Council contest develops

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville's race for city council seats became a real contest Monday, the filing deadline for candidates, when 25-year Northville resident Kevin Hartshorne announced his candidacy Monday.

Hartshorne, who ran and lost nearly a decade ago for the same position, said he was upset that there were only two people running for two city council seats. "That's the way they do it in Russia," he said.

Hartshorne will be running against incumbent Jerry Mittman and former council member G. Dewey Gardner. Gardner lost his seat in 1987, when he failed to win the mayoral position in a race against Christopher Johnson. Mittman is seeking his first full term as a council member, having joined the council when Gardner resigned his seat to run for mayor.

Hartshorne disagrees with the city's current sidewalk policy, saying, "What they've done is pit neighbor against neighbor in many instances." He said officials had overstepped their bounds by making residents pay for new sidewalks, adding that the city should "get out of the sidewalk-installation business."

"I think we should take a serious look at why taxes are so high," he added. He said the difference between the city's millage and the township's could not be explained entirely by the fact that the city has garbage pick-up service. He also questioned the city's need for a 17-member police department, saying a review of the city's enforcement needs should be conducted. "Well over half the city budget is for the police department," he said.

A member of the Northville Jaycees for three years, Hartshorne was administrative vice president, community development vice president, and president.

Of his last city council campaign, Hartshorne said "I made no illusions then, and I make no illusions of winning now." His main goal in the campaign, he said, is to have his opinions heard.

Hartshorne, a Northville resident for 25 years and a graduate of Northville High School, graduated from Michigan State University in 1978 with a business degree. He now runs a restaurant service business.

He's got rhythm

Four-year-old Kendal Michaluk plays rhythm sticks during the rhythm band segment of the preschool Storytime program at the Northville Public Library last week. The program, which recently started again for the fall, runs two sessions every Wednesday. For more information call the library at 349-3020.

Park millage vote nears

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville City voters will have another chance to voice their opinions this year on the need for a community-owned park.

City council members voted recently to include the park millage defeated last year on the November 7 ballot. The millage, which would have been .9 mill last year, will only be .7994 if passed this year because of the Headlee Amendment to the state constitution.

That 1978 amendment limits the increase on taxes on existing property from year to year to the rate of inflation. The ballot figure will still read .9 mill, though, because it must be identical to the millage proposal passed by the township last year.

At this rate, a resident with a house

Plan extends Main Street development

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Local business people Glenn and James Long on Monday proposed a retail and office development for the north side of Main Street just east of Wing.

The project would include the lot now occupied by the old Phil's 76 gas station as well as part of the parking lot just east of the old Phil's site.

The proposal, which would involve a land trade between the city and the Longs, came as part of the Northville City Council meeting Monday.

"This could be a tremendous asset to our downtown area," Council Member Paul Folino said.

ject," Mayor Christopher Johnson agreed. The council voted unanimously to authorize city manager Steven Walters to enter into negotiations with the Longs.

The Longs proposed a swap of land with the city that would give them an 80-foot by 175-foot lot along Main Street.

In return for the parcel of city-owned land — east of the station to the parking lot entrance — Long Development Company would give the city the north side of the Phil's lot and a parcel of land and house on Cady Street opposite the existing city parking deck.

"Their proposed building site is not as deep as Phil's station is," Walters

The proposed 3½ story building would consist of 6,000 square feet of retail space on the first floor and 18,000 square feet of office space on the second and third floors. The building was designed by Greg Presley, a local architect and member of the Downtown Development Authority, along with Glenn Long.

In making his design, Presley said, "I took my cue from the building next door, the Northville Travel building." The brick structure would be 100 feet long and 60 feet wide, he said, the same width as the Northville Travel building.

A pitched roof and dormers on top of the structure make it appear smaller, and provide a better transition into the neighboring Historic District, than a square office building would, Presley said. "The total height from the standpoint of the planning commission would be 42 feet," he added.

The design uses large windows and colonnades at street level, he said, "so in a sense you would be looking through the building."

"This is a way to make the building a little less dominant from street level," Presley said.

A notch out of the southwest corner of the building would allow a cafe with open-air seating, Presley said, and further "soften" the design.

Apartments proposed over parking deck

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

A new proposal from the developers of the MainCentre project at the corner of Main and Center streets would add 51 apartments to the development.

At Monday's city council meeting, Mike Kahm, vice president of the Singh Development Company, made the proposal to put the apartments above the company's proposed parking deck south of the MainCentre site. The design, by Singh architect Al Tuomaala, incorporates planters on several of the structure's floors, bay windows, balconies, and 20 feet of land around the site for a "green belt." A courtyard is also incorporated into the center of the apartment complex.

The proposal is one of two submitted to the council Monday night. The first, called the "small deck" because of its smaller footprint on the site, would consist of a five-story parking garage containing 485 spaces without apartments. The second, called the "large deck," would consist of a four-story parking garage containing 572 spaces, with apartments above the garage.

Both proposals incorporate a covered pedestrian walkway running over Cady Street between the garage and MainCentre.

"We need 86 parking credits to meet the city ordinance requirements for the 51 apartments," Kahm said. Because 86 of the spaces in the second proposal would be required for the apartments, 486 would be left over for other uses, almost the same number as the other proposal.

But because the larger deck would cover some of the existing spaces in the MAGS surface parking lot, 68 fewer spaces would be left over for other uses.

The city ordinance requires a parking space for every bedroom in an apartment complex. The apartments would include 16 one-bedroom and 35 two-bedroom models.

The cost to the city for the two proposals is nearly equal — $2,977,606 for the small deck as opposed to $2,981,644 for the large deck.

"Financially, there is some benefit to the city to going with the apartments," Kahm said. If city officials chose to proceed with development of the deck with apartments, Singh would pay the city $394,400 for the air rights above the site. These include the charge of $2,000 per unit for 51 apartment units, and $3,400 per credit for the 86 parking credits.

City ordinances specify that developers must pay the city for new development which requires parking, at a current rate of $3,400 for each parking space required. For retail development, each 200 square

Land given to township for library

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township officials Monday announced the receipt of a gift of 71.83 acres of undeveloped land located on the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads.

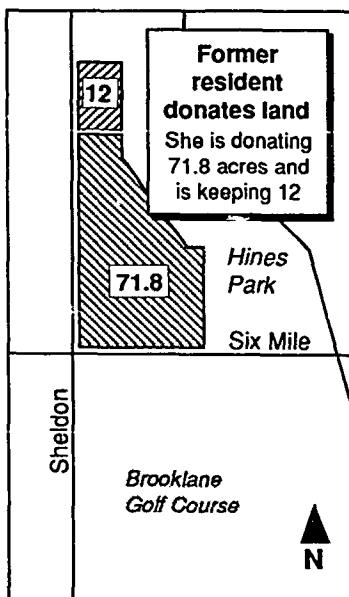

The rolling, tree-lined property is valued at approximately $1.4 million, and was donated to the township by former resident Frieda Haller. Intended for use by the public, the gift hinges on the township's ability to fund and begin construction on a number of projects on the site within the next two years.

Township officials were excited by the donation.

"It's the biggest thing that has happened to the community since I've been here," said longtime Board of Trustees Member Jim Nowka, who initiated the conversations with Haller.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss called the gift "mind boggling," and Treasurer / Interim Business Manager Richard Henningsen said the action was "a golden opportunity for the township."

In a letter of intent forwarded to the township office Friday, Haller stipulates that the property must be used for public purposes for at least 50 years. If any non-public approach

Backhoe pierces Center gas line

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

An accident at the Main Centre construction site downtown last Thursday had residents holding their breath in more ways than one.

The puncturing of a natural gas pipe on the site — at the southwest corner of Main and Center — forced the closure of part of Center Street and the rerouting of traffic for several hours while gas company officials sealed the line.

According to Project Supervisor Jim Gideon Singh Development workers had just begun digging a hole for the building's basement when the accident occurred. The two-inch plastic pipe was punctured, though not completely severed, by a backhoe. Gideon said the pipe was 18 inches away from where it was supposed to be, as marked by yellow stakes.

The Northville City Fire Department was informed of the leak at 11:44 a.m., when a citizen reported the smell of gas. Fire and gas company officials were on the scene within minutes, though it took about 30 minutes for a repair crew from Consumers Power to arrive and stop the leak.

Upon arrival at the scene, Northville City firefighters immediately blocked off the site using fire department vehicles and road barriers. Vehicles and personnel were stationed on Center Street, Mary Alexander Court, and Cady Street to keep spectators out of the area.

Officials covered their ears as they approached the 10-foot hole where the pipe was located, against the whistling sound of escaping gas. The gas — at a pressure of 55 pounds per square inch, according to Fire Chief Jim Allen — blew dust and dirt over six feet into the air.

"It's better being in the air than confined," observed Northville City firefighter Jim Daniels, though people downwind of the leak may not have agreed. The odor of gas was noticeable more than a block away, as a steady breeze blew the gas north across Main Street.

Chief Allen was unsure as to the exact cause of the accident. "They weren't supposed to be digging where the pipes are," he said of the Singh construction crew. "Whether it was staked wrong, or the digger got beyond where it was safe to dig, I can't say." If the contractor is found to be at fault for damaging a line, he said, the contractor is charged for repairs by the utility company.

Bond vote is today

By MIKE TYREE

Voters will decide today, Thursday, whether to approve a $16-million bond issue for the Northville Public School District.

Officials expect that passage of the bond sale would increase school property taxes by 1 to 1.4 mills. A mill is $1 of tax per $1,000 of assessed property value.

School officials say the bond issue is necessary to provide students the educational opportunities residents in this community have come to expect.

Superintendent George Bell said the bond sale must be approved if the school system is to acquire sites, renovate buildings, and purchase equipment soon enough to satisfy the demand created by the rapidly expanding population in the district.

"Our costs are increasing, and we have to meet the needs of the increased numbers of students," he said.

If passed, the bonds would provide funds to build a new elementary school by the fall of 1993.

Ballots may be cast at the six Northville School District voting precincts. Polls opened at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

City reacts to recent gas leak

"There's nothing more we'll do," he said.

A Consumers Power supervisor on the scene declined to comment on the situation, saying, "We've been instructed not to talk to the newspapers." According to company spokesperson Garth Behrendt, contacted after the incident, the line is a feeder off one of the company's main lines, which are typically six to eight inches in diameter and made of iron.

The damaged line was repaired by 2:30 p.m., he said. To repair the line, Consumers Power workers raced it back from the leak in both directions, sealed it using large vises, and then cut off the ends and capped them.

Because the line was fed from both directions, workers did not need to repair the broken section of pipe. "That particular line isn't needed," Behrendt said.

Behrendt downplayed the seriousness of the incident, saying, "This is a pretty standard operation because during the summer months, there's a lot of construction. Our crews are on the road all the time doing repair work like this."

Company officials reviewed the incident, Behrendt said, and Singh

Development will be billed for the repairs and gas lost during the incident. "Certainly the gas that escaped is costly," he said, "and so is having the crews out there."

The Farmer's Market in progress in the parking lot just south of the site continued throughout the incident.

NEWS BRIEFS

CANDIDATES NIGHT SET — The Northville branch of the American Association of University Women and the local branch of the League of Women Voters are jointly sponsoring a candidates forum for those running for city office this fall.

The forum is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 18 in the city council chambers at 215 W. Main.

The groups have invited all four people running for city office to participate. They include Jerry Mittman, G. Dewey Gardner and Kevin Hartshorne, running for two council seats; and Mayor Christopher Johnson, running unopposed for re-election.

FALL CLOTHING DRIVE SET — The First Presbyterian Church of Northville will be holding its annual clothing drive on Saturdays, Oct. 7, 14 and 21, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Clothing should be in bags and may be dropped off at the church.

The clothing will be distributed by Fort Street Presbyterian Church in Detroit in conjunction with its weekly soup kitchen.

During the week, clothing may be dropped off in the basement of the church.

STATE POLICE TRANSFERS — The Michigan State Police recently announced the transfer of Lt. James N. Hostutler to the Northville post, located on Seven Mile Road.

In addition, Spl. David S. Johnston and Spl. Bruce D. Karazia have been promoted to the forensic science lab at Northville.

ACADEMY APPLICATIONS AVAILABLE — Applications for appointment to the nation's four academies — naval, military, air force and merchant marine — currently are available from U.S. Rep. Carl D. Pursell's office.

The application deadline for classes entering July 1, 1990 is Oct. 20, 1989.

The nomination process is open to all interested young men and women between the ages of 17 and 21 who reside in Michigan's 2nd Congressional District and will be high school graduates by July 1, 1990.

For more information and applications, interested students should write to Pursell at 361 W. Eisenhower Parkway, Ann Arbor, MI 48103.

Although legislators make nominations to the academies, final decisions on appointments are made by the individual institutions.

REHAB PROGRAM OFFERED — The Easter Seal Society of Wayne County has launched a rehabilitation program for people suffering the late effects of polio.

These individuals are people who suffered polio 30 to 35 years ago who suddenly find themselves experiencing new symptoms.

It is only recently that doctors have been able to properly diagnose this phenomenon, which is characterized by muscle weakness, fatigue, ambulatory problems and difficulty in performing tasks.

The Easter Seal program is a home care program which has therapists visiting the homes of patients at no charge to them. Anyone wanting more information about the program may call 722-3055.

COLLEGE HELP AVAILABLE — Tuition assistance, personal development workshops, tutoring, and job placement support are being offered to 18- to 21-year-olds interested in entering Schoolcraft College.

Students must be educationally or economically disadvantaged. A high school diploma or GED is not necessary. Call Growth Works Inc. at 455-4090 and ask for Susan Davis for more information.

Crestwood Manor plans cause rift

BY MIKE TYREE

Proposed revisions to a wetlands area and a storm retention pond have brought Northville Township planners and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to an accord — they've agreed to disagree.

DNR requirements for the planned Crestwood Manor Subdivision near Beck and Six Mile Roads included the scrapping of a walkway and bridge which would have spanned the length of a wetlands area on the location.

Citing the impact to the existing wetland from the bridge and walkway, the DNR requested the deletion of the structures from the Crestwood Manor Subdivision.

Biltmore Properties Corporation, the developer of the Crestwood Manor site, agreed to limit infringement into the wetlands to an access walkway protruding only a short distance into the wetland at two points, but township officials balked at the DNR decision.

During the township's Sept. 26 planning commission meeting, members of the commission spoke of the need to provide access across the wetland for the enjoyment of residents there.

That feeling was supported by Larry DeBrincat, landscape architect with Vilican-Leman & Associates, Inc., the township's planning firm.

In an Aug. 30 letter to the township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise, DeBrincat said full access to the wetlands could still be attained.

"In our opinion, the walk could be routed up the slope and down (a cleared area over a ridge) to provide the link between the two walkways," he wrote.

Maise said Monday that the township will continue to push for the walkways.

"The planning commission wanted to meet with the DNR to talk about the walkways," she said. "I called David Pringle (with the DNR wetlands division in Pontiac) who issued the restricted permit to see what we could set up."

Maise said Pringle would not commit himself to accepting the original site plan, but he did request more information on the project from the township.

"He asked our engineer to write a detailed letter on the subject, and we'll negotiate from there," Maise said.

Donald P. Weaver, township engineer, penned a letter to Pingle Sept. 27 pushing for the restoration of the walkway to the Crestwood Manor Subdivision.

"The township views the foot-bridge as necessary to develop a pedestrian path system throughout the open space set aside for this area," Weaver's letter reads. "The recreational concept is integral to this development. If the denial is based on wetlands disturbance, the township contends it is necessary and in the public interest."

Pingle or other DNR officials familiar with the case could not be reached for comment, but Maise felt the department would eventually modify its stance.

"I think once they see what the intent is, and if some minor revisions are done on the site, they'll change their position," she said.

Township planners are also at odds with the DNR over a storm retention pond on the proposed Crestwood Manor grounds. DNR restrictions on a storm-sewer system there would result in the creation of a permanent three-foot-deep water surface, and the township is not pleased about the possible negative safety and aesthetic ramifications.

"If you're living there, you don't want this standing water," Maise said. "It would be a breeding ground for mosquitoes, could be a safety hazard for children, and could detract from the quality of life in the area."

Maise said the township's solution to the problem would be to have the developer construct the incoming/outgoing storm line at a higher elevation. If such a plan was implemented, berming would be required through the wetlands, according to studies made by the township engineer.

Maise said she expected to hear a response from the DNR shortly.

Railroad safety audit due out soon

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Government inspectors should complete their safety audit of the railroad line through Northville by the end of October, according to a spokesperson for the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA).

The FRA began the inspection of the CSX Transportation rail line in mid-August, in response to a derailment near Freeland. The company's entire rail line from Toledo to Midland is under inspection.

According to Kaye Wood, a spokesperson at the FRA's Washington, D.C. office, the investigation should be completed by the end of October. Inspectors are conducting the investigation in conjunction with CSX officials, she said.

"It's not so much an audit of CSX," Wood said. "It's an assessment of the whole area where the accident occurred."

The assessment involves inspections of the entire track and equipment-repair procedures used by the company. FRA workers will also ride trains to observe the company's handling of hazardous materials and staffing policies.

CSX has faced increased criticism recently for its safety record, and its involvement in the Freeland incident and a derailment in Highland Township in April. Northville residents have also seen their share of accidents on the tracks over the years, including runaway boxcars which killed one person in Northville Township in 1985.

Planners deny gas station's site plans

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Rather than fix their automobiles, Sun Refining wants to feed its customers.

But the Northville Township Planning Commission denied the company's latest plan because it did not meet two of the township's zoning ordinance requirements.

Sun's proposed Sunoco gas station/convenience store — to be located on the corner of Five Mile and Haggerty roads — replaces an earlier site plan approved by planners last January.

The original plan proposed a four-bay service center on the southeast portion of the .92-acre parcel. The plan also called for six gasoline pumps and a canopy.

The newly submitted site plan replaces the service center with a 1,908-square-foot food market. The position of the six gasoline pumps and canopy remain unchanged.

Sun Refining representative Jim Benore said his company switched from offering a service center to a food market because of market studies on similar facilities.

After reviewing the plan with Township Planning Consultant Andrew Chinarian, planners immediately questioned Benore on issues related to a dumpster, parking spaces, and the placement of two driveways along Five Mile.

Benore said having two driveways cut into the curb along Five Mile is an "absolute necessity for the business. Having the curb cuts as they are is necessary for the success of the business."

Following a lengthy discussion, Benore agreed to move three parking spaces south of the building since they might interfere with traffic flow.

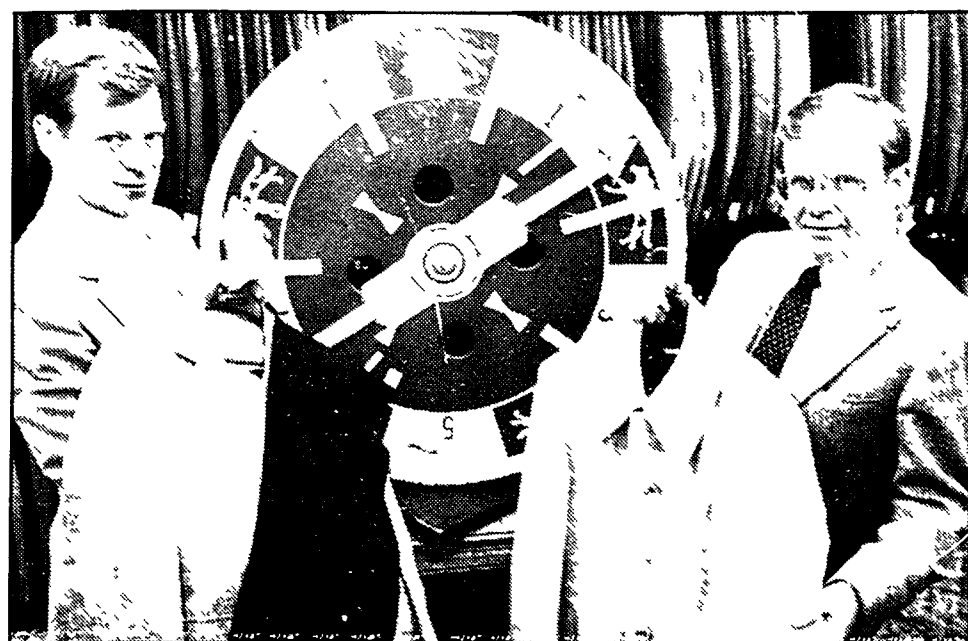

In addition, Benore also agreed to a request by planners to move a dumpster and air hose next to the north end of the building. Planners said these moves will reduce the possibility of accidents occurring on the site.

But planners denied the site plan because it did not meet sign and landscape provisions.

Sun Refining's non-compliance with the sign ordinance stems from the company's proposal to install a 15-foot ground sign, while the ordinance allows only a 10-foot sign.

As for landscaping, Benore said a 25-foot grass strip is required for the site, but because of space, the company is proposing a 10-foot belt.

Police Blotter

Jewelry owner reports theft of diamond ring to police

Township police are investigating the theft of jewelry valued at over $9,000 from an apartment on Innsbrook. A diamond ring, gold earrings, and a gold herringbone necklace were reported missing Sept. 25.

The owner of the jewelry last saw the items Sept. 18. She said a work crew entered her apartment the following day to repair water damage. After discovering that her jewelry was missing, the owner attempted to contact the apartment manager to learn the identities of the workers. Police are still awaiting contact with the repair crew.

DOMESTIC ABUSE — On the evening of Sept. 29, City police responded to a report of abuse and separated a man and wife involved in a fight at their home. The husband reportedly threatened to kill his wife, who had welts and bruises from the altercation. The following day, the wife dropped charges of assault and battery against her husband, reporting that everything was back to normal.

ANOTHER ASSAULT — A teenage girl at Northville High School reported being assaulted by another female student during a Sept. 22 football game. The girl was reportedly grabbed and punched in the stomach, until her assailant was pulled away by onlookers. City police reported the incident to Northville High School officials, who said the assailant would be suspended.

MAN MOWED DOWN — A City

DPW worker was run over by a tractor while mowing the lawn at Rural Hills Cemetery on the morning of Sept. 25. The man's left forehead and hip were injured in the accident.

THIEVES STRIKE MEIJER — Several larcenies were reported at the Meijer store on Haggerty Road. On Sept. 28, police were notified that $450 worth of outdoor lights were taken from beneath a general contractor's trailer on the site between Sept. 4 and Sept. 14.

The following day, police investigated an unidentified larceny at 1 p.m. from Meijer, and Oct. 1 saw another larceny from the same business. Merchandise totaling $42.95 was taken that day.

LARCENY AT CONSTRUCTION

SITE — Police investigated a larceny at a construction site at 16251 Haggerty. According to the victim, aluminum flashing material valued at $200 was removed from a locked wooden box between Sept. 23-25.

LICENSE HAD BEEN REVOKED — On Sept. 30, at 1:40 a.m., a Northville City resident was stopped on Novi Road between Eight Mile Road and Allen Drive. The male driver was transported to the police station and charged with driving with a revoked license. The driver also had an outstanding traffic warrant.

ARREST MADE FOR OUIL — Police arrested a driver at Seven Mile and Innsbrook at 2:13 a.m. Sept.

29 for operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol (OUIL).

WAY OVER THE LIMIT — On Oct. 1, at 1:48 a.m., a Detroit resident was stopped on Beck Road near Eight Mile Road for speeding, and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Tests showed his blood alcohol level to be .21 percent, well over the state's legal limit of .1 percent.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY — An assault and battery case was investigated Sept. 30 on Eight Mile Road near Haggerty. The incident occurred at 10:30 p.m.

FENDER BENDER — City police reported at least two accidents in Northville last week:

• A hit and run accident was reported in the parking lot of Black's hardware on Sept. 22. The driver of the damaged vehicle did not discover the damage, to the passenger side of her car, until leaving the parking lot that evening.

• A driver headed west on Eight Mile Road through the Novi Road intersection at 9:34 p.m. on Sept. 29 mistook a green arrow for a green light and struck another car coming from the opposite direction, and turning north onto Novi. The driver, who sustained cuts on her face during the accident, was cited for disobeying the red signal. The other vehicle's driver and passenger complained of pain in the neck, back and chest after the accident.

Police limit media access to reports

BY MIKE TYREE

Followers of the Record's "Police Blotter" reports may have noticed a difference format recently. Due to an internal policy change, the Northville Township Police Department is limiting media access to some of its reports, including information involving accidents, reports of crimes, and arrests.

The action is a positive move, according to township police officials.

"The change is for the protection of the department and citizens," said Police Chief Ken Hardesty. "Some of the freedom-of-information laws required us to change."

"We're not going to restrict anything other than our basic freedom-of-information outlines."

Hardesty said the township is undergoing a rapid change from a dangerous atmosphere "to more of an urban setting." He said his department must become more sophisticated and evolve with the times, but he feels the policy change will not hinder the relationship between township law enforcement officials and the media.

"Regardless of how the media receives their information, they can print it if they want," Hardesty said.

Previously, the Record was allowed to view the police log and actual reports, from which the "Police Blotter" section was compiled. Names, addresses, and full accounts of the police activities were described in the reports. Under the new procedure, a "media book" of edited photocopies of reports is made available to the press. All names are deleted. Also removed are accounts of some incidents, many addresses, arrest information, and other details of cases responded to by the township police.

The Record's policy in the past has been to withhold the publication of names and other information which may endanger or implicate the citizenry.

Hardesty said the action "was no reflection on you; we've had a good relationship with the paper, but we need a consistent policy for everyone."

Hardesty added that the department had been working on the policy switch for six to eight months. "Certainly we're working within the guidelines of the Freedom of Information Act."

Michigan's Freedom of Information Act regulates and sets requirements for the disclosure of public records by all public bodies in the state, including township agencies.

A survey of local police departments indicated that the change to a media book is becoming popular.

Pat Nemecek, public information officer for the Canton Township Police, said his department has recently changed its stance toward the media's viewing of its log book.

"Our policy has been all our reports are open to the press. But our attorney has said that's not a good practice," he said. "We've just made a change where we're not listing suspects and those arrested in our media book."

Livonia Chief of Police William Crayk said his department changed to a media book about a month ago. "We should have been doing it months ago," he said. "Under the old system, a reporter printed something that put a victim in jeopardy. It wasn't the reporter's fault, but we had to change because of the right to privacy issue and the Victims Rights Act."

