Board to look at police structure

By MIKE TYREE

The resignation of former police chief Kenneth Hardesty may prompt changes in the administrative structure of the Northville Township Police Department, according to a township official.

"The Board (of Trustees) will have to decide if they want a police chief or a public safety director," said Township Manager Richard Henningsen.

Henningsen said the board will soon discuss replacing Hardesty, who resigned Dec. 12 after a township investigation determined that he had acted improperly in a gun transaction involving Clerk Thomas L. P. Cook.

"I've tried to go out and talk to the trustees and formulate questions and (get them) to think about a public safety director," he said. "The first week back after New Year's we'll be asking them to come up with opinions."

"The supervisor and the board will then sit down and determine if they want a police chief or public safety director."

The township has already received bids from two firms which would conduct a candidate search based on the requirements of the township, Henningsen said. He said the search process for a new administrator would include a technical appraisal of candidates, testing of candidates, board review, and final evaluations by the board.

Henningsen said the idea of a public safety director would signal a "change in the way things are done" in the township.

"The public safety director would

Area bugged by influenza

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

'Tis the season, flu season, that is. As temperatures continue to plunge in Michigan, many residents are coming down with familiar symptoms, and they're not all due to New Year celebrations.

According to Dr. Edwin Searcy, a doctor of emergency medicine at Providence Hospital's Novi clinic, influenza cases are up this year over the last two years. He attributes the increase to this year's unusually harsh winter, and the sudden change from warm to cold weather.

"I've seen a lot more this year than I had last year," he said, "and I think the reason is the cold."

"Usually it comes during a significant change in the weather, and when everybody is busier than usual," he said, which makes holiday shoppers perfect candidates. The flu virus often attacks bodies that have been deprived of proper nutrition and rest, making children who have subsisted for several days on Christmas candy and desserts prime targets as well.

At first, the flu symptoms mimic

Jerome named executive editor

Philip Jerome, 45, who has served as managing editor of The Northville Record/Novi News since 1984, has been named executive editor of Sliger/Livingston Publications.

The appointment was announced by Rich Perlberg, vice president/general manager of the chain which includes The Northville Record, Novi News, South Lyon Herald, Milford Times, Brighton Argus and Livingston County Press plus several shopping guides.

A Northville resident for the past 35 years, Jerome graduated from Northville High School in 1961. He will be based at Sliger/Livingston headquarters in Howell.

In announcing the appointment, Perlberg emphasized Jerome's commitment to journalistic excellence and community journalism.

"I am pleased and excited to be able to appoint someone with Phil's experience to the position of executive editor of Sliger/Livingston Publications," said Perlberg.

"I know he shares the firm belief in the concepts of community journalism which have made our newspapers important citizens in the communities we serve."

Jerome brings almost 19 years of experience in community journalism to his new position. He began his career in 1971 as a reporter for The Brighton Argus.

He then returned to Northville where he worked three years as a reporter with the Northville Record/Novi News before becoming editor of The South Lyon Herald in 1974.

City, schools, township will discuss library

By MIKE TYREE

Officials from the township, city and school district will discuss the proposed Haller library at a Jan. 17 meeting at the Old Village School in Northville.

According to Township Manager Richard Henningsen, the 44,800 square foot library proposed for a 72-acre site on Six Mile and Sheldon roads will be one of the topics discussed at the 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Former township resident Frieda Haller donated the 72-acre plot to the township in September, and stipulated that a funding plan be put into place within a year and construction initiated within two years of the notification of the gift.

Since that time, officials from the township and city have met to discuss a joint funding venture for the library. It is expected that the school district will be asked to lend their support to the Haller library proposal at the Jan. 17 meeting.

Henningsen said the meeting would be open to the public, but was not intended to be a public hearing on the library. He indicated that a public hearing would be held sometime in the near future.

"I don't think the supervisor (Georgina Goss) has set a public hearing date yet," he said. "It will be nice to have one, but you also need to have something to show the public."

Henningsen said the township was discussing library plans and strategies to present to the community. He said architect Donald DiComo will make a presentation to the Board of Trustees at their Jan. 11 meeting in hopes of landing the architectural contract for the facility.

He also said the township was working to set up a plan to fund the library construction.

"We hope to have a structure to form a fundraising committee by the first week of January," he said.

Henningsen said the library issue would continue to receive a lot of attention and said he expected a lot of progress on the potential new facility in January.

"Everyone will be coming back from vacations, and I think you'll see a lot getting done," he said. "We've got to get ready for an election."

Hospital employee faces drug charges

By Thomas M. Varcie

A public safety officer employed at the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital for 15 years was arraigned Thursday, Dec. 28 at 52nd District Court in Walled Lake on charges of operating a drug house with his wife and son in their Lyon Township home.

Glen Leroy Hysell, 39, along with his wife, Ann Elizabeth Hysell, 39, and their son, Bobby Allen Hysell, 19, were all arraigned on charges of possession of illegal narcotics by District Judge Brian MacKenzie.

The three were arrested during an 11 p.m. Sept. 28 drug raid in the Hysell's home at 24 Woodland Place in the Country Estates Mobile Home Park, 58220 Eight Mile Road, Lyon Township.

Narcotics officers from Michigan State Police, the South Lyon and Milford police departments and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department raided the home after suspecting illegal drug activity at the residence, according to Trooper Tom Cremonette of the Michigan State Police Brighton Post.

"We had a search warrant for the place and we had information there was drug trafficking going on inside," Cremonette said.

"I've done hundreds of raids in my life. But this place had the most drug paraphernalia I've ever seen."

"In there we seized large quanties of marijuana, small quantities of cocaine, LSD and large amounts of pharmaceutical drugs, large amounts of cash, a semi-automatic machine gun, cocaine grinders, weighing scales for drugs, cocaine dilutants, drug records indicating sales made and pickups, and quantities of liquid hashish oil," Cremonette noted.

Also found on Glen Hysell was a false identification card. The Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital employee card identified him as "Ivan Snortmore" and listed his position as "narcotics."

Glen Hysell is being charged with delivery of a controlled substance, possession of a controlled substance less than 25 grams, possession of a controlled substance — non-narcotics, and possession of a controlled personal substance. His wife was arraigned on the same four counts, according to court records. Both were released on $4,000 personal bond.

Bobby Hysell is charged with possession of marijuana and was released on $1,000 personal bond. A Jan. 2 preliminary exam is scheduled for the three Hysells in front of 52nd District Court Judge Michael Bat-chuk.

Glen Hysell has been suspended without pay from his job at the hospital, according to Dr. Walter

NEWS BRIEFS

AMERMAN SELF-ESTEEM PROGRAM — Amerman Elementary School is sponsoring a children's self-esteem program for parents and teachers at the Jan. 9 PTA meeting.

"You're a bad boy, Patrick!" "I can't believe you dropped the ball!" "You're so clumsy." "The kids are driving me crazy!" These are comments made every day by millions of parents. They seem harmless enough. But these words can seriously damage children's self-esteem and their ability to resist peer pressure.

Parents' role in the development of their children's self-esteem will be examined in the program beginning at 7 p.m. on Jan. 9 at the Amerman school media center.

"Mirrors", a 15-minute film produced by the National PTA and Keebler Company, will be shown at the meeting. The thought-provoking film demonstrates the powerful effect parents' words and actions have on their children. It dramatizes everyday situations in which parents damage their children's self-esteem without meaning to or knowing it. It also shows how parents can dramatically improve children's self-esteem by subtly altering the way they communicate with their youngsters.

Mary Ellen King, Project Director for Northville Youth Assistance and Sue Borchert, social worker for Northville Public Schools, will be available to answer any questions. All parents and teachers are welcome. For more information contact Barb Flis, PTA president at 349-5477.

GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY — The Northville Genealogical Society will meet at Mill Race Village on Thursday, Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. January's speaker, Joan Griffin, will discuss "Ontario Genealogy". Anyone interested in tracing their family tree is welcome to attend. For more information, call 348-1857 or 349-3020.

WINTER PRESCHOOL STORYTIME — Northville Public Library's Winter Preschool Storytime registration will begin today, Jan. 4. Children 3½ to 5 years old, and not yet in kindergarten may enroll for either of the 10:30 a.m. or 1 p.m. programs which will take place on Wednesdays, Jan. 17 through Feb. 21. The theme for this series will be "Getting to Know Yourself". Parents are asked to remain in the library during these half hour sessions. To register, visit the Library or call 349-3020.

ARTS COMMISSION LECTURE SERIES — The Northville Arts Commission is sponsoring its third in a series of Michael Farrell lectures on favorite artists. The noted art authority, Michael Farrell, will lecture on the works of Raphael.

Parking, roads to get facelift in city

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The coming year should see several physical changes to the city's roads and parking areas, said City Manager Steven Walters, as well as changes in the way Northville residents dispose of their trash.

According to Walters, several of the changes recommended in the city's 1989 traffic study will likely be implemented, including a left-turn lane northbound on Center Street at its intersection with Eight Mile Road, the widening of Center Street to allow a left-turn lane at Dunlap Street, and further turning restrictions at Center and Randolph Street.

"The parking development will certainly be a big program," Walters added. On the agenda for 1990 are the reconfiguration of the town parking lots behind the Marquis Theatre and the Open Door Church, to add more than 100 additional parking spaces. Construction may begin on the five-story, 600-space parking deck south of the MainCentre project as well.

Changes may also be in store for the city's existing parking deck on Cady Street. "It's very likely that it may not be in the exact location that it is currently," Walters said, "because of the new development." The new development is the proposed Cady Corridor redevelopment, which will likely be a major focus for city officials once a Request For Proposals drafted by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) goes out to area developers. That project has been under consideration by the DDA for more than a year.

Because of the size of that project, which could potentially stretch from

Steve Walters, city manager

Center Street east to Mary Alexander Court and from Main Street south past Cady Street, Walters doubted that groundbreaking would begin before the end of 1990. He suggested that several developers could cooperate in a development project, though, and said city approval of the smaller individual projects would probably be granted sooner than approval of a single large development scheme.

"The nature of the project almost encourages (several developers)," he said, "in that it's not just one building."

The community's public library, in particular the township proposal of a 44,800 square-foot library on the land donated by Frieda Haller, will need to be addressed in 1990, he added. Under the terms of the land donation, funding for the Haller Library must be approved by September of this year and construction begun within two years after approval for the township to keep the 72-acre parcel of land.

The planning commission is also finishing work on a new Master Plan as well, complete with a proposed land use plan which would shift commercial and residential development slightly in the city. "The draft's going to be finalized and public hearings held on it," Walters said, "and it will probably be adopted this year."

The city is scheduled to make substantial improvements in its water main system as well. The project consists of enlargement of the water main along Cady and Wing streets to Fairbrook Street, to provide adequate water capacity for the MainCentre project, Northville Downs and the St. Lawrence Condominiums on Seven Mile Road. The road in that area will be repaved after the project is complete. While bids have been submitted for the project, a final decision has not yet been made on a developer.

The MainCentre project, scheduled to be completed by the end of the year, remains a focus of local attention. But the bigger story in Walters' opinion may be the parking deck to the south of MainCentre, "because it's not finalized yet," he said. The city's planning commission did not approve a preliminary site plan for the deck, citing a list of concerns including the potential for future widening of Cady Street between the two projects.

The issue of solid waste disposal continues to grow, as the amount of available space in area landfills continues to shrink. "As mundane as it is, solid waste would have to go on that list," Walters said. "There's going to be some major changes as far as residents are concerned in how (garbage is) handled."

"At a minimum I'd expect to see the separation of people's grass clippings," he said. "It'll change people's processes."

The city will also require the separation of leaves, until now a voluntary program. Leaves may need to be packed in clear bags so as to be identifiable to waste disposal workers.

