Northville residents wil be paying more for their media access in January, as the community's cable company, Omnicom of Michigan, raises its rates.

Rates for a basic subscription in Northville, Plymouth, Canton and Hamtramck will increase $1.50 a month to $18.50 monthly on Jan. 1, or $25.00 monthly with remote control. Rates in Romulus and Van Buren, two subscriber areas which were purchased by Omnicom from Barden Cablevision in 1988, rose to $17.85 for a basic subscription in September.

'Nobody likes a rate increase and that includes the cable company, said General Manager Lisa Boland. Boland attributed the rate increase to "two exorbitant increases in our cost of operating this year."

The rate reflects large increases in programming costs, she said, noting that the cost of programs to the cable company itself had gone up an average of 13 percent in the last year. "ESPN and USA (networks) went up sharply this year," she said. The big-gest increase came from the Financial News Network, which raised the rate it charges the cable company by 57 percent.

Boland said the higher costs are due to the greater amount of original programming offered by cable companies. "The cable industry as a whole has put over $2.5 billion into original programming this year," she said.

The other increase was a raise in insurance costs, up more than 30 percent over last year according to Boland. "All other costs, the fixed costs we control, went up with the rate of inflation," she said.

Boland said she contacted other cable companies before raising Omnicom's rates, and found that most are raising theirs as well, though some are waiting until February before instituting the new rates. ""Everybody's programming costs have increased," she said, "not just Omnicom's."

The company has tried to soften the blow to consumers by offering three new channels in the last year. The company began offering Turner Network Television and the Catholic

Police chief resigns amid gun inquiry

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township Chief of Police Kenneth Hardesty resigned Tuesday in the wake of an investigation which alleged that he may have violated state and federal laws by selling a township weapon to Clerk Thomas L.P. Cook.

A township official, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said last week that the township Board of Trustees offered Hardesty a chance to resign, rather than be fired.

Hardesty was a member of the police department for 20 years, and chief for the past eight years.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said Tuesday that Hardesty will receive a severance package, and that the township had taken steps to implement a new ethics and conflict of interest policy.

Goss did not reveal the value of the severance package, and said Hardesty had not yet signed to accept the plan, although she said that action was expected soon.

Goss also said the Board of Trustees had adopted four other recommendations drafted by township attorney Ernest J. Essad Hardesty, contacted at home Tuesday evening, said he would not com-ment on the investigation or his resignation at this time.

Essad conducted the Hardesty investigation, and his findings revealed that the former chief may have illegally signed a federal tax exemption form when he purchased a Glock 19 semi-automatic handgun for Cook. The form acts as a federal tax waiver for weapons purchased for use by police departments. Cook is not a member of the Northville Township Police Department.

Essad's report also indicates that Hardesty avoided state sales taxes with the transactions, and violated another state law which prohibits anyone but the supervisor from selling township property.

The handgun Hardesty sold to Cook was one of 19 weapons purchased for use by the township police department. Cook approached Hardesty after the township board approved the purchase of the Glock Model weapons for $8,110, according to the report, and asked the chief to get him one of the weapons. Hardesty then allegedly attempted to get the weapon by overriding accepted departmental policies, including processing paperwork that is normally handled by a different division of the police department. The chief reportedly sold Cook the gun for $320 — the department's cost and apparently did not pocket any of the money from the sale himself Cook wrote a check to the township for the full $320.

A police outfitter in Detroit told the Record that the retail price for the Glock 19 is $511.16.

Cook said last week that he asked the chief to purchase the gun to "cut down on red tape.'

Goss said the township has turned over Essad's report to the Michigan State Police and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, and they will determine if any legal steps are to be taken against Hardesty.

She said the firearm has been returned to the township, and Cook's check has been returned.

Goss said Capt. Phillip Presnell has been named acting chief, and that the township would soon begin a search to fill the position.

Television Network of Detroit in response to requests from subscribers, Boland said. She said Omnicom received thousands of letters requesting the Catholic network. Boland also attributed the company's change from Home Shopping Network II to the Quality Value Channel (QVC) to feedback from subscribers, who found that the two Home Shopping Networks offered by Omnicom had become increasingly similar. QVC also offers different items and a more scheduled format than the Home Shopping Networks, she said. giving viewers a better idea of the items offered for sale at various times throughout the day.

'If you're looking for a television with the Home Shopping Network," she said, "you just have to hope that you come across one."

With its basic rate, Omnicom offers networks like CNN Headline News, Nickelodeon children's programs, Arts and Entertainment. the Weather Channel, and MTV music television.

Other cable companies in the metropolitan area offer similar services for their basic rates. Though Boland described Omnicom's rates as "about in the middle" in southeast Michigan, an informal survey of cable companies in the metropolitan area found Omnicom's rates to be among the highest.

Willerer, Baja, Woodside named to township posts

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss recently announced two new appointments and one reappointment to key posts within the township government.

Goss said Robert Willerer has been named to a seat on the township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). Willerer had served as an alternate to the ZBA, and will be replacing long-time member Bernard Bach, whose appointement was not renewed.

Bach sat on the ZBA for the past 13 years, and had served as the ZBA's liaison to the planning commission the past three years. He was not happy with Goss' decision to terminate his role with the township.

He told planning commissioners during their Nov. 28 meeting that it was his last evening on the job. He also said Goss had removed him from the position against his will.

"I've been on this planning commission for three years," he said. "It takes three years to get your feet wet.

To pull me off now seems like a bit of a political move.

'Yes, he had been there 13 years," Goss said later. "I felt it was time for a change, but we appreciate his many years of service.

"The appointments are not forever," she added.

ZBA member Karen Baja was named liaison to the planning commission, Goss said. The supervisor said Baja "has experience, does her homework, and will be an asset to the planning commission.' Baja's appointment is for three years

Receiving another three-year term to the planning commission was Karen Woodside

"I re-appointed Karen Woodside because she's dedicated and competent," Goss said.

Besides Woodside and Baja, the planning commission consists of Chairman Charles DeLand, Jerry Chisnell, Pat Wright, Richard Allen, Larry Sheehan, John Leinonen, and Barbara O'Brien.

Members of the ZBA include Baja, Willerer, Thomas Cook, Don DiComo, and Don Samhat.

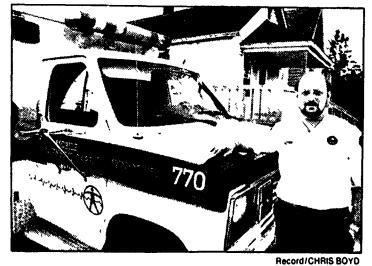

City gains ambulance station

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville city has its own ambulance as of last Friday, though not at the location first considered by Community Emergency Medical Ser-vices (CEMS). The station's new location is at 432 Center Street.

'We were having trouble getting the building completed on Seven Mile," said CEMS President Greg Beaughemin, "and we couldn't get (property owner Robert Stone) to give us a firm move-in date. We felt very pressured to get moving on this.

The new location is in the State Farm insurance building owned by council member Paul Folino and his wife, Mamie. CEMS officials approached the Folinos Wednesday

Chris Newell of CMS, support service manager Continued on 19

"We will contract with a recruitment firm to locate a new police chief," she said. "Right now it's an open subject."

Goss said the investigation and ensuing resignation cast a pall over many in the township.

It's sad to see him go," she said. "He's always been a dedicated public servant over the years."

Shock case attracts national attention

By MIKE TYREE

A Northville Public School District official Monday said the case involv-ing Terry Phelan and the Self-Injurious Behavior Inhibiting System (SIBIS) has attracted nationwide attention.

"This is undoubtedly one of the most precedent setting cases in the country," said Dr. Leonard Rezmierski, executive director of Special Education. "(The question is) should electric shock be allowed in the schools?"

Phelan, a severely handicapped 15year old from Westland, is afflicted with a form of self-injurious behavior. According to Rezmierski, the teen may strike himself up to 120 times per minute.

Phelan attends the school district's Bryant Center facility in Livonia, and his mother has taken Northville Schools to federal court in an attempt to allow Terry to use a SIBIS during classes at the Bryant Center. The case was thrown out of federal court and now school officials and attorneys are holding a series of hearings with attorneys for Phelan as ordered by U.S. District Court Judge Barbara Hackett

The SIBIS is a device consisting of a shell-like headgear with a computer chip that is capable of transmitting a signal to a battery pack strapped on to the user's leg. If the computer chip detects potential self-abusive movements, it signals the battery pack to emit an 85-volt shock to the user.

According to Rezmierski, approximately 50 SIBIS units are in use in the United States, and seven are reported to be used on school-aged children.

The school district maintains that the use of such a device constitutes a form of corporal punishment in the state. Rezmierski also says the SIBIS could violate child abuse laws as well as the district's own punishment guidelines.

'We just don't have the authority to allow this to go on," he said.

Rezmierski said six formal hearings on the case have been held to date, with another four scheduled prior to Dec. 20. He said five law firms and eight lawyers are involved in the issue, and more than 1,000 pages of cross testimony have been recorded. He said the Northville and Wayne-Westland school districts. as well as the Intermediate School District, are defendents in the case, and that consumer advocacy groups and the National Autistic Society have representatives closely monitoring the case.

The 85-volt shock discharged by the SIBIS could be compared to walking across a rug and touching a metal object, Rezmierski said. He also said that there are presently no studies

NEWS BRIEFS

CLARIFICATION - Northville Township Trustee Donald Williams told the Record last week that comments made by Clerk Thomas Cook were not accurate. Cook indicated that Williams had made inquiries to Police Chief Kenneth Hardesty about purchasing a Glock Model 19 handgun after a meeting of the Board of Trustees Sept. 14. Williams said he "was in the hospital, in a coma" on Sept. 14.

TROOPER HONORED - The Michigan Department of State Police Board of Awards has announced that Trooper Judith Anderson of the Northville Post was recently cited for outstanding service.

Anderson was awarded the Citation for Life Saving for her in-volvement in an incident that occured in July, 1989. According to police, Anderson was called to the scene of an attempted suicide and found a man hanging by his hands from an expressway overpass, about to fall into heavy traffic below. With the help of two others, Anderson kept the man from falling and eventually pulled him to safety.

PUBLIC HEARINGS - The Northville City Council will hold two public hearings on Dec. 18. The first is on a proposed amendment to the city's zoning ordinance to allow home delivery restaurants in the Central Business District with certain restrictions. The second is for public testimony on the use of the 1990 Oakland County Community Development Block Grant fund. The $6,000 fund is part of a $28,000 balance available for funding handicapped-access, senior citizen, planning or other public improvement projects in the city (see related article).

HOLIDAY CONCERT - A Choir Christmas Concert will be held at the Northville High School Auditorium Dec. 20 at 7:30 p.m. The show will feature selections from the school's symphonic jazz ensemble, the Mustang marching band, and traditional holiday tunes.

Sixty-five students will be performing, no admission will be charged and refreshments will be served.

GANS ACCEPTS APPOINTMENT - Northville resident Marvin Gans, Assistant Dean of Continuing Education Services at Schoolcraft College, was recently appointed chairperson of the College and University Physical Education Department Administrators Council (CUPEDAC).

Planners consider the city's future

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville's planning commission reviewed the latest proposal by Planning Consultant Don Wortman last week.

Wortman presented the commission with a revised map for proposed future land use, without a downtown fringe zone. The fringe zone had been the most hotly contested point in the previous commission meeting, with many members arguing such a zone would be detrimental to the city's health.

At their latest meeting, Wortman presented the commission members with a discussion paper suggesting several policies for the downtown area. These included setting Wing Street between Cady and Dunlap as the western boundary of the downtown core, and allowing existing office or commercial use west of Wing to continue as a legal, though non-conforming use.

The paper also suggested Cady Street between Wing and Griswold, and Main Street between Hutton and Griswold as the preferred area for downtown expansion. Nonresidential zoning would not be allowed to expand into existing residentially-zoned neighborhoods according to the paper.

"I think what we're trying to do here is figure out what in our minds distinguishes the downtown core from the commercial corridors," he said. "What we were thinking is this policy or some form of it could be incorporated into the master plan to define this fringe area, without labelling it a fringe as such."

Commissioners noted several potential problems with the policies listed, particularly with using Wing Street as a boundary to development. The commissioners questioned the fate of buildings like City Hall and the post office under such a plan, and the wisdom of preventing buildings like the service station across from city hall from changing their use.

One suggestion made was to keep Wing Street as the boundary except at the previously-mentioned sites, which would allow future expansion of city hall and redevelopment of the service station. "The post office won't be there forever," Walters added.

"We may want to consider some overall limitations on height," added Chairman John Hardin.

Commissioner Chris Gazlay, who reminded the commission that he was against a comprehensive review of the Master Plan in the first place, praised Wortman's paper for its general nature. "I think that these kinds of general parameters that he's set down here are about what the review of the Master Plan should be," he said. "I think we could all sign this and be done with it today."

Though other commissioners were not content to end the Master Plan review so quickly, several agreed that Wortman's document would make a good addition to the plan. Wortman emphasized the Police Blotters Lock foils apparent breaking and entering attempt

City police reported an apparent breaking and entering attempt at McKinnon's on 126 E. Main St. on Dec. 7. between 12:45 a.m. and 7:45 a.m.. The door lock was found damaged at 7:45, as if someone had attempted to pry the lock out of its housing. The lock has since been replaced.

BANG THE DOOR SLOWLY -The front door of Getzie's Pub at 157 E. Main was damaged Dec. 5 when a reportedly-intoxicated Northville man shoved it open with his hands. According to the manager at the time, the man damaged the door at 10:40 p.m. while leaving the pub, after being refused service. Damage was estimated at $300, and the man reportedly admitted to causing the damage and agreed to pay for repairs.

BETWEEN A ROCK AND A HARD PLACE - A Melvindale man driving south on Novi Road Dec. 5 at 9:08 p.m. reported that the right side of his windshield was smashed by a large piece of concrete as he drove by Allen Street towards Eight Mile Road. The driver reported observing three young men in white jackets running north from the area after the incident. When he made a U-turn and stopped to call police from a pay phone he saw the youths again, and observed dark stripes on one of the jackets. Northville city and Novi police searched the area but no one was found. Damage to the windshield was estimated at $350

SHATTERED - The passenger window of a car parked in a parking area on Hutton Street was reported broken Dec. 8 between midnight and 7:31 a.m. An estimated $150 in damage was done during the incident, though nothing was reported taken from the vehicle.

HOODWINKED - The hood ornaments from a 1985 Cadillac and 1976 Buick were reported stolen between 5 p.m. on Dec. 2 and 3:30 p.m. on Dec. 5, according to city police reports. The vehicles were parked in a driveway on South Rogers at the time. The ornaments were valued at $50.

HOODWINKED II - The gold hood ornament of a 1989 Cadillac was reported stolen Dec. 1 between 2 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. The vehicle was parked in the upper parking deck on Mary Alexander Court when the incident occured. The ornament was valued GIMME SHELTER - A unit at Northville Park Apartments on Novi Road was broken into between Dec. 7 and 9, according to city police. The ground-floor window of the unit was found broken and a screen was apparently kicked in, in an estimated $125 in damage. Glass from the window was found on the other side of the room in the apartment.

JUMPING JACK FLASH Another bathroom fire at Northville Downs destroyed a $100 toilet paper dispenser, and caused $50 in damage to a bathroom stall door. The fire occurred Dec. 9 at 3:31 p.m. in the men's room of the upper grandstand, in the second-to-last stall, and another dispenser was found smoldering in the last stall. Both stall doors were locked. The top of a dispenser was taken to the Northville police station to be dusted for finger-

CALLING ALL CARS - A mobile phone valued at $1,000 was stolen from a vehicle parked on Charleston Court between 6 p.m. on Dec. 5 and 3:30 a.m. on Dec. 7, according to city police reports. The phone was later recovered from the middle of Lexington Boulevard west of Taft Road, though it was damaged and failed to function. The vehicle was reportedly unlocked at the time of the theft.

IT'S ONLY ROCK & ROLL - Two brass garage lamps at a residence on McDonald Drive were reported broken between 11 p.m. on Dec. 4 and 3 p.m. on Dec. 5, according to city police reports. A rock was found in

FENDER BENDERS - City police reported an accident at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft roads on Dec. 2 at 7:30 p.m. According to city police reports, a Wixom woman driving west on Eight Mile was braking for a red light at the intersection when a Northville man driving behind her slid into her car, apparently unable to stop due to ice on the road. No citations were issued, and both cars were driven from the FENDER BENDER - Township police responded to a report of a one car accident at 8 a.m. Dec. 3 near the intersection of Five Mile and Northville roads. Police said the driver was ticketed for careless driving. No other details were available from the township media log.

ASSAULT & BATTERY REPORTED – Township police called a reported assault and battery case which occured Dec. 5 around 7:40 p.m. "a family problem." No further information was available.

BREAKING AND ENTERING -Township police received a report that an unknown person or persons entered a township residence sometime Dec. 6 between 9 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. and removed property that the police department did not ideptify. Entry to the aparment was gained through a first floor door wall.

LARCENIES - Township police said the A&P Store on west Seven Mile Road reported that someone stole two cartons of cigarettes from their store Dec. 7 at 3:20 a.m. No further details were released. On Dec. 3, township police responded to a reported larceny from the Meijer store, 20401 Haggerty. Police released no further details in that incident.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

Local ambulance service falls under public scrutiny again

By JAN JEFFRES

NOVI - Community Emergency Medical Services (CEMS), an ambulance company no longer used by Plymouth and under scrutiny in Northville this fall, is now being monitored by the Novi Fire Department due to a number of slow response times over the past six months

CEMS now operates out of a building on Center Street in Northville.

Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan said the department has begun requesting monthly reports from the company and is also keeping track independently of the reponse times, which have been as high as 16 minutes on several occasions.

'I think we've had some concerns on it. We're looking into it. We've set them a criteria schedule," Lenaghan said.

"The American House (senior citizens housing) has had some long response times. It's been brought to our attention. We will be monitoring this very closely."

On Dec. 8, Community Emergency Medical Services (CEMS), which maintains corporate headquarters in Novi on Heslip Drive, opened two new ambulance stations -- one in the north end of the city at the intersection of 13 Mile and Novi Road and a second in Northville on Center Street south of Eight Mile Road. The Northville station will also serve Novi. One ambulance with an advance life support unit is kept at each station, said Peter Rogers, CEMS vicepresident of operations.

The north end station was opened in part in response to members of the Lakes Area Residents Association (LARA), Rogers said, which have been closely scrutinizing the ambulance service.

"Our seven minute response time average has not changed over the past year," Rogers said, "We have been very reponsive to the concerns expressed to us by the city of Novi. We're going to continue to make an effort to work with the fire department, the police department and any other groups that are expressing concerns.

The company, on the advice of its lawyers, declined to release data on its reponse times.

"According to what I've been hearing over the past six months there have been some extended reponse times. When we have had extended reponse times, they've been to the verv far reaches of the city," Rogers said, "We feel the extended response times are going to improve and we'll see a decrease in extended reponses to the city."

Lenaghan said he is awaiting a reponse time report from the company. The city uses as guidelines operating criteria established by the Michigan Dept. of Public Health which calls for ambulances with advanced life support units to respond within ten minutes or less 90 percent of the time. Ambulances have been slower in answering calls in the north end of the city, he added.

The American House of Novi on West Road experienced a number of delays in ambulance arrivals for the last year and a half, said director Stacey McMaster. This has been a worry for some of the 75 seniors who live there, she added.

McMaster said frequently the drivers were unfamiliar with the area and had to be given directions over the phone. Often, ambulances without advance life support systems answered calls and were not in direct communication with the hospital, she said.

'When you're dealing with senior citizens, every second counts," McMaster said, "We're talking 12 to 15 minutes before getting an ambulance here.

"There have been a few times when time is of the essence and someone's life could have been saved had they been here sooner. I've seen residents' families go beserk because the ambulances hadn't got there and there's nothing you can do but wait.'

McMasters says the reponse time has improved over the past few months and credits the city of Novi for arranging the opening of the new CEMS ambulance station, which is located about a mile and a half from The American House.

Six and a half years ago Novi entered into an agreement with CEMS, which is owned by Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills. When 911 is dialed, the phone caller reaches the city's police department, which in turn may contact the ambulance service. The city's agreement calls for the company to send out ambulances with advanced life support units.

The city is also concerned that ambulances without advanced life support systems have answered calls. Lenaghan said.

A basic unit or transfer ambulance carries bandages, splints, First Aid equipment and oxygen. It is staffed by state licensed basic emergency medical technicians.

In addition to this, an advanced life support unit ambulance carries an electrocardiogram monitor, a medications box, a defibrillator, intervenous equipment, advanced air-communications unit which allows the paramedic to talk directly to doctors at the hospital. An advance life support unit is staffed by licensed paramedics. Rogers said that because CEMS corporate headquarters is in Novi, at times a transfer ambulance passing through the city may be routed to an emergency call.

"If they were the physically closest ambulance, we would automatically send them and then follow with an advance life support unit in the majority of cases," he said.

Rogers said the company plans to place identification logos on all advanced life support units to avoid any confusion on the scene."

Several neighboring communities have recently questioned the level of service provided by CEMS. In September, Plymouth dropped out of an agreement with Northville that called for CEMS to provide advance life emergency services for the fivo cities. Plymouth instead engaged Huron Valley Ambulance Service.

In a memo on CEMS sent to the Northville police department, Plymouth officials said they were dissatisified with the quality of service, the response times, the fact that basic units were sent instead of the agreed-upon advance life support units, and the ambulances were too long at the scene before transporting patients.

Novi, the city and township of Nor-thville and Farmington Hills all entered into a pact with CEMS several years ago.

John Genitti said that the trolley has already been rented by the Mer-chant's Association and reserved for two weddings, and several tours of the teur best percent and the teurs of the town have been provided by local historian Ettie Ann Hirth. The bus is being driven by Nancy Candela, a local school bus driver. "What we needed was somebody with all the necessary licenses," said Genitti. The Genittis plan to use the trolley for a variety of events in the future. 'For events we're probably going to use it as a shuttle bus," Genitti said. The trolley could shuttle fair-goers between Northville Downs and downtown during the Tivoli Fair, for example.