Northville City Police Chief Rod Cannon is a holdout in the shift to a log change. Asked if any policy change regarding the media's examination of his books had been implemented, he said, "No, none whatsoever."

In the city, the Record does not usually see the log book, but does see the full police reports.

The Record's Managing Editor, Phil Jerome, said the newspaper would review the policy change of the Northville Township Police Department.

"We are monitoring the situation carefully to make certain that the rights of a free press and the general public are not abridged," he said. "We will defend those principles."

Device boosts efficiency at city police department

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

While other police departments upgrade their weapons to stay ahead in the war on crime, the Northville City Police Department is upgrading its efficiency.

Police Chief Rodney Cannon led city officials on a tour of the department Monday to show off the department's newly installed communications center and the mobile data terminals in the police cars. The new equipment enables police to communicate with other stations more quickly, and gives officers on patrol quicker access to information about drivers and vehicles.

The communications center incorporates the city's enhanced 911 service. When an emergency 911 call reaches the station, the caller's name and address is automatically displayed on a small computer screen, allowing emergency personnel to respond immediately even if the caller can't talk or is cut off. The new telephone system also allows emergency calls to be instantly transferred to another police station without hanging up on the caller.

The new console also features video monitors of the department's three jail cells and rear entrance. One problem with the system, according to the city attorney, was the possibility of invasion of privacy. "What do you do when you have a male dispatcher and a female prisoner?" Cannon asked. What the police department did, to avoid legal problems, is angle the camera in the cell designated for females so that the toilet in the cell is screened.

The patrol cars' mobile data terminals are another tool used to increase the department's efficiency. The terminals give patrol officers instant access to a person's driving record and a vehicle's status. The terminals provide access to the state's Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN), as well as the National Crime Information Center (NCIC). Patrolmen can also communicate with each other via the terminal, rather than the police-band radio.

Said Lieutenant Gerald Ryan, "we can virtually sit in a location and run plates." Ryan predicted that the terminals would prove very useful during Northville Downs' racing season.

Ryan demonstrated the system's speed and effectiveness by typing his own name and license plate into the terminal. Within several seconds, the computer listed his address and showed that his record was clean.

"It's very simple, it's quick, and it's a lot easier for the officer too," Ryan said.

Oil-change business approved

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Problems associated with a site plan for an oil-change facility apparently have solved following recent approval by both the Township Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA).

The proposal for the oil change facility, to be located on Five Mile Road near Haggerty, was tabled in June because of a number of concerns cited by planners.

Commissioners said in June that the oil-change facility did not meet a 150 foot-frontage requirement and that it was within 400 feet of a church.

The main emphasis of the June meeting, however, centered on whether the developer should appear before the ZBA or the planning commission when submitting the revised plan.

Developer Anthony Samatis submitted a revised proposal to commissioners at their July meeting, hoping to address some of their concerns.

Samatis' new plan calls for the oil change to be located south of an existing car wash, which currently fronts on Five Mile Road.

Also included in the revised plan are six stacking spaces and one handicap parking space. A one-way drive is also proposed.

While Samatis' plan, which was submitted by architect Michael Downs, met many of the commission's prior concerns, the front requirement and church vicinity issues required ZBA approval.

The oil-change facility was granted a variance from the ZBA to be within 400 feet of the Metropolitan Seventh Day Adventist church. It was also granted a variance by the ZBA for having less than 150 feet of frontage.

Apartments added to plan

feet of retail space requires a separate parking space.

Reaction to the proposal of apartments was largely favorable, with several council members and Mayor Christopher Johnson saying that the structure had a nicer appearance with the apartments on top than without. City Manager Steven Walters pointed out that the apartments would act as a "waterproof roof" for the garage.

"The downside to it is that the scheme without the apartments generates a larger surplus of parking spaces," Walters said. Another limitation is the fact that another level of parking could not be added in the future if apartments are built on top, he said.

Council members also questioned whether vibrations from the apartment complex would affect the parking structure. Kahm admitted that was a concern, but said his engineers had several strategies to counteract the problem.

Walters warned council members that a decision should be made on the proposal within four to six weeks, if plans for the center are to continue on schedule. Council members agreed to hold a study session on the proposals on Oct. 16, and to move their regular meeting to Oct. 23.

Thomson Gravel closes up shop

BY MIKE TYREE

Fifty years after the first scoop of gravel was pulled from its grounds, Thomson Sand & Gravel has closed its doors.

The rich vein of course minerals that put a sparkle in the eye of founder A.M. Thomson in 1938 had begun to dwindle, and Don Thomson, son of the founder and vice president of the operation, could see the end of the business nearing.

After a year and a half of negotiations, Thomson, his sister, Alta Sorenson, and mother, Helen DePoorter, decided to sell 360 acres of the 380-acre business to development interests headed by Vincent DiLorenzo of Mount Clemens and Tony Angelo of Novi.

The site, now freckled with six 25-foot lakes, will be developed into condominiums and single-family housing.

Thomson declined to say how much the family received for the property, but he did allow that "it was an offer we couldn't pass up."

At its peak, Thomson Sand & Gravel was loading and moving between 400-450 trucks a day from its quarry. In 1972, Thomson was one of seven local gravel-pit operators, as the industry was at its zenith. Tastes, technology, and materials changed, though, and the demand for the harvest of a sand and gravel quarry diminished.

From its heyday of providing employment for 18 workers, recent labor demands were handled by five. The final day on the job gave Thomson a chance to reflect on the changes he has witnessed since his father's time.

"Years ago we were getting 45 cents a ton for pit run gravel," he said. "Last year we got $2.80 a ton. We used to get 60 cents a ton for road gravel, and now we're getting $3.80 a ton."

Thomson said the cavernous pits and land so eagerly gobbled by developers came considerably cheaper in his father's day.

"My dad used to have enough money in his pocket to buy a few acres at a time," he said. "But one day he was short on cash and ended up buying an acre for what he had with him — seven dozen eggs and two chickens."

Friday, Thomson stood on the edge of the gravel pit and watched his son Bobby and front-end loader operator Dan Thomas drop the last bucket of gravel into an awaiting truck. The pit sprawled like a miniature Grand Canyon before him, and the six small lakes — son Bobby said they were "pure enough to drink from" — sparkled in the autumn sun.

"I feel pretty sentimental right now," he said. "I've been here since I was 14. It's going to be a lot different from now on."

Homecoming

It's Homecoming week at Northville High School, and the students are getting into the spirit. Above, juniors Jennifer Pidruzny and Kim Smallwood walk to class with their pajamas on. At right, senior Era Morfe, left, watches senior John Brugman race to eat a bowl of cereal with no hands. Both were part of Monday's Homecoming activities. Things continue this evening with the announcement of the Homecoming court at halftime of the varsity basketball game against Livonia Franklin. Tomorrow features a pep assembly at 1:10 p.m., the parade at 6 p.m. and the football game against Plymouth Canton at 7:30 p.m. The week finishes up with the Homecoming dance from 8:30 to 11 p.m. Saturday.

State inspection of bridge is delayed

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Repairs to two Northville City bridges may have to wait another year unless state officials inspect them soon.

"It's a process where federal funding is available once a year," said City Manager Steven Walters. "It's a question of how rapidly they process their grant reviews. So far they haven't gotten to us yet."

City officials are seeking federal funds for repairs to the Beal Street bridge, closed for months due to deteriorating concrete, and the bridge on Baseline Road near Parmenter's Cider Mill. Because the funds are granted through the state's highway department, state inspectors must inspect the bridges to ascertain that they meet the necessary funding requirements.

Inspectors must ascertain that the spans in question qualify as bridges, by spanning at least 20 feet, and that the bridges are in poor enough condition to warrant repair.

State officials scheduled the inspections for mid-September, but so far they have not shown up to make the inspections.

The funding program would pay 80 percent of the cost of bridge repairs. Repairs to the Beal Street bridge have been estimated at $100,000, though no estimate has been made on the Baseline bridge. The Beal Street bridge has recently been closed except during the Northville Downs racing season, when it has been opened for one-way traffic.

The Baseline bridge, said Walters, is in better shape, though the railing is deteriorating. "It's not unsound structurally from a traffic standpoint," he said.

Group signs up to battle drugs

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

"Consider the options." Students Against Drunk Drunk (SADD) recently used a larger-than-life tactic to get its message across.

A billboard with a headstone on one side of the billboard and an "anti-alcohol" emblem on the other, Northville SADD members said they're trying to reach the entire community.

The SADD advertisement was placed on the billboard — located on Novi Road near Eight Mile — on Aug. 18. It came down late last week.

"I got the idea from an ad in a SADD newspaper somewhere in Michigan," said SADD member Lee LeChance. "Through the Northville Action Council (NAC) I got in touch with the advertising representative."

LeChance said she sent in the design for the billboard and the advertising representative took care of everything else. She said entire billboard cost the group only $190.

"I just came up with the idea," said said. "I've always seen posters and stuff discouraging drinking, and I just tried to come up with my own saying."

SADD member Chris Handyside said putting up the billboard was important for the group because "we can only do the crashed-car routine so often."

SADD and other groups have used a car wrecked in a drunk driving accident as a prop in front of Meijer and in a local parade.

"Everyone knows about the billboard, and hopefully it will increase the awareness of everyone in the community," Handyside said.

Legislation to suspend dropouts' licenses moves ahead

By TIM RICHARD and STEPHEN KELLMAN

LANSING — Students who quit school before age 18 would lose their driver's license under three bills before the state House of Representatives this week.

"In Japan, a kid doesn't drive until he's out of high school, and they can't hold jobs," said Rep. William Keith, D-Garden City, chair of the House Education Committee.

After a major battle, Keith's panel reported the bills out on a 10-4 vote. Rep. Gerald Law, R-Plymouth, was author of one of the bills amending the state vehicle code. His district includes Northville Township and the southern part of the City of Northville.

"A lot of times," Law said, "the automobile becomes a factor which draws kids away from school, not towards it. We're running into a lot of places where kids are dropping out of school to take a job, and the job is really predicated around paying for a car."

ough he said the dropout rate at Northville schools is not as high as that of Plymouth and Canton, Law said the bill could also help keep students from skipping classes.

An aide to Keith said the bills provide that if a person is 16 or 17 and drops out, is expelled, or fails to meet attendance requirements set by the local school board, the local superintendent of schools can inform the secretary of state, who will suspend the student's driver's license. The student would then be under a 60-day probationary period before being eligible for reinstatement of his or her license.

Other sections allow the license to be reinstated if the youngster must work to help support the family.

"We're not forcing this onto communities," Law added. Individual school boards would vote whether or not to participate in the program. The state's department of education would be responsible for producing a report on the bill's success within three years, and the bill would have to be renewed in four years, or it would expire.

The committee acted last week after returning from a summer recess. The bills had been subjects of public hearings last May.

Chief support came from the Secondary School Principals Association.

Said Rep. Michael Nye, R-Litchfield: "We sometimes have to have a hammer. It (suspending the license) grabs their attention real quick."

Keith told of a youngster in his western Wayne County district who was shot to death while working in a gasoline station. He worked "to support his car," Keith said.

Despite the apparently lopsided committee vote, the bills barely squeaked through the panel. The House Education Committee has 19 members, and 10 votes are needed to report out bills. The dropout bills got the bare minimum and may run into trouble before the full House.

Opponents said the bills would result in kids driving with suspended licenses, and superintendents would be saddled with extra administrative duties.

"It still creates a lot of emotional appeals among people," Law admitted.

In defending the bills, Law noted that two thirds of the nation's prison population, and 70 percent of those on welfare or Medicaid, were people without a high school education. Children whose parents didn't graduate from high school are five times as likely to drop out themselves, he added. "There's something to education that's important," he said.

In West Virginia, where a similar law was passed last year, supporters have said early results showed falling dropout rates and rising attendance rates. Similar programs have also been instituted in Wisconsin and North Carolina.

Police use Canton gun range

By DARRELL CLEM

Northville police have found a new place to practice shooting their guns.

Under an agreement with the Canton Police Department, local officers will use a new outdoor range in Canton for target practice and training programs.

The 10-position range, located at Sheldon Road just south of Michigan Avenue, will now be used instead of a range at the old Detroit House of Corrections where local police formerly received training, Northville Police Chief Rodney Cannon said.

Cannon said that Northville officers have used the new range since the local police department was given approval from the city council this summer to enter into an agreement with Canton police.

Local officials had to sign a waiver of any liability for use of the range. The agreement clears Canton of all potential damages to property and injuries or deaths to officers using the range.

Cannon also said local police will have to help pay for the range's maintenance, although he did not know what that cost might be.

In a letter to various area police departments that will be using the range, John Santomauro, Canton's director of public safety, wrote that the range's senior officer "will meet with your range personnel on a periodic basis to solicit their input on improving the range facility for our joint use."

Cannon said the range is better than the one previously used by local police and that it will enable officers to learn the latest techniques and procedures available at outdoor ranges.

City reconsiders home delivery

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The battle between Northville restaurant owners who want to be able to make home deliveries, and city regulations which limit such restaurants in the central business district (CBD), may be swinging in favor of the former.

Planning Consultant Donald Wortman presented a proposal to planning commission members recently that would allow home delivery from the CBD under certain restrictions.

The proposal would restrict the number of delivery vehicles used by such a business, and would require on-site parking for those vehicles. The proposal would also require some provisions for walk-in, sit-down customers. Despite opposition by some members, the planning commission finally voted to hold a public hearing on the matter Oct. 17 and discuss the amendment after the hearing.

Several members disagreed with Wortman's recommendation that some form of the amendment be adopted. "I have not seen a document from his office that so consistently comes up with the right arguments and the wrong conclusions," said Commission Member Rolland Stapleton. Stapleton disagreed with Wortman's conclusion that home delivery be allowed under certain restrictions. He argued that business owners who want to open such a restaurant can make an appeal to the city's board of zoning appeals.

"I just think that the original policy has some merit to it," the commissioner said. "Until I hear a convincing reason to change public policy, and I haven't, I would recommend maintaining it."

Wortman argued that denial of home delivery rights could be ruled as illegal in a court of law. "It's exclusionary, plain and simple," he said. "You have to ask yourself, what's the health, safety or welfare issue?" Some city officials have argued that the traffic of home delivery vehicles can pose a safety threat to pedestrians.

The current controversy is the result of a 1985 amendment to the zoning ordinance. The amendment placed restaurants into four separate categories: sit down, sit down and drive through, takeout, and home delivery. At the time, drive-through and home-delivery restaurants were banned from the CBD. Domino's Pizza, located within the CBD prior to enactment of the amendment, was exempted from its provisions.

"I don't think there's a person sitting here who wouldn't get rid of Domino's if they could," said Commission Member Donald McCulloch.

Week for fire safety

Fire Prevention Week commemorates one of the worst fires in America's history: The Great Chicago Fire of 1871.

On Oct. 9 of that year, 250 people died and 17,430 buildings were destroyed. The damage to property was estimated at $168 million.

The theme of this year's Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 8-14, takes aim at the tragic fires caused by matches and lighters in the hands of children. Tragically, these same children fall victim to the ravages of these accidental fires.

The Northville Township Fire Department advises that children should be taught:

1. Lighters, like matches, are a tool to be used by adults.
2. Never play with matches or lighters.
3. If you find lighters or matches, give them to an adult; better yet, don't pick them up.

Adults are advised:

1. Disposable lighters are more dangerous in the hands of youngsters than matches. It has been documented that 18-month-old toddlers have started fires with disposable lighters. However, children up to 3 years of age don't possess the manual dexterity to use matches.

2. Some children like to pretend that lighters are toys like Hot Wheels cars. They run these lighters up and down hard surfaces, causing them to ignite.

3. Never allow a child to play with a lighter like you might allow them to use your keys.

4. Adults are advised to ignite lighters away from their face when lighting cigarettes.

5. Always make sure the flame is out on lighters before returning them to your pocket.

According to the township fire department, children under 5 years of age are twice as likely to die in home fires as the general population.

For further information on Fire Prevention and Public Safety please feel free to contact Guy F. Balok at the Northville Township Fire Department, 348-8888.

To Find The Right Doctor, Just Ask Your Hospital.

The phone book has hundreds of doctors listed, but which one is right for you? Are you looking for a family doctor or do you need a specialist? What kind of specialist? Is it for a second opinion? What about the doctor's experience and Board Certification? The phone book can't help with these questions, but Huron Valley Hospital can. Our free Physician Referral Service has telephone counselors who can help you decide which specialty, if any, you need. Our counselors know all about physician office locations and hours. And every doctor in our program has been carefully screened and approved to practice at Huron Valley Hospital, an affiliate of The Detroit Medical Center. So, if hospitalization is ever necessary, you have the option of using Huron Valley, your community hospital.

When you need a doctor for anyone in the family, call the Huron Valley Hospital Physician Referral number, 360-3450. We know all about doctors and will help you find the right one.

Land donation was culmination of two years of maneuvers

BY MIKE TYREE

Monday's announcement that Northville Township had received a 71.83 acre property donation was the culmination of nearly two years of on-again, off-again contact and negotiation between representatives here and an 85-year-old widow in the European country of Liechtenstein.

Township Trustee Jim Nowka first attempted to contact Frieda Haller two years ago to see if the former Northville resident would be interested in selling a portion of her land on the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads. After receiving no response, Nowka drafted and mailed a second letter six months later.

"I wanted to let her know we were interested in the property as an area we could use for the public," Nowka said. "We were running out of suitable places for recreational space, and I wanted her to think about us before she made any decisions on the property."

Nowka said 12 developers had made offers to Haller, but the township continued to hold out hope for consideration.

"We never said, 'Will you give us this land?'" Nowka said. "We just let her know the township had a real necessity for the land."

"We really hoped she would allow us to purchase it at a reasonable price," Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

"Or at least give us the right of first refusal," Nowka added.

Township Treasurer and Interim Business Manager Richard Henningsen said Haller's niece, Elsie Enzmann, contacted the township office six months ago and said Haller would soon return to the area from Liechtenstein. Haller had agreed to meet with officials here to discuss their hopes for the site.

With the help of local architect Don DiComo, the township drew up a hasty site plan. During a June 20, 1989 meeting with Haller, officials presented her a list of ideas for a small parcel at the site.

"We told her we'd like to be considered for the property on the corner," Nowka said. "It was an informational meeting, lasting about four hours, and I thought she asked a lot of intelligent questions."

Henningsen said Haller did not like some of the architectural work in the area, and made it clear that she would not agree to any deal with the township without some strings attached.

"Besides the architecture, she asked what impact our development of the site would have on neighbors, what our priority list was, and what the community response would be," he said.

Haller was presented a variety of local architectural styles and plans, including a three-phase site plan by DiComo which eventually utilized 71 acres of the property.

Haller spoke with township representatives during the first week in September, and later outlined her desire for a 44,800-square-foot library for the site, a facility based on the West Bloomfield Township Library.

"That was kind of a nervous time for us," Goss said. "When someone asked if we could scale down the size, she got upset and did not contact us for a while."

With negotiations for the property in limbo, the township anxiously awaited word from Haller or Enzmann. Finally, Enzmann contacted the township office Sept. 27, asking if a meeting could be arranged for the following Friday. Officials were excited by the movement, but the best was yet to come.

On Sept. 29, the township entered a binding agreement with Frieda Haller based on a letter of intent which listed a number of guarantees and stipulations on the transfer of the property.

Officials acknowledged the enormity of the project and the relatively short amount of time they would have to get funding and construction plans in order, pending approval by the Board of Trustees.

But they seemed eager to get started on their new community center.

"There won't be any room for bureaucratic fooling around," Goss said. "This will be a great green buffer around other development in the area, and we think it is going to be something special."

"There's so many things the public needs," Nowka said. "It's an awesome bonus to get the gift of land, especially at that site."

New library is just one project planned for donated land

is attempted, ownership of the land would revert to Haller or her heirs.

Another important aspect of the donation is the establishment of a 44,800-square-foot township library on the site. The facility would be named "The Haller Library," and would contain memorabilia from the lives of John and Frieda Haller. Construction of the library must begin within two years after acceptance of the gift and be actively continued, or the township will forfeit its rights to the property.

The township and city have been jointly considering new sites for a 25,000-square-foot library. The Six Mile / Sheldon site is not on the list of sites which have been under formal consideration.

Additionally, the letter of intent directs the township to fund the construction of the library through a millage approval. If such a funding plan is not completed within one year, the property gift will be voided.

"We will find a way to get it funded," Goss said. She ticked off a list of probable uses for the land, which included the library, six soccer fields, four baseball fields, a senior citizen center, and a new township hall. "We'll be looking for a strategic plan to fuel the whole thing," she added, calling the development a "multi-million-dollar project."

Nowka said the land was on the township's wish list.

"You look for sites that will strengthen your community," he said. "We needed property to do something, because we were running out of recreational space in the township."

"Not too many things of major profile happen around here... but the potential effect on both communities (township and city) is enormous," he added.

Nowka said the site's natural beauty would be utilized as the property is developed.

"We'll work to make this a compatible, attractive, and complementary site," he said. "The tax rate here is such that the township and the city will rally around the park idea. That (Six Mile and Sheldon) intersection has been waiting for something to happen, and Mrs. Haller had something to give the community. We're very excited about the whole thing."

The Northville Township Board of Trustees will vote on whether to accept the land gift during its Oct. 12 meeting.

Park millage again on November ballot

valued at $100,000, the state equalized value of which would be $50,000, would pay an extra $39.97 in taxes a year. The millage would only be in effect for two years.

The millage would generate about $732,000 over two years, and the money raised would be specifically designated for construction of the park. The proposed park, on Beck Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads, would consist of three lighted ball diamonds, three soccer fields, and volleyball courts. Rest rooms, a concession stand, spectator seating and parking for 50 cars would also be included.

Though passed in the township last year, the millage was defeated by city voters by a vote of 1,853 to 1,076. A later survey of city residents found more than 81 percent opposed to raising local taxes to provide parks and recreation programs.

John Anderson, Northville Community Recreation Director, blames last year's defeat on a number of factors. "I blame it on possibly some misinformation. As we explain our plea, or plight, and the need for fields, I believe that the majority will support it," he said.

"There was some misinformation given last time that we have all the fields we need," Anderson said. "The fact is that we are due to lose several fields. Most of our kids' sports are played on lands which are under temporary agreements. As development comes in, some of these agreements are falling by the wayside, understandably."

One case in point is the Lapham Field, leased by the recreation commission for years. While recreation officials were waiting for approval of a state grant to buy the field, the owners got a better offer from a private developer.

In Northville, according to Anderson, the only usable parks owned locally are the Fish Hatchery Park and Henningsen Field, next to Northville Township Hall. The Ford Field near the Ford Plant is privately owned, and others, including Hines Park and the old Wayne County Training School site, are owned by other government agencies.

The recreation commission has also been criticized for not using the 1,000 acres of Maybury State Park and 271 acres of Edward Hines Park.

"The fact is, we are currently using the fields at Hines Park," Anderson said. He rejected the notion of using Maybury State Park, saying, "Its focus is not for community use. It's a state park, not meant to provide all the amenities and uses of a local park system."

The source of much of the misinformation last year, according to Anderson, was a flyer handed out by a group called Citizens for a Better Northville.

The flyer charged that existing parks in town were underutilized, and pointed out that private recreation facilities have been built in Canton and Milford. Jeff Hampton, a spokesperson for the organization, said the group is seeking to promote private funding of such projects rather than taxation.

Legislation clears way for millage

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville's Community Park may become a reality soon, with a little help from legislative friends.

State Representative Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) has introduced legislation to the State House that would allow levy of the property-tax millage approved by Northville Township last year, provided it's approved by the city's voters this November.

The legislation is intended to settle an uncertainty over the status of a millage vote passed in two different years, and the possibility of using a city vote made this November to enact a millage for this fiscal year.

"The cutoff date for certification of millage in this state has already passed," Law explained. "They have to be levied in this calendar year the way the millage was written."

Drafted by Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad at Law's request, the legislation has been approved by the state's Legislative Services Bureau. "It basically gives them the exemption from the September deadline," Law said of the legislation. "It's a technical point."

"You'd hate to have one election go down the tubes, and then have to run both elections again," he said.

Rejected county bidder wants back in

A county review committee recently eliminated one of the four bidders for 1,000 Wayne County-owned acres in Northville Township.

But a spokesperson for the eliminated bidder said his group would seek reinstatement.

"We are asking the committee for reinstatement," developer Walter Cohen said. "While bids were not open, we understand ours was the high bid, and we can't understand why the high bid would be eliminated."

The eliminated bid was distinctive in that it included senior housing, though it is unclear whether that influenced the committee. "We really don't want to get into reasons until the final choice is made," said Bill Wild, county director of business development.

The eliminated bid group also included developer Arnold Cohen, owner of Arco Construction in Southfield; and John Boll and Joseph Ministrelli, owners of Chateau Land Development Co. in Mount Clemens.

In addition to a golf course and single-family homes, the group's bid was distinctive for its inclusion of town houses, apartments and a senior citizens village, as well as retail, office and high tech development. It has been known as Group III.

County officials will be meeting with remaining bidders this week, deputy county executive Michael Duggan said.

"We'll be discussing our counter-proposal," he said.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

The City of Northville, Michigan will receive bids up to 10:00 A.M. Thursday, October 19, 1989 for a Recycling Center. Bid specifications may be picked up at the City of Northville Clerks Office. The City Council reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids. All bids must be submitted on standard forms furnished by the City. Address bids to Northville City Clerk, 215 W. Main Street, Northville, Michigan 48167 in a sealed envelope bearing the inscription:

BID FOR RECYCLING CENTER FENCE
At the close of bids, the bids will be opened in public. A decision on the bids will be made by the Northville City Council on Monday, October 23, 1989.

VOTER REGISTRATION NOTICE FOR THE CITY OF NORTHVILLE REGULAR ELECTION AND THE CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF NORTHVILLE SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1989

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the qualified electors of the City of Northville and the Charter Township of Northville that the City Clerk, 215 W. Main Street, will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. EDT, and the Township Clerk, 41600 Six Mile Road, will be open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. EDT, through the last day for qualified persons to make application for voter registration of the November 7, 1989, election.

A qualified elector is an actual resident of Northville 30 days prior to the November 7, 1989, election, a citizen of the United States, and at least 18 years of age on or before the election.