"The next step is getting glass and plastic and cans physically separated at the curb," Walters said, "but that's not very practical until you have a good source to get rid of the stuff." The Conference of Western Wayne, a Consortium of government units in the area, is now looking for sources for recyclable materials.

"We're kind of dependent on some sort of group project to make it economically feasible," Walters said.

The Wayne County Solid Waste Plan is calling for a 25 percent reduction in the amount of materials dumped at local landfills by 1992. "But that's necessarily got to be flexible," Walters said, because the reprocessing plants and programs required to make such a reduction may require private investment to become a reality.

Brown, director of the Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, 41001 Seven Mile Road in Northville Township.

"We've been aware of his situation since it occurred in September. The only action we can take in this type of case is to suspend him. So he's been suspended here for the past three months," Brown explained.

The former public safety officer's lawyer, Charles Murphy, said he believes his client is innocent of the crime.

"I don't believe Glen was involved in any organized manner and we believe the case will be successfully resolved," said Murphy last Thursday.

Air Force Chorale to perform

The United States Air Force Academy Cadet Chorale will visit Novi High School's Fuerst Auditorium on Saturday, Jan. 13 at 8 p.m. for a special concert.

No tickets are required and the public is invited to attend. Billed as the "Best Free Concert in America," the chorale's visit is sponsored by the United States Air Force Academy Parents' Club.

The Chorale is a voluntary organization that has represented and served the Academy since its premiere performance with the Denver Symphony in October 1985. It is recognized for its musical achievements and for its enrichment of the life of the participating cadets.

Whether performing for former President Ronald Reagan and Jimmy Stewart in Washington, D.C., or singing at high schools around the country, every concert is unique.

Cadets who indicate an interest in the program are auditioned to determine musical ability and other special talents. Those who are accepted start musical training in a special section of the chorale and become as active in the program as time, talent and interest allow. Featuring a repertoire with a range of style and content as wide and varied as the origins of the 110 young people who comprise it, the Cadet Chorale performs primarily secular music.

The Chorale has sung in nearly every state in the nation. Television appearances have included the Barbara Mandrell Show, the Today Show, the Ed Sullivan Show, Kennedy Center Honors, Bob Hope and Carol Channing Specials, several Miss USA pageants and Super Bowl VI. The most nationally televised performance was the Fourth of July celebration for the rededication of the Statue of Liberty in New York City.

The group is under the direction of Joseph Galema, director of Cadet Chapel Music Activities.

Police Blotters

Skis stolen from city resident

City police said a Coldspring resident reported that a pair of skis and bindings valued at $600 were stolen from the resident's garage sometime between 8 p.m. Dec. 26 and 10 a.m. Dec. 27. The complainant said his wife had left the home around 8 p.m. Dec. 26 to return a video and left the garage door open. Police said the skis apparently had been left against the interior garage wall and were noticed missing the following day. Police have no suspects in the case.

Dec. 27 and 8 a.m. Dec. 28, police said.

AUTO PARTS POCKETED — A customer of Northville Downs Racetrack reported that a pair of wire wheel covers valued at $300 were stolen from the right side of his vehicle while it was parked in the racetrack parking lot Jan. 1. The complainant told police the car was in the lot between 9:15 p.m. and 11:15 p.m.

STATUE SWIPED — An Abbey Court resident told city police that a "Mary" statue valued at $50 was removed from a pedestal built on the west side of the residence Dec. 30 between 12:15-12:30 p.m. No suspects are reported in the case.

OVEN LIFTED — City police investigated a report of a breaking and entering of an unoccupied building on Andover. Police said a building under construction was broken into and a cooking unit valued at $400 was taken from a cutout in a kitchen countertop. Police said entry to the house was gained through the building's garage. The incident occurred sometime between 4:45 p.m.

FENDER BENDERS — A driver was ticketed Dec. 26 after failing to yield from a stop sign while west-bound on South Wing, city police said. The vehicle collided with vehicle traveling on West Main, police said.

A vehicle driving too fast skidded into the back of a vehicle attempting to turn at the intersection of Eight Mile and Center Street, city police said. The incident occurred Dec. 29 at 3:55 p.m.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

THE ANN ARBOR NEWS

Alan Zielinski, left, and Ken Thelen, of the City Department of Public Works, unload trees collected from the curb for composting.

City to pick up Christmas trees

Northville city residents can kiss their Christmas trees goodbye soon. And they can contribute to the city's recycling effort at the same time.

"We're going to pick them up separately," said Ted Mapes, director of the Northville Department of Public Works (DPW). "People can just put them out with the trash like they always do. It's just that the trash company won't pick them up. We'll be right behind them with a city truck."

Instead of going to the area landfill, as Christmas trees have for the past 15 years or so, this year's yule tide crop will be taken to the city's compost site and chipped, Mapes said.

Residents can also drop their trees off at the DPW yard off South Main Street. The yard is open Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. and Saturday from 12 noon to 4 p.m.

According to Mapes, the volume of waste generated by Christmas trees is down this year for several reasons. Besides the recycling efforts of many communities, many people are buying artificial trees rather than cutting down real ones, he said.

Station remodeled

Curious city residents may have wondered why the Mobil station on the corner of Eight Mile and Taft roads has been under wraps lately.

The reason is simple — the station has gone undercover to allow renovations so that late-night customers will no longer have to stand out in the cold.

The planning commission recently approved a minor site plan to allow the addition of a second entryway to the building. Customers will be able to stand inside the entry rather than waiting outside when paying for fuel or making other purchases after normal operating hours.

The building's inside door is locked at 10 p.m. and reopened at 6 a.m. for safety reasons.

The former Gas & Go station was bought by the Mobil Oil Corporation early last year, as was another Gas & Go station at the corner of south Main Street and Seven Mile Road. No plans have been announced for the renovation of the south Main station.

Seniors program receives hearing device grant

With the help of state aid, The Northville Area Senior Citizens will soon be able to talk with the hard of hearing. The program was recently awarded $2,219 by the State Commission on Services to the Aging for the purchase of a computer and a telecommunication device for the deaf (TDD).

"Right now we're not able to service deaf people in and around the community," explained Senior Coordinator Karl Peters. The deaf have to use facilities in either Detroit or Dearborn, he added.

The TDD is a device which uses a keyboard to allow the hearing impaired to communicate over the phone. "It's almost like a teletype," Peters explained. The TDD produces a beep on the receiving end of the phone line, which signals the person on the other end to hook the receiver to the device, but without the right equipment on both ends of the phone line, the device is useless.

"I've gotten a couple of calls from people who have the TDDs," said Peters. "You pick up the phone and you know they're trying to contact you but you can't do anything about it."

The TDD costs less than $300, Peters said. The $1,900 Epson computer will be used to store records on the number of people serviced by the senior citizens program, generate lists of seniors attending senior citizens field trips and produce employee timesheets, he added.

The grant is part of more than $700,000 awarded annually to senior centers across the state for equipment purchases, according to Grant Supervisor Jean Friend. Friend said the funds are typically used for the purchase of kitchen equipment, tables and chairs, and lately for the purchase of office equipment like computers.

In terms of items that can be funded under the grant, "We're pretty open," Friend said. "Except we won't buy things like lounge furniture, and we look closely at purchases like videos and movie cameras. We encourage the senior centers to raise their own funds for items like that."

The funds are available twice a year, and local centers must use a competitive bidding process in determining items to be bought.

Tax man cometh in township

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township residents stood in line to take care of some distasteful business last week — replenishing the coffers of local government through the payment of property taxes.

Nancy Malloy, administrative assistant to the treasurer, said township property owners took advantage of a tax incentive and turned out in droves to pay their dues by Dec. 31, the last date that tax payments may be included on 1989 federal and state income tax returns.

"Sixty percent of the township taxes were paid by the 31st," she said. "The township collected $1.6 million on Friday (Dec. 29) alone."

Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler said

many residents pay their taxes by Dec. 31 to qualify for the Homestead exemption on their 1989 taxes. She said Dec. 31 is the first of two deadlines — the second is late February — and residents usually choose to make their payments on the date that is most advantageous to them.

"They pay early for income tax purposes," she said. "They won't get penalties for waiting (until the end of February)."

"It's not that the taxes are due, it's their choice."

Malloy said tax notices were sent to township residents Dec. 5, a few days later than usual because of a computer mixup. She said the taxes are due by the middle of February, although the Board of Trustees generally extends the deadline to the last working day of the month — Feb. 28 this year.

Banks and mortgage institutions are more likely to pay their taxes early than are single family residents, Malloy said.

Not surprisingly, those facing the tax man are not in the best of spirits, she said.

"I tell them the time to complain is in March, when they get their assessment notices," she said. "They need to go before the Board of Review if they feel there is a problem."

"You can appeal your assessment but you can't appeal your taxes," she said. "It's too late now to do the complaining."

State introduces first-time home program this week

By BOB NEEDHAM

A new program designed to help first-time home buyers throughout Michigan makes its official debut this week.

The Home Ownership Savings Trust (HOST) got underway Tuesday, the first day interested people could apply for the program. Robert Kolt of the state Treasury Department advises interested home buyers in Northville and Novi to apply soon, since the state will limit participation.

The program is modeled on the Michigan Education Trust, the state's plan to guarantee college tuition. HOST instead tries to guarantee a down payment for a home.

HOST, however, has not received as much attention as the tuition plan; several local bank officers said last week they had not heard of the new program. But state officials are pushing the plan strongly, and one local financial planner thinks it is a great move for anyone who wants to buy a first home.

Under the plan, would-be homeowners make monthly payments to the state. The payments buy small-denomination bonds issued by the state. The state guarantees that the interest on the bonds will match or exceed the rate of housing inflation in Michigan — that is, the average increase in the cost of buying a home.

State officials are pushing two particular aspects of the plan. First, the interest earned on the bonds is completely exempt from all federal, state and local taxes.

Second, the program is flexible. The person or couple buying the bonds may choose the amount of their monthly payment; they choose the maturity of the bonds, up to 10 years; and they may withdraw the money at any time with no penalty. If participants decide to use the money for something other than a home, they do not get the guaranteed interest rate — but they still earn interest at the level of a one-year tax-exempt note.

Kolt said he cannot think of any situation where participating in HOST would not be beneficial. "It's not like it's a bad deal for anybody," he said.

"Most people who own a home can make the payments on it. It's the lump sum" that can be difficult, Kolt said.

In figuring what HOST payments should be, the state advises people to figure when they want to buy their home, the price range of the home they want; expected housing inflation in the area in which they hope to buy, and the size of a down payment they will need. From these factors they figure a monthly payment.

If everything goes as expected, when the bonds mature, the participants will have enough money for their down payment — or at least something close to it.

"It's not going to be a perfect science," Kolt explained. "We'll just have to ask people to make their best guesses."

If home prices in a given area rise faster than expected, the HOST participants might not have a down payment large enough for the home they want, he said.

"Maybe inflation does go wild in the area they want," Kolt said. "At least this is a foot in the door. They're still going to make a lot of money on their investment. It's probably a better investment than anything else. It's as close to a guarantee as you can get."

The part that actually is guaranteed — that interest will beat or match Michigan's housing inflation — means that HOST is a good investment, Kolt said.

"Housing inflation has been a pretty strong performer statewide," he said. "We can pretty much predict housing inflation for the next 10 years to be 4 to 5 percent."

The plan has another safeguard in case home prices stabilize: If housing inflation falls below the interest paid on a one-year tax-exempt note, the program guarantees a rate of return equal to such a note. In any case, the earnings are completely tax-exempt.

The Treasury Department has a list of statistics to support the HOST plan: falling home ownership nationwide, particularly among young people; high down payments being the biggest obstacle to home ownership; increasing home prices; and decreasing personal savings.

