Police chief faces censure over gun sale

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township Chief of Police Kenneth Hardesty has been placed on administrative leave and faces possible dismissal after it was learned that he sold a township weapon to Clerk Thomas L.P. Cook.

Hardesty, a member of the township police force for almost 20 years, will have his fate determined at a special closed session of the township Board of Trustees this evening (Dec. 7).

According to an investigative report conducted by township attorney Ernest J. Essad, Jr., Hardesty allegedly sold Cook a Glock Model 19 automatic handgun and may have violated one federal law and a pair of state laws in the process.

Chief Kenneth Hardesty

The report, based on interviews with four police officials and Cook, alleges that Hardesty sold Cook one of 19 automatic weapons purchased by the department in September.

The report also alleges that Hardesty signed a federal excise tax waiver which exempts police departments from federal taxes on weapons purchased for the exclusive use of police departments. The report indicates that Hardesty may have violated the intent of the law by signing the waiver after Cook asked the chief to purchase him a weapon for personal use. Cook, who is not a police officer, is not eligible for tax exempt status.

Essad's report also indicates that Hardesty may have violated Michigan law, which requires a four-percent sales tax on the sale of all personal property. Additionally, the chief apparently violated the Charter Township Act of the State of Michigan by empowering himself to make the transaction.

According to the law, only the township supervisor, acting on authorization of the Board of Trustees, has the right to conduct sales of township property.

The Glock Model 19 is an automatic handgun that is capable of firing 17 rounds of ammunition in rapid succession, according to Bill Green, a salesperson for CMP, the Detroit police weapons outfitter that made an $8,110 sale to the township police department in September.

Green said the Glock Model 19 sells for $511.16 retail, but is available to police departments for $320, the same amount Hardesty charged Cook.

Cook's check was made out to the township, and the report states that Hardesty did not receive any financial benefit from the transaction. The report indicates that the deal originated with the chief acting upon a request from Cook.

Apparently, Cook approached Hardesty after the township Board of Trustees approved the weapons purchase Sept. 14. Cook asked the chief if it would be possible to get him one of the guns, and Hardesty indicated he

Cook denies any impropriety in purchase of gun

By MIKE TYREE

No one was more surprised than Thomas Cook to hear of the improper gun sale investigation focused squarely upon Northville Township Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty.

Cook said he returned after Thanksgiving from a two-week out-of-town stay to find the township embroiled in a police department controversy.

And he says he is amazed at the uproar surrounding his purchase of a Glock Model 19 automatic weapon.

"I think this whole thing was blown out of proportion," Cook said Monday. "I don't think I was involved in any kind of impropriety. I filled out all the paperwork I was told about."

Cook says that after a Board of Trustees meeting Sept. 14, in which the police department was authorized to buy $8,110 worth of automatic weapons, he and two other board members discussed purchasing a handgun.

"(Donald) Williams and (Thomas) Handyside were talking about the guns, too," he said. "I thought they were going to buy one. I asked Kenny (Hardesty) if he could get me one, and he called me later and said he could get one for $320."

Lennox named new township treasurer

By MIKE TYREE

Former Northville Township clerk and supervisor Betty Lennox is the new township treasurer.

Lennox was selected over 14 other candidates to fill a vacancy created when Richard Henningsen assumed the township manager position in October.

The township Board of Trustees announced that Lennox was their choice at their Nov. 30 meeting, with Trustee James Nowka nominating the long-time resident.

"We saw people that were just outstanding," Nowka said. "Betty Lennox's experience and background would allow her to quickly fit into our program."

Trustee Thomas Handyside supported Nowka's motion and the board voted 4-2 to approve her nomination. Trustees Donald Williams and Richard Allen cast nay votes, but Allen then made a motion to make the vote unanimous for Lennox.

His motion carried 6-0. Supervisor Georgina Goss said the search for a new treasurer had gone well.

Theater children

A new children's theater troupe, the Marquis Theater Children, has begun at the Marquis Theater in Northville. The young people, ages 7-14, will perform live stage productions at the historic theater. The troupe of 23 children is currently practicing for its first production, a special Christmas show opening tomorrow night, Dec. 8. The production runs through Dec. 28. For more pictures and story on the new group see page 14A.

Haller library plans proceed

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township officials are forging ahead with plans for a new community library, despite reservations voiced by some city residents over the location and size of the new facility.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen told the township Board of Trustees Nov. 30 that he had just toured the community library in Lake Orion, and was looking for ideas and comparisons for the township's proposed 44,800 square foot library on Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

Henningsen said the Lake Orion facility was 27,089 square feet (29,042 gross, including outdoor overhangs), and was built at a total cost of about $119 per square foot. He said construction costs were nearly $100 per square foot, furnishings were $16 per square foot, and computers and telecommunications hardware were listed at another $3. Lake Orion paid 6.8 percent of the total cost for architectural fees.

Using comparable figures, construction of a 44,800 foot community library on the 72 acres donated to the township by Frieda Haller, would cost approximately $5.3 million. However, Henningsen said the Northville library would not need some of the more expensive items included in the Lake Orion project.

"They had no water, no sewer, and they needed a strong sub-base for the library," he said, adding that he hoped the township could get a lower price for the architectural work.

Henningsen also said the Lake Orion structure was similar to the proposed Haller property site in that the village library was moved to a township location. He also suggested that the Lake Orion facility was too small.

"Their storage space is pretty much full, and there are books stacked up in boxes," he said.

Responding to comments made at last week's city council meeting, Henningsen said the city has done a good job in bringing the library issue to the people.

"Everybody in the community has a right to hear publicly what is going on," he said. "The most important thing is to build some kind of understanding with the residents and leaders of the city. They're (city) getting the questions right out there."

Henningsen said it was understandable that some residents would balk at the potential cost of the project.

"I believe there is difficulty trying to sell any project which may mean an increase in tax dollars," he said. "But if the program is presented to the people correctly, and they are properly informed of our plans, you're less likely to get a negative vote."

"I think people just want to get to a place (that has) good books to read," he added.

Henningsen said he would work to arrange a public hearing on the library sometime in December, and he hoped people would get involved with the library planning, a wish also shared by a pair of his township peers.

"I'd like to see us start moving to involve the community on a grass roots level," said Supervisor Georgina Goss.

TRY, TRY AGAIN — Northville Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise announced Monday that a new proposal for a rejected cluster development will be reviewed by the township planning commission Dec. 12.

Christmas workshop

Children were shown how to make old-fashioned gifts for various members of their family. Two sessions of the workshop were held.

Library budget boosted for 1990

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Though its future location is still uncertain, the Northville Community Library's $363,389 budget was approved by the city council for the next fiscal year.

The amount represents a 10.3 percent increase over last year's budget of $280,069. City and township contributions are up 5.4 and 8.6 percent respectively, to $114,232 and $186,379.

Library Director Pat Orr attributed the budget increase to increased service. "We've added 60 hours of time," she said. "We've increased hours for part-time employees." A $7,000 expense for new shelves raised the city and township share, she added. Higher salaries and fringe benefits also added to the budget increase, she said. "Those are the two areas that go up significantly each year."

Orr also presented an estimated cost of providing Saturday hours year-round. The library is currently closed Saturdays between Memorial Day and Labor Day. The cost of providing an extra librarian, associate, circulation clerk and two student assistants would be $75,100.

Orr estimated that the additional staff would need to be hired year-round because of the difficulty of finding and training seasonal help. The staffing level of five librarians and 2½ clerical employees would still be below that of other area libraries providing year-round Saturday service, Orr reported.

These other libraries — Novi, Plymouth, Canton, Orion Township, and Berkley — have between four and 8½ librarians and between 3½ and six clerical workers, she said.

Orr made the analysis at the request of council member Carolann Ayers. "If we're overcrowded in the situation we are currently in," Ayers said, "it seems to me it would take the load off some current days if we could spread it out."

Gum leads to driver assault of boys at Amerman

On Nov. 28 at 11:40 a.m., according to city police reports, two boys at Amerman School were reporting to safety patrol assignments when one threw a wad of gum into the street, apparently striking a car. The driver reportedly then pulled into a parking lot off the school's North Lot Drive, exited the car, and hit and pushed one of the boys while screaming and swearing at both. Principal Milt Jacobi reported driving into the parking lot as the assailant left.

The assailant is described as a white male between the age of 24 and 25, 5'9" tall and stocky, with spiked blond hair. The driver was reportedly wearing blue jeans and a jean jacket at the time, and driving a blue 1987 Ford Escort.

WALKAWAY RECOVERED — Township police on patrol near Seven Mile and Haggerty roads Nov. 29 recovered a walkaway from Northville State Hospital (NSH). The patient was reportedly walking along Seven Mile wearing light spring clothing in 20 degree weather. When questioned by police, the man stated he was from NSH. He was then turned over to NSH security.

MEIJER LARCENY — Township police responded to a larceny from the Meijer store, 20401 Haggerty, Nov. 29 at 1:26 p.m. No other information was available from the township media log book.

PROPERTY DAMAGE REPORTED — Township police received a report of property damage Nov. 28 at 12:59 p.m. at Silver Springs Elementary. No further information was available.

TRACTOR LIFTED — The owner of a yellow 1976 John Deere tractor told township police that someone stole the tractor sometime between Oct. 23 and Oct. 25. The owner said the tractor was hidden along some bushes near Five Mile and Beck Roads. The tractor was used for backing hay in a nearby field, and was valued at $8,200.

OUIL ARREST IN TOWNSHIP — A driver southbound on Haggerty to Westbound Five Mile was arrested for operating a vehicle under the influence of alcohol at 1:31 a.m. Nov. 30, township police said. No further information was available in the incident.

JEWELRY STOLEN — A West Harbour Village Drive resident reported to township police that two gold men's rings valued at $1,600 and a gold bracelet valued at $600 were stolen from her apartment. The jewelry had been on a stand in an open hallway.

ASSAULT — Township police investigated a reported assault and battery on Lagoon Court that occurred Nov. 29 at 7:30 a.m. Police say an investigation is open, pending a warrant request.

PLATE STOLEN, WINDOWS SMASHED — Two trucks owned by a Fowlerville resident were damaged while in the northwest corner of the main parking lot at Northville Downs, according to city police reports. The windshield and rear window of a 1978 GMC were broken and a stone found on the dash of the truck. The license plate was also stolen from the truck. The windshield, passenger window and tail lights of a 1979 Ford were also broken. Damage was estimated at $650. The incidents reportedly occurred between 2 p.m. on Nov. 25 and 9:30 a.m. on Nov. 29.

RADAR DETECTOR TAKEN — The driver's side window of a car parked in the employees parking lot at Northville Downs was broken Nov. 27, and a black radar detector valued at $100 stolen off the dash. The incident took place between 8:15 p.m. and 10:25 p.m., according to city police.

POCKET REPORTED PICKED —

A Fenton resident reported that his pocket was picked on Dec. 2 at Northville Downs. The man reported that $300 was taken from his front pocket while he was on the third floor of the club house between 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m.. A wallet in his back pocket was undisturbed.

HOOD ORNAMENT STOLEN, RECOVERED — A $50 Cadillac hood ornament was reported stolen at Northville Downs on Dec. 2, and two parking attendants reported chasing a thief up Church Street. When a person at the track gave city police the name and address of the alleged thief, they proceeded to the address with the two parking attendants and confronted a 13-year-old Northville resident. The young man reportedly admitted taking the ornament, and returned it to the police, who returned it to the Cadillac owner at the track. The owner declined to press further charges.

OUIL IN THE CITY — A Farmington Hills woman driving south on Novi Road and turning east onto Eight Mile Road at 12:46 a.m. on Nov. 28 was stopped by city police after cutting across two lanes of traffic and driving for a short while on the shoulder of the road. The woman failed a sobriety test administered at the scene, and her blood alcohol level was subsequently measured at .27 percent, well above the legal limit of under .10 percent. She was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

FENDER BENDERS — Township police issued three citations to a driver involved in a one-car accident Nov. 29 around 6:10 p.m. Police said a witness to the accident told them that she was eastbound on Five Mile, traveling 45 miles per hour. She observed a vehicle in her rear view mirror quickly gaining on her vehicle, and then noticed the trailing car's headlights flash and disappear. She turned her car around and saw the second car had flipped onto its hood off the road.

The driver of the second car told police he was eastbound on Five Mile and driving around 50 miles per hour when he lost control of his vehicle. The officer at the scene stated that he smelled intoxicants on the driver's breath. The officer then issued a citation for failure to wear safety belts, a citation for careless driving, and a citation for refusing to take a preliminary breath test. The driver of the car blamed the accident on faulty tires which he said were purchased new on Nov. 17.

City police reported several accidents in the past week. On Nov. 28 at 9 a.m., a car turning east onto Dunlap from Wing struck another car heading east on Dunlap. The driver of the first car, a Northville man, was cited for disobeying the stop sign.

At 12:15 on Nov. 28, a Northville woman backing her car onto Baseline Road from a business opposite Oakland Road was struck by a vehicle heading west on Baseline. The driver of the first car was cited for improper backing.

At 1:35 p.m. that same day, a Northville woman driving west on East Main failed to stop for the newly installed traffic signal at Griswold, and struck a car heading north on Griswold Road. She was cited for disobeying the signal, and both cars had to be towed from the scene.

Icy roads were blamed for a Dec. 2 accident on Eight Mile Road. According to city police reports, a Novi woman driving east on Eight Mile at 7:55 p.m. lost control of her car, which slid to a stop sideways in the eastbound lane. A Northville man driving behind her was unable to stop in time, and struck the side of her car. Neither driver was cited.

At 8:30 p.m., a car being driven east by a Novi man went through a stop sign at the intersection of Cady and Griswold, and was struck by a vehicle heading south on Griswold. The first driver continued north on Griswold and was stopped by city police. He was cited for driving with a suspended licence and a hit and run accident.

Later that evening, at 9:22 p.m., a 17-year-old Novi man turning into a parking lot off Novi Road reportedly lost control of his vehicle, which slid over a curb and rolled into a ditch on its side. The Northville Fire Department was called to the scene because of leaking fuel, and the driver was transported to Providence Hospital.

Icy roads continued to plague drivers that night, one of whom reportedly slid off Griswold Road just north of Butler Street at 3:04 a.m.. The driver was cited for driving too fast around the curve.

On Dec. 4, at 11:25 a.m., a Northville man turning west onto Wing Street pulled in front of another vehicle heading west on Wing. The driver was cited for failing to yield. The second vehicle had to be towed from the scene after the driver struck a tree on Wing Street while trying to avoid a collision.

OVERCOMING ANXIETY

There are a lot of people who will not fly because they have an extreme anxiety or fear of flying. Let's face it, a lot of people do not get needed dental care because they have too, have anxiety about the dental chair. It is estimated that 10 to 12 million people won't go to the dentist for necessary dental work strictly because of this anxiety.

When you think about it, the concept is ludicrous. Dental care in today's modern dental office is virtually without real pain. If you want some REAL pain, experience a toothache from a root abscess and DON'T to a dentist for relief. That's not anxiety. That's pain. Regular dental care will PREVENT pain by keeping your mouth healthy. NOT going to the dentist will set you up - not for anxiety - but for possible tooth loss accompanied by the pain you could have avoided in the first place. If you have any anxiety, talk to your dentist about it and everything will be done to make sure you're comfortable. Don't neglect needed dental care because of unwarranted anxiety.

Doorstep pizza ordinance is a hot and spicy topic

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

If city council and planning commission members can iron out their differences over a proposed city ordinance amendment, Northville residents may soon have more of a choice in home delivery restaurants.

On Monday, the city council unanimously approved the latest draft of the amendment, which would allow home delivery restaurants in the city's Central Business District (CBD) with some restrictions. The amendment is in response to the threat of legal action from the owners of Primo's Pizza, a company that sought to open a home delivery restaurant in the CBD. Under current city ordinances, enacted after Domino's Pizza opened its shop on Mary Alexander Court, such a use is not permitted at all.

According to Walters, the owners of Primo's Pizza filed a complaint against the city's rejection of their proposal to allow the owners the possibility of further legal action. But the owners have expressed their willingness to abide by city restrictions if allowed to open a restaurant in the CBD.

The proposed amendment would require that home delivery restaurants in the CBD have on-site parking for their delivery vehicles, and each home delivery restaurant would only be allowed a single delivery vehicle. Council members also added a provision to require sit-down service for at least six customers to the amendment.

The city council has been drafting amendments to the ordinance for several months, despite protests from many members of the planning commission who were originally opposed to any change to the current ordinance. Recently, commission members suggested several changes that might make an amendment more palatable to the commission.

While the original proposed amendment would have required on-site parking for use of the restaurant, the new amendment would require on-site parking for only the delivery vehicle. The number of delivery vehicles permitted for each restaurant was reduced from two to one.

In a letter to the council, City Manager Steven Walters recommended not including a planning commission suggestion to require a specific amount of floor area for sit-down service, saying such a requirement would be hard to determine. "It seems to me that the purpose of the requirement is to make it feasible for pedestrians to purchase and consume take-out service food in the downtown setting," he wrote, "and not to convert the use into a sit-down restaurant by specifying a minimum floor area of one use versus the other."

"Nothing's really accomplished by establishing floor area," Walters said Monday night, "because it's kind of arbitrary."

Police contract partly approved

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The Northville City Council took a step toward ending its dispute with the city's seven-member supervisory police force Monday night, by giving tentative approval to the economic terms of a four-year contract with the officers' union.

The council voted unanimously to approve the terms, subject to agreement of the non-economic items between the city and the union.

The seven-member Northville Command Officers Association (NCOA) had been operating without a contract for more than a year, since their last contract expired July 1, 1988. If formally approved, the new contract will run through June 30, 1992.

Command officers are police officers with supervisory responsibilities, such as captains, sergeants, staff sergeants and lieutenants.

The agreement follows more than a year of stalled contract negotiations, a failed attempt at mediation by a state-appointed mediator, and state arbitration. Arbitration is a strict form of mediation where a mutually-agreed-upon arbitrator settles a dispute, and both parties are bound to agree to the settlement.

The tentative agreement follows a day-long meeting between the city's personnel committee and the Command Officers Association of Michigan (COAM) on Nov. 20. The agreement will allow the city and union to avoid formal arbitration of the dispute.

Last month, the city filed an unfair-labor practice charge against the NCOA over its representation by the COAM. The local union had been represented by the Fraternal Order of Police until November, 1988. City officials were concerned that the COAM was seeking retroactive benefits for a period in which they didn't represent the local union. That charge has apparently been dropped with the tentative agreement.

Among the economic items agreed to by the city were a retroactive 4% percent salary increase the first year and a 5 percent increase each of the next three years of the contract and duty-related disability salary payments without sick leave deductions for up to one year.

The union agreed to give up Cost of Living Adjustments (COLAs) as of July 1, 1989 to fund retirement improvements. The agreement also includes the gradual upgrade of the Sergeant's position with that of Staff Sergeant over the next four years, with the eventual elimination of the Staff Sergeant's position.

The current salary of command officers is about $31,000, plus a percentage of that salary dependent on rank. Sergeants receive an additional 8.4 percent, staff sergeants, an additional 12.4 percent, and lieutenants receive 16.4 percent more.

City drafts Cady Street proposal

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville City's proposal to develop Cady Street has taken a giant leap forward, with the drafting of a request for development proposals by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA).

The 28-page draft is the result of more than a year of research by the DDA, and an attempt to define the type of development the city would like to see in the area. DDA members reviewed the draft at their Tuesday morning meeting.

The DDA is seeking redevelopment of the area on either side of Cady Street between Center Street and Mary Alexander Court.

The Request for Proposals (RFP) draft reads in part, "A mixed-use development is being considered, which would include possible retail, office, residential and parking uses or combinations thereof."

"The successful developer will be selected on the basis of the quality of the proposal and evidence of the financial capacity to insure the proposals' completion," the draft read. "Consideration will also be given to the developer's previous experience and consistency with design parameters established by the DDA. The prospective developer must be sensitive to the high standards of designs established for the Northville downtown area and must also be sensitive to the historic and Victorian character of the City of Northville."

In the original draft, a pre-application conference was tentatively scheduled for Jan. 10, 1990. At that time, city officials would give a short presentation on the project, and provide prospective developers with topographic maps of the city, zoning ordinances and other information. Developers interested in the project would then be asked to submit their proposals by Feb. 2, 1990.