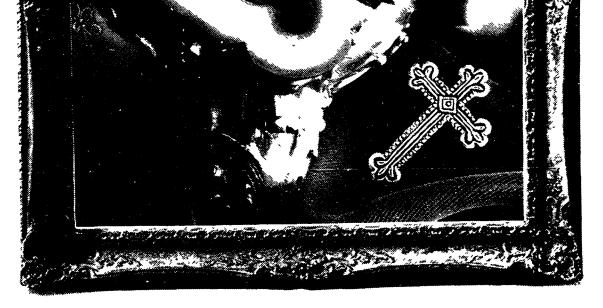

Genitti added that the trolley will be put up for the winter - and for minor repairs - after the Christmas holidays. "Right now we're just try-ing to get through the next couple of weeks and have some fun with it," he said.

The trolley is also available for rentals and advertisements. City officials have discussed entering into an agreement with the trolley owners to assume some control over the trolley's route and operating hours.

Novi considers adding an old-fashioned downtown

By JAN JEFFRES

NOVI - Designs are underway for a downtown Novi with an old-fashioned Main Street inspired by the city of Northville's ambiance.

The city's Town Center Steering Committee has been working for three months with the West Bloomfield-based Crosswinds Realty, which plans to build a mixed-use development on a 56-acre vacant parcel south and east of the intersection of Grand River and Novi Road. This will shift the heart of Novi from the four corners once the city's historic downtown.

Construction of the primarily residential project could begin as early as Sept. 1990. Jim Wahl, director of community planning for the city, said that discussions with the Oakland County Road Commission convinced the committee that the Grand River/Novi Road intersection's traffic level would continue to increase.

"The idea that either one of these roads would serve as a main street like in Northville was really not a practical design concept," Wahl said.

The 56-acres are currently owned by American Federal Bank of Texas and only about 20 acres are technically in the 157-acre area zoned Town Center District. No infrastructure exists in the quadrant except for a dirt road.

Crosswinds is working to develop a sales agreement on the land by Dec. 31. and plans to have a marketing study on the project completed by the end of February.

"The city is attempting to take the lead in the uses for this area, so we won't be held hostage to a marketing consultant," Wahl said.

The project was outlined in a report from the Town Center Steer-ing Committee to the city council Monday. The steering committee has been working closely with planners from Oakland County.

Connecting to the north with the ring road at the Trammel Crow Novi Town Center development, a main street in the project would be lined with primarily two-story buildings housing a lower commercial level and an upper office or residential level. The main street might include a traffic circle surrounding a monument or park. The back of the property would include multiple dwelling units such as affordable senior citizen housing, condominiums, apartments and lower density cluster housing, said David Eisenberg, vice-president of Crosswinds Realty in a telephone conversation following the meeting.

The retail development would concentrate on smaller, higher-end specialty stores similar to those found in downtown Birmingham.

"The retail certainly isn't the type of retail that will compete with the kind of retail already in Novi," Eisenberg said. The developers have already worked in the city as the builders of Crosswinds West condominiums on Nine Mile Road. But the style of the town center residential buildings would be "totally different," Eisenberg said.

"Lots of brick. The old-time Main Street with brick, brick pavements . comfortable for people to walk in, similar to downtown Northville," Eisenberg said.

"You're not going to find a four-story office building with lots of con-crete in this project."

"They'd (the town center steering committee) like to keep away from the seas of asphalt and get into more unique type of development. That's what interested me when I first came in. I thought it'd be exciting.'

A tentative schedule for the project calls for Crosswinds Realty to work out a preliminary site plan with the city from March to June 1990 and to seek zoning and ordinance changes, wetlands and woodlands approvals, roads, utilities and taxes. The bulk of the land is currently zoned for multiple housing, non-center commercial and business.

The 56-acre site is just south to a proposed redevelopment area along Novi Road, where at least one industrial business, KMH Equipment Company has been approached about moving to a proposed industrial park - paving the way for redevelopment of the area.

The Town Center Steering Committee's design district for the southeast quadrant also calls for an office-tech park south of the proposed Main Street. A city park has been proposed for a site to the southeast of the parcel

The town center committee is also the remaining three quadrants surrounding the crucial intersection.

Firefighters respond to the kitchen fire at the Wagon Wheel Lounge last week

Fire extinguished at the Wagon Wheel

An overheated fryer exploded in the kitchen ot the Wagon Wheel Lounge Hotel at 212 S. Main on Dec. 5, setting off a grease fire.

Bartender Debbie Gross, a Westland resident, said the fire occurred at about 7:15 p.m. She said the Northville Fire Department responded rapid-

"It took one minute but it seemed like an hour," Gross added while standing in the snow waiting for the all-clear sign from firefighters to reenter the restaurant

Northville Fire Chief Jim Allen explained that the brief fire was limited to the deep-fat fryer and there was no structural damage to the building.

No injuries were reported. Three fire engines responded to the call.

Moulik said the department will re-quest that funds for the re-structuring be added to the 1990-91 budget. He said that budget would go into effect in Oct. 1990, and that the department would probably look for a lease agreement for the Metro North site.

"We might be able to break ground in the spring of 1991," he said.

The service mentioned is Youth Assistance's pairing of Northville youth with community volunteers, giving the youth a positive role model in their lives.

While the director's salary has increased slightly over last year, from $18,500 to $19,500, and the clerical salary has increased from $9,100 to $9,750, other operating expenses have remained largely the same.

For the overall budget, King asked for a 5.7-percent increase over last year in the township's share to $15,894, and a 2.7-percent increase in the city's share to $9,741. Public donations should contribute about $2,000 to the predicted $28,010 in revenues, according to King, and a $8,935 surplus from this year's budget will cover the projected $36,945 in expenditures.

Council member Jerry Mittman cautioned King to remember the use of the $8,935 surplus next year. "You're spending about $9,000 more than what are really this year's revenues," he said. "It should not necessarily be assumed that that will be available (next year).'

Rotary rolls on Local club prepares for the future

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

After more than 60 years of community service, the Northville Rotary Club is looking to the future with renewed vigor. President John Sassaman and membership chairman Al Qualman are seeking new recruits and fresh blood for the venerable organization. "The club's very viable and could be a lot more viable," Sassaman said. "It's not going to die off by any means but we would like to increase our numbers and be more active in the community than we're able to be

"We're taking a more visible posture in the community," he said. The Northville Rotarians have been making their presence known at such recent community events as September's Victorian Festival.

There the group first unveiled its latest fund raiser — the Rotary hot dog cart. The cart at the Victorian Festival was actually borrowed for that occasion, but since then the group has purchased its own, and us-group has purchased its own, and us-ed it during the city's recent Christmas Walk and Santa's Parade. "We've had a very positive response from it," Sassaman said of the cart. "It's very profitable." He said the group has sold nearly 2,000 hot dogs — at a dollar each — at the recent events. recent events.

Other activities sponsored by the group are the Rotary Run, Premiere Nights at the Marquis Theater, and the current Goodfellows paper drive. The Goodfellow program, which originated in Detroit, involves the city's Rotarians, police and fire departments. The groups canvass the community, selling special issues of the Northville Record donated by the newspaper for that purpose. The money raised goes to support the community group Civic Concern, which helps needy citizens in the Northville / Novi area with meal programs and other assistance.

The Rotarians want to increase their involvement in the community further, in order to increase their impact. "We'd like to support more people — like students," Sassaman said. One program designed to help students makes funds available to teachers. The Russell Amerman Grant, named after the influential Rotary Club member and Northville Public Schools (NPS) superintendent who died last year, gives teachers a chance to appply for funds for special projects. Last year more than $1,000 was split among five teachers, from Kindergarten to High School, and supported projects as diverse as natural resources, archaeology and literature.

Rotary member Dr. George Bell, the present NPS superintendent, first suggested the grant to the club. "He was very much a teacher's teacher and we thought this was the best way to honor his name," said Bell of his predecessor.

"We'd like to get Northville back into the student exchange program," Sassaman added. The international exchange program, in effect for years, was cancelled several years ago due to lack of funds and the difficulty of finding host families for foreign students.

Sassaman said that the group is not alone in its efforts to become more active in Northville. "It's not just Rotary," he said. "It's any club or civic organization in the Northville community. You can't just come out once a year and raise money. You have to be out there all year long and returning money to the community." The club currently has 32 members. At one time, there were nearly 50 Rotarians in the Northville club. Though enrollment is down. Sassaman said that the group is still larger than many other Rotary groups in the area, some of which have fewer than 10 people. 'We have lost a lot of members in the last two years," Sassaman said. "We haven't been able to generate new members as fast as we've been losing them." Sadly, many of those losses have been due to the death of long-time members. Membership Chairman Al

Qualman has several ideas for in-creasing the club's roster. One idea - borrowed from the national organization - involves dividing the club into five-member teams and encouraging competition among the teams in recruitment of new members. The group is also looking to round out its membership by seeking people from different professions than current members.

"All the people who have passed away have been real nice people," Qualman said. "And it's hard to replace those people because we've lost the depth. The people who come in dan't have the same knowledge."

in don't have the same knowledge." An orientation program is being designed to brief new members on the club's traditions and activities, to

"Basically, any business person can join Rotary," Qualman said. "One of the nice things about it is you can fulfill your community activity during your work day." The Rotarians meet at the First Presbyterian Church on Main Street each Tuesday at noon, for a luncheon and presentation.

Qualman predicted that the Northville group will grow in the coming year, but added that the group is not looking to increase the number of menbers at the expense of the quality of members. "The thing that I of memoers. The uning that is always emphasize is the quality of the membership rather than the quantity," he said. "To say that we've increased by this much doesn't mean a lot if the members aren't active."

The club's current membership does boast some very active leaders in the community. Former club President Steven Walters is the current city manager, and club member G. Dewey Gardner was just reelected to the city council. Other members include State Sen. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville), township Supervisor Georgina Goss, township Trustee Don Williams, former NPS Superintendent Elroy Ellison, and local attorney Phil Ogilvie. 1,

The Rotary Club has had a long history of community service in Northville In January, 1976, the Nor-thville Rotarians celebrated their 50th anniversary by refurbishing the city's historic well on Main Street The group has taken on responsibility for the well since 1932, when the Rotarians raised funds to construct

In 1959, the Rotary Club rebuilt the frame and relandscaped the site. After the spring dried up in 1964, and city officials temporarily hooked the well spout to the municipal water line, the Rotary Club responded again, redrilling the well and installing an automatic pump.

Last year, when the well began to run dry once more, the Rotary Club had it redrilled to a depth of about 120 feet, in an attempt to assure that it never runs dry again. The project cost about $4,500, said Sassaman.

Another city landmark made possible by the club was the four-faced Victorian clock near the corner of Main and Center streets. The Rotary Club donated the clock to the city in the spring of 1980. The club faced another milestone of sorts in 1987 with the admission of the group's first female member. The admission came after the U.S. Supreme Court struck down the males-only membership rules of Rotary International. While Northville Rotarians overwhelmingly favored admitting women, at least one member resigned over the issue. Nationally, the Rotary Club is over 84 years old.

Historic district may expand

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville City's Historic District Commission is discussing a possible expansion of the district, in response to neighborhood requests.

At a recent meeting, Commission member Francis Gazlay mentioned Bealtown and Cabbage Town as possible areas in an expanded district, due partly to requests from Bealtown residents that their neighborhood be considered. Commissioners also discussed the significance of the Ford Plant in any expansion, and the number of Victorian homes that would be needed in an area to qualify it for preservation. As City Manager Steven Walters explained at a recent planning com-mission meeting, the requirement of state approval of a historic district expansion depends on the type of historic district the city wants to have. A historic district that is recognized simply on a local level can be oriented towards a specific type of architecture rather than to buildings with a certain historical significance, he said. "At that level, its largely based on local or-dinances," he said. "But there has to be some kind of rationale because the state statute requires some sort of theme.

To be registered as an historic place by the state of Michigan, or the federal government, a district must meet stricter guidelines.

Such a district does not require that all structures in the district be of the same same historical or architectural style, Walters added. "You wouldn't judge the district generally on the basis of a few aberrations," he said, "and a historic district is not usually set up to erase all aberra-tions. It's not really the purpose to try to force a Victorian facade on every building that isn't Victorian.'

Instead, the districts are intended to preserve the architecture that already exists, and encourage future buildings to follow that architecture.

The suggestion of an expanded historic district prompted some debate from one member of the plan-ning commission. "I have a strong feeling that the government ought not to make me do something against my will," said commissioner Rolland Stapleton. "I think it's entirely improper for this body to tell me what to build."

Others disagreed with Stapleton's views, saying that city control over building standards had proved a benefit to the city rather than a detri-ment. "Northville is a unique community and a somewhat controlled community," said Dick Wilhelm. David Totten agreed, pointing out that the city's Main Street project and review of the sign ordinance had resulted in a more attractive and commercially viable downtown. "It's been a marketable item, this Main Street," he said.

American angels Former paratrooper writes on WWII

By BRENDA DOOLEY

They became known as angels in baggy pants. On September 17, 1944, a group of American World War II paratroopers in the 101st Airborne Division descended from the sky to land in the town of Eindhoven, located in southern Holland. Their presence set off a chain of events that led to the liberation of Holland from German control.

Because their arrival signified freedom for Holland, the Dutch people called the American soldiers "angels in baggy pants." George Koskimaki of Northville was one of them. He was a radio man, a position that required him to jump from a plane with a 45-pound radio strapped to his leg.

"As soon as I got on the ground it was my job to communicate with regiments to let the generals know what was going on," Koskimaki said. An author, Koskimaki writes about the ensuing battle in Holland historically known as the one-week Market-Garden operation — in a new book entitled "Hell's Highway," released in November.

The book provides unforgettable eyewitness accounts from 612 participants who remembered when the airborne soldiers arrived in Holland. The 101st and 82nd Airborne Divisions held German forces at bay in a corridor stretching from Eindhoven to Arnhem, Holland, for two months. The corridor became known as "Hell's Highway."

"Hell's Highway." Koskimaki spent five years gathering the material for the book, as well as interviewing sources. His research included sending out 1,382 questionaires, 612 of which were returned.

It proved to be a long, involved process, one the author is familiar with. Koskimaki interviewed just as many sources for his first book, "D-Day With the Screaming Eagles," which is in its third printing. This book recounts events of D-Day — June 6, 1944 — through the eyes of paratroopers and glidermen of the 101st Airborne Division.

"I'd have nightmares of their experiences," Koskimaki said, referring to his interviews with other soldiers. "Or I'd burst out crying because it was so emotional... "I find that I remember more about D-Day than any other combat experience," he said. "I remember parachuting at 1:26 a.m. on D-Day and looking over General (Maxwell) Taylor's shoulder to see two planes burst into flames ... I remember landing in a field by myself and hearing rustling in the brush..."

ing rustling in the brush..." Most of Koskimaki's war experiences are ingrained in his memory. However, he also has a written account of various battles and events — Koskimaki kept a diary during World War II. Because it was illegal to keep written accounts during the war — for fear that military secrets could be revealed if they fell into the hands of the enemy — he recorded his thoughts on onion-skin paper.

"That way I could eat the pages if I had to," he recalled.

Koskimaki's extensive reasearch has made him an expert on the 101st Airborne Division. He has addresses for about 10,000 men who were part of the division.

"When anybody has a question about the 101st, they call George," his wife Eva commented. Most recently, he appeared on borne Division and their wives. The television show focused on the "Remember September 1989" ceremonies in Holland this fall. Every year the Dutch people celebrate their liberation from German control with torchlight parades and special events honoring the American soldiers of the 101st Airborne Division.

Koskimaki and Eva attended this year's ceremonies. They've visited Holland three times for the ceremonies.

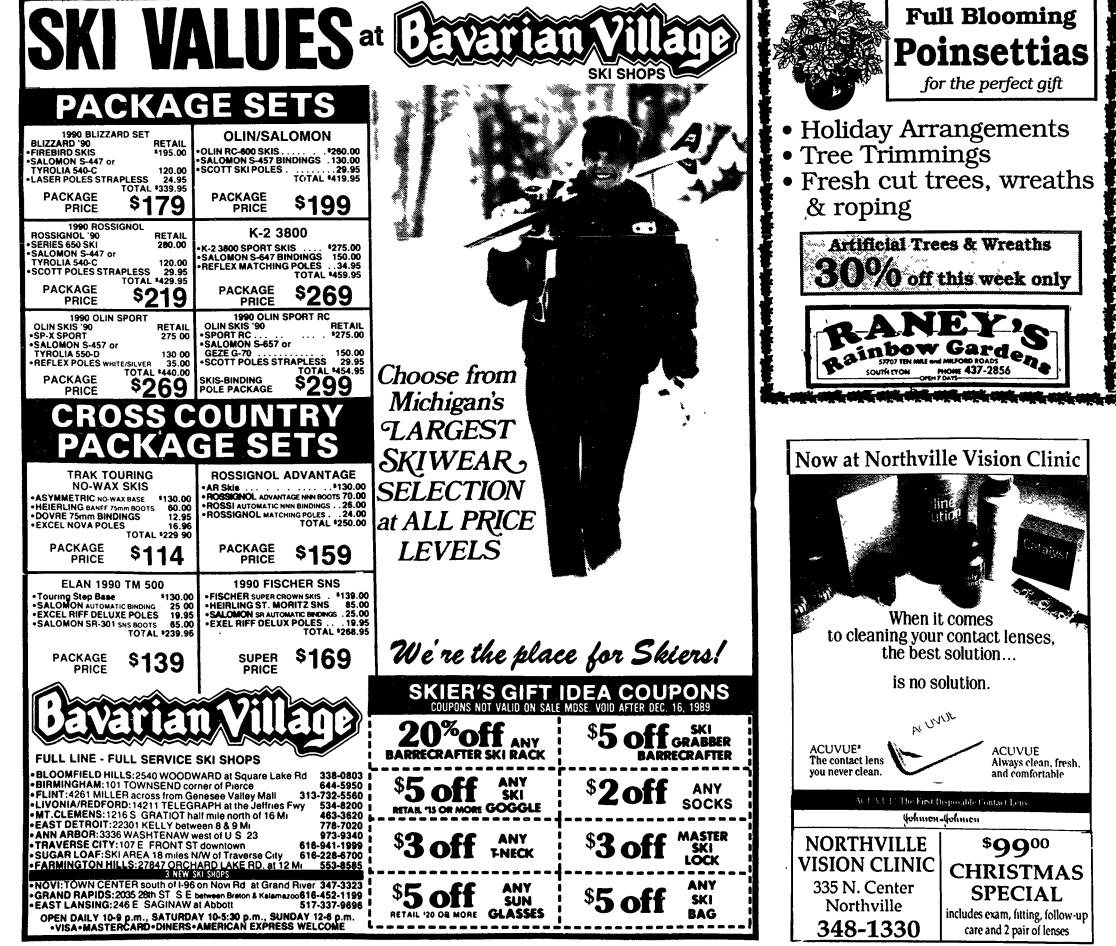

"When we were in Holland this September, the people were so proud of their liberation," George recalled.

"They remember (the German occupation) because they hope it never happens again," Eva added. "They are so grateful to the Americans ... they don't allow their children to forget the price of freedom."

The Koskimakis don't find the same kind of recognition among people in the United States. Instead, Memorial Day and Independence Day are treated "as an extra day off work," they noted.

George Koskimaki attributes the lack of pagentry in the U.S. to the fact that the war was fought in Europe.

Local stores give holiday shoppers plenty of variety

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

With less than two weeks left in the Christmas season, last-minute Northville shoppers have more options than ever. Many new shops have opened in downtown Northville in the past year, to complement the stores that have called the city home for generations.

Several new stores are vying for holiday sales at the former site of Schrader's Furniture. Traditions by Bartley & Boyd at 111 N. Center offers doll house furniture, antique and Depression-era glass, as well as antique jewelry such as earrings, lockets and pendants. La Belle Provence at 119 N. Center carries Pierre Deux's books for $35 to $40, and his country bags for $10 to $95. Threading your way between the antique and reproduction furniture in the store, you'll find earthenware Santas, French tapestry Christmas stockings and Quimper Faience hand-painted pottery from the French town of Brittany.

Behind these stores are two more, hidden from Center Street shoppers but well worth the search. The Atrium Gallery at 113 N. Center carries porcelain, glass and ceramic Christmas ornaments, including a popular wool angel for $10, jewelry, and artwork including prints by Ladislav Hanka and pottery by Jeff Hale. "We've got something for just about anybody," said proprietor Joann Lyall.

Across from the Atrium is Remembrance, a Victorian Doll Shoppe. Owner Lydia Sweatt says that antique dolls, especially the ones by famous artists like Annette Himstedt and Hildegard Gunzel, have more than sentimental value. Their financial value increases over time as well. Other popular items at Remembrance are water globes containing Christmas scenes and carousel horses, Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls, and teddy bears. "People never outgrow teddy bears," Sweatt said.

CLOTHING FIT FOR A KING – OR QUEEN

The venerable Freydl's clothing shop at 112 E. Main has been having a banner Christmas season, according fo owner Charles Freydl. Some of this'year's more popular gift items are bathrobes, ladies' sleepwear, socks, and handknit cotton sweaters. When looking for a gift, Freydl said, remember that "men are a little more traditional than the women."

At Lapham's Men's Shop at 120 E. Main, sweaters are also a hot item. One popular gift combination is a patterned shirt and sweater. "We're blowing sweaters out of here," said Sales Associate Chris Cavanaugh. "We're putting together some pretty wild combinations." Other big sellers are sportcoats, suits and afghans.

Linda Reeves of the store "Ewe, Me & Co." straightens some wares

"Everybody can use an afghan," Cavanaugh said.

Women are looking for "fancier things for the holidays," according to Joanne Eisele of Victoria's Place at 332 E. Main. Eisele mentioned "glitzy holiday wear like two-piece dresses with rhinestones, glitzy sweaters, jewelry and accesories" as good gift ideas.