The application period for HOST began Tuesday. Kolt said the first offering of bonds will be in March, on a first-come, first-served basis.

The bonds the state is selling are actually a small share of the $800 million worth of bonds — for environmental cleanup and recreation — which state voters approved in November 1988.

"It certainly will be limited. It's the way we eliminate any risk by offering variable-rate bonds," Kolt said. "We're selling the bonds we would normally sell to Wall Street investors, only in smaller denominations to the people of Michigan."

The state set up a toll-free "hotline" for people wanting more information or an application. The number is 1-800-642-4178.

Thomas Weisheit Jr., a financial planner in Milford, gives very high marks to the HOST program.

"I think it's fantastic. This is one of the biggest problems of young married couples today," he said. "I can see the great potential of this. (The hard part) for anybody that has a goal to purchase a home, which they should, is coming up with enough cash for a down payment."

Home ownership is important because homes appreciate quickly, but that appreciation is tax-deferred while the owners live there. The HOST plan only increases the financial benefits, Weisheit said. "It's a win-win-win situation all the way."

He said the interest rate is "the frosting on the cake" — the cake being the fact that the interest earned is tax-free.

"The yield is competitive because it's tax-free," Weisheit said. "The important thing is it's going to make people save money . . . but more important (is) they're going to be a homeowner and an investor in the community."

"I'm going to insist that everyone I know get on the bandwagon if they're not already saving for a primary home."

Township ponders changes be more of an administrator, the head of the two (police and fire) departments," he said.

Henningsen said a public safety officer would be responsible for coordinating the efforts of the respective departments from an administrative post.

"We're looking for better communication between departments to the township office on administrative matters," he said. "This might be the way to get that communication."

A public safety officer is not the only option available to the township, Henningsen said.

"We're looking into all the alternatives," he said. "Captain (Phillip) Presnell is the acting chief, and he's off and running quite admirably. People are settling back into a routine under the acting chief."

Henningsen said Presnell would be a candidate for the police chief position if the board chose that route again "if he applied."

The process to determine Hardsy's successor may be a slow one, Henningsen said. He said a move to a public safety officer would probably cause considerable debate by the board and he would not set a specific timetable for filling the vacancy.

"It's going to take some time," he said.

Landfill proposed for Novi site

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

NOVI -- A construction waste landfill has been proposed by the Wixom-based Holloway Construction Company for the northwest corner of Eight Mile and Napier Road in Novi.

The 187-acre site has already received approval by Oakland County's solid waste planning committee, placing it on the proposed solid waste (641) plan.

It is important to note that a "construction" waste landfill differs significantly from a "solid" waste landfill.

"Unlike a solid waste landfill, all the materials going into this landfill will be inert," said Dick Zanotti, a spokesperson for the Holloway Company. "It will have no detrimental effect on the environment."

He explained that only construction waste, which consists of concrete and tree-stumps, generated by Holloway will be placed in the landfill.

Because there is no environmental risk associated with the landfill, Holloway does not anticipate strong community opposition, Zanotti said.

"We (Holloway) don't foresee any problems gaining approval," he added. "In fact, the city has been very receptive to the idea."

Zanotti said the site is well-suited for a landfill of this type because of its unique characteristics.

The site is currently being used for sand and gravel excavation. When the mining operation has been completed in approximately a year, the company plans to convert the site to a landfill.

Zanotti said the site is one giant hole and an inert landfill seems to be a logical use because there are no wetland or woodland areas.

The site also has a natural clay liner, which acts as a barrier, as well as a low lying aquifer, according to Zanotti.

The Holloway site also escapes another problem which typically plagues landfills — increased traffic flow.

"The landfill will not increase traffic because it will only be used by our company," Zanotti said.

The excavating operation already generates a handful of trucks each week, the landfill operation will draw a comparable number, he said.

"If the people living around the site are't aware of the sand and gravel operation, then they won't even know that the landfill is there," he said.

Holloway has not made any height projections at this point, and Zanotti would not rule out the possibility of the landfill rising above ground level.

Another positive characteristic of the construction landfill is the flexibility of its ultimate use, according to Zanotti.

He estimated a 10-year life for the Holloway landfill, after which the company will cover the area with soil and grass. Upon restoration, the site will be suitable for any type of ground level construction.

Unlike a solid waste landfill, there will be no danger of contamination or gas leakage, according to Zanotti.

The next step for the construction company will be a hydro-geological study of the area, as outlined by the Department of Natural Resources.

"From the preliminary data, we feel that the results will be good," Zanotti said. "However, if it doesn't work out then there won't be a landfill."

Before applying for the required DNR permit, Holloway must wait until the site is added to the county's revised solid waste plan, which is targeted for approval by the Oakland County board on April 26.

From that point, the DNR has 120 days to decide whether to issue a permit. A public hearing will also be scheduled as part of the DNR's review process in order to gauge public opinion.

those of the common cold. As the disease progresses, victims often have fevers as high as 105 degrees, aching, and nausea. In severe cases, people may not be able to hold down food or liquids.

"The more dehydrated you get, the worse you get," Searcy said of the disease. "It makes you feel like not doing the things you should be doing." For people who cannot retain food, he urged drinking clear liquids like apple juice or ginger ale. "Chicken broth is very good," he added, saying, "the old adage is to take lots of chicken broth or chicken noodle soup."

Searcy warned those with the flu to avoid milk and dairy products, because digesting them puts added stress on the person's gastrointestinal tract.

Though the disease typically takes three to four days to run its course, it can last longer if the victims do not take care of themselves, Searcy said. "The more you try to push yourself the longer it's going to last," he warned.

As far as medications are concerned, vaccines are still being offered by area clinics and health care providers. Doris Schuchter, the flu program coordinator for the Oakland County Health Department, said the county's Southfield and Pontiac clinics and 64 outreach clinics have already inoculated nearly 20,000 people. Her department has prepared 3,000 doses for area physicians and hospitals as well.

"A lot of viruses are going around," Schuchter said, "but Michigan gets the true influenza in January and February." The vaccine does not protect against every virus that causes aches and nausea, she added.

The vaccines are recommended specifically for the elderly, people with a history of lung or heart problems, and children with asthma.

Few medications are available to limit the disease once it strikes. Doctors typically prescribe medicine that often accompany the flu. One medication, Amantadine, is thought to limit the replication of Type A influenza, the most common strain recorded nationally this year. "Some doctors believe it might be helpful if a person starts taking it as soon as the flu begins," said Dr. Searcy, "but I don't think taking a magic pill will help. You need to stop and rest."

"Antibiotics don't do anything," he added, "absolutely nothing. You have to let it run its course."

The emergency room at Providence Hospital's Novi clinic sees from 10 to 15 people with flu-like symptoms a day, Searcy said. "Some people who come in here are so dehydrated we have to give them IV (intravenous) fluids," he added.

After they get the fluids in their systems, he said, the people usually report feeling much better.

Even vaccines are not foolproof, due to the different types of the disease. As Dr. Joel Blostein, doctor of epidemiology at the Oakland County Health Department, explained, there are many types of influenza. "Influenza is a type of virus," he said, "but there are three main subtypes of the virus and a lot of variants of those. And from one flu season to another there may or may not be some change in the character of the virus."

If the change is great enough, a vaccine that inoculated people against the flu strain one year might not work the next. Each year, when formulating the three-part vaccine used to inoculate people from the disease, doctors must decide on each of the variants to inoculate against.

"It's something of a guessing game," Blostein said.

Ernie Harwell to speak in Northville

Single Place presents an evening with Ernie Harwell, the "voice of the Detroit Tigers," on Sunday, Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

A donation of $2.50 per person is requested and children are welcome. Child care will be available for young children. After the program, ice cream sundaes will be served at the church. Half of the proceeds from the event will be donated to the ministry of Harwell's son, who is a minister in a mission church in Tennessee.

Harwell's name will forever be linked with the all-time baseball greats. He was the fifth recipient of the Ford C. Frick Award and was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, N.Y., in August 1981.

He has been behind the microphone for the Tigers since 1960 and is considered one of the real veterans of baseball broadcasting. In 1985 "Sports Illustrated" selected Harwell as the radio voice for its all-time dream baseball team.

His radio and television career dates back to 1940 and he has been on the major league scene as a broadcaster since 1948. His service with the Tigers followed six seasons with the Baltimore Orioles, four with the New York Giants and nearly two more with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Born in Washington, Ga., in Jan. 25, 1918, Harwell went to work at the age of 16 as the Atlanta correspondent for "The Sporting News." He later worked in the sports department of the "Atlanta Constitution." When he was 22, he originated a nightly sports news broadcast for the radio station WSB in Atlanta, his first regular experience on the air.

Harwell is a graduate of Emory University and it was there that he first met Lulu Tankersley of Hazard, Ky., who became Mrs. Harwell. They are the parents of two sons, William Earnest and Gray Neville, and twin daughters, Julie and Carolyn.

Following four years in the Marine Corps during World War II with service in the Orient, Harwell returned to the Atlanta scene as broadcaster for the games of the Southern Association's Atlanta Crackers. While there, he also broadcast the Masters Golf Tournament and Georgia Tech football games. His later football coverage included Yale, Pittsburg, Boston College, Fordham and Michigan State on the college front, together with the New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers and Baltimore Colts among the pros.

Harwell's reward for success in Atlanta was appointment as play-by-play broadcaster for the Dodgers during the 1948 season. Two years later, he moved to the Giants, then to the Orioles before coming to Detroit.

Accident victim was friend

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Mary Flynn, 83, the woman killed two weeks ago in a tragic accident on Novi Road, touched the lives of many in Northville. One couple who saw her nearly every day remember her with fondness, and find it hard to accept the fact that she is now gone.

Larry and Donna Podpora, of Donna's Flowers on Novi Road, first met Mary when they opened their store during Easter, in 1984. "She was our first customer," Larry recalled. "She came in and said, 'Hi, I'm Mary Flynn, the old hen, and I'd like to welcome you to Northville.' Always hugs and kisses, that's the way she was."

"She used to come in and do an Irish jig," he recalled. "She was proud of her legs," Donna added. "She had more energy than both of us put together," Larry added.

"She became part of our shop," Larry said. "She'd be walking through here two or three times a day. Even now, we almost expect her to come in."

Larry said he always reserved flowers for Mary on special occasions like Mother's Day and Easter. "She always loved the flowers, and had a good word for everybody," Larry said. "She was just in love with life." Flynn had a particular fondness for red carnations, and the Podporas provided a floral arrangement of them for her funeral at Our Lady of Victory Church.

"Everyone knew who she was," Larry said. "You couldn't take Northville out of her or vice versa."

"You loved her like a grandmother," Donna said, "though she didn't act like one. She'd get to the church a half hour early and tell everyone they looked nice."

"She'd go to the beauty shop and do the same thing," Larry said.

A tiny lady with grey and blond hair, Mary brought the Podporas a copy of the church bulletin from Our Lady of Victory Church every Monday. She was a sports fan as well, Donna said, and followed Detroit's baseball team. "She'd say, 'How about those Tigers?'"

Flynn even volunteered to pass out flyers when the shop first opened, they said, and always told the Podporas she was rooting for their store to do well. When Larry and Donna told her they would soon begin selling greeting cards, Mary took to the streets again, telling all her other friends to buy the Podporas' cards.

"Mary gave us so much, and I felt that I had to give a little back," Larry said.

A local bard of sorts, Larry also wrote a poem in honor of Richard Lewis, the Northville sailor who died in April in the explosion aboard the USS Iowa. Lewis had been an employee at the flower shop, delivering flowers to customers. Mary herself wrote poetry, Larry said, including a poem called "Mary, the guilty child."

MARY'S MISSION OF LOVE
Poem by LARRY PODPORA

The lives she touched the love she gave the smiles she brought those memories our hearts will always save.