Under the preliminary timetable, RFPs would be mailed out Jan. 2. The DDA would review proposals between Feb. 5 and 16, interview selected developers between Feb. 19 and 23, and select a preferred developer by March 2. The City Council would then approve a contract by March 27, and construction could take place between March, 1991 and June, 1992.

DDA officials called those and other suggested dates a little too optimistic at Tuesday's meeting. Said Greg Presley, "We're talking about a project twice as big as MainCentre, and that didn't go anywhere near as quickly as this." Presley suggested giving developers up to a year to design the project. City Manager Steven Walters recommended combining the design and public hearings, and telling developers to expect lots of input from city officials in the design.

The officials suggested that RFPs could be mailed out early next February.

At the heart of the draft is a list of the design policies to be considered by potential developers. The 12 policies, listed in order of importance, have been the subject of debate at recent DDA meetings. Among the policies are:

- The City has adopted a "no net loss policy" for parking in the Cady Street area. This means that the present parking deck must be replaced and that Mary Alexander Court parking must meet or exceed present parking capacity.
- The City will consider shifting Cady Street to the south in order to provide additional space for development within the Mary Alexander Court area.
- Shops in the new development should be oriented to Main Street or to the Town Square. The City recognizes that the economic livelihood of future shops on the north side of Cady Street will be strongly dependent on Main Street traffic.

• The City shall promote a design which enlarges the Town Square and uses the Square as a means to promote a strong pedestrian linkage between Main Street and Cady Street.

• Development on the south side of Cady Street shall be of a scale and character which is less intense than the Mary Alexander Court area. Cady Street shall provide for a mix of parking, retail, office and/or residential uses.

The draft also includes five preliminary designs which have been considered by the DDA, a parking analysis, and a market evaluation.

The five designs, four of which were proposed by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May of Ann Arbor and one by Trammell Crow of Novi, propose the addition of between 23,850 and 51,675 square feet of retail area, between 10,000 and 60,000 square feet of office space, and between 279 and 385 parking spaces, some of which would be needed for the new development.

The DDA recommended that Planning Consultant Don Wortman emphasize the preliminary nature of the five designs, and encourage developers to design their own projects rather than copy the five included in the RFP.

According to the parking analysis, Northville's downtown has a deficit of between 121 and 352 parking spaces, depending on the method used to measure demand for parking. One of the goals of the Cady Street redevelopment is to help reduce this deficit by providing more parking.

The parking study also found that the largest demand for parking spaces in the city is north of Cady Street and east of Center Street, making the Cady Corridor a prime area for additional parking spaces.

According to the marketing survey, downtown Northville saw an estimated $21 million in sales in 1987. If the city continues to grow at the present rate over the next five years, the survey suggested that the downtown could support an additional 50,000 square feet of retail space. The Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) has projected a 20-percent increase in employment in the Haggerty Road area, which could support an additional 10,000 square feet of office space in the downtown and 15,000 in the rest of the community. "Thus, the market use is limited and would be generally incidental to commercial or residential use," the study concluded.

The draft also included a preliminary list of potential developers for the site, though the list will not be included in the final RFP.

The eight developers mentioned were Peter T. Allen & Associates of Ann Arbor; First Martin Corporation of Ann Arbor; Pepper, Hamilton & Scheetz of Detroit; Jonna Realty Ventures of Farmington Hills; Royce / Dahlmann Partners of Farmington Hills; Trammel Crow of Novi; Wineman & Komer Building of Southfield; and Farbman & Stein of Troy.

DDA members recommended that Singh Development of Birmingham — developers of the MainCentre project — and The Selective Group of Farmington Hills be added to the list.

According to Walters, interest in the project among developers is already high. "They're already calling weekly to find out when this is going on," he told the DDA.

Township conducts studies of Haller library site

By MIKE TYREE

Aerial photography and environmental impact studies were recently conducted at the Haller site at Six Mile and Sheldon roads, as Northville Township officials begin to piece together plans for a community library.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said aerial photographs were taken to determine the topography of the 72-acre site. He said the photographs would be ready for township use in another week. Henningsen also said that results of an environmental impact study on the Haller property showed no indication of major sources of pollution. The township paid $1,800 for an Ann Arbor firm to conduct soil studies and research the tract for possible contamination. He said the findings were about what the township anticipated.

"The only places they mentioned were the ones I told them about," he said.

Henningsen said the township would have to dig out a small area near a barn on the Haller property. He said it appeared a former resident had changed engine oil at the site and let it drain from vehicles onto the ground.

"We'll be able to clean that up easily enough," he said.

Henningsen said he had worked up a list of uses for the proposed 44,800 square foot library. He said the building area could potentially contain:

- a large library with support staff office
- the Senior Citizens Activities Center, with an office for a director and staff of five
- the Youth Assistance Activities

Results of an environmental impact study on the Haller property showed no indication of major sources of pollution.

Center, with an office for the director

- two soundproof rooms, and a secretary and reception area

- a meeting room for 250 people complete with a kitchen for various events

- a Friends of the Library book storage room

- a boiler room and a storage area for yard and building maintenance.

In addition, he said plans could include a trustees meeting room for 25 persons and a small office; Friends of the Library office for book store staff and an area with a counter to receive books; an entrance lobby with historical display area for the artifacts of John and Frieda Haller; a records retention area for township materials; a community room for 75 people; restrooms, and a genealogy room.

Henningsen said the list was speculative, but he stressed it was important to give an architect an idea of what the community desired in its library plans. He said an initial blueprint could be out within a month.

Officials estimate cost of proposed community library

Trustee James Nowka, who attended the city council meeting and heard the questions and remarks of city residents, agreed.

"The library is as seriously important to the people of the city as it is to me," he said. "Some of the people (opposed to building the library in the township) don't have a lot of information yet.

"We have to let them know it can be done effectively," he added. "We need to get people involved on a personal level and get them working for the library."

Nowka said that even though he heard some grumblings about size and location at the city council meeting, he felt most residents would embrace a plan to build the new library on Six Mile and Sheldon.

"All the feedback I get is so positive," he said. "People are chom-ping at the bit to get on with this, and they're showing their interest and concern."

"This is the perfect place for this facility."

City okays larger court budget

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

According to city council members, the 35th District Court in Plymouth is one of the few state courts that actually turns a profit. Said council member Paul Folino, "We're one of the few in the state that are actually getting a return from the district court."

Because of that financial stability, city council members spent little time reviewing the court's 1990 budget before approving it, despite a large increase in the budget's capital improvements plan.

The 1990 budget shows an increase of $706,000 for capital improvements. Court officials want to add an in-house computer system to handle cases, because of delays in using the state's centralized court computer system.

The court is also seeking to add a third judge in 1991, and are asking for money to add a third courtroom to its Plymouth location. With larger caseloads than many other courts, Judges James N. Garber and John E. MacDonald are having difficulty keeping up with their cases. A bill introduced by State Rep. Gerald Law (R-Plymouth) to add a third judge has been referred to the House Judiciary Committee.

Court officials predict that the improvements can be paid by court operating revenues between 1989 and 1990 without a large reduction in the revenue returned to local communities, because of a projected 27.9-percent increase in revenue over last year.

City Manager Steven Walters described the budget plan as "a fairly favorable situation." He predicted that the costs of the computer program and remodeling may have been overestimated, which would result in a larger share being returned to local communities after the improvements plan was enacted.

"At any rate, it appears that the court will be able to implement its current funding level and the capital outlay program," Walters said.

Without the $706,000 in capital improvement funds, the court's budget has only increased four percent over last year. Court Administrator Marion Belding attributed those increases to union salary increases and the higher cost of health benefits and pension plans.

While the city of Northville contributed $43,636 directly to the court this year, Belding estimated that the city would receive $51,313 in 1989 and $58,054 in 1990 if the cost of the improvement plan was spread out.

Lexington accepted as city street

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The Northville City Council accepted North Lexington Boulevard as a city street Monday, though residents may not have been getting what they bargained for in the deal.

"Speaking for the residents in the area, Lexington Condominium Association President John Haas said "We're looking for some recognition and satisfaction of the tax dollars that we're spending for road repairs. We have to maintain all the other streets in there without assistance, and it's a big bill."

Council Member Carolann Ayers was quick to point out that acceptance of the road by the city did not assure that the entire city would pay for future road repairs. The repair would not be included under the current city-wide road renovation program either, she said.

As Mayor Chris Johnson explained, "That particular money that was set aside in the present bond issue is being used up by the current paving program."

Future repair of North Lexington may be paid for by a special assessment district, Johnson said, in which people benefiting from the road would pay for the majority of the repair.

Residents in the area had asked for the street to be accepted because it is the only through street in the development, connecting Eight Mile and Taft roads. While council members were hesitant to accept the road because of its age, engineering reports indicated that the road could be brought up to city standards with relatively little expense.

"From a practical standpoint, the condition of the road is not such that we would necessarily repave it immediately," said City Manager Steven Walters. "In other words, there's some useful life left in the road." While a typical road could last 10 to 15 years, he said, North Lexington may need to be repaired within 10 years. The engineering firm of McNeely & Lincoln estimated the cost of repairing the road at $57,000.

The council agreed to accept the road, with council member Jerry Mittman the only vote against acceptance.

Conference accepts county waste management plan

With their misgivings answered by revisions in the county's Solid Waste Management Plan, members of the Western Wayne Conference accepted the 208-page document on Nov. 17.

The plan is an important step toward solving the landfill crisis. And it heralds the first radical change in garbage pickup since the advent of curb service.

If each of the 17 CWW communities individually approves the document, the solid waste plan will be well on its way to adoption.

All 43 county communities will be asked to approve the plan sometime early next year, two-thirds must approve for it to be adopted. The CWW includes Northville, Northville Township, Canton, Garden City, Livonia, Plymouth, Plymouth Township, Redford and Westland.

Protests from CWW communities were seen as key to the plan revisions.

In a major revision, communities are given the option of recycling, with homeowners sorting the trash they set out for removal to rapidly disappearing landfills. Communities that manage successful programs of recycling and composting can avoid the alternative: incinerators.

DPW director, presented the plan to representatives of the 14 cities and townships that are conference members.

Murray described the squeeze that is forcing action. "By the year 2000 we will generate 159 million cubic yards of solid waste" in Wayne County, he said. "And 10.8 million cubic yards of landfill space is currently available."

The lack of room for the growing stream of solid waste is not quite that grim. Murray said the proposed Sauk Trail landfill in Cantown Township and expansion of the Riverview landfill would add another 26 million cubic feet. And Murray said he expects two or three additional landfills to be created — whether agreeable host communities can be found or not.

There is no alternative, however, to reducing the amount of garbage buried.

The original county plan called for each community to make a 75 percent reduction in the amount of solid waste it generates — something achievable only through incineration, which raises its own environmental concerns. Conference members, led by County Commissioner Milton Mack, D-Wayne, successfully pressed for the recycling and composting alternative, with a goal of reducing waste flow by 40 percent.

"We are much happier with this plan than we were with the previous version," said Daniel Gilmartin, executive director of the conference.

The final version of the plan, in fact, does not even require an actual 40 percent reduction, only that a well-managed recycling and composting program be submitted by fall of 1992 and implemented by Jan. 1, 1994. Otherwise, the 75 percent trash reduction requirement will be imposed.

Communities that choose the incineration alternative have until 1994 to contract for an incineration facility. Otherwise, they must implement a mandatory recycling/composting program.

The county plan will have a public hearing at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 5, in the Wayne County Intermediate Schools Auditorium, 33500 Van Born, Wayne.

It still requires approval by the county board of commissioners and probably in March or April, by local governments.

If the plan passes all those approvals, it then will go to the state Department of Natural Resources for review.

Plan to lessen landfill paper

Bureaucratic paperwork would die an honorable death under a recycling program in the works among local governments.

The plan is to get governments to recycle and cause the private sector to follow suit, redirecting used computer paper, old office memos and outdated reports away from landfills and into the hands of recyclers.

A preliminary report Nov. 17 to the Conference of Western Wayne suggested that 70 percent of office waste paper could be kept out of incinerators and landfills in a well co-ordinated effort to work with recyclers.

"We've contacted a lot of vendors," said Dan Gilmartin, executive director of the conference. "We feel we can lead the way in establishing a route for vendors, and establishing a market, something the private sector could work off of."

The report cited current prices paid for waste paper ($65 a ton for white, $80 a ton for computer paper) and suggested that money raised could be used for tree-planting projects or other environmental programs.

A second phase of the plan would unite participating communities in buying recycled paper products.

Several member communities have expressed eagerness to launch the program. A more complete feasibility study will be presented at the conference meeting next month.

Tiny troupe

Marquis youth theater

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Their bodies may be small, but their dancing and singing talents are big enough to fill all the space inside Northville's Marquis Theater.

An enthusiastic group of 23 children from Northville, Novi and surrounding areas has gathered to form the Marquis Theater Children, a new theater troupe for young performers.

"We have all these talented kids and nowhere for them to perform," said Inge Zayti, owner of the Marquis Theater.

The idea for the troupe was developed by Zayti and director David Leidholdt. They wanted to give local children a place to experience live stage and knew the talent was out there.

"There's a professional children's acting group in Royal Oak and we thought it was about time for one in this area," Leidholdt said. "We have a good group of kids."

A graduate of the University of Detroit, Leidholdt has directed several stage productions at the Marquis and other arenas, including the theater at Cranbrook. Most of the time he works with young actors, including his role as director of the Marquis Theater Children.

"I want to keep it fun," he said. "It's amazing to see the kids grow in their abilities." The troupe members range in age from 7 to 14 and most of them have previous acting experience.

Auditions for the group began in late September. For about six weeks the young actors have been rehearsing for a special Christmas show, which opens this Friday (Dec. 8) and runs through Dec. 28 at the Marquis.

During a recent afternoon rehearsal some of the children took time out to discuss the troupe.

"It's really fun," said Kori Davis of Novi. The 12-year-old took part in the Marquis Theater summer camp and has performed in "Wizard of Oz" at the Marquis and the Novi Players' production of "Cinderella." She said she enjoys singing and dancing and the group gives her the opportunity to do what she likes best.

Amy Fowkes, 12, of Northville agrees that the troupe is fun. "I like being with my friends and singing," she said.

Northville's Amanda Benish, 9, echoes the remarks of her fellow performers. "It's great," she said.

Mary Kay Cook of Canton noted that the troupe is different from any acting she has done because it's entirely made up of kids. "It's a lot of work, but everybody's putting forth a lot of effort," she remarked.

Anne-Marie Bondy, 11, and Patrick Lokey, 10, both of Northville, said the spirit of working together is the thing they enjoy most about the troupe.

"It's fun because we all get along..." added Northville's Laura Genitti, 11. "...most of the time."

Another member of the troupe, Ernie Nolan, 13, is becoming a seasoned performer on the stage at the Marquis.

"I auditioned in 'Peter Pan' and that started it," the Northville resident said. "I like being different people and doing different things."

Following the Christmas show, the future of the Marquis Theater Children is uncertain.

"I want to see how well it goes off," Zayti said about the troupe.

If it's successful, Leidholdt said he's hoping to work with the troupe on a spring show, which will probably consist of a play.

"It's important that they develop some acting experience — to learn lines and work with a script," he said.

Members of the Marquis Theater Children are Angela Austin, Amanda Benish, Anne-Marie Bondy, Katie Bortell, Mary Kay Cook, Kristi Lyn Darkowski, Kori Davis, Amy Fowkes, Carla Freshwater, Laura Genitti, Sarah Habitz, Jillian Herick, Patrick Lokey, Valerie Lonigro, Marissa Mege, Ernie Nolan, Tracey Parker, Janet Patton, Leslie Sorano, Deidrich Stelljes, Missi Surma, Stephanie Unger and Chris Berzac.

Dates and showtimes for the Christmas show, a dancing and singing medley of holiday songs, are as follows: Friday, Dec. 8, 15, 22 and 29 at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 23 at 11:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.; and Wednesday, Dec. 27 and Thursday, Dec. 28 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $4.50 for all shows and are available at the door or from the Marquis stores, 135 E. Main St. in Northville.

For more information or tickets, call 349-8110 or 349-0868.

Commerical and residentail zones debated by city

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

How should the city separate its commercial and residential zones, or should they be separated at all? That's one of the more difficult questions being tackled by the city's planning commission in its review of the Master Plan.

At the center of the debate is whether or not to provide a transition zone between the city's commercial and residential districts. In a limited future land use plan, city consultants Don Wortman and Glen Bowles included the possibility of a "Downtown Fringe" area to the southeast and northwest of the present Central Business District (CBD), outside the "Downtown Core."

Such a fringe zone could include a combination of low commercial buildings and residential structures converted to commercial use, buildings set back from lot lines, and a mixture of on-site parking and the use of downtown lots, they said.

The idea met with heated debate at a recent planning commission meeting. Said commissioner Roland Stapleton, "Once you establish an area as transitory, you condemn it forever." Stapleton predicted that such an area would lead to increased purchase of residential properties for commercial use, and new owners letting residential properties deteriorate before — or rather than — converting them to commercial buildings.

Stapleton also cited the difficulty of establishing a transitional area in a city as fully developed as Northville. "You're going to have to go house-by-house," he said.

Stapleton recommended that future growth be directed primarily to the south of the city. "I personally prefer not to see downtown encroach any further on the residential," he said. But he added, "I'm inclined to think that some growth is necessary. I think the development of downtown south and to the east slightly is a natural pattern."

Not all commissioners agreed that the transition area should be done away with. Chairman John Hardin said he feared the encroachment of the commercial district into existing neighborhoods. "I don't want to see the core go out with its height and scale and butt up to the residential," he said, "even if we have to develop a second zoning requirement on a slightly lesser scale."

Commissioner Stephen Ball agreed, and criticized a maximum future land use plan proposed by the consultants, which shows an expanded "Downtown Core" area and no transition zone. "When we're talking about expanding that core from the left to the right side," he said, pointing to the consultants' maps, "we're talking about the potential for much stronger development. There's a hell of a lot of pressure on those neighborhoods."

The neighborhoods he was referring to include Bealton, south of Beal Street.

"We don't know where the market forces are going to take this," Ball said, "but we have a responsibility to know what the impact will be."

"If this town is indeed going to grow," said commissioner Chris Gazlay, "we don't want it to grow out where the major residential developments are." Wortman pointed out that even the proposed maximum future land use plan only showed increased development to the southeast, "where there wouldn't be too many impacts on adjacent areas."

The consultants suggested the possibility of adding restrictions on development at the boundary of the commercial zones, rather than creating a separate zone. "If you're concerned about that edge," Wortman said, "I think we can devote a section of the Master Plan to controlling that edge."

Such development could be controlled by requiring a step-down in building size at the border, and encouraging the participation of the Historic District Commission in site plan reviews, he said.

City Manager Steven Walters disagreed with the suggestion of a transition zone. "You're talking about planning theory on undeveloped land," he told the commissioners. "But everything on Wing Street is developed. So what's wrong with drawing a line? It seems to me that streets are the clearest separations."

"If we are going to take the tactic 'Let's draw lines, then by golly let's draw them lot by lot,'" said Gazlay, who was concerned that commission members consider rezoning on a lot-by-lot basis.

Greg Presley, a member of the city's Downtown Development Authority (DDA) who was at the commission meeting, explained the DDA's perspective to the commissioners. "It's the position of the DDA that that which is zoned CBD east of downtown should not be downzoned," he said. "It's really the area to the east that we're concerned about, to assure the possibility of future development."

Presley had a suggestion for minimizing the downtown's impact on neighboring residential developments. "You need to have a residential approach to the CBD," he said. "The streetscape should have a residential feel until you get into the higher density development."

The consultants agreed to take the commission's suggestions under consideration, and draw another land use plan incorporating those suggestions. Among the ideas being considered are using Wing Street as the border between residential and commercial development, and softening the impact of commercial building on neighborhoods through zoning requirements.

JACK E. FLEURY

Mr. Jack E. Fleury, 86, of Northville, died quietly on the evening of Monday, Nov. 29 at Grace Hospital in Detroit. He had been ill since October.

Born in 1903 in Charlotte, he was raised in Marshall. When he was 13, his family moved to Detroit where his father, Allen, found great opportunity to apply skills he had learned as a blacksmith's apprentice to work in the city's flourishing automotive industry.

The family's move to Detroit fostered Mr. Fleury's already intense affection for all things mechanical and sped him on his way to a lifetime of inventing and building an impressive collection of machines and component parts.

He graduated in 1921 from Detroit's Southeastern High School. He continued his studies at City College of Detroit (now Wayne State University) and received his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor in 1926.