On either side of the Marquis Theatre at 135 E. Main is the Marquis Boutique and Marquis Imports. Popular items there include Steinbech nutcrackers and jewelry, according to owner Inge Zayti. "We have some really, really unusual jewelry," she said. Another popular item is a sweatshirt saying "London, Paris, Rome, Northville" in gold lettering.

For clothing of a different sort, try Mountain Rags at 109 N. Center.

Owner Diane Licht also designs the Victorian-style clothing she sells, out of classic fabric designs and natural fibers. "Laura Ashley and Ralph Lauren are my favorite designers," Licht said. Orders for her dresses are coming in so fast, she added, "we can't sew fast enough." One oftrequested gift is a matching set of mother-daughter dresses.

The Little People Shop at 103 E. Main offers clothing ideas for the wee ones on the gift list. Parents are buying tights, slips and petticoats for their daughters as well as hair bows and other accessories for previouslypurchased outfits, according to Sales Clerk Barbara Medeiros. "We always run short of tights this time of the year," she said. "And we'll get those people here who are just getting around to buying their children winter coats." DIAMONDS ARE FOREVER

But diamonds are still a girl's best friend, according to inside sources at two downtown jewelers. "The most popular item again this year are tennis bracelets and tennis bracelet jackets," said Manager David Beyer of Orin Jewelers at 101 E. Main. Tennis bracelet jackets are used to give those tennis bracelets a new look. While the diamond-studded bracelets start at $1,000, the jackets are priced from $2,500 on up.

from $2,500 on up. According to Debbie McDonald, coowner of Northville Jewelers at 201 E. Main, women are also looking for a little mink this year, and her store has the perfect solution. Northville Jewelers is giving away mink teddy bears with the purchase of a pearl necklace. "Barbara Bush has made pearls popular now," McDonald said. Also popular this year is "anything Record/CHRIS BOYD with a blue topaz."

TIS THE SEASON TO BE HEALTHY

For the athletic person on the Christmas list, D & D Bicycles at 121 N. Center offers a range of mountain bikes from $200 to $1,400. "Everybody's buying mountain bikes," said Manager Dave McDonald. D & D carries the popular Giant brand, Cannondale and others.

Across the street at Town & Country Cyclery, 148 N. Center, shoppers can find a variety of skateboards and Burton Snowboards between $129 and $469, at the Skateboard Shop inside the store. Town & Country also carries a selection of mountain bikes, including Raleigh. More riders are buying bike helmets this year, added Manager John Shoemaker, "because people realize they should have something on their heads when they ride." Heimets at Town & Country are priced from $39 to $109.

THE GHOST OF CHRISTMAS PAST For a real present from the past, look under the green awning at 105 E. Main. There you'll find Morrison's Northville Consignment, which offers Christmas ornaments from the 1950s, blown glass ornaments, "and all the knick-knacks that the baby boomers remember from their childhoods," said owner Neida Morrison.

Just east of Morrison's under the green awning is the entrance to the Uptown Shops. Follow the rosestencilled stairs up and you'll find five stores overlooking Main Street. At the end of the hall, Preferences offers custom silk flower arrangements and a collection of Santa figurines of every size and shape from $6 to $60, as well as antique quilt stockings from $28 to $38. Visitors to The Country Basket will find handmade baskets by Barbara Teubert and "pre-loved" teddy bears made to look like nursery favorites for $16, called "Old Bears Repeating."

Ewe, Me & Co. offers needlepoint patterns, rughooking supplies and classes, while Cottage Charms carries decorative paintings and crafts. My Favorite Things carries antiques and country-style gifts.

and country-style gifts. Judy's Decorating Shoppe at 107 N. Center also has a selection of preantiqued teddy bears, as well as dolls and doll furniture. But be careful when you ask for Judy, because owner Judy Gulian is just one of several Judys who work in the store. Downstairs at Judy's is the Kitchen Witch, which offers cookware and supplies for the happy homemaker. One hot item this year is the Joyce Chen Peking Pan, which can be used for stir frying and other cooking. Also popular are stone coasters, advertized as "the only coasters that really work."

To further outfit your doll collection, Anne's Crafts at 110 N. Center has handmade pine doll and children's furniture, including benches, coffee tables and end tables. The store also carries folk art and stencilling supplies. "Stencilling is always big," said wood cutter Diane Hogrefe. "Everybody's got to stencil everything." Country Fare at 446 S. Main has

Country Fare at 446 S. Main has sold Christmas shoppers many handpainted wooden baskets at $6 to $30, said owner Susan Cutting. "They fill it with different things and give it away as a gift," she said. The store also offers large brass horns filled with greens and magnolia leaves, and tied with a big bow. "We sell a lot of wooden handmade Santas," she added. Antique Santas can cost from $5 to $120.

District to keep Bryant Center operation

By MIKE TYREE

Renewal of a lease agreement with Livonia Public Schools will allow Northville Public Schools to continue operating the Bryant Center as a special education facility.

The Northville Public School Board of Education Monday agreed to extend the lease on the Livonia building for another year at a cost of $132,817, a $21,766 increase over the amount charged the district the past three

Dr. Burton Knighton, assistant superintendent of administrative ser-vices, said the increase "captures some of the costs that were previously charged to the Northville Public Schools for maintenance and other services (including) building maintenance, maintenance costs, and the replacement of equipment." Knighton noted that the rental fee is one that is incorporated into the direct costs to the Northville School District for running the Bryant

Center program. He said the rental fee is part of a fund that is completely reimbursed by county and state coffers

"The direct costs (for the facility) are refundable to the school district by the state," he said.

The lease states that the Northville Public School District, as tenant, may use the Bryant Center "solely for the purpose of operating a special education facility and incidental uses consistent with Tenant's use of and for no other purpose.

According to terms of the lease, the agreement between Livonia and Northville schools may be terminated if the state or Wayne County Intermediate School District (WCISD) removes Northville Public Schools as the operating school district, or if Northville schools relinquish the programs used at the Bryant Center, or if the state terminates the programs or if the state and/or WCISD reduce or eliminate funding of the program.

Mail cards early post office asks

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB

Postmasters of both Novi and Northville recommend early mailing for people planning to send holiday cards to either family or friends.

"We expect Dec. 18 and 19 to be our biggest volume mail days," said Novi Postmaster James Asher. 'We'll process close to 100,000 pieces of mail each of those mornings and between 135,000 and 145,000 total pieces of mail each day.'

Asher said the normal amount of mail processed by the Novi Post Office is about 85,000 in the morning and 105,000 pieces of mail each day.

"We always stress to mail (holiday cards) early," he added. "If you're mailing a holiday card within the U.S. and it's first class, then you should mail it no later than Dec. 18 or Northville Postmaster Wally Cates agreed with Asher and said if people don't get their cards into the post office before Dec. 21 "then forget about it getting where it's supposed to go by Christmas.

Asher said the regional post office processing center in Royal Oak will cancel 3,300,000 letters this year and will process 5,300,000 letters on Dec. 18 and 19 alone.

Each of the above figures represent an increase of about seven percent over last year.

"The processing figures are in-creasing mainly because of the growth in the community," Asher said. "We're also experiencing an increase of three to five percent in revenue and incoming mail."

Cates said his office processed 1,200,000 pieces of mail during the three weeks preceeding Christmas last year and noted he expects that number to increase this year by 5 percent to roughly 1,350,000 pieces of mail processed.

Cates noted the Northville Post Office will process roughly one million pieces of mail during a normal three week period.

"The increase in the amount of mail processed in Northville is caused by a seven percent increase in new families and an overall increase in the amount of mail per se," he said.

Asher said the holiday mail season begins the day after Thanksgiving and runs all the way through until Christmas.

"The heavy postal stamp sales period begins the day after Thanksgiving and Dec. 5 is the big-gest sale day," he said. "We'll sell about $15,000 worth of stamps on Dec. 5, and the figures for Dec. 12 and 13 won't be far behind.'

For those people who do get a late start mailing their holiday items, Asher said the post office does offer Express Mail" service.

"For 'Express Mail.' we deliver 365 days a year, which includes Christmas and New Year's Day," he said, adding the service costs $8.75 per eight ounces of mail.

Both Asher and Cates said people should mail parcels one week earlier than they would a normal letter. "Mailing a package in priority mail holds the same standard as a first class letter," Asher said.

Despite the increase in mail volume during the holiday season, both postmasters said they expect no problems in handling the letter rush.

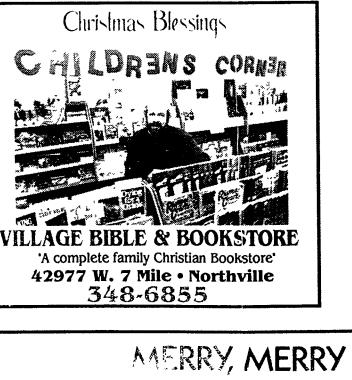

"We hired more people recently because of growth in the area," Cates said, "so we expect the holiday season to be fairly smooth."

He added that while the first class mail volume does increase in December, the third class or business mail volume "slacks off a bit.'

Asher agreed with Cates and said the holiday mailing season "isn't as hectic as most people think. Because of our vacation schedule, nobody is gone during December. But, because of the volume it does get pretty stressful in the morning."

What a wonderful time for pausing to reflect on the year that is ending. Each time we do, we are reminded how very grateful we are to continue serving

State Senator R. Robert Geake. R-Northville Township, was honored by the Michigan Pyschological Association as "Legislator of the Year" at its annual fall conference at the Sheraton Oaks in Novi.

Geake, was honored by the association for his statewide his legislative leadership in preserving high standards of professional practice and quality care in the mental health field. He was commended by the association for his strong advocacy in the protection and welfare of children.

According to Harold Lockett, assistant director of the Hawthorn Center in Northville, the senator played a key role in keeping the outpatient programs at Hawthorn from being discontinued in the latest round of budget cuts.

'All of the staff at Hawthorn are highly respectful and appreciative of Senator Geake's sensitivity to mental health issues in general, and especially those pertaining to children," said Lockett.

Geake serves as vice chairperson of the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Committee on Human Resources and Senior Citizens and as chairperson of the Subcommittees on Mental Health and Social Services. He holds a doctor of philosophy degree in educational psychology from the University of Michigan and is serving in his fourth term as state senator from the 6th Senatorial District.

As written, Senate Bill 441 would have allowed circulators 18 months, but Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, objected.

'One and a half years, in my opinion, is way too long. People will probably sign more than one petition. It creates the potential for duplication of signatures," said Faxon.

Grim Day The reaper visits NHS

By MIKE TYREE

The Grim Reaper literally stalked the halls of Northville High School Monday, as students play-acted the morbid spectre of death due to alcohol-related traffic accidents. Sponsored jointly by the local chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD) and the Project Graduation committee, Monday's activities included students dressing up as the Grim Reaper to remove a "victim" from class every 20 minutes – the statistical time frame for an alcohol-related death in the United States.

Grim Reaper Day organizer Barb Woodruff said the main point of the activity was simple

"Don't drink and drive. It can hit someone close to home," she said.

Woodruff said 19 students were "killed" Monday. After being touched on the shoulder by the grim reaper, the students were removed from class and outfitted with black clothing. Their faces were also painted white before they were returned to the classroom.

Though some students scoffed at the effort, Woodruff said the project was a success.

Northville shops specialize in Christmas gift ideas

A PICTURE WORTH A THOUSAND WORDS

To capture that holiday spirit, have your portrait taken for family or friends. Fox Portrait Studios at 105 North Center is still accepting por-trait orders for the holidays. Though the Christmas deadline for finished pictures was Monday, Dec. 11, the studio can still take pictures by Friday, Dec. 15 and have the preview photos delivered in an attractive presentation booklet in time for Christmas. "It's a good time for gift certificates," added Studio Manager Debbie Zurmuehlen.

Instead of giving photos, you can give the gift of photography from Northville Camera and Framing Shop at 117 E. Main. When it comes to photography this year, said owner Bill Richardson, the simpler the better. "The biggest sellers are the point-and-shoot cameras," he said. 'Everybody wants the all-automatic camera, something they don't have to do anything with." The auto-focus point-and-shoots at Northville Camera are priced from $119 to $500. Video cameras and accessories are also popular, Richardson added.

Once you get the picture, you can have it framed downtown as well. Fox Studios and Northville Camera offer a wide selection of frames, as do Pictures Plus Gallery at 117 E. Main and Sherwood Picture Framing at 342 E. Main. Pictures Plus also frames prints to order and offers hand-cut mirrors made to measure, while Sherwood offers wildlife and botanical art, antique maps and wooden children's toys, according to owner Susan Sherwood.

A CHRISTMAS TALE The Bookstall on the Main at 116 E.

Main has several gift ideas for the man - or woman - of letters in your life. Topping the best-seller list at the Stall is "Straight," the mystery novel by Dick Francis, and "Decade of Champions," a story of Michigan's winning sports teams from the Detroit Free Press, said store owner Berclay Ruschak. A popular children's book series is "The Great Waldo Search" by Martin Handford, especially with the recent release of the third book in the series.

For those with little time on their hands, gift-givers may want to consider the Northville Watch and Clock Shop at 132 W. Dunlap. According to owner Norm Anderson, the popular items this year are grandfather clocks, which range in price from $700 to $5,000. With over 400 clocks in the shop, shoppers can be sure to find a timely gift.

Many people are giving the gift of music this year, according to Manager Kris Williams of the Giffiddler Music Shop at 302 E. Main. "Acoustic guitars seem to be real popular this year," she said. Shop-pers are also picking up the hammer dulcimer, the chosen instrument of many folk musicians. Electric guitars were the instrument of choice last year, Williams said. While acoustic guitars are priced from $200, electric models typically start at $250. "Lessons are real popular," Williams added. Stocking stuffers for the aspiring musician can include guitar strings and picks, and polish and cloth to keep those new in-struments looking as good as they sound.

To satisfy a sweet tooth, Grandma Betty's at 124 N. Center has an assortment of Christmas candies. Grandma Betty Burch's most popular items this season are holiday baskets for $20 to $50. Chocolate, coffee, tea, seafood, pasta and custom baskets are all available. Burch also has children's toys and model classic cars for the young at heart. To say it with flowers, visit IV

Seasons Flowers and Gifts at 149 E. Main. Owner Ebbie Whittington said that poinsettas and Christmas wreaths continue to be brisk sellers, and many shoppers are picking up miniature Christmas trees and or-naments as well. The trees are a steal at $2 to $3.

Once you have your gifts, Sandie's Hallmark Shoppe at 124 E. Main can help you wish your friends and family "Happy Holidays." Along with the greeting cards, Dicken's Christmas Village pieces and Precious Moments figurines have been popular purchases, said owner Gail Reynolds.

Though extensive, the previous list is in no way inclusive of all the shops in Northville, or downtown Northville for that matter. The stores listed are merely representative of the quality and quantity of items available to downtown shoppers.

Meads Mill Principal Dave Longridge in the school's cafeteria.

He won't choke Principal applies Heimlich technique on students

By MIKE TYREE

There probably is a long list of things Dave Longridge would rather do than patrol a cafeteria filled with boisterous students. But the Meads Mill Middle School principal somehow blocks out the din created by hundreds of giggling, shrieking young people and keeps a wary eye out for signs of trouble.

And there are several parents and students that should be grateful for maneuver to one of his students Nov. 16 in an attempt to dislodge a piece of food which had become stuck in the ing difficulty breathing, and Longridge's prompt action may well have kept the student from choking.

But using the emergency technique is old hat to the principal. "I've probably done it four or five times," Longridge said Monday. 'It's just being in the right place at the right time.'

Longridge said the most recent incident wasn't the most severe he's run across, but that students do not realize how rough choking can be.

"This last time, I was standing out

"I gave him three good jolts under the rib cage and the food was dislodged," he said.

Longridge said he performs the Heimlich maneuver by standing behind and wrapping his arms around the person who is having difficulty breathing. He then locks his hands and makes several thrusts with the hands to force the object out of the person's windpipe.

Longridge, in his fifth year as prin-cipal at Meads Mill, said the most difficulty he ever had was with a special education student a few years ago at

"They knew there was a problem and they came and got me," he said. Longridge applied the Heimlich and forced the obstruction out of the stu-dent's throat. "That one could have been a real problem," he said.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Longridge said he is "self-taught" in several first aid techniques, and that he keeps up on new methods by reading medical literature that is intended for the athletic department.

New texts bought for middle school

By MIKE TYREE

The middle school curriculum in the Northville Public School District was recently enhanced by the purchase of text books for the English and science departments.

The Board of Education approved the purchase of text books for eighth grade literature and English, seventh grade life science, and eighth grade physical science.

The school district purchased 325 McDougal-Littell literature books for a total cost of $7,907.25. The text books were reviewed and recommended by middle school staff and met several evaluation goals set forth by the reviewers

Included in the literature text book evaluation were such provisions that the selected text provide: good literature that meshes with existing programs; integrates literature with process writing responses; enriches vocabulary skills; and teaches literary terms. The previous literature texts had been in use the past seven years.

The district also bought 325 McDougal-Littell eighth grade English books for a total price of $6,064.50. The new books were selected because of their ability to integrate language arts using a total language approach, and to utilize a process approach to writing. The previous English books were also seven years old.

The seventh grade life science texts were purchased from Silver Burdett-Ginn at a cost of $7,327 for 340 books. The major selling points of the life science texts included the use of illustrations and diagrams and the book's use of the inquiry approach to introduce content. Previous life science books had been used since 1981.

The school district also overhauled the eighth grade physical science text, replacing books that had been in service 15 years with new versions by Silver Burdett-Gin. The cost for 325 physical science texts was $7,003.75, and the books will cover chemistry and physics fundamentals in a comprehensive, clear manner, according to the text recommendation group. The books also emphasize science careers and science and technology, and focus on lab activities to reinforce important ideas.

The Board of Education unanimously approved the purchase of the text books

Tax cut targets property owners

By TIM RICHARD

The state Legislature would have to give a bigger piece of the budget pie to public schools and property owners would get a hefty tax cut, if voters approve the Patterson-Anderson "Citizens Tax Limitation" amendment.

"The combination — high taxes and poor public schools — has frustrated our citizens," economist Patrick Anderson, one of the leaders, told an Oakland County Young Republicans (YR) Club meeting Monday in Farmington Hills. Many YR members promised to circulate petitions to get 300,000 signatures to put the proposed con-stitutional amendment on the 1990 state ballot.

Anderson, an assistant vice president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co., is a close associate of company CEO Richard Headlee, who led the 1978 tax limitation amendment drive.

Brooks Patterson is former Oakland County prosecutor and the man who "deserves credit for bringing people together," Anderson said.

Petition forms are available from: Patterson-Anderson Proposal Comit-tee, P.O. Box 4721, Troy 48099-9998.

Most of the state's 563 school districts would see budget increases under their amendment, Anderson said. And property owners in 400 school districts would get tax cuts. Here is how it would work:

In 1991, school operating taxes, which average 33 mills ($33 per $1,000 of valuation), would be cut to 30 mills and capped there. The gross property tax cut would be $600 million minus $75 million in lost "circuit breaker" income tax rebates. (Those rebates currently go to households whose property taxes exceed 3.5 percent of family income.)

• The Legislature would be required to add $750 million to K-12 school aid, more than making up for the property tax cuts. That amount is about 10 percent of the entire 1990-91 general fund budget of $7 billion.

· Every school district would receive at least $4,190 per pupil - the equivalent of 28 mills in property taxes - narrowing the gap between rich and poor districts. School districts levying less than 28 mills would receive a pro-rated share of $4,190 per pupil.

· Property assessments, rising in many suburban areas at 15 percent or more a year, would be capped at the rate of consumer price inflation

To Anderson, it would be easy for the Legislature to shift 10 percent more of the $7 billion state budget into schools

'The state has cut its contribution to local schools from 45 to 32 percent of their budgets since 1978," he said, echoing the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce's plea for "new priorities, not new taxes."

Some $75 million of the money would come from property tax rebates that would no longer have to be sent out with income tax refunds, he said.

A major share could come from the so-called "supplemental" budget of $500 million which Gov. James Blanchard customarily introduces in midvear.

In an interview, Anderson conceded the Legislature may opt to end the entire $600 million program of property tax rebates, and it might not be a bad idea.

that indicate whether or not 85-volts was sufficient to deter a self-abuser.

Rezmierski said the school district's aversion to what he termed "adversive techniques" was not an indictment of the SIBIS or of Terry Phelan.

"It's not that we're saying we're right at all times," he said. "We want to find out if this is a legitimate issue. It comes down to 'how do we come up with a system that effectively handles Terry's problem?

Rezmierski said Phelan's mother does not use the SIBIS at home.

"She wants it used only during the five hours Terry is at school," he said

"Is it fair for a school district to become a clinical experimental site?" he asked. "Is this an educational tool or a medical tool?

Rezmierski said the Phelans' attorney filed a motion Monday to take the case back to federal court.

'The attorney says Terry's condition is rapidly deteriorating. We could very easily find ourselves back before Judge Hackett in federal court this Friday (Dec. 15), or the following Monday or Tuesday.

The SIBIS case will have national ramifications because of the nature of the device itself, Rezmierski said.

"It typlifies the emotional rhetoric (that surrounds controversial cases)," he said. ""What do you do? Some say 'bring electrical shock up to the 20th century,' and others say 'shock is pain. No way should it be us-ed especially on the handicapped.'" about renting an office, acording to Mrs. Folino. Because the Center Street property had adequate access to the street and was zoned properly, Folino said, no certificate of occupancy was needed. The ambulance has been stationed at the site since Friday.

CEMS was released from any obligation on the Northville Road site by Stone, Beauchemin said, which allowed the company to sign a lease with the Folinos. "Both parties were very supportive and agreed it would be the best for the community," he said.

The advanced life support ambulance stationed at the site will be backed up by a CEMS ambulance stationed at Nine Mile and Heslip Road in Novi.