The Ballot for the Regular City Election will contain the Offices of Mayor and two members of Council, as well as the following City Proposal:

"Shall the total millage assessed in any one year against all properties in the City of Northville be increased by nine-tenths (9/10) of a mill ($90 per $1,000 of State Equalized Valuation) for a period of two (2) years (1989-1990 inclusive) to be used for the construction and development of a park to be known as Northville Community Park, which millage shall not be assessed unless the voters in the Charter Township of Northville approve an identical proposition?"

and the following two State proposals in the City of Northville and the Charter Township of Northville:

PROPOSAL A
A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4c TO 4 1/4 c PER DOLLAR AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:

a. 1/2 c increase in sales/use tax,

b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes,

c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 68%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.

2) Distribute dedicated funds to school districts as provided by law.

3) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny 100% of state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

Should this proposal be adopted?

PROPOSAL B
A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/TAX FROM 4c TO 6c PER DOLLAR, REDUCE SCHOOL PROPERTY TAXES, SET PERMANENT SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGES NOT SUBJECT TO VOTER RENEWAL, AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:

a. 2c increase in sales/use tax,

b. Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes,

c. Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 75%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation.

2) Reduce property taxes in most school districts. Replace school taxes with permanent statewide millage (9 mills on residential/farm, 14 mills on businesses) plus non-voted local millage not subject to voter rollback. Limit voter approved increases to 4 mills.

3) Set per-pupil finding guarantees subject to change by law requiring 1/2 vote.

4) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny all non-guaranteed state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

Should this proposal be adopted?

Qualified persons who are unable to make personal application to register should contact the City Clerk before October 10.

Carl Johnson retires after decades in local businesses

By CRISTINA FERRIER

"It feels good — Really, it does."

That's what Carl Johnson said about retiring after 40 years as a prominent Northville business owner, best known for his real-estate business on Main Street.

And the reason he feels so good, he said, is because he knows that in all his years as a real-estate agent here, he never stepped on anyone to get to the top.

When Johnson served as president of the Schoolcraft College Board of Governors, he always told the teachers, "Look, you should spend an hour on ethics." Being truthful and honest, he said, is what got him to the top.

"And I never was sued," he added.

People he didn't even know used to stop by his office and ask him for advice about the real estate business. "Somebody said that I should come see you..." they would begin.

Before running his real-estate business, Johnson also ran Johnson's Jewelry and Gift Shop in Northville from 1946-1961 and a restaurant called The Bean Pot, which stood where the bar at MacKinnon's is now.

Johnson didn't like the restaurant business very much. One day a woman walked in and commented idly on how much she would love to have his restaurant.

Before she left, he had talked her into it.

In the early 1960s he also built 12 small brick houses on Griswold, Orchard Drive, Horton and Gray streets.

Johnson held many different positions during his business years in Northville. In addition to his position at Schoolcraft College, he also held other various titles including Rotary Club president, Merchant Retailers Association president, and vice president of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce.

Johnson served on the city's Board of Review, and he was often approached to run for office, but said that didn't suit him: "I never did want to run for councilman or mayor or anything like that."

Instead, one of the activities that gives him great pride now is his involvement with Big Brothers of America

He was a big brother to a young man who ended up going into the military, and who recently came back to visit him.

"Boy, was I proud of him," Johnson exclaimed. "If every man would belong to the Big Brothers and take a brother, there wouldn't be so much trouble in the world."

Johnson is also proud of his two daughters. "My whole family is successful," he said. One daughter, Lynn, is involved with marketing demonstrations for AT&T, and the other, Carla, is a minister.

His family recently gave him a surprise party for his retirement, and one of his daughters surprised him with a letter to the editor about him in the Northville Record two weeks ago.

Johnson and his wife, Betty, a doctor who is also retired, plan on doing a lot of traveling now. Their first trip will be around the country visiting relatives.

Then, he said, they plan to spend six months in Florida and six months "somewhere in Michigan."

That somewhere will probably be Northville, he added.

Township reviews insurance

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

While praising the work of their three-member committee, township board members said they are pleased with the insurance package presented to them.

Insurance rates for 1989-90 decreased slightly, but the number of items covered by the new plan increased — which explains the overall rate hike to $111,029 from the 1988-89 figure of $97,013. The plan was presented in August.

"We're going to pay more than the previous year, but we'll have excellent coverage," said Township Trustee James Nowka.

Interim Business Manager Richard Henningsen said the new plan is "one of the best insurance programs in the township because it was dictated by our insurance committee."

Township Insurance Committee members are Stephen Bogater, Betty

Lanphear, and Kathleen Connor.

"The insurance committee went through all of our programs and have made determinations based on their knowledge of the business," Henningsen said.

He added the bids selected by the committee were not based on competitive rates, but on the type of coverage provided for the township.

Lanphear said that in addition to providing extensive coverage for the township, the 1989-90 policy will also include any liabilities associated with 1986 or 1987.

Lanphear said in 1986 and 1987, the township had a "claims made" policy, which does not cover liabilities that occurred in those years and weren't reported right away.

Beginning in 1988, the township switched to an "occurrence" policy, which will cover the township for any claim made during or after each year.

Some areas covered in the policy are: all township property, all vehicles and trucks, professional liability of the police department, and general liability.

Lanphear said the committee began meeting in April, three months before expiration of the policy, to review prior coverage and come up with a new coverage plan.

She said the township's insurance agent is Dobson-McOmber Agency Inc., and the underwriter is Penco Co., which is part of the Hartford Group.

She noted the price of the policy increased, in part, because of an increase in premiums and township revenues.

"The price of insurance is based a lot on the township budget," Lanphear said. "And the budget was higher this year than last year."

An insurance agent for the past 20 years, Lanphear said insurance is a highly specialized field, and very few people really understand it.

Schools complete painting

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Signaling the completion of its first full cycle of school-building painting, the Northville Board of Education recently approved a bid of almost $20,000 to paint Old Village School.

The board awarded a contract to Consumer Maintenance, the lowest of four bidders for the project. Bids ranged from a low of $19,375 to a high bid of $24,000.

In a letter to board members, Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton said the district has hired Consumer Maintenance in the past with excellent results.

"They (Consumer Maintenance) are a very responsible company and one that we can highly recommend the bid be awarded to," Knighton said.

Painting Old Village ended the district's school painting cycle. Before 1981, there was no regular painting program for school-district buildings.

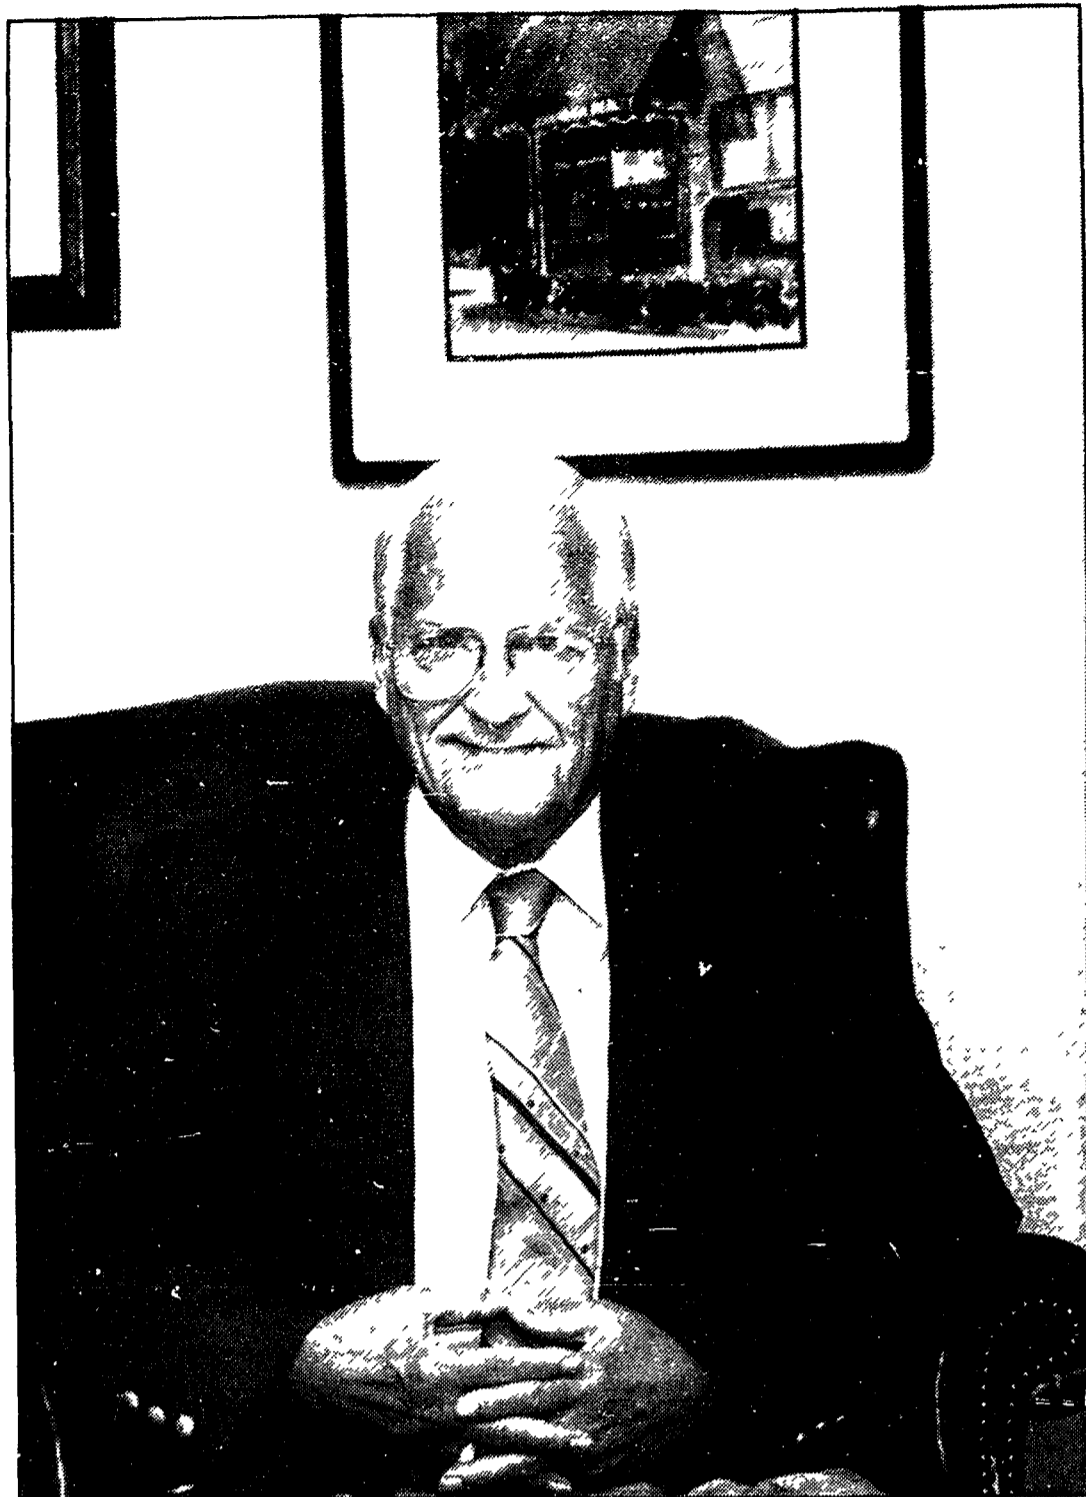

"Generally speaking, a school building needs to be repainted every seven years under normal conditions," Knighton said.

The building painting schedule is for interior painting, although Administrative Assistant Tom Bailey said exterior painting is completed when necessary.

Since it will be reopened for school use in 1990-91, Cooke School — along with the school-board offices — is set to be painted in 1990.

Following Cooke, Moraine Elementary School will be painted in 1991, Meads Mill Middle School in 1992, Northville High School in 1993, Amerman Elementary School in 1994, Silver Springs Elementary School in 1995, and Winchester Elementary School in 1996.

Wayne County guide available

Suburban Wayne County's population exceeded that of the city of Detroit in 1986, the first time that has happened in the post-World War II period.

A mid-term census showed there were 1,088,780 residents in Wayne County suburbs, compared with 1,086,220 Detroit residents.

That information and other tidbits about Wayne County and its government is contained in a newly-published League of Women Voters county guidebook.

It is the first time the league has published a county guide since 1974.

County history, government, finance, courts, social programs, public services, regional governmental authorities, and elections are discussed in successive chapters. The history of the newly-furnished Wayne County building is described in the book's appendix.

All county government departments and their functions are described.

The guide also includes maps of state, federal and county-commission election districts.

Copies of the guide can be reserved by calling the Northville-Canton-Plymouth-Nowi League of Women Voters chapter, 349-3555, or the Livonia chapter, 476-8846.

The project was financed, in part, through a grant from the Michigan Council for the Humanities.

REGISTRATION NOTICE FOR THE SPECIAL STATEWIDE ELECTION AND THE REGULAR CITY ELECTION TO BE HELD ON TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1989

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the qualified electors of the City of Novi that the City Clerk's Office will be open from 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM EDT, on the last day for qualified persons to make application for voter registration for the NOVEMBER 7, 1989, SPECIAL STATEWIDE ELECTION AND THE REGULAR CITY ELECTION.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1989

The Ballot for this SPECIAL STATEWIDE ELECTION is being held for the purpose of voting on the following two proposals to amend the Constitution of the State of Michigan:

PROPOSAL A
A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4 CENTS TO 4 1/2 CENTS PER DOLLAR AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
  - a 1/2 cent increase in sales/use tax,
  - Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes,
  - Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 68%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation
- 2) Distribute dedicated funds to school districts as provided by law
- 3) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny 100% of state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans

SHOULD THIS PROPOSAL BE ADOPTED?

PROPOSAL B
A PROPOSAL TO INCREASE THE SALES/USE TAX FROM 4 CENTS TO 6 CENTS PER DOLLAR, REDUCE SCHOOL PROPERTY TAXES, SET PERMANENT SCHOOL OPERATING MILLAGES NOT SUBJECT TO VOTER RENEWAL, AND CONSTITUTIONALLY DEDICATE FUNDS FOR LOCAL SCHOOLS.

The proposed constitutional amendment would:

- 1) Constitutionally dedicate to schools:
  - a 2 cent increase in sales/use tax
  - Current statutory revenue sources, including lottery profits and some cigarette/liquor taxes,
  - Increased share of existing sales/use tax (51% to 75%) to substantially replace annual school appropriation
- 2) Reduce property taxes in most school districts. Replace school taxes with permanent statewide millage (9 mills on residential/farm, 14 mills on businesses) plus non-voted local millage not subject to voter rollback. Limit voter-approved increases to 4 mills.
- 3) Set per-pupil funding guarantees subject to change by law requiring 2/3 vote.
- 4) Activate increased statutory penalty to deny all non-guaranteed state funds to schools not adopting core curriculum and improvement plans.

SHOULD THIS PROPOSAL BE ADOPTED?

THE REGULAR CITY ELECTION is for the purpose of electing a mayor and three members of City Council and for voting on the following two proposals to amend the Charter of the City of Novi:

CHARTER AMENDMENT PROPOSITION 1
Shall Section 9.1 of the Novi Charter be amended so as to raise the limit on annual, general ad valorem property tax levy for establishing and maintaining parks and recreation purpose from one-half cent (1/2 mill) to one-tenth of one percent (1 mill)?

CHARTER AMENDMENT 1 EXPLANATION
The current Charter provides that the annual, general ad valorem property tax levy for establishing and maintaining parks and recreation purposes shall not exceed one-half cent (1/2 mill). The proposed Charter amendment will raise that limit to one-tenth of one percent (1 mill).

CHARTER AMENDMENT PROPOSITION 2
Shall Section 12.1 of the Novi Charter be amended so as to provide that the City Council shall establish by Ordinance those sales or purchases which must be approved by the City Council, and those sales or purchases which shall require the solicitation of sealed bids?

CHARTER AMENDMENT 2 EXPLANATION
The current Charter states that City Council must approve sales or purchases in excess of $1,500.00, and that the City Council must approve sales or purchases in excess of $3,000.00 based upon formal sealed bids. The proposed Charter amendment will require such monetary limitations to be established by Ordinance of the City Council.

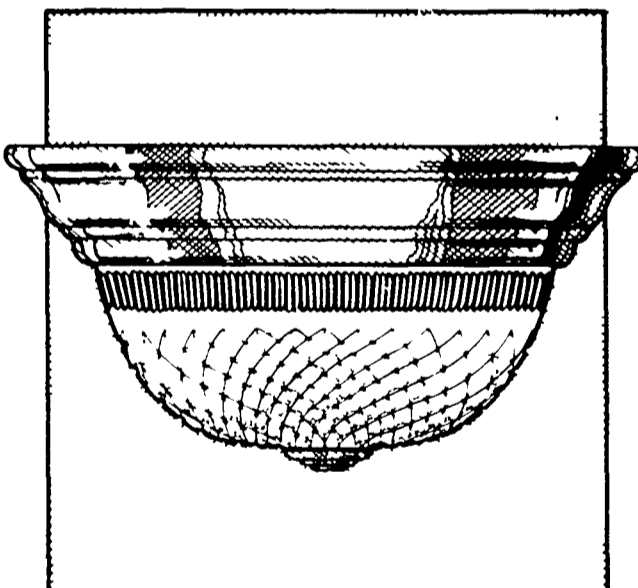

Qualified persons who are unable to make personal application to register should contact the City Clerk by October 10, 1989. Applications for Absent Voter Ballots are available at the Clerk's Office.

Special program purifies water at Blue Heron

By LISA FELICELLI

A new storm water management program is protecting the environment and benefiting residents at an exclusive Northville Township condominium community that was once a 68-acre gravel pit.

Developers of Blue Heron Pointe, near Six Mile and Beck Roads, instituted the new program to accent Blue Heron Lake's high water quality.

"The water is the common element here," said Earl LeFave, one of the three principal developers of the lakeside condominium community. "Every condo resident has direct access to the lake, and we're making sure that it's protected from impurities."

LeFave added that the developers worked with the Department of Natural Resources — instead of against it — to install the program.

Dennis Parks, also a principal developer of Blue Heron Pointe, explained that the new system operates by piping storm water from catch basins into large tanks beneath the surface rather than directly into the lake.

"Impurities such as dirt and silt filter through the tanks, which are divided into different areas of the lake, before the storm water enters the lake itself," Parks said.

He added that spreading a number of tanks out beneath the water's surface insures one tank will not be in-taking more impurities than it can handle.

"It's a whole filtering system that has become a part of nature," Parks said.

The developers tried not to disturb the natural wildlife preserve in the Blue Heron Pointe community when they began building the condominiums.

"We've added a boardwalk leading through the wetlands which allows residents to observe the birds, fish, and small animals living there without disturbing them," LeFave said.

"Impurities such as dirt and silt filter through the tanks, which are divided into different areas of the lake, before the storm water enters the lake itself."

Dennis Parks
Blue Heron developer

To further protect the environment, they regulate the amount of fertilizers and pesticides used on the lawns.

"We use an organic product which doesn't carry a high number of phosphates," Parks said.

Before Blue Heron Pointe became a condominium community, the Northville Sand and Gravel Company used the 68-acre parcel for gravel mining operations. The gravel pit closed in the mid 1950s.

"Because of the clean, clear water already inherent at the lake and the remoteness of the area, the site became known as a good place for teenagers to party and swim," Parks explained.

Blue Heron Pointe residents today can still enjoy splashing in the quality-controlled waters of the lake. Non-motorized boating, fishing and ice skating are also popular.

"Lifestyle over the actual product — the home itself — is becoming sought more and more by today's real-estate shoppers," LeFave said. "Homeowners are looking for a leisurely lifestyle, and here a big part of that means the lake. We intend to protect it for a long time to come."

VFW sponsors student script contest

"Why I am Proud of America" is the theme of the 43rd annual Voice of Democracy script-writing program being sponsored locally by Northville VFW Post 4012 and its Ladies Auxiliary.

The Voice of Democracy

Scholarship Program, open to 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students, offers local, district, and national recognition and awards with the top national award being an $18,000 scholarship. Local students interested in participating may contact local chairperson Bob Schmidt at 349-8448.

Participating students may record their scripts on cassette tapes. The recorded script must be at least three minutes but not over five minutes in length.

Deadline for entries in the local competition is Nov. 1. Tapes will be judged for content, originality, and delivery.

The winner from Michigan will receive a five-day, all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C.

Motor homes eyed

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Residents who park motor homes and boats outside their homes will be able to do so a little longer.

That's because the township planning commission has recommended approval of a new ordinance to the township board, but noted an amendment will need to be added before it is adopted.

The proposed ordinance allows residents to keep motor homes or boats 24 feet in length and under in the side and rear yards of their home.

Also, recreational equipment can be parked in the front yard for a maximum of 24 hours to load and unload the vehicle.

Both of these provisions apply to all residentially zoned plots measuring two acres and under.

Township Planning Director Carol Maise said having the ordinance apply to homes in R-3 (residential) districts presents the problem.

Maise said planners are concerned that since R-3 districts have the densest housing, the ordinance will not address the district adequately.

"With smaller lots such as the Maple Hill and Lakes of Northville subdivisions, the motor home is more apparent because it is closer in the side yard," she said.

Maise said the recreational-vehicle ordinance will go before the township board and then come back to the planning commission for revision.

Our Opinions

Leak handled well, but it shouldn't have happened

An accident typically brings out the best in people, and last week's gas leak at the MainCentre construction site was no exception. The near-immediate response of firefighters and Consumers Power officials to the scene was impressive, as witnessed from the second story of The Northville Record building on Main Street. Members of the Northville Record and Novi News team had front-row seats to the drama unfolding to our south.

No sooner had the staff noticed the scent of gas in the air, and confirmed that it was not from our own building, than city police units and fire trucks arrived on the scene. Crowd control and the rerouting of traffic around the closed section of Center Street was handled in a professional manner.

Because the leak was in the open, rather than confined to a building, there was little danger of explosion, according to a spokesperson for Consumers Power, the utility company responsible for the gas line. The spokesperson also downplayed the seriousness of the incident, saying such accidents are relatively common during construction.

However, there are serious questions here about why the line was punctured. It does not matter whether the responsibility lies with the construction workers, for using a backhoe too close to the gas line; or of the power company, for failing to properly mark the line's location; or a little of both. The accident should not have happened, and the town is lucky there were no serious consequences.

According to a Consumers Power worker, a similar incident in South Lyon 10 years ago nearly claimed the lives of two people. In that case, a contractor punctured a gas main in the heart of the city. During the repair process, a spark ignited the gas leaking from the pipe, resulting in a serious fire, and requiring the evacuation of at least one building.

According to a spokesperson for Miss Dig — the service that notifies utility companies when contractors are preparing to excavate in an area — diggers are only supposed to use hand tools when working within 18 inches of a utility line. Whether the construction crew at the corner of Main and Center broke that rule or not is uncertain; only the operator of the backhoe knows for sure.

It is the responsibility of contractors to realize that their actions can impact an entire town, and of the utility company workers to mark their lines accurately when called upon to do so. Expediency in the name of progress is more than a simple vice. Though this incident was little more than a successful exercise in crowd control for Northville City emergency personnel, it could have turned into a disaster.

W. Main Street proposal will be boon to the town

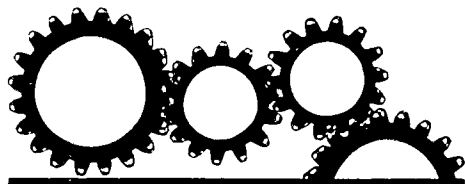

Something which some city officials have desired for years took a major step toward reality Monday night.

Glenn and James Long, who bought the old Phil's 76 site on Main Street when Phil's moved to Gerald Avenue, came before the city council with a fascinating proposal. The Longs want to trade part of the old Phil's site and a lot on Cady Street to the city for the front edge of the parking lot north of Main and east of Wing. If and when that happens, the Longs plan to develop a three-story retail / office building on their land.

This trade -- and the project -- are a good deal for all concerned, and the city is doing well to move ahead with negotiations.

Developing that strip of land — fronting Main between Northville Travel and Wing Street — has long been a goal for the city. It is a completely ideal place to expand the downtown shopping offerings. It is not an expansion of the downtown's physical limits, since the development will replace parking area and a gas station. At the same time, it is an expansion of the available retail space, something which needs to happen if the Central Business District is going to continue to thrive and attract new patrons. For Northville as a whole and the downtown business community in particular, this expansion of space will be a very positive move.

The community will also benefit from the improved appearance of the area. Not to say anything against Phil's, but with the 1978 redevelopment of downtown, a gas station just didn't fit on that corner. It didn't look right. And the parking lot position has always seemed like a waste of good Main Street frontage. The Long plan should be a big boost to the appearance of West Main.

Development

There are other aspects to consider. At first glance, it might sound like this will mean the loss of some prime parking spaces for the city. That's not really the case, however. The city will lose a strip of parking along Main, but it will gain some land at the back of the old Phil's site in exchange. In addition to this, the long-planned reconfiguration of that lot will help make up for any lost parking and possibly increase the overall capacity of the lot.

In addition, since the land the city is giving up is more valuable than that which the Longs are giving up, the city gets an added bonus: a lot on Cady. The city has been steadily acquiring property on Cady in preparation for the impending redevelopment in that area. Getting one more lot in the city's strip of land only improves the outlook for Cady.

Finally, this deal should improve the city's commercial tax base. The Long development will be a nice addition to the taxable land in the city. Beyond that, improving the chances for development on Cady make that land much more likely to add to the tax base in the near future.

There are no real disadvantages to this plan and a host of advantages. The council quickly moved Monday to start the negotiation ball rolling, and that was a good step. This plan will do a lot for the city.

Work habits

By Tim Richard

As a farm boy, John Engler learned the lesson: Do your chores in the morning, and you have time to play football in those golden afternoons.

Now majority leader of the Michigan Senate, Engler, 41, is applying the lesson to government.

The Senate wrapped up its work in the first six months of the year. In September, it started its session a full week later than the House of Representatives, and the Senate leadership plans to meet only once a week while the House is scheduling three sessions.

For it, Engler is taking a bad rap: Gov. James Blanchard and the House Democratic leadership accuse him and the Senate of not paying attention to work.

"Look at our calendar," Engler said in reply.

So I looked. It was empty. Just a few conference committees were meeting. No bills from standing committees. No items on special orders.

