Protesters rally against abortion

By STEVE KELLMAN

The abortion debate came to the streets of Northville City last week as anti-abortion protesters picketed outside the Center Street office of Professional Ob-Gyn Associates.

The Northville protesters were also involved in a picket outside a Novi doctor's office on Novi Road two weeks ago.

The protest was led by Pastor Mark Freer of the Open Door Christian Church, a block south of the targeted site.

About 15 protesters at a time marched along the sidewalk in front of the doctors' office. According to Lynn Mills, another protest organizer, as many as 50 people — mostly women — participated in the picket throughout the day.

Many of the picketers brought their children, several of whom carried signs themselves.

Several of the signs carried by the circling protesters depicted the graphic results of abortions, while others carried hand-painted slogans like "Late-term baby burners," "Stop burning babies," and "Dr. Dock's Chop Shop."

One sign read "O.B.G.Y.N. professional baby killers of Northville."

Another sign the protesters stood on the lawn in front of the office read "Hurting... after an abortion?" and gave a toll-free number to call.

Picketers also waved signs reading "Honk for life" at passing drivers, many of whom did honk or wave as they drove past.

The business sign outside the doctor's office at 331 N. Center St. reads "Professional Ob-Gyn Associates," and lists the services of obstetrics, gynecology, infertility, cancer screens and laser surgery. The doctors listed on the sign are Sylvia Sio, M.D., Michael Kent, D.O., Francis Darling, D.O., Ronald Paroly, D.O., Robert Dock, D.O., and Annette Greenstein, M.D.

MISLEADING MESSAGES

According to Kent and other office staff, Paroly is retired and did not perform surgery when he practiced, while doctors Sio and Greenstein do not perform abortions.

Said one office staff member who asked not to be identified, "We deliver many more babies than are terminated."

Office personnel were upset that some of the picketers' signs listed all the doctors' names on their signs, and that several of the signs gave the impression abortions are performed at the Center Street office when they are not.

Said Freer, "We didn't take responsibility for all the signs that people brought." Though he admitted the possibility of people drawing the wrong conclusions from the signs, and said that sign con-

Assessments up in township

By MIKE TYREE

Residential assessments in Northville Township are up an average of 13.5 percent for the 1990 property-tax year, Supervisor Georgina Goss said Tuesday.

Goss said equalization studies completed by Wayne County indicated the increase was due to continued strong home sales in the township.

Wayne County based its figures on sales studies of nearly 400 homes sold in the township between mid-1987 and March 1989, Goss said.

She said home-sale information is available to the public at the township treasurer's office during normal office hours.

The assessments will be mailed to township residents Friday, Feb. 23, Goss said.

Assessments in the township increased almost 17 percent last year.

The rate for property assessments is based on the fair market value of the property, of which 50 percent is counted to determine property taxes.

The 50-percent figure is known as the state equalized value.

Administrative Assistant Nancy Molloy said residents who wish to appeal their assessments may appear before the township Board of Review.

"The board is there to review the assessments," she said. "People can appeal if they feel their assessment is too high, or if they claim a hardship normal office hours."

Library backers to hold hearing

By MIKE TYREE

Organizers of a plan to build a community library in Northville Township say they are looking for a big turnout at a Feb. 28 public hearing at township hall.

"We're looking for people with lots of questions," said James Petrie, co-chairperson of a group called Northville Citizens For a New Library and Cultural Center.

"In fact, the harder the questions, the better," he added.

Petrie said the public hearing will be a forum for those with questions about the proposed facility — which would be built on 72 acres on the corner of Six Mile and Sheldon Roads.

Northville Township received the land as a donation from former resident Frieda Haller in September, with the stipulation that a 44,800-square-foot library be built on the site.

Recent estimates for the construction and furnishing of the library have been placed at almost $7

Local group opposes Haller Library plan

By MIKE TYREE

A group opposed to a plan to build a community library in Northville Township is circulating surveys in an attempt to measure public opinion on the proposed facility.

Citizens For A Better Northville spokesperson Jeff Hampton said

Tuesday that the group has begun polling registered voters in both the city and township to determine what people think about the proposed Six Mile and Sheldon roads library site.

"Citizens For A Better Northville is opposed to the library," he said. "We're using this survey for information for our own purposes."

"We're trying to gauge attitudes of the community so we learn best how to present our arguments against (the township's library plan)," he added.

Hampton said his group consists of "six or eight people who would actually be out on the street and say 'they were members'."

Rich Holloway of Holloway Bakery, looks at some paczki. The bakery expects to make about 300 dozen for "Fat Tuesday."

Paczki Day

Baker caters to ethnic appetites with Polish treat

By STEVE KELLMAN

Head for the nearest bakery, it's almost "Paczki Day."

What is a paczki, you ask? Pronounced "punch keys," paczkis may be little more than Polish jelly doughnuts, but to those of Eastern Orthodox and Roman Catholic faith, they represent the last day of culinary freedom before the Lenten fast.

Paczki Day is also known as Shrove Tuesday, or "Fat Tuesday" by those who have enjoyed a few too many paczkis. It's the day before Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent.

This year, Shrove Tuesday falls on Feb. 27.

Local paczki aficionados have at least one source for the specialty. Rich Holloway of Holloway's Old Fashion Bakery in Northville is one of the few area bakers that makes paczkis.

Holloway, who has worked in Swedish and Polish bakeries in the past, still bakes different ethnic specialties. But Paczki Day is one of the four biggest days for his shop — the others being Easter, Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Holloway's bakery alone sold more than 300 dozen paczkis last year, and as of Tuesday the baker had received orders for 140 dozen.

Customers typically storm the store on Shrove Tuesday, according to Holloway. "We have them in and out of here all day," he said. "Last Shrove Tuesday, we couldn't keep up with them."

Stanislaw Lisiecki, a social worker with east European immigrants at the International Institute in Detroit, and co-author of a book on Polish customs, says the paczki craze is a symbol of the pre-Lenten Polish celebrations.

Shrove Tuesday is the last day of Ostaki, Polish for "last days."

City snowed by police actions

By STEVE KELLMAN

Recent actions by the Northville City Police Department have residents complaining about more than the weather.

Several city residents have charged the Northville City Police with selective enforcement of the city's snow-removal ordinance, the ordinance requiring homeowners to keep their sidewalks clean. As of noon Monday, police officers had issued violation notices to 26 residents and seven businesses after last week's snowfall.

"We didn't have any warning at all," Dorisa Court resident Shirley Maloney said. "This has been the first real snowfall that we've had, and they just decided to go out and do it."

Another Dorisa Court resident who did not want his name used was surprised at the timing of the enforcement — three days after the snowfall. He criticized the officers' inconsistent handling of the enforcement, mentioning the fact that they skipped a city employee and helped an elderly woman shovel her walk.

According to the Northville police, the city employee in question was not home Sunday, but will be ticketed.

Police Captain James Petres headed the ticketing operation on Saturday. Petres said the police began issuing warnings to homeowners that day but stopped when that process took too long.

On Saturday afternoon, they ticketed local businesses which had not yet cleared their sidewalks.

"As it turns out, most of the businesses had their driveways and parking lots plowed, but they hadn't done their sidewalks," Petres said.

On Sunday, police began ticketing residents as well. "Most of the people had at least two days (to shovel their walks)," Petres said.

"Shoveling your sidewalk is just one of those common-sense things," he added.

Northville police seem to be in a "damned if you do, damned if you don't" situation regarding the ordinance. "We do get complaints from people when it's not being enforced," Petres said. Complaints come from joggers and people out for a walk who must walk in the street rather than on the sidewalk.

Police Chief Rod Cannon agreed, saying, "There's an awful lot of unshoveled walks. You see an awful lot of people in the street because the sidewalks weren't cleaned."

The ordinance has been in effect for more than a decade, according to Cannon. Over the years, the police have used a number of methods to remind citizens of its existence.

"We've warned for years," Cannon said. "We run it in the paper, and we've mailed it out. But there comes a time, if an ordinance is to be effective, when you stop warning."

"I think it's reasonable to expect a

Scholarship gift a hit with school

By MIKE TYREE

A pitch made by Northville High School baseball Coach Robert Frellick to an official of the National Amateur Baseball Federation (NABF) has become a hit with local school administrators.

The Board of Education Feb. 12 accepted a gift of $10,000 from Ronald McMinn for the purpose of establishing a scholarship in the name of his late wife, Irene Audra McMinn.

Ronald McMinn is the executive director emeritus of the NABF and made the gift because of his regard for Frellick and the Northville baseball program, according to school officials.

The scholarship will be placed in a cash management account and earn interest will be disbursed in the form of a $500 award to a Northville senior enrolled in a school of nursing.

Superintendent of Schools George Bell called the gift "a significant scholarship contribution... a result of Bob's (Frellick) relationship with (the McMinn's)."

Frellick said the McMinn's had never lived in Northville, but were strong supporters of the amateur baseball program here.

"They were proud of the fact that Northville supported amateur athletics," Frellick said. "We're very happy for this donation from Mrs. McMinn."

Frellick will sit on a scholarship award committee with Northville High School staff to select candidates for the award. The school is presently accepting applications for the scholarship for the 1989-90 school year.

Police Blotters

Thief trots off with sulky from Northville Downs track

A driver at Northville Downs reported the theft of his $1,000 sulky on Feb. 7. The sulky was apparently stolen between 10 p.m. and 10:15 p.m. as it stood outside the barn where the driver was cleaning off his horse. The sulky was described as a Penway double-shaft model.

SNOW BUSINESS — A snowplow blade was reported stolen from the parking lot of Novi Road Cleaners on Novi Road between 8 p.m. on Feb. 15 and 7 a.m. on Feb. 16. The $700 plow, described as a red, six-foot Western model, was attached to a cement parking block by a cable. The cable appeared to have been cut by a cable cutter, according to city police reports. Police reported two sets of footprints leading to the blade after the theft. The plow's owner theorized that the thieves mounted the blade on a truck with a similar bracket to his own, in order to steal it.

FENDER BENDERS — City police reported at least six accidents in the past week. On Feb. 12 at 6:35 p.m., a vehicle driven by a Northville woman reportedly struck the vehicle of a Northville man heading west on Edward Hines Drive and stopped for the traffic light at Center Street. The woman was cited for failing to stop within an assured clear distance ahead.

On Feb. 13 at 7:15 p.m., a Northville man driving north on Center reportedly ran the red light at Eight Mile Road, striking a vehicle heading west on Eight Mile. The driver claimed he entered the intersection on a yellow light, but the driver of the other car and a witness agreed that the light for Eight Mile was green. The Northville man was cited for disregarding the light. The car he struck was towed from the scene.

Two accidents were reported on Feb. 16. At 10:50 a.m., a Warren man's vehicle slid off Novi Street south of Dorisa Court, striking a telephone pole. According to the city police report, the vehicle drove through 2½ feet of snow for 18 feet before striking the pole. The man was cited for failing to stop within an assured clear distance ahead. At 12:20 p.m., a Northville woman turning west onto Seven Mile from Main struck a vehicle heading south on Main. She was cited for failing to yield from a yield sign.

Two accidents were also reported on Feb. 17. In the first, a Northville man turning east onto Main from High Street at 12:55 p.m. struck a car heading east on Main Street. He was cited for failing to yield from a stop sign. At 1:40 p.m., a Northville man heading west on Main east of Griswold turned into the left lane, striking a car there. He was cited for improper lane use.

ATTENTION MEIJER SHOPPERS — The following arrests were made at the Meijer store, 20401 Haggerty, between Feb. 9 and Feb. 14:

Feb. 9 — a Detroit resident arrested after attempting to steal a pair of Nike basketball shoes at 9:18 p.m.

Feb. 10 — a Livonia resident was arrested after attempting to steal tools at 10:50 a.m.

Feb. 10 — a Union Lake resident arrested after attempting to steal food items and fishing lures at 2:10 p.m.

Feb. 10 — an Ypsilanti resident arrested after attempting to steal six cartons of cigarettes at 2:50 p.m.

Feb. 10 — juveniles from Northville and Novi arrested after attempting to steal Winchester 30.06 rifle shells at 5 p.m.

Feb. 12 — a Detroit resident arrested after attempting to steal items including three packages of Bill Blass briefs at 5:10 p.m.

Feb. 14 — suspect arrested after attempting to steal carnations and a fern at 3 p.m.

VEHICLE DAMAGED — A Dodge Daytona traveling on Northvalley received damage to its windshield by a thrown rock at 9:30 p.m. Feb. 10, according to township police. No further information was available from the township police media book.

LITERAL HIT AND RUN — The driver of a vehicle involved in a three-car accident on Sheldon Road Feb. 10 was issued citations for driving left of center and driving with a revoked license. Township police said after the accident, the driver fled his van and ran into a heavily wooded area before being apprehended by a township officer. The license plate on the driver's vehicle was not registered with the state, according to Secretary of State records, and records showed the driver's license had been revoked until 1997, police said. The incident occurred at 11:40 p.m. and no one was seriously injured.

SCHOOL COLORS — Buildings at Silver Springs Elementary on Silver Springs Drive were damaged by spray paint-wielding vandals sometime between Feb. 9-11, township police said. "Foul words" done in brown spray paint on the outside walls of the building caused damage in the amount of $200, police said.

COPPER TUBING STOLEN — Township police said an estimated $5,000 in copper tubing was taken from unfinished homes at the Blue Heron Point construction site sometime between 5:30 p.m. Feb. 9 and 8 a.m. Feb. 10.

CALLING ALL CAR PHONES — A car phone valued at $380 was stolen from a Mercury Sabel parked in a driveway on Dundalk Court, township police said. The theft occurred between 11 p.m. Feb. 12 and 7 a.m. Feb. 13, township police said.

UNDETECTED — Township police received a report that a radar detector valued at $150 was stolen from a Pontiac Fiero parked at an undisclosed site in the township. The driver's window of the vehicle was shattered and the damage was estimated at $300, police said. The incident occurred between 10 p.m. Feb. 13 and 6:20 a.m. Feb. 14.

Anti-abortion demonstrators target women's clinic in city

tent may be given more thought for future protests, he also said the doctors who do not perform abortions must share in the blame.

"The doctors who don't are associated (with those who do), and are obviously in approval," he said. "I don't accept that."

LATE-TERM TERMINATIONS?

"When we found out who the doctors were here, and that they're big-time late-term child killers, we didn't want to let it go without an outcry," Freer said during the picketing.

But Kent, one of the three doctors from the Northville office who does perform abortions, described allegations by the protesters that they perform late-term terminations as "utterly false." In fact, he said, they never perform abortions after the first trimester of a pregnancy.

"We've never done it," he added. "After 12 weeks we don't do it, and the hospital doesn't allow them after 12 weeks unless there's special consideration for a reason like a genetic problem."

Abortions after the 12th week of pregnancy are suggested if prenatal tests turn up evidence of genetic defects that could prove harmful or fatal to the child, or result in severe physical or mental deficiencies like Down's syndrome, Kent explained.

Even then, he said, such patients are first recommended to a geneticist for counseling, and then the geneticist may refer the patient to another doctor for an abortion.

"Here again, we're not really involved in that we don't perform the abortion or counsel the patients," Kent said.

As for abortions in general, he said, "We don't go out recruiting it."

Kent said that doctors from the office have only performed one or two abortions on patients from the Northville office in the last year.

Kent was unsure why the picketers picked his office for their anti-abortion demonstration. "We have no idea why they showed up," he

ONE OF FOUR OFFICES

The Northville office is one of four offices of Professional Ob-Gyn Associates. The others are the Drakeshire Professional Center in Farmington, Laurel Park Obstetrics & Gynecology and Woodwinds Office Complex in Livonia.

The Northville office performs pap smears; cervigrams, which are a much more accurate way of detecting cervical cancer; breast exams; cancer screening; and "routine gynecological care," Kent said.

The doctors are affiliated with Botsford Hospital in Farmington Hills and Sinai Hospital in Detroit.

OTHER INVOLVEMENT

Freer's group is planning to picket outside the Womencare center in Lathrup Village on Feb. 24 and in front of several doctors' homes on March 17.

Bringing the protest to the homes of doctors is just another way of focusing public attention on them, Freer said. "For doctors to retain their status in the community, they have to stop performing abortions," he said. "It does have an effect, whether they're going to profit from killing babies."

Freer and his parishioners have also been involved in Another Way

Pregnancy Center in Wixom, a crisis pregnancy center. Several female parishioners who have had abortions themselves before coming to the church also offer "sidewalk counseling," talking to women as they go into clinics for abortions, Freer said.

"These women are very sympathetic to women who are in that situation," he said.

"We've had people in our church open up their homes to young women in their 20s," he added, to help them carry their babies to term. "We're not just saying, 'We're against abortion and you shouldn't do it.' We're here for the mother, we're here for the children, we're here for everyone involved."

City Board of Review to handle assessment complaints

By STEVE KELLMAN

Northville City residents should be receiving their property assessments soon, and those unhappy with the new assessment can turn to their local board of review.

"Everybody thinks they're overassessed," said Board Chairperson Cutler. "Everybody thinks their castle is worth more when they sell it, and less when they have it assessed. But if someone can prove through known sales that they're overassessed, we'll correct it."

"If we can find any justification that it is assessed higher than the market value, we'll adjust it," he said.

The market value is based on the typical real-estate sales for a similar property in the area. "We take into consideration the sales in the area... legitimate market sales, arm's-length transactions, not father-to-daughter sales," Cutler said.

Residents can obtain figures of comparable sales from most real-estate agents, he added.

"We're also here for hardship cases," Cutler said. If people can justify that their income is below a certain level, they may be able to plead financial hardship.

If turned down by the board, residents or business owners can take their complaints to the state tax tribunal. "That's the final word, and that decision's only good for one year," Cutler said.

Cutler first decided to join the board of review 15 years ago. He considers it his contribution to the city. "What you do is you give something back to the city when you take from it," he said.

Cutler, 68, has been a Northville resident since 1960. He's been involved in the real estate business since 1946, and is a licensed builder and contractor.

Cutler is confident the current board has a good knowledge of the real estate market in Northville. "Between all three of us, I think we pretty much know all the properties in Northville," Cutler said.

YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

This will be Walter Zabinski's third year on the board. His experience in the real-estate market started early on. "My dad used to be in real estate and he owned a lot of property," Zabinski, 63, recalled. "From the time I was in kindergarten I went downtown and looked at abstracts with him." Abstracts are lists of the current and previous owners of the property.

A Northville resident since 1971, Zabinski has worked as an investigator with the Michigan Liquor Control Commission and the U.S. Department of Labor, and performed property title work in those positions.

"You run into some problems," Zabinski said of his experience on the board. "Northville's a pretty high-taxed area. The people come up here and they have a negative response to us because they figure we're raising their taxes," he said, "which we're not."

"They come thinking that we've raised their taxes, but the assessment is a separate thing. The big gripe is that taxes are going up higher than the rate of inflation."

"Prior to sitting on the board, I was probably the loudest complainer," he admitted.