Beauchemin praised the new location for its access to Center Street and Eight Mile Road. He said the new location has already reduced response times in the Northville area. "We've had quite a few calls out in that area," he said, "and we've noticed an improvement. The roads are good for us because we can hit Eight Mile real easy.

We feel that everybody's going to benefit," he added.

The site change comes after weeks of effort by CEMS to obtain a certificate of occupancy (CO) for the Northville Road site. The city's building department had approved a traffic plan submitted by CEMS several weeks ago for the site, but a final CO had still not been issued.

The traffic plan was requested by the city because of fears about access to the site just north of the VFW hall on north Main Street, also known as Northville Road. The site is a former residence at 426 North Main Street. 'We wanted to go on record to know what their traffic plan was," said Chief Building Inspector Joe Attard. 'As soon as they get the building done and ready for occupancy, we will do the final inspection and issue the CO," he had said.

According to Attard, the building's recently-completed handicappedaccess ramp and electrical system had been inspected and approved.

Community EMS had proposed parking their ambulance directly west of the Northville Road station, and reconfiguring the parking area behind the station to allow one-way traffic west through it, and two-way traffic between the station and the VFW hall. In a medical emergency, the ambulance would have exited through the VFW hall parking lot onto north Main Street, or barring that, either south or north through the alley behind the station, and onto either Gardner Street or Johnson Avenue.

Now the ambulance has a reserved parking space on the end of the parking lot at the Center Street site, which will soon be marked with a sign reading "Ambulance only." CEMS has agreed not to run its siren or use lights when responding to a call unless the traffic level requires it.

The ambulance company is located in the lower level of the Center Street building, and has its own entrance to the building. Though she was reluctant to mention the rate being charged CEMS for the office space, Folino said it was $165 less a month than the rate asked at the Northville Road location.

Gifts sought for patients

Residents will have a chance to assume the role of Santa as the annual collection of gifts for patients at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital gets underway.

Organizer of the annual effort to provide patients with holiday gifts is Northville attorney Philip R. Ogilvie.

Suggested gifts for women include blouses, sweaters, knit hats and gloves, purses, pajamas or cigarettes. Recommended gifts for men include shirts, sweaters, knit hats and gloves, wallets, pajamas or cigarettes.

Contributors may buy any type of gift they wish for a patient, but nothing in a glass container. Gift givers should address the present with the words "from a friend."

Donated gifts also should be wrapped and labeled on the outside. The labels must contain the following information: whether the gift is appropriate for a man or woman, size if applicable and a short description of the gift.

Cash donations also will be accepted and used by the hospital to buy gifts for patients. Checks should be made payable to: NRPH Patient Benefit Fund.

Gifts should be delivered to Ogilvie's office at 104 W. Main St. in Northville no later than Dec. 19.

New office zoning seen as buffer to neighbors' homes

By MIKE TYREE

The Northville Township Planning Commission took a step toward compliance with its master plan, by rezoning a 97-acre parcel on Haggerty Road during a special meeting Dec. 5.

All seven of the planners present voted to rezone a parcel south of Meijer on Haggerty Road to OS-2, the designation for large office development. The property previously was zoned OS-1 (office/service) and R-1 (single family residential).

The move paves the way for what commission chairman Charles DeLand called "higher quality buildings.

DeLand said the move to OS-2 was in line with the township's master plan strategy of protecting adjoining residential districts and promoting the development of better office buildings. He said the OS-2 designation would include provisions for setbacks to insulate office large buildings from single family residential areas

Carol Maise, planning and zoning administrator for Northville Township, said the buffers, or "greenbelts," were 150-foot grassy areas that separated the residential areas from office buildings. She said combining the greenbelts and standard setbacks could result in 200 feet separations between the offices and residences.

Township Planning Consultant Claude Coates told the planners that the shift to OS-2 was timely, due to the need to implement the master plan. He added that the standards which were incorporated into the 0S-2 district included provisions which were intended to protect adjoining residential districts and uses as well as permit the development of large offices. Those offices could be built as high as 48 feet, according to the township's height ordinance, he said. Not everyone agreed with the plan to rezone. Laurence Winokur, representing Leonard Brooks and E.N. Maisel & Associates, partners in a joint venture and owners of a portion of the rezoned property, told the commission during a public hearing that his clients did not wish to see the R-1 property rezoned.

"The owner did not initiate the re-quest for rezoning," he said, adding that the move "will put an extra financia: burden on us.

"Between the greenbelt and woodlands (ordinance) and other constraints, the rezoning of other property is not of benefit to us," he said

But the commission adopted the rezoning plan.

"In the long run this will provide a better controlled development area,' said commissioner Richard Allen.

awthorne needs volunteers

The Michigan Department of Mental Health is seeking nominations for membership on the Citizens Advisory Council of the Hawthorn Center in Northville.

Councils are voluntary groups which meet at least quarterly to advise hospital directors on administrative policy and programs, and to monitor programs, recipient rights issues and the facility's operating budget.

Hawthorn Center is a state-operated psychiatric facility serving children and adolescents from Wayne County. Harold Wright M.D. is director. Prospective council ; members must be from Wayne County.

The department encourages broad representation on councils, including consumers of mental health services, their parents, guardians, relatives and advocates; local government and community mental health officials; and other interested persons. Members are appointed by state Mental Health Director Thomas D. Watkins, Jr., for terms of one or two years. To be considered, interested persons should forward a letter of interest and biographical information by Dec. 15 to Lois Brennan, staff liason, Mental Health Advisory Council, Michigan Department of Mental Health, Lewis Cass Building, Lansing, Mich., 49913. For further in-formation contact Brennan at 517-373-6590.

Our Opinions Township should set appointment criteria

Three appointments were recently made in the township by Supervisor Georgina Goss. While these appointments were made according to the rules — which say Goss may appoint whomever she chooses to these positions — we feel some criteria for appointments needs to be set.

While appointments to some commissions, committees and boards may not require set credentials, it is always a good idea to have a general set of criteria to use as a guide when determining appointments. The township has been lucky. Most of the time there are far more applicants than positions open. Having a set of guidelines makes the position more than just appointment by favor. It gives those applicants who are turned down a genuine idea of why they were passed over.

The criteria should be made public so that residents of the township have an idea of just what the expectations are and so that everyone is aware of what it takes to serve on certain boards. Obviously the eventual decision will be the supervisor's, and her judgement will be the final factor.

These guidelines would be just that - a set of standards by which an appointment could be guided - not a hard-and-fast set of rules to be followed. If the criteria for appointment to the ZBA included attendance at meetings prior to appointment — those applicants who had never seen the board in action might have a better understanding of why they were not chosen.

In the latest round of appointments, one longtime member of the ZBA was not reappointed. We agree with Goss's explanation that appointments are not made for life. All volunteers on all boards, committees and commissions would do well to understand this. There is always room for new people in township government. New input is essential if those that govern are indeed reflections of the governed.

Guidelines established for appointments should hold for those currently holding positions as well. Reappointment should not be a matter of course. Those that have served should come under the same scrutiny as those volunteering to serve. And may the best person for the job be given the nod by the supervisor.

No glory

By Mike Tyree

All the elements were there — a police chief accused of some kind of impropriety; the top local lawman held prisoner to a swirling, explosive mixture of guns and money, with whispers of a police department coup threatening to blow the top off a boiling, small town political cauldron.

Sources crawling out of the woodwork, eager to speak off the record. Officials wary and tight-lipped. Grudging confirmation by the township attorney that an investigation was ongoing.

In short, the type of story reporters dream about.

But as I stood in the corridor of the township hall with Ken Hardesty last week, as the high priests of the township met to ponder his fate, I felt no joy, no killer instinct.

I just felt sorry for a man who was about to lose his career, the only life he had known the past 20 years.

Hardesty, the Northville Township Chief of Police, paced restlessly, perhaps hopelessly, as the Board of Trustees decided how to execute the inevitable. Moments earlier, he had been given the opportunity to tell all, to refute the charges of an improper gun sale brought forth by attorney Ernest Essad.

Pale and emotional, the chief represented himself (we all groaned inwardly and felt a bit ashamed when he appeared without an attorney), and he must have felt forever alone as he faced the grim board. There was to be no quibbling about budgets or manpower shortages here, the talk was based on potential illegalities and termination.

And then he stood with me, both of us banished from the board's chambers, exchanging embarrassed small talk. I knew he was gone and I got the feeling he did as well.

His words were framed by a pained dismay, and he choked back the tears that must have flowed later that evening, when he told me how the toughest part was having to tell his kids what had happened. I could only nod and offer hollow encouragement.

And after nearly two hours, the board recessed, and the attorneys whisked the chief off to a back room and informed him that as of Dec. 12, he was going to be an exchief. Resign or be fired, they told him, and they tossed in a severance pay inducement to keep things from getting any messier than they already were.

And you know the dull ache that had resonated in his head the past few weeks pounded to an unmanageable extreme, and he slipped away and drove home on the bitterly cold evening, wondering what in the hell he was going to do next.

Privately, township officials admitted that they had no choice but to get rid of Hardesty. It's still foggy as to whether or not he intended to break any laws when he attempted to honor Tom Cook's request to get him one of those flashy new Glock 19 handguns, but the move to dump the chief was apparently spawned in the back rooms of the police department, and ill feelings spread like a killer cancer.

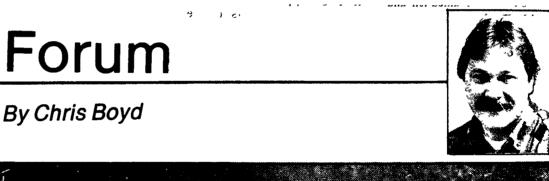

Rumor had it that Hardesty broke a police code of honor, and an insider admitted that while the police hadn't made the snowball, there were plenty of them pushing it downhill once it got rolling.

The township knew the department was in disarray, and to kill the serpent, they had to chop off its head. That's politics, and the board clearly did not enjoy the task, but they knew it had to be done.

Now, the former chief sits at home and thinks about today and worries about tomorrow, and I'll remember talking to him a couple of weeks ago — before the whole affair blew open — as he talked with pride about how his son was determined to get into West Point, how they had planned it for years, and that someday it was going to become a reality.

And I'll think about him having to tell his son that he won't be going back to work for Northville Township, and that once the word gets out, the other kids in school will make it rough on him.

A sorry situation, indeed, but that's life in the public eye.

'No Parking' on this issue, please

While Northville officials draft studies of future city growth and developers continue to eye downtown Northville for future projects, the city still faces a shortage in downtown parking.

For downtown shoppers the shortage is already a problem. That is a fact. But the actual cause of the lack of spaces is, for some reason, still up for debate.

well defined. The city has done several studies of downtown parking which have found conflicting shortages of parking spaces, if there is a shortage at all. The question remains — which is it — lack of management or shortage of spaces? It would seem like in the several years of study this simple determination could have been made.

While debating this point, several ideas for improving parking have been advanced, including restriping the existing lots to make more efficient use of the space, and forbidding parking in the theater lot and upper parking deck north of Cady before 10 a.m. The theater lot is also scheduled to be remodeled in 1990, to add 40 more spaces.

Mayor Chris Johnson pointed out at a recent meeting that the problem may be less with the number of parking spaces than with management of the existing parking lots.

Many of the prime parking spaces are taken up by downtown employees, according to city officials. The police department has tried to address this problem by circulating a memo to downtown merchants asking them to encourage their employees to park in the less-crowded areas of the lots, and in the lots south of Cady and west of Center rather than the popular Marquis Theater lot. Whether this effort at self-enforcement will have an effect remains to be seen.

Several members of the Northville Record staff can attest to thorough enforcement of the two-hour parking limits in downtown parking lots by Northville police. And we're proud to say that we've been helping support Northville with our five- and ten- dollar donations to the city's coffers.

But the problem itself has not been here?

The problem has been studied for years, and ideas rejected by the city council several years ago are now being reconsidered, as discussion comes full circle.

It's time that some permanent solutions be found, whether they include the simple restriping of the existing lots or more creative management of the space available. There's a problem that is not going away and further counting of spaces seems to be redundant.

The city should be commended for insisting that new projects like MainCenter and the proposed Cady Corridor development provide for the parking needs they create, but what about the development that is already here?

Winter Courtyard

George Bush's call for a "kindler, gentler America" might be having an effect. I base this conclusion on two observations — one, the mellowing factor and, two, hassle-free traffic jams.

In terms of the mellowing factor, I have been struck by the number of people who have told me lately that they are mellowing. Bo Schembechler has been saying it for several years now, and it's starting to catch on.

I was talking to the Novi basketball and wrestling coaches over the weekend, and both of them told me quite independently that they've "mellowed" a lot in recent years.

But what really grabbed me was the hassle-free traffic jam. I had done some shopping at Twelve Oaks on Saturday and was headed home around 4 p.m. Needless to say, the roads in and out of the mail were jammed. I didn't check my watch, but I would guess it took 15 minutes to get out to Novi Road for the trip back to Northville.

There's nothing unusual about heavy traffic during the holiday crush. What was unusual was that nobody was upset about it.

I looked at the faces of drivers in other cars. Nobody was upset. Nobody looked angry. Nobody was trying to zoom in and out of traffic. Everybody was polite and courteous. There were smiles even. It seemed like everyone had accepted the fact that it was going to take awhile to get out of that parking lot and had decided not to let it bother them.

Now I'm not saying I could grow to love traffic jams, but the one last Saturday wasn't too bad. Then again, maybe I'm just mellowing like everybody else.

Resident blasts parking situation

To the Editor:

Three cheers for Mr. Young's comments in last week's Record concerning our anemic parking situation.

Being a lifelong resident of Northville, I too remember the days when parking was available in this town. Since that time our downtown shopping district has dramatically expanded, but unfortunately, our parking lots have not. In fact, someone must have had a little "brain cramp" because parking spaces were actually REMOVED in order to put in the gazebo, brick paving, trees and flowers. I have to admit, they look great from my car as I circle around the block yet another time searching for that ever elusive parking space!

Another problem became evident as our parking decreased while new businesses increased.

Because of the layout of our parking lots in recent years, delivery trucks now must pull up behind businesses and block off any spaces that may have been available close to the buildings. Worse yet is coming back to your car, still giddy that you were able to find a close spot, only to discover you are unable to back out because a semi has pulled up in the lane behind you and will be unloading "for the next 20 minutes or so Ma'am.'

Now, as if the situation isn't bad enough, we now have "Theater Days"-better termed "No Parking Days". On these days parking is nonexistant and therefore I avoid Northville like the plague!

Has anyone ever thought of shuttling theater goers from somewhere other than our precious downtown parking lots? It would certainly be easy for the Marquis to run a shuttle before and after each performance and thereby free up some of our rare parking spots.

Come on! Let's wake up and realize that no matter how quaint a town is, or how many wonderful little shops there are, no one is going to shop here if they can't park! Should one business monopolize the parking in our city, while the people that want to patronize other businesses have to hoof it" from M.A.G.S. or further?

How about some of you? I'd be very surprised if I were the only one to have had an experience similar to this:

Leaving home with good intentions of supporting my local merchants, I circle through our parking lots unsuccessfully a few times . . . sigh . . . turn the car around . . . and head for the mail

Postivie potluck

To the Editor:

We had a great time last night. The parents and wrestler sons came to Northville High School for a pot-luck get together to meet the coach and each other. Coach Bob Boshoven introduced his staff and had each wrestler introduce his parents. Bob handed out information sheets on the Code of Conduct, weight control policy and attendance and letter requirements. Bob explained the program and his philosophy of coaching. Melissa explained her job as athletic trainer. We toured the wrestling room, saw Adam and ate an unbelievable feast of pot-luck. (This is one time the parents ate more than their teenage sons!)

I am writing this letter to let the community know how good it felt to establish a positive relationship between parents, sons and school. It was good to meet the new parents and to understand the program our sons are involved in.

As captains' moms we thank the parents who on short notice took time off their busy holiday and work schedules to come to the high school and eat dinner and support the wrestling team. We thank Coach Boshoven for planning this get together, and Miss Tibble for lending us her room for the pot-luck.

'Earth friendly'

To the Editor: A resounding thank you and well done from the League of Women Voters of Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi to the Meijer stores. The firm's Earth Friendly campaign is yet another sign of its social responsibility.

Long before environmentalism became a popular issue, long before governments began to act, Meijer was encouraging its customers to recycle by providing the facilities for them to do so. Now, its product labels of environmentally benign products, signs, brochures and videos for schools will provide the kinds of information and timely reminders consumers need if we and our children are to make the least possible impact on our already overstressed earth. That we are also saving tax dollars by slowing the filling of landfills is a practical bonus.

The League of Women Voters has developed an environmental position and appreciates all efforts to support it. Our special thanks to the two Meijer stores in our area.

The purpose of the League of Women Voters is to promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government. The policy of the League is to study and act on government issues and policies in the public interest. It does not support or oppose any political party or any candidate. Gretchen Pugsley,

Meals promote communication

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

When I was growing up, one of the rules in my house was that everyone was home at 4:45 p.m. for dinner. I remember looking at my watch and dashing down the street to make it home on time. With the hectic schedule that both children and parents have these days, for some families a family meal is a rare occasion rather than a daily occurrence. Yet being together for evening dinners can be very beneficial for all.

Family meals are an excellent time for communication. It is usually best if the emphasis is on positive communication and children are encouraged to contribute to the conversation. If a youngster voices negative comments, it is helpful to redirect the conversation to a more positive topic. One technique would be to change the subject by asking "What did you do today?" The focus of the meal should be conversation Family meals can also provide an opportunity for everyone to work together on meal preparation. Parents can encourage everyone to participate in the preparation of the meal. A child may be less inclined to complain about the food or menu if they have had input into the meal.

If evening activities keep getting in the way of everyone being able to sit down to a relaxed family meal, families may consider cutting back on outside commitments. Or, parents can make a house rule that certain nights of the week, everyone must be home for dinner.

Meals, the evening meal in particular, can bring a family together. Meals provide a setting at which basic family values, including sharing, mutual support and unconditional love can be affirmed. Mealtime can be bonding experience, and can acknowledge the importance of the family and the unity of the family.

During the hectic holiday season when family members are extra busy hustling and bustling about the malls, it is especially important for families to take the time for meals together. At these meals the family can reflect on the true meaning of the holidays and a meal together can also help each family member realize the meaning of the holiday season and make it more fulfilling for the entire family.

By Tim Richard

"My husband and I read your column among us." last week," said a colleague from Milford. "And we said, 'We're paying for all of that?'

That was my column on "teen pregnan-" in the social workers' euphemism. Without legal fathers, kids start the game of life with 2.9 strikes. They are born sick, require expensive treatment, are raised on welfare, then get battered and killed far oftener than kids who start life with a father. Fatherless kids who survive have a far greater chance of going to prison, too.

And working folks pay for it, like my ad sales colleague.

It wasn't always that way. There used to be a bachelor tax.

In colonial days, Connecticut fined bachelors one pound a week for living alone.

The bachelor couldn't choose the house where he wanted to dwell. A 1636 law said his choice of habitation had to be "by the allowance of the inhabitants of said town."

To encourage marriage and to discourage what folks today call "relationships," Massachusetts charged a five pound penalty for the first offense, 10 pounds for the second, "for young men irregularly and disorderly to watch all advantage for their evil purposes, to insinuate into the affections of young maidens by going to them in places and seasons unknown to their parents for such ends, whereby much evil hath grown

I gleaned the foregoing from E.S. Turner's "A History of Courting." Somewhere else I read that bachelor tax revenues were used to support widows with children, of whom there were many because of farm accidents, work accidents, sunken ships and so on.

The clear message of colonial society was "get married."

And there were positive reasons for getting married, according to no less an authority than Adam Smith in "The Wealth of Nations.'

"A young widow with four or five young children who, among the middling or inferior ranks in Europe, would have so little chance for a second husband, is there (in North America) frequently courted as a source of fortune.

"The value of children is the greatest of all encouragements to marriage," said Smith, explaining the early marriage ages and growing populations of the colonies that were soon to become free and independent states.

Consider the impact of a bachelor tax in modern Michigan.

Some 22 percent of kids today are born to a single mother, and that percentage has been rising steadily for 30 years. Among blacks the figure is 58 percent and rising; among whites, 12 percent and rising. Let us not indulge in the erroneous assumption that one race is responsible for the phenomenon. The odds are that 90 percent of those families will go on welfare, many for the full 18 years the kids are around.

In our population of nine million, nearly one million draw some kind of government grant. Some 210,000 mothers with kids are drawing AFDC alone.

Tax the male bachelors to pay for "social services" as Connecticut did, without holding a shotgun to anyone's back. Make it worth while for a man to wed a woman with children.

Before anyone begins shouting about the evils of "child labor," let it be recalled that children were valued in the colonial era, as Smith points out, before the industrial revolution hit our shores and indeed in a time when colonists weren't even allowed to own industrial equipment.

The colonists had to be doing something right in order to have such small welfare rolls, a growing population and so many remarrying widows.

Modern political liberals used to sneer that Barry Goldwater, the conservative senator from Arizona, had "the 20th century's best 18th century mind."

They sneered wrong. The 18th century — "the Age of Reason," the same age that gave us the bill of Rights and the Constitution did a lot of things better than our age of computerized welfare checks.

New Northville shop features collectibles

• By CATHERINE BILEK

Valente's Gifts & Collectibles may be off the beaten path, but it captures the unique Northville charm. Located at 219 Hutton Street, the Shop, which opened in September, carries a variety of items that delight avid collectors or customers looking for a one-time special purchase.

- "Nobody in town really recognizes a location as being in town if it's not on Main Street or Center Street," said owner Al Valente. But Valente promotes his shop and its unique merchandise in an effort to change that attitude.

"There are no gift shops like this in Northville that carry these collectibles," he emphasized.

Collectibles increase in value rapidly, providing an interesting way to make money.

• Walking through the small shop is an adventure ... a flight of fantasy. You don't know which way to look. You take a step and are stopped in your tracks. You turn, and see something that takes your breath away. Everyone has a favorite ... an Image that tweaks a special memory. Valente's is a virtual time machine.