No appointments by the governor to be confirmed.

And no sense in the world meeting two or three days a week.

"The House has scheduled sessions," Engler went on, "but some of them are only 15 minutes long."

I checked him out again. On a Wednesday afternoon, I dropped in on the House of Representatives, whose session started at 2 p.m.

By 2:14 representatives were scattering. Engler was quite literally correct.

There was one item of special interest to the graying section of suburbia with its AARP members. It was a "living will" bill giving legal status to an individual's written wishes about medical care in the event of an incapacitating illness.

The House had rejected it in May. The sponsor got it reconsidered on "special orders" Sept. 20.

An amendment of dubious parliamentary legality was added.

The sponsor argued it wasn't germane and should be thrown out by the speaker. A week later, the speaker hadn't ruled, and the opposing parties were reportedly "negotiating" their differences.

You wish to Gitchee Manitou these reps would vote it up or vote it down and be done with it.

But the House works like labor negotiators: Let things ride for weeks, ram stuff through during an all-night bargaining session, and hope the other guy is so exhausted and disgusted he'll agree to anything just to get the heck out of there.

Anyway, Engler was correct: If the House had done its chores early, it wouldn't need this unimpressive list of fall sessions. It's just as well sessions are few and short in the Michigan Legislature.

The State Capitol Building, an edifice I frankly had never admired, is being restored — that's a much better word than remodelled, because a lot of the old beauty is being rediscovered above the drop ceilings and decades of paint.

The Senate's temporary quarters I described last summer. The House's quarters are worse — a ground-floor room in a nearby office building where ceiling pipes and dusty beams are exposed.

One rural representative remarked that if the Agriculture Department were to inspect, it would be declared unfit for cows.

There is talk every so often of a part-time Legislature amendment to the state constitution — allowing it to meet only a few months of the year and paying lawmakers accordingly.

Engler has a better idea: Just do your chores promptly and then you can enjoy those golden autumn afternoons.

Peaks & valleys

Latecomers will be seated at a time when it doesn't disturb everyone else.

As for children, the UMS says they should be able to sit quietly in their own seats throughout the performance. Children who don't measure up, will be asked to leave . . . and take their parents with them.

Hoo-boy. I told you this was good stuff. How many times have you had a play or concert ruined by the Bozos who arrive late and force everyone to stand up as they struggle to find their seats? How many times have you had a play or concert ruined by unruly children whose parents refuse to discipline them?

The UMS is also taking a stand against coughing. A handkerchief placed over the mouth when coughing assists in obtaining a "pianissimo," suggests the UMS. What's more, cough drops are available in the lobby during performances.

And electronic beepers? The UMS doesn't like them either. Everyone will be happy if they are turned off or suppressed during performances, says the UMS.

I don't go to a lot of concerts, but I like the rules being set down by the University Musical Society. In fact, I think the rules should be declared international law by the United Nations and made to apply to all public places.

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

I'd like to say something nice about the University Musical Society — the group that schedules concerts and other cultural events over at the University of Michigan.

What's got me feeling good about this venerable organization is that there's a definite undercurrent of militancy in its latest press release. Now don't get me wrong. The UMS is still being very polite and courteous. But it's also cracking down on people who are not as polite and courteous.

For example, the latest UMS press release sets forth some very firm policies on Starting Times and Children. Performances start on time, says the UMS.

Bus policy not in students' interests

To the editor:

I feel you should examine the facts more closely prior to issuing a statement of support for the Northville school board's recent "tough decision" surrounding the Moraine School busing controversy.

In essence, the board chose to ignore factual evidence of major safety hazards to school children, and also chose to ignore a perfectly viable resolution to the problems. The proposal of a new bus route through the affected subdivisions added two bus stops to the total number already approved by the school district, and would have increased the expense to the district not one penny. According to several polls done by the parents' group, the bulk of the parents felt their safety concerns would be resolved should the new route (and stops) be approved by the board.

The parents also approached both (Superintendent) Dr. (George) Bell and the board with the request for a full-time crossing guard at the overpass, in the event the change in the busing plan was not approved. Dr. Bell's rationale, as expressed, was that, in the first six weeks of the school year, the children's behavior patterns could be fixed and established to the point that adult supervision at the entrance and exit to the overpass would not be necessary.

Neither the logic nor the claim of non-justifiable expense are sound. Most parents and most teachers can tell you the children will follow directions to the letter until the adults are not there to enforce. At that point, all "established behavior patterns" are out the window and children dare and double-dare each other into trouble.

At various times throughout the summer Dr. Bell promised different things to various forums, the school board included. Many of the promises he had no business making, as he had no grounds for making them. His assurances were misleading and contrived in many instances.

One very vivid example can be seen in his publicly stating that the pedestrian overpass was the safest way for walking students to arrive at school. In August, he told parents and the school board that he had a structural engineering report that indicated the overpass was not risky for the children to use. I made a Freedom of Information Act request to Dr. Bell for a copy of that report, and was informed by him that his most recent engineer's report was at least two years old, but that he had had a school district maintenance person give him a positive report in 1988. Following my confrontation with him on this issue just prior to school opening, an area engineering firm was commissioned by Dr. Bell for a current inspection and report of safety of the structure.

While this report does certify that the structure is sound for use, it also suggests many repairs and component replacements, the total cost of which exceeds $10,000. When that figure is added to the school district's share of the newly installed sidewalks leading to the entrance of the overpass (over $3,000), the expense of an adult crossing guard pales by comparison.

The school board has refused to entertain deliberation on a motion to modify the district busing policy twice this year; both times largely due to Dr. Bell's telling them that they are not required to support, deliberate, and vote on any motion / business coming from the floor at an open board meeting. The board has given the definite impression that the policy of no bus stops closer than a half mile from the school is etched in stone; no exceptions, no matter what the justification.

It appears to the taxpayers living in the three affected subdivisions that Dr. Bell's arbitrary stance on this issue is a blatant example of fiscal irresponsibility, and gives rise to questions of the wisdom of supporting the upcoming millage proposal. One also should question the propriety of the board blindly following Dr. Bell's lead, rather than the reverse. This may indeed have been a tough decision for the board to face, sadly, I feel they made the wrong decision.

Data needed

To the editor:

Your newspaper has regularly reported on the deliberations and evaluations that the Northville School District has undertaken before concluding that the proposed $16-million bond issue was the correct solution to current and future facility needs for the district. However, it certainly would be appreciated if the Record would provide its readers with a comprehensive, objective assessment of the resources that the district already has available so that voters could individually decide if the debt issue is really justified.

My information is limited to the following reports from your paper in recent months:

1. The 1989-90 salary increase was "limited" to 7 percent for the superintendent and other administrators, according to your June 29 report. Contracts for those individuals are tied to the increase in property assessments. However, the contract provides for a "cap" in the event of large increases like the 15-20 percent experienced in the district in the last year. Why don't we have a contract for these individuals that more closely parallels increases in industry? The Wall Street Journal repeatedly reports that increases for executives have averaged closer to 5 percent over the last year. And why is the SEV the basis for the increase instead of measurable performance criteria? The dollars involved in the increase are insignificant to the issue; the question is how effectively does the district use existing funds?

2. A recent report in the Record of the ten largest commercial taxpayers in Northville Township clearly demonstrates that our local municipal units (city, township and the district) are allowing inconsistencies in assessed valuations. A significant amount of the increased numbers of students must be a result of the growth of apartment and condominium projects within the district. The data that you reported certainly raises an obvious question about the adequacy of increases passed along to these property owners:

TAXPAYER	PERCENT INCREASE 1989 vs. 1988
Consumers Power	4.4
Meijer	7.3
Swan Harbour Apartments	0

The report also stated that the Kings Mill Cooperative had a total SEV increase from the prior year of $3,000, which would mean virtually no tax increase from the previous year.

The quality of our district is obviously important to families that move into those properties that provide housing units. I doubt that the value and therefore, the tax revenue for these units has been fully realized.

3. The type of needs that are to be addressed by the bond issue can be satisfied either through operating millage revenues or by a special assessment. Obviously, the district has decided that the needs can not be met with existing operating revenues. However, when I experience a 17-percent increase in the most recent tax billing over the same bill of one year ago, I quickly concluded that we have already made a significant commitment.

If reviewed this way, I would expect other taxpayers would also question whether they too have already provided enough support.

I am a strong advocate of education and the significance it has on our current and future capabilities. I am an equally strong advocate of accountability for resources that have already been committed to this area. I believe the Record would do its readers and local taxpayers a service by providing more in-depth reporting of these issues, reporting not only the proposals but also an evaluation and report of the merits of the issues.

John P. O'Reilly

Support bonds

To the editor:

The Northville Record has enthusiastically supported the Planning Team process that occurred in the Northville School system during the last school year.

Now it is time to "step up to the line" and determine whether the citizens of Northville really support excellence in the schools. It is easy to supply rhetoric, to hold meetings and to convene committees. Now it is time to implement one of our action planning steps. This implementation will call for a supporting vote for the Bond Issue which will be on the Oct. 5 ballot.

The Northville community is growing and prospering, but it will not continue to grow and prosper without excellence in its schools. I urge you all to support the Bond Issue.

Walks necessary

To the editor:

Your recent coverage on the sidewalk controversy was very informative. It is not surprising that those affected would turn out in force to protest, with two or more representatives per household. Asking these irate residents their opinion is like asking those on "death row" theirs on capital punishment. A poll of all homeowners would portray the real feelings on this subject.

I don't believe these objectors desire sidewalks at any expense, even if installed free of cost. Some seem to claim their rights to the curbside. I recall years ago a resident who prominently displayed a "keep off the grass" sign only a few feet from the roadside, and definitely on the right-of-way area.

For the most part, our council (members) are a dedicated group doing their best for an entire city. Hopefully their decision is based on convictions rather than votes threatened by some. There are votes on the other side of this issue, too, so it should balance out.

Lots of questions need answering. Is it morally right, if even legal, to construct only one sidewalk on a given street, forcing and making that side totally liable for all upkeep and possible lawsuits? The neighbor without a sidewalk would be first to sue if their child was injured on any unfortunate neighbor's walk across the street. Is the city ready to assume some responsibility if it is their decision to favor one side of a street and discriminate against the other? Has the city worked out a formula regarding future repairs, or even the expenses with ongoing or scheduled repairs where only one sidewalk exists at present?

As you rightfully pointed out in an editorial of Sept. 14, the majority of homeowners have already paid their dues one way or another. Many have sincerely kept up repairs for decades; many have not, but compliments to those with a long history of expenses of upkeep.

This is Northville almost 1990, not 1950. We need good sidewalks everywhere, whether by repair or new installations.

Bridge opening?

To the editor:

Now that the 1989-1990 Northville Downs racing season is almost upon us, the residents of Beal Town anxiously await the opening of the south lane of the Beal Street bridge. Closed for the summer, so residents cannot use it, priorities of racetrack goers will, I assume, again see its opening.

The bridge was closed after the racetrack season the spring of '88 and remained closed for the summer. In the fall of '88 the south lane of the bridge was opened for the racetrack season. In the spring of '89 the bridge was again closed and remained closed this summer. Therefore, we are looking at its opening and closure for two seasons.

Residents of Beal Town do use this bridge for access to Griswold and Main Streets and do not feel that racetrack goers should set the precedence on who is allowed to use the south lane.

A Northville Record article of Aug. 18, 1988 quotes a memo from city engineers McNeely & Lincoln Associates explaining the damage: "We have examined the Beal Street bridge and have found that a section of the deck has failed. The portions of the deck which have not failed are severely cracked with evidence of dissolved concrete masonry at many of the deck and wall cracks." I assume the portion of deck that has not failed is the south lane. Even after this examination and findings of the city engineers, the city felt that this south lane was structurally safe for the heavy racetrack traffic. If so, why close the bridge to summer traffic?

We are upon the second season of once again opening the bridge to racetrack traffic. Is the city so sure that the south lane hasn't deteriorated more and can hold the heavy racetrack traffic? Wouldn't the city be liable if this bridge were to collapse and an accident occur after these repeated closures and openings?

Food for thought, will the Beal Street bridge open again?

Beal Town Residents' Association

Seniors thank

To the editor:

The Seniors of Northville High School would like to thank the Women's National Farm and Garden Association, Northville branch, for landscaping our Senior Courtyard. When we all returned to the hill this September, we were amazed at the change and proud to call the courtyard our own. The bushes and planters look wonderful and we all plan to take care of their contribution for next year's seniors. Thank you once again for your support.

Detroit Polo Club upgrades facilities in Milford

By STEPHANIE FRANIA

Tucked quietly away down a small lane off Milford Road is a large-scale operation which attracts visitors from throughout the United States.

The Detroit Polo Club, established in 1961, moved to its current home at 2770 North Milford Road in 1972. Members themselves built the first horse barns.

As the popularity of the club grew, so did the need for upgraded facilities. Recently, a large barn and training center which houses about 75 stalls were completed on the grounds.

What attracts people to this sport, which can be traced back to 400 B.C.? "I like the people. It's fun," said Scott Campbell, a professional polo player from West Palm Beach, Fla., who taught polo lessons at the club throughout the summer.

"I thought it would be quiet (at the Detroit club)," Campbell remembered. "But it's totally opposite of what I thought it would be."

In addition to the new training center, extensive landscaping and beautification projects, including construction of new polo grounds, have been completed at the site. The clubhouse has been remodeled and completed as well.

"We redid the clubhouse which created better (dressing) rooms for the players," said Campbell. The remodeling also created a more comfortable, elegant atmosphere in which fans and players can convene after matches.

An equestrian center featuring a large, covered arena and Grand Prix jumping course is currently being developed on the 90-plus acres adjacent to the club by Jerry Spitzer.

Spitzer, who not only plays at the club, but is also the chairman of marketing, membership and fundraising.

These renovations point out the fact that the popularity of polo is indeed growing. The reasons for this ever-increasing popular sport are numerous.

"I thought it would be quiet (at the Detroit club). But it's totally opposite of what I thought it would be."

— Scott Campbell

It may be the excitement of spending a breezy Sunday afternoon, sipping champagne as you enjoy a particularly close chukker (chukkers are polo periods).

Maybe it is the sheer power of an especially hard swing of the bamboo mallet hit by a determined player.

For some, it is simply the camaraderie they share and enjoy with other polo fans.

For whatever reason, polo is becoming more well-known throughout the United States. Members of the Detroit Polo Club have enjoyed the increased popularity.

In the polo club program, Merle R. Jenkins, president of the club, expressed the members' satisfaction with increased popularity.

"One thing that has not changed is our pleasure at seeing you, our fans, and the desire of all of us to tell you about our sport, which is indeed our way of life."

Not only is the Detroit Polo Club a site for Sunday-afternoon matches, but also it is a training center for polo horses.

Training horses to play polo takes from two months to two years, according to Campbell.

"If he isn't playing in two years, you might as well forget it," he explained.

In training his horses, Campbell uses timed-riding drills as well as "working the horse in circles," he said.

"The object is to be able to put the rein over the horse's neck," continued Campbell. "A good horse will have a naturally good mouth."

Currently, there are 21 members of the club, with five new members joining, according to Campbell.

Detroit teams have won the National Delegates Cup and the U.S.P.A. Copper Cup.

As more horses are trained and interest continues to increase, little doubt exists the Detroit Polo Club will maintain its respected status in midwest polo.

Auto leasing vs. auto ownership: Which is best alternative?

While scanning the automobile ads, you suddenly find an offer that's hard to refuse: You can lease the car of your dreams, with no money down and monthly payments you can actually afford. Should you take the plunge?

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you had better test the water before you dive in.

Leasing may seem especially enticing now that the deduction for interest charged on automobile loans has dwindled to 20 percent. But beware — hidden in the depths of many leasing agreements are snags as sharp as a shark's tooth.

THE LURE OF LEASING: In the long run, leasing a car almost always costs more than purchasing one. After all, when the lease is done, you generally own nothing. But the up-front costs can make leasing practically irresistible to anyone struggling to gather funds for a down payment.

Bill, for example, wants to buy a new sports car with a sticker price of $20,000. To do so, he can put 20 percent down, or $4,000, and finance the remainder with a three-to-five-year auto loan with an interest cost of 10 to 12 percent a year.

Money Management

On the other hand, he can lease the very same car, with some extra features, by making a refundable deposit of a few hundred dollars and paying the first month's payment. What's more, the monthly payment on the lease is about $100 less than he would pay on an automobile loan.

Although the specific terms of leasing agreements differ between dealers, you will usually pay only a minimal amount of money up front. As in Bill's case, your monthly payments will generally run less than those you would have to make on an automobile loan. The end result is that leasing often enables you to get more car for less money. Or so it seems.

HOW LEASING WORKS: The reason for the so-called generosity of leasing agreements is simple to understand, but easy to overlook.

When you lease a car for five years, you are basically paying for the car's depreciation, the difference between what the car sells for today and what the dealer expects the car to sell for by the time your lease expires.

For instance, a $20,000 car may be worth only $7,000 in five years. In this instance, the lessee would have to pay for the car's depreciation of $13,000, plus such extras as the leasing company's interest fees and mark-up.

Given the rationale behind leasing agreements, it's not surprising that many companies are quick to offer bargain leases on cars with very high resale value. Since the depreciation is moderate, they can afford to be generous.

YOUR LEASING OPTIONS: If you decide to take the plunge and lease a car, pay special attention to the terms of your leasing agreement. Basically, you will have to decide between two types of agreements — open-end and closed-end.

When a closed-end lease expires, you generally toss over the keys and walk away from the car. The company can then sell the car and collect the profit — or absorb the loss. Neither event will affect you since you will no longer have any financial interest in the car.

On the other hand, when an open-end lease expires, you must purchase the car for a price written into the agreement. You can then turn around and sell the car yourself, ask the leasing company to sell it or trade it in for a newer model.

One advantage of open-end leases is that if the car's resale value is greater than what was originally anticipated, the profit ends up in your pocket — and not the leasing company's. But if the resale value has dropped, the loss is yours alone to bear.

WATCH OUT FOR SNAGS: What makes leasing so tricky are the provisions written into the agreement's fine print — which too many consumers merely skim.

Most leasing companies, for instance, require you to return the car in "good condition," less ordinary "wear and tear." Make sure you find out whether your definition of these terms differs from the leasing company's before you sign any papers. Otherwise, you could end up owing the dealer some steep fees when the lease expires.

Another potential drawback of leasing is, in essence, a surcharge on "excessive mileage." Most leases allow you to log 12,000 to 15,000 miles a year. But once you exceed these limits, you will have to pay a per-mile fee of six to 12 cents.

Sara, for instance, leased a car from a company that allowed 12,000 miles a year with a 10-cent surcharge for each additional mile. But by the end of her five-year lease, Sara had logged some 75,000 miles — 15,000 miles more than the specified limit. As a result, she had to pay the leasing company an additional $1,500.

Another snag to watch out for is the "early-termination" penalty you might have to pay if you decide to end a leasing agreement prematurely. Many companies will also charge you additional fees if your car is stolen or seriously damaged in a car accident. The fees are designed to cover the difference between the balance on your lease and the insurance company's reimbursement.

Let's say that a $30,000 car is stolen after the first year of the lease. The insurance company's reimbursement covers the depreciated value of the car, which is about 25,000. But you still owe $27,000 on the lease. You may be held liable for the $2,000 difference.

One way to avoid this scenario is by making a one-time payment for "gap" insurance when you lease a car.

Most leasing companies would like you to believe that the number one benefit of leasing is cost-savings.

While there are several good reasons to consider leasing, saving money is usually not one of them. When all is said and done, CPAs say that buying a car almost always makes more financial sense than leasing one.

Marriott adds 150 local jobs

The opening of the new Marriott Hotel in Livonia this fall will add 150 jobs to the local economy.

The full-service hotel is nearing completion at Laurel Park, Six Mile and Newburgh. Located at 17100 Laurel Park Drive North, the six-story, full-service hotel has 227 guest rooms and is expected to serve about 60,000 guests annually.

Besides the front entrance facing south, the Marriott also has an entrance opening into the Laurel Park mall giving guests direct access to restaurants, stores, a health fitness spa, theaters and other extras without having to go outside.

General Manager Ron Shiflett has been assigned by Marriott Corp. to open and operate its new hotel here.

Before arriving in Livonia, Shiflett, a nine-year Marriott veteran, was resident manager at Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort in Illinois and was regional director of the firm's midwest operations, which included 18 hotels in eight states.

Michael Ciesla, sous chef for the Boston Marriott in Burlington, Mass., has been bought into the Livonia Marriott as executive chef. Ciesla, who spent three years as food production manager for the Austin (Tex.) Airport Marriott, earned a culinary arts degree from the Culinary Institute of America and has an associate's degree in occupational science.

"Marriott strongly believes in Michigan's economy," said Shiflett. "We believe this state has been one of the best markets in the country for our service-oriented company."

The hotel will include a full-service restaurant seating 75, a lounge seating 50, an indoor pool, exercise facilities, a ballroom and free parking for 350 cars, including some covered spaces in a deck on the north side.

Seven meeting rooms will offer more than 3,900 square feet of space for groups from three to 300 people. All but one of the rooms are on the lobby level.

The Livonia facility is one of the few Marriott hotels in the country located on the same site as a Courtyard by Marriott, a moderate-priced hotel owned by the corporation.

The corporation also owns Residence Inn, an extended-stay lodging facility; Fairfield Inn (the nearest at I-275 and Ford in Canton) which offers economy lodging; Marriott Vacation Ownership Resorts, which operates time-sharing condominiums in Orlando and Hilton Head Island; and Marriott Suites hotels.

BBB booklet offers advice

In the past two decades, financial planning has evolved into a multi-billion dollar industry with thousands of advisors who plan and manage investors' finances.

To help consumers select a reputable financial planner who meets their needs, the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan has released a booklet titled "Tips on Financial Planners."

The booklet is the latest in the BBB's Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest. Copies of the new booklet can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the BBB at 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226.

"Consumers should not take the process of looking for a financial planner lightly," said Detroit BBB President Thomas F. Ashcraft.

"The booklet gives advice on what to look for and what to avoid when selecting a financial planner."

Business Briefs

HOWARD L. DOW III

LOIS A. EHLE

HOWARD L. DOW III of Northville has been appointed executive director of regulatory affairs for Michigan Consolidated Gas Company.

Dow joined MichCon in 1979 in the Rates and Regulatory Affairs Activity. He was named manager of rate applications in 1982 and director of Michigan regulation in 1984. In 1985, Dow was appointed executive director of corporate planning, a position which he held until his current appointment.

Dow earned a bachelor of science degree in Business Administration from Central Michigan University in 1976 and is a licensed certified public accountant. He and his wife, Lori, have three children.

MichCon is a natural gas distribution company serving more than one million customers in 440 communities throughout Michigan, and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of MCN Corporation.

LOIS A. EHLE of Northville has been named a principal of Touche Ross. The announcement was made by Daniel J. Kelly, chairman of the board of Touche Ross in the United States and group managing partner of The Michigan Practice.

Ehle, a certified public accountant, formerly was a senior manager in the audit department. As a principal of the firm, she will continue her career in the Audit Department and retain her position as Director of Long-Term Care Services for the Michigan Practice of Touche Ross.

Ehle's present responsibilities include the management and supervision of the firm's long-term care practice in Michigan. She currently directs and works for over 50 long-term care clients.

Ehle is a summa cum laude graduate of Central Michigan University, where she earned her bachelor of science degree in business administration in 1977. She joined Touche Ross in 1987.

She is a CPA representative on the Financing Quality Care Committee for the Health Care Association of Michigan, a member of the Public Policy Committee of the Michigan Non-Profit Homes Association, and Chairman of the Long-Term Care Committee for the Healthcare Financial Management Association. In addition, Ehle is a member of the National Health Lawyers Association, the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants and the American Institute for Certified Public Accountants.

Touche Ross, founded in Detroit over 40 years ago, provides comprehensive accounting and auditing, tax advisory and management consulting services throughout the United States.

CANNON HEARING AID SERVICE of Northville has been appointed an authorized dispenser of Memorex Hearing Instruments and related products. The appointment was announced by James McFarland, vice president of the Hearing Instruments Group of TCI, Inc.

The introduction of Memorex Hearing Instruments marks the entrance of a consumer recognized brand name into the hearing aid retail market place, said McFarland.

Cannon Hearing Aid Service is located at 224 South Main in Northville. It joins a growing number of authorized Memorex dispensers nationwide, committed to providing the hearing impaired with quality product and service at convenient locations.

TOM BOGOS has been added to the staff of Red Carpet Keim, Carol Mason Inc. as a Realtor Associate.

Bogos brings an extensive background of paralegal and business experience to the position. His educational background includes a BA degree in Political Science from the University of Detroit in 1978.

Carol Mason, Broker, said she is pleased to have someone with Mr. Bogos education and background on her staff.

PAULA DOWNEY

ANNA FOURNIER

PAULA DOWNEY of Northville has been named Director of Financial Services at AAA Michigan. Downey will be in charge of the investment area along with the AAA/VISA and American Express Travelers Cheques financial programs.

She joined AAA Michigan in 1973 and worked in Claims and Finance. She became Unit Manager of Financial Reporting in 1982 and Area Manager of Financial Planning and Analysis in 1985.

A 1981 University of Michigan-Dearborn graduate, she recently earned a master's degree in finance from the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor. Downey and her husband, Michael, have one daughter.

ANNA FOURNIER, CPA, has been promoted from staff accountant to associate by Plante & Moran, an accounting and management consulting firm. A Wixom resident, Fournier, 27, joined the firm in 1984 and was a member of the audit department. She specializes in serving brokers, retailers and not-for-profit organizations. She is based in the Southfield office.

Fournier earned her Bachelor of Arts degree in accounting from Michigan State University in 1984. She is involved in community and professional organizations, including the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants.

Plante & Moran is a Michigan-based accounting and management consulting firm that specializes in serving small and medium sized, closely held, businesses.

'Stores don't have to give refunds'

While laws protect consumers from misrepresented or defective goods, there are no laws that require merchants to offer refunds, exchanges or credits on merchandise they sell, warns the Better Business Bureau (BBB).

These voluntary practices have become wide-spread among retailers wishing to make shopping in their stores as attractive as possible to customers. But consumers should never assume that merchandise can be returned unless this policy is specifically stated by the store. Return and exchange practices vary from store to store, so customers should understand the store's policy when making a purchase.