He then worked for a short time as a draftsman for Cadillac Motors. Not satisfied with the creative limits inherent to the draftsman's job, he fulfilled his early dreams during his 37-year career as a research engineer with Detroit Lubricator (now combined with American Standard, Inc.). During his years with the company, he traveled throughout the United States and Canada sharing his mechanical knowledge.

He was a member of the influential

Underwriter's Laboratories' standards committee. He was also a member of the Engineering Society of Detroit, and held several patents for regulating devices he invented during his tenure with American Standard.

Mr. Fleury moved to Northville from Detroit's east side in 1978. He was fond of Northville's small town atmosphere, finding it reminiscent of his childhood home.

He was a life member of the United States Power Squadron, a national organization founded in 1913 for the purpose of promoting boating safety. He held the rank of lieutenant in the Detroit Power Squadron and was a past president of the Detroit Squadron's prestigious Navigator's Club.

As part of his service to the Squadron, he was an inspiring teacher of celestial navigation, and chaired the Van Pelt memorial Fund committee, whose purpose is to acquire and maintain sextants which may be used by students in celestial navigation courses. He received numerous awards for his distinguished service to this organization, among them the J.L. Peters Memorial Award for distinguished service.

Funeral services were held Monday, Dec. 4 at Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville. Interment was at White Chapel Cemetery in Troy.

Mr. Fleury is survived by his daughter, Virginia Patak and two granddaughters, Sarah and Megan Patak, also of Northville.

The family requests that donations be made in Mr. Fleury's name to Children's Hospital of Detroit in lieu of flowers.

Arrangements were made by the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville.

ROBERT E. GREER

Mr. Robert E. Greer, 71, died Dec. 1 at his home in Northville.

Mr. Greer was born June 23, 1918 in South Bend, Ind. to the late William Greer and Mildred A. McConnell.

Services for Mr. Greer were held Dec. 5 at the Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville. The Rev. Eric S. Hammar of the First United Methodist Church of Northville officiated. Interment was in Glen Eden Cemetery, Livonia.

He is survived by his wife of 50 years, Dorothy Maize Greer; daughter Patricia Price of Villa Park, Calif.; brother Bill Greer of Nashville, Tenn.; sister Dolores Wyant of Bostic, N.C.; and three grandchildren.

Mr. Greer moved to the Northville area in 1971 from Detroit. He was employed as an investigator for the Wayne County Friend of the Court for over 30 years. He retired in 1981.

Mr. Greer was a member of the Palmer Lodge No. 560 F&AM of Detroit. While in the Shriners, Mr.

and Mrs. Greer belonged to the Hillbilly Group.

Arrangements were made by Ross B. Northrop & Son Funeral Home in Northville.

She is survived by her husband William S. Milne; sons Paul Smythe of Southfield, William Milne of Northville and Richard Milne of Troy; sister Eva Lambert of Northville; six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Mrs. Milne came to Northville in 1974. She was retired. She was a member of Our Lady of Victory Church, Plymouth Elks Lodge and the Senior Citizens group.

Funeral services were held Dec. 4 at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville. Father Frank Polite officiated. Interment was at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery in Southfield.

Arrangements were made by Casterline Funeral Home in Northville.

OSA G. TAYLOR

Future Senior Center site still unknown

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

City officials are still searching for a new location for the Northville Senior Center, which will have to abandon its Cooke School site when the school reopens as a middle school next year. While officials have several options in mind, no firm plans have been made.

Recreation Director John Anderson discussed possible sites with city council members at a recent council meeting. "That will be up for discussion between you and the township," he said. He described the old Scout building next to the Northville Post Office on Cady Street as "in everybody's eye."

According to Anderson, block grant funds available from the state could be used to renovate the building for the senior center.

The building is currently being rented to the engineering firm of McNeely & Lincoln, for $12,000 a year, though city officials will not renew the lease. The firm also pays for utilities at the site. City officials are concerned with replacing the lost revenue when the firm leaves, something that renting the building to the senior center would not do.

Moving the center to the Recreation Building on Main Street would also displace patrons — the antique shows and craft fairs that pay up to $2,000 a show to reserve the facility. The loss of the shows could cost the city $14,000 a year.

Council member Jerry Mittman suggested donating rooms at Allen Terrace to the center, and Anderson said that site was possible on a temporary basis. Anderson added that room could be made available at the community center, but that existing renters would be displaced and the revenues would have to be replaced there as well.

"And that's about the full list of possibilities," he said.

A new site would also likely require the payment of utilities. The 1990 senior budget includes $1,500 for that purpose, but as council member Carolann Ayers pointed out, "that could be just a drop in the bucket."

Council members were grateful to Northville Public Schools for their past support of the senior center program. "It's always been a generous offer on the part of the school board," said Paul Folino. "I guess we just got used to finding it was so easy to use the center up there. But now we have no choice."

Council approves recreation budget

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

City council members approved the Northville Recreation Department's proposed 1990 budget despite some previous reservations. A $25,000 fund for general park improvement that had previously been criticized, was approved in light of the overwhelming defeat of the Community Park Millage earlier this month.

"The major issue," said Mayor Chris Johnson, "obviously was the funds set aside for the general park improvements." The funds came from three revenue items — $16,000 in interest payments, $8,000 in park surcharge fees and $1,000 in miscellaneous items.

As Recreation Director John Anderson explained, "the total revenue from the three items was $25,000. These were set aside on the expense side for general park development. The park surcharge fees are required to be set aside in that manner. The others are really an arbitrary allocation to a reserve."

The fund is all the more necessary in the absence of other funding sources for a community park, Anderson said. "We don't have any alternative sources of revenue," he said. "What we're looking at is what we can do with the funds we currently have. We haven't come to any conclusions on that."

"It'll be a very spartan program compared to what was proposed," said City Manager Steven Walters. The Community Park millage was planned for a park with several lighted ball diamonds, soccer fields, and a concession stand.

Council members also reviewed the budget for the Senior Citizen programs, and adopted several cost-cutting measures suggested by Anderson. These included an increase in the fee for local bus trips from $.50 to $1, and elimination of a proposed increase in the payment of membership fees for senior center personnel. The bus fee increase would generate an additional $1,100 in revenue, Anderson said, while elimination of the increased membership fee payments would save $200.

Anderson also recommended a $1,762 increase in the annual salary of Senior Coordinator Karl Peters, to $18,700. The salary increase would still leave Peters the lowest-paid coordinator in the area, he pointed out, despite being the only one with a degree in gerontology. Peters has worked full-time for the senior program for more than three years.

Council member Carolann Ayers said, "I personally think that after three full years, a person with a degree working for 40 hours a week for less than $18,000 is certainly not being compensated at a level which he deserves." Other council members agreed, and the salary raise was approved.

Council member Dewey Gardner had a suggestion for Anderson. "I don't have a problem with the salary increase," he said. "But perhaps it should have been upgraded more gradually, and not all this year."

The 1990 budget also includes $1,500 for utilities. The senior center has not had to pay utilities in the last several years, because of its location at Cooke School. Relocation of the center next year may mean the need to pay utilities, Anderson said (see related story).

Several council members were surprised to learn from Anderson that non-residents do not pay for participation in senior center activities. Said Jerry Mittman, "As a city or township, we should not be paying for non-resident participation, should we?" Mittman suggested charging a guest fee to non-residents to help subsidize their participation in the senior programs.

While both budgets were approved, council members cautioned Anderson to avoid large increases in future budgets, and suggested finding more ways of raising revenues to pay for increased costs. "For particular programs that we've got now, the revenue has to keep pace," Johnson said. "As a practical matter, the city just cannot and will not look at a 30-percent increase and say that's just business as usual. We just have to keep the budget in line."

Said Mittman, "I still feel that the increase that's being asked from the city is more than I would like to see."

Before the cost-cutting measures suggested by Anderson were approved, the city's contribution to the senior budget had increased more than 30 percent over last year, to $8,662.

Trustees discuss Hardesty's fate

By MIKE TYREE

When the township Board of Trustees gather this evening to discuss the fate of Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty, the task will surely be difficult.

Hardesty's 20-year department tenure, his apparently clean record, and his long-standing relationship with members of the board may all serve as a counter-balance to charges that the chief may have violated federal and state laws when he acted to purchase an automatic weapon for township Clerk Thomas L.P. Cook.

The township attorney has drafted five recommendations for action by the township board.

Ernest Essad's recommendations to the board were based upon his investigation and discussions with five principals of the gun sale, including Chief Hardesty, Captain Phillip Presnell, Lieutenant Gary Batzloff, Sergeant John Sherman, and Thomas Cook. Essad says the following actions should be taken:

- The sale of the Glock Model 19 should be voided. The weapon should be returned to the township, and the township should return the $320 received from this transaction. In addition, any and all necessary certificates and registrations of this weapon should be executed to return the ownership of the weapon to the township.

- The township should advise the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms and the Michigan State Police of the results of this investigation to enable further investigation and appropriate action by these agencies.

- The township should adopt an ethics and conflict of interest policy establishing standards for township employees, public officers and contractors. The policy should establish a process whereby advisory opinions could be rendered to assist individuals in avoiding potential conflicts of interest.

- The township should take disciplinary measures against Chief Hardesty as the board deems appropriate. These measures may include the imposition of discipline up to and including discharge.

- The township's policies and procedures should be complied with, should discipline or discharge be considered.

It is not clear at this time if Cook, himself a board member, will be allowed to attend or comment at the hearing for Hardesty. If Cook — who Essad determined was unaware of potential illegalities in the gun deal — is disqualified from attending and/or voting on possible discipline for the chief, the task will be left to Supervisor Georgina Goss, Trustees James Nowka, Richard Allen, Donald Williams, and Thomas Handyside, and newly appointed Treasurer Betty Lennox.

If the charges against Hardesty are proven he may face federal and state charges. Fraudulent use of the Federal Excise Tax Exemption is punishable by a fine of not more than $10,000 or of imprisonment for not more than five years, or both, together with costs of prosecution.

Violation of the state sales tax provision is punishable by a fine of not more than $5,000 or imprisonment for not more than five years, or both.

Cook explains

"I didn't mean to cause any trouble."

Township Attorney Ernest Essad's report on the Hardesty investigation seemed to clear Cook of any criminal or improper intent, and Cook has said he will not step down from his position as township clerk.

"No, I won't quit, why should I?" Cook said. "I didn't do anything wrong. I asked for one, he gave me the price, and I gave the township a check."

Asked why he wanted the chief to get him the gun, Cook said he felt that tacking the weapon on to the department's purchase order would cut down on red tape. He also added that the Glock presentation impressed him.

"The way they (police) talked about the guns, I thought 'boy, that would be a nice gun to have,'" he said. "I've used nine millimeter guns in the military and liked them."

"I wasn't trying to be discreet or indiscreet, and I didn't try to pull any kind of shenanigans. I just feel really bad for Kenny."

Cook says he never took the weapon out of its box and returned the gun to the township after he learned of the controversy. He says he regrets the fact that no one told him the purchase was improper.

"Those guys back there (in the police department), if they knew there was a problem, should have told me," he said. "Someone should have come forward."

Gun purchase jeopardizes chief's career

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township Clerk Thomas L.P. Cook thought he would like to own one of the police department's new automatic weapons. After the township Board of Trustees approved the purchase of 19 Glock Model 17 and 19 guns at their Sept. 14 meeting, Cook asked Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty if he could purchase one of the weapons.

According to results of an investigation conducted by township attorney Ernest Essad, Hardesty's efforts to save Cook $40 has apparently jeopardized the chief's 20-year career and $40,000 annual salary.

Knowing the difficulties involved in purchasing that type of automatic weapon, Cook reportedly asked the chief to complete the transaction to avoid red tape. Cook said Hardesty indicated that he could obtain the extra weapon, and the following day the chief filled out a purchase order for the guns as approved by the Board of Trustees. He also signed a Federal Excise Tax Exemption form at that time, which released the department from tax obligations, providing all guns were used by the department.

Essad's report indicates that Hardesty was courting trouble the moment he signed the tax waiver.

The chief reportedly told Sgt. John Sherman, the department weapons officer, that he wanted to purchase a Glock Model 19 for Cook. At that time, reportedly Sept. 18, Sherman said he had recently bought a Glock 19 for his personal use at the police officer discount of $360. Sherman allegedly told Hardesty he would sell the weapon to Cook for that price.

Sherman says the chief told him that was too much money — though the gun retails for $511.16, according to a gun dealer in Detroit — and Hardesty asked Sherman to get the Glock 19 for $320 from the township's supplier. Sherman reportedly told thinking about selling one of the department's new Glock 19's to Cook. Batzloff and Sherman said they told the chief that the only way to legalize the transaction would be to have Cook pay the taxes on the pistol.

During his interview with Essad, Hardesty indicated that he recalled being told the purchase was legal. Attempts to contact Hardesty to ask him to advise him on the legality of the purchase were unsuccessful as of press time.

Hardesty then told Essad that he may have misunderstood the conditions under which such a purchase would be legal.

According to Sherman, the sale of the Glock 19 to Cook would leave the department one weapon short. At a later time, Hardesty allegedly asked Sherman to order an additional weapon to replace the one he was selling to Cook.

Sherman said he then checked with the township supplier, who had a Glock Model 17 in stock. However, the Glock 17 was equipped with night sites which tacked an additional $113.17 on to the base price. Hardesty reportedly authorized the purchase of that weapon, and on Oct. 18 the replacement gun was purchased for $433.17.

The same day, Cook tendered a check for $320 to the township to cover the cost of the weapon. At that time, Cook received a receipt for his purchase.

According to the report, Cook's new Glock Model 19 was properly inspected and registered by the police department either Oct. 16 or Oct. 18, although it is alleged that the processing of the paperwork was not done in the normal course.

According to Captain Phillip Presnell, acting chief in Hardesty's absence, department standards for processing the gun registration were not followed.

Presnell said that "99 percent of handgun permits are authorized through the detective bureau" which Presnell oversees as part of his administrative duties. He said the paperwork in this case did not go through his office.

Detroiters charged in Meijer incident

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township police arrested two men on concealed weapons charges early Wednesday morning near the Meijer parking lot on Eight Mile and Haggerty, according to police.

Captain Phillip Presnell said an officer on patrol at Meijer noticed a vehicle driving through the store parking lots with its lights off around 1 a.m. Wednesday morning.

The drivers of the vehicle apparently saw the police car and exited on Eight Mile, where the officer stopped the vehicle, according to Presnell. He said the officer approached the car and witnessed a handgun on the driver's side floorboard.

The officer returned to his vehicle and radioed for assistance, Presnell said, and proceeded to arrest the two occupants of the car. Police said a loaded handgun was discovered beneath the passenger's seat.

"This was a potentially dangerous situation," Presnell said. "They could have been waiting to rob someone at Meijer or at another nearby store."

Presnell said the occupants of the vehicle, both Detroit residents, were arrested for carrying concealed weapons.

Chief faces discipline

would be able to purchase one extra weapon for Cook's personal use.

On Sept. 15, Hardesty executed a purchase order for 15 Glock Model 17 pistols and 4 Glock Model 19 pistols. At that time, he also signed the Federal Excise Tax Exemption. That day, township weapons officer Sergeant John Sherman placed a portion of the weapons order, and placed the remainder on back order.

On Sept. 18, Hardesty allegedly asked Sherman about acquiring a Glock 19 Model for Cook. Sherman told the chief that he had previously purchased a Glock 19 for his personal use, and was willing to sell the weapon to Cook for $360 — the price listed for police officers buying the weapon for personal use.

Hardesty allegedly pressed Sherman to try to get Cook a gun for $320, a request Sherman apparently did not act upon.

Essad's report said that on Oct. 9, Hardesty told Sherman and Lieutenant Gary Batzloff that he was considering selling one of the department's new weapons to Cook. Hardesty then allegedly approved the purchase of a Glock Model 17 as a replacement for the gun intended for sale to Cook. The cost of the replacement weapon was $433.17, the higher price resulting from an added feature on the weapon. The lower priced weapon was not in stock at that time.

On Oct. 18, the replacement weapon was purchased, and Cook wrote a check to the township for $320, according to the report. The township police department then inspected and registered Cook's new gun.

According to Supervisor Georgina Goss, multiple sources informed the township that the Hardesty-Cook transaction was improper. She then brought Essad in as an independent investigator during the week of Thanksgiving.

The Record received a tip Nov. 27 that an investigation into the police department was ongoing, and that information was confirmed by Essad the following day. The attorney issued his report to Goss Dec. 1, a day after the Record reported on Hardesty's involvement in an improper gun transaction, and after the newspaper asked about Cook's involvement in the matter (see related story).

The township attorney listed five recommendations based on the findings of the investigation (see related story). Among the recommendations was the following: "The township should take disciplinary measures against Chief Hardesty as the Board deems appropriate. These measures may include the imposition of discipline up to and including discharge."

Cooke School to get paint job

By MIKE TYREE

The Northville Public School District announced the acceptance of a bid to paint Cooke School at its Nov. 27 Board of Education meeting.

The board approved Assistant Superintendent Burton Knighton's recommendation that the Thomas Decker Company paint Cooke School for $40,000.

Bid specifications were distributed to 10 contractors, and bids were received from Midwest Pro Painting ($48,551), Consumers Maintenance ($61,000), and Thomas Decker Company. Decker was offered the contract because of its low bid, according to Knighton.

Decker will be painting the entire interior of Cooke, along with some miscellaneous exterior painting. The painting will take place in the late afternoons and on weekends, due to the present use of the facility by the Early Childhood Development Center, K-12 Instructional Support Services, the Youth Assistance Program, Community Education, and the Operations Department. Those organizations will work out of Cooke until July 1, 1990, at which time the school will be readied for classes in the fall.

The work will include the refinishing of all interior and exterior metal door frames and doors, application of block filler to block or masonry walls, repair of plaster as required, vinyl wall covering installation, removal of all loose paint, and sanding and varnishing of doors. Walls will be primed and covered with two coats of paint.

Areas at Cooke receiving the facelift include the choir room, the office, girls and boys locker room, kitchen, gymnasium, art room, band room, the shop, and home economics room.

Widening plan key to improved area driving

Motorists traveling congested potholed Eight Mile will see some relief next summer with the planned widening of the thoroughfare from Halsted to I-275.

"There's a lot of development taking place on the Livonia side," said David Call, Farmington Hills assistant city manager. "What with existing traffic, there's a lot of congestion and safety problems."

The road will be widened from the existing two lanes to two lanes in each direction with a center lane for turns. The widening is part of a larger project extending 2½ miles from Halsted to Silver Springs Parkway in Northville. Total cost of the project, from Halsted into Northville, tops an estimated $4.6 million. The section bordering Farmington Hills and Livonia will cost an estimated $1.5 million.

A federal grant will help pay 75 percent of the widening costs, with Oakland and Wayne counties also contributing for improving the county road. Under state law, Farmington Hills and Livonia are obligated to pay equal shares for the improvements.

The widening will cost Farmington Hills an estimated $96,000, available in the city's projected 1990-91 road improvement budget, Call said.

The total project costs in the Novi stretch is an estimated $3 million, with state Transportation Economic Development funds paying 75 percent, $2.2 million.

The widening from Halsted to I-275 will leave less than two miles between Farmington and Halsted roads, that need widening. The segments are expected to be improved in the 1991 and 1992 construction seasons, should federal financing or state transportation development money become available, Call said.

Civic Concern lends a hand

With the holiday season upon us, the service group Civic Concern is organizing to assure that area needy don't go hungry this winter, and aren't left out in the cold.

Civic Concern helps feed between 40 and 60 families twice a month, and seniors involved in the Focus Hope program once a month. The volunteer organization serves the needy in Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington and Farmington Hills. The group works with local citizens, schools, churches, social service agencies, and the Salvation Army in their efforts to help those having difficulty helping themselves.

The group is holding its annual "Food Drive" to raise money and find food for the needy. According to Marlene Kunz, Civic Concern secretary, letters have been sent to most area businesses, schools, churches, organizations, and city and township halls. The biggest contributors are typically the Northville Goodfellows, Rotarians who take to the streets to raise money for Civic Concern.

"This is one of our biggest fundraisers," Kunz said. Donations come in all forms, including gifts of food, time and money. "Usually people give pork and beans, soups and vegetables. But our most expensive items are breakfast cereals, fruits, and paper products."

"Organizations and businesses call to see if they can adopt a family at this time and assure that they have a Christmas," she added.

