Township will hold library election in May — Goss

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township voters will decide the fate of the proposed Haller Library in a May election, Supervisor Georgina Goss said last week.

"We're looking at early May," Goss said in a Jan. 5 interview. "The Clerk's department has advised me they need at least 60 days to set up an election, in order to give them plenty of time and in order to give us plenty of time to notify the residents and advise them of all the ramifications of the issue."

"Early May seems to be the best date."

Goss said the township Board of Trustees will meet this evening (Jan. 11) to discuss a May election date for the proposed $4.5 million library. The board will also attempt to determine what type of funding plan to put before the voters.

Goss mentioned a bond issuance and a declining millage as possible ballot proposals.

The township is hoping to build a 44,800 square foot library on nearly 72 acres on the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads. The property was donated by former township resident Frieda Haller in late September.

The township accepted the gift via letter of intent, which stipulated that a funding proposal be in place within a year of the announcement of the gift.

Other conditions of the donation include a construction start within two years of the gift announcement; naming the facility the "Haller Library"; establishing a memorial garden to house the remains of John and Frieda Haller; and dedicating a portion of the library to exhibit artifacts of John Haller's career.

In addition to the Jan. 11 meeting, the board will also meet Jan. 17 in a joint session with the school board and cabinet, officials from the City of Northville, and Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz (R-Northville). The main topic of discussion that evening will be the Haller Library, according to Goss.

She said the township will put together a grass roots campaign to try to sell voters on the need for the library.

"We feel that this is a question for the people to answer," she said. "We will give (the residents) all the information that we can and then they can make their decision."

Wet stuff

The weather has turned from delightful to frightful recently, and that has meant a lot of wet, slushy stuff to shovel around town. Above, Geoff Calkins, 3, with broom in hand, tries to clear off the ice from Joan Wadsworth's driveway. Karl Stockhausen, left, 8, and Tim Calkins, 5, lend a hand in the endeavor. Streets and sidewalks around town have been covered with ice in recent days.

Joint meeting scheduled for next week

By MIKE TYREE

City, township, and school district officials are scheduled to convene Jan. 17 in what has been termed "a landmark meeting" in Northville.

Dr. George Bell, superintendent of the Northville Public School District, also said Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz will attend the meeting, which will be held at the Old Village School Board Room at 7:30 p.m.

Bell said an agenda for the meeting is being prepared and would include such topics as the Haller Library proposal, the redeployment of city and township services currently housed at Cooke school, and the status of the impending county land sale between Five and Six Mile roads near Sheldon Road.

"Part of (the school district's) strategic plan directs me to enhance communication with other groups in the community," Bell said. "We'll sit down and discuss some of these issues."

Bell said the school board may give its endorsement of the township's plan to build a public library at a site on the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads.

"If it (Haller property) is the best

Singh proposes new development

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

While city officials are seeking proposals for the development of Cady Street from Center Street to Griswold Avenue, Singh Developers have proposed another retail development on Center, opposite their MainCentre project.

Singh vice president Michael Kahm said this week that his company has proposed the development of a four-story retail/commercial development on the east side of Center Street, on the present site of the company's leasing center. He said the proposal for the 29,000 square foot project, called CadyCen-tre, was submitted to the city's planning commission in December.

"It would be part of the overall Cady Corridor project," Kahm said of the proposal. The first floor would be devoted to retail shops while the upper floors would be available for office space. The company would also need to purchase parking credits from the city for the project. Kahm is scheduled to appear at the next planning commission meeting on Jan. 16 to explain the project in further detail.

"The design as far as the streetscape is concerned will be iden-

City looks to develop Cady Corridor

By STEVE KELLMAN

City officials continue to forge ahead with plans to develop Cady Street, and developers should soon have the opportunity to submit proposals on the development.

The city council met last week with members of the city's planning commission and downtown development authority (DDA), to review the DDA's draft of a request for proposals (RFP) for development of the Cady Corridor.

While city officials had originally considered presenting a detailed proposal to developers, the project gradually became a more general outline of the type of development the city would like to see in the area. While 12 preliminary concepts were reviewed by the city and five are included in the proposed RFP, the RFP suggests that developers use the designs for ideas, rather than as a formal basis for their own proposals.

According to Planning Consultant Don Wortman, about 40 percent of the land fronting Cady Street is owned by the city while an additional 40 percent is in the hands of a single owner like Northville Downs or the Northville Driving Club. This will make it easier for a potential developer to negotiate a large development in the area.

Studies done for the Ford Plant redevelopment and by companies like Trammel Crow of Novi have shown that there is a demand for further commercial development in the area, Wortman added.

The Cady Corridor development study has gone through several changes during its two-year review by the DDA, including a shift in commercial emphasis from Cady Street alone to both Cady and Main streets. "There was concern that shops oriented to Cady Street only could be in trouble," Wortman said. So the DDA specified in its RFP that the economic viability of Cady Street is at least partially dependent on Main Street traffic. To accommodate that, the DDA has asked that developers provide for pedestrian access from Main Street to any proposed development.

"Whatever is done on Cady Street should not detract from the Main Street area."

Planning Consultant

"Whatever is done on Cady Street should not detract from the Main Street area," Wortman added.

Wortman suggested that the final

RFP could be sent out in February, with designs due back in May or June.

According to Mayor Chris Johnson, there were several reasons for the original Cady Corridor study. "In simplistic terms, we started off with a couple major problems and a few major issues," he said. The major problem was a perceived shortage in parking spaces in the downtown

Meijer parking lot attracts attention

By MIKE TYREE

Criminal activity in and around the Meijer site at 20401 Haggerty has prompted some Northville Township officials to question the security presence at the popular 24-hour store.

"I could keep one officer working all year round at Meijer," said acting Township Police Chief Phillip Presnell. "It is one of our most active areas (for police calls)."

According to department records, township police responded to 402 calls to Meijer in 1989. Presnell said the calls included "at least" 110 larceny reports, and complaints ranging from fraud to suspicious vehicles to accidents and injuries.

In all, Presnell said the department had compiled a list of 25 assorted calls to Meijer in 1989.

Additionally, recent Meijer incidents reported in the police blotter of the Northville Record included purse-snatching, robbery, stolen auto parts, and the arrest of two men on concealed weapons charges.

The men, Detroit residents, were spotted by a township police officer as they cruised the store's parking lot late one evening with their vehicle lights off.

Presnell said full-time police presence may be needed at Meijer.

"We get good cooperation from the Meijer corporate security staff," he said. "(But) I'd like to see more law surveillance there."

"Are the parking lots safe? That's a good question," Presnell said.

Brian Breslin, vice president of public and consumer affairs at the Meijer corporate headquarters in Grand Rapids, thinks the local Meijer offers adequate security.

"The store is in a safe community," he said. "The people shopping there are solid individuals."

Willis named managing editor

Ann E. Willis has been named managing editor of The Northville Record/Novi News.

The appointment was announced by Philip Jerome, executive editor of Sliger/Livingston Publications which includes the Livingston County Press, Brighton Argus, Milford Times and South Lyon Herald in addition to The Northville Record and Novi News.

Willis replaces Jerome who served as managing editor of the two papers from 1984 to 1989.

A Northville resident, Willis graduated from The University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts degree in English literature in 1980.

She served as managing editor of The Adcrafter Magazine in Detroit from 1981-82 and then took a position with CBS radio in 1982. After working in national sales for CBS radio in Southfield, she moved to Chicago, Ill., where she was director of marketing and research for CBS radio.

After leaving CBS in 1984, Willis worked as a freelance writer in Chicago and Detroit in 1985-86.

She joined the staff of The Northville Record/Novi News in November 1986, working as a reporter covering the City of Novi and the Novi City Council.

Willis was promoted to the position of editor following the retirement of Jean Day in April 1988 and has held that position ever since.

In announcing the appointment, Jerome said that Willis has distinguished herself during her career with Sliger/Livingston Publications.

"As a reporter, Ann demonstrated drive and determination," said Jerome. "During the almost two years that she has served as editor, she has continued to demonstrate her belief in the type of community journalism practiced by the Northville Record and Novi News."

Sliger/Livingston Publications is a division of Suburban Communications Corporation which also owns the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and several other suburban newspaper chains in Michigan and Ohio.

Hearing set on reopening of Cooke

By MIKE TYREE

The Northville Public Schools Board of Education and cabinet will host a public hearing Jan. 15 at the high school auditorium to discuss next fall's reopening of Cooke Middle School.

Superintendent Dr. George Bell said the intent of the 7:30 p.m. meeting is to solicit questions and comments from residents concerned about such issues as the attendance area and staffing at Cooke.

"Our style is to do public hearings anytime we're going to do something that impacts the school community," Bell said. "It's our duty to help the board get perspectives on the educational and financial implications (of Cooke's reopening)."

Cooke was closed as a cost-cutting measure in 1984 in the face of dwindling student enrollment, but burgeoning student population figures today require the use of the facility, Bell said.

He said 850 students are now attending Meads Mill, and projections indicate that 930 students will be of middle school age next year.

The district hopes to house just over 450 students at each school next year, he said.

Renovations estimated at nearly $1 million are taking place at the school in anticipation of a fall reopening, he said.

Bell said there "aren't that many issues" confronting the Cooke plan. He said the principal's position has been posted and that approximately 60 applications have been received to date.

"The concerns (are) on who will attend Cooke and who will attend Mead's Middle School," he said. "We need to split the community in a way that makes sense."

Bell said some administrators feel that students residing north of Seven Mile should go to Cooke, with those south of Seven Mile studying at Meads Mill.

He said attendance decisions have not been made by the school district.

"I'll leave all questions open right now," he said. "We're not locked into anything and we're open for discussion."

Assistant Superintendent of Instructional Services Dr. Dolly McMaster said the public hearing would help address questions of equality at the two schools.

"Meads Mill has a very rich, diverse program for kids, with lots of opportunities for different kinds of electives," she said. "The same opportunities are going to be available at Cooke, there's no way we could be successful without them."

THE PREVIEW TECHNIQUE

Do you have apprehensions about taking your child to the dentist for his or her first checkup? Could that be one of the reasons why you haven't made that first important appointment?

Well, your child's first visit to the dentist does not have to be for a check-up. There's no reason why it can't be a social visit just to "get acquainted."

If your youngster hasn't been to the dentist yet, the next time you have an appointment take him along. Let him watch the dentist check your teeth, clean them, etc. There's no better way for a child to understand that dental care is important for your health and good looks.

Believe me, the worst first dental experience is an emergency visit for a toothache or accident-caused injury. Extensive treatment or repair on a first visit may set your child up for a chain of future needless anxieties. Don't avoid your child's first visit. The sooner your youngster creates a confident relationship with the dentist, the better. Start with a preview.

Developers look forward to city's Cady Street plan

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

While the city continues to fine-tune a request for development proposals (RFPs) for the Cady Corridor, several developers have expressed enthusiasm for the project, and the chance at building a commercial development in downtown Northville.

One developer currently building in Northville — Singh Development Co. of Birmingham — was represented at a recent city council meeting on the proposed RFP. Singh vice president Michael Kahm called the plan "ambitious" at that meeting, saying, "it does separate the men from the boys."

Kahm later said of the proposal, "it's an ambitious project, it's a large-scale project, and it's something that not every developer would be able to handle."

But Kahm's company is anxious to handle at least part of the project, having submitted a proposal to the city to develop a 29,000 square foot commercial building opposite their MainCentre development on Center Street (see related story).

As for the project as a whole, Kahm praised the city's decision to request proposals from developers rather than to present developers with a proposal of their own. "It seems like it's a well-thought-out plan," he said, "and I think that the way they're approaching it is a good one."

"You can only do what the market will let you do," he said. "Let the developer come up with specific plans and schemes, and that way you'll get a feel as to whether the market is ready for this kind of thing. Obviously we're interested in the results as well because we have a lot invested in downtown Northville, and we look forward to some company."

Kahm also referred to the Cady Corridor project as a "Trammell Crow-type of project," referring to the national development corporation with a local office in Novi. Trammell Crow was instrumental in the development of the Novi Town Center shopping plaza and other large developments in the city.

"I think that kind of development would be a terrific shot in the arm for Northville," Kahm said, "as it was in Novi."

Kahm said he had a specific reason for attending last week's city meeting on the Cady Corridor development. "My only concern was that the city was not turning its back on Center Street," he said. "Our project is trying to pull the downtown further down Center Street." Kahm saw the city's Cady Corridor proposal as compatible with his company's plans.

Other developers expressed similar enthusiasm about the city's proposal. "We'd be interested in looking at it," said Robert Weltman, executive vice president and director of brokerage operations for Farberman & Stein of Troy. "We've worked with Dearborn, Royal Oak, Hazel Park, and the city of Detroit, so we're well acquainted with representing local municipalities."

William Martin of First Martin Corporation in Ann Arbor has also expressed interest in the project, as has Michael Horowitz of Selective Group, Inc. of Farmington Hills. "We certainly like the area, and we certainly would be interested," Horowitz said.

The companies named in this article were among 10 listed by the city in a preliminary list of potential Cady Street developers.

area, he said. Any new development must provide for its own parking needs, and replace any parking lost during development. This policy is referred to as "no net loss" in the RFP.

The city is also working on a parking management plan for the entire downtown, Johnson said.

Johnson also praised the DDA's shift from a formal design to a more general request for proposals, saying that such a shift made it more likely that the city would end up with an economically-viable project. "We could draw to our heart's content," he said, "but if we didn't have something that was economically feasible, we'd never have anything more than pencils and papers and wishes."

When asked about the city's plans for financing the project, Johnson said that the amount of city financial participation in the project has not been determined.

"The RFP is developed kind of on the presumption that the developer has to pay his own way," said City Manager Steven Walters. For example, if increased water pressure or wider roads are required for the development, the developer would likely have to pay to have the water mains improved or the roads repaved. Otherwise, the developer would have to prove the need for public funding of the project, he said.

Some criticisms of the proposal were raised, including the "no-net loss" parking policy. "We need a net gain in parking," said commission member David Totten. "I don't think 'no net loss' is enough." Walters responded, "It's not the responsibility of a developer to solve a current shortage."

The RFP was also criticized for its lack of focus on the east half of the Cady Corridor, despite the fact that the Cady Corridor study area includes the land on either side of Cady from Center Street to Griswold Avenue. The five preliminary concepts ignore the area east of Mary Alexander Court.

Though the west side of the corridor was the one considered during preliminary designs, said city officials, the entire Cady Corridor is available for development proposals.

Despite the criticism, the RFP as a whole was widely praised, as were the DDA's efforts in developing it. The next step as far as the city is concerned is to finalize the proposal and send it to developers, 10 of which are mentioned in a preliminary list of potential developers at the end of the draft RFP.

"I think sending this out will tell us whether we're in the real world or whether we're off somewhere in outer space," Johnson said. "It's pretty close to being in a condition to go out."

CadyCentre planned

tical to MainCentre," Kahm said. The four-story MainCentre project currently under construction on the southwest corner of Main and Center streets calls for brick walls and sidewalks, wrought-iron railings, with balconies and bay windows overlooking Center Street.

The MainCentre development will have 27,000 square feet of space for retail shops on the first floor and offices on the second. The upper floors will house 74 apartments.

Goss discusses issues facing township in coming year

By MIKE TYREE

Georgina Goss was named Northville Township Supervisor in Dec 1986 and has presided over many major local government events. Goss, a republican, served as township clerk before taking the supervisor's position. The following is the result of a Jan. 5 interview about the year ahead conducted at township hall.

RECORD — Let's start out with the library, as it seems to be the biggest issue facing the township right now. What are the plans for the library?

GOSS — As you know, on Jan. 17 we will have a joint meeting with the Board of Education, the City of Northville and Northville Township that will be a landmark meeting. We will probably be able to air a number of issues that will help us move forward together to make sure that our community receives the library that they deserve. The Board of Trustees will be meeting Thursday night (Dec. 11), and Don DiComo, the proposed architect for the library, will be in attendance. He will make a presentation to the board and we'll make a decision on whether or not to accept his contract.

RECORD — Will anyone besides DiComo make a presentation that evening?

GOSS — Mr. DiComo will be the only presentation. At the same time, at that meeting, we will discuss methods of funding, alternative funding, for instance a bond issue or declining millage. We will have the accountant there to make a presentation. We will also discuss dates for an election.

In the final analysis, the residents of Northville Township will make the decision as to whether or not they choose to have a library.

