Church dismiss motion rejected

By MIKE TYREE

A motion to dismiss an appeal filed by Northville Township residents against the township Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) was rejected Feb. 2 in Wayne County Circuit Court.

Judge Richard C. Kaufman ruled that six plaintiffs had sufficient standing as residents in Northville Township to allow them to appeal a height variance granted Ward Presbyterian Church by the ZBA last September.

Ward Church, a third-party defendant, had requested that the appeal be dismissed, arguing that the residents were not affected by the ZBA's ruling.

The ZBA in September determined that Ward Church could construct a 107-foot sanctuary on its proposed church development site on the corner of Six Mile and Haggerty roads.

The residents then filed an appeal, claiming that the church did not prove a hardship when requesting a variance in the township's 48-foot height ordinance.

Planners to adopt bylaws

By STEVE KELLMAN

Planning Consultant Don Wortman caused a stir at last week's city planning commission meeting when he suggested that the commission may be operating illegally.

"Technically, you're in violation of Public Act 285," Wortman said. "Under that state act, you're supposed to adopt rules for transaction of business."

Because it has no formally adopted set of bylaws, Wortman said, the commission may be leaving itself open to challenges of its decisions by disgruntled developers. Wortman also included a proposed set of bylaws in his memo to commissioners last week.

Several commissioners, particularly Rolland Stapleton, argued that the commission already operates under a set of recognized bylaws — Robert's Rules of Parliamentary Procedure. But according to Wortman, "There are things in the proposed draft bylaws which are not covered by Robert's Rules."

Stapleton also had a more fundamental complaint with Wortman's claim. "I don't think we want to give rise to speculation that the previous business enacted by this body has been in violation of state law," he said.

Stapleton added that more discussion should be held on the draft before it comes to a vote. "I get concerned when, organizationally, we try to 'back door' fundamental documents," he said.

Commissioner Don McCulloch suggested that Wortman review the bylaws adopted by other local governmental bodies, and that a committee be appointed to review

Library cost plan released by township

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township officials Monday released a preliminary funding plan for the proposed Haller Library.

The plan includes estimates for constructing, furnishing and stocking the 44,800-square-foot library, which is proposed for 72 acres on the southeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads. The plan also includes calculated millage rates per homeowner.

The estimated cost for the project now stands at almost $7 million, according to township Finance Director James Graham.

In addition, the township Board of Trustees announced that a public hearing on the library would be held at 7 p.m. Feb. 28 at the township hall.

Graham said discussions with library architect Kamp-Dicomo and township bond counsel Ken Kunkel culminated in an estimate of $6.95 million for the entire library package.

The proposed library itself would cost $4.7 million, according to

"These costs are not something Graham's figures that we've pulled out of the sky," he said. "A lot of analysis has gone into it."

Graham said he could not determine the final cost of the library plan until the architect delivers a site plan to the township, but he was confident that his estimate was close.

"I think $6.9 million would be the closest figure right now," he said. In addition to the $4.7 million for the building, Graham estimated the cost of the library furnishings at $627,000; books and materials at a half-million; architectural fees at $282,000; road construction at $125,000; bonding fees at $94,000 and contingencies at $624,000.

Graham said taxpayers are primarily interested in one question when the library issue is raised.

"The bottom line is, 'What is it going to cost me?'" he said.

Graham said the combination of a $6.95-million bond issue, seven-

City down to two choices on library issue — Mayor

By STEVE KELLMAN

As far as Northville City is concerned, the city's options regarding the Haller Library are very limited.

"Essentially, we're down to two choices," Mayor Chris Johnson said recently. "Either the city will join with the Haller Library or they won't."

But before that decision is made, city officials need to agree with the township on the level of city funding for the proposed 44,800-square-foot library.

City officials are still negotiating with the township on the city's level of financial participation in the library program, if the city does join in the program. The township recently agreed to a city proposal on a new joint-services plan after several modifications. That plan includes a formula for reduced city participation in the library funding.

Under the proposal, the city and township would split the cost of building 25,000 square feet of the library based on the state equalized value of the respective communities, while the township would be solely responsible for the rest of the construction cost.

While the township agreed to the funding proposal, city and township officials disagreed on the city's level of equity in the library once it is complete.

The city council hopes to discuss whether to accept the latest joint-services proposal as soon as possible, though Johnson was uncertain whether the city would have a proposal from the township by the council's Feb. 26 meeting. But agreement to the proposal does not automatically imply agreement to the library, Johnson said.

That decision will only be made after a public hearing is held on the funding proposal. The date for such a hearing will be set as soon as a funding proposal is agreed upon.

Restraining order issued in property seizure case

By MIKE TYREE

A federal district judge Monday issued a temporary restraining order allowing Northville Township resident John Hamilton to reclaim much of the property seized by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) during 23 simultaneous raids Feb. 7.

The IRS conducted the raid in response to disputed 1972, 1973 and 1974 individual income-tax returns from Hamilton and associated companies.

According to John Thomas, Hamilton's Plymouth-based attorney, a 90-day restraining order was issued in the wake of the IRS's reported $2-million property and assets seizure.

"He got practically all his property back," Thomas said.

Thomas called the IRS's action "over-reaching" and said the raid — which netted the IRS temporary control of Hamilton's 5,500-square-foot 47195 W. Six Mile Road residence, four topless bars, two farms, three rental houses, 10 vehicles and 65 thoroughbred horses — was excessive.

"They seized far more property than they needed to — three to four times as much," Thomas said.

Thomas said the seizure was based on IRS affidavits which alleged that property in the names of others close to Hamilton was actually owned and controlled by Hamilton.

"They were alleging that others were the alter ego of John Hamilton," he said. "That wasn't the case."

Sarah Wreford, spokesperson for the IRS, said the restraining order was expected but she said the raid went as planned.

"We're absolutely convinced Mr. Hamilton controls that property," she said. "He did not pay his taxes and we were entitled to seize the property."

Wreford said the restraining order would keep the IRS from disposing of Hamilton's property for the time being.

"It will stop us from selling for 90 days," she said. "It may allow some of the bars to open, but any money earned during that time will be put in escrow."

Thomas said litigation between his client and the IRS probably would begin shortly after the 90-day restraining order expires.

Thomas blasted the IRS's handling of the seizure.

"It was grandstanding," he said. "They called all the media and had them out there waiting for a show."

Thomas also said the seizure was timed to intimidate taxpayers.

"It was two months before the April 15 tax deadline," he said. "What's it sound like to you?"

NEWS BRIEFS

PLAY TO BE SIGNED FOR THE DEAF — A pair of sign-language interpreters will accompany the Plymouth Theatre Guild during its Feb. 23 performance of "Brigadoon."

Carol Park, spokesperson for Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital, said the play will be held in the hospital's Water Tower Theater at 8 p.m.

For more information, call Park at 349-1800, extension 2351.

FIRM ON THE JOB — Superintendent of Schools George Bell said Monday that Northville Public Schools will soon enter into a contract with Barton-Malow, the construction management firm which is overseeing the $16-million renovation project as outlined in the 1989 bond proposal.

Bell said final details were being worked out this week and the contract would be made available to the Board of Education at its Feb. 26 meeting.

HALLER LIBRARY UPDATE — Northville Township Supervisor Richard Henningsen said an article that appeared in last week's Record which discussed the layout of the proposed Haller Library did not mention space that would be reserved for senior-citizen groups. He said the senior-citizen portion of the library was "very important to the project."

Supervisor Georgina Goss called the plan released by project architects Kamp-DiComo "very preliminary, for cost estimates only."

Goss said she wanted to make it clear that a Feb. 7 meeting to enlist volunteers for a facilities planning committee was legitimate. "We don't want people to think the deal is done," she said. "The facilities committee will be working to put together the plan."

NORTHVILLE ACTION COUNCIL FUNDRAISER — Tickets for the Northville Action Council fundraising dinner at Genitti's on March 5 at 6:30 p.m. are still available. NAC is raising $14,000 to sponsor the printing of a drug-free message T-shirt to be given to every school-age child in the Northville public school system during Red Ribbon Week.

Tickets are $25 and are tax deductible. They are available through Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall Restaurant, 108 E. Main, or by calling 349-7404.

T-shirts are available for parents at a cost of $7 each. Samples of the T-shirts will be available at Freydl's, Genitti's and Grandma Betty's in downtown Northville.

Home to Homeless

Local church part of shelter project

By STEVE KELLMAN

Though it may be a while yet before the meek inherit the earth, a local church is helping assure that the homeless have a place to call home — at least for a week.

Our Lady of Victory Church in Northville is planning to house 60 homeless people for a week in March, as part of a countywide project to shelter the homeless.

The project is being run in cooperation with the Cass Homeless Drop-in Center in Detroit, a day center for the area's homeless which does not have the facilities for overnight shelter. The participants will be driven to the church each evening for a home-cooked dinner between 6 p.m. and 8 p.m., and returned to the center after breakfast in the morning.

Our Lady of Victory is one of 28 churches participating in the Cass Center project, but the Northville church will be the first outside Detroit to participate.

RENEWAL OF FAITH

The Northville project has been largely initiated by OLV parishioner Anne Bright. "The Catholic Church is in the midst of an effort to renew the faith of our parishioners in the church," Bright said. She saw the project as a way to help parishioners renew that faith.

Church response to the project has been very encouraging, Bright said. "We have over 300 volunteers at the moment; the hard part is getting in touch with all of them."

Between 150 and 200 volunteers will help provide meals for the people while they are here, she said. Breakfasts and bag lunches will be provided each day, and meals cooked at volunteers' homes at night.

Volunteers are still needed in at least one position. "The area that's hardest to get volunteers in is men to stay with the people overnight," Bright said, "what we call host monitors."

One Northville resident who served as a host monitor at an inner-city church recalled the episode with pride. "There were 70 people down there that night," said Alan Buell, "including about a dozen women and children."

Buell was surprised by the way he reacted to the situation. "What was a bit of a surprise to me was how comfortable I was there, and not only because of the security there." He praised the security efforts of the Cass Center personnel during the evening. "They have some internal precautions of their own which were very effective," he said.

The homeless themselves also made him feel at home. "It was a very Christian atmosphere," he said, "Christian to the extent that they were helping one another." Several of the women there were anxious to help the volunteers prepare and serve the meals.

"They were very friendly to one another and me," he said. "I didn't go there with the intention of prying into their personal lives, but several of them shared their stories with me."

"Some were not people you would expect to find in a shelter," he added. "Something very positive is going to come out of this," Buell said, "the way it will touch our parishioners."

Though most of the parish has been supportive of the project, Bright and Buell admitted that some members are opposed to the idea.

Project offers relief

By STEVE KELLMAN

The homeless shelter project which Our Lady of Victory Church has joined is part of a larger program to provide relief to the homeless population of Detroit. The project was started by the Cass Homeless Drop-in Center on Cass Avenue, a day shelter for the homeless.

According to Wyvette Linebarger of the drop-in center, the shelter project was begun last winter with the help of Freedom Baptist Church on Detroit's east side, to provide a place for the center's clients to sleep. But after a month, the church could no longer house all the clients who needed housing. "So we were left with about 90 people who needed shelter," Linebarger recalled.

Since then, the Cass program has recruited 28 churches to help house its homeless, and turns to different churches at different times.

"Ideally, we would like to get 52 churches," Linebarger said, so that several churches could share in the project at a time.

The program was begun as a way to house the homeless who came to their shelter for meals and a place to stay during the day, rather than turning them back out on to the streets at night. "This center is a daytime shelter; it's not a nighttime facility," Linebarger explained. The center provides shelter for between 100 and 150 people a day. "We keep the people who don't have any place else to go."

Despite the help of local churches, the center ends up housing as many as 10 people a night, she said. "We

TIPS FROM TUCKKLAPER
Novi Dental Center
A. Allen Tuchklaper
D.D.S.

DON'T IGNORE "PINK" TOOTHBRUSH
If your toothbrush turns pink after brushing, you have a dental problem—one that should not go unattended. You are experiencing bleeding gums, a likely indicator of gingivitis (or inflamed gums).
Gingivitis is the first stage of periodontal disease which accounts for the greatest tooth loss in adults. But if you catch it early, you can reverse it with the help of your dentist and proper home brushing and flossing regimen.
There are other symptoms of gingivitis, such as soft or swollen gums. Rather than go into all the details, take this advice. Go straight to your dentist and let him examine your gums and evaluate your situation. With a little looking and painless probing, and perhaps an x-ray check, he'll immediately know how far advanced it is and what can be done to save you a lot of future problems.
If left untreated, it will only get worse. If you do nothing about improving your home care along with proper professional care, the disease may eventually destroy the tissue and bone supporting the affected teeth. This could likely result in the loosening and eventual loss of teeth which could have been kept healthy.

Police Blotters

Woman reports theft of vehicle from Meijer parking lot

A woman reported to township police that her 1989 Ford Ranger had been stolen from the parking lot at Meijer, 20401 Haggerty, on Feb. 4. The woman said she entered the store at 7:15 p.m. and returned at 8:20 p.m. and discovered that the vehicle was missing.

The victim said the Ranger was locked and the keys were in her possession. Police searched the lot for the vehicle, which was valued at $10,000. No physical damage was found at the scene and police say they have no suspects in the case.

OTHER MEIJER HAPPENINGS

— Larcenies were reported at Meijer the following days: Feb. 3, a subject was arrested for shoplifting at 11:50 a.m.; Feb. 3, a subject was arrested at 10:45 p.m. for attempting to steal whiskey; Feb. 3, a woman reported that she placed her purse on a bench in the shoe department and walked out of the area. By the time she returned to the department, the purse and contents, including $142 in cash, were missing.

Feb. 4, three people attempted to steal $588.70 worth of cigarettes at 3:30 p.m. and eventually were arrested for larceny and assault and battery. The case is open pending a court date, according to township police. Feb. 4, between 1:30-2:45 p.m., a Meijer shopper reported that someone had stolen a Michigan license plate off the back of his 1988 Chevrolet Cavalier.

Feb. 5, a woman was arrested after attempting to commit larceny by concealing merchandise in her purse. The case is open pending a court date.

Feb. 6 at 3:40 p.m., two local residents were arrested and charged with stealing cigarettes and makeup. The case is open pending a court appearance.

BODY WORK — A parking accident reportedly resulted in the malicious destruction of property at Northville High School on Feb. 7.

According to city police reports, a 16-year-old Northville High School student was driving a car into the school's auto shop at 9:40 a.m. when he struck two other vehicles, causing "very minor damage to all vehicles involved."

The owner of one of the other vehicles, an 18-year-old Northville man, reportedly became angry over his vehicle being struck, kicked the front fender of the driver's vehicle and threw a set of keys at it. After the incident, the man said he was willing to pay for the damage he did, estimated at $500.

OUIL ON THE ROAD — A Northville man was charged with driving under the influence after being stopped on High Street on Feb. 11. According to city police reports, a police officer watched the man leave the Arbor Drug parking lot at about 2:35 a.m. and drive across Center Street onto Randolph, in violation of the "Turn Right Only" sign at that intersection.

The officer then followed the man, stopping him on High Street just north of Dunlap. As he exited his car, the officer saw the driver leave his own vehicle and approach the patrol car, stumbling as he did. After failing several tests, the man was arrested. Subsequent Breathalyzer tests measured his blood alcohol level at .18 percent, well above the state's legal limit of .10 percent.

FENDER-BENDERS — City police reported one accident during the past week. On Feb. 5, at 9:02 p.m., a Northville woman driving south on Griswold and turning east onto Main Street reportedly ran a red light there, striking the car of a Northville man driving west on Main Street. Two other westbound drivers witnessed the accident. The woman was cited for failing to obey the traffic light, and for leaving the scene of

BREAKING AND ENTERING — A construction storage trailer on Blue Heron was broken into and an estimated $3,454 worth of equipment was taken sometime between 4:30 p.m. Feb. 6 and 7:45 a.m. Feb. 7, according to township police. Police said the thieves used a hatchet or an ax to cut through the side of the construction trailer. Among the items taken were several nail guns, circular saws, an air compressor, and a jigsaw. Police said the case is open and they have no suspects at this time.

LARCENY FROM AUTOMOBILES — Township police investigated several larcenies involving automobiles recently. On Feb. 6, the owner of a Triumph TR7 told police that someone had stolen a radio, watch and sunglasses, total value $295, sometime between Feb. 2 and Feb. 6 from a residence on Northridge Drive.

A Swan Lake Drive resident told police that sometime between 9 p.m. Feb. 4 and 7 a.m. Feb. 5 someone smashed the driver's side window of their car and stole a radar detector.

An attempted larceny from an automobile was reported to police Feb. 5 from a residence on Northville Place Drive.

A larceny involving unidentified materials was reported Feb. 5 from a Northridge Drive residence.

KEY STOLEN — Township police said they received a report that a building key to the Piazza Dance Studio, 42297 Seven Mile Road, had been stolen from the shop door. Police said the case is still open.

Northville citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call city police at 349-1234 or township police at 349-9400.

Revisions noted in MainCentre parking deck project history

By STEVE KELLMAN

While much of the public protest against the proposed MainCentre parking deck on Center Street is fairly recent, the deck project has been undergoing revisions since its inception more than a year ago.

The MainCentre deck saga dates back as far as September 1988, when the city council first approved a property trade with the Singh Development Company of Birmingham to allow its proposed structure to be set back from Center Street.

On Sept. 19, Singh asked the city to decide whether to provide surface carparks or spaces in an attached parking deck for MainCentre tenants. But the entire development proposal nearly fell through when the city and Singh failed to reach an agreement on the price of parking-deck spaces at an Oct. 3 meeting.

Finally, at their Dec. 5 meeting, the city council members agreed to a parking deck behind MainCentre, and agreed to use special assessments and tax capturing to finance the construction.

On Jan. 23, 1989, Singh presented the city council with a draft agreement for the MainCentre project, and the council approved a contract with Rich and Associates of Southfield to design the deck.

Since then, several deck designs have been presented to the city council and rejected for one reason or another. On Oct. 2, Singh proposed building 51 apartments over a wide parking deck, but the council rejected that proposal in favor of the Singh proposal for a smaller four-story deck with five floors of parking.

That deck has undergone several revisions of its own. While the south drive between the MAGS parking lot and Center Street was originally planned to go through the deck, the deck was shortened to allow that drive to be outside the deck.

In November, the city council recommended the deck be moved west to allow 30 feet of green space between it and the Center Street sidewalk, and the top floor of the deck on the south side be set back to soften its appearance to people approaching the structure from the south.

At its Dec. 19 meeting, the planning commission recommended further changes, several of which were adopted by Rich and Associates.

These included shortening the towers on the east side of the deck, providing pedestrian access to the northeast corner of the deck, and improving the sight distance for traffic exiting from the south side of the deck.

In its present design, the deck would provide parking for 453 cars. The deck and the redesigned MAGS parking lot to the west will provide a total of 658 parking spaces. 258 of the spaces in the lot are required under current city ordinances for the MainCentre retail, office and residential use, while 283 spaces in the existing MAGS lot will be lost if the proposed parking deck is built.

Overall, the new deck and redesigned MAGS lot would provide an additional 155 more spaces over the present number of spaces and those required by the MainCentre project.

City officials are now considering several changes to the deck in response to public protest against the deck at their last meeting. Among the changes being considered are turning the deck so that it runs along Cady Street rather than Center Street, widening the deck and making it two stories rather than four, and shortening the deck by removing a floor.

Property assessed at $200,000 would assume an extra $100 a year, or 28 cents a day, according to the formula.

"Allowing for the additional growth in the township, I do feel confident in saying it will be a mill or less," Graham said.

Graham said the proposed library funding would be structured to ensure that future residents would pay

City commission argues over role of audience, liaisons

By STEVE KELLMAN

The planning commission members tried once again last Tuesday to agree on the form of their agenda, but a motion to that effect failed to pass because of a split vote.

And the commissioner who made the motion was not even sure that it was understood by the rest of the commission.

Last week's unusual vote follows an effort by members of the commission at their previous meeting to define the role of Downtown Development Authority Liaison Greg Presley and other liaisons. At that meeting, a motion was passed to set aside a specific time for such liaisons to speak before the commission.

The agenda at last week's meeting contained a new item labeled "audience comments."

