Township troubled by terms of proposed agreement

Questions on the funding of the proposed Haller Library kept the Northville Township Board of Trustees from approving a joint services agreement during a Jan. 26 special meeting.

The board debated and then tabled the City of Northville's proposal for the 1990 city/township joint services agreement.

The joint services agreement provides funding for four cooperative use areas, including Northville Youth Assistance, the Senior Citizens group, community recreation and the public library.

The sticking point was the city's funding formula for construction and operation of the proposed 44,800-square-foot library, members of the board said.

According to the city's proposal, submitted to the township by City Manager Steven Walters Jan. 18, the township would pay 100 percent of the cost of the library after 25,000 square feet (an additional 19,800 square feet, based on donor Frieda Haller's 44,800-square-foot stipulation).

In addition, the township and city would split the remaining 56 percent of the cost of the library based on the State Equalized Value (SEV) of the respective communities.

Township Attorney Ernest Essad Jr. told the board that the city's formula would require the township to pay approximately 85 percent of the total cost of the library project, a figure which would likely reach 90 percent or higher as population climbs in the township.

"I don't like that," Trustee James Nowka said. "... This agreement becomes more of an advantage to them (the city)."

Nowka said he objected to the city obtaining equity in the site by contributing to the proposed 15-year bond payoff. He also said the city should not be able to build equity in the real property (land and building).

Essad said the city felt its financial contributions should entitle it to an ownership share of the library.

"That may or may not be fair," he said. "It's a policy decision of the board."

Essad said the formula as presented by the city would mean that township taxpayers would be responsible for $4.3 million of a $5-million library project.

The city would be obligated to pick up the remaining $700,000 in debt retirement funds, he said.

Trustee Richard Allen said the agreement should include provisions — including buyout clauses — in case the city and township enter a period of estrangement.

"We're on good terms with the city and want to be," he said. "But who knows what it's going to be like in 20 years."

Sale a long time coming

By MIKE TYREE

A 12-year-old plan to sell 930 acres of Wayne County land in Northville Township finally came to fruition last week, when a development group headed by Plymouth Township builder R.A. DeMattia purchased the land for almost $32 million.

The county property is flanked on the east by Sheldon Road and on the west by Beck Road. The land lies between Five and Six Mile roads.

DeMattia, who outbid a group consisting of Oakland County developers Jitzman & Silverman, L.H. LoPattn & Company, and the Jack Nicklaus Development Corporation of Illinois, said he was extremely pleased with the decision.

"We are happy, we've worked long and hard for this," he said at a press conference in the office of County Executive Edward McNamara. "We applaud the county's fairness in negotiations and the way the project was handled."

DeMattia said the site would be developed as the Huntington Falls Project and would be split into roughly equal portions of residential housing, open space and research and development industrial area.

He said 1999 is the target date for completion of the development.

McNamara said the county initially entertained offers from 25 developers interested in the property, which formerly housed the Wayne County Child Development Center.

McNamara said DeMattia's winning bid came to $31.75 million, including $4 million in site preparation and demolition of the abandoned Child Development buildings.

According to a Holtzman & Silverman press release, the county's required terms made the group's proposed master-planned, mixed-use development "economically unfeasible."

The group dropped its bid attempt after it decided the combination $32-million price tag, short time frame for acquisition of zoning and closure, and demolition and cleanup of asbestos-laden buildings was too steep a price to pay, according to the release.

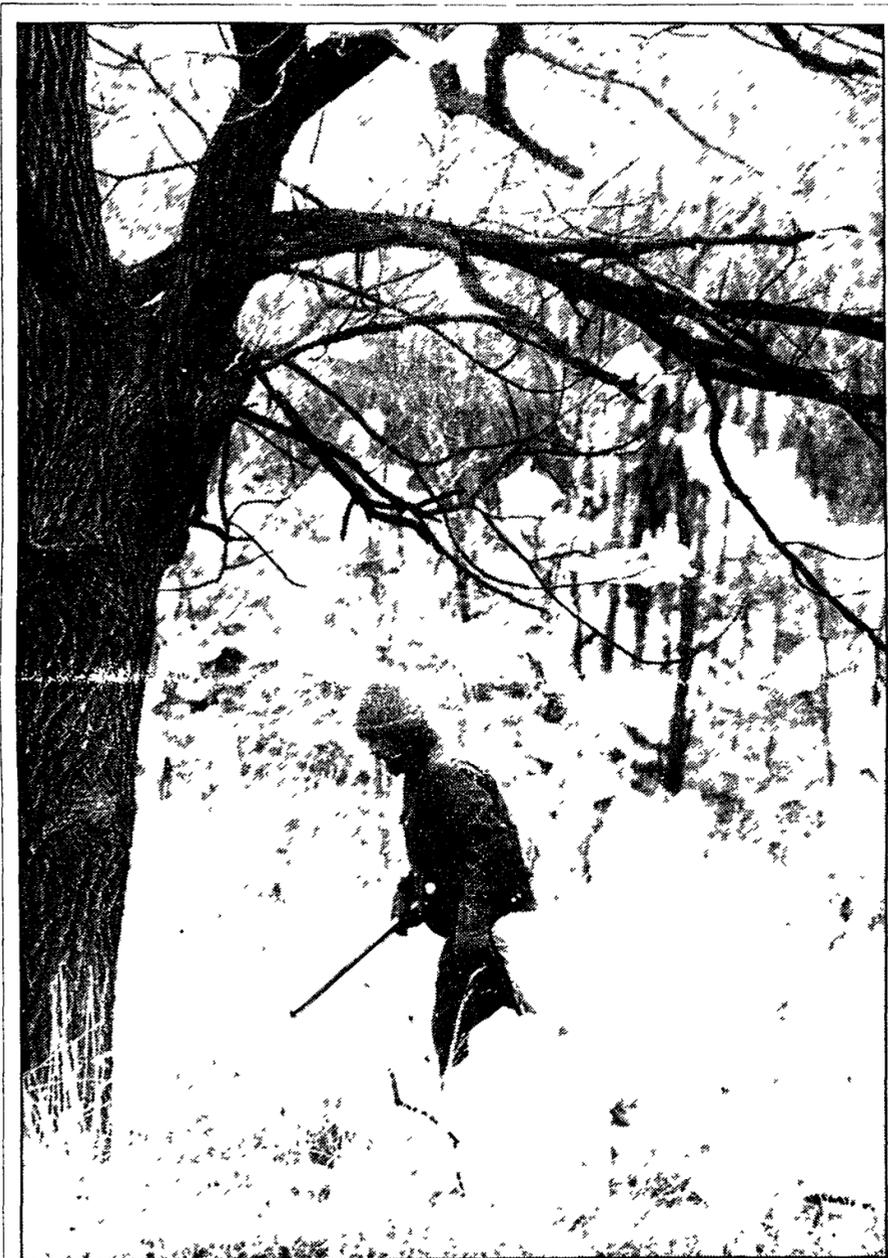

The sale and accompanying development of the land will produce 1,800 new jobs and add $8 million in new county tax revenue, McNamara said.

Bill Wild, Wayne County ombudsman, said Tuesday that the sale will be completed after approval by the Wayne County Commission.

"It looks pretty good. We're very optimistic," he said.

Not a pretty picture

Last Thursday's extremely high winds caused power outages and downed branches in some areas, but in the Northville Township neighborhood near the Salem Hills landfill operated by Browning Ferris Industries, it caused a big mess. Above, a temporary worker helps clean up the area at the southwest corner of Six Mile and Napier roads. The 40 m.p.h. winds gusting to 60 m.p.h. sent trash from the landfill all over surrounding trees and grass. For more on the problem see page 14A.

Accord near for recreation complex

By MIKE TYREE

Officials from Northville Township and a development team said Tuesday that a recreation complex may be built on Beck Road between Five Mile and Six Mile roads if the state approves the developer's wetlands mitigation plan.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said the township is negotiating with Detroit Realty Partners of Kansas City in an attempt to have the group construct a 38-acre wetlands and recreation site.

Detroit Realty Partners is seeking to develop a 6.23-acre site on Eight Mile Road east of Haggerty, according to the group's liaison, Don Henkelman of First Commercial Bank.

Henkelman said 5.1 acres of the Eight Mile Road site is considered wetlands by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The developers will ask the DNR to allow them to mitigate, or transfer the wetlands from the Eight Mile Road site to the proposed Northville Community Park site on the west side of Beck, between Our Lady of Providence Center and two prisons on Five Mile, Henkelman said.

He said the idea "came forth about 10 months ago."

DNR officials in Pontiac did not respond to inquiries from the Record about the proposed wetlands mitigation by presstime Wednesday.

Henkelman said Detroit Realty is proposing to establish a 12-acre wetlands area on the township property. He also said the group would construct a 26-acre recreation complex on the site.

"We would like to consummate the deal with Northville Township as soon as possible," Henkelman said. "It's a beautiful concept, I hope it works out."

Township officials agree.

"I think it would be a good project for the township and would create quality wetlands," Supervisor Georgina Goss said.

Henningsen said the proposal included the development group picking up the construction costs for

Needham named news editor

Bob Needham has been named editor of the Northville Record/Novi News.

The appointment was announced by Ann E. Willis, managing editor of the Northville Record and Novi News.

The Northville Record and Novi News are part of the Sliger/Livingston Publications chain of papers which include the Livingston County Press, Brighton Argus, Milford Times and South Lyon Herald in addition to the Record and the News.

A 1986 graduate of Alma College, Needham began his journalism career with the Spinal Column Newsweekly. He became a Sliger/Livingston employee in 1987, working as a reporter for the Northville Record covering the City of Northville.

Needham was named interim editor of the Northville Record/Novi News in May and has worked as interim editor for the South Lyon Herald and Milford Times as well.

"Bob was an outstanding reporter and has shown his strong abilities during his tenure as interim editor for our publications," Willis said. "He believes in the spirit of community journalism as practiced by the Record and the News and will be an important asset to both staffs."

Sliger/Livingston Publications is a division of Suburban Communications Corporation which also owns the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers and several other suburban newspaper chains in Michigan and Ohio.

Drive In

Car crashes through bedroom wall

By STEVE KELLMAN

A man and his wife in Northville Township had a rude awakening early Wednesday morning when a car drove through their bedroom wall.

William Garfield, 63, and his wife Bertha were sleeping in their apartment on Silver Springs Drive when a car drove into the side of their building, and into their bedroom. Though the wall was pushed in less than two feet, the impact was sufficient to push the Garfield's bed nearly four feet across the room.

The nightstand between the Garfields' beds was pushed nearly across the room by the impact, its contents scattered across the floor.

"I didn't hear a roar, no sound awakened me," Garfield said, "but I was almost knocked out of my bed. I looked up and the wall was pushed in and there were holes through the wall

"My head was that far from the bumper of that car," he said, holding his fingers about ten inches apart.

Garfield said he had no idea what had happened when he first awoke. "My first thought was of a bombing or an earthquake," he said.

Garfield said his wife was hit by a lamp in the incident, and covered with glass from the window over her bed. "The thing I was impressed about was the roaring of the motor of the car," she said. "And it looked like a bomb had gone off. Everything in the nightstand was scattered across the room."

"When I woke up I said, 'What is it, what is it,' and he said, 'Get down, get down!'" He was afraid the ceiling would fall in.

"I realize that these things don't happen every day," she said, "but once in a lifetime is enough for me. I never want to go through that experience again."

Though they have moved out of the bedroom for now, Mrs. Garfield still flinches when she sees headlights in her window, she said. "Even sleeping in the other bedroom, every time a car shines its lights, I think, 'Oh no, not again.'"

The crash did not go unnoticed in other apartments, either. Two upstairs neighbors reported that they saw the vehicle drive away from the scene of the crime. Jim Hauncher, a state police officer who lives right above the Garfields, said he had just gone to bed when the incident occurred.

"I was laying in bed thinking a bomb had gone off, and I was just waiting for the sirens," he said. Hauncher eventually went to the window, and saw the car impaled in the wall below him. "As I was sitting there watching, I saw the car slowly

Library funding questions prove troublesome for township

Allen suggested that the township pay the complete cost of the library. He said a rental agreement could then be negotiated with the city. He said joint ownership of the library building could cause problems down the road. "I don't have a problem with (sharing) books and computers," he said. "I do have a problem sharing the building.

"If we have a parting of the ways we don't want to have to divide up the building."

Clerk Thomas Cook said a plan including a buyout clause could be acceptable to the board.

"We want to keep it as a joint community (venture)," he said. "If we can make it where we could buy it out (at a predetermined rate) it would be acceptable."

Supervisor Georgina Goss reminded the board that city would be responsible for bond payments for 15 years under the plan, even though a library election will only be held in the township. She urged the board to take a closer look at the proposal before rejecting it.

"We can fix this agreement, or look for a wording change," she said. "The city is going to be involved in debt retirement (and) I think they want to be a part of the community library."

But Nowka said the township should be very protective of its interests.

"I think we should build it ourselves," he said.

Goss said Monday that the board would again discuss the available funding options at a Feb. 1 special meeting. She said the meeting would begin at 6:30 p.m. at the township hall.

She indicated that the agreement may not be as difficult to amend as comments from the Jan. 26 board meeting might indicate.

"The equity question was one of the most important issues," she said. "The board is asking how equity is computed and if there should be equity."

"I feel the (city's) proposal was workable."

NEWS BRIEFS

WARD APPEAL CONTINUES — Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad said last week that Judge Richard C. Kaufman ruled Jan. 24 that the residents who filed the appeal against the township Zoning Board of Appeals for their decision on the Ward Church height variance must submit affidavits to the court by Feb. 2. The affidavits will be used to determine the residents' community standing, he said. Essad also said Kaufman did not rule in favor of Ward's Jan. 24 motion to dismiss the appeal.

NOSES FOR NEWS — Matt Ferrara, a fifth-grader at Amerman School, and Ronald Stegal, a fourth-grader at William Allan Academy, were winners in a contest entitled "Why It's Important to Know the News," sponsored by Channel 50.

In recognition of their accomplishments, both students will appear on Channel 50's "Places for Kids Newsbreak" program sometime in the next four months.

Students at William Allan Academy also took a field trip to Channel 50, located in Southfield, and are writing and filming their own TV news show as a class activity.

DRIVER EDUCATION — Registration for spring driver's education classes is being accepted at Northville High School.

Applications are available for students who are 15 years old by the March 5 starting date for classes.

Completed applications are due by Feb. 16 and can be dropped off at the Northville High School office. Class will meet Mondays and Thursdays for eight weeks from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m.

ONTARIO TRIP — Looking for a winter getaway? Northville Community Recreation is sponsoring a trip to London, Ontario on Tuesday, March 6.

The tour departs at 7:15 a.m. and returns to Northville at 6:30 p.m. The trip includes transportation by motorcoach, lunch at a London, Ontario restaurant, a tour of the Springbanks Park and many of London's universities, shopping and winetasting at Charal Winery.

Proof of citizenship is required in the form of a voter's registration with a driver's license or a birth certificate or a current passport.

For reservations and information contact Traci Gottschalk at 349-0203.

VALENTINE'S DANCE — Fathers and daughters, mark your calendars.

The seventh annual Daddy-Daughter Valentine's Dance will be held at the Northville Community Center on Friday, Feb. 9 from 7 to 9 p.m. All girls ages 4-12 and their dads (or another special date) are invited to attend this special event, hosted by Northville Community Recreation Department.

Cost is $8 per couple and includes a corsage, entertainment, refreshments and a unique gift to remember the evening.

Pre-registration is required by Feb. 8, no later than 5 p.m. Registrations may be mailed to: Northville Recreation, 303 W. Main St., Northville, Mich., 48167, or dropped off in person anytime between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Red Ribbon Week fundraiser nears

Northville Action Council, a group of concerned residents working toward substance abuse education and a drug-free community, will hold a fundraising dinner to kick off "Red Ribbon Week" in Northville.

The dinner will consist of a seven-course meal at Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant on Monday, March 5 at 6:30 p.m. Tickets are $25 each and must be purchased in advance. They are tax-deductible. For tickets or information call 349-7404 or pick them up at Genitti's.

Guest speakers for the dinner are to be announced.

In conjunction with Red Ribbon Week, which runs March 4-10, the Northville Action Council is selling T-shirts imprinted with an anti-drug message. The shirts are $7 each and can be purchased from members of the Northville Action Council.

Council members made it a goal to sell the T-shirts to every student in the Northville school system — a total of 3,700 T-shirts. They also are accepting contributions toward a goal of raising $14,000.

Police Blotters

Woman sees indecent exposure in local parking lot

A woman told township police that a man exposed himself to her outside the main entrance of the Meijer store 20401 Haggerty Jan 26 around 1 a.m.

The victim told police that she was walking toward the main entrance, where the suspect's vehicle was parked. As she approached the store, the suspect hailed the woman and exposed himself. The victim then went inside the store and turned to watch the suspect drive away. The woman said she noticed the car did not have a rear license plate.

The woman told police the man was wearing a dress shirt, was clean-shaven, and was driving a full-size Lincoln or Mercury two or four door. The woman said she could identify the suspect and wished to prosecute.

Township police said the same vehicle was apparently involved in a similar incident approximately three hours earlier.

OTHER MEIJER HAPPENINGS

A woman was arrested by township police after she attempted to steal an electric razor and camera from Meijer Jan 19 around 9:30 a.m. The items were valued at a combined $148.41.

A pair of white males stole an undetermined amount of wood which was piled on pallets outside the Meijer store. Witnesses said the men loaded the wood into a white pickup and drove away around 10:25 p.m. Jan 25. Township police searched the area but were unable to locate the men.

A subject was arrested for shoplifting at Meijer Jan 25 at 1:50 p.m.

LAWN DAMAGED - Township police said a Greenridge resident told them someone had driven over his lawn, leaving ruts and other damage. The damage was estimated at $500. Police have no suspects or witnesses in the incident.

OUILS REPORTED - Township police made arrests for driving under the influence Jan 21 on westbound Six Mile at 10:57 p.m., and Jan 22 on Northville Road at 1:51 a.m.

LARCENY ATTEMPTED - A Lakeside resident told police that $900 damage to his son's car occurred sometime between 4:30 p.m. Jan 24 and 4:30 p.m. the following day. The complainant said someone broke the rear passenger window out of the 1987 Ford Mustang and attempted to remove the stereo from the vehicle. Police have no suspects in the case.

PRELIMINARY EXAM WAIVED - A man arrested by township police for breaking and entering waived his rights to a preliminary exam Jan 19 at 35th District Court. The suspect was bound over to Wayne County Circuit Court to await trial.

SIDESWIPED - A vehicle parked in a driveway on Lexington was pushed over onto its passenger side Jan 27, according to city police reports. An estimated $500 in damage was done during the incident, as the car's rear fender was pushed in and the entire side of the car scratched. The incident reportedly occurred between 11-11 25 p.m.

DAMAGE AT DOWNS - A Northville Downs teler reported that his car was scratched - possibly by a key - while parked in the main parking lot at the race track, according to city police reports. The incident apparently occurred between noon and midnight on Jan. 27, though the man did not notice the damage until the following morning.

OUIL ON EIGHT MILE - A Northville man was charged with operating under the influence after being stopped on Eight Mile Road east of Center Street. The man was stopped at 2:30 a.m. on Jan. 27, after the police officer saw his car cross over the center line several times. Tests showed his blood alcohol level to be 14 percent, over the state's limit of 1 percent.

FENDER BENDERS - City police reported at least five accidents in the last week. On Jan. 23, at 7:25 a.m., a man setting up barricades at the corner of Center Street and Mary Alexander Court was reportedly injured by a hit-and-run driver. The man told city police that a vehicle heading west on Mary Alexander Court attempted to drive around the left side of the barricade, striking the curb and knocking the barricade into the man.

Two accidents were reported on Jan. 24. In the first, a Northville man turning east onto Main Street from Griswold struck another man heading east on Main who reportedly ran the red light at the corner. A Department of Public Works truck at the corner reportedly blocked the view of the first driver. The second driver was cited for failing to obey the traffic signal.

At 1:33 p.m., a car stopped at the light at the corner of Main and Center reportedly struck the car in front when the light turned green. The driver, a Northville woman, was cited for failing to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

Two accidents were reported on the night of Jan 29. At 6:56 p.m., a Novi woman driving west on Eight Mile in the left-hand lane reportedly turned right, into a car in the right-hand lane. The woman told a Northville City police officer who witnessed the accident that she decided at the last moment to turn into the gas station at the corner of Eight Mile and Taft. She was cited for an improper right turn.

At 7:35 p.m., a New Hudson man driving south on Wing and stopped at the Main Street intersection pulled in front of an east bound vehicle on Main. The driver was cited for failing to yield from a stop sign.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

City officials consider best way to sell $6 million in bonds

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Northville city officials are still trying to figure out how to package about $6 million in bonds in order to get the most favorable interest rate. The bonds will go to finance water main improvements, sidewalk and road repairs, and construction of the MainCentre parking deck.

The problem is that larger bond amounts typically obtain the lower rates, but lumping the bonds together may take some time. Selling some bonds requires a public notice of intent at least 45 days before the sale, and hearings must be held to set the special assessment districts that would be assessed for the improvements.

The city's bond counsel is expected to make a recommendation to the city council at next Monday night's meeting. "The problem is that there are two or three options and it appears that it's advantageous to put all the special assessments together for a larger issue," said City Manager Steven Walters.

The parking deck represents the largest share of the bonds, with a possible $1 million in special assessments and $3 million in general obligation bonds required. "It's a marketing advantage to the smaller issues if they're riding along with that for the sale," Walters explained. But preparing the bond for sale could take some time.

In the meantime, the city may have to sell a short-term tax note to pay for improvements while the special assessment hearings are held and special assessment districts figured, Walters said.

cer fields, multi-purpose fields, tennis courts, and volleyball courts.

"Field development is the primary thing," he said. "We would also like them to pay for a concession stand and restrooms."

Township Attorney Ernest Essad said last week that the developer and township were negotiating the extent of the improvements at the proposed site.

When asked if the developer's contribution to the complex would be approximately $400,000, Essad said, "That sounds about right."

Henkelman said a wetlands area would be created to provide a buffer to the nearby Phoenix Correctional Facility.

"The wetlands area would run parallel to Phoenix," he said. "The soccer and multi-purpose fields would begin where the wetlands end."

But Henkelman said the impending agreement between the township and developer was not the end of the story.

He said the DNR has the final say in wetlands matters.