RECORD — You said you will discuss dates for an election. What are the dates you're looking at?

GOSS — We're looking at early May. The clerk's department has advised me they need at least 60 days to set up an election, in order to give them plenty of time and in order to give us plenty of time to notify the residents and advise them of all the ramifications of the issue. Early May seems to be about the best date.

RECORD — What are some of the strategies you're going to use between now and May to try to pull this thing off? By a lot of accounts, it's going to be a tough task.

GOSS — I don't believe it will be a tough task. I believe the residents will support the library issue. I think it will be a library that will serve our children and ourselves long into the future. There will be community rooms, perhaps an auditorium... it will be a gathering place for the whole community.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss talks about the year ahead

Record/CHRIS BOYD

RECORD — What about some of the concerns city residents might feel — such as the idea that it should be located in the city because it has always been there. Why should it be in the township?

GOSS — It always has been located in the city. The city has been the central location. Demographics now show the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon will be the center of the Northville community in the future. The fact that the community is receiving the land as a donation is a plus to both the city and the township.

RECORD — What about the 44,800 square feet (donor Frieda Haller's letter of intent stipulated that the library must be that size)? Some, especially in the city, are saying it's too much. (They are saying) "we'll be paying for rooms to sit vacant." How would you answer those comments?

GOSS — I'm sure city residents are as interested as township residents in having a library that will suit their needs and their children's needs. I feel that with proper planning, a 44,000 square foot library is not too large. There will not be 44,000 square feet of books. It will be a library that has books, reading rooms, hopefully computer rooms, meeting rooms, an auditorium, and will meet many of the community's needs — not just going in and reading a book. It will be a total community library.

RECORD — What kind of structure are you going to put together to start selling the library? What comes after the meeting on Jan. 17?

GOSS — We will put together a grass roots campaign, meeting in neighborhoods and with as many residents as we can. We feel that this is a question for the people to answer. It is going on the ballot. We will give them all the information that we can and then they can make their decision.

RECORD — What about public hearings? Do you have anything planned where the public can come out and tell you what they want?

GOSS — I think our residents would like to have input all along — to come to a public hearing to state their reasons for or against the library and also to look at the plans and perhaps they can give us some insight to what they would like to see for their library.

RECORD — You don't think there is any room for negotiations with Mrs. Haller over the size of the library?

GOSS — Mrs. Haller was adamant on the size of the library. We did talk to her about decreasing the size. She was adamant that the Northville community needs a library of that size to fulfill their needs, not only now, but into the future. And she is absolutely right.

RECORD — Have you had a lot of communication with her?

GOSS — I have not.

RECORD — The idea of a public safety director versus a police chief in the township might develop into a big issue. What are your thoughts right now on those two concepts?

GOSS — I think we're fortunate to have acting chief (Phillip) Presnell in the position. It gives us the time to look at the position and to decide (if) we want a police chief or do we want a public safety director (that) would administer both the fire department and the police department. We are not talking about cross-training police and firemen, we are just looking at the possibility of the administration of both departments.

RECORD — Are you mainly looking for better communication or access from this branch to those departments? Is that one of the problems?

GOSS — I don't perceive a problem there. What we are looking at is — would that move better utilize funds. If we had one professional administrator at the top of both departments, would that be better utilization of funds? That's a comparison that will take some time. We'll have to put together some facts and figures and we are looking at that.

RECORD — Would a public safety director have any bearing on Chief (fire chief Robert) Toms' position?

GOSS — No. As long as Chief Toms cares to be an employee of Northville Township, he will be.

RECORD — How far have you progressed with the idea of a public safety director versus a police chief, and have all the board members been contacted about the idea?

GOSS — We have talked to each of the board members and have advised them that we are looking at that choice. The new treasurer, Betty Lennox, has been working with the township manager and will make a report to the board. She headed up the manager position study and that was very complete.

RECORD — Any early response from board members? Are any of them adamantly opposed to a public safety director, or opposed to hiring another police chief? What are the early reactions?

GOSS — There haven't been any adamant comments either way.

RECORD — But you're confident that the police department is in good shape?

GOSS — Let me give Phil (Presnell) an attaboy. Right now we have the opportunity of time because the acting chief is doing such a good job with the department.

RECORD — You are looking at consulting firms now, correct?

GOSS — The township manager is looking for bids from three consulting firms and if the board so chooses, they will do a job search.

RECORD — Do you feel an pressure for a timetable right now?

GOSS — As long as the department is running smoothly, we have the luxury of time to do a thorough study and make the best possible decision for the township.

Haller library, police department are upcoming issues

RECORD — What will the impending county land sale (930-plus acres off Sheldon between Five and Six Mile roads) mean to the township and have you heard anything about the sale recently?

GOSS — I hear the same things I've heard for 12 years. I hear they're very close to a decision, maybe in the next month or so. However, I think the major impact that development will have on the township is that an eyesore will be removed. The development that will be done out there will be of the highest quality. A golf course, mixed use residential, light industry, which will help our schools. . . .

RECORD — What kind of industry would be viable for that area?

GOSS — It would have to be light industry. Research and development would be optimum. It would be much like the industrial park that is right across the street (in Plymouth Township). The tax base will be increased, instead of being a drain on our resources with police and fire protection of empty buildings, there will be some revenue coming back in. I am disappointed that the sale could not have been consummated (in 1989) so that we could have it on the tax rolls for next year. That could have been a major producer of revenue for the school district and the Township of Northville. I am looking into whether or not we can put it on the tax rolls anyway, because it was being offered for sale.

RECORD — Recreation in the township. What's going on there? Is (a proposed mitigation site) Six Mile and Beck going to pan out?

GOSS — We are close to settlement and development of the Beck Road site. We are hopeful that there are going to be some adult softball fields there, and soccer fields there by the end of the year.

We feel that the Haller site will give us the ability to meet the needs of both city and township for many, many years.

RECORD — But it will be many, many years before any recreation can go on that site, won't it?

GOSS — Why can't we go in and do some soccer fields? I think we can.

RECORD — Some might say they want the library to be the first thing done. You've got two years to start construction and most of the impetus might be on the library. . . .

GOSS — I'm sure to construct the library would be our number one priority; however, that's not to say that the recreation commission could not be working concurrently to put in soccer fields.

RECORD — Back to Six Mile and Beck, what will the township's portion of the cost be, or is the developer looking at doing the whole thing?

GOSS — We are looking at the developer constructing the majority — clearing, grading, and constructing the majority of those fields. The remaining portion would be picked up by the recreation commission, and should be a minor expense.

RECORD — Has the township manager's position been filled to your satisfaction and taken the route you personally had hoped for as a member of the selection committee?

GOSS — Mr. Henningsen is doing an excellent job. The position is working well. The manager has been taking over the day-to-day operation of the township as spelled out by the selection committee. He has stepped into the position and because of his prior experience, there has been no real lag time and he's been able to make some immediate contributions. The manager position is one of the most important positions in township government. He fits right in, but is much busier than he ever anticipated, and might need some help soon.

RECORD — Meaning?

GOSS — Meaning, perhaps it's time that the township looked into either an assistant manager or an administrative assistant to the manager. With the growth, library, and solid waste issues, the manager's time is utilized.

RECORD — Do you anticipate something like that happening shortly?

GOSS — I would anticipate before the end of the year we should have someone in place. The board will have to make that decision, of course.

RECORD — What about the most pressing issues in the township for 1990?

GOSS — The most pressing issue is controlling growth and conserving our natural resources. I think the planning commission is taking a positive step in amending the zoning ordinance and requiring larger lot sizes. Another pressing issue is recycling.

That's a major issue that will face all government entities this year and the township has taken a major step with the recycling center. We will be implementing a composting program in conjunction with the WTUA (Western Townships Utilities Authority) communities. We have applied for other quality of life grants at the WTUA commission. We will be working on programs to educate our residents on the use of our recycling center and the use of our other new programs.

RECORD — How are you going to go about educating the residents?

GOSS — Newspaper articles, pamphlets. . . .

RECORD — What is the composting program going to be about?

GOSS — I don't have any details on it yet. WTUA is finalizing plans for a composting program. At this time WTUA is in the process of selecting a site for a composting program.

RECORD — Are you pleased with what the recycling collection center (on Sheldon Road north of Five Mile) looks like at this time?

GOSS — I'm delighted. I believe that our residents' ability to dispose of used oil, batteries, glass, plastic containers and especially newspapers, is going to substantially cut down on the waste stream. Our center has easy access, it is open 24 hours a day for convenience. It's a great recycling center. More residents need to know it's there and ready to go.

RECORD — Finally, tell me about some of the positive things that have gone on in the township recently.

GOSS — The most exciting was the Haller property donation. Also, the recycling center is set up and ready to go, and the composting site is being selected.

The Board of Trustees slashed the administrative fee charges to residents on their tax bill from one percent to a half percent.

We selected a new township manager and treasurer, and one of the most successful happenings was the Court of Appeals decision that upheld our prison caps. That means no more overcrowding in Northville Township.

We instituted a new community newspaper, "Talk of the Township."

We have begun amending the zoning ordinance and are increasing lot sizes. We completed the water and sewer master plan. We've instituted first response ambulance service for residents.

We held the first joint meeting of the board and school board to discuss mutual interests.

The water and sewer special assessment district in the township will contribute to the quality of life for residents, and we're doing an employee compensation study, as approved by the board, to better align our employees with private industry and similar communities.

All in all, it has been a very rewarding and challenging year for Northville Township.

City suggests changes to MainCentre parking deck

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

In their review of the proposed parking deck south of MainCentre, the Northville city council Monday disagreed with a planning commission proposal to shorten the proposed MainCentre parking deck by ten feet, but agreed with several other suggestions by the commission.

Under the current proposal from Rich and Associates of Southfield, eastbound traffic on Cady Street would be restricted at the parking deck. Members of the planning commission have sought to allow the possibility of two-lane traffic at the side, and a possible third lane for turning, by shortening the deck.

Council members and City Manager Steven Walters cited several concerns with such a move, including the increased slope of ramps in the deck and the loss of several parking spaces.

"It's already designed at the maximum slope because we already shortened it 20 feet to get the drive outside," Walters said of the deck. Because the deck has already been shortened, the ramp slopes to upper floors in the deck are already almost as steep as parking deck standards allow, Walters said. Shortening the deck any further would result in ramp slopes that are too steep.

As many as 10 parking spaces would also be lost, Walters added. The current proposed deck has 485 parking spaces, and parking on five floors.

"That's a fairly significant loss of parking," Walters said.

He added that there may be other engineering problems in shortening

"It just strikes me that the intersection of Cady and Center is hardly the place to encourage more cross-traffic."

— Steven Walters,
Northville City Manager

the deck, including a 10-foot increase in the span of the pedestrian bridge to MainCentre.

The planning commission had sought the change to allow the possibility of adding another traffic lane to Cady Street north of the deck. "I kind of question the real functional value in that," Walters said. He pointed out that Cady east of Center Street may be relocated during the proposed Cady Street development. He saw little need for a new traffic route east from the residential area west of Wing Street.

Council member Paul Folino agreed, saying that there is much more traffic now on Center Street, and that allowing two-way traffic on Cady Street would worsen the traffic situation at the intersection of Cady and Center.

"The question is, do you want to protect the possibility of a through street there," asked council member Jerry Mittman. "I can't see any reason whatsoever to do that," replied fellow member G. Dewey Gardner.

When council members suggested shortening the deck less than 10 feet to keep the slopes within the set limits, Walters said "Anything less than 10 feet would not allow another lane. It just strikes me that the intersection of Cady and Center is hardly the place to encourage more cross-traffic."

"I think at least on that issue," said Mayor Chris Johnson, "it's appropriate to (keep the design) as it is."

The council praised several other changes suggested by the planning commission, including the installation of pedestrian access into the deck at the corner of Cady and Center. Developers are incorporating that change into the deck's design, Walters said. The council also agreed on the desirability of some treatment for the deck's west face. Walters said that the development company would develop a cost analysis for several treatments, such as brick panels or sculptured concrete.

Another commission suggestion — shortening the towers proposed for the northeast and southeast corners of the building — is being reviewed by the developers, Walters said.

City police agree to contract

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

After more than 18 months, Northville City and the city's command officers have ended their dispute over the officers' labor contract. The city approved a four-year contract with the police officers' union at a recent meeting.

The seven-member Northville Command Officers Association (NCOA) has been operating without a contract since July 1, 1988, when their last contract expired. The new contract will run through June 30, 1992. Command officers are those with supervisory duties, and include captains, sergeants, staff sergeants and lieutenants.

Under the new contract, the position of staff sergeant will be eliminated, with a sergeant's salary gradually increasing to match that of staff sergeant by July 1, 1991. No new staff sergeants will be hired, and the position will cease to exist after the existing staff sergeants have left the force.

The city has also agreed to a retroactive 4 1/4 percent increase and a 5 percent increase for the remaining three years of the contract.

The current salary for a command officer is about $31,000, plus a percentage of that dependent on the officer's rank. Sergeants receive 8.4 percent more, staff sergeants an additional 12.4 percent, and lieutenants an additional 16.4 percent.

The approval follows more than a year of stalled contract negotiations, mediation attempts and state arbitration. In November, the city had filed an unfair labor practice charge against the local police unit over its representation by the Command Officers Association of Michigan (COAM) because the union was seeking retroactive benefits for the local force for a period when the NCOA was represented by another union.

GOP cool to plans

By TIM RICHARD

LANSING — Suburban state senators doubt Gov. James J. Blanchard's proposal to raise the school dropout age to 18 will work.

And Republicans are cool to his plan to place a lid on residential property assessments without applying it to business, too.

Sen. R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, said raising the dropout age to 18 "is only practical if we expand vocational training, remedial reading and remedial math at the high school level."

"To require them (students) to sit around for two years, unless we have programs, would be a waste."

Geake said he wouldn't support Blanchard's proposal to limit property assessment increases for homes only. "It's an old Democratic philosophy — tax business to win the favor of voters. All classes of property should be treated the same."

Geake was impressed with Senate Majority Leader John Engler's day-earlier attack on Blanchard's competence as an administrator.

In a Republican state of the state message, Engler, who is likely to be Blanchard's GOP challenger, said Blanchard had made only two of 280 appointments on time, routinely missed budget deadlines and had mismanagement in the prison and social services administrations.

"We need to have children in school who want to be in school," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, whose district includes Novi.

"A mandatory attendance law will just result in more bookkeeping rather than educational achievement."

"My experience is that some young people, when they drop out, have some hard knocks when they go into the adult world and apply themselves better in school later on," said Faxon, a private school operator.

Faxon likes the Blanchard plan to limit assessment growth, saying it's "not enough but long over due."

Sen. Richard Fessler, R-Commerce, said raising the legal dropout age, currently at 16, is "an interesting concept" unlikely to work by itself.

"Why just limit it to dropping out of school? How are we going to retain them there? What enforcement mechanism? It's a motivational issue."

"Are we merely making a grandiose statement? Why do they drop out at all? Are they merely going to vegetate from age 16 to 18?"

Fessler saw Blanchard as stealing his idea to limit property tax assessments, which have been growing faster than the rate of inflation. Blanchard will propose limiting homeowners' increases to the rate of consumer price inflation.

"My staff and I have been in discussions five weeks on a potential petition drive which I may spearhead," said Fessler, whose western Oakland district includes the South Lyon, Milford and Highland areas and has seen double-digit assessment increases.

But Fessler's would (1) cover all property, not just homes, and (2) use a flat figure such as 3 percent rather than the consumer price index to limit assessment growth.

Meijer patrols costly — township

By MIKE TYREE

Local taxpayers are having their pocketbooks picked as crime figures escalate at the Haggerty Road Meijer store, Northville Township Manager Richard Henningsen said last week.

"We're paying a lot more to send our police department out there than what we receive in taxes," he said.

Henningsen said the 402 calls township police officers responded to at Meijer in 1989 cost taxpayers nearly $46,000, based on the Bartell Study of the department in May 1988.

The Bartell Study indicated that each call answered by the police department cost the township an estimated $114.

Henningsen said the taxes paid by Meijer to the township for personal and real property amounted to approximately half of the figure it cost the township to respond to calls there.

According to township tax rolls, the combined police millage revenue on Meijer's personal property (merchandise within the store) and real property (land and building) revenue in 1989 totaled $15,840.54. Fire millage revenue totaled $1,744.75, and fire indebtedness revenue amounted to $2,754.87.