When Commissioner Don McCulloch asked City Manager Steven Walters last week why the commission's agenda had not been changed to mention the liaison agenda item, Walters replied that the commission's agenda allowed for liaison comments under the "audience comments" heading.

Finally, Commissioner Kathleen Otton moved that the new agenda item be included in the agenda. McCulloch seconded the motion, but it was defeated by a split vote.

Chairperson John Hardin and Commissioner David Totten voted for the amendment, while the other four commissioners present voted against it. Commissioner Dick Wilhelm was absent during the vote.

After the vote, Otton reiterated her view of the need for audience participation at some point during the commission meetings. "I feel very uncomfortable as we meet week after week and we have, in effect, nobody in the audience giving us feedback on what's happening in other committees," she said. "We need to know what other bodies are doing so that we can operate more efficiently."

But the problem in the minds of at least some commissioners was still the relationship of Presley to the commission. Said Commissioner David Totten, "I think what we're really talking about, in guarded tones, is the relationship of Mr. Presley to this board. If we get Gregory to react to this board like a liaison and not as an ex-officio member, I think we can solve this whole blasted thing."

Hardin added, "I think what we need to do is figure... what is Greg's official capacity going to be eventually."

Presley had previously been criticized for acting as an "ex-officio" or non-voting member of the commission. He attempted to set the record straight last week regarding his view of his role in the commission. "I don't consider myself a member of the planning commission," he insisted. "I'm a liaison to the commission from the DDA on the Master Plan, and that's all I want to be."

Presley has in the past been a member of the planning commission.

After the meeting, Otton admitted that there may have been some confusion among commission members as to the purpose of her motion. "It was my intent that we should accept the custom that the council has," she said.

"I'm not sure everybody was quite clear on what the intent was," she added.

"I don't think it was their intent to gag the public, so to speak," she said of the commission.

City council agendas currently include an opportunity for "citizen comment," similar to the planning commission's new agenda item for "audience comment," and limit such comment to five minutes. If more time is needed on the subject, the subject may be placed on the agenda.

Representatives from other boards are often considered as citizens during council meetings, and make comments at that time, according to City Clerk Cathy Konrad. "If we knew they were coming we'd probably put them on the agenda," she said. "But if they come in at the last minute they would be included under citizen comments."

Commissioner Don McCulloch said after last week's meeting that he took issue with the fact that the agenda item voted by the commission previously had not been included as an item on last week's agenda. "My understanding is that Steve Walters is supposed to carry out the wishes of the planning commission," he said, "not insert his own stuff into the agenda."

McCulloch also disagreed with the inclusion of the agenda line calling for audience comments, saying, "as a matter of fact, we said that audience participation was at the discretion of the chairman" at the previous commission meeting.

Walters said the "audience comment" item would be removed from the next planning commission agenda until the commission adopts a set of bylaws specifying what the agenda should read.

McCulloch also still believes a separate agenda item is needed for liaisons like Presley. "When I hear Greg Presley speak, I want to know who he's speaking for," he said. "If you don't do that, then every time Greg Presley speaks, you think that it's the DDA liaison that's speaking when really it isn't."

But Council Member Jerry Mittman, the council's commission liaison, saw little need for a separate agenda item for liaisons. "It's really again at the discretion of the chairman of the planning commission as to how he will handle those comments," he said.

"I don't see them necessarily as trying to stifle public input as a commission," he added. "That's not the majority viewpoint."

Whether or not the planning commission intended to pass a "gag order" at its previous meeting, a possibility City Manager Steven Walters raised at that time, the commission is still required by state law to allow public comment at its meeting, Walters said. "It's a real problem when a board takes a position implying to the contrary," he said.

Crash blamed on sneezing fit

By STEVE KELLMAN

The Northville Township police officers must have wondered what had happened east of Sheldon Road last Wednesday, Feb. 7.

But all they had for clues were 50 feet of skid marks, a broken sign, and a 1990 Mercury Sable smashed against a fence off Five Mile Road.

Damage to the abandoned car was extensive. The car was wedged between several small trees, the driver's-side front fender was smashed and the front wheel was lying against the side of the car. The driver apparently exited the car through the passenger door, as his door was pushed back behind the panel of the rear door and could not be opened.

The car also knocked down a wooden sign for the old Plymouth Center Day Camp.

The accident on Five Mile east of Sheldon, which occurred at 1:45 p.m. according to township reports, was not reported to the police until 2:47 p.m. and the driver — an unidentified Novi man — did not report the accident himself until the next day.

He claimed that the accident was the result of a sneezing fit, according to Sergeant John Sherman of the township police force. The driver claimed he sneezed three times and lost control of the car.

Township police cited the man for failure to use due care and caution.

Assessment hearings

Northville City residents unhappy with their assessments can take their cases before the Board of Review in March.

Hearings have been scheduled for the following times:

- Mar. 13 — 1-5 p.m., 6-10 p.m.
- Mar. 16 — 9-noon, 1-5 p.m.
- Mar. 22 — 1-5 p.m., 6-10 p.m.
- Mar. 27 — 9-noon, 1-5 p.m.

Said Geri Witkowski of the tax department, "We're hoping for assessments to go out before the end of the month." The city had still not received the assessment notices from Wayne and Oakland counties as of Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 13.

Once residents receive their assessments, they can call the Northville City Hall's tax department at 349-1300 to schedule an appointment. Appointments are not being accepted now.

The Board of Review consists of Chairperson James Cutler and members William Milne and Walter Zabinski. Assessment notices are required to be mailed out 10 days before the board meets.

Favorite dates

Although the status of "favorite date" may not last long for the dads in the crowd, for this year at least the annual Northville Recreation Department Father-Daughter Valentine's Dance was a real crowd-pleaser. Dads and daughters had a great time swinging to music and enjoying each other's company. Rumor has it the hot "after-dance" spot was the line at Guernsey Farms waiting for ice cream.

Police left in dark about raid by IRS

By MIKE TYREE

With a full complement of television, radio and newspaper personnel on hand, the Internal Revenue Service raid on the home of Northville Township resident John Hamilton took on the air of a carnival.

But a local law-enforcement official was upset that he did not receive an invitation to the Feb. 7 party.

Acting Chief Philip Presnell of the Northville Township Police Department said the IRS did not contact his office before seizing a reported $2 million in property and assets — including a house at 47915 W. Six Mile — from Hamilton as payment for back taxes and penalties from Hamilton's 1972, 1973 and 1974 income-tax returns.

"I expected they would have contacted the local authorities," Presnell said. "I wondered why the media was informed about the raid and we were not."

Presnell said he contacted an IRS official in Detroit and asked for an explanation as to why the Northville Township police were not advised of the seizure, which began at 11:30 a.m.

"They (IRS) indicated that it was an oversight," he said.

A spokesperson for the IRS said consultation with local law enforcement is taken on a case-by-case basis.

"In this case, we probably should have contacted them sometime during the day," said the IRS's Sarah Wretford. "We could have told them

"I wondered why the media was informed about the raid and we were not."

— Philip Presnell, Acting Township Police Chief

about it at the same time the media was told, but we probably would not have before that time."

Presnell said the police department found out about the raid after someone from the Hamilton residence called to complain about the media trespassing at the home.

"It was after the media was there that we found out about it," Presnell said. "The township and I are responsible for the actions that happen in this community and they should have let us know."

Lt. Jack Moulik of the Michigan State Police Northville Post also said he had not been informed prior to the IRS action.

But Moulik was not upset that his department was not advised of the raid.

"They're basically dealing with a tax matter," he said. "I don't know if it's a criminal matter, but we would not be involved in something like that."

Writers are subject of series

The Women's Resource Center of Schoolcraft College is offering a free four-part series entitled "An Inside Look at Michigan Authors" on Thursday evenings from 7-9 p.m. in the Upper Waterman Campus Center at 18600 Haggerty Road in Livonia.

Tonight, Feb. 15, "The Facets of a Writer's Life" will be the topic presented by Kathleen Ripley Leo, the poet and author of "Town One South", a book of Northville poems.

Participants will learn what it takes to be a writer, the pressures and concerns involved in writing, and how to make the important connections needed.

On Feb. 22, "Michigan PTA's: Answers to Parenting" will be the topic presented by Alice R. McCarthy, Ph.D., Free Press columnist and director of the advisory board for the "Parent Talk" page.

McCarthy co-authored "Michigan PTA: The Parents' Answer Book", a concise question and answer book, dealing with the home-school partnership, parenting, family, and current social problems. Learn how to guide children into the 21st century and help them be all they can be.

Homeless turn to churches for a place to sleep

were winding up having people at our door who didn't have any place else to go."

The drop-in center opened in August, 1988, and is funded by the state Department of Mental Health. The center is considered a three-year demonstration project by the DMH. "This drop-in center was designed to give homeless people some place to go other than the street," Linebarger said. The clients are referred to the center by hospitals and other social service organizations.

The center also houses the Homeless Union, a human rights group. "Their struggle is trying to get decent, affordable, safe housing for all people," Linebarger said. The Union also provides an advocate to help the homeless in their dealings with the state Department of Social Services.

Next door to the center is a health-care clinic for the homeless, Linebarger added.

"We're growing little by little," she said. "This is a demonstration project, so we're seeing what we can do and how we can do it."

PLIGHT WILL WORSEN

Linebarger predicted that the homeless problem in the city — and across the country — will grow worse before it gets better. "I expect that we're going to have a lot more homeless people," she said. "People can't afford to pay rent anymore." Also, given recent cutbacks in heating assistance by the DSS, and plans to cut heating assistance nationwide, fewer people will be able to afford to heat their homes, she said. "Now the president wants to cut all the funds that help the poor people heat their homes in the winter."

"I don't see it getting any better," she said.

The maximum amount that the DSS will pay for rent is $220, and that is for families with six or more people. A single person on the program receives $125 for rent assistance.

The fastest-growing segments of the homeless population are women and their children, according to Linebarger. "We have never had any more than five or six mothers and five or six children," she said. "In the last couple of months we've had 13 or 14 of each."

Many of the homeless have been burned out of their homes, or evicted because they were unable to pay the rent, while many women leave because of abuse or drugs in the home.

"There's a large percentage who were already on drugs and then became homeless," Linebarger said, but many others did not become involved with drugs or alcohol until they lost their homes. "We also have many people who come through here, go through a drug rehabilitation program, and stay clean."

SHELTER SURVEYS

According to a 1989 study by the Detroit/Wayne County Urban League's Homeless Strategy Coalition, the typical homeless person in Detroit is a single black man in his 30s. But one out of four of the homeless surveyed were women.

More than half of those surveyed had a high school diploma, while one out of five had more than a high school education. Half had worked in the past year.

The reasons given for homelessness were varied. While one out of three were evicted due to lack of income, one out of six were burned out of a home, and one out of 10 were evicted after disputes with relatives or friends.

The study also found that the fastest-growing segment of the homeless population were families, most of whom were headed by a female.

Half of those surveyed had children under the age of 15.

The actual number of homeless people in Detroit is a matter of dispute. A study done several years ago in metro Detroit placed the figure at 28,000, based on shelter usage, though Cass Church officials believe the number is higher.

According to Kathy Murphy Castillo of the Homeless Strategy Coalition, one emergency shelter hotline in the city receives 2,500 calls a month for shelter, and that figure is increasing by 100 calls a month. "Only about 40 percent were being sheltered," she added.

Some 20,000 people used city shelters last year, she added, saying, "There are more requests than there are beds."

Part of the problem, Castillo agreed, is that housing is no longer affordable for many people, and welfare payments cannot make up the difference. "It's a good safety net," she said of welfare, "but the net is down so low that it doesn't prevent homelessness anymore. The amount that people get is insufficient to prevent homelessness."

Our Lady of Victory opens its doors to shelter

"There are a handful of people who — for one reason or another — are not in favor of the project, mostly, I believe, because they don't know all about it," said Buell. "I don't consider that any reason why we would not go forward with it."

According to Bright, the opponents represent "a minority group of parishioners."

"I really don't want to stir up any dissent in the community," she said.

This is not the Northville church's only social service commitment. Many OLV parishioners are actively involved with St. Leo's Soup Kitchen in Detroit, spending one Saturday each month preparing and serving meals at the kitchen.

People willing to volunteer their time and energy to the shelter project, or with questions about the project, are asked to call Anne Bright at 349-4055.

POSITIVE RESPONSE

Overall, church response to the shelter project has been very positive, according to Wyvette Linebarger, director of the Cass Homeless Drop-in Center. "We're beginning to get more and more calls from churches wanting to do it," she added. "The churches that have already done it have had a positive experience." Several churches are requesting a second opportunity to provide shelter, she added.

Linebarger presented the project to a meeting of Our Lady of Victory parishioners in mid-January, and said the idea was widely applauded. "It went real well," she said. "One lady said to me, 'Are we only talking about doing this one time?'" The meeting was also attended by several ministers who had participated in the program already, and described the "positive spiritual experience that they had."

A hop, skip and a jump

It was a "Jump for Your Heart" fundraiser day at Winchester Elementary School recently, and Joe Trace, above, of Miss Allen's second grade class, gave it his best effort. Last Saturday 150 children participated in the activity designed to try to raise $2,000 for the American Heart Association. Kristin Parkison and Mark Heiden, the gym teachers at the school, organized the event.

Power goes out, so do students

By MIKE TYREE

Malfunctioning Detroit Edison electrical equipment created a power outage and an unexpected vacation day for 300 students at Winchester Elementary last Friday.

Defective lighting arrestors in the Schoolcraft/Five Mile Road area led to the 8:05 a.m. power outage, according to Detroit Edison spokesperson Mary Kay Bean.

She said the equipment failure left approximately 250 homes without power until 8:45 a.m.

Officials from Northville Public Schools said they decided to close Winchester because they were uncertain when the facility's power would be restored.

"Detroit Edison said it could have been a transformer and if it had been, it could have taken four or five hours to fix," Winchester Principal Kathy Morehouse said.

She said classes were canceled at 8:10 a.m.

"(Detroit Edison) could not tell us how long the power would be out and we did not want to have kids sitting in cold classrooms," Superintendent George Bell said.

Bell said the district school buses ran their scheduled routes. Drivers asked students if they had a parent at home and those that did not were taken to school until parents were contacted, Bell said.

He also said all the local radio stations broadcast the cancellation.

"What the parents needed to know is that each kid was accounted for," Bell said.

The school would not have closed if the administration had known the problem was going to be fixed by 8:45, Bell said.

"Obviously, we didn't want to take this action, but we had to make a decision," he said. "I know I'll be getting some calls from parents about this."

City debates cluster option

By STEVE KELLMAN

With Northville City's residential land quickly being built up, Planning Consultant Don Wortman had an idea for maximizing use of the remaining space. But the planning commission did not jump at the proposal.

"There is the potential for what we would call cluster housing," Wortman told the commission at last week's meeting. "What is the planning commission's idea of this?"

The commissioners had mixed ideas. Said Commissioner Rolland Stapleton, "The first thought I had when I read this memo was that it goes against the stated policies of this commission." Stapleton questioned whether the planning commission wanted to encourage more infill and sustain residential growth in the city.

"If anything, we've talked of capping residential growth," he said.

"The densities ought to be set so we don't end up with higher densities than we want," Commission Chairperson John Hardin said.

Commissioner Chris Gazlay opposed the proposal, saying it went against his idea of what a community should be, which he described as "one house, one lot."

But according to Wortman and City Manager Steven Walters, the cluster-housing concept could be used to encourage better developments — not just bigger ones. For example, depending on the setback requirements, a cluster development could allow several houses to be placed near each other on a large lot, leaving the land undeveloped along the lot's perimeter.

"In no sense does PRUD (Planned Residential Unit Development) have to be a multiple-density concept," Walters said.

Wortman also noted that Northville Township has a cluster housing option but does not allow wetlands to be used for a density transfer in such a development. This prevents developments like a row of apartments on the single high spot of a property that could not otherwise be developed.

Development on such lots could include zero lot lines or common walls, lowering land development costs and making the housing more affordable for seniors and new families.

The commission finally asked Wortman to develop the proposal further, and "very conservatively" in the words of Commissioner David Totten.

Wrestling — a sport or not?

By STEVE KELLMAN

Though professional wrestlers might fight it, a recently introduced state bill would recognize their profession as an entertainment rather than a true sport.

But before they head to Lansing to slam some state representatives, wrestlers should be warned that the legislation could keep them out of the slammer themselves.

State Rep. Gerald Law introduced the bill to grapple with a conflict in existing state laws regarding professional wrestling. If the current laws were enforced, wrestlers could lose their licenses for participating in wrestling exhibitions, and be subject to a $1,000 fine and / or a year in jail if they continued to perform.

Law's bill would exempt professional wrestling from the existing state penalties for a "sham or fake" exhibition. "The only problem with our law, which applies to everybody who gets a license, both wrestlers and promoters, is that if anybody wanted to enforce it, it would cause a lot of enforcement problems," he said. "But I don't think the state's ever enforced it."

"I think everybody realizes that wrestling is more of an entertainment than a sport," Law said. "It's time to recognize professional wrestling as the entertainment that it is."

"Although many wrestlers are well-trained athletes, professional wrestling long ago ceased to be a true sport. My bill would make the law consistent with reality."

The bill would define a "wrestling exhibition" as "a performance . . . in which the participating wrestlers are not required to use their best efforts in order to win or for which the selection of a winner has been agreed upon by the parties before the commencement of the performance."

Law noted that professional wrestling is more popular in Michigan than almost any other state. He described himself as an aficionado of the "sport," having attended several wrestling events himself, including "WrestleMania III" at the Pontiac Silverdome. As for favorite wrestlers, Law noted that "Hulk Hogan was obviously the most dynamic."

But, he admits, "my youngest daughter's the big fan."

Opposition grows to proposed Novi construction dump

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

Novi could become home to a 187-acre construction landfill — but not if area residents have their way. Local and county officials have fielded a number of calls from concerned citizens living around the proposed landfill, which would be at the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier roads.

The growing list of landfill opponents includes such heavyweights as state Senator R. Robert Geake, R-Northville, and Northville Township Supervisor Georgina Goss.

"I am opposed to the landfill because it is too close to the one on Napier and Six Mile," the senator said. "It would be entirely too much impact on one residential neighborhood."

Geake said the landfill is not within his district, so he does not know how much influence he will have on the matter.

"State officials don't really have much say in these things. It is really up to municipalities and the county as to what makes up the solid-waste plan," he said.

Geake, who lives on Eight Mile about a mile from the proposed landfill, added that he did not know if he will attend the county's solid-waste public hearing, which is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 1 in the Oakland County Board of Commissioners Auditorium in Pontiac.

Northville Township's Goss said that she plans to introduce a resolution officially opposing the construction landfill at the March 8 township board meeting.

"I am opposed to the idea," she said. "It would have an alarming impact on the township and lower area property values."

"I am also concerned about possible soil contamination," the township supervisor added.

Goss said that she anticipates that the anti-landfill resolution will pass. Although the proposed site is in Novi, its Eight Mile location puts it just across the street from Northville Township.

Township Planning Commissioner Karen Baja is also vocally opposed to Holloway's plan.

The commissioner said that she is concerned about the way the landfill is allegedly being "pushed through."

"I am really distressed about the posture the City of Novi has taken," she said.

"I am concerned that if the site gets on the Oakland County solid-waste plan, it will be a shoe-in," she added.

"I fear it will be pushed through Novi."

Holloway's Zanotti has said that "the city has been very receptive to the idea."

However, Novi City Manager Ed Kriewall said the city has not taken a stance on the Holloway proposal at this time.

"The Holloway landfill will need a city permit," he explained. "We are trying to keep an open mind about the landfill until an application is submitted."

The city application process, however, will not begin until the site is added to Oakland County's solid-waste plan.

The proposed type III landfill is on the current draft of the county's solid-waste plan, but commissioners have not given the project the green light.

The county's solid-waste committee will revise its waste master plan based on public comments at the March 1 hearing, according to Oakland County Commissioner John Calandro, R-Nowi.

However, he said there is a lot of support for this type of landfill at the county level.

"If we have to have a landfill here, then this is the kind of landfill to have," he said. "There is a lot of support for this kind of landfill because it is a clean landfill."