The store carrives unique Jack-inthe-boxes with characters from the Wizard of Oz — the Tin Man, Dorothy, the Cowardly Lion and the Scarecrow.

There are a variety of carousels and music boxes with ballet dancers, skating girls and other familiar figures on top.

The Dickens Village and the Original Snow Village have a special old-world charm.

There's an assortment of "Gone with the Wind" plates and figurines. The figurines of literature's most romantic couple are not only popular, but very profitable, as are most collectibles.

Other interesting musical figurines include a clown playing the "squeeze box" and another playing the violin, and a cowboy whistling his favorite tune. Norman Rockwell sculptures and collectors plates are also popular.

A treasure trove of collectibles and other specialty items ranging in price from a $2 brass bell to a $3,400 Chilmark pewter stage coach are available at Valente's.

Christmas ornaments, collector's plates and porcelain dolls, are part of the fare. Native Indians and clowns stand along side brides and cherubs. Renowned Swarovski Crystal is featured, as are collectables by Llardo Hummels, David Winter, Lowell Davis, Arni, Disney, Dickens, Snow Village and Precious Moments. Emmett Kelly, Jr. can be found, as can characters from the Wizard of Oz, Beatrix Potter and Gone With the Wind.

The Enchanted Kingdoms collection by Ann Arbor-native John Hopkins offers a flight into fantasy. Colorful, magical castles and wizards perform their sorcery on wistful dreamers.

Al Valente straightens a display at his new gift shop near Northville's downtown district

Especially appropriate at this time of year are the Perillo American Indian nativity sets.

Specially-commissioned "Northville" T-shirts and sweatshirts are exclusive to Valente's. The colorful shirts depict many of the city's landmarks."

Valente is actively involved in the community. He and John Genitti, owner of Genitti's Hole in the Wall restaurant, purchased a trolly to transport shoppers and to use on special occasions. The trolley is a non-profit service, supported by advertising on the exterior of the vehicle. A box for donations is located inside the trolly.

Valente said that the Merchant's Association and the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce are also involved.

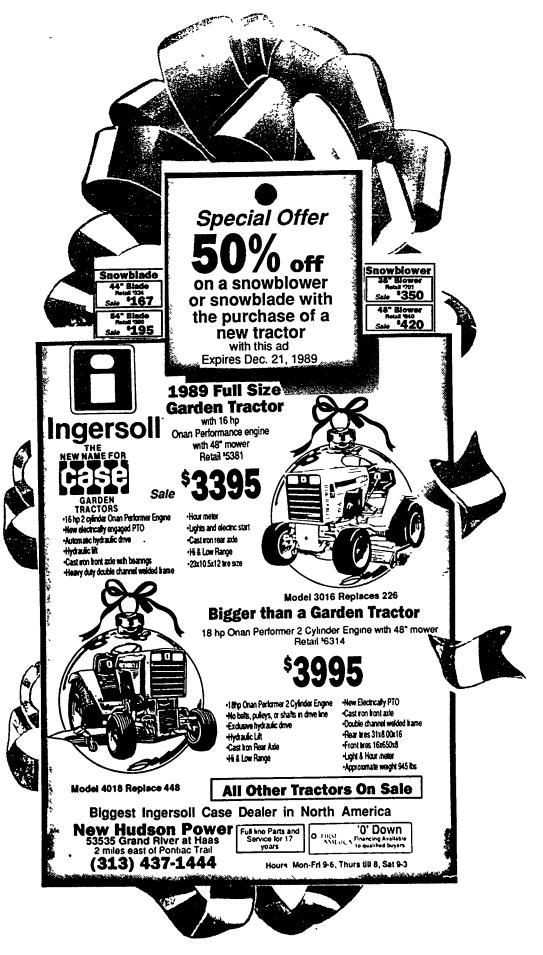

"I believe in attracting people to Northville . . . to experience all the Victorian homes and to see what we have here," he said. "It's a combined effort of a lot of retailers. It's good for the city and good for the residents," he stressed. Owning a gift shop is a "relaxing" sideline for Valente, who also owns the neighboring Little Italy restaurant. He has been in the restaurant business since 1973 when he abandoned a 20-year career as a record promoter. The career change was motovated by Motown's move to California. Photo by CHRIS BOYD

Valente opened three carry-out pizzerias and a restaurant. Restorante Di Maria in West Bloomfield still remains in business. A family operation, it is operated by his wife Joyce, who makes the pastries, and his son Jeffrey, who is the chef.

Little Italy is also a family operation, with nephew John Gallagher as chef. Next summer, outside dining will add to the restaurant's considerable charm.

Business Briefs

DR. EDWARD A. ROSE of Novi has completed continuing medical education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP), the national association of family doctors.

The requirements call for the members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years. The Academy, the country's largest medical association with more than 60,000 members, was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuling education.

The Academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of a new primary specialty in family practice in 1969.

ELAINE CAVIN of Novi has been promoted to Marketing Manager for University of Microfilms International's (UMI) new Preservation Division. UMI is a world leader in the information industry, providing research materials to educational institutions and public, academic, corporate, government and medical libraries.

The Preservation Division was created to address the international need for preserving embrittled books and other materials on microform.

Drawing on her familiarity with UMI's academic library customers, Cavin will be responsible for developing and implementing marketing and sales programs for preservation projects. Cavin will serve both as UMI's liaison to preservation librarians and other prospects, and as coordinator for internal activities such as the contracting and completion of projects. Other responsibilities include researching national grant activities, monitoring the preservation marketplace and recommending new product or service additions as market growth indicates. Cavin will report to Chris Nicely, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for UMI's Research Information Services.

Cavin, has worked for UMI for nearly two years in both fulland part-time positions. She holds a bachelors degree from Michigan State University and received her MBA from the University of Michigan.

Ouick action now can save tax dollars

Money Management

While you're wrapping up your holiday packages, don't forget to wrap up your tax year as well. In the next few weeks, you can take some quick tax-action steps that can result in a lower tax bill.

Start by reviewing your miscellaneous expenses, suggests the Michigan Association of CPAs. Although miscellaneous expenses are deductible only to the extent they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income (AGI), they can still provide substantial tax benefits. For example, a taxpayer with an AGI of $20,000 can deduct any miscellaneous expenses in excess of $400.

Of course, miscellaneous expenses can help reduce your taxes only if you itemize, so find out now whether you will be able to itemize on your 1989 tax return. If some quick calculations indicate that itemizing is in your future, you may be able to vault over the 2-percent threshold by accelerating some of your qualified expenses into this year. To help you get off to a running start, here's a list of miscellaneous expenses taxpayers often overlook.

Attend a Work-Related Seminar. Before the month ends, attend a oneor two-day seminar related to your current job. Educational expenses for courses that maintain or improve your job skills are generally deductible as a miscellaneous expense. Stock Up On Uniforms. Does your job require you to wear a uniform? If so, December may be a good time to pick up a few extra sets of work clothes. To be deductible, the clothes must be suitable for general wear. The expense may help you reach or pass the 2-percent threshold.

newspaper or magazine related to contribution, the appraisal fees in your business. In addition, you can write off subscription fees to investment or tax-related magazines. But the costs have to be reasonable. If you take out a three-year subscription, you can generally deduct only one-third of the entire cost. The remaining two-thirds can be deducted in subsequent years.

Buy Tax Books. If you want extra advice this tax season, start purchasing tax publications before the year ends. Any tax book you buy now will trim your taxes in April. Join A Professinoal Society or Union. The membership fees or union dues constitute a miscellaneous expense.

Look For A Job. If you are contemplating a job change, start pounding the pavement right away. Any job-hunting expenses you incur through the remainder of the year can be written off on your 1989 return. Eligible expenses include phone calls, transportation costs and fees charged by a career counselor. In addition, any cost related to revising your resume - from typesetting fees to xeroxing charges - is deductible.

vestment papers or taxable securities in a safe deposit box and the fees become deductible.

appraiser to evaluate a real estate investment or the value of a charitable either situation are fully deductible. Remember, too, that if you donate property valued at more than $5,000. an independent appraisal is not optional - it's mandatory.

Give A Holiday Party For Clients or Employees. Here's a great way to score points with clients or employees, and reduce your tax bill at the same time. Hold a legitimate business meeting and follow it up with a holiday gathering and you may be able to deduct 80 percent of the expenses. Be sure to document the purpose and extent of the business meeting, the names of attendees and all related expenses.

Buy Flowers For Your Secretary. Or send a get-well bouquet to an employee laid up in the hospital. You may deduct the cost of business gifts worth up to $25 presented to any one person in one year.

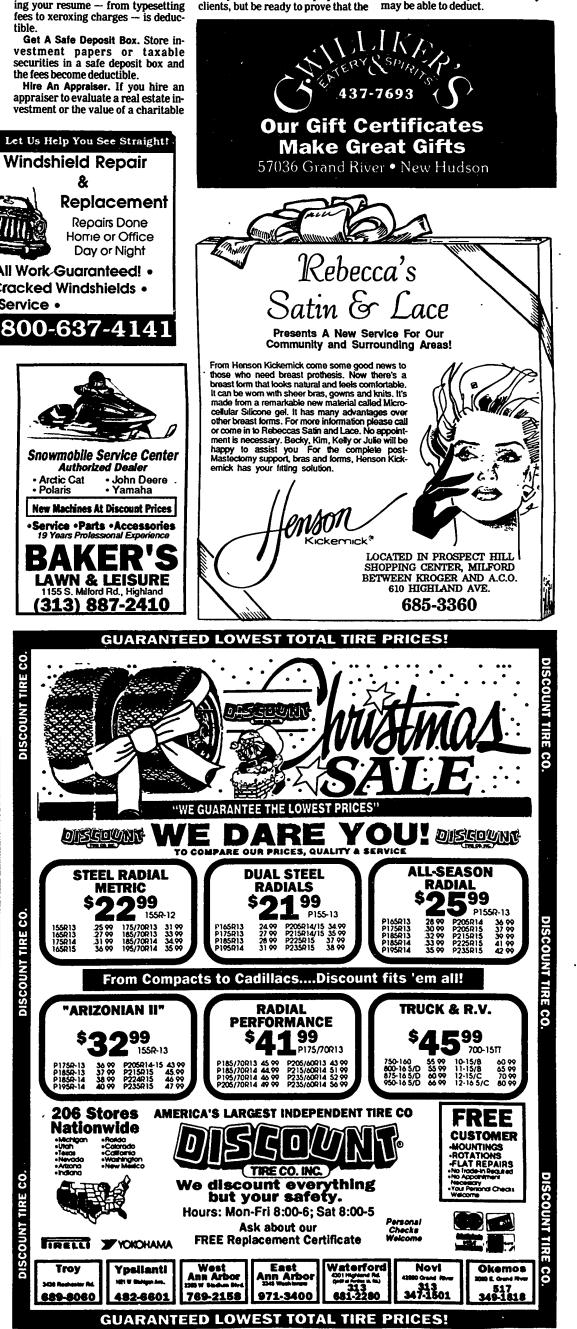

Deduct Miscellaneous Business Expenses. You can also deduct miscellaneous business expenses, such as those incurred by mailing holiday cards to employees or clients, but be ready to prove that the cards serve a valid business function. Other items that may fall under this category include buying a poster for your office or a pen and pencil set for your desk.

See A Tax Advisor. You know that tax preparation fees are deductible, but do you know that you can also deduct the cost of consulting a tax advisor about the tax implications of a divorce or an employment contract? If you have any questions on these matters remember that a meeting held in 1989 may turn into a very smart investment - and a much needed tax deduction.

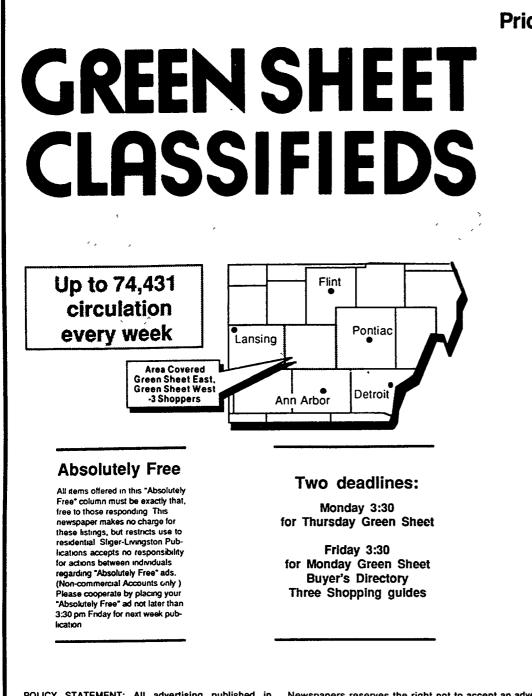

Visit your Financial Advisor. If you're worried about the per-formance of your favorite stock or mutual fund, visit your financial advisor. If the visit is "ordinary and necessary" and you discuss your investments, the costs of attending the meeting are usually deductible.

Deduct Business Meals. You can generally deduct 80 percent of the cost of a business meal if it is "directly related to" or "associated with" the active conduct of your trade or business. Just make sure the expenses are not lavish or extravagant. If your company does not reimburse your business meal expenses, you must add the 80 percent to your other miscellaneous itemized deductions.

These are just a few of the miscellaneous expenses that you may be able to deduct.

Creative Living REAL ESTATE SECTION The Milford Times, The South Lyon Herald, The Thursday, December 14, 1989 The Milford Times, The South Lyon Herald, The Northville Record and The Novi News How to celebrate down-home Christmas

. If you like a little of everything in your Christmas decorating, an area resident can give you a few tips on where to get it

Try the craft shops in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee, said Sherry Whittaker of Oakwood Meadows in Green Oak Township.

The Whittakers - Sherry and husband Gary - really love Christmas and enjoy decorating for it the way most people enjoy taking a vacation. It's a total all-out effort to celebrate, always keeping in mind that Jesus is the "heart" of Christmas.

Members of the Calvary Baptist Church in Plymouth, the Whittakers invite their whole congregation, plus friends and relatives in to enjoy the Christmas season with them.

Hot cider, steaming in a crockpot and filling the air with a delightful aroma, is always ready for guests. Christmas cookies are also close at hand - some purchased from a bakery and some made with loving care in Sherry's kitchen.

"We had 450 guests through here in December last year," Sherry said from the comfort of her Christmas bedecked family room.

And the dining room table is always set for guests in a Christmas theme with lots of red napkins and candy canes, Santa plates and plaid placements. The centerpiece consists of greens and candles. The chandelier above the table is well dressed with greens and a small lighted tree adorns the bay window.

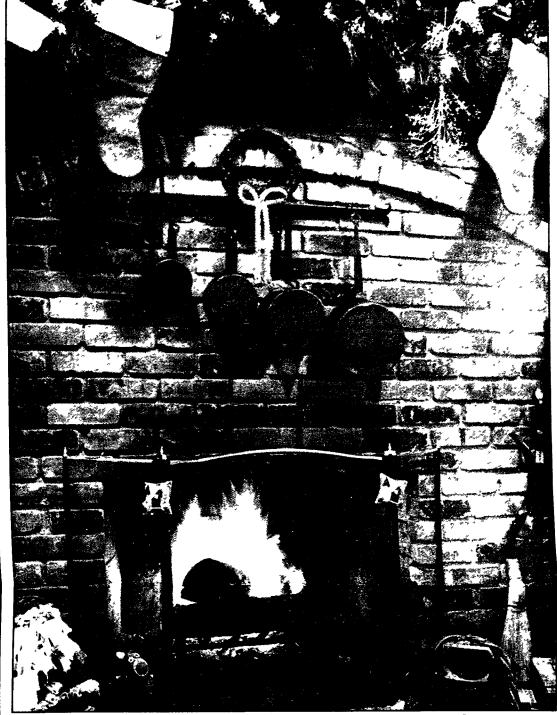

The front "parlor" of the Whit-taker home is the sitting room for Grandma and Grandpa," lifesize stuffed figures purchased at a craft shop in the Smokies. An old-time wooden wagon holds a load of "kids," also ready for Christmas.

From the mantel in the family room hang decorative stockings for the Whittakers' three youngsters -Jamie, 14, Carrie, 11, and Travis, 7. Christmas lights and greens are tastefully displayed everywhere.

The floor-to-ceiling Christmas tree has the old-fashioned flavor of popcorn and cranberries carefully strung by Sherry and the children. What appears to be cornhusk ribbons and bows on the tree are actually a form of "paper twist" which Sherry purchased at a craft shop.

"Real cornhusks take too long to do and this really gives the tree an oldfashioned look, I think," she explain-

i ne neart of Christmas for the Whittaker family is Jesus Christ

The holiday table is always colorfully set at the Whittaker home room table is set for Christmas, another "granny" figure with a bowl of apples on her lap sits by the fireplace. Greens and miniature lights decorate all the hanging lights in the Whittaker home.

'I get a lot of ideas from Country Living magazine," Sherry admitted. We know a lot of people who make furniture and we have ordered some of our things from them."

The figures in the nativity scene are also attractively carved in a simple folk-art manner by a "girl in the Smokies." More greens and lights give the creche a seasonal backdrop. While the inside of the Whittaker home is a delightful setting for celebrating the birth of Christ, the outside is the drawing card which beckons to all who drive by. Many cars just stop for a few minutes while heart of Christmas.

A large painted plywood Christmas card proclaiming a similar message of Christ sets beside the Whittaker driveway at the north side of their yard and a group of carolers "sing" for company.

On the lighter side of the season, a smiling Santa with his sleigh and prancing reindeer decorate the Whittakers' roof. A line of toy soldiers lights the driveway for visitors.

A lighted "Merry Christmas" sign welcomes guests and another Santa figure stands on the porch. This year Gary also dressed the backyard and deck with lights that reflect over the small lake in the center of their subdivision.

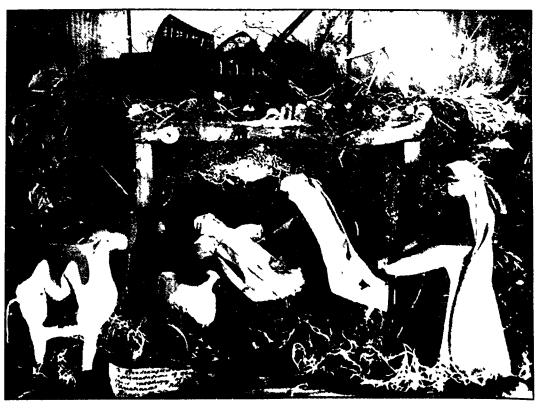

'Each year we try to add a Santa to our collection (every room has at least one)," Sherry commented

The Whittakers' passion for collecting Christmas decorations created the almost overwhelming task of where to store everything during the other 11 months of the year.

"When we built this house three years ago, we planned it so that there is storage over the garage for all the Christmas things and lots of electrical outlets both inside and out," Sherry explained.

"When Gary goes up in the storage space and gets it all down in November, we check all the lights in the garage before putting anything up. It really works out well and it is very handy."

Sherry's advice to other homeowners on Christmas decorating is simple - study the magazines, visit the craft shops and add a little something new each year.

It's simple to chart designs

By Lois Winston

I'll bet you're thinking, "What? Me chart my own designs?

Relax. It's really quite simple. Like so many others things that at first appear frightfully difficult, it's easy once you know what to do.

Remember the first piece of counted cross-stitch you ever saw? You probably thought, "I could never do that. I'd go blind."

And then, before you knew it, you were hooked on counted crosssutch, right?

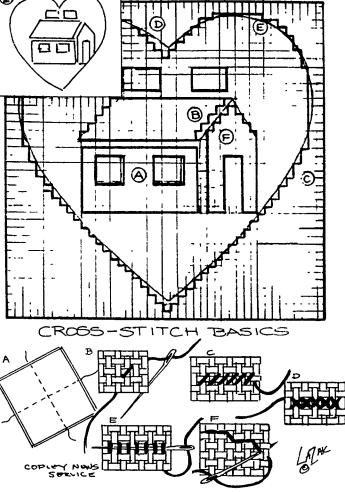

The same thing can happen with charting. The key, as in all crafts, is to start simply. Master the technique and then progress to more difficult pieces

To get started, you'll need a pad of tracing graph paper. These contain several sheets each of 10-, 14-, 18and 22-count graphs. You'll also need a pencil, some colored pencils and a simple line drawing like those in children's coloring books. Our practice design has straight vertical and horizontal lines (easy to chart) plus diagonals and curves (more difficult).

Decide what count fabric to work on and how big you want your finished piece to be.

For instance, if your picture is 4 by 4 inches and you want it to be that size when stitched on 14-count Aida. choose 14-count graph paper. If you want your stitching to be larger than drawing, choose larger count paper and smaller count fabric.

For example, a 4-by-4-inch drawing on 18-count paper gives you 72 by 72 stitches for your design. Stitched on 14-count fabric, your design will be about 51% by 51% inches. If you want your stitching to be smaller than the drawing, choose smaller count paper and larger count fabric.

original drawing times the number squares per inch of the graph paper divided by the number of stitches per A simple formula: The size of the inch of the fabric equals the finished size of the stitched piece. Remember to allow additional fabric for background area plus 11/2 inches or so for finishing. Let's get started. Place the graph paper over the drawing tape; tape it in place if you like. As you know, one square of the paper will represent one stitch.

Use pencil to outline around each square that corresponds to a line on the design. For vertical and horizontal lines, this will simply be tracing over existing lines. Where a drawn line falls between two graph lines. choose the line that will cover more of the drawing.

Trace diagonal lines in steps. This may mean going up and over one square or several, depending on the angle of the line.

A curve is charted like a diagonal but instead of going in just one direction, you'n mave to change directions as the curve changes. Sometimes you'll have to make slight adjustments to maintain symmetry. It's more important that the two sides of the heart be identical than that the chart exactly follows the drawing.

If there are two areas within one square, choose the square for the area that covers more of that square. If two areas share the square equally. you'll have to make a visual decision as to which is more appropriate.