Virtually all stores with exchange or refund policies require that the product be returned within a specified time period, in new condition, with all packaging in place, and with the original sales slip.

Because of health laws, these return policies seldom apply to underwear, bathing suits or hats.

The BBB emphasizes that customers should not confuse return and exchange policies with product warranties. Products often come with stated or implied warranties from their manufacturers. Read the warranty before returning a defective product to the retailer.

The Garden Corner

How to shelter blooms in cold

By Patrick Denton

Let's look today at two topics of interest among home gardeners during summer

Wintering Geraniums

In the mildest areas of the North American continent, zonal geraniums can be left outdoors over the winter. But for the rest of us, the plants must be given special shelter.

Hanging the plants upside down, bare root, is a wintering method that many insist is foolproof. And I'm sure this was, and is, true where an old-fashioned dirt-floor cold room or cellar area is available. Geraniums will survive the winter stored this way only in a fairly humid, cold but frost-free place.

A little refinement on this method that makes it more sure is to loosely secure with a rubber band around the roots a plastic bag with a little damp peat moss in it. Make a few small slits in the bag to allow some air in.

In my own experience, however, geraniums are easiest to overwinter as potted indoor plants. This was the standard wintering procedure years ago. It makes a lot of sense, too, since zonal geraniums make fine winter houseplants. I take cuttings from our zonal geraniums in August or early September, for youthful, smaller plants to bring indoors.

But the plants that have bloomed in pots or the open garden all summer can be brought in, too, if you wish. Cut them back and clean them up, and carefully lift and pot the in-ground plants.

I give our zonal geraniums two sprays spaced 10 days apart, and a good inspection, before bringing them indoors. Whitefly can be a terrible problem on indoor geraniums not meticulously cleaned before bringing them into the house.

A problem that arises in many modern homes is finding the space to house a collection of geraniums. I save space initially by bringing in just one or two small cutting-grown plants of each zonal geranium variety I want to save. Then, in February I begin taking cuttings from these plants until I have enough to fill the spaces or pots designated for geraniums in the current year's spring and summer garden.

Geraniums do need full sunshine to stay in fine shape, and give some bloom, during the winter indoors. And my own house has few fully sunny windows, with dingy windowsills at that.

To accommodate as many geraniums and other bright-light houseplants as possible at these windows, I installed sill extensions. These are just boards that come with brackets to hold them, and they're available at hardware stores and home improvement centers.

Another, similar solution to the space problem is to locate at sunny windows wherever possible book shelving, or some other piece of furniture that will serve as a sill extension.

Sun porches, of course, are ideal, and fortunate indeed are plant and flower lovers whose homes are blessed with these ideal places for growing off-season plants. Zonal, scented and ivy geraniums will stay in shape, and even give some bloom during the winter indoors in sites that provide adequate sunlight and coolish night temperatures.

Martha Washington geraniums go also by the names Lady Washington, regal or show geraniums, or simple pelargoniums. These require more of a cool, dormant period in winter to set flower buds for the following spring and early summer.

A greenhouse kept just frost-free, or a cool basement room are possible wintering quarters for these most flamboyantly blooming of all geraniums. For a really fine show of late spring and early summer flowers, provide winter temperatures at or slightly below 50 degrees Fahrenheit, and only enough water to keep the plants alive.

Christmas Cactus Bloom

Christmas cactus plants should be given some "time out" now from fertilizing and regular watering, to harden new growth and set the pads up for good flower bud formation.

If the plants have spent the summer outdoors, set them in some shelter from rain on a porch, against a balcony wall or on the lower, shaded benches of a greenhouse. Give only enough water to keep the pads from shriveling. Christmas cactus plants can be left out until night temperatures begin dropping to around 45 F.

A dryish soil, along with lengthening nights and cooling temperatures, are the conditions that lead these forest cactus plants to their blooming phase.

GARDEN TIPS

Chilling out with geraniums

Wintering Geraniums

- Outdoor geraniums can spend the winter as indoor plants
- Take cuttings from the best plants in late summer
- Or cut back and carefully clean established outdoor plants before potting
- To get the most light, install extensions on windowsills

On a roll with brick paving firm

By MAUREEN NASZRADI

Owning a business in Northville has taken on a new meaning for Joe DiRado since he randomly selected a site to open Brickscape in 1986.

DiRado and his wife, Diane, own Brickscape, a brick paving and outdoor supplies company. During their three years in the community, the DiRados have expanded their initial brick paving installation services to include retail sales to do-it-yourselfers, added a garden center, and applied for a patent on an industry innovation that even their competitors purchase from them.

The 25-year-old entrepreneur said he and his wife, 24, now both residents of Northville, have been "very, very lucky." DiRado also said, "This is a community that responds to hard work."

Brickscape's location on Old Novi Road obscures it from the average motorist's view, but samples of the firm's efforts are as visible as the nearest street corner.

As part of a Northville Downtown Development Authority project, Brickscape brick paved many of the public areas in the city, including sections of Church and Main streets and around the bandshell.

Ted Mapes, superintendent of the Public Works Department for the City of Northville, hired Brickscape for repairs on the brickwork done during the first stage of the downtown renovation called Main Street '78 — and to install new brick, part of the second stage of the project.

On contracting out the work to the local firm, Mapes said, "We felt fortunate to have someone in that specialized field in town."

The superintendent said he initially was "a little surprised" by the age of the owner of the company that he contracted. "But once we started talking about the project, it was obvious he was very knowledgeable," Mapes added.

Brick paving is an alternative to asphalt and concrete surfaces. Although brickpaving often is more expensive than the more common alternatives, DiRado said the advantages outweigh the cost differences.

One of the main reasons for the growing popularity of brickpaving is the appearance, with the variety of styles and colors available, DiRado said. Also, the finished product is maintenance-free, more durable than concrete and asphalt, and dry-laid, so there is no cracking.

"There will be very few problems over the long-term, plus it looks nice," DiRado added.

The business owner said

Brickscape's installations have been divided evenly between new and existing homes. "People that have had their homes for 10 years, plus the new houses, want the brick," he said. The Brickscape crew also removes the old surface.

Brickscape's services often are sub-contracted by several local landscapers, DiRado explained. When an individual contracts Brickscape, a company representative meets with the homeowner to determine preferences, calculate coverage and prepare an estimate.

Past projects include driveways, patios, walkways, pool decks and public areas. DiRado said homeowners who have stood in their backyards and looked at a row of decks in neighboring yards are likely to consider brickpaving a patio as an alternative.

Diane cited the brick-paved section of Michigan Avenue in Detroit as an example of the durability of the surface. She also said brickpaving a pool area allows for underground repairs. The bricks can be pulled up for repair access, then replaced, while concrete must be broken, then repoured.

"Slag sand" or "slag gravel," a mixture with some by-products of steel production, is used as a base under the bricks, Diane explained. The material compacts well, drains well and prevents weeds from growing between the cracks, she said.

The depth of excavation depends on the project, she added, approximately 8 inches for a sidewalk or patio and one foot for a driveway. A two-stage compacting process prevents any settling of materials, Diane said.

DiRado said the length of the job — most often one to two days — depends on the size of the project. The business owner said he prides himself on starting early and getting "in and out" as fast as possible, while still ensuring the customer is satisfied and clean-up is complete.

Brickscape installs and sells only concrete brick pavers. DiRado stressed the advantages of concrete, as opposed to clay pavers. Better-suited for brickpaving, the concrete absorbs less water and last longer than clay, he explained.

The pavers, on display outside the Brickscape office and in photographs, are available in a variety of colors and shapes and can be arranged in a random or geometric pattern, for example. Customers most often choose a paver for its color, he said.

When customers need a step for the finishing touch for their project, the

Around the House: Designs for Living

Good things come in small packages

By James McAlexander

Wanted: three-bedroom house with two baths, roomy living area, lots of light, less than 1,300 square feet.

That is a lot of house in a small package, but the Canton combines these features and more in a compact split-level bungalow.

The lower level of the house contains the main entry, living room, kitchen and dining area. The cooking and eating areas are combined, divided only by a counter that can double as a work surface or eating bar. Kitchen entry for the semi-detached garage makes it easy to shuttle groceries in from the car.

The upper level includes bedrooms and baths off a balcony hall above the living room. At some loss of privacy, this open design gives the Canton a spacious feeling despite its small size.

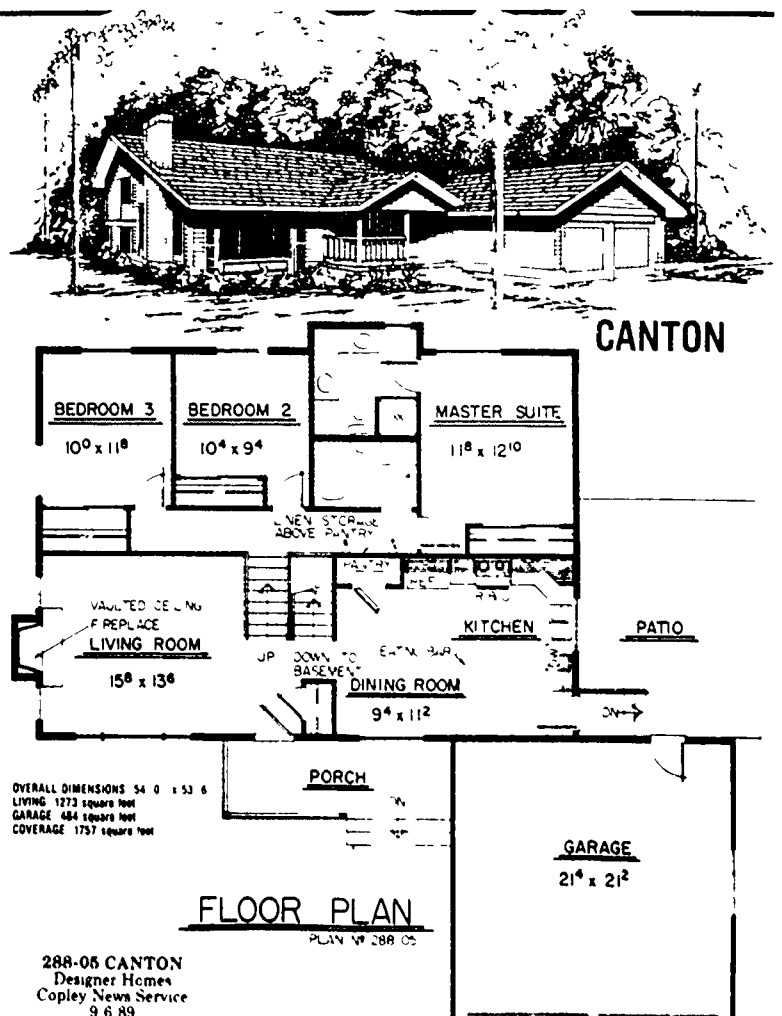

One bath serves the main house and opens directly into the upper hall. The other is a private bath for the master bedroom. Placing the two bathrooms close to back cuts down on required floor space and plumbing.

Large windows front and back allow plenty of light into the living room, kitchen/dining area and bedrooms. At the same time, glazing has been minimized on the sides of the house to reduce heat loss and the ensure privacy from adjacent lots.

The Canton is designed with an unfinished basement. As is, this space can be used for laundry and storage. However, with almost 700 square feet, the basement also could contain a family room, third bath and an additional bedroom. With only interior remodeling, the Canton can make the jump from efficiency to luxury.

For a study plan of the Canton (288-05), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Business paves the way with brick

DiRados can provide one, made-to-order Brickscape manufactures its own steps, to match the finished surface. DiRado explained previous alternatives were limited to hiring a mason to build a step, spending many hours to construct a brick step bordered with sandstone or wood, or installing a cement step.

While all alternatives are suitable, DiRado said their handmade step "completes the job." Because of the tremendous market for the innovative product, the couple last year applied for a patent on the step and are awaiting word from the government.

Brickscape performs two to three times more installations than it sells materials for, DiRado estimated. However, he added, the number of do-it-yourself jobs is catching up.

"The do-it-yourself customer can do a nice job," DiRado said. The Brickscape staff will advise the homeowner on dimensions, technique and materials, he added. DiRado also pointed out, a person can adjust for a mistake while installing the brickpaving, unlike when pouring concrete.

"There's a lot of people in this area who like to do their own brickwork, their own landscaping. They don't necessarily want to contract someone, so that's why we carry the stock as well," Diane said.

DiRado worked in landscaping during the summer months while he earned his high school and college degrees. He said he had admired brickpaving in Toronto, Ont., soon after worked on an installation, and naturally "fell into" his business.

After operating out of his parents' home in Dearborn for two years, DiRado narrowed his market to the metropolitan Detroit, west of Woodward, stretching from Birmingham to Downriver.

DiRado recalled his decision to locate in Northville, the result of a compass point landing on a target map. Once he recognized Northville's easy expressway access and promising market for his services, DiRado said he hunted down a parcel of land with the proper zoning to purchase.

Brickscape owners, Diane and Joe DiRado

Diane and DiRado's mother, Filomena, who works at Brickscape, still cringed at the thought of their first sight of the former scrap yard that they've transformed into the Brickscape yard.

Although the Old Novi Road site is off the beaten path, Diane said the location allows space for the garden center, for storage of the bricks and machinery, as well as room for expansion.

Northville resident Jan Wilhelm called on DiRado as a Welcome Wagon representative just after he, at age 22, bought the property. She has watched the complete renovation of the parcel and complimented the family's efforts.

Wilhelm, who had wanted to have a brick patio installed, is one of Brickscape's satisfied first Northville customers. She said DiRado was "very conscientious" both in the pursuit of the property purchase and in the installation of her brickpaving.

Northville's Mapes said, "The workmanship has been excellent. And the prices have been very fair."

The administrator said future contracts between the city and Brickscape are a definite possibility, as the project expands or repairs are necessary. "They do the job we ask, and they do it well," Mapes added.

With the support of both their families, the couple said they have been able to stress service and provide quality products in a business with few competitors. Those policies are the reason for their repeat customers and positive word-of-mouth promotion, the DiRados agreed.

One example of the personal care the couple takes is in the selection of their full line of landscaping products. "They are hearty, quality stock, such as straight trees," Diane said.

"The nursery stock that we carry, we can pick it ourselves, she added, "That makes a big difference as opposed to places that just order 20 junipers and whatever comes in off the truck is what they have."

Her husband explained simply, "People out this way don't want to buy junky stuff because they know they'll have to bring it back."

"They're looking for a fair price, but they want a good product. We already know that about this area."

Customers appreciate their added touches, such as lining the inside of a clean car truck with paper when loading plants, Diane said.

Joe added, "We treat them like they're buying something. It's not a big deal, but it's how I would like to be treated."

"We won't lose that. It's very important to our business."

Around the House Repairs

Fireplace bricks can be jazzed up

By Gene Gary

Q. Our brick fireplace, like most of the new homes in this area, has a faded, dusty appearance.

Would you know of a product that could change or "bring out," the red brick color we prefer?

The grouting color is basic cement. Would it be possible to lighten or change the color there?

Any information you can provide would be appreciated.—L.A.

A: There are transparent stains that can change and enhance the color of your brick.

Thompson's Water Seal makes several such products, or you can use one of the general transparent stains and then apply a water seal over the finish. I suggest that you test the coloring in an inconspicuous area first. Your masonry supply dealer, a tile dealer or a good paint dealer should be able to help you find suitable products.

As for the coloring of the grout, that may be more difficult. There are grout stains made for the type of grout used to set tile. They might work on regular cement. Check with a good tile dealer for information on such products.

Q: I have an older dining room table with a veneer top.

The finish is relatively good, but there are two places where the veneer has loosened, making two small raised patches, or areas about 3 inches in diameter. Both areas are near the center of the table top.

Is there any way to make a repair in veneer?—L.M.

A: As a rule, veneer blisters such as the type you describe are quite easy to repair by simply cutting through the veneer across the blister with a very sharp knife or a safety razor blade. Work carefully to prevent splitting or other damage of the veneer.

Once you get it cut through, pry carefully apart at the cut and force glue under both halves. A spatula or a long, thin screwdriver is a good instrument to use in working a waterproof glue or cement through the slot and underneath the veneer.

When you have applied the glue, press the veneer down into position and weight it in place. You will need a fairly heavy weight, something weighing at least 25 pounds.

Be careful to wipe up any adhesive oozing up through the slot immediately; removal later is difficult.

Treat both blisters in the same manner.

Q: How do I get rid of water rings on my wood furniture? They are unsightly white spots.—A.G.

A: Heat, water, ink and acid can leave marks and stains on fine veneer surfaces that show up as white rings, patches or dark water marks.

Surface marks can often be removed without damaging the finish, but deeper ones may need refinishing.

A simple trick that often works with lighter marks is toothpaste (regular variety, not the gel types). Rub lightly over the area with a soft cloth and polish afterward with lemon oil. There are also some good commercial cleaners on the market which may do the job.

If these methods don't work, rub the spots with cigarette lighter fluid applied to a clean, soft cloth.

For water spots that you cannot remove with these methods, try rubbing with cigarette ash and lemon juice. Or, rub with a mixture of rottenstone (a powder used for polishing metals) and light oil. Wipe clean frequently to see if the mark has been removed.

Minor cigarette burns can be treated using rottenstone the same way.

Americans and pizza—case of love at first bite

By Charles Britton

Having been raised among the relations on my Italian mother's side of the family, I grew up thinking that pizza was—you should excuse the expression—cosa nostra, our thing.

We ate it. Other Italians ate it. The American, as my grandmother called outsiders in general, subsisted on concoctions made with mayonnaise and didn't understand about real food.

I will never forget my shock when, paging through what I remember as "Look" magazine sometime in the late '40s, I came across a feature article on pizza. The American had found out, I thought. It was no longer our special secret.

No one could have known at the time, certainly not a 10-year-old magazine reader, that pizza was going to take over the country. The article was among the first signs of the Italianization of the American kitchen.

Pizza by now has become probably the nation's most popular dish.

Black Forest Ham and Goat Cheese Pizza

1 recipe Pizza Dough, divided into 4 equal pieces
About 2 tablespoons extra-virgin olive oil
1 teaspoon dried red chili flakes
1 cup grated Italian fontina cheese
2 cups grated or sliced mozzarella cheese
2 baby Japanese eggplants, sliced lengthwise into ¼-inch slices and grilled or sautéed in olive oil
1 cup cubed goat cheese
4 ounces Black Forest ham, cut into julienne strips
1 bunch fresh basil, chopped, with a sprig reserved for garnish

Preheat oven with a pizza stone inside to 500 F for 30 minutes.

Divide dough into quarters and roll or stretch a quarter into 17- or 8-inch circle.

One at a time, place pizza on wooden peel, dusted lightly with flour or semolina.

For each pizza, brush dough with olive oil and sprinkle with dried chili flakes to taste. Arrange a quarter of the formula and mozzarella cheeses on dough. Then add a quarter of the eggplant, goat cheese and ham. Sprinkle some chopped basil on top. Assemble the 3 remaining pizzas the same way.

Slide pizza onto stone and bake 10 to 12 minutes, or until cheese is bubbling lively.

Remove pizza from oven and transfer it to a warm plate. Garnish with basil sprig. Serve immediately, cut into wedges.

When Puck expanded into frozen pizzas for the supermarket trade, he ran into trouble with the U.S. Department of Agriculture. One of his pizzas had no cheese—and no cheese, no pizza, the feds said.

But authentic pizza by no means must contain cheese. The Romans eat Pizza Bianca—white pizza, sprinkled only with oil and salt, a dish that goes back to ancient days. In other parts of Italy, such plain pizzas are known as Schiacciata or Focaccia.

Pizza Bianca Alla Romana

Pizza Dough
About ¼ cup olive oil
8 cloves garlic, very thinly sliced (or more)

1 tablespoon fresh rosemary (or more—other herbs may be used)
Salt

Traditionally, this pizza is shaped into long, freestanding strips. It is easier to fit into a greased 11x14-inch jelly roll pan by rolling and stretching. Allow dough to rise a second time in the pan until doubled, about 1 hour.

Meanwhile, preheat oven to 500 F. Brush some oil on dough, and sprinkle with garlic, herbs and salt. Bake until edges are crisp and top is brown, about 20 minutes.

The Romans eat this for breakfast. It is excellent served as an Italian dinner.

What could be more natural than combining pizza with that other American standby, the barbecue grill?

Grilled Pizza Rustica

Sauce:
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon each chopped fresh oregano and basil, or 1 teaspoon of each, dried

3 tablespoons olive oil
¼ cup chopped grated Monterey Jack cheese
2 egg yolks
Salt, pepper
Garnish:
2 cups sautéed vegetables (sliced mushrooms, chopped eggplant, peppers, onions, you name it)
1 cup shredded smoked turkey
1 cup (4 ounces) shredded mozzarella cheese
1 cup shredded fontina cheese

Divide dough in half. Flatten into 2 rounds about ½-inch thick. Sauté garlic and herbs in oil until tender. Stir in remaining sauce ingredients.

Brush 1 side of dough rounds with olive oil; place on barbecue grill, oiled side down, over low to medium coals. Allow to brown, 5 to 10 minutes. Turn over. Spread with sauce and garnish. Grill covered, 10 to 12 minutes, until cheese melts and pizzas are cook through. Move pizzas to cooler place on grill if browning too fast.

And in case you thought I was jesting about the mayonnaise, here is

Canadian Bacon Pizzas

¼ cup mayonnaise or salad dressing
½ teaspoon dried thyme, dried basil or dried oregano, crushed
1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
2 cups torn fresh spinach
6 slices French bread, bias-sliced, ½-inch thick
6 slices Canadian-style bacon, cut 1/8-inch thick
6 cherry tomatoes, quartered
6 slices Swiss cheese

Preheat broiler. Stir together mayonnaise, herbs, garlic powder. Toss with spinach. Spread mix on one side of each bread slice. Place slices, spinach side up, on unheated rack of broiler pan. Place bacon and cherry tomatoes on top of spinach mix.

Broil 3 inches from heat 2 to 3 minutes or until heated through. Top with cheese slices; broil about 1 minute more until cheese just starts to melt.

TEDDY BEARS

Teddy bears are friends to everyone

By Stephanie Frania

Sometimes the best friend to have is a soft, fuzzy, oh-so-compassionate teddy bear.

Only a teddy bear will sit at home and wait patiently for you to return so that it can soothe your sorrows, listen to your fears, and share your happiness.

Young and old alike have discovered this secret about these stuffed animals, and have made the collection of these critters a favorite hobby.

"There's a great deal of interest in teddy bears from people of all ages," explained Myla Somers, who operates the Bears Den, located in the South Lyon Pharmacy.

Collection of these cuddly friends has become quite profitable for some. Although small teddy bears can be purchased for a few dollars, older bears are much more valuable, of course, often selling for thousands of dollars.

Recently, an antique Steiff bear was sold for $63,000.

Shapes, sizes and styles of these furry creatures have changed since their conception in the early 1900's.

While some bears are so small they are actually Christmas tree ornaments, others stretch up to five feet tall.

Steiff bears, manufactured in Germany, were actually the first teddy bears. But it wasn't until 1903 that Steiff followed suit of its American counterpart, the Ideal Toy Company, and actually referred to its product as a "teddy bear."

"Most of the people who do collect them (teddy bears) are adults," said Eva Farden, co-owner of the Doll Carriage in Milford. "I think it brings back a little nostalgia from their childhood."

Originally, bears had longer arms and legs. Bears of the past also had slimmer bodies and thinner faces. The first teddy bears had round ears on the sides of their head and mouths that turned downward.

But the most noticeable features that makes the original bears different are their articulated joints. These fully-movable joints allowed separate parts of the fuzzy creature to rotate completely Because manufacturing "jointed" bears is a expensive, time-consuming process, manufacturers developed teddy bears that avoided this manual process.

Most teddy bears began to have larger heads, more widely-spaced eyes, and smaller bodies. But Steiff stuck with tradition and continued to manufacture bears in the original shape, adding different and more expensive fabrics.

Now, teddy bears are created in all sorts of forms by such companies as Gund, which manufactures exceptionally soft bears, R. Dakin & Co., and Raikes.

Raikes bears, which feature wooden faces, are "very collectable," according to Farden. Prices for these bears run up to $95.

Some bears, such as the Dakin 1989 Limited Edition, remain quite simple. This bear is very light tan in color, with deep brown eyes, plush fur, and a green paisley bow tie.

Not all bears are just that. Some are dressed in a way which allows them to take on another character, such as Santa bears or Raggedy Ann and Andy bears. There is even a Red Bear-on, complete with a red cape.

Many bears don't even look like the type one would want to cuddle with at night. In fact, some look more like they're ready to walk out the door and go to work.

Work? Yes, some bears are dressed up like nurses, doctors, firefighters, policemen or pilots. Still others are dressed in a more recreational manner — like Buzz the Dakin bowler, who is dressed in bowling shirt and shoes and holds a large, black bowling ball in his hand.

Dakin also makes a male and female tennis player, complete with racket and visor. In addition, there are also ski bears with tiny skis and poles, as well as golfing bears and workout bears, which look as if they're ready to work up a sweat.

For those interested in a "bear-riage made in heaven," teddy bride, groom and wedding party are also available.

And instead of sending greeting cards, you can now send teddy bears which deliver your message on the shirts they wear. Some proclaim "Happy Birthday," while others say "Get Well," or "I love you."

Teddy bears have continued evolving in recent years into great novelties — some bears can be used as puppets, while others have hearts that glow.

Still other bears have a paw that when touched activates a music box which plays a variety of tunes. Some Christmas bears play Christmas carols while other bears play lullabies.

Although some teddy bear collectors harbor a special love for their first bear, Somers says that she is unable to pick a favorite out of her collection of over 70 bears.

"They're all my favorites until I see another one," she said.

Although teddy bears are not the only stuffed animals, they are the most popular and treasured. Why remains a mystery.

"Why do I like bears? I have no idea. Maybe because I didn't have one as a child," guessed Somers.

Not only are the bears themselves a popular item for both adults and children, but also other products with a bear theme have become desirable.

Bear music boxes, Christmas ornaments, greeting cards, key chains, stationery, and wrapping paper are admired by many bear lovers.

In addition, some collectors now seek furniture to accommodate their family of bears.

"I've started collecting furniture for them," said Somers.

Small wicker pieces and rocking chairs are frequently used to seat bears.