From her little Irish jig to her hearty "hello"
a lady more full of life
this town will never know.
She'd race into our shop fill it with a "Hello, Donna and Larry" followed by a hug and a kiss and our special greeting of "Mary, Mary, Mary."

She had stories to tell and poems to recite
a red carnation would make her smile
a balloon make her squeal with delight.

She didn't know the meaning of anger sadness, she'd never show it, always there with a helping hand if she was troubled you'd never know it.

This town belonged to her and she belonged to this town she was its ambassador of goodwill her job, spreading her love around.

Mary has a new job now more important than ambassador of goodwill for the Lord has given her a new title
Mary, Guardian Angel of Northville.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

The year ahead: In the city

The new year offers a chance to reassess old goals and to set new ones. As is traditional, we have set our sights on some ways local government can make 1990 a better year for the Northville community.

In the city 1990 should be an exciting year. Downtown Northville will see changes unlike any since the redevelopment project in 1978. The Main Centre project, already underway, will see further steps toward completion. The face of downtown will be changed by the completion of the Cady Corridor Study and steps will be undertaken this year to locate developers interested in projects for the Cady area, one of the last key sections to the city.

While everything points toward a banner year for city government, adequate and careful planning will decide the outcome. And the often heard cry "Where is the parking?" will again echo through the streets. This is the year the city can wait no longer to come to terms with the parking situation. If the downtown is to continue to grow, with additional retail, office and residential, as is planned, parking must be found.

Decisions must be made during 1990 on several important areas. The fate of the Northville Ford plant should be decided during the coming year. The plant study, undertaken to provide some answers, has been in government hands for some time. With a decision looming on the placement of a new community library, the future of the Ford Plant should fall into place as well.

South Main Street, ignored somewhat as development continued in other areas, will come under scrutiny in the coming months. Planners have already begun the ticklish project of determining how retail and residential can coexist in the area, and further planning and zoning will take place in 1990 for this important entryway to the city.

As the city plans for this future growth, continued discussion will occur on just what the line between the residential and non-residential tax base should be. Quality of life issues such as libraries and recreation land, and their price tags, will become increasingly harder to sell to taxpayers.

Recycling will become more than just a hobby for some. It will become a way of life for all during the next year, as the city gets closer and closer to requiring curbside separation of trash and recyclables. This is a goal that is a must.

SHARED SERVICES

Perhaps the biggest project facing township and city governments will be a decision on where and how to build a new community library. The coming year, in fact the first six months of 1990 in all probability, will decide which direction will be taken.

A timetable on the Haller land gift already exists. Township officials must have a financing plan in hand, voter approved, by September, in order to receive the gift of 72 acres. Whether the use of the 72 acres with a 44,800 square foot library as stipulated by the Haller bequest, is the best use of tax dollars, has yet to be shown. Public hearings exploring all options open to taxpayers should be held soon.

Recreation land will be another key issue for people in the township and city. 1989 proved to be a bad year for land purchases in the eyes of city voters, and 1990 will need to see creative approaches to recreation needs. The community owned property on Six Mile and Beck roads should be developed into athletic fields in the coming year.

In the township

While the eyes of Northville Township are focused squarely upon the proposed development of the Haller library site, an additional checklist of significant issues will need to be addressed by officials and residents of this rapidly growing community in 1990.

Like an overflowing weekend job jar, the chores in the township have piled up to the extent that a roll-up-the-sleeves approach is needed to maintain control of the township's business affairs.

- The imminent county land sale. The planning commission has worked with meticulous — if not torturous — care on the township's Planned Unit Development (PUD) ordinance, which is being developed with the sale of the 930-plus acres of county owned land in the township in mind. Head-butting with Wayne County officials is sure to come, but if the planners can formulate a workable PUD code, the best interests of the township will be insured before development of the parcel begins.

- Compatible industry. The development of low impact industry is part and parcel of the county land sale. The size and scale of these periphery businesses will have to be closely monitored by the township, but should be a welcome relief. Residents are pulling their hair out over their tax bills as it is, and indications are that another tax boost is heading down the township turnpike. The township needs the taxbase help that industry can provide.

- Good people in key positions. This is not the time to play payback politics in the township. Get good people on the various boards and commissions and put them to work. Additionally, a review of said groups should be conducted to determine the most efficient means of conducting township meetings. Some of the organizations — the planning commission comes to mind — seem to be moving to more and more meetings each month. Perhaps their operation needs to be streamlined and/or prioritized. We're sure the participants do not enjoy meeting every week.

- Recycling. With the implementation of the collection center on Sheldon Road, the township has taken the first necessary step toward a recycling strategy. We urge the township to be a leader in the recycling effort in 1990 and to help educate its residents on the importance of reducing the impact on landfills.

- Take care of the police department situation. Public safety director or police chief? This question will not be an easy one to answer, and the township will need earnest deliberations to resolve the issue. First step — improve communication from the police and fire departments to the administrative offices. Problems should not be handled in-house in those departments. That's what a supervisor and township manager are for.

- The Ward Church problem. Oh, and it is a problem. A Zoning Board of Appeals decision to allow a height variance to the church for its proposed development site has helped to fracture a good portion of the community. Residents opposed to the height variance have gone to court to appeal the ZBA's decision, and more fireworks are expected in the new year. This is a huge issue that will not be swept under the rug in the coming months.

This is but a sampling of the real issues that confront the township in 1990. Leadership, responsibility, and action are not only a need, but a demand as well, in the face of trying times. The oft-talked about quality of life factor in Northville Township depends upon these key ideals.

Mrs. Kevin Dooley

By Brenda Dooley

Tradition is a good thing. Most of the time.

Practices and customs that are handed down from generation to generation are essential to maintaining a sense of history, a sense of pride and a sense of security.

Getting up at 6 a.m. to stuff a giant Thanksgiving turkey, gathering around the twinkling tree on Christmas Eve, toasting in the New Year with relatives and friends — they're all valued traditions in my family. I look forward to them because they hold treasured memories.

But there comes a time when traditions become outdated. When they don't serve a recognizable purpose. When they need to be adapted to reflect a new time period.

My mom stopped reading me bedtime stories when I learned to read on my own. My dad stopped dressing up as Santa as soon as my brothers and I uncovered his disguise. These traditions lost their significance as we grew up. Although they were abandoned, I'll always remember how important they were to us as kids.

A local tradition that may deserve revamping is the use of courtesy titles for members of the Northville Woman's Club. Historically, members have been identified by their husband's names — in the group's annual written programs and when introduced during club meetings. I, for example, would be known as Mrs. Kevin Dooley. Not Mrs. Dooley, not Brenda Dooley, but Mrs. Kevin Dooley.

My husband's a nice guy. But Kevin is his name, not mine. Following tradition, I took his last name when we were married. But only his last name — I have a first name of my own. A name that has become my identity. And when somebody calls me Mrs. Kevin Dooley, my identity is somewhat diminished. We're husband and wife, but does anyone call him Mr. Brenda Dooley? If so, I've never heard it.

I completely understand why the practice is observed by the club. Because there was a time when it was only proper to be known as Mrs. John Doe. Society dictated the rules. But society has changed. No where else are these ladies referred to as "Mrs. John Doe." In casual conversations and in other social situations the members are recognized by their first names, not their husbands' first names.

Members of the Northville Woman's Club are proud of the group's history — as they should be. Founded in 1892, the club is celebrating its 98th anniversary this year. The group has played an important role in Northville society. And its contributions to the community are certainly praiseworthy. It is not my intention to discredit or diminish the group's standing. I greatly respect its members and its history.

I know some of the officers of the club and I know they mean no disrespect when they follow the customs established by the board so many years ago. But are all of these customs still needed?

All of this "name-calling" business may seem petty, but incoming members are likely to feel offended if they're identified by their husband's names. And some women in the community may choose not to become involved in a group that doesn't recognize them as individuals.

There are those who will argue that they're proud to be called "Mrs. John Doe." But there also are women who are even prouder to be recognized as "Doris Doe."

We've come a long way, ladies. Let's keep moving forward.

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

The good-looking blonde sitting on the bar stool motioned seductively in my direction.

Okay, okay, okay. That's not entirely true. Most of it's true. There was a good-looking blonde. She was sitting on a bar stool. And she did motion in my direction. I made up the part about "seductively" to make the story more interesting.

Actually, it was just Mary — one of the waitresses at the Starting Gate. And I had a pretty good idea why she was beckoning in my direction.

"You're getting kinda fat," she said when I arrived, pointing at my stomach. "In fact, I didn't even recognize you when you first came in."

I thanked her profusely for noticing and went on my way. But the sad, sad truth of the matter is that she was right. I am fat. Never in my life have I weighed more than I do right now. The holidays had something to do with it — I've never met an hors d'oeuvre I didn't like.

But the big factor is that I quit smoking about four months ago and the weight has been rising steadily ever since. The only good part is that I have company. Gary Kelber in the advertising department quit about the same time I did, and we are able to compare notes.

"It's hard finding pants that fit," he said the other day. "I can relate," I replied.

"The ones that still fit are getting harder to button," he said. "I can relate," I replied.

"You're not having trouble bending over to tie your shoes, are you?" I asked. And when he said he had not yet reached that stage, I got even more depressed.

"Watch out for that stage," I cautioned. "The only thing worse is having pretty blondes tell you how fat you're getting."

To The Editor:

On reviewing my mother's copy of the "Strategic Plan", many things it contained surprised me. After looking through the names of all "Team" members it was apparent no student was included. I feel this is a disturbing oversight by the Strategic Planning Committee. Their stated goal is to plan for a successful future for Northville Public Schools and its students, but no students were present to help in this planning. If this committee attempted to find "experts" on the subject of school, such as the teachers, administrators, and School Board members appointed, why was the most obvious expert overlooked. While many of the subjects covered did not need student insight, one did. Strategy VI's stated objective was, "To develop plans to evaluate the high school program and implement appropriate changes." Thirty-seven members addressed this issue; none were current students of Northville High School.

It is upsetting to me to think that parents and faculty made decisions relating to improvement of school spirit, student motivation, athletic activity participation, and cancellation of school programs without the input of students. It is my hope that until students are asked their opinion on the whole plan, especially Strategy VI, that no part should be implemented and no further action taken.

'Special' people a benefit to children

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

Below is a letter written by a 7 year old who has been matched with a Northville Youth Assistance (NYA) volunteer for eight months.

Dear Mrs. King:

I like Jane alot. She's nice. We talk and play. I like to play with her tea set. I like to play with the game ring the clown. We like to look at the farm animals at Maybury. Thanks a lot.

Children, as all of us, can benefit from having a "special" person in their lives. Kids who are new in the community, whose parents are going through a divorce, who have experienced a death in the family, whose grades are slipping, or any child who is having difficulty coping with today's problems can benefit from NYA. Call Mary Ellen King at 344-1618 to match your child with a trained NYA volunteer.

Playing politics

By Phil Power

Before this season of peace and joy is gone, take a moment to shed a tear for poor Don Riegle, Michigan's senior U.S. senator.

Riegle is in a heap of trouble for having taken big campaign contributions from corrupt savings and loan operators and then setting up meetings with the federal regulators who were trying to shut them down.

Riegle has asked the Senate Ethics Committee to investigate all this and determine whether he did anything wrong. In the meantime, there have been calls for him to step down as chair of the Senate Banking Committee.

This is no laughing matter for Michigan. Riegle has a lot of clout in the Senate, clout that can be used to help us folks at home. After all, bringing home the bacon is a time-honored job for our representatives in Washington, because the operative definition of government is "a large body of money surrounded by people who want some of it."

Call me softhearted if you will, but I don't think Don Riegle has done anything more corrupt than any other U.S. senator or representative.