When the lines are all mapped out on the graph paper, color in the squares with pencil and you're ready to stitch your charted design. That wasn't so hard, was it? Before you know it, you'll be charting designs with complicated shaded areas

Happy charting-happy stitching.

Asbestos shingles need inspection

By Gene Gary

Q: We have an older home with asbestos shingles. They seem to be in fairly good condition, but they are discolored and look dirty.

Can this type of shingle be painted? If so, what type of products should we use?-A.W.

A: You should be able to paint the asbestos shingles. However, I suggest that you thoroughly inspect the condition of the shingles before starting. You want to make sure that they are in good condition, and worth the investment of time and money required for the new paint job.

If the shingles are damaged or cracked, you must take precautions. Asbestos is hazardous to your health if its fibers become airborne and are inhaled, which can occur if the shingles are damaged. It is best to consult or hire an asbestos-removal professional for advice.

If the shingles are in good condition, clean the siding by using a garden hose and a soft-bristle brush. Apply a primer and a coat of either latex- or oil-based paint. A second vill :

parquet wood flooring installed. My problem is that rainwater from a ceiling leak has stained the wood in one corner. This area has turned dark brown, with a few black spots. I called a floor refinishing expert who indicated that he could not repair this small section without refinishing the entire floor, at a cost in excess of $1.000.

Do you have any suggestions on how I might repair the damaged section and blend the finish with the rest of the floor?--J.D.

A: The solution to this problem varies depending on how much of the stained area penetrates the wood.

First clean the darkened spots and surrounding area with No. 1 steel wool and a good floor cleaner or mineral spirits. If the spots remain, sand with fine sandpaper, feathering out 3 to 4 inches into the surrounding

If spots are still present, apply oxalic acid solution (1 ounce oxalic acid to 1 quart water). Use rubber gloves and handle the solution carefully. Let this solution stand one hour, then

Q: I had my patio enclosed and a treatment may be helpful if the dark spots refuse to yield. If the second application of oxalic acid fails, sand area with No. 00 sandpaper.

Oxalic acid is a bleaching agent. Whenever it is used, the treated floor area probably will have to be stained and refinished to match the original color.

This is also true if more extensive sanding is required. Be sure to feather out the matching finish into the surrounding floor area. Let dry, then buff lightly with No. 00 steel wool. Apply a second coat of finish, let dry and wax. If spots still remain visible, the only remaining remedy is to replace the affected flooring.

LGB toy trains glide into market

By Linda Rosenkrantz

Although in production for only 20 years, the toy trains manufactured by the firm LGB have made remarkable inroads in the model railroading field, silently gliding into the market that long has been dominated by Lionel and American Flyer.

Indeed, never in the history of the hobby has a new gauge and line of equipment developed an international audience so rapidly.

When the first Lehmann-Gross-Bahn trains rolled off the assembly line of the vulnerable toy factory in Nuremberg, Germany, in 1968, most professionals felt that their large scale (1:22.5) would make them too clumsy to a be a practical or popular toy-especially since the trend had been toward smaller and smaller trains

But they were almost immediately proved wrong as collectors were at-tracted to these cleverly designed, brightly colored cars made of a plastic fused with fiberglass or rubber that was tough enough to be used outdoors and to a system that was flexible enough to provide almost infinite variety.

The widespread acceptance of the LGB trains has been relfected in the dramatic price increase of the late 1960s and early 1970s equipment. At the heart of the system are, of course, the train sets.

Among the most desirable is a 1971-74 passenger set with greenand-beige Steeple-cab Electric Locomotive, now valued at $1,200; the 1981, Jubilee or Anniversary Set Commemorating Lehmann Patenwerk's 100th anniversary, with red cars and a silver-fronted engine, which originally retailed in the United States for under $150 and now sells for up to $1,000. There are also a large number of nostalgic steam locomotives in the Lehmann inventory, as well as electric locomotives and rail buses, passenger coaches and baggage cars and lively dining cars complete with passengers, waiters, cooks and food.

could save your life.

But passenger cars do not a train set make, and there is a full complement of flatcars, gondolas, hoppers, circus cars, tank cars, boxcars and refrigerator cars, ready, willing and able to transport both toy-scale and imaginary cargo loads of Pepsi Cola, Chiquita bananas, Esso oil and elephants.

LE FLUTLE NELLO THE TRUTHE NELLO

Around the House:

You're all invited to our party

By Desiree Vivea

November through New Year's: it can seem like one big party, and we're all invited.

We do more cooking, baking and partying now than any other time of the year-and most of us put on a pound or two in the process. But I al-ways figure I'll wait until after I've popped the New Year's champagne to worry about taking off the holiday pounds. For now, it's eat, drink and be merry.

Your microwave can help you do just that. Following are some ideas for using your microwave during the holidays:

•Dry orange or lemon peel to use in potpourri. Peel off zest using a small knife, removing only colored portion of peel. Spread in even layer on paper towel. Place in microwave, along with 1 cup of water (to absorb microwave energy). Microwave at HIGH (100 percent power) setting four to five minutes, or until peel begins to dry. Let dry at room temperature.

•S'Mores are an easy holiday treat kids can make for themselves. Here's how to make one: Just place a graham cracker on a paper towel or napkin. Top with a piece of chocolate bar (or a few chocolate chips) and add a marshmallow. Microwave at HIGH setting 15 to 30 seconds, or until marshmallow puffs. Let stand a few moments to cool before eating.

•Here's a civilized idea: After serving sticky cocktail appetizers, offer guests hot finger towels for cleanup. Moisten small white towels with water and sprinkle with lemon juice. Roll up and arrange in a small microwave-safe casserole. Microwave at HIGH setting up to one minute, or until hot. Remove with tongs, shaking out to cool slightly, if necessary, before offering to guests. •To soften brown sugar for holiday baking, place about 1 cup hard brown sugar in a small microwavesafe casserole. Sprinkle with several drops water, cover, and microwave 30 seconds to one minutes.

·Soften hard-frozen ice cream by microwaving on LOW (30 percent power) setting 30 to 45 seconds per •Heat beverages and appetizers for on-the-spot entertaining. Make an assortment of appetizers ahead of time and freeze, then just microreheat whenever company calls.

Happy holidays. (Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

Micro-tip of the Week

When giving a gift of food prepared in the microwave (or to be microreheated), include a copy of the recipe or reheating instructions. Pack food in a microwave-safe container as an extra touch.

Around the House: Entertaining Give leftovers new taste twist

By Carol Cutier

Throughout the holiday season we enjoy mighty good eating. We pay our dues, however, with the annual challenge of what to do with the leftovers. Cold turkey sandwiches only go so far before there is a rebellion. Reheated buttered brussels sprouts and creamed onions look pretty dismal and are greeted with the same enthusiasm.

The real test for the cook, then, is to give the leftovers a whole new image. If mashed potatoes aren't served as a blob of mashed potatoes, they can be enthusiastically enjoyed. All that is needed is some kitchen sleight-of-hand. Here are a few foolthe-eye schemes:

Turkey into turkey sausage Grind leftover meat, add sauted onions and mushrooms; even some red pepper, if you like. Season with herbs or spices of your liking, such as tarragon, basil or cumin, plus a good handful of chopped parsley. Beat an egg (or two egg whites) and mix in well, then stir in a discreet amount of bread crumbs. Chill mixture well.

Scoop turkey mixture onto clean dish towel, a few inches in from the long end, and pat turkey into a roll. Fold edge of towel over meat and roll up to form turkey sausage. Loosely tie ends of towel allowing some room for expansion of sausage.

Poach in lightly salted water for about 15 to 20 minutes. Allow sausage to rest for 10 minutes, then unroll and cut into slices. Serve with a parsley or mushroom sauce or warmed mixture of mustard and yogurt.

Turkey soup becomes aspic

No one will recognize this cool glistening dome as once having been eaten with a soup spoon. The soup becomes an aspic with diced ham and peas encased within.

Measure leftover soup. For clear aspic clarify soup by heating with lightly beaten egg white until froth forms on top; then strain through clean dish towel. Add any seasonings you like.

For each 2 cups liquid, soften one package plain gelatin in 1/2 cup water. Heat soup, add gelatin; stir until gelatin dissolves. Cool, then chill.

When liquid is syrupy and slightly thick, gently fold in diced ham or shrimp and cooked peas. Spoon into small cups and chill until aspic has set. Serve in cups or turn mold out onto lettuce.

Mashed potatoes become golden patties

Mix chopped scallions and a little flour into mashed potatoes and season with paprika. Beat one egg for 4 cups mashed potatoes, two for larger quantity, and throughly mix into potatoes; shill well.

Spread flour in dish or on waxed paper. Form potatoes into patties and dip both sides into flour; pat to remove excess flour. Fry patties in a little oil or a mixture or butter and oil; serve hot.

Creamed onions become pasta sauce

Cut onions into slices and reheat in cream sauce, adding some milk to thin sauce. Mix a little curry with water to make thin paste and stir into sauce. Add a little Worcestershire sauce and hot red pepper sauce.

If any turkey meat remains, cut into pieces and add to sauce. Lacking turkey, crumbled crisp bacon would be a good addition. Mix with cooked spaghetti and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Broccoli converts to vegetable sauce

Slice cold broccoli. In a little olive oil, fry sliced onions and red peppers in covered skillet for about five minutes. Add chopped tomatoes and garlic and cook one minute more. Slip broccoli into pan, cover and cook an additional minute.

Our Town Thursday, December 14, 1989 In Our Town Engagements Sports The Northville Record 11 In Shape I'm a little sells a lot of teapots year-round. However, Text by Brenda Dooley • Photos by Chris Boyd teapots are especially popular for special occa-sions — such as Mother's Day, Christmas and other holidays, she remarked. "They're popular gifts for moms or wives or grandmas for birthdays, also," Weber said. hether they're whistling shrilly from a stovetop or perched delicately upon a silver tray, teapots are finding their way Neither Howe nor Weber recommend a certain type of teapot over another. They both said into more and more homes these days. chec atop the spout of a silver-plated model. most of their customers know just what they They come in all sizes, shapes, colors and Another exclusive line is offered by Bodum of designs. No longer are homeowners doomed to buying a standard dome-shaped aluminum teakettle from the Sears catalog.

Today they can choose from teakettles made of enamel, porcelain, stoneware, bone china, copper or steel, just to name a few. Geometric designs, cozy holiday scenes, flower bouquets or solid colors may decorate the modern teapot's exterior - there's something for every taste and occasion.

Jim Howe, manager of the Coffee Beanery at Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall, said teakettles are in-creasing in popularity as the store expands its line.

"Most people will buy them (teapots) according to the design and how it fits into the scheme of their kitchens," Howe said. Big sellers at the Coffee Beanery are enamel kettles made by Copco. White and black are the most popular colors, he added. Sizes range from two pints to 2½ quarts, with the larger sizes being the most preferred, according to Howe. Prices range from $2.99 to $200.

The cream of the crop in teapots is created by Alessi. Designed by architects, this brand offers teapots with interesting trademarks. One Alessi teapot, for example, features a bird perDenmark, known for its round, stout teapot equipped with tiny peg legs and a removable filter basket inside.

Marcia Weber, manager at Heslop's in Twelve Oaks Mall, noted that the Novi store want when shopping for a teakettle.

"A lot of it has to do with the price range," Weber said. "If a couple is just starting out and they don't have a lot of money to spend, they tend to choose a teapot that isn't really expensive.

'Once the home is established, entertaining becomes a priority and they have more money to spend, they don't think twice about spending $100 to $200 on a teapot," she added. The traditional teapot — short and squat with a stubby spout — are highest in demand at Heslop's, Weber said. White porcelain or bone china teapots are the big sellers at the store.

Most china companies offer teapots adorned with patterns that coordinate or match the style of their dinnerware.

Whatever the occasion, teapots provide a symbol of tranquility - sipping a cup of tea while the world goes by.

Elfring leads scouts

By DOROTHY NASH

It's a go-go world, and Carol Elfring, a Novi housewife and the mother of two girls, 10 and 5 years old, has been racing in it for four years as a volunteer in two main areas - Village Oaks Elementary School and Girl Scouts.

One morning a week she helps as needed at the school, and also this year she is co-chairing its Spring Fling money-raiser. As for Girl Scouts, she is leader of a troop of 12 Junior Girl Scouts fourth graders - one of whom is her daughter.

'We meet every other week in the girls' homes from 7 to 8:30 in the evening," she said, and she does most of the planning for the meetings, but she's trying to get other moms involved, too.

The troop meets only every other week because, typical of this fastpaced world, there are many competing after-school activities inviting children to fit into their schedules.

But that isn't all that Carol Elfring does for Girl Scouts. She is also Neighbrhood Service Unit Director for the 350 registered Girl Scouts in Novi. This, she said, "is the highest volunteering position in Girl Scouts," and it puts her into more meetings and interaction with other leaders.

She plans and conducts a monthly meeting in her home with the seven women who coordinate Scout activities in the Novi schools. She plans and conducts meetings with all of the 60 leaders. And she attends a bi-monthly meeting in Detroit of all of the Neighborhood Service Unit Directors in the council.

It's a lot of involvement, Elfring said, and she likes it because "I like to work with people." But she also said she is now learning her limitations, and "I know I have to be selective in outside activities.'

The up-shot for you is that if you are not involved in either of these areas and would like to be -- at a pace that suits you - why not go to your nearest school and inquire about volunteer opportunities?

In Our Town Mothers' Club shares party recipes

Kahlua Dip

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Stumped over what to serve at your holiday party? Worry no more. Members of the Northville Mothers' Club are sharing the recipes for hors d'oeurves served at their recent cocktail parties. Following are the recipes:

Meatballs and sauce

Sauce: 1 12-ounce jar cocktail/chili sauce 21/2 cups grape jelly 5 tablespoons lemon juice

Mix sauce thoroughly and pour over meatballs. Heat meatballs in a slow oven, in microwave or on top of stove. If the meatballs are frozen, it's a good idea to let them defrost in the refrigerator on the day of the party. Serve with small picks.

Stuffed dates

1 pound pitted dates

4 ounces whole blanched almonds

1½ pounds thinly sliced bacon

Stuff almonds into dates; wrap with a half slice of bacon. Place on a foil-lined baking sheet. The hors d'oeurves may be frozen at this time. Preheat oven to 400 degrees; bake unthawed for 15 minutes. Turn over and bake 15 minutes longer. Turn oven temperature to 425 degrees if bacon does not crisp. Serve with small picks.

Wine punch

4 liters Rhine wine 1 liter club soda

1 liter 7-Up

Chill ingredients and mix together.

Non-alcoholic punch

Pour apple juice into punch bowl. Add an equal amount of lemon/lime soda.

Shrimp mold

13-ounce box of lemon jello

Add 6½ ounces boiling water. Refrigerate for 30 minutes - do not allow to gel.

Add 2 tablespoons horseradish or 8 ounces cocktail sauce. Refigerate until firm. Serve with crackers.

Mexican layered bean dip

1 16-ounce can refried beans

- 1 envelope taco seasoning mix
- 2-3 ripe avocados, peeled and mashed
- 2-3 tablespoons lemon juice
- (or use 2 small cans of frozen avocado dip)
- 1½ cups sour cream
- 2 medium green peppers, finely chopped
- 6 ounces shredded cheddar cheese
- 1-2 chopped tomatoes

Heat refried beans to spreadable consistency. Add taco seasoning mix and mix well. Spread on a 12-inch round serving platter. Blend avocados and lemon juice and spread on top of bean mixture. Layer sour cream next, followed by green pepper and finally with cheddar cheese. Garnish with tomato. May also add chopped green onions or slices of black olives. Serve with tortilla chips.

Fruit and dip

18-ounce package of cream cheese, softened at room temperature 2 cups Cool Whip 3 cup Kahlua 34 cup brown sugar 1 cup sour cream 1/2 cup chopped pecans, optional

Blend all ingredients together. Suggested fruits to serve with dip include pineapple, apples, seedless red or green grapes, cantaloupe, oranges, bananas, pears and kiwi.

Cheese and crackers

Slice a variety of cheeses including cheddar, hot pepper, Jarlsburg, Brie, Gouda and Havarti dill. Arrange attractively on a platter with crackers. The Brie and Gouda cheeses can be left whole. The cheeses should be served at room temperature.

Vegetables and dip

1/2 cup salad dressing 18-ounce package cream cheese 1 hard cooked egg (save yolk for garnish) 2 tablespoons chopped onion dash garlic powder 1 tablespoon anchovy paste dash black pepper 1 tablespoon dried parsley flakes

Combine all ingredients in blender, except egg yolk. Blend until well mixed. Crumble egg yolk on top before serving.

Suggested vegetables to serve with the dip include cauliflower, broccoli, carrots, celery, tomatoes, green peppers and cucumbers.

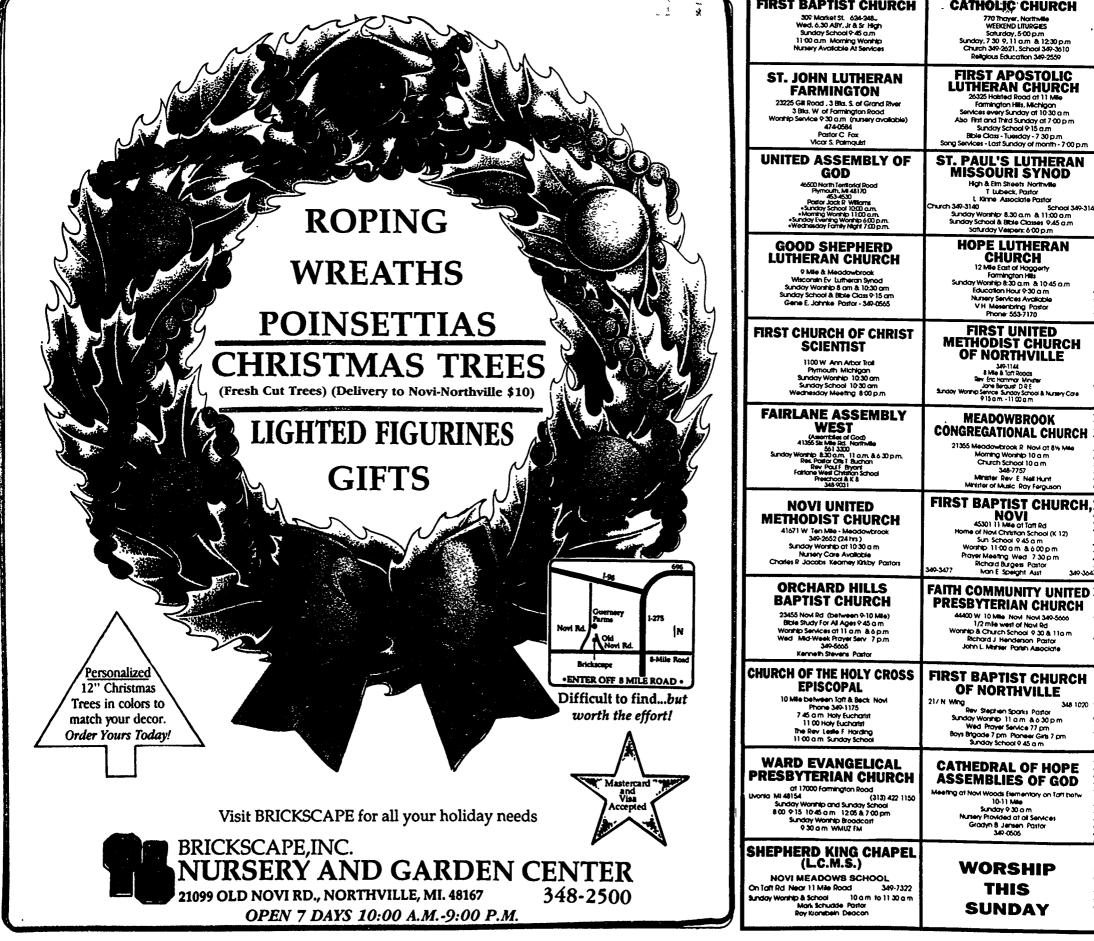

Woman's Club plans meeting

Christmas melodies will fill the air inside the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville this Friday (Dec. 15), as members of the Northville Woman's Club enjoy music of the season.

Holiday music will be performed by the Northville High School choral department during the club's meeting, when new members also will be recognized.

The meeting begins at 1:30 p.m.

Geraldine Mills, president of the group, said the winner of a scholarship made possible by Ronna Romney, a recent guest at the club's opening meeting, also will be announced at the gathering. Romney chose to donate her regular speaking fee for establishment of an educational scholarship to be awarded through the Northville Woman's Club.

Talking taxes

Local woman discusses tax changes

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Two words of advice from a tax consultant: Be prepared.

The advice is especially pertinent to women, according to Sandy Smith-Rae, a Northville tax consultant. Speaking on the topic "Women and Taxes," Smith-Rae addressed members of the Northville Woman's Club at their Dec. 1 meeting and offered advice based on personal experience.

After working for H & R Block for 14 years, Smith-Rae said she decided to become certified by the Internal Revenue Service.

"I was terrified," she admitted. "I was 50 years old, newly remarried and decided to go into business for myself."

That was four years ago and Smith-Rae has come a long way. She has established a business on North Center Street in Northville and is attracting a diverse clientele. And she wants other women to benefit from her experiences

Suddenly a widow at 46. Smith-Rae said she never expected her first husband to die, even though he was diagnosed with a terminal illness.

Women have to be prepared," Smith-Rae said. "We can't rely on our husbands or family members to do our taxes for us. Women have to be able to plan.

women and taxes and men and taxes

Jewel Luckett asks a question about taxes during a recent meeting of the Northville Woman's Club clients are men and that tells me something . . . taxes are important to everyone," she added.

Following is a list of suggestions Smith-Rae offered to help women keep track of their financial matters: Keep a diary of assets — record transactions on the day they are made. Detailed record-keeping will save time when the actual task of preparing tax returns rolls around.