Kunz was pleased with the response so far during the food drive.

"Our community seems to be rallying around us," she said. "It just seems my phone is ringing off the hook with people willing to help."

Items needed for the food drive include canned goods, frozen foods, paper products, soaps, toiletries, and diapers. Several diabetics involved with the program also need special assistance. Food and supplies can be brought to the Cooke School, 21300 Taft Rd., Northville City, on Thursdays between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Clothing donations are welcome at the Holy Family Catholic Church, 24505 Meadowbrook Rd., Novi, weekdays between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Donors wishing receipts for their donations should attach a card to their donations with their name and address, and the receipt will be sent to them.

Refunds due in township

By MIKE TYREE

Residents of the Park Gardens area might receive a little something extra in their Christmas stocking this year, courtesy of Northville Township.

The township Board of Trustees Nov. 9 approved a refund of $47,638 to owners of approximately 200 lots in a special water assessment district established in 1968.

The affected area includes lots on Marilyn, Maxwell, Frye, and Park Lane streets, and those due a refund will soon be contacted by mail, according to township Finance Director James Graham.

Graham said the refund would amount to approximately $200-300 per lot.

"In the letters, we'll be asking people to verify that they are the owners of record as of the Board of Trustees Nov. 9 meeting," he said.

The board determined that present owners of the lots would be eligible to receive the refunds. Since the special assessment district was initiated in 1968, property owners in the area contributed $135,400 to the fund. Costs of the project totaled $87,762.

Graham said the last bond payment was made in March 1988, but studies by accountants and engineers held up the refund process.

"It wasn't just a matter of sending out checks," he said. "We had to find out who the owners of record were."

Graham said the special district was set up to build water mains and to get the area hooked up to the main water system in Detroit. He said lot owners should be contacted by the township in the next couple of weeks about their refunds.

"We'd like to get it done as soon as possible," he said. "It's just a matter of getting the letters out. It would be nice to get it done before Christmas."

Slot filled

"There were so many qualified people, any one of which would have done a great job," she said. "We looked at Mrs. Lennox's experience and knowledge of government, both in the township and city."

"Her ability will help facilitate the new library project (a proposed library site on Six Mile and Sheldon roads)."

Goss said the other candidates would be told of the board's decision by mail, and said several of the applicants could be tabbed to hold committee level positions in the township.

Lennox's first official task as treasurer will be to sit on the board tonight and help decide what, if any, disciplinary measures should be imposed against township Chief of Police Kenneth Hardesty.

Our Opinions

Investigation continues after board decisions

The recent uncovering of allegations against township Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty have left more than a few questions. The Northville Township Board must begin the process of answering all of the questions quickly and completely at the special meeting tonight. The action they take tonight and in the days to follow will be closely watched by all of the members of the Northville community.

Prompt and open investigation of the current charges has done the citizens of the township a service so far. Continued openness and follow-through on all levels of this investigation are now required.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said that when she first heard about possible illegalities involving the police department, she ordered an investigation by Ernest Essad Jr., township attorney. Because of the potential seriousness of the allegations, that investigation has led to a series of recommendations from the lawyer for further action.

We support the following recommendations and urge the township board to make each and every one of them a priority immediately. Some of these have already been instituted by the supervisor.

First, the gun that was sold to Clerk Thomas Cook has been returned to the township. Second, she has already requested Essad to draft an Ethics and Conflict of Interest Policy to state clearly a code to be followed by all members of boards and township employees.

The board must institute the others immediately. The Bureau of Alcohol,

GOVERNMENT

Tobacco and Firearm and Michigan State Police must begin their own independent investigations. Internal politics of any sort must not be allowed to breach the ethics of an investigation into this matter. The potential criminal prosecution of broken federal or state laws must be determined by an outside law enforcement agency.

Regarding possible violations of the Township Charter Act, the board must determine what steps need to be taken by them. In addition, at tonight's meeting, the first steps in determining Chief Hardesty's future as the head of the Northville Township Police Department must be taken.

Hardesty is absolutely innocent until proven guilty of all criminal allegations. What township board members must decide is — have mistakes in judgement rendered him ineffective as chief of police? That decision must involve a full disclosure from all involved in the gun sale.

Because of Clerk Thomas Cook's involvement in the investigation he clearly should not be allowed to participate in voting on disciplinary action for Hardesty.

Rumors naturally abound in cases such as this. Rapid disbursement of the facts in the case will do much to help all involved.

Complementary zoning is the only way to go

Transition. Transformation. Change. Those are some of the concepts the city's planning commission is grappling with in its review of the Master Plan. Planners are asking questions like, "Should the city keep its commercial and residential areas separate," and "How would that be done?"

The planners have discussed several ways to separate the city's shops and homes, including creating a transition zone between the two, and limiting the height or size of structures on the border of the commercial zones. These questions are crucial to the future appearance and desirability of Northville for both homeowners and shopkeepers, and the commission has shown admirable restraint in keeping their options open.

In this week's commission meeting, most of the planners agreed that they would rather see limited future development in the city than drastic change.

The city cannot zone in "fringe" building. Fortunately, or unfortunately, as the case may be, the city has a very limited amount of space available for both residential and commercial building. To set up a transition zone from commercial to residential is not a luxury the city can afford due to space limitations.

However, the planners are on the right track in wanting to control buildings directly adjacent to residential property. The downtown neighborhoods that border the central business district are essential to the community and must be maintained.

Clearing out neighborhoods should not be on anyone's agenda. Maintaining and reinforcing the neighborhoods as well as the central business district is the right course.

Holiday spirit?

By Steve Kellman

'Tis the season to be shopping, or so the advertisers say. Is it just me, or are the marketing firms of this country getting a little too cozy with old Saint Nick? The season seems to be celebrated more on the shelves of stores than in churches or synagogues these days.

But I must admit, my spirit was deeply moved when I saw Christmas Crunch cereal at my local grocery store. It made me want to run out and decorate the parking lot. Then I wondered what made it a holiday treat. What, do the little crunchies taste like holly or poinsettias? They are dyed a festive red and green.

Nintendo video games are a big holiday hit again this year, as are Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles. The turtles are also the stars of a popular Saturday morning cartoon, and both the video game company and turtles offer a cereal of their own, though not, as far as I know, in holiday colors or flavors.

Which leads me to the suggestion of a merger between the two. Hey, if the Detroit dailies can do it, why not Nintendo and the Ninjas? I can see it now — the video company can offer new games like Turtle Attack, or Mario Brothers Meet Ninja Turtles. And children can chew on their Sugar-Coated Turtle Puffs while watching their favorite cartoons. Better yet, how about a Nintendo Ninja Turtle Christmas Special?

Remember when the holidays used to be celebrated more at home than on television? I don't. But I've heard rumors. Nowadays, movies like "Scrooged" accurately skewer the media response to Christmas by suggesting action-adventure Christmas specials like "The Night the Reindeer Died," in which a parka-clad Lee Majors rescues Santa's Workshop from evil terrorists. Such programming doesn't seem too far from the truth.

With all the media hype, it's hard to believe that people can even celebrate the holidays in peace. But they do. For a few hours, at a quiet midnight mass or other religious service, people gather outside the glare of the television tube and give thanks for the birth of a prophet or the victory of a people over their oppressors. For those few moments, the purchase of gifts is forgotten while a much greater gift is remembered.

Of course, the next morning children all over the country will be gathered in front of their television sets, playing with their new turtle figurines or video games while their parents shake their heads and smile.

Did you ever have an aunt and uncle who always got you the same thing for Christmas every year? And it was always something boring?

I did. When I was a tyke, Uncle Sam and Aunt Em always got me the same thing. Socks. "Oh great, socks again. Just what I wanted."

At any rate, my wife and I have now become just like Uncle Sam and Aunt Em. Except we don't buy socks for all the nieces and nephews. We buy exciting presents. We buy 'em books. Beautiful books. With lovely stories and gorgeous illustrations. Little pieces of art made with words and paper.

But I wonder sometimes if they truly like those books. Don't get me wrong. All the nieces and nephews are polite and courteous. They all say thank you and send out little notes after Christmas saying how much they like the books.

But that doesn't mean anything. I did the same thing with those socks. And I wonder what the kids really think when they get the present from Uncle Phil and Aunt Diane... and they can tell it's another book because of the way the package is wrapped.

I try to watch for the telltale signs when they're unwrapping another one of those "flat" packages. Do they look through the book? Or do they simply toss it into the pile of goodies and go back to playing with the really fun stuff? Video games and Ninja Turtles. You know, the good stuff.

The truth of the matter is that I've resigned myself to the fact that my present is not going to rate first in the fun category. I just sort of hope that their moms and dads will take good care of those books. And someday, maybe when they're in college, they'll realize what beautiful little treasures those books really are.

As for myself. What I'd really like for Christmas this year is a good pair of socks.

Parent irked by child's class size

To the Editor:

The Superintendent of Northville Public Schools, George Bell, said that he was "irked" by the findings of the Lansing research firm Public Sector Consultants, Inc. which ranked Northville 107 out of 116 suburban schools. I, as a parent of a fifth grader at Silver Springs, was more than "irked" when I found out my son was in a class of 30 students. In fact for one hour of science each day there are 36 students in his room! Is this a good teaching situation? I commend my son's teacher for the fine job she is doing under these circumstances.

Being a teacher myself, in a district which was ranked 38th in this survey, I see a good deal of truth in the survey results. If Northville wants to put their children first, it will place mandatory maximums on classroom size.

Dr. McMaster said that the lower MEAP scores will be analyzed and worked on this year by individual teachers. I question how effectively this can be done in a class exceeding 30 students.

Other schools which were ranked significantly higher than Northville feel that better individualized instruction can be provided with lower class size. Certainly, Northville can afford to place greater priority on this issue.

Holiday vandals

To the Editor:

To the Parents of Children of Northville Township:

Do you know where your children are at night? Perhaps they were the ones who vandalized my Christmas lights by ripping them off the trees and throwing them into the street. Don't you think our police department has more important things to do than have to take the time to come out and make a report. Wake up parents before big trouble starts.

Room shortage

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on Phil Jerome's column of Nov. 23 in which he wrote about his experience with renting the Novi Public Library meeting room for a get-together of reporters from six newspapers.

What his delightful little column pointed out in a very forceful but probably unintended way was the shortage of meeting rooms in Northville. It is unfortunate that a group must go out of its home community to have a conference, regardless of size.

The New School Church at Mill Race can accommodate up to 75 persons somewhat comfortably but the acoustics leave much to be desired. The city council chambers are good for some gatherings but at a recent talk by Michael Farrell sponsored by the Northville Arts Commission, the chambers were jammed to the walls. It could safely be concluded that the fire marshal would not have approved the size of the crowd in that room that night.

The Canton Public Library opened just a year ago. Already its conference room, which can be divided in two, is booked every night of the week for any group based in Canton from Boy Scouts to garden clubs. The six-month-old Lake Orion Township Library has had a similar experience. Any non-profit group from the community may book the facility. Others pay a small rental charge.

Early in November a delightful concert by three musicians from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to celebrate the centennial of the Northville Library had to be limited to 45 persons because of a lack of space.

If Northville Township and the city get together to build a library on the Six Mile-Sheldon site donated by Frieda Haller, there could be meeting rooms of all sizes to accommodate every need. What a boon to our community that would be!

A library is more than a place to pick up a bestseller or do reference work. It is a community gathering place — a need not satisfied by our present facility due to its small size.

Parking needed

To the Editor:

Many years ago, the merchants of Northville found that people did not shop in Northville because they could not park any place near the downtown shopping area. Northville government and business joined in the effort to buy old houses and build parking lots. Northville became a nice place to shop, eat or just visit because people could park somewhere nearby.

It seems that somewhere the lesson has been forgotten. Northville businessmen are again shooting themselves in the foot. Parking lots on the north side of town have been covered with new buildings. I have tried to shop in Northville several times during the past week, but each time I was unable to find a place to park and so went to Novi or did not buy the wanted item.

When will we learn that people will not shop if they cannot park.

Children of alcoholics have greater risk

This is another in the continuing series of columns by Northville Public Schools' Student Assistance Program Coordinator Charlie Stilec.

"Hope is born at that moment when one person says to another what? You too? I thought I was the only one."

In America the following facts are presented regarding Children of Alcoholics (Betty LaPorte, Children at Risk Project).

- 28-34 million Americans are children of alcoholics.
- 50-60 percent of all alcoholics are also children of alcoholics.
- One out of every six families in the typical American community is affected by alcoholism.
- Alcohol is a significant factor in 90 percent of child abuse cases.
- Alcoholism runs in families, suicide runs in alcoholic families.
- Biologic offspring of alcoholics are the group at highest risk for alcoholism even if raised in a nonalcoholic home.
- Children of alcoholics are statistically proven to marry those who have alcoholism.
- Fifty percent of known incest victims lived in homes where there was alcoholism.
- Seventy percent of the families in alcoholism treatment had an alcoholic somewhere in a three generation span.

- Four to six children out of every 25 in a classroom come from alcoholic homes.
- Children of alcoholics are receiving help in understanding and coping with their problem only five percent of the time.

Children of alcoholics adapt to the chaos and inconsistency of an alcoholic home by developing an inability to trust, an extreme need to control, an excessive sense of responsibility and the denial of feelings. This results in low self-esteem, depression, isolation, difficulty in maintaining satisfying relationships and guilt.

Does this sound like you or someone you know?

This article is meant not only to point out the facts but also to provide an avenue of relief. By joining with the Michigan Association for Children of Alcoholism and other Addictions (Mich-Acoaa) you can support an organization dedicated to the following goals:

- Increase public and professional awareness, understanding and recognition of the needs of COA's.
- Advocate accessible services addressing the unique problems arising from being the child of an alcoholic.
- Protect the rights of children to live in a safe and healthy environment.

- Involve the entire community, especially the schools, human services, mental health, medical, religions and law enforcement professions.
- Help existing alcoholism programs initiate primary and comprehensive services for COA's.
- Support school based programs which acknowledge and address the problems of COA's.
- Networking and sharing.
- Develop professional guidelines for those who work with COA's.
- Encourage training for professionals.

The Michigan Association for Children of Alcoholism and other Addictions was organized in 1986 to increase public and professional awareness, recognition and understanding of the needs of children of alcoholism and other addictions of all ages.

Membership is available to any person or organization who is interested in the mission.

Teen babies

By Tim Richard

The more one looks into the "teen pregnancy" problem, the more shattering to society it appears.

"Teen pregnancy" is a euphemism developed by social workers to dress up the phenomenon of out-of-wedlock births. For three straight decades, the percentage of babies born in this social condition has risen steadily. And the cost to society has risen even faster.

We already knew, for example, that an unmarried girl is far more likely to require welfare (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) than any other group in the population.

Now we're finding out that their kids are far more likely to have expensive illnesses.

"Teen mothers," as a group, have about 20 percent of the babies born in the United States each year.

But about 50 percent of babies in hospital neonatal intensive care units (NICU) were born to teen mothers. In other words, the teen's baby is far more likely to require NICU treatment.

Intensive care for babies costs about $1,500 a day. The average stay is 60 to 90 days. That's a staggering $90,000 to $150,000 per child for Medicare to absorb.

Those numbers were gleaned from a ton of statistics by the Adoption Option, a Huntington Woods-based information group which promotes adoption.

Those are individual cases. Just how does it add up for society as a whole?

Kurt Gorwitz, a consultant to New Detroit Inc., tallied it up in "A Profile of Teenage Pregnancy in Detroit" for Wayne State University's Bureau of Business Research:

"The comparable annual statewide cost for 15,319 teenage recipients exceeded $50 million per year for AFDC and other grants, more than $15 million for food stamps and $45 million for Medicaid — or a total of $110 million-plus."

A few weeks back, I compiled a number of news stories about disasters occurring to children — accidental shootings, fires and the like.

In every case, I noted the daily papers and broadcasters got comments from mothers, grandmothers, aunts, uncles and neighbors — but never from fathers. The inescapable conclusion was that fatherless kids were far more prone to premature death by violence than kids in two-parent families.

Now I find — again from the Gorwitz article — that the news media aren't alone in dancing around this delicate question of fatherless kids.

"Further, community service agencies commonly do not acknowledge the existence of adolescent fathers-to-be and fail to provide services for them," he wrote.

"The ultimate result may be lowered self-esteem related to feelings of inadequacy, frustration, anxiety and guilt leading to acts of hostility to the mother and/or child."

For a variety of reasons, Gorwitz said, teen fathers don't accompany their women on prenatal medical visits, aren't present at the birth, and fail to "establish an early emotional and psychological bond with their infant child."

Further on, Gorwitz piles on the conclusions:

"Teen mothers are less likely to obtain timely and appropriate prenatal care, to eat and exercise properly, and as a result are more likely to have pregnancy complications and to deliver premature/low-weight babies which have a higher probability of death during the first year of life. This is particularly true for teenage mothers under 17 years of age. Their infant death rate is two to three times the comparable figure for older women."

"About 450 cases of child abuse are reported each year in Detroit, and approximately 200 of these offenders either are or were teenage parents."

This is not "Pick on Detroit" day. The same problems exist outstate, though not with the same concentration.

The problem isn't as bad as I have been saying. It's worse.

And then folks wonder why there never seems to be enough revenue in the state coffers for school aid, state colleges and toxic cleanup.

Norm Fankell and Ray Stephens own and operate Industrial Video Productions

Northville firm produces videos for businesses

By CHARLENE BALOSKY

In today's high tech environment, businesses are increasingly turning to video to sell products, provide training and communicate with employees. A Northville video production company has specialized in producing videos which meet businesses' needs.

Industrial Video Productions (IVP) is a full-service video production company that specializes in video communications for business and industry. It's one of only a handful of video production companies in the Detroit metropolitan area that specializes in high tech communications. "We're into a market niche that's highly specialized, but we think there's a demand," Ray Stephens, one of IVP's founders, said.

Stephens and Norm Fankell started IVP two years ago and their complimentary backgrounds allow them to meet the needs of the high tech market. Fankell's background in television provides IVP with the skills to produce creative videos at a reasonable price, while Stephens' engineering background lets him understand the needs of clients in high tech industries.

Fankell started his career at a small television station in Iowa where he learned many aspects of the television business. "When you work at a small television station, you learn to do everything," said Fankell. He operated a camera, served as a weathercaster and news reporter, and produced a children's variety show.

State economic outlook appears strong

Despite continued losses in manufacturing, Michigan's "near-term outlook is for a stronger economy over the next two years," according to a University of Michigan forecast.

Michigan will continue to gain jobs, especially in service and retail trade industries, through 1991, more than compensating for declines in manufacturing employment. As a result, the unemployment rate, which is currently around 8 percent, will average 7.8 percent in 1990 and 1991.

The 1990 Michigan forecast, prepared by economic researchers Joan P. Cray, George A. Fulton and Prof. Saul H. Hymans, was presented at the U-M's 37th annual Conference on the Economic Outlook.

The strength of Michigan's non-manufacturing sector, especially in service industries, has resulted in substantial changes in the structure of the state's economy during the current recovery, according to Cray, Fulton and Hymans.

"Over the past four years, the service industry has accounted for approximately one out of every two jobs created in the state, and by 1991, according to our current forecast, it will have more jobs than the entire manufacturing sector," according to the U-M economists.

In Michigan, growth in business and professional services "has been especially robust, growing at an annual rate of 10.3 percent" since 1982, outpacing the national growth rate of 8.1 percent. Business and professional services include data processing, legal, engineering and architectural services.

Meanwhile, Michigan's share of workers in lower-paid personal services has declined relative to national averages.

Although Michigan service workers typically earn more than the national average for similar positions, the wage differentials have narrowed considerably in the 1980's, according to Cray, Fulton and Hymans.

According to the U-M forecast, growth in wage and salary employment in Michigan will slow to 1.3 percent in 1990, down from 1.8 percent in 1989, before rebounding to 1.9 percent in 1991. Manufacturing employment will decline, "but at a modest pace—down 0.7 percent in 1990 and only 0.1 percent in 1991," according to the U-M economists.

Meanwhile job growth in the non-manufacturing sector will weaken from 2.8 percent in 1989 to 2.0 percent in 1990 before recovering to 2.9 percent in 1991. Government employment will increase significantly in 1990, reflecting substantial temporary employment for federal census activity.

Personal income in Michigan is forecast to grow by 6 percent in 1990 and 6.5 percent in 1991, following an increase of 6.5 percent in 1989. Local inflation, measured by the Detroit Consumer Price Index, will decline from 5 percent in 1989 to 3.5 percent in 1990 and then rise to 4.3 percent in 1991.