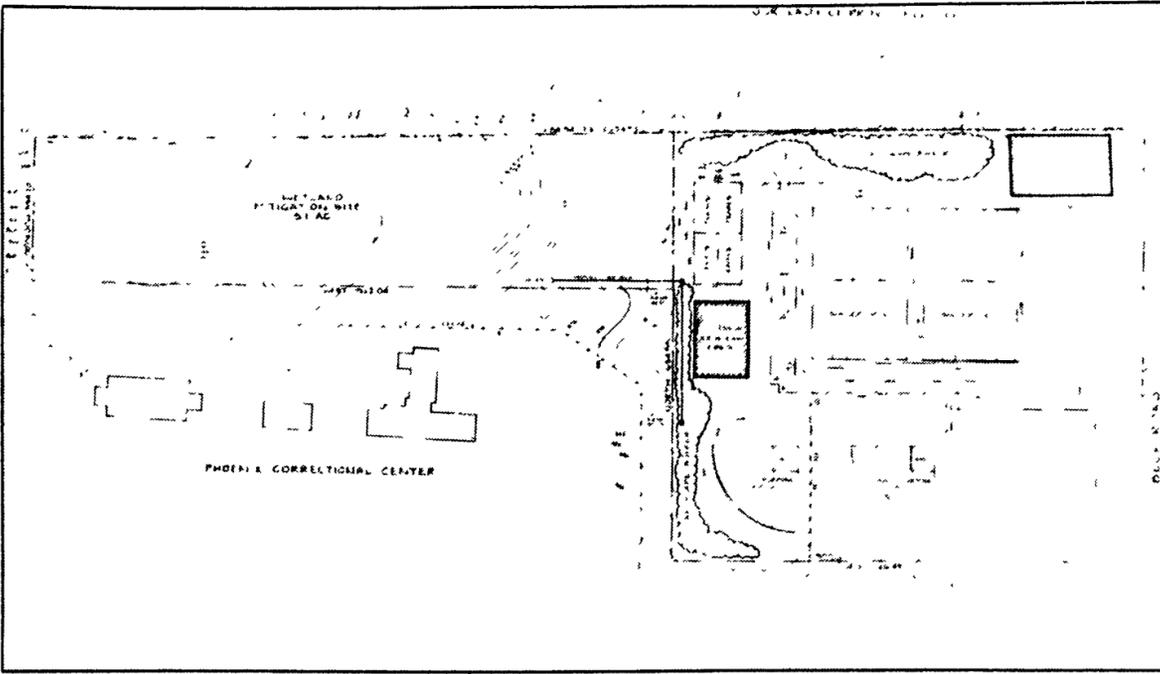

"This would be the DNR's call," he said. "We're waiting for the authorities to say whether we can or can't do it."

Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise said it is not uncommon for a developer to negotiate in a situation that includes wetlands.

"I think they feel that if the township will support them, they will have a better chance of the DNR approving the mitigation," she said.

Henkelman said he would like to see a quick OK from the DNR.

"We would hope that we could begin work by spring," he said. "There is always a monetary motivation involved, but this one has a rain-bow at the other end."

Commercial assessments expected to jump in the city

By STEVE KELLMAN

This year's property assessment increases have been tentatively set for Northville City, and downtown commercial property owners will see the biggest change.

Commercial property assessments in the city are expected to rise by 26 percent over last year. But the actual tax increases should be lower due to the required roll-back to stay within the limits of the state's Truth-in-Taxation statute.

Residential and industrial assessments in Wayne County are expected to rise by 17.8 and 2.3 percent respectively, while residential assessments in the Oakland County section of the city are expected to rise by nine percent.

City Manager Steven Walters presented the estimates at a recent city council meeting, along with a report estimating the effect of the new rates on the millage and actual tax rates. All the increases must be averaged together in calculating the millage rate reduction. The Truth-in-Taxation statute offsets the amount of millage increase caused by rising assessments in excess of the Consumer Price Index (CPI) increase.

Under the statute, a local government like Northville must call a public hearing if the millage change from one year to the next provides for a larger jump in revenues than the increase in the CPI.

According to Walters' report, last year's operating millage rate of 12.35 mills would have to be reduced to 10.94 mills this year in order to cause no increase over the 1989 tax base. A maximum of 11.42 mills could be levied without a public hearing. That amount would allow a CPI increase of 4.4 percent over last year's tax base.

If the city did levy a 11.44 millage rate for operating expenses, residential property taxes would rise by an estimated 8.9 percent in Wayne County but just 8 percent in Oakland County. Commercial Wayne County property taxes would go up by about 15.8 percent, while industrial property taxes would drop by about 5.4 percent.

Although the rise in residential assessments is larger in Wayne than Oakland County, Oakland County residents will have actually seen a greater increase in their property assessments over the last four years according to Walters, even with this year's estimated rates.

While Wayne County residential assessments will have gone up a total of 44.3 percent since 1987, Oakland assessments will have risen 45 percent in the same period, because assessments is due to relatively small increases in the last several years, according to Walters. In fact, because of the much larger increase in residential assessments and the Truth in Taxation roll-back, commercial property owners have actually seen their taxes go down several times in the last four years.

The commercial increase comes after years of reported underassessment of the city's commercial properties, and the city's decision to contract with employees of the Oakland County Equalization Department to reappraise the city's commercial properties in the downtown area.

The Oakland County reassessment should have its impact on the 1991 assessments.

The rise in residential assessments are compared to the average of seven to eight percent reported across Wayne and Oakland counties.

Oakland residents saw larger increases in 1987 and 1988 than Wayne homeowners.

Personal property taxes throughout the city would drop by 9.4 percent, according to Walters' report.

Existing personal property always shows a tax reduction, according to Walters, because "it is depreciated each year and the millage rate is rolled back."

Infertility Research and Treatment

How much help will you need to fill these shoes?

A couple trying to overcome a serious fertility problem has basically two options. Seek help from a small fertility clinic associated with a general hospital (a few of these actually attempt fairly advanced procedures like in vitro fertilization) Or choose the Hutzel Fertility Center. The difference is dramatic. Hutzel's program is medical center- and university-based, encompassing both treatment and research. Unlike general hospitals that mostly apply established technology, a comprehensive clinical and research center like Hutzel actually pioneers and develops new techniques.

Hutzel's century-long leadership in the reproductive sciences includes Michigan's first in vitro fertilization babies, the newest techniques of egg retrieval, and, to date, Michigan's first and only embryo freezing capabilities (which contribute significantly to reducing the risk of multiple births). Hutzel has also pioneered the concept of treating couples rather than individuals. This helps avoid unnecessary delays, expenses and frustration.

Hutzel's extra research and clinical dimension means more hope, every day, for patients with the most complex problems. And, because Hutzel's care costs no more, even couples with less serious problems can afford the extra peace of mind that comes with the Hutzel program.

Infertility programs often require considerable economic and emotional investment by couples. To make the most of that investment, call the Hutzel Fertility Center for more information.

Township irked over exclusion

By TIM RICHARD

Northville Township and two of its neighbors are miffed at being left off a regional sewer planning map, making them ineligible for future federal and state aid.

The affected area is roughly the western two miles of Northville and Plymouth townships and the western three miles of Canton.

"They are all under abatement orders from the state Department of Natural Resources," said Wayne County Commissioner Susan Heintz, R-Northville, who failed Friday to win a one-month delay in consideration by the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG).

The SEMCOG Executive Committee approved, 16-7, a 20-year Sewer Service Area Map. It becomes part of the seven-county region's water quality management plan, required under federal law.

But a SEMCOG task force headed by Ardath Regan, village president of Holly in northern Oakland County, sought to mollify the western Wayne members by proposing a three-year growth management study.

Also left off the map were most of Lyon Township outside the City of South Lyon; most of Milford Township outside the village of Milford; and many portions of the City of Novi.

The region was divided into five "tiers" or zones. Tiers I-III, mostly developed areas, are eligible for federal and state aid. Tier IV includes areas "where sewer service is likely in the future based on local plat for site plan approvals."

Tier V — which includes the contested areas — is labeled "not designated for sewer service."

Of all the area in tier V, only the three western Wayne townships protested. They are members of a Western Townships Utilities Authority, which Heintz said has sold $87 million in bonds for sewers to satisfy the DNR's pollution abatement order.

"If anything becomes grant-eligible, they're not on the map," said Heintz, a former Northville Township supervisor. "Areas of western Wayne should be looked at for health issues."

Plymouth Township trustee Abe A. Munfakh, in a letter to the SEMCOG executive committee, said that "until a comprehensive study has been completed, it should not be the position of the executive committee nor SEMCOG to pick and choose as to which projects would be federally funded and which would be denied."

It was a thorny issue for the SEMCOG executive committee, which typically has compromised many resolutions over its 21 years in order to avoid alienating dues-paying governmental members.

"Everyone can live with where we are except Plymouth, Canton and Northville townships," said John Amberger, SEMCOG executive director. "We're not even close (to a compromise). We have some basic differences."

Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss said the township was attempting to bridge "those differences."

"Our engineers and attorneys are working with SEMCOG to make sure the Western Townships Utilities Authority communities are included in the SEMCOG sewer map," she said.

The split vote approving the sewer map was by a show of hands, not a roll call. Heintz said western Wayne and some Oakland members opposed the map.

Northville students seek soup can labels

Students at all of the Northville public elementary schools are conducting a label collection drive. The program is called "Labels for Education." Campbell Soup Company is offering free equipment to Amerman, Moraine, Silver Springs and Winchester schools in exchange for labels from their products. They are collecting through March 1.

Residents interested in helping with the project should save the front portion of each label from all canned

Campbell's soups, beans, Prego Spaghetti Sauces, Campbell Juice Bowl Juices, Campbell Fresh products and V-8 Juice. Other Campbell's products include: From Swanson frozen foods save proof of purchase seals, save quality pledge for Mrs. Pauls, lids from Vlassic Pickles. People in the community can be a tremendous help to the program. They can do so by saving labels and giving them to students who are neighbors or by dropping them off at the local elementary school.

DO NUCLEAR MISSILES AND REGIONAL RAILROADS MIX?

AIR FORCE OPTIONS

CSX line proposed as a route

By STEPHEN KELLMAN
 staff writer

As the MX missile rail garrison heads for Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda, few people know where it will go from there during times of national need. But according to a senior Air Force official, one option will be to use the rail line that runs through Northville and Novi.

According to Air Force Lt. Col. Gary Emmons — senior Strategic Air Command railroad advisor in Nebraska — one of the options the Air Force will consider for dispersing the missile trains onto the national rail network is using the CSX Transportation rail line.

"One option would be that we would head south out of Wurtsmith," he said, "and continue our dispersal efforts south to Bay City and then on to the CSX rail network into the midsection of the country."

"That's probably what we would do up there," he said.

Emmons has been meeting with Air Force officials at Wurtsmith and officials from the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad to discuss the proposed rail garrison. The Detroit and Mackinac Railroad is the line that runs by Wurtsmith and links with the CSX Transportation line in Bay City.

From there, the trains could run south to Saginaw and Flint and on through to Plymouth and the end of the CSX rail line in Toledo, Ohio. That route would carry the trains through both Novi and Northville.

According to Maj. Robert Perry, any conjecture on the ultimate route of the MX missile is futile. Perry, an Air Force spokesman in Washington, classified maps published in local newspapers showing the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad as the route for the missile trains as "off base." "They're off base by indicating even possible routes," he said. "It's all conjecture on anybody's part that's outside of the purview of the need to know."

"The information isn't there and won't be there," he added.

"But by looking at a map of rail lines that are available to Wurtsmith," he said, "it probably isn't difficult to determine the access to the national rail network."

ROUTINE PRACTICE

Emmons described rail transport of missile components as a "very routine" practice for the Air Force. "We ship missiles all the time by rail, including Peacekeepers," he said. "That's something we've done for a number of years."

"The missile is extremely stable," he said.

The Air Force also uses the nation's highways to move missile parts by truck, he added.

As far as CSX Transportation is concerned, the Air Force would be a welcome customer. "Whatever we would need to do to serve a very important customer and serve the best interests of the country, we would do," CSX spokesman Lindsay Leckie said.

Leckie, senior manager for news and media relations in Florida, described the CSX rail line heading south from Bay City as "first class." Actually, he explained, the line is rated as Class 4, which puts it high on the list of the Federal Railroad Administration's rating system.

As Leckie explained, railroad lines are rated into six different categories. While freight trains on Class 1 lines are restricted to a 10-mile-per-hour top speed, trains on a

TRAIN OF THOUGHT

MX trains stand out on rails

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

While the MX missile is a reality, the railroad car that will carry it under the proposed Air Force rail garrison plan remains little more than a blueprint on a drawing board.

But one thing is certain. The MX train itself will differ from most other trains on the national rails. While the Air Force insists that the train will be safer than typical commercial trains due to stronger initial construction and more regular maintenance, critics have warned that the train's configuration will make it less stable.

"Peacekeeper trains are expected to have a substantially better safety record than commercial rail traffic," according to the Air Force environmental-impact statement (EIS), "because the Peacekeeper locomotives would be new and the cars would be the most modern available, contain special safety features, be better maintained, and would be subjected to less wear than commercial rolling stock."

The MX train, according to the EIS, will operate much like commercial freight trains. "Though it will not be exactly like other trains," the statement read, "a Peacekeeper system train will most closely resemble a freight train in makeup and operation, so freight-train accident data has been used to estimate the Peacekeeper rail accident rate."

The eight-car trains themselves will not be exactly like ordinary freight trains. While the average freight car is 51 feet long, according to an analysis of the MX Rail Garrison and Rail Safety distributed by the Missouri Derail the MX Coalition, the MX missile itself is 71 feet long and the length of the missile launch car has been estimated at 89 feet. While the average commercial freight car has a maximum loaded weight of 164,000 pounds, the missile launch car will weigh an estimated 550,000 pounds.

The MX missile alone weighs 195,000 pounds. Though some commercial cars do approximate the size of the proposed missile car, those are typically open-air cars used to carry heavy equipment and automobiles, according to a paper on the Rail Garrison system by the Union of Concerned Scientists. The missile car will be wider than the open-air cars, and fully enclosed.

With the 195,000-pound missile mounted inside, ready to launch out of the top of the railroad car, many critics, including the Union of Concerned Scientists, have warned that the car may be much less stable than standard commercial freight cars. Each train will tow two missile launch cars, and each car will carry a single MX missile.

According to the EIS, the Rail Garrison could achieve initial Operational Capability — deployment of at least one train with two missiles and one training train per base — as early as December 1991. The remaining trains and missiles could be deployed as early as December 1993.

Initial deployment of the missile trains will require 11 to 12 train trips per year for two years, according to the EIS. An additional 200 to 300 training train trips are expected each year, though the training trains will carry no warheads or missile fuel.

In addition, the trains may be called upon periodically to make maintenance and test runs, and transport the fueled missiles minus their warheads between Wurtsmith and the rail garrison's main operating base in Wyoming, or Vandenberg Air Force Base in California. Air Force officials refuse to speculate on the number of such trips that would be conducted each year.

While many people — including a majority of the U.S. Congress — seem convinced of the need for the MX rail garrison, many others have argued against the plan on grounds of safety and need. One group in particular has led the statewide protest of the plan.

The Ann Arbor-based group Michigan Sane/Freeze has protested the deployment of MX missiles in Michigan for the last two years, citing several safety concerns in their opposition.

"It's bad anywhere," said Jackie Victor, program director for Michigan Sane/Freeze, "but people need to know that these live, loaded missiles could be rolling through Northville, Novi or any of these local communities. It's definitely something that will not be limited to northern Michigan."

"It's not just a national-security issue," she added. "It's a public-

Fuel most serious of hazards

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

Though the United States Air Force and opponents of the Peacekeeper Rail Garrison system disagree on the likelihood of an accident involving a missile-carrying rail car, both sides agree that the consequences of such an accident could be severe.

The Air Force has listed the possible hazards from an accident involving their missile cars in its final environmental-impact statement (EIS), though Air Force officials have estimated the chance of such an accident as "extremely remote."

TRAINING AND OTHER MISSIONS

The Rail Garrison proposal lists several reasons that missile trains would leave Wurtsmith Air Force Base or other bases. According to the EIS, the trains will periodically leave their bases for training missions and during national crises — like the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis or the 1973 Middle East War.

"Periodically, a training train, with no missile propellants or warheads on board, would travel to each of the garrison installations for operations, security, and maintenance training," the statement read. "Periodically, for maintenance or test purposes, missiles (without warheads) would be moved by rail between garrisons and F.E. Warren AFB, Wyoming or Vandenberg AFB, California. During periods of national need and upon receipt of direction from the National Command Authority, Peacekeeper trains could be dispersed onto the national rail network to improve their survivability."

During maintenance or test runs, or during a national crisis, the missiles could pose a safety threat, according to the Air Force.

"One Peacekeeper missile propellant stage contains a propellant classified as a high explosive," according to the statement. "However, it is an insensitive high explosive that can withstand much higher temperature, shock, crush and other abnormal environments without igniting or exploding, than many other chemicals routinely transported on the national rail network and highways."

Because of the many safety precautions incorporated into nuclear weapons, both the Air Force and most opponents of the Rail Garrison system admit that there is almost no possibility of a nuclear weapon detonating during a rail accident. As the Air Force points out in its EIS, planes carrying nuclear warheads have crashed without the warheads detonating.

But the Air Force EIS does admit a slight possibility of an accident resulting in the release of radioactive material, and a possibility of an explosion of the missile's fuel in a serious accident.

"Of all Peacekeeper trains," the statement read, "only those on alert or in strategic dispersal would have even the slightest potential of an accident involving radioactive materials. In the exceedingly unlikely event of a fire or conventional explosion causing airborne dispersal of radioactive materials, the chance that an exposed person would eventually develop cancer would increase. Though such consequences are very serious, radioactive material dispersal would be so unlikely that it is considered a negligible risk."

While the 191-page FRA assessment commended CSX officials for their safety programs, the report noted one significant flaw. "From a safety perspective, CSX Detroit Division personnel are doing many things right," the assessment said. "Unfortunately, senior division management has not yet succeeded in conveying this commitment through middle management to craft employees. The division's well conceived safety programs are therefore not achieving maximum potential."

US office releases rail audit

By STEPHEN KELLMAN
 staff writer

Hot on the heels of the announcement that the U.S. Air Force may use the railroad track through Novi and Northville for deployment of the MX missile train, comes the release of the Federal Railroad Administration (FRA) safety assessment of the line.

The 165-mile stretch of track from Midland to Toledo, Ohio, was assessed after the July, 1989 derailment of three chemical cars near Freeland that forced the evacuation of nearly 3,000 people from their homes. Government inspectors began their audit of the line in August.

The same line had suffered a derailment in April, 1989 in Highland Township, which also required evacuation.

The recently released report is dated September, 1989. While the FRA safety audit did find problems with CSX Transportation tracks and safety practices, an FRA official downplayed the extent of safety problems there. Said Ed English, director of the FRA's office of enforcement in Washington, "I don't care what railroad you look at, you're going to find some things that could be better."

"In 25 words or less, that railroad is in pretty good shape," he said. "I don't think we found anything there that was a really big safety hazard. They do a pretty good job, they just need to pay closer attention to day-to-day operations."

"Would this track be safe for the missiles? I see no reason why it wouldn't be," English said.

According to the FRA assessment, hazardous materials (hazmat) typically account for slightly more than five percent of the total tonnage on the line. While the figure is not high, the assessment said, "it is the variety and pattern of hazmat movement that makes the operation unique."

"For example, analysis of a typical seven-day period in August of this year revealed a total of 37 different regulated material commodities traversing the line, most heavily characterized by flammable gases, flammable liquids, and corrosives," according to the assessment. "With few exceptions, these commodities were handled in either a weekly unit chemical train, or batched together in mixed consist (mixing both chemical and freight cars) freight trains. The majority of hazmat traffic on the division is destined for the Dow Chemical Company plant in Midland, and therefore moves the entire route north from Toledo through a relatively populated corridor lined by the cities of Toledo, Monroq, Romulus, Wayne, Plymouth, Wixom, Flint and Saginaw."

Among the chemicals that travel the tracks are butane, chlorine gas, liquefied petroleum gas, methyl chloride, and solvents like acetone and benzene.

While the 191-page FRA assessment commended CSX officials for their safety programs, the report noted one significant flaw. "From a safety perspective, CSX Detroit Division personnel are doing many things right," the assessment said. "Unfortunately, senior division management has not yet succeeded in conveying this commitment through middle management to craft employees. The division's well conceived safety programs are therefore not achieving maximum potential."

UP IN ARMS

Activist protests proposal

By STEVE KELLMAN

With the Pentagon's selection of Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda as one of several sites for the rail-based MX missile system, tracks throughout Michigan may eventually be called upon to carry missile-bearing railroad cars.

That possibility has at least one area activist up in arms.

Novi resident Leona Riebling testified at the Air Force hearings in Oscoda on the proposed basing of MX missiles at Wurtsmith. Riebling is also a longstanding member of Michigan Sane/Freeze.

Riebling's opposition to the MX rail garrison proposal took her to Oscoda, where the Air Force held two public hearings on the environmental-impact statement it was required to file for the proposal.

"At (the first) hearing," she said, "there were many resolutions from the Oscoda City Council, the township manager, different clubs and organizations, and most of them were in favor of this new thing happening at Wurtsmith. So I felt very discouraged about that as I was driving home from Oscoda, because there were very few voices, at that first draft meeting, lifted up against the missile. Mostly it was just the enthusiasm about this chunk of money coming into the community."

"I find it very sad and tragic that a community has to depend on something like a monstrous missile for jobs," she said.

Riebling gave her own testimony against the proposal at both hearings, though she was nearly prevented from testifying at the second hearing. "At the second meeting," she recalled, "they said that people should only address the environmental issue, that they weren't here to hear anything about the weapon itself."

"So I kept thinking to myself, 'What in the world can I say that addresses the environment?' When it came to my turn, I said that I felt the environmental statement should address the largest question of all — what would happen to the environment using a weapon of this kind."

Riebling went on to remind the panel of the effect that such a weapon would have on a country like Great Britain. The 10 separate warheads, she pointed out, could destroy all of the country's major cities, most of the population, and virtually the entire country.

"And we have 49 more of these weapons to go," she added. "It is a weapon of such monstrous proportions, and so difficult to think about, I wanted people to visualize that one weapon could destroy an entire country."

"When I gave that testimony, they (the panel members) said this kind of testimony didn't have to be included in the environmental-impact study because there had been many studies already done to show the impact of using nuclear weapons. My response was: perhaps many studies have been done, but when I would mention the MX to somebody, they have an idea that it is a nuclear weapon, that it is big, but they really don't understand how big. So I was able to make that testimony, and it was included in the final draft of the environmental-impact statement."

The MX missile is huge even by today's standards, a seven-story missile with 10 independently targeted warheads. Each warhead is said to be more than 20 times as powerful as the bomb dropped on Hiroshima in 1945.

"My interest in all of this started when I was young," Riebling said. "I was a teen-ager during World War II, and like all people, I was swept up in the patriotism and the entire event." While attending school, Riebling worked for a dentist in downtown Northville. She used to go to a theater — called the Telenews Theater, across the street from the office — which showed newsreels.

"One day the lights were flashing down at the newsreel theater — it was at the very end of World War II — that this huge bomb had been dropped on Hiroshima," she recalled. "I looked at the marquee and the pictures because I had not heard anything about an atom bomb before. That one bomb had completely destroyed a city. I think any glamour about World War II disappeared about that moment."

After that, marriage and children briefly interrupted her career as an activist. Riebling and her husband, Fred, have two sons, Paul and Kurt, who now own and operate the Town and Country Cyclery in downtown Northville.

"Then I remember hearing about the hydrogen bomb and that the Soviet Union had the same kind of bombs," she said. "And I realized that a race was on, that there was just a new kind of arms race than we had ever seen before."

Riebling was also concerned for her children's safety while they were growing up during the 1960s. The United States and the Soviet Union were both conducting atmospheric tests of nuclear weapons, amid widespread concern about radioactive fallout. "And it was a very legitimate concern," Riebling said.

The concern was so widespread that the United States and Soviet Union agreed to end atmospheric testing during the 1960s.

Despite several government attempts to limit the proliferation of nuclear weapons since then, Riebling doubts that the world has become a safer place in which to live. "We've had many, many treaties that try to deal with these weapons," she said, "but each treaty always leaves a loophole so that the next round of weapons can be built. So in spite of treaties, we face a world which is absolutely filled with nuclear weapons today, all pointed at each other."

"So it's not surprising that the announcement that the MX missile was coming to Michigan, right in our own back yards, would get me moving," she said.

Riebling is a member of the United Church of Christ, which takes a strong position against nuclear weapons nationally. She has served as a peace coordinator for the church, discussing justice and peace issues with local churches.