William Milne has been a member of the board for seven years. "It's something that has to be done, and we take it that way," he said of the job. "You can't get upset about it, that's for sure." Milne, 82, came to Northville from Dearborn in 1947.

"You get a lot of the same people each time," he said, "especially the hardship cases." Milne has found that people pleading hardship are typically elderly widows with a fixed income. The board of review can adjust the assessment to provide some relief, or take the property off the tax rolls altogether.

Also, people with low income can apply to the state under the Homestead Act for as much as $1,200 toward their property taxes, he said.

The amount of relief is based on the percentage of income that a person spends on rent or property taxes.

"Of course, if your taxes are a couple of thousand dollars, you're out $800 anyway," Milne said.

IT'S IN THE MAIL

According to Northville Tax Clerk Chris Maloney, Oakland County assessments were scheduled to be mailed to property owners yesterday. The city has still not received Wayne County assessments, but Maloney hoped to be able to send those out by the beginning of next week.

So far this year, the dates for four review board hearings have been set, though more will be scheduled as needed (see related story). Six review board hearings were sched-ed after last year's assessments.

The city also typically receives between 30-40 written requests for reviews each year, from residents who are either out of town or house-bound.

Between the hearings and the write-in requests, Maloney estimated that about 200 people request reviews of their assessments each year.

"It runs between 200 and 225 a year," she said. "It was pretty heavy last year, and every year it's grown a little more."

Property owners can schedule a time for a 15-minute hearing on their assessment. Many communities, including Novi and Canton Township, only offer five-minute hearings, she added.

Review dates posted

Northville City residents unhappy with their assessments can take their case before the Board of Review in March.

Hearings have been scheduled for the following times:

- Mar. 13 — 1-5 p.m., 6-10 p.m.
- Mar. 16 — 9 a.m.-noon, 1-5 p.m.
- Mar. 22 — 1-5 p.m., 6-10 p.m.
- Mar. 27 — 9 a.m.-noon, 1-5 p.m.

According to Tax Clerk Chris Maloney, Oakland County assessments were scheduled to be mailed out yesterday, and Wayne County assessments should go out within the week.

Once residents receive their assessments, they can call the Northville City Hall's tax department at 349-1700 to schedule an appointment.

Appointments are not being accepted until property owners receive their assessments.

and have an inability to pay that tax amount."

Township Deputy Clerk Eunice Switzler said the Board of Review has sessions tentatively scheduled for March 6 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; March 7 from 3-9 p.m.; March 12 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.; and March 13 from 3-9 p.m.

Reviews will be held in the township hall meeting room, Molloy said.

Township recreation plan stalled by state paperwork

By MIKE TYREE

A plan to bring a recreation complex to Northville Township is in limbo because the proposed developer has yet to forward a wetlands mitigation application to the state.

Township officials and the development team of Detroit Realty Partners of Kansas City are reportedly nearing agreement on a 38-acre wetlands and recreation site east of Beck Road between Five and Six Mile roads.

The site would be developed as part of a transfer of wetlands from a parcel on Eight Mile and Haggerty roads, according to a spokesperson for Detroit Realty Partners.

But a Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) official said his office has not received an application for a wetlands mitigation.

"We have talked with Detroit Realty Partners about the site," said David Pingel, water quality specialist at the Pontiac DNR office. "They did have a proposal to mitigate, but at this point I have seen no application.

"I expect one will be forthcoming."

Don Henkelman, who has been serving as a liaison between the developer and Northville Township, said Monday he was not aware the application had not been sent to the DNR.

He said he would check with the developer on the status of the application, but did not return a call to the Record by press time.

Township Manager Richard Henningsen said he learned Tuesday that it was standard procedure for the local government and the developer to form an agreement before the official application was filed with the DNR.

"The state has to sign off a draft agreement between us and the developer," he said. "When that happens, a formal petition will go to the DNR."

The proposed township/Detroit Realty Partners agreement would call for the developer to build soccer and multi-purpose fields — as well as a concession stand and restrooms — on township property near the Six Mile/Beck Road exchange in exchange for the right to develop a six-acre parcel on Eight Mile and Haggerty.

Township Attorney Ernest Essad previously said the mitigation deal could be worth as much as $400,000 in recreation improvements to the township.

But another sticking point may come from the DNR side.

Pingel said the DNR will not mitigate just for the sake of development.

"The applicant must show that there are no feasible alternatives to mitigation," he said. "Any impact permitted would be a last-resort situation."

"At that time, we would talk about it," he said.

Pingel would not speculate on the chances of state approval for the proposed project.

"Let me just say that the department requires mitigation for development purposes," he said.

Past year busy for township planners

By MIKE TYREE

"Intense" was the word used by township Planning Commission Chairperson Charles DeLand to describe the activities of the nine-member planning and zoning group in 1989.

In his annual report to the Board of Trustees, DeLand said the planning commission had faced "increasing pressures for community development and community preservation" in 1989.

DeLand said 39 requests for review had been submitted by developers in 1989, headed by 19 site plans, seven land divisions, five woodlands proposals and two plats.

Development proposals for the plats would create 270 single-family lots to the township and land divisions would add another 15-20 homes, he said.

The intent of the planning commission, DeLand said, is to preserve the primarily residential character of Northville Township with a "cleaner, more streamlined" zoning ordinance.

The commission considered 19 elements of the ordinance for update in 1989, with reviews continuing this year.

DeLand said the planned residential unit development and cluster-option sections of the zoning ordinance were among the 1989 revisions.

The planners are presently reviewing and expect to adopt a planned unit development ordinance by late March.

Several development hot spots were noted in DeLand's report.

He said the Six Mile and Haggerty Road intersection — a "gateway" to the township — now supports a gas station, with a bank and motel planned in the near future. Ward Presbyterian Church's controversial 42-acre development proposal on the northwest corner of the intersection will also cause congestion in the area, according to DeLand.

He said concerns over safety and potential traffic overload at the site resulted in a meeting between officials from the township, Wayne County, the township engineer and four developers.

The meeting brought about a plan to temporarily widen Six Mile Road near the intersection until Six Mile "can warrant eligibility for full widening to five lanes."

The planners developed and adopted a tree and woodlands protection amendment to the zoning ordinance in 1989.

The woodlands amendment was devised because the township "finds that rapid growth, the spread of development, and increasing demands upon natural resources have had the effect of encroaching upon, despoiling, or eliminating many of the trees and other forms of vegetation and natural resources in the township."

The ordinance is intended to minimize the damage and disturbance of trees and woodlands. Site plans must now detail woodlands areas and developers must adhere to the township ordinance if they hope to gain approval for their projects.

DeLand's report stated that the planning commission met on 22 occasions in 1989 — 12 regularly scheduled sessions and 10 special meetings.

According to DeLand, the planning commission is "committed to enhancing the character and attributes which comprise Northville Township by carefully guiding community growth."

Debate continues over MainCentre parking deck options

By STEVE KELLMAN

While city officials continue to explore other options for the size and placement of the MainCentre parking deck, local resident John Kaloustian found the deck's designers sympathetic to changes in its location.

But at least one developer disagrees with Kaloustian's optimism.

John Kaloustian, who helped galvanize public opposition to the deck for a recent city council meeting, met last week with officials from Singh Development and Rich & Associates, the builders and designers of the proposed deck.

The present deck design would provide five floors of parking in a four-story structure on Center Street. Among the options Kaloustian has suggested is lowering the deck to one story, or moving it to the site of the city's present parking deck on Cady Street.

Kaloustian found the developers amenable to the idea of moving the deck.

"They seemed to be real favorable and kind of excited about the whole idea when we talked about it," he said. "At first they kind of had their fists up, but afterwards they seemed to like the idea."

"Right now, I think the city is looking at a lot of different possibilities," agreed Singh Vice President Mike Kahm. But, he said, "My preference, of course, is to have it to the south of the project. It's going to be devastating for us if we can't provide for that link to our building."

The link Kahm referred to is the proposed pedestrian bridge over Cady Street that would link the parking deck to the 74 apartments in MainCentre. The MainCentre project itself was specifically designed with that link in mind, he said.

"We certainly don't have any problem with modifying the deck," he added, "as long as that bridge connection can be maintained."

Kahm was also surprised at the sudden opposition to the deck. "It's a little astounding to me that all of a sudden, after all that (negotiation), there are some concerned residents who want to change everything, back to square one," he said.

City officials have been negotiating with Singh for more than a year as to the size and cost sharing of the proposed deck.

Said Kahm, "It's difficult for us when we get down to a point of no return, which we're very nearly at, to consider changes of this magnitude."

The current controversy will likely delay completion of the deck, whatever form it takes, Kahm added. That may mean parking problems when MainCentre finally opens.

"We're going to have a parking problem, that's clear, when we open up," Kahm said.

Singh officials had originally planned to send the deck project out to bid in March so that it could be completed when MainCentre is. The mixed-use development is currently scheduled to open by the end of 1990.

"Our schedule was very tight," Kahm admitted, "but it was doable. Now we're really back to the drawing board."

"We have some major concerns, to put it mildly."

The current controversy is the result of protest by more than 20 city residents at a recent city council meeting against the size and location of the deck. Many of those present questioned the city's need for so much additional parking, and the wisdom of placing the deck on Center Street.

Council members were also given a petition signed by 30 citizens which read, "We petition that this is not the solution to the city's parking needs in this location and is not in keeping with the scale and desire for Nor-thville's development and use of our tax dollars."

Kaloustian said that if the developers decide to proceed with the present deck design he'll "be out ringing more doorbells" and gathering more opposition to the plan. "If they do it, I'll be back on my bandwagon," he said.

Planners study PUD ordinance

By MIKE TYREE

The recent sale of Wayne County-owned land in Northville Township has prompted planning commissioners to step up efforts to pass a planned unit development (PUD) ordinance.

Planning commission Chairperson Charles DeLand announced the formation of a subcommittee to study the PUD ordinance during the commission's Jan. 30 meeting.

DeLand instructed the subcommittee to review the proposed ordinance and offer a version of the PUD for commission study and possible acceptance within two months of the group's formation.

According to the township's preliminary ordinance, a PUD is defined as "a specific parcel of land or several contiguous parcels of land, for which a comprehensive development plan meeting the requirements... has been approved by the township board...."

The passing of a PUD ordinance in Northville Township has become important because of the impending sale of 933 acres of county land to a group of developers headed by the R.A. DeMattia Company of Plymouth.

County Executive Edward McNamara announced Jan. 24 that the DeMattia group had won the right to develop the former Wayne County Childhood Development Center land for almost $32 million. (see related story)

DeMattia's proposed development, which will contain equal portions of residential housing, light industrial, and open space areas, will utilize the PUD.

To qualify for the township's PUD under the preliminary plan, the developers of the county land would need to fulfill the following conditions:

- Develop a minimum area of 600 acres under single ownership or control.

- Promote the land-use goals and objectives of the township.

- Show complete protection of woodland areas and allow for a minimum 25 percent open-space area.

- Provide a variety of open-space features such as active and passive recreation and preservation of natural features.

- Develop an area large enough to provide a variety of land uses, including substantial one-family residential areas and employment areas.

- Plan the development so that there will be no negative impact on adjacent land uses, with the objective that proposed uses will be compatible with existing or planned adjacent land uses.

The chief benefit to the developer of property under the PUD ordinance would be increased housing density.

DeLand appointed Karen Woodside, planning commission vice chairperson, to head the PUD subcommittee. Other members of the PUD study team include planners Karen Baja, Jerry Chisnell and John Leinonen.

Township Attorney Ernest Essad, planning consultant Claude Coates and township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise round out the subcommittee staff.

Maise said the group has made significant progress in the search for an all-encompassing PUD ordinance.

"The subcommittee has been very productive," she said. "We should have done this months ago."

Maise said having Coates and Essad at the subcommittee meetings helps expedite the ordinance review process. Planners can ask questions and receive direction immediately, instead of having to wait weeks for legal guidance on certain issues, she said.

The planning commission may be able to vote on the PUD ordinance by its March 27 meeting, Maise said. She said a draft of the ordinance would have to go to the Wayne County Planning Commission before it could be accepted by the township Board of Trustees.

City nearing agreement on planning bylaws

By STEVE KELLMAN

After weeks of labor, Northville City's planning commissioners may soon be the proud parents of their own set of bylaws.

The new bylaws are the result of Planning Consultant Don Wortman's observation at a recent meeting that the commission may be in violation of state law for operating without a formally adopted set of bylaws.

Wortman's observation followed heated discussion on the role of the audience and liaisons in that and previous commission meetings. At that meeting, the commission appointed a subcommittee to study Wortman's proposal.

According to planning commissioner and subcommittee member David Totten, the subcommittee agreed with most of Wortman's proposal, which was based on the bylaws of other planning commissions.

Last Tuesday's subcommittee meeting was attended by commissioners Totten, Don McCulloch, David Mielock and Commission Chairperson John Hardin.

"What we're trying to do basically is adapt the bylaw draft that Don gave us to the specifics of the Northville Planning Commission ... with what looks to us to be correct ordinance language," Totten said. "I would hope we won't vote on it Tuesday, because the commission hasn't really had a chance to look at what the subcommittee did. No one will have had an opportunity to study it."

"My feeling is that most of it should fly, but I don't like voting on things that we've just looked at," he said.

Totten said some "little changes" were made in Wortman's draft.

"There were things that simply needed to be adapted," he said, such as the length of time a commissioner is in office. "Most of it is certainly not very controversial."

As for the controversial part — the part about audience and liaison comments — Totten said the subcommittee will propose separate agenda items at the beginning of commission meetings for each. This decision follows the commission's longstanding tradition of having no designated time for audience comments, and leaving the handling of such comments to the discretion of the chairperson.

Totten predicted that delivery of the proposal to the planning commission would go fairly smoothly. "I do not see the bylaws as being a very controversial thing," he said. "Of course, I could be wrong."

'Fat Tuesday' food for thought

"These are the last days that meat or animal products can be eaten before Great Lent," Lisiecki explained. "The women would use the last of their eggs and lard to make the paczkis."

"In Poland, during Lent traditionally, no meat or dairy products were consumed at all."

While paczkis are traditionally prepared with plum preserves in the middle, modern versions are made with various jellies or cream fillings.

"They can be fried, the way a doughnut is, or steamed," Lisiecki added.

As Lisiecki explains, paczkis are just one of several Polish foods common throughout the Lenten season. Once Lent begins, the faithful rely on other traditional dishes to get them through the fast.

For instance, you can enjoy a bowl of zur, a meatless barley soup, and have some galabkis — cabbage stuffed with rice and served with tomato sauce, or stuffed with buckwheat and mushrooms and served with mushroom sauce — on the side.

Or treat yourself to pierogi and lazanki — dumplings stuffed with potatoes or cabbage and thick noodles served with sauerkraut.

City resident Bill Koontz, a 24-year veteran of Northville winters, said he was warned by police to get his walk cleared.

resident to shovel his walk within three days after it snows," he added. "The ordinance says 24 hours."

Police officers try to contact people before issuing citations, Cannon said. If a homeowner is not home, officers wait to issue the citations. But in the case of businesses, citations may be issued without the business owner being present.

Several more residents will likely receive citations, Cannon added, as soon as police contact them.

The ordinance reads, "No person shall permit any snow or ice to remain on the sidewalks in the front, rear or sides of any house, premises, building or lot owned, occupied or controlled by him, longer than 24 hours after the same has fallen or formed."

The initial fine for the violation is $10. But under the ordinance, residents who contest the violation and are found guilty may ultimately be fined up to $100 or subject to as many as 90 days in prison — or both.

The ordinance has been on the books in its present form for 12 years.

Group against library polls local citizens on positions

A group of volunteers will complete between 200-300 surveys in community voting precincts in an attempt to get a "representative sampling," Hampton said.

The 13 questions on the survey range from "Does Northville need a new library?" to "How should an architect for a new library be selected?" and "Would you be willing to pay a nominal fee for book rental?"

Hampton said the questions on the survey are "unbiased and unleading" and are "much less biased and slanted" than opinion polls suggested by the township.

"We are not professional survey takers," he said. "This is not a scientifically designed survey and we have Township Finance Director James Graham last week set a preliminary cost for the complete library construction committee because its annual budget does not top the state-required $1,000 level."

no means of certifying that we are not cheating, but we will publicize the results."

Hampton, a township resident, said the group was opposed to the library for several reasons.

"The township never discussed the possibility of user fees or privatization," he said. "And the 72 acres (donated to the township by former resident Frieda Haller) is a major sticking point."

Hampton said the group was bothered by the fact that the library would sit on 72 acres that would "permanently be taken off the tax rolls."

Hampton called that figure "a very optimistic projection."

He said he feared a recession which would potentially cut back on the residential growth rate in the township during a proposed 15-year debt-retirement period.

"If we hit a recession, all bets are off on the financing charges," he said.

Hampton said results of the survey would be released in mid-March.

According to a press release issued by the group, Citizens For A Better Northville was formed in 1988 to watch over city and township government expenditures.

The press release said the group opposed the failed Beck Road recreation millage attempts in 1988 and 1989 elections.

Hampton said the group is not a registered political action committee because its annual budget does not top the state-required $1,000 level.

"Ours is a lot less than that," he said.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss, one of the main supporters of the new library plan, said she had seen one of the group's surveys.

"I have no idea who they are or what their concerns are," she said. "Obviously, they have a right to put out a survey and I hope they come to the (Feb. 28) public hearing."

Hampton said Citizens For A Better Northville would attend the public hearing.

"There will be people there," he said. "A number of volunteers will be on hand."

Library supporters plan forum to answer citizens' concerns

million. Township residents will decide the fate of the proposed library at a May 1 election.

Petrie said a "fact sheet" will be distributed at the 7:30 public hearing to acquaint local residents with the library proposal. He also said the library committee will push the idea that the site has the potential for multiple uses.

"People are thinking that this can be more than just a library," he said. "That's a major point. A number of people have said that they wish the Senior Citizens Center and the local arts program could be housed there, too."

Petrie said the public hearing will be an attempt to "address some of the concerns" over the proposed library. He said George Bell, superintendent of Northville Public Schools, would speak on the importance of a good library system to a community.

At this time, the City of Northville and the township have not agreed upon a shared-services plan — the formula that determines the level of funding for joint city/township programs, including the community library.

The township has sent a services proposal to the city, but officials there reportedly have questions over the definition of equity as presented by the township and have yet to accept the plan.

Petrie said he hopes city residents will join in the movement to bring a new library to the community.

"We'd very much like to have the city be a part of it," he said. "I'd like to extend an invitation to city residents and officials to come to the public hearing and find out what we have to offer."

Five committees have been formed to gain public support for the library, according to Maureen Osiecki, information volunteer for the library committee.

Osiecki said Betty Griffin would be handling the committee co-chair duties with Petrie. The balance of the campaign groups include: publicity, voter organization, election day, facility and site planning, and finance committees, she said.