Several books have been published, detailing the process of creating your own bear. This allows for freedom of design as well as character.

However, Somers creates the character of some of her bears simply by dressing them.

"They're all my favorites until I see another one."

-Myla Somers

"I've visited re-sale shops and garage sales looking for clothes to dress them," she said. "I haven't got into shoes yet. That gets a little expensive."

Expensive or not, teddy bear collecting can be an extremely satisfying hobby.

After all, who else can you tell your deepest, darkest secrets to, dress how you want, and keep around forever but your teddy bear?

President gave bears their name

Do you remember your first teddy bear? Perhaps you still have it tucked away somewhere, tattered and worn, maybe missing an ear.

Every newborn baby is sure to receive a teddy bear as one of his or her first presents. The stuffed toy which has become such a part of the American child-raising tradition has only been around since the beginning of the 20th century.

Bears have been a perennial favorite with children and adults since the 1800s. Children's stories centered around bears, both real and imaginary; and in the Victorian era automated bears with fierce expressions, covered with real fur, were popular.

At this time, they were just called "bears" or "bruns". Today, our bears are first and foremost known as "Teddy." How did this name get attached to the fuzzy creature? Why, from our 26th president.

In the fall of 1902, President Theodore Roosevelt went south to settle a boundary dispute between Mississippi and Louisiana. During a break in negotiations, Roosevelt accepted a hunting invitation.

However, after 10 days of hunting, not a single bear was sighted. His hosts, eager to please, wanted to make sure the president took a trophy home.

So they frantically searched the woods for a bear — but all they found was a small bear cub. They drove the little guy in the president's direction.

Roosevelt was drawn from his tent by the cry of "Bear!" Upon seeing just a small bear cub tied to a tree, he reportedly turned away in disgust, saying that he "drew the line" at killing anything so small.

The moment became immortalized by a political cartoonist. The popular cartoon caught the attention of toymakers and bears soon flooded the stores.

So bears are now known as "teddy" bears forever, thanks to our 26th president.

And the check goes to . . .

Geraldine Mills, left, chairperson of the annual Northville Friends of the Library dinner, receives a check from Laurie Marrs, executive director of the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce. Marrs presented the donation of nearly $900 to the Friends on behalf of the Northville Victorian Festival during the group's recent benefit dinner. The festival committee sponsored a box lunch auction during the Sunday afternoon picnic, when local "celebrities" created lunches for the event. For more on the dinner, see page 3-D.

Northville students win recognition

JULIE ESTHER KETAI, ERIKA KARIN NELSEN and KRISTIN MARIE SPIGARELLI, all of Northville, were named to the dean's list for academic excellence during semester II 1988-89 at Indiana University-Bloomington.

Dean's list students must earn at least a 3.5 grade point average from a possible 4.0 in a minimum of 12 hours of course work.

These students will be among those honored in the spring of 1990 at the university's traditional Founders Day program on the Bloomington campus. Families of the honored students will be invited for the program, which will recognize both the academic achievements of the undergraduate students and the teaching excellence of the faculty.

Several Northville students were among the prospective August graduates at Central Michigan University, including the following:

MICHELLE SUZA CHENOT of Woodfarm in Northville received a bachelor-of-science degree in business administration. She studied human resources management at Central Michigan University.

ELGENE RUTH DOINIDIS of Crestview Circle in Northville earned a master-of-science degree in administration. She studied general administration at Central Michigan University.

CHRISTOPHER J. HAMELL of Ladywood Drive in Northville earned a bachelor-of-applied-arts degree from Central Michigan University, where he studied three dimensional art.

AMY SUE HOLLAND of Pellston in Northville earned a bachelor-of-science degree in education from Central Michigan University, where she studied language arts.

THOMAS A. MUDRY of Northridge Drive in Northville earned a master-of-science degree in administration from Central Michigan University, where he studied general administration.

RICHARD E. REICKEL JR. of Woodbend Court in Northville earned a bachelor-of-applied-arts degree from Central Michigan University, where he studied interpersonal and public communication.

GREGORY RICHARD RYBA of Sunnyside in Northville earned a bachelor-of-science degree in business administration from Central Michigan University, where he studied marketing.

ROBERT E. SCIBA of Appleby in Northville earned a master-of-science degree in administration from Central Michigan University, where he studied general administration.

JACLYN ANN SUNDBERG of Dundalk in Northville earned a bachelor-of-applied-arts degree from Central Michigan University, where she studied food-service administration.

MADELINE MICHELE MILLS of Northville recently graduated from Oakland University, earning a master's degree in counseling.

MICHELLE FARMER, daughter of Bill and Adele Farmer of Mayo Drive in Northville, was the 1989 recipient of the Nancy J. Soper Memorial Scholarship.

The Northville Board of Education awards the scholarship each year in memory of Ms. Soper.

A graduate of Northville High School, Farmer currently attends Oakland University, where she plans to study physical therapy.

KARA SUE ZOLDAK of Northville was included on the academic honors list for the summer quarter at Ferris State University.

To be eligible, a Ferris student must have a 3.5 grade point average in at least 12 quarter hours of work.

High school staff welcomes new year

The Northville High School staff is off to another exciting year.

The year started with a very successful open house for freshmen and their parents. The boys and girls sports programs are very active. Boys football, soccer, golf, and girls swimming, basketball and tennis, as well as the cross-country and equestrian teams, are providing lots of excitement.

Homecoming week began Monday and culminates Saturday with the Homecoming Dance from 8:30 to 11 p.m. in the high school cafeteria. Float building will take place every evening from 5 to 10 p.m. at the stadium. Class competitions were held from 7 to 9 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 4. On Friday, Oct. 6, the school will conduct a pep assembly at 1:10 p.m. and the parade at 6 p.m., followed by the football game against Plymouth Canton High School at 7:30 p.m. Introduction of the homecoming court will take place during halftime activities.

MEAP testing for 10th- and 11th-graders occurs during the weeks of Oct. 9 and 16. The PSAT will be given Oct. 21 at 8 a.m. for 10th- and 11th-graders. Register for the test at the counseling office. Cost is $5.25.

Parent-teacher conferences will be held in two sessions depending on the student's last name. The first conference is on Tuesday, Oct. 14, from 4 to 7 p.m. for students with the last names beginning with A-K and Thursday, Oct. 19 for students with last names starting with the letters L-Z. The Parent Advisory meeting will be held on Wednesday, Oct. 25 at 9 a.m. in the library classroom. Yearbooks will be sold until Oct. 18 at a cost of $25.

Congratulations to seniors Stacey Dunkerley, Eric Rossing and Paul Warner for being named as National Merit Semi-Finalists. Manpreet Bagga, Jennifer Beyersdorf, Hayden Jones, Jason Ord and Ann Shepherd were named as commended students in the National Merit Program. Manpreet Bagga and Jennifer Beyersdorf were honored with the 1989 National Council of English Teachers Achievement Award in writing.

Attention, seniors. Please be sure your college applications are completed and turned in to the counseling office immediately. Please check for scholarship applications posted in the counseling office.

We're off to a wonderful year, let's keep it up.

Albom entertains full house at annual library dinner

By BRENDA DOOLEY
and ANN E. WILLIS

Author and columnist Mitch Albom spoke to the packed crowd attending the annual dinner sponsored by the Friends of the Northville Library. The seven-course Italian dinner was once again donated to the Friends by Toni and John Genitti.

Before Albom began his talk, Northville Community Chamber of Commerce Director Laurie Marrs presented a check for almost $900 to the Friends on behalf of the Northville Victorian Festival. The festival sponsored a box-lunch auction during the Sunday afternoon picnic. "Celebrities" from the Northville community made extravagant lunches which were auctioned away.

Donating lunches for the charity event were: George Bell, Dolly McMaster, Burt Knighton, Dutch VanIngen, Bill Hamilton, John Street, Dave Bolitho, David Longridge, Mary Najarian, Milt Jacobi, Ken Pawlowski, Carolann Ayers, John Buckland, Jerry Mittman, Laurie Marrs, Georgina Goss, Chris Johnson, Dick Allen, Tom Handyside and Susie Heintz. George Bell's salmon stuffed lunch went for over $100 and became the high bid of the afternoon.

Albom entertained the crowd with his stories about Detroit and national sports celebrities and his vignettes about life as a writer. He began his career as a musician, living in Europe and New York City and came to writing as a career after receiving his masters degree in journalism from Columbia University.

Albom arrived at the dinner following his attendance at Detroit Lion Quarterback Bob Gagliano's marriage at a local radio station.

Albom answered questions and spoke for over half an hour and then signed copies of his two books, including his newest book, "Bo," a collaboration with University of Michigan Athletic Director / Coach Bo Schembechler.

Arts and crafts show planned

Handcrafters presents an Arts and Crafts Show on Friday, Oct. 13 and Saturday, Oct. 14 at the Northville Recreation Center, 303 W. Main St.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. More than 65 quality artisans are expected to participate in the event.

Admission is $1.50 per person. Lunch will be available.

Northville Newcomers

On Wednesday, Oct. 18, members are invited to take part in a Frankenmuth trip. Participants will be able to shop at Bronner's Christmas Wonderland and eat lunch at Zehnder's Restaurant in Frankenmuth. Cost is $14 per person. A bus departs Northville Township Hall parking lot at 9 a.m. and returns at 4 p.m.

Reservations for the Frankenmuth trip will be accepted Oct. 2-6. Call Donna Devore at 344-1465 anytime between 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. to make a reservation. The trip is limited to 50 attendees. Chairpersons of the trip are Lorraine Andary and Donna Devore.

Another upcoming activity includes the Northville Newcomers Alumni-sponsored Road Rally on Saturday, Oct. 28 at 7 p.m. Participants will meet in the Schoolcraft College South Parking Lot.

Chairpersons of the road rally are Bob and Jan Juhasz and Steve and Margo Smith. Reservations will be accepted through Oct. 10. Call Jan Juhasz to make a reservation. The event is limited to 50 people. Cost is $25 per couple.

During the road rally, two to three couples will be paired to a car. All alumni and Northville Newcomers members are encouraged to attend.

Northville Woman's Club offers grant

The Northville Woman's Club is offering a one-time grant of $500 for college or vocational education.

To be eligible, the applicant must be a child of a member of the club and enrolled at an accredited college or vocational training school. Applications may be obtained from scholarship chairperson Judy Kohl, 1034 Springfield Drive, Northville, 348-2678. Applications should be mailed to Kohl's address by Nov. 15.

The grant is made possible through the efforts of Ronna Romney, speaker at the opening luncheon of the club's 97th year. Ms. Romney requested her speaking fee go toward furthering the education of a young person.

Northville Players conducts auditions

Northville Players theater group will conduct auditions for its upcoming production of "Said the Spider to the Spy" on Monday, Oct. 9 and Tuesday, Oct. 10.

Record/ANN WILLIS

Sports columnist Mitch Albom signs a book for an admiring fan during the library dinner

Auditions will be held at 7:30 p.m. in rooms 5 and 6 of the First United Methodist Church of Northville on Eight Mile Road.

Production dates are Feb. 2, 3, 9 and 10, 1990. The public is welcome to audition for the play.

For more information contact John Hall at 459-2869.

Mothers' Club elects new officers

Northville Mothers' Club announces its new officers for the 1989-90 year.

Officers include Joy Holloway, president; Linda Handyside, vice president; Karen Hill, recording secretary; Margie Sievert, corresponding secretary; and Linda Heaton, treasurer.

New members this year are Margaret Surdu, Sharon Ferrara and Phillis Kennedy.

The 1989-90 edition of the Mothers' Club Community Directory has been distributed to all residents of the Northville School District. Chairperson Jackie Payne has announced that additional copies may be purchased for $2 by calling her at 348-9729.

The first event sponsored by the Northville Mothers' Club will be the annual Ski and Skate Sale on Saturday, Nov. 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Residents may bring their used sports equipment to Meads Mill Middle School on Friday, Nov. 10, between 4 and 8 p.m.

A 15 percent commission will be kept by the Northville Mothers' Club to benefit Northville school children. For more information contact Debbie Lopez at 348-8577 or Phyllis Heckemeyer at 349-0289.

Northville Arts Commission hosts series

Northville Arts Commission will sponsor an entire season of art presentations by Michael Farrell, an art historian.

Residents are invited to spend their Thursday evenings captivated by the knowledge, wit and style of Farrell's lectures, accompanied by slide presentations. The season includes lectures about a variety of favorite artists. Following is a schedule of the lectures.

Van Gogh, Oct. 26; Gauguin, Dec. 7; Raphael, Jan. 18, 1990; Goya, Feb. 8, 1990; John Singer Sargent, March 8, 1990; and Andrew Wyeth, April 12, 1990.

All lectures begin at 7:30 p.m. at the Northville City Hall, at the corner of Main and Wing streets.

Season tickets cost $30, which includes all six lectures, and are available in downtown Northville at Grandma Betty's, Edwards Caterer, Bookstall on the Main, Traditions and IV Seasons. Individual tickets are priced at $6 per person and are available at the door on the evening of the lecture.

Farrell is professor of art history at the University of Windsor, adjunct curator at the Detroit Institute of Arts and instructor at the Art House of Detroit. He also leads tours to several countries including Italy, India, Turkey and Morocco, giving instruction on the nuances of the art of the region.

For more information call the Northville Arts Commission hotline at 349-6104

Woman's Club hosts opening luncheon

Ronna Romney will be the featured speaker at the Northville Woman's Club's opening luncheon tomorrow (Friday, Oct. 6) at Meadowbrook Country Club.

The Northville Woman's Club is entering its 97th year of meeting. Cocktails will be served from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., followed by luncheon. Romney is expected to speak about 1:30 p.m. on the topic "Momentum."

A special program also is planned to honor past presidents and honorary members. The opening luncheon serves as guest day as well.

Romney is a writer, lecturer, politician, wife and mother of five. She is well-known throughout the state for a wide range of political, community and fund-raising activities. She and her husband, Scott, live in Bloomfield Hills with their five children, Kevin, 25, George, 19, Ronna, 16, Mark, 13, and Christina, 9.

Northville Town Hall series to begin

Ticketholders for the upcoming season of the Northville Town Hall celebrity lecture series will have a chance to meet David Eisenhower on Thursday, Oct. 12.

He will begin his lecture at 11 a.m. at the Plymouth Radisson, formerly the Plymouth Hilton. The hotel changed its name from the Hilton to the Radisson on July 1. Its new identity, however, does not affect the Town Hall series. Organizers of the lecture series stress that this season's lectures will be held at the same place they were held last year. They hope the name change doesn't confuse ticketholders.

Luncheon will follow the lecture at noon, served at the hotel. Those who stay for lunch must have a ticket and luncheon tickets are available only to season ticketholders.

Eisenhower is author of "Eisenhower at War," a book reviewed as one of the most unique portrayals of "Ike" that has ever been written.

Northville Town Hall is entering its 29th season of hosting celebrity lectures in the area. Other speakers in the new season include travel expert Art Frommer on Nov. 9; astrologer Joyce Jillson on March 8, 1990 and Michael Walsh on April 5, 1990.

Lori Housman marries Kurt Carlson

Lori Housman, daughter of Ron and Lois Housman of Westmeath Court in Northville, married Kurt Carlson of Gurnee, Ill., son of Polly Carlson of Gurnee, Ill., and Phil Carlson of Highland Park, Ill., on Saturday, Aug. 19.

The double-ring wedding ceremony was held at 5 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville. Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville and Dr. Richard Henderson of Faith Community Presbyterian Church officiated.

Highlights of the ceremony included a special reading by Ron Housman Jr., brother of the bride. Also, the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom lit candles from which the couple lit the unity candle. Melanie Bennett, a friend of the bride, sang three solos during the ceremony. Taggart Smith, a friend of the bride, played a piano solo as the mothers were seated in the church.

The bride wore a luminous gown of ivory satin with leg-of-mutton sleeves accented with lace insets. The bodice was highlighted with pearls and sequins. The torso of the gown dipped to a low basque waist accented with a large bow at the back, allowing the full skirt with delicate lace insets to flow to a cathedral train. The gown was trimmed in Alencon lace, seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

The bride carried a formal English cascade bouquet of calla lilies, ivory roses and trailing ivy.

Maid of honor was Jill Taschner of Northville, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Melanie Bennett and Denise Colovas, both of Northville and both friends of the bride; and Christy Housman and Candy Colbert, both of Missouri and both cousins of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore floor-length gowns of ivory moire silk. The gowns had straight skirts with V necks and diagonal peplum waists. They carried scepter bouquets in contemporary styles with primroses and montreaux lilies, accented with decorative foliage.

Jenni Schnoor of Ingleside, Ill., niece of the groom, acted as flower girl. She wore a dress with delicate pink accents that matched the style of the bride's gown. Ring bearer was Eric Schnoor of Ingleside, Ill., nephew of the groom.

Best man was Gary Brothers of Palatine, Ill., cousin of the groom. Ushers were Ronald Housman Jr. of Northville, brother of the bride, and Alan Brothers and Chris Brothers, both of Ingleside, Ill., and both cousins of the groom.

Groomsmen were Glenn Carlson of San Francisco, Calif., and Craig Carlson of Grayslake, Ill., both brothers of the groom, Michael Pappas of Rochester, a friend of the groom, and Robert Dickins of Lansing, a college friend of the groom.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Swiney and Mrs. Marlin Stewart, both of Poplar Bluff, Mo., and both aunts of the bride; and Ms. Renee Kovath of Northville, a friend of the bride's brother and a friend of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Links at Pinewood Country Club, attended by 250 guests from eight different states. Special guests were the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Walter Heinen of Fox Lake, Ill.; her sister, Mrs. Rose Cheney of Max, Minn.; and the groom's aunt, Mrs. Ken Anderson, also of Max, Minn.

The guest tables at the reception were decorated with centerpieces of mixed Holland flowers in shades of pink, atop tall plate glass pedestals. Soft pink votive candles also adorned the tables.

The couple honeymooned in Winter Park, Colo. They met as students at Michigan State University.

The bride is a 1989 graduate of Michigan State University, where she earned a bachelor's degree in physical education.

The groom is a 1987 graduate of Michigan State University, where he earned a bachelor's degree in criminal justice. He is completing his third year of law studies at Cooley Law School in Lansing.

In keeping with a Southern custom, Mrs. Ronald Willoughby and her daughter, Mrs. John Grady, both of Atlanta, Ga., entertained the bride, her attendants and out-of-town ladies at a bridesmaid's brunch on the morning of the wedding. They were assisted in the serving by Mrs. Thomas Curl.

JANE and MAURICE HILL

Wootton weds Hill

Jane Carol Wootton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wootton of West Bloomfield, became the wife of Mr. Maurice N. Hill of Fremont, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald N. Hill, formerly of Northville and now residing in Las Vegas, on Saturday, Sept. 2 at Orchard United Methodist Church in Farmington Hills.

The double-ring ceremony was officiated by the Rev. James Greer III. Highlights of the 5 p.m. ceremony included the lighting of the wedding candle from family candles placed in the church candelabra.

The bride wore an ivory gown. Her gown was complemented by electric blue dresses worn by the bride's attendants, as well as shades of orchid and rose. All of the bouquets carried out the color scheme.

Maid of honor was Miss Cheryl Ann Wootton, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Annette Evans, Elizabeth Kreckman and Michelle Shapiro.

Other attendants included Vicki Niebrugge, who served as hostess, and Jeanette Hill Lee, sister of the groom, acting as guest-book attendant.

Best man was Mark Zarvian. Ushers were Jeff Hill, brother of the groom, Eric Kreckman and George Talbot.

A reception followed at Wexford Hall in the Mercy Conference Center in Farmington Hills.

The couple traveled to Hawaii for a wedding trip. They met as students at the University of Michigan.

The bride is a University of Michigan graduate. She is employed by Gelman Sciences in California as a marketing representative.

The groom is also a University of Michigan graduate. He works as a computer engineer for Sun Systems in California.

The couple resides in Fremont, Calif., just southeast of San Francisco.

Single Place sponsors second divorce workshop

Single Place presents "Starting Over Single Phase II: Living Beyond Divorce."

The workshops began Wednesday, Sept. 27 and continue every week through Wednesday, Nov. 15 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville. A $25 donation is requested, which covers the cost of a book, notebook, child care and the speakers.

Following is a list of scheduled speakers and topics.

• Wednesday, Oct. 11: "Trust — Can I Trust Again?" by Charles Meredith, executive director for Meredith Counseling Center. He will examine the psychological dynamics involved when trust is broken and explore ways to re-establish and rebuild trust.

• Wednesday, Oct. 18: "Building New Relationships" by Ray Lumley, a pastor and a marriage and family counselor. He will discuss ways of building new relationships as a single person

• Wednesday, Oct. 25: "Single Parenting — Relationships and Blended Families" by Nan White, a single parent, counselor at Humanistic Resources of Farmington Hills. She will explore new ways of looking at relationships, blended families and the impact of dating on children.

• Wednesday, Nov. 1: "Sex and Intimacy After Divorce" by Harriet Kern, a psychotherapist who has been divorced for three years and deals with these changes both professionally and personally. She will discuss how divorce-related changes can actually enrich future intimate relationships.

• Wednesday, Nov. 8: "Divorce — Making the Most of Your Money" by Ron Dunbar, a financial advisor for Prudential-Bache and past co-chairperson for Single Place. He will discuss budgeting and cutting expenses, credit cards, reducing costs, evaluating life's needs, how to buy a car, college education funding, home mortgages, how to save for retirement and other financial matters.

• Wednesday, Nov. 15: "Enjoy Being Single" by Nancy Ray, a mother of three grown children. She will discuss her experiences of being single and how she enjoys it.

Single Place was organized for the purpose of providing friendship, caring and sharing for all single adults.

For more information and registration forms for the workshops call the First Presbyterian Church at 349-0911.

Gourmet dining

Schoolcraft restaurant serves extravagant meals

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Imagine starting with a dish of autumn squash soup, sifting through an array of perfectly chilled salads, and then choosing an entree of basset hound, lamb or veal and beef zuricher.

To top off the meal, you choose a dessert from nine selections ranging from chocolate pistachio cream torte to Fresh apple custard strudel.

The price tag for this entire gourmet luncheon?

Only $7.25.

Every Tuesday through Friday at Schoolcraft College's American Harvest restaurant, individuals with the most delicate of palates can enjoy a gourmet meal with all the trimmings.

The entire meal is prepared by aspiring chefs studying culinary arts at Schoolcraft College under the direction of Master Chef Jeff Gabriel.

"The food (served at American Harvest) is of extremely high quality," said Chef Kevin Gawronski, a professor at Schoolcraft. "If this was a regular restaurant, it would be four stars."

With menus carefully conceived by the college's culinary arts faculty, Gawronski said the emphasis rests on "trying to introduce more natural foods indigenous to our region."

He said the cooking is done primarily by second-year students who are participating in a comprehensive two-year program in gourmet cooking.

"All of the students who come out of this program are marketed to some sort of food service," Gawronski said, adding the students are trained in everything from learning the fundamentals of cooking to the elements of garnishing.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Students Eric Peilet of Livonia and Danny Olson of Westland put finishing touches on pastry creations during class at Schoolcraft College

From 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. every Tuesday through Friday, students prepare a variety of different lunch dishes, including steak Diane, chilled smoked pork loin salad and Norwegian salmon.

Prices for each luncheon range from $3.95 for an entree salad to $7.95 for the steak Diane.

"With the type of food we serve here, it would cost about four times as much in a regular gourmet restaurant," Gawronski said.

Students in the culinary arts class also said the lunch price is very reasonable at American Harvest, which is exquisitely decorated in a modern design.

"These are reasonable prices," said second-year student Perry Tomei.

Tomei added the entire cooking course at Schoolcraft College is exciting. "When you leave here, you can pretty much be able to do anything in cooking."

Second year cooking student B. Alan Watkins said people could not get a better meal for the price than at Schoolcraft's American Harvest.

Watkins noted that in addition to learning the fine art of cooking, students also receive training in how to properly serve a meal.

"Here, we learn the front end and back end of cooking," he said.

From American Harvest's many intriguing offerings, Watkins said his favorite entree is the steak Diane, which is prepared at the customer's table.

He said the dish includes: eight ounces of Filet Mignon, three ounces of beef stock, cognac, cream, mushrooms, shallots and lemon juice.

"It's really good," Watkins said. Schoolcraft College's public relations director, Sandra Florek, praised everything about the gourmet lunch — except the occasional long walk to the restaurant.

"The food is great, the service is wonderful, the price is fantastic, but the walk can be long if you have to park in the north lot," Florek said.

"But after eating this kind of meal, a good walk may be the best thing to do," she added with a laugh.

Handcrafters presents arts, crafts show

Handcrafters presents an arts and craft show on Friday, Oct. 13 and Saturday, Oct. 14 at the Northville Recreation Center.

Show hours are 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. More than 65 artisans are expected to take part in the event.

Admission is $1.50. Lunch will be available

BAND CONCERT — Military music and pageantry will be in full force on Nov. 10, when the Air Force Logistics Command Band of Flight performs at the Novi High School Auditorium.

The free concert begins at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

The 38-member concert band, under the direction of Lt. Colonel Richard A. Shelton of Torrance, Calif., is the largest unit of the Air Force Logistics Command Band. Its varied repertoire ranges from classical symphonic compositions through military marches to Broadway show tunes and popular contemporary music.

Tickets are free and available at the Novi Civic Center. To receive tickets by mail, write: Novi Parks and Recreation Department, 45175 West Ten Mile, Novi, MI 48050. Please include the number of requested tickets. There is a limit of six tickets per person.

Plymouth Symphony opens new season

Winner of several musical awards, she will perform the Beethoven "Third Piano Concerto" at the Plymouth-Salem Auditorium on Friday, Oct. 6. The concert begins at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $8 adults, $7 seniors and $2 for students in kindergarten through 12th grade. Tickets may be purchased by calling 451-2112 or at the box office 30 minutes prior to the performance. Locally, tickets are available Orin Jewelers and Bookstall on the Main.

An afterglow will be held following the concert at the Radisson Hotel of Plymouth, formerly the Plymouth Hilton, with music, hors d'oeuvres, desserts and holiday fashions. Donation is $10 per person.

Other highlights of the upcoming season include performances by Tapani Yrjola, a Finnish violinist on Nov. 10; the holiday shows of the "Nutcracker Ballet" Dec. 15-16; a Pied Piper fantasy on Feb. 23; a St. Patrick's Cabaret Pops in March; and a symphonic dance program in April.