Riebling, who has been accused of "peace-mongering" in her time, even has in her back yard a personal "peace pole," a symbol of her personal commitment to the cause of world peace. The square wooden pole, similar to others around the world, has the words "May peace prevail on earth" printed on each side, in English, German, Japanese and Russian.

Riebling has also visited the Soviet Union twice, in 1985 and 1987. "People in the Soviet Union suffered so greatly in World War II," she said, "that everywhere you go, especially older women, will say, 'peace, peace,' with tears in their eyes."

During her first trip, Riebling handed origami paper cranes with the word "Peace" on one wing and "Mir" — the Russian word for peace — written on the other. "I just gave them to strangers," she said. "People would look at them and smile."

During her second trip, which she helped organize, Riebling met with several church groups and peace delegations.

The Riebling peace tradition does not end with Leona, either. She also takes her granddaughter, Kate, to the yearly commemoration of the bombing of Hiroshima in Detroit, where people light paper lanterns and float them down the Detroit river as part of a worldwide remembrance of the bombing.

Kate, 12, recently wrote a paper for one of her school classes in which she admitted to being scared that if the world was involved in another war, "nothing would be left," Riebling said, adding, "It's terrible for children to have to live with that kind of burden."

Protest group is hybrid

The public awareness group Sane/Freeze is actually a hybrid — the result of a collaboration between the awareness groups Sane and Freeze. The two groups have operated as one for the past two years.

According to Jackie Victor, program director at the Ferndale office of Michigan Sane/Freeze, Sane was an organization formed in the 1950s, with the aid of such prestigious members as former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt, French philosopher Albert Schweitzer, and American pediatrician and baby guru Benjamin Spock.

Freeze was a more recently formed grass-roots organization which was instrumental in the passage of the 1983 nuclear freeze referendum in Michigan. The non-binding referendum — passed by a 59-percent margin — called for a freeze of nuclear weapons at their existing levels and negotiations to further reduce that number.

Sane/Freeze lobbies actively in Washington, D.C., and a full-time force of canvassers sees an estimated 100,000 residents a year in this state, mostly in Detroit and Ann Arbor. The group has about 14,000 members in Michigan and 200,000 nationwide.

safety issue."

Indicating an Air Force map of the state that highlights the CSX Transportation, Grand Trunk Western, Tuscota and Saginaw Bay, and Ann Arbor railroads, as well as the Detroit and Mackinac Railway, Victor said, "These are the lines that the Air Force is planning to use to transport the missiles from Wyoming to the Wurtsmith Air Force Base." The map is labeled "National Railroad Network and Potential Routes for Initial Peacekeeper Rail Garrison Deployment, Maintenance, and Training."

Local newspapers have published maps showing the potential route for the MX trains as a 400-mile loop of the Detroit and Mackinac Railway. But, Victor said, "an Air Force official admitted to me that the map in the Detroit News and the Detroit Free Press was wrong. 'It can go anywhere,' he said."

LOCAL PROTEST

Michigan Sane/Freeze opposes the proposed Rail Garrison deployment for reasons of safety, maintaining that putting the missiles on the commercial rail network is unsafe. "What are their evacuation scenarios, what is their emergency response, etc.," Victor asked. "The Air Force, in their environmental-impact statement (EIS), has not adequately addressed these safety risks."

"The question at this time of easing tensions between the east and west is, is this a time that we want to be taking these risks? Most people feel that with the international situations being what they are now, these safety and economic risks are not worth taking."

"There is a good chance that a few years down the road this will all be negotiated away," she added.

Air Force officials and critics of the Rail Garrison concept agree that there is little chance of a nuclear warhead detonating accidentally. But there is widespread concern that a derailment or other accident could ignite the missile's rocket propellant or cause radioactive contamination of a crash site (see related story).

"basically sound." The report blamed most problems found on "one major shortcoming: ineffective oversight by division engineering officers, supervisors and managers in carrying out established safety policies and track inspection programs."

While federal examination of CSX inspection records found that CSX track was inspected often enough to comply with FRA standards, interviews with the CSX inspectors themselves found that required inspections of all tracks are not being made frequently enough to conform to Federal regulations. "CSX track inspectors admitted that improper inspection of all yard body tracks and passing sidings is not being accomplished every month as prescribed by FRA," the assessment read.

No safety violations were issued in conjunction with the assessment, English said. "We try not to write violations unless it's a serious issue," he added.

In its assessments, the FRA examines track safety, car design, signal systems, operating practices and "various aspects of railroad operation," English said.

SAFETY ANALYSIS

An analysis of head-on and rear-end collisions involving the Peacekeeper and commercial trains found that the system could withstand head-on collisions of up to 60 miles per hour and rear-end collisions of up to 45 miles per hour.

"In the highly improbable instance of a side collision with the missile launch car (MLC)," the statement continued, "sufficient forces might be present to create a potential for ignition or explosion of missile propellants."

The Air Force has estimated that about 1 in 1,000 rail accidents would result in a fire or explosion, and calls the chance of an accident involving the missiles or radioactive warheads "extremely remote."

The MX missile is a 71-foot long, 195,000-pound four-stage missile. The first three stages are fueled by solid propellants including aluminum powder and ammonium perchlorate. The fourth stage contains the liquid propellants monomethylhydrazine (MMH) and nitrogen tetroxide.

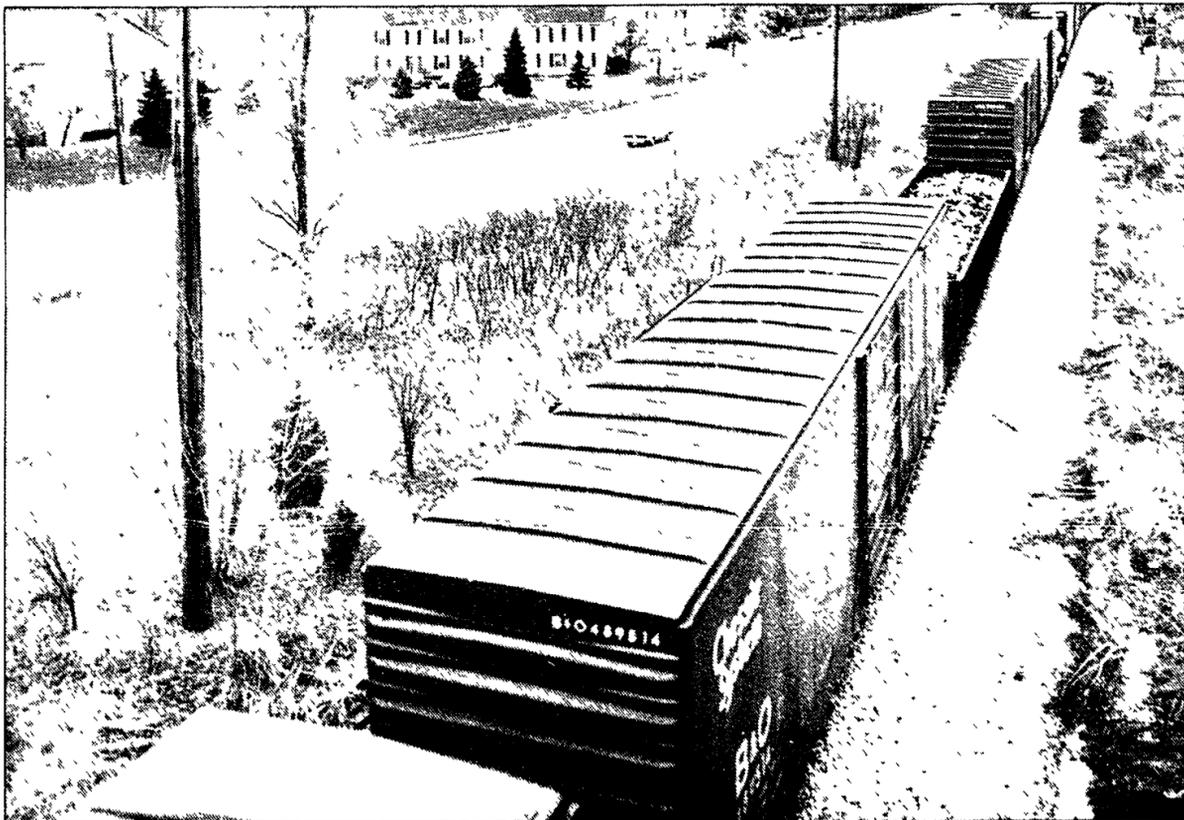

Overall, the Peacekeeper missile system carries approximately 168,000 pounds of solid propellants, equivalent to the explosive power of 202,000 pounds of TNT.

HEALTH HAZARDS

In the event of an accident resulting in the release of propellants, several propellants have been identified as dangerous by the Air Force. And the fire alone from such an explosion could be life-threatening at a distance of 180 feet from the visible flame of the fire, while heat radiation up to 280 feet from the flame could cause disabling burns.

"In a maximum yield explosion of the missile propellants, the air overpressure (shock wave) could be fatal to persons within 400 feet of the center of the blast," the statement read. "Persons within 1,000 feet could receive disabling injuries."

"Although the solid propellant stages would not ignite spontaneously, a remote possibility exists that a fire could ignite them," the statement continued. "This could result in a pressure vessel-type explosion that could scatter debris, burning propellant, and unburned propellant a distance of up to 1,000 feet. Unprotected persons within 1,000 feet could be injured or killed."

The CSX rail line runs through Northville and Novi. The Air Force is considering the line as an option with the MX missile rail garrison.

Several of the chemicals aboard the missiles, or created during an explosion, could be dangerous as well.

A solid propellant explosion would result in the downwind dispersal of a cloud of nitrogen dioxide and hydrogen chloride, according to the statement. This chemical cloud could be lethal to up to half of the exposed population as far away as 1.6 miles. A life-threatening concentration of the chemicals could be spread nearly six miles from the explosion. People farther downwind would be subjected to a burning irritation of the eyes, nose, throat and lungs as well as dizziness, nausea, vomiting and fever.

The chemical MMH also poses serious possible health threats according to the Air Force. "MMH is a strong irritant and may cause eye damage, tremors, and respiratory tract inflammation," according to the statement. "It can be absorbed through the skin, ingested, or inhaled." The chemical is also a suspected human carcinogen.

MMH can also cause eye, skin and upper respiratory tract damage and systemic effects including liver and kidney damage as downwind as 6,500 feet, and the Air Force has predicted a mortality rate as high as 50 percent from MMH alone within 300 feet of an accidental spill.

"Due to its corrosivity and toxicity, Nitrogen Tetroxide as both a liquid and a vapor is very dangerous," the statement added. "All persons within 2,000 feet of the spill area during the first ten minutes following the accident would be at severe risk."

The chemical cloud from a fire could result in human health impacts up to 50 miles from the fire, according to the report.

MILITARY RESPONSE

In the event of an accident, military officials will be called out to respond to the accident, and help coordinate any local response. "In the unlikely event of an accident," the statement read, "the Department of Defense (DOD) would respond promptly by deploying specially trained and equipped initial response teams. Control of access to the site, fire suppression, and the rescue and treatment of casualties would be the most immediate concerns; DOD would assign an on-scene commander who would coordinate the activities of federal agencies and any responding local or state agencies."

Education board adopts new policy

By MIKE TYREE

A conflict of interest policy was adopted — in the face of opposition — by the Northville Board of Education at its Jan. 22 meeting.

The board voted 5-2 in favor of the new policy, which provides employment and financial guidelines for board members and their families.

Board members Donald Klokkenga and Joseph Dunkerly objected to a portion of the policy which excludes the immediate family of board members from employment in the school district.

"I don't think it's fair . . ." Klokkenga said. "This is a desirable place to work and I think it's (the policy) too broad."

Klokkenga said he could not support the policy because paragraph F in the plan states, "No person in the immediate family of a Board of Education member shall become employed by the school district while that board member holds public office. Immediate family member is defined as a spouse and the following relatives of either the Board of Education member or the spouse of the board of Education member: child, grandchild, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, aunt, uncle, niece or nephew."

"This provision shall not be interpreted as requiring the dismissal or reassignment of current employees having the above-defined relationship."

Klokkenga said a more appropriate policy would be to consider all candidates for positions with the school district.

He said the interviewing process should be very thorough, with the best people selected for employment, regardless of their association with board members.

"In the long run this (policy) will hurt the district," he said.

Dunkerly also opposed paragraph F, but the other members of the board supported the entire plan.

"I think this puts us above reproach," James Petrie said. "(It gives us) absolute, unquestioned integrity."

Member Jean Hansen said public perception is important to the board.

"Controversial decisions are accepted by the community because they know we're being impartial," she said. "I'm afraid if members of the board families get these jobs . . . our credibility will be threatened."

Robert McMahon, Carol Rahimi and board President Glenna Davis agreed.

"I think it's a needed policy," Davis said. "It's a pleasure to serve the community (and) appearance is everything."

Hancher believed that the vehicle was a dark-colored 1978 to 1980 Oldsmobile Cutlass or Monte Carlo. He said that there were at least two men inside, and that the driver and passenger switched sides before driving off.

"It was a little difficult going to sleep the rest of the night," he admitted. "I figured I'd be sleeping down there with the Garfields since the wall had collapsed. I figured the roof would cave in."

Mr. Garfield said he would ask the managers at his apartment complex to put restraining walls between the parking lots and any exposed apartments. "They've got several buildings with these same layouts," he said. "On any of these, if a driver fails to stop, he's — bang — right into these apartments."

Township police are investigating the incident.

MINUTES
SYNOPSIS
January 8, 1990

Mayor Johnson called the regular meeting of the Northville City Council to order in the Council Room at 8:00 p.m.

1. PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE
2. ROLL CALL:
PRESENT: Ayers, Folino, Gardner, Johnson, Mitman.
ABSENT: None.
ALSO PRESENT: Steve Walters, Tommi Burns, Steve Keltman, Kathleen Oton.
3. APPROVAL OF COUNCIL MEETING MINUTES: The minutes of the regular meeting of December 18, 1989, were approved as submitted and placed on file.
4. CITIZENS COMMENTS: None.
5. ADOPTION OF THE AGENDA & APPROVAL OF THE CONSENT AGENDA: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the agenda with the addition of item number 11a, Police Car Bids, and the consent agenda A, through F.
6. MICHIGAN WEEK: City Manager Walters recommended that the City Council par up with another city or village for 1990 Michigan Week, rather than be in the MML drawing. He also suggested that a Michigan Week Chairman be appointed in the very near future.
Councilman Mitman suggested appointing a non-Council member chairman for Michigan Week.
Mayor Johnson agreed and asked Council to submit suggestions for Chairman to him.
It was Council's consensus to change the employee recognition dinner to early October with notices to be mailed to employees and board members within the next few weeks.
7. PARKING DECK SITE PLAN: Manager Walters reviewed his memorandum noting the issues raised by the Planning Commission during their review of the Main Centre parking deck at their December 19, 1989, regular meeting.
Mayor Protom Ayers indicated Council has to concern itself with the financial feasibility of reducing the size of the deck. She noted that reducing the size of the deck makes the cost of each parking space go up and the cost per space goes too high with that number of lost spaces.
Councilman Folino predicts the deck will be expanded in the future and he cannot justify taking away from the surplus.
Manager Walters stated the physical space for a three lane road is available with the original design, but he feels it is not logical to increase through traffic when the design promotes the use of the south drive.
Councilman Mitman stated the Planning Commission also had a concern with a Canyon effect in that area.
Mayor Johnson noted he feels item number 3, the west elevation should have treatment for appearance, rather than untreated concrete, has merit and asked the City Manager to provide the Council with a cost estimate.
Councilman Folino also asked the City Manager to provide a police report on the intersection.
8. COAM LABOR CONTRACT SETTLEMENT: Manager Walters reviewed his memorandum dated January 5, 1990, and noted the labor contract between the Command Officers and the City was ratified on December 4, 1989.
9. COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS: Mayor Johnson reviewed his memorandum on Council committee assignments, dated January 5, 1990, and asked if anyone had a conflict to contact him.
10. COMMERCIAL PROPERTY ASSESSMENTS: Manager Walters reviewed his memorandum dated January 5, 1990, and noted that Oakland County has agreed to perform the reassessment of Wayne County commercial area. Wayne County has accepted the approach, subject to working out details of data processing.
11. NOTICE OF INTENT TO ISSUE BONDS: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to adopt a resolution of intent to issue bonds for the following proposed bond issues

SPECIAL ASSESSMENT BONDS	GENERAL OBLIGATION BONDS
Center/Wing	$ 400,000
Water Main	100,000
Water Main	-
Sidewalk Repair Program	300,000
Wayne County Sewer Road Repair Program	70,000
ManCentre	-
Parking Deck	3,000,000
Parking Lot Reconstruction	200,000
Total	$1,695,000
	$5,200,000

- 11A. NEW POLICE CAR PURCHASE: Moved, supported, CARRIED UNANIMOUSLY, to approve the purchase of one police car, as specified if the request for bids is from the Oakland County purchase program and to authorize the Police Chief to review the feasibility of purchasing a down-sized police car.
12. COUNCIL COMMENTS: Mayor Protom Ayers stated that with the onset of a new year, she feels it would be appropriate to have an update on the following issues:
 - 1) Sewer and Water Construction-Northville Estates
 - 2) Elmsmore Drain
 - 3) Street Repair Program
 - 4) Traffic Study-Future Projects
 - 5) Ford Plant Negotiations
 - 6) Review of Contracts-Engineers, Attorneys, Etc.
 - 7) Insurance Review
 - 8) Recycle Program Status
 - 9) Street Trolley Spots
 Councilman Mitman asked that a budget status report, budget planning timetable, and departmental budget reductions and cut-back status be added to Mayor Protom Ayers' list.
Mayor Johnson suggested that goals and objectives and personnel also be added to the list.
Mayor Protom Ayers will report on the January, February and March Recreation Commission Meetings in Councilman Folino's absence.
There being no further business to be discussed by City Council, Mayor Johnson adjourned the regular meeting of Monday, January 8, 1990, at 9:10 p.m.

City budget deficit blamed on increased refuse fees

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville City Manager Steven Walters attributed a $79,674 shortfall in this year's budget to increases in landfill fees passed on by the city's contracted refuse collectors, and suggested to city council members that the shortfall may be more than a short-term problem.

Now the city must decide what to cut to pay for the shortfall.

City officials had budgeted $290,000 for the contracted service, but Walters estimated that the total cost for this fiscal year would be $369,674. The cost of the program for the first six months of the fiscal year — July to December of 1989 — was $171,736.

"It just kind of irks you to have to cut worthwhile expenditures to pay to have garbage buried," Walters said. But he predicted that more than half the shortfall could be accounted for by excess revenues.

"We're still looking for solutions that add up to the right total," he said.

Some budget items that could be cut to pay for the shortfall are capital outlay funds, he said, adding "we won't be laying anybody off or anything like that."

The main problem with the shortfall is that there are no short-term solutions for solving the increased costs of waste disposal, Walters said. "Incineration is more expensive, and it still seems impractical to find a way to separate glass, plastic or cans if they're separated at the curb," he said. "It costs more at this point to separate them and truck them to a collection center than to bury them."

The city will institute a partial solution to the problem this spring with a curb-side grass collection program. The program should reduce the amount of the city's waste stream, Walters said, and thus reduce the cost of disposal. But the program will have little effect on this fiscal year, which ends June 30.

In the meantime, Walters and County irked by DNR decision

Wayne County officials say they've dealt a blow by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in their effort to boost recycling and other trash reduction options among county communities.

A recent DNR decision to delay approval of the county master plan, pending receipt of master plans from other counties, could delay local trash reduction plans, or postpone them altogether, county officials fear.

"I guess you could say they've taken the wind right out of our sails," said Milton Mack, head of the county's solid waste implementation committee.

Mack will be among those visiting local communities in coming weeks, trying to sell local leaders on the county plan's necessity.

But already, Mack said, some communities appear to be moving away from swift implementation of recycling and other trash reduction options.

"We'd been working toward a 1992 deadline to get local programs up and running," Mack said.

Now, he added, the DNR could delay approval of Wayne County's overall plan at least until then, pushing local plans back until the mid-1990s at the earliest.

The DNR said the decision was made to coordinate trash reduction efforts between counties that ship trash to outside landfills and counties where those landfills are located.

"We told counties we were looking at it on a regional basis," DNR county coordinator Barbara Scheibly said. "It doesn't affect all counties, just those that import and export DPW Superintendent Ted Mapes are looking for long-term solutions as members of the Council of Western Wayne's solid waste task force. The task force is exploring ways to reduce the amount of waste generated by the county by finding sources for recyclable materials like plastic and glass.

Waste." Wayne County, the state's most populous county, is its biggest waste producer, with more than 13 million cubic yards generated annually. Of that, more than 4 million cubic yards is shipped to landfills in Oakland, Washtenaw, Livingston, Macomb and Monroe counties.

In sheer volume, the amount Wayne County ships out is greater than that produced in all but Oakland, among the counties that accept its waste.

That volume, Mack said, should force the DNR to reverse its position — at least as far as Wayne County is concerned.

The Wayne County plan would guide trash reduction for nearly 25 percent of the state's population.

Storm dispenses landfill litter

By MIKE TYREE

The windstorm that ripped through the area last Thursday afternoon damaged buildings and uprooted trees, and left a portion of western Northville Township under a thick, white blanket.

But snow was not the byproduct of winds estimated at 60 miles per hour. The stuff floating out of the sky was refuse from the Browning-Ferris Industries Arbor Hills East Landfill.

The fallout left a BFI representative and a state official in disagreement over the handling of the landfill operation.

"It was so bad so quick that there was nothing you could do to keep from exposing (landfill material) to the air," BFI District Manager Dan Nelson said.

Nelson said he was away from the landfill site, located on the corner of Six Mile and Napier roads in Salem Township, when the first heavy gusts of wind hit around 3:30 p.m.

Nelson said workers on the 150-foot peak of the landfill were unable to place a dirt cover over a refuse pile that had grown since the landfill opened at 7 a.m. that morning.

Winds picked up hundreds of pounds of materials and overwhelmed four containment fences, Nelson said, and sent paper, plastic, plastic foam and other materials tumbling into neighboring Northville Township.

Nelson said the refuse spill was "one of the worst I've seen, with the highest winds" but said dumping operations did not cease during the storm.

"Probably a few trucks did continue to dump (as winds increased)," he said. "The construction manager was in charge, and if he thought we needed to shut down the working face (the open landfill area), he would have done that."

Nelson said he did not know how many trucks dumped refuse materials after the windstorm began.

But a spokesperson for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources said BFI should have halted the dumping when the winds picked up.

"I wouldn't have allowed it (the dumping to continue)," said Barb

Vetort, a geologist who monitors the BFI site for the Jackson District DNR office. "I'm very surprised they continued to dump."

Nelson said the landfill has not shut down in the three years he has worked at the site.

He said the working face, the area into which refuse haulers dump their cargo, has approximate dimensions of 100 feet by 200 feet.

Workers cover the face each night with a six-inch layer of dirt to shield the landfill material from wind and animals, Nelson said.

The cover is usually applied by 5 p.m., he said, and the high winds limited what workers could do to the face.

Vetort said Friday a Health Department official would be dispatched to inspect the Arbor Hills East site, which accepts between 10-20 percent of the state's solid waste materials.

She said BFI, a nationwide waste disposal firm, generally has a good reputation, but she also voiced concerns over the Salem Township site.

"To be quite honest, I have better luck with them than some municipalities," she said. "But times I have been to that site, I've thought to myself, 'That is very littered.'"

"They seem to have a lot of litter."

Nelson said crews were sent out to begin cleaning up the area early Friday morning. He said BFI contracts with local employment agencies to provide workers for situations like Thursday's windstorm.

He said about 70 workers were on hand Friday and would pick up litter in a two-mile radius.