As a result of higher incomes and a modest inflation rate, increases in real disposable income in the state, which are expected to equal 1.3 percent in 1989, will climb to 2.7 percent in 1990 and 2.4 percent in 1991.

The growth expected in the state's economy will result in increases in tax revenues totaling 3.8 percent in fiscal 1990 and 6.5 percent in fiscal 1991, following an increase of 5.9 percent in fiscal 1989.

Income tax revenues will increase by 3.7 percent in fiscal 1990 and by 6.8 percent in 1991, following an increase of 5.8 percent in fiscal 1989. The U-M economists note that the weaker growth in income tax revenues in 1990 reflects the slower growth in personal income forecast for that year.

Business tax revenues are predicted to rise 3.5 percent for fiscal 1990 and 7.6 percent for fiscal 1991, after a 4.3 percent increase for fiscal 1989. Consumption taxes revenues also will rise, reflecting the state's economic growth, according to the U-M forecast.

Local firm makes videos for businesses

After working at several television stations for seven years, Fankell decided he wanted to do something more creative. "In the back of my mind, I was always interested in doing industrial videos," he said. Part of his reason for moving to Michigan was his feeling that there was a good market for industrial videos in this area.

"My background lets us be resourceful and keep production costs down," said Fankell. "A lot of production houses produce expensive videos because they have five or six people producing them. We don't need that many people."

The cost to IVP clients for a video is about $500 to $750 a finished minute (including music and narration); the standard industry cost is $1,000 to $1,500 a minute.

"We try to keep the price affordable for the smaller guy," says Stephens. When IVP produced a video for an appliance manufacturer, they used Stephens' home as the setting. "We could have rented a studio, but this lets us keep the cost down."

Fankell's video talents have been an important component in IVP's success. Equally important is Stephens' experience in engineering and high tech industries. Stephens works as the "upfront man" since he understands the needs of the client.

"The first thing we do is to see what he (the client) is trying to communicate," says Stephens. "We help him understand the audience and what he's trying to achieve with the video."

Once the client understands what he wants to communicate, the IVP staff helps him organize and write the video. They edit the video using high resolution recording and editing equipment to produce quality picture and sound. IVP also has equipment to provide computer-generated illustrations, animation and special effects.

The IVP staff often helps clients to develop marketing approaches. "We don't just put the information on tape and edit it," says Fankell. "We show clients how to use it most effectively for their needs."

Businesses use videos for a variety of reasons. One of the main uses of videos is to help companies sell products. "Our videos help bring out the features and the selling points of the product," says Stephens.

Companies often use industrial videos to introduce new products to customers and employees. "Sometimes it's impossible to take to the product to customers because of its size," says Stephens. "Video lets you take the product to them on video."

Videos are also used for training purposes. Companies train employees or equipment users through taped demonstrations. "Videos save time in training," says Stephens. "Going out to the field to train people can be expensive, and cost is important."

Also, the exposure of a team of experts can be maximized because companies and employees can view the tape in many locations at the same time.

Stephens says videotaped training sessions can be an advantage because companies sometimes experience a turnover of personnel. "If someone who has been trained leaves the company, all that training hasn't been lost if you have it on tape."

Videos also enhance the training process because it is often easier to understand a video demonstration than to understand written instructions. "Let's say you're training people to install and maintain industrial lasers," says Stephens. "If you show them how to do it on tape, it's almost like hands-on training."

One company that has used IVP's videos is Highland Superstores. "Highland is the second largest retailer of home electronics, and products in that field continually change," said Jan Smith, Highland Superstores' director of corporate training and development. "Sales people don't always have time to read manuals and brochures about every new product."

IVP produced a series of product information tapes which are shown to sales associates in their 89 stores nationwide. "The great thing is that we are able to get information across the country in a very short period of time," said Smith. "Also, the tapes standardize our training so people are getting the same message at all of our stores."

Smith said she has been impressed with the ability of the IVP staff to work within a budget and to understand the client's needs.

Perceptron in Farmington Hills uses IVP videos to demonstrate equipment that is fair expensive," says Bob Dewar, executive engineer at Perceptron. "We can't afford to keep a lot of demonstration equipment in house so the video tapes let us show the equipment to future customers without having the machines on hand."

IVP has made its mark in the high tech visual communications market. The price of the company's stock has doubled within the past year, according to Fankell. IVP plans to expand its business to include national accounts. Because the business has expanded, the firm will be looking for new headquarters, but they plan to stay in the Northville area.

Consumers utilizes state gas

Natural gas produced in the State of Michigan is playing an instrumental role in meeting Consumers Power Company's annual natural gas requirements.

Approximately 20 percent of the utility's yearly natural gas supply comes from the state. This compares to 16 percent in 1985.

"We believe it makes good business sense to purchase as much of our supply from Michigan as possible," said Edgar L. Doss, General Manager of Consumers Power Company's Metro Region. "By purchasing natural gas from Michigan, we're providing economic benefits to our state."

Since 1987, Consumer Power has purchased natural gas from fields located in Northville, Novi and South Lyon in Oakland County and Casco Township in St. Clair County. In addition, natural gas is also purchased from fields located in the lower peninsula communities of Gaylord, Kalkaska, Manistee, Newaygo and Osceola.

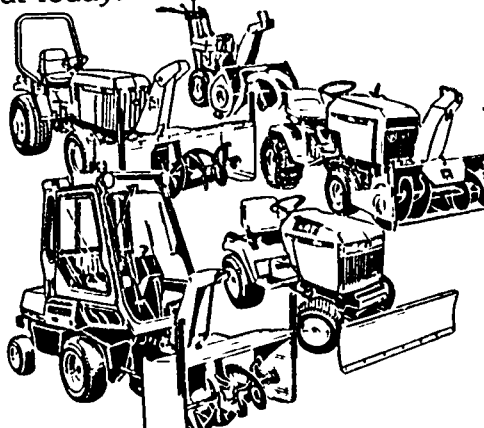

Most of the utility's remaining supply comes from wells located in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Kansas, accounting for about 78 percent.

The Free Trade Agreement between Canada and the United States is expected to increase Canada's share of Consumers Power's annual supply. Currently, the utility purchases about two percent from Canada. With the Free Trade Agreement, Canada's share is expected to rise to 10 percent by the 1990 heating season.

In 1988, Consumers Power Company delivered 288 billion cubic feet of natural gas to its more than 1.2 million natural gas customers statewide. Nationally, the utility ranks as the nation's sixth largest natural gas distributor.

Chandeliers—elegance, charm, practicality

By Thomas M. Varcie and Alicia Garrison

An exquisite chandelier is the piece de resistance of a room.

Suspended from a high-rise ceiling or hanging above a dining room table, chandeliers are dramatic and bring elegance and charm to the home. Even through a window, a chandelier draws attention.

"A chandelier should be the centerpiece of your dining room and it will do much to dress up the decor of other areas in your home," said Paul Bauman, sales manager at Reid Lighting, at 43443 Grand River Ave. in Novi.

Chandeliers today sell for between $100 and $5,000. Ten years ago prices were much less. For example, a $5,000 chandelier might have been $1,500 ten years ago. Prices for chandeliers generally increase by ten percent each year.

"Ten years ago, many of the builders put up bare light bulbs in houses," Bauman said. "Today the builders are more educated and will put in chandeliers in the new homes."

Chandeliers aren't only for decorative purposes, Bauman explained. Instead today the fixtures are used for "casual seeing purposes."

Chandeliers reflect the personality of a home. A full range of styles are available to homeowners from the transitional and traditional look to a more contemporary fashion, Bauman explained.

"The whole idea behind a chandelier is the overall illumination of each room. You need them for comfort, for style, for decoration and for seeing purposes," Bauman said.

For a more casual room, an oak and brass combination chandelier is very popular, according to Thomas Snider, owner of the Country Squire lighting store in Howell. Another style that is becoming well-liked is the Southwest trend. These chandeliers feature bound glass and sand and verde green bases.

Lead crystal and Tiffany-style chandeliers dress up elegant rooms.

Black porcelain, marble and onyx chandeliers are also becoming fashionable.

"Crystal and gold-plated brass fixtures are the most expensive," Snider said. "A hand-cut Strauss crystal chandelier with a solid brass base plated in 24 karat gold lists for approximately $2,000."

Though solid brass fixtures are coated in a protective lacquer, gold-plated fixtures tend to be more expensive because they require less maintenance and won't tarnish like the brass.

Snider said a big seller is the Quoizel brand which features hand-blown glass pieces covered in decorative shades. Each shade is designed in a pattern which can be carried throughout the house, even on table and floor lamps.

"Quoizel is probably the largest manufacturer of country-style fixtures," Snider said. "I sell an awful lot of the country look but I'd say beveled-glass pieces are still the most popular."

Chandeliers are available in different finishes. Painted, gold-plated, polished brass or chrome, antique brass, pewter, sand and verde green finishes are among some of the finishes available.

Buyers can also choose various styles of glass (clear, amber, smoked and more). Design etchings and other accessories are also available for a different look.

When shopping for a chandelier, Snider said, the buyer should make sure that the fixture is UL listed. At the time of the purchase, it's also a good idea to order replacement parts.

"If the fixture is no longer manufactured, you will have replacement parts on hand," he said. "So many companies go in and out of the lighting business, so if you need parts, you can't get them."

The general rule of thumb when purchasing a chandelier for the dining room is that it should be half the width of the table and hang five and one-half feet above the ground, Bauman said.

Social spaces part of design

By James McAlexander

The Kodiak is notable for its variety of social spaces. A formal dining room off the entry; a conversational pit in front of the dining room open to the kitchen; an upstairs study/recreation loft—no part of the house is far from a congenial open space where people can mingle and talk.

In addition, the recreation room serves as a deck, overlooking the vaulted entry, the dining room and fire pit.

With company gone, a family in the Kodiak will probably congregate in the smaller spaces. A dinette at one end of the walk-through kitchen will serve for daily informal meals. Alternatively, family members can pick up meals on the run from a bar facing the large family room.

Though the Kodiak is a very sociable house, it also can offer substantial privacy. The second floor can almost be considered a separate suite, with two bedrooms sharing a semi-private bath.

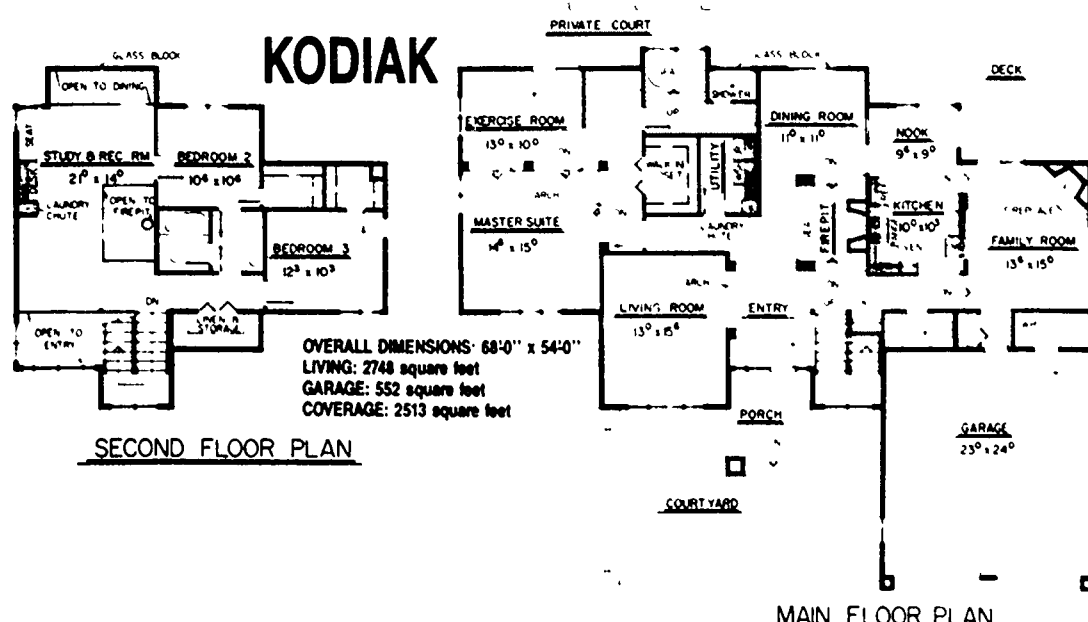

Instead of furnishing the loft as an all-house rec room, that space can be considered a study for school-age children living upstairs.

Heads of the house can retreat to the master suite on the main floor, which comes complete with private bathroom, spa tub, walk-in closet and an exercise room opening into a private back court.

The self-sufficiency of the Kodiak's two floors means that the home can contract as children grow up and leave the nest. The 1,700-square-foot main floor provides a complete home for a couple, so that the upstairs can be essentially be "mothballed" or converted to uses other than sleeping quarters.

For a study plan of the Kodiak, (288-02), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Time to toast the yuletide with new drinks

By Charles Britton

In ancient British winters, Anglo-Saxon tribes would get together to party around a bowl of hot spiced ale with roasted apples floating in it. "Waes hael!" they would shout as they quaffed—"Be Healthy!" And thereby they started probably the most venerable tradition of holiday cheer, the wassail bowl.

It has been a feature of the Christmas season from that day to this, and since we can prolong the festivities until Twelfth Night, which falls on Jan. 5, there is plenty of time to honor our ancestors and ourselves with a fine bowl of punch.

Of course, recipes have changed a good deal over the centuries, an in an era of more moderate drinking habits, a non-alcoholic wassail bowl would be very much in order. In fact, there is no reason to follow any specific recipe, and in our country's warmer climates, a chilled drink might be more welcome.

The important parts of the wassail tradition don't appear in any list of ingredients. These involve gathering together and joining our wishes for a happy holiday season and for a peaceful and prosperous new year. That would make even a cup of coffee shared with a neighbor into a fit occasion to shout "Waes hael!"

For our selection of punches, we will divide our attention between alcoholic and non-alcoholic drinks.

We begin with a punch that is virtually synonymous with the holidays—eggnog.

According to the Oxford English Dictionary, the word eggnog was put together from egg (which means egg, of course) and nog (strong ale).

It does not appear to be a particularly ancient term. The earliest reference comes from 1829, and that paragon of Victorian cookery, "Mrs. Beeton's Book of Household Management," does not list it. But in its original form with ale, eggnog looks straight back to our Saxon forebears.

Here is a version that will appeal to the ranks of chocolate lovers in our midst and that takes advantage of the excellent premixed eggnogs available in today's dairy cases:

Chocolate Eggnog

- 1 cup prepared eggnog
- ½ cup chocolate syrup
- 1 cup whipping cream
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 tablespoons cocoa

Yields (¼-cup) servings. This recipe may be doubled or tripled to fill a punch bowl.

Blend eggnog and chocolate syrup. Chill. Whip cream with sugar and cocoa. Fold into eggnog mixture.

To add liquor: Add ½ cup bourbon, rum or whiskey to above proportions, mixing it with eggnog and chocolate syrup in first step.

To make a whipped cream wreath: Make sure you have a place in your freezer to place the following. To make the wreath, draw a circle on waxed paper or cooking parchment; the circle should be several inches smaller in diameter than your punch bowl. Place the paper on a cookie sheet. Pipe on a thick circle of whipped cream. A thin circle is apt to break. Place in the freezer to freeze thoroughly. If storing for any length of time, cover with plastic wrap. When ready to serve, remove wreath from paper and float on the punch.

This recipe was adapted from an article written by Ardy Stuart for the San Diego Union.

As with many other branches of cookery, eggnogs and party punches are great specialties of the South. Here is a more conventional "scratch" recipe for eggnog from one of the old-line hotels in Nashville, Tenn.

Old Seelbach House Eggnog

- 12 large eggs
- 1 cup sugar to taste
- 2 cups whipping cream, chilled
- 1½ quarts milk, chilled
- 1 (750 milliliter) bottle brandy or cognac
- Freshly ground nutmeg, for garnish.

Traditional eggnog is one of the most popular ways to fill the holiday Wassail Bowl Yields 10 to 12 servings.

Separate eggs; refrigerate whites. Beat yolks with sugar until sugar is almost dissolved. Add cream, beating until sugar fully dissolves. Add milk.

Slowly pour in brandy or Cognac into yolk mixture, stirring gently. Chill for 2 or 3 hours.

Just before serving, beat egg whites until stiff and fold into chilled eggnog. Sprinkle with nutmeg.

Variation: Use half bourbon and half brandy.

This recipe was adapted from "The Heritage of Southern Cooking" by Camille Glenn.

Apples are strongly connected to the concept of the wassail bowl and, to this day, some English villagers dance around apple trees on Twelfth Night. We see this connection in the following cider punch, served at the Yule log ceremony in Williamsburg, Va.

Hot Punch Yule Punch

- 1 quart apple cider
- 3 cinnamon sticks
- Juice of 1 lemon
- Piece of whole nutmeg about 1 teaspoon in size
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves

Yields 8 servings.

Pour cider into saucepan with cinnamon sticks and lemon juice. Simmer gently for ½ hour.

Meanwhile, tie nutmeg and cloves into cheesecloth and simmer with apple mixture until drink becomes as spicy as you like. Serve hot.

In some parts of Christendom, Epiphany ranks higher as a holiday than Christmas. It commemorates three crucial events in church history: the baptism of Jesus, the visit of the Three Wise Men to Bethlehem and the miracle at Cana.

The eve of Epiphany, Twelfth Night, is an occasion for revelry in England and in sections of the south, where English traditions have been more closely retained than elsewhere in the country.

Here is another apple-based punch with a reminder of the apples that floated in the original wassail bowls.

Holiday Apple Fling

- 1 (14-ounce) jar spiced apple rings
- 1 (32-ounce) bottle apple juice
- 1 (32-ounce) bottle cranberry juice
- 1 cup water
- 4 to 5 inches orange cinnamon
- Peel from 1 orange
- 1 (750 milliliter) bottle champagne or 1 (28-ounce) bottle ginger ale
- Additional cinnamon sticks (optional)

Yields 24 (¼-cup) servings.

Drain apple rings, reserving syrup. Reserve rings for decorative ring. Make decorative ring (recipe follows).

In 3-quart container, combine reserved syrup, 2 cups apple juice, cranberry juice, water and stick cinnamon. Cover and chill 24 hours. Remove cinnamon sticks. This basic punch may be stored covered in refrigerator for a few days.

To serve, unmold decorative ring. Place in large punch bowl. Add applesyrup mixture. Slowly add champagne or ginger ale. Serve immediately.

ately with additional cinnamon sticks to add to each serving.

Decorative ring: In 4-cup ring mold, freeze some of apple juice until it begins to get slushy, about 45 minutes. Trim orange peel into stars. Press stars into partly frozen juice in a decorative pattern. Center apple rings over stars. Fill mold with apple juice. Freeze solid. The ring may be kept up to 2 weeks, well covered.

From South Carolina comes this punch, which commemorates a concert in Charleston on St. Cecilia's Day, 1737, to mark the founding of the nation's first musical society.

In his fine book, "Southern Cooking," Bill Neal writes that the ingredients of the punch reflect the makeup of old Charleston aristocracy—"tea for the English, champagne for the French, and the tropical fruits and rum for the West Indies planters."

It would make a fine convivial bowl for the holidays.

Spiced Fruit Cup

- 2½ cups orange juice
- 1½ teaspoons grated lemon zest
- 3 tablespoons lemon juice
- 2 cups water
- 2 whole cloves
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg
- ¼ teaspoon allspice
- ¼ teaspoon cinnamon
- ½ cup sugar or to taste
- 1 tablespoon honey
- 1½ quarts ginger ale, chilled

Yields 24 servings.

Combine orange juice, lemon zest and juice, pineapple juice, water and spices, sugar and honey at room temperature for 3 hours. Stir to make sure sugar is fully dissolved. Chill. Pour into punch bowl over ice, leaving drags of spices behind. Add ginger ale.

Cleverly scalloped carpet repeats the curves of cabinets and shelves in this sleek family room

Consider cutting rug to remove stain

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: Of course, I'm thankful that we were lucky enough to escape the October quake with everyone safe and comparatively little damage to the house.

But there's one thing I hope you can help me with: A couple bottles of red wine fell off the bar and broke, staining one corner of my almost-new beige living room rug.