Make a financial plan. Consider "There's no difference between investments. It's important to plan ahead for retirement nest eggs. - we all pay them. But most of my "Don't avoid investing if you're afraid of paying more in taxes," Smith-Rae said.

• Educate yourselves about tax laws and financial opportunities. Talk to a financial planner.

 Think about preparing a will. It's a hard thing to do, but wills must be drawn up. Those who already have wills may wish to revise as needed.

• Get involved in your tax returns. Know what type of information is included on the forms. Before signing your name to the form, read it over to see what's really there.

· Make sure a portion of your money is liquid, rather than tied up in investments that don't allow you to withdraw cash for an emergency. Be aware of investment regulations and penalties.

 Keep old tax returns — they contain valuable information. · Be aware of changes in tax forms. Computerized record-keeping by the IRS is the "wave of the future," according to Smith-Rae.

"Everything's computerized - I file taxes by computer," she noted. "The system is going to eliminate a lot of loopholes.'

Those unsure about tax laws or how to file a tax return should contact an accountant or tax consultant for help.

Smith-Rae & Associates, tax preparation and accounting, is located at 108 N. Center St., Suite 205, Northville. For more information call 344-9771.

Northville's private schools plan holiday festivities

ST. PAUL'S LUTHERAN SCHOOL

St. Paul's Lutheran School Parent Teacher League was happy to welcome Cheryl Jones, MSW, to our November meeting. As the owner of Life Cycle Family Counseling, Inc., and Life Cycle Seminars, located in Livonia, she spoke on "The Challenges of Parenting." Topics included were: when to seek professional counseling for your child, self, or family, and how to determine if that counseling is effective.

Our fundraiser of sales of Christmas items, including wrapping paper, greeting cards and small gifts was very successful and we thank everyone who participated.

Grades 1-4 attended the Festival of Trees at Cobo Hall Tuesday, Nov. 21, and had a wonderful time! Many children returned sporting the results of creative face-painting efforts, designs such as Christmas trees and stars. Requests were made to Santa and Mrs. Santa in person and using special telephones with a direct connection to the jolly elf!

Grades 5 - 8 enjoyed attending a Detroit Symphony Orchestra performance on Nov. 15. Congratulations to the second and fourth graders, for winning the "Tidy Table Award", for keeping their eating area the cleanest at lunchtime the week of Nov. 20!

Basketball Team for winning the Lutheran Westland Tournament the weekend of Nov. 18 and 19! The Parent Teacher League will provide a variety of gift choices to the students at the Holiday Feast and Christmas Shoppe to be held December 13. Children will have the opportunity to purchase low-cost gift items for their family and friends.

The preschool is getting ready for a big party to celebrate the birthday of Jesus. The three-year-old group will have their "Happy Birthday Jesus Party" on Dec. 14 and the four-yearold group will have their party on Dec. 18. This is an exciting time for the children as they create presents for their families and decorate their room.

Our entire day school will present the message of love, which is Christmas, in a worship service en-titled "Come Celebrate Christmas," at 7 p.m. on Dec. 20. The public is invited to attend.

OUR LADY OF VICTORY SCHOOL

Students of Our Lady of Victory began ushering in the approaching Christmas season with their annual Christmas concert. Students of Our Lady of Victory would like to thank the Parent Teacher Organization for sponsoring a roller skating party on Nov. 7. Everyone had a wonderful time.

The staff of OLV thank the parents for their participation in the Parent Teacher Conferences.

The entire school joined together in a Thanksgiving feast on Nov. 2 which was replete with turkey, dressing, mashed potatoes and gravy, corn, cranberry salad, apple sauce, rolls and butter, veggies, pumpkin pie and a fantastic rainbow popcorn topped with a gum drop in a champagne glass. Thanks to the tireless effort of Čarole Radzialowski and her committee of volunteer moms; Bev Hoffman, Diane Braziunas, Judy Nay, Sue Martin, Vicki O'Reilly, Kathy Andersen, Mary Ann Argneta, Louise Scharf, Gail McLaughlin, Mary Hubert, Pam Burke, Bev Price, and Agnes Hersey.

Students and teachers collaborated with Mr. Tim, the parish liturgist, to create a series of meaningful All Souls Day Prayer Services at each grade level. Readers included: John Buser, Moreno Cervi, Rachel Stockhausen, Derrick Okonamah, Dominic Soave, Rachel McClanahan, Michael Mills and Sara Zalno. Prayers of the Faithful were written and read by Jackie Korreck, Becky Haas, Kathleen Reardon and Erin Dunn. Bell ringers for Prayers of the Faithful were: Tony Hazard, Shan-non Wehab, Kelly Korreck, Pam Clancy, J.P. Martin, Lauren Agoston, Dominic Fracassi, Sarah Andersen, Sharyn Sanderson, Brian Mazzola, Josh Grutza, Eric Brevik, Joey Addison, Jon Woodsum, Kelly O'Reilly, and Chrissy Buser.

Congratulations to all students at Our Lady of Victory School who made the Honor Roll the first quarter:

Fox Theater features variety series

After the hectic pace of the holiday season settles down, the winter doldrums are likely to set in.

Entertainment seekers can fight the winter blues by attending upcom-ing performances at Detroit hotspots. Those who enjoy live performances may be interested in upcoming performances at the Fox Theater.

Six performances are planned in the Fox Theater's second annual "Buy Three, Get Three Free Fox Variety Series." The 1990 variety series features performances by Englebert Humperdinck, Sammy Davis Jr., Jerry Lewis, Tom Jones, Frank Sinatra, Mel Torme and Rosemary Clooney.

Last year more than 150,000 patrons enjoyed the inaugural variety series, which became one of the nation's top grossing theater packages. Performers included Steve Lawrence and Edie Gorme, Wayne Newton, Paul Anka, Bob Hope, Mitzi Gaynor and Tony Bennett.

"Hopefully this is the second of many to come," said Julie Parise, public relations manager at the Fox well ... it should be an exciting series." Theater. "Tickets are doing very

Scheduled performances are Englebert Humperdinck, Jan. 25-28; Sammy Davis, Jr., Feb. 15-18; Jerry Lewis, March 8-11; Tom Jones, March 29-April 1; Frank Sinatra, April 19-22; and Mel Torme and Rosemary Clooney, May 17-20.

Each artist featured in the Fox Variety Series will perform Thursday through Sunday evening with a matinee on Sunday.

Since its reopening in November 1988, the Fox Theater has attracted millions of concert-goers.

"We've been lucky to have such a beautiful building," Parise noted. "It has attracted many performers back to Detroit. I can't tell you how many people have commented on it."

Ticket prices are $175 for Super VIP, seats in front of the orchestra pit; $115 for VIP, seats on the main floor; $90 for Gallery A, seats in the first section of the balcony; $75 for Gallery B; and $35 for Gallery C. Series tickets are currently available at the Fox Theater box office, open 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., the Joe Louis Arena box office, open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and all Ticketmaster outlets. To charge tickets by phone using credit card, call 645-6666.

Parking is available in the theater's parking structure, located immediately north of the Fox Theater. Cost of parking in the structure is $5. Parking lots also are located directly across the street from the theater.

Cagers defeat South Lyon in opening game

By ANN E. WILLIS

Games early in the schedule can be ragged offensively and a struggle defensively until endurance and skill catch up with desire, but the Northville cagers managed to take desire to the hoop often enough to come away with a first-outing win.

Northville dropped South Lyon 57-54 at South Lyon, in a tough opening game on Dec. 5.

Northville's Scott Meredith, 6-foot-6, had a big game for the Mustangs with 17 points and 17 rebounds. Bill Kelley, 5-foot-10, hit for 11 points on the day as well.

The Mustangs came out looking for points and scored 13 in the first quarter to South Lyon's six. The score at the half was 34-26 in favor of Northville.

"In the second half we played ragged," Coach Omar Harrison said. "It being the first ball game and at South Lyon — we never seem to play good over there.

"Let's put it this way - we played bad, but still came out a winner." Harrison started a sophomore, Ryan Huzjak, and two juniors showing the youth of the team overall. "We're really a young ball club," Harrison said. "We have a lot of good young players that just need some experience." South Lyon outscored Northville in the second half 28-23, but Northville managed to hang on to preserve the win.

EDSEL FORD 49, NORTHVILLE 45: The last quarter proved to be the downfall for the tough Mustang squad against Edsel Ford last Friday, Dec. 8.

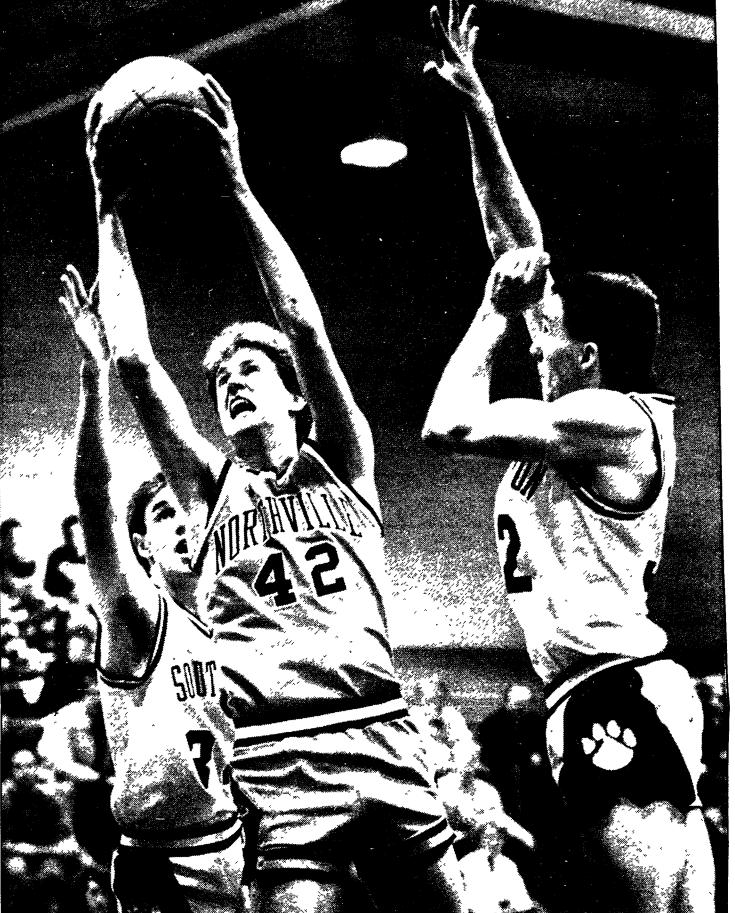

"We played pretty good until the last quarter," Harrison said. Northville had momentum on its side until a jump ball was called during that quarter. The arrow was in Northville's favor and all looked well, until a quick technical foul was called

Northville volleyball team pens to promising season

Northville vollyball Coach Paul Osborne talks strategy with players during last year's campaign

Volleyball coach predicts good year

By ANN E. WILLIS

In volleyball, much like basketball, who comes off the bench may be just as important as who starts. For Coach Paul Osborn that will be the key to the year ahead for his team.

Although the team saw the graduation of six seniors — all of whom formed the core of a good team that ended the season second in the division behind Churchill and third in the league behind North Farmington — Boshoven said the six current seniors will take over.

"I think this team is stronger depth-wise than last year. Last year we had six good, strong girls but the substitutes were not as strong. This year we have more strength — more strong-side hitters."

Osborn said he is lucky that most of his team has quite a bit of court experience — and is merely lacking in the finesse aspects of the game.

He is looking at four players as key strong-side hitters, including Kristi Turner, a senior; Ashley McClain, a junior; Karen Vogt, a junior; and Shannon Price, a junior.

Two good middle blockers help out in front. Jenny Urbahns, a senior and Colleen Hesse, a senior, both have good height for the middle.

Osborn said he will be working in Vogt and McClain as middle blockers as well, to keep the juniors up to speed for next year's team.

Weak side hitters will include Karina Zabicki, a junior; Sue LaPrad, a senior, and Kelly Frederick, a senior. The three setters for the season look to be Neysa Colizzi, a senior; Amanda Parke, a junior and Beth Ursell, a junior.

Senior Marcie Dart, who is out sick, will most likely work as a setter or as a weak-side hitter when she returns, Osborn said.

The team has set several goals for the season ahead, Osborne said, one of which is to improve by going the distance against always tough Livonia Churchill. "We've done quite a bit of work toward that goal already, but they're still our nemesis," Osborn said.

The Mustangs open their season Dec. 18 against Novi in what Osborn calls a "good opening game for the girls" He said the Novi team has been on the upswing for the last year or so and we'll force the Northville team to "think on their feet."

"Novi is not, or was not, a stronghit ball club, so they will allow us to work on several defenses."

Overall Osborn characterizes his team as a "spirited group with a great deal of knowledge about the game. They work hard and are eager to learn. To a degree, they're a perfectionist team.

"I'm expecting a lot of good things from this team."

Promising squad

Boshoven predicts strong wrestling season

By ANN E. WILLIS

Improvement is the name of the game for the Northville wrestling squad. The team moved up to sixth place this year, scoring 1421/2 points in the Belleville Invite on Saturday.

Saturday's match was the first competition for the matmen this year. Last year they scored 125 points and placed seventh, and this year managed to raise the score and their ranking - to 1421/2 and sixth a decided improvement.

"Last year we had no champions and only one second place," Coach Bob Boshoven said, "this year we had one champion and three second places.'

Garnet Potter, a senior, won the championship at the 152-pound weight class.

"He's been getting ready," Boshoven said of Potter. "He's been working hard to get mentally and physically ready for the season." Potter won the final 6-0. He had the most trouble in his first match. The initial scare seemed to focus his attention, Boshoven said, and "set his concentration straight." Potter beat Tim Narbini of Plymouth-Canton in the finals. His two other wins were both by falls.

The three second places were by Kevin Khashan at 112-pounds, Brandon Mardosian at 119-pounds and Bob Townsend at 160-pounds.

Khashan was 2-1 on the day and lost in the finals to Derek Reed of Belleville. Mardosian was also 2-1 and lost to Stephen Davis of Belleville in an incredibly close match.

With just seven seconds left and the match tied at 8-8, Mardosian gave up a reversal, losing the match 8-10. "He had two fantastic matches on the way in," Boshoven said, winning 15-0 and 15-1, including a pin. Townsend lost 6-0 in the finals but managed one fall and one major decision on his way to that match.

The team's one third place finish went to Curt Cureton at 145-pounds. Cureton was 4-1 on the day with three pins along the way. He actually tied for third place. Boshoven said, as he couldn't wrestle in the finals because he had already gone in five matches. The two fourth place finishers were

Allison was 3-2 for the day with two pins. His two losses came at the hands of the same wrestler. Juan Solis of Adrian. He was beaten in the consolation bracket for the second time by Solis. Adrian went on to place second in the tournament but did not have a single champion on the day.

Vertrees had two falls on the way to finals and both of his losses came to the same wrestler as well.

The only sixth place finish for the "Last year we had no champions and only one second place ... this year we had one champion and three second places."

- Bob Boshoven Northville Wrestling Coach

Mustangs came to Dave Morante at the 189-pound class. This is Morante's first year as a wrestler, as he spent his previous two winter seasons as a swimmer. Morante was 1-3 on the day and scored a pin.

While the team has a core of solid performers, depth may prove to be an initial stumbling block, Boshoven said, particularly if injuries become a factor. Jerett Bear was injured with a hurt shoulder during the match. Northville voided at the 135pound class.

"Depth is a real problem this year," Boshoven said. "But because we have such tough experienced kids in the room, the younger ones are getting a lot of experience just by going against them. I'm seeing them improving each day."

Boshoven had a line-up that included three first-year wrestlers. Lee Highland, a junior, faced his first competition at 125-pounds and lost two. Sophomore Mark McCarthy had his first outing at heavyweight and "he didn't win, but gained a lot of valuable varsity experience, Boshoven said.

"Competing and practicing are two different things," Boshoven said, noting that the new faces are gaining experience with each outing. "We have a core of five or six solid, tough wrestlers and they should place in every tournament they go to," he said. "We'll be a tougher and tougher team in the dual meets as the season goes on."

The Mustangs went against North Farmington on Wednesday, Dec. 13, after Record deadline. That was a conference dual meet, not a division dual meet and "doesn't really mean anything except to get experience," according to the coach.

Boshoven said the team is really aiming toward the Ypsilanti Invite, scheduled for this Saturday, Dec. 16, where Northville is the defending champion.

Swimmers finish first at Belleville meet

By ANN E. WILLIS

There seems to be strength in numbers for the Northville swim team this year, as the team jumped to a first meet win in the Belleville In-fourth in the invite last year, behind five teams - and this year jumped to first

"We have a lot more depth, a lot more numbers," Heiden said. "I'm able to fill events with people capable of scoring points. Plus, my younger swimmers are getting older," he said with a laugh.

Northville garnered 308 points in the meet, with Catholic Central placing second with 302, Plymouth Salem third with 296 and Belleville rounding

Junior Brad Cook had an outstan-ding meet and looked "very strong," Heiden said. "He has a great at-titude. He had his best time in the 50 freestyle and a very good swim in the 100 freestyle. He should do very well as the season progresses.'

Northville had a reputation as a one-two-three team in diving last year, and although graduation took Rob Devyak, the team of Larry Osiecki and Steve Lang lived up to the advance billing. Osiecki took a first in diving and Lang a second.

Both are juniors Junior Eric Newton placed first in the 200 IM, with Matt Hanna sixth and Tom Parry placing eighth.

The 200 medley relay saw the A team place third and the B team place seventh.

Bob Holdridge took a third in the 200 freestyle race, with Jason Str-inger sixth and Matt VanHorn 10th. Brad Cook took a second in the 100 butterfly with Stringer placing fifth. Jim Fee was seventh and Mike Schlengel placed 11th.

Holdridge raced to a first in the 500 freestyle, followed by VanHorn in eighth place and David Valade in

In the 100 freestyle, Handyside said. came up in fourth place followed by Wayne in sixth and Matt Handyside in 11th place.

Eric Newton stroked to a second place finish in the backstroke followed by Fee in ninth place. In the breast stroke Hanna placed second with Parry in the fifth spot. The 400 free relay was won by the Northville A team. The B team was disqualified.

"It was hard to have a meet two weeks into the season," Heiden said. "I expect to see a lot faster times as the year goes on."

Last year the Belleville Invite was two weeks later, allowing for a little deeper conditioning on the part of the swimmers.

"They don't have the endurance yet that I would like to see," Heiden

The next meet for the Mustangs is on Saturday, Dec. 16 in the Plymouth Relays. Heiden said he is still working through the line-up and is searching for the best swimmers for the key events.

"With so many new kids, I don't really know how they'll swim. I'm still experimenting a lot. The relay should be a real good indicator for Heiden expects that Northville's strength will see them through the relays in good shape, but a lot depends on how the other teams stack the races.

"I'm looking forward to improving from last year," Heiden said. Nor-thville placed sixth in the relays last vear out the scoring with 238. 12th.

Mustangs of the Week

GARNET POTTER

Hard work seems to have its own reward in looking at the contribution by Garnet Potter to the Northville wrestling team this Saturday.

Potter is coming off a long football season and seems to be heading toward an outstanding wrestling season. For that he earns "Mustang of the Week" honors. "He's been getting ready,"

Coach Bob Boshoven said of Potter. "He's been working hard to get mentally and physically ready for the season.

The only troublesome point in Potter's sweep to the finals came in his first match and that just seemed to make the senior work all the harder.

The team itself raised its standing a place from one year ago and is headed into the Ypsilanti Invite with confidence.

BRAD COOK

Many members of the Northville swim team are off to a good start after a victorious first meet Saturday. But of particular note is the great job done by junior Brad Cook.

Cook earns "Mustang of the Week" honors for his contribution to the team's first place finish at the Belleville Invite.

Cook had an outstanding meet and looked "very strong," Coach Mark Heiden said. "He has a great attitude. He had his best time in the 50 freestyle and a very good swim in the 100 freestyle. He should do very well as the season progresses."

Cook placed second in the 50 freestyle and took another second in the 100 butterfly.

The invite came only two weeks after practices began for the team, and although endurance may not have been all it could have been, for Cook the early season returns look good.

"They were six up before you could blink an eye," Harrison said. Northville started slowly, hitting for six points in the first quarter. By the half, the Mustangs had begun to get their rythmn and they went into the locker room with the score tied at 22-22

"We played much better (against Edsel Ford) than we did against South Lyon," Harrison said.

Northville continued the streak in the third quarter, outscoring Edsel Ford 12-10 and maintaining the edge right up until the disastrous jump ball in the fourth quarter. Scott Meredith was high scorer with 17 points and six rebounds. Mike Lang followed up with six rebounds. Harrison said the game against Edsel Ford allowed the team to get a good look at the kind of competition it will be facing in the season ahead.

"They're a very good ball club," Harrison said. "The (Edsel Ford) team is pretty comparable to what we'll be facing." Northville will face Brighton on Friday, Dec. 15 at home. This is the only home game of the first seven contests for the Mustangs. "I think they're (Brighton) going the tendy They was their first trans-

Pain experts study headache causes

. While headaches are among the most basic and common of all human ailments, no one really knows what initially touches off the complex chain of physiological events that make a head throb.

However, effective remedies are available and no one needs to be plagued by chronic headaches, according to pain experts at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor. Headaches are triggered by many factors. Stress and muscle tension top the list. Other commonly observed "triggers" are chocolate and cheese, caffeine and alcohol, changes in atmospheric pressure and adopting a new lifestyle. Genetics may be behind some chronic migraine conditions.

The key to dealing with the pain is to classify the type of headache. By recognizing tell-tale cues preceding a headache's onset, people can learn to prevent a potential head-splitter from developing. Headaches are classified in two Headaches are classified in two major categories — vascular or muscle tension. Perhaps the most infamous of the vascular headaches is the migraine — searing agony résulting from dilation or inflammation of blood vessels or irritation in surrounding areas of the brain.