He's taking a bad rap when his only sin was to have got caught in the limelight when the enormously expensive ($160 billion over 10 years, or $650 for every man, woman and child in the country) S&L bailout demanded that somebody get the blame.

My reasons for feeling this way have to do more with the corrupt way the political system works today when with either

Riegle's ethics or lack of them.

Reduced to essentials, here's how politics functions in America today:

Sally Jones, an ambitious and bright person, runs for the state legislature or the U.S. Congress. Once elected, she discovers it's a tough job, but fun, and with a lot of perks and ego satisfaction attached.

She decides to run for reelection, because a career in politics seems nicer and more exciting than any other.

As Sally works up a budget for her reelection campaign, she discovers it will cost a lot of money. Because most political campaigns are events in which the contestants battle it out in the media, advertising is key. And expensive. Very expensive. Sally finds it more expensive than her salary plus her savings.

So how does she raise money? She gives a fund-raiser. Asks lobbyists for contributions. Asks businessmen who need a favor. Asks labor leaders who want a vote. Asks representatives of the countless special interest groups which infest the political system.

Sally is smart and a hard worker. She raises the money for her campaign and is reelected. Congratulations, Sally.

Next day, Sam Smith the businessman calls. Because Sam has been a big contributor, Sally answers the call herself. He asks her to set up a meeting with the bureaucrats who are hassling his company about, say, pollution. She obliges because it's only fair to provide service to a constituent.

Because Sally sits on the committee that passes on the bureaucrats' budget and they don't want to offend her, they attend the meeting. They listen and try to make nice to businessman Sam.

No law is violated. Businessman Sam gets access to Sally because he has contributed to her campaign. Sally arranges a meeting with bureaucrats because she feels obliged to assist people who have helped her. The bureaucrats attend the meeting because they are afraid to make Sally sore.

Then some reporter gets hold of the story. Sally, businessman Sam and the bureaucrats are all in the soup.

Believe me, this is how the political system works.

Everybody — Sen. Don Riegle included — does it.

It isn't fair. It isn't ethical. It doesn't produce good government. It produces scapegoats when somebody gets caught in the limelight.

But that's the way it's going to be as long as career politicians are forced to trade access for campaign contributions.

The solution? Simple: Let government finance election campaigns for nominated candidates.

That way, campaigns can be based on the candidates' records and ideas — not on their ability to sell their souls.

Critter Sitters

Novi woman offers service for pets

By CATHERINE E. BILEK

Pet owners often face the dilemma of what to do with their pets while they're away from home.

Whether it be during a vacation or the workday, the pet is often lonely while its master is away. A mid-day walk can relieve both the anxieties of the master and the pet's biological needs.

Some pet owners opt to limit themselves to jobs close to home to eliminate the problem. But now that career limitation is not necessary. Dorothy Johnson of Novi provides a service that is ideal for pets and their owners.

Johnson's service, Critter Sitters, will come into your home, feed and walk your pet, and even take in your mail to give your home a lived-in look while you are away. On occasion, Johnson forwards mail to clients who are out of town for extended periods.

Critter Sitters is bonded. Johnson urges prospective clients to check her references with the Better Business Bureau and her other customers. Her satisfied customers are her best reference. Veterinarians and pet shop owners also refer customers to Critter Sitters.

Marilyn Iskra is one satisfied customer who uses Critter Sitters every day. She is a former Dearborn resident who works at Ford Motor Company. Before moving to Northville approximately 18 months ago, she would run home on her lunch hour to care for her shelti (toy collie), mixed German shepherd and two cats.

"I didn't want to move until I found Dorothy's service," Iskra says. "She's just wonderful with animals. I wouldn't know what to do without her."

Johnson discovered Critter Sitters when she used the service for her own pet. Being both a pet lover and a satisfied customer herself, she took over the service in August 1988 when the previous owners retired. One full-time and one part-time Critter Sitters assist Johnson.

"People who love their pets do not like to put them in kennels," Johnson says. "They get diseases, and it is often traumatic for pets, especially cats."

She says cats hear dogs barking at a kennel and are frightened. "Some cats don't even know what a dog is."

The service is not limited to dog walking. Critter Sitters also care for hamsters, birds and rabbits, but not for exotic animals.

"It's a wonderful service. I was excited about it when I bought it and I still am," Johnson says.

Critter Sitters' service is often used by bachelors who need to have their pets cared for during the day. The service may be used on a regular basis or periodically. Many pet owners who usually come home during the day to care for their pets use the service of Critter Sitters when they have a luncheon engagement. Others use the service when attending weddings on the other side of town and cannot come home to let their dogs out.

Before accepting a new client, Johnson says she always visits the pet first to be sure that she, or her assistants, are compatible with the animal. She also keeps a Polaroid picture of the pet on file. Over 200 customers use the service periodically throughout the year.

"In" and "out" times are recorded on a work sheet. A synopsis of what occurred during the pet owner's absence is completed on the last visit. Johnson requests that she be notified when the owner returns from vacation to make sure the pet is cared for in case of an unforeseen delay.

"I think pet people are really wonderful," Johnson says. "I meet wonderful pets. They are very appreciative, especially dogs. They almost talk with you."

The visits with the pet last from 30 to 45 minutes. The rate per visit is $8 to $9 depending on the geographic location. Service is available in Novi, Northville, Plymouth, Canton, Wall Lake, Wixom, Farmington Hills, Farmington, Redford, Livonia, Westland, Garden City and part of West Bloomfield, north to Fourteen Mile.

Johnson says she will probably be a "Critter Sitter" forever.

"To have a job I really enjoy is healthy for me," she says. "It's not glamorous, but the good outweighs the bad."

Critter Sitters can be reached at 348-6370.

WARNING:

RADON

IS DEADLY IN THIS AREA.

You can't see it, smell it or even feel it. It just quietly attacks your lungs, until one day you find you have lung cancer.

It's called Radon. A naturally occurring, radioactive gas that seeps into your home. In fact, it is the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If your home has high levels of Radon, you're being exposed to as much radiation as having literally hundreds of chest x-rays in one year.

But there is something you can do about it. Testing for Radon is simple and inexpensive. And homes with high levels can be fixed. Call 1-800-SOS-RADON to get your test information.

Cross-stitching

Handmade cross-stitching items, like these from the Stitching Bee, make fine baby shower gifts

If you can count and draw an 'X,' you can do it

By Cristina Ferrier

A stroll through the back room of The Stitching Bee, a Milford store that specializes in sewing crafts, can strike even the most casual viewer with awe.

In this room, there are hundreds of pictures. Some are samplers and simple, country designs. Others look like three-dimensional photos or oil paintings.

But every one of those pictures has been done with a needle and thread, with one of the easiest crafts around: cross-stitching.

Becky Halloran, owner of the store, said that cross-stitching is "for those who are afraid to sew, knit, et cetera. Even if you can't sew on a button, you can cross-stitch."

To cross-stitch, all you need to be able to do is count and make two stitches, crossing each other to form an X.

The craft goes back to the 18th century, when people used to stitch designs on old potato sacks. "It's really an old art that has come back," Halloran said.

To make the designs, you follow a pattern that is printed on a graph. The patterns are available in books or with cross-stitching kits available in many stores. The entire design only uses one type of stitch, so it's much easier than embroidery, crewelwork, or many other stitching crafts.

Anything can be cross-stitched. Besides making a picture suitable for framing, the craft can be used to decorate towels, sweatshirts, jewelry and more. "It's not a 'junk craft,'" Halloran said. The possibilities are endless. Cross-stitch projects are even hand-washable.

Halloran suggests that beginners start with a small project, such as a refrigerator magnet or a Christmas ornament. "Start with something easy," she said. "You have to work up to the big projects."

Large pictures take "hundreds of hours," Halloran said, adding that a beginner is likely to give up on a long project. But as far as level of difficulty, "cross-stitching is not hard or easy. It's time consuming."

At The Stitching Bee, customers look through the back room for a model of what they want to do. Halloran recommends books rather than kits. "You pay more for the kit and it's not worth it," she said.

In a book, there are many different patterns, as opposed to the kits, which offer only one. While a kit includes the floss and material for the project, she added, you have no choice of colors or types.

Halloran recommends DMC brand floss and a cloth called Aida, which comes in different thread counts. The higher the thread count, the finer and more detailed the project becomes. "Then there's linen, which is what they used in the 18th century," she added. "But that's a little bit harder."

The craft can be addictive. Once you get into a cross-stitching project, it's hard to put it down. "I've learned

Wind-up toy worth a mint

By James G. McCollam

Q: What can you tell me about my Marx Merry-makers band consisting of three mouse musicians and one dancer?

A: It is a wind-up toy, works perfectly and is in excellent condition.

Q: You have a prize. Marx Merry-makers were made in 1929 and are a hot item with toy collectors.

A: The most recent sale I find was for $750 in mint condition. I am sure yours is worth over $500 if no parts are missing.

Q: A monogram is on the bottom of each piece of my 14-piece chocolate set. It consists of tray, pot and six cups and saucers. It is decorated with several different kinds of flowers with a lot of foliage.

A: Can you identify the mark and tell me something about the vintage and value?

A: This mark was used by Charles Ahrenfeldt and Sons of New York china that they imported from Limoges, France, about 1900.

A: A set like this in good condition probably would sell for about $365 to $385.

Q: I have a gadget that has me puzzled. It consists of two cast iron pistols hinged at the top. Can you shed any light on the subject?

A: Your description suggests that you have a late 19th century boot-jack. The two pistols are placed on the floor in the open position. The heel of one boot is placed in the vee formed by the barrels and the other foot is placed on the handles. Then you pull your foot out of the boot.

These usually sell in the $75 to $100 range in good condition.

Q: When we cleaned out the attic, my brother found an old tobacco can (1-pound size). The label is "Plow Boy" with a picture of a boy sitting on a plow. At the bottom it says, "Chewing—Amoking Tobacco." Is this worth anything?

A: Tobacco cans are very popular with collectors. This one was made about 1900 and would sell for about $50 to $60 in good condition.

Q: I have a historical scene plate of the Battle of Bunker Hill. It is marked "R&M, Staffordshire, England."

A: I would like to know how old this is and what it would sell for.

A: Your plate was imported from England by Rowland and Marsellus (New York) in the early 1900s. It is believed that these plates were made by British Anchor Pottery. They currently are selling for $65 to $75.

Q: I have seen Blue Willow china priced at a wide range of prices. Can you explain why there is such a variety of prices?

A: The original pattern is an Oriental scene of a willow tree, a pagoda, a bridge and two lovers fleeing from the girl's father. It was first introduced by Thomas Minton about 1780 in Stoke, England.

The prices depend on the vintage, quality and maker's name. For example, a late 18th century Minton plate would sell for at least $100; a 20th century Japanese version would go for about $5.

If you are going to collect Willow ware you should visit your local library and learn as much as you can about some of the several hundred companies that made Willow ware.

Sewing Machines

One hundred years ago almost every home had a treadle-powered sewing machine. Over 100 factories were producing more than 5,000 machines annually. It is logical that many of them are still in existence.

The first U.S. patent for a sewing machine was awarded to Elias Howe Jr. in 1846. Five years later, Isaac Singer was granted a patent on a similar device. Howe sued Singer and was awarded royalties on Singer's machines. By 1876, Singer was producing almost two million machines a year.

The price on antique machines today is in direct proportion to the number manufactured over the years. Some are almost priceless. Singers made after 1875 are plentiful and can be had for less than $100. Some unusual models may sell for a little more.

There are a few rare brands like the Lathrop that probably would sell for over $5,000. Other high-priced brands are the Ladd and Webster, the Sloat and the Quaker City.