The cleaner says it's forever. Isn't there some way to save the rug?—Upset in Oakland

A: As a friend likes to say, make lemonade of this lemon fate handed you: Consider having the rug cut into an interesting shape that just happens to lose the stained corner in the process.

Here is a photo with a pattern that might do the trick. Obviously, the scalloped edge of the carpet we show was deliberately designed to echo the undulating cabinets and rounded shelves in this family room, but the simple pattern would be easy to copy.

Any good carpet store could cut your rug and rebind the edges so only you would know.

You could even do it yourself: Cut the scallop pattern from brown wrapping paper, tape it to the back of the rug, and cut with a carpet knife. Ditto for the padding.

Next time you buy a light-colored rug, by the way, you would be wise to investigate the new stain-resistant fibers (this one is Worries Free, made of Anso V).

Q: I really like the looks of wallpaper in a room, especially since our decorating style is country French. Since we live on a tiny budget—we're both still in college—I want to hang the paper myself, but I am not the handy type. Where do I begin?—All Thumbs

A: Take a deep breath and repeat after me: "I can do it, I can do it," and then go visit your local wall covering store. They will have ample illustrations that will take you step-by-step through the surprisingly easy process.

Three tips they may not give you: Do not start where all first-timers think will be the easiest, in a kitchen or bath. They may be the smallest rooms in your house, but the typical kitchen or bath are fraught with tricky corners—around cabinets, radiators, and such.

Instead, choose a long, straight wall—a hallway or bedroom would be ideal—so you can concentrate on getting the panels straight and the patterns matched.

Allow plenty of time for your initiation, and approach the project with full, Zen-like concentration. Ringing phones, clinging babies and visiting neighbors not allowed.

Remember that you can stop at almost any point, put things away and begin anew when you're fresh. Unlike painting, where lap lines could mar your finished project, wall covering will wait patiently until you're ready to go again.

Antique chair may sell for $200-$225

By James G. McCollam

Q: Enclosed is a picture of an antique chair. It must be very old, because the front rung is worn almost through. Should this rung be replaced? How old is the chair and how much is it worth?

A: This is a bamboo-type stick Windsor chair and was probably made in the early 1800s. It is worth at least $200 to $225.

The worn rung should not be replaced; it lends character to the chair and is visible evidence of its age.

Q: We inherited a porcelain plaque from my grandmother. Perhaps you can provide some information about its age and value.

It is a portrait of a beautiful woman and is signed "Wagner." It measures six inches in diameter; the mark on the back is enclosed.

A: This mark was used by the L. Hutschenreuther porcelain factory in Selb, Germany, during the late 1800s. Similar plaques have sold in the $500 to $750 range.

Q: I would like to know something about my pressed glass covered comote.

It is 16½ inches high and 11 inches in diameter. The knob on the cover is in the shape of an Indian warrior. The bottom half is frosted and the remainder is clear.

Windsor chair

A: This was a popular pattern in the 1800s called "Westward Ho." As a collectible it's quite rare and would probably sell for $500 to $600.

Q: I have an old soup tureen marked "Masons Patent Ironstone China." It is decorated in pink, rose and blue and has a rabbit's head knob and luster handles.

I would like to know its vintage and value.

A: Your tureen was probably made in the early 19th century in Lane Delph, England. It would probably sell for about $500 to $600.

DECORATING

Different strokes for different folks here it stands, fresh from a pine forest — or a dusty, tattered box in the attic — so green, so naked, so un-Christmas-like.

Without its sparkling trinkets, yards of garland and strands of tiny twinkling lights, a Christmas tree just doesn't radiate the magical charm of the holidays. To capture the true essence of Christmas, the tree must be transformed into an object of wonder.

Decorating the Christmas tree is a tradition in most households, embraced with glee by some, hated with passion by others. Those puzzled by the thought of decorating the evergreen should no longer despair. Gone are the days of decorating in a standard holiday theme — it's become a freestyle art form, of sorts.

Christmas tree trimmers, however, may wish to observe basic guidelines like stringing lights first and finishing by perching an angel on top.

Louise Whittington of Four Seasons Flowers and Gifts in Northville has been decorating Christmas trees at the local store for years. She notes that there are distinct differences between decorating a real tree and an artificial one.

"With a silk tree you know what you're working with," Whittington said. "But with a real tree you never know until you bring it home."

From experience she has learned that long-needle pines are more difficult to decorate than short-needle pines. Those who decide on a real tree should be sure the trunk is secured in a container that can hold an adequate supply of water, Whittington said.

When the actual task of decorating the tree begins, she recommends stringing twinkling lights closer to the trunk of the tree, while working the non-flashing strands on the tree's outer branches. Why? Simply because decorators have found this method to be easier, Whittington said.

Larger ornaments should be placed on the tree first. The tree's branches can then be filled in with smaller ornaments, garland — or colorful beads — and topped with bows, she added.

Although it's helpful to have a specific theme in mind when decorating the tree, Whittington speculated that most people don't develop one — first, because it's too expensive to buy ornaments, garland, lights, bows and other objects all at once; second, because it's difficult to collect ornaments every year with constantly-changing merchandise.

Instead, most people choose to decorate their tree in colors that coordinate with their homes, Whittington said.

Jeff Haverty, assistant manager at J. Callaway, a gift shop specializing in Christmas items, agrees. He noted that most people also are decorating wreaths to complement the trees by using the same colors in bows, bulbs and other ornaments.

Haverty encourages his customers to individualize their trees by using objects that reflect their interests. A person who loves boats, for example, could use a nautical theme when decorating the tree. Dominant colors — of ornaments, ribbons, garland or lights — could be blue, blue-green, silver and white. Ornaments of tiny boats, anchors and other sea-faring items could accent the tree.

"We can work with any idea and any budget," Haverty said. "If someone came in and told me they liked reindeer, realistically I could arrange to have a tree completely decorated with just reindeer."

The homey, wooden-floor store illustrates various decorating themes on actual trees displayed inside the shop. It also offers a design center, fully staffed by workers who can provide countless decorating tips. J. Callaway is based in Arizona and can be found locally at Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi or Fairlane Mall in Dearborn.

Lou Lappa, a Novi hairstylist who decorates professionally for friends, also maintains that holiday trees should capture the tree owner's personality. He has decorated Christmas trees in themes ranging from Victorian to ultra modern, including a black tree accented with white decorations.

The most popular Christmas decorating color at Novi's J. Callaway this year is mauve, according to employees at the store's design center. Whittington said combinations of red and green are popular at the Northville flower shop, followed by mauve and peach. Also popular are white twinkling lights and flower balls made of real rosebuds.

Decorating themes displayed at J. Callaway and Four Seasons this year are as varied as the season itself. Whether tree trimmers decide to outfit their evergreens in a specific theme or a mix-and-match method, following are a few suggestions:

Traditional

Characterized by reds, greens, gold and white. Ornaments consist of common holiday favorites — Santas, reindeer, stockings, gingerbread figures, poinsettia bows and others.

Old World

Symbolizing European heritage, decorations are old-fashioned figures, bows and ribbons in rich hues of forest green, maroon and gold.

Country garden

Dried flowers, statis, berry sprays, pine cones and bows provide simple, yet festive decorating materials for this theme. Dominant colors are purple and earth tones.

Glitzy

The bright, dazzling colors of fuchsia, royal blue, candy apple red, kelly green and gold combine to create a unique holiday blend. Other touches may include tiny shooting stars and bows made of metallic netting.

Baby's First Christmas

Powder blue and soft pink ribbons and bulbs decorate a white tree. Small plush bears nestle among the tree branches, adding a special touch for the young and young-at-heart.

Romantic

A holiday tree illustrating this theme is decorated in shades of pink, peach, pistachio, cream and gold. Ivory lace ribbons fall softly from tree branches. Fragrant sachets of potpourri and paper or parchment roses add to the tree's romantic feeling.

Apple tree

Strands of red apple bulbs play a dominant role in this tree's theme. Main colors are, of course, red and green, as well as accents of white and gold.

Fantasy

A pink tree decorated with pink and white bulbs, thin strands of silver ribbon, crystal pearl beads and carousel horses captures an atmosphere of holiday fantasy.

Gingerbread

Varying sizes of iced gingerbread characters dangle from branches to create a Christmas tree that looks almost good enough to eat. Other decorations may include bows and strands of beads.

High school plans December events

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

December may be short in school days but not in school activities.

The music department will be entertaining the community with several events. On Dec. 15 the band will participate in Band-O-Rama. The "Holiday in Horns" performance is at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

The high school vocal sections host their Christmas concert on Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium. All groups will perform and the event will end with traditional "Friends, Alumni, Teachers and Students (F.A.T.S.)" Choir singing the "Hallelujah Chorus". Tickets for this fantastic concert are $2 and will be sold at the door. Anyone interested in joining the F.A.T.S. Choir can attend a rehearsal on Dec. 11 from 7-9:15 p.m. in the auditorium.

Various community groups will surely enjoy the vocal entertainment of the following: Dec. 8 the Concert Choir is at Newburgh United Methodist Church at 8:30 p.m.; Dec. 11 the Male Chorus and Barbershop Quartet are with the Garden Club; Dec. 12 the Varsity Choir is at the First United Methodist Church of Northville and The Figurines are with the A.A.U.W.; Dec. 14 the Male Chorus and the Barbershop Quartet are at St. Paul's Lutheran Church at 8 p.m.; and on Dec. 15 the Girls Ensemble is with the Northville Woman's Club.

Accolades must be given to Nick Beasanski for directing the "Fame" cast, Mary Kay Pryce for the chorus direction, Jan Beier for her choreography, and Prudy Chaffin for the costumes. The cast and crew gave a stellar performance. The community can be proud of the talent at the high school.

The Student Congress is having a blood drive on Dec. 15. Any student over 17 can donate blood and the public is encouraged to give also. Parking is provided at the rear of the school for easy access to the band room where the Red Cross will be ready to assist you. Make this holiday season a truly meaningful one by giving the gift of life—donate blood.

On Dec. 16 the Seniors sponsor the Sadie Hawkins Dance from 8:30 to 11 p.m. and on Dec. 21 the National Honor Society has a teacher appreciation day. Classes end on Dec. 22 for the holidays and resume Jan. 2, 1990.

Northville High School is lucky to have three opportunities for parents to support their students and learn more about the school.

The Athletic Boosters meet the first Monday of each month, and the Music Boosters meet on the second Thursday. Both groups meet at 7:30 p.m. The last Wednesday at 9 a.m. is the Parent Advisory Group meeting with Northville High School Principal David Bolitho. If you haven't tried at least one of these groups you have missed a great opportunity to help your student by getting involved.

If you are a parent of a college bound Senior you will want to save Jan. 11 for the Financial Aid Workshop held in the Forum at 7 p.m. We will have more details next month.

Folino marries Weaver in local ceremony

Jody K. Folino of Forest Hills, New York, was wed to Jeffrey D. Weaver on July 22 at Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville.

The bride is the daughter of Steve and Jane Folino of S. Ely Street in Northville. The groom is the son of Ralph and Mary Weaver of Bedford Drive in Northville.

Highlights of the 2:30 p.m. nuptial double-ring mass included lighting of the unity candle and readings by Sharon Folino, sister-in-law of the bride, and Connie Knapp, aunt of the groom. Paula Folino, cousin of the bride, was vocalist. Gifts were presented by Paul and Mamie Folino, godparents of the bride. Father Frank Polle officiated.

The bride wore a long-sleeve white gown with star flower embroidered lace and a V-neck. The tight-fitting drop waist lace bodice was embellished with rhinestones, three sizes of pearls and sequins. The waistline and shoulders were accented with subtle petals resembling flowers. The flowers contained fluted beads and sequins. The silk train was decorated with rows of tiny pearls and accented with a four-tiered bustle. The floor-length illusion veil was accented with pearls, crystals and sequins. The headpiece was a delicate crown of rhinestones and extended pearls.

She carried a T-cascade bouquet of japhet orchids, white dendrobian spray orchids, lilacs, roses and stephanotis.

Maid of honor was Monica Gilewski of Riverview, a college friend of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Lynnda Cederberg, sister of the bride, Karen Weaver, sister of the groom, Colleen Burke, college friend of the bride, Jean DuSablón and Susie Rahami, high school friends of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Katie

JODY (FOLINO) and JEFFREY WEAVER

Cederberg, niece of the bride. Amanda Cederberg, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The bride's attendants wore black and white full-length, off-the-shoulder taffeta dresses. The bodice was white, accented with a black and white full skirt and a long white bow in the back. They carried bouquets of cascading red roses, gerberas and dendrobian orchid sprays. Headpieces consisted of cascading red and white roses with freesia.

The flower girl wore a long white taffeta gown with a headpiece and veil matching the bride's ensemble. She carried a white basket filled with roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Best man was Christopher Weaver, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Michael Cederberg, brother-in-law of the bride, Luigi Folino, brother of the bride, Michael Rogers, cousin of the groom, Gary Sibelman, friend of the groom and Andy Genitti, friend of the couple.

A cocktail hour and dinner reception followed the ceremony at the Sheraton-Oaks in Novi. Three hundred friends and relatives attended, including guests from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Illinois and Canada.

The couple spent their honeymoon on the islands of Kauai and Hawaii.

The bride is a 1984 graduate of Northville High School. She earned a bachelor's degree in fashion merchandising and business from the Fashion Institute of Technology in Manhattan in 1989. She is employed by Bloomingdale's in the executive training program to become a buyer in Manhattan.

The groom is a 1982 graduate of Northville High School and a 1986 graduate of the University of Michigan's Business School. He is a municipal bond trader for Paine Webber on Wall Street and attends New York University's Stern Business School, where he is completing his master's degree.

The couple is making their home in Forest Hills, New York.

MR. and MRS. DENNIS BRADY

MacKinley weds Brady

Laurel Ann MacKinley of Novi, daughter of Don and Norma MacKinley of Northville, was wed to Dennis Franklin Brady of Livonia, son of Irene J. Brady of Livonia, on Sept. 16.

The 5 p.m. wedding took place at Ward Evangelical Presbyterian Church in Livonia. Dr. Bartlett L. Hess officiated the double-ring, candlelight ceremony. Hess baptized both the bride and groom as infants and married them as adults.

The bride wore a white taffeta gown with a fitted bodice and a low open back. The bodice was made of Alençon lace, accented with seed pearls scattered throughout. The chapel-length gown was covered by a full cathedral veil with matching lace and beadwork. She carried an armful of white roses and gardenias.

Maid of honor was Donna K. MacKinley, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Diane McDowell of Wyoming, a friend of the bride; and Caryl MacKinley, sister of the bride. Junior bridesmaid was Tracey Shrewsbury, niece of the groom.

The bridesmaids wore tea-length dresses in an aqua and pink floral print. They carried arm bouquets of pink gladiolas.

Flower girls were Rachel MacKinley, niece of the bride, Jody Shrewsbury, niece of the groom, and Lauren MacKinley, niece of the bride. They wore pink tea-length dresses and carried white gladiolas. Lauren MacKinley carried rose petals in a basket.

A reception followed at Madonna College in Livonia, attended by 200 guests. Special guests traveled from Sault St. Marie, South Carolina, Nebraska and New York.

The couple took a honeymoon trip to Hilton Head Island, where they stayed in an ocean-front condominium. The trip, however, was cut short by Hurricane Hugo.

They met through the groom's sister.

Winter wonderland

Greenfield Village hosts many holiday events

With the frosty north winds settling in for winter, Christmas celebrations at Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village are certain to make this season warm and bright.

Beginning Dec. 2 through Jan. 1 (except Christmas Day), visitors to the indoor/outdoor historical complex can enjoy activities for young and old, as well as relive a variety of Christmas traditions from past generations.

Towering over celebrations in Henry Ford Museum is a four-story high Christmas tree, decorated with cookies, candy and small toys. Just beyond the tree is a gallery for visitors' favorite holiday snapshots. Whether it's a picture of the entire family dressed in their best or a candid shot of Christmas morning, visitors are encouraged to donate a holiday photograph. Each yuletide photo will be displayed in a special exhibit throughout December and may become part of the museum archives.

Kids of all ages will be fascinated by the electric toy trains blasting their whistles as they wind through the streets of a fantasy gingerbread village. They will marvel over the technology that provides an "engineer's-eye view" of the scenery through a "very-mini" mini-cam in the locomotive.

Younger visitors to the museum will particularly enjoy visiting with jolly, old Santa as he listens to each and every Christmas wish. A short film, "Toccata for Toy Trains," will entertain kids anxiously waiting their turn to sit on Santa's lap. Making Christmas cards, paper bells, fabric poinsettias or adding a link to a special holiday friendship chain add to the holiday fun. Linking children of today to those of past generations is a wonderful display of tin toys which includes rocking horses, fire engines, a sewing machine, cars, a complete village, an assortment of animals and much more.

A fascinating and intricate model of the historic Mount Vernon is on display through January 1. This model of the George Washington's Virginia mansion was constructed by George S. Pond and his son, Stanton, of Warren, Ohio. It is on special loan to Henry Ford Museum from the Allen County Museum.

The month of December provides a final opportunity to view the temporary exhibits; Susan McCord Quilts: A Farmwife's Legacy, and Streamlining America before they close on Jan. 2, 1990. Visitors can also catch two new exhibits that just opened this fall — Power In Motion: The Village interpreter Margie Meisinger puts the final touches on the Christmas tree at the village's 1882 Firestone Farm.

Automotive Design Career of Bill Mitchell and The Herman Miller Furniture Collection: A Gift to Henry Ford Museum & Greenfield Village.

For a memorable holiday experience sure to delight children and adults alike, the Henry Ford Museum Theater is presenting "Babes in Toyland." Victor Herbert's delightful 1903 operetta fantasy is complete with a spider forest, a magical land inhabited by toys and characters out of Mother Goose. The production runs through December 30 and reservations are required. Additional information on ticket prices and performance schedules can be had by calling the Reservations Center at (313) 271-1620.

Dozens of winter and holiday activities abound in the historic buildings of Greenfield Village, where traditional customs and trimmings from past decades of America's history are being presented. Ranging from a rural, 17th-century English yuletide at the Cotswold Cottage where survival was more important than holiday festivities, to a more modern, turn-of-the-century Christmas celebration at the Wright Brothers' home, visitors can discover the changing manner in which Americans have observed this special time of year.

Throughout the day, costumed staff in various homes will fashion needlework, construct holiday trimmings and gifts, and demonstrate cooking, using recipes, utensils and techniques from the past. Cookies, candies and spiced nuts — prepared using a wood burning stove — will be laid out to delight the eye at the Edison home. The Firestone Farm will be a flurry of activity as the workers prepare for the winter and holiday season in 19th-century style.

In the pattern of the small towns of yesteryear, visitors are invited to join neighborly gatherings at several traditional meeting places throughout the village. At the Scotch Settlement School, the tales of a master storyteller will delight all. At Town Hall, children of all ages can amuse themselves with a variety of hands-on activities, and at the General Store, kids are welcome to play with toys reproduced from those of days gone by.

Two historic events will be celebrated throughout December at Greenfield Village. The anniversary of the first flight, Dec. 17, 1903, will be recognized at the Wright Cycle Shop, and at Thomas Edison's Menlo Park Laboratory, the 1879 New Year's Eve Light Demonstration will be commemorated in special discussions by interpreters.

Nighttime weaves a special kind of Christmas spell around the museum and village with two, after-hours programs: a "1920s Holiday Gala at Lovett Hall" and an "1850s Christmas at Eagle Tavern." In the former, guests will be transported back to the high society scene of the Roaring 20s, complete with elegantly dressed characters from that era, a sumptuous dinner, dancing and a bit of the bubbly.

In the village's Eagle Tavern, a hearty, family-style meal in the manner of the 1850s will be served by candlelight, complemented by holiday songs, music and storytelling. Advance reservations are required. Availability is limited.

For visitors with troublesome Christmas gift lists, the shops of the museum and village offer the perfect solution. Items reproduced from the museum collections, Christmas decorations, wares fashioned by village craftspeople and a variety of distinctive gifts and souvenirs will be welcome under any tree.

Cut Your Own Tree

By MARILYN HERALD

As the Yule season approaches, natural tree lovers can find the Christmas tree they are "pining" for at one of 95 state tree farms. Cut-your-own tree is a popular family activity.

Several of the tree farms are located in this area, within easy driving distance.

Judy Brian of Broadview Tree Farm, 4380 N. Hickory Ridge Road, Highland, has a few tips for amateur tree cutters.