Book sale at Cooke

Friends of the Northville Library present a used book sale on Friday, Feb. 23 at Cooke School.

There will be no members' preview to the sale, which is being held to reduce the group's stock of used books. Because Cooke School will be reopened in the fall, the Friends of the Library is forced to find a new storage area for the books.

Shoppers are asked to bring their own grocery bags to the sale, which runs from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Bargain prices will be offered.

While the Friends search for a new storage area, book contributions will not be accepted.

Just a couple of hours a week with a caring, certified teacher can make a world of difference in subjects ranging from reading and writing to basic math and algebra. Your child will benefit from renewed confidence and self-esteem.

Township reviews plan for homes at Lapham Field

By STEVE KELLMAN

If a Birmingham developer has his way, Northville Township will lose another recreation field but gain more homes.

According to Carol Maise, planning and zoning administrator for the township, her department recently received a preliminary site plan for a 95-lot residential development at and around Lapham Field.

The proposal, by S. R. Jacobson of Birmingham, is to build 95 single-family detached condominium units on the 48-acre site northwest of Six Mile and Beck.

The Jacobson proposal has received preliminary qualification for cluster-housing status, though no preliminary site-plan approval has been issued. Maise said her office and township consultants are currently reviewing the site plan, and expect to present it to the planning commission at a Feb. 27 meeting.

Maise said that detached condominiums are becoming a more popular option among developers, because such developments are easier to pass than more traditional single-family residential developments. While builders may have to wait one to two years to get final approval of a traditional single-family development, approval of a condominium development is usually much quicker.

Developers unveil plans for 930-acre township site

Three heavy hitters on the suburban development scene and the largest life-insurance company in metro Detroit will team to build what is believed to be the biggest single mixed-use project ever attempted in southeastern Michigan. They call it Huntington Falls — 930 acres of what now is mostly vacant county land in the south-central part of Northville Township.

Over a 10-year period, the consortium plans to construct:

- Upwards of 1,200 housing units including homes, condominiums and apartments.
- Recreational facilities, including a Le Trevino-designed, semi-public golf course, riding stables, tennis courts and pools.
- Several buildings along the site's southern perimeter for research and development and light industrial use, a smattering of offices and commercial buildings like restaurants, specialty stores and convenience stores.

The development team reads like a who's who in the business:

- R.A. DeMattia Co., headed by Robert A. DeMattia in Plymouth, will act as the managing partner. DeMattia has made a reputation developing and building technology/industrial parks.
- The Selective Group, headed by Michael Horowitz in Farmington Hills, is a major force in residential construction. Selective also does commercial work. In the Northville area it most recently built the St. Lawrence Estates Condominiums in Northville and the Timber Ridge subdivision in Novi.
- Heritage Development Co., headed by Heinz Prechter in Southgate, specializes in construction of offices and light industrial buildings. Prechter, an entrepreneur, also is a booster of economic development in Wayne County and is chairperson of an automotive-supply company with business connections around the world.
- Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. in Farmington Hills, the largest in the metro area with assets of $2.7 billion in 1988, according to Crain's Detroit Business, is a major financing partner of the project.

"We believe this is a unique opportunity to do a unique project," DeMattia said. "A project of this magnitude will be a challenge. The build-out cost of the project is $1.5 billion. That's the total of everything when completed," he said.

The development will extend east of Sheldon Road to Hines Park south of Brookline Golf Club and is basically bounded on the other sides by Five Mile, Beck and Six Mile.

DeMattia expects that it will take at least a year to finalize plans and obtain all necessary approvals and permits before work begins.

Part of the agreement between the consortium and the county executive's office calls for the purchase price of $31.7 million to be paid within seven months after the county commission ratifies the deal.

DeMattia declined to discuss financing specifics.

The construction timetable also remains in flux due to the magnitude of the project.

"The golf course starts first, the main entrance, some residential and some non-residential," DeMattia said. "We'll go on as the market dictates. We'll be opening, as we progress, different sections."

Each partner has a specific responsibility in addition to an interest in the project as a whole.

DeMattia will tend to most of the developing tasks. Horowitz will be in charge of housing. Prechter will concentrate on marketing and finding tenants for the technology, industrial and office buildings.

"I personally put the team together," DeMattia said. "Gary (Roberts) and myself have spent thousands of hours putting this together, putting it into harmony with governmental units, nature, the market."

Roberts is vice president for development at DeMattia.

Houses, condos and apartments will be built comparable to what's in the Northville community now, Horowitz said.

Houses could cost $300-$400,000, condos from $200-$500,000, and apartments renting at $800-$900 per month depending on the existing market, he said.

"We hope to have a fairly broad price range," Horowitz said. "All (units) will be upscale for their type. Remember, we're a couple of years out. We have to be flexible subject to market conditions at the time."

The consortium wants to refurbish some of the dilapidated buildings that have architectural character east of Sheldon into condos or townhouses, Roberts said. Those buildings had been part of the Wayne County Child Development Center.

Prechter has contacts in Japan, South Korea, Australia and West Germany through his auto supply business, said David Treadwell, managing director of Heritage Development. Those connections may prove helpful in luring business clients to the site.

"Marketing would be the first lead, but there will be a lot of small projects within the big project," Treadwell said. "We hope to be involved in those."

The non-residential portion of Huntington Falls now is projected at 2.8-3 million square feet, primarily buildings of one and two stories, Roberts said.

"Again, that remains to be confirmed with the final design over 10 years," he added.

DeMattia said he doesn't know whether the consortium will request tax breaks for the technology/industrial portions of the project.

"That's a very, very volatile issue," he said. "When I'm overseas marketing, one of the first things people want to know is what kind of abatement do you offer."

Three state prisons near the development site will be "no factor" in attracting residents and business prospects, DeMattia said. He described the working relationship between the consortium and various governmental units as good.

"We have a history of working with municipalities and not fighting them," DeMattia said. "That's the secret, I think, anywhere. We only like to develop in communities that want us to develop and not fight it."

The consortium needs approvals of its planned unit development proposal and site plans from Northville Township before proceeding.

Concept revealed

By MIKE TYREE

A concept plan which offers a futuristic view of more than 930 acres of county-owned property in Northville Township has been unveiled.

The plan, devised by the Huntington Falls Limited Partnership — headed by Plymouth-based developer R.A. DeMattia — features a sprawling 18-hole golf course, designed by Lee Trevino, which is buffered by nearly 300 acres each of light industrial and residential areas.

The DeMattia partnership won the right to develop the former Wayne County Childhood Development Center property with a $31.75 million bid Jan. 24.

The sale hinges on the approval of the Wayne County Commission. No date has been set for county commission talks on the proposed sale, according to officials there.

The property includes approximately 1.25 square miles of land between Five and Six Mile roads west of Sheldon and Beck Road. Another quarter square-mile of land is located to the east of Sheldon, north of Five Mile.

The concept plan includes single and multi-family housing units, elderly multi-family housing, research and development and office space sites and open-space areas.

If the sale is approved by the county, and the development falls within the township's forthcoming planned unit development ordinance (PUD), work on the site may begin by early 1991, a DeMattia spokesperson said.

The concept plan indicates the research and development areas would line Five Mile and Beck Roads. Residential areas would be constructed along Six Mile and on both the east and west sides of Sheldon.

Robert DeMattia, president of R.A. DeMattia, was unavailable for comment on the concept plan by presstime.

Township Supervisor Georgina Goss called the proposal "an interesting concept, but it will be reviewed and (DeMattia) will receive input from the planning commission."

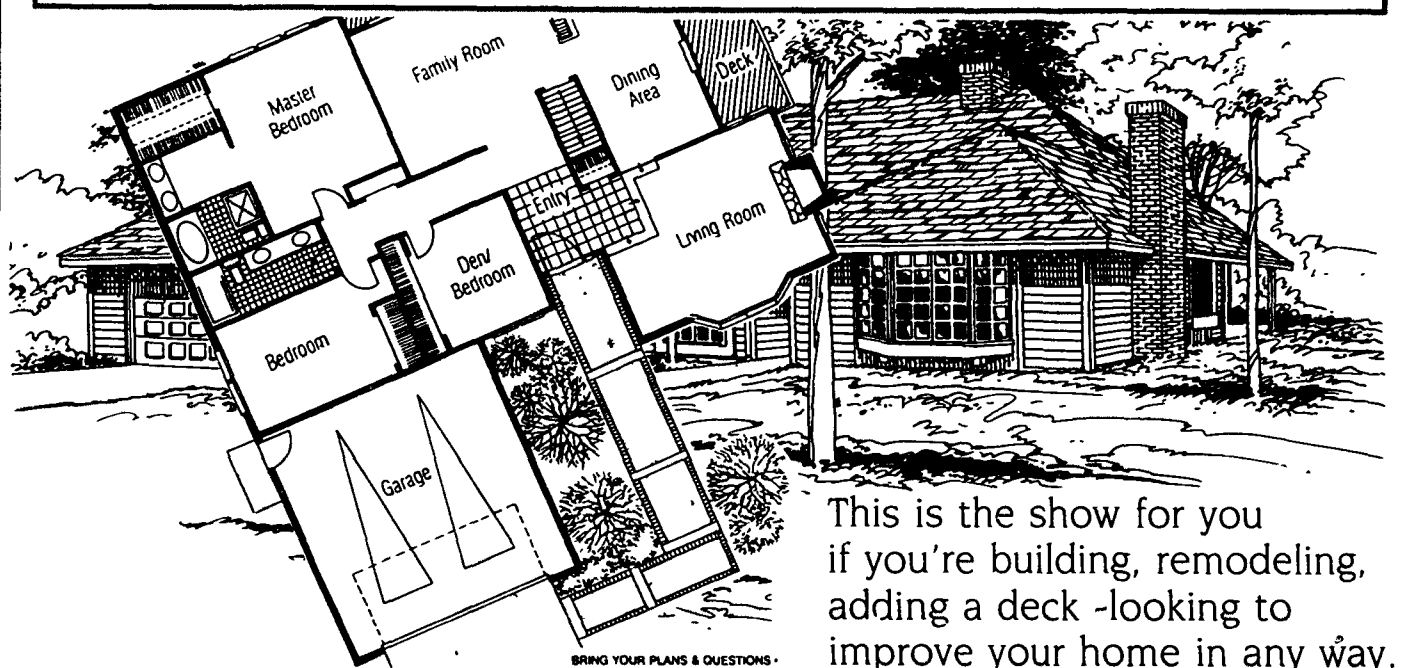

Wayne County Commissioner Alberta Tinsley-Williams, chairperson of the county's Committee on Economic Development, said she did not know when the county commission would review the land sale.

"We don't have any specific date at this time," she said. "But the county is finalizing all the legalities before submitting a proposal to the commission."

"I understand they are dotting the i's and crossing the t's right now," she added. "People do want to go ahead on this project."

Tinsley-Williams said she had not heard of any "major concerns or points of contention" on the land sale at this time.

Award-winning artist calls Northville home

Light, life explored in Ord's work

By BRENDA DOOLEY

Sunlight diffused by winter clouds tumbles through skylights in Linda Banks Ord's studio.

An easel spotlights her most recent artwork — a brilliantly hued chalk drawing of a young girl. Other pieces — watercolors and oils — line the walls or clutter the corners of her work space. She spends a lot of time here, experimenting with new techniques and fine-tuning tried-and-true artistic methods. The blank canvas is her means of expression. And she's always struggling to find new ways of conveying her ideas.

"Some paintings are wrestling experiences," the Northville artist said. "But some come tremendously easy."

Ord's interest in art was piqued about nine years ago, when she took a painting class at Schoolcraft College. She became intrigued and pursued an art education in art and art history.

"Now it's more or less a profession for me," Ord says about her career as an artist. "I spend 40 hours a week or more on it."

In 1987 Ord received a bachelor's degree in fine art from the University of Michigan, where she received the School of Art Award for Excellence and the Bill Lewis Watercolor Award. In May, she expects to receive a master's degree in painting from Wayne State University.

Lately, her art — which she describes as a representational style with abstract qualities — has drawn state and local recognition. In 1989 her work was shown in 20 juried exhibits, resulting in seven awards. Her striking self-portrait entitled "Woman" won "Best of Show" honors in the 1989 "Women in Art — Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" show co-sponsored by Oakland Community College, Womencenter and Oakland County NOW.

Her other awards include being listed in "American Artists: An Illustrated Survey of Leading Contemporaries."

Before Ord's life as an artist took wing, she studied French and sociology at Brigham Young University, graduating in 1970. She says her interest in human behavior and sociology is often reflected in her paintings. She paints mainly from models but sometimes uses old family photographs or media imagery as a focus.

Several of her pieces explore the aspects of light and its dramatic and subtle effects on objects and life forms.

"I use a lot of figures," she said,

Artist Linda Banks-Ord in her studio

referring to her works. "I'm also influenced by art history. . . I prefer simplified styles. . . I like to put as little as possible into my paintings because I think it makes them more powerful."

A resident of Northville for 12 years, Ord grew up in Pleasant Grove, Utah. She and her husband, Ken, vice president and treasurer of Kelly Services, have three children — Jason, 17, Justin, 15 and Kristin, 11.

Her other hobbies include singing — she and her husband have previously sung the "Messiah" at the First Presbyterian Church in Northville — tennis and reading.

"But art is my focal point now," she says.

In more business-related matters, Ord serves as the president of the University of Michigan School of Art Alumni Society Board of Governors.

"It's easy to get distracted by the business of art," Ord says. "But I enjoy it also. . . I need the stimulation it brings."

The business of art she speaks of includes organizing activities for the board of governors and preparing for art shows.

The Atrium Gallery in Northville carries Ord's work on an ongoing basis. A show featuring about 15 pieces of her work, in both oil and watercolor, ran in January. The gallery is at 113 N. Center St.

What's lies ahead for this local artist? Ord admits she isn't sure.

"Right now I'm having fun. . . I'm always interested in pushing my art to a new level," she said.

Detroit considers raise in water rate

By TIM RICHARD

DETROIT — Council members in the city that sells water and sewage services to the suburbs held a public hearing last Thursday on the first rate-increase proposal in two years.

"They've been doing a fair job lately," said George Kuhn, Oakland County drain commissioner who in the past has been a frequent critic of Detroit's services and rates.

"It's a modest increase. At 5 to 8 percent, it's reasonable. I have a couple areas of concern, but that's the way it looks at this point," said Kuhn, who has tangled often with his former state Senate colleague, Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

On average, suburbs would pay 5.2 percent more for sewage treatment in fiscal 1990-91, according to the proposal of Charlie J. Williams, director of the Detroit Water and Sewerage Department.

"That 5.2 percent comes after two years of stabilized rates which are still among the lowest in the country," Williams said. Leading cost increase: 30 percent more for employee hospitalization.

Water customers will pay 8.8 percent more, under Williams' proposal.

Both rates are wholesale — that is, suburban cities, villages, townships and county authorities would pay the wholesale rate and be free to pass it on to local homeowners and businesses, absorb it, or charge even more.

Detroit sells water to 117 suburban agencies and sewerage services to 82.

The water budget will rise 4.7 percent to $95.6 million; sewerage, 7.7 percent to $132.7 million.

Here are local breakdowns in terms of dollars per 1,000 cubic feet:

WATER

- City of Northville — up 7.09 percent to $5.59.
- Northville Township — up 6.15 percent to $7.60.
- City of Novi — up 6.75 percent to $8.06.
- Oakland County Drain Commission — up 23.77 percent to $3.02.
- Walled Lake — up 6.91 percent to $6.34.

SEWAGE

- Evergreen-Farmington District — up 5.49 percent to $4.42.
- Southeast Oakland County District — up 5.49 percent to $4.42.
- Wayne County Middle Rouge District — up 5.28 percent to $4.39.

Commission Order - CFI-115.90

(Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended)

WALLEYE AND SAUGER SIZE LIMIT

Under the authority of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1925, as amended, being sections 300.1 through 300.5 of the Michigan Compiled Laws, the Natural Resources Commission at its October 4, 1989, meeting ordered that for a period of five years the walleye and sauger size limit shall be 15 inches on all state waters, except Lake Gogebic, Big Manistique Lake, Grand Lake (Presque Isle County), Lake Erie, Lake St. Clair and the Detroit and St. Clair Rivers.

This order supersedes the Commission order entitled "Walleye and Sauger Size Limit", effective January 1, 1985, and assigned number CFI-115.85.

This order shall take effect on April 1, 1990, and shall remain effective through March 31, 1995.

Report details area developments

By MIKE TYREE

Northville Township Planning and Zoning Administrator Carol Maise updated the Board of Trustees on the status of area development projects as of the Feb. 8 board meeting.

Maise's report included an outline of each current development project. A summary of projects in the township includes:

- Crestwood Manor Subdivision (Six Mile/Beck) — Phase one of this 174-lot subdivision is under construction and building permit applications for the models have been submitted to the township building department. Maise said some models should be up by spring and height variances of 10 feet are being requested on some of the units.

- Pickford Meadow Subdivision (Pickford/Seven Mile) — This 12-lot subdivision has received engineering approval and is presently under construction.

- Northville Trails Subdivision (Six Mile/Haggerty) — An engineering review for 84 houses adjacent to the Maple Hill Subdivision is proceeding and an Act 98 permit (necessary for construction, alteration, addition, or improvement to public sanitary sewerage system) has been issued by the Department of Natural Resources.

- Lakepointe Apartments (Five Mile/Haggerty) — The township engineer has approved 14 apartments on the site and a pre-construction meeting will be scheduled soon, according to Maise.

- Benton's Corner (Rymarz Cluster) (Six Mile/Waterford) — Building permit applications have been submitted for six cluster homes and construction should begin soon.

- Standard Federal Bank (Six Mile/Haggerty) — Engineering and construction plans have been approved by the township engineer. A pre-construction meeting was held and construction should begin soon pending easement approval and recording.

- Ward Presbyterian Church (Six Mile/Haggerty) — Acting under the advice of the township attorney, final site-plan approval has been tabled pending the outcome of litigation.

- Our Lady of Providence (Beck Road between Five and Six Mile) — A therapeutic center is under construction.

- Northville Cinema Center (Eight Mile/Haggerty) — Wetland mitigation is proceeding through the township attorney and the DNR.

- Sun Oil (Sunoco) (Five Mile/Haggerty) — Engineering approval has been completed and a pre-construction meeting has been held and construction should begin soon.

- Sullivan Land Division (Beck/Seven Mile) — Preliminary site-plan approval was granted for this two-parcel split.

- T.J. Investments Land Division (Six Mile/Haggerty) — Easement review is being completed.

- Jonna/Waterford Pond Rezoning (Six Mile/Northville Road) — The Board of Trustees has received a recommendation from the planning commission for a zoning change from single-family residential to multiple-family residential for 39 acres around Waterford Pond. The developer's proposal for luxury apartments on the site also includes a dedication of property to the township to be used for recreation, including an extension of a bike path from Six Mile Road.