The firm also brought in a vacuum truck to help the clean-up effort.

A Salem Township official said Thursday's windstorm and resulting paper spill was not a concern.

"There's nothing they (BFI) can really do about it," said Fred Verran, township zoning administrator. "They're doing their best."

Verran defended BFI's decision to continue dumping operations while winds increased.

"It's all well and good for the DNR to say the trucks shouldn't have dumped," he said. "What were they supposed to do, just sit there and not dump?"

Maybury included in state park program

Michigan's Day In The Park program for 1990 has been expanded to include 10 state parks, including Maybury State Park in Northville. The program is part of a continuing effort by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to increase use of the state parks and recreation areas by minorities.

The program, which began in 1988 as a pilot project, will be offered at 10 state parks and recreation areas around Detroit, including Maybury, the Pontiac Lake Recreation Area, Highland Recreation Area and Proud Lake Recreation Area. The program was developed in response to a survey that indicated visits by minorities were disproportionately low at state parks.

"One of our primary objectives is to get minorities involved with the out-of-doors," said Monica Terrell, coordinator for the program and the person instrumental in the pilot project. "We find a lot of people in the city are not aware of environmental concerns, conservation and current events in natural resources." DNR officials also hope the program will stimulate interest in natural resource career opportunities among minorities, women, and the physically challenged.

During its first year, the pilot program attracted 15,465 people to four state parks in southeast Michigan. Last year, 27,025 people participated, and this year the DNR hopes to attract 75,000 people to the program.

There is no charge for the program, and participants can select the park they want to visit. Transportation will be provided for those who cannot provide their own. The program is available year-round. This year, the program begins Feb. 3 and Feb. 17. Activities include hiking, horseback riding, swimming, fishing and picnics during the warmer months. Winter activities include cross-country skiing, ice fishing and sleigh rides. Special school programs are available in the spring.

People of all ages are encouraged to participate. In the past, youth organizations, churches, special interest groups, local recreation departments and senior citizens clubs have all participated in the program.

Groups and individuals interested in arranging a Day In The Park can contact Terrell at 517-373-1270, or Maybury State Park at 349-8390. Forms will be sent to those interested to help schedule dates and locations.

Recycling popular

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township's recyclable goods collection center has been a plus for the community, despite a few minor problems, Township Manager Richard Henningsen said Tuesday.

"We've still got some things to work on, but it's coming along very well," Henningsen said of the center, which is located just north of Five Mile Road on Sheldon.

Henningsen said an unanticipated flood of plastic containers quickly filled collection bins.

"We'll provide more space for plastic products," he said. "But we do need people to start separating the plastics by colors."

Henningsen said additional instructional signs would be placed near the bins. He said the township has to separate the colored plastics if those using the center do not.

"Someone might throw a clear plastic bottle into the correct bin, but if they leave the colored cap on, we just have to dig in there and take it off," he said.

Henningsen also asked those dropping off papers to place the bundles to the rear of the collection trailer.

The collection center is designed to accept recyclable items such as used oil, car and household batteries, newspapers, and glass and plastic containers.

The township pays haulers to remove and transport the collected materials to local recycling centers.

He said residents should be aware that the venture is more of an educational tool than a for-profit venture.

"The whole idea is to try and break even," he said.

The center opened Dec. 28.

Deficit reduction plan amended

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Northville City Council held a special meeting Monday night to amend the 1988-1989 deficit reduction plan. The council voted to include the city's capital projects fund in the plan.

City Manager Steven Walters presented the city with the proposed amendment at the Monday meeting. According to the proposal, the capital projects fund — which funds street improvements in the city — had a deficit of $757,343 at the time of last year's audit. The proposal called for the city to issue highway bonds in the amount of $750,000 this fiscal year to cover the deficit.

That bond, combined with surplus balances in the city's major streets fund and local street fund, should eliminate the deficit.

One of the other funds included in the city's deficit reduction plan is the downtown development fund, which owed $203,462 to other city funds last year from future captured taxes. Because the captured taxes were originally not enough to meet the fund's debt retirement costs, the city loaned money to the fund from others in previous years.

As was projected by city officials, the captured taxes last year were sufficient to both meet last year's debt retirement costs and reduce the fund's deficit, bringing the total deficit balance in the fund to $146,720. City officials expect to eliminate the entire fund deficit in the next fiscal year.

Other funds included in the city's deficit reduction plan are the Allen Terrace operating fund and the parking fund. The Allen Terrace project generates enough money through rents to cover its operating and debt expenses and fund a repair and maintenance reserve.

The parking fund, which receives the special assessments that are levied on commercial projects for parking space requirements and funds the construction of public parking improvements, showed a deficit of $47,444 last year, but the assessments received as of August 21 exceeded that deficit by $63,847.

Former employees lose court appeal

By STEVE KELLMAN

Two former Department of Public Works employees from Northville lost the latest round in an ongoing labor dispute with the city, when the state Supreme Court refused to hear their appeal.

The Supreme Court's decision caps nine years of legal battles for former Northville sanitation operators Maelyn Burns and Bruce Turner. "This has gone on so long we never thought it would get to court," Burns said, referring other questions to his attorney, David Jerome.

According to Jerome, who had not yet received a copy of the Supreme Court's decision, his clients had few options left other than a request for a rehearing. Jerome said his clients would decide whether or not to proceed with the case after reading the decision and weighing their options.

"I'm a little bit shocked at the Supreme Court's findings," he said. "I think this issue is a critical one."

Burns and Turner were laid off by the city on Oct. 20, 1981 when Northville contracted out for residential refuse collection. The city continued to provide commercial collection.

The two men filed a grievance with the city charging that lower-seniority employees in other positions should have been laid off first, but their grievance was denied by the city. At that point, they turned to the DPW employees' local union — the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) — for help.

The latest twist in the complicated legal battle involved their representation by AFSCME. Though AFSCME first declined to process their grievance, the local union chapter eventually agreed and scheduled an arbitration hearing on the behalf of Burns and Turner for January 1983.

In April 1982, the city's clerical and DPW employees narrowly voted to decertify the local AFSCME branch, and the DPW workers formed their own bargaining association. Over the next three months AFSCME notified the two plaintiffs that it could no longer process their complaint, but that the arbitration hearing could be adjourned so that the union and plaintiffs could find other representation.

But the city later voluntarily agreed to re-recognize AFSCME representation of the DPW workers, and the grievance was withdrawn in November 1982.

Finally, the two employees filed a suit in June 1983 alleging that AFSCME had breached its duty of fair representation by refusing to represent them at the hearing. A jury found in favor of the plaintiffs, and the trial court denied AFSCME's motion for a new trial.

During their appeal, AFSCME argued that their duty of fair representation ended when the clerical and DPW employees voted to decertify the union, and the appeals court agreed. The court argued in its decision that AFSCME had taken steps to preserve the rights of Burns and Turner to arbitrate their case, and notified the plaintiffs of those steps.

City shelves plan for Ford plant

By STEPHEN KELLMAN

While the city pursues a new joint services agreement with the township for participation in the proposed Haller Library, a former suggested library site remains vacant.

The Ford plant in Northville City has remained empty since its closure by the car company last June. A study commissioned by the city suggested a community library for the site, but with the township's Haller Library proposal proceeding, the city has shelved those plans.

"We certainly plan to have a role in Ford's sale of the property, even if it's just an advisory role," said City Manager Steven Walters.

The city is interested in the future of the Ford plant for a number of reasons, not the least of them being the potential for more commercial development and more money for the tax rolls.

But the city is also interested in using the plant's parking lot across Griswold as public parking, Walters said. "There's obviously an interest in Ford Field being retained for public use," he added. The city would also like to maintain public access to the watercourse around the plant.

No matter who develops the Ford plant, the city will have a say in the development through site plan review by the planning commission and historic district commission. But as Walters said, "the more positive impact we can have is by working with Ford and potential developers before a final developer is chosen."

Obituaries

ERNA A. GLASER

JOHN J. (JACK) FRICKE

Mrs. Erna A. Glaser, 83, of Northville died Jan. 29 at Botsford General Hospital in Farmington Hills.

She was born Oct. 6, 1906 in Willerhausen, Germany, the daughter of Max Hebes and Henrietta Tenecke. In 1921, she married Alfred Glaser. He survives.

Mrs. Glaser came to the community in 1928. She was a homemaker.

Other survivors include a daughter, Dolores LaFaive of Negaunee; a sister, Elly Tetzlaff of Northville; four grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services are Friday, Feb. 2 at 1 p.m. at Casterline Funeral Home, Inc., in Northville, the Rev. Eric S. Hammar of the First United Methodist Church of Northville officiating.

Mr. John J. (Jack) Fricke, former vicar at the Church of the Holy Cross Episcopal in Novi, died Saturday, Jan. 28 in Omaha, Neb., of cancer.

Father Fricke served at the Church of the Holy Cross Episcopal from 1966 to 1969 and was instrumental in building most of the church as it exists today. In 1969 he left Novi to serve as sub-dean of Trinity Cathedral in Omaha, Neb. He later became dean of the cathedral, where he served until his death.

Father Leslie Harding of the Church of the Holy Cross Episcopal reported that Mr. Fricke's wife, Ann, and family are doing well.

A memorial eucharist will be celebrated Tuesday, Feb. 6 at the Trinity Cathedral in Omaha, Neb.

Those wishing to send cards or memorials may mail them to: Trinity Cathedral, 113 N. Eighteenth St., Omaha, Neb. 68107.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Litter shouldn't be blowing in the wind

At first glance, those traveling along the Northville-Salem Township boundary at Six Mile and Napier roads last Friday morning may have felt they had stumbled into an isolated, freak snowstorm.

ENVIRONMENT

Trees were wrapped in a white blanket and the ground on the Northville Township side of Napier Road showed only intermittent patches of brown.

But this was no idyllic Michigan winter scene. The ground and tree cover along the periphery of the Browing-Ferris Industries Arbor Hills East landfill were bathed in the remnants of a paper storm — hundreds of pounds of fallout from wind gusts that whipped through an uncovered portion of the landfill the day before.

It was an amazing sight — and very disturbing.

We realize the necessity of landfills, and the BFI site in Salem Township has long been one of the workhorses in the industry. A Department of Natural Resources official said BFI generally maintains a good reputation among state and federal regulators, but the spokesperson criticized the actions — or inaction — of landfill managers during Thursday's extreme high winds.

We are in full agreement with the DNR that landfill management should have halted dumping operations when the wind speed cranked up to unmanageable levels around 3:30 that afternoon. According to Dan Nelson, BFI district manager, several trucks dumped their load into the uncovered open face of the landfill some 150 feet above ground level.

And it doesn't take a genius to

BFI enlisted a troop of temporary employees to clean up the resulting litter, which was strewn across several hundred yards of Northville Township land. No less could be expected. But the thought of thousands of pieces of paper, plastic and styrofoam carrying who-knows-what as it tumbles across the countryside is less than heartening, especially in this time of increased environmental awareness.

It is clear that the main concern at the Arbor Hills East landfill was to proceed with the dumping of waiting trucks. Landfill officials apparently had to make a decision based on economics — while papers swirled about them and down to the ground outside the facility.

We commend Nelson for his candor and willingness to discuss last week's incident, but we think BFI made an incorrect decision and hope they will formulate policy to keep similar situations from occurring in the future.

Landfills can be good neighbors and Arbor Hills East is striving to be a state-of-the-art facility. We just hope they will not choose the same littered path next time a windstorm sweeps across the area.

MX missile poses a local threat, too

With the recent selection of Wurtsmith Air Force Base in Oscoda as one of the six sites for the MX Rail Garrison, and the CSX Transportation rail line as a possible missile train route, local citizens are faced with the frightening prospect of nuclear warheads rolling through town.

Though the Air Force must necessarily guard the exact routes of the missile trains, local residents have a right to know if their community may be on a possible route, and how often the missiles might be on the tracks. Jackie Victor, program director for the public awareness group Michigan Sane/Freeze, pointed out recently that "it's not just a national-security issue, it's a public-safety issue as well."

The most basic question from a local standpoint is, "How did such a proposal become reality so quickly when so many safety questions remain unanswered?"

For example, why has the Air Force used accident data from commercial railroad companies to figure the safety of the proposed MX trains, despite the fact that the missile launch cars will be longer, taller and much heavier than typical commercial cars?

Also, the Air Force has said nothing in its environmental-impact statement of the effects of launching one of these missiles from the tracks. Won't the tracks be destroyed? What about neighboring properties and the people on them? And what about the increased danger to Michigan from stationing the nuclear weapons here, not to mention using them?

Critics of the proposal across the nation have more fundamental arguments against the Rail Garrison proposal, and against the MX missile itself.

For instance, they argue, where is the "national need" for the missiles themselves when the country already has an estimated 1,000 land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles, and more than 10,000 long-range nuclear weapons on submarines and bombers?

And why does the country need a rail-based missile system at all? The Air Force has estimated that it will take four to six hours to move the trains onto the national rails so that the missiles are safe from Soviet attack. Yet Soviet missiles can reach the United States in well under an hour.

Because of this, the critics charge that the Rail Garrison system — designed by the Air Force to provide a "stabilizing" influence in times of military tension — could actually encourage a Soviet first strike rather than deter one.

Over and above the possible health risks and accident potential is the dangerous mentality demonstrated by the Rail Garrison proposal. The military is using the entire country as its potential battleground during the next war.

Any community with railroad tracks linked to the national rails is a potential participant in the elaborate shell game that the military wants to play during times of increased tension.

As U.S. Rep. Les Aspin has said, "The Rail Garrison program has the feel of something worked out on the back of an envelope." But the proposal itself places the many dangers posed by nuclear weapons in our own back yards.

On the fence

By Ann Willis

It's getting uncomfortable up here on this fence.

The library fence, that is.

You see I'm having some trouble with this whole Haller Library thing.

First of all I agree that we need a new library for the community of Northville. I think that separate libraries for the city and township just don't make a whole lot of sense. Libraries by their very nature are better if the circulation potential is bigger. That's why Northville belongs to the Wayne Oakland Library Federation (WOLF).

That's not a hard one. Just about everyone agrees that the community could use more space in its library. It's the where and the how questions that have me up on this fence.

Before the Haller family generously offered to donate the 72 acres of land on Six Mile and Sheldon roads to the township, the library search committee did a lot of work. One of its conclusions found that libraries do better if they are located in a commercial area. People by their nature prefer to make the library one of their stops — not necessarily the only destination of a trip. You know, drop the kids off at the library on Saturday morning — run a few errands, then pick them up. The library probably sees more use that way than as a definite point of travel.

Now, many people have rightfully noted that the Six Mile and Sheldon area will be the population center of the community in 10 or 20 years. But it won't be the commercial center. At the joint meeting between the school district, township officials and city officials, everyone agreed that the retail and commercial base for the Northville community will be downtown.

I'm also having trouble with the cost. I think $5 million is a big chunk of change. I think 44,800 square feet is a huge library and it's a shame that the township and city have no say in the size of the structure. As nice as the free land is — the stipulations on that gift are hard to swallow.

So you see why I'm perched up here. I think the land gift is swell. I know the township needs more room. Township Hall is small now and will need to grow. The community does need meeting rooms and community rooms. The land could be a godsend for the room it will provide for these things. But it will all cost money. If the building construction could be phased, that might help me find my way down to the ground sooner. Most of my hesitations come from the fact that the 44,800-square-foot building must be constructed — and paid for — now, before the taxpayer base that would subsidize it, is in place.

I'm glad the citizens of the township will vote on the issue. I wish the residents of the city had an equal chance.

Give us a call . . .

By Bob Needham

If you're a regular reader of this newspaper, you're used to seeing a different face down in this corner — that of Phil Jerome, who has been associated with the Northville Record for years.

Phil recently got a promotion to executive editor, which means he is now overseeing the news operations of all six papers in our chain. He still lives in town, but now he works out of our Howell office.

The promotion meant a lot of other shuffling around within the company. Ann Willis, whose mug you see at the top of the page, got moved up into Phil's old position, which is called managing editor. And I got moved up into Ann's old job, with the plain old title of editor.

All this is by way of introduction to those of you who don't know me. I've been working as a reporter here for almost three years, for most of that time covering the City of Northville and assorted other things we thought belonged in the paper.

Having lived in the area (at the moment, Plymouth, though my fiancée and I hope to move to Northville after our wedding) for a while, and having worked for the Northville Record, I like to think I'm pretty familiar with the Northville community. But not as familiar as I want to be.

This is going to be a major learning process for me, and I'll be asking for help. Help in keeping on top of community events, in knowing which issues are important to the residents, and in figuring out the best ways to bring you the stuff you want and need in your local paper.

Everyone here wants to do a good job. But we don't operate in a vacuum. The more contact there is between the community and the newspaper, the better the newspaper is going to be — and the better served the readers will be. That's what we're aiming for.

So please let us know what's on your mind. You can call me, Ann, or anyone else on the news staff at 349-1700. We want to hear about upcoming events. We want to hear about things we missed, although we much prefer to hear about them ahead of time so we don't miss them. We want to know if there was a car accident, or if someone you know won an award, or if somebody is dumping trash illegally in the field near your house. We want to know what you think of the city council, the township board and the school board. And we want to know what you think of the newspaper.

It's nice to be here. I hope to hear from you

Resident angry over "skyscraper"

To the Editor:
With all the thought that goes into painting downtown buildings (e.g. Shraders), building libraries, and saving existing trees on construction sites, where has our representation gone for protecting the integrity of Northville? A skyscraper is going to be erected at Six Mile and Haggerty. This is not a corner in Southfield, Troy, or Detroit. This is Northville Township, a small history-preserving family community we moved into to get away from the "city feeling". What's so disturbing is that tax-free Ward Presbyterian Church insistently continues with their plans to build the church with almost twice the height that code had allowed and which has been deemed unreachable by the fire department. The Zoning Board of Appeals let the whole community down when it gave a variance to ignore all this. Do they understand how high 107 feet is? It's sad the taxpayers have to bring the township to court to have this issue reversed when it should never have been granted initially. My prayer is that a judge can overturn this insanity, thus preserving what Northville projects to its citizens and visitors. I sure don't want to awake one day exclaiming, "Gee, Toto, I guess we're not in Northville anymore."

Judy Kotlyo

If it cost us $94,000 now for this error think what it could cost us in the future...

To the Editor:
Kiss the quaint little Victorian city good-bye. I am appalled to have just learned, forgive me for not watching more closely, that the city council has just approved a five-story — count 'em — five-story parking structure right in downtown Northville. Where was the Historic District Commission? What were the city planners thinking of? I guess I had better watch what's going on around here a little more closely, make that a lot more closely. I can hardly wait to tell someone coming from the south to "go north on Sheldon, past Seven Mile, then you'll see this huge parking structure, across from a tall brick wall. Once you get through the canyon at the top of the hill, you'll see Northville."

The founding fathers must be rolling in their graves. It's beyond comprehension that a city where I have to have the color of my house and the shape of my windows approved would allow a five-story concrete parking structure to be built.

Well, I just want to say I do not intend to take this sitting down. We all know why people are attracted to our city. This is a clear cut case of money taking over Northville. What is it about parking problems that make city officials lose their senses? Maybe we need to make some serious changes in our City Council. There are alternative locations for a parking structure.

Daniel Hackett

To the Editor:
I live in the City of Northville, a small town we could all consider to be unique, quaint and most of all charming. But as the downtown area develops with plans approved by the planning committee for a five story, 600 space parking structure to be located south of the Main Center development over the top of where the Farmer's Market used to be, I think the town we all once knew is going to change drastically to a town that lacks the charm it used to have.

I recall other towns throughout Michigan such as Harbor Springs or Saugatuck and small towns out on the East Coast on the same scale as Northville. They were all very much like Northville, being small, quaint and charming, and they all had that inherent parking and traffic problem. But, none of them ever resorted to building a five-story parking structure right in a downtown area. The fact is that most small towns like Northville were built before the automobile existed. Why can't we appreciate this quality. In France if your car is too large to fit down a narrow street, well tough!

After all, that's what draws people to visit Northville, or cities throughout Europe that have retained their original identity and separates them from recently built suburban communities with big parking lots and strip malls. It would be a farce if we make it our prime concession to accommodate cars in our town. We had better take parking off Main Street, put it in a structure and make Main Street four lanes and of course, move the clock so that traffic can move efficiently through our town. A five-story parking structure on Center Street in plain view seems to be this kind of logic.

As we enter our town from Sheldon Road, we see the race track and most of all, vast amounts of asphalt for parking which is used part of the year and at opposite times of the day, from when the retail shops need parking. It makes one think, "Do we need even more parking, or maybe a parking exchange with the pre-existing race track lot or to develop parking in the Cady Corridor which is more central to the city and less visible?"

You would think we would learn by poor planning of the past, such as M.A.G.S., or a deck we now have that is half used due to vandals, and a poor location, and yes — it is falling apart in only 15 years' time. Great! Let's build a bigger deck, lit up 24 hours a day, with a full-time security guard, and cameras, paid for with the city's tax money, and destroy the scale of our town. I suppose the race track-goers and the skateboarders make this necessary for security guards and cameras. Oh yes, how about the aspiring graffiti artists. Remember the high school incident?

Remember all the front page renderings of the MainCentre building? Somehow, a parking structure was never displayed in any of the renderings, in fact, the parking structure is to be much larger than the actual MainCentre building itself. A picture tells a thousand words. If the City of Northville saw the parking structure in a rendering, would it be too gross for the viewer?

I hope everyone who has complained of the parking in the past finds town pride in a five story parking structure. I don't think so! I think our city council and planning committees deserve a failing grade in creativity and in the preservation of our town as it used to be. I think that we should let city council know that this parking structure is a poorly contrived excuse.

I also hope to see those of us who are concerned at the upcoming city council meeting.

Cooke programs

To the Editor:
With the fall 1990 reopening of Cooke Middle School, the Northville Cooperative Preschool finds that for a second year in a row, it must relocate. The difficulty this time however, is that NCP has no place to move to. The NCP Board has researched all conceivable locations (churches, halls, etc.) with no viable possibilities emerging. Can it be for the first time in its 40-plus year history, NCP is faced with the dismal prospect of closing simply due to the lack of space?

The Northville School Board has been supportive in the past and has recognized the value of strong preschools feeding into the elementary schools. Dr. Bell stated that quality preschool programs do a great deal to enrich the Northville Public School system. NCP now must look to Northville for a real sign of support and ask Northville to locate a space for the preschool within a public school building. My guess is that the NCP members, future members and alumnus (which reads like a who's who of Northville) would be greatly saddened to see NCP unable to continue the work of teaching and nurturing the children of Northville.

Not an error

To the Editor:
The article by Mike Tyree in Thursday's paper, dated Jan. 18, 1989, but was Jan. 18, 1990, must be in error as it states on page 1 the Board of Trustees awarded a contract to Dicomo for the contract for the Haller Library, and on page 16 it says the township is responsible for the first two phases, approximately $94,000 regardless of the outcome of the election. I certainly hope the Board of Trustees are not dimwit enough to have approved that contract without the vote of the people, who have yet to approve the fact we want the library at any price let alone $4.5 million, please tell me I am wrong. Either Mike's article is wrong in its facts or our Board of Trustees is very premature to say the least; please tell me I am wrong or let's start to impeach the five members that voted for approval.

Today's children are under stress

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

In the 1980s college campuses across the country offered stress management classes for adults. Employers suggested that their employees learn how to relax. Although most are aware that adults are experiencing stress in our high-pressure, fast moving society, it is easy to forget that today's children also experience a tremendous amount of stress.