The final version of the solid-waste plan will require county board of commissioner approval and ratification by 67 percent of county municipalities. Final approval is targeted for late April.

Even if the landfill is added to the solid-waste master plan, it will then be subject to Novi City Council and Department of Natural Resources approval.

Residents voice concerns about Eight Mile and Napier site

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

NOVI — Local residents are worried about possible environmental risks associated with a 187-acre construction landfill being considered for Novi's southwest sector.

The landfill, which has been proposed by the Holloway Construction Co., is sited for the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Napier roads in Novi.

Only construction-related waste generated by Holloway would be placed in the landfill. Primarily, this waste would consist of concrete, road debris and tree stumps — not household or industrial solid waste.

"Unlike a solid-waste landfill, all of the materials going into this landfill will be inert," Dick Zanotti, a representative of Holloway, explained. "It will have no detrimental effect on the environment."

But that statement is not completely accurate, according to a state Department of Natural Resources official.

If the material was completely inert, a DNR permit would not be required, DNR Environmental Analyst Valerie Bond-Burgess said. The Holloway plan does require a DNR permit.

Her department only classifies substances that do not decompose or dissolve as inert. Such items include concrete, brick, masonry, pavement and rock.

Organic material like stumps and other forms of construction debris, however, are not inert.

Burgess said there is some environmental risk associated with "type III" landfills, the classification which includes construction landfills.

She said type III landfills can lead to environmental contamination if proper precautions are not taken.

She would not rule out the possibility of oil or other residues lingering on the broken pavement going into the landfill — a primary concern of local residents.

She also said construction refuse can generate underground gas buildup like other forms of solid waste if proper precautions are not taken.

However, any landfill plan would be subject to DNR specifications and final approval.

The analyst added the DNR will monitor area ground water and make periodic visits to the site if an operation permit is granted.

Presently the site is being used for sand and gravel excavation. The land is zoned for residential use.

When mining operation is completed in approximately a year, Holloway plans to convert the site to the construction-landfill use, according to Zanotti.

He said the site is well-suited for this type of landfill because of its natural clay liner and low-lying aquifer at about 100 feet below ground.

In addition, no wetlands or woodlands will be disturbed because the site is currently a giant hole in the ground, he said.

The proposed landfill will not increase the traffic flow into the area because it will only be used by

The current excavating operation only draws a few trucks each week and the landfill operation would be comparable, he said.

1. The lot area in all One-Family Residential Districts having all public utilities may be reduced provided that the density shall be no greater than if the land area to be subdivided were developed in the minimum square foot lot areas as required under R-1, R-2 and R-3 Districts. All calculations shall be predicated upon these One-Family Districts having the following number of dwelling units per acre (including roads):

Dwelling Units Per Acre:
R-1, With public utilities, 0.8; R-2, With public utilities, 1.7; R-3 With public utilities, 2.4;
2. Lot widths shall not be less than the following:
R-1 District - One hundred twenty-five (125) feet. R-2 District - One hundred ten (110) feet. R-3 District - Ninety (90) feet.
3. Lot area shall not be less than the following:
R-1 District - Thirty-five thousand (35,000) sq.ft. R-2 District - Fifteen thousand (15,000) sq.ft. R-3 District - Twelve thousand (12,000) sq.ft.

4. Renumber present paragraphs 2. through 7. to 4. through 9.

Sec. 3 Amendment to Section 14.3 Averaging of Lot Sizes

Section 14.3 is hereby amended to read as follows:

The intent of this Section is to permit the subdivider or developer to vary lot sizes so as to average the minimum size of lot per unit as required in Article XIV, Section 14.1, Schedule of Regulations, for the R-1 through R-3 One-Family Residential Districts, provided that all public utilities are available. If this option is selected, the following conditions shall be met:

1. The number of lots shall not exceed the permitted number of dwelling units per acre (including roads) in the R-1, R-2 and R-3 Districts as set forth in Section 14.2, paragraph 1.

2. Lot widths may be reduced but shall not be less than the following:
R-1 District - One hundred thirty-five (135) feet. R-2 District - One hundred twenty (120) feet. R-3 District - Ninety-five (95) feet.

3. Lot areas may be reduced but shall not be less than the following:
R-1 District - Thirty-nine thousand (39,000) sq.ft. R-2 District - Seventeen thousand (17,000) sq.ft. R-3 District - Thirteen thousand (13,000) sq.ft.

4. A plat which utilizes the advantages of the Lot Averaging technique may, following approval of the Preliminary Plat, be developed in phases, subject to the provision that in phase, taken together with previously developed phases, shall produce a total lot area amounting to less than the conventional subdivision minimum lot area of the zoning district multiplied by the total number of lots developed.

5. All computations showing lot area and the average area resulting through this technique shall be indicated on the print of the preliminary plat by the proprietor before review and approval shall be given.

Sec. 4 Amendment to Section 14.4 Planned Residential Unit Development Paragraph 5a.

Section 14.4 paragraph 5a. is amended to read as follows:

5. Density Conditions

a. The maximum permitted densities within a Planned Residential Unit Development shall be governed by the zoning district in which the PRUD is located and shall be calculated based on the following limits:

1. In the R-2 Districts, the maximum density shall not exceed 8.4 bedrooms per acre.

2. In the R-3 Districts, the maximum density shall not exceed 14.7 bedrooms per acre.

Sec. 5 Amendment to Section 14.5 One-Family Cluster Option Paragraphs 2.a (7), (9), (10), (11), (12) and (13):

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (7) is amended to read as follows:

2.a. (7) — The parcel has vehicular access to a major thoroughfare and a substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by land that is located in an RM-1, RE, RME, OS or P1 District or is located in an R-1, R-2, or R-3 District and is developed for a use other than single-family detached homes and the parcel has natural features or is shaped in such a way as to make platting difficult.

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (9) is amended to read as follows:
2.a. (9) — The parcel exceeds ten (10.0) acres, is located at the intersection of at least two (2) major thoroughfares and a substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by major thoroughfares which would result in a substantial portion of the lots of a development abutting the major thoroughfares and the parcel has vehicular access directly to a major thoroughfare.

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (10) is amended to read as follows:

2.a. (10) — The parcel exceeds ten (10.0) acres and a substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by land that is located in a B, FS, RD or I-1 District and the parcel has vehicular access to a major thoroughfare.

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (11) is amended to read as follows:

2.a. (11) — The parcel is located at the intersection of at least two (2) major thoroughfares and contains ten (10) acres or less, including road right-of-way, and the parcel has vehicular access directly to a major thoroughfare.

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (12) is amended to read as follows:

2.a. (12) — A substantial portion of the parcel's perimeter is bordered by land that is located in a B, FS, RD, or I-1 District and contains ten (10) acres or less, including road right-of-way, and the parcel has vehicular access to a major thoroughfare.

Section 14.5 paragraph 2.a. (13) is amended to read as follows:

2.a. (13) — The parcel is designated as Cluster Residential on the Township's Master Plan of Land Use.

Sec. 6 Amendment to Section 14.5 One Family Cluster Option Paragraph 3.a. (1), (2), (3), (4), (5) and (6)

Section 14.5 paragraph 3 is amended to read as follows:

3 Permitted Densities:

a. Utilization of the cluster option shall require public sanitary sewer and water supply unless at least one (1) acre of land, not including streets, per dwelling unit is provided on the site. Otherwise, the maximum permitted densities including streets shall be as follows:

(1) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (1), (2) or (3):
R-1 District - 1.0 dwelling units/acre. R-2 District - 1.7 dwelling units/acre. R-3 District - 2.4 dwelling units/acre.

(2) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (4), (5), (6), (7), (8), (9) or (10):
R-1 District - 1.5 dwelling units/acre. R-2 District - 2.3 dwelling units/acre. R-3 District - 3.2 dwelling units/acre.

(3) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (11) or (12):
R-1 District - 2.0 dwelling units/acre. R-2 District - 3.0 dwelling units/acre. R-3 District - 4.0 dwelling units/acre.

(4) For those areas qualifying under paragraph 2a (13), the Planning Commission shall determine the density to be permitted based upon the characteristics of the site and its surroundings.

(5) Water areas within the parcel may be included in the computation of density provided that land adjacent to the water is substantially developed as open space. In no instance, however, shall the water area cause an increase in the total number of units achievable on land not covered by water to be greater than twelve (12) percent. In those instances where the parcel qualifies under paragraphs 2a (11) or (12) above, the area used for computing density shall not include more than twenty-five (25) percent of the horizontal surface of existing ponds or lakes within the boundary of the site. The total area of newly-created lakes, however, may be included.

(6) In those instances where a parcel qualifies under paragraphs 2a (1), (2) or (3) above as well as one or more of the remaining paragraphs (4) through (12), the higher densities may be permitted provided that the Planning Commission finds that such density is reasonable and does not result in the destruction or removal of the natural assets enumerated under paragraphs 2a (1), (2) or (3).

Sec. 7 Amendment to Section 14.5 Paragraph 4c. One Family Cluster Option

Section 14.5 paragraph 4c is amended to read as follows:

1. The area in open space (including recreation areas and water) accomplished through the use of the one-family cluster option shall represent at least twenty (20) percent of the horizontal area of a one-family cluster development that qualifies under paragraphs 2a (1) through (10) above and fifteen (15) percent in those qualifying under paragraphs 2a (11) or (12). The provision of walks, trails and recreation facilities is encouraged within the open space areas.

Courageous Cop

State trooper's heroic actions retold on national television

By MIKE TYREE

Hollywood couldn't have scripted it any better.

Take a courageous police officer and put him at the scene of a tragic accident involving an automobile and a pair of runaway boxcars.

Have the quick-thinking officer speed after and overtake the boxcars in his vehicle and get him to chase the train on foot as a victim in a crumpled automobile waves at him frantically.

Give the cop the almost superhuman ability to jump a train moving between 35-40 miles per hour and crank a hand brake until the boxcars come to a screeching halt, saving the life of the man pinned in the wreckage of the vehicle.

Then give him his own show.

If State Police Trooper David Haire's daring 1985 railway rescue of a Northville Township man sounds like something straight from prime-time television, it's fitting.

The incident was recounted on CBS' "Rescue 911" series, which aired Tuesday evening at 8 p.m.

The program was filmed in Northville and Ada in September, and Haire, presently a detective sergeant at the Pontiac state police post, played himself in the drama.

Haire was stationed at the Northville post at the time and said he was in a patrol car turning onto eastbound Seven Mile at the corner of Northville Road when a car heading west on Seven Mile was struck by two runaway boxcars at the railroad crossing.

The cars were moving south at an estimated speed of 35-40 miles per hour and did not activate the signal lights at the crossing.

The ensuing collision killed 68-year-old Celene Yokich of Northville and injured the driver of the car, her husband George.

But Haire's heroics probably saved George Yokich's life.

After witnessing the accident, Haire wheeled through the Mobil gas station at the corner of Northville Road and Seven Mile and sped south down Northville Road.

After overtaking the Yokich vehicle, which was beginning to curl under the weight and force of the boxcars, Haire said he climbed out of his patrol car and ran along the tracks in an effort to jump the train.

He also saw a sight that made him even more determined to stop the boxcars.

"As I'm running up the tracks, he's (Yokich) waving to me," Haire said. "I didn't think anyone would be alive."

Haire said his actions were the result of a mass infusion of adrenaline.

"It was just a reaction," Haire said before his scheduled national television debut Tuesday. "I was running down the tracks trying to think what I was going to do to stop the boxcars."

"I knew there had to be wheel brakes and I just ran along and timed my jump," he said. "When I got on the boxcar, I turned the brakes clockwise and I could hear the ratchet and the brakes start to take hold."

"It seemed like an eternity."

To George Yokich, the tragedy seemed almost unreal.

"I think I went in shock right at the moment of the accident," he said from his winter home in New Port Richey, Fla. "I remember he sat me right on the rail and told me to stay calm, but I really don't recall much of what went on."

Yokich and Haire, friends who speak of each other in glowing terms, have differing accounts of why the Northville resident was not killed in the crash.

"He's probably one of the finest people I know," Haire said of the 73-year-old Yokich. "He's tough, and it just wasn't his time."

Yokich, since remarried, scoffed at the detective's appraisal. "Dave thinks I'm just too rotten to die," he laughed.

As for the television program, Haire said the portrayal of the accident was accurate.

"My first thought was that I hoped they didn't turn it into something Hollywood," he said. "I played all the parts but the scene where the boxcars are jumped."

Haire said the train-jumping scene was done with the train moving at a much slower speed than in the actual incident.

"You can fool some of the people all of the time, and all of the people some of the time; but you can't fool all of the people all of the time." Abraham Lincoln

Planners find themselves in need of formal bylaws every morning and the same number return in the evening." Richard and Linda Short, who live on Napier Road, wrote in a recent letter to the Novi City Council.

Last week's proposal came after the proposal and recommend a final draft. "I think it's very important that we adopt bylaws," he said.

previous debate by the planning commission on the role of liaisons in commission meetings (see related story).

"This issue was called to our attention in conjunction with the last planning commission meeting, when certain matters of procedure were brought up," Wortman wrote in his memo on the subject. "By-laws will help clarify procedural matters and can be worded to give the chairman the option of recognizing official city liaison members."

At that meeting, the commission approved a motion to designate a specific time for liaison members to speak at the beginning of each meeting, while the issue of how to handle their comments throughout the rest of the meeting was left up to the chairperson.

Wortman's proposal follows the same pattern. Under his proposal, the chairperson would "recognize members of the audience during the call to the public and during public hearings, and may also recognize members of the audience during other agenda items at his discretion."

According to City Manager Steven Walters, both Wortman and Stapleton made good points. "Some court cases have decided that because you don't have bylaws defined, you were being arbitrary," he said. But Northville's planning commission already uses both Robert's Rules of Order and other procedures, he said.

"Because of some court cases, it seems wise to codify some of these procedures," he added. "There are a lot of potential pitfalls if you don't have a procedure formalized in a board like the planning commission."

Court upholds residents' right to appeal Ward Church

Kaufman's decision pleased township resident and appeal plaintiff Sue Hillebrand.

"The judge granted standing for all of us," she said. "We're pretty excited about that."

Hillebrand said Kaufman cited the fact that 400 township residents had signed a petition asking the township to pass the 48-foot height ordinance. She said the petition was an indication that the plaintiffs were in good standing in the community.

Hillebrand said the residents will be required to file a brief by March 1. The brief will outline their arguments against the ZBA's variance.

"We're going to show that a hardship was not established by Ward Church," she said. "We've come this far and we'll pursue it to find out what the judge will determine."

Ward Church spokesperson Kelly Sharkey said the church wanted to limit its comments at this time.

"We're in a waiting mode right now," she said. "We're waiting for the plaintiff to submit documents."

Northville Township Attorney Ernest Essad, Jr. said the township and Ward Church, as defendants in the appeal, will be required to submit a brief to the judge 30 days after the plaintiff takes that action.

"We will file a brief to the court giving our version of the law (and what happened with the granting of the variance)," he said.

Kaufman may make a decision on the case at an oral argument date set for April 11, Essad said.

Essad said he would meet with the township Board of Trustees between now and the March 30 brief-filing deadline to determine the township's final strategy.

Our Opinions

Cluster housing in city needs to be understood

An idea to sustain residential growth in the city did not fall on deaf ears last week, but the planning commission did not seem overly enthused by the idea.

Neither are we.

Because while the idea of cluster housing does present new development opportunities for the city, it also presents potential pitfalls.

First, the terminology "cluster housing" leaves something to be desired. Yes, it does mean putting clusters of houses in one area. It can mean putting higher density "clusters" of houses in one section of land leaving a larger section open. But when it comes time to think about land in the city — that particular interpretation leaves a lot out.

"Cluster housing" can mean allowing development on properties that would otherwise be unable to be developed under the existing local ordinances, or allowing more development than would otherwise be possible.

Some of the potential pitfalls in cluster housing developments are overdevelopment of a site and building closer to the lot lines than would otherwise be desired — particularly by neighbors.

Cluster-housing options differ significantly in the city from that which exist in the township. In the township a developer may be given a cluster option because a large tract of woodlands could be saved by allowing the development extra density in the cleared portion of the site.

Obviously those opportunities are few and far between in the city. What comes to mind in the city are oddly shaped lots and lots just under the footage necessary to be buildable. This means some of the scarce space left in the city is "unbuildable" currently. The proposal presented to the commission would be a way to take some of that land and give it new life.

Planning Consultant Don Wortman pointed out — and rightly so — that many of the potential perils of cluster housing could be avoided with restrictions like setback requirements and lower density requirements. That is obviously something worth looking into.

Because one of the very real trade-offs of the "cluster housing" option is the fact that a cluster development may be lower priced than a traditional development project.

Commissioner Roland Stapleton spelled it out clearly when he said, "You're really talking about lower-cost housing." The hope is that the lower cost to the developer for such things as building common walls, can be passed on to potential buyers, making it more possible for first-time home buyers and senior citizens to purchase a home.

And that possibility is worth exploring further — albeit cautiously — as the commissioners decided. Northville needs to be a community of different economic backgrounds. Large expensive homes, small frame houses — and, yes, apartments and condominiums have a place within the city, and while we are not convinced that the cluster option is the only way to achieve this — it is worth exploring.

But residents should be aware of what the terminology "cluster" can mean. And planners need to walk around and decide just what little green space in the city is worth giving up.

Planners need bylaws to stop petty problems

The announcement by Planning Consultant Don Wortman at last week's planning commission meeting that the commission may be in violation of a state law caused quite a stir. The commissioners were suddenly faced with the possibility that decisions they make could come back to haunt them.

According to Wortman, the commission is technically in violation of a law requiring such bodies to adopt a formal set of bylaws.

Surrounding cities — including Novi, Plymouth, and Livonia — have all adopted specific bylaws for their planning commissions.

While it's a fine point, the point remains, and it gives developers wishing to argue the point a place to start.

For other boards, the point might not be so serious. But for the commission, which is called upon to cast a vote on the fate of developments in the city, any chance to argue an unfavorable decision could be seized upon by an irate builder with a good lawyer.

While the point should have no impact on previous decisions made by the commission, it does call into question the ongoing process.

And while Wortman made the right decision in notifying the commission of the law, the commission too made some wise decisions at last week's meeting — including choosing to appoint a committee to review Wortman's proposal rather than immediately adopting it. That committee is expected to report back to the commission at its next meeting.

Actually, the commission has been operating under a set of bylaws — Robert's Rules of Order. And those rules have been in use since American military engineer Henry Martyn Robert first published his book on parliamentary law in 1876.

But as Wortman pointed out, Robert's Rules may not cover everything that a modern-day planning commission must deal with. Adoption of a formal set of bylaws will also allow the commission to codify their handling of audience and liaison comments — an issue which has caused quite a stir itself.

We get letters. Some of them tell us we're wonderful. Those usually go in a little pile. Some of them tell us we're stupid. That pile is usually a little larger. Some of them offer a different perspective on an issue, or a personal look at a topic, or bring to our attention another idea or way to do something. That's usually the biggest pile.

You might think we hate to get mail. On the contrary, it's one of the high points of the day. (That may tell you a lot about the days around here.)

A healthy newspaper has a healthy letters section. If we're doing our job in the news and opinion sections of the paper then we're making people think, discuss — and if we're lucky, put their thoughts down on paper. Pontificating to a non-responding audience is not what we're all about.

When I talk to prospective reporters about our newspaper I try to give them a feel for Northville. I also try to convey to them the tradition of the newspaper in this town and the sense of community involvement and awareness that is here. I tell them that working as a reporter in Northville is not the easiest job they will ever have. Often the person we may have offended on the editorial page is the guy standing behind us in the checkout line at Shopping Center Market. Or he's fighting for a look at Sports Illustrated with us as we wait at the counter at Pizza Cutter.

In other words — we can run but we cannot hide. We don't take a shot at President Bush, safe in the knowledge that we aren't going to see him at the Starting Gate. When we write an editorial we continue to answer our phones, go out to lunch and take whatever criticism comes our way. It's only fair.

But what's even more fair is for you to hit back. Let me rephrase that — I'd hate to be taken literally. Write back. We get letters and we'd like to get more. When an issue is important enough to stand outside in February talking to the neighbor about — it's worth sending a few lines to the Record.