The Wayne County Planning Commission will review this zoning change in February and the change will be on the agenda for Board of Trustees approval at its March meeting.

- Michigan Bell Fiber Optic Building (Six Mile/Sheldon) — Final site plan approval was granted by the planning commission and building permit applications will be submitted soon to the township building department.

- Halt Fire Building Addition (Northville Road/Six Mile) — Final site plan approval has been granted by the planning commission.

- Lapham/Jacobson Cluster (Six Mile/Beck) — The planning commission has granted approval of the preliminary determination for the cluster option for the Lapham property and the proposal consists of a mixture of attached and detached units. The planning commission has agreed on a density of 2.4 units per acre for the area east of the floodplain and 1.8 units per acre for the area west and north of the floodplain. It is expected that a site plan will be submitted to the township soon.

- Plant Palace (Northville Road — formerly the Moose Lodge) — The planning commission reviewed a site plan to convert the former Moose Lodge building to an open-air retail plant store. The planners denied the approval pending resolution of deficiencies in the plan including setback requirements which require variances from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

- Woodside Village (Haggerty between Five and Six Mile) — The planning commission has scheduled a public hearing for Feb. 27 on the planned residential unit development (PRUD) for Woodside Village. Planners have determined that the site itself qualifies for a PRUD but have questioned the submitted PRUD plan.

- Miller Chiropractic Clinic (Seven Mile/Maxwell) — The planning commission tabled a preliminary site plan pending an opinion from the township attorney regarding the storage of vehicles in an office/service district. The proposal involves replacing the existing office building with a new one with basement storage for the owner's antique car collection.

- Hartsock Cluster (Seven Mile/Francis) — After considerable debate, the planning commission granted cluster qualification for a 12.5 acre, irregularly-shaped parcel off of Seven Mile. The proposal is for a 20 detached unit development.

- Woods of Northville (Five Mile/Robinwood) — Cluster qualification was granted by the planning commission for a 16 acre, heavily-wooded parcel.

City land sought

By STEVE KELLMAN

While Northville Township waits for word from the state Department of Natural Resources (DNR) on a proposed wetlands mitigation site, Recreation Director John Anderson is pursuing greener pastures.

Township officials are waiting to hear the DNR's decision on a 28-acre recreation site near Six Mile and Beck roads. In the meantime, Anderson has contacted the City of Detroit regarding a Detroit-owned parcel of land on the southeast corner of Six Mile and Ridge.

Anderson described the area as "relatively flat land," saying, "It wouldn't take a whole lot to put up some soccer goal posts. It's already very level so that would help us a lot."

Anderson said the property could be used for as many as four soccer fields. "But the first thing to do is to get the approval," he said. In that regard, he has approached Otis Jenkins of Detroit's Economic Development Corporation, who has said the proposal is under consideration.

"I'd hope to hear something by the end of this week (on the proposal)," Anderson said.

The need for new soccer fields will become more acute with the loss of Lapham Field, Anderson said. The field has been leased for years from the Lapham family for recreation use.

The Northville Record

Our Opinions

Agendas must include citizen comment time

In recent weeks the Northville City Planning Commission has suffered through some embarrassing moments. There have been too many minutes spent arguing when and how people should address the commission with questions and comments.

It would seem to the casual observer that traditional rules of order and some common sense would take care of the problem. Instead, commissioners went round and round on the issue and were forced to put it to a subcommittee after it was learned that no written bylaws exist to govern the body.

The subcommittee did exactly what the commission should have done two sessions ago. It recommended to the commission that the agenda be clearly marked with time available for liaison comments and comments from the audience. Clear and simple.

For people who do not attend commission or council meetings on a regular basis — perhaps most of the population — a clearly marked agenda is a must. Residents who come into a meeting and pick up a copy of the agenda have a right to know where in the program they fit in. Because the meetings are public, and because the commission wants to know how residents feel about their decisions, that public comment section is absolutely essential to the business of the commission.

Now, public comment does not mean that every meeting before the planning commission is a public hearing. There is a clear difference between comments before or after a commission meeting and comments pertaining to a called public hearing. Most commissions separate out the public hearing portion of public comment by having the commission chair, at the beginning of the meeting, state, "Anyone wishing to comment on the public hearing held on the rezoning of section A may do so during that portion of the agenda. Anyone wishing to speak before the commission on any other matter should do so now." Again, pretty clear and straightforward.

If the commission is ever faced with lines of eager residents anxious to discuss planning issues for hours and hours at a time, then time limits and set rules of procedure would need to be clearly marked on agendas, and, perhaps on a sign near the commission table. Most commissions and councils have a five-minute-or-so time limit when many people want to speak on a subject. Making clear any restrictions or procedures right from the start is the best way to make sure the public is informed on its right to speak in a public meeting.

The planning commission should make every effort to make the public comfortable and aware of their rights in its meetings. This is an essential part of its purpose.

Community as a whole must decide on library

It's hard to walk around town these days without talking about the library issue.

In the township and in the city the question on everyone's lips is: "What do you think about the Haller library?"

The pros and the cons of the site, of the funding and of the scale and size of the proposed structure are all on the discussion block.

And, frankly, that's exactly the way it should be. A proposal the size of the one soon to be before township voters deserves the attention and discussion it is getting. Talk is good. Explanations, questions, criticisms and answers are all good. The more people talk, the more they learn. The more they discuss, the more intelligent the vote will be.

What the discussion should not do is become a fight between city and township residents. Lately a very negative, self-defeating argument has been heard in both communities. "Let township residents do what they want," some say. "Let the city do its own library if it doesn't like ours," others say.

Of all the issues that could rip apart a community, it is hard to believe that the topic of a community library would be the one in Northville.

Libraries unite communities and provide a service to all. Just as the school system must encompass the entire community of Northville to do its job in an effective and cost-efficient manner, so too must a library. Shared services are just that. Services that can best be provided by sharing resources. They obviously include recreation opportunities, educational services, senior-citizen activities — and a library.

As discussion heightens in the next few weeks regarding the library site, the Haller gift, the city's role in the library and the ballot question that will be posed to township residents, we hope that the questions center on deciding what is best for the community as a whole. Fighting based solely on which side of the road one lives on serves no one's best interest.

Our role in the next few weeks is to promote the best of this discussion. The most positive thing that can happen in the next few weeks is for all sides of the library issue to honestly and thoroughly lay out their arguments. That way all of us can take a look at the proposals and make a decision. That's democracy.

Paling in comparison

By Ann Willis

For the last week or so people I know have been getting ready to go away. Usually to somewhere warm.

There has been an awful lot of talk about sun block. Some people have spent an enormous amount of time worrying about how they will look on the beach.

Friends have been whipping off to stores looking at something called "resort-wear." I think it means white pants and pink shirts.

The names of tropical places have been the stuff of cocktail-party chatter. "Have you been to Flamingo Key?" they say as they reach for another stalk of celery. "Flamingo Key? No, but Herb and I just loved romantic West Turquoise Sand Island."

It has been tough to get their attention. And the worst of it was it had to snow last week. Right in the midst of all these people digging out their swimsuits came a blizzard and we all had to dig out of our houses.

"Wow, would you look at all of this," they said as we paused leaning on our snow shovels. "Hard to believe we'll be lying on a beach in just a couple of days." Really hard to believe.

What they don't realize is how important those of us who stay behind really are.

What good is a tan in February if you can't compare it to somebody? That's where I come in. "Go stand next to Ann," they'll say when they return. "Can you believe how tan we got?"

What good is a perfectly sunny 80-degree day in Florida if you can't watch the news and see how bad the snow is in Northville? "Whew, glad we're not up there. Can't you just see Ann shoveling the walk now?" I provide the necessary vision of hell which makes heaven all the more pleasurable.

Some would say I'm just jealous. These would be the people that see me grimace every time yet another card from paradise arrives here at work. People always send the postcards to you at work. Then they can have twice the fun. Not only do they get to visualize you freezing to death up to your armpits in snow, they also get to think of you starting your car at 7 a.m. in a blizzard on your way to work. They do all this while they wipe the sweat from their eyes and think about taking a dip before catching a few winks before playing a quick game of tennis.

Jealous? No way. I don't even have to think about putting on a bathing suit for three more months. Pass the dip.

Why?

River talk

By Bob Needham

Over the last few months, government officials in Northville and Novi have talked over some interesting points in regard to the area's most ignored resource: the Rouge River.

Yeah, that's right, the Rouge — the butt of jokes, the target of an annual cleanup, the river tagged as the most polluted waterway in Michigan. Our little corner of the world here contains the headwaters of one of the river's four branches, and that fact has got some people thinking.

A few miles upstream in Novi, the planning commission has kicked around the idea of a "river walk" patterned after the one in San Antonio. I've never been anywhere near Texas, but apparently the basic idea is a landscaped area where people can stroll along the river and shop. The future of the plan is way up in the air and will stay there until the commission's budget is finalized next month.

Meanwhile, here in Northville, the city's planning commission a few months ago heard a little bit about making the river more of an attraction as it winds along the east edge of downtown. One idea is to maximize public enjoyment of the river at the old Northville Ford Plant. These ideas are just as high up in the air as Novi's, since the future of the Ford site is completely unknown to the public at this point.

I have no idea if anything tangible will ever come from these discussions, but I hope it does. A river walk in Novi would be a magnificent addition to that city. Novi is short of nice places made for the public to walk. A stroll along a landscaped river sounds ideal.

Public use of the riverfront in Northville is an equally attractive idea. I've spent some great times with my fiancée, Dawn, feeding the ducks or just relaxing by the Ford plant, as have countless others. But that's private land, and unless there is some kind of public use there, the new owners may not be as tolerant of trespassers as Ford has been.

These plans — or ideas, I should say; they're still a long way from being plans — show limitless potential. The key fact is that the Middle Rouge River starts here. As it winds through Novi and Northville, it has not had the chance to be polluted by sewer overflows which take place downstream. It still is not altogether clean here, but continued attention might make it so.

When Dawn and I get married this July, it will be on the banks of the Rouge, at Mill Race Historic Village. When I mention "wedding" and "Rouge River" in the same sentence, people give me some mighty funny looks. Knowing of the river's reputation, I'm not surprised.

If Northville and Novi officials pursue these ideas for the Rouge, all that may turn around. It may become a resource we can all enjoy, and maybe even a source of pride.

Readers Speak

Why is new library being considered?

To the Editor:

As Northville Township stands at the threshold of exponential growth and development which will require new and expanded existing services, why is a 44,800-square-foot library to be located at the northeast corner of Six Mile and Sheldon roads being considered?

The generosity of the Haller family gift of this parcel of land should be examined closely by the township politicians who are so eager to ramrod this project past taxpayer scrutiny.

The "gift" represents a considerable tax write-off for the Haller estate. The Haller stipulation that only a library is to be considered worthy enough edifice to grace this unimproved land is the "string" attached to the "gift" horse that the taxpayers of Northville Township must subsidize forever. Who asked for it? Who needs it?

The family would also like the taxpayers to pay for the perpetual care of their dearly departed in whose name this proposed library is dedicated with a permanent interment site to be located at the proposed new library. Perhaps we could insert him squarely between a copy of Buckminster Fuller's "Critical Path" and Forrest Wilson's "City Planning — The Games of Human Settlement."

On Feb. 28 at 7 p.m. an open meeting to discuss this issue is scheduled at the township business offices. For those of you who feel that our priorities are out of focus, please ask yourselves the following questions, then please attend this important meeting.

1. Do we need the proposed library at this time or can we continue to share facilities with Plymouth and Northville?

2. If after consideration of the requirements of our growing community such as new schools, expanded police & fire service, facilities in which to house local government and improved local streets, there is still a desire for expanded library facilities, can we not enter into some kind of joint venture with the City of Northville?

The Ford Valve Plant on Northville Road stands vacant. The location is excellent. Shouldn't we examine the cost of restoration and preservation of this historic old building? Federal and State funds are available for this kind of worthy project. Shouldn't we preserve and use existing facilities rather than abandon them for dubious new building projects that will saddle the already overburdened taxpayer?

In "City Planning" in the last chapter, titled "You Design a City," the author tells us, "It is easier to explore the future with a game of cardboard models than it is to build up and tear down buildings made of concrete and steel." Planning commission, if you are listening, get involved now! Don't wait until the final plans are submitted to voice your opinions on the wisdom of this project. Your responsibilities are not solely to determine if a building is pretty enough to be situated in Northville Township, but also to determine its relative worthiness in relation to the overall requirements of the community.

Resident taxpayers, please attend the scheduled meeting on Feb. 28. Let the supporters of this project know where you stand and show your support for an orderly system of priorities to be implemented as Northville Township grows.

Patricia A. Fletcher

Needs answers

To the Editor:

The library organization meeting held recently in the Northville High School Forum raised some interesting questions.

1. Should we plan now for present-day needs or for the 30-40,000 people the library will be called upon to serve in 10 or 20 years?

2. Should we seriously consider the requirements of various city and township organizations for adequate conference and auditorium spaces other than just those of the library?

3. Should we be talking about a "Community Cultural Center," not just a library?

4. With the tax bite about the same today in city and township, should we also be reviving the controversial issue of consolidation of the two units, especially when we consider that the library and recreation functions are supported by both?

5. A man's reach should exceed his grasp, else what's a heaven for?

Those are my questions. What are your answers?

Vice chairperson
Northville Arts Commission

Be informed

To the Editor:

This is in reply to the "Readers Response" to the proposed parking structure in association with the Main Street development project. I think people should take the time to speak with the planning department or attend the public hearings at the planning commission to find out what actual impact the project will have. Instead we get all worked up over some perhaps misinformed residents "crying wolf." Each phase of this project has been published in The Northville Record, and yet no one has really paid any attention until now, just after the project has been approved and is under way.

The project will be located behind the Main Street Development and MAGS. I don't know about you, but from the picture in the paper, that's a better sight than what we currently have of the backs of those buildings. Contrary to what others believe, the structure will have brick on the outside and will not be an ugly concrete mass. Parking structures today are designed to aesthetically blend with the surrounding buildings. Take a look at Laurel Park Place — you would never even know there was a three-story parking structure there. As for the crime, I've noticed that the new-wave parking structures have sound and TV monitoring security systems built in and could actually be safer than an open, unmonitored lot.

I would personally like to see more parking available. This deficiency is especially apparent during Christmas. I moved here five years ago and love the downtown, with the exception of scarce parking. I'm always bragging about how great the downtown is, but my friends don't want to shop here because of the parking problem. Instead, they all go to Plymouth. I think this is a great move for the downtown; the town is growing and that's considered progress.

There is nothing we can do about the new housing developments, Northville is a great place and people want to live here. But new housing brings new residents and that brings a demand for expanded public services, schools, etc. If the people in Northville and the surrounding communities don't shop here, we will lose our commercial tax base. The way I see it, that means the residents will carry a larger tax burden. I think this structure is long over due and hope the planning commission sticks to their guns and allows this project to go through!

Landfill opposed

To the Editor:

We are opposed to a type III landfill because we feel that this landfill will severely devalue our property. We have seen this happen on Six Mile and Napier Road at and around where there is a landfill at the present time.

No one wants to live next to a landfill, and we don't want this either. We have worked hard for what we have and we don't think that it is fair for the City of Novi to let this happen.

Because of the possible misuse of the landfill now or in the future, this landfill could contaminate our well and our only source of drinking water.

There is currently a noise factor with the excavating of sand and gravel, and if this property is allowed to be a landfill, the noise factor with heavy trucks could continue for the proposed next 10 years. Another factor is the idea of this trash pile rising well above ground level. The proposed trash will not decompose in the 10-year life.

Holloway Construction, a multimillion-dollar company, has other locations that could be used for their trash disposal. Let this site, which surrounds property zoned for farming and residential, and not commercial, be used for the development of one-acre parcels surrounding a man-made lake.

All could benefit for this forethought.

Township thanked

To the Editor:

We are delighted that Northville Township now has a recycling center and accepts so many items.

It would be good if your paper would, free of charge, publicize it more and specify exactly what kinds of plastics and newspapers are accepted at the present time. That would eliminate a lot of work at the center.

Thank you, Northville Township, for opening the center.

Ida G. Lehtikoinen

Too tall?

To the Editor:

How Tall is 107 Feet?

The Northville Record has provided excellent coverage of the proposed Ward building, but it appears many residents do not appreciate fully that this height represents a 10-story building.

A point of reference is the five story building on the east side of Haggerty at Six Mile Road.

Ward proposes a building about twice that size. That's 10 stories to the roof line — no steeple, no spire.

Of course, a building this size requires adequate parking. Ward's proposal includes over 3,000 parking spaces — about the same as Meijer's parking area.

P.N. Phillips

Too tall II

To the Editor:

How tall is 107 feet?

In a recent letter to the editor regarding the proposed Ward Presbyterian Church at the corner of 6 Mile and Haggerty, a resident queried "Does anybody realize how tall 107 feet is?" The answer is very tall. In an effort to compare the height of this structure to others in the area, I did a little research. Here are some interesting facts:

Novi Hilton - 8 Mile/Haggerty — 65 feet tall
Manufacturers Bank Building - 6 Mile/Haggerty — just over 50 feet tall
Hampton Inn - 8 Mile/Haggerty — about 50 feet tall
Average colonial house — about 25-30 feet tall

So, we can see that the proposed Ward Church structure (not just a steeple, mind you, but the entire sanctuary) will be more than twice as tall as the Manufacturers Bank Building across the street! It will be 42 feet taller than the Novi Hilton! That is equivalent to four stories higher! We are talking about an entire structure (not just a steeple, as many people seem to think) that will be the same height as a 10-story building! What has happened to quaint little Northville? Come on, people — think about it!

It turns out that Novi, Livonia and Plymouth all have height restrictions similar to Northville. One of the reasons for these type of restrictions involves fire protection and the ability to protect the public. Fire-fighting equipment for buildings over five stories is very, very expensive (in the millions of dollars) and obviously the taxpayers of the community pay for it.

My personal attitude is that if we will not allow commercial (taxpaying) structures to go over 48 feet, I fail to understand why Ward Presbyterian, which is a non-taxpayer entity, should be allowed to do so. My taxes are already high enough; I got a major increase this year as most people in our community did. I am not interested in funding a church organization with my tax dollars — I fund the church of my choice every Sunday.

The purpose of zoning and our township zoning board is to protect the interests of the community as a whole and to make our community a safe and attractive place in which to live. When the desires of the few (and non-taxpayers at that), outweigh the wants, needs and obligations to the many (and taxpayers of the community), I feel township government has failed in its obligation to us. It is our duty as taxpayers to keep them on track in their obligations to us.

For those of you interested, contact the newly formed Northville Neighborhood Association at P.O. Box 450, Northville, MI 48167-0450.

Pining for trees

To the Editor:

Did the Community Federal Credit Union think we wouldn't notice the fact that in the course of the long construction of their new building all of the beautiful pine trees that existed on this lot were torn down? These pine trees lined their lot on the south and east sides.