Children often show signs of unmanageable levels of stress. It is important for parents to watch for these warning signs:

- Recurrent stomach pain or headaches

- Sleeping problems
- Bed wetting
- Changes in eating habits
- Aggressive or stubborn behavior
- Reluctance to participate

If children experience one or more of these symptoms, they may be under too much pressure. One common cause of this high level of pressure is an involvement in too many activities. Many pre-schoolers, for example, have activities and lessons every day of the week. For some, this is too much to handle, and efforts to reduce their activities and their stress should be made.

If you think your kids are doing too much, back off. Find out what really holds your child's interest. A simple way to do this is to get a cup of coffee and observe your child playing. They may fantasize about being a sports hero, or they may pretend to be a prima ballerina. With this information, a parent can help to involve their children in activities that interest their children.

Parents may encourage other activities but one or two organized activities a week is probably enough for most young children. The most worthwhile activity for kids is to spend time with their parents. Talking to parents, sharing things that they like about each other, and expressing sincere affection, are more beneficial to children than many high-stress activities.

It may be worthwhile to examine a child's activities and to evaluate if time with parent and child together is more important than placing a child in a high-pressure, activity filled world.

Moo U?

By Tim Richard

Good luck, Dennis Martell, even though your petition drive is likely to be neglected to death.

Martell is the leader of an effort to recall three Michigan State University trustees — Lawrence Owen, Joel Ferguson and Kathy Wilbur.

His problem is that he'll need nearly 600,000 petition signatures to do it. That's almost half of what it takes to get elected to the MSU board.

The MSU board, in case you've been in a cocoon, voted 5-3 last week to make football coach George Perles athletic director, against the recommendation of President John DiBiaggio. To those who think in derogatory terms, the five have enhanced MSU's reputation as "Moo U," a reference to its founding in the 1860s as an agricultural college.

The board majority also flushed down hiring guidelines, ignored campus constituents and, by one member's admission, violated the Open Meetings Act two or three times.

Martell needs to know that most recall drives fail. There should be an easier way to stomp on the offending trustees, and there is. Politics.

You see, those trustees are nominated by political party conventions held every election year in late August or early September, and then elected by the voters. Two come up for reelection every two years.

Owen and Malcolm Dade, both of whom voted for Perles, are due to face the Democratic State Convention this year.

I suggest people who are serious about dumping the Moo U trustees run for Democratic or Republican precinct delegate this year. It's easy. You get petition forms from your friendly county clerk. It takes only a couple dozen signatures to get on the ballot.

Then you attend the county and state conventions where Owen and Dade or their Republican opponents are to be nominated. You recruit candidates who will obey the Open Meetings Act and get rid of MSU's jock mentality. You get them nominated and elected.

In two years, you repeat the process and go after Republican Kathy Wilbur. (Republican Dean Pridgeon is also due for re-nomination in 1992, but he voted against Perles.)

Wilbur, a former Birmingham resident, works for state Sen. Bill Sederburg, R-East Lansing, who chairs the Senate appropriations subcommittee that oversees higher education budgets. She is a conscientious worker and a genuinely good person. I like her. But Wilbur is a public official and should be held accountable for her vote.

Two years ago University of Michigan regents held closed door meetings to hire a president and got sued under the Open Meetings Act. The case is still in the appeals court. But the board's secrecy never became an issue at either party convention.

Also about two or three years ago, the Oakland University board voted to raise tuition 19 percent, or double what Gov. James Blanchard thought appropriate. Blanchard was reported to be furious.

OU trustees are gubernatorial appointees. But when the offending trustees came up for reappointment, Blanchard failed to take advantage of his powers and failed to enforce his own tuition policy. He tamely reappointed them.

I'm pessimistic that Dade and Owen will get the ax. I hope I'm wrong.

THANK A VOLUNTEER TODAY

Dedicated volunteers deserve special recognition for their community service. You can say thank you by nominating them for the given to individuals or groups for outstanding volunteer service.

The JCPenney Golden Rule Award recognizes and rewards the selfless work of volunteers in communities across America. It is named for James Cash Penney's first store, called "The Golden Rule," which was established in Kemmerer, Wyo., in 1902. And it is based on Mr. Penney's own dedication to service—first in business, then in decades of philanthropy and personal service to many causes.

Nominate a friend. A group. Yourself.

Winners will be selected from among your nominations by a panel of involved citizens and community leaders. Winners will receive

- ▲ A specially commissioned bronze sculpture that symbolizes the spirit of volunteerism
- ▲ A contribution of $1,000 to his or her organization
- ▲ An opportunity to compete for the National Golden Rule Award, which carries an additional contribution of $10,000 to the winning volunteer's organization.

Nomination forms are available where you volunteer and at the catalog desks of JCPenney stores.

Deadline for nominations is March 20, 1990.

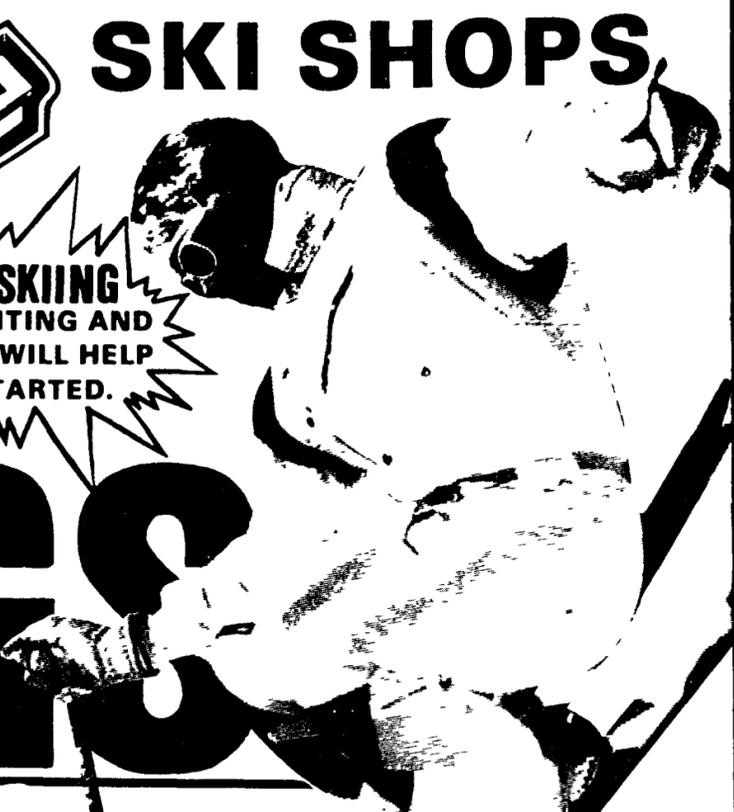

Winners will be announced April 24, 1990.

Freshness and customer service are keys

Grocer opens retail outlet in Northville

By MONICA BAHM

Premium cuts of beef, exotic fruits, and a wide variety of fresh vegetables are some of the many tempting food items found at Mancuso's Quality Market.

Jim Mancuso, owner of the market, believes that his customers deserve only the highest quality products.

"Many people assume that a higher quality product will cost more money, but that's not always the case," Mancuso said. "Many of the items in my market are less expensive than a lot of the grocery stores in the area."

Since opening his market in November, 1989, he has received only positive feedback from his customers.

"I've had many customers comment on the freshness of the produce and the high quality meats," he said.

Mancuso feels that his market has one of the most unique meat cases in the area.

All of the meats are cut into restaurant size portions and are ordered from restaurant suppliers.

He sells Booth's Amish Chickens, which are raised all naturally, and are shipped to his market only one day after they have been slaughtered.

James Duguay and Ralf Caswell, both chefs by profession, work behind the meat cases. They prepare such gourmet specialties as red pepper chicken breasts and dijon herb pork roast, which only need to be cooked at home by the customer.

Duguay and Caswell make a variety of salads and homemade soups which are all made at the market. They also prepare daily gourmet luncheon specials.

"We can make just about anything that a customer wants," Mancuso said. "I had a woman who came into the market and wanted 42 sage chicken breasts for a party that she was giving. The two chefs prepared the chicken for her, and all she had to do was put the chicken in the oven when she got home," he said.

Mancuso also carries some unusual produce including broccoflower. The vegetable is a mix between cauliflower and broccoli and looks like a light green head of cauliflower. He is also the only supplier in Michigan to sell Ben & Jerry's Ice Cream.

In a few months, he plans to start selling beer, wine and possibly liquor at his market.

Prior to opening his market, Mancuso worked as a wholesaler for 10 years, serving restaurants and hotels. He still works as a wholesaler out of his market. One of his largest accounts is the Palace in Auburn Hills.

Record/CHRIS BOYD

The Quality Goes In Before You

Business deductions bear watching

Suppose you're a sales manager for a software development company. It's been a while since you spoke with Jack, one of your good customers, so you invite him to lunch as a way of keeping in touch. There's no specific business to discuss, but you want to be sure Jack keeps your company in mind.

Enjoy your meal with Jack, but you may not be able to deduct it.

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you may deduct a business meal only if it was "directly related to" or "associated with" the active conduct of our trade or business.

The primary test of this rule is whether you discussed business during, directly before, or directly after a meal. Once you satisfy these requirements, you may deduct up to 80 percent of the cost of the food, beverage, tax and tip provided that these expenses were not "lavish or extravagant under the circumstances."

Let's look at another scenario. Imagine your company has a new program you think Jack's human resources department could use. You arrange a lunch date with Jack to discuss the new program's capabilities. This time, you can write off 80 percent of the lunch. And the cost of the transportation to the restaurant may be fully deductible as well.

Remember, if your meal and entertainment expenses are not reimbursed by your company, they must be added to your other "miscellaneous itemized expenses" which are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of adjusted gross income.

The 80 percent rule must also be applied to "single sum expenditures." For example, if your hotel includes breakfast in your room charge, it is up to you to allocate a portion of the room charge for food. You would then be eligible to deduct 80 percent of the cost of breakfast and 100 percent of the cost of the room. The 80 percent limitation also applies when you dine out alone on a business trip. When you are away from home on a business trip, some of the expenses that are deductible include hotel and lodging expenses, meal costs, baggage handling and business telephone calls.

In most cases, when you travel strictly on business, your write-offs are clear-cut. But when you mix business with pleasure, the picture gets blurred. Transportation to and from a destination is deductible only if the trip is primarily related to your business. But suppose you take a trip for personal reasons and, once at your destination, you take time out of your vacation to see a customer. If you entertain a customer and meet the normal requirements for a deduction, 80 percent of the cost of the meal is deductible, the cost of the transportation between your hotel and the location of the business meal is also deductible.

If the primary reason for your trip is business, but you extend your stay for personal rest and relaxation, the cost of the transportation to and from the venue is still deductible. But you may only deduct lodging, meals, and other related meal expenses for the business part of the trip. There are special rules for foreign travel, even where the travel is primarily for business. Essentially, if you are traveling for one week or less, or if less than 25 percent of the travel is non-business, the deduction should be allowable. Incidentally, you may not deduct the travel expenses of a spouse who accompanies you on a business trip unless you can prove that the spouse's presence served a bona fide business purpose.

The rules for deducting entertainment costs parallel those for business meals. If you take a client to a baseball game, you need not spend all nine innings trying to sell him your company's new training program. But some business must be discussed directly before, during or directly after the game for your expenses to qualify for a deduction. And when it comes to ticket prices — be they for a sporting event, concert or play — you may deduct 80 percent of the price printed on the ticket.

An exception to this rule is made for tickets to a charitable sporting event. Such tickets and related expenses are fully deductible providing that all the net proceeds from the event go to the charitable organization. In addition, volunteers must be responsible for practically all of the labor involved. Food and beverage costs, as well as parking and seating, are fully deductible if they are part of the package.

Beginning in 1989, new rules govern the deduction for skyboxes — those private, luxury boxes from which executives can view athletic events. Starting this year, when you lease a skybox for more than one event, your deduction is limited to 80 percent of the equivalent cost of regular box seat tickets for each seat in a skybox.

Whatever travel and entertainment expenses you incur, be sure to keep detailed records. For all business meals and entertainment expenses of $25 or more, you must have a receipt or credit card charge statement. You must also retain proof of such items as the amount of the expense, the date on which the expense was incurred, the place in which the entertainment or event took place, the type of business discussed, the length of the business discussion, plus the names and addresses of those in attendance. You can simply write this information on the back of each receipt. A better method is to record every transaction and all related details in a business diary.

Whichever method you choose, make sure your records are clear, accurate and timely. CPAs caution you not to underestimate the importance of this documentation. Without it, your deductions may be jeopardized.

IN THIS BATTLE, THERE'S NO SUCH THING AS ARMY SURPLUS.

COMPARED TO THE BUDGETS OF MOST ARMIES,

OURS IS A DROP IN THE BUCKET.

WARNING!

RADON IS DEADLY IN THIS AREA.

You can't see it, smell it or even feel it. It just quietly attacks your lungs, until one day you find you have lung cancer.

It's called Radon. A naturally occurring, radioactive gas that seeps into your home. In fact, it is the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If your home has high levels of Radon, you're being exposed to as much radiation as having literally hundreds of chest x-rays in one year.

But there is something you can do about it. Testing for Radon is simple and inexpensive. And homes with high levels can be fixed. Call 1-800-SOS-RADON to get your test information.

RADON. THE HEALTH HAZARD IN YOUR HOME THAT HAS A SIMPLE SOLUTION.

VOLVO

THE LIFE YOU SAVE COULD BE YOUR OWN

Study by INSURANCE INSTITUTE OF HIGHWAY SAFETY Found the Volvo 700 Series to be the safest car on the road today. The lowest death rate.

You're looking at a perfect Volvo. A Volvo performed exactly as our safety engineers designed it to. It's front and rear ends, for example, collapsed on impact. As a result, much of the crash energy was absorbed instead of being passed on to the passengers.

What type of wood will burn the best?

By Jim Wood

Whether you bought your first wood stove last fall, or just decided the ornamental fireplace should be less ornamental and more functional, you've learned that buying firewood can be a pain or pleasure.

Sure, it's easy to call someone and say, "This is Joseph Shmoe—bring me another load of wood by Tuesday, would you?" and be done with it.

But you could be burning anything, paying too much, paying too often and just asking for a chimney fire.

Experienced firewood dealers like Mike Merians and John Mills, both in the Howell area, keep their customers happy by selling good wood and giving good advice about it.

Not everyone buys wood, of course. If you are fortunate enough to have your own woodlot, the labor of cutting and stacking is your own and you can leave your wallet home.

On the other hand, if you burn only what comes out of your own woods, your choice of wood types may be limited.

Most of us are in the position of the person standing in front of a long wall of stacked wood, wondering what to say when the man comes. He was told to order two cords, but what's a cord?

Buy hardwood, but how does he tell hardwood from softwood—and what difference does it make? And for heaven's sake, don't buy any green wood.

First thing he should do is find out whether he's buying wood by the standard cord or the face cord. There's a big difference.

A full, or standard, cord is an eight-foot long stack of four-foot logs piled four feet high. Or 128 cubic feet of wood. Cut into smaller pieces, say 16 inches in length to fit stoves and fireplaces better, the volume will be less. The pieces fit together more closely and you've lost the sawdust.

Anyway, most sellers will offer only face cords: a stack eight feet long and four feet high, but the width can be anything. If cut to 12-inch length, it's a quarter of a standard cord; if 16 inches, it's one third. The 16-to-18-inch log is what you'll find around here most of time.

Typically, it's the seller who buys the full cords, by the semi-trailer, then cuts them to face cord length for sale to the public.

John Mills, whose place is on Oak Grove Road just north of M-59, sells about 230 cords a year, all by Christmas. Next year's load has already arrived and he's hard at work cutting it to size. But don't ask him for it now, it's green—just been cut—and he won't sell it to you. Nor will Mike Mer-ians, whose place is on East Grand River.

"I wouldn't sell it," said Merians. "Darn stuff won't burn. Oh, you can get a real hot fire with it, once it starts, but that hot smoke just cools going up the chimney and cakes the inside of it with creosote."

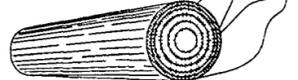

The creosote can catch fire eventually and the chimney fires that result burn houses down every year in this county.

Anyone who has ever had a chimney fire remembers it vividly: a terrifying banshee-like scream and roar as air is sucked by the fire up through the narrow passage. Outside, fire is often seen shooting up into the air from the top of the chimney.

"The biggest way people get ripped off is being sold green wood," said Merians.

Around the House: Designs for Living

Home features built-in pool

By James McAlexander

Totally informal, the Charisma is ideal for relaxed, fun-loving families who enjoy sharing good times with friends.

A sky-lit indoor swimming pool is the recreational heart of this home. Because the pool room is vaulted to the second floor, the custom-shaped sunken pool can also be viewed from the master suite and balcony. Even better, early-morning swimmers can hop out of bed and slide down a curved slide directly into the water.

The pool area is practically self-contained, with its own kitchenette and bathroom. An exercise room is also close by and sun worshippers can soak up rays on the patio.

The living room is the closest to Charisma comes to having a formal living area. Most areas are more fluid, like the broad glass-framed entryway that angles over and stretches out into an even wider dining room.

Family life centers around the vaulted family room and country kitchen, brightened and warmed at the far end by skylights and a wood stove. Family cooks will appreciate the extra vegetable sink, generous counter space and walk-in pantry.

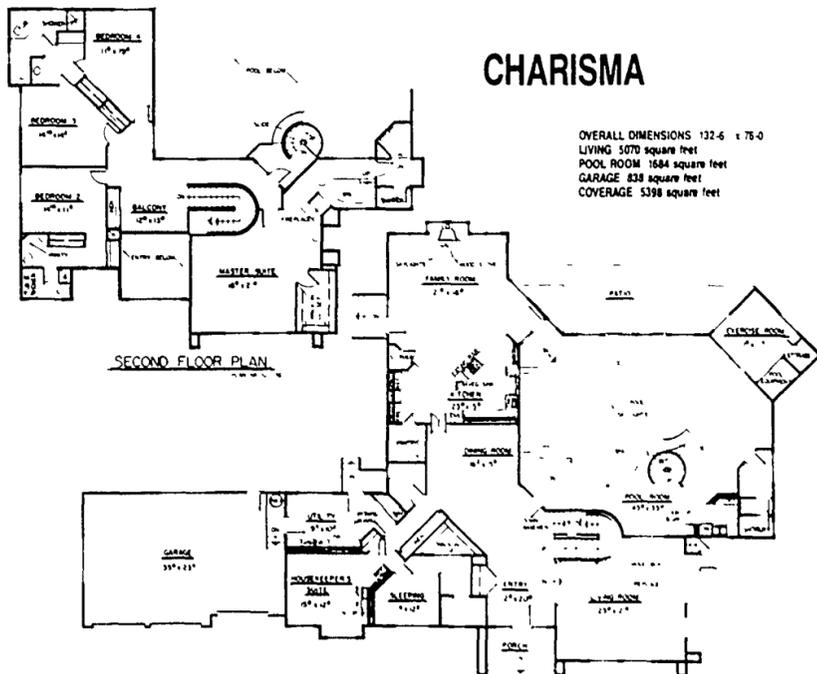

The housekeeper's suite could just as easily house an aging parent or older, semi-independent child. It contains separate cooking, dining and sleeping areas, as well as a full bathroom.

The master suite is nothing short of elegant. Tile surrounding the spa and fireplace provides protection from both fire and water and continues into the adjacent vanity area. Three more large bedrooms share two additional bathrooms.

The roofing and a stucco exterior give the neo-classical Charisma a contemporary look. The two story vaulted entryway, capped by a spoked half-round, makes a stately first impression. Round and half-round windows spreading across the vast front edifice continue the theme with furred out stucco relief providing visual interest.

Around the House: Microwaving

By Desiree Vivea

Before oat bran started getting all the press, wheat germ was the darling of the grain family. Why? Because it packs a delicious nutty crunch while it provides important nutrients, like protein, B vitamins, vitamins, vitamin E, potassium and zinc.

The germ is the heart of the wheat kernel, and the part that would GERminate and sprout, if planted.

Wheat germ comes in two forms: raw or toasted. The raw version is higher in nutrients but can taste bitter. Toasted wheat germ may be slightly less nutritious, but it has a great nutty flavor and a longer shelf life than the raw form.

Because it is a natural source of oils, which deteriorate rapidly at room temperature, wheat germ should always be stored in the refrigerator or freezer, in an air-tight container.

Add wheat germ to all kinds of baked goods, muffins, breads, cookies, crumb crusts. Substitute wheat germ for part of the flour when baking. For every cup of flour called for, use ¾ cup flour and ¼ cup wheat germ.

•Add to ground meats (about ¼ cup per pound) before cooking as a meat extender.

•Sprinkle over cooked or dry cereals before serving for added nutrition.

•Sprinkle over cottage cheese or yogurt for a healthy snack.

•Combine equal parts wheat germ and melted butter or margarine to make a "crumble" mixture. Sprinkle over scalloped vegetables, fish, poultry or casseroles before baking.

•Add to cobbler toppings over baked fruits or to ingredients in stuffed apples.

•Add to seasoned flour coating mixture for chicken or fish.

Double-Decker Fudge is a favorite around my house, and your family will never guess that it contains any healthy ingredients whatsoever.

(Recipes in this column are tested in 625- to 700-watt microwave ovens.)

Micro-Tip of the Week

Microwaved breads don't brown. Remedy the situation with interesting and visually attractive toppings: poppy seeds, toasted wheat germ, cinnamon sugar, chopped roasted nuts, a mixture of Parmesan cheese and herbs.

Brush dough with milk or beaten egg before sprinkling with topping, to make it stick. Or pop under conventional broiler for a few minutes, to brown.

Double-Decker Fudge

- 1 cup butter or margarine
- 1½ cups powdered sugar
- 1 egg, lightly beaten
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1 (6-ounce) package semisweet chocolate morsels
- 1 cup wheat germ
- 1 cup graham cracker crumbs
- ¾ cup chopped walnuts

Yields 64 pieces.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.
Cooking time: 5 to 7 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); LOW (30 percent power).

MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power).

Place ½ cup butter in large microwave-safe mixing bowl. Microwave on HIGH setting about 1 minute, to melt. Stir in ½ cup of powdered sugar, then beat in egg and vanilla. Microwave on LOW setting 2 to 3 minutes, stirring vigorously every minute, until somewhat thickened. Add ½ cup of chocolate chips, stirring until melted, then add wheat germ, graham cracker crumbs and walnuts, stirring to combine thoroughly.

Press mixture evenly into bottom of 8x8-inch square baking dish. Set aside while making topping.

For topping, combine remaining chocolate chips with remaining ½ cup butter in small microwave-safe mixing bowl. Microwave 2 to 3 minutes at medium-high setting, stirring every minute, until melted. Add remaining 1 cup powdered sugar, stirring vigorously to combine. Spread evenly over mixture in baking pan. Cool in refrigerator, then cut into 1-inch squares.

Almond-Wheat Germ Scalloped Broccoli

- 2 (10-ounce each) packages frozen chopped broccoli
- 2 tablespoons water
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons slivered almonds
- 2 tablespoons wheat germ
- 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
- Dash pepper
- ½ cup milk
- ½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 5 to 10 minutes.
Cooking time: 12½ to 19 minutes.
Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power).

Combine broccoli and water in 1½-quart casserole. Cover and microwave until heated through, 6 to 9 minutes, breaking up with fork and stirring halfway through cooking time. Drain off liquid. Cover and set aside.

Place 2 tablespoons of butter in small microwave-safe bowl. Microwave 30 seconds to 1 minute, to melt. Stir in almonds and wheat germ.

Microwave 1½ to 2½ minutes, stirring every minute, until light brown. Set aside.