"If you are not taking the tree directly home for setting up within one-half hour, plan on taking an added 2 inches off the trunk before putting it in the stand," Brian said. "This goes for pre-cut trees as well."

Brian explained the sap of the newly cut tree will start to seal over after one-half hour and then the tree won't "draw" water to keep it moist.

"Expect the tree to take 6-10 quarts of water the first few days," Brian added. "Start it with warm water and do not let it go dry or the sap will seal the trunk again."

"If the tree trunk seals over and the tree starts to get dry, the only alternative is to take all the decorations off and recut the trunk," Brian said.

She also advised setting the tree up as from any heat source (such as a register or radiator) as possible.

"If you want tree cutting to be an enjoyable family experience, be sure everyone is dressed properly for the weather with hats, coats, mittens and boots," Brian noted.

Trees at Broadview are $24 for any size Scotch or Austrian pine (starting at 10 feet). Spruce trees at seven feet or less are $29 for any size. Pre-cut Douglas fir start at six feet and are $35-$100.

Brian said they do not allow customers to pre-tag their selections, since it is easy for a later customer to move the tag to a different tree and claim the pre-tagged one for their own.

Broadview, which features Santa, refreshments and wagon rides on weekends only, has been in business 45 years and is owned by Betty and Ott Brian, Bill and Judy Brian and Marty and Jim Ward. The farm is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week. Brochures with lots of tree information are presented free to customers. Holiday wreaths and roping are available at Broadview also. Call Broadview at 313-887-TREE for further information.

All trees are "shaken" at Broadview to dislodge old needles and trees are baled (wrapped in mesh) for easy handling. "Leave them baled until you have them in the stand," Brian suggested. "They are much easier to handle."

Many tree farms, like Broadview, provide saws for customers, but supplies may be limited as the holiday nears so it is advisable to take a hand saw along, suggested AAA of Michigan. It is advisable also to take twine along to secure the tree to the car.

Inspect all electrical wires for frayed cords, damaged lights or bare spots before putting them on the tree, advised AAA.

Other Oakland County farms in this area, include:
• HUFF TREE FARM, 1500 Wardlow Road, Highland (one mile north of M-59 and one mile west of Millford Road), 313-887-4230, 2,000 Scotch pines at $4.50 a foot for cutting.

Also fresh-cut Blue Spruce, balsam, Douglas and Fraser fir, Scotch and White pines, at $4.50 to $6.00 per foot.

• FROSTY PINES, 7600 Hitchcock, White Lake Township, 313-887-9561, 4,000 trees, $3 per foot and up, open Tuesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to dark.

• TRIM PINES FARM INC., 4357 E. Baldwin Road, Holly, 313-694-9958, 6,000 trees, $18 and up, open daily 10 a.m. to dark.

Livingston County farms include:
• NOEL TREE CO., M-36 and Arnold Road, seven miles west of Pinckney, 313-261-3419, 2,000 trees, price varies, open Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

• PLEASANT KNOLL TREE FARM, 3080 Oak Grove Road, Howell, 517-546-2954, 5,500 trees, $3.50 per foot and up, open Saturday and Sunday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

• WALDOCK TREE FARM, 5665 Crofoot, Howell, 517-546-3890, 400 trees, $24 and up, open Saturday and Sunday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

• WENZEL'S TREE FARM INC., 8475 Bishop Road, Brighton, 3,000 trees, $20 and up, open weekends 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

DIANE KOVACS

A little more than a week from now, Rick Halberg, Ken Fink and Ira Mondry will celebrate the first anniversary of their joint venture — R.I.K.'s The Restaurant.

R.I.K.'s is the trio's second venture into the food business. The first was (and still is) the Cuisine Center, a gourmet carry-out and catering business located at Telegraph and Maple Roads.

"The restaurant was a logical outgrowth of the catering business," explained Fink. "A lot of the things we do in the restaurant are things we had done in people's homes."

Do not be misled by the fact that R.I.K.'s is located in a shopping center. It's not a place to stop off for a quick snack. What it is is a restaurant which cares a lot about cuisine, service and all the other factors which go into making a good restaurant.

The decor is simple but effective. White stucco walls, brick archways and dark heavy woods make you forget the hustle and bustle of a shopping center almost as soon as you enter. The main dining area features huge windows, lined with large jars filled with various herbs and vegetables, which allow guests to peer into the kitchen and watch their food being prepared.

In terms of the cuisine, R.I.K.'s is another in a growing list of very fine Italian restaurants in western suburbs.

Fink describes the fare as "contemporary and classic Italian cuisine." He says there are numerous contemporary Italian dishes, but stresses that the restaurant also offers what he calls "stick-to-the-ribs peasant food."

R.I.K.'s gets high grades for its concerns about health and diet. All meats are trimmed of fat, and grilled items are prepared with pure olive oil. Items which are relatively low in cholesterol are identified with an asterisk on the menu.

The food is also excellent.

The a la carte menu includes seven pizza selections, eight different pastas and 11 traditional entrees not to mention the changing list of daily specials.

After several visits to R.I.K.'s, we have yet to find a mediocre choice. Noteworthy among the pasta selections are triangoli, large triangles of fresh saffron pasta filled with shrimp and tossed in sage butter, and rotelle, fresh tomato pasta rolled around ricotta cheese, spinach and herbs with a light tomato sauce.

Notable among the entrees are quaglie, butterflied fresh quail, served on orzo and chopped spinach; viteilo elefante, thinly-pounded rib veal chop, breaded and pan fried, and topped with chopped tomato, red onions and basil; and ossobuco, slowly braised veal shank in a rich vegetable sauce with gremolata.

A personal favorite was coniglio sotto bosco, fresh rabbit braised with herbs and wild mushrooms in a rich red wine sauce. It's one of those stick-to-your-ribs peasant dishes that Fink was talking about.

The fine selection of entrees is preceded by numerous wonderful soups, salads and appetizers. One recent meal included zuppa di mare, rich tomato soup with mussels, calamari and clams; an appetizer of cozze marinate, steamed mussels marinated in orange and fennel and tossed with orange sections; and a tricolore salad, radicchio, artichoke and endive tossed with sun-dried tomato vinaigrette.

As for dessert, R.I.K.'s offers several outstanding choices including cioccolato ultimo, a flourless chocolate cake served with raspberry sauce, and bacio d'Amore, a rich chocolate pate served atop orange and raspberry sauces.

It should be noted that R.I.K.'s is not inexpensive. The entrees start at $13.95, and it's easy for to people to run up a bill of $70 or $80 if they have a bottle of wine.

But there's no question that this is a first-rate restaurant. The three owners deserve a first-anniversary celebration — and many more.

The Northville Record

Grapplers go after another division crown

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

For a team that returns less than half of its starting line-up from a year ago, expectations are pretty high for the Northville grapplers.

But when you examine who is back, it's easy to see why the Mustangs are among the favorites in the WLA Western Division race in 1989. After all, Northville is the defending champ, coming off a stellar 14-4 dual meet season, and standouts like Kevin Khashan, Brandon Mardossian, Garnet Potter and Bob Townsend all return.

Those four alone combined for a match record of 118-44-2 last season, and all four were MHSAA Regional qualifiers. Add to that list other returnees like Kevin Delaney and Curt Cureton, and first-year coach Bob Boshoven is loaded in certain areas. Unfortunately, the seven other regular positions are up for grabs and all of the candidates come into the season with little or no varsity experience.

"I'm looking forward to the season — we have some very tough kids coming back," said Boshoven, who is taking over for retired veteran coach Jack Townsley. "The concern is we do have some potential holes in our line-up. One way or another, we will have to fill seven weight divisions with first-year varsity wrestlers."

Replacing Mike Hale and Andy Frey — a pair of four-year performers — will be Boshoven's biggest challenge. The two combined for a sparkling 56-17 record at the 189- and 130-pound divisions respectively last year. Also gone is Mike Huff, who won 19 matches last season as a freshman, but since moved out of the district.

"To repeat as Western Division champs, it's going to take a lot of work," he said. "Livonia Churchill is probably the team to beat and we get them early (Dec. 21). We'll find out early if we'll be able to contend."

Khashan was 23-9-1 as a sophomore at 103, but he returns much bigger and tougher. He will move up to the 112-pound slot and hope to improve on last year's District title and second place finish in the WLA.

"Kevin is physically much tougher and he'll be a very formidable 112-pounder," Boshoven said.

Mardossian was a state qualifier as a sophomore at 112, so he'll move up to 119. This third-year varsity performer has the talent and the ability to vie for a state title before his prep career is over.

"Brandon is so much advanced technique-wise, than he was at the end of last season," Boshoven pointed out. "He wrestled all summer and he looks incredibly strong."

Potter and Townsend are a pair of seniors who will hold down two divisions in the middle of the Mustang line-up — making that a particularly strong area. Potter competed at 152 most of last season but moved down to 145 for the state tournament and ended up being the only Northville wrestler to win a match at the state meet. He is entrenched at 152 for 1989-90 and had a productive summer of wrestling.

"Garnet qualified for the Nationals in Greco-Roman wrestling over the summer, and he has a lot of experience," Boshoven said. "He's one we expect to be a standout."

last year a memorable one by qualifying for the regionals at 160, and coming just one win away from making it to the states. He is back at 160 and is already showing more confidence in his ability.

Delaney (Sr.) received a lot of valuable experience last season when he wrestled up a weight class (140) for the good of the team. This year, he's back down to 135. Cureton (Sr.) spent the summer going through the Army Basic Training and Boshoven believes it made him more aggressive and tough. He is back at his old 145-pound spot.

One of the top newcomers includes freshman Matt Allison, who has a strong background in freestyle wrestling. He is key candidate for the 103 position, along with another freshman, Phil DiPrima. At 125, sophomores Mike Moore and transfer student Dave Kovacovich are battling it out for the starting nod, while senior Jamie Ryder appears to have the inside track at 130. Two other 12th graders — Tim Alverson and Jerett Bear — are the top two prospects at 140.

Junior Jason Vertrees was second in the WLA last year as a J.V. wrestler and is expected to hold down the fort at 171. He did see a bit of varsity action as a sophomore in place of Hale.

The top two weight classifications could be a problem area. At 189, Dave Morante (Jr.) has the nod, but he is a first year wrestler. His top competitor — senior Stefan Filkin — will miss 6-to-8 weeks of the season with an injured thumb. At heavyweight, Boshoven is looking at Jeff Shattuck, who is moving up from the junior varsity ranks.

"As far as tournaments go, we should do very well," Boshoven predicted. "We have about five or six guys who will place high."

Novi Hall appoints Earnhardt

Three-time NASCAR Winston Cup National Driving Champion Dale Earnhardt has been appointed to the Honorary Board of Directors of the Novi-based Motorsports Hall of Fame of America.

Earnhardt joins three-time Indy 500 winner Bobby Unser, three-time NHRA Winston Top Fuel Champion Shirley Muldowney, ESPN broadcaster Larry Nuber and other business and racing luminaries on the board.

Hall of Fame Directors Stan Stafiej — Motorsports Manager of General Motors Service Parts Operations — and Larry Ciancio — President of BJM Enterprises — were instrumental in supplying Earnhardt with information about the Hall of Fame.

"When Dale heard about our inaugural induction and all of the great things that the Hall of Fame is doing, he was eager to become involved," Ciancio said.

Earnhardt was NASCAR Rookie of the Year in 1979. In 1980, he became the only NASCAR driver to follow up a Rookie of the Year award with a national championship. His second and third national titles came back-to-back in '86 and '87. Earnhardt is NASCAR's second all-time money winner.

"The Motorsports Hall of Fame of America is extremely fortunate to have someone of the stature of Dale Earnhardt as a member of its Honorary Board of Directors," Executive Director Ron Watson said.

The announcement of the appointment was made on Nov. 25 at the Novi Civic Center. Hall of Fame officials also recently announced the names of the nominees for its second annual induction schedule for June 14, 1990.

Established in 1985 and incorporated as a non-profit organization in 1987, the Motorsports Hall of Fame of America is the national home for all motorized sports on land, water and in the air. Currently housed in the Novi Civic Center, the Hall of Fame is planning construction of a 72,000 square foot state-of-the-art museum facility on I-96 freeway frontage provided by the City of Novi — the birthplace of the legendary Novi Special Indy Car.

Racing vehicles, exhibits honoring annual inductees and exciting hand-on displays will be combined with fully equipped seminar and business conference areas to provide a unique museum experience with the most comprehensive visitor services available.

Meredith, Kaley to lead Northville basketballers

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville boys' basketball coach Omar Harrison is hoping to overcome some stiff graduation losses with a few returning letterwinners and the nucleus of an outstanding junior varsity squad of a year ago.

The Mustangs are coming off a 10-11 campaign, but no longer have the services of either Chris House or Heath Myers — who combined to score nearly 30 points an outing last winter. Others like Mike Karfis, Greg Price and Rob Walsh are also gone.

"There is no doubt, we lost some good players, but we have a few others back and I feel pretty good about the season at this point," Harrison explained. "One of the big pluses is that we have a good bunch of juniors coming up from the J.V. — and I think they were 16-4 last year."

The top two returnees include Scott Meredith and Joe Kaley. Both saw plenty of action in 1988-89 and were actually inserted into the starting line-up often at the tail end of the season.

At 6-foot-6, Meredith is probably Northville's most important low-post player. He was one of Northville's top rebounders a season ago and Harrison is expecting him to develop into an offensive threat as well.

"Scott really came along as last year progressed," Harrison said. "It got to a point near the end of the season where we couldn't keep him out of the starting line-up. He's now able to move out away from the basket more, but he's still got a lot of good, inside moves. I expect he'll be a key player for us."

Kaley started the final six games last season when Walsh was hurt, and he responded by averaging close to double figures in scoring during that span. The 6-foot senior will play small forward for Northville.

"Joe's biggest asset is that he never quits — he's always hustling," Harrison said. "He can give people fits on defense because he can shoot the three-pointer and he's excellent on the fast break because he's so quick."

The remaining frontcourt starter is still up for grabs. The three main candidates include 6-foot-4 senior Paul Grant, 6-foot-3 junior Paul McCreadie and 6-foot-6 junior Mike Lang. Grant is a returning letterwinner who has shown a lot of improvement in early workouts.

"He's made some strides and I think he'll be a valuable asset to the team," Harrison said. "The thing I like about him is that he is very smart — he understands the game very well."

Both McCreadie and Lang are frontcourt players of the future for the Mustangs, but they will contribute now. Lang is not only tall, but he weighs about 215-pounds and was a member of the varsity as a sophomore. McCreadie is one of the top players up from the J.V. level.

"Lang is a big kid," Harrison said. "He rebounds well and he takes up a lot of space underneath the basket. And McCreadie worked very hard on his game over the summer. Both will be pushing for that frontcourt starting position."

The two guard positions will probably be filled by an inexperienced, yet talented duo — junior Bill Kelley and sophomore Ryan Huzjak. The 5-foot-10 Kelley is a prospect at shooting guard who is also making the jump from the reserves.

"Bill is a very good athlete," Harrison said. "If we can get him to keep his intensity on defense, he'll have a good year because his offense is no

Mustang dominance?

Neil Geoghegan

The annual 'Baseline Jug' goes to the winner of the Novi-Northville football clash late every October, and everyone seems to agree that in the two years since the trophy was introduced by this newspaper, the gridiron rivalry between the two neighboring schools has picked up a notch or two.

But people in these parts tend to forget that there are other athletic battles between the Mustangs and the Wildcats. Take this fall, for example, when the Novi and Northville varsity teams meet in every sport, except cross country.

The Mustang footballers earned possession of the 'Baseline Jug' for another year with a stunning 10-7 upset on Oct. 27, but this fall the rest of the Northville teams also fared very well against their Novi counterparts. In six meetings in sports like swimming, tennis, basketball and soccer, the team from south of Eight Mile Road came out on top five times. The only Wildcat victory against a Northville team came on Aug. 28 when coach John Peace's golfers upset Don Morgan's troops at Salem Hills Country Club 210-214.

I don't know if all this means anything, but it is interesting because the schools are so close in proximity and size.

"It's nice that we've done so well against Novi lately, but a lot of that is coincidence and luck," Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan said. "Our coaches and players realize it's a big rivalry and we hope to continue to do as well as we have."

In soccer, an 8-10 Mustang squad nipped a 12-7 Wildcat unit 1-0, and the streak continues — Novi has never beaten Northville in boys soccer. Same can be said for girls' tennis, as the powerful Mustangs dumped the 'Cats 7-0 on Aug. 30.

The area featured two solid girls' swim teams and they met on Oct. 17 — but despite a valiant effort, the Ladycats fell 96-76. The girls' basketball meeting between the two neighboring schools was an offensive nightmare — but again, Northville came out on top 31-27 in a tight battle.

To Novi's defense, the final tally probably wouldn't have been so lopsided had the boys and girls cross country teams from the two schools met in '89. The Wildcat boys were probably a top-20 team in Michigan, with All-Stater Brian Molloy, and the girls made the elite MHSAA State Meet field, and were probably a top-15 outfit. Their Northville counterparts failed to have winning seasons — but as the football showdown proved again: you never know.

"It's a very competitive rivalry, but we like the competition," Colligan said. "From what I can gather, it's a very healthy and competitive situation and there really isn't any bitterness involved."

"Since I've been the A.D., I've tried to put a special emphasis on getting (Novi) on our schedule, and John Osborne and John Fundukian have been very willing to get it done. The only sport we couldn't work it out was in cross country, but we'll keep trying."

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Optimism is running high for coach Mark Heiden and the Northville boys' swim team. The program lost Rob Devyak — one of the state's premier divers — to graduation, but gained more team depth, which was a key problem a year ago.

"I'm very enthused," Heiden said. "We have the largest number of swimmers since I've been here and we have a whole lot of our top guns returning. I think we'll have more depth, but we do have a lot of newcomers and you never know how much they will be able to contribute."

For a team that didn't have much depth, the Mustangs were highly successful, with a 9-3 dual meet record and a fourth-place finish in the always tough WLAA.

"We are hoping to improve on our record, but our schedule is a bit tougher than last year, so it won't be an easy task," Heiden said.

The team's top returnee is undoubtedly junior Eric Newton, an MHSAA State Meet qualifier in the 500-yard freestyle and the 200 IM as a sophomore. He placed 10th and 14th respectively.

"Eric can swim just about anything and do very well," Heiden admitted. "The IM and the 500 free are his best and they are probably the two most difficult events out there. He should do very well in the WLAA and place even higher at the state meet."

Senior captains Chris Handyside and Andy Wayne will lead a formidable and experienced 12th grade group. Both are excellent sprinters with Handyside specializing as a freestylist and Wayne contributing in the butterfly and backstroke. The other key seniors include Jason Stringer (middle distance freestyle, butterfly) and Matt VanHorn (freestylist).

In addition to Newton, the junior class sports two outstanding divers -- Larry Osiecki and Steve Lang. They were second and third overall in the Western Lakes championships behind Devyak when the Mustangs took a 1-2-3 sweep in the event at the Conference Meet.

Other 11th graders who will be crucial to the team's success are captain Brad Cook and transfer student Tom Parry. Cook is a versatile performer who excels in the sprint freestyle events as well as the butterfly and IM. Parry moved into the district from New York and has looked great in the breaststroke.

The team's top sophomore is Bob Holdridge — who is one of the top 10th graders in the area. His top event is probably the 500 freestyle, but Heiden plans to use him in many others because he has the versatility. Matt Hanna is the team's top breaststroker and is also a sophomore.

The most promising freshman is probably Jim Fee, who according to Heiden is "an excellent butterflyer and backstroker."

"We seem to have more flexibility than we've had in the past because we have so many guys who can excel in many different events," Heiden said. "A big key is how well our veteran guys show leadership and help the younger guys along."

"With a five-lane pool at home, we've always done well there because it tended to mask our depth problems. This year, we should do well at home but we should be in better shape at away meets. Last year we had 20 guys on the team — this year it's up to 28."

Sports conference for women slated

In January 1989, over 175 people concerned with the advancement of women into positions of prominence in interscholastic athletics gathered in Lansing for a groundbreaking ceremony.

That three-day meeting was the first Women In Sports Leadership Conference, which served as a springboard for discussion, participation and local action of the part of administrators, coaches, officials athletes and media interested in high school sports.

The second Women In Sports Leadership Conference, sponsored by the Michigan High School Athletic Association, will take place at the Sheraton Lansing Hotel on Jan. 28-29, 1990. The conference will focus on what it takes to aspire into a role model that others can look up to; how to make advocations and vocations work together; and how to get that break that gets one started up the ladder of sports administration.