Send your inquiries about antiques with picture(s), a detailed description, a stamped, self-addressed envelope and $1 per item to James G. McCollam, P.O. Box 1087, Notre Dame, IN 46556. All questions will be answered but published pictures cannot be returned.

McCollam is a member of the Antique Appraisers Association of America.

how to eat, watch TV and stitch at the same time," Halloran laughed.

While things like cross-stitching are traditionally thought of as a "woman's" craft, Halloran said that men may secretly enjoy it, too.

Once, she said, she and her husband were traveling in the car, and he suddenly pulled over. "You drive. I want to cross-stitch," he said. "I'm tired of watching you do that. I can do it, too."

Later, she said, she woke up in the middle of the night in their hotel room to find him up cross-stitching. He later challenged her to a "crossstitching contest." He picked out a pattern and completed it, Halloran said, with the back looking exactly like the front.

If the back looks like the front of a finished cross-stitch, Halloran explained, it shows that the stitcher didn't take any short cuts.

Since then, she added, her husband hasn't really done any other cross-stitching, but she thinks it's something all men should try once.

"When I come home after working all day, I'm so tired and nervous," she said. "Then I sit down and start cross-stitching, and it relaxes me. It's therapeutic. I become the person that I wanted to be all day."

Use color and pattern to fill up extra space

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: The living room in our house is a lot larger than the one we had. In fact, one side has almost no furniture. We're saving for a baby grand to put there, but that's going to take a couple of years. What can we do to fill the space in the meantime?—M.D.

A: Use color and pattern to camouflage its emptiness: Print wall covering will look warmer and busier than a plain painted wall, hang an arrangement of pictures or introduce a collection of large green plants.

You also might scout your bedroom and dining room for a few odd pieces that might pull together into an attractive grouping, say, a bedside table or spare chest, even an area rug to help warm up the open space.

New York designer Deborah Mallow creates just such a comely arrangement in her own living room, as you can see in the photo we show here. Of course, Mallow has an advantage—she designs the wall covering and fabric (but you can have them, too, since her designs are readily available across the country.) There are a number of other ideas here worth stealing to fill your space:

•The small tray table, used as a cocktail table, makes this a cohesive secondary seating arrangement.

•The patterned area rug, used over wall-to-wall carpeting, serves as a visual anchor for the grouping.

•The tall ficus tree also adds visual heft; every room, remember, needs some vertical elements, too.

Clever woman that she is, Mallow also has pulled off a bit of derring-do with her wall-covering border that's too good to miss: Notice how she has created a cornice effect over the wide window simply by extending the border over a plain wood frame that has been cut to the exact depth and mounted on the wall.

Q: This fall we stayed at a delightful old bed-and-breakfast place in the country. Our bedroom had sponge-painted walls, and I'd love to copy the effect in a hallway at home. Can you tell me how?—K.P.

A: I can tell now that I've asked a real expert, Katrina Norfleet of the National Paint and Coatings Association in Washington, D.C. Katrina points out that sponging is a versatile technique that requires at least two coats of paint, preferably in different but compatible colors. The first color is used as a base coat; the second is then sponged over it.

Here's how:

•Apply the base coat to a clean wall (if it has never been painted, apply a primer coat.) Let it dry completely.

•Use a sponge—either real or synthetic—to dab on the second color. Use a light touch and small amounts of paint at a time to avoid drips.

Katrina adds: "Remember, irregularities in the design surface are what give your handiwork the varied appearance you want. Touch-ups and alterations can be made at any time by reapplying additional paint with the sponge."

I would add: For more information on specialty painting techniques, contact the NCPA: 1500 Rhode Island Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005. The phone number is (202) 462-6272.

Q: Never one to resist a bargain, I bought an entire bolt of striped mattress ticking someone had donated to a charity auction. Now what do I do with it?—Pinch-Penny

A: Decorate everything in sight. Ticking is too attractive to be kept under covers, literally. And it's as durable as it is fresh and cheery-looking.

But don't take my word alone: Famed New York designer Van Day Truex once made history by decorating his two-room apartment entirely in black-and-white pin-striped denim, 150 yards of it, covering every chair, every window and, no surprise, every bed.

It was the kind of "Peasant Chic" that knocked 'em dead in Paris—the late Truex studied there at the Parsons school, of which he later became president.

Even later, he was the director of design at Tiffany's, where he also made news with his pleasant Peasant designs: humble strawberry baskets remade in sterling and a Baccarat crystal decanter shaped like a plain old Bordeaux bottle. It has been known ever since as "Van ordinaire," and you can still see at the Museum of Modern Art.

So if ticking ordinaire was good enough for Van Day Truex, you should love the results.

Rose Bennett Gilbert is the author of five books on interior design, associate editor of Country Decorating and a contributing writer to other publications in the field.

Waitress April Shelton rushes to deliver a meal to a hungry diner

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Restaurant rating

Readers are asked to name favorite eateries

You be the judge. Do you have a secret local eatery you're dying to tell others about? Now's your chance.

We're asking our readers to help us spotlight their favorite dining spots in the Northville/Novi area by participating in our First Annual Northville Record and Novi News Restaurant Poll.

We're also asking you to keep it local. Only restaurants in the Northville/Novi area are eligible in the contest.

Tell us where you go to enjoy a leisurely breakfast when you don't feel like cracking eggs and squeezing oranges. Let us know which eatery you think serves the juiciest, most tantalizing burgers and steaks.

And where do you head when you're craving a sinful, irresistible dessert? Which local eatery serves the most mouthwatering pizza you've ever tasted? What's your choice for a quick lunch? We want to know.

So put down your forks — just for a moment — and pick up a pen to let others know what your favorite local restaurant is best at serving. It may involve a little gastronomical research, but hey, somebody's gotta do it, right? (It'll give you the perfect excuse to cheat on that dreaded New Year's diet).

Categories in our poll include best overall restaurant, best service, best breakfast restaurant, best sandwiches, best desserts, best atmosphere, best pizza, best burgers, best seafood, best ethnic food, best fast food, best soups and best steak. There's also room for comments about the restaurants, in case you care to elaborate.

At right you'll find a restaurant poll entry form. Following are a few rules to keep in mind:

- 1. Only restaurants in the Northville/Novi area are eligible to be mentioned on your ballot. Each ballot must include your name, address and phone number. Ballots without this information will not be included in the poll.

- 2. Only ballots clipped from the newspaper will be accepted. Photocopied ballots will not be considered. These restrictions will help us avoid ballot-box stuffing.

- Upon completing the entry form, mail it by Feb. 1 to: Northville Record/Novi News, 104 W. Main St., Northville, MI 48167, Attention: Restaurant Poll.

- If you prefer, restaurant poll entry forms also may be dropped off at the newspaper office.

When all the ballots are in, we'll compile the results of the poll and publish them in the Feb. 22 edition of the Northville Record and the Novi News.

In case you misplace this edition of the newspaper, entry forms also will be published in subsequent issues.

One ballot will be selected at random and the winner will receive dinner for four at one of the Northville/Novi restaurants included in the poll.

If you have any questions about the poll, don't hesitate to call us at 349-1700.

We're waiting to hear from you. Let the eating begin.

Volunteers

Fenrich aids local groups

By DOROTHY NASH

Did you know that you can live in one community and be enthusiastically active in the civic affairs of some place miles away? Impossible? Crazy? No. Dianne Fenrich is a volunteer case in point.

She keeps house in Canton Township — four children ages from 24 to 15 — and she works in Twelve Oaks Mall as manager of a women's specialty shop. And it's this business connection that makes her eligible to volunteer in Novi affairs.

For about five years Fenrich has been involving herself more and more.

She is a member of Rotary Club, attending its regular meetings and helping raise money for its causes by selling raffle tickets for classic cars on display at the Civic Center.

She is a booster of the Michigan 50's Festival. This year she will have the job of coordinating all of the restaurants.

And in 1989 she was president of the Novi Chamber of Commerce.

"I'm only the second female to be president," Fenrich said.

The one-term job meant that she was "the key person who makes sure everything runs well." She'd phone in to the offices on Novi Road once a week "to find out whether there were problems" and what the agenda was going to be like for the semi-monthly dinner meetings of the 12-member board.

Before Fenrich was president, she was vice-president, and that put her in charge of speakers for the monthly luncheon meetings of the general Chamber of Commerce, which about 100 persons attend.

As president she, of course, presided over both meetings.

Why does Dianne Fenrich give up so much of her time for the Novi business community? Her answer is that "It's fun. It's a sense of fulfillment," and she added, "I've met a lot of nice people."

Resident designs unique ornament

By BRENDA DOOLEY

A new year has begun, but the spirit of Christmas hasn't been forgotten.

Northville artist Prudy Vannier recently displayed a beautifully-crafted tin heart tree ornament in the 13th annual "Trees of Christmas" exhibit at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History.

Vannier is a member of the Society of Decorative Painters, whose members have created ornaments for the Smithsonian Christmas displays four times in the last six years.

The Northville resident is one of only 335 society members whose tin heart tree ornament graced a 12-foot tree, part of the twelve "Trees of Christmas" exhibit, produced by the Smithsonian's Office of Horticulture and the museum's office of exhibits. The display continued through Jan. 3.

Woman's Club to meet

Helen Garber is the featured guest at the Northville Woman's Club meeting this Friday (Jan. 5) at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Garber will recite "A Bit of Verse" during the gathering. The meeting begins at 1:30 p.m. It is also guest day for members.

Garden Club to meet

Betty McMath, Michigan Division Conservation Chairperson, will address members of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association on Monday, Jan. 8. The meeting begins at noon.

Hostess is Joan Andersen. Social chairpersons are Carole DeSantis, Molly Manley, Evelyn Harper, Dorothy Hartshorne and Kathleen Mitchell.

AAUW plans January meeting

Members of the Northville-Nowi Branch of the American Association of University Women will usher in the new year with a meeting on Jan. 9 at 7:30 p.m. at Winchester School.

Guest speaker is Lisa Kapp of the Department of Natural Resources. She will discuss "Recycling: It Begins With You."

Nancy Miller marries Daniel Madaj

Nancy Elizabeth Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce E. Miller of Northville, and Daniel David Madaj, son of Mrs. John Bilobran of Troy and Mrs. Edwin Madaj of Lake Havasu City, Ariz., were married on Sept. 30.

The traditional ceremony took place at 5 p.m. in the Unity of Livonia Church with the Rev. Eugene Sorensen officiating. Music was provided by a harpist and flutist.

The bride's three-year-old niece, Allison Miller, served as flower girl. Allison is the daughter of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Blair E. Miller, formerly of Northville and now of Suttons Bay.

Escorted down the aisle by her father, the bride wore an off-the-shoulder white satin floor-length gown. The sweetheart neckline was complemented by a delicate gold heirloom necklace containing amethysts and pearls. The fitted satin bodice was overlaid with white lace embroidery studded with seed pearls and crystals. The bride's headpiece was a half-wreath of small white orchids and her bouquet was composed of white orchids, white roses and white stephanotis.

Matron of honor was the bride's mother, Mrs. Bruce Miller. She wore a floor-length gown of pale peach crepe and a jacket of delicate French lace. Her jacket's neckline and hem were outlined in seed pearls. Her bouquet was composed of white roses. The groom's mother wore a pale aqua tea-length gown of silk and carried a corsage of white roses.

Best man was the Rev. Michael

Madaj of Grand Blanc. Blair E. Miller, the bride's brother, served as chief groomsmen. The other groomsmen were Edwin Madaj of Annandale, Va., and David Madaj of

Ann Arbor. The groom, best man, groomsmen and father of the bride all wore traditional black tuxedos with boutonnières of red roses.

The lighting of the unity candles was a highlight of the wedding. Each guest was given a candle and, at the end of the ceremony, the flame from the central altar candle was passed from the bride and groom to each guest, so that finally the sanctuary was totally illuminated by the light of more than 100 candles.