Place remaining 1 tablespoon butter in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave about 30 seconds, to melt. Stir in flour and pepper, then blend in milk microwave at medium-high setting 2 to 3½ minutes, stirring every 30 seconds, until thickened. Stir in shredded cheese until melted, then pour over broccoli. Top with almond-wheat germ mixture. Microwave at medium-high setting until heated through, 2 to 3 minutes.

Bacon-Swiss Quiche

- 8 bacon slices
- ¾ cup wheat germ
- ½ cup all-purpose flour
- ½ cup soft margarine
- 2 to 3 tablespoons cold water
- ½ cup sliced green onions
- ¾ cup shredded Swiss cheese
- 3 eggs
- ½ cup evaporated milk
- ¼ teaspoon each salt and dry mustard

A Victorian Gem
Garfield and Associates, Inc. of Northville is pleased to announce the creation of a unique Victorian Manor House.
With upwards of 3000 square feet of heated area it sits on almost an acre of gently sloping hillside in a woodlands protected area. In a small exclusive community it is located just three minutes from the heart of Victorian Northville.
The Manor House includes three bedrooms, three full baths (plus two halves), three "sitting" rooms (i.e. a cozy library, a formal living room and a huge family room), three dining areas, three fireplaces, and a three car garage. The most stunning room of the house is its lowering two story foyer with an oak "Y" staircase, status niche, and chandelier. . . . Space also is afforded for an exercise room and sauna. A "Mother-in-law" suite is reached through a rear circular staircase.
From the bufileys glass grading the library to the weathervane atop the cupola, to the rock gardens below the summer porch, attention to detail subtly whispers "Here's Victorian charm and indulgence at it's gingerbread best."
Inquiries are invited at the offices of Garfield and Associates, Inc. Northville.

Know the facts about firewood

People ask him for it, said Mills, but he refuses to sell it before it's cured, or dried. That takes at least six months. A year is better, two years best.

Besides the dangers of creosote, he said, the difficulties people have getting it to burn wouldn't earn him future business. Green wood also burns inefficiently, he said, only about 80 percent as hot as dry wood.

Part of the heat of the fire is used to drive out the extra moisture found in green wood. This means you have to use more of it.

It's difficult to tell green wood from dry wood. It's heavier, if you're able to remember what dry wood for that species of tree weighs. If you can do it for oak, can you do it for cherry, maple and hickory, too? Not many can. So what do you do?

Find someone who is reliable and stick with him, advises Merians. That person has to answer for any bad wood he sells and has learned not to repeat mistakes if he's stayed in business very long.

Ask your friends where they have found satisfaction, especially if they've bought from the same seller for years.

"But if you have to buy from someone new, buy only a cord and try it out," said Merians.

"If it starts easy and burns good, it's dry," he said. If it doesn't, that cord is for next year. For this year, go out and buy from someone else.

Mills' firewood is hauled down from the Gladwin area, is culled from saw logs by the lumber companies, and is "Ninety-nine percent red and white oak, with a piece or two of maple in it." The red oak splits easier, the white oak's a little stringier, he said.

Merians' deliveries are also from the Gladwin area, but his selection is 90 percent oak, the rest maple.

People with their own woodlots might have a wider choice of woods. According to Mills, local woodlots produce mostly oak, hickory, some cherry and walnut.

The basic information about wood, he said, is that it all produces the same heat value, but the density varies from tree to tree. The denser (harder) the wood is, the more heat it will produce when burned.

As the chart here indicates, red and white oak, and maple, make fine firewood. But they are not alone at the top. The less available (shagbark) hickory and locust are even better. The ash is as good as oak. Cherry is about as good as elm. American Beech and Yellow Birch are right there with the oak and maple.

If that old apple tree has become an eyesore and no longer warms your heart, be thinking it will warm your house better: it ranks up there with the oak, hickory and locust.

"Ninety percent of these people, you could tell them anything about the wood they were buying and they'd believe it," said Mills.

But come September, apparently trusting him, "A lot of my old customers just call me and say, 'Bring me my usual load of wood,'" he said.

Let the sunshine in, keep eyes out

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: I have just one window at one end of our eat-in kitchen, but it faces east, so the sun shines in every morning. At night, however, we feel exposed during dinner.

How can I dress the window to keep the sunshine in and keep out the neighbors' eyes—C.C.

A combination window treatment should do the trick.

You might try the twosome we show here: a fairly formal swag and valance over a store-bought Roman shade. When you draw the shade to the top, it will disappear under the valance, opening the way for your dose of daily sunshine. Drop the shade when the sun goes down for privacy.

This particular shade has an added feature as well: It's made of a vinyl-coated fiberglass sun-screening material called Lyverscreen, through which you still get light and a filtered view.

Other now-you-see-it, now-you-don't ideas:

• Wooden shutters mounted flush with the window frame, two pairs, opening top and bottom, under a swag and jabot for a softening touch.

• A roller shade mounted upside down so it pulls up from the window sill at night.

• Cafe curtains on the bottom half of the window, again under a decorative swag or valance.

Q: My much-beloved grandmother's dresser is covered in wood veneer in a lovely, intricate design. To my horror, some of the veneer is beginning to curl up at the edges. What can I do?—S.B.V.

A: Since water-soluble glue was the only thing around when many old furniture pieces were made, any dampness can cause the veneers to come loose or blister.

White polyvinyl glue will take care of the first problem: apply the glue sparingly and set a heavy weight on the spot until it's dry.

Blisters are a little more complicated, but this first-aid treatment usually works: Slit the blistered spot down the center along the grain with a razor blade. Now lay a folded dish towel over the blister and hold a moderately warm iron against it to heat up the wood surface. The heat should soften the old glue and get it working again.

If the edges of the slit now overlap, trim them carefully with the razor and apply the iron treatment again until the spot is smooth to the touch. Then weight overnight with heavy books to keep it smooth.

Designer Tom O'Toole combines a traditional swag and jabot with a Waldorf Roman shade made from a new fiberglass sun-screening material

Q: We're redoing our attic, making it into a bedroom for our 5-year-old, now that the baby has moved his big sister out of the nursery.

I'm planning to wallpaper with something bright and cheerful, but the ceiling has me puzzled.

Like so many attics, it slants out at an angle just above the top of her bed's headboard.

Where do I stop papering: at the slant, or can I go all the way to the ceiling?—A.S.

A: To the ceiling—and beyond onto the nooks and crannies that often give attic rooms their charm. Children, especially, love the coziness since the ceiling feels more their size.

If you decide to carry the wall covering on up and over, try to choose a non-directional pattern. All-over flowers or stripes would be ideal. Remember that stripes work best when they run across the short length of the ceiling and help "push" the walls apart.

You also could change patterns when you get to the ceiling. Some combinations to consider: stripes up the wall and dormer slant with a gingham check on the ceiling, flowers on the wall and an all-over pattern of smaller flowers on the ceiling.

There is a wealth of coordinating wall coverings to choose from, all color- and pattern-harmonized to make decorating easy.

Get healthy with 'germ'

½ teaspoon each pepper and cayenne pepper
Paprika

Yields 4 to 6 servings.
Preparation time: 10 to 15 minutes.

Cooking time: 13 to 19½ minutes (plus 5 minutes standing time.)

Oven setting: HIGH (100 percent power); MEDIUM-HIGH (70 percent power).

Arrange bacon slices on bacon rack or on paper-towel lined plate. Cover with paper towel and microwave 4 minutes. Rotate ¼ turn and microwave 2 to 4 minutes longer. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl combine wheat germ and flour; cut in margarine. Add water and mix gently. Press dough into bottom and sides of 9-inch glass pie plate. Prick bottom and sides with a fork and microwave 1 to 2 ½ minutes, or until crust is cooked but still slightly moist.

Crumble cooked bacon over bottom of crust, then sprinkle with onions and shredded cheese. In small mixing bowl beat together eggs, evaporated milk and seasonings. Beat with fork or wire whisk until well blended and pour over ingredients in crust. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Microwave at medium-high setting 6 to 9 minutes, or until quiche looks set but still slightly soft in the center. Let stand on heat-proof surface 5 minutes before serving.

PAMPER

A Day At The SPA

Stories By Alicia Garrison

Where To Go:

YOURSELF

Once in awhile you have to put guilt aside and selfishly pamper yourself. After all, who deserves it more than you?

In the stress and strain of everyday life, it's important to take a moment aside from your busy schedule to pamper yourself. The good it does to your mental health alone is worth it.

Today's full-service salons provide you with the perfect opportunity to escape from your daily routine to a place where you are the most important person.

Full-service salons offer a variety of professional beauty services, allowing you to totally pamper yourself from head-to-toe.

"Some of our clients come here for individual services such as body massages or facials, but many of them choose to come for the entire day," said Suzanne Kelly, manager of Bloomie's Face and Body, a full-service salon in Farmington Hills. "Basically, we try to create a relaxing atmosphere. Most treatments are done for the mental feeling that is gotten out of it—for the pampering effect and the relaxation that comes along with it."

If you want to spoil yourself rotten, treat yourself to a day at the salon.

Most full-service salons sell packages which offer a combination of professional services. A client may come in for a manicure, a facial and a massage, for example.

At Bloomie's, you can enjoy a luxurious candlelight whirlpool complete with champagne and cheese before you indulge in a soothing hour of body massage.

Or maybe you'd prefer a revitalizing European facial and a hot oil manicure.

According to Kelly, one of most popular services are facials.

A professional facial consists of three basic steps: cleansing, toning and moisturizing.

The skin is massaged to improve the blood circulation and then the face is cleansed, explained esthetician Betty Waggoner of The Cutting Room salon, located in the Brighton Mall. "Different cleansers are used for your skin's particular needs," she said.

The face is then steamed to soften the oils under the skin and an exfoliating cream is applied. The exfoliant removes debris and trapped oils from the face.

At this point of the treatment, if the client desires, blackheads are extracted from the skin and then a mask is applied. The mask draws impurities out of the skin and tightens the pores.

After the mask is cleansed off, a high frequency treatment may be performed. "It's very calming to the skin and soothing to the muscles" Waggoner said. "It has a germicidal action and is great for blemishes."

face with a toner to restore the skin's pH balance and smoothing a protective moisturizer onto the face.

Deep-cleansing facials typically cost $25 to $45 and are 45 minutes to an hour long.

"People who get facials on a regular basis (once a month) have much softer skin and lines are a lot more reduced," Waggoner said. "It adds a lot more suppleness and elasticity to the skin."

Body massages generally cost $35-$50 an hour.

To relax aching muscles and relieve tension, enjoy the luxurious comfort of a whirlpool. Jet-propelled waves will massage every inch of your body, washing away the frustrations of the day. Saunas are also very relaxing to the muscles.

If you're looking for a more inexpensive way to pamper yourself, take a leisurely bath. There are several things you can do to make your bath more beneficial to your skin as well as relaxing.

For more comfort, use a bath pillow to support your neck. These are sold in bath shops, pharmacies and department stores. And to make your bath less dehydrating, add bath oil to the water.

When you are finished with your bath, apply a body oil or lotion to your skin (this will seal in the moisture), wrap yourself in a warm robe and lie down for 20 minutes.

If you can't take advantage of a steam room (or sauna), treat yourself to a facial sauna at home. Pour boiling water into a medium-sized bowl, lean over the water close enough to feel the steam, and place a towel over your head. Do this for 3-5 minutes and then rinse your face with cool water.

If you can't afford a professional body scrub, buy a friction mitt or loofah (the inside of a dried gourd) and exfoliate your skin at home. Wet your skin and apply the loofah in a circular, massaging motion. Use a pumice stone on rough areas such as knees, elbows and feet.

To give your hands a polished look, get a professional manicure. A well-trained manicurist will shape your nails, trim your cuticles and soak your fingertips in hot oil or cream before applying two to three coats of nail polish. Manicures are typically $10-$15.

Some salons offer paraffin treatments for the hands as well. Your hands are placed in a sheet of plastic wrap and massaged with an emollient cream or lotion.

Hot, melted paraffin is then brushed on and your hands are wrapped in plastic and covered with towels to retain the heat. About 15 minutes later, the paraffin is peeled away and your hands are left feeling incredibly soft and smooth. Paraffin treatments cost about $15.

For head-to-toe grooming, give your feet a rest and have a pedicure. The procedure is almost exactly the same as a manicure except that the whole foot is soaked in warm water treated with a softening solution. Pedicures are a little more expensive, approximately $27.

For a finishing touch, get your hair styled or have an expert apply your makeup. The makeup artist will help you find the products and colors that are right for you, and will show you how to use the products correctly. Makeup applications are often complimentary with your first facial.

Gift certificates are available at most salons if you want to surprise someone else with a day of pampering.

Before you make an appointment for any beauty service, make sure you know how much it will cost ahead of time and approximately how long it will take.

For total professional beauty care, make an appointment at one of the following full-service salons:

BLOOMIE'S FACE AND BODY is a full-service salon for men and women. Individual and combination packages are available. Packages are priced at $130, $160 and $190 and include such services as body massage, facial treatment, hot-oil manicure, pedicure, makeup application, lunch and more. Bloomie's also has special packages available for brides. The salon is located in the Orchard 12 Plaza at 12 Mile and Orchard Lake Road in Farmington Hills. Call (313) 553-9550 for an appointment.

THE CUTTING ROOM, located on Grand River Avenue in the Brighton Mall, Brighton, provides professional hair care, body toning, facial treatments, makeup applications, manicures, electrolysis and waxing services. European facial treatments are on sale through the end of February at a reduced cost of $28. A full line of jewelry and hair accessories are also sold at the salon. Call (313) 227-6545 for more information.

MIRA LINDER SPA IN THE CITY offers a full selection of services. In addition to body treatments, facials, nail care, makeup applications and electrolysis, the salon has cellulite treatments and a two-hour bio-sauna special ($95). Other services are also available. Packages range in price from $130 to $225. The Mira Linder Spa is located in the Applegate Square plaza at 29935 Northwestern Highway, Southfield. The salon has been in business for 22 years. Call (313) 356-5810 for further information.

JASMINE STUDIOS, 2020 Hogback Road, Ann Arbor (half mile north of the Washtenaw-Carpenter intersection), sells one-hour full-body massages for $40. Full-facials are $45 and last 1½ hours. The studio is equipped with whirlpools and offers hydro-therapy sessions. Lash and brow tinting, complete hair care, waxing, electrolysis, manicures/pedicures, chemical peels, makeup applications and cosmetic tattooing are also available. Call (313) 973-8666 for an appointment.

TOTAL DIMENSION, located in the Prospect Hill shopping center, Milford, offers full services for hair.

Northville Woman's Club welcomes interior designer

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Need some decorating tips? Northville Woman's Club presents "Mastering the Mix" by Bonnie J. Neuman, an interior designer for the J.L. Hudson Company this Friday, Feb. 2, at the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, at 1:30 p.m.

Neuman will share some of her decorating ideas and schemes with the Woman's Club. She studied interior design and marketing at Eastern Michigan University and has worked at McLaughlens in Southgate. She is currently employed by the J.L. Hudson Company.

Chairperson of the Feb. 2 meeting is Judy Beyersdorf. Guests are reminded that this is also a guest day.

Used book sale planned

Now is the time to stock up on reading materials. A giant clearance sale of used books will be held by the Friends of the Northville Library on Friday, Feb. 23 at Cooke School. Sale hours are 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The Friends must completely reduce its stock of used books during the sale. Because Cooke School — currently used to store books offered in the sales — will reopen in the fall as a middle school, the Friends will no longer have a place to house used books.

Sale prices will be drastically cut to move as many books as possible. Some will be priced by the bag.

Until the Friends finds new quarters for book storage, the library will no longer accept donations of hardbound books. The group, however, will continue to accept paperbacks for the ongoing sale in the photocopier alcove of the library.

All proceeds will be used for goods and services for the library.

Members of the Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association are advised to note a few changes in the February meeting.

The group will gather at noon on Monday, Feb. 12 at the home of Carole DeSantis for a presentation by Edward Postiff of Edwards Caterer. He will discuss "Cooking with Flowers."

Hostess for the day is Julie Woodard.

Social chairpersons are Betty Jane Cooper, Kathy Fehlauer, Norma Gerndt, Mary Keese and June Lafferty.

Highland Lakes club to meet

Members of the Highland Lakes Women's Club have released a schedule of upcoming activities.

Today (Thursday, Feb. 1), the group will meet at 1 p.m. at the library. Special guest is Ann Dunn, who will discuss "Recycling: How, Where and Why."

Members also are advised to mark their calendars for Thursday, Feb. 15, when the club will meet in the Highland Lakes Clubhouse Lounge for "Fun Day." Chairperson of the event is Iris Nelson.

Newcomers plans activities

The Northville Newcomers Alumni will sponsor "Dinner and Curling" on Friday, Feb. 9 at the Detroit Curling Club, 5600 Drake Rd. in West Bloomfield. The event includes a buffet dinner at 7:45 p.m., followed by instructions at 8:30 p.m. Curling will begin at 9:15 p.m. All Newcomers members are welcome. Suggested apparel includes clean running shoes, warm socks, slacks, ski jackets, a warm sweater and gloves. Long coats are not recommended.

Cost for the curling event is $29 per couple, with a limit of 24 couples. For reservations call Marcia Booth at 349-8406.

On Tuesday, Feb. 13, the group presents Pysanky, Ukrainian egg decorating, at the Mill Race Church School. The event begins at 7 p.m. The technique will be taught by Sharon Power, who has instructed this craft at Greenfield Village. Chairpersons of the event are Marcia Stevens and Pat Nyland.

For reservations call Pat Nyland at 348-2847, no later than Jan. 26. Cost is $6.50 per person. The event is limited to 40 people.

Woman's Club sells dinner tickets

Tickets are now available for the Northville Woman's Club Annual Dinner Feb. 16 at the First United Methodist Church of Northville. This is also guest night for members.

Dinner begins at 7 p.m., followed by entertainment by the University of Michigan's Gilbert and Sullivan Association, a group of singers that sing Gilbert and Sullivan selections.

Cost is $13.50 per person. The dinner is catered by Chef Bedson of Schoolcraft College. Menu selections include a buffet of flaming beef, boneless breast of chicken Florentine, fetticini or linguine, mixed vegetables, red skin potatoes with dill butter, Caesar salad, rolls, butter, tea, coffee or milk and assorted pastries.

Geraldine Mills, president of the Northville Woman's Club, encourages all members to attend the dinner. She said if the event is not supported by members this year the dinner probably won't be held next year.

Members may request to sit with friends when making reservations to attend the dinner.

Northville Players to perform

The Northville Players presents "Said the Spider to the Spy," a comedy-mystery in two acts, in three upcoming performances. Show dates are Saturday, Feb. 10, Friday, Feb. 16, and Saturday, Feb. 17. All performances will be held at the Northville Community Center at 8 p.m. Tickets are $5 each.

The Feb. 10 performance is sponsored by ERA Rymal Symes Realty. Proceeds from this show will benefit Jerry's Kids.

Northville High School plans activities in February

NORTHVILLE HIGH SCHOOL

February may be a short month but there are plenty of activities at the high school.

The highlight of the month will be Spirit Week which begins Feb. 5 with the band playing in the halls at 7:30 a.m. At 3 p.m. there will be a class competition in the gym. Spirit King and Queen elections are on Tuesday with the announcement of winners on Friday at a 10 p.m. pep assembly.

Each day there will be a different dress competition, and the entire week's activities will culminate in a Spirit Week Dance Feb. 10 at 8:30 p.m. Chairpersons for the various events are Sean Payne, Katie Davis, Barb Woodruff, Jennifer Jacobs, Kerri Pomaroli, Greg Stemasz, the cheerleaders, and the Student Congress.

On Feb. 8 from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. the Armed Service Vocational Aptitude Battery will be given to any student at the high school. There is no charge, and this battery of tests is recommended for students in order to identify their talents to aid in vocational choices. If interested, students should see their guidance counselor.

The Band Solo and Ensemble Festival will be in Livonia on Feb. 3. The Vocal Solo and Ensemble Festival will be at Eastern Michigan University Feb. 10. Good luck to all those students participating.

There is an important process change in course selections for 1990-1991. In mid-February the new Northville High School Catalog will be distributed to all 8-11 grade students to begin the scheduling process for the new school year. Students and parents should review this material carefully. Classes selected through the registration process will be considered final. August schedule changes will be allowed only to meet graduation requirements or substitute for a failed class. Significant time and energy should be given to making good decisions to ensure that the courses selected will provide students with the necessary prerequisites for their goals.

Congratulations go to the following new officers of the National Honor Society who will serve for the second semester: president, Manpreet Bagga; vice-president, Jenny Beyersdorf; secretary, Kamal Bagga; treasurer, Karl Siegert; historian, Maria Wen.

The Founder's Day Banquet will be in April, however, all nominations for honorees must be in the main office by Feb. 9. The honorees may be parents, faculty, administration, secretaries, custodian, bus drivers, kitchen staff, etc. This is your opportunity to acknowledge that special someone who has gone out of their way to make NHS a facility of which we can be proud.

It is important to note Feb. 6 as an early dismissal day due to curricular inservice, and midwinter recess will be the week of Feb. 19-25.

Northville Action Council, with the clubs and classes at the high school, is sponsoring Project Pride Day on March 7 as part of SADD Red Ribbon Week. Advance notice is being given so you can save that date to hear the keynote speaker, Laurie Stewart. She is a nationally noted speaker and consultant, and will make a presentation to the high school students in the morning and to the parents from 7:30-8:30 p.m., in the auditorium. She has expertise in improving human relations, ability development, self-esteem, and leadership.

Beginning at 8 p.m. March 16, the Student Congress, with support of clubs and classes at NHS, is sponsoring a Charity Ball. This marathon dance will end at 8 a.m. March 17. Students will be needing community pledges of $3 per hour to meet their quota of $36 for entry to the ball. All proceeds will go to two major charities: Northville Action Council and Alzheimer's Association.

Parents, please, remember

Athletic Boosters meet the first Monday of each month at 7:30 p.m. in the Forum, Music Boosters the second Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the Choir Room, and Parent Advisory the last Wednesday at 9 a.m. in the library conference room.

Make a note on your calendars that the Spring Musical, "West Side Story," will be coming March 29, 30, 31 and April 1. Details will follow in our March article.

Tape technology

Digital audio tapes may dethrone cassettes

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

DAT.

It stands for "Digital Audio Tape" and it's the latest in a long line of technical breakthroughs that have invaded the music business. Some believe that DAT will someday dethrone the standard audio cassette tape just the way the compact disc has pushed the vinyl record toward extinction, while others see it as nothing more than a novelty.

The DAT tape itself can hold two hours of music and looks very much like a miniature video cassette, complete with a hinged lid that snaps up when the cassette is inserted into a DAT machine. The big draw is that the tape can make high-quality digital copies without drawbacks like hiss or noise that you get from standard cassettes.

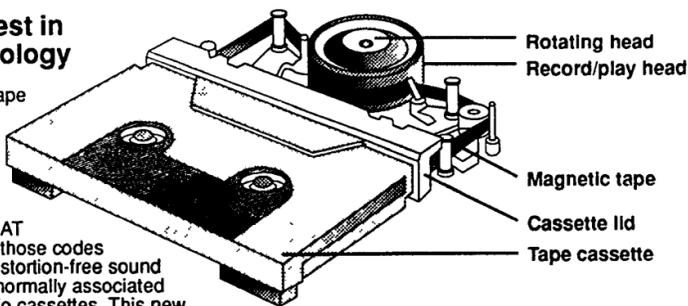

DAT was introduced in Japan and Europe several years ago, but sales haven't lived up to expectations — at least not yet. A business agreement between performers and manufacturers in the United States was reached last summer, which paved the way for DAT to make an appearance here.

"DAT has been available in Japan and West Germany for a couple years, but it hasn't taken off like everyone thought it would," said Paul Amstett of Highland Appliance in Novi.