Township taxes paid by Meijer in excess of police and fire millage and indebtedness totaled $3,489.51.

The township's $46,000 police department expense did not include calls to the store made by the fire department or ambulance unit.

Executives at Meijer corporate headquarters in Grand Rapids said they were unaware of the township's concerns.

"We do pay the taxes they ask us to pay," said Jennifer White, public and consumer affairs coordinator. "We try to work very closely with the local police and officials."

"We haven't heard from the township about this . . .," said Brian Breslin, vice president of public and consumer affairs.

Breslin said Meijer feels it pays its fair share of taxes, and said the school district benefits from its presence. He also said the store pays $32,000 in taxes to Wayne County.

"The township certainly benefits from (that amount)," he said.

Breslin said the township keeps all the money it collects from tickets handed out to illegally parked vehicles at the store.

Henningsen agreed, but said revenue from parking violations was almost inconsequential.

"There is a $25 fine for parking in handicapped areas and a $10 fine for parking in fire lanes," he said. "A lot of people don't even pay the fines."

Henningsen said 112 handicapped parking violations were issued in 1989, which earned the township $2,800. Fire lane violations totaled 77, or $770 in fines.

He said an additional 90 tickets issued to parking violators were ignored and not paid in 1989.

"They usually are from out of town and just tear them up," he said. "The shoppers from out of town do create a problem."

Henningsen said he is aware of the police department's desire to patrol the Meijer parking lot full-time, but he said the township could not afford to keep an officer on continuous duty at the store.

"I sent some figures out to the Board of Trustees and hoped I would get some kind of response," he said. "I haven't taken steps for them (Meijer) to pay for it, but I hope they will."

Township stands tall on tree protection

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

When it comes to protecting trees, according to a recent survey, Northville Township stands tall compared to other Wayne County communities.

The Wayne County Planning Division, at the request of the county's planning commission, has conducted a survey of tree and woodland protection measures throughout the county. Officials hoped to identify the existing regulations, analyze their limitations and the county's problems with woodland protection, and recommend more effective woodland regulations.

"Some commissioners were concerned that we needed more regulations for trees and woodlands," said Ed Bayer, the planning division's chief assistant and the man in charge of the survey, "while others were worried that the existing regulations might be too restrictive. One of the primary concerns was to prevent wholesale clearcutting of trees by developers. Of course, there's a lot of environmental hazards to that

"The conclusion is that we don't have anything that's too restrictive, and many communities don't have that detailed an ordinance," he said.

The planning division first conducted a telephone survey of the 43 Wayne County communities, and the results suggest that Northville Township is among the leading communities in the county when it comes to woodlands protection.

The township is one of only three of the 43 county communities to have its own separate ordinance or a section of the ordinance devoted to regulating trees or woodlands. In the township, the woodland regulations are incorporated into the site plan review and general zoning ordinance provisions. Planting within municipal rights-of-way is also regulated.

Northville Township also prohibits the planting of certain tree species, including box elders, elms, soft maples, horse chestnuts, Trees of Heaven and catalpa trees. Developers are required to submit a landscape plan during the site plan review process

Northville City, like most other communities in the county, has no separate ordinance specifically dealing with woodlands protection, though a new woodland ordinance was under study last year. A report on that ordinance was due from the planning commission in October, but has been postponed because of the commission's review of the Master Plan.

Presently, developers in the city are regulated during the site plan review process, and the city controls planting within rights-of-way.

The county's planning division also sent out a questionnaire seeking information on areas of community concern when protecting woodlands. Among the possible concerns listed in the questionnaire were clearcutting of trees on vacant land prior to development, the removal of dead or diseased trees, and balancing the need for tree protection with the rights of property owners.

According to Bayer, results of the county-wide poll were disappointing. "We've gotten a response from about half the communities," he said. The lack of interest on the part of communities, coupled with the fact that most communities have at least some sort of woodland protection measures, has made the division rethink its response to the situation.

"We don't have as many regulations or as detailed regulations as many Oakland County communities," Bayer admitted. But rather than conduct a separate study of possible improvements to the regulations, the division is now planning to publish a manual.

Parking lot woes

Breslin said the Meijer parking lot is not patrolled "with any type of vehicle" but he said security precautions are taken.

He said baggers and checkout personnel are taught security techniques, and employees that collect shopping carts in the parking lot are instructed to watch for potential problems.

Breslin would not divulge the number of actual security personnel on duty at the store.

"We're not real conversational about security," he said. "What you're doing (by discussing personnel) you're telling the wrong people about it."

Law says budget major 1990 issue

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The state's house of representatives will likely face some tough issues in the coming year, said Gerald Law (R-Plymouth), especially if he has anything to say about it. One of his most outspoken criticisms is of the state's budget.

"One of the major issues will obviously be the budget," Law said, "simply due to the fact that our expenditures seem to be growing faster than our revenues. There's a problem in not being able to fund all the programs we've been promising people. These $50 million programs sound great but we don't have any money."

Law said the legislature ought to resist starting any new programs, and concentrate on fully funding the state's current programs, many of which have faced severe cuts in the last several years.

One area where the state has cut back drastically on funding in the last 15 years, he said, forcing local communities to take up the revenue slack, is in education. With the defeat of proposals A and B in 1989, which would have shifted existing revenue to the schools, Law said that the state would be forced to take up the issue of school funding again.

"Why do we continually throw money after corrections," he asked, "at the expense of education and mental health?" The state has spent about $500 million in the last five years on prison expansion alone, he said, but "building prisons and hiring thousands of guards is not the answer."

"Obviously we're getting nothing in education," he said. "Fiddling around with A- and B-type proposals won't pass," he added.

Even if some sort of education funding proposal passes, Law doubted that it would bring additional revenues to Northville schools, because "Northville is too far out of formula." The so-called "in-formula" schools are those in areas of low property values, where the state funds the schools on a per-pupil basis. Because property values are so high in Northville, among the highest in the state, Law doubted that any new funds would end up in Northville schools.

"In the next few years especially, we're going to see the same problems in property taxes and school financing as we've been seeing," he added. "There isn't any major answer."

"There's not a real impetus to change the program other than from school districts," Law added.

Law saw property taxes as a possible political issue for 1990. "A lot of people get very upset that assessments are something they can't vote on," he said. He suggested a cap on how much assessments can rise in a given year in an entire community, rather than on an individual home basis. "Whether or not that would be able to pass is another question," he said.

Law is also keeping an eye on the state budget to make sure the city gets all the revenue entitled to it from Northville Downs. "Locally, we always look into the budget to make sure the racetrack revenue's all there," he said.

While the state's revenue-sharing formula provides for nearly $900,000 annually to Northville, the state had been retaining about 20 percent of that amount for several years. But for the last two years, Northville has received the total amount due under the revenue-sharing formula. The state's Auditor General also labeled the state's past retaining of funds a misuse of the funds, further assuring that the city will continue to receive its full share.

An important issue as far as the township is concerned is the right to regulate, or at least consider, proposals to drill for oil and gas on township lands. Northville Township was faced last year with such a proposal to drill, and had little legal recourse to stop it. "We're not going to let that status quo stay as it is," Law said.

"That's a goofy system," he said of the present system. "It may be great in farm areas but it's no good in residential areas where people have their whole life invested in an area."

Though the township is not likely to receive the right of an outright veto when it comes to drilling, "because not even the city has that," Law said he is pushing to give the township the right to hold public hearings on such proposals or require oil and gas companies to notify township officials sooner and provide more information on such proposals.

GERALD LAW

Opponents of such legislation include oil and gas companies and the state's Department of Natural Resources, Law said.

While auto insurance rate reform has been a popular issue politically, Law downplayed the need for reform. Law, who sits on the House Insurance Committee, said the state has some of the cheapest auto insurance in the nation in terms of the benefits included in the insurance package. "Our rates, in my area anyway, are probably among the best in the country," he said. He also praised the state's "No-fault" system of insurance, calling it "very favorable to most other states."

"But that doesn't mean a whole lot to the homeowner," he admitted.

Law said the legislature would likely consider further "streamlining" of the state's auto insurers, though nothing as drastic as the 20 percent rate rollback passed in California last year. Despite its passage, he said, few Californians have seen anywhere near a 20 percent reduction in their insurance rates.

"I think just to go around and promise people you're going to roll back the rates by 20 or 30 percent is the biggest consumer fraud going," he said. "We're getting into these games because they're political games."

But he admitted that there are problems in holding down the built-in medical costs, rising repair costs and the cost of litigation, all of which are factored into the rates.

Law said that Detroit legislators would like to see all of Wayne County rolled into a single rate area, rather than Detroit residents paying higher rates because of the higher rate of car theft, accidents and vandalism in the city. Such a move would result in the suburbs subsidizing Detroit's rates, Law said.

Local facilities face budget cuts

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

The coming year may see several confrontations at the state house, according to State Sen. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville). Their outcome could have an effect on issues like health care and auto insurance costs in Northville and across the state.

"The major issue will be the state budget," he said, "which is expected to again be very tight." Locally, the tight budget may lead to insufficient funds for Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital and the Hawthorn Center in Northville Township, he said. Geake has been a long-time supporter of both facilities.

"It's my intention to make sure that the Hawthorn Center is fully funded if possible," Geake said.

The Hawthorn Center, a comprehensive mental health facility formed in 1956 and operated by the state Department of Mental Health, provides psychiatric services to emotionally disturbed and mentally ill children and adolescents. The center also provides training in child psychiatry, psychology, social work, nursing and special education.

Health care and support for area nursing homes will also remain a major issue in the new decade, according to Geake. "There will be an effort to make some insurance available to the working poor who have no insurance now," he said. Geake described a pilot program in Flint and outstate, called the Health Care Access Project, that may provide a good model for the state as a whole. "If it could be expanded," Geake said, "it would improve the health care in areas like Northville that have hospital satellite centers."

The legislature should also be examining auto insurance rates and the profits of insurance companies, with an eye to reducing the rates. "My objective is to make sure all the suburbs are protected and all the money doesn't go into Detroit," Geake said. Detroit legislators are pushing to reduce the cost of insurance in the city, and spread the costs around the state.

Said Geake, "This will undoubtedly be a major confrontation in the coming months."

On another front, Geake said small businesses should be helped by improvements in worker's compensation and unemployment compensation laws. A 14-bill package will provide for pro rata refunds to employers that have overpaid solvency taxes, improvements to the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) computer system and ongoing training to improve the effectiveness of MESC staff.

A bill sponsored by Geake that has been signed into law will strengthen the MESC fraud control and collections division, he added. The law will appropriate $425,000 to develop an automated system for the division, and provide for annual funding of $1 million to operate an increased fraud control and investigative program. The funding will come from the MESC penalty and interest account.

But Geake's forecast for small business is not all positive. "I don't see any movement on single business tax reform in this coming session," he said.

With the overwhelming defeat of education funding proposals A and B, Geake said the Senate would likely be taking another look at school finance reform. "We'll be considering giving more general fund support to education," he said, "probably at the expense of corrections and mental health." Geake was not in favor of either of the 1989 proposals, saying they did nothing to help the Northville area.

Geake suggested that this year's finance reform may not help school districts in wealthy areas like Northville either. "The funds would likely go to 'in-formula' school districts, which would not help high SEV (State Equalized Valuation) areas like Northville," he said.

In-formula school districts are those in areas of low property values, that qualify for per pupil state funding. In contrast, areas with high property values only receive funding for programs like special education and bus transportation.

Several anti-drug abuse bills passed by the Senate may not see the light of day, Geake added. A bill to provide police departments with expanded authority for wiretapping, and another to allow no-knock raids of suspected "crack houses," both of which were endorsed by Governor James Blanchard (D-Pleasant Ridge) and passed by the Senate, are "dying in the House Judiciary Committee," Geake said.

Report critiques home plan

The state's new Home Ownership Savings Trust (HOST) is more likely to benefit buyers in "upscale" and suburban areas rather than in older cities, a conservative think tank said this week.

The analysis of Gov. James Blanchard's new program came from The Mackinac Center, a Midland-based policy research center.

"Buyers purchasing homes in upscale areas like north Oakland County, Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, Livingston County and western Wayne County are likely to take advantage of the program because HOST offers a rate of return better than many investments," the report said.

It was written by Dr. Gary Wolfram, a Hillsdale College economist, and Greg Kaza, a vice president for policy research of the center.

Wolfram is a former state Senate aide and is close to Senate Majority Leader John Engler, the probable 1990 Republican gubernatorial candidate.

"HOST is unnecessary for first-time buyers in Battle Creek, Detroit and its downriver suburbs — Flint, Holland, Jackson, Kalamazoo, Lansing, Midland, Monroe, Saginaw and many other middle-class areas," they said, "because other investments provide after-tax rates of return greater than annual housing price increases."

"All of these other investments have established secondary markets." But they said "serious questions" exist about the existence of secondary markets for HOST bonds.

Recycling Center opens

It is certainly a sign of the 1990s as Northville Township officials attended a ribbon cutting ceremony for the newly established Recycling Center at 16155 Sheldon Road, just north of Five Mile Road near Fire Station No. 3. The center is open 24 hours a day for residents to drop off bagged newspapers, plastic jugs, used waste oil, aluminum and steel cans and glass.

Open space bills bogged down in Senate

By TIM RICHARD

A dozen bills allowing neighborhoods to set up special assessment districts to reserve open space are bogged down in the Senate Local Government Committee.

"They're not going anyplace until January," said Rep. David Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, who already has won House passage of House Bills 4120 to 4131.

Realtors, home builders and apartment owners associations opposed the bills, fearing they would expand government's power to condemn private property for public use.

The five-member Senate committee Wednesday saw its quorum dissolve as members drifted off to other meetings. At the end of a two-hour session, only vice chairman Edgar Fredricks, R-Holland, was left as Honigman answered the critics' arguments. A brief Thursday meeting failed to draw a quorum.

"I agree with everything these guys say," Honigman told Fredricks, "but I don't see what it has to do with my bills. Every argument they made is with the existing (condemnation) law."

The bills would allow groups within a local unit of government to petition their elected officials for special assessment districts for a much longer list of purposes — pristine woodlands, bogs, landscaped areas, camps, botanical gardens, waterfront access and so on.

"They will also allow businesses to expand parking lots," Honigman told the panel. "Rep. Mike Bennane (D-Detroit) added an amendment to allow urban neighborhoods to buy vacant crack houses."

He added: "There's a feeling in rapidly growing areas that the entire township shouldn't pay for something that benefits only us (one neighborhood)."

Robert Long, supervisor of Commerce Township, said the population has expanded from 9,600 to 27,000 in his 22 years in office because "people like the open appearance. Two areas would like to preserve open space."

"We have, almost every meeting, petitions for some kind of service — chloride, blacktop, lights, weed control."

"One (neighborhood) has 17 homes around a three-acre parcel. They are unanimous in wanting to acquire it. They don't want a park. They want open space," Long said.

Honigman said that under his bills, if 20 percent of the property owners object, the improvement would have to be supported by at least 51 percent of the owners. He said a government board may, if it wishes, require a "supermajority" of 70 percent approval from owners.

A dozen bills are needed because separate laws govern home rule cities, fourth-class cities, home rule villages, general law villages, general law townships and charter townships, as well as metropolitan districts.

Jack Schick, of the Apartment Association of Michigan, saw problems.

"If a community wishes parks and parking facilities, the community at large should vote for them and not just a special area," he said.

— Rep. David Honigman
R-West Bloomfield

"We are worried about the liberalness of the definition of 'park.' "Just who benefits is another concern."

"They (the bills) might be good for the representative's (Honigman's) area, but not in the northern and western sides of the state."

His chief objection was that a local government could find itself invoking the use of its power of condemnation (eminent domain) with a longer list of special assessment districts. If lawsuits resulted, the entire community could wind up paying, he said.

Jack Walker, of the Michigan Association of Realtors, said MAR hasn't taken a position but he was bothered by "what appears to be an extension of police power" (eminent domain).

"I see nothing that says there has to be a willing seller," Walker said.

Lynn Egbert, executive vice president of the Michigan Association of Home Builders, said special assessment districts for open space could work to the detriment of those who want to see further development.

Egbert also raised questions about who would own the preserved open space and who would be liable if someone were injured on it.

Northville Public Schools are searching for candidates to establish a Partnership for Education Program (PEP), according to Dr. Dolly McMaster, assistant superintendent for Instructional Services.