The classic migraine is usually preceded by disturbances in vision, ranging from blurriness to blind spots. About 30 minutes before the pain sets in, migraine sufferers may see flashes of light, squiggly lines or bright zig-zags. They may also experience numbness, tingling or weakness on one side of the body, loss of coherent language function and nausea or vomiting.

In this stage, "blood vessels within the brain are constricting, resulting in symptoms like those of a stroke," said Dr. Douglas Gelb, assistant professor of neurology at U-M. Later, migraine suffers will develop a throbbing pain that varies in intensity, frequency and location in the head.

Only 15 percent of the people who have migraines have the classic migraine. The rest have a second type known as the common migraine, said Margie Van Meter, clinical nurse specialist at the Coordinated Chronic Pain Program in the U-M department of anesthesiology.

The common migraine is also a vascular headache that occurs in the area around the eyes or on one side of the head, but does not involve neurological, strokelike symptoms.

"Common migraines are often thought to be sinus headaches because they occur in vascular areas near the eyes and across the forehead where the sinuses are, and people often get them around the time the weather changes," Van Meter said.

In addition to atmospheric pressure fronts, other migraine triggers include getting too little or too much sleep, eating a wide variety of foods, skipping meals, menstruating and stress.

Ironically, stress-induced just a migraines often occur in the "letdown" period after a tough time has nored.

ended. One variant of this is what Van Meter calls a "Saturday morning migraine."

"Many people with no regular stress reducton program such as exercise, let the stress build up until Friday and then it catches up with them on the letdown day, so they wake up with a headache on Saturday morning," she said.

The muscle contraction headache results from sustained tension in the neck and shoulders. These are marked by dull, steady pain in various locations, including the back of the head. They are triggered by stress, traumatic injuries, disorders of the jaw or neck and depression.

Infrequent vascular type headaches can often be banished with ordinary aspirin or by acetaminophen and ibuprofen, nonaspirin pain relievers that are less irritating to the stomach than aspirin. An ice pack placed in the area also may help soothe the throbbing of a migraine, while a heating pad across the neck and shoulders is more helpful for the muscle tension headaches.

Some people find relief by lying quietly in a darkened room, while others feel better if the head is elevated. Music helps some people relax; others who are sensitive to noise prefer a shroud of silence.

While excessive caffeine can trigger a headache in some, its effect can relieve minor headache pain in others. Many people find relief by taking a couple of aspirin with a cola or a cup of coffee, Van Meter said. People with bad, chronic

People with bad, chronic headaches that aren't controlled by common pain relievers are treated with stronger prescription drugs, such as codeine. For those with severe vascular-type headaches, physicians may prescribe beta blockers or calcium channel blockers, drugs that stabilize the blood vessels to keep them from dilating or contracting.

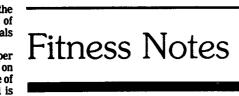

Muscle-tension headaches can be treated with non-steroidal antiinflammatory drugs. Antidepressants are also sometimes used to prevent headaches.

While headaches are sometimes just a minor annoyance, they can be debilitating and should not be ignored.

Gift-givers may follow 'healthy' tips

By DOUG GRAMBEAU

Christmas is coming The geese are getting fat, Please put a penny in the old man's hat.

. If you haven't got a penny,

- A ha'penny will do,
- If you haven't got a ha'penny, Then God bless you.

Most of us wish that holiday giftgiving was as simple as putting a "penny in the old man's hat." Unfortunately, when it comes down to it, many of us are hopelessly lost in the commercialized blitz known as the shopping season.

It doesn't have to be that way. There are several ideas and alternatives for gift-giving that will not only help you find something for that special person, but can add a "healthy" twist to your offering:

RECIPES: Do you have several favorite recipes that your friends are always raving about? Why not print them neatly on 3-by-5 cards and put them in an attractive recipe box for that friend or relative that visits the local fast-food outlets a little too often.

GIFT CERTIFICATES: Why not design your own gift certificate, offering a home-cooked meal for two, redeemable with two weeks' notice anytime in 1990. Or, give a gift certificate from a local sporting goods or health food store. You could give the gift of education by covering the tuition for a class at a local community college, or give a massage or facial gift certificate.

BOOKS: Never out of style, books on nutrition, healthy-eating cookbooks or beginning fitness books may motivate someone to commence with a lifestyle change which benefits them.

FOOD: An attractive fruit basket with health snacks (sugar-free jams and jellies, nuts and fruit) is something everyone can enjoy. FITNESS EQUIPMENT: The FITNESS EQUIPMENT: The ideas here are almost limitless, depending on who you're giving to. Workout clothing, reflective vests, dumbbells, jump-ropes, biking helmets, workout videos, tickets to a local sporting event and a subscription to a health-oriented magazine are all gifts that would be appreciated.

They are the kind of gifts people think about getting for themselves, but never do.

STOCKING STUFFERS: If you like to put small items into those stockings hung by the chimney with care, try things like colorful shoelaces, pieces of fruit, toothbrushes, socks, headbands, batteries, lotions or sugarless gum.

Try to think about the person you're getting a gift for. What do they like to do? What are their hobbies? How can a particular gift relate to those hobbies? There is much more to the holiday spirit than just purchasing gifts for family and friends. Try to find that "personal" meaning for your offerings.

Often overlooked in the holiday season are those individuals who must rely on others for food and clothing. One of the most appreciated holiday gifs is a donation to a local charity for a special cause or to a church that sponsors one or more families in need. Whatever your choice this holiday season, try and make it one from your heart.

A GINGERBREAD HOUSE

Milford Appe'teaser Restaurant owner Chris Angelosante shows assistant pastry chef Virginia Andervirginia Anderson how to decorate a gingerbread house with candies

Chris Angelosante cuts out gingerbread houses for holidays

How to build a gingerbread house:

One cup butter and one cup brown sugar

Two eggs, beaten One and one-quarter cup unsulphured molasses

Five cups all-purpose flour

One teaspoon baking soda and one teaspoon salt

Two teaspoons ginger

Three teaspoons cinnamon

One teaspoon nutmeg and one teaspoon cloves

Cream butter and sugar until smooth. Add eggs and molasses and mix. Mix together flour, soda, salt and spices and add to butter mixture and mix until firm dough. Preheat oven to 350. Spray cookie sheets or grease with shortening.

(Before baking gingerbread) roll out dough on wellfloured table to one-eighth inch thickness. Place house pattern on dough, cut out with knife. Transfer to cookie sheet; bake at 350 for 7-15 mininutes (time depends on thickness of dough and how many pieces are on the sheet; take out of oven when lightly browned. Royal Icing Three egg whites four cups powdered sugar one-half teaspoon cream of tartar Mix at high speed for 7-10 minutes. Icing should be used immediately or else it will harden. While decorating cover unused portion left in mixer bowl with a wet towel. Makes two-and-a-half cups.

Assembly instructions

To make a base, use 10 or 12-inch cake circle (or cut out a piece of cardboard) and cover it with foil. Take the back wall, pipe icing on bottom and set frosting side down on base. Pipe icing on each edge, attach side walls. After walls are attached and set, pipe on more icing. Repeat procedure for front wall. Hold walls up by propping them with cans; let dry until hard (about 1 hr). Attach roof.

House may be decorated with candy bits, etc. Attach each piece of decoration with a drop of icing.

One tablespoon finely chopped onion

Put ingredients in a bottle with a screw top. Shake well. Stir each time used. Jim Wood

24-Hour Salad

Old-Fashioned Fruit Dressing (below) One can (17 ounces) pitted light or dark sweet cherries, drained

Two cans (13½-ounces each) pineapple tidbits, drained (reserve two tablespoons syrup for the dressing)

Three oranges, pared, sectioned and cut up, or two cans (11 ounces each) mandarin orange segments, drained One cup miniature marshmallows

Prepare Old-Fashioned Fruit Dressing. Combine fruits and marshmallows. Pour the dressing over the ingredients and toss. Cover and chill 12 to 24 hours. Serve in a salad bowl or in lettuce cups.

Old-Fashioned Fruit Dressing: Two eggs, beaten

Two tablespoons sugar

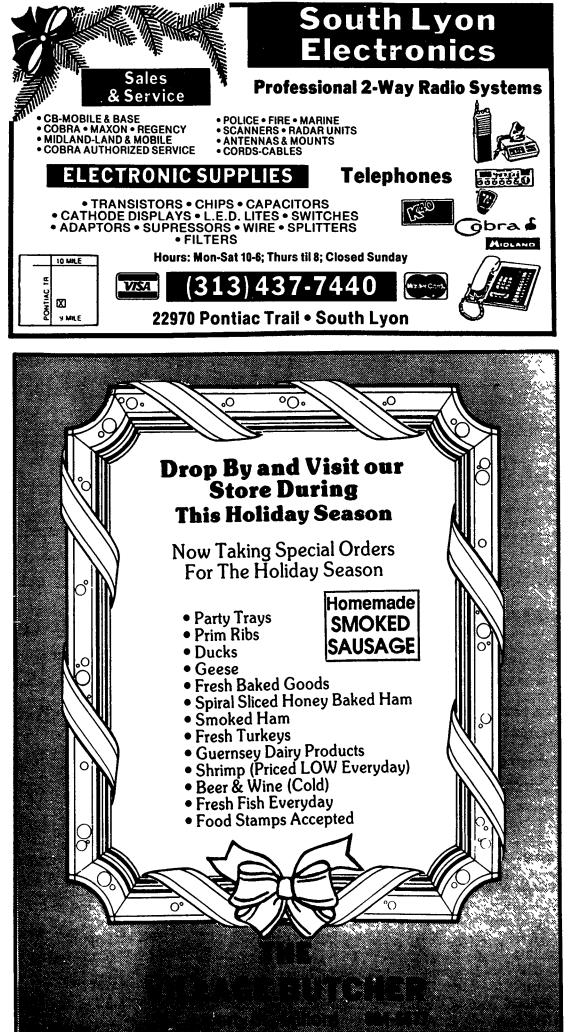

Two tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice Two tablespoons pineapple juice (from the canned pineapple tidbits) One tablespoon butter or margarine Dash of salt

Three-quarters cup chilled whipping cream.

Combine all ingredients except the whipping cream in a small saucepan. Heat just to boiling, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and cool. In a chilled bowl, beat the cream until stiff. Fold in the egg mixture.

Cranberry-Walnut Stuffed Pork Roast

Five pound pork roast One cup celery, diced Two tablespoons minced parsley One teaspoon sage Four cups white bread, cubed One-half cup walnuts, chopped One egg One-half cup butter One-quarter cup chopped onion One teaspoon salt One-quarter teaspoon pepper Small can whole berry cranberry sauce One-quarter cup grated orange rind

Remove bone from roast to make cavity; rub roast and cavity with thyme. Brown celery and onion in butter; add rest of ingredients. Stuff cavity. Roast at 325 for about 35 minutes per pound. Brush frequently with Cranberry Glaze (below) during last 30 minutes.

Cranberry Glaze: One pound can whole berry cranberry sauce One-half cup grated orange rind One-half cup brown sugar

Combine all ingredients.

Phyllis Stillman

Very Lemony Chicken

One and one-half pounds chicken parts (breast, leg and thigh), skin and fat removed.

One-half cup fresh lemon juice Two tablespoons white wine vinegar One-half cup fresh sliced lemon peel Three teaspoons chopped fresh oregano or one teaspoon dried oregano, crushed. One medium onion, sliced One-quarter teaspoon salt

Freshly ground black pepper One-half teaspoon paprika

Place chicken in 13x9x2 glass baking dish. Mix lemon juice, vinegar, lemon peel, oregano and onions. Pour over chicken, cover and marinate in refrigerator several hours or overnight, turning occasionally. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Cover and bake at 300 degrees for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake 30 minutes more or until done. Four servings.

Barrie Barber

Creole Flounder

Two pounds fresh or frozen flounder fillets One and one-half cups chopped tomatoes One-half cup chopped green pepper One-third cup lemon juice One tablespoon salad oil Two teaspoons salt Two teaspoons minced onion One teaspoon basil leaves One-quarter teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper Four drops red pepper sauce

Thaw the fillets if they're frozen. Heat oven to 500 degrees. Place fillets in a single layer in an ungreased baking dish, 13½x9x2 inches. Mix the remaining ingredients and spoon over fillets. Bake until fish flakes easily with a fork, five to eight minutes. Remove fillets to a warm platter. Garnish with tomato wedges and green pepper rings.

Mike Tyree

Cashew Chicken

10 ounces skinned and boned chicken breasts, cubed One and one-half teaspoon cornstarch One tablespoon dry sherry One and one-half teaspoons reducedsodium soy sauce One tablespoon peanut or vegetable oil, divided One-half cup sliced onions One ounce shelled, roasted cashews One-quarter cup each red bell pepper strips and sliced mushrooms One-half small garlic clove, minced Three ounces drained canned water chestnuts, whole or sliced (reserve onequarter cup liquid) One and one-half teaspoons hoisin sauce One tablespoon thinly sliced scallion (green onion)

In a one quart, non-aluminum bowl, sprinkle chicken with cornstarch, tossing to coat; add sherry and soy sauce and stir to combine. Let mixture marinate for 15 minutes.

In an eight- or nine-inch nonstick skillet, heat one and one-half teaspoons oil, using slotted spoon, transfer several chicken cubes to skillet, allowing marinade that adheres to chicken to drip into bowl. Cook chicken, stirring quickly and frequently, until browned. Remove from skillet and repeat with remaining chicken, reserving marinade left in bowl.

In same skillet heat remaining oil; add onion and cashews and stir-fry until onion is translucent. Add pepper, mushrooms and garlic; stir-fry one minute. Return chicken to skillet; add water chestnuts, reserved liquid, hoisin sauce and reserved marinade and stir until combined. Cover and cook until chicken is cooked through and sauce thickens, one to two minutes. Serve sprinkled with scallion. Makes two servings.

Note: it is best to marinate in glass or stainless-steel containers; ingredients such as sherry and soy sauce may react with aluminum, causing color and flavor changes in foods.

MAIN DISHES

Thaw bread dough, then let it rise until nearly double. Punch down and let rest 10 minutes. Grease a 12-inch pizza pan; sprinkle with corn meal. Place one loaf dough on pan; pat to fill pan, allowing oneinch to overlap. Sprinkle on one-half cup parmesan. Meanwhile, brown ground beef with onion; place on dough, along with mushrooms, green pepper and cheese. Spoon spaghetti sauce over top; sprinkle with thyme, fennel and remaining parmesan. Roll remaining dough into 13-inch circle; place over top. Pinch overlapping edges together and under to seal. Cut slits in top crust and bake at 400 for 15 minutes. Brush top with milk and sprinkle on a little corn meal; bake 15 minutes more.

Stuffed Honey-Basil Turkey Breast

1 5-pound whole turkey breast, boned and skinned

3/4 cup coarsely shredded cabbage

34 cup peeled, coarsely shredded potato (about 1 medium)

34 cup tiny fresh broccoli flowerets 1/2 cup peeled, coarsely shredded turnip

(about 1 small) ½ cup coarsely shredded carrot (about 1 small)

¼ cup diced celery

1 tablespoon diced pimiento

1 tablespoon minced fresh parsley

¹/₃ cup plus 1 tablespoon honey, divided 2 teaspoons dried whole basil, divided 1 (8³/₄-ounce) can no-salt-added whole kernel corn, drained Vegetable cooking spray

Fresh cabbage leaves (optional)

Steamed broccoli flowerets, carrot strips, unpeeled red potato chunks, and turnip strips (optional)

Trim fat from turkey; remove tendons. Place outer side of turkey breast on heavy-duty plastic wrap, boned side up. Starting from center, slice horizontally through the thickest part of each side almost to, but not through, the outer edge. Flip cut piece over to enlarge breast. Place heavy-duty plastic wrap over turkey; flatten to an even thickness, using a meat mallet. (Place loose pieces of turkey over thin portions.) Set aside.

Cook next 6 ingredients in a small amount of boiling water 4 minutes; drain. Place between paper towels, and press to remove excess moisture. Combine cabbage mixture, pimiento, parsley, 1 tablespoon honey, 1 teaspoon basil, and corn; stir well.

Spread cabbage mixture down center of breast to within 2 inches of sides; roll up, jellyroll fashion, starting with short side, to an 11-by-6-inch roll. Secure at 2-inch intervals with string. Place, seam side down, on a rack coated with cooking spray; place rack in a shallow roasting pan.

Combine remaining 1 teaspoon basil and $\frac{1}{3}$ cup honey in a small bowl; brush over turkey roll. Bake, uncovered, at 325 degrees for $1\frac{1}{2}$ hours, basting often with honey mixture.

Line a platter with cabbage, if desired; place turkey roll on cabbage. Let stand 10 minutes before slicing; remove string. Arrange vegetables, if desired. Yield: 13 servings (about 198 calories per 3 ounces turkey).

String Beans with Sour Cream and Tomatoes

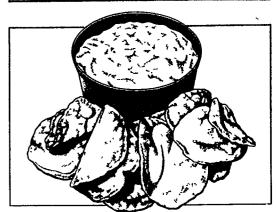

One pound fresh string beans with ends trimmed

One-quarter cup butter Two cups thinly sliced onion One-half cup chopped green pepper One can (15 ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits in it One and one-half teaspoon dried basil One-half teaspoon salt One-quarter teaspoon pepper One cup dairy sour cream One egg

Cook beans in boiling water (or steam them) until tender. Drain and set aside. Melt butter in a large skillet, and saute onions and peppers until tender. Stir in tomato sauce and seasonings. Simmer uncovered until slightly thickened, stirring frequently. Combine egg and sour cream. Reduce tomato mixture to a low heat and stir in sour cream mixture and string beans. Cook, stirring constantly, until heated. Serve immediately. Serves 4-6.

Old World Springerles

One pound superfine sugar Four eggs, lightly beaten Three and one-half cups all-purpose flour One teaspoon baking powder

In large bowl, stir together by hand sugar and eggs. Stir in one direction for one hour. Sift flour and baking powder twice, then add slowly to sugar mixture. Work all the flour in and form dough into two balls. Refrigerate until cold (about two hours).

Remove small amount for floured board and springerle mold (rolling pin or a press-on block of designs flour-dusted form). Roll out dough to about one-half the desired finished thickness and separate each spingerle with a knife. Keep your form block or rolling pin form well-floured at all times.

Place cookies on lightly greased cookie sheets, sprinkled with anise seeds. Dip your fanger into a glass of water and moisten edges of each cookie, sealing them. This is important.

Store in a cool spot overnight. Bake at 575 for only 10 minutes. The cookies should not turn color very much.

Pumpkin Praline Pie

One nine-inch deep-dish frozen pie crust One 16-ounce can pumpkin Two eggs, beaten 12 ounces evaporated milk Three-quarters cup sugar One-half teaspoon cinnamon One-eighth teaspoon nutmeg One-eighth teaspoon mace One-eighth teaspoon ginger One-eighth teaspoon salt Whipped cream, for garnish

Praline Topping: Two-thirds cup light brown sugar Three tablespoons butter, melted One tablespoon whipping cream, unwhipped One-eighth teaspoon salt One-half cup chopped pecans Preheat over to 425. Beat pumpkin and next eight ingredients until well blended; pour into pie shell and bake 12-14 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 and bake 40-45 minutes or until a knife inserted near the center comes out clean. Remove pie from oven and let cool. When pie is lukewarm, spread with praline topping and broil three to four inches from heat until topping is golden brown. Watch carefully to prevent scorching. Cool and serve with whipped cream. Serves 6-8.

Praline Topping: combine all ingredients; blend well.

Note: Use remaining whipping cream from topping to whip for use as garnish. Sweeten as desired. Serve pie warm or chilled. During first 12-14 minutes of cooking, foil may be used to cover pie and crust edges to prevent over-browning. Bake pie on a cookie sheet in case of spillovers. If there is too much filling for pie shell, bake extra filling in a deep custard cup. Treat the cook to a little dish of pumpkin custard.

Triple Chocolate and Vanilla Cheesecake

One and one-half cups finely crushed creme-filled chocolate sandwich cookies (18 cookies)

Three tablespoons margarine or butter, melted

Four (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened

One (14-ounce) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (NOT evaporated milk)

Four eggs

One-third cup unsifted flour

One tablespoon vanilla extract Two (one-ounce) squares semi-sweet chocolate, melted

Preheat oven to 350. Combine crumbs One-half pound butter or margarine and margarine; press firmly on bottom of 9-inch springform pan. In large mixer bowl, beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in sweetened condensed milk until smooth. Add eggs, flour and vanilla; mix well. Divide batter in half. Add chocolate to one-half of batter; mix well. Pour into prepared pan. Top evenly with vanilla batter. Bake 50-55 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Cool. Top with Chocolate Glaze (below). Chill thoroughly. Refrigerate leftovers.

Chocolate Glaze: in small saucepan, over low heat, melt two (one-ounce) squares semi-sweet chocolate with onequarter cup whipping cream. Cook and stir until thickened and smooth. Remove from heat; spread over cheesecake. (Makes about one-third cup. Glaze recipe can be doubled).

Divine Lime Pie

Four egg whites One-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar One cup sugar Four egg yolks One-quarter teaspoon salt One-half cup sugar One-third cup fresh lime juice (two to three limes) Two to three drops green food color One cup chilled whipping cream One tablespoon grated lime peel

Heat oven to 275 degrees. Generously butter a nine-inch pan. In small mixer bowl, beat egg whites and cream of tartar until foamy. Beat in one cup sugar, one tablespoon at a time and continue beating until stiff and glossy - about 10 minutes. Do not underbeat.

Pile into the pie pan, pressing meringue up against the side. Bake one hour. Turn off the oven. Leave meringue in oven with the door closed one hour. Remove from oven and cool.

Beat egg yolks until light and lemon color. Stir in salt, one-half cup sugar and the lime juice. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens - about five minutes. Cool and tint with food color.

In a chilled bowl, beat whipping cream until stiff. Fold in the lime mixture and grated lime peel. Pile into the meringue shell and chill at least four hours. Garnish with whipped cream and grated lime peel or lime twists.