But if you do write us, do me a favor. Follow the rules we have for writing the letters. The first and biggest rule is — SIGN YOUR NAME. We get too many letters where people do not sign their names. And they don't leave their telephone number so we can call them up and explain the rule to them. In fact, the envelopes often have no return address and I swear have been wiped clear of fingerprints.

We do not print any unsigned letters unless the writer has given an explanation for withholding the signature. Even then the signature will only be withheld if the writer fears bodily harm, severe persecution or loss of his or her job.

So don't be a stranger. Write

Snakin' around

Do unto others

By Bob Needham

Churches regularly engage in special service projects to help the people who need a little help. Probably every church in Northville has its valuable projects in which its members donate time, energy and money to make the world a better place.

At the risk of slighting all those worthy efforts, I think a project planned by Our Lady of Victory deserves a little special notice.

The church is preparing to play host to a group of 60 homeless people during a one-week period next month. The project runs in conjunction with the Cass Homeless Drop-in Center in Detroit.

Crowding at the Detroit shelter spurred this project, in which many churches are agreeing to play host for a week. Our Lady of Victory is the first church outside Detroit to participate.

Record Staff Writer Steve Kellman wrote a couple of interesting stories about the program. In one of them he mentions that this is not the church's only commitment to the homeless community in Detroit.

Several members of the congregation travel to St. Leo's Soup Kitchen one Saturday a month to serve a hot meal. This, too, is part of a cooperative effort. The soup kitchen has regular volunteers to serve during the week, but on Saturday the work rotates between other churches. Last year I had the chance to see this program in action, and it really emphasized the importance of such volunteer efforts.

It can be easy to live in the more well-off suburban areas and feel very distant from the problems of homelessness. You may have heard the same news reports I have, the ones that say practically every community has some homeless people. Maybe I'm naive, but it seems hard to believe there are homeless people who stay around Northville — simply because I can't picture any place where they might stay overnight.

Northville's distance, or perceived distance, from the problem makes the efforts at Our Lady of Victory that much more praiseworthy. The parishioners involved in these projects clearly understand the underlying connectedness between the city and the suburbs. And they're doing what they can to make things better.

As I said, I know all the churches in town engage in valuable service projects. But homelessness is such a pressing issue today, hearing about the shelter effort really hit home with me. Our Lady of Victory deserves thanks for taking these steps to address a problem, and to remind us the problem exists in the process.

Proposed landfill "short-sighted"

To the Editor:

The Holloway Construction Company has asked the Oakland County Solid Waste Committee to approve their request for a private landfill for construction waste.

The proposed location would be property on the north-east corner of Eight Mile and Napier Road, just within the Novi City, Oakland County borders. This property, 78 acres, is currently being mined for sand and gravel by the Holloway Company. I was told when mining began this land was zoned residential and would be a subdivision when the mining was completed. The site is located directly across from the beautiful 900-plus acre Maybury State Park and Maybury Farm. It is also two miles north of an existing type II landfill previously owned by the Holloway Company, presently owned by BFI. There are several nice homes with property and many horse farms in the area.

Oakland County has recommended the site for inclusion in their Solid Waste Plan. Right now this plan and the new landfill proposal draft are up for a 90-day review by the public. This review period is from Dec. 27, 1989 to Feb. 21, 1990. It is very important for concerned citizens to send letters voicing their opinions on this matter. It is also critical to attend the public hearing on March 1, 1990, where you can ask questions and voice concerns. At the very least send a letter to be read into the minutes of this meeting, stating your opinions.

I admit Novi stands to earn a great deal of revenue from this landfill project in a honest community agreement with the Holloway Company. However, in a booming growth area such as Novi, with the demand for homes and the land on which to build new homes, I feel the landfill is short-sighted and is greatly endangering the "quality of life" due all citizens in the area.

As I call the various government officials at both the local and county levels, I am told there is no need to be alarmed. That this type of landfill is not dangerous as it will only hold tree stumps, concrete, construction waste, etc. I am not consoled!

Point No. 1. As population continues to grow rapidly in Oakland County, the need for more type II landfill space will increase. Solid-waste acts are always being updated to accommodate changing needs. I have been assured by Oakland County officials that it is very hard to upgrade a landfill from one type to another.

But I have lived next to a landfill, construction waste type, that was upgraded to a type II as demand increased in another part of the state. So I am not convinced nor trusting of officials promises when these officials may not even be in office when future problems arise. The type II landfill currently operating at Six Mile and Napier (previously owned by the Holloway Co.) was expanded another 150-plus acres in size recently despite residents' fears over proven contamination at the existing site!

The burden of proof, by the way, falls on local citizens, not the state or DNR. It took a citizens group several thousands of persons dollars to prove soil contamination was occurring before state or county officials started their own tests. The cleanup still has not taken place years later!

Point No. 2. Who will monitor what is actually being dumped? What will the penalties be for illegal dumping? What are the plans for this land after it is done being a landfill? Will asphalt debris, oil and chemically treated telephone poles, asbestos, etc. be allowed at this site? Who will be constantly on hand, if anyone, to address these concerns and monitor this landfill?

I am greatly opposed to this proposed landfill. The concerns mentioned above have not been adequately addressed. I am not convinced contamination will not occur over time.

There is already a landfill two miles away. Whereas no one wants a landfill in their backyard, I already have one in my backyard and feel it very unjust to have to have one in my front yard now too! The unique city and county borders of this area keep me from even being able to vote on these landfills I must live with every day.

I feel the natural environment of Maybury Park is threatened. There will be an increased danger to residents with the ensuing increase in large truck traffic over what are already poor gravel roads. Landfills are noisy, stinky, unsightly, attract large flocks of messy gulls and rodents, and this is an extremely poor use of limited valuable land in Novi.

I urge all concerned citizens to attend the March 1 public hearing at 7:30 p.m. at the Board of Commissioners Auditorium County Courthouse Complex, 1200 N. Telegraph, Pontiac, 48053, and to write letters voicing their concerns to the Novi City Council — 45175 Ten Mile Road, Novi, Michigan 48050.

Write to Mr. Gerry Miley, Oakland County Solid Waste Planning Commission, Oakland County Department of Public Works, 1 Public Works Drive, Pontiac, Mich. 48054, phone 858-1087.

This is a most serious matter and your voices and letters are needed.

To the Editor:

When our family moved here in 1972 everyone in town and in the subdivisions came into town for their entertainment and to do their errands. Everything was here. There were three grocery stores — A & P, Kroger, and Chatham, along with a bowling alley, movie theater, furniture store, TV appliance store, Genetti's meat market and the D & C (5 & 10 cent store) . . . all gone.

The very reason we all came to Northville was the small-town atmosphere where you could come into town to do your errands and always see at least one friend or neighbor. Many say they don't come into town anymore because of the parking problem. That may be part of the problem, but slowly the very reasons for coming into town are being chipped away, and now there is talk of taking away the library.

If we are not careful, our city that once was "a typical small-town USA" will be nothing but a facade of beautiful old Victorian buildings housing shops for tourists and will look more like "Main Street — Disneyland Style".

Wouldn't it be more practical if Mrs. Haller could donate the land on Sheldon and Six Mile roads to the people, but without the stipulation to build a 44,800-square-foot library that will cost the taxpayers five to seven million dollars just for the building alone. I can envision the library staying in the city (there are still options open for this to happen), the donated land could be utilized to build a community center with meeting rooms, the memorabilia room for Mr. Haller's mementos, an auditorium, etc. and the rest of the property could be made into athletic fields.

If she so desired, we could name the library in town "The Haller Library" in commemoration of her husband and for the kind donation of the land for community use.

Maybe I am just a dreamer, but I feel there must be a compromise. It is a marvelous gesture on the part of Mrs. Haller to donate that valuable piece of land for community use, but it may be our downfall. Not everyone wants the library out of the city. This very issue may divide the city and township. Maybe I am just a dreamer, but I feel there must be a compromise.

Nancy Bohn
Member of Concerned Residents of Northville

Not babysitters

To the Editor:

In her column "On the Fence" in the Feb. 1, 1990 issue, the writer suggests that, ideally speaking, a library should be in what she terms "a commercial area" so that residents can "drop the kids off at the library on Saturday morning — run a few errands, then pick them up."

Surely we are not suggesting that the Northville Public Library staff provide a babysitting service in addition to carrying out its professional duties. As I thought about this question, I came up with a list of at least 25 things the staff rightfully would consider part of its job description. Let's use our staff members for what they have spent thousands and thousands of dollars and years of time learning to do and for which we the taxpayers pay them good money to do, and not expect them to look after our children.

Furthermore, I would suggest that children learn more about the joys and value of libraries and what they do if they see their parents using the library at the same time they do. It would also be a time for children to observe their parents' respect for the library as well as the behavior expected while there.

To address one other point briefly, Northville will find a new library of the size specified by Frieda Haller to be somewhat large for now, but let us not forget that the present library was too small the very day it opened 11 years ago. Let's not make that mistake again.

Furthermore, it will be less costly in the long run to build a library that may serve the community indefinitely rather than build a smaller library now and a branch in several years when land — if it is available — and building costs could reasonably be expected to be higher.

The original goal of the library site committee was to find a spot to accommodate a 25,000-square-foot library and adequate parking. Although the proposed library may be somewhat larger than that, the extra space will provide other things our community so desperately lacks — rooms and auditoriums of various sizes for meetings, conferences, symposiums, etc.

Let us not be short-sighted when it comes to replacing our woefully inadequate library.

Betty Griffin
Member, Library Site Committee

precludes the time, inconvenience and cost of relying on libraries in neighboring communities. Small business people, students and families need the library close at hand; they need it to be responsive to the particular needs and focus of the Northville community.

Of course, there are also the children. The development of all children, not just our own, needs to be a community priority (it is clear by your gift that you feel this way too, Mrs. Haller). When it is their turn to run the community, we will want independent, moral and knowledgeable decision-makers. School libraries generally match the limited needs of the school curriculum. The public library you are helping us to build will help the schools, but will also go beyond their mission and help to generate in children a thrill for learning independently through accessible resources and library activities.

Most of all, Mrs. Haller, we like to read. We like the access to cleverness, genius, poetry and fun. A new library will make these, happily, available in greater supply. Thank you for your kind consideration of strangers.

Join forces

To the Editor:

Although I feel the library project at $5 million and $500,000/year operating costs is fiscally irresponsible, there is one condition in which I could support the project: A merger of the City of Northville and the Township at the current Township tax rate. Consider:

- Both entities support relatively small populations, hence, could easily be combined (Novi supports a larger population).
- The city needs a commercial tax base and has little vacant land.
- A combination of the city and township would allow costs on projects like the library to be spread over a larger base; therefore, millage increases will be less.
- There would be no need for city and township officials to have special meetings and negotiations.
- Traffic issues could be better coordinated.
- A stronger government body would result to deal with developers, zoning issues, legal questions, etc.

I therefore propose the following:

- Merge the city and township into a new "City of Northville."
- Hold an election to select officials for the new government (last election the city did not have a "critical mass" large enough to have a contest for mayor).
- Reduce city taxes to township levels (and services as required to reach this level).
- The boundaries of the new government body would be the union of the current city and township.
- Consolidate police, public works, building departments, etc.
- Hire an outside consultant to recommend merged government staffing levels to avoid governmental "sand bagging."

Under this proposal city residents would save $750 (for a $100,000 home) to $3,000 (for a $400,000 home) per year. Both city and township residents would benefit from the elimination of redundant services and economics of scale.

As a city resident, I would tolerate not having salt put on my street several times a day and sidewalks rammed down my throat (at my expense) in exchange for a 20-percent reduction in property taxes.

The private sector is currently undergoing massive consolidation to remain competitive. With the schools, city and township constantly dipping into our wallets, I think its about time the "public" sector did the same.

Tom Walsh

Haller thanked

To the Editor:

An open letter to Mrs. Frieda Haller:

Dear Mrs. Haller,

We want to express our gratitude for your generous gift of land to the Northville community. We understand how valuable property in this area is. It is so valuable, in fact, that finding affordable space for common-use projects like a library is becoming almost impossible!

By giving us your land you have made this stumbling block disappear. We can build a library at 1990 costs which we will not have to worry about quickly outgrowing. On our own, we would have built a smaller facility which would have forced us to more quickly expand or build a branch at what will be the undoubtedly higher costs of the future. Because of your gift, the money we might have had to spend on land and/or property improvements can be spent instead on media resources and a building. And, we feel strongly that Northville needs to spend money on such an important public resource.

A strong public library is a resource we all need and cannot individually afford. Books go out of print before we know we need them. Librarians are trained to build a collection that will serve the needs and interests we don't yet perceive. A strong Northville community library

Jeweler continues age-old designs

By PHYLLIS STILLMAN

The Village Goldsmith is not your average jewelry store.

When you walk into the store, at 400 N. Main in Milford's Village Center Mall, you won't see a lot of display cases. Instead, what you'll probably find is a goldsmith on a stool with a flaming torch making jewelry one piece at a time.

"The Village Goldsmith is different from other jewelry stores in the area mainly because I do make everything in my store. We'll start off with a design, come up with a wax, a model, and cast it, set it and polish it — right from the beginning to the end," said store owner Al Hummer, a jewelry designer and goldsmith. "I want to stay very small. I don't have any employees. I just work by myself."

Hummer is a creative person who wants to design pieces especially for the customer. "I have very, very little in the way of inventory because I want to make everything. I don't want to have a bunch of things in a showcase and have people come in and pick something out and buy it. It's easy money, but every person that comes in I want to make something for them so that they can have something that's personal — one of a kind."

"The whole business is a challenge, if you make your own pieces. I don't like to go out and buy a ring from a manufacturer, finished, and stick it in my showcase and sell it. Every piece in here is personal and I enjoy that," Hummer explained.

But Hummer's custom jewelry isn't as expensive as you might think. Price ranges are similar to traditional jewelry stores featuring ready-made pieces.

What if you want something special but don't have any idea what you want? Hummer has a large photo album that illustrates some of the pieces he has designed.

The pieces range from whimsical (frog or cat rings with diamonds for eyes) to elegant (an opera-length matched pearl necklace which features a pendant with interchangeable stones that snap out in the front, a diamond and pearl clasp in the back, and a pearl shortener so the necklace can be different lengths in the front and in the back).

He also has several showcases with pieces he's designed and made for stock. Hummer can see what he wants to make before he makes it.

"When I look at a stone, if I'm making it for my own stock, I can visualize what it's going to look like before I start." One of his in-stock pieces is a unique and beautiful pearl and diamond watch. He also has a number of rings featuring many different stones in unusual settings.

If you do want something specially made, Hummer will come up with a concept and illustrate it for you. "I do a colored drawing. You can get a good idea from my drawing what a piece is going to look like." He especially enjoys designing one-of-a-kind engagement and wedding rings. "I sit down with them and we work together on a design."

"Goldsmithing has been around since the beginning of time. Women and men have been wearing jewelry and adorning themselves with that, accenting their look. Even cavemen used to wear teeth around their necks and bones through their noses. It's a pretty old profession — one of the oldest professions in the world."

Hummer has been designing and making jewelry for 24 years. He started out doing restoration work, which he still enjoys.

"I kind of specialize in restoration. I started out in that, restoring old Victorian jewelry, working for an antique shop. He (the owner) would go to Europe and buy broken pieces of old jewelry. There might be a side or a leaf missing or a whole section worn out. I would rebuild that piece and make it look like the original piece did."

Hummer also works with materials many other jewelers won't handle. "I specialize in platinum work, which a lot of jewelers don't do anymore. It's not that much more expensive than gold, but it's very difficult to work with. It takes a tremendous amount of heat to melt it and to cast it. But I really enjoy it because it's a challenge."

Although he wants his business to remain small, Hummer has plans to broaden his merchandise. "This year I'll be getting into a lot of coins. I'm going to start working with coin jewelry and selling the coins."

"I also do corporate work. I specialize in making special pieces for executives and their employees. I've done up to 500 pieces and they can all be different."

In his photo album, you can see pictures of some of his corporate work. One is a pin which features a "big rig." "This was a trucking company, so what I did was I set diamonds or rubies in the headlights. I would hand engrave on the back the name of the person and the year."

The Village Goldsmith opened in Milford about a year ago. Hummer had a shop in Windsor for 15 years, but after marrying a woman from Milford he moved into the area.

The Village Goldsmith shares space with the Nature and Man Gallery, a very suitable pairing. Nature and Man Gallery searches all over the world for unique, handcrafted items; the Village Goldsmith sells unique, handcrafted jewelry.

There's another plus — Nature and Man Gallery stocks a number of precious and semi-precious stones. You can pick out one of the stones and have The Village Goldsmith turn it into a one-of-a-kind piece of jewelry.

The Village Goldsmith is open from 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Thursday, 9:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Friday and 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday.

Private Ledger's Deanna Lee Miller and Richard P. Probst

PRIVATE LEDGER FINANCIAL SERVICES, Inc., a California-based financial services firm, has opened a new office in Northville. The office, which is owned and operated by Deanna Lee Miller and Richard P. Probst, provides clients with personal investment services like stocks, tax-free bonds, mutual funds and other investment options.

The pair bring over 14 years experience in personal investment services. Both claim that personal service sets Private Ledger apart from other investment firms.

"We are always here for our clients," said Miller. "I've seen the way clients are too often treated at other firms. That doesn't happen here. We try to treat our clients like family."

Probst said, "We do things here not found elsewhere. For example we provide mutual fund monitoring to help our clients prevent losses, and use a proven strategy which uses specific criteria for selecting stocks. We've found that many people really don't know their own net worth. They may have insurance, stocks or funds being handled by a number of different organizations. We take a hard look at our clients' complete portfolio and prepare a single comprehensive statement."

The new Private Ledger office is located at 200 North Center just north of Main Street, in Northville. For more information call Private Ledger at 347-7424.

CADILLAC ASPHALT PAVING COMPANY is pleased to announce winning a quality paving award in competition sponsored by the Michigan Asphalt Paving Association. Cadillac Asphalt placed second in projects over 20,000 tons of asphalt for the quality resurfacing of Eastbound I-94, from Masonic to Joy Boulevard, in Macomb County.

The award winning plaques were presented to William Reid, project administrator for Cadillac Asphalt Paving Company, Bonnie Bussard, Michigan Department of Transportation project engineer, and Al Williams, Michigan Department of Transportation district representative.

Michigan Asphalt Paving Association sponsors a quality paving competition each year on various sized projects built throughout the State of Michigan. This is the second consecutive year that Cadillac Asphalt has won a quality paving award in this competition.

'Tis the season to ask tax questions

To help taxpayers get a head start on their 1989 tax returns, the Michigan Association of CPAs has supplied the answers to some of the most commonly asked questions on 1989 taxes.

What are the tax rates for 1989?

They are the same as last year. The good news is that the brackets have been adjusted for inflation. As a result, you can earn a little more money before moving into a higher tax bracket.

I served on jury duty recently and had to surrender the check to my employer. Will I still have to declare the jury-duty pay as income?

Yes. But a new tax law will enable you to take a deduction for that same amount — even if you don't itemize. As a result, you will no longer be taxed on money you didn't actually keep.

My son received a scholarship for the past school year. Will he have to report the money as taxable income?

The answer depends on how the money is used and whether your son is a degree candidate. Scholarships or fellowships made after Aug. 16, 1986, are tax-free only for degree candidates who use the funds for tuition and course-related expenses.

You can no longer exclude from income any money awarded for such expenses as room, board and travel. Nor can you exclude any funds received in return for teaching or research services — even if they are required for the degree.

I sold some stocks this year. How do I figure out how much capital gain or loss I need to report?

Basically, you calculate the amount of gain or loss by subtracting the amount you paid for the investment from the amount you sold it for. The latter information is provided on the 1099-B form that your broker or mutual fund will send you. If you haven't received your statement by the time you're ready to fill out your return, you're not off the hook — a gain must still be reported.

Keep in mind that certain activities, such as participation in a dividend reinvestment program, may make calculating gain a tricky matter. In these cases, your best option may be consulting a CPA.

I'm self-employed and maintain an office at home. Will I be able to deduct my business expenses?

