on the Howell Area Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors.

Johnson, the former superintendent of Howell Public Schools, is an ex-member of the Howell chamber board and currently works for Education Resources Inc. This is his second year on the balloonfest committee.

Steve Barlow, an employee of Howell Public Schools, is serving on the site committee. This is his second year on the balloonfest committee. Robert Mack, employed by McPherson Hospital, is in his second year on the committee. He is coordinating McPherson's involvement in the festival.

Barry L. Rutter, employed by the City of Howell Police Department, has served five years on the committee, acting as a liaison between the city and chamber for balloonfest.

Pam Rietsch, a Welcome Wagon representative, has handled balloonfest publicity for five years.

Wayne Brown, of B & W Fun Foods, has been on the committee for five years and is coordinating food service.

William Bettis of the Howell Shipping Post is handling parking for this year's balloonfest. He is a member of the Howell Jaycees and has been involved with Howell's Fantasy of Lights celebration.

Glenda Frederick, an avid crafter, is chairing this year's arts and crafts fair. Louis B. Anderson, who has worked on the balloonfest committee for five years, is in charge of the carnival at McPherson Middle School.

Charlene Sinelli of Howell Travel Service is actively involved in the community, serving on the chamber board of direc-

Sandie Cortez of First Impression Printing and a member of the Howell Jaycees and chamber business women's group, is working on the signs committee.

Victor Lopez, former president of the Howell chamber board and owner of Active Bookkeeping Service, heads the finance committee for balloonfest.

Dick Rudlaff, a hot air balloonist who will be competing in the Michigan Challenge, is in charge of the balloonfest operations committee.

Mike and Mary Nadeau both have been involved in the balloonfest for five years and are in charge of setting up sound systems. Both also have been involved in the Fantasy of Lights.

Martha McKenzie, employed at Howell's Carnegie Library, is working on souvenirs, site activities and the information booth. She's served on the balloonfest committee for five years.

When the race for the Michigan Challenge championship begins, a first-rate crew of officials will be controlling the action from the ground.

Al Nels will serve as the Michigan Challenge balloonmeister. As the chief official for the championship, the balloonmeister runs the events, making important decisions on whether the balloonists will fly, depending on the latest weather conditions.

Nels is from Beaver Creek, Ohio, and pilots the AEG balloon. He is the current world champion.

Joni Thompson is the chief scoring officer for the Michigan Challenge. She acts as the referee in this hot air ballooning event. She is charged with scoring the contests in a fair manner. Points scored in the Michigan Challenge not only will determine the state champion of hot air ballooning but also will count toward participation in the national championship.

Wayne Warren is the event's safety officer. He's charged with safety on the field and will help launch directors assure a safe liftoff for each event. He pays particular attention to weather conditions.

1989 by COTTER & COMPANY, CHICAGO IL 60614 100% Retailer-Owned Warehouse Distributors & Merchandisers
Because this is a syndicated publication prepared in advance by Cotter & Company for distribution by over 6,000 independently owned and operated retail store members, some merchandise illustrated may not be immediately available on demand. However, any item that's unavailable can be ordered in full carton by the member store from a regional warehouse. Many items in this circular come unassembled. This store is not responsible for assembling merchandise unless stated. This circular must be prepared months in advance of the actual distribution period. At times, an advertised item may not be available because of sales above anticipated demand or because of circumstances beyond our control; while we try to avoid such situations, we have no control over our manufacturers' delivery problems. This store reserves the right to limit quantities, correct pricing errors and require central credit office approval of time payment sales. Prevailing taxes will be added to prices. This catalog is distributed by True Value members who own their own stores and set their own retail prices.