"This meeting came about because the evaluations submitted by the conference attendees last year were so positive, and all of them really targeted the fact that there was a need for a second conference," said Suzanne M. Martin, assistant director of the MHSAA and coordinator of the tournament. "The attendees felt there was a lot of good information provided but that it was really the beginning point of what could happen in the future."

Keynote speakers at this year's conference include Merrily Baker, assistant director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, and former University of Houston basketball standout Janice Hilliard. A variety of workshops will also take place.

For additional information about the 1990 conference, contact the MHSAA at 1019 Trowbridge Road, East Lansing, MI 48823, or call (517) 332-5046.

Local gridder has hand in Wolverine championship

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler has always preached the advantages of team-defense, team-offense — team-everything.

This fall his Wolverines won the Big Ten title and a trip to the Rose Bowl by playing as a unit, rather than as a collection of individuals. And in Ann Arbor, for every star player like Tony Boles and Tripp Welborne, there's a dozen others — like Ron Buff Jr. — who have contributed to the program's success in small but important ways.

Buff is a redshirt freshman tailback at U-M who lives with his father in Novi. He didn't play a single down in Michigan's 10-1 season, but as a member of the scout team, he was instrumental at every practice, helping to prepare the starters for the next battle Saturday.

And in that capacity, Buff is one of the best. Whether it was trying to duplicate Anthony Thompson's inside running style or Blake Ezor's penchant for cutbacks, he was a valuable asset in practice.

"It's great to be a part of the team, even though I'm not out there on the field on Saturday's," Buff said. "It hasn't been easy but I really am happy. I always dreamed of playing for Michigan."

"The hitting is a lot harder than in high school — especially during the Michigan State week — but it's been a great experience."

Buff was a three-sport star when he attended Otisville, Lakeville High School — located northeast of Flint — while living with his mother, Rita Herrington. He was an All-State defensive back and tailback for the Class B Falcons, as well as a All-State catcher in baseball and an outstanding center on the basketball squad.

"I was recruited by Michigan, Michigan State, Minnesota and all the Mid-American schools my senior year, but I didn't feel I was ready for college," Ron said. "So I took a year off."

Buff moved to Novi after graduating to stay with his father — Rob Buff, Sr. — and his family. He worked at a local car dealership for a year and visited Bo's Gym in Novi three or four times a week to keep in shape.

"During my year off, I missed football a lot, and that's what made me go back," he said. "I made a lot of phone calls to Ann Arbor, talking to coaches, but finally they accepted me and I enrolled this fall as a preferred walk-on."

After conferring with Buff, the Michigan coaches decided they wanted him as a tailback — as opposed to defensive back — and he obliged.

"I wonder if I made the right decision as far as the position I'm playing," he admitted. "We are very deep at running back, but I'll play wherever they want me. If they asked me to switch to defense, I'd do it."

"I stayed in pretty good shape during my year off, but it took about two weeks of hard practice before I got into playing shape."

During the regular season, Buff dressed for every U-M home game, but did not make any road trips. His first experience as a member of the travel squad will come later this month, when the Wolverines travel to Pasadena. Yes, his first road trip will be to the Rose Bowl.

"Everybody on the team goes to the Rose Bowl," he said. "It's going to be very exciting."

The highlight of Buff's first campaign came in the fourth week of the season, when he was honored as the 'Rookie of the Week.' Only eight players per season receive the Rookie of the Week Trophy, and it was presented personally by Schembechler the day after a win over Wisconsin.

"I guess I made some big plays and hustled at practice all week," Buff recalled. "I was thrilled to get it. I was very nervous when I was awarded the trophy because I respect Bo so much."

Next season, Buff wants to earn a spot on the Wolverine special teams; and he is hoping the coaching staff will make him a scholarship athlete.

"The special teams is a good place to start and get the attention of the coaches," he said. "It may be a couple years before I see any playing time, but I'm going to keep working hard."

"Another goal of mine is to earn a scholarship. Lloyd Carr, our defensive coordinator, told me I had a heck of a year, and it made me feel like I was a part of the team. I didn't plan on playing this season — I just wanted to contribute."

Buff is majoring in physical education and carries a 2.8 grade point average. He isn't sure about a vocation, but wants to coach football at the high school level.

"I don't know if I want to be a teacher or what, but I would like to coach football," he said.

As a player under Schembechler, he is learning from one of the best.

The Western Lakes League post-season girls' basketball teams — as selected by the conference coaches — features more underclass players than seniors.

It's very unusual for such honors, but the WLAA had an unusually young, but talented, group of players in 1989. In keeping with the youth movement, Northville's star forward Kate Holstein — an 11th grader — was a unanimous All-Western Division selection.

"We knew heading in that it was a young league," Kritch said. "It should be dynamite for the next few years."

Holstein led the Mustangs in scoring, rebounding, steals and field goal percentage. She was also among the area leaders in three-point shooting, free throw shooting and blocked shots.

"I think she had the best year of any junior since I've been around," Northville Coach Ed Kritch said. "I think she has tremendous potential."

"I thought Kate was a very deserving All-Division pick. The thing that made me real happy was that all the other coaches in the division voted for her. She has the skills and the potential to be an All-Conference selection next year."

The only other Mustang players to receive any recognition was senior guard Sue LaPrad, and junior forward Maria MacInnis — who were honorable mention picks.

Kristen Storm dives into the pool as a member of the Northville team last season

Former Mustang takes Brighton by 'Storm'

Brighton High School's girls' swimming team literally took the MHSAA Class A State Meet by Storm, and a former Northville tanker was the main contributor.

When the Bulldogs qualified and competed in three events in late November at Eastern Michigan University, Kristen Storm placed in all three. She finished 10th in the 50-meter freestyle with a 25.0 clocking, and was sixth in the 100 freestyle at 54.08. Storm also swam a leg of Brighton's 400-meter freestyle relay team along with Michelle Hargrave, Jenny Gibson and Ella Weston. Those four turned a 3:42.98 to finish 10th.

Storm, a sophomore, transferred to Brighton when her family moved there from Northville. The circumstances of her transfer are rather unique.

"Her family moved in here primarily because they wanted to get into our swimming program," said Brighton Coach Charlie Bates.

"They were looking around to move, and they were looking at schools with swimming programs. We expect good things from her in the next couple of years. She's going to break some of our records. She swam close to some of our pool records this year."

Though primarily a freestyler, she can swim in several events.

"A good swimmer can swim everything," said Bates. "We've used her in the butterfly and breaststroke."

The Bulldogs finished their season at 9-5, with the highlight being an upset victory of Ann Arbor Huron. At the state finals, Huron wound up second in the meet behind state champion Ann Arbor Pioneer.

"(The state meet) was a pretty good showing for us," Bates said. "We're real pleased with everything they did."

A year ago, Storm paced the Mustang swimmers to a Western Lakes Conference championship and a 10-1 dual meet record — and she was only a freshman. As a team, Northville placed 19th at the State Meet, and again Storm was a key figure. She grabbed a 15th place finish in the 200 medley relay (1:57.71) in '88, 16th place in the 50 freestyle (25.43), and was a member of the Mustang 400 freestyle relay team that placed 18th (3:47.97).

Her defection was probably the key reason why the '89 Mustangs were unable to successfully defend their WLAA title at the Conference Meet on Nov. 8-10. Northville had a dual meet record of 9-2 this fall.

Instead, Storm made waves for Brighton. She was the team's top point-getter, earned All-State honors and is recognized as one of the state's premier 10th grade swimmers.

Hunting Briefs: DNR uses decoys to battle poaching

ANTI-POACHING DECOY PROGRAM: Director David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced that 10 lifelike deer decoys were given to the DNR's Law Enforcement Division today to help conservation officers combat the illegal harvest of deer.

"This is a tremendous show of support for what we feel has been a highly effective program since it was started in May 1988," Hales said.

The decoys, all antlered bucks and valued at $400 each, were presented to Herbert Burns, DNR's law enforcement chief, from the Calhoun County chapter of Whitetails Unlimited for use in the DNR's anti-poaching decoy program.

The program essentially places non-trophy size deer, turkey or partridge decoys in areas where poaching incidents are numerous. The area is then closely monitored by a DNR officer for any unlawful hunting activity.

The 10 decoys will be distributed to DNR offices statewide — two to the Upper Peninsula, three to the northern Lower Peninsula and five to southern lower Michigan. The decoys weigh nearly 20 pounds and have been outfitted with reflective eyes.

Contributing time, services and materials to the project along with Whitetails Unlimited were: Brenner Life-Like Targets of Albion, which donated the deer forms; Vicksburg Locker Plant, the hides and racks; and the Owosso-based Log Cabin Taxidermy which fitted the hides and racks to the deer forms. Each group received a plaque of appreciation from the DNR.

ELK HUNT PERMITS: Director David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources announced that 110 Michigan residents have been randomly selected to participate in Michigan's winter elk hunt on Dec. 5-12.

The successful applicants were computer drawn from more than 42,000 persons who applied for the licenses. Certified letters have been mailed to successful applicants; unsuccessful applicants were not notified.

Of the 110 hunters, 75 will be allowed to take only antlerless elk, while 35 have the choice of taking an antlered or antlerless elk. Hunters have already been notified as to whether they received an antlerless-only or hunter's choice license.

The hunting areas include portions of Cheboygan, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle counties.

An earlier elk hunt was held Oct. 17-22, when 66 elk were killed by 80 hunters. A new state record for weight was set when Gary L. McCoy of Alma took a bull elk which weighed 790 pounds, field-dressed.

The two seasons are designed to maintain the herd at a desirable size; minimize crop, range and forest damage; and preserve a viable herd for viewing opportunities.

By winter of 1991, the DNR would like to maintain a posthunt population of 850 elk. Presently, the elk herd is estimated at 1,020.

The list of the 110 successful applicants includes several local residents: Michael Blanchard of Walled Lake and Theodore E. Brown of Novi.

STEEL SHOT CHANGE: Mandatory use of steel shot will be the statewide rule during the Michigan waterfowl hunting season, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

This is a change from the 1988 season when only the Lower Peninsula and two small zones in the east Upper Peninsula were required to use steel shot.

The Natural Resources Commission approved this action in February 1988 in an effort to significantly curtail lead poisoning in waterfowl.

"Historically, lead poisoning has been caused by the deposition of lead shot from the guns of waterfowlers," said DNR Director David F. Hales. "Michigan now joins Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin in adopting statewide requirements — all states in the nation must use steel by the 1991-92 season."

In Michigan, the rule will also apply to the hunting of coots, gallinules, rails and snipe, in addition to ducks and geese. Steel shot is not required for hunting woodcock, however.

Jerry Martz, Waterfowl Specialist with the DNR's Wildlife Division, suggests to hunters who have not used steel before, the following actions will help them better adapt to the use of steel shot shells in the field:

1. Use a steel shot size about two sizes larger than customary lead shotshell. For example, Number 4 steel is equivalent to Number 6 lead. Number 2 steel is equivalent to Number 4 lead; and T-shot in steel is equivalent to BB lead. The larger size steel pellet will have about the same weight as the similar lead shot.
2. Use a more-open choke in the gun when shooting steel because steel shotshells pattern tighter than lead shells. If a full choke was used with lead, use modified with steel.

3. Not all brands of guns and chokes will produce the same patterns. Hunters should pattern their guns with several steel loads at normal hunting distances to find the pattern which best fits their own situation. Hunters should make sure their targets are in range; most hunters are not consistently good shots at ranges beyond 45 yards.

PROPOSAL DEADLINE: Director David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) announced that Dec. 15 is the deadline for 1990 small grant proposals for projects benefitting Michigan's nongame wildlife.

"These grants are an excellent opportunity for Michigan residents to become directly involved with nongame wildlife management," Hales said.

Grants up to $4,000 will be awarded under Michigan's Nongame Wildlife Fund, which is composed of voluntary contributions designated as a check-off on the state income tax form. The fund has sponsored the small grants program since 1985.

All proposals will be considered, but specific projects that will most benefit nonhunted wildlife and endangered species are sought.

Suggested projects include development of management guidelines for reptiles and amphibians, guidelines for interior forest bird species management and the use of native plants in landscaping. Population surveys are sought for black terns, king rails and spotted turtles in lower Michigan.

Proposals are also needed to improve the understanding and enjoyment of nongame wildlife and endangered species. These could include, for example, brochures on Michigan bats, gardening for hummingbird and butterflies or pamphlets on watchable wildlife opportunities in southeastern Michigan.

The Nongame Wildlife Fund has produced popular posters on landscaping for wildlife, backyard bird feeding, wetlands and coastal dunes. Proposals are sought to develop teaching guides and classroom activities using the themes of these posters.

Application information is available by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Small Grants, DNR Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing, 48909.

Huzjak is fresh off a football campaign where he quarterbacked the Mustangs to a 3-6 record — quite an accomplishment for a 10th grader. He played on the freshmen team a year ago, but has matured physically (5-foot-11) and emotionally, and has the inside track on the starting point guard position.

"Playing on the varsity football team really matured Ryan," Harrison explained. "He's a very confident kid, and he's looked awfully good so far. He can shoot, he can penetrate and he can set up his teammates."

Other guard prospects are senior Steve Bastian (5-10), and juniors Jason Flading (5-11) and Mark Hilfinger (5-11). Bastian is a returning letterwinner, who is an aggressive defensive-specialist who hasn't had much varsity experience. Flading is a three-point threat, plays solid Sophomores Chris Lehr (6-1 swing player) and Jim Luebke (6-3 front-court player) are also on the roster.

"I feel our strength is our quickness," Harrison said. "We will full-court press a lot because even our big guys — like Meredith — are not slow, lumbering-type players. We look for our pressure defense to force some turnovers and, hopefully, we'll be able to turn them into easy points in transition.

Old drug tackles new problem

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

It's called "Dry Eye."
Eyes burn and feel scratchy. Some people can't cry. It may cause blindness. And it affects perhaps 7 to 10 million Americans. At least that many seek artificial tear preparations to secure varying degrees of relief.

"Dry Eye" can be related to a variety of conditions ranging from arthritis to contact lens wear.

Vitamin A administered in topical ointment was, until recently, thought to hold promise in treating "Dry Eye" but clinical trials proved otherwise.

Now cyclosporine, the drug that helps prevent rejection of transplanted hearts and other organs, promises to rescue many "Dry Eye" victims.

"Dry Eye" results from impairment or loss of tear glands that keep eyeballs protectively moist. Many remedies have been tried. One, begun 30 years ago and later abandoned as impractical, detoured surgically the end of a parotid gland, which secretes saliva, from the mouth into the eye. The eye salivated at the sight or taste of food.

"Once I couldn't cry. Now I weep when I eat," said a Cleveland man who had this surgery. "I needed a little moisture. They gave me Lake Erie."

Cyclosporine is an experimental approach, based on indications that "Dry Eye" is another example of the

'Dry Eye' can be related to a variety of conditions ranging from arthritis to contact lens wear body's curious auto-immune reaction leading to rejection of one's own tissues.

Dr. Renee Kaswan, associate professor of veterinary ophthalmology and pharmacology at the University of Georgia, finds that tiny drops of cyclosporine increase tear flow and reduce corneal scarring in dogs with KCS — kerato-conjunctivitis sicca.

KCS apparently is part of an auto-immune disorder, Sjogren's Syndrome, often associated with rheumatoid arthritis, that in humans causes dryness, grittiness, burning and scratching of the cornea. It troubles people wearing contact lenses. It's painful, might even bring blindness, Kaswan told a Research to Prevent Blindness (RPB) seminar audience.

Cyclosporine should suppress the reaction. In Scotland, Dr. John Williamson reports more flow of tears and less corneal damage in 20 patients given the drug.

Human trials are now getting underway in this country to see if cyclosporine fulfills the hope of overcoming "Dry Eye," Kaswan said.

Metroparks cater to cross country skiers

Eight Huron-Clinton Metroparks, serving the five-county area, will provide a combination of cross country ski trails and ski equipment rentals during the 1989-90 winter season.

The rates remain the same as last year: $5 per complete set of equipment for four hours on weekdays; $6.50 on weekends. An insurance fee of $2 per set is required on all equipment, but $1 is returned when the equipment is returned in satisfactory condition. The use of the trails is free with the operation of all facilities.

Kensington Metropark near Milford features over 15 miles of groomed cross-country ski trails, suitable for the novice, intermediate and advanced skier. The Ski Touring Center is located at the golf course, which has coin operated lockers, rest rooms and food service. Skiing lessons are $5 per person on weekends with advanced registration required. Phone 685-1561 for more information.

For weather conditions, call the Huron-Clinton Metropark Authority at 1-800-24-PARKS. Cross country maps are available at most Metroparks.

FREE BLOOD PRESSURE SCREENING: The Catherine McAuley Health Center will offer free blood pressure screening from 3-5 p.m. on Dec. 18 at Arbor Health Building at 990 W. Ann Arbor Trail in Plymouth.

For more information, call 572-4124.

OPEN POOL: The Northville High School Pool will be open to the public through Dec. 20. There will be open swimming from 7:45 p.m.-8:30 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays, with an adult lap swim following.

Fee is $1 per person, payable to the guard on duty. Locker rooms and showers are available.

FREE SKI WEEKENDS: On Jan. 6, 1990, several local cross country ski facilities will provide free trail passes and complimentary technique clinics to anyone who pre-registers before Jan. 5.

The local facilities include Rolling Hills County Park in Ypsilanti (971-6337), Independence Oaks County Park in Clarkston (693-2432) and Addison Oaks County Park in Oxford (693-2432).

On Jan. 19, several downhill ski areas in the area will be providing free beginner area lift tickets and beginner lessons to anyone who pre-registers.

The local facilities include Alpine Valley in Milford (887-4838) and Mount Brighton Ski Area in Brighton (229-9581).

Fitness Notes

FITNESS OVER 50: Twelve Oaks Mall offers a free exercise program titled "Fitness Over 50" in the Lord & Taylor Court every Tuesday and Thursday from 9-10 a.m.

Designed and field-tested for 12 years at the University of Michigan, "Fitness Over 50" is a safe, carefully guided, low impact aerobic exercise program set to music. It is particularly aimed at older persons and others who can benefit from increased energy, endurance and muscle tone.

Fitness Tips

Tips offered on how to beat holiday stress

By DAWN SMITH

The holiday season is a festive time packed with family and friends, parties and gifts, cooking and decorating. Along with the Christmas excitement comes the never-ending department store lines, the frantic housecleaning, the last minute shopping trips and that dreaded fruit cake from the thoughtful neighbor. Yes, though the holiday season is a cherished time, it is also a stressful time.

BE PREPARED

By knowing your schedule ahead of time, you can minimize the late night cooking and cleaning and those races to the store for that last item only to arrive two minutes after closing. Simply make a list of what needs to be done and organize your time accordingly. This will help make you more efficient with your time and your mind. You are free to concentrate on more important matters rather than trying to remember what you've already forgotten three times.

A shopping list would also be helpful. Decide what gift(s) you want to get each individual before shopping. You'll save a lot of money, time and frustration.

PUT YOUR BEST FOOT FORWARD

Most people spend at least part of the holidays with relatives and it's probably fair to assume that many have at least one relative in particular that they would rather not associate with. These are unavoidable situations so you may as well make the best of them and alleviate the stress. Try to: 1) concentrate on his/her good qualities, 2) be light-hearted; don't take everything he/she says or does too seriously, and 3) remember that their visit won't last forever.

MAINTAIN YOUR HEALTHY LIFESTYLE

With all the preparations for the holidays it's easy to neglect your own needs. Most importantly, make sure you get enough sleep. This will add quality to your active hours and keep you in a better state of mind when you have to battle the hustle and bustle of this busy season.

Also commit yourself to continue your exercise program. If you can't make it to the gym, go for a walk, jog or bike ride. If you can't get away because you would be neglecting your guests, invite them to go along with you. Exercise is a great energy booster and an excellent way to work off those extra holiday goodies you've been enjoying.

Finally, limit the holiday goodies.

Just because it's a special time doesn't mean it's time to dive into the egg nog, dip into the cheeseballs and crackers or take a bite of every cookie, candy or pastry that's available. Minimize your alcohol and punch consumption also. Both are very high in calories and can easily be replaced with sparkling water with a twist of lemon or lime.

So take the Christmas challenge. Plan ahead, keep a good attitude, stay active and control your appetite; make the most of the Holiday Season.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.