McMaster said the school district would post a Partnerships for Education Project Supervisor opening Jan. 18 in the Northville Record, with an application deadline of Feb. 2, 1990.

Qualifications for the part-time position include a B.S./B.A. with a business and/or social science major preferred, she said.

Applicants must show evidence of active K-12 school-related experience and be active in the business and industry community. She said the applicants also must demonstrate competency in the use of technology appropriate to school and/or business environments and must have public relations skills in oral and written communication.

Responsibilities include establishing the Partnership for Education Advisory Council (PEAC), the recruitment of volunteers for activities falling within PEP grant guidelines, and coordinate program activities with the assistant superintendent of Instructional Services.

McMaster said the position will be paid hourly, according to experience and qualifications.

The starting date for the position is Feb. 13, 1990.

Cooke renovations well underway

By MIKE TYREE

Preparing for a Jan. 15 public hearing on the reopening of Cooke school, Superintendent Dr. George Bell last week released a report on construction projects at the school.

He said renovations to the school, which was built in 1966 and closed in 1984, would cost "close to $1 million, including a half-million in technology (computers)."

Bell said the following projects were underway:

- Painting — 98 percent complete (all except outside of exterior doors).
- Ceiling replacement — contract complete in the band and choir rooms and restrooms and 80 percent regular ceiling tile replaced in numerous rooms.
- Band room wall panels complete.
- Exit lights — 90 percent complete.

- Emergency lights 90 percent complete.
- Lockers — repairs 80 percent complete, painting quotes solicited, locks purchased.

- Exterior doors replaced — band room (southeast) complete.

- HVAC and plumber shops moved to Board office tunnel.

- Gym emptied.

- Exterior caulking — complete.

- Plumbing repairs in locker rooms — complete.

- Light diffusers replaced — 90 percent.

- Toilet partitions — complete.

- Carpet — bids on Board agenda for Jan. 8, 1990.

- Stage front — complete.

- Bleacher boards for gym — ordered.

- Gym lights — complete.

for the community, we might be able to show the township ways to make (an election) more palatable," he said.

The school district was successful in rallying support for a $16 million bond issue in October. Other recent elections, including a recreation millage which was defeated in November, have not been embraced by city voters.

"If we can give the township some help, we will," Bell said.

Heintz said she was looking forward to the session.

"Dr. Bell asked me to attend," she said. "He thought I might be interested in attending. I know they'll be discussing the library."

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss called the event a "landmark meeting."

"We will probably be able to air a number of issues that will help us move forward together . . ." she said.

The meeting will be open to the public, although it will not be held in a public hearing format, Goss said.

Bell said the scheduled fall 1990 reopening of Cooke school meant that several community service groups currently housed there would be uprooted. He said the meeting would help clarify the future of those organizations.

"We'll talk about where they are going to be," he said. "We need to assure everyone their needs are going to be met."

Police honored for saving a life

By MIKE TYREE

Two Northville Township employees were honored recently for thwarting a suicide attempt inside the township hall.

Officer Michael Panaigotides and clerk/dispatcher Brian Schlieff were awarded the police department's Citation for Lifesaving during the Dec. 12 meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Acting police chief Phillip Presnell said the men intervened in an attempted suicide by a suspect in the department's criminal lockup area and provided emergency care until the arrival of an ambulance.

Presnell said the suspect had been placed in lockup after a misdemeanor arrest and apparently tied part of his clothing around his neck and to "an apparatus in lockup." He said Panaigotides and Schlieff heard a noise saw the man hanging, and proceeded to "get the device off his neck and provide emergency care."

According to Presnell, the police department checks on subjects detained in lockup on a regular basis. He said those suspected of being a high suicide risk are monitored more frequently than other prisoners. He said the man rescued by the department employees gave no indication that he was a high suicide risk.

The township is discussing the idea of using a video monitor to keep closer tabs on those in the lockup area, Presnell said. He said a monitor would lessen the chance for a suicide in the lockup.

"It's a nightmare of every police department that harm would come to somebody in your custody," he said. "Self-inflicted situations are difficult to deal with."

Cold boosts gas bills

Homeowners who heat with natural gas will receive bigger Consumers Power bills this month because of December's record cold.

A household will have used 20-30 percent more gas last month than in December of 1988, said Edgar Doss, the utility's metro region general manager.

Refunds and lower rates will keep bills lower than they might have been, Doss added.

The Jackson-based company said it had a record December, delivering 54 billion cubic feet (BCF) of gas. The previous record of 53.7 BCF was set in December of 1976, according to Robert J. Odlevak, vice president for gas supply and transmission.

Our Opinion

Store too convenient to criminal element

To many, shopping at a Meijer store means convenience, decent prices, and a wide selection of merchandise available under a single roof.

To others, the mere thought of Meijer evokes concern — from careless drivers who don't give a second thought to flinging their car door into a neighboring vehicle — to the criminal element that cruise the parking lot in search of easy prey.

By all appearances, the Meijer store on Haggerty Road in Northville Township is a convenient stop for shoppers and potential criminals alike.

Dozens of entries regarding criminal activity at Meijer have been recorded of late in the township police department log book, and while approximately 25 percent of 1989's 402 reports deal with shoplifting, a grab bag of more bothersome incidents exists.

Robbery. Stolen auto parts — both interior and exterior. Purse-snatching. Assault and battery. The recent arrest of two men on concealed weapon (handgun) charges who were slowly cruising the Meijer parking lot with their vehicle lights off late one evening. Seemingly endless complaints about dented and scratched doors and fenders. The list goes on.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said this week that the cost of sending officers to respond to Meijer calls is double what the firm pays in local taxes. Acting Police Chief Phillip Presnell says the amount of calls from the store may warrant the placement of an officer and vehicle there full-time.

Meijer officials say their parking lot is well-lit and security personnel discourage criminal activity. Although they say no marked vehicles patrol the lot, the officials say cart collectors are trained to keep an eye on things outside the store.

Three cheers for a public meeting

The school board, city and township should all be commended for scheduling what has been termed "a landmark meeting" on issues of common interest to all three parties — the proposed Haller Library, relocation of the programs now housed at Cooke School, and the status of the county land sale.

The meeting will be open to the public, although it will not be held in a public hearing format, Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

The meeting fits in well with the school board's strategic planning goal of increased communication between community groups. The topics may well be the major issues that all three groups face in the coming year. As such, the meeting should provide a good opportunity for the township, city and school board to make plain their priorities and agendas in these issues.

For example, in better understanding the township's needs and desires in developing the 930-plus acres of county land, the school board may be able to better plan their upcoming budgetary needs.

We would hope — and fully expect — that the three groups will be able to avoid pursuing individual agendas and focus their attention on the common goals, so that the results are satisfactory to the entire community.

But the meeting should also be part of an ongoing process of communication. As far as the Haller Library is concerned, Goss has already pledged "a grass roots cam-

GOVERNMENT

Somehow, we're not reassured. Just a couple of weeks ago, someone jacked up a vehicle and attempted to steal the car's rims and tires.

Meijer officials will not tell us how many security personnel work their stores, but undoubtedly the majority are posted inside, protecting corporate losses by watching for shoplifters. Cart collectors or no cart collectors, the parking lot too often appears to be a problem area. If not for township police drive-bys in evening and early morning hours, current problems might be escalated.

The same Meijer officials say that the Northville community is filled with decent people, making the Haggerty Road site a safe place to shop. Their words seem a bit hollow when one thinks about the easy access to the store via the area's expansive expressway network.

People come from all over to shop — and commit crimes — at the local Meijer store. It should be up to Meijer to provide for the safety of their customers.

We suggest the firm look into the idea of contracting with the township to provide constant police presence in the lot, or equip their own security staff with marked vehicles to patrol the grounds. Too much potential for tragedy exists in the parking lot for profit margin thinking to rule.

paign," and "meeting in neighborhoods with as many residents as we can." She added that residents would make the ultimate decision on the library.

As Goss explained, township residents will have the final vote on whether or not to fund the proposed library, possibly in the form of a bond issue or declining millage. City residents are likely anxious to learn of the city's level and form of participation in the township library, since the township has taken the lead in developing it and will be ultimately responsible for its construction.

But Goss also said that the township was planning on holding "a public hearing, or perhaps more than one," sometime in February. Given the size of the proposed library, and its effect on the future of the entire community, we suggest that more than one public hearing may be needed for the community to air its concerns over the project.

Many community residents are also anxious to learn the fate of the programs now housed at Cooke school after that school reopens as a middle school next year. School Superintendent George Bell said the meeting will provide the local governments an opportunity to assure residents that their human service needs will continue to be met.

This landmark meeting should help preserve the residents' rights to be involved in the major issues affecting their community, and it should not be the last.

Mealtime vice

By Sheila Phillips

Like thousands of Americans, I have adopted the motto "Just Say No".

But in my case, food is the vice and not drugs — more specifically cheeseburgers with seasoned fries and chocolate chunk cookies.

Not surprisingly, I have come down with a case of the post-holiday bulges, that nasty ailment where your stomach looks like you've swallowed a watermelon and some one has inflated your derriere with a bicycle pump.

I know that I am not alone. Afterall, the average American supposedly gains ten pounds between Thanksgiving and New Years, and I have always prided myself on being above average.

But it is a new year and a new decade, so it seems like the appropriate time to shed some old habits as well as some unwanted poundage.

I'm hoping to swap my bulging blues for a case of exercise fever — which I have been told is easy to catch once you get started. But then again, it is usually from some wirey bimbo who actually looks good sculpted in Spandex.

Nevertheless, I'm not excited by the idea of joining some aerobized singles club and wading my "slightly" oversized carcass into a sea of bleach-blond Heather Locklear clones. Not to mention all those muscle-bound playboys, looking like they've strutted off the pages of "Flex" Magazine. . . . But on second thought, maybe joining a gym is not such a bad idea.

With proper exercise and diet, perhaps I'll even fit into those size five jeans hanging in my closet since my college days — the ones that look like they're made for Barbie.

Actually, exercising is the easy part. The real trick is to convince my stomach that I am a rabbit. But maybe if I keep stuffing it with leafy greens and carrot sticks, it will become a believer.

I also need to dig out my wok and become a stir-frying fiend. I can hardly wait, one night I can have pea pods and mushrooms and the next bean sprouts and bamboo shoots. For an extra special treat, perhaps I'll even throw in a few chicken chunks. It isn't exactly the same as chocolate chunks — but I'll keep telling myself that chunks are chunks.

I even have the perfect motivator. Everytime I feel myself wavering, I'll just go into my closet and try on my old jeans. Seeing an old pair of previously baggy pants stuck at the thighs kind of does something to you inside. And it certainly makes you become a faithful follower of the "just say no to food philosophy".

I've covered all the bases. The only thing left to do is start. But it is such a major step that I am having a little trouble deciding on the perfect date. But if I keep munching on this chocolate chunk cookie, maybe it will come to me. Yeah, I just came up with an even better motto — "food for thought".

After the fact

By Phil Jerome

"I have a surprise for you," she smiled as I got ready to leave for work Monday. "I packed you a lunch. Be sure to take it with you."

How nice, I thought. My little bride of almost 25 years packing me a little lunch as I head out to my new job in Howell.

I continued to be filled with warm and caring thoughts until it came time to leave and I couldn't find my lunch anywhere.

"So where's my lunch?" I asked.

"It's right by the door," she replied. "You can't miss it."

"There's nothing here but a big old grocery bag."

"That's it," she said. "Your lunch is in the grocery bag."

"You've got to be kidding. You expect me to go to work carrying a huge grocery bag? What am I going to say when people ask what's in the bag? Do you really expect me to say it's my lunch?"

"It's your lunch for the next week," she sniffed, sounding a bit hurt. "Instead of making a new lunch every day, I packed up enough stuff for the entire week."

"Wait till you see what's inside," she continued. "It's really healthy stuff. You've got rice cakes and cottage cheese and apple juice and apples and bananas and an orange. You'll like it."

I kept waiting for her to mention something half-way edible. Like Twinkies, for example. But I knew it wasn't going to happen. There was nothing but health food inside that big old grocery bag, and I knew the only proper thing to do at that point in time was to express my gratitude for the giant sack lunch.

"Geez, that's great," I said finally. "I'll have the biggest lunch and the healthiest lunch. I'll make quite an impression."

Student's letter was right on target

To the Editor:
Thank you Jason Sherman, N.H.S. Class of '91. Your letter to the Editor (Jan. 4, 1990), posed the very question that I asked at the first strategic planning meeting I was part of the Strategy VI's committee and I continue to wonder how one can plan for the future of Northville H.S. without consulting the student population. (My question was never answered.)

After almost twenty years in high school education, much of which included teaching leadership skills to students, I know that a wonderful learning experience was missed when students were not included on the committee. What better way to prepare students for future rolls as leaders than to invite them to participate in such a process? How better to give young adults actual experience than to let them take part in planning sessions? Encouraging students to learn the process of leadership should be pursued through as many avenues as possible. Failing to allow for student input only serves to make them suspicious of adults who claim to want them to become effective, thinking and involved members of their community.

If we want young adults to learn, among other things, to listen to various viewpoints, understand financial and legal guidelines, learn to compromise and to think critically, I believe real life situations provide the best learning experience. As an educational consultant who specializes in presenting workshops and seminars on student leadership all over the country, I can assure you that student involvement is being strongly encouraged in many districts. I urge Northville's School Board to seriously consider the importance of involving students in decisions which directly affect them.

City library

To the Editor:

Our family just returned from four months in Europe, where bicycles and feet took us to work, school and shopping. Imagine our astonishment that Northville is contemplating a library accessible, as a practical matter, only by car. We left a consensus that a library should be in a population center. We returned to the prospect of a library unavailable, at least on weekdays, to families without an extra car and to children of working parents. Had libraries been unavailable to pedestrian patrons, Abe Lincoln might not have become president. Why should only people in cars be able to learn whether Honest Abe really walked a mile to return a book?

Moreover, a trip to a friendly, local library is the perfect expedition for kids ranging from adventurous 8-year-olds to bored teenagers. Given the paucity of good places for youth to patronize, why put the library off limits?

Yes, we know the donation of land is at least currently encumbered by stipulations. But even if the land is free, why spend huge sums for a library in the middle of nowhere? If we wanted to drive to a library we could patronize the Novi, Plymouth, Schoolcraft, Madonna College, or other libraries.

Get the facts

To the Editor:

In view of some recent inaccurate statements that have been made regarding Michigan's investment in higher education, I want to make sure that you have the facts about what has been accomplished in the area of higher education policy and funding under the Blanchard administration.

Since 1983, annual state funding for our state universities has increased by $557 million, or 82 percent. During that same period, inflation, measured by the Detroit Consumer Price Index, increased by only 28 percent. Included in this funding has been the establishment of the Research Excellence Fund which has channeled $129 million to projects that have put Michigan at the cutting edge of "job creating", economic development related research; the Martin Luther King/Cesar Chavez/Rosa Parks programs, which are aimed at increasing the number of minorities on the faculties of our universities; the Teaching Excellence Fund, to improve the quality of instruction at our universities by rewarding outstanding faculty members; and the Michigan Educational Opportunity Grant, Michigan Work Study and part-time independent student programs, which target additional financial aid to selected groups of students. In addition to these newly established programs, we have invested or are planning to invest over $1 billion in the expansion and maintenance of university facilities, which represents the largest capital investment that the state has committed in any area, including corrections.

We have also undertaken steps to keep college education accessible and affordable. Since 1983, funding for financial aid programs has been doubled, and an ongoing policy of tuition freezes and restraints has been established. Furthermore, our highly successful and innovative Michigan Education Trust (MET), the first of its kind in the nation, enables parents to make a down payment that will guarantee their child's tuition at one of Michigan's state universities. As of today, almost 50,000 children have been enrolled in the MET program.

Investments in education, from preschool through higher education, represent Governor Blanchard's highest priority, as demonstrated by the fact that 36 percent of the state budget goes to education. As we look ahead, we will continue to pursue policies and make investments that further enhance the quality, accessibility, and affordability of Michigan's excellent system of higher education.

Misguided

To the Editor:

A recent Tim Richard (article) was in serious error when it stated "property owners would get a hefty tax cut if voters approve the Patterson-Anderson 'Citizens Tax Limitation' amendment."