PUMPKINFEST — South Lyon streets will be lined with spectators at 10 a.m. this Saturday, Oct. 7 when the Grand Parade of South Lyon Area Pumpkinfest '89 marches up Pontiac Trail from Nine Mile Road to Ten Mile Road, through the center of town to Whipple and on to Pumpkin Lane.

Featuring a variety of bands, marching units, floats, vintage vehicles and the Northville Cloggers, the parade is one of the biggest events of the three-day weekend.

Activities get underway on Friday with grand opening exercises at 4 p.m. on Pumpkin Lane, followed by South Lyon Mayor Tedd Wallace's decorated pumpkin contest at 5 p.m. on the veranda of the historic South Lyon Hotel at Lafayette and Whipple streets. More than 50 pumpkins will be judged on originality of decoration, size, beauty and ugliness.

A full schedule of events is planned for the weekend. Some of the highlights include: Kiwanis Pancake Breakfast, 7 a.m. to 1 p.m., Saturday and Sunday; Wild Bed Race, 1 p.m., Saturday; kiddie and pony rides all day Saturday and Sunday; Bingotent all day Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m., Sunday; arts, crafts and antique shows, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Saturday and Sunday.

day and Sunday; Northville Cloggers, 1-3 p.m., Saturday; barbecue chicken dinner at South Lyon Methodist Church, 4:30-6 p.m., Saturday; pumpkin pie judging contest, 1 p.m., Sunday; and many other events.

ART FAIR — Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans presents the third annual Autumn Art Fair on Saturday, Oct. 14 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, Oct. 15 from noon to 5 p.m. at Domino's Farms in Ann Arbor.

The juried fair features more than 120 nationally known artists and crafters from Michigan and throughout the Midwest. Handmade articles include wooden toys, glass objects, photography, metal and stone sculpture, stained glass and fiber fashions.

Domino's Farms is just off Plymouth Road exit, east of U.S. 23. Admission is $2.50 adults, $1.50 seniors. Children under 12 are free.

CONCERT — Songwriter Gordon Lightfoot will perform at the Fox Theater on Wednesday, Oct. 11 at 8 p.m.

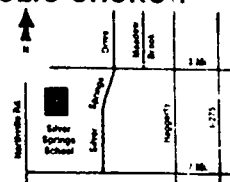

The Canadian entertainer is best known for his songs "The Wreck of the Edmund Fitzgerald," "All the Lovely Ladies" and "Baby Step Back."

Tickets are $20 and available at the Fox Theater box office, the Joe Louis Arena box office and all Ticketmaster outlets. For more information call 567-6000. To order by phone call 645-6666.

The Michigan Women's Historical Center and Hall of Fame is housed in this Lansing home

MICHIGAN WOMEN'S HALL OF FAME

By DENNIS KEENON

Mary Chase Perry Stratton. Laura Smith Haviland. Sojourner Truth. Harriette Simpson Arnow. Madeline La Framboise. Bertha Van Hoosen. Caroline Bartlett Crane. Martha Longstreet. Genevieve Gillette.

Ever hear of these women? Probably not.

But these are some of the honorees enshrined in the Michigan Women's Historical Center and Hall of Fame, which opened to the public on June 10, 1987, in a renovated three-story mansion at 213 W. Main St., Lansing.

In all, 63 women are enshrined in the hall's historic and contemporary divisions. Nine more (six in the contemporary and three in the historic) will be added to the women's hall honor roll at a special dinner Oct. 21 at the Lansing Sheraton hotel.

And the fact that many of us have never heard of these women is a primary reason that the Michigan Women's Historical Center and Hall of Fame exists, Elizabeth Giese, the center's education director, said.

"We're bringing women's history, and the contributions women have made, to the public's attention," said Giese, a Howell resident.

Women's history is an area long ignored by historians, Giese points out. "It has been neglected in textbooks," she said. "Sometimes history textbooks have added a page or two about women," but that's not enough. "Women are 50 percent of history," Giese said. "You'll find out there are some amazing and extremely capable women throughout our history. But if you read some of the history books, you could only conclude women didn't do too much that was worthy and interesting."

A walk through the hall of fame highlights the accomplishments of some of Michigan's "best and brightest" women.

for the unique iridescent glazes which characterized her work.

Laura Smith Haviland (1808-1898) was a pioneer social activist who in 1837 co-founded with her husband Charles the Raisin Institute, one of the first schools in the country to admit black students. She also organized one of the first stations on the underground railroad in Michigan, aiding between 40,000 to 100,000 slaves who used this route to freedom.

Sojourner Truth (1797-1883), a former slave, traveled the country to proclaim her personal message of truth and freedom. She attended the first National Women's Rights Convention in 1850 and became firmly committed to the feminist cause. Her famed "Ain't I a Woman" speech was delivered at a rights convention in Akron, Ohio, shortly after.

Harriette Simpson Arnow (1908-1986), a nationally known author, is best remembered for her novel, "The Dollmaker," which tells the story of a woman's hardships in moving with her family from rural Kentucky to Detroit during World War II.

Madeline La Framboise (1779-1846) became one of the most successful fur traders in early Michigan history.

Bertha Van Hoosen, M.D., (1863-1952), a surgeon and feminist, founded and became the first president of the American Women's Medical Association and was one of the founders of the La Leche League.

Caroline Bartlett Crane (1858-1935), one of the first ordained ministers in Michigan, became a leader in public health reform in the meat packing industry and undertook reforms to improve regulation of food products.

Martha Longstreet (1870-1953), a Saginaw physician, carried on a successful medical career and was a respected civic leader, who helped found the Saginaw YWCA, the First Ward Community Center and other social agencies.

Genevieve Gillette (1898-1986) in 1920 was the only woman graduate in the first landscape architecture class of Michigan Agricultural College (now Michigan State University). She landscaped the campuses of Albion College, Starr Commonwealth at Albion and Ferris Institute (now Ferris State College) in Big Rapids.

The historical center/hall of fame is housed in a home built in 1903 by Frank Cooley, a prominent Lansing figure. In 1949-50, it served as the governor's mansion for G. Mennen Williams.

By the 1980s, the Michigan Women's Studies Association had arranged to use the site for the historical center/hall of fame. It opened two years ago, following a $225,000 renovation effort.

Part of the building, the Elizabeth L. Belen Community Gallery, serves as an exhibit area for women artists. The Printmakers Consortium, eight women from Oakland County, is exhibiting its work in the Belen gallery through November.

That will be followed by an exhibit of watercolors by the late Emily Butterfield, the first woman architect in Michigan.

A new exhibit at the center, with items culled from archives throughout the state, tracks the suffrage movement in Michigan.

Giese said the historical center/hall of fame, has seen a steady increase in visitors over the past two years. The building is open to the public from noon-6 p.m. Wednesdays; noon-5 p.m. Thursdays and Fridays; and 2-4 p.m. Sundays. The cost is $2.50 for adults, $1 for ages 5-18 and $2 for senior citizens. Tours for groups of 10 or more also can be arranged.

The hall of fame induction dinner, which begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, at the Lansing Sheraton, serves as a major fundraiser for the center. The public is invited. Tickets are $60 apiece. Tickets for a 5 p.m. reception at the center are $75. Call (517) 484-1880 for more information.

Zingerman's: Is one great delicatessen

NEEDHAM

Zingerman's delicatessen is becoming something of a legend in Ann Arbor and the surrounding area. In a way that's unfortunate, because the big crowds just keep getting bigger. It's also understandable, though, because Zingerman's is one great deli. At about 2 p.m. on one recent Saturday — even with the University of Michigan football team playing an away game — we had to give up on the idea of eating at Zingerman's because of an estimated 40-minute wait for sandwiches.

A return visit at about noon on a weekday yielded a more reasonable wait — about fifteen minutes — and the famous Zingerman's sandwiches. As usual, they tasted exceptional.

The variety at the deli is worth mentioning. There are about 60 sandwich selections on the menu, and you can pretty much modify those as you wish. The menu also includes salads, soup, knishes, blintzes, desserts and even a few breakfast items.

Zingerman's is also more than a regular deli; it offers a lot of unique and interesting gourmet grocery items like spices, oils, teas, coffees, and others. The deli offers prepared salads and many other items by the pound.

The sandwiches range from traditional things like reubens to combinations with much more exotic ingredients, such as pesto and Amish free-range chickens. There literally is something for everyone, including a few meat-free combinations.

Once you get your food, which sometimes takes a little longer than you'd like, you have a choice of seats. There are the original few tables in the main building; some outdoor picnic tables, for a few more weeks at least; and extra seating in a house next door. We availed ourselves of the outdoor tables on a beautiful fall afternoon.

One added attraction of Zingerman's is the pickles. They offer two styles, old and new. Unlike in the past, when the deli gave you a half-slice of each, the pickles now come whole. Unable to decide, we chose both.

The deli has a nice selection of beverages, including pop and iced tea with free refills, Soho natural soda, and even Guernsey milk.

The one point against Zingerman's is cost. Some of the sandwiches cost upwards of $7. Our lunch for two, including two mid-line sandwiches, two iced teas, a halvah bar and a tiny bag of potato chips, was $18.04. The sandwiches, however, are huge, and we brought half of one home.

It may be more than you really want to pay for lunch, but the food is worth the wait, the price and even the hassles of parking in Ann Arbor.

Zingerman's Delicatessen, 422 Detroit Street, Ann Arbor. 663-DELI. Open Monday through Saturday 7 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Sunday 9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. No liquor. No credit cards.

Canton rips cagers, 51-28

Northville cruises past Churchill

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The young Northville cagers were no match for the 10th-ranked Class A team in the state last Thursday — especially in the first eight minutes of play.

Powerful Plymouth Canton invaded Northville on Sept. 28, took a commanding first-quarter lead and cruised from there to a 51-28 triumph over coach Ed Kritch's overmatched squad. The Chiefs held the Mustangs scoreless in the first quarter.

"We came out very nervous, and it showed in the early going," Kritch said. "We were 0 for 14 on our field-goal tries to start the game, and that really takes the wind out of your sails. We looked very uncomfortable on the court, but it's the first time we've faced a team of this caliber."

Northville actually played well defensively in the first quarter, holding the potent Canton attack to just 12 points. But the offense was almost non-existent.

"This may sound funny, but other than shooting the ball, I was pleased with the way we played," Kritch said. "If we could have just knocked down a couple or three shots in the first few minutes, it would have been a totally different game."

The Chiefs only outscored the Mustangs by 11 points the rest of the way. Northville regrouped and hit 10 of 29 shots from the field in the final three quarters for a respectable 35 percent, but the outcome was decided very early on.

"The girls were very down at the end of the game because nobody likes to be embarrassed," Kritch said, "but they are smart enough to know who we were playing and not to get too upset about it. After the first quarter we could have packed it in, but we didn't do that, and I think we earned (Canton's) respect."

with much more success as the Mustangs overwhelmed the host Chargers in the middle two quarters and coasted home with the 24-point triumph in another WLA Western Division clash on Sept. 26.

"We scored 39 points at the half — it usually takes us about a game and a quarter to score that much this year," Kritch said.

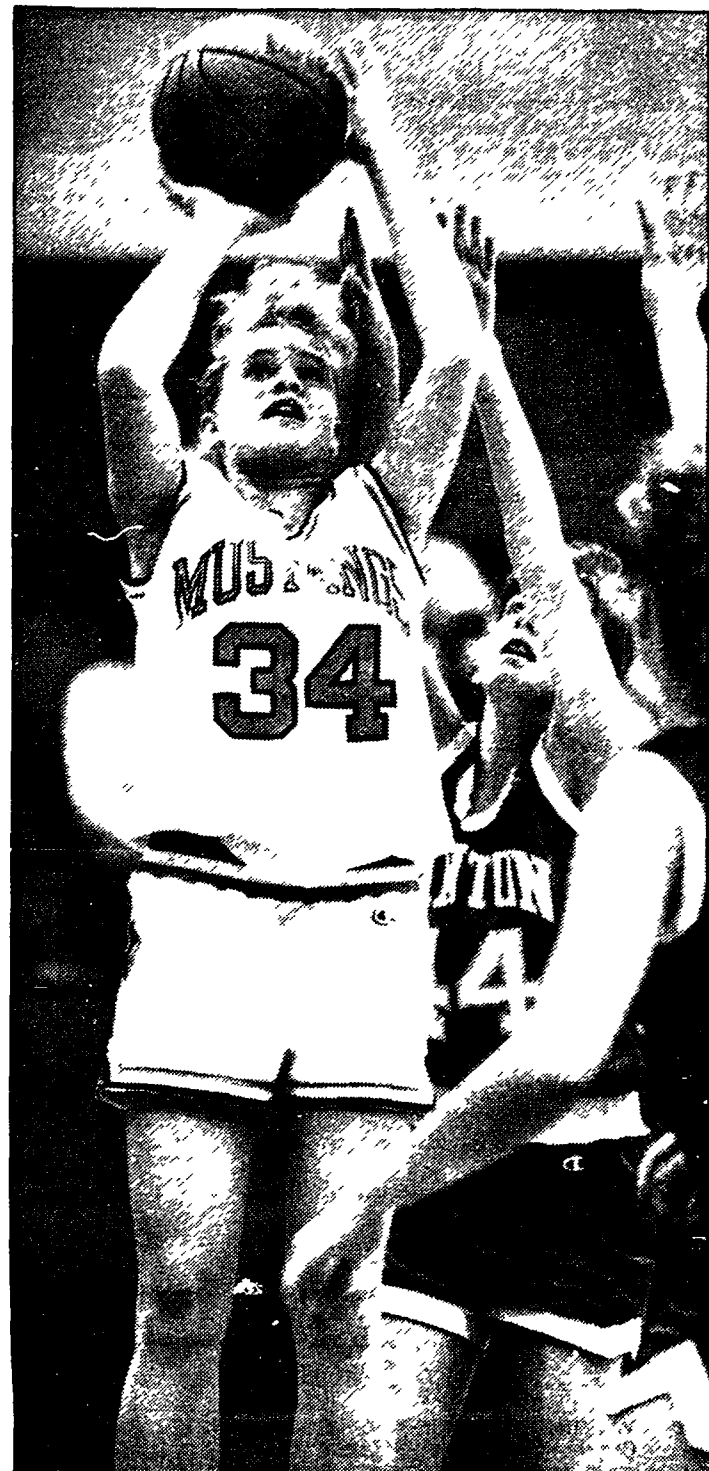

Northville opened a modest three-point lead (13-10) after one quarter, but then exploded for a 26-6 run in the second to take command, 39-16. The offensive star in the first half was junior Maria MacInnis, who poured in 16 points in 16 minutes, including a pair of three-pointers.

"Maria has worked very hard on her shooting," Kritch said. "She's an unsung player for us, so it was nice to see her break out offensively. We scored 12 points in a row at one point, so it got lopsided very quickly."

With a 12-4 advantage in the third period, the lead increased to 31, but the Chargers made up some ground in the fourth against the Mustang reserves to keep it respectable.

half but led all scorers with a career-high 16. Holstein added 13 and Pump chipped in 11 — her first double-figure outing at the varsity level.

"To have three underclassmen combined to score 40 is a good sign," Kritch said. "(Churchill) didn't get many shots off and had a lot of turnovers. Our defense stifled them pretty well. They hit three three-pointers and that made it a little closer.

"I think we are really improving. We are shooting better and our shot selection has improved."

Northville (5-3 overall, 2-1 in the WLA) will play host to Livonia Franklin — another Western Division power — today (Oct. 5) at 7:30 p.m.

Kilner paces comeback win over Chargers

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With one half to play against Livonia Churchill on Sept. 29 and the score notched at 14-14, the Northville football squad was very close to opening the '89 schedule with just one win in five tries. But the Mustangs put together their best half of football so far this season — both offensively and defensively — to turn back the host Chargers 28-14.

The squad now heads into tomorrow's (Oct. 6) Homecoming clash with unbeaten Plymouth Canton (5-0) with renewed confidence and momentum — and a 2-3 record after a brutal stretch of games.

"I'm really pleased with the team effort — it was our best effort of the season, on both sides of the ball," Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher said.

"We needed to bounce back after the loss to Harrison because a 51-10 defeat can really deflate your ego. Playing Churchill on the road is no easy task, but the guys were up to the challenge — especially in the second half."

It was a nip-and-tuck struggle between two physical teams in the first half. The Mustangs moved the ball early and took a 7-0 lead, but the Chargers bounced back to take control with a pair of lengthy touchdown drives. Northville gained the momentum back with a 64-yard march of its own late in the half that tied things up and then dominated the final two quarters of play.

"We've had some early injuries — especially in our offensive line," Schumacher said. "But everybody is back now and we're starting to jell as a unit. I think we're going to finish this season with some good performances — we just need to stay healthy."

its own 37-yard line to the Churchill 26 on the first possession of the game, but came away empty-handed when Noel Korowin's 41-yard field goal try was blocked.

But four plays later, Northville got the ball back and marched 59 yards in seven plays for the first touchdown. A 17-yard pass from Ryan Huzjak to Steve Bastian and a 19-yard run by Ryan Kilner set up the score — a 15-yard scamper by Bill Kelley on an option left. Korowin's kick made it 7-0 with 2:34 left in the quarter.

Schumacher was disappointed with his defense, however, when Churchill rebounded to tie the game just before the start of the second period. The Chargers' 55-yard drive took six plays and was capped off by Mike Brook's 24-yard run.

Midway through the second, the Chargers struck again, this time on a time-consuming 14-play march that covered 60 yards. The touchdown was a one-yard plunge by Dave Diaz, and Mike Sparcortella's kick made it 14-7.

"That second drive wasn't easy but they still scored," Schumacher recalled. "They had a few nice gains early in the drive, but after that they had to work for every inch they got."

The Mustang offense salvaged the first half with a late score that was set up by Kilner, who was on his way toward an outstanding outing. His 47-yard run up the middle set up a four-yard run by Bastian that deadlocked the score at the intermission. The drive covered 64 yards in only five plays.

"At halftime we talked about going after (Churchill)," Schumacher said.

"Everybody in the locker room — the players and the coaches — felt we could win the game if we went out and executed properly. That's what we did."

The Mustangs regained the lead — this time for good — minutes after the second half got underway. Kilner gobbled up nearly half of the 50-yard drive with a 23-yard scoring tilt up the middle. It was the sixth play of the possession.

"There (was) some excellent blocking on that run by Chuck Shuff and Dan Mejia," Schumacher pointed out. "We were able to work inside with Kilner because (Churchill) was focusing more on our outside game. That opened it up in the middle, and he had an outstanding night."

Chris Lemmon carded a two-under 34 against Livonia Franklin

Lemmon rips Salem Hills, Franklin

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The big story last week for the Northville golfers wasn't the team's 3-1 record in four meets, or the squad's poor showing against Plymouth Canton — it was Chris Lemmon's incredible round in a 206-229 win over Livonia Franklin on Sept. 29.

The junior standout ripped apart the Salem Hills course, notching three birdies, one bogie and five pars en route to a two-under-par 34. It was Lemmon's best score ever — including practice — and ties the Northville school record for the lowest nine-hole score.

"He's had some 35s in practice but never in a match," Mustang Coach Don Morgan said. "He's been on a mini slump lately, scoring mostly in the low 40s, so he was due to break out of it. Boy, did he ever!"

To get an idea how hot Lemmon was, he hit a wedge shot to within two feet of the pin on the seventh hole from 160 yards out.

"The seventh is the number-one handicap hole at Salem," Morgan explained. "The wind was behind him and he landed it about a foot in front of the pin, and it stopped two feet past it. I thought for a minute it was going to go in the hole."

"I've never seen anybody hit a wedge shot that far with that kind of accuracy."

Sophomore Steve Porter was second overall with a 40, which ties his best score ever in varsity competition. He was followed by John Schrieber (42), Jason Sherman (44) and Todd Christiansen (46).

"Sherman had an off day, but Lemmon picked up the slack," Morgan said. "We came to play that day."

NORTHVILLE 224, PLYMOUTH SALEM 230: The Mustangs started the week with a win over the Rocks at Brae Burn on Sept. 25, but the team battled the cold, windy conditions more than anything or anybody else.

"The scores were high, but the weather conditions made the greens very hard," Morgan said. "I thought we adjusted to the situation and handled it fairly well."

Sherman led the way with a 40 and was the medalist. He was followed by Lemmon (42), Kevin Krupansky (46), Schrieber (47) and Paul Warner (51).

NORTHVILLE 229, FARMINGTON HARRISON 244: Morgan was a little disappointed with his team's performance on Sept. 26 against the lowly Hawks, but it turned out to be an easy victory anyway.

"Again, it was cold and windy, but I don't think we were mentally ready to play that day," he said. "I think we had a letdown."

Lemmon took medalist honors with a 43. The other Northville competitors included Krupansky (45), Warner (46), junior Mike Fischer (47) and Schrieber (48).

PLYMOUTH CANTON 205, NOR-

THVILLE 214: The poor play finally caught up with the Mustangs on Sept. 28 at Salem Hills.

"We caught (Canton) on a hot day, and they caught us on a bad day," Morgan said. "I consider Canton, Farmington and Walled Lake Western to be three of the best in our conference, so their score didn't surprise me. They have a fine team."

Porter was the only bright spot for the Mustangs. He shot a 40 but was still a full three strokes off the lead. Lemmon and Schrieber were next (42 each), followed by Sherman (45) and Krupansky (45).

"Our first kid did well, but we kind of fell apart after that," Morgan said. "I'm thrilled with the way Porter is playing. He's a first-year player and that makes it even more gratifying."

"I knew we'd need to shoot well to beat (Canton) and it just didn't happen. We didn't rise to the occasion."

Northville is now 6-3 overall, 4-2 in the WLA.

Mustangs of the Week

RYAN KILNER

The big hero in Northville's 28-14 football triumph over Livonia Churchill last Friday was fullback Ryan Kilner — that's why he is one of our "Mustangs of the Week." The junior rushed for a career-high 185 yards on only 14 carries and was directly responsible for all four Mustang touchdowns. In the first half, he reeled off runs of 19 and 47 yards to set up the first two scores, and in the second half he scored two T.D.s himself — on runs of 23 and 22. "Kilner had a career night," Northville Coach Darrel Schumacher said. "He had four gains of more than 20 yards each, and that is a lot of yardage for a fullback. I can't remember the last time we had a back rush for as many yards as he did."

CHRIS LEMMON

Junior golfer Chris Lemmon had one of the best individual performances by a Northville athlete in years in a dual meet against Livonia Franklin on Sept. 29. In leading the Mustangs to a 206-229 win over the Patriots, Lemmon carded a two-under-par 34 for nine holes at Salem Hills Country Club. It was the best score ever for Lemmon and tied a school record in the process. Lemmon made three birdies, one bogie and five pars during his record-breaking round, and we think "Mustang of the Week" honors are well deserved. "He's had some 35s in practice but never in a match," Mustang Coach Don Morgan said. "He's been an in a mini slump lately, scoring mostly in the low 40s, so he was due to break out of it."

Watson Roadster added to Motorsports exhibit in Novi

The Watson Roadster which Dick Rathmann put on the pole at Indianapolis in 1958 is a distinctive new addition to the Motorsports Hall of Fame of America exhibit at the Novi Civic Center.

For nearly a decade in the late-1950s, the dominant car at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway was the Watson Roadster. Legendary chief mechanic A.J. Watson designed the car for the 1957 Indianapolis 500. The car showed flashes of its potential brilliance as Troy Ruttman set the early pace in the event, but it dropped out after only 13 laps.

Two new Roadsters joined the 1957 model on the front row for the 1958 race. The number 97 McNamara Special driven by Dick Rathmann won the pole position with a new four-lap qualifying record of 145.974 miles per hour. Sadly, the car also holds the distinction of having been at the forefront of one of the worst chain-reaction accidents in Speedway history.

Rathman and Ed Elisian in another Roadster led the pack into the third turn of the first lap, each determined not to give any ground to the other. As they careened into the wall together, Rathmann's car was cut in half, and 15 other cars joined the grinding melee.

From two pieces of twisted wreckage, the McNamara Special has been restored by Jack Layton of Howell to the sleek racing condition in which it had been on the morning of that fatal Memorial Day of 1958.

Powered by four cylinder Offenhauser engines, Watson Roadsters went on to consecutive wins in the next six Indianapolis 500s, from 1959 through 1964.

The last successful front engine cars at the Speedway, by 1964 they were already being called "dinosaurs." Superior weight distribution had given them a distinct advantage over other front engine machines. For the same reason, the Roadsters were never able to compete with rear engine cars which have been the sole winners at the Brickyard since 1965.

A classic design, and the end of the era — the Watson Roadster.

The Novi Civic Center is located at 45175 West Ten Mile between Novi and Taft roads. Exhibit hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Open heart open

The winning foursome — including Northville's Aram Manooagian — from the first Oakwood Hospital Open Heart Open successfully defended its title at the second annual event at the Dearborn Country Club last month. Sporting their

Netters closing in on 4th division title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If the Northville netters could pull off a win on Oct. 2 (after Record deadline) against Walled Lake Western — as expected — the squad would assure itself of yet another WLLA Western Division title.

It will be the Mustangs' fourth straight division championship, and will mark the sixth consecutive year the Northville tennis program has grabbed either division or conference honors. The streak dates back to 1984 — the last year of the old Western Six Conference.

Longtime Mustang Coach Uta Filkin has her squad in position to challenge for the conference crown as well this fall, and a perfect 4-0 record in action last week puts Northville in first place in the 12-team WLLA with a 9-0 record (10-1 overall).

The Mustangs wrapped up the week with a 7-0 whitewash victory over Livonia Churchill on Sept. 29, but the meet did include a pair of exciting tie-breakers that went Northville's way.

"We looked a little tired, but we were never in any serious trouble," Filkin reported. "It's always tough when you play four matches in five days like we did."

The first tie-breaker came at No. 1 singles, where Karen Vogt outlasted Kris Anderson 7-6 (7-1), 6-1. The second happened in the No. 2 doubles match, where Tricia Tumminia and Rebecca Bellamy got off to a slow start but rebounded to beat Stacy Sokup and Mary Helner 7-6 (7-4), 6-1.