In the beginning, construction of the new building projected the look of preserving these trees. As I drove by I felt like I wanted to praise them for working around the trees. But no... soon all of the beautiful pine trees on the southern lot line were gone! Why?! Then I notice one lone pine tree left near the building on the east side in an area that looks like plantings will be established. I was glad that at least one pine tree was left and felt that it enhanced the building. But no... it too has been torn down.

Like the construction of the St. Lawrence Condos, development has carelessly torn down trees that greatly added to the beauty of Northville. When is this going to stop? The beauty is lost, Northville loses in the end and so does the ecology of this earth we are hanging onto.

Do unto others

To the Editor:

In this complex system of rich and poor, of haves and have-nots, it's difficult to understand why some people live in comfortable, carpeted, heated, air-conditioned, furnished homes, while others live with broken windows, dirt floors, cold-drafts, and still others have no place at all to rest their heads.

Albert Schweitzer said, "Whoever is spared personal pain must feel called to help in diminishing the pain of others."

I commend Ann Bright and Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church in their intentional action to bring about meaningful changes pertaining to these things.

Strong self-esteem essential to children

This is another in a continuing series of columns by Northville Youth Assistance Director Mary Ellen King.

A wise man once said, "The most important thing you can give a child is a healthy self-esteem." Have you ever wondered what you can do to enhance a young person's self-esteem? At local PTA meetings films and speakers are attempting to answer this question. There are many parenting books available that address this issue.

In the book "Building Self-Esteem in Children" the authors, Patricia Berne and Louis M. Savary, have found that it is possible to bolster self-worth. In their book, they present principles that can be used by parents and others to provide young people with one of life's most valuable personal resources.

The following are some concepts they emphasize:

- Listen to and acknowledge the thoughts and feelings of children. Take time to listen — give your full attention to the child. This communicates that you accept and care about him.

- Discover your common interests and share these with the youth. Self-esteem develops when children feel a sense of oneness with people they like and admire.

- Encourage the child to take responsibility for making his own decisions and for solving problems. When children realize they have control over their own lives they gain a sense of power.

- Share feelings about personal struggles, failures, and successes with the young person. Sharing experiences helps them see that feelings are a part of every human being, this gives them a more realistic perspective of themselves.

Respect and acknowledge a child's right to his emotions. Feelings are real experiences, don't deny them. Treat emotions as ordinary matters that most people deal with.

- Help the child feel positive about himself by pointing out something special or different that the child does. Self-esteem is enhanced when unique characteristics and strengths are affirmed.

As Berne and Savary have pointed out, self-esteem is enhanced when adults take the time to apply these concepts. But the most important component in self-esteem enhancement is a caring, loving, attitude toward a youth. Actions must say, "I'm on your side." All children need to feel, see and know that they are valuable and lovable people.

If you feel your child's self-esteem could be enhanced, call Northville Youth Assistance at 344-1618. We are here to help kids feel good about themselves.

What a doll!

South Lyon doll shop offers fun for all ages

By MARILYN HERALD

Dolls! They come in all shapes, sizes and materials. They make wonderful gifts, terrific collectibles and lovely accessories to add to the decor of a little girl's room — even a big girl's room.

Diane's Doll House, 102 N. Lafayette in the City of South Lyon, is a girl's dream come true with its myriad of dolls at a variety of prices. Owner/proprietor Diane Roest of Lyon Township, mother of a teen-age son, is still fascinated with dolls. "I really love them," she said with feeling.

"One day I commented it would be really fun to have a doll shop," she explained. "My husband George took me seriously and encouraged me. 'It's a good time in life to do it,' he told me."

The Roests, who moved to the area from Southfield 18 years ago, began looking for an appropriate place for Diane's shop. After checking out the rentals in area strip malls, they decided to purchase a building.

That's when they examined the former State Savings Bank building at the corner of Lake and Lafayette streets.

The building, which has housed Florals by Steven for several years, seemed perfect for a doll shop and Diane's Doll House began to take shape.

The shop occupies the Lafayette Street front part of the building while Florals continues in its accustomed spot on the Lake Street side.

Not only does Roest carry a wide selection of dolls, stuffed toys and related gift items, but she also has a display window, "dressed" appropriately for holidays and seasons, which offers an attractive exhibit for passers-by.

Roest, who said she had never owned her own business before, now had the task of discovering where to purchase dolls. She began researching what items might be in demand.

013 Card of Thanks

PERHAPS you sent a lovely card, or sat quietly in a chair. Perhaps you sent a funeral spray, if so we saw it there. Perhaps you spoke the kindest words, as any friend could say; perhaps you were not there at all, just thought of us that day. Whatever you did to console our hearts, we thank you so much wherever the part. By the family of Ralph L. Nauss

WE would like to thank all the relatives, friends and neighbors for the beautiful flowers, and donations to the Heart Foundation and the Presbyterian Church.

Stanly Latson's name. Also all the kindness that was extended to us in our time of sorrow. Virginia and Loren Burns, Roger and Barbara Burns, and family, Helen Kay Burns

WARNING:

RADON IS DEADLY IN THIS AREA.

You can't see it, smell it or even feel it. It just quietly attacks your lungs, until one day you find you have lung cancer.

It's called Radon. A naturally occurring, radioactive gas that seeps into your home. In fact, it is the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If your home has high levels of Radon, you're being exposed to as much radiation as having literally hundreds of chest x-rays in one year.

But there is something you can do about it. Testing for Radon is simple and inexpensive. And homes with high levels can be fixed. Call 1-800-SOS-RADON to get your test information.

RADON. THE HEALTH HAZARD IN YOUR HOME THAT HAS A SIMPLE SOLUTION.

WARNING:

RADON IS DEADLY IN THIS AREA.

You can't see it, smell it or even feel it. It just quietly attacks your lungs, until one day you find you have lung cancer.

It's called Radon. A naturally occurring, radioactive gas that seeps into your home. In fact, it is the second leading cause of lung cancer in America.

If your home has high levels of Radon, you're being exposed to as much radiation as having literally hundreds of chest x-rays in one year.

But there is something you can do about it. Testing for Radon is simple and inexpensive. And homes with high levels can be fixed. Call 1-800-SOS-RADON to get your test information.

This deck right out of middle ages

Designer provides medieval touch

By Patrick Keating

In the Pheasant Hills subdivision of Northville — off of Eight mile between Taft and Beck roads — one of the homes has a most unique addition. The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Morris has a deck which was built to resemble something out of the middle ages.

Designed by Thomas Holleman of Northville, a retired professional architect, who worked for 15 years with Smith, Hinchman and Grylls — the company that built the Penobscot building in downtown Detroit — the deck is a source of pride.

Holleman, who specializes in historical restoration, also worked for a year with the National Trust in England — which maintains that country's great country houses.

"London is one of my favorite cities," Holleman says. "...they have such a reverence for things that are old, while here we just bulldoze something if it runs out of use."

The deck is made from California heart redwood — which comes from the center of the tree — and never needs to be stained or treated. The railings were influenced by designs from Normandy, France, and the 6 x 6's on the posts were custom made. The posts are held together with wooden pegs, with a minimum number of nails being used, to further the illusion of medieval construction. The "floor" of the deck is built so close to the wall, that it gives the illusion of continuing, unbroken into the home itself.

Medieval deck design

Large and the oak trees, which all but touches the deck all around it — and in the summer will help break up the morning sunlight into the home. Built high up — as the house is built into a hill — the deck offers a commanding view of the pond behind the house as well as the small stretch of woods beyond.

The support posts are made from Georgian yellow pine and use crooks — arched wooden pieces — notched into the supports themselves — which act much the same way as flying buttresses do on buildings.

On the ground below, a slate patio will be installed and will run along the house to the steps of the deck.

An interesting addition is what Holleman describes as a "Romeo and Juliet Balcony" — also made of redwood — which adjoins the master bedroom.

"Woodwork like this," says Holleman, "wouldn't be uncommon in England or France, because there are people who still do it. Here there are so few people who know how to do it and do it right, that it is remarkable to see this kind of work."

Fascinated by the eclectic mixture of architectural styles in the isolated north Wales village of Portmeirion, built by architect Sir Clough Williams-Ellis, Holleman appreciates the look of the Detroit neighborhoods of Palmer Park and Indian Village as well as some of Grosse Pointe.

Holleman points out that those houses which were built 60 to 80 years ago are still around and still livable because they were built so well. "That's what I'm trying to do with a house like this," he says. "Design and build a house that will still be attractive 60 or 80 years from now."

The Morris' home certainly isn't unattractive. Designed by Holleman, the house took a year to build and is constructed to resemble the chateaus of Normandy, France. A light brick was chosen to give the illusion of age to the walls; and the color of the shingles on the roof were chosen to give the appearance of wood.

Two waist high brick walls, with limestone posts, flank the walkway which leads to the front door. An exterior foyer made of limestone and framed by brick gives a commanding view of the front door, while at the same time providing shelter from the elements. Two large wooden benches from England are to be placed against opposite walls.

A copper planter set into the top of the limestone frame, and just below the second story window, will allow plants to hang down over the sides.

Coming around to the side of the house, one sees the wooden stairs leading up to the deck. They stand opposite what at first appears to be a stone wall. But, upon stepping closer, one discovers there is actually a flight of steps among the rocks. These lead to the foot of the wooden steps of the deck and the two together form an effective contrast.

Made to look like a natural formation, the stone wall — also designed by Holleman — will have perennials and other flowers in and among the rocks to further the illusion.

The deck, which took approximately four weeks to build was constructed by Eric Vogler of Sylvan Lake. The supports were placed in the ground last fall, and after a delay

Tom Holleman and friend on a 'Romeo and Juliet' balcony he designed waiting for lumber, the deck was finished last week.

The house was built by Frank Bauss of Northville; and the stone wall by Mike Grasser of Sylvan Lake.

The stone wall took four days to construct, using a crane to move the slabs — many of which were brought in from Port Huron.

Holleman is retired — having worked on this project as a favor for his friends — but would be willing to consider other work on similar endeavors. Anyone interested in contacting him can reach him at 348-9795.

Design gives spacious feel

By James G. McAlexander

A great room, occupying most of the main floor, gives an open, spacious feeling to the Stratton, by guest designer Ric Mixon of Knoxville, Tenn.

The airiness of this huge room, which combines cooking, eating and living areas, is further amplified by vaulting its front half to the second-floor ceiling. Two large multi-paned windows, capped by a half-round window, complete the cathedral effect, flooding the lofty room with natural light.

The front entryway opens directly into this area, creating a first impression of a house much larger than its actual 1,788 square feet. Serving as a focal point for gatherings, the living room fireplace provides entertainment for those who take pleasure in watching fires. Forced air heating is the primary heat source.

At the far end of the room, the L-shaped kitchen doubles as an eating bar for informal breakfasts, lunches and snacks, and as a buffet for the more formal dining area.

Indoor utilities and half-bath also are located on the ground floor, handy to the kitchen.

All of the bedrooms are upstairs. The master suite, with separate deluxe bathroom, walk-in closet and vaulted ceiling, is surprisingly luxurious for a home this size. A half-round window, placed high on the wall farthest from the bathroom, adds another special touch. Long, relaxing baths in the oversize custom tub offer a guaranteed aid to stress reduction.

Two good-size bedrooms, with plenty of closet space, share the use of another full bathroom. Outfitted with a cushioned shelf, the dormer window in the room closest to the front of the house is a natural for reading, sewing and chatting.

The brick facade and custom brick outlining on front doors and windows appeal strongly to traditional tastes. Vinyl siding is used to finish the back and sides of the house.

For a study plan of the Stratton (277-03), send $5 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307 CN, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Make it Yours

Let your fingers do the weaving

By Kelle Banks Barfield

Finger weaving is a technique that is so simple you will feel accomplished in no time, yet the amount of creativity you can apply to the projects is so unlimited, you will find yourself hooked on the technique from the start.

Finger weaving requires no loom and the materials you will need for your projects are inexpensive and very accessible. So learn the basics, then get yourself started on wall hangings, belts or other woven creation you can dream up.

Begin with any type of thread for your weaving—whatever texture and weight is most appropriate for your specific creation.

Some examples of suitable thread include cord, rug yarn, jute or chenille. Cut these slightly longer than the woven length should be. The number of threads you use and their thickness will determine the final width of the weaving.

You can create your own fabric ropes by cutting lengths of fabric that are 1/4 to 1 inch wide. (The smaller the cut width of your fabric, the rounder and more ropelike the finished cords will be.)

Fold these in half lengthwise, right sides together and sew a small seam along the length. Then turn the fabric right side out by attaching a small safety pin to one end and working it along the inside of the rope to the other end.

Prepare for weaving by lining your threads flush with one another, attaching them to anything that will securely hold the threads while you weave and adjust the tension of the threads.

One excellent holder is a clipboard if it has a tight clip. Or you can drive a row of nails into a strip of wood and tie one thread around each nail. You can also tack the threads to a cork board as long as the cork is tight enough to prevent the threads from pulling loose as you weave.

Once the threads are hanging vertically side-by-side, you have set up the warp of your weaving. Now you can begin the actual weaving. Always work in the same direction, either left to right or right to left, whichever is easier for you.

Take the outside thread on either side, which is known as your weft, and weave it over and under across the threads that make up your warp. When you reach the other side, allow this thread to hang down, becoming a part of the warp again.

Take the next thread on the side you began on and weave again to the opposite side, reversing the over and under sequence from the previous thread. Continue weaving until you have the length you want.

As you weave, you can adjust the tightness of the finished weaving by playing with the tension. Either push the weft snugly up after you weave it for a tight finish, or weave loosely and don't push the weft up for a loose finish.

There are several ways to add to the design of your weaving. Beads, for example, add a new dimension when you slide them up the threads as you weave. Either place beads at regular intervals throughout the weaving or have a small section of beads at one end or in the middle.

You can also alter the weaving by leaving small sections of the warp unwoven or by dividing the weaving into groups that you weave separately, then rejoin.

For instance, after beginning with a warp of eight threads, work a portion of the weaving in two sets of four threads each. Then begin weaving

Around the House: Sew Easy Interlining can ward off the cold

By Madeline Hunter

Q: My husband and I just moved to a new house, actually new for us, but old and in need of work. A "fixer-upper."

Even with the windows sealed off for the winter we get cool drafts because they are so old.

Since I need to make new curtains I wondered if you could clue me in to any thermal products available, or the best style to get maximum protection from drafts. We're trying to keep the heating bills down. Thank you.

A: Old windows can be so attractive, but having been made and installed years ago, prior to double glazing or thermal panes, they do leak cool air. Add to that the unusually cold weather this winter and heating bills can suffer.

Until you get around to fixing or replacing the windows, or for whoever has large expanses of glass in their home, blocking off the windows is a good idea.

I don't think it has been common over the past decade or so to use drapes other than for decoration, but they can help in blocking out the cool air and holding in the warmth.

One way to do that is to add as interlining when constructing drapes and curtains. When you add interlining, you will, of course, also be lining your curtains.

How many of us have even made lined curtains recently?

The difference between lining and interlining?

Think of the layers of the curtains as a sandwich, the decorative fabric and the lining are the two pieces of bread, and the interlining is the filling.

What to use for interlining?

There are several options open to you. Two products you should be able to find at your local fabric shop are Pellon Fleece and Thermolam Plus. These are used widely for crafts and machine quilting and are relatively flat non-woven fiberfills.

Another option is flannel fabric. The last option is a special reflective thermal lining, quite expensive and probably only found in better fabric shops with extensive ranges of home decorative fabrics.

Because the interlinings add so much more weight and bulk to the curtains, it is best to make a fairly simple style, using header tapes for heavy fabrics.

Remember, when gathering or pleating, measure carefully. You will need fabric approximately 2 1/2 times the width of the window you are covering. Cut the interlining the same size as the decorative fabric. Two lengths of decorative fabric (and interlining) may be sewn together in the center to create a panel wide enough.

A tip: If your window is large and you end up with massive lengths of decorative fabric, interlining and lining, baste the interlining to the length of decorative fabric using large stitches. This way, you can handle it as one fabric.

your weft across the entire group of eight threads again to rejoin them. Or leave the ends unwoven and work only a small section in the middle for a distinctive belt.

Secure your weaving by machine-stitching across the top two or three times. Also stitch across the bottom or leave 4 to 6 inches of thread hanging in the fringe. Trim the ends even with about a 2-inch hem and turn this back. Finish with double bias tape and attach plastic rings for hanging or sew a hook and eye on the ends for a belt.

Stars shine for MacKinnon's

It's the moment you've been waiting for . . .

We asked you to pick up your forks and your pens and to tell us about your favorite local restaurant. Well, the time has come to let you know how your favorite restaurant is viewed by others.

The results of the first annual Northville Record/Novi News Restaurant Poll are in. Thanks to those who chose to participate.

Winner of the dinner for four at the restaurant of her choice was Northville resident Cyndi Hale. Hale's ballot was picked at random from among the responses and she and her guests will be treated to dinner on us. Hale said she was "excited" about winning and is presently deciding between Chez Raphael and MacKinnon's for her night on the town.

We received a total of 153 responses, indicating that there are a lot of good eating places in our area. Forms were received by residents in Northville, Novi, Livonia, Walled Lake, Plymouth, Farmington, Wixom, Westland, Ypsilanti and even Traverse City.

Everyone expressed a preference for one restaurant in particular, although some readers unanimously agreed on others.

Winning restaurants in each of the 14 categories are as follows:

BEST OVERALL — MacKinnon's in Northville.

Runners-up included Country Epicure and Chez Raphael in Novi, although MacKinnon's far surpassed all other area restaurants in the total number of votes.

BEST INEXPENSIVE — Crawford's in Northville.

Novi's Home Sweet Home came in second in this category, followed by Dandy Gander, Rifles and Genitti's, all in Northville.

BEST SERVICE — Again, MacKinnon's was rated tops by the readers. Some of you even mentioned specific waiters or waitresses — Linda, Trisha and Larry were named most frequently by fans of MacKinnon's.

BEST BREAKFAST — Crawford's in Northville.

Other favorites included Silverman's in Novi, Cindy's Coney Island on Seven Mile Road in Northville, Elias

BEST SANDWICHES — Genitti's in Northville.

Runners-up included Kosch's Deli and Pub in Novi and Crawford's in Northville.

BEST DESSERTS — MacKinnon's in Northville.

This was a close race. Other favorites were Crawford's, Guernsey Farms Dairy and Country Epicure.

BEST ATMOSPHERE — MacKinnon's.

Country Epicure also brought in a lot of votes.

BEST PIZZA — Pizza Cutter in Northville.

Also rated highly were Pizza Hut and Papa Romano's.

BEST BURGERS — O'Sheehan's in Northville.

BEST SEAFOOD — Northville Charley's.

Red Lobster in Novi and MacKinnon's were runners-up.

BEST ETHNIC — Little Italy in Northville.

Other favorites were Genitti's, Kims Gardens and Ah Wok.

BEST FAST FOOD — McDonald's.