If the space in your home is used regularly and exclusively for business and is separate from your living space, you may be able to deduct a percentage of the costs of running your house, including your utilities and even a home security system. But keep in mind that the home-office deduction may be a red flag for IRS audits.

What are the guidelines for deducting IRA contributions?

You can still fully deduct your IRA if neither you nor your spouse participated in an employer's retirement plan in 1989, or if your adjusted gross income is under $25,000, if single, or $40,000, if married. Once you satisfy either of these requirements, you can shelter up to $2,000, if single and up to $4,000 if married and both spouses work. If only one spouse works, the most you can contribute is $2,250.

What happens if I do participate in a retirement plan and make more money than the limits allow?

If you (or your spouse) are covered by a company-sponsored plan, the amount of your IRA deduction will drop by $200 for every $1,000 of adjusted gross income over the income limits just mentioned.

Has the deduction for personal interest changed again?

Yes. For 1989, you can only deduct 20 percent of the interest charged on consumer loans and credit cards. This year, the deduction drops to 10 percent. And in 1991, the deduction will disappear entirely.

I recently bought my first home. What deductions are available to homeowners?

First of all, if you paid points to obtain a mortgage, you may be entitled to deduct these in full this year. Also, you can deduct any other mortgage interest you pay (within limits), as well as your property taxes.

Do I have to pay tax on the gain from selling my home?

That depends. Generally, you can defer the gain from selling your primary residence by buying another home of equal or greater value sometime within 24 months of the date of the sale. Alternately, if you are at least age 55 or older and meet certain qualifications, you may be able to exclude from taxable income up to $125,000 in gain by claiming a special provision of the tax law. Ask your CPA for details. In either case, you will still have to report the sale of your home on Form 2119.

Have the rules on miscellaneous and medical deductions changed?

No. The rules in 1989 are exactly the same as those in effect in 1988. Miscellaneous expenses are deductible only to the extent that they exceed 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. Medical expenses are deductible only to the extent they exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income.

For more information on 1989 tax rules, you can request a copy of "The CPA's Survival Guide for Taxpayers" from the Michigan Association of CPAs by writing to P.O. Box 9054, Farmington Hills, MI 48333. Please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

WARNING:

RADON IS DEADLY IN THIS AREA.

You can't see it, smell it or even feel it. It just quietly attacks your lungs, until one day you find you have lung cancer.

It's called Radon. A naturally occurring, radioactive gas that seeps into your home. In fact, it is the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If your home has high levels of Radon, you're being exposed to as much radiation as having literally hundreds of chest x-rays in one year.

But there is something you can do about it. Testing for Radon is simple and inexpensive. And homes with high levels can be fixed. Call 1-800-SOS-RADON to get your test information.

Cris Hertubise (above), of Woodmasters Furniture Shop in Milford, sands a chair before applying a new finish. Stripping the old finish, be it paint or varnish, is the messiest part of refinishing process. Woodmasters owner John Rybski (left) wears long rubber gloves to protect his hands and arms from the stripping chemicals

Refinishing touches Antiques can be made to look as good as new

By Cristina Ferrier

Hidden away in basements, attics and garages across the nation are millions of potentially valuable antiques.

They're gathering dust and grime in damp corners, acting as shelves to hold boxes of Christmas decorations, or maybe holding cans of paint and tools and car parts while someone uses them as workbenches.

Eventually many of them are thrown away when people move because the owners don't think the pieces are salvageable.

But John Rybski, owner of the Woodmasters Furniture Service repair and restoration shop in Milford thinks that there is no such thing as a piece of furniture that can't be made to look as good as new, especially if that piece is an older one made of solid wood.

"A lot of people bring in furniture that looks really bad — that's been sitting in someone's basement for a long time or has a lot of old paint on it — and they're kind of embarrassed about it. They ask, 'Can you do anything with this?' People don't realize there's hope for their old stuff," Rybski said.

People often are very surprised when they see how an old piece of furniture can look after it's been stripped of its old finish, sanded smooth, stained and refinished.

In addition, Rybski takes broken furniture and repairs it, sometimes building the missing parts by hand.

Furniture can be refinished by a professional, like Rybski, or it can be done at home. Those who have never tried stripping and refinishing furniture before should first practice on a piece of scrap wood, and then try a small project before attempting any larger projects.

Rybski said he gets many phone calls from people doing their own furniture restoration seeking free advice, and he doesn't mind giving it out.

One man called him seven times one weekend for advice about a toy chest he was working on. Rybski said he's never seen the toy chest, but the man later told him it turned out nicely.

"I don't mind the free advice because one day they might run into something they can't do and they might bring it to me," he said.

Rybski said that, while he has never seen furniture destroyed by an attempt at restoration, he has seen projects in which the owners get to a point where they don't know what to do next because the project isn't going the way it should.

People often bring these projects to him. "A lot of people are too embarrassed to say they did it," he laughed. "They'll say they bought it like that. And they'll still have stain on their hands."

The cost of restoring a piece of furniture is usually about half of what it would likely cost to buy a similar piece new.

But the restored antique can become a highly valuable item. If you have a piece of furniture that is over 50 years old, it is considered an antique. The value would depend on the actual piece.

According to Don Russell, an antique dealer who works at Pegasus Antiques in South Lyon, if the finish on an antique is still good, it should be left alone.

"(Antique) furniture should only be stripped if it's in bad shape," Russell advised. "When you restore an antique, you're putting on a finish that doesn't go with the time period, so if the piece is still in good condition, it's better to leave it alone."

Russell said that if you decide an antique looks bad enough to be refinished, you may want to consider sending it to a professional.

"But if you're going to do it yourself, be super cautious," he said. "Practice it first. Put the furniture stripper on a piece of scrap wood. Do it wrong and you'll see how bad it will look."

Both Rybski and Russell said that the most important point to remember when stripping furniture is to be careful with the chemicals used to take off the old finish. Work in a well ventilated area and stay well away from any open flames because the chemicals are highly flammable. Protect your hands with gloves and wear a shirt with long sleeves. Read the instructions carefully before starting and, most importantly, wear safety glasses.

The liquid chemicals that remove old finishes are sold under several brand names, including Zip Strip, Strip-Eze and others. Rybski said that he thinks they are all basically the same and all work equally well.

To start the job, the furniture stripper is spread over the old finish in a thick layer and allowed to sit before it is scraped off. The old paint and varnish will come off with the chemicals. "This is the messiest part of the job," Rybski said.

Russell said that he recommends removing old paint with a paint scraper only, instead of using chemicals. While it is much more time consuming, he said, it will not raise the wood grain on the furniture.

Either method, however, will produce the same result, according to Rybski, if you carefully sand the wood afterwards. Sanding is also necessary to prepare the wood for refinishing.

The next step is staining the wood. Use a soft cloth, not a brush, and wipe off any excess.

Rybski recommended the use of stain because the old finish and the stripping process will leave the wood discolored. However, for an interesting antique effect, some people might prefer to skip the staining process.

After the staining is done and the piece is dry, it is time to apply the finish. Rybski recommends "Deft," a lacquer-based product which can be sprayed or painted on. Because it is very fast drying, he said, there won't be a problem with dust particles getting trapped on the surface. Rybski recommends at least three coats of finish.

After the final coat of finish has dried, Rybski rubs the surface with steelwool — the finest available, known as grade "0000" — and some Murphy's Oil Soap. "Most people like to touch the furniture, and that makes it nice and smooth," he said.

Finally, Rybski recommended lemon oil and beeswax to polish the furniture. But if you don't have any of that around the house, he also recommended Guardsman furniture polish.

Even if the piece is not a highly valuable antique, older furniture is often more solidly built than furniture made in the last 10 or 20 years. "You compare the old to the new and there is no comparison," Rybski said. "Furniture made today is basically disposable furniture. It will fall apart and people will throw it away because it has gone out of style."

Much of the furniture made in the 1980s, even expensive furniture, has been constructed of particleboard covered with an actual photograph of wood grain. The insides of drawers have been covered with a wood grain contact paper to give the impression that the furniture is solid wood.

Rybski's favorite restoration projects are large ones, such as old pianos. He said that a woman once brought her father's old piano, that had been sitting in the basement for years and fell into a state of disrepair, to his shop for restoration.

When the piano was finished, he said, she brought her father with her to pick it up. When he saw it, he was so touched by the way it looked that he sat down and played it for nearly half an hour, right there in the shop.

"People get sentimental about furniture, especially if it's something that used to be in grandma's house," Rybski said.

Designs for Living

It's perfect for large family

By James McAlexander

The sweeping curved driveway approach of the Zenith 3 passes under a covered "passenger drop" front entry.

The impressive double-door entrance leads into a spacious multiuse entry with coat closet and a bay-windowed dining area. Just ahead of the main doors is the stairway and beyond the stairs a huge sunken living room with fireplace wall and access to the rear deck area.

The large, functional kitchen is located above the dining area and features a central island with mixing area and vegetable bin, a cooktop and wall oven, a dishwasher, a built-in desk and a solarium nook.

Just off the kitchen are a freezer and a large walk-in pantry.

Opposite the pantry is a guest room/maid's quarters/sewing room with double closet space. This room has its own private full bath.

At the head of the hallway into this area is a fully equipped utility room, storage closet, half-bath and an entrance to the attached garage.

To the left of the main doors is a private hallway leading to the entertainment area of the home. A den with a fireplace wall, storage closet and access to the rear decks is located here, opposite a full bath with shower and a bay-window wall.

A linen closet is located in this hallway, which leads to a double-doored game room with storage space and a private glassed-in spa. The game room also contains a fully equipped wet bar that features an exit to the rear deck and a service bar on the rear deck with window access from the interior wet bar.

This main floor contains 2,536 square feet of living space.

The 770-square-foot upper level is the private living quarters of the home.

The stairway leads to a large library loft with bay windows and built-in bookshelves. The balcony overlooks the living room below.

To the right of the landing are two bedrooms with large closets and a full bath with two wash basins.

To the left of the main landing is the master suite, which is entered through double doors and includes a fireplace wall, a huge walk-in closet and private bath with double basins and a vanity, a shower and an over-size soaking tub.

Designed for the needs of a large family and/or a family that enjoys entertaining and company, the Zenith 3 is a stylish home with truly unique lines. Spacious, impressive and truly livable, the Zenith 3 is the answer to many dreams.

For a study plan of the Zenith 3 (222-83), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Stimulate infant with bright colors in nursery

By Rose Bennett Gilbert

Q: Expecting our first child in two months—at age 36—I've already given notice at work. I plan to stay home and enjoy this baby.

We're also determined to create a stimulating environment for him/her to grow up in, beginning with the nursery. How should we decorate?—M.M.

A: With color and pattern, and lots of both.

Nurseries done up in namby-pamby pastels may fulfill adults' ideas of how a baby should live, but psychologists tell us that infants really need the stimulation of bright colors and dramatic patterns. It helps them learn to focus their eyes in the first place, and then will keep their little brains working during all the hours all babies spend in their cribs.

Remember what you learned in Psych 101 about studies proving that orphaned infants left mostly alone in an all-white environment—sheets, crib, ceiling—became listless and withdrawn for lack of stimulation. There is even a danger they might die of sheer boredom.

Anything but boring, the little attic nursery we show here is a stimulating riot of primary colors and exuberant patterns that run up the wall and dance over the covered trunk and chair pillows.

In crayon—box colors, it might be enough to keep an adult awake at night, but to a baby, it says that the world's an interesting place.

Q: For three moves, we have hauled around an old footed bath tub and pedestal sink, waiting for the right bathroom in which to install our antique treasures.

We have it, at last, and want to go all out to create a vintage Victorian bath setting. What else do we need?—C.D.

A: A sense of whimsy is about all. The Victorians so loved their bath—it was, remember, an indoor convenience invented in the mid-1800s—that they lavished as much attention on it as any room in the house.

To quote the author of "Victorian Splendor," the bathroom "fast became a source of status—a luxury to be shown off proudly to visitors."

At the same time, she points out, the Victorians' fabled prudishness led them to conceal the "less-than-delicate purpose" of the bathroom: They often had enclosures built around the tub, sink and the toilet in an attempt to make them look like furniture.

The rest of the bath often was dressed like any other room, with polished hardwood floors, wainscoting on the walls and lavish fabrics.

Given today's technological advances you can copy the look without worry. Polyurethane will protect wood floors, if you want them; vinyl wall coverings will stand up to splashed and moisture, and there is a raft of reproductions to choose from, including "gas" lights, wood wall-tank "water closets" and a ring shower for your own footed tub.

New tubs of the claw-footed type are available for those not lucky enough to own the real thing; also pedestal sinks and tank toilets (the Kohler Co. is one top manufacturer of such golden oldies).

Reproduction hardware also abounds. Time was when you could find it only by mail-order, but now everything from soap holders to hinges and old-fashioned faucets is easy to come by.

Add a few antique decorative elements—an oak mirror, a wicker chaise, a framed print of "September Morn"—and you can sink up to your neck in nostalgia.

Q: During a recent trip to California,

I noticed that nearly every home we visited had ceramic tile everywhere in their kitchen—floors, splashbacks, even walls and countertops.

I loved the look of tiles on the counters, but isn't it difficult as a work surface? And what about crumbs in the cracks?—E.D.

A: That depends on what kind of tile you choose.

Yes, those great-looking handmade tiles can be uneven and irregular on the surface, but that's a large part of their charm.

Most manufactured ceramic tiles are quite uniform and can be installed to form a smooth, even countertop.

There will, of course, always be a grout seam between the tiles that can catch crumbs and such. But that's a minor nuisance... plus, special grouts are now available that will help retard the growth of any germs in the cracks.

I'm all for ceramic tile in the kitchen. It's one California idea that deserves to sweep east across the nation.

Rose Bennett Gilbert is the author of five books on interior design, associate editor of Country Decorating and a contributing writer to other publications in the field.

Around the House:

Entertaining

Brunch time munch time for weekend entertainers

By Carol Cutler

There are all sorts of sound reasons that weekend brunches have become so popular.

First of all, the mornings, especially Sunday, tend to be lazy mornings—sleeping in and wading through the pounds of newspaper.

Since breakfast is eaten later than usual, no one is ready for lunch. Why not bridge the two—breakfast and lunch combined—and so was born the once-novel idea of brunch.

On the practical side, entertaining at home with a brunch party is one of the easiest and least expensive meals you can offer to guests. Meat and fish play relatively minor roles in the menu. The emphasis is more on eggs, cheese, breads and even pastas.

Unless you are the kind of person who wakes up bright-eyed and bouncy, prepare as much of the menu as possible the night before. Also set the table, check the bar and give the house a quick once-over. A last-minute touch-up to the bathroom should wait until morning.

Brunch can easily stretch into a long, lazy afternoon, which provides the perfect occasion for experimenting with unusual alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages. Bloody Marys and Mimosas are popular choices, but instead of champagne, why not try a fruitily white wine such as a Mosel from Germany or a Sylvaner from Alsace.

You might try a punch based on sparkling wine or some hot mulled wine on a chilly afternoon. If you can't decide whether your budget is beer poor or champagne rich, pour them both and enjoy a Black Velvet.

Fruit juice punches are very refreshing and pretty, especially when sliced fresh fruit garnished each cup.

Bottled waters are a necessary item on today's bar list. Don't spend the extra money to buy flavored waters. Pass them up and squeeze in your own fresh lemon, lime or orange.

The main course of a brunch can reach into many directions. By staying away from meat and fish dishes, you will save a lot of money. Pancakes and waffles would be a great treat.

To make them really special, provide several unusual toppings. In addition to the requisite maple syrup (pure, please), Beat orange juice into softened butter, a few drops of orange liqueur adds extra kick. Stir maple syrup or raspberry jam into softened cream cheese. Fresh apple compote makes yet another distinctive garnish.

If you are adept to poaching eggs (really an easy matter), classic Eggs Benedict would bring praise. But even plain old scrambled eggs, with a twist, could star. Just before the eggs are completely cooked, stir in some mashed kiwi fruit. Your guests will be surprised how crisply the slightly acidic edge of kiwi cuts into the richness of the eggs. Even a wee bit of smoked salmon can highlight scrambled eggs.

Quiches and tarts are very reliable and substantial main courses. The fillings can star tomatoes, mushrooms, onions, asparagus and any variety of cheese. Has Quiche Lorraine been out been out of fashion long enough to bring it back? I hope so.

A Sunday afternoon is a perfect time to rediscover why the soda fountain of yesteryear was such a popular institution. Offer ice cream sodas and milk shakes and watch your guests' eyes light up.

Whatever else you are planning for dessert, provide some fruit for those who would rather eat lightly at mid-day. Coffee should be plentiful and strong, of course, but don't forget your tea-drinking friends.

Inexpensive main courses that take only minutes to prepare can still be unusual. Spaghetti with Parsley Sauce is one such example. The pasta is delicately sauced, not overwhelmed.

Spaghetti with Parsley Sauce

3 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon salt
1 pound spaghetti
½ cup butter
2 garlic cloves, minced
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese; extra cheese optional
Salt and pepper
3 cups roughly chopped parsley leaves

Yields 4 to 5 servings.

Bring about 4 quarts water to boil and add 2 tablespoon oil and salt. Add spaghetti slowly to maintain rolling boil and cook uncovered for about 7 minutes or until al dente at once and shake colander vigorously to extrude as much water as possible.

Meanwhile, melt butter with remaining tablespoon of oil in large, flat, preferable heavy skillet. Add garlic and simmer just a half minute while stirring with wooden spoon. Add cooked spaghetti, Parmesan cheese, a little salt and generous grinding of pepper.

Toss well to coat spaghetti strands with butter. Cover, reduce heat and reheat for 1 minute. Turn off heat, add parsley and toss well. Transfer to a deep, warmed serving bowl. Pass optional extra Parmesan cheese.

Jeff Hollis, washes his clothes at Highland Lakes Laundromat

The Loveable LAUNDROMAT

It seems like everyone goes to the laundromat alone.

People drag their dirty clothes through the door. They get some quarters at the counter, measure out the detergent and get things going. It's not a place to linger more than is necessary.

The pert young single people whose eyes meet over the box of Tide look like the creation of an overactive imagination at the ad agency. The laundromat is really strictly business.

The people in the laundromat over the weekend clearly don't want to be there. They look more than a little annoyed at the prospect of spending precious free time in the stark atmosphere: rows of washers and dryers, no-nonsense signs of warning and instruction. "No horse laundry in these washers." "We use very soft water." "Clerk cannot open safe."

A middle-aged woman carries in an enormous amount of laundry and proceeds to load up a half-dozen washers. She drags a chair over so she can instantly pounce when the cycle ends. The manager reloads the vending machine which, for 50 cents, will give you detergent for one load or fabric softener for two.

At the door a young guy jumps in to use the pay phone; he got locked out of his parents' house and has to make plans to meet a friend. He looks glad to leave. Across the way a nondescript man pages through the magazines from September and November.

Saturday at the laundromat. It's a dirty job, but somebody's got to do it.

Volunteers

Art wins her time

By DOROTHY NASH

If you think that art appreciation is important for a well-rounded life, you will underscore the cultural enrichment program which has been volunteer-supplied to students in Northville's elementary schools for fifteen years.

It is sponsored and funded by Northville PTA, and Lonna Petrie is coordinator of it. Before being appointed coordinator two years ago, Petrie brought the program to some of the classrooms at Winchester School when her own children were there.

"It's a discussion, not a lecture, program," Petrie said, and it follows a format laid out in a guide book, which is accompanied with illustrative pictorial art reproductions which are in each school.

The children are led in progressive steps from stirring the imagination in kindergarten to recognizing media and popular themes in first grade, and in subsequent grades to exploring subject matter, trends in art history, and current styles.

Volunteers present the program, each one making three weekly 15- to 20-minute presentations to a kindergarten class or six weekly 15- to 20-minute presentations to one of the first- through fifth-grade classrooms.

Every fall Petrie conducts an organizational meeting with the chairpersons from the four schools to ensure that each classroom has an assigned volunteer to conduct discussions which are held in the second semester.

Lonna Petrie happens to have a bachelor's degree in art education, but, she said, volunteers don't need to have any art background. They learn on the job because all of the information is in the guide book.

Interested? Call one of the elementary schools to say you would like to observe a classroom presentation. This may be your thing — an opportunity to give art appreciation and maybe get some for yourself, too.