The other singles wins came from Diane Vogt at No. 2 (over Lori Delany 6-3, 6-1), Shannon Price at No. 3 (over Marci Kneinding 6-0, 6-0), and Alicia Hanson at No. 4 (over Margi Logas 6-0, 6-0). In doubles, the top team of Neysa Colizzi and Kavitha Sriraman turned back Brenda Riedel and Annette Olszewski (6-1, 6-1), and the third team — with Julie Howard and Merilyn Millgard — disposed of Kathy Uira and Jenny Plangen (6-3, 6-1) to remain unbeaten so far this season.

"If nothing else, we got a little more experience in winning tie-breakers," Filkin said.

NORTHVILLE 7, WESTLAND JOHN GLENN 0: In another easy dual-meet triumph, the Mustangs shut out the Rockets on Sept. 25.

"Glenn is not traditionally very strong in tennis," Filkin said. "It ended up being a very fast meet because nobody on our team dropped more than three games combined in any flight."

In singles, Karen Vogt blanked Catina Conner 6-0, 6-0; Diane Vogt dumped Lynette Conner 6-0, 6-1; Price beat Cher Walko 6-2, 6-1 and Hanson had little trouble with Cheri Cantko (6-0, 6-1).

In doubles, the Colizzi / Sriraman duo turned back Sharon Kolar and Jill Szukitsis 6-0, 6-2; Tumminia and Bellamy shut out Kara Beeny and Jean Pifers 6-0, 6-0 and the third team of Howard and Millgard whipped Lisa Dupree and Mary Ann Boldt 6-0, 6-1.

NORTHVILLE 5, FARMINGTON HARRISON 2: This Sept. 26 clash was Northville's closest WLLA match of the season. The Mustangs dropped the first two single contests and then swept the final five, all in straight sets.

The singles winners included Price and Hanson. Price topped Merilyn Oniso 6-2, 6-2, while Hanson took care of Julie Heist 6-2, 6-1. Karen Vogt gave Kori Davidson a battle at No. 1 before falling 1-6, 3-6. Davidson is ranked as one of the top five prep singles players in the state, and is ranked in the top 80 for her age group nationally. Diane Vogt also dropped a tough match to Lisa Tomle, 6-2, 4-6, 2-6.

Colizzi and Sriraman were 6-3, 6-4 winners over Jill Barringer and Jodie Whitehead at No. 1 doubles; Tumminia and Bellamy held off Kristi Cornwell and Melissa Prendergast 6-2, 6-2 at No. 2 and the third team (Millgard and Howard) blasted Julie Gibbs and Jill Rosethal 6-0, 6-2.

"Harrison is a team to watch because they are young and talented," Filkin said. "It was a windy day, and I think it took us a while to get used to it."

NORTHVILLE 6, FARMINGTON 1: On Sept. 27, the Mustangs cruised past the Falcons with six straight-set victories.

Karen Vogt blasted Jayne Blee (6-0, 6-1). Price sailed past Stacie Cornwell (6-3, 6-1) and Hanson edged Sara Stevens 6-2, 7-5 for three singles points. All three doubles teams were also easy winners.

"It's time we start to get very serious about this season," Filkin said. "If we play the way we should, we can win the conference title. We're in first place all by ourselves."

If the Mustangs can pull it off, it will be their third WLLA title in five years.

League Line

SOCCER: Bahl powers Express

GIRLS UNDER 10: Jill Bahl scored four times to lead the Northville Express to a lopsided 11-0 win over Plymouth No. 2. Becky Roberts scored three goals for the winners and Kristin Smith was the MVP. Jackie Rompel scored the game's only goal as Northville United nipped Plymouth No. 3, 1-0. Lecca Harmer, Sarah Arndt and Julie Flis were the defensive standouts. Livonia No. 1 crunched Northville Arsenal 7-0.

BOYS UNDER 12: The Northville Sting Select Boys team completed a successful weekend at the Oakland University Tournament on Sept. 23-24, under the guidance of coaches Don Edwards and Ken Romine. The team was one of 14 entries in the under-12 age group and placed first in the third bracket, thus earning a spot in the semifinals. The Sting fell to the Washington Strikers early in the competition but came back to beat the Rochester Renegades and the Livonia Wolves 3 team, both by scores of 2-0. The win over the Wolves avenged an early season defeat. Once in the semifinals, the Sting dropped a 5-0 decision to a strong team from Utica. The Northville squad was sparked the entire tournament by goalie Adam Tibble and the offensive prowess of Matt Sweet, Jeremy Abbey and Ben Romine. Other members contributing to the effort included Nate Goebel, J.R. Graft, Jeff Husak, Chris Luebke, Stan McAskin, Steve Weickel, Evan Edwards, Mark Russell, Andrew Weyer and Miles Olson. Waterford dumped the Northville Sting 2-0. Northville Arsenal blanked Livonia No. 1, 3-0, thanks to goals by Rob Rankin, Tom Andary and Adam Blotkamp. Jeff Nield was the defensive star. Livonia No. 4 topped Northville United 2-0. Farmington No. 6 edged the Northville Rowdies 3-2 in a hard-fought battle. Tim Maloney and Todd Smith scored for the locals.

GIRLS UNDER 12: Goals from Meghan Gian, Amy Heckemeyer, Gina Chasson and Lisa Tolsted powered Northville Arsenal to the convincing 6-0 triumph over Plymouth No. 2. The MVPs for the winners were Meghan Cauzillo and Lindsay Huot.

BOYS UNDER 14: Marc Chasson (3) and John Abbey combined to score five times as Northville United cruised past Plymouth No. 1, 5-1. Goals were also scored by John Matthews, Chris Harrison and Anthony DeBenedet. Matt Basse scored but it wasn't enough as the Northville Express fell to Lakes No. 4, 6-1. Scott Engelsman and Ed Hugener were the most valuable performers for the Express. South Lyon shut out Northville Arsenal 2-0. Matisse Kukams and Ted Downs were the MVPs.

GIRLS UNDER 14: Despite fine play by Kate Riebling and Erin Maloney, the Northville Rowdies were on the short end of a 7-0 decision against Livonia in Challenge Cup action. Northville Express fell to Livonia 4-0 in another Challenge Cup match. Adrienne Browne and Lindsay Ferguson were the standouts. Goals by Katrina Heckemeyer and Kern Kehoe made things close, but Livonia No. 1 slipped past the Northville Express, 3-2. Melissa Dillon and Krista Howe were the MVPs.

BOYS UNDER 16: Northville Arsenal beat Livonia 2-0 on goals by George Hogan and Mark McCahey. Dan Chavez and Steve Bat were the MVPs and goalie Brennan Sicks notched the shut out. Northville Arsenal topped Huron Valley 4-1. Northville United battled Huron Valley to a 4-4 tie. Adam Dvrs, Mark Litzelman and Clark Sexton all scored for United.

GIRLS UNDER 19: Wendy Carroll and Beth Urset scored to propel Arsenal to a 2-0 victory over Huron Valley. Julie Howard and Erin Belok starred, and so did goaltender Kelley Kronberg. Wendy Carroll and Julie Howard combined to score four goals as Arsenal dumped Southfield 9-0. Beth Urset, Jenny Beyersdorf, Kelley Kronberg, Betsy Petricca and Colleen Regan also scored for the winners.

COLTS: J.V. rallies again

VARSITY: The Nov-Northville Colts found themselves in another defensive struggle last week against the Belleville Cougars. After falling behind by six points, the Colts tied it on a touchdown run by Jeff Betzler, set up by several clutch pass receptions by Ryan Barber and Dave Morrell. But the Cougars scored the game-winning late in the game on a broken play — final score 12-6. Defensively, Brian Kelly, Brian Jackson and John Wilds were the standouts for the locals.

After the defense — led by Brett Inslund, Stu Evans, Neil Lokey, Paul Hladin and Justin Cataldo — held the Cougars, the Colts got the ball back and pulled to within one (13-12) on Zayti's second T.D. It was set up by two pass receptions from Zayti to Jimmy Inslund. With time running out and facing a fourth down situation, Zayti hooked up with Inslund on a 20-yard scoring strike. The game-winning drive included big gains by Brandon Spence and Brett Inslund. Other key contributors in the win were Matt Beer, Mark Allen and Scott Ellsworth.

JUNIOR VARSITY: The Colts J.V. squad came through again with a last-minute win. Plagued by eight turnovers in the first three quarters, the Colts overcame a 13-point deficit and turned back the Belleville Cougars 18-13. Todd Zayti and Jimmy Inslund came through with some heroics that ended being the difference. Zayti broke loose on two long runs to set up his first touchdown with just seven minutes to play.

FRESHMAN: The Colts freshman team blanked the Cougars 18-0. Bran Cody scored three touchdowns on runs of 6, 46, and 20 yards and Bran Gowing helped out with a 20-yard interception run. Defensively, Patrick Powers, Scott Vigh, Brett Johnson, Nick Bagini, James Zayti, Mike Bush and Mike Christenson all contributed with fine play.

Northville cross country squads turn back Harrison

Lisa Brown placed fourth for the Mustangs against Harrison
Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville's Steve Coon (left) battles three opponents in cross country action earlier this season
Record/CHRIS BOYD

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With every step forward, injuries seem to send the Northville harriers a few steps back.

Previously injured runners Jon Meek and Jason Hoose are now back in the Mustang lineup and approaching full strength, but number-two man Andy Haas has been lost for the season with a stress fracture. All those problems didn't seem to matter, however, on Sept. 26 as Northville clobbered Farmington Harrison 17-42 at Cass Benton Park.

Even without Haas, the Mustangs placed 1-2-3 and had their ninth runner cross the finish line before the Hawks' fifth.

"It was rather convincing," Northville Coach Ed Gabrys said. "There were a lot of good performances, but we'll need to be even sharper against Churchill — that will be a close one."

The Mustangs (1-2 in the WLAA) are slated to take on the Chargers today (Oct. 5) in a key Western Division showdown.

Sophomore Steve Coon continues to pace Northville. He placed first overall against Harrison and notched a season-best time of 17:33 — which is a school record for 10th-graders and only one second shy of his all-time best effort.

"All indications are that Steve is on a roll now," Gabrys said. "This is about the time of the season when we want our guys to be equaling last year's best times. After that, we want to see personal bests."

Meek placed second but was a minute and a half behind Coon in 19:09. Hoose finished the race eighth seconds later to take third (19:17).

"Meek's first two miles were fine, but the last mile was the problem," Gabrys said. "There were no ill effects from the thigh injury, it's just that he's not in prime condition yet."

Dave Borg was fifth overall (personal best 19:31) and he was followed closely by Jamie Groves in sixth (19:35), Aaron Wiseley in eighth (19:45) and Mike Connery in 11th (20:17).

"We packed fairly well, but we need to move that group up and get closer to Coon," Gabrys said. "The interval between our number one and number two runner is about 90 seconds — that's more than what it should be for all seven runners. We have a long ways to go."

GIRLS CROSS COUNTRY UPDATE: For the second straight dual meet, the Northville girls cross country squad notched an automatic win over a team that failed to field a full squad.

With only two runners, Farmington

Harrison didn't give the Mustangs much of a battle on Sept. 26 at Cass Benton. According to Northville Coach Nick Dunwoodie, the windy and cool conditions affected the times.

"The times were a bit slower because of the conditions," he said. "It was more or less a three-mile workout for us. My teams tend to run better when there is competition, so maybe that is another explanation for the times. I guess it's only natural that when we're pushed, we perform better."

Junior Marcie Dart took first place honors in 22:44. She was followed in order by Rozann Staknis (23:35), Rachel Davis (23:51), Lisa Brown (24:15), Kamal Bagga (24:30), Angie Nelson (24:31) and Julie Buser (25:22).

Kickers suffer through scoring drought

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Play by goaltender Larry Osiecki was one of the few bright spots in Northville's 2-0 loss at Plymouth Canton started to dominate the line of scrimmage in the second half. Churchill never really threatened to score the rest of the way, but the Mustangs did add an insurance score early in the fourth on Kilner's second touchdown. He put the finishing touches on a 56-yard march with a score from 22 yards out.

Gridders dump Churchill, 28-14 thanks to second-half comeback

For the game, Kilner had a career-high 185 yards in only 14 attempts — an average of more than 13 yards per carry. Kelley chipped in with 101 yards in 20 carries and the two combined to score three of the four T.D.s.

"We had two backs go over 100 yards, and you have to give credit to our offensive line," Schumacher said. "They are starting to play excellent football. We gained 319 yards on the ground, and that's a tribute to guys like Shuff, Mejia, (Bob) Townsend, (Jason) Stringer, (Dave) Morante, (Rob) Holloway and (Jason) Vertrees.

"Kilner had a career night. He had four gains of more than 20 yards each, and that is a lot of yardage for a fullback. I can't remember the last time we had a back rush for as many yards as he did."

Spradlin was an immovable object in the center of the line and ended up with six solo tackles and four assists in the game. Linebacker Jeff Todd (nine solos, three sacks and three assists) and tackle Matt Smith (four solos, three assists) were also key contributors defensively.

"In the second half, our defense did a great job," Schumacher said. "I thought Spradlin had a great game.

The last few games, you can see him improving. It was his best game — he was all over the field."

Northville (2-3 overall, 2-2 in the WLAA) will be out to avenge a 21-15 defeat suffered against Canton last season. The Chiefs are led by quarterback Karl Wukie and have already assured themselves the first winning season in school history. With Farmington Harrison on tap a week later, Schumacher is hoping Canton will enter the game overconfident and looking ahead.

"I hope that happens, but I doubt it will," he said. "They are a fine team and they've found out how to win — that makes them more dangerous. But at the same time we feel good about ourselves and we feel we can compete with Canton."

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

It's tough to have a successful week of soccer when you fail to score a single goal.

That was the situation for the Northville kickers last week in losses to Plymouth Canton and Ann Arbor Pioneer. On Sept. 29, the Mustangs played what coach Dave Yezback called "probably our best overall game" but still came up 1-0 losers to the Pioneers.

"It was a game where, for the first time against a good team, we were able to control the midfield with our passing," Yezback said. "We looked for scoring opportunities as a team rather than as individuals. Unfortunately, we missed a couple good scoring opportunities."

Pioneer scored the game's lone goal at the 20-minute mark of the second half off a throw-in — but other than that, it was a very evenly matched battle. The shots on goal numbers were almost identical (11-10 in favor of Pioneer).

"Their goal was really their only good scoring chance," Yezback said. "Even though we lost the game, our defense played well. If we can keep playing this style of soccer, we'll be able to do something with this season."

"It was a game between two well-matched teams. We dominated the game as far as ball control; unfortunately, it didn't translate into a win. Now we have to work on getting the ball up from the midfield and into the scoring areas — that should help our scoring."

PLYMOUTH CANTON 2, NORTHVILLE 0: Offensive production continued to be a problem on Sept. 27 in a road loss to the Chiefs.

"(Canton) plays a fast-paced game and they controlled the play with their speed," Yezback said. "They kept us off balance, and we ended up chasing people instead of marking them."

Canton's Dan Martin scored both goals in the first half — one at the 20-minute mark and the other at the 26-minute mark — and it ended 2-0.

"Our guys got a little more defensive in the second half, but we never did mount a meaningful offensive threat. At least we held them in check."

"When we get behind, we have a tendency to play kick ball when we should be trying to control the ball at the midfield with good, short passes. It's a case of maturity."

For the game Canton (5-5-1) outshot the visiting Mustangs 23-3. Canton goalie Andy Collins registered the shutout.

Northville (4-7 overall, 3-4 in the WLAA) will play Redford Catholic Central on Oct. 6 at 4 p.m. at Schoolcraft College.

RECREATION BRIEFS

VOLLEYBALL FESTIVAL: Northville Charley's is sponsoring a mixed volleyball tournament until Oct. 27. The proceeds will be given to Our Lady of Providence Center For Handicapped Children, located on Beck Road in Northville.

The tournament will held on the front lawn of the restaurant from 6-8 p.m. nightly.

GIRLS BASKETBALL: All girls, grades three through six, are invited to participate in an all-girls basketball league. The league season will begin in November and conclude in January. Games are held on Saturdays, and practices will be held on weekday evenings. League fee is $22.50, and the registration deadline is Oct. 20.

CHEERLEADING COACH NEEDED: Our Lady of Victory Grade School in Northville is looking for a cheerleading coach.

Anyone interested in this paid position should call Eileen Dunn at 349-1483.

REGISTRATION BEGINS: The Northville Recreation Department has begun accepting registration for fall activities. The office hours are 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. For additional information, call 349-0203.

FALL CLASSIC: The Fall Classic Golf Outing sponsored by Easter Seals of Wayne County will be held Sunday, Oct. 15, at Riverview Highlands Golf Club.

The complete golf package is $75 per person and includes 18 holes of golf with a cart, continental breakfast, open bar and awards dinner. Prizes will also be presented. An 11 a.m. shotgun start is planned.

Call Joanna Martin or Bob Schellenberger at 722-3055 before the Oct. 4 deadline for tickets or information.

ANGELA HOSPICE OUTING: The first annual Angela Hospice Home Care Golf Outing is slated for Oct. 9 at Glenhurst Golf Club in Redford.

The 18-hole lady scramble for four-person teams will start at 10 a.m. The cost is $50 per person, not including cart. A continental breakfast will be served at 9 a.m., and lunch will follow golf.

For more information call 592-8758 or 591-5157.

BOATING EDUCATION COURSE: The United States Coast Guard is conducting a public-education course. Its purpose is to educate the boating public and to create safety awareness when operating a boat.

There will be a fee for the textbook. All classes will be conducted by qualified auxiliary instructors. For more information, call Leonard at 533-0579.

MOTORSPORTS ON DISPLAY: Historic racing vehicles and exhibits honoring the Motorsports Hall of Fame inductees are on display daily at the Novi Civic Center Atrium. Admission is free.

Currently featured are Barney Oldfield's first and last cars — the "999" and the "Golden Submarine" — as well as the 1965 "Novi Special" Indy Car driven by Bobby Unser.

High schools offer balanced meals

By CRISTINA FERRIER

In spite of high-fat foods provided by the government, high school students in Northville and Novi are provided with plenty of opportunities to eat a healthy, balanced meal, nutrition directors at both schools say.

But if the student hasn't developed good eating habits already, he or she may be lunching on Twinkies.

A recent study conducted by Public Voice for Food and Health Policy, a Washington-based consumer group, found that many public schools are hampered in efforts to provide healthy meals because they depend on high-fat food provided by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

This, the group said, contributed to a tendency for school-age children to eat a diet high in fat and lacking in essential fruits and vegetables.

Julie Howard and Tom Ursel, both Northville students, say that they try to eat balanced meals.

However, they both say that a large number of students eat lunches consisting of nothing but junk food. Hostess brand snacks seem to be a popular item among many of their friends.

Ursel says that he usually eats the deli sandwiches because they are made fresh every day. The sandwiches are served with salads, so he has no problem eating well.

"The school offers a good choice of fruits and salads," Howard said, adding that any student who wants to eat a balanced meal for lunch has the opportunity to eat one every day.

They both said that they learned their good eating habits from their parents.

Northville Schools Food Service Supervisor Yvonne Stephens thinks that people read too much into consumer group messages like the one from Public Voice for Food and Health Policy.

"We've had good options — lots of chicken and turkey. Some things we get are protein products like cheese and beef, but we do get a lot of fruits and vegetables."

However, Stephens says that pizza, cheeseburgers and chicken nuggets are regular menu items at Northville High.

"I guess what we're trying to do is work lower fat items in by the back door. But they're not what the kids relate to," she said. "Our challenge is to begin to interest them in other things."

Northville students are offered salads on a regular basis. But Stephens says that many students will dump "about a cup" of dressing on the salad.

"We do a lot with salad," she said, "But a good low-fat salad can be ruined with too much dressing."

Novi Food Service Director Pat Hill agrees that many high school students don't eat properly. "If the parents haven't taught them proper nutrition by the time they reach high school, it's hard for us to change them," she says.

However, she sees an influx of students now who are more concerned about nutrition.

Novi High School student Hillary Cargo always eats a balanced meal. "My mom has charts and makes sure we eat only so much red meat and other things.

"When I went on vacation without her I didn't really watch what I ate, and then I got sick. So now I really try to eat a balanced meal," she said.

Novi's lunch program offers a wide opportunity for students to choose a meal that is low in fat and nutritionally sound. High school students are offered "ten or twelve different choices," for meals, Hill says, as well as a daily salad bar. Novi is also the only school in this area with its own bake shop, where the ingredients are all natural.

Deanna Hayden, also a Novi student, says that her meal "depends on her mood." Some school foods, she says, are "greasy, but good." She says that she tries to eat well, especially when she has a cross-country meet.

Novi student Lisa Colclough says that, if you buy the full lunches at school, you will get a balanced meal. "But most people buy junk," she added.

Many students at Novi High complain that the school lunches are too expensive.

"A salad costs $1.55 and all you get is a little bowl of lettuce and a roll," complained Heather Campbell.

Her friend, Jodi Zuchlewski said that a school policy allowing students no more than one spoonful of vegetables without extra charge keeps many students from eating as well as they could.

Hill recognizes that cost factors are a problem in school lunch programs. That is why the program depends on government food.

"We try to maintain our costs at as low a level as we can. When we receive high-fat foods, we have to weigh those burdens. I try to maintain as nutritional a program as I can and at the same time try to make the bottom line."

Hospital sponsors free health screenings

William Beaumont Hospital in Royal Oak is sponsoring three free health screenings for seniors during October.

From 1:30-4 p.m. Oct. 11, Beaumont is offering a blood-pressure, blood-sugar and dental screening along with medication review, nutritional evaluation and information on breast self-examinations. The screening will be held at the Royal Oak Senior Community Center. Call Sandy Lipps at 546-2060 to register.

A similar screening will be held 1-3 p.m. Oct. 18 at the Birmingham Area Senior Coordinating Council. Call Libby Palmer at 642-1040 to register.

The final screening will be from 10 a.m. to noon Oct. 25 at the Huntington Woods Senior Center. Contact Amy Kessler or Margaret Tripp at 541-3030.

OPEN SWIMMING: Open swimming at the Northville High School pool has resumed. The fee is $1 per person and is payable at the door.

The fall open swimming schedule through Nov. 15 is as follows: Monday from 7:15-8:15 p.m.;

Fitness Notes

Wednesday from 7:15-8:30 p.m., and Saturday from 1:30-3 p.m. An adult lap swim is also slated for Wednesday from 8:30-9:30 p.m.

CHOLESTEROL EDUCATION: The Oakland County Health Division is offering a cholesterol-education class at the Bloomfield Township Public Library, 1099 lone Pine Road, Bloomfield Hills. The class will meet Oct. 10 and 17 from 6:30-8:30 p.m. The cost is $6.

To register, call 858-5306. Class size is limited.

HEALTH CLUB: Schoolcraft College is offering a "health club" the whole family can use. The college offers a "Sunday Health Club" designed to enable families to enjoy unstructured activity in a modern, fully equipped physical education facility that includes gyms, racquetball courts, weight machines, a swimming pool and a sauna. The Sunday Health Club runs 13 weeks and began Sept. 17. The cost is $25 for individuals and $65 for families.

"Thursday Gym and Swim" is an open program organized around the use of health facilities (gym, pool, weight training equipment, handball / racquetball courts and a sauna). The pool is used primarily for swimming laps. The gym and pool will be open Thursdays from 6-9:40 p.m. for the next 11 weeks. The cost is $35 for individuals and $100 for families.

The "Saturday Gym and Swim" Program makes the gym and pool available on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to noon. A $2 fee will be charged at the door. The pool is used primarily for swimming laps.

Schoolcraft College is located at 18600 Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. For more information call 462-4413.

Fitness Tips

By SLYVA DVORAK, M.S.

We hope you took the stress evaluation that was a part of this column last week. If you did, you learned the degree of stress you are experiencing at the present time. You may also discover or already know that stress can affect you both physically and psychologically.

How we live from day to day influences our physical and mental health. Problems occur when we let stress get the better of us.

Some signs of stress are:

- High blood pressure
- Obesity
- Ulcers
- Heart disease

Some psycho-social signs of stress are:

- Depression
- Nervousness
- Irritability
- Low self-esteem
- Difficulty sleeping

It is thought that up to 90 percent of illnesses are due to the lifestyle we choose to live. This means how we perceive and react to stress is very important. Since stress seems inevitable, knowing how to manage it is the key.

As we all have different tastes in clothing, we also have different techniques which help us cope with stress. Finding what "fits" you will help you avoid, reduce, or relieve the stress you are currently experiencing.

The following are some suggestions from Woman's Day, Sept. 1, 1982, for avoiding stress:

- Get up 15 minutes earlier
- Prepare for morning the night before
- Never wear ill-fitting clothes
- Set appointments ahead
- Don't rely on your memory
- Practice preventive maintenance
- Make duplications of all keys
- Rearrange work hours, if possible
- Say no more often
- Never shop for clothes with critical teenagers, skinny friends or those who look terrific in anything
- Take advantage of off hours for banking and shopping
- Rearrange meal times
- Feed the children separately

sometimes

- Keep an emergency supply of necessities
- Walk everywhere you can
- Make copies of important papers and keep originals in a safe place
- Anticipate your needs, such as plenty of coins for toll collections and vending machines
- Don't put up with anything that doesn't work properly
- Make advance reservations at hotels, restaurants and theaters
- Allow extra time

Here are more hints from Woman's Day for reducing stress:

- Be prepared to wait
- Never arrange a meeting place that has no telephone
- Find humor in it
- Keep a "busy kit" handy when you travel, such as a portable tape deck or favorite magazine
- Relax your standards — doing everything perfectly is not only unnecessary, it's boring
- Get help with the jobs you hate
- Establish a serene place of your own
- Change your perspective — instead of worrying about what will happen if... try asking yourself, "So what?"

- Count your blessings
- Keep time fillers by the telephone
- Memorize your favorite poems
- Keep a supply of individually wrapped candies or sugar-free gum handy
- Travel light
- Be prepared for rain
- Ask questions
- Take advantage of your body rhythms
- Make contingency plans
- Unclutter your life
- Avoid reliance on chemical aids

Here are tips to help relieve stress:

- Get in touch — hold hands, stoke a pet, hug a loved one
- Take time out
- Find enjoyable ways to exercise
- Get it off your chest
- Talk to a loving friend or relative
- Reward yourself after stressful activities
- Take leisurely baths
- Schedule more fun
- Take a break from the children
- Have a massage
- Unwind before bedtime