Hardee's was one vote behind. Other favorites were Pizza Cutter, Burger King, Taco Bell and Subway.

BEST SOUPS — Genitti's.

MacKinnon's, Crawford's and Big Boy were also rated highly.

BEST STEAK — MacKinnon's.

Runners up were Rifles, Red Timbers and Country Epicure.

Comments from some of those who responded to the poll included:

"We're lucky to have such outstanding restaurants in our area."

"We eat out four to five times a week and I feel Novi needs some more good family restaurants."

"MacKinnon's is overrated and stuffy."

"Novi needs more midpriced restaurants like Olive Garden and Chi Chi's. Also, we need an Arby's outside the mall."

"We walk out of restaurants that serve loud rock music."

"This area needs more places like MacKinnon's."

"It's been great living here and enjoying restaurants for 16 years."

Winning eatery takes bows

By LESLIE PEREIRA

MacKinnon's restaurant of Northville is riding high on a wave of recent successes.

The eight-year-old restaurant received an excellent review by Detroit Monthly magazine, opened a second restaurant in Utica, and, most importantly, won the prestigious First Annual Northville Record/Novi News Restaurant Poll.

But MacKinnon's did not just win the the poll, the downtown restaurant was triumphant in five categories.

"We are thrilled that we beat out the other restaurants," said Leonard Wades, co-owner of MacKinnon's. "We have some tough competition."

Wades, together with Chef Tom MacKinnon and a third partner, opened the small country-style restaurant in October 1981.

Wades said theirs is a smooth partnership with MacKinnon doubling as chef and while he handles the restaurant decor.

Rating number one for best atmosphere, the restaurant is lavishly filled with Wades' outdoorsy artwork and crafted stained-glass fixtures and served as a backdrop for a Cadillac Cimarron television commercial.

Although MacKinnon's was not victorious in the best-priced category and was rated "expensive" by Detroit Monthly, both Wades and hostess/day manager Hannah Williamson insist they are "moderately priced."

The price for a lunch at MacKinnon's can range from $3.95 for a salad to $8.95 for a hard-to-spell sandwich, and dinner generally runs about $12.95 to $24.00.

"Our food is called regional cuisine," said Williamson, who listed charcoal duck with raspberry sauce and turkey tenderloin as two of their most popular dishes.

It is no wonder that steaks with names like "beef Wellington with sauce bordelaise" and "prime Angus sirloin with wild mushroom sauce" claimed victory for MacKinnon's in the best-steak category.

MacKinnon's has fed the likes of comedian Phyllis Diller, baseball star Kirk Gibson, singer Bob Seger, Detroit Piston Coach Chuck Daly and television duo John Kelly and Marilyn Turner.

The secret of their success?

"We are not that expensive and we have a great location," Wades said. "We like Northville."

And Northville obviously likes you, too.

Random Sample

Q:

Who do you favor in the baseball dispute? (owners or players)

Four said: "Owners"

Four said: "Players" Two said: "Don't care"

"I'm sick of it already."
"Both groups are too greedy."
"It's hard to feel sorry for guys making $2 million a year."

Random Sample is an unsentimental poll conducted by the staff of The Northville Record and The Novi News

Volunteers

Volunteer planner

By DOROTHY NASH

Helping find ways to revitalize downtown Novi and to locate the hub of the city at Grand River and Novi Road is the big current concern of Kathleen S. McLallen and the other eight members of the Novi Planning Commission.

Two evenings a month and, if necessary, three evenings, McLallen said, the commission meets at the Civic Center from 5 until 11:30 p.m. and even later to consider and discuss ideas and suggestions regarding land and development.

"We have set an optimum population of 60,000 for our 30-square-mile area," she said, and the intent is to make the best use possible of the land, "keeping the good tax dollars here."

"Anyone with a development idea comes to us," McLallen said, "and presents his plan, stating its advantages to the city." If the commission considers it a good idea, and if there is no problem with zoning for the area, "we'll work with him to improve his idea."

However, "if his project requires a change in zoning," McLallen said, "and we think it merits the change, we recommend it to the City Council."

Being a member of the Novi Planning Commission also means doing homework. "It takes a lot of reading," McLallen said, "constantly reviewing ordinances in order to make rational opinions."

She's been on this volunteer job for almost three years — ever since she and her husband moved here with their five children, now in ages from four to a freshman in college. She applied to the City Council for it because she has a background of interest — a bachelor's degree in economic development and a former position as Director of Economic Development in a small town in Virginia.

Elementary schools look to spring

SILVER SPRINGS

The Silver Springs Roller Skating Party on Super Bowl Sunday was a big success. Winners of the free skating parties were: Lindsay Tomasak, Hannah Laird, and Becky Stankowicz. Our thanks go to Debbie Pelso and Cathy Cardinal for another great job. Mark your calendar for Sunday, March 25, for our last skating party of the school year. We hope to see you there.

Everyone at Silver Springs enjoyed celebrating the 100th day of school in various ways, including recognizing perfect attendance for those 100 days of school. Mrs. Kako Kiriya, mother of kindergartner Maskai Kiriya, presented the school with a mobile of 100 origami paper cranes. Thank you, Mrs. Kiriya, we will enjoy them for years to come.

The school spelling bee was held with stiff competition among all the participants. Our school winner was Jessica Doidis, and the runner-up was fourth-grader Kelly Golec. Amber Hines was the fifth-grade runner-up. Congratulations.

Student Council members are busy learning what leadership means and conducting elections of officers. Brian Wagner was elected president and Natalie Thomson was elected vice-president. Students are looking forward to the Student Council sponsored "Teacher Switch Day" on March 8. Students will be asked to wear "college" sweatshirts to school on March 9.

Students had a wonderful time participating in and watching the Annual Talent Show on Feb. 16. Thank you Vivian Henderhan and Kathy Elick for all your time to help make the show fantastic.

Parent Teacher Association chairpeople Val Troshchinetz, Diane Surma and Carolyn DeCoster have been busy planning the Fun Fair and Pizza Supper for March 2. Parents and friends have been contacted to help make the evening fun for everyone. If for any reason you haven't been contacted please call the office to volunteer your time. There will be pizza, salad, desserts, raffles, games, prizes, cake walk, and much more from 5:30-8:30 p.m. Mark your calendar now to join in the fun.

Students are looking forward to the PTA sponsored Math Magic assemblies on March 8.

The PTA will have various activities during the first week of March to coincide with the National PTA Drug Awareness observance. We applaud the Northville Action Council for its efforts and for providing our students with "Drug Free — The Choice for Me" T-shirts to be worn on March 6.

Boy Scout Pack 712 is looking forward to a trip to the Shrine Circus on March 17. They enjoyed having their parents perform at the Blue and Gold Banquet recently.

The Girl Scouts had a fun evening with their parents on Feb. 15, at a sock hop. The girls were celebrating Friendship Day also.

We hope everyone has had a restful mid-winter break. See you at our next PTA meeting, March 20, at 9:15 a.m. in the music room.

AMERMAN

Amerman proudly presents our spelling bee winners: Third grade, winner, Anne Cowie, runners-up, Sarah Nelson and Sarah Rumbley. Fourth grade, winner, Steve Traicoff; runner-up, John Polombo. Congratulations to our super spellers.

Northville Action Council will be sponsoring Red Ribbon Week March 4-10. We at Amerman support this crusade to keep our children drug free. All parents will be able to purchase a T-shirt with a drug-free message. Notes will go home through the students.

A program in the works for the first time at Amerman is the Reflections program headed by Ro Varley. There were 107 entries. Out of the 28 second- and third-place winners, six of those will go on to compete in the state competition. This was accomplished only by hard work and dedication by the students and Ro Varley. Great job.

Amerman teachers are becoming experts on the computer. Training classes are well attended and enthusiasm is high. Since the groundhog did not see his shadow let's all "spring" into the '90s and get computer training so we can help our teachers and students in the classroom.

Our last roller-skating night for the school year will be held March 15. This evening will be open to all grades K-5. Hope to see you there.

March 22 will be a day to mark on your calendar if you are a music lover. Grades 3 and 4 will be performing a Broadway Revue — A Chorus Line at 7 p.m. Ms. Jarvi always leads a great show.

It's students favorite time of year coming up again. Yep, parent/teacher conferences are scheduled for March 28-30. Students will enjoy half days of school March 27-30. Our Book Fair will be held in conjunction with conferences so parents can take advantage of good prices on good books after hearing how good their children are doing in school.

Our next Parent Teacher Association meeting will be March 6, 9:30 a.m. in the Media Center. We'd love to have you be there.

Matthai Gardens offer flower show

Although it's the dead of winter now, local gardeners can look ahead to the University of Michigan's Matthai Botanical Gardens flower and garden show April 6-8 at the university's Yost Field House.

The 1990 Ann Arbor Flower and Garden Show will focus on four kinds of displays. Landscape designers and nursery firms will feature dramatic garden environments, Michigan garden club members and commercial florists will exhibit original floral arrangements and community residents will be invited to enter plants in horticultural classes. In addition, the public will have the opportunity to interact with horticultural and environmental experts.

Garden environments created by the landscape firms and nurseries will be among the show's highlights with special exhibits by the ikebana, rose, bonsai or orchid societies. Selected by a panel of leading landscape and gardening authorities, landscape designs will feature Japanese spruce, paper bark maple, azaleas, snapdragons, daffodils, tea houses, waterfalls, small streams and other traditional and innovative gardening ideas.

The Flower and Garden Show will adhere to flower show guidelines established by the National Council of State Garden Clubs. The show will serve as a major fund-raising event to continue the development of the Matthai Botanical Gardens' research and educational facilities and programs.

The gardens provide the university community, the surrounding region and the state of Michigan with a naturalistic setting for native plants and exotics. The gardens also "serve as an outdoor classroom."

Divorce workshop offered

Single Place, the singles ministry of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, presents "Starting Over Single," a divorce-recovery workshop, on Thursdays from 7:30-9:30 p.m. March 8 through April 26.

Cost for the workshop is $26 and includes book, speakers, notebook, refreshments and child care.

Child care is provided but the church must know two days prior to the workshop if it will be needed. Call the church office at 349-0911 to request child care.

Workshop topics are:

Stages of Grief — presented by Dick Todd on March 8, the discussion will show the stages of grief that many go through in a divorce. Todd is active in single ministries and is a clinical psychologist and a United Methodist minister.

Networking — On March 15, Dr. Lawrence Chamberlain will look at the psychological dynamics of loneliness as it impacts individual's lives. He will talk about and share creative approaches for dealing with loneliness.

Dr. Chamberlain is senior pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

Legal Aspects of Divorce, or How to Keep the Scales of Justice from Tilting — with David Jerome. On March 22 the evening will focus in on the legal process and how it works and the legal implications that divorce imposes.

Helping Children through Divorce — March 29, Dr. Robert Geake will look at the six feeling stages children go through and four approaches adults can take to enter the children's world. Geake is a state senator for northwestern Wayne County, a member of First Presbyterian Church and a licensed psychologist specializing in children.

Church and Divorce: Spiritual Help — On April 5 the topic will turn to a fresh and hope-filled look at the Bible and the church related to divorce. Jim Russell, a Christian minister who works with many divorced people, will interpret and apply spiritual help. He is associate pastor of First Presbyterian Church of Northville.

The Passage of Divorce — Panel Discussion — on April 19 a discussion group will talk about surviving and even growing through the crisis of divorce. They will share experiences both positive and negative, and update participants on how they are making it.

Friendship and Dating — On April 26 Betty Byrd will look at how relationships work and the need for new friendships, dating and the role of love in healing. Byrd is an instructor at Oakland Community College.

Everything you need to close down a crackhouse.

You aren't helpless when crime invades your neighborhood. You're fully capable of helping police and they're ready to show you how.

The case of The Stanton Park Stand-off.

When crack moved into a row house on a quiet block of Stanton Park, folks decided to serve an eviction notice.

They met with police to find out what they could do to keep drugs out of their neighborhood.

The cops told them to keep an eye out—to let police know whenever something suspicious happened. They began to notice faces. They wrote down license numbers of strange cars. They noted the times of odd behavior.

They worked with each other. They worked with the police.

Armed with field glasses, note pads and telephones, folks kept track of the neighborhood.

Within one month, enough evidence had been gathered. Police moved in. Crack moved out.

Citizen participation beat crime in D.C. It can do the same for you. For more success stories, write: The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001.

Sock hop adds lip synch contest and '50s fever

Read my lips Mark March 30 on your calendar

That's when Northville-area hams will be mouthing the words to the golden tunes of yesteryear at the '50s Dance Party at the Sheraton Oaks Hotel — sponsored by the Michigan '50s Festival

If you're Elvis Presley, Jerry Lee Lewis or Buddy Holly incarnate, take special note because you'll want to get into the swing of things — whether it's pasting on sideburns, greasing back your hair and rotating your pelvis or jumping on a surf board in a pair of baggies and a flowered shirt.

The '50s Festival board is looking for solo and group acts to perform at the Dance Party in preparation for this summer's full-blown lip-synch contest

The third annual Michigan '50s Festival will move into the Novi Civic Center area on July 25 and run through July 29

The contest is scheduled for July 26 in the Happy Days tent. But interested performers are invited to rehearse in front of a live audience during next month's '50s party

The festival had a lip-synch contest last year and the response was overwhelming

"The response was so favorable that we have designated an entire night to lip synch-ing in order to accommodate more acts," said Connie Mallett, the festival's executive director

She explained that last year the acts performed in between band sets and not all of the mimics had a chance to perform

Mallett added that next month's Dance Party will give lip-syners an opportunity to receive live feedback and polish their acts before auditions for this summer's contest

In the spirit of the decade, all lip syners are required to use music from 1950 through 1967 in their acts — which opens the door for all Sha Na Na, Beach Boys, Supremes and Presley impersonators, to name a few

In addition to supplying an audience to want-to-be performers, the March 30 sock hop will act as a time warp back into the '50s with guests coming decked out in poodle skirts, letterman sweaters and penny loafers

Everyone will pop all night with the '50s band Moose and Da Sharks while lip-synch acts keep the fun rolling between sets

The party starts at 8 p.m. and runs until 1 a.m., so put on those blue suede shoes, garb your steady and twist all night

Tickets to the hop are $10 and can be purchased at the Novi Chamber of Commerce or the Parks and Recreation Department

Those interested entertainers waiting for a chance to get in the limelight should contact Cindy Stewart at 347-0494

Northville gets wins at Franklin, Canton

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville basketball squad is one win away from its first-ever WLA Western Division title.

The Mustangs — who have now won four in a row — got two the hard way last week on the road against intra-division opponents, and only need to get past Walled Lake Western on Feb. 20 (after Record deadline) to grab at least a share of the title.

The most impressive victory came on Feb. 16 against the same Livonia Franklin team that had a share of first place in the division standings earlier in the week before falling to Livonia Churchill. Northville extended the Patriots' losing streak to two with a convincing 69-52 triumph, knocking Franklin (5-4) out of the picture and making it a legitimate two-team race between the Mustangs (7-2) and Farmington Harrison (7-2).

The Franklin contest was to be played on Feb. 15, but weather conditions postponed things for 24 hours.

"We didn't have school the day of the game and neither did (Franklin), so it was a different atmosphere than we are used to," Northville Coach Omar Harrison said. "If (Joe) Kaley hadn't had his great ballgame, it would have been a much bigger struggle."

The senior forward poured in a career-high 29 points, and added a school-record six three point buckets to lead the Mustangs. In all, Kaley canned 6-of-9 from three-point range, including four in the second half.

"Joe's really been playing well for us the last few weeks," Harrison said. "These seniors are really motivated to be the first team to be in a legitimate position to win our first division title."

Ironically, Franklin was the team that enabled Northville to get back into the title chase. The Pats demolished Ironrunning Harrison at home on Feb. 9, giving the locals new life.

"We were real thankful that Franklin beat Harrison because that's why we are in position to get at least a share of the title," Harrison said. "Since then, we've had destiny in our own hands, so the challenge is there. If this doesn't give our guys an incentive, nothing will."

Northville jumped out to a 14-7 lead after one quarter, and held a 28-22 advantage at the break. The margin hovered between six and eight points for much of the second half, but the Pats pulled to within four in the fourth quarter only to give up a three-pointer to Kaley. A late rush gave the Mustangs a 21-12 advantage in the final eight minutes, and helped provide a 17-point victory.

"The score was a bit misleading because every time they got close, Kaley would pop in a three-pointer," Harrison said. "It wasn't a blowout, but four was as close as they got."

Scott Meredith scored 14 points and 12 rebounds. Kaley had a fine all-around game with six steals and five assists.

"We were concerned about the game because Franklin is tough at home," Harrison explained. "By getting beat by Churchill three days earlier, I think it took a little starch out of them."

NORTHVILLE 64, PLYMOUTH CANTON 53: It was a one-point win for the host Mustangs back on Jan. 19, so the 11-point victory Feb. 13 on the Chief's home court was certainly a big one.

"It was a pretty close ball game until we pulled away at the end," Harrison said.

Northville held a three-point halftime lead, but opened an eight-point cushion heading into the final stanza. The Mustangs, however, couldn't shake Canton, and the culprit was some poor free-throw shooting.

"Mike Lang missed the front end of three one-and-one situations, and Scott Meredith and McCreadie also missed their free throws," Harrison explained. "That's zero out of a possibility of 10 points right there."

"There's no doubt we did make it hard on ourselves by missing our free

Record/CHRIS BOYD

Northville junior Bill Kelley is fourth in the area with 21 three-point field goals this season throws."

The Chiefs pulled to within four in the final two minutes but Lang redeemed himself by hitting a clutch bucket, and then Jason Flading put it away by nailing two free throws down the stretch.

"We didn't play real well, but we did play well enough to get the win,"

Harrison said.

Kaley again led all scorers with 17 (including two three-pointers), Meredith added 13 points and Bill Kelley chipped 12 points and six assists.

Northville now heads into the final regular-season game against Walled Lake Western with a 12-4 mark. The squad is 10-2 since the Christmas break, including a 57-52 win over the host Warriors on Jan. 30.

"We know if we play up to our potential, we can win the ballgame," Harrison said. "But just because we beat (Western) on the road doesn't mean they are going to come in here and roll over for us.

"I feel good because the kids have accepted the challenge, and they go out and take it to teams — that's why we've been successful. Unlike in past years, this team isn't intimidated by the bigger schools and they don't feel the other teams in our league are any better than they are."

Gymnasts extend win streak to four

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

The Northville gymnasts are having trouble breaking the 130-point barrier, but coach Michelle Charniga isn't complaining. Her team has been scoring in the 126-127 range since mid-January, but the dual-meet victories continue to pile up.

With a 126.65-118.50 triumph over host Westland John Glenn on Feb. 13, the Mustangs increased their winning streak to four, and are gaining momentum as the post-season tournaments approach. Without All-Stater Wendy Minch, the Rockets aren't the dangerous team they were a year ago. Northville outscored the home team in three of four events, including a two-point advantage in vault and a five-point bulge in the uneven parallel bars.