St. Paul's schedules auction for March 2

St. Paul's Lutheran Church and School will hold its annual major charity auction on March 2. The auction is sponsored by the St. Paul's Parent Teacher League.

The auction is used as a fundraiser for the school's general fund. St. Paul's is a tax exempt, non-profit, elementary school with an enrollment of 120 from the Northville, Novi, Livonia, Farmington, Plymouth and South Lyon areas.

Many of the stores in and around Northville have contributed goods for the auction. The doors open at 7 p.m. on Friday, March 2. The silent auction takes place from 7-10 p.m. and the oral auction runs from 8-11 p.m.

Northville Branch of Garden Club adds scholarship

The Northville Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association generously approved a third $1,000 college scholarship. The Northville Branch has traditionally given two $1,000 scholarships away annually to deserving high-school seniors who are Northville residents. The group holds a Christmas Greens Mart and sells Christmas wreaths as fundraisers for the annual scholarships.

The vote to add another scholarship was taken during the Northville Branch's regular meeting on Monday, Feb. 12.

Interested seniors from the Northville community should contact their high school counselors for further information on the scholarships.

AN OPEN LETTER TO HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS AND THEIR PARENTS

As part of our continuing commitment to community service, we want to help high school students select courses which will prepare them for academic success at Wayne State University.

Recommended Course of Study

1. ENGLISH

(4 years recommended)
Students entering the University should be able to (1) understand the main and subordinate ideas in written works, lectures and discussions, and (2) conceive ideas about a topic and organize them for presentation in verbal and in written forms, using standard English sentences. Effective use of the English language is central to one's ability to succeed at the University and in the professions and occupations for which our students are preparing.

2. MATHEMATICS

(4 years recommended)
Entering students should be able to (1) add, subtract, multiply and divide using natural numbers, (2) use the mathematics of integers, fractions and decimals, (3) understand ratios, proportions, percentages, roots and powers, and (4) perform the mathematical operations of algebra and geometry. Most careers for which University students are preparing require mathematical competency, and an increasing number of careers in the science and technical curricula require advanced preparation in mathematics.

3. BIOLOGICAL AND PHYSICAL SCIENCES

(3 years recommended)
Students should be acquainted with (1) concepts of matter, energy, motion and force, and the natural laws and processes of the physical sciences in general; (2) the science of life and living matter with special attention to growth, reproduction and structure; and (3) laboratory methods. A basic understanding of the physical and biological sciences is essential for many fields of University study, and is necessary if one is to comprehend our world and the impact of science and technology on it.

4. SOCIAL SCIENCES/HISTORY

(3 years recommended)
Students should study different cultures and societies—their social systems, customs, communities, values, economics, governments and politics. Knowledge of the major events and ideas that have shaped our nation and its place in the world is a necessary foundation for college study in several subjects. Students should be able to make inferences about how the past affects the present and future course of the world. The social sciences, by teaching the use of critical analysis, develop an understanding of society and current events that is essential for an informed citizenry in an open society.

5. FOREIGN LANGUAGES

(2 years recommended)
Proficiency in a foreign language not only introduces students to non-English speaking countries but also heightens awareness and comprehension of one's native tongue. Language is the basic instrument of thought, the ability to read, speak and write a foreign language permits one to understand another culture in a more fundamental way. Foreign language competency will open up career opportunities denied to those without it.

6. FINE ARTS

(2 years recommended)
Students entering the University should be acquainted with the visual and performing arts through study and/or participation. Several academic disciplines at the University require high levels of skill in the arts. Study in this area enriches life and heightens one's sense of beauty and aesthetic perception.

7. COMPUTER LITERACY

Some formal instruction in the logic and use of computers in problem solving and data retrieval is increasingly important in all fields of study.

We suggest that this letter be clipped from the newspaper, and we urge students to review and discuss these recommendations with their parents and school counselors as they develop plans of study for high school. If there are any questions, please call the Wayne State University Director of Admissions at 577-3577.

With best wishes for a rewarding and productive future,

Local businessman sponsors college scholarship opportunity

For the second year, John B. Sassaman, funeral director of Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home in Northville, will award two $500 scholarships to seniors who are living in the Northville community.

Sassaman said he decided to offer the scholarships last year "as a way of putting something back into the community that could benefit the younger generation."

"I would hope that they will do the same for someone someday," Sassaman said.

About 25 students applied for the scholarships last year, Sassaman added. He encourages local students to apply for the scholarships.

Following is a list of criteria by which the applicants will be judged and the awards given.

The purpose of the scholarship is to financially assist high school seniors from the Northville community to attend the Michigan university or college of their choice.

The applicant must:

1. Be a high school senior and a

U.S. citizen.

2. Live in the city or township of Northville.

3. Have carried a B-grade average throughout their junior and senior years of high school.

4. Demonstrate leadership qualities.

5. Have been accepted at a Michigan university or college.

6. Have not been offered a full scholarship to attend a Michigan university or college.

Applications are available through the Northrop Funeral Home. An applicant may call 348-1233 or write to: John B. Sassaman, Ross B. Northrop and Son Funeral Home, 19091 Northville Road, Northville, MI 48167. Print the word "Scholarship" on the envelope.

Completed applications must be returned by March 31 of the senior year and must be typed.

In addition to the completed application there must be:

1. A letter of verification from the high school office stating the junior letter grade average and the senior letter grade average thus far.

2. Two letters of recommendation from senior teachers specifically addressing the applicant's academic performance and leadership abilities.

3. One additional letter from an adult friend or neighbor.

All letters must be in by the March 31 deadline. Note: None of the applications or letters can or will be returned.

Notification of the two awards will be made by May 31 of the senior year. The scholarship will be $500 payment of tuition made directly to the university or college that the student will be attending the fall of the same year.

If a selected awardee cannot accept the scholarship, a new awardee will be determined and notified as soon as possible.

Employees and relatives of employees who are employed by the Northrop Funeral Homes or John B. Sassaman, Inc. are ineligible.

S.K. Wolf, novelist and Friends of the Library speaker

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Spy talk

Spy novelist speaks at luncheon

Not many international spy thrillers come from the word processors of women writers. However, a Livonia writer has cracked the category with a book that is selling briskly despite the preconceived notions of some readers that women inject too much romance into their work.

S.K. Wolf, who is really Sarah Wolf, has written a spy thriller, "The Harbinger Effect," that was named an alternate selection of the Book-of-the-Month Club. She has another book due to hit book stores later this year. Her publisher, Simon and Schuster, declined to use her picture on the dust jacket because of a perceived bias toward spy thrillers written by men.

The Livonia mother and grandmother will speak at the fourth annual book and author luncheon to be held Tuesday, March 6, at the Novi Civic Center under the sponsorship of the Friends of the Northville, Novi, Plymouth and Canton Libraries.

In "The Harbinger Effect" Wolf draws on her experiences living in Greece for three years and Turkey for two to lend authenticity to her book.

The story centers on a Russian photographer who wishes to defect and turns up at the American embassy in a West African country with some compromising film (Wolfe has spent some time in Africa, too).

Neither Russia nor the embassy want Yuri Klebanoff, and the plot revolves around the efforts to get the grandson of a former Russian premier and son of Pravda's editor out of the country.

A retired CIA agent has vouched for the authenticity of pertinent parts of the book, and Wolf's daughter, who served in the Peace Corps in Africa, said she felt that she was reading about herself in the character of Molly Davison, who accompanies Yuri on his flight through a number of world capitals.

The book will be available for purchase at the luncheon and will be signed by the author.

All proceeds from the benefit will go toward the four libraries. The luncheon, which will start at noon, will be catered by Home Sweet Home of Novi.

Tickets at $10 may be purchased at any of the libraries no later than March 1. Tables for six or seven may be reserved if all tickets are purchased together.

The Novi Civic Center is located at 45175 W. Ten Mile Road, west of Novi Road.

MEADS MILL MIDDLE SCHOOL

The new year is off to a great start at Meads Mill Middle School. Both basketball and swimming schedules are underway, teachers are preparing for the end of the semester, and many students are preparing for academic competitions.

Eighth grade English teachers have just announced the three Promising Young Writers from Meads Mill for 1989-90. They are Julie Romine, Karen Simpson, and Traci Sachura. This writing recognition program is sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English. The number of nominees per school is determined by the school population. Each of these students entered a piece of writing prepared for class and an impromptu essay on a topic chosen by N.C.T.E. Their writing will be judged as part of a national program of recognition for promising young writers.

The 7A team was awarded the National Middle School Association mini-grant to develop innovative approaches for enhancing instruction and learning experiences for their students in the area of cultural diversity. Teacher Shirley Klokenga wrote the grant which stemmed from the work toward a library or the Coalition on Temporary Shelter located in Downtown Detroit (COTS). Students are continuing work for COTS.

A Junior Enrichment Series program for seventh graders will give the students an opportunity to step inside a human cell model to learn about this aspect of science. The model is one million times the actual size of a cell, and will be in the school on January 23 and 24.

On Jan. 24, the 7th and 8th graders will take part in the Math Counts Competition followed by the Michigan Mathematics League Contest on Feb. 6.

Friday, Jan. 19 is a teacher work day and there is no school for students that day.

In February, the Science Fair will be held from the 5th to the 9th Parents may see the projects on Feb. 7. Students will have to take projects home Thursday Feb. 8 between 3 and 6 p.m.

There will be an inservice day Feb. 6 with student dismissal at 11:11 p.m.

The tentative date for next year's ninth grade orientation for attending Northville High School will be Feb. 13. This is for students only at this time.

The next after school activity will be Feb. 14 from 1:45 to 4:45 p.m. The mid-winter break begins at the end of the day Feb. 16 and students return to school Feb. 26.

Longing for warmer temperatures and a chance to escape from Michigan?

little New Orleans to Novi, the staff did some research. Contacts down in New Orleans assured the group they were on the right track.

The commemorative coins that are given to diners are the actual coins tossed from the curbs during parades in New Orleans at Mardi Gras time.

The elaborate buffet offers customers a chance to taste and enjoy food normally available only in New Orleans. The fare runs the gamut from the tangy and spicy to in-between to appealing to all palates.

Costumed wait staff have taken to heart the Mardi Gras theme, and when the band strikes up "When the Saints Go Marching In" a parade through the dining room is bound to follow.

Families may enjoy the chance to indulge in an unlimited buffet and enjoy a floor show with the magic and flavor of another culture.

The Novi Hilton is located on Haggerty Road just north of Eight Mile Road. For reservations phone 349-4000.

Mustang basketballers move into first place

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Thanks to the long-range shooting of senior Joe Kaley, a clutch fourth-quarter comeback, and Livonia Franklin's performance against Farmington Harrison, the Northville basketballers are back in first place in the WLA Western Division standings.

The Mustangs staged a dramatic come-from-behind 66-60 victory at home against the Chargers on Feb. 9, and that same evening several miles away, Franklin was upsetting the visiting Hawks by 17 points. The result is a three-way tie for first between Northville, Harrison and Franklin. All three are 5-2 in the division.

"We feel good we have a chance," Mustang Coach Omar Harrison said. "We have three games left and we feel we can win all three if we play up to our potential. I would hope, now that we have new life and we are this close to our first-ever Western Division title, that the kids will rise to meet the challenge."

It certainly won't be easy. Northville's remaining contests include road games at Canton (Feb. 13) and Franklin (Feb. 15). The Mustangs have already topped those two, but both wins came at home.

If Northville can pull them out, all that remains is a home date on Feb. 20 with a very beatable Walled Lake Western squad.

The title talk wouldn't be possible if the Mustangs hadn't regrouped from a poor start to edge Churchill last Friday. The Chargers opened a 20-6 first quarter lead, and from that point on, the locals were constantly in the catch-up mode.

"We got off to a bad start," Harrison said. "(Churchill) hit everything they threw up. They are not a bad ballclub."

Northville cut five points off the lead by halftime (39-30) and another point heading into the fourth quarter, but the prospects looked dim: down by eight (49-41) with eight minutes remaining.

"We told the kids not to try and get it all back at once, but to be patient and continue to peck away at the lead," Harrison explained.

The Mustangs worked that strategy to perfection. Churchill held onto the lead until Northville's Jason Flading connected on a three-pointer at about the three-minute mark. After that, the locals cruised home with the victory. In the crucial fourth quarter, the Chargers were outscored 25-11.

"I was very much pleased," Harrison said. "I told the kids they ought to be proud of themselves. Being down by 14 points in the first quarter will take the starch out of many teams, but we hung in there and showed some composure."

The key comeback weapon was the three-point play, and Kaley was the long-range leader with five treys. As a team, the Mustangs connected on 9-of-22 attempts from three-point range. Churchill hit 4-of-7.

Kaley ended with a game-high 23 and Bill Kelley added 11, including two more threes. Center Scott Meredith only scored nine but did haul down 11 rebounds. Kaley also played a fine defensive game — with six steals.

Mike Thomas led Churchill with 15 points.

NORTHVILLE 85, LIVONIA STEVENSON 71: The Mustangs have the ability to employ several different styles of play but still manage to win. On Feb. 6, Northville went with its up-tempo game, against the run-and-gun Spartans, and pulled out an easy 14-point home triumph.

"Eighty-five points is the most we've scored in a while but Stevenson is the type of team that likes to run, so we obliged them," Harrison said. "I think we have kids that can play the up-tempo game."

The Mustangs, according to Harrison, "came out smokin'" in the first quarter. The locals built a 22-11 lead after eight minutes of play, including four three-pointers — two by Kaley and two more by Kelley. The run-and-gun style continued in the second quarter, as both teams combined to score 42 points. The Spartans were able to cut the margin to 44-31 at the break thanks to four three-pointers of their own in the stanza.

Meredith scored nine of his 20 points in the third to help keep Stevenson at bay, and down the stretch, Kelley and Flading combined to make 13-of-16 from the free-throw line.

"When you are successful from the charity stripe and you have a nice lead, every free throw you make is like putting another nail in the coffin," Harrison said.

Kaley hit for five more threes and wound up with a career-high 24 points. Kelley scored 17, Mike Lang chipped in 12 and Meredith added eight rebounds. For the game, Northville shot 49 percent from the field while holding the Spartans to just 36 percent.

The Mustangs are now 10-4 overall, and are just one win away from assuring themselves a winning season for the first time since 1986.

Wrestlers tie Novi; share district title

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

As sequels go, Novi-Northville II was a classic.

Unlike most, this wrestling rematch was much better than the first meeting and the end result was a co-district championship for the neighboring schools.

The event was the MHSAA Team Districts on Feb. 7, and the final score was 30-30. It took nearly a half-hour and six tie-breakers before host Novi was awarded a berth in the Team Regional Tournament, to be held on Feb. 14 (after News deadline) at Novi. The other district qualifiers include South Lyon, Livonia Franklin and Belleville.

"It was obviously a real good meet," Wildcat Coach Tom Fritz said. "It was two pretty good teams going at each other."

The first meeting was a 37-28 victory for Novi on Jan. 13, but this time it was much closer. Just how close? The tie-breaker had to go to the sixth criteria before the 'Cats won out, 51-39, in total points scored.

"It officially goes down as a tie, so both schools get to share the district title," Northville Coach Bob Boshoven said. "But the tie-breaker determines which team advances to the regionals."

The first criteria in the tie breaker is a penalty for unsportsmanlike conduct, but neither team had one; the second is wins, but both squads had six individual victories with one draw; the third is fouls, and both teams had three, the fourth is technical falls, but there were none in the match; and the fifth is major decisions (wins of 8-0 or more) but each team had one.

"It took at least 20 minutes for the officials to decide who would move on," Fritz said. "I was very worried heading in, but I thought we should win it. We wrestled about as well as we could."

The key matches came at the 119, 130 and 160-pound divisions. At 119, Northville's Kevin Khashan nipped newcomer Rick Starr 9-8 in one of the closest matches of the meet. At 130, Jamie Ryder pinned Novi's Jeff Van-Doren in 5:43. It was a big match because VanDoren pinned Ryder in the earlier meeting.

But the match that led the way to the tie was a 2-2 draw between favored Mustang Bob Townsend and underdog Wildcat Jason Wladischkin at 160.

"Ryder's win was without a doubt the big turn-around for us," Boshoven said. "But the 160-pound match hurt us dearly."

The rest of the action were as follows: At 103, Matt Allison pinned Novi's Ron Kane in 1:56; Brian Paquette (112) pinned Northville's Jiro Kameoka in 3:30; Mustang standout Brandon Mardossian (125) topped Mike Barosko 8-0; Wildcat star Mike Gowans (135) turned back Jarrett Beer 7-1; Novi's Tony Scappaticci (140) edged Kevin Delaney 3-1; Garnet Potter (145) pinned Steve Myers of Novi in 3:19; Rich Helfer (152) decisioned Mustang Curt Cureton; Jeff O'Neill (171) stopped Northville's Jeff Lower in 3:34; Dave Morante (189) edged Novi's Eric Mathes 6-4; and Wildcat Bob Ahrens pinned Stefan Filkin in 53 seconds.

"I felt like we improved from the last time we saw (Novi)," Boshoven said. "The kids were a little disappointed we don't get to go on, but it's still our first team district championship."

For Novi, it was the team's third tie of the season.

"We have three ties this year and I don't remember ever tying before in 25 years of coaching," Fritz said. "But I'm sure it's happened."

NORTHVILLE 51, FARMINGTON 16: The Mustangs advanced to the finals of the Team District by clobbering Farmington. Northville won nine of 13 bouts.

"We saw (Farmington) earlier in the year and the end result was about the same," Boshoven said. "It turned out about how we expected it."

The Mustang winners included: Phil DiPrimi (103), Allison (112), Khashan (119), Mardossian (125), Beer (135), Potter (145), Townsend (160), Morante (189) and Filkin (HWT).

Spikers fall again to Churchill squad

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The second time around was not the charm for the Northville volleyballers.

After falling to Livonia Churchill on the road earlier this season, the Mustang spikers knew another chance would be forthcoming — this time on their own home court. Well, that opportunity came on Feb. 7, but the outcome was the same as the visiting Chargers turned back Northville 15-2, 18-16, 9-15, 15-3.

"I thought we played better this time, but (Churchill) has a group of hard-nosed girls who are excellent athletes," Mustang Coach Paul Osborn said. "I really can't knock my girls because even though they played in spurts, they played their hearts out."

It was, indeed, a contest of runs and spurts for both squads. The Chargers dominated the first and last games, outscoring the locals 30-5; but in the middle two games, Northville had the edge, 31-27, and was much, much more competitive.

"The middle two games were the type of volleyball we should be playing," Osborn stated.

In game one, Churchill scored the first six points and the last nine points. Sandwiched in between was just two Mustang points.

"I thought we beat ourselves more than anything in that one," Osborn admitted.

The next game started quite differently, with Northville scoring the first six. The Chargers fought back to make it 6-5 after the first rotation, and from there the lead saw-sawed back and forth. Clinging to a 16-15 advantage, the Mustangs had three opportunities at the winning point but failed to find the court on three consecutive serves. Churchill then scored the final three points to pull it out.

"The three bad serves in a row is what really hurt us," Osborn said. "It was the turning point of the whole match."

Northville did make things interesting by winning game three. The Mustangs scored the first four points and were in charge 10-2 before the Chargers made a run and narrowed the gap to 11-6 after one rotation. But a 4-3 Northville advantage down the stretch helped win it. Senior Sue LaPrad paced the squad with five service points (including an ace) in the game.

Churchill wrapped up the triumph by jumping ahead 9-2 in game four and cruising from there. The Chargers' second server in the third rotation scored the final five points in a row to end it.

"If anything was our downfall, it was our hitting," Osborn said. "We were really pounding the ball but we couldn't keep them in the court. For the match, we were successful on only 66-of-99 hit attempts."

In other statistical areas, Northville performed well, including serving (85 percent), setting (92 percent) and serve reception (87 percent).

LaPrad ended with 20-of-22 successful serves and two aces. Kristi Turner (12-of-13, two aces) and Neysa Colizzi (15-of-18, three aces) were also weapons at the service line. At the net, Jenny Urbahns (23-of-29 hits, five kills) and Ashley MacLean (13-of-15 hits, two kills) were the standouts.