Sony Corp. is reportedly rushing to get DAT tapes, including blank and

DAT - newest in music technology

The digital audio tape (DAT) looks like a miniature video cassette. The tape itself holds digital codes, instead of actual sounds, and the DAT machine converts those codes back into sharp, distortion-free sound without the noise normally associated with standard audio cassettes. This new format should be available in the United States this summer, but at a very steep price.

Source: Sony Corporation

pre-recorded tapes, into U.S. stores by March, with the recorder-players to follow by summer. Technics Corp. has already announced that its DAT machine will be available by August, with a cost ranging between — hold your hats — $1,200-$1,300.

According to Amstett, Highland has yet to make a decision on whether to stock the DAT machines, but as metro Detroit's largest appliance chain, it probably will happen by June or July.

"Here in Novi, we're a little more upscale and our customers tend to buy more high-end merchandise, so DAT might do well here, where it might not do as well in places like Southgate," Amstett said.

According to Eric Rummel of LaserLand in Novi, the DAT blank tape will cost about $20 each — which is about four times more expensive than a top-of-the-line audio cassette currently available.

Whether DAT will make it big is under debate, but most believe that the high costs involved will make it a long-term issue.

"It's going to take a while because the costs of the recorder and the tapes," Rummel said. "From what I've seen, the format looks very interesting. It's smaller and the sound quality blows away the regular cassette. The biggest drawback is that unlike the CD, DAT tapes will wear out just like other tapes."

Amstett believes that if DATs don't sell well, it may be because the public has had their fill of newer, more expensive technology.

"I imagine that if DAT flies, it could replace the standard cassettes," he said. "But if people are up to their ears in new technology, there could be a backlash."

"It's just like anything else that comes out — they will try to get as much money out of the small percentage of people who will pay top-dollar in order to be the first to get it."

DIA to celebrate Black History Month

During February, the Detroit Institute of Arts will commemorate Black History Month with a variety of special activities and events focusing on African-American heritage and culture.

The DIA's calendar of events includes a film, musical concert, lectures, poetry readings, theatrical performances and self-guided tours. Many of the events are free, while modest admissions will be charged for others.

The exclusive area engagement of "Sidewalk Stories," a comedy-drama by independent filmmaker Charles Lane which sheds light on the plight of the homeless, headlines the DIA's month-long schedule on Feb. 24. Filmed on the streets of present-day New York amid freezing temperatures, Lane portrays the main character, an artist who cares for an abandoned child. Screenings for "Sidewalk Stories" take place in the DIA auditorium at 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Friday; 5, 7 and 9:30 p.m. on Saturday; and 5 and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday. Tickets are $4.

The Detroit Youththeater also will present special performances on Saturdays at 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. in the DIA auditorium. General admission is $4 for young people and adults or $3 each in groups of 10 or more. No one under 5-years-old will be admitted to the theater. These performances include: "Music and the Underground Railroad" on Feb. 3; "Ishangi's Africa" on Feb. 17; and "Sojourner Truth Speaks" on Feb. 24.

Nearby

For ticket information and further details on events scheduled during Black History Month, call the DIA ticket office at 833-2323.

FREE LECTURE — The political career of Coleman Young will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Wilbur Rich, associate professor of political science at Wayne State University.

The free lecture, sponsored by the Detroit Historical Department, will be held at the Detroit Historical Museum, at 5401 Woodward at Kirby, on Saturday, Feb. 10 at 2 p.m.

It is being held in conjunction with the Detroit Historical Museum exhibition "The Black Political Experience in Detroit," which traces the political life of city's African American community from the 19th century to the present.

Free parking is available in the museum's Kirby lot. For more information call 833-9706.

CHAMBER SOUNDS — The Detroit Chamber Winds, comprised of professional musicians from the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and the Michigan Opera Theater Orchestra, will perform at the Smith Theater on the Orchard Ridge Campus of Oakland Community College on Friday, Feb. 2 at 8 p.m.

The concert features Mozart's "Serenade No. 12," Surinac's "Ritmo Jondo," Toch's "Valse," and "Octet" by Beethoven.

Cost is $10 in advance or $12 at the door. An optional dinner theater package is available for $22. For more information call 471-7700. The Orchard Ridge campus of OCC is at 27055 Orchard Lake Rd., Farmington Hills, near the intersection of I-696.

ROMANCE, ROMANCE — Birmingham Theater presents a five-week engagement of the musical "Romance, Romance," winner of four Outer Critics Circle Awards and a Tony Award nomination. It stars Peter Noone.

The musical opens Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, and will run through March 18.

Times and prices are as follows: Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, 8 p.m. ($22); Fridays and Saturdays, 8 p.m. ($26); Sundays, 2 and 7 p.m. ($22); Wednesdays, 2 p.m. ($16); Wednesday, Feb. 14, 2 p.m.

A WINTER visit to the

ZOO

By Cristina Ferrier

The weekend is coming! It's the perfect time to head to the Detroit Zoo to see the animals and be a kid again!

But wait a minute . . . is it not the dead of winter? Who ever heard of going to the zoo in January?

Well, the fact is that wintertime can be one of the best times to go to the zoo, which is currently open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Wednesday through Sunday, and is now just a quick trip down Interstate 696.

The Detroit Zoo includes 350 mammals of 60 species, 700 birds of 130 species, 300 reptiles and amphibians of 100 species, and 1,000 fish of 140 species.

All of the exhibits remain open in the winter, but the crowds present in the summer thin out considerably when the temperature falls, so finding a parking place is a snap.

And the lines? There aren't any! In addition, the animals are actually more lively in the winter than the summer.

According to Ginny Beckett, director of public relations for the Detroit Zoological Society, the animals have a natural tendency to move around to keep warm during winter months.

The most active winter animals are the polar bears. In the summer, especially on hot days, polar bears tend to lie around on the rocks and show off their sleeping abilities.

In the winter, they actively chase each other and play.

One big winter surprise is the camel, usually thought of as a desert animal, which is perfectly happy to be outdoors in cold weather.

"This is the perfect time to go to the zoo," Beckett said. "The animals are a lot of fun, and on a fairly warm winter day most of them will be outside."

On colder winter days, however, most of the animals will be found inside. Each of the exhibits have indoor areas where the animals (and people) can find shelter.

On cold days, "the only animal you won't see is the giraffe," Beckett said, because the indoor giraffe building is not open to the public. "But if temperatures get up around 50, the giraffe will probably go outside."

Beckett explained that many concession stands close for the winter season, but there is one at the zoo entrance and one at the center of the zoo that remain open in the winter.

The best places at the zoo for people to warm up in the winter-time are the exhibits that are permanently indoors, such as the aviary (where birds fly free in a tropical setting), the barn (where farm animals are on display) and the reptile house.

In addition, lemurs and chimpanzees are in warm, indoor exhibits in the wintertime.

The much-anticipated chimp exhibit, which opened last October, is expected to draw extremely large crowds beginning in April, Beckett added. Right now, before that "spring rush," is the best time to see the chimps.

The Detroit Zoo no longer has any demonstrations or shows that involve live animals, either in the summer or the winter, because "it is bad for the animals," Beckett explained.

Instead, the zoo is now designed to present the animals in settings that are as close as possible to their natural habitats.

The new chimp exhibit allows chimps to live and relate with each other exactly the way that they would in the wild.

The zoo faculty is attempting to remove the tendency among people to attribute human qualities to chimps. The chimps have no names, and, of course, do not wear clothes or perform tricks. That kind of treatment, commonplace in the past and still existing at many chimp exhibits, has been found to be harmful and frightening to chimps.

However, the zoo does present educational displays on various animal-related topics, mostly in summer but occasionally on warmer winter days, for both children and adults.

The Detroit Zoo, which is actually located in Royal Oak, is located at the intersection of Ten Mile Road and Woodward Avenue, approximately two miles north of the Detroit city limits. From I-696 it's easy to find the zoo just by taking the Woodward Avenue/Detroit Zoo exit and following the signs.

Admission is $5 for adults (13 and over), $3.50 for senior citizens, $2.50 for children age 5-12, and free for supervised children under 5.

The Cooker Bar & Grill: Pub-like and informal

JAN LEWIS

The search for a wood and brass bar, nicely prepared grill food and pleasant surroundings may be over. The Cooker, the newest addition to the restaurant scene in the near-west suburbs has found a niche with the locals.

This new restaurant, easily found thanks to the bright neon trim on the outside of the building, has more than just good ambiance and food going for it. The Cooker's location could not be more accessible.

Diners can find the restaurant on Seven Mile Road, immediately west of the popular I-275 expressway, just a stone's throw from Haggerty Road. The restaurant is on the south side of Seven Mile Road nestled into the office plaza.

Once inside, the local need for nice dining establishments is evident. The Cooker is busy these days during the dinner hour — and the cocktail and lunch crowd is not far behind. But those that drop by unannounced should take heart. There is plenty of seating at the bar where drinks are generous and the wait staff attentive. The restaurant hosts a few booths around the bar area which are seated on a first-come, first-served basis. The entire menu is available at these booths as well as in the dining area.

The atmosphere is pub-like and informal, with tables and booths scattered around a fair sized area.

Diners should come prepared for good grill fare. The menu leads off with typical appetizers including fried cheese sticks, a Santa Fe dip (layers of chili, melted Monterey Jack and cheddar cheese complete with olives, scallions, homemade guacamole, and sour cream) that is served hot with tortilla chips. This dip went over in a big way at our table. Chip refills appeared upon request.

The Cooker has a complete line of salads available for the luncheon crowd or those wishing for a lighter dinner. A fresh fruit salad with "soon-to-be famous" zucchini nut muffins, grilled chicken salad and a California salad are available.

Regional American specialties are the entree favorites, although this reviewer was disappointed not to be able to try the Cooker house specialty — lime chicken.

Advertised as a tender half chicken marinated in a fresh lime, garlic, white wine, and honey marinade and then grilled — this sounded like a little piece of heaven. But due to the special marinade, the restaurant made an admirable choice to take it off the menu once its popularity had reached the sell-out phase. Our waitress told us that because it must marinate for such a long time once one batch is gone for the day — it's gone. Hopefully the management will soon get a handle on expected crowd sizes and have plenty of portions ready.

There are several other chicken grill items on the menu, as well as smokehouse ribs, homestyle meatloaf, Yankee pot roast and plenty of fish items. The New York grille was tasty and the Alaskan Whitefish got two thumbs up from nearby tasters.

The Cooker has a nice selection of sandwiches and burgers as well. Here's some advice from the knowledgeable — save room for the Snickers ice cream pie, brownie decadence or hot fudge sundae. They make a sweet ending to a fine dinner experience.

The Northville Record

Mustang cagers raise season record to 7-3

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

If good teams can pull out wins even when they are struggling, the Northville basketball squad must be a pretty good team.

The Mustangs had an off day on Jan. 26 but still managed to turn back pesky Livonia Franklin 68-59 to grab the team's fifth victory in the last six outings. Two days earlier, Northville notched another home win, this time an 80-78 decision over Westland John Glenn.

Those two triumphs enabled the Mustangs (3-1 in division action) to keep place with 3-1 Farmington Harrison, and set up a rematch with the Hawks tomorrow (Feb. 2) that may decide the WAAA Western Division race. Overall, Northville has a fine 7-3 mark and is 5-1 since the holiday break.

"I feel really good about our record," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "If we continue to play hard, we'll be all right."

Ahead by just three points at halftime, Northville broke things open against the Patriots in the third quarter, outscoring the visitors 22-12. Junior guard Bill Kelley was a key figure, hitting two, three-pointers and finishing with all 10 of his points in the quarter.

"That third quarter was the key," Harrison admitted. "Bill Kelley is starting to take the ball to the basket instead of looking for just three-pointers and that is making him a more complete player. I think he's improving and that is coming with maturity."

"We sort of struggled against Franklin, but the kids knew it was a very important ballgame and we found a way to win. It certainly wasn't a pretty game."

The Mustangs were ahead by 11 several times during the fourth quarter, and won it by nine, but Harrison never did feel secure.

"I didn't feel comfortable until after the game was over," he said. "I don't think we were in jeopardy of losing the game, but we struggled at times and that concerned me."

Kelley added eight assists to his 10 points, but senior Scott Meredith was the offensive star. The 6-foot-6 center poured in a career high 25 points, hauled down 10 rebounds and added five steals. Joe Kaley chipped in 15 points for Northville and Steve McCool led Franklin with 21.

NORTHVILLE 80, WESTLAND JOHN GLENN 78: The smallest Rockets normally live and die with a fast-paced attack and a perimeter game. On Jan. 23 they died with it.

The Mustangs staged a come-from-behind rally in the final eight minutes to edge John Glenn, and seldom-used junior Jason Flading sank both ends of a one-and-one free-throw situation with less than 30 seconds left to provide the winning points.

"(Glenn) is the type of team that isn't big, so they use pressure defense and like the running game," Harrison explained. "They sort of forced us to play their style, even though we really didn't want to, but we held our own."

"They also use the three-pointer as an offensive weapon but they didn't hurt us much with it — they only made three."

Northville grabbed an 18-10 advantage at the end of the first quarter, thanks in part to some success at the free throw line (6-of-7), but the Rockets outscored the locals 24-18 in the second quarter and trailed by just a bucket at the intermission.

It remained nip-and-tuck the rest of the way. Kelley came up with a clutch three-pointer with just over a minute remaining to break a 75-75 tie and then Flading won it at the charity stripe a half-minute later.

"The three-pointer by Kelley was the key," Harrison said. "That was the big break we needed."

Kelley ended up with 16 points, five steals and four assists to pace the balanced Mustang attack. Mike Lang scored 12 points, Kaley added 11, and Meredith and Ryan Huzjak each chipped in 10.

Glenn had eight more field goals than Northville, but the Mustangs connected on 34-of-39 free throws (87 percent).

Win streak halted at five; tankers fall to Novi 97-75

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With a loud, boisterous crowd on hand, bragging rights in the balance and statewide rating implications on the line, ninth-rated Novi turned back sixth-ranked Northville 97-75 on Jan. 23 in one of the biggest swim meets this season in Michigan.

The host Wildcats jumped out to an early advantage with wins in three of the first four events and never surrendered the lead. The Mustangs — who entered the meet without a defeat — managed to win only five of the 11 events, and had to settle for a pair of seconds in an area of strength the relay races.

Northville trailed by as much as 18 points, but cut the lead to 10 (60-50) after seven events, before Novi pulled away again. In the final four races with the meet on the line, the 'Cats won three times.

"It was a disappointing meet," Northville Coach Mark Heiden said. "We just had an off day for the first time this season."

Novi opened the meet with a crucial victory in the 200-yard medley relay. The team of Derek Speerschneider, Steve Strausberg, Bob Bates and Rudy Speerschneider took the honors (1:46.3), while Northville's Andy Wayne, Matt Hanna, Jim Fee and Matt VanHorn took second (1:47.43). Rudy is still recovering from a bout with mononucleosis that forced him to miss the first-half of the season.

The Wildcats then opened the lead by going 1-3 in the 200 freestyle. Steve Cohen took first place (1:50.44) and Mark Chirgwin third (1:57.31), with Mustang sophomore Bob Holdridge notching second (1:55.57). Cohen is coming off a rotator cuff injury that kept him out of action for two weeks.

Eric Newton gave Northville its first victory of the evening in the 200 IM (2:02.74), but Novi's Derek Speerschneider (2:03.96) and Bates (2:13.21) took second and third respectively.

Following another 1-3 finish in the 50 freestyle, the 'Cats had built their biggest lead, (40-22). Strausberg was victorious in the 50 (23.48) and Rudy Speerschneider was third (23.78), sandwiched around Mustang junior Brad Cook (23.55).

As expected, Northville gained some ground with a strong performance in diving, and Steve Lang was the standout. He grabbed first place with a Novi pool record of 256.40 — teammate Larry Osiecki was second (218.95). Novi's Adam Cox broke up a potential sweep by taking third (193.95).

Cook (55.62) and Fee (57.32) went 1-3 in the 100 butterfly for Northville, and Holdridge followed it up with a win in the 100 freestyle (51.68) to pull the Mustangs within 10, but that was as close as it would get. Jeff Leahy placed second in the butterfly (59.20) for Novi, while Ryan Devereaux (51.80) and Strausberg (51.83) went 2-3 in the 100 freestyle.

The most interesting and competitive event may have been the 500 freestyle. In a showdown between the top point-getters from each team, Steve Cohen (4:53.91) edged Eric Newton (4:56.00) for first-place honors. In addition, Mike Speerschneider took third (5:16.26) as the Wildcats opened the lead to 70-56. That margin soon increased by two points after the 100 backstroke. Derek Speerschneider was first (57.09), Northville's Andy Wayne second (1:04.11) and Chirgwin third (1:05.44).

Hanna gave the Mustangs another win in the 100 breaststroke (1:06.83) but Bates (1:07.61) and Jon Mutch (1:10.01) followed for the Wildcats, making the score 87-71 heading into the final event — the 400 freestyle relay.

In the last race, Novi's Devereaux, Jamie May, Cohen and Rudy Speerschneider took the honors (3:29.77). The Northville team of Holdridge, Angelo Perakis, Fee and Chris Handyside (3:33.94) were second.

"We're very excited," Steve Cohen said after the meet ended. "We know (Northville) is one of the best teams in the state and that we'd have to be at our best to beat them."

"We're finally getting healthy, and even though we're not 100 percent, we're getting close."

Novi (5-1 overall) will host

Brighton tonight (Feb. 1) in the unofficial Kensington Valley Conference title meet. Northville (5-1 overall, 4-0 in the WAAA) will travel to Livonia Churchill today for another important Western Division battle.

"We don't want to make any excuses but it was on the road and it's hard to keep up the intensity for every meet," Heiden said. "Novi seemed to have a real good meet — I was very impressed with their team."

OLD FOES: Heiden and Novi rookie mentor Mark Winter knocked heads for the first time as head coaches, but their personal rivalry goes back to the late 70s.

The two were high school foes in Livonia, and both graduated in 1980. Heiden was a diver for Livonia Stevenson and Winter a swimmer for rival Livonia Bentley.

MUSTANG WOES: The defeat to Novi was Northville's fourth straight against its neighbors to the north. The last time the Mustangs weren't on the short end of the score against the 'Cats came in 1986, following an 86-86 tie.

QUOTE-UNQUOTE:
• Teahan, following the 100 breaststroke: "We're really killing (Northville) on the push-offs."

• Mustang freshman Jim Fee during the meet: "We know if we want to continue our ranking, we have to win this meet. (Novi) may not be in our conference, but this is still a big meet."

NORTHVILLE 59, FARMINGTON HARRISON 25: As expected, the Mustangs rebounded two days later (Jan. 25) to crush the Hawks by 34 points.

"We really turned it around and had one of our better meets of the season," Heiden said. "I think the loss to Novi was a good lesson for our guys."

The highlight of the meet came in the 100 butterfly, where Cook took first place and reached the state meet qualifying cut with a 57.27 effort.

Wrestlers closing in on division crown

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

With another easy WLAA victory last week, the Northville grapplers are now just one dual meet victory away from capturing their second straight Western Division championship.

The Mustangs dismantled Livonia Franklin 46-18 on Jan. 25 and are now 4-0 in the division race, tied with Walled Lake Western. As luck would have it, the two are scheduled to meet tonight (Feb. 1) at Western, with the winner taking home the title.

Against the Patriots, Northville won nine of 13 bouts, including five pins. The marquee match came at 160, where Bob Townsend and Jay Wheeler squared off for the second time this season. Townsend ended up winning the match in impressive fashion, 13-7, and moved his season record to 23-4, and 2-0 against Wheeler.

"Townsend and Wheeler are considered among the WLAA's top 160-pounders," Boshoven said. "Bob beat him in the finals at the Garden City Invitational back in December. He's wrestled two very good matches against Wheeler."

Other big wins came from freshman Jiro Kameoka — his first varsity win ever, and senior Garnet Potter — who was coming off two uncharacteristic defeats. Potter got back on the winning track by pinning Pat Poisson in 36 seconds at 152. With Kevin Khashan moving up to 119, Kameoka got his chance at 112 and made the most of it by pinning Kevin Smith in 1:21.

The other winners included Matt Allison (103), Khashan (119), Brandon Mardossian (125), Jerett Beer (135), Kevin Delaney (140) and Jason Vertrees (189). Allison pinned Derek Rowland in 57 seconds; Khashan stopped John Campbell in 3:14; Mardossian took down Derek Downey in 4:13. Beer won by void, Delaney nipped Dave O'Connell 2-1; and Vertrees decisively Brian Whetstone 14-3.

"We had some good per-

— Bob Boshoven
Mustang Wrestling Coach

formances," Boshoven said. "I was very pleased with the way we wrestled. There were a couple close matches and we did very well in them."

Northville and Walled Lake Western did meet back on Jan. 13 at the Novi Round Robin Tournament. The Mustangs dumped the Warriors 45-22, but Boshoven maintains that it is not a good indication of what to expect tonight.

"We beat them at Novi, but it was the fifth dual meet of the day for both teams, so it's really not accurate to draw conclusions just from that meeting," he said. "I know we're capable of beating Western, but we still have to go up there and do it. They are very tough at home."

Two days later, Northville will travel to Westland for the WLAA Meet. Nobody has a realistic chance of catching Plymouth Salem, but the Mustangs will probably have to contend with host John Glenn for runner-up honors. A year ago, Northville placed third in the 12-team event.

"We certainly don't want to fall further out than third, but we hope to move up to second," Boshoven said. "We have some strong individuals and that's what you need in tournaments like this. It would be nice if we could give Salem a run for their money, but I know that Glenn is going to be tough too."

League Line

BASKETBALL: Lakers top Bullets

5th-6th Grade Girls Basketball: Led by Jill Holloway's 18 points, the Northville Lakers topped the Northville Bullets 22-1. Sarah Gregerson and Marisa Viardo were the rebounding stars and Erin Bowdell, Erin Selinski and Katie Moller excelled on defense. The Northville Blazers clobbered the Novi Bulls 42-15, thanks to Laura Genitt (18 points) and Amanda DeKoker (10). The rebounding and defensive stars included Laurie Albertson, Amanda Spence, Anna Polesnelli, Chris Perry, Erica Semeyn and Aliss DeMatto.

4th-5th Grade Boys Basketball: The Boiler-makers turned back the Hoosiers two times in the span of a week. In the first game, the Boiler-makers won 28-23 and in game two the score was 22-16. In a game decided at the buzzer, the Buckeyes tipped the Hoosiers 27-25. John Polumbo hit a lay-up as time expired to break the tie. Bill Spagnolo led all scorers with 10 and Andrew Wellin added six. The defensive standout was J.C. Hammerle. Matt Carroll was the MVP for the Hoosiers. The Wildcats fell to the Wolverines 29-18 despite a 10-point outing by Tom Andary. James Giamarco added four points and Jason DeSiro hauled down five rebounds. Led by Luke Wilcox, Brian Clowers, Matt Carroll and Harold Curry, the Hoosiers topped the Illini 27-20. The defensive stars in the game included Robby Abbott, Kari Thorpe, Brian Porter and Erik Slaples. The Buckeyes got seven points from John Polumbo and 11 rebounds from Andrew Wellin en route to a 29-11 triumph over the Wildcats. Eric Meyers and Adam Tibble were cited for their defensive play.