"It went pretty well," Charniga said, "but we had an off night in (the balance) beam. We expected to win the meet heading in, but it was kind of a mediocre performance overall. The girls know they can do much better."

In vault, the Mustangs outscored the Rockets 32.75-30.35 to take command early. Mia DeHart led a Northville sweep of the top four places with an 8.4. She was followed in order by Lee LaChance (8.15), Melanie Apligian (8.1), and Liz Torok (8.1). Ris Fleming (7.7) and Becky Carney (7.4) also competed.

The lead went to nearly eight following the uneven parallel bars. DeHart again grabbed first place honors (8.95), LaChance was second (7.85) and Carney was fourth (7.1). The rest of the Mustang contingent included Megan Graham (7.0), Sue Okasinski (6.8) and Kristen Brown (4.15).

The Mustangs briefly fell apart in the balance beam. None of the six Northville competitors scored above 7.95 and the team barely reached the 30-point mark (30.45). Glenn, in the meantime, scored 31.05 as a team and swept the top two places. DeHart was third (7.95), Torok was fourth (7.75) and LaChance fifth (7.55). Fleming (6.7), Lisa Hojanacki (6.45) and Graham (6.2) also competed.

In the floor exercise, the Mustangs regained their composure and closed it out by scoring 32.55. DeHart was second overall (8.5), Torok was third (8.2) and Tracie Surdu fourth (7.95). The other routines came from LaChance (7.9), Leslie Allen (7.9) and Beth Cannizzaro (6.7).

In the all-around competition, DeHart was first with a 33.8 effort and LaChance was second (31.45).

Northville (5-2 overall, 4-2 in the WLA) wrapped up the dual-meet portion of the season on Feb. 19, after the Record's deadline, at Plymouth Salem. The Rocks have been scoring in the high 130s, so the outlook isn't very good.

"Salem scored 137 their last time out, so we aren't expecting a victory," Charniga admitted. "Plus, it's during our mid-winter vacation, so I don't know what kind of a team we'll have. I know of four girls already who will be out of town."

NHS wrestling trio qualify for states

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Three of Northville's five regional qualifiers placed in the top four of their respective weight divisions in order to move on to compete in the MHSAA State Wrestling Meet this weekend in Battle Creek. The remaining two were only one victory away from qualifying as well, so Mustang Coach Bob Boshoven was very pleased with his team's performance.

"All five of our guys had at least one victory in the regionals, and we got three through, so I was real happy with that," he said.

Garnet Potter and Brandon Mardossian ended up second overall in the 145- and 125-pound divisions respectively to earn a trip to the finals on Feb. 23 and 24 at the Kellogg Center. Junior Kevin Khashan also sneaked into the field by placing fourth at 119.

Potter cruised through the preliminary rounds with ease but then dropped his fourth bout in 41 tries this season in the finals to Denver Beck of top-ranked Temperance Bedford. The score was 10-0. The Mustang senior pinned Dave Hance of Monroe in 3:53 in his first bout and then dethroned Chris Cruder of Ann Arbor Huron 11-6 in round two before falling to Beck.

"I was surprised that Garnet was beaten that bad, but Beck is the number-two ranked 145-pounder in the state — he is tough," Boshoven said. "The match was actually closer than the score indicated."

Mardossian indicated Tony Wirick of Woodhaven and then clobbered district champion Ron Wilber of Adrian 8-1 to reach the 125 finals. He then suffered his fourth defeat of the year, 6-4, to Dustin Pavluk of Southgate Anderson.

"Brandon's a tough, tough kid but I think he had a hard time mentally getting prepared for the bout," Boshoven explained.

Just prior to Mardossian's bout, Khashan was injured in the 119-pound consolation finals, and he was being wheeled off in a stretcher to a waiting ambulance.

"I think it shook up Brandon because they are best friends," Boshoven said.

It was an unfortunate end to a very productive outing for Khashan. In the consolation semifinals, he turned back Novi's Rick Starr 7-3, and avenged a 6-2 loss to him a week earlier at the individual districts. But in the third-place bout, Khashan suffered a neck injury and was forced to default to Brighton's Mitch Zoldowski.

"The doctor said that it was just a muscle pull and that there was no problem with any bones or anything," Boshoven said. "He told Kevin he can compete on Friday. He was wrestling very well until he got hurt."

The remaining two Northville wrestlers who did not qualify for the state meet were Matt Allison at 103 and Curt Cureton at 152. Allison was pinned in the first round, came back to pin Mike Herbert of South Lyon in round two for his 30th victory of the season, but then fell to Adam Smith of Gibraltar Carlson in the next round.

"Matt had an absolute outstanding year for a freshman," Boshoven said. "To be a 30-match winner is great for anyone."

Cureton followed the same path He dropped a 17-1 decision in the first round, came back to pin Jason Rhodhouse of Lincoln Park, and then was knocked out of contention by Walled Lake Western's Todd Hoffmeyer, 10-0.

"Curt was really the unsung hero of our team," Boshoven said. "He had 15 wins and he made it all the way to the regionals."

As for the state meet qualifiers, Boshoven believes that Potter and Mardossian are strong candidates for a top-six finish.

"I think they can both be factors in the tournament," he said. "If they are on and wrestling well, Potter and Mardossian can beat anybody in the state."

Spradlin becomes Prop 48 casualty

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

Novi's Bob Ahrens and Northville's Rob Spradlin are two of the biggest, strongest and most imposing football players ever to come out of this area. Ahrens is 6-foot-3, 250-pounds and was a three-year starter for the Wildcats and was the Kensington Valley Conference's top interior lineman last fall. Spradlin is even bigger — at 6-foot-5, 265-pounds — and has been an anchor in the Mustang defensive line for the past two seasons.

Both were All-Conference and All-Area picks following their senior campaigns.

So why weren't the college recruiters banging down the door, trying to get these two to play for them? How come their names didn't appear on any college team's list of recruits when the first day National Letters of Intent came on Feb. 14?

The answer is Proposition 48.

Both Ahrens and Spradlin have scored below the cutoff in one of the standardized tests for college-bound seniors — the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) and ACT (American College Test). And unless they retake the tests and score at or above the cutoffs, they will be ineligible to play football as freshmen next fall in accordance with the propositions.

"If you're a Prop 48 player, you must be a real blue-chipper for major colleges to take a chance on you and offer you a full-ride scholarship," Northville football coach Darrel Schumacher said.

As it was, the only area griddy to commit on Feb. 14 was Novi Linebacker/Fullback Mike Yankowski. The 6-foot-1, 202-pounder will join former Wildcat All-Stater Scott Wladischkin at Ferris State University in Big Rapids. Ferris is a Division II school and plays in the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference.

"I like Mike's chances at Ferris and I think he'll have a nice career over there," Osborne said.

As far as football talent, most observers believed that both Ahrens and Spradlin were at least Division II prospects, and probably could compete on the Division I level for teams from the Mid-American Conference, for instance.

"The SAT situation kind of turned all the big schools away from Rob," his father, Emmitt Spradlin, said.

"It's been quite crushing to him." As it stands now, Spradlin is thinking about attending Liberty University in Virginia and trying out for the football team as a walk-on. Liberty is a Division I school.

"Liberty is the only one that he is considering at this time," Schumacher said. "Rob hasn't had any scholarship offers, and I know that he is a very disappointed young man right now. His family is planning on moving south anyway, so that probably had something to do with it."

According to Novi Coach John Osborne, Ahrens also didn't receive any scholarship offers, but schools like Central Michigan University did show a lot of interest.

"CMU showed an awful lot of interest," he said. "From what I understand, they told Bob if he passed his ACT test, they would still be interested."

The only other Novi player who will definitely want to play college ball is 6-foot, 250-pound center Randy Thompson, who plans to walk on at Central Michigan.

Northville's Steve Bastian wants to play for a Division III team, but hasn't made up his mind yet. He's already visited Kalamazoo College and Alma College and still plans visits to Albion College and Wooster (Ohio) College. Teammate Noel Korowin — a fine high school football and soccer player — would like to play both sports and is currently looking at Butler (Ind.) University.

WLA SIGNEES: The Western Lakes Activities Association players who've signed National Letters of Intent include Mill (The Thrill) Coleman, 5-9, 165 quarterback, Farmington Harrison, to Michigan State; Trent Naumcheff, 6-2, 200 linebacker, Livonia Churchill, to Central Michigan; Ryan Johnson, 6-2, 255 linebacker, Plymouth Salem, to Eastern Michigan; Eric Stover, 6-1, 180 quarterback, Westland John Glenn, to Grand Valley State; Mark Johnston, 6-2, 235 lineman, Westland John Glenn, to Hillsdale; John O'Mell, 5-9, 175, linebacker, Walled Lake Western, to Michigan Tech.

KVC SIGNEES: The Kensington Valley Conference signees include:

Bob Laura, 5-11, 185 running back/defensive back, Lakeland, to Saginaw Valley State; Dave Osborn, 5-8, 155 wide receiver, South Lyon, to Michigan Tech; Kevin Warford, 6-2, 170 defensive back, South Lyon, to Northwood.

KEIR SIGNS: Former Novi All-Conference and All-Area pick Bret Keir, has signed to play his final two years of college football at Washburn University in Kansas.

Keir, who spent the last two years at Grand Rapids Junior College, gave Washburn a verbal commitment on Jan. 20 and then officially signed a National Letter of Intent on Feb. 15. Washburn is a Division II program located in Topeka, Kansas. The "Ichabods" are coached by Larry Elliot.

"Washburn recruited a few guys from (Grand Rapids Junior College)," Keir said. "They wrote us, they brought us down there for a visit in December, and offered us a full-ride scholarship."

Division I schools like Western Michigan University and Elon College in North Carolina also showed interest in Keir, but after weighing his options, he picked Washburn.

"After I thought about it, I knew that it was the best place for me," he said. "They've been very successful over the years and they have a very good coaching staff. Getting the scholarship has always been my goal since I went to junior college."

Keir, 6-foot-1, 260-pounds, plans to play along the defensive line for the Ichabods.

Newton, Cook excel at MISCA Meet

Inclement weather knocked Northville's Feb. 15 dual meet with Livonia Franklin into the middle of the next week — literally — but luckily for Mustang Coach Mark Heiden and his swimmers, the week wasn't a total loss. On Saturday (Feb. 17), Northville was one of 40 teams to compete in the Michigan Interscholastic Coaches Association Meet at Eastern Michigan University.

Although no team scores were kept, Heiden was very pleased with the way his squad performed. The Mustangs notched seven top-10 finishes in all.

"The meet was held where the state meet will take place, so it was a great warm-up for that,"

Heiden said. "I thought we did real well."

Junior standout Eric Newton had a hand in three of the team's top finishes. In the 200-yard IM, he finished second in a time of 2:03.42. He added a fifth in the 500 freestyle relay team that finished fifth (3:25.34). The rest of the team included Brad Cook, Bob Holdridge and Chris Handyside.

Cook joined Andy Wayne, Matt Hanna and Handyside to place seventh in the 200 medley relay (1:44.17) and also had some success of his own as an individual — he placed fourth in the 100 butterfly (55.36).

The remaining two Northville places came from the diving corps. Steve Lang was fourth overall with a point total of 376 and Larry Osiecki was seventh with a 346.

"We didn't get any state-qualifying cuts that day but we're just starting our taper, so we expect to have some off-swims," Heiden explained. "We had a few of those, but we also had some good ones."

The Mustangs (8-1 overall, 6-0 in the WLA) met Franklin on Feb. 20 (after Record deadline) and will try to complete an unbeaten regular season in the WLA against Walled Lake Western today.

Mustangs of the Week

JOE KALEY

Senior forward Joe Kaley had a "Mustang of the Week" kind of outing against Livonia Franklin last Friday. Kaley poured in a career-high 29 points, and hit a school record six three-pointers in Northville's 69-52 win over the Pats. In all, Kaley canned 6-of-9 from three-point range, including four in the second half, and added six steals and five assists. He chipped in a team-high 17 points in the Mustangs 64-53 win at Plymouth Canton three days earlier. For the week, Kaley hit for eight three-pointers and leads team with 29 "Joe's really been playing well for us the last few weeks," Northville Coach Omar Harrison said.

KEVIN KHASHAN

Northville wrestler Kevin Khashan ended his run in the MHSAA Individual Regional with a neck injury, but prior to that, he was outstanding. That's why we think "Mustang of the Week" honors should go out to him. In the 119-pound division, Khashan avenged an earlier loss to Novi's Rick Starr in the consolation semifinals to assure himself a spot in the state meet. But in the battle for third place against Mitch Zoldowski of Brighton, Khashan suffered the injury, was forced to default and settle for fourth-place. This season, the junior standout is 36-6 overall.

Support group aids schizophrenics

Farmington resident Joan Verbanick hopes the confidential support group she founded five years ago will help members live with one of the few catastrophic illnesses still enveloped in social stigma: schizophrenia.

Schizophrenics Anonymous, modeled after Alcoholics Anonymous, helps members along the road to full recovery, or at least assists them in coping with the voices, delusions, visions and paranoia which experts say is probably caused by a chemical imbalance in the brain.

Verbanick, institutionalized seven times for paranoid schizophrenia since 1970, has worked for 16 years in the credit department of Ford Motor Company. She has not been in the hospital for three years.

An estimated 2.5 million Americans are thought to suffer from the mental illness. Due to denial, many fail to properly take the medications which control their symptoms. Everyone with the disease is not violent, dangerous or unpredictable, Verbanick said. The average group member tends to be about 30 and the majority are males. Many lead otherwise normal lives. With proper treatment, some schizophrenics can hold down jobs and raise families. Others are not so fortunate, but may still work toward leading the best possible life within a hospital environment.

An estimated 25 percent of schizophrenics recover fully, another 25 percent do not, and the rest may reach varying stages of improvement.

At Schizophrenics Anonymous meetings, schizophrenics at all levels are met with understanding in a non-threatening, non-judgmental atmosphere. The society, which meets weekly and also sponsors social events, supplements other forms of treatment.

"They can come to the group and share their voices, delusions and symptoms. We know what they're going through. We've all been there," Verbanick said. "The biggest thing is acceptance. I don't think they're crazy when they say they've heard voices."

The 500-member organization's home chapter is in Southfield. Thirteen other chapters exist throughout the state and six have been formed out-of-state, including groups in Arizona, New York and Louisiana. Members are often referred by mental health professionals. Verbanick said the organization would like to start a group in the Novi area.

On Jan. 8, a chapter was founded at Northville Regional Psychiatric Hospital by field-placement student Lois Slusky, who is working on a BSW at Wayne State University. As part of the hospital's program to develop patients' independent living skills, members are learn the steps for recovery — admitting they need help, forgiving themselves and others, taking responsibility for their lives, choosing to be well and avoiding self-defeating behavior patterns.

"They talk about AA as the most successful of recovery programs. I think SA has the same potential," Slusky said.

"As a group you see the progress. The people have definitely improved."

Verbanick doesn't recommend that people with schizophrenia "go public" — she has heard of too many that have lost friends and jobs due to their mental illness. Instead, she suggests that schizophrenics follow the advice of their doctors. They can also call Verbanick at 477-1983 for information on the society.

She foresees a future when people will have greater compassion for schizophrenics and recognize that they are ill, not moral failures or second-class citizens.

"I think it's just a beginning. Ten years down the road you may be able to say you have schizophrenia, people won't think twice about it," she said.

St. Pat's Fun Run slated for March 17

The St. Pat's Fun Run and Pancake Breakfast will be held on March 17 and is sponsored by the Livonia Family YMCA.

Registration will be the day of the race, from 7:45-9:45 a.m. at Frost Junior High School on 14041 Stark Road in Livonia. The races distances will be one, three and five miles.

Cost is $11 and includes T-shirt and all-you-can-eat pancake breakfast with sausage, juice and coffee. Non-runners can eat breakfast for $3 for adults and $1.50 for children.

For more information, call 261-2161, or write Livonia Family Y, 14255 Stark Road, Livonia, MI 48154.

EXERCISE PROGRAM: A one-hour exercise program is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by The University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who would benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

Fitness Notes

"The format consists of carefully guided warm-up and stretching exercise followed by light aerobics and a cool-down period, all synchronized to music," according to Prof. Phyllis E. Weikart, director of U-M's Adult Lifestyle Program. "Our objective is to improve the participants' strength, flexibility and energy level through activities which are safe and enjoyable."

Weikart and her staff have been leading the popular Fitness Over 50 classes for 12 years on the U-M campus and for the past two years at Ann Arbor's Briarwood Mall, where it regularly attracts some 125 participants.

By expanding the program to Twelve Oaks Mall, they have made it more accessible to residents throughout Livingston, Wayne and Oakland Counties.

"Twelve Oaks is open an hour before the stores open (at 10 a.m. daily and noon Sunday) to accommodate people who want to use the mall for walking," notes Twelve Oaks marketing director Elaine Kah. "This exercise program adds a new dimension to this activity. We are pleased to be a part of the program."

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of their age and current activity level. Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Twelve Oaks is a major regional shopping center located in Novi on I-96 and Novi Road. The center hours are Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.; and Sunday, noon to 6 p.m.

HALF-MARATHON: The annual West Bloomfield Half Marathon has been scheduled for April 22, at 12:30 p.m. This will be the 14th running of this TAC (The Athletics Congress)-certified race which is sponsored by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation.

The race begins in the front of West Bloomfield High School, Orchard Lake Road at Green Road, and winds through the scenic residential streets.

Over-the-counter drugs can be dangerous

By SYLVA DVORAK, M.S.

We are living in a time when the cost of medical care is skyrocketing. Along with these rising costs, more and more people are turning to over-the-counter (OTC) drugs. OTC drugs are usually self-prescribed and self-administered for the relief of symptoms we self-diagnose.

Even though OTC drugs are available without a prescription, they can still be dangerous if taken improperly or with other drugs and should still be kept out of the reach of children.

Sometimes, the only difference between an OTC drug and prescription drug is that the prescription drug has a somewhat higher concentration of the primary ingredient. For example, Nuprin, an OTC drug, has about a quarter the amount of ibuprofen as Motrin, a prescription drug. Thus, OTC drugs have the potential to produce the same side effects.

Over-the-counter drugs are those which are considered safe to use without a doctor's prescription, non-habit forming and non-toxic. Yet, it is still essential that we comply with the recommended dosage and read all of the instructions and warnings.

Drug Interactions

There are numerous OTC drug interactions with foods and other drugs. The complex thing about interactions is they differ widely from person to person. We need to realize that even Alka-Seltzer and aspirin are drugs and need to be taken according to the instructions. Elderly people, pregnant women, children and those taking other medications are especially vulnerable to drug interactions.

The following are examples of side effects:

- Mineral oil, a commonly used laxative, decreases absorption of fat soluble vitamins A, D, E and K, by coating the intestinal lining.