NORTHVILLE 15-15, FARMINGTON HARRISON 3-2-6: The Mustangs started the week in impressive fashion by whipping the visiting Hawks in straight games on Feb. 5. It was the second meeting between the two teams — Northville also won the first match back on Jan. 15.

"I was surprised because (Harrison) gave us a tougher fight the first time around," Osborn pointed out. "They were much more competitive over at their place, but I also think that we've improved since then and that made a difference. We are working better as a unit."

In every statistical category, Northville was above the 80-percent cutoff, including serving (84 percent, 10 aces), hitting (84 percent), setting (82 percent) and serve reception (83 percent).

League Line

BASKETBALL: Macek goes wild

6th-7th Grade Boys Basketball It was the Scott Macek Show on Jan. 27. He scored 22 points to lead the Bulls past the Jazz 29-22 in overtime. At the game's conclusion, Macek received a standing ovation from the crowd and recognition from the opposing coach and referees for his effort that included a half-court three-pointer at the first half buzzer and another three-pointer with 14 seconds left that tied the game and eventually sent it into overtime. Macek then completed the outing by scoring four of his team's six overtime points to secure the victory. According to Bulls coach Bob Macek, no player in Northville's 6th-7th grade league has ever made two three-point shots in one game. John Argenta and Ryan Debra were also cited for their fine rebounding. The Supersonics clubbed the Bulls 26-16 thanks to a 7-0 rally late in the game. Dave Wellen and John Argenta combined to score nine points for the Bulls. The rebounding stars included Wayne Sawrocki, Ryan Debra and Bobby Plain. And the defensive standouts were Scott Macek and Steve Gollumbeck.

4th-5th Grade Boys Basketball Ohio State topped Illinois 30-16 and Andrew Wellen led the way with 10 points. Bill Spagnoli added eight points and David Kowalski and J.G. Hammerie were the rebounding stars. The Iowa Hawkeyes turned back Ohio State 36-22. Bill Spagnoli scored nine points and Marc Hosman was the rebound leader for Ohio State.

Gymnasts blast Harrison by 26 points

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

A win is a win, but the Mustang gymnasts are leaving no doubts along the way.

In four dual-meet victories so far this season, Northville has a 17.5 margin of victory, and the latest — a 127.15-101.55 wipeout against Farmington Harrison on Feb. 8 — was the widest of them all. Coach Michelle Charniga was pleased with the effort because it came from a team that wasn't 100 percent.

"Lee (LaChance) has the flu and Mia (DeHart) has been nursing an injured back and neck, so we weren't 100 percent," Charniga explained. "The scoring was a little off on vault, but other than that we picked up our pace — especially on floor exercise. We had five scores at 8.05 or better, and that's excellent."

The Mustangs established a quick 31.55-26.65 lead after the vault, despite some sub-par scores. LaChance took first place honors (8.05), Melanie Apligan was second (8.0) and DeHart was third (7.95 with a fall). The other performers included Leslie Allen (7.55), Becky Carney (7.55) and Liz Torok (7.4).

DeHart came back strong to take first in the uneven parallel bars with an 8.89 effort. She was followed by LaChance (7.55), Carney (7.1), Megan Graham (6.85), Sue Okasinski (6.6) and Kristen Brown (4.4). After the first two events, the lead had grown to 62.0-49.9.

"I'd like to see this team score into the 130s, and we are capable of doing that, but we have to be at 100 percent," Charniga explained. "Right now it's difficult because we have some injuries and illnesses."

Northville swept the top four places in the balance beam with DeHart (8.25), LaChance (8.15), Torok (7.5) and Graham (7.3) leading the way. Lisa Hojanacki (6.4) and Ris Fleming (6.3) also competed.

The home team then completed the rout by scoring a season-high 33.95 in the floor exercise. The top five places went to DeHart (8.95), Tracie Surdu (8.6), Torok (8.25), LaChance (8.15) and Allen (8.05) in order. The other Mustang competitors included Beth Cannizzaro (7.45) and Jeni Couzens (6.35).

"I'd like to see this team score into the 130s, and we are capable of doing that, but we have to be at 100 percent," Charniga explained. "Right now it's difficult because we have some injuries and illnesses. It's also hard to really score well when you don't get much competition. In all the meets we've won, we've been able to win very easily."

NORTHVILLE 125.3, HARTLAND 119.9: The Mustangs won their third meet in a row on Jan. 31 at home against the Eagles.

DeHart led the way with individual wins in three of the four events, including the vault (8.65), the uneven parallel bars (8.8) and the balance beam (8.25). She was second in the floor exercise (8.3).

Potter grabs district crown

finishers who now move on to the regionals this Saturday (Feb. 17) at Plymouth Salem.

"We were hoping to get six guys out of the districts, but five is a pretty good number," Mustang Coach Bob Boshoven said.

The big highlight came in the 145-pound division, where Potter cruised through the field unscathed to win the district crown. In the finals, Potter avenged his only loss of the season to a 145-pounder by shutting out South Lyon's Denny Skatzka 4-0. Potter was seeded second and lost to top-seeded Skatzka in dual meet action on Jan. 20.

"Garnet looked very tough on Saturday," Boshoven said. "He was in control the entire match."

For the day, Potter was 4-0 with one pin, and raised his season mark to 35-3.

Northville also sported a pair of finalists in freshman Matt Allison and junior Brandon Mardossian, but both fell and had to settle for runner-up honors. Allison was 3-0 heading into the 103-pound finals, but was stopped by Novi's Brian Paquette in 1:22. Mardossian also advanced to the finals with three wins under his belt but it all ended against Scott Sequin of Brighton in the finals. Sequin, the top seed, won the bout 6-2.

"Brandon did a nice job," Boshoven said. "He beat Scott Haps of South Lyon in the semi's and that was the only 125-pound loss he hadn't redeemed yet this season. He wrestled in a very tough weight division."

"As for Allison, to be second as a freshman is great. Getting all this tournament experience will really help him a lot."

The remaining two Mustang qualifiers were Kevin Khashan at 119 and Curt Cureton at 152. Khashan was seeded first but suffered a 6-2 second round loss to Novi's Rick Starr — the same wrestler he beat three days earlier in the Team Districts. Khashan settled for third place by beating Ryan Carrier of Livonia Stevenson 5-4 in the consolation finals.

"I don't think Kevin wrestled up to his potential," Boshoven said.

Cureton, on the other hand, was unseeded, but upset the top seed (Tim Nardini of Plymouth Canton) and then won by an injury default over Adam Cox of North Farmington in the consolation round to place third.

Swimmers clobber Brighton, Canton

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Mustang swimmers have been practicing very hard and are swimming very tired right now, according to coach Mark Heiden. That's why it's so hard to figure out how the squad is continuing to set lifetime and season-best efforts by the truckload with each outing.

In action last week, Northville clobbered both Brighton and Plymouth Canton, and set more than 30 lifetime best swims in the process. Twenty of those came on Feb. 8 in a 59-24 home victory over Canton.

"I expected (Canton) to be a little tougher than they were, but we were really on and that had a lot to do with it," Heiden explained. "To have 20 personal best efforts at this stage of the season is quite an accomplishment."

The win sends Northville's record to 8-1 overall, and 6-0 in the Western Lakes League. The first-place Mustangs are the only WLAA team without a conference defeat.

Junior Eric Newton had himself a memorable win with his effort in the 200-yard freestyle. Newton's time of 1:49.29 not only set a new pool record, it also qualified him for a spot in the MHSAA State meet in March. He also added a third in the 100 butterfly with a lifetime-best effort of 53.33.

The other winners were Matt Hanna in the 200 IM (2:12.23) and the 100 breaststroke (1:06.03), Brad Cook in the 50 freestyle (23.51) and the 100 butterfly (55.41), Steve Lang in diving (241.95 points), Andy Wayne in the 100 freestyle (51.54), Chris Handyside in the 500 freestyle (5:21.79) and both relay teams. The 200 medley relay team (1:44.16) featured Bob Holdridge, Hanna, Cook and Wayne, and the 400 freestyle team

(3:27.09) included Handyside, Newton, Wayne and Matt Van Horn.

The runner-up finishes included Holdridge in the 200 IM (2:12.49) and the 100 freestyle (51.58), Handyside in the 50 freestyle (23.61), Osiecki in diving (238.15 points) and Jim Fee in the 100 backstroke (1:02.84). The thirds came from Van Horn in the 200 freestyle (2:00.0) and Jason Stringer in the 500 freestyle (5:24.21).

"We had some good races against each other and that's why we had so many time drops," Heiden said.

NORTHVILLE 53, BRIGHTON 30: The Mustangs' superior depth wasn't as much of a factor in Northville's five-lane pool, but the home team won it easily anyway by notching eight victories.

"It went well," Heiden said. "It's nice to see the kids swim faster times before we even start our taper. I saw a lot of time drops."

Holdridge paced the winners by taking the honors in the 200 freestyle (1:53.72) and the 500 freestyle (5:08.61). The rest of the first-place finishes came from Newton in the 200 IM (2:03.41) and the 100 freestyle (new pool record 50.06), Osiecki in diving (252.6 points), Cook in the 100 butterfly (45.88) and the two relay teams. Wayne, Hanna, Cook and Van Horn joined forces to win the 200 medley relay (1:45.11) and the 400 relay team of Newton, Cook, Handyside and Holdridge (3:24.15) also took first place.

The seconds included Wayne in the 50 freestyle (23.72) and the 100 backstroke (1:02.61), Lang in diving (239.3), Fee in the 100 butterfly (58.51) and Hanna in the 100 breaststroke (1:06.24).

The Mustangs will host Livonia Franklin today (Feb. 15).

Kristi Turner (bottom) and Sue LaPrad in action against Churchill

Spikers move to 7-3 with win over Hawks

At the end of the first rotation in game one, the score was deadlocked at 3-3. But the Mustangs regrouped to score the final 12 points, and servers like Turner and Colizzi provided the spark. Colizzi, for example, scored points 9 through 12 in succession.

Northville continued its domination by scoring the first 12 points in game two before winning easily. Osborn then brought in his second unit for game three and the reserves put the Hawks away before the end of the first rotation. Junior Marcie Dart was the standout, scoring seven service points in a row.

Junior Amanda Parke paced the Mustangs with three aces and two kills. Turner added three aces and Karen Vogt chipped in with two kills.

Northville is now 7-3 overall, 4-3 in the WLAA Western Division, which is good for sole possession of third place behind Churchill and Walled Lake Western.

"We're pretty satisfied right now with being 7-3," Osborn admitted. "I'm hoping we keep improving and that we will be able to peak later this month for the WLAA tournament."

Mustangs of the Week

AMANDA PARKE

MATT HANNA

The Northville volleyball team is 7-3 so far this season, and junior setter/hitter Amanda Parke has been a valuable asset for the squad. In action last week, Parke was instrumental in a 15-3, 15-2, 15-6 victory over Farmington Harrison on Feb. 5, and was also a key figure in Northville's four-game defeat to Livonia Churchill two days later. For the effort and the results, "Mustang of the Week" honors go out to her. Against Harrison, Parke registered three service aces and added two kills. Against Churchill, she was good on 16-of-18 hit attempts and was also a key setter, helping Northville to a 92-percent success rate (124-of-134) in that area.

The times continue to drop for the Northville swimmers, and sophomore Matt Hanna has been at the forefront of this trend. In action last week, Hanna was a key contributor in Northville wins over Plymouth Canton and Brighton, and we think he deserves some credit — so "Mustang of the Week" honors are going out to him. Against Canton, for instance, Hanna won the 200-yard IM (2:12.23) and the 100 breaststroke (1:06.03) and was a member of the winning 200 medley relay "Matt's dropped two and half seconds off his IM time in one week," Northville Coach Mark Heiden said. "He also had two lifetime best splits."

TRACC: state-of-the-art facility

By MIKE TYREE

Every Tuesday evening, 18 young women from Our Lady of Providence Center look forward to a night on the town.

In fact, the residents of the Northville Township center for the developmentally disabled are always anxious to head to the TRACC — as in Total Rehabilitation and Athletic Conditioning Center.

Novi-based TRACC is an extension of Botsford General Hospital and serves a role as a comprehensive rehabilitation facility for the women of the Providence Center.

TRACC offers the latest in high-tech exercise equipment and aims at helping people reach and maintain their peak physical potential through exercise and conditioning, according to George Andrews, a licensed physical therapist and director of the TRACC program.

Andrews, who said he has worked with the handicapped for 15 years, said a positive relationship has grown between TRACC and the Providence Center residents.

"The developmentally disabled like being able to participate in activities that a normal person does," he said. "They are achieving success and are very enthusiastic about the physical therapy programs."

Andrews said the women from the Providence Center enjoy using TRACC equipment such as treadmills, rowing machines and weights and have a special fondness for the water exercise classes in the facility's heated pool.

"A lot of them really enjoy the pool," he said. "The ardent swimmers will go right to the pool area."

TRACC has been open about a year, Andrews said of the state-of-the-art facility. He said the Providence Center group has used

TRACC since June, with encouraging results.

"Their ability to stick to a given task is amazing," he said. "They take pride in being able to learn how to do something and just don't give up."

"They will hang in there on one machine long after most other people would have given up."

Andrews said the girls from the Providence Center have learned other skills at TRACC.

"They're so capable now, they can punch in their own computer program already," he said, referring to the computerized exercise equipment at the facility.

Andrews said the Providence Center is planning to construct their own physical therapy building, but in the meantime, the residents are more than welcome as visitors to the 39750 Grand River Avenue site.

Andrews also said that Botsford General Hospital does not charge Our Lady of Providence Center for the use of the facility.

"It's free," he said. "It's part of Botsford Hospital's support of community organizations."

Which suits the Providence Center just fine, thank you.

"This is just something they've done to help out until we can build our own physical therapy site," said Providence Center Administrator Sister Theresa Tamburo.

Tamburo said the young developmentally disabled women benefit from their trips to TRACC in many ways, including bettering their motor skills through the physical activity.

But do they actually like the sometimes grueling 90-minute workouts supervised by Andrews and his staff?

"Very definitely," she said. "They've enjoyed it and are always anxious to get to the TRACC program."

Madonna offers discussion on fitness

The Madonna College Fireside Chat Series continues with a program focusing on the national exercise craze: "Fitness — What's Right With You." The program will be held on Feb. 19 at 7 p.m. in the Founders Room located in the Student Resident Hall.

Discussion will center on what may or may not be right for you in your quest to get in shape. Special attention will be given to establishing individual schedules. Admission is free.

For more information, call 591-5056.

EXERCISE PROGRAM: A one-hour exercise program is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by The University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Prof. Phyllis E. Weikart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Weikart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall, they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Livingston, Wayne and Oakland Counties.

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," notes Twelve Oaks marketing director Elaine Kah. "This exercise program adds a new dimension to this activity. We are pleased to be a part of the program."

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Twelve Oaks is a major regional shopping center located in Novi on I-96 and Novi Road. The center hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

HALF-MARATHON: The annual West Bloomfield Half Marathon has been scheduled for April 22, at 12:30 p.m. This will be the 14th running of this TAC (The Athletics Congress)-certified race which is sponsored by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation.

The race begins in the front of West Bloomfield High School, Orchard Lake Road at Green Road, and winds through the scenic residential streets of West Bloomfield Township.

Annually the race attracts runners from many midwest states and Ontario, Canada. A new course record was set in 1989 by Doug Kurtis, 37, of Northville, with a time of 1:07:32. Cheri Sly, 24, of Dexter, Michigan set the women's course record at 1:15:57.4 also in 1989.

The 1990 race looks to continued excitement in long distance racing and high quality in race organization. Categories this year will include walkers and wheelers in addition to the many runner divisions.

For an entry form, send a self addressed, stamped envelope to West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, 3325 Middlebelt Road, West Bloomfield, Michigan 48033. Entrants in the 1989 race will automatically receive an entry form. Registrations are taken up until one-half hour before race time.

Entry fee for the event is $11 through April 13. This early registration guarantees the runner a t-shirt. After April 13 and through race day the fee is $14. There are no guarantees on a t-shirt with a late registration.

For further information, contact the parks and recreation office, 313-334-5660. The West Bloomfield Half Marathon is directed by Sally Slater Pierce.

PADDLEBALL, RACQUETBALL: For those who enjoy paddleball or racquetball, Schoolcraft College is offering several options beginning in February.

Tuesday and Friday evening courts are scheduled for doubles play. A $25 fee includes gloves, paddles, racquets, balls and lockers.

Saturday mornings from 8 a.m.-noon courts can be reserved for one hour periods at a cost of $6 per court. Courts can be reserved in advance for future weeks. Individuals must provide their own equipment.

Schoolcraft is located at 18600 Haggerty Rd. between Six and Seven Mile roads. For further information, call 462-4413.

ASK-A-NURSE REFERRAL: "Ask-a nurse," the new 24-hour health information and physician referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, R.N. and registered nurses who man the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information.

Fitness Tips

Quality of sleep is as important as quantity

For years people have counted sheep, or sipped warm milk; others have walked their dogs until the dogs are really walking them or concentrated deeply, imagining their minds as a vast deep hole. Some have had only to sit in bed with an open book. People have tried countless ways to lure the sandman into showering them with stardust for just one reason — peaceful slumber.

There are wide individual differences on how much sleep people need. Most people require six to eight hours of sleep a night. But how solidly you sleep is as important as the amount of sleep; you can't spread it over five or six periods in a day and feel well.

The sporadic napper who plans to refresh himself with a half-hour nap often awakens more tired, groggy and mentally fatigued than before he fell asleep. Your system becomes used to a cycle and doesn't like interruptions. Sleeping beyond the usual amount can give rise to similar symptoms — except when you want to catch up on sleep. If you missed several hours one night, a few hours more the next day can help you recover from physical fatigue. If you persistently awaken feeling just as tired as when you turned in, your problem may be emotional fatigue and would be better helped with counseling.

Everyone moves somewhat during sleep, and when they awaken, find themselves in positions other than the ones in which they fell asleep. Sleeping people move a lot and they do it to lessen the pressure on various parts of the body. If you lay in one position too long, pressure points occur. As a protective measure, you move involuntarily to alleviate pressure and pain to your bones, skin and muscles.

When you sleep you pass through a progressive cycle — relaxation, drowsiness, light sleep and deep sleep — which occurs as many as four times a night. The duration is unique for each person, and satisfaction after sleeping comes with successful completion of the cycle. When that doesn't happen, or when we spend more than the usual amount of time in the sleep cycle, our bodies react with disapproval.

Try the following steps to enhance your sleep:

1. Exercise releases muscle tension. It is best to avoid overexertion and muscle fatigue immediately before bedtime. Exercise in the early afternoon, morning or early evening.
2. Don't drink coffee, tea or colas within two to four hours of bedtime, since most contain caffeine.
3. Avoid cigarettes — the nicotine in them is a stimulant. Similarly, alcohol distorts sleep stages.
4. Relax an hour or so before getting in bed; read, listen to music, take a warm bath (not a hot bath, which is actually invigorating).
5. Your bedroom should be quiet, dark and at a moderate temperature, which for most people is 60-65 degrees.

6. Get into bed and try to progressively relax each muscle area, starting at your toes and traveling slowly up to your head.

7. Try to establish a regular sleeping schedule; don't go to bed until you are sleepy.

8. If you suffer from chronic or severe insomnia, you should also visit a doctor or sleep disorders clinic to see if there is an underlying medical condition.

If you try one technique and it doesn't work, go on to another. It is up to you to find what works best and to stick to it.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Teaching children the 'value of money'

By Alison Ashton

Parents face an interesting dilemma in teaching their children about fiscal responsibility.

Do you give Junior an allowance? If so, how much? Should he get paid for doing the simplest chores around the house? Do you reward him financially for making good grades?

No doubt, teaching your children savvy spending and saving skills is crucial. Financial forecasters estimate that a middle-class lifestyle will cost $165,000 a year to maintain in 2019 and good money skills will be a must.

Start their pecuniary tutelage early — as young as 4 or 5 — and your children can become the masters of their monetary destinies.

"It is best to begin with small experiences in handling money, so by the time children reach the teen-age years, which typically is the time when they begin to spend larger amounts of money, they will have had good learning experiences to draw from," says Dr. Roberta Olson, associate professor of psychiatry and behavioral sciences at the University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center in Oklahoma City.