6th-7th Grade Boys Basketball: The Sonics topped the Knicks 28-17. Matt Schwagle (9) and Scott Buda (8) led seven Sonics scorers. Ravi Mujamdar hauled down six rebounds for the winners. The leading scorers for the Knicks were Ty Fowler and Lance Bethell. The 7ers edged the Cavaliers 33-25, in a game that was tied 14-14 at halftime. Stephen Nickraud scored 13 points and Bill Morion added seven rebounds for the 7ers. Paul Medonis and Brian Emery were named the outstanding defensive players. The Bulls edged the 7ers 29-28. Scott Maciek, John Argenta and Mattus Kulkainis combined to score 22 points for the Bulls. Dwayne Nawrocki was the rebounding star. Ben Szostek scored 12 points, including the game-winner with 15 seconds remaining as the Pistons nipped the Celtics 25-23. Joe Hammond and Tom Willerer were the defensive MVPs. Scott Anderson paced the Celtics with 10 points. Szostek poured in 10 points to lead the Pistons to a 22-17 victory over the Cavaliers. Rob Kruger and Chad Gilchrist also played well for the winners. The Celtics outlasted the Lakers 47-35, and Kevin Jakubowski was a big factor with 26 points. The defensive standouts included Chris Perez, Josh Gunn, Craig Yarmouth and Jeff Schemanske. Jakubowski connected 75 percent of his shots to help the Celtics blow past the Pistons 62-25. Jakubowski ended up with 32 points and Jeff Schemanske added 10 points.

Spikers place second at Salem Tournament

The Northville volleyball squad suffered its first dual-meet defeat last week, but as a whole, the Mustangs went 9-3 in dual meets and tournament action combined, and raised their overall record to 15-5.

Last weekend, Northville went 8-2 at the Plymouth Salem Invitational, and grabbed second-place honors in a field of 12. The tourney was divided into two pools of six teams each.

The Mustangs came out of pool play with a 7-1 mark and first-place honors. Northville beat Plymouth Canton (15-5, 15-13), Dearborn (17-15, 15-8), and North Farmington (15-9, 17-15), but split against Warren Cousino (9-15, 16-14).

In the semifinals, the Mustangs took on Plymouth Salem — who placed second in the other pool — and edged the Rocks 16-14, 15-10. In the finals, Northville fell to Birmingham Marian in three tough games: 15-12, 7-15, 10-15.

Earlier in the week, the Mustangs went 1-1 in dual meets against WLA Western Division opponents. On Jan. 22, unbeaten Livonia Churchill handed Northville its first loss, 11-15, 2-15, 10-15. Two days later, the Mustangs rebounded to nip Canton in a five-game marathon, 15-8, 15-6, 8-15, 13-15, 15-9. It was the first five-game match of the season for the locals.

Northville is 5-1 in dual meets, 2-1 in Western Division action.

BRAD COOK

The Northville swimmers suffered their first loss of the season last week, but junior Brad Cook had himself a stellar week, and we think "Mustang of the Week" honors are appropriate. In a loss to Novi, Cook was a bright spot with a lifetime best swim in the 100-yard butterfly (55.62), which was good for first place but was three-hundredths of a second shy of the state meet qualifying cut. Two days later Cook reached that mark with a 55.27 effort in a victory against Farmington Harrison. He was also the lead-off man in the 400 freestyle relay team that also made a state cut. "Brad is really coming on," Mustang Coach Mark Heiden said. "He cut a second and a half in the butterfly in one week."

BILL KELLEY

The Northville cagers won a pair of close games at home last week, and junior guard Bill Kelley was instrumental in both wins. For that reason, Kelley is our choice as "Mustang of the Week." In a 68-59 triumph over Livonia Franklin, Kelley scored 10 points in the crucial second quarter, including two three-point buckets, and for the game he added eight assists. Two days earlier, Kelley canned a clutch three-pointer in the final minutes to break a tie game and propel Northville over Westland John Glenn 80-78. He led the team with 16 points, five steals and four assists. "I think (Bill) is improving and that is coming with maturity," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said.

RECREATION BRIEFS

SKI DAY RESCHEDULED: Due to poor conditions, the ski day for fourth- and fifth-graders scheduled for Jan. 19 was canceled. It has been rescheduled for Feb. 22. The Northville Community Recreation Department will accept registrations through Feb. 16 at 4 p.m.

The ski day will be held at Alpine Valley in Milford. Buses will leave the Community Center at 9:15 a.m. and will return at 4:15 p.m. Cost is $13 for transportation and lift ticket; $5 for lessons (if needed); and $7 for rentals (if needed).

For more information, call 349-0203.

SOFTBALL MEETINGS: The Novi Parks and Recreation Department will have an informational softball meeting on Feb. 13 and Feb. 15 at the Novi Civic Center.

Novi is again offering six leagues this summer, including a Men's Resident League (Feb. 13 at 6:30 p.m.), Men's Sunday League (Feb. 13 at 7 p.m.), Women's Open League (Feb. 13 at 7:30 p.m.), Men's 35-and-over League (Feb. 15 at 6:30 p.m.) and Men's Wednesday-Thursday Open Leagues (Feb. 15 at 7:30 p.m.) For further information, call 347-0400.

COED SNOWBALL TOURNAMENT: The Novi Jaycees have joined with Mr. B's Farm in hosting the Fourth Annual Coed Charity Snowball Tournament on Feb. 3-4. Games will be played at Ella Mae Power Park on Ten Mile Road and at Mr. B's Farm on Novi Road.

Each team is guaranteed to play at least two games using Chicago Style Rules. Teams are coed and must go male-female in the field and batting order. Roster limit is 16 players and the teams must field 10 players — five males, five females.

There is a $110 entry fee per team. Entry deadline is 6 p.m. Jan. 31 and there is limited entry. A mandatory managers' meeting will be held on 6:30 p.m. on Jan. 31 at Mr. B's Farm.

All proceeds will benefit the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. For more information, contact Tournament Director Dennis Craig at 349-7038, after 6 p.m. or call the Novi Jaycees at 348-NOVI. You can also mail a check addressed to Dan McNamara or Dennis Craig at Mr. B's Farm, P.O. Box 8, Novi, MI 48050.

BOATER'S SAFETY: Flotilla 12-05 of the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will be instructing boating safety classes beginning Feb. 15, 7 p.m. at Northville High School.

Subjects will include: boat handling under normal and adverse conditions, seamanship, radio procedure, trailering, fundamental piloting and charting. A certificate is given upon successful completion of the course.

There is a $20 cost for materials and a $4 registration fee per person. Classes will also be conducted Tuesday nights starting Feb. 13 at Clarenceville High School. For more information, call 349-4219 or 563-3616.

MORE BOATER'S SAFETY: Once again, the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary is conducting public education for boating safety and public awareness of the rules of safe boating.

The session will be held on Feb. 28 at 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall on 27555 Grantland in Livonia. For more information, call Leonard at 533-0579.

There will be a fee for the purchase of the textbook. All classes will be conducted by qualified auxiliary instructors.

AAU TRYOUTS: The Western Wayne Wildcats — an AAU girls' basketball program — is urging all interested girls, under 18 years of age to try out for one of five age group teams.

The under-13 and under-11 teams will begin workouts on Feb. 4 from noon-2 p.m. at Northville High.

The coaches involved in the program include Northville's Ed Kritch, Plymouth Salem's Fred Thomann, Plymouth Canton's Bob Blohm, South Lyon's Ron Shanks and Farmington Mercy's Larry Baker. For more information, call 349-4524.

METROPARK PERMITS: The 1990 Huron-Clinton Metroparks annual vehicle entry and annual boating permits are now on sale at Kensington Metropark near Milford as well as the other 12 Metroparks in the five-county area.

The costs will be the same as in 1989: regular vehicle entry permit — $10 ($5 for senior citizens); regular boating permit — $13 ($6 for senior citizens). Daily permits will go on sale Jan. 1, 1990 and are $2 for vehicles and $3 for boats.

No permits will be sold by mail. For more information, contact the Huron-Clinton Metroparks at 1-800-24-PARKS.

MOTORCARS ON DISPLAY: Historic racing vehicles and exhibits honoring the Motorsports Hall of Fame inductees are on display daily at the Novi Civic Center Atrium. Admission is free.

Currently featured are Barney Oldfield's first and last cars — the '99' and the 'Golden Submarine' — as well as the 1965 'Novi Special' Indy Car driven by Bobby Unser.

Bronze plaques and other displays honoring the first eight Hall of Fame inductees are also on display. The charter class includes Cannon Ball Baker, Jimmy Doolittle, A.J. Foyt, Don Garlits, Phil Hill, Bill Muncy, Barney Oldfield and Richard Petty. For more information call 349-RACE.

TRAVEL BASEBALL: Persons interested in coaching a travel baseball team for the 1990 season should contact Bob Frellick at 349-2840. Leagues looking for coaches include: Pee Wee Reece, Connie Mack, Mickey Mantle and Sandy Koufax.

NOVI TRACKERS: Membership in the Novi Trackers Running Club is open to all interested individuals regardless of age, sex or skill level.

Prospective members are invited to join the Trackers for either or both of their twice-weekly runs. The group meets Wednesdays at Novi High School at 6:30 p.m. and Saturdays at O'Sheehan's on Seven Mile in Northville at 8 a.m.

More information about membership in the Trackers is available by calling the Novi Parks and Recreation at 347-0400 or Larry Molloy at 474-8277.

Motorsports Hall announces inductees

The Motorsports Hall of Fame of America — based in Novi — announced its 1990 slate of inductees at the North American International Automobile Show in Detroit in January.

Voting was done by members of the International Motor Press Association and a selection of motorsports journalists from across the nation.

The 1990 induction will be held June 13, in conjunction with the Detroit

Grand Prix Race Weekend.

The distinguished group includes: Formula One and Indy Champion Mario Andretti; Formula One and Indy great Jim Clark; motorcycle and airplane racer Glenn Curtiss; road racing champion Mark Donohue; NASCAR organizer William France; Drag Racer Shirley Muldowney; three-time AMA champion Kenny Roberts; off-road king Mickey Thompson; and hydroplane legend Gar Wood.

Dieting, exercise key weight loss

Many of us make the same New Year's resolutions year after year, even decade after decade get in shape, eat a well-balanced diet, quit smoking and — most common of all — lose weight.

"This year, make those resolutions a reality. Incorporating a program of regular aerobic exercise into your life can help you keep those New Year's resolutions," said Diane DeMarco, executive director of The National Exercise For Life Institute.

According to the American Medical Association, an estimated 34 million Americans are at least 20 percent overweight — an all-time high. Some 12.4 million of these people are categorized as seriously obese, which means they're at least 40 percent overweight. To combat the problem, approximately two-fifths of all Americans are following some weight loss plan at any given moment.

"The problem is that long-term weight loss through dieting alone is virtually impossible. Medical research indicates that when you reduce your caloric intake, your body responds by slowing its metabolism (the rate at which it consumes calories)," continues DeMarco.

"Most fad diets promise rapid weight loss, but much of it is water weight and even some muscle tissue. And the loss is often only temporary, so next year you'll probably have to lose the same weight," DeMarco said.

According to Joel Gurin, in his article "Diets Alone Don't Work — The Set Point Theory," which appears in the January 1990 issue of Personal Fitness & Weight Loss magazine, every individual has a tendency for a particular body-fat percentage. This "set point" functions as a fat-monitoring process that tries to maintain the body-fat content it considers to be "normal."

It's easy to raise your set point by eating sweets and fats, but the only way to lower it is by regular aerobic exercise. If you attempt to reduce body fat by dieting alone, you'll first lose water, then muscle and finally fat. You'll also feel sluggish and weak because your body is burning muscle for energy.

The set point theory also suggests that your body further fights to maintain its predetermined body fat percentage by lowering your metabolic rate and increasing your appetite, which makes it even more difficult to lose that fat.

"Dieting may be exciting at first,

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Sheryl Liske goes through the motions at the Novi Parks and Recreation Low-Impact Aerobics Class

but invariably it will become more and more difficult as weight loss slows down. Exercise, in contrast, can take some time to get into, but quickly becomes its own reward," states Gurin.

Regular aerobic exercise burns more calories while you're exercising, and increases your metabolic rate for up to 24 hours after you exercise. Studies have also shown that exercise can help you keep your appetite under control, which is why many aerobics experts, including Kenneth Cooper, recommend exercising before meals.

In her Good Food Book, health expert Jane Brody explains that regular exercise causes body fat to be replaced by lean muscle tissue. "Pound for pound, muscle tissue uses more calories to sustain itself than fat tissue does. The more muscle tissue you have and the less body fat, the more calories you can consume without gaining weight — or the faster you can lose weight without drastically reducing the amount of calories you consume. Furthermore, muscle tissue takes up less room than the same weight of body fat, so that even if you don't lose an ounce, you'll look thinner if you have good muscle tone and less fat," says Brody.

"Regular aerobic exercise also gives you more energy, which will help you accomplish many of your other new year's goals," says DeMarco.

Recent research shows that exercise strengthens the body's immune system, so it can fight off infections and disease, according to The National Exercise For Life Institute. In addition, studies have shown that those who exercise more are less bothered by the pain they do have.

Being fit also offers other important benefits, such as reducing cholesterol, controlling blood pressure, and lowering your risk of adult-onset diabetes. It can also eliminate back pain and many of the negative effects of stress.

To maximize the benefits of aerobic exercise, you need to exercise about half an hour, three to four days a week. To build cardiovascular fitness, the exercise must elevate your heart rate to at least 60 percent of your maximum heart rate (although the most desirable heart rate for exercising is between 70 and 85 percent of maximum).

"To maintain an exercise program, choose an activity that you enjoy, and that you know can be done on a regular basis. Before starting a program of regular aerobic exercise, talk to your personal physician," advises DeMarco.

The most effective forms of aerobic exercise are continuous motion activities, such as jogging, aerobic dancing, swimming, brisk walking, cycling, cross-country skiing or total body exercises like NordicTrack.

Because cross-country skiing is recognized as the world's best and most effective form of total body aerobic exercise, many people are using the NordicTrack, the original cross-country ski exercise machine. NordicTrack is the most efficient exercise in terms of calories burned per minute and total body toning. "By using all the body's major muscles — deltoids, upper and lower back muscles, triceps, pectorals, abdominals, gluteals, quadriceps, hamstrings and calf muscles — NordicTrack provides an excellent cardiovascular workout," explains DeMarco.

The purpose of The National Exercise For Life Institute is to collect and disseminate information on the value of regular aerobic exercise, in order to encourage more people to start and maintain their own exercise program.

Half Marathon scheduled for April 22

The annual West Bloomfield Half Marathon has been scheduled for April 22, at 12:30 p.m. This will be the 14th running of this TAC (The Athletics Congress) certified race which is sponsored by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation.

The race begins in the front of West Bloomfield High School, Orchard Lake Road at Green Road, and winds through the scenic residential streets of West Bloomfield Township.

Annually the race attracts runners from many midwest states and Ontario, Canada. A new course record was set in 1989 by Doug Kurtis, 37, of Northville, with a time of 1:07:32. Cheri Sly, 24, of Dexter, Michigan set the women's course record at 1:15:57.4 also in 1989.

The 1990 race looks to continued excitement in long distance racing and high quality in race organization. Categories this year will include walkers and wheelers in addition to the many runner divisions.

For an entry form, send a self addressed, stamped envelope to West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, 3325 Middlebelt Road, West Bloomfield, Michigan 48033. Entrants in the 1989 race will automatically receive an entry form. Registrations are taken up until one-half hour before race time.

Entry fee for the event is $11 through April 13. This early registration guarantees the runner a t-shirt. After April 13 and through race day the fee is $14. There are no guarantees on a t-shirt with a late registration.

For further information, contact the parks and recreation office, 313-334-5660. The West Bloomfield Half Marathon is directed by Sally Slater Pierce.

PADDLEBALL, RACQUETBALL: For those who enjoy paddleball or racquetball, Schoolcraft College is offering several options beginning in February.

Tuesday and Friday evening courts are scheduled for doubles play. A $25 fee includes gloves, paddles, racquets, balls and lockers.

Saturday mornings from 8 a.m.-noon courts can be reserved for one hour periods at a cost of $6 per court. Courts can be reserved in advance for future weeks. Individuals must provide their own equipment.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Rd. between Six and Seven Mile roads. For further information, call 462-4413.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the ASK-A-NURSE office at Catherine McAuley health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

"Ask-a-nurse" is a free community health information and physician referral service of five Sisters of Mercy Hospitals — Catherine McAuley Health Center-Ann Arbor, Mercy Hospital-Port Huron, Mercy Hospitals

Pediatrician suggests precautions to parents

Last week our article focused on colds and cold prevention and treatment for adults. However, there is also concern about colds among children. Ina Ertel, M.D., pediatrician at the University of Michigan Hospitals, says colds are very common in children. Children experience the same discomfort and symptoms of colds as adults but they are usually self-limited and have no serious consequences. Nonetheless, strenuous activities should be limited in the presence of fever, but bed rest need not be enforced.

Ertel suggests the following precautions parents should take in cold prevention and treatment for their children:

School Children should not be sent to school when they have pain or a fever and should stay home for 24 hours thereafter.

Day care: Isolation and exclusion is not necessary for many illnesses.

The specific list depends on the day care program and its staffing facilities.

Young infants: Colds are best treated by using a cold vaporizer and a bulb to suck the mucus from the nose before feeding. The doctor should be consulted if the infant's temperature is above 100 degrees.

Young children: Colds may be followed by ear, bronchial and sinus infections.

Ear infections: Ear infections are extremely common, particularly in toddlers. Otitis media is a swelling of the tissues in the middle ear. Predisposing factors are small respiratory passages, colds, allergies, exposure to smoking and delayed weaning. Ear infections may be associated with discharge through the eyes and are often recurrent. The toddler may complain of an earache or just be very irritable or have a fever. Consult your doctor within 24-hours of suspecting an ear infection.

The colds that predispose to ear infections are very contagious. They are common bacteria that are present in most respiratory passages but they only cause problems when infecting deeper tissues. Treatment with antibiotics in the full course, usually 10 days, will kill bacteria and allow tissues to recover without any hearing problems or other complications. Many toddlers go through a period of repeated ear infections (over six a year) and may require prophylactic or preventive antibiotics.

Since all of these factors are common among children with colds there is also concern for parents of young children. Dr. Lisa Von Moll, internal medicine physician at Northeast Ann Arbor M-CARE Health Center, states that parents of young children find themselves with frequent colds because they pick them up from their children who, in school or day-care centers, are continually exposed to these viruses.

Again, the most effective way to avoid catching your child's cold is to wash your hands with soap and warm water and stress the importance for your child to wash his or her hands thoroughly and to avoid touching his or her eyes or mouth before washing.

Treatment of children with colds can be the same as with adults but in smaller doses. Read all medicine labels carefully, for correct doses. Consult your physician if you have further questions or if fever persists.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Comfort This Winter And Beyond.

A Bryant combination works year-round.

As you're getting ready to face winter temperatures, get your home ready with a new gas furnace/air conditioner combination. You can depend on it for all-season performance.

A high-efficiency Bryant gas furnace provides you with all the warmth you need. And next summer, the air conditioner will kick in to cool you when warmth is the last thing you want. Ask your Bryant Dealer which gas furnace/air conditioner combination is best for your home. Get the Bryant system that's built with The Right Stuff... To Last.

Dramatic Sophistication

PERSONAL EXPRESSION

Our designers, in creating rooms for model homes or displays in our Showcases, have to devise a character and a style of living.

As families, we exude a personality, a lifestyle, and a warmth that the 90's are calling us to express. These years will dare us to believe in our own taste and to surround our private times with everything we love best.

Drexel Heritage affords brilliance of artistry and execution. Our designers are trained in melding these creations with other artifacts along with wall and floor coverings to bring your dreams to reality.

The 90's will beckon many to a more fluid form of decorating expression. One that's away from the box-like forms of the past. Softly sculptured forms will dominate. Note the contours, the contrast of a translucent ebony, a highly figured walnut, and the blending of old cultures and new.

It is these contrasts that bring a home excitingly alive!

Four Star Dining with a flair, 7 pcs. $4069

The set includes this exquisite double pedestal dining table with brass trimmed ebony columns. It expands to 112" on grand occasions, to comfortably seat twelve or compresses to 72" for more intimate dining. Also included are 2 arm and 4 side chairs in your cover choice. A regular $5455 value.

Heirloom Traditional Styles That Enkindle Our Spirits...

As the 90's make our workplaces even more technically challenging, our homes will become more and more our nurturing retreats. Billy Baldwin once wrote "Some people confuse luxury with grandeur. To me comfort is perhaps the ultimate luxury."

Featured on these pages are inspiring New England furnishings recreated by Drexel craftsmen reminiscent of an era in our emerging nation when home and family afforded the warmth and essence of life. They reflect American 18th Century graciousness, add comfort, and free us from excessive formality.

Casual Contemporary in Communion with Nature

The colors and textures of nature are in harmony with the furnishings these pages depict. Though restated for today's living, they harken back to the great prairie days of the first settlers and the gentle and simpler lifestyles they shared. Although they are unpretentious there is a natural honesty in the wood, the hands that craft it, and the personality of those who cherish it.

REMEMBER YOUR NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION?

You told yourself you'd finally get organized. Clean closets. Gorgeous garage. Workable workshop.

We want to give you a chance to keep your promise, give you low warehouse prices and give you a whole month to get the job done.

IF YOU HAVEN'T SEEN US LATELY, THERE'S A LOT YOU HAVEN'T SEEN!

Have you seen our new line of telephones and answering machines?
How 'bout our decorator clocks and table lamps? Pre-finished furniture?
Carpeting and area rugs?

Well, you'd better get down here right away!

COME SEE WHAT'S NEW FOR '90!

At least one of each item available in the store at the beginning of the sale. Not

"HOW-TO" TIPS . . .

Observing a few simple safety precautions will make taking the finish off your project fun and enjoyable:

Always wear rubber gloves, goggles, long sleeves and long pants when using stripper, otherwise it will work on skin as well as paint!

Use a sponge brush when applying stripper to avoid splatters on things that don't need to be stripped.

We've got lots of completely new products, so if you've been disappointed by past finishing projects, give it another try. You'll be surprised at the results!

NOW MAKE YOUR OLD FURNITURE NEW AGAIN!

YOU CAN HAVE PROFESSIONAL RESULTS...

Keep these tips in mind when planning and your paint job will look terrific:

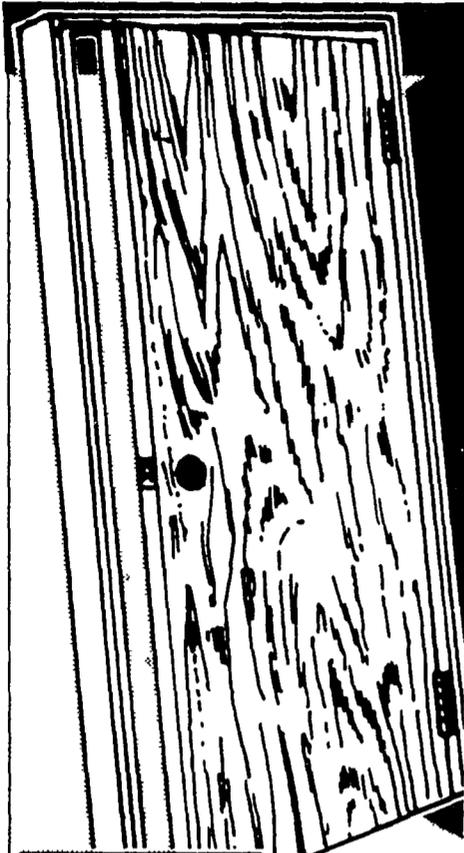

- When painting over glossy or semi-glossy surfaces, sand lightly or use a liquid deglosser.
- Use nylon brushes with latex paints — natural bristles may absorb water and become limp.

- Use foil to cover fixtures that can't be removed.

Painting is one of the easiest ways to change the look of almost anything!