- Antihistamines taken with dairy products (milk, cheese) may cause the side effects to be doubled, causing dizziness, drowsiness and impaired vision.

OTC Drugs & Alcohol

Often, people can forget they have taken a self-prescribed medication and proceed to have a few drinks. This can be lethal. OTC drugs and alcohol do not mix! The following are examples of what happens to your body when you add alcohol to common OTC drugs.

- Analgesics (non-narcotic): Aspirin, Tylenol, etc. — Even when used alone, these can cause bleeding in the stomach and intestines. Alcohol irritates the stomach, can heighten liver damage and intestinal bleeding. Those with ulcers are especially sensitive to alcohol.

- Antihistamines: Most cold medicines, Actifed, etc. — Alcohol mixed with these drugs will increase the side effects of the drug, causing drowsiness. Don't mix alcohol with this type of medication, especially if you plan to drive.

Central Nervous System Stimulants: Most diet pills, Dexadrine, caffeine, etc. — These stimulants may reverse the depressant effects of alcohol, giving one a false sense of security.

Before you take any medication, always read the dosage and warning labels. Every form of medication is potentially harmful when taken with the wrong combination of drugs, food and/or alcohol. Ask questions of your doctor or pharmacist. Each year, 75 million Americans take some type of drug and OTC drugs are becoming more and more common. Protect your children — keep all medication locked up and out of reach.

The Northville Record is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

For most children, the death and funeral of a person is something they have heard about or seen only on TV or in the movies. While they may have suffered the loss of a pet, the majority have not experienced the death of some person they love.

When this does occur, it is important that the child be sympathetically guided toward and honest understanding of its real meaning.

The questions and answers in this article are basic. For some, this advice may be sufficient. For others, additional reading on the subject or counseling from a knowledgeable person may be necessary.

What is written here will aid parents and other adults to help children more realistically face the death of someone they love and start them on a healthy resolution of their own grief.

When someone dies that a child has known, especially someone loved, the child should be told of the death by someone close. And the truth should be told. It is wrong to say that "Grandpa is on a trip" or "Mother is living in the hospital." Help the child to separate the real from the pretend.

Children are people. They react to traumatic situations with emotional overtones as disbelief, bodily distress, anger, guilt, anxiety and panic—just as adults do. Children often act out their feelings in different ways than adults.

But the child may not be able to say what he feels with words so he must depend on body language and behavior to vent his feelings. Adults should try to understand what this behavior really means.

Even delinquent conduct may well be an acting out of grief, an expression of life's injustice, the child's insecurity or the confusion that often accompanies the fearful events in life.

CHILDREN AND DEATH

Children are more aware of death than parents realize. Yet, it is a subject which adults usually avoid. This repression of reality only magnifies the youngster's fears and replaces truth with fantasy and psychological defenses.

According to experts in child behavior, a child experiences three phases in the natural grieving process. The first is protest. The child cannot quite believe the person is dead. Sometimes an angry attempt is made to regain the "lost" person.

The second is pain, despair and disorganization when the youngster begins to accept the fact that life on Earth has ended for the person who has been loved.

Finally, there is hope, when the youngster begins to get back into the mainstream of life without that person.

When someone loved dies, the surviving children should be allowed to express their grief. It is natural. They loved and miss the deceased. To say, "Be brave," sounds as if one were minimizing the loss and places an almost impossible burden on the child. It is much better to be realistic and say, "Yes, it's tough."

Children should be made to feel free to express themselves. If they are deprived of the natural emotion of grief, this could prove harmful.

Don't be afraid of causing tears. They act like a safety valve. Often parents and friends deliberately attempt to steer the conversation away from the deceased. They are apprehensive that tears may start to flow. Yet expressing grief by crying is not only natural and normal, but also is therapeutic.

The worst thing possible is for the child to repress tears. "Bottled up" grief may later find a release in a more serious problem.

Proper mental health for both child and adult depends on the acknowledgement of tragedy, not its denial. Say "I could cry, too," rather than, "There, there, you musn't cry." Or many times the climate for grieving will be such that the adult will by nature cry with the child.

Should children attend funerals?

Parents intend it as a kindness when they shield the child from the funeral. They mistakenly believe it is for the child's good to send a child with a friend or relative until after the funeral. Some are dismayed by the suggestion that the youngster share in the service honoring the life and memory of someone close.

However, recognized child authorities

Cremation as a way of final disposition of the body is not widely practiced in the United States but is increasing. In Japan and England, the remains of most people are cremated, compatible with their cultures.

Recent statistics indicate that in the United States about 10 percent of deaths result in final disposition of the body by cremation.

The number of cremations is increasing as is the number of deaths. Therefore the ratio of cremations to deaths is rising slowly. Some of the increase is due to greater acceptance by the public because of less resistance by religious authorities.

What Is Cremation?

Cremation is an alternative method of disposition of a human body following death. Through intense heat or fire the body is quickly reduced to bone and ashes. Most times the bone is pulverized. In contrast, earth burial is a gradual process of reduction to basic elements.

To some, a quick, clean incineration of the body is preferable to the slower process of reduction in a grave. Or they may prefer the immediate way in which the body is broken down to its basic components and then mixed with the elements of the earth, symbolizing a oneness with nature and the universe.

For these families, cremation can lend support to the process of mourning. An important aspect is realizing, both emotionally and intellectually, that any further relationship with the deceased has ended. Cremation may effectively symbolize this finality for some people.

WHAT IS CREMATION?

What's Involved in Cremation?

Most of the customs and rituals that normally make up the funeral are not significantly altered if cremation is requested. There can still be a visitation and viewing of the deceased. A worship service or ceremony with the body present can be held. There can also be some form of committal service for the cremated remains.

The body may still be accompanied by the family in procession to the crematory. There, usually in a chapel setting, the casket or other container is placed into a specially designed furnace called a retort.

Operating at an extremely high temperature it reduces the body to a few pound of bone fragments and ashes in less than two hours.

Each body should be cremated separately. All smoke and gases are recirculated through the furnace so there is very little discharge into the open air.

Most of the cremated remains are then placed in an urn or canister and carefully identified. Your funeral director or the crematory will have a variety of urns from which the family can make a selection.

What Happens to the Remains?

The family has several options available:

• Inurnment—The cremated remains in an urn or other type container can be permanently located in a niche at a columbarium. Many cemeteries have such facilities ranging from simple to elaborate. There are usually perpetual care agreements in force and regulations concerning the use of flowers.

• Burial—A second option involves burying the cremated remains in an earth grave in the canister or urn. Some cemeteries require that the urn be placed in a vault-like container.

Burials of cremated remains can be in a family plot or a special area available in many cemeteries. This burial can take place immediately after the funeral and cremation, but usually occurs several days later.

• Scattering—Strewing the cremated remains is a third option. This requires some pulverization because there are usually some larger bone fragments after cremation.

The remains are then distributed on the ground, into a stream or over the ocean. Most crematories will dispose of the cremated remains according to a family's wishes.

Some families may wish to scatter the cremated remains in a place of particular sentimental attachment, providing there are no legal prohibitions. Your funeral director can advise about any such restrictions.

If the cremated remains are put in a col-umbarium or grave, a plaque or marker can be used. Some cemeteries have Garden of Remembrance sections for buried or strewn cremated remains.

Therefore, it is possible to have some marker or memorialization to indicate the specific or general location of the ashes. A tree or shrub might be planted and dedicated as a living memorial.

Crematories also provide Books of Remembrance in which the name of the deceased can be suitably inscribed or displayed.

Sometimes a committal service is held with the family present when the ashes are finally disposed of by any of these means. This way of honoring the deceased completes the process of separations.

What is the Cost?

Costs vary and relate to the way cremation is utilized. Comparing cremation with earth burial, it is impossible to estimate costs or savings without considering the locality and circumstances. These include the distance to the nearest crematory, whether or not a family grave plot is already owned, and the charges for opening and closing a grave.

If economic considerations alone are paramount, cremation as a means of immediate disposition may be an alternative to consider. Your funeral director can discuss the types of final disposition available to you and their costs.

The funeral with the body present is not an American phenomenon. The practice has existed since time immemorial. And there are many reasons for it.

Why the Body Present?

When someone dies, a life on Earth ends. What remains is the body of a man, woman or child who once was loved and who loved in return. And when we remember that person we often think of them in terms of their physical being—their body.

That is why it is difficult, if not impossible, for most survivors to disassociate themselves immediately from the lifeless body. Our mind requires evidence that life has ended. The presence of the body gives this evidence.

It also provides opportunity for recall and reminiscence. It offers testimony and tribute to the life that has been lived.

In most events and ceremonies there is a meaningful symbol or person upon which to focus our attention. At a wedding it's the bride and groom. For the pledge of allegiance it's the flag. At a birthday party it is the person whose birthday is being celebrated. And at the funeral it's the body of the person who died.

Viewing

Just as there are important reasons for the body to be present at the funeral, there are important reasons for viewing the body.

The first step in starting the process of healthful mourning is to acknowledge that the death has occurred. Nothing confirms this reality like viewing the body. Seeing is believing. It is the first essential step toward managing one's grief.

Viewing has taken on greater importance today than ever before. More people die away from home. There are more deaths following long and devastating illness. There are more people whose lives end under tragic circumstances. Several helpful purposes are served by viewing:

VIEWING THE BODY

- Realization—The moment of truth comes when living persons confront the fact of death by looking at the body. This is particularly true after a sudden or accidental death or one which most, if not all, of the family did not witness.

This confirmation is vital. Often much effort is expended to recover a missing body, basically to confirm the fact that death has occurred.

- Recall—Proper preparation and sometimes restoration provide to the bereaved an acceptable recall image of the deceased while confirming the reality of death.

The effects of a devastating illness may change a person's appearance considerably. An accident may disfigure the entire body. Removal or modification of the marks of violence of the ravages of disease help provide an acceptable recall image.

Viewing is considered therapeutic for people of all ages. It is especially helpful for a child who has lost someone loved. Instead of fantasizing, there is the opportunity to realize what has happened—that the life on earth has ended for the dead person.

- Expression—In many instances of loss, an immediate response to comfort those involved is not essential. Death is different. Time is both an urgent and steadying factor. Many find it difficult to express themselves if they don't do it right away. Thus the body present and viewed during the visitation provides an immediate and proper climate for expression.

Organ and Body Donations

When an organ or body part will be donated to medical science, there is no problem concerning the availability of the body for the funeral. The uniform donor card or driver's license points out that anatomical gifts must be medically acceptable and needed to take effect upon death.

Anatomical gift laws say that when the gift is part of the body that after removal of the donated part, custody of the remainder of the body vests in the surviving spouse, next of kin or other persons under obligation to dispose of the body. Thus the body can be present for the funeral.

When an entire body is given for anatomical study, most medical institutions will permit the use of the body for funeralization after which it is delivered to the medical institution.

There need not be a choice between an anatomical gift or a funeral with the body present. With a few exceptions both are possible.

The Value of Viewing

Most psychiatrists agree that viewing the body has therapeutic value for survivors. The late Dr. Erich Lindemann, who pioneered wise ways of coping with grief, declared that viewing was the most important part of the whole funeral process.

He emphasized: "People tend to deny painful reality . . . but when they experience that moment of truth that comes when they stand before the dead body, their denials collapse . . . Grief is a feeling. If you deny it, you have difficulty coping with it, but if you face it you start the process of healthful mourning."

One inescapable conclusion can be drawn—for most people the funeral with the body present becomes an experience of value as they work through the sociological, psychological and many times religious needs that are a part of the grief experience.

"At first I didn't want to talk about our funerals. But, now I'm glad we did."

Forethought is funeral planning... before the need arises

I thought planning our funerals together would be a terribly sad thing. But, actually, it brought us both a great sense of relief. Now we know neither one of us has all those decisions facing us in the future and we won't have to second-guess whether we did the right thing . . . did what the other one would have wanted. It's all planned and even paid for with the Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought funeral planning. And, there's a policy available to anyone up to age 100. There's a real peace of mind that comes with having it taken care of ahead of time with Forethought.

We chose Forethought SM funeral planning

It's one of those things that's so easy to put off, put out of your mind. And I guess that's what I was doing. But, once he started asking me questions about how I wanted my funeral to be, I realized how important it is for the people we leave behind to know these things. He had no idea that I wanted a simple eulogy, and just that discussion alone started us on all sorts of other topics. I found out he doesn't like organ music. We even had a few laughs.

An untreated, dead human body starts to decompose almost immediately after death. Embalming retards this process. It also disinfects and sanitizes the body.

Embalming makes it possible to have the body available for viewing and present for the funeral ceremony. This is its main purpose.

The restoration and cosmetizing aspects of care of a dead body are not intended to make the body look alive. Rather they provide for an acceptable recall image of the deceased while confirming the reality of death.

Experts on grief agree that viewing helps survivors take that first step toward a healthy readjustment to their loss.

The purpose of this article is to answer questions and to provide the facts about embalming.

Embalming as a Process

Embalming is the disinfection of the dead body by replacing certain fluids with chemicals. This retards decomposition and allows the body to be available for viewing and present for the funeral ceremony.

The funeral service licensee carefully washes and cleanses the body with particular attention to the hands, face and hair. The mouth, nose and other openings are disinfected and closed because excretions from them can be a source of contagion or infection.

Preserving chemicals are injected through an artery under carefully controlled pressure, replacing the blood. Ordinarily, the embalming process requires only one incision. Another incision is necessary for treatment of the internal organs.

In addition to the embalming process those parts of the body which are to be exposed are cosmetized. When death was due to a lingering illness, a mutilating accident, or an act of violence, the damaged parts are specially treated and restored.

Embalming and the Law

Embalming is not required under law except under certain circumstances. Laws and regulations concerning embalming vary from state to state. If you desire pertinent information in a particular instance, your funeral director can obtain it for you.

Embalming may be required by law under these circumstances:

- If death is due to certain communicable or infectious diseases.
- If final disposition of the body is not made within a specified number of hours.
- If the body is to be transported interstate in a common carrier.
- If the body is to be transported intrastate beyond the place where death occurred.

Practical Necessity for Embalming

Embalming allows survivors the time to make unhurried decisions regarding funeral arrangements and final disposition of the body. It also permits relatives to come from distant places to be present for the period of the funeral.

If the body is to be present for the funeral, including the visitation or wake and the funeral service, it should be embalmed.

If not, offensive odor, sanitation and appearance problems will exist. The body is subject to quick decomposition unless properly cared for immediately. Simply cleansing, disinfecting and refrigerating the body without embalming may or may not avoid serious problems.

Factors which must be considered in the care and shelter of the body are: the nature and place of the death; the outside or room temperature when death occurred; the length of time between death and removal of the body; and, the length of time before disposition of the body.

Costs Related to Embalming

The cost of embalming and other preparation including the use of the preparation room, dressing and casketing will range from $100 to $350. The range is due to varying cost factors in different parts of the country.

An alternative to embalming is refrigeration. The charges of one day's refrigeration, if available, would be comparable to that of embalming. If final disposition was delayed beyond that time for any reason, the refrigeration charge would be higher.

One Last Thought

The reasons for and purposes of embalming are often misunderstood. Only those who have been in close proximity to an unembalmed body when death occurred some hours previous or was violent know what the odor and appearance can be.

Unlike other cultures, few Americans have or seem to want to experience this. As to post-death activities, if a funeral with the body present, with or without viewing, is desired, then for all practical purposes the body should be embalmed.

But even if there are not to be rites or ceremonies with the body present, consideration must be given to those who will be exposed to a body and its decomposition prior to final disposition.

Information provided by the National Funeral Directors Association.

The hours of each life are the markers of history. Passing time leaves its memories behind. The remembrance of yesterday, becomes today's precious keepsakes, and tomorrow's inspiring inheritance.

CHILDREN AND DEATH

agree than not only is it good to permit a child to attend a funeral, but a child should be encouraged to do so if that is what the child desires.

The entire situation will be made easier if the child has gone to church services or has been at other public gatherings.

A child is an integral part of the family unit and should be included in every significant occasion. Though sad, the funeral is a sharing community process and a crucial occurrence in the life of every family.

A youngster should have the same right as any other family member to attend the funeral, to show feelings and to express and share love and devotion.

To shut a child out of this experience of sorrow might be quite damaging to personality in formative years. Deprivation of a sense of belonging at this very emotional moment may well shake existing feelings of security.

Other participation?

For children, as well as adults, the ceremony surrounding death is of enormous significance.

A Catholic priest points out how the church's funeral rite speaks of the real nature of Christian death which is especially important to the youngster. A child might actually participate in the Scripture reading or present the gifts at the offertory of the funeral Mass.

Clergypersons of other denominations also sometimes invite a child to read during the service. A Protestant minister notes when the child is allowed to view the body and participate in the funeral services he is aided in avoiding unrealistic fantasies about death.

The Jewish faith suggests rites that play a vital role in the healing work of grief. The bereaved are made to realize that the one who was loved is gone and that the void must be filled gradually in a constructive way.

If your child is going to the visitation or funeral service in the funeral home or church, explain in advance some of the details. Indicate what to expect when viewing the body.

Describing what will happen fosters a better understanding of why it is being done. It is sometimes well for the child's first visitation to be with only a few persons especially close. This permits the child to react more freely and to verbalize his feelings and concerns.

The conduct of adults, especially parents, during the period of the funeral can be helpful or harmful to the child. For parents to express openly any deep feelings that move them, and to explain their tears to the child, can do much to give freedom for an expression of loss.

How else can you help a child?

The adult must understand the youngster's emotional needs. This is done by empathy, understanding and love. Love contributes to the child's security and gives a feeling of being valued. Love can then be given in return.

Demonstrate in word and touch how much the child is loved. An emotionally mature adult who accepts the fact of death with courage and wisdom but not stoically will convey to the youngster that the business of life is living.

The dead are to be remembered with appreciation, but after a short time the energies of those who mourn must turn again to those who live on.

Assist the child to unburden feelings through expression, confession, remembrance and release. The child needs to talk, not just to be talked to. Every opportunity should be given to discuss memories of the person who has died, to ask questions and be permitted to even express antipathy as well as affection for the deceased if this is desired.

Adults should encourage the child to accept the reality of death. The child's reaction to a death is geared to his particular stage of development.

Parents must be careful not to attach adult-oriented meanings to the ways in which a child expresses an understanding of death. Nor should they shame or criticize for whatever responses are being made.

For the child whose grief is deep and sustained, provide every possible opportunity to talk about the loss. Then aid the child in getting into age-appropriate social activities.

The necessity for carrying on day-to-day routines will assist the process of adjustment, and, in time, special interests and pleasures will again assume their normal place in the scheme of things—for both parent and child.

Adults must take great care not to work out their own grief experience through the child. It is damaging to try to make the child an emotional replacement for the deceased. Respect the child's own personality.

In the end, what you are will determine what you teach your children. You communicate your feelings, your faith and your own fears both consciously and unconsciously. The real challenge is not just how to explain death to children, but first to understand and accept it yourself.