Making Allowances

While there is still some debate as to whether children should receive an allowance, most money experts agree that it's a good thing. Allowances give children their first sense of how much things cost.

"The child should be given the opportunity to learn that there are some items he cannot afford," says Olson.

Younger children of 4 or 5 just need pocket change so they can learn how to handle money.

As they get older, allowances can be expanded to include lunch money and recreational cash to teach them the basics of budgeting. If Joey blows a week's lunch money in an afternoon at the video arcade, let him know that he'll have to pack a lunch to take to school.

Budgeting their allowance money also teaches children to delay instant gratification in favor of purchasing better stuff later. Sally will learn that she can buy a candy bar now or save her pennies and buy a new outfit for Barbie in a few weeks.

Parents often fret over how much allowance to give their children. That, says the editors of Money magazine, depends on the area you live in and your child's expenses.

A 6-year-old probably doesn't need more than $1 for a candy bar and a video game.

"By third grade, a child is generally ready to learn the difference between fixed and discretionary expenses," said Money magazine.

For example, figure how much your third-grader will need for lunch for a week and give him twice that amount.

By junior high, the allowance can cover school supplies and books, as well as lunch and discretionary spending. Allowances should cover all fixed expenses by high school, but discretionary spending, including dates and gas for the car, should be paid for by a part-time job.

Be prepared to negotiate as your child's needs change. A new after-school activity might pump up Junior's fixed expenses. By the same token, if Sally works 20 hours a week when she is in high school, she might prefer to cover some of her fixed expenses out of her own pocket.

Learn to Earn

Some parents use the allowance as payment for the chores their children perform. Others prefer to think of basic chores, such as unloading a dishwasher or watering the lawn, as the child's contribution as a member of the household.

However, from a young age, children should have an opportunity to earn extra cash. And, says Money magazine, "you should be the employer of first resort."

Depending on the child's age, odd jobs to earn cash can include washing the car, painting a fence, or typing a report. Even little children can make the beds or fold laundry.

Be encouraging, offer praise for a job well done and tips for doing it better next time. The idea is to make working for money a pleasant experience.

By high school, most kids will want to find a job outside the home. This is an admirable impulse, as it gives them their first taste of economic independence.

Their enhanced purchasing power can help them buy a car or pay for their expenses at college, in addition to bankrolling smaller purchases.

"When a child contributes time, work and money toward his education, the purchase of an automobile or some major purchase, he places a great value on the investment," says Olson.

One thing you should not pay your child for is his academic performance. Good students will be good students even if you don't pay them $10 for every A. And $10 probably isn't enough to encourage the unmotivated.

Spending and Saving

Learning the freedom of spending goes hand-in-hand with learning the value of saving.

Guide to pluses, minuses of tax preparers

By Bobbi Igneizi

Perhaps the only thing worse than paying income taxes is trying to figure out how much tax to pay.

"From January until April, I had my yearly tax panic attack," said John McConnell, a taxpayer in his '40s. "Would I be able to figure out the forms? Did I have enough receipts? Would my calculations be right? Would I trigger an audit? The stress just got to be too much, so I finally decided to let a professional handle it."

More than 60 percent of all U.S. taxpayers make the same decision each year, according to Money magazine. The number is up nearly 15 percent since 1986, when the Tax Reform Act separated the tax pros from the amateurs.

Before seeing a professional preparer, however, a taxpayer should evaluate his or her needs and the tax pros' qualifications.

Preparers fall under five general categories: independent tax preparers, franchised tax preparers, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and lawyers.

A guide to the pluses and minuses of each:

Independent tax preparers

- Advantages: Usually offer the lowest fees.

- Disadvantages: Most do not maintain a year-round office, which can present difficulties if you have a tax problem after April. They cannot represent you at an audit, other than to provide information to the examiner.

- Background: Varied. Some are seasoned veterans, others are accounting students.

- Best for: Taxpayers with uncomplicated returns, with incomes of less than $25,000 and with no dependents, rentals, stocks or investments.

- Estimated cost for return of family making $60,000: $25 to $100, depending upon complexity.

Franchised tax preparers

- Advantages: These "chain-store" preparers can be a good value, and many taxpayers use them — H&R Block alone processed 10.5 million returns in 1988. Most maintain year-round offices. Some promise to pay all penalties and interest if they make an error on a taxpayer's return. The taxpayer, however, must still pay all the taxes.

- Disadvantages: Usually their function is limited to tax return preparation. For tax planning or strategy, you probably need a certified public accountant or an enrolled agent. Also, franchised preparers cannot act as a taxpayer's advocate in an audit. However, most will send a representative free of charge to an audit to explain the return.

- Background: The preparers are trained in-house. A college degree is not required. To receive certification at one franchise company, preparers must complete a 75-hour tax course.

- Best for: Relatively simple returns — one or two mortgages, no rentals, stock conversions or bonds.

- Estimated cost for return of family making $60,000: about $60.

Certified public accountants

- Advantages: CPAs are extensively trained. A CPA also can legally serve as a representative at an Internal Revenue Service audit.

- Disadvantages: Expensive. Tax preparation fees can vary dramatically, depending on the complexity of the return — and the size of the firm. Also, a good single practitioner or small firm is probably overburdened at tax time, so early appointments are suggested.

- Background: The most comprehensive financial training of any tax preparer. College graduates, they are required to pass a four-part national exam in accounting practices. They also must attend college-level refresher courses annually, and some states require CPAs to complete additional hours of continuing education in accounting.

- Best for: The middle- to upper-income taxpayer with a complicated tax profile.

- Estimated cost for return of family making $60,000: Ranges from $125 to three times that amount.

Enrolled agents

- Advantages: These tax experts are among the most qualified, but least known, preparers. In addition to preparing returns, enrolled agents can also handle clients' tax planning and strategy.

- Disadvantages: Expensive. Charges vary, depending on the complexity of the return.

- Background: Enrolled agents must have worked as an IRS auditor for more than five years or have passed the agency's two-day exam on federal taxation. College degrees are not required, but enrolled agents must complete 24 hours of college-level continuing tax education courses each year.

- Best for: The complicated tax profile containing stocks, bonds, rental properties, kiddie taxes.

Enrolled agents, like the others mentioned here, generally feel they are best suited for the job.

"Unlike CPAs or lawyers, enrolled agents specialize only in taxation," said Richard E. Peck, an enrolled agent. "The enrolled agent's expertise in this constantly changing field enables him to be your best ally when audited by the IRS."

- Estimated cost for return of family making $60,000: Peck estimates it at about $115.

Lawyers

Although experts in tax law, tax lawyers usually do not prepare returns. They are more likely to be involved in tax planning, especially for business transactions, or specialize in criminal tax matters or tax litigation.

Some, however, prepare returns. Lawyers may be more familiar than other preparers with specialized areas, such as fiduciary returns, and can represent you in an audit.

A GREAT BANK IN A GREAT PLACE FOR SENIORS

Choosing the right investment

By Steve Hurtado

If the stock market's tendency to act like a roller coaster has scared you, you probably are looking for a safe haven for your savings.

One of the most secure places for your money is in a banking institution's insured passbook account. But before you put all your eggs in one basket, consider the fact that these accounts rarely pay more than 6 percent.

You can do better than that — without worrying. Money market mutual funds, certificates of deposit (CDs), individual retirement accounts and securities all offer safety as well as good, stable returns.

Know Thyself

In choosing the right investment, advises former stockbroker and author Barbara Gilder Quint, it's important to define your personal needs and attitudes toward money.

Here are her "investment tips for the cautious investor," from an article in Glamour magazine:

- Invest in things you understand. If the salesperson and/or the descriptive brochure doesn't make sense to you — don't buy.

- Consider your time horizon. If you might need your money soon (say, for a vacation next summer), don't invest in something designed for a longer period. Breaking a CD or selling a T-note before it matures can really cost you.

- Diversify. Once you've set aside a basic three-month emergency fund in a bank account or money fund, consider spreading any further savings around among different kinds of investments, such as CDs and T-notes.

- Know your own risk tolerance. It's dumb to buy common stocks or mutual funds if you're going to stay awake nights worrying about them — especially when there are plenty of no-risk investments paying a comfortable 8-plus percent.

Mutual Funds

John Markese, research director of the American Association of Individual Investors, said in a recent Money magazine article, "Mutual funds are the safest and most convenient way for novices to break into the stock and bond markets."

Mutual funds are companies that buy stocks, bonds or short-term securities (such as Treasury bills) with the goal of earning the highest returns.

As a mutual fund shareholder, you — and thousands of other investors — become part owner of a carefully selected and diversified portfolio.

You can buy into a mutual fund for as little as $1,000; some have no minimum at all. You can buy shares through your bank, stockbroker or financial planner, or directly from the fund's management company (by mail).

Evaluate a fund based on your investment goals and your tolerance for risk. There are more than 2,800 funds to choose from, so you shouldn't have any problem selecting the one that best meets your needs.

Here is a tip for the 1990s from Money. Small-company funds are expected to outperform other types for the next two to three years — unless the stock market dives in anticipation of a recession.

Certificates of Deposit

A CD, explains financial guru Susan Lee in "The ABZs of Money and Finance" (Pocket Books), is "a claim issued by a bank promises to pay a specified rate of interest on a specified amount of money over the specified life of the certificate."

All those "specifieds" mean there is a lot of variety to be had in amounts, terms and rates. This flexibility can work in your favor.

You can buy a CD for as little as $100 with a term that can vary from several months to several years. As for interest rates, these are competitive, usually several points higher than a regular passbook savings account. Like other funds held by banks, CDs are insured for up to $100,000.

A couple of cautions: you'll have to pay a penalty if you cash in your CD before its maturity date. And if interest rates go up after you're "locked in," you may regret your investment. (Best bet: go with a one- to two-year CD; traditionally, these provide the best rate of return.

IRAs and Keoghs

Are you hoping to live comfortably in your old age? Start salting funds away now in a tax-exempt retirement account.

It's true that the tax reform bill put some limitations on IRAs, but they are far from dead. They still offer a tax savings that will eventually earn you tens of thousands of dollars.

"An IRA is just like having a personal, portable pension plan," says Lee. "No question, a tax shelter that allows both yearly income and/or returns on it to mount up undisturbed for several decades is a good deal."

You can open an IRA through a bank, insurance company, mutual fund or brokerage house. Unless you already have a pension plan (or exceed maximum limits on income), you can deposit up to $2,000 per year and thereby reduce your taxable income by that amount.

Keogh plans work like IRAs but allow you to deposit a certain percentage of your income (up to $30,000) each year.

Adapt financial strategy to fit lifestyle

By Alison Ashton

How do you budget your cash?

A single person has different goals from a family with children. Two-career couples will have different investing plans than a traditional family with one stay-at-home spouse.

Financial considerations include protecting yourself and your family in case of disaster, such as layoff or illness, tax and estate planning and how much to risk on investments.

Whether single, divorced or a family, the first step is to organize your finances. Track expenses for a month and draw up a budget so that you know exactly how much you have to save and invest.

Protect important documents, such as insurance policies and stock certificates, by keeping them in a safety deposit box.

Starting out

Singles need a program that emphasizes flexibility and self-reliance.

Start by saving three months' worth of after-tax income for an emergency fund. Also, invest in disability insurance that will cover at least 60 percent of earnings in case of a long illness. This is important because a single doesn't have another wage-earner to rely on.

Leftover savings should go into aggressive growth investments to build assets. After you marry and have children, you'll be less willing to risk cash in aggressive investing.

Money magazine has recommended staying away from retirement savings plans, such as 401Ks and IRAs, for the time being. They can tie up cash that might be needed before turning 59½, such as a down payment on a house.

If a single is planning to stay in the same area for at least three years, he or she can cut the tax bill by investing in a home to write off mortgage interest. Singles should also pay off those credit card balances to get rid of high interest rates, which can't be written off at all after 1991.

Starting over

Single parents also need a three- to six-month emergency reserve, and their savings plan should also include a college fund.

Disability coverage is especially crucial if you're the sole wage-earner. If the ex-spouse pays alimony or child support, Money recommends taking out a life insurance policy on your ex to insure those crucial monthly payments.

The single-parent head-of-household status will get a lower tax rate than childless singles.

Money also recommends moving to a smaller, more affordable home.

Singles should pay close attention to estate planning. They should name a guardian for their children if widowed, and set up trusts so that assets go to the children.

DINKS

DINKS — couples with dual income, no kids — are a marketer's dream. With no children to support, they have lots of disposable cash.

"Impulse spending is the scourge of DINKs," says Money, and that can be their downfall.

For those who fall into this category, it's tempting to buy everything now. But with a little planning, they'll be able to afford that dream life, which might include early retirement or an exotic vacation home in the Caribbean.

Start by saving as much as 20 percent of combined income and put together an aggressive, growth-oriented portfolio. For couples who are DINKs now, but plan to have children later, this is the ideal time to salt away cash for hefty child-rearing expenditures.

DINKs take a beating on taxes, so look for ways to save pretax dollars, including enrolling in employer-sponsored 401K programs. Remember that charitable donations are another way to reduce taxable income.

Unmarried DINKs have the added responsibility of protecting their ownership rights. They should draw up a will and have an attorney draft a partnership contract which, in the case of home ownership, will spell out who pays for what and what happens to the property if the relationship breaks up.

Family factor

Two-career families, as well as traditional families with one working spouse, need to build adequate bank accounts to pay for college tuitions and have a three- to six-month emergency nest egg.

The two-career couple should scrutinize their employers' benefits packages carefully and turn down overlapping coverage. Flexible benefits packages may allow them to tailor a program that includes perks, such as child-care reimbursements.

The traditional family's primary concern is having adequate life insurance for the breadwinner. Buy a life insurance policy large enough to replace 75 percent of the wage-earners' annual income in the event of their death. For example, if he or she earns $100,000 a year, the policy should pay at least $75,000 a year to the surviving family members.

Advice of the rich and famous

By Nanette Wiser

Every year, Forbes, Fortune and Business Week offer a compendium of corporate poohbahs, the scions of wealth around the world. It's the society register of the money set, and if you're not in it, you're just not fiscally fantastic.

The 1989 Forbes 400 list of Richest Americans gives an inside glimpse of where the rich and famous live and work and how they earned their lucre. (Or, in the case of many, inherited it.)

Location may not be the key to riches, but New York is the home state of 80 of the Forbes 400, 20 percent more than any other state.

After New York, the states with the most members on the list are California (64), Texas (31), Florida (19), Illinois (19), Pennsylvania (17), Arkansas (12) and Ohio (12).

Surprisingly, Virginia's 10 residents on the list have a median net worth of $675 million, highest among all the states that have at least five members on the list.

As for the preferred cities for billionaires and millionaires, New York City ranks first with 82 members, twice the total of the second-ranked city, Los Angeles, docking in with 32. The San Francisco Bay area is third with 19 and Dallas/Ft. Worth share fourth place with 18 members.

John Werner Kluge, 75, founder of the Metromedia entertainment empire, added an estimated $2 billion to his fortune in the last year, moving him past Sam Walton into the number-one slot on the list. His $5.2 billion accrued from the extravagant prices people have been paying for cellular phone licenses.

Warren Buffet, number two on the list, is worth $4.2 billion and made his fortune in the stock market. Sumner M. Redstone's holdings in Viacom tripled in value this year and skyrocketed him to the third slot.

All in all, there are 66 billionaires, with the United States, Japan and Germany sharing the first, second and third slot for money maven's home countries. That's a total of $115.3 billion net worth for the gaggle of green-backed guys.

Where their fortunes come from is equally interesting. Seven of the top 10 members have made a significant portion of their fortunes in media and communications. Among the 72 are Ted Turner, the Newhouse brothers, the Cox sisters and Warren Buffet.

Manufacturing passed real estate as the source for the greatest number of Forbes 400 fortunes, as real estate values were virtually static in almost every part of the country. But technology yields the youngest billionaire in the group, William Henry Gates III, 33, who dropped out of Harvard to found Microsoft in 1974 and is worth a cool $1.25 billion.

There are those who have dropped off the list altogether as their fortunes plummet, such as Bob Guccione, publisher of Penthouse.

One person not on the list is President George Bush, worth roughly $4 million, according to an issue of Money. According to the article, the secret of Bush's success is not his financial acumen, but the "perks of high office, the couple's own modest tastes and some plain old-fashioned good luck."

They are benefitting primarily from the appreciation of their 26-room Kennebunkport, Maine sea-side house, bought mortgage-free for $800,000 in 1981 and now valued by local market experts around $3 million. Their other chief asset is the blind trust.

Adding to their security, the Bushes are both offspring of wealthy parents, in line for sizable inheritances. In 1972, the president's father left a $3 million estate to George's mother, Dorothy, now in her late 80s and ailing. Barbara's father, a former president of McCall Publishing Company, who died in 1969, "presumably" left most of his estate to Barbara's stepmother.

It's the Bushes' thrift that may in fact help the most. For example, the last vehicle they bought when the article was written was a 1981 Ford pickup, and the president's cigarette boat Fidelity cost only $15,000 back in 1973. He spends $450 to $600 for off-the-rack Southwick or Norman Hilton suits, and they rarely pay more than $20 per person at restaurants when dining out.

Of course, if you're still not sure how the rich and famous do it, consider these quotes from famous business people now and then for inspiration on making your first million:

- "When you send a fool to market, the merchants rejoice." (Anonymous)
- "Avarice, the spur of industry." (David Hume)
- "Money is a good servant, but a bad master." (Henry George Bohn)
- "The nature of business is swindling." (August Bebel)
- "I am a millionaire. That is my religion." (George Bernard Shaw).
- "Buying and selling is essentially anti-social." (Edward Bellamy)

- "The rich are the scum of the earth in every country." (G.K. Chesterton)
- "Success is the only ABC — ability, breaks and courage." (Charles Luckman)
- "Business has only two functions — marketing and innovation." (Peter F. Drucker)

- "There are only two emotions in Wall Street: fear and greed." (William M. LeFevre Jr.)

- "Business is like fishing. You have to have patience." (Leopold D. Silberstein)
- "A banker is a person who is willing to make a loan if you present sufficient evidence to show that you don't need it." (Herbert V. Prochnow)

Investment strategy for retirement years

By Chris Barnett and Art Garcia

Smart retirement planning has never been more important. The trend toward retiring younger — 60 will soon be the norm — combined with a longer life expectancy means that you will need a big nest egg to enjoy your golden years.

If you retire at 60 or 62, you could live to be 85. That means you'll need an investment strategy that will allow you to enjoy the good things (free time for travel, hobbies, a second home) as well as to anticipate the down side (the need for long-term health care).

"Less than 10 percent of Americans do a serious evaluation of whether they will have sufficient funds to meet their retirement needs," says Paul Kavesh, a tax attorney and financial planner.

"One of the biggest mistakes is that they bank on Social Security and their employer pension to sustain them through retirement."

Social Security isn't enough. Corporate savings plans, such as 401Ks, will provide a big chunk of what you need, but if you've followed another trend and changed jobs between 10 and 12 times during your working life, you might not benefit from corporate vesting.

You can start planning while you're in your 20s — the ideal time to start. If you save $2,000 at nine percent a year from 21-30, you'll have $620,000 at 65. Wait until you are 35 to start saving that $2,000 a year and you'll be almost $200,000 poorer at 65. That's because you missed out on the benefit of compounding.

The first step, according to Kavesh, is to make a budget and get a fix on your cash flow today.

Tally your current monthly expenses along with your monthly income so you see in black and white how much it costs you to live today. You'll need roughly 70 percent of your annual income, plus an annual inflation rate of five percent, to maintain your current standard of living.

Step two, says Kavesh, is to start pruning your taxes.

"It is very important to realize all of your tax benefits in saving for your retirement," he says. "Every dollar saved from the tax collector goes toward your nest egg. In retirement planning or any investing, it's not what you earn but what you keep."

Opt for low-risk, tax-free, tax-deferred or tax-sheltered investments, such as municipal bonds, bond funds or tax-deferred annuities, instead of taxable high-interest certificates of deposit.

If your employer offers a 401K savings plan, enroll in it. The advantages are many: you get to salt away part of your paycheck before it's taxed, and your employer kicks in money too.