A dinner dance at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial overlooking Lake St. Clair followed the wedding. The Alger Mansion was gaily decorated with large clusters of jewel-toned balloons — at the doorways, in the halls, and on the dinner tables. Decorations and flowers were designed by Silk and Morgan.

The bride is a graduate of Grosse Pointe South and the University of Michigan. She works as a family therapist at the Huron Oaks Adolescent Chemical Dependency Unit, in the Catherine MacAuley Health Center, in Ann Arbor.

The groom is a graduate of Fitzgerald High School in Warren and the University of Michigan. He is administrative assistant in the university's program in linguistics.

The newlyweds honeymooned in California, primarily in Big Sur and San Francisco. They now reside in Northville Township.

Host families sought

Local families are encouraged to learn about foreign cultures by welcoming students from other countries into their homes.

Families are currently needed to host high school exchange students from Italy, Spain, Germany and Brazil.

The students — male and female — will be arriving in January and will remain until the end of June.

The sponsoring organization, American Institute for Foreign Studies (AIFS), offers scholarships for foreign travel and/or study to families that provide housing for AIFS students.

For more information call the AIFS local representative, Lynne Levenbach, at 453-8562.

The Northville Record

Tony Briningstool: the ideal student-athlete

Former Northville football star excels on the field, in the class

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

*'Good things happen to those who wait.'
'Work hard, keep your mouth shut and good things will happen'*

These are just a few of the pet phrases Michigan State football coach George Perles preaches to his players. They may be a little corny and old fashioned but many of his Spartans are listening.

A prime example is Northville's own Tony Briningstool, who has emerged this season as a force on the football field as well as the classroom during his two-plus years in East Lansing. He is a model citizen — a real student athlete. The kind of college football player every coach dreams of having. But according to Briningstool, it hasn't been easy and it continues to be a challenge.

"This year I have really felt the pinch with my time," Briningstool admitted. "School and football takes up all of my time, so it's been tough. But this has all been a great experience — it's definitely been worth it."

Briningstool left Northville High as a blue-chip All-State linebacker — maybe the best defensive player ever to wear the Mustang uniform. At 6-foot-5, 220-pounds, he was a highly sought-after prospect.

After being redshirted his freshman season — the year Michigan State won the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl — he saw plenty of action on the special teams the following season. Briningstool was a top candidate for a starting outside linebacker spot heading into practice last spring when a nagging shoulder injury required surgery. He came back strong during summer practice but lost the position to Dixon Edwards.

Despite that, the 1989 season has been very rewarding. As the top back-up to All-American linebacker Percy Snow, Briningstool had made some waves both as a special teamer and as a regular defensive player. He saw action in all 12 games for the 8-4 Spartans, with one start. His regular season statistics include 20 solo tackles, 12 assists, one sack and two broken up passes.

But that was only half of the story.

Earlier this month, Briningstool was named to the All-Big Ten Academic Team. He is midway through the pre-med program at MSU, sports a 3.38 grade point average and will apply to med school next year. Last spring, he ranked among the Top-50 on the Michigan State Athletic Department Honor Roll.

"Overall I feel very good about this season," Tony said. "I've accomplished a lot and I've learned a lot. It was a building year for me and the big thing was, I got an opportunity to get into the line-up as a linebacker with the game on the line.

"It felt like I was in high school again — the thrill of being in a big game. I just tried to make the most of my opportunity."

The highlight of the campaign came on Nov. 14 when Briningstool was inserted into the starting line-up for the first time against Northwestern. He replaced outside linebacker Carlos Jenkins, who was nursing an injured ankle.

"I practiced all week with the first team, so I knew I would be starting, but it was still a thrill," he recalled. "I felt very prepared. I went in there and tried to play the way I know I can. I said to myself, 'Tony, this is it.'"

With that in mind, Briningstool responded with nine tackles and two pass deflections and was named the MSU Defensive Player of the Week. Ironically, in the first series against the Wildcats, Tony suffered a broken finger but played the rest of the game. He had minor surgery on the finger Nov. 28 and was 100 percent for MSU's 33-13 win over Hawaii on Christmas Day in the Aloha Bowl.

"The coaches moved me to middle linebacker from the outside midway through the season to back up Percy, but when Carlos got hurt against Minnesota, I went back in at outside linebacker," he explained. "I was pretty nervous, but Carlos just told me to go out and play — and I did."

"I'm not sure where (the coaches) are looking for me to play next year but I feel good that they are confident enough in me. They know I can handle either position."

It is rumored that for the 1990 season, Jenkins will be moved into the middle to fill the void for the graduated Snow, and that Briningstool, in turn, will take over Jenkins' old spot. One thing is for sure — barring injury, Briningstool will be a key cog in a Spartan defense that ranks among the best in the country year in and year out.

Briningstool started his college career with number 54 on his back, but it was changed to 84 after the second game this season so he'd be eligible to catch a pass on the point-after attempt.

"Some teams would put 10 guys on the line when we lined up for an extra point because I wasn't eligible to catch a pass," Briningstool explained. "After the Miami of Florida game, coach (Norm) Parker asked me if I'd switch my number and I was all for it."

"Next year I'm going to switch again, though. With (senior fullback) Steve Montgomery graduating, I'm going to get 43 — which was my number in high school. I'm excited about it."

Spare time is a rare commodity, a career-ending injury is always a possibility and the pressure to succeed at the major college level can be stifling. But for Tony Briningstool, life as a student-athlete has been rewarding.

"I can't believe all the things I've done and all the places I've been since I came to Michigan State," he said prior to the Aloha Bowl trip.

"I've been to the Rose Bowl, the Gator Bowl and now I get to go to Hawaii. I've never been there before."

"This whole experience is a dream come true. And it's all the result of doing my favorite thing — playing football."

Here is a look at the Northville volleyball jerseys, and the numbers, in question

Spikers' jerseys ruled illegal; Colligan takes case to MHSAA

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

When the Northville volleyball squad opened the 1989-90 season at Novi on Dec. 18, Mustang Coach Paul Osborn and his squad got a big surprise.

Just prior to the start of the match, the game referee informed the Northville contingent that their jerseys were illegal and that a one-point penalty would be assessed. There really wasn't anything wrong with the Mustangs' brand new jerseys — the problem was with the numbers on the jerseys.

"According to the ref's interpretation of the rules, our numbers were illegal," Osborn reported.

The 'soccer-style' numbers on the Northville uniforms are not solid, and that's what the referee objected to.

"The rule book states that the numbers must be four inches tall on the front of the jersey, six inches on the back, and must be Arabic numbers," Osborn explained. "The size of the numbers wasn't the problem. (The referee) said they were illegal because the numbers weren't solid."

As a result, the Mustangs started game one against the Wildcats down 1-0. Despite the handicap, Northville won the match 15-6, 15-10.

Northville Athletic Director Dennis Colligan contacted the Michigan High School Athletic Association (MHSAA) after the episode and they are looking into the situation.

"I'm sure this will be resolved

"I've read the rule and I can see how the referee interpreted that the numbers are borderline, but as far as being deceptive, or giving our team an unfair advantage — I just can't see it. They are sharp looking jerseys, but there is no deception. They are clear and legible."

— Dennis Colligan
Northville Athletic Director

soon," Osborn said, "but I think this whole thing is ridiculous."

According to Colligan, he sent an example of the number style to the MHSAA along with an explanation, but hasn't received a ruling yet.

"They are going to send me the official ruling and we'll abide by it," he said. "I've read the rule and I can see how the referee interpreted that the numbers are borderline, but as far as being deceptive, or giving our team an unfair advantage — I just can't see it. They are sharp looking jerseys, but there is no deception. They are clear and legible."

Colligan asked the state for permission to deviate from the rules for this season. If his request is turned down, he plans to send the jerseys back to a silk screener and have the numbers filled in. If that doesn't work, new jerseys will have to be purchased.

"We will not start every match down 1-0 because it's not fair to the girls," Colligan pointed out. "It's not that Novi complained or anything — the official made his interpretation and we respected his decision. It all comes down to the interpretation of the rule and obviously we interpreted it differently."

"We sat down and designed the jerseys and if they tell us they are wrong, then we are wrong."

Lifetime hunting license now available

Under a law passed last year, Michigan residents can purchase lifetime hunting and fishing licenses for themselves or other sports enthusiasts.

The lifetime license originated in House legislation that authorized the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to sell a lifetime fishing license for $220 and a lifetime firearm deer license for $285.

Other permits range from $220 for a small-game license to the sports-persons license at $1,000. The new permits will be valid through the remainder of the license-holder's life, regardless of whether fees increase or the licensee moves out of state.

Recently, House lawmakers approved a bill that would expand the state's lifetime hunting and fishing license. The bill would authorize the DNR to sell a new comprehensive lifetime hunting and fishing license at $1,025, adding the resident license for small game, firearm and bow-and-arrow deer hunting, trout and salmon angling, bear hunting and fur harvesting, and the waterfowl hunting stamp, for an additional $25. The concept for the comprehensive license came from hunters and anglers who suggested that the DNR tack on the various licenses for an additional fee.

Proceeds from the sale of the lifetime licenses will be placed in a special Game and Fish Lifetime License Trust Fund. For each license sold, an amount equal to the current price of the corresponding annual license will be transferred annually from the license fund to the DNR's Game and Fish Protection Fund, to support wildlife and fisheries projects.

House lawmakers maintain that the new license would offer even greater convenience and savings to Michigan sportspeople. At the same time, the state will receive a direct and long-lasting revenue commitment each year to continue DNR wildlife and fisheries programs.

To receive the current lifetime license, applicants must complete an application form, available from any

DNR office or the state's 2,400 license agents, and submit it with a check or money order for the appropriate amount to the DNR, along with at least two pieces of identification to prove residency. Upon verification of an applicant's Michigan residency, a lifetime license certificate will be mailed to each qualified applicant.

For those purchasing a lifetime license as a gift, a certificate announcing the gift will be mailed by the DNR to either the donor or the recipient. The donor may indicate a preference on the application form.

For more information about the Michigan Lifetime License, write the DNR's Administrative Services Division, License Control, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909, or call (517) 373-1204.

Wild animal pet permits discontinued

Following are actions taken by the Michigan Natural Resources Commission (NRC) during its monthly meeting for December in Lansing.

Game Breeder Commission Order: Michigan's game breeder administrative rules were consolidated into one order, with one major rule change:

• Effective January 1, a special license or permit from the state will no longer be required of anyone who buys and possesses 12 or fewer pheasants or quail from a licensed game breeder, on the condition the birds will be not bred or sold.

The rule change primarily benefits individuals or groups who commonly use these birds in training dogs to hunt, and not for breeding or selling purposes.

Pet Permits for Possessing Wild Animals Discontinued: Permits to take animals from the wild as pets will no longer be issued in Michigan, effective January 1.

Persons currently in possession of this annual permit, issued by the DNR and valid for the calendar year, will be notified of this action by December 31.

Current permit holders will have until March 1, 1990 to either return the animal to the wild or, under a special clause, be permitted to a one-time-only opportunity to apply for a state game breeder's license or a rehabilitation permit to keep the animal

Two changes to an NRC order protecting muskellunge and northern pike were adopted. The changes, an earlier season opener and the addition of four lakes to those on which muskellunge and northern pike are already protected, will encourage growth of these species and protect them from winter harvest.

The changes, effective April 1, 1990 through March 31, 1995, are:

1. The season opener for taking these fish has been altered from May 15 to the last Saturday in April — the November 30 closure remains unchanged. The date was adjusted to coincide with the opener of the regular Lower Peninsula season for muskie and northern pike—that season runs through March 15.