A Nov. 20 report by the Senate Fiscal Agency concludes that the Patterson-Anderson proposal would redefine the Headlee Tax Limitation Amendment to the Michigan Constitution by removing current Headlee safeguards for taxpayers and actually allowing substantial new property tax assessment increases.

Taxpayers United, a statewide grassroots, non-partisan taxpayer group co-founded by Richard H. Headlee in 1977, earlier determined the Patterson-Anderson draft to be a misguided scheme to help Republicans win re-election in 1990 under the guise of a "school funding proposal that would also cut property taxes."

Brooks Patterson, Pat Anderson and the Oakland County Young Republicans must have short memories. School funding and property tax relief were the same words used when State Legislators in Lansing tried to sell Propositions A and B on the Nov. 7, 1989, ballot. Voters proved too smart to be fooled by Gov. Blanchard, and both Republican and Democrat legislators rejected those misleading proposals to amend the Headlee Amendment by 3-to-1 margins.

Dick Headlee himself does not want any ballot proposal initiated at this time to change the Headlee Amendment. Like the Taxpayers

United organization he still heads, Headlee supports renewed state government attention to correcting the enabling legislation passed a decade ago which literally contradicts certain sections of the Headlee Amendment in the Michigan Constitution.

You will recall that the majority of voters approved the Headlee Amendment in 1978, but the State Legislature and then Gov. Milliken—who campaigned hard against Taxpayers United and the Headlee Amendment—passed the "enabling legislation" which was supposed to implement the will of the people expressed at the polls.

Dick Headlee and Taxpayers United now are putting together a non-partisan campaign to sharpen the teeth already in the Headlee Amendment that will hold down future increases in property tax assessments. Successful lawsuits initiated in Oakland and Macomb counties order Gov. Blanchard and current state representatives and state senators to stop their cheating on state funding of mental health and K-12 education programs.

By taxpayers winning just two Supreme Court lawsuits in defense of the Headlee Amendment, the state will soon have to pay more than $700 million annually to local units of government and education. That amount will go a long way toward eliminating the pressure on local units of government and school districts who keep campaigning for higher property taxes.

Consider 1990 property tax relief in the form of a three legged stool:

1. Correct enabling legislation conflicting with the Headlee Amendment in the State Constitution.

2. Continue our court attack on State government's illegal non-compliance with the Headlee Amendment.

3. If by March 1990, the State legislature and the courts have not exercised their power and duty to mandate State government obedience of the Headlee Amendment, Taxpayers United will initiate an honest non-partisan tax cut ballot proposal in time to be adopted by Michigan voters on Nov. 6, 1990. The Taxpayers United proposal will simply and permanently reduce property tax assessments.

If any of your readers want to be part of the 1990 taxpayer revolt in Michigan, they can join Taxpayers United by sending their name, address and telephone number to Taxpayers United, Bingham Center, Suite 3685, 30700 Telegraph, Birmingham, 48010 or calling (313) 647-0370.

SADD students battle teenage drinking

This is another in the continuing series of columns by Northville Public Schools' Student Assistance Program Coordinator Charlie Stilec.

At a recent workshop entitled "Cocaine Workshop For Educators" put on by the Wayne County Intermediate School District Dare Project, Special Agent Hugh Shanahan of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration alluded to the fact that "Americans are preoccupied with intoxication." The problem of chemical abuse will never go away, only the drug of choice will change.

Special Agent Shanahan then indicated that daily, 1,000 Americans die from the consequences of cigarette smoking and 400 die daily from alcohol abuse. Yet the government fails to close those operations down—specifically the alcohol and tobacco industries—because of monies received and pressure. We live in very uncertain times but there is hope in the leadership of our youth in Northville.

Emerging from the scene is the Northville High School Students against Driving Drunk (SADD) Chapter. Did you know that this year Meads Mill Middle School has also added a chapter?

Their mission and the missions of chapters (over 550) in Michigan is to reduce the number of alcohol related fatalities and injuries by enhancing communication between parents and teens and by mobilizing the constructive use of peer pressure. SADD has the secondary objective of facilitating alcohol and drug education and fostering the learning of pressure resistance skills.

The SADD program is opposed to the illegal consumption of alcohol by the underage population. It has as its primary target group those at risk students, estimated by various sources in excess of two thirds of the high school population who are somewhat regular users of alcohol.

Recently eight Northville High School SADD members and two advisers traveled to the Shanty Creek S.A.D.D. Conference the weekend of Nov. 18—20. This was attended by over 100 high school SADD chapters bringing five—eight students for the purpose of networking, supporting and planning the year ahead.

Students who attend are nominated and are seen as leaders. We need leaders, we need our kids to be with positive leaders and learn those roles themselves. This to me is what SADD is about.

Yesterday we had 55 students in attendance, we meet biweekly after school so you can see the commitment. It is becoming stronger as students realize that this program is for winners.

The Northville Action Council made it possible for us to attend the Shanty Creek Conference and support the students in their activities and mission. SADD also supports the Northville Action Council at its meetings and programs.

Working together, the schools, the community, is making the difference. On the night of Dec. 17, 1989, Sunday you saw SADD members singing Christmas Carols around town. You will see them putting up Red Ribbons for PTA Drug Awareness Week, March 5—11. A number of trained students do a Peer Resistance Program with all the fifth grades in Northville, they are visible in parades and in the media.

All I can say is that we are impacting chemical use and abuse through the leadership efforts of SADD. These students care about their friends and their community.

If you want to support SADD as a business or an individual or attend a meeting, please contact myself or Jack Wickens at 344-8420, Northville High School.

Landlords take lead in tenant bill

By TIM RICHARD

LANSING — State Representative David Honigman found himself out on a broken limb when the state House of Representatives backed away from a bill to prohibit "retaliatory evictions" by landlords.

Honigman, R-West Bloomfield, was the only Republican to support out loud a Detroit's bill to protect tenants.

As a blaze of red (no) lights flashed on the House tally board, sponsor Ted Wallace, D-Detroit, saw defeat and called "clear the board" — a signal to the speaker to stop the roll call without completing it.

So House Bill 4536 still sits on the House calendar, and there is no record roll call

The bill would bar a landlord from evicting a tenant in retaliation for the tenant's joining an association to secure rights or reporting health and safety code violations.

Wallace's bill failed last June 15 and had languished on the House calendar almost six months. Last week he decided to try again.

"I was the only Republican to support it in the Judiciary Committee," said Honigman, an announced candidate for fellow Republican Richard Fessler's state Senate seat.

"I've represented landlords," said Honigman, an attorney "Believe me, it doesn't do anything bad to landlords."

"We've compromised a lot with the landlord community," he said, claiming support from small landlords' groups in the outstate area.

"The Apartment Owners' Association is the only one opposed to it, and the president of that group (Mel Kafan) lives in my district."

Honigman said tenants should be protected when protesting that an apartment "is infested with rats or hasn't had hot water in three months."

Wallace introduced the bill after the state Court of Appeals found a hole in a 1972 tenants' rights law passed by the Legislature. The appeals court said the law applied only to month-to-month leases, not to fixed-term leases.

Other Republicans criticized the bill.

Rep. Bill Runco, R-Dearborn, said

"the spirit of the bill is good" but made it too difficult for a landlord to evict a tenant for cause. "They (tenants) can drag this lease out. It's not going to be very good for landlords."

Rep. Paul Wartner, R-Portage, a real estate broker who denied being a "slum landlord," said landlords already lose two months rent in evicting a tenant — "that's how slow the courts are. This bill is an unconscionable burden on the landlord."

The bill is supported by the Michigan Rental Housing Association and Michigan Consumers Council.

It is opposed by the Michigan Apartment Owners Association and Michigan Association of Realtors

Assistant Manager Karlene Esper shows off one of the boats on display at Top of the Dock in Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall

New boat store drops anchor at Twelve Oaks

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

Top of The Dock, an innovative retail chain owned by the Four Winns boat manufacturing company, has dropped anchor at Twelve Oaks Mall.

The Novi store, which sells powerboats and related water apparel, has been making waves since it opened in October.

"The uniqueness of the store draws people in," said Manager Greg Hirtch. "People are surprised when they see boats in the middle of a mall."

"So far the shop has been very successful and it has gotten a warm welcome from the public. It is really a great marketing concept," he added.

Hirtch anticipates that the store will become an even bigger attraction when its simulated powerboat ride is in place.

"It will be state-of-the-art with a moving picture of a lake in front of the boat," he said. "It will actually slow down when the driver lets up on the gas and the boat will actually move."

Hirtch said the simulated ride should be in place within the next couple of months.

It might appear that the five boats displayed in the store, which range from 15 to 21 feet in length, are merely marketing ploys to lure people into the store. However, store management claims the reverse scenario is actually the case.

The bottom line is, when it comes to selling boats, Top of the Dock means business, said Hirtch.

"The clothing is actually the gimmick or the marketing concept that gets people in to look at the boats," said Karlene Esper, assistant manager of the Novi store. "But we have been selling a lot of clothes."

The idea is that the boats, which range in size from run-abouts to cruisers, will be the big money-makers with price tags ranging from $8,000 to $85,000.

The clothing and accessories, which promote browsing, pay the overhead, Esper explained.

She said that the clothing and boating accessories also add to the shop's total marketing concept, which is to sell the boating lifestyle not just boats.

Two knowledgeable salespeople market the boats, which are supplied and serviced through King Marine. Each boat comes ready to sail with a trailer, a coast guard kit, license plate, registration and a three-year warranty on the boat and motor.

The nearest King Marine is conveniently located in Walled Lake

JAMES STORM of Northville, recently named 'Agent of the Year' by the Farmers Insurance Group of Companies, was in Pasadena, California, on New Year's Day enjoying the spectacular Tournament of Roses Parade from grandstand seats.

Storm was selected from among 15,000 agents for the top honor that Farmers bestows on an agent, during a recent Presidents Council Convention in Hilton Head, North Carolina.

HOUGHTON CREEK FARMS, Inc. of Northville has been approved as a new member by the Board of Directors of the Michigan Association of Nurserymen (MAN).

Houghton Creek Farms joins over 600 nursery and landscape industry businesses who also seek to further their professional development through continuing education, networking and informational services provided by the association.

The MAN is the statewide trade association representing businesses involved in Michigan's $340 million nursery and landscape industry. It's members are landscape contractors, retail garden centers, wholesale growers, landscape management firms, suppliers and other industry-related businesses.

RED CARPET KEIM, CAROL MASON, INC. has announced the addition of another real estate professional to its staff.

Deborah J. Goldberg has come to Novi from western Michigan where she has been marketing real estate for five years.

Prior to that she was licensed in Bucks County, Pennsylvania.

SILK PLANTS ETC., America's silk plant specialists with over 160 stores nationwide, has opened its newest store in the Pine Ridge Shopping Center at Ten Mile and Novi Road in Novi. The store offers over 400 varieties of silk plants, flowers and trees.

The advantages of silk plants include the wide variety and the fact that they are virtually maintenance free. Problems with allergies, adequate sunlight, misting, bugs, condensation, and overgrowth of natural plants become non-existent. Varieties of tropical plants that are almost impossible to grow indoors without absolute humidity, light and nutrient mix are now available for the first time.

Silk Plants Etc. works with interior designers and architects to achieve harmonious settings in offices, hotels, restaurants and shops, not to mention weddings, conventions and other special events.

Silk Plants Etc. offers free plant-scaping consultations for homes and offices along with free custom design service.

Silk Plants Etc. is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. For more information call Tina Pratto, Silk Plants Etc. owner, at 349-8450.

Mall adds boat store

Other locations are in St. Clair and Wyandotte.

Although Top of the Dock has only sold three boats out of its Twelve Oaks location since its grand opening, salesperson Maria Gipson said the mall location generates about eight sales a day and drums up a lot of business for the Walled Lake Marina.

"We will sell boats out of this location, but we also provide general information about boats by answering customer's questions in a non-pressured atmosphere," Gipson said.

Marinas, which are not conducive to browsing, often intimidate potential customers because of high-pressured salespeople, she added.

"The idea of the Twelve Oaks store is to acquaint people with the Four Winns name," she said. "Mall stores like this one will make Four Winns the big name in powerboats, just like Reebok has done for tennis shoes."

Top of the Dock is a pioneer in using retail space in a mall as a showroom. Although it is not the first vendor to use the idea, it is one (if not the only) company to go national with the idea.

In addition to the Novi store, Four Winns owns two other retail stores nationwide. The company opened its prototype store in Milwaukee two years ago, and followed with sister stores in Novi and Chicago last fall.

However, Four Winns — which is based in Cadillac, Mich. — plans to add another 45 stores over the next five years, including outlets in California and Florida.

Hirsch said a lot of customers are curious about how Top of the Dock is able to get its boats into the store, which is located upstairs near Sears. But he dispelled the mystery by saying that the entrance near Lord and Taylor, which is on the mall's second level, is actually at ground level and the doors are removable.

Getting the hang of it

Wallpaper adds beauty

Somewhat the house always looks more drab after the holidays. Perhaps it's only because the gilly and colorful holiday decorations are stored away again, or maybe the home actually needs a redecorating facelift.

In order to accomplish this, many people prefer to paper their walls, adding scenic or floral beauty, accents or decorative emphasis to certain rooms.

There is certainly plenty to choose from when it comes to wallpaper, but how many people who select a nice Early American or contemporary design ever wonder who invented the concept of covering walls with paper in the first place?

According to World Book Encyclopedia, wallpaper was first made in England, France or the Netherlands during the 1500s. Artists designed patterned wallpaper as a cheaper substitute for the tapestries—woven wall hangings—that had been used as decorations in European palaces for centuries.

Encyclopedia Americana, on the other hand, states the first wallpaperers were hand-painted in China around the middle of the 16th century.

The Chinese made wallpaper which featured painted birds, flowers and landscapes on rectangular sheets of rice paper. Samples were then brought to Europe by Dutch and Portuguese traders, the encyclopedia continues.

Wherever it began, there was no mass production in those days. Craft workers painted designs on the paper by hand or printed them from carved blocks of wood.

These papers were pasted up in haphazard fashion, with no attempt at matching repeats.

The French decorated wallpaper with Chinese objects and patterns during the 1700s, and this popular style became known as chinoiserie.

Again, the encyclopedia does not agree as to when wallpaper was first produced in the United States. World Book sets it as early as 1739, with the first papers being made in Philadelphia.

The Americana, however, states the first wallpaper factory was established in 1790 by John Howell at Albany, New York.

During the 17th and 18th centuries there was less time to devote to surface decorations, and both paint and paper—the handiest tools of the interior decorator—were beyond the means of most families.

According to "The Old, House Book of Living Rooms and Parlors," tongue-and-groove paneling was cheaper to install than an imported scenic paper from France. So paneling became the vogue in America.

This book continues, "Wallpaper became such a common commodity in 19th-century America that it was used in the parlor to simulate cornices, friezes and panels . . ."

Wallpaper became somewhat easier to clean with the introduction of vinyl-covered wallpaper in 1947. This could be gently washed with mild soap and water.

Pre-pasted papers were developed in the 1950s. Pre-pasting allowed the wallpaperer to moisten the paper with water so that it would stick to the walls without having to use wallpaper paste—a sometimes-tricky procedure for the novice.

Wallpaper has come a long way from those days when it was created painstakingly by hand blocking of designs, although some expensive papers are still made in this manner.

Whether printed, painted, embossed or grained, wallpaper is available in patterns and various degrees of texture. These vary from smooth glossy surfaces to those designed to resemble rough plaster, according to the Encyclopedia Americana.

There are ceiling papers, borders, scenics and panels, imitative papers simulating various materials and three-dimensional papers with a "relief" surface.

Special coatings make some papers resistant to stains and grease. There are also papers covered in silk, some which resemble chintz and velvet flocked papers.

Flocked paper is made by printing the design on paper of various colors with glue, and then blowing fine colored wool or silk shavings over the wet glue design, according to the Americana book. This type of creativity produces paper that simulates the rich texture and sheen of expensive Genoese velvets.

Storytelling papers are especially good for young children and may be obtained in durable surfaces for long wear and easy care.

Expensive custom-made papers are screen printed or stenciled. Less expensive papers are roller-printed. There are a few fine papers still printed by hand with wood blocks, a separate set of blocks being used for each color, the Encyclopedia Americana notes.

Wall coverings are designed to closely follow contemporary fashions. This makes possible many effects formerly unattainable because of the expense of such materials as marble, leather and textiles like satins and brocades.

This decorative flexibility is supplemented by many interesting artistic effects, including those of painted mirrors, deeply incised and sculptured linoleum, photomurals, paintings on canvas and hand-painted wallpaper in narrow strips, the Amer-

Tim Kourt carefully brushes paste on paper before putting it on the wall

Preparing walls is key to success

Measure it. Cut it. Paste it. Slap it on . . . And then watch it fall off.

That probably sounds familiar to the do-it-yourself wallpaperers who have experienced little success over the years.

The problem, according to one local professional, may involve the area you're trying to cover up—the wall.

"The biggest mistake people make is they don't prepare the walls right, in both papering and painting," said Tim Kourt, who for 16 years has run American Painting & Decorating Co. out of his Green Oak Township home.

"There's a lot more to it than just washing the wall. You have to spend a lot of time if you want the job done right. Most of the pre-pasted papers, which are the most common these days, have strong paste on the back. Some even require that you paint the walls with an oil-base primer before you paper."

Kourt added that some people haven't made the adjustments to pre-pasted paper, which hit the market approximately 10 years ago. Another common error is failure to let the paste develop between wetting and application to the wall.

"You didn't have to do any special things with the old-time paper," Kourt commented. "I guess it's just hard for people to change their ways."

Kourt said it took him two years to develop steady wallpapering skills, but that he still must adjust to the new products on the market.

He recalled the days when flocked material, featuring a felt design on top of the actual paper, was popular. He also remembers foils, which presented application difficulties because they couldn't be creased.

"Styles come and go," he said. "You see a lot of string paper now, but that's pretty expensive. The most common right now has to be pre-pasted vinyl."

Wallpapering, like everything else, features both pros and cons.

"People choose paper for various reasons," Kourt said. "The biggest thing is it holds up longer than paint. If it's done right, paper can last anywhere from 10 to 20 years, compared to five or six with paint. You have less fingerprints and it's much easier to wash."

"Also, with dry wall, the paper covers the flaws in the wall. Your nicks and joint problems are hidden . . . whereas with paint, all of the flaws are right there in front of you."

Kourt added that wallpapering is

Brick facing gives solid feel

By James McAlexander

Brick facing on this modern rendition of a traditional design creates a solid feeling of performance in the Quincy.

While a variety of angles gives the home a custom-designed appearance, the formal living arrangements inside have strong appeal for families with traditional values.

A large country kitchen with generous counter space serves as a natural gathering place. The central eating bar is handy for grabbing meals on the run. When more time is available, people can sit down and read the paper or enjoy leisurely conversation at the kitchen table. Ample storage space is provided by a walk-in pantry tucked into an odd-shaped corner of the kitchen.

The formal dining room is conveniently close to the kitchen, yet out of view of the clutter. Both rooms are brightened by large glass sliding doors that open onto an expansive deck. Nature lovers can enjoy watching the changing seasons through the big glass doors while the dining in either area.

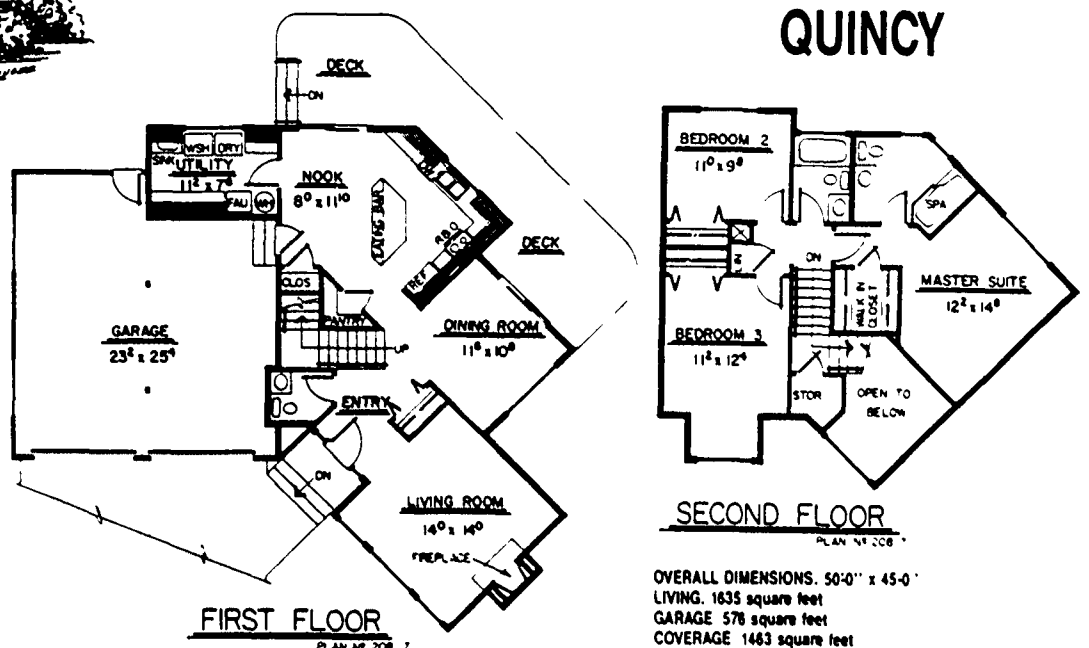

An oversized double garage provides plenty of storage and space for a formal workbench. Its entryway into the kitchen offers convenience as well as safety on cold, dark nights. It's also handy to the indoor utility, complete with a sink that can be used for heavy-duty garage and shop cleanup, as well as laundry.

Soft, diffused light from a high window fills the vaulted entry. Ridges in the vaulted living room ceiling give it a sculpted look, creating an air of quiet elegance. Multi-paned windows framing a central window on the top and sides bring plenty of light into the room, while augmenting the room's formality.

All the sleeping areas are upstairs. The master suite includes a large walk-in closet and separate bath. The oversized tub, which can easily accommodate a spa, is enclosed in glass. A second full bathroom serves the other bedrooms. In the front bedroom, a deep-set dormer window adds traditional charm.

Fix up bedroom on budget

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: By this time next month, I will be a young divorcee. This was not my idea, and I'm not looking forward to living alone, even if I did get to keep most of the furniture.

A friend has offered to help me "dress up the place," especially the bedroom (which I find most depressing of all.) But my money is tight until after the settlement.

Give me some pretty, not-expensive ideas.—B.S.

A: Your friend is right, by the way. While the accepted advice to widows is to make no great changes in haste, I think you would be wise in rushing to put your "singular" stamp on your surroundings. Getting your ex out of sight will also help get him out of mind.

That said, let's talk budget decorating. Paint, wall coverings, yards and yards of pretty fabrics can you give you an almost-instant change of mood for not too much money.

Printed sheets are an especially good buy—lots of yardage that is colorful, durable and easy to work with. You can simply staple them flat on your walls and glue wide grosgrain ribbon over the staples, top and bottom.

Open the headings at the ends, insert wood poles, and gather on the sheets for curtains. Dress your bed to match, of course.

You also can find wonderful coordinating patterns of wall coverings and fabrics, often with bedroom accessories to match—dust ruffle comforters, curtains, pillow shams, table skirts, the works. They will cost more than home sewing, but are still much less expensive than custom-mades.

Check out the photo we show here. Ravishing patterns (all by Cynthia Gibson Inc.) make a plain room pretty. The personality comes from little touches: the wide border, the lace overcloth on the table, ribbon-hung pictures, and the elegant canopy effect, which looks fancy, but is not difficult to make.

Mount a half round of 1/4-inch plywood on the wall (using angle irons), and staple on the hangings, lining pattern first, then side draperies, finally the ruffled canopy itself.

Q: Whatever happened to Dorothy Draper? I remember reading and loving her magazine columns years ago.

A: My mother still has some of her huge cabbage rose curtains in the guest room, and they still look lovely.—V.C.

A: Dorothy Draper, indeed the Queen of the Cabbage Roses, is no doubt advising St. Peter to paint the Pearly Gates pink. She died in 1969 at the age of 80, but her legacy only lives on, the look she called "Great Beauty" is coming back.

If you really want to learn all about the great lady—who stood nearly 6-foot-2 and loved everything on a vast scale—you will enjoy reading "The Draper Touch," the biography her successor, Carleton Varney, brought out to commemorate the centennial of her birth, 1889 (Prentice Hall Press.)

Q: We are foundering in a sea of magazines.

A: Yours is a problem I share, so let me also share the system we have evolved to keep each month's issues moving along so the mail carrier can at least get in the door with the next:

•First week a new magazine arrives: Put it on the coffee table in the family or living room.

•Two weeks later: Move it into the reading rack we keep in each bathroom.

•End of the month: Make a clean sweep and "file" them all in the huge log basket I keep by the fireplace. Make sure the spines are out for easy retrieval.

•Sometime in the next two months: Clip-it in hand, go through the basket, cut out and pile up things of further interest. Sort into two piles: (1) Goes on the bedside table or into my briefcase for immediate reading, (2) Goes into labeled files for future reference.

Some magazines, especially the slick, heavy, beautiful ones still have to be saved in toto, however.

Steal an idea I saw recently in the New Year apartment of a smart young interior designer: He had a shelf built all the way across the wall behind his bed, at headboard height and had stood it full of magazines of uniform size and color. It's as attractive as a visual graphic as it is practical.

icana encyclopedia points out.

Murals are usually painted on canvas, paper or other materials and then mounted on the wall. They can be purchased in rolls and, when applied carefully to walls, the seams will be barely discernible.

Usually, a glaze or a coating of clear lacquer is applied to murals so they can be cleaned without damaging the design.

Wallpapers can enhance the overall decor of the home by carrying out the theme. Papers are available in Victorian styles, Early American, contemporary and just about any period the homemaker desires.

required more frequently in bathrooms because of the extreme moisture.

As for cons, the expense factor stands out immediately. There are some generic papers, which cost $2 per roll, but the quality material can reach $50 per roll.

"The job I'm on right now is a perfect example," Kourt said. "The wallpaper to do two bedrooms, a hallway and a small bathroom is costing these people more than $600... and that's with a 25-percent discount."

"Painting obviously would be a lot cheaper, but, on the other hand, it probably wouldn't look as nice or last as long. That's the decision people have to make," he added.

Wallpapering presents a problem down the road as well. When it's time to make a change, the removal of dried paste is often very difficult.

Kourt agreed that the most challenging transition comes when painting follows wallpapering.

Never too much of a good thing—related patterns, used everywhere, make a plain room pretty special

Dick Tracy memorabilia popular

By Linda Rosenkrantz

No American hero, comic strip or cinematic, was ever tougher than Dick Tracy.

Trench-coated, hawk-nosed and lantern-jawed, Tracy was the quintessential '30s crime-buster. In addition, he holds the dubious distinction of having introduced violence to the Sunday funny papers.

Dick Tracy, the creation of Chester Gould, made his debut in 1931. Gould, the Oklahoma-born son of a newspaperman, had, pre-Tracy, been a Chicago sports cartoonist and then struggled in vain for 10 years to get a comic strip into the Chicago Tribune and national syndication.

Inspired by the gangsters who proliferated Chicago, he finally came up with a strong, stoic character called "Plainclothes Tracy," and sent several sample daily strips to Capt. Joseph Patterson, founder of the New York Daily News, who also ran the syndicate that distributed its comic features.

After Patterson changed the name of the hard-boiled hero to Dick (the crime world nickname for a detective), he took Gould on, directing him to "show the bullets going into the body." Gould followed those directions and then some.

From the start Gould broke two previously held taboos in the comic-strip world, showing both guns and blood. The very first story also introduced three Tracy allies: Chief Brandon, Pat Patton and Tess Trueheart. In the years that followed, there would be a parade of unforgettable grotesque villains—Stooge Viller, Big Boy, the Mole, Littleface, B-B Eyes, the Brow, Shakey, Mumbles, Breathless Mahoney and—perhaps most memorable—Flattop, as well as great comic relief characters—Gravel Gertie, B.O. Plenty, Vitamin Flintheart.

In his fascinating new book, "America's Great Comic-Strip Artists," Richard Marshall calls Gould a "comic-strip expressionist" and a "master of narration." His drawings, which started out as fairly clumsy and inept (he never did quite master perspective or, for that matter, human anatomy) became more personal, more stark, more bold—almost expressionistic—over the years. The frenetic pacing of his plots was augmented by sharp angle shots, shifting points of view and aggressive use of solid black forms.

"Dick Tracy" has always been a favorite of collectors—not only for the graphics—the original art, comic strips and books—but also for all the crime-fighting merchandise (Gould was famous for such gadgets as the two-way wrist radio) that inevitably followed upon his success, especially when he joined the pantheon of radio adventure heroes.

There is an active market these days for the New Haven Watch Co. Dick Tracy wristwatch, first offered in 1934 at $2.65, the friction-operated Dick Tracy Official Squad Car by Marx, a 1940s metal siren pistol, a Secret Service flashlight and badge, membership pins in the Secret Service Patrol and Dick Tracy detective pins, Crimestoppers, police radios, suspender clasp and belt sets, the outside pen with the cap that sounded like a siren when you blew through it, playing cards and boards games—most of which sell in the $10 to $30 price range today.

"America's Great Comic-Strip Artists" by Richard Marshall; Abbeville Press; 296 pages; $55.

In his discussion of Chester Gould, for example, Marshall not only analyzes the cartoonist's graphic and narrative style, but also calls upon comparisons with Plato, medieval morality plays and cinematic techniques.

There are equally perceptive studies of the other comic-strip biggies—R.F. Outcault ("The Yellow Kid" and "Krazy Kat"), Rudolph Dirks ("Krazy Kat"), Winsor McCay ("Little Nemo"), George Herriman ("Krazy Kat"), E.C. Segar ("Popeye"), Harold Gray ("Orphan Annie"), Hal Foster ("Prince Valiant"), Alex Raymond ("Flash Gordon"), Milton Caniff ("Terry and the Pirates"), Al Capp ("Li'l Abner"), Walt Kelly ("Pogo") and Charles Schulz ("Peanuts") and a few of the less familiar—Frederick B. Opper ("Happy Hooligan"), Cliff Sterrett ("Polly and Her Pals") and Roy Crane ("Captain Easy").

This landmark volume is beautifully produced, chock-full of dramatic black-and-white daily strips and faultlessly reproduced Sunday selections.

I dare anyone to look at it and not have his perception of the aesthetic validity of comic-strip art forever altered.

The problems of animal abuse just get bigger...and bigger...and bigger.

On the morning of February 18, 1986, a 40-year old Dearborn man became annoyed at the barking of his sister's 9-year old German Shepherd, Toro. So annoyed, in fact, the man fashioned a spear out of an 8-inch knife taped to a 5-foot length of pipe and stabbed the dog repeatedly until he dropped to the floor. The stabbing was so severe, Toro later had to be destroyed.

But the cruelty didn't end there.

Just 10 months later, the same man approached a 56-year old Dearborn woman outside a local shopping center. Throwing her to the ground, he attempted to gouge her eyes out and choke her. He proceeded to stab a responding Dearborn police officer and had to be shot twice before being apprehended.

Disturbing? Yes.

Coincidental? No.

A recent study by Dr. Alan R. Felthous, M.D. of the University of Texas and Stephen R. Kellert, Ph.D. of Yale University concludes "a pattern of substantial animal abuse may conceivably be associated with a pattern of recurrent violence against people."

Granted, every case of animal abuse doesn't lead to human abuse. But too often, evidence shows that those who commit crimes against another human being have abused an animal in the past.

One such example is a 10-year old Boston youth who took perverse pleasure in trapping puppies and kittens in orange crates and shooting arrows into the box. The young man's name? Albert DeSalvo, later known as "The Boston Strangler."

Unfortunately, such animal abuse is usually unreported or ignored until it escalates.

The problem is that violence inflicted upon an animal, especially at the hands of a child, isn't always considered a problem. It's dismissed as a childish prank or rationalized as an error in judgment.

At the Michigan Humane Society, we do consider it a problem. Because animal abusers all too often grow into human abusers. That's why the MHS, as the only defense against animal abuse, is the first line of defense against human abuse.

That's why we continue to battle for stronger legislation, vigorous prosecution, tougher punishments and mandatory counseling of offenders.

The fact is, normal people don't abuse animals. Such actions are an early sign of deviant behavior. Recognized, it can be corrected. Ignored, it gets worse.

If you want to help prevent animal abuse, support the MHS with a generous contribution. If you're concerned about the increasing violence in our society, support the MHS.