2. The four new lakes include: Thornapple Lake, Barry County; Eagle Lake, Kalamazoo County; Hudson Lake, Lenawee County; and Bankson Lake in Van Buren County. The six existing lakes remain: Austin, West and Crooked lakes, Kalamazoo County; Big Star Lake, Lake County; and Brownwood and Round lakes in Van Buren County.

Second Bow and Arrow Deer License: The NRC adopted action that allows a person to purchase, statewide, a second bow and arrow deer license, in compliance with an amendment to the Wildlife Conservation Act of 1988.

The legislation, signed by Governor James J.

Blanchard on Nov. 9, allows Upper Peninsula hunters to purchase the second license, which was already available to Lower Peninsula hunters.

As in the Lower Peninsula, the NCR limited a deer taken under authority of the second archery license to be a male deer with antlers extending three inches or more above the skull.

Real Estate Matters: The Real Estate Division staff reported the DNR purchase of 330.72 acres of recreational land in southern Michigan, which includes 1,470 feet of water frontage — 40 feet on Lake Michigan and 1,430 feet on Belleville Lake — at a cost of $851,600.

Forest and Mineral Resource Development Fund: The Commission authorized the holding of public hearings for the promulgation of administrative rules for a state Forest and Mineral Resource Development Fund. Act 188, P.A. 1988, established a Forest and Mineral Resource Development Fund Board to promulgate the rules for a grant and loan program to stimulate the economy and provide new jobs through new technologies and innovative marketing strategies in the minerals and mining and forestry and forest products industries.

The hearings will be scheduled by the DNR Forest Management and Geological Survey divisions.

Four hunting fatalities reported in Michigan

A decline in hunting accidents during the 1989 firearm deer season indicates the continuance of a downward trend in deer hunting mishaps in Michigan since the late 1970s, according to preliminary figures from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

Four fatalities and 29 injuries were reported during the Nov. 15-30 season, compared to 1988 when 29 hunters were shot, three fatally. Careless handling of firearms remained the major cause of the accidents.

Overall, 13 of the 29 shootings during the 16-day season were self-inflicted; another seven accidents were the fault of hunters in the victim's hunting party.

DNR officials said two hunter safety laws have contributed to a 60 percent drop in hunting accidents in Michigan since 1977 — the hunter orange law in 1977, requiring hunters to wear a blaze orange cap or vest; and implementation of mandatory hunter safety training in 1971, for first-time hunters ages 12-16 (amended recently to cover those born since Jan. 1, 1960).

"With 725,000 hunters afield, these figures are remarkably low and speak well of increased safety awareness among our hunters," said DNR Director David Hales.

The 29 firearm deer accidents are detailed as:

• Careless handling of firearm: 5 injuries, 1 fatal
• Victim mistaken for game: 4 injuries, 1 fatal
• Victim out of sight of shooter: 3

injuries

• Loaded gun in motor vehicle: 3

injuries

• Trigger caught on object: 2

• Victim shot by hunter turning to shoot on game: 2 injuries

• Victim stumbled and fell: 2 injuries

• Victim in line of fire: 2 injuries—

Gun fell from insecure rest: 2 injuries

• Loading/unloading weapon: 1 injury

• Ricochet: 1 injury.

The best team?

Neil Geoghegan

Outgoing Michigan football coach Bo Schembechler raised the ire of a lot of people — including Sports Illustrated — with his comment about the 'best team winning' when his Wolverines escaped Spartan Stadium last fall with a 10-7 win over Michigan State.

Many people can't comprehend why a comment like that — after an obviously close game between two evenly-balanced teams — is really flawed thinking. In addition, some would say it's nothing more than an example of being a poor winner. A 56-0 game is a prime example of superiority, but if the two teams met again, the outcome could be different.

Take, for example, the Pittsburgh Steelers, who were embarrassed by the Cleveland Browns earlier this season by a score somewhere in the area of 56-0. The Steelers were actually outscored 92-10 in their first two games of the season but came back to beat the Browns a couple months later and are now in the playoffs. Which is the best team, Pittsburgh or Cleveland?

That's why I get a little disturbed when people try to read too much into a single game. After Novi clobbered Northville 55-41 in boys' basketball action last month, the overwhelming sentiment was that the Wildcats can now cruise to the KVC title while the Mustangs struggle toward another losing season. I don't buy it.

I do know that on Dec. 19, Novi played better than Northville. Does that mean the best team won? Maybe, but I have a feeling if these two teams hooked up again, it would be much closer. Mustang Coach Omar Harrison is the first to admit that his team had their worst outing of the season. His starting guards combined to score one point and his team shot just 31 percent from the floor.

Wildcat mentor Bob Shoemaker saw his team blister the nets in the first half (.760 shooting percentage) but then struggle in the second. After building what looked like an insurmountable 21-point lead, the 'Cats scored just four points in the third quarter. Novi sure wasn't the best team during that eight-minute span.

The big margin proved too much for the cold-shooting Mustangs to overcome. A confused Harrison was left mumbling questions. Could this be the same team that wiped out a solid Brighton squad by 20 points four days earlier? "I can't figure out what happened tonight," he said.

"Northville barely gets past South Lyon, Brighton clobbers South Lyon and then Northville clobbers Brighton," Shoemaker said. "It just shows that you can't predict games that way. There are many variables — like where the game is being played and which team is playing well — that are factors. Against Northville, we had a lot going for us — we were home and we had a hot first half."

Despite what appeared as a lopsided win for Novi, the two teams are actually very comparable in areas like size and talent. The 'Cats have a star in forward Mark Fisher, who is averaging near 25 points an outing, but the Mustangs have a more balanced attack with solid players like Scott Meredith, Joe Kaley and Mike Lang — who are combining to average nearly 40 points a game.

When the game ended and Shoemaker made his way to the locker room, he was grateful for the win but wasn't making any comments about the best team winning. That kind of talk will invariably come back to haunt you — unless you retire first.

First 'Women in Sports Award' given

Carol Seavoy of L'Anse, a pioneer in the development of girls interscholastic athletic programs, has been named the recipient of the first Women In Sports Leadership Award by the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

The Women In Sports Leadership Award will be presented annually by the MHSAA's Representative Council, signifying the honoree's major contributions to encouraging and preparing women for positions as athletic administrators, coaches and officials. The award will be presented at the Women In Sports Leadership Conference, Jan. 28-29 in Lansing.

"The Women In Sports Leadership Award will provide additional recognition for those individuals who have been instrumental in the development of athletic opportunities for females," said John E. 'Jack'

Roberts, executive director of the MHSAA. "There are a number of deserving individuals who will be nominated for this honor on an annual basis, and they will be the role models that will encourage women to become more involved in athletics."

"Carol Seavoy's record as a coach and administrator makes her an ideal choice for the first Women In Sports Leadership Award," said Suzanne Martin, assistant director of the MHSAA and staff liaison to the Athletic Equity Committee, which screened candidates for the award. "Like many other people around the state, she has played a major role in elevating our girls programs to the status they enjoy today."

Since 1971, Seavoy has been a faculty member at L'Anse High School, where she has coached basketball, cheerleaders, gymnastics, track and volleyball. She is credited with initiating the basketball, track and volleyball programs at the school. Her 1975 track team won the Upper Peninsula Class C title. She is presently a physical education teacher, co-athletic director, girls basketball and volleyball coach at L'Anse.

Seavoy is a graduate of Baraga High School, where she was graduated with honors in 1950. She attended the University of Michigan, where she earned her B.S. degree in education in 1954. In 1971, Seavoy received her M.A. in education from Northern Michigan University.

Although organized team sports did not exist while Seavoy was in high school or college, she played fast-pitch softball with a community team in Baraga while in high school, and was active in club and intramural sports at Michigan. In fact, as a student teacher at Ann Arbor University High, she coached girls basketball.

Seavoy has taught in the Alpena, Walled Lake, Baraga and L'Anse school systems since her graduation from Michigan. She has also been a registered MHSAA gymnastics judge and served on Association committees in track and gymnastics.

CRITTER

Chatter

The National Wildlife Federation estimates over 140 million people feed or watch birds. That makes bird watching the nation's second most popular passive recreational hobby, second only to gardening.

Critter Country was formed to serve the backyard wildlife enthusiast. We promote conservation and appreciation of our natural resources and assist in developing backyard wildlife habitat, especially for birds, which are an indicator of environmental quality.

Critter Country is a retail/service store that sells wild bird supplies (seed, feeders, houses, baths, etc.) and nature oriented gifts (field guides, binoculars, wildlife art and crafts). Our staff delivers supplies and services to the customer, as well as perform resource analysis, habitat enhancement and landscape design to benefit wildlife.

MEET OUR STAFF

Kevin D. Clark, President

Mr. Clark is the founder and President of Critter Control Inc., the nation's leading urban wildlife management company. He has completed Cornell University's Lab of Ornithology (Bird Biology) course, and was nominated by Venture Magazine for "Entrepreneur of the Year" in 1987 and 1988.

Bernard F. Halla, Vice President

"Bud" is the former Director of Fish and Game for Maryland's Department of Natural Resources. His life long interests and 30 years of experience in birding led to his forming "The Wild Bird Service," which is Critter Country's predecessor in interest.

Jane Madigan-Stein, Store Manager

Jane has a Bachelor's degree in Environmental Studies and Biology from St. Lawrence University and a Master's degree in Nature Resources from the University of Michigan. She has extensive experience in ecological modeling, plant identification and statistical analysis.

Bird Baths in Winter

Bird baths are especially important to birds in the wintertime. You can add warm water to your bird bath, or use a bird bath heater to keep the water free from ice. Heaters range in price from $14.95 to $39.95. We even carry a cedar framed bird bath with a built in heater for only $37.50. Be careful not to let ceramic baths crack from the ice.

Keeps your bird bath ice-free all winter long.

DID YOU KNOW

- That Burrowing Owls live in Prairie Dog town in abandoned underground holes? They have a unique method of protecting themselves - by putting cow manure outside their holes they mask their scent from predators.
- That most birds have a poorly developed sense of smell, so one can safely return a fledgling to the nest without fear of rejection by the adults?
- That if a hawk could read, he could read this newsletter across the length of a football field, or that an owl could read it on the darkest night with only the light of one candle?
- That in the embryo of numerous species of birds (and even in the adults of a few), there are actually claws at the far end of the wing?

GOOD NEWS FOR BIRDS
Many species of songbirds (including the mockingbird, cardinal, robin, house finch, golden-crowned kinglet, evening grosbeak, and swallow) are expanding their ranges, according to the National Wildlife Federation. Experts say much of the credit goes to the increase in the number of Americans who put out feeders during the winter.

Do your part in helping songbirds by setting up a winter feeding station.

DID YOU KNOW...

Fluorescent lights don't "burn" like incandescent lights. This gives them several advantages:

- They operate much more efficiently, and at cooler temperatures.
- A 40-watt fluorescent tube produces more than 2000 lumens, while a typical 40-watt incandescent produces around 450 lumens.
- The life-span of a fluorescent is determined by the number of times it is turned on and off, not how long it is in use.

We have fluorescent lights for any room in your house. Some are so easy to install all you have to do is plug them in. If you decide to wire your new lights, use a circuit tester to make sure the power is off or you could get a shocking surprise!

DID YOU KNOW...

A New hot water heater should be drained every two months the first year it's in use, then every six months throughout its use. This rids it of sediment which can build up and interfere with its efficiency.

TO DRAIN YOUR HEATER:

- Turn off electricity on electric models.
- Turn off the water supply at the shutoff valve, then attach a garden hose or place a bucket under the valve.
- Open the drain valve and let out water until the flow is clear.
- Close the drain valve and open the supply valve.

It takes only a few minutes and increases the efficiency and life-span of your water heater.