Because if we can allow someone to commit an act of violence against an animal, we shouldn't be surprised when that individual strikes out against another human being.

The hard truth is, left unchecked, the next victim could be your pet, your child or even you.

Studies show animal abuse can lead to human abuse.

Yes, I want to help prevent animal abuse.

GIRL SCOUT Cookies

Is there a hollow, rush-of-air sound when you lift the lid of the cookie jar?

Too tired to whip up a batch of mouthwatering Tollhouse treats? Never fear ... Girl Scouts to the rescue.

No more lonely days for the cookie jar. Soon it'll house gooey, chocolaty Samoas and Caramel Delites. Or crunchy Trefoils and shortbread cookies.

Yep, it's that time again — time for the annual Girl Scout Cookie Sales.

Scouts in the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, which includes Northville Girl Scouts, begin taking advance cookie orders Jan. 12-28.

Presale cookie orders will be taken by Girl Scouts in the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council, which includes Novi Girl Scouts, Jan. 13-Feb. 4.

Cookies for both councils are priced at $2 per box.

Sharon Whichello, one of the chairpersons for the Northville Girl Scout cookie sales, noted that all of the troops at Northville's elementary schools will be selling cookies this year.

Kathy Langham, manager of the Novi Girl Scout cookie sales, said 27 troops in Novi will be selling cookies. She said the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council expects to sell more than $2 million in cookies this year.

If, by chance, you're not contacted by a friendly Girl Scout but would still like to order cookies, there are other resources you can turn to. Northville residents should call the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council office at 1-800-552-4929. Novi residents may call the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council office at 964-4475 or 855-3220. In both cases, staff members at the council offices will take messages and pass them along to local troop leaders.

Cookie booths also will be set up at high visibility areas in Northville and Novi throughout March. Look for designated cookie booth locations in upcoming editions of the Northville Record and Novi News.

Langham and Whichello stressed that the scouts rely most heavily on the door-to-door cookie sales.

In both Northville and Novi, increased cookie sales are reported every year, as the population of each community expands and the number of Girl Scouts grows.

There are three bakers licensed by the Girl Scouts to produce the cookies. ABC Interbake Company is the cookie supplier for the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council, while Little Brownie Baker supplies cookies for the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council.

Health-conscious cookie eaters may rest easier knowing that all Girl Scout cookies are baked with vegetable shortening and contain no artificial preservatives.

A newcomer to the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council's cookie line this year is a cheddar cheese cracker called Golden Yangles. And joining the list of favorites for the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council this year are Cabana Cremes, vanilla cookies sandwiched with lemon or vanilla creme (known as Lemon Pastry Cremes by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council).

Everyone's favorite varieties also are back, including Shortbread, also known as Trefoils. Caramel Delites, also called Samoas; Thin Mints; Peanut Butter Patties or Tagalongs; Peanut Butter Sandwiches or Do-Si-Dos; and Country Hearth Chocolate Chip Cookies (offered by the Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council) which contain 25 percent less sugar, are sweetened with fruit juice and baked with oatmeal.

The most popular variety among all of the councils is the Thin Mint. In Novi, Tagalongs (or peanut butter patties) were the most popular cookies last year, when 36,000 cases of that variety were sold.

Proceeds from the annual cookie sales represent more than 50 percent of the Girl Scout operating budgets. Troop proceeds help provide supplies, educational field trips and service projects.

Cookie selling is a voluntary activity for local Girl Scouts. Those who choose to sell cookies are trained in proper selling procedures.

Random Sample

Q: What is your favorite kind of girl scout cookie?

Six said: "Peanut Butter Patties"

Three said: "Thin Mints"

One said: "Trefoils"

"The box that's open."
"Whatever my kids don't get to first."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll conducted by the staff of The Northville Record and The Novi News.

Volunteers

Needham helps others

By DOROTHY NASH

"It's a learning process in mental health for me," Heidi Needham said of her volunteering at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital.

This housewife and mother of two children, three and six years old, assists one afternoon a week in the clothing room, and four times a year she sits on the Citizens Advisory Council.

In the clothing room, Needham said, "there are piles of donated clothing" which are to be delivered to particular wards which need them. Clothing can be of all kinds, and each item has to be marked and recorded as to where it is going. This marking and recording is her job. The man in charge of the room tells her which pile goes where.

As for the Citizens Advisory Council, this is a group under the supervision of the Michigan Department of Mental Health, and its purpose is "to advise the Facility Director and appropriate state officers regarding administrative, policy, program, budgetary, and recipient rights issues which will aid in securing the civil and human rights for each resident."

On the Council Needham is a member of the Voluntary Contributions Committee, which accepts a wide variety of items for wards — such as pictures, books, rugs, vacuum cleaners.

Why does Heidi Needham volunteer at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital? In answer, she said, "After the birth of my second child I had post partem psychosis and was hospitalized. It made me interested in mental health, and when I read in The Record that there was a need for volunteers at the hospital right here in Northville, I applied to be on the Advisory Council."

There is a variety of interesting volunteer jobs available there, she said, but some take more time than she can afford away from her children.

If you want to find out about volunteering, call Carol Park, Community Relations Director, at 349-1800.

Couples exchange wedding vows

JEAN AND PAUL DELLOCK

Jean Susan Valo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Valo of Ludlow Court in Northville, married Paul Kenneth Dellock, son of Mrs. Mildred Dellock and the late Mr. Paul Dellock of Warren on Oct. 7, 1989.

The 4 p.m. double-ring ceremony was held at Holy Trinity Lutheran Church in Livonia. Highlights included recitation of a poem written by the bride, read by the wedding couple. Soloist Laurie Lambert also sang "One Hand One Heart" as the couple lit the wedding candle. The ceremony was officiated by the Rev. Robert C. Setz.

The bride wore a white satin gown with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice was accented with sequin and pearl-beaded lace inserts. Her gown featured a chapel-length train and a fingertip veil. She also wore a headpiece of flowers and spray pearl beads. The bride carried a cascade of white roses, pink sweetheart roses, ivy and baby's breath.

Maid of honor was Elizabeth Chamberlain of Chicago, a friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Joan E. Fell, sister of the bride, and Katrina Ciavattone, friend of the bride. They wore royal blue tea-length gowns with symmetrical hemlines. The gowns had lace bodices accented with satin skirts. The bride's attendants carried nosegays of mauve and blue flowers.

Flower girl was Shanna Slank, cousin of the groom. She wore a long white dress trimmed in royal blue and carried a white basket filled with mauve and blue flowers.

Best man was Michael Matejewski, friend of the groom. Groomsmen were John Impellizzeri and Brian Ciavattone, both friends of the groom.

A dinner reception followed at the Holiday Inn Holiday in Livonia, followed by dancing to a live band. Friends of the wedding couple traveled from Wisconsin, Illinois, Texas and Tennessee to attend the reception.

The couple took a wedding trip to Orlando and Marco Island. They met at Ford Motor Company Body Engineering, where they both are employed.

The bride is a 1980 graduate of Northville High School. She also attended Schoolcraft College, where she earned degrees in marketing and secretarial skills. She is currently a student at the University of Michigan at Dearborn.

OLV students win recognition

OUR LADY OF VICTORY SCHOOL

On behalf of the faculty and students of Our Lady of Victory School we hope you and your family had a Christmas filled with the Peace, Hope, and Love of the Christ Child. May these special gifts of His remain with you throughout the New Year.

The students enjoyed their pizza and pop party recently hosted by Papa Romano's of Plymouth and owner Mr. Zig Grutza. Second graders visited Domino Farms in the afternoon and enjoyed the petting farm and hay ride as a reward for beating the competition in the all-school candy sale this fall.

Kindergartners and students in grades one through five enjoyed an afternoon at the Marquis Theater recently. Forty mothers accompanied them as chaperones.

The OLV Computer Fund has almost reached the goal of $7,500. There is $1,100 needed yet. Parents and friends can make a tax deductible contribution and have their names placed on a plaque for benefactors in the Computer Lab.

OLV School would like to congratulate the following students for their outstanding work on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP). All of these students scored 100 percent on these tests:

Math & Reading — Jeff Brazunas, Jeff Korreck, Annie Obrecht, Kelsey Sasseman, Tomas Sirgedas, Sarah

Townsend, Brian Buser, Dominic Fracassi, David Fuelling, John P. Martin, Ryan McKenna, and Greg Obrecht.

Science — Anthony Fessler, Nicholas Gittins, Lyndsay Huot, Sarah Wright, and John Holtschneider.

Scores for the school were excellent.

96.6 percent of the fourth graders and 85.2 percent of the seventh graders scored in the highest category in math. 87.9 percent of the fifth graders and 72 percent of the eighth graders scored in the highest category in science and 55.2 percent of the fourth graders and 66.7 percent of the seventh graders answered at least 300 of the 350 questions on both parts of the reading comprehension test correctly.

The Santa Shop on Nov. 28 and 29 chaired by Nancy Raub and Sandy Harmer, school mothers, was a real crowd pleaser. Students purchased gifts, wrapped them and enjoyed punch and cookies with classmates.

Congratulations to Mrs. Mary Goode, Music Director, for an outstanding Christmas Concert. "It's Time For Christmas" put everyone in the holiday mood.

PTA News is featured weekly in the Record. This week's news is from Our Lady of Victory School. If you would like to publish school news in the Record, call the newspaper office at 349-1700.

Little sports

Book spells out rules to favorite office games

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Most everybody knows them, and many have played them — those games that can mean the difference between a dull afternoon or a heated competition in the office or at home. They're little sports, games like thumb wrestling, penny pitching and finger football. But until now, there has been no bible for the blow hockey aficionados, no rule book for the rubber band marksman. Finally, a book has been published that lays to rest all those arguments about the proper coin to use for table hockey, or the best "goop" to use to make your drinking straw wrapper stick to the ceiling during a rousing game of "Cafeteria Blow Darts."

The book, aptly titled "Little Sports," is written by Dan Carlinsky and Ed Goodgold and published by McGraw-Hill. "Little Sports" lays out the rules to many well-known office games in tongue-in-cheek words and illustrations. The book may also be an entertainment bargain at $7.95. "In this age of Nintendo, with this book and 20 cents you can go buy everything you need to play 20 games," Goodgold said.

The impetus for the book, he added, came when he worked for a company, "since defunct," where the employees managed to work only two hours a week. The rest of the time was spent finding ways to waste time.

"But you can play only so much trivia, you can eat only so much lunch and take only so many coffee breaks," Goodgold said. So, in order to continue to avoid doing their jobs, the employees eventually developed an elaborate set of office sports, even holding play-offs and tournaments as time wore on.

"Although I saw an exaggerated case," Goodgold said, "I realized that this was a universal phenomenon. It's almost like forbidden recess."

So Goodgold and Carlinsky, who claim to have started the trivia craze with the publication of their book "Trivia" in 1966, turned their attention to this new cultural phenomenon. "We look at this in a way as the physical equivalent to trivia," Goodgold said.

According to Goodgold, several of the little sports are already on their way to becoming national pastimes. The Southern Comfort liquor company sponsors a finger football tournament, he said, while Canadian Mist sponsors thumb wrestling.

While Goodgold applauds the efforts of these forward-thinking companies, he admitted that other major corporations, which he calls "the speed bumps of capitalism," have failed to follow suit in the sponsorship of such games. While the games exist, played out in secluded office rooms across the country, today's card flipping champions and rubber-band marksmen go unrewarded, their unique skills unrecognized.

The dates for an official Office Olympics, or even a finger decathlon, remain to be set.

But even if the little sports never become national events, Goodgold remained sure that their popularity will continue. "We didn't invent it, we codified it," he said of the trivia craze. "Same here. If it becomes a cultural phenomenon, that's good. Whether it becomes big in the media or not, it goes on."

"Every embarrassing activity in this country, with luck, becomes an industry," he added.

The Northville Record

Northville grapplers fall to state powers

Dave Kovacovich (bottom) was one of 11 Mustangs to fall in dual meet action against top-ranked Temperance-Bedford

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

In one evening — at a triple-dual meet — the Northville wrestlers were teamed up against two of the top five Class A teams in the state. The Mustangs quickly found out that even though they are good, they aren't that good.

Not surprisingly, the Mustangs dropped their first and second dual meets of the season that night, but did salvage the Jan. 4 outing with an easy win over Garden City. The first loss came against WLA-A foe Plymouth Salem, and the second versus top-ranked Temperance Bedford.

"To some people, a triple dual meet like this is suicide, but we were in favor of it because it will do nothing but help our guys improve," Northville Coach Bob Boshoven said. The most meaningful result was the 39-16 loss to Salem in the first match of the evening. The undermanned Mustangs did manage to register five victories in the 13 bouts and held the Rocks to under 40 points for the first time in years.

"It's the first time since I've been around in the last four years that we've held them under 50," Boshoven noted. "I really wasn't disappointed because we had some very tough matches. There were a couple we had a chance to win and didn't, but Salem is very tough."

Northville started off on the right foot with wins in the first two bouts at 103 and 112. Matt Allison (103) decisively Scott Martin 12-6 and Kevin Khashan (112) shipped past Dan Bonnett 8-5.

The other wins came from Jerett Beer at 135, Curt Cureton at 145 and Garnet Potter at 152. Beer edged Jeff Shumate 12-10, Cureton clobbered Bob Hanson 10-0 and Potter turned back Charlie Apigian 5-2.

The closest match of the night may have been at 125 where Ken Stopa nipped Brandon Mardossian 4-3, handing him his first defeat of the season in 15 tries. The other Mustang defeats came from Dave Kovacovich at 119, Jamie Ryder at 130, Kevin Delaney at 140, Bob Townsend at 160, Jason Vertrees at 171, Dave Morante at 189 and Mark McCarthy at heavyweight.

TEMPERANCE BEDFORD 60, NORTHVILLE 8: The Mustangs found out why this is the number-one ranked team in the state. Fresh off an incredible 73-0 shutout over Garden City, Temperance Bedford won 11-of-13 bouts against Northville. "They were very, very impressive," Boshoven said. "Our tough guys had a few close matches, but we weren't much of a challenge for them."

Mardossian and Townsend were the only Mustangs to escape unscathed. Mardossian scored five of his team's eight points with a technical fall victory (17-1) against Scott Klostermeier at 125 and Townsend increased his season record to 14-3 at 160 with an 11-4 decision over Greg Coon.

Khashan and Potter are among Northville's best, but they fell. Khashan dropped an 8-3 decision to Al Barnhizer, the top-rated 112-pounder in the state and Potter suffered his first loss of the season in an 8-5 decision versus Mike Bushane at 152. Potter is still unbeaten at 145, however.

NORTHVILLE 40, GARDEN CITY 27: Facing a young Garden City squad, Boshoven sprinkled his lineup with underclassmen and still pulled out an easy win over the Cougars. The Mustangs were victorious in eight bouts.

"We weren't too concerned about losing this one," Boshoven said. "(Garden City) is young, so it gave me an opportunity to get a few of our younger guys into the action."

North Farmington tops Mustang gymnasts in opener

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Northville gymnastics coach Michelle Charniga called last Monday's (Jan. 8) dual meet with North Farmington "one of the longest I've ever seen." In all, the Mustangs were at the North gymnasium from 6-10:30 p.m. for their 1990 season opener.

The lengthy stay would have probably seemed much shorter if Northville hadn't dropped a 128.0-115.25 decision to the powerful Raiders.

"It's asking a lot of the girls to come out of the holiday break and jump right into their first competition," Charniga said. "We have a lot of work to do, and the first thing is our conditioning. We have a lot of new kids and we're kind of rebuilding."

The 115.25 score isn't exactly what Charniga had in mind prior to the competition, but it was just enough to give the Mustangs their first regional qualifying score. The cutoff is 115.0, and three more would put Northville into the MHSAA Regionals as a team for the fourth straight year.

"North Farmington is always one of the best teams around, so I wasn't disappointed with the loss," Charniga said. "I thought we did a good job overall, and we did have several very good individual performances. More than anything else, I used this meet as a chance to get a good look at the girls and see what they can do."

The best event for the Mustangs was the floor exercise. The team combined to score 31.65 points, but it was still nearly two points behind North Farmington (33.1). Mia DeHart paced Northville, and was third overall in the event with an 8.35. She was followed by Lee LaChance in fifth place (8.15) and Tracie Surdu in sixth (7.9). Leslie Allen (7.25) and Beth Cannizzaro (7.05) also competed.

The vault also went well for the locals, even though DeHart was unable to compete in the event because of a nagging back injury. Melanie Apligian placed fourth overall (8.0), Ris Fleming and LaChance tied for fifth place with identical 7.6 efforts. Liz Torok scored a 7.0 and Becky Carney a 6.8.

"Mia is really hurting, so we had to put in a newcomer — Liz Torok — at the last minute and she came through with our fourth-best score," Charniga explained.

Last season, Northville's top event was the uneven parallel bars, but on Monday the Mustangs struggled as a team and scored just 25.9 points. DeHart (8.5) and LaChance (7.7) had outstanding routines — and placed second and third respectively — but the other performances weren't nearly as impressive. Carney (5.0), Megan Graham (4.7) and Surdu (4.4) rounded out the scoring.

The Raiders outscored Northville 30.75-27.5 in the fourth event as well — the balance beam. LaChance (7.85) and DeHart (7.15) placed third and fourth respectively. The remaining scores came from Graham (6.4), Torok (6.1), Fleming (6.0) and Lisa Hojnacki (5.75).

The Mustangs (0-1 overall) are scheduled to host Farmington on Jan. 10 (after Record deadline) and then Plymouth Canton on Jan. 15.

Harwell credits faith for successful career

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Ernie Harwell, fondly known as the voice of the Detroit Tigers, sometimes describes himself as "a turtle on a fencepost."

Why? Because when, if ever, you see a turtle perched on a fencepost you know it didn't get there alone — someone helped it along.

Harwell says he, too, received help throughout his lifetime. And the guiding force every step of the way is his faith.

The broadcasting giant's distinctive voice filled the room inside Fellowship Hall at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville Sunday evening as Harwell spoke to members of Single Place, a support group for adult singles. During his visit, Harwell shared stories about the most important influences in his life — baseball and God.

Accompanying him was his wife of 48 years, Lulu, whom Harwell calls "my best blessing of all."

Ironically, Harwell admitted that as a youngster he was terribly tongue-tied. He grew up in Georgia and although his family was poor, Harwell's parents sent him to school to help him overcome the handicap.

Because his family had little money, Harwell said he established a primary goal of making money and becoming successful.

"My first ambition as a youngster was to be a major league baseball player," Harwell recalled. "I wanted to be one in the worst way and that's exactly how I played."

Since he lacked the athletic ability to play baseball for a living, Harwell decided to do the next best thing — to write about it. At 16, he wrote a letter to the editor of "The Sporting News," requesting a job as Atlanta correspondent for the publication. Much to Harwell's surprise, the editor took him up on his offer.

"My first ambition as a youngster was to be a major league baseball player. I wanted to be one in the worst way and that's exactly how I played."

— Ernie Harwell
Voice of Detroit Tigers

However, his byline didn't appear as frequently as he wanted it to and before long Harwell pursued local notoriety by getting a job at the "Atlanta Constitution."

"I soon learned that having a byline didn't mean a doggone thing," Harwell said. "The same paper that carries front page news, lines the garbage can the next day."

Abandoning a writing career, Harwell developed talents in radio broadcasting. At the age of 22, he originated a nightly sports news broadcast for WSB, a radio station in Atlanta. Finally he had discovered his niche.

Following four years in the Marine Corps during World War II with service in the Orient, Harwell returned to Atlanta and became the broadcaster for the Atlanta Crackers. He also broadcast the Masters Golf Tournament and Georgia Tech games. In 1948 he was appointed broadcaster for the Dodgers. Two years later he moved to the Giants, then to the Orioles before coming to Detroit in 1960.

Harwell credits his faith for the successes in his career.

"I have been very fortunate to meet great people in sports and the media," he said. "God put me in the right places to advance my career."

Harwell also offered reflections on some of his favorite baseball players, including Willie Mays, "the best single player I've ever seen"; Jackie Robinson, a great competitor who paved the way for other blacks to play baseball; and Brooks Robinson,

"the best third baseman."

The best Detroit baseball players, according to Harwell, included Al Kaline, "a great team man"; Norm Cash;

Spikers advance to playoffs at Walled Lake Invitational

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

For a team that had just one match under its belt, the Northville spikers were very competitive at the Walled Lake Central Invitational last weekend (Jan. 6) against teams playing in their fourth or fifth outing of the season.

The tournament featured 12 teams that were split into three pools of four each. The Mustangs were put into 'Pool C' along with Brighton, Clarkston and Livonia Franklin, went 1-1-1 against those teams, and advanced to the playoffs before losing in the first round.

Northville's most important contest of the day came against Franklin — a WLAA Western Division opponent — in the third round. The Mustangs won the match 15-9, 15-12, which tied the team for second place in Pool C with Clarkston. The Wolves won the tiebreaker but Northville advanced to the playoffs anyway as one of the top eight teams in the field.

In game one against the Patriots, the Mustangs jumped out to a 10-3 lead, then gave up four straight points before scoring five of the last seven to win it. Northville also established an early lead in the second game, going up by scores of 6-1 and 8-3. Franklin made a run and pulled within two, at 13-11, but the locals pulled it out with a late surge.

"There were spurts where we played super — then we'd have a lapse," Mustang Coach Paul Osborn said.

Indoor exercise key during winter

Cross country ski machines are recommended for indoor workouts

"Winter's cold, rain, and snow bring many people's outdoor exercise programs to a halt; yet a regular exercise program may be more important during the winter than at any other time of year," according to Diane DeMarco, executive director of the National Exercise for Life Institute.

The extra activities and stress of the holidays, coupled with fewer hours of sunlight and the hassle of nasty weather and long days indoors, can bring on cabin fever and 'the blues.'

However, regular exercise stimulates the brain's production of the hormone norepinephrine, which is related to emotional stability. Exercise may also stimulate substances in the brain called endorphins. These chemicals are referred to as 'natural opiates' because they give a natural feeling of well-being.

"Regular aerobic exercise is important because it helps you to maintain and improve your flexibility, strength and endurance. It also improves your mental acuity and helps you to manage stress," said Dale Moss, M.S., clinical exercise physiologist at Abbott Northwestern Hospital in Minneapolis.

People who live in 'winter cities,' where the average January temperature is 32 degrees Fahrenheit, especially need to plan for winter exercise activities, noted DeMarco. Cities in this category include Detroit, Minneapolis, Chicago, Spokane, Wash. and Kansas City, Miss. However, parts of Arizona, New Mexico and Texas average between 40 and 80 days of snow cover per year.

"Even in warmer parts of the nation, people can't rely on being able to pursue their regular outdoor exercise activities year-round," DeMarco said.

"The exercise people select should be something they enjoy, and be endurance-based," Moss notes.

"Cross-country skiing, of course, is the Cadillac of aerobic exercise."

Fitness experts agree that cross-country skiing is the world's best exercise because it uses all of the major muscles in the body. Even in snow-belt states, however, cross-country skiing is not always available.

In fact, it was the exceptionally cold winter of 1975, plus temporary lack of suitable snow, that inspired cross-country ski enthusiast Ed Pauls to invent the NordicTrack cross-country ski exercise machine. Other brands are now on the market like the Jarvinen Aerobic Trainer and the CSA Alpine Tracker.

"The machine" simulates the motions of cross-country skiing, but it also became popular with non-skiers because it provides a convenient, total-body workout," said Pauls, a mechanical design engineer and the chairman of NordicTrack. "Today, 75 percent of all owners have never cross-country skied."

"It gives the benefits of an aerobic workout, but without the trauma of running or jogging," noted Roy Bergman, M.D., Liaison to National Governing Bodies, United States Olympic Committee on Sports Medicine.

Bergman also noted that these cross-country ski machines can be used indoors. "A lot of people won't run if it's raining outside. And if you can use something inside, you're much more likely to keep up the program year-round, and avoid becoming sedentary," Bergman added.

People who use in-home equipment tend to want to get the maximum workout in the least amount of time.

"It gives a complete aerobic workout, and tones the entire body, in as little as 20 minutes a day, three days a week," Pauls said.

For more information on the benefits of aerobic exercise, call The National Exercise For Life Institute at (612) 448-3094.

Fitness Tips

Diet and exercise misconceptions examined

As the new year begins many of us are making an effort to eat better, exercise more, reduce stress and generally live healthier lives. Dieting and exercise are common ways with which people choose to try and reduce their waistline and increase their level of fitness. The following true or false quiz will help provide some answers to some common misconceptions about dieting and exercise:

1. It is possible to spot reduce specific areas of fatty tissue on the body.

False: Studies have shown that spot exercises do not reduce body fat locally. Total body movement (walking, jogging, swimming, etc.) is required to lose body fat. Furthermore, fatty tissue is lost in the reverse order it is put on; the first area to gain weight is the last to lose it.

2. Wearing a sauna suit or plastic clothing to increase sweating during exercise will help you lose fat quicker and keep it off.

False: Use of heavy clothing or sauna suits during exercise does not increase fat loss and can be dangerous. The increased weight loss is due to lack of water and salt which is replaced almost immediately after eating or drinking. Unneeded clothing in warm weather or temperatures can increase likelihood of dehydration and complications to the heart and brain.

3. It is better to eat three or more small meals per day than to eat the same amount of calories in one or two meals.

True: Eating three or more smaller meals a day is more effective for weight control than eating only one or two meals. Increasing time between meals forces the body to adapt to "famine" conditions. Therefore, when a meal is finally eaten the body stores more of the fat than it would under normal conditions.

4. Two miles of walking at or near your target heart rate is equal to two miles of jogging at your target heart rate in the amount of calories burned.

True: Both intensity and duration affect the number of calories that are burned during exercise. While walking is normally done at a lower intensity than jogging, the increased duration will compensate. Both walking and jogging are good exercises for weight control.

5. If you're looking for weight loss, exercising twice a week is sufficient.

False: According to the American College of Sports Medicine, exercising three times weekly is the minimum recommended frequency for achieving weight loss.

6. If you are on a true diet, you should avoid exercise.

False: There are several reasons why it is important to exercise when dieting. (1) It helps prevent loss of muscle mass normally associated with strict dieting. (2) It helps prevent decreased metabolic activity that normally occurs with dieting alone. The slower the metabolism, the harder it is to lose weight. (3) It is more fun than strict dieting. (4) By combining exercise with diet, you can eat a little more by burning off the additional calories through exercise.

7. The recommended weekly caloric expenditure from exercise to aid in weight loss is 600 calories.

False: The American College of Sports Medicine recommends a caloric expenditure of 300 calories/day through exercise, three or four times a week, or a weekly expenditure of 1,000 calories to aid in weight loss. By exercising more frequently you can burn the same number of calories by exercising less often at a greater intensity. (200 calories/day, five times a week 333 calories/day, three times a week.)

8. Eating one plain cake-type donut

(125 calories) every day in excess of your caloric expenditure can result in a five pound weight gain in one year.

False: In one year, a 13-pound gain could result, 3,500 extra calories equals about one pound of stored fat. On a yearly basis, the surplus number of calories would be 45,625 calories (365 days x 125 calories). Theoretically, if all eating habits stay the same and the energy output is unchanged, this weight gain could occur 3,500 calories 1 pound.

Lose two pounds a week by following the formula shown below:

Reduce daily intake by 500 calories

Increase daily energy output by 500 calories. Seven (days) x 1,000 calories 7,000 calories 2 lbs

Remember: Research proves that both diet and exercise vs. diet alone is the most safe and effective method of weight loss.

Novi Athletic Director speaks at national convention

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Nearly 4,000 high school athletic directors got a healthy dose of wisdom on the subject of Sportsmanship and Coaching Ethics — Novistyle — at the National Federation of State High School Association's (NFSHSA) 20th annual Convention of Directors of Athletics last month in Dallas.

Novi A D John Fundukian was one of approximately 75 speakers on hand for the convention, that lasted from Dec. 10-13. It was his fourth trip to the conference — his first as a speaker.

"I thought it was an outstanding convention and it was an honor and a delight to deliver my presentation," he said. "We do a lot of good things in Michigan . . . and in Novi, so it was nice to be able to share our ideas and concepts with others across the country."

The focus area for Fundukian's presentation was concepts and programs in place in Michigan and Novi in the area of sportsmanship and coaching ethics and how to apply these models to local school districts.

He was joined by moderator Terry Schmidt of North Platte, Neb., and Dave Harvey of Boone, Iowa — who talked about the goals of the NFSHSA National Committee on the subject of sportsmanship.

"One of the fun things about this conference was that you got an opportunity to work together with others from all over the country," Fundukian said. "It was nice to be able to pool together for our presentation."

Attendance at the Sportsmanship Workshop was very good. According to Fundukian, they were told to prepare for about 80 people, but about 200 showed up, including at least one athletic director from every state.

"It was up to the individuals to decide what workshop sessions to attend," Fundukian said. "There were about seven others going on at the same time as ours, so it was exciting to see such a good turn out.

"They were really receptive to the Novi School District's athletic philosophy and our awards program."

Every varsity team presents six awards at the conclusion of each season at Novi. The awards are for sportsmanship, leadership, improvement, academics, effort and teamwork. In all, that's 120 awards in 20 different sports.

While at the convention, Fundukian became one of only 150 athletic directors nationwide to pass the Certified Athletic Administrator Examination, a test instituted last year by the NFSHSA. It's an 80 question quiz that had to be completed in 90 minutes.

"I know I passed, but I haven't got my grades yet," Fundukian said.

Fundukian was particularly impressed with two other presentations. One was by Zig Zigler, a nationally acclaimed motivational speaker, and the other was by Dr. Thomas Tutko, a noted sports psychologist. Zigler spoke about 'Winning as a Choice' and highlighted the qualities that you like to see in coaches and athletes. Tutko's topic was 'Building Character through Sports.'

"They brought in some very inspiring people," Fundukian said.

While in Dallas, Fundukian found time to visit the Texas School Book Depository — the sight of the assassination of John F. Kennedy in 1963.

"It was one of the highlights for me," Fundukian said. "I've never been in Dallas before and I thought it would be an interesting and important historical visit. It brought back a lot of emotions for me. I remember exactly where I was when I heard about the assassination, and visiting the site really impressed upon me the magnitude of it. It left an indelible mark on everyone's life."

Spikers advance at invite

four dual meets and a holiday scrimmage already behind them. Northville, on the other hand, had one dual meet victory over Novi to its credit. The experience factor was definitely slanted in Brighton's favor.

"We made too many mistakes," Osborn said. "They've played a lot of matches and we haven't."

"I told the girls before we started playing that I was using these matches for a final look at about eight or nine of them, in order to distinguish our starting line-up and our top back-ups before we get into the conference portion of our schedule. I knew we needed a third middle-blocker, and third and fourth weakside-hitter and a third strongside-hitter — and I think we found them. We'll need some decent back-ups to give the starters a break — that's what I was looking for."

In game one, Northville kept things close, trailing 12-9, before Brighton reeled off the final three points in succession. The next game was very similar as the Bulldogs struggled to build a 10-7 lead and then quickly closed it out with five unanswered points.

NORTHVILLE 12-15, CLARKSTON 15-12: The Mustangs split two close games against Clarkston in round two.

In the first game, the Wolves took advantage of Northville serving woes by scoring the final three points to break a 12-12 deadlock to win 15-12. In game two, the tables turned when the Mustangs notched the final four points to complete a come-from-behind 15-12 win. Junior Karen Vogt closed out the game with a service ace.

"(Clarkston) had a least four girls who were 5-foot-11 or taller, so we were at a definite height disadvantage," Osborn said. "But we stayed with them and both games were very close, very competitive."

ROCHESTER 15-15, NORTHVILLE 9-10: The Mustangs quickly bowed out of the playoffs against the Falcons.

"We didn't play very well," Osborn said. "We didn't concentrate, so we ended up beating ourselves more than anything else. Where we really failed was in our finesse game."

As for the entire tournament, Osborn praised senior middle blockers Colleen Hesse, who had 10 solo blocks, and Jenny Urbahns, who exhibited some intimidating play at the net. He was also pleased with the performance of setters Neysa Colizzi and Amanda Parke.

"Our setter played well," Osborn said. "There weren't too many sets our team couldn't make a play on, and that's what I like to see."

Other standouts included Sue LaPrad for her back row passing, and Vogt for her hitting.

Northville (2-2-1 overall) will be back in action on Jan. 15 on the road at Farmington Harrison.
